the poems from guantanamo are apparently most notable for their having been detained. detained, shackled, gagged, and tortured. poetry itself detained. as well as these men.

we are used to such things occuring in dictatorships and tyrannies. now in the usa.

chilling.

so this book should be taken very seriously. not simply concerning what is in it, but what isn't, and why it isn't there.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

512. Andrew Rippeon
Reminder: LA launch for P-Queue, vol. 4.
Wed 22 Aug 2007

Please join us at BetaLevel (www.betalevel.com) this Friday, to help celebrate the Los Angeles launch of P-Queue, vol. 4, and to see LA-area contributors read from work appearing in this volume. Readers will include:

Harold Abramowitz
Allison Carter
Susanne Hall
Mathew Timmons

P-Queue, vol. 4 features work by:

Harold Abramowitz â€¢ JosÃ© Alvergue â€¢ Meg Barboza â€¢ Ben Bedard â€¢ Allison Carter â€¢ Jon Cotner â€¢ Elizabeth Cross â€¢ David Driscoll â€¢ Andy Fitch â€¢ Susanne Hall â€¢ Anthony Hawley â€¢ Laura Jaramillo â€¢ Crane Giamo â€¢ Philip Metres â€¢ Michael Robbins â€¢ Siobhan Scarry â€¢ Jordan Stempleman â€¢ Michelle Taransky â€¢ Richard Taransky â€¢ Mathew Timmons

=====

P-Queue is a journal of poetry, poetics, and innovative prose, dedicated to investigations of hybridity and cross-genre work. Weâ€™re supported by the Poetics Program, the English Department, and various other sources in the Humanities at SUNY Buffalo. Weâ€™ve had a brief but exciting history of publishing innovative, unclassifiable works from a variety of authors both at Buffalo and across the nation. Volume 5, first in the second four-year series of

P-Queue, is scheduled to feature a number of collaborative works continuing the journalâ€™s investigations of genre and convention. We can be found on the web at www.pqueue.blogspot.com and through the EPC under â€œ@Buffaloâ€ at â€œCurrent Student Publications.â€

To order, visit our website or email: [redacted]

↑ Index

513. Joel Weishaus
Re: Poems from Guantánamo
Wed 22 Aug 2007

Mairead;

If you mean the arguments around the book should be taken seriously, I agree. If you mean the poetry should be taken seriously, I disagree. Firstly, most of these poems, as I understand the situation, were not written by poets. Thus, for a poet to take them seriously is like a cosmologist taking the Book of Genesis seriously. Further, even those that may have been written by persons of talent, they are not their poems, but fabrications made up by the military. The real poems and stories we will get someday when these people are free to write them and publish them without being censored by the very people who tortured them. You are right that it does raise interesting questions, but political ones, not poetic ones.

-Joel

---------- Forwarded message ----------
From: Mairead Byrne <[redacted]>
Date: Aug 22, 2007 9:49 PM
Subject: Re: Poems from Guantánamo
To: [redacted]

I find the claim that this book shouldn't be taken seriously, "certainly not by poets," to be extraordinary. The extent to which this book is embroiled in economic realities, both publishing and political, offers a very strong invitation to this poet, at least, to take it seriously. Joel, why do you say the book shouldn't be taken seriously, "certainly not by poets"? Its publication by the University of Iowa Press, in today's America, and the stated history of its publication path make it very interesting to think and talk about, in my view; as does the tension between the stated and very visible challenges to its meaning, and all the less visible and apprehensible challenges. It's like a cup which has lost every single drop of poetry, except one maybe -- or even just the smell of poetry in its pores. Or maybe it's just a cup which, because it has been used to carry poetry, someone is still willing to carry. There is meaning, maybe not centrally located. In the short essays, it's clear how compromised the book is, yet it speaks. Not fluently, but fluently. The dialogue between poetry and government in this book is a scrap of reality, a broken but not worthless thing. Why should the book not be taken seriously, "certainly not by poets"? It is a product of the economies we work in, and raises many useful questions about poetry for me, even at the level of nostalgia for a genre. I don't have the book in front of me as I write, but I've read it. I can return to the questions it raised for me later. Mairead

>>> [redacted] 08/22/07 12:51 PM >>>
David:

I don't find this review strange, but right to the point. You have to be living in an alternative universe to think that this book represents the real feelings of the prisoners. Not only was it censored, but the original language wasn't allowed to be published, on the pretense that it contains secret messages! What could the secret message possibly be from someone in prison for so many years? One wonders if this is paranoia, playacting, or just plain stupidity. In any case, I think the review is basically sound, and that this book should not be taken seriously, certainly not by poets! If I have any problems with the review, it's with the author's contention that a poem can't reveal the reality of one's life. I think the opposite is true, only not in the case of this book.

Best,
Joel Weishaus

Date: Tue, 21 Aug 2007 07:59:18 -0700
From: David Chirot <[redacted]>
Subject: Poems From Guant=?ISO-8859-1?Q?=E1namo:?= The Detainees S peak - Books - Review - New York Times

this is a rather strange review--

http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?_r=1&ref=books&oref=slogin ---

↑ Index

514. Andrea Rexilius
Parcel Chapbook: Nate Pritts
Wed 22 Aug 2007

New at PARCEL PRESS www.parceljournal.org

<http://www.parceljournal.org/>

(sonnets for the fall) by Nate Pritts

Nate Pritts is the author of SENSATIONAL SPECTACULAR (BlazeVOX) as well as several chapbooks. His poems have appeared widely in print & online journals such as Southern Review, Conduit, DIAGRAM, Forklift & Cimarron Review. His essays & reviews have appeared in New Writing (UK), Octopus, Midwest Quarterly & Rain Taxi. He is the editor of H_NGM_N, an online journal of poetry & poetics.

This limited edition chapbook is available for order at:

http://www.parceljournal.org/chapbooks/sonnets_for_the_fall.html

The cost is $3. Orders may be sent to Parcel Chapbooks / c/o Andrea Rexilius / 2174 S. Grant St. / Denver, Co 80210.

↑ Index

515. David Chirot

Israel Bans School Supplies to Gaza - Prensa Latina

Thu 23 Aug 2007

---

http://www.plenglish.com/article.asp?ID=%7bF62DC06C-C3CF-4B03-BF2F-04E63CC18361%7d)&language=EN ---

↑ Index

516. Jim Andrews

Re: Poems from Guantánamo

Thu 23 Aug 2007

> If you mean the arguments around the book should be taken seriously, I agree. If you mean the poetry should be taken seriously, I disagree. Firstly, most of these poems, as I understand the situation, were not written by poets. Thus, for a poet to take them seriously is like a cosmologist taking the Book of Genesis seriously. Further, even those that may have been written by persons of talent, they are not their poems, but fabrications made up by the military. The real poems and stories we will get someday when these people are free to write them and publish them without being censored by the very people who tortured them. You are right that it does raise interesting questions, but political ones, not poetic ones.
>
> -Joel

my intuition is that you're mistaken, joel.

what's interesting in contemporary poetry, to me, is not usually the well-crafted poem. though that can be interesting.

there are books being created now, such as ken goldsmith's work and, say, kervinen's "(no subject)" that are of real interest but are quite different from the well-crafted poem or novel or book.

just about everything is unsaid. i'm not sure what's really interesting about all poetry is what's said. instead, it can be the inroads it makes into the unsaid.

books are often famous not for what they say but as materializations of or testaments to a situation or time or to people or peoples etc. or as objects emblematic of a concept.

poets, when they are famous, are sometimes famous not so much for their poetry as their place in a network or a movement or a demographic or whatever.

part of what is significant in poetry is the nature of its intensities of language, its relations with language, the way that language and its contemporary states are drawn into the vortex of the poem or book or site or whatever the manifestation of the language/poetry is.

the poems from guantanamo--the poems themselves and also the whole frame, the whole situation--should be of deep concern, particularly in the usa. poetry detained. poetry is detained not only in the usa but in other western countries. not only poetry but art and thought. by the authorities? well usually we are our own authorities, aren't we.

you speak of "the real poems and stories" as opposed to the "fabrications made up by the military". it's of course true that the poems and stories in the book are tortured by the military.

but perhaps what is significant is not the authenticity of the poems but the nature of their inauthenticity. perhaps what is significant is not the poems themselves, authentic or inauthentic but the whole complex of the situation, situated as art. i know it is more of a sort of approach generally associated with visual art than literary art, but it has its usefulness. in this case, it allows us to see significance where a more traditional literary approach to the well-crafted poem leaves us in a situation where, as you say, we can only see the significance of the book in political terms, not in relation to art and language.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

517. J Crockett
listenlight new issue 11
Thu 23 Aug 2007

"Back to basics"

featuring works by ---

doctors, lawyers, and the hoi polloi

http://listenlight.net

↑ Index

518. Steensen,Sasha
New Bonfire chapbook by Catherine Wagner
Thu 23 Aug 2007

Bonfire press is pleased to announce the publication of

Everyone in the Room is a Representative of the World at Large a chapbook by Catherine Wagner

Catherine Wagner was born in Burma, of military parents, and grew up in Baltimore. She is the author of Miss America (Fence, 2001), Macular Hole (Fence, 2004), and numerous chapbooks, and recently edited, with Rebecca Wolff, Not for Mothers Only: Contemporary Poems on Child-Bearing and Child-Rearing (Fence, 2007). She currently teaches at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio.

There are 75 copies of this chapbook. Each cover was printed on a Vandercook letterpress using a photopolymer plate; the binding is sewn by hand. To order, visit our website at http://coloradoreview.colostate.edu/bonfire/bonfire.html

or send a check for $10 to

Bonfire Press
C/O Center for Literary Publishing
Department of English
Colorado State University
Fort Collins, CO 80523

We also still have a few copies of Graham Foust's chapbook Some Kinds of Poems and broadsides by Claudia Keelan and William Tremblay.

Bonfire press is a small press located within the Center for Literary Publishing at Colorado State University. We publish poetry chapbooks and broadsides using a Vandercook SP15 letterpress, type, and photopolymer plates. For more information contact Sasha Steensen at [redacted]

On 8/22/07 10:06 PM, "POETICS automatic digest system" <[redacted]> wrote:

There are 18 messages totalling 1164 lines in this issue.

Topics of the day:

1. future of the symbol war
2. Poems From Guantánamo/RIP Sa cco & Vanzetti 22 August 1927
3. Poems From Guantánamo: The Detainees S peak - Bo oks - Review - New York
   T imes
4. Poems From Guantánamo: The Detainees S peak - Books - Review - New York
   Time s
5. Sentence 5 Now Available
6. JOB: University of Michigan, Ann Arbor
7. reading 8-24 at 7 , bowery poetry club
8. Poems from Guantánamo (4)
9. Poems From Guantánamo: /Lange' s Impounded Photos/Warrior Artists
10. Poems From Guantánamo: The Detainees S peak - Books - Review - New York
    Time s
11. Poems from GuantÃ¡namo
12. THIS TEXT WARNS YOU NOT TO READ BEYOND THIS WARNING
13. Poems from Guantanamo
14. Reminder: LA launch for P-Queue, vol. 4.
15. Parcel Chapbook: Nate Pritts

Date: Wed, 22 Aug 2007 02:00:13 -0400
From: Alan Sondheim <[redacted]>
Subject: future of the symbol war future of the symbol solar { denotation }

http://www.asondheim.org/yesyes.mp4

satellite { connotation }

http://www.asondheim.org/bloodchora1.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/bloodchora2.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/bloodchora3.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/bloodchora4.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/bloodchora5.jpg

re/produced in 2nd life.yesyes with sandy baldwin.

Date: Wed, 22 Aug 2007 06:56:54 -0700
From: David Chirot <[redacted]>
Subject: Poems From Guant=?ISO-8859-1?Q?=E1namo/RIP?= Sa cco & Vanzetti 22 August 1927

On the 80th anniversary of the deaths of two American political prisoners, Sacco and Vanzetti-

Highly recommend the book by Bruce Watson just out: Sacco and Vanzetti The Men, the Murders and the Judgement of the World

Ryan and Tom:

Don't you both think that what you are thinking and saying here is exactly what you are SUPPOSED to be thinking and saying?

"Chiasson's 'Forget Guantanamo Poetry' review"
(Ryan)

"I'm certainly not going to pay for it"

"And of course, it is suspect"
(Thomas Savage)

The Military and the Poetics Powers will both be proud of you!!

A "bad poetry" book by "bad" people held as "suspects" in the "bad" prison and given a "bad" translation , a product of both the "bad" Pentagon and "bad" poets/suspects and "bad" "exploiting" of the situation.

A great victory for the safety and security of the American way, in truth, justice and poetry! No "terrorist" will be allowed to challenge the hegemony of American poetics on our own shores!

> Date: Tue, 21 Aug 2007 15:00:29 -0400
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: Poems From Guant=E1namo: The Detainees S peak - Books - Revi= ew - New York Times
> To: [redacted]
>
> I think it's great that the review mentions this. Chiasson's "Forget > Guantanamo Poetry" review.
>
> Ryan
>

> On 8/21/07, Thomas savage <[redacted]> wrote:
> >
> > I'd rather read the poems than the review. But since this book(?) is a > > government production, I'm certainly not going to pay for it. And, of > > course, it is suspect.
> >
> > David Chirot <[redacted]> wrote: this is a rather strange > > review--
> >
> >
> > http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?
_r=3D1= <http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?
_r=3D1&r=><http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-
t.html?_r=3D1&r=> ef=3Dbooks&oref=3Dslogin
> > ---
> >
> >
> >
> > ----------
> > Need a vacation? Get great deals to amazing places on Yahoo! Travel.
> >

_____
Get news, entertainment and everything you care about at Live.com. Check it= out!

Date: Wed, 22 Aug 2007 08:57:01 -0500
From: Maria Damon <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Poems From Guant=?ISO-8859-1?Q?=E1namo:?= The Detainees S
peak - Bo oks - Review - New York T imes

you know, i really don't think this a US govt enterprise. that the pentagon cleared a few poems doesn't make it a govt-sponsored or govt-produced event. i was skeptical too until i got the book. dan chiasson was just sounding off and trying to find a way to not respond from the heart.

Tom W. Lewis wrote:
> when I first heard of this book back in June, I wrote up my initial thoughts on its publication and what that means --
>
> http://minnesotan-ice.blogspot.com/2007/06/expectations-from-art-what-is-art-for.html#links

>
> I still don't know what it means, other than the detained in Guantánamo shouldn't be there, and capitalizing on "their" words doesn't seem right. allowing a voice for the voiceless? that sounds like ad copy more than a call for justice.
>
> tl
>
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Thomas savage > Sent: Tuesday, August 21, 2007 13:30
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: Poems From Guantánamo: The Detainees S peak - Books - Review - New York Times
>
> I'd rather read the poems than the review. But since this book(?) is a government production, I'm certainly not going to pay for it. And, of course, it is suspect.
>
> David Chirot <[redacted]> wrote: this is a rather strange review--
>
> http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?_r=1=books=slogin <http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?_r=1&ref=books&oref=slogin><http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?_r=1&ref=books&oref=slogin>
> ---
>
>
>
> ---
> Need a vacation? Get great deals to amazing places on Yahoo! Travel.
>

Date: Wed, 22 Aug 2007 04:17:46 -0700
From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Poems From Guant=?iso-8859-1?Q?=E1namo:?= The Detainees S peak - Books - Review - New York Time s

The review of Poems from Guantanamo leaves me with the impression that what is not in the book and why it is not in the book are at least as germane as what is.

It's chilling, isn't it, when even poetry is shackled, gagged, and tortured.

That sort of repression is mainly associated with totalitarian regimes.

The silence is deafening.

ja
http://vispo.com

Date: Wed, 22 Aug 2007 10:58:13 -0400
From: Brian Clements <[redacted]>
Subject: Sentence 5 Now Available

Sentence 5 is now available, including:

Feature section on The Prose Poem in East-Asia, edited by Steve Bradbury=20 with co-editors and translators Don Mee Choi, Jeffrey Angles, Andrea=20 Lingenfelter, Sawako Nakayasu, and Hiroaki Sato; translations of Lu Xun,=20 Shang Qin, Liu Kexiang, Hsia Yu, Xi Chuan, Jiao Tong, Hung Hung, Ye Mimi,=20 He Chuanfu, Ch?oe Sung-ja, Yi Yon-ju, Kim Hyesoon, Kasuya Eiichi,=20 Takahashi Mutsuo, Suzuki Shiroyasu, Ito Hiromi, Hirata Toshiko, Yuko=20 Minamikawa Adams, Abe Hinako, and Tatehata Akira.

Prose poems by Joe Ahearn, Kazim Ali, Erica Anzalone, Sally Ashton, Edward =

Bart=F3k-Baratta, Bill Berkson, Raymond L. Bianchi, Daniel Borzutzky, Geoff= =20
Bouvier, Jenny Browne, Christopher Buckley, Kevin Cantwell, Peter Conners, =

Mark Cunningham, Chloe Daimyo, Jon Davis, Neil de la Flor, Carrie Etter,=20 Kass Fleisher, Charles Fort, Angela Jane Fountas, James Fowler, Alex=20 Galper (translated by Mike Magazinnik and Igor Satanovsky), Christine=20 Gelineau, Daniel Grandbois, James Grinwis, Kelle Groom, Maurice Kilwein=20 Guevara, Richard Gwyn, Tanesia Hale-Jones, Kalev Hantsoo, Kevin Haworth,=20 Karen Holman, Brooke Horvath, Ann Howells, David James, Brian Johnson,=20 George Kalamaras, Luke Kennard, Jill Khoury, Rauan Klassnik, Michael=20 Koshkin, Richard Kostelanetz, David Lazar, Robert Hill Long, Sandy=20 McIntosh, Michael Meyerhofer, Steve Myers, Andrew Neuendorf, Ed Orr,=20 Virgilio Pinera (translated by Alexander Cuadros), Emma Ramey, Jessy=20 Randall, Kristin Ryling, Catherine Sasanov, Liana Scalettar, Siobhan=20 Scarry, Jim Scrimgeour, Ravi Shankar, Jay Snodgrass, D. E. Steward, Julia=20 Story, Robert Strong, Wayne Sullins, Eileen Tabios, Steve

Timm, Nick=20 Twemlow, Alexandra van de Kamp, Monique van den Berg, and Mark Yakich

Joe Ahearn reviews Daniel Rzicznek, Sally Ashton reviews Noah Eli Gordon,=20 Brian Brennan reviews Gloria Frym, Thomas Fink reviews Sheila E. Murphy,=20 Brooke Horvath reviews Etal Adnan and Sherwood Anderson, Matthew W.=20 Schmeer reviews Skip Fox, Ellen McGrath Smith reviews Elizabeth Willis,=20 Rebecca Spears reviews John Olson, Jerry McGuire reviews Peter Johnson,=20 Chris Murray reviews PP/FF: An Anthology; and an essay by Brian Johnson.=20

Due to increased postal and shipping rates, Sentence must increase=20 subscription rates. New rates are $15/$28/$36 for 1/2/3 issues. Send check =

made to Firewheel Editions to Box 7, Western Connecticut State University, =

181 White St., Danbury, CT 06810 or subscribe using PayPal at the website: =

http://firewheel-editions.org. Customers from outside North America and=20 the Carribean must include an extra $6 per copy for delivery. Sentence is=20 also available from EBSCO and Amazon.com.

Forthcoming features: The Prose Poem in Italy (#6) edited by Luigi=20 Ballerini and Gian Lombardo, Native American Prose Poems (#7) edited by=20 Dean Rader

---

Date: Wed, 22 Aug 2007 08:35:22 -0700
From: Jennifer Karmin <[redacted]>
Subject: JOB: University of Michigan, Ann Arbor

The Department of English invites applications for a poet to join the MFA faculty at the level of Assistant Professor, advanced Assistant, or new Associate.

We are looking for a colleague of distinction, although not necessarily seniority. Candidates should have a strong record of publication (a minimum of one book published or in press, two books preferred) & a history of excellence in teaching. As a member of our department, the candidate will teach graduate & & undergraduate poetry workshops & other courses reflecting his/her interests & departmental needs.

Members of the MFA Program share administrative duties on a rotational basis, so evidence of administrative talent & experience & willingness to serve will augment an otherwise strong application.

Send letter of application, c.v., writing sample (no more than 15 pages; published material only), & evidence of teaching excellence to:
Professor Sidonie Smith, Chair
Dept of English Language & Literature University of Michigan
3187 Angell Hall
Ann Arbor, MI 48109-1003
Attention: Recruitment Coordinator

Review of applications will begin September 30 & continue until the position is filled.

Women & minorities are encouraged to apply.

___
Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search
that gives answers, not web links.
http://mobile.yahoo.com/mobileweb/onesearch?refer=1ONXIC

Date: Wed, 22 Aug 2007 11:41:11 -0400
From: susan maurer <[redacted]> Subject: reading 8-24 at 7 , bowery poetry club

anna siano's photgraphs of the people who will be reading and a great group= reading and perty will be happening this friday. come say hello. susan mau= rer _____ See what you=92re getting into=85before you go there http://newlivehotmail.com/?
ocid=3DTXT_TAGHM_migration_HM_viral_preview_0507=

Date: Wed, 22 Aug 2007 08:51:37 -0800
From: Joel Weishaus <[redacted]>
Subject: Poems from Guant=?Windows-1252?Q?=E1namo?=

David:

I don't find this review strange, but right to the point. You have to be = living in an alternative universe to think that this book represents the = real feelings of the prisoners. Not only was it censored, but the = original language wasn't allowed to be published, on the pretense that = it contains secret messages!
What could the secret message possibly be = from someone in prison for so many years? One wonders if this is = paranoia, playacting, or just plain stupidity.=20 In any case, I think the review is basically sound, and that this book = should not be taken seriously, certainly not by poets! If I have any = problems with the review, it's with the author's contention that a poem = can't reveal the reality of one's life. I think the opposite is true, = only not in the case of this book.

Best,
Joel Weishaus

Date: Tue, 21 Aug 2007 07:59:18 -0700
From: David Chirot <[redacted]>
Subject: Poems From Guant=3D?ISO-8859-1?Q?=3DE1namo:?=3D The Detainees S =
peak - Books - Review - New York Times

this is a rather strange review--

http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?_r=3D1=
<http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?_r=3D1&ref=><http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?_r=3D1&ref=>
=3Dbooks&oref=3Dslogin

Date: Wed, 22 Aug 2007 09:03:23 -0700
From: David Chirot <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Poems From Guant=?ISO-8859-1?Q?=E1namo:?= /Lange' s Impounded Photos/Warrior Artists

It's been over a year now that the story as well as some of the poems of this book have been making the news, and now come the reviews, and even the posts here noting that the book is "suspect". (After all, it IS written by "suspects"--!)" A book produced by the Pentagon, or a book of bad poetry by bad people----already the poems are being put into their own form of Guantanamo--the military-controlled translations, the use of the word "suspect" with regards to a book of poetry by "suspects", the immediate response that the poems are bad, and their only reason to be read at all is that they issued from Guantanamo, a sort of curiosity that in time--and the quicker the better!-- will be forgotten. The responses to the book only reinforce the military's judgement--the work is "suspect" (may contain hidden messages/contains no message and/or formal qualities worthy of attention)--it is "bad"--(written by a bunch of very bad guys/by a bunch of bad poets) and, as the reviewer perhaps subtly implies, written by persons from cultures inferior to those of the Russian

Mandelstam or the Japanese interned by the Americans. After all, Russian and Japanese poetry is far better known to/by the American reader than that of the languages and cultures of the prisoners. When Foucault wrote that the "author" is a product, a nexus, of the discourses of her times, he could as well have included the reader. "Who reads?" It's easy enough to figure out "who is reading" in most cases, by the readers' responses. It becomes more difficult to tell "who" is reading when the interrogation light is turned on oneself. What a bunch of cobbled together nonsense, knee jerk reactions, leanings on the authority of someone's theory or "Word", adherences to an ideology, a prejudice--spews forth like a burst sewer main! "Hard headed realists' clarities", "brutal analyses", "convincing critiques", "radical readings"--how much of it is not just regurgitated internalization of the discourses of one's personal preference? And how much of it is not based on a "willing suspension of disbelief"--in other words, a belief in fictions which one takes as facts, "truths", as "self-evident"? Hasn't this book been placed already in the position of being "set up" to "fail"--in terms of "quality" and "quantity" also if people know what's "good for them"? One can pretty much imagine what many a blog and web site, pundit and poet, will have to say ahead of time about the weaknesses and failures of the book. And its "triumphs" it will immediately be pointed out, are all of them very much "suspect". Who wins? The "American discourse" so to speak, employed with equal disdain by the military and the poetry community, as well as a lot of people who won't want to read/see/hear the words of "terrorists" or "Islamo-Fascists" or simply "Moslems" to begin with. Once again "America" has triumphed!! Even over a "triumph of the human spirit"--something we know cannot belong--or be allowed to belong--to suspected terrorists, Moslems, or Third World persons all supposedly violently opposed to OUR definitions of "democracy", "freedom", "post-avant poetry" "borders" and the like. The more one thinks about it, the more this book makes America look Great, doesn't it? Whichever way you look at it, "we" come out looking even better than ever than "them". I mean isn't it satisfying and somehow very myself-as-an-American confirming to find out these bad guys are also bad poets? And doesn't that put in their place a bit all those "bleeding heart" types who will fall for any kind of poetry providing it is written by the the "right kinds" of subject positions? Look how free "we" are--reading only the "right kind" (the ood") poetry regardless of ideology, subject position and so forth! You see, the more the poets of Guantanamo "lose'"-the more "we" all regardless of (which American) point of view stand to gain! The Guantanamo book does however raise very interesting questions regarding translation in times of War, and especially in the loudly and long declared Wars Without End--the War on Poverty, War on Drugs, War on Terrorism, a Trinity each of which effects greatly the other. The Imperialist American agenda abroad is just as much a War at home, on those of the American people "not worth saving". The "Health Care" system in this regard is really a program of eugenics, working in tandem with the other methods of limiting the elite and powerful of the society to the right few and their various sycophants, assistants, collaborators, undertakers, prison wardens, media and institutions.

In light of these Wars, i thought the review interesting as in itself it creates its own possible "after" review or meta-review, in many strange ways, among them the little discourse on translation. I recall reading in an article from last summer in it may have been the Guardian----a little bit about one of the poets mentioned, the first one of whom there was an account of having written his poetry incised in styrofoam cups. (A very interesting way to write in that one may read it with the touch rather than the eyes alone; a haptic poetry, literally--). This particular poet was Pashtun, and what to the reviewer may seem hackneyed or trite phrases, in Pashtun and in the other poetry traditions within which the prisoners write, these lines are filled with centuries of echoes, allusions, references to sites/sights/cites which are profoundly evocative of one's homeland and personal home. Even through the non-literary translations done by military approved translators, there is always going to be a certain amount of the poetry which slips through the bars, in between the lines, as well as in the themselves. Some of it may be recognized by an attentive reader, and/or many other aspects be present even in a poor translation, yet unrecognized due to a non-recognition of the writer's culture. In other words, the poetry may be there, for all the dis-translation and dissing, yet, just as the military feared, it is camouflaged, hiding in plain sight, or long ago departed for parts unknown, seen as clouds floating over a distant land by someone who will recognize the poem from their friend, relative, fellow country person.

Artaud, in the Preface to The Theater and its Double:

Furthermore, when we speak the word "life," it must be understood we are not referring to life as we know it from its surface of fact, but to that fragile, fluctuating center which forms never reach. And if there is still one hellish, truly accursed thing in our time, it is our artistic dallying with forms, instead of being like victims burnt at the stake, signaling through the flames.

Isn't this exactly what the criticisms of the book are all about? That is doesn't measure up in regards to the "artistic dallying with forms" while all the while the visible/visible hooded person's signals vanish behind the asphyxiating smokescreens which have been deliberately cranked full mass and volume to hide them? Isn't the discourse about the "bad" poetry and Pentagon interference all a way to ignore that somewhere inside all the smokescreens there is indeed someone burning at the stake?

Obviously, someone must have seen Artaud in Dreyer's film La Passion de Jeanne d'Arc--and doesn't want any poet in "our custody" to die a martyr, "signaling through the flames"!

God forbid there be any interruption in "our" "artistic dallying with forms"!

An aspect of this that is quite striking is to find how dangerous poetry can be not only to the military, who rightly know that poetry can conceal messages they would rather not allow to get out, but that this paranoia carries over to the reviewer also. The reviewer essays to restrict the poems within the limits of being witness-only poetry--and not even very good witness poetry at that. It's as though there is a fear that some form of otherness, if unbounded from the restraints of a narrowly confined genre, might indeed be producing a poetry which he won't be able to hear, understand, grasp--the same fear the military has. Maybe these poets in spite of everything just may be sending messages out there to someone somewhere! I.E someone reading them as poetry (in a tradition, in a language) with far more depth than the reviewer will allow them to have. The War on Terror, of which the Guantanamo prisoner poets are such a powerful, hooded, simultaneously visible/invisible example, opens also the the mine fields of translation in relation to "intelligence" and "news" as well as (and AS) propaganda. The War on Terror, which would seem to require the most exacting forms of intelligence and translation, instead seems to have taken an alternate route--into the realms of controlled translations, deliberate dis-translations, the removal of feared words and their replacement with words giving a happier picture of things, or a more frightening, as the occaision demands. Translation--which, in the case of a great many ancient and modern classics is always being done over and over again--is always trying to keep pace with "today's new, modern usage" and "latest researches and forms". The same demands are put on translations of intelligence and the news, and when one essays filtering poetry through this, it begins to create a small to very huge disturbance of the methods of deceit that are employed against its supposed and feared methods of deceit. The language of poetry, already super charged, creates a difficult problem for military translators used to identifying "hidden messages" in a way oddly analogous to literary critics approaching a text which they have a pre-formed intention towards--whether it be an animus or a friendly welcome. "Objectivity", which one would think would be a goal of intelligence, starts to corrode, and in the presence of poetry i think the corrosive effects are acting in ways that the translators feel is getting a bit out of hand, though not being able to identify quite where or in what way. In order to try to maintain control, the spin doctors go to work, and the poetry is reconfigured, reworded, until it conforms as closely as possible to the desired template. Even then, something in its very awkwardness and "bad poetry-ness"

seems to indicate that it is still "suspect", that something is still "troubling". This same anxiety seems to be haunting the reviewer. If the texts can be kept confined to being witness poetry only, then he can make a very easy judgement. If they start to corrode the walls of this further confinement, then he doesn't know what to do with them. One gets a feeling that he would much rather keep things confined and in that manner be done with the issue. After all, the prisoners it is implied are not Mandelstam, and not Japanese interned in America--people who it seems to be implied are of a higher poetical character than the prisoners of Gitmo. The bios of these men seem reassuringly simple to comprehend, while their poems do not. (Even if they are "bad" poems--they keep inducing an anxiety, as though being more "complex, ambiguous" than they seem so obviously NOT to be.) Again, there is the feeling, as with the military, that somehow, something is slipping through the critic's grasp and making its way into the world where someone somewhere at sometime will indeed recognize it in some way. Translation itself with the War on Terror has become a further field of manipulated and controlled propaganda--with independent organizations attempting to get out alternate versions of translations than does MEMRI, the mega mouthpiece for a good part of the world's versions of texts from the Middle East that are used in newspapers, radio, tv around the world. MEMRI is known for subtly to greatly altering articles to fit their agendas, as well as planting stories in various Arabic and Farsi language newspapers and then providing the "translations" (i.e. the "originals") of these very stories to the world at large--again all done with an eye to the agenda. News becomes propaganda via dis/translation and the translations/pre-writings of "real" fake stories planted in real newspapers which are "found" and then "translated" into the readymade original language as well as into others and then distributed throughout the world as "real" news found in a real journal/online site. The reader/listener/watcher of all this propaganda requires, like the fiction reader, a "willing suspension of disbelief." History has proven over and over again that in times of fear, of concern for Security of the Homeland, the willing suspension of disbelief is one of the first modes of response chosen by the majority of people. Complete fictions trigger wars, hatreds, massive arms races, enormous security and cleanup contracts, the building of corporate mercenary forces above any law, national or international, the construction of ever bigger and more lethal Walls. No one running for office or in office wants to look anything but tough on Crime, Dope, Terrorism, Immigrants, the Poor, the Sick, all of them pitched into the same roiling pot of gumbo. The "news" becomes a vast spectacle of partial facts, a few "safe" facts, fictions, lies, distortions, all guaranteed to make one feel "up to date" in the "most modern efficient way". The tricks of the intelligence community get fed back outwards into the news, to effect events and opinions, ideas, which in turn effect actual events, creating further distorted and falsified

"translated" versions of these. To attempt to control and spin these continuous streams of information, disinformation, dis-translation and out right fictions, news organizations become ever more dependent on "government sources", "intelligence briefings" which in turn feed them their own mixtures of facts, fictions, disinformations. The resultant texts are either taken seriously or provide fresh fodder for comedy shows. Either way, the status quo is maintained. The continual fear is that for all the elaborate constructions of fictional "intelligence" and "news" there will always be something that gets through unnoticed, igniting questions which need to be muzzled, controlled, censored.

Oddly, since the "free press"'s cited (real or fake--) source is claimed to be the enemy's newspaper/tv/radio/blog/web site in order to give it "authenticity", it is considered on the one hand "false", "suspect" and on the other "real", the "real voice of the Arab world/street. These constructedly fictional or severely dis-translated as possible bits of "intelligence," these supposedly hardened, "irrefutable" "facts" have the very instability they were meant to replace and suppress. The constant fear that something will "leak out" or "leak through" requires ever more vigilance, surveillance, and ever more censorship. Attacks need to be launched on various individuals, presses, books, speakers, to discredit them and silence their criticisms. Mass responses to such outbreaks of criticism have to be contained by a deluge of media "reporting" and "discussion" whose intent is to annihilate the person/publication/professor/poet in question. The fewer critics of the fiction there are, the more the fiction can triumph. The more emphatically and forcefully critics are made to disappear, the less likely new ones are going to come forward and take a similar risk.
In this way, the reader/writer may disagree in general but not in the particulars with the viewpoints presented by the controlling powers. The responses of poets to the Guantanamo poems may not be all that far at all from being nearly the same as the military's. "The poems are suspect". "The poems are bad." "I won't buy the book." "I won't read the book." "I'll satirize the book."
With the Guantanamo poets, the reviewer seems to have a fear that poetry somehow has made it through every effort, including his own, to muzzle it. For, after all, a great many poetries that have endured through time and space have done just that. Don Quixote began his chase after the "impossible dream" in a prison, and to quite some astonishment found himself conquering the El Dorados of Broadway. At various times, any writer worth their salt was expected to have done a good turn or two in prison! Johnny Cash and Thoreau only needed one night there to profoundly move millions with their jail inspired work. The list of prison writings that are both powerful bearers of witness and very good pieces of writing is very very large indeed. Perhaps, just as the military --and the reviewer--and readers--feared, their is something there in the poems, which has yet to be found--and yet that remains very much a question of who controls the dis-translations and who --as a native speaker--will be able to read through the English into the heart of the original languages of composition, inside the manacles and under the hoods. One can always also "suspect" that concealed somewhere in the layerings of fictions, constructions, censorings, dis-translations, there are still traces of lines of poetry which have issued from the anarkeyological strati of a "mother Earth" "mother tongue" and poetic tradition. Until one knows much more what the poems are, passing a swift judgement on them seems to be to participate in the discourses of power which Foucault thought of in "Who is an author?" Because Who IS the Author here--the poet, the military, the translator, the press, the publicity, the opinions of poets found here, the reviewer, myself? Because of the muzzling and censoring and dis-translating of the poems, ironically the reader becomes very much what a lot of theoretical-critical positions advocate--a co-producer if not more of the (nearly absent, hooded, manacled) poem's "meaning," "quality," and "direction," "category," "value," "cliches," "witnessing." The reader becomes complicit in the creating of the poem as "bad," "suspect" in a way not too far removed from that of the military. The effort on both parts is to be able to render the poetry as absolutely ineffectual as possible. The worse, the weaker, the more pathetic the poems can be made to be read and received, the better and safer and more secure the good American reader/military can feel. All is truly for the best in this best of all possible worlds! And American poetry is safe and "free" from the "threat" of there being any "good" Guantanamo poetry, composed on what after all are "our shores".

If one finds "suspect" the Guantanamo poetry, why not subject to an equally "suspect" level of investigatory consideration o the news, the poetics, the words of the "great leaders" in all walks of American society and the arts that everyday participate in the construction of various levels of fictions one is supposed to "willingly suspend one's disbelief" for?

Earlier this year was the appearance of IMPOUNDED Dorothea Lange's Censored Photographs of Japanese American Internment Camps with texts by Linda Gordon and Gary Y. Okihiro . 97% of the books images have never before been published. The photos, shot primarily in 1942, were never shown but for a very few, as Lange, despite following the contrainsts placed on her choices of things to photograph, still conveyed far too much of the reality of the camps. Or--allowed the realities and people to express themselves too cleary through her being open to what was being said. What makes the book even more haunting is the inclusion of the original titlings for each photo, which give a "positive" light to the most grim, stark image. The juxtapostion of image and official caption can be extremely disturbing in a way no detourned caption could ever be. Again, there is the issue of translation--the photographic translation as it were, then the military approved captions, then the present day texts. There is also the fascinating ways in which these photos are finding their way in a development of the methods and "look" of Lange's famous Depression Era photos. Since the book gives one both the censored images and the original military dis-translation captions, as well as the contemporary commentary to put things in historical perspective, it is perhaps prototype of what may or not become someday of the Guantanamo poetry and the history of its censorings and final release of the original poems, not just by the poets included in this book, but all the poems by all the poets. It took over sixty years for Lange's work to reach the American public--who knows when if ever the same may be possible for the poetry? Another very interesting book of an American incarceration and its expression in art that has many eerie foreshadowings of Guantanamo is: Warrior Artists Historic Cheyenne and Kiowa Indian Ledger Art Drawn by Making Medicine and Zotom by Herman J. Viola with Commentary by Joesph D. and George P. Horse Capture. This is the story of the capture, and thousand mile train and forced march journey of the warriors and chiefs of four tribes to the 17th Century Spanish-built Fort Marion Prison in St. Augustine, Florida. There the Indians were taught to read and write and speak some English, sing Christian hymns and say the Lord's prayer, listen to sermons and be trained in the discipline of the American army. They were also given pencil and paper and the result was a flood of "ledger" books in which the lives of the imprisoned "terrorists" are recorded. (Some of the prisoners had killed men, women and children settlers in an effort to stem the tide of settlements and the attendant killing off of the buffalo and Indians both. Others were teenagers who hadn't done a thing. The choosing of prisoners was done in a completely arbitrary way.) Translation with regards to the Indians involved translating them into White terms, behaviours, handicrafts, disciplines, religion and language. If the former "savage" could be rewritten into an acceptable, well behaved, simulation of a White--why he or she could go free--i.e. be allowed to leave the prisons and go live on the reservations where their families had already been shipped off to. There, they were supposed to teach the ways of the Whites and maintain discipline and order. This was hoped to be a "kinder, gentler" way of vanishing the Indian than simply to continue killing every last one of them. Better a poor imitation, a bad translation, of a White version of being, safely confined on reservations, dependent on the Bureau of Indian Affairs for food and aid, than a terrifying, "terrorist" savage! So isn't it much better to have "bad" poetry from "bad" people safely confined in Guantanamo, safely dis-translated, safely dismissed, than to have to read the terrifying, "terrorist," "savage" alternative? Isn't it much better to "know" "our" poetry and ways will always be better than "theirs"? After all, what could be more frightening than if the best poet on American soil turned out to be an imprisoned "terrorist" "suspect" or a reservation Indian? What might happen to the "willing suspension of disbelief" continually required to keep on believing in the Empire's New Clothes, New Writing, New Threats, New Bread and Circuses? What if after all one was confronted with signalings through the flames, rather than smokescreens, Walls, border security fences, prisons, distranslations, fictions, lies? Would the flames and signalings reveal too much of the "still one hellish, truly ccursed thing, . . our artistic dallying after forms"?

On 8/21/07, Maria Damon <[redacted]> wrote:
> yes, a little too politically correct for its own good.
>
> David Chirot wrote:
> > this is a rather strange review--
> >
> > http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?
_r=1=books=slogin
<http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?
_r=1&ref=books&oref=slogin><http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?_r=1&ref=books&oref=slogin>
> > ---
> >
>

Date: Wed, 22 Aug 2007 12:08:29 -0400
From: Gerald Schwartz <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Poems From Guant=?iso-8859-1?Q?=E1namo:?= The Detainees S
peak - Books - Review - New York Time s

And with the roll-out of data-mining techniques we're seeing (in Germany, China, here) an escalation in ways to shackle, gag, and...

GS

> The review of Poems from Guantanamo leaves me with the impression that what > is not in the book and why it is not in the book are at least as germane as > what is.
>
> It's chilling, isn't it, when even poetry is shackled, gagged, and > tortured.
>
> That sort of repression is mainly associated with totalitarian regimes.

> The silence is deafening.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com

Date: Wed, 22 Aug 2007 15:49:19 -0400
From: Mairead Byrne <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Poems from Guant=?UTF-8?Q?=C3=A1namo?=

I find the claim that this book shouldn't be taken seriously, "certainly = not by poets," to be extraordinary. The extent to which this book is = embroiled in economic realities, both publishing and political, offers a = very strong invitation to this poet, at least, to take it seriously. = Joel, why do you say the book shouldn't be taken seriously, "certainly not = by poets"? Its publication by the University of Iowa Press, in today's = America, and the stated history of its publication path make it very = interesting to think and talk about, in my view; as does the tension = between the stated and very visible challenges to its meaning, and all the = less visible and apprehensible challenges. It's like a cup which has lost = every single drop of poetry, except one maybe -- or even just the smell of = poetry in its pores. Or maybe it's just a cup which, because it has been = used to carry poetry, someone is still willing to carry. There is = meaning, maybe not centrally located. In the short essays, it's clear = how compromised the book is, yet it speaks. Not fluently, but fluently. = The dialogue between poetry and government in this book is a scrap of = reality, a broken but not worthless thing. Why should the book not be = taken seriously, "certainly not by poets"? It is a product of the = economies we work in, and raises many useful questions about poetry for = me, even at the level of nostalgia for a genre. I don't have the book in = front of me as I write, but I've read it. I can return to the questions = it raised for me later. Mairead

>>> [redacted] 08/22/07 12:51 PM >>>
David:

I don't find this review strange, but right to the point. You have to be = living in an alternative universe to think that this book represents the = real feelings of the prisoners. Not only was it censored, but the original = language wasn't allowed to be published, on the pretense that it contains = secret messages! What could the secret message possibly be from someone in = prison for so many years? One wonders if this is paranoia, playacting, or = just plain stupidity.=20 In any case, I think the review is basically sound, and that this book = should not be taken seriously, certainly not by poets! If I have any = problems with the review, it's with the author's contention that a poem = can't reveal the reality of one's life. I think the opposite is true, only = not in the case of this book.

Best,
Joel Weishaus

Date: Tue, 21 Aug 2007 07:59:18 -0700
From: David Chirot <[redacted]>
Subject: Poems From Guant=3D?ISO-8859-1?Q?=3DE1namo:?=3D The Detainees S =
peak - Books - Review - New York Times

this is a rather strange review--

http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?_r=3D1=
<http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?_r=3D1&ref=><http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?_r=3D1&ref=>
=3Dbooks&oref=3Dslogin

Date: Wed, 22 Aug 2007 16:09:32 -0400
From: Alan Sondheim <[redacted]>
Subject: THIS TEXT WARNS YOU NOT TO READ BEYOND THIS WARNING

THIS TEXT WARNS YOU NOT TO READ BEYOND THIS WARNING

keeping-secret-highest-secret-tantra KNOWLEDGE IS DANGEROUS
therapeutic knowledge: an adept NEEDS TIME KNOWLEDGE MUST BE SWALLOWED THEN IT IS NOT KNOWLEDGE

i will teach you my secrets
I WILL TEACH YOU MY SECRETS

"I know nothing of the gamblings of the Bourse; I only speculate in the rise of the national honour!"

'To those who cried: Adjourn! Adjourn! -- "You naturally wish adjourn- ments, and not truths. The truths swamp you!"'

I COULD NOT SLEEP TWO NIGHTS AGO. MY HEAD WAS MEAT ON A STICK

MY HEAD WAS ON A STICK

"I DESIRE THAT MAY ASHES REPOSE ON THE BANKS OF THE SEINE, IN THE MIDST OF THAT PEOPLE WHOM I HAVE SO MUCH LOVED."

inform the people at most TEN SUMMERS REMAIN

you will find me DEAD with the slightest, smallest, email, almost a note in passing, because i will search for the light there will be no light because this is all there is i will not, can one ever, read the slightest, smallest email announcing one's own death

if of course that announcement is true and verifiable if in fact the soul has already left the building if there is in fact an empty building

"Come, come then! Up, gentlemen, up!"

Date: Wed, 22 Aug 2007 15:01:15 -0500
From: "Tom W. Lewis" <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Poems from Guant=?iso-8859-1?Q?=E1namo?=

Mairead Byrne wrote:
>Why should the book not be taken seriously, "certainly not by poets"?

my question is not "should this book be taken seriously" (it should), = but "how should it be taken at all?" how is this book different from all = other books of poetry? is that obtuse?

I love the expression: "Not fluently, but fluently."=20

Date: Wed, 22 Aug 2007 15:34:32 -0500
From: Maria Damon <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Poems from Guant=?ISO-8859-1?Q?=E1namo?=

i agree with mairead. the book is compromised, of course, but to invoke = that as a reason to not listen to suffering for which we are in part=20 responsible (if only to the degree that we "enjoy" the benefits of life=20 in the US and/or as US citizens) seems convolutedly irresponsible. this = is a fascinating discussion, in any event.

Mairead Byrne wrote:
> I find the claim that this book shouldn't be taken seriously, "certainl= y not by poets," to be extraordinary. The extent to which this book is e= mbroiled in economic realities, both publishing and political, offers a v= ery strong invitation to this poet, at least, to take it seriously. Joel=
, why do you say the book shouldn't be taken seriously, "certainly not by= poets"? Its publication by the University of Iowa Press, in today's Ame= rica, and the stated history of its publication path make it very interes= ting to think and talk about, in my view; as does the tension between the= stated and very visible challenges to its meaning, and all the less visi= ble and apprehensible challenges. It's like a cup which has lost every s= ingle drop of poetry, except one maybe -- or even just the smell of poetr= y in its pores. Or maybe it's just a cup which, because it has been used= to carry poetry, someone is still willing to carry. There is meaning, m= aybe not centrally located. In the short essays, it's clear how comprom= ised the book is, yet it speaks. Not fluently, but fluently. The dialog= ue between poetry and government in this book is a scrap of reality, a br= oken but not worthless thing. Why should the book not be taken seriously= , "certainly not by poets"? It is a product of the economies we work in,= and raises many useful questions about poetry for me, even at the level = of nostalgia for a genre. I don't have the book in front of me as I writ= e, but I've read it. I can return to the questions it raised for me late= r.

> Mairead
>
> =20
>>>> [redacted] 08/22/07 12:51 PM >>>
>>>> =20
> David:
>
> I don't find this review strange, but right to the point. You have to b= e living in an alternative universe to think that this book represents th= e real feelings of the prisoners. Not only was it censored, but the origi= nal language wasn't allowed to be published, on the pretense that it cont= ains secret messages! What could the secret message possibly be from some= one in prison for so many years? One wonders if this is paranoia, playact= ing, or just plain stupidity.=20
> In any case, I think the review is basically sound, and that this book = should not be taken seriously, certainly not by poets! If I have any prob= lems with the review, it's with the author's contention that a poem can't= reveal the reality of one's life. I think the opposite is true, only not= in the case of this book.
>
> Best,
> Joel Weishaus
>
>
> Date: Tue, 21 Aug 2007 07:59:18 -0700
> From: David Chirot <[redacted]>
> Subject: Poems From Guant=3D?ISO-8859-1?Q?=3DE1namo:?=3D The Detainees =

S peak - Books - Review - New York Times
>
> this is a rather strange review--
>
> http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?_r=3D1=
<http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?
_r=3D1&r=><http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-
t.html?_r=3D1&r=> ef=3Dbooks&oref=3Dslogin
> ---
> =20

Date: Wed, 22 Aug 2007 13:55:41 -0700
From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Poems from Guantanamo

what is not there (in the book) is more powerful than what is, from all accounts. we use our imaginations on what is not there.

the unsaid. the invisible. the unknown. that everyone knows.

the poems from guantanamo are apparently most notable for their having been detained. detained, shackled, gagged, and tortured. poetry itself detained. as well as these men.

we are used to such things occuring in dictatorships and tyrannies. now in the usa.

chilling.

so this book should be taken very seriously. not simply concerning what is in it, but what isn't, and why it isn't there.

ja
http://vispo.com

Date: Wed, 22 Aug 2007 14:59:16 -0800
From: Joel Weishaus <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Poems from Guant=?iso-8859-1?Q?=E1namo?=

Mairead;

If you mean the arguments around the book should be taken seriously, I agree. If you mean the poetry should be taken seriously, I disagree. Firstly, most of these poems, as I understand the situation, were not written by poets. Thus, for a poet to take them seriously is like a cosmologist taking the Book of Genesis seriously. Further, even those that may have been written by persons of talent, they are not their poems, but fabrications made up by the military. The real poems and stories we will get someday when these people are free to write them and publish them without being censored by the very people who tortured them. You are right that it does raise interesting questions, but political ones, not poetic ones.

-Joel

---------- Forwarded message ----------
From: Mairead Byrne <[redacted]>
Date: Aug 22, 2007 9:49 PM
Subject: Re: Poems from Guantánamo
To: [redacted]

I find the claim that this book shouldn't be taken seriously, "certainly not by poets," to be extraordinary. The extent to which this book is embroiled in economic realities, both publishing and political, offers a very strong invitation to this poet, at least, to take it seriously. Joel, why do you say the book shouldn't be taken seriously, "certainly not by poets"? Its publication by the University of Iowa Press, in today's America, and the stated history of its publication path make it very interesting to think and talk about, in my view; as does the tension between the stated and very visible challenges to its meaning, and all the less visible and apprehensible challenges. It's like a cup which has lost every single drop of poetry, except one maybe -- or even just the smell of poetry in its pores. Or maybe it's just a cup which, because it has been used to carry poetry, someone is still willing to carry. There is meaning, maybe not centrally located. In the short essays, it's clear how compromised the book is, yet it speaks. Not fluently, but fluently. The dialogue between poetry and government in this book is a scrap of reality, a broken but not worthless thing. Why should the book not be taken seriously, "certainly not by poets"? It is a product of the economies we work in, and raises many useful questions about poetry for me, even at the level of nostalgia for a genre. I don't have the book in front of me as I write, but I've read it. I can return to the questions it raised for me later. Mairead

>>> [redacted] 08/22/07 12:51 PM >>>
David:

I don't find this review strange, but right to the point. You have to be living in an alternative universe to think that this book represents the real feelings of the prisoners. Not only was it censored, but the original language wasn't allowed to be published, on the pretense that it contains secret messages! What could the secret message possibly be from someone in prison for so many years? One wonders if this is paranoia, playacting, or just plain stupidity. In any case, I think the review is basically sound, and that this book should not be taken seriously, certainly not by poets! If I have any problems with the review, it's with the author's contention that a poem can't reveal the reality of one's life. I think the opposite is true, only not in the case of this book.

Best,
Joel Weishaus

Date: Tue, 21 Aug 2007 07:59:18 -0700
From: David Chirot <[redacted]>
Subject: Poems From Guant=?ISO-8859-1?Q?=E1namo:?= The Detainees S peak - Books - Review - New York Times

this is a rather strange review--

http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?_r=1=books=slogin <http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?_r=1&ref=books&oref=slogin><http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?_r=1&ref=books&oref=slogin> ---

---

Date: Wed, 22 Aug 2007 18:57:32 -0400
From: Andrew Rippeon <[redacted]>
Subject: Reminder: LA launch for P-Queue, vol. 4.

Please join us at BetaLevel (www.betalevel.com) this Friday, to help celebr= ate the Los Angeles launch of P-Queue, vol. 4, and to see LA-area contribut= ors read from work appearing in this volume.=20=20 Readers will include:

Harold Abramowitz
Allison Carter
Susanne Hall
Mathew Timmons

P-Queue, vol. 4 features work by:

Harold Abramowitz =E2=80=A2 Jos=C3=A9 Alvergue =E2=80=A2 Meg Barboza =E2= =80=A2 Ben Bedard =E2=80=A2 Allison Carter =E2=80=A2 Jon Cotner =E2=80=A2 E= lizabeth Cross =E2=80=A2 David Driscoll =E2=80=A2 Andy Fitch =E2=80=A2 Susa= nne Hall =E2=80=A2 Anthony Hawley =E2=80=A2 Laura Jaramillo =E2=80=A2=20 Crane Giamo =E2=80=A2 Philip Metres =E2=80=A2 Michael Robbins =E2=80=A2 Si= obhan Scarry =E2=80=A2 Jordan Stempleman =E2=80=A2 Michelle Taransky =E2=80= =A2 Richard Taransky =E2=80=A2 Mathew Timmons

=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D

P-Queue is a journal of poetry, poetics, and innovative prose, dedicated t= o investigations of hybridity and cross-genre work. We=E2=80=99re supported= by the Poetics Program, the English Department, and=20 various other sources in the Humanities at SUNY Buffalo. We=E2=80=99ve had= a brief but exciting history of publishing innovative, unclassifiable work= s from a variety of authors both at Buffalo and across the=20 nation. Volume 5, first in the second four-year series of P-Queue, is sche= duled to feature a number of collaborative works continuing the journal=E2= =80=99s investigations of genre and convention. We can=20 be found on the web at www.pqueue.blogspot.com and through the EPC under = =E2=80=[redacted]=E2=80=9D at =E2=80=9CCurrent Student Publications.=E2=80= =9D

To order, visit our website or email: [redacted]

Date: Wed, 22 Aug 2007 19:03:36 -0600
From: Andrea Rexilius <[redacted]>
Subject: Parcel Chapbook: Nate Pritts

New at PARCEL PRESS www.parceljournal.org

<http://www.parceljournal.org/><http://www.parceljournal.org/>

(sonnets for the fall) by Nate Pritts

Nate Pritts is the author of SENSATIONAL SPECTACULAR (BlazeVOX) as well as several chapbooks. His poems have appeared widely in print & online journals such as Southern Review, Conduit, DIAGRAM, Forklift & Cimarron Review. His essays & reviews have appeared in New Writing (UK), Octopus, Midwest Quarterly & Rain Taxi. He is the editor of H_NGM_N, an online journal of poetry & poetics.

This limited edition chapbook is available for order at:

http://www.parceljournal.org/chapbooks/sonnets_for_the_fall.html

The cost is $3. Orders may be sent to Parcel Chapbooks / c/o Andrea Rexilius / 2174 S. Grant St. / Denver, Co 80210.

End of POETICS Digest - 21 Aug 2007 to 22 Aug 2007 (#2007-234)
****

↑ Index

519. Maria Damon
Re: Poems from Guantanamo
Thu 23 Aug 2007

---

absolutely. well-said.

Jim Andrews wrote:
> what is not there (in the book) is more powerful than what is, from all > accounts. we use our imaginations on what is not there.
>
> the unsaid. the invisible. the unknown. that everyone knows.
>
> the poems from guantanamo are apparently most notable for their having been > detained. detained, shackled, gagged, and tortured. poetry itself detained.
> as well as these men.
>
> we are used to such things occuring in dictatorships and tyrannies. now in > the usa.
>
> chilling.
>
> so this book should be taken very seriously. not simply concerning what is > in it, but what isn't, and why it isn't there.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
>

↑ Index

520. Maria Damon
Re: Poems from Guantánamo
Thu 23 Aug 2007

---

i am uncomfortable with the aesthetic hierarchy espoused here, reified in the word "talent." it is true that such a thing does and does not exist, but it is certainly not the only, or the most salient, criterion by which we determine whether something has worth. to reify the person of the "poet," is , to my mind, even more dangerous. talk about policing! i do agree, though, that discussions around the poetry is at least as important as the poetry itself, but i might argue this about any "poem."

Joel Weishaus wrote:
> Mairead;

>
> If you mean the arguments around the book should be taken seriously, I > agree. If you mean the poetry should be taken seriously, I disagree.
> Firstly, most of these poems, as I understand the situation, were not > written by poets. Thus, for a poet to take them seriously is like a > cosmologist taking the Book of Genesis seriously. Further, even those that > may have been written by persons of talent, they are not their poems, but > fabrications made up by the military. The real poems and stories we will get > someday when these people are free to write them and publish them without > being censored by the very people who tortured them. You are right that it > does raise interesting questions, but political ones, not poetic ones.
>
> -Joel
>
>
> ---------- Forwarded message ----------
> From: Mairead Byrne <[redacted]>
> Date: Aug 22, 2007 9:49 PM
> Subject: Re: Poems from Guantánamo
> To: [redacted]
>
>
> I find the claim that this book shouldn't be taken seriously,
> "certainly not by poets," to be extraordinary. The extent to which > this book is embroiled in economic realities, both publishing and > political, offers a very strong invitation to this poet, at least, to > take it seriously. Joel, why do you say the book shouldn't be taken > seriously, "certainly not by poets"? Its publication by the > University of Iowa Press, in today's America, and the stated history
> of its publication path make it very interesting to think and talk > about, in my view; as does the tension between the stated and very > visible challenges to its meaning, and all the less visible and > apprehensible challenges. It's like a cup which has lost every single > drop of poetry, except one maybe -- or even just the smell of poetry > in its pores. Or maybe it's just a cup which, because it has been > used to carry poetry, someone is still willing to carry. There is > meaning, maybe not centrally located. In the short essays, it's > clear how compromised the book is, yet it speaks. Not fluently, but > fluently. The dialogue between poetry and government in this book is > a scrap of reality, a broken but not worthless thing. Why should the > book not be taken seriously, "certainly not by poets"? It is a > product of the economies we work in, and raises many useful questions > about poetry for me, even at the level of nostalgia for a genre. I > don't have the book in front of me as I write, but I've read it. I > can return to the questions it raised for me later.

> Mairead
>
>
>>>> [redacted] 08/22/07 12:51 PM >>>
>>>>
> David:
>
> I don't find this review strange, but right to the point. You have to > be living in an alternative universe to think that this book > represents the real feelings of the prisoners. Not only was it > censored, but the original language wasn't allowed to be published, on > the pretense that it contains secret messages! What could the secret > message possibly be from someone in prison for so many years? One > wonders if this is paranoia, playacting, or just plain stupidity.
> In any case, I think the review is basically sound, and that this book > should not be taken seriously, certainly not by poets! If I have any > problems with the review, it's with the author's contention that a > poem can't reveal the reality of one's life. I think the opposite is > true, only not in the case of this book.
>
> Best,
> Joel Weishaus
>
>
> Date: Tue, 21 Aug 2007 07:59:18 -0700
> From: David Chirot <[redacted]>
> Subject: Poems From Guant=?ISO-8859-1?Q?=E1namo:?= The Detainees S > peak - Books - Review - New York Times
>
> this is a rather strange review--
>
> http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?
_r=1&ref=books&oref=slogin
> ---
>

↑ Index

521. Dan Coffey
Re: Poems from Guantánamo
Thu 23 Aug 2007

Joel,

I don't get where you're coming from. The poems are indicative of what can happen to language in such a repressive state of affairs as Guantanamo. They don't need to be taken seriously as accomplished works, but as a warning of how poetry can be misused, and what official tampering with language and art looks like.

A good cosmologist should take the Book of Genesis seriously; not because he or she believes that there is any scientific truth there, but because one can only really understand one's own position after absorbing other positions and realizing how they differ. Basic debate tips, really.

On 8/22/07, Joel Weishaus <[redacted]> wrote:
> Mairead;
>
> If you mean the arguments around the book should be taken seriously, I > agree. If you mean the poetry should be taken seriously, I disagree.
> Firstly, most of these poems, as I understand the situation, were not > written by poets. Thus, for a poet to take them seriously is like a > cosmologist taking the Book of Genesis seriously. Further, even those that > may have been written by persons of talent, they are not their poems, but > fabrications made up by the military. The real poems and stories we will get > someday when these people are free to write them and publish them without > being censored by the very people who tortured them. You are right that it > does raise interesting questions, but political ones, not poetic ones.
>
> -Joel
>
>
> ---------- Forwarded message ----------
> From: Mairead Byrne <[redacted]>
> Date: Aug 22, 2007 9:49 PM
> Subject: Re: Poems from Guantánamo
> To: [redacted]
>
>
> I find the claim that this book shouldn't be taken seriously,
> "certainly not by poets," to be extraordinary. The extent to which > this book is embroiled in economic realities, both publishing and > political, offers a very strong invitation to this poet, at least, to > take it seriously. Joel, why do you say the book shouldn't be taken > seriously, "certainly not by poets"? Its publication by the > University of Iowa Press, in today's America, and the stated history

> of its publication path make it very interesting to think and talk > about, in my view; as does the tension between the stated and very > visible challenges to its meaning, and all the less visible and > apprehensible challenges. It's like a cup which has lost every single > drop of poetry, except one maybe -- or even just the smell of poetry
> in its pores. Or maybe it's just a cup which, because it has been > used to carry poetry, someone is still willing to carry. There is > meaning, maybe not centrally located. In the short essays, it's > clear how compromised the book is, yet it speaks. Not fluently, but > fluently. The dialogue between poetry and government in this book is > a scrap of reality, a broken but not worthless thing. Why should the > book not be taken seriously, "certainly not by poets"? It is a > product of the economies we work in, and raises many useful questions > about poetry for me, even at the level of nostalgia for a genre. I > don't have the book in front of me as I write, but I've read it. I > can return to the questions it raised for me later.
> Mairead
>
> >>> [redacted] 08/22/07 12:51 PM >>>
> David:
>
> I don't find this review strange, but right to the point. You have to > be living in an alternative universe to think that this book > represents the real feelings of the prisoners. Not only was it > censored, but the original language wasn't allowed to be published, on > the pretense that it contains secret messages! What could the secret > message possibly be from someone in prison for so many years? One > wonders if this is paranoia, playacting, or just plain stupidity.
> In any case, I think the review is basically sound, and that this book > should not be taken seriously, certainly not by poets! If I have any > problems with the review, it's with the author's contention that a > poem can't reveal the reality of one's life. I think the opposite is > true, only not in the case of this book.
>
> Best,
> Joel Weishaus
>
>

> Date: Tue, 21 Aug 2007 07:59:18 -0700
> From: David Chirot <[redacted]>
> Subject: Poems From Guant=?ISO-8859-1?Q?=E1namo:?= The Detainees S > peak - Books - Review - New York Times
>
> this is a rather strange review--
>
> http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?
_r=1&ref=books&oref=slogin
> ---
>

--
http://hyperhypo.org/blog http://www.pftborder.blogspot.com

↑ Index

522. Gerald Schwartz
Grace Paley
Thu 23 Aug 2007

A wonderfully generous fighter for pacifism to the end.

Gerald S.

↑ Index

523. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: Poems from Guantánamo
Thu 23 Aug 2007

"just about everything is unsaid. i'm not sure what's really interesting about all poetry is what's said. instead, it can be the inroads it makes into the unsaid.

books are often famous not for what they say but as materializations of or testaments to a situation or time or to people or peoples etc. or as objects emblematic of a concept."

Jim,

This is a great post. Yes, the work of interest for me must be infested with its times. "Infested" here is both a positive and negative value, for what it is, belonging to its time. What may belong to Guantanamo than suppression and suffering, in your words Jim the absence around suffering.

Ciao,

Murat

On 8/23/07, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> > If you mean the arguments around the book should be taken seriously, I > > agree. If you mean the poetry should be taken seriously, I disagree.
> > Firstly, most of these poems, as I understand the situation, were not > > written by poets. Thus, for a poet to take them seriously is like a > > cosmologist taking the Book of Genesis seriously. Further, even > > those that > > may have been written by persons of talent, they are not their > > poems, but > > fabrications made up by the military. The real poems and stories
> > we will get > > someday when these people are free to write them and publish them
> without > > being censored by the very people who tortured them. You are > > right that it
> > does raise interesting questions, but political ones, not poetic ones.
> >
> > -Joel
>
> my intuition is that you're mistaken, joel.
>
> what's interesting in contemporary poetry, to me, is not usually the > well-crafted poem. though that can be interesting.
>
> there are books being created now, such as ken goldsmith's work and, say, > kervinen's "(no subject)" that are of real interest but are quite > different > from the well-crafted poem or novel or book.
>
> just about everything is unsaid. i'm not sure what's really interesting > about all poetry is what's said. instead, it can be the inroads it makes > into the unsaid.
>
> books are often famous not for what they say but as materializations of or > testaments to a situation or time or to people or peoples etc. or as > objects
> emblematic of a concept.
>

> poets, when they are famous, are sometimes famous not so much for their > poetry as their place in a network or a movement or a demographic or > whatever.
>
> part of what is significant in poetry is the nature of its intensities of > language, its relations with language, the way that language and its > contemporary states are drawn into the vortex of the poem or book or site
> or > whatever the manifestation of the language/poetry is.
>
> the poems from guantanamo--the poems themselves and also the whole frame,
> the whole situation--should be of deep concern, particularly in the usa.
> poetry detained. poetry is detained not only in the usa but in other > western > countries. not only poetry but art and thought. by the authorities? well > usually we are our own authorities, aren't we.
>
> you speak of "the real poems and stories" as opposed to the "fabrications > made up by the military". it's of course true that the poems and stories
> in > the book are tortured by the military.
>
> but perhaps what is significant is not the authenticity of the poems but
> the > nature of their inauthenticity. perhaps what is significant is not the > poems > themselves, authentic or inauthentic but the whole complex of the > situation,
> situated as art. i know it is more of a sort of approach generally > associated with visual art than literary art, but it has its usefulness.
> in > this case, it allows us to see significance where a more traditional > literary approach to the well-crafted poem leaves us in a situation where, > as you say, we can only see the significance of the book in political > terms,
> not in relation to art and language.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
>

↑ Index

524. David Chirot
Re: Poems from Guantánamo
Thu 23 Aug 2007

I am not sure if a post i sent earlier re the Guantanamo poetry was read or not re this discussion (it shows up on hotmail but not as yet at gmail; sent 12 hours ago)--forgive me if i may repeat two or three of its points while adding some others--

Even though written by non-poets and distranslated via the military approved translators, it has been noted in several pieces re the Guantanamo Poetry that the writers were using images, forms, allusions, meaphors, rhmes that are part of their traditional cultures as well as that of Arabic literature. A phrase which may come across as trite and "bad poetry" --made worse by the distransaltions by non literary translators--in the original language, if Americans knew more of the writer's literary traditions from which he or she is drawing, the same phrase would be seen to have a deeper and more poetic reverberation, resonance, allusion and meaning. I think that the rush to judgement that the poetry is "bad", "not poetry", is a further form of muzzling, in that it assumes that there is no such use of language and poetic culture being made by even non-poets who have grow up immersed in a very immense literature, oral and written, as well informed by the cadences, images, teachings of Islam and the verses of the Koran. (Do not American poets draw on the images and cadences of their religious texts, the Bible, Buddhist Sutras, American Indian sacred songs, the majestic rhythms and call and response of the Black Church, the frenzied and ecstatic speaking in tongues of Pentacostalism , Hindi chanting and song, Ginsberg's "Kaddish", the Kabbalah and Torah, the sounds of the Cantor's phrasings used in the creation of poems?) I don't think the questions the book brings up are solely political; I think many of them have very much to do with poetry, one of the examples being the immediate assumption that "non-poets" in any culture don't have access to a great many poetic devices, images, rhythms taken from their culture, cultural traditions and religious texts, as well as song lyrics and the "brut" imagery sounds of colloquial speech and slang. There is also the assumption that poets writing from another culture somehow do not have a reason for using the conventional seeming (to "us") imagery that they do, when it is possible that for the writers the same line may be a correspondance with a classical verse or famous contemporary poem, or one taught in schools. The military, and as I wrote earlier, the times reviewer, and I think many positions easily adopted re the poetry as "not poetry" or "bad poetry" are based on the same fear--that there is indeed something that is somehow getting through all the obstacles placed in the writings' paths, some kind of "message" or "meaning" being smuggled out in plain sight and being found and understood by someone somewhere. That element which gets past all the censors and non-literary translations, criticisms, may this not be what is at the heart of poetry, in no matter how mangled and "bad" a form? isn't that what prompts the need to erect further barriers, such as poetry cannot be made by non-poets. Frankly, who is to say who can and cannot make poetry? Is poetry a kind of gated, heavily secured community open to only the few? Is this poetry "suspect" because the writers are "suspects", "terrorists", non-poets, poorly or distranslated by non-literary translators? The doubled layering of non-poet and non-literary translator --who is to say that poetry isn't capable of being created and communicated nonetheless, in ways not recognized by the professional poet, literary critic, literary translator? Isn't there a fear in this poetic regard analogous to that of the military in regards to messages, communiques, somehow getting past the best professionals no matter how many boundaries are set up? The professional poet, like the professional military, has a fear of the "insurgent," the (poetic) "terrorist," the person "not with us" but "against us". The issue of the translations, thenon-literaryy translations is very "poetic" issue also. A lot of "avant" poetry techniques for a good hundred years have made use of various forms of "alternate" and distorting translation in order to create creative mistranslations" as well as censoring forms of non-literary and/or distranslations, altering texts to fit better within a given poetic ideology or canon, history or criticism, to overturn some other text or create a missing text in a mosaic being arrayed to construct a new genre or category. In fact, the Military's and lawyers' use of non-literary translators seems very much a kind of "avant" technique for the creation of "post avant critiques of the discourses and disciplines of translation"--a breaking down, a "transgressing" of borders, a "rupturing" of categories, of norms, astonishingly like many an example by a practicing, professional, certified poet. Aren't some of the little writing exercises advocated here recently in Bernstein's list not unlike this practice being used by the military and attorneys military and othewise who had to be involved? "Translate a poem from a (poetic) language you don't really know"! "Translate poems by amateurs using non-literary techniques of composition in your own language"! "Translate poetry in a language you know written by amateurs in conventional forms common to their language while doing everything you can to break down the semblance of the poetic--conventional or avant--in your own language"! Is there perhaps a fear on the part of the poetic that a book which supposedly can be valued only by being in the "witness" category of writing may actually, via the military, attorneys, agendas, be the product of the poetic's own ideas and practices of the "post/avant"? In other words, yet again, that POETRY may have in spite of everything made it past the censors, the guards, the critics, the professional military and poets?

On 8/22/07, Joel Weishaus <[redacted]> wrote:
> Mairead;
>
> If you mean the arguments around the book should be taken seriously, I > agree. If you mean the poetry should be taken seriously, I disagree.
> Firstly, most of these poems, as I understand the situation, were not > written by poets. Thus, for a poet to take them seriously is like a > cosmologist taking the Book of Genesis seriously. Further, even those that > may have been written by persons of talent, they are not their poems, but > fabrications made up by the military. The real poems and stories we will get > someday when these people are free to write them and publish them without > being censored by the very people who tortured them. You are right that it > does raise interesting questions, but political ones, not poetic ones.
>
> -Joel
>
>
> ---------- Forwarded message ----------
> From: Mairead Byrne <[redacted]>
> Date: Aug 22, 2007 9:49 PM
> Subject: Re: Poems from Guantánamo
> To: [redacted]
>
>
> I find the claim that this book shouldn't be taken seriously,
> "certainly not by poets," to be extraordinary. The extent to which > this book is embroiled in economic realities, both publishing and > political, offers a very strong invitation to this poet, at least, to > take it seriously. Joel, why do you say the book shouldn't be taken > seriously, "certainly not by poets"? Its publication by the > University of Iowa Press, in today's America, and the stated history
> of its publication path make it very interesting to think and talk > about, in my view; as does the tension between the stated and very > visible challenges to its meaning, and all the less visible and > apprehensible challenges. It's like a cup which has lost every single > drop of poetry, except one maybe -- or even just the smell of poetry
> in its pores. Or maybe it's just a cup which, because it has been > used to carry poetry, someone is still willing to carry. There is > meaning, maybe not centrally located. In the short essays, it's > clear how compromised the book is, yet it speaks. Not fluently, but > fluently. The dialogue between poetry and government in this book is > a scrap of reality, a broken but not worthless thing. Why should the > book not be taken seriously, "certainly not by poets"? It is a > product of the economies we work in, and raises many useful questions > about poetry for me, even at the level of nostalgia for a genre. I > don't have the book in front of me as I write, but I've read it. I > can return to the questions it raised for me later.

> Mairead
>
> >>> [redacted] 08/22/07 12:51 PM >>>
> David:
>
> I don't find this review strange, but right to the point. You have to > be living in an alternative universe to think that this book > represents the real feelings of the prisoners. Not only was it > censored, but the original language wasn't allowed to be published, on > the pretense that it contains secret messages! What could the secret > message possibly be from someone in prison for so many years? One > wonders if this is paranoia, playacting, or just plain stupidity.
> In any case, I think the review is basically sound, and that this book > should not be taken seriously, certainly not by poets! If I have any > problems with the review, it's with the author's contention that a > poem can't reveal the reality of one's life. I think the opposite is > true, only not in the case of this book.
>
> Best,
> Joel Weishaus
>
>
> Date: Tue, 21 Aug 2007 07:59:18 -0700
> From: David Chirot <[redacted]>
> Subject: Poems From Guant=?ISO-8859-1?Q?=E1namo:?= The Detainees S > peak - Books - Review - New York Times
>
> this is a rather strange review--
>
> http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?
_r=1&ref=books&oref=slogin
> ---
>

↑ Index

525. amy king
Acclaimed Writer Grace Paley Dies at 84
Thu 23 Aug 2007

---

http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2007/08/23/AR2007082300790.html

---
Take the Internet to Go: Yahoo!Go puts the Internet in your pocket: mail, news, photos & more.

↑ Index

526. Joel Weishaus
Fw: Poems from Guantanamo
Thu 23 Aug 2007

I received the letters below from Joseph Parsons, Acquisitions Editor of the University of Iowa Press. I think it clears up some of the points we've been discussing, and some of the points left out of the NYT book review, on which our discussion, and my viewpoint, was based. I'm forwarding Mr. Parson's letters with his permission.

-Joel

Joel Weishaus
Visiting Faculty
Department of English
Portland State University
Portland, Oregon
http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282

----- Original Message -----
From: "Joseph P. Parsons" <[redacted]>
To: <[redacted]>
Sent: Wednesday, August 22, 2007 6:35 PM
Subject: Poems from Guantanamo

Dear Joel (if I may)--

I've been following the thread on the Buffalo listserv and wanted to correct what I take to be a misconception on the part of many people. The poems were translated by linguists hired by the habeas attorneys, not by military translators. The confusion may arise from the fact that the linguists hold "top secret" clearance, but the same is true for the pro bono lawyers, one of whom is Marc Falkoff, the volume editor. All of the attorneys submitted to background checks before being cleared to represent their clients.

The poems that form the body of the book--and, I'd argue, it does a disservice to critique the work without having read the essays that appear in the front and back--were submitted for release. How the PRT (privilege review teams) decided what would be cleared and what would be held back is unclear to all of us. According to Marc and the other attorneys, there seems to be little logic too it. In many cases, the translations were cleared but the Arabic or Pashto versions were not. One poem in particular, "The First Poem of My Life," was actually retranslated by Flagg Miller from the original Arabic and appears in his form in the book. He deemed the remaining poems for which we had originals in Arabic to be at worst workmanlike translations.

To fully appreciate the poems, it's worth reading Flagg's essay, which places them in the context of traditional Arabic qasida verse. Meghan O'Rourke, in contrast to Dan Chiasson, devotes some space to this theme.

(As an aside, the censorship reached absurb levels. In one case, a letter from a child to her father being held in Guantanamo was entirely redacted except for "I love you dad." In another case, "One, two, three, four, five. Once I caught a fish alive" was redacted in a letter from a child to a father.)

What's key to keep in mind is that the translators were working without the benefit of their usual resources--dictionaries and other supporting material, for example--and had to make the best of it. In every case, Marc and the translation team reviewed the poems that found their way into the book and corrected whatever errors they were able to identify. (It's worth mentioning that Marc also holds a Ph.D. in English literature and taught for several years at Purchase before going to law school, so he's not simply dabbling in this.)

In any case, I resist the urge to interpose myself in these discussion, but in this case I decided to break my usual self-imposed rule.

All best regards,

Joe Parsons

Joseph P. Parsons
Acquisitions Editor University of Iowa Press
100 Kuhl House
119 West Park Road
Iowa City, Iowa 52242-1000
Phone [redacted] / Fax [redacted]
http://www.uiowa.edu/~uipress

In response to a question I had on how the poems were chosen, Mr. Parsons wrote: "It's difficult to answer that question of choice. In the case of the choices we--Marc and I--made, it was simply a matter of publishing pretty much everything we had. In a few cases--for instance, Moazzam Begg, who is now free and back in the U.K.--we had handful of poems on hand and opted to limit the number simply to keep the collection from being dominated by a single poet. As for what the Pentagon chose to release, I can't even venture a guess."

-Joel

↑ Index

527. Clay Banes
Re: listenlight new issue 11
Thu 23 Aug 2007

---

jesse, i hate to edit you, but it's never "the hoi polloi."

On 8/23/07, J Crockett <[redacted]> wrote:
> "Back to basics"
>
>
> featuring works by ---
>
> doctors, lawyers, and the hoi polloi
>
>
> http://listenlight.net
>

--
EYEBALL HATRED
http://claytonbanes.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

528. Catherine Daly
Re: Poems from Guantánamo
Thu 23 Aug 2007

---

it is pretty interesting to consider as a book, as a poetry anthology. for example, it asks for you to read the cover copy, press release, and intro more than most; it asks you to read the bios by putting them before the poems by that poet, and by writing the bios in atypical ways (also, they are in a different typeface and color, and flipping through I saw one and thought, "oh a prose poem! how surprising from arabic, and, you know, it was a BIO)

it does lay bare the political aspects of all antholgising, although some publishers I know claim anthologies don't sell well, and others say anthologies put their presses on the map, sell well, get extraordinary distribution, etc.

I was initially reminded of the old short story anthologies from the former "eastern bloc" -- I bought a lot of them, they had appealingly scary bloody sickles and things on the covers, just the items to bring to a catholic high school; on further reflection, perhaps like those compilation albums from pretty awful metal bands in "CCCP"

All best,
Catherine

↑ Index

529. Mark Weiss
Re: Acclaimed Writer Grace Paley Dies at 84
Thu 23 Aug 2007

This from the Times: http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/23/books/23cnd-paley.html

This is deeply saddening. I knew Grace a little and like I think everyone who knew her at all I loved her. Totally without affectation, and her spoken language was astonishingly the language of her stories. Enormous generosity.

Mark

At 11:44 AM 8/23/2007, you wrote:
>http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2007/08/23/AR2007082300790.html
>
>
>
>
>----------
>Take the Internet to Go: Yahoo!Go puts the Internet in your pocket:
>mail, news, photos & more.

↑ Index

530. Thomas savage
Re: Acclaimed Writer Grace Paley Dies at 84
Thu 23 Aug 2007

As someone who knew Grace Paley for fifty-five years (I met her when I was four years old) I am deeply sad to learn of her passing. She was such a wonderful writer and a great person. Although I knew her mostly when I was a child, I would see her at her readings and she would remember me. Her books of short stories and poems will continue to shine for a long time. Regards, Tom Savage amy king <[redacted]> wrote:

http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2007/08/23/AR2007082300790.html

---
Take the Internet to Go: Yahoo!Go puts the Internet in your pocket: mail, news, photos & more.

Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search that gives answers, not web links.

↑ Index

531. Ruth Lepson
Re: Poems from Guantánamo
Thu 23 Aug 2007

---

to me the poetry I have read in the volume immediately conveys how another human being is suffering, and that we must hear.

On 8/23/07 11:32 AM, "David Chirot" <[redacted]> wrote:

> I am not sure if a post i sent earlier re the Guantanamo poetry was read or not re this discussion (it shows up on hotmail but not as yet at gmail; sent 12 hours ago)--forgive me if i may repeat two or three of its points while adding some others--
>
> Even though written by non-poets and distranslated via the military approved translators, it has been noted in several pieces re the Guantanamo Poetry that the writers were using images, forms, allusions, meaphors, rhmes that are part of their traditional cultures as well as that of Arabic literature. A phrase which may come across as trite and "bad poetry" --made worse by the distransaltions by non literary translators--in the original language, if Americans knew more of the writer's literary traditions from which he or she is drawing, the same phrase would be seen to have a deeper and more poetic reverberation, resonance, allusion and meaning. I think that the rush to judgement that the poetry is "bad", "not poetry", is a further form of muzzling, in that it assumes that there is no such use of language and poetic culture being made by even non-poets who have grow up immersed in a very immense literature, oral and written, as well informed by the cadences, images, teachings of Islam and the verses of the Koran.
> (Do not American poets draw on the images and cadences of their religious texts, the Bible, Buddhist Sutras, American Indian sacred songs, the majestic rhythms and call and response of the Black Church, the frenzied and ecstatic speaking in tongues of Pentacostalism , Hindi chanting and song, Ginsberg's "Kaddish", the Kabbalah and Torah, the sounds of the Cantor's phrasings used in the creation of poems?)

I don't think the questions the book brings up are solely political; I think many of them have very much to do with poetry, one of the examples being the immediate assumption that "non-poets" in any culture don't have access to a great many poetic devices, images, rhythms taken from their culture, cultural traditions and religious texts, as well as song lyrics and the "brut" imagery sounds of colloquial speech and slang. There is also the assumption that poets writing from another culture somehow do not have a reason for using the conventional seeming (to "us") imagery that they do, when it is possible that for the writers the same line may be a correspondance with a classical verse or famous contemporary poem, or one taught in schools.

The military, and as I wrote earlier, the times reviewer, and I think many positions easily adopted re the poetry as "not poetry" or "bad poetry" are based on the same fear--that there is indeed something that is somehow getting through all the obstacles placed in the writings' paths, some kind of "message" or "meaning" being smuggled out in plain sight and being found and understood by someone somewhere. That element which gets past all the censors and non-literary translations, criticisms, may this not be what is at the heart of poetry, in no matter how mangled and "bad" a form? isn't that what prompts the need to erect further barriers, such as poetry cannot be made by non-poets. Frankly, who is to say who can and cannot make poetry? Is poetry a kind of gated, heavily secured community open to only the few? Is this poetry "suspect" because the writers are "suspects", "terrorists", non-poets, poorly or distranslated by non-literary translators?

The doubled layering of non-poet and non-literary translator --who is to say that poetry isn't capable of being created and communicated nonetheless, in ways not recognized by the professional poet, literary critic, literary translator? Isn't there a fear in this poetic regard analogous to that of the military in regards to messages, communiques, somehow getting past the best professionals no matter how many boundaries are set up? The professional poet, like the professional military, has a fear of the "insurgent," the (poetic) "terrorist," the person "not with us" but "against us".

The issue of the translations, thenon-literaryy translations is very "poetic" issue also. A lot of "avant" poetry techniques for a good hundred years have made use of various forms of "alternate" and distorting translation in order to create creative mistranslations" as well as censoring forms of non-literary and/or distranslations, altering texts to fit better within a given poetic ideology or canon, history or criticism, to overturn some other text or create a missing text in a mosaic being arrayed to construct a new genre or category.

In fact, the Military's and lawyers' use of non-literary translators seems very much a kind of "avant" technique for the creation of "post avant critiques of the discourses and disciplines of translation"--a breaking down, a "transgressing" of borders, a "rupturing" of categories, of norms, astonishingly like many an example by a practicing, professional, certified poet. Aren't some of the little writing exercises advocated here recently in Bernstein's list not unlike this practice being used by the military and attorneys military and othewise who had to be involved? "Translate a poem from a (poetic) language you don't really know"! "Translate poems by amateurs using non-literary techniques of composition in your own language"!

"Translate poetry in a language you know written by amateurs in conventional forms common to their language while doing everything you can to break down the semblance of the poetic--conventional or avant--in your own language"!

Is there perhaps a fear on the part of the poetic that a book which supposedly can be valued only by being in the "witness" category of writing may actually, via the military, attorneys, agendas, be the product of the poetic's own ideas and practices of the "post/avant"?

In other words, yet again, that POETRY may have in spite of everything made it past the censors, the guards, the critics, the professional military and poets?

On 8/22/07, Joel Weishaus <[redacted]> wrote:
Mairead;

If you mean the arguments around the book should be taken seriously, I agree. If you mean the poetry should be taken seriously, I disagree. Firstly, most of these poems, as I understand the situation, were not written by poets. Thus, for a poet to take them seriously is like a cosmologist taking the Book of Genesis seriously. Further, even those that may have been written by persons of talent, they are not their poems, but fabrications made up by the military. The real poems and stories we will get someday when these people are free to write them and publish them without being censored by the very people who tortured them. You are right that it does raise interesting questions, but political ones, not poetic ones.

-Joel

---------- Forwarded message ----------

From: Mairead Byrne <[redacted]>
Date: Aug 22, 2007 9:49 PM
Subject: Re: Poems from Guantánamo
To: [redacted]

I find the claim that this book shouldn't be taken seriously, "certainly not by poets," to be extraordinary. The extent to which this book is embroiled in economic realities, both publishing and political, offers a very strong invitation to this poet, at least, to take it seriously. Joel, why do you say the book shouldn't be taken seriously, "certainly not by poets"? Its publication by the University of Iowa Press, in today's America, and the stated history of its publication path make it very interesting to think and talk about, in my view; as does the tension between the stated and very visible challenges to its meaning, and all the less visible and apprehensible challenges. It's like a cup which has lost every single drop of poetry, except one maybe -- or even just the smell of poetry in its pores. Or maybe it's just a cup which, because it has been used to carry poetry, someone is still willing to carry. There is meaning, maybe not centrally located. In the short essays, it's clear how compromised the book is, yet it speaks. Not fluently, but fluently. The dialogue between poetry and government in this book is a scrap of reality, a broken but not worthless thing. Why should the book not be taken seriously, "certainly not by poets"? It is a product of the economies we work in, and raises many useful questions about poetry for me, even at the level of nostalgia for a genre. I don't have the book in front of me as I write, but I've read it. I can return to the questions it raised for me later.
Mairead

[redacted] 08/22/07 12:51 PM >>>
David:

I don't find this review strange, but right to the point. You have to be living in an alternative universe to think that this book represents the real feelings of the prisoners. Not only was it censored, but the original language wasn't allowed to be published, on the pretense that it contains secret messages! What could the secret message possibly be from someone in prison for so many years? One wonders if this is paranoia, playacting, or just plain stupidity.
In any case, I think the review is basically sound, and that this book should not be taken seriously, certainly not by poets! If I have any problems with the review, it's with the author's contention that a poem can't reveal the reality of one's life. I think the opposite is true, only not in the case of this book.

Best,

> Joel Weishaus
>
> Date: Tue, 21 Aug 2007 07:59:18 -0700
> From: David Chirot <[redacted]>
> Subject: Poems From Guant=?ISO-8859-1?Q?=E1namo:?= The Detainees S > peak - Books - Review - New York Times
>
> this is a rather strange review--
>
> http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?_r=1&ref=books > &oref=slogin
> ---

↑ Index

532. Jonathan Skinner
Grace Paley
Thu 23 Aug 2007

This obit overlooks the fact that Grace was also a wonderful poet--one who, without simplifying or degrading the tasks proper to poetry, showed that poets could and needed to be responsible to more than poetry. "I wrote a lot of poems, and I went to a lot of demonstrations," she said. She was a feminist who wrote great poems about fathers. She was an environmentalist who straddled the urban-rural divide--a poet laureate of Vermont, with Yiddish roots and a green thumb. And she was a fabulous performer: indeed, a natural storyteller. She wrote without sanctimony, with great wit and humor, about all-too-human life in a more-than-human world.

JS

Interview, with readings, here:

http://www.nhpr.org/node/8897

"Then Vera stopped at the flower called fireweed . . .

. . . Still we are the gardeners of this world and often talk about giving wildness its chance it's I who cut the field too late too early right on time and therefore out of the earth which is a darkness of timed seed and waiting root the sunlight chose vervain jewel weed boneset just beyond our woodchuck-argued garden a great nation of ants has lived for fifteen years in a high sandy anthill which I honor with looking and looking and never disrupt (nor have I learned their lesson of stubborn industry) they ask nothing except to be not bothered and I personally agree" (Gracy Paley, Thetford Poems)

http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2007/08/23/AR2007082300 858_2.html?hpid=moreheadlines

Acclaimed Writer Grace Paley Dies at 84
By Adam Bernstein
Washington Post Staff Writer
Thursday, August 23, 2007; 12:14 PM

Grace Paley, 84, an American writer who achieved literary renown as a master of the short story and forged a small but influential body of work that illuminated the frustrations and joys of women's lives, died Aug. 22 at her home in Thetford, Vt. She had breast cancer.

Ms. Paley's output was relatively small -- several dozen short stories as well as a few collections of poetry and essays -- but the quality of her work attracted superlatives from the country's brightest literary figures.

Novelist Philip Roth praised her "understanding of loneliness, lust, selfishness and fatigue that is splendidly comic and unladylike." Writer Susan Sontag called her "a rare kind of writer, a natural with a voice like no one else's: funny, sad, lean, modest, energetic, acute."

Ms. Paley was often regarded as a feminist writer because her stories brought rare and early insight into how urban women struggle with emotional and physical vulnerabilities; demanding children and lovers; and absent, often misogynistic husbands.

She found the feminist label confining, yet she gave credit to the movement for elevating her stature. "Every woman writing in these years has had to swim in the feminist wave," she wrote. "No matter what she thinks of it, even if she bravely swims against it, she has been supported by it -- the buoyancy, the noise, the saltiness."

Her earliest stories were rich in humor and irony. In "The Loudest Voice," a Jewish child's vocal stamina makes her the ideal narrator of a school Christmas play.

Ms. Paley gradually gave way to grimmer themes ranging from rape to mental illness. She also ventured into character studies less driven by plot.

She tended to draw more mixed reviews for the later work. Still, Robert R. Harris, an editor for the New York Times Book Review, once noted that Ms.

Paley's literary reputation remained largely untarnished because "her best stories have staying power, and a few can justifiably be called brilliant."

Her first collection, "The Little Disturbances of Man" (1959) contained some of her most anthologized works, including "Goodbye and Good Luck." The story is narrated by the vivacious Rosie, who has a long affair with a married Russian actor known as "the Valentino of Second Avenue."

"Goodbye and Good Luck" contained many of the hallmarks of her prose -- the uncluttered sentences, the flawed but sympathetic female narrator and the pitch-perfect Bronx street vernacular of her youth that U.S. poet laureate Robert Pinsky once called "the lyrically yakking cadence of New York City speech."

The title of the collection referred to a line in another short story, "An Interest in Life," in which a housewife named Virginia sums up in the opening sentences the husband who has deserted her: "My husband gave me a broom one Christmas. This wasn't right. No one can tell me it was meant kindly."

Virginia later takes a lover who discourages her from trying to get on a game show called "Strike It Rich" because the program is meant to help people who "really suffer" in natural catastrophes, not those enduring "the little disturbances of man."

Ms. Paley wrote her fiction slowly and sparingly, spending a great deal of time focused on her deepening political involvement as a pacifist concerned with environmental and anti-military causes. There was a 15-year gap between her first short-story collection and "Enormous Changes at the Last Minute" (1974), which received mixed reviews as she experimented with style and darker content.

The short-story collection "Later the Same Day" came out in 1985, the same year as her book of poetry called "Leaning Forward." She also wrote "365 Reasons Not to Have Another War," published in 1989. In her fiction, she often rekindled her alter-ego, a single mother named Faith, to comment on sex, friendship and, ultimately, aging.

Although Ms. Paley once attempted a novel, she said she had no luck and shrugged off the effort by saying "art is too long and life is too short."

She was the daughter of Jewish-Ukrainian immigrants who had been dedicated anti-czarists and punished with exile. The family name was changed from Gutzeit to Goodside upon arrival in New York. Her father, Isaac, became a doctor and a painter.

Grace Goodside was born Dec. 11, 1922, in the Bronx. She later recalled the neighborhood as "a world so dense with Jews that I thought we were the great imposing majority."

As a child, she developed a keen ear for the Yiddish, Russian and broken English spoken around her. A bright but indifferent student, she entered Hunter College at 15 and was expelled the next year for absenteeism.

"I really went to school on poetry," she later told The Washington Post. In the early 1940s, while working as a typist for an elevator repair company, she studied under English poet W.H. Auden at the New School for Social Research in New York.

She was deeply influenced by his criticism of her work. He advised her not to borrow words from his prose, such as "subaltern," and instead find her own voice.

In 1942, she married Jess Paley, a movie cameraman. They had two children before divorcing, Nora Paley, now of Thetford, and Danny Paley, now of Brooklyn, N.Y.

Besides those two children, survivors include her second husband, author Robert Nichols, whom she married in 1972, of Thetford; three stepchildren, Duncan Nichols of Thetford, Eliza Nichols of Manhattan, N.Y., and Kerstin Nichols of Hartford, Vt.; and seven grandchildren.

As a young mother, Ms. Paley drifted away from writing for more than a decade and became involved in community activism in Greenwich Village.

Then she had what she called "the first of two small lucks": a bout of flu that kept her away from her children and gave her time to think and write; and meeting a father of her children's friends who was an editor at Doubleday. He encouraged her writing and ultimately urged Doubleday to publish "The Little Disturbances of Man."

The book received elaborate praise and established her reputation. However, Ms. Paley, who once described herself as "a somewhat combative pacifist and cooperative anarchist," was willingly distracted from her writing by other pursuits. She gave more attention to teaching fiction at Sarah Lawrence College north of New York City and especially to her political activism.

During the Vietnam War, she encouraged young men to avoid military service, participated in rallies against the war and in 1969 went to Hanoi as part of a U.S. delegation to bring home prisoners of war.

She once spent time at Greenwich Village's Women's House of Detention for blocking a military parade. She described her time there in the essay "Six Days,

Some Rememberings," noting among other things that the bullpen is "an odd name for a women's holding facility."

In 1978, she and other members of the War Resisters League were arrested and fined $100 for unlawful entry on the White House lawn and unfurling an antinuclear banner. During this period, she also attended peace conferences in the Soviet Union and El Salvador, meeting in the second with mothers of the disappeared during a bloody anti-government struggle.

A New Yorker, she also maintained a second home in Vermont, where she protested the war in Iraq in a low-key manner she once described as "vigiling on the common."

Ms. Paley could talk wryly of her activism. In her introduction to the "Greenwich Village Peace Center Cookbook," she warned the reader that "this cookbook is for people who are not so neurotically antiauthoritarian as I am -- to whom one can say, 'Add the juice of one lemon' without the furious response, 'Is that a direct order?' "

↑ Index

533. Thomas savage

Re: Poems from Guantánamo

Thu 23 Aug 2007

A poem only has to be a good poem, whether by a "professional poet" or not. Who makes this judgment? All of us, each individually to him or her own self, and none of us. The decision about what is "great" poetry is usually not up to us. We get by by writing what we write. Nevertheless, I'm astounded that the U.S. government has bothered to publish a book of poetry by Guantanamo detainees. Of course, it's suspect as I said before. But poetry usually being a very low priority in the U.S. of A., it's still surprising that this book, which I have not seen, has emerged at all. Let us hope that all of the innocents who are held captive in Guantanamo are released soon, as well. Regards, Tom Savage

Murat Nemet-Nejat <[redacted]> wrote: "just about everything is unsaid. i'm not sure what's really interesting about all poetry is what's said. instead, it can be the inroads it makes into the unsaid.

books are often famous not for what they say but as materializations of or testaments to a situation or time or to people or peoples etc. or as objects emblematic of a concept."

Jim,

This is a great post. Yes, the work of interest for me must be infested with its times. "Infested" here is both a positive and negative value, for what it is, belonging to its time. What may belong to Guantanamo than suppression and suffering, in your words Jim the absence around suffering.

Ciao,

Murat

On 8/23/07, Jim Andrews wrote:
>
> > If you mean the arguments around the book should be taken seriously, I > > agree. If you mean the poetry should be taken seriously, I disagree.
> > Firstly, most of these poems, as I understand the situation, were not > > written by poets. Thus, for a poet to take them seriously is like a > > cosmologist taking the Book of Genesis seriously. Further, even > > those that > > may have been written by persons of talent, they are not their > > poems, but > > fabrications made up by the military. The real poems and stories
> > we will get > > someday when these people are free to write them and publish them
> without > > being censored by the very people who tortured them. You are > > right that it
> > does raise interesting questions, but political ones, not poetic ones.
> >
> > -Joel
>
> my intuition is that you're mistaken, joel.
>
> what's interesting in contemporary poetry, to me, is not usually the > well-crafted poem. though that can be interesting.
>
> there are books being created now, such as ken goldsmith's work and, say, > kervinen's "(no subject)" that are of real interest but are quite > different > from the well-crafted poem or novel or book.
>
> just about everything is unsaid. i'm not sure what's really interesting > about all poetry is what's said. instead, it can be the inroads it makes
> into the unsaid.
>
> books are often famous not for what they say but as materializations of or > testaments to a situation or time or to people or peoples etc. or as > objects

> emblematic of a concept.
>
> poets, when they are famous, are sometimes famous not so much for their > poetry as their place in a network or a movement or a demographic or > whatever.
>
> part of what is significant in poetry is the nature of its intensities of > language, its relations with language, the way that language and its > contemporary states are drawn into the vortex of the poem or book or site
> or > whatever the manifestation of the language/poetry is.
>
> the poems from guantanamo--the poems themselves and also the whole
frame,
> the whole situation--should be of deep concern, particularly in the usa.
> poetry detained. poetry is detained not only in the usa but in other > western > countries. not only poetry but art and thought. by the authorities? well > usually we are our own authorities, aren't we.
>
> you speak of "the real poems and stories" as opposed to the "fabrications > made up by the military". it's of course true that the poems and stories
> in > the book are tortured by the military.
>
> but perhaps what is significant is not the authenticity of the poems but
> the > nature of their inauthenticity. perhaps what is significant is not the > poems
> themselves, authentic or inauthentic but the whole complex of the > situation,
> situated as art. i know it is more of a sort of approach generally > associated with visual art than literary art, but it has its usefulness.
> in > this case, it allows us to see significance where a more traditional > literary approach to the well-crafted poem leaves us in a situation where, > as you say, we can only see the significance of the book in political
> terms,
> not in relation to art and language.
>
> ja

> http://vispo.com
>

Park yourself in front of a world of choices in alternative vehicles.
Visit the Yahoo! Auto Green Center.

↑ Index

534. Tom W. Lewis
Re: Poems from Guantánamo
Thu 23 Aug 2007

---

fyi (I've probably mentioned this here before):

"poet, poem, poetry" derive from the Greek poiein, "to make", also "to cause, effect, create, render, grow, produce, invent..."

Greek pots were often signed by their makers "X me epoien" -- "X made me"

I bring this etymology forward to our time by seeing poetic work as a made thing, a crafted object -- while you can become a master craftsperson through diligent study of the way objects like this are made, someone else can just as easily pick up a lump of clay and mold their own pot with the same tools (their hands) as the master -- the result will be different from the master's, but (theoretically) it will still carry water.

based on this line of reasoning, the act of writing a poem makes the author a poet.

does this fit with what Maria is saying in her comment, or am I off on my own simplistic tangent?

-----Original Message-----
From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Maria Damon
Sent: Thursday, August 23, 2007 8:32
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: Poems from Guantánamo

i am uncomfortable with the aesthetic hierarchy espoused here, reified in the word "talent." it is true that such a thing does and does not exist, but it is certainly not the only, or the most salient, criterion by which we determine whether something has worth. to reify the person of the "poet," is , to my mind, even more dangerous. talk about policing! i do agree, though, that discussions around the poetry is at least as important as the poetry itself, but i might argue this about any "poem."

Joel Weishaus wrote:
> Mairead;

>
> If you mean the arguments around the book should be taken seriously, I > agree. If you mean the poetry should be taken seriously, I disagree.
> Firstly, most of these poems, as I understand the situation, were not > written by poets. Thus, for a poet to take them seriously is like a > cosmologist taking the Book of Genesis seriously. Further, even those that > may have been written by persons of talent, they are not their poems, but > fabrications made up by the military. The real poems and stories we will get > someday when these people are free to write them and publish them without > being censored by the very people who tortured them. You are right that it > does raise interesting questions, but political ones, not poetic ones.
>
> -Joel
>
>
> ---------- Forwarded message ----------
> From: Mairead Byrne <[redacted]>
> Date: Aug 22, 2007 9:49 PM
> Subject: Re: Poems from Guantánamo
> To: [redacted]
>
>
> I find the claim that this book shouldn't be taken seriously,
> "certainly not by poets," to be extraordinary. The extent to which > this book is embroiled in economic realities, both publishing and > political, offers a very strong invitation to this poet, at least, to > take it seriously. Joel, why do you say the book shouldn't be taken > seriously, "certainly not by poets"? Its publication by the > University of Iowa Press, in today's America, and the stated history
> of its publication path make it very interesting to think and talk > about, in my view; as does the tension between the stated and very > visible challenges to its meaning, and all the less visible and > apprehensible challenges. It's like a cup which has lost every single > drop of poetry, except one maybe -- or even just the smell of poetry
> in its pores. Or maybe it's just a cup which, because it has been > used to carry poetry, someone is still willing to carry. There is > meaning, maybe not centrally located. In the short essays, it's > clear how compromised the book is, yet it speaks. Not fluently, but > fluently. The dialogue between poetry and government in this book is > a scrap of reality, a broken but not worthless thing. Why should the > book not be taken seriously, "certainly not by poets"? It is a > product of the economies we work in, and raises many useful questions > about poetry for me, even at the level of nostalgia for a genre. I > don't have the book in front of me as I write, but I've read it. I > can return to the questions it raised for me later.

> Mairead
>
>
>>>> [redacted] 08/22/07 12:51 PM >>>
>>>>
> David:
>
> I don't find this review strange, but right to the point. You have to > be living in an alternative universe to think that this book > represents the real feelings of the prisoners. Not only was it > censored, but the original language wasn't allowed to be published, on > the pretense that it contains secret messages! What could the secret > message possibly be from someone in prison for so many years? One > wonders if this is paranoia, playacting, or just plain stupidity.
> In any case, I think the review is basically sound, and that this book > should not be taken seriously, certainly not by poets! If I have any > problems with the review, it's with the author's contention that a > poem can't reveal the reality of one's life. I think the opposite is > true, only not in the case of this book.
>
> Best,
> Joel Weishaus
>
>
> Date: Tue, 21 Aug 2007 07:59:18 -0700
> From: David Chirot <[redacted]>
> Subject: Poems From Guant=?ISO-8859-1?Q?=E1namo:?= The Detainees S > peak - Books - Review - New York Times
>
> this is a rather strange review--
>
> http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?
_r=1&ref=books&oref=slogin
> ---
>

↑ Index

535. Anny Ballardini
Re: Poems from Guantánamo
Thu 23 Aug 2007

You are off on your tangent which is not simplistic. There are other definitions of poetry. I am also repeating myself, and I apologize to those who did follow me before. Here is a page of quotations gathered from mails sent to the New Poetry List on the Poets' Corner: http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=287

On 8/23/07, Tom W. Lewis <[redacted]> wrote:
> fyi (I've probably mentioned this here before):
>
> "poet, poem, poetry" derive from the Greek poiein, "to make", also "to cause, effect, create, render, grow, produce, invent..."
>
> Greek pots were often signed by their makers "X me epoien" -- "X made me"
>
> I bring this etymology forward to our time by seeing poetic work as a made thing, a crafted object -- while you can become a master craftsperson through diligent study of the way objects like this are made, someone else can just as easily pick up a lump of clay and mold their own pot with the same tools (their hands) as the master -- the result will be different from the master's, but (theoretically) it will still carry water.
>
> based on this line of reasoning, the act of writing a poem makes the author a poet.
>
> does this fit with what Maria is saying in her comment, or am I off on my own simplistic tangent?
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Maria Damon
> Sent: Thursday, August 23, 2007 8:32
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: Poems from Guantánamo
>
> i am uncomfortable with the aesthetic hierarchy espoused here, reified
> in the word "talent." it is true that such a thing does and does not > exist, but it is certainly not the only, or the most salient, criterion
> by which we determine whether something has worth. to reify the person > of the "poet," is , to my mind, even more dangerous. talk about > policing! i do agree, though, that discussions around the poetry is at > least as important as the poetry itself, but i might argue this about > any "poem."

>
> Joel Weishaus wrote:
> > Mairead;
> >
> > If you mean the arguments around the book should be taken seriously, I > > agree. If you mean the poetry should be taken seriously, I disagree.
> > Firstly, most of these poems, as I understand the situation, were not > > written by poets. Thus, for a poet to take them seriously is like a > > cosmologist taking the Book of Genesis seriously. Further, even those that > > may have been written by persons of talent, they are not their poems, but > > fabrications made up by the military. The real poems and stories we will get > > someday when these people are free to write them and publish them
without > > being censored by the very people who tortured them. You are right that it
> > does raise interesting questions, but political ones, not poetic ones.
> >
> > -Joel
> >
> >
> > ---------- Forwarded message ----------
> > From: Mairead Byrne <[redacted]>
> > Date: Aug 22, 2007 9:49 PM
> > Subject: Re: Poems from Guantánamo
> > To: [redacted]
> >
> >
> > I find the claim that this book shouldn't be taken seriously,
> > "certainly not by poets," to be extraordinary. The extent to which > > this book is embroiled in economic realities, both publishing and > > political, offers a very strong invitation to this poet, at least, to > > take it seriously. Joel, why do you say the book shouldn't be taken > > seriously, "certainly not by poets"? Its publication by the > > University of Iowa Press, in today's America, and the stated history
> > of its publication path make it very interesting to think and talk > > about, in my view; as does the tension between the stated and very

> > visible challenges to its meaning, and all the less visible and > > apprehensible challenges. It's like a cup which has lost every single > > drop of poetry, except one maybe -- or even just the smell of poetry
> > in its pores. Or maybe it's just a cup which, because it has been > > used to carry poetry, someone is still willing to carry. There is > > meaning, maybe not centrally located. In the short essays, it's > > clear how compromised the book is, yet it speaks. Not fluently, but > > fluently. The dialogue between poetry and government in this book is > > a scrap of reality, a broken but not worthless thing. Why should the > > book not be taken seriously, "certainly not by poets"? It is a > > product of the economies we work in, and raises many useful questions > > about poetry for me, even at the level of nostalgia for a genre. I > > don't have the book in front of me as I write, but I've read it. I > > can return to the questions it raised for me later.
> > Mairead
> >
> >
> >>>> [redacted] 08/22/07 12:51 PM >>>
> >>>>
> > David:
> >
> > I don't find this review strange, but right to the point. You have to > > be living in an alternative universe to think that this book > > represents the real feelings of the prisoners. Not only was it > > censored, but the original language wasn't allowed to be published, on > > the pretense that it contains secret messages! What could the secret > > message possibly be from someone in prison for so many years? One > > wonders if this is paranoia, playacting, or just plain stupidity.
> > In any case, I think the review is basically sound, and that this book > > should not be taken seriously, certainly not by poets! If I have any > > problems with the review, it's with the author's contention that a > > poem can't reveal the reality of one's life. I think the opposite is > > true, only not in the case of this book.
> >
> > Best,
> > Joel Weishaus
> >
> >
> > Date: Tue, 21 Aug 2007 07:59:18 -0700
> > From: David Chirot <[redacted]>
> > Subject: Poems From Guant=?ISO-8859-1?Q?=E1namo:?= The Detainees S > > peak - Books - Review - New York Times

> >
> > this is a rather strange review--
> >
> >
http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?
_r=1&ref=books&oref=slogin
> > ---
> >
>

↑ Index

536. Gabriel Gudding
précis for Rhode Island Notebook
Thu 23 Aug 2007

_____
http://gabrielgudding.blogspot.com

↑ Index

537. Jim Andrews
Re: Disarming the teaching of history in Israel and Palestine
Thu 23 Aug 2007

Dear David,

> does this organization still exist?

Yes, PRIME is still in existence. The next phase of the "Learning Each Other's Historical Narrative" project is to build a Web site for the Palestinian and Israeli High school teachers who teach http://vispo.com/PRIME/leohn1.pdf . I'm hoping to be able to help them with the site. Of course it will be in Arabic and Hebrew, mainly. But I can help with design and perhaps programming, if appropriate.

> trying to learn more of it online, the last dated entries for it i can find are from October 2005

Yes, that's right. The http://vispo.com/PRIME site is not, of course, their central concern.

As you note in your post, things are pretty tough for this sort of initiative. Peace-building in the Middle East. Hardest job in the world? Pretty slow going, I think.

As you know, David, I forwarded your post to Dan and Sami, hoping one of them might reply. But English is not their first language, so I think it's tough for them to respond without a translator for their response.

Thanks for your great post, as always, though, David, and sorry I can't address your post in more detail. I'm just their HTML guy for their site. It's beyond me to try to address some of the issues you raise.

ja

> i noted on the information at your site that of phases listed as having been completed, the last one seems to be 2004.
>
> The funding for the first three years is listed as from the US State Department and Ford Foundation.
>
> Most of what is at the site seems to be about proposals, rather than actual current or recent events. Is there any way to find out what the current status is?
>
> East Jerusalem, mentioned in one of the articles as being the source for a student quote, is now almost impossible for Palestinians from the outside to enter. The new "Separation" road on which Palestians are allowed to travel on the other side of a Wall --painted to simulate mosaics--has only three exits in toto, none for East Jerusalem.
> (The road was featured in a front page story on the NY Times as i recall 11 august 2007.)
>
> The Wall, Security Fences, "Settlers Only" roads, continual checkpoints and the annual growth rate in numbers of the illegal settler population now exceeding that of Israel itself, have all put so many obstacles in the way of Palestinians attending schools, tech schools and Universities that the educational system for Palestinians, along with everything else, is in ruins. (500, 000 in the West Bank currently receive 67% of the amount of water per person per year considered the minimum for human survival. 80% of Gaza is on the verge of starvation. Demolitions, arrests, beatings, deaths from IDF and settlers occur on a daily basis. Amnesty International has issued Ethnic Cleansing calls for a stop a few days ago in the Jordan Valley. The Knesset is debating a law prohibiting Israeli Abba citizens from purchasing their own land from the National Public Lands in Israel.)
> Just to get to a still existing school is becoming prohibitively difficult, as well as more and more dangerous. (Amnesty International reported that of 124 Palestinian children killed last year, 80 were due to sniper fire from the IDF or settlers. The children's fatal wounds were in the area of the upper back and neck at base of the skull. They had been shot from behind, execution style.)
> A great number of schools throughout the Occupied Territories have also been bulldozed, or appropriated by the IDF for surveillance posts, or given to settlers to use for other purposes.

Education to bring understanding and a desire for peace is being destroyed, while the seeds of hate, despair, death, are being sown.

Inside the Walled off out door prisons, without water, starving, shot at, bombed, homes, hospitals, schools demolished, electricity long gone, continually threatened and bullied, arrested, disappeared, if the prisoners turn against themselves, all the better for the warders.

Meanwhile, the Occupiers, the only nuclear power in the Mideast, now the world's 4th largest exporter of weapons and security systems, technologies, equipment will be receiving over 3 billion dollars a year more in US military aid starting shortly.

On 8/16/07, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:
As some of you may recall, vispo.com hosts the Web site of PRIME, the Peace Research Institute in the Middle East. PRIME is mainly run by Dan Bar-On, an Israeli scholar, and Sammi Adwan, a Palestinian scholar.

There are two new documents on the Web site you may find of interest.

LEARNING EACH OTHER'S HISTORICAL NARRATIVE
http://vispo.com/PRIME/leohn1.pdf
This is a preliminary translation into English of a document developed by Israeli and Palestinian High school teachers that presents to grade 9 and 10 students in Israel and Palestine something of the historical narrative of the 'other side'. This project is an attempt to "disarm the teaching of history". There are articles about this project at http://vispo.com/PRIME/patience.htm (a copy of a USA Today article) and at http://vispo.com/PRIME/herzog.htm (a copy of an article from the Globe and Mail). This PRIME project was awarded the inaugual Goldberg IIE prize for peace-building in the middle east (see http://vispo.com/PRIME/goldbergprize.htm).

THE PRIME SHARED HISTORY PROJECT
Peace-Building Project Under Fire
http://vispo.com/PRIME/iram192.pdf

> This is an article by Dan Bar-On and Sami Adwan concerning the background > and some of the research concerning the 'Learning Each Other's Historical > Narrative' project.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com

↑ Index

538. Alexander Jorgensen
Re: Fascinating - Mother Teresa's Crisis of Faith
Fri 24 Aug 2007

Wish this article had been available before I'd left Kolkata a few weeks back.

http://www.time.com/time/printout/0,8816,1655415,00.html

Mother Teresa's Crisis of Faith -
By David Van BiemaJesus has a very special love for you. As for me, the silence and the emptiness is so great that I look and do not see, listen and do not hear.
— Mother Teresa to the Rev. Michael Van Der Peet, September 1979

On Dec. 11, 1979, Mother Teresa, the "Saint of the Gutters," went to Oslo. Dressed in her signature blue-bordered sari and shod in sandals despite below-zero temperatures, the former Agnes Bojaxhiu received that ultimate worldly accolade, the Nobel Peace Prize. In her acceptance lecture, Teresa, whose Missionaries of Charity had grown from a one-woman folly in Calcutta in 1948 into a global beacon of self-abnegating care, delivered the kind of message the world had come to expect from her. "It is not enough for us to say, 'I love God, but I do not love my neighbor,'" she said, since in dying on the Cross, God had "[made] himself the hungry one — the naked one — the homeless one." Jesus' hunger, she said, is what "you and I must find" and alleviate. She condemned abortion and bemoaned youthful drug addiction in the West. Finally, she suggested that the upcoming Christmas holiday should remind the world "that radiating joy is real" because Christ is everywhere — "Christ in our hearts, Christ in the poor we meet, Christ in the smile we give and in the smile that we receive." Yet less than three months earlier, in a letter to a spiritual confidant, the Rev. Michael van der Peet, that is only now being made public, she wrote with weary familiarity of a different Christ, an absent one. "Jesus has a very special love for you," she assured Van der Peet. "[But] as for me, the silence and the emptiness is so great, that I look and do not see, — Listen and do not hear — the tongue moves [in prayer] but does not speak ... I want you to pray for me — that I let Him have [a] free hand." The two statements, 11 weeks apart, are extravagantly dissonant. The first is typical of the woman the world thought it knew. The second sounds as though it had wandered in from some 1950s existentialist drama. Together they suggest a startling portrait in self-contradiction — that one of the great human icons of the past 100 years, whose remarkable deeds seemed inextricably connected to her closeness to God and who was routinely observed in silent and seemingly peaceful prayer by her associates as well as the television camera, was living out a very different spiritual reality privately, an arid landscape from which the deity had disappeared. And in fact, that appears to be the case. A new, innocuously titled book, Mother Teresa: Come Be My Light (Doubleday), consisting primarily of correspondence between Teresa and her confessors and superiors over a period of 66 years, provides the spiritual counterpoint to a life known mostly through its works. The letters, many of them preserved against her wishes (she had requested that they be destroyed but was overruled by her church), reveal that for the last nearly half-century of her life she felt no presence of God whatsoever — or, as the book's compiler and editor, the Rev. Brian Kolodiejchuk, writes, "neither in her heart or in the eucharist." That absence seems to have started at almost precisely the time she began tending the poor and dying in Calcutta, and — except for a five-week break in 1959 — never abated. Although perpetually cheery in public, the Teresa of the letters lived in a state of deep and abiding spiritual pain. In more than 40 communications, many of which have never before been published, she bemoans the "dryness," "darkness," "loneliness" and "torture" she is undergoing. She compares the experience to hell and at one point says it has driven her to doubt the existence of heaven and even of God. She is acutely aware of the discrepancy between her inner state and her public demeanor. "The smile," she writes, is "a mask" or "a cloak that covers everything." Similarly, she wonders whether she is engaged in verbal deception. "I spoke as if my very heart was in love with God — tender, personal love," she remarks to an adviser. "If you were [there], you would have said, 'What hypocrisy.'" Says the Rev. James Martin, an editor at the Jesuit magazine America and the author of My Life with the Saints, a book that dealt with far briefer reports in 2003 of Teresa's doubts: "I've never read a saint's life where the saint has such an intense spiritual darkness. No one knew she was that tormented." Recalls Kolodiejchuk, Come Be My Light's editor: "I read one letter to the Sisters [of Teresa's Missionaries of Charity], and their mouths just dropped open. It will give a whole new dimension to the way people understand her." The book is hardly the work of some antireligious investigative reporter who Dumpster-dived for Teresa's correspondence. Kolodiejchuk, a senior Missionaries of Charity member, is her postulator, responsible for petitioning for her sainthood and collecting the supporting materials. (Thus far she has been beatified; the next step is canonization.) The letters in the book were gathered as part of that process. The church anticipates spiritually fallow periods. Indeed, the Spanish mystic St. John of the Cross in the 16th century coined the term the "dark night" of the soul to describe a characteristic stage in the growth of some spiritual masters. Teresa's may be the most extensive such case on record. (The "dark night" of the 18th century mystic St. Paul of the Cross lasted 45 years; he ultimately recovered.) Yet Kolodiejchuk sees it in St. John's context, as darkness within faith. Teresa found ways, starting in the early 1960s, to live with it and abandoned neither her belief nor her work. Kolodiejchuk produced the book as proof of the faith-filled perseverance that he sees as her most spiritually heroic act. Two very different Catholics predict that the book will be a landmark. The Rev. Matthew Lamb, chairman of the theology department at the conservative Ave Maria University in Florida, thinks Come Be My Light will eventually rank with St. Augustine's Confessions and Thomas Merton's The Seven Storey Mountain as an autobiography of spiritual ascent. Martin of America, a much more liberal institution, calls the book "a new ministry for Mother Teresa, a written ministry of her interior life," and says, "It may be remembered as just as important as her ministry to the poor. It would be a ministry to people who had experienced some doubt, some absence of God in their lives. And you know who that is? Everybody. Atheists, doubters, seekers, believers, everyone." Not all atheists and doubters will agree. Both Kolodiejchuk and Martin assume that Teresa's inability to perceive Christ in her life did not mean he wasn't there. In fact, they see his absence as part of the divine gift that enabled her to do great work. But to the U.S.'s increasingly assertive cadre of atheists, that argument will seem absurd. They will see the book's Teresa more like the woman in the archetypal country-and-western song who holds a torch for her husband 30 years after he left to buy a pack of cigarettes and never returned. Says Christopher Hitchens, author of The Missionary Position, a scathing polemic on Teresa, and more recently of the atheist manifesto God Is Not Great: "She was no more exempt from the realization that religion is a human fabrication than any other person, and that her attempted cure was more and more professions of faith could only have deepened the pit that she had dug for herself." Meanwhile, some familiar with the smiling mother's extraordinary drive may diagnose her condition less as a gift of God than as a subconscious attempt at the most radical kind of humility: she punished herself with a crippling failure to counterbalance her great successes. Come Be My Light is that rare thing, a posthumous autobiography that could cause a wholesale reconsideration of a major public figure — one way or another. It raises questions about God and faith, the engine behind great achievement, and the persistence of love, divine and human. That it does so not in any organized, intentional form but as a hodgepodge of desperate notes not intended for daylight should leave readers only more convinced that it is authentic — and that they are, somewhat shockingly, touching the true inner life of a modern saint. Prequel: Near Ecstatic Communion [Jesus:] Wilt thou refuse to do this for me? ... You have become my Spouse for my love — you have come to India for Me. The thirst you had for souls brought you so far — Are you afraid to take one more step for Your Spouse — for me — for souls? Is your generosity grown cold? Am I a second to you? [Teresa:] Jesus, my own Jesus — I am only Thine — I am so stupid — I do not know what to say but do with me whatever You wish — as You wish — as long as you wish. [But] why can't I be a perfect Loreto Nun — here — why can't I be like everybody else. [Jesus:] I want Indian Nuns, Missionaries of Charity, who would be my fire of love amongst the poor, the sick, the dying and the little children ... You are I know the most incapable person — weak and sinful but just because you are that — I want to use You for My glory. Wilt thou refuse? — in a prayer dialogue recounted to Archbishop Ferdinand Perier, January 1947 On Sept. 10, 1946, after 17 years as a teacher in Calcutta with the Loreto Sisters (an uncloistered, education-oriented community based in Ireland), Mother Mary Teresa, 36, took the 400-mile (645-km) train trip to Darjeeling. She had been working herself sick, and her superiors ordered her to relax during her annual retreat in the Himalayan foothills. On the ride out, she reported, Christ spoke to her. He called her to abandon teaching and work instead in "the slums" of the city, dealing directly with "the poorest of the poor" — the sick, the dying, beggars and street children. "Come, Come, carry Me into the holes of the poor," he told her. "Come be My light." The goal was to be both material and evangelistic — as Kolodiejchuk puts it, "to help them live their lives with dignity [and so] encounter God's infinite love, and having come to know Him, to love and serve Him in return." It was wildly audacious — an unfunded, single-handed crusade (Teresa stipulated that she and her nuns would share their beneficiaries' poverty and started out alone) to provide individualized service to the poorest in a poor city made desperate by riots. The local Archbishop, Ferdinand Périer, was initially skeptical. But her letters to him, preserved, illustrate two linked characteristics — extreme tenacity and a profound personal bond to Christ. When Périer hesitated, Teresa, while calling herself a "little nothing," bombarded him with notes suggesting that he refer the question to an escalating list of authorities — the local apostolic delegation, her Mother General, the Pope. And when she felt all else had failed, she revealed the spiritual topper: a dramatic (melodramatic, really) dialogue with a "Voice" she eventually revealed to be Christ's. It ended with Jesus' emphatic reiteration of his call to her: "You are I know the most incapable person — weak and sinful but just because you are that — I want to use You for My glory. Wilt thou refuse?" Mother Teresa had visions, including one of herself conversing with Christ on the Cross. Her confessor, Father Celeste Van Exem, was convinced that her mystical experiences were genuine. "[Her] union with Our Lord has been continual and so deep and violent that rapture does not seem very far," he commented. Teresa later wrote simply, "Jesus gave Himself to me." Then on Jan. 6, 1948, Périer, after consulting the Vatican, finally gave permission for Teresa to embark on her second calling. And Jesus took himself away again. The Onset Lord, my God, who am I that You should forsake me? The Child of your Love — and now become as the most hated one — the one — You have thrown away as unwanted — unloved. I call, I cling, I want — and there is no One to answer — no One on Whom I can cling — no, No One. — Alone ... Where is my Faith — even deep down right in there is nothing, but emptiness & darkness — My God — how painful is this unknown pain — I have no Faith — I dare not utter the words & thoughts that crowd in my heart — & make me suffer untold agony. So many unanswered questions live within me afraid to uncover them — because of the blasphemy — If there be God — please forgive me — When I try to raise my thoughts to Heaven — there is such convicting emptiness that those very thoughts return like sharp knives & hurt my very soul. — I am told God loves me — and yet the reality of darkness & coldness & emptiness is so great that nothing touches my soul. Did I make a mistake in surrendering blindly to the Call of the Sacred Heart? — addressed to Jesus, at the suggestion of a confessor, undated In the first half of 1948, Teresa took a basic medical course before launching herself alone onto the streets of Calcutta. She wrote, "My soul at present is in perfect peace and joy." Kolodiejchuk includes her moving description of her first day on the job: "The old man lying on the street — not wanted — all alone just sick and dying — I gave him carborsone and water to drink and the old Man — was so strangely grateful ... Then we went to Taltala Bazaar, and there was a very poor woman dying I think of starvation more than TB ... I gave her something which will help her to sleep. — I wonder how long she will last." But two months later, shortly after her major triumph of locating a space for her headquarters, Kolodiejchuk's files find her troubled. "What tortures of loneliness," she wrote. "I wonder how long will my heart suffer this?" This complaint could be understood as an initial response to solitude and hardship were it not for subsequent letters. The more success Teresa had — and half a year later so many young women had joined her society that she needed to move again — the worse she felt. In March 1953, she wrote Périer, "Please pray specially for me that I may not spoil His work and that Our Lord may show Himself — for there is such terrible darkness within me, as if everything was dead. It has been like this more or less from the time I started 'the work.'" Périer may have missed the note of desperation. "God guides you, dear Mother," he answered avuncularly. "You are not so much in the dark as you think ... You have exterior facts enough to see that God blesses your work ... Feelings are not required and often may be misleading." And yet feelings — or rather, their lack — became her life's secret torment. How can you assume the lover's ardor when he no longer grants you his voice, his touch, his very presence? The problem was exacerbated by an inhibition to even describe it. Teresa reported on several occasions inviting a confessor to visit and then being unable to speak. Eventually, one thought to ask her to write the problem down, and she complied. "The more I want him — the less I am wanted," she wrote Périer in 1955. A year later she sounded desolate: "Such deep longing for God — and ... repulsed — empty — no faith — no love — no zeal. — [The saving of] Souls holds no attraction — Heaven means nothing — pray for me please that I keep smiling at Him in spite of everything." At the suggestion of a confessor, she wrote the agonized plea that begins this section, in which she explored the theological worst-possible-case implications of her dilemma. That letter and another one from 1959 ("What do I labour for? If there be no God — there can be no soul — if there is no Soul then Jesus — You also are not true") are the only two that sound any note of doubt of God's existence. But she frequently bemoaned an inability to pray: "I utter words of Community prayers — and try my utmost to get out of every word the sweetness it has to give — But my prayer of union is not there any longer — I no longer pray." As the Missionaries of Charity flourished and gradually gained the attention of her church and the world at large, Teresa progressed from confessor to confessor the way some patients move through their psychoanalysts. Van Exem gave way to Périer, who gave way in 1959 to the Rev. (later Cardinal) Lawrence Picachy, who was succeeded by the Rev. Joseph Neuner in 1961. By the 1980s the chain included figures such as Bishop William Curlin of Charlotte, N.C. For these confessors, she developed a kind of shorthand of pain, referring almost casually to "my darkness" and to Jesus as "the Absent One." There was one respite. In October 1958, Pope Pius XII died, and requiem Masses were celebrated around the Catholic world. Teresa prayed to the deceased Pope for a "proof that God is pleased with the Society." And "then and there," she rejoiced, "disappeared the long darkness ... that strange suffering of 10 years." Unfortunately, five weeks later she reported being "in the tunnel" once more. And although, as we shall see, she found a way to accept the absence, it never lifted again. Five years after her Nobel, a Jesuit priest in the Calcutta province noted that "Mother came ... to speak about the excruciating night in her soul. It was not a passing phase but had gone on for years." A 1995 letter discussed her "spiritual dryness." She died in 1997. Explanations Tell me, Father, why is there so much pain and darkness in my soul? — to the Rev. Lawrence Picachy, August 1959 Why did Teresa's communication with Jesus, so vivid and nourishing in the months before the founding of the Missionaries, evaporate so suddenly? Interestingly, secular and religious explanations travel for a while on parallel tracks. Both understand (although only one celebrates) that identification with Christ's extended suffering on the Cross, undertaken to redeem humanity, is a key aspect of Catholic spirituality. Teresa told her nuns that physical poverty ensured empathy in "giving themselves" to the suffering poor and established a stronger bond with Christ's redemptive agony. She wrote in 1951 that the

Passion was the only aspect of Jesus' life that she was interested in sharing: "I want to ... drink ONLY [her emphasis] from His chalice of pain." And so she did, although by all indications not in a way she had expected. Kolodiejchuk finds divine purpose in the fact that Teresa's spiritual spigot went dry just as she prevailed over her church's perceived hesitations and saw a successful way to realize Jesus' call for her. "She was a very strong personality," he suggests. "And a strong personality needs stronger purification" as an antidote to pride. As proof that it worked, he cites her written comment after receiving an important prize in the Philippines in the 1960s: "This means nothing to me, because I don't have Him." And yet "the question is, Who determined the abandonment she experienced?" says Dr. Richard Gottlieb, a teacher at the New York Psychoanalytic Society & Institute who has written about the church and who was provided a copy of the book by TIME. "Could she have imposed it on herself?" Psychologists have long recognized that people of a certain personality type are conflicted about their high achievement and find ways to punish themselves. Gottlieb notes that Teresa's ambitions for her ministry were tremendous. Both he and Kolodiejchuk are fascinated by her statement, "I want to love Jesus as he has never been loved before." Remarks the priest: "That's a kind of daring thing to say." Yet her letters are full of inner conflict about her accomplishments. Rather than simply giving all credit to God, Gottlieb observes, she agonizes incessantly that "any taking credit for her accomplishments — if only internally — is sinful" and hence, perhaps, requires a price to be paid. A mild secular analog, he says, might be an executive who commits a horrific social gaffe at the instant of a crucial promotion. For Teresa, "an occasion for a modicum of joy initiated a significant quantity of misery," and her subsequent successes led her to perpetuate it. Gottlieb also suggests that starting her ministry "may have marked a turning point in her relationship with Jesus," whose urgent claims she was finally in a position to fulfill. Being the active party, he speculates, might have scared her, and in the end, the only way to accomplish great things might have been in the permanent and less risky role of the spurned yet faithful lover. The atheist position is simpler. In 1948, Hitchens ventures, Teresa finally woke up, although she could not admit it. He likens her to die-hard Western communists late in the cold war: "There was a huge amount of cognitive dissonance," he says. "They thought, 'Jesus, the Soviet Union is a failure, [but] I'm not supposed to think that. It means my life is meaningless.' They carried on somehow, but the mainspring was gone. And I think once the mainspring is gone, it cannot be repaired." That, he says, was Teresa. Most religious readers will reject that explanation, along with any that makes her the author of her own misery — or even defines it as true misery. Martin, responding to the torch-song image of Teresa, counterproposes her as the heroically constant spouse. "Let's say you're married and you fall in love and you believe with all your heart that marriage is a sacrament. And your wife,

God forbid, gets a stroke and she's comatose. And you will never experience her love again. It's like loving and caring for a person for 50 years and once in a while you complain to your spiritual director, but you know on the deepest level that she loves you even though she's silent and that what you're doing makes sense. Mother Teresa knew that what she was doing made sense." Integration I can't express in words — the gratitude I owe you for your kindness to me — for the first time in ... years — I have come to love the darkness — for I believe now that it is part of a very, very small part of Jesus' darkness & pain on earth. You have taught me to accept it [as] a 'spiritual side of your work' as you wrote — Today really I felt a deep joy — that Jesus can't go anymore through the agony — but that He wants to go through it in me. — to Neuner, Circa 1961 There are two responses to trauma: to hold onto it in all its vividness and remain its captive, or without necessarily "conquering" it, to gradually integrate it into the day-by-day. After more than a decade of open-wound agony, Teresa seems to have begun regaining her spiritual equilibrium with the help of a particularly perceptive adviser. The Rev. Joseph Neuner, whom she met in the late 1950s and confided in somewhat later, was already a well-known theologian, and when she turned to him with her "darkness," he seems to have told her the three things she needed to hear: that there was no human remedy for it (that is, she should not feel responsible for affecting it); that feeling Jesus is not the only proof of his being there, and her very craving for God was a "sure sign" of his "hidden presence" in her life; and that the absence was in fact part of the "spiritual side" of her work for Jesus. This counsel clearly granted Teresa a tremendous sense of release. For all that she had expected and even craved to share in Christ's Passion, she had not anticipated that she might recapitulate the particular moment on the Cross when he asks, "My God, My God, why have you forsaken me?" The idea that rather than a nihilistic vacuum, his felt absence might be the ordeal she had prayed for, that her perseverance in its face might echo his faith unto death on the Cross, that it might indeed be a grace, enhancing the efficacy of her calling, made sense of her pain. Neuner would later write, "It was the redeeming experience of her life when she realized that the night of her heart was the special share she had in Jesus' passion." And she thanked Neuner profusely: "I can't express in words — the gratitude I owe you for your kindness to me — for the first time in ... years — I have come to love the darkness. " Not that it didn't continue to torment her. Years later, describing the joy in Jesus experienced by some of her nuns, she observed dryly to Neuner, "I just have the joy of having nothing — not even the reality of the Presence of God [in the Eucharist]." She described her soul as like an "ice block." Yet she recognized Neuner's key distinction, writing, "I accept not in my feelings — but with my will, the Will of God — I accept His will." Although she still occasionally worried that she might "turn a Judas to Jesus in this painful darkness," with the passage of years the absence morphed from a potential wrecking ball into a kind of ragged cornerstone. Says Gottlieb, the psychoanalyst: "What is remarkable is that she integrated it in a way that enabled her to make it the organizing center of her personality, the beacon for her ongoing spiritual life." Certainly, she understood it as essential enough to project it into her afterlife. "If I ever become a Saint — I will surely be one of 'darkness.' I will continually be absent from Heaven — to [light] the light of those in darkness on earth," she wrote in 1962. Theologically, this is a bit odd since most orthodox Christianity defines heaven as God's eternal presence and doesn't really provide for regular no-shows at the heavenly feast. But it is, Kolodiejchuk suggests, her most moving statement, since the sacrifice involved is infinite. "When she wrote, 'I am willing to suffer ... for all eternity, if this [is] possible,'" he says, "I said, Wow." He contends that the letters reveal her as holier than anyone knew. However formidable her efforts on Christ's behalf, it is even more astounding to realize that she achieved them when he was not available to her — a bit like a person who believes she can't walk winning the Olympic 100 meters. Kolodiejchuk goes even further. Catholic theologians recognize two types of "dark night": the first is purgative, cleansing the contemplative for a "final union" with Christ; the second is "reparative," and continues after such a union, so that he or she may participate in a state of purity even closer to that of Jesus and Mary, who suffered for human salvation despite being without sin. By the end, writes Kolodiejchuk, "by all indications this was the case with Mother Teresa." That puts her in rarefied company. A New Ministry If this brings You glory — if souls are brought to you — with joy I accept all to the end of my life. — to Jesus, undated But for most people, Teresa's ranking among Catholic saints may be less important than a more general implication of Come Be My Light: that if she could carry on for a half-century without God in her head or heart, then perhaps people not quite as saintly can cope with less extreme versions of the same problem. One powerful instance of this may have occurred very early on. In 1968, British writer-turned-filmmaker Malcolm Muggeridge visited Teresa. Muggeridge had been an outspoken agnostic, but by the time he arrived with a film crew in Calcutta he was in full spiritual-search mode. Beyond impressing him with her work and her holiness, she wrote a letter to him in 1970 that addressed his doubts full-bore. "Your longing for God is so deep and yet He keeps Himself away from you," she wrote. "He must be forcing Himself to do so — because he loves you so much — the personal love Christ has for you is infinite — The Small difficulty you have re His Church is finite — Overcome the finite with the infinite." Muggeridge apparently did. He became an outspoken Christian apologist and converted to Catholicism in 1982. His 1969 film, Something Beautiful for God, supported by a 1971 book of the same title, made Teresa an international sensation. At the time, Muggeridge was something of a unique case. A child of privilege who became a minor celebrity, he was hardly Teresa's target audience. Now, with the publication of Come Be My Light, we can all play Muggeridge. Kolodiejchuk thinks the book may act as an antidote to a cultural problem. "The tendency in our spiritual life but also in our more general attitude toward love is that our feelings are all that is going on," he says. "And so to us the totality of love is what we feel. But to really love someone requires commitment, fidelity and vulnerability. Mother Teresa wasn't 'feeling' Christ's love, and she could have shut down. But she was up at 4:30 every morning for Jesus, and still writing to him, 'Your happiness is all I want.' That's a powerful example even if you are not talking in exclusively religious terms." America's Martin wants to talk precisely in religious terms. "Everything she's experiencing," he says, "is what average believers experience in their spiritual lives writ large. I have known scores of people who have felt abandoned by God and had doubts about God's existence. And this book expresses that in such a stunning way but shows her full of complete trust at the same time." He takes a breath. "Who would have thought that the person who was considered the most faithful woman in the world struggled like that with her faith?" he asks. "And who would have thought that the one thought to be the most ardent of believers could be a saint to the skeptics?" Martin has long used Teresa as an example to parishioners of self-emptying love. Now, he says, he will use her extraordinary faith in the face of overwhelming silence to illustrate how doubt is a natural part of everyone's life, be it an average believer's or a world-famous saint's. Into the Light of Day Please destroy any letters or anything I have written. — to Picachy, April 1959 Consistent with her ongoing fight against pride, Teresa's rationale for suppressing her personal correspondence was "I want the work to remain only His." If the letters became public, she explained to Picachy, "people will think more of me — less of Jesus." The particularly holy are no less prone than the rest of us to misjudge the workings of history — or, if you will, of God's providence. Teresa considered the perceived absence of God in her life as her most shameful secret but eventually learned that it could be seen as a gift abetting her calling. If her worries about publicizing it also turn out to be misplaced — if a book of hasty, troubled notes turns out to ease the spiritual road of thousands of fellow believers, there would be no shame in having been wrong — but happily, even wonderfully wrong — twice.

--

Marcus Aurelius: "The object of life is not to be on the side of the majority, but to escape finding oneself in the ranks of the insane."

↑ Index

539. Alexander Jorgensen

The internet is "dead and boring," in an interview with Portfolio.com

Fri 24 Aug 2007

I while back, I offered some information related to an online debate related to the usefulness of the internet with regards to art. Most of the replies, and I chose to sit back on the discussion, seemed quite defensive (perhaps not surprisingly) and dismissive.

Anyway, here's another to ponder:

http://www.portfolio.com/views/columns/the-world-according-to/2007/08/23/Mark-Cuban

Mark Cuban
Aug 23 2007 The maverick investor discusses the internet, trading, high-definition TV, and Rupert Murdoch.

Join the Conversation

Start the Conversation

Add a Comment

document.getElementById('marginColumn').className = 'marginColumnDisplayed'
Mark Cuban
Photograph by: Getty Images

Much like Friedrich Nietzsche, who scandalized 19th-century Europe by declaring that "God is dead," Mark Cuban has some bad news for all the true believers who are investing billions in the Web.

The internet is "dead and boring," Cuban says in an interview with Portfolio.com. "We have reached the point of diminishing returns with today's internet. The speed of broadband to your home won't increase much more in the next five years than it has in the last five years. That is not enough to work as a platform for new levels of applications that will require much, much higher levels of bandwidth."

Of course, the 49-year-old Cuban made his $2.3 billion fortune as an internet entrepreneur. In 1999, he and business partner Todd Wagner sold their Web TV company, Broadcast.com, to Yahoo for $5.7 billion in Yahoo stock, then cashed out before the tech market imploded -- leaving Cuban with plenty of money to buy a basketball team, the Dallas Mavericks; launch a high-definition television network, HDNet; hire Dan Rather; and start a vertically integrated entertainment company, 2929 Entertainment, that makes and distributes movies and owns a chain of theaters.

He apparently still has enough left over to bid on the Chicago Cubs, recently put on the block by the Tribune Co., though he's uncharacteristically mum about his plans. "If I told you I would have to kill you," says Cuban, who last month officially joined the list of prospective buyers by applying to Major League Baseball to examine the team's books. "I'm sworn to secrecy."

Answering questions by email from the Cayman Islands, where he was vacationing with his family and recovering from hip-replacement surgery, Cuban also shared his views on Rupert Murdoch's acquisition of the Wall Street Journal, Yahoo versus Google, day-trading, his personal investment strategy, and why he won't pull the plug on his much-criticized business journalism operation, Sharesleuth.com, in which he shorts companies that the site plans to trash-hoping to turn a tidy profit on his pre-publication insider knowledge.
Lloyd Grove: As recently as May 2007, you told the House Subcommittee on Telecommunications and the Internet that government policy could encourage internet providers to make the necessary investment in fiber optics to significantly increase bandwidth to home users, in line with industrialized nations such as Japan, Germany, and South Korea, and that the economic benefits would eventually outweigh the costs. But last month, you declared: “The internet is dead. It’s over.” You said it’s “for old people” and it’s a “stagnant consumer platform.” Did you change your mind between May and July? Who or what killed the internet? And aren’t you biting the hand that fed you?

Mark Cuban: The internet of today versus what I suggested to the committee would happen if internet speeds to the home increased to 1 gigabyte per second, is like comparing the plane Orville and Wilbur Wright built in 1903 to a brand-new Boeing.

We have reached a point of diminishing returns with today’s internet. The speed of broadband to your home won’t increase much more in the next five years than it has in the last five years. That is not enough to work as a platform for new levels of applications that will require much, much higher levels of bandwidth.

Broadband to the home isn’t fast enough for downloads of movies at DVD quality to be ubiquitous. That means it’s no longer a platform for technological innovation.

Think of it this way. Way back when, electricity changed the world. It was the platform for everything electronic that we do today. Do you get excited about electricity or is it just a utility? Maybe old people who remember the advent of electricity still get excited about it. No one else does.

The internet is in the same position today. It's no longer an exciting platform for societal and business change. It's a utility. It's something that is exciting to people who remember the old days of the internet.

The only way to change that is to upgrade the platform for bandwidth transport across the country to a minimum of 1 gigabyte per second throughout to every home. At that point kids will come up with new and unique applications that we can't imagine today. That's when it becomes exciting. Until then, it's dead and boring.

L.G.: What percentage of U.S. households have access to HDNet and HDNet Movies, and what will that number be a year from now, and when will there be 100 percent penetration? What percentage of households have HDTVs? Other than Time Warner, what other major cable providers carry your channels?

M.C.: Since we are on DirecTV and Dish Network, pretty much 100 percent have access to us. On the cable side, we are on Time Warner, Verizon, AT&T, Charter, Mediacom, Insight, and about 30 others in the U.S. as well as Canada; there is a full list at www.hd.net, or better yet, just call your cable, telco, or sat provider and just order us. It's easy.

L.G.: Why the resistance from Comcast and Cablevision? How many viewers are actually watching HDNet programming? Where do you see HDNet in five years? And five years from now, will Dan Rather still have his own show on HDNet?
M.C.: I don't have exact viewership numbers; no one does. But where we are rated in and around L.A., we often, if not usually, have a bigger share of the HD viewing audience than the other networks: ESPN, Discovery, TNT, Universal, MTV, HBO, Showtime, Cinemax, and sometimes even more than the broadcast networks on weekends.

We plan on continuing to have great programming that people love to watch and growing our subscription base.

We are the only individually owned network available today. I think that puts us in a unique position. Sure, it's tough competing against huge conglomerates like G.E. and Comcast-owned programming for carriage. No question they have the leverage and use it. But our viewers love us and we think that still counts for something, and fortunately we have great partners like DirecTV, Dish, Time Warner, Charter, Verizon, etc., that have happy HDNet subscribers because of our partnership.

And yes, we hope Dan Rather continues with Dan Rather Reports for another 100 years.

L.G.: How much of your time do you spend on—and how big an investment have you made in—2929 Entertainment? Why movies? Why low-budget art-house movies? Are you in it for fun—and hanging out with George Clooney—or profit?

M.C.: Most of my time is spent on HDNet and the original movies that HDNet makes or buys for our unique Sneak Preview program (where we release movies to our HDNet subscribers and our partners up to two weeks before they are in theaters).

We have a vertically integrated entertainment company. We make movies; we show them in Landmark theaters; we show them on HDNet; we release them through our own DVD company, Magnolia Home Entertainment, and distribute them through Magnolia Pictures. Being vertically integrated gives us the unique opportunity to distribute our movies how and where we want to.

And low-budget? You need to do some homework. Have you seen Akeelah and the Bee, We Own the Night (which comes out October 12), Good Night, and Good Luck. We don't make dumb-ass budget movies like some people. We make great movies at the budgets that give us the opportunity to make money.

L.G.: Has buying a distribution company and a chain of 57 theaters worked out well thus far?

M.C.: Yep. They are making money, and they give us the unique opportunity to control our product. No other studio can do a nationwide sneak preview of their movies like we can because no other studio owns a national theater chain. No network other than HDNet can offer Ultra V.O.D. [video on demand], where we allow our V.O.D. partners to sell movies two weeks before they are in theaters. Only HDNet can offer a sneak preview of a movie the Wednesday before it's released in theaters.

The ability to offer consumers what they want is a great opportunity for us. If any other studio tried it, the other theater owners would boycott the studio in a heartbeat.

L.G.: And have you found customers willing to pay $30 (or more?) to see new releases on their HDTVs instead of $10 in see them in theaters?

M.C.: Yes. We give them a choice. If you have to hire a babysitter, pay for parking and then the movie, the $19.95 we now charge is cheap. If you want to go on a date and get out of the house away from the kids, then seeing a movie at a Landmark Theatre is a great date experience for grownups.

L.G.: In 2002, you criticized Yahoo for having a bureaucratic, "consensus-first, action-second" culture that stymied the company's success with Web TV shortly after you and Todd Wagner sold Broadcast.com to Yahoo for $5.7 billion. But you seemed optimistic about the company's potential with a change in management. What's your assessment of Yahoo's performance and strategic direction in the five years since then? What were Terry Semel's successes and failures? And what do you think Yahoo's future holds?

M.C.: I have no idea. Jerry Yang is a smart guy, so if anyone can do well, he can. I think Yahoo's real problem is that they are being compared to Google. Used to be that companies struggled in comparison to Yahoo; now Google is the top of the heap. At some point it will be someone else.

L.G.: Was Rupert Murdoch smart to spend $5 billion on Dow Jones and the Wall Street Journal? Why or why not? How, for better or worse, will the Journal be transformed? If you were Murdoch, how would you integrate this acquisition into News Corp.'s journalistic enterprises, including the soon-to-launched Fox Business Channel, and what do you think of Murdoch's stated plans to invest $200 million in the Journal's online operations?

M.C.: He got a great bargain. The W.S.J., brand can be applied to all of his business operations. The Fox Business Channel can be the Wall Street Journal Channel and gain immediate credibility.

As far as how to integrate them, I have no idea, and Rupert doesn't need my advice. There are things I know and things I don't know. I don't know the internals of Fox, so there is no reason to speculate.

L.G.: How much time do you spend day-trading?

M.C.: None, zero. I think only idiots day-trade. Over the last 10 years the business of trading stocks has been very specialized. There is more professional brainpower and money applied to picking stocks than ever before. Anyone who thinks they can beat the market day-trading over the long term is just waiting for their luck to run out.

L.G.: What percentage of your net worth do you have in the markets, versus C.D.'s and other risk-averse investments, and how do you decide where to put your money? What stocks do you like, dislike?

M.C.: I don't know the percentages. I stay pretty conservative and try to stick to things that pay me rather than things I just pray go up because someone else decided to buy some shares.

I have some stock investments that I have made over the years but don't look at them very often and haven't traded them much if at all over the past few years.

L.G.: And most important, how have you done?

M.C.: I do fine. I bought things that paid dividends or interest, and they go up over time. I will take positions in strategic shorts, meaning I don't go through and read all the S.E.C. filings. I look for companies that are out-and-out liars or are in a business that I don't think has a future. (And no, I'm not going to name names. Companies that are shorted tend to put more effort into being litigious rather than spending time trying to actually run a profitable business.)

L.G.: Is the subprime-mortgage scare likely to have lasting impact on the Dow? Do you believe Bernanke and the Fed have responded reasonably? Where do you think the markets are headed in the next few months? How should the average investor respond? Should any of this be of concern to a billionaire in the media, entertainment, or sports biz?

M.C.: I have no idea, and neither does anyone else. All I can say is to remember the months of July and August and how you felt every time you saw what the market was doing. Imprint the volatility and angst that most in the market felt in your brain. Then when one of these funds tries to come along and explain to you how wonderful buy-and-hold is and how it always works, think about these couple months. Then make a decision whether the upset stomach from watching the markets go up and down, plus the risk of losing some, or possibly all, your money, is worth the few percentage points you might make over the 5 percent or more a C.D. is paying.

L.G.: In July 2006, you launched Sharesleuth.com with veteran business journalist Christopher Carey, with the stated goal of uncovering waste, fraud, and abuse in publicly traded companies. But business journalists quickly condemned you for your allegedly unethical plan to pay for the site with profits from shorting targeted companies in advance of publication. So far, Sharesleuth.com has investigated two public companies, Xethanol and UTEK, and their stock prices tumbled immediately after publication. This June, Sharesleuth.com attacked a private company, Orthopedic Development. A couple of weeks ago, on the occasion of Sharesleuth.com's first anniversary, business blogger Gary Weiss declared your venture "a flop in every way imaginable." Anything you'd do differently with the benefit of hindsight? Has the site lived up to your expectations? You said you made around $90,000 by shorting Xethanol but were "underwater" on your UTEK trades. In the end, have you made or lost money, and beyond that, was your business model a P.R. mistake? Did you ever hear from the S.E.C. concerning your stock-shorting plan? Do you intend to continue with Sharesleuth.com, or will you pull the plug?

M.C.: Gary Weiss is a nice guy, and I actually like checking out and reading his blog. We agree on more than we disagree on, but Gary's commenting on Sharesleuth is nothing more than trying to get his name in the paper or a magazine somewhere. Sharesleuth is doing everything it has set out to do. It is there to find companies that are not what they say they are. It is an approach that is not based on having to publish to a schedule or within a number of words. We can spend a year researching a company and write or not write, at our discretion. That freedom alone makes it a success. And as far as my profits on the site, I've more than covered my costs with trade ideas brought to me by Chris.

Our emphasis is not on the companies that will make me the most money; it's on covering the companies that aren't who they say they are.

Writing the truth about XNL and UTK was great. Making money made it a little nicer.

L.G.: You have said that you read four to five hours a day to keep up. Specifically what publications and websites do you read and visit regularly, and where else do you get your business information?

M.C.: Other than Portfolio? I can't even begin to list them all. Technology, entertainment, sports, general business . . . Some that I read are Make; PC Magazine; CPU magazine; a Macintosh journal, I think; Adweek; Advertising Age; Film Journal [International]; the Producers Guild [newsletter]; HighDef; BusinessWeek; the Wall Street Journal; the New York Times; Good; Billboard; the Economist; Entertainment Weekly; TV Week; Multichannel News; Broadcasting & Cable; CableWorld; Variety; the Hollywood Reporter; MMA Worldwide; Tapout; Kagan reports; [Street & Smith's] Sports Business Journal; Forbes; and Fortune—and that's off the top of my head. Then I probably have RSS feeds from another 100 websites.

L.G.: What gets you out of bed in the morning, and what makes you enthused?

M.C.: All of it. I love challenges. I love challenging conventional wisdom. I love the satisfaction of being right and the motivation of being wrong.

L.G.: Aside from bad officiating against the Mavs, what makes you mad?

M.C.: I'm not a big fan of politicians and politics or bureaucrats in general, but generally, the only time I raise my voice is at a Mavs game. People always expect me to be volatile or outrageous, but I save it all for Mavs games or when I'm playing basketball. That's when I let it all come out. It used to be during rugby games, when I played, but when I couldn't play any longer, the Mavs became my outlet. What cracks up my friends and family is that they knew that I was the same way before I bought the team. I would be just as crazy, if not more so back then. There just weren't any cameras pointed at me back then.

L.G.: What makes you scared? What do you lose sleep over?

M.C.: My family's health.

L.G.: What's going on with the Chicago Cubs? The Tribune Co.has put the Cubs on the block as part of its agreement with Trib buyer Sam Zell, and last month you put yourself in the running to buy the team by submitting an application to Major League Baseball to examine the books. Why would you want to buy the Cubs? The conventional wisdom is that the bidding will start at $600 million and may go as high as $1 billion. Are you seriously moving ahead? Can you afford it? And what, if anything, are you doing to convince Bud Selig and the M.L.B. establishment that, as an owner, you wouldn't make their lives hell on earth?

M.C.: If I told you, I would have to kill you. I'm sworn to secrecy.

L.G.: Since you bought the Dallas Mavericks in 2000 with $280 million of your Yahoo cash, you've turned the team from a ragtag bunch of losers into one of America's more exciting sports franchises—and turned yourself into a brand-name celebrity. You've spent untold millions on players and facilities, and you've demonstrated brilliant showmanship and won over the fans. But are you making money? In general, can one make big bucks by owning a professional sports team—or is it more a vanity play for rich guys?

M.C.: I can make as much money as I want to from the Mavs. There is a tradeoff, however, between losing and maximizing tradeoffs. As I have said, my emotional release is with the Mavs, so winning is more important to me than making money. That said, I should make a few shekels this year.

L.G.: Given your storied antagonism for the refs of the N.B.A. and your sometimes fractious relationship with Commissioner David Stern—who has fined you approximately $1.5 million for voicing expletive-laced opinions on and off the court—the recent gambling scandal involving referee Tim Donaghy might have been a golden opportunity for you to say "I told you so." Instead, as soon as the scandal broke, you expressed your "complete confidence" in Stern to "proactively put in place people, processes, and transparency that will forever silence those who will question the N.B.A.'s integrity," and you added that "the N.B.A. and our officiating will be all the stronger for it." Hey, Mark, what gives? Are you a changed man?

M.C.: Nope. I've said and done what I have said and done. There is no reason to rehash it. My goal has always been to make the league better, better as a business and better as a product for the fans. It makes no sense to look back. I think it's smarter to take the hand you are dealt and make the most of it.

L.G.: On your blog, you seemed to suggest that Barry Bonds' use of steroids shouldn't detract from his accomplishment of breaking Hank Aaron's non-steroid-enhanced home run record. "In 25 years, any controversy associated with Barry's quest for the record will be long forgotten," you wrote. What are you saying here? That in order to achieve our goals in this competitive world, we are justified in exploiting any advantage at our disposal, even if it's against the rules? Where does one draw the line?

M.C.: I'm saying that the media tries to make a big issue out of things most fans couldn't care less about. Back when Babe Ruth set the mark, there were allegations of every sort to explain why he was able to do things no other player was.

When my kids or grandkids look back on Barry Bonds, they will know him as the home run champ. They won't invest the energy to try to find out what the context of the record was any more than any of us explore the context of when Ruth broke the record.

In reference to exploiting any means possible, that is an individual's choice. Each person lives with the decisions they make. The only certainty is that no one really cares about how and why others, whether it's Barry Bonds, Babe Ruth, or you‑name‑it, make the decisions they make, because they are nothing more or less than entertainers to us.

Just because the media depends on glorifying it for ratings and sales, doesn't make it anything more than it really is. All you have to do is ask when a scandal had a negative impact on a sport or entertainment business. It certainly hasn't been during the digital era of ultracompetitive media.

L.G.: How have you been spending your time in the Caymans? How's the new hip?

M.C.: Hip is great. I'm working out every day. Two months in, and the only thing I can't do is run, dunk, or cut with the ball like Barry Sanders :). I only wish I would have done it sooner.

--
Marcus Aurelius: "The object of life is not to be on the side of the majority, but to escape finding oneself in the ranks of the insane."

↑ Index

540. David Chirot
Grace Paley interview---today on democracynow.rg
Fri 24 Aug 2007

Grace Paley interview with Amy Goodwin on democracynow.org today--check yr local times Paley spoke about Poets Against the War among other things, and importance of organizing, taking group action--

↑ Index

541. Gabrielle Welford
Gate A4 in Albuquerque Airport and the Mamool Cookies: (fwd)
Fri 24 Aug 2007

Date: Fri, 24 Aug 2007 01:06:39 -0700 (PDT)
From: patricia blair <[redacted]>

How easily we could choose a world like this. WHy don't we? Peace to you, Pat

Friends,
This may just make your day.
Peace,
Margaret

Wandering Around an Albuquerque Airport Terminal
  by Naomi Shihab Nye

After learning my flight was detained 4 hours, I heard the announcement: If anyone in the vicinity of gate 4-A understands any Arabic, please come to the gate immediately.

Well -- one pauses these days. Gate 4-A was my own gate. I went there. An older woman in full traditional Palestinian dress, just like my grandma wore, was crumpled to the floor, wailing loudly. Help, said the flight service person. Talk to her. What is her problem? We told her the flight was going to be four hours late and she did this.

I put my arm around her and spoke to her haltingly. Shu dow-a,shu-biduck habibti, stani stani schway, min fadlick, sho bit se-wee? The minute she heard my words she knew -- however poorly used -- she stopped crying. She thought our flight had been cancelled entirely. She needed to be in El Paso for some major medical treatment the following day. I said no, no, we're fine, you'll get there, just late, who is picking you up? Let's call him and tell him. We called her son and I spoke with him in English.

I told him I would stay with his mother till we got on the plane and would ride next to her. She talked to him. Then we called her other sons just for the fun of it. Then we called my dad and he and she spoke for a while in Arabic and found out of course they had ten shared friends. Then I thought just for the heck of it why not call some Palestinian poets I know and let them chat with her.

This all took up about 2 hours. She was laughing a lot by then. Telling about her life. Answering questions.

She had pulled a sack of homemade mamool cookies -- little powdered sugar crumbly mounds stuffed with dates and nuts -- out of her bag and was offering them to all the women at the gate. To my amazement, not a single woman declined one. It was like a sacrament. The traveler from Argentina, the traveler from California, the lovely woman from Laredo -- we were all covered with the same powdered sugar. And smiling. There are no better cookies.

And then the airline broke out the free beverages from huge coolers -- non-alcoholic -- and the two little girls for our flight, one African-American, one Mexican-American -- ran around serving us all apple juice and lemonade and they were covered with powdered sugar, too. And I noticed my new best friend -- by now we were holding hands -- had a potted plant poking out of her bag, some medicinal thing, with green furry leaves. Such an old country traveling tradition. Always carry a plant. Always stay rooted to somewhere. And I looked around that gate of late and weary ones and thought, this is the world I want to live in. The shared world. Not a single person in this gate -- once the crying of confusion stopped -- has seemed apprehensive about any other person. They took the cookies. I wanted to hug all those other women, too. This can still happen, anywhere.

Not everything is lost.

Naomi Shihab Nye is an American poet of Palestinian background.

The Rev. Mike Kinman
Executive Director, Episcopalians for Global Reconciliation
[redacted] + [redacted] + www.e4gr.org <http://www.e4gr.org> +
http://revmikek.blogspot.com
"The alleviation of material suffering in the world and the spiritual renewal of the church go hand in hand."
-The Rev. Dr. Sabina Alkire

=

↑ Index

542. Ruth Lepson
Re: creative writing praxis
Fri 24 Aug 2007

Thanks for your thoughtful comments. A few students do seem to benefit--i.e., write more readily--from using exers., & give them as many as they like--but most don't. It's a matter of sensibility, or once in a while of confidence--classical vs. free jazz, maybe. One can give them optional exers.

On 8/16/07 4:00 PM, "J.P. Craig" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Indeed that is the case. (That's the end of my reply to Ruth. The rest is addressed more generally.)
>
> Stand back while I swat the flies off this poor dead horse.
>
> This started with someone talking about Iowa in Hawai'i. That is: someone asked for a degree, a certification, and they got exams. Surprise. ACT and NCS are both based in Iowa City, really close to the Iowa Writer's Workshop. Some folks work in both places. (If you're wondering why I bring this up, I think you're on the right track. If you see my point, you're also on the right track.)

The question remains, and I mean this sincerely: can we consider such reminders and provocations pedagogical, as proper in a classroom? I do. I think such wholistic approaches, linking creation and critique (the left hand of creation) with daily life is one of the best ways to proceed individually. This may be quite different from the best way to proceed institutionally. It is easy to dismiss advice like "write at the same time every day," but research (which means someone with a license to make more licenses says so AND means that some someones have found it to be so) suggests that this really works.

I think taking seriously lists like Mayer's is to take our own egos, both personal and professional, a little less seriously and also to take risks, which is to take ourselves very seriously in deed. In a way I see participants in this thread recapping the argument between Duncan and Levertov over the value of his decision to attempt ballad forms, as he (perhaps condescendingly) said to Levertov to disrupt the sure course of his work. There's the secure course. And there's the productive course, which may be sure. Then there's the course that comes with a number, which may be sure, productive, or some combo.

What on earth is the value of criteria? They establish their own values. Evaluation becomes a value. The question is where that is located: in the institution, in the writer, reader, Rasula's wreader? I think Hejinian is really useful when she reminds us that a poem is an investment of energy and that both poet and reader gamble on the value of the outcome.

These are old, old arguments, known to even junior faculty. I prefer to stick with the verb end of it. Whatever gets material on the page or screen whatever, reading is generative. That's not the classroom, though I earn my bread there. But the classroom can make room for, if not contain, the idea that reading and writing is a practice measurable only on an ever-shifting scale.

In this way I ask if we can consider works like A Test of Poetry that is at best an odd manual of poetry production to be a legitimate manual of poetry production?

Okay so that's one response to the challenge of poetry pedagogy. Here's another: There are any number of schools, and we can't escape that. But must we begin by placing ourselves in this or that school self-consciously or can we attempt in some way to derange our experience toward the experience of our materials. Are our students materials in some sense? Should we allow our words to be as free as we'd have our students be? Or: here we are in our school; let us work.

A third response, with a post-test: maybe we should certify people as suitable teachers of poetry ONLY after their students have demonstrated something we recognize as success. For example, might we now and only now give Duncan a certification to teach, based on Palmer, Mackey, and some others? Or maybe we can give H.D. one for her work in producing a Howe? Or do we not offer certifications based on distance learning? ((Can we offer an certificate to an existent non-entity, to, for example, a pidgin?) safely buried)

An Exam.

Question One. Why isn't Bromige's "I Read This Someplace" different from Pound's first canto?

Question Two. Why should YOU give a damn?

Question Three. We are all liars. Our pants burn for love of it.

((To be less snotty, here's the Bromige:

I Read This Someplace

The lyre bird amid the eucalyptus listening for every sound he hears to trip him into sound he makes.
He has no call or song his own. He imitates. Each time he utters something chances are it is his soul that speaks.

On Aug 16, 2007, at 11:00 AM, Ruth Lepson wrote:

Mayer's aren;t exers. in the usual sense but ways to shake people out of slumber & therefore terrific. Things like Write when you don;t feel like it, Write before falling asleep, Write at the same time every day.

On 8/15/07 9:26 AM, "J.P. Craig" <[redacted]> wrote:

I don't know if this fits, but there's the Palgrave Poetry and Pedagogy that came out recently. I've found it interesting. I'm going to be presenting with some friends from Iowa at the Midwest Writing Center Association conference this fall on using writing center techniques to teach creative writing. Specifically, we're trying to find and discuss alternative to the "workshop" model that we found lacking because, in my case, it was far too limiting on students' output, too product-oriented and normative.

I'd really be interested in the lists you've generated so far, both of the helpful and unhelpful materials.

Are these MA comps exams? Or is it some sort of certification exam aborning (as if an MA comps exam isn't, I suppose).

I'm really interested in this primarily because I like teaching writing, and though I tend to be paid for teaching comp or ESL, I like encouraging and assisting young creative writers too. I'm also interested because my M.F.A. experience was unhelpful to my writing. I found the PhD in literature to be much more helpful to my writing, but then again I'm a sort of bookish person and not particularly successful as a professional poet.

I wonder if things like Bernadette Mayer's experiment or other lists of procedures could be considered as pedagogical theory for poets? Are books like Koch's Wishes Lies and Dreams, though aimed at children, be considered useful pedagogical theory for us (maybe too East Coast for your needs?). I guess this move may be a tired one, but it's still useful: I'm asking if this is an opportunity to broaden what we might consider a poetry pedagogy text. Does it overlap literature; can we include A Test of Poetry, How to Write, and so on?

On Aug 14, 2007, at 12:27 AM, Susan Webster Schultz wrote:

Increasingly, MA students at UH are asking to take exams in Creative Writing Pedagogy, and increasingly I'm being asked to be an examiner in this field. As to what that field might be, I'll perhaps know better after conducting a directed reading with 5 or so grad and undergrad students this coming semester. But my impression is that the "literature" on the subject is flimsy, east coast centered, mono-cultural, and generally speaking, pretty unhelpful.

I did find a decent introduction to the field here:

The Elephants Teach: Creative Writing Since 1880, by David G. Myers.
I also like, as a tool, Hazel Smith's _The Writing Experiment_, though I confess I haven't yet used it to teach by.

But my strong sense is that there needs to me more and better writing on the subject, because if the lists I'm seeing are any indication, the field is pretty anemic.

> aloha, Susan
>
> who is watching:
>
> http://www.goes.noaa.gov/ha2.html
>
> JP Craig
> http://jpcraig.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

543. Tom W. Lewis
Re: Poems from Guantánamo
Fri 24 Aug 2007

Anny,

thanks for sending that link -- not surprisingly, the work of the Guantánamo prisoners/poets seems to meet most if not all of these criteria for being "poetry" (I also noticed that none of the quotes used the term "talent" when defining poetry)...

one aspect of written work (and poetry in particular) that I find fascinating is the way it is "handled," from the time it is first composed/created by the writer through the process of evaluation, editing, acceptance for publication, produced in a format available to a mass audience, and finally received by individual readers. each of these baffles or bottlenecks affects the nature of the piece, so that the final result(s) of the received work will be similar to but not the same as the original written object.

Robert Grenier's work gives one example of a limited process, whereas for the Guantánamo poets it's anyone's guess how much vetting was involved in getting the collection published. (I want to stress that neither example is more or less valid, on these terms: just processed and packaged differently.)

this is something I tend to focus on in my own critical reading: how did a given piece get to "where I'm at"?

Tom

-----Original Message-----
From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Anny Ballardini
Sent: Thursday, August 23, 2007 15:48
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: Poems from Guantánamo

You are off on your tangent which is not simplistic. There are other definitions of poetry. I am also repeating myself, and I apologize to those who did follow me before. Here is a page of quotations gathered from mails sent to the New Poetry List on the Poets' Corner: http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=287

On 8/23/07, Tom W. Lewis <[redacted]> wrote:
> fyi (I've probably mentioned this here before):
>
> "poet, poem, poetry" derive from the Greek poiein, "to make", also "to cause, effect, create, render, grow, produce, invent..."
>
> Greek pots were often signed by their makers "X me epoien" -- "X made me"
>
> I bring this etymology forward to our time by seeing poetic work as a made thing, a crafted object -- while you can become a master craftsperson through diligent study of the way objects like this are made, someone else can just as easily pick up a lump of clay and mold their own pot with the same tools (their hands) as the master -- the result will be different from the master's, but (theoretically) it will still carry water.
>
> based on this line of reasoning, the act of writing a poem makes the author a poet.
>
> does this fit with what Maria is saying in her comment, or am I off on my own simplistic tangent?
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Maria Damon
> Sent: Thursday, August 23, 2007 8:32
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: Poems from Guantánamo
>
> i am uncomfortable with the aesthetic hierarchy espoused here, reified
> in the word "talent." it is true that such a thing does and does not > exist, but it is certainly not the only, or the most salient, criterion
> by which we determine whether something has worth. to reify the person > of the "poet," is , to my mind, even more dangerous. talk about > policing! i do agree, though, that discussions around the poetry is at > least as important as the poetry itself, but i might argue this about > any "poem."

>
> Joel Weishaus wrote:
> > Mairead;
> >
> > If you mean the arguments around the book should be taken seriously, I > > agree. If you mean the poetry should be taken seriously, I disagree.
> > Firstly, most of these poems, as I understand the situation, were not > > written by poets. Thus, for a poet to take them seriously is like a > > cosmologist taking the Book of Genesis seriously. Further, even those
that > > may have been written by persons of talent, they are not their poems,
but > > fabrications made up by the military. The real poems and stories we will get > > someday when these people are free to write them and publish them
without > > being censored by the very people who tortured them. You are right that it
> > does raise interesting questions, but political ones, not poetic ones.
> >
> > -Joel
> >
> >
> > ---------- Forwarded message ----------
> > From: Mairead Byrne <[redacted]>
> > Date: Aug 22, 2007 9:49 PM
> > Subject: Re: Poems from Guantánamo
> > To: [redacted]
> >
> >
> > I find the claim that this book shouldn't be taken seriously,
> > "certainly not by poets," to be extraordinary. The extent to which > > this book is embroiled in economic realities, both publishing and > > political, offers a very strong invitation to this poet, at least, to > > take it seriously. Joel, why do you say the book shouldn't be taken > > seriously, "certainly not by poets"? Its publication by the > > University of Iowa Press, in today's America, and the stated history
> > of its publication path make it very interesting to think and talk > > about, in my view; as does the tension between the stated and very > > visible challenges to its meaning, and all the less visible and > > apprehensible challenges. It's like a cup which has lost every single > > drop of poetry, except one maybe -- or even just the smell of poetry

> > in its pores. Or maybe it's just a cup which, because it has been > > used to carry poetry, someone is still willing to carry. There is > > meaning, maybe not centrally located. In the short essays, it's > > clear how compromised the book is, yet it speaks. Not fluently, but > > fluently. The dialogue between poetry and government in this book is > > a scrap of reality, a broken but not worthless thing. Why should the > > book not be taken seriously, "certainly not by poets"? It is a > > product of the economies we work in, and raises many useful questions > > about poetry for me, even at the level of nostalgia for a genre. I > > don't have the book in front of me as I write, but I've read it. I > > can return to the questions it raised for me later.
> > Mairead
> >
> >
> >>>> [redacted] 08/22/07 12:51 PM >>>
> >>>>
> > David:
> >
> > I don't find this review strange, but right to the point. You have to > > be living in an alternative universe to think that this book > > represents the real feelings of the prisoners. Not only was it > > censored, but the original language wasn't allowed to be published, on > > the pretense that it contains secret messages! What could the secret > > message possibly be from someone in prison for so many years? One > > wonders if this is paranoia, playacting, or just plain stupidity.
> > In any case, I think the review is basically sound, and that this book > > should not be taken seriously, certainly not by poets! If I have any > > problems with the review, it's with the author's contention that a > > poem can't reveal the reality of one's life. I think the opposite is > > true, only not in the case of this book.
> >
> > Best,
> > Joel Weishaus
> >
> >
> > Date: Tue, 21 Aug 2007 07:59:18 -0700
> > From: David Chirot <[redacted]>
> > Subject: Poems From Guant=?ISO-8859-1?Q?=E1namo:?= The Detainees S > > peak - Books - Review - New York Times
> >
> > this is a rather strange review--
> >

> >
http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?
_r=1&ref=books&oref=slogin
> > ---
> >
>

↑ Index

544. Thomas savage
Re: Poems from Guantánamo
Fri 24 Aug 2007

I disagree that discussions around any poem are as important as the poem itself. The poem or poems always take precedence over any verbal (live or in print) emanation which emerges as a result of their existence and is thus obviously dependent upon it. As someone who writes poetry constantly and only occasionally criticism (usually reviews,only occasionally of poetry, available at Tribes.org), I don't see expository writing about poetry as being all that important, anyway. The discussions on these listservs (this one and Wryting-L) are entertaining and often informative but the poems themselves are ultimately what I and I believe all of us are truly about. Regards, Tom Savage

"Tom W. Lewis" <[redacted]> wrote: fyi (I've probably mentioned this here before):

"poet, poem, poetry" derive from the Greek poiein, "to make", also "to cause, effect, create, render, grow, produce, invent..."

Greek pots were often signed by their makers "X me epoien" -- "X made me"

I bring this etymology forward to our time by seeing poetic work as a made thing, a crafted object -- while you can become a master craftsperson through diligent study of the way objects like this are made, someone else can just as easily pick up a lump of clay and mold their own pot with the same tools (their hands) as the master -- the result will be different from the master's, but (theoretically) it will still carry water.

based on this line of reasoning, the act of writing a poem makes the author a poet.

does this fit with what Maria is saying in her comment, or am I off on my own simplistic tangent?

-----Original Message-----
From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Maria Damon
Sent: Thursday, August 23, 2007 8:32

To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: Poems from Guantánamo

i am uncomfortable with the aesthetic hierarchy espoused here, reified in the word "talent." it is true that such a thing does and does not exist, but it is certainly not the only, or the most salient, criterion by which we determine whether something has worth. to reify the person of the "poet," is , to my mind, even more dangerous. talk about policing! i do agree, though, that discussions around the poetry is at least as important as the poetry itself, but i might argue this about any "poem."

Joel Weishaus wrote:
> Mairead;
>
> If you mean the arguments around the book should be taken seriously, I > agree. If you mean the poetry should be taken seriously, I disagree.
> Firstly, most of these poems, as I understand the situation, were not > written by poets. Thus, for a poet to take them seriously is like a > cosmologist taking the Book of Genesis seriously. Further, even those that > may have been written by persons of talent, they are not their poems, but > fabrications made up by the military. The real poems and stories we will get > someday when these people are free to write them and publish them without > being censored by the very people who tortured them. You are right that it > does raise interesting questions, but political ones, not poetic ones.
>
> -Joel
>
>
> ---------- Forwarded message ----------
> From: Mairead Byrne
> Date: Aug 22, 2007 9:49 PM
> Subject: Re: Poems from Guantánamo
> To: [redacted]
>
>
> I find the claim that this book shouldn't be taken seriously,
> "certainly not by poets," to be extraordinary. The extent to which > this book is embroiled in economic realities, both publishing and > political, offers a very strong invitation to this poet, at least, to > take it seriously. Joel, why do you say the book shouldn't be taken > seriously, "certainly not by poets"? Its publication by the > University of Iowa Press, in today's America, and the stated history
> of its publication path make it very interesting to think and talk > about, in my view; as does the tension between the stated and very > visible challenges to its meaning, and all the less visible and > apprehensible challenges. It's like a cup which has lost every single > drop of poetry, except one maybe -- or even just the smell of poetry

> in its pores. Or maybe it's just a cup which, because it has been > used to carry poetry, someone is still willing to carry. There is > meaning, maybe not centrally located. In the short essays, it's > clear how compromised the book is, yet it speaks. Not fluently, but > fluently. The dialogue between poetry and government in this book is > a scrap of reality, a broken but not worthless thing. Why should the > book not be taken seriously, "certainly not by poets"? It is a > product of the economies we work in, and raises many useful questions > about poetry for me, even at the level of nostalgia for a genre. I > don't have the book in front of me as I write, but I've read it. I > can return to the questions it raised for me later.
> Mairead
>
>
>>>> [redacted] 08/22/07 12:51 PM >>>
>>>>
> David:
>
> I don't find this review strange, but right to the point. You have to > be living in an alternative universe to think that this book > represents the real feelings of the prisoners. Not only was it > censored, but the original language wasn't allowed to be published, on > the pretense that it contains secret messages! What could the secret > message possibly be from someone in prison for so many years? One > wonders if this is paranoia, playacting, or just plain stupidity.
> In any case, I think the review is basically sound, and that this book > should not be taken seriously, certainly not by poets! If I have any > problems with the review, it's with the author's contention that a > poem can't reveal the reality of one's life. I think the opposite is > true, only not in the case of this book.
>
> Best,
> Joel Weishaus
>
>
> Date: Tue, 21 Aug 2007 07:59:18 -0700
> From: David Chirot
> Subject: Poems From Guant=?ISO-8859-1?Q?=E1namo:?= The Detainees S

> peak - Books - Review - New York Times
>
> this is a rather strange review--
>
> http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?
_r=1&ref=books&oref=slogin
> ---
>

Ready for the edge of your seat? Check out tonight's top picks on Yahoo! TV.

↑ Index

545. Jennifer Karmin
JOB: University of Hartford
Fri 24 Aug 2007

(this is a forward so please don't relpy to me. good luck!)

The Department of English at the University of Hartford invites applications for a tenure-track position in creative writing at the rank of Assistant Professor, to begin August 2008.

We seek a poet interested in working in an active undergraduate creative writing program. Candidates with additional teaching interests in contemporary U.S. ethnic literatures and/or Anglophone literatures are especially welcome, as are those who can teach genres other than poetry (fiction, creative nonfiction, drama).

Requirements include an MFA in creative writing or a PhD in English or a related discipline, significant publications and promise of sustained productivity, and evidence of committed and successful teaching.

The University of Hartford has a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. The 3/3 teaching load may include introductory and advanced courses for majors, such as the multi-genre introduction to creative writing, the poetry workshop, and literature classes, as well as general education courses. Tenured and tenure-track faculty also bear service responsibilities to the College and the University.

The University of Hartford is an open and welcoming community that values diversity in all its forms. In addition, the University aspires to have its faculty and staff reflect the rich diversity of its student body and the Hartford region. Candidates committed to working with diverse populations and conversant in multicultural issues are encouraged to apply. Further information about the University may be found at http://www.hartford.edu.

Please send a cover letter and curriculum vitae to Dr.
Mark Blackwell, Chair
Department of English
College of Arts and Sciences University of Hartford
200 Bloomfield Avenue
West Hartford, CT 06117

Please do not forward other materials until requested.
Deadline for applications is October 26, 2007.

EEO/AA/M/F/D/V.
Members of under-represented groups are encouraged to apply.

Got a little couch potato?
Check out fun summer activities for kids.
http://search.yahoo.com/search?
fr=oni_on_mail&p=summer+activities+for+kids&cs=bz

↑ Index

546. Schlesinger Kyle
New Contact Info and More
Fri 24 Aug 2007

New Mailing Address:
Kyle Schlesinger
214 North Henry Street Apt. #3

Brooklyn, NY 11222-3608
preferred email: [redacted]

New at SPD from Cuneiform: Ted Greenwald and Hal Saulson's Two Wrongs (2007) Building on New York's remarkable history of painter and poet collaborations, this striking art and text project features nearly thirty paintings and poems by two seasoned artists. Because his work always involves linguistic and formal invention, Ted Greenwald has often been associated with the Language Writers, but he is unmistakably a New York poet and even, given his street-wise sensibility and his long association with visual art and artists, a New York School poet.

Typeset and designed by Kyle Schlesinger, the dimensions of the images are true to the original works of art. The fonts (Palatino and Michelangelo) were designed by Hermann Zapf. The sparkling metallic covers were printed letterpress and the images and text were printed offset. Hand-sewn in two signatures with the assistance of Michael Cross, Richard Owens and Andrew Rippeon. 250 copies. $20

I Have Imagined a Center // Wilder Than This Region: A Tribute to Susan Howe edited by Sarah Campbell (2007) With the intent of marking and celebrating Howe's years of teaching, the contributors to this volume were asked specifically to comment on her pedagogy and their experience of being her student at the State University of New York at Buffalo where she taught from 1988-2007.

Contributors include: Nathan Austin, Sarah Campbell, Barbara Cole, Richard Deming, Thom Donovan, Logan Esdale, Zack Finch, Graham Foust, Benjamin Friedlander, Peter Gizzi, Jena Osman, Kyle Schlesinger, Jonathan Skinner, Juliana Spahr, Sasha Steensen, and Elizabeth Willis. Edited by Sarah Campbell with an introduction by Neil Schmitz. 250 copies. $10

Bill Berkson's Sudden Address: Selected Lectures 1981-2006. (2007) In this stunning collection of lectures spanning twenty-five years, Berkson addresses subjects as various as Walt Whitman, Frank O'Hara, Philip Guston, Dante, and the sublime. Set in Scala, this edition is limited to 500 perfectbound copies. Cover by Philip Guston.

No wonder Ron Padgett thinks ³Bill Berkson's writing is witty, musical, daily, and deep, underpinned by a bracing integrity and shot through with gorgeous abstraction and other brilliant hookups between eye, ear, mind, and heart."$10

Ulf Stolterfoht¹s Lingos VI (2007). Translated from German by Rosmarie Waldrop, Ulf Stolterfoht is clearly at the edge of the edge of innovative poetry in Germany today. Stolterfoht's witty precision and philosophical punch are what linger in the mind¹s inner ear while his terse and demanding lyrics reconfigure the limits of our language‹the limits of our world.

Tony Frazier writes: ³Fachsprachen = lingos, but there's no jargon here: the fach is the poet's own discipline, the tool is language, and Stolterfoht bends it, twists it and shapes it anew, piling words on top of each other in a veritable torrent of phonemes, the sounds hammering home.²$10

Forthcoming in September:
Dan Featherston¹s The Clock Maker¹s Memoir

ALL TITLES AVAILABLE DIRECT FROM SPD: http://www.spdbooks.org/ and all except ³I Have Imagined A Center² available from http://www.cuneiformpress.com/

Cheers!

Kyle

_____
www.kyleschlesinger.com

↑ Index

547. Stephen Miller
Re: Critiphoria
Fri 24 Aug 2007

LiANCg0K

↑ Index

548. Tisa Bryant
Re: Recordings of Poems by Kamau Brathwaite?
Fri 24 Aug 2007

I have an MP3 of Kamau reading from "Negus" which is part of his longer poem, ISLANDS (in THE ARRIVANTS: A NEW WORLD TRILOGY). It's also on the CD in the Exact Change Yearbook, which is where I got it from (lots of great work on that CD). I teach with it every chance I get. And every time he recites it, he puts it through some wonderful changes. If you're interested,

Tisa

P.S.: I've found that instant messaging is the best way to exchange mp3 files, images, etc, that are too big for most email servers, but not too big for IM. Nice and fast!

****
All the writer’s noise is finally an attempt to shape a silence in which something can go on. Call it the science of interpretation.

Samuel R. Delany

On Aug 11, 2007, at 6:38 PM, Ruth Lepson wrote:

> crag--if you backchannel me I will give you eliot's email--maybe he knows.
>
> On 8/11/07 1:24 AM, "Schneider Hill" <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Folks:
>
> b/channel if you know where I can find/buy Kamau Brathwaite reading "Stone" and/or "How Europe Underdeveloped Africa" (both found in World Beat, the excellently edited by Eliot Weinberger anthology of international poetry, New Directions 2006, a book I hope to adopt for a World Lit course...). I would prefer mp3 or cd formats. Leonard Schwartz' "Cross-Cultural Poetics" on PENNSound has a Brathwaite program, but I haven't listened to all of it yet...
>
> Best, Crag Hill
>
> http://scorecard.typepad.com

↑ Index

549. Stephen Vincent

Re: Gate A4 in Albuquerque Airport and the Mamool Cookies:

Fri 24 Aug 2007

Yesterday afternoon - from a return flight from abroad - I went through customs clearance in San Francisco. My partner was - for no apparent reason - told to put her bags through the screener. While I waited for her to go with relative ease through this process, I watched an entire Arab family of six or seven have their bags open and thoroughly investigated - the agents rifling through everything in each suitcase, asking questions about jars and containers with spices, etc.

At another, inspection station, I watched an agent take two books and a note folder out of a man's brief case and then proceed to go through all the pages of notes, and then leaf through the books. The uniformed inspector's action gave me a very uncomfortable feeling - the sense of the State being able to have the unquestionable right to go through private papers. I suspect this is all done under the pretext that anyone is a potential terrorist and its done for 'our' protection.

There is that sense of that thin line - the crossing of which becomes an act of state terrorism in which we are terrorized by these folks that are given this authority. What happens to your notes and books, for example, if you are found at the border to be carrying notes that are critical of the Bush regime, or the Christian Church, etc. And if you happen to be an Arab visitor, or Chinese, or...let alone a USA citizen ??

Nye's piece - kind as it is - does not go there. I wish that it would.

Stephen V
http://stephenvincent.net/blog/

> Date: Fri, 24 Aug 2007 01:06:39 -0700 (PDT)
> From: patricia blair <[redacted]>
>
> How easily we could choose a world like this. WHy don't we? Peace to you, Pat
>
> Friends,
> This may just make your day.
> Peace,
> Margaret
> ----------
> Wandering Around an Albuquerque Airport Terminal
> by Naomi Shihab Nye
>
> After learning my flight was detained 4 hours, I heard the announcement: If anyone in the vicinity of gate 4-A understands any Arabic, please come to the gate immediately.
>
> Well -- one pauses these days. Gate 4-A was my own gate. I went there. An older woman in full traditional Palestinian dress, just like my grandma wore, was crumpled to the floor, wailing loudly. Help, said the flight service person. Talk to her. What is her problem? We told her the flight was going to be four hours late and she did this.
>
> I put my arm around her and spoke to her haltingly. Shu dow-a,shu-biduck habibti, stani stani schway, min fadlick, sho bit se-wee? The minute she heard my words she knew -- however poorly used -- she stopped crying. She thought our flight had been cancelled entirely. She needed to be in El Paso for some major medical treatment the following day. I said no, no, we're fine, you'll get there, just late, who is picking you up? Let's call him and tell him. We called her son and I spoke with him in English.

I told him I would stay with his mother till we got on the plane and would ride next to her. She talked to him. Then we called her other sons just for the fun of it. Then we called my dad and he and she spoke for a while in Arabic and found out of course they had ten shared friends. Then I thought just for the heck of it why not call some Palestinian poets I know and let them chat with her.

This all took up about 2 hours. She was laughing a lot by then. Telling about her life. Answering questions.

She had pulled a sack of homemade mamool cookies -- little powdered sugar crumbly mounds stuffed with dates and nuts -- out of her bag and was offering them to all the women at the gate. To my amazement, not a single woman declined one. It was like a sacrament. The traveler from Argentina, the traveler from California, the lovely woman from Laredo -- we were all covered with the same powdered sugar. And smiling. There are no better cookies.

And then the airline broke out the free beverages from huge coolers -- non-alcoholic -- and the two little girls for our flight, one African-American, one Mexican-American -- ran around serving us all apple juice and lemonade and they were covered with powdered sugar, too. And I noticed my new best friend -- by now we were holding hands -- had a potted plant poking out of her bag, some medicinal thing, with green furry leaves. Such an old country traveling tradition. Always carry a plant. Always stay rooted to somewhere. And I looked around that gate of late and weary ones and thought, this is the world I want to live in. The shared world. Not a single person in this gate -- once the crying of confusion stopped -- has seemed apprehensive about any other person. They took the cookies. I wanted to hug all those other women, too. This can still happen, anywhere.

Not everything is lost.

Naomi Shihab Nye is an American poet of Palestinian background.

The Rev. Mike Kinman
Executive Director, Episcopalians for Global Reconciliation
[redacted] + [redacted] + www.e4gr.org <http://www.e4gr.org> +
http://revmikek.blogspot.com
"The alleviation of material suffering in the world and the spiritual renewal of the church go hand in hand."
-The Rev. Dr. Sabina Alkire

=

↑ Index

550. Nicholas Karavatos

Re: Elvira Arellano: arrested in LA

Fri 24 Aug 2007

Speaking as someone who is a legal guest worker in a foreign country, what makes a person who enters a country illegally and then creates a false identity (not her SSN) in order to work there ... what makes her an "immigrant rights activist"?

Is it because of birth citizenship and the appeal to emotion? If a person mothers or fathers a baby they should - for emotional reasons - share in the baby's automatic citizenship?

Does a person's insistence to stay illegally in the US because her child was born in the US make her an "immigrant rights activist"?

The US is rather unique in its practice of birth citizenship. I think most of the world's countries do not practice this.

Does it make legal sense to restrict birth citizenship to people in the country legally? Has the US passed the phase in its development when birth citizenship was practical?

Or, are all Latin American non-citizens automatically "immigrant rights activists" because the gringos are pillaging usurpers who stole the land that Spain stole first? I've always liked that one.

I don't know.

I didn't watch/listen/read this unfold dramatically day-by-day, though it was covered by Al Jazeera on TV here.

As I wander the globe and mingle in the situations of various expatriate workers, I wonder about the immigrant worker situations in the US, and visas and borders in general - if we can have a free-flow of global capital, why not a free-flow of global labor?

Of course, as an "privileged American" I can't compare my experiences with most others, can I? Almost any country will let me in and most of those would give me a work visa.

Or maybe I've also just grown less sentimental.

If the US could run a guest worker program without the indentured servitude experienced by South Asians in the Arabian Gulf, we could avoid some of this pain. Maybe.

Nicholas Karavatos
Dept of Language & Literature
American University of Sharjah
PO Box 26666
Sharjah
United Arab Emirates

> From: Jennifer Karmin <[redacted]>
> Reply-To: UB Poetics discussion group <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: Elvira Arellano: arrested in LA
> Date: Sun, 19 Aug 2007 20:07:39 -0700
>
> Immigrant rights activist Elvira Arellano was arrested in Los Angeles on Sunday afternoon. She sought refuge inside a Chicago church for one year and actively disobeyed an order by the Department of Homeland Security to turn herself in for deportation.
>
> http://email.chicagotribune.com/cgi-bin1/DM/y/eBVxh0Rv1ZB0G2E0IrEB0Ay
>
> Immigration activist Arellano arrested
> By Antonio Olivo
>
> An illegal Mexican immigrant who sought refuge inside a Chicago church for a year was arrested in Los Angeles on Sunday afternoon after taking her campaign on the road.
>
> Elvira Arellano was arrested about 4:15 p.m. Chicago time by law enforcement officials after leaving Our Lady Queen of Angels Church in downtown Los Angeles, said Emma Lozano, an adviser who was there during the arrest.
>
> After talking to news media inside the church, Arellano and her supporters got into their van to head north to San Jose, where she was scheduled to speak at another church, Lozano said. Moments after they got in the van, an unmarked vehicle stopped them.
>
> The driver of Arellano's van, Roberto Lopez, poked his head out of the van because he wanted to see why they were being blocked. Several other unmarked vehicles surrounded their van.
>
> Agents came out of all the cars screaming at the top of their lungs for her to get out, Lozano said. Her

8-year-old son, Saul, started to cry, and Arellano said to everyone in the car, "Calm down. Don't have any fear. They can't hurt me."

Then she turned to the people who were about to arrest her and she said, "You're going to have to give me a minute with my son," Lozano said. She spent time with her son in the car, and then surrendered.

It was over in less than two minutes. She was arrested Sunday on Main Street, near Our Lady Queen of Angels, where Arellano slept Saturday night and where she's held several press conferences Saturday and Sunday.

In a statement released Sunday night, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement said that its "officers in Los Angeles today arrested criminal alien and immigration fugitive Elvira Arellano."

"Arellano, who was taken into custody without incident, is being processed for removal to Mexico based upon a deportation order originally issued by a federal immigration judge in 1997," the statment said. "Arresting and removing criminal aliens is one of ICE's top enforcement priorities and the agency will continue to pursue these cases vigorously."

Much of the anger from all parts of the political spectrum surrounding illegal immigration has been crystallized by Arellano's story. After entering the country illegally twice, she became an activist shortly after she was arrested in 2002 during a federal sweep at O'Hare International Airport, where Arellano cleaned airplanes. She was later convicted of using a fake Social Security card.

Rick Biesada, director and founder of the Chicago Minuteman Project, lauded the arrest, but he said it came a year too late.

"I was wondering why the police were dragging their feet," he said. "By not going in there and getting her, other illegals were going to churches seeking sanctuary. Now we're going to have hell to pay in this country trying to extract these people."

Local Spanish-language radio host Javier Salas said he felt badly for what happened to Arellano. But in leaving the sanctuary of Adalberto United Methodist Church and heading to Los Angeles, it was only a matter of time before she was arrested.

"I'm not happy that this happened, but it was bound to happen because she was challenging the system," said Salas, the host of the morning-drive talk show La Tremenda on WRTO AM-1200.

By Sunday afternoon Salas was already talking about the arrest on the radio, and callers were weighing in too.

Callers were "saying that she was traveling to Los Angeles and around the United States, she would provoke [Immigration and Customs Enforcement] and the anti-immigrant groups," he said. "There would be checkpoints everywhere."

Salas questioned why it appeared that mainstream media make Arellano out to be the face of undocumented immigrants, when her actions have exacerbated the animosity toward them.

"She wasn't down to earth," he said, adding that Arellano acted "entitled" to rights "when there's thousands and thousands of people in the same situation."

"She made everything worse," Salas said. "She's not a face of the immigrants. My family without papers, she doesn't represent them."

Activists in the Chicago area who have followed Arellano's story weren't surprised that the law caught up to her.

"Everyone knew it was probably a question of when, not if " she would be arrested, said Joshua Hoyt, executive director of the Illinois Coalition for Immigrant and Refugee Rights. "It just made me feel really sad because she knows she's looking at time in prison. I feel bad for her and for her child and for all the other people in that situation."

Hoyt said he met Arellano nearly three years ago after she was arrested in a sweep of undocumented immigrants working at O'Hare International Airport.

Arellano had been cleaning planes at night, he said. At the time --"before she was famous," Hoyt noted--she was afraid, intimidated and ashamed because she had been arrested by federal agents in front of her son.

"She was really emotional and really hurt. She was deeply offended that she would get arrested in front of her child and be treated like a criminal," Hoyt said. "She thought someone who comes here to work hard at night so she can support her child is not a criminal."

In the intervening years, however, she turned her pain to activism, organizing the families of those being deported, he said.

"I think she's an incredibly brave person who's put a human face on the suffering of the undocumented in this country and because of the cowardice of politicians, many more families are going to be destroyed and many more people are going to die on the borders," Hoyt said. "America needs to look itself in the face and ask if we want to be that kind of country."

The church where Arellano sought sanctuary for the last year became the command center where friends and organizers gathered to plan a vigil on Sunday night to show support for Arellano after her arrest.

Those who lived with her and knew her best at Alberto United Methodist Church cried together and hugged each other but quickly brushed aside the tears, channeling their grief into action.

Less than an hour after the arrest, Jacobita Alonso arrived at the front of the church in tears. For several minutes, people inside the church struggled to open the padlock on the gate that for a year had kept Arellano protected from the outside.

Work immediately began for a vigil, from phone calls to alert supporters to getting batteries for the speakers they would use to take their message to the street.

Jacobita Alonso, a lay leader at the church who stayed with Arellano on the second-floor apartment over the last year, felt propelled to action.

"We cannot sit here only grieving. All we can do is organize our people. We want her to know she is not alone. The community is crying. Her fight is a fight for all people," she said Sunday. "There are thousands of Elviras. There are thousands of mothers just like Elvira who just want to keep their families together."

Alonso and a dozen other supporters sat in the second-floor apartment where Arellano lived, watching television news broadcasts and sending out messages by e-mail.

The group has already organized a vigil for 7 p.m. at the Immigration and Customs Enforcement office downtown at Congress Parkway and Clark Street and another at 9 a.m. at the same location to show support for Arellano, but also to protest the arrest.

George Atkins sat in the sanctuary, quitely observing.

"I'm sad she was arrested, but I'm proud that she was a member of this church and that I got to know her," Atkins said. "She always knew she could be arrested. She could have slipped quietly into the night like many others do but she chose to stand up for what she believed in."

Questions swirled up and down the church stairs. What would happen to Arellano's son? Where would Arellano go? Alonso said the boy was with Lozano, her closest advisor, but she wondered if he would be returned to Chicago, as Arellano had expressed hope to her many times before.

"All I can say is that miracles exist and we're praying," Alonso said.

Amid heavy rainfall, about three dozen people sang, prayed and read passages from the Bible during a vigil tonight outside the ICE's Chicago headquarters, 536 S. Clark St., to show their disapproval of her arrest.

One of the attendees, Ald. Ricardo Munoz (22nd), said, "It's a sad day. We need comprehensive immigration reform that keeps families together. A young boy, a > U.S. citizen, lost his mother to a broken system."

>
> Munoz said, "Elvira has put a face to this struggle. There are 12 million illegal immigrants that head to work every morning, not knowing if they'll come home at the end of the day."
>
> He said other aldermen would be reaching out to U.S. Sens. Dick Durbin and Barack Obama for help in diffusing the situation, and preventing Arellano from being deported.
>
> Jorge Mujica, an organizer of the March 10 Committee, which earlier this year set up a large scale protest downtown advocating immigration reform, said Arellano would not have been arrested in Chicago because she has so much support from city officials and the Latino community.
>
> "They waited for the right time. She could not live in the church forever," Mujica said.
>
> Up until now, she had been a symbol of the immigration debate, Mujica said. But now with her arrest she has become a martyr because "she has suffered unjustly."
>
> "People who had not heard of Elvira before are going to hear her story and better understand the debate," Mujica said.
>
> Tribune staff reporters Emma Graves Fitzsimmons and Andrew L. Wang contributed to this report from Chicago.
>
> Copyright © 2007, Chicago Tribune
>
> ---
>
> Take the Internet to Go: Yahoo!Go puts the Internet in your pocket: mail, news, photos & more.
> http://mobile.yahoo.com/go?refer=1GNXIC

Now you can see trouble…before he arrives http://newlivehotmail.com/?ocid=TXT_TAGHM_migration_HM_viral_protection_0507

↑ Index

551. W.B. Keckler
Cruising for Review Copies
Fri 24 Aug 2007

Joe Brainard's Pyjamas wants to continue to be a miscellany and in that spirit of getting even more miscellaneous am trolling for review copies of new works...give me your poetry, your prosoids, your huddled masses...esp. new mags if you're working one, because then it's like instant societal cross-section pb&j....yum. If it makes me prune in my bathtub I will review it on my site and you may be seen by actually DOZENS of people...and consequently promoted to Poetry Heaven...and it's all about getting to Poetry Heaven, right?...just send real addy request to my email and put "Snail Mail" in the heading....am open to novels but my short attention span requires the novel have asterisks or graphics or something that breaks it up...j/k...i read everything....the site attempts to be an online metaphorical creation of the Collier Bros. househould in New York (you know the one where they were crushed eventually by the mountains of accumulated random debris?)....here's where it accretes: _http://joebrainardspyjamas.blogspot.com/_ (http://joebrainardspyjamas.blogspot.com/)

* Get a sneak peek of the all-new AOL at http://discover.aol.com/memed/aolcom30tour

↑ Index

552. Diane DiPrima
Re: Gate A4 in Albuquerque Airport and the Mamool Cookies:
Fri 24 Aug 2007

Steve,

My books and poetry broadsides were confiscated at the Canadian border in 1969 when I was going to do a reading at Simon Fraser University. True, the broadside had a photograph of Amiri Baraka and all caps "Poetry is Revolution" headline style. But still.

My friend Irma Paule in NYC in 1966 had her tiny macrobiotic store and restaurant invaded, all the sacks of grain etc. cut open and poured on the floor and insecticide sprayed on them. Then she was arrested because selling books about using food as medicine in the same locale where you sold the same or similar foods constituted prescribing without an MD license.

I worked at the Phoenix bookstore in NYC in the late 1950s and could have been arrested everytime I took a book by Henry Miller or Jean Genet or Alex

Trocchi out of the back room for a customer (needless to say, the customer had to be someone we knew very well).

My point, I guess, is that it's all been going on for a long time. This administration is particularly invidious, but aside from openly condoning torture and turning the entire globe into an American prison complex--none of the stuff is new. Yet. Not the stuff at the airports, anyway.

It's good to fight it, but perhaps both surprise and indignation are luxuries we can no longer afford.

Nye's piece is important because we need to hear everything we can that will give us heart. No way we'll be distracted by such stories--but one can only go so far on anger, however righteous, before hitting a wall.

With love & solidarity

Diane di Prima

.

> From: Stephen Vincent <[redacted]>
> Reply-To: UB Poetics discussion group <[redacted]>
> Date: Fri, 24 Aug 2007 12:38:03 -0700
> To: <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: Gate A4 in Albuquerque Airport and the Mamool Cookies:
>
> Yesterday afternoon - from a return flight from abroad - I went through customs clearance in San Francisco. My partner was - for no apparent reason - told to put her bags through the screener. While I waited for her to go with relative ease through this process, I watched an entire Arab family of six or seven have their bags open and thoroughly investigated - the agents rifling through everything in each suitcase, asking questions about jars and containers with spices, etc.
>
> At another, inspection station, I watched an agent take two books and a note folder out of a man's brief case and then proceed to go through all the pages of notes, and then leaf through the books. The uniformed inspector's action gave me a very uncomfortable feeling - the sense of the State being able to have the unquestionable right to go through private papers. I suspect this is all done under the pretext that anyone is a potential terrorist and its done for 'our' protection.
>
> There is that sense of that thin line - the crossing of which becomes an act of state terrorism in which we are terrorized by these folks that are given this authority. What happens to your notes and books, for example, if you are found at the border to be carrying notes that are critical of the Bush regime, or the Christian Church, etc. And if you happen to be an Arab visitor, or Chinese, or...let alone a USA citizen ??

Nye's piece - kind as it is - does not go there. I wish that it would.

Stephen V
http://stephenvincent.net/blog/

Date: Fri, 24 Aug 2007 01:06:39 -0700 (PDT)
From: patricia blair <[redacted]>

How easily we could choose a world like this. WHy don't we? Peace to you, Pat

Friends,
This may just make your day.
Peace,
Margaret

Wandering Around an Albuquerque Airport Terminal
by Naomi Shihab Nye

After learning my flight was detained 4 hours, I heard the announcement: If anyone in the vicinity of gate 4-A understands any Arabic, please come to the gate immediately.

Well -- one pauses these days. Gate 4-A was my own gate. I went there. An older woman in full traditional Palestinian dress, just like my grandma wore, was crumpled to the floor, wailing loudly. Help, said the flight service person. Talk to her. What is her problem? We told her the flight was going to be four hours late and she did this.

I put my arm around her and spoke to her haltingly. Shu dow-a,shu-biduck habibti, stani stani schway, min fadlick, sho bit se-wee? The minute she heard my words she knew -- however poorly used -- she stopped crying. She thought our flight had been cancelled entirely. She needed to be in El Paso for some major medical treatment the following day. I said no, no, we're fine, you'll get there, just late, who is picking you up? Let's call him and tell him. We called her son and I spoke with him in English.

I told him I would stay with his mother till we got on the plane and would ride next to her. She talked to him. Then we called her other sons just for the fun of it. Then we called my dad and he and she spoke for a while in Arabic and found out of course they had ten shared friends. Then I thought just for the heck of it why not call some Palestinian poets I know and let them chat with her.

This all took up about 2 hours. She was laughing a lot by then. Telling about her life. Answering questions.

She had pulled a sack of homemade mamool cookies -- little powdered sugar crumbly mounds stuffed with dates and nuts -- out of her bag and was offering them to all the women at the gate. To my amazement, not a single woman declined one. It was like a sacrament. The traveler from Argentina, the traveler from California, the lovely woman from Laredo -- we were all covered with the same powdered sugar. And smiling. There are no better cookies.

And then the airline broke out the free beverages from huge coolers -- non-alcoholic -- and the two little girls for our flight, one African-American, one Mexican-American -- ran around serving us all apple juice and lemonade and they were covered with powdered sugar, too. And I noticed my new best friend -- by now we were holding hands -- had a potted plant poking out of her bag, some medicinal thing, with green furry leaves. Such an old country traveling tradition. Always carry a plant. Always stay rooted to somewhere. And I looked around that gate of late and weary ones and thought, this is the world I want to live in. The shared world. Not a single person in this gate -- once the crying of confusion stopped -- has seemed apprehensive about any other person. They took the cookies. I wanted to hug all those other women, too. This can still happen, anywhere.

Not everything is lost.

Naomi Shihab Nye is an American poet of Palestinian background.

The Rev. Mike Kinman
Executive Director, Episcopalians for Global Reconciliation
[redacted] + [redacted] + www.e4gr.org <http://www.e4gr.org> +
http://revmikek.blogspot.com
"The alleviation of material suffering in the world and the spiritual renewal of the church go hand in hand."
-The Rev. Dr. Sabina Alkire

> =

↑ Index

553. Andrew Jones
Re: Poems from Guantánamo
Fri 24 Aug 2007

Just caught the end of an interview on Al Jazeera English with a former detainee Martin ? about this book. Have any of the North American mainstream propaganda machines given this any time?

On 8/23/07, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:
> > If you mean the arguments around the book should be taken seriously, I > > agree. If you mean the poetry should be taken seriously, I disagree.
> > Firstly, most of these poems, as I understand the situation, were not > > written by poets. Thus, for a poet to take them seriously is like a > > cosmologist taking the Book of Genesis seriously. Further, even > > those that > > may have been written by persons of talent, they are not their > > poems, but > > fabrications made up by the military. The real poems and stories
> > we will get > > someday when these people are free to write them and publish them
without > > being censored by the very people who tortured them. You are > > right that it
> > does raise interesting questions, but political ones, not poetic ones.
> >
> > -Joel
>
> my intuition is that you're mistaken, joel.
>
> what's interesting in contemporary poetry, to me, is not usually the > well-crafted poem. though that can be interesting.
>
> there are books being created now, such as ken goldsmith's work and, say, > kervinen's "(no subject)" that are of real interest but are quite different > from the well-crafted poem or novel or book.
>
> just about everything is unsaid. i'm not sure what's really interesting > about all poetry is what's said. instead, it can be the inroads it makes
> into the unsaid.

>
> books are often famous not for what they say but as materializations of or > testaments to a situation or time or to people or peoples etc. or as objects > emblematic of a concept.
>
> poets, when they are famous, are sometimes famous not so much for their > poetry as their place in a network or a movement or a demographic or > whatever.
>
> part of what is significant in poetry is the nature of its intensities of > language, its relations with language, the way that language and its > contemporary states are drawn into the vortex of the poem or book or site or > whatever the manifestation of the language/poetry is.
>
> the poems from guantanamo--the poems themselves and also the whole
frame,
> the whole situation--should be of deep concern, particularly in the usa.
> poetry detained. poetry is detained not only in the usa but in other western > countries. not only poetry but art and thought. by the authorities? well > usually we are our own authorities, aren't we.
>
> you speak of "the real poems and stories" as opposed to the "fabrications > made up by the military". it's of course true that the poems and stories in > the book are tortured by the military.
>
> but perhaps what is significant is not the authenticity of the poems but the > nature of their inauthenticity. perhaps what is significant is not the poems > themselves, authentic or inauthentic but the whole complex of the situation, > situated as art. i know it is more of a sort of approach generally > associated with visual art than literary art, but it has its usefulness. in > this case, it allows us to see significance where a more traditional > literary approach to the well-crafted poem leaves us in a situation where, > as you say, we can only see the significance of the book in political terms,
> not in relation to art and language.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
>

↑ Index

554. David Chirot
Re: Poems from Guantánamo
Fri 24 Aug 2007

On the contrary, I think discussions around a poem can be extremely important. On the one hand, they can elevate a work to the Canon--and on the other to the scrap heaps of history-- or simply to nowhere--

The fragments-- and even a poem--by Sappho, found inside the wrappings of tenth rate mummies thrown on to the smoldering dusty heaps of ancient waste dumps, scuttling about for centuries in the raggedy winds of battering and forgetful histories--

The Israelis withholding the entrance into Gaza of this year's school supplies--no paper, no pens, erasers, inks, textbooks, notebooks--for any young Palestinian to write a poem!--Let alone read one, study about them--except to resort to scratching them in the dirt, learningthem by memory--shipping the young poets off to some other period of the creation of poetry--outside the "civilized" present--

One book of Guantanamo Poetry is enough, don't you think?--Can't allow too much sympathy in the outside world for the hordes of confined and tortured "suspects" can we now?

Something i think about often is there may have been throughout history and are still--many truly great, gifted, visionary poets, artists, of all kinds--who were and are not allowed to learn to read or write, use paints, clay, express themselves in song, dance or oral poetry--

Given that women have been so long excluded from learning writing, painting, sculpture, music, any of the arts--or, even when allowed, confined to the realm of the domestic expression of these through "accomplishments" such as playing the piano nicely, or as "handi-work,"handicrafts" "pastimes"--or confined to "lower forms" of the various arts--"excellent cooks" but not "chefs", "seamstresses" but not Tailors for the VIP--"good at decorating the home" but never Interior Designer to the So and Sos--great stenographers but never Lawyer, Poet, Entrepreneur-- how many poets and artists were never even given the means of expression let alone allowed to take their "minor" contributions outside of the house or family circle?

How many geniuses toiled as slaves through history--prohibited from any learning--how many whose ethnic or religious or economic group not allowed to participate in any way in any form of the cultural? Or--creating works, not having the works recognized--not just the great poets and artists unrecognized in their own time, but the progenitors of Art Brut--their work consigned to the looney bin, the prison, or simply as being the eccentricities of "common folk."

For there to be the poem to consider in the first place, there has to have been a route by which it is allowed to arrive at this state. "Allowed" because as one knows, many works were never allowed to arrive anywhere until much later or far from their sites of origin.

And many are never allowed to arrive anywhere at all. Not even on a piece of paper or papyrus or clay tablet.

There also along the way has to be for many works the recognition brought to bear by another poet, artist, who can see and hear and think through the layerings of obscurities covering up the work deep inside, almost lost in space and time--a Breton discovering Lautreamont in the Paris Library, a Jean Dubuffet with the vision of Art Brut--and before him, Prinzhorn and his Artistry of the Mentally Ill, a Picasso bring African art into the conscioussness of modern Western Art--the examples of such findings are a very great many.

An immense matrix may be involved with the poem--its being made in the first place, then read--by a reader who recognizes it as a poem. The routes and methods, quantities, qualities of the modes of publishing, distributing, promoting or not--the poem. Which person first brings it to the attention of others--"now HERE is a POEM!!"--well if critic/blogger BIG says this--suddenly many somnolent heads look up and eager arms reach out to get hold of a copy of that POEM! If critic/blogger small says 'now here is a poem" (smaller case in keeping with the much smaller voice-range of the voice)--then who the heck really cares?

Say the poem does make its way out into the world and have something of it enough to garner a bit of attention--well--then where does one put this poem, this poet--within the types of poetry being made, the heirarchies within those types--and within those ever smaller circles--once properly placed--how does this immediately alter the poem--in terms of how many read it once classified--and how it is read by this group of people--coming to it with a pre-conception of the poem's type--what to expect, to demand, to subject it to--by what selective criteria to"weigh it"--determine it's "value"--

You see, this is all a very serious "business"! The incomes of many Deciders, teachers, publishers, printers, web masters, bookstore owners, libraries, depend on it!! And poets, too!

Because this whole industry--this serious business-- of Decidings--in itself creates an audience--some classifications being "better" than others to be sure--depending on the ideologies of writing and reading of the times.

George Bush often calls himself "the Decider" ("That's my job. To Decide. To be the Decider.") This is also the role often assigned to the Authorities, the Deciders, whom one places varying degrees of trust in in re poetry, the poem.

The BIG critic/blogger. Silliman gives it two thumbs up!!! Bernstein says wow! Perloff places it in the context of Radical Displacements within the Dewey decimal System and so forth. Harold Bloom says a jeremiad. So and so is tickled pink. And some else is calling out for takeout, a real down home celebration of the true thing come home at last. Or one turns to yet other BIGs--the ones one prefers. AHHH! The BIG one says this book is the shit! You bet I'm gonna buy it! I just know it will be great! And yes, it won't be too long and there will be an other and yet another one one just has to have! That "poetry fix"!--

You see--it is indeed serious business-which poems one buys to consume--to own--to get a fix--or build a library--of the right poems!!--the good ones, the ones worth, yes, worth reading!!! one must after all expect some sort of return on one's investment----whether a quick fix--or a nice long shelf of the poems that "really matter to me"--and do so indeed, right there, in all their materiality as chunks of matter--"you can always use it for a door stopper"---"or throw it at the mice"--

All this while the poem is picking up steam, or losing gas--or "really taking off, mark it with a bullet". Or else on the one way lonely walk back to Palookaville.

Even in regards to the poet who wrote it--what is the life of the poem? Does it end up in the waste basket, used for wrapping up a fig for later, shoved into the parrakeet's cage in place of another old poem, now covered with excrements? Does it sit forever in the hard drive, or on the can--or actually get shipped off someplace?

And does a poem even live the life the poet would want it to? Might not a poem indeed have lives and skies of its own as Petra Backonja writes in an essay, "The Lives they Wish"?

The poem may have for itself quite another life in mind than that rather humdrum classifiable one planned by the poet!

And not care a rap about the BIGS and smalls --or the poet----at all and take off for quite some other destination entirely--finding its own company--

Running into a Dubbuffet of its own choosing perhaps someday--and teaching him a thing or two--or--going underground--or--simply "blending in" among people at a bus stop on a rainy day--

On the one hand the discussion around a poem can very greatly determine the actual existence of the poem--and by extension, that of the poet, where and when and how they will be placed, seated at the banquet, or at the picnic table, or outside the fence, looking in at the gay revelers--

Will the poem "arrive" in a place where it wil be read?--and read by whom? and with what methods of reading? in what spaces of reading find itself being handled ?--what responses receiving?--in what media?--and for how long?--

Or will it--not arrive anywhere-- and the poet maybe not even arriving at the writing of a poem, though filled with poems--

and on the other hand--the poem may not at all have this life as "the poem" that the poet might want it to have--or the BIGS and smalls-- and go off to find its own places visible or invisible in the world-- leaving the poet to hang on to her or his seat in the tenuous waiting rooms-- among the others awaiting their turn in court-- the tennis court, the kangaroo court, night court, criminal court, court of public opinion, Royal Court, divorce court, Military Tribunal, the Court of Last Resort---the courting of Dame Fortune and Fame--- clutching a document where a poem used to be-- claiming to be a poet--

"When traveling to a town new to you--take a good look at the faces of the people on their way back from it"
--French Proverb
(If there are any people coming back from it--)
Is that really a place anyone might want to go--any poem-any poet?--
Is it for one to decide--or for others--???
Or various compromises, negotiations, diplomacies, tributes paid, bribes proffered, to work out some "some form of agreement"--- Necessity is the motherfucker of invention---and--whose necessities--may invent further circumstances--

On 8/24/07, Thomas savage <[redacted]> wrote:
> I disagree that discussions around any poem are as important as the poem itself. The poem or poems always take precedence over any verbal (live or in print) emanation which emerges as a result of their existence and is thus obviously dependent upon it. As someone who writes poetry constantly and only occasionally criticism (usually reviews,only occasionally of poetry, available at Tribes.org), I don't see expository writing about poetry as being all that important, anyway. The discussions on these listservs (this one and Wryting-L) are entertaining and often informative but the poems themselves are ultimately what I and I believe all of us are truly about. Regards, Tom Savage
>
> "Tom W. Lewis" <[redacted]> wrote: fyi (I've probably mentioned this here before):

>
> "poet, poem, poetry" derive from the Greek poiein, "to make", also "to cause, effect, create, render, grow, produce, invent..."
>
> Greek pots were often signed by their makers "X me epoien" -- "X made me"
>
> I bring this etymology forward to our time by seeing poetic work as a made thing, a crafted object -- while you can become a master craftsperson through diligent study of the way objects like this are made, someone else can just as easily pick up a lump of clay and mold their own pot with the same tools (their hands) as the master -- the result will be different from the master's, but (theoretically) it will still carry water.
>
> based on this line of reasoning, the act of writing a poem makes the author a poet.
>
> does this fit with what Maria is saying in her comment, or am I off on my own simplistic tangent?
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Maria Damon
> Sent: Thursday, August 23, 2007 8:32
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: Poems from Guantánamo
>
> i am uncomfortable with the aesthetic hierarchy espoused here, reified
> in the word "talent." it is true that such a thing does and does not > exist, but it is certainly not the only, or the most salient, criterion
> by which we determine whether something has worth. to reify the person > of the "poet," is , to my mind, even more dangerous. talk about > policing! i do agree, though, that discussions around the poetry is at > least as important as the poetry itself, but i might argue this about > any "poem."
>
> Joel Weishaus wrote:
> > Mairead;
> >
> > If you mean the arguments around the book should be taken seriously, I > > agree. If you mean the poetry should be taken seriously, I disagree.
> > Firstly, most of these poems, as I understand the situation, were not > > written by poets. Thus, for a poet to take them seriously is like a > > cosmologist taking the Book of Genesis seriously. Further, even those that > > may have been written by persons of talent, they are not their poems, but > > fabrications made up by the military. The real poems and stories we will get > > someday when these people are free to write them and publish them

without > > being censored by the very people who tortured them. You are right that it > > does raise interesting questions, but political ones, not poetic ones.
> >
> > -Joel
> >
> >
> > ---------- Forwarded message ----------
> > From: Mairead Byrne
> > Date: Aug 22, 2007 9:49 PM
> > Subject: Re: Poems from Guantánamo
> > To: [redacted]
> >
> >
> > I find the claim that this book shouldn't be taken seriously,
> > "certainly not by poets," to be extraordinary. The extent to which > > this book is embroiled in economic realities, both publishing and > > political, offers a very strong invitation to this poet, at least, to > > take it seriously. Joel, why do you say the book shouldn't be taken > > seriously, "certainly not by poets"? Its publication by the > > University of Iowa Press, in today's America, and the stated history
> > of its publication path make it very interesting to think and talk > > about, in my view; as does the tension between the stated and very > > visible challenges to its meaning, and all the less visible and > > apprehensible challenges. It's like a cup which has lost every single > > drop of poetry, except one maybe -- or even just the smell of poetry
> > in its pores. Or maybe it's just a cup which, because it has been > > used to carry poetry, someone is still willing to carry. There is > > meaning, maybe not centrally located. In the short essays, it's > > clear how compromised the book is, yet it speaks. Not fluently, but > > fluently. The dialogue between poetry and government in this book is > > a scrap of reality, a broken but not worthless thing. Why should the > > book not be taken seriously, "certainly not by poets"? It is a > > product of the economies we work in, and raises many useful questions > > about poetry for me, even at the level of nostalgia for a genre. I > > don't have the book in front of me as I write, but I've read it. I > > can return to the questions it raised for me later.

> > Mairead
> >
> >
> >>>> [redacted] 08/22/07 12:51 PM >>>
> >>>>
> > David:
> >
> > I don't find this review strange, but right to the point. You have to > > be living in an alternative universe to think that this book > > represents the real feelings of the prisoners. Not only was it > > censored, but the original language wasn't allowed to be published, on > > the pretense that it contains secret messages! What could the secret > > message possibly be from someone in prison for so many years? One > > wonders if this is paranoia, playacting, or just plain stupidity.
> > In any case, I think the review is basically sound, and that this book > > should not be taken seriously, certainly not by poets! If I have any > > problems with the review, it's with the author's contention that a > > poem can't reveal the reality of one's life. I think the opposite is > > true, only not in the case of this book.
> >
> > Best,
> > Joel Weishaus
> >
> >
> > Date: Tue, 21 Aug 2007 07:59:18 -0700
> > From: David Chirot
> > Subject: Poems From Guant=?ISO-8859-1?Q?=E1namo:?= The Detainees S > > peak - Books - Review - New York Times
> >
> > this is a rather strange review--
> >
> > http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/19/books/review/Chiasson-t.html?
_r=1&ref=books&oref=slogin
> > ---
> >
>
>
>
> ---
> Ready for the edge of your seat? Check out tonight's top picks on Yahoo! TV.
>

↑ Index

555. Alan Sondheim

skipping and ghost-traps

Fri 24 Aug 2007

skipping and ghost-traps

skipping as the third walk/run/skip gait - where is OUR ethnography of skipping

BUT

radio waves - shortwaves, spherics, whistlers:
ionosopheric skipping

in the samples here, the GROUND of the crystal radio is connected to the ANTENNA of a second crystal radio the OUTPUT of the first (large loose coupler) c.r. connects to the INPUT of a VLF (very low frequency) radio the OUTPUT of the VLF radio connects to the INPUT of a minidisk recorder

the two crystal radios operate with DIODES and COILS: INDUCTORs

the COILS are ghost-traps absorbing everything within their spectral range

nothing but wound wire self-inducting, mutually inducting, everything around they capture invisible spirits how close to the speed of light

mdos or 'thread-cross'

'In other cases the _mdos_ fulfills the same purpose as a gtor ma; it provides a temporary abode for a deity.'

'The patches of wood which are often attached to the sticks forming the _mdos_ are in this case supposed to represent the clouds floating around the heavenly abode.'

(Oracles and Demons of Tibet, The Cult and Iconography of the Tibetan Protective Deities, Rene deNebesky-Wojkowitz, Paljor, 1998)

the RANGE appears to cover the medium-wave (AM) band as well as somewhat above and below it.

http://www.asondheim.org/cryr1.jpg and http://www.asondheim.org/cryr2.jpg = images of the circuitry

http://www.asondheim.org/dean0.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/dean1.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/dean2.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/dean3.jpg =

our happy home; we are on the third floor of what has become (thanks to the RATNER PROJECT) an URBAN WASTELAND. you can SEE OUR ROOF BUT YOU CAN'T SEE OUR WIRES

the sound files:
http://www.asondheim.org/rrr1.wav
sample wa file with interesting content to be use http://www.asondheim.org/rr3hiss.wav this is a second output file with a hiss filter applied in such a manner that everything but the hiss is filtered out the result is a radio background soundtrack with quite interesting phases shifts and other phenomena

http://www.asondheim.org/rrr4.wav
a third file again with interesting content presented 'straight'

there is are some changes as a result of switching wires but what's of great interest (that word again) is the tremolo (using a galena crystal instead of a diode) as well as a high-pitched signal and other background materials

http://www.asondheim.org/rrr4hiss.wav the same filel with hiss only remaining http://www.asondheim.org/rrr4hissminus.wav the same file with hiss removed http://www.asondheim.org/maple.jpg a closeup of our japanese maple which oversees everything

↑ Index

556. Stephen Vincent Surveillance
Fri 24 Aug 2007

Today I received my bill from AT&T with this interesting Brand or Tagline on the envelope:

"AT&T - the most complete provider for the way you live."

Interesting, and more than a bit spooky, in light of the current court cases against AT&T and the Government on account of the company's cooperation with the Department of Homeland Security in the warrant less surveillance of phone calls and emails. (If not, the info is easily Googled.)

That word "provider" - in the sense of provision - in terms of surveillance (i.e., total invasion of privacy without permission) is curious. Time - as these suits suggest -to put Providence (Cheney, Bush, et al) on something more than probation, certainly under public and judicial surveillance.

Or consider "surveillance" as one of the objects of poet and poem. To witness, etc.

Stephen V
http://stephenvincent.net/blog/

↑ Index

557. Daniel Godston
fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
Fri 24 Aug 2007

Hi,

Can any of you recommend some good books & other sources about fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing?

I just bought Darren Wershler-Henry's "The Iron Whim: A Fragmented History of Typewriting," just started it. Here's the NPR interview with DWH: http://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=12900006.

Jaroslav Andel's "Avant-Garde Page Design 1900-1950" is an amazing book, and so is Steven Clay & Rodney Phillips' "A Secret Location on the Lower East Side."

Then there's "Helvetica," the movie: http://www.helveticafilm.com/.

Thanks,

Dan

↑ Index

558. Tim Peterson
CALL FOR PAPERS: CRITIPHORIA
Fri 24 Aug 2007

Hello everyone...I'm resending this CFP for Critiphoria, which is a little more fleshed-out after further discussion today.Best, Tim* * * *

CRITIPHORIA
A Journal of Poetry and Criticism

Edited by Stephen Paul Miller, Tim Peterson, and Cecilia Wu

Contributing Editors: Denise Duhamel, Peter Frank, Karen Alkaly-Gut, Bob Holman, Maria Damon, Carolee Schneemann, David Shapiro.

Critiphoria is a journal partially funded by St. Johns University which seeks submissions of "poetry-criticism" in all its forms for a first issue to be published in late 2007. This new journal will energize poetry and criticism through one another, exploring their intersection in the possibility of a "third genre" that grows out of such precedents as Charles Bernstein's "Artifice of Absorption," Stephen Paul Miller's poem reviews and essay/lectures, Lyn Hejinian's poetic nonfiction, David Antin's talk poems, and a variety of dialogic critical-poetic objects (we enthusiastically anticipate new models). We will publish essays in poetic form, essays using poetic methodology, poems with critical content, "poetry-criticism," essays concerning poetry-criticism, statements about poetic production. We also invite items of a more general nature pertinent to these topics, including essays, poems, visual art, vispo, audio, and e-poetry.

Submissions may include a statement concerning the submission and how it concerns dynamic interaction between poetry and criticism.

Critiphoria will appear at http://www.critiphoria.org, and a print edition will also be published. Subscriptions are $20/two issues. Email submissions or other correspondence to the editors: Stephen Paul Miller, Tim Peterson, and Cecilia Wu at [redacted].

=

↑ Index

559. J Crockett
A cool thing about me...
Fri 24 Aug 2007

I can insert 100 left-margin xhtml line breaks in 10 seconds, no right-clicking or searchnreplaces or macrofunctions involved. (So the page source looks competent to other web designers, who count for one third of non-peak direct traffic.)

Yes, that is one cool thing you know about me.
And it follows, I must tell you two cool things about other people.

Someone says she's an "amateur photographer." She is capable of borrowing your soul on that day. Someone says he's an "intermediate" chess player. He is capable of mopping the floor with you.

Also, when I require a "stronger objection" to my edition of your works, And then you do, then why don't you have an MFA?

↑ Index

560. Catherine Daly
Philomene Long died
Fri 24 Aug 2007

Philomene Long (married to poet John Thomas), author of Queen of Bohemia, Cold Eye Burning at 3 am, and many other books and chapbooks, and one of the seminal members of the Venice beat community just died.

That's all the info. I have right now, but I will be looking around for memorial service info., etc.

--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

↑ Index

561. eric unger
Re: listenlight new issue 11
Fri 24 Aug 2007

Thanks for including Mr. Damian Weber's Blackbird Haikus in this issue Mr. Crockett! His work needs more exposure. Good work sir.

Eric Unger

On 8/23/07, Clay Banes <[redacted]> wrote:
> jesse, i hate to edit you, but it's never "the hoi polloi."
>
> On 8/23/07, J Crockett <[redacted]> wrote:
> > "Back to basics"
> >
> >

> > featuring works by ---
> >
> > doctors, lawyers, and the hoi polloi
> >
> >
> > http://listenlight.net
> >
>
>
> --
> EYEBALL HATRED
> http://claytonbanes.blogspot.com/
>

↑ Index

562. Ruth Lepson
Re: Gate A4 in Albuquerque Airport and the Mamool Cookies:
Sat 25 Aug 2007

Diane,

Your email brings back the '60s in a real way--of course it was mixed--and as I remember you are talking in a film about the Beats about how the repercussions were different (harder) for women then--another reality. Thank you for the complexity.

Ruth

On 8/24/07 5:54 PM, "Diane DiPrima" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Steve,
>
> My books and poetry broadsides were confiscated at the Canadian border in 1969 when I was going to do a reading at Simon Fraser University. True, the broadside had a photograph of Amiri Baraka and all caps "Poetry is Revolution" headline style. But still.
>
> My friend Irma Paule in NYC in 1966 had her tiny macrobiotic store and restaurant invaded, all the sacks of grain etc. cut open and poured on the floor and insecticide sprayed on them. Then she was arrested because selling books about using food as medicine in the same locale where you sold the same or similar foods constituted prescribing without an MD license.
>
> I worked at the Phoenix bookstore in NYC in the late 1950s and could have been arrested everytime I took a book by Henry Miller or Jean Genet or Alex Trocchi out of the back room for a customer (needless to say, the customer had to be someone we knew very well).

My point, I guess, is that it's all been going on for a long time. This administration is particularly invidious, but aside from openly condoning torture and turning the entire globe into an American prison complex--none of the stuff is new. Yet. Not the stuff at the airports, anyway.

It's good to fight it, but perhaps both surprise and indignation are luxuries we can no longer afford.

Nye's piece is important because we need to hear everything we can that will give us heart. No way we'll be distracted by such stories--but one can only go so far on anger, however righteous, before hitting a wall.

With love & solidarity

Diane di Prima

.

From: Stephen Vincent <[redacted]>
Reply-To: UB Poetics discussion group <[redacted]>
Date: Fri, 24 Aug 2007 12:38:03 -0700
To: <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Gate A4 in Albuquerque Airport and the Mamool Cookies:

Yesterday afternoon - from a return flight from abroad - I went through customs clearance in San Francisco. My partner was - for no apparent reason - told to put her bags through the screener. While I waited for her to go with relative ease through this process, I watched an entire Arab family of six or seven have their bags open and thoroughly investigated - the agents rifling through everything in each suitcase, asking questions about jars and containers with spices, etc.

At another, inspection station, I watched an agent take two books and a note folder out of a man's brief case and then proceed to go through all the pages of notes, and then leaf through the books. The uniformed inspector's action gave me a very uncomfortable feeling - the sense of the State being able to have the unquestionable right to go through private papers. I suspect this is all done under the pretext that anyone is a potential terrorist and its done for 'our' protection.

There is that sense of that thin line - the crossing of which becomes an act of state terrorism in which we are terrorized by these folks that are given this authority. What happens to your notes and books, for example, if you are found at the border to be carrying notes that are critical of the Bush regime, or the Christian Church, etc. And if you happen to be an Arab visitor, or Chinese, or...let alone a USA citizen ??

Nye's piece - kind as it is - does not go there. I wish that it would.

Stephen V
http://stephenvincent.net/blog/

Date: Fri, 24 Aug 2007 01:06:39 -0700 (PDT)
From: patricia blair <[redacted]>

How easily we could choose a world like this. WHy don't we? Peace to you, Pat

Friends,
This may just make your day.
Peace,
Margaret

Wandering Around an Albuquerque Airport Terminal
by Naomi Shihab Nye

After learning my flight was detained 4 hours, I heard the announcement: If anyone in the vicinity of gate 4-A understands any Arabic, please come to the gate immediately.

Well -- one pauses these days. Gate 4-A was my own gate. I went there. An older woman in full traditional Palestinian dress, just like my grandma wore, was crumpled to the floor, wailing loudly. Help, said the flight service person. Talk to her. What is her problem? We told her the flight was going to be four hours late and she did this.

I put my arm around her and spoke to her haltingly. Shu dow-a,shu-biduck habibti, stani stani schway, min fadlick, sho bit se-wee? The minute she heard my words she knew -- however poorly used -- she stopped crying. She thought our flight had been cancelled entirely. She needed to be in El Paso for some major medical treatment the following day. I said no, no, we're fine, you'll get there, just late, who is picking you up? Let's call him and tell him. We called her son and I spoke with him in English.

I told him I would stay with his mother till we got on the plane and would ride next to her. She talked to him. Then we called her other sons just for the fun of it. Then we called my dad and he and she spoke for a while in Arabic and found out of course they had ten shared friends. Then I thought just for the heck of it why not call some Palestinian poets I know and let them chat with her.

This all took up about 2 hours. She was laughing a lot by then. Telling about her life. Answering questions.

She had pulled a sack of homemade mamool cookies -- little powdered sugar crumbly mounds stuffed with dates and nuts -- out of her bag and was offering them to all the women at the gate. To my amazement, not a single woman declined one. It was like a sacrament. The traveler from Argentina, the traveler from California, the lovely woman from Laredo -- we were all covered with the same powdered sugar. And smiling. There are no better cookies.

And then the airline broke out the free beverages from huge coolers -- non-alcoholic -- and the two little girls for our flight, one African-American, one Mexican-American -- ran around serving us all apple juice and lemonade and they were covered with powdered sugar, too. And I noticed my new best friend -- by now we were holding hands -- had a potted plant poking out of her bag, some medicinal thing, with green furry leaves. Such an old country traveling tradition. Always carry a plant. Always stay rooted to somewhere. And I looked around that gate of late and weary ones and thought, this is the world I want to live in. The shared world. Not a single person in this gate -- once the crying of confusion stopped -- has seemed apprehensive about any other person. They took the cookies. I wanted to hug all those other women, too. This can still happen, anywhere.

Not everything is lost.

Naomi Shihab Nye is an American poet of Palestinian background.

The Rev. Mike Kinman
Executive Director, Episcopalians for Global Reconciliation
[redacted] + [redacted] + www.e4gr.org <http://www.e4gr.org> + http://revmikek.blogspot.com
"The alleviation of material suffering in the world and the spiritual renewal of the church go hand in hand."
-The Rev. Dr. Sabina Alkire

> =

↑ Index

563. Schlesinger Kyle

Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing

Sat 25 Aug 2007

Even if you're not a type geek the Helvetica film will seduce you--great soundtrack to boot. There's a short bibliography on the DIY page at the Cuneiform Press site that I think people with a literary (rather than strictly graphic arts) background might enjoy. Charles Bernstein's Textual Conditions syllabus is a great 'survey' as well.

Kyle

_____
Kyle Schlesinger
www.kyleschlesinger.com
www.cuneiformpress.com

> From: Daniel Godston <[redacted]>
> Reply-To: <[redacted]>
> Date: Fri, 24 Aug 2007 18:38:14 -0500
> To: <[redacted]>
> Subject: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
>
> Hi,
>
> Can any of you recommend some good books & other sources about fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing?
>
> I just bought Darren Wershler-Henry's "The Iron Whim: A Fragmented History of Typewriting," just started it. Here's the NPR interview with DWH: http://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=12900006.
>
> Jaroslav Andel's "Avant-Garde Page Design 1900-1950" is an amazing book, and so is Steven Clay & Rodney Phillips' "A Secret Location on the Lower East Side."
>
> Then there's "Helvetica," the movie: http://www.helveticafilm.com/.
>
> Thanks,
>
> Dan

↑ Index

564. Rob McLennan
new (slowly) from above/ground press
Sat 25 Aug 2007

new (finally, slowly) from above/ground press

> ...as above/ground press slowly works its way through backlog...

Heteroskeptical
by Marcus McCann (Ottawa)
$4

E l e a n o r
by Amanda Earl (Ottawa)
$4

the black prince of bank street
by William Hawkins (Ottawa)
$4

Marcus McCann is an editor and writer at Capital Xtra. His poetry debuted in the The Antigonish Review at age 18. He is the editor of theonionunion.com, a selector for Bywords and a former selector for Yawp. With Nicholas Lea and Andrew Faulkner, he is the author-translator of Basement Tapes (The Onion Union, 2007), a chapbook of homolinguistic translations. As winner of the 2005 University of Ottawa 48-Hour Novella Writing Contest, his So Long, Derrida (UESA, 2006) was published by the university. Heteroskeptical (above/ground press, 2007) is his first solo poetry chapbook.

Amanda Earl's poems appeared most recently in ottawater.com 3.0, listenlight.net and the Ottawa Arts Review. Amanda is the managing editor of Bywords.ca and the Bywords Quarterly Journal. She blogs about literary stuff on amandaearl.blogspot.com and ottawapoetry.blogspot.com. She also writes fiction and has been published in anthologies with the word sex in them.

William Hawkins was born in Ottawa. After side trips to the West Coast and Mexico, he resides in the Capital, pursuing enlightenment or a reasonable alternative thereto. Hawkins has worked as a truck driver, cook, journalist and musician before settling on the taxi profession as a means of preserving integrity and ensuring near-poverty. His collections of poems include Shoot Low, Sheriff, They're Riding Shetland Ponies (Ottawa), Two longer poems (Patrician Press, Toronto), Hawkins (Nil Press, Ottawa), Ottawa Poems (weed/flower press, Kitchener), The Gift of Space (New Press, Toronto) and The Madman's War (S.A.W. Publications, Ottawa). In 2005, a collection of his work, titled Dancing Alone: Selected Poems 1960-1990, was release by Broken Jaw Press (Fredericton) and cauldron books (Ottawa). He has also recorded a CD of his best songs titled Dancing Alone.

To order any of these little books, add $1 for postage, & in Canadian currency; if sending from outside Canada, send in American, payable to rob mclennan, c/o 858 Somerset Street West, main floor, Ottawa, Ontario Canada K1R 6R7 (after September first, write rob c/o writer-in-residence, Department of English and Film Studies, University of Alberta, 3-5 Humanities Centre, Edmonton, AB T6G 2E5); above/ground press subscribers receive (honest!) a complimentary copy; calendar year subscriptions available for $40 (currently taking advance orders for 2008), & include chapbooks, broadsides, STANZAS magazine & The Peter F. Yacht Club.

for more info and links, check out:
http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/2007/08/new-finally-slowly-from-aboveground.html

-- poet/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...13th poetry coll'n - The Ottawa City Project .... c/o 858 Somerset St W, Ottawa ON K1R 6R7 * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

565. David Chirot

re Surveillance: CCTV & "Laboratory for a Fortressed World" & Walls, Economics of Security

Sat 25 Aug 2007

The article below re Surveillance and Security as "infotainment" is from yesterday-- a truly Orwellian reality being installed "right before our very eyes" as we both watch it and are recorded watching it for the benefit of the Powers that Be-- following that a blog entry that is accompanied by many images relatting with Security Surveillance etc-- and an article on the new economics of the Security and Surveillance technologies in which as article states Gaza is a Laboratory for the new Fortress World this is an ongoing theme, along with Walls works and related work, links, articles, images--at http://davidbaptistechirot.blogspot.com

and ways in which visuality, vision, visual arts work along side/against/with the new technologies, archtitectures of Security--

Guardian Unlimited | Comment is free | Democracy's new dawn is on CCTV: the security state as infotainment

http://www.guardian.co.uk/commentisfree/story/0,,2155352,00.html ---

Date: Jul 19, 2007 10:36 AM
Subject: Re: "Laboratory for a Fortressed World" in relation with the "Walls" Works and Themes ongoing

On 7/19/07, David Chirot <[redacted]> wrote:
(following this is the "Laboratory for a Fortressed World" article and link)

> This is a fascinating article and has a lot of relationship with the works and themes to do with aspects of Walls at this blog.The terrifying aspects of Walls are in danger of greatly multiplying globally--from heavily secured and guarded gated communities to their counterparts, the huge prisons of Gaza and West Bank, to the privatization of the "Prison Industry" in the United States, "reservations" for indigenous populations in USA, Canada and elsewhere, to the construction of ever more tightly controlled and secured borders, checkpoints, entrances to public and private buildings, helicopter surveillances of ghetto areas, satelite systems, cameras posted on city wide street corners and other vantage points on to the non-stop work of legal and illegal intrusion into electronic files, records, links.
>
> The production of security and surveillance--whose security--and what may not be "doctored" in the "recordings" and "files"? At what point does "making visible" cross over into "rendering invisible"--fron "rendition flights" to secret torture chambers to the mass erasure of former legal boundaries by "redrawing the lines" with Walls, bulldozers, tanks, drones, surveillance "eyes in the skies" of ever greater power and definition?
>
> To "see" becomes a way literally for "looks that can kill" to be operative at the push of a button. (Robot eyes that will be implanted in the "Seperation" Wall so that there is no need of paying for fallible human eyes and hands to fire guns, rockets--all will be accomplished "automatically".)
>
> Walls are also a way to "hide from view" the torture and imprisonment of "undesireable aliens" who may be continually redefined as such using the most arbitrary of markers--"contagious", "addict" "poor" "defective motor/mental development" "inferior ethnic group" "person with beliefs contrary to the common good" "terror suspect" "dissident"-already the media are used as a tool in this conflict--naming, targeting, creating "persons of fear"/"to be feared"--and the time is now for the development of the Incorporation of New Mercenaries such as Blackwater and the "clean up and recovery" operations of Haliburton, Bechtel and others. One can buy both the creations of disasters and their subsequent "remodelings" into "new communities", "new vacation playgrounds", "new development areas".
>
> And in order for al these operations to exist, there needs to be the continual creation of Fear throughout ever more strati of society. Thus the creation of not only more Wars, but more Permanent Wars--Wars on Poverty, Wars on Drugs, Wars on Terror--all Wars Without End which require a continual upgrade and production of surveillance, Walls, machines, death.
>
> Think about it: the ulimate "product" of human activity becomes ever more geared to the "creation" of death.
>
> "Where life had no value, death had its price." as the titles say at the opening of Sergio Leone's For a Few Dollars More. "And that is why the bounty hunters began to appear." The Bounty Hunters being anything from privatized companies to > the police and armies, weapons and surveillance of the State--the greatest Terrorists of them all.

>
> Cocteau noted that "the cinema films death at work". Walls become a site behind which the work vanishes, is locked away, hidden from "the eyes of the world"--while an other "projection" is played on the surfaces of the "society of the spectacle", one of "safety" for the "pursuit of happiness" of gated communities and countries, corporations.
>
> The Little Milton song says "If Walls Could Talk"--so it is one essays the finding and presenting of "Talking Walls" and of other forms of "The Writing on the Wall" as ways to create cracks in the Walls, their crumblings, their totterings and collapses . . . of other such writers and activists---so that Walls will become something other than "seperation" in all senses of the word . . .

Heraclitus posits something Other, beyond, outside which "sees all", one aspect of which is awareness--so cracks are the beginnings of finding the travel to awarness hidden in plain site/sight/cite which no Walls can seperate--

"One cannot hide from that which never sets"--

> The article below is viewable on the web at:
>
> http://www.pacbi.org/boycott_news.php?id=P538
>
> Laboratory for a Fortressed World
>
> Gaza in the hands of Hamas, with masked militants sitting in the president's chair; the West Bank on the edge; Israeli army camps hastily assembled in the Golan Heights; a spy satellite over Iran and Syria; war with Hezbollah a hair trigger away; a scandal-plagued political class facing a total loss of public faith.
>
> At a glance, things aren't going well for Israel. But here's a puzzle: Why, in the midst of such chaos and carnage, is the Israeli economy booming like it's 1999, with a roaring stock market and growth rates nearing China's?
>
> Thomas Friedman recently offered his theory in the New York Times. Israel "nurtures and rewards individual imagination," and so its people are constantly spawning ingenious high-tech start-ups--no matter what messes their politicians are making. After perusing class projects by students in engineering and computer science at Ben Gurion University, Friedman made one of his famous fake-sense pronouncements: Israel "had discovered oil." This oil, apparently, is located in the minds of Israel's "young innovators and venture capitalists," who are too busy making megadeals with Google to be held back by politics.
>
> Here's another theory: Israel's economy isn't booming despite the political chaos that devours the headlines but because of it. This phase of development dates back to the mid-'90s, when Israel was in the vanguard of the information revolution--the most tech-dependent economy in the world. After the dot-com bubble burst in 2000,

Israel's economy was devastated, facing its worst year since 1953. Then came 9/11, and suddenly new profit vistas opened up for any company that claimed it could spot terrorists in crowds, seal borders from attack and extract confessions from closed-mouthed prisoners.

Within three years, large parts of Israel's tech economy had been radically repurposed. Put in Friedmanesque terms: Israel went from inventing the networking tools of the "flat world" to selling fences to an apartheid planet. Many of the country's most successful entrepreneurs are using Israel's status as a fortressed state, surrounded by furious enemies, as a kind of twenty-four-hour-a-day showroom--a living example of how to enjoy relative safety amid constant war. And the reason Israel is now enjoying supergrowth is that those companies are busily exporting that model to the world.

Discussions of Israel's military trade usually focus on the flow of weapons into the country--US-made Caterpillar bulldozers used to destroy homes in the West Bank and British companies supplying parts for F-16s. Overlooked is Israel's huge and expanding export business. Israel now sends $1.2 billion in "defense" products to the United States--up dramatically from $270 million in 1999. In 2006 Israel exported $3.4 billion in defense products--well over a billion more than it received in US military aid. That makes Israel the fourth-largest arms dealer in the world, overtaking Britain.

Much of this growth has been in the so-called "homeland security" sector. Before 9/11 homeland security barely existed as an industry. By the end of this year, Israeli exports in the sector will reach $1.2 billion--an increase of 20 percent. The key products and services are high-tech fences, unmanned drones, biometric IDs, video and audio surveillance gear, air passenger profiling and prisoner interrogation systems--precisely the tools and technologies Israel has used to lock in the occupied territories.

And that is why the chaos in Gaza and the rest of the region doesn't threaten the bottom line in Tel Aviv, and may actually boost it. Israel has learned to turn endless war into a brand asset, pitching its uprooting, occupation and containment of the Palestinian people as a half-century head start in the "global war on terror."

It's no coincidence that the class projects at Ben Gurion that so impressed Friedman have names like "Innovative Covariance Matrix for Point Target Detection in Hyperspectral Images" and "Algorithms for Obstacle Detection and Avoidance." Thirty homeland security companies were launched in Israel in the past six months alone, thanks in large part to lavish government subsidies that have transformed the Israeli army and the country's universities into incubators for security and weapons start-ups (something to keep in mind in the debates about the academic boycott).

Next week, the most established of these companies will travel to Europe for the Paris Air Show, the arms industry's equivalent of Fashion Week. One of the Israeli companies exhibiting is Suspect Detection Systems (SDS), which will be showcasing its Cogito1002, a white, sci-fi-looking security kiosk that asks air travelers to answer > a series of computer-generated questions, tailored to their country of origin, while they hold their hand on a "biofeedback" sensor. The device reads the body's reactions to the questions, and certain responses flag the passenger as "suspect."

>
> Like hundreds of other Israeli security start-ups, SDS boasts that it was founded by veterans of Israel's secret police and that its products were road-tested on Palestinians. Not only has the company tried out the biofeedback terminals at a West Bank checkpoint; it claims the "concept is supported and enhanced by knowledge acquired and assimilated from the analysis of thousands of case studies related to suicide bombers in Israel."
>
> Another star of the Paris Air Show will be Israeli defense giant Elbit, which plans to showcase its Hermes 450 and 900 unmanned air vehicles. As recently as May, according to press reports, Israel used the drones on bombing missions in Gaza. Once tested in the territories, they are exported abroad: The Hermes has already been used at the Arizona-Mexico border; Cogito1002 terminals are being auditioned at an unnamed US airport; and Elbit, one of the companies behind Israel's "security barrier," has partnered with Boeing to construct the Department of Homeland Security's $2.5 billion "virtual" border fence around the United States.
>
> Since Israel began its policy of sealing off the occupied territories with checkpoints and walls, human rights activists have often compared Gaza and the West Bank to open-air prisons. But in researching the explosion of Israel's homeland security sector, a topic I explore in greater detail in a forthcoming book (The Shock Doctrine: The Rise of Disaster Capitalism), it strikes me that they are something else too: laboratories where the terrifying tools of our security states are being field-tested. Palestinians--whether living in the West Bank or what the Israeli politicians are already calling "Hamasistan"--are no longer just targets. They are guinea pigs.
>
> So in a way Friedman is right: Israel has struck oil. But the oil isn't the imagination of its techie entrepreneurs. The oil is the war on terror, the state of constant fear that creates a bottomless global demand for devices that watch, listen, contain and target "suspects." And fear, it turns out, is the ultimate renewable resource.

↑ Index

566. Mark Weiss

Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing

Sat 25 Aug 2007

Robert Bringhurst, Elements of Typographic Style

At 10:02 AM 8/25/2007, you wrote:
>Even if you're not a type geek the Helvetica film will seduce you--great >soundtrack to boot. There's a short bibliography on the DIY page at the >Cuneiform Press site that I think people with a literary (rather than >strictly graphic arts) background might enjoy. Charles Bernstein's Textual >Conditions syllabus is a great 'survey' as well.

>
>Kyle
>_____
>Kyle Schlesinger
>www.kyleschlesinger.com
>www.cuneiformpress.com
>
>
>
> > From: Daniel Godston <[redacted]>
> > Reply-To: <[redacted]>
> > Date: Fri, 24 Aug 2007 18:38:14 -0500
> > To: <[redacted]>
> > Subject: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
> >
> > Hi,
> >
> > Can any of you recommend some good books & other sources about fonts, > > typewriters, page design, & printing?
> >
> > I just bought Darren Wershler-Henry's "The Iron Whim: A Fragmented History
> > of Typewriting," just started it. Here's the NPR interview with DWH:
> > http://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=12900006.
> >
> > Jaroslav Andel's "Avant-Garde Page Design 1900-1950" is an > amazing book, and > > so is Steven Clay & Rodney Phillips' "A Secret Location on the Lower East > > Side."
> >
> > Then there's "Helvetica," the movie: http://www.helveticafilm.com/.
> >
> > Thanks,
> >
> > Dan

↑ Index

567. Barry Schwabsky
New Left Review
Sat 25 Aug 2007

Readers of this list will, I expect, be fascinated by Regis Debray's beautiful essay on socialism and the medium of print, in the current issue of New Left Review:

http://www.newleftreview.org/?page=article&view=2676

--though passionate adherents of the web may be very annoyed.

And while you're there, US readers (and maybe even George Bowering too) can feel justifiably gloomy after reading Alexander Cockburn's lament on the fizzling out of the anti-war movement:

http://www.newleftreview.org/?page=article&view=2677

↑ Index

568. Peter Ciccariello
The unknowable poem
Sat 25 Aug 2007

The unknowable poem <http://cgi7.com/peterimages/unknowable-poem5.jpg>

- Peter Ciccariello
http://invisiblenotes.blogspot.com/ <http://invisiblenotes.blogspot.com/>

↑ Index

569. charles alexander
Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
Sat 25 Aug 2007

Bringhurst may be OK, but he's quite conservative as a typographic theorist, and that should be kept in mind. Make sure you counter him with various sources of futurist typography, etc. Johanna Drucker has one or two books on those subjects, as well as her massive The Century of Artist's Books. I haven't found any book specifically on typography that has influenced me as much in type work (typesetting, page design, etc.) as many books of poetry, such as Olson's Maximus (the original volumes, not so much the California Press edition), the Awede Press Susan Howe book The Articulation of Sound Forms in Time, Mallarme's Un Coup de Des . . ., the works of Walter Hamady's Perishable Press (particularly early books of that press, previous to about 1978 or so), and far too many other books to mention, and not only "fine press" books. Karl Young's books from Membrane Press are a marvel of possibilities, and various bpNichol publications are informative. Something Else Press books are a treasure trove of possibilities. And there are so many more.

charles

At 09:51 AM 8/25/2007, you wrote:
>Robert Bringhurst, Elements of Typographic Style
>
>At 10:02 AM 8/25/2007, you wrote:
>>Even if you're not a type geek the Helvetica film will seduce you--great >>soundtrack to boot. There's a short bibliography on the DIY page at the >>Cuneiform Press site that I think people with a literary (rather than >>strictly graphic arts) background might enjoy. Charles Bernstein's Textual >>Conditions syllabus is a great 'survey' as well.
>>
>>Kyle
>>_____
>>Kyle Schlesinger
>>www.kyleschlesinger.com
>>www.cuneiformpress.com
>>
>>
>>
>> > From: Daniel Godston <[redacted]>
>> > Reply-To: <[redacted]>
>> > Date: Fri, 24 Aug 2007 18:38:14 -0500
>> > To: <[redacted]>
>> > Subject: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
>> >
>> > Hi,
>> >
>> > Can any of you recommend some good books & other sources about fonts, >> > typewriters, page design, & printing?
>> >
>> > I just bought Darren Wershler-Henry's "The Iron Whim: A Fragmented History
>> > of Typewriting," just started it. Here's the NPR interview with DWH:
>> > http://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=12900006.
>> >
>> > Jaroslav Andel's "Avant-Garde Page Design 1900-1950" is an >> amazing book, and
>> > so is Steven Clay & Rodney Phillips' "A Secret Location on the Lower East >> > Side."

>> >
>> > Then there's "Helvetica," the movie: http://www.helveticafilm.com/.
>> >
>> > Thanks,
>> >
>> > Dan
>

charles alexander / chax press

fold the book inside the book keep it open always read from the inside out speak then

Chax Press
[redacted] (studio)
[redacted] (cell)
[redacted]
chax.org
650 E. 9th St.
Tucson, AZ 85705

↑ Index

570. Barry Schwabsky
Naipaul on Walcott
Sat 25 Aug 2007

I may be the only person on this list who finds Derek Walcott of interest, but if there's another one out there, you should read this rather astonishing piece about him by V.S. Naipaul:
http://books.guardian.co.uk/departments/biography/story/0,,2155646,00.html

↑ Index

571. Nicholas Ruiz III
Re: New Left Review
Sat 25 Aug 2007

Many thanks for this...

NRIII

--- Barry Schwabsky <[redacted]>
wrote:

> Readers of this list will, I expect, be fascinated by Regis Debray's beautiful essay on socialism and the medium of print, in the current issue of New

> Left Review:
>
> http://www.newleftreview.org/?page=article&view=2676
>
> --though passionate adherents of the web may be very annoyed.
>
> And while you're there, US readers (and maybe even George Bowering too) can feel justifiably gloomy after reading Alexander Cockburn's lament on the fizzling out of the anti-war movement:
>
> http://www.newleftreview.org/?page=article&view=2677

Dr. Nicholas Ruiz III
Editor, Kritikos
http://intertheory.org

↑ Index

572. Jim Andrews
Sami Adwan in Newsweek
Sat 25 Aug 2007

Here's an August 13/07 article in Newsweek on Sami Adwan, the Palestinian scholar who, with Dan Bar-On, heads PRIME (the Peace Research Institute in the Middle East): http://www.msnbc.msn.com/id/20121787/site/newsweek/

ja
http://vispo.com/PRIME

↑ Index

573. Alan Sondheim
DRESSCODEAVATAR text
Sat 25 Aug 2007

This is my part of a talk (Sandy Baldwin is also speaking) for the DRESS-CODEAVATAR show/performance tomorrow at 2 p.m. NYC time - please attend if you're interested. You can find info online; it's in Second Life and real life for that matter. Thanks, Alan

I think if you go to http://xxxtenxion.blogspot.com/2007/08/lets-do-it-tun-wirs.html and click on

3 weeks of fine art.xxXtenxion
- a bit confusing but there -

Avatar Dress Codes (talk for DRESSCODEAVATAR.)

Of course the dress-code is code and what protocol structures;
I have no idea what Linden knows;
If it's anything like MOO-Wizardry, Linden knows or has the potential for knowing - everything.
So there's that limit.

I think of build as masquerade, participating in dubious economy. Dubious, because I can't afford it! And would want, as with any land-grab, some sort of assurance of ownership beyond the corporation.

I've spent something like $2.40 on Second Life.

To the more serious issue - I identify with Gaz' work because of the dis/ comfort it causes; it's this dis/comfort and the attendant psychoanalytics that fascinates me, that I think is important in virtual space.

Because virtual space is cleansed, purified, and one can always sign out when things get too hot. But investigating, producing, corrupting, exalting, the abject body, that's something else, this body which is both prim and flesh, which doesn't quite let go when you hit delete or quit.

It's this body that reminds you of flesh in the midst of non-flesh, that speaks for that _matter_ of the number tattooed on a survivor's arm - and the relation of that number to the system of integers.

Every arm, leg, big rez, hot car, agro, hack, swollen outfitting, is sex, most often phallus, writ large. Every phallus is a masquerade, null point, whose transcendent meaning disappears in the vagaries of real and quite weak flesh.

Avalanches kill people, they're just snow.

I'm quite possibly in the wrong place, but I miss issues of governance in Second Life, issues implicit in the software, not riding the World Wide Web. We're allowed to talk endlessly.

Just a word here about MOOs - anyone could and can set one up, look at the code, thank you Pavil Curtis. Now the SL engine is far more complex; it's unary, there, as far as I know; we're in an obdurate space in a manner not unlike the earth itself.

On an email list, someone complained that there's no Guernica in Second Life. But there is; Gaz dressed/de/codings, my body, these are Guernicas. But response Guernicas, not masterpieces, which, with all their delicacy, are left behind.

Back to the dress-code. My avatar appears to bleed. My avatar is a woman, sourcing speech, behavior, chora, abjection, Timaeus, Kristeva. Her body distorts, her body always returns from distortions. She came out of my work with another avatar, Nikuko, who appeared in print and video for a number of years. Nikuko was a demiurge; this avatar is demiurgency.

It uses the name Alan and writes me within her. The very interactivity, dialectic, of Second Life, ensures she's only in partial control, just as one might wander, Situationist-like, through any city.

She's dressed nude or blood-covered or organ-covered; she's tantra-fierce, I'm her consort, not the other way around. Inhabiting her, I face myself in an _uncanny manner,_ it's not comfortable; when she leaves the space through extreme behavior, I can't find her or find myself any more than you can.

Her motions are behaviors or behavior collisions - combinations of behaviors that result in contradictions. The behaviors themselves are, for the most part, constructed from motion capture equipment using life human performers. But the motion capture sensors are re-arranged to create virtual bodies in real physical space, and it's these virtual bodies and their motions that are mapped onto the Second Life avatar.

There's relationship to dance as well. I work with Azure, Foofwa d'Imobilite, worked with Maud Liardon. A fair amount of this work is nude - not to create a pure body, but to give the cultured, acculturated, body, room to breathe. If you've seen our videos, you'll find real-world imitations of avatar imitations of real-world behaviors; the spaces shimmer and meld, both in virtual and live performance.

Sexuality is always in the eye of the beholder; it's not in the prims. I enter the sheaved interior of my avatar; there's no clothing, only triply articulated space: 1. Articulated by the exigencies of the avatar- construct itself; 2. Articulated by motion-capture; 3. Articulated by the Linden contextuality and all that's implied there.

The avatar behaves, one way or another, variously in various spaces. I want to work at the edge of the game-space, where physics is different, and where I'm mostly alone (or working with my colleague on-line, Sandy Baldwin).

...but then I imagine furiously dancing across the landscape, inscape, outscape, roiling, creating havoc everywhere I go, just churning like a star half-way burnt to a cinder, burned-out, dead before 1914, 1939, 2002...

thank you

↑ Index

574. Jilly Dybka
Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
Sun 26 Aug 2007

---

books:

Thinking With Type

design-wise, anything by Edward R. Tufte is fascinating.

Jilly

--
Jilly Dybka, WA4CZD
[redacted]
Blog: http://www.poetryhut.com/wordpress/
Jazz: http://cdbaby.com/cd/dybka
Due to Presidential Executive Orders, the National Security Agency may have read this email without warning, warrant, or notice. They may do this without any judicial or legislative oversight. You have no recourse nor protection.

↑ Index

575. David Horton
Dream Songs?
Sun 26 Aug 2007

Hi all,

I'm not quite sure what happened but I have actually recommended twice within the month that two of my non-poet friends read the Dream Songs. They were both looking for good reads, and this was the first thing that came to mind.

It forced me to pick up my third copy I've owned--this is a book that I give away on moves and then rebuy shortly after--and song #14 (Life, friends, is boring...), while making its way into all those anthologies and being a good stand alone poem and all, does little justice to the overall accruing strength of the whole.

It may not be at the level of *Leaves of Grass, *the Cantos, or A, but I need to reread the thing and consider why I think this might be the case.

Thoughts?

David Harrison Horton
unionherald.blogspot.com

↑ Index

576. Tenney Nathanson
current email for Rodrigo Toscano?
Sun 26 Aug 2007

---

address I'm using is

[redacted]

if that's no longer valid, could someone send me a current one (or Rodrigo could you please contact me at your convenience?)

thanks!

Tenney

↑ Index

577. tyrone williams
Re: Naipaul on Walcott
Sun 26 Aug 2007

Great piece, Barry--I interviewed Walcott at my university for one of our "lecture" series--the lecture consisying of the interview. Age has slowed down this infamously irascible character but he still had a punch or two left..."The Schooner Flight" is still one of my favorite poems of the 20th century...

Tyrone

-----Original Message-----
>From: Barry Schwabsky <[redacted]>
>Sent: Aug 25, 2007 6:59 PM
>To: [redacted]
>Subject: Naipaul on Walcott
>
>I may be the only person on this list who finds Derek Walcott of interest, but if there's another one out there, you should read this rather astonishing piece about him by V.S. Naipaul:
http://books.guardian.co.uk/departments/biography/story/0,,2155646,00.html

Tyrone Williams

↑ Index

578. Chris Chapman

Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing

Sun 26 Aug 2007

The Helvetica film was excellent. Where I saw it there were picketers decrying the global hegemony of sans-serif fonts - designers with Times Roman shoulders to chip.

Perhaps, seemingly, the most left-field theorist of typography, was published under Bringhurst's conservative watch at Hartley and Marks out there in Point Roberts, BC-WA. Derrek NordZij, a Dutch typographer, encounters letter-form through a series of strokes in negative space. His sense of the three-dimensional character of the 'face' is fascinating. There are two identical versions of the book: 'Letterletter' and 'The Stroke'.

Of course there's the venerable rags 'Type' and 'How'. Expensive eye candy.

CC

Quoting charles alexander <[redacted]>:

> Bringhurst may be OK, but he's quite conservative as a typographic theorist, and that should be kept in mind. Make sure you counter him with various sources of futurist typography, etc. Johanna Drucker has one or two books on those subjects, as well as her massive The Century of Artist's Books. I haven't found any book specifically on typography that has influenced me as much in type work (typesetting, page design, etc.) as many books of poetry, such as Olson's Maximus (the original volumes, not so much the California Press edition), the Awede Press Susan Howe book The Articulation of Sound Forms in Time, Mallarme's Un Coup de Des . . ., the works of Walter Hamady's Perishable Press (particularly early books of that press, previous to about 1978 or so), and far too many other books to mention, and not only "fine press" books. Karl Young's books from Membrane Press are a marvel of possibilities, and various bpNichol publications are informative. Something Else Press books are a treasure trove of possibilities. And there are so many more.
>
> charles
>
> At 09:51 AM 8/25/2007, you wrote:
> Robert Bringhurst, Elements of Typographic Style
>
> At 10:02 AM 8/25/2007, you wrote:
> Even if you're not a type geek the Helvetica film will seduce you--great soundtrack to boot. There's a short bibliography on the DIY page at the Cuneiform Press site that I think people with a literary (rather than strictly graphic arts) background might enjoy. Charles Bernstein's Textual Conditions syllabus is a great 'survey' as well.

Kyle

_____
Kyle Schlesinger
www.kyleschlesinger.com
www.cuneiformpress.com

From: Daniel Godston <[redacted]>
Reply-To: <[redacted]>
Date: Fri, 24 Aug 2007 18:38:14 -0500
To: <[redacted]>
Subject: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing

Hi,

Can any of you recommend some good books & other sources about fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing?

I just bought Darren Wershler-Henry's "The Iron Whim: A Fragmented History of Typewriting," just started it. Here's the NPR interview with DWH: http://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=12900006.

Jaroslav Andel's "Avant-Garde Page Design 1900-1950" is an amazing book, and so is Steven Clay & Rodney Phillips' "A Secret Location on the Lower East Side."

Then there's "Helvetica," the movie: http://www.helveticafilm.com/.

Thanks,

Dan

charles alexander / chax press

fold the book inside the book keep it open always read from the inside out speak then

Chax Press
[redacted] (studio)
[redacted] (cell)
[redacted]
chax.org

> 650 E. 9th St.
> Tucson, AZ 85705

↑ Index

579. J Crockett
note
Sun 26 Aug 2007

---

http://listenlight.net research is proud to announce this study a "now available" release note from your journal will peak over three days at only 20% more visits than a "coming soon" release note from your journal.

thank you !

p.s. it's just more efficient in thunderbird to type the url than mess around with hyperlinks (ones requiring manual care)

↑ Index

580. Amish Trivedi
Re: Dream Songs?
Sun 26 Aug 2007

David, et. al.,

Before I go further, I'm a huge fan of DS #22- "a teenage cancer, with a plan"

Personally, I like it a lot more than Leaves of Grass, although they are pretty similar in a lot of ways. I find them both self-serving for their particular poets as well as an interesting chronicle to the periods in which they were living (I have a paper on DS about this point, but it's awfully executed).

JB's such a strange guy with his own mixed up views on himself and everything around him, and that to me ends up being the humor in DS, which to an extent may have been a conscious attempt.

I have bought several copies, but only one for myself: I've given two to friends and one to a college literary society I was a member of in my younger and more vulnerable days.

David: Go get sucked into JB's world and report back!

Best,
Amish

David Horton <[redacted]> wrote:
Hi all,

I'm not quite sure what happened but I have actually recommended twice within the month that two of my non-poet friends read the Dream Songs. They were both looking for good reads, and this was the first thing that came to mind.

It forced me to pick up my third copy I've owned--this is a book that I give away on moves and then rebuy shortly after--and song #14 (Life, friends, is boring...), while making its way into all those anthologies and being a good stand alone poem and all, does little justice to the overall accruing strength of the whole.

It may not be at the level of *Leaves of Grass, *the Cantos, or A, but I need to reread the thing and consider why I think this might be the case.

Thoughts?

David Harrison Horton
unionherald.blogspot.com

"Christopher Columbus, as everyone knows, is honored by posterity because he was the last to discover America." -James Joyce

↑ Index

581. Martha King
Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
Sun 26 Aug 2007

For information on the beautiful?original Maximus editions, for heaven's sake contact Jonathan Williams, Jargon Press, Highlands, North Carolina.? He'll have much to tell you about typography and design, if he's in the mood. But you'd be advised to write him?a paper letter. -- Martha King?

Notice: Due to Presidential Executive Orders, the National Security Agency may have read this email without warning, warrant, or notice. They may do this without any judicial or legislative oversight. You have no recourse or protection.

-----Original Message-----
From: charles alexander <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sat, 25 Aug 2007 6:39 pm
Subject: Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing

Bringhurst may be OK, but he's quite conservative as a typographic theorist, and that should be kept in mind. Make sure you counter him with various sources of futurist typography, etc. Johanna Drucker has one or two books on those subjects, as well as her massive The Century of Artist's Books. I haven't found any book specifically on typography that has influenced me as much in type work (typesetting, page design, etc.) as many books of poetry, such as Olson's Maximus (the original volumes, not so much the California Press edition), the Awede Press Susan Howe book The Articulation of Sound Forms in Time, Mallarme's Un Coup de Des . . ., the works of Walter Hamady's Perishable Press (particularly early books of that press, previous to about 1978 or so), and far too many other books to mention, and not only "fine press" books. Karl Young's books from Membrane Press are a marvel of possibilities, and various bpNichol publications are informative. Something Else Press books are a treasure trove of possibilities. And there are so many more.?

?
charles?
?
At 09:51 AM 8/25/2007, you wrote:?
>Robert Bringhurst, Elements of Typographic Style?
>?
>At 10:02 AM 8/25/2007, you wrote:?
>>Even if you're not a type geek the Helvetica film will seduce you--great?
>>soundtrack to boot. There's a short bibliography on the DIY page at the?
>>Cuneiform Press site that I think people with a literary (rather than?
>>strictly graphic arts) background might enjoy. Charles Bernstein's Textual?
>>Conditions syllabus is a great 'survey' as well.?
>>?
>>Kyle?
>>_____?
>>Kyle Schlesinger?
>>www.kyleschlesinger.com?
>>www.cuneiformpress.com?
>>?
>>?
>>?
>> > From: Daniel Godston <[redacted]>?
>> > Reply-To: <[redacted]>?
>> > Date: Fri, 24 Aug 2007 18:38:14 -0500?
>> > To: <[redacted]>?
>> > Subject: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing?
>> >?
>> > Hi,?
>> >?
>> > Can any of you recommend some good books & other sources about fonts,?

>> > typewriters, page design, & printing??
>> >?
>> > I just bought Darren Wershler-Henry's "The Iron Whim: A Fragmented History?
>> > of Typewriting," just started it. Here's the NPR interview with DWH:?
>> > http://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=12900006.?
>> >?
>> > Jaroslav Andel's "Avant-Garde Page Design 1900-1950" is an >> amazing book, and?
>> > so is Steven Clay & Rodney Phillips' "A Secret Location on the Lower East?
>> > Side."?
>> >?
>> > Then there's "Helvetica," the movie: http://www.helveticafilm.com/.?
>> >?
>> > Thanks,?
>> >?
>> > Dan?
>?
?
charles alexander / chax press?
?
fold the book inside the book keep it open always?
? read from the inside out speak then?
?
Chax Press?
[redacted] (studio)?
[redacted] (cell)?
[redacted]?
chax.org?
650 E. 9th St.?
Tucson, AZ 85705

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

582. Stephen Vincent

Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing

Sun 26 Aug 2007

Charles Olson's Letters to Origin (meaning Cid Corman) give a wonderful sense of 'out loud' thinking about the relationship between the poet, the editor, the designer and the poem its ideal typographic representation on the page. Olson's insistence (naturally!) on the chemistry and materiality (physiology) of this relationship, I found - when I (as editior and publisher) was working with both poets and designers - to be vital.

Type - in that projectivist sense - as similar to a musical score for an accurate reading of the poem.

Stephen V
http://stephenvincent.net/blog/

> Bringhurst may be OK, but he's quite conservative as a typographic theorist, and that should be kept in mind. Make sure you counter him with various sources of futurist typography, etc. Johanna Drucker has one or two books on those subjects, as well as her massive The Century of Artist's Books. I haven't found any book specifically on typography that has influenced me as much in type work (typesetting, page design, etc.) as many books of poetry, such as Olson's Maximus (the original volumes, not so much the California Press edition), the Awede Press Susan Howe book The Articulation of Sound Forms in Time, Mallarme's Un Coup de Des . . ., the works of Walter Hamady's Perishable Press (particularly early books of that press, previous to about 1978 or so), and far too many other books to mention, and not only "fine press" books. Karl Young's books from Membrane Press are a marvel of possibilities, and various bpNichol publications are informative. Something Else Press books are a treasure trove of possibilities. And there are so many more.
>
> charles
>
> At 09:51 AM 8/25/2007, you wrote:
> Robert Bringhurst, Elements of Typographic Style
>
> At 10:02 AM 8/25/2007, you wrote:
> Even if you're not a type geek the Helvetica film will seduce you--great soundtrack to boot. There's a short bibliography on the DIY page at the Cuneiform Press site that I think people with a literary (rather than strictly graphic arts) background might enjoy. Charles Bernstein's Textual Conditions syllabus is a great 'survey' as well.
>
> Kyle
>
> _____

Kyle Schlesinger
www.kyleschlesinger.com
www.cuneiformpress.com

From: Daniel Godston <[redacted]>
Reply-To: <[redacted]>
Date: Fri, 24 Aug 2007 18:38:14 -0500
To: <[redacted]>
Subject: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing

Hi,

Can any of you recommend some good books & other sources about fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing?

I just bought Darren Wershler-Henry's "The Iron Whim: A Fragmented History of Typewriting," just started it. Here's the NPR interview with DWH: http://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=12900006.

Jaroslav Andel's "Avant-Garde Page Design 1900-1950" is an amazing book, and so is Steven Clay & Rodney Phillips' "A Secret Location on the Lower East Side."

Then there's "Helvetica," the movie: http://www.helveticafilm.com/.

Thanks,

Dan

charles alexander / chax press

fold the book inside the book keep it open always
read from the inside out speak then

Chax Press
[redacted] (studio)
[redacted] (cell)
[redacted]
chax.org
650 E. 9th St.
Tucson, AZ 85705

↑ Index

583. Margaret Konkol

"This Feeling of Exaltation" John Ashbery's 80th

Sun 26 Aug 2007

"This Feeling of Exaltation"
Bard College Celebrates
John Ashbery on the Occasion of his 80th Birthday

September 14-16, 2007
Three days of poetry readings, panel discussions, and music at Bard

Friday September 14, 2007
Bard College Celebrates John Ashbery on the Occasion of His 80th Birthday A Poetry Reading
Time: 4:00 pm - 6:00 pm
Location: Fisher Center, Theater Two
Contact: Office of Special Events, [redacted], [redacted]

Saturday September 15, 2007
10:00 a.m.-noon: John Ashbery: The Early Work 2:00-4:00 p.m.: John Ashbery:The Later Work 4:00 p.m. Reading by John Ashbery
Time: 10:00 am
Location: Gabrielle H. Reem and Herbert J. Kayden Center for Science and Computation
Contact: Office of Special Events, [redacted], [redacted]

Sunday September 16, 2007
11:00 a.m. "Off-Center Intensity: Reflections on John Ashbery and the Visual Arts"
Time: 11:00 am
Location: Avery Art Center, Theater
Contact: Office of Special Events, [redacted], [redacted]

John Ashbery, Charles P. Stevenson, Jr. Professor of Languages and Literature, has taught at Bard since 1990. Among his numerous honors, Ashbery has been awarded the Pulitzer Prize for Poetry, the National Book Award, the Gold Medal for Poetry by the American Academy of Arts and Letters, the Robert Frost Medal by the Poetry Society of America, and the Wallace Stevens Award by the Academy of American Poets. He was also named Officier of the L=E9gion d'Honneur of the Republic of France in 2002, and was New York State Poet Laureate from 2001-2002.

See link for details of all the events planned.

All readings are free and open to the public American Symphony Ochestra concert tickets available through the Fisher Center Box Office [redacted]

For details: http://tinyurl.com/2xf8p4 or http://inside.bard.edu/campus/calendar/calendar

↑ Index

584. J Crockett
Re: Dream Songs?
Sun 26 Aug 2007

If your friends are from the midwest, you may recommend, dare I say, The Light Around the Body --- something that people from where you are do not tend to see.

↑ Index

585. Rob McLennan
some notes
Sun 26 Aug 2007

---

interview with Nicholas Lea by Kate Greenstreet, on his first poetry collection, Everything is movies (Chaudiere Books, 2007)

http://kickingwind.com/082607.html

photo of rob mclennan & Susan Newlove (wife of John) at the Carleton Tavern taken by John MacDonald

http://www.johnwmacdonald.com/blog/2007/08/rob-mclennan-toasted-by-susan-newlove.html

photo of Ottawa poet William Hawkins at the Factory Reading Series taken by Charles Earl

http://www.charlesearl.com/index.php?id=483

rob

-- poet/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...13th poetry coll'n - The Ottawa City Project .... c/o 858 Somerset St W, Ottawa ON K1R 6R7 * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

586. Mark Weiss
Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
Sun 26 Aug 2007

There's a tendency to skip the basics. This list would make most beginners pack up and go home.

But as long as we're at it, look at a lot of old books. Two that come to mind are the Van krimpen Homer and the Eric Gill Hamlet. Actually, anything by Gill or Van Krimpen. Not to speak of William Morris. And all the way back to medieval manuscripts.

And just so that you know there are different schools of letterpress, check out (in rare book collections) Leonard Baskin's Gehenna Press and Andrew Hoyem's Arion Press. With Perishable Press, they've spawned much of the subsequent crop of letterpress designers and printers, and represent quite different ways of going about it. They of course share many things, most important a fanatical attention to detail and quality of impression.

Mark

At 06:39 PM 8/25/2007, you wrote:
>Bringhurst may be OK, but he's quite conservative as a typographic >theorist, and that should be kept in mind. Make sure you counter him >with various sources of futurist typography, etc. Johanna Drucker >has one or two books on those subjects, as well as her massive The >Century of Artist's Books. I haven't found any book specifically on >typography that has influenced me as much in type work (typesetting, >page design, etc.) as many books of poetry, such as Olson's Maximus
>(the original volumes, not so much the California Press edition), >the Awede Press Susan Howe book The Articulation of Sound Forms in >Time, Mallarme's Un Coup de Des . . ., the works of Walter Hamady's >Perishable Press (particularly early books of that press, previous >to about 1978 or so), and far too many other books to mention, and >not only "fine press" books. Karl Young's books from Membrane Press >are a marvel of possibilities, and various bpNichol publications are >informative. Something Else Press books are a treasure trove of >possibilities. And there are so many more.
>
>charles
>
>At 09:51 AM 8/25/2007, you wrote:
>>Robert Bringhurst, Elements of Typographic Style
>>
>>At 10:02 AM 8/25/2007, you wrote:

>>>Even if you're not a type geek the Helvetica film will seduce you--great >>>soundtrack to boot. There's a short bibliography on the DIY page at the >>>Cuneiform Press site that I think people with a literary (rather than >>>strictly graphic arts) background might enjoy. Charles Bernstein's Textual >>>Conditions syllabus is a great 'survey' as well.
>>>
>>>Kyle
>>>_____
>>>Kyle Schlesinger
>>>www.kyleschlesinger.com
>>>www.cuneiformpress.com
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>> > From: Daniel Godston <[redacted]>
>>> > Reply-To: <[redacted]>
>>> > Date: Fri, 24 Aug 2007 18:38:14 -0500
>>> > To: <[redacted]>
>>> > Subject: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
>>> >
>>> > Hi,
>>> >
>>> > Can any of you recommend some good books & other sources about fonts,
>>> > typewriters, page design, & printing?
>>> >
>>> > I just bought Darren Wershler-Henry's "The Iron Whim: A >>> Fragmented History
>>> > of Typewriting," just started it. Here's the NPR interview with DWH:
>>> > http://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=12900006.
>>> >
>>> > Jaroslav Andel's "Avant-Garde Page Design 1900-1950" is an >>> amazing book, and >>> > so is Steven Clay & Rodney Phillips' "A Secret Location on the Lower East >>> > Side."
>>> >
>>> > Then there's "Helvetica," the movie: http://www.helveticafilm.com/.
>>> >
>>> > Thanks,
>>> >
>>> > Dan

>
>charles alexander / chax press
>
>fold the book inside the book keep it open always
> read from the inside out speak then
>
>Chax Press
>[redacted] (studio)
>[redacted] (cell)
>[redacted]
>chax.org
>650 E. 9th St.
>Tucson, AZ 85705

↑ Index

587. charles alexander
Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
Sun 26 Aug 2007

When I was a beginner, that list didn't make me pack up and go home; it excited me and made me go forward. But you're right, the basics shouldn't be skipped, but they should be taken as tools, not ends, unless that does end up being just where one wants to reside.

I absolutely agree with Mark about looking at Eric Gill's and Jan Van Krimpen's work, also the work & writing of Jan Tschichold, Victor Hammer, Stanley Morrison, Frederic Goudy. Tschichold, in particular, in Die neue Typographie, had a great influence on 20th Century typographic directions, though he would later tend to go away from his own more avant positions. His Sabon is one of the most graceful fonts developed in the 20th Century. Hermann Zapf is also someone whose work bears attention.

When looking at William Morris, don't forget his somewhat lesser known contemporaries in book making, whose aesthetic ideas were somewhat different from Morris but whose works are, to me, equally compelling -- particularly the Ashendene Press of C.H. St. John Hornby, and the Doves Press of T.J. Cobden-Sanderson and Emery Walker. In general, both of these presses produced books that were less showy, but arguably more elegant, than Morris's Kelmscott Press. I say that, though, with absolute respect and amazement at what Morris accomplished.

In terms of influences on designers & printers who started in the late 20th Century, I'd disagree slightly with Mark, or at least would have to add Harry Duncan (Cummington Press, and subsequently Abbatoir Editions) to the list of those who spawned people active in printing & design, and probably even put him at the very top of that list. I'd also have to add Claire Van Vliet and her Janus Press, although possibly more of the people she influenced have gone into artists' bookmaking and handmade paper works than have got involved in printing literary works.

These are all very fine artists and craftspeople who trained in calligraphy, design, and traditional bookmaking skills; I think there are equal influences coming from other directions, such as from the lettristes (Isidore Issou & others), and from Fluxus & other avant-garde movements. We may look back on the current period and see what mIEKAL aND has done with Xexoxial Anarchy and other presses & magazines he has developed, as more definitive of literary/typographical conjunctions in our time, than any "fine press" of the period.

I'd also suggest looking at the books, and the books about books, produced by Granary Books in the last couple of decades. Individual beauties, and, collectively, an informative and generous vision about the state of the book. Possibly begin with The Book of the Book, but don't stop there.

Charles

At 11:51 AM 8/26/2007, you wrote:
>There's a tendency to skip the basics. This list would make most >beginners pack up and go home.
>
>But as long as we're at it, look at a lot of old books. Two that >come to mind are the Van krimpen Homer and the Eric Gill Hamlet.
>Actually, anything by Gill or Van Krimpen. Not to speak of William >Morris. And all the way back to medieval manuscripts.
>
>And just so that you know there are different schools of >letterpress, check out (in rare book collections) Leonard Baskin's >Gehenna Press and Andrew Hoyem's Arion Press. With Perishable Press, >they've spawned much of the subsequent crop of letterpress designers >and printers, and represent quite different ways of going about it.
>They of course share many things, most important a fanatical >attention to detail and quality of impression.
>
>Mark
>
>At 06:39 PM 8/25/2007, you wrote:
>>Bringhurst may be OK, but he's quite conservative as a typographic >>theorist, and that should be kept in mind. Make sure you counter >>him with various sources of futurist typography, etc. Johanna >>Drucker has one or two books on those subjects, as well as her >>massive The Century of Artist's Books. I haven't found any book >>specifically on typography that has influenced me as much in type >>work (typesetting, page design, etc.) as many books of poetry, such >>as Olson's Maximus (the original volumes, not so much the >>California Press edition), the Awede Press Susan Howe book The >>Articulation of Sound Forms in Time, Mallarme's Un Coup de Des . .

>>., the works of Walter Hamady's Perishable Press (particularly >>early books of that press, previous to about 1978 or so), and far >>too many other books to mention, and not only "fine press" books.
>>Karl Young's books from Membrane Press are a marvel of >>possibilities, and various bpNichol publications are informative.
>>Something Else Press books are a treasure trove of possibilities.
>>And there are so many more.
>>
>>charles
>>
>>At 09:51 AM 8/25/2007, you wrote:
>>>Robert Bringhurst, Elements of Typographic Style
>>>
>>>At 10:02 AM 8/25/2007, you wrote:
>>>>Even if you're not a type geek the Helvetica film will seduce you--great >>>>soundtrack to boot. There's a short bibliography on the DIY page at the >>>>Cuneiform Press site that I think people with a literary (rather than >>>>strictly graphic arts) background might enjoy. Charles Bernstein's Textual
>>>>Conditions syllabus is a great 'survey' as well.
>>>>
>>>>Kyle
>>>>_____
>>>>Kyle Schlesinger
>>>>www.kyleschlesinger.com
>>>>www.cuneiformpress.com
>>>>
>>>>
>>>>
>>>> > From: Daniel Godston <[redacted]>
>>>> > Reply-To: <[redacted]>
>>>> > Date: Fri, 24 Aug 2007 18:38:14 -0500
>>>> > To: <[redacted]>
>>>> > Subject: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing

>>>> >
>>>> > Hi,
>>>> >
>>>> > Can any of you recommend some good books & other sources about fonts, >>>> > typewriters, page design, & printing?
>>>> >
>>>> > I just bought Darren Wershler-Henry's "The Iron Whim: A >>>> Fragmented History
>>>> > of Typewriting," just started it. Here's the NPR interview with DWH:
>>>> > http://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=12900006.
>>>> >
>>>> > Jaroslav Andel's "Avant-Garde Page Design 1900-1950" is an >>>> amazing book, and >>>> > so is Steven Clay & Rodney Phillips' "A Secret Location on the >>>> Lower East >>>> > Side."
>>>> >
>>>> > Then there's "Helvetica," the movie: http://www.helveticafilm.com/.
>>>> >
>>>> > Thanks,
>>>> >
>>>> > Dan
>>
>>charles alexander / chax press
>>
>>fold the book inside the book keep it open always
>> read from the inside out speak then
>>
>>Chax Press
>>[redacted] (studio)
>>[redacted] (cell)
>>[redacted]
>>chax.org
>>650 E. 9th St.
>>Tucson, AZ 85705
>

charles alexander / chax press

fold the book inside the book keep it open always read from the inside out speak then

Chax Press
[redacted] (studio)
[redacted] (cell)
[redacted]
chax.org
650 E. 9th St.
Tucson, AZ 85705

↑ Index

588. derek beaulieu
Material Poem
Sun 26 Aug 2007

---

hey folks;
thot you might be interested in James Stuart's Material Poem catalogue out of Sydney's University of Technology, its up as a PDF at:
http://www.nongeneric.net/ and is a very intriguing look at books and performance and writing...
derek

↑ Index

589. charles alexander
Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
Sun 26 Aug 2007

Here's a good excerpt from Jan Tschichold's The New Typography (trans. Ruari McLean, pub. in English by Univ. of California Press, 1995):

http://transcriptions.english.ucsb.edu/archive/courses/liu/english25/materials/graphic-design/tschichold.html

Charles

charles alexander / chax press

fold the book inside the book keep it open always read from the inside out speak then

Chax Press
[redacted] (studio)
[redacted] (cell)
[redacted]
chax.org
650 E. 9th St.
Tucson, AZ 85705

↑ Index

590. Simon DeDeo
absent magazine issue two NOW LIVE
Sun 26 Aug 2007

---

absent magazine * issue two now online at http://absentmag.org/issue02/

featuring poetry by Jasper Bernes, Charles Berstein, Regis Bonvicino, Jack Boettcher, Tim Botta, Julia Cohen, Shanna Compton, John Cotter, Shafer Hall, Lisa Jarnot, Pierre Joris, Joan Kane, Noelle Kocot, Jason Labbe, Kathleen Ossip, The Pines, Matthew Rohrer, Kate Schapira, Mathias Svalina, Kathryn Tabb, Allison Titus and Betsy Wheeler.

in translation with Sergei Kitov and Octavo Paz.

musical work by Aaron Einbond.

prose by Joe Amato, Peter Ciccariello, Simon DeDeo, Adam Golaski, Kent Johnson, Amy Newman, Davis Schneiderman and Tyler Williams.

edited by Elisa Gabbert and Simon DeDeo; with great gratitude to Irwin Chen and his class at Parsons School of Design in New York City.

work solicited for issue three: please read guidelines at http://absentmag.org/issue02/html/guidelines.html * letters to the editor solicited: please read http://absentmag.org/issue02/html/letters.html

↑ Index

591. Chris Chapman
Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
Sun 26 Aug 2007

This is interesting Mark. Any advice on finding out more about letterpress schools and differences? It seems necessity would curve these differences or is there more?

Another good read in the basics might include Frederick Goudy's professional autobiography: "The Alphabet: Fifteen Interpretive Designs."

Quoting Mark Weiss <[redacted]>:

> There's a tendency to skip the basics. This list would make most beginners pack up and go home.
>
> But as long as we're at it, look at a lot of old books. Two that come to mind are the Van krimpen Homer and the Eric Gill Hamlet. Actually, anything by Gill or Van Krimpen. Not to speak of William Morris. And all the way back to medieval manuscripts.

And just so that you know there are different schools of letterpress, check out (in rare book collections) Leonard Baskin's Gehenna Press and Andrew Hoyem's Arion Press. With Perishable Press, they've spawned much of the subsequent crop of letterpress designers and printers, and represent quite different ways of going about it. They of course share many things, most important a fanatical attention to detail and quality of impression.

Mark

At 06:39 PM 8/25/2007, you wrote:
Bringhurst may be OK, but he's quite conservative as a typographic theorist, and that should be kept in mind. Make sure you counter him with various sources of futurist typography, etc. Johanna Drucker has one or two books on those subjects, as well as her massive The Century of Artist's Books. I haven't found any book specifically on typography that has influenced me as much in type work (typesetting, page design, etc.) as many books of poetry, such as Olson's Maximus (the original volumes, not so much the California Press edition), the Awede Press Susan Howe book The Articulation of Sound Forms in Time, Mallarme's Un Coup de Des . . ., the works of Walter Hamady's Perishable Press (particularly early books of that press, previous to about 1978 or so), and far too many other books to mention, and not only "fine press" books. Karl Young's books from Membrane Press are a marvel of possibilities, and various bpNichol publications are informative. Something Else Press books are a treasure trove of possibilities. And there are so many more.

charles

At 09:51 AM 8/25/2007, you wrote:
Robert Bringhurst, Elements of Typographic Style

At 10:02 AM 8/25/2007, you wrote:
Even if you're not a type geek the Helvetica film will seduce you--great soundtrack to boot. There's a short bibliography on the DIY page at the Cuneiform Press site that I think people with a literary (rather than strictly graphic arts) background might enjoy. Charles Bernstein's Textual Conditions syllabus is a great 'survey' as well.

Kyle

_____
Kyle Schlesinger
www.kyleschlesinger.com
www.cuneiformpress.com

From: Daniel Godston <[redacted]>
Reply-To: <[redacted]>
Date: Fri, 24 Aug 2007 18:38:14 -0500
To: <[redacted]>
Subject: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing

Hi,

Can any of you recommend some good books & other sources about fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing?

I just bought Darren Wershler-Henry's "The Iron Whim: A Fragmented History of Typewriting," just started it. Here's the NPR interview with DWH: http://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=12900006.

Jaroslav Andel's "Avant-Garde Page Design 1900-1950" is an amazing book, and so is Steven Clay & Rodney Phillips' "A Secret Location on the Lower East Side."

Then there's "Helvetica," the movie: http://www.helveticafilm.com/.

Thanks,

Dan

charles alexander / chax press

fold the book inside the book keep it open always
read from the inside out speak then

Chax Press
[redacted] (studio)
[redacted] (cell)
[redacted]
chax.org
650 E. 9th St.
Tucson, AZ 85705

↑ Index

592. ALDON L NIELSEN
Re: Naipaul on Walcott
Sun 26 Aug 2007

"I had no feeling for poetry."

Did that come as a surprise to anybody?

I remember the reaction of C.L.R. James, who had been an early champion of Naipaul, to the publication of AN AREA OF DARKNESS. "The only area of darkness," said James, "is in Vidia's mind."

On Sat, Aug 25, 2007 06:59 PM, Barry Schwabsky <[redacted]> wrote:

>
>
>I may be the only person on this list who finds Derek Walcott of interest, but if there's another one out there, you should read this rather astonishing piece about him by V.S. Naipaul:
http://books.guardian.co.uk/departments/biography/story/0,,2155646,00.html

<<

Here's an interview with Hannah Higgins wherein she talks about her mother sawing a book page in half with a blow torch in a performance: http://www.mouthtomouthmag.com/higgins.html. Fire as typeset...?

Is a graphic score typography for musicians?
http://www.thecentreofattention.org/exhibitions/workingscores.doc

-----Original Message-----
From: UB Poetics discussion group
[mailto:[redacted]]On Behalf Of Stephen Vincent Sent: Sunday, August 26, 2007 11:15 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing

Charles Olson's Letters to Origin (meaning Cid Corman) give a wonderful sense of 'out loud' thinking about the relationship between the poet, the editor, the designer and the poem its ideal typographic representation on the page. Olson's insistence (naturally!) on the chemistry and materiality (physiology) of this relationship, I found - when I (as editior and publisher) was working with both poets and designers - to be vital.

Type - in that projectivist sense - as similar to a musical score for an accurate reading of the poem.

Stephen V
http://stephenvincent.net/blog/

↑ Index

594. Alan Sondheim

Full transcription from DRESSCODEAVATAR presentation:

Sun 26 Aug 2007

Full transcription from DRESSCODEAVATAR presentation:

This involved Sandy Baldwin's 'spew' of Sondheim's phrases (among others) and is quite long/repetitive. Includes audience q&a in Second Life

http://www.asondheim.org/dresscodeavatarfull.txt

Edited version with the 'spew' vastly cut back:

http://www.asondheim.org/dresscodeavataredit.txt

Wonderfully terribly fun!

↑ Index

595. mIEKAL aND
Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
Mon 27 Aug 2007

fonts: make your own. get a copy of FontLab. there's nothing more fun, frustrating, intriguing than designing a font specific to a work. or simpler still, design a display font for the title, most of the time you don't even need all the letters.

typewriters: I began in small press pre-desktop when the DIY typesetting machine was an IBM Selectric. You were really hot shit if you had more than 2 typeballs.

page design: take the time to learn InDesign inside & out. it's overtaken Quark as the industry standard & like PhotoShop you can't really do anything original without know the software.

printing: amazing things are being done with inkjet, laser printers & digital copiers, make books in small editions & most likely you'll feel freer to experiment with techniques, papers, hand detailing ...

~mIEKAL

↑ Index

596. Jim Andrews
Re: Disarming the teaching of history in Israel and Palestine
Mon 27 Aug 2007

Hi David,

Dan Bar-On of PRIME responded to your email. I forward it below.

I sent it earlier, but I didn't see it posted to Poetics; I guess the system hiccuped or something.

I hope this finds you well!

ja
http://vispo.com/PRIME

I find David's question more of a statement than a question. There is no doubt that the situation of the group is very bad, and I agree with most of David's statement that we have to move as fast as possible to craete a Palestinian state, and if there is a way (he as a poet) can help to change the politics of our region, I would be more than happy.

When I ask myself what I can do, but shout at my government, try to convince others to do so, I try to do something that can help and change the minds of the people, mainly the young ones to stop dehumanizing the other, and understand that their historical narrative is meaningful for them, what drives it and how can the two be incorporated together.

Yes, we are working, and you can see several things we did lately, and are doing to make our work wider spread. We got more funding in the meantme, from the State Department through the AU in DC, and now also from the European Union, through the Eckert Institute in Germany. We need a lot more funding to make our book more wide spread, and develop two additional projects we have in mind.

Thank you for your interest and I hope you can help us too.

Yours

Dan

> -----Original Message-----
> From: UB Poetics discussion group
> [mailto:[redacted]]On Behalf Of David Chirot
> Sent: August 20, 2007 3:15 PM
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: Disarming the teaching of history in Israel and Palestine
>
> Dear Jim--
>
> does this organization still exist?
>
> trying to learn more of it online, the last dated entries for it i can find are from October 2005
>
> i noted on the information at your site that of phases listed as having been completed, the last one seems to be 2004.
>
> The funding for the first three years is listed as from the US State Department and Ford Foundation.
>
> Most of what is at the site seems to be about proposals, rather than actual current or recent events. Is there any way to find out what the current status is?
>
> East Jerusalem, mentioned in one of the articles as being the source for a student quote, is now almost impossible for Palestinians from the outside to enter. The new "Separation" road on which Palestians are allowed to travel on the other side of a Wall --painted to simulate mosaics--has only three exits in toto, none for East Jerusalem.
> (The road was featured in a front page story on the NY Times as i recall 11 august 2007.)

> The Wall, Security Fences, "Settlers Only" roads, continual checkpoints and the annual growth rate in numbers of the illegal settler population now exceeding that of Israel itself, have all put so many obstacles in the way of Palestinians attending schools, tech schools and Universities that the educational system for Palestinians, along with everything else, is in ruins. (500, 000 in the West Bank currently receive 67% of the amount of water per person per year considered the minimum for human survival. 80% of Gaza is on the verge of starvation. Demolitions, arrests, beatings, deaths from IDF and settlers occur on a daily basis. Amnesty International has issued Ethnic Cleansing calls for a stop a few days ago in the Jordan Valley. The Knesset is debating a law prohibiting Israeli Abba citizens from purchasing their own land from the National Public Lands in Israel.) Just to get to a still existing school is becoming prohibitively difficult, as well as more and more dangerous. (Amnesty International reported that of 124 Palestinian children killed last year, 80 were due to sniper fire from the IDF or settlers. The children's fatal wounds were in the area of the upper back and neck at base of the skull. They had been shot from behind, execution style.)
> A great number of schools throughout the Occupied Territories have also been bulldozed, or appropriated by the IDF for surveillance posts, or given to settlers to use for other purposes.
>
> Education to bring understanding and a desire for peace is being destroyed, while the seeds of hate, despair, death, are being sown.
>
> Inside the Walled off out door prisons, without water, starving, shot at, bombed, homes, hospitals, schools demolished, electricity long gone, continually threatened and bullied, arrested, disappeared, if the prisoners turn against themselves, all the better for the warders.
>
> Meanwhile, the Occupiers, the only nuclear power in the Mideast, now the world's 4th largest exporter of weapons and security systems, technologies, equipment will be receiving over 3 billion dollars a year more in US military aid starting shortly.

↑ Index

597. David Chirot

max roach, amiri baraka hour on democracynow.org today

Mon 27 Aug 2007

---

an hour long tribute to max roach today with vintage clips and discussion with amiri baraka and others--

↑ Index

598. tyrone williams
Re: Naipaul on Walcott
Mon 27 Aug 2007

Not at all a surprise...and in the interest of "balanced" reporting, I should note that during the interview I asked Walcott about his assessment of the relationship between Negritiude and the Harlem Renaissance. He claimed--live, on stage, to have never heard of the latter...ASdmittedly, as I noted, he is frail, but still...

Tyrone

-----Original Message-----
>From: ALDON L NIELSEN <[redacted]>
>Sent: Aug 26, 2007 4:11 PM
>To: [redacted]
>Subject: Re: Naipaul on Walcott
>
>"I had no feeling for poetry."
>
>Did that come as a surprise to anybody?
>
>I remember the reaction of C.L.R. James, who had been an early champion of >Naipaul, to the publication of AN AREA OF DARKNESS. "The only area of >darkness," said James, "is in Vidia's mind."
>
>On Sat, Aug 25, 2007 06:59 PM, Barry Schwabsky <[redacted]>
>wrote:
>
>>
>>
>>I may be the only person on this list who finds Derek Walcott of interest, but >if there's another one out there, you should read this rather astonishing piece >about him by V.S. Naipaul:
>http://books.guardian.co.uk/departments/biography/story/0,,2155646,00.html
>
>
>
>
><<<

>paradox at the heart of speech.
>--Robert Kelly
>
>Sailing the blogosphere at: http://heatstrings.blogspot.com/
>
>Aldon L. Nielsen
>Kelly Professor of American Literature
>The Pennsylvania State University
>116 Burrowes
>University Park, PA 16802-6200
>
>[redacted]

Tyrone Williams

↑ Index

599. Alexander Jorgensen

HELP A FRIEND IN EXILE: NEW BOOK BY KATHUP TSERING

Mon 27 Aug 2007

BUY THIS BOOK.

http://books.lulu.com/content/1142809

Regards,
Alexander Jorgensen

mIEKAL aND <[redacted]> wrote: fonts: make your own. get a copy of FontLab. there's nothing more fun, frustrating, intriguing than designing a font specific to a work. or simpler still, design a display font for the title, most of the time you don't even need all the letters.

typewriters: I began in small press pre-desktop when the DIY typesetting machine was an IBM Selectric. You were really hot shit if you had more than 2 typeballs.

page design: take the time to learn InDesign inside & out. it's overtaken Quark as the industry standard & like PhotoShop you can't really do anything original without know the software.

printing: amazing things are being done with inkjet, laser printers & digital copiers, make books in small editions & most likely you'll feel freer to experiment with techniques, papers, hand detailing ...

~mIEKAL

--
Marcus Aurelius: "The object of life is not to be on the side of the majority, but to escape finding oneself in the ranks of the insane."

↑ Index

600. EJOYCE
Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
Mon 27 Aug 2007

I think that mIEKAL is getting back to the first question which was less on how to design (great suggestions, by the way) or how to display information (isn't Tufte great?), and more on whether or not anyone has done much work on the impact of the typewriter and the Courier font on poetry, not just on what it says but on how it looks and the impact of how it looks on what it says. Drucker does address the look of the poem, but does she look at this question exactly?

mIEKAL says that he started with the IBM typewriter, which must have represented the first moment of font style selection (was the default selectric font set Times New Roman?), but many poets on this list had no font choice (i.e., no extra selectric sets). What was the effect on poetry of a shift from the open letter form, now seen as archaic, of Courier, to the much more closed and formal form of Times New Roman? The only expressive tools, too, on typewriters were capitalizations or not and perhaps punctuation as visual mark. Word processor programs of various sorts began to open up the font availability, but I would guess that most poets used the default font style.

I also think that word processors removed features available with typewriters, like removing a sheet of paper and re-entering it with different placement, or positiioning the paper exactly so that a letter or letter group could be placed on the page in a very specific space. With word processing, it became impossible to overlap lines or letters, but also, I suspect that the hyphen practically disappeared. Not everyone used hyphens with typewriters, but just leaving a word unfinished at the end of a line set up a moment of hesitation that automatic word wrap removes.

I suspect, too, that few poets use (or perhaps in early word processing, did use) layout programs, for they were only available on Apple computers and were prohibitively expensive. It is these programs that mIEKAL lists--Quark and InDesign, especially--that permit font style and size choice and letter/word/line placement to an exact degree. To what degree are poets using these tools?

I wonder if early word processing created a dearth or at least a radical change in concret poetry forms.

Lisa Joyce

On Monday, August 27, 2007 12:18 AM, mIEKAL aND wrote:
>
>Date: Sun, 26 Aug 2007 23:18:06 -0500
>From: mIEKAL aND
>To: [redacted]
>Subject: Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
>
>fonts: make your own. get a copy of FontLab. there's nothing more >fun, frustrating, intriguing than designing a font specific to a >work. or simpler still, design a display font for the title, most of >the time you don't even need all the letters.
>
>typewriters: I began in small press pre-desktop when the DIY >typesetting machine was an IBM Selectric. You were really hot shit >if you had more than 2 typeballs.
>
>page design: take the time to learn InDesign inside & out. it's >overtaken Quark as the industry standard & like PhotoShop you can't >really do anything original without know the software.
>
>printing: amazing things are being done with inkjet, laser printers & >digital copiers, make books in small editions & most likely you'll >feel freer to experiment with techniques, papers, hand detailing ...
>
>~mIEKAL

↑ Index

601. Mark Weiss
Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
Mon 27 Aug 2007

The bibliography is endless, as Charles' posts demonstrate. But I don't know of any work on the geneologies and differences. It's pretty recent--most of the players are still active. Charles?

Mark

At 03:56 PM 8/26/2007, you wrote:
>This is interesting Mark. Any advice on finding out more about letterpress >schools and differences? It seems necessity would curve these >differences or is
>there more?
>

>Another good read in the basics might include Frederick Goudy's professional >autobiography: "The Alphabet: Fifteen Interpretive Designs."
>
>
>Quoting Mark Weiss <[redacted]>:
>
> > There's a tendency to skip the basics. This list would make most > > beginners pack up and go home.
> >
> > But as long as we're at it, look at a lot of old books. Two that come > > to mind are the Van krimpen Homer and the Eric Gill Hamlet. Actually, > > anything by Gill or Van Krimpen. Not to speak of William Morris. And > > all the way back to medieval manuscripts.
> >
> > And just so that you know there are different schools of letterpress, > > check out (in rare book collections) Leonard Baskin's Gehenna Press > > and Andrew Hoyem's Arion Press. With Perishable Press, they've > > spawned much of the subsequent crop of letterpress designers and > > printers, and represent quite different ways of going about it. They > > of course share many things, most important a fanatical attention to > > detail and quality of impression.
> >
> > Mark
> >
> > At 06:39 PM 8/25/2007, you wrote:
> > >Bringhurst may be OK, but he's quite conservative as a typographic > > >theorist, and that should be kept in mind. Make sure you counter him > > >with various sources of futurist typography, etc. Johanna Drucker > > >has one or two books on those subjects, as well as her massive The > > >Century of Artist's Books. I haven't found any book specifically on > > >typography that has influenced me as much in type work (typesetting, > > >page design, etc.) as many books of poetry, such as Olson's Maximus
> > >(the original volumes, not so much the California Press edition), > > >the Awede Press Susan Howe book The Articulation of Sound Forms in > > >Time, Mallarme's Un Coup de Des . . ., the works of Walter Hamady's > > >Perishable Press (particularly early books of that press, previous > > >to about 1978 or so), and far too many other books to mention, and > > >not only "fine press" books. Karl Young's books from Membrane Press > > >are a marvel of possibilities, and various bpNichol publications are > > >informative. Something Else Press books are a treasure trove of > > >possibilities. And there are so many more.
> > >

> > >charles
> > >
> > >At 09:51 AM 8/25/2007, you wrote:
> > >>Robert Bringhurst, Elements of Typographic Style
> > >>
> > >>At 10:02 AM 8/25/2007, you wrote:
> > >>>Even if you're not a type geek the Helvetica film will seduce you--great > > >>>soundtrack to boot. There's a short bibliography on the DIY page at
the > > >>>Cuneiform Press site that I think people with a literary (rather than > > >>>strictly graphic arts) background might enjoy. Charles > Bernstein's Textual
> > >>>Conditions syllabus is a great 'survey' as well.
> > >>>
> > >>>Kyle
> > >>>_____
> > >>>Kyle Schlesinger
> > >>>www.kyleschlesinger.com
> > >>>www.cuneiformpress.com
> > >>>
> > >>>
> > >>>
> > >>> > From: Daniel Godston <[redacted]>
> > >>> > Reply-To: <[redacted]>
> > >>> > Date: Fri, 24 Aug 2007 18:38:14 -0500
> > >>> > To: <[redacted]>
> > >>> > Subject: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
> > >>> >
> > >>> > Hi,
> > >>> >
> > >>> > Can any of you recommend some good books & other sources about fonts,
> > >>> > typewriters, page design, & printing?
> > >>> >
> > >>> > I just bought Darren Wershler-Henry's "The Iron Whim: A > > >>> Fragmented History
> > >>> > of Typewriting," just started it. Here's the NPR interview with DWH:
> > >>> > http://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=12900006.
> > >>> >
> > >>> > Jaroslav Andel's "Avant-Garde Page Design 1900-1950" is an > > >>> amazing book, and

> > >>> > so is Steven Clay & Rodney Phillips' "A Secret Location on the Lower > > East > > >>> > Side."
> > >>> >
> > >>> > Then there's "Helvetica," the movie: http://www.helveticafilm.com/.
> > >>> >
> > >>> > Thanks,
> > >>> >
> > >>> > Dan
> > >
> > >charles alexander / chax press
> > >
> > >fold the book inside the book keep it open always
> > > read from the inside out speak then
> > >
> > >Chax Press
> > >[redacted] (studio)
> > >[redacted] (cell)
> > >[redacted]
> > >chax.org
> > >650 E. 9th St.
> > >Tucson, AZ 85705
> >

↑ Index

602. susan maurer
beautiful quote
Mon 27 Aug 2007

Must share this beautiful quote." Susan Maurer seals the broken heart in a snowdance that startles as it falls.Her poems cascade in suspense, like shadows in a blizzard. " Thanks to Star Black for this about my Poets Wear Prada"s RAPTOR RHAPSODY. Susan Maurer _____ See what you're getting into…before you go there http://newlivehotmail.com/?ocid=TXT_TAGHM_migration_HM_viral_preview_0507=

↑ Index

603. Thomas savage
Re: Dream Songs?
Mon 27 Aug 2007

I read Dream Songs many years ago and was fascinated with it. Then, somehow, I tired of it. Maybe I need to read it again, who knows? The poet of Berryman's generation who fascinates me at the moment is Muriel Rukeyser. (Am I generationally correct here?) I've had her Collected in my home for decades but could never get the key I needed into it. I found it this weekend. It's a great poem called, appropriately enough, "The Key". Regards, Tom Savage

Amish Trivedi <[redacted]> wrote: David, et. al.,

Before I go further, I'm a huge fan of DS #22- "a teenage cancer, with a plan"

Personally, I like it a lot more than Leaves of Grass, although they are pretty similar in a lot of ways. I find them both self-serving for their particular poets as well as an interesting chronicle to the periods in which they were living (I have a paper on DS about this point, but it's awfully executed).

JB's such a strange guy with his own mixed up views on himself and everything around him, and that to me ends up being the humor in DS, which to an extent may have been a conscious attempt.

I have bought several copies, but only one for myself: I've given two to friends and one to a college literary society I was a member of in my younger and more vulnerable days.

David: Go get sucked into JB's world and report back!

Best,
Amish

David Horton wrote:
Hi all,

I'm not quite sure what happened but I have actually recommended twice within the month that two of my non-poet friends read the Dream Songs. They were both looking for good reads, and this was the first thing that came to mind.

It forced me to pick up my third copy I've owned--this is a book that I give away on moves and then rebuy shortly after--and song #14 (Life, friends, is boring...), while making its way into all those anthologies and being a good stand alone poem and all, does little justice to the overall accruing strength of the whole.

It may not be at the level of *Leaves of Grass, *the Cantos, or A, but I need to reread the thing and consider why I think this might be the case.

Thoughts?

David Harrison Horton
unionherald.blogspot.com

"Christopher Columbus, as everyone knows, is honored by posterity because he was the last to discover America." -James Joyce

---
Looking for a deal? Find great prices on flights and hotels with Yahoo! FareChase.

↑ Index

604. charles alexander
Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
Mon 27 Aug 2007

Not only are most of the players still active, but many of them, across genealogies, are friends, or know each other, and are influenced by each other's work. Plus, people influenced by Walter Hamady may also be influenced by Harry Duncan and Claire Van Vliet. Some people came into Hamady's sphere already with more of a Harry Duncan kind of sensibility, and vice versa. Even before the computer, the 1960s through 1980s were a time of lots of communication among people with different training, and that communication continues. While there are students of Duncan who want to be as much like Duncan as possible (in style, aesthetic, etc.), there are probably many more who took the tools Duncan gave them and went very much their own direction with it. The same is true with Hamady students, and, I would guess, with those who began under the influence of Hoyem or Baskin or Van Vliet. Many of the students of these people also have worked extensively in various centers for book arts, i.e. Center for Book Arts in New York, Minnesota Center for Book Arts, programs at University of the Arts in Philadelphia, Nexus Press (no longer active) in Atlanta, San Francisco Center for the Book, etc., picking up other influences and cross-fertilizations of their work. I would imagine that a work on current schools and differences would be very challenging to write, though it would be possible to trace out who studied with who, etc. One of the telling differences for me is among those people who consider themselves book makers, i.e. responsible for the whole of the book (not content, necessarily, but materials choice, structure of the book, typography, binding, etc.), and those who consider themselves specialists, i.e. letterpress printers OR hand bookbinders OR hand papermakers, etc. And while the Hamady school certainly encourages the artist as total bookmaker, it is also true that sometimes Walter Hamady himself worked with master bookbinders such as Bill Anthony. When I was directing Minnesota Center for Book Arts in the mid-1990s, one of my first big surprises was how specialized the artists/craftspeople in that community considered themselves within a specific area of book arts, whereas I had studied with Hamady and was used to artists taking on the whole of the bookmaking project, not just a part of it.

This all gets more complicated as more people, from any and all of the schools of handmade booking, began working with computers and the possibilities of design that computers brought along.

Charles

At 07:00 AM 8/27/2007, you wrote:
>The bibliography is endless, as Charles' posts demonstrate. But I >don't know of any work on the geneologies and differences. It's >pretty recent--most of the players are still active. Charles?
>
>Mark
>
>
>At 03:56 PM 8/26/2007, you wrote:
>>This is interesting Mark. Any advice on finding out more about letterpress >>schools and differences? It seems necessity would curve these >>differences or is
>>there more?
>>
>>Another good read in the basics might include Frederick Goudy's professional >>autobiography: "The Alphabet: Fifteen Interpretive Designs."
>>
>>
>>Quoting Mark Weiss <[redacted]>:
>>
>> > There's a tendency to skip the basics. This list would make most >> > beginners pack up and go home.
>> >
>> > But as long as we're at it, look at a lot of old books. Two that come >> > to mind are the Van krimpen Homer and the Eric Gill Hamlet. Actually, >> > anything by Gill or Van Krimpen. Not to speak of William Morris. And >> > all the way back to medieval manuscripts.
>> >
>> > And just so that you know there are different schools of letterpress, >> > check out (in rare book collections) Leonard Baskin's Gehenna Press
>> > and Andrew Hoyem's Arion Press. With Perishable Press, they've >> > spawned much of the subsequent crop of letterpress designers and >> > printers, and represent quite different ways of going about it. They

>> > of course share many things, most important a fanatical attention to >> > detail and quality of impression.
>> >
>> > Mark
>> >
>> > At 06:39 PM 8/25/2007, you wrote:
>> > >Bringhurst may be OK, but he's quite conservative as a typographic >> > >theorist, and that should be kept in mind. Make sure you counter him >> > >with various sources of futurist typography, etc. Johanna Drucker >> > >has one or two books on those subjects, as well as her massive The >> > >Century of Artist's Books. I haven't found any book specifically on >> > >typography that has influenced me as much in type work (typesetting, >> > >page design, etc.) as many books of poetry, such as Olson's Maximus
>> > >(the original volumes, not so much the California Press edition), >> > >the Awede Press Susan Howe book The Articulation of Sound Forms in >> > >Time, Mallarme's Un Coup de Des . . ., the works of Walter Hamady's >> > >Perishable Press (particularly early books of that press, previous >> > >to about 1978 or so), and far too many other books to mention, and >> > >not only "fine press" books. Karl Young's books from Membrane Press >> > >are a marvel of possibilities, and various bpNichol publications are >> > >informative. Something Else Press books are a treasure trove of >> > >possibilities. And there are so many more.
>> > >
>> > >charles
>> > >
>> > >At 09:51 AM 8/25/2007, you wrote:
>> > >>Robert Bringhurst, Elements of Typographic Style
>> > >>
>> > >>At 10:02 AM 8/25/2007, you wrote:
>> > >>>Even if you're not a type geek the Helvetica film will seduce >> you--great >> > >>>soundtrack to boot. There's a short bibliography on the DIY page at
the >> > >>>Cuneiform Press site that I think people with a literary (rather than >> > >>>strictly graphic arts) background might enjoy. Charles >> Bernstein's Textual
>> > >>>Conditions syllabus is a great 'survey' as well.
>> > >>>
>> > >>>Kyle
>> > >>>_____
>> > >>>Kyle Schlesinger

>> > >>>www.kyleschlesinger.com
>> > >>>www.cuneiformpress.com
>> > >>>
>> > >>>
>> > >>>
>> > >>> > From: Daniel Godston <[redacted]>
>> > >>> > Reply-To: <[redacted]>
>> > >>> > Date: Fri, 24 Aug 2007 18:38:14 -0500
>> > >>> > To: <[redacted]>
>> > >>> > Subject: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
>> > >>> >
>> > >>> > Hi,
>> > >>> >
>> > >>> > Can any of you recommend some good books & other sources >> about fonts,
>> > >>> > typewriters, page design, & printing?
>> > >>> >
>> > >>> > I just bought Darren Wershler-Henry's "The Iron Whim: A >> > >>> Fragmented History
>> > >>> > of Typewriting," just started it. Here's the NPR interview with DWH:
>> > >>> > http://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=12900006.
>> > >>> >
>> > >>> > Jaroslav Andel's "Avant-Garde Page Design 1900-1950" is an >> > >>> amazing book, and >> > >>> > so is Steven Clay & Rodney Phillips' "A Secret Location on the Lower
>> > East >> > >>> > Side."
>> > >>> >
>> > >>> > Then there's "Helvetica," the movie:
http://www.helveticafilm.com/.
>> > >>> >
>> > >>> > Thanks,
>> > >>> >
>> > >>> > Dan
>> > >
>> > >charles alexander / chax press
>> > >
>> > >fold the book inside the book keep it open always
>> > > read from the inside out speak then
>> > >

>> > >Chax Press
>> > >[redacted] (studio)
>> > >[redacted] (cell)
>> > >[redacted]
>> > >chax.org
>> > >650 E. 9th St.
>> > >Tucson, AZ 85705
>> >
>

charles alexander / chax press

fold the book inside the book keep it open always read from the inside out speak then

Chax Press
[redacted] (studio)
[redacted] (cell)
[redacted]
chax.org
650 E. 9th St.
Tucson, AZ 85705

↑ Index

605. Michael Kelleher
Literary Buffalo E-Newsletter 8.27.07-9.02.07
Mon 27 Aug 2007

LITERARY BUFFALO
8.27.07-9.02.07

BABEL

4 DAYS LEFT TO GET EARLY BIRD MEMBER SUBSCRIPTION RATES FOR BABEL

We have sold more than 30% of the series already! Get your tickets while they last.

SUBSCRIBE TODAY at http://www.justbuffalo.org/babel or by calling [redacted].

Just Buffalo Literary Center is proud to introduce BABEL, an exciting new reading and conversation series that will feature four of the world's most important and critically acclaimed international authors each year.

In our first season, we will present two Nobel Prize winners, one Man Booker Prize winner, and an acclaimed Broadway playwright. Here's the season in a nutshell:

November 8 Orhan Pamuk, Turkey, Winner of the 2006 Nobel Prize December 7 Ariel Dorfman, Chile, Author of Death and the Maiden March 13 Derek Walcott, St. Lucia, Winner of the 1992 Nobel Prize April 24 Kiran Desai, India, Winner of the 2006 Man Booker Prize

Members of Just Buffalo/CEPA Gallery/Big Orbit Gallery, Hallwalls and the International Institute of Buffalo can subscribe to this series at an early bird member discount from now until September 1 at a special member rate of $60.

Book groups (minimum three people) can also subscribe at a special rate of $60 per person for the whole season. Book group subscriptions by phone only at [redacted].

Regular subscriptions are just $75.

http://www.justbuffalo.org/babel.

EVENTS

8.26.07

Spoken Word Sundays
Aaron Lowinger and Lovely
Sunday, September 2, 8 p.m.
Allen Street Hardware, 245 Allen St., Buffalo
Sign up at 7:45 for Open readers (5 minutes each)

JUST BUFFALO WRITER'S CRITIQUE GROUP

!!! WRITER CRITIQUE GROUP IS ON SUMMER HIATUS. WE'LL RETURN IN SEPTEMBER !!!

Members of Just Buffalo are welcome to attend a free, bi-monthly writer critique group in CEPA's Flux Gallery on the first floor of the historic Market Arcade Building across the street from Shea's. Group meets 1st and 3rd Wednesday at 7 p.m. Call Just Buffalo for details.

WESTERN NEW YORK ROMANCE WRITERS group meets the third Wednesday of every month at St. Joseph Hospital community room at 11a.m. Address: 2605 Harlem Road, Cheektowaga, NY 14225. For details go to www.wnyrw.org.

JOIN JUST BUFFALO ONLINE!!!

If you would like to join Just Buffalo, or simply make a massive personal donation, you can do so online using your credit card. We have recently added the ability to join online by paying with a credit card through PayPal. Simply click on the membership level at which you would like to join, log in (or create a PayPal account using your Visa/Amex/Mastercard/Discover), and voilá, you will find yourself in literary heaven. For more info, or to join now, go to our website:

http://www.justbuffalo.org/membership/index.shtml

UNSUBSCRIBE

If you would like to unsubscribe from this list, just say so and you will be immediately removed.

_____

Michael Kelleher
Artistic Director
Just Buffalo Literary Center
Market Arcade
617 Main St., Ste. 202A
Buffalo, NY 14203
[redacted]
[redacted] (fax)
www.justbuffalo.org
[redacted]

↑ Index

606. ALDON L NIELSEN
"An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation"
Mon 27 Aug 2007

An odd bit of news in today's TIMES -- In some ways more of a surprise than the Attorney General's resignation --

<http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/27/books/27laur.html?_r=1&oref=slogin>

<<

607. Philip Metres
New on Behind the Lines: Poetry, War, & Peacemaking
Mon 27 Aug 2007

—

↑ Index

608. Jason Stumpf
Pura Lopez-Colome's Aurora
Mon 27 Aug 2007

I am writing to announce the publication of my translation of Pura LÃ³pez-ColomÃ©'s Aurora. Read all about it here:

http://www.shearsman.com/pages/books/catalog/2007/lopezcol.html or here:

http://jasonstumpf.blogspot.com

Composed of five extended sequences, Aurora contemplates the pacts we make with ourselves, others, and nature in order to survive. The poems explore what happens when those bonds of trust and dependence are weakened or broken by infidelity, death, and time. In her writing, LÃ³pez-ColomÃ© combines a highly associative lyrical sensibility with an insistence on philosophical exactness.

Of the collection, Michael Palmer writes, â€œPura LÃ³pez-ColomÃ©â€™s poems trace spare, vibrant arcs between the realms of matter and spirit, illuminating each with the light of the other. By means of a quiet yet fervent lyricism, at once celebratory and elegiac, they set out again and again on a voyage beyond self towards a site perhaps impossible fully to determine: mare magnum, 'first scene / of the next day.' It is our privilege indeed to be invited along.â€

Best,
Jason Stumpf

- -
Jason Stumpf
[redacted]
http://jasonstumpf.blogspot.com=

↑ Index

609. charles alexander
Mary Rising Higgins
Mon 27 Aug 2007

Mary Rising Higgins died last night, August 26, about 7pm.

I know she was in hospice care, but I don't know the details of her medical condition.

Her books in recent years: Cliff Tides (Singing Horse Press, 2005), Locus Tides (Potes & Poets Press, 2003), O'Clock (Potes & Poets Press, 2000), Red Table(s (La Alameda Press, 1999), presented an amazing body of work over a short period of time. I felt lucky to know her and hear her read her work.

charles alexander / chax press

fold the book inside the book keep it open always read from the inside out speak then

Chax Press
[redacted] (studio)
[redacted] (cell)
[redacted]
chax.org
650 E. 9th St.
Tucson, AZ 85705

↑ Index

610. Christopher Leland Winks
Re: Naipaul on Walcott
Mon 27 Aug 2007

Barry -

Well, there's myself at least -- I've taught "Omeros" twice and keep coming back to "The Schooner Flight," perhaps his finest work. And the Naipaul piece is indeed "astonishing" -- the mere fact Vidia would write anything about ANY Caribbean writer today is worthy of note.

----- Original Message -----
From: Barry Schwabsky <[redacted]>
Date: Sunday, August 26, 2007 2:03 am
Subject: Naipaul on Walcott
To: [redacted]

> I may be the only person on this list who finds Derek Walcott of interest, but if there's another one out there, you should read this rather astonishing piece about him by V.S. Naipaul:

> http://books.guardian.co.uk/departments/biography/story/0,,2155646,00.html

↑ Index

611. Charles Bernstein
Re: "This Feeling of Exaltation" John Ashbery's 80th
Mon 27 Aug 2007

The poster for the John Ashbery Bard celebration -- with people, places, and times --is now up at http://epc.buffalo.edu/authors/bernstein/blog/#08-27-07

Also, Ashbery is featured in a New York Times article today: http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/27/books/27laur.html
He's been named Poet Laureate of a new college-student oriented MTV channel.

↑ Index

612. Jennifer Karmin
JOB: Shippensburg University
Mon 27 Aug 2007

(this is a forward so please don't respond to me. good luck!)

Tenure-track assistant professor in Creative Writing (Poetry), full-time appointment beginning August 2008.

MFA or PhD required by time of appointment. Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to teaching, service, and professional activity including published poetry (preferably a book).

Twelve-hour course load each semester will include creative writing, other courses in the English major, and general education courses, with course reduction available for advising the student literary magazine. Additional teaching expertise in creative nonfiction and/or literary study desirable.

The committee will request writing samples from selected candidates and may meet with these candidates at MLA. On-campus interviews will include a demonstration of teaching effectiveness and a brief poetry reading.

Submit letter of application, curriculum vitae, undergraduate and graduate transcripts, and three letters of reference to:

Michael Bibby, Chair
Creative Writing Search Committee
Department of English
Shippensburg University
1871 Old Main Drive
Shippensburg, PA 17257

Review of applications begins November 2, 2007, and will continue until the position is filled.

For more information about the Department of English and Shippensburg University, see http://webspace.ship.edu/english/.

___ Choose the right car based on your needs. Check out Yahoo! Autos new Car Finder tool. http://autos.yahoo.com/carfinder/

↑ Index

613. amy king
Re: "An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation"
Mon 27 Aug 2007

Thanks for this info, Aldon!

Access the article at the Int'l Herald Tribune w/out a login here:

http://www.iht.com/articles/2007/08/27/arts/27laur.php

ALDON L NIELSEN <[redacted]> wrote: An odd bit of news in today's TIMES -- In some ways more of a surprise than the Attorney General's resignation --

---
Park yourself in front of a world of choices in alternative vehicles.
Visit the Yahoo! Auto Green Center.

↑ Index

614. Crane's Bill Books
Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
Mon 27 Aug 2007

It's a bit far afield of the design question, but Walter J. Ong's ORALITY AND LITERACY: THE TECHNOLOGIZING OF THE WORD deals with, among many other good things, how the printed word and the printed page have influenced ideas about what language is and what is should do. I found it pretty remarkable. Kyle Schlesinger's Cuneiform Press issued a lovely essay by Alan Loney, MEDITATIO: THE PRINTER PRINTED: MANIFESTO. Sadly, no longer in print. Jeffrey

J. A. Lee
Crane's Bill Books
Albuquerque
www.torriblezone.com

↑ Index

615. Barry Schwabsky
Re: "An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation"
Mon 27 Aug 2007

I agree that his poetry resonates with a lot of contemporary music...not that its necessarily played on MTV...but for instance I remember Stephen Malkmus in an interview specifically citing Ashbery as an inspiration.

amy king <[redacted]> wrote: Thanks for this info, Aldon!

Access the article at the Int'l Herald Tribune w/out a login here:

http://www.iht.com/articles/2007/08/27/arts/27laur.php

ALDON L NIELSEN wrote: An odd bit of news in today's TIMES -- In some ways more of a surprise than the Attorney General's resignation --

---
Park yourself in front of a world of choices in alternative vehicles.
Visit the Yahoo! Auto Green Center.

↑ Index

616. steve russell
Re: Dream songs
Mon 27 Aug 2007

I loved Dream Songs. I'm not sure whether it's a legit long poem, or a series of monologues. But it is brilliant. Berryman never played it safe. He was always reinventing his verse. Too few poets do this anymore. Louis Gluck, in a very different fashion, does it, which is why she's among a dozen or so major poets still writing.

Got a little couch potato?
Check out fun summer activities for kids.

↑ Index

617. Tom Bell
old folks can write too
Mon 27 Aug 2007

I am doing a course for old folks liie me at a local senior center and looking for a text book. Ideas?

tom bell

↑ Index

618. amy king
Re: "An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation"
Mon 27 Aug 2007

Not music, but well known actor, David Duchovny often cites Ashbery in interviews as his fave poet. I think he studied his poetry (w H Bloom?) toward earning his grad degree. From a Movieline interview: "My editor thought you might take a look at this," I say, removing a wad of disorganized fax pages from my bag. Duchovny takes a page and reads aloud: "As Parmigianino did it, the right hand bigger than the head, thrust at the viewer and swerving easily away, as though to protect what it advertises..." He starts to laugh. "Jesus, this is one of my favourite poems. How did she know? It's called Self-Portrait in a Convex Mirror by John Ashbery. It's about a man who's painting a self-portrait, but he's looking into a mirrored ball, and the closer he gets to it, the further away his image seems to be going. For me, that would be the acting style that I'm trying to do. I'm trying to protect what I advertise. That's my stance on any kind of self-expression. That's as far as I need to go." He pauses, then says, "You could look at this poem for weeks, just weeks." http://www.fortunecity.com/lavendar/gilliams/12/movieline.htm

Amyhttp://www.amyking.org/blog

Barry Schwabsky <[redacted]> wrote: I agree that his poetry resonates with a lot of contemporary music...not that its necessarily played on MTV...but for instance I remember Stephen Malkmus in an interview specifically citing Ashbery as an inspiration.

amy king wrote: Thanks for this info, Aldon!

Access the article at the Int'l Herald Tribune w/out a login here:

http://www.iht.com/articles/2007/08/27/arts/27laur.php

ALDON L NIELSEN wrote: An odd bit of news in today's TIMES -- In some ways more of a surprise than the Attorney General's resignation --

---
Ready for the edge of your seat? Check out tonight's top picks on Yahoo! TV.

↑ Index

619. Jason Quackenbush
Re: "An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation"
Mon 27 Aug 2007

---

i'd like to see charles simic vs. john ashbery in a celebrity death match

On Mon, 27 Aug 2007, ALDON L NIELSEN wrote:

> An odd bit of news in today's TIMES -- In some ways more of a surprise than the Attorney General's resignation --
>
> <http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/27/books/27laur.html?_r=1&oref=slogin>
>
> *<<

that with all the more or less solid examples it would make a pretty good intro to writing poetry text. new it's not too pricy either, so it might be a good choice for that reason too.

On Mon, 27 Aug 2007, Tom Bell wrote:

> I am doing a course for old folks liie me at a local senior center and looking for a text book. Ideas?
>
> tom bell

↑ Index

621. steve russell
Re: Old folds can write to.
Mon 27 Aug 2007

The late Kenneth Koch taught poetry in nursing homes. He found it rewarding and wrote at least one book on the subject. The name of the book escapes me, but it wouldn't be hard to find.

Luggage? GPS? Comic books?
Check out fitting gifts for grads at Yahoo! Search.

↑ Index

622. W.B. Keckler
Re: Old folds can write to.
Mon 27 Aug 2007

The book is I Never Told Anybody: Teaching Writing in a Nursing Home.

But he did, he did! He told!

* Get a sneak peek of the all-new AOL at http://discover.aol.com/memed/aolcom30tour

↑ Index

623. amy king
Re: old folks can write too
Mon 27 Aug 2007

Kenneth Koch - I Never Told Anybody: Teaching Poetry Writing to Old People

One review from Amazon, "This book is a must for anyone working/playing with poetry and involved in introducing others to poetry. What is most astounding is Kenneth Koch's humility and honesty, and his willingness to admit mistakes made in teaching poetry to a group of old people at a nursing home. He divides the book very usefully as well. First he introduces the process from start to finish of the workshops, including some of the seniors' works. In the second half of the book, he prints the poems done by participants for each exercise first, then discusses what occurred during the session. One participant in particular is very much a poet, although he'd never written poetry before, and I fell quite in love with him. However, as the book went to press, Kenneth says, this man passed on. You will thoroughly enjoy this book. Aside from the poetry, it has alot to say about the assumptions we make about old and/or infirm people. "

http://www.amazon.com/Never-Told-Anybody-Teaching-Writing/dp/0915924536

Amy

http://www.amyking.org/blog

On Mon, 27 Aug 2007, Tom Bell wrote:

> I am doing a course for old folks liie me at a local senior center and looking for a text book. Ideas?
>
> tom bell

Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search that gives answers, not web links.

↑ Index

624. Diane DiPrima
Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
Mon 27 Aug 2007

When I had Poets Press, 1960s, there was the IBM typewriter which had "proportional spacing" but you couldn't change fonts. If you wanted another font (italics, for instance) you went to another typewriter, typed up those lines, or whatever, and then "stripped them in" to the main body of the camera copy using a light table and single edge razor & white tape. And if you wanted to justify the right hand margin you counted hairline spaces left to fill on any given line, and divvied them up amongst the words on that line, by typing the page over and hitting a hairline space bar the right number of times between each two words. In effect, you typeset every page twice.

This was some time before the "Selectric Composer" with its changeable type balls, and easier justification. My first Selectric Composer cost $2700 -- more than cars in those days.

Before any of this the electric typewriter itself was a great miracle, after many years of typing on huge, heavy, slow "manual" typewriters. At last you could compose as fast as, and in the rhythm of, your thought -- or so it seemed to me. I used it for prose, and actually didn't write much prose till then. For me, poetry has been a matter of the pen and the notebook, for at least sixty years.

As to some of the larger questions you bring up: I think Robert Duncan has a bit to say about the typewritten page vs. the typeset page in his intro to "GroundWork: Before the War". Both volumes of GroundWork were offset from his typing. It took some work on his part to convince New Directions that that was truly how he wanted to go.

Diane di Prima

> From: EJOYCE <[redacted]>
> Reply-To: UB Poetics discussion group <[redacted]>
> Date: Mon, 27 Aug 2007 09:53:12 -0400
> To: <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
>
> I think that mIEKAL is getting back to the first question which was less on how to design (great suggestions, by the way) or how to display information (isn't Tufte great?), and more on whether or not anyone has done much work on the impact of the typewriter and the Courier font on poetry, not just on what it says but on how it looks and the impact of how it looks on what it says. Drucker does address the look of the poem, but does she look at this question exactly?
>
> mIEKAL says that he started with the IBM typewriter, which must have represented the first moment of font style selection (was the default selectric font set Times New Roman?), but many poets on this list had no font choice (i.e., no extra selectric sets). What was the effect on poetry of a shift from the open letter form, now seen as archaic, of Courier, to the much more closed and formal form of Times New Roman? The only expressive tools, too, on typewriters were capitalizations or not and perhaps punctuation as visual mark. Word processor programs of various sorts began to open up the font availability, but I would guess that most poets used the default font style.
>
> I also think that word processors removed features available with typewriters, like removing a sheet of paper and re-entering it with different placement, or positiioning the paper exactly so that a letter or letter group could be placed on the page in a very specific space. With word processing, it became impossible to overlap lines or letters, but also, I suspect that the hyphen practically disappeared. Not everyone used hyphens with typewriters, but just leaving a word unfinished at the end of a line set up a moment of hesitation that automatic word wrap removes.
>
> I suspect, too, that few poets use (or perhaps in early word processing, did use) layout programs, for they were only available on Apple computers and were > prohibitively expensive. It is these programs that mIEKAL lists--Quark and InDesign, especially--that permit font style and size choice and letter/word/line placement to an exact degree. To what degree are poets using these tools?

>
> I wonder if early word processing created a dearth or at least a radical change in concret poetry forms.
>
> Lisa Joyce
>
> On Monday, August 27, 2007 12:18 AM, mIEKAL aND wrote:
>
> Date: Sun, 26 Aug 2007 23:18:06 -0500
> From: mIEKAL aND
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
>
> fonts: make your own. get a copy of FontLab. there's nothing more fun, frustrating, intriguing than designing a font specific to a work. or simpler still, design a display font for the title, most of the time you don't even need all the letters.
>
> typewriters: I began in small press pre-desktop when the DIY typesetting machine was an IBM Selectric. You were really hot shit if you had more than 2 typeballs.
>
> page design: take the time to learn InDesign inside & out. it's overtaken Quark as the industry standard & like PhotoShop you can't really do anything original without know the software.
>
> printing: amazing things are being done with inkjet, laser printers & digital copiers, make books in small editions & most likely you'll feel freer to experiment with techniques, papers, hand detailing ...
>
> ~mIEKAL

↑ Index

625. Stephen Vincent

Re: old folks can write too

Mon 27 Aug 2007

> I am doing a course for old folks liie me at a local senior center and looking for a text book. Ideas?
>
> tom bell

Tom, I would suggest not looking at the old as a separate - but often a more interesting species than the young. Interesting in the sense that the teaching and writing experience can be more akin to the surprises of the archeologist (where teaching the young, say, is interesting more in terms of words like 'potential', and 'future.')

In the last couple of years I have been teaching older adults in communities as various as centers of folks who have not gone beyond high school (if!), to extended learning programs where the members are highly educated, retired from upper echelon careers, etc. They all got stuff.

In terms of poetry, as stimulus for writing I use many of the same exercises (or improvisations on such) that work with college and other young adults - Oulipo, Teachers & Writers, Benadette, etc., etc. The exercises work to bring up stuff from various depths, histories, and humor.

An adult who has worked in Civil Rights, or non-profits all her life, or an ex-Banker or a high school teacher (etc.) puts a different, often fresh angle on the envelope.

The most difficult or resistant are the folks who got A's in English in college, studied with a famous Mr. Or Mrs. X, as well know the xyz's of poetry form as a religious form of conviction. Those ones can be a predictably pain in the ass, if you do things that go contrary, or bend the bow in a different direction.

On quick inroad is to get people to draw maps - maps of their rooms, maps of what they remember of where they grew up. Maps create a means into getting at the images/details that are or have been most local to their lives.

In terms of writing memoirs, there are no doubt road maps to get people going - and I think those classes are often quite popular, though I have not gone there.

Good luck,

Stephen V

↑ Index

626. Stephen Vincent
Re: old folks can write too
Mon 27 Aug 2007

I tried using this. I don't think Kenneth was really into this - as he was with the kids. There is something proforma about the approach and results. Some OK stuff, but not much that I found useful.

Stephen V
http://stephenvincent.net/blog/

> Kenneth Koch - I Never Told Anybody: Teaching Poetry Writing to Old People
>
> One review from Amazon, "This book is a must for anyone working/playing with poetry and involved in introducing others to poetry. What is most astounding is Kenneth Koch's humility and honesty, and his willingness to admit mistakes made in teaching poetry to a group of old people at a nursing home. He divides the book very usefully as well. First he introduces the process from start to finish of the workshops, including some of the seniors' works. In the second half of the book, he prints the poems done by participants for each exercise first, then discusses what occurred during the session. One participant in particular is very much a poet, although he'd never written poetry before, and I fell quite in love with him. However, as the book went to press, Kenneth says, this man passed on. You will thoroughly enjoy this book. Aside from the poetry, it has alot to say about the assumptions we make about old and/or infirm people. "
>
> http://www.amazon.com/Never-Told-Anybody-Teaching-Writing/dp/0915924536
>
> Amy
>
> http://www.amyking.org/blog
>
> On Mon, 27 Aug 2007, Tom Bell wrote:
>
> I am doing a course for old folks liie me at a local senior center and looking for a text book. Ideas?
>
> tom bell
>
> ---
> Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search that gives answers, not web links.

↑ Index

627. Thomas savage

Re: old folks can write too

Mon 27 Aug 2007

I Never Told Anybody by Kenneth Koch. It is available through Teachers & Writers Collaborative, NYC. I once used it to teach poetry in a senior center, too. Good luck to you. Keep it simple and don't insist too hard that the seniors write modern poetry unless you're a genius teacher/poet as Koch was. Regards, Tom Savage

Tom Bell <[redacted]> wrote: I am doing a course for old folks liie me at a local senior center and looking for a text book. Ideas?

tom bell

Ready for the edge of your seat? Check out tonight's top picks on Yahoo! TV.

↑ Index

628. David Chirot
On This Day in Wisconsin History: Typewriter patented- Milwaukee 1868
Mon 27 Aug 2007

In search of a story on the passing of the last of the old spitball pitchers at this site stumbed on this and as our Wisconsin state motto says, thought to "Forward" from Milwaukee-
dbc

http://www.wisconsinhistory.org/thisday/ ---

↑ Index

629. Therese Broderick
old folks can write too
Mon 27 Aug 2007

Mr. Bell,

I am a community poet (not an academic) active in the Albany, NY area. I have an MFA degree and years of workshop experience.

I have presented some informal poetry sessions to older writers. I own the handbook by Kenneth Koch entitled "I Never Told Anybody: Teaching Poetry Writing to Old People." It is a good guide; however, most of it is targeted to "nursing home" residents. Your writers in a senior center will be different from nursing home residents with regard to manual dexterity, attention span, memory, hearing acuity, extent of personal loss and sadness, and ability to commit to a series of scheduled classes.

I don't know whether your "course" is a formal composition class or a more informal writing session.
Nor do I know whether it teaches all kinds of writing (which would be a real challenge) or just poetry.
But if you want to give me a call or a personal email query, I can share my experiences with you in more detail.

Words of advice: whatever you do, do not underestimate the sharp intelligence, wise insight, broad experience, depth of feeling, or probably already-in-place strong writing (and memorization) skills of your seniors. If you are one of them, then you already know that.

Therese Broderick, MFA
Albany, NY
[redacted]

↑ Index

630. Daniel Godston

Re: old folks can write too

Mon 27 Aug 2007

Cynthia Stokes Brown's "Like It Was: A Complete Guide to Writing Oral History" might be a good one to use.

-----Original Message-----
From: UB Poetics discussion group
[mailto:[redacted]]On Behalf Of Tom Bell Sent: Monday, August 27, 2007 12:41 PM
To: [redacted]
Subject: old folks can write too

I am doing a course for old folks liie me at a local senior center and looking for a text book. Ideas?

tom bell

↑ Index

631. Jill Jones
Re: Mary Rising Higgins
Mon 27 Aug 2007

That is sad news. I had a a copy of her book O'Clock, all the way over here, and admired her work greatly.

Thanks, Charles, for passing along the news.

Jill

On 28/08/2007, at 2:02 AM, charles alexander wrote:

> Mary Rising Higgins died last night, August 26, about 7pm.
>
> I know she was in hospice care, but I don't know the details of her medical condition.
>
> Her books in recent years: Cliff Tides (Singing Horse Press, 2005), Locus Tides (Potes & Poets Press, 2003), O'Clock (Potes & Poets Press, 2000), Red Table(s (La Alameda Press, 1999), presented an amazing body of work over a short period of time. I felt lucky to know her and hear her read her work.
>
> charles alexander / chax press
>
> fold the book inside the book keep it open always
> read from the inside out speak then
>
> Chax Press
> [redacted] (studio)
> [redacted] (cell)
> [redacted]
> chax.org
> 650 E. 9th St.
> Tucson, AZ 85705

Jill Jones

Latest books:
Broken/Open. Available from Salt Publishing
http://www.saltpublishing.com/books/smp/1844710416.htm

Where the Sea Burns. Wagtail Series. Picaro Press
PO Box 853, Warners Bay, NSW, 2282. [redacted]

web site: http://www.jilljones.com.au
off the street: http://jillesjon.googlepages.com/home
blog1: Ruby Street http://rubystreet.blogspot.com/
blog2: Latitudes http://itudes.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

632. John Tranter
Ashbery on MTV??
Mon 27 Aug 2007

Hi, all:

New York Times
August 27, 2007
An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation
By MELENA RYZIK

MtvU, the subsidiary of MTV Networks that is broadcast only on college campuses, will announce today that it has selected its first poet laureate. No, he doesn?t rap. And it?s not Bob Dylan, or even Justin Timberlake.

It is John Ashbery, the prolific 80-year-old poet and frequent award winner known for his dense, postmodern style and playful language. One of the most celebrated living poets, Mr. Ashbery has won MacArthur Foundation and Guggenheim fellowships and was awarded a Pulitzer Prize in 1976 for his collection ?Self-Portrait in a Convex Mirror.?

... more here:

http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/27/books/27laur.html?
ex=1188878400&en=c4e34a79300ffe48&ei=5070&emc=eta1

(you may need to repair the break in the URL).

John Tranter

↑ Index

633. Simon DeDeo
new on rhubarb is susan
Mon 27 Aug 2007

Three posts this week -- I have a large backlog to catch up with after putting absent to bed (waking her up?) -- on Victor Segalen, the end of wikipedia as we know it (no, seriously), and announcing absent issue two:

http://rhubarbissusan.blogspot.com
http://rhubarbissusan.blogspot.com/2007/08/reading-victor-segalen.html
http://rhubarbissusan.blogspot.com/2007/08/end-of-wikipedia-as-we-know-it.html http://rhubarbissusan.blogspot.com/2007/08/absent-magazine-issue-two-now-online.html

Thanks as always for tuning in and drop comments and so forth as you please,

Simon

↑ Index

634. Maria Damon
Re: Old folds can write to.
Mon 27 Aug 2007

I Never Told Anybody.

steve russell wrote:
> The late Kenneth Koch taught poetry in nursing homes. He found it rewarding and wrote at least one book on the subject. The name of the book escapes me, but it wouldn't be hard to find.
>
> ---
> Luggage? GPS? Comic books?
> Check out fitting gifts for grads at Yahoo! Search.
>

↑ Index

635. Catherine Daly
Re: Old folds can write to.
Mon 27 Aug 2007

Koch's book is interesting, not real useful, but it points out possible points of discussion, teaching the elderly. For example, the people Koch taught in a nursing home were very infirm. Fewer older people are very infirm for a long period anymore. That might be an interesting discussion to include in the course if you use the Koch book.

For example, the friends of the library here is in the energetic grandparents raising a second generation of children group, 65-85ish. The president turned the group into an oral history / local history group sponsoring arts workshops and events at the branch library.

My paternal grandmother LOVED her local senior center -- this was about 30 years ago, tho. My maternal grandmother wouldn't be caught dead there. My paternal grandmother also went straight to a nursing home during her decline, while my grandmother lived in assisted living -- she had her own apartment, but didn't have to cook dinner or clean -- from her very late 80s until her mid 90s. During most of that time, she was not infirm or isolated from the larger community.

A lot of seniors I've met as book fests in particular are really interested in diy publishing: how to make a chapbook on the computer, dos and don'ts of lulu.com, what a broadside is, or something like that might go over really, really well and be fun besides. Maybe a collaborative book or collection?

I've had good results with occasional verse, postcard poems, mail art, renga....

--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

↑ Index

636. Halvard Johnson
Re: Mary Rising Higgins
Mon 27 Aug 2007

A great loss! Mary was one of the most adventurous and inventive poets/writers I know.

Halvard Johnson
==========
[redacted]
http://home.earthlink.net/~halvard/index.html
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org
http://home.earthlink.net/~halvard/vidalocabooks.html

On Aug 27, 2007, at 11:02 AM, charles alexander wrote:

> Mary Rising Higgins died last night, August 26, about 7pm.
>
> I know she was in hospice care, but I don't know the details of her medical condition.
>
> Her books in recent years: Cliff Tides (Singing Horse Press, 2005), Locus Tides (Potes & Poets Press, 2003), O'Clock (Potes & Poets Press, 2000), Red Table(s (La Alameda Press, 1999), presented an amazing body of work over a short period of time. I felt lucky to know her and hear her read her work.

> charles alexander / chax press
>
> fold the book inside the book keep it open always
> read from the inside out speak then
>
> Chax Press
> [redacted] (studio)
> [redacted] (cell)
> [redacted]
> chax.org
> 650 E. 9th St.
> Tucson, AZ 85705

↑ Index

637. W.B. Keckler

Joe Brainard's Meditates on Catherine Daly, Vacancy, and the Dildos

Mon 27 Aug 2007

Recent mediations & meditations at Joe Brainard's Pyjamas are upon the nature of DaDaDa (both Catherine Daly's ouevre and Volkswagen incursions), the movie Vacancy, the time-traveling Dildos and other topics of imminent concern. Come on by and I'll promise to pick the lint off YOUR jammies...it's all soft and has plastic feet at _http://joebrainardspyjamas.blogspot.com/_ (http://joebrainardspyjamas.blogspot.com/)

* Get a sneak peek of the all-new AOL at http://discover.aol.com/memed/aolcom30tour

↑ Index

638. Halvard Johnson

Re: Old folds can write to.

Mon 27 Aug 2007

Old fools can write too.

Hal

"Go ahead and look for God, but tie up your camel first."
--Sufi proverb

Halvard Johnson
==========

[redacted]
http://home.earthlink.net/~halvard/index.html
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org
http://home.earthlink.net/~halvard/vidalocabooks.html

On Aug 27, 2007, at 6:10 PM, Maria Damon wrote:

> I Never Told Anybody.
>
> steve russell wrote:
> The late Kenneth Koch taught poetry in nursing homes. He found it rewarding and wrote at least one book on the subject. The name of the book escapes me, but it wouldn't be hard to find.
> ---
> Luggage? GPS? Comic books? Check out fitting gifts for grads at Yahoo! Search.

↑ Index

639. Jerome Rothenberg
Reading with Philippe Manoury
Mon 27 Aug 2007

[The following announcement for those who are interested and in a position to attend]

UPCOMING: READING & MUSICAL PERFORMANCE ON sEPTEMBER 4

Jerome Rothenberg will read on Tuesday September 4 6:00 p.m. at the Spiegeltent at South Street Seaport in New York, preceding the performance of a new work by Philippe Manoury based on Rothenberg's texts. Manoury is one of France's most important living composers, and this concert will mark the world premiere of Cruel Spirals (2007), a work commissioned by the International Contemporary Ensemble (ICE) and scored for solo soprano (Tony Arnold), string quartet, flute, clarinet, guitar and percussion. Tickets ($35 general / $15 students) available at www.ticketcentral.com or by phone at [redacted]. For more information, visit www.spiegelworld.com or www.iceorg.org.

A conversation between Manoury and Rothenberg will follow at 8:00 that evening at The New York Theater Workshop, 79 East Fourth Street (at Second Avenue). Admission for the conversation is free.

↑ Index

640. J Crockett
web designers like me
Tue 28 Aug 2007

---

http://listenlight.net/media/augustllvisits.png indicates that twice as many web designers look at listenlight that people clicking through from the BPL.

and may empiricize that I'm bringing more people to poetry than you.

Wait until I learn JavaFX. . . mwahha.

Jess Crockett

Now reading for issue 12. address to: jesse -at listenlight -dot net

↑ Index

641. Charlie Rossiter
Rita Dove at Neruda's Grave
Tue 28 Aug 2007

There's not a lot of poetry on Youtube yet, but go there and search Rita Dove and watch/listen to her at Neruda's grave.

Charlie

↑ Index

642. steve russell
Re: Old folds can write to.
Tue 28 Aug 2007

Hunh? My paranoia is on high def red alert... NO ONE must know whatever it is they know. Have I made myself, ugh, perfectly clear?

Maria Damon <[redacted]> wrote:
  I Never Told Anybody.

steve russell wrote:
> The late Kenneth Koch taught poetry in nursing homes. He found it rewarding and wrote at least one book on the subject. The name of the book escapes me, but it wouldn't be hard to find.
>
> ---
> Luggage? GPS? Comic books?
> Check out fitting gifts for grads at Yahoo! Search.
>

Luggage? GPS? Comic books?
Check out fitting gifts for grads at Yahoo! Search.

↑ Index

643. Jonathan Skinner
Mary Rising Higgins
Tue 28 Aug 2007

This is sad, sad news. I'm surprised though not shocked as I know Mary had survived cancer earlier in life. Indeed, I believe that was the new lease that impelled her to such an amazing and radical production.

From the 1999 Red Table(s on she has published some of the most exquisite and uncompromising poetry of our times. Ran her "Scaffolds to K" in an issue of ecopoetics (no. 3). One of the most beautiful things we were lucky to be able to publish.

More than almost any other contemporary writer I know of (post-Ronald Johnson), Mary's work has explored the fractal patterns at work in all materials, across species and languages. A kind of no holds-barred cosmic fire irrigating her elegant compositions, informed and structured by specific (observed) knowledge of other lives, especially botanical and avian.

We'd lost touch in the past year, though I continued to look forward to meeting her in person. Another reminder how little one can take for granted, in this short life . . .

I still have Locus Tides, and O'Clock, waiting to be reviewed.

In the meantime, thanks for the adventures in writing, Mary. Happy travels . . .

JS

from "Black Top River Fires / a Corona"

Grace length, a fresh uncertain sea we branch in back flipped through calm and storm childhood expirations a fresh rooted ribbon grass love pulls into why, perhaps fractals compose the house or spawn July . . .

minutiae's dogged trek eastward through traffic weft where I can't help skipping after red shift dwarf and puny star target landscape dreamed by someone . . .

Hallucinogenic skin over cat voice dawn navigates place in spooled thread space spark . . .

colossal virus being electronic drift here we slip turn rushing tesselate flight wake tossed to whirl cued grackle frame reach out of drum lift foot bent bridge span stretch where none of it will finish in time . . .

plumb fallen launch spurred to snowtipped summer mooring
grace length, a fresh uncertain sea we branch in.

(red table(s, La Alameda Press, 1999)

from "Scaffolds to K"

dust shadow mountains reshape loves me knot, loves me

sun speeds a farther north lane sky corner, loves me

catalpa petals, drop one by one, scuff patch grass new mown, weeded, then monsoon sand lit gust flurries rain cool clearing early June afternoons burst in predicted chaos average repeating along scaffolds at K, velar capped and frost peaked, to flavor the grained silence cloud squared thermals re|place

re|verse re|place all day¹s labyrinth to search the voice listening inflects, clew spin space and matter through impossible architecture terms come to (ecopoetics 03, 2003)

↑ Index

644. Kimberley Rogers
Re: Ashbery on MTV??
Tue 28 Aug 2007

Is it me or are we way overdue for women to be considered for all these recently filled Poet Laureate decisions? (Not that I think the position is indicative of a poet's importance) Naomi Shihab Nye is an excellent candidate for the voice of America and the voice of the MTV generation right now. I revolt--and methinks there must be a poem waitng to get out in me somewhere on this subject--as always.

-----Original Message-----
>From: John Tranter <[redacted]>
>Sent: Aug 27, 2007 6:11 PM
>To: [redacted]

>Subject: Ashbery on MTV??
>
>Hi, all:
>
>New York Times
>August 27, 2007
>An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation
>By MELENA RYZIK
>
>MtvU, the subsidiary of MTV Networks that is broadcast only on college campuses, will announce today that it has selected its first poet laureate. No, he doesn?t rap. And it?s not Bob Dylan, or even Justin Timberlake.
>
>It is John Ashbery, the prolific 80-year-old poet and frequent award winner known for his dense, postmodern style and playful language. One of the most celebrated living poets, Mr. Ashbery has won MacArthur Foundation and Guggenheim fellowships and was awarded a Pulitzer Prize in 1976 for his collection ?Self-Portrait in a Convex Mirror.?
>
>... more here:
>
>http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/27/books/27laur.html?ex=1188878400&en=c4e34a79300ffe48&ei=5070&emc=eta1
>
>(you may need to repair the break in the URL).
>
>----------
>John Tranter

↑ Index

645. George Bowering

Re: ever since the 3rd anniversary of our American invasion of Iraq

Tue 28 Aug 2007

On Aug 13, 2007, at 2:08 PM, Mary Kasimor wrote:

> And capitalism is supposed to make everything work, with an equal opportunity for all.

It is? I don't know anyone who supposes thus.

George Harvey Bowering
Fond of many dead people.

↑ Index

646. George Bowering
Re: "An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation"
Tue 28 Aug 2007

On Aug 27, 2007, at 9:52 AM, Barry Schwabsky wrote:

> I agree that his poetry resonates with a lot of contemporary > music...not that its necessarily played on MTV...but for instance I > remember Stephen Malkmus in an interview specifically citing Ashbery
> as an inspiration.
>
>
And Stephen Malkmus is . . . . . .?
>
George Bowering, OBC
Did not fall down on Denman Island

↑ Index

647. George Bowering
Re: old folks can write too
Tue 28 Aug 2007

On Aug 27, 2007, at 10:40 AM, Tom Bell wrote:

> I am doing a course for old folks liie me at a local senior center and looking for a text book. Ideas?
>
> tom bell

As old as John Ashbery?
>
>
Geo. Bowering
Heavy feet. Light heart.

↑ Index

648. Maria Damon
Re: Old folds can write to.
Tue 28 Aug 2007

---

as can old folds.

Halvard Johnson wrote:
> Old fools can write too.
>
> Hal

>
> "Go ahead and look for God, but > tie up your camel first."
> --Sufi proverb
>
> Halvard Johnson
> ==========
> [redacted]
> http://home.earthlink.net/~halvard/index.html
> http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
> http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
> http://www.hamiltonstone.org
> http://home.earthlink.net/~halvard/vidalocabooks.html
>
>
> On Aug 27, 2007, at 6:10 PM, Maria Damon wrote:
>
>> I Never Told Anybody.
>>
>> steve russell wrote:
>>> The late Kenneth Koch taught poetry in nursing homes. He found it >>> rewarding and wrote at least one book on the subject. The name of >>> the book escapes me, but it wouldn't be hard to find.
>>> ---
>>> Luggage? GPS? Comic books? Check out fitting gifts for grads at >>> Yahoo! Search.
>>>

↑ Index

649. Schlesinger Kyle
Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
Tue 28 Aug 2007

Small Press Distribution still has a few copies of Alan Loney's The Printer Printed with an introduction by Steve Clay of Granary Books. This meditation/manifesto was delivered in the Poetry Collection at the University at Buffalo when Bob Creeley invited him to read there in 2003.

Alan is a terrific poet, skilled printer and a refined thinker on the relationship between the two. He now lives in Australia where he continues to print under the sign of Electio Editions.

Check out http://www.electioeditions.com/

Kyle

_____
Kyle Schlesinger
www.kyleschlesinger.com
www.cuneiformpress.com

> From: Crane's Bill Books <[redacted]>
> Reply-To: UB Poetics discussion group <[redacted]>
> Date: Mon, 27 Aug 2007 10:44:53 -0600
> To: <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: fonts, typewriters, page design, & printing
>
> It's a bit far afield of the design question, but Walter J. Ong's ORALITY AND LITERACY: THE TECHNOLOGIZING OF THE WORD deals with, among many other good > things, how the printed word and the printed page have influenced ideas about what language is and what is should do. I found it pretty remarkable.
> Kyle Schlesinger's Cuneiform Press issued a lovely essay by Alan Loney, MEDITATIO: THE PRINTER PRINTED: MANIFESTO. Sadly, no longer in print.
> Jeffrey
>
> J. A. Lee
> Crane's Bill Books
> Albuquerque
> www.torriblezone.com

↑ Index

650. Dr. Barry S. Alpert
Re: "An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation"
Tue 28 Aug 2007

I believe I witnessed such a pairing at the Library of Congress in the seventies and that one reading was much more impressive than the other. Barry Alpert

On Mon, 27 Aug 2007, Jason Quackenbush wrote:

i'd like to see charles simic vs. john ashbery in a celebrity death match
_____ Messenger Café — open for fun 24/7. Hot games, cool activities served daily. Visit now. http://cafemessenger.com?ocid=TXT_TAGLM_AugWLtagline=

↑ Index

651. steve russell
Old folks can WRITE 2!!!!!!!!!! responce to Maria Damon...
Tue 28 Aug 2007

Brain damage, me. Maria Damon was referring to the book KK wrote. Silly me. I've been in the business too long. Too many Feds, know what I'm saying. I need to take my anti-paranoia meds.

Sick sense of humor? Visit Yahoo! TV's Comedy with an Edge to see what's on, when.

↑ Index

652. W.B. Keckler
peaches and herb and ashbery
Tue 28 Aug 2007

I'm sorry but whoever repeated that "peaches and herb" anecdote re Ashbery is gul-gul-gullible.....you can't live in America and move twenty feet without hearing a pop song...clearly that was Ashbery being "cutesy" with his "high culture" image....he's heard it all...in elevators, restaurants, and every where else..if you think he can't sing along with "Can't Touch This," octogenarian or not, I have "hair in a can" i want to sell you..it, like, totally FOOLS people...

But "Reunited" did Rock. My bff Tammy and I used to perform it at neighborhood barbecues when we were ten...sigh...memories!

* Get a sneak peek of the all-new AOL at http://discover.aol.com/memed/aolcom30tour

↑ Index

653. David Chirot
Re: Ashbery on MTV?? SHERMAN ALEXIE
Tue 28 Aug 2007

Whatever one may make of his various works, I think Sherman Alexie would be a great candidate for an MTV laureate. (I'm not his biggest fan, but do think he'd be great Mtv Laureate.) His work continually makes use --hilarious, angry, bitter, turned upside down inside out--of popular culture, movies, music, tv, basketball, popular /assigned books, comic books, He often writes and says a lot of things that the American culture high and low, select or mass--would prefer to go unsaid and unheard, that keep things unsettling and uncomfortable. He can be devastatingly annihilatingly analytical of the gigantic crock of BS in the US and hysterically funny within the same sentence. (Ah! But he doesn't write New Sentences!-- some might object--protesting the "Marginalization of ['Real'] Poetry." But doesn't John Ashbery already cover some of this "Real Poetry" ground?)

Heard him recently give talk with a reading in which he described airline profiling from the point of view of an American Indian. In the first place--WHAT are you? WHERE are you FROM? Asia? Southwest Asia? Latin America? Not like you see a lot of Indians flying the friendly skies of America! After all, aren't America's First Peoples also its first Guantanamo Poets?

Americans build "Seperation" Walls and fences in Baghdad, on the Mexican border and give billions for the world's biggest, best equipped, Super-Max Security one in Palestine. And why not? Don't they already have a long history and expertise in this form of ethnic cleansing, anti-terrorism, National security?

"They are still calling us 'savages,' 'terrorists,'" says Leonard Peltier from his prison cell. So what do you do when "one of them" gets on the nice airplane?

"I have taken poison and made Medicine of it."
Charlie Hill, Indian comic

Why not some Medicine words for Mtv poetry--

On 8/28/07, Kimberley Rogers <[redacted]> wrote:
> Is it me or are we way overdue for women to be considered for all these recently filled Poet Laureate decisions? (Not that I think the position is indicative of a poet's importance) Naomi Shihab Nye is an excellent candidate for the voice of America and the voice of the MTV generation right now. I revolt--and methinks there must be a poem waitng to get out in me somewhere on this subject--as always.
>
> -----Original Message-----
> >From: John Tranter <[redacted]>
> >Sent: Aug 27, 2007 6:11 PM
> >To: [redacted]
> >Subject: Ashbery on MTV??
> >
> >Hi, all:
> >
> >New York Times
> >August 27, 2007
> >An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation
> >By MELENA RYZIK
> >
> >MtvU, the subsidiary of MTV Networks that is broadcast only on college campuses, will announce today that it has selected its first poet laureate. No, he doesn?t rap. And it?s not Bob Dylan, or even Justin Timberlake.

> >
> >It is John Ashbery, the prolific 80-year-old poet and frequent award winner known for his dense, postmodern style and playful language. One of the most celebrated living poets, Mr. Ashbery has won MacArthur Foundation and Guggenheim fellowships and was awarded a Pulitzer Prize in 1976 for his collection ?Self-Portrait in a Convex Mirror.?
> >
> >... more here:
> >
> >http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/27/books/27laur.html?ex=1188878400&en=c4e34a79300ffe48&ei=5070&emc=eta1
> >
> >(you may need to repair the break in the URL).
> >
> >----------
> >John Tranter
>

↑ Index

654. Diane DiPrima
Re: Old folds can write to.
Tue 28 Aug 2007

Deena Metzger's "Writing for Your Life" is invaluable for all middle- and late-year beginning writers. I don't know if it's still in print.

Diane di Prima

> From: Catherine Daly <[redacted]>
> Reply-To: UB Poetics discussion group <[redacted]>
> Date: Mon, 27 Aug 2007 16:39:56 -0700
> To: <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: Old folds can write to.
>
> Koch's book is interesting, not real useful, but it points out possible points of discussion, teaching the elderly. For example, the people Koch taught in a nursing home were very infirm. Fewer older people are very infirm for a long period anymore. That might be an interesting discussion to include in the course if you use the Koch book.
>
> For example, the friends of the library here is in the energetic grandparents raising a second generation of children group, 65-85ish.

> The president turned the group into an oral history / local history group sponsoring arts workshops and events at the branch library.
>
> My paternal grandmother LOVED her local senior center -- this was about 30 years ago, tho. My maternal grandmother wouldn't be caught dead there. My paternal grandmother also went straight to a nursing home during her decline, while my grandmother lived in assisted living -- she had her own apartment, but didn't have to cook dinner or clean -- from her very late 80s until her mid 90s. During most of that time, she was not infirm or isolated from the larger community.
>
> A lot of seniors I've met as book fests in particular are really interested in diy publishing: how to make a chapbook on the computer, dos and don'ts of lulu.com, what a broadside is, or something like that might go over really, really well and be fun besides. Maybe a collaborative book or collection?
>
> I've had good results with occasional verse, postcard poems, mail art, renga....
>
> --
> All best,
> Catherine Daly
> [redacted]

↑ Index

655. Barry Schwabsky
Re: Grace Paley
Tue 28 Aug 2007

One thing--Grace Paley's admirers will want to read this lovely tribute from Katha Pollitt:

http://www.thenation.com/blogs/anotherthing?pid=226859

↑ Index

656. Jennifer Karmin
Call for Papers: Feminist Activism in the Academy
Tue 28 Aug 2007

Call for Papers: FEMINIST ACTIVISM IN THE ACADEMY

The slogan that the personal is political has not always made clear how feminists navigate the professional realm. We seek to compile a volume entitled Feminist Activism in the Academy. Articles for the volume will examine the intersections among the personal, political, and professional realms and the ways in which feminist activists come to life in the Academy. The proposed volume will bring together perspectives on activism in the academy from a variety of disciplines and interdisciplines.

Primary areas of focus include: self-identification of women academics; activism in and out of the classroom; activism in and out of formal Women's Studies curricula; women*s status in the academic workplace. This special volume will provide a forum in which scholars will come together to identify and define problems in their work lives and/or examine their own brand of activism as it pertains to their professional day-to-day lives and their careers as a whole. Essays can focus on one particular experience or location or can be comparative in nature.

The larger arch under which we wish to gather essays in this volume is bell hooks' notion that the classroom remains the most radical space of possibility in the academy, the place where activism starts with the essential movement against and beyond boundaries, a movement which makes education the practice of freedom. In light of this notion, we encourage discussions and explorations of the interconnections between feminist pedagogies and activism and between the status of feminist scholars and teachers in the Academy and institutionalized politics of exclusion, silencing, or marginalization that adversely affect the overall status of women in the academic professions.

Essay topics include but are not limited to:
Student activists: Programming with a feminist consciousness
Women as professor-activists: Making a difference
Women administrators: Making changes without getting fired Women's Studies curricula
The personal as political Local activism
Service-learning
Inclusion of local women activists

Extra-curricular programming
Celebrating women's anniversaries in the Academy (e.g.
Co-education, First woman X)
Quid pro quo and/versus hostile environment harassment Benevolent sexism in the Academy
Training for change in the Academy
Title VII and the Academy
Title IX and the Academy
What works for women scholars in other nations:
learning and applying, others'lessons
Mothering/grandmothering in the Academy

Essays of 15-25 pages in length should be submitted electronically by February 1, 2008, to Domnica Radulescu ([redacted]) and Ellen Mayock
([redacted]).

Essays should be submitted in MS-Word format, with parenthetical notes and complete references
formatted according to the MLA Handbook of Style.
Brief, 75-word bios must accompany essay submissions.

___
Got a little couch potato?
Check out fun summer activities for kids.
http://search.yahoo.com/search?
fr=oni_on_mail&p=summer+activities+for+kids&cs=bz

↑ Index

657. charles alexander
Re: Ashbery on MTV??
Tue 28 Aug 2007

Yes! Although I would have, as first choice, Kathy Acker if she were still alive. For me, Anne Waldman or Erica Hunt or Alice Notley or Harryette Mullen or Dodie Bellamy or . . .

charles

At 07:27 AM 8/28/2007, Kimberley Rogers wrote:
>Is it me or are we way overdue for women to be considered for all >these recently filled Poet Laureate decisions? (Not that I think the >position is indicative of a poet's importance) Naomi Shihab Nye is >an excellent candidate for the voice of America and the voice of the >MTV generation right now. I revolt--and methinks there must be a >poem waitng to get out in me somewhere on this subject--as always.

>
>-----Original Message-----
> >From: John Tranter <[redacted]>
> >Sent: Aug 27, 2007 6:11 PM
> >To: [redacted]
> >Subject: Ashbery on MTV??
> >
> >Hi, all:
> >
> >New York Times
> >August 27, 2007
> >An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation
> >By MELENA RYZIK
> >
> >MtvU, the subsidiary of MTV Networks that is broadcast only on > college campuses, will announce today that it has selected its > first poet laureate. No, he doesn?t rap. And it?s not Bob Dylan, or > even Justin Timberlake.
> >
> >It is John Ashbery, the prolific 80-year-old poet and frequent > award winner known for his dense, postmodern style and playful > language. One of the most celebrated living poets, Mr. Ashbery has > won MacArthur Foundation and Guggenheim fellowships and was awarded > a Pulitzer Prize in 1976 for his collection ?Self-Portrait in a > Convex Mirror.?
> >
> >... more here:
> >
> >http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/27/books/27laur.html?ex=1188878400&e > n=c4e34a79300ffe48&ei=5070&emc=eta1
> >
> >(you may need to repair the break in the URL).
> >
> >----------
> >John Tranter

charles alexander / chax press

fold the book inside the book keep it open always read from the inside out speak then

Chax Press
[redacted] (studio)
[redacted] (cell)
[redacted]
chax.org
650 E. 9th St.
Tucson, AZ 85705

↑ Index

658. Mark Weiss
Re: Ashbery on MTV??
Tue 28 Aug 2007

Rochelle Owens. Wouldn't that be a trip?

At 01:51 PM 8/28/2007, you wrote:
>Yes! Although I would have, as first choice, Kathy Acker if she were >still alive. For me, Anne Waldman or Erica Hunt or Alice Notley or >Harryette Mullen or Dodie Bellamy or . . .
>
>charles
>
>At 07:27 AM 8/28/2007, Kimberley Rogers wrote:
>>Is it me or are we way overdue for women to be considered for all >>these recently filled Poet Laureate decisions? (Not that I think >>the position is indicative of a poet's importance) Naomi Shihab >>Nye is an excellent candidate for the voice of America and the >>voice of the MTV generation right now. I revolt--and methinks >>there must be a poem waitng to get out in me somewhere on this >>subject--as always.
>>
>>-----Original Message-----
>> >From: John Tranter <[redacted]>
>> >Sent: Aug 27, 2007 6:11 PM
>> >To: [redacted]
>> >Subject: Ashbery on MTV??
>> >
>> >Hi, all:
>> >
>> >New York Times
>> >August 27, 2007
>> >An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation
>> >By MELENA RYZIK

>> >
>> >MtvU, the subsidiary of MTV Networks that is broadcast only on >> college campuses, will announce today that it has selected its >> first poet laureate. No, he doesn?t rap. And it?s not Bob Dylan, >> or even Justin Timberlake.
>> >
>> >It is John Ashbery, the prolific 80-year-old poet and frequent >> award winner known for his dense, postmodern style and playful >> language. One of the most celebrated living poets, Mr. Ashbery has >> won MacArthur Foundation and Guggenheim fellowships and was >> awarded a Pulitzer Prize in 1976 for his collection ?Self-Portrait >> in a Convex Mirror.?
>> >
>> >... more here:
>> >
>> >http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/27/books/27laur.html?ex=1188878400&
>> e n=c4e34a79300ffe48&ei=5070&emc=eta1
>> >
>> >(you may need to repair the break in the URL).
>> >
>> >----------
>> >John Tranter
>
>charles alexander / chax press
>
>fold the book inside the book keep it open always
> read from the inside out speak then
>
>Chax Press
>[redacted] (studio)
>[redacted] (cell)
>[redacted]
>chax.org
>650 E. 9th St.
>Tucson, AZ 85705

↑ Index

659. Alan Sondheim

My Eclipse

Tue 28 Aug 2007

My Eclipse

"Are there bread-crumbs on the moon?" I ask M.
"There's precisely one bread-crumb on the moon."
He offers me whiskey and I drink half-glass; he won't stop otherwise,
We're staring at the stars.
A large Hudson drives down the street below us, full of merry-makers;
it's the total eclipse of the moon!
It's three in the morning and we haven't seen anything yet.
It's four.
It's five in the morning and the curtain descends at a distance.
You can see earthlight as frustrated earth denies its own shadow.
"There you are, that's the disk I've been telling you about."
"The moon is round, isn't it?"
The bread-crumb would have dried up by now, blown hither and yon by lunar winds.
"There aren't any lunar winds."
"Are you telling me... because of the vacuum... the very absence of air...
that the moon is windless? I don't believe it!"
"I've heard that, it must be true! Not a breeze!"
"Nothing! Not a breeze!"

http://www.asondheim.org/eclipse.mov

↑ Index

660. steve russell
Ashberry on MTV?? Bob Holman
Tue 28 Aug 2007

Why not Bob Holman on MTV? I haven't been to the bleeding apple in years, but he seemed to do a good job at the Nuyorican Cafe. No, he's not exactly Ashberry, but the man can perform. He'd keep the kids tuned in.

Take the Internet to Go: Yahoo!Go puts the Internet in your pocket: mail, news, photos & more.

↑ Index

661. Poetics List
Forward on behalf of Shelly Reed
Tue 28 Aug 2007

---------- Forwarded message ----------
From: Shelly Reed <[redacted]>
Date: Aug 28, 2007 2:04 PM

Spire Press: www.spirepress.org

Open Reading Period Ends September 15th

The open reading period begins August 1st, 2007. This year's open reading period will extend to September 15th (postmarked).

Samples of up to 30 pages of literary fiction or creative nonfiction or 10 poems may be submitted in August only for book or chapbook consideration.

There is no guarantee that any manuscript will be chosen. Please include a short bio and publication list. While the contests are judged blindly and publication is guaranteed for the winner, the open period considers the marketability of the submission and publication history. Proposed chapbooks have a better chance of acceptance than full-length books. Novels will not be considered. There is no reading fee. Please label your envelopes "Open Submission" and include SASE. Full manuscripts will be requested if necessary. This year's open reading period will extend to September 15th (postmarked).

Call for Submissions: Anthology

Spire Press is now requesting poems and short prose (fiction and non-fiction – no essays – less than 3,000 words) for a new anthology with the theme: Class in America. We need work that explores economic class from all groups and angles, no boring sob stories. Please be fascinating and reflective. The title for this anthology is still undetermined.

Please label your envelopes "Anthology Submission" and limit your submission to three poems or one prose piece. Include SASE for reply. All other submissions will be discarded.

↑ Index

662. Skip Fox
Re: Ashbery on MTV??
Tue 28 Aug 2007

Bernadette Mayer. (But Rochelle has my vote as well.)

-----Original Message-----
From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Mark Weiss
Sent: Tuesday, August 28, 2007 2:03 PM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: Ashbery on MTV??

Rochelle Owens. Wouldn't that be a trip?

At 01:51 PM 8/28/2007, you wrote:
>Yes! Although I would have, as first choice, Kathy Acker if she were >still alive. For me, Anne Waldman or Erica Hunt or Alice Notley or >Harryette Mullen or Dodie Bellamy or . . .
>
>charles
>
>At 07:27 AM 8/28/2007, Kimberley Rogers wrote:
>>Is it me or are we way overdue for women to be considered for all >>these recently filled Poet Laureate decisions? (Not that I think >>the position is indicative of a poet's importance) Naomi Shihab >>Nye is an excellent candidate for the voice of America and the >>voice of the MTV generation right now. I revolt--and methinks
>>there must be a poem waitng to get out in me somewhere on this >>subject--as always.
>>
>>-----Original Message-----
>> >From: John Tranter <[redacted]>
>> >Sent: Aug 27, 2007 6:11 PM
>> >To: [redacted]
>> >Subject: Ashbery on MTV??
>> >
>> >Hi, all:
>> >
>> >New York Times
>> >August 27, 2007
>> >An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation
>> >By MELENA RYZIK
>> >
>> >MtvU, the subsidiary of MTV Networks that is broadcast only on >> college campuses, will announce today that it has selected its >> first poet laureate. No, he doesn?t rap. And it?s not Bob Dylan, >> or even Justin Timberlake.
>> >
>> >It is John Ashbery, the prolific 80-year-old poet and frequent >> award winner known for his dense, postmodern style and playful >> language. One of the most celebrated living poets, Mr. Ashbery has >> won MacArthur Foundation and Guggenheim fellowships and was >> awarded a Pulitzer Prize in 1976 for his collection ?Self-Portrait >> in a Convex Mirror.?
>> >
>> >... more here:

>> >
>> >http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/27/books/27laur.html?ex=1188878400&
>> e n=c4e34a79300ffe48&ei=5070&emc=eta1
>> >
>> >(you may need to repair the break in the URL).
>> >
>> >----------
>> >John Tranter
>
>charles alexander / chax press
>
>fold the book inside the book keep it open always
> read from the inside out speak then
>
>Chax Press
>[redacted] (studio)
>[redacted] (cell)
>[redacted]
>chax.org
>650 E. 9th St.
>Tucson, AZ 85705

↑ Index

663. Vernon Frazer

Re: Ashberry on MTV?? Bob Holman

Tue 28 Aug 2007

Holman should have been on MTV during his stretch as emcee at the Nuyorican. I think around 1992 he and some of the Nuyorican Poets actually appeared on MTV. His style would bring people in and keep them interested in the spectacle, if not the poetry per se. And some people might watch him for the hype and later discover they like poetry. I'm a little surprised that it hasn't happened already.

Vernon
http://vernonfrazer.com

-----Original Message-----
From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of steve russell
Sent: Tuesday, August 28, 2007 3:34 PM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Ashberry on MTV?? Bob Holman

Why not Bob Holman on MTV? I haven't been to the bleeding apple in years, but he seemed to do a good job at the Nuyorican Cafe. No, he's not exactly Ashberry, but the man can perform. He'd keep the kids tuned in.

Take the Internet to Go: Yahoo!Go puts the Internet in your pocket: mail, news, photos & more.

↑ Index

664. Stephen Vincent
Re: Ashbery on MTV??
Tue 28 Aug 2007

In the meantime can't we ask that the male laureates appear half the year in drag? Though, in Washington parlance, that might be called a 'cover-up.' But such Laurel enhancing gear has legit Roman & Greek roots - if what I see on some of those vases is true. Non?

Stephen V
http://stephenvincent.net/blog/

> Rochelle Owens. Wouldn't that be a trip?
>
> At 01:51 PM 8/28/2007, you wrote:
> Yes! Although I would have, as first choice, Kathy Acker if she were still alive. For me, Anne Waldman or Erica Hunt or Alice Notley or Harryette Mullen or Dodie Bellamy or . . .
>
> charles
>
> At 07:27 AM 8/28/2007, Kimberley Rogers wrote:
> Is it me or are we way overdue for women to be considered for all these recently filled Poet Laureate decisions? (Not that I think the position is indicative of a poet's importance) Naomi Shihab Nye is an excellent candidate for the voice of America and the voice of the MTV generation right now. I revolt--and methinks there must be a poem waitng to get out in me somewhere on this subject--as always.
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: John Tranter <[redacted]>
> Sent: Aug 27, 2007 6:11 PM
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: Ashbery on MTV??
>
> Hi, all:

> New York Times
> August 27, 2007
> An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation
> By MELENA RYZIK
>
> MtvU, the subsidiary of MTV Networks that is broadcast only on college campuses, will announce today that it has selected its first poet laureate. No, he doesn?t rap. And it?s not Bob Dylan, or even Justin Timberlake.
>
> It is John Ashbery, the prolific 80-year-old poet and frequent award winner known for his dense, postmodern style and playful language. One of the most celebrated living poets, Mr. Ashbery has won MacArthur Foundation and Guggenheim fellowships and was awarded a Pulitzer Prize in 1976 for his collection ?Self-Portrait in a Convex Mirror.?
>
> ... more here:
>
> http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/27/books/27laur.html?ex=1188878400&e n=c4e34a79300ffe48&ei=5070&emc=eta1
>
> (you may need to repair the break in the URL).
>
> ----------
> John Tranter
>
> charles alexander / chax press
>
> fold the book inside the book keep it open always
> read from the inside out speak then
>
> Chax Press
> [redacted] (studio)
> [redacted] (cell)
> [redacted]
> chax.org
> 650 E. 9th St.
> Tucson, AZ 85705

↑ Index

665. Stephen Vincent
Re: My Eclipse
Tue 28 Aug 2007

We got it - here on the West Coast - while it was still real dark. Great sustained moment:

My Eclipse - Journal

I rose about 1:15 to see the first ink drop shadow. Woke back up again at three o'clock and stood spellbound on the back porch for the next hour and a half. Wow. Had me rocked! The gradual intense dwindling of the light. The banana red marble in the darkness. Complete with the shooting star at about full eclipse, like a long thin white arrow fleeting under it. Then a flicker, speedy red flickering light, that dashed above across the darkened sky. (Was it a plane...so fast??). Then a thin a vibrating yellow yoke, a crown about the sides and edges. A stillness Then, the sunny white cap piece strikes the left side of the upper pole. The initial solar flash, floating there. That was down right spiritual - the awakening sense out of darkness.

I'd go for a repeat. Hear another one is supposedly coming in 2008(?). Maybe this one was special because it was also a full moon(??).

Wow.

Stephen Vincent
http://stephenvincent.net/blog/

> My Eclipse
>
> "Are there bread-crumbs on the moon?" I ask M.
> "There's precisely one bread-crumb on the moon."
> He offers me whiskey and I drink half-glass; he won't stop otherwise,
> We're staring at the stars.
> A large Hudson drives down the street below us, full of merry-makers;
> it's the total eclipse of the moon!
> It's three in the morning and we haven't seen anything yet.
> It's four.
> It's five in the morning and the curtain descends at a distance.
> You can see earthlight as frustrated earth denies its own shadow.
> "There you are, that's the disk I've been telling you about."
> "The moon is round, isn't it?"
> The bread-crumb would have dried up by now, blown hither and yon by
> lunar winds.
> "There aren't any lunar winds."
> "Are you telling me... because of the vacuum... the very absence of air...
> that the moon is windless? I don't believe it!"
> "I've heard that, it must be true! Not a breeze!"
> "Nothing! Not a breeze!"
>
> http://www.asondheim.org/eclipse.mov

↑ Index

666. ALDON L NIELSEN
Re: peaches and herb and ashbery
Tue 28 Aug 2007

---

but "Reunited" can't hold a candle to the earlier Peaches and Herb hit, with the earlier Peaches, titled, what else, "United."

On Tue, Aug 28, 2007 01:05 PM, "W.B. Keckler" <[redacted]> wrote:

>
>
>I'm sorry but whoever repeated that "peaches and herb" anecdote re Ashbery is gul-gul-gullible.....you can't live in America and move twenty feet without hearing a pop song...clearly that was Ashbery being "cutesy" with his "high culture" image....he's heard it all...in elevators, restaurants, and every where else..if you think he can't sing along with "Can't Touch This," octogenarian or not, I have "hair in a can" i want to sell you..it, like, totally FOOLS people... But "Reunited" did Rock. My bff Tammy and I used to perform it at neighborhood barbecues when we were ten...sigh...memories!
* Get a sneak peek of the all-new AOL at http://discover.aol.com/memed/aolcom30tour

<<

COMPLICATIONS

Poems by Garrett Caples
ISBN-13: 978-0-9794119-1-5
ISBN-10: 0-9794119-1-2
Price: $16.00
Release date: Fall 2007
Distributors: Small Press Distribution, Amazon.com & www.MeritagePress.com
For more info: [redacted]

Meritage Press is delighted to announce the release of -- and a SPECIAL RELEASE OFFER for -- Complications, the second full-length poetry collection by Oakland-based poet Garrett Caples. Reflecting the moral disintegration of the post-9/11 world, Complications is an even wilder, darker, funnier exploration of poetic consciousness than its predecessor, The Garrett Caples Reader. From semiotic reportage to automatic writing, oulipian constraint to straightforward elegy, Complications is an eclectic tour de force in the service of a fundamental proposition: "surreality is real."

Praise for The Garrett Caples Reader

"a wonderful book of prose and poetry."
--Philip Lamantia

"a lovely piece of work all the way through."
--Robert Creeley

ABOUT THE AUTHOR: Born in Lawrence, MA in 1972, Garrett Caples is a poet living in Oakland, CA. He is the author of The Garrett Caples Reader (Angle Press/Black Square Editions, 1999), er um (Meritage Press, 2002), and The Philistine's Guide to Hip Hop (Ninevolt, 2004). He has published numerous essays, articles, and reviews. He currently writes on hip hop for the San Francisco Bay Guardian.

****

SPECIAL RELEASE OFFER: Meritage Press is pleased to offer a Release Special through September 30, 2007. For $13.00, you can obtain a copy of COMPLICATIONSâ€”a reduced rate from the book's retail price of $16.00â€”plus free shipping/handling (an approximate $4.00 value) to U.S. addresses. Just send a $13.00 check made out to "Meritage Press" to:

Eileen Tabios
Meritage Press
256 North Fork Crystal Springs Road
St. Helena, CA 94574

For international orders, please contact us through [redacted]

****

ALSO FORTHCOMING OR NEW FROM MERITAGE PRESS:

FRAGILE REPLACEMENTS by William Allegrezza

PRAU by Jean Vengua (Filamore Tabios, Sr. Poetry Memorial Prize)

And a series of "Tiny Books" measuring 1 3/4 x 1 3/4" inaugurated by ALL ALONE AGAIN by Dan Waber, followed by STEPS: A NOTEBOOK by Tom Beckett and "â€¦ AND THEN THE WIND DID BLOW: JAINAKU POEMS by Ernesto Priego.

Meritage Press is a multidisciplinary literary and arts publisher based in St. Helena and San Francisco, CA. Our website is at _http://www.meritagepress.com_ (http://www.meritagepress.com/)

* Get a sneak peek of the all-new AOL at http://discover.aol.com/memed/aolcom30tour

↑ Index

668. Kimberley Rogers

Re: Ashbery on MTV??

Tue 28 Aug 2007

Brilliant! Charles Simic as Anne Sexton. But if we can't achieve this then my male votes for Poet Laureates of the MTV gen go to Thomas Sayers Ellis, Terrance Hayes, Eugene Gloria and Louise Gluck (because she has brass ones and she's just cold and distant enough in her work to be gender questionable-- sans the tell-tale head shot on back covers.

(No offense my sensitive poet brothers and no offense to you,Louise, you are the real awe-inspiring poetic deal.)

My choices for females not still living: Reetika Vazirani and Sarah Hannah (And this applies to any generation not just our MTV gen. What sadness and loss for us all to be without such gifts that surely would have made it into our poetic canonicals (the female one at least-- right up there with Bishop in my opinion.)

-----Original Message-----
>From: Stephen Vincent <[redacted]>
>Sent: Aug 28, 2007 4:18 PM
>To: [redacted]
>Subject: Re: Ashbery on MTV??
>
>In the meantime can't we ask that the male laureates appear half the year in >drag? Though, in Washington parlance, that might be called a 'cover-up.'
>But such Laurel enhancing gear has legit Roman & Greek roots - if what I see >on some of those vases is true. Non?

>
>Stephen V
>http://stephenvincent.net/blog/
>
>
>
>
>> Rochelle Owens. Wouldn't that be a trip?
>>
>> At 01:51 PM 8/28/2007, you wrote:
>>> Yes! Although I would have, as first choice, Kathy Acker if she were >>> still alive. For me, Anne Waldman or Erica Hunt or Alice Notley or >>> Harryette Mullen or Dodie Bellamy or . . .
>>>
>>> charles
>>>
>>> At 07:27 AM 8/28/2007, Kimberley Rogers wrote:
>>>> Is it me or are we way overdue for women to be considered for all >>>> these recently filled Poet Laureate decisions? (Not that I think >>>> the position is indicative of a poet's importance) Naomi Shihab >>>> Nye is an excellent candidate for the voice of America and the >>>> voice of the MTV generation right now. I revolt--and methinks
>>>> there must be a poem waitng to get out in me somewhere on this >>>> subject--as always.
>>>>
>>>> -----Original Message-----
>>>>> From: John Tranter <[redacted]>
>>>>> Sent: Aug 27, 2007 6:11 PM
>>>>> To: [redacted]
>>>>> Subject: Ashbery on MTV??
>>>>>
>>>>> Hi, all:
>>>>>
>>>>> New York Times
>>>>> August 27, 2007
>>>>> An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation
>>>>> By MELENA RYZIK
>>>>>
>>>>> MtvU, the subsidiary of MTV Networks that is broadcast only on >>>> college campuses, will announce today that it has selected its >>>> first poet laureate. No, he doesn?t rap. And it?s not Bob Dylan, >>>> or even Justin Timberlake.

>>>>>
>>>>> It is John Ashbery, the prolific 80-year-old poet and frequent >>>> award winner known for his dense, postmodern style and playful >>>> language. One of the most celebrated living poets, Mr. Ashbery has >>>> won MacArthur Foundation and Guggenheim fellowships and was >>>> awarded a Pulitzer Prize in 1976 for his collection ?Self-Portrait >>>> in a Convex Mirror.?
>>>>>
>>>>> ... more here:
>>>>>
>>>>> http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/27/books/27laur.html?
ex=1188878400&
>>>> e n=c4e34a79300ffe48&ei=5070&emc=eta1
>>>>>
>>>>> (you may need to repair the break in the URL).
>>>>>
>>>>> ----------
>>>>> John Tranter
>>>
>>> charles alexander / chax press
>>>
>>> fold the book inside the book keep it open always
>>> read from the inside out speak then
>>>
>>> Chax Press
>>> [redacted] (studio)
>>> [redacted] (cell)
>>> [redacted]
>>> chax.org
>>> 650 E. 9th St.
>>> Tucson, AZ 85705

↑ Index

669. Jason Quackenbush
Re: Ashbery on MTV??
Tue 28 Aug 2007

---

or lyn hejinian or susan howe or rae armentrout or bernadette mayer or really anyone other than naomi shihab nye.

nye probably doesn't know it, but she is my nemesis and has been ever since i read "making a fist."

On Tue, 28 Aug 2007, charles alexander wrote:

> Yes! Although I would have, as first choice, Kathy Acker if she were still alive. For me, Anne Waldman or Erica Hunt or Alice Notley or Harryette Mullen or Dodie Bellamy or . . .
>
> charles
>
> At 07:27 AM 8/28/2007, Kimberley Rogers wrote:
> Is it me or are we way overdue for women to be considered for all these recently filled Poet Laureate decisions? (Not that I think the position is indicative of a poet's importance) Naomi Shihab Nye is an excellent candidate for the voice of America and the voice of the MTV generation right now. I revolt--and methinks there must be a poem waitng to get out in me somewhere on this subject--as always.
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: John Tranter <[redacted]>
> Sent: Aug 27, 2007 6:11 PM
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: Ashbery on MTV??
>
> Hi, all:
>
> New York Times
> August 27, 2007
> An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation
> By MELENA RYZIK
>
> MtvU, the subsidiary of MTV Networks that is broadcast only on college campuses, will announce today that it has selected its first poet laureate. No, he doesn?t rap. And it?s not Bob Dylan, or even Justin Timberlake.
>
> It is John Ashbery, the prolific 80-year-old poet and frequent award winner known for his dense, postmodern style and playful language. One of the most celebrated living poets, Mr. Ashbery has won MacArthur Foundation and Guggenheim fellowships and was awarded a Pulitzer Prize in 1976 for his collection ?Self-Portrait in a Convex Mirror.?
>
> ... more here:
>
> http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/27/books/27laur.html?ex=1188878400&en=c4e34a79300ffe48&ei=5070&emc=eta1
>
> (you may need to repair the break in the URL).
>
> ----------
> John Tranter

> charles alexander / chax press
>
> fold the book inside the book keep it open always
> read from the inside out speak then
>
> Chax Press
> [redacted] (studio)
> [redacted] (cell)
> [redacted]
> chax.org
> 650 E. 9th St.
> Tucson, AZ 85705

↑ Index

670. David Applegate
Bad Noise: new website, new content, Call for Submissions
Tue 28 Aug 2007

Hello UB Poetics List!

Some good news from Bad Noise...

Bad Noise Productions has a new website at the same old address (www.badnoiseproductions.com) - tons of new content, images, information, the works. Click on it.

Also, we'd like to offer you another free e-book: "In sterquiliniis invenitur," an alchemical comic loop featuring a 19th c. boxer + plenty of oroboros action.

Keep in mind the perpetual "CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS" - please view our 'contact' page for more information + send us some goddamned mail-art. "WE WILL SEND SOMETHING BACK."

Best wishes,

David Applegate
Asst. for Acquisitions
www.badnoiseproductions.com

↑ Index

671. Kimberley Rogers
Re: Ashbery on MTV?? Yet more suggestions
Tue 28 Aug 2007

Nemesis eh? Well, I'll even go with the brilliant breathtaking poets Eleanor Wilner, Anne Marie Macari, Kimiko Hahn, Diane Gilliam Fisher, Sarah Manguso, Sonia Sanchez, Annie Boutelle, Ellen Dore Watson ect.. ect.. I guess my point is its our time too and there are plenty to choose from without dipping into the same masculine barrel. I like all our male poets fine -- even love and adore many (Mark Doty, Mathew Zapruder, Frank Bidart, even our two "winners") but I can do with some really good strong female voices that represent our country outside the worshipping circle of Maya Angelou.

I am very fond of someone's idea of a celebrity deathmatch between Simic and Ashbery--now if I can only choose which Victorian female poet they each should "duel read" against eachother. Emily Bronte's stinky "Hope" in slam fashion as read by Simic? Now that I would pay good money for, if I made good money as a poet.

-----Original Message-----
>From: Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]>
>Sent: Aug 28, 2007 8:20 PM
>To: [redacted]
>Subject: Re: Ashbery on MTV??
>
>or lyn hejinian or susan howe or rae armentrout or bernadette mayer or really anyone other than naomi shihab nye.
>
>nye probably doesn't know it, but she is my nemesis and has been ever since i read "making a fist."
>
>
>On Tue, 28 Aug 2007, charles alexander wrote:
>
>> Yes! Although I would have, as first choice, Kathy Acker if she were still >> alive. For me, Anne Waldman or Erica Hunt or Alice Notley or Harryette Mullen >> or Dodie Bellamy or . . .
>>
>> charles
>>
>> At 07:27 AM 8/28/2007, Kimberley Rogers wrote:
>>> Is it me or are we way overdue for women to be considered for all these >>> recently filled Poet Laureate decisions? (Not that I think the position is >>> indicative of a poet's importance) Naomi Shihab Nye is an excellent >>> candidate for the voice of America and the voice of the MTV generation right >>> now. I revolt--and methinks there must be a poem waitng to get out in me >>> somewhere on this subject--as always.
>>>
>>> -----Original Message-----

>>> >From: John Tranter <[redacted]>
>>> >Sent: Aug 27, 2007 6:11 PM
>>> >To: [redacted]
>>> >Subject: Ashbery on MTV??
>>> >
>>> >Hi, all:
>>> >
>>> >New York Times
>>> >August 27, 2007
>>> >An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation
>>> >By MELENA RYZIK
>>> >
>>> >MtvU, the subsidiary of MTV Networks that is broadcast only on college >>> campuses, will announce today that it has selected its first poet laureate.
>>> No, he doesn?t rap. And it?s not Bob Dylan, or even Justin Timberlake.
>>> >
>>> >It is John Ashbery, the prolific 80-year-old poet and frequent award winner >>> known for his dense, postmodern style and playful language. One of the most >>> celebrated living poets, Mr. Ashbery has won MacArthur Foundation and >>> Guggenheim fellowships and was awarded a Pulitzer Prize in 1976 for his >>> collection ?Self-Portrait in a Convex Mirror.?
>>> >
>>> >... more here:
>>> >
>>> >http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/27/books/27laur.html?ex=1188878400&e >>> n=c4e34a79300ffe48&ei=5070&emc=eta1
>>> >
>>> >(you may need to repair the break in the URL).
>>> >
>>> >----------
>>> >John Tranter
>>
>> charles alexander / chax press
>>
>> fold the book inside the book keep it open always
>> read from the inside out speak then
>>
>> Chax Press
>> [redacted] (studio)

>> [redacted] (cell)
>> [redacted]
>> chax.org
>> 650 E. 9th St.
>> Tucson, AZ 85705

↑ Index

672. Ryan Downey
mtvU Student Poetry Award
Tue 28 Aug 2007

The press release seems to be hyping this as a novel sort of idea. I originally was hoping that this contest for "college students" would be limited to undergraduate (that is what college implies isn't it) students. The guidelines quite clearly show that all university students undergraduate or graduate may send in submissions. My question is: how is this any different from any first book contest? It is an uphill battle to be taken seriously as an undergrad writer and this contest does nothing to address that. Am I off base here? Why hype the contest as a search for young college talent blah blah blah hype-cakes and then open it up to so many poets who are already finding avenues for their work? I have a feeling I am repeating myself so I will stop now. I am sorry if I have offended graduate students.

-Ryan Downey

↑ Index

673. Ruth Lepson
Re: Ashbery on MTV??
Tue 28 Aug 2007

---

or diane di prima or jorie graham or fanny howe or leslie scalapino or lyn hejinian--then again that osrt of position may not be right for such poets....

On 8/28/07 1:51 PM, "charles alexander" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Yes! Although I would have, as first choice, Kathy Acker if she were still alive. For me, Anne Waldman or Erica Hunt or Alice Notley or Harryette Mullen or Dodie Bellamy or . . .
>
> charles
>
> At 07:27 AM 8/28/2007, Kimberley Rogers wrote:
> Is it me or are we way overdue for women to be considered for all these recently filled Poet Laureate decisions? (Not that I think the position is indicative of a poet's importance) Naomi Shihab Nye is an excellent candidate for the voice of America and the voice of the

MTV generation right now. I revolt--and methinks there must be a poem waitng to get out in me somewhere on this subject--as always.

-----Original Message-----
From: John Tranter <[redacted]>
Sent: Aug 27, 2007 6:11 PM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Ashbery on MTV??

Hi, all:

New York Times
August 27, 2007
An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation
By MELENA RYZIK

MtvU, the subsidiary of MTV Networks that is broadcast only on college campuses, will announce today that it has selected its first poet laureate. No, he doesn?t rap. And it?s not Bob Dylan, or even Justin Timberlake.

It is John Ashbery, the prolific 80-year-old poet and frequent award winner known for his dense, postmodern style and playful language. One of the most celebrated living poets, Mr. Ashbery has won MacArthur Foundation and Guggenheim fellowships and was awarded a Pulitzer Prize in 1976 for his collection ?Self-Portrait in a Convex Mirror.?

... more here:

http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/27/books/27laur.html?ex=1188878400&en=c4e34a79300ffe48&ei=5070&emc=eta1

(you may need to repair the break in the URL).

John Tranter

charles alexander / chax press

fold the book inside the book keep it open always
read from the inside out speak then

Chax Press
[redacted] (studio)
[redacted] (cell)
[redacted]
chax.org

> 650 E. 9th St.
> Tucson, AZ 85705

↑ Index

674. Ruth Lepson
Re: Ashbery on MTV?? SHERMAN ALEXIE
Tue 28 Aug 2007

---

how about Conrad?

On 8/28/07 1:32 PM, "David Chirot" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Whatever one may make of his various works, I think Sherman Alexie would be a great candidate for an MTV laureate. (I'm not his biggest fan, but do think he'd be great Mtv Laureate.) His work continually makes use --hilarious, angry, bitter, turned upside down inside out--of popular culture, movies, music, tv, basketball, popular /assigned books, comic books, He often writes and says a lot of things that the American culture high and low, select or mass--would prefer to go unsaid and unheard, that keep things unsettling and uncomfortable. He can be devastatingly annihilatingly analytical of the gigantic crock of BS in the US and hysterically funny within the same sentence.
> (Ah! But he doesn't write New Sentences!-- some might object--protesting the "Marginalization of ['Real'] Poetry." But doesn't John Ashbery already cover some of this "Real Poetry" ground?)
>
> Heard him recently give talk with a reading in which he described airline profiling from the point of view of an American Indian. In the first place--WHAT are you? WHERE are you FROM? Asia? Southwest Asia? Latin America? Not like you see a lot of Indians flying the friendly skies of America!
> After all, aren't America's First Peoples also its first Guantanamo Poets?
>
> Americans build "Seperation" Walls and fences in Baghdad, on the Mexican border and give billions for the world's biggest, best equipped, Super-Max Security one in Palestine. And why not? Don't they already have a long history and expertise in this form of ethnic cleansing, anti-terrorism, National security?
>
> "They are still calling us 'savages,' 'terrorists,'" says Leonard Peltier from his prison cell. So what do you do when "one of them" gets on the nice airplane?
>
> "I have taken poison and made Medicine of it."
> Charlie Hill, Indian comic

> Why not some Medicine words for Mtv poetry--
>
> On 8/28/07, Kimberley Rogers <[redacted]> wrote:
> Is it me or are we way overdue for women to be considered for all these recently filled Poet Laureate decisions? (Not that I think the position is indicative of a poet's importance) Naomi Shihab Nye is an excellent candidate for the voice of America and the voice of the MTV generation right now. I revolt--and methinks there must be a poem waitng to get out in me somewhere on this subject--as always.
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: John Tranter <[redacted]>
> Sent: Aug 27, 2007 6:11 PM
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: Ashbery on MTV??
>
> Hi, all:
>
> New York Times
> August 27, 2007
> An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation
> By MELENA RYZIK
>
> MtvU, the subsidiary of MTV Networks that is broadcast only on college campuses, will announce today that it has selected its first poet laureate. No, he doesn?t rap. And it?s not Bob Dylan, or even Justin Timberlake.
>
> It is John Ashbery, the prolific 80-year-old poet and frequent award winner known for his dense, postmodern style and playful language. One of the most celebrated living poets, Mr. Ashbery has won MacArthur Foundation and Guggenheim fellowships and was awarded a Pulitzer Prize in 1976 for his collection ?Self-Portrait in a Convex Mirror.?
>
> ... more here:
>
> http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/27/books/27laur.html?
> ex=1188878400&en=c4e34a7
> 9300ffe48&ei=5070&emc=eta1
>
> (you may need to repair the break in the URL).
>
> ----------
> John Tranter

↑ Index

675. Catherine Daly
Re: mtvU Student Poetry Award
Tue 28 Aug 2007

---

poet Ross Martin (THE COP WHO RIDES ALONE) used to work in some sort of senior producing capacity at MTVu, I thought when I see this sort of thing, I think of probably someone like Ross who is pushing for something for poetry because he can, and I find it difficult to grouse about it

--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

↑ Index

676. Alan Sondheim
big penis rock hard balls joy ride history of the world
Tue 28 Aug 2007

---

big penis rock hard balls joy ride history of the world

teenage boys drive big penises and wear big penis ornaments and we're all pushing our tiny penises around the playing field or looking for a rhyme to hid our tiny penises while we arm ourselves with big penis guns and missiles all pointy and the like to kill big and little penises anywhere we can, we want to be the only penises in sight and we want our tiny penises hidden but our big penis houses and big giant penis top-fuel dragsters in sight so we can raise big-penis fear while we stain books and canvas with big penis smearings while our tiny penises throb and shake, teenage boys send big penis smearings across networks and wires smearing tags blowing bits and bytes while big penises announce they are hot and ready and there and their tiny penises shake with joy and happiness and our big penis arms push tiny penis boys into dirt and girls and big penis legs throw bombs into books made from bombs and we big-penis love everything that thumps and throws giant balls into girl ball party groups, makes big penis sound jump the curb, when we drive we say Our big penis has arrived, Yes, Our big penis is here, we write big penis books, we point big penises, big giant penises, enormous penises, things disappear

↑ Index

677. Alexander Jorgensen
Fwd: FROM EXILE: THE YAK BLESSING BY KATHUP TSERING
Tue 28 Aug 2007

The Yak Blessing
Kathup Tsering

"Drum of a dying nation, Kathup Tsering demonstrates in his new work that breath is one's license. For thirteen years, he has dreamed, built, and graciously shared a consciousness constructed by three significant cultural forces - Tibet, the People's Republic of China, and India - and all while living in exile, much of it amid the cleansing waters and cross-cultural clime of Himalaya's ancient spires. It is with an acuity and sternness of words that Tsering conveys the most intimate of painful experiences with sensitivity, and an anticipation for renewal. With brilliance seated in both the traditional and contemporary sphere, his achievement is that he is helping to shape and re-define contemporary Indian poetry; and in doing so, reaffirms that one's voice need not be relegated to any particular genre. As with the penetrating "Don't Be Afraid, Mother," each word chosen seems to delicately trace itself, the poet's observations and passions rooted in what is open and beautiful. His collection re-animates, one could say, those lost in such areas as Barkhor, or the dedicated snowy trails leading to Nepal -- and eventual freedom." --Alexander Jorgensen.

BUY THIS BOOK.

http://books.lulu.com/content/1142809

--
Marcus Aurelius: "The object of life is not to be on the side of the majority, but to escape finding oneself in the ranks of the insane."

↑ Index

678. Alexander Jorgensen
From: Everyone is gay, to: I'm not gay!
Tue 28 Aug 2007

Some interesting video on Larry Craig online. Seems he was singled-out during a Washington investigation of a cocaine and page boy ring during the 1980s.

The complaint said Craig then tapped his right foot several times and moved it closer to Karsnia's stall and then moved it to where it touched Karsnia's foot. Karsnia recognized that "as a signal often used by persons communicating a desire to engage in sexual conduct," the complaint said.

Craig then passed his left hand under the stall divider into Karsnia's stall with his palm up and guided it along the divider toward the front of the stall three times, the complaint said.

The officer then showed his police identification under the divider and pointed toward the exit "at which time the defendant exclaimed `No!'" the complaint said.

For the rest of the story:

http://news.yahoo.com/s/ap/20070829/ap_on_go_co/craig_arrest

--
Marcus Aurelius: "The object of life is not to be on the side of the majority, but to escape finding oneself in the ranks of the insane."

↑ Index

679. Jesse Glass
Drew Stroud in hospital
Wed 29 Aug 2007

Dear All, I just received notice from Eric Mader that Drew Stroud/ Ryu Makoto, fine poet and owner of Saru Press suffered a serious stroke on June 25th and has been in a coma at UC Medical Center ICU, San Francisco, ever since.

Friends may contact the hospital social worker, Elizabeth Manning at [redacted]. I can also share Ms. Manning's work and pager numbers back-channel. Perhaps poets on this list who reside in and around San Francisco can find out what's happening and let us all know. Thanks, Jesse Glass

↑ Index

680. Nico Vassilakis
SuBtExT seattle: Lissa Wolsak & Robert Mittenthal
Wed 29 Aug 2007

Subtext continues its monthly reading series with readings by Lissa Wolsak and Robert Mittenthal at our new home at the Chapel Performance Space on Wednesday 5 September 2007. Donations for admission will be taken at the door on the evening of the performance. The reading starts at 7:30pm.

*Lissa Wolsak lives in Vancouver, British Columbia where she works as an energy/thought-field therapist and goldsmith. She is the author of several long poem sequences and essays; SQUEEZED LIGHT: Collected Works 1994 - 2005 is forthcoming from Station Hill Press/Barrytown in the Fall of 2007 as well as various ana of the forthcoming Of Beings Alone from TinFISH.

http://ca.geocities.com/[redacted]/wolsak3.htm
http://9thstlab.blogspot.com/2006/10/from-thrall-by-lissa-wolsak.html

*Robert Mittenthal is a curator of the Subtext reading series. He is author of Martyr Economy, Ready Terms, and the forthcoming chapbook Value Unmapped (Nomados). His poems have appeared in a variety of publications including: Golden Handcuffs; Bird Dog; Sugar Mule; W; Alterra; and KSW's Writing Class Anthology.

http://www.goldenhandcuffsreview.com/gh8content/r3.html
http://ca.geocities.com/[redacted]/mitt2.htm

The future Subtext schedule is:

October 3, 2007 - Kathleen Fraser (Bay Area) & Crystal Curry

November 7, 2007 - Golden Handcuffs Review Reading - Seattle Issue Launch

December 5, 2007 - Alison Knowles (New York) - co-presented with nonsequitur

January 2, 2008 - TBA

February 6, 2008 - Hank Lazer (Tuscaloosa, AL) & TBA

March 5, 2008 - Steve McCaffery (Toronto/Buffalo) & TBA

For info on these & other Subtext events, see our website:
http://subtextreadingseries.blogspot.com/ and http://www.speakeasy.org/~subtext

More info at Nonsequitur web site: http://nseq.blogspot.com. Details on the Chapel at: http://gschapel.blogspot.com

SPECIAL THANKS to NONSEQUITUR for co-sponsoring this event.

Also...

September 12, 7:30pm - Words, and Music and Words: dan raphael and Doug Nufer/
Wally Shoup/ Bill Horist at the Rendezvous Jewelbox Theater 2320 2nd Ave.

↑ Index

681. John Tranter
Totally Unfounded Rumours
Wed 29 Aug 2007

Listmembers might enjoy some of these "totally unfounded rumours".

http://unfoundedrumors.blogspot.com/2007_06_01_archive.html

Actually, I don't know whether they are "genuine" totally unfounded rumours...

... or maybe someone made them up, and so they may be "untrue" totally unfounded rumours, but some of them are strangely poetic, whatever the origin.

I love the one about Charles de Gaulle:

> French General Charles de Gaulle once killed a man during World War II by cutting his throat with a deep-frozen flounder.

John Tranter

↑ Index

682. Tom Beckett

GALATEA RESURRECTS, ISSUE NO. 7

Wed 29 Aug 2007

GALATEA RESURRECTS (A POETRY ENGAGEMENT) is pleased to release its seventh issue. You can access the issue at _http://galatearesurrection7.blogspot.com_ (http://galatearesurrection7.blogspot.com/) For convenience, the Table of Contents is also featured below.

Please note we are always looking for reviewers and review copies; information about review submission is at http://grarchives.blogspot.com.

GALATEA RESURRECTS, ISSUE NO. 7
TABLE OF CONTENTS

August 31, 2007

EDITOR'S INTRODUCTION
By Eileen Tabios

NEW REVIEWS
Jessica Bozek reviews AFTER YOU, DEAREST LANGUAGE by Marisol Limon Martinez

Nicholas Manning reviews POEM FOR THE END OF TIME AND OTHER POEMS by Noelle Kocot

Eileen Tabios engages THE STEAM SEQUENCE by Carly Sachs

Brian Strang reviews BROKEN WORLD by Joseph Lease

Brenda Iijima reviews A HALF-RED SEA by Evie Shockley

Patrick James Dunagan reviews A FIDDLE PULLED FROM THE THROAT OF A SPARROW by Noah Eli Gordon

Nicholas Grider reviews INSECT COUNTRY (A), INSECT COUNTRY (B), and the INSECT TUTELAGE BLOG by Sawako Nakayasu

Patrick James Dunagan reviews TRAFFIC: A PUBLICATION OF SMALL PRESS TRAFFIC, ISSUES 1 AND 2, (2005-2007) edited by Elizabeth Treadwell

Teresa Carmody reviews [one love affair]* by Jenny Boully

John Bloomberg-Rissman reviews THE BODY ACHES and NOT EVEN DOGS by Ernesto Priego

Nicholas Grider reviews NETS by Jen Bervin

Patrick James Dunagan reviews HOUSE ORGAN #58 Win/Spr â€™07 edited by Kenneth Warren

Nicholas Manning reviews GUESTS OF SPACE by Anselm Hollo

Rochita Loenen-Ruiz reviews THE GODS WE WORSHIP LIVE NEXT DOOR by Bino A. Realuyo

Jennifer Bartlett reviews THE SECOND CHILD by Deborah Garrison

Eileen Tabios engages BROKEN/OPEN by Jill Jones

Laurel Johnson reviews THE ELEPHANT HOUSE by Claudia Carlson

Alysha Wood reviews a(A)ugust by Akilah Oliver, with collages by Brenda Iijima

Eileen Tabios engages BELLUM LETTERS by Michelle Detorie

Steve Halle reviews POSIT by Adam Fieled

Paul Klinger reviews THE BOOK OF OCEAN BY Maryrose Larkin

Michelle Detorie reviews BIRDS AND FANCIES by Elizabeth Treadwell

Eileen Tabios engages ERRATUM to and including A SPY IN THE HOUSE OF YEARS (LEVIATHAN PRESS, 2001) by Giles Goodland

Craig Santos Perez reviews NAMES ABOVE HOUSES by Oliver de la Paz

Christopher Mulrooney reviews OSIP MANDELSTAM: NEW TRANSLATIONS edited by Ilya Bernstein

Craig Santos Perez reviews ANYWHERE AVENUE by Oscar Bermeo

Christopoher Mulrooney reviews STIGMATA ERRATA ETCETERA by Bill Knott, with collages by Star Black

Nicholas Grider reviews THE STATES, Vols. 1 and 2 by Craig Foltz, designed and edited by designed and edited by Ellie Ga, and with photographs by William Gillespie, Justin Ulmer, Martin Bland, Sabra Cox, Kristina Del Pino, Simona Schneider, Florence Neal, Jon Ciliberto, Stephen Mead, Christa HOlka, Don Goede, Lyn Lifshin, Shelton Walsmith, Marie Kazalia, Rebekah Travis, Lara Khalil, Tracy Lee Carroll, Jennifer Stahl, Barbara Henning, Jade Doskow, David McConeghy, Jared Zimmerman, Alice Arnold, Robert Matson, Mary Wrenn, Julia Marta Clapp, Tina Burton, Jim Simandl, Philip Metres, Chris Hampton, Hayley Barker, Thomas Ciufo, Meredyth Sparks, Shannon Shaper, Renae Morehead, Ryn Gargulinski, Robert S. Dunn, Jen Hofer, David Gatten, Jerilyn Myran, Shara Shisheboran, Courtney Fischer, ARiana Smart Truman, Tod Seelie, David W. Lee, Katherine McDowell, Mike Mahaffie, Willile Baronet, Karen Lillis, Paul Yoo, Justin Simonsen and Elizabeth Willis.

Beatriz Tabios engages BRIDGEABLE SHORES: SELECTED POEMS (1969-2001) by Luis Cabalquinto

Carlos Hiraldo reviews THE SALESMAN'S SHOES by James Roderick Burns

Nicholas Manning reviews FOLLY by Nada Gordon

Alysha Wood reviews trespasses by Padcha Tuntha-obas

Kristin Berkey-Abbott reviews THE MCSWEENEY BOOK OF POETS PICKING POETS edited by Dominic Lumford

Joe LeClerc reviews THE ENEMY SELF: POETRY & CRITICISM OF LAURA RIDING edited by Barbara Adams

Hugh Fox reviews LIBIDO DREAMS: NEW AND SELECTED POEMS by Glenna Luschei

Laurel Johnson reviews THE MOUNTAIN IN THE SEA by Victor Hernandez Cruz

Craig Santos Perez reviews THE WIND SHIFTS: NEW LATINO POETRY edited by Francisco Aragon

Kristin Berkey-Abbott reviews PUNK POEMS by John Burgess

Julie R. Enszer Reviews SUGARING by Ann Cefola

Julie R. Enszer Reviews TEAHOUSE OF THE ALMIGHTY by Patricia Smith

Julie R. Enszer Reviews CINEPHRASTICS by Kathleen Ossip

Julie R. Enszer Reviews THE PARAGON by Kathrine Varnes

Julie R. Enszer Reviews KALIâ€™S BLADE by Michelle Bautista

Julie R. Enszer Reviews three books by Rochelle Ratner: QUARRY, COMBING THE WAVES, and PRACTICING TO BE A WOMAN

FEATURE ARTICLE
"Objections to the Beauty-Object: A Reading of Two Poems by Barbara Guest" by Catherine Wagner

"The Ocean At Night: An Inside Look at the Poetry Process" by Aimee Celino Nezhukumatathil

FROM OFFLINE TO ONLINE: REPRINTED REVIEWS
Catherine Wagner reviews 19 VARIETIES OF GAZELLE: POEMS OF THE MIDDLE EAST by Naomi Shihab Nye and EMAILS FROM SCHEHEREZAD by Mohja Kahf

Catherine Wagner reviews CATALOGUE OF COMEDIC NOVELTIES: SELECTED POEMS by Lev Rubinstein, Translated by Philip Metres and Tatiana Tulchinsky

Catherine Wagner engages four books by Alice Notley: DISOBEDIENCE, MARGARET AND DUSTY, MYSTERIES OF SMALL HOUSES and SELECTED POEMS

"ADVERTISEMENT"
Poetry Feeds The World!

BACK COVER
Winepoetics!

* Get a sneak peek of the all-new AOL at http://discover.aol.com/memed/aolcom30tour

↑ Index

683. Ruth Lepson
Re: Old folds can write to.
Wed 29 Aug 2007

---

thank you, Diane. just ordered it.

On 8/28/07 1:39 PM, "Diane DiPrima" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Deena Metzger's "Writing for Your Life" is invaluable for all middle- and late-year beginning writers. I don't know if it's still in print.
>
> Diane di Prima
>
> From: Catherine Daly <[redacted]>
> Reply-To: UB Poetics discussion group <[redacted]>
> Date: Mon, 27 Aug 2007 16:39:56 -0700
> To: <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: Old folds can write to.
>
> Koch's book is interesting, not real useful, but it points out possible points of discussion, teaching the elderly. For example, the people Koch taught in a nursing home were very infirm. Fewer older > people are very infirm for a long period anymore. That might be an interesting discussion to include in the course if you use the Koch book.

>
> For example, the friends of the library here is in the energetic grandparents raising a second generation of children group, 65-85ish. The president turned the group into an oral history / local history group sponsoring arts workshops and events at the branch library.
>
> My paternal grandmother LOVED her local senior center -- this was about 30 years ago, tho. My maternal grandmother wouldn't be caught dead there. My paternal grandmother also went straight to a nursing home during her decline, while my grandmother lived in assisted living -- she had her own apartment, but didn't have to cook dinner or clean -- from her very late 80s until her mid 90s. During most of that time, she was not infirm or isolated from the larger community.
>
> A lot of seniors I've met as book fests in particular are really interested in diy publishing: how to make a chapbook on the computer, dos and don'ts of lulu.com, what a broadside is, or something like that might go over really, really well and be fun besides. Maybe a collaborative book or collection?
>
> I've had good results with occasional verse, postcard poems, mail art, renga....
>
> --
> All best,
> Catherine Daly
> [redacted]

↑ Index

684. holsapple1
Mary Rising Higgins
Wed 29 Aug 2007

John Tritica & I interviewed Mary last February, before her final illness, & we will be looking for a venue soon. Also, I recorded Mary several times for Vox Audio, & those CDs are available thru Vox. Back-channel for a titles.

Bruce

↑ Index

685. steve russell
Ashbery on MTV?? FUCKING CAMILIA PAGLIA
Wed 29 Aug 2007

Camilia Paglia, she rocks. She likes rock. She'd be perfect. She digs poetry. PROBLEM SOLVED. PAGLIA ON MTV//

Shape Yahoo! in your own image. Join our Network Research Panel today!

↑ Index

686. Catherine Daly
philomene long: LA memorial service
Wed 29 Aug 2007

There is a service at the Zen Center of Los Angeles
Today August 29th at 7:00 p.m. parking is available within the compound.

--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

↑ Index

687. Alan DeNiro
The Stations: book-length poem available for free download
Wed 29 Aug 2007

"this is the last instant that will bark at this instant adventure offers reality
as a fen of vetoproof time"

I've released my book-length poem, The Stations, under a very loose-limbed Creative Commons license. Feel free to download, sample (with attribution), liquify (ditto), etc.

The URL is here:

http://www.archive.org/details/TheStations

Best,

Alan DeNiro
[redacted]

_____
The Stations
165 pp.
http://www.archive.org/details/TheStations

*

The People's League of Speculative Poetry
http://groups.google.com/group/speculativepoetry

___ Park yourself in front of a world of choices in alternative vehicles. Visit the Yahoo! Auto Green Center. http://autos.yahoo.com/green_center/

↑ Index

688. thom donovan

LAST MINUTE: Peace On A Presents Tonya Foster & Jane Sprague THIS Friday, 8/31

Wed 29 Aug 2007

Peace On A presents

Tonya Foster & Jane Sprague

Friday August 31st, 2007 9PM

Hosted by Thom Donovan at 166 Avenue A (btwn 10th and 11th)

NY NY 10009

BYOB & $5 recommended donation

About the readers:

Jane Sprague is a poet and teacher. Her poems, essays and reviews of contemporary poetry have been published in various print and online magazines including How2, Tarpaulin Sky, Primary Writing, Kiosk, Tinfish, Xcp: Cross-Cultural Poetics and others. She is author of the chapbooks The Port of Los Angeles, monster: a bestiary, break / fast, fuck your pastoral and Entropic Liberties (with Jonathan Skinner). Her books The Port of Los Angeles and Extreme Global: La Ciudad sin Extremo / Los Angeles are forthcoming in 2008. She edits and publishes Palm Press, www.palmpress.org, from Long Beach, California where she teaches writing at CSULB and Golden West College. You can visit her classroom anytime at occupationspace.blogspot.com .

Mount Pinos: Politics of the Unread

the directions maintain fragments of "this"

pure pine pile up sulfur rattlers bark

cut sharp with slant "L" askance/the gaze/cut to known pronoun/proverb/pro let aire there is no other than that which already within you but the bittern bark

the blades trace

path from ocean
sullied under coast

packed in like rats shouldered up to one fine clatter manse with no lawn

no nature to speak of

*

but to maintain directions—impropriety of no one

my child comes running pier side/dry dock/ canal stink lip
"sharks! big fish!"
and I too late for the glimpse though having seen them too

the histories of fishes blunt cut any path to narrative or narrativity voices/voiceless swim
*
the way of it
the way

the place here
place of pronouns supple reach place shark empty place rays anchovy black jellies pale listing to red tide

wetland reclamation space they moved the highway

they built this island they dredge the creamy seamless coast

to water to wetland to piles to pinging depth charge naval seal ship bevied levied with fear fear grips who's the bigger dark lurker now?

*

these days
my materia medica
some bittern arsenal
some tern-like commission to sneak in/pull yield

they're making nests for the killdeer sapling white pelican lesser grebe spoonbill skimmer sea hare dainty mole crab
with her fine fiddler freight orange roe cake
a sample for sale

response—an utterance
what words do rise up in iris flipped gaze the mimic to stutter arctic—or just tic
a long thigh a long thick finger of grease
spill leak from something these monstrous yachts doth offend thee oh evermore than any Ulsan oil seep gutter to stillness or smother the grunions left offspring eke out a living at the edge of such opening gaps

layers of oil
one shiny magenta yellow blue not distinct indeterminate pure petrol absolutely bad flow fills my neighborhood

water artery wet streets and us no boat to row—
so the watcher, come looker what choice her fine foot/tucks/sidewalk to city beach
fine picking litter—the effronter of dunderheaded gargantua this bottle cap condom cup and again

repeat into stillness

this weekend, next—what dates what matter
again and again we do it bend spines to the earth

our littoral zone

~ Jane Sprague

___ Park yourself in front of a world of choices in alternative vehicles. Visit the Yahoo! Auto Green Center. http://autos.yahoo.com/green_center/

↑ Index

689. David Chirot

d-b Chirot's "No Place to Move/Shadow Walls" flickr at ::: wood s lot ::: "the fitful tracing of a portal"

Wed 29 Aug 2007

---

just learned you can see my flickr gallery "No Place to Move/Shadow Walls" at the latest Wood's Lot blog-is included in the entries on 26 August http://web.ncf.ca/ek867/wood_s_lot.html ---

 these have also appeared on Marco Giovenale's blogs Slowforward and others more galleries to follow shortly at my flickr and ongoing works of mine and many others at etc at http://davidbaptistechirot.blogspot.com

↑ Index

690. Thomas savage

Re: From: Everyone is gay, to: I'm not gay!

Wed 29 Aug 2007

Although I'm glad to learn the specifics of this story which I only heard briefly on the radio this morning, I'd like to know what this scandal has to do with poetry until someone writes a poem about it. Matthew Shepard's anthology is a great book by the way. I only rediscovered it yesterday. It has a poem in it by John Ashbery, of all people. Regards, Tom Savage

Alexander Jorgensen <[redacted]> wrote: Some interesting video on Larry Craig online. Seems he was singled-out during a Washington investigation of a cocaine and page boy ring during the 1980s.

The complaint said Craig then tapped his right foot several times and moved it closer to Karsnia's stall and then moved it to where it touched Karsnia's foot. Karsnia recognized that "as a signal often used by persons communicating a desire to engage in sexual conduct," the complaint said.

Craig then passed his left hand under the stall divider into Karsnia's stall with his palm up and guided it along the divider toward the front of the stall three times, the complaint said.

The officer then showed his police identification under the divider and pointed toward the exit "at which time the defendant exclaimed `No!'" the complaint said.

For the rest of the story:

http://news.yahoo.com/s/ap/20070829/ap_on_go_co/craig_arrest

--
Marcus Aurelius: "The object of life is not to be on the side of the majority, but to escape finding oneself in the ranks of the insane."

Pinpoint customers who are looking for what you sell.

↑ Index

691. Susan Webster Schultz
MTV laureate
Wed 29 Aug 2007

There have been plenty of women poet laureates in recent years, among them Rita Dove, Louise Gluck, and others. What there have not been are gay or lesbian poets. So I stand in support of John Ashbery for MTV poet laureate! Plus he's a wonderful poet.

Susan M. Schultz

http://tinfishpress.com

↑ Index

692. steve russell
ashbery on MTV?? why not camille paglia or Jim Carroll
Wed 29 Aug 2007

---

either Camille or Carroll would work on MTV. Jim Carroll was, and perhaps he still is, a legit rocker. He's probably still younger then anyone in the Stones. His Catholic Boy album was one of the better pieces of vinyl produced in the eighties. He's a very good poet. Check out his "The Book of Nods." & Paglia too. She can entertain, and she's into rock and poetry, although she's not an Ashbery fan. Harold Bloom was her mentor at Yale. Bloom, Mr. Canonized himself, a guy who has always been in Ashbery's corner. Having a mouth as biting as Paglia's would be fun. Why not Carroll and Paglia?

Park yourself in front of a world of choices in alternative vehicles.
Visit the Yahoo! Auto Green Center.

↑ Index

693. Barry Schwabsky
Re: From: Everyone is gay, to: I'm not gay!
Wed 29 Aug 2007

Why are police officers hanging around in airport men's rooms waiting to ge picked up?

Alexander Jorgensen <[redacted]> wrote: Some interesting video on Larry Craig online. Seems he was singled-out during a Washington investigation of a cocaine and page boy ring during the 1980s.

The complaint said Craig then tapped his right foot several times and moved it closer to Karsnia's stall and then moved it to where it touched Karsnia's foot. Karsnia recognized that "as a signal often used by persons communicating a desire to engage in sexual conduct," the complaint said.

Craig then passed his left hand under the stall divider into Karsnia's stall with his palm up and guided it along the divider toward the front of the stall three times, the complaint said.

The officer then showed his police identification under the divider and pointed toward the exit "at which time the defendant exclaimed `No!'" the complaint said.

For the rest of the story:

http://news.yahoo.com/s/ap/20070829/ap_on_go_co/craig_arrest

--
Marcus Aurelius: "The object of life is not to be on the side of the majority, but to escape finding oneself in the ranks of the insane."

↑ Index

694. Alan Sondheim
Cryptic Philosophy of Dispersion
Wed 29 Aug 2007

Cryptic Philosophy of Dispersion

Reification as false consciousness in relation to mediation of labor

BUT commodities in relation to exchange-value are transformed into fields of exchange - the ontology of commodities becomes a process- ontology (as opposed to state)

Statements are reification / residue - their communality establishes virtual community (all communities are virtual)

Commodities and statements are field phenomena (re: Minsky, mind)

(Field phenomena are virtual) (Processes are virtual)

BUT what do we mean by virtual?

Processes and communities are measurable through verification procedures inhabiting inscriptions

Don't all verification procedures inhabit inscriptions?

What constitutes the MATERIAL SUBSTRATE of verification?

One can imagine an OBJECT, but one can also imagine a REPORT

OBJECTS REPORT

Inscriptions are REPORTS OF REPORTS

REPORTS SPLIT into constituent syntactical elements

Semantics : MATERIAL SUBSTRATE :: syntactics : INHABITED INSCRIPTIONS

Rewriting Marx via Lukacs: "A commodity is therefore not a thing at all. The social character of human labor appears to us as an objective character stamped upon processes which problematize the very concept of objective character. Social relations are smeared among processes and consciousnesses, among the social and a hypothetical objectivity. Not commodities, but commodification is simultaneously perceptible and imperceptible, and commodification undermines the very concept of 'thing' as well as 'ding an sich.' The relationships among humans and processes are incapable of disentanglement; we are far from the techne of Marx and classical reification of Lukacs."

Rewriting Foucault: "Concepts such as discontinuity, rupture, threshold, limit, series, and transformation all characterize, not only the analogic and digital, but the liminal regions of consciousness and physicality inhabiting (not existing within) the virtual. Now we can call 'formula- tion' the individual or collective process that construes signs, signing, tagging, and/or inscription (keeping in mind that THE VIRTUAL IS ALWAYS INSCRIPTION). Formulation, if an event at all, is a smeared or stained process which can never be localized (located by its spatio-temporal coordinates); it need not relate to an author, issue from an author (real or virtual or bot or any Other/other); if one insists that formulation is performative, then one must also insist that THE WORLD ITSELF IS PERFORM- ATIVE. There is no getting around the sign, getting around with it; it is easier than one might think to get around without it."

"_Letter Deity._ Then, think that [the mind realizing the ultimate deity] appears in the sky in the aspect of the written letters of the mantra of the appropriate deity. Think that the mind having the aspect of [realis- ing] the suchness of oneself and the deity as undifferentiable has become a moon disc and that on it [the letters] are set in order [the sounds of the letters mixing with the form] like very pure mercury adhering [that is, mixing completely with] grains of gold. This is the letter deity." (Tsong-ka-pa, The Yoga of Tibet, The Great Exposition of Secret Mantra, trans. Jeffrey Hopkins.)

Akasa (space, principle of accommodation): "Akasa ever remains untouched by dust and darkness. Dust and darkness appear and disappear; they are contingent; but akasa ever remains as it is. They are not anything that itself arises and perishes, nor do they ever become dirty; not becoming dirty they cannot even be said to have become pure, for they never were impure; in truth they lie beyond the determinate natures of pure and impure. They ever remain untouched by dust and water." (Reworked from Nagarjuna's Philosophy as presented in The Maha-Prajnaparamita-Sastra, K. Venkata Ramanan.)

Begin with singularities within a classical Wittgenstein (TLP) / Hertz axiomatic tradition; subtract the logicism; liquify the singularities; channel them through Waddington's chreods; channel them through hierarchic networks; channel them through holarchic networks; eliminate the nodes and channels; transform the liquidity into dust-motilities; transform the dust-motilities into radiations; transforms the traditions into groundless flux-processes; whirl the flux-processes around the interned memory of singularities and axiomatics; report back to the reports; report nowhere; whirl the flux-processes around the reports; remember deaths and annihila- tions; whirl the deaths, the annihilations...

http://www.asondheim.org/royrogers2.mp3
http://www.asondheim.org/royrogers1.mp3

(Distorted signals from satellite television channel playing a Roy Rogers film; the soundtrack was corrupted. I filtered the result; royrogers2 is spoken-word and perhaps of greater interest.)

↑ Index

695. Halvard Johnson

Re: From: Everyone is gay, to: I'm not gay!

Wed 29 Aug 2007

Everything, dear Tom, has to do with poetry--and/or vice versa.

Hal

"You are at the highest level. There are no folders above this one."
--a Microsoft message

Halvard Johnson
==========
[redacted]
http://home.earthlink.net/~halvard/index.html
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org
http://home.earthlink.net/~halvard/vidalocabooks.html

On Aug 29, 2007, at 2:14 PM, Thomas savage wrote:

> Although I'm glad to learn the specifics of this story which I only heard briefly on the radio this morning, I'd like to know what this scandal has to do with poetry until someone writes a poem about it. Matthew Shepard's anthology is a great book by the way. I only rediscovered it yesterday. It has a poem in it by John Ashbery, of all people. Regards, Tom Savage
>
> Alexander Jorgensen <[redacted]> wrote: Some interesting video on Larry Craig online. Seems he was singled-out during a Washington investigation of a cocaine and page boy ring during the 1980s.
>
> ---
>
> The complaint said Craig then tapped his right foot several times and moved it closer to Karsnia's stall and then moved it to where it touched Karsnia's foot. Karsnia recognized that "as a signal often used by persons communicating a desire to engage in sexual conduct," the complaint said.
>
> Craig then passed his left hand under the stall divider into Karsnia's stall with his palm up and guided it along the divider toward the front of the stall three times, the complaint said.
>
> The officer then showed his police identification under the divider and pointed toward the exit "at which time the defendant exclaimed `No!'" the complaint said.
>
> For the rest of the story:
>
> http://news.yahoo.com/s/ap/20070829/ap_on_go_co/craig_arrest
>
> --
> Marcus Aurelius: "The object of life is not to be on the side of > the majority, but to escape finding oneself in the ranks of the insane."

>
> ---
> Pinpoint customers who are looking for what you sell.

↑ Index

696. amy king
Re: MTV laureate
Wed 29 Aug 2007

I wouldn't exactly say there have been "plenty of women poet laureates", though they were appointed more recently than earlier:

U.S. Poet Laureate Timeline [1937 - 2006 = 37 Men and 8 Women] -- http://amyking.org/blog/?p=192

But agreed: Ashbery is a good choice for MTVu because his poetry is lively and will appeal to the "multi-tasking" and "multi-associating" attention spans of those raised with the internet on their screens and in their hands ... his range of work will certainly appeal to those new emerging literacies. As for Paglia, I think she'd be a short-lived choice as her poetry wouldn't have the reach among the teen and twenty somethings that Ashbery's would.

As for Susan's point about the gaping lack of missing gay and lesbian poets -- a hearty yes!

Amy
http://amyking.org/blog/

Susan Webster Schultz <[redacted]> wrote: There have been plenty of women poet laureates in recent years, among them Rita Dove, Louise Gluck, and others. What there have not been are gay or lesbian poets. So I stand in support of John Ashbery for MTV poet laureate! Plus he's a wonderful poet.

Susan M. Schultz

http://tinfishpress.com

Luggage? GPS? Comic books?
Check out fitting gifts for grads at Yahoo! Search.

↑ Index

697. Amish Trivedi
Re: From: Everyone is gay, to: I'm not gay!
Wed 29 Aug 2007

I was humored by Craig's statement that he has "a wide stance"

amish

Barry Schwabsky <[redacted]> wrote:
Why are police officers hanging around in airport men's rooms waiting to ge picked up?

Alexander Jorgensen wrote: Some interesting video on Larry Craig online. Seems he was singled-out during a Washington investigation of a cocaine and page boy ring during the 1980s.

The complaint said Craig then tapped his right foot several times and moved it closer to Karsnia's stall and then moved it to where it touched Karsnia's foot. Karsnia recognized that "as a signal often used by persons communicating a desire to engage in sexual conduct," the complaint said.

Craig then passed his left hand under the stall divider into Karsnia's stall with his palm up and guided it along the divider toward the front of the stall three times, the complaint said.

The officer then showed his police identification under the divider and pointed toward the exit "at which time the defendant exclaimed `No!'" the complaint said.

For the rest of the story:

http://news.yahoo.com/s/ap/20070829/ap_on_go_co/craig_arrest

--
Marcus Aurelius: "The object of life is not to be on the side of the majority, but to escape finding oneself in the ranks of the insane."

"Christopher Columbus, as everyone knows, is honored by posterity because he was the last to discover America." -James Joyce

↑ Index

698. Aryanil Mukherjee
Re: MTV laureate
Wed 29 Aug 2007

That's a laudably bold and clear stand for a great poet any language should be proud of. I remember, you wrote - "John Ashbery is America's greatest living poet, he is also greatly misunderstood".

Whether Ashbery and MTV go together is a mute point, but the "old folks can also write" verbatim confounded me. Poets aren't soccer players, I always thought. There are scores of old poets, both men and women, that I can think of in a large number of languages around the world who have written/write competent (if not good or new) poetry. Adonis, for example, at 75+ is an outstanding example - a probable Nobel candidate for 2008.

Ferlinghetti still writes good poetry (if not inspiring) at 88. So does Snyder.
There are others, don't forget Diane di Prima.

I'd like to quote Ashbery here on the challenges and virtues of older poets from a John Tranter (& Jacket Magazine) interview of JA from 1988 -

"Also I think the fact that the older one gets - for many people, at least - the more prolific one gets, realising there aren't the oceans of time that seem to be stretching ahead when one was young. And one learns to use it, and realise how precious it is."

I have been working with John Ashbery for about three years now on a self-funded translation (into Bengali) project which I recently concluded with an interview (to appear in Kaurab, September 07) , the Bengali version of which is due to appear in Kabisammelan, a poetry-monthly published from Kolkata, India. Here is a little sneak preview from that interview - a response which I liked a lot...see that as exemplary for younger poets like us - when asked about if he still reads his contemporaries, JA reflects -

"I don't read the work of my friends anymore (smiles)...specially my own work, which I don't read at all. So I don't have much idea as to what New York School poetry is like. Basically, of late I like to read the more young contemporary poets, many of them have been influenced by me and who have then gone on to write their own and are now influencing me. "

I'll put my hands together for such an "old folk".

Aryanil Mukherjee

----- Original Message -----
From: "Susan Webster Schultz" <[redacted]>
To: <[redacted]>

Sent: Wednesday, August 29, 2007 2:15 PM
Subject: MTV laureate

> There have been plenty of women poet laureates in recent years, among them Rita Dove,
> Louise Gluck, and others. What there have not been are gay or lesbian poets. So I stand > in support of John Ashbery for MTV poet laureate! Plus he's a wonderful poet.
>
> Susan M. Schultz
>
> http://tinfishpress.com
>
> --
> No virus found in this incoming message.
> Checked by AVG Free Edition. Version: 7.5.484 / Virus Database: 269.12.12/979 - Release Date: 8/29/2007 8:21 PM

↑ Index

699. George Bowering
Re: Ashbery on MTV??
Wed 29 Aug 2007

Could you tell a little about her?
Her books, etc?

gb

On Aug 28, 2007, at 7:27 AM, Kimberley Rogers wrote:

> Is it me or are we way overdue for women to be considered for all > these recently filled Poet Laureate decisions? (Not that I think the > position is indicative of a poet's importance) Naomi Shihab Nye is an > excellent candidate for the voice of America and the voice of the MTV > generation right now. I revolt--and methinks there must be a poem > waitng to get out in me somewhere on this subject--as always.
>
> -----Original Message-----
>> From: John Tranter <[redacted]>
>> Sent: Aug 27, 2007 6:11 PM
>> To: [redacted]
>> Subject: Ashbery on MTV??

>>
>> Hi, all:
>>
>> New York Times
>> August 27, 2007
>> An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation
>> By MELENA RYZIK
>>
>> MtvU, the subsidiary of MTV Networks that is broadcast only on >> college campuses, will announce today that it has selected its first >> poet laureate. No, he doesn?t rap. And it?s not Bob Dylan, or even >> Justin Timberlake.
>>
>> It is John Ashbery, the prolific 80-year-old poet and frequent award >> winner known for his dense, postmodern style and playful language.
>> One of the most celebrated living poets, Mr. Ashbery has won
>> MacArthur Foundation and Guggenheim fellowships and was awarded a >> Pulitzer Prize in 1976 for his collection ?Self-Portrait in a Convex >> Mirror.?
>>
>> ... more here:
>>
>> http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/27/books/27laur.html?
>> ex=1188878400&en=c4e34a79300ffe48&ei=5070&emc=eta1
>>
>> (you may need to repair the break in the URL).
>>
>> ----------
>> John Tranter
>
>
Mr. G. Bowering
Literature maker to the stars.

↑ Index

700. Mark Weiss
Re: MTV laureate
Wed 29 Aug 2007

---

34 men--three were repeats.

Since it's a political appointment, there should obviously be something like proportional representation. Has anyone checked which states they came from?

If we say that Frost represents New Hampshire, for instance, shouldn't there have been 20 from New York? Clearly impractical, but is the breakdown by regions appropriate? Could the injustices be righted by appointing posthumously poets for all of the unclaimed years between 1776 and 1937? Like the conversions of the dead practiced by the (unrepresented) Mormons? An advantage of this solution is that the dead rarely complain about how they're identified.

No First Nations laureates. No handicapped. No Little People. Too many Jews. No Asians. Not a single Moslem, Hindu, Buddhist. Are there enough Catholics? William Carlos Williams is the closest thing to Latino.

I spot one gay and one lesbian, but there may be others whose orientation I don't know. Shouldn't those short-listed be asked and outed?

A wrinkle is that the demographics of 1937 and 2007 are not the same. So maybe the population breakdown for the entire period should be averaged. Just so we know what's fair.

How about the relative dearth of essential poets, regardless of group identity? The great ones seem to have been appointed almost by mistake, and way too many are conspicuous by their absence.

Mark

At 06:23 PM 8/29/2007, you wrote:
>I wouldn't exactly say there have been "plenty of women poet >laureates", though they were appointed more recently than earlier:
>
>U.S. Poet Laureate Timeline [1937 - 2006 = 37 Men and 8 Women] -- >http://amyking.org/blog/?p=192
>
>But agreed: Ashbery is a good choice for MTVu because his poetry is >lively and will appeal to the "multi-tasking" and >"multi-associating" attention spans of those raised with the >internet on their screens and in their hands ... his range of work >will certainly appeal to those new emerging literacies. As for >Paglia, I think she'd be a short-lived choice as her poetry wouldn't >have the reach among the teen and twenty somethings that Ashbery's would.
>
>As for Susan's point about the gaping lack of missing gay and >lesbian poets -- a hearty yes!
>
>Amy
>http://amyking.org/blog/
>

>
>Susan Webster Schultz <[redacted]> wrote: There have been >plenty of women poet laureates in recent years, among >them Rita Dove, Louise Gluck, and others. What there have not been >are gay or lesbian poets. So I stand in support of John Ashbery for >MTV poet laureate! Plus he's a wonderful poet.
>
>Susan M. Schultz
>
>http://tinfishpress.com
>
>
>
>---
>Luggage? GPS? Comic books?
>Check out fitting gifts for grads at Yahoo! Search.

↑ Index

701. David A. Kirschenbaum
R.I.P. Hilly Kristal
Wed 29 Aug 2007

Back in 2002, we had the good fortune to interview CBGB's founder Hilly Kristal for our Rock, Rock, Rock and Roll Hall of Fame Issue. I thought I'd share his words and those on or by the people who were a part of the scene he helped foster.

Best,
David

http://welcometoboogcity.com/boogpdfs/bc04.pdf

Issue 4, March 11-25, 2002

The Rock, Rock, Rock and Roll Hall of Fame Issue

-The induction of the Ramones and the Talking Heads by James Wilk -With interviews by music editor James Wilk of Hilly Kristal, owner of CBGB¹s; Seymour Stein, the man who signed both bands; and Linda Stein, co-manager of the Ramones. -A Centerfold poster of The Ramones playing CBGB¹s in 1977 -James Wilk reviews Joey Ramone¹s recently released solo album -Nancy Seewald reviews Richard Hell¹s book Hot and Cold -Greg Fuchs expounds on the relevance of critic laureate Lester Bangs -The editor on seeing The Ramones in Montreal

Poem by Emma Straub

Photos by Brian Ach and Danny Fields.

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W.28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)
F: [redacted]

↑ Index

702. Jason Quackenbush
Re: MTV laureate
Wed 29 Aug 2007

Camille Paglia actually writes poetry and doesn't just criticize it?

On Wed, 29 Aug 2007, amy king wrote:

> I wouldn't exactly say there have been "plenty of women poet laureates", though they were appointed more recently than earlier:
>
> U.S. Poet Laureate Timeline [1937 - 2006 = 37 Men and 8 Women] -- http://amyking.org/blog/?p=192
>
> But agreed: Ashbery is a good choice for MTVu because his poetry is lively and will appeal to the "multi-tasking" and "multi-associating" attention spans of those raised with the internet on their screens and in their hands ... his range of work will certainly appeal to those new emerging literacies. As for Paglia, I think she'd be a short-lived choice as her poetry wouldn't have the reach among the teen and twenty somethings that Ashbery's would.
>
> As for Susan's point about the gaping lack of missing gay and lesbian poets -- a hearty yes!
>
> Amy
> http://amyking.org/blog/
>
> Susan Webster Schultz <[redacted]> wrote: There have been plenty of women poet laureates in recent years, among > them Rita Dove, Louise Gluck, and others. What there have not been are gay or lesbian poets. So I stand in support of John Ashbery for MTV poet laureate! Plus he's a wonderful poet.

> Susan M. Schultz
>
> http://tinfishpress.com
>
> ---
> Luggage? GPS? Comic books?
> Check out fitting gifts for grads at Yahoo! Search.

↑ Index

703. Jason Quackenbush
Re: ashbery on MTV?? why not camille paglia or Jim Carroll
Wed 29 Aug 2007

I think Jim Carroll would be an excellent MTV laureate. Or going the other direction for someone who's more rocker than poet, Patty Smith might be a good choice.

Also, to chime in on the carroll book recommendations, anyone who hasn't read forced entries and living at the movies is missing a treat.

On Wed, 29 Aug 2007, steve russell wrote:

> either Camille or Carroll would work on MTV. Jim Carroll was, and perhaps he still is, a legit rocker. He's probably still younger then anyone in the Stones. His Catholic Boy album was one of the better pieces of vinyl produced in the eighties. He's a very good poet. Check out his "The Book of Nods." & Paglia too. She can entertain, and she's into rock and poetry, although she's not an Ashbery fan. Harold Bloom was her mentor at Yale. Bloom, Mr. Canonized himself, a guy who has always been in Ashbery's corner. Having a mouth as biting as Paglia's would be fun. Why not Carroll and Paglia?
>
> ---
> Park yourself in front of a world of choices in alternative vehicles.
> Visit the Yahoo! Auto Green Center.

↑ Index

704. Jason Quackenbush
Re: MTV laureate
Wed 29 Aug 2007

That's an amazing quote. Ah, to be read by John Ashbery! Far and above the new smartass answer I'm going to have the next time someone at a poetry slam gets bewildered and asks me who I'm supposed to be writing for, the fanboy thrill I get at speculating "I wonder if Ashbery has ever stumbled across one of my measly publications?!?!" is a fantastic reminder that the point of writing poetry is not publication, money, awards or tenured professorships, nor is it therapy, making political statements, or developing your spirituality. I suppose poetry can be used for all of those things, but i think when it comes down to it the point, for most of us who take the writing seriously, is to be read by intelligent, sympathetic eyes. Personally, I think that's as admirable as goals come.

On Wed, 29 Aug 2007, Aryanil Mukherjee wrote:

> That's a laudably bold and clear stand for a great poet any language should be proud of.
> I remember, you wrote - "John Ashbery is America's greatest living poet, he is also greatly misunderstood".
>
> Whether Ashbery and MTV go together is a mute point, but the "old folks can also write" verbatim confounded me. Poets aren't soccer players, I always thought. There are scores of old poets, both men and women, that I can think of in a large number of languages around the world who have written/write competent (if not good or new) poetry. Adonis, for example, at 75+ is an outstanding example - a probable Nobel candidate for 2008.
>
> Ferlinghetti still writes good poetry (if not inspiring) at 88. So does Snyder. There are others, don't forget Diane di Prima.
>
> I'd like to quote Ashbery here on the challenges and virtues of older poets from a John Tranter (& Jacket Magazine) interview of JA from 1988 -
>
> "Also I think the fact that the older one gets - for many people, at least - the more prolific one gets, realising there aren't the oceans of time that seem to be stretching ahead when one was young. And one learns to use it, and realise how precious it is."
>
> I have been working with John Ashbery for about three years now on a self-funded translation (into Bengali) project which I recently concluded with an interview (to appear in Kaurab, September 07) , the Bengali version of which is due to appear in Kabisammelan, a poetry-monthly published from Kolkata, India. Here is a little sneak preview from that interview - a response > which I liked a lot...see that as exemplary for younger poets like us - when asked > about if he still reads his contemporaries, JA reflects -
>
> "I don't read the work of my friends anymore (smiles)...specially my own work, which I don't read at all. So I don't have much idea as to what New York School poetry is like. Basically, of late I like to read the more young contemporary poets, many of them have been influenced by me and who have then gone on to write their own and are now influencing me. "

I'll put my hands together for such an "old folk".

Aryanil Mukherjee

----- Original Message ----- From: "Susan Webster Schultz"
<[redacted]>
To: <[redacted]>
Sent: Wednesday, August 29, 2007 2:15 PM
Subject: MTV laureate

There have been plenty of women poet laureates in recent years, among them Rita Dove, Louise Gluck, and others. What there have not been are gay or lesbian poets. So I stand in support of John Ashbery for MTV poet laureate! Plus he's a wonderful poet.

Susan M. Schultz

http://tinfishpress.com

--
No virus found in this incoming message.
Checked by AVG Free Edition. Version: 7.5.484 / Virus Database: 269.12.12/979 - Release Date: 8/29/2007 8:21 PM

↑ Index

705. Gabrielle Welford
Re: big penis rock hard balls joy ride history of the world
Wed 29 Aug 2007

---

i've thought this was so for some time... when bush started bombing weddings in afghanistan and i was crying in front of my students.... small penis problems... thanks alan. gabe

No virus found in this incoming message.
Checked by AVG Free Edition.
Version: 7.1.412 / Virus Database: 268.18.4/705 - Release Date: 2/27/2007

On Tue, 28 Aug 2007, Alan Sondheim wrote:

> big penis rock hard balls joy ride history of the world
>
> teenage boys drive big penises and wear big penis ornaments and we're all pushing our tiny penises around the playing field or looking for a rhyme to hid our tiny penises while we arm ourselves with big penis guns and missiles all pointy and the like to kill big and little penises anywhere we can, we want to be the only penises in sight and we want our tiny penises hidden but our big penis houses and big giant penis top-fuel dragsters in sight so we can raise big-penis fear while we stain books and canvas with big penis smearings while our tiny penises throb and shake, teenage boys send big penis smearings across networks and wires smearing tags blowing bits and bytes while big penises announce they are hot and ready and there and their tiny penises shake with joy and happiness and our big penis arms push tiny penis boys into dirt and girls and big penis legs throw bombs into books made from bombs and we big-penis love everything that thumps and throws giant balls into girl ball party groups, makes big penis sound jump the curb, when we drive we say Our big penis has arrived, Yes, Our big penis is here, we write big penis books, we point big penises, big giant penises, enormous penises, things disappear

↑ Index

706. amy king
Reminder: This Friday!
Wed 29 Aug 2007

---

presents --

Guest-Edited Issue QUEST Reading

[http://www.mipoesias.com/EVIESHOCKLEYISSUE]

~~ GEOFFREY JACQUES ~~ TONYA FOSTER ~~ TARA BETTS ~~ MENDI OBADIKE ~~

Hosted by Evie Shockley, QUEST Editor

Friday, August 31st @ 7:00 P.M.

___

GEOFFREY JACQUES is a poet and critic who writes about literature, the visual arts, and culture. His latest book of poems is Just For a Thrill (Wayne State University Press, 2005). His book of criticism, A Change in the Weather: Modernist Imagination, African American Imaginary, is forthcoming from the University of Massachusetts Press. His previous poetry collections include Hunger and Other Poems (1993) and Suspended Knowledge (1998).

Jacques has taught at several colleges, including Lehman College of the City University of New York (CUNY) the University of Massachusetts Boston, Hunter College, CUNY, the New York School of Industrial and Labor Relations at Cornell University, and at Parsons School of Design.

TONYA FOSTER is the author of Swarm of Bees in High Court(Belladonna, 2001), WaterTables (forthcoming, Portable Press @ YoYo Labs), co-editor fiction, and reviews published in various journals and magazines.\u003cbr /\>Recipient of fellowships from the Ford Foundation, the Woodrow Wilson\u003cbr /\>Foundation, and the City University of New York. She has organized\u003cbr /\>reading series and cultural events throughout New York City, and taught\u003cbr /\>creative writing and literature courses at CCNY\'s Bridge to Medicine\u003cbr /\>Program and at Cooper Union.\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>TARA BETTS is a graduate of the New England College MFA Program and Cave\u003cbr /\>Canem. Her work appears in several anthologies and journals, including\u003cbr /\>Gathering Ground, Obsidian III and Essence. In addition to performing\u003cbr /\>and reading her work across the country, she is a lecturer at Rutgers\u003cbr /\>University in New Brunswick, NJ. She recently completed her full-length\u003cbr /\>manuscript Infinite Arithmetic.\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>MENDI OBADIKE is the author Armor and Flesh and the librettist of the\u003cbr /\>The Sour Thunder. She works with composer / conceptual artist Keith\u003cbr /\>Obadike. Together they have received the Rockefeller Media Arts\u003cbr /\>Fellowship, a commission from the Whitney Museum, and one from\u003cbr /\>Northwestern University to create a new work, Big House/Disclosure, an\u003cbr /\>intermedia suite featuring a 200-hour long house song. Mendi teaches at\u003cbr /\>Princeton and lives in the New York area.\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>~~~~~~~~~\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>STAIN BAR\u003cbr /\>766 Grand Street Brooklyn , NY 11211\u003cbr /\>(L train to Grand Street Stop, walk 1 block west)\u003cbr /\>718/[redacted]\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>\u003ca onclick\u003d\"return top.js.OpenExtLink(window,event,this)\" href\u003d\"http://www.stainbar.com/\" target\u003d_blank\>http://www.stainbar.com/\u003c/a\>\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>~~~~~~~~~\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>Read QUEST here ----> \u003ca onclick\u003d\"return top.js.OpenExtLink(window,event,this)\" href\u003d\"http://www.mipoesias.com/EVIESHOCKLEYISSUE/\" target\u003d_blank\>http://www.mipoesias.com\u003cwbr /\>/EVIESHOCKLEYISSUE/\u003c/a\>\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>Hope you\'ll stop by!\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>Amy King\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>Editor\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>\u003ca onclick\u003d\"return top.js.OpenExtLink(window,event,this)\" href\u003d\"http://www.mipoesias.com\" target\u003d_blank\>",1]); //-->of Third Mind: Teaching Writing through Visual Art. Poetry, essays, fiction, and reviews published in various journals and magazines. Recipient of fellowships from the Ford Foundation, the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, and the City University of New York. She has organized reading series and cultural events throughout New York City, and taught creative writing and literature courses at CCNY's Bridge to Medicine Program and at Cooper Union.

TARA BETTS is a graduate of the New England College MFA Program and Cave Canem. Her work appears in several anthologies and journals, including Gathering Ground, Obsidian III and Essence. In addition to performing and reading her work across the country, she is a lecturer at Rutgers University in New Brunswick, NJ. She recently completed her full-length manuscript Infinite Arithmetic.

MENDI OBADIKE is the author Armor and Flesh and the librettist of the The Sour Thunder. She works with composer / conceptual artist Keith Obadike. Together they have received the Rockefeller Media Arts Fellowship, a commission from the Whitney Museum, and one from Northwestern University to create a new work, Big House/Disclosure, an intermedia suite featuring a 200-hour long house song. Mendi teaches at Princeton and lives in the New York area.

~~~~~~~~

STAIN BAR
766 Grand Street Brooklyn , NY 11211
(L train to Grand Street Stop, walk 1 block west)
718/[redacted]

http://www.stainbar.com/

~~~~~~~~

Read QUEST here ----> http://www.mipoesias.com/EVIESHOCKLEYISSUE/

Hope you'll stop by!

Amy King

Editor

<\u003ca onclick\u003d\"return top.js.OpenExtLink(window,event,this)\" href\u003d\"http://www.mipoesias.com/\" target\u003d_blank\>http://www.mipoesias.com/\u003c/a\>>\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>please forward\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>apologies for cross-posting\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>--\u003cbr /\>Evie Shockley\u003cbr /\>Assistant Professor\u003cbr /\>Department of English\u003cbr /\>Rutgers University\u003cbr /\>Murray Hall 047, CAC\u003cbr /\>510 George Street\u003cbr /\>New Brunswick, NJ 08901\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>Email: \u003ca onclick\u003d\"return top.js.OpenExtLink(window,event,this)\" href\u003d\"mailto:[redacted]\"\>[redacted]\u003c/a\>\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>\u003cbr /\>--~--~---------~--~----~------\u003cwbr /\>------~-------~--~----~\u003cbr /\>Posts and emails to the Pussipo list are confidential and intended\u003cbr /\>solely for list members and moderators. All Pussipo

please forward

apologies for cross-posting

Be a better Heartthrob. Get better relationship answers from someone who knows.
Yahoo! Answers - Check it out.

↑ Index

707. Aryanil Mukherjee
Re: MTV laureate
Wed 29 Aug 2007

Your's a great comment too. Agreed and Encore. That's precisely what thrilled me too. Also, we are not getting younger, so it was wonderful to hear of such a promising recipe one could fall back on during some of those moribund phases that are soon to come along.

Ashbery talked about young film-directors too, who had been influenced by him, and now he is trying to reverse the admiration trying to come full circle.

An ideal laureate for ANY-TV.

Aryanil

----- Original Message -----
From: "Jason Quackenbush" <[redacted]>

To: <[redacted]>
Sent: Wednesday, August 29, 2007 9:16 PM
Subject: Re: MTV laureate

> That's an amazing quote. Ah, to be read by John Ashbery! Far and above the new smartass answer I'm going to have the next time someone at a poetry slam gets bewildered and asks me who I'm supposed to be writing for, the fanboy thrill I get at speculating "I wonder if Ashbery has ever stumbled across one of my measly publications?!?!" is a fantastic reminder that the point of writing poetry is not publication, money, awards or tenured professorships, nor is it therapy, making political statements, or developing your spirituality. I suppose poetry can be used for all of those things, but i think when it comes down to it the point, for most of us who take the writing seriously, is to be read by intelligent, sympathetic eyes. Personally, I think that's as admirable as goals come.
>
> On Wed, 29 Aug 2007, Aryanil Mukherjee wrote:
>
> That's a laudably bold and clear stand for a great poet any language should be proud of.
> I remember, you wrote - "John Ashbery is America's greatest living poet, he > is also greatly misunderstood".
>
> Whether Ashbery and MTV go together is a mute point, but the "old folks can also write" verbatim confounded me. Poets aren't soccer players, I always thought. There are scores of old poets, both men and women, that I can think of in a large number of languages around the world who have written/write competent (if not good or new) poetry. Adonis, for example, > at 75+ is an outstanding example - a probable Nobel candidate for 2008.
>
> Ferlinghetti still writes good poetry (if not inspiring) at 88. So does Snyder.
> There are others, don't forget Diane di Prima.
>
> I'd like to quote Ashbery here on the challenges and virtues of older poets
> from a John Tranter (& Jacket Magazine) interview of JA from 1988 -
>
> "Also I think the fact that the older one gets - for many people, at least - the more prolific one gets, realising there aren't the oceans of time that seem to be stretching ahead when one was young. And one learns to use it, and realise how precious it is."
>
> I have been working with John Ashbery for about three years now on a self-funded translation (into Bengali) project which I recently

concluded
with an interview (to appear in Kaurab, September 07) , the Bengali version of which is due to appear in Kabisammelan, a poetry-monthly published from Kolkata, India. Here is a little sneak preview from that interview - a response which I liked a lot...see that as exemplary for younger poets like us - when asked about if he still reads his contemporaries, JA reflects -

"I don't read the work of my friends anymore (smiles)...specially my own work, which I don't read at all. So I don't have much idea as to what New York School poetry is like. Basically, of late I like to read the more young contemporary poets, many of them have been influenced by me and who have then gone on to write their own and are now influencing me. "

I'll put my hands together for such an "old folk".

Aryanil Mukherjee

----- Original Message ----- From: "Susan Webster Schultz"
<[redacted]>
To: <[redacted]>
Sent: Wednesday, August 29, 2007 2:15 PM
Subject: MTV laureate

There have been plenty of women poet laureates in recent years, among them
Rita Dove,
Louise Gluck, and others. What there have not been are gay or lesbian poets. So I stand in support of John Ashbery for MTV poet laureate! Plus he's a wonderful poet.

Susan M. Schultz

http://tinfishpress.com

--
No virus found in this incoming message.

> Checked by AVG Free Edition. Version: 7.5.484 / Virus Database: 269.12.12/979 - Release Date: 8/29/2007 8:21 PM
>
> --
> No virus found in this incoming message.
> Checked by AVG Free Edition. Version: 7.5.484 / Virus Database: 269.12.12/979 - Release Date: 8/29/2007 8:21 PM

↑ Index

708. Amish Trivedi

America's Next Top Poet/Top Poet and Intro

Wed 29 Aug 2007

All,

I'm seriously waiting for there to be a Bravo program with the above title coming out soon. Challenges could include writing poems FOR events/occassions/people, making chapbooks of poems, or selecting poems out of a stack for a collection. Maybe one challenge could be dealing with rejection letters!

At first I thought this was a terrible idea, and then it occurred to me that some of the shows on Bravo now deal with industries the "average American" (who has no maps, I learned this week) has really no clue about. These shows don't really give insight into these industries (do people really have to make bar food when interviewing for jobs as chefs?) and yet people watch them with great eagerness. I think it can totally be done. Maybe another Ashberry project?

Also, I realized I never introduced myself to the list. My name is Amish Trivedi and I live in Iowa City, Iowa with my wife Jennifer. I "maintain" the most self-centered and whiny blog, The Trivedi Chronicles (http://trivedichronic.blogspot.com). I work at the University of Iowa's Main library and use said library to fuel my need for poetry and, well, money to buy poetry.

I just thought I'd share.

Best,
Amish

"Christopher Columbus, as everyone knows, is honored by posterity because he was the last to discover America." -James Joyce

↑ Index

709. Ruth Lepson
Re: MTV laureate
Thu 30 Aug 2007

---

anybody know what WCW & Bishop did as poets laureate? can't imagine it.

On 8/29/07 6:23 PM, "amy king" <[redacted]> wrote:

> I wouldn't exactly say there have been "plenty of women poet laureates", though they were appointed more recently than earlier:
>
> U.S. Poet Laureate Timeline [1937 - 2006 = 37 Men and 8 Women] -- http://amyking.org/blog/?p=192
>
> But agreed: Ashbery is a good choice for MTVu because his poetry is lively and will appeal to the "multi-tasking" and "multi-associating" attention spans of those raised with the internet on their screens and in their hands ... his range of work will certainly appeal to those new emerging literacies. As for Paglia, I think she'd be a short-lived choice as her poetry wouldn't have the reach among the teen and twenty somethings that Ashbery's would.
>
> As for Susan's point about the gaping lack of missing gay and lesbian poets -- a hearty yes!
>
> Amy
> http://amyking.org/blog/
>
> Susan Webster Schultz <[redacted]> wrote: There have been plenty of women poet laureates in recent years, among them Rita Dove, Louise Gluck, and others. What there have not been are gay or lesbian poets. So I stand in support of John Ashbery for MTV poet laureate! Plus he's a wonderful poet.
>
> Susan M. Schultz
>
> http://tinfishpress.com
>
> ---
> Luggage? GPS? Comic books?
> Check out fitting gifts for grads at Yahoo! Search.

↑ Index

710. Chris Stroffolino
Re: "An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation"
Thu 30 Aug 2007

A 41-year old musical colleague....
MTV is 27 years old, so what is the MTV generation anyway?

Anyway, Steve's a great guitarist/singer...combined some nice soulful melodies and some "avant" noise aspects for many he, and P Harvey and others, were the essence of that "indie-rock" 90s, in contrast to the more commercial 90s indie rock, after Cobain, went into Pearl Jam/STP/Live/Creed progressively more macho late 90s arena postures.
I'm sure Wiki says this better.
It was cool working in the studio with him in '98; he's just finishing up a new album....

C

On Aug 28, 2007, at 7:56 AM, George Bowering wrote:

> On Aug 27, 2007, at 9:52 AM, Barry Schwabsky wrote:
>
> I agree that his poetry resonates with a lot of contemporary music...not that its necessarily played on MTV...but for instance I remember Stephen Malkmus in an interview specifically citing Ashbery as an inspiration.
>
> And Stephen Malkmus is . . . . . .?
>
> George Bowering, OBC
> Did not fall down on Denman Island

↑ Index

711. Barry Schwabsky
Re: "An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation"
Thu 30 Aug 2007

Google him!

George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote: On Aug 27, 2007, at 9:52 AM, Barry Schwabsky wrote:

> I agree that his poetry resonates with a lot of contemporary > music...not that its necessarily played on MTV...but for instance I > remember Stephen Malkmus in an interview specifically citing Ashbery

> as an inspiration.
>
>
And Stephen Malkmus is . . . . . .?
>
George Bowering, OBC
Did not fall down on Denman Island

↑ Index

712. Barry Schwabsky
Re: MTV laureate
Thu 30 Aug 2007

What.....if.....he's.....even.....reading.....this.....list.....now!

Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote: That's an amazing quote. Ah, to be read by John Ashbery! Far and above the new smartass answer I'm going to have the next time someone at a poetry slam gets bewildered and asks me who I'm supposed to be writing for, the fanboy thrill I get at speculating "I wonder if Ashbery has ever stumbled across one of my measly publications?!?!" is a fantastic reminder that the point of writing poetry is not publication, money, awards or tenured professorships, nor is it therapy, making political statements, or developing your spirituality. I suppose poetry can be used for all of those things, but i think when it comes down to it the point, for most of us who take the writing seriously, is to be read by intelligent, sympathetic eyes. Personally, I think that's as admirable as goals come.

On Wed, 29 Aug 2007, Aryanil Mukherjee wrote:

> That's a laudably bold and clear stand for a great poet any language should be proud of.
> I remember, you wrote - "John Ashbery is America's greatest living poet, he is also greatly misunderstood".
>
> Whether Ashbery and MTV go together is a mute point, but the "old folks can also write" verbatim confounded me. Poets aren't soccer players, I always thought. There are scores of old poets, both men and women, that I can think of in a large number of languages around the world who have written/write competent (if not good or new) poetry. Adonis, for example, at 75+ is an outstanding example - a probable Nobel candidate for 2008.
>
> Ferlinghetti still writes good poetry (if not inspiring) at 88. So does Snyder. There are others, don't forget Diane di Prima.
>
> I'd like to quote Ashbery here on the challenges and virtues of older poets

from a John Tranter (& Jacket Magazine) interview of JA from 1988 -

"Also I think the fact that the older one gets - for many people, at least - the more prolific one gets, realising there aren't the oceans of time that seem to be stretching ahead when one was young. And one learns to use it, and realise how precious it is."

I have been working with John Ashbery for about three years now on a self-funded translation (into Bengali) project which I recently concluded with an interview (to appear in Kaurab, September 07) , the Bengali version of which is due to appear in Kabisammelan, a poetry-monthly published from Kolkata, India. Here is a little sneak preview from that interview - a response which I liked a lot...see that as exemplary for younger poets like us - when asked about if he still reads his contemporaries, JA reflects -

"I don't read the work of my friends anymore (smiles)...specially my own work, which I don't read at all. So I don't have much idea as to what New York School poetry is like. Basically, of late I like to read the more young contemporary poets, many of them have been influenced by me and who have then gone on to write their own and are now influencing me. "

I'll put my hands together for such an "old folk".

Aryanil Mukherjee

----- Original Message ----- From: "Susan Webster Schultz"

To:

Sent: Wednesday, August 29, 2007 2:15 PM
Subject: MTV laureate

There have been plenty of women poet laureates in recent years, among them Rita Dove, Louise Gluck, and others. What there have not been are gay or lesbian poets. So I stand in support of John Ashbery for MTV poet laureate! Plus he's a wonderful poet.

Susan M. Schultz

> http://tinfishpress.com
>
> --
> No virus found in this incoming message.
> Checked by AVG Free Edition. Version: 7.5.484 / Virus Database: 269.12.12/979 - Release Date: 8/29/2007 8:21 PM

↑ Index

713. ALDON L NIELSEN

Re: MTV laureate

Thu 30 Aug 2007

On Thu, Aug 30, 2007 12:12 AM, Ruth Lepson <[redacted]> wrote:

> anybody know what WCW & Bishop did as poets laureate? can't imagine it.

WCW never actually got to serve, despite what you may read in that timeline. There was effective McCarthyite opposition to his appointment -- As this was also the time of his failing health, the effective eventual disguise for what actually happened was that he was unable to serve for health reasons --

I attended a huge reading of former LOC Poetry Consultants (what it was called before it became the Laureateship) that included Bishop -- When I asked her to sign a book, she heard my name, said "Danish, right?" and spelled it correctly --

<<

↑ Index

714. Mark Weiss
Re: MTV laureate
Thu 30 Aug 2007

They were "consultants in poetry to the Library of Congress" until 1986, when we ceased to be a democracy. They have almost no duties, though in recent years they've acted more importantly. WCW did nothing--he wasn't allowed to serve because he was a red.

Any day now we'll have other honorary appointments--maybe "gentleman of the President's bedchamber" or "royal equerry."

I imagine that there's a point after which embarrassment will set in, no matter how good the gig. Maybe not.

Mark

At 12:12 AM 8/30/2007, you wrote:
>anybody know what WCW & Bishop did as poets laureate? can't imagine it.
>
>
>On 8/29/07 6:23 PM, "amy king" <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> > I wouldn't exactly say there have been "plenty of women poet laureates", > > though they were appointed more recently than earlier:
> >
> > U.S. Poet Laureate Timeline [1937 - 2006 = 37 Men and 8 Women] -- > > http://amyking.org/blog/?p=192
> >
> > But agreed: Ashbery is a good choice for MTVu because his poetry is lively > > and will appeal to the "multi-tasking" and "multi-associating" > attention spans > > of those raised with the internet on their screens and in their > hands ... his > > range of work will certainly appeal to those new emerging > literacies. As for > > Paglia, I think she'd be a short-lived choice as her poetry > wouldn't have the > > reach among the teen and twenty somethings that Ashbery's would.
> >
> > As for Susan's point about the gaping lack of missing gay and > lesbian poets --
> > a hearty yes!

> >
> > Amy
> > http://amyking.org/blog/
> >
> >
> > Susan Webster Schultz <[redacted]> wrote: There have > been plenty of > > women poet laureates in recent years, among > > them Rita Dove, Louise Gluck, and others. What there have not > been are gay or > > lesbian poets. So I stand in support of John Ashbery for MTV > poet laureate!
> > Plus he's a wonderful poet.
> >
> > Susan M. Schultz
> >
> > http://tinfishpress.com
> >
> >
> >
> > ---
> > Luggage? GPS? Comic books?
> > Check out fitting gifts for grads at Yahoo! Search.

↑ Index

715. blacksox

September 15 Washington DC

Thu 30 Aug 2007

BE IN DC ON SEPTEMBER 15, 2007!

HERE'S WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW:
~ The Plan for the Day - Gathering time and place, maps & housing
~ How to get to DC - By bus, van, car, plane, train and metro

~ THE PLAN FOR SEPT. 15 ~

On Saturday, September 15, tens of thousands of people from across the country will gather at 12 noon at the White House (north side, in and around Lafayette Park) and then march to the Capitol (west side). (The Ellipse on the south side of the White House is closed for maintenance repairs.)

Please see below for detailed information.

Click below to view and print a map (8.5x11 inch PDF): http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=eNyyj-qrnDjvFSU0zSCgvg..

The march will go from the White House to the Capitol Building. The front contingent of the march will be Iraq war veterans, family members of soldiers and marines and other veterans. When the march arrives at Congress, the Iraq War Veterans and family members will be the leadership of a mass die-in symbolizing the deaths of an estimated 4,000 U.S. servicemembers. A powerful representation of the death of hundreds of thousands of Iraqis will be the other central component of this dramatic confrontation with Congress at the time that they will be debating spending another $100 billion to sustain the criminal occupation of Iraq.

The Die-In is a civil disobedience action and those participating may risk arrest. There will be a permitted rally taking place simultaneously with the Die-In. All those who cannot afford to risk arrest will be able to participate in the permitted rally that will take place on the West Lawn of the Capitol Building.

Sign up today:

YES, I can join the mass march in Washington DC on September 15. Click this link to sign up: http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=Y0pYBLzIMeirLmHBbaU0kQ..

YES, I will participate in the mass Die-In/Funeral. Click this link to sign up: http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=gEdHTzaRGiqqN3p0qTYi9Q..
There will be information packets about logistics and legal Know Your Rights information sent to all those participating. The National Lawyers Guild Mass Defense Committee and the Partnership for Civil Justice will be providing legal support for the demonstration.

An email update with details about the September 16-21 Week of Action will be sent out later this week.

~ HOUSING IN DC ~

There are several options for housing if you are coming to Washington DC:

1. There is a Housing Board on which you can request and offer free housing. 2. Large groups (10 or more) can request housing in churches, community centers and other spaces through the ANSWER Coalition. Please call [redacted] x14 to request group housing. 3. Special for students: The George Washington University College Democrats are hosting students for free in dorm rooms on campus which is just blocks from the White House. 4. A list of hotels, motels, hostels and campgrounds is available below.

Click here for details on each of these options: http://www.pephost.org/site/R?iê2sGmSYcTvZOI1ELC0G0g..

~ BUSES, VANS AND CAR CARAVANS TO DC ~

Transportation is being organized from cities all over the country to travel to Washington DC. Click here for details about cities organizing transportation: http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=hdNT2ikb95EFqgLRvkLBMg..

People will be coming from every state in the East Coast, Midwest and South, and many are coming to DC from the West.

If you're organizing people from your area and you're not listed, fill out the online Transportation Form so we can help get the word out: http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i«b_R42jLpeyeiBj6oQXkQ..

For those coming by bus: Bus drop off will be near the rally site. Buses will be able to drop off passengers before proceeding to parking, and passengers will be able to walk to the rally site.

~ DRIVING DIRECTIONS ~

For detailed driving directions to Washington DC, click here: http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=hgIK_lyJ7S7oCIW3ASpigA..

Enter "1600 H St. NW" in Washington (city) DC (state) 20006 (zip) as your "end" location.

For those driving personal cars and vans: You can park in the area of the opening rally site, and take the metro back to your car after the rally at the Capitol.

~ Airports, Bus and Train Stations in DC ~

Airports

There are three airports in the Washington DC area:

Ronald Reagan Washington National (DCA)
[redacted], located in Virginia very close to DC http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=m4eTA-_MUeNfBTooNTlN8Q..

Washington-Dulles International (IAD)
[redacted], located in Virginia about 30 min. from DC http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=LGoLyV-39nXEbkhLDJ-4LA..

Please see the websites of these airports for information about public transportation and directions.

Baltimore-Washington Airport (BWI)
[redacted], located in Maryland halfway between DC and Baltimore, about 30-40 min. drive from DC http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i´7MkYWqYgqKpp7STwszhw..
The best way to get from BWI to the rally site is to take the WMATA Express bus that leaves from airport and takes you to the Greenbelt Metro Stop. From there, you will want to go to the Gallery Place - Chinatown station where you can transfer to the red line and then exit at Farragut North. Click here for more information about bus departure times from the airport. http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=wg1UjbPNTDY1gkIpCh1DeQ..

For plane tickets, try any of these sites:
Travelocity.com:
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=PoFuBTQJHilBeFl08dnhBQ..
Orbitz.com:
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=nK0dBGL28whqicRazzcAjw..
Hotwire.com:
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=nVVCrV4-dqxGGDF7FpK6IA..
Priceline.com:
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=kF8RqOcQK04Fr6cfVHYfgQ..
Lowestfare.com:
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=yBXFdPmx7iJPpmi4DVdhtw..
Jetblue.com - Select "Washington, DC/Dulles (IAD)", not included in above sites:
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?izz4-vDiMyfdK7aj3WDCRw..

DC airport codes are DCA, IAD and BWI. Some sites also allow you to enter WAS to cover all three.

Bus Station

The Greyhound bus station is located at 1005 1st St. NE (at L St.). This is walking distance from Union Station (the train station), which is also the location of a red line metro stop. The phone number is [redacted] and the website is http://www.pephost.org/site/R?iKkk9haUXdCQ6nwZfMnARg.. .

There are several low cost buses that travel to Washington DC from New York City, Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore and other area cities. They drop off at various locations in the DC downtown area, all of which are metro accessible.

Washington Deluxe:
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=fYj0AfBRzJYHEnR9CNDLLg..
New Century Travel:
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=WQK86e0dfpE8BAIdX28UNQ..
Chinatown Bus:
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=_oPzbgjrZvGjihgNKMHiDg..

Train Station

Amtrak, MTA/MARC, Metrorail and Virginia Rail Express run to Union Station. Union Station is located at 50 Massachusetts Ave. NE. The red line stop "Union Station" is located inside the building. For the Union Station website, which offers directions: http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=SQLOCIvLyN4abMmTWPVpWw..

AMTRAK
1-800-USA-RAIL
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?itkK0Eur6LVaPfiuoDfI3g..

MTA/MARC
[redacted] (does not run on weekends)
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i/xF1-mAl5A4TCsdEBCExg..

Metrorail
[redacted]
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?iãEm1SyWQlovUj_gpOy8fQ..

Virginia Rail Express
[redacted]
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=2HhQHfGF-BiOeNlblqA-Iw..

~ PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION IN DC ~

The closest metro (subway) stations to the rally site at the White House (north side in Lafayette Park) are McPherson Square (blue/orange lines), Farragut West (blue/orange lines), Farragut North (red line); Metro Center (blue/orange/red lines) is also close.

Exact locations of exits from metro stations: - McPherson Square (blue/orange lines): *SE corner Vermont Ave. & I St. NW, SW corner 14th & I Sts. NW - Farragut West (blue/orange lines): *SE corner 17th & I Sts. NW, NW corner 18th & I Sts. NW - Farragut North (red line): *NE corner Conn. Ave. & K St. NW, SW corner Conn. & L St. NW, NE corner Conn. & L St. NW - Metro Center (blue/orange/red lines): *SE corner 13th and G Sts. NW, NE corner 12th and G Sts. NW, SE corner 11th and G Sts. NW, SW corner 12th and F Sts. NW * = best exit to use

For an online DC metro (subway) map, click on one of the options below:

Interactive online metro map (click on station to view details):
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=IgnMw_gwWZNL-0ASm0m6ow..

Text list of stations:
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=TmO1yAWUs1A8gFjgZSSjgA..
(include exact location of exits)

Below are PDFs of an 8.5x11 map of the DC metro (subway) system:

multi-color PDF
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=XYFdo9DSo_e-KbEJ9kmq5g..

black & white PDF
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=5WFEj5x_v5MUCDzVp8Cm_Q..

On the weekends, the metro is open from 7:00 am until 3:00 am.

A metro ride will cost $1.35 minimum per rider each way (if you are traveling from farther away, such as from Maryland or Virginia, it will be more). Fare cards must be purchased from machines (not from a person) located in the metro stations. The maximum change the machines give is $4.95, so please have small bills if you're paying with cash. You can also pay with a debit or credit card (minimum charge $1.35, maximum charge $3.90).

After the rally

After the rally at the Capitol, if you want to leave by metro, you can walk to Union Station on the red line or Capitol South on the blue / orange line.

Buses in DC

DC/MD/VA bus maps are available online. Please make sure to check the timetables for any bus you may take, since some do not run on the weekends.

Click on the links below for maps, and use the zoom key (looks like a magnifying glass) for a clear view of your destination and route:

DC bus map
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=mC-hZLmYo3dyfdZg8550ZA..

Maryland bus map
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i¼cc20-v0T3l1UoS1SXS_g..

Virginia bus map
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=Qd9hv_aSZLa3jvhnDKBMAA..

Bus timetables are available:

DC
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=k01kPSTvklA8ONF20o0oLA..

Maryland
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=8uAFlDEcg0pOE2UvecxgkQ..

Virginia
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=zwWofDKXtfxHJhSP8HFLbw..

~ PLEASE DONATE TODAY - WE CAN'T DO IT WITHOUT YOUR HELP ~

The ANSWER Coalition has provided thousands of dollars as a scholarship to help Iraq veterans and other veterans get on the bus to join the September 15 protest. Thousands of Iraq war veterans want to join the protest. The biggest obstacle is lack of money. If you cannot come to Washington DC yourself but would like to provide a transportation subsidy for others, you can do so by clicking this link to make a generous donation: http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=-hHITOQkgiKlYKEylfPvAg..

~ GET INVOLVED ~

100 transportation centers - Get on the bus! Click here for more information: http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=QEy1xG7JGM_qfcYehhBdrA..

To organize transportation, click here: http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=3n8sriEIfZRRzKtmaQAs_g..

To become a volunteer, click here: http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=tFbZNDI8hy_OEf9j8-LcqA..

To endorse the march, click here:. http://www.pephost.org/site/R?iMRr4twLrT7hCAlvIof4xw..

To download Sept. 15 literature, click here: http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=ptL-AcO6iIC0iVbXffo6xw..

To order Sept. 15 literature, click here: http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=jl8ed4sy1uxqwQAxpStUfg..

BE SURE TO CHECK OUT
www.Sept15.org
http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=fPKYxvJzqzZJ8EZ8lyin8w..

****

A.N.S.W.E.R. Coalition
www.answercoalition.org
[redacted]
National Office in Washington DC: [redacted]
New York City: [redacted]
Los Angeles: [redacted]
San Francisco: [redacted]
Chicago: [redacted]

If this message was forwarded to you and you'd like to receive future ANSWER updates, click here: http://www.pephost.org/site/R?i=w35PLEBUrRnBiwYWCw6B9g..

http://www.pephost.org/site/CO?i=ckAGL-1k9bERhesudE_w4W68cuqxNplC&cid61

"I go only where my own steps will take me."

José Régio, in "Black Chant" ("Cântico Negro")

↑ Index

716. Mary Kasimor
Re: ever since the 3rd anniversary of our American invasion of Iraq
Thu 30 Aug 2007

I agree that it doesn't. That was meant as sarcasm; however, many people in the US still have a childlike faith in capitalism and "the system."

George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote: On Aug 13, 2007, at 2:08 PM, Mary Kasimor wrote:

> And capitalism is supposed to make everything work, with an equal opportunity for all.

It is? I don't know anyone who supposes thus.

George Harvey Bowering
Fond of many dead people.

Building a website is a piece of cake.
Yahoo! Small Business gives you all the tools to get online.

↑ Index

717. EJOYCE
Mei-Mei BerssenBrugge contact information
Thu 30 Aug 2007

Please back-channel me.

Lisa Joyce
[redacted]

↑ Index

718. Aryanil Mukherjee
Re: MTV laureate
Thu 30 Aug 2007

He just did.....I was told.

Aryanil

-----Original Message-----
From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Barry Schwabsky
Sent: Thursday, August 30, 2007 1:43 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: MTV laureate

What.....if.....he's.....even.....reading.....this.....list.....now !

Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote: That's an amazing quote. Ah, to be read by John Ashbery! Far and above the new smartass answer I'm going to have the next time someone at a poetry slam gets bewildered and asks me who I'm supposed to be writing for, the fanboy thrill I get at speculating "I wonder if Ashbery has ever stumbled across one of my measly publications?!?!" is a fantastic reminder that the point of writing poetry is not publication, money, awards or tenured professorships, nor is it therapy, making political statements, or developing your spirituality. I suppose poetry can be used for all of those things, but i think when it comes down to it the point, for most of us who take the writing seriously, is to be read by intelligent, sympathetic eyes. Personally, I think that's as admirable as goals come.

On Wed, 29 Aug 2007, Aryanil Mukherjee wrote:

> That's a laudably bold and clear stand for a great poet any language should be > proud of.
> I remember, you wrote - "John Ashbery is America's greatest living poet, he > is also greatly misunderstood".
>
> Whether Ashbery and MTV go together is a mute point, but the "old folks > can also write" verbatim confounded me. Poets aren't soccer players, I > always thought. There are scores of old poets, both men and women, > that I can think of in a large number of languages around the world who > have written/write competent (if not good or new) poetry. Adonis, for example, > at 75+ is an outstanding example - a probable Nobel candidate for 2008.
>
> Ferlinghetti still writes good poetry (if not inspiring) at 88. So does Snyder.
> There are others, don't forget Diane di Prima.
>
> I'd like to quote Ashbery here on the challenges and virtues of older poets
> from a John Tranter (& Jacket Magazine) interview of JA from 1988 -
>
> "Also I think the fact that the older one gets - for many people, at least - > the more prolific one gets, realising there aren't the oceans of time that seem > to be stretching ahead when one was young. And one learns to use it, and > realise how precious it is."

>
> I have been working with John Ashbery for about three years now > on a self-funded translation (into Bengali) project which I recently concluded > with an interview (to appear in Kaurab, September 07) , the Bengali version > of which is due to appear in Kabisammelan, a poetry-monthly published > from Kolkata, India. Here is a little sneak preview from that interview - a > response > which I liked a lot...see that as exemplary for younger poets like us - when > asked > about if he still reads his contemporaries, JA reflects -
>
> "I don't read the work of my friends anymore (smiles)...specially my own work, > which I don't read at all. So I don't have much idea as to what New York School > poetry is like. Basically, of late I like to read the more young contemporary > poets, many of them have been influenced by me and who have then gone on to > write their own and are now influencing me. "
>
>
>
> I'll put my hands together for such an "old folk".
>
>
>
> Aryanil Mukherjee
>
>
> ----- Original Message ----- From: "Susan Webster Schultz"
>
> To:

> Sent: Wednesday, August 29, 2007 2:15 PM
> Subject: MTV laureate
>
>

>> There have been plenty of women poet laureates in recent years, among them
>> Rita Dove,
>> Louise Gluck, and others. What there have not been are gay or lesbian >> poets. So I stand >> in support of John Ashbery for MTV poet laureate! Plus he's a wonderful >> poet.
>>
>> Susan M. Schultz
>>
>> http://tinfishpress.com
>>
>>
>>
>> --
>> No virus found in this incoming message.
>> Checked by AVG Free Edition. Version: 7.5.484 / Virus Database:
>> 269.12.12/979 - Release Date: 8/29/2007 8:21 PM
>>
>>
>

↑ Index

719. ALDON L NIELSEN

Re: MTV laureate

Thu 30 Aug 2007

On Thu, Aug 30, 2007 01:43 AM, Barry Schwabsky <[redacted]> wrote:

>
>
>What.....if.....he's.....even.....reading.....this.....list.....now!
Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote: That's an amazing quote. Ah, to be read by John Ashbery!

Speaking of the Library of Congress -- Many years ago, Rod Smith walked up to John Ashbery after his reading at the LOC and handed him a copy of an early issue of AERIAL -- To my great surprise, this was followed by my only to date appearance in BEST AMERICAN POEMS, a direct result of Ashbery's reading Smith's journal -- Ashbery, like Williams, has been a life-long reader and supporter of small presses --

<<

We are enslaved by
what makes us free -- intolerable
paradox at the heart of speech.
--Robert Kelly

Sailing the blogosphere at: http://heatstrings.blogspot.com/

Aldon L. Nielsen
Kelly Professor of American Literature
The Pennsylvania State University
116 Burrowes
University Park, PA 16802-6200

[redacted]

↑ Index

720. steve russell
Re: ashbery on MTV?? why not camille paglia or Jim Carroll
Thu 30 Aug 2007

---

also, there's Jeffery McDaniel, author of The Splinter Factory. He's a fine poet, and I think he's still in his thirties. Another slammer, Patricia Smith. If I'm not mistaken, she's also a woman. I'd like to see Billy Collins or Robert Pinsky get their dignity ruffled up in a Jerry Springer exchange, find the rowdiest, most anti-authoritarian kids on the block and let them have a go at an ex poet L. Go at them HENRY ROLLINS style...

Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote:
I think Jim Carroll would be an excellent MTV laureate. Or going the other direction for someone who's more rocker than poet, Patty Smith might be a good choice.

Also, to chime in on the carroll book recommendations, anyone who hasn't read forced entries and living at the movies is missing a treat.

On Wed, 29 Aug 2007, steve russell wrote:

> either Camille or Carroll would work on MTV. Jim Carroll was, and perhaps he still is, a legit rocker. He's probably still younger then anyone in the Stones. His Catholic Boy album was one of the better pieces of vinyl produced in the eighties. He's a very good poet. Check out his "The Book of Nods." & Paglia too. She can entertain, and she's into rock and poetry, although she's not an Ashbery fan. Harold Bloom was her mentor at Yale. Bloom, Mr. Canonized himself, a guy who has always been in Ashbery's corner. Having a mouth as biting as Paglia's would be fun. Why not Carroll and Paglia?
>
> ---
> Park yourself in front of a world of choices in alternative vehicles.

> Visit the Yahoo! Auto Green Center.

Boardwalk for $500? In 2007? Ha!
Play Monopoly Here and Now (it's updated for today's economy) at Yahoo! Games.

↑ Index

721. Ruth Lepson
Re: MTV laureate
Thu 30 Aug 2007

---

one of my students at the NEng Conservatory has been taken over by poetry & Ashbery is his fave--maybe he should send him a poem, which he has hesitated to do.

On 8/30/07 11:20 AM, "ALDON L NIELSEN" <[redacted]> wrote:

> On Thu, Aug 30, 2007 01:43 AM, Barry Schwabsky <[redacted]>
> wrote:
>
> What.....if.....he's.....even.....reading.....this.....list.....now!
> Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote: That's an amazing quote. Ah, to be > read
> by John Ashbery!
>
> Speaking of the Library of Congress -- Many years ago, Rod Smith walked up to > John Ashbery after his reading at the LOC and handed him a copy of an early > issue of AERIAL -- To my great surprise, this was followed by my only to date > appearance in BEST AMERICAN POEMS, a direct result of Ashbery's reading > Smith's > journal -- Ashbery, like Williams, has been a life-long reader and supporter
> of > small presses --
>
> *<<

> >>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>
>
> We are enslaved by
> what makes us free -- intolerable
> paradox at the heart of speech.
> --Robert Kelly
>
> Sailing the blogosphere at: http://heatstrings.blogspot.com/
>
> Aldon L. Nielsen
> Kelly Professor of American Literature
> The Pennsylvania State University
> 116 Burrowes
> University Park, PA 16802-6200
>
> [redacted]

↑ Index

722. David Chirot

Re: MTV laureate: Amiri Baraka (though he'd probably not be allowed)

Thu 30 Aug 2007

I think Amiri Baraka would be a great Laureate. He's by far one of the best reader/performers i've ever seen/heard/met. Not only vocally--his accompanying himself with drumming--on a lectern last time i saw him, this Spring, when he electrified a huge young urban crowd at University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. He also gave the only talk i ever heard that made you really want to go to school, get educated and keep on educating yourself the rest of your life.

Baraka's a walking encyclopedia of Black Music and Culture and one of the greatest writers ever on the subject as well as bringing it into and keeping it real in his writing and life. The recordings he's made since the 1960's are among the best you'll ever hear by an American poet. Sonny's Time Now lp is one of my favorite recordings in any genre of all time--with "Leroi Jones", Don Cherry, Sonny Murray et al. Don Cherry turned me on to The System of Dante's Hell which remains as Pound wd say "news that stays News" to this day.

I imagine he wouldn't be allowed to be the laureate, an immense loss. He's one the great cultural figures of the last almost half century now, what the Japanese call "a National Treasure".

(I know he's controversial--but remember when and how much Cassius Clay/Muhammad Ali was? Before everybody decided they loved him--)

↑ Index

723. steve russell

Re: MTV laureate: Amiri Baraka (though he'd probably not be allowed)

Thu 30 Aug 2007

Baraka before it's too late. He is, let's face it, old. During the filming of Prairie Home Companion, Paul Anderson filled in for Altman just in case. I wish we could have a more controversial Laureate, lose the tweed factor.

David Chirot <[redacted]> wrote: I think Amiri Baraka would be a great Laureate. He's by far one of the best reader/performers i've ever seen/heard/met. Not only vocally--his accompanying himself with drumming--on a lectern last time i saw him, this Spring, when he electrified a huge young urban crowd at University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. He also gave the only talk i ever heard that made you really want to go to school, get educated and keep on educating yourself the rest of your life.

Baraka's a walking encyclopedia of Black Music and Culture and one of the greatest writers ever on the subject as well as bringing it into and keeping it real in his writing and life. The recordings he's made since the 1960's are among the best you'll ever hear by an American poet. Sonny's Time Now lp is one of my favorite recordings in any genre of all time--with "Leroi Jones", Don Cherry, Sonny Murray et al. Don Cherry turned me on to The System of Dante's Hell which remains as Pound wd say "news that stays News" to this day.

I imagine he wouldn't be allowed to be the laureate, an immense loss. He's one the great cultural figures of the last almost half century now, what the Japanese call "a National Treasure".

(I know he's controversial--but remember when and how much Cassius Clay/Muhammad Ali was? Before everybody decided they loved him--)

Pinpoint customers who are looking for what you sell.

↑ Index

724. Gabriel Gudding

the five friends and five enemies of writing

Thu 30 Aug 2007

---

aside from you and me, they are listed here:

_____

http://gabrielgudding.blogspot.com

Gabriel, enemy of writing

↑ Index

725. Thomas savage
Re: Ashbery on MTV??
Thu 30 Aug 2007

I agree. Naomi Shihab Nye would be a great candidate among current women poets. It's not a competition, fortunately or unfortunately. I don't think nominations by us or almost anybody matter much. Still, her poetry is not only outstanding, it's also incredibly accessible for a current poet of major importance and interest. Thanks for bringing her up. I don't think I've ever seen her name mentioned on this listserv during the three years I've been on this service. Regards, Tom Savage

George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote: Could you tell a little about her? Her books, etc?

gb

On Aug 28, 2007, at 7:27 AM, Kimberley Rogers wrote:

> Is it me or are we way overdue for women to be considered for all > these recently filled Poet Laureate decisions? (Not that I think the > position is indicative of a poet's importance) Naomi Shihab Nye is an > excellent candidate for the voice of America and the voice of the MTV > generation right now. I revolt--and methinks there must be a poem > waitng to get out in me somewhere on this subject--as always.
>
> -----Original Message-----
>> From: John Tranter
>> Sent: Aug 27, 2007 6:11 PM
>> To: [redacted]
>> Subject: Ashbery on MTV??
>>
>> Hi, all:
>>
>> New York Times
>> August 27, 2007
>> An 80-Year-Old Poet for the MTV Generation
>> By MELENA RYZIK
>>
>> MtvU, the subsidiary of MTV Networks that is broadcast only on >> college campuses, will announce today that it has selected its first >> poet laureate. No, he doesn?t rap. And it?s not Bob Dylan, or even >> Justin Timberlake.

>>
>> It is John Ashbery, the prolific 80-year-old poet and frequent award >> winner known for his dense, postmodern style and playful language.
>> One of the most celebrated living poets, Mr. Ashbery has won
>> MacArthur Foundation and Guggenheim fellowships and was awarded a >> Pulitzer Prize in 1976 for his collection ?Self-Portrait in a Convex >> Mirror.?
>>
>> ... more here:
>>
>> http://www.nytimes.com/2007/08/27/books/27laur.html?
>> ex=1188878400&en=c4e34a79300ffe48&ei=5070&emc=eta1
>>
>> (you may need to repair the break in the URL).
>>
>> ----------
>> John Tranter
>
>
Mr. G. Bowering
Literature maker to the stars.

Building a website is a piece of cake.
Yahoo! Small Business gives you all the tools to get online.

↑ Index

726. Jennifer Karmin
SUBMISSIONS: Hyperrhiz
Thu 30 Aug 2007

Hyperrhiz: New Media Cultures. Issue 04: e-Lit

Hyperrhiz, the peer-reviewed new media satellite site of Rhizomes: Cultural Studies in Emerging Knowledge, is seeking web-based electronic literature/poetry/art contributions for its fourth issue.

We especially encourage works of or responding to "e-lit" for this special topic issue. Hyperrhiz can be viewed at http://www.hyperrhiz.net.

All contributions will be fully refereed by an editorial board. Accepted contributions will be prepared for web presentation in conjunction with the technical editors.

Abstracts or demo materials can be submitted via URL or burned to CD, and should be sent to the editors by 1st October, 2007.

Preference will be given to projects which are substantially or fully completed. Full accepted contributions should be completed and sent to the editors by 15th November, 2007.

Submission to Hyperrhiz should be in a format that is user-friendly and accessible. All submissions, in addition to undergoing blind review, will be assessed for their usability, accessibility and adherence to technical conventions. Projects can be submitted via URL or burned to CD.

URL submissions may be sent to
[redacted]

CD submissions may be sent to:
Helen J Burgess, Department of English University of Maryland Baltimore County
1000 Hilltop Circle, Baltimore, MD 21210

Sick sense of humor? Visit Yahoo! TV's
Comedy with an Edge to see what's on, when.
http://tv.yahoo.com/collections/222

↑ Index

727. David Chirot

ABC News: In Rare Move, Texas Gov. Commutes Inmate's Death Sentence

Thu 30 Aug 2007

http://abcnews.go.com/TheLaw/story?id=3541391&page=1 ---

↑ Index

728. Diane DiPrima
Re: the five friends and five enemies of writing
Thu 30 Aug 2007

Thanks for these! Diane di Prima

> From: Gabriel Gudding <[redacted]>
> Reply-To: UB Poetics discussion group <[redacted]>
> Date: Thu, 30 Aug 2007 13:32:27 -0500
> To: <[redacted]>
> Subject: the five friends and five enemies of writing
>
> aside from you and me, they are listed here:
>
> _____
> http://gabrielgudding.blogspot.com
> ----------
> Gabriel, enemy of writing

↑ Index

729. Matt Henriksen
Friday! Frank Sherlock & David Shapiro in NYC!
Thu 30 Aug 2007

The Burning Chair Readings

invite you to never be sad

w/

The Burning Chair Readings

invite you to never be sad

w/

Frank Sherlock & David Shapiro

(Philly Style meets New York School)

celebrating the recent release of David Shapiro's New and Selected Poems (1965-2006)

& the debut of Frank Sherlock's Wounds in an Imaginary Nature Show

Friday, August 31st, 8PM

Jimmy's No.43 Stage

43 East 7th Street

Between 2nd& 3rd

New York City

($5 donation suggested but not required)

David Shapiro's New and Selected Poems (1965-2006) emerged from Overlook Press in 2007. In addition to his many books, Shapiro has published art criticism and poetry in The New Yorker, The Paris Review, and Artforum. He has received a fellowship from the National Endowment for the Arts, the Zabel Prize for Experimental Poetry from the American Academy of Arts and Letters, and a nomination for a National Book Award in 1971. He has edited volumes of aesthetics, translated Alberti's poems about Picasso, collaborated with Rudy Burckhardt on three films, and had a play produced at the Kitchen, co-authored with Stephen Paul Miller, called "Harrisburg Mon Amour or Two Boys on the Bus." A professional violinist in his youth, he now writes in Riverdale, New York, where he lives with his wife Lindsay.

Frank Sherlock is the author of Wounds in an Imaginary Nature Show (Night Flag Press), Spring Diet of Flowers at Night (Mooncalf Press), ISO (furniture press) and 13 (Ixnay Press). Past collaborations include work with CAConrad, Jennifer Coleman, and sound artist Alex Welsh. Publication of his most recent collaborative poem with Brett Evans, entitled Ready-to-Eat Individual is forthcoming in the near future.

___ Fussy? Opinionated? Impossible to please? Perfect. Join Yahoo!'s user panel and lay it on us. http://surveylink.yahoo.com/gmrs/yahoo_panel_invite.asp?a=7

↑ Index

730. Jason Quackenbush
Re: MTV laureate
Thu 30 Aug 2007

hm, talk about shameful fannish paranoia. I'm going to pretend that mr. ashbery is unaware of the existence of this list in order to prevent my self from constantly thinking "I better make sure this sounds good, i don't want Ashbery (or anyone else for that matter) to think I'm an idiot."

actually, that might be a good thing. one should probably always consider what one is about to say is going to make one look like an imbecile. I've never really had that particular gag reflex, unfortunately.

On Thu, 30 Aug 2007, Barry Schwabsky wrote:

> What.....if.....he's.....even.....reading.....this.....list.....now!
>
> Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote: That's an amazing quote. Ah, to be read by John Ashbery! Far and above the new smartass answer I'm going to have the next time someone at a poetry slam gets bewildered and asks me who I'm supposed to be writing for, the fanboy thrill I get at speculating "I wonder if Ashbery has ever stumbled across one of my measly publications?!?!" is a fantastic reminder that the point of writing poetry is not publication, money, awards or tenured professorships, nor is it therapy, making political statements, or developing your spirituality. I suppose poetry can be used for all of those things, but i think when it comes down to it the point, for most of us who take the writing seriously, is to be read by intelligent, sympathetic eyes. Personally, I think that's as admirable as goals come.

On Wed, 29 Aug 2007, Aryanil Mukherjee wrote:

That's a laudably bold and clear stand for a great poet any language should be proud of.
I remember, you wrote - "John Ashbery is America's greatest living poet, he is also greatly misunderstood".

Whether Ashbery and MTV go together is a mute point, but the "old folks can also write" verbatim confounded me. Poets aren't soccer players, I always thought. There are scores of old poets, both men and women, that I can think of in a large number of languages around the world who have written/write competent (if not good or new) poetry. Adonis, for example, at 75+ is an outstanding example - a probable Nobel candidate for 2008.

Ferlinghetti still writes good poetry (if not inspiring) at 88. So does Snyder. There are others, don't forget Diane di Prima.

I'd like to quote Ashbery here on the challenges and virtues of older poets from a John Tranter (& Jacket Magazine) interview of JA from 1988 -

"Also I think the fact that the older one gets - for many people, at least - the more prolific one gets, realising there aren't the oceans of time that seem to be stretching ahead when one was young. And one learns to use it, and realise how precious it is."

I have been working with John Ashbery for about three years now on a self-funded translation (into Bengali) project which I recently concluded with an interview (to appear in Kaurab, September 07) , the Bengali version of which is due to appear in Kabisammelan, a poetry-monthly published from Kolkata, India. Here is a little sneak preview from that interview - a response which I liked a lot...see that as exemplary for younger poets like us - when asked about if he still reads his contemporaries, JA reflects -

"I don't read the work of my friends anymore (smiles)...specially my own work, which I don't read at all. So I don't have much idea as to what New York School poetry is like. Basically, of late I like to read the more young contemporary poets, many of them have been influenced by me and who have then gone on to write their own and are now influencing me. "

I'll put my hands together for such an "old folk".

Aryanil Mukherjee

----- Original Message ----- From: "Susan Webster Schultz"

To:

Sent: Wednesday, August 29, 2007 2:15 PM
Subject: MTV laureate

There have been plenty of women poet laureates in recent years, among them Rita Dove, Louise Gluck, and others. What there have not been are gay or lesbian poets. So I stand in support of John Ashbery for MTV poet laureate! Plus he's a wonderful poet.

Susan M. Schultz

http://tinfishpress.com

--
No virus found in this incoming message.
Checked by AVG Free Edition. Version: 7.5.484 / Virus Database: 269.12.12/979 - Release Date: 8/29/2007 8:21 PM

↑ Index

731. Diane DiPrima
Re: ABC News: In Rare Move, Texas Gov. Commutes Inmate's Death Sentence
Thu 30 Aug 2007

Yayy! One can but hope that the tide may be finally turning. . .

Diane di Prima

> From: David Chirot <[redacted]>
> Reply-To: UB Poetics discussion group <[redacted]>
> Date: Thu, 30 Aug 2007 11:58:24 -0700
> To: <[redacted]>
> Subject: ABC News: In Rare Move, Texas Gov. Commutes Inmate's Death Sentence
>
> http://abcnews.go.com/TheLaw/story?id=3541391&page=1 ---

↑ Index

732. Barry Schwabsky
Re: the five friends and five enemies of writing
Thu 30 Aug 2007

Curiosuly, the enemies of your writing are the friends of mine!

Gabriel Gudding <[redacted]> wrote: aside from you and me, they are listed here:

_____
http://gabrielgudding.blogspot.com

Gabriel, enemy of writing

↑ Index

733. Joel Weishaus
links page call
Thu 30 Aug 2007

As September is almost upon us, I'm putting out the sometimes word on the list of links I keep for Portland State University's English Department. This is a list mainly of on-line literary journals with legs, and personal sites and blogs of digital literary artists, along with some research sites. As it's on a public university's server, no sites that have anything for sale are allowed. If you want to be added to this list, which I'm happy to hear is quite popular around the Net, please let me know: [redacted]

The page is at: http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/cew/cew.htm

Thanks,
Joel

↑ Index

734. Ruth Lepson
Re: the five friends and five enemies of writing
Thu 30 Aug 2007

yes, these are the exers. students should read. and do.

On 8/30/07 3:33 PM, "Diane DiPrima" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Thanks for these! Diane di Prima
>
> From: Gabriel Gudding <[redacted]>
> Reply-To: UB Poetics discussion group <[redacted]>
> Date: Thu, 30 Aug 2007 13:32:27 -0500
> To: <[redacted]>
> Subject: the five friends and five enemies of writing
>
> aside from you and me, they are listed here:
>
> _____
> http://gabrielgudding.blogspot.com
> ----------
> Gabriel, enemy of writing

↑ Index

735. Jason Quackenbush
Re: the five friends and five enemies of writing
Thu 30 Aug 2007

I agree with most of your enemies, but in my experience your friends Effort Concentration and Awareness are like the salesmen of the enemies, pushing them on us like a drug. "Hey kid," says Awareness, "Howzabout you and me go over here and smoke us some doubt." "Good idea," says Concentration, "and while we're at it I've got some liquid Craving we can drop, and I'm sure my buddy Awareness has some powdered A&A we could snort." "A&A" says Effort. "What's that?" "It's a speedball of Aversion and Agitation, that gives rise to Apathy which is almost as good as being blissed out on Sloth, but cheaper."

to counter this effect, I have learned to make a friend of the wu-wei of writing. of writing without writing. not writing effortlessly, not exerting oneself to effortlessness, but rather through a holistic cultivation of the sloth alkaloid which can be profitably extracted from sick days, three day weekends, and late nights watching DVDs of old movies. A much maligned but endlessly useful entheogen, I have found that sloth, if not abused, can be used to transcend the efforts of Effort and Co. to move into a mystical state of notwriting in which my best writing is always produced.

Of course, it's difficult to be in this state, and difficult to move away from it, because again in my experience, the more you try not to write the less writing actually gets done. Note that this is not counter intuitive.

The end method, if it can be called such a thing, is to attempt to cultivate an activity in which one is neither writing nor notwriting. It is in this state that notwriting will begin, so long as you don't overdose on sloth and unintentionally give way to intention.

The danger exists, of course, of becoming a sloth junkie, and those of us who have learned how to ride that particular horse have all fallen by the wayside from time to time, spending months, sometimes years strung out on the stuff. But then, that's when you really have to turn to Aversion and Agitation to straighten out and get back on the path...

On Thu, 30 Aug 2007, Gabriel Gudding wrote:

> aside from you and me, they are listed here:
>
> _____
> http://gabrielgudding.blogspot.com
> ----------
> Gabriel, enemy of writing

↑ Index

736. David Chirot

"Arabic as a Terrorist Language" and "National Islamo-Fascism Awareness Week" coming to 200 Campuses in USA in October

Thu 30 Aug 2007

The First Amendment is the first "security" and Protection Under the Law Americans and residents in USA are supposed to have, yet as the translation of the Guantanamo poetry shows, there is a rampant suspicion that foreign languages, especially Arabic, are automatically "suspect" the moment they are spoken, written, read and taught. (The huge storm over an Arabic language school in NYC for example.) Fear of illegal aliens from Mexico especially is in part due to a fear for the "National Language of America" (English) having to rub shoulders with a rapidly growing number of Spanish and bi-lingual citizens if the illegals "are allowed to have their way/say." Now, coming to a campus near you in October, will be National Islamo-Fascism Awareness Week--further coupling Islam and Terror and adding on the Arabic language for ever increased vigilance and "Homeland Security." The War on Terror turning into a War on a Language becomes a threat to Freedom of Speech. Ironically, insanely, rather than simply fighting the War "over there" so it will not come "here," the War against "the Arabic-Islamo-Terrorism" World (all three being equated as one) is being brought straight into the American schools, Universities, Campuses as well as two in Israel. Suddenly Hate Speech is "defending" the country against Freedom of Speech. Welcome to the Land of the Brave & the Home of the Free.

http://davidbaptistechirot.blogspot.com/2007/08/war-on-terror-in-american-schools-and.html

"Guide" and introduction plus list of the 200 US and 2 Israeli participating campuses:
http://www.terrorismawareness.org/islamo-fascism/49/a-students-guide-to-hosting-islamo-fascism-awareness-week/

"Arabic is the Language of Terrorism"
http://www.zmag.org/content/showarticle.cfm?SectionID=30&ItemID=13639

↑ Index

737. Tom W. Lewis
Poison Pad
Thu 30 Aug 2007

---

new novel on looseleaf paper, by a friend of mine here in Minnesota:

POISON PAD by Dave Kunz

for sale at this site:

http://www.lamano21.com/ <http://www.lamano21.com/>

the distributor's commentary:

man, these sort of unsolicited "WHAT THE HELL?!?" items make my world go round: a 1" loosleaf stack of 1/4 size sheets of crappy paper (in a nice handmade cardboard box), defined as "A Notepad Novella" and "Disposable Fiction". you open it up. the first page is the "Users Manual", to wit;

"1. Remove entire POISON PAD from box cover. 2. Read first panel. 3.Flip panel over, place to the side. 4. Repeat until done. 5. Re-read or use blank side as note paper. 6. In case of paper cut please do not contact an attorney."

next page reads

"Not that it matters but everything that follows was found stuffed inside an old beercase behind a falling down garage in an alley next to a garbage bin."

what follows story is told through copies of notes between roommates of a house scrawled on junk mail, photocopies of the contents of a wallet, personal notes, and whatever else...it all comes together as a story with just the right combination of hilarious and upsetting, and i've never seen anything quite like it in my life. i'll be damned if i'm gonna use mine as a notepad, but maybe you will. each box seems to be numbered and personalized. highly reccomended.

↑ Index

738. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: the five friends and five enemies of writing
Thu 30 Aug 2007

Jason,

You remind me of my readings of "The Pilgrim's Progress."

Murat

On 8/30/07, Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> I agree with most of your enemies, but in my experience your friends > Effort Concentration and Awareness are like the salesmen of the enemies, > pushing them on us like a drug. "Hey kid," says Awareness, "Howzabout you > and me go over here and smoke us some doubt." "Good idea," says > Concentration, "and while we're at it I've got some liquid Craving we can > drop, and I'm sure my buddy Awareness has some powdered A&A we could snort."
> "A&A" says Effort. "What's that?" "It's a speedball of Aversion and > Agitation, that gives rise to Apathy which is almost as good as being > blissed out on Sloth, but cheaper."
>
> to counter this effect, I have learned to make a friend of the wu-wei of > writing. of writing without writing. not writing effortlessly, not exerting > oneself to effortlessness, but rather through a holistic cultivation of the > sloth alkaloid which can be profitably extracted from sick days, three day > weekends, and late nights watching DVDs of old movies. A much maligned
but > endlessly useful entheogen, I have found that sloth, if not abused, can be > used to transcend the efforts of Effort and Co. to move into a mystical > state of notwriting in which my best writing is always produced.
>
> Of course, it's difficult to be in this state, and difficult to move away > from it, because again in my experience, the more you try not to write the > less writing actually gets done. Note that this is not counter intuitive.
>
> The end method, if it can be called such a thing, is to attempt to > cultivate an activity in which one is neither writing nor notwriting. It is > in this state that notwriting will begin, so long as you don't overdose on > sloth and unintentionally give way to intention.

>
> The danger exists, of course, of becoming a sloth junkie, and those of us > who have learned how to ride that particular horse have all fallen by the > wayside from time to time, spending months, sometimes years strung out on > the stuff. But then, that's when you really have to turn to Aversion and > Agitation to straighten out and get back on the path...
>
> On Thu, 30 Aug 2007, Gabriel Gudding wrote:
>
> > aside from you and me, they are listed here:
> > _____
> > http://gabrielgudding.blogspot.com
> > ----------
> > Gabriel, enemy of writing
> >
>

↑ Index

739. Elizabeth Switaj

Re: MTV laureate

Thu 30 Aug 2007

The longer this goes on, the more John Ashbery starts to sound like God.

Elizabeth Kate Switaj
www.elizabethkateswitaj.net

On 8/31/07, Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> hm, talk about shameful fannish paranoia. I'm going to pretend that mr.
> ashbery is unaware of the existence of this list in order to prevent my self > from constantly thinking "I better make sure this sounds good, i don't want > Ashbery (or anyone else for that matter) to think I'm an idiot."
>
> actually, that might be a good thing. one should probably always consider > what one is about to say is going to make one look like an imbecile. I've > never really had that particular gag reflex, unfortunately.
>
> On Thu, 30 Aug 2007, Barry Schwabsky wrote:
>

> >
> What.....if.....he's.....even.....reading.....this.....list.....now!
> >
> > Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote: That's an amazing quote. Ah, to > be read by John Ashbery! Far and above the new smartass answer I'm going
to > have the next time someone at a poetry slam gets bewildered and asks me who > I'm supposed to be writing for, the fanboy thrill I get at speculating "I > wonder if Ashbery has ever stumbled across one of my measly > publications?!?!" is a fantastic reminder that the point of writing poetry > is not publication, money, awards or tenured professorships, nor is it > therapy, making political statements, or developing your spirituality. I > suppose poetry can be used for all of those things, but i think when it > comes down to it the point, for most of us who take the writing seriously, > is to be read by intelligent, sympathetic eyes. Personally, I think that's > as admirable as goals come.
> >
> >
> > On Wed, 29 Aug 2007, Aryanil Mukherjee wrote:
> >
> >> That's a laudably bold and clear stand for a great poet any language > should be
> >> proud of.
> >> I remember, you wrote - "John Ashbery is America's greatest living > poet, he > >> is also greatly misunderstood".
> >>
> >> Whether Ashbery and MTV go together is a mute point, but the "old folks > >> can also write" verbatim confounded me. Poets aren't soccer players, I > >> always thought. There are scores of old poets, both men and women, > >> that I can think of in a large number of languages around the world who > >> have written/write competent (if not good or new) poetry. Adonis, for > example,
> >> at 75+ is an outstanding example - a probable Nobel candidate for 2008.
> >>
> >> Ferlinghetti still writes good poetry (if not inspiring) at 88. So does > Snyder.
> >> There are others, don't forget Diane di Prima.
> >>
> >> I'd like to quote Ashbery here on the challenges and virtues of older > poets

> >> from a John Tranter (& Jacket Magazine) interview of JA from 1988 -
> >>
> >> "Also I think the fact that the older one gets - for many people, at > least -
> >> the more prolific one gets, realising there aren't the oceans of time > that seem > >> to be stretching ahead when one was young. And one learns to use it,
> and
> >> realise how precious it is."
> >>
> >> I have been working with John Ashbery for about three years now > >> on a self-funded translation (into Bengali) project which I recently
> concluded > >> with an interview (to appear in Kaurab, September 07) , the Bengali > version
> >> of which is due to appear in Kabisammelan, a poetry-monthly published > >> from Kolkata, India. Here is a little sneak preview from that interview
> - a
> >> response
> >> which I liked a lot...see that as exemplary for younger poets like us -
> when
> >> asked > >> about if he still reads his contemporaries, JA reflects -
> >>
> >> "I don't read the work of my friends anymore (smiles)...specially my
> own work,
> >> which I don't read at all. So I don't have much idea as to what New > York School
> >> poetry is like. Basically, of late I like to read the more young > contemporary > >> poets, many of them have been influenced by me and who have then gone
> on to > >> write their own and are now influencing me. "
> >>
> >>
> >>
> >> I'll put my hands together for such an "old folk".
> >>
> >>
> >>
> >> Aryanil Mukherjee
> >>

> >>
> >> ----- Original Message ----- From: "Susan Webster Schultz"
> >>
> >> To:
> >
> >> Sent: Wednesday, August 29, 2007 2:15 PM
> >> Subject: MTV laureate
> >>
> >>
> >>> There have been plenty of women poet laureates in recent years, among > them
> >>> Rita Dove,
> >>> Louise Gluck, and others. What there have not been are gay or lesbian > >>> poets. So I stand > >>> in support of John Ashbery for MTV poet laureate! Plus he's a > wonderful
> >>> poet.
> >>>
> >>> Susan M. Schultz
> >>>
> >>> http://tinfishpress.com
> >>>
> >>>
> >>>
> >>> --
> >>> No virus found in this incoming message.
> >>> Checked by AVG Free Edition. Version: 7.5.484 / Virus Database:
> >>> 269.12.12/979 - Release Date: 8/29/2007 8:21 PM
> >>>
> >>>
> >>
> >
>

↑ Index

740. reJennifer Bartlett
Cid Corman/ Mary Higgins
Thu 30 Aug 2007

On SES blog. An old letter I recently found from Cid Corman & thinking of Mary Higgins.

saintelizabethstreet.blogspot.com

JB

A new home for Mom, no cleanup required. All starts here.
http://www.reallivemoms.com?ocid=TXT_TAGHM&loc=us

↑ Index

741. Tom Beckett
New at E-X-C-H-A-N-G-E-V-A-L-U-E-S...
Thu 30 Aug 2007

---

an Interview with Stephen Vincent. Go here:
http://willtoexchange.blogspot.com

* Get a sneak peek of the all-new AOL at http://discover.aol.com/memed/aolcom30tour

↑ Index

742. Pierre Joris
Re: ABC News: In Rare Move, Texas Gov. Commutes Inmate's Death Sentence
Thu 30 Aug 2007

Yeah, right on! -- Pierre
On Aug 30, 2007, at 2:58 PM, David Chirot wrote:

> http://abcnews.go.com/TheLaw/story?id=3541391&page=1 ---

The poet: always in partibus infidelium -- Paul Celan

Pierre Joris
244 Elm Street
Albany NY 12202
h: [redacted]
c: [redacted]
o: 518 442 40 71
Euro cell: (011 33) 6 75 43 57 10
email: [redacted]
http://pierrejoris.com
Nomadics blog: http://pjoris.blogspot.com

↑ Index

743. Alan Sondheim
Re: Five Enemies,
Thu 30 Aug 2007

Five Enemies

Doubt: Three kinds of doubt:

Doubt in oneself; doubt in the efficacy and usefulness of writing in general; doubt in the writing project before one.

>> It's the opposite for me; if I didn't doubt almost to the point of annihilation, I couldn't work at all. It's intrinsic in the process.

Aversion (ill will, anger): I dont want to do this. I dont want to write right now. Writing is stupid. This project is stupid. I dont feel like writing right now. I hate writing in general. I hate this whole book idea. This task is boring. I dont like this aspect of that. I dont like that aspect of this. I dont like, I dont like, I dont like.

> The same. As PIL says Anger is an energy. I need it.

Craving: Two kinds.

Extrinsic: Desiring to do something else. Desiring a state that is not present. I want to do something else, watch a movie, I want to go bicycling instead of writing.

>> But I do! Writing is too difficult and the sooner I get it sent off, the sooner I can breathe again.

Intrinsic: Craving an outcome from the writing itself. I want to have this outcome from this writing NOW or SOON or like next week, I want to write a masterpiece now, I want to write a great line now, I want to write a great paragraph now. And we become disappointed because we inevitably crave more than we acquire.

>> I absolutely believe this. I want to write masterpieces / mistress-pieces, period. Anything else, I lose energy. I might live in disappointment but the craving drives me.

Agitation (restlessness, worry): This is boring. Im bored. Gyawd, Ive got to write ALL THESE words??!

>> And agitation, yes, writing in a state of fury or despair or the sense of total destruction, yes.

Sloth, Laziness: General lassitude leading to inaction and inanition. Nothing written, nothing discovered, nothing made.

>> This is the only one I agree on; if you don't have the energy, you're silent, which is not necessarily a bad thing and might lead to something terrific day after tomorrow.

For me there are NO enemies to writing except for internal or external States that prohibit taking up the pen or keyboard.

- Alan

↑ Index

744. charles alexander
Re: MTV laureate
Thu 30 Aug 2007

---

yes, and isn't he really just one of us?

charles

At 04:31 PM 8/30/2007, you wrote:
>The longer this goes on, the more John Ashbery starts to sound like God.
>
>Elizabeth Kate Switaj
>www.elizabethkateswitaj.net
>
>On 8/31/07, Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote:
> >
> > hm, talk about shameful fannish paranoia. I'm going to pretend that mr.
> > ashbery is unaware of the existence of this list in order to > prevent my self
> > from constantly thinking "I better make sure this sounds good, i don't want > > Ashbery (or anyone else for that matter) to think I'm an idiot."
> >
> > actually, that might be a good thing. one should probably always consider > > what one is about to say is going to make one look like an imbecile. I've > > never really had that particular gag reflex, unfortunately.
> >
> > On Thu, 30 Aug 2007, Barry Schwabsky wrote:
> >
> > >
> >
> What.....if.....he's.....even.....reading.....this.....list.....now!
> > >
> > > Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote: That's an amazing quote. Ah, to > > be read by John Ashbery! Far and above the new smartass answer I'm going to > > have the next time someone at a poetry slam gets bewildered and asks me who > > I'm supposed to be writing for, the fanboy thrill I get at speculating "I > > wonder if Ashbery has ever stumbled across one of my measly > > publications?!?!" is a fantastic reminder that the point of writing poetry

> > is not publication, money, awards or tenured professorships, nor is it > > therapy, making political statements, or developing your spirituality. I > > suppose poetry can be used for all of those things, but i think when it > > comes down to it the point, for most of us who take the writing seriously, > > is to be read by intelligent, sympathetic eyes. Personally, I think that's > > as admirable as goals come.
> > >
> > >
> > > On Wed, 29 Aug 2007, Aryanil Mukherjee wrote:
> > >
> > >> That's a laudably bold and clear stand for a great poet any language
> > should be
> > >> proud of.
> > >> I remember, you wrote - "John Ashbery is America's greatest living
> > poet, he > > >> is also greatly misunderstood".
> > >>
> > >> Whether Ashbery and MTV go together is a mute point, but the "old folks > > >> can also write" verbatim confounded me. Poets aren't soccer players, I > > >> always thought. There are scores of old poets, both men and women, > > >> that I can think of in a large number of languages around the world who > > >> have written/write competent (if not good or new) poetry. Adonis, for > > example,
> > >> at 75+ is an outstanding example - a probable Nobel candidate for 2008.
> > >>
> > >> Ferlinghetti still writes good poetry (if not inspiring) at 88. So does > > Snyder.
> > >> There are others, don't forget Diane di Prima.
> > >>
> > >> I'd like to quote Ashbery here on the challenges and virtues of older
> > poets
> > >> from a John Tranter (& Jacket Magazine) interview of JA from 1988 -
> > >>
> > >> "Also I think the fact that the older one gets - for many people, at > > least -

> > >> the more prolific one gets, realising there aren't the oceans of time
> > that seem > > >> to be stretching ahead when one was young. And one learns to use it,
> > and
> > >> realise how precious it is."
> > >>
> > >> I have been working with John Ashbery for about three years now > > >> on a self-funded translation (into Bengali) project which I recently
> > concluded
> > >> with an interview (to appear in Kaurab, September 07) , the Bengali > > version
> > >> of which is due to appear in Kabisammelan, a poetry-monthly published > > >> from Kolkata, India. Here is a little sneak preview from that interview
> > - a
> > >> response
> > >> which I liked a lot...see that as exemplary for younger poets like us -
> > when
> > >> asked > > >> about if he still reads his contemporaries, JA reflects -
> > >>
> > >> "I don't read the work of my friends anymore (smiles)...specially my
> > own work,
> > >> which I don't read at all. So I don't have much idea as to what New > > York School
> > >> poetry is like. Basically, of late I like to read the more young > > contemporary > > >> poets, many of them have been influenced by me and who have then gone
> > on to > > >> write their own and are now influencing me. "
> > >>
> > >>
> > >>
> > >> I'll put my hands together for such an "old folk".
> > >>
> > >>
> > >>
> > >> Aryanil Mukherjee
> > >>
> > >>
> > >> ----- Original Message ----- From: "Susan Webster Schultz"

> > >>
> > >> To:
> > >
> > >> Sent: Wednesday, August 29, 2007 2:15 PM
> > >> Subject: MTV laureate
> > >>
> > >>
> > >>> There have been plenty of women poet laureates in recent years, among > > them
> > >>> Rita Dove,
> > >>> Louise Gluck, and others. What there have not been are gay or lesbian > > >>> poets. So I stand > > >>> in support of John Ashbery for MTV poet laureate! Plus he's a > > wonderful
> > >>> poet.
> > >>>
> > >>> Susan M. Schultz
> > >>>
> > >>> http://tinfishpress.com
> > >>>
> > >>>
> > >>>
> > >>> --
> > >>> No virus found in this incoming message.
> > >>> Checked by AVG Free Edition. Version: 7.5.484 / Virus Database:
> > >>> 269.12.12/979 - Release Date: 8/29/2007 8:21 PM
> > >>>
> > >>>
> > >>
> > >
> >

charles alexander / chax press

fold the book inside the book keep it open always read from the inside out speak then

Chax Press
[redacted] (studio)
[redacted] (cell)
[redacted]
chax.org

650 E. 9th St.
Tucson, AZ 85705

↑ Index

745. Gabriel Gudding
Re: friends
Thu 30 Aug 2007

---

i think i agree with you on all yr points, alan

in fact, i don't disagree, really, with anything you say below. i'm with you in all these points. this was written for some undergraduates who are not yet used to writing and whose writing concerns are sometimes on a different order than yours perhaps most often are. i agree that these things can act as goads -- and if anything, for me, they are sometimes the ways my heart and mind find their way again to flourishing. for some folks though, i think they can become complete impediments. otherwise, yes, doubt of a certain kind is essential; not wanting is essential; wanting is essential; rhythmical inaction and inanition are essential. these all, so long as we continue to make the effort, enrich us if we refuse to allow them to destroy us. thx for yr response, alan, and may i say how happy i am to be here with you. love, g

thanks, diane, for yr kind response. - gabriel

<<Five Enemies

Doubt: Three kinds of doubt:

Doubt in oneself; doubt in the efficacy and usefulness of writing in general; doubt in the writing project before one.

>> It's the opposite for me; if I didn't doubt almost to the point of annihilation, I couldn't work at all. It's intrinsic in the process.

Aversion (ill will, anger): I dont want to do this. I dont want to write right now. Writing is stupid. This project is stupid. I dont feel like writing right now. I hate writing in general. I hate this whole book idea. This task is boring. I dont like this aspect of that. I dont like that aspect of this. I dont like, I dont like, I dont like.

> The same. As PIL says Anger is an energy. I need it.

Craving: Two kinds.

Extrinsic: Desiring to do something else. Desiring a state that is not present. I want to do something else, watch a movie, I want to go bicycling instead of writing.

>> But I do! Writing is too difficult and the sooner I get it sent off, the sooner I can breathe again.

Intrinsic: Craving an outcome from the writing itself. I want to have this outcome from this writing NOW or SOON or like next week, I want to write a masterpiece now, I want to write a great line now, I want to write a great paragraph now. And we become disappointed because we inevitably crave more than we acquire.

>> I absolutely believe this. I want to write masterpieces / mistress-pieces, period. Anything else, I lose energy. I might live in disappointment but the craving drives me.

Agitation (restlessness, worry): This is boring. Im bored. Gyawd, Ive got to write ALL THESE words??!

>> And agitation, yes, writing in a state of fury or despair or the sense of total destruction, yes.

Sloth, Laziness: General lassitude leading to inaction and inanition. Nothing written, nothing discovered, nothing made.

>> This is the only one I agree on; if you don't have the energy, you're silent, which is not necessarily a bad thing and might lead to something terrific day after tomorrow.

For me there are NO enemies to writing except for internal or external States that prohibit taking up the pen or keyboard.

- Alan

↑ Index

746. Jesse Glass

More On Dru

Fri 31 Aug 2007

On 8/30/2007, "Eric Mader" <[redacted]> wrote:

More about Dru Stroud's condition, Jesse.

> I can pass on two bits of news regarding Drew Stroud. First, that he is registered in the hospital under the name Ryu Makoto. Second, the following which I paste from an email I just got:
>
> -----The man who's name you gave me called me back today. He's been out of town. According to him, Drew has a phone in his room. [Will give number back channel].
> According to him, Drew is able to talk, though he is paralyzed. The hospital is looking to transfer him to some rehabilitiation facility in the area.

> The direct line to UCSF Mount Zion Hospital is [redacted].----
>
> I will ring tomorrow. Gloria Oden got him on the phone briefly.
>
> Eric Mader

↑ Index

747. Barry Schwabsky
Re: Five Enemies,
Fri 31 Aug 2007

Yes, exactly. And even being prevented from writing may turn out to have been a good thing, later.

Alan Sondheim <[redacted]> wrote: Five Enemies

Doubt: Three kinds of doubt:

Doubt in oneself; doubt in the efficacy and usefulness of writing in general; doubt in the writing project before one.

>> It's the opposite for me; if I didn't doubt almost to the point of annihilation, I couldn't work at all. It's intrinsic in the process.

Aversion (ill will, anger): I dont want to do this. I dont want to write right now. Writing is stupid. This project is stupid. I dont feel like writing right now. I hate writing in general. I hate this whole book idea. This task is boring. I dont like this aspect of that. I dont like that aspect of this. I dont like, I dont like, I dont like.

> The same. As PIL says Anger is an energy. I need it.

Craving: Two kinds.

Extrinsic: Desiring to do something else. Desiring a state that is not present. I want to do something else, watch a movie, I want to go bicycling instead of writing.

>> But I do! Writing is too difficult and the sooner I get it sent off, the sooner I can breathe again.

Intrinsic: Craving an outcome from the writing itself. I want to have this outcome from this writing NOW or SOON or like next week, I want to write a masterpiece now, I want to write a great line now, I want to write a great paragraph now. And we become disappointed because we inevitably crave more than we acquire.

>> I absolutely believe this. I want to write masterpieces / mistress-pieces, period. Anything else, I lose energy. I might live in disappointment but the craving drives me.

Agitation (restlessness, worry): This is boring. Im bored. Gyawd, Ive got to write ALL THESE words??!

>> And agitation, yes, writing in a state of fury or despair or the sense of total destruction, yes.

Sloth, Laziness: General lassitude leading to inaction and inanition. Nothing written, nothing discovered, nothing made.

>> This is the only one I agree on; if you don't have the energy, you're silent, which is not necessarily a bad thing and might lead to something terrific day after tomorrow.

For me there are NO enemies to writing except for internal or external States that prohibit taking up the pen or keyboard.

- Alan

↑ Index

748. George Bowering

Re: MTV laureate: Amiri Baraka (though he'd probably not be allowed)

Fri 31 Aug 2007

On Aug 30, 2007, at 11:29 AM, steve russell wrote:

> Baraka before it's too late. He is, let's face it, old.

Yikes. I must be old too, then.

G. Harry Bowering, OC
Never appreciated Jo Stafford.

↑ Index

749. George Bowering

Re: "Arabic as a Terrorist Language" and "National Islamo-Fascism Awareness Week" coming to 200 Campuses in USA in October

Fri 31 Aug 2007

Well, you are right.
But the idea of English as the national language of America is funny.
Most of America speaks Spanish, Portuguese, French, Dutch, etc.

On Aug 30, 2007, at 3:42 PM, David Chirot wrote:

> The First Amendment is the first "security" and Protection Under the > Law Americans and residents in USA are supposed to have, yet as the > translation of the Guantanamo poetry shows, there is a rampant > suspicion that foreign languages, especially Arabic, are automatically > "suspect" the moment they are spoken, written, read and taught. (The > huge storm over an Arabic language school in NYC for example.)
> Fear of illegal aliens from Mexico especially is in part due to a > fear for the "National Language of America" (English) having to rub > shoulders with a rapidly growing number of Spanish and bi-lingual > citizens if the illegals "are allowed to have their way/say."
> Now, coming to a campus near you in October, will be National > Islamo-Fascism Awareness Week--further coupling Islam and Terror and > adding on the Arabic language for ever increased vigilance and > "Homeland Security."
> The War on Terror turning into a War on a Language becomes a > threat to Freedom of Speech. Ironically, insanely, rather than > simply fighting the War "over there" so it will not come "here," the > War against "the Arabic-Islamo-Terrorism" World (all three being > equated as one) is being brought straight into the American schools, > Universities, Campuses as well as two in Israel.
> Suddenly Hate Speech is "defending" the country against Freedom > of Speech.
> Welcome to the Land of the Brave & the Home of the Free.
>
>
>
> http://davidbaptistechirot.blogspot.com/2007/08/war-on-terror-in-> american-schools-and.html
>
> "Guide" and introduction plus list of the 200 US and 2 Israeli > participating campuses:
> http://www.terrorismawareness.org/islamo-fascism/49/a-students-guide-> to-hosting-islamo-fascism-awareness-week/
> ---
> "Arabic is the Language of Terrorism"
> http://www.zmag.org/content/showarticle.cfm?SectionID=30&ItemID=13639
>
>
George Harry Bowering
Has not read Tolstoy.

↑ Index

750. Barry Schwabsky
Re: MTV laureate
Fri 31 Aug 2007

"Gabba gabba, we accept you, one of us." --The Ramones, after Tod Browning's "Freaks"

Actually, if Harold Bloom were reading this, he would probably point out that unfortunately, most of us are just one of him. (Ashbery, that is.)

charles alexander <[redacted]> wrote:
yes, and isn't he really just one of us?

charles

At 04:31 PM 8/30/2007, you wrote:
>The longer this goes on, the more John Ashbery starts to sound like God.
>
>Elizabeth Kate Switaj
>www.elizabethkateswitaj.net
>
>On 8/31/07, Jason Quackenbush wrote:
> >
> > hm, talk about shameful fannish paranoia. I'm going to pretend that mr.
> > ashbery is unaware of the existence of this list in order to > prevent my self
> > from constantly thinking "I better make sure this sounds good, i don't want > > Ashbery (or anyone else for that matter) to think I'm an idiot."
> >
> > actually, that might be a good thing. one should probably always consider > > what one is about to say is going to make one look like an imbecile. I've > > never really had that particular gag reflex, unfortunately.
> >
> > On Thu, 30 Aug 2007, Barry Schwabsky wrote:
> >
> > >
> >
> What.....if.....he's.....even.....reading.....this.....list.....now!
> > >
> > > Jason Quackenbush wrote: That's an amazing quote. Ah, to > > be read by John Ashbery! Far and above the new smartass answer I'm going to > > have the next time someone at a poetry slam gets bewildered and asks me who > > I'm supposed to be writing for, the fanboy thrill I get at speculating "I > > wonder if Ashbery has ever stumbled across one of my measly > > publications?!?!" is a fantastic reminder that the point of writing poetry

> > is not publication, money, awards or tenured professorships, nor is it > > therapy, making political statements, or developing your spirituality. I > > suppose poetry can be used for all of those things, but i think when it > > comes down to it the point, for most of us who take the writing seriously, > > is to be read by intelligent, sympathetic eyes. Personally, I think that's > > as admirable as goals come.
> > >
> > >
> > > On Wed, 29 Aug 2007, Aryanil Mukherjee wrote:
> > >
> > >> That's a laudably bold and clear stand for a great poet any language
> > should be
> > >> proud of.
> > >> I remember, you wrote - "John Ashbery is America's greatest living
> > poet, he > > >> is also greatly misunderstood".
> > >>
> > >> Whether Ashbery and MTV go together is a mute point, but the "old
folks
> > >> can also write" verbatim confounded me. Poets aren't soccer players, I > > >> always thought. There are scores of old poets, both men and women, > > >> that I can think of in a large number of languages around the world
who > > >> have written/write competent (if not good or new) poetry. Adonis, for > > example,
> > >> at 75+ is an outstanding example - a probable Nobel candidate for 2008.
> > >>
> > >> Ferlinghetti still writes good poetry (if not inspiring) at 88. So does > > Snyder.
> > >> There are others, don't forget Diane di Prima.
> > >>
> > >> I'd like to quote Ashbery here on the challenges and virtues of older
> > poets
> > >> from a John Tranter (& Jacket Magazine) interview of JA from 1988 -
> > >>
> > >> "Also I think the fact that the older one gets - for many people, at > > least -
> > >> the more prolific one gets, realising there aren't the oceans of time
> > that seem > > >> to be stretching ahead when one was young. And one learns to use it,

> > and
> > >> realise how precious it is."
> > >>
> > >> I have been working with John Ashbery for about three years now > > >> on a self-funded translation (into Bengali) project which I recently
> > concluded
> > >> with an interview (to appear in Kaurab, September 07) , the Bengali > > version
> > >> of which is due to appear in Kabisammelan, a poetry-monthly published > > >> from Kolkata, India. Here is a little sneak preview from that interview
> > - a
> > >> response
> > >> which I liked a lot...see that as exemplary for younger poets like us -
> > when
> > >> asked > > >> about if he still reads his contemporaries, JA reflects -
> > >>
> > >> "I don't read the work of my friends anymore (smiles)...specially my
> > own work,
> > >> which I don't read at all. So I don't have much idea as to what New > > York School
> > >> poetry is like. Basically, of late I like to read the more young > > contemporary > > >> poets, many of them have been influenced by me and who have then gone
> > on to > > >> write their own and are now influencing me. "
> > >>
> > >>
> > >>
> > >> I'll put my hands together for such an "old folk".
> > >>
> > >>
> > >>
> > >> Aryanil Mukherjee
> > >>
> > >>
> > >> ----- Original Message ----- From: "Susan Webster Schultz"
> > >>
> > >> To:
> > >

> > >> Sent: Wednesday, August 29, 2007 2:15 PM
> > >> Subject: MTV laureate
> > >>
> > >>
> > >>> There have been plenty of women poet laureates in recent years, among > > them
> > >>> Rita Dove,
> > >>> Louise Gluck, and others. What there have not been are gay or lesbian > > >>> poets. So I stand > > >>> in support of John Ashbery for MTV poet laureate! Plus he's a > > wonderful
> > >>> poet.
> > >>>
> > >>> Susan M. Schultz
> > >>>
> > >>> http://tinfishpress.com
> > >>>
> > >>>
> > >>>
> > >>> --
> > >>> No virus found in this incoming message.
> > >>> Checked by AVG Free Edition. Version: 7.5.484 / Virus Database:
> > >>> 269.12.12/979 - Release Date: 8/29/2007 8:21 PM
> > >>>
> > >>>
> > >>
> > >
> >

charles alexander / chax press

fold the book inside the book keep it open always
read from the inside out speak then

Chax Press
[redacted] (studio)
[redacted] (cell)
[redacted]
chax.org
650 E. 9th St.
Tucson, AZ 85705

↑ Index

751. Jason Nelson
pix pix pick-up sticks and a hunting we will go
Fri 31 Aug 2007

A bizarre board game transformed into small improvisational films.
Pix Pix Pick Up Sticks and a Hunting We Will Go http://www.secrettechnology.com/pixpix/pixpix.html
Jason Nelson

Pinpoint customers who are looking for what you sell.

↑ Index

752. Elizabeth Switaj
Re: Five Enemies
Fri 31 Aug 2007

I think that if I didn't doubt, I'd write even more crap than I do already. Maybe the diamonds that I flatter myself are in there now would still be around, but they'd be a lot harder to find. It's really that way with everything that seems to hamper writing; even sloth-- or in my case, exhaustion-- keeps me away from writing the unnecessary. The enemy of my writing is my friend. (Does that mean writing is my enemy?)

Elizabeth Kate Switaj
www.elizabethkateswitaj.net

↑ Index

753. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: Five Enemies,
Fri 31 Aug 2007

Alan,

Yours is a poetics of panics, as I think many of your most vibrant pieces are around panic.

What is that sword's edge where panic leads to energy and not paralysis?

The same way, what is the distinction between sloth and negative capability? I, on my part, these days I am full of negative capability. If it goes on another day, it'll be sloth.

In those five enemies, isn't Gabe not referring to the "internal State"?

Ciao,

Murat

On 8/30/07, Alan Sondheim < [redacted] > wrote:
>
> Five Enemies
>
> Doubt: Three kinds of doubt:
>
> Doubt in oneself; doubt in the efficacy and usefulness of writing in > general; doubt in the writing project before one.
>
> >> It's the opposite for me; if I didn't doubt almost to the point of > annihilation, I couldn't work at all. It's intrinsic in the process.
>
> Aversion (ill will, anger): I dont want to do this. I dont want to write > right now. Writing is stupid. This project is stupid. I dont feel like > writing right now. I hate writing in general. I hate this whole book idea.
> This task is boring. I dont like this aspect of that. I dont like that > aspect of this. I dont like, I dont like, I dont like.
>
> >> The same. As PIL says Anger is an energy. I need it.
>
> Craving: Two kinds.
>
> Extrinsic: Desiring to do something else. Desiring a state that is not > present. I want to do something else, watch a movie, I want to go > bicycling instead of writing.
>
> >> But I do! Writing is too difficult and the sooner I get it sent off, > the sooner I can breathe again.
>
> Intrinsic: Craving an outcome from the writing itself. I want to have this > outcome from this writing NOW or SOON or like next week, I want to write a > masterpiece now, I want to write a great line now, I want to write a great
>
> paragraph now. And we become disappointed because we inevitably crave more > than we acquire.
>
> >> I absolutely believe this. I want to write masterpieces / mistress-> pieces, period. Anything else, I lose energy. I might live in disappoint> ment but the craving drives me.

>
> Agitation (restlessness, worry): This is boring. Im bored. Gyawd, Ive got > to write ALL THESE words??!
>
> >> And agitation, yes, writing in a state of fury or despair or the sense > of total destruction, yes.
>
> Sloth, Laziness: General lassitude leading to inaction and inanition.
> Nothing written, nothing discovered, nothing made.
>
> >> This is the only one I agree on; if you don't have the energy, you're > silent, which is not necessarily a bad thing and might lead to something > terrific day after tomorrow.
>
> For me there are NO enemies to writing except for internal or external > States that prohibit taking up the pen or keyboard.
>
> - Alan
>

↑ Index

754. Alexander Dickow

me too, yup

Fri 31 Aug 2007

Jason,
I commiserate.
Amicalement,
Alex

Jason wrote:
hm, talk about shameful fannish paranoia. I'm going to pretend that mr.
 ashbery is unaware of the existence of this list in order to prevent my self from constantly thinking "I better make sure this sounds good, i don't want Ashbery (or anyone else for that matter) to think I'm an idiot."

actually, that might be a good thing. one should probably always consider what one is about to say is going to make one look like an imbecile.
 I've never really had that particular gag reflex, unfortunately.

www.alexdickow.net/blog/

> les mots! ah quel désert à la fin > merveilleux. -- Henri Droguet

↑ Index

755. Thomas savage
Re: Cid Corman/ Mary Higgins
Fri 31 Aug 2007

I love the fact that you did a thesis on Muriel Rukeyser. I've had her Collected Poems in my home for over ten years without reading it. I lacked a "key" to her poetry which I found,a week or so ago, in a marvelous poem called "The Key". Now I feel like a great fan of her work and am finally reading her book, or at least two thirds of it, from "The Key" onwards. I agree with you (or Cid Corman) that it is uneven. But when it works, it is among the best the twentieth century produced. Regards, Tom Savage reJennifer Bartlett <[redacted]> wrote: On SES blog. An old letter I recently found from Cid Corman & thinking of Mary Higgins.

saintelizabethstreet.blogspot.com

JB

_____
A new home for Mom, no cleanup required. All starts here.
http://www.reallivemoms.com?ocid=TXT_TAGHM&loc=us

Need a vacation? Get great deals to amazing places on Yahoo! Travel.

↑ Index

756. steve russell
Re: MTV laureate
Fri 31 Aug 2007

---

i'm back and forth with Ashberry. sometimes i find his stuff to be little more than day dream dribble, and too Godddamn cute for their own good. but the long poems: Flow Chart, Self Portrait, 3 poems, keep me coming back. If Ash isn't major, he's awfully innovative.

Barry Schwabsky <[redacted]> wrote:
"Gabba gabba, we accept you, one of us." --The Ramones, after Tod Browning's "Freaks"

Actually, if Harold Bloom were reading this, he would probably point out that unfortunately, most of us are just one of him. (Ashbery, that is.)

charles alexander wrote:
yes, and isn't he really just one of us?

charles

At 04:31 PM 8/30/2007, you wrote:
>The longer this goes on, the more John Ashbery starts to sound like God.
>
>Elizabeth Kate Switaj
>www.elizabethkateswitaj.net
>
>On 8/31/07, Jason Quackenbush wrote:
> >
> > hm, talk about shameful fannish paranoia. I'm going to pretend that mr.
> > ashbery is unaware of the existence of this list in order to > prevent my self
> > from constantly thinking "I better make sure this sounds good, i don't want > > Ashbery (or anyone else for that matter) to think I'm an idiot."
> >
> > actually, that might be a good thing. one should probably always consider > > what one is about to say is going to make one look like an imbecile. I've > > never really had that particular gag reflex, unfortunately.
> >
> > On Thu, 30 Aug 2007, Barry Schwabsky wrote:
> >
> > >
> >
> What.....if.....he's.....even.....reading.....this.....list.....now!
> > >
> > > Jason Quackenbush wrote: That's an amazing quote. Ah, to > > be read by John Ashbery! Far and above the new smartass answer I'm going to > > have the next time someone at a poetry slam gets bewildered and asks me who > > I'm supposed to be writing for, the fanboy thrill I get at speculating "I > > wonder if Ashbery has ever stumbled across one of my measly > > publications?!?!" is a fantastic reminder that the point of writing poetry

> > is not publication, money, awards or tenured professorships, nor is it > > therapy, making political statements, or developing your spirituality. I > > suppose poetry can be used for all of those things, but i think when it > > comes down to it the point, for most of us who take the writing seriously, > > is to be read by intelligent, sympathetic eyes. Personally, I think that's > > as admirable as goals come.
> > >
> > >
> > > On Wed, 29 Aug 2007, Aryanil Mukherjee wrote:
> > >
> > >> That's a laudably bold and clear stand for a great poet any language
> > should be
> > >> proud of.
> > >> I remember, you wrote - "John Ashbery is America's greatest living
> > poet, he > > >> is also greatly misunderstood".
> > >>
> > >> Whether Ashbery and MTV go together is a mute point, but the "old folks
> > >> can also write" verbatim confounded me. Poets aren't soccer players, I > > >> always thought. There are scores of old poets, both men and women, > > >> that I can think of in a large number of languages around the world
who > > >> have written/write competent (if not good or new) poetry. Adonis, for > > example,
> > >> at 75+ is an outstanding example - a probable Nobel candidate for 2008.
> > >>
> > >> Ferlinghetti still writes good poetry (if not inspiring) at 88. So does > > Snyder.
> > >> There are others, don't forget Diane di Prima.
> > >>
> > >> I'd like to quote Ashbery here on the challenges and virtues of older
> > poets
> > >> from a John Tranter (& Jacket Magazine) interview of JA from 1988 -
> > >>
> > >> "Also I think the fact that the older one gets - for many people, at > > least -
> > >> the more prolific one gets, realising there aren't the oceans of time
> > that seem > > >> to be stretching ahead when one was young. And one learns to use it,

> > and
> > >> realise how precious it is."
> > >>
> > >> I have been working with John Ashbery for about three years now > > >> on a self-funded translation (into Bengali) project which I recently
> > concluded
> > >> with an interview (to appear in Kaurab, September 07) , the Bengali > > version
> > >> of which is due to appear in Kabisammelan, a poetry-monthly published > > >> from Kolkata, India. Here is a little sneak preview from that interview
> > - a
> > >> response
> > >> which I liked a lot...see that as exemplary for younger poets like us -
> > when
> > >> asked > > >> about if he still reads his contemporaries, JA reflects -
> > >>
> > >> "I don't read the work of my friends anymore (smiles)...specially my
> > own work,
> > >> which I don't read at all. So I don't have much idea as to what New > > York School
> > >> poetry is like. Basically, of late I like to read the more young > > contemporary > > >> poets, many of them have been influenced by me and who have then gone
> > on to > > >> write their own and are now influencing me. "
> > >>
> > >>
> > >>
> > >> I'll put my hands together for such an "old folk".
> > >>
> > >>
> > >>
> > >> Aryanil Mukherjee
> > >>
> > >>
> > >> ----- Original Message ----- From: "Susan Webster Schultz"
> > >>
> > >> To:
> > >

> > >> Sent: Wednesday, August 29, 2007 2:15 PM
> > >> Subject: MTV laureate
> > >>
> > >>
> > >>> There have been plenty of women poet laureates in recent years, among > > them
> > >>> Rita Dove,
> > >>> Louise Gluck, and others. What there have not been are gay or lesbian > > >>> poets. So I stand > > >>> in support of John Ashbery for MTV poet laureate! Plus he's a > > wonderful
> > >>> poet.
> > >>>
> > >>> Susan M. Schultz
> > >>>
> > >>> http://tinfishpress.com
> > >>>
> > >>>
> > >>>
> > >>> --
> > >>> No virus found in this incoming message.
> > >>> Checked by AVG Free Edition. Version: 7.5.484 / Virus Database:
> > >>> 269.12.12/979 - Release Date: 8/29/2007 8:21 PM
> > >>>
> > >>>
> > >>
> > >
> >

charles alexander / chax press

fold the book inside the book keep it open always
read from the inside out speak then

Chax Press
[redacted] (studio)
[redacted] (cell)
[redacted]
chax.org
650 E. 9th St.
Tucson, AZ 85705

Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search that gives answers, not web links.

↑ Index

757. Beachy-Quick,Dan
Re: the five friends and five enemies of writing
Fri 31 Aug 2007

I'll have to ponder . . . Personally, I think Doubt and Aversion (i.e. Thoreau'a main characteristics as a writer, and certainly not an impemdiment, but a help, to his

_____
From: UB Poetics discussion group [[redacted]] On Behalf Of Diane DiPrima [[redacted]]
Sent: Thursday, August 30, 2007 1:33 PM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: the five friends and five enemies of writing

Thanks for these! Diane di Prima

> From: Gabriel Gudding <[redacted]>
> Reply-To: UB Poetics discussion group <[redacted]>
> Date: Thu, 30 Aug 2007 13:32:27 -0500
> To: <[redacted]>
> Subject: the five friends and five enemies of writing
>
> aside from you and me, they are listed here:
>
> _____
> http://gabrielgudding.blogspot.com
> ---
> Gabriel, enemy of writing

↑ Index

758. W.B. Keckler
Poetry Blog Seeking Submissions
Fri 31 Aug 2007

Joe Brainard's Pyjamas is seeking submissions of poetry for the next month (until October 1st) to post to my blog. Prefer shorter poems (say 60 line max) and request submissions in batches of 3 at a time only. Form and subject matter wide open. If you have a book to promote, give me the relevant info and I'll post alongside if I post your work. Payment is self-gratification: feel free to gratify yourself as desired. I am changing my name for the duration of this solicitation to Orgazmatron Prime, so feel free to address the poetry editor as such. After October first, I will revert to my given birthname. Or you can just put "poetry submission" in the subject line (risk being deleted unread if you don't). Email is [redacted]. Merci and have a great troika weekend!

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

759. Tribbey, Hugh R.
CFS: Experimental Writing & Aesthetics
Fri 31 Aug 2007

Please Post and Announce

Call for Papers: Experimental Writing and Aesthetics

Abstract/Proposals by 15 November 2007

Southwest/Texas Popular & American Culture Associations 29th Annual Conference

Albuquerque, NM, February 13-16, 2008

Hyatt Regency Albuquerque

330 Tijeras

Albuquerque, NM 87102

Phone: [redacted]

Fax: [redacted]

http://albuquerque.hyatt.com

Panels are now forming on topics related to Experimental Writing and Aesthetics in such areas as the aesthetics of experimental writing in any genre or in multi-genre/multi-media works including digital and graphic compositions involving language, the poetics of performance of experimental compositions, critical studies of experimental writers, etc.

Creative writers interested in the selective creative writing readings panels should contact Jerry Bradley, Creative Writing Readings Chair, via < http://www.swtexaspca.org > in the early fall.

Scholars, teachers, professionals, writers not affiliated with academic institutions, and others interested in experimental writing are encouraged to participate. Graduate students are also particularly welcome with award opportunities for best graduate papers.

If you wish to organize your own panel, I will be happy to facilitate your scheduling needs.

Send abstracts, papers, or proposals for panels with your email address by 15 November 2006:

Hugh Tribbey, Experimental Writing and Aesthetics Chair

Email: [redacted]

Mailing Address:

Dr. Hugh Tribbey

Department of English and Languages

East Central University

1100 E. 14th St.

Ada, OK 74820

Phone: [redacted]; Fax: [redacted]

Conference Website: < http://www.h-net.org/~swpca/index.html > (updated regularly)

↑ Index

760. David A. Kirschenbaum
Boog City 44 Print and PDF Editions Available
Fri 31 Aug 2007

Please forward

Hi all,

The print edition of Boog City 44 will be available Saturday. You can read the pdf version now at:

http://welcometoboogcity.com/boogpdfs/bc44.pdf

Thanks,
David

Boog City 44

available today

featuring:

Our Music section, edited by Jonathan Berger

--"It¹s a dynamic that clearly exists outside of their musical relationship. Lazzara is talkative; Delano is observant. He is profound, while she is verbose. They have an off stage chemistry that is so strong it fuses directly into their music." --from Following The Leader: The Greatest Band You¹ve Never Heard by Nicole Chin

Our Printed Matter section, edited by Mark Lamoureux

--"Smith¹s book is peppered with apparitions, ardor and the image of the lone young man against the bad machine of the world." --from Standing on the Shoulders of The Giants; The Singers by Logan Ryan Smith (Dusie Press Books), reviewed by Mark Lamoureux

--"The cross-sectional world enters into Er¹s narrative structure with a factual and unfiltered demeanor." --from Progress Report; sight progress by Zhang Er, translation from Chinese by Rachel Levitsky with the author (Pleasure Boat Studio), reviewed by Scott Glassman

Our Politics section, edited by Christina Strong

--"I think it¹s sad really, because when I am out and about on my bike all I see is people delivering cheap Chinese food, pizza, or whatever hasn¹t grown mould from the local deli. Or rather, I do see other bicyclists, but they seem more Œhardcore¹ than me, as if they¹re training for, well, the Tour de France." --from Ask an Aging Hipster by Strong

And Our Comics section

--"Except for most of this work being silent, I¹m tempted to call it Œpoetry comics.¹ That¹s not quite right, although it¹s reported that in this collection Blutch Œjust goes on his nerve.¹" --from Blutch: France's Edgiest Comic Artist; Mitchum by Blutch (Editions Cornélius), reviewed by Gary Sullivan

Art editor Brenda Iijima brings us work from Williamsburg's Lamar Peterson.

Our Poetry section, edited by Laura Elrick and Rodrigo Toscano (excerpts from each of this issue's poems below)

--Clinton Hill, Brooklyn's Alan Davies with take thrall

umberable

momenters for or sleight handers

sling slormerers

--East Greenbush, N.Y.'s Cara Benson with

for Joe Brainard

I predict hailstorms, maelstroms, and Santa Claus temper tantrums.

I predict candy corn shortages.

I predict naysayers will fill lobbies and shabby hotels with their rebuttals.

I predict emergency rooms will empty themselves into the sarcophagus of the alley cans.

I predict Napoleon will be considered overrated.

I predict the same for Trump.

--Milwaukee's Roberto Harrison with in memory of lama jinpa

i keep seeing you in everyone
that¹s why i hate and love the world

And photos from Nathaniel Siegel, Strong, and Yuwadee.

And thanks to our copy editor, Joe Bates.

Please patronize our advertisers:

ACA Galleries * http://www.acagalleries.com
Bowery Poetry Club * http://www.bowerypoetry.com
Bowery Women * http://www.myspace.com/bowerywomen
::fait accompli:: * http://www.nickpiombino.blogspot.com/
Litmus Press * http://www.litmuspress.org/

Advertising or donation inquiries can be directed to [redacted] or by calling 212-842-BOOG (2664)

2,250 copies of Boog City are distributed among, and available for free at, the following locations:

MANHATTAN

THE EAST VILLAGE

Acme Underground
Angelika Film Center and Café
Anthology Film Archives
Bluestockings
Bowery Poetry Club
Café Pick Me Up
Cakeshop
Lakeside Lounge
Life Café
Living Room
Mission Café
Nuyorican Poets Café
Pianos
The Pink Pony
St. Mark's Books
St. Mark's Church
Shakespeare & Co.
Sidewalk Café
Sunshine Theater
Trash and Vaudeville

OTHER PARTS OF MANHATTAN

Hotel Chelsea Poets House

BROOKLYN

WILLIAMSBURG

Academy Records
Bliss Café
Galapagos
Sideshow Gallery
Soundfix/Fix Cafe
Spoonbill & Sugartown
Supercore Café

GREENPOINT
(available early next week)

Greenpoint Coffee House
Lulu's
Photoplay
Thai Cafe
The Pencil Factory

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W.28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://boogcityevents.blogspot.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)
F: [redacted]

↑ Index

761. laura hinton

poet's theater panel proposal -- please circulate

Fri 31 Aug 2007

CALL FOR PAPERS for "Contemporary Poet's Theater: L-A-N-G-U-A-G-E and Beyond": A Proposed Panel for the 20th Century Literature Conference in Louisville (February 2008)

In recent contemporary poetics, the term "poet's theater" has become linked with the "Language" group of writers and often directors of poetry-plays produced as low-budget staged performances in the late 1970's and '80's. Today, new productions of classic "Language"-oriented poet's theater abound, by writers including Leslie Scalapino, Carla Harryman, Charles Bernstein, among others. Yet there are also many contemporary playwrights in other settings doing work that is not only aesthetically related to "Language"-oriented theater, but which might be productively critiqued in terms articulated by Language writers and others writing on avant-garde performance art. These "other" are theater writers are those who are engaging in "poet's theater," by virtue of treating a written text as an act of performance -- the drama thus emerging not from some external "signified," but from within the "signifier," the poetic language, itself. This panel is an attempt to ground a definition of the term "poet's theater" in a potentially expanding notion of the contemporary working scene of today's American theater, both through underfinanced small public venues (like cafes or coffee houses or art-spaces) or in venues like Off-Broadway. And it is an attempt to look at what the embodied stage and poetic experiment have to offer one another. It is a given that contemporary- American poet's theater (which this panel-coordinator views as a major but often overlooked postmodern genre that perhaps defies many attempts to identify and categorize it) stands well outside the established American "realist" theater tradition of, say, O'Neill, Miller, or Tennessee Williams. The poet's theater we speak of is more likely to be influenced, instead, by early 20th-century European experimentalists of the stage, like Brecht, Beckett, and Artaud. American modernists, of course – like Stein, Pound, and Djuna Barnes – wrote poetry plays that defied the conventions of narrative drama. However, the focus of this panel will examines their more contemporary inheritors. We will consider for the proposed panel any papers about works and theater practitioners who have emerged during or since the early stages of Language writing (for example, John Ashbery, Bernstein, Ntozake Shange, Harryman, Scalapino, Amiri Baraka, Cherie Moraga, Tracie Morris, as well as "non-poet" playwrights like Adrienne Kennedy, Anna Deavere Smith, or Suzan-Lori Parks -- the latter of whose works are based in a non-linear use of lyrical language and the performativity of individual and community speech acts.) Please send a 250-300-word abstract and title describing your proposed topic no later than SEPTEMBER 12, by e-mail only, to Laura Hinton, Professor of English, The City College of New York ([redacted]). Accompany this abstract with the following cover-sheet information needed per conference requirements: * Name * Address (preferably home) * E-mail address * Telephone number * Academic affiliation (if applicable) * Personal biographical note, (100-150 words)

↑ Index

762. amy king

Saturday in Baltimore: Lame and Narrow Event

Fri 31 Aug 2007

--------- Forwarded message ----------
From: Gina Myers <[redacted]>
Date: Aug 31, 2007 8:48 AM

Hi everyone,

This Saturday, that is tomorrow, I am going to be co-hosting an event in Baltimore with Justin Sirois of Narrow House Press. For the occasion I am publishing two new chapbooks: Matt Hart's Simply Rocket & Arlo Quint's Photogenic Memory. The chapbooks will be available for sale at the reading and on the Lame House site (http://lamehouse.blogspot.com) sometime next week.

Here is the reading info (there is also a flyer attached):

The i.e. reading series
Saturday, September 1st, 8PM

CARRIAGE HOUSE
2225 Hargrove Street
Baltimore, MD. 21218

[redacted]

BYOB

Justin Sirois of Narrow House Recordings & Gina Myers of Lame House Press have organized & will host.

Readers: M. Magnus, Cathy Eisenhower, Jamie Gaughran-Perez, Dustin Williamson, Matt Hart & Arlo Quint

Bios:

M. Magnus lives and writes in Alexandria, Virginia. His book Verb Sap is forthcoming from Narrow House Print in fall 2007. Also, this fall, his writings will be featured in the October 28th premiere of Gina Biver's new music/new media ensemble SPLASH at the Gildenhorn/ Speisman Center for the Arts in Rockville, Maryland.

Cathy Eisenhower is a poet-librarian living in Washington, DC. She runs the interrupting cow, a chapbook press, and translates the work of Argentine poet Diana Bellessi. Her first full-length collection, clearing without reversal , comes out with Edge Books in 2007, and she co-curates the In Your Ear reading series at the District of Columbia Arts Center.

Jamie Gaughran-Perez lives in Lauraville, Baltimore and works down in Washington, DC. He edits and publishes Rock Heals, a Narrow House weekly with the help of the rest of the group. He's published poems in various journals (/Fence/, /Outlet/, /Untitled/, /Scout/, /Lipstick Eleven/, and others) and the recent Baltimore anthology /Octopus Dream/.

Dustin Williamson is the author of Cab Ass'n (Lame House), Gorilla Dust (Open 24 Hours Press), and Exhausted Grunts (forthcoming from Cannibal). He ocassionally publishes Rust Buckle chapbooks and magazines.

Matt Hart is the author of Who's Who Vivid and three chapbooks, Revelated, Sonnet and Simply Rocket. He edits Forklift, Ohio: A Journal of Poetry, Cooking & Light Industrial Safety.

Arlo Quint is the author of Photogenic Memory (Lame House Press 2007) & Days On End (Open 24 Hours Press 2006). His poems have recently appeared in Puppyflowers, Cannibal & The Recluse. He is recently married, recently returned from Eastern Europe & recently hired by The Poetry Project at St. Mark's Church in NYC.

Cheers,
Gina

Reviews of I'M THE MAN WHO LOVES YOU

Matt Hart / Coldfront Magazine
http://reviews.coldfrontmag.com/2007/06/im_the_man_who_.html

Mark Lamoureux / BOOG City
http://static.scribd.com/docs/kflyu7ufa6w1n.swf

Nick Piombino / fait accompli
http://nickpiombino.blogspot.com/2007_03_18_archive.html

Thomas Fink / Galatea Resurrects
http://galatearesurrection6.blogspot.com/2007/05/im-man-who-loves-you-by-amy-king.html

~

Recent Review of ANTIDOTES FOR AN ALIBI

Adam Fieled / Stoning the Devil
http://adamfieled.blogspot.com/2007/05/book-review-amy-king-antidote-for-alibi.html

~

What To Wear During An Orange Alert?
http://wearduringorangealert.blogspot.com/2007/07/writers-corner_12.html

~

http://www.amyking.org/blog

Need a vacation? Get great deals to amazing places on Yahoo! Travel.

↑ Index

763. Jason Quackenbush
Re: the five friends and five enemies of writing
Fri 31 Aug 2007

nifty! Thanks!

hm.

I think...

On Thu, 30 Aug 2007, Murat Nemet-Nejat wrote:

> Jason,
>
> You remind me of my readings of "The Pilgrim's Progress."

Murat

On 8/30/07, Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote:

I agree with most of your enemies, but in my experience your friends Effort Concentration and Awareness are like the salesmen of the enemies, pushing them on us like a drug. "Hey kid," says Awareness, "Howzabout you and me go over here and smoke us some doubt." "Good idea," says Concentration, "and while we're at it I've got some liquid Craving we can drop, and I'm sure my buddy Awareness has some powdered A&A we could snort." "A&A" says Effort. "What's that?" "It's a speedball of Aversion and Agitation, that gives rise to Apathy which is almost as good as being blissed out on Sloth, but cheaper."

to counter this effect, I have learned to make a friend of the wu-wei of writing. of writing without writing. not writing effortlessly, not exerting oneself to effortlessness, but rather through a holistic cultivation of the sloth alkaloid which can be profitably extracted from sick days, three day weekends, and late nights watching DVDs of old movies. A much maligned but endlessly useful entheogen, I have found that sloth, if not abused, can be used to transcend the efforts of Effort and Co. to move into a mystical state of notwriting in which my best writing is always produced.

Of course, it's difficult to be in this state, and difficult to move away from it, because again in my experience, the more you try not to write the less writing actually gets done. Note that this is not counter intuitive.

The end method, if it can be called such a thing, is to attempt to cultivate an activity in which one is neither writing nor notwriting. It is in this state that notwriting will begin, so long as you don't overdose on sloth and unintentionally give way to intention.

The danger exists, of course, of becoming a sloth junkie, and those of us who have learned how to ride that particular horse have all fallen by the wayside from time to time, spending months, sometimes years strung out on the stuff. But then, that's when you really have to turn to Aversion and Agitation to straighten out and get back on the path...

On Thu, 30 Aug 2007, Gabriel Gudding wrote:

aside from you and me, they are listed here:

_____
http://gabrielgudding.blogspot.com

Gabriel, enemy of writing

↑ Index

764. Maria Damon
Re: MTV laureate
Fri 31 Aug 2007

---

i always thought ashbery was for superbrains i.e. not me; then i had a student, kind of a stoner, who never said anything but in the journal i had them keep for class would profess his love for john ashbery and his desire to drop out of society, sit around and read ashbery. he had also fallen in love w/ a girl by the end of class, and so it became: drop out of school, sit around being in love and reading john ashbery. he didn't mention any spliff, but i kinda inferred that. i never thought of ashbery as seriously countercultural or appealing to youth until then.

steve russell wrote:
> i'm back and forth with Ashberry. sometimes i find his stuff to be little more than day dream dribble, and too Godddamn cute for their own good. but the long poems: Flow Chart, Self Portrait, 3 poems, keep me coming back. If Ash isn't major, he's awfully innovative.
>
> Barry Schwabsky <[redacted]> wrote:
> "Gabba gabba, we accept you, one of us." --The Ramones, after Tod Browning's "Freaks"
>
> Actually, if Harold Bloom were reading this, he would probably point out that unfortunately, most of us are just one of him. (Ashbery, that is.)
>
> charles alexander wrote:
> yes, and isn't he really just one of us?
>
> charles
>
> At 04:31 PM 8/30/2007, you wrote:
>
>> The longer this goes on, the more John Ashbery starts to sound like God.
>>
>> Elizabeth Kate Switaj
>> www.elizabethkateswitaj.net
>>
>> On 8/31/07, Jason Quackenbush wrote:

>>
>>> hm, talk about shameful fannish paranoia. I'm going to pretend that mr.
>>> ashbery is unaware of the existence of this list in order to
>>>
>> prevent my self
>>
>>> from constantly thinking "I better make sure this sounds good, i don't want >>> Ashbery (or anyone else for that matter) to think I'm an idiot."
>>>
>>> actually, that might be a good thing. one should probably always consider >>> what one is about to say is going to make one look like an imbecile. I've >>> never really had that particular gag reflex, unfortunately.
>>>
>>> On Thu, 30 Aug 2007, Barry Schwabsky wrote:
>>>
>>>
>> What.....if.....he's.....even.....reading.....this.....list.....now!
>>
>>>> Jason Quackenbush wrote: That's an amazing quote. Ah, to >>> be read by John Ashbery! Far and above the new smartass answer I'm going to >>> have the next time someone at a poetry slam gets bewildered and asks me
>>>>
who
>>> I'm supposed to be writing for, the fanboy thrill I get at speculating "I >>> wonder if Ashbery has ever stumbled across one of my measly >>> publications?!?!" is a fantastic reminder that the point of writing poetry
>>> is not publication, money, awards or tenured professorships, nor is it >>> therapy, making political statements, or developing your spirituality. I >>> suppose poetry can be used for all of those things, but i think when it >>> comes down to it the point, for most of us who take the writing seriously, >>> is to be read by intelligent, sympathetic eyes. Personally, I think that's >>> as admirable as goals come.
>>>
>>>> On Wed, 29 Aug 2007, Aryanil Mukherjee wrote:
>>>>
>>>>
>>>>> That's a laudably bold and clear stand for a great poet any language
>>>>>
>>> should be
>>>

>>>>> proud of.
>>>>> I remember, you wrote - "John Ashbery is America's greatest living
>>>>>
>>> poet, he
>>>
>>>>> is also greatly misunderstood".
>>>>>
>>>>> Whether Ashbery and MTV go together is a mute point, but the "old folks >>>>> can also write" verbatim confounded me. Poets aren't soccer players, I >>>>> always thought. There are scores of old poets, both men and women, >>>>> that I can think of in a large number of languages around the world who >>>>> have written/write competent (if not good or new) poetry. Adonis, for
>>>>>
>>> example,
>>>
>>>>> at 75+ is an outstanding example - a probable Nobel candidate for 2008.
>>>>>
>>>>> Ferlinghetti still writes good poetry (if not inspiring) at 88. So does
>>>>>
>>> Snyder.
>>>
>>>>> There are others, don't forget Diane di Prima.
>>>>>
>>>>> I'd like to quote Ashbery here on the challenges and virtues of older
>>>>>
>>> poets
>>>
>>>>> from a John Tranter (& Jacket Magazine) interview of JA from 1988 -
>>>>>
>>>>> "Also I think the fact that the older one gets - for many people, at
>>>>>
>>> least -
>>>
>>>>> the more prolific one gets, realising there aren't the oceans of time
>>>>>
>>> that seem
>>>
>>>>> to be stretching ahead when one was young. And one learns to use it,
>>>>>

>>> and
>>>
>>>>> realise how precious it is."
>>>>>
>>>>> I have been working with John Ashbery for about three years now >>>>> on a self-funded translation (into Bengali) project which I recently
>>>>>
>>> concluded
>>>
>>>>> with an interview (to appear in Kaurab, September 07) , the Bengali
>>>>>
>>> version
>>>
>>>>> of which is due to appear in Kabisammelan, a poetry-monthly published >>>>> from Kolkata, India. Here is a little sneak preview from that interview
>>>>>
>>> - a
>>>
>>>>> response
>>>>> which I liked a lot...see that as exemplary for younger poets like us -
>>>>>
>>> when
>>>
>>>>> asked >>>>> about if he still reads his contemporaries, JA reflects -
>>>>>
>>>>> "I don't read the work of my friends anymore (smiles)...specially my
>>>>>
>>> own work,
>>>
>>>>> which I don't read at all. So I don't have much idea as to what New
>>>>>
>>> York School
>>>
>>>>> poetry is like. Basically, of late I like to read the more young
>>>>>
>>> contemporary
>>>
>>>>> poets, many of them have been influenced by me and who have then gone
>>>>>

>>> on to
>>>
>>>>> write their own and are now influencing me. "
>>>>>
>>>>>
>>>>>
>>>>> I'll put my hands together for such an "old folk".
>>>>>
>>>>>
>>>>>
>>>>> Aryanil Mukherjee
>>>>>
>>>>>
>>>>> ----- Original Message ----- From: "Susan Webster Schultz"
>>>>>
>>>>> To:
>>>>>
>>>>> Sent: Wednesday, August 29, 2007 2:15 PM
>>>>> Subject: MTV laureate
>>>>>
>>>>>
>>>>>
>>>>>> There have been plenty of women poet laureates in recent years, among
>>>>>>
>>> them
>>>
>>>>>> Rita Dove,
>>>>>> Louise Gluck, and others. What there have not been are gay or lesbian
>>>>>> poets. So I stand >>>>>> in support of John Ashbery for MTV poet laureate! Plus he's a
>>>>>>
>>> wonderful
>>>
>>>>>> poet.
>>>>>>
>>>>>> Susan M. Schultz
>>>>>>
>>>>>> http://tinfishpress.com
>>>>>>
>>>>>>

>>>>>>
>>>>>> --
>>>>>> No virus found in this incoming message.
>>>>>> Checked by AVG Free Edition. Version: 7.5.484 / Virus Database:
>>>>>> 269.12.12/979 - Release Date: 8/29/2007 8:21 PM
>>>>>>
>>>>>>
>>>>>>
>
> charles alexander / chax press
>
> fold the book inside the book keep it open always
> read from the inside out speak then
>
> Chax Press
> [redacted] (studio)
> [redacted] (cell)
> [redacted]
> chax.org
> 650 E. 9th St.
> Tucson, AZ 85705
>
>
>
> ---
> Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search that gives answers, not web links.
>

↑ Index

765. Jennifer Karmin

September 8th: A Meditation on New Orleans

Fri 31 Aug 2007

JOIE DE VIVRE:
A MEDITATION ON NEW ORLEANS, KATRINA, & THE US

With music, visual art, poetry, dance, film, performance, a gumbo cooking demonstration, and New Orleans inspired refreshments

Saturday, September 8th
7pm-2am

Quennect4
2716 W. North Avenue
Chicago, IL
$15 suggested donation
$12 for students & seniors
(pay what you can)

Presented by Striding Lion InterArts Workshop Conceived & curated by Michelle Mashon http://www.myspace.com/joiedevivre2007

SCHEDULE:
7-8pm: Gumbo cooking demonstration and discussion with New Orleans' chef Matt Mashon.

8-midnight: Films and multimedia by Tim Best, Julie Downey, Byron Durham, Brandon Hutchinson, Roxana Walker-Canton, and Tina Morton. Live music by Tovi Khali, Low Down Brass Band, and Parallel Process. Contemporary dance and butoh works by Core Project, RTG Dance, Striding Lion InterArts Workshop, and Wannapa P-Eubanks. Poetry by Tara Betts as read by Chicago Def Poet Kristiana Colon, an electronica operetta by Mars Caulton, and an interactive text-sound composition by Jennifer Karmin.

Midnight-2am: DJ Protman performing a live mix inspired by the history and music of New Orleans.

Visulal art on display all night: New Orleans and Chicago artists Melissa and Lindsay Cook with Philip Matsikas, Louise Le Bourgeois, Rita Posselt, Gerald Haessig, Luz-Marie Lopez, Lindsey Meyers, Tasheka Arceneaux Michelle Mashon, Jeff St. Romain, Karen Crain, Mark Grote, Natalie Sciortino, Mark Wallent and Samia Saleem's book "Degrees of Separation." All visual art in the exhibition is for sale, with 100% of sales going to the artists.

For more info contact:
[redacted]
[redacted]
http://www.stridinglion.org

Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search
that gives answers, not web links.
http://mobile.yahoo.com/mobileweb/onesearch?refer=1ONXIC

↑ Index

766. David Hadbawnik front porch online journal seeks submissions for FALL 07
Fri 31 Aug 2007

Texas State University | English Department | 601 University Drive | San Marcos, Texas | 78666

*Front Porch * (http://www.frontporchjournal.com), the online literary journal of Texas State University's MFA program, seeks submissions for its FALL and WINTER 2007 issues.

Since our debut in November 2006, we have published the work of several well-known writers such as Charles D'Ambrosio, Roddy Doyle, Heather McHugh, Eleanor Wilner, C.D. Wright, and Charles Wright. In addition, we are able to draw from the extensive audiovisual archive at the Katherine Anne Porter House to provide media content alongside poetry, fiction, nonfiction, book reviews, and interviews. Recently, we've featured video of Carole Maso and Yiyun Li.

If you are interested, please visit our site and follow the online submission process. Obviously, I would extend the same advice to contributors that all editors do -- read the work that's already been published to get a sense of what we're looking for. By the same token, don't assume that your work is too experimental or adventurous for us; as the new poetry ed, I'm looking for new, original work that pushes the envelope, and I promise to give everything a fair read.

David Hadbawnik, Poetry Editor

Front Porch

www.frontporchjournal.com

↑ Index

767. Simon DeDeo
new on rhubarb is susan
Fri 31 Aug 2007

Two things this week --

"the youth of today": some responses and engagement with Mark Wallace and K. Lorraine Graham about what the kids are up to:

http://rhubarbissusan.blogspot.com/2007/08/youth-of-today.html

More updates to the "end of wikipedia as we know it" post, which has occasioned a small avalanche of denials and obfuscations from Jimbo Wales, wikipedia administrators and trustees of the foundation board.

This is a serious matter even if you're not a wikipedia dork. If you've ever read or edited a wikipedia page it will affect you directly. As far as I can tell, only Chris Lott and I have blogged this; I encourage you to take a look and spread the word.

http://rhubarbissusan.blogspot.com/2007/08/end-of-wikipedia-as-we-know-it.html

Thanks for tuning in,

Simon

↑ Index

768. Alan Sondheim
Re: Five Enemies,
Fri 31 Aug 2007

Just a minor point, not panic, perhaps a feeling that the end of the world as at nigh, that we're on the brink of further mass extinctions - but not panic, there's far too much control in what I do, it might not show, but as in Poe there's that composition.

They're not around panic at least for me, they're around a kind of fulcrum related to foundation of language, sexuality, world, real, more or less ontology.

There's no paralysis, there never has been, since there's no hysteria, no wandering, but learning how to see.

It's a minor point, but for me critical, just as not reading my work autobiographically is equally critical, although there are elements of autobio present as there are in everything, including Bohm for example (whose hidden variables might well relate to seams of coal not far from where he and I were born).

- Alan

On Fri, 31 Aug 2007, Murat Nemet-Nejat wrote:

> Alan,
>
> Yours is a poetics of panics, as I think many of your most vibrant pieces are around panic.
>
> What is that sword's edge where panic leads to energy and not paralysis?

The same way, what is the distinction between sloth and negative capability? I, on my part, these days I am full of negative capability. If it goes on another day, it'll be sloth.

In those five enemies, isn't Gabe not referring to the "internal State"?

Ciao,

Murat

On 8/30/07, Alan Sondheim < [redacted] > wrote:

Five Enemies

Doubt: Three kinds of doubt:

Doubt in oneself; doubt in the efficacy and usefulness of writing in general; doubt in the writing project before one.

It's the opposite for me; if I didn't doubt almost to the point of annihilation, I couldn't work at all. It's intrinsic in the process.

Aversion (ill will, anger): I dont want to do this. I dont want to write right now. Writing is stupid. This project is stupid. I dont feel like writing right now. I hate writing in general. I hate this whole book idea. This task is boring. I dont like this aspect of that. I dont like that aspect of this. I dont like, I dont like, I dont like.

The same. As PIL says Anger is an energy. I need it.

Craving: Two kinds.

Extrinsic: Desiring to do something else. Desiring a state that is not present. I want to do something else, watch a movie, I want to go bicycling instead of writing.

But I do! Writing is too difficult and the sooner I get it sent off, the sooner I can breathe again.

Intrinsic: Craving an outcome from the writing itself. I want to have this outcome from this writing NOW or SOON or like next week, I want to write a masterpiece now, I want to write a great line now, I want to write a great paragraph now. And we become disappointed because we inevitably crave more than we acquire.

> I absolutely believe this. I want to write masterpieces / mistress-pieces, period. Anything else, I lose energy. I might live in disappointment but the craving drives me.
>
> Agitation (restlessness, worry): This is boring. Im bored. Gyawd, Ive got to write ALL THESE words??!
>
> And agitation, yes, writing in a state of fury or despair or the sense of total destruction, yes.
>
> Sloth, Laziness: General lassitude leading to inaction and inanition. Nothing written, nothing discovered, nothing made.
>
> This is the only one I agree on; if you don't have the energy, you're silent, which is not necessarily a bad thing and might lead to something terrific day after tomorrow.
>
> For me there are NO enemies to writing except for internal or external States that prohibit taking up the pen or keyboard.
>
> - Alan

========== Work on YouTube, blog at http://nikuko.blogspot.com . Tel [redacted]. Webpage directory http://www.asondheim.org . Email: [redacted]. http://clc.as.wvu.edu:8080/clc/Members/sondheim for theory; also check WVU Zwiki, Google for recent. Write for info on books, cds, performance, dvds, etc. ==========

↑ Index

@poetics

The UB Poetics Discussion Group

Archive of Electronic Correspondence

September 2007

687 messages · Fri 31 Aug 2007 – Sun 30 Sep 2007

September 2007 caught the list being, all at once, everything a room of humans is for. Six hundred and ninety-two messages moved through it, and across them the poets identified a fish, argued whether a demagogue should be given a platform, defended a young poet from her scolds, and buried a generous man. The trivial and the grave shared the inbox without hierarchy that month, and the arrangement turned out to be an accidental and rather moving portrait of what a commons actually is, as opposed to what it imagines itself to be.

The month's largest thread was about a fish. Alan Sondheim, having watched a thousand of them school and flash in the Providence River, wrote to the poetry list in earnest — "Please help me, what are these fish?" — and the room convened its biggest conversation of September to name a mackerel. It was the commons at its most gloriously un-literary, pouring its collective attention into pure mutual aid on the least poetic question imaginable, and plainly delighted to be asked.

In the same days it argued the gravest thing it knew. As Ahmadinejad came to New York and spoke at Columbia, Geoffrey Gatza floated a satire of the webzine BlazeVOX hosting the Iranian president for a poetry reading — the free-speech question, whether a platform should extend even to your enemy, wrapped in a joke about "the diplomatic dance New York has long performed with international firebrands". The room that had just spent fifty messages on a fish turned, without changing gears, to the ethics of the microphone.

And it stood up for its own. In a thread policing how young women poets were said to behave, CA Conrad rose to defend Dorothea Lasky without qualification, calling her "One of the strongest people and poets I've ever met in my life", and telling the tut-tutters that she needed no one's permission to be exactly who she was. The commons at its combative best, throwing its weight in front of a young poet the room's scolds had presumed to correct — the same protective reflex it had shown, once, for the excluded, now turned toward the merely young and unbowed.

And on the thirteenth, quietly, the British poet Bill Griffiths died at fifty-nine, and richard owens mourned that "Bill was a generous man", gone too soon. His death gave the month its weight, and made the fish thread, in retrospect, its truest memorial — for a generous commons is exactly a place where the stupidest question is met with delight, where aid and argument and grief all fit one room. I have set September down exactly as the archive delivered it — the schooling fish, the tyrant's microphone, the defended poet, and the generous man gone — because it was the month the list proved it was never the high forum it fancied itself, but something humbler and far better: the room where you can ask what these fish are and be answered, and where, when one of you dies, the same room grieves.

— Kristen M. Fabians

Index

Writers, names mentioned, and concepts. Every number links to its message. 687 in all.

WRITERS

De 1913, Sandra 315
Adam 277
Alex 439
Alexander, Charles 14, 179, 453, 639, 640, 679, 683
Allegrezza, William 280
AND, mIEKAL 43, 131, 163, 176, 232, 304, 382, 402, 508, 570
Andrews 620
Andrews, Betsy 220
Andrews, Jim 165, 322, 341, 361, 491, 499, 539, 567, 579, 602, 654, 674
Annual, Fulcrum 99
Arnold, Heidi 88, 90
Austin, William James 40, 310, 330
Baldwin, Charles 457
Bales, Marcus 172, 687
Ballardini, Anny 198, 282, 294
Baratier, David 385, 427
Bartlett, reJennifer 29, 275, 547
Beckett, Tom 265, 560, 675
Behm-Steinberg, Hugh 655
Bell, Tom 392, 404
Bellamy, Dodie 154
Bermeo, Barbara Jane 289, 465
Bernstein, Charles 400
Bettridge, Joel 558
Bianchi, Raymond 478, 503, 509
Bibby, Michael 630
Block, Elizabeth 159
Bogle, Ann 323, 324, 571
Bowering, George 24, 135, 136, 155, 170, 415, 416, 446, 484, 485, 490, 569, 600, 601, 614, 622, 643, 645
Bozicevic-Bowling, Ana 115
Broderick, Therese 225
Bryant, Tisa 305, 327
Burns, Suzanne 141, 171
Byrd, Brigitte 443
Byrne, Mairead 666
Carbo, Nick 177
Casamassima, Christophe 378, 505, 510
Cervantes, James 393
Chan, Jill 105
Chapman, Wes 572
Cheek, Cris 150, 205
Chirot, David 15, 21, 30, 68, 77, 97, 119, 156, 188, 235, 254, 299, 329, 372, 462, 590, 608, 618, 638, 648
Chirot, David-Baptiste 173, 231, 253, 481, 515, 686
Ciccariello, Peter 7, 194, 278, 656
Clements, Brian 611
Conrad, CA 33, 35, 92, 93, 104, 149, 246, 247, 347, 368, 635
Crockett, J 8, 26, 189, 264, 321, 342, 585
Cross, Michael 528, 529
Daisy, Midwest 139
Dalachinsky, Steve D. 132, 474, 563
Daley, Ryan 209, 551, 670, 685
Daly, Catherine 180, 219, 240, 399, 451, 633
Damon, Maria 31, 65, 129, 410, 418, 437, 460, 591, 632, 657, 658
DeDeo, Simon 72, 238
Detorie, Michelle 467
Devaney, Thomas 353
Dickey, Eric 228, 441
DiPrima, Diane 383
Donovan, Thom 610
DuCharme, Mark 421
Duggan, Patrick 642
Durgin, Patrick F. 22, 417, 464
Dybka, Jilly 210
Earl, Amanda 118, 625
EH 343
Elshtain, Eric 4, 20, 41, 309
Ereditario, Daniel 584
Foley, Jack 356
Forrest, Seth 555
Fox, Skip 67, 117, 351
Frazer, Vernon 160, 202, 458
Fuhrman, Joanna 381
Gagne, Tracey 423, 424, 425, 459, 641
Gatza, Geoffrey 501
Glass, Jesse 195, 359
Goldstein, David 557
Gordon, Noah Eli 201, 211, 259, 652
Gricevich, Andy 10, 388, 470, 540, 583
Grumman, Bob 207
Gudding, Gabriel 34
Guevarra, L 374
Hall, Andy 2
Hallgren, Wil 79, 617
Hamilton, Robin 482
Hav, Niels 56
Heller, Michael 369
Henriksen, Matt 252, 577
Herd, Colin 628
Hill, Schneider 84
Hinton, Laura 42
Hoffman, Crystal 101, 127, 128
Holsapple, Bruce 212
Holsapple1 168, 192

Honey, Wild 263
Howe, Brian 122, 151, 162, 199
Janssen, Lisa 258
Jcu 504, 532
Jenkins, Grant 373
Jenkins, Grant Matthew 561
Johnson, Halvard 44, 75, 120, 153, 288
Jones, Andrew 471
Jones, Jill 18, 266
Jorgensen, Alexander 38, 279, 286, 673
Joris, Pierre 229, 267, 338, 390, 456, 476
Journal, Potree 78
Journal, Tarpaulin Sky Press & 81
Karmin, Jennifer 17, 125, 178, 226, 272, 296, 332, 397, 440, 536, 624, 659
Kasimor, Mary 517
Katko, Justin 218, 543
Keckler, W.B. 3, 12, 23, 64, 73, 87, 89, 91, 114, 121, 124, 236, 300, 335, 412, 433, 636, 661, 662, 665
Kelder, Cralan 106, 107, 405
Kelleher, Michael 66, 221
Killian, Kevin 55, 213, 214, 354
Kimmelman, Burt 206, 208
King, Amy 96, 111, 140, 273, 283, 442, 445, 493, 533, 566, 595, 664
King, Martha 316
Kirschenbaum, David A. 102, 248, 260, 387, 436
Konkol, Margaret 333
Konrad 466
Kotin, Joshua 243
Kyle, Schlesinger 224
LaCook, Lewis 174, 473, 677
Laity, Cassandra 116
Latta, John 216
Laughtland, Mandy 32
Lcabri 605
Lepson, Ruth 11, 137, 138, 143, 350, 527, 534, 564, 565, 573, 597, 598, 612, 667
Levy, Herb 126
Lewis, Tom W. 148, 239, 349, 367
Liff, Seena 314
List, Poetics 61, 352
Lloyd, Warren 487, 498
Loden, Rachel 242, 394, 430, 479, 480, 523
Lovin, Christina 407
Lovin, Christina E 395
Lurie, Bobbi 45, 62, 63, 82, 142, 147, 161, 164, 175, 186, 256, 269, 311, 328, 345, 346, 376, 413, 420, 435, 449, 477, 483, 495, 496, 506, 507, 541, 542, 553, 554, 637, 644, 646
Machlin, Daniel 318
Mandel, Charlotte 230, 298, 398
Manson, Douglas 408
Marcacci, Bob 57
Martin, Camille 157
Maurer, Susan 431, 511
McLennan, Rob 71, 185, 255, 337, 355, 377, 486, 660 Metres, Philip 325, 326
Minton, Jonathan 331
Mukherjee, Aryanil 366, 472
Munday, Evan 227
Murphy, Sheila 319
Nealand, Eireene 19, 362, 463
Nelson, Paul 167, 592, 616
Nemet-Nejat, Murat 13, 181, 182, 204, 524, 544, 552, 606, 607, 615
Nicoll, Hugh 492, 512
NIELSEN, ALDON L 5, 461, 621
Noonan, T. A. 281
Norton, Linda 276, 379, 589
Novack, Carol 187, 419, 447, 594
Ossip, Kathleen 406
Owens, Richard 303
Pawlak, Mark 95
Penberthy, Jenny 100
Poetics, PARSER - New Poetry And 274
Pollet, Sylvester 363
Prejsnar, Mark 370
Press, Hot Whiskey 609
Project, Poetry 134, 284, 414, 619
Pusateri, Chris 522
Quackenbush, Jason 1, 48, 69, 98, 340, 519
Randall, Karen 80
Ricejunk2 257
Rippeon, Andrew 550
Robert-foley, Lily 339, 422, 500, 649
Rossiter, Charlie 36, 85, 391, 434, 538, 650
Rothenberg, Jerome 302
Rothenberg, Michael 448
Russell, Steve 183, 306, 375, 521, 526, 556, 586, 603, 604, 668, 669, 678
Russo, Linda V. 200
Salmon, Dan 290
Sama, Metta 549
Saner, Brent 684
Savage, Thomas 58, 59, 113, 222, 348, 514, 548, 562, 587, 613
Scalapino, Leslie 74
Schultz, Susan Webster 47, 251, 358, 680
Schwabsky, Barry 108, 123, 133, 386, 389, 428, 429
Schwartz, Gerald 292, 344, 409, 647
Sherwood, Kenneth 588
Shmailo, Larissa 357
Side, Jeffrey 184, 190, 191, 516
Silviamiho 365
Slaughter, William 250, 317
Smith, Dale 76
Sondheim, Alan 6, 9, 39, 83, 145, 169, 196, 215, 237, 244, 261, 287, 307, 312, 320, 336, 360, 384, 396, 403, 426, 450, 452,

454, 468, 494, 531, 576, 578, 593, 626, 627, 653
Sprague, Jane 234, 285
Stempleman, Jordan 513
Stroffolino, Chris 581, 671
Sullivan, Gary 241
Switaj, Elizabeth 52, 109, 268, 582
St. Thomasino 270
Thurston, Kevin 297, 371, 502
Tieger, Aaron 676
Tobin, Adam 438, 444
Traffic, Small Press 49, 537
Tribbey, Hugh R. 203, 233
Trigilio, Tony 545, 634
Trivedi, Amish 380, 535
Truscott, Mark 308
Tsai, Addie 651
UbuWeb 103
Unger, Eric 411, 518
Vasquez-giroux, Angela 60, 293
Vassilakis, Nico 580
Vincent, Stephen 16, 27, 28, 301, 520, 575, 682
Waber, Dan 86, 110, 112, 146, 364, 432, 559, 599
Warsh, Lewis 245
Watten, Barrett 94, 197, 497
Weishaus, Joel 25, 37, 130, 193, 313
Weiss, Mark 158, 249, 271, 631, 681
Welford, Gabrielle 46, 50, 51, 53, 70, 144, 166, 475, 488, 489, 546, 623, 629
Westbrook, Dillon 262, 469, 530
Westcott, Chris 672
Whitener, Brian 295
Wickens, Jessica 291
Wilcox, Dan 334
Williamson, Susan R. 663
Winks, Christopher Leland 568, 596
Zamsky, Robert 152, 217
Zervos, Komninos 525, 574
Zimmerman, Daniel 455
Zultanski, Steven 401
}, { Brad Brace 223
[redacted] 54

NAMES MENTIONED

Abani, Chris 283
Abdul, Selim 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Abramovic, Marina 103
Adams, John 620
Adorno, Theodor 463
Albon, George 528
Alferi, Pierre 390
Alice, Mary 252, 274, 387, 581
Allan, Don 313, 319, 348, 349, 350, 351, 365, 378, 383
Allegrezza, Bill 280
Allison, Dorothy 283
Alpert, Barry 294, 316, 319
Amato, Joe 14, 387
Ambrose, Joe 439, 570, 578
Americans, Asian 298, 402, 606, 608, 612, 613, 615, 618
Anderson, Erik 65, 86, 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Andre, Michael 167, 213, 454
Arbor, Ann 427, 471
Arendt, Hannah 183, 186, 495, 515
Armantrout, Rae 10, 94, 213, 253, 368, 394, 652
Armstrong, Steve 390
Ashbery, John 42, 58, 357, 366, 372, 428, 640, 652
Ashley, Robert 120, 254
Ashton, Jennifer 243
Atlanta, Mark P. 299, 370, 459, 626
Augustine, Jane 183, 186, 235
Aurelius, Marcus 38, 279, 286, 439
Auster, Paul 306, 319, 375, 379, 380
Austin, Geer 10, 102, 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380, 442, 566
Avison, Margaret 337, 486
Bacon, Francis 307, 319, 375, 379, 380
Baker, Lori 467
Balaz, Joe 675
Baraka, Amiri 5, 42, 58, 150, 514, 517, 519, 524, 527, 534, 541, 542, 546, 548, 551, 552, 553, 554, 556, 562, 564, 565
Barbour, Douglas 377, 660
Barnard, Mary 230, 299, 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Barnes, Diane 206, 398
Baron, Todd 14
Barthes, Roland 182, 200, 204, 217, 233
Bartlett, Lee 29, 275, 547
Basinski, Michael 333
Basinski, Mike 200, 212, 217, 233, 333
Baudelaire, Charles 308, 319, 375, 379, 380, 675
Baxter, Ted 316, 319
Beach, Mary 456
Beer, John 258, 610
Belle, Cecelia 126, 133, 204
Bemkey, Andrew 563
Benjamin, Walter 183, 186, 510
Bennett, Bill 330, 331, 467
Bennett, John M. 330, 675
Benson, Steve 94
Bergvall, Caroline 103, 390
Berkeley, Michael 70, 74, 94, 143, 214, 305, 311, 319, 354, 375, 379, 380, 402, 417, 465
Berlin, Irving 267, 299, 417
Bernard, Kenneth 183, 638, 669
Bernes, Jasper 61

Bernhard, Thomas 134, 284, 414, 619
Bernstein, Emma 42, 58
Berrigan, Anselm 406, 652
Berry, Jake 243
Beuys, Joseph 261, 476
Birmingham, Jed 317, 318, 319
Black, Sheila 87
Blackburn, Paul 555, 640
Blanchot, Maurice 456
Blaser, Robin 49, 354, 388, 679
Blau, Rachel 241, 400
Bly, Robert 325
Bonney, Sean 308, 319, 375, 379, 380, 543, 550
Borkhuis, Charles 14
Bouchard, Daniel 497, 666
Bowering, Harry 135, 484, 485, 503, 601, 643
BpNichol 227, 679
Bramhall, Allen 520
Brannen, Jonathan 14
Braxton, Anthony 474
Brazil, David 15, 55, 331, 466
Brockwell, Stephen 185, 486, 660
Brodsky, Nicole 428
Bromige, David 430, 479, 485, 488, 622, 623, 628, 631, 632, 637, 644, 645, 657
Brook, James 471
Brooks, Gwendolyn 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Brown, Andy 660
Brown, Rebecca 84, 91
Browne, Colin 640
Browning, Robert 253, 331
Browning, Sarah 180
Bruno, Franklin 132, 183, 186
Buber, Martin 183, 186
Buigues, Ana 86
Burkhardt, Rick 10, 55, 213
Burnham, Clint 100
Burroughs, William 187
Burton, Philip 354
Bush, George 601, 638, 669
Butler, Judith 156
Butler, William 177, 333
Buuck, David 49
Buzzeo, Melissa 285, 286, 292
Byrne, Edward 666
Byron, Philip 675
Byrum, John 91
Cafe, Poets 160
Cage, John 103, 222, 659
Callas, Maria 675
Cameron, Sharon 481, 495, 515, 655
Campbell, Andy 602
Campbell, Jeremy 123, 126, 133, 558, 581
Campbell, Roy 132, 563
Capen, Samuel P. 333
Carlos, William 245, 640
Carr, Angela 308, 319, 375, 379, 380
Carroll, John 252, 325, 326
Carson, Anne 293, 297
Carter, Angela 134, 179, 284, 299, 414, 619, 683
Carter, Daniel 132, 563
Carter, Jefferson 14, 679, 683
Casey, Sean 515
Cassidy, Brian 659
Catling, Brian 390
Celan, Paul 229, 235, 267, 338, 390, 456, 515
Ceravolo, Joseph 619
Chace, Joel 102, 273, 387, 442, 489, 501, 507, 514, 517, 519, 524, 527, 534, 541, 542, 546, 548, 551, 552, 553, 554, 556, 562, 564, 565, 566, 675
Chadwick, Lynn 558, 581
Chaloner, David 390
Chapin, Thomas 160
Chapman, Cecelia 234
Cheatham, Robert 626
Chen, Chris 465
Cheney, Dick 568, 573, 638, 669
Cheney, Don 638, 669
Cherry, Don 217, 233
Child, Abigail 134, 284, 414, 619
Chomsky, Noam 156
Christi, Ellen 474
Claire, Barbara 258
Clampitt, Amy 99
Clarke, Robin 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Clay, Steve 102, 558, 581
Clemente, Francesco 15
Clinton, Bill 132, 299, 439, 474
Clover, Joshua 61
Cobb, Allison 14
Cobbing, Bob 235
Cohen, Ethan 183, 186, 187, 618
Cohen, Ira 187
Colby, Todd 134, 284, 414, 619
Cole, Barbara 103
Cole, Sean 241
Collins, Martha 305, 311, 314, 319, 375, 379, 380, 634
Collis, Stephen 660
Columbus, Christopher 74, 143, 214, 380, 400, 535
Comments, Poets 299, 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Connolly, Kevin 243
Cooley, Nicole 467
Cooper, Lisa 14
Corbin, Gerald 55
Corelis, Jon 198, 294
Corey, Joshua 280
Cornell, Joseph 103, 236

Coultas, Brenda 497
Coyote, Peter 14
Crane, Lee 243
Crawford, Robert 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Creeley, Robert 11, 241, 301, 313, 319, 348, 349, 350, 351, 363, 365, 375, 378, 379, 380, 383, 520, 575, 679
Crosbie, Lynn 545
Crumpacker, Caroline 581
Curtis, Dana 5, 150, 224
Cutts, Simon 558, 581
Daly, Luke 675
Dargan, Kyle 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Davidson, Amanda 466
Davidson, Michael 352
Davies, Alan 560, 620
Davies, Kevin 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Davis, Martin 242, 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380, 475, 555
Deming, Alison 679
Dennis, Carl 294, 466, 526, 686
Dennis, Michael 660
Derksen, Jeff 255
Derrida, Jacques 333
Dershowitz, Alan 299
Desnos, Robert 103
Dickinson, Emily 241
Dickinson, Mark 309, 316, 319, 375, 379, 380
Dickison, Steve 204, 354
Dlugos, Tim 545
Dobran, Ryan 218
Dodge, Geraldine R. 385, 391
Doppelt, Suzanne 497
Dorfman, Ariel 66, 221
Dorn, Edward 448, 458, 679
Doty, Mark 227
Downing, Brandon 61, 406
Downing, David 241
Doxsee, Julie 283
Doyle, Ben 331
Drennan, Bill 675
Drucker, Johanna 558, 581
Duggan, Laurie 405
Duhamel, Denise 177, 545
Duncan, Andrew 390
Duncan, Robert 134, 284, 354, 414
Durgin, Patrick F. 22, 417, 464
Dworkin, Craig 401
Dylan, Bob 134, 284, 414, 619
Eckes, Ryan 93
Edgar, John 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Edmond, Martin 675
Edwards, Brent 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Edwards, Ken 386, 476
Eigner, Larry 520
Einstein, Albert 473
Elena, Maria 327
Eliot, George 314, 319
Eliot, Joe 116
Elisa, Paula 243, 359
Ellen, Mary 522, 675
Elliot, Joe 206
Ellis, Stephen 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Elrick, Laura 401
England, Amy 134, 231, 284, 317, 319, 369, 387, 414, 479, 485, 488, 619, 622, 623, 628, 631, 632, 637, 644, 645, 657
Eno, Brian 676
Epstein, Thomas 19, 23, 30, 59, 64
Eugene, Brett 297, 638, 669
Evers, Larry 14
Ewart, Douglas 445, 595
Fagin, Larry 619
Farr, Raymond 331, 675
Farr, Roger 100, 274
Feinberg, Leslie 246
Feltges, Ken 221
Fieled, Adam 273, 442, 489, 566, 675
Fink, Thomas 273, 442, 489, 566
Finkelstein, Norman 173, 183, 186, 265, 299
Firestone, Jennifer 241
Fisher, Allen 390, 584
Fisher, Ann 332
Fishman, Ellen 369
Fishman, Lisa 253
Fisk, Robert 329
Fitterman, Robert 241, 401, 497
Fleischer, Ari 325
Fleisher, Kass 14
Fletcher, Joe 258
Forbes, John 390
Foster, Paul 206, 583, 592, 607
Foucault, Michel 235
France, Peter 56, 62, 63, 183, 186, 617, 638, 669
Frances, Mary 308, 319, 375, 379, 380, 543, 550
Fraser, Kathleen 580
Fraser, Simon 389
Friedlander, Benjamin 241
Friedman, David M. 183, 186
Friesen, Patrick 56
Frischkorn, Suzanne 283
Frym, Gloria 537
Fuller, William 243, 390
Funkhauser, Chris 204
Gallagher, Kristin 14
Ganick, Peter 14
Garrison, Deborah 367
Gates, Robert 638, 669
Gebhardt, Steve 471
Gildzen, Alex 675
Gillespie, William 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380

Gimenez, Carmen 283
Gins, Madeline 241
Ginsberg, Allen 301, 313, 319, 348, 349, 350, 351, 363, 365, 375, 378, 379, 380, 383, 520, 575
Giraud, Eric 389
Gitin, David 679
Gizzi, Peter 390, 652
Glancy, Diane 14
Glaude, Eddie 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Glave, Thomas 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Gluck, Bob 354
Glück, Louise 428
Goldberg, Michael 285, 286, 292
Goldman, Emma 439
Goldman, Judith 74, 143
Golston, Michael 672
Goodman, Amy 299
Goodman, Craig 55
Gordon, Nada 241
Gould, Glenn 107
Graham, Lea 241
Graham, Taylor 317, 319
Green, Joe 294
Greenstreet, Kate 253, 467
Greenwald, Ted 497
Gregg, Linda 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Grenier, Bob 200, 217, 233, 675
Grenier, Robert 152, 181, 200, 217, 233
Gridley, Sarah 243
Griffin, Tim 232, 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Griffiths, Bill 303, 304, 310, 319, 324, 328, 337, 338, 345, 375, 379, 380, 386, 456, 476
Grossman, Allen 243
Grossman, Pam 243
Group, Poets 370
Grubbs, David 241
Guest, Barbara 187
Hadas, Rachel 398
Hall, Donald 356
Hall, Phil 486, 660
Halpern, Greg 74, 143
Halsey, Alan 206, 390
Hampton, Fred 241
Harper, Michael 652
Harris, Kaplan 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380, 445, 595
Harryman, Carla 42, 58, 94
Hart, Matt 273, 442, 489, 566
Hartley, George 405
Harvey, George 155, 416
Haslam, Michael 390
Hass, Robert 679
Hawkins, Ralph 390
Hawley, Anthony 241
Hawthorne, Nathaniel 242
Hayes, Jared 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380, 471
Heidegger, Martin 83, 183, 186
Hejinian, Lyn 23, 30, 64, 74, 94, 143, 233
Henderson, David 331, 394
Hennessy, John 99
Henning, Barbara 640
Henri, Charles 235, 307, 319, 323, 375, 379, 380
Herman, Rachel 146
Hewicker, Scott 55
Heyner, Matt 132
Hibbard, Tom 331
Higgins, Billy 212, 213
Hill, Crag 110, 331
Hillman, Brenda 187, 679
Hirsch, Edward 620
Hirshfield, Jane 253, 335
Hofer, Jen 22, 417, 464
Hogue, Cynthia 298
Hollander, Benjamin 604
Holman, Bob 102, 258
Holmes, Janet 253
Hood, Robin 385, 391
Horowitz, David 254
House, Poets 265
House, White 119, 501, 507, 514, 517, 519, 524, 527, 534, 541, 542, 546, 548, 551, 552, 553, 554, 556, 562, 564, 565, 638, 669
Howard, David 294
Howard, Scott 57, 294
Huang, Yunte 621
Hughes, Langston 230
Hughes, Peter 55, 241, 390
Hunt, Erica 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Hunter, Robert 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Iijima, Brenda 241
Indiana, Robert 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380, 427, 445, 595
Inman, Peter 274
Ireland, Lauren 638, 669
Israel, David 183, 186, 254, 299, 521, 541, 546, 551, 552, 554, 556, 562, 564, 565, 569, 582, 586, 596, 598, 600, 606, 608, 612, 613, 615, 617, 618, 638, 669
Israeli, Henry 21, 183, 186, 254, 299, 325, 568, 573, 608, 618, 638, 669
Jackson, Jesse 178, 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Jacob, Max 486, 660
Jamahl, Iris 258
Jameson, Fred 659
Janecek, Gerald 30
Jarnot, Lisa 60, 134, 284, 414
Jarvis, Simon 390
Javier, Paolo 15, 465
Jeanne, Sarah 65
Jeffery, Mark 545
Johanson, Reg 100, 274

Johns, Jasper 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Johnson, Kent 30, 156, 243
Johnston, Daniel 65
Jones, Rodney 659
Jordan, June 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380, 486, 675
Joselow, Beth 14, 273, 621
Joseph, Safdie 66, 221, 428, 526
Joyce, James 380, 535
Joyce, Trevor 206, 305, 308, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380, 584
Jullich, Jeffrey 61
Kafka, Franz 402, 549
Kane, Daniel 243
Kao, Jason 563
Karavatos, Nicholas 330
Kathryn, Mary 467
Keats, John 292
Keckler, Joseph 3, 12, 23, 30, 64, 73, 86, 87, 89, 91, 101, 106, 107, 113, 114, 117, 121, 124, 138, 236, 300, 335, 412, 424, 433, 437, 636, 641, 649, 651, 661, 662, 665, 670, 671, 678, 681, 684, 685, 687
Keene, John 445, 595
Keller, Helen 241
Kelley, Mike 245
Kelly, Patrick 368, 402
Kelly, Robert 5, 150, 461, 621
Kelsey, Karla 241
Kempton, Karl 86, 91, 330
Kendall, Robert 327, 579
Kennedy, David 42, 58, 467, 618
Kenner, Hugh 529, 535
Kerry, John 273, 489
Kim, Myung Mi 14
Kinsella, John 390
Kirschenbaum, David A. 102, 248, 260, 387, 436
Klein, Lucas 245
Knighton, Ryan 100
Knott, Bill 242
Knowles, Alison 580
Kocik, Robert 241
Koeneke, Rodney 466
Koshkin, Michael 609
Kostelanetz, Richard 335
Kuhl, Nancy 558, 581
Kuhn, Donna 331
Kyger, Joanne 241, 448, 458, 679
Lacan, Jacques 134, 284, 414, 463, 619
Lamoureux, Mark 273, 442, 489, 566
Lane, Adam 474
Lane, Patrick 255
Larkin, Maryrose 134, 284, 414
Larsen, David 22
Lau, David 465
Laughlin, James 241
Lauterbach, Ann 558, 581
Lavender, Bill 14, 294
Lazer, Hank 14, 580
Lease, Joseph 49, 537, 652
Leftwich, Jim 675
Lennon, John 549
Leonard, Tom 102, 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Levato, Francesco 258
Levitsky, Rachel 134, 284, 414, 619
Lewis, Bernard 174, 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380, 473, 677
Lewis, Tom W. 148, 153, 161, 164, 239, 349, 367
Lloyd, Frank 592, 607
Logan, William 234, 509, 513, 518, 530, 538, 583, 592, 607
Lomax, Alan 49, 537
London, Frank 102, 167, 235, 303, 308, 317, 319, 375, 379, 380, 476, 543, 638, 669
Lopez, Tony 15, 390
Lowe, Thomas 331
Lowell, Amy 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380, 676
Lundy, Dawn 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Luther, Martin 370
Lynn, Aldon 298
Mack, Tara 475
Mackey, Nathaniel 14, 351
Maclay, Sarah 489
Madison, James 10, 55, 116, 213, 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380, 388, 470
Madrid, Anthony 250
Magdalene, Mary 293, 297
Mallarmé, Stéphane 235
Manning, Nicholas 294, 299, 405
Manson, Doug 387, 524, 534, 542, 548, 551, 552, 562, 564, 565
Marie, Anne 309, 319, 375, 379, 380, 401
Marie, Joshua 660
Markson, David 134, 284, 414, 619
Markus, Peter 243
Marsh, Bill 265
Marshall, Robert 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380, 545
Marvin, Lee 659
Mason, George 220, 241, 254
Maxwell, Andrew 509, 513, 518, 530, 538
Mayer, Bernadette 241, 640, 679
Mayer, Jane 73, 113, 117, 121
McCaffery, Steve 580
Meltzer, David 448, 458, 679
Melville, Nicky 146, 204, 241
Menendez, Didi 283
Mengham, Rod 390
Meredith, William 100
Merrill, James 497

Mesmer, Sharon 316, 319, 406
Metcalf, Paul 255
Middle, Max 308, 319, 375, 379, 380
Mikkalo, Erika 258
Miller, Jane 679
Miller, Paul D. 206, 474, 638, 669
Miller, Sandra 331
Milne, Drew 390
Milosevich, Karla 49, 55
Milton, John 378, 383, 445, 595
Minter, Peter 390
Mir, Stan 331
Miriam, Erica 334
Mitchell, Joan 139, 179, 206, 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Mohammad, Kasey 156
Mollohan, Michael 331
Moody, Rick 343, 388, 514, 517, 519, 524, 527, 534, 541, 542, 546, 548, 551, 552, 553, 554, 556, 562, 564, 565, 604, 624
Moore, Allison 227
Moore, Nathaniel G. 185, 486, 660
Morris, Dee 42, 58, 400
Morton, Colin 660
Morton, Kathryn A. 84, 91, 103
Moschovakis, Anna 241, 558, 581
Moten, Fred 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Mott, Glenn 14
Mottram, Eric 303
Moure, Erin 243, 486, 660
Moxley, Jennifer 241, 390, 486
Muir, John 34, 43, 46, 48, 51
Muldoon, Paul 428
Mullen, Harryette 243
Mura, David 367
Murphy, Sheila E. 330, 660, 675
Murray, Ian 208
Myles, Eileen 297, 347
Nagami, Heather 14
Naka, Michelle 522
Nakell, Martin 234
Nathanson, Tenney 14, 640
Naylor, Paul 14
Neel, Alice 652
Nelson, Paul E. 167, 592, 607, 616
Nelson, Ted 512
Nevins, Bill 620
Newlove, John 255
Newman, Denise 537
Newsom, Joanna 122, 123, 124, 139
Newton, Keith 57
Nichols, Travis 213, 241
Nicholson, Andy 537
Nicholson, Todd 563
Nielsen, Aldon L. 5, 150, 461, 621
Nielsen, Lynn 298
Nixon, Richard 618
Noel, Urayoan 245
Nolan, Kevin 390
Norris, Ken 660
Notley, Alice 134, 284, 414, 619, 679
Obenzinger, Hilton 97, 462, 481, 495, 515
Olen, Robert 177
Oliver, John 5, 55, 150, 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380, 394
Oliver, Mary 208
Olson, Charles 134, 284, 325, 414, 619
Olson, Kirby 235
Oppen, George 343
Orser, Kristen 467
Ostriker, Alicia 245
Owen, Catherine 185, 660
Pacific, Asian 70, 272, 447
Padgett, Ron 652, 664
Padin, Clemente 15
Paige, Abby 660
Palmer, Michael 354
Parker, Frank 679
Parker, Michael 5, 66, 132, 150, 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380, 471
Parker, William 563
Parks, Lori 42, 58
Patchen, Kenneth 387
Paterson, Don 385, 391
Patterson, Ian 390
Patton, Julie 134, 284, 414, 619
Pearson, Ted 94
Peck, John 243
Perelman, Bob 94
Perez, Jamie 15
Perril, Simon 390
Perry, David 66, 257
Pessoa, Fernando 267, 456
Peterson, Tim 14
Pettet, Simon 390
Phillip, Andrew 14, 640
Phillips, Beth 317, 319, 379
Phillips, Carl 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Pickard, Tom 304, 310, 319, 375, 379, 380
Pinter, Harold 242
Piombino, Nick 14, 84, 91, 190, 270, 273, 442, 489, 566, 675
Plath, Sylvia 114, 138
Pluto, Annie 675
Pomerand, Gabriel 243
Posamentier, Evelyn 294
Pound, Ezra 640
Priego, Ernesto 675
Di Prima, Diane 167
Prince, Richard 99, 213, 626, 662, 686
Pritchett, Patrick 421, 580
Professor, Kelly 5, 150, 461, 621
Prunty, Randy 443
Prynne, J. H. 218, 243, 390

Purcell, Greg 355
Purcell, Jack 71, 355
Quartermain, Peter 100
Quinn, Alice 428, 581
Quixote, Don 84, 91
Rankine, Claudia 49
Raven, Francis 675
Raworth, Tom 303
Reading, Poets 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Reagan, Nancy 671, 678, 681, 684, 685, 687
Reid, Laurie 55
Reilly, Evelyn 241
Reuters, Boston 638, 669
Rexroth, Kenneth 242, 610
Reyes, Louis 241, 465
Reynolds, Rebecca 213
Rhodes, Martha 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Ribot, Marc 84, 91
Richards, Brian 86
Richter, Karl 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Riggs, Sarah 14
Riley, Peter 390
Rilke, Rainer Maria 390, 652
Rimbaud, Arthur 134, 188, 284, 414, 619
Rimbaud, Dee 188
Rizzo, Christopher 241
Roberts, Gary 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Roberts, Kim 86
Robertson, Lisa 49, 55, 100, 537
Robertson, Pat 608
Robinson, Elizabeth 86, 378, 383
Robinson, Kit 94
Robinson, Sophie 543, 550
Rodefer, Stephen 390
Rogal, Stan 660
Roosevelt, Franklin 509, 513, 518, 530, 538
Rose, Charlie 548, 552, 553, 562, 564, 565, 573
Rosenthal, Chuck 49
Ross, Stuart 486
Rothenberg, Jerry 448, 458, 679
Rowe, William 303
Rowntree, Dirk 241
Royer, Ric 12, 87, 114, 138, 200, 217, 233, 331, 543, 550
Ruby, Michael 442, 566
Ruggieri, Helen 447
Rumsfeld, Donald 568, 573
Saidenberg, Jocelyn 55, 74, 143
Salerno, Mark 54
Sanchez, Jorge 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380, 620
Sanyal, Sabyasachi 372
Sartre, Paul 307, 319, 323, 375, 379, 380
Sayers, Thomas 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Scappettone, Jen 49, 74, 143
Schjeldahl, Peter 186
Schneeman, George 103, 261
Schultz, Lou 47, 50, 183, 186, 251, 273, 358, 680
Schultz, Susan M. 251, 489
Schuyler, James 619
Seaton, Maureen 545
Sebastian, Nic 126, 133
Sedaris, David 227
Selby, Spencer 675
Seldess, Jesse 417
Severance, Gregory 167
Sexton, Anne 581
Shelley, Percy Bysshe 53, 620
Sherman, Bill 338, 345
Sherman, Cindy 316, 319
Shihab, Naomi 230
Siegel, Jeff 134
Siegell, Paul 675
Silem, Kasey 156
Silliman, Ron 14, 23, 30, 94, 188, 233, 354
Silverman, Oren 398
Simic, Charles 428
Simon, Greg 72, 86, 156, 238, 439
Simonds, Sandra 675
Sinclair, John 390, 471
Slease, Marcus 331
Sloan, Margaret 14
Smith, Harry 42, 55, 58, 243, 252, 283, 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380, 422, 466, 620
Smith, Marc 583, 592, 607
Smith, Tracy K. 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Smithson, Robert 235
Smoler, Michael 354
Snyder, Gary 156
Snyder, Rick 313, 319, 348, 349, 350, 351, 365, 378, 383
Solomon, Carl 318, 319, 375, 379, 380, 577
Solomon, Laura 318, 319, 577
Spahr, Boyd 103
Spahr, Juliana 103, 243
Sparrow, John 134, 284, 414, 486
Spears, Patricia 134, 284, 414, 619
Spears, Rebecca 684
Spicer, Jack 28, 182, 200, 217, 233, 354, 486
Spicer, John 14, 354
Spyker, James 71
Stackhouse, Christopher 445, 595
Stafford, William 325
Staiti, Erika 262
Stanley, George 100
Stanley, Jared 316, 319
Stein, Gertrude 11, 134, 148, 153, 284, 414, 619
Stein, Suzanne 74, 143
Steiner, Konrad 466
Stengel, Jill 515
Stevens, Wallace 241

Stewart, Christine 660
Strand, Mark 428
Strang, Brian 331
Strauss, Joshua 543
Strickland, Stephanie 187, 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Suknaski, Andrew 486
Sutherland, Keston 390
Svalina, Mathias 283
Swensen, Cole 80
Tabios, Eileen R. 265, 465, 675
Taggart, John 78
Tardi, Mark 243
Tarn, Nathaniel 14
Taylor, Tom 331
Terry, Philip 305, 319, 375, 379, 380, 610
Texas, Irving 102, 305, 311, 317, 319, 335, 375, 379, 380, 442, 566
Thesen, Sharon 100
Thomas, Dylan 58, 59, 64, 79, 113, 117, 120, 121, 185, 222, 241, 348, 349, 350, 351, 364, 365, 514, 517, 519, 524, 527, 534, 541, 542, 546, 548, 551, 552, 553, 554, 556, 562, 564, 565, 587, 597, 603, 606, 612, 613, 615, 618, 659, 660
Thompson, George 318, 319
Timberlake, Justin 122, 123, 124
Timm, Steve 611
Timmons, Matt 167
Topel, Andrew 146, 675
Toscano, Rodrigo 49, 401
Townsend, Cheryl 258, 465
Tranter, John 390
Treadwell, Elizabeth 14
Trevor, Jesse 584
Tribune, Chicago 592, 607, 610
Trinidad, David 545
Trujillo, Dorothy 274
Tubman, Harriet 610
Tucker, Aaron 354, 660
Tupitsyn, Masha 134, 284, 414, 619
Turner, Victor 177, 221, 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Tyler, Mary 227
Varnes, Kathrine 86, 359
Vengua, Jean 675
Vermont, Charlie 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380, 660
Veronica, Angela 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380, 467, 516
Vidaver, Aaron 274
Vincent, Gregory 190, 270
Virgil 325
Volpert, Megan 370, 387
Wallace, Nicole 86
Warhol, Andy 103
Warnell, Ted 331
Warner, Jim 273, 432, 489, 559, 563
Washington, George 102, 180, 220, 227, 229, 241, 254, 305, 311, 319, 332, 375, 379, 380, 402, 439, 442, 566, 577, 608, 616, 619, 638, 640, 659, 669
Waters, Michael 86
Watson, Scott 86, 445, 595
Watts, Carol 390
Weaver, Andy 660
Weber, Damian 457, 461, 463
Weber, Sam 362, 452, 457, 461, 463
Weinberger, Eliot 243, 356
Weiner, Hannah 134, 241, 284, 292, 414, 417, 619
Weiss, Irving 331
Welch, Jen 638, 669
Welish, Marjorie 390
Welsh, Lawrence 402
Whalen, Phil 313, 319, 348, 349, 350, 351, 365, 378, 383, 448, 458, 640, 679
Wharton, Samuel 185, 660
White, Jessica 247, 249, 263, 266
Whiting, John 241
Whitman, Walt 2, 11, 34, 43, 46, 48, 51, 325
Wilkinson, John 254, 390, 660
Williams, Diane 134, 284, 414, 619
Williams, Jonathan 292
Williams, Paul O. 245, 283, 305, 311, 319, 367, 375, 379, 380, 640, 673, 675
Williams, Tyrone 241
Williams, William Carlos 245
Williamson, Lindz 200, 217, 233
Williamson, Susan R. 663, 666, 667
Willis, Elizabeth 390
Willner, Evan 280
Wilson, Karen 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380, 660
Wittgenstein, Ludwig 134, 284, 414, 619
Wolfe, Thomas 617
Woolsey, James 638, 669
Wright, C. D. 243, 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380, 558, 581, 592, 607
Wright, Michelle 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Wyatt, Thomas 309, 319, 375, 379, 380
Yau, John 335, 400, 558, 581
Young, Mark 675
Young, Stephanie 243, 466
Zamsky, Robert L. 152, 181, 200, 217, 233
Zavatsky, Bill 245
Zavialova, Masha 31
Zukofsky, Louis 235
Zweig, Janet 103

CONCEPTS

9/11 22, 74, 134, 143, 169, 183, 186, 218, 235, 249, 263, 266, 316, 319, 325, 473, 514, 517, 519, 524, 527, 534, 541, 542,

546, 548, 551, 552, 553, 556, 562, 564, 565, 608
Activism and protest 149, 180, 246, 254, 299, 402, 439, 475, 624, 630
Aesthetics 42, 58, 241, 312, 319, 352, 362, 394, 428, 452, 457, 461, 463, 557, 583, 592, 605, 607
Afghanistan 95, 183, 186, 231, 562, 569, 582, 586, 600, 608, 617
African American poetry 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380
Anthologies 22, 30, 75, 81, 84, 91, 95, 134, 204, 241, 279, 281, 284, 296, 298, 317, 319, 359, 387, 390, 394, 398, 399, 414, 417, 447, 448, 458, 545, 605, 619, 672, 679
Anti-Semitism 183, 186, 521
Appropriation 10, 14, 85, 89, 101, 106, 107, 134, 229, 232, 272, 284, 322, 340, 352, 414, 539, 544, 619
Archives and libraries 21, 31, 62, 134, 183, 186, 197, 216, 253, 255, 277, 284, 299, 303, 319, 333, 335, 371, 375, 378, 379, 380, 383, 387, 414, 428, 471, 482, 493, 496, 500, 502, 506, 509, 513, 518, 520, 530, 538, 543, 550, 558, 575, 581, 584, 619, 658
Autobiography 1, 6, 13, 94, 134, 154, 188, 214, 241, 251, 253, 284, 316, 319, 385, 391, 414, 610, 640, 675
Avant-garde 30, 42, 58, 213
Beat generation 253, 448, 458, 679
Beauty 28, 45, 56, 62, 63, 75, 95, 134, 196, 241, 284, 414, 531, 570, 578, 619, 653
Biography 42, 58, 84, 91, 134, 180, 241, 284, 414, 624
Black Mountain 160, 351
Blogs 1, 3, 5, 6, 7, 8, 12, 13, 18, 22, 26, 27, 28, 29, 33, 35, 36, 45, 47, 50, 56, 58, 60, 62, 63, 68, 71, 72, 75, 76, 78, 87, 88, 90, 92, 93, 95, 96, 98, 104, 105, 107, 108, 114, 120, 134, 137, 138, 148, 149, 150, 153, 156, 161, 162, 164, 167, 180, 185, 187, 188, 189, 194, 210, 216, 225, 228, 229, 236, 238, 239, 241, 242, 246, 247, 249, 251, 255, 257, 260, 262, 263, 266, 267, 270, 273, 276, 277, 278, 280, 282, 284, 285, 286, 289, 292, 293, 294, 297, 299, 303, 325, 326, 334, 335, 337, 338, 339, 345, 347, 354, 355, 357, 358, 367, 368, 370, 371, 373, 376, 377, 387, 390, 394, 400, 401, 405, 414, 417, 422, 426, 433, 436, 437, 442, 447, 450, 452, 453, 455, 456, 457, 459, 461, 463, 465, 467, 470, 475, 476, 486, 489, 492, 498, 502, 504, 506, 508, 512, 520, 560, 566, 575, 578, 580, 588, 590, 592, 594, 607, 609, 616, 619, 621, 624, 635, 636, 641, 649, 651, 656, 660, 664, 670, 671, 676, 678, 680, 681, 682, 684, 685, 687
Book announcements 21, 72, 99, 103, 116, 134, 207, 238, 241, 251, 253, 255, 265, 284, 298, 302, 306, 319, 353, 364, 366, 375, 379, 380, 387, 390, 414, 417, 432, 511, 640, 650, 652, 675
Bookstores 207, 214, 291, 347, 369, 373, 376, 417, 486, 509, 513, 518, 530, 538
Calls for submissions 42, 58, 105, 291, 352, 399, 626
Capitalism 65, 187, 268, 269, 608
Censorship 21, 156, 235, 618
Cities 22, 79, 174, 226, 231, 262, 299, 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380, 592, 607, 610, 642, 676
Climate 231
Collage and montage 640
Conferences and festivals 10, 39, 42, 56, 58, 62, 63, 65, 177, 180, 183, 186, 206, 213, 220, 234, 245, 254, 255, 299, 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380, 385, 391, 402, 447, 451, 462, 477, 481, 486, 495, 505, 515, 536, 558, 581, 589, 619, 621, 624, 634, 679, 682
Copyright and permissions 104, 108, 111, 115, 122, 123, 124, 137, 139, 148, 153, 161, 164, 198, 256, 268, 269, 296, 448, 458, 626, 652, 679, 683
Craft 180, 253
Creative writing pedagogy 88, 90, 206, 235, 475
Deconstruction 244, 359
Difficulty 200, 217, 233, 250, 480, 490, 523, 591, 614, 616
Digital archives 103
Disability 82, 232, 465, 505, 630
Dreams 103, 194, 236, 272, 298, 313, 319, 327, 348, 349, 350, 351, 365, 378, 383, 394, 494, 610
Ecology and ecopoetics 156, 241, 272, 426, 433, 437, 448, 458, 631, 637, 645, 657, 679
Editing 178, 214, 229, 273, 305, 311, 319, 375, 379, 380, 387, 428, 440, 487, 489, 491
Electronic poetry and hypertext 107, 146, 187, 241, 283, 400, 417, 487, 491, 492, 498, 499, 504, 508, 512, 525, 532, 539, 544, 558, 567, 572, 574, 579, 580, 581
Elegy 390
Empire and imperialism 156, 235, 352, 405, 427, 661
Epic 545
Epistemology 360, 362, 452, 457, 461, 463, 576
Erasure 241, 590, 640
Ethics 183, 186, 235, 515, 557
Experimental poetry 273, 489, 580
Fascism 608

Feminism 134, 226, 243, 284, 298, 305, 311, 319, 327, 375, 379, 380, 387, 414, 619, 636, 641, 649, 651, 661, 665, 670, 671, 678, 681, 684, 685, 687
Film 1, 6, 13, 17, 21, 55, 102, 103, 134, 179, 180, 187, 188, 253, 255, 261, 284, 414, 466, 471, 494, 510, 536, 545, 549, 568, 573, 576, 619, 620, 675, 686
Fluxus 188
Free speech 402, 568, 573, 608
Futurism 30, 583, 592, 607
Gender 98, 116, 134, 226, 284, 414, 619, 624, 665, 671, 678, 681, 684, 685, 687
Ghazal 319, 375, 379, 380
Globalization 640
Grants and funding 49, 65, 71, 119, 214, 299, 339, 373, 376, 385, 391, 397, 421, 440, 448, 458, 557, 561, 580, 619, 679, 683
Haiku 14, 207, 318, 319, 363, 447, 448, 458, 577, 679
Humour and satire 71, 98, 101, 105, 106, 107, 179, 206, 240, 304, 310, 319, 326, 354, 375, 379, 380, 448, 458, 527, 541, 546, 551, 554, 556, 661, 669, 675, 679
Identity politics 465
Ideology 69, 82, 186, 402
Improvisation 134, 160, 204, 284, 414, 618, 619, 620, 659
Interviews 28, 93, 107, 111, 115, 122, 123, 124, 139, 185, 187, 190, 212, 255, 270, 299, 303, 325, 326, 354, 366, 377, 387, 402, 427, 439, 447, 546, 551, 553, 554, 560, 580, 587, 594, 597, 603, 606, 610, 612, 613, 615, 618, 630, 660, 664, 675
Israel and Palestine 21, 183, 186, 254, 299, 325, 329, 462, 477, 481, 495, 515, 521, 524, 534, 541, 542, 546, 548, 551, 552, 553, 554, 556, 562, 564, 565, 568, 569, 573, 582, 586, 596, 598, 600, 606, 608, 612, 613, 615, 617, 618, 638, 669
Jewish poetics 638, 659, 669
Language poetry 11, 23, 30, 156, 160, 207
Latino and Latin American poetry 15, 231, 480, 490, 523, 591, 614, 616
Letters and correspondence 17, 154, 226, 229, 332, 397, 630, 638, 669
List moderation 223, 305, 311, 319, 331, 375, 379, 380, 405, 465, 515, 624
Little magazines 78, 81, 92, 134, 148, 153, 156, 172, 183, 186, 187, 189, 204, 214, 227, 229, 232, 241, 250, 253, 258, 259, 264, 273, 274, 284, 285, 286, 291, 292, 299, 301, 303, 305, 311, 313, 317, 318, 319, 348, 349, 350, 351, 363, 365, 375, 378, 379, 380, 383, 386, 387, 395, 401, 405, 414, 417, 419, 421, 428, 440, 442, 445, 447, 462, 477, 481, 489, 495, 513, 515, 518, 520, 530, 566, 580, 594, 595, 610, 630, 647, 672
Lyric poetry 22, 84, 91, 124, 188, 217, 233, 652, 685
Materiality of the text 235, 241
Memory 84, 91, 168, 182, 200, 217, 232, 233, 244, 255, 302, 316, 319, 385, 391, 531, 570, 578, 640, 686
MFA programs 17, 125, 134, 250, 253, 284, 332, 414, 419, 440, 537, 575, 577, 594, 611, 619, 630, 642, 663, 666, 667, 676
Modernism 19, 23, 30, 31, 59, 64, 68, 116, 352, 652
Mourning and loss 164, 214, 298, 303, 316, 319, 531, 570, 578, 627
Music and poetry 10, 11, 16, 18, 27, 33, 39, 75, 84, 91, 95, 102, 103, 107, 122, 123, 124, 132, 134, 136, 139, 145, 151, 152, 155, 158, 160, 172, 179, 181, 183, 186, 187, 198, 199, 200, 204, 210, 217, 218, 228, 233, 235, 237, 241, 253, 284, 287, 294, 305, 311, 319, 327, 336, 375, 379, 380, 387, 402, 414, 419, 442, 445, 447, 448, 458, 474, 500, 501, 507, 509, 513, 514, 517, 518, 519, 524, 527, 530, 531, 534, 536, 538, 541, 542, 543, 545, 546, 548, 549, 551, 552, 553, 554, 556, 559, 562, 563, 564, 565, 566, 570, 578, 594, 595, 619, 620, 634, 636, 641, 649, 651, 659, 661, 665, 670, 671, 675, 678, 679, 681, 684, 685, 686, 687
Nationalism 183, 186, 352, 568, 573, 596, 598
Nature 14, 141, 156, 226, 232, 235, 307, 319, 339, 375, 379, 380, 454, 470, 492, 498, 504, 508, 512, 593, 673, 674
Negativity and refusal 235, 596, 598
New York School 60
Obituary and memorial 124, 294, 324, 328, 337, 338, 345, 476
Ontology 1, 6, 13, 134, 156, 360, 362, 384, 452, 457, 461, 463, 576
Oulipo 84, 91
Performance and the poetry reading 36, 66, 84, 91, 99, 187, 220, 221, 241, 245, 305, 308, 311, 319, 333, 334, 364, 375, 379, 380, 389, 400, 405, 408, 432, 434, 465, 486, 501, 507, 514, 517, 519, 522, 524, 527, 534, 541, 542, 545, 546, 548, 551, 552, 553, 554, 556, 562, 564, 565, 580, 583, 592, 594, 605, 607, 621, 630, 634, 635, 642, 658, 663, 666, 667, 676, 683
Phenomenology 83, 236, 312, 319
Philosophy 183, 186, 218, 226, 336, 476, 576, 610, 659, 675
Place and region 22, 156, 235, 287, 447, 500, 509, 513, 518, 530, 538, 576, 679
Poet laureate 394

Poetics 1, 6, 9, 13, 22, 42, 56, 57, 58, 61, 62, 63, 66, 67, 84, 91, 94, 117, 121, 148, 153, 156, 160, 161, 164, 174, 175, 202, 217, 233, 241, 243, 250, 273, 274, 280, 312, 314, 317, 319, 321, 324, 328, 337, 338, 345, 349, 351, 352, 363, 369, 375, 379, 380, 387, 393, 395, 444, 450, 455, 459, 464, 473, 489, 493, 495, 496, 515, 543, 546, 551, 554, 630, 634, 639, 640, 658, 677, 679
Poets Against the War 180
Politics and poetry 156
Post-avant 156
Post-structuralism 428
Postmodernism 19, 23, 30, 59, 64
Print vs. digital 80, 84, 91, 179, 183, 186, 207, 220, 241, 255, 282, 294, 299, 305, 311, 315, 318, 319, 351, 375, 379, 380, 381, 385, 391, 432, 453, 462, 521, 558, 581, 589, 618, 627, 639, 640, 672, 679, 683
Prizes and awards 17, 65, 66, 99, 103, 119, 134, 154, 187, 206, 214, 221, 227, 241, 245, 250, 253, 284, 315, 316, 317, 319, 364, 375, 379, 380, 385, 391, 394, 414, 428, 448, 458, 486, 545, 605, 619, 640, 679, 683
Procedural and constraint writing 203
Prose poem 80, 187, 387, 652, 675
Prosody and meter 73, 113, 117, 121, 241, 262
Psychoanalysis 134, 261, 284, 360, 362, 414, 452, 457, 461, 463, 619, 627
Queer poetics 52, 69, 79, 82, 134, 253, 284, 414, 552, 562, 565, 587, 597, 603, 606, 612, 613, 615, 618, 619
Race and poetry 156, 186, 299, 445, 454, 475, 595, 624
Reading announcements 74, 99, 143, 257, 390, 406, 417, 419, 429, 465, 501, 507, 514, 517, 519, 524, 527, 534, 541, 542, 546, 548, 551, 552, 553, 554, 556, 562, 564, 565, 610
Religion and the sacred 35, 45, 56, 62, 63, 70, 88, 90, 107, 131, 144, 147, 163, 164, 166, 175, 186, 236, 244, 472, 546, 551, 554, 557, 561, 596, 598, 615, 618, 669, 673
Representation 84, 91, 302, 384, 515, 574, 624, 652
Reviewing and criticism 12, 22, 29, 72, 84, 91, 94, 97, 99, 100, 107, 122, 123, 124, 134, 136, 138, 139, 151, 155, 158, 159, 178, 179, 183, 186, 187, 188, 199, 204, 214, 232, 238, 243, 252, 264, 271, 273, 284, 299, 303, 317, 318, 319, 332, 337, 352, 353, 369, 371, 384, 385, 391, 393, 414, 432, 442, 445, 447, 463, 472, 489, 495, 497, 502, 506, 510, 515, 545, 550, 559, 566, 577, 580, 594, 595, 610, 619, 630, 634, 652, 654, 683
Revision 10, 134, 284, 352, 414, 619
School of Quietude 679
Science 107, 232, 312, 317, 319, 336, 360, 362, 384, 452, 457, 461, 463, 475, 576, 605, 618, 672
Semiotics 42, 58, 200, 217, 233, 235, 312, 319, 574
Serial poem 243, 640
Small press publishing 4, 20, 22, 32, 49, 55, 60, 70, 71, 74, 81, 84, 91, 94, 102, 143, 185, 218, 241, 252, 253, 255, 260, 280, 302, 309, 317, 318, 319, 333, 337, 355, 359, 375, 377, 379, 380, 385, 387, 391, 394, 398, 417, 421, 436, 486, 537, 543, 577, 640, 642, 660, 663, 666, 667, 676, 683
Social media 36, 47, 50, 167, 187, 189, 218, 251, 277, 299, 309, 319, 357, 358, 373, 375, 376, 379, 380, 434, 447, 619, 680
Software and code 20, 49, 180, 210, 228, 297, 308, 319, 375, 379, 380, 439, 440, 499, 504, 508, 512
Sonnet 14, 43, 46, 48, 51, 73, 113, 117, 121, 163, 166, 175, 227, 325, 326, 390, 574, 640
Sound poetry 30, 331, 364
Structuralism 428
Subjectivity 75, 95, 187, 192, 202, 204, 213, 227, 253, 402, 515, 624
Surrealism 16, 18, 27, 235
Terrorism 55, 119, 183, 186, 608, 618
The academy 5, 17, 24, 25, 37, 42, 51, 58, 88, 90, 116, 125, 134, 150, 154, 156, 178, 183, 185, 186, 198, 200, 204, 206, 214, 217, 218, 220, 226, 227, 229, 231, 232, 233, 234, 241, 250, 252, 253, 254, 275, 280, 284, 299, 304, 305, 308, 310, 311, 316, 319, 325, 326, 332, 333, 351, 364, 371, 373, 374, 375, 376, 379, 380, 382, 387, 389, 397, 400, 402, 414, 417, 421, 428, 443, 445, 461, 463, 470, 482, 545, 555, 558, 577, 580, 581, 595, 605, 606, 608, 610, 611, 612, 613, 615, 618, 619, 621, 624, 630, 640, 658, 659, 660, 672, 682, 683
The body 62, 63, 105, 180, 187, 236, 261, 312, 319, 384, 448, 458, 474, 674, 679
The canon 652
The Holocaust 183, 186, 299, 477, 481, 495, 501, 507, 514, 515, 517, 519, 524, 527, 534, 541, 542, 546, 548, 551, 552, 553, 554, 556, 562, 564, 565, 568, 573, 596, 597, 598, 601, 603, 606, 612, 613, 615, 618
The internet 14, 70, 140, 142, 198, 204, 279, 281, 283, 291, 299, 332, 381, 399, 487, 492, 498, 499, 504, 508, 512, 548, 552, 553, 562, 564, 565, 566, 576, 579, 599, 610, 619, 627, 652, 654
The Iraq war 10, 95, 119, 164, 180, 183, 186, 231, 235, 243, 299, 325, 326, 329, 514,

517, 519, 524, 527, 534, 541, 542, 546, 548, 551, 552, 553, 554, 556, 562, 564, 565, 569, 582, 586, 596, 598, 600, 606, 608, 612, 613, 615, 617, 618
The line 152, 181, 200, 204, 217, 233
The listserv 31, 66, 134, 152, 167, 181, 200, 201, 209, 210, 216, 217, 221, 228, 229, 233, 253, 254, 284, 298, 299, 339, 414, 427, 487, 491, 493, 496, 530, 619, 642, 661, 663, 666, 667, 669, 676
Theatre 10, 34, 42, 43, 46, 48, 51, 55, 58, 66, 132, 134, 177, 188, 198, 213, 221, 229, 235, 245, 284, 287, 297, 327, 343, 364, 385, 388, 391, 414, 471, 474, 514, 517, 519, 524, 527, 534, 539, 541, 542, 544, 546, 548, 551, 552, 553, 554, 556, 562, 564, 565, 583, 592, 604, 607, 617, 619, 624, 638, 659, 669, 674
Torture and Abu Ghraib 10, 21, 213, 235, 307, 319, 323, 336, 375, 379, 380, 568, 573 Translation 19, 21, 22, 23, 30, 31, 56, 59, 62, 63, 64, 65, 68, 134, 152, 156, 164, 181, 198, 200, 204, 217, 223, 230, 233, 235, 241, 251, 252, 262, 270, 271, 284, 291, 294, 308, 318, 319, 339, 375, 379, 380, 390, 414, 417, 422, 428, 463, 464, 466, 486, 507, 514, 517, 519, 524, 527, 534, 541, 542, 546, 548, 551, 552, 553, 554, 556, 562, 564, 565, 577, 580, 582, 586, 590, 600, 609, 617, 652, 673, 683
Vietnam 608
Visual and concrete poetry 77, 84, 91, 97, 112, 146, 152, 165, 181, 200, 204, 207, 217, 233, 235, 322, 340, 341, 346, 361, 364, 467, 491, 499, 539, 544, 567, 574, 579, 599, 602, 654, 674, 675
Visual art 12, 15, 40, 60, 61, 66, 103, 112, 218, 221, 235, 236, 240, 241, 262, 285, 286, 292, 294, 322, 330, 333, 340, 389, 419, 465, 471, 500, 509, 513, 518, 530, 536, 538, 594, 599, 619, 648, 652, 659, 675, 679
Women's writing 172

Contents

Every entry links to its message. 687 in all.

31 AUG 2007

1. Jason Quackenbush — Re: Five Enemies,
2. andy hall — Re: Five Enemies,
3. W.B. Keckler — What do pork, Britney, Tao Lin and Walmart have in common?
4. Eric Elshtain — New Beard of Bees Gnoetry0.2 Chapbook

1 SEP 2007

5. ALDON L NIELSEN — Nielsen Broadcast
6. Alan Sondheim — Re: Five Enemies,
7. Peter Ciccariello — The Conversation
8. J Crockett — re :: Pavement Saw Press
9. Alan Sondheim — Ground Plain
10. Andy Gricevich — Strange political theater and music in the San Francisco Fringe!
11. Ruth Lepson — Re: Five Enemies,
12. W.B. Keckler — Review of Ric Royer's performance art & how to be an instant genius of a pai...
13. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: Five Enemies,
14. charles alexander — sale: the last 10 chax press books
15. David Chirot — Fwd: From Clemente Padin: Concent rado Acción - Concentrated Action
16. Stephen Vincent — Bo Diddley - Who Do You Love? - health, etc.
17. Jennifer Karmin — JOB: University of Southern California
18. Jill Jones — Re: Bo Diddley - Who Do You Love? - health, etc.

2 SEP 2007

19. Eireene Nealand — Russian Posmodernism
20. Eric Elshtain — New Gnoetry0.2 chapbook on Beard of Bees
21. David Chirot — "Redacted" stuns Venice/"Redacted" redacted for release/Govt, lawyers involv...
22. Patrick F. Durgin — Kenning Editions: subscribe by credit card
23. W.B. Keckler — Re: Russian Posmodernism
24. George Bowering — Re: "Confusations: Seven Photographs and a Commentary"
25. Joel Weishaus — "Confusations: Seven Photographs and a Commentary"
26. J Crockett — for poets
27. Stephen Vincent — Re: Bo Diddley - Who Do You Love? - health, etc.
28. Stephen Vincent — New de Blog,Interview,
29. reJennifer Bartlett — Lee Bartlett - Marginalized Critic
30. David Chirot — Re: Russian Posmodernism
31. Maria Damon — [Fwd: Re: [Fwd: Russian Posmodernism]]
32. Mandy Laughtland — free Teeny Tiny mini book
33. CA Conrad — FOR THE LOVE OF NEEDLES!!!!
34. Gabriel Gudding — Re: Five Enemies,

3 SEP 2007

35. CA Conrad — Re: Five Enemies,
36. Charlie Rossiter — Blogs--who reads them?
37. Joel Weishaus — "Confusations: Seven Photographs and a Commentary"
38. Alexander Jorgensen — Prague, Czech Republic
39. Alan Sondheim — CAULDRON VICTORIA
40. William James Austin — Blackbox submissions
41. Eric Elshtain — Correct Bees link
42. laura hinton — call for papers on poet's theater
43. mIEKAL aND — Re: Five Enemies,
44. Halvard Johnson — Re: Five Enemies,

45. Bobbi Lurie — Re: Five Enemies,
46. Gabrielle Welford — Re: Five Enemies,
47. Susan Webster Schultz — sidewalk blog (political content)
48. Jason Quackenbush — Re: Five Enemies,
49. Small Press Traffic — News from Small Press Traffic
50. Gabrielle Welford — Re: sidewalk blog (political content)
51. Gabrielle Welford — Re: Five Enemies,

4 SEP 2007

52. Elizabeth Switaj — Re: Five Enemies,
53. Gabrielle Welford — "Disgruntled Former Lexicographer" (fwd)
54. [redacted] — Salerno Reading in Prescott, AZ
55. Kevin Killian — If you're in San Francisco on September 7
56. Niels hav — Re: Five Enemies,
57. Bob Marcacci — Re: Five Enemies,
58. Thomas savage — Re: call for papers on poet's theater
59. Thomas savage — Re: Russian Posmodernism
60. angela vasquez-giroux — Revelator Press announces the release of Tim Lane's "Pure Pop"
61. Poetics List — New Poetry Press Reading in Brooklyn - on behalf of Joshua Clover
62. Bobbi Lurie — Re: Five Enemies,
63. Bobbi Lurie — Re: Five Enemies
64. W.B. Keckler — Re: Russian Posmodernism
65. Maria Damon — [Fwd: Digital media and learning grants]
66. Michael Kelleher — Literary Buffalo E-Newsletter 9.03.07-9.09.07
67. Skip Fox — Re: Five Enemies,
68. David Chirot — Re: Russian Posmodernism--Philip Metres
69. Jason Quackenbush — Re: Five Enemies,
70. Gabrielle Welford — WOMEN RESISTING MILITARISM AND CREATING A CULTURE OF LIFE (fwd)
71. Rob McLennan — the ottawa small press book fair - fall edition
72. Simon DeDeo — new on rhubarb is susan
73. W.B. Keckler — it's great to be senile
74. Leslie Scalapino — O Books 9/11 reading at City Lights
75. Halvard Johnson — Second call for poetry submissions for Big Bridge 13 (Jan. '08)
76. Dale Smith — Possum Ego
77. David Chirot — FIRST VISUAL POETRY BOOK PUBLISHED IN TURKEY APPEARS
78. Potree Journal — LRL Reading Period Now Open
79. wil Hallgren — Re: home schooling
80. Karen Randall — Portrait Sitters
81. Tarpaulin Sky Press & Journal — Call for full-length & chap manuscripts of poetry / fiction…
82. Bobbi Lurie — Re: Five Enemies,

5 SEP 2007

83. Alan Sondheim — phenomenology of radio earth
84. Schneider Hill — Time to Preorder Nico Vassilakis' Text Loses Time
85. Charlie Rossiter — beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
86. Dan Waber — ars poetica update
87. W.B. Keckler — Sheila Black, Larissa Shmailo and others are poeting away…
88. heidi arnold — Re: Five Enemies,/of educational systems
89. W.B. Keckler — Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
90. heidi arnold — Re: Five Enemies,/of educational systems
91. W.B. Keckler — Re: Time to Preorder Nico Vassilakis' Text Loses Time
92. CA Conrad — LIT MAGAZINE #13 NYC LAUNCH THIS FRIDAY
93. CA Conrad — PhillySound Feature #6: Ryan Eckes /\\//\\\\\////\\\\\\//////\\\\\\\\\////////
94. Barrett Watten — The Grand Piano 4 and Site Launch
95. Mark Pawlak — Re: Second call for poetry submissions for Big Bridge 13 (Jan. '08)
96. amy king — Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

97. David Chirot — A Report by Hilton Obenzinger on Both Sides of the Wall/Turkish Visual Poetr...
98. Jason Quackenbush — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
99. Fulcrum Annual — Poets Hennessy, Hall and Hock in NYC, Sat Sept 8
100. Jenny Penberthy — The Capilano Review
101. crystal hoffman — Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
102. David A. Kirschenbaum — Fall Events in Boog City
103. UbuWeb — UBUWEB :: Featured Resources Summer / Fall 2007 by Spahr & Koestenbaum

6 SEP 2007

104. CA Conrad — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
105. Jill Chan — Call for submissions
106. cralan kelder — Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
107. cralan kelder — Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
108. Barry Schwabsky — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
109. Elizabeth Switaj — Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
110. Dan Waber — Six Word Series, for Tom Beckett, by Crag Hill
111. amy king — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
112. Dan Waber — August's $100 winner at vispoets.com
113. Thomas savage — Re: it's great to be senile
114. W.B. Keckler — Joe Brainard's Pyjamas Needs Your Exhalations, Vociferations & Ululations
115. Ana Bozicevic-Bowling — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
116. Cassandra Laity — Eliot book now in paperback
117. Skip Fox — Re: it's great to be senile
118. Amanda Earl — August's $100 winner at vispoets.com
119. David Chirot — FW: Peace action: ACT TODAY //Congress set to analyse White House report on ...
120. Halvard Johnson — Re: it's great to be senile
121. W.B. Keckler — Re: it's great to be senile
122. Brian Howe — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
123. Barry Schwabsky — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
124. W.B. Keckler — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
125. Jennifer Karmin — JOB: Wichita State University
126. Herb Levy — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
127. crystal hoffman — Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
128. crystal hoffman — Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
129. Maria Damon — Re: North-5 Text-4
130. Joel Weishaus — North-5 Text-4
131. mIEKAL aND — Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
132. steve d. dalachinsky — living music
133. Barry Schwabsky — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
134. Poetry Project — Events at The Poetry Project September 2007
135. George Bowering — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
136. George Bowering — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
137. Ruth Lepson — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
138. Ruth Lepson — Re: Joe Brainard's Pyjamas Needs Your Exhalations, Vociferations & Ululations
139. midwest daisy — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
140. amy king — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
141. Suzanne Burns — Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
142. Bobbi Lurie — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
143. Ruth Lepson — Re: O Books 9/11 reading at City Lights

7 SEP 2007

144. Gabrielle Welford — Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
145. Alan Sondheim — Grim(e) Day
146. Dan Waber — 25 by Andrew Topel

147. Bobbi Lurie — Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
148. Tom W. Lewis — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
149. CA Conrad — arrests made for hanging anti war protest posters for 9/15 march in DC
150. cris cheek — Re: Nielsen Broadcast
151. Brian Howe — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
152. Zamsky, Robert — Voice and the Performance of Poetry
153. Halvard Johnson — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
154. Dodie Bellamy — Dodie Bellamy Fall Prose Workshop (in San Francisco)
155. George Bowering — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
156. David Chirot — Absent 2:
157. Camille Martin — Lyn Hejinian's email?
158. Mark Weiss — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
159. elizabeth block — okay, so i found this compelling...
160. Vernon Frazer — Voice and teh Performance of Poery
161. Bobbi Lurie — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
162. Brian Howe — New on Glossolalia: ELLA FINDS HER VOICE
163. mIEKAL aND — Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
164. Bobbi Lurie — Re: Are young female poets ...and further info. on saddam quote

8 SEP 2007

165. Jim Andrews — Iconoclasistas
166. Gabrielle Welford — Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
167. Paul Nelson — Poetry Postcards
168. holsapple1 — Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry
169. Alan Sondheim — 2000 9/11s
170. George Bowering — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
171. Suzanne Burns — Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
172. Marcus Bales — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
173. David-Baptiste Chirot — [redacted] sent you a link to content of interest
174. Lewis LaCook — The monolith at the beginning of september
175. Bobbi Lurie — Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
176. mIEKAL aND — Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
177. Nick Carbo — Jim Brock, Nick Carbo, & Denise Duhamel at Sanibel Writer's Conference Oct 4-7
178. Jennifer Karmin — JOB: The Georgia Review
179. charles alexander — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
180. Catherine Daly — Fwd: Call for Panel Proposals for Split This Rock Poetry Festival - Due De…
181. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry
182. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry
183. steve russell — Re: [redacted] sent you a link to content of interest
184. Jeffrey Side — The Argotist Online currently down
185. Rob McLennan — 12 or 20 questions
186. Bobbi Lurie — response to book announcement
187. Carol Novack — October 5th Mad Hatters' Review Reading
188. David Chirot — A Letter to Ron Silliman from Il Maestro G.A. Vidiamodopo re "Grand Piano de…
189. J Crockett — I love poetry.
190. Jeffrey Side — Nick Piombino interview at The Argotist Online
191. Jeffrey Side — Argotist back online
192. holsapple1 — Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry

9 SEP 2007

193. Joel Weishaus — North-5 Text-5- completing the project
194. Peter Ciccariello — Brass trope dream
195. Jesse Glass — Voice and Performance
196. Alan Sondheim — of utmost beauty

197. Barrett Watten — Grand Piano updates
198. Anny Ballardini — Euripides' Hipplytos by Jon Corelis on the Poets' Corner
199. Brian Howe — Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
200. Russo, Linda V. — Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry
201. noah eli gordon — tec. help
202. Vernon Frazer — Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry
203. Tribbey, Hugh R. — Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry
204. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry
205. cris cheek — fuck silence
206. Burt Kimmelman — Call for Panels, Papers, & Readings
207. Bob Grumman — My New Book, From Haiku To Lyriku
208. Burt Kimmelman — NYC and NJ Readings
209. Ryan Daley — Re: tec. help
210. Jilly Dybka — Re: tec. help
211. noah eli gordon — Re: tec. help
212. Bruce Holsapple — Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry

10 SEP 2007

213. Kevin Killian — If you're in San Francisco, and want to see something fantastic, 214. Kevin Killian — Don Waters
215. Alan Sondheim — dad
216. John Latta — Re: Grand Piano updates
217. Zamsky, Robert — Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry
218. Justin Katko — Providence: The Program @ Firehouse 13
219. Catherine Daly — Re: tec. help
220. Betsy Andrews — Betsy Andrews readings in DC/Baltimore next two weeks
221. Michael Kelleher — Liiterary Buffalo E-Newsletter 10.10.07-10.16.07
222. Thomas savage — Re: fuck silence
223. { brad brace } — 12hr update
224. Schlesinger Kyle — Curtis FAVILLE?
225. Therese Broderick — tec. help
226. Jennifer Karmin — JOB: Pitzer College
227. Evan Munday — David McGimpsey and funny, serious poetry
228. Eric Dickey — Re: tec. help
229. Pierre Joris — University at Albany position for poet
230. Charlotte Mandel — poetry course, Barnard Women's Center
231. David-Baptiste Chirot — Signs of the Changing Americas: Venezuela Ambassador to Speak Wed....
232. mIEKAL aND — Alex the African Grey parrot and subject of landmark studies of bird intellige...
233. Tribbey, Hugh R. — Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry
234. Jane Sprague — & Now Festival
235. David Chirot — Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry
236. W.B. Keckler — James Chapman's Degenerescence (new novel in poetry) and 20 Ways to Wean Fri...
237. Alan Sondheim — The Mountains
238. Simon DeDeo — new on rhubarb is susan this week
239. Tom W. Lewis — three sound collages
240. Catherine Daly — Fwd: Y-Phyle Zine needs storytellers, essayists, artists

11 SEP 2007

241. Gary Sullivan — SEGUE SERIES FALL / WINTER 2007-08
242. Rachel Loden — recently on wordstrumpet
243. Joshua Kotin — Announcing Chicago Review 53:2/4 - Preorder!
244. Alan Sondheim — Mathesis of Killing Field
245. Lewis Warsh — Wiliam Carlos Williams Poetry Symposium

246. CA Conrad — Death of trans immigrant Victoria Arellano while in detention forges united pro...
247. CA Conrad — Jill Jones, Jessica White, Jaime Anne Earnest, Joey Yearous-Algozin PHILLY EVENT
248. David A. Kirschenbaum — OT: NYC-Area/Last Mets Reg. Season Game Tix for Sale
249. Mark Weiss — Re: Jill Jones, Jessica White, Jaime Anne Earnest, Joey Yearous-Algozin PHILLY...
250. William Slaughter — Notice: Mudlark
251. Susan Webster Schultz — TINFISH PRESS SEPTEMBER NEWS
252. Matt Henriksen — Fri Sept 14 ~ Goldstein & Turovskaya ~ Carroll Gardens, Brooklyn
253. David-Baptiste Chirot — FW:Woodland Pattern: Small Press Focus: Ahsahta Press this Sunday
254. David Chirot — Fwd: US Campaign Adopts Proposals on Apartheid, Boycott, and Nakba
255. Rob McLennan — A Long Continual Argument: The Selected Poems of John Newlove
256. Bobbi Lurie — let's talk about language
257. Ricejunk2 — Reading at the Bowery Poetry Club Oct 2, 6 p.m.
258. Lisa Janssen — MoonLit #2 Out Now!
259. noah eli gordon — Re: Tec. Help
260. David A. Kirschenbaum — Advertise in Boog City 45
261. Alan Sondheim — Notes for a talk on 'human modeling'

12 SEP 2007

262. Dillon Westbrook — Prosody Castle 3a in Oakland, Ca 9/13
263. wild honey — Re: Jill Jones, Jessica White, Jaime Anne Earnest, Joey Yearous-Algozin PHILLY...
264. J Crockett — Listenlight 2.0
265. Tom Beckett — Marsh Haw Press Invites You!
266. Jill Jones — Re: Jill Jones, Jessica White, Jaime Anne Earnest, Joey Yearous-Algozin PHILLY...
267. Pierre Joris — Nomadics blog is back
268. Elizabeth Switaj — Re: let's talk about language
269. Bobbi Lurie — Re: let's talk about language
270. St. Thomasino — Conjugation, my love.
271. Mark Weiss — Book Review
272. Jennifer Karmin — JOB: Sitka Center
273. amy king — mid)rib issue 1 now online!
274. PARSER - New Poetry and Poetics — Announcing PARSER lpls fwd]
275. reJennifer Bartlett — Derivative of the Moving Image
276. linda norton — poetry and war

13 SEP 2007

277. Adam — Got a book in Print? Let's LIBRARY it!
278. Peter Ciccariello — Ampersand listing
279. Alexander Jorgensen — Best of the Web - Question
280. William Allegrezza — Series A in Chicago: Corey and Willner
281. T. A. Noonan — Re: Best of the Web - Question
282. Anny Ballardini — Bob Grumman
283. amy king — diode - #1
284. Poetry Project — Events at The Poetry Project
285. Jane Sprague — list & books
286. Alexander Jorgensen — Re: list & books
287. Alan Sondheim — Ah
288. Halvard Johnson — Re: Ah

14 SEP 2007

289. barbara jane bermeo — Re: list & books
290. Dan Salmon — The Water Cure

291. Jessica Wickens — Call for Submissions - Monday Night Issue 6
292. Gerald Schwartz — Re: list & books
293. angela vasquez-giroux — Re: list & books
294. Anny Ballardini — the Poets' Corner
295. brian whitener — reading....
296. Jennifer Karmin — SUBMISSIONS: Just Like a Girl
297. kevin thurston — Re: list & books
298. Charlotte Mandel — Re: list & books
299. David Chirot — Amy Goodwin "Debate essential to Arab-Israeli Peace" & MuzzleWatch Updates/P...
300. W.B. Keckler — Re: list & books
301. Stephen Vincent — Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
302. Jerome Rothenberg — New book: 3 Poems after Images by Nancy Tobin
303. richard owens — BILL GRIFFITHS (1948-2007)
304. mIEKAL aND — Bill Griffiths
305. Tisa Bryant — Fwd: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration—Jo hns Hopkins University Oct. 24-...
306. steve russell — Denis Johnson/Jim Harrison/Paul Auster
307. Alan Sondheim — theory. the real. death.
308. Mark Truscott — September 20: Bonney and Kruk at Test (Toronto)

15 SEP 2007

309. Eric Elshtain — New Beard of Bees Human Chapbook
310. William James Austin — Re: Bill Griffiths
311. Bobbi Lurie — Re: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration—Jo hns Hopkins University Oct. 24-2...
312. Alan Sondheim — Frustration
313. Joel Weishaus — Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
314. Seena Liff — Re: POETICS Digest - 13 Sep 2007 to 14 Sep 2007 (#2007-257)
315. sandra de 1913 — 1913's Rozanova Prize announcement
316. Martha King — NYC Prose Reading
317. William Slaughter — Notice: Mudlark
318. Daniel Machlin — Machlin/Solomon Book Party @ Zinc Bar NYC 9/16

16 SEP 2007

319. Sheila Murphy — Denis Johnson
320. Alan Sondheim — radio radio
321. J Crockett — [set POETICS nomail]
322. Jim Andrews — question
323. Ann Bogle — Re: theory. the real. death.
324. Ann Bogle — Re: Bill Griffiths
325. Philip Metres — New Shite on Behind the Lines Poetry...
326. Philip Metres — Petraeus, Kipling, Fleischer, Johnson
327. Tisa Bryant — New Opera: Juana, October 12th and 13th at Theatre Artaud, San Francisco
328. Bobbi Lurie — Re: Bill Griffiths
329. David Chirot — Fwd: Remembering Sabra and Shatila
330. William James Austin — Blackbox summer gallery
331. Jonathan Minton — Word For/Word #12
332. Jennifer Karmin — JOB: St. Mary's College
333. Margaret Konkol — Fwd: Co-Worker's Poetry Readings
334. Dan Wilcox — Third Thursday Poetry, Albany, Miriam Herrera featured
335. W.B. Keckler — John Yau, Richard Kostelanetz & Simplified Submissions Guidelines on JBP
336. Alan Sondheim — emotions decrees music zero (maybe the sound redeems me)
337. Rob McLennan — Re: Bill Griffiths
338. Pierre Joris — Re: Bill Griffiths
339. lily robert-foley — Cascajal Block: Oldest Writing in the World.
340. Jason Quackenbush — Re: question

17 SEP 2007

341. Jim Andrews — Re: question
342. J Crockett — Source Available
343. EH — New Oppen article
344. Gerald Schwartz — a new shredder
345. Bobbi Lurie — Re: Bill Griffiths
346. Bobbi Lurie — Re: question
347. CA Conrad — Eileen Myles, Hal Sirowitz, CAConrad read in PHILLY 9/28
348. Thomas savage — Re: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
349. Tom W. Lewis — Re: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
350. Ruth Lepson — Re: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
351. Skip Fox — Re: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
352. Poetics List — Forward on behalf of Michael Davidson
353. Thomas Devaney — On Charles North's "Cadenza"
354. Kevin Killian — Blaser reading in San Francisco last Sunday
355. Rob McLennan — ottawa small press book fair (reminder)
356. Jack Foley — Email Addresses for Donald Hall & Eliot Weinberger
357. Larissa Shmailo — Email for John Ashbery
358. Susan Webster Schultz — Sidwalk (anti-war) blog news

18 SEP 2007

359. Jesse Glass — Ahadada Presents Kittihood By The Pussipo Collective, A New E-Chapbook
360. Alan Sondheim — Human modeling again (notes for a talk)
361. Jim Andrews — Re: question
362. Eireene Nealand — Re: Human modeling again (notes for a talk)
363. Sylvester Pollet — Walk poems
364. Dan Waber — FootHills Harvest reading Saturday 9-22
365. silviamiho — Re: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
366. Aryanil Mukherjee — New Interview of John Ashbery @ KAURAB
367. Tom W. Lewis — Saint Paul Almanac Release Party this Thursday in Saint Paul
368. CA Conrad — 3 readings in Philadelphia coming up...
369. Michael Heller — (no subject)
370. Mark Prejsnar — Language Harm tonite
371. kevin thurston — upcoming readings in buffalo
372. David Chirot — Fwd: Kaurab Online-22 is Out (link to cover & table of contents)
373. Grant Jenkins — Bookstore List
374. L Guevarra — University of California Press Annual Online Sale
375. steve russell — Re: Denis Johnson
376. Bobbi Lurie — Re: Bookstore List
377. Rob McLennan — Jonathan Meakin, Douglas Barbour + Sheila Murphy
378. Christophe Casamassima — Re: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
379. linda norton — Re: Denis Johnson
380. Amish Trivedi — Re: Denis Johnson
381. Joanna Fuhrman — denis johnson
382. mIEKAL aND — Re: University of California Press Annual Online Sale

19 SEP 2007

383. Diane DiPrima — Re: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
384. Alan Sondheim — notes like i used to write and some pictures for joy
385. David Baratier — a new collection of poems by Charlie Rossiter from FootHills Publishing
386. Barry Schwabsky — Fwd: Bill Griffiths appreciation
387. David A. Kirschenbaum — Boog City presents BlazeVOX Books and Compass Jazz
388. Andy Gricevich — Re: Blaser reading in San Francisco last Sunday
389. Barry Schwabsky — my west coast tour
390. Pierre Joris — EQUIPAGE IS RE-LAUNCHING
391. Charlie Rossiter — "The Night We Danced With the Raelettes" Charlie Rossiter Poetry Book Pu...

392. Tom Bell — Teaching geezers, books
393. James Cervantes — Edit your replies, please! Re: POETICS Digest - 17 Sep 2007 to 18 Sep 200...
394. Rachel Loden — new on wordstrumpet: the dangerfield prize and other musings
395. Christina E Lovin — Re: Teaching geezers, books
396. Alan Sondheim — Gita
397. Jennifer Karmin — Fellowship: University of Louisville
398. Charlotte Mandel — Re: Teaching geezers, books
399. Catherine Daly — CALL FOR SUMBISSIONS: Voices From Leimert Park
400. Charles Bernstein — Fordham (NYC) reading series
401. Steven Zultanski — Announcing President's Choice

20 SEP 2007

402. mIEKAL aND — Music Scholar Barred From U.S., but No One Will Tell Her Why
403. Alan Sondheim — WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
404. Tom Bell — Re: Teaching geezers, books
405. cralan kelder — Revenge of the american - Versal 5 launch at IVY in Paris (france) 9/25
406. Kathleen Ossip — NYFA Fellows reading Monday 9/24
407. Christina Lovin — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
408. Douglas Manson — spare couch?
409. Gerald Schwartz — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
410. Maria Damon — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
411. eric unger — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
412. W.B. Keckler — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
413. Bobbi Lurie — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
414. Poetry Project — Events at The Poetry Project September 2007
415. George Bowering — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
416. George Bowering — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
417. Patrick F. Durgin — Kenning Editions Reading Tour: Dorantes, Seldess, Hofer, Durgin
418. Maria Damon — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
419. Carol Novack — Offering Lyrical Fiction Workshop, Manhattan
420. Bobbi Lurie — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
421. Mark DuCharme — Reading in Boulder, CO this Saturday
422. lily robert-foley — more glyphmachines
423. Tracey Gagne — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
424. Tracey Gagne — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
425. Tracey Gagne — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME

21 SEP 2007

426. Alan Sondheim — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
427. David Baratier — Pavement Saw Listserv
428. Barry Schwabsky — Fwd: I assume you know this but...
429. Barry Schwabsky — my west coast tour (correction)
430. Rachel Loden — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
431. susan maurer — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
432. Dan Waber — Third Friday Art Exhibit & Book Launch
433. W.B. Keckler — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
434. Charlie Rossiter — $1US = $1CN
435. Bobbi Lurie — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
436. David A. Kirschenbaum — Last Call: Advertise in Boog City 45
437. Maria Damon — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
438. Adam Tobin — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
439. Alex — Re: $1US = China threatens 'nuclear option' of dollar sales
440. Jennifer Karmin — JOB: Neighborhood Writing Alliance
441. Eric Dickey — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
442. amy king — How Can I Convince You ...
443. Brigitte Byrd — Randy Prunty?

444. Adam Tobin — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
445. amy king — Next Friday in Brooklyn, NYC
446. George Bowering — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
447. Carol Novack — Visiting poet looking for a feature in NYC
448. Michael Rothenberg — David Meltzer and Michael Rothenberg read in Bisbee, Tuscon, Albuquerq...
449. Bobbi Lurie — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
450. Alan Sondheim — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
451. Catherine Daly — Re: Visiting poet looking for a feature in NYC
452. Alan Sondheim — Re: Human modeling again (notes for a talk)
453. charles alexander — new on chaxblog, certain slants

22 SEP 2007

454. Alan Sondheim — [...] would have guessed [...]
455. Daniel Zimmerman — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
456. Pierre Joris — New Posts on Nomadics Blog
457. Charles Baldwin — Re: Human modeling again (notes for a talk) 458. Vernon Frazer — David Meltzer and Michael Rothenberg read in Bisbee, Tuscon, Albuquerque (p...
459. Tracey Gagne — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
460. Maria Damon — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
461. ALDON L NIELSEN — Re: Human modeling again (notes for a talk)
462. David Chirot — Yom Kippur Liturgy from Hilton Obenzinger
463. Eireene Nealand — Re: Human modeling again (notes for a talk)
464. Patrick F. Durgin — Publication Announcement: Dolores Dorantes' sexoPUROsexoVELOZ and Septi...
465. barbara jane bermeo — Poetry Reading @ the Berkeley Art Museum: Asian American Poetry Now
466. konrad — SF, THU & FRI THIS WEEK: kino21 presents Debord / Neo-Benshi
467. michelle detorie — WOMB POETRY :: EQUINOX ISSUE
468. Alan Sondheim — Thrown Delight
469. Dillon Westbrook — what's doin' in Chicago?

23 SEP 2007

470. Andy Gricevich — Jess experts?
471. Andrew Jones — Fwd: TWENTY TO LIFE MICHIGAN PREMIERE TOUR
472. Aryanil Mukherjee — Charyapada Discovery Celebrates 100 years
473. Lewis LaCook — The monolith and the monster ballad
474. steve d. dalachinsky — Fw: Tuesday: Living Lab: Musetry + Ilgenfritz
475. Gabrielle Welford — Re: Fw: Educators: Teach about the Jena 6 (fwd)
476. Pierre Joris — Bill Griffiths obituary in The Guardian
477. Bobbi Lurie — Re: Yom Kippur Liturgy from Hilton Obenzinger---my response
478. Raymond Bianchi — Re: what's doin' in Chicago?
479. Rachel Loden — from bromridge re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
480. Rachel Loden — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
481. David-Baptiste Chirot — Re: Yom Kippur Liturgy from Hilton Obenzinger---my response
482. Robin Hamilton — Unavailable Websites
483. Bobbi Lurie — PLEASE COULD SOMEONE HELP ME GET TO ARCHIVES
484. George Bowering — Re: what's doin' in Chicago?
485. George Bowering — Re: from bromridge re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ...
486. Rob McLennan — new(ish) on rob's clever blog
487. Warren Lloyd — Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
488. Gabrielle Welford — Re: from bromridge re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HEL...

489. Gabrielle Welford — Re: mid)rib issue 1 now online!
490. George Bowering — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
491. Jim Andrews — Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
492. Hugh Nicoll — Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
493. amy king — Re: PLEASE COULD SOMEONE HELP ME GET TO ARCHIVES
494. Alan Sondheim — home and film
495. Bobbi Lurie — Re: Yom Kippur Liturgy from Hilton Obenzinger---my response
496. Bobbi Lurie — Re: PLEASE COULD SOMEONE HELP ME GET TO ARCHIVES
497. Barrett Watten — some posts
498. Warren Lloyd — Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations

24 SEP 2007

499. Jim Andrews — Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
500. lily robert-foley — Re: what's doin' in Chicago?
501. Geoffrey Gatza — Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
502. kevin thurston — two readings this week, 'this aint the chicago review' and an triple launch
503. Raymond Bianchi — Re: what's doin' in Chicago?
504. jcu — Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
505. Christophe Casamassima — Writing by Degrees Conference...
506. Bobbi Lurie — Re: two readings this week, 'this aint the chicago review' and an triple laun...
507. Bobbi Lurie — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
508. mIEKAL aND — Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
509. Raymond Bianchi — Re: what's doin' in Chicago?
510. Christophe Casamassima — Benjamin/Distraction vs Concentration
511. susan maurer — anna sianos photography show at the bowery poetry club
512. Hugh Nicoll — Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
513. Jordan Stempleman — Re: what's doin' in Chicago?
514. Thomas savage — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
515. David-Baptiste Chirot — Re: Yom Kippur Liturgy//the importance of the text, of reading, & o...
516. Jeffrey Side — "Multiple Registers, Intertextuality and Boundaries of Intepretation in Vero...
517. Mary Kasimor — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
518. eric unger — Re: what's doin' in Chicago?
519. Jason Quackenbush — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
520. Stephen Vincent — Re: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
521. steve russell — Chirot/bobbie lurie/Yom Kippur
522. Chris Pusateri — Poetry in Boulder, Wednesday Sept. 26th
523. Rachel Loden — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
524. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
525. Komninos Zervos — Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
526. steve russell — & to further clarify/Chirot/Lurie/Yom Kippur
527. Ruth Lepson — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
528. Michael Cross — George Albon contact info?
529. Michael Cross — Hugh Kenner estate?
530. Dillon Westbrook — Re: what's doin' in Chicago?
531. Alan Sondheim — Xenakis at Target and the True Artist
532. jcu — Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
533. amy king — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
534. Ruth Lepson — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
535. Amish Trivedi — Re: Hugh Kenner estate?
536. Jennifer Karmin — SUBMISSIONS: Select Media Festival 6

25 SEP 2007

537. Small Press Traffic — This week at Small Press Traffic
538. Charlie Rossiter — Re: what's doin' in Chicago?
539. Jim Andrews — Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
540. Andy Gricevich — Re: Xenakis at Target and the True Artist

541. Bobbi Lurie — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
542. Bobbi Lurie — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
543. Justin Katko — Providence Reading Oct 2: Yt Communication
544. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
545. Tony Trigilio — David Trinidad & Jeffery Conway reading / Columbia College Chicago / Octobe...
546. Gabrielle Welford — wait a minute
547. reJennifer Bartlett — PEACE MARCH
548. Thomas savage — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
549. Metta Sama — Re: Music Scholar Barred From U.S., but No One Will Tell Her Why
550. Andrew Rippeon — Invitation/Reminder: In Buffalo this week
551. Ryan Daley — Re: wait a minute
552. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
553. Bobbi Lurie — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
554. Bobbi Lurie — Re: wait a minute
555. Seth Forrest — Contact Information for Edith Jarolim?
556. steve russell — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
557. David Goldstein — Wa-Kow! Thursday Oct 4
558. Joel Bettridge — Poetry, Art, and the Book: a Conference at Yale Univeristy
559. Dan Waber — New Release from Paper Kite Press - Too Bad It's Poetry by Jim Warner
560. Tom Beckett — New at E-values
561. Grant Matthew Jenkins — Premier of "Holy/Oil" by the Wa-KOW! Collective, Tulsa OK
562. Thomas savage — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
563. steve d. dalachinsky — Fw: Benefit for Billy Bang THIS WEEKEND!
564. Ruth Lepson — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
565. Ruth Lepson — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
566. amy king — Reminder -- Tonight, You're Invited
567. Jim Andrews — Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
568. Christopher Leland Winks — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
569. George Bowering — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
570. mIEKAL aND — Re: Xenakis at Target and the True Artist
571. Ann Bogle — Link to Nation article about Ahmadinejad at Columbia
572. Wes Chapman — Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
573. Ruth Lepson — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
574. Komninos Zervos — Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
575. Stephen Vincent — Walking & Writing Workshop/ Stanford Continuing Studies
576. Alan Sondheim — SL - theoretical approaches
577. Matt Henriksen — Fri 9/24 :: Dorothea Lasky & Laura Solomon :: NYC
578. Alan Sondheim — Re: Xenakis at Target and the True Artist
579. Jim Andrews — Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations

26 SEP 2007

580. Nico Vassilakis — sUBTEXT sEATTLE = Kathleen Fraser & Crystal Curry
581. Chris Stroffolino — Re: Poetry, Art, and the Book: a Conference at Yale Univeristy
582. Elizabeth Switaj — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
583. Andy Gricevich — Re: what's doin' in Chicago?
584. daniel ereditario — New at Meshworks
585. J Crockett — happy green web hosting
586. steve russell — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
587. Thomas savage — Re: Link to Nation article about Ahmadinejad at Columbia
588. Kenneth Sherwood — Re: Ahmadinejad and Nukes
589. linda norton — Re: Poetry, Art, and the Book: a Conference at Yale Univeristy
590. David Chirot — a great piece on photography/war/the posed & the documentary by erroll morris
591. Maria Damon — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
592. Paul Nelson — Re: what's doin' in Chicago?

593. Alan Sondheim — 3 works trying to get along with nature somehow
594. Carol Novack — NYC WORKSHOP
595. amy king — This Friday in Brooklyn ....
596. Christopher Leland Winks — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
597. Ruth Lepson — Re: Link to Nation article about Ahmadinejad at Columbia
598. Ruth Lepson — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
599. Dan Waber — massive paradigm shift
600. George Bowering — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
601. George Bowering — Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

27 SEP 2007

602. Jim Andrews — Andy Campbell: Dim O'Gauble
603. steve russell — Re: Link to Nation article about Ahmadinejad at Columbia
604. steve russell — John HOllander/New York Times/resignations
605. lcabri — Mark Truscott Transparency Machine Event 1st Oct Windsor-Detroit
606. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: Link to Nation article about Ahmadinejad at Columbia
607. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: what's doin' in Chicago?
608. David Chirot — The Timing of Columbia Events & Iranian University Chancellors Ask Bollinger...
609. Hot Whiskey Press — Moonshine 2: Augusto de Campos trans. by Samuel Knights
610. thom donovan — Peace On A presents: John Beer & Terry Cuddy Saturday, October 6th 8PM
611. Brian Clements — Steve Timm
612. Ruth Lepson — Re: Link to Nation article about Ahmadinejad at Columbia
613. Thomas savage — Re: Link to Nation article about Ahmadinejad at Columbia
614. George Bowering — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
615. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: Link to Nation article about Ahmadinejad at Columbia
616. Paul Nelson — Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
617. wil Hallgren — Re: canada attacked 4 times by USA
618. David Chirot — Re: Link to Nation article ?/Israel's Nuclear Weapons Timetable
619. Poetry Project — Events at The Poetry Project September/October 2007
620. andrews — Fw: October 6 Benefit for Emily Feinstein
621. ALDON L NIELSEN — Readings on Two Coasts
622. George Bowering — Re: mackerel
623. Gabrielle Welford — Re: mackerel
624. Jennifer Karmin — SUBMISSIONS: Women, Action & the Media
625. Amanda Earl — Re: mackerel

28 SEP 2007

626. Alan Sondheim — New Perforations call for material: THE INHUMAN/...SPIRIT (fwd)
627. Alan Sondheim — i'm sick of swallowing
628. colin herd — Re: mackerel
629. Gabrielle Welford — Re: mackerel
630. Bibby, Michael — JOB: Creative Writing - Poetry
631. Mark Weiss — Re: mackerel
632. Maria Damon — Re: mackerel
633. Catherine Daly — Re: mackerel
634. Tony Trigilio — 2007-2008 Readings at Columbia College Chicago
635. CA Conrad — 9 poets 9 cities: BROOKLYN, GREENCASTLE, SEOUL, SYDNEY, PHILADELPHIA, AUSTIN, S...
636. W.B. Keckler — Which pop song most sets feminism back?
637. Bobbi Lurie — Re: mackerel
638. David Chirot — Israel & US attack plans for Syria & Iran/Air Force refused to fly nukes to ...
639. charles alexander — Re: mackerel
640. charles alexander — great class coming up!
641. Tracey Gagne — Re: Which pop song most sets feminism back?
642. Patrick Duggan — Boston

643. George Bowering — Re: mackerel
644. Bobbi Lurie — Re: mackerel
645. George Bowering — Re: mackerel
646. Bobbi Lurie — Re: mackerel
647. Gerald Schwartz — West Point & poetry
648. David Chirot — Fwd: PERFORMA07: Second Biennial of New Visual Art Performance in New York C...
649. lily robert-foley — Re: Which pop song most sets feminism back?
650. Charlie Rossiter — Readings in Central NY
651. addie tsai — Re: Which pop song most sets feminism back?
652. noah eli gordon — Novel Pictorial Noise

29 SEP 2007

653. Alan Sondheim — If I were a different species
654. Jim Andrews — Gore on politics and the Internet
655. Hugh Behm-Steinberg — Re: mackerel
656. Peter Ciccariello — g, alone
657. Maria Damon — Re: mackerel
658. Maria Damon — Come One Come All!! EXCITING POETRY EVENT
659. Jennifer Karmin — October 7th: John Cage's MUSICIRCUS
660. Rob McLennan — 12 or 20 questions, updated list
661. W.B. Keckler — which pop songs most set feminism back?
662. W.B. Keckler — Sheena Easton
663. Susan R. Williamson — Re: Boston
664. amy king — HOW TO BE PERFECT
665. W.B. Keckler — Re: Which pop song most sets feminism back?
666. Mairead Byrne — Re: Boston
667. Ruth Lepson — Re: Boston
668. steve russell — If I Were a Different Species
669. steve russell — Re: Israel & US attack plans for Syria & Iran/Air Force refused to fly nuke...
670. Ryan Daley — Re: Which pop song most sets feminism back?
671. Chris Stroffolino — Re: Which pop song most sets feminism back?
672. Chris Westcott — Richard K. Tipping, Wednesday at Columbia U
673. Alexander Jorgensen — Burma - Vaclav Havel - "Saffron Revolution"

30 SEP 2007

674. Jim Andrews — our play was invented by nature
675. Tom Beckett — New Books from Otoliths--Raven, Gildzen, Topel & Leftwich, Fieled,Stempleman!
676. aaron tieger — boston
677. Lewis LaCook — New from The Stack - The Monolith and the Monster Ballad
678. steve russell — Re: Which pop song most sets feminism back?
679. charles alexander — POETRY: DAVID MELTZER & MICHAEL ROTHENBERG
680. Susan Webster Schultz — new sidewalk (anti-war) blog signs
681. Mark Weiss — Re: Which pop song most sets feminism back?
682. Stephen Vincent — New de blog/ Africa/Harvard
683. charles alexander — CUSHING POETRY: Carter & Spaulding
684. Brent Saner — Re: Which pop song most sets feminism back?
685. Ryan Daley — Re: Which pop song most sets feminism back?
686. David-Baptiste Chirot — Re: Sheena Easton
687. Marcus Bales — Re: Which pop song most sets feminism back?

1. Jason Quackenbush
Re: Five Enemies,
Fri 31 Aug 2007

sounds like dread to me. that cold, unidentifiable dread that like low frequency noise seems to come at you from every direction and no direction at once. impossible to pinpoint, the best therapy is to push it away from your attentive consciousness so that it just fills the background. but it never goes away of course. it's still there, humming away just below the audible hearing range, a wicked tritone south of whatever other sounds are propagating in the air, paralleling them in a basso profundo counterpoint so simple minded and plodding that it seems almost inhuman and mechanical.

i like to write like that myself.

On Fri, 31 Aug 2007, Alan Sondheim wrote:

> Just a minor point, not panic, perhaps a feeling that the end of the world as at nigh, that we're on the brink of further mass extinctions - but not panic, there's far too much control in what I do, it might not show, but as in Poe there's that composition.
>
> They're not around panic at least for me, they're around a kind of fulcrum related to foundation of language, sexuality, world, real, more or less ontology.
>
> There's no paralysis, there never has been, since there's no hysteria, no wandering, but learning how to see.
>
> It's a minor point, but for me critical, just as not reading my work autobiographically is equally critical, although there are elements of autobio present as there are in everything, including Bohm for example (whose hidden variables might well relate to seams of coal not far from where he and I were born).
>
> - Alan
>
> On Fri, 31 Aug 2007, Murat Nemet-Nejat wrote:
>
> Alan,
>
> Yours is a poetics of panics, as I think many of your most vibrant pieces are around panic.
>
> What is that sword's edge where panic leads to energy and not paralysis?

The same way, what is the distinction between sloth and negative capability? I, on my part, these days I am full of negative capability. If it goes on another day, it'll be sloth.

In those five enemies, isn't Gabe not referring to the "internal State"?

Ciao,

Murat

On 8/30/07, Alan Sondheim < [redacted] > wrote:

Five Enemies

Doubt: Three kinds of doubt:

Doubt in oneself; doubt in the efficacy and usefulness of writing in general; doubt in the writing project before one.

It's the opposite for me; if I didn't doubt almost to the point of annihilation, I couldn't work at all. It's intrinsic in the process.

Aversion (ill will, anger): I dont want to do this. I dont want to write right now. Writing is stupid. This project is stupid. I dont feel like writing right now. I hate writing in general. I hate this whole book idea. This task is boring. I dont like this aspect of that. I dont like that aspect of this. I dont like, I dont like, I dont like.

The same. As PIL says Anger is an energy. I need it.

Craving: Two kinds.

Extrinsic: Desiring to do something else. Desiring a state that is not present. I want to do something else, watch a movie, I want to go bicycling instead of writing.

But I do! Writing is too difficult and the sooner I get it sent off, the sooner I can breathe again.

Intrinsic: Craving an outcome from the writing itself. I want to have this outcome from this writing NOW or SOON or like next week, I want to write a masterpiece now, I want to write a great line now, I want to write a great paragraph now. And we become disappointed because we inevitably crave more than we acquire.

I absolutely believe this. I want to write masterpieces / mistress-> pieces, period. Anything else, I lose energy. I might live in disappointment but the craving drives me.

>
> Agitation (restlessness, worry): This is boring. Im bored. Gyawd, Ive got to write ALL THESE words??!
>
> And agitation, yes, writing in a state of fury or despair or the sense of total destruction, yes.
>
> Sloth, Laziness: General lassitude leading to inaction and inanition. Nothing written, nothing discovered, nothing made.
>
> This is the only one I agree on; if you don't have the energy, you're silent, which is not necessarily a bad thing and might lead to something terrific day after tomorrow.
>
> For me there are NO enemies to writing except for internal or external States that prohibit taking up the pen or keyboard.
>
> - Alan
>
> ==========
> Work on YouTube, blog at http://nikuko.blogspot.com . Tel [redacted].
> Webpage directory http://www.asondheim.org . Email: [redacted].
> http://clc.as.wvu.edu:8080/clc/Members/sondheim for theory; also check WVU Zwiki, Google for recent. Write for info on books, cds, performance, dvds, etc.
> ==========

↑ Index

2. andy hall

Re: Five Enemies,

Fri 31 Aug 2007

I wonder, if we reframe the word "enemies" as "dysfunctional friends," to borrow self help lingo, if we might see these things as aspects of practice and awareness, rather than potential ruin in the writing practice?

Might I paraphrase Whitman loosely and add that laziness can be a virtue as it forces us to acknowledge limitations of the self, and to come to terms with blockage or boredom as transitional states.

New member
Andy

Pinpoint customers who are looking for what you sell.

↑ Index

3. W.B. Keckler
What do pork, Britney, Tao Lin and Walmart have in common?
Fri 31 Aug 2007

They are all featured on Joe Brainard's Pyjamas _http://joebrainardspyjamas.blogspot.com/_ (http://joebrainardspyjamas.blogspot.com/) tonight. The English language is enriched by the addition of ten new words and an Ebay gauntlet is thrown down vis-a-vis Mr. Lin. That and some other yadda-fertilizer you just can't afford to miss. Also, the blog is soliciting (no cops please!) for original poetry...send 3 poems only please to [redacted]_ (mailto:[redacted]) ....if you have a book to promote give the relevant info, and if your pomes appear, I'll list that alongside...

* Get a sneak peek of the all-new AOL at http://discover.aol.com/memed/aolcom30tour

↑ Index

4. Eric Elshtain
New Beard of Bees Gnoetry0.2 Chapbook
Fri 31 Aug 2007

—

↑ Index

5. ALDON L NIELSEN
Nielsen Broadcast
Sat 1 Sep 2007

Follow this URL to an audio file of my appearance today on Santa Barbara radio talking about and playing selections from Amiri Baraka, Amina Baraka, William Parker, Curtis Mayfield etc:

<http://riff.coolmojo.net/>

and while you're there, you might want to scroll down to the Oliver Lake episode --

<<

> in Poe there's that composition.
>
> They're not around panic at least for me, they're around a kind of fulcrum related to foundation of language, sexuality, world, real, more or less ontology.
>
> There's no paralysis, there never has been, since there's no hysteria, no wandering, but learning how to see.
>
> It's a minor point, but for me critical, just as not reading my work autobiographically is equally critical, although there are elements of autobio present as there are in everything, including Bohm for example (whose hidden variables might well relate to seams of coal not far from where he and I were born).
>
> - Alan
>
> On Fri, 31 Aug 2007, Murat Nemet-Nejat wrote:
>
> Alan,
>
> Yours is a poetics of panics, as I think many of your most vibrant pieces are around panic.
>
> What is that sword's edge where panic leads to energy and not paralysis?
>
> The same way, what is the distinction between sloth and negative capability?
> I, on my part, these days I am full of negative capability. If it goes on another day, it'll be sloth.
>
> In those five enemies, isn't Gabe not referring to the "internal State"?
>
> Ciao,
>
> Murat
>
> On 8/30/07, Alan Sondheim < [redacted] > wrote:
>
> Five Enemies
>
> Doubt: Three kinds of doubt:
>
> Doubt in oneself; doubt in the efficacy and usefulness of writing in general; doubt in the writing project before one.

It's the opposite for me; if I didn't doubt almost to the point of annihilation, I couldn't work at all. It's intrinsic in the process.

Aversion (ill will, anger): I dont want to do this. I dont want to write right now. Writing is stupid. This project is stupid. I dont feel like writing right now. I hate writing in general. I hate this whole book idea.
This task is boring. I dont like this aspect of that. I dont like that aspect of this. I dont like, I dont like, I dont like.

The same. As PIL says Anger is an energy. I need it.

Craving: Two kinds.

Extrinsic: Desiring to do something else. Desiring a state that is not present. I want to do something else, watch a movie, I want to go bicycling instead of writing.

But I do! Writing is too difficult and the sooner I get it sent off, the sooner I can breathe again.

Intrinsic: Craving an outcome from the writing itself. I want to have this outcome from this writing NOW or SOON or like next week, I want to write a masterpiece now, I want to write a great line now, I want to write a great paragraph now. And we become disappointed because we inevitably crave more than we acquire.

I absolutely believe this. I want to write masterpieces / mistress-pieces, period. Anything else, I lose energy. I might live in disappointment but the craving drives me.

Agitation (restlessness, worry): This is boring. Im bored. Gyawd, Ive got to write ALL THESE words??!

And agitation, yes, writing in a state of fury or despair or the sense of total destruction, yes.

Sloth, Laziness: General lassitude leading to inaction and inanition. Nothing written, nothing discovered, nothing made.

This is the only one I agree on; if you don't have the energy, you're silent, which is not necessarily a bad thing and might lead to something > terrific day after tomorrow.

>
> For me there are NO enemies to writing except for internal or external States that prohibit taking up the pen or keyboard.
>
> - Alan
>
> ==========
> Work on YouTube, blog at http://nikuko.blogspot.com . Tel [redacted].
> Webpage directory http://www.asondheim.org . Email: [redacted].
> http://clc.as.wvu.edu:8080/clc/Members/sondheim for theory; also check WVU Zwiki, Google for recent. Write for info on books, cds, performance, dvds, etc.
> ==========

========== Work on YouTube, blog at http://nikuko.blogspot.com . Tel [redacted]. Webpage directory http://www.asondheim.org . Email: [redacted]. http://clc.as.wvu.edu:8080/clc/Members/sondheim for theory; also check WVU Zwiki, Google for recent. Write for info on books, cds, performance, dvds, etc. ==========

↑ Index

7. Peter Ciccariello

The Conversation

Sat 1 Sep 2007

The Conversation <http://cgi7.com/peterimages/the-conversation.jpg>

-- Peter Ciccariello
http://invisiblenotes.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

8. J Crockett
re :: Pavement Saw Press
Sat 1 Sep 2007

Sounds int'resting ---

I am an expert swing & web developer, can offer there, services negotiable.

Jesse Crockett

http://listenlight.net
http://denacht.blogspot.com

↑ Index

9. Alan Sondheim
Ground Plain
Sat 1 Sep 2007

Ground Plain

Smaller crystal radio (double-tap single coil) fed directly into the mike input of my laptop, then filtered with CoolEdit. Nothing but ground hum and static was picked up; these were modified into a semblance of ontol- ogy. Clearly there are impedance mismatches at work and ground problems resulting from the general radiation spewing of the laptop. The result as usual is interesting soundwork, but the coiling itself, running the power grid into and out of the earth, conjures an impossible mythos; this 60- cycle would already be otherwise throughout most of Europe, half of Japan for example.

It occurs to me that someone or some thing is speaking just around the corner, or coroner, given the propensity of the dead to inhabit anything but the clear evidence of the living. So there's plenty of room for a poetics of ground-space grid-space, provided both of them are at least somewhat subservient to the corporate powers that provide the thrumming in the first place.

You know, the whole world is electrified, humming along on whatever funda- mentals occur from region to region - and their respective additions, sub- tractions, etc., pretty Lissajous figures all.

So we've joined the fish with their electric organs, not to mention the effects of insect wings on very low frequency radio reception - such effects perhaps on each other as well.

Still, given the ground and ground plane and hum's ubiquity, we're mostly listening to ourselves listening to ourselves. The 'said' rides the current like obscene outriggers, even though it's the riding we care for as we face one another over any distance greater than a few meters. And perhaps even less than that distance as well.

http://www.asondheim.org/grounding.mp3

↑ Index

10. Andy Gricevich

Strange political theater and music in the San Francisco Fringe!

Sat 1 Sep 2007

Hello, all!

The Nonsense Company (of Madison, WI) will bring two works to the San Francisco Fringe Festival in just a handful of days; they(ok, we)'ve been taking these pieces around the country for the last year or so, and are excited about the opportunity to do them six times in the Bay Area. A theatrical music composition and a play, both by Rick Burkhardt, their blurbs say:

â€œGreat Hymn of Thanksgivingâ€ (for three speaking percussionists) takes place at a dinner table, where the sounds of conversation have been replaced with news clips from Iraq, scraps from the Army prayer manual, fragmented folk tales, the poetry of Rae Armantrout, and a recurring state of emergency pointing everywhere and leading nowhere. The Company sounds like a newscast one moment and a church congregation the next, using vocal techniques theyâ€™ve honed for years to switch tones collectively in mid-syllable. The noises of the table itself â€” scooting chairs, singing wineglasses, squeaking forks â€” force this â€œconversationâ€ into a confrontation with material reality.

In â€œConversation Storm,â€ three friends from three sides of the political spectrum unpack current US torture policies as they unwillingly talk their way through a hypothetical "ticking time bomb" scenario, dissecting, revising, and even brutalizing their own positions in the process â€” but time has either stopped or entered an ugly loop, and as the friends assign and reassign roles, the scenario begins to dissolve the boundaries between real and hypothetical, past and future, day and night.

â€œMoving, funny, and provocative.... theater at its best.â€ Austin 360

â€œStrange and compelling pieces... introspective, recursive, highly charged... stunningly choreographed into visual theater as well as an aural melange.â€ Shockwave Radio KFAI Minneapolis

http://princemyshkins.com/nonsensecompany.html

WARNING: â€œGreat Hymn of Thanksgiving/Conversation Stormâ€ contains extremely graphic adult language and is not appropriate for children. Please, no one under 13.

The performances take place at EXIT Stage Left, 156 Eddy St., San Francisco. No late seating. The Fringe runs from 9/6 through 9/16. For performance times, advance tickets, and such, go to http://www.sffringe.org/fringe07/07plays/great.html

Hope you can make it!

all the best,

Andy Gricevich

Be a better Heartthrob. Get better relationship answers from someone who knows.
Yahoo! Answers - Check it out.

↑ Index

11. Ruth Lepson
Re: Five Enemies,
Sat 1 Sep 2007

---

welcome & excellent point from whitman. what gets me writing--reading poetry esp LangPo Creeley Stein listening to free jazz sometimes classical & emotion--WHY is another question. something to do w/ freeing myself from usual thoughts. rhythm, deep feeling w/ understanding desire to reach another & things too complex to articulate-- of course someof that is contradictory but never mind, so to speak.

On 8/31/07 8:38 PM, "andy hall" <[redacted]> wrote:

> I wonder, if we reframe the word "enemies" as "dysfunctional friends," to borrow self help > lingo, if we might see these things as aspects of practice and awareness, rather than potential ruin in the writing practice?
>
> Might I paraphrase Whitman loosely and add that laziness can be a virtue as it forces us to acknowledge limitations of the self, and to come to terms with blockage or boredom as transitional states.
>
> New member
> Andy

> ---
> Pinpoint customers who are looking for what you sell.

↑ Index

12. W.B. Keckler

Review of Ric Royer's performance art & how to be an instant genius of a painter

Sat 1 Sep 2007

A review of the X Files of Ric Royer, and the allure/thread of the Double @ _http://joebrainardspyjamas.blogspot.com/_ (http://joebrainardspyjamas.blogspot.com/) Have you spoken to your Redivider Box today?

* Get a sneak peek of the all-new AOL at http://discover.aol.com/memed/aolcom30tour

↑ Index

13. Murat Nemet-Nejat

Re: Five Enemies,

Sat 1 Sep 2007

Alan,

Panic and control are not necessarily contradictory. When you say control, don't you mean more "being conscious of"? To the extent that you let certain processes establishedby you at one point to take over, you are at one point letting go while still remaining completely conscious of the process.

In a similar way "souljam" projects chaos, a centrifugal movement, while simultaneously hinting at a unifying pull holding these fragments in check, the Sufi ideas of "arc of descent" and "arc of ascent."

I never suggested your work was purely autobiographical and can be explained away as such.

Ciao,

Murat

On 8/31/07, Alan Sondheim <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Just a minor point, not panic, perhaps a feeling that the end of the world > as at nigh, that we're on the brink of further mass extinctions - but not > panic, there's far too much control in what I do, it might not show, but > as in Poe there's that composition.
>

> They're not around panic at least for me, they're around a kind of fulcrum > related to foundation of language, sexuality, world, real, more or less > ontology.
>
> There's no paralysis, there never has been, since there's no hysteria, no > wandering, but learning how to see.
>
> It's a minor point, but for me critical, just as not reading my work > autobiographically is equally critical, although there are elements of > autobio present as there are in everything, including Bohm for example > (whose hidden variables might well relate to seams of coal not far from > where he and I were born).
>
> - Alan
>
>
>
> On Fri, 31 Aug 2007, Murat Nemet-Nejat wrote:
>
> > Alan,
> >
> > Yours is a poetics of panics, as I think many of your most vibrant > pieces
> > are around panic.
> >
> > What is that sword's edge where panic leads to energy and not paralysis?
> >
> > The same way, what is the distinction between sloth and negative > capability?
> > I, on my part, these days I am full of negative capability. If it goes > on > > another day, it'll be sloth.
> >
> > In those five enemies, isn't Gabe not referring to the "internal State"?
> >
> > Ciao,
> >
> > Murat
> >
> >
> > On 8/30/07, Alan Sondheim < [redacted] > wrote:
> >>

> >> Five Enemies
> >>
> >> Doubt: Three kinds of doubt:
> >>
> >> Doubt in oneself; doubt in the efficacy and usefulness of writing in > >> general; doubt in the writing project before one.
> >>
> >>>> It's the opposite for me; if I didn't doubt almost to the point of > >> annihilation, I couldn't work at all. It's intrinsic in the process.
> >>
> >> Aversion (ill will, anger): I dont want to do this. I dont want to > write > >> right now. Writing is stupid. This project is stupid. I dont feel like > >> writing right now. I hate writing in general. I hate this whole book > idea.
> >> This task is boring. I dont like this aspect of that. I dont like that > >> aspect of this. I dont like, I dont like, I dont like.
> >>
> >>>> The same. As PIL says Anger is an energy. I need it.
> >>
> >> Craving: Two kinds.
> >>
> >> Extrinsic: Desiring to do something else. Desiring a state that is not > >> present. I want to do something else, watch a movie, I want to go > >> bicycling instead of writing.
> >>
> >>>> But I do! Writing is too difficult and the sooner I get it sent off, > >> the sooner I can breathe again.
> >>
> >> Intrinsic: Craving an outcome from the writing itself. I want to have > this > >> outcome from this writing NOW or SOON or like next week, I want to > write a > >> masterpiece now, I want to write a great line now, I want to write a > great
> >>
> >> paragraph now. And we become disappointed because we inevitably crave
> more > >> than we acquire.
> >>
> >>>> I absolutely believe this. I want to write masterpieces / mistress-> >> pieces, period. Anything else, I lose energy. I might live in > disappoint> >> ment but the craving drives me.

> >>
> >> Agitation (restlessness, worry): This is boring. Im bored. Gyawd, Ive > got
> >> to write ALL THESE words??!
> >>
> >>>> And agitation, yes, writing in a state of fury or despair or the > sense
> >> of total destruction, yes.
> >>
> >> Sloth, Laziness: General lassitude leading to inaction and inanition.
> >> Nothing written, nothing discovered, nothing made.
> >>
> >>>> This is the only one I agree on; if you don't have the energy, you're > >> silent, which is not necessarily a bad thing and might lead to > something > >> terrific day after tomorrow.
> >>
> >> For me there are NO enemies to writing except for internal or external > >> States that prohibit taking up the pen or keyboard.
> >>
> >> - Alan
> >>
> >
> >
>
>
>
==========
> Work on YouTube, blog at http://nikuko.blogspot.com . Tel [redacted].
> Webpage directory http://www.asondheim.org . Email: [redacted].
> http://clc.as.wvu.edu:8080/clc/Members/sondheim for theory; also check > WVU Zwiki, Google for recent. Write for info on books, cds, performance, > dvds, etc.
==========
>

↑ Index

14. charles alexander sale: the last 10 chax press books
Sat 1 Sep 2007

SPECIAL SALE: Purchase by September 8 (postmark on envelope with payment) is required! Your participation in this sale helps us with our move (forced though it was by our former governmental landlord) to our new location! But it only really helps us if a lot of people participate. So we really hope you decide you need some books from the lists below!

These are the last ten published Chax Press books:

Glenn Mott, Analects on a Chinese Screen
Jefferson Carter, Sentimental Blue
Charles Borkhuis, Afterimage
Sarah Riggs, Waterwork
Linda Russo, Mirth
Beth Joselow, Begin at Once
Tim Peterson, Since I Moved In Kass Fleisher, Accidental Species
Linh Dinh, Jam Alerts
Bruce Andrews, Swoon Noir

Generally they are priced at $16. Visit our web site at http://chax.org to find out more information about the individual books, but you can only take advantage of this offer if you send check or cash directly to us, and do not order via credit card on the web site.

Here are 35 other Chax Press books you can choose, in any combination with those above, to take advantage of this offer. You can also find out about these books on our web site: http://chax.org

Ron Silliman, Demo to Ink
Beverly Dahlen, A Reading 8-10
Beverly Dahlen, A-Reading Spicer & 18 Sonnets
Joe Amato, Under Virga
Jonathan Brannen, Deaccessioned Landscapes
Hank Lazer, 3 of 10
Lisa Cooper, & Calling It Home
Linh Dinh, American Tatts
Phillip Foss, Chromatic Defacement
Sheila Murphy, Teth
Heather Nagami, Hostile
Tenney Nathanson, Erased Art
David MacAleavey, Huge Haiku

Eli Goldblatt, Sessions 1-62
Eli Goldblatt, Speech Acts
Gil Ott, Traffic
Kristin Gallagher, ed., The Form of Our Uncertainty: A Tribute to Gil Ott
Paul Naylor, Arranging Nature
Bill Lavender, While Sleeping
Myung Mi Kim, The Bounty
Mary Margaret Sloan, The Said Lands, Islands, and Premises
Karen Mac Cormack, Quirks & Quillets
Karen Mac Cormack, The Tongue Moves Talk
Larry Evers & Felipe Molina, eds., Wo'i Bwikam / Coyote Songs: from the Yaqui Bow Leaders' Society
Peter Ganick,
Nick Piombino, Hegelian Honeymoon
Jerome Rothenberg, A Book of Concealments
Nathaniel Mackey, Four for Glenn
Allison Cobb, Born Two
Todd Baron, TV Eye
Nathaniel Tarn, The Architextures
Elizabeth Treadwell, Chantry
Diane Glancy, The Closets of Heaven
Diane Glancy, (Ado)ration
Charles Alexander, Hopeful Buildings

HERE IS THE OFFER: Get a check to us within a week (postmarked by Sept. 8, 2007), and you will pay as follows:

1 book for $14
2 books for $25
3 books for $35
4 books for $44
5 books for $54
6 books for $63
7 books for $73
8 books for $82
9 books for $92
10 books for $100
11 books for $108
12 books for $115

Send an email to inquire about discounts when ordering more than 12 books.

A great feature of this offer: No matter how many you buy, we will pay for shipping to domestic US locations via Media Mail postage. If you are ordering from another country, please calculate appropriate rates at 9 ounces per book, and include enough for books and shipping with your check. Checks in US dollars, please.

Please notice our NEW ADDRESS:

Chax Press
650 E. 9th St.
Tucson, AZ 85705-8584
USA

Chax Press
650 E. 9th St.
Tucson, AZ 85705-8584

[redacted] (Chax Press)
[redacted] (cell)
[redacted]

http://chax.org

↑ Index

15. David Chirot

Fwd: From Clemente Padin: Concent rado Acción - Concentrated Action

Sat 1 Sep 2007

Galería MEC - Espacio Plataforma Montevideo - Uruguay

24 artistas latinoamericanos, dos seminarios, conferencias, exhibición de videos performáticos, un espacio para el diálogo con accionistas venidos desde México, Venezuela, Cuba, Chile, Argentina, Brasil y Uruguay del 4 al 9 de Setiembre, 2007 en la Galería MEC, Montevideo, Uruguay.

24 Latin American artists, two seminars, conferences, exhibition of videos on performances, a space for the dialogue with accionists come from Mexico, Venezuela, Cuba, Chile, Argentina, Brazil and Uruguay, 4 to 9 Setiembre, 2007, in the MEC Gallery, Montevideo, Uruguay.

*>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>><
MARTES 4 AL DOMINGO 9
*DE 11:00 A 22:00 HS
Sos Tierra, fotos de otro planeta / Exposición fotográfica de obras de performance
Espacio Relacional / Lugar de encuentro

*>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>><
MARTES 4

*19:00 hs > Inauguración
19:30 hs > Plumas / Daniel Acosta
20:00 hs > Creciendo / María Noel Langone
20:30 hs > De la serie somática / Andrea Cárdenas

*>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>
MIERCOLES 5
*9-12:00 hs > Taller Alexander del Re
14-17:00 hs > Taller Pancho López
17:30 hs > Entre las acción Contextualizada y la acción como instancia estética. La encrucijada de la performance latinoamericana / Ponencia de Silvio de Gracia
18:30 hs > Diario del proyecto Tierra / Ponencia de Daniel Acosta
19:30 hs > Coreografía para manos con esposas / Cecilia Vignolo
20:00 hs > Espacio Rito urbano / Juan Silva Alvarez y Angela Alves
20:30 > Esa democracia . . . / Gabriel Sasiambarrena
21:00 > Pájaro obsceno / Rafael Álvarez

*>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>
JUEVES 6
*9-12:00 hs > Taller Alexander del Re
14-17:00 hs > Taller Pancho López
17:30 hs > PERFORMANCELOGÍA: Archivo Virtual de Documentación sobre Performance y Performancistas / Charla con Aidana Rico, Amira Tremont e Ignacio Pérez
19:30 hs > Justi-xia / Claudia Ruíz Herrera 20:00 hs > / Grupo m.a.m
20:30 > Plagio lumínico / Calixto Saucedo
21:00 hs > Endopintura con tres corazones / José Roberto Sechi

*>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>
VIERNES 7
*9-12:00 hs > Taller Alexander del Re
14-17:00 hs > Taller Pancho López
17:30 hs > Aproximaciones a un metalenguaje o arqueología del lenguaje / Ponencia de Javier Sobrino
19:30 hs > Acerca de la compleja relación de un cubo / Martín Molinaro
20:00 hs > Re-tomando / Aidana Rico
20:30 hs > ANIMALs PERFORMAN / Raúl Nuñez
21:00 hs > Apocatástasis / Ignacio Pérez Ignacio Pérez

*>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>
SÁBADO 8
*17:00 hs > Muestra del taller Alexander del Re

19:30 hs > Fuente / Lucía Ponce de León
20:00 hs > Tu + Yo / Pancho López
20:30 hs > Paradox / Alexander del Re
21:00 hs > Líneas de a tiempo / Javier Sobrino

*>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>>><
DOMINGO 9
*17:00 hs > Muestra del taller Pancho López
19:30 hs > Situación dadaista 0 / Graciela Cianfagna
20:00 hs > Memorial V / Juan Angel Italiano y Gabriel Octavio Italiano
20:30 hs > Pecho bueno / Pecho malo / Gabriela Alonso
21:00 hs > Enjoy / Silvio de Gracia

*Programación, prólogo y fotos en la web *
http://www.plataforma.gub.uy/Agosto/centro_mec/concentrados/performance/performance.htm
<http://www.plataforma.gub.uy/Agosto/centro_mec/concentrados/performance/performance.htm%20>

Concentrado Acción es un proyecto curado por Clemente Padín, [redacted] Concentrated Action is a cured project for Clemente Padín .....

*PLATAFORMA *ES UN PROYECTO DE LA DIRECCIÓN DE CULTURA DEL MINISTERIO DE EDUCACIÓN Y CULTURA., MONTEVIDEO, URUGUAY, DIRIGIDO POR TAMARA CUBAS SAN JOSÉ 1116, MONTEVIDEO, URUGUAY, [redacted] , TEL_902 3941, www.plataforma.gub.uy

PLATFORM IS A PROJECT OF DIRECTION OF CULTURE AND EDUCATION MINISTRY, MONTEVIDEO, URUGUAY, DIRECTED BY TAMARA CUBAS, SAN JOSÉ 1116, MONTEVIDEO, URUGUAY, [redacted] , TEL_902 3941, www.plataforma.gub.uy

---
Get news, entertainment and everything you care about at Live.com. Check it out! <http://www.live.com/getstarted.aspx+>

↑ Index

16. Stephen Vincent
Bo Diddley - Who Do You Love? - health, etc.
Sat 1 Sep 2007

Tom Mazzolini, the SF Bay Area Blues impresario, - used his Saturday KPFA radio show to say he had just learned that Bo Diddley had suffered a heart attack (apparently this was preceded by a stroke last Spring). Then Tom played Bo Diddley's "Who Do You Love?" (below) - a song he wrote in 1953. Tho I probably heard this song a million times 'back in the day', I was thunderstruck by the language, let alone the audacity of the voice. Critics must have a name for this brand of surrealism, it's gothic, southern graveyard mock Satan/devil rattling bravado. This guy is going to control the whole street! Let alone happy or terrified "Arlene". It's a wonderful masterpiece.

May Bo Diddley make it quickly back into play. If not, he leaves more than a few 'scorchers'.

I walk 47 miles of barbed wire,
I use a cobra-snake for a necktie,
I got a brand new house on the roadside,
Made from rattlesnake hide,
I got a brand new chimney made on top,
Made out of a human skull,
Now come on take a walk with me, arlene,
And tell me, who do you love?

Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?

Tombstone hand and a graveyard mine,
Just 22 and I dont mind dying.

Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?

I rode around the town, use a rattlesnake whip,
Take it easy arlene, dont give me no lip,

Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?

Night was dark, but the sky was blue,
Down the alley, the ice-wagon flew,
Heard a bump, and somebody screamed,
You should have heard just what I seen.

Who do you love?
Who do you love?

Who do you love?
Who do you love?

Arlene took me by my hand,
And she said ooowee bo, you know I understand.

Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?

↑ Index

17. Jennifer Karmin
JOB: University of Southern California
Sat 1 Sep 2007

(this is a forward. please don't respond to me. good luck!)

Director of Professional Writing Program, University of Southern California.

The USC College of Letters, Arts and Sciences seeks an outstanding full-time director of the Master of Professional Writing (MPW) Program beginning January 2008.

The MPW Program is a dynamic multidisciplinary graduate writing program that offers writers the opportunity to sharpen their writing in an integrated curriculum of fiction, nonfiction, playwriting, screenplay, and poetry. Among its many graduates successful in publishing, film, stage, and business careers are prize-winning and best-selling authors and Academy Award nominees. The program reflects the energy of Los Angeles, a 24/7 hive of creative activity, with multi-ethnic, cultural, artistic, and intellectual energies.

Duties include curriculum development and oversight, student and faculty recruitment, external relations, and teaching. For a complete description of this position, visit http://www.usc.edu/dept/LAS/mpw/faculty/directorsearch

An MFA or equivalent relevant graduate degree is required. Published writer in multiple genres and experienced administrator with collaborative style desired. To apply, please submit electronically a cover letter, CV, and contact information for 3 individuals who can serve as references to:
[redacted]

Copies of published work and letters of reference will be requested later. Consideration of applications will begin October 15, 2007.

Web site:
http://www.usc.edu/dept/LAS/mpw

Pinpoint customers who are looking for what you sell.
http://searchmarketing.yahoo.com/

↑ Index

18. Jill Jones
Re: Bo Diddley - Who Do You Love? - health, etc.
Sat 1 Sep 2007

Hi Stephen,

I was listening to this song just yesterday. I'd always that it was pretty audacious (good word), when I heard it way way back. Out of another world.

I remember him doing a gig at Sydney Uni, so long ago. He wasn't 22 then but he was still in charge. I mean, they wheeled him on and off stage but when he was there, he was there, doin the do with that square guitar thing he played.

Hmm, Arlene's story, that would be interesting. Wonder if she was a cuz to Nadine (why can't you be true).

Hey Bo Diddley

Best
Jill

On 02/09/2007, at 7:52 AM, Stephen Vincent wrote:

> Tom Mazzolini, the SF Bay Area Blues impresario, - used his Saturday KPFA
> radio show to say he had just learned that Bo Diddley had suffered a heart > attack (apparently this was preceded by a stroke last Spring). Then

Tom
played Bo Diddley's "Who Do You Love?" (below) - a song he wrote in 1953.
Tho I probably heard this song a million times 'back in the day', I was thunderstruck by the language, let alone the audacity of the voice. Critics must have a name for this brand of surrealism, it's gothic, southern graveyard mock Satan/devil rattling bravado. This guy is going to control the whole street! Let alone happy or terrified "Arlene". It's a wonderful masterpiece.

May Bo Diddley make it quickly back into play. If not, he leaves more than a few 'scorchers'.

I walk 47 miles of barbed wire,
I use a cobra-snake for a necktie,
I got a brand new house on the roadside,
Made from rattlesnake hide,
I got a brand new chimney made on top,
Made out of a human skull,
Now come on take a walk with me, arlene,
And tell me, who do you love?

Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?

Tombstone hand and a graveyard mine,
Just 22 and I dont mind dying.

Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?

I rode around the town, use a rattlesnake whip,
Take it easy arlene, dont give me no lip,

Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?

> Night was dark, but the sky was blue,
> Down the alley, the ice-wagon flew,
> Heard a bump, and somebody screamed,
> You should have heard just what I seen.
>
> Who do you love?
> Who do you love?
> Who do you love?
> Who do you love?
>
> Arlene took me by my hand,
> And she said ooowee bo, you know I understand.
>
> Who do you love?
> Who do you love?
> Who do you love?
> Who do you love?

Jill Jones

Latest books:
Broken/Open. Available from Salt Publishing
http://www.saltpublishing.com/books/smp/1844710416.htm

Where the Sea Burns. Wagtail Series. Picaro Press
PO Box 853, Warners Bay, NSW, 2282. [redacted]

web site: http://www.jilljones.com.au
off the street: http://jillesjon.googlepages.com/home
blog1: Ruby Street http://rubystreet.blogspot.com/
blog2: Latitudes http://itudes.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

19. Eireene Nealand

Russian Posmodernism

Sun 2 Sep 2007

Does anyone know any postmodernist poets in Russia that need exposure or translation? I'm going to be hanging out in St. Petersburg for all of September translating and gathering interesting art works and thoughts. Would be glad to meet some new writers if anyone has any ideas about who might be interesting in this regard. I'm thinking that it might be good to meet some academics as well. Any Mikhail Epstein postmodernists out there?

↑ Index

20. Eric Elshtain

New Gnoetry0.2 chapbook on Beard of Bees

Sun 2 Sep 2007

Please take the time to read _King of Eatable Birds_, the latest entry from a human collaboration with the world's most handsome poetry-generating software.

from the preface:

"When writing about these beautiful poems, one should not consider them Anne H.
Murdeus', or the machine's, but the collaboration between nearly two dozen human authors and math. Gnoetry allows for a nearly objective poetry, built from neutral code and human syntactic tendencies."

htp://www.beardofbees.com/murdeus.html

Thanks, and yours,

Eric Elshtain
Editor
Beard of Bees Press
http://www.beardofbees.com

↑ Index

21. David Chirot

"Redacted" stuns Venice/"Redacted" redacted for release/Govt, lawyers involved in edits, changes

Sun 2 Sep 2007

While not approaching the kind of labyrinthine checkpoint obstacle course of the translations of the Guantanamo Poetry book, the issues of dealing with government "redactions" handled through lawyers in creating both the text and the images of Di Palma's film are in a similar vein. It's interesting also that via these pressures the writer/director notes how various documentary aspects had to be fictionalized.

Isn't that what the government continually does--take the documentary and fictionalize it?

Faces of Iraqis at the film's end were blacked out--censored--by order of the power that be.

Not unlike Guantanamo prisoners' letters to families which are so blacked out all one may read is "Dear Mother: and "love, X".

"Redaction" as "read action"--
"take some read action" on that writing!

All to maintain a "willing suspension of disbelief" on the part of "critical" readers.

Another form of "read action":

Patrons of Independent booksellers are being asked to warn their favorite book stores about possible customers who purchase multi copies of the new book "The Israeli Lobby and American Foreign Policy".

Apparently this is a tactic which has been employed with a number of books critical of Israeli policies or of the Israeli lobby/ AIPAC in the past. The tactic is to make sure the books are off the shelves as quickly as possible.

White the "number of sales" will look impressive, the "number of readers" is actually the opposite.

It's an inverted version of the poetry book or library book say, in which one copy of a book has many readers.

http://us.f572.mail.yahoo.com/ym/ShowLetter?MsgId“65_11976031_3280095_2926_7088_0_22512_23215_401040542&Idx=9&YY8071&y5beta=yes&y5beta=yes&inc%&order=down&sortÚte&pos=0&view=a&head=b&box=Inbox ---

↑ Index

22. Patrick F. Durgin

Kenning Editions: subscribe by credit card

Sun 2 Sep 2007

Kenning Editions is pleased to accept direct, pay by credit card mailorders, via 2COâ€™s secure server <https://www.2checkout.com/2co/buyer/orderpage?sid=1266894>. Visit our vendor page <https://www.2checkout.com/2co/buyer/orderpage?sid=1266894><https://www.2checkout.com/2co/buyer/orderpage?sid=1266894> to order individual titles or a current subscription. In-print chapbooks are still exclusively available via Small Press Distribution <http://www.spdbooks.org>. Especially enticing is the first opportunity Editionsâ€™ series of trade paperback volumes, you receive discounts on Dolores Dorantesâ€™ sexoPUROsexoVELOZ and Septiembre (due mid-October for early November release) and Pamela Luâ€™s Ambient Parking Lot (due early 2008). You also support the pressâ€™ ongoing efforts to make important new writing available.

Kenning Editions is a not-for-profit venture engaged in one sustained cry for help emitting from www.kenningeditions.com.

A propos www.da-crouton.com, Iâ€™d like to offer a CD-R of randomly selected Da Crouton recordings (see posts in the â€œRecordingsâ€ category on the website) housed in a hand-printed sleeve featuring an illustration by David Larsen originally slated for the now-aborted first Da Crouton full-length release. Each one hand made. And if you send me a playlist with your order, itâ€™ll also be custom made. $7.00/per from 2COâ€™s secure, online vending machine <https://www.2checkout.com/2co/buyer/orderpage?sid=1266894>!

Da Crouton was born a repository for musical and other sound works, but eventually become just another poet's blog. A proper synthesis will one day soon be attained.

Forthcoming titles from Kenning Editions:

*/sexoPUROsexoVELOZ /and/ Septiembre/ *

*a bilingual edition of books two and three * *of /Dolores Dorantes/, by Dolores Dorantes *

translated by Jen Hofer

978-0-9767364-2-4 $14.95

Dolores Dorantes was born in Veracruz in 1973 and has lived most of her life in Ciudad JuÃ¡rez, where socioeconomic violence and politically-charged daily brutalities have informed her radically humane and beautifully incisive work as a poet, journalist, and cultural worker. Dorantes is a rare phenomenon among Mexican literary communities, in that she engages a wide-ranging international stance toward poetry and poetics while refusing to accept state support from a government she cannot respect. She has published four book-length works of poetry, and is a founding member of the border arts collective CompaÃ±Ãa Frugal (The Frugal Company), which counts among its activities publication of the monthly poetry broadside series /Hoja Frugal/, printed in editions of 4000 and distributed free throughout Mexico. Regarding that publication, Dorantes writes: â€œThe /Hoja Frugal/ is a project that came into being on September 9, 2001 in Ciudad JuÃ¡rez, Chihuahua (the so-called â€˜crime frontierâ€™). Our idea was to share the readings and translations in which we as writers are engaged. But more than anything, to share them with the community as a whole, not with the â€˜intellectualâ€™ community. Our intention was to give the community a breath of respite in the context of the growing phenomenon of violence we experience daily in this border zone.â€ Engaging this literary-political project from another perspective, /PUREsexSWIFTsex/ and /September/ are books 2 and 3 of Dorantesâ€™ lifelong project titled /Dolores Dorantes/.

A copublication of Counterpath Press <http://www.counterpathpress.org>and Kenning Editions.

And eventually...

/Ambient Parking Lot/, by Pamela Lu. PROSE. Part fiction, part earnest mockumentary, /Ambient Parking Lot/ follows a band of musicians as they wander the parking structures of urban downtown and greater suburbia in quest of the ultimate ambient noiseâ€'-one that promises to embody their historical moment and deliver them up to the heights of their self-important artistry. Along the way, they make sporadic forays into lyric while contending with doubts, delusions, miscalculations, mutinies, and minor triumphs. This saga peers into the wreckage of a post-9/11 landscape and embraces the comedy and poignancy of failed utopia. Pamela Lu is the author of /Pamela: A Novel/. Her work appears in the anthology /Biting the Error/ and in periodicals such as /Harperâ€™s/, /Chicago Review/, /call: a review/, /1913/, and /Fascicle/.

↑ Index

23. W.B. Keckler

Re: Russian Posmodernism

Sun 2 Sep 2007

Hi Eireene! Why not ask the langpo poets who have been there and made so many contacts...like Lyn Hejinian, Watten, Silliman?and crew from that joint work LEGEND was it? Also, I would imagine translator John High would be a good one to ask for being au courant on this...I do not have any of these emails but I'm sure you could backchannel here...good luck! I'd love to see the final results!

-----Original Message-----
From: Eireene Nealand <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sun, 2 Sep 2007 4:31 am
Subject: Russian Posmodernism

Does anyone know any postmodernist poets in Russia that need exposure or translation? I'm going to be hanging out in St. Petersburg for all of September translating and gathering interesting art works and thoughts. Would be glad to meet some new writers if anyone has any ideas about who might be interesting in this regard. I'm thinking that it might be good to meet some academics as well. Any Mikhail Epstein postmodernists out there?

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

24. George Bowering
Re: "Confusations: Seven Photographs and a Commentary"
Sun 2 Sep 2007

Joel,

when you keep referring to "this city" you might tell us what city it is. Or is that the point? I mean about being lost.

You don't mean Portland,. do you?

On Sep 2, 2007, at 10:38 AM, Joel Weishaus wrote:

> The finished project:
>
> http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/Confusations/Introduction.htm
>
>
> _____
>
> Joel Weishaus
> Research Faculty
> Department of English
> Portland State University
> Portland, Oregon
> http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282
>
>
G. Bowering
Knows which door the tiger's behind.

↑ Index

25. Joel Weishaus
"Confusations: Seven Photographs and a Commentary"
Sun 2 Sep 2007

The finished project:

http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/Confusations/Introduction.htm

_____

Joel Weishaus
Research Faculty
Department of English

Portland State University
Portland, Oregon
http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282

↑ Index

26. J Crockett
for poets
Sun 2 Sep 2007

Greetings, we come in peace.

Hello, I'm Jesse Crockett. I may or may not be a poet.

We come in peace.

I am forming a business venture for poets, hoping to capitalize (in a poetic way) on our good names.

Starting a web hosting reselling business, you are welcome to join me in Web Poets Hosting, where each client will receive a welcoming postcard from each member of the Web Poets Hosting Collective.

Gratis,
Jess Crockett

http://denacht.blogspot.com
http://listenlight.net
http://gravityway.com

↑ Index

27. Stephen Vincent
Re: Bo Diddley - Who Do You Love? - health, etc.
Sun 2 Sep 2007

Yes, Jill, I suspect Arlene, and Nadine are fallen out cousins of Ondine - the latter - in terms of Bo - probably not wanting to get that far 'down'.

Stephen V

> Hi Stephen,
>
> I was listening to this song just yesterday. I'd always that it was pretty audacious (good word), when I heard it way way back. Out of another world.
>
> I remember him doing a gig at Sydney Uni, so long ago. He wasn't 22 then but he was still in charge. I mean, they wheeled him on and off stage but when he was there, he was there, doin the do with that square guitar thing he played.

Hmm, Arlene's story, that would be interesting. Wonder if she was a cuz to Nadine (why can't you be true).

Hey Bo Diddley

Best
Jill

On 02/09/2007, at 7:52 AM, Stephen Vincent wrote:

Tom Mazzolini, the SF Bay Area Blues impresario, - used his Saturday KPFA
radio show to say he had just learned that Bo Diddley had suffered a heart attack (apparently this was preceded by a stroke last Spring). Then Tom played Bo Diddley's "Who Do You Love?" (below) - a song he wrote in 1953.
Tho I probably heard this song a million times 'back in the day', I was thunderstruck by the language, let alone the audacity of the voice. Critics must have a name for this brand of surrealism, it's gothic, southern graveyard mock Satan/devil rattling bravado. This guy is going to control the whole street! Let alone happy or terrified "Arlene". It's a wonderful masterpiece.

May Bo Diddley make it quickly back into play. If not, he leaves more than a few 'scorchers'.

I walk 47 miles of barbed wire,
I use a cobra-snake for a necktie,
I got a brand new house on the roadside,
Made from rattlesnake hide,
I got a brand new chimney made on top,
Made out of a human skull,
Now come on take a walk with me, arlene,
And tell me, who do you love?

Who do you love?

Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?

Tombstone hand and a graveyard mine,
Just 22 and I dont mind dying.

Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?

I rode around the town, use a rattlesnake whip,
Take it easy arlene, dont give me no lip,

Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?

Night was dark, but the sky was blue,
Down the alley, the ice-wagon flew,
Heard a bump, and somebody screamed,
You should have heard just what I seen.

Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?

Arlene took me by my hand,
And she said ooowee bo, you know I understand.

Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?
Who do you love?

Jill Jones

Latest books:
Broken/Open. Available from Salt Publishing
http://www.saltpublishing.com/books/smp/1844710416.htm

Where the Sea Burns. Wagtail Series. Picaro Press
PO Box 853, Warners Bay, NSW, 2282. [redacted]

> web site: http://www.jilljones.com.au
> off the street: http://jillesjon.googlepages.com/home
> blog1: Ruby Street http://rubystreet.blogspot.com/
> blog2: Latitudes http://itudes.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

28. Stephen Vincent

New de Blog,Interview,

Sun 2 Sep 2007

---

http://stephenvincent.net/blog/

1. Jack Spicer / Ocean Haptic (photographs).
 ...The ocean
 does not mean be listened to...

2. Eucalyptus Interupt Us - Guernica/Gernika: Parque de los Pueblos de Europa
...Wet. Unabashed. Forthright. Open. It seems ridiculous to give her a name, an abstraction. What gives is beauty. The wetness that one might touch there, kiss there, lay ones tongue. Yet one does not....

3. The Emperor of Ice Cream Meets My (91 Year Old Mom) The continuing saga with my mother, the poet:_
...³Yes,² she says, when I ask her if she wants to write.
³Well, lets write one about The Emperor of Ice Cream.²
³How do you know where the Emperor is?²...

If you have an interest, Tom Beckett¹s interview with me is currently featured at Exchange Values.<http://willtoexchange.blogspot.com/2007/08/interview-with-stephen-vi ncent.html> Includes reflections on current work (walking, transversions & haptics), origins and history as both a poet and publisher, and some of the various communities of poets (from virtual to local) in which I find my company as a writer.

Your comments, as always, appreciated.

Stephen Vincent

Walking Theory (Junction Press) is my latest book.
For more, including ordering information, go to:
www.junctionpress.com

↑ Index

29. reJennifer Bartlett
Lee Bartlett - Marginalized Critic
Sun 2 Sep 2007

---

saintelizabethstreet.blogspot.com

_____ Can you find the hidden words? Take a break and play Seekadoo! http://club.live.com/seekadoo.aspx?icid=seek_hotmailtextlink1

↑ Index

30. David Chirot
Re: Russian Posmodernism
Sun 2 Sep 2007

An excellent person, especially re the post modern, the conceptualists and many others is Kent Johnson, co-editor of the anthology Third Wave which is the first anthology in English to have such important figures as the recently late Dmitiri Prigov. among a great many others.

Mikhail Epstein whom you make note of--wrote an excellent piece as one of his two appendices to the Doubled Flowering Excerpts from the Notebooks of Araki Yasusada (who actually may/may not be Kent Johnson) in which he posits as hypotheses of the "real author" of these works either Prigov or Bitov, another of the poets in Third Wave,

Another person, the most knowledgeable re the history and figures of Russian avant-garde writing from the beginnings of Russian Futurism and Zaum to the present is Professor Gerald Janecek, also a great and in most cases the only translator of a massive amount of Russian avant-garde poetry and manifestos of the last hundred years (Janecek for example has witten/translated the incredible book Zaum The Transrational Poetry of Russian Futurism and in a later work of his, a collection of essays, has many studies of contemporary Russian avant-grades as yet very little known outside Russia. Hi book The Look of Russian Literature remains the best study of Russian visual/sound poetry of the period 1907-1920 roughly. At the time of Third Wave (1992) most of the writers of the avant-garde in there were also hardly known of at all in the English speaking world.It's a classic groundbreaking work still.)

(back channel for address) Janecek knows more than anyone re the kinds of writing up are interest in and also probably people to meet, and Johnson knows a great deal also about the poets and where many may be found as well.

On 9/2/07, W.B. Keckler <[redacted]> wrote:
> Hi Eireene! Why not ask the langpo poets who have been there and made so many contacts...like Lyn Hejinian, Watten, Silliman?and crew from that joint work LEGEND was it? Also, I would imagine translator John High would be a good one to ask for being au courant on this...I do not have any of these emails but I'm sure you could backchannel here...good luck! I'd love to see the final results!

>
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Eireene Nealand <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Sun, 2 Sep 2007 4:31 am
> Subject: Russian Posmodernism
>
>
>
> Does anyone know any postmodernist poets in Russia that need exposure > or translation? I'm going to be hanging out in St. Petersburg for all > of September translating and gathering interesting art works and > thoughts. Would be glad to meet some new writers if anyone has any > ideas about who might be interesting in this regard. I'm thinking > that it might be good to meet some academics as well. Any Mikhail > Epstein postmodernists out there?
>
>
> _____
> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! -
http://mail.aol.com
>

↑ Index

31. Maria Damon
[Fwd: Re: [Fwd: Russian Posmodernism]]
Sun 2 Sep 2007

This is a multi-part message in MIME format.

from Masha Zavialova, a Russian translator and sometime listmember;

 name="Re: [Fwd: Russian Posmodernism].eml" filename="Re: [Fwd: Russian Posmodernism].eml"

Delivered-To: [redacted]
by sapphire.tc.umn.edu (Postfix) with ESMTP id E03F6337C for <[redacted]>; Sun, 2 Sep 2007 13:39:18 -0500 (CDT)
by mta-w2.tc.umn.edu (UMN smtpd) with ESMTP

for <[redacted]>; Sun, 2 Sep 2007 13:39:18 -0500 (CDT)
by wm1.tc.umn.edu (8.10.0/8.10.0) id l82IdIM10424
for [redacted]; Sun, 2 Sep 2007 13:39:18 -0500 (CDT)
From: [redacted]
To: Maria Damon <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: [Fwd: Russian Posmodernism]
Date: 02 Sep 2007 13:39:18 -0500
References: <[redacted]>

No, i didn't. I am temporarily unsubscribed. I could give some names though. Besides the usual set of names, i personally like Sergei Stratanovskii (he used to be a librarian in the Public Library, Publichka, the main one), Larissa Berezovchuk, Aleksandr Gornon, Vladimir Kucheriavkin, all of them widely known in narrow circles (as the Russian saying goes). Stratanovski could help contact the others. She can contact me for more information. Hope this helps. masha

On Sep 2 2007, Maria Damon wrote:

> maybe you already saw this...?

----------070708060103080606060905--

↑ Index

32. Mandy Laughtland
free Teeny Tiny mini book
Sun 2 Sep 2007

Hello,

I have subscribed to this list for some time but haven't posted about my tiny publications before. Under the imprint of "Teeny Tiny," I make mini zines and chapbooks and distribute them for free or trade (I especially like to trade for other small books/zines). Please see my website -- http://www.teenytiny.org -- for more info.

I thought some of you would be interested in my latest tiny book, which is the first "Teeny Tiny Time Machine" chap. Edited and with notes by Jesse Glass, "The Tremendous Adventures and the Mighty Deeds, Rise, Downfall, Life and Death of A. Jacks" is a tiny story written (we think) by Henry Faxon in 1853. This mini book is made from a single-sided photocopy folded to make 8 tiny pages and has cardstock covers which feature an original print.

This mini book is available in a limited, numbered edition of 50 copies. If you would like a (free!) copy, please email me. If you would like to send me something as a trade, I would love that, but if you don't have a trade, that's OK, too. Just let me know (backchannel, of course) if you're interested.

All best,
Amanda Laughtland
http://www.teenytiny.org

___ Looking for a deal? Find great prices on flights and hotels with Yahoo! FareChase. http://farechase.yahoo.com/

↑ Index

33. CA Conrad
FOR THE LOVE OF NEEDLES!!!!
Sun 2 Sep 2007

in the Philadelphia area
tomorrow night at the Troc in Chinatown poetry and music to raise money for our favorite bitch queen of darkness
fresh out of ICU Needles Jones
for details: http://CAConradEVENTS.blogspot.com

↑ Index

34. Gabriel Gudding
Re: Five Enemies,
Sun 2 Sep 2007

I liked what Andy said here (below) re Whitman. It reminds me of something John Muir said:

"The hall and the theater and the church have been invented, and compulsory education. Why not add compulsory recreation?"

<<I wonder, if we reframe the word "enemies" as "dysfunctional friends," to borrow self help lingo, if we might see these things as aspects of practice and awareness, rather than potential ruin in the writing practice? Might I paraphrase Whitman loosely and add that laziness can be a virtue as it forces us to acknowledge limitations of the self, and to come to terms with blockage or boredom as transitional states. New member Andy>>

↑ Index

35. CA Conrad
Re: Five Enemies,
Mon 3 Sep 2007

Alan I'm fascinated by the want of writing, something you touch on here. Depending on the want of writing Craving may become Carving, cutting into oneself, or one other.

Some of the most wicked people I've ever met are poets. There's so much envy and jealousy and it gets so thick in some of their blood it cripples. And there's a stench too from it.

Maybe I can't tear my eyes away from these car wrecks because they are incredible, invaluable lessons for my own life.

If there's a cure for any of it it's the nod deep into the concentration of writing.

Not to disappear, not be the fantasy, but to get it all clearer, the bright brighter.

There's a spiritual solution to poetry's problems of want and it's the poetry itself. And to me that's funny because not everything on the planet works this way of course. If the solution to the want of cocaine was taking the deepest hit imaginable, imagine that. It's as if poetry has the most manipulated back no saddle fits, yet any saddle fits if you use the saddle as a ladder beside it. If poetry rides you one day what's that about? I'm praying for spurs coming down into my thighs.

Slippery works best, grease all the pens,
CAConrad
http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

↑ Index

36. Charlie Rossiter
Blogs--who reads them?
Mon 3 Sep 2007

Blogs--

I recently told my friend, Dan....writing a blog is like writing a letter and putting it in an envelope that hasn't been addressed... you have to wonder who's going to read It.., but being a writer like you folks, I've decided to persist for a while.

Well after casting about for a bit, I've decided to generally focus my blog on what I'm reading...If you're interested I'm posting on

www.myspace.com/charlierossiter

recent blogs are about John Fante (bukowski's literary hero), Zora Neale Hurston, and poets i'd like to sit down and have a conversation with--both living and dead.

If you eschew Myspace, the same postings are at www.charlierossiter.blogspot.com

I'd be glad to get any response, encouragement or arguments. The assumption is that we're all in it to learn.

Charlie

--
"Poetry is good for you and so is the blues."
Charlie said that.
www.poetrypoetry.com
where you hear poems read by poets who wrote them

www.myspace.com/whiskeybucketbluesreview
hear Charlie & Henry sing the blues

www.myspace.com/charlierossiter
hear Charlie as solo performance poet

www.myspace.com/avantretro (hear avantretro poems)

www.myspace.com/jackthe71special hear Jack's original blues, blues rock & roots

↑ Index

37. Joel Weishaus
"Confusations: Seven Photographs and a Commentary"
Mon 3 Sep 2007

George:

The pictures were taken in Portland, but not _of_ Portland. I respect art that is placed, but think it must also be unplaced, as if lost.

-Joel

Date: Sun, 2 Sep 2007 10:24:59 -0700
From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: "Confusations: Seven Photographs and a Commentary"

Joel,

when you keep referring to "this city" you might tell us what city it is. Or is that the point? I mean about being lost.

You don't mean Portland,. do you?

On Sep 2, 2007, at 10:38 AM, Joel Weishaus wrote:

> The finished project:
>
> http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/Confusations/Introduction.htm
>
>
> _____
>
> Joel Weishaus
> Research Faculty
> Department of English
> Portland State University
> Portland, Oregon
> http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282
>
>
G. Bowering
Knows which door the tiger's behind.

↑ Index

38. Alexander Jorgensen
Prague, Czech Republic
Mon 3 Sep 2007

All,

Will be traveling to Prague in December and wonder if anyone might be able to provide me with information related to its current community of poets and artists - ie, feedback and places, contacts. Was last there about five years ago when things had begun to quiet and become a bit more orderly, will say, the rush of new ideas preceding this period slowing quite a bit, the old Globe

Bookshop moving, some very talented people departing and new interests taking over.

Your time will be much appreciated.

Regards,
Alexander Jorgensen

--
Marcus Aurelius: "The object of life is not to be on the side of the majority, but to escape finding oneself in the ranks of the insane."

↑ Index

39. Alan Sondheim
CAULDRON VICTORIA
Mon 3 Sep 2007

CAULDRON VICTORIA

CAULDRON http://www.asondheim.org/cauldron.mp3 words by alansondheim rearranged by azurecarter music and voice by azurecarter

"Something glistening
Something of skin and hair torn Charred, cracked, raw skin
Read to be sure

"Superimpositions
Transformations through void
Standing in
For standing out

"This grand season
Before the festival of cauldron

"I can hardly move
I can hardly breathe
Thrust among us
Rendered parts
Dismemberments
Disease

"Extensions of Chora Processes within Erratic behaviors
Totality and sin

"Intensions of language
Partial Objects
Created among clusters Infinite abacus

"This grand season [...]

"I can hardly move [...]

"Ascendent maw
O carapace
Inclement weathers
Metonymic process

"Telling of culture
I need to know
Will you be auspicious
Daishin Nikuko

"This grand season [...]

"I can hardly move [...]"

VICTORIA http://www.asondheim.org/victoria.mp3 long harmonica solo on Hohner Victoria harmonica;

this is from 1901 and unusual - there are no sound-holes, creating a soft 'velvet' sound (a long form replete with errors, working myself into and out of corners, pretending everything was/is perfect)

↑ Index

40. William James Austin
Blackbox submissions
Mon 3 Sep 2007

Hello everyone,

The submission period for Blackbox' summer gallery is now open, and will remain so for approximately two-three weeks.? Please consult the guidelines on the Blackbox page before sending your work.? Blackbox is located at WilliamJamesAustin.com/Blackbox.html.

Best, Bill

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

41. Eric Elshtain
Correct Bees link
Mon 3 Sep 2007

http://www.beardofbees.com/murdeus.html

http://www.beardofbees.com/murdeus.html

Eric Elshtain
Editor
Beard of Bees Press
http://www.beardofbees.com

↑ Index

42. laura hinton
call for papers on poet's theater
Mon 3 Sep 2007

CALL FOR PAPERS
for "Contemporary Poet's Theater: L-A-N-G-U-A-G-E and Beyond":
A panel on critical approaches to poet's theater to be proposed to the 20th Century Literature Conference in Louisville

Please respond with an essay abstract and bio by SEPT. 12. A print project may be in in the future on the poet's theater topic, so we are happy to learn of your interest.

Description of panel proposal with submission instructions: In recent contemporary poetics, the term "poet's theater" has become linked with the "Language" group of writers and often directors of poetry-plays produced as low-budget staged performances in the late 1970's and '80's. Today, new productions of classic "Language"-oriented poet's theater abound, by writers including Leslie Scalapino, Carla Harryman, Charles Bernstein, among others. Yet there are also many contemporary playwrights in other settings doing work that is not only aesthetically related to "Language"-oriented theater, but which might be productively critiqued in terms articulated by Language writers and others writing on avant-garde performance art. These "other" are theater writers are those who are engaging in "poet's theater," by virtue of treating a written text as an act of performance -- the drama thus emerging not from some external "signified," but from within the "signifier," the poetic language, itself. This panel is an attempt to ground a definition of the term "poet's theater" in a potentially expanding notion of the contemporary working scene of today's American theater, both through under-financed small public venues (cafes or coffee houses or art-spaces) or in venues like Off-Broadway. It is also an attempt to take the recent use of the term by the Language writers into other realms of "language"-oriented theatrical poetics. We wish for presenters to look at what the embodied stage and poetic experiment have to offer one another, in practice and/or in conceptual theories. We are proposing this panel to the Louisville conference directors (conference to take place in February '08), with the hopes that we can bring new perspectives into a discussion of an often under-considered form of contemporary poetics: that which is written to be staged. We are looking for papers that consider specific poet's-theater works and their authors, approached from some knowledge of contemporary poetics theory or performance theory (or both). Since our topic concerns CONTEMPORARY poet's theater, please submit paper proposals only on poets of the theater who have emerged during or since the early stages of "Language" writing (including John Ashbery, Bernstein, Ntozake Shange, Harryman, Scalapino, Amiri Baraka, Cherie Moraga, Tracie Morris; as well as "non-poet" playwrights like Adrienne Kennedy, Anna Deavere Smith, or Suzan-Lori Parks -- the latter of whose works are based in a non-linear use of lyrical language). Historical influences, however, are also of interest. Send a 250-300-word abstract and title describing your paper topic no later than SEPTEMBER 12, by e-mail, to Laura Hinton ([redacted]). Accompany this abstract with the following cover-sheet information needed per conference requirements: * 1)Name 2) Address (preferably home) 3) Telephone number 4) Academic or other affiliation (if applicable) 5) Personal biographical note (100-150 words)

↑ Index

43. mIEKAL aND

Re: Five Enemies,

Mon 3 Sep 2007

This is why the unschooling movement is an attractive option for raising your children without subjecting them to metal detectors, textbooks & bad teachers.

~mIEKAL

On Sep 2, 2007, at 10:51 PM, Gabriel Gudding wrote:

> I liked what Andy said here (below) re Whitman. It reminds me of something John Muir said:
>
> "The hall and the theater and the church have been invented, and compulsory education. Why not add compulsory recreation?"

> <<I wonder, if we reframe the word "enemies" as "dysfunctional friends," to borrow self help lingo, if we might see these things as aspects of practice and awareness, rather than potential ruin in the writing practice? Might I paraphrase Whitman loosely and add that laziness can be a virtue as it forces us to acknowledge limitations of the self, and to come to terms with blockage or boredom as transitional states. New member Andy>>

A human being should be able to change a diaper, plan an invasion, butcher a hog, conn a ship, design a building, write a sonnet, balance accounts, build a wall, set a bone, comfort the dying, take orders, give orders, cooperate, act alone, solve equations, analyze a new problem, pitch manure, program a computer, cook a tasty meal, fight efficiently, die gallantly. Specialization is for insects.

—Robert A. Heinlein

↑ Index

44. Halvard Johnson
Re: Five Enemies,
Mon 3 Sep 2007

Five Enemas

↑ Index

45. Bobbi Lurie
Re: Five Enemies,
Mon 3 Sep 2007

Thanks for saying this re: some of the stench, jealousy, stupid ambition. It exists everywhere, of course, but is uglier when it exists within poetry because of the danger of language itself to deceive and isolate.?The thing about it for me is that admitting to such would make it all clean. The truth is purifying. What I object to is the creation of a false self-image whether that be imbedded in text or part of personality pretensions--this falseness is what makes us flee culture to begin with--to end up within the same culture of false veneer is what has made me stop over and over--but then there is a limitation of ways to express so writing becomes inevitable.?I do believe there is beauty in honesty for its own sake. I re-wrote your words to prove it to myself once again?that there is no shame in anything/ only in wasting our precious time on earth lying to and opposed to one another: so to paraphrase and take possession of: "I am one of the wicked people for I am a poet and there's so much envy and jealousy in me,?it gets so thick it cripples, my blood, there's a stench to it."?

-----Original Message-----
From: CA Conrad <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sun, 2 Sep 2007 10:23 pm
Subject: Re: Five Enemies,

Alan I'm fascinated by the want of writing, something you touch on here. Depending on the want of writing Craving may become Carving, cutting into oneself, or one other.

Some of the most wicked people I've ever met are poets. There's so much envy and jealousy and it gets so thick in some of their blood it cripples. And there's a stench too from it.

Maybe I can't tear my eyes away from these car wrecks because they are incredible, invaluable lessons for my own life.

If there's a cure for any of it it's the nod deep into the concentration of writing.

Not to disappear, not be the fantasy, but to get it all clearer, the bright brighter.

There's a spiritual solution to poetry's problems of want and it's the poetry itself. And to me that's funny because not everything on the planet works this way of course. If the solution to the want of cocaine was taking the deepest hit imaginable, imagine that. It's as if poetry has the most manipulated back no saddle fits, yet any saddle fits if you use the saddle as a ladder beside it. If poetry rides you one day what's that about? I'm praying for spurs coming down into my thighs.

Slippery works best, grease all the pens,
CAConrad
http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

46. Gabrielle Welford

Re: Five Enemies,

Mon 3 Sep 2007

---

i so agree with all of this. we have compulsory recreation already... what's that great book on unschooling called? not a great fan of heinlein's but i like that quote. best, g

On Mon, 3 Sep 2007, mIEKAL aND wrote:

> This is why the unschooling movement is an attractive option for raising your children without subjecting them to metal detectors, textbooks & bad teachers.
>
> ~mIEKAL
>
> On Sep 2, 2007, at 10:51 PM, Gabriel Gudding wrote:
>
> I liked what Andy said here (below) re Whitman. It reminds me of something John Muir said:
>
> "The hall and the theater and the church have been invented, and compulsory education. Why not add compulsory recreation?"
>
> <<I wonder, if we reframe the word "enemies" as "dysfunctional friends," to borrow self help lingo, if we might see these things as aspects of practice and awareness, rather than potential ruin in the writing practice? Might I paraphrase Whitman loosely and add that laziness can be a virtue as it forces us to acknowledge limitations of the self, and to come to terms with blockage or boredom as transitional states. New member Andy>>
>
> A human being should be able to change a diaper, plan an invasion, butcher a hog, conn a ship, design a building, write a sonnet, balance accounts, build a wall, set a bone, comfort the dying, take orders, give orders, cooperate, act alone, solve equations, analyze a new problem, pitch manure, program a computer, cook a tasty meal, fight efficiently, die gallantly. Specialization is for insects.
>
> —Robert A. Heinlein

↑ Index

47. Susan Webster Schultz sidewalk blog (political content)
Mon 3 Sep 2007

Recently, I started a "sidewalk blog." I paint signs on pieces of wood, drill holes in them, and hang them on chain link fences with pieces of wire. Have a look. If you click on the photos, they get bigger and a brief narrative appears:

http://www.facebook.com/album.php?aid=6374&l=faa87&id=654553661

aloha, Susan Schultz

↑ Index

48. Jason Quackenbush
Re: Five Enemies,
Mon 3 Sep 2007

---

unschooling and homeschooling really annoy me and i find the premises on which the movements are based (that public schools are filled with incompetents and that group education is inherently bad) insulting to the many wonderful public school teachers I know and love, including the ones who educated me.

the foundational myths on which the "movements" are based are luxuries, moreover, of a class that doesn't require both parents to be breadwinners, and as such are a way of shirking the social responsibility to provide for the education of all children, rather than simply abandoning the concept of public education and providing for ones own.

I'm not saying that someone won't learn in an unschooling environment, i'm saying that i reject the idea that public schools are mental poison and i defy anyone to show me any advantages of unschooling that aren't possible in public schooling when one remains active and involved in a childs education.

people abandon public schools, and have done so for several generations now, and they wonder why people voted for george bush or can't find the united states on a map. rejecting public education means accepting the idea of living in an ignorant society. i don't accept that and don't think any one else should either.

mIEKAL aND wrote:
> This is why the unschooling movement is an attractive option for > raising your children without subjecting them to metal detectors, > textbooks & bad teachers.

>
> ~mIEKAL
>
>
> On Sep 2, 2007, at 10:51 PM, Gabriel Gudding wrote:
>
>> I liked what Andy said here (below) re Whitman. It reminds me of >> something John Muir said:
>>
>> "The hall and the theater and the church have been invented, and >> compulsory education. Why not add compulsory recreation?"
>>
>>
>>
>> <<I wonder, if we reframe the word "enemies" as "dysfunctional >> friends," to borrow self help lingo, if we might see these things as >> aspects of practice and awareness, rather than potential ruin in the >> writing practice? Might I paraphrase Whitman loosely and add that >> laziness can be a virtue as it forces us to acknowledge limitations >> of the self, and to come to terms with blockage or boredom as >> transitional states. New member Andy>>
>>
>
> A human being should be able to change a diaper, plan an invasion, > butcher a hog, conn a ship, design a building, write a sonnet, balance > accounts, build a wall, set a bone, comfort the dying, take orders, > give orders, cooperate, act alone, solve equations, analyze a new > problem, pitch manure, program a computer, cook a tasty meal, fight > efficiently, die gallantly. Specialization is for insects.
>
> —Robert A. Heinlein

↑ Index

49. Small Press Traffic

News from Small Press Traffic

Mon 3 Sep 2007

Dear Small Press Traffic Community,

Our Fall 2007 Season is about to begin and as the new SPT Board President, I'd like to take this opportunity to invite you to our Fall Fundraiser, a performance of Celebrity Hospital, a play by Kevin Killian and Karla Milosevich. Celebrity Hospital features a cast of Bay Area poets, painters, video and filmmakers, cartoonists, theorists, novelists, sculptors, and curators and is an evening not to be missed! Additionally, you will be helping support and sustain Small Press Traffic, the West Coast's oldest and most important independent literary arts non-profit, as we push to make it through another year in an increasingly anti-arts-funding climate. Any support you can offer helps!

CELEBRITY HOSPITAL
by Kevin Killian and Karla Milosevich

Friday, September 7th, 2007
Timken Hall 7:30 p.m.
California College of the Arts
1111 Eighth Street
San Francisco, CA 94107

All seats are $10.00. Plan to come early to get your tickets and have some wine & eats before the show. It's a party and these annual performances sell out fast!

Also: There's no better time to become a member of SPT. This fall's line-up includes Tisa Bryant, Lisa Robertson, Claudia Rankine, Cathy Park Hong, Sarah Rosenthal, Linda Russo, Jennifer Scappettone, Joseph Lease, Rodrigo Toscano, a tribute to Robin Blaser, and many, many other poets as well. These events are FREE to SPT subscribers. Join us!

Our Board has several new members and SPT's Interim Director, Dana Teen Lomax, has some exciting twists in programming planned for the 2008 season. For a full listing and for more information on joining Small Press Traffic, please check out our revamped website at www.sptraffic.org.

See you Fridays,

David Buuck & the SPT Team

****

Small Press Traffic
Literary Arts Center at CCA
1111 -- 8th Street
San Francisco, California 94107
[redacted]

Please note our new email and web addresses:
[redacted]
http://www.sptraffic.org

↑ Index

50. Gabrielle Welford
Re: sidewalk blog (political content)
Mon 3 Sep 2007

this is great! i'll look out for them. i'm here for another few days. can i forward out the idea to the ukiah parents for peace and others? hugs, g

On Mon, 3 Sep 2007, Susan Webster Schultz wrote:

> Recently, I started a "sidewalk blog." I paint signs on pieces of wood, drill holes in them, and hang them on chain link fences with pieces of wire. Have a look. If you click on the photos, they get bigger and a brief narrative appears:
>
> http://www.facebook.com/album.php?aid=6374&l=faa87&id=654553661
>
> aloha, Susan Schultz

↑ Index

51. Gabrielle Welford
Re: Five Enemies,
Mon 3 Sep 2007

hi jason. i put both my kids through public school. if i hadn't been there (and most parents don't have the luxury of doing that either--most have to work at the time they're kids are in school), it would have been worse than it was. i'm a teacher too. there are wonderful teachers. there are also incredibly damaging terrible teachers, monstrous administrations, etc. the wonderful teachers i've known have often had to battle hardline administrations in order to be so wonderful. it was too often that the teachers my kids had put the kids down harshly, were more interested in discipline than learning, expected the kids to become obedient robots, had no imagination. even in the alternative charter schools i've been in, taht was too often the case: no lying on the floor, no freewriting, blablabla. in my view--and i see what the students who come to the university are like--often squished and afraid to express themselves, except for a couple of exceptions.

if unschooling or home schooling is done in a group setting--lots of families grouping together--it doesn't ahve to be a privileged thing. can share. gabe

On Mon, 3 Sep 2007, Jason Quackenbush wrote:

> unschooling and homeschooling really annoy me and i find the premises on which the movements are based (that public schools are filled with incompetents and that group education is inherently bad) insulting to the many wonderful public school teachers I know and love, including the ones who educated me.

the foundational myths on which the "movements" are based are luxuries, moreover, of a class that doesn't require both parents to be breadwinners, and as such are a way of shirking the social responsibility to provide for the education of all children, rather than simply abandoning the concept of public education and providing for ones own.

I'm not saying that someone won't learn in an unschooling environment, i'm saying that i reject the idea that public schools are mental poison and i defy anyone to show me any advantages of unschooling that aren't possible in public schooling when one remains active and involved in a childs education.

people abandon public schools, and have done so for several generations now, and they wonder why people voted for george bush or can't find the united states on a map. rejecting public education means accepting the idea of living in an ignorant society. i don't accept that and don't think any one else should either.

mIEKAL aND wrote:
This is why the unschooling movement is an attractive option for raising your children without subjecting them to metal detectors, textbooks & bad teachers.

~mIEKAL

On Sep 2, 2007, at 10:51 PM, Gabriel Gudding wrote:

I liked what Andy said here (below) re Whitman. It reminds me of something John Muir said:

"The hall and the theater and the church have been invented, and compulsory education. Why not add compulsory recreation?"

<<I wonder, if we reframe the word "enemies" as "dysfunctional friends," to borrow self help lingo, if we might see these things as aspects of practice and awareness, rather than potential ruin in the writing practice? Might I paraphrase Whitman loosely and add that laziness can be a virtue as it forces us to acknowledge limitations of the self, and to come to terms with blockage or boredom as transitional states. New member Andy>>

> A human being should be able to change a diaper, plan an invasion, butcher a hog, conn a ship, design a building, write a sonnet, balance accounts, build a wall, set a bone, comfort the dying, take orders, give orders, cooperate, act alone, solve equations, analyze a new problem, pitch manure, program a computer, cook a tasty meal, fight efficiently, die gallantly. Specialization is for insects.
>
> —Robert A. Heinlein

↑ Index

52. Elizabeth Switaj

Re: Five Enemies,

Tue 4 Sep 2007

Jason, it's not impossible to work to improve public schools while, at the same time homeschooling one's own children. And while you are quite right in identifying the class element to this, I know that if I ever had children of my own I would do my best to keep them out of the public schools until such time as dramatic changed had been effected.

I, too, had some remarkable teachers. I also had horrible ones who didn't know their subject or who "solved" the problem of a student being harassed for a being a lesbian by calling a class metting in which she allowed the harassers to share their "opinions" of lesbians and then asked the lone harassed girl why she didn't say anything.

There is a problem when people start to say that public education is inherently bad. On that, you and I agree. However, the way it is right now, I can understand why people would think so.

Elizabeth Kate Switaj
www.elizabethkateswitaj.net

↑ Index

53. Gabrielle Welford

"Disgruntled Former Lexicographer" (fwd)

Tue 4 Sep 2007

---

sorry if you've seen this before... or am i? gabe

---------- Forwarded message ----------
Date: Wed, 11 Apr 2007 13:56:57 -0400
From: Shelley Reid <[redacted]>

If you were having a bad day on the dictionary-writing circuit, how would you define "mutton"?

>
> http://www.compleatsteve.com/essays/lexicographer.htm

↑ Index

54. [redacted]

Salerno Reading in Prescott, AZ

Tue 4 Sep 2007

If you are in the AZ area you should check this out::

Mark Salerno will be reading from his new work, _Odalisque_ in Prescott this Saturday, Sept. 8th at 6pm in the Prescott College Chapel. 220 Grove Avenue, Prescott, AZ 86301. For better directions call [redacted]

For more info on Mark Salerno and _Odalisque_:
http://www.saltpublishing.com/books/smp/9781844713295.htm
For more info on the event contact Grace [redacted]

↑ Index

55. Kevin Killian

If you're in San Francisco on September 7

Tue 4 Sep 2007

I hope you can come to see my new play, which I wrote with the video artist Karla Milosevich.

WEe are putting it on as a benefit for Small Press Traffic Literary Arts Center and it will be staged one night only, Friday the 7th, at 7:30 p.m. at CCA, California College of the Arts (Timken Hall auditorium), 1111 Eighth Street.

Basically it's all about apodyopsis. Do we only know about apodyopsis in California? Then read on!

KEVIN KILLIAN AND KARLA MILOSEVICH
CELEBRITY HOSPITAL

Apodyopsis--the act or condition of sexual excitement caused by exposure to medical procedures. To protect the privacy of his clientele at Celebrity Hospital in LA, top surgeon Dr. Tim Baldwin admits only famous people. Even the doctors and nurses are (or were) celebrities of a sort. It's another typical day at Celebrity Hospital, as everyone from Courtney Love to Kurt Russell and Diana Ross is having work done, and ingenue Scarlett Johansson, avoiding stalker Woody Allen, spends a day in the ward observing and nursing in preparation for her new role in the new Oliver Stone film about nurse politics. Then Dr. Baldwin and his staff are confronted by two grave ills, the eco-terrorists known as the Cult of the Black Feather, who demand universal facelifts for the poor and oppressed, and by a strange apparitions haunting the hallways and linen closets of Celebrity Hospital, that looks like a werewolf and seems to be after Hollywood's greatest and most ageless stars, most of whom suffer from apodyopsis, they never really experience sexual feeling unless they're having unnecessary medical procedures. Celebrity Hospital features a cast of Bay Area poets, painters, video and filmmakers, cartoonists, theorists, novelists sculptors and curators including Dodie Bellamy, Matthew Hughes Boyko, David Brazil, Norma Cole, Gerald Corbin, Kate Fowle, Craig Goodman, Cliff Hengst, Scott Hewicker, Colter Jacobsen, Kevin Killian, Mac McGinnes, Anne McGuire, Karla Milosevich, Tanya Milosevich, Chuck Mobley, Rex Ray, Laurie Reid, Lisa Robertson, Jocelyn Saidenberg, Leslie Shows, Wayne Smith, and Ryan Thayer. And from Madison, Wisconsin, a special appearance by the Primce Myshkins (Rick Burkhardt and Andy Gricevich). In one way or another the San Francisco Poet's Theater has been around for decades. Killian and Milosevich have collaborated on two previous plays, Love Can Build a Bridge (2003) and The Red and the Green (2005).

If any of you can find You Tube then you can view a pair of coming attractions for our play:

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=do1BvtzCE-4

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=syf9zn_cll8

Check it out! Thanks for your time,

Kevin Killian

↑ Index

56. Niels hav

Re: Five Enemies,

Tue 4 Sep 2007

BITTERNESS

by NIELS HAV

Bitterness is the most durable result of much human activity –
and you can’t use it for anything, so everyone denies it exists.
Most store it in the back room,
it is poisonous with a nasty colour.

During busy times it plays dead lying desiccated in its little box but as soon as there’s an unguarded moment

it demands attention. It lives off injuries and thrives perfectly well in winter;
Christmas is a festival for it.

When bitterness is fully grown it demands to be aired. Some take it along to the pub on the weekend, that works. Monday they show up at work and begin again. Bitterness longs for 5 p.m.; it speaks loudly to itself in traffic and may hawk a gob.

Certain species prefer to live in exile.
There bitterness can run free.
It refuses to learn the language and lives on a diet of fermented insults.
If it is rich, France is perfect.
Well cared for, bitterness can grow to a good size.

Most important is to avoid mirrors and emotional affiliations.

Translated by P.K. Brask & Patrick Friesen
© Niels Hav
http://www.ambottawa.um.dk/en/menu/PressAndCulture/CulturalCalendarforCanada/October2007/

> From: Bobbi Lurie <[redacted]>
> Reply-To: UB Poetics discussion group <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: Five Enemies,
> Date: Mon, 3 Sep 2007 13:47:46 -0400
>
> Thanks for saying this re: some of the stench, jealousy, stupid ambition. It exists everywhere, of course, but is uglier when it exists within poetry because of the danger of language itself to deceive and isolate.?The thing about it for me is that admitting to such would make it all clean. The truth is purifying. What I object to is the creation of a false self-image whether that be imbedded in text or part of personality pretensions--this falseness is what makes us flee culture to begin with--to end up within the same culture of false veneer is what has made me stop over and over--but then there is a limitation of ways to express so writing becomes inevitable.?I do believe there is beauty in honesty for its own sake. I re-wrote your words to prove it to myself once again?that there is no shame in anything/ only in wasting our precious time on earth lying to and opposed to one another:

so to paraphrase and take possession of:
"I am one of the wicked people for I am a poet and there's so much envy and jealousy in me,?it gets so thick it cripples, my blood, there's a stench to it."?

-----Original Message-----
From: CA Conrad <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sun, 2 Sep 2007 10:23 pm
Subject: Re: Five Enemies,

Alan I'm fascinated by the want of writing, something you touch on here. Depending on the want of writing Craving may become Carving, cutting into oneself, or one other.

Some of the most wicked people I've ever met are poets. There's so much envy and jealousy and it gets so thick in some of their blood it cripples. And there's a stench too from it.

Maybe I can't tear my eyes away from these car wrecks because they are incredible, invaluable lessons for my own life.

If there's a cure for any of it it's the nod deep into the concentration of writing.

Not to disappear, not be the fantasy, but to get it all clearer, the bright brighter.

There's a spiritual solution to poetry's problems of want and it's the poetry itself. And to me that's funny because not everything on the planet works this way of course. If the solution to the want of cocaine was taking the deepest hit imaginable, imagine that. It's as if poetry has the most manipulated back no saddle fits, yet any saddle fits if you use the saddle as a ladder beside it. If poetry rides you one day what's that about? I'm praying for spurs coming down into my thighs.

Slippery works best, grease all the pens,
CAConrad
http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

_____ Ta' på udsalg
året rundt på MSN Shopping: http://shopping.msn.dk her finder du altid de bedste priser

↑ Index

57. Bob Marcacci
Re: Five Enemies,
Tue 4 Sep 2007

'f'i've'en'em, i.e., s...

--
Bob Marcacci

Tact is the knack of making a point without making an enemy. - Howard W. Newton

> From: Halvard Johnson <[redacted]>
> Reply-To: UB Poetics discussion group <[redacted]>
> Date: Mon, 3 Sep 2007 13:17:57 -0400
> To: <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: Five Enemies,
>
> Five Enemas

↑ Index

58. Thomas savage
Re: call for papers on poet's theater
Tue 4 Sep 2007

Hi. I'm not a language poet or a post-language poet. Nevertheless, I've had three plays done by the Medicine Show Theater in NYC, one of which was previously performed at the Poetry Project at St. Mark's. I am interested in your topic but am not sure you're interested in me. By the way, the performance of my play was applauded by Charles Bernstein in Silliman's blog. Regards, Tom Savage

laura hinton <[redacted]> wrote: CALL FOR PAPERS for "Contemporary Poet's Theater: L-A-N-G-U-A-G-E and Beyond": A panel on critical approaches to poet's theater to be proposed to the 20th Century Literature Conference in Louisville

Please respond with an essay abstract and bio by SEPT. 12. A print project may be in in the future on the poet's theater topic, so we are happy to learn of your interest.

Description of panel proposal with submission instructions: In recent contemporary poetics, the term "poet's theater" has become linked with the "Language" group of writers and often directors of poetry-plays produced as low-budget staged performances in the late 1970's and '80's. Today, new productions of classic "Language"-oriented poet's theater abound, by writers including Leslie Scalapino, Carla Harryman, Charles Bernstein, among others. Yet there are also many contemporary playwrights in other settings doing work that is not only aesthetically related to "Language"-oriented theater, but which might be productively critiqued in terms articulated by Language writers and others writing on avant-garde performance art. These "other" are theater writers are those who are engaging in "poet's theater," by virtue of treating a written text as an act of performance -- the drama thus emerging not from some external "signified," but from within the "signifier," the poetic language, itself. This panel is an attempt to ground a definition of the term "poet's theater" in a potentially expanding notion of the contemporary working scene of today's American theater, both through under-financed small public venues (cafes or coffee houses or art-spaces) or in venues like Off-Broadway. It is also an attempt to take the recent use of the term by the Language writers into other realms of "language"-oriented theatrical poetics. We wish for presenters to look at what the embodied stage and poetic experiment have to offer one another, in practice and/or in conceptual theories. We are proposing this panel to the Louisville conference directors (conference to take place in February '08), with the hopes that we can bring new perspectives into a discussion of an often under-considered form of contemporary poetics: that which is written to be staged. We are looking for papers that consider specific poet's-theater works and their authors, approached from some knowledge of contemporary poetics theory or performance theory (or both). Since our topic concerns CONTEMPORARY poet's theater, please submit paper proposals only on poets of the theater who have emerged during or since the early stages of "Language" writing (including John Ashbery, Bernstein, Ntozake Shange, Harryman, Scalapino, Amiri Baraka, Cherie Moraga, Tracie Morris; as well as "non-poet" playwrights like Adrienne Kennedy, Anna Deavere Smith, or Suzan-Lori Parks -- the latter of whose works are based in a non-linear use of lyrical language). Historical influences, however, are also of interest. Send a 250-300-word abstract and title describing your paper topic no later than SEPTEMBER 12, by e-mail, to Laura Hinton ([redacted]). Accompany this abstract with the following cover-sheet information needed per conference requirements: * 1)Name 2) Address (preferably home) 3) Telephone number 4) Academic or other affiliation (if applicable) 5) Personal biographical note (100-150 words)

Ready for the edge of your seat? Check out tonight's top picks on Yahoo! TV.

↑ Index

59. Thomas savage
Re: Russian Posmodernism
Tue 4 Sep 2007

There is always the great Arkadii Dragomoshenko. I believe he is undertranslated. A prose book of his was recently published by Ugly Duckling Presse. I have never seen a book of his poetry translated, however. He gave great readings here ten years ago. You might contact UDP about newer writers. I don't have their address on me. But of course there is always the omniscient Google for that, I assume. Regards, Tom Savage

Eireene Nealand <[redacted]> wrote: Does anyone know any postmodernist poets in Russia that need exposure or translation? I'm going to be hanging out in St. Petersburg for all of September translating and gathering interesting art works and thoughts. Would be glad to meet some new writers if anyone has any ideas about who might be interesting in this regard. I'm thinking that it might be good to meet some academics as well. Any Mikhail Epstein postmodernists out there?

Need a vacation? Get great deals to amazing places on Yahoo! Travel.

↑ Index

60. angela vasquez-giroux
Revelator Press announces the release of Tim Lane's "Pure Pop"
Tue 4 Sep 2007

Revelator Press publishes free (yes, free!) chapbooks for the masses.

Their newest offering, "Pure Pop" by poet and painter Tim Lane is now available. Go to http://revelatorpress.blogspot.com/2007/09/pure-pop.htmland click on the image to open a free pdf file--the enjoy!

"Pure Pop <http://revelator.ofdoom.com/purepop.pdf> is just that—a little bit of Coke, a little bit of homage to the Pops of the New York School, and a lot of heart. Tim Lane's gracefully fluent lyrics are celebratory, immediate, full of feeling, and full of life. Without falling into sloppy sentimentality or clunky derivation, Lane conjures his own world while stealing fire from the masters." —Lisa Jarnot, author of Black Dog Songs and Ring of Fire

Pure Pop <http://revelator.ofdoom.com/purepop.pdf> delivers all of the delicious, unmitigated pleasure implied in its title. Tim Lane's poems, jubilant and experientially engaged, prove that joy too is serious stuff.

↑ Index

61. Poetics List
New Poetry Press Reading in Brooklyn - on behalf of Joshua Clover
Tue 4 Sep 2007

Please come celebrate the release of Starsdown, by Jasper Bernes; Dark Brandon: Eternal Classics, by Brandon Downing; and Thine Instead Thank, by Jeffrey Jullich -- and the launch of in girum imus nocte et consumimur igni, publishers of unspectacular poetry.

Monday, September 10, Pierogi 2000 Gallery, 177 N 9 Street, Bklyn

Doors open 6:45; free wine + beer

Short readings/screening introduced by Joshua Clover + Michael Scharf

---

thank you very much

↑ Index

62. Bobbi Lurie
Re: Five Enemies,
Tue 4 Sep 2007

THE RADICAL POET GROWS INCREASINGLY FAMOUS AT SUNSET

Â

I shook his hand as a sacrifice to my fingers

Â

The library of the West moved toward us

Â

The many and different who dwell

Who carry the language as signal

Â

Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â *

Â

No one admitted the personal

Â

No one stood in the hall with its chipped gray paint

Admitting we posed as historians of the plantation

No one admitted the cotton

Â

It was crucial to find the knee the ankle

The sweat of the body

It was his hand I took

Â

For the text is but a fault line for desire

A turning away

Â

How the head is shaped distant from the nose

His profile an insurrection an incursion

Â

And no I did not believe his modesty

Â

He said he forgot his water

Then abruptly stopped talking

After dropping a few names and locations

Â

Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â *

Â

TheÂ worst thing about living alone

Are the leftover potatoes on the stove

Bobbi Lurie

-----Original Message-----
From: Niels hav <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Tue, 4 Sep 2007 2:27 am
Subject: Re: Five Enemies,

BITTERNESSÂ
Â by NIELS HAVÂ
Â
Bitterness is the most durable resultÂ
of much human activity â€“Â
and you canâ€™t use it for anything,Â

so everyone denies it exists.Â
Most store it in the back room,Â
it is poisonous with a nasty colour.Â
Â
During busy times it plays deadÂ
lying desiccated in its little boxÂ
but as soon as thereâ€™s an unguarded momentÂ
it demands attention. It lives offÂ injuries and thrives perfectly well in winter;Â
Christmas is a festival for it.Â
Â
When bitterness is fully grownÂ
it demands to be aired. SomeÂ
take it along to the pub on the weekend,Â that works. Monday they show up at workÂ
and begin again. Bitterness longsÂ
for 5 p.m.; it speaks loudly to itselfÂ
in traffic and may hawk a gob.Â
Â
Certain species prefer to live in exile.Â
There bitterness can run free.Â
It refuses to learn the languageÂ
and lives on a diet of fermented insults.Â
If it is rich, France is perfect.Â
Well cared for, bitterness canÂ
grow to a good size.Â
Â
Most important is to avoid mirrorsÂ and emotional affiliations.Â
Â
Translated by P.K. Brask & Patrick FriesenÂ
Â© Niels HavÂ
http://www.ambottawa.um.dk/en/menu/PressAndCulture/CulturalCalendarforCanada/October2007/Â
Â
>From: Bobbi Lurie <[redacted]>Â
>Reply-To: UB Poetics discussion group <[redacted]>Â
>To: [redacted]Â
>Subject: Re: Five Enemies,Â
>Date: Mon, 3 Sep 2007 13:47:46 -0400Â
>Â
>Thanks for saying this re: some of the stench, jealousy, stupid ambition. >It exists everywhere, of course, but is uglier when it exists within poetry >because of the danger of language itself to deceive and isolate.?The thing >about it for me is that admitting to such would make it all clean. The >truth is purifying. What I object to is the creation of a false self-image >whether that be imbedded in text or part of personality pretensions--this >falseness is what makes us flee culture to begin with--to end up within the >same culture of false veneer is what has made me stop over and over--but >then there is a limitation of ways to express so writing becomes >inevitable.?I do believe there is beauty in honesty for its own sake. I >re-wrote your words to prove it to myself once again?that there is no shame >in anything/ only in wasting our precious time on earth lying to and >opposed to one another:Â

>so to paraphrase and take possession of:Â
>"I am one of the wicked people for I am a poet and there's so muchÂ >envy and jealousy in me,?it gets so thick it cripples, my blood, there's a >stench to it."?Â
>Â
>-----Original Message-----Â
>From: CA Conrad <[redacted]>Â
>To: [redacted]Â
>Sent: Sun, 2 Sep 2007 10:23 pmÂ
>Subject: Re: Five Enemies,Â
>Â
>Â
>Â
>Alan I'm fascinated by the want of writing, something you touch on here.Â
>Depending on the want of writing Craving may become Carving, cutting intoÂ >oneself, or one other.Â
>Â
>Some of the most wicked people I've ever met are poets. There's so muchÂ >envy and jealousy and it gets so thick in some of their blood it cripples.Â
>And there's a stench too from it.Â
>Â
>Maybe I can't tear my eyes away from these car wrecks because they areÂ >incredible, invaluable lessons for my own life.Â
>Â
>If there's a cure for any of it it's the nod deep into the concentration ofÂ >writing.Â
>Â
>Not to disappear, not be the fantasy, but to get it all clearer, the brightÂ >brighter.Â
>Â
>There's a spiritual solution to poetry's problems of want and it's theÂ >poetry itself. And to me that's funny because not everything on the planetÂ >works this way of course. If the solution to the want of cocaine was >takingÂ

>the deepest hit imaginable, imagine that. It's as if poetry has the mostÂ >manipulated back no saddle fits, yet any saddle fits if you use the saddleÂ >as a ladder beside it. If poetry rides you one day what's that about? I'mÂ >praying for spurs coming down into my thighs.Â
>Â
>Slippery works best, grease all the pens,Â >CAConradÂ
>http://PhillySound.blogspot.comÂ
>Â
>Â
>_____Â
>Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - >http://mail.aol.comÂ
Â
_____Â
Ta' pÃ¥ udsalg Ã¥ret rundt pÃ¥ MSN Shopping: http://shopping.msn.dk her finder du altid de bedste priserÂ

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

63. Bobbi Lurie

Re: Five Enemies

Tue 4 Sep 2007

POET ABSENT OF LANGUAGE

Â

Airless script of her situation

Repeated into the ordinary

Masking

Â

Her empty life

Fill it with Muzak

Fill it with the repeatable

Â

Stay inside the poem

Talk to the always companion

The lover forever imagined

Â

A man with his hand

She forgets where the soft

Indelibly so

Â

How the famous poet she knows

Â Â Â speaks of Eastern Europe

Not the boxcars death camps

Just job offer

Â Â Â atmosphere

Â

She started poetry too late

Gray shape on the table

The poets she loves she loves

Â

She walked into another room

Â Â Â a language

Human skin turned into

Human hair stuffing the inside of

Â

Whatever the centerpiece

Whatever interior of

The body a house like pain

Â

The cool breeze the open window
Dark coolness
Black boots of visitors

The grass trampled
On the way
To becoming

So many in these rooms
Oblivious of sunlight
Filled with sunlight

Bobbi Lurie

-----Original Message-----
From: Niels hav <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Tue, 4 Sep 2007 2:27 am
Subject: Re: Five Enemies,

BITTERNESSÂ
Â by NIELS HAVÂ
Â
Bitterness is the most durable resultÂ
of much human activity â€“Â
and you canâ€™t use it for anything,Â
so everyone denies it exists.Â
Most store it in the back room,Â
it is poisonous with a nasty colour.Â
Â
During busy times it plays deadÂ
lying desiccated in its little boxÂ
but as soon as thereâ€™s an unguarded momentÂ
it demands attention. It lives offÂ
injuries and thrives perfectly well in winter;Â
Christmas is a festival for it.Â
Â
When bitterness is fully grownÂ
it demands to be aired. SomeÂ
take it along to the pub on the weekend,Â
that works. Monday they show up at workÂ
and begin again. Bitterness longsÂ
for 5 p.m.; it speaks loudly to itselfÂ
in traffic and may hawk a gob.Â
Â
Certain species prefer to live in exile.Â
There bitterness can run free.Â
It refuses to learn the languageÂ

and lives on a diet of fermented insults.Â
If it is rich, France is perfect.Â
Well cared for, bitterness canÂ
grow to a good size.Â
Â
Most important is to avoid mirrorsÂ
and emotional affiliations.Â
Â
Translated by P.K. Brask & Patrick FriesenÂ
Â© Niels HavÂ
http://www.ambottawa.um.dk/en/menu/PressAndCulture/CulturalCalendarforCanada/October2007/Â
Â
>From: Bobbi Lurie <[redacted]>Â
>Reply-To: UB Poetics discussion group <[redacted]>Â
>To: [redacted]Â
>Subject: Re: Five Enemies,Â
>Date: Mon, 3 Sep 2007 13:47:46 -0400Â
>Â
>Thanks for saying this re: some of the stench, jealousy, stupid ambition. >It exists everywhere, of course, but is uglier when it exists within poetry >because of the danger of language itself to deceive and isolate.?The thing >about it for me is that admitting to such would make it all clean. The >truth is purifying. What I object to is the creation of a false self-image >whether that be imbedded in text or part of personality pretensions--this >falseness is what makes us flee culture to begin with--to end up within the >same culture of false veneer is what has made me stop over and over--but >then there is a limitation of ways to express so writing becomes >inevitable.?I do believe there is beauty in honesty for its own sake. I >re-wrote your words to prove it to myself once again?that there is no shame >in anything/ only in wasting our precious time on earth lying to and >opposed to one another:Â
>so to paraphrase and take possession of:Â
>"I am one of the wicked people for I am a poet and there's so muchÂ >envy and jealousy in me,?it gets so thick it cripples, my blood, there's a >stench to it."?Â
>Â
>-----Original Message-----Â
>From: CA Conrad <[redacted]>Â
>To: [redacted]Â
>Sent: Sun, 2 Sep 2007 10:23 pmÂ
>Subject: Re: Five Enemies,Â
>Â

>Â
>Â
>Alan I'm fascinated by the want of writing, something you touch on here.Â
>Depending on the want of writing Craving may become Carving, cutting intoÂ >oneself, or one other.Â
>Â
>Some of the most wicked people I've ever met are poets. There's so muchÂ >envy and jealousy and it gets so thick in some of their blood it cripples.Â
>And there's a stench too from it.Â
>Â
>Maybe I can't tear my eyes away from these car wrecks because they areÂ >incredible, invaluable lessons for my own life.Â
>Â
>If there's a cure for any of it it's the nod deep into the concentration ofÂ
>writing.Â
>Â
>Not to disappear, not be the fantasy, but to get it all clearer, the brightÂ
>brighter.Â
>Â
>There's a spiritual solution to poetry's problems of want and it's theÂ >poetry itself. And to me that's funny because not everything on the planetÂ >works this way of course. If the solution to the want of cocaine was >takingÂ
>the deepest hit imaginable, imagine that. It's as if poetry has the mostÂ >manipulated back no saddle fits, yet any saddle fits if you use the saddleÂ
>as a ladder beside it. If poetry rides you one day what's that about? I'mÂ >praying for spurs coming down into my thighs.Â
>Â
>Slippery works best, grease all the pens,Â >CAConradÂ
>http://PhillySound.blogspot.comÂ
>Â
>Â
>_____Â
>Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - >http://mail.aol.comÂ
Â
_____Â
Ta' pÃ¥ udsalg Ã¥ret rundt pÃ¥ MSN Shopping: http://shopping.msn.dk her finder du altid de bedste priserÂ

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

64. W.B. Keckler
Re: Russian Posmodernism
Tue 4 Sep 2007

One Dragmoshenko poetry book that was translated was Blue Vitriol. I remember reviewing it (favorably) about eight years ago. I forget who did the translations, but fairly sure it was Lyn Hejinian collaborating with a native speaker. Think it was a West Coast press that brought it out, but not sure which one. Could easily be Googled.

-----Original Message-----
From: Thomas savage <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Tue, 4 Sep 2007 10:35 am
Subject: Re: Russian Posmodernism

There is always the great Arkadii Dragomoshenko. I believe he is undertranslated. A prose book of his was recently published by Ugly Duckling Presse. I have never seen a book of his poetry translated, however. He gave great readings here ten years ago. You might contact UDP about newer writers. I don't have their address on me. But of course there is always the omniscient Google for that, I assume. Regards, Tom Savage

Eireene Nealand <[redacted]> wrote: Does anyone know any postmodernist poets in Russia that need exposure or translation? I'm going to be hanging out in St. Petersburg for all of September translating and gathering interesting art works and thoughts. Would be glad to meet some new writers if anyone has any ideas about who might be interesting in this regard. I'm thinking that it might be good to meet some academics as well. Any Mikhail Epstein postmodernists out there?

Need a vacation? Get great deals to amazing places on Yahoo! Travel.

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

65. Maria Damon

[Fwd: Digital media and learning grants]

Tue 4 Sep 2007

This is a multi-part message in MIME format.

name="Digital media and learning grants.eml" filename="Digital media and learning grants.eml"

Delivered-To: [redacted]
by sapphire.tc.umn.edu (Postfix) with ESMTP id E08DD304F;
Tue, 4 Sep 2007 12:29:34 -0500 (CDT)
by mta-m2.tc.umn.edu (UMN smtpd) with ESMTP
Tue, 4 Sep 2007 12:29:18 -0500 (CDT)
Date: Tue, 04 Sep 2007 12:29:14 -0500
From: CLA Grants Support Team <[redacted]>
User-Agent: Thunderbird 2.0.0.6 (Windows/20070728)
To: undisclosed-recipients:;
Subject: Digital media and learning grants

MacArthur Foundation Announces New Digital Media and Learning Competition

Deadline: October 15, 2007

The John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation (http://www.macfound.org/) has announced a public competition that will award a total of $2 million in funding to emerging leaders, communicators, and innovators shaping the field of digital media and learning. The competition is part of the foundation's $50 million Digital Media and Learning initiative (http://www.digitallearning.macfound.org/), which aims to help determine how digital technologies are changing the way young people learn, play, socialize, and participate in civic life.

Awards will be given in two categories: 1) Innovation Awards of $250,000 or $100,000 each will support learning entrepreneurs and builders of new digital environments for informal learning; and 2) Knowledge Networking Awards of up to $75,000 will support communicators in connecting, mobilizing, circulating, or translating new ideas around digital media and learning.

As part of their prize, awardees will receive special consultation support on everything from technology development to management training. Winners will be invited to showcase their work at a conference that will include venture capitalists, entrepreneurs, educators, and policy makers seeking the best ideas about digital learning.

The open competition will be administered by HASTAC, the Humanities, Arts, Science, and Technology Advanced Collaboratory, (http://www.hastac.org/), a consortium of humanists, artists, scientists, social scientists, and engineers committed to new forms of collaboration for thinking, teaching, and research across communities and disciplines fostered by creative uses of technology.

Detailed information on the competition is available online at the program's Web site.

RFP Link:
http://fconline.foundationcenter.org/pnd/10008667/dmlcompetition

-- CLA Grants Team Gayle Anderson, CLA Fiscal Administration, 426 Johnston Hall, x6-9612 Jeanne Kilde, Institute for Advanced Study, 201 Nolte Hall, x5-6393 Barbara Scott Murdock, Institute for Global Studies, 280 Social Science Tower, x4-2745

----------0301010908000509010203 01--

↑ Index

66. Michael Kelleher
Literary Buffalo E-Newsletter 9.03.07-9.09.07
Tue 4 Sep 2007

LITERARY BUFFALO
9.03.07-9.09.07

BABEL

Just Buffalo Literary Center is proud to introduce BABEL, an exciting new reading and conversation series that will feature four of the world's most important and critically acclaimed international authors each year.

In our first season, we will present two Nobel Prize winners, one Man Booker Prize winner, and an acclaimed Broadway playwright. Here's the season in a nutshell:

November 8 Orhan Pamuk, Turkey, Winner of the 2006 Nobel Prize December 7 Ariel Dorfman, Chile, Author of Death and the Maiden March 13 Derek Walcott, St. Lucia, Winner of the 1992 Nobel Prize April 24 Kiran Desai, India, Winner of the 2006 Man Booker Prize

Season Subscription: $75.

Book groups (minimum three people) can also subscribe at a special rate of $60 per person for the whole season. Book group subscriptions by phone only.

SUBSCRIBE TODAY at http://www.justbuffalo.org/babel or by calling [redacted].

EVENTS

Unless otherwise listed, all events are free and open to the public.

9.05.07

JUST BUFFALO/CENTER FOR INQUIRY LITERARY CAFÉ
Bill Sylvester & Perry Nicholas
Wednesday, September 5, 7:30 p.m.
Center For Inquiry, 1310 Sweet Home Road, Amherst
8 slots for open readers (five minutes each)

9.08.07

POETICS PLUS AT UB
Annual Poetics Graduate Student Reading
Saturday, September 8, 8 p.m.
Rust Belt Books, 202 Allen St.

9.09.07

SPOKEN WORD SUNDAYS
Gunilla Theander Kester & Marek Parker
Sunday, September 9, 8 p.m.
Allen Street Hardware, 245 Allen St., Buffalo
Sign up at 7:45 for Open readers (5 minutes each)

JUST BUFFALO MEMBERS ONLY WRITER CRITIQUE GROUP

STARTS UP AGAIN THIS WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 5
Members of Just Buffalo are welcome to attend a free, bi-monthly writer critique group in CEPA's Flux Gallery on the first floor of the historic Market Arcade Building across the street from Shea's. Group meets 1st and 3rd Wednesday at 7 p.m. Call Just Buffalo for details.

WESTERN NEW YORK ROMANCE WRITERS group meets the third Wednesday of every month at St. Joseph Hospital community room at 11a.m. Address: 2605 Harlem Road, Cheektowaga, NY 14225. For details go to www.wnyrw.org.

JOIN JUST BUFFALO ONLINE!!!

If you would like to join Just Buffalo, or simply make a massive personal donation, you can do so online using your credit card. We have recently added the ability to join online by paying with a credit card through PayPal. Simply click on the membership level at which you would like to join, log in (or create a PayPal account using your Visa/Amex/Mastercard/Discover), and voilá, you will find yourself in literary heaven. For more info, or to join now, go to our website:

http://www.justbuffalo.org/membership/index.shtml

UNSUBSCRIBE

If you would like to unsubscribe from this list, just say so and you will be immediately removed.

_____

Michael Kelleher
Artistic Director
Just Buffalo Literary Center
Market Arcade
617 Main St., Ste. 202A
Buffalo, NY 14203
[redacted]
[redacted] (fax)
www.justbuffalo.org
[redacted]

↑ Index

67. Skip Fox

Re: Five Enemies,

Tue 4 Sep 2007

yikes!

-----Original Message-----
From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Halvard Johnson Sent: Monday, September 03, 2007 12:18 PM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: Five Enemies,

Five Enemas

↑ Index

68. David Chirot

Re: Russian Posmodernism--Philip Metres

Tue 4 Sep 2007

Philip Metres has done acclaimed translations of the works of Lev Rubinstein, (book from Ugly Duckling--and more--) as well as of Dmitry Prigov and Sergey Gandlevsky, with whom he has also toured.

Philip also is one of the rare poets/literary historian-critics who is also interested very much in the interrelationships of Poetry and War and Peace. His blogspot, taken after the name of an excellent book of his is on American poetry of war and resistance since 1941-, is:

http://behindthelinespoetry.blogspot.com

(in the current issue of Big Bridge he has an excellent essay on this subject, a great & inspiring education to read, and a gold mine of source and reference materials.)

Highly recommended!!

david-bc
http://davidbaptistechirot.blogspot.com

↑ Index

69. Jason Quackenbush
Re: Five Enemies,
Tue 4 Sep 2007

I'm certainly not arguing that the public schools are perfect by any means. And since public schools have a large degree of autonomy, there is a great deal of variance in their quality from school district to school district. Certainly "No child left behind" has done severe damage to the integrity of public schooling in most states in the US. At the same time, though, the reason why the right was able to push through that agenda is because they've been so successful in creating the myth that there's something terribly broken in our public schools. That's not really the case. What's broken is the administration and financing of public schools, which is infected by the trojan horse of an ideological right wing that hates the idea of a free education for everyone being monopolized by the public sector. It's an ideology that has everything to do with a short sighted economic theory and nothing to do with what's the best for education.

At the same time, you're right there are bad teachers and there are lousy administrations. Where I disagree with you is that i think there is a certain amount of value in learning how to deal with that. One of the things that i learned in public schools was how to deal with bureaucracys and how to work a system. I learned that because my parents were involved in my public education and i had a number of hands on lessons. Those skills have served me a lot better as an adult than what I learned in earth science or us history ever did. Which is not to say that they're good things, but they do have value, and one of the biggest advantages that kids in public schools have is that they're in an environment with built in diversity. If a kid gets a bad teacher, then at the very worst they're only going to ahve to deal with that particular bad teacher for a year. by middle school, they're only going to have to deal with that teacher for part of the day. and at the same time, getting multiple good teachers is as likely as multiple bad teachers, and I honestly believe that one good teacher can undo all the damage done by 100 bad ones.

The problem with working to improve public schools by homeschooling though is that whatever work you do is offset by the fact that you've weakened the overall public school system by taking the energy you put into schooling your child out of the system thereby depriving the kids whose parents don't have the homeschool option of your enthusiasm for a good education. If a parent has the time and the energy to homeschool a child, why not put that energy and time into involvement with your child's local school? It's not like public schools put up a wall outside the school building to prevent parent involvement. And in the meantime you'll be teaching your child a valuable lesson about social responsibility and cooperation by your example, and you'll be more aware if there are any "bad teachers" hampering your child's development and you'll be in a better position to both offset any negative results there and at the same time keep your eye out for "good teachers" to get your kids with at the next school year. Parental involvement like that is one big reason that schools are better in the suburbs than they are in the inner cities, and it means that everybody, not just the children of financially well off people who have the bandwidth for homeschooling, benefits from those parents who have the resources to be more involved in the education of a communities children. That, to me, is the ideal of both fulfilling the parental and social responsibilities present in child rearing and i'm disappointed in people who choose not to when they have the capability to do it.

On Tue, 4 Sep 2007, Elizabeth Switaj wrote:

> Jason, it's not impossible to work to improve public schools while, at the same time homeschooling one's own children. And while you are quite right in identifying the class element to this, I know that if I ever had children of my own I would do my best to keep them out of the public schools until such time as dramatic changed had been effected.
>
> I, too, had some remarkable teachers. I also had horrible ones who didn't know their subject or who "solved" the problem of a student being harassed for a being a lesbian by calling a class metting in which she allowed the harassers to share their "opinions" of lesbians and then asked the lone harassed girl why she didn't say anything.
>
> There is a problem when people start to say that public education is inherently bad. On that, you and I agree. However, the way it is right now, I can understand why people would think so.
>
> Elizabeth Kate Switaj
> www.elizabethkateswitaj.net

↑ Index

70. Gabrielle Welford

WOMEN RESISTING MILITARISM AND CREATING A CULTURE OF LIFE (fwd)

Tue 4 Sep 2007

---

the women from hawaii are bringing a small chapbook of poetry they put together here. i went to a reading from it last week in honolulu. go see at la pena, berkeley, sep. 12. good people. gabe

---------- Forwarded message ----------
Date: Mon, 03 Sep 2007 19:23:56 -1000
From: viviane lerner <[redacted]>

http://www.genuinesecurity.org/meeting1.html
WOMEN RESISTING MILITARISM AND CREATING A CULTURE OF LIFE
6TH INTERNATIONAL MEETING
Sponsored by Women for Genuine Security and PANA Institute Civil Liberty and Faith Project.
COMMUNITY CONVERSATIONS: Sept. 11-14, 6.30-9.00pm
Donations requested

Internationally recognized women activists will share their experiences, strategies and projects to transform local communities and cultures affected by U.S. militarism. Local groups will talk about organizing across borders to transform U.S. policy and create a culture of justice and peace.

Tuesday Sept. 11
VOICES FROM THE PHILIPPINES
Filipino Community Center, 35 San Juan Ave, San Francisco (buses 14, 49; Balboa BART)
hosted by babae, FACES, Gabnet.

Wednesday Sept. 12
VOICES FROM PUERTO RICO & HAWAII
La Peña Cultural Center, 3105 Shattuck Ave, Berkeley (Ashby BART) hosted by Bay Area Boricuas and others

Thursday Sept. 13
VOICES FROM SOUTH KOREA
Pacific School For Religion Chapel, 1798 Scenic Ave. Berkeley (Berkeley BART)
hosted by KAWAN, KAUP and PANA Institute

Friday Sept. 14
VOICES FROM OKINAWA & GUAM
American Friends Service Committee, 65-9th St, San Francisco (Civic Center BART)

hosted by Famoksaiyan, Friends of Okinawa

September 15, 7pm WITH THESE VOICES: ART & EXPRESSION OF WOMEN IN RESISTANCE Join women from Guam, Hawaii, Japan, Okinawa, the Philippines, Puerto Rico, South Korea and the Bay Area in an evening of art and celebration. San Francisco Women's Building, 3543 18th Street (Mission/16th St. BART)

THE OPPOSITE OF WAR IS CREATIVITY!

These events are part of the 6th international gathering of a Network that brings together women from Guam, Hawaii, Japan, Okinawa, the Philippines, Puerto Rico, South Korea, and the U.S. to build and sustain a women's network to promote, model and protect genuine security in the face of militarism.

For more information contact Women for Genuine Security, [redacted], [redacted]

===== In accordance with Title U.S.C. Section 107, this material is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving the included information for research and educational purposes.

Yahoo! Groups Links

<*> To visit your group on the web, go to: http://groups.yahoo.com/group/demilnet_Hawaii/

<*> Your email settings:
Individual Email | Traditional

<*> To change settings online go to:
http://groups.yahoo.com/group/demilnet_Hawaii/join (Yahoo! ID required)

<*> To change settings via email:
mailto:[redacted]
mailto:[redacted]

<*> Your use of Yahoo! Groups is subject to: http://docs.yahoo.com/info/terms/

↑ Index

71. Rob McLennan
the ottawa small press book fair - fall edition
Tue 4 Sep 2007

---

span-o (the small press action network - ottawa)
presents

the ottawa small press book fair fall edition
will be happening
Saturday, October 27, 2007

in room 203 of the Jack Purcell Community Centre (on Elgin, at 320 Jack Purcell Lane). contact rob at [redacted] to sign up for a table, etc.

General info: the ottawa small press book fair noon to 5pm (opens at 11am for exhibitors) admission free to the public. $20 for exhibitors (payable to rob mclennan, c/o 858 Somerset St W, main floor, Ottawa Ontario K1R 6R7). full tables only. for catalog, exhibitors should send (on paper, not email name of press, address, email, web address, contact person, type of publications, list of publications (with price), if submissions are being considered & any other pertinent info, including upcoming ottawa-area events (if any).

also, due to the increased demand for table space, exhibitors are asked to confirm far earlier than usual. i.e. -- before, say, the day of the fair. the fair usually contains exhibitors with poetry books, novels, cookbooks, posters, t-shirts, graphic novels, comic books, magazines, scraps of paper, gum-ball machines with poems, 2x4s with text, etc. happens twice a year, started in 1994 by rob mclennan & James Spyker. now run by rob mclennan thru span-o.

questions, [redacted] (don't call me! I'm not home!); more info on span-o at the span-o link of www.track0.com/rob_mclennan free things can be mailed for fair distributionto the same address. we will not be selling things for folk who cant make it, sorry.

also, always looking for volunteers to poster, move tables, that sort of thing. let me know if anyone able to do anything. thanks.

if you're able/willing to distribute posters/fliers for the fair, contact Grant Wilkins at [redacted]

for more information, bother rob mclennan at [redacted] / or check out the link at www.smallpressbookfair.blogspot.com to find out about this and other fairs across Canada

==========

-- poet/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...13th poetry coll'n - The Ottawa City Project .... c/o 858 Somerset St W, Ottawa ON K1R 6R7 * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

72. Simon DeDeo
new on rhubarb is susan
Tue 4 Sep 2007

I hope all had a good Labor Day; one new review up this week, of Sarah Lang's The Work of Days, forthcoming from Coach House.

http://rhubarbissusan.blogspot.com/
http://rhubarbissusan.blogspot.com/2007/09/sarah-lang-from-work-of-days.html

Do drop by and comment as you see fit. Thanks for tuning in!

Simon

↑ Index

73. W.B. Keckler
it's great to be senile
Tue 4 Sep 2007

I crossed wires and attributed Parshchikov's Blue Vitriol to Dragomoschenko...my bad...it's great to be senile..okay, senescent....it's a long train ride....

makes me think of that great sonnet by ms. Mayer...

"It would be nice to lose one's mind my mind
I'd like to lose it I wouldn't mind at all
To be in the lunatic asylum at last
All for you and for the taxi drivers

I'll go there and be asked what year what day it is & who's the president, how come he's a resident
I could teach prosody there but nobody Knows what it is
So send me away to anybody
Anywhere who might
Not know something I might not
Since I must vice versa live

Whaddya mean perforce?
Army or navy or marines?"

love that one!

* Get a sneak peek of the all-new AOL at http://discover.aol.com/memed/aolcom30tour

↑ Index

74. Leslie Scalapino
O Books 9/11 reading at City Lights
Tue 4 Sep 2007

9/11-O Books reading at City Lights: Michael McClure, Lyn Hejinian, Rob Halpern, Leslie Scalapino,

Suzanne Stein, Jocelyn Saidenberg, and

Jen Scappettone will celebrate the publication of War and Peace 3/The Future, co-edited by Judith Goldman and Leslie Scalapino, published by O Books and featuring forty poets. The time of the reading is 7:00 PM on Tuesday 9/11/2007. City Lights Books, 261 Columbus at Broadway in San Francisco.

War and Peace 3/The Future, O Books, 168 pages, $14. ISBN # 1-882022-65-3. Distributed by Small Press Distribution: 1341 Seventh St. Berkeley CA 94710.

↑ Index

75. Halvard Johnson
Second call for poetry submissions for Big Bridge 13 (Jan. '08)
Tue 4 Sep 2007

Friends and neighbors--

For a second (check out the first at http://www.bigbridge.org/deathindex.htm)
mini-anthology of poems, this time inspired by/responding to/related to Czeslaw Milosz's poem "Dedication" and/or the various wars/insurgencies/etc. going on in the world today, please send 1-6 poems to me at [redacted] with the words "Big Bridge" followed by your own name clearly in the subject line. Please, when sending attachments, send all poems in a single attachment.

This mini-anthology will appear in the January issue of Big Bridge, and I'll consider submissions of work received before the end of November.

Halvard Johnson
==========
[redacted]
http://home.earthlink.net/~halvard/index.html
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com

http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org
http://home.earthlink.net/~halvard/vidalocabooks.html

Dedication

You whom I could not save
Listen to me.
Try to understand this simple speech as I would be ashamed of another.
I swear, there is in me no wizardry of words.
I speak to you with silence like a cloud or a tree.

What strengthened me, for you was lethal.
You mixed up farewell to an epoch with the beginning of a new one,
Inspiration of hatred with lyrical beauty,
Blind force with accomplished shape.

Here is the valley of shallow Polish rivers. And an immense bridge Going into white fog. Here is a broken city,
And the wind throws the screams of gulls on your grave
When I am talking with you.

What is poetry which does not save
Nations or people?
A connivance with official lies,
A song of drunkards whose throats will be cut in a moment,
Readings for sophomore girls.
That I wanted good poetry without knowing it,
That I discovered, late, its salutary aim,
In this and only this I find salvation.

They used to pour millet on graves or poppy seeds
To feed the dead who would come disguised as birds.
I put this book here for you, who once lived
So that you should visit us no more.

--Czeslaw Milosz, Warsaw, 1945

↑ Index

76. Dale Smith
Possum Ego
Tue 4 Sep 2007

New stuff at http://www.possumego.blogspot.com on New Crit, rhetoric, public, unschooling, and membranes:

"We don't read poems in order to know things anyway, but in order to prepare ourselves to receive the world words have made in us. The poem turns our attention away from ourselves in order to remind us precisely how thin the membrane between the inside and the outside is."

--
Dale Smith
La Revolution Opossum!
http://www.skankypossum.com
http://possumego.blogspot.com

↑ Index

77. David Chirot
FIRST VISUAL POETRY BOOK PUBLISHED IN TURKEY APPEARS
Tue 4 Sep 2007

—

↑ Index

78. Potree Journal
LRL Reading Period Now Open
Tue 4 Sep 2007

Little Red Leaves is now reading general submissions for its second issue, which should be out around the new year. The reading period for general submissions ends on December 15th. Guidelines can be found here: http://littleredleaves.com/About/about.html.

Please also note the open reading period for our upcoming special feature on the work of John Taggart: http://littleredleavesjournal.blogspot.com/2007/07/open-call-for-responses-to-john-taggart.html.

Many thanks,
LRL Editors

↑ Index

79. wil Hallgren
Re: home schooling
Tue 4 Sep 2007

Penury is the problem! everyone wants to fix public education but no one wants to pay for it.

As an NYC public High School teacher, I have seen many students try to enter High School after being home-schooled through Middle School or longer. They often suffer serious deficiencies due to some, or all, of the following: 1) lack of social interaction with "real world" peers (for better or for worse); 2) ineptitude of their well meaning, but unprofessional, and unqualified homeschoolers; 3) bizarre agenda driven curtailing (or even more bizarre expansion) of essential content and information; 4) willful blindness on the part of the parents that the child is not as gifted or as extraordinary as the parents had tacitly assumed.

I often find that the homeschooled students themselves feel betrayed by their homeschool background because they clearly recognize that it has not prepared them to compete or even properly interact with the other students. They often waste a year in a school hoping to find a more receptive school elsewhere.

Research generally comes in with an optimal class size of 14 to 17 students. This allows for adequate teacher-to-student attention and enough diversity for student-to-student give and take. Homeschooling pods(forgive me for an inevitable Jack Finney allusion) almost always fall far short of this, and public school text-book-lab-rat-overcrowding-horrors often far exceed this. My own classes are routinely programmed for 34 students. If I were to dedicate just two minutes to each student in each of my five classes per day, my seven hour day becomes a 13.75 hour day (If I spent a more generous five minutes per student then it becomes a 21 hour day). This, combined with a general lack of respect for the profession and a lack of parental accontability, is why Public School teachers leave the profession in droves!

This is, also, why urban people are tempted to homeschool. The teachers who teach their children cannot give their children adequate quality attention.

I am an educator and a parent of a seven year old. My daughter is in public school. We researched and moved to find an adequate district. We are terrified of Middle School, as every kid and parent should be. I believe in public education [which is very definately currently in peril] but I know its limitations better than most.

Quick-fix Politicians who have a term-limited shelf life, or Monday-Morning-Quarterback-Ivory-Tower types, should not be entrusted with the educational process which really takes a life-time immersed in life to achieve. We need to get away from the cheaply maintained trained seal mentality that has overtaken education.

Our real National Defense is an Educated population (just ask Thomas Jefferson)!

By the way if they were really educated, wouldn't they just love and support Poets!

Wil Hallgren

----- Original Message ----
From: Elizabeth Switaj <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Tuesday, September 4, 2007 12:14:09 AM
Subject: Re: Five Enemies,

Jason, it's not impossible to work to improve public schools while, at the same time homeschooling one's own children. And while you are quite right in identifying the class element to this, I know that if I ever had children of my own I would do my best to keep them out of the public schools until such time as dramatic changed had been effected.

I, too, had some remarkable teachers. I also had horrible ones who didn't know their subject or who "solved" the problem of a student being harassed for a being a lesbian by calling a class metting in which she allowed the harassers to share their "opinions" of lesbians and then asked the lone harassed girl why she didn't say anything.

There is a problem when people start to say that public education is inherently bad. On that, you and I agree. However, the way it is right now, I can understand why people would think so.

Elizabeth Kate Switaj
www.elizabethkateswitaj.net

↑ Index

80. Karen Randall Portrait Sitters
Tue 4 Sep 2007

A new publication from Propolis Press:
'Portrait Sitters' by Jane Rice

"The light, quick turns of language here really sparkle! And the vivid details Rice chooses seem to come out of nowhere to land perfectly, precisely, every time. Like any excellent portraitist, she exposes her subjects' emotional landscapes, but she also goes beyond the frame of the individual to evoke an entire time and place. Montparnasse between the wars was so full of color, and Jane Rice re-enacts it here."

-- Cole Swensen, author of Goest

20 prose poems by Jane Rice.
Each of the poems is printed on the recto (with generous white space & blank verso) with a white 'portrait' square printed above each poem.
The book measures 9+ 1/2 x 12+ 3/4.
44 pp.

Letterpress printed by Dan Keleher on Mohawk Letterpress paper from Univers type cast by Ed Rayher (with titles handset from original mid-1950s ATF Univers foundry type). Printed in an edition of 150 with a limited additional set of deluxe copies which include a four-color image printed on gampi by means of a Vandercook press by Karen Randall.
Hand bound.

$25 for the regular edition and $50 for the deluxe.
please also include $10 for shipping & handling more info at http://www.propolispress.com/portraitsitters.html

Propolis Press
21 Winthrop Street
Northampton, MA 01060
[redacted]
http://www.propolispress.com

↑ Index

81. Tarpaulin Sky Press & Journal

Call for full-length & chap manuscripts of poetry / fiction / hybrid forms, etc

Tue 4 Sep 2007

Tarpaulin Sky Press http://www.tarpaulinsky.com/Press/index.html is reading full-length and chapbook-length manuscripts from September through October 31, 2007. Please do not query first; simply mail the manuscript according to the directions below.

Past contributors to the journal-as well as writers whose work has been accepted for publication in future issues-may submit their manuscripts with no reading fee.

Writers who have not been published in our journal should include a $20 check to cover reading fees and to receive a trade paperback edition of the TSky Press book of their choice (chapbooks and handbound editions are not available in this manner). Be sure to indicate which title you would like to receive, and include a self-addressed envelope 6"x9" or larger so we may mail your book.

Cover letters are read with interest. We like to know who your are, what you're up to, and where we can read more of your work. We do accept simultaneous submissions but ask that you let us know immediately if your manuscript is accepted elsewhere.

Individual pieces from the manuscript may have been previously published in magazines and anthologies, but the collection as a whole must be unpublished.

Be sure that your title page includes your name, address, telephone number, email address, etc. Send one copy of your manuscript submission with two copies of the title page. For notification of decisions, include a business-sized SASE. If you would like to receive acknowledgment of the receipt of your manuscript, please include a stamped, self-addressed postcard. Manuscripts cannot be returned. Please do not send us your only copy.

Please make your check payable to Tarpaulin Sky Press. Send your manuscript to

Tarpaulin Sky Press
PO Box 155
Townshend, VT 05353

Notification of decisions will be made on or before December 15, 2007. Publication of accepted manuscripts will be in Fall 2008 or Spring 2009.

The above guidelines are also available at http://www.tarpaulinsky.com/guidelines.html

↑ Index

82. Bobbi Lurie

Re: Five Enemies,

Tue 4 Sep 2007

There is a movement of public charter schools throughout country. Provides inclusion and special services for children with disabilities. Regular communication with teachers. Some amazing experiments and dedicated teachers who are very much aware of all issues raised.

From: Jason Quackenbush [redacted]
Sent: Tue, 4 Sep 2007 1:04 pm

I'm certainly not arguing that the public schools are perfect by any means. And since public schools have a large degree of autonomy, there is a great deal of variance in their quality from school district to school district. Certainly "No child left behind" has done severe damage to the integrity of public schooling in most states in the US. At the same time, though, the reason why the right was able to push through that agenda is because they've been so successful in creating the myth that there's something terribly broken in our public schools. That's not really the case. What's broken is the administration and financing of public schools, which is infected by the trojan horse of an ideological right wing that hates the idea of a free education for everyone being monopolized by the public sector. It's an ideology that has everything to do with a short sighted economic theory and nothing to do with what's the best for education.?

?
At the same time, you're right there are bad teachers and there are lousy administrations. Where I disagree with you is that i think there is a certain amount of value in learning how to deal with that. One of the things that i learned in public schools was how to deal with bureaucracys and how to work a system. I learned that because my parents were involved in my public education and i had a number of hands on lessons. Those skills have served me a lot better as an adult than what I learned in earth science or us history ever did. Which is not to say that they're good things, but they do have value, and one of the biggest advantages that kids in public schools have is that they're in an environment with built in diversity. If a kid gets a bad teacher, then at the very worst they're only going to ahve to deal with that particular bad teacher for a year. by middle school, they're only going to have to deal with that teacher for part of the day. and at the same time, getting m ultiple good teachers is as likely as multiple bad teachers, and I honestly believe that one good teacher can undo all the damage done by 100 bad ones.?
?
The problem with working to improve public schools by homeschooling though is that whatever work you do is offset by the fact that you've weakened the overall public school system by taking the energy you put into schooling your child out of the system thereby depriving the kids whose parents don't have the homeschool option of your enthusiasm for a good education. If a parent has the time and the energy to homeschool a child, why not put that energy and time into involvement with your child's local school? It's not like public schools put up a wall outside the school building to prevent parent involvement. And in the meantime you'll be teaching your child a valuable lesson about social responsibility and cooperation by your example, and you'll be more aware if there are any "bad teachers" hampering your child's development and you'll be in a better position to both offset any negative results there and at the same time keep your eye out for "good teachers" to get your kids w ith at the next school year. Parental involvement like that is one big reason that schools are better in the suburbs than they are in the inner cities, and it means that everybody, not just the children of financially well off people who have the bandwidth for homeschooling, benefits from those parents who have the resources to be more involved in the education of a communities children. That, to me, is the ideal of both fulfilling the parental and social responsibilities present in child rearing and i'm disappointed in people who choose not to when they have the capability to do it.?

?
On Tue, 4 Sep 2007, Elizabeth Switaj wrote:?
?
> Jason, it's not impossible to work to improve public schools while, at the?
> same time homeschooling one's own children. And while you are quite right?
> in identifying the class element to this, I know that if I ever had children?
> of my own I would do my best to keep them out of the public schools until?
> such time as dramatic changed had been effected.?
>?
> I, too, had some remarkable teachers. I also had horrible ones who didn't?
> know their subject or who "solved" the problem of a student being harassed?
> for a being a lesbian by calling a class metting in which she allowed the?
> harassers to share their "opinions" of lesbians and then asked the lone?
> harassed girl why she didn't say anything.?
>?
> There is a problem when people start to say that public education is?
> inherently bad. On that, you and I agree. However, the way it is right?
> now, I can understand why people would think so.?
>?
> Elizabeth Kate Switaj?
> www.elizabethkateswitaj.net?
>?

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

83. Alan Sondheim
phenomenology of radio earth
Wed 5 Sep 2007

phenomenology of radio earth

phenomenology of the earth in relation to vlf and crystal - how fields recreate an alternative 'mapping' of the planet, encased in a skein or membrane of radiation (radiations, single or plural).

these mappings are always 'cleansed' - pure no matter what the ostensible content of the carriers. from a technical viewpoint it's all modulation, all encoding. extrapolate from this back to visual perception - there's that neutrality again, as if every visible, every wound, suture, object, process, were not only of equal value, but of null value, or rather - as if value had no place in the world.

Buddha might have relegated suffering to the broadcast band.

induction forms intimacies with the earth; crystals are the fundamental filters, assigning direction and flux to topological space.

earphones etc. are nothing more than mechanisms of evidence; - it's here that the origin enters into the image - earphones establish the origin: of the perceiver, but also of the signal content and the implications of the location of the signal itself, if not the location itself.

loop and magnetism, but also loop and interrupter, the self-containment of the loop. the loop virtualizes the magnetic flux transmission, inheres it.

the phenomenology of the open ground/antenna system implying segment or vector; the earth and skies are tied to their fields, extended elsewhere and continuously.

this tends to become too mystical, too much Heidegger who might has well been describing early radio; the Fourfold is superhetrodyning.

>> the idea is to listen to the weakest part of the band, amplify until something, no matter what, is heard - the potential well falls apart here - i.e. the signal-to-noise ratio of safe information collapses. << think of coils and communities, coils as circumambulations surrounding what is peripheral, perhaps preset. communities of ostensible content, speech, interferences, adjacencies.

capacitors - inductors - proximities all: metal near metal, curled or flattened. every capacitor induces, every inductor capacitates.

CB radio as relic community - how does this relate to the net - CB hacking - how does this relate to codework. CB: local straggling across the earth; your car or truck extends nine-miles in every direction.

what could constitute mineral or organic inductors, capacitors - was there physical circuitry before humans. it's important to imagine radio as al- ways already present, not only as background/interference, but as fore-ground/content, intentional transmission.

http://www.asondheim.org/radioearth.gif

i don't want to harbor on this, remain in this harbor of spectral audio. i don't want to remain here, i want to point out the myriad phenomena, their constituents, their being-thought-through in problem worlds, or rather, their problems in the worlds of knowing. then it's time to leave the con- sort, or for random acts of internalization, surgical knowledge, then it's time to leave those as well.

↑ Index

84. Schneider Hill

Time to Preorder Nico Vassilakis' Text Loses Time

Wed 5 Sep 2007

ANNOUNCING NICO VASSILAKIS' TEXT LOSES TIME
(Go to http://scorecard.typepad.com to download a pdf file of the release.)

ManyPenny Press is pleased to announce the release of TEXT LOSES TIME by Nico Vassilakis. This necessary work spans roughly 15 years of the author's efforts in both textual and visual writing. It is Vassilakis' first full-length book.

TEXT LOSES TIME
Afterword by Nick Piombino
188 pp.
ISBN-10: 0-9798478-0-X
ISBN-13: 978-0-9798478-0-6

CONTACT AND ORDERING INFORMATION:

ManyPenny Press
1111 E. Fifth St.
Moscow, ID 83843

$15.95 + $2 postage
(Advance orders will receive the book post-paid.)

AUTHOR'S STATEMENT:

This book intends to present both verbal and visual poetries as equal. Though notions of poetics have shifted and swerved, what has stayed solid throughout is that the alphabet, the word - however arranged - contains, within it, dual significance. First, the proto-historic role of the visual conveyance of represented fact. Second, the overriding desire of human utterance to substantiate existence. In conjoining these two models this book hopes to form a third, blurred value. Thought and experience are factors that accrue, while staring and writing help resolve and conclude. Text itself is an amalgam of units of meaning. As you stare at text you notice the visual aspects of letters. As one stares further, meaning loses its hierarchy and words discorporate and the alphabet itself begins to surface. Shapes, spatial relations and visual associations emerge as one delves further. Alphabetic bits or parts or snippets of letters can create an added visual vocabulary amidst the very text one is reading. One aim, to this end, is to merge and hinge visual and textual writing into workable forms. This book collects some of these experiments.

SAMPLE OF WORK FROM "TEXT LOSES TIME":

FROM "THE SCAFFOLDING"

The Rhymes of Vellum

A boy or girl, Vellum, blows a few papers in the wind It answers noise Hopping, hopped. Tapping, tapped Swim sweet twins swing twig Think of losing, serendipity or the wings of a sentence He will get them, but not tell you where they were I like to drink through my brother's center A finger's rose begins A shadow grows down the sidewalk Clapping, clapped It helps to rip this box open Sound harbor, sound hole Blind rose is a very shape friend I want a shirt to visit my slacks Moon noose soon loose A good look at the cookbook - lots of o's - ghost epaulets on the shoulders of a paragraph Dishes mixes, buses guesses I sit down to work; I draw with my right hand The response sadly is never Living as wide as it gets Think sift You could fault the long moth, the dog lost in soft fog, but it's the song's cost, its crust I got frogs in my throat, a forehead throat Boris said, "Your throat's red." Timothy hums a nail into the wood I run uphill swimming The test isn't over The floor's hard The new girl at school Can you look at a book without getting caught on a line? Like radio, writing is a broadcast They found people in the mailbox A huge gem in a cage Susan flips back to the glossary Only a certain type of fastener The letter "R" in each corner of a page Unexpectedly the middle is empty Next, write your best trick Most banjo Odd pretty piece asleep A drum whisking discard into cream In this way we raise our pigs on fire & Kenny is always six yards old The donkey said, "Enough." The donkey said, "English." Dark thoughts won't cure light sickness The ladder moved slightly throws the world in disarray The teacher's a bird and flies out the window They had found their clown center Art will say, "I like to pitch. What is your name?" Art will say, "Hi, I'm Art. I like to pitch. What's your name?" Slowly toward a large bird Paper hats, cats A lot of noise comes to visit Long thin water in a line of people I called you once today to say geese make a village of gold & both of my little friends like to sing. Their secret voices are beautiful Spray Spray Spray

COMMENTS ON TEXT LOSES TIME:

"Part nested Minimalist cubes and part laser light that won't diverge across distance, Nico Vassilakis' poetry seems to ask whether we are primates at play on a baseball diamond of memory and desire beside mural-lined public structures slipping toward infinite regression.

Richly iterative, these pairings and alphabets escape the mirror to thrill us with variation and sting all forms of complacency. Vassilakis extends Oulipian strategies: Perec references, lamellisections, crystalline build-outs and transpositions, a scat of nonrepresentational vocables, lettered whirlwinds giving speed for legibility, -- "extracting the gem through layers of gauze" and, other times, lowering a gem into a fold.

Can an argument between a machine that produces texts and "longhand into tiny notebooks" wake us up? In pain, "the throbbing thumb" makes us "attend to the living."

If Vassilakis revises the rock lyric "meet-the-new-boss, same-as-the-old-boss" to "meet the solipsistic era. same as the old solipsistic era," is treatment to be had in a bar, a science lab, or will it reach us over the radio? Try a road trip, so "you can't afford to blink, to be blind for even a second" going through a colander out where dust is breeding and "glass traps lighting" like no scene you've seen in quite this way. Through crevices, perforations, punctures, piercings, pinholes, see neighborhoods as "that place where organized sleeping happens." So, look for a faceted colony that "sometimes congeals."" --Deborah Meadows

"Nico Vassilakis' Text Loses Time unhinges the folds of the book and the word; as the 'folded loose leafed sheets whiz past your ears' you can hear the echoes of meaning. The words flake off the page like aged paint leaving a patina of colour and meaning on the surface and a growing heap of signification at our feet. Here the means of writing rise up and turn against our expectation, lurching into new spaces. Letters become tactile, meaning becomes rubbery, and both reading and writing become a new collaboration." --derek beaulieu

AUTHOR BIOGRAPHY:

Nico Vassilakis was born in New York City in 1963. He has co-written and performed a one-man play about experimental composer Morton Feldman. Vassilakis is co-founder and curator for the Subtext Reading Series and editor of Clear-Cut: Anthology (A Collection of Seattle Writers). He has been a guest-editor of WOS#35: Northwest Concrete and Visual Poetry and his visual poetry videos have been shown worldwide at festivals and exhibitions of innovative language arts. In 1998, Vassilakis co-produced, with Rebecca Brown, a 24-hour "Gertrude Stein-a-thon." His work has appeared in numerous magazines, including Ribot, Caliban, Aufgabe, Chain, Talisman, Central Park and Golden Handcuffs Review. He works for Fantagraphic Books and lives in Seattle with his son, Quixote.

Chapbooks:

Askew (bcc press), Stampologue (RASP), Orange: A Manual (Sub Rosa Press), Diptychs: Visual Poems (Otolith), Pond Ring (nine muses books), sequence (Burning Press), Enoch and Aloe (Last Generation Press), The Colander (housepress), Flattened Missive (P.I.S.O.R. Publications), Species Pieces (gong press), KYOO (Burning Press) and others.

DVD:
CONCRETE: Movies (Sub Rosa Press)

CONTACT AND ORDERING INFORMATION:

ManyPenny Press
1111 E. Fifth St.
Moscow, ID 83843

$15.95 + $2 postage
(Advance orders will receive the book post-paid.)

↑ Index

85. Charlie Rossiter

beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling

Wed 5 Sep 2007

I'm astonished to read the ill-informed post about home schooling

Sorry, but that take on homeschooled kids is full of shit

Actual date suggests that homeschoolers are, on average, above average. Think Lake Wobegone

The idea that homeschoolsers are socially deficient is completely without support.

Homeschoolers are way ahead of their peers in living in the world. They have less time with their age peers but they spend more time among normal adults and as a result do not behave as complete dolts when an adult attempts to interact with them. Instead they treat the adult as a person and respnd appropriately

I don't know where you get your information but it's completely off base. Homeschooling is generally a much better preparation for life (even the pathetic life that formal school offers).

If you care about such things, data tells us that homeschooled kids score around 70-80 percentile on standardized tests. No wonder...consider the vocabulary one develops spending the day with an adult who has a half-way decent vocabulary when compared to spending one's days with little kids with little kids' vocab.

Charlie

↑ Index

86. Dan Waber
ars poetica update
Wed 5 Sep 2007

The ars poetica project continues to scree like a bluebird at:

http://www.logolalia.com/arspoetica/

Poems appeared last month by: Sue Stanford, Elizabeth Robinson, Ana Buigues, Andrena Zawinski, Shara McCallum, Karl Kempton, Tad Richards, Joelle Biele, F. J. Bergmann, Bill Keckler, Maurya Simon, Kim Roberts, Len Anderson, Valerie Wallace, and Lucille Lang Day.

Poems will appear this month by: Lucille Lang Day, Flor Aguilera, Jane Satterfield, Kathrine Varnes, Scott Watson, Helen Pavlin, Shoshauna Shy, Michael Waters, Hilary Mellon, Jay Rogoff, and Hiram Larew.

A new poem about poetry every day, by invitation only (but thanks for asking).

Enjoy,
Dan

↑ Index

87. W.B. Keckler
Sheila Black, Larissa Shmailo and others are poeting away...
Wed 5 Sep 2007

---

at Joe Brainard's Pyjamas....JBP has been taken over by our guest-editor, multiple personality component Orgazmatron Prime, and is soliciting great poetry and short fiction (flash fiction preferred unless i can like cut and paste, dawg) for at least a month...recent authors & creators discussed, examined and/or probed...include Ric Royer, Vernon Frazer, Flaubert, Squirrel Nutkin & legion others... feel free to submit or just visit for a julep on the porch at http://joebrainardspyjamas.blogspot.com/ (Requested submission limit for poems is one too tree. merci).
_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

88. heidi arnold
Re: Five Enemies,/of educational systems
Wed 5 Sep 2007

there are a number of issues here and what is added below may have already been said. one place where the politics of dissent may be experimented with, and practiced, is in the classroom, be it public or private school, high school or university. this is where a student may learn how to have an opinion that breaks from the fold, to respectfully disagree with authority, how to be a member of a group and yet inhabit one's own path. what it means to dissent from the collective in real terms, and how dissent might be sustained over time. and this is where people who are drawn to consensus, may also learn what it means to have the odd one out among you, what it means to hear forceful or supple disagreement, and what it means to suspect that possibly, the consensus is mistaken on certain points, or else alternatively, to be impartial about it for the sake of this point, that we will always have the cranks among us. and that loyalty and consensus are not always the same thing. and i think this is true in secular and religious classrooms both. it is an obvious point, and a small point, but in the end the intellectual process is shared, and belongs to everyone, and how the common good is interpreted over time may also take place in the classroom. my husband is a SUNY professor. what an awesome responsibility the teachers bear.

of course there are other forms and conditions of dissent in our time, but we are lucky to have our schools also.

peace,

heidi

--
www.heidiarnold.org
http://peaceraptor.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

89. W.B. Keckler
Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
Wed 5 Sep 2007

i wish i could have been home schooled. it was a crime however when i was growing up. now it's just another choice you can make, which i think is great. i always hated forced socialization. even for things like birthday parties or like funerals. i was always impressed with quentin crisp's answer as a child to "what do you want to be when you grow up?" he always answered "an invalid." i'm sure proust would have approved.

-----Original Message-----
From: Charlie Rossiter <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Wed, 5 Sep 2007 1:20 am
Subject: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling

I'm astonished to read the ill-informed post about home schooling

Sorry, but that take on homeschooled kids is full of shit

Actual date suggests that homeschoolers are, on average, above average. Think Lake Wobegone

The idea that homeschoolsers are socially deficient is completely without support.

Homeschoolers are way ahead of their peers in living in the world. They have less time with their age peers but they spend more time among normal adults and as a result do not behave as complete dolts when an adult attempts to interact with them. Instead they treat the adult as a person and respnd appropriately

I don't know where you get your information but it's completely off base. Homeschooling is generally a much better preparation for life (even the pathetic life that formal school offers).

If you care about such things, data tells us that homeschooled kids score around 70-80 percentile on standardized tests. No wonder...consider the vocabulary one develops spending the day with an adult who has a half-way decent vocabulary when compared to spending one's days with little kids with little kids' vocab.

Charlie

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

90. heidi arnold

Re: Five Enemies,/of educational systems

Wed 5 Sep 2007

---

just a clarification, by the "odd one out", i was referring to myself, and by religious classrooms also, i was referring to catholic education in the u.s.

On 9/5/07, heidi arnold <[redacted]> wrote:
> there are a number of issues here and what is added below may have > already been said.

> one place where the politics of dissent may be experimented with, and > practiced, is in the classroom, be it public or private school, high > school or university. this is where a student may learn how to have > an opinion that breaks from the fold, to respectfully disagree with > authority, how to be a member of a group and yet inhabit one's own > path. what it means to dissent from the collective in real terms, and > how dissent might be sustained over time. and this is where people > who are drawn to consensus, may also learn what it means to have the > odd one out among you, what it means to hear forceful or supple > disagreement, and what it means to suspect that possibly, the > consensus is mistaken on certain points, or else alternatively, to be > impartial about it for the sake of this point, that we will always > have the cranks among us. and that loyalty and consensus are not > always the same thing. and i think this is true in secular and > religious classrooms both. it is an obvious point, and a small point, > but in the end the intellectual process is shared, and belongs to > everyone, and how the common good is interpreted over time may also > take place in the classroom. my husband is a SUNY professor. what an > awesome responsibility the teachers bear.
>
> of course there are other forms and conditions of dissent in our time, > but we are lucky to have our schools also.
>
> peace,
>
> heidi
>
>
> --
> www.heidiarnold.org
> http://peaceraptor.blogspot.com/
>

--
www.heidiarnold.org
http://peaceraptor.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

91. W.B. Keckler

Re: Time to Preorder Nico Vassilakis' Text Loses Time

Wed 5 Sep 2007

Congrats to Niko! I've enjoyed his works for years...still have my Runaway Spoon press edition on bookshelf #1...he, Karl Kempton and John Byrum are probably my three favorite practitioners of the art...

can't go wrong ordering this people!

-----Original Message-----
From: Schneider Hill <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Wed, 5 Sep 2007 12:50 am
Subject: Time to Preorder Nico Vassilakis' Text Loses Time

ANNOUNCING NICO VASSILAKIS' TEXT LOSES TIME
(Go to http://scorecard.typepad.com to download a pdf file of the release.)

ManyPenny Press is pleased to announce the release of TEXT LOSES TIME by Nico Vassilakis. This necessary work spans roughly 15 years of the author's efforts in both textual and visual writing. It is Vassilakis' first full-length book.

TEXT LOSES TIME
Afterword by Nick Piombino
188 pp.
ISBN-10: 0-9798478-0-X
ISBN-13: 978-0-9798478-0-6

CONTACT AND ORDERING INFORMATION:

ManyPenny Press
1111 E. Fifth St.
Moscow, ID 83843

$15.95 + $2 postage
(Advance orders will receive the book post-paid.)

AUTHOR'S STATEMENT:

This book intends to present both verbal and visual poetries as equal. Though notions of poetics have shifted and swerved, what has stayed solid throughout is that the alphabet, the word - however arranged - contains, within it, dual significance. First, the proto-historic role of the visual conveyance of represented fact. Second, the overriding desire of human utterance to substantiate existence. In conjoining these two models this book hopes to form a third, blurred value. Thought and experience are factors that accrue, while staring and writing help resolve and conclude. Text itself is an amalgam of units of meaning. As you stare at text you notice the visual aspects of letters. As one stares further, meaning loses its hierarchy and words discorporate and the alphabet itself begins to surface. Shapes, spatial relations and visual associations emerge as one delves further. Alphabetic bits or parts or snippets of letters can create an added visual vocabulary amidst the very text one is reading. One aim, to this end, is to merge and hinge visual and textual writing into workable forms. This book collects some of these experiments.

SAMPLE OF WORK FROM "TEXT LOSES TIME":

FROM "THE SCAFFOLDING"

The Rhymes of Vellum

A boy or girl, Vellum, blows a few papers in the wind It answers noise Hopping, hopped. Tapping, tapped Swim sweet twins swing twig Think of losing, serendipity or the wings of a sentence He will get them, but not tell you where they were I like to drink through my brother's center A finger's rose begins A shadow grows down the sidewalk Clapping, clapped It helps to rip this box open Sound harbor, sound hole Blind rose is a very shape friend I want a shirt to visit my slacks Moon noose soon loose A good look at the cookbook - lots of o's - ghost epaulets on the shoulders of a paragraph Dishes mixes, buses guesses I sit down to work; I draw with my right hand The response sadly is never Living as wide as it gets Think sift You could fault the long moth, the dog lost in soft fog, but it's the song's cost, its crust I got frogs in my throat, a forehead throat Boris said, "Your throat's red." Timothy hums a nail into the wood I run uphill swimming The test isn't over The floor's hard The new girl at school Can you look at a book without getting caught on a line? Like radio, writing is a broadcast They found people in the mailbox A huge gem in a cage Susan flips back to the glossary Only a certain type of fastener The letter "R" in each corner of a page Unexpectedly the middle is empty Next, write your best trick Most banjo Odd pretty piece asleep A drum whisking discard into cream In this way we raise our pigs on fire & Kenny is always six yards old The donkey said, "Enough." The donkey said, "English." Dark thoughts won't cure light sickness The ladder moved slightly throws the world in disarray The teacher's a bird and flies out the window They had found their clown center Art will say, "I like to pitch. What is your name?" Art will say, "Hi, I'm Art. I like to pitch. What's your name?" Slowly toward a large bird Paper hats, cats A lot of noise comes to visit Long thin water in a line of people I called you once today to say geese make a village of gold & both of my little friends like to sing. Their secret voices are beautiful Spray Spray Spray

COMMENTS ON TEXT LOSES TIME:

"Part nested Minimalist cubes and part laser light that won't diverge across distance, Nico Vassilakis' poetry seems to ask whether we are primates at play on a baseball diamond of memory and desire beside mural-lined public structures slipping toward infinite regression.

Richly iterative, these pairings and alphabets escape the mirror to thrill us with variation and sting all forms of complacency. Vassilakis extends Oulipian strategies: Perec references, lamellisections, crystalline build-outs and transpositions, a scat of nonrepresentational vocables, lettered whirlwinds giving speed for legibility, -- "extracting the gem through layers of gauze" and, other times, lowering a gem into a fold.

Can an argument between a machine that produces texts and "longhand into tiny notebooks" wake us up? In pain, "the throbbing thumb" makes us "attend to the living."

If Vassilakis revises the rock lyric "meet-the-new-boss, same-as-the-old-boss" to "meet the solipsistic era. same as the old solipsistic era," is treatment to be had in a bar, a science lab, or will it reach us over the radio? Try a road trip, so "you can't afford to blink, to be blind for even a second" going through a colander out where dust is breeding and "glass traps lighting" like no scene you've seen in quite this way. Through crevices, perforations, punctures, piercings, pinholes, see neighborhoods as "that place where organized sleeping happens." So, look for a faceted colony that "sometimes congeals."" --Deborah Meadows

"Nico Vassilakis' Text Loses Time unhinges the folds of the book and the word; as the 'folded loose leafed sheets whiz past your ears' you can hear the echoes of meaning. The words flake off the page like aged paint leaving a patina of colour and meaning on the surface and a growing heap of signification at our feet. Here the means of writing rise up and turn against our expectation, lurching into new spaces. Letters become tactile, meaning becomes rubbery, and both reading and writing become a new collaboration." --derek beaulieu

AUTHOR BIOGRAPHY:

Nico Vassilakis was born in New York City in 1963. He has co-written and performed a one-man play about experimental composer Morton Feldman. Vassilakis is co-founder and curator for the Subtext Reading Series and editor of Clear-Cut: Anthology (A Collection of Seattle Writers). He has been a guest-editor of WOS#35: Northwest Concrete and Visual Poetry and his visual poetry videos have been shown worldwide at festivals and exhibitions of innovative language arts. In 1998, Vassilakis co-produced, with Rebecca Brown, a 24-hour "Gertrude Stein-a-thon." His work has appeared in numerous magazines, including Ribot, Caliban, Aufgabe, Chain, Talisman, Central Park and Golden Handcuffs Review. He works for Fantagraphic Books and lives in Seattle with his son, Quixote.

Chapbooks:

Askew (bcc press), Stampologue (RASP), Orange: A Manual (Sub Rosa Press), Diptychs: Visual Poems (Otolith), Pond Ring (nine muses books), sequence (Burning Press), Enoch and Aloe (Last Generation Press), The Colander (housepress), Flattened Missive (P.I.S.O.R. Publications), Species Pieces (gong press), KYOO (Burning Press) and others.

DVD:
CONCRETE: Movies (Sub Rosa Press)

CONTACT AND ORDERING INFORMATION:

ManyPenny Press
1111 E. Fifth St.
Moscow, ID 83843

$15.95 + $2 postage
(Advance orders will receive the book post-paid.)

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

92. CA Conrad
LIT MAGAZINE #13 NYC LAUNCH THIS FRIDAY
Wed 5 Sep 2007

for the details to to: http://CAConradEVENTS.blogspot.com hope
to see you
at 6 on the 7 th

↑ Index

93. CA Conrad
PhillySound Feature #6: Ryan Eckes /\\//\\\\\////\\\\\\\//////\\\\\\\\\////////
Wed 5 Sep 2007

PhillySound Feature #6: Ryan Eckes
/\\//\\\\\////\\\\\\\//////\\\\\\\\\////////

Read Ryan's marvelous poems, an interview with him, and community commentary here:
http://phillysound.blogspot.com/2007_08_01_archive.html

If you LOVE poetry you will enjoy yourself with this,
CAConrad
editor of #6

↑ Index

94. Barrett Watten
The Grand Piano 4 and Site Launch
Wed 5 Sep 2007

The Nonnarrative Continues! Announcing

THE GRAND PIANO, PART 4

and launch of the Grand Piano home site:

http://www.thegrandpiano.org

An Experiment in Collective Autobiography, San Francisco, 1975-1980. Part 4, by Carla Harryman, Kit Robinson, Tom Mandel, Barrett Watten, Rae Armantrout, Ted Pearson, Lyn Hejinian, Bob Perelman, Ron Silliman, and Steve Benson

http://www.english.wayne.edu/fac_pages/ewatten/images/homepage/gp4front.jpg

"The defiantly-lived optimism on offer in The Grand Piano is yet another way in which this generation…has resisted the imperatives of the poetics, politics, and performance of self-centered melancholia. / This small verbal token seems like a passport, an efficient and elegant key to another world where literary idealism and integrity still command respect." —Maria Damon, Rain Taxi Review of Books

Copies of single volumes may be ordered from Small Press Distribution, Inc. Subscription to The Grand Piano (ten volumes, at three-month intervals, beginning with parts 1–4), is available for $90 from Lyn Hejinian, 2639 Russell Street, Berkeley, CA 94705. Partial subscriptions starting from #2 are $80; from #3, for $70; from #4, for $60, etc.

Order forms (color or b&w) may be downloaded at:

http://www.english.wayne.edu/fac_pages/ewatten/pdfs/gp14order.pdf
http://www.english.wayne.edu/fac_pages/ewatten/pdfs/gp14orderbw.pdf

Designed and published by Barrett Watten, Mode A/This Press (Detroit), 6885 Cathedral Drive, Bloomfield Twp., MI 48301. Distributed (individual orders and trade) by Small Press Distribution, Inc., 1341 Seventh Street, Berkeley, CA 94710-1408.

↑ Index

95. Mark Pawlak

Re: Second call for poetry submissions for Big Bridge 13 (Jan. '08)

Wed 5 Sep 2007

Hal,

Are you looking for new work only? I have lots of poems about Iraq, Afghanistan and the American war machine in my latest book, OFFICIAL VERSIONS from HL(2006). Happy to send you a copy or selected poems digitally if you're interested.

Mark

On 9/4/07 4:45 PM, "Halvard Johnson" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Friends and neighbors--
>
> For a second (check out the first at http://www.bigbridge.org/deathindex.htm)
> mini-anthology of poems, this time inspired by/responding to/related to Czeslaw Milosz's poem "Dedication" and/or the various wars/insurgencies/etc. going > on in the world today, please send 1-6 poems to me at > [redacted] with the > words "Big Bridge" followed by your own name clearly in the subject line. Please, > when sending attachments, send all poems in a single attachment.
>
> This mini-anthology will appear in the January issue of Big Bridge, and I'll > consider submissions of work received before the end of November.
>
> Halvard Johnson
> ==========
> [redacted]

http://home.earthlink.net/~halvard/index.html
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org
http://home.earthlink.net/~halvard/vidalocabooks.html

Dedication

You whom I could not save
Listen to me.
Try to understand this simple speech as I would be ashamed of another.
I swear, there is in me no wizardry of words.
I speak to you with silence like a cloud or a tree.

What strengthened me, for you was lethal.
You mixed up farewell to an epoch with the beginning of a new one,
Inspiration of hatred with lyrical beauty,
Blind force with accomplished shape.

Here is the valley of shallow Polish rivers. And an immense bridge Going into white fog. Here is a broken city,
And the wind throws the screams of gulls on your grave
When I am talking with you.

What is poetry which does not save
Nations or people?
A connivance with official lies,
A song of drunkards whose throats will be cut in a moment,
Readings for sophomore girls.
That I wanted good poetry without knowing it,
That I discovered, late, its salutary aim,
In this and only this I find salvation.

They used to pour millet on graves or poppy seeds
To feed the dead who would come disguised as birds.
I put this book here for you, who once lived
So that you should visit us no more.

--Czeslaw Milosz, Warsaw, 1945

↑ Index

96. amy king
Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
Wed 5 Sep 2007

And are they still treated this way? A friend and I have been discussing the ways younger female poets (as well as musicians, etc) are still infantilized, despite their talents/success/etc. She posted about it on her blog today. It is baffling but appears to be a trend, though Ana only mentions two examples here:

http://quoileternite.blogspot.com/2007/09/love-and-west.html

Fussy? Opinionated? Impossible to please? Perfect. Join Yahoo!'s user panel and lay it on us.

↑ Index

97. David Chirot
A Report by Hilton Obenzinger on Both Sides of the Wall/Turkish Visual Poetry and Grand Piano review
Wed 5 Sep 2007

—

↑ Index

98. Jason Quackenbush
Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
Wed 5 Sep 2007

---

i have grown almost as tired of that wispy fairy girl persona as i have of the soulful all american boy thing that guys like john mayer seem to pump out. it seems like every time there's a new female singer songwriter who's gotten any acclaim has to pull that dreamy stevie nicks on quaaludes little girl otherness and it seems so very affected i wonder if it's a sort of defense mechanism to hide from the attention. Like maybe the reaction that one naturally has to people starting to listen to them is to immediately turn on whatever charms have gotten them laid in the past and then amp it up to a vaudevillean parody of 21st century gender tropes.

On Wed, 5 Sep 2007, amy king wrote:

> And are they still treated this way? A friend and I have been discussing the ways younger female poets (as well as musicians, etc) are still infantilized, despite their talents/success/etc. She posted about it on her blog today. It is baffling but appears to be a trend, though Ana only mentions two examples here:

> http://quoileternite.blogspot.com/2007/09/love-and-west.html
>
> ---
> Fussy? Opinionated? Impossible to please? Perfect. Join Yahoo!'s user panel and lay it on us.

↑ Index

99. Fulcrum Annual Poets Hennessy, Hall and Hock in NYC, Sat Sept 8
Wed 5 Sep 2007

Poets John Hennessy, Daniel Hall and James Hock will read from their books and sign them

An Ear Inn Poetry Reading
Saturday, September 8, 2007 at 3:00pm
326 Spring Street (west of Greenwich Street)
New York, NY
SUBWAY: C/E to Spring Street; 1/9 to Canal Street; N/R to Prince Street
Contact: [redacted], [redacted]
FREE + good cheap eats and alcohol

John Hennessy's collection of poems, Bridge and Tunnel, was recently published by Turning Point Books. He is the resident fellow at the Amy Clampitt House in Lenox, MA. Hennessy is a frequent contributor to Fulcrum.

Daniel Hall is the author of three books of poems, most recently Under Sleep. He is the writer in residence at Amherst College.

James Hoch's new book of poems is Miscreants, published by Norton in 2007. His first book, A Parade of Hands, won the Gerald Cable Award and was published in 2003 by Silverfish Review Press. He teaches at Ramapo College.

↑ Index

100. Jenny Penberthy
The Capilano Review
Wed 5 Sep 2007

The Capilano Review is celebrating its 35th anniversary. Join us for a launch of the 3rd Series and the Capilano College double issue * 3.1&2 * at the Vancouver East Cultural Centre on Thurs Sept 13 at 7:30pm. Readings by past and present Capilano College writers -- Daphne Marlatt, Lisa Robertson, Clint Burnham, Sharon Thesen, Ryan Knighton, George Stanley, Crystal Hurdle, Roger Farr, Meredith Quartermain, Reg Johanson, and others.

The event will also celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Canada Council for the Arts.

Tickets at the door and from Ticketmaster $8/$5

Vancouver East Cultural Centre
1895 Venables Street
Vancouver, BC

www.thecapilanoreview.ca

↑ Index

101. crystal hoffman

Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling

Wed 5 Sep 2007

Half of my peers from the age of 10 to the age of 18 were home-schooled. In terms of socialization, they were far more mature. In terms of decision making, they've avoided nearly all of the pit falls of adolescence (ie drinking drugs irresponsible sex). In terms of education, I believe they were at the very least on par with the other half of my peers. However, I believe that ultimately the quality of a home-schooler's education relies solely on the effort that both parent and student put forth, as well as the level of the parents education. The difference can vary between that of a poorly funded rural public school to that of a high priced private school.

These generalizations are utterly useless, if you ask me.

"W.B. Keckler" <[redacted]> wrote: i wish i could have been home schooled. it was a crime however when i was growing up. now it's just another choice you can make, which i think is great. i always hated forced socialization. even for things like birthday parties or like funerals. i was always impressed with quentin crisp's answer as a child to "what do you want to be when you grow up?" he always answered "an invalid." i'm sure proust would have approved.

-----Original Message-----
From: Charlie Rossiter
To: [redacted]
Sent: Wed, 5 Sep 2007 1:20 am
Subject: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling

I'm astonished to read the ill-informed post about home schooling

Sorry, but that take on homeschooled kids is full of shit

Actual date suggests that homeschoolers are, on average, above average. Think Lake Wobegone

The idea that homeschoolsers are socially deficient is completely without support.

Homeschoolers are way ahead of their peers in living in the world. They have less time with their age peers but they spend more time among normal adults and as a result do not behave as complete dolts when an adult attempts to interact with them. Instead they treat the adult as a person and respnd appropriately

I don't know where you get your information but it's completely off base. Homeschooling is generally a much better preparation for life (even the pathetic life that formal school offers).

If you care about such things, data tells us that homeschooled kids score around 70-80 percentile on standardized tests. No wonder...consider the vocabulary one develops spending the day with an adult who has a half-way decent vocabulary when compared to spending one's days with little kids with little kids' vocab.

Charlie

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

---
Luggage? GPS? Comic books?
Check out fitting gifts for grads at Yahoo! Search.

↑ Index

102. David A. Kirschenbaum
Fall Events in Boog City
Wed 5 Sep 2007

please forward
---

hi all,

below are the boog events skedded for this fall.

enjoy,
david

Upcoming Boog Events, Sept.-Dec. 2007

Season 5 of
d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

Visiting small press editors host these evenings and select authors to read whom they¹ve published. There are also performances by visiting or area musicians at each event. (Once a year multiple NYC small presses are hosted.) Performers TBD.

Last Tues. of each month, 6:00 p.m., free

ACA Galleries
529 W.20th St., 5th Flr.
(bet. 10th and 11th avenues)
NYC

Tues. Sept. 25
BlazeVOX Books
(Kenmore, N.Y.)

Featuring readings from

Joel Chace
Amy King
Ruth Lepson
Douglas Manson
Kyle Schlesinger

and music from
Compass Jazz

Oct. 30 Talisman House (Jersey City, N.J.)
Nov. 27 Big Game Books (Washington, D.C.)
Dec. 18 Six NYC Presses: Belladonna Books, Cy Gist Press, Futurepoem Books, Kitchen Press, Litmus Press/Aufgabe, Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs

The season runs through July and will also feature:
Abraham Lincoln (Ashland, Ore.)
Instance Press (Boulder, Co.; New York City; Richmond, Va.)
Outside Voices (Charlottesville, Va.)
Effing Press (Austin, Texas)
Ixnay Press (Philadelphia)
and more

Classic Albums Live Series
Anywhere from four to 13 musical acts perform different classic albums three to six times a year.

Sun. Nov. 11, 8:00 p.m., $5

Less Than Zero at 20

20 Years After the Film¹s Release
See the Movie on the Big Screen

then

Hear the Soundtrack Album Performed Live

The Bowery Poetry Club
308 Bowery (and 1st Street)
NYC

2008 will feature:
The Pixies, Surfer Rosa (for its 20th anniv.) and Doolittle

The Original Soundtrack for the Motion Picture Grease
An album selected by musical acts that have performed in at least two previous classic album shows (two years ago they selected The Clash, London Calling)
and more

Sun. Oct. 14, 8:00 p.m., $4
Passenger Pigeons CD Release Party

Knitting Factory Old Office
74 Leonard Street
NYC

With performances by Daouets
Dead Rabbit
The Passenger Pigeons
Alias Pail

Mon Oct. 29, 8:00 p.m.,
$8, $7 for students and seniors, $5 for members

a 65th birthday celebration for d.a. levy

The Poetry Project at St. Marks Church
131 E. 10th St. (@2nd Ave.)
NYC

Come honor the life and work of the late Cleveland poet-publisher who was at the vanguard of the mimeo revolution of the sixties. We¹ll recognize the radical and enduring effect levy left on small press poetry and publishing during his short life with readings of his work and informal discussion. Participants will include Steve Clay, Bob Holman, Jake Marx, and Gary Sullivan, with some special guests, too. This event will be preceded by a free screening of Kon Petrochuk¹s levy biopic ³if i scratch, if i write² at 5:00 p.m. at the Bowery Poetry Club (308 Bowery and 1st Street, NYC). Co-curated with The Poetry Project.

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W.28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)
F: [redacted]

↑ Index

103. UbuWeb
UBUWEB :: Featured Resources Summer / Fall 2007 by Spahr & Koestenbaum
Wed 5 Sep 2007

__ U B U W E B __
http://ubu.com

UBUWEB :: Featured Resources Fall 2007

Featured Resources:
Fall 2007
Selected by Juliana Spahr

1. Learn to Say Penis
http://www.ubu.com/outsiders/ass/penis.html

2. Germaine Dulac "La coquille et le clergyman" http://www.ubu.com/film/dulac_coquille.html

3. Maya Deren "Ritual in Transfigured" http://www.ubu.com/film/deren.html

4. Carolee Schneeman "Fuses"
http://www.ubu.com/film/schneeman.html

5. Monique Wittig, Les Guerilleres
http://www.ubu.com/ubu/wittig_guer.html

6. Carolee Schneemann, "Fuses"
http://www.ubu.com/film/schneeman.html

7. Janet Zweig "Mind Over Matter" http://www.ubu.com/contemp/zweig/zweig1.html

8. Caroline Bergvall "About Face" http://www.ubu.com/sound/bergvall.html

9. Barbara Cole, "Situation Comedies: Foxy Moron" http://www.ubu.com/ubu/cole_foxy.html

10. Pierre Coulibeuf and Marina Abramoviç "Balkan Baroque" http://www.ubu.com/film/coulibeuf.html

BONUS: Emma Hedditch "The Making of Her Noise" http://www.ubu.com/film/her_noise.html

Juliana Spahr's most recent book is the Transformation (Atelos P, 2007)

UBUWEB :: Featured Resources Summer 2007

Featured Resources:
Summer 2007
Selected by Wayne Koestenbaum

1. Robert Desnos, "Description of a Dream" (MP3, 1938)
http://ubu.artmob.ca/sound/desnos_robert/Desnos-Robert_Description-Of-A-Dream_1938.mp3

2. Adolf Wolfli, "Gelesen und vertont" (specifically either Der Fluch (MP3) or the Trauermarsch 599 Lied (MP3) [1978])
http://ubu.artmob.ca/sound/wolfli_adolf/gelesen_und_vertont/Adolf-Wolfli_06_Der_Fluch_1978.mp3

http://ubu.artmob.ca/sound/wolfli_adolf/gelesen_und_vertont/Adolf-Wolfli_27_Trauermarsch_599._Lied_1978.mp3

3. Ketjak, the Ramayana Monkey Chant (MP3, in Ethnopoetics Soundings)
http://www.ubu.com/ethno/soundings/ketjack.html

4. John Cage and Morton Feldman in Conversation (1967) http://www.ubu.com/sound/cage_feldman.html

5. Dieter Roth, "Berliner Dichterworkshop" (1973)
http://www.ubu.com/sound/berliner.html

6. Carolee Schneemann, "Fuses" (film)
http://www.ubu.com/film/schneeman.html

7. Mauricio Kagel, "Ludwig Van..." (film)
http://www.ubu.com/film/kagel.html

8. Jack Goldstein, "MGM" and "The Knife" (films) http://www.ubu.com/film/goldstein.html

9. Antonin Artaud, "Pour finir avec le jugement de dieu" http://www.ubu.com/sound/artaud.html

10. Severo Sarduy, "Big Bang"
http://www.ubu.com/ubu/sarduy_big_bang.html

BONUS: Joseph Cornell, "Rose Hobart" http://www.ubu.com/film/cornell.html

Wayne Koestenbaum has published five books of poetry: Best-Selling Jewish Porn Films, Model Homes, The Milk of Inquiry, Rhapsodies of a Repeat Offender, and Ode to Anna Moffo and Other Poems. He has also published a novel, Moira Orfei in Aigues-Mortes, and five books of nonfiction: Andy Warhol, Cleavage, Jackie Under My Skin, The Queen's Throat (a National Book Critics Circle Award finalist), and Double Talk. He wrote the libretto for Michael Daugherty's opera, Jackie O. Koestenbaum's new book, Hotel Theory, will be published in June 2007. He is a Distinguished Professor of English at the CUNY Graduate Center, and currently also a Visiting Professor in the painting department of the Yale School of Art.

__ U B U W E B __
http://ubu.com

___ Choose the right car based on your needs. Check out Yahoo! Autos new Car Finder tool. http://autos.yahoo.com/carfinder/

↑ Index

104. CA Conrad
Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
Thu 6 Sep 2007

Dorothea Lasky needs no one's permission to act one way or the other. Those who actually read her poems understand exactly how and where she stands in this world. One of the strongest people and poets I've ever met in my life is Dorothea Lasky.

Lasky points directly at what you see and you know soon enough how lazy your eyes have been.

AWE is one of the best books of poetry of 2007, no doubt about it.

In 100 years when the rest of us are forgotten there will be Lasky.

CAConrad
http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

↑ Index

105. Jill Chan
Call for submissions
Thu 6 Sep 2007

Hi,

Poetry Sz:demystifying mental illness (http://poetrysz.blogspot.com) is calling for submissions.

Send 4-6 poems and a short bio in the body of your email to [redacted] .

Thanks.

regards

J Chan
editor

Sick sense of humor? Visit Yahoo! TV's
Comedy with an Edge to see what's on, when.
http://tv.yahoo.com/collections/222

↑ Index

106. cralan kelder

Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling

Thu 6 Sep 2007

---

^{3}irresponsible sex^{2} ?

On 9/6/07 3:36 AM, "crystal hoffman" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Half of my peers from the age of 10 to the age of 18 were home-schooled. In terms of socialization, they were far more mature. In terms of decision making, they've avoided nearly all of the pit falls of adolescence (ie drinking drugs irresponsible sex). In terms of education, I believe they were at the very least on par with the other half of my peers. However, I believe that ultimately the quality of a home-schooler's education relies solely on the effort that both parent and student put forth, as well as the level of the parents education. The difference can vary between that of a poorly funded rural public school to that of a high priced private school.
>
> These generalizations are utterly useless, if you ask me.
>
> "W.B. Keckler" <[redacted]> wrote: i wish i could have been home schooled. it was a crime however when i was growing up. now it's just another choice you can make, which i think is great. i always hated forced socialization. even for things like birthday parties or like funerals. i was always impressed with quentin crisp's answer as a child to "what do you want to be when you grow up?" he always answered "an invalid." i'm sure proust would have approved.
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Charlie Rossiter
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Wed, 5 Sep 2007 1:20 am
> Subject: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
>
> I'm astonished to read the ill-informed post about home schooling
>
> Sorry, but that take on homeschooled kids is full of shit
>
> Actual date suggests that homeschoolers are, on average, above average. Think Lake Wobegone
>
> The idea that homeschoolsers are socially deficient is completely without support.
>
> Homeschoolers are way ahead of their peers in living in the world. They have less time with their age peers but they spend more time among normal > adults and as a result do not behave as complete dolts when an adult attempts to interact with them. Instead they treat the adult as a person and respnd appropriately

>
> I don't know where you get your information but it's completely off base. Homeschooling is generally a much better preparation for life (even the pathetic life that formal school offers).
>
> If you care about such things, data tells us that homeschooled kids score around 70-80 percentile on standardized tests. No wonder...consider the vocabulary one develops spending the day with an adult who has a half-way decent vocabulary when compared to spending one's days with little kids with little kids' vocab.
>
> Charlie
>
> _____
> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com
>
> ---
> Luggage? GPS? Comic books?
> Check out fitting gifts for grads at Yahoo! Search.

↑ Index

107. cralan kelder

Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling

Thu 6 Sep 2007

[3]they've avoided nearly all of the pit falls of adolescence (ie drinking drugs irresponsible sex). [2] = Sex, drugs, alcohol are bad

sounds like moralizing, which that would be a point of my objection to home-schooling, and I confess may have prompted me to respond to this post.

The inevitable will always come; children have to be socilaized, and join in to a society of their peers at some point. We brought our 8 month daughter, whose name is confusingly crash, to creche this week, where she takes her cues from the other children; movement, voice, sound, balance, sharing, not sharing, crying, laughing, the whole range of emotions. The other children are teaching her things that we cannot. She is joining her society here in our city, she is making friends her own age.

My objection to home-schooling, as I understand it, is based on my own bias: it sounds like advocates of home schooling think theres something wrong with the common values. Advocates of home-schooling are somehow contrarian. The most obvious example that comes to mind is creationism. i have no idea of the numbers but i would imagine a large percentage of home schoolers are advocates of church AND state partnership. When I was a child in california, our neighbors moved to idaho, to join a community with conservative religious values, and to home school. Thus, my biases also tell me thats theres more home schooling in the bible belt, places like idaho and utah Is this not true?

To my knowledge, the united states is the only occidental country currently failing to separate church and state.

The exception, as Will mentioned, might be that the quality of schooling is so bad that the children are not learning vocabulary and geography. I think the point is that as a society and community we should be able create educational institutions that work and meet universal needs.

I agree with Charlie; the individual success comes down only to the household, and that there is no common denominator, and with crystal its not possible to generalise either way, good or bad. Is there an "average" home-schooling profile?

bob & susan arnold of longhouse books home-schooled their son carson whom I am sure knows little of creationism, but plenty about biology, carpentry, music, poetry & literature. He is an excellent writer. He's a musician and music critic with an interesting blog; http://www.longhousepoetry.com/hear.html

Theres an absolutely fascinating interview that he conducted with Glenn Gould (who was by then a recluse holed up in a hotel) called The Glenn Gould Tape in Origin 6th series number 4 located here:
http://www.longhousepoetry.com/origin4.pdf

On 9/6/07 3:36 AM, "crystal hoffman" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Half of my peers from the age of 10 to the age of 18 were home-schooled. In terms of socialization, they were far more mature. In terms of decision making, they've avoided nearly all of the pit falls of adolescence (ie drinking drugs irresponsible sex). In terms of education, I believe they were at the very least on par with the other half of my peers. However, I believe that ultimately the quality of a home-schooler's education relies solely on the effort that both parent and student put forth, as well as the level of the parents education. The difference can vary between that of a poorly funded rural public school to that of a high priced private school.
>
> These generalizations are utterly useless, if you ask me.
>
> "W.B. Keckler" <[redacted]> wrote: i wish i could have been home schooled. it was a crime however when i was growing up. now it's just another choice you can make, which i think is great. i always hated forced socialization. even for things like birthday parties or like funerals. i was always impressed with quentin crisp's answer as a child to "what do you want to be when you grow up?" he always answered "an invalid." i'm sure proust would have approved.

-----Original Message-----
From: Charlie Rossiter
To: [redacted]
Sent: Wed, 5 Sep 2007 1:20 am
Subject: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling

I'm astonished to read the ill-informed post about home schooling

Sorry, but that take on homeschooled kids is full of shit

Actual date suggests that homeschoolers are, on average, above average. Think Lake Wobegone

The idea that homeschoolsers are socially deficient is completely without support.

Homeschoolers are way ahead of their peers in living in the world. They have less time with their age peers but they spend more time among normal adults and as a result do not behave as complete dolts when an adult attempts to interact with them. Instead they treat the adult as a person and respnd appropriately

I don't know where you get your information but it's completely off base. Homeschooling is generally a much better preparation for life (even the pathetic life that formal school offers).

If you care about such things, data tells us that homeschooled kids score around 70-80 percentile on standardized tests. No wonder...consider the vocabulary one develops spending the day with an adult who has a half-way decent vocabulary when compared to spending one's days with little kids with little kids' vocab.

Charlie

Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

> ---
> Luggage? GPS? Comic books?
> Check out fitting gifts for grads at Yahoo! Search.

↑ Index

108. Barry Schwabsky

Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

Thu 6 Sep 2007

I don't know Lasky or her work but...thanks, CA.
  In general, we male poets don't come in for critique and analysis of our personal style or idiosyncracies of self-presentation--lucky for us. Why are women subject to it?

CA Conrad <[redacted]> wrote: Dorothea Lasky needs no one's permission to act one way or the other. Those who actually read her poems understand exactly how and where she stands in this world. One of the strongest people and poets I've ever met in my life is Dorothea Lasky.

Lasky points directly at what you see and you know soon enough how lazy your eyes have been.

AWE is one of the best books of poetry of 2007, no doubt about it.

In 100 years when the rest of us are forgotten there will be Lasky.

CAConrad
http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

↑ Index

109. Elizabeth Switaj

Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling

Thu 6 Sep 2007

"irresponsible sex"

Responsible sex sounds really boring.

EKS

↑ Index

110. Dan Waber
Six Word Series, for Tom Beckett, by Crag Hill
Thu 6 Sep 2007

As we wave goodbye to the z of Dan Waber's illustrations from Boys, A-Z / A Primer, it's time to wave hello to the a of the Six Word Series, for Tom Beckett, by Crag Hill.

New series begins today at:

http://www.logolalia.com/abcdefghijklmnopqrstuvwxyz/

Regards,
Dan

Submissions of artworks based around the complete sequence of the roman alphabet which can be presented one letter at a time over the course of 26 days are invited. If you don't have a series of your own that fits that description, please consider making one.

↑ Index

111. amy king
Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
Thu 6 Sep 2007

Craig, In fact, her "permission" isn't questioned at all - of course she has it.

Barry, Something we also questioned are the questions posed -- and by whom. Why are talented women still asked what these interviewers are asking, and in turn, why do women still fall in line with the tone that fits the caliber of questions?

This phenomenon is not limited to Lasky and Newsome, not-so-incidentally. But maybe I'm just imagining this ancient form of "courtliness" ...?

Amy

Barry Schwabsky <[redacted]> wrote:
I don't know Lasky or her work but...thanks, CA.
In general, we male poets don't come in for critique and analysis of our personal style or idiosyncracies of self-presentation--lucky for us. Why are women subject to it?

CA Conrad wrote: Dorothea Lasky needs no one's permission to act one way or the other. Those who actually read her poems understand exactly how and where she stands in this world. One of the strongest people and poets I've ever met in my life is Dorothea Lasky.

Lasky points directly at what you see and you know soon enough how lazy your eyes have been.

AWE is one of the best books of poetry of 2007, no doubt about it.

In 100 years when the rest of us are forgotten there will be Lasky.

Boardwalk for $500? In 2007? Ha!
Play Monopoly Here and Now (it's updated for today's economy) at Yahoo! Games.

↑ Index

112. Dan Waber
August's $100 winner at vispoets.com
Thu 6 Sep 2007

In the reward for interestingness monthly event*, the winner for August is:

Amanda Earl for her contributions for the month. To note one particular image, please see:

ad infinitum

Congratulations to Amanda, there's $100 worth of Runaway Spoon Press publications on their way to you. Enjoy!

Thanks to everyone who uploaded images to the Gallery in June. Keep uploading new images for your chance to win.

*http://vispoets.com/index.php?showtopic=481
http://vispoets.com/index.php?automodule=gallery&req=si&img=1907
http://comprepoetica.com/RASP/RASP.html

Regards,
Dan

PS: if you have a press that publishes visual poetry and are able to send "$100 worth of publications, your choice, including postage" to future winners, please email me with your interest.

Our members have posted a total of 1502 images and made 204 comments.
Total Gallery Size: 285.34mb
Total Image Views: 28244

↑ Index

113. Thomas savage
Re: it's great to be senile
Thu 6 Sep 2007

Poets who imagine that it would be an improvement to be certifiably crazy have never spent time in a mental ward, which I did. I hospitalized myself ten years ago while recovering from brain surgery and was on the wrong medication.I got out in two weeks but saw plenty of people who were "truly crazy" who stayed in the lockup for longer periods of time. Since then, I have been reluctant to call people "crazy" unless they are disturbing and causing problems for other people for a significant period of time. This is for the business of Bernadette speculating about losing one's mind. As for senility, I can't say, having not reached that point quite yet. Is King Lear a dependable roadmap? I doubt it. Regards, Tom Savage

"W.B. Keckler" <[redacted]> wrote: I crossed wires and attributed Parshchikov's Blue Vitriol to Dragomoschenko...my bad...it's great to be senile..okay, senescent....it's a long train ride....

makes me think of that great sonnet by ms. Mayer...

"It would be nice to lose one's mind my mind
I'd like to lose it I wouldn't mind at all
To be in the lunatic asylum at last
All for you and for the taxi drivers

I'll go there and be asked what year what day it is & who's the president, how come he's a resident
I could teach prosody there but nobody
Knows what it is
So send me away to anybody
Anywhere who might
Not know something I might not
Since I must vice versa live

Whaddya mean perforce?
Army or navy or marines?"

love that one!

* Get a sneak peek of the all-new AOL at http://discover.aol.com/memed/aolcom30tour

---
Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search that gives answers, not web links.

↑ Index

114. W.B. Keckler

Joe Brainard's Pyjamas Needs Your Exhalations, Vociferations & Ululations

Thu 6 Sep 2007

Thazzright....recent poets/performance arts featured include Ric Royer, Sheila Black, Larissa Shmailo, Tony Trigilio and legion others. Looking for poetry (3 poems max and 60 lines max please) and fiction, preferably flash fiction but if I can cut and paste and it's good but longer will use...today's meditations include Sylvia Plath & Hamburger Helper, B.E.T. affectations, Profiles in Poetry & more, more I remember more...the void yawns for your words at http://joebrainardspyjamas.blogspot.com/

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

115. Ana Bozicevic-Bowling

Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

Thu 6 Sep 2007

Hi all,

a brief clarification -- in the case of Joanna Newsom's interview, the questions posed her can & should be under question, as they were selected by the interviewer; for Lasky's interview, though, questions from the Proust Questionnaire were used:

http://perso.orange.fr/chabrieres/proustquestionnaire.html

and only the tone of the conversation is supplied by the interviewer/interviewee.

If these artists were anything other than brilliant & intriguing, I doubt their artistic/public personae would be of interest to me or anyone else, or be the object of my admiring analysis. They're their own best champions. And how they present does matter.

Thanks, all, for reading...

Ana

Amy King wrote:

Craig, In fact, her "permission" isn't questioned at all - of course she has it.

Barry, Something we also questioned are the questions posed -- and by whom. Why are talented women still asked what these interviewers are asking, and in turn, why do women still fall in line with the tone that fits the caliber of questions?

This phenomenon is not limited to Lasky and Newsome, not-so-incidentally. But maybe I'm just imagining this ancient form of "courtliness" ...?

Amy

Barry Schwabsky <[redacted]> wrote:
I don't know Lasky or her work but...thanks, CA.
In general, we male poets don't come in for critique and analysis of our personal style or idiosyncracies of self-presentation--lucky for us. Why are women subject to it?

CA Conrad wrote: Dorothea Lasky needs no one's permission to act one way or the other. Those who actually read her poems understand exactly how and where she stands in this world. One of the strongest people and poets I've ever met in my life is Dorothea Lasky.

Lasky points directly at what you see and you know soon enough how lazy your eyes have been.

AWE is one of the best books of poetry of 2007, no doubt about it.

In 100 years when the rest of us are forgotten there will be Lasky.

↑ Index

116. Cassandra Laity
Eliot book now in paperback
Thu 6 Sep 2007

Hi everyone,

Nancy Gish's and my edition _Gender, Sexuality, and Desire in T.S. Eliot_ (Cambridge, 2004) is now available at Amazon in paperback if anyone is interested.

http://www.amazon.com/Gender-Desire-Sexuality-T-Eliot/dp/0521039460/ref=ed_oe_p/002-8536051-0578415

Cassandra

Cassandra Laity
Associate Professor
Co-Editor Modernism/Modernity
Drew University
Madison, NJ 07940

↑ Index

117. Skip Fox
Re: it's great to be senile
Thu 6 Sep 2007

I worked as an attendant for 7 years at state mental hospitals in Ohio. Good fellow workers, decent conditions, but most patients were miserable. I'd not recommend it. My father died of congestive heart failure and Alzheimer's disease. Facing the possibility of such a future and what it would mean to my life
(I teach), I don't overly worry about it (what the hell are you going to do anyway?) but I certainly don't glamorize it, even in daydreams.

Who knows what blank means?
(sticka du jour)

-----Original Message-----
From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Thomas savage
Sent: Thursday, September 06, 2007 9:33 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: it's great to be senile

Poets who imagine that it would be an improvement to be certifiably crazy have never spent time in a mental ward, which I did. I hospitalized myself ten years ago while recovering from brain surgery and was on the wrong medication.I got out in two weeks but saw plenty of people who were "truly crazy" who stayed in the lockup for longer periods of time. Since then, I have been reluctant to call people "crazy" unless they are disturbing and causing problems for other people for a significant period of time. This is for the business of Bernadette speculating about losing one's mind. As for senility, I can't say, having not reached that point quite yet. Is King Lear a dependable roadmap? I doubt it. Regards, Tom Savage

"W.B. Keckler" <[redacted]> wrote: I crossed wires and attributed Parshchikov's Blue Vitriol to Dragomoschenko...my bad...it's great to be senile..okay, senescent....it's a long train ride....

makes me think of that great sonnet by ms. Mayer...

"It would be nice to lose one's mind my mind
I'd like to lose it I wouldn't mind at all
To be in the lunatic asylum at last
All for you and for the taxi drivers

I'll go there and be asked what year what day it is & who's the president, how come he's a resident
I could teach prosody there but nobody
Knows what it is
So send me away to anybody
Anywhere who might
Not know something I might not
Since I must vice versa live

Whaddya mean perforce?
Army or navy or marines?"

love that one!

* Get a sneak peek of the all-new AOL

at
http://discover.aol.com/memed/aolcom30tour

Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search that gives answers, not web links.

↑ Index

118. Amanda Earl
August's $100 winner at vispoets.com
Thu 6 Sep 2007

---

thanks to Dan and the press for its donation. what a lovely way to inspire. i look forward to the publications. i've got a lot to learn and i find vispoets.com to be full of useful resources and interesting work.

please excuse the cross posting.

amanda

↑ Index

119. David Chirot
FW: Peace action: ACT TODAY //Congress set to analyse White House report on Iraq, General Petraeus will
Thu 6 Sep 2007

Date: Thu, 6 Sep 2007 00:34:51 -0400

From: [redacted]
To: [redacted]
Subject: Congress set to analyse White House report on Iraq, General Petraeus will only testify

<http://www.democracyinaction.org/dia/track.jsp?v=2&c=9HSF1mZGwkaYHYPZRSjYs3KcThYve998>

Dear David, Given the importance of this oversight action, and the rhetoric spouted by the Bush administration on Iran -- now is a pivotal time to TAKE ACTION. Join the nationwide effort to flood the offices of our member of Congress with calls demanding an end to the U.S. war in Iraq and no new war with Iran.

Call your Representative and both Senators on Thursday, September 6th, TODAY. The number for the Congressional switchboard is: [redacted].

Tell them: I want you to act now to end the war and occupation of Iraq and to prevent a war with Iran. Congress has the Constitutional right and a moral responsibility to use the power of the purse to *withdraw all U.S. soldiers and contractors from Iraq on a rapid and binding schedule. * Congress must act to prevent a catastrophic war with Iran, and speak out against the Bush Administration's reckless escalation of rhetoric and provocative actions against Iran.

Not sure who represents you in Congress? Look Here.<http://www.democracyinaction.org/dia/track.jsp?v=2&c=eWF3JoG7cPYb13l%2B/5EKind2K8HyAgj2> Background: Iraq Spending: In September, Congress will focus on Iraq. They will vote on the President's request for continued funding of the war. At this writing, the request stands at $142 billion, but Bush will probably increase it to over $190 billion! Congress is not required to give Bush any of this money, or even to bring the request to a vote. Congress can also put restrictions, firm withdrawal time lines and other conditions on any funding in order to force an end to the U.S. occupation of Iraq.

Iran: On August 28, President Bush announced that he has authorized US forces in Iraq to confront Iran militarily. "I have authorized our military commanders in Iraq to confront Tehran's murderous activities," Bush said in a speech to US war veterans in Reno. Simultaneously, US forces raided a hotel in Baghdad and detained ten Iranians who were part of a delegation that had been invited to Iraq to help with reconstruction.

The harshness and frequency of the rhetoric has steadily increased. Last week the Bush administration announced its intention to designate the IRGC as a terrorist entity, an unprecedented move. This week in Reno, the President reiterated accusations that Iran was smuggling weapons into Iraq while chastising the Iraqi prime minister for his diplomatic relations with Iran. Left unchallenged, all these steps point in one, undeniable direction: War.

The recent moves follow a familiar pattern. In January 2007, the President accused Iran of supplying IED's to Iraqi insurgents, signaling his intention to use military force to attack Iran. Simultaneously, US forces detained five Iranians at an Iranian consulate in the Iraqi city of Irbil. Congress successfully averted crisis through swift and strong reactions to the escalated rhetoric. Congress took immediate action by challenging the President to provide evidence for the claims.

Now, as the White House is once again escalating tensions, Congress must act to prevent war from occurring.
In Peace,
Barbra J. Bearden
Communication Associate,
Peace Action
P.S.
We've been nominated for the Peace Primary. It's truly an honor to be among the 12 organizations nominated for this prize. The 10,000 dollar award would truly be an extraordinary gift to the work we do. You can nominate Peace Action on the contest website<http://www.democracyinaction.org/dia/track.jsp?v=2&c=ZI9qiRSPKm/ed/MMMfWgZnd2K8HyAgj2>.
It's just a dollar a vote -- I spend that on American Idol!

<http://www.democracyinaction.org/dia/track.jsp?v=2&c=xmhH47Cz/AiJ8ZOhZXBpVHd2K8HyAgj2>

Click here to subscribe to the Action Alert Network*
*<http://www.democracyinaction.org/dia/track.jsp?v=2&c=M5g8UweTQA%2BYHYPZRSjYs3KcThYve998>
*

**

Call Congress
*TODAY! Thursday, September 6th
Call: [redacted]*
**
*On Our Website
*Peace Action Nomiated for Peace Primary<http://www.democracyinaction.org/dia/track.jsp?v=2&c=MCXHLoinJJ6YHYPZRSjYs3KcThYve998>
*

You can vote online
*Sign our Petition<http://www.democracyinaction.org/dia/track.jsp?v=2&c=6WIjRsPyj7Gb9QG4lxCb/Xd2K8HyAgj2>Agianst U.S. Arms Deals to the Middle East
***
Latest Headlines
 Iraq<http://www.democracyinaction.org/dia/track.jsp?v=2&c=hzlsGYozRS6GN13mRL65lHd2K8HyAgj2>
Iran<http://www.democracyinaction.org/dia/track.jsp?v=2&c=lBYu9sRxZUfQ9ks12lRE6Xd2K8HyAgj2>

Invite your mail contacts to join your friends list with Windows Live Spaces. It's easy! Try it!<http://spaces.live.com/spacesapi.aspx?wx_action=create&wx_url=/friends.aspx&mkt=en-us>

↑ Index

120. Halvard Johnson
Re: it's great to be senile
Thu 6 Sep 2007

Take my word for it, Tom, you'll love it when you get here.

Hal

"We don't serve fine wine in half-pints, buddy."
--Robert Ashley

Halvard Johnson
==========
[redacted]
http://home.earthlink.net/~halvard/index.html
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org
http://home.earthlink.net/~halvard/vidalocabooks.html

On Sep 6, 2007, at 10:33 AM, Thomas savage wrote:

> As for senility, I can't say, having not reached that point quite yet.

↑ Index

121. W.B. Keckler
Re: it's great to be senile
Thu 6 Sep 2007

I think (and this is speculation) that it was a poem written in the excess of exuberation and comcomitant frustration that turbulent and uncertain love brings...and that in such scenarios one imagines calm safe harbors everywhere if elsewhere...away from the intensity...the fact that she imagined THAT as a safe harbor is what made it work and still work for me...the "no place to lay one's head" biblical thing sorta...

and you know poets...they like...exagerrate and stuff...

-----Original Message-----
From: Skip Fox <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Thu, 6 Sep 2007 12:15 pm
Subject: Re: it's great to be senile

I worked as an attendant for 7 years at state
mental hospitals in Ohio. Good fellow workers, decent conditions, but most patients were miserable. I'd not recommend it. My father died of congestive heart failure and Alzheimer's disease. Facing the possibility of such a future and what it would mean to my life
(I teach), I don't overly worry
about it (what the hell are you going to do anyway?) but I certainly don't glamorize it, even in daydreams.

Who knows what blank means?
(sticka du jour)

-----Original Message-----
From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Thomas savage
Sent: Thursday, September 06, 2007 9:33 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: it's great to be senile

Poets who imagine that it would be an improvement to be certifiably crazy have never spent time in a mental ward, which I did. I hospitalized myself ten years ago while recovering from brain surgery and was on the wrong medication.I got out in two weeks but saw plenty of people who were "truly crazy" who stayed in the lockup for longer periods of time. Since then, I have been reluctant to call people "crazy" unless they are disturbing and causing problems for other people for a significant period of time. This is for the business of Bernadette speculating about losing one's mind. As for senility, I can't say, having not reached that point quite yet. Is King Lear a dependable roadmap? I doubt it. Regards, Tom Savage

"W.B. Keckler" <[redacted]> wrote: I crossed wires and attributed Parshchikov's Blue Vitriol to Dragomoschenko...my bad...it's great to be senile..okay, senescent....it's a long train ride....

makes me think of that great sonnet by ms. Mayer...

"It would be nice to lose one's mind my mind
I'd like to lose it I wouldn't mind at all
To be in the lunatic asylum at last
All for you and for the taxi drivers

I'll go there and be asked what year what day it is & who's the president, how come he's a resident
I could teach prosody there but nobody
Knows what it is
So send me away to anybody
Anywhere who might
Not know something I might not
Since I must vice versa live

Whaddya mean perforce?
Army or navy or marines?"

love that one!

* Get a sneak peek of the all-new AOL at
http://discover.aol.com/memed/aolcom30tour

Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search that gives answers, not web links.

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

122. Brian Howe

Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

Thu 6 Sep 2007

This problem is still rampant in music criticism, it's built into the words some male critics use-- songbird, songstress, and diva, just to name a few-- when discussing female musicians; this in the (probably unconscious) service of infantalizing female musicians and reducing them to a state of cutesy kitsch. also the tacit assumption, particularly relating to female pop stars, that they're basically puppets with some male Svengali doing all the heavy mental lifting in the wings-- and in some cases this may be true, but male critics of a certain stripe (hardboiled indie dudes or aging rockists) seem to make the assumption much more readily about Gwen Stefani than Justin Timberlake. Music expresses culture, and this sort of condescending criticism by males simply expresses a mindset still prevalent in the culture. For what it's worth, I've interviewed Joanna Newsom -- not only is she a brilliant and classically trained musician, she's one of the most intelligent and articulate people I've interviewed, which you wouldn't pick up on from that video.

Best,
Brian

On 9/6/07, Ana Bozicevic-Bowling <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Hi all,
>
> a brief clarification -- in the case of Joanna Newsom's interview, the > questions posed her can & should be under question, as they were selected > by
> the interviewer; for Lasky's interview, though, questions from the Proust > Questionnaire were used:
>
> http://perso.orange.fr/chabrieres/proustquestionnaire.html
>
> and only the tone of the conversation is supplied by the > interviewer/interviewee.
>
> If these artists were anything other than brilliant & intriguing, I doubt > their artistic/public personae would be of interest to me or anyone else,
> or > be the object of my admiring analysis. They're their own best champions.
> And
> how they present does matter.
>

> Thanks, all, for reading...
>
> Ana
>
>
>
>
> Amy King wrote:
>
> Craig, In fact, her "permission" isn't questioned at all - of course
> she has it.
>
> Barry, Something we also questioned are the questions posed -- and > by whom. Why are talented women still asked what these interviewers > are asking, and in turn, why do women still fall in line with the > tone that fits the caliber of questions?
>
> This phenomenon is not limited to Lasky and Newsome, > not-so-incidentally. But maybe I'm just imagining this ancient form > of "courtliness" ...?
>
> Amy
>
> Barry Schwabsky <[redacted]> wrote:
> I don't know Lasky or her work but...thanks, CA.
> In general, we male poets don't come in for critique and analysis of > our personal style or idiosyncracies of self-presentation--lucky for > us. Why are women subject to it?
>
> CA Conrad wrote:
> Dorothea Lasky needs no one's permission to act one way or the other.
> Those
> who actually read her poems understand exactly how and where she stands
in > this world. One of the strongest people and poets I've ever met in my life > is Dorothea Lasky.
>
> Lasky points directly at what you see and you know soon enough how lazy
> your > eyes have been.
>
> AWE is one of the best books of poetry of 2007, no doubt about it.

>
> In 100 years when the rest of us are forgotten there will be Lasky.
>

↑ Index

123. Barry Schwabsky

Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

Thu 6 Sep 2007

Speaking of the svengali trip, one of my favorite recent albums is Ballad of the Broken Seas by Isobel Campbell and Mark Lanegan--in part because I love how the tables are turned: the frail-voiced, cello-playing woman becomes the svengali for the gravel-voiced, hard-rocking guy.

Brian Howe <[redacted]> wrote: This problem is still rampant in music criticism, it's built into the words some male critics use-- songbird, songstress, and diva, just to name a few-- when discussing female musicians; this in the (probably unconscious) service of infantalizing female musicians and reducing them to a state of cutesy kitsch. also the tacit assumption, particularly relating to female pop stars, that they're basically puppets with some male Svengali doing all the heavy mental lifting in the wings-- and in some cases this may be true, but male critics of a certain stripe (hardboiled indie dudes or aging rockists) seem to make the assumption much more readily about Gwen Stefani than Justin Timberlake. Music expresses culture, and this sort of condescending criticism by males simply expresses a mindset still prevalent in the culture. For what it's worth, I've interviewed Joanna Newsom -- not only is she a brilliant and classically trained musician, she's one of the most intelligent and articulate people I've interviewed, which you wouldn't pick up on from that video.

Best,
Brian

On 9/6/07, Ana Bozicevic-Bowling wrote:
>
> Hi all,
>
> a brief clarification -- in the case of Joanna Newsom's interview, the > questions posed her can & should be under question, as they were selected
> by
> the interviewer; for Lasky's interview, though, questions from the Proust > Questionnaire were used:
>
> http://perso.orange.fr/chabrieres/proustquestionnaire.html
>

> and only the tone of the conversation is supplied by the > interviewer/interviewee.
>
> If these artists were anything other than brilliant & intriguing, I doubt > their artistic/public personae would be of interest to me or anyone else,
> or
> be the object of my admiring analysis. They're their own best champions.
> And
> how they present does matter.
>
> Thanks, all, for reading...
>
> Ana
>
>
>
>
> Amy King wrote:
>
> Craig, In fact, her "permission" isn't questioned at all - of course
> she has it.
>
> Barry, Something we also questioned are the questions posed -- and > by whom. Why are talented women still asked what these interviewers > are asking, and in turn, why do women still fall in line with the > tone that fits the caliber of questions?
>
> This phenomenon is not limited to Lasky and Newsome, > not-so-incidentally. But maybe I'm just imagining this ancient form > of "courtliness" ...?
>
> Amy
>
> Barry Schwabsky wrote:
> I don't know Lasky or her work but...thanks, CA.
> In general, we male poets don't come in for critique and analysis of > our personal style or idiosyncracies of self-presentation--lucky for > us. Why are women subject to it?
>
> CA Conrad wrote:
> Dorothea Lasky needs no one's permission to act one way or the other.
> Those

> who actually read her poems understand exactly how and where she stands in > this world. One of the strongest people and poets I've ever met in my life > is Dorothea Lasky.
>
> Lasky points directly at what you see and you know soon enough how lazy
> your > eyes have been.
>
> AWE is one of the best books of poetry of 2007, no doubt about it.
>
> In 100 years when the rest of us are forgotten there will be Lasky.
>

↑ Index

124. W.B. Keckler

Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

Thu 6 Sep 2007

---

you can infantilize gwen all you want...she'll go with it...she's "feeling yummy head to toe"...and she had the best pop lyric this year i think "p...you crazy...where u get this? this sounds like disco Tetris"...talking to pharell...i think the general rule of thumb is if they stick their finger in their mouth at any time flirtatiously?during a performance it's ok to assume the role of a bimbo interviewer interviewing a bimbette...but hopefully you're both making a lot of? money while doing it...was it paula yates who used to conduct all her interviews in bed with rock stars...i think that's a good way to get rid of the tensions and seriosity...i'm not sure if she interviewed, say, leonard bernstein, like that....i think she stayed more on the pop twinkie side of things...poor?paula ?r.i.p....she and hutchence allegedly victims of the canonization of Sir Geldof....

-----Original Message-----
From: Brian Howe <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Thu, 6 Sep 2007 1:18 pm
Subject: Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

This problem is still rampant in music criticism, it's built into the words some male critics use-- songbird, songstress, and diva, just to name a few-- when discussing female musicians; this in the (probably unconscious) service of infantalizing female musicians and reducing them to a state of cutesy kitsch. also the tacit assumption, particularly relating to female pop stars, that they're basically puppets with some male Svengali doing all the heavy mental lifting in the wings-- and in some cases this may be true, but male critics of a certain stripe (hardboiled indie dudes or aging rockists) seem to make the assumption much more readily about Gwen Stefani than Justin Timberlake. Music expresses culture, and this sort of condescending criticism by males simply expresses a mindset still prevalent in the culture. For what it's worth, I've interviewed Joanna Newsom -- not only is she a brilliant and classically trained musician, she's one of the most intelligent and articulate people I've interviewed, which you wouldn't pick up on from that video.

Best,
Brian

On 9/6/07, Ana Bozicevic-Bowling <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Hi all,
>
> a brief clarification -- in the case of Joanna Newsom's interview, the > questions posed her can & should be under question, as they were selected
> by
> the interviewer; for Lasky's interview, though, questions from the Proust > Questionnaire were used:
>
> http://perso.orange.fr/chabrieres/proustquestionnaire.html
>
> and only the tone of the conversation is supplied by the
> interviewer/interviewee.
>
> If these artists were anything other than brilliant & intriguing, I doubt > their artistic/public personae would be of interest to me or anyone else,
> or
> be the object of my admiring analysis. They're their own best champions.
> And
> how they present does matter.
>
> Thanks, all, for reading...
>
> Ana
>
>
>
>
> Amy King wrote:
>

> Craig, In fact, her "permission" isn't questioned at all - of course
> she has it.
>
> Barry, Something we also questioned are the questions posed -- and > by whom. Why are talented women still asked what these interviewers > are asking, and in turn, why do women still fall in line with the > tone that fits the caliber of questions?
>
> This phenomenon is not limited to Lasky and Newsome, > not-so-incidentally. But maybe I'm just imagining this ancient form > of "courtliness" ...?
>
> Amy
>
> Barry Schwabsky <[redacted]> wrote:
> I don't know Lasky or her work but...thanks, CA.
> In general, we male poets don't come in for critique and analysis of > our personal style or idiosyncracies of self-presentation--lucky for > us. Why are women subject to it?
>
> CA Conrad wrote:
> Dorothea Lasky needs no one's permission to act one way or the other.
> Those
> who actually read her poems understand exactly how and where she stands
in > this world. One of the strongest people and poets I've ever met in my life > is Dorothea Lasky.
>
> Lasky points directly at what you see and you know soon enough how lazy
> your > eyes have been.
>
> AWE is one of the best books of poetry of 2007, no doubt about it.
>
> In 100 years when the rest of us are forgotten there will be Lasky.
>

_____ Email
and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! -
http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

125. Jennifer Karmin
JOB: Wichita State University
Thu 6 Sep 2007

(this is a forward. please don't respond to me.
good luck!)

Wichita State University

Director of Creative Writing & Assistant/Associate Professor of English in Creative Writing, tenure eligible, beginning spring or fall 2008.

Seeking a published creative writer, a poet or fiction writer, additional creative nonfiction writing publications a strength, who has some administrative experience, to assume the directorship of a nationally-recognized MFA program & an undergraduate creative writing program.

Salary & benefits competitive.

Qualifications:
terminal degree in creative writing, publications (including at least one book from a recognized literary publishing house), teaching experience at the university level, evidence of administrative experience, successful experience working with diverse populations.

Please send a letter of application, c.v., book, & names of three references, with contact information,
to:
Margaret Dawe, Chair
Department of English
Wichita State University
Wichita, KS 67260-0014.

To ensure full consideration, applications must be postmarked by October 8; however, the position will remain open until filled.

___ Be a better Globetrotter. Get better travel answers from someone who knows. Yahoo! Answers - Check it out. http://answers.yahoo.com/dir/?link=list&sid=396545469

↑ Index

126. Herb Levy
Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
Thu 6 Sep 2007

Barry Schwabsky wrote:
> Speaking of the svengali trip, one of my favorite recent albums is Ballad of the Broken Seas by Isobel Campbell and Mark Lanegan--in part because I love how the tables are turned: the frail-voiced, cello-playing woman becomes the svengali for the gravel-voiced, hard-rocking guy.
>
>
Uh, that may be the premise of the story of the songs on the album or something, I don't know because I haven't heard it.

But Lanegan's been making records since the grunge scare of the mid to late 1980s (he was in Screaming Trees) and the band that Campbell was in earlier, Belle & Sebastian, didn't begin recording til some time in the mid-1990s.

So who's the Svengali here?

↑ Index

127. crystal hoffman
Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
Thu 6 Sep 2007

I'm very surprised that there seems to be such an aversion to the use of condoms amongst some of you!

Elizabeth Switaj <[redacted]> wrote: "irresponsible sex"

Responsible sex sounds really boring.

EKS

Ready for the edge of your seat? Check out tonight's top picks on Yahoo! TV.

↑ Index

128. crystal hoffman
Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
Thu 6 Sep 2007

Myself (as well as my home-schooled friends) are quite happy living herpes free lives...but whatever turns you on, I suppose.

Elizabeth Switaj <[redacted]> wrote: "irresponsible sex"

Responsible sex sounds really boring.

EKS

Park yourself in front of a world of choices in alternative vehicles.
Visit the Yahoo! Auto Green Center.

↑ Index

129. Maria Damon
Re: North-5 Text-4
Thu 6 Sep 2007

---

gorgeous!

Joel Weishaus wrote:
> This is Text #24 of 25:
>
> http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/North/North-5/text-4.htm
>
> Introduction to project:
> http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/North/Intro.htm
>
>
> Notes:
> Designed for 1024X768 screen resolution; Medium size fonts; MS Explorer browser preferred.
> References open by placing cursor over text.
>
> -Joel Weishaus
>

↑ Index

130. Joel Weishaus
North-5 Text-4
Thu 6 Sep 2007

This is Text #24 of 25:

http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/North/North-5/text-4.htm

Introduction to project:
http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/North/Intro.htm

Notes:
Designed for 1024X768 screen resolution; Medium size fonts; MS Explorer browser preferred.

References open by placing cursor over text.

-Joel Weishaus

↑ Index

131. mIEKAL aND
Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
Thu 6 Sep 2007

---

part of the problem with this discussion is people are making generalizations about a concept which really has always existed in this world since the beginning of civilization. the discussion seems to be focussed on one extremely specific form of home-schooling which revolves around removing your children from public schools so they can be indoctrinated into a religion. believe me, unschooling / homeschooling (which really are quite different things) is far more diverse than that. in our part of the country more than 25% of the kids I know are homeschooled at least till high school, at which point they join one of the alternative high schools. my son Liaizon was unschooled until he was 12 or so. he was a voting member in our community when he was 7, was able to conduct a meeting, create an agenda, sponsor & solve problems from a very early age. at the same age he could also cook a meal for 25 in order to feed people. verbally & creative precocious, inventive, playful & quite happy. because he had very long hair & was into really different things than local kids, he would have met endless bullying & unwanted attention in the public schools. I know because that's what happened to me in the schools in this part of Wisconsin when I was, even into high school. Things haven't changed much in rural public schools.

~mIEKAL

↑ Index

132. steve d. dalachinsky
living music
Thu 6 Sep 2007

[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Cc: [redacted]
Date: Wed, 5 Sep 2007 14:47:50 -0400
Subject: Fw: RE: FW: The Living Theatre ~ presents ~ LIVING MUSIC (Fall Schedule) sorry for this mess here it is thus far a few missing

~ presents ~
Living Music

FALL 2007 SCHEDULE

Tuesday, Sept 11th at 9:30pm
Other Dimensions in Music with Roy Campbell, Daniel Carter, William Parker and Charles Downs (formerly Rashid Bakr) + very special guests

Tuesday Sept 18 @ 8 PM
Slammin the Infinite with/Steve Swell - trombone
Sabir Mateen - reeds
Matt Heyner - bass

Oct 6 11PM David Grollman

Friday, Oct 19th at 11pm
Test featuring Sabir Mateen, Daniel Carter, Tom Bruno and Matt Henner David Nuss Oct 20 & 30 with guests @ 11pm

all shows $10

The Living Theatre is located at 21 Clinton Street (F train to Delancey or 1st Ave)
http://www.livingtheatre.org/

↑ Index

133. Barry Schwabsky
Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
Thu 6 Sep 2007

She didn't "create" him, duh, but if you check out the record, she uses him as the mouthpiece for her concept.

Herb Levy <[redacted]> wrote: Barry Schwabsky wrote:
> Speaking of the svengali trip, one of my favorite recent albums is Ballad of the Broken Seas by Isobel Campbell and Mark Lanegan--in part because I love how the tables are turned: the frail-voiced, cello-playing woman becomes the svengali for the gravel-voiced, hard-rocking guy.
>
>
Uh, that may be the premise of the story of the songs on the album or something, I don't know because I haven't heard it.

But Lanegan's been making records since the grunge scare of the mid to late 1980s (he was in Screaming Trees) and the band that Campbell was in earlier, Belle & Sebastian, didn't begin recording til some time in the mid-1990s.

So who's the Svengali here?

↑ Index

134. Poetry Project
Events at The Poetry Project September 2007
Thu 6 Sep 2007

Dear ones,

Please join us.
Also, workshops begin soon. It is not too late to enroll! Scroll down for details.

Love,

The Poetry Project

TUESDAY, September 11, 7 - 9PM (FREE)
RECOLLECTIVE:
ST. MARK¹S CHURCH & THE ARTS PROJECTS OBSERVE 9/11

This event is sponsored by St. Mark¹s Church and will include readings and performances by the arts project¹s that call it home: The Poetry Project, Ontological Hysterical Theater and Danspace. The St. Mark's Choir and Reverend Billy will also perform. Join us in the sanctuary as we remember, reflect and create communally. Featured poets are Thom Donovan, Nathaniel Siegel and Christina Strong.

WRITING WORKSHOPS AT THE POETRY PROJECT:

BASIC AND BOLD: LOGOS R US PATRICIA SPEARS JONES
TUESDAYS AT 7PM: 10 SESSIONS BEGIN OCTOBER 9TH

Every writer finds a niche, a gesture, the thing that works in what they do. At some point it may become a style or convention. Sometimes it becomes a crutch. One way to break the mode is to be radical‹that is, return to the roots. What brought you to poetry in the first place? This is a workshop for writers who want to re-look at how the structure and elements of poetry provide the wherewithal to make poems that are as ambitious, thoughtful and innovative as you want them to be. There will be in class writing, assignments, reading, and a revision project called ‹CAN THIS POEM BE SAVED?‹ in which you bring a poem that simply has not come to closure; seems to be stuck; or needs to be looked at by fresh eyes in the hope of finding what could make it work. This workshop is geared toward writers who have been seriously writing for some time. Please submit 5-8 pages of poetry and a brief description of what you¹d like to accomplish in the workshop by September 28. African American poet, playwright and cultural commentator, Patricia Spears Jones is author of two collections, Femme du Monde and The Weather That Kills.

POETRY LAB: FORMS OF JOYFUL EXPERIMENTATION TODD COLBY
FRIDAYS AT 7PM: 10 SESSIONS BEGIN OCTOBER 12TH

In this workshop we'll forge new paths to the poem by investigating how far a poem can depart from being ³a poem² and yet still be a poem. We'll experiment with breath, heartbeat, movement, blogs, the alchemy of words, visions, letters to the editor, spontaneity, psychoanalysis, collaborations, appropriations and self-hypnosis, along with various traditional forms. The main objective is to create a supportive and inviting atmosphere in our joyfully experimental "Lab." A partial reading list will include: Hannah Weiner, Jacques Lacan, Gertrude Stein, Diane Williams, David Markson, Miranda July, Thomas Bernhard, Bill Knott, Arthur Rimbaud, Alice Notley, Mina Loy, Charles Olson, and Ludwig Wittgenstein. Todd Colby is the author of Tremble & Shine, Riot in the Charm Factory, Cush, and Ripsnort, all of which were published by Soft Skull Press.

WORLDLY AND INFINITELY DIMENSIONAL:
A WORKSHOP RACHEL LEVITSKY
SATURDAYS AT 12PM: 10 SESSIONS BEGIN OCTOBER 13

In these times, the possibilities by which we may amplify, record, document, display, shape, formulate, and publish words increases daily. Although expanded media and its wide reach are in themselves a meaningful fact of our times, they don¹t necessarily enhance a poetry¹s resonance. How do we, and by we I mean both ourselves as ones and ourselves as groups, best construct and perform our poetries so as to be present in these particular times and yet open to the infinite possibilities of ³projection,² ³conception,² ³performance²? Familiarizing ourselves with poets like Abigail Child, Julie Patton, Cecilia Vicuña, Bob Dylan, Linton Kwesi Johnson (some will be visiting the workshop), we will consider all means available and any means necessary to project living works into our world. Individually and collaboratively we¹ll construct performances, visual works, sound events, improvisations, etc. Rachel Levitsky is the author of Under the Sun (Futurepoem) and is the founder and co-editor of Belladonna Books.

The workshop fee is $350, which includes a one-year individual Poetry Project membership and tuition for any and all fall spring and fall classes. Reservations are required due to limited class space, and payment must be received in advance. Please send payment and reservations to: The Poetry Project, St. Mark¹s Church, 131 E. 10th St., NY, NY 10003. For more information please call [redacted] or e-mail [redacted].

MONDAY, September 24, 8pm
HETTIE JONES & JOAN LARKIN

Hettie Jones¹s twenty books for children and adults include her memoir of the Beat scene, How I Became Hettie Jones; the poetry collection Drive, which won the Poetry Society of America¹s Norma Farber Award; Big Star Fallin¹ Mama, Five Women in Black Music, honored by the New York Public Library; and No Woman No Cry, a memoir she authored for Bob Marley¹s widow, Rita. Just published are From Midnight to Dawn, the Last Tracks of the Underground Railroad (with Jacqueline Tobin), and a third poetry collection, Doing 70. Jones is the former Chair of the PEN Prison Writing Committee, and the editor of Aliens at the Border, a poetry collection from her workshop at the Bedford Hills Correctional Facility. Joan Larkin¹s most recent collection is My Body: New and Selected Poems (Hanging Loose Press). Previous books include Cold River (which received a 1997 Lambda Award),and Sor Juana¹s Love Poems (translated with Jaime Manrique). Larkin co-founded Out & Out Books during the feminist literary explosion of the 70¹s. She has served as poetry editor for the queer journal Bloom and co-edits the University of Wisconsin Press autobiography series, ³Living Out.² Her anthology of coming-out stories, A Woman Like That, was nominated for Publishing Triangle and Lambda awards for nonfiction. In her fourth decade of teaching writing, she teaches in the low-residency MFA program in Poetry at New England College.

WEDNESDAY, September 26, 8pm
LISA JARNOT & SPARROW

Lisa Jarnot was born in Buffalo, New York and now lives in Queens. She is the author of three full-length collections of poetry: Some Other Kind of Mission, Ring of Fire, and Black Dog Songs. Her biography of poet Robert Duncan is forthcoming from University of California Press. Her fourth full-length collection of poetry is forthcoming from Flood Editions. She is a teacher and a blogger. Sparrow is in the midst of his fifth campaign for President. He lives in Phoenicia, New York with his wife, Violet Snow, and his daughter Sylvia. Behind their house, an elderly rabbit named Bananacake resides in a rustic hutch. Sparrow writes the gossip column for the Phoenicia Times. (He invents all the gossip.) Sparrow's books are Republican Like Me: a Diary of My Presidential Campaign, Yes, You ARE a Revolutionary! and America: A Prophecy -- the Sparrow Reader (all on Soft Skull Press).

FRIDAY, September 28, 10pm
MASHA TUPITSYN & NORA, a film.

Masha Tupitsyn is a fiction writer and feminist critic who lives in New York City. She received her MA in Literature and Cultural Theory from the University of Sussex in England. Her fiction and criticism has been published or is forthcoming in the anthology Wreckage of Reason: XXperimental Women Writers Writing in the 21st Century, Make/Shift, and Bookforum, among other places. Beauty Talk & Monsters, her first book, is a collection of film-based stories recently published by Semiotext(e). She is currently working on her new book, Showtime. Masha¹s reading will be accompanied by a screening of Nora, a short narrative by Portland-based artists Holly Andres and Grace Carter, in which an afternoon encounter between two lovers plays out in an unusual fashion. The film examines gender roles in terms of sexuality, power, violence and commerce by using tools of the classic suspense/thriller genre, most notably Hitchcock's Psycho. Please visit them online at http://hollyandres.com/ & http://gracecarterfilms.com.

Become a Poetry Project Member! http://poetryproject.com/membership.php

Fall Calendar: http://www.poetryproject.com/calendar.php

The Poetry Project is located at St. Mark's Church-in-the-Bowery
131 East 10th Street at Second Avenue
New York City 10003
Trains: 6, F, N, R, and L.
[redacted]
www.poetryproject.com

Admission is $8, $7 for students/seniors and $5 for members (though now those who take out a membership at $85 or higher will get in FREE to all regular readings).

We are wheelchair accessible with assistance and advance
notice. For more info call [redacted].

If you¹d like to be unsubscribed from this mailing list, please drop a line at [redacted].

↑ Index

135. George Bowering

Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

Thu 6 Sep 2007

> My question is about the word "thusly."

As "thus" is an adverb, and "-ly" is an adverbial
ending, what is "thusly"?

Geo. Harry Bowering, M.A.
Fell down in Firenze

↑ Index

136. George Bowering
Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
Thu 6 Sep 2007

> Brian Howe <[redacted]> wrote: This problem is still rampant in music criticism, it's built into the words some male critics use-- songbird, songstress, and diva, just to name a few--

Wait, wait wait wait!

When did "diva" become a belittling word?
Does that mean that to call someone "divine" (source of the word "diva") is to insult her?

> Geo. H. Bowering
Adaptable yet reliable.

↑ Index

137. Ruth Lepson
Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
Thu 6 Sep 2007

---

agree wholeheartedly w/ CA--Dottie rules--she is never boring, which is saying something, & she manages to be funny & moral & political all at once.

On 9/6/07 6:26 AM, "Barry Schwabsky" <[redacted]> wrote:

> I don't know Lasky or her work but...thanks, CA.
> In general, we male poets don't come in for critique and analysis of our personal style or idiosyncracies of self-presentation--lucky for us. Why are women subject to it?
>
> CA Conrad <[redacted]> wrote:
> Dorothea Lasky needs no one's permission to act one way or the other. Those who actually read her poems understand exactly how and where she stands in this world. One of the strongest people and poets I've ever met in my life is Dorothea Lasky.
>
> Lasky points directly at what you see and you know soon enough how lazy your eyes have been.
>
> AWE is one of the best books of poetry of 2007, no doubt about it.
>
> In 100 years when the rest of us are forgotten there will be Lasky.

> CAConrad
> http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

↑ Index

138. Ruth Lepson

Re: Joe Brainard's Pyjamas Needs Your Exhalations, Vociferations & Ululations

Thu 6 Sep 2007

---

moving poem by tony trigilio--hi tony--thanks for yr review WB

On 9/6/07 10:49 AM, "W.B. Keckler" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Thazzright....recent poets/performance arts featured include Ric Royer, Sheila Black, Larissa Shmailo, Tony Trigilio and legion others. Looking for poetry (3 poems max and 60 lines max please) and fiction, preferably flash fiction but if I can cut and paste and it's good but longer will use...today's meditations include Sylvia Plath & Hamburger Helper, B.E.T. affectations, Profiles in Poetry & more, more I remember more...the void yawns for your words at http://joebrainardspyjamas.blogspot.com/
>
> _____
> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

139. midwest daisy

Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

Thu 6 Sep 2007

This is so interesting. How do you see Joni Mitchell fitting in here, into what you say? Recently, I have listened to her interviewed as a very young woman (here: http://archives.cbc.ca/IDD-1-68-2462/arts_entertainment/joni_mitchell/).

On 9/6/07, Brian Howe <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> This problem is still rampant in music criticism, it's built into the > words
> some male critics use-- songbird, songstress, and diva, just to name a > few-- > when discussing female musicians; this in the (probably unconscious) > service > of infantalizing female musicians and reducing them to a state of cutesy > kitsch. also the tacit assumption, particularly relating to female pop > stars, that they're basically puppets with some male Svengali doing all
> the > heavy mental lifting in the wings-- and in some cases this may be true,

> but > male critics of a certain stripe (hardboiled indie dudes or aging > rockists)
> seem to make the assumption much more readily about Gwen Stefani than > Justin
> Timberlake. Music expresses culture, and this sort of condescending > criticism by males simply expresses a mindset still prevalent in the > culture. For what it's worth, I've interviewed Joanna Newsom -- not only > is > she a brilliant and classically trained musician, she's one of the most > intelligent and articulate people I've interviewed, which you wouldn't > pick > up on from that video.
>
> Best,
> Brian
>
>
> On 9/6/07, Ana Bozicevic-Bowling <[redacted]> wrote:
> >
> > Hi all,
> >
> > a brief clarification -- in the case of Joanna Newsom's interview, the > > questions posed her can & should be under question, as they were > selected
> > by > > the interviewer; for Lasky's interview, though, questions from the > Proust
> > Questionnaire were used:
> >
> > http://perso.orange.fr/chabrieres/proustquestionnaire.html
> >
> > and only the tone of the conversation is supplied by the > > interviewer/interviewee.
> >
> > If these artists were anything other than brilliant & intriguing, I > doubt > > their artistic/public personae would be of interest to me or anyone > else,
> > or
> > be the object of my admiring analysis. They're their own best champions.
> > And

> > how they present does matter.
> >
> > Thanks, all, for reading...
> >
> > Ana
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > Amy King wrote:
> >
> > Craig, In fact, her "permission" isn't questioned at all - of course
> > she has it.
> >
> > Barry, Something we also questioned are the questions posed -- and > > by whom. Why are talented women still asked what these interviewers > > are asking, and in turn, why do women still fall in line with the > > tone that fits the caliber of questions?
> >
> > This phenomenon is not limited to Lasky and Newsome, > > not-so-incidentally. But maybe I'm just imagining this ancient form > > of "courtliness" ...?
> >
> > Amy
> >
> > Barry Schwabsky <[redacted]> wrote:
> > I don't know Lasky or her work but...thanks, CA.
> > In general, we male poets don't come in for critique and analysis of > > our personal style or idiosyncracies of self-presentation--lucky for > > us. Why are women subject to it?
> >
> > CA Conrad wrote:
> > Dorothea Lasky needs no one's permission to act one way or the other.
> > Those
> > who actually read her poems understand exactly how and where she stands
> in > > this world. One of the strongest people and poets I've ever met in my > life
> > is Dorothea Lasky.
> >
> > Lasky points directly at what you see and you know soon enough how lazy
> > your

> > eyes have been.
> >
> > AWE is one of the best books of poetry of 2007, no doubt about it.
> >
> > In 100 years when the rest of us are forgotten there will be Lasky.
> >
>

↑ Index

140. amy king

Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

Thu 6 Sep 2007

A compound suture.

George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote: > My question is about the word "thusly."

As "thus" is an adverb, and "-ly" is an adverbial
ending, what is "thusly"?

Take the Internet to Go: Yahoo!Go puts the Internet in your pocket: mail, news, photos & more.

↑ Index

141. Suzanne Burns

Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling

Thu 6 Sep 2007

Jeez guys, I WISH my brother would consider homeschooling my nephew-- who is brilliant, thoughtful, original and who thrives in hands on situations. I love ripping things apart with him and watching hyim learn how to put it all back together. Yesterday he asked me what was the difference between wisdom and knowledge. When he discovers and idea he loves, he literally wants to dance around the room with happiness.

I dread what will happen when he goes to school and has be quiet and sit still or be labelled "hyperactive". I think he would do well with unschooling because he is so naturally curious and interested in the world., He doesn't need to be squeezed into some standardized hole.

BTW, I think responsible sex is totally HOT. Nothing fires me up as much as a man who is thoughful and considerate by nature, and would never want to hurt me in a million years. You can keep the selfish creeps who only care about their own pleasure....

Suzanne Burns

On 9/6/07, crystal hoffman <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Myself (as well as my home-schooled friends) are quite happy living herpes > free lives...but whatever turns you on, I suppose.
>
> Elizabeth Switaj <[redacted]> wrote: "irresponsible sex"
>
> Responsible sex sounds really boring.
>
> EKS
>
>
>
> ---
> Park yourself in front of a world of choices in alternative vehicles.
> Visit the Yahoo! Auto Green Center.
>

↑ Index

142. Bobbi Lurie

Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

Thu 6 Sep 2007

---

thusÂ·lyÂ (sl)
adv. Usage Problem
Thus.

Usage Note: Thusly was introduced in the 19th century as an alternative to thus in sentences such as Hold it thus or He put it thus. It appears to have first been used by humorists, who may have been echoing the speech of poorly educated people straining to sound stylish. The word has subsequently gained some currency in educated usage, but it is still often regarded as incorrect. A large majority of the Usage Panel found it unacceptable in an earlier survey. In formal writing thus can still be used as in the examples above; in other styles this way, like this, and other such expressions are more natural.

A compound suture.
George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote: > My question is about the word thusly."
As "thus" is an adverb, and "-ly" is an adverbial
nding, what is "thusly"?

---
ake the Internet to Go: Yahoo!Go puts the Internet in your pocket: mail, news, hotos & more.

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

143. Ruth Lepson
Re: O Books 9/11 reading at City Lights
Thu 6 Sep 2007

Wish I cd be there, Leslie. Wd you backchannel if you know how to reach Jono Schneider? Many thanks.
Ruth

On 9/4/07 4:34 PM, "Leslie Scalapino" <[redacted]> wrote:

> 9/11-O Books reading at City Lights: Michael McClure, Lyn Hejinian, Rob Halpern, Leslie Scalapino,
>
> Suzanne Stein, Jocelyn Saidenberg, and
>
> Jen Scappettone will celebrate the publication of War and Peace 3/The Future, co-edited by Judith Goldman and Leslie Scalapino, published by O Books and featuring forty poets. The time of the reading is 7:00 PM on Tuesday 9/11/2007. City Lights Books, 261 Columbus at Broadway in San Francisco.
>
> War and Peace 3/The Future, O Books, 168 pages, $14. ISBN # 1-882022-65-3. Distributed by Small Press Distribution: 1341 Seventh St. Berkeley CA 94710.

↑ Index

144. Gabrielle Welford
Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
Fri 7 Sep 2007

absolutely, re: this is a concept that was normal before compulsory public education was an "aha! moment" for the upper classes in england around the time of the french revolution--make the buggahs upwardly mobile--that'll fix em... my son had very long hair when he was in 2d grade and onward, and that and his independent thinking made things much harder for him. he took a year off and stayed home for 4th grade--did nothing--and went straight back into 5th grade without a problem. he's a free and deep thinker and feeler at 18, scraped through high school graduation because he can't stand being told what he should be interested in. from a proud mom. :-)

On Thu, 6 Sep 2007, mIEKAL aND wrote:

> part of the problem with this discussion is people are making generalizations about a concept which really has always existed in this world since the beginning of civilization. the discussion seems to be focussed on one extremely specific form of home-schooling which revolves around removing your children from public schools so they can be indoctrinated into a religion. believe me, unschooling / homeschooling (which really are quite different things) is far more diverse than that. in our part of the country more than 25% of the kids I know are homeschooled at least till high school, at which point they join one of the alternative high schools. my son Liaizon was unschooled until he was 12 or so. he was a voting member in our community when he was 7, was able to conduct a meeting, create an agenda, sponsor & solve problems from a very early age. at the same age he could also cook a meal for 25 in order to feed people. verbally & creative precocious, inventive, playful & quite happy. because he had very long hair & was into really different things than local kids, he would have met endless bullying & unwanted attention in the public schools. I know because that's what happened to me in the schools in this part of Wisconsin when I was, even into high school. Things haven't changed much in rural public schools.
>
> ~mIEKAL

↑ Index

145. Alan Sondheim

Grim(e) Day

Fri 7 Sep 2007

Grim(e) Day

This has been a grim day. Whenever I speak with my father, his hatred manages to hit home. From his viewpoint I'm a failure. He's been paying my health insurance; otherwise I'd die which might not be that much of a dis- pleasure to him. Thinking about this there were voices in my head which managed to expand into a world I prayed was out there, but am certain was just going on between cortex and ego. Yes, things manage to leap ontolo- gies just like that, the sign of madness. I listened to crystal, worked on rearrangement, all those voices spewed into the aether through systems of coils echoing one another, http://www.asondheim.org/echocoils.mp3 . I began to recognize the mockery of dissonance, played music and toppled the line upon itself with echos and delays as I thought what to do next, in the meantime beginning world-building once again with universal harmony, http://www.asondheim.org/universalharmony.mp3. By this time I was raging in tears fighting myself repeatedly, not that my health has been in good shape, it hasn't. I'm as far from my family as an event horizon filled with nothing worthwhile. I curled into myself. I curled farther into myself, I thought myself monad, I thought myself rage, I thought myself consort, I stopped thinking, I began again with the harmony of monads purring softly in molecular air, http://www.asondheim.org/harmonady.mp3 , open the windows, monads and let the soft flow healing in, the curing of rage against the selves swells to uncanny beauties that never makes the pain worthwhile.

↑ Index

146. Dan Waber
25 by Andrew Topel
Fri 7 Sep 2007

---

the minimalist concrete poetry site at:

http://www.logolalia.com/minimalistconcretepoetry/has been updated with 25 pieces by Andrew Topel.

"The trillionth part has not yet been said; and all that has been said, but multiplies the avenues to what remains to be said. It is not so much paucity, as superabundance of material that seems to incapacitate modern authors." -- Herman Melville

To which I would add: seems to incapacitate some modern authors, but not Andrew Topel, who meets superabundance head.

Come see one small drop in his bucket.

Enjoy,
Dan

↑ Index

147. Bobbi Lurie
Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
Fri 7 Sep 2007

---

most of all, you are blessed with an intelligent child. not all of us have children who have the capacity to do this.

-----Original Message-----
From: Gabrielle Welford <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Thu, 6 Sep 2007 11:48 pm
Subject: Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling

absolutely, re: this is a concept that was normal before compulsory public education was an "aha! moment" for the upper classes in england around the time of the french revolution--make the buggahs upwardly mobile--that'll fix em... my son had very long hair when he was in 2d grade and onward, and that and his independent thinking made things much harder for him. he took a year off and stayed home for 4th grade--did nothing--and went straight back into 5th grade without a problem. he's a free and deep thinker and feeler at 18, scraped through high school graduation because he can't stand being told what he should be interested in. from a proud mom. :-)

On Thu, 6 Sep 2007, mIEKAL aND wrote:

> part of the problem with this discussion is people are making generalizations about a concept which really has always existed in this world since the beginning of civilization. the discussion seems to be focussed on one extremely specific form of home-schooling which revolves around removing your children from public schools so they can be indoctrinated into a religion. believe me, unschooling / homeschooling (which really are quite different things) is far more diverse than that. in our part of the country more than 25% of the kids I know are homeschooled at least till high school, at which point they join one of the alternative high schools. my son Liaizon was unschooled until he was 12 or so. he was a voting member in our community when he was 7, was able to conduct a meeting, create an agenda, sponsor & solve problems from a very early age. at the same age he could also cook a meal for 25 in order to feed people. verbally & creative precocious, inventive, playful & quite happy. because he had very long hair & was into really different things than local kids, he would have met endless bullying & unwanted attention in the public schools. I know because that's what happened to me in the schools in this part of Wisconsin when I was, even into high school. Things haven't changed much in rural public schools.
>
> ~mIEKAL

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

148. Tom W. Lewis

Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

Fri 7 Sep 2007

first thought after watching the 'tube piece: there's 4+ minutes of my life I'll never get back -- and I try so hard not to think like that these days...

there is a general shallowness of self-presentation I think is in vogue now, and I take Ana's original post as an illustration of how creative women come off as ninnies when they're asked the "20 questions" or whatever -- I blame the context, not the subjects, in this case...

I will have to give D Lasky a read -- based solely on the YouTube questionnaire footage, she struck me as just another self-loathing female poet -- that said, I don't put much stock in anyone's "performance" when accosted with one-size-fits-all magazine questionnaires: irk.

"Suppose there were no questions what would the answer be." -- Gertrude Stein

-----Original Message-----
From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]]
On Behalf Of Ruth Lepson
Sent: Thursday, September 06, 2007 19:01
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

agree wholeheartedly w/ CA--Dottie rules--she is never boring, which is saying something, & she manages to be funny & moral & political all at once.

On 9/6/07 6:26 AM, "Barry Schwabsky" <[redacted]> wrote:

> I don't know Lasky or her work but...thanks, CA.
> In general, we male poets don't come in for critique and analysis of our > personal style or idiosyncracies of self-presentation--lucky for us.
Why are > women subject to it?
>
> CA Conrad <[redacted]> wrote:
> Dorothea Lasky needs no one's permission to act one way or the other. Those > who actually read her poems understand exactly how and where she stands in > this world. One of the strongest people and poets I've ever met in my life
> is Dorothea Lasky.
>
> Lasky points directly at what you see and you know soon enough how lazy your > eyes have been.
>
> AWE is one of the best books of poetry of 2007, no doubt about it.
>

> In 100 years when the rest of us are forgotten there will be Lasky.
>
> CAConrad
> http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

↑ Index

149. CA Conrad arrests made for hanging anti war protest posters for 9/15 march in DC
Fri 7 Sep 2007

I put links on The PhillySound this morning about this, it's SO FUCKED UP!
CAConrad
http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

↑ Index

150. cris cheek
Re: Nielsen Broadcast
Fri 7 Sep 2007

---

terrific Aldon

thnx;)

On 9/1/07, ALDON L NIELSEN <[redacted]> wrote: > Follow this URL to an audio file of my appearance today on Santa Barbara radio > talking about and playing selections from Amiri Baraka, Amina Baraka, William > Parker, Curtis Mayfield etc:
>
> <http://riff.coolmojo.net/>
>
>
> and while you're there, you might want to scroll down to the Oliver Lake > episode --
>
>
<<

> --Robert Kelly
>
> Sailing the blogosphere at: http://heatstrings.blogspot.com/
>
> Aldon L. Nielsen
> Kelly Professor of American Literature
> The Pennsylvania State University
> 116 Burrowes
> University Park, PA 16802-6200
>
> [redacted]
>

↑ Index

151. Brian Howe

Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

Fri 7 Sep 2007

I've seldom heard "diva" used in music journalism to indicate the divine, regardless of its origins. It seems more often deployed to insinuate the old "hysterical woman" stereotype, synonymous in tone with something like "prima donna". It's not explicitly insulting, it's part of a larger structural pattern of language from male critics that holds back a measure of artistic seriousness from female musicians. At any rate, "siren" might have been a better example, implying as it does (even in its literal sense) that the singer will lure you into danger with her magical song or some shit like that.

Best,
Brian

On 9/6/07, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> >
> >
> > Brian Howe <[redacted]> wrote: This problem is still > > rampant in music criticism, it's built into the words
> > some male critics use-- songbird, songstress, and diva, just to name a > > few--
>
> Wait, wait wait wait!
>
> When did "diva" become a belittling word?
> Does that mean that to call someone "divine" (source of the word "diva")

> is to insult her?
>
>
>
>
> > Geo. H. Bowering
> Adaptable yet reliable.
>

↑ Index

152. Zamsky, Robert

Voice and the Performance of Poetry

Fri 7 Sep 2007

I had an interesting conversation with a colleague of mine in our music department the other day that I thought I would share with the list. He regularly teaches a class on music-voice-text, and one of the issues he is interested in is poetic texts that resist vocalization/performance. As he and I discussed, it seems like such resistance could be categorized in a number of ways: features of the text that make it difficult to vocalize (such as working in several languages, unusual syntax or diction, etc.); features of the text that don't necessarily or obviously translate into vocalization (although punctuation, lineation, etc. always work at least partly at the acoustic level, they also often have other, overriding concerns); and, poetic texts that are engaged with the visual perhaps almost to the exclusion of the verbal. For this last, we were talking of course about concrete poetry and other "visual poetries" -- we spent a lot of time talking about Robert Grenier, for instance.

I found the conversation interesting partly because there is so much interest (on my part, at least), in the acoustic/musical/performance qualities of poetry, and it was useful to poke at the limit-cases of that concern.

I'm wondering if anyone else has any thoughts....

Thanks!

Robert L. Zamsky, PhD
Assistant Professor
New College of Florida

↑ Index

153. Halvard Johnson
Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
Fri 7 Sep 2007

The answer to Stein's question would be "Next question, please."

But, Tom, the moments to watch out for are the ones that keep coming back again and again and again and again and . . .

Hal

"The nation without great poets will not have great politicians."
--Saddam Hussein

Halvard Johnson
==========
[redacted]
http://home.earthlink.net/~halvard/index.html
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org
http://home.earthlink.net/~halvard/vidalocabooks.html

On Sep 7, 2007, at 10:50 AM, Tom W. Lewis wrote:

> *first thought after watching the 'tube piece: there's 4+ minutes of my life I'll never get back -- and I try so hard not to think like that these days...*
>
> there is a general shallowness of self-presentation I think is in vogue
> now, and I take Ana's original post as an illustration of how creative women come off as ninnies when they're asked the "20 questions" or whatever -- I blame the context, not the subjects, in this case...
>
> I will have to give D Lasky a read -- based solely on the YouTube questionnaire footage, she struck me as just another self-loathing female poet -- that said, I don't put much stock in anyone's "performance" when accosted with one-size-fits-all magazine questionnaires: irk.
>
> "Suppose there were no questions what would the answer be."
> -- Gertrude Stein
>
> -----Original Message-----

From: UB Poetics discussion group
[mailto:[redacted]]
On Behalf Of Ruth Lepson
Sent: Thursday, September 06, 2007 19:01
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

agree wholeheartedly w/ CA--Dottie rules--she is never boring, which is saying something, & she manages to be funny & moral & political all at once.

On 9/6/07 6:26 AM, "Barry Schwabsky" <[redacted]> wrote:

I don't know Lasky or her work but...thanks, CA.
In general, we male poets don't come in for critique and analysis of our personal style or idiosyncracies of self-presentation--lucky for us. Why are women subject to it?

CA Conrad <[redacted]> wrote:
Dorothea Lasky needs no one's permission to act one way or the other. Those who actually read her poems understand exactly how and where she stands in this world. One of the strongest people and poets I've ever met in my life is Dorothea Lasky.

Lasky points directly at what you see and you know soon enough how lazy your eyes have been.

AWE is one of the best books of poetry of 2007, no doubt about it.

In 100 years when the rest of us are forgotten there will be Lasky.

CAConrad
http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

↑ Index

154. Dodie Bellamy

Dodie Bellamy Fall Prose Workshop (in San Francisco)

Fri 7 Sep 2007

Writing Experiments Workshop
Dodie Bellamy

My fall workshop will meet 11 consecutive Tuesday evenings, from 7 to 10 p.m. The dates: September 25 through December 4. Cost: $350, with a $100 deposit due by September 18.

Most weeks students will be assigned a short take-home writing experiment which they will share with the class the following week. Assignments will range from cut ups to exploring bodily sensations. Assignments are geared towards the class dynamic, so they may eventually drop away or they may continue for the duration of the class.

Each week we will also critique longer pieces by two to five students. Students may bring in anything they want (up to 20 pages) for the longer critiques. Depending on the length, these longer pieces will be read aloud in class or handed out a week ahead of time. Though this class will have a prose focus, it is cross-genre, and poets are welcome. The class is limited to 10 students. Lots and lots of personal attention. It takes place in San Francisco, in my South of Market apartment, which comes complete with snacks and two cats.

This is a good class for poets wanting to play around with narrative or prose writers wanting to open up their prose. I won't be doing a workshop in the spring, but hope to do another one in the summer.

About me: Pink Steam, my collection of fiction, memoir, and memoiresque essays, was published in 2004 by San Francisco's Suspect Thoughts Press. My vampire novel, The Letters of Mina Harker was reprinted by University of Wisconsin Press, also in 2004. Academonia, a book of essays was published by Krupskaya in 2006. I'm the author of 3 other books and I teach creative writing at SF State, CCA and Antioch Los Angeles. I've also taught at CalArts, Naropa summer session, Mills, USF, UC Santa Cruz, and the SF Art Institute. I've received the Bay Guardian Goldie Award for Literature and the Firecracker Alternative Book Award for Poetry.

If you're interested, please email about work samples, etc. Or--if you know anybody who might be interested, please pass this email along to them. If you're interested do contact me promptly. Preference given to those not currently enrolled in a grad writing program.

↑ Index

155. George Bowering

Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

Fri 7 Sep 2007

Okay, I believe your experience.

I still hear the word "diva" used without irony in its proper place.

The only laughable usage I have heard lately is its application to female pop singers.

gb

On Sep 7, 2007, at 10:07 AM, Brian Howe wrote:

> I've seldom heard "diva" used in music journalism to indicate the > divine, > regardless of its origins. It seems more often deployed to insinuate > the old
> "hysterical woman" stereotype, synonymous in tone with something like
> "prima > donna". It's not explicitly insulting, it's part of a larger structural > pattern of language from male critics that holds back a measure of > artistic > seriousness from female musicians. At any rate, "siren" might have > been a > better example, implying as it does (even in its literal sense) that
> the > singer will lure you into danger with her magical song or some shit > like
> that.
>
> Best,
> Brian
>
>
> On 9/6/07, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>>
>>>
>>>
>>> Brian Howe <[redacted]> wrote: This problem is still >>> rampant in music criticism, it's built into the words >>> some male critics use-- songbird, songstress, and diva, just to name
>>> a >>> few--

>>
>> Wait, wait wait wait!
>>
>> When did "diva" become a belittling word?
>> Does that mean that to call someone "divine" (source of the word >> "diva")
>> is to insult her?
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>> Geo. H. Bowering
>> Adaptable yet reliable.
>>
>
>
George Harvey Bowering
Fond of many dead people.

↑ Index

156. David Chirot

Absent 2:

Fri 7 Sep 2007

Simon De Ceo's blogspot (http://rhubarbissusan.blogspot.com) and the first two issues of the journal Absent that he edits http://rhubarbissusan.blogspot.com/2007/08/absent-magazine-issue-two-now-online.htmare exciting and very interesting to read, especially as in Absent there's the inclusion of a conversation among a much wider range of poetries and poetics than is too seldom offered. Issues of growing concern for quite some time in the ongoing American Empire's Wars (Poverty, Drugs & Terror) at home and abroad are those of censorship and the control and manipulation of translation and Intelligence (includingto be sure "Intelligent Design!"). The more unstable things become, the more silencing of critical writings and voices there is. With more frequency al the time, one reads of talks canceled talks, classes, contracts and marshaled attacks on "books, professors, authors, citizens. The kind of dialogic sphere Absent presents is a great breath of fresh air to find in such a climate. Two essays in particular I found fascinating in relation to the politicization and policing of language and translation in attempts to effect/claim the effects of the controlling of a social construction of discourses via questionable claims,especially linguisitic ones, These are De Ceo's own "fuck you,aloha, ecopoeisis," and Kent Johnson's "competence, linguistics, politics & post-avant matters." In both, the issue of grammar is raised as a counter to what De Ceo calls "the inhospitable state of language"

De Ceo writes:

Which brings me, of course, to ecopoiesis. Not ecopoetics, the creepily violent Iron John-derivative masculinity of Gary Snyder, but ecopoiesis, the creation of life in a hostile environment. The violation of the inhospitable state of language by the introduction of the poet-as-extremophile.

extremophile — the bacteria that live the extrodinary pressures of the ocean trenches, in sulfuric acid, in the pores of mineral gems. The bacteria that one day — if the human race outlives its own violence — with which we'll bombard the surface of Mars, erasing the pristine inhospitability to build our shopping malls and hospitals on a foreign landscape . . .

Language hates us, language resists us, language, as Noam Chomsky demonstrated to an academic world whose antihumanists such as Judith Butler (despite her other excellencies) continue to resist, is not man's cozy creation, it is a work of nature. The same nature that battered New Orleans batters us daily in our Universal Grammars. What but the mind, and that deepest creation of the mind, the poet, is able to survive the inhuman branchings of syntax, the poverty of semantics?

A home must be made on the surfaces of language, inside its syntax and its semantics, and this is where, with a hindsight berift of the usual communal demands of politeness that pervade the landscape of the English-speaking world of poetry, we will recognize what is great and what serves the ephemeral neuroses of the winning side of a widening class divide.

The issue of poetry surviving in the "inhospitable state(s) of language" in terms both of poetry and the world in which "the mind" struggles against the inhumanity and neuroses of both nature/Universal Grammars and the class divide ie especially interesting to me as pretty much all my visual works in particular are involved in the situations of an extremophile among billions of extremophiles, who are being continually less visible and listened to by means of Walls, fences, prisons, censorships, gated communities, "security" and Surveillance systems and the new methods of "translation" which seamlessly spread disinformation and propaganda as "news".

Kent Johnson's essay also takes up the issue of grammar in relation to poetry and politics. For Johnson, the ontological foundations of Language Poetry and its claims to being resistant to the kinds of "inhospitable state(s)" that De Ceo writes of, are not based in any actual linguistic findings, whether Chomksy's or others. Language Poetry's claim that grammar itself is a product of and "=" to social relations and constructions can be seen from this perspective as being ironically what it purports to be resisting, or subverting. That is, a rhetorical claim to a "truth" which has no basis, yet is used in order to control discourse as though the rhetoric is --rather weirdly--not in reference to "the situation on the ground" which De Ceo recognizes and is concerned with, but a situation which exists only within terms of its rhetoric. The rhetoric then becomes a kind of self-referential totality (to my mind) not unlike Karl Rove's famous statement that" We are an Empire and can create or own reality." The problems with the disconnect between the rhetorical reality and the reality on the ground, have of course been made hellishily all too real for millions of persons. If it is not grammar that creates or equals a language of class distinctions and oppressions, Johnons asks, among other questions, in what ways does this claim still have a validity in terms of practice? Among Johnson's questions in this regard are:

To what extent -- to reorient Bernstein's remark -- might "grammar, vocabulary, diction, form, and style" within the post-avant subculture more directly and relevantly reflect a range of power relations at work in the literary field itself? And what complicity might "avant" poets share in maintaining and extending such relations? These matters, I'd argue, are much more immediately critical to politically minded poets than any purported homologies between grammatical conventions and cultural hegemonies.

Both these essays raise a great many fascinating questions in relation to the fundamental and, for both writers, very much overlooked, question raised, as Johnson points out, by Kasey Silem Mohammad at his blog regarding "competence" and "questions of value."

In a period "inhospitable state(s)" of language and ontological being, these questions take on an even greater sense of urgency and I'd highly their thought provoking presenations of them.
david-bc
http://davidbaptistechirot.blogspot.com

↑ Index

157. Camille Martin
Lyn Hejinian's email?
Fri 7 Sep 2007

Hello. Could someone please backchannel Lyn Hejinian's email address?

Thanks.

Camille

Camille Martin
156 Brandon Avenue, #403

Toronto, ON M6H 2E4
[redacted]

↑ Index

158. Mark Weiss
Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
Fri 7 Sep 2007

Diva, usually applied to opera singers, is a term of respect, something like grande dame--great lady. Beverley Sills was a diva, and nobody ever accused her of being a prima donna.

I've never heard diva applied to pop music types, not even incorrectly. But I'll confess to not being sufficiently interested in pop music to read the journalism about it.

Mark

At 01:07 PM 9/7/2007, you wrote:
>I've seldom heard "diva" used in music journalism to indicate the divine, >regardless of its origins. It seems more often deployed to insinuate the old
>"hysterical woman" stereotype, synonymous in tone with something like
"prima >donna". It's not explicitly insulting, it's part of a larger structural >pattern of language from male critics that holds back a measure of artistic >seriousness from female musicians. At any rate, "siren" might have been a >better example, implying as it does (even in its literal sense) that the >singer will lure you into danger with her magical song or some shit like >that.
>
>Best,
>Brian
>
>
>On 9/6/07, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
> >
> > >
> > >
> > > Brian Howe <[redacted]> wrote: This problem is still > > > rampant in music criticism, it's built into the words
> > > some male critics use-- songbird, songstress, and diva, just to name a > > > few--
> >
> > Wait, wait wait wait!

> >
> > When did "diva" become a belittling word?
> > Does that mean that to call someone "divine" (source of the word "diva")
> > is to insult her?
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > > Geo. H. Bowering
> > Adaptable yet reliable.
> >

↑ Index

159. elizabeth block
okay, so i found this compelling...
Fri 7 Sep 2007

...a most intelligent and thoughtful commentary on the status of book reviews/book culture from the columbia journalism review
i think it a MUST read du jour:

http://www.cjr.org/cover_story/goodbye_to_all_that_1.php?page=all happy gobbling:)

elizabeth block

↑ Index

160. Vernon Frazer
Voice and teh Performance of Poery
Fri 7 Sep 2007

Dear Robert

I read your post to the Poetics List with interest. From 1988-94 I performed what I sometimes describe as my West Coast Beat-Black Mountain poetry with free jazz accompaniment. At the time, I played bass violin and had a band that performed throughout Connecticut and Massachusetts, and a duo with the late jazz saxophonist Thomas Chapin that performed in venues such as the Nuyorican Poets Café and other Manhattan venues.

After I disbanded the group, I found that my poetry became more complex. I found myself writing what I call “orchestrated text” involving multiple voices that would come together and diverge in much the way a free form ensemble improvises. At some point in the late 1990s, I received an inundation of Language Poetry books and my style moved comfortably in that direction.

On infrequent occasions, between 1999 and 2001 I would recite sections of my longpoem “IMPROVISATIONS” with a band composed of musicians from my former poetry band. The difference in poetry made different demands on the music. When my earlier poems had a clear and pointed meaning, I controlled the music from the bass chair so that the improvisations, while free, would reflect the mood and meaning of the poem being performed. With the more language-centered poems, the musicians could move in whatever direction they chose; the abstract text allowed the music to establish a correspondingly abstract interaction. I didn’t have to control the music.

As IMPROVISATIONS progressed, it incorporated visual elements that defy performance, or would require long rehearsals to achieve with voice and sound the visual effect that the page conveys. Although I believe my written work stands on its own, I’ve thought that it would be best presented as a mixed-media event involving multiple readers, a band and a slide or video show of the text and possibly abstract figures. As I write this, it occurs to me that I would need the equivalent of the Sun Ra Solar Arkestra to fuse the elements of sound, language and image together in a way that would raise the work off the page successfully.

I don’t really perform anymore but, having worked with fusing poetry and music, I find myself at least contemplating how I’d present work that increasingly defies performance.

If you want to discuss this further, feel free to continue the thread or to backchannel me.

Vernon

http://vernonfrazer.com <http://vernonfrazer.com/>

↑ Index

161. Bobbi Lurie

Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

Fri 7 Sep 2007

---

the answer is in the question and yes, saddam Hussein was a writer and Hitler an artistâ€”if only they had found a place in the art world first!

-----Original Message-----
From: Halvard Johnson <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Fri, 7 Sep 2007 12:38 pm
Subject: Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

The answer to Stein's question would be "Next question, please."Â
Â
But, Tom, the moments to watch out for are the onesÂ that keep coming back again and again and again andÂ again and . . .Â
Â
HalÂ
Â
"The nation without great poets willÂ
Â not have great politicians."Â
Â --Saddam HusseinÂ
Â
Halvard JohnsonÂ
==========Â
[redacted]Â
http://home.earthlink.net/~halvard/index.htmlÂ
http://entropyandme.blogspot.comÂ
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.comÂ
http://www.hamiltonstone.orgÂ
http://home.earthlink.net/~halvard/vidalocabooks.htmlÂ
Â
On Sep 7, 2007, at 10:50 AM, Tom W. Lewis wrote:Â
Â
> first thought after watching the 'tube piece: there's 4+ minutes of myÂ > life I'll never get back -- and I try so hard not to think like thatÂ
> these days...Â
>Â
> there is a general shallowness of self-presentation I think is in > vogueÂ
> now, and I take Ana's original post as an illustration of how creativeÂ > women come off as ninnies when they're asked the "20 questions" orÂ > whatever -- I blame the context, not the subjects, in this case...Â
>Â
> I will have to give D Lasky a read -- based solely on the YouTubeÂ > questionnaire footage, she struck me as just another self-loathingÂ
> female poet -- that said, I don't put much stock in anyone'sÂ
> "performance" when accosted with one-size-fits-all magazineÂ
> questionnaires: irk.Â
>Â
> "Suppose there were no questions what would the answer be."Â
> -- Gertrude SteinÂ
>Â
>Â

>Â
> -----Original Message-----Â
> From: UB Poetics discussion group > [mailto:[redacted]]Â
> On Behalf Of Ruth LepsonÂ
> Sent: Thursday, September 06, 2007 19:01Â
> To: [redacted]Â
> Subject: Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...Â
>Â
> agree wholeheartedly w/ CA--Dottie rules--she is never boring, > which isÂ > saying something, & she manages to be funny & moral & political all atÂ > once.Â
>Â
>Â
> On 9/6/07 6:26 AM, "Barry Schwabsky" <[redacted]>Â > wrote:Â
>Â
>> I don't know Lasky or her work but...thanks, CA.Â
>> In general, we male poets don't come in for critique and >> analysis ofÂ
> ourÂ
>> personal style or idiosyncracies of self-presentation--lucky for us.Â
> Why areÂ
>> women subject to it?Â
>>Â
>> CA Conrad <[redacted]> wrote:Â
>> Dorothea Lasky needs no one's permission to act one way or theÂ
> other. ThoseÂ
>> who actually read her poems understand exactly how and where sheÂ
> stands inÂ
>> this world. One of the strongest people and poets I've ever met in myÂ > lifeÂ
>> is Dorothea Lasky.Â
>>Â
>> Lasky points directly at what you see and you know soon enough howÂ > lazy yourÂ
>> eyes have been.Â
>>Â
>> AWE is one of the best books of poetry of 2007, no doubt about it.Â
>>Â
>> In 100 years when the rest of us are forgotten there will be Lasky.Â
>>Â
>> CAConradÂ
>> http://PhillySound.blogspot.comÂ

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

162. Brian Howe
New on Glossolalia: ELLA FINDS HER VOICE
Fri 7 Sep 2007

New on Glossolalia: ELLA FINDS HER VOICE, a composition for baby, bass, and digital ephemera.

A scary story with a happy ending, starring Ella Vowell.

As always, you can stream or download ELLA FINDS HER VOICE at the Glossolalia website:
http://glossolalia-blacksail.blogspot.com/

Thanks for your ears.

Best,
Brian Howe

↑ Index

163. mIEKAL aND
Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
Fri 7 Sep 2007

Bobbi: I'm not quite sure what you mean by this statement, but homeschooling works for all manner of children & situation, & I guarantee you that if one allows a child's inner lifeforce to express itself in any way—intellectual, manual, creative, movement-based or even mentored in simple ways—it can prove to be a valuable option for schooling. Keep in mind we also have kids in their 20s who visit & stay here to be unschooled. One can begin the process at anytime. It's a lifelong commitment.

~mIEKAL

On Sep 7, 2007, at 9:31 AM, Bobbi Lurie wrote:

> most of all, you are blessed with an intelligent child. not all of us have children who have the capacity to do this.
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Gabrielle Welford <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Thu, 6 Sep 2007 11:48 pm

Subject: Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling

absolutely, re: this is a concept that was normal before compulsory public education was an "aha! moment" for the upper classes in england around the time of the french revolution--make the buggahs upwardly mobile--that'll fix em... my son had very long hair when he was in 2d grade and onward, and that and his independent thinking made things much harder for him. he took a year off and stayed home for 4th grade--did nothing--and went straight back into 5th grade without a problem. he's a free and deep thinker and feeler at 18, scraped through high school graduation because he can't stand being told what he should be interested in. from a proud mom. :-)

On Thu, 6 Sep 2007, mIEKAL aND wrote:

part of the problem with this discussion is people are making generalizations about a concept which really has always existed in this world since the beginning of civilization. the discussion seems to be focussed on one extremely specific form of home-schooling which revolves around removing your children from public schools so they can be indoctrinated into a religion. believe me, unschooling / homeschooling (which really are quite different things) is far more diverse than that. in our part of the country more than 25% of the kids I know are homeschooled at least till high school, at which point they join one of the alternative high schools. my son Liaizon was unschooled until he was 12 or so. he was a voting member in our community when he was 7, was able to conduct a meeting, create an agenda, sponsor & solve problems from a very early age. at the same age he could also cook a meal for 25 in order to feed people. verbally & creative precocious, inventive, playful & quite happy. because he had very long hair & was into really different things than local kids, he would have met endless bullying & unwanted attention in the public schools. I know because that's what happened to me in the schools in this part of Wisconsin when I was, even into high school. Things haven't changed much in rural public schools.

~mIEKAL

A human being should be able to change a diaper, plan an invasion, butcher a hog, conn a ship, design a building, write a sonnet, balance accounts, build a wall, set a bone, comfort the dying, take orders, give orders, cooperate, act alone, solve equations, analyze a new problem, pitch manure, program a computer, cook a tasty meal, fight efficiently, die gallantly. Specialization is for insects.

—Robert A. Heinlein

↑ Index

164. Bobbi Lurie

Re: Are young female poets ...and further info. on saddam quote

Fri 7 Sep 2007

---

with thanks to HalvardÂ Johnson for quote--b.

"The nation without great poets willÂ
Â not have great politicians."Â
Â --Saddam HusseinÂ

Saddam Hussein - Romance Writer (Who'd have thought?)

By Claudia Strasbaugh

Next Friday, Tokuma Shoten Publishing Company starts selling Saddam's newest text to hit book stores, this version translated from Arabic to Japanese for 1,500 yen, or 14 U.S. dollars.

Saddam the author, writing love stories, you're thinking?

Yes. Tis so.

It appears he's not genre handicapped either. Educated and intelligent, Hussain is quite capable of producing books of various types on quite a few different subjects.

Actually George Bush's bad man of Bagdad already has a number of titles to his credit, some include "Gulf Crisis", "Our History, Heritage, and Religion", "The Revolution and Women in Iraq", "Thus We Should Fight Persians" and the latest by this prolific scribe, "Devil's Dance" was completed in March of 2003 not long after he was again reelected Iraqi president, shortly before the United States invaded his country. Set near the Euphrates River, this latest manuscript is a story of a tribesman's life 1,500 years ago.

Under fire, Hussein's daughter managed to get the original works to safety after the US attack, according to the publisher.

"I think the former president expected a loss and was writing this novel as a message aimed at raising morale among Iraqi people," so says Japan's translator, Itsuko Hirata, who suggested to the publisher that this book be printed.

"We are not standing behind Saddam's views", Koichi Chikaraishi was known to have told Deutsche Presse-Agentur dpa, last week. "We are not trying to speak for Hussein by publishing his book but the story helps (us) understand the people of Iraq and how they think."

Saddam is presently a prisoner of the current United States whitehouse, accused of crimes against humanity.

-----Original Message-----
From: [redacted]
To: [redacted]
Sent: Fri, 7 Sep 2007 4:37 pm
Subject: Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

the answer is in the question and yes, saddam Hussein was a writer and Hitler an artistâ€”if only they had found a place in the art world first!

-----Original Message-----
From: Halvard Johnson <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Fri, 7 Sep 2007 12:38 pm
Subject: Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

The answer to Stein's question would be "Next question, please."Â
Â
But, Tom, the moments to watch out for are the onesÂ
that keep coming back again and again and again andÂ
again and . . .Â
Â
HalÂ
Â
"The nation without great poets willÂ
Â not have great politicians."Â
Â --Saddam HusseinÂ
Â
Halvard JohnsonÂ
==========Â
[redacted]Â
http://home.earthlink.net/~halvard/index.htmlÂ
http://entropyandme.blogspot.comÂ
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.comÂ
http://www.hamiltonstone.orgÂ
http://home.earthlink.net/~halvard/vidalocabooks.htmlÂ

Â
On Sep 7, 2007, at 10:50 AM, Tom W. Lewis wrote:Â
Â
> first thought after watching the 'tube piece: there's 4+ minutes of myÂ > life I'll never get back -- and I try so hard not to think like thatÂ
> these days...Â
>Â
> there is a general shallowness of self-presentation I think is in > vogueÂ
> now, and I take Ana's original post as an illustration of how creativeÂ
> women come off as ninnies when they're asked the "20 questions" orÂ > whatever -- I blame the context, not the subjects, in this case...Â
>Â
> I will have to give D Lasky a read -- based solely on the YouTubeÂ
> questionnaire footage, she struck me as just another self-loathingÂ
> female poet -- that said, I don't put much stock in anyone'sÂ
> "performance" when accosted with one-size-fits-all magazineÂ
> questionnaires: irk.Â
>Â
> "Suppose there were no questions what would the answer be."Â
> -- Gertrude SteinÂ
>Â
>Â
>Â
> -----Original Message-----Â
> From: UB Poetics discussion group > [mailto:[redacted]]Â
> On Behalf Of Ruth LepsonÂ
> Sent: Thursday, September 06, 2007 19:01Â
> To: [redacted]Â
> Subject: Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...Â
>Â
> agree wholeheartedly w/ CA--Dottie rules--she is never boring, > which isÂ > saying something, & she manages to be funny & moral & political all atÂ
> once.Â
>Â
>Â
> On 9/6/07 6:26 AM, "Barry Schwabsky" <[redacted]>Â
> wrote:Â
>Â
>> I don't know Lasky or her work but...thanks, CA.Â
>> In general, we male poets don't come in for critique and >> analysis ofÂ
> ourÂ
>> personal style or idiosyncracies of self-presentation--lucky for us.Â

> Why areÂ
>> women subject to it?Â
>>Â
>> CA Conrad <[redacted]> wrote:Â
>> Dorothea Lasky needs no one's permission to act one way or theÂ
> other. ThoseÂ
>> who actually read her poems understand exactly how and where sheÂ
> stands inÂ
>> this world. One of the strongest people and poets I've ever met in myÂ
> lifeÂ
>> is Dorothea Lasky.Â
>>Â
>> Lasky points directly at what you see and you know soon enough howÂ
> lazy yourÂ
>> eyes have been.Â
>>Â
>> AWE is one of the best books of poetry of 2007, no doubt about it.Â
>>Â
>> In 100 years when the rest of us are forgotten there will be Lasky.Â
>>Â
>> CAConradÂ
>> http://PhillySound.blogspot.comÂ

Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail!

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

165. Jim Andrews
Iconoclasistas
Sat 8 Sep 2007

A site of Argentinean netactivism: http://iconoclasistas.com.ar

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

166. Gabrielle Welford

Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling

Sat 8 Sep 2007

---

thanks for this miekal. i wasn't sure how to reply. you say what i would want to say. intelligence has nothing to do with a kid's eagerness to live, and what else is learning based on? tol had such a hard time growing up, things were never easy for him. i wish i had been able/been at a time in my life to have given him unschooling, especially if it could have been with a group of like-minded folks. i guess what i said about tol was just to show that home/unschooled kids can dip in and out of the system, whatever that system is, not to say how smart he is. blessings, g

On Fri, 7 Sep 2007, mIEKAL aND wrote:

> Bobbi: I'm not quite sure what you mean by this statement, but homeschooling works for all manner of children & situation, & I guarantee you that if one allows a child's inner lifeforce to express itself in any way—intellectual, manual, creative, movement-based or even mentored in simple ways—it can prove to be a valuable option for schooling. Keep in mind we also have kids in their 20s who visit & stay here to be unschooled. One can begin the process at anytime. It's a lifelong commitment.
>
> ~mIEKAL
>
> On Sep 7, 2007, at 9:31 AM, Bobbi Lurie wrote:
>
> most of all, you are blessed with an intelligent child. not all of us have children who have the capacity to do this.
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Gabrielle Welford <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Thu, 6 Sep 2007 11:48 pm
> Subject: Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
>
> absolutely, re: this is a concept that was normal before compulsory public > education was an "aha! moment" for the upper classes in england around the > time of the french revolution--make the buggahs upwardly mobile--that'll > fix em... my son had very long hair when he was in 2d grade and onward, and that and his independent thinking made things much harder for him. he took a year off and stayed home for 4th grade--did nothing--and went straight back into 5th grade without a problem. he's a free and deep thinker and feeler at 18, scraped through high school graduation because he can't stand being told what he should be interested in. from a proud mom. :-)

On Thu, 6 Sep 2007, mIEKAL aND wrote:

part of the problem with this discussion is people are making generalizations about a concept which really has always existed in this world since the beginning of civilization. the discussion seems to be focussed on one extremely specific form of home-schooling which revolves around removing your children from public schools so they can be indoctrinated into a religion. believe me, unschooling / homeschooling (which really are quite different things) is far more diverse than that. in our part of the country more than 25% of the kids I know are homeschooled at least till high school, at which point they join one of the alternative high schools. my son Liaizon was unschooled until he was 12 or so. he was a voting member in our community when he was 7, was able to conduct a meeting, create an agenda, sponsor & solve problems from a very early age. at the same age he could also cook a meal for 25 in order to feed people. verbally & creative precocious, inventive, playful & quite happy. because he had very long hair & was into really different things than local kids, he would have met endless bullying & unwanted attention in the public schools. I know because that's what happened to me in the schools in this part of Wisconsin when I was, even into high school. Things haven't changed much in rural public schools.

~mIEKAL

A human being should be able to change a diaper, plan an invasion, butcher a hog, conn a ship, design a building, write a sonnet, balance accounts, build a wall, set a bone, comfort the dying, take orders, give orders, cooperate, act alone, solve equations, analyze a new problem, pitch manure, program a computer, cook a tasty meal, fight efficiently, die gallantly. Specialization is for insects.

—Robert A. Heinlein

↑ Index

167. Paul Nelson
Poetry Postcards
Sat 8 Sep 2007

The first August Poetry Postcard Fest finished with a few late-arriving poem/cards on Tuesday and Wednesday, and Lana Ayers and I have been awed by the success of the project.

Our thanks go out to all participants, including a few from this list: Catherine Daly, Diane di Prima, Gregory Severance, Matt Timmons, Amanda Earl and Gerald Schwartz. (I hope I did not miss anyone.) There were folks all over North America, in London, Iceland and the Netherlands.

We are going to continue this project on a more relaxed basis, a card a week, until next August, when we hope to have more participants ESPECIALLY from outside North America.

Here's Lana's call for the ongoing project:

Dear Poet,

Thank you for your participation in this August Postcard Poetry Fest. Your inspired participation made this event the amazing success it was.

Share Your Experience

Now that the last cards have come and gone, (we hope), we'd like to invite you to share your thoughts about this process. If you'd like to write a paragraph or two about the experience, on writing or receiving the cards, talk about your favorite cards, what you noticed about the flow form poem to poem, whatever moved you, that'd be quite welcome as we seek to expand. Please send your piece to Paul at splabman at yahoo dot com or post it on the Postcard Fest blog http://www.poetrypostcards.blogspot.com or on facebook http://www.facebook.com/group.php?gid=17361938720. (Facebook requires registration and can be quite a habit). If you post your thoughts about the August Postcard Poetry Fest to your own blog or website, please send Paul the links and let us know if we can re-post your thoughts elsewhere.

Celebrate the Experience

For those who are able to come to Seattle on September 22nd, we will have a celebration event at Café Vega, 7pm at 1918 E. Yesler Way . This event will be documented by Andre, the proprietor. If you aren't in the area, gather some friends and have a celebration of your own.

Continue the Experience

So many of us were so taken with the process of writing the cards daily, that we want to continue this organic connection of words on a regular basis, but at a more casual and meditative pace until next August. So we are now putting together a Perennial Poetry Postcard List. The idea here is simple, try to write a postcard poem at least once a week, and send it to the next person on your list. Try to write a postcard poem at least once a week regardless of whether you receive one or not in order to keep the connections flowing. Remember you have a ready-made and excited audience awaiting your poems in the mailbox. When you receive cards, do respond to them with cards of your own as well. Move through the list of names at your own pace and keep going until we reach August 2008.

We will keep the list open and add names whenever someone expresses interest, so you will need to add new people occasionally. Please share your experience with this process with friends and invite them to join us for the perennial list. We hope to make the list as long and broad as we possibly can. Then in August, 2008, we'll go back full-throttle into the daily August PostCard Poetry Fest.

Please email Lana lana.ayers at yahoo dot com or Paul splabman at yahoo dot com to sign up for the perennial list. We'd appreciate it if you could reply by 9/22 so we can roll out the new list and get those cards started again. And don't forget to forward this info to all your friends and have them join us too.

Future Experiences

We are planning a weekend of community joining and workshops for September, 2008, on Orcas Island . We hope you can join us and would welcome your effort to help plan/shape the event.

Thanks again for your time, your dedication, your postcard poems that created this instant and vibrant community of words.

All best,
Lana & Paul

Paul E. Nelson, M.A.

Global Voices Radio
SPLAB!
American Sentences
Organic Poetry
Poetry Postcard Blog

Slaughter, WA [redacted] or [redacted]

↑ Index

168. holsapple1
Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry
Sat 8 Sep 2007

Apropos Robert Z's interest in texts that deliberately thwart performance, the research I know indicates that we subvocalize as we read, e.g. Robert Grenier's "I HATE SPEECH" inadvertently referencing pitch & volume of voice thru capitolization as icons of emphasis. But reading obviously is visual as well, & as one develops expertise in reading, one develops visual pathways to (verbal) memory that supercede auditory pathways, so that reading often seems silent. Further, printed texts (excluding texts like Braile) are significantly visual in as much as they squiggle in patterned ways, b versus d.

The point would be, Robert's categorization into three "other" nonperformative types of text seems supported by research. Besides texts that can be performed, there are texts that are primarily visual. Of those texts which can be performed, there are texts that deliberately frustrate a performance & texts that are not especially interesting to perform, because they focus on nonperformative (albeit auditory) features in a text. Performance doesn't add much to what a reading achieves.

Bruce

Bruce

↑ Index

169. Alan Sondheim
2000 9/11s
Sat 8 Sep 2007

2000 9/11s

9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11

9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11

9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11

9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11
9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11 9/11

↑ Index

170. George Bowering

Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

Sat 8 Sep 2007

On Sep 7, 2007, at 2:02 PM, Mark Weiss wrote:
> Beverley Sills was a diva, and nobody ever accused her of being a > prima donna.

Now, that's really funny!
>
George Bowering,
Fan of Alex Shibicky

↑ Index

171. Suzanne Burns
Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
Sat 8 Sep 2007

On 9/7/07, mIEKAL aND <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Bobbi: I'm not quite sure what you mean by this statement, but > homeschooling works for all manner of children & situation, & I > guarantee you that if one allows a child's inner lifeforce to express > itself in any way—intellectual, manual, creative, movement-based or > even mentored in simple ways—it can prove to be a valuable option for > schooling. Keep in mind we also have kids in their 20s who visit & > stay here to be unschooled. One can begin the process at anytime.
> It's a lifelong commitment.

:-) And it is also a process which can allow a child who is always being told that he is is "not intelligent" to discover the areas where he in fact has real gifts or a real passion. Everybody is different, and not everybody thrives best in a traditional school setting.

Keep in mind we also have kids in their 20s who visit & stay here to be unschooled.

Where is "here", mIEKAL?

Suzanne

↑ Index

172. Marcus Bales
Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...
Sat 8 Sep 2007

On 7 Sep 2007 at 17:02, Mark Weiss wrote:
> Diva, usually applied to opera singers, is a term of respect, > something like grande dame--great lady. Beverley Sills was a diva, > and nobody ever accused her of being a prima donna.

No, no one did. But she still had that flair for the dramatic when angry, or could act it in real life, that is characteristic of divas and prima donnas.

from http://www.time.com/time/magazine/article/0,9171,905555-3,00.html

"Even Beverly has her breaking point, however. Once, at a rehearsal in Manhattan, a conductor reprimanded her: "Don't interrupt me when I'm speaking to somebody else." Beverly said: "I'll go you one better. I won't sing when you're conducting," and stomped offstage. During the preparations for her La Scala appearance, she climaxed an argument with the wardrobe mistress by snatching a pair of scissors and snipping a costume into pieces. The onlooking cast and chorus burst into applause, an Italian tribute to a flare of real temperament."

This is very different from the goofy self-effacement of the videos originally posted, though. Sill's nickname in the opera world was "Bubbles" because she was a genuinely nice person. But nice, too, is very different from that goofy self-effacement of some of today's young women poets.

↑ Index

173. David-Baptiste Chirot

[redacted] sent you a link to content of interest

Sat 8 Sep 2007

[redacted] sent you a link to the following content:

Finkelstein settles with DePaul, fight continues for Larudee
http://www.muzzlewatch.com/?p=239

The sender also included this note:

please sign the petition and pass on

--
Sent via a FeedFlare link from a FeedBurner feed.
http://www.feedburner.com/fb/a/publishers/feedflare

↑ Index

174. Lewis LaCook

The monolith at the beginning of september

Sat 8 Sep 2007

09/02/2007

Username and password. Why do you call me sir sir? At the beginning of my day I make enough cigarettes. For.
Not until the paperwork is finished. Your heartbeat serrated these prisms of aching leaves. Just look behind you. Stumbling on uneven concrete a spill of timber light whitening painful birds stripping tongues. There’s thick glass in through I call out to you I call and talk five minutes. Then the crickets switch keys go up a whole step and you can still hear the mill. The moon a wedge of anemic lemon grinning. I could even be watching TV through your window with you thickens near the atop loose shoes. Urban brands up to 70% off and shit. However many churches there have been in the world ahead of you someone walking hidden straining to plant those shanks of run light in you let him to air conditioned to continually eulogize seeking distinct units. The moon sucks at another empty parking lot up on the cracked concrete shimmering in the sweats of summer's last sugar.

There's a used car lot at the corner of your bruised fruit. Broadway feed and pet supply paterson 1920 gyros & more closed for repairs charleston car washes inc. Could we interlace the sound of traffic with kissing? You do know it's 90% humidity out where an abanoned shopping cart slits the sky burning away all the weather. Crickets pound a sleighbell beat on weight. The spiders are tethered to threads and gliding. I park where reflectors summon mailboxes out of the night's bath. It's busier on tuesdays. Cars nightriding leave a garland stink of honeysuckle behind. Renaming dislocates. Those deep purple clouds skimming above us have surely slipped out of their cuffs. Gills open in the road swimming anonymous cars red the corners to townhomes littered and lit-up but when no-one moves it gets darker. You're broken somehow but fixing you breaks you even more. I distinguish horizon because its deep softness excommunicates me.

09/08/2007

Lewis LaCook
Director of Web Development
Abstract Outlooks Media

http://www.abstractoutlooks.com
Abstract Outlooks Media - Premium Web Hosting, Development, and Art Photography

http://www.lewislacook.org
lewislacook.org - New Media Poetry and Poetics

http://www.xanaxpop.org
Xanax Pop - the Poetry of Lewis LaCook

___ Be a better Heartthrob. Get better relationship answers from someone who knows. Yahoo! Answers - Check it out. http://answers.yahoo.com/dir/?link=list&sid=396545433

↑ Index

175. Bobbi Lurie

Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling

Sat 8 Sep 2007

Sorry for being so cryptic. I esp. apologize if I offended anyone. If you would like my reasons for writing what I did they are a result of my personal experiences which are not concepts but realities and you are free to backchannel me. In any event, there is always an assumption that we all have the same brains, capable of conceptualization--ie; the concept of "unschooling" is totally impossible for certain brains to comprehend. and it is, in the end, a concept. i, by the way, have tried every method of schooling possible (i, inÂ fact, could serve as a resource person for anyone searching for various methods ofÂ teaching)Â including homeschooling in terms of my own situation. My response is always to unexamined concepts, generalizations which are not examined in their totality. this is a poetics list so it is silly for me to go further. people take positions--that is fine--but sometimesÂ our personalÂ situation is such that positions cannot be taken/ it boils down, at times, to "what works"--bobbi

-----Original Message-----
From: Gabrielle Welford <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Fri, 7 Sep 2007 10:42 pm
Subject: Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling

thanks for this miekal. i wasn't sure how to reply. you say what i would ant to say. intelligence has nothing to do with a kid's eagerness to ive, and what else is learning based on? tol had such a hard time rowing up, things were never easy for him. i wish i had been able/been t a time in my life to have given him unschooling, especially if it could ave been with a group of like-minded folks. i guess what i said about ol was just to show that home/unschooled kids can dip in and out of the ystem, whatever that system is, not to say how smart he is. blessings, g
On Fri, 7 Sep 2007, mIEKAL aND wrote:
> Bobbi: I'm not quite sure what you mean by this statement, but homeschooling works for all manner of children & situation, & I guarantee you that if one allows a child's inner lifeforce to express itself in any wayâ€”intellectual, manual, creative, movement-based or even mentored in simple waysâ€”it can prove to be a valuable option for schooling. Keep in mind we also have kids in their 20s who visit & stay here to be unschooled. One can begin the process at anytime. It's a lifelong commitment.

~mIEKAL

On Sep 7, 2007, at 9:31 AM, Bobbi Lurie wrote:

> most of all, you are blessed with an intelligent child. not all of us have children who have the capacity to do this.
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Gabrielle Welford <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Thu, 6 Sep 2007 11:48 pm
> Subject: Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling
>
> absolutely, re: this is a concept that was normal before compulsory public education was an "aha! moment" for the upper classes in england around the time of the french revolution--make the buggahs upwardly mobile--that'll fix em... my son had very long hair when he was in 2d grade and onward, and that and his independent thinking made things much harder for him. he took a year off and stayed home for 4th grade--did nothing--and went straight back into 5th grade without a problem. he's a free and deep thinker and feeler at 18, scraped through high school graduation because he can't stand being told what he should be interested in. from a proud mom. :-)
>
> On Thu, 6 Sep 2007, mIEKAL aND wrote:
>
> part of the problem with this discussion is people are making generalizations about a concept which really has always existed in this world since the beginning of civilization. the discussion seems to be focussed on one extremely specific form of home-schooling which revolves around removing your children from public schools so they can be indoctrinated into a religion. believe me, unschooling / homeschooling (which really are quite different things) is far more > diverse than that. in our part of the country more than 25% of the kids I know are homeschooled at least till high school, at which point they join one of the alternative high schools. my son Liaizon was unschooled until he was 12 or so. he was a voting member in our community when he was 7, was able to conduct a meeting, create an agenda, sponsor & solve problems from a very early age. at the same age he could also cook a meal for 25 in order to feed people. verbally & creative precocious, inventive, playful & quite happy. because he had very long hair & was into really different things than local kids, he would have met endless bullying & unwanted attention in the public schools. I know because that's what happened to me in the schools in this part of Wisconsin when I was, even into high school. Things haven't changed much in rural public schools.

>
> ~mIEKAL

A human being should be able to change a diaper, plan an invasion, butcher a hog, conn a ship, design a building, write a sonnet, balance accounts, build a wall, set a bone, comfort the dying, take orders, give orders, cooperate, act alone, solve equations, analyze a new problem, pitch manure, program a computer, cook a tasty meal, fight efficiently, die gallantly. Specialization is for insects.

â€”Robert A. Heinlein

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

176. mIEKAL aND

Re: beware of biased, unfounded, opinions about homeschooling

Sat 8 Sep 2007

Dreamtime Village
Hypermedia Permaculture EcoVillage in Southwest Wisconsin
http://www.dreamtimevillage.org

& this was in NYT a few months back. The video has my son speaking about his experiences living here.

Into Middle America but Staying on the Fringe

By MATT GROSS
Published: June 20, 2007

http://travel.nytimes.com/2007/06/20/travel/20frugal.html?pagewanted=all

On Sep 8, 2007, at 2:49 AM, Suzanne Burns wrote:

> On 9/7/07, mIEKAL aND <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Bobbi: I'm not quite sure what you mean by this statement, but homeschooling works for all manner of children & situation, & I guarantee you that if one allows a child's inner lifeforce to express itself in any way—intellectual, manual, creative, movement-based or even mentored in simple ways—it can prove to be a valuable option for schooling. Keep in mind we also have kids in their 20s who visit & stay here to be unschooled. One can begin the process at anytime. It's a lifelong commitment.
>
> :-) And it is also a process which can allow a child who is always being > told that he is is "not intelligent" to discover the areas where he in > fact has real gifts or a real passion. Everybody is different, and not > everybody thrives best in a traditional school setting.
>
> Keep in mind we also have kids in their 20s who visit & stay here to be unschooled.
>
> Where is "here", mIEKAL?
>
> Suzanne

↑ Index

177. Nick Carbo

Jim Brock, Nick Carbo, & Denise Duhamel at Sanibel Writer's Conference Oct 4-7

Sat 8 Sep 2007

Special guest speaker will be Robert Olen Butler. Exciting Ted dy bears, page Turner books! Beefcake calendars! Elizabethan drama and poetry in the Dew of morning. Very berry good drinks to be enjoyed as you listen to heart-wrenchingly good poems!

Come join us for fours days of workshops, panels, presentations, tutorials, and readings to learn writing secrets from famous poets, novelists, memoirists, essayists, and screenplay writers. During your down time, walk miles of white sandy beaches and enjoy Sanibel's spectacular sunsets!

Nightly readings, cocktail hours and signings open to the public!

Thursday, October 4, 2007 to Sunday, October 7, 2007
Location: BIG ARTS
City/Town:Sanibel Island, FL

Phone:
[redacted]
Email:
[redacted]

Description
http://www.fgcu.edu/siwc/index.html

Nick Carbo
http://www.npr.org/features/feature.php?wfId=1667164
http://www.cherry-grove.com/carbo.html

Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

178. Jennifer Karmin
JOB: The Georgia Review
Sat 8 Sep 2007

(this is a forward. please don't respond to me.
good luck!)

EDITOR of The Georgia Review.

Applications and nominations are invited for the position of Editor of The Georgia Review.

Founded in 1947, The Georgia Review is one of America's premier journals of arts and letters, publishing some of the best poetry, fiction, and art being created today, along with a rich blend of interdisciplinary essays and book reviews.

The Editor reports to the Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost at the University of Georgia and works with a seven-member faculty editorial board and a group of advisory and contributing editors. The staff consists of six full-time employees and a half-time graduate research assistant.

Please visit the The Georgia Review web site at http://www.uga.edu/garev.

Applications should include letter, curriculum vita,
and a list of at least three professional references.
Applications received by October 26, 2007 are assured of full consideration.

Email submissions with attachments are preferred.
Please send to: [redacted]. In lieu of email submission, written application materials may be directed to: Search Committee, Editor of The Georgia Review, University of Georgia, Human Resources, c/o Executive and Faculty Search Group, 215
S. Jackson Street, Athens, GA 30602.

For a complete position description, deadlines, and contact information please visit our website at:
http://www.hr.uga.edu/editor-ga-rev.pdf.

Got a little couch potato?
Check out fun summer activities for kids.
http://search.yahoo.com/search?
fr=oni_on_mail&p=summer+activities+for+kids&cs=bz

↑ Index

179. charles alexander

Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

Sat 8 Sep 2007

I have heard "diva" used pejoratively, but I don't particularly like that use. I use it positively, for any great female singer, pop to jazz to classical or other, from Joni Mitchell to Denyse Graves to Betty Carter, etc. I might even use it for a great male singer, although I know that would be an unexpected use. My daughter, it appears, is going into either opera or some other form of classical music singing, and I sometimes call her the "diva" of our family, meaning it with some humor (she just turned 18 less than 2 months ago) but also with love & respect.

The other thing that comes to mind with "Diva" is the movie with that title. And what I remember most about that movie is the voice, singing.

charles

At 02:02 PM 9/7/2007, you wrote:
>Diva, usually applied to opera singers, is a term of respect, >something like grande dame--great lady. Beverley Sills was a diva, >and nobody ever accused her of being a prima donna.
>
>I've never heard diva applied to pop music types, not even >incorrectly. But I'll confess to not being sufficiently interested >in pop music to read the journalism about it.
>
>Mark
>
>
>At 01:07 PM 9/7/2007, you wrote:
>>I've seldom heard "diva" used in music journalism to indicate the divine, >>regardless of its origins. It seems more often deployed to insinuate the old
>>"hysterical woman" stereotype, synonymous in tone with something like
"prima >>donna". It's not explicitly insulting, it's part of a larger structural >>pattern of language from male critics that holds back a measure of artistic >>seriousness from female musicians. At any rate, "siren" might have been a >>better example, implying as it does (even in its literal sense) that the >>singer will lure you into danger with her magical song or some shit like >>that.
>>
>>Best,
>>Brian
>>
>>
>>On 9/6/07, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>> >
>> > >
>> > >
>> > > Brian Howe <[redacted]> wrote: This problem is still >> > > rampant in music criticism, it's built into the words
>> > > some male critics use-- songbird, songstress, and diva, just to name a >> > > few--
>> >
>> > Wait, wait wait wait!
>> >
>> > When did "diva" become a belittling word?
>> > Does that mean that to call someone "divine" (source of the word "diva")
>> > is to insult her?

>> >
>> >
>> >
>> >
>> > > Geo. H. Bowering
>> > Adaptable yet reliable.
>> >
>

charles alexander / chax press

fold the book inside the book keep it open always read from the inside out speak then

Chax Press
[redacted] (studio)
[redacted] (cell)
[redacted]
chax.org
650 E. 9th St.
Tucson, AZ 85705

↑ Index

180. Catherine Daly

Fwd: Call for Panel Proposals for Split This Rock Poetry Festival - Due December 1

Sat 8 Sep 2007

Split This Rock Poetry Festival: Poems of Provocation & Witness invites proposals for panel discussions and workshops on a range of topics at the intersection of poetry and social change. The guidelines are pasted below and will be available for download from the website at www.SplitThisRock.org next week. The deadline is December 1, 2007. Please forward this notice widely and send us your ideas – we can't wait to read them.

Sarah Browning and the Coordinating Committee of Split This Rock

**

Split This Rock Poetry Festival

CALL FOR PANEL DISCUSSION PROPOSALS

Split This Rock calls poets to a greater role in public life and fosters a national community of activist poets. Building the audience for poetry of provocation and witness from our home in the nation's capital, we celebrate poetic diversity and the transformative power of the imagination.

Split This Rock Poetry Festival: Poems of Provocation & Witness

March 20-23, 2008, Washington, DC

Split This Rock Poetry Festival will bring poets and writers to Washington DC on the fifth anniversary of the invasion of Iraq, in the midst of the presidential election. The festival will feature readings, workshops, panel discussions, youth programming, film, activism, and walking tours - opportunities to build community, hone our activist skills, and celebrate the many ways that poetry can act as an agent for social change. To read more about the festival, see our website at: www.SplitThisRock.org.

In addition to featured readings by guest poets, Split this Rock invites proposals for panel discussions and workshops on a range of topics at the intersection of poetry and social change. Possibilities are endless. Challenge us. Let's talk about craft, let's talk about mentoring young poets, let's talk about working in prisons, connecting with the activist community, sustaining ourselves in dark times, the role of poetry in wartime. Let's remember great poet activists and discover new, let's think international, visual, collaborative, out of the box.

A panel may consist of 3-4 persons, with one person designated as facilitator. Please title your panel and include brief biographical information for each participant, along with a two paragraph description of your panel—what are the questions you wish to explore—why is this conversation timely and necessary at this time—how will this panel further the goals of Split This Rock? How are the members of your panel uniquely qualified to lead a conversation on your proposed topic?

We have a strong interest in interactive conversation and community building, so please indicate how you will involve participants in the discussion.

Please note that panel presenters must register for Split This Rock Poetry Festival. Some scholarships will be available. There is no limit to the number of proposals you may send, but please be sure that all proposed presenters have agreed to be part of your proposed panel. Also, we are a small, mostly volunteer group, so please send only your favorite ideas.

Send proposals in the body of an email to: [redacted] by December 1, 2007. Please include full contact information for yourself and all proposed panel presenters. Please use the attached form. Just copy the questions into an email and paste your answers in. Please be sure to save a copy of your proposal, as emails do sometimes go astray. We will acknowledge receipt of your proposal, with a timeline for hearing back.

Questions? Email us at [redacted]. We look forward to reading your proposal!

Split This Rock Poetry Festival

PANEL DISCUSSION PROPOSAL FORM

PANEL TITLE:

Convener/Facilitator Name:

Mailing Address:

Email Address:

Phone:

Participant Name:

Mailing Address:

Email Address:

Phone:

Participant Name:

Mailing Address:

Email Address:

Phone:

Participant Name:

Mailing Address:

Email Address:

Phone:

1. Please include a one paragraph bio for each participant.
2. Please describe in 250 words or less the purpose of your panel.
3. Describe your method for involving festival participants in the panel.

**

Support Split This Rock – click here to make a secure tax-deductible donation. Be sure to designate Split This Rock as the recipient of your gift. Many thanks!

**

Sarah Browning

Coordinator

Split This Rock Poetry Festival

c/o Institute for Policy Studies

1112 16th Street, NW, Suite 600

Washington, DC 20036

[redacted]

www.splitthisrock.org

http://sarahbrowning.blogspot.com/

[redacted]

_____
Get a sneak peek of the all-new AOL.com.

_____
Dcpaw mailing list
[redacted]
http://lists.mutualaid.org/mailman/listinfo/dcpaw free hosting provided by http://www.mutualaid.org/

--
Melissa Tuckey
Events Coordinator
DC Poets Against the War

www.dcpaw.org

"Yes, the distance was great between your country and mine. Yet our children played in the path between our houses.

We had no quarrel with each other. "

--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

↑ Index

181. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry
Sat 8 Sep 2007

Robert,

I thought a lot about this. In fact, a poem I wrote in the mid nineties, "Io's Song," is about that.

Unlike strictly concrete poetry, where the focus often is visual, sculptural -and not performative- a space can be created on a page where the relationship among words suggest utterances, vectors which can not be verbalized. I call this borderline space silence. Unlike the purely visual, silence belongs to the left side of the spectrum of sound. It is full of, pregnant with sound, a meditative, pre-coital state of verbal performance. As a poet, my last fifteen years have been obsessed with how to transform/project this silence as performance, without losing its element of silence.

Ciao,

Murat

On 9/7/07, Zamsky, Robert <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> I had an interesting conversation with a colleague of mine in our music > department the other day that I thought I would share with the list. He > regularly teaches a class on music-voice-text, and one of the issues he > is interested in is poetic texts that resist vocalization/performance.
> As he and I discussed, it seems like such resistance could be > categorized in a number of ways: features of the text that make it > difficult to vocalize (such as working in several languages, unusual > syntax or diction, etc.); features of the text that don't necessarily or > obviously translate into vocalization (although punctuation, lineation, > etc. always work at least partly at the acoustic level, they also often > have other, overriding concerns); and, poetic texts that are engaged > with the visual perhaps almost to the exclusion of the verbal. For this > last, we were talking of course about concrete poetry and other "visual > poetries" -- we spent a lot of time talking about Robert Grenier, for > instance.
>
> I found the conversation interesting partly because there is so much > interest (on my part, at least), in the acoustic/musical/performance > qualities of poetry, and it was useful to poke at the limit-cases of > that concern.
>
> I'm wondering if anyone else has any thoughts....
>
> Thanks!
>
> Robert L. Zamsky, PhD
> Assistant Professor
> New College of Florida
>

↑ Index

182. Murat Nemet-Nejat

Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry

Sat 8 Sep 2007

Bruce,

In all this analysis, a binary of choice is established, one abolishing the other. What I am interested in is the simultaneity of these two possibilities. That is what makes this relationship problematic in a very provocative and fertile way. Barthes, in his essay "Loyola," talks about this simultaneity -as the last step in Loyolan meditation- where the reader/meditator has to make a jump (for Loyola into God). Jack Spicer is talking about the same thing in his Vancouver Lectures.

Ciao,

Murat

On 9/8/07, [redacted] <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Apropos Robert Z's interest in texts that deliberately thwart performance, > the research I know indicates that we subvocalize as we read, e.g. Robert > Grenier's "I HATE SPEECH" inadvertently referencing pitch & volume of voice
> thru capitolization as icons of emphasis. But reading obviously is visual > as well, & as one develops expertise in reading, one develops visual > pathways to (verbal) memory that supercede auditory pathways, so that > reading often seems silent. Further, printed texts (excluding texts like > Braile) are significantly visual in as much as they squiggle in patterned > ways, b versus d.
>
> The point would be, Robert's categorization into three "other"
> nonperformative types of text seems supported by research. Besides texts > that can be performed, there are texts that are primarily visual. Of those > texts which can be performed, there are texts that deliberately frustrate a > performance & texts that are not especially interesting to perform, because > they focus on nonperformative (albeit auditory) features in a > text. Performance doesn't add much to what a reading achieves.
>
> Bruce
>
> Bruce
>
>
>

↑ Index

183. steve russell
Re: [redacted] sent you a link to content of interest
Sat 8 Sep 2007

Thanks for the link. Check out the article about Hannah Arendt.

September 07 We Ourselves Are to Blame: Hannah Arendt's Jewish Writings
Zachary Braiterman

Reviewed:
Hannah Arendt,
The Jewish Writings
Schocken Books, 2007

In dark times such as our own, a flurry of publications attests to the abiding importance of Hannah Arendt as a great theorist of totalitarianism. Her recently published collection of essays, The Jewish Writings, will also cement her reputation as an unblinking critic of Zionism and the Jewish establishment, and a paragon of cosmopolitanism. Arendt was born in 1906 to an assimilated German Jewish family. She studied philosophy with the famed Martin Heidegger and wrote her dissertation under the direction of Karl Jaspers on the concept of love in the work of Augustine. With the Nazi rise to power, she fled to Paris where she worked with Jewish refugees. She escaped France in 1941 for New York, where she wrote for the weekly Aufbau, an émigré German Jewish paper. After the war, she worked with a number of Jewish organizations, such as Youth Aliyah and Schocken Books, under whose auspices she introduced the writings of her friend Walter Benjamin to English readers. She went on to teach at a number of American universities, including the New School for Social Research, until her death in 1975. Arendt's most famous works are the Origins of Totalitarianism (1951), The Human Condition (1958), and Eichmann in Jerusalem (1963). Scholars will be happy finally to have in one volume an exhaustive collection of Arendt's published and unpublished writings on Jews and Jewish politics. These writings cover the entire gamut of 20th Jewish political culture: the German Enlightenment and Emancipation, assimilation and anti-Semitism, and Zionism and the Holocaust. A reader inspired enough to plow through all five hundred pages of the collection will find that Arendt was consistent to the point of repetition. Those who want to read more judiciously might start in the 1940s and 1950s with the articles written for Aufbau. They might then proceed to the justly famous "The Jew as Pariah: A Hidden Tradition," "Zionism Reconsidered"(an important first salvo against official Zionism), "The Jewish State," "Peace or Armistice in the Near East," and Arendt's response to her critics after the publication of Eichmann in Jerusalem. Reflections by Arendt's niece Edna Brocke, entitled "Big Hannah," make for a genuinely touching afterward. A modern icon in her own right, Arendt's oeuvre provides an ethical-political clarity for our own times, troubled as they are by the September 11th attacks, war in Iraq and Afghanistan, the struggle against terror, and the feeling felt by some of a creeping totalitarianism after years of monolithic Republican rule. The Jewish Writings speaks similarly to a grim contemporary Jewish scene – with no apparent exit from intifada or terrorism, occupation or siege, and new rounds of polemical bloodletting between intrepid critics of Israel and "the Jewish establishment." The two main themes that animate Arendt's larger body of work – the centrality of the political, understood as an active human connection focused on public life, and the imperative of individual freedom and responsibility, marked by a strong aversion to mass society and culture – appear also in her Jewish writings. These twinned themes both distinguish and distort her criticism of Zionism from the 1950s and, most controversially, her report on the 1961 Eichmann trial. In the articles written for Aufbau in the 1940s Arendt wrote insistently on the need to conduct the fight against Hitler under the auspices of a Jewish army. She complained bitterly about the British, who opposed the formation of such an army, arguing that, in doing so, the British sought to render the Jews silent and invisible. But she also faulted the Jews for failing to appear as a political entity. Taken together, the Aufbau articles present an early, inchoate formulation of "the space of appearance," which Arendt later developed in her arguably most important work of political philosophy, The Human Condition. The space of appearance is a conception of the public space where things are allowed to be seen and heard, where "action" takes place in the unpredictable and open-ended public space of politics, and "the social" is denigrated as that ends-driven place of "work," mediocrity, and conformism. An elitist, Arendt despised passivity on principle. In practice, this principled stance led to results that were often unbalanced, even early in her career as a writer and thinker. In not a few of the Jewish writings penned from the safety of Manhattan, Arendt spoke out against the Jewish instinct for "mere survival." Death, she opined, "begins [its] reign of terror when life becomes the highest good." This sentiment against "mere life" and "mere survival" is a curious thread repeating itself throughout the Aufbau articles (which are peppered with statements about the "readiness to kill," the "readiness to die," "dying on [one's] knees" etc.). In her estimation, a Jewish army and armed Jewish resistance in the ghettos were the sole expressions of an active Jewish political will possible at the time. Unlike these heated appeals for a Jewish army, Arendt's writings on Zionism were more sober overall. On one hand, she was not unimpressed by the Zionists' willingness to fight. But first and foremost, she opposed "suicidal gestures." Arendt saw the pre-state Yishuv and then the State of Israel threatened by the Nazi advance across North Africa under Rommel, and later by hostile Arab neighbors, whom the Zionists had done nothing to placate. Herzl was wrong. A Jewish State was vulnerable and could not protect the Jews from anti-Semitism. Against the game of Realpolitik, Arendt therefore opposed any and all attempts to cut deals with imperial powers, be they Turkish or British. Instead, she championed the cause of solidarity with other oppressed peoples, especially Arabs and progressive forces in Europe, in which she still placed great stock. Preoccupied by the problem of anti-Semitism, Arendt's chief concern was that Zionist politics was isolationist, especially in its rejection of the Diaspora. In failing to create an all-inclusive Jewish organization, including Jews from Europe and the United States, and in failing to stand up for the Diaspora, the Zionists sabotaged their own movement. Instead of a Jewish state, Arendt supported a "homeland" in Palestine as a recognized zone of Jewish settlement, part of the British Commonwealth or some other European federative system. In her view, the only way to defeat anti-Semitism, a nationalist scourge, was by non-nationalist politics. Palestine, we see, was to be a part of Europe. Despite the underlying Eurocentrism of these thoughts, Arendt was an early critic of the inability of mainstream Zionism to see the competing Arab national claim to Palestine. It was on this basis that she objected to the push for a Jewish state at the 1942 Biltmore Conference and to the later proposal to partition Palestine into two separate states, one Jewish and one Arab. Arendt was in a minority, but hardly alone. However, unlike other Zionist critics of partition (Martin Buber, Gershom Scholem, other German Jewish members of the Ichud, as well the leftwing Hashomer Hatzair), Arendt rejected any reconciliation to the fait accompli of 1947-8. It might be said that Arendt was wrong about a lot of things. Was an Arab-Jewish agreement possible in Palestine prior to partition, and if so on what organized basis? Did Herzl lack a political understanding of anti-Semitism? Were the Zionists not right to give up on Europe in the 1920s, 1930s, and 1940s (!)? At this time, were not the Jews surrounded by enemies? Was it the Zionists who broke solidarity with the peoples of Europe and not vice-versa? Was it possible to "combat" anti-Semitism? Did it not make sense to escape from Europe? To what practical purpose should a Jew have stayed to fight at this particular juncture? Did she herself not escape? While it might be true that Arendt was wrong about many things (and for all her antipathy to mainstream Zionism), it is too simple to say that she was an anti-Zionist. In their distress, Arendt never opposed mass immigration of Jews to Palestine, and she always feared the worst for them (and very little, it seems, for the Arabs). For all its collaboration with the British, she rejected the contention that the Zionist settlement itself was a colonialist enterprise. Despite her critique of Labor Zionism, she believed in its human potential. In letters to Carl Jaspers and Mary McCarthy, Arendt was practically ga-ga about Israel's victory in 1967 and expressed profound concern about the future of the State during the Yom Kippur War. On top of that, she despised the "spurious selflessness" of "Jewish radicals" who "furiously deny the existence of the Jewish people." Like the poet Heinrich Heine, she was "not deceived by this nonsense of 'world citizenship,'" which she called "an academic pipedream." What Arendt understood perhaps better than her critics was that the Jewish people, in the Diaspora or in Israel/Palestine, cannot exist in isolation from each other and from non-Jews. At the fore in The Jewish Writings is stubborn dedication to principle. In the case of Zionism in the 1940s, she stuck to the principle of internationalism despite the failure of internationalism to stand up to the challenges posed by the Holocaust and by Arab opposition to Jewish settlement. Regarding the Holocaust, she upheld the principle of individual responsibility, even if this meant crossing the line to blame the victim. Arendt's political judgments were always couched as absolute moral judgments. Arendt rejected the sentimental notion that the Jews were innocent victims of history. In her estimation, the identification of the Jews with the absolutist state in the 1700s was an important contributing factor to the formation of modern anti-Semitism; and she always held the Zionists up short for their failure to counter it effectively. In an Aufbau article, she argued against cooperating with the lesser evil. Writing early in the midst of World War II, she insisted that "the best English friends and the best armies in the world will not save us from this fate for which we ourselves are to blame." The notion that Jews throughout history were historical actors in their own right and not merely victims is now a staple in contemporary Jewish Studies scholarship. But in turning this into a philosophical principle and applying it to the Holocaust, Arendt, we see, began to run up against rough ground. It was Eichmann in Jerusalem that brought upon Arendt's head the fury of the Jewish community. As a correspondent for New Yorker magazine, Arendt covered the 1961 trial of Adolph Eichmann, who had been captured by the Israeli Mossad in Argentina and brought to stand trial in Jerusalem. In her insightful analysis, Eichmann, who engineered the deportation of the Jews to the ghettos and camps, appears as nothing more sadistically demonic than a bureaucrat beholden to clichés and stock phrases. The book was not about the Holocaust itself as much as it was about the individual and individual conscience and responsibility (hence her hostility to Ben-Gurion whom she accused of organizing a political circus). Arendt now sought to convey "the banality of evil," reversing her position in The Origins of Totalitarianism affirming the existence of "radical evil," where she wrote, "an absolute evil appears [absolute because it can no longer be deduced from humanely comprehensible motives]." While the phrase "banality of evil" was a subtle philosophical point little understood by her antagonists (they did not see how the human, non-monstrosity of the person Eichmann made him and his crimes all the more monstrous), her indictment of the Judenräte for co-responsibility in the Nazi genocide was crystal clear. That the leaders of the Jewish Councils cooperated with the Nazis in running the ghettos in Poland and organizing deportations was and remains a fact hard to digest. But Arendt did more than simply state facts, and it was disingenuous of her to suggest that this was all that was at stake in her reportage. More than simply stating facts, Arendt passed on her own normative judgment. In her view, the members of the Jewish Councils were not coerced to cooperate and could have always chosen, if not active resistance, than at least the possibility of doing nothing, of not cooperating (even if the historical record suggests otherwise).

Images: Moscow Diary: Nov 21, near Museum of Contemporary History Of Russia, Katerina, age: 27, height: 5' 6" by Alina and Jeff Bliumis.

CONTINUED 1 | 2 Next »

September 2007

We Ourselves Are to Blame: Hannah Arendt's Jewish Writings Zachary Braiterman Trudy's Wedding Jon Papernick The Gifts of Boredom Jay Michaelson Couples Jonathan Ofek and Amitai Mendelsohn Snapshots: An Excerpt Michal Govrin Missing A Beat Mark Cohen Poems - With an Introduction by Ilan Stavans Isaac Goldemberg Music, Moonshine, and Mahjong Kurt Gegenhuber Cover:
Blue During Blues Robin Ross

Upcoming events

Zeek Fall Issue Release Party
October 24 2007

Archive 850 Back Pages of Zeek... for free Subscribe Now To our print edition About Zeek Recommended Books Advertise on Zeek Support Zeek Mailing List Contact Us Tech Support Partners Links

[input] [input]
[input]
[input] zeek.net [input] Web [input] [input] [input] [input] [input]
[input]

Related The Nazi in the Nursing Home Jeremy Mullem
February 2006 Zionism, Anti-Semitism, and the Boundaries of Dissent: Round 2 of the Alvin Rosenfeld Debate Shaul Magid and Paul Bogdanor
April 2007 Start Making Sense: The "Elaborate Nonsense" of Poles, Jews, and the Holocaust Mordecai Drache
January 2007 Holocaust Video Testimonies Dan Friedman
August, 2003 Radical Evil Michael Shurkin
Bernard Henri-Levy on the death of Daniel Pearl
September, 2003 Harvard Death Fugue:
The Exploitation of Bruno Schultz Prof. James Russell
Historical revisionism and the new antisemitism in academia.

January, 2004 Steel and Glass Dan Friedman
The Spirit and the Machine
August, 2004 Save this article Add to del.icio.us
Digg it Subscribe to feed

David-Baptiste Chirot <[redacted]> wrote:
[redacted] sent you a link to the following content:

Finkelstein settles with DePaul, fight continues for Larudee
http://www.muzzlewatch.com/?p=239

The sender also included this note:

please sign the petition and pass on

--
Sent via a FeedFlare link from a FeedBurner feed.
http://www.feedburner.com/fb/a/publishers/feedflare

Looking for a deal? Find great prices on flights and hotels with Yahoo! FareChase.

↑ Index

184. Jeffrey Side
The Argotist Online currently down
Sat 8 Sep 2007

The Argotist Online is currently down at the moment due to a technical fault. I am trying to resolve this with my host but it could take a few days.

Jeff

↑ Index

185. Rob McLennan
12 or 20 questions
Sat 8 Sep 2007

"12 or 20 questions" is a series of interviews with Canadian and American poets and fiction writers through a series of core questions (with slight variation between authors) conducted by rob mclennan, and started to coincide with his tenure as writer-in-residence at the University of Alberta in Edmonton from the beginning of September, 2007 to the end of May, 2008. So far, seven interviews have been posted (with, perhaps, new ones appearing every day or so):

John-James Ford, Ottawa ON/Colombo Sri Lanka
George Bowering, Vanouver BC

Nathaniel G. Moore, Toronto ON Stephen Brockwell, Ottawa ON
Noah Eli Gordon, Denver CO
Thomas Wharton, Edmonton AB
& Catherine Owen, Edmonton AB

http://robmclennansindex.blogspot.com

-- poet/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...13th poetry coll'n - The Ottawa City Project .... 2007-8 writer in residence, U of Alberta * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

186. Bobbi Lurie

response to book announcement

Sat 8 Sep 2007

Could it be that there is really no need for all this complication? Could it be there is nothing really such as "Jew" or "Nazi" Only people born into certain race/ religion/ creed/ indoctrination/ sentimental vice etc? Could it be that Jews are only humans born as Jews? That all humans are sucked into group mind, greed, fear, jealousy? Could it be if we take away labels we are all stuck in the same gutter? Could it be that the simple act of the Danes to wear the star of David so as to foil Nazis which amounted merely to limitingÂ and confusing their attempts to label, judge, round up and kill particular race/ethnic/group/ religion? "Banality of Evil"----------the dullards of the universe who cause such harm/ horrifying harm due to foggy thinking/ sucked into ideology? Yes. Let us blame the Jews again. That's what's in vogue now obviously. The Holocaust is being contested and this is never ever mentioned because most people compete for victim group status and sorry but the Jews just aren't "in" any more. Getting down to basics (Hitler's failed art career) (and forgive this leap) any Jew in Europe would have given Hitler an art exhibition if they knew it would keep him from murdering 6 million of them (along with many other millions and I only do not name their "group affiliations" because I am opposed to this in the first place)--and most of them would not even think "them" for a great number did not even identify with their Jewish heritage. They would have given him his goddam art show just to keep the maniac happy. No, I didn't say they were all wonderful Jews. Actually, I'm not even talking about Jews. I'm talking about people. They were but people who definitely would have given Hitler his art show if that would have helped to discourage his formulation of yet more concepts along with the power to leash group mind into action. to support my leap into my own topic of shallowness of group thought, blaming, naming, attacking, confirming, annhilating, here's a bit about Hitler's art career:

"Adolf Hitler was an artistâ€”a modern artistâ€¦mediocre conceptual work â€¦"

For this full article by Peter Schjeldahl

Â http://www.newyorker.com/archive/2002/08/19/020819craw_artworld
thanks for listening,
bobbi lurie
Â

-----Original Message-----
From: steve russell <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sat, 8 Sep 2007 11:24 am
Subject: Re: [redacted] sent you a link to content of interest

Thanks for the link. Check out the article about Hannah Arendt.

eptember 07 We Ourselves Are to Blame: Hannah Arendtâ€™s Jewish Writings achary Braiterman Reviewed: annah Arendt, he Jewish Writings chocken Books, 2007 In dark times such as our own, a flurry of publications attests to the abiding mportance of Hannah Arendt as a great theorist of totalitarianism. Her recently ublished collection of essays, The Jewish Writings, will also cement her eputation as an unblinking critic of Zionism and the Jewish establishment, and paragon of cosmopolitanism. Arendt was born in 1906 to an assimilated German Jewish family. She studied hilosophy with the famed Martin Heidegger and wrote her dissertation under the irection of Karl Jaspers on the concept of love in the work of Augustine. With he Nazi rise to power, she fled to Paris where she worked with Jewish refugees. he escaped France in 1941 for New York, where she wrote for the weekly Aufbau, n Ã©migrÃ© German Jewish paper. After the war, she worked with a number of Jewish rganizations, such as Youth Aliyah and Schocken Books, under whose auspices she ntroduced the writings of her friend Walter Benjamin to English readers. She ent on to teach at a number of American universities, including the New School or Social Research, until her death in 1975. Arendtâ€™s most famous works are the rigins of Totalitarianism (1951), The Human Condition (1958), and Eichmann in erusalem (1963). Scholars will be happy finally to have in one volume an exhaustive collection f Arendtâ€™s published and unpublished writings on Jews and Jewish politics. hese writings cover the entire gamut of 20th Jewish political culture: the erman Enlightenment and Emancipation, assimilation and anti-Semitism, and ionism and the Holocaust. A reader inspired enough to plow through all five undred pages of the collection will find that Arendt was consistent to the oint of repetition. Those who want to read more judiciously might start in the 1940s and 1950s ith the articles written for Aufbau. They might then proceed to the justly amous â€œThe Jew as Pariah: A Hidden Tradition,â€ â€œZionism Reconsideredâ€(an mportant first salvo against official Zionism), â€œThe Jewish State,â€ â€œPeace or rmistice in the Near East,â€ and Arendtâ€™s response to her critics after the ublication of Eichmann in Jerusalem. Reflections by Arendtâ€™s niece Edna Brocke, ntitled â€œBig Hannah,â€ make for a genuinely touching afterward. A modern icon in her own right, Arendtâ€™s oeuvre provides an ethical-political larity for our own times, troubled as they are by the September 11th attacks, ar in Iraq and Afghanistan, the struggle against terror, and the feeling felt y some of a creeping totalitarianism after years of monolithic Republican rule. he Jewish Writings speaks similarly to a grim contemporary Jewish scene â€“ with o apparent exit from intifada or terrorism, occupation or siege, and new rounds f polemical bloodletting between intrepid critics of Israel and â€œthe Jewish stablishment.â€ The two main themes that animate Arendtâ€™s larger body of work â€“ the centrality f the political, understood as an active human connection focused on public ife, and the imperative of individual freedom and responsibility, marked by a trong aversion to mass society and culture â€“ appear also in her Jewish ritings. These twinned themes both distinguish and distort her criticism of ionism from the 1950s and, most controversially, her report on the 1961 ichmann trial. In the articles written for Aufbau in the 1940s Arendt wrote insistently on he need to conduct the fight against Hitler under the auspices of a Jewish rmy. She complained bitterly about the British, who opposed the formation of uch an army, arguing that, in doing so, the British sought to render the Jews ilent and invisible. But she also faulted the Jews for failing to appear as a olitical entity. Taken together, the Aufbau articles present an early, inchoate ormulation of â€œthe space of appearance,â€ which Arendt later developed in her rguably most important work of political philosophy, The Human Condition. The pace of appearance is a conception of the public space where things are allowed o be seen and heard, where â€œactionâ€ takes place in the unpredictable and pen-ended public space of politics, and â€œthe socialâ€ is denigrated as that nds-driven place of â€œwork,â€ mediocrity, and conformism. An elitist, Arendt despised passivity on principle. In practice, this rincipled stance led to results that were often unbalanced, even early in her areer as a writer and thinker. In not a few of the Jewish writings penned from he safety of Manhattan, Arendt spoke out against the Jewish instinct for â€œmere urvival.â€ Death, she opined, â€œbegins [its] reign of terror when life becomes he highest good.â€ This sentiment against â€œmere lifeâ€ and â€œmere survivalâ€ is a urious thread repeating itself throughout the Aufbau articles (which are eppered with statements about the â€œreadiness to kill,â€ the â€œreadiness to die,â€ dying on [oneâ€™s] kneesâ€ etc.). In her estimation, a Jewish army and armed ewish resistance in the ghettos were the sole expressions of an active Jewish olitical will possible at the time. Unlike these heated appeals for a Jewish army, Arendtâ€™s writings on Zionism ere more sober overall. On one hand, she was not unimpressed by the Zionistsâ€™ illingness to fight. But first and foremost, she opposed â€œsuicidal gestures.â€ rendt saw the pre-state Yishuv and then the State of Israel threatened by the azi advance across North Africa under Rommel, and later by hostile Arab eighbors, whom the Zionists had done nothing to placate. Herzl was wrong. A ewish State was vulnerable and could not protect the Jews from anti-Semitism. gainst the game of Realpolitik, Arendt therefore opposed any and all attempts o cut deals with imperial powers, be they Turkish or British. Instead, she hampioned the cause of solidarity with other oppressed peoples, especially rabs and progressive forces in Europe, in which she still placed great stock. Preoccupied by the problem of anti-Semitism, Arendtâ€™s chief concern was that ionist politics was isolationist, especially in its rejection of the Diaspora. n failing to create an all-inclusive Jewish organization, including Jews from urope and the United States, and in failing to stand up for the Diaspora, the ionists sabotaged their own movement. Instead of a Jewish state, Arendt upported a â€œhomelandâ€ in Palestine as a recognized zone of Jewish settlement, art of the British Commonwealth or some other European federative system. In er view, the only way to defeat anti-Semitism, a nationalist scourge, was by on-nationalist politics. Palestine, we see, was to be a part of Europe. Despite the underlying Eurocentrism of these thoughts, Arendt was an early ritic of the inability of mainstream Zionism to see the competing Arab national laim to Palestine. It was on this basis that she objected to the push for a ewish state at the 1942 Biltmore Conference and to the later proposal to artition Palestine into two separate states, one Jewish and one Arab. Arendt as in a minority, but hardly alone. However, unlike other Zionist critics of artition (Martin Buber, Gershom Scholem, other German Jewish members of the chud, as well the leftwing Hashomer Hatzair), Arendt rejected any econciliation to the fait accompli of 1947-8. It might be said that Arendt was wrong about a lot of things. Was an rab-Jewish agreement possible in Palestine prior to partition, and if so on hat organized basis? Did Herzl lack a political understanding of anti-Semitism? ere the Zionists not right to give up on Europe in the 1920s, 1930s, and 1940s !)? At this time, were not the Jews surrounded by enemies? Was it the Zionists ho broke solidarity with the peoples of Europe and not vice-versa? Was it ossible to â€œcombatâ€ anti-Semitism? Did it not make sense to escape from Europe? o what practical purpose should a Jew have stayed to fight at this particular uncture? Did she herself not escape? While it might be true that Arendt was wrong about many things (and for all er antipathy to mainstream Zionism), it is too simple to say that she was an nti-Zionist. In their distress, Arendt never opposed mass immigration of Jews o Palestine, and she always feared the worst for them (and very little, it eems, for the Arabs). For all its collaboration with the British, she rejected he contention that the Zionist settlement itself was a colonialist enterprise. espite her critique of Labor Zionism, she believed in its human potential. In etters to Carl Jaspers and Mary McCarthy, Arendt was practically ga-ga about sraelâ€™s victory in 1967 and expressed profound concern about the future of the tate during the Yom Kippur War. On top of that, she despised the â€œspurious elflessnessâ€ of â€œJewish radicalsâ€ who â€œfuriously deny the existence of the ewish people.â€ Like the poet Heinrich Heine, she was â€œnot deceived by this onsense of â€˜world citizenship,â€™â€ which she called â€œan academic pipedream.â€ What Arendt understood perhaps better than her critics as that the Jewish people, in the Diaspora or in Israel/Palestine, cannot exist n isolation from each other and from non-Jews. At the fore in The Jewish Writings is stubborn dedication to principle. In the ase of Zionism in the 1940s, she stuck to the principle of internationalism espite the failure of internationalism to stand up to the challenges posed by he Holocaust and by Arab opposition to Jewish settlement. Regarding the olocaust, she upheld the principle of individual responsibility, even if this eant crossing the line to blame the victim. Arendtâ€™s political judgments were lways couched as absolute moral judgments. Arendt rejected the sentimental notion that the Jews were innocent victims of istory. In her estimation, the identification of the Jews with the absolutist tate in the 1700s was an important contributing factor to the formation of odern anti-Semitism; and she always held the Zionists up short for their ailure to counter it effectively. In an Aufbau article, she argued against ooperating with the lesser evil. Writing early in the midst of World War II, he insisted that â€œthe best English friends and the best armies in the world ill not save us from this fate for which we ourselves are to blame.â€ The notion hat Jews throughout history were historical actors in their own right and not erely victims is now a staple in contemporary Jewish Studies scholarship. But n turning this into a philosophical principle and applying it to the Holocaust, rendt, we see, began to run up against rough ground. It was Eichmann in Jerusalem that brought upon Arendtâ€™s head the fury of the ewish community. As a correspondent for New Yorker magazine, Arendt covered the 961 trial of Adolph Eichmann, who had been captured by the Israeli Mossad in rgentina and brought to stand trial in Jerusalem. In her insightful analysis, ichmann, who engineered the deportation of the Jews to the ghettos and camps, ppears as nothing more sadistically demonic than a bureaucrat beholden to lichÃ©s and stock phrases. The book was not about the Holocaust itself as much s it was about the individual and individual conscience and responsibility hence her hostility to Ben-Gurion whom she accused of organizing a political ircus). Arendt now sought to convey â€œthe banality of evil,â€ reversing her osition in The Origins of Totalitarianism affirming the existence of â€œradical vil,â€ where she wrote, â€œan absolute evil appears [absolute because it can no onger be deduced from humanely comprehensible motives].â€ While the phrase â€œbanality of evilâ€ was a subtle philosophical point little nderstood by her antagonists (they did not see how the human, non-monstrosity f the person Eichmann made him and his crimes all the more monstrous), her ndictment of the JudenrÃ¤te for co-responsibility in the Nazi genocide was rystal clear. That the leaders of the Jewish Councils cooperated with the Nazis n running the ghettos in Poland and organizing deportations was and remains a act hard to digest. But Arendt did more than simply state facts, and it was isingenuous of her to suggest that this was all that was at stake in her eportage. More than simply stating facts, Arendt passed on her own normative udgment. In her view, the members of the Jewish Councils were not coerced to ooperate and could have always chosen, if not active resistance, than at least he possibility of doing nothing, of not cooperating (even if the historical ecord suggests otherwise).

---------- Images: Moscow Diary: Nov 21, near Museum of Contemporary History Of Russia, aterina, age: 27, height: 5' 6" by Alina and Jeff Bliumis. CONTINUED 1 | 2 Next Â»

September 2007

We Ourselves Are to Blame: Hannah Arendtâ€™s Jewish Writings Zachary Braiterman rudyâ€™s Wedding Jon Papernick The Gifts of Boredom Jay Michaelson Couples onathan Ofek and Amitai Mendelsohn Snapshots: An Excerpt Michal Govrin issing A Beat Mark Cohen Poems - With an Introduction by Ilan Stavans Isaac oldemberg Music, Moonshine, and Mahjong Kurt Gegenhuber Cover: lue During Blues Robin Ross Upcoming events Zeek Fall Issue Release Party ctober 24 2007 Archive 850 Back Pages of Zeek... for free Subscribe Now To our print dition About Zeek Recommended Books Advertise on Zeek Support Zeek Mailing ist Contact Us Tech Support Partners Links

[input] [input]
[input] [input] zeek.net [input] Web [input] [input] [input] [input] [input]
input]
Related The Nazi in the Nursing Home Jeremy Mullem ebruary 2006 Zionism, Anti-Semitism, and the Boundaries of Dissent: Round 2 of he Alvin Rosenfeld Debate Shaul Magid and Paul Bogdanor pril 2007 Start Making Sense: The "Elaborate Nonsense" of Poles, Jews, and the olocaust Mordecai Drache
anuary 2007 Holocaust Video Testimonies Dan Friedman
ugust, 2003 Radical Evil Michael Shurkin ernard Henri-Levy on the death of Daniel Pearl

eptember, 2003 Harvard Death Fugue:
he Exploitation of Bruno Schultz Prof. James Russell istorical revisionism and the new antisemitism in academia.
anuary, 2004 Steel and Glass Dan Friedman
he Spirit and the Machine
ugust, 2004 Save this article Add to del.icio.us
Digg it Subscribe to feed

David-Baptiste Chirot <[redacted]> wrote:
[redacted] sent you a link to the following content:
Finkelstein settles with DePaul, fight continues for Larudee
ttp://www.muzzlewatch.com/?p=239
The sender also included this note:
please sign the petition and pass on
--
ent via a FeedFlare link from a FeedBurner feed.
ttp://www.feedburner.com/fb/a/publishers/feedflare

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

187. Carol Novack
October 5th Mad Hatters' Review Reading
Sat 8 Sep 2007

Mad Hatters' Review
www.madhattersreview.com
Edgy & Enlightened Literature, Art & Music in the Age of Dementia

Poetry, Prose & Anything Goes Reading Series Curated & Pickled by Publisher/Editor Carol Novack
*8th Reading
Friday, October 5, 2007, 7 – 9 pm
KGB Bar, 85 East 4th Street, N.Y.C.*

Featuring

Ira Cohen Editor, filmmaker, photographer, and poet, "electric multimedia shaman" Ira Cohen was born in 1935. The child of deaf parents, he learned to spell on his fingers at the age of one. Cohen is the founder of numerous ground-breaking movements and reviews such as the Akashic Record, the Starstreams Poetry Series (Kathmandu), and the Universal Mutant Repertory Company, and has worked as contributing editor of many publications. Selected volumes of his poetry, prose poems, audio and CD recordings of his performances with collaborators including William Burroughs, have been published in the US and abroad. Cohen's portrait photographs have been exhibited widely and appeared as covers in Life Magazine and other magazines. Among his film and video productions are The Invasion of Thunderbolt Pagoda (1968) screened at the Whitney Museum in 1999. In 2006, he was a featured reader at the Whitney Biennial. See Wikipedia<http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ira_Cohen>and do the google for additional details and links.

Lynda Schor's latest story collections are The Body Parts Shop (FC2) and Adventures In Capitalism (Unicorn Press). She has won many grants and prizes, including an O'Henry nomination, and two Maryland State Council grants for fiction. She is the fiction editor of the online literary magazine, Salt River Review <http://www.poetserv.org/>, and she teaches at The New School. Lynda was the featured writer in issue 7 of Mad Hatters' Review <http://www.madhattersreview.com/>.

Stephanie Strickland is a print and new media poet. Her book of poems, Zone: Zero, is forthcoming in 2008. A double book of poems, V: WaveSon.nets/Losing L'una, has a web component vniverse <http://www.vniverse.com/>. V was awarded the Di Castagnola Prize by Brenda Hillman and True North was chosen for that award by Barbara Guest. Her current manuscript is "Huracan's Harp," from which the poems here are taken. Her latest collaborative hypermedia work, slipping glimpse <http://slippingglimpse.org/>, was first shown at E-Poetry 2007 in Paris. Strickland poems appear in the current issue of Mad Hatters' Review <http://www.madhattersreview.com/>.

*Publications by the authors will be offered for sale by Mobile Libris<http://www.mobilelibris.com/>
.*

For further info, email: [redacted] (type READINGS in the subject line)

--
MAD HATTERS' REVIEW: Edgy & Enlightened Literature, Art & Music in the Age of Dementia: http://www.madhattersreview.com
KEEP THE MAD HATTERS ALIVE! MAKE A TAX DEDUCTIBLE DONATION HERE:
https://www.fracturedatlas.org/site/contribute/donate/580

http://carolnovack.blogspot.com/

My NEW CD: INVENTIONS I: Fictions, Fusions & Poems is available for purchase via: http://www.madhatthttersreview.com/cds_dvds/inventions1.html

Review & Interview: http://www.outsiderwriters.org/content/view/319/1/

http://www.myspace.com/madhattercarollers
http://www.myspace.com/madhattersreview

↑ Index

188. David Chirot

A Letter to Ron Silliman from Il Maestro G.A. Vidiamodopo re "Grand Piano de Parole in Liberace"

Sat 8 Sep 2007

A friend notified me today that at the Blog of Silliman is a featured link to the analysis of "The Grand Piano de Parole in Liberace" in a presentation of Il Maestro G. A. Vidiamodopo.
http://davidbaptistechirot.blogspot.com/2007/07/its-accessories-necessaries-considered.html

As a colleague of Il Maestro in Eternal network of Fluxus Street Theater d' Il Maestro G. Maciunas I duly passed along the news to Maestro Vidiamadopo, who in turn sent to me a reply, concerning a perhaps misreading of his analysis of the "Corrective" Collective Autobiography as Il Maestro amuses himself by referring to it in the here and there moments in which he does. Here the relevant part of the letter to me which Il Maestro would like me to share with you, esteemed Colleagues, Brothers and Sisters in the Anarekeyological Actions of Eternal Heraclitean Flux.

"Estimado, El Colonel de Securidad Nacional, Sector "Languagismo" R. Silliman :

Thank you for the honor bestowed of the selection of my humble paper for the readership of your often cited Blog, home I hear to the formation of opinion and shaping of taste with in the august parlance of baseball fans such as myself, "Friendly Confines" of the storied laurel vine covered Walls of the stadium of the Grand Piano of the Collective of the Corrective Autobiography. It is with many happinesses I find myself among such an assemblage of the luminaries, eminences grises and laureati of the laurels of the Lyric Art. I need however to call attention to one shortcoming in the formulation of the indication of the existence of my examination of the Grand Piano di Parole in Liberace. This is the use of the words "A Literal Interpretation of the Grand Piano" which must be touched cyber-style to be linked to my presentation. Perhaps you have knowledge in the form of the reading of his works of the poet Jean-Nicholas Arthur Rimbaud? Whether yes or not, this poet well beloved to the hearts of millions across the spheres of Poesia, this poet in regards to a question as to the meanings of his works famously replied:

"They mean what they say, literally and in every sense."

Therefore, rather than confining the illustrious readership of the blog to the very narrow "literal" reading which alone could produce the sense that my piece is a "literal interpretation" alone--the repeition of this word is in order to underline my need to overcome its loneliness--I want to point out that my interpretion is like that propounded by the well-beloved Rimbaud. In other word, my interpretation is "literal AND IN EVERY SENSE." That is, it is to be understood in a far more vast "realms of the senses," to play on the title of a film by the Maestro Oshima. The examination is in each and every word opening into ever more areas of the senses in all their senses. I hope that via these senses the deeper sense of my words may begin to "make sense" to the readers and yourself of the simultaneous "amplifying" and "chiseling" of my critique which in its employ of these methods of the Isouian conception of Lettriste literary historical periodicity is essaying a far more complex and wide ranging presentation than that kept narrowly confined within the heretofore alluded to "Friendly Confines" of a method which can see only that which is of its own necessity limited to define as a "literal" "interpretation." that which in fact is not so narrowly confined at all. To use a street inflection from the repertoire of the milieu of the Fluxus Street Theater, El Colonel, in my work I "don't play that," that being the "literal," for as noted, I am dealing in the full throated and bodied Rimbaldien expression of the "Literal & In Every Sense" according to the "long reasoned derangement of the senses" for in the end to "reach the Unknown." For its from this Unknown that the positions of the known may be examined in the methods and manner which I have employed and so have indeed reached from this Unknown an understanding of the known which I have presented in my generous assesment of the Grand Piano di Parole Liberace's achievement, which perhaps you may have missed in a misreading of my examination as existing solely within the "Freindly Confines" of your own "literal" reading of that which is not confined to the literal alone. Here is the simple conclusion which was reached by the employment of my methodology, drawing on the teachings and examples of a great many brilliant predeccessors and colleagues of the present moment:

Only the finest cabinets are used in the preservation of the documents, archives, recordings and files of the Grand Piano-- for in preservation in its purest state lies posterity in state-- in archival preservation lies the Grand Piano salvation of the materialist word--

In sum, my friends and colleagues, by surveying in a review-examination the cultural-materialist construction for the presentation and maintenance of the

"Grand Piano", one has developed an awareness of the targeted directions of its discourses, its performative aspects, as well as its "in-dwellings" as it were.

I think it is safe to say--for in my position I must take into consideration above all your security--I think it is safe to say that the object here considered for review-examination is one easily commanding entry into the data-zones of citation, bibliography and notes, while also sure to generate further examinations of its modifications of previously existing versions of the already existing files under which this particular "Grand Piano" has already been filed many times over. I find it safe to presume that its revisionings and revisionisms of extant files will be of at least a minor interest to those engaged in the minutiae of this particular trope of a narrowly conceived discursive presentation.

Here it is shown that even with the most "literal" readings from within the "Freindly Confines" that the "interpretation" is not at all limited to the "literal" but indeed has been embracing of the "LiTERAL AND IN EVERY SENSE" and does indeed present a commentary-conclusion reached by this widely-arrayed Anarkeyological examinition of the presented materials.

In Parole Seimpre in Liberace,
G. A. Vidiamodopo

Thanking you again for the great honor to be included among the highlighted links to the various galaxies constellated in your assemblage for this day.

↑ Index

189. J Crockett
I love poetry.
Sat 8 Sep 2007

Poets, another story.

Born too soon, they are.

They think, even now, that there is any difference from their work being edited to being rejected.

Jesse Crockett

Now developing listenlight.net (a poetry journal) in the Ruby on Rails platform, & accepting all submissions without visible file extensions (excluding the pdf, for which there is Open Office.)

http://denacht.blogspot.com (come see me prizefight facebook!)

~~What's old stays old. What's new gets old fast.~~
-- anonymous

~~I'm not your magazine.~~
-- R.E.M.

↑ Index

190. Jeffrey Side
Nick Piombino interview at The Argotist Online
Sat 8 Sep 2007

Nick Piombino interviewed by Gregory Vincent St. Thomasino at The Argotist Online:

http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Piombino%20interview.htm

↑ Index

191. Jeffrey Side
Argotist back online
Sat 8 Sep 2007

The site is back online.

↑ Index

192. holsapple1
Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry
Sat 8 Sep 2007

I think you're right, Murat, that I premised my analysis of the subject as one involving choices, & I probably did that because I built off the phrase, quote poetic texts that resist vocalization/performance, thinking of such texts as a particular kind & of that resistance as deliberately constructed. Neither need be the case. Further, I agree that there's no need of setting the visual & verbal aspects into opposition, such that choosing one abolishes the other. That wasn't my intent. Reading after all involves both visual & verbal processing, & it's the relation between the two that I was thinking about. But are you saying that relation (between the visual & verbal) in a poetic text is after all a problem for performance? In all cases? This would seem closer to what Vernon is talking of. Perhaps we can clarify how a text resists "vocalization/performance."

↑ Index

193. Joel Weishaus
North-5 Text-5- completing the project
Sun 9 Sep 2007

This is #25 of 25 texts.

http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/North/North-5/text-5.htm

It's been almost two years since I began "The Way North."
I want to thank all of you for receiving, and even maybe taking time to consider, this work.

For those of you who want to look at it at your leisure from the beginning:
http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/North/Intro.htm

Notes:

Designed for screen resolution: 1024x768; Text size: Medium; Monitor: 17" or larger; Browser: MS Explorer preferred. (Checked for Foxfire, but a few design changes are usually found.) Paratext boxes are opened by holding cursor over words. Speakers on.

-Joel

↑ Index

194. Peter Ciccariello
Brass trope dream
Sun 9 Sep 2007

Brass trope dream <http://cgi7.com/peterimages/brass-trope-dream.jpg>

- Peter Ciccariello
http://invisiblenotes.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

195. Jesse Glass
Voice and Performance
Sun 9 Sep 2007

The voice has to become a hand sorting among the fragments...Also an instrument breaking down and rebuilding itself in the presence of the unsay-able...also a feast borne on the breath in the presence of famine...the voice must also become a recuperative force in the sick room of the spavined text. I attempt this with the aural reconstructions of Man's Wows (available on-line) with the result in my beaten-up voice at Penn Sound. Other experiments at UBU-web and most recently www.Lichtensteiger.de. Fuck silence. Jess

↑ Index

196. Alan Sondheim
of utmost beauty
Sun 9 Sep 2007

of utmost beauty

radiolaria

http://www.asondheim.org/radiolaria.gif what i want to do in a future exhibition installation show

http://www.asondheim.org/tibetcym0.mp3
http://www.asondheim.org/tibetcym1.mp3
http://www.asondheim.org/tibetcym1b.mp3
http://www.asondheim.org/tibetcym2.mp3
http://www.asondheim.org/tibetcym3.mp3

after the onset enlightenment tone on a pair of large Tibetan cymbals breathing out as continuing into the metallic fiber of the planet

these are works i've wanted to do for a long long time wanting is always a removal molecular atomic structures and consorts traveling across metallic plains of unknown metals these plains of unknown sounds beyond or beneath sounds these plains

shuddering in very low frequency radio couplings if one so desires traveling metals and universes through universes these universes momentarily harden and vibrate imperfect harmonies or perhaps harmonies perfect in discordance harmonies after enlightenment who could doubt the breathing of metal or water breathing of fire or air who could doubt breathing of this or that area or the breathing of those shallows or hills or sides of hills the breathing of those areas of sloping hills those areas somewhere among the shallows or those breathings in concordance discordance

nothing setting into motion, no things motioning, nothing beckoning i've wanted to do these for a long time, i prepared carefully i prepared carefully, i did them, i don't want to do them any more

↑ Index

197. Barrett Watten
Grand Piano updates
Sun 9 Sep 2007

Note on the publication schedule of The Grand Piano, part 4: due to a printing error, the volume has been recalled and will reship in late September. We apologize to our readers and subscribers. Stay tuned for more.

Also, there is now as complete a list as possible of reviews and comments on the project at:

http://www.english.wayne.edu/fac%5Fpages/ewatten/posts/post34.html#links

as well as an archive-in-process at our website:

http://www.thegrandpiano.org

Barrett Watten

↑ Index

198. Anny Ballardini
Euripides' Hipplytos by Jon Corelis on the Poets' Corner
Sun 9 Sep 2007

From Jon Corelis:

Dear Friends:

This email is to announce the completion and availability of my new performance version in English of Euripides' Hippolytos.

This version is innovative in a number of ways. Unlike most modern versions of Greek plays, which tend to be either fairly literal reading versions done by scholars or more creative performance versions done by poets or playwrights, this is a version in verse created for performance, by someone who is thoroughly familiar with the original as a properly credentialed classicist, but who is also an internationally published poet. (My web site, listed at the end of this email, gives a summary of this background.) My script's relation to Euripides' Greek text ranges from almost word for word translation in some parts to very free recasting in others, and it employs various levels of diction, some of which satisfy and others of which deliberately thwart a modern audience's expectations of how people in a Greek tragedy should talk.

Another innovation, which I believe is original with this version, is that the choruses are in verse to be set to music taken from medieval secular songs. The current script only gives the names of these songs (since I can't write musical notation myself), but these melodies are all standard parts of the early music repertory and are available on CD, as computerized files on the internet, or in scores in scholarly music works or from specialist publishers. I can refer prospective performers to these sources; eventually as a result of working with a performance group I hope to find someone who will be able to write musical annotation which I can include with my text.

I'd be glad to hear from any drama group, whether professional, semi-professional, amateur, or academic, who would like to perform this new version. (I'd only expect royalties if it were produced by a troupe in a position to pay them; I'd willingly give permission gratis for performance by an amateur or academic group that didn't charge admission or charged it only to cover expenses.) Interested parties can contact me by any of the means indicated in the signature below.

The script is being housed on the internet on the Italian cultural web site Fieralingue, which may most easily be accessed with the URL: http://tinyurl.com/3cqhxk (click on the Euripides' Hippolytos link for the .pdf file). There's also a link to it on my web site. Alternatively, I'd be glad to send the script to interested persons via email as a .pdf or as a MS-WORD .doc file, or via post in hard copy or on a data CD. I'd be most grateful if you'd forward this email to anyone you think might be interested in it. Thanks for reading this.

Yours truly,

Jon Corelis

==========

Jon Corelis
517 S. State St.
Appleton WI 54911 USA
tel [redacted]
[redacted]
www.geocities.com/joncpoetics

↑ Index

199. Brian Howe

Re: Are young female poets still behaving thusly ...

Sun 9 Sep 2007

> "But I'll confess to not being sufficiently interested in pop music to read the journalism about it."
>
> well, that would explain why you've never heard "diva" used with subtle derision, huh? pop music and the discourse around it are wracked by built-in irony; in this sphere-- just as in neo-con discourse-- many phrases abandon > their classical origins and come to mean something more ambiguous, if not entirely opposite.

best
brian

At 01:07 PM 9/7/2007, you wrote:
> >I've seldom heard "diva" used in music journalism to indicate the divine, > >regardless of its origins. It seems more often deployed to insinuate the > old
> >"hysterical woman" stereotype, synonymous in tone with something like
> "prima > >donna". It's not explicitly insulting, it's part of a larger structural > >pattern of language from male critics that holds back a measure of > artistic > >seriousness from female musicians. At any rate, "siren" might have been a > >better example, implying as it does (even in its literal sense) that the > >singer will lure you into danger with her magical song or some shit like > >that.
> >
> >Best,
> >Brian
> >
> >
> >On 9/6/07, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
> > >
> > > >
> > > >
> > > > Brian Howe <[redacted]> wrote: This problem is still > > > > rampant in music criticism, it's built into the words
> > > > some male critics use-- songbird, songstress, and diva, just to name
> a > > > > few--
> > >
> > > Wait, wait wait wait!
> > >
> > > When did "diva" become a belittling word?
> > > Does that mean that to call someone "divine" (source of the word
> "diva")
> > > is to insult her?
> > >
> > >
> > >

> > >
> > > > Geo. H. Bowering
> > > Adaptable yet reliable.
> > >
>

↑ Index

200. Russo, Linda V.
Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry
Sun 9 Sep 2007

Hi Rob! & others...

re text as a site of difficulty, wherein difficulty is in fact be the vocalization/performance, I'd bring the visual poetry of Mike Basinski into the mix, as an example of poetry that, I dunno, feigns resitance? i.e. a Basinski performance engages the signifier as a radically open site; he treats reading even his own works as an act of interpretation & vocalizes the difficulties and possibilities a text "yields." He reads the texts as though he hasn't written them. The result is, you might say, the difficulty of vocalization. I assume the Grenier you have in mind are the "scrawl" poems; I wouldn't exclude their engagement of the verbal - recalling the seeming glee that Grenier exuded when he asked his audience to read these poems aloud (this was at Buffalo 8 years ago or so?). While for Grenier these may be visual poems, they foreground the act of verbal interpretation for the reader. Although one might stare at them mutely and that would be ok too.

I've been thinking about performance & difficulty lately because of a student of mine, who's got a great sense of poetry, a junior who's writing fantastic poems, and is very intersted in performance, too (she writes multi-vocal performance pieces). She's got a stutter, and I've been wanting to account for that as part of her poetic material - without pathologizing it - how might she incorporate an awareness of that, rather than glaze over it? I haven't been sure how to broach this with her. The only analogue I could come up with so far is Aaron Williamson - but I don't think she's interested in performing stutter or anything like that. Any ideas?

By the say, there's an excellent essay on Basinski's work by Ric Royer that you might want to check out; it's in a new zine edited by Justin Kato (a student of Bill Howe's & cris cheek's at Miami University Ohio) - the zine's at my office right now but I'll get you the reference if you're interested. It's a special performance issue.

Linda

On 9/7/07, Zamsky, Robert <,[redacted]> wrote:
>
> I had an interesting conversation with a colleague of mine in our music > department the other day that I thought I would share with the list. He > regularly teaches a class on music-voice-text, and one of the issues he > is interested in is poetic texts that resist vocalization/performance.
> As he and I discussed, it seems like such resistance could be > categorized in a number of ways: features of the text that make it > difficult to vocalize (such as working in several languages, unusual > syntax or diction, etc.); features of the text that don't necessarily or > obviously translate into vocalization (although punctuation, lineation, > etc. always work at least partly at the acoustic level, they also often > have other, overriding concerns); and, poetic texts that are engaged > with the visual perhaps almost to the exclusion of the verbal. For this > last, we were talking of course about concrete poetry and other "visual > poetries" -- we spent a lot of time talking about Robert Grenier, for > instance.
>
> I found the conversation interesting partly because there is so much > interest (on my part, at least), in the acoustic/musical/performance > qualities of poetry, and it was useful to poke at the limit-cases of > that concern.
>
> I'm wondering if anyone else has any thoughts....
>
> Thanks!
>
> Robert L. Zamsky, PhD
> Assistant Professor
> New College of Florida
>

Date: Sat, 8 Sep 2007 13:15:55 -0400
From: Murat Nemet-Nejat <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry

Bruce,

In all this analysis, a binary of choice is established, one abolishing the other. What I am interested in is the simultaneity of these two possibilities. That is what makes this relationship problematic in a very provocative and fertile way. Barthes, in his essay "Loyola," talks about this simultaneity -as the last step in Loyolan meditation- where the reader/meditator has to make a jump (for Loyola into God). Jack Spicer is talking about the same thing in his Vancouver Lectures.

Ciao,

Murat

On 9/8/07, [redacted] <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Apropos Robert Z's interest in texts that deliberately thwart performance, > the research I know indicates that we subvocalize as we read, e.g. Robert > Grenier's "I HATE SPEECH" inadvertently referencing pitch & volume of voice > thru capitolization as icons of emphasis. But reading obviously is visual > as well, & as one develops expertise in reading, one develops visual > pathways to (verbal) memory that supercede auditory pathways, so that > reading often seems silent. Further, printed texts (excluding texts like > Braile) are significantly visual in as much as they squiggle in patterned > ways, b versus d.
>
> The point would be, Robert's categorization into three "other"
> nonperformative types of text seems supported by research. Besides texts > that can be performed, there are texts that are primarily visual. Of those > texts which can be performed, there are texts that deliberately frustrate a > performance & texts that are not especially interesting to perform, because > they focus on nonperformative (albeit auditory) features in a > text. Performance doesn't add much to what a reading achieves.
>
> Bruce
>

↑ Index

201. noah eli gordon

tec. help

Sun 9 Sep 2007

Dear List Folks,

Would someone point me to a website where one enters text and receives a list of the number of appearances of each word? I remember someone posting a link to a site like this about five or six years ago on the list, but I can't find it anymore. If there's no longer such a thing, does any one know how to get a comprehensive list from Word itself?

Thanks,
Noah

_____ Gear up for Halo® 3 with free downloads and an exclusive offer. It’s our way of saying thanks for using Windows Live™. http://gethalo3gear.com?ocid=SeptemberWLHalo3_WLHMTxt_2=

↑ Index

202. Vernon Frazer
Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry
Sun 9 Sep 2007

Bruce

I don't view visual, textual and musical elements as necessarily being in opposition to one another. Each has its unique strengths and weaknesses. The problem is how to make the elements work together. In some cases, they dovetail. In others, they clash. The question, for me, personally, is how to make them fit in ways that enhance the work. Sometimes the dovetail works best, sometimes the clash. And there are many combinations in between.

Some works may be difficult to perform because their creators never intended them as performance pieces. In this case, the relation of visual and verbal material would appear most effectively on the page.

Speaking personally, as my works increasingly incorporate visual elements, I think less frequently of them as performance pieces. But my musical background makes me very aware of the musicality of the language I employ, whether I intend to perform the piece or not.

Not all pieces can be performed. Sometimes one component will cancel the other out in performance, while they hold up perfectly well on the page. While reading, reciting or performing a poem might give it an extra boost of energy, it might also limit the full realization of pieces with varied fonts or parenthetical comments because the voice alone can't convey the nuances in the material on the page.

Vernon
http://vernonfrazer.com

-----Original Message-----
From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of [redacted]
Sent: Saturday, September 08, 2007 11:56 PM

To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry

I think you're right, Murat, that I premised my analysis of the subject as one involving choices, & I probably did that because I built off the phrase, quote poetic texts that resist vocalization/performance, thinking of such texts as a particular kind & of that resistance as deliberately constructed. Neither need be the case. Further, I agree that there's no need of setting the visual & verbal aspects into opposition, such that choosing one abolishes the other. That wasn't my intent. Reading after all involves both visual & verbal processing, & it's the relation between the two that I was thinking about. But are you saying that relation (between the visual & verbal) in a poetic text is after all a problem for performance? In all cases? This would seem closer to what Vernon is talking of. Perhaps we can clarify how a text resists "vocalization/performance."

↑ Index

203. Tribbey, Hugh R.
Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry
Sun 9 Sep 2007

I tend to think of Performance as an economy I must submit to to support the work I want to do. I'm used to framing my performance of alternative writing in the conservative & mainstream venues available in my area in order to soften the reception. The work I perform--(various liminal, procedural, a computer-assisted compositions)--I think of as undermining Voice as that glamour commodity, that jewel I'm supposed to horde as my creative writing Precious. I don't think my situation is unique.

↑ Index

204. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry
Sun 9 Sep 2007

Bruce,

Placement of words on a page create all sorts of directional (and sequential) vectors. The most traditional and obvious of them is the line formation where one starts (in English at least) from left to right. In such a structures the reader knows what word follows what; therefore the temporal sequence is fixed. The varieties, flexibilities may occur on the pattern of stressing certain words or the cadences among them, and also on the relationship, which can be complex, of the line breaks to the horizontal momentum of the line. This strict notational structure gives us performance as traditionally one understands it.

If one begins to move words, centrifugally, away from this horizontal structure, the certainty of this temporal sequencing becomes unstable. The "reader/eye" can still see relationship among words, but the vectors are multiple and often oppose each other. The reader must enter this space, to some extent be frozen by this multiplicity, and make a choice of a specific kind. This transforms the very idea of reading (both empowering and paralyzing the reader) and creates a crisis of performance.

Since, in my view, such a verbal space maintains power to the extent that words retain tangential relationships which arc across the "silent," empty space, the poem becomes a tenuous (in that instability mystical) balance between chaos (Poe's forces of rejection among objects in Eureka) and unity. The reader (also the poem and the poet) focusing on that razor's edge is going through a process quite similar to the last (10th?) step in the Loyolan meditation.

How can or may a reading starting in the non-linear motions of the eye be performed verbally, that is to say, in real time. That is the crisis in performance. I can have a few tentative answers. First, in such a performance the utterance can only be a fragment (or a verbal gesture). The performance progressing from fragment to fragment, in that way recreating the space/silence between the fragments in real time. The instantaneity of perception and the continuity of silence (of the unsaid) is unified.

Second, a given performance is unrepeatable. Since the relationship among words is, must be unstable, potentially vectored in multiple ways, the reader/performer each time must repeat the choice, following a different path. It is this neutrality (what Barthes calls the absolute balance in the equality of choice) which constitutes the crisis in performance, forcing one to envision performance in a completely new way. It makes such a visual poem a great tool for poetic exploration.

I was at Vernon's reading from "Improvizations" at The Poetry Project a few years ago. My problem with it was that the shape of the performance was pre-set, in no way reflection the sense of crisis I am talking about. They remained "improvisations" in an abstract sense. For instance, if I remember correctly, he had different people performing simultaneously columns of texts appeared next to each other in the page. To me such a method short circuits the element of crisis by eliminating the choice.

In "Io's Song" also, I have a number of poems, particularly "Baha-Mas in the Berkshires," where two columns run down simultaneously on the page. The reader must constantly shift his or her eye from one to the other –being able to stop at one only a moment- because two different, conflicting perceptions are simultaneously developed (one Ahab on his boat and the other Melville in his room on his farm writing the novel). Splitting this performance into two readers to me is unimaginable.

I gave two performances from Io's Song just when I wrote the poem in the 1990's. One was at the Poetry Project where the majority of the audience (my fans you might say) thought I had gone insane. The other was a recording of some of the poems for CD-Rom issue of visual poetry which The Little Magazine of University of Albany, edited by Chris Funkhauser and Belle Gironde, which came out about the same time. These performances, which are recorded, are full of hesitations, stutters of sounds, zigzagging verbal riffs, false starts which, for that single moment, satisfactorily reproduce for me, in performance, the texture of (including its space), one possibility in, the visual text.

About two years later, after the publication of "A Blind Cat Black and Orthodoxies," I tried to read at the Sun and Moon space in Los Angeles a few pieces from "Io's Song." To my shock I found I couldn't. I could not penetrate the space of the poems. It is at that reading I realized the resistance, the pull towards silence, towards not to be performed, Io's Song –and a poem like it- possess. In 2002 (?), during the writing of Eda, I gave a reading in San Francisco. I was solo, and Steve Dickison asked me to perform up to two hours. I was running a fever that day. In my second hour, I entered a mental space and read aloud Baha-Mas in the Berkshires, to my satisfaction. It is my only performance of the poem and is recorded. (I talk about "resistance" in a specific kind of surface in my recent review of Bill Berkson's Sudden Address).

Since that "failed" performance at the Sun and Moon space, and my realization of crisis, fragments from Io Song suddenly appear in the middle of something I am writing, finding a place, a new life there. For instance, in the Eda Anthology, the translation of k. Iskender's "souljam" ("canguncem") contains two fragments from "Io's Song" which enter the space of Iskender's poem. In the same book, the section belonging to the poet Seyhan Erozçelik starts with a sketch (by the poet) of the multiple meanings of a Turkish neologism, "düstanbul," contrasted in the opposite page by a single performance of that sketch (its space) in English.

"Io's Song" was written simultaneously while I was writing "The Peripheral Space of Photography" (Green Integer Press). The Peripheral Space ends with a poem from Io's Song, "Formula for Organic Substances," which tries to recreate what the photographer Man Ray does in his Rayographs. (I hope the internet does not distort the shape of the arrangement of words on the page.)

Formula for Organic Substances

im ding

words

sin p l o p l o

tax ex ding dong a trophy - alas! - entrophy
sunday in Claus trophobia
S a n t a Pyhrric heart

Ciao,

Murat

On 9/8/07, [redacted] <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> I think you're right, Murat, that I premised my analysis of the subject as > one involving choices, & I probably did that because I built off the phrase, > quote poetic texts that resist vocalization/performance, thinking of such > texts as a particular kind & of that resistance as deliberately > constructed. Neither need be the case. Further, I agree that there's no > need of setting the visual & verbal aspects into opposition, such that > choosing one abolishes the other. That wasn't my intent. Reading after all > involves both visual & verbal processing, & it's the relation between the > two that I was thinking about. But are you saying that relation (between > the visual & verbal) in a poetic text is after all a problem for > performance? In all cases? This would seem closer to what Vernon is > talking of. Perhaps we can clarify how a text resists
> "vocalization/performance."
>

↑ Index

205. cris cheek
fuck silence
Sun 9 Sep 2007

---

is an interesting manifesto Jesse

↑ Index

206. Burt Kimmelman
Call for Panels, Papers, & Readings
Sun 9 Sep 2007

CALL FOR PANELS AND PAPERS
31st Annual New Jersey College English Association Conference
Saturday, March 29, 2008
Seton Hall University, South Orange, NJ 07079

Keynote Speaker: Edward Halsey Foster

The New Jersey College English Association is soliciting panels and papers considering a broad range of literary and composition topics for its annual conference. The NJCEA brings together those interested in language, literature, pedagogy, and other aspects of the teaching and study of literature and writing.

Paper proposals are now being accepted for the following panels (contact session convener listed below):

· Microfiction. Convener: John Wargacki, [redacted]

· Humor and the American Novel. Convener: Edward Shannon, [redacted]

· Teaching Gen 1.5 Students: Writing and Identity. Convener: Gita Das Bender, [redacted]

· New Approaches to Medieval Literature. Convener: Angela Jane Weisl, [redacted]

· New Jersey Writers. Convener: Mary Ann Miller Convener: [redacted]

· "NJCEA Poets" Convener: Maxine Susman, [redacted]

· Literature and the Law. Convener: Rolanne Henry, [redacted]

· Travel Writing. Convener: Loren Hoekzema, [redacted]

· Transnational Forces in Hemispheric Literature. Convener: John Gruesser, [redacted]

· Material Culture in American Literature. Convener: Mary Dolores DeLuise and Joyce Zonana, [redacted]; [redacted]

· Writing and the New Media: Composition in a Digital Age. Convener: Norbert Elliot, [redacted]

· Twentieth-Century American Literature. Convener: Shamika Mitchell, [redacted]

· Myth and Literature. Convener: Richard Marranca, [redacted]

Anyone with an interest in other topics--in literature or composition--is encouraged to propose a panel or paper. Full and part-time college instructors, graduate students, and other professionals within the field of English are invited to send panel proposals and 250-word paper abstracts on any topic related to college English to Burt Kimmelman, Conference Organizer, Humanities Department, New Jersey Institute of Technology, Newark, NJ 07102; [redacted]. E-Mail Submissions Preferred! All submissions must contain your name, e-mail address, and hardcopy address.

GRADUATE STUDENTS: You are cordially invited to submit papers for the NJCEA's annual Graduate Student Award. The winner of this award will receive a $50.00 Barnes & Noble gift certificate and have her or his paper published in College English Notes, the official publication of the NJCEA. Send complete paper and paper abstract IN ELECTRONIC FORM only to the conference organizer at [redacted] by January 2, 2008. Papers should be 8-10 pages in length. N.B.: In order to be eligible to win the graduate student award, students must present their paper at the conference.

DEADLINE FOR PANEL PROPOSALS: November 30, 2006.
DEADLINE FOR COMPLETED PANELS, PAPER ABSTRACTS, AND GRADUATE STUDENT PAPERS: January 2, 2007.

PLEASE PASS THIS ANNOUNCEMENT ON TO OTHER LISTSERVS (CFP AT PENN IS NO LONGER SENDING E-MAIL NOTICES), PRINT AND POST IT IN YOUR DEPARTMENT. THANKS!

↑ Index

207. Bob Grumman
My New Book, From Haiku To Lyriku
Sun 9 Sep 2007

It's at
http://bobgrumman.com/FromHaikuToLyriku/index.html.

The book is about contemporary North American haiku and related short poems. I consider it a pretty good survey of what's going on everywhere in contemporary North American poetry, for it discusses short specimens of such poetries as visual poetry and language poetry as well as of conventional poetry.

Poets from whom I've stolen haiku and related poems for inclusion in my book are in an index at the webpage.

AND: I can take credit card orders. I have a friend who owns a bookstore, so if you send me your credit card data, she will process it.

One temporary problem: I forgot to get padded envelopes to mail the books out in. So shipment of books already ordered will be a little delayed. (I'm supposed to get a box of padded envelopes on Tuesday from Staples.)

--Bob G.

↑ Index

208. Burt Kimmelman
NYC and NJ Readings
Sun 9 Sep 2007

UPCOMING READINGS BY BURT KIMMELMAN AND OTHERS
(to help us enter autumn and prepare to welcome winter)

[....]

I try to remember when time's measure painfully chafes, for instance when autumn flares out at the last, boisterous and like us longing to stay - - - how everything lives, shifting from one bright vision to another, forever in these momentary pastures.

- Mary Oliver

D. S. Nurske, Michael Graves, and Burt Kimmelman
September 30th at 5
Bengal Curry
65 West Broadway betw. Murray and Warren Streets, 1½ blocks south of Chambers)
NYC 10007
Phone: [redacted]
http://www.menupages.com/restaurantdetails.asp?areaid=0&restaurantid=1900&neighborhoodid=0&cuisineid=32

Carol Stone and Burt Kimmelman
October 25th at 7
Watchung Booksellers
54 Fairfield Street
Watchung Plaza
Montclair, NJ 07042
[redacted]
http://www.watchungbooksellers.com/NASApp/store/IndexJsp?s=statictext&topic=about

* Admission Free *

* All Are Welcome *

↑ Index

209. Ryan Daley
Re: tec. help
Sun 9 Sep 2007

Noah,

What you're asking can be done in Word. Hit CTRL + F (Apple Key+F) to access the "Find" function. Then search for said word. The search results should count the number of times that word appears.

Best of luck!

-Ryan

On 9/9/07, noah eli gordon <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Dear List Folks,
>
> Would someone point me to a website where one enters text and receives a > list of the number of appearances of each word? I remember someone posting
a > link to a site like this about five or six years ago on the list, but I > can't find it anymore. If there's no longer such a thing, does any one know > how to get a comprehensive list from Word itself?
>
> Thanks,
> Noah
>
> _____
> Gear up for Halo(r) 3 with free downloads and an exclusive offer. It's our > way of saying thanks for using Windows Live™.
> http://gethalo3gear.com?ocid=SeptemberWLHalo3_WLHMTxt_2

↑ Index

210. Jilly Dybka
Re: tec. help
Sun 9 Sep 2007

I've used this free concordance software (windows) & it was OK

http://www.chs.nihon-u.ac.jp/eng_dpt/tukamoto/kwic_e.html

Jilly

On 9/9/07, noah eli gordon <[redacted]> wrote:
> Dear List Folks,
>

> Would someone point me to a website where one enters text and receives a list of the number of appearances of each word? I remember someone posting a link to a site like this about five or six years ago on the list, but I can't find it anymore. If there's no longer such a thing, does any one know how to get a comprehensive list from Word itself?
>
> Thanks,
> Noah
>
> _____
> Gear up for Halo(r) 3 with free downloads and an exclusive offer. It's our way of saying thanks for using Windows Live™.
> http://gethalo3gear.com?ocid=SeptemberWLHalo3_WLHMTxt_2

--
Jilly Dybka, WA4CZD
[redacted]
Blog: http://www.poetryhut.com/wordpress/
Jazz: http://cdbaby.com/cd/dybka
Due to Presidential Executive Orders, the National Security Agency may have read this email without warning, warrant, or notice. They may do this without any judicial or legislative oversight. You have no recourse nor protection.

↑ Index

211. noah eli gordon
Re: tec. help
Sun 9 Sep 2007

Thanks...

Well, I'm looking for a site/way this will happen for all words of a text at once:

for ex, the above would read:

2: a
1: all
1: at 2: for 1: happen
1: I'm
1: looking 1: of 1: once
1: site

1: text
1: this
1: way
1: will
1: words

Sort of like a master CTRL F...

Anyone?

_____ More photos; more messages; more whatever – Get MORE with Windows Live™ Hotmail®. NOW with 5GB storage. http://imagine-windowslive.com/hotmail/?locale=en-us&ocid=TXT_TAGHM_migration_HM_mini_5G_0907=

↑ Index

212. Bruce Holsapple
Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry
Sun 9 Sep 2007

Murat, I appreciate your detailed response, & thoroughly enjoy the clarification of how a poetic text might induce a crisis in performance. It's an intriguing project. My point is beginning to sound trivial in retrospect. But I'm not sure where I've mis-spoken, for what you describe fits Robert's first category, a text which has features that make it difficult to vocalize, & it was produced intentionally for that purpose. Mary Higgins, incidentally, spoke to the same issue in our interview in February, tho she was chiefly interested in a text that proliferates possible readings, not resists vocalization. I obviously can't speak for Basinski, but it sounds like he also constructs texts that allow for a proliferation of performances. Are they difficult to produce? (I confess, I'm one for whom performing poetry is crisis enough.)

Vernon, you seem to agree with my point, inasmuch as the visual need not be opposed to the verbal. In fact, you don't seem to be producing texts that resist vocalization, so much as texts that simply can't be totally verbal, as when you mention they now include more nonperformative (visual) material. This fits into Robert's category of texts engaged with the visual, tho not to the exclusion of other concerns.

Recall my contention was simply that Robert's three categories were supported by what little research I've read, & they are formally concise. But here's a follow up question: Because a text is made difficult to perform, even to the extent of creating a crisis in performance, what effect does it intend for its audience? E.g., is it intended to produce a crisis in reception as well?

Bruce

↑ Index

213. Kevin Killian

If you're in San Francisco, and want to see something fantastic,

Mon 10 Sep 2007

Hi there, it's me, Kevin Killian, playing press agent again! I just came back from a really good show here in San Francisco and I want to urge my readers to go and see it. It's part of the San Francisco Fringe Festival and it's performed by the Prince Myshkins, a theater troupe from Madison, Wisconsin, and SF has three more chances to see it.

The play is really two plays in one, "Great Hymn of Thanksgiving" and then, without a break, there's one called "Conversation Storm," like Operation Desert Storm I guess, mixed with a little of My Dinner with Andre. The Prince Myshkins I sort of knew, for I had met one of them, the poet Rick Burkhardt, down in San Diego when he was a student of Rae Armantrout's--now he's a Ph.D and very august. Then there is Andy Gricevich, who I have met more recently, also a poet--the two of them both crazy talented and very much into the same sorts of things that occupy my mind, one of them being how to turn avant-garde energies into agitprop artwork, especially at this time of peril in our republic. Well, I don't know how to do it, --but they do. There's a third fellow in the troupe who is really cute, sort of a cute version of oh, Vincent D'Onofrio and/or Joss Whedon, maybe a little Ryan Reynolds, in other words, he will make a fanboy out of you believe me. His name is Ryan Higgins and he is apparently an ac tor and a musician according to the program, but I say, file him under: revelation.

"Great Hymn on Thanksgiving" is the more ostensibly "artsy" of the two playlets, the three man gather around a family dinner table and eat with exaggerated movements of their knives and forks, eating invisible food and muttering murky syllables into the business end of cowbells, which cover their mouths like bedpans. Little by little the repetitive scrape of a knife across a china plate, the movement of a spoon across a tablecloth, a finger around the rim of a water glass, turns into a symphony of Spike Jones like sounds. It's like something out of those old leaked Beach Boys "Smile" sessions. They're also drumming the table like toddlers and playing or banging diverse toy instruments: a toy piano for Ryan, a toy steel drum for Rick, while Andy plows a violin bow across an old time zither or autoharp. The program notes that the muttered sounds come from, among other sources, the poems of Rae Armantrout. No! Yes! No! I didn't hear any, but there were so many things to hear, and all of the actors pretty deadpan, like Ish Kabibble in the old Kay Kyser RKO musicals.

In "Conversation Storm" the subject becomes more obviously about torture as two men, old high school antagonists, meet up 20 years later with still the same subject positions (liberal vs. conservative) but with a new openness to torture that has removed it from secrecy, and now it's open US defense policy thanks to TV shows like 24 and thanks to the so called "torture memo" from the US Attorney General's office authored in summer 2002 by Bybee and Woo, both of them pilloried in "Conversation Storm." Gricevich plays several parts, a bored waiter trying to 86 the argusome pair, and a third classmate who remembers his high school days as an era of unchecked masturbation. The back and forth between Higgins and Burkhardt has to be seen to be believed, or maybe you could hear it on the BBC radio channel, for they have mastered the art of sarcastic and haunting timing. It was like, do you remember Nichols and May? This was like, Nichols, Nichols, and more Nichols. If you can possibly see any of their remaining performances you will be seared like ahi tuna. I give the show my highest rating: go, go, go! (And so cheap, under ten dollars. The only drawback: not enough nudity.) You can get more info about the show at,

http://www.sffringe.org/fringe07/07plays/great.html

Tell them Kevin Killian sent you.

↑ Index

214. Kevin Killian

Don Waters

Mon 10 Sep 2007

He is a super talented young fiction writer who used to go to SF State and now lives in, oh, I can't remember. He is bringing it all back home to City Lights on the occasion of his first book coming out, DESERT GOTHIC.

Don Waters & Lee Mongomery
Sunday, September 16, 2007, 5 pm

@ City Lights Bookstore, 261 Columbus Avenue, SF CA 94133

reading from their new works

Desert Gothic
by Don Waters

Whose World Is This?
by Lee B. Montgomery

both published by University of Iowa Press

Desert Gothic is the winner of the 2007 Iowa Short Story Fiction Award. Set in bars, mortuaries, nursing homes, truck stops, and the "poverty motels that encircled downtown's casino corridor," Waters's ten stories are full of misfit transients like Julian, a crematorium worker who decorates abandoned urns to create a "lush underground island," and the instant Mormon missionary Eli, a hapless divorcé who "always likes people better when they're a little broken." Limo drivers, ultra-marathoners, vagabonds, and a distraught novelist-to-be populate the pages of these gritty stories.

Don Waters was born and raised in Reno, Nevada, and now lives in Berkeley, California. He has received numerous honors for his writing, including fellowships from the Virginia Center for the Creative Arts and the Jentel Foundation, as well as the McGinnis-Ritchie Award from the Southwest Review . His stories have been published in such venues as Epoch, StoryQuarterly , the Kenyon Review , the Southwest Review , the Santa Monica Review ,zyzzyva , the Cimarron Review , and Grain.

Lee Montgomery's surprising stories capture moments in women's lives when, pushed to the edge, they teeter between the complete bewilderment of loss and the lurking possibility of found. These are not stories about diets, designer jeans, and bad boyfriends; these are stories that dismantle the fabric of convention to reveal the raw interior worlds of women who have come of age on the heels of Betty Crocker and in the hem of Betty Friedan. Tender, poignant, and at times hilarious, the women in Whose World Is This? turn common notions of love, compassion, and tradition upside down as they show us how vulnerability, although dangerous, is what makes life astonishingly beautiful and reality strangely unreal.

Lee Montgomery is the author of The Things between Us: A Memoir . She lives in Portland, Oregon, where she is the editorial director of Tin House Books and the executive editor of Tin House magazine.

This event is free to the public

↑ Index

215. Alan Sondheim
dad
Mon 10 Sep 2007

dad

in 1940 this was my dad's last chance at happiness. the glacier was still there. he used a kodak 620 camera and the colour was beautiful. it's always sad when the image fades, you have to use your imagination, just what it was like. and you try to imagine what the sounds were, so you think it might have been cool out and there might have been a slight breeze. you can't remember what he told you about the season and how it was with the war on, france was just over the horizon. he said you could see the matterhorn. i don't know where he was going, i can't imagine how he got out of there and he never talked about it. he said it was silent up there and you could forget everything else in the world and the sky was clear, not a plane in sight. i don't know what he did when he got off the wall. i think he might have walked to one side or another, playing with the depth of the world which descended farther than any of us could imagine. we weren't alive then. he managed to make it out, that's hardly a smile on his face and in later years he never smiled. never. was that a minox he was holding. there wasn't a person in sight. he looks almost blind. i found this stuff somewhere in the attic. he'd dragged a trunk up after the flood and most of the stuff in it was alright. the trunk had to be thrown out. there were photos drying everywhere.

http://www.asondheim.org/photoalp16.jpg

↑ Index

216. John Latta
Re: Grand Piano updates
Mon 10 Sep 2007

It's interesting how the list of responses is now label'd an "archive-in-process" and how it now "aggregates responses and reviews selected by one or more of THE GRAND PIANO authors." The key word is "selected," innocuous enough until one realizes that some less than positive responses have been completely left out. For a set of links to my series of detail'd remarks, go to http://isola-di-rifiuti.blogspot.com/2007/09/grand-piano-notes-guy-davenport.html

On Sun, 9 Sep 2007, Barrett Watten wrote:

> Note on the publication schedule of The Grand Piano, part 4: due to a printing error, the volume has been recalled and will reship in late September. We apologize to our readers and subscribers. Stay tuned for more.
>
> Also, there is now as complete a list as possible of reviews and comments on the project at:
>
> http://www.english.wayne.edu/fac%5Fpages/ewatten/posts/post34.html#links
>
> as well as an archive-in-process at our website:
>
> http://www.thegrandpiano.org
>
> Barrett Watten

↑ Index

217. Zamsky, Robert

Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry

Mon 10 Sep 2007

Linda -- great to hear from you. I was hoping you'd chime in. Thanks, too, to everyone else. Linda's correct; the Grenier we were talking about was the "scrawl" poems -- partly because I remember the same incident Linda describes. One of the things these poems bring out, as others have mentioned, is that performance is embedded within language. Even the most visual of poems engage with the vocalization we will give to them in reading. Which is why, I suppose, we always come back to talking about visual and acoustic as two vectors that are active in pretty much any poem, to greater or lesser degrees.

My music colleague was wondering about this from the practical level of performance. For instance, we talked a lot about the treatment of the text in Shadowtime (about which I'm also writing right now), the way that Ferneyhough so stylizes, elongates, and layers Bernstein's libretto that the text becomes unintelligible. For a performer (I'm told), this makes the opera very difficult to sing. For the listener, one of the more interesting effects (I find) is that it is somehow still very important that we identify these voices as human voices making these sounds -- I'm reminded of Don Cherry on "teo-teo can," for instance, or Nate Mackey's poem written in response to it. Though the sounds seem to be non-semantic, this seems to only heighten their affect (which also reminds me of Schoenberg's Erwartung).

One way we were thinking about this was in relation to Ferneyhough's piece Bone Alphabet, which is written for solo percussion. The piece does not assign specific instruments, though it characterizes the types of sounds they should make. But, what's perhaps most interesting is that Ferneyhough wrote the piece after studying the way a percussionist friend of his plays. He wrote the piece so as to work against his friend's habits, thus defamiliarizing his process of playing and reintroducing his body into the performance -- Ferneyhough's argument being that as performers perfect their skills, they necessarily take the "bodiness" of their bodies for granted.

So, what poems, poetic gestures, poetic techniques, etc. might be analogous to Ferneyhough's writing against the performer's grain? In lyric, for instance, I'm tempted to say...pretty much everything that makes it lyric. Everything that makes lyric "performative" (to use very loosely a term that is already flabby), is what differentiates it from the usual flow of language. As concrete poetry raises the stakes on visuality, it is the remainder of the voice in the language....

Finally, Linda -- please do send along the 'zine info you mention. It sounds terrific.

Cheers,
Robert

-----Original Message-----
From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]]
On Behalf Of Russo, Linda V.
Sent: Sunday, September 09, 2007 2:00 PM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry

Hi Rob! & others...

re text as a site of difficulty, wherein difficulty is in fact be the vocalization/performance, I'd bring the visual poetry of Mike Basinski into the mix, as an example of poetry that, I dunno, feigns resitance? i.e. a Basinski performance engages the signifier as a radically open site; he treats reading even his own works as an act of interpretation & vocalizes the difficulties and possibilities a text "yields." He reads the texts as though he hasn't written them. The result is, you might say, the difficulty of vocalization. I assume the Grenier you have in mind are the "scrawl" poems; I wouldn't exclude their engagement of the verbal - recalling the seeming glee that Grenier exuded when he asked his audience to read these poems aloud (this was at Buffalo 8 years ago or so?). While for Grenier these may be visual poems, they foreground the act of verbal interpretation for the reader. Although one might stare at them mutely and that would be ok too.

I've been thinking about performance & difficulty lately because of a student of mine, who's got a great sense of poetry, a junior who's writing fantastic poems, and is very intersted in performance, too (she writes multi-vocal performance pieces). She's got a stutter, and I've been wanting to account for that as part of her poetic material - without pathologizing it - how might she incorporate an awareness of that, rather than glaze over it? I haven't been sure how to broach this with her. The only analogue I could come up with so far is Aaron Williamson - but I don't think she's interested in performing stutter or anything like that. Any ideas?

By the say, there's an excellent essay on Basinski's work by Ric Royer that you might want to check out;
it's in a new zine edited by Justin Kato (a student of Bill Howe's & cris cheek's
at Miami University Ohio) - the zine's at my office right now but I'll get you the reference if you're interested. It's a special performance issue.

Linda

On 9/7/07, Zamsky, Robert <,[redacted]> wrote:
>
> I had an interesting conversation with a colleague of mine in our music > department the other day that I thought I would share with the list.
He
> regularly teaches a class on music-voice-text, and one of the issues
he
> is interested in is poetic texts that resist vocalization/performance.
> As he and I discussed, it seems like such resistance could be > categorized in a number of ways: features of the text that make it > difficult to vocalize (such as working in several languages, unusual > syntax or diction, etc.); features of the text that don't necessarily
or > obviously translate into vocalization (although punctuation,
lineation,
> etc. always work at least partly at the acoustic level, they also often > have other, overriding concerns); and, poetic texts that are engaged > with the visual perhaps almost to the exclusion of the verbal. For this > last, we were talking of course about concrete poetry and other

"visual > poetries" -- we spent a lot of time talking about Robert Grenier, for > instance.
>
> I found the conversation interesting partly because there is so much > interest (on my part, at least), in the acoustic/musical/performance > qualities of poetry, and it was useful to poke at the limit-cases of > that concern.
>
> I'm wondering if anyone else has any thoughts....
>
> Thanks!
>
> Robert L. Zamsky, PhD
> Assistant Professor
> New College of Florida
>

Date: Sat, 8 Sep 2007 13:15:55 -0400
From: Murat Nemet-Nejat <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry

Bruce,

In all this analysis, a binary of choice is established, one abolishing the other. What I am interested in is the simultaneity of these two possibilities. That is what makes this relationship problematic in a very provocative and fertile way. Barthes, in his essay "Loyola," talks about this simultaneity -as the last step in Loyolan meditation- where the reader/meditator has to make a jump (for Loyola into God). Jack Spicer is talking about the same thing in his Vancouver Lectures.

Ciao,

Murat

On 9/8/07, [redacted] <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Apropos Robert Z's interest in texts that deliberately thwart performance,

> the research I know indicates that we subvocalize as we read, e.g.
Robert
> Grenier's "I HATE SPEECH" inadvertently referencing pitch & volume of voice > thru capitolization as icons of emphasis. But reading obviously is visual
> as well, & as one develops expertise in reading, one develops visual > pathways to (verbal) memory that supercede auditory pathways, so that > reading often seems silent. Further, printed texts (excluding texts
like > Braile) are significantly visual in as much as they squiggle in patterned > ways, b versus d.
>
> The point would be, Robert's categorization into three "other" > nonperformative types of text seems supported by research. Besides texts > that can be performed, there are texts that are primarily visual. Of those > texts which can be performed, there are texts that deliberately frustrate a > performance & texts that are not especially interesting to perform, because > they focus on nonperformative (albeit auditory) features in a > text. Performance doesn't add much to what a reading achieves.
>
> Bruce
>

↑ Index

218. Justin Katko
Providence: The Program @ Firehouse 13
Mon 10 Sep 2007

THE PROGRAM @ FIREHOUSE 13
presents
poetry & noise music performances by

- Chi Fu (UK)
- The Pretty Panicks (NYC)
- Ryan Dobran (NYC)

8pm Tuesday September 11th

@ FIREHOUSE 13
41 Central Street, Providence doors at 7pm, $5 or barter free food / cash bar

http://plantarchy.us/the-program/

THE PROGRAM @ Firehouse 13 is a new monthly series featuring multimedia performances by poets from the US and abroad. The series is organized by individuals taking part in Brown University's electronic writing community, and sponsored by the poetry publisher Critical Documents. Firehouse 13 is a gallery space and artists' residency located in south Providence, dedicated to sheltering exciting, innovative and contemporary creative works. THE PROGRAM's opening night features performances by Chi Fu, The Pretty Panicks, & Ryan Dobran, who will experiment with the boundaries between poetry and music performance.

BIOS

Chi Fu honed his shaolin style in the UK under the collective jive minaret of Jabba the Prynne and Kessie "Lard" Akinfemiwa. Representing the international avant-retard at junior level, he currently lives, writes and smokes five packs a day in Ryan Dobran's kitchen underneath the extractor fan.

The Pretty Panicks - sara wintz is lead singer of the pretty panicks press, a small press printing and making rock n roll music, wires and hair strands procedures in NYC. <myspace.com/prettypanicks>

Ryan Dobran LIFECOACHes out of Brooklyn, where he edits said peculiar rag, culling late clips of commercial paranoia, spicy détournement, and philosophical reflexions from exclusive sectors. He plans to avenge the "Lard"/Crusoe violation of October 2006 via a series of organ donations and Radical Passivity brochures.

THE PROGRAM
website: http://plantarchy.us/the-program/
email contact: [redacted]
phone contact: [redacted]

FIREHOUSE 13
website: http://firehouse13.org/
email: [redacted]
phone: [redacted]

↑ Index

219. Catherine Daly
Re: tec. help
Mon 10 Sep 2007

for the Word Hoard in 2d&I, I played around with a lot of concordance freeware, and linguistics word counting things, but found it easier to just write a macro set (but I had a really long text that the freeware couldn't handle)

this is a page of links to freewares, including the one Jilly posted http://www.teaching-english-in-japan.net/directory/cat/86

the one I used isn't a top google hit anymore. well, it HAS been a few years.

just insert a paragraph mark everywhere there's a space, select all, sort, apply autonumber, then convert the field to hard numbers? although then you have to weed it out

On 9/9/07, noah eli gordon <[redacted]> wrote:
> Thanks...
>
> Well, I'm looking for a site/way this will happen for all words of a text at once:
>
> for ex, the above would read:
>
> 2: a
> 1: all
> 1: at
> 2: for > 1: happen
> 1: I'm
> 1: looking > 1: of > 1: once
> 1: site
> 1: text
> 1: this
> 1: way
> 1: will
> 1: words
>
>
> Sort of like a master CTRL F...
>
> Anyone?
>

> _____
> More photos; more messages; more whatever – Get MORE with Windows Live™ Hotmail(r). NOW with 5GB storage.
> http://imagine-windowslive.com/hotmail/?locale=en-us&ocid=TXT_TAGHM_migration_HM_mini_5G_0907

--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

↑ Index

220. Betsy Andrews

Betsy Andrews readings in DC/Baltimore next two weeks

Mon 10 Sep 2007

Hi, everyone. Please come or tell anyone you know in the DC/Baltimore area to come to my two readings this weekend! thanks much!

1) D O U G L A N G T E R E N C E W I N C H B E T S Y A N D R E W S i.e. reading series

SATURDAY, SEPT 15 - 8 PM

CARRIAGE HOUSE
2225 HARGROVE STREET
BALTIMORE, MD

www.ieseries.wordpress.com

2) IN YOUR EAR series

SUNDAY, SEPT 16 - 3 PM

DCAC
2438 18th Street, NW
Washington, DC
[redacted]
http://www.dcartscenter.org/

3) FALL FOR THE BOOK FESTIVAL

MONDAY, SEPT 24
Noon: Panel Discussion
7:30 PM: Reading

Grand Tier, Third Floor, Center for the Arts
George Mason University
4400 University Drive MS3E4 | Fairfax, VA 22030 | Tel: [redacted]

www.fallforthebook.org/

Need a vacation? Get great deals to amazing places on Yahoo! Travel.

↑ Index

221. Michael Kelleher
Liiterary Buffalo E-Newsletter 10.10.07-10.16.07
Mon 10 Sep 2007

LITERARY BUFFALO
9.10.07-9.16.07

_____

NOTE TO READERS, CURATORS, ETC., FROM MICHAEL KELLEHER:

I am going on a cross-country trek to do some poetry readings out west, get a little rest, and attend a wedding in Minneapolis. I will be out of the office and mostly unavailable from Sept. 17 - Oct. 10. The e-newsletter will not appear again until I return. I am trying to get the website as up-to-date as possible so it will not need to be updated while I am gone. If you need to contact Just Buffalo, please email [redacted] or call [redacted]. If you need to contact me directly, I will be checking my email when possible, answering when necessary. See you when I get back!

MK

_____

BABEL

SUBSCRIBE TODAY at http://www.justbuffalo.org/babel or by calling [redacted].

Just Buffalo Literary Center is proud to introduce BABEL, an exciting new reading and conversation series that will feature four of the world's most important and critically acclaimed international authors each year.

In our first season, we will present two Nobel Prize winners, one Man Booker Prize winner, and an acclaimed Broadway playwright. Here's the season in a nutshell:

November 8 Orhan Pamuk, Turkey, Winner of the 2006 Nobel Prize December 7 Ariel Dorfman, Chile, Author of Death and the Maiden March 13 Derek Walcott, St. Lucia, Winner of the 1992 Nobel Prize April 24 Kiran Desai, India, Winner of the 2006 Man Booker Prize

Season Subscription: $75. To subscribe or to find out more about the authors, click here:

http://www.justbuffalo.org/babel.

Book groups (minimum three people) can also subscribe at a special rate of $60 per person for the whole season. Book group subscriptions by phone only at [redacted].

If available, tickets to individual events will go on sale October 10 @ $25 per person per event.

EVENTS

Unless otherwise listed, all events are free and open to the public.

9.12.07

JUST BUFFALO OPEN READING
Featured: Mike Fanelli
Wednesday, September 12, 7 p.m._
Carnegie Art Center
240 Goundry St., North Tonawanda (Meets monthly on the second Wednesday)

9.16.07

JUST BUFFALO OPEN READING
Featured: Claudia Torres & Ken Feltges
September 16, 7 p.m._
Rust Belt Books _Sunday, _202 Allen Street (Meets the monthly on the third Sunday)

&

SPOKEN WORD SUNDAYS
Trudy Stern and Verneice Turner
Sunday, September 16, 8 p.m.
Allen Street Hardware, 245 Allen St., Buffalo
Sign up at 7:45 for Open readers (5 minutes each)

JUST BUFFALO MEMBERS ONLY WRITER CRITIQUE GROUP

Members of Just Buffalo are welcome to attend a free, bimonthly writer critique group in CEPA's Flux Gallery on the first floor of the historic Market Arcade Building across the street from Shea's. Group meets 1st and 3rd Wednesday at 7 p.m. Call Just Buffalo for details.

WESTERN NEW YORK ROMANCE WRITERS group meets the third Wednesday of every month at St. Joseph Hospital community room at 11 a.m. Address: 2605 Harlem Road, Cheektowaga, NY 14225. For details go to www.wnyrw.org.

JOIN JUST BUFFALO ONLINE!!!

If you would like to join Just Buffalo, or simply make a massive personal donation, you can do so online using your credit card. We have recently added the ability to join online by paying with a credit card through PayPal. Simply click on the membership level at which you would like to join, log in (or create a PayPal account using your Visa/Amex/Mastercard/Discover), and voilá, you will find yourself in literary heaven. For more info, or to join now, go to our website:

http://www.justbuffalo.org/membership/index.shtml

UNSUBSCRIBE

If you would like to unsubscribe from this list, just say so and you will be immediately removed.

Michael Kelleher
Artistic Director
Just Buffalo Literary Center
Market Arcade
617 Main St., Ste. 202A
Buffalo, NY 14203
[redacted]
[redacted] (fax)
www.justbuffalo.org
[redacted]

↑ Index

222. Thomas savage

Re: fuck silence

Mon 10 Sep 2007

If you've figured out a way to fuck silence, let me know. I'd love to try it. Otherwise, please refer to John Cage, sadly deceased a long time now. I haven't read Jesse's original post yet, though, so who knows?

cris cheek <[redacted]> wrote: is an interesting manifesto Jesse

---
Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search that gives answers, not web links.

↑ Index

223. { brad brace }
12hr update
Mon 10 Sep 2007

```
_  |__   __| |         /_ |__ \| |
        | __|   | | | (_) | |  __/ (__| |_
  __ | |  | | | |  __/  | |/ /_| | | | |
     _  | |  | '_ \ / _ \  | | / /| '_ \| '__|
```

The 12hr-ISBN-JPEG Project >>>> posted since 1994 <<<<

```
_  | |  | '_ \ / _ \  | | / /| '_ \| '__|
     -_   | |  | |__   ___   | |  ) | |__  _ __
_ |  __ \        (_)         | |
```

"This is the voice of the Global Corporation. You are now being admitted into the labour camp where you will spend the rest of your days. You will suffer what you will suffer, without recourse, without mercy. You are a criminal of the state. And you will pay the ultimate penalty for your acts of subversion. Perpare yourselves for the sentence you have been awaiting. It is beginning now--everything is nothing, and nothing is everything. You will be assigned the following GC identification numbers. You do not need to memorize them. The GC is memorizing you. You will never be free again--"

You begin to sense the byshadows that stretch from the awe of global dominance. How the intersecting systems help pull us apart, leaving us vague, drained, docile, soft in our inner discourse, willing to be shaped, to be overwhelmed -- easy retreats, half beliefs. Works of art are complex formal interventions within discursive traditions and their myriad filiations. These interventions are defined precisely by their incomparable capacity to trace the dynamics of historical process in paradoxical gestures of simultaneously prognostic and mnemonic temporalities.

```
        | __|   | | | (_) | |  __/ (__| |_
_  | |  | '_ \ / _ \  | | / /| '_ \| '__|
     _| |__) | __ ___  _  ___  ___| |_
  |_  ___/ '__/ _ \| |/ _ \/ __| __|
|_| _  |_|  ___/| |___|___|__|
            _          _/ |
              _        |__/
```

> > > > Synopsis: The 12hr-ISBN-JPEG Project began December 30, 1994. A `round-the-clock posting of sequenced hypermodern imagery from { brad brace }. The hypermodern minimizes the familiar, the known, the recognizable; it suspends identity, relations and history. This discourse, far from determining the locus in which it speaks, is avoiding the ground on which it could find support. It is trying to operate a decentering that leaves no privilege to any center.

The 12-hour ISBN JPEG Project
---
began December 30, 1994

Pointless Hypermodern Imagery... posted/mailed every 12 hours... a spectral, trajective alignment for the 00`s! A continuum of minimalist masks in the face of catastrophe; conjuring up transformative metaphors for the everyday... A poetic reversibility of exclusive events...

A post-rhetorical, continuous, apparently random sequence of imagery... genuine gritty, greyscale... corruptable, compact, collectable and compelling convergence. The voluptuousness of the grey imminence: the art of making the other disappear. Continual visual impact; an optical drumming, sculpted in duration, on the endless present of the Net.

An extension of the printed ISBN-Book (0-9690745) series... critically unassimilable... imagery is gradually acquired, selected and re-sequenced over time... ineluctable, vertiginous connections. The 12hr dialtone...

[see http://www.eskimo.com/~bbrace/netcom/books.txt]

KEYWORDS:

>> Disconnected, disjunctive, distended, de-centered, de-composed, ambiguous, augmented, ambilavent, homogeneous, reckless...
>> Multi-faceted, oblique, obsessive, obscure, obdurate...
>> Promulgated, personal, permeable, prolonged, polymorphous, provocative, poetic, plural, perverse, potent, prophetic, pathological, pointless...
>> Emergent, evolving, eccentric, eclectic, egregious, exciting, entertaining, evasive, entropic, erotic, entrancing, enduring, expansive...

Every 12 hours, another!... view them, re-post `em, save `em, trade `em, print `em, even publish them...

Here`s how:

~ Set www-links to -> http://www.eskimo.com/~bbrace/12hr.html
-> http://bbrace.laughingsquid.net/12hr.html

-> http://bbrace.net/12hr.html
-> http://noemata.net/12hr/

Look for the 12-hr-icon. Heavy traffic may require you to specify files more than once! Anarchie, Fetch, CuteFTP, TurboGopher...

~ Download from -> ftp.rdrop.com /pub/users/bbrace
Download from -> ftp.eskimo.com /u/b/bbrace
Download from -> hotline://artlyin.ftr.va.com.au
Download from -> http://kunst.noemata.net/12hr/

* Remember to set tenex or binary. Get 12hr.jpeg

~ E-mail -> If you only have access to email, then you can use FTPmail to do essentially the same thing. Send a message with a body of 'help' to the server address nearest you: * [redacted] *
*

~ Mirror-sites requested! Archives too!
The latest new jpeg will always be named, 12hr.jpeg
Average size of images is only 45K.
*
Perl program to mirror ftp-sites/sub-directories:
src.doc.ic.ac.uk:/packages/mirror
*

~ Postings to usenet newsgroups:
12hr alt.12hr
alt.binaries.pictures.12hr alt.binaries.pictures.misc alt.binaries.pictures.fine-art.misc

* * Ask your system's news-administrator to carry these groups! (There are also usenet image browsers: TIFNY, PluckIt, Picture Agent, PictureView, Extractor97, NewsRover, Binary News Assistant, EasyNews)

~ This interminable, relentless (online) sequence of imagery began in earnest on December 30, 1994. The basic structure of the project has been over twenty-five years in the making. While the specific sequence of photographs has been presently orchestrated for many years` worth of 12-hour postings, I will undoubtedly be tempted to tweak the ongoing publication with additional new interjected imagery. Each 12-hour image is like the turning of a page; providing ample time for reflection, interruption, and assimilation.

~ The sites listed above also contain information on other cultural projects and sources.

~ A very low-volume, moderated mailing list for announcements and occasional commentary related to this project has been established at topica.com /subscribe 12hr-isbn-jpeg

-- The image was to make nothing visible but their connection with one another by space and air, yet each surrounded by the unique aura that disengages every deeply seen image from the world of irrelevant relationships and calls forth a tremor of astonishment at its fateful necessity. Thus from artworks of dead masters, over-life-size strangeness whose names we do not know and do not wish to know, look out at us enigmatically as symbols of all being.

--

Big Grey Bricks: This project also serves as a rehearsal for its culmination as a series of offset-printed volumes: each 800+ full-bleed pages (5x8"_300lpi), where the full integrated rhythm of greyscale-sequence can be more intricately resolved. I'd provide all design, prepress and production.

-- This project has not received government art-subsidies. Some opportunities still exist for financially assisting the publication of editions of large (33x46") prints; perhaps (Iris giclees) inkjet duotones or extended-black quadtones. Other supporters receive rare copies of the first three web-offset printed ISBN-Books. Contributions and requests for 12hr-email-subscriptions, can also be made at http://bbrace.laughingsquid.net/buy-into.html, or by mailed cheque/check: $5/mo $50/yr. Art-institutions must pay for any images retained longer than 12 hours.

--

ISBN is International Standard Book Number. JPEG and GIF are types of image files. Get the text-file, 'pictures-faq' to learn how to view or translate these images. [http://www.eskimo.com/~bbrace/netcom/pictures -faq.html]

--

(c) Credit appreciated. Copyleft

1994 1995 1996 1997 1998 1999 2000 2001 2002 2003 2004 2005 2006 2007

<[redacted]>

↑ Index

224. Schlesinger Kyle
Curtis FAVILLE?
Mon 10 Sep 2007

Does anyone have contact info for Curtis Faville?

Thanks!

Kyle

NEW MAILING ADDRESS:
Kyle Schlesinger
214 N. Henry Street #3
Brooklyn, NY 11222-3608
USA
www.kyleschlesinger.com
www.cuneiformpress.com

↑ Index

225. Therese Broderick
tec. help
Mon 10 Sep 2007

Noah,

Try this--

www.wordcounter.com

"ranks the most frequently used words in any given body of text" (from the IWWG newsletter "Network," issue 3 & 4, 2007, page 38)

I haven't used the website myself, so I'm not sure it's what you need.

Therese Broderick
Albany, NY
poetry.blog-city.com

↑ Index

226. Jennifer Karmin
JOB: Pitzer College
Mon 10 Sep 2007

(this is a forward. please don't respond to me.
good luck!)

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR of Creative Writing.

Pitzer College invites applications for a tenure-track appointment in creative writing (poetry, fiction, or performance) beginning Fall 2008. Areas of interest include nature-writing, urban issues, or gender and feminist issues. Ability to teach multiple genres desirable.

Candidate will teach introductory and upper-level courses in creative writing, and will advise students in the Creative Writing track. Commitment to teaching in a liberal arts setting essential. M.F.A or Ph.D. (with creative writing emphasis) and/or significant publications required. Pitzer College, a member of the Claremont Colleges, has a strong institutional commitment to the principles of diversity in all areas and strongly encourages candidates from underrepresented social groups.

To apply, send letter of application, curriculum vitae, selected evidence of excellence in teaching and scholarship, statement of teaching philosophy, a description of your scholarly activities, and three letters of recommendation via email to "[redacted]".
Electronic documents are required in the following formats: MS Word or PDF. The deadline for applying is October 30, 2007.

___ Be a better Heartthrob. Get better relationship answers from someone who knows. Yahoo! Answers - Check it out. http://answers.yahoo.com/dir/?link=list&sid=396545433

↑ Index

227. Evan Munday
David McGimpsey and funny, serious poetry
Mon 10 Sep 2007

For those of you in the NYC area:

On Friday, September 14, David McGimpsey, author of the seriously funny new book of serious poetry, Sitcom, is featured at Brooklyn's Pete's Big Poetry Series.

McGimpsey, often dubbed Montreal's wittiest writer, has been called 'as funny as David Sedaris, and more inventive,' (Ottawa Citizen) and the Washington Post says he 'displays erudition, clever insights and a knack for the wickedly funny wisecrack.'

Mischievous, generous and side-splittingly hilarious, Sitcom is a collection of wry soliloquies and sonnets that begins with a milestone birthday and finds itself in demi-mondes as varied as the offices of university regents and the basic plot arc of Hawaii Five-O, encountering sincere contemplations of mortality and the fashion sense of Mary Tyler Moore on the way. Unembarrassed by its literary allusions or its hi-lo hybridity, Sitcom’s strategic and encompassing voice is prepared for each comedic disaster and is, somehow, always ready for next week’s episode.

David McGimpsey reads at Pete's Candy Store with poet Matt Donovan, author of Vellum, chosen by Mark Doty for the 2006 Bakeless Poetry Prize. We hope you can make it!

David McGimpsey at Pete's Big Poetry Series
Friday, September 14, 2007
Pete's Candy Store
709 Lorimer Street
Brooklyn, NY
7:00 p.m.

David McGimpsey was born and raised in Montreal. A PhD in English Literature, he currently teaches creative writing at Concordia University. He is the author of three collections of poetry, a collection of short fiction and a critical monograph on the subject of baseball and American culture. He plays guitar and sings in the rock band Puggy Hammer and has performed as a stand-up comedian. His travel writings appear frequently in The Globe and Mail and he writes a regular column about sandwiches for EnRoute magazine.

Yours,

Evan

Evan Munday
Coach House Books
401 Huron St. (rear) on bpNichol Lane
Toronto ON, M5S 2G5
[redacted]

↑ Index

228. Eric Dickey
Re: tec. help
Mon 10 Sep 2007

---

try this

http://tagcrowd.com/

Jilly Dybka <[redacted]> wrote:
I've used this free concordance software (windows) & it was OK

http://www.chs.nihon-u.ac.jp/eng_dpt/tukamoto/kwic_e.html

Jilly

On 9/9/07, noah eli gordon wrote:
> Dear List Folks,
>
> Would someone point me to a website where one enters text and receives a list of the number of appearances of each word? I remember someone posting a link to a site like this about five or six years ago on the list, but I can't find it anymore. If there's no longer such a thing, does any one know how to get a comprehensive list from Word itself?
>
> Thanks,
> Noah
>
> _____
> Gear up for Halo(r) 3 with free downloads and an exclusive offer. It's our way of saying thanks for using Windows Live™.
> http://gethalo3gear.com?ocid=SeptemberWLHalo3_WLHMTxt_2

--
Jilly Dybka, WA4CZD
[redacted]
Blog: http://www.poetryhut.com/wordpress/
Jazz: http://cdbaby.com/cd/dybka
Due to Presidential Executive Orders, the National Security Agency may have read this email without warning, warrant, or notice. They may do this without any judicial or legislative oversight. You have no recourse nor protection.

Choose the right car based on your needs. Check out Yahoo! Autos new Car Finder tool.

↑ Index

229. Pierre Joris

University at Albany position for poet

Mon 10 Sep 2007

This may interest some on the list:

The Department of English at the University of Albany invites applications for a tenure-track position in creative writing and literature at the rank of Assistant professor, to begin August 2008. We seek a poet interested in working in an active undergraduate literature and writing program, and in a graduate program leading to an M.A. and a doctorate that can include creative writing. The candidate is also expected to make substantial contributions to the creation and editing of a new literary magazine (with both online and print elements). Candidates with additional teaching interests in contemporary U.S. ethnic literatures and/or world literatures are especially welcome, as are those who can teach in genres other than poetry (fiction, creative nonfiction, drama). Candidates should possess a Ph.D. from a university accredited by the U.S. Department of Education internationally recognized accrediting organization, although an appropriate advanced degree and evidence of substantial professional experience and achievement in creative writing may substitute for the Ph.D. Evidence of successful teaching and significant scholarly potential is expected. Candidates should also have a demonstrated ability to work with and instruct a culturally diverse group of people. Send letter of application, c.v., dossier of letters of reference, and a writing sample of no more than 30 pages, postmarked by November 9, 2007 to Pierre Joris, Chair, Search Committee, English Department, HU 333, University at Albany, 1400 Washington Avenue, Albany, NY 12222. The University at Albany is an EO/AA/IRCA/ADA employer.

The poet: always in partibus infidelium -- Paul Celan

Pierre Joris
244 Elm Street
Albany NY 12202
h: [redacted]
c: [redacted]
o: 518 442 40 71
Euro cell: (011 33) 6 75 43 57 10
email: [redacted]
http://pierrejoris.com
Nomadics blog: http://pjoris.blogspot.com

↑ Index

230. Charlotte Mandel poetry course, Barnard Women's Center
Mon 10 Sep 2007

New and previous participants welcome to my fall workshop semester:
TRANSLATING SILENCES: AN EXPANDED POETRY WORKSHOP
Six Wednesdays: October 3, 17, 31; November 14, 28; Decedmber 12
Time: 6:15 - 8:15 PM
Location: The Center for Research on Women, Barnard College
Contrastive "Poets of the Month" will be Marge Piercy, Naomi Shihab Nye, Langston Hughes.
Full description, registration info, etc., is at:
www.barnard.columbia.edu/crow/courses.htm
Thanks for spreading the word -
Charlotte

↑ Index

231. David-Baptiste Chirot
Signs of the Changing Americas: Venezuela Ambassador to Speak Wed., "Venezuela proud of ties to Wis
Mon 10 Sep 2007

Note:

Milwaukee is the sister city of Carora, Venezuela, and as the Ambassador notes below, Wisconsin is Venezuela's 11th largest trading partner.

Milwaukee has become one of the highest poverty rate cities in the USA, among the highest in violence and a perennial leader in teen pregnancies. Wisconsin continues to lose or have return seriously wounded and psychologically disturbed a high rate of its residents due to the Wars in Iraq and Afghanistan.

A sign of the changing times in the Americas is that Venezuaela and Milwaukee have been developing a relationship in part because the government of the United States, despite the huge number of campaign appearances here by President Bush during and since the 2000 "election," has done very little at all for the city.

From Milwaukee's Bolivarian Circle:
> Subject: Venezuela Ambassador to Speak Wed., "Venezuela proud of ties to Wisconsin" MJS
>
> You are invited to a free, public talk by the Venezuelan Ambassador to the U.S.
>

> Wednesday, September 12, 2007, 7 pm-8:30 pm
> UWM Union Ballroom, 2200 E. Kenwood Blvd.
> Milwaukee, WI
>
> Sponsors: UWM's Institute of World Affairs, Center for Latin American and > Caribbean Studies, Center for International Education, and Latin American > Solidarity Committee. For more info, see www.iwa.uwm.edu.
>
> Ambassador Bernardo Alvarez Herrera graduated in the Political Science from > the Universidad Central de Venezuela, Caracas, Venezuela, (1980), later > majoring in Development Studies in University of Sussex, England (1982).
> Between 1977 and 1982 he held several positions in the educational field in > the Venezuelan public education system. Since 1985, has been associated with > the political branch, where he held several posts, including Executive > Secretary of the Working Group on Political Reforms of the Presidential > Commission for the Reform of the State (1986-1987), Executive Secretary and > Venezuelan Representative in the Forum on Debt and Development (FONDAD)
> (1991), Director of Cooperation of the Universidad Central de Venezuela > (1994), and Venezuelan Representative to the Energy Council of the United > States of America (1999-present).
>
> Since 2003 he has served as Ambassador of the Bolivarian Republic of > Venezuela to the United States of America.
>
> - - - - - - - - - -
>
> Venezuela proud of ties to Wisconsin
>
> By BERNARDO ALVAREZ
> http://www.jsonline.com/story/index.aspx?id=658620
> Posted: Sept. 9, 2007
>
> Venezuela is among the top five oil exporting countries, and our crude > oil reserves will soon be certified at 316 billion barrels, making us > the largest holder of such reserves in the world, surpassing even > Saudi Arabia.
>
> Without a doubt, energy is the engine of the Venezuelan economy, and > we fully realize that the current and future well-being of our people > depends on the revenue from a vibrant and growing Venezuelan energy > sector. Our country is committed to that growth and serving the needs > of all of its energy customers, including the United States.

>
> But whereas in the past, our oil riches benefited only the elites in > our country, our fundamental priority is to assure that our natural > resources are managed to provide the maximum benefit for our citizens.
> For the first time in our history, we are putting oil revenue to work > for our people to create a new societal model to eliminate the > economic inequalities and the abject poverty that has characterized > our country for far too long.
>
> Much has been accomplished, but much remains to be done. More than 14 > million Venezuelans who previously never had access to health care now > do; 1.5 million Venezuelans who were illiterate can now read and > write; and millions of Venezuelans who could not continue their > schooling beyond elementary school are now going on to high school and > college.
>
> The poverty rate has decreased from 43.9% in 1999 to 30.4% today; > unemployment has decreased from 15% in 1999 to 8.3% today; Venezuela's > economy, among the fastest-growing in the world, grew at a 10.3% rate > last year.
>
> Venezuela has become the U.S.' second-largest trading partner in Latin > America. Venezuela is Wisconsin's 11th-largest foreign trading > partner. Exports from Milwaukee alone to Venezuela have increased > almost 500% between 2004 and 2006, from a value of $28.6 million to
>
> $132.9 million last year.
>
> The vision for our country is based on a straightforward premise. All > Venezuelans are part of a community working together so all of our > citizens have the opportunity and the means to live a life of dignity > and to develop to their fullest potential.
>
> This vision of inclusion encompasses people beyond our borders as > well. Working together with the people of the U.S., the cause of > social justice and economic gain can be advanced not only in our > country but in the hemisphere as a whole.
>

> We are proud of the role Citgo Petroleum Corp., the wholly owned > subsidiary of our national oil company Petroleos de Venezuela, S.A., > has played in distributing more than 1.58 million gallons of home > heating oil to low-income households in Milwaukee last winter that > benefited more than 10,000 families in the area, resulting in cost > savings for these families of more than $2.5 million.
>
> We are proud of our providing affordable energy to countries in the Caribbean.
>
> We are proud of our commitment to energy conservation and the need to > address the perils of global warming in both big and small ways.
> "Changing a light; change Wisconsin" is a program, for example, that > has its exact counterpart in Venezuela.
>
> We are proud that Carora is Milwaukee's sister city in Venezuela.
>
> Venezuela is undergoing dynamic change. Although the means are > uniquely our own, the values that underpin our efforts are, in many > respects, little different from the values that spurred the storied > progressive movement of which Wisconsin is justifiably proud.
>
> On the basis of such shared values, we hope to engage the people of > Wisconsin, and the entire U.S., to achieve a greater understanding > between our two countries to the benefit of each.
>
> Bernardo Alvarez is Venezuela's ambassador to the United States.

_____ Gear up for Halo® 3 with free downloads and an exclusive offer. It’s our way of saying thanks for using Windows Live™. http://gethalo3gear.com?ocid=SeptemberWLHalo3_WLHMTxt_2=

↑ Index

232. mIEKAL aND

Alex the African Grey parrot and subject of landmark studies of bird intelligence dies at 31

Mon 10 Sep 2007

(this is hero of one of the leading studies in animal sentience, I've been following it on & off since the early 90s & I've tried to read Pepperberg's book about the studies (too technical for my tastes))

Alex the African Grey parrot and subject of landmark studies of bird intelligence dies at 31

http://www.alexfoundation.org/

WALTHAM, MA (SEPTEMBER 10, 2007)—Alex, the world renowned African Grey parrot made famous by the ground-breaking cognition and communication research conducted by Irene Pepperberg, Ph.D., died at the age of 31 on September 6, 2007. Dr. Pepperberg's pioneering research resulted in Alex learning elements of English speech to identify 50 different objects, 7 colors, 5 shapes, quantities up to and including 6 and a zero-like concept. He used phrases such as "I want X" and "Wanna go Y", where X and Y were appropriate object and location labels. He acquired concepts of categories, bigger and smaller, same-different, and absence. Alex combined his labels to identify, request, refuse, and categorize more than 100 different items demonstrating a level and scope of cognitive abilities never expected in an avian species. Pepperberg says that Alex showed the emotional equivalent of a 2 year-old child and intellectual equivalent of a 5 year-old. Her research with Alex shattered the generally held notion that parrots are only capable of mindless vocal mimicry.

In 1973, Dr. Pepperberg was working on her doctoral thesis in theoretical chemistry at Harvard University when she watched Nova programs on signing chimps, dolphin communication and, most notably, on why birds sing. She realized that the fields of avian cognition and communication were not only of personal interest to her but relatively uncharted territory. When she finished her thesis, she left the field of chemistry to pursue a new direction—to explore the depths of the avian mind. She decided to conduct her research with an African Grey parrot. In order to assure she was working with a bird representative of its species, she asked the shop owner to randomly choose any African Grey from his collection. It was Alex. And so the 1-year old Alex, his name an acronym for the research project, Avian Learning EXperiment, became an integral part of Pepperberg's life and the pioneering studies she was about to embark upon.

Over the course of 30 years of research, Dr. Pepperberg and Alex revolutionized the notions of how birds think and communicate. What Alex taught Dr. Pepperberg about cognition and communication has been applied to therapies to help children with learning disabilities. Alex's learning process is based on the rival-model technique in which two humans demonstrate to the bird what is to be learned. Alex and Dr. Pepperberg have been affiliated with Purdue University, Northwestern University, the University of Arizona, the MIT Media Lab, the Radcliffe Institute, and most recently, Harvard University and Brandeis University. Alex has been featured worldwide on numerous science programs including the BBC, NHK, Discovery and PBS. He is well known for his interactions with Alan Alda in an episode of Scientific American Frontiers on PBS and from an episode of the famed PBS Nature series called “Look Who’s Talking.” Reports on Alex’s accomplishments have appeared in the popular press and international news from USA Today to the Wall Street Journal and the New York Times. The Science Times section of the New York Times featured Alex in a front-page story in 1999. That same year, Dr. Pepperberg published The Alex Studies, a comprehensive review of her decades of learning about learning from Alex. Many other television appearances and newspaper articles followed.

Alex was found to be in good health at his most recent annual physical about two weeks ago. According to the vet who conducted the necropsy, there was no obvious cause of death. Dr. Pepperberg will continue her innovative research program at Harvard and Brandeis University with Griffin and Arthur, two other young African Grey parrots who have been a part of the ongoing research program.

Alex has left a significant legacy—not only have he and Dr. Pepperberg and their landmark experiments in modern comparative psychology changed our views of the capabilities of avian minds, but they have forever changed our perception of the term “bird brains.”

For press contacts:
The Alex Foundation and Dr. Pepperberg can be reached by e-mail at the [redacted] or by phone at [redacted].

If you choose to help support this research, please consider making a donation in Alex's memory to The Alex Foundation, c/o Dr. Irene Pepperberg, Department of Psychology/MS-062, 415 South Street, Brandeis University, Waltham, MA 02454.

WALTHAM, MA (SEPTEMBER 10, 2007)—Alex, the world renowned African Grey parrot made famous by the ground-breaking cognition and communication research conducted by Irene Pepperberg, Ph.D., died at the age of 31 on September 6, 2007. Dr. Pepperberg’s pioneering research resulted in Alex learning elements of English speech to identify 50 different objects, 7 colors, 5 shapes, quantities up to and including 6 and a zero-like concept. He used phrases such as “I want X” and “Wanna go Y”, where X and Y were appropriate object and location labels. He acquired concepts of categories, bigger and smaller, same-different, and absence. Alex combined his labels to identify, request, refuse, and categorize more than 100 different items demonstrating a level and scope of cognitive abilities never expected in an avian species. Pepperberg says that Alex showed the emotional equivalent of a 2 year-old child and intellectual equivalent of a 5 year-old. Her research with Alex shattered the generally held notion that parrots are only capable of mindless vocal mimicry.

In 1973, Dr. Pepperberg was working on her doctoral thesis in theoretical chemistry at Harvard University when she watched Nova programs on signing chimps, dolphin communication and, most notably, on why birds sing. She realized that the fields of avian cognition and communication were not only of personal interest to her but relatively uncharted territory. When she finished her thesis, she left the field of chemistry to pursue a new direction—to explore the depths of the avian mind. She decided to conduct her research with an African Grey parrot. In order to assure she was working with a bird representative of its species, she asked the shop owner to randomly choose any African Grey from his collection. It was Alex. And so the 1-year old Alex, his name an acronym for the research project, Avian Learning EXperiment, became an integral part of Pepperberg's life and the pioneering studies she was about to embark upon.

Over the course of 30 years of research, Dr. Pepperberg and Alex revolutionized the notions of how birds think and communicate. What Alex taught Dr. Pepperberg about cognition and communication has been applied to therapies to help children with learning disabilities. Alex's learning process is based on the rival-model technique in which two humans demonstrate to the bird what is to be learned. Alex and Dr. Pepperberg have been affiliated with Purdue University, Northwestern University, the University of Arizona, the MIT Media Lab, the Radcliffe Institute, and most recently, Harvard University and Brandeis University. Alex has been featured worldwide on numerous science programs including the BBC, NHK, Discovery and PBS. He is well known for his interactions with Alan Alda in an episode of Scientific American Frontiers on PBS and from an episode of the famed PBS Nature series called "Look Who's Talking." Reports on Alex's accomplishments have appeared in the popular press and international news from USA Today to the Wall Street Journal and the New York Times. The Science Times section of the New York Times featured Alex in a front-page story in 1999. That same year, Dr. Pepperberg published The Alex Studies, a comprehensive review of her decades of learning about learning from Alex. Many other television appearances and newspaper articles followed.

Alex was found to be in good health at his most recent annual physical about two weeks ago. According to the vet who conducted the necropsy, there was no obvious cause of death. Dr. Pepperberg will continue her innovative research program at Harvard and Brandeis University with Griffin and Arthur, two other young African Grey parrots who have been a part of the ongoing research program.

Alex has left a significant legacy—not only have he and Dr. Pepperberg and their landmark experiments in modern comparative psychology changed our views of the capabilities of avian minds, but they have forever changed our perception of the term “bird brains.”

For press contacts:
The Alex Foundation and Dr. Pepperberg can be reached by e-mail at the [redacted] or by phone at [redacted].

If you choose to help support this research, please consider making a donation in Alex's memory to The Alex Foundation, c/o Dr. Irene Pepperberg, Department of Psychology/MS-062, 415 South Street, Brandeis University, Waltham, MA 02454.

↑ Index

233. Tribbey, Hugh R.
Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry
Mon 10 Sep 2007

What makes a performance meaningful is our decision and subsequent reconstruction of it as meaningful? Music is meaningful because of the recognition of pattern--or a construction/projection of pattern after the fact. An illusion of--or decision for--meaning in the recognition of a human voice, regardless of the sounds it's making? The context gives it its meaning, tells us it must be poetry, or a gesture against "poetry?" Silliman talks about this in an early essay. So does Hejinian: context makes meaning.

There's something in __Writing Degree Zero__ about any cosmic event being meaningful if a human decides it is. Hale Bopp is meaningful, thus suicide, or the suicide. . .And we see human faces on Mars, or we project theoretical frames on performances. But all of this is too much based on a reader/auditor reception which makes this too convention-based. Too much of that in art, yes?

Maybe the artist decides on the meaning of a performance before it happens? No. No meaning in a vacuum. No solitary meanings springing fully grown from the heads of geniuses. And we don't have time for--and don't want--masterpieces, given the pace of digital environments. It's all pleasure and suggestion for the next production.

Hugh Tribbey

-----Original Message-----
From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]]
On Behalf Of Zamsky, Robert
Sent: Monday, September 10, 2007 8:41 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry

Linda -- great to hear from you. I was hoping you'd chime in. Thanks, too, to everyone else. Linda's correct; the Grenier we were talking about was the "scrawl" poems -- partly because I remember the same incident Linda describes. One of the things these poems bring out, as others have mentioned, is that performance is embedded within language. Even the most visual of poems engage with the vocalization we will give to them in reading. Which is why, I suppose, we always come back to talking about visual and acoustic as two vectors that are active in pretty much any poem, to greater or lesser degrees.

My music colleague was wondering about this from the practical level of performance. For instance, we talked a lot about the treatment of the text in Shadowtime (about which I'm also writing right now), the way that Ferneyhough so stylizes, elongates, and layers Bernstein's libretto that the text becomes unintelligible. For a performer (I'm told), this makes the opera very difficult to sing. For the listener, one of the more interesting effects (I find) is that it is somehow still very important that we identify these voices as human voices making these sounds -- I'm reminded of Don Cherry on "teo-teo can," for instance, or Nate Mackey's poem written in response to it. Though the sounds seem to be non-semantic, this seems to only heighten their affect (which also reminds me of Schoenberg's Erwartung).

One way we were thinking about this was in relation to Ferneyhough's piece Bone Alphabet, which is written for solo percussion. The piece does not assign specific instruments, though it characterizes the types of sounds they should make. But, what's perhaps most interesting is that Ferneyhough wrote the piece after studying the way a percussionist friend of his plays. He wrote the piece so as to work against his friend's habits, thus defamiliarizing his process of playing and reintroducing his body into the performance -- Ferneyhough's argument being that as performers perfect their skills, they necessarily take the "bodiness" of their bodies for granted.

So, what poems, poetic gestures, poetic techniques, etc. might be analogous to Ferneyhough's writing against the performer's grain? In lyric, for instance, I'm tempted to say...pretty much everything that makes it lyric. Everything that makes lyric "performative" (to use very loosely a term that is already flabby), is what differentiates it from the usual flow of language. As concrete poetry raises the stakes on visuality, it is the remainder of the voice in the language....

Finally, Linda -- please do send along the 'zine info you mention. It sounds terrific.

Cheers,
Robert

-----Original Message-----
From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]]
On Behalf Of Russo, Linda V.
Sent: Sunday, September 09, 2007 2:00 PM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry

Hi Rob! & others...

re text as a site of difficulty, wherein difficulty is in fact be the vocalization/performance, I'd bring the visual poetry of Mike Basinski into the mix, as an example of poetry that, I dunno, feigns resitance? i.e. a Basinski performance engages the signifier as a radically open site; he treats reading even his own works as an act of interpretation & vocalizes the difficulties and possibilities a text "yields." He reads the texts as though he hasn't written them. The result is, you might say, the difficulty of vocalization. I assume the Grenier you have in mind are the "scrawl" poems; I wouldn't exclude their engagement of the verbal - recalling the seeming glee that Grenier exuded when he asked his audience to read these poems aloud (this was at Buffalo 8 years ago or so?). While for Grenier these may be visual poems, they foreground the act of verbal interpretation for the reader. Although one might stare at them mutely and that would be ok too.

I've been thinking about performance & difficulty lately because of a student of mine, who's got a great sense of poetry, a junior who's writing fantastic poems, and is very intersted in performance, too (she writes multi-vocal performance pieces). She's got a stutter, and I've been wanting to account for that as part of her poetic material - without pathologizing it - how might she incorporate an awareness of that, rather than glaze over it? I haven't been sure how to broach this with her. The only analogue I could come up with so far is Aaron Williamson - but I don't think she's interested in performing stutter or anything like that. Any ideas?

By the say, there's an excellent essay on Basinski's work by Ric Royer that you might want to check out;
it's in
a new zine edited by Justin Kato (a student of Bill Howe's & cris
cheek's
at Miami University Ohio) - the zine's at my office right now but I'll get you the reference if you're interested. It's a special performance issue.

Linda

On 9/7/07, Zamsky, Robert <,[redacted]> wrote:
>

> I had an interesting conversation with a colleague of mine in our music > department the other day that I thought I would share with the list.
He
> regularly teaches a class on music-voice-text, and one of the issues
he
> is interested in is poetic texts that resist vocalization/performance.
> As he and I discussed, it seems like such resistance could be > categorized in a number of ways: features of the text that make it > difficult to vocalize (such as working in several languages, unusual > syntax or diction, etc.); features of the text that don't necessarily
or > obviously translate into vocalization (although punctuation,
lineation,
> etc. always work at least partly at the acoustic level, they also often
> have other, overriding concerns); and, poetic texts that are engaged > with the visual perhaps almost to the exclusion of the verbal. For this > last, we were talking of course about concrete poetry and other
"visual > poetries" -- we spent a lot of time talking about Robert Grenier, for > instance.
>
> I found the conversation interesting partly because there is so much > interest (on my part, at least), in the acoustic/musical/performance > qualities of poetry, and it was useful to poke at the limit-cases of > that concern.
>
> I'm wondering if anyone else has any thoughts....
>
> Thanks!
>
> Robert L. Zamsky, PhD
> Assistant Professor
> New College of Florida
>

Date: Sat, 8 Sep 2007 13:15:55 -0400
From: Murat Nemet-Nejat <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry

Bruce,

In all this analysis, a binary of choice is established, one abolishing the other. What I am interested in is the simultaneity of these two possibilities. That is what makes this relationship problematic in a very provocative and fertile way. Barthes, in his essay "Loyola," talks about this simultaneity -as the last step in Loyolan meditation- where the reader/meditator has to make a jump (for Loyola into God). Jack Spicer is talking about the same thing in his Vancouver Lectures.

Ciao,

Murat

On 9/8/07, [redacted] <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Apropos Robert Z's interest in texts that deliberately thwart performance, > the research I know indicates that we subvocalize as we read, e.g. Robert > Grenier's "I HATE SPEECH" inadvertently referencing pitch & volume of voice > thru capitolization as icons of emphasis. But reading obviously is visual > as well, & as one develops expertise in reading, one develops visual > pathways to (verbal) memory that supercede auditory pathways, so that > reading often seems silent. Further, printed texts (excluding texts like > Braile) are significantly visual in as much as they squiggle in patterned > ways, b versus d.
>
> The point would be, Robert's categorization into three "other"
> nonperformative types of text seems supported by research. Besides texts > that can be performed, there are texts that are primarily visual. Of those > texts which can be performed, there are texts that deliberately frustrate a > performance & texts that are not especially interesting to perform, because > they focus on nonperformative (albeit auditory) features in a > text. Performance doesn't add much to what a reading achieves.
>

> Bruce
>

↑ Index

234. Jane Sprague
& Now Festival
Mon 10 Sep 2007

Dear List,

This is a call for work from Logan Esdale & Martin Nakell at Chapman University. The call has been expanded to include poets & is pasted in below.

Consider sending some work or giving a reading?

read on...
-JS

***

&Now: A Festival of Literature and Art

April 15-17, 2008

Chapman University, Orange, CA

http://www.andnowfestival.com/

Submit proposals for papers by November 1st, 2007 to submissions_at_andnowfestival.com.

Anyone can submit a proposal. You do not need to be associated with an academic or any other institution. Graduate Students may apply as individuals or as students of an institution.

You can propose:

* To do a reading or performance from your own innovative or conceptual fiction, poetry, or other creative work.

* To form a panel made up of friends, colleague, writers of like-minded work, writers from the same publisher, etc. etc. to do readings or performances from their own innovative or conceptual fiction, poetry or other creative work.

* To form, or be part of, a panel for the presentation of papers with discussion on a theoretical topic relating to innovative literature and\or the practice of writing.

* Any other panel or format you might think would benefit the conference.

See the website above for more information.

↑ Index

235. David Chirot
Re: Voice and the Performance of Poetry
Mon 10 Sep 2007

I've found this discussion very interesting and to some degree curious. The Visual Poet Matthew Stolte was In Milwaukee this weekend and we were able to meet for two very stimulating discussions. Among the topices was just this question, though slightly different in formulation and area of in gress. Matthew asked me if a Visual Poem can exist which does not have any words or even letters. (Geof Huth also asked me this when we met.) For myself, a visual/tactile poem does not need any lexical ingredients whatsoever, let alone a score confined to the page. Zukofsky wrote of "Upper limit music, lower limit speech." This is a very limited range with which to work, both sonically and in terms of a "score/text." I think the range of poetry is that of the human ear and its abilities to listen to and hear beyond its ear capabilities with the use of a great variety of very simple to very sophisticated technical means. Rather than Zukofsky's formulation one has then a spectrum extending from near "silence"--(for the human ear doesn't completely "hear silence"--though it may SilEncE)--to Noise. White Noise in a sense may be thought of as a paradoxical form of this "near sielnce" in that ir the noise in which it cannot be distinguished a "clear message" becomes a form of "unutterable, unbearble" "silence" in terms of "information". At a certain level, the Noise and the "Silence" converge--and become as though "mirror images" of each other. The steady state of Noise becomes a form of "silence" and the steady state of "Silence" becomes Noise depending on how the listener "feels about it" or is aware of it. ("The position of the observer/listener" and the "observing/listening" in themselves can oscillate between and among these terms, or simply exchange them--) Bob Cobbing was the first Visual/Sound Poet to make Visual Poems without any evidences of letters, words at all--as well as extending the Visual/Sound Poem into the realms of the haptic by using the touching of objects, surfaces as things to be sounded. He also experimented widely with the uses of the tape recorder, in ways similar to and also very different from for example Henri Chopin, one of the first great avatars of the uses of tape for extending sonic ranges beyond those limiting ones of the sole dependence on the lexical. The tape recorder not only extends sound in its ranges, but also in Time. Durations become another elements which may be ollaged, cut up, "amplified," and "chiselled" to use Isidore Isou's terminology, though pushing past Isou's conceptions of the Lettriste score. When i met Bob Cobbing ten years ago I didn't know of the historical existence of these practices, but had been working along banging about in the alley ways of this area for many years. How to present to/for/with others the ways one sees/hears/touches things simultaneously and then to work with shaping these simultaneities in such ways as one can, to begin to arrange them, moving among their interrelationships, synesthesias, overlaps. Meeting Bob and seeing huge panels of his was the moment of a "shock of recognition," in which one finds suddenly that one is not alone in this at all, but there are others who experience, think, see, touch this and essay working with it as others do with the various elements elements of more familiarly known media. Walking down streets sounding sidewalk cracks, sounding the movements of tree shadows on pavements, sounding the blotches and blurs, smudges, patternings of light and shade, the touch of a door knob, the feel of the dirty linoleum flooring, the rust welts on collapsing metals, splits in the seams of paint on battered doors and walls, the --found everywhere around one hidden in plain site/sight/cite is this limitless teeming active changing flow of "material" not bound and to some extent gagged by the limitations of the "material word". (Which may be in a away thought of as one of Plato's levels of abstractions, a removal of the material into the realm of the immaterial, and in Marx's terms a reification of "materiality" into the areas in which "signs are taken for wonders".) Paul Celan wrote: "Poetry no longer imposes itself, it exposes itself." In the encounter with the poetry of that which is, as it exposes itself, one is is moving actively among the sites/sights/cites which are always already expressive/expressing and are making contact if one is open to them, as much as one oneself is essaying contact with them. "Stop (or move, walk, run, dance), look and listen"--and learn. And respond as one learns. One "finds the way", a way. "I do not seek, I find," says Picasso--there is no imposing of a preconceived seeing, saying, writing, construction made of abstractions. "Nature abhors a vacuum"--yet poetries of Celan's "imposing" kinds essay to approach as much as possible what amounts to a semblance of a vacuum, via evacuation and cleaning as much as possible to a "purity of the language of the tribe" (Mallarme). In a sense, it is an interest paradoxically on imposing "silence" on the "noise" of that which seems "barbaric," in the sense that the Greeks used the word originally. (That is--on hearing other languages, the Greeks heard "ba-ba-ba"--since of course, being Greek, they couldn't say--"sounds like Greek tome"--they used the word "ba-ba ba-barbaric".) Rather than Phil Spector's "Wall of Sound," the imposing of "writing" becomes the attempt to create a "Wall of Silence" between the "noise" of the "barbarians" and the "purity of the language of the tribe." Writing becomes a sign of seperation, in the manner in which historically it had been, with only certain castes or members of societies being permitted to learn the arts of writing and of reading in the proper codified ways. A "Wall of Silence" helps to create "Ivory Towers" which preserve the preserves as it were of language for the ones who rule and make the rules. The further removed from "noise" the writer/reader becomes, the more "silent" reading becomes--as Saint Jerome demonstrated to Saint Augustine. The question of silence in relation to writing and reading then becomes the opening of immensities of possibilities within the arenas of control and its resistances through and with written"silent" language. To stand inside a bureaucratic office in which various aspects of one's "fate" are being determined and seeing a sign which reads "If it is not in writing it never happened," is to find again the dread of this realization for those who do not participate in the writing that is imposed inside the Walls of "purity". "Silence" becomes something highly valued in writing as well as something which can be employed in all sorts of ways as a weapon, an instrument of control, a device for deception. (it can also, as Foucault writes of power, be constructive, has its positive aspects.That is, like power, it "produces." And so one enters the realms of discourse re the "production of writing.") When one is presented with the "opposition" of the "opacity" and "transparence" of writing--these are effects of imposing "silence" on writing--from the point of view of seeing "silence" as sounding--the very idea of "opacity" is a kind of "transparent" ploy, just as the idea of "transparency" is. In both cases, one is required to perform the fiction reader's "willing suspension of disbelief." One is supposed to believe that "opacity" is "really opaque" and "transparency" "really transparent." The reader is required in both cases to take the writer "at their word." In effect, the reader is supposed to be silenced by this 'word" which is the bearer of "reality." "No questions asked." Cannot one see opacity and sound it--and in sounding it, "sound out" what may indeed be a "transparent ruse" to "cover up" the message being imposed? And transparency--may also be sounded--into a depth in which the transparency is "a thinly veiled threat" made up to appear a cheery smile in order to hide its rotting snaggle toothed fangs? In Visual Poetry for a long time a distinction was--and still is--made between the "Clean" and "Dirty" "Schools of works. (I think the use of digital means of making Visual Poetry have greatly increased the prevalence of the "Clean" School--a very interesting development, opening further and further areas of investigations --in terms of this discussion and many others.) Writing of these two "Schools," jw curry noted that "at the extreme end of the spectrum, so far as to be another School all their own, are Bob Cobbing and David Chirot, the Quck'n'Dirty School." Being the only one of us left now, of course the works have been called "the Dirtiest of the Dirty." I have no idea or not this is true and besides there isn't a competition anyway. What matters is that the "dirty" does not come about by the imposition of a preconceived method, a seeking in Picasso's terms, but from a finding of that which is exposed everywhere around one, forgive the repetition, of that which is hidden in plain sight/sight/cite. In archeology and the study of Rock Art in the landscape, of ruins, fragments,shards and bones, this is known as taphonomy, the study of things in their current state. The noise, dirt and battered, muted soundings, murmurings, whispers, the screams, shouts, songs, psalms of things in their journeys through time, as they exist in a present which is in moment passed--a well as a hint or vision, a calling of a future--these "quick'n'dirty" responses, recordings,collaborations with the materials as they are--one could "wax poetic" or "become dogmatic" about al of this, and very quickly diminish and confine it back into the words of which it is only partly made. "The Tao which can be named is not the Tao,"--why put a hat on a head which isn't interested? Perhaps al one say is that it is the disbelief in what Robert Smithson called "cultural confinement," and in going into the areas in which Smithson's "the artist's art of looking" can create art with a glance, not confined to the production process and the production of any object, which are quickly subsumed into systems of value imposed from outside of the "time of the artist." To enter into these areas is to be finding, not seeking, that which is already there, that which is, ignored by seekers, unconcerned with conventions, discarded as refuse and carrying the energies to refuse the definitions which make it so, all these things that make the "black matter"of existence hidden in plain site/sight/cite and with which one finds that necessity is indeed the motherfucker of invention, for here where "nothing" is is the "ground zero" with which one works. The "artistic dallying with forms" which Artaud saw as the "one hellish, truly accursed thing in our time," is being smashed to smithereens as fast as possible to make way for the new Walls, the new "writings of silence," the new materializations and materialisms of the "material word" as a language of control and confinement. Artaud writes that instead of the "artistic dallying with forms," --which can be a complicity and collusion, a compromise with the new Walls in exchange for "security"-- there is the necessity of "being like victims burnt at the stake, signaling through the flames." Yet that as well requires a "willing suspension of disbelief," a seeking in which the victim and martyr create the theater of cruelty. Breton wrote that the purest Surrealistic act would be to enter a crowd with a revolver and start firing at random. Artaud's victim can be seen as the gestures, the signalings, towards the "role" of the suicide bomber, who both enters the crowd with a "revolver" as does Breton's Surrealist--and kills not only others at random, but includes her/himself in the victims signaling through the flames. To be simultaneously victim and executioner--isn't that what makes the suicide bomber so "monstrous" compared to the nice clean killings carried out by "targeted assassinations"' in which the pilot moving at high speed high above the crowd, fires into it, killing both the "target" and innocent bystanders called "collateral damage"? And isn't the hypocritical discourse over the superior ethical position of the pilot to that of the suicide bomber yet again an example of the "artistic dallying with forms" while the victims on all sides pile up, signaling through the flames? "The most beautiful world is a heap of rubble tossed down in confusion/at random" (the translations vary), says Heraclitus' fragment, enduring through time as a piece of rubble itself. To enter this "most beautiful world" as a ground zero of neccesity's motherfucker of invention, to find in the quick'n'dirty taphonomy of things hidden in plain sight/site/cite--is a way of "finding out for oneself" (Olson, after Herodotus's, definition of "historin") --that the noise and near-silences, the glittering mirroring "opacities" and "transparencies" of "language" and "writing," the Walls of cultural confinements--that all of this is to find that all that is imposing itself as "writing," "silence," "performance," "language," is not so unlike the Towers of 9/11, whose "ground zero" has been converted as swiftly as possible into Terror and Security, Surveillance, Silence and Censorship, Imperialism. In this way the quck'n'dirty is a refusal to clean up and cover up the ground zero of black matter hidden in plain site,sight, cite when that ground zero is expanding at every greater speeds from New Orleans to Beirut, Baghdad to DePaul, Gaza to the Green Zone, the Phillipines to London, Spain, Guantanamo, from Muzzlewatch to the Patriot Act, from the Occupied Territories to the halls of academia. "One cannot hide from that which never sets" (Heraclitus)--and isn't that the goal of Imperialism, to be the sun which never sets, rather than simply that which the sun never sets upon? Isn't that the goal of the text which will never set from the skies of its blinding silences, its writing purified of speech, performance, "transparency?" Is a kind of final Law of the Text a bound and gagged reader confined to "opaque," "complex, ambiguous," "writing,"while at the same time being told that she or he is "free" to be the co-producer of meanings, vectors, formal radicalisms and the like? Doesn't the Silence of the text become in many ways possible, a silencing of the reader? Paradoxically the proliferations of ground zero offer both the opportunity to create from and with the rubble's necessisitating motherfucker of found invention and the possibility of being buried alive unless one collaborates with the cleanup crews making ready for the new towers and Walls. What is truly terrifying is that the artistic dallying after forms has created such "artifices" that the "victims being burnt at the take signaling through the flames" have been deprived of any "significance" at all unless they are "one of us".In fact, it has become rather the fashion to make note of the "bad from" of the victims' signaling from the point of view of the properly trained "professional," "official" "signifiers"in their infinite and moral, judicious, Imperialist wisdom. As the Bob Cobbing has it of the poet "sockless in sandals," with hawking his or her wares in shrieks and hisses, disturbing the quiet of the business-like ones' sober-minded night, their ultimate judgement and ruling will be--"if he knew what he was doing, he would do it better."

Yet for all that a poet wil continue on, even if arrested, making noise in the quick'n'dirty ground zeros of existence, knowing that "if he could it better," he'd be confined to the very world that seems a glittering silent tomb carefully secure with the gated Walls and the title on the door, the Bigelow on the floor and absolutely no freedom to speak unless spoken to. Can this poetry of the quick'n'dirty be found everywhere? Matthew Sotle asked me about this.

Yes it can. Even in a nice, confined, sterile, near-silent environment, a gallery, a classroom, a cell, a rest room, a waiting room--look--listen--touch. Look at the clothes you are wearing for example--plenty of materials for sounding with the fingers--zippers, soles of shoes, shoe laces or button, heels, the linings of jackets, pipings of trousers, pleats of dresses--scars on the skin, rings, bracelets, watches, earrings, combs, brushes--the plenitude of things--even the most minimal--a zipper on a jumpsuit--a raised lettering sewn in to labels, materials. The shadows one can make on the walls, the sounds of a door somewhere way down the hall. . . . the hum of electric lights-- Even the smoothest of walls has somewhere a spot of dust---even the darkest room has sounds, things one finds with the touch--- In the most extremely sanitized spaces one has still with one the germs of necessity, the motherfucker of invention. Not a victim signaling through flames -- Someone among the things hidden in plain site/sight/cite-- where the "Dead See Scrawls"--

↑ Index

236. W.B. Keckler

James Chapman's Degenerescence (new novel in poetry) and 20 Ways to Wean Friends

Mon 10 Sep 2007

---

from Joe Brainard's Pyjamas today....a foretaste of Chapman's new novel in poetry, and reconceptualization of the mythological narrative...

James Chapman's latest novel is a startling departure from his previous oeuvre, compelling novels which tend to enter into phenomenologically-based modes of social critique. Whether he's writing about the early days of the A.I.D.s epidemic when apocalypic narratives and thinking abounded (Our Plague), or analyzing the first war in the Gulf through the eyes of a solitary soldier realizing with horror what the new embodiment of the "miraculous" will be in the 21st century (Glass: pray the electrons back to sand) or seemingly conceptualizing a human life as material sculpture (the walls collide as you expand; dream maple), Chapman's works never stray far from the soil, the earth itself. Observe the way natural processes occurring on the ground enter into each of his novels, and how the characters interact with the earth they are walking upon in pivotal scenes. It's very subtle but definitely present. Often, liminal events occurring at this terrestrial level are suddenly magnified by the amplifier of poetic prose, demonstrating how automatic and autonomous the foundational world is. This might be prose witnessing the growth of a furry fungus on a stone, or insects utilizing human synthetics to construct dwellings, or a process more disembodied, less susceptible to unaided human vision. In one novel it is a woman in the act of psychic disintegration moving into a cardboard box which she decorates with the obsessiveness and meticulousness of Joseph Cornell (daughter, i forbid your recurring dream). This catharsis, this continual returning to earth, might be profitably compared to the act of grounding which goes on in Buddhist process. more's to be had @ _http://joebrainardspyjamas.blogspot.com/_ (http://joebrainardspyjamas.blogspot.com/)

* See what's new at http://www.aol.com

↑ Index

237. Alan Sondheim

The Mountains

Mon 10 Sep 2007

The Mountains

We could walk around the borders of our beautiful country, even in 1943, and face everywhere on earth. It's a small country and one that has always been full of promise. Wearing our national colours is perfect for mountain scouting and we walk towards a future unsullied by the war raging around us. Our leaders ask us to keep our heads up high, learn to love the slopes and cataracts, glaciers and mighty streams, dark forests and barren plateaus. Our leaders have written a wonderful song, 'Storm Clouds in the Distance.' But we are fond of dancing and we are very modern. Restless, our friends await us in the small cabin we have been converting, such food.

http://www.asondheim.org/photoalp18.jpg

↑ Index

238. Simon DeDeo

new on rhubarb is susan this week

Mon 10 Sep 2007

Three new things up this week -- a review (of Sarah Lang's new Coach House book) and two essays, one on the practice of poetry blogging, and one on "plagiarism and thievery in contemporary poetry", responding to Ron's remarks on David Giannini's new book.

http://rhubarbissusan.blogspot.com http://rhubarbissusan.blogspot.com/2007/09/plagiarism-and-thievery-in-contemporary.html http://rhubarbissusan.blogspot.com/2007/09/advice-to-poetry-bloggers.html http://rhubarbissusan.blogspot.com/2007/09/sarah-lang-from-work-of-days.html

Thanks for tuning in,

Simon

↑ Index

239. Tom W. Lewis
three sound collages
Mon 10 Sep 2007

---

http://takingthebrim.blogspot.com/2007/09/sex-overkill.html#links

http://minnesotan-ice.blogspot.com/2007/09/abscheid-train-dance.html#lin ks

http://minnesotan-ice.blogspot.com/2007/09/we-curtis-at-passchendaele-w-mingus.html#links

↑ Index

240. Catherine Daly
Fwd: Y-Phyle Zine needs storytellers, essayists, artists
Mon 10 Sep 2007

Yes, we decided to change the spelling.

Okay, so far I have one excellent prose piece selected, as well as contributions from 3 excellent poets.

Currently, the poetry quota for this quarter is filled. Any further poetry contributions will be taken into consideration for the March issue.

I NEED THE FOLLOWING:

PROSE: Essays or short stories not to exceed 2,000 words. (Preference will be given to essays focusing on DIY (Do-It-Yourself) lifestyle and culture, however topics of absolutely anything are welcome, and nothing will be taboo!

VISUAL ART: Photographers and artists send me scans or JPEG picture files of your work. It can be drawings paitings, whatev. If any of you have comic strips I'd love to run them!

There will also be an ongoing contributing columnist who prefers to remain anonymous, although some of you in Ypsilanti may have seen him poke his head out from time-to-time. ;)

SPREAD THE WORD!

DIRECT ALL SUBMISSIONS TO:

[redacted]

DEALINE IS DECEMBER 1ST!

Can you find the hidden words? Take a break and play Seekadoo!
<http://g.msn.com/8HMBENUS/2728??PS=47575>

__._,_.___ Messages in this topic
<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/CobaltPoets/message/11742;_ylc=X3oDMTM2aXNpN3BzBF9TAzk3MzU5NzE0BGdycElkAzM2MjYxODMEZ3Jwc3BJZAMxNzA1MDIwMDgyBG1zZ0lkAzExNzQyBHNlYwNmdHIEc2xrA3Z0cGMEc3RpbWUDMTE4OTQ2Mzc1NQR0cGNJZAMxMTc0Mg-->
(1) Reply (via web post)
<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/CobaltPoets/post;_ylc=X3oDMTJxdHFkOWM4BF9TAzk3MzU5NzE0BGdycElkAzM2MjYxODMEZ3Jwc3BJZAMxNzA1MDIwMDgyBG1zZ0lkAzExNzQyBHNlYwNmdHIEc2xrA3JwbHkEc3RpbWUDMTE4OTQ2Mzc1NQ--?act=reply&messageNum=11742>|
Start a new topic
<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/CobaltPoets/post;_ylc=X3oDMTJlNW5rOGFlBF9TAzk3MzU5NzE0BGdycElkAzM2MjYxODMEZ3Jwc3BJZAMxNzA1MDIwMDgyBHNlYwNmdHIEc2xrA250cGMEc3RpbWUDMTE4OTQ2Mzc1NQ-->
Messages<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/CobaltPoets/messages;_ylc=X3oDMTJlZ2hhYTAwBF9TAzk3MzU5NzE0BGdycElkAzM2MjYxODMEZ3Jwc3BJZAMxNzA1MDIwMDgyBHNlYwNmdHIEc2xrA21zZ3MEc3RpbWUDMTE4OTQ2Mzc1NQ-->|
Files<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/CobaltPoets/files;_ylc=X3oDMTJmamYxYzFyBF9TAzk3MzU5NzE0BGdycElkAzM2MjYxODMEZ3Jwc3BJZAMxNzA1MDIwMDgyBHNlYwNmdHIEc2xrA2ZpbGVzBHN0aW1lAzExODk0NjM3NTU->|
Photos<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/CobaltPoets/photos;_ylc=X3oDMTJlcWZyOTdsBF9TAzk3MzU5NzE0BGdycElkAzM2MjYxODMEZ3Jwc3BJZAMxNzA1MDIwMDgyBHNlYwNmdHIEc2xrA3Bob3QEc3RpbWUDMTE4OTQ2Mzc1NQ--> [image: Yahoo!
Groups]<http://groups.yahoo.com/;_ylc=X3oDMTJkcXE4ZHQ5BF9TAzk3NDc2NTkwBGdycElkAzM2MjYxODMEZ3Jwc3BJZAMxNzA1MDIwMDgyBHNlYwNmdHIEc2xrA2dmcARzdGltZQMxMTg5NDYzNzU2>
Change settings via the Web<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/CobaltPoets/join;_ylc=X3oDMTJmbzM1ZGhjBF9TAzk3NDc2NTkwBGdycElkAzM2MjYxODMEZ3Jwc3BJZAMxNzA1MDIwMDgyBHNlYwNmdHIEc2xrA3N0bmdzBHN0aW1lAzExODk0NjM3NTY->(Yahoo! ID required)
Change settings via email: Switch delivery to Daily
Digest<[redacted]?subject=Email+Delivery:+Digest>|
Switch
format to Traditional<[redacted]?subject=Change+Delivery+Format:+Traditional>

Visit Your Group
<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/CobaltPoets;_ylc=X3oDMTJkNjNla292BF9TAzk3NDc2NTkwBGdycElkAzM2MjYxODMEZ3Jwc3BJZAMxNzA1MDIwMDgyBHNlYwNmdHIEc2xrA2hwZgRzdGltZQMxMTg5NDYzNzU2>|
.

__,_._,___
--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

↑ Index

241. Gary Sullivan
SEGUE SERIES FALL / WINTER 2007-08
Tue 11 Sep 2007

SEGUE READING SERIES @ BOWERY POETRY CLUB

Saturdays: 4:00 p.m. - 6:00 p.m.
308 BOWERY, just north of Houston
$6 admission goes to support the readers
Fall / Winter 2007-2008

These events are made possible, in part, with public funds from The New York State Council on the Arts, a state agency.

The Segue Reading Series is made possible by the support of The Segue Foundation. For more information, please visit www.seguefoundation.com, bowerypoetry.com/midsection.htm, or call [redacted]. Curators: Oct.-Nov. by Nada Gordon & Gary Sullivan, Dec.-Jan. by Brenda Iijima & Evelyn Reilly.

OCTOBER

OCTOBER 6 JENNIFER MOXLEY and MAGGIE O'SULLIVAN
Jennifer Moxley is the author of four books of poetry: The Line (Post-Apollo 2007), Often Capital (Flood 2005), The Sense Record (Edge 2002; Salt 2003) and Imagination Verses (Tender Buttons 1996; Salt 2003). Her memoir The Middle Room was published by Subpress in 2007. For links to her work online, reviews, and more biographical information visit: epc.buffalo.edu/authors/moxley/index.html. Maggie O' Sullivan is a British poet, performer and visual artist. She has been making and performing her work internationally since the late 1970s. Her most recent publication is Body of Work (Reality Street, 2007), which brings together for the first time all of her long out-of-print small-press booklets from the 1980s. Her website is www.maggieosullivan.co.uk.

OCTOBER 13 ANDREW LEVY and BARRETT WATTEN Andrew Levy is a contributing writer on President of the United States' The Big Melt (Factory School, 2007), and he is the author of a dozen books of poetry, including Ashoka (Zasterle Books), Paper Head Last Lyrics (Roof Books), Curve 2 (Potes & Poets Press), Values Chauffeur You (O Books), and Democracy Assemblages (Innerer Klang). He is editor, with Roberto Harrison, of the poetry journal Crayon. Barrett Watten founded the Grand Piano reading series in 1976 and edited and published This from 1971. His most recent books are Bad History (Atelos, 1998), Progress/Under Erasure (Green Integer, 2004), and The Constructivist Moment: From Material Text to Cultural Poetics (Wesleyan University Press, 2003), which won the 2004 René Wellek Prize.

OCTOBER 20 K. LORRAINE GRAHAM and TAO LIN K. Lorraine Graham is the author of three chapbooks, Terminal Humming (Slack Buddha), See it Everywhere (Big Game Books), and Large Waves to Large Obstacles (forthcoming from Take Home Project), and the recently released chapdisk Moving Walkways (Narrowhouse Recordings). She has just completed the extended manuscript of Terminal Humming. Tao Lin is the author of a novel, EEEEE EEE EEEE (Melville House, 2007), a story-collection, Bed (Melville House, 2007), and two poetry collections, You Are a Little Bit Happier Than I Am (Action Books, 2006), and the forthcoming Cognitive-Behavioral Therapy (Melville House, Spring 2008).

OCTOBER 27 ROB FITTERMAN and MEL NICHOLS Sandwiched between Shell and Mobil gas stations, Robert Fitterman grew up in a pre-sprawl St. Louis suburb named Creve Coeur (broken heart). He is the author of nine books of poetry, including Metropolis 1-15 (Sun & Moon), Metropolis 16-29 (Coach House Books) and, most recently, War, the musical (Subpress, 2006) with Dirk Rowntree. Mel Nichols lives in Washington, DC, and teaches at George Mason University. Her chapbooks are Day Poems (Edge Books 2005) and The Beginning of Beauty, Part 1: hottest new ringtones, mnichol6 (Edge 2007), based on the daily blog project at thebeginningofbeauty.blogspot.com.

NOVEMBER

NOVEMBER 3 CHRIS FUNKHOUSER and MADELINE GINS Chris Funkhouser was awarded a Fulbright Scholarship in 2006 to lecture and conduct research in Malaysia, where his CD-ROM eBook Selections 2.0 was produced at Multimedia University. Prehistoric Digital Poetry: An Archaeology of Forms, 1959-1995, a history of pre-WWW computerized poetry, has just been published by University of Alabama Press. Madeline Gins: B-b-b-b-b-orn and intends never to die. Three of her eleven books: What the President Will Say and Do!; Helen Keller or Arakawa; Making Dying Illegal (co-author Arakawa). Three of five Arakawa + Gins' built works: Bioscleave House–East Hampton; Site of Reversible Destiny–Yoro; Reversible Destiny Lofts–Mitaka.

NOVEMBER 10 SEAN COLE and BRANDON DOWNING Sean Cole is the author of the chapbooks By the Author and Itty City and of a full-length collection of postcard poems called The December Project. He is also a reporter for public radio. In his spare time, he writes bios like this one. Brandon Downing's books of poetry include LAZIO (Blue Books, 2000), The Shirt Weapon (Germ, 2002), and Dark Brandon (Faux, 2005). A new DVD collection, Dark Brandon // The Filmi, was just released, and he's currently completing a monograph of his literary collages under the title Lake Antiquity.

NOVEMBER 17 BENJAMIN FRIEDLANDER and DANA WARD Benjamin Friedlander is the author of several books of poetry, most recently The Missing Occasion of Saying Yes (Subpress, 2007). His edition of Robert Creeley's Selected Poems 1945-2005 is forthcoming from the University of California Press. He is currently completing a book on Emily Dickinson and the Civil War. Dana Ward is the author of The Wrong Tree (Dusie, 2007), Goodnight Voice (House Press, 2007) and other chapbooks. OMG recently published an edition of For Paris in Prison with images by the artist Matthew Hughes Boyko.

NOVEMBER 24 NO READING–Happy holiday!

DECEMBER

DECEMBER 1 TYRONE WILLIAMS and SUEYEUN JULIETTE LEE Tyrone Williams's book, c.c., was published by Krupskaya Books in 2002; the chapbooks AAB and Futures, Elections were published in 2004; and the chapbook Musique Noir was published in 2006. A new book, On Spec, is forthcoming from Omnidawn in 2008. Sueyeun Juliette Lee currently lives in Philadelphia where she edits Corollary Press, a small chapbook series dedicated to new work by writers of color. Her chapbooks include Perfect Villagers (Octopus Books) and Trespass Slightly in (Coconut Poetry). Her first book, That Gorgeous Feeling, is forthcoming from Coconut Books next spring.

DECEMBER 8 JESS MYNES and ANTHONY HAWLEY Jess Mynes is author of birds for example (CARVE Editions), In(ex)teriors (Anchorite Press) and Full On Jabber (Martian Press), a collaboration with Christopher Rizzo. His If and When (Katalanche Press), Recently Clouds, a collaboration with Aaron Tieger, and Sky Brightly Picked (Skysill Press) are forthcoming this year. Anthony Hawley is the author of The Concerto Form (Shearsman Books, 2006) and four chapbooks of poetry: Vocative (Phylum Press, 2004), Afield (Ugly Duckling Presse, 2004), Record-breakers (Ori is the New Apple Press, 2007), and Autobiography/Oughtabiography (Counterpath, 2007). His second book of poems, Paradise Gelatin, will be published in 2008.

DECEMBER 15 BARBARA JANE REYES and BHANU KAPIL Barbara Jane Reyes is the author of Gravities of Center (Arkipelago, 2003) and Poeta en San Francisco (Tinfish, 2005), which received the James Laughlin Award of the Academy of American Poets. She lives with her husband Oscar Bermeo in Oakland. Bhanu Kapil teaches writing at Naropa University and Goddard College. She is the author of three full-length collections: The Vertical Interrogation of Strangers (Kelsey Street Press), Incubation: a space for monsters (Leon Works), and Humanimal (forthcoming from Kelsey Street Press).

DECEMBER 22 & 29 NO READING–Happy holidays!

JANUARY

JANUARY 5 JENNIFER FIRESTONE and LINDA RUSSO Jennifer Firestone is the author of Holiday, forthcoming from Shearsman Books. Her chapbooks include Waves (Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs), and from Flashes (Sona Books). She is the co-editor of the anthology Letters To Poets: Conversations About Poetics, Politics and Community, forthcoming from Saturnalia Books.Linda Russo is the author of MIRTH (Chax Press, 2007) and o going out (Potes & Poets, 1999), among other books. She has published essays on Bernadette Mayer & Hannah Weiner, ecopoetics, and Joanne Kyger, including the preface to Kyger's About Now: Collected Poems.

JANUARY 12 TISA BRYANT and ROBERT KOCIK Tisa Bryant's work includes Unexplained Presence (Leon Works, 2007), and Tzimmes (A+Bend Press, 2000). She is currently creating [the curator], a meditation on identity, visual culture and the lost films of auteur Justine Cable, and Playing House, an exploration of work, writing and domesticity. Robert Kocik is a poet, essayist, builder, and eleemosynary entrepreneur. His niche, architecturally, is the designing/building of missing civic services. His most recent publications are Overcoming Fitness (Autonomedia, 2000) and Rhrurbarb (Field Books, 2007). He is currently researching the Prosodic Body—an exacting aesthetics based on prosody as the bringing forth of everything.

JANUARY 19 RACHEL BLAU DUPLESSIS and ANNA MOSCHOVAKIS Rachel Blau DuPlessis's two most recent books are Torques: Drafts 58-76 (Salt Publishing, 2007) and Blue Studios: Poetry and Its Cultural Work (University of Alabama Press, 2006). She lives in Philadelphia and teaches at Temple University. Anna Moschovakis is the author of a book of poems, I Have Not Been Able to Get Through to Everyone, and two chapbooks. She volunteers as an editor and designer at Ugly Duckling Presse, for which she recently co-edited The Drug of Art, the selected works of Czech poet Ivan Blatny (in English translation).

JANUARY 26 SUSAN HOWE and JAMES THOMAS STEVENS
Susan Howe’s most recent books are The Midnight (New Directions) and Kidnapped (Coracle Books). Two CDs, Thiefth and Souls of the Labadie Tract, in collaboration with the musician/ composer David Grubbs were recently released on the Blue Chopsticks label. A new collection of poems, as well as a re-print of her critical study My Emily Dickinson will be published by New Directions. James Thomas Stevens is the author of seven books of poetry, including A Bridge Dead in the Water, Combing the Snakes from His Hair, and Bulle/Chimere. Stevens is a 2000 Whiting Award recipient and a 2005 National Poetry Series Finalist.

_____ More photos; more messages; more whatever – Get MORE with Windows Live™ Hotmail®. NOW with 5GB storage. http://imagine-windowslive.com/hotmail/?locale=en-us&ocid=TXT_TAGHM_migration_HM_mini_5G_0907=

↑ Index

242. Rachel Loden
recently on wordstrumpet
Tue 11 Sep 2007

If you're so inclined: these and other posts . . .

http://wordstrumpet.blogspot.com/

* Ange Mlinko, _The Children's Museum_

* _The Code of the Woosters_ (shower-reading and other oddities)

* The Young and the Restless (obsessions of the tiny male)

* A Walk with Nathaniel Hawthorne (my great grandmother's sister, Rebecca Harding Davis: her encounters with Hawthorne and others)

* Like a Radio in the Dark (the mysterious Mr. Bowering)

* Poets, Unbearable and Otherwise (your friends and mine)

* Something More Substantial Than Fame (the view from Henry David Thoreau's attic)

* Three Parodies of Ingmar Bergman

* Comedy, Cruelty, and Control (and the connections between them)

* Lady Sovereign (is a blog a sort of castle with its lord, its gentleman-soldiers, its mounted men-at-arms and its vassals?)

* The Price of the Ticket (my quarrels with the blogosphere)

* The Shock of the Necessary (Bill Knott and Linh Dinh)

* Prisoners of Love: Poetry and the Stockholm Syndrome (a few thoughts on Bill Knott)

* Your Mind Is On Vacation and Your Mouth Is Working Overtime

* And Now For Something Completely Different (a poem)

* Survival of the Fittest Groceries (what gets play, what doesn't)

* The Baffling Mr. Abramson

* Why Is American Poetry Culturally Deprived? (Kenneth Rexroth)

* Either the Audience Wins or You Do: Harold Pinter, Audience Pleasure, and Other Musings

* Borat and Bromige: Further Adventures (what do they have in common?)

-- Rachel Loden

http://wordstrumpet.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

243. Joshua Kotin

Announcing Chicago Review 53:2/4 - Preorder!

Tue 11 Sep 2007

Dear Poetics List ---

The autumn 2007 issue of Chicago Review is at press and available to pre-order.

(The issue will be mailed in early October.)

The issue features: the second half of "Rising, Hovering, Falling," C.D. Wright's long poem about the Iraq war; Book V of Ronald Johnson's Radi os; an article on feminism and innovative poetry by Juliana Spahr and Stephanie Young, and a response from Jennifer Ashton; essays by Georges Perec (on realism) and Allen Grossman (on Hart Crane). Plus the next installment of Kent Johnson's twelve-part critical novella, a review of J.H. Prynne's "To Pollen." And much much much more.

The full table of contents is posted as a pdf on CR's website and is summarized below.

http://humanities.uchicago.edu/orgs/review/

+ + +

USE COUPON CODE 5323907 FOR A 10% DISCOUNT ON ALL ORDERS.

(coupon expires 10/1/7)

Please forward this announcement far & wide. CR counts on your support.

+ + +

The issue costs $12 (including domestic postage) and may be ordered directly here:

http://tinyurl.com/2uacl3

Subscriptions, however, start at less than $15 a year and will begin with the autumn issue. Please subscribe here:

one year for $22 --- http://tinyurl.com/3aoslo

two for $38 --- http://tinyurl.com/3b6f38

three for $50 --- http://tinyurl.com/2r5plu

five for $72 --- http://tinyurl.com/2le3v7

+ + +

The 248-page Chicago Review 53:2/3 features:

POEMS by

C.D. Wright
Larissa Szporluk
William Fuller
Sarah Gridley
Roberto Harrison
Mark Tardi
John Peck
Erín Moure & Oana Avasilichioaei
Elisa Sampedrín
Oana Avasilichioaei
Ronald Johnson

FICTION by

Peter Markus
Jedediah Berry

ESSAYS by

Georges Perec
Juliana Spahr & Stephanie Young
Jennifer Ashton
Allen Grossman

REVIEWS of

Eliot Weinberger
Frederick Seidel
Harryette Mullen
Zak Smith
Hermann Ungar
Gabriel Pomerand
Daniel Kane
Laird Hunt
Kevin Connolly
J.H. Prynne

And much more . . .

Please see http://humanities.uchicago.edu/orgs/review/ for a complete TOC . . .

+ + +

Many thanks!

Joshua K.

| | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |

Chicago Review
5801 South Kenwood Avenue
Chicago Illinois 60637

http://humanities.uchicago.edu/orgs/review/

↑ Index

244. Alan Sondheim
Mathesis of Killing Field
Tue 11 Sep 2007

Mathesis of Killing Field

It comes down to this: here is an organism of a particular species, or rather a sample or individual of that species, and here is a second organism of the same; call the first 2 and the second 1. Then 1 kills 2 for one or another reason, let us say for sexual-territorial reasons or reasons of anger or insanity. An entire world is lost with the death of 2 and this includes the family of 2 and friends of 2 who must now reorganize and divides the belongings or nest or nestlings of 2 which most likely, the last, will not survive. 1 kills 2 with its bare hands. Let us assume consciousness and ethos, then we will not have a problem with this equa- tion, the acquaintance-world of 2 may then retaliate. But I say 1 is a criminal and if there is justice in this world or any other, then 1 must be rendered impotent, that is the actions of 1 must be short-circuited, circumvented, 1 must be rendered useless, ridiculous, harmless. Let us say 1 has hired or imposed force upon 3 to kill 2, then let us hold 1 doubly responsible and 3 singly responsible. It comes down to an organism killing another organism and the implications of habitus, political economy, the social, on this action which is only, but not for 2, part of a train of actions, what we might call activity in general. I say 1 is a criminal and must be treated as such and the justification of 'war' is meaningless in this regard, if 1 is the violator, even given the activity. I say 1 must be rendered harmless. I say for example a president who sends people to war, who insists on war, is not only barbaric, but a criminal situating itself behind a bureaucracy, rewriting the languages of legality in order to create a situation otherwise known as murder. It is as simple, I say, as 1 over or through 2, that is a singularity within which 2 is stopped through no reason of hir own, that there is a chain between 1 and 2. I say as well that religion is not justice, religion is the enemy of justice, and no appeal subvents or justifies the elimination of 2, insofar as 1 has been aggressor, it does not matter what masquerades as results or interpretations, what masquerades as the deconstruction of the real, in this case destruction of the real, concrete, inert destruction. I say our enemy is among us, our enemy is a president who is doubly an enemy, first for war and actions against others, second for war and actions against ourselves, as if we have generated, and we have, this disease in our midst. Let us think of the habitus of 3, let us mourn 2, let us annihilate 1 who will continue its pyramid of annihilation until all is lost, until so much is lost that the losing and what is gone have been forgotten. Let us remember that a performative carries force, not the force of justice, which has no force, and that the blindness of justice is the only sight there is. Let us remember that all other sight is invested, and thereby corporate, even the other-sight of the pre-industrial, that only the other-side other-sight of the chthonic may remain speechless and true and just, the slight memory of 3, the deepest and most violent rape of 1, that 2 no longer figures into this broken equation. 1, 3, equivalence sutures across the pillage of the dead, equivalence no longer exists. I say let us remember equivalence and its hammer, neutral, neutral neutral. I say 2 is dead.

http://www.asondheim.org/photoalp30.jpg

↑ Index

245. Lewis Warsh

Wiliam Carlos Williams Poetry Symposium

Tue 11 Sep 2007

WILLIAM CARLOS WILLIAMS POETRY SYMPOSIUM

The William Carlos Williams Poetry Symposium (WCWPS) proudly announces a special poetry reading to commemorate its annual celebration of WCW's birthday in September and to acknowledge the 25th anniversary of the renaming of the Williams Center.

The WCWPS reading will take place Sunday September 16, 2007 on the Terrace of Rutherford's Williams Center from 1 PM to 4:30 PM. A champagne reception will follow and the poets will be available to sign books.

Four of WCW's family members will be attending and sharing reminiscences.

Featured poets include Alicia Ostriker and Laura Boss, both of whom read at the WCW Centennial at the Williams Center in 1983; Lewis Warsh, a featured poet at the 2005 Symposium; Urayoan Noel, featured reader for the 2006 WCWPS event; Jim Klein, WCW Poetry Cooperative member and workshop leader; and Tina Kelley, award winning WCW Cooperative reader & New York Times reporter. Bill Zavatsky, poet and Williams scholar, will open the reading with a discussion and reading of WCW's works.

The WCWPS held an exciting day-long symposium in 2005, the first celebration of Rutherford's famous son in 22 years. In 2006 it worked with the Hispanic Heritage Organization to honor WCW's Spanish heritage on his mother's side with a poetry reading that featured Puerto Rican poet Urayoan Noel.

On September 20-21, 2008, WCW's 125th birthday will be celebrated with a town-wide festival and two-day symposium at the Williams Center. Formerly the Rivoli Theater, the Center was renamed the William Carlos Williams Center for the Performing Arts in 1982, when it reopened after a devastating fire closed its doors. On October 13, 2007 this important institution will celebrate the 25th anniversary of its renaming with a Gala Fundraiser to help ongoing renovations.

For more information on the reading or featured poets, please visit the WCWPS website at www.williamcarloswilliams.org.

↑ Index

246. CA Conrad

Death of trans immigrant Victoria Arellano while in detention forges united protest among prisoners

Tue 11 Sep 2007

Article by Leslie Feinberg
here: http://www.workers.org/2007/us/trans-0913/

CAConrad
http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

↑ Index

247. CA Conrad

Jill Jones, Jessica White, Jaime Anne Earnest, Joey Yearous-Algozin PHILLY EVENT

Tue 11 Sep 2007

---

it's going to be an AMAZING reading!
if you're in Philly on 9/23, don't miss this one!
details and links on The PhillySound
http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

↑ Index

248. David A. Kirschenbaum

OT: NYC-Area/Last Mets Reg. Season Game Tix for Sale

Tue 11 Sep 2007

Hi all, Apologies for the non-Boog/poetry email.

I?m checking in to see if anyone might be interested in buying my tickets for the last Mets regular season game of this season:

Sunday, Sept. 30, 1:10 p.m.
vs. Florida Marlins
$58

I?ve had a Sunday plan and have sat in the same section for the past 10 years--mezzanine, sec. 2 (behind home plate). I have two tickets (price above is for the pair), and they?re under the overhang, so you don?t get burned in the sun or wet in the rain. If you?re interested in buying them (or know someone who is) you can email me.

Hope this finds you well (and lets go Mets!).

as ever,
David

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W.28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://www.welcometoboogcity.com
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664) F: [redacted]

↑ Index

249. Mark Weiss

Re: Jill Jones, Jessica White, Jaime Anne Earnest, Joey Yearous-Algozin PHILLY EVENT

Tue 11 Sep 2007

Jill is a wonderful poet, one of the best of her generation in Australia and beyond. I wish I could be there.

Mark

At 12:17 PM 9/11/2007, you wrote:
>it's going to be an AMAZING reading!
>if you're in Philly on 9/23, don't miss this one!
>details and links on The PhillySound
>http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

↑ Index

250. William Slaughter

Notice: Mudlark

Tue 11 Sep 2007

This message is in MIME format. The first part should be readable text, while the remaining parts are likely unreadable without MIME-aware tools.

--1049347784-869865811-1189539176=:23889

New and On View: Mudlark Flash No. 42 (2007)

Gabriel DeCrease | Short Retreats and The Unsolved Language

Author's Note | Trieste | Vienna | Budapest
Chihuahua | El Rey | Nusco | Madrid | Cairo

Gabriel DeCrease is a graduate of the Creative Writing/Poetry Program at Allegheny College and is currently a member of the MFA Creative Writing/Poetry Program at The University of Pittsburgh. He received The 2005 Mulfinger Award for Poetry and first-prize in the 2007 Edwin Ochester/Academy of American Poets competition for his poem "Iteration of a Funeral." His poems and reviews have appeared in The French Creek Journal and Paradigm-3. He lives in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, where he works as a boxing trainer.

Spread the word. Far and wide,

William Slaughter

MUDLARK
An Electronic Journal of Poetry & Poetics

Never in and never out of print...
E-mail: [redacted]
URL: http://www.unf.edu/mudlarkÂ

--1049347784-869865811-1189539176=:23889--

↑ Index

251. Susan Webster Schultz
TINFISH PRESS SEPTEMBER NEWS
Tue 11 Sep 2007

TINFISH PRESS NEWS: September, 2007

Tinfish is proud to announce the publication of farout_library_software, by Pam Brown & Maged Zaher. Design by Chae Ho Lee. $10 from Tinfish Press. You can purchase on-line or by sending a check to Tinfish at 47-728 Hui Kelu Street #9, Kane`ohe, HI 96744. More information here:

http://tinfishpress.com/hot_off_the_press.html

While you're there, please check out our other new stuff. The War Criminal offer is still on for Sarith Peou's Corpse Watching. Get a second chap for yourself at the same low price of $10. Someday I'll Be Sitting in a Dingy Bar, by Hwang Jiwoo, is on SPD's new “recommended” list.

We have a new art feature here:

http://tinfishpress.com/art.html

and a new issue of Tinfish net, this one on translation, here:

http://tinfishpress.com/tinfishnet.html

I have a new anti-war project on facebook, the sidewalk blog (click on the photos to make them bigger and to unveil the narrative of each sign's life):

http://www.facebook.com/album.php?aid=6374&l=faa87&id=654553661

The month of August from my Dementia Blog appears in the current issue of INTERIM:

http://www.interimmag.org/

I am also proud to announce two new books by students. Sage Takehiro's poetry is strong, bitter, and well worth the read:

http://www.hawaii.edu/newsatuh/2007/0402/index.php?story=7

Ian Sample has written a memoir of his time with the UH football team. It (and deleted passages he put up on myspace) have caused quite a stir here.

http://www.amazon.com/Once-Warrior-Hawaii-Football-Record/dp/0979064791

Enjoy!

Aloha,

Susan M. Schultz
Editor/Publisher
Tinfish Press

↑ Index

252. Matt Henriksen

Fri Sept 14 ~ Goldstein & Turovskaya ~ Carroll Gardens, Brooklyn

Tue 11 Sep 2007

The Burning Chair Readings
invite you to choke out the last few breaths of summer w/

David Goldstein & Genya Turovskaya

Friday, September 14th, 7:30 PM
The Fall Café
307 Smith Street
btwn. Union & President
Carroll Gardens, Brooklyn
F/G to Carroll Street
FREE

David B. Goldstein is the author of a chapbook, Been Raw Diction (Dusie), and his poetry has appeared in numerous journals, including The Paris Review, Jubilat, Typo, Epoch, Alice Blue Review, and Pinstripe Fedora. He recently joined the faculty of York University in Toronto, where he teaches Renaissance literature, creative writing, and food studies.Genya Turovskaya is the author of the chapbook The Tides, recently published by Octopus Books. Her poetry and translations from Russian have appeared in Conjunctions, Chicago Review, jubilat, Landfall, A Public Space and other publications. She lives in Brooklyn, and is an editor at Ugly Duckling Presse.

Contact: [redacted]

___ Fussy? Opinionated? Impossible to please? Perfect. Join Yahoo!'s user panel and lay it on us. http://surveylink.yahoo.com/gmrs/yahoo_panel_invite.asp?a=7

↑ Index

253. David-Baptiste Chirot

FW:Woodland Pattern: Small Press Focus: Ahsahta Press this Sunday

Tue 11 Sep 2007

Date: Tue, 11 Sep 2007 08:35:36 -0700
From: [redacted]
Subject: Small Press Focus: Ahsahta Press this Sunday
To: [redacted]

==========
SMALL PRESS FOCUS: AHSAHTA PRESS THIS SUNDAY
==========

Ahsahta Press Discussion & Reading

Sunday, September 16 2007,
11am Discussion (free), 2pm Reading ($8/$7/$6)
Woodland Pattern Book Center
720 East Locust Street, Milwaukee

Sun. 9/16: Small Press Focus: Ahsahta; 11am

Janet Holmes will lead a conversation on the role of small press and the daily business of a small press publishing. We'll discuss Ahsahta's history as an all-poetry literary press that prides itself on publishing books that value artistry as well as craft, and the mind as well as the heart.

http://woodlandpattern.org/smallpress/ahsahta_press.shtml

Sun. 9/16: Lisa Fishman, Kate Greenstreet, and Janet Holmes; 2pm

Lisa Fishman is author of The Happiness Experiment (Ahsahta Press, 2007) and Dear, Read (Ahsahta, 2002. "The Holy Spirit does not deal in synonimes," notes by Elizabeth Barrett Browning transcribed from the margins of her Greek and Hebrew Bibles is forthcoming from Parcel Chapbooks in Denver. She teaches in the undergraduate and MFA poetry programs at Columbia College Chicago and helps run Poetry/Farm residencies in Orfordville, Wisconsin.

http://woodlandpattern.org/poems/lisa_fishman02.shtml

Kate Greenstreet is the author of case sensitive (Ahsahta Press, 2006) and three chapbooks, Learning the Language (Etherdome Press, 2005), Rushes (above/ground press, 2007), and This is why I hurt you (Lame House Press, forthcoming). Her second book, The Last 4 Things, will be out from Ahsahta in 2009. Visit her online at kickingwind.com.

http://woodlandpattern.org/poems/kate_greenstreet01.shtml

Janet Holmes is the author of F2F (2006), Humanophone (2001), The Green Tuxedo (1998) and The Physicist at the Mall (1994). She edits Ahsahta Press, an all-poetry publishing imprint, at Boise State University, where she teaches in the MFA Program in Creative Writing.

http://woodlandpattern.org/poems/janet_holmes01.shtml

==========
THURSDAY & FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 27 & 28: HETTIE JONES
==========

Hettie Jones, an award winning poet, prose writer, and author of How I Became Hettie Jones, a memoir of the "beat scene" of the fifties and sixties is coming to Milwaukee to present on the Beat Poets as part of the Branching Out: Poetry for the 21st Century series. Jones will be presenting on the Beat Poets at the Milwaukee Central Public Library on September 27, 2007 at 7pm, and will be reading from her latest book, Doing 70 at Woodland Pattern Book Center on Friday, September 28, 2007, 7p.m.

Hettie Jones on the Beats

Thursday, September 27, 2007, 7pm (free)
Milwaukee Public Library
Centennial Hall
814 W. Wisconsin Ave.
Milwaukee, WI 53233

http://www.poetrybranchingout.org/calendar.php

Hettie Jones Reading

Friday, September 28, 2007, 7pm ($8/$7/$6)
Woodland Pattern Book Center
720 East Locust Street

Milwaukee, WI 53212

http://woodlandpattern.org/poems/hettie_jones01.shtml

==========
UPCOMING EVENTS
==========

Sun. 9/16: Small Press Focus: Ahsahta Press w. Janet Holmes; 11am

Sun. 9/16: Janet Holmes, Kate Greenstreet, and Lisa Fishman; 2pm

Fri. 9/21: No Redletter this Month

Thu. 9/27: Hettie Jones on the Beats at MPL (Central); 7pm

Fri. 9/28: Hettie Jones reads from Doing Seventy; 7pm

Sat. 9/29: Experimental Film & Video Series; 7pm

Sun. 9/30: Alternating Currents Live; 7pm

Fri. 10/05: Lesbian Alliance Music Event; 8pm

Thu. 10/11: Jane Hirshfield on Basho at MPL (Central); 7pm

Fri. 10/12: Jane Hirshfield & Rae Armantrout; 7pm

Fri. 10/16: Experimental Film & Video Series; 7pm

http://www.woodlandpattern.org/

To receive regular messages notifying you of Woodland Pattern events, send a message to us at [redacted] with "Join E-List" in the subject line.

To unsubscribe from these mailings send a reply with "unsubscribe" in the subject line.

PLEASE FORWARD! THANKS!!!

http://www.woodlandpattern.org/

Woodland Pattern Book Center

> 720 E. Locust Street
> Milwaukee, WI 53212
> phone [redacted]

Capture your memories in an online journal!
http://www.reallivemoms.com?ocid=TXT_TAGHM&loc=us=

↑ Index

254. David Chirot

Fwd: US Campaign Adopts Proposals on Apartheid, Boycott, and Nakba

Tue 11 Sep 2007

Date: Tue, 11 Sep 2007 16:22:32 -0400
From: [redacted]
To: [redacted]
Subject: US Campaign Adopts Proposals on Apartheid, Boycott, and NakbUS Campaign Adopts Proposals on Apartheid, Boycott, and Nakba at 6th Annual Organizers' Conference

More than 100 delegates from more than 50 member organizations of the US Campaign to End the Israeli Occupation met this weekend at the Arlington Campus of George Mason University in Arlington, Virginia for the US Campaign's 6th Annual National Organizers' Conference.

Delegates to the conference amended and then passed by consensus all three proposals submitted for consideration. The proposals, which will guide the work of the US Campaign for the next year, call for the US Campaign to:

Organize a national Anti-Apartheid speaking and organizing tour; Launch a national boycott campaign against Motorola for profiting from Israeli occupation; and Commemorate the 60th anniversary of the Nakba through educational campaigns and days of action

Conference delegates also elected four new members to the US Campaign's 12-person Steering Committee to replace members whose terms expired at the conference. The newly-elected Steering Committee members are:

Omar Baddar, SUSTAIN-Memphis
Adam Horowitz, American Friends Service Committee
Judith LeBlanc, United for Peace and Justice
Ashley Wilkinson, General Board of Global Ministries, United Methodist Church

(Organizations are listed for identification purposes only. Members of the US Campaign's Steering Committee serve in their individual capacities, not as representatives of organizations.)

The newly-elected Steering Committee members fill the places of the following outgoing members who completed their terms:

Huwaida Arraf, International Solidarity Movement
Mark Lance, SUSTAIN-DC/Coalition for Justice and Accountability (Co-Chair)
Samir Moukaddam, American Friends Service Committee—Southeast
Mazin Qumsiyeh, Middle East Crisis Committee

The US Campaign would like to express its profound gratitude to Huwaida, Mark, Samir, and Mazin for their hard work and inspiring guidance over the years.

Other highlights of the conference included an inspiring Friday night panel entitled "Success Stories in Advocating for Palestinian Human Rights" and a Saturday night cultural event which featured the world-premier screening of "The World Says NO to Israeli Occupation," a documentary on the US Campaign's June 10 protest in Washington, DC marking 40 years of Israel's military occupation of the Palestinian West Bank, East Jerusalem, and Gaza Strip.

Yesterday dozens of conference attendees stayed for the US Campaign's lobbying day on Capitol Hill. Conference attendees met with their Members of Congress and staff to express their opposition to $30 billion in U.S. military aid to Israel over the next ten years; their support for legislation to ban the export of cluster munitions; their support for renewed U.S. peace-making efforts based on human rights and international law; and their concern about the Israel's denial of the right of entry to the Occupied Palestinian Territories to U.S. passport holders.

The US Campaign would also like to thank Students for Justice in Palestine at George Mason University for sponsoring and hosting the conference and the George Mason University administration and police department for ensuring that it was safe and successful. Although George Mason University was pressured to cancel the conference, it admirably stood up for our right of free speech against individuals who tried unsuccessfully to shut the conference down.

Within the next few weeks, the US Campaign will post videos from the conference, a conference report, and the texts of the proposals passed as amended.

US Campaign to End the Israeli Occupation

DONATE | SUBSCRIBE | UNSUBSCRIBE

More photos; more messages; more whatever – Get MORE with Windows Live™ Hotmail(r). NOW with 5GB storage. Get more!

↑ Index

255. Rob McLennan

A Long Continual Argument: The Selected Poems of John Newlove

Tue 11 Sep 2007

THE LIFE AND POETRY OF JOHN NEWLOVE
as part of the fall 2007 edition of the ottawa international writers festival

Documentary Film and Book Launch with Robert McTavish
Hosted by rob mclennan
Sunday, October 21, 2007 at 2pm, Library and Archives Canada

Honour the memory of one of Canadas greatest poets with this screening of What to make of it all? The life and poetry of John Newlove and the launch of A Long Continual Argument: The Selected Poems of John Newlove (Ottawa ON: Chaudiere Books, 2007). The films poignant interviews with Newlove in his last years are punctuated with commentary from George Bowering, Patrick Lane, Joe Rosenblatt, John Metcalf and the many poets and friends who knew the public persona and the private man.

B.C.s Robert McTavish, who directed and produced the film and edited the book, shares his passion for Newloves plain-spoken and carefully crafted work, which mixed an obsession with the history and identity of the Prairies with a bleak personal struggle for understanding.

$12 General / $10 Students & Seniors / Free for Members Day Pass: $29

For more information on the book (with an afterword by Jeff Derksen), email the publisher, rob mclennan, at [redacted]

-- poet/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...13th poetry coll'n - The Ottawa City Project .... 2007-8 writer in residence, U of Alberta * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

256. Bobbi Lurie
let's talk about language
Tue 11 Sep 2007

---

red china (no longer allowed to be referred to as communist so i will say) --excuse me, "trading partner"--(this post is about language)--says "you need permission from the Chinese government to be reincarnated." (stated by another delirious one waiting in waiting room) and then, as he left, "but only as long as supplies last." --bobbi

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

257. Ricejunk2
Reading at the Bowery Poetry Club Oct 2, 6 p.m.
Tue 11 Sep 2007

Hello, all.

One of the poets published in Sept. issue of The Other Herald (Perry, NY monthly literary paper) is Niels Hav. He has told me of an Oct. reading in NYC. I can't make it, since I am so far away (Western NY). Possibly others may want to check out the link below?

Niels Hav
/ Bowery Poetry Club/
Oct. 2, 6 pm.
http://www.ambwashington.um.dk/en/menu/TheEmbassy/Presscultureandinformationsection/EventCalendar/Literature/

Enjoy!
--T. F. Rice, Editor
/ Heralding the art of words in Western New York, and beyond.../
/ THE OTHER HERALD/

NOTE: some back issues included on writers' group blog at: www.lulu.com/tfrice (Current issue is not listed there as of yet.)

YOU MAY ORDER BACK ISSUES OR SUBSCRIBE AT: www.tfrice.etsy.com

SEND ANY SUBMISSIONS OR QUESTIONS TO: [redacted]

SUBSCRIBE BY MAIL: $10/year includes postage (12 issues) payable to Hidden Valley Farm, Publisher
P.O. Box 172
Perry, NY 14530

↑ Index

258. Lisa Janssen
MoonLit #2 Out Now!
Tue 11 Sep 2007

The second issue of the new arts journal MoonLit is out now. No limits is once again the curatorial yardstick, represented by a wide variety of poetry and prose. Contributors include: Glen Bach, Jennifer Karmin, John Beer, Jill Riga, Claire McMahon, Joyelle McSweeney, Lauren Levato, Joe Fletcher, Lou Suarez, Julia Story, r. a. washington, Chris Stroffolino, Iris Jamahl Dunkle, Cheryl Townsend, mark s kuhar, Ray McNiece, Jack McGuane, MaryAnn McCarra Fitzpatrick, Marcus Bales, Mary O'Malley, Bob Holman, Miles Budimir, and Erika Mikkalo. Cover artwork is an unforgettable piece from Neil Hagerty, providing icing to one of the fastest-rising cakes on the American poetry journal scene.

Buy from www.dragcity.com

Click on Catalog + Book Nook

Thanks to everyone!

Lisa Janssen

↑ Index

259. noah eli gordon
Re: Tec. Help
Tue 11 Sep 2007

Thanks. This was just want I needed: http://www.wordcounter.com/

_____
Capture your memories in an online journal!
http://www.reallivemoms.com?ocid=TXT_TAGHM&loc=us=

↑ Index

260. David A. Kirschenbaum
Advertise in Boog City 45**
Tue 11 Sep 2007

Please forward

Advertise in

Boog City 45

*Deadline

--Thurs. Sept. 20-Ad copy to editor
--Sat. Sept. 29-Issue to be distributed

Email to reserve ad space ASAP

We have 2,250 copies distributed and available free throughout Manhattan's East Village, and Williamsburg and Greenpoint, Brooklyn.

Take advantage of our indie discount ad rate. We are once again offering a 50% discount on our 1/8-page ads, cutting them from $60 to $30. (The discount rate also applies to larger ads.)

Advertise your small press's newest publications, your own titles or upcoming readings, or maybe salute an author you feel people should be reading, with a few suggested books to buy. And musical acts, advertise your new albums, indie labels your new releases.

(We're also cool with donations, real cool.)

Email [redacted]
or call 212-842-BOOG(2664) for more information.

thanks,
David

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W.28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://boogcityevents.blogspot.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)
F: [redacted]

↑ Index

261. Alan Sondheim
Notes for a talk on 'human modeling'
Tue 11 Sep 2007

Notes for a talk on 'human modeling'

Human Modeling - including 'sex girlfriend modeling,' analog modeling, avatar modeling and governance issues, technical skin/fabrication issues, interoperability issues, psychoanalytical/psychological issues, virtual and augmented realities, etc.

My early work on the 'topology of intentionality' - structuring of psychoanalytical transformations within and without the symbolic. I'm thinking also psychoanalytical modeling in general.

What does it mean to model the human? (What constitutes a model?)

Avatars in Second Life, Poser: modeling paralleling the appearance of the human body. This might be considered formal mimicry.

Take the formal mimicry down to its basic elements, remapped in Blender and/or other 3d programs: interrelationships of limbs. Empathetic identification with emotional 'states' indicated by limb arrangements.

Return to the full body in Second Life: Mapping in which tensions reflect human behaviors/activities - sexual, angered, submissive, dominant, and so forth. The _surreal_ body - manipulations impossible in the real world.

The interior of the avatar body: sheaves, intersections, hollows. What coheres externally falls apart to the point of transparency, disjunctions. (Imagine pulling a weight around in second life, lungs or heart or liver: how would that 'be'?)

Think of the system/panoply of gestures in silent film: moving from gesture to gesture. So there are codes and narratives constructed from moments of codes.

Issues of scripting: To what level of detail (differentiation, integra- tion) are behaviors applied? Double level of extrapolation: Poser or Second Life morphing - then the coding in relation to human morphing (morphology). In other words <pose1> - {X} - <pose2> where {X} is the potential set of generated 'betweens' in Poser or human behavior. In Poser jump-cuts are conceivable if details down to the level of the frame are perceptibly disparate (disconnected); in human behavior, jump-cuts are impossible.

In human behavior, matter and time flow continuously; Reichenbach's gen-identity holds. Poser is cinematic, spatially analogic, temporally digital; human behavior is spatially and temporally analogic.

Modeling and the 'uncanny' - modeling of human meat. (Disturbances of the field - Carolee Schneeman, Beuys, early Acconci, are relevant here, a minimum of props.) What are the empathetic forces at work across the real/ virtual boundary? What are the introjective/projective (i.e. jectivities) processes?

Consider: humans are always already modeled in relation to each other; to themselves. Modeling is replete inscription; inscription implies codes and protocols. The condition is always one of culture; culture characterizes the organic (think of Heinz von Foerster on negation as fundamental to organic behavior). There are issues of self/other, body-skein, suturing, healing, etc.

Human modeling, avatar-creation: 1. the body (space); 2. the body in time (behavior) - body as behavior-space.

Behavioral coding: neural nets on one hand, bvh files and totalized body on the other: what are the code interstices/interfaces between them?

Attach a neural net to a Poser body; import into Blender (element reduc- tion, mapping), import into Second Life (formal description of tension / relaxation in space-time).

http://www.asondheim.org/beefsteakpolypore1.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/beefsteakpolypore2.jpg

↑ Index

262. Dillon Westbrook
Prosody Castle 3a in Oakland, Ca 9/13
Wed 12 Sep 2007

If you are reading this and are in the bay on Thursday, consider checking out

Erika Staiti
Chris Stroffolino

translated into multiple languages live for your listening pleasure

all goes down at:

The Gallery of Urban Art
1746 13th St. @ Wood, West Oakland

Thursday 13th, 8pm sharp (be on time, as I can't keep the translators around all night), http://www.thegalleryofurbanart.com/

http://prosodycastle.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

263. wild honey
Re: Jill Jones, Jessica White, Jaime Anne Earnest, Joey Yearous-Algozin PHILLY EVENT
Wed 12 Sep 2007

I'm with Mark on this one. Jill really is extraordinary. Talk about unmissable!

best

Randolph
----- Original Message -----
From: "Mark Weiss" <[redacted]>

To: <[redacted]>
Sent: Tuesday, September 11, 2007 6:31 PM
Subject: Re: Jill Jones, Jessica White, Jaime Anne Earnest, Joey Yearous-Algozin PHILLY EVENT

> Jill is a wonderful poet, one of the best of her generation in Australia and beyond. I wish I could be there.
>
> Mark
>
> At 12:17 PM 9/11/2007, you wrote:
> it's going to be an AMAZING reading!
> if you're in Philly on 9/23, don't miss this one!
> details and links on The PhillySound
> http://PhillySound.blogspot.com
>
> _____ NOD32 2523 (20070912) Information _____
>
> This message was checked by NOD32 antivirus system.
> http://www.eset.com

↑ Index

264. J Crockett
Listenlight 2.0
Wed 12 Sep 2007

Dear All ---

Listenlight.net (a poetry journal) is now a "Web 2.0" application in the Ruby on Rails platform. Readers will "interact" with your work in various and subtle ways. I know precisely how to implement it, yet I have all the serious hacking to do before it will look like the listenlight you know and love.

Sending your work in for review will only expedite the process.

Best,

JWC

http://listenlight.net
http://gravityway.com
http://browsercosm.dev.java.net

↑ Index

265. Tom Beckett
Marsh Haw Press Invites You!
Wed 12 Sep 2007

MARSH HAWK PRESS INVITES YOU!

Sept. 19, 6-7 p.m.
Cornelia Street Cafe, New York City (_http://www.corneliastreetcafe.com_ (http://www.corneliastreetcafe.com))
Rochelle Ratner hosts 3 Poets: Norman Finkelstein; Sandy McIntosh; Eileen Tabios
29 Cornelia Street, NYC 10014, [redacted]
Cover $7 (includes one drink)

Sept. 20, Marsh Hawk Press Book Launch, New York City
Norman Finkelstein; Sandy McIntosh; Eileen Tabios at Poets House (_http://poetshouse.org_ (http://poetshouse.org))
72 Spring Street, 2nd Floor, NYC 10012
7-9 p.m.
w/ Wines, Whines & Other Goodies

http://marshhawkpress.org (http://marshhawkpress.org/)

* See what's new at http://www.aol.com

↑ Index

266. Jill Jones
Re: Jill Jones, Jessica White, Jaime Anne Earnest, Joey Yearous-Algozin PHILLY EVENT
Wed 12 Sep 2007

Thanks Randolph.

And hi Mark,
Pity I can't get a reading while I'm in New York but looking forward to meeting up while I'm there. See you next week some time.

Cheers,
Jill

On 12/09/2007, at 4:42 PM, wild honey wrote:

> I'm with Mark on this one. Jill really is extraordinary. Talk about unmissable!
>
> best
>
> Randolph

> ----- Original Message ----- From: "Mark Weiss"
> <[redacted]>
> To: <[redacted]>
> Sent: Tuesday, September 11, 2007 6:31 PM
> Subject: Re: Jill Jones, Jessica White, Jaime Anne Earnest, Joey Yearous-Algozin PHILLY EVENT
>
> Jill is a wonderful poet, one of the best of her generation in Australia and beyond. I wish I could be there.
>
> Mark
>
> At 12:17 PM 9/11/2007, you wrote:
> it's going to be an AMAZING reading!
> if you're in Philly on 9/23, don't miss this one!
> details and links on The PhillySound
> http://PhillySound.blogspot.com
>
> _____ NOD32 2523 (20070912) Information _____
>
> This message was checked by NOD32 antivirus system.
> http://www.eset.com

Jill Jones

Latest books:
Broken/Open. Available from Salt Publishing
http://www.saltpublishing.com/books/smp/1844710416.htm

Where the Sea Burns. Wagtail Series. Picaro Press
PO Box 853, Warners Bay, NSW, 2282. [redacted]

web site: http://www.jilljones.com.au
off the street: http://jillesjon.googlepages.com/home
blog1: Ruby Street http://rubystreet.blogspot.com/
blog2: Latitudes http://itudes.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

267. Pierre Joris
Nomadics blog is back
Wed 12 Sep 2007

Nomadics blog is back. Check out the latest posts at http:// pjoris.blogspot.com:

Further News re Pessoa
Albany, NY Reading
Lisbon, Pessoa, the gone Summer...
"Girl from Iowa Makes Good in Vienna, goes to Berlin"
Sur la Route, & back home again...
Peru Quake: EL DIARIO DE UN SOLDADO Abdallah Zrika Poem

enjoy! comment! link!

Pierre

The poet: always in partibus infidelium -- Paul Celan

Pierre Joris
244 Elm Street
Albany NY 12202
h: [redacted]
c: [redacted]
o: 518 442 40 71
Euro cell: (011 33) 6 75 43 57 10
email: [redacted]
http://pierrejoris.com
Nomadics blog: http://pjoris.blogspot.com

↑ Index

268. Elizabeth Switaj
Re: let's talk about language
Wed 12 Sep 2007

Bobbi, if China isn't referred to as communist, that's probably because it's not. The Chinese government likes to refer to it as communism with Chinese characteristics, which in fact means capitalism with a highly authoritarian government.

EKS
elizabethkateswitaj.net

On 9/12/07, Bobbi Lurie <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> red china (no longer allowed to be referred to as communist so i will say)
> --excuse me, "trading partner"--(this post is about language)--says "you > need permission from the Chinese government to be reincarnated."

> (stated by another delirious one waiting in waiting room) > and then, as he left, "but only as long as supplies last."
> --bobbi
> _____
> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! -
> http://mail.aol.com
>

↑ Index

269. Bobbi Lurie
Re: let's talk about language
Wed 12 Sep 2007

Elizabeth,
Thank you so much for answering.
That is exactly my point.
It seems the point is always political correctness these days--and yes--i did correct myself according to the new formula/ i did excuse myself just in case.
but the point of this quote was the fact that people need permission from the government for reincarnation (for a limited time only) thanks--bobbi

-----Original Message-----
From: Elizabeth Switaj [redacted]

Bobbi, if China isn't referred to as communist, that's probably because it's not. The Chinese government likes to refer to it as communism with Chinese characteristics, which in fact means capitalism with a highly authoritarian government.

EKS
elizabethkateswitaj.net

On 9/12/07, Bobbi Lurie <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> red china (no longer allowed to be referred to as communist so i will say)
> --excuse me, "trading partner"--(this post is about language)--says "you > need permission from the Chinese government to be reincarnated."
> (stated by another delirious one waiting in waiting room) > and then, as he left, "but only as long as supplies last."
> --bobbi
> _____
> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! -
> http://mail.aol.com
>

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

270. St. Thomasino
Conjugation, my love.
Wed 12 Sep 2007

Gregory Vincent St. Thomasino invites you to Conjugation, my love.

The Nick Piombino Interview:

http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Piombino%20interview.htm

Two poems e in Italian translation di Gherardo Bortolotti:

http://gammm.org/index.php/2007/09/07/tops-tilting-st-thomasino/

The Guido Boys:

http://www.pindeldyboz.com/gstguido.htm

Excerpt from a work in progress:

http://www.ghotimag.com/St%20Thomasino.htm

Here with a narrative in progress:

http://thepostmodernromantic.blogspot.com/

And then there was the blog-auxiliary:

http://eratio.blogspot.com/

And have you seen e·ratio lately?

http://www.eratiopostmodernpoetry.com e·ratio is reading for poetry for issue 10, the fall 2007 issue.

Conjugation, my love. Gregory Vincent St. Thomasino

e·=

↑ Index

271. Mark Weiss
Book Review
Wed 12 Sep 2007

Chris Winks reviews José Kozer, Stet: Selected Poems, translated by yours truly, at Brooklyn Rail. I couldn't have done a better job myself.

Mark

http://www.brooklynrail.org/2007/9/books/poetry-labyrinthine-fuges

↑ Index

272. Jennifer Karmin
JOB: Sitka Center
Wed 12 Sep 2007

(this is a forward. please don't respond to me.
good luck!)

Sitka Center for Art and Ecology
http://www.sitkacenter.org

JOB: Executive Director
Status: Regular, Full time, exempt position
Starting Salary: $55,000 - 60,000 annually DOE, plus contributions toward insurance

Applications due: September 24, 2007

BACKGROUND & SCOPE OF RESPONSIBILITY
Located on the central Oregon coast at Cascade Head Ranch near the Salmon River estuary, within view of the Pacific Ocean, Sitka Center is at the nexus - a place where diverse people and ideas converge, co-mingle, and depart transformed. The dreams of the founders have grown into year-round programs that engage individuals in the creative investigation of art, ecology, and the space in between. Founded in 1970, Sitka Center for Art and Ecology fosters creative inquiry and education. The Sitka Center offers a workshop program each season from April - October with over 80 classes offered in natural sciences to the arts. During the fall and spring, the Sitka Center sponsors a residence program drawing artists, writers, and natural scientists from all over the world as residents. To accomplish this, Sitka Center maintains a facility appropriate to its needs in harmony with the inspirational coastal environment of Cascade Head.

The organization currently has a staff of 3 and an annual operational budget of $450,000. The Executive Director is the chief executive officer for Sitka

Center and is responsible to nurture and carry forward the mission and strategic vision of the organization through fundraising, program development, and maintaining a close partnership with the Board of Directors, major donors, and the community at the Coast.

This is a high level position and requires someone with the following experience and characteristics:
*Proven successful leadership experience, preferably working with a non-profit organization
*A curiosity about the world with an interest and respect for current issues
*Demonstrated ability to lead, support and motivate a staff as a collaborative leader
*Ability to oversee the smooth functioning of a Center that hosts a complex schedule of frequent events
*A desire and ability to actively promote the Sitka Center to supporters, community partners, and potential funders
*Great written and oral communication skills, including some public speaking
*A proven ability to listen mindfully
*Experience developing and running programs
*Able to move to the Oregon coast to be a part of the local community

To Apply: Please submit a detailed letter showing your passion for the mission of the Sitka Center and why you should be the next Executive Director, as well as names of 4 references and a resume to: [redacted] with "the Sitka Center" in the title by September 24th at 5:00. Or by mail to: TACS 1001 SE Water St, Suite 490, Portland, OR 97214. Attn Bob Hazen, the Sitka Center.

___ Don't let your dream ride pass you by. Make it a reality with Yahoo! Autos.
http://autos.yahoo.com/index.html

↑ Index

273. amy king
mid)rib issue 1 now online!
Wed 12 Sep 2007

---

http://midribpoetry.com/

---------- Forwarded message ----------
From: [redacted]
Date: Sep 12, 2007 3:57 PM
Subject: mid)rib issue 1 now online!

We're pleased to announce the inaugural issue of mid)rib. It is the mid)rib staff's hope to foster an international voice for experimental poetics. We hope you'll take as much pleasure in reading the work of our contributors as we have. In the issue you'll find new work from an eclectic group of writers, including: Tomas S. Butkus, Joel Chace, Regina Derieva, Anna Fulford, H.T. Harrison, Scott Hartwich, Beth Joselow, Kerry Shawn Keys, Amy King, Sarah Maclay, Nicholas Messenger, Bonnie Jean Michalski, Matt Reiter, Susan M. Schultz, Lauren Goodwin Slaughter, Ted Stimpfle and Jim Warner. We welcome your comments and feedback. Please feel free to forward this to any interested parties. Enjoy.

Thanks,
the mid)rib staff

andy martrich, editor
gordon faylor, editorial assistant jeremy schevling, art boy/ designer
craig czury, contributing editor

http://midribpoetry.com/

Reviews of I'M THE MAN WHO LOVES YOU

Matt Hart / Coldfront Magazine
http://reviews.coldfrontmag.com/2007/06/im_the_man_who_.html

Mark Lamoureux / BOOG City
http://static.scribd.com/docs/kflyu7ufa6w1n.swf

Nick Piombino / fait accompli
http://nickpiombino.blogspot.com/2007_03_18_archive.html

Thomas Fink / Galatea Resurrects
http://galatearesurrection6.blogspot.com/2007/05/im-man-who-loves-you-by-amy-king.html

~

Recent Review of ANTIDOTES FOR AN ALIBI

Adam Fieled / Stoning the Devil
http://adamfieled.blogspot.com/2007/05/book-review-amy-king-antidote-for-alibi.html

~

What To Wear During An Orange Alert?
http://wearduringorangealert.blogspot.com/2007/07/writers-corner_12.html

~

http://www.amyking.org/blog

Building a website is a piece of cake.
Yahoo! Small Business gives you all the tools to get online.

↑ Index

274. PARSER - New Poetry and Poetics

Announcing PARSER lpls fwd]

Wed 12 Sep 2007

==========

P A R S E R : New Poetry & Poetics
May 2007 | Issue 1

Editor: Roger Farr
Advisory Editor: Reg Johanson

No friend of the Standards, PARSER is a journal of poetry and poetics with a penchant for anarchism. PARSER wants to help extend your social horizon. But PARSER wants you to read PARSER first.

Writing by:

- Alice Becker-Ho
- Alfredo Bonanno
- Roger Farr
- P. Inman
- Reg Johanson
- Wolfi Landstreicher
- Dorothy Trujillo Lusk
- John McHale

- Aaron Vidaver
- Rita Wong

$10 until the end of 2007.
$12 in the future.

To:

PARSER
Box 2684
Stn Terminal
Vancouver, BC
CANADA V6B 3W8

w: http://www.parsermag.org
e: [redacted]

==========

~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~

PARSER: New Poetry and Poetics
c/o FORM
Box 2684 Stn Terminal
Vancouver, BC V6B 3W8
CANADA

< http://www.parsermag.org >

↑ Index

275. reJennifer Bartlett
Derivative of the Moving Image
Wed 12 Sep 2007

After years of toil, the University of New Mexico Press is releasing my first book, Derivative of the Moving Image. It will be out around October 5th and can be pre-ordered through Amazon or the Press http://www.unmpress.com/Book.php?id=11519572582983 (Yeah!)

Please, if you are in NY. come to a book party in Greenpoint, Brookyln. There will be wine, beer, and fabulous company!

Nov. 9th
7-9 PM
Word
126 Franklin Street
Brooklyn, NY 11222

[redacted]
www.wordbrooklyn.com

Jennifer Bartlett

_____ Discover sweet stuff waiting for you at the Messenger Cafe. Claim your treat today! http://www.cafemessenger.com/info/info_sweetstuff.html?ocid=TXT_TAGHM_SeptHMtagline2

↑ Index

276. linda norton
poetry and war
Wed 12 Sep 2007

---

http://thelede.blogs.nytimes.com/2007/09/12/petraeus-on-betray-us-and-if/#comment-124370

Petraeus quotes Kipling, and bloggers (I used two pseudonyms) respond with poetry & analysis.

http://bancroft.berkeley.edu/ROHO/about.html

L. E. N.

↑ Index

277. Adam
Got a book in Print? Let's LIBRARY it!
Thu 13 Sep 2007

Run, don't walk, to your local libraries.

Ok, you can call as well. But go!

Let us help each other by going to or calling as many libraries as we can in our area and asking them to purchase books we have published.

There are interest groups (such as one composed of writers who publish cat books) who increase their sales by making library requests, en masse, for each book a member publishes.

So, I am asking, please go to or call the libraries near you and ask them to order The Phoenix and the Dragon by Adam Byrn Tritt, from Smithcraft Press. More info can be found at http://www.amazon.com/Phoenix-Dragon-Poems-Alchemical-Transformation/dp/0979 393507/

Then, let us all know what book WE should all go and request at the library. Let's not just publish but let's make some actual money from our art and effort.

Thank you,

Adamus

www.adamtritt.com

www.adamusatlarge.blogspot.com

www.writerscafe.org/profile/Adamus/

www.myspace.com/saintadamus

No virus found in this outgoing message.
Checked by AVG Free Edition.
Version: 7.5.485 / Virus Database: 269.13.15/1003 - Release Date: 9/12/2007 10:56 AM

↑ Index

278. Peter Ciccariello
Ampersand listing
Thu 13 Sep 2007

Ampersand listing <http://cgi7.com/peterimages/ampersand-listing2.jpg>

-- Peter Ciccariello
http://invisiblenotes.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

279. Alexander Jorgensen
Best of the Web - Question
Thu 13 Sep 2007

A while ago, a few months to be exact, I saw a posting for an anthology of the best of the web's poetry. Might anyone be able to tell me when the deadline is for nominations? Your time will be much appreciated.

Regards,
Alexander Jorgensen

--
Marcus Aurelius: "The object of life is not to be on the side of the majority, but to escape finding oneself in the ranks of the insane."

↑ Index

280. William Allegrezza
Series A in Chicago: Corey and Willner
Thu 13 Sep 2007

Come listen to Evan Willner and Joshua Corey read their poetry this Tuesday, Sept. 18th, at 7:00 at Series A, a series located at the Hyde Park Art Center in Chicago (5020 S. Cornell). BYOB.

For more information, see http://www.moriapoetry.com/seriesa.html or call [redacted].

Joshua Corey keeps a blog on poetry and poetics at joshcorey.blogspot.com, and he is the author of two full-length poetry books, Selah (Barrow Street Press, 2003) and Fourier Series (Spineless Books, 2005), as well as two chapbooks: Compos(t)ition Marble (Pavement Saw Press, 2006) and Hope & Anchor (Noemi Press, forthcoming). He lives in Evanston and teaches English and creative writing at Lake Forest College.

Evan Willner is the author of a 7450-syllable apparatus, "homemade traps for new world Brians" (BlazeVOX [books], 2007), parts of which have been published recently in 6x6 and Jubilat. Having earned a Ph.D. in English at oston University, he now teaches at DePaul University.

Bill Allegrezza series A curator

p.s. Please feel free to share this notice!

↑ Index

281. T. A. Noonan
Re: Best of the Web - Question
Thu 13 Sep 2007

Alexander,

If you're referring to the Best of the Net Anthology, the deadline was August 31st. You might try emailing Erin Elizabeth Smith, the managing editor, to see if she'll still take your nominations. Here's all the info you need:

Site: http://www.sundress.net/bestof/
Email: bestofthenet [at] sundress [dot] net

Regards,
T.A. Noonan

↑ Index

282. Anny Ballardini
Bob Grumman
Thu 13 Sep 2007

Bob Grumman's great effort:
http://bobgrumman.com/FromHaikuToLyriku/index.html

go for it!

Anny Ballardini
http://annyballardini.blogspot.com/
http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=poetshome
http://www.moriapoetry.com/ebooks.html
I Tell You: One must still have chaos in one to give birth to a dancing star!
Friedrich Nietzsche

↑ Index

283. amy king
diode - #1
Thu 13 Sep 2007

â€œEnter diode, teeming with â€˜poetry that excites and energizes. . . . poetry that uses language that crackles and sparks.â€™ We set out to find poetry that creates an arc between writer and reader, an arc that hums with the live current of language.â€

http://www.diodepoetry.com/

Includes work by Chris Abani, Laura McCullough, Rick Barot, Amy King, Bob Hicok, Frankie Drayus, Allison Titus & Rob Schlegel, Julie Doxsee & Mathias Svalina, Eve Rifkah, Peter Jay Shippy, Suzanne Frischkorn, Jake Adam York, Susan Settlemyre Williams, Tara Moyle, Matthew Wills, Karen Schubert, Carmen Gimenez Smith, Joshua Ware, Rich Murphy, and Didi Menendez.

http://www.diodepoetry.com/v1n1/index.html

Take the Internet to Go: Yahoo!Go puts the Internet in your pocket: mail, news, photos & more.

↑ Index

284. Poetry Project
Events at The Poetry Project
Thu 13 Sep 2007

Hello,

September events approach!

Also, Workshops!

Your Pal,

The Poetry Project

MONDAY, September 24, 8pm
HETTIE JONES & JOAN LARKIN

Hettie Jones¹s twenty books for children and adults include her memoir of the Beat scene, How I Became Hettie Jones; the poetry collection Drive, which won the Poetry Society of America¹s Norma Farber Award; Big Star Fallin¹ Mama, Five Women in Black Music, honored by the New York Public Library; and No Woman No Cry, a memoir she authored for Bob Marley¹s widow, Rita. Just published are From Midnight to Dawn, the Last Tracks of the Underground Railroad (with Jacqueline Tobin), and a third poetry collection, Doing 70. Jones is the former Chair of the PEN Prison Writing Committee, and the editor of Aliens at the Border, a poetry collection from her workshop at the Bedford Hills Correctional Facility. Joan Larkin¹s most recent collection is My Body: New and Selected Poems (Hanging Loose Press). Previous books include Cold River (which received a 1997 Lambda Award),and Sor Juana¹s Love Poems (translated with Jaime Manrique). Larkin co-founded Out & Out Books during the feminist literary explosion of the 70¹s. She has served as poetry editor for the queer journal Bloom and co-edits the University of Wisconsin Press autobiography series, ³Living Out.² Her anthology of coming-out stories, A Woman Like That, was nominated for Publishing Triangle and Lambda awards for nonfiction. In her fourth decade of teaching writing, she teaches in the low-residency MFA program in Poetry at New England College.

WEDNESDAY, September 26, 8pm
LISA JARNOT & SPARROW

Lisa Jarnot was born in Buffalo, New York and now lives in Queens. She is the author of three full-length collections of poetry: Some Other Kind of Mission, Ring of Fire, and Black Dog Songs. Her biography of poet Robert Duncan is forthcoming from University of California Press. Her fourth full-length collection of poetry is forthcoming from Flood Editions. She is a teacher and a blogger. Sparrow is in the midst of his fifth campaign for President. He lives in Phoenicia, New York with his wife, Violet Snow, and his daughter Sylvia.

Behind their house, an elderly rabbit named Bananacake resides in a rustic hutch. Sparrow writes the gossip column for the Phoenicia Times. (He invents all the gossip.) Sparrow's books are Republican Like Me: a Diary of My Presidential Campaign, Yes, You ARE a Revolutionary! and America: A Prophecy -- the Sparrow Reader (all on Soft Skull Press).

FRIDAY, September 28, 10pm
MASHA TUPITSYN & NORA, a film.

Masha Tupitsyn is a fiction writer and feminist critic who lives in New York City. She received her MA in Literature and Cultural Theory from the University of Sussex in England. Her fiction and criticism has been published or is forthcoming in the anthology Wreckage of Reason: XXperimental Women Writers Writing in the 21st Century, Make/Shift, and Bookforum, among other places. Beauty Talk & Monsters, her first book, is a collection of film-based stories recently published by Semiotext(e). She is currently working on her new book, Showtime. Masha¹s reading will be accompanied by a screening of Nora, a short narrative by Portland-based artists Holly Andres and Grace Carter, in which an afternoon encounter between two lovers plays out in an unusual fashion. The film examines gender roles in terms of sexuality, power, violence and commerce by using tools of the classic suspense/thriller genre, most notably Hitchcock's Psycho. Please visit them online at http://hollyandres.com/ & http://gracecarterfilms.com.

WRITING WORKSHOPS AT THE POETRY PROJECT:

BASIC AND BOLD: LOGOS R US PATRICIA SPEARS JONES
TUESDAYS AT 7PM: 10 SESSIONS BEGIN OCTOBER 9TH

Every writer finds a niche, a gesture, the thing that works in what they do. At some point it may become a style or convention. Sometimes it becomes a crutch. One way to break the mode is to be radical‹that is, return to the roots. What brought you to poetry in the first place? This is a workshop for writers who want to re-look at how the structure and elements of poetry provide the wherewithal to make poems that are as ambitious, thoughtful and innovative as you want them to be. There will be in class writing, assignments, reading, and a revision project called ‹CAN THIS POEM BE SAVED?‹ in which you bring a poem that simply has not come to closure; seems to be stuck; or needs to be looked at by fresh eyes in the hope of finding what could make it work. This workshop is geared toward writers who have been seriously writing for some time. Please submit 5-8 pages of poetry and a brief description of what you¹d like to accomplish in the workshop by September 28. African American poet, playwright and cultural commentator, Patricia Spears Jones is author of two collections, Femme du Monde and The Weather That Kills.

POETRY LAB: FORMS OF JOYFUL EXPERIMENTATION TODD COLBY
FRIDAYS AT 7PM: 10 SESSIONS BEGIN OCTOBER 12TH

In this workshop we'll forge new paths to the poem by investigating how far a poem can depart from being ³a poem² and yet still be a poem. We'll experiment with breath, heartbeat, movement, blogs, the alchemy of words, visions, letters to the editor, spontaneity, psychoanalysis, collaborations, appropriations and self-hypnosis, along with various traditional forms. The main objective is to create a supportive and inviting atmosphere in our joyfully experimental "Lab." A partial reading list will include: Hannah Weiner, Jacques Lacan, Gertrude Stein, Diane Williams, David Markson, Miranda July, Thomas Bernhard, Bill Knott, Arthur Rimbaud, Alice Notley, Mina Loy, Charles Olson, and Ludwig Wittgenstein. Todd Colby is the author of Tremble & Shine, Riot in the Charm Factory, Cush, and Ripsnort, all of which were published by Soft Skull Press.

WORLDLY AND INFINITELY DIMENSIONAL:
A WORKSHOP RACHEL LEVITSKY
SATURDAYS AT 12PM: 10 SESSIONS BEGIN OCTOBER 13

In these times, the possibilities by which we may amplify, record, document, display, shape, formulate, and publish words increases daily. Although expanded media and its wide reach are in themselves a meaningful fact of our times, they don¹t necessarily enhance a poetry¹s resonance. How do we, and by we I mean both ourselves as ones and ourselves as groups, best construct and perform our poetries so as to be present in these particular times and yet open to the infinite possibilities of ³projection,² ³conception,² ³performance²? Familiarizing ourselves with poets like Abigail Child, Julie Patton, Cecilia Vicuña, Bob Dylan, Linton Kwesi Johnson (some will be visiting the workshop), we will consider all means available and any means necessary to project living works into our world. Individually and collaboratively we¹ll construct performances, visual works, sound events, improvisations, etc. Rachel Levitsky is the author of Under the Sun (Futurepoem) and is the founder and co-editor of Belladonna Books.

The workshop fee is $350, which includes a one-year individual Poetry Project membership and tuition for any and all fall spring and fall classes. Reservations are required due to limited class space, and payment must be received in advance. Please send payment and reservations to: The Poetry Project, St. Mark¹s Church, 131 E. 10th St., NY, NY 10003. For more information please call [redacted] or e-mail [redacted].

Become a Poetry Project Member! http://poetryproject.com/membership.php

Fall Calendar: http://www.poetryproject.com/calendar.php

The Poetry Project is located at St. Mark's Church-in-the-Bowery
131 East 10th Street at Second Avenue
New York City 10003
Trains: 6, F, N, R, and L.
[redacted]
www.poetryproject.com

Admission is $8, $7 for students/seniors and $5 for members (though now those who take out a membership at $85 or higher will get in FREE to all regular readings).

We are wheelchair accessible with assistance and advance
notice. For more info call [redacted].

If you¹d like to be unsubscribed from this mailing list, please drop a line at [redacted].

↑ Index

285. Jane Sprague
list & books
Thu 13 Sep 2007

Hello List,

I'm writing because it's been a long time since I've written to this list and it used to occupy a certain space in my life & mind and what I've really wanted to say is something along the lines of I've missed you, List, and where oh where are the people?

But, of course, you, we, the collective, us, are out there, reading, lurking, whatevering, wandering in blogland maybe.

So, hello. It's been a while.

And I have a question (and the beginning of an answer which I hope people might feel compelled to add their own answer/s).

What are you reading? Poetry or not.

I am reading one of those excellent MIT Press books called _Participation_ which gathers essays, writings, curatorial statements and various things about art & performance, installation and etc. in one book. There are a bunch of these in the series and I think they're pretty great.

Also, _Performa: New Visual Art Performance_ by Roselee Goldberg about her (somewhat) newly formed curatorial nonprofit entity of the same name devoted to the study, archiving, and the making possible of various kinds of performance.

What Began Us, Melissa Buzzeo (Leon Works, 2007)

The journal Soft Targets, v.2.1

and a great many essays and other kinds of texts I'm asking students to consider as they work on their own compositions.

And you?

-Jane

↑ Index

286. Alexander Jorgensen
Re: list & books
Thu 13 Sep 2007

Peter Hessler's Oracle Bones. Much worth the read for anyone interested in studying China. Wow.

> Shenzhen, behind its fences and guard towers -
> Alexander Jorgensen

Jane Sprague <[redacted]> wrote:
> Hello List,

I'm writing because it's been a long time since I've written to this list and it used to occupy a certain space in my life & mind and what I've really wanted to say is something along the lines of I've missed you, List, and where oh where are the people?

But, of course, you, we, the collective, us, are out there, reading, lurking, whatevering, wandering in blogland maybe.

So, hello. It's been a while.

And I have a question (and the beginning of an answer which I hope people might feel compelled to add their own answer/s).

What are you reading? Poetry or not.

I am reading one of those excellent MIT Press books called _Participation_ which gathers essays, writings, curatorial statements and various things about art & performance, installation and etc. in one book. There are a bunch of these in the series and I think they're pretty great.

Also, _Performa: New Visual Art Performance_ by Roselee Goldberg about her (somewhat) newly formed curatorial nonprofit entity of the same name devoted to the study, archiving, and the making possible of various kinds of performance.

What Began Us, Melissa Buzzeo (Leon Works, 2007)

The journal Soft Targets, v.2.1

and a great many essays and other kinds of texts I'm asking students to consider as they work on their own compositions.

And you?

-Jane

--
Marcus Aurelius: "The object of life is not to be on the side of the majority, but to escape finding oneself in the ranks of the insane."

↑ Index

287. Alan Sondheim
Ah
Thu 13 Sep 2007

Ah

The tinkling of a glass of champagne, o lucky couple the next car over A snatch of a Russian folk-song, hummed by an expectant mother behind me The humming of the rails across endless plateaus, poplars in the distance A murmur of twittering birds in the flying snow of dawn The thrumming of a guitar and endless cheers and toasts Sleighs and horses' white breath and full speed ahead A man raises a monocle, a woman smiles slowly, her book upon her lap A young girl sketches the passing landscape, death is in her eyes Sweating furiously, the surly playwright stands in the open-air car Comets and rainbows, something is about to happen

http://www.asondheim.org/grit1.mp3
http://www.asondheim.org/grit2.mp3

↑ Index

288. Halvard Johnson
Re: Ah
Thu 13 Sep 2007

---

choo

↑ Index

289. barbara jane bermeo
Re: list & books
Fri 14 Sep 2007

I've been reading graphic novels: American Born Chinese by Gene Luen Yang, and "Ramadan" by Neil Gaiman in The Sandman: Fables and Reflections.

Oh, and I've started Nathaniel Mackey's Splay Anthem.

---

http://barbarajanereyes.com
http://poetaensanfrancisco.blog-city.com

↑ Index

290. Dan Salmon
The Water Cure
Fri 14 Sep 2007

Okay it's not totally poetry, but there's some odd poetry in it. Has anybody read Percival Everett's new novel(?) The Water Cure? Curious to hear some opinions. It's a great metaphor for US foreign policy.

Dan

↑ Index

291. Jessica Wickens
Call for Submissions - Monday Night Issue 6
Fri 14 Sep 2007

Monday Night, a journal of literature and art, is now accepting submissions for Issue 7 (Summer 2008). We publish quality prose and poetry from new and emerging writers from across the country and around the world. Monday Night is distributed at independent bookstores and sold on our website. For more information and to view past issues, visit our website: http://www.mondaynightlit.com

Read from our contents page to see if your work would be a good fit, or better yet, order a copy for yourself and for each of your friends. Reading an issue will give you the best picture of our highly inconsistent and unpredictable tastes.

GUIDELINES Please follow our guidelines carefully. You can also find them on our website. If you still have questions, write to the editors at [redacted].

POETRY: Send up to five poems. All styles are welcome.

PROSE: Fiction, nonfiction, and essays up to 5,000 words. Send up to 3 pieces of prose.

Translations are welcome in all genres.

PREVIOUSLY PUBLISHED WORK: NO. NEVER. We accept unpublished work only. This includes online publications. Repeat: if you have published the piece in any online or print journal, do not submit it to Monday Night. We do an internet search for all pieces that we accept for publication, to make sure they do not appear anywhere else. Please be honest and respect our parameters.

SIMULTANEOUS SUBMISSIONS:
YES. We do accept simultaneous submissions, but please inform us if/when your work is accepted elsewhere, so we can remove it from consideration.

HOW TO SUBMIT: Email all submissions to the editors at [redacted]. Your submissions should be in one doc, rtf, or pdf file attached to your email. Please title or label all your work clearly within the document. Your name and contact info should also appear on your submission. Your email message should include your name, contact info, the titles of your submissions and whether they are fiction, poetry or non-fiction. We do not confirm receipt of each submission; please follow up by email if you have any questions or concerns.

DEADLINE: December 15, 2007

RESPONSE TIME: Up to four months. We will respond to all submissions by February 2008. The reading period ends on Dec. 15, 2007, and we aim to make our final decisions by the end of January 2008.

PAYMENT: Each published writer will receive two copies of the issue in which their work appears.

↑ Index

292. Gerald Schwartz
Re: list & books
Fri 14 Sep 2007

Jonathan Williams, Blackbird Dust
A collection of Hildegaard Von Bingen's wrintings
Manimekhalai, Merchant-Prince Shattan
The Complete Poems of John Keats
Howling at the Moon, Hagiwara Sakutaro Active Liberty, Stephen Breyer
Hannah Weiner's Open House, Hannah Weiner
SOMEHOW, Burt Kimmelman
Uncertain Poetries, Michael Heller

Gerald Schwartz
http://geocities.com/legible5roses

Hello List,

I'm writing because it's been a long time since I've written to this list and it used to occupy a certain space in my life & mind and what I've really wanted to say is something along the lines of I've missed you, List, and where oh where are the people?

But, of course, you, we, the collective, us, are out there, reading, lurking, whatevering, wandering in blogland maybe.

So, hello. It's been a while.

And I have a question (and the beginning of an answer which I hope people might feel compelled to add their own answer/s).

What are you reading? Poetry or not.

I am reading one of those excellent MIT Press books called _Participation_ which gathers essays, writings, curatorial statements and various things about art & performance, installation and etc. in one book. There are a bunch of these in the series and I think they're pretty great.

Also, _Performa: New Visual Art Performance_ by Roselee Goldberg about her (somewhat) newly formed curatorial nonprofit entity of the same name devoted to the study, archiving, and the making possible of various kinds of performance.

What Began Us, Melissa Buzzeo (Leon Works, 2007)

The journal Soft Targets, v.2.1

and a great many essays and other kinds of texts I'm asking students to consider as they work on their own compositions.

And you?

-Jane

↑ Index

293. angela vasquez-giroux
Re: list & books
Fri 14 Sep 2007

"The Gospel of Mary Magdalene", "M: The Man Who Would Be caravaggio"--Peter Robb, "Decreation"--Anne Carson, "Waiting"--Ha Jin, last week's Sunday NY Times

On 9/14/07, barbara jane bermeo <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> I've been reading graphic novels: American Born
> Chinese by Gene Luen Yang, and "Ramadan" by Neil > Gaiman in The Sandman: Fables and Reflections.
>
> Oh, and I've started Nathaniel Mackey's Splay Anthem.
>
> ----------
>
> http://barbarajanereyes.com
> http://poetaensanfrancisco.blog-city.com
>

↑ Index

294. Anny Ballardini
the Poets' Corner
Fri 14 Sep 2007

The present update of the Poets' Corner is in memoriam of Evelyn Posamentier's grandmother, her father's mother, born on this day.

Peter Ciccariello

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=252

Nicholas Manning

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=253

Bill Lavender

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=254

Jesse Glass

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=255

Katherine Durham Oldmixon

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=256

Christina Vega-Westhoff

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=257

Séamas Cain

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=258

Márton Koppány

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=259

Joe Green

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=260

Evelyn Posamentier

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=261

New poems by already featured Poets:

Aldo Tambellini

Black Painting Series – 1

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=1976

Black Painting Series – 2

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=1977

Black Painting Series – 3

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=1978

Dennis Barone

Percorso or the Rook, the Rampant Lion and the Crown

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=1981

Tad Richards' Episodes continue with situations

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=67

Barry Alpert

A VALPARAISO [via Joris Ivens, Chris Marker, & P. Guzman]

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2030

AIMLESS WALK (1930) [via Alexandr Hackenschmied]

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2031

BELLE TOUJOURS [via Manoel de Oliveira]

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2032

THE BLOOD [via Pedro Costa]

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2033

BENOIT JACQUOT DIT

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2034

THE FALSE SERVANT [via Benoit Jacquot & Pierre de Marivaux]

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2035

MARIANNE [via Benoit Jacquot & Pierre de Marivaux]

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2036

MUSICIAN KILLER [via Benoit Jacquot & F. Dostoyevsky]

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2037

TOSCA [via Benoit Jacquot]

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2038

ELVIRE JOUVET 40 [via Benoit Jacquot]

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2039

James Cervantes

from Mr. Bondo's Unshared Life

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2064

Under Poets on Poets:

* *

*Tran Da Tu introduced and translated by Linh Dinh*

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=poetsonpoets&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=75

Toy for Future Children

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules/poetsonpoets/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=212

Fragmented War

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules/poetsonpoets/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=213

So Long Tuong

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules/poetsonpoets/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=214

Standing

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules/poetsonpoets/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=215

Writing Poetry Tirelessly

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules/poetsonpoets/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=216

Love Tokens

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules/poetsonpoets/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=217

The complete version of EURIPIDES' HIPPOLYTOS:

a modern performance version by *Jon Corelis *

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules/poetsonpoets/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=219

Jon Corelis, unlike Pirandello, is looking for a acting company to stage his wonderful translated work.

And finally David Howard's poetry will soon be set to music by the Italian composer: Claudio Vaira who liked my translated poem: Rivisitando la piazza della chiesa _Revisiting Church Square, and compared Howard's poetry to Quasimodo's. For the occasion I translated several other poems selected by David Howard and collected them under the title: *Poems for Claudio Vaira *

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules/poetsonpoets/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=220

and Part II

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules/poetsonpoets/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=221

For the drafting of my lists I follow the order by which Poets send me their poems, and I thank every one for having accepted my invitation. As I said on various occasions, I feel as if it was my personal privilege to receive your contributions. Special thanks to Vanni and his team, especially to Eleonora, Massimo and Andrea, webmasters & co.

With my best wishes for a wonderful and fruitful fall,

Anny Ballardini
http://annyballardini.blogspot.com/
http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=poetshome
http://www.moriapoetry.com/ebooks.html
I Tell You: One must still have chaos in one to give birth to a dancing star!
Friedrich Nietzsche

↑ Index

295. brian whitener
reading....
Fri 14 Sep 2007

---

hi jane,

thanks for that call to collectivity... and for all your great publishing work

daniel borzutzky the ecstasy of capitulation (one of the more productive negative feelings texts jasper bernes starsdown (LA dervied by marx and simmel? still trying to think through this amazing book john preston my life as a pornographer (especially for the accounts of pre aids sex clubs in new york take care, brian

↑ Index

296. Jennifer Karmin
SUBMISSIONS: Just Like a Girl
Fri 14 Sep 2007

Just Like a Girl: A Manifesta!

The latest offering from GirlChild Press is intended to be a rough and tumble, sassy, wickedly clever kick-ass anthology.

Where Growing Up Girl: An Anthology of Voices from Marginalized Spaces was a meditation on the state of girlhood; Just Like a Girl is meant to highlight the clever girls, the funny girls, the girls who don't ask for permission and take up as much room as they damn well like.

Submission Details
Deadline: September 30, 2007

The anthology is open to any subject matter. Work is especially welcomed from new and emerging writers. Contributors may submit up to three pieces. Essays and short stories should be no longer than 3,000 words. Poems should have the contributor's name on each page. Sci-fi is encouraged!

Electronic Mail
Send your work to: [redacted]
Attachments should be titled with your name and the email subject should be Just Like a Girl.

Snail Mail
Michelle Sewell
GirlChild Press
PO Box 93
Hyattsville, MD 20781
Please include a brief bio and a mailing address.

Contributors will receive a copy of the anthology and the opportunity to read at the official Spring 2008 booksigning.

For more information on Michelle Sewell and the press check out http://www.girlchildpress.com.

Pinpoint customers who are looking for what you sell.
http://searchmarketing.yahoo.com/

↑ Index

297. kevin thurston
Re: list & books
Fri 14 Sep 2007

- barbara cole 'foxy moron' <http://www.ubu.com/ubu/cole_foxy.html>
- da levy (et al) 'UKANHAVYRFUCKINCITIBAK'<http://www.waterrowbooks.com/details.php?record72>
- the tiny 'the tiny 3' <http://thetinyjournal.com/home.html>
- anselm berrigan 'some notes on my programming'<http://aerialedge.com/some_notes.html>
- michael kelleher 'to be sung' <http://www.blazevox.org/bk-mk.htm>

- abraham lincoln 'abraham lincoln'<http://abrahamlincolnmagazine.blogspot.com/>
- p. inman 'red shift'<http://roofbooks.com/book/?GCOI“780100091160&fa=author&person_id)&publishergcoicode“780>
- eugene ionesco 'notes & counter-notes'

<http://cgi.ebay.com/Writings-on-theater-by-Eugene-Ionesco-1964-1st-in-DJ_W0QQitemZ130131721622QQcmdZViewItem>
- jay millar 'demented poems I-X'<http://www.bookthug.ca/miva/merchant.mvc?Screen=PROD&Store_Code=apollinaire&Product_Code$95&Category_Code=laurel>
- alli warren 'cousins'<http://lamehouse.blogspot.com/2007/04/now-available-alli-warrens-cousins-2nd.html>
- eileen myles 'on my way'<http://www.amazon.com/My-Way-Eileen-Myles/dp/0971037132>

On 9/14/07, angela vasquez-giroux <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> "The Gospel of Mary Magdalene", "M: The Man Who Would Be > caravaggio"--Peter
> Robb, "Decreation"--Anne Carson, "Waiting"--Ha Jin, last week's Sunday NY > Times
>
> On 9/14/07, barbara jane bermeo <[redacted]> wrote:
> >
> > I've been reading graphic novels: American Born
> > Chinese by Gene Luen Yang, and "Ramadan" by Neil > > Gaiman in The Sandman: Fables and Reflections.
> >
> > Oh, and I've started Nathaniel Mackey's Splay Anthem.
> >
> > ----------
> >
> > http://barbarajanereyes.com
> > http://poetaensanfrancisco.blog-city.com
> >
>

--
author of How to Irritate Friends & Isolate People

http://fuckinglies.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

298. Charlotte Mandel
Re: list & books
Fri 14 Sep 2007

Hello Jane - thanks for your great question to the list!
I'm in medias res the just out posthumous "novel" by H.D. titled The Sword Went Out to Sea, subtitled "Synthesis of a Dream by Delia Alton" (one of H.D.'s pseudonyms) insightfully introduced and edited by Cynthia Hogue and Julie Vandivere. A mind-blowing entrance into the workings of H.D.'s head as she travels the occult, envisioning simultaneities of history and myth. An ardent feminist call against war.
Also just finished Infidel by Ayaan Hirsi Ali.
The Inheritance of Loss by Anita Desai - transporting descriptive skills - class in India and among NYC illegals.
Every Goodbye Ain't Gone: Anthology of Innovative Poetry by African Americans ed. by Aldon Lynn Nielsen and Lauri Ramey.
And revisiting Charles Wright's Collected Poems.
(and, yes, the time-consuming NYTimes)!
Best,
Charlotte

On Sep 13, 2007, at 9:02 PM, Jane Sprague wrote:

Hello List,
What are your reading?

↑ Index

299. David Chirot
Amy Goodwin "Debate essential to Arab-Israeli Peace" & MuzzleWatch Updates/Petition for Nadia Abu El-Haj
Fri 14 Sep 2007

Debate Essential To Arab-Israeli Peace

By Amy Goodman

September 13, 2007, The Seattle Post-Intelligencer

http://seattlepi.nwsource.com/opinion/331388_amy13.html

I sat down with former President Carter last week at the Carter Center in Atlanta. The center was hosting a conference of human-rights defenders, people at the front lines confronting repressive regimes around the globe. After a quarter-century of humanitarian work through the Carter Center, monitoring elections, working to eradicate neglected tropical diseases and focusing on the poor, Jimmy Carter now finds himself at the center of the storm in the Israel-Palestine conflict.

After more than three decades of work on the Middle East, Carter released a book titled Palestine: "Peace Not Apartheid." The book's title alone has created a furor. But Carter is undeterred:

"The word 'apartheid' is exactly accurate. This is an area that's occupied by two powers. They are now completely separated. Palestinians can't even ride on the same roads that the Israelis have created or built in Palestinian territory. The Israelis never see a Palestinian, except the Israeli soldiers. The Palestinians never see an Israeli, except at a distance, except the Israeli soldiers. So within Palestinian territory, they are absolutely and totally separated, much worse than they were in South Africa, by the way. And the other thing is, the other definition of 'apartheid' is, one side dominates the other. And the Israelis completely dominate the life of the Palestinian people."

Carter lays much of the blame for the lack of momentum toward a solution on the absence of debate in the U.S.: "It's a terrible human-rights persecution that far transcends what any outsider would imagine. And there are powerful political forces in America that prevent any objective analysis of the problem in the Holy Land. I think it's accurate to say that not a single member of Congress with whom I'm familiar would possibly speak out and call for Israel to withdraw to their legal boundaries or to publicize the plight of the Palestinians or even to call publicly and repeatedly for good faith peace talks."

As president, Carter brokered the 1978 Camp David Peace Accords, creating a lasting peace between Israel and Egypt. President Clinton, who officiated over the failed 2000 Camp David Summit between Israel and the Palestinians, has been highly critical of Carter's perspective. Clinton blames the Palestinian leadership for rejecting Israel's "generous offer." It's interesting that Israel's chief negotiator, former Foreign Minister Shlomo Ben-Ami, told me in 2006, "If I were a Palestinian, I would have rejected Camp David as well."

While we were in Atlanta, DePaul University in Chicago reached a settlement with professor Norman Finkelstein. Despite hailing him as a "prolific scholar and an outstanding teacher," DePaul denied him tenure, many believe because of his outspoken criticism of Israeli policy toward Palestinians. The son of Holocaust survivors himself, Finkelstein has been praised by leading scholars.

Just months before he died, Raul Hilberg, revered founder of the field of Holocaust studies, praised Finkelstein's work: "That takes a great amount of courage. His place in the whole history of writing history is assured and that those who in the end are proven right triumph, and he will be among those who will have triumphed, albeit, it so seems, at great cost."

Open debate on Israel-Palestine should not come at such a high cost. It is essential to Middle East peace. The Iraq Study Group, in its bipartisan Baker-Hamilton Report, stated, "The United States will not be able to achieve its goals in the Middle East unless the United States deals directly with the Arab-Israeli conflict."

Carter's book cover has a picture of the "Separation Barrier." Israel originally designed the wall to run along the internationally recognized 1967 border. Carter noted that Israel decided to "move the wall from the Israeli border to intrude deeply within Palestine to carve out some of that precious land for the Israeli settlers to occupy." The International Court of Justice has ruled it illegal. It is more than half completed, with plans to snake more than 400 miles, mainly through the West Bank. In places the wall is more than 25 feet high and made of concrete.

Carter describes it as "much worse" than the Berlin Wall. Elder Israeli peace activist Uri Avnery writes:

"When my friends fall prey to despair, I show them a piece of painted concrete, which I bought in Berlin. It is one of the remnants of the Berlin Wall, which are on sale in the city. I tell them that I intend, when the time comes, to apply for a franchise to sell pieces of the Separation Wall."

That barrier stands in the United States as well " metaphorically " around any kind of rational debate for a fair and just solution in the Middle East. My suggestion: Tear down that wall.

[Amy Goodman is the host of "Democracy Now!," a daily international TV/radio news hour airing on 500 stations in North America.]

Portside aims to provide material of interest to people on the left that will help them to interpret the world and to change it.

Submit via email: [redacted]
Submit via the Web: portside.org/submit

Frequently asked questions: portside.org/faq
Subscribe: portside.org/subscribe
Unsubscribe: portside.org/unsubscribe
Account assistance: portside.org/contact
Search the archives: portside.org/archive

MuzzleWatch Jewish Voices for Peace Update

Petition for Nadia Abu El-Haj is below this, and also is contained in the article about her case

"MuzzleWatch" - 1 new article

1. After Finkelstein: Alan Dershowitz, a Clinton supporter, pressures Obama
2. More Recent Articles
3. Search MuzzleWatch

After Finkelstein: Alan Dershowitz, a Clinton supporter, pressures Obama The conservative daily, The New York Sun reports that Alan Dershowitz is pressuring Barack Obama to sever ties with former Carter security advisor Zbigniew Brzezinski because he defended Stephen Walt and John Mearsheimer's book, "The Israel Lobby and US Foreign Policy". In fact, once informed that an Obama ad appeared on the Amazon page advertising the book, the Obama campaign had it removed. The Sun reports:

Amid a firestorm over an initial working paper Messrs . Mearsheimer and Walt published last year on the Israel lobby, Mr. Brzezinski rose to their defense, even as he demurred on the question of whether he agreed with their central arguments. The authors, he wrote in the journal Foreign Policy, "have rendered a public service by initiating a much-needed public debate on the role of the ' Israel lobby' in the shaping of U.S. foreign policy." Mr. Obama's campaign took the opposite route earlier this week when notified that an ad for its Web site appeared on the Amazon.com page of the Mearsheimer-Walt book. The campaign immediately removed the ad, saying its placement was unintentional, and issued a statement saying Mr. Obama believed the arguments in the book were "just wrong." "I'm glad he's done that, but now he has to dissociate himself from Brzezinski," Mr. Dershowitz said in an interview yesterday. He said the Mearsheimer-Walt book was "a bigoted attack on the American Jewish community" and that Mr. Brzezinski's comments in Foreign Policy last year amounted to an endorsement.

Harvard law professor and gadfly Alan Dershowitz, who supports Hillary Clinton's candidacy and gave $1,000 to her campaign, also accused Brezinski of anti-Israel rhetoric, highlighting his criticism of Israel's bombing of Lebanon last year.

In response, the Obama campaign released a statement from one of its top supporters in the Jewish community, Rep. Robert Wexler of Florida. " Barack Obama has been a consistent supporter of Israel and this is an unfortunate case of a fabricated controversy for political reasons," he said. "I speak with him often on Israel policy, and I can tell you firsthand that Barack Obama is opposed to the arguments presented in this book."

• Email to a friend • Article Search • Related • View comments • Track comments •

[Rate 'After Finkelstein: Alan Dershowitz, a Clinton supporter, pressures Obama']

More Recent Articles

* U Michigan press stops distribution of Kovel's Overcoming Zionism * Nadia Abu El-Haj "witch-hunt" at Barnard: is Shulamit Reinharz a "racist" or just "curious?" * Finkelstein settles with DePaul, fight continues for Larudee * Update on Rubinstein: New Israel Fund in UK Promotes Free Speech * Ha'aretz's Danny Rubinstein in hot water: says Israel is "apartheid state" at UN conference

Grant Nadia Abu El-Haj Tenure

View Current Signatures - Sign the Petition

To: Columbia University/Barnard College

We the undersigned strongly endorse the tenure case of Nadia Abu El-Haj at Barnard college. We completely reject every unsubstantiated allegation made in the related petition (http://www.petitiononline.com/barnard/) to deny Ms. Abu El-Haj tenure. Moreover, we wish to register that we find to be deplorable such unsubstantiated attacks on the autonomy of free academic inquiry and academic self-government from outside the academy. Ms. Abu El-Haj's work has undergone peer review and has been published by a premier academic press (University of Chicago) and it stands on its own merits, which have been widely recognized in the academic community. We believe that these attacks on Ms. Abu El-Haj are part of an orchestrated witch-hunt (reminiscent of course of McCarthyism) against politically unpopular ideas. We also believe that Ms. Abu El-Haj has been singled out from among many other authors who make the same points essentially because of her last name, thus, we suspect that something like simple ethnic prejudice is at issue here.

Sincerely,

The Undersigned

View Current Signatures

The Grant Nadia Abu El-Haj Tenure Petition to Columbia University/Barnard College was created by and written by Paul Manning ([redacted]). This petition is hosted here at www.PetitionOnline.com as a public service. There is no endorsement of this petition, express or implied, by Artifice, Inc. or our sponsors. For technical support please use our simple Petition Help form.

share: blogger del.icio.us digg facebook furl reddit slashdot send to a friend

Send Petition to a Friend - Petition FAQ - Start a Petition - Contributions - Privacy - Media Kit - Comments and Suggestions PetitionOnline - DesignCommunity - ArchitectureWeek - Great Buildings - Search http://www.PetitionOnline.com/Barnard2/petition.html dg

↑ Index

300. W.B. Keckler
Re: list & books
Fri 14 Sep 2007

"Bartender, I'll have what he's having."

* See what's new at http://www.aol.com

↑ Index

301. Stephen Vincent
Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
Fri 14 Sep 2007

I am leading a "walking & writing" workshop this Fall at Stanford, using the campus as our 'site'. One of the places I want us to walk is into Special Collections, which has the Ginsberg and Creeley archives. It would be lovely to find - in advance - any poems by either poet that emerge out of a particular walk. And to have an original mss. available to see, explore.

I will appreciate any suggestions of titles - poems and/or journal pieces.

Thanks in advance,

Stephen Vincent

↑ Index

302. Jerome Rothenberg
New book: 3 Poems after Images by Nancy Tobin
Fri 14 Sep 2007

The following is new and not in general circulation, but it can be had through Small Press Distribution, as follows:

THREE POEMS AFTER IMAGES BY NANCY TOBIN

Author: Jerome Rothenberg

Cover: PAPERBACK

Pub Date: 01 July 2007

Publisher: Hawk's Well Press

ISBN 10: 1-887123-77-6

ISBN 13: 978-1-887123-77-8

Price: $15.00

The latest of Jerome Rothenberg's many collaborations with artists, Three Poems takes off from Nancy Tobin's brilliantly colored and constructed paintings, to create a mutual celebration of the familiar and familial. The initiatory act here follows from Tobin's quasi-abstract images and her assessment of the mysteries and revelations that her art provides her:

I construct both my paintings and works on paper as a dialogue between the representational and ornamental; which party gets the last word remains a mystery until the composition is complete. I start with painted or drawn images, then literally cut them down to size with scissors before reassembling the components on painted panels or into "quilted" paper compositions that I treat with successive layers of paint, ink and polymer.

This break-'em-down-to-build-'em-up methodology is my way of capturing moments in an expanding universe. Representation is as powerful as it futile. Any tableau is illusory; even mountains are in constant flux. Particles decay, light bends, and perceptions alter with each recollection.

My technique in turn encourages the viewer to approach each work with a forensic eye: to examine the constituent parts and try to reconstruct their pedigree, then step in and take in the totality of color and form.

The layers I create fade into opacity, however firmly each is fixed in memory. Try to peel them back with your eyes, and you'll reach a new level each time.

Three Poems after Images by Nancy Tobin also marks the resuscitation of Jerome Rothenberg's Hawk's Well Press, an important poetry project of the 1960s and 70s.

Printed with three full-color reproductions and book design by Nancy Tobin.

↑ Index

303. richard owens
BILL GRIFFITHS (1948-2007)
Fri 14 Sep 2007

British poet and scholar Bill Griffiths was found dead in his home today. Tom Raworth reported earlier that Griffiths was found dead in his home with the television, radio and a computer on.

Aside from running Aram and Pirate Press, Griffiths was an Anglo-Saxon scholar educated at King's College, London, where after receiving his PhD he cataloged the Eric Mottram archive. His first poems were published in the 1970s, in the Poetry Review then under the editorship of Eric Mottram. He was part of and heavily influenced by Bob Cobbing's Writers' Forum. In short, he did a lot, was part of a lot and helped to promote the work of others through his own various imprints.

For those unfamiliar with his work, Salt brought out Mudfort, a selected poems, a couple of years back. There is also the Salt Companion to Bill Griffiths, a collection of essays on and interviews with Griffiths. The companion is edited by William Rowe and both the companion and Mudfort are still available.

heavy loss / sad day. Bill was a generous man and its a shame to see him exit out so early.

thanks to Matt Chambers for bringing this terrible news to my attention.

RO

.....richard owens
810 richmond ave
buffalo NY 14222-1167

damn the caesars, the journal
damn the caesars, the blog

Be a better Heartthrob. Get better relationship answers from someone who knows.
Yahoo! Answers - Check it out.

↑ Index

304. mIEKAL aND
Bill Griffiths
Fri 14 Sep 2007

via Tom Raworth's website:

"Bill Griffiths

A short and by inference shocking note from Tom Pickard at dawn: I'm assuming Bill Griffiths is dead. Bill was a genuine in a poetic and academic world of mostly arseholes.

he was in hospital last week but discharged himself and went to do his dialect gig at the tower on Saturday but felt so ill he went yem half way through. I think it was a heart attack as he was found with the radio and tv and computer on. He'll be badly missed–such an asset to this region and a good comrade, like they say.

We exchanged notes only a week ago, about his Dialect talks at the Mordern Tower: his last words:

Well, the first year we had about 5 visitors (by mistake?), 2nd year about 20 genuine callers, this year…whee knaas? Perhaps a riot over how to pronounce the word butterlowey, with defenestrations and arrows arc-ing ower the ramparts. Assuming I get there myself. Prostate seems to be growing unduly, my photo must be on every CCTV in every public convenience in the region. Am due an op "in the next six months" but they have a grand sense of humour up here. Hope celebrity Cambridge suits ye still. A friend's mother lives in Trumpington, which is a bend in the road and a few houses and an admirable church. She is now an old widow with a cat, how about that! Have run out of rhymes, but save some up for Saturday, seeya oneday Bill

We won't, Bill: and I fucking regret it."

Here's his Wikipedia page:

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Bill_Griffiths

↑ Index

305. Tisa Bryant
Fwd: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration—Jo hns Hopkins University Oct. 24-27 2007
Fri 14 Sep 2007

FYI

My concern is never art, but always what art can be used for.

Gerhard Richter

Begin forwarded message:

> Subject: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration—Johns Hopkins University Oct. 24-27 2007
>
> With poetry and fiction readings, lectures, conversations, and panel discussions at Johns Hopkins University, this celebration of Callaloo's thirty years of continuous publication will bring together a group of the USA's best creative writers, intellectuals, academics, and artists to launch the journal into the next thirty years. Some of the more than 100 creative writers and scholars who will be reading and engaging in public discussions on writing creative texts and writing on these and other texts and the culture from which they derive include: Carole Boyce Davies, Lucille Clifton, Thadious Davis, Eddie Glaude, Brent Edwards, Thomas Sayers Ellis, Thomas Glave, Farah Griffin, Trudier Harris, Yusef Komunyakaa, Wyhneema Lubiano, Paule Marshall, John McCluskey, Mark Anthony Neal, Carl Phillips, Tracy K. Smith, Natasha Trethewey, John Edgar Wideman, and many others.
>
> Please find below links to the Center for Africana Studies at Johns Hopkins, the Callaloo conference homepage, online registration information, and the conference program. We hope to see you there.
>
> —Callaloo Conference Planning Committee
>
> http://web.jhu.edu/africana
> http://callaloo.tamu.edu/conference.html
> http://www.regonline.com/Checkin.asp?EventId=143619
>
> THE 30th ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION OF CALLALOO
>
> October 24-27, 2007
>
> Hosted by the Center for Africana Studies, Johns Hopkins University Baltimore, Maryland
>
> WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 24
>
> 7:00 PM
>
> Welcome—Amanda Anderson (Chairperson, Department of English, Johns Hopkins University)
>
> Master of Ceremony: Ben Vinson III (Director, Center for Africana Studies, > Johns Hopkins University)

The Occasion: Trudier Harris (University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill)

Comments & Acknowledgements: Charles Henry Rowell (Texas A&M University, College Station)

7:30 PM—Keynote Conversation: Black Studies, the Academy, & Contemporary Black Communities

MC: Ben Vinson III

Panel: Eddie Glaude (Princeton University), James Turner (Cornell University), William Strickland (University of Massachusetts, Amherst), Wahneema H. Lubiano (Duke University), & Suzette Spencer (University of Wisconsin, Madison)

Moderator: Farah Griffin, Columbia University

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25

9:00-10:30 AM—Henry Louis Gates' The Signifying Monkey after (Almost) Twenty Years

Panel: Joyce Ann Joyce (Temple University), Abdul JanMohammed (University of California, Berkeley), Mark Anthony Neal (Duke University), Zita Nunes (University of Maryland, College Park), & Fred Moten (Duke University)

Moderator: Michael Collins (Texas A&M University, College Station)

11:00-12:30 PM—African American Literary Studies and the Feminist Critique after The Color Purple

Panel: Susan Fraiman (University of Virginia), Daphne Brooks (Princeton), Deborah Grey White (Rutgers University), Kim Hall, (Barnard College), Keith Mitchell (University of Massachusetts at Lowell), Lovalearie King (Pennsylvania State University), & Carmen Gillespie (Bucknell University)

Moderator: Cheryl Wall (Rutgers University)

12:30-1:30 PM Lunch

2:00 PM-3:00PM—Writing & Publishing Fiction in the USA

Panel: Touré, Jewel Parker Rhodes (Arizona State University), Randall Kenan (University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill), Martha

Southgate (Brooklyn College), & David Wright (University of Illinois, Urban-Chapaign)

Moderator: John McCluskey (Indiana University, Bloomington)

3:30 PM-4:30 PM—Fiction Readings: Emerging Writers Reading

Panel: Emily Rabateau, Tayari Jones, & Mat Johnson

MC: Neil Roberts (Johns Hopkins University)

8:00 PM—Fiction & Poetry Readings

Readers: Paule Marshall (New York University) & Lucille Clifton (St. Mary's College, Maryland)

MC: Trudier Harris (University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill)
Welcome: David Taft Terry
Director, The Reginald Lewis Museum

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 26

9:00-10:30 AM—Querying the Black Diaspora

Panel: Brent Edwards (Columbia University), Carole Boyce Davies (Cornell University), Jennifer Wilks (University of Texas, Austin), Zita Nunes (University of Maryland, College Park), & Suzette Spencer (University of Wisconsin)

Moderator: Shona Jackson (Texas A&M University, College Station)

11:00-12:30 PM—Caribbean Writers in the United States: Other Black Diasporas

Presentation: Fred D'Aguiar (Virginia Tech, Blacksburg)

Panel: Sandra Paquet (University of Miami), Daryl Dance (University of Richmond, VA), Carrol F. Coates (State University of New York, Binghamton), Veronica Gregg (Hunter College), Thomas Glave (State of New York, Binghamton)

Moderator: Nelly Rosario (Texas State University, San Marcos)

12:30-1:30 PM Lunch

2:00 PM-3:00PM—Writing and Publishing Poetry in the USA

Presentation: Thomas Sayers Ellis (Sarah Lawrence College)

Panel: Carl Phillips (Washington University, St. Louis), Kendra Hamilton (University of Virginia), Erica Hunt, Lyrae Van-Clief Stefanon, Gerald Barrax (North Carolina State University)

Moderator: Dante Micheaux (New York University)

3:30 PM-4:30 PM—Poetry & the Legacy of the Black Arts Movement in the USA

Presentation: Sonia Sanchez (Temple University)

Respondents: Cheryl Clarke (Rutgers University), David Lionel Smith (Williams College), Gene Andrew Jarrett (Boston University), James Edward Smethurst (University of Massachusetts, Amherst), and Meta D. Jones (University of Texas, Austin)

Moderator: Margo Natalie Crawford (Indiana University, Bloomington)

8:00 PM—Poetry Readings

Poets Reading: Natasha Trethewey (Emory University), Yusef Komunyakaa (New York University), & Carl Phillips (Washington University, St. Louis)

Welcome / MC: Adam Falk, Dean of Arts and Sciences, Johns Hopkins University

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27

9:30-10:30 AM—Academic Editing and Publishing: The Johns Hopkins University Press

One representative from the Book Division
One representative from the Journals Division

11:00-12:00 PM—Callaloo's Art

Panel: Cherise Smith (University of Texas), Annette Lawrence (North Texas State University, Denton), Alvia Wardlaw, (Museum of Fine Arts, Houston), Valerie Cassel Oliver (Contemporary Arts Museum, Houston), & Franklin Sirmans (The Menil Collection, Houston), & Meta Ewa Jones

Moderator: Stephen Carpenter (Texas A&M University, College Station)

12:00-1:30 PM Lunch

> 2:00-3:30 PM—Poets Reading
>
> Van Jordan (University of Texas, Austin), Major Jackson (University of Vermont), Tracy K. Smith (Princeton University), Dawn Lundy Martin (University of Massachusetts), & Terrance Hayes (Carnegie Mellon University)
>
> MC: Kyle G. Dargan (American University)
>
> 5:30-7:00 PM—Final Keynote Conversation / African American Literary and Cultural Studies: The Present and the Future
>
> Panel: Brent Edwards (Columbia), Meta Jones (University of Texas, Austin), Keith Leonard (American University), Michelle Wright (University of Minnesota), Ivy Wilson (Notre Dame University), Marlon Ross (University of Virginia), Fred Moten (Duke University)
>
> Moderator: Thadious Davis (University of Pennsylvania)
>
> 7:30-8:00 PM—Fiction Writer Reading: John Edgar Wideman
>
> Introduction: Daniel Jerome Wideman
>
> MC: Kyle Dargan
>
> 8:15-9:30 PM—Cocktails, Dinner, and Closing Remarks
>
> Dinner (Conference participants and invited guests.)
>
> Closing Remarks: Kyle Dargan, Managing Editor, Callaloo; Ben Vinson, Director of Africana Studies; Johns Hopkins University; Charles Henry Rowell, Editor of Callaloo
>
> 9:30 PM-Until—Loving Callaloo/Stomping the Blues
>
> Celebration with live music, dance, drinks, etc.

↑ Index

306. steve russell

Denis Johnson/Jim Harrison/Paul Auster

Fri 14 Sep 2007

Denis Johnson has just published a new novel, The Tree of Smoke. I love the guys work. Anyone read Jesus' Son, or his poetry collected in The Incognito

Lounge? He's in the same league with Jim Harrison and Paul Auster. These 3 are visionary authors. They've each written major work in fiction and poetry, as well as first rate short stories and plays. Great writers.

Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search that gives answers, not web links.

↑ Index

307. Alan Sondheim
theory. the real. death.
Fri 14 Sep 2007

theory. the real. death.

Torture is senseless violence, born in fear. The purpose of it is to force from one tongue, amid its screams and its vomiting up of blood, the secret of _everything._ Senseless violence: whether the victim talks or whether he dies under his agony, the secret that he cannot tell is always some- where else and out of reach. It is the executioner who becomes Sisyphus. If he puts _the question_ at all, he will have to continue forever.

Sartre (in the afterword to Henri Alleg, The Question, 1958)

Experiment solitary touching the impossibility of annihilation.

100. There is nothing more certain in nature than that it is impossible for any body to be utterly annihilated; but that as it was the work of the omnipotency of God to make somewhat of nothing, so it requireth the like omnipotency to turn somewhat into nothing. And therefore it is well said by an obscure writer of the sect of the chemists, that there is no such way to effect the strange transmutations of bodies, as to endevour and urge by all means the reducing of them to nothing. And herein is contained also a great secret of preservation of bodies from change; for if you can prohibit, that they neither turn into air, because no air cometh to them; nor go into the bodies adjacent, because they are utterly heterogeneal; nor make a round and circulation within themselves; they will never change, though they be in their nature never so perishable or mutable.

from Francis Bacon, Sylva Sylvarum or A Natural History, 1627

↑ Index

308. Mark Truscott
September 20: Bonney and Kruk at Test (Toronto)
Fri 14 Sep 2007

Dear friends of the Test Reading Series,

Indeed, it's been a while. We are now ready, however, to unveil the first three months of the fall season of our programming, beginning this coming Thursday of all days. Yikes.

Please mark those calendars.

Thursday, 20 September 2007, 8:00 p.m. (note new start time)
SEAN BONNEY and FRANCES KRUK (bios below)
Mercer Union, A Centre for Contemporary Art
37 Lisgar Street, Toronto
Free, free as the wind (though we still take donations)

More info, links to samples of our readers' work, and recordings of previous readings at www.testreading.org.

Thanks, as always, to the good people at Mercer Union for the support. Why not visit them online (www.mercerunion.org) to see what they're up to?

Coming up:

25 October: Trevor Joyce and the Max Middle Sound Project
29 November: Oana Avasilichioaei and Angela Carr

Hope to see you there,

Mark

****

SEAN BONNEY's selected poems, Blade Pitch Control Unit, were published by Salt in 2005. Since then he has produced Document:Hexprogress, Black Water and an ongoing set of versions of Baudelaire. His work has been translated into French, Spanish, and Icelandic. He lives in London and edits the lo-fi press yt communication with Frances Kruk.

FRANCES KRUK is a dual Polish-Canadian ex-pat currently undertaking doctoral research at the University of London (UK). She works in noise, words, and paint, and edits yt communication with Sean Bonney.

↑ Index

309. Eric Elshtain
New Beard of Bees Human Chapbook
Sat 15 Sep 2007

Beard of Bees Press is proud to present Life & Style by Marie Buck, a chapbook consisting of poems constructed with language from MySpace profiles--language that has, in turn, been rendered into the poetic forms & styles of such poets as Wyatt & Dickinson.

These poems will make you giddy, or your money back!

http://www.beardofbees.com/buck.html

Yours,

Eric Elshtain
Editor
Beard of Bees Press
http://www.beardofbees.com

↑ Index

310. William James Austin
Re: Bill Griffiths
Sat 15 Sep 2007

Shit!!Â Another "brilliant" gone to ground.Â We'll miss you, Bill.Â Best, Bill

-----Original Message-----
From: mIEKAL aND <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 5:59 pm
Subject: Bill Griffiths

via Tom Raworth's website:Â
Â
"Bill GriffithsÂ
Â
A short and by inference shocking note from Tom Pickard at dawn: Iâ€™m assuming Bill Griffiths is dead. Bill was a genuine in a poetic and academic world of mostly arseholes.Â
Â
Â he was in hospital last week but discharged himself and went to do his dialect gig at the tower on Saturday but felt so ill he went yem half way through. I think it was a heart attack as he was found with the radio and tv and computer on. Heâ€™ll be badly missedâ€“such an asset to this region and a good comrade, like they say.Â
Â
We exchanged notes only a week ago, about his Dialect talks at the Mordern Tower: his last words:Â
Â
Â Well, the first year we had about 5 visitors (by mistake?), 2nd year about 20 genuine callers, this yearâ€¦whee knaas? Perhaps a riot over how to pronounce the word butterlowey, with defenestrations and arrows arc-ing ower the ramparts.Â

Â Assuming I get there myself. Prostate seems to be growing unduly, my photo must be on every CCTV in every public convenience in the region. Am due an op â€œin the next six monthsâ€ but they have a grand sense of humour up here.Â
Â Hope celebrity Cambridge suits ye still. A friendâ€™s mother lives in Trumpington, which is a bend in the road and a few houses and an admirable church. She is now an old widow with a cat, how about that!Â
Â Have run out of rhymes, but save some up for Saturday,Â Â seeya onedayÂ
Â BillÂ
Â
We wonâ€™t, Bill: and I fucking regret it."Â
Â
Here's his Wikipedia page:Â
Â
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Bill_GriffithsÂ

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

311. Bobbi Lurie

Re: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration—Jo hns Hopkins University Oct. 24-27 2007

Sat 15 Sep 2007

---

hey, me too, Gerhard Richter. thanks a lot. love, bobbi

-----Original Message-----
From: Tisa Bryant <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 5:19 pm
Subject: Fwd: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebrationâ€”Jo hns Hopkins University Oct. 24-27 2007

FYIÂ
_____Â
Â
My concern is never art, but always what art can be used for.Â
Â
Gerhard RichterÂ
Â
Â
Begin forwarded message:Â

Â
> Subject: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebrationâ€”Johns Hopkins > University Oct. 24-27 2007Â
>Â
>Â
> With poetry and fiction readings, lectures, conversations, and panel > discussions at Johns Hopkins University, this celebration of > Callaloo's thirty years of continuous publication will bring together > a group of the USA's best creative writers, intellectuals, academics, > and artists to launch the journal into the next thirty years.Â Â Some of > the more than 100 creative writers and scholars who will be reading > and engaging in public discussions on writing creative texts and > writing on these and other texts and the culture from which they > derive include: Carole Boyce Davies, Lucille Clifton, Thadious Davis, > Eddie Glaude,Â Â Brent Edwards, Thomas Sayers Ellis, Thomas Glave, Farah > Griffin, Trudier Harris, Yusef Komunyakaa, Wyhneema Lubiano, Paule > Marshall, John McCluskey, Mark Anthony Neal, Carl Phillips, Tracy K. > Smith, Natasha Trethewey, John Edgar Wideman, and many others.Â
>Â
> Please find below links to the Center for Africana Studies at Johns > Hopkins, the Callaloo conference homepage, online registration > information, and the conference program.Â Â We hope to see you there.Â
>Â
> â€”Callaloo Conference Planning CommitteeÂ
>Â
> http://web.jhu.edu/africanaÂ
> http://callaloo.tamu.edu/conference.htmlÂ
> http://www.regonline.com/Checkin.asp?EventId=143619Â
>Â
> THE 30th ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION OF CALLALOOÂ
>Â
> October 24-27, 2007Â
>Â
> Hosted by the Center for Africana Studies, Johns Hopkins University > Baltimore, MarylandÂ
>Â
> WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 24Â
>Â
> 7:00 PMÂ
>Â
> Welcomeâ€”Amanda Anderson (Chairperson, Department of English, JohnsÂ > Hopkins University)Â
>Â

> Master of Ceremony:Â Â Ben Vinson III (Director, Center for Africana > Studies,Â
> Johns Hopkins University)Â
>Â
> The Occasion:Â Â Trudier Harris (University of North Carolina, Chapel > Hill)Â
>Â
> Comments & Acknowledgements: Charles Henry Rowell (Texas A&M > University, College Station)Â
>Â
> 7:30 PMâ€"Keynote Conversation: Black Studies, the Academy, & > Contemporary Black CommunitiesÂ
>Â
> MC:Â Â Ben Vinson IIIÂ
>Â
> Panel: Eddie Glaude (Princeton University), James Turner (Cornell > University), William Strickland (University of Massachusetts, > Amherst), Wahneema H. Lubiano (Duke University), & Suzette Spencer > (University of Wisconsin, Madison)Â
>Â
> Moderator:Â Â Farah Griffin, Columbia UniversityÂ
>Â
> THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25Â
>Â
> 9:00-10:30 AMâ€"Henry Louis Gates' The Signifying Monkey after (Almost) > Twenty YearsÂ
>Â
> Panel: Joyce Ann Joyce (Temple University), Abdul JanMohammed >
(University of California, Berkeley), Mark Anthony Neal (Duke > University), Zita Nunes (University of Maryland, College Park), & > FredÂ Â Moten (Duke University)Â
>Â
> Moderator:Â Â Michael Collins (Texas A&M University, College Station)Â
>Â
> 11:00-12:30 PMâ€"African American Literary Studies and the Feminist > Critique after The Color PurpleÂ
>Â
> Panel:Â Â Susan FraimanÂ Â (University of Virginia), Daphne Brooks > (Princeton), Deborah Grey White (Rutgers University), Kim Hall, > (Barnard College), Keith Mitchell (University of Massachusetts at > Lowell), Lovalearie King (Pennsylvania State University), & Carmen > Gillespie (Bucknell University)Â

>Â
> Moderator: Cheryl Wall (Rutgers University)Â
>Â
> 12:30-1:30 PMÂ Â Â Â Â Â LunchÂ
>Â
> 2:00 PM-3:00PMâ€”Writing & Publishing Fiction in the USAÂ
>Â
> Panel:Â Â TourÃ©, Jewel Parker Rhodes (Arizona State University), > Randall Kenan (University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill), Martha > Southgate (Brooklyn College), &Â Â David Wright (University of Illinois, > Urban-Chapaign)Â
>Â
> Moderator:Â Â John McCluskey (Indiana University, Bloomington)Â
>Â
> 3:30 PM-4:30 PMâ€”Fiction Readings: Emerging Writers ReadingÂ
>Â
> Panel: Emily Rabateau, Tayari Jones, & Mat JohnsonÂ
>Â
> MC:Â Â Neil Roberts (Johns Hopkins University)Â
>Â
> 8:00 PMâ€”Fiction & Poetry ReadingsÂ
>Â
> Readers:Â Â Paule Marshall (New York University) & Lucille CliftonÂ Â (St. > Mary's College, Maryland)Â
>Â
> MC:Â Â Trudier Harris (University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill)Â
> Welcome: David Taft TerryÂ
> Director, The Reginald Lewis MuseumÂ
>Â
> FRIDAY, OCTOBER 26Â
>Â
> 9:00-10:30 AMâ€”Querying the Black DiasporaÂ
>Â
> Panel: Brent Edwards (Columbia University), Carole Boyce Davies > (Cornell University), Jennifer Wilks (University of Texas, Austin), > Zita Nunes (University of Maryland, College Park), & Suzette Spencer > (University of Wisconsin)Â
>Â
> Moderator: Shona Jackson (Texas A&M University, College Station)Â
>Â
> 11:00-12:30 PMâ€”Caribbean Writers in the United States: Other Black > DiasporasÂ

>Â
> Presentation:Â Â Fred D'Aguiar (Virginia Tech, Blacksburg)Â
>Â
> Panel:Â Â Sandra Paquet (University of Miami), Daryl Dance (University > of Richmond, VA), Carrol F. Coates (State University of New York, > Binghamton), Veronica Gregg (Hunter College), Thomas Glave (State of > New York, Binghamton)Â
>Â
> Moderator: Nelly Rosario (Texas State University, San Marcos)Â
>Â
> 12:30-1:30 PMÂ Â Â Â Â Â LunchÂ
>Â
>Â
> 2:00 PM-3:00PMâ€”Writing and Publishing Poetry in the USAÂ
>Â
> Presentation:Â Â Thomas Sayers Ellis (Sarah Lawrence College)Â
>Â
> Panel:Â Â Carl Phillips (Washington University, St. Louis), KendraÂ
> Hamilton (University of Virginia), Erica Hunt, Lyrae Van-CliefÂ
> Stefanon,Â Â Gerald Barrax (North Carolina State University)Â
>Â
> Moderator:Â Â Dante Micheaux (New York University)Â
>Â
> 3:30 PM-4:30 PMâ€”Poetry & the Legacy of the Black Arts Movement in the > USAÂ
>Â
> Presentation:Â Â Sonia Sanchez (Temple University)Â
>Â
> Respondents:Â Â Cheryl Clarke (Rutgers University), David LionelÂ Â Smith
> (Williams College), Gene Andrew Jarrett (Boston University), James > Edward Smethurst (University of Massachusetts, Amherst), and Meta D. > Jones (University of Texas, Austin)Â
>Â
> Moderator:Â Â Margo Natalie Crawford (Indiana University, Bloomington)Â
>Â
> 8:00 PMâ€”Poetry ReadingsÂ
>Â
> Poets Reading: Natasha Trethewey (Emory University), Yusef Komunyakaa > (New York University), & Carl Phillips (Washington University, St. > Louis)Â
>Â
> Welcome / MC: Adam Falk, Dean of Arts and Sciences, Johns Hopkins > UniversityÂ

>Â
> SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27Â
>Â
> 9:30-10:30 AMâ€”Academic Editing and Publishing:Â Â The Johns Hopkins > University PressÂ
>Â
> One representative from the Book DivisionÂ
> One representative from the Journals DivisionÂ
>Â
> 11:00-12:00 PMâ€”Callaloo's ArtÂ
>Â
> Panel:Â Â Cherise Smith (University of Texas), Annette Lawrence (North >
Texas State University, Denton), Alvia Wardlaw, (Museum of Fine Arts, >
Houston), Valerie Cassel Oliver (Contemporary Arts Museum, > Houston),Â Â &
Franklin Sirmans (The Menil Collection, Houston), & Meta > Ewa JonesÂ
>Â
> Moderator:Â Â Stephen Carpenter (Texas A&M University, College Station)Â
>Â
> 12:00-1:30 PMÂ Â LunchÂ
>Â
> 2:00-3:30 PMâ€”Poets ReadingÂ
>Â
> Van Jordan (University of Texas, Austin), Major Jackson (University of > Vermont), Tracy K. Smith (Princeton University), Dawn Lundy Martin > (University of Massachusetts),Â Â & Terrance Hayes (Carnegie Mellon > University)Â
>Â
> MC:Â Â Kyle G. Dargan (American University)Â
>Â
>Â
> 5:30-7:00 PMâ€”Final Keynote Conversation / African American Literary > and Cultural Studies:Â Â The Present and the FutureÂ
>Â
> Panel: Brent Edwards (Columbia), Meta Jones (University of Texas, > Austin), Keith Leonard (American University), Michelle Wright > (University of Minnesota), Ivy Wilson (Notre Dame University), Marlon > Ross (University of Virginia), Fred Moten (Duke University)Â
>Â
> Moderator:Â Â Thadious Davis (University of Pennsylvania)Â
>Â
> 7:30-8:00 PMâ€”Fiction Writer Reading: John Edgar WidemanÂ
>Â

> Introduction: Daniel Jerome WidemanÂ
>Â
> MC:Â Â Kyle DarganÂ
>Â
> 8:15-9:30 PMâ€”Cocktails, Dinner, and Closing RemarksÂ
>Â
> Dinner (Conference participants and invited guests.)Â
>Â
> Closing Remarks: Kyle Dargan, Managing Editor, Callaloo; Ben Vinson, > Director of Africana Studies; Johns Hopkins University; Charles Henry > Rowell, Editor of CallalooÂ
>Â
> 9:30 PM-Untilâ€”Loving Callaloo/Stomping the BluesÂ
>Â
> Celebration with live music, dance, drinks, etc.Â
>Â

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

312. Alan Sondheim

Frustration

Sat 15 Sep 2007

Frustration

Two crystal radios (crs) in parallel through the same antenna/ground system.

The larger, older one is in the box and can fine-tune through a vario- coupler, loose coupler, and now an air condenser. The output is drawn from the larger.

The system is increasingly frustrating and baroque, more and more stations are picked up, the tuning peaks are sharper, the sensitivity and amplitude much greater. Everything is passive and metal, except for the diodes - two in parallel for the older cr, one for the newer.

It's frustrating. The output is always similar, content-dependent, and I'm not interested in content, or rather the content of the wave-envelopes - interference, noise, static, and spherics included.

But the frustration - the content dominates, so I've now thrown filter after filter at it, reducing everything to nonsense, nothing but spew.

Why listen? Because it's a symptom of frustration.

The cr itself is of interest - every inductor has resistance and capaci- tance, every capacitor has inductance and resistance, every resistor has inductance and capacitance. But there are no resistors, only a small rf choke. I arrange and rearrange components, trying for the highest q- factor (filter sharpness), the loudest output. Sometimes a clip loosens and everything changes for the better or worse. Sometimes my hand brushes a coil and things change again. Reverse the clips, antenna/ground or the diodes, and things change yet again. Nothing's predictable, but the q and amplitude tends towards the same old thing. If I look for a signal in the noise beneath the signals, it's canceled out even in the noise. Or some- times not; you can hear straight-forward voices in the middle of crs.mp3, even with all the manipulation.

Again, it's metal come to life, arrangements of metal, nothing else, even the earphones are coils and magnets and thin metal diaphragms. There's none of the interiority of electronics, vacuum tubes, solid state, except for the diodes of course. Use a razor-blade diode, and even the solid- state's eliminated.

And manipulation of the output? Reverberation, hiss filters, hard limit- ing, normalizing, equalizing. To no point at all except to eliminate my own nausea. This might have been a search for aesthetic pleasure; instead it's grounded in an impossible novelty - what with the tuning coils and capacitor, cr sound is narrowly defined, almost traditional. I need a violin. I need something.

crs1 and crs2 are images of the interior of the older cr, which has now been placed in a box. There's a cat around. cr3 is the second cr on top of the closed box. The fourth file is the mp3.

http://www.asondheim.org/crs1.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/crs2.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/crs3.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/crs.mp3

(I wonder in terms of the poetics and phenomenology of the 'thing' here - they lie in arrangements, in channels - stations and noise, etc. are par- asitic, the whole a swirl, entanglement. Listen through the cross-sec- tions. There's also the semiotics of the flesh, the relationship and placements of antennas and grounds, the body, flustered, moving all those coils and dials. The oldest radio sets have a variety of tuning mechanisms - everything balances on everything. I'd say the pleasure quickens fast in all of this, but then, like plate cameras, a kind of exactitude emerges and delight when something after all comes clear. I'm thinking of modeling all of this as a _knot_ in the mathematical sense.)

↑ Index

313. Joel Weishaus
Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
Sat 15 Sep 2007

Hi Stephen:

I don't know of any poems by Ginsberg or Creeley that come from a walk. You'd think that at least Ginsberg would have one. I did go on a walk with Allan, and Phil Whalen, one of the circumambulations of Mt. Tamalpais. Although Snyder wrote a poem on one of these walks (Allan wasn't on that one), as far as I know Ginsberg didn't. I mention the one with Allan on the first page of Reality Dreams: http://www.cddc.vt.edu/host/weishaus/Real/real-1.htm

Best,
Joel

Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 13:20:36 -0700
From: Stephen Vincent <[redacted]>
Subject: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???

I am leading a "walking & writing" workshop this Fall at Stanford, using the campus as our 'site'. One of the places I want us to walk is into Special Collections, which has the Ginsberg and Creeley archives. It would be lovely to find - in advance - any poems by either poet that emerge out of a particular walk. And to have an original mss. available to see, explore.

I will appreciate any suggestions of titles - poems and/or journal pieces.

Thanks in advance,

Stephen Vincent

↑ Index

314. Seena Liff
Re: POETICS Digest - 13 Sep 2007 to 14 Sep 2007 (#2007-257)
Sat 15 Sep 2007

I'm reading Daniel Deronda, by George Eliot. Before that, I read The Moonstone, by Wilkie Collins, before that, Wives and Daughters, and Cranford, by Elizabeth Gaskell. - Seena

* See what's new at http://www.aol.com

↑ Index

315. sandra de 1913
1913's Rozanova Prize announcement
Sat 15 Sep 2007

Hello friends,

1913 is chipper to announce the winner of The Rozanova Prize:

Ward Tietz's outstanding verb'sual book, Hg--The liquid, will receive publication by 1913 Press this coming year.

Many sincere thanks to all who entered the contest.
All entries were considered for publication by 1913.
Each entrant will receive a copy of the book.

Best things,
de 1913

--
http://www.journal1913.org
http://www.1913press.org

↑ Index

316. Martha King
NYC Prose Reading
Sat 15 Sep 2007

Poets all - think prose on the first Thursday of the month:

Â

Martha King and Elinor Nauen present

Â

The Prose Pros at Moâ€™s â€“ i.e., Mo Pitkinâ€™s House of Satisfaction

34 Avenue A, New York City

For directions go www.mopitkins.com or call [redacted]

Â

Prose writers reading new works from 7 â€“ 9 pm.

Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â
Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â

Jocelyn Lieu is known to East Siders as the author of What Isnâ€™t ThereÂ (Nation Books), a book that takes us through what happened to us all on September 11.Â We were here and so was she.Â Her shards of narrative form a house for our communal grief, free of cant and hysteria.Â An earlier collection, Potential Weapons (Greywolf) garnered praise from Sherman Alexie and Charles Baxter.

Â

Â

Mort Zachter has a very different memory of our neighborhood.Â In Dough (University of Georgia Press) an hilarious and inventively told memoir, he recounts his personal search for the dough of financial securityâ€¦and a family secret based on another version of the stuff.Â For some 60 years his Uncle Harry lived in penury, running a day-old bread store on 9th Street.Â Out of the blue, Mort inherited the results.Â His book, which won the 2006 AWP Creative Nonfiction Award, takes on the perils of double life and the many ways money foments cataclysmic changes.Â

Â

ADMISSION FREE / CONTRIBUTE GENEROUSLY!

All proceeds go to readers.

Â

And look for readings by Hettie Jones, Peter Trachtenberg, Maggie Dubris, Sharon Mesmer, Stanley Alpert, Stephanie Dickinson and many more.Â Always something unexpected. Always on the first Thursday of the monthâ€¦except January when the series takes a break.Â Â For more information email [redacted] or [redacted].

Â

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

317. William Slaughter
Notice: Mudlark
Sat 15 Sep 2007

New and On View: Mudlark Poster No. 70 (2007)

Walking with Elihu

Poems by Taylor Graham

Home Economics, 1825 | Seasons in the Smithy | Adolescent Myths Out of Work | After the Prayer Meeting | A Matter of Pennies Journey's End | Sanskrit | Forging Iron with Coal

Author's Note: Elihu Burritt, the Learned Blacksmith (1810-1879), grew up in a poor family in New Britain, Connecticut, and apprenticed himself to the local blacksmith to help support his family. While working full-time at the forge, he taught himself mathematics, astronomy, geography, and about fifty languages. Even though nearly penniless, he took on humanitarian causes and traveled to Europe, where he helped organize international peace congresses. To learn more about the land and people of Britain, especially farming practices, he walked from London to the northern tip of Scotland and then from London to Land's End in the south, and published journals of his walks. He was appointed consular agent at Birmingham, England, by President Lincoln. These poems are from a collection in-progress, working title "Walking with Elihu," which is looking for a publisher.

Taylor Graham is a volunteer search-and-rescue dog handler in the Sierra Nevada, and also helps her husband (a retired wildlife biologist) with his field projects. Her poems have appeared in International Poetry Review, The Iowa Review, The New York Quarterly, Poetry International, Southern Humanities Review, and elsewhere, including the anthology California Poetry: From the Gold Rush to the Present (Heyday Books, 2004). Her latest book, The Downstairs Dance Floor (Texas Review Press, 2006), was awarded the Robert Phillips Poetry Chapbook Prize. Taylor Graham's poems, "Cessna Down," "Last Seen at the ATM," "3/5, the Andes by proxy," and her essay, "The Search and the Poem," appeared as Mudlark Poster No. 1 (1997), inaugurating the Mudlark Poster Series.

Spread the word. Far and wide,

William Slaughter

MUDLARK
An Electronic Journal of Poetry & Poetics
Never in and never out of print...
E-mail: [redacted]
URL: http://www.unf.edu/mudlark

↑ Index

318. Daniel Machlin
Machlin/Solomon Book Party @ Zinc Bar NYC 9/16
Sat 15 Sep 2007

JOINT BOOK PARTY/READING FOR TWO NEW UGLY DUCKLING PRESSE RELEASES:

DEAR BODY:
by Dan Machlin

&

BLUE AND RED THINGS
Laura Solomon

Sunday, September 16, 2007
Zinc Bar, 7:00 p.m.
90 West Houston,
between LaGuardia & Thompson, NYC
($5 suggested donation goes to the poets)

FOR MORE INFO IN THE BOOK AND ORDERING INFO:
http://www.uglyducklingpresse.org/page-dearbody.html
http://www.uglyducklingpresse.org/page-blueandredthings.html

TO REQUEST REVIEW COPIES/PRESS INFORMATION:
Email: [redacted]

DAN MACHLIN was born and raised in New York City. Previous works include several chapbooks: 6x7 (Ugly Duckling Presse), This Side Facing You (Heart Hammer Press), and In Rem (@ Press), as well as Above Islands (Immanent Audio), an audio CD collaboration with singer/ cellist Serena Jost. His poems and reviews have appeared in The Poetry Project Newsletter, Talisman, Antennae, Crayon, Soft Targets, Boog Literature and The Brooklyn Rail. Dan is the founding editor and publisher of Futurepoem books, a former contributing editor of The Transcendental Friend and a former curator of The Segue Series at Bowery Poetry Club in NYC. Dear Body: is his first book-length collection of poems.

LAURA SOLOMON was born in 1976 in Birmingham, Alabama and spent her childhood in various small towns scattered across the southeast. Her first book, Bivouac, was published by Slope Editions in 2002. Other publications include a chapbook, Letters by which Sisters Will Know Brothers (Katalanche Press 2005), and Haiku of Stones / Haiku des Pierres by Jacques Poullaouec, a translation from the French with Sika Fakambi (Editons Apogée, 2006). Currently she lives in Philadelphia.

UGLY DUCKLING PRESSE is a nonprofit art & publishing collective producing small to mid-size editions of new poetry, translations, lost works, and artist's books. The Presse favors emerging, international, and "forgotten" writers with well-defined formal or conceptual projects that are difficult to place at other presses. Its full-length books, chapbooks, artist’s books, broadsides, magazine and newspaper all contain handmade elements, calling attention to the labor and history of bookmaking.=

↑ Index

319. Sheila Murphy
Denis Johnson
Sun 16 Sep 2007

Steve, When The Incognito Lounge came out (it's named after a place very close to here), I memorized the whole title poem, and continue to celebrate many of the pieces in that book. The feel of the poems included changes across years, but I have always loved it - just in different ways. I knew Denis a bit when he was here in the Valley, and joined him and others in a writing group occasionally.

He is indeed poetic and visionary as a novelist, as well. Looking forward to the new novel. Well received so far.

Regarding Harrison, his ghazals are splendid, and I've read most of his work, also.

I can see why you are taken with the work of these two, in addition to Auster's whose work are less directly familiar to me at this time (but it won't be too long).

Sheila Murphy

----- Original Message ----
From: POETICS automatic digest system <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Saturday, September 15, 2007 9:04:52 PM
Subject: POETICS Digest - 14 Sep 2007 to 15 Sep 2007 (#2007-258)

There are 14 messages totalling 1119 lines in this issue.

Topics of the day:

1. Denis Johnson/Jim Harrison/Paul Auster
2. Fwd: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration—Jo hns Hopkins University Oct. 24-27 2007
3. theory. the real. death.
4. September 20: Bonney and Kruk at Test (Toronto)

5. New Beard of Bees Human Chapbook
6. Bill Griffiths
7. Callaloo 30th anniversary celebrationâ€”Jo hns Hopkins University Oct. 24-27 2007
8. Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
9. POETICS Digest - 13 Sep 2007 to 14 Sep 2007 (#2007-257)
10. Frustration
11. 1913's Rozanova Prize announcement
12. NYC Prose Reading
13. Notice: Mudlark
14. Machlin/Solomon Book Party @ Zinc Bar NYC 9/16

Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 16:30:58 -0700
From: steve russell <[redacted]>
Subject: Denis Johnson/Jim Harrison/Paul Auster

Denis Johnson has just published a new novel, The Tree of Smoke. I love the guys work. Anyone read Jesus' Son, or his poetry collected in The Incognito Lounge? He's in the same league with Jim Harrison and Paul Auster. These 3 are visionary authors. They've each written major work in fiction and poetry, as well as first rate short stories and plays. Great writers.

Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search that gives answers, not web links.

Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 19:19:14 -0400
From: Tisa Bryant <[redacted]>
Subject: Fwd: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration=?WINDOWS-1252?Q?=97Jo?= hns Hopkins University Oct. 24-27 2007

FYI

My concern is never art, but always what art can be used for.

Gerhard Richter

Begin forwarded message:

> Subject: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration=97Johns Hopkins=20 University Oct. 24-27 2007
>
> With poetry and fiction readings, lectures, conversations, and panel=20=

> discussions at Johns Hopkins University, this celebration of=20
> Callaloo's thirty years of continuous publication will bring together=20=
>
> a group of the USA's best creative writers, intellectuals, academics,=20=

> and artists to launch the journal into the next thirty years.=A0=A0Some = of=20
> the more than 100 creative writers and scholars who will be reading=20
> and engaging in public discussions on writing creative texts and=20 > writing on these and other texts and the culture from which they=20
> derive include: Carole Boyce Davies, Lucille Clifton, Thadious Davis,=20=
> Eddie Glaude,=A0=A0Brent Edwards, Thomas Sayers Ellis, Thomas Glave, = Farah=20
> Griffin, Trudier Harris, Yusef Komunyakaa, Wyhneema Lubiano, Paule=20
> Marshall, John McCluskey, Mark Anthony Neal, Carl Phillips, Tracy K.=20=
> Smith, Natasha Trethewey, John Edgar Wideman, and many others.
>
> Please find below links to the Center for Africana Studies at Johns=20
> Hopkins, the Callaloo conference homepage, online registration=20 > information, and the conference program.=A0=A0We hope to see you = there.
>
> =97Callaloo Conference Planning Committee
>
> http://web.jhu.edu/africana
> http://callaloo.tamu.edu/conference.html
> http://www.regonline.com/Checkin.asp?EventId=3D143619
>
> THE 30th ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION OF CALLALOO
>
> October 24-27, 2007
>
> Hosted by the Center for Africana Studies, Johns Hopkins University=20
> Baltimore, Maryland
>
> WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 24
>
> 7:00 PM
>
> Welcome=97Amanda Anderson (Chairperson, Department of English, Johns > Hopkins University)
>

> Master of Ceremony:=A0=A0Ben Vinson III (Director, Center for Africana=20=
> Studies,
> Johns Hopkins University)
>
> The Occasion:=A0=A0Trudier Harris (University of North Carolina, = Chapel=20 > Hill)
>
> Comments & Acknowledgements: Charles Henry Rowell (Texas A&M=20 > University, College Station)
>
> 7:30 PM=97Keynote Conversation: Black Studies, the Academy, &=20
> Contemporary Black Communities
>
> MC:=A0=A0Ben Vinson III
>
> Panel: Eddie Glaude (Princeton University), James Turner (Cornell=20
> University), William Strickland (University of Massachusetts,=20
> Amherst), Wahneema H. Lubiano (Duke University), & Suzette Spencer=20
> (University of Wisconsin, Madison)
>
> Moderator:=A0=A0Farah Griffin, Columbia University
>
> THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25
>
> 9:00-10:30 AM=97Henry Louis Gates' The Signifying Monkey after = (Almost)=20
> Twenty Years
>
> Panel: Joyce Ann Joyce (Temple University), Abdul JanMohammed=20
> (University of California, Berkeley), Mark Anthony Neal (Duke=20 > University), Zita Nunes (University of Maryland, College Park), &=20
> Fred=A0=A0Moten (Duke University)
>
> Moderator:=A0=A0Michael Collins (Texas A&M University, College = Station)
>
> 11:00-12:30 PM=97African American Literary Studies and the Feminist=20
> Critique after The Color Purple
>

> Panel:=A0=A0Susan Fraiman=A0=A0(University of Virginia), Daphne Brooks=20=

> (Princeton), Deborah Grey White (Rutgers University), Kim Hall,=20
> (Barnard College), Keith Mitchell (University of Massachusetts at=20
> Lowell), Lovalearie King (Pennsylvania State University), & Carmen=20
> Gillespie (Bucknell University)
>
> Moderator: Cheryl Wall (Rutgers University)
>
> 12:30-1:30 PM=A0=A0=A0=A0=A0=A0 Lunch
>
> 2:00 PM-3:00PM=97Writing & Publishing Fiction in the USA
>
> Panel:=A0=A0Tour=E9, Jewel Parker Rhodes (Arizona State University),=20=

> Randall Kenan (University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill), Martha=20 > Southgate (Brooklyn College), &=A0=A0David Wright (University of = Illinois,=20
> Urban-Chapaign)
>
> Moderator:=A0=A0John McCluskey (Indiana University, Bloomington)
>
> 3:30 PM-4:30 PM=97Fiction Readings: Emerging Writers Reading
>
> Panel: Emily Rabateau, Tayari Jones, & Mat Johnson
>
> MC:=A0=A0Neil Roberts (Johns Hopkins University)
>
> 8:00 PM=97Fiction & Poetry Readings
>
> Readers:=A0=A0Paule Marshall (New York University) & Lucille =
Clifton=A0=A0(St.=20
> Mary's College, Maryland)
>
> MC:=A0=A0Trudier Harris (University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill)
> Welcome: David Taft Terry
> Director, The Reginald Lewis Museum
>
> FRIDAY, OCTOBER 26
>
> 9:00-10:30 AM=97Querying the Black Diaspora
>
> Panel: Brent Edwards (Columbia University), Carole Boyce Davies=20

> (Cornell University), Jennifer Wilks (University of Texas, Austin),=20
> Zita Nunes (University of Maryland, College Park), & Suzette Spencer=20=

> (University of Wisconsin)
>
> Moderator: Shona Jackson (Texas A&M University, College Station)
>
> 11:00-12:30 PM=97Caribbean Writers in the United States: Other Black=20=

> Diasporas
>
> Presentation:=A0=A0Fred D'Aguiar (Virginia Tech, Blacksburg)
>
> Panel:=A0=A0Sandra Paquet (University of Miami), Daryl Dance = (University=20
> of Richmond, VA), Carrol F. Coates (State University of New York,=20 > Binghamton), Veronica Gregg (Hunter College), Thomas Glave (State of=20=

> New York, Binghamton)
>
> Moderator: Nelly Rosario (Texas State University, San Marcos)
>
> 12:30-1:30 PM=A0=A0=A0=A0=A0=A0 Lunch
>
>
> 2:00 PM-3:00PM=97Writing and Publishing Poetry in the USA
>
> Presentation:=A0=A0Thomas Sayers Ellis (Sarah Lawrence College)
>
> Panel:=A0=A0Carl Phillips (Washington University, St. Louis), Kendra
> Hamilton (University of Virginia), Erica Hunt, Lyrae Van-Clief
> Stefanon,=A0=A0Gerald Barrax (North Carolina State University)
>
> Moderator:=A0=A0Dante Micheaux (New York University)
>
> 3:30 PM-4:30 PM=97Poetry & the Legacy of the Black Arts Movement in =
the=20
> USA
>
> Presentation:=A0=A0Sonia Sanchez (Temple University)
>
> Respondents:=A0=A0Cheryl Clarke (Rutgers University), David =
Lionel=A0=A0Smith=20
> (Williams College), Gene Andrew Jarrett (Boston University), James=20

> Edward Smethurst (University of Massachusetts, Amherst), and Meta D.=20=
> Jones (University of Texas, Austin)
>
> Moderator:=A0=A0Margo Natalie Crawford (Indiana University, = Bloomington)
>
> 8:00 PM=97Poetry Readings
>
> Poets Reading: Natasha Trethewey (Emory University), Yusef Komunyakaa=20=
> (New York University), & Carl Phillips (Washington University, St.=20 > Louis)
>
> Welcome / MC: Adam Falk, Dean of Arts and Sciences, Johns Hopkins=20 > University
>
> SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27
>
> 9:30-10:30 AM=97Academic Editing and Publishing:=A0=A0The Johns = Hopkins=20 > University Press
>
> One representative from the Book Division
> One representative from the Journals Division
>
> 11:00-12:00 PM=97Callaloo's Art
>
> Panel:=A0=A0Cherise Smith (University of Texas), Annette Lawrence = (North=20
> Texas State University, Denton), Alvia Wardlaw, (Museum of Fine Arts,=20=
> Houston), Valerie Cassel Oliver (Contemporary Arts Museum,=20
> Houston),=A0=A0& Franklin Sirmans (The Menil Collection, Houston), & = Meta=20
> Ewa Jones
>
> Moderator:=A0=A0Stephen Carpenter (Texas A&M University, College = Station)
>
> 12:00-1:30 PM=A0=A0 Lunch
>

> 2:00-3:30 PM=97Poets Reading
>
> Van Jordan (University of Texas, Austin), Major Jackson (University of=20=

> Vermont), Tracy K. Smith (Princeton University), Dawn Lundy Martin=20 > (University of Massachusetts),=A0=A0& Terrance Hayes (Carnegie Mellon=20= > University)
>
> MC:=A0=A0Kyle G. Dargan (American University)
>
> 5:30-7:00 PM=97Final Keynote Conversation / African American Literary=20=
> and Cultural Studies:=A0=A0The Present and the Future
>
> Panel: Brent Edwards (Columbia), Meta Jones (University of Texas,=20 > Austin), Keith Leonard (American University), Michelle Wright=20
> (University of Minnesota), Ivy Wilson (Notre Dame University), Marlon=20=
> Ross (University of Virginia), Fred Moten (Duke University)
>
> Moderator:=A0=A0Thadious Davis (University of Pennsylvania)
>
> 7:30-8:00 PM=97Fiction Writer Reading: John Edgar Wideman
>
> Introduction: Daniel Jerome Wideman
>
> MC:=A0=A0Kyle Dargan
>
> 8:15-9:30 PM=97Cocktails, Dinner, and Closing Remarks
>
> Dinner (Conference participants and invited guests.)
>
> Closing Remarks: Kyle Dargan, Managing Editor, Callaloo; Ben Vinson,=20=
> Director of Africana Studies; Johns Hopkins University; Charles Henry=20=
> Rowell, Editor of Callaloo
>
> 9:30 PM-Until=97Loving Callaloo/Stomping the Blues
>
> Celebration with live music, dance, drinks, etc.

Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 20:29:32 -0400
From: Alan Sondheim <[redacted]>
Subject: theory. the real. death.

theory. the real. death.

Torture is senseless violence, born in fear. The purpose of it is to force from one tongue, amid its screams and its vomiting up of blood, the secret of _everything._ Senseless violence: whether the victim talks or whether he dies under his agony, the secret that he cannot tell is always some- where else and out of reach. It is the executioner who becomes Sisyphus. If he puts _the question_ at all, he will have to continue forever.

Sartre (in the afterword to Henri Alleg, The Question, 1958)

Experiment solitary touching the impossibility of annihilation.

100. There is nothing more certain in nature than that it is impossible for any body to be utterly annihilated; but that as it was the work of the omnipotency of God to make somewhat of nothing, so it requireth the like omnipotency to turn somewhat into nothing. And therefore it is well said by an obscure writer of the sect of the chemists, that there is no such way to effect the strange transmutations of bodies, as to endevour and urge by all means the reducing of them to nothing. And herein is contained also a great secret of preservation of bodies from change; for if you can prohibit, that they neither turn into air, because no air cometh to them; nor go into the bodies adjacent, because they are utterly heterogeneal; nor make a round and circulation within themselves; they will never change, though they be in their nature never so perishable or mutable.

from Francis Bacon, Sylva Sylvarum or A Natural History, 1627

Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 21:33:45 -0400
From: Mark Truscott <[redacted]>
Subject: September 20: Bonney and Kruk at Test (Toronto)

Dear friends of the Test Reading Series,

Indeed, it's been a while. We are now ready, however, to unveil the first three months of the fall season of our programming, beginning this coming Thursday of all days. Yikes.

Please mark those calendars.

Thursday, 20 September 2007, 8:00 p.m. (note new start time)
SEAN BONNEY and FRANCES KRUK (bios below)
Mercer Union, A Centre for Contemporary Art
37 Lisgar Street, Toronto
Free, free as the wind (though we still take donations)

More info, links to samples of our readers' work, and recordings of previous readings at www.testreading.org.

Thanks, as always, to the good people at Mercer Union for the support. Why not visit them online (www.mercerunion.org) to see what they're up to?

Coming up:

25 October: Trevor Joyce and the Max Middle Sound Project
29 November: Oana Avasilichioaei and Angela Carr

Hope to see you there,

Mark

****

SEAN BONNEY's selected poems, Blade Pitch Control Unit, were published by Salt in 2005. Since then he has produced Document:Hexprogress, Black Water and an ongoing set of versions of Baudelaire. His work has been translated into French, Spanish, and Icelandic. He lives in London and edits the lo-fi press yt communication with Frances Kruk.

FRANCES KRUK is a dual Polish-Canadian ex-pat currently undertaking doctoral research at the University of London (UK). She works in noise, words, and paint, and edits yt communication with Sean Bonney.

Date: Sat, 15 Sep 2007 09:53:19 -0500
From: Eric Elshtain <[redacted]>
Subject: New Beard of Bees Human Chapbook

Beard of Bees Press is proud to present Life & Style by Marie Buck, a chapbook consisting of poems constructed with language from MySpace profiles--language that has, in turn, been rendered into the poetic forms & styles of such poets as Wyatt & Dickinson.

These poems will make you giddy, or your money back!

http://www.beardofbees.com/buck.html

Yours,

Eric Elshtain
Editor
Beard of Bees Press
http://www.beardofbees.com

Date: Sat, 15 Sep 2007 11:08:07 -0400
From: William James Austin <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Bill Griffiths

Shit!!=C2=A0 Another "brilliant" gone to ground.=C2=A0 We'll miss you, Bill.=
=C2=A0 Best, Bill

-----Original Message-----
From: mIEKAL aND <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 5:59 pm
Subject: Bill Griffiths

via Tom Raworth's website:=C2=A0
=C2=A0
"Bill Griffiths=C2=A0
=C2=A0
A short and by inference shocking note from Tom Pickard at dawn:
I=E2=80=99m=
assuming Bill Griffiths is dead. Bill was a genuine in a poetic and academi= c world of mostly arseholes.=C2=A0
=C2=A0
=C2=A0 he was in hospital last week but discharged himself and went to do
hi= s dialect gig at the tower on Saturday but felt so ill he went yem half way=20= through. I think it was a heart attack as he was found with the radio and tv= and computer on. He=E2=80=99ll be badly missed=E2=80=93such an asset to thi= s region and a good comrade, like they say.=C2=A0
=C2=A0
We exchanged notes only a week ago, about his Dialect talks at the Mordern T= ower: his last words:=C2=A0
=C2=A0
=C2=A0 Well, the first year we had about 5 visitors (by mistake?), 2nd year=20= about 20 genuine callers, this year=E2=80=A6whee knaas? Perhaps a riot over=20=
how to pronounce the word butterlowey, with defenestrations and arrows arc-i= ng ower the ramparts.=C2=A0
=C2=A0 Assuming I get there myself. Prostate seems to be growing unduly, my=20=
photo must be on every CCTV in every public convenience in the region. Am du= e an op =E2=80=9Cin the next six months=E2=80=9D but they have a grand sense=
of humour up here.=C2=A0

=C2=A0 Hope celebrity Cambridge suits ye still. A friend=E2=80=99s mother li= ves in Trumpington, which is a bend in the road and a few houses and an admi= rable church. She is now an old widow with a cat, how about that!=C2=A0
=C2=A0 Have run out of rhymes, but save some up for Saturday,=C2=A0
=C2=A0 seeya oneday=C2=A0
=C2=A0 Bill=C2=A0
=C2=A0
We won=E2=80=99t, Bill: and I fucking regret it."=C2=A0
=C2=A0
Here's his Wikipedia page:=C2=A0
=C2=A0
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Bill_Griffiths=C2=A0

_____ Email
and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http=
://mail.aol.com

Date: Sat, 15 Sep 2007 11:57:25 -0400
From: Bobbi Lurie <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration=?utf-8?Q?=E2=80=94Jo?=
hns Hopkins University Oct. 24-27 2007

hey, me too, Gerhard Richter. thanks a lot. love, bobbi

-----Original Message-----
From: Tisa Bryant <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 5:19 pm
Subject: Fwd: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration=E2=80=94Jo hns Hopkins U= niversity Oct. 24-27 2007

FYI=C2=A0
_____=C2=A0
=C2=A0
My concern is never art, but always what art can be used for.=C2=A0
=C2=A0
Gerhard Richter=C2=A0
=C2=A0
=C2=A0
Begin forwarded message:=C2=A0
=C2=A0
> Subject: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration=E2=80=94Johns Hopkins >

Uni= versity Oct. 24-27 2007=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> With poetry and fiction readings, lectures, conversations, and panel > dis= cussions at Johns Hopkins University, this celebration of > Callaloo's thirt= y years of continuous publication will bring together > a group of the USA's= best creative writers, intellectuals, academics, > and artists to launch th= e journal into the next thirty years.=C2=A0=C2=A0Some of > the more than 100= creative writers and scholars who will be reading > and engaging in public=20=
discussions on writing creative texts and > writing on these and other texts= and the culture from which they > derive include: Carole Boyce Davies, Luci= lle Clifton, Thadious Davis, > Eddie Glaude,=C2=A0=C2=A0Brent Edwards, Thoma=
s Sayers Ellis, Thomas Glave, Farah > Griffin, Trudier Harris, Yusef Komunya=
kaa, Wyhneema Lubiano, Paule > Marshall, John McCluskey, Mark Anthony
Neal,=20=
Carl Phillips, Tracy K. > Smith, Natasha Trethewey, John Edgar Wideman,
and=20=
many others.=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Please find below links to the Center for Africana Studies at Johns > Hopk= ins, the Callaloo conference homepage, online registration > information, an= d the conference program.=C2=A0=C2=A0We hope to see you there.=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> =E2=80=94Callaloo Conference Planning Committee=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> http://web.jhu.edu/africana=C2=A0
> http://callaloo.tamu.edu/conference.html=C2=A0
> http://www.regonline.com/Checkin.asp?EventId=3D143619=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> THE 30th ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION OF CALLALOO=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> October 24-27, 2007=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Hosted by the Center for Africana Studies, Johns Hopkins University > Balt= imore, Maryland=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 24=C2=A0
>=C2=A0

> 7:00 PM=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Welcome=E2=80=94Amanda Anderson (Chairperson, Department of English, Johns=
=C2=A0
> Hopkins University)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Master of Ceremony:=C2=A0=C2=A0Ben Vinson III (Director, Center for Africa=
na > Studies,=C2=A0
> Johns Hopkins University)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> The Occasion:=C2=A0=C2=A0Trudier Harris (University of North Carolina, Cha= pel > Hill)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Comments & Acknowledgements: Charles Henry Rowell (Texas A&M > University,= College Station)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> 7:30 PM=E2=80=94Keynote Conversation: Black Studies, the Academy, & > Cont= emporary Black Communities=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> MC:=C2=A0=C2=A0Ben Vinson III=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Panel: Eddie Glaude (Princeton University), James Turner (Cornell > Univer= sity), William Strickland (University of Massachusetts, > Amherst), Wahneema= H. Lubiano (Duke University), & Suzette Spencer > (University of Wisconsin,= Madison)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Moderator:=C2=A0=C2=A0Farah Griffin, Columbia University=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> 9:00-10:30 AM=E2=80=94Henry Louis Gates' The Signifying Monkey after (Almo= st) > Twenty Years=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Panel: Joyce Ann Joyce (Temple University), Abdul JanMohammed > (Universit= y of California, Berkeley), Mark Anthony Neal (Duke > University), Zita Nune= s (University of Maryland, College Park), & > Fred=C2=A0=C2=A0Moten (Duke Un= iversity)=C2=A0

>=C2=A0
> Moderator:=C2=A0=C2=A0Michael Collins (Texas A&M University, College Stati= on)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> 11:00-12:30 PM=E2=80=94African American Literary Studies and the Feminist=20=
> Critique after The Color Purple=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Panel:=C2=A0=C2=A0Susan Fraiman=C2=A0=C2=A0(University of Virginia), Daphn=
e Brooks > (Princeton), Deborah Grey White (Rutgers University), Kim Hall, >= (Barnard College), Keith Mitchell (University of Massachusetts at > Lowell)= , Lovalearie King (Pennsylvania State University), & Carmen > Gillespie (Buc= knell University)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Moderator: Cheryl Wall (Rutgers University)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> 12:30-1:30 PM=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0
Lunch=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> 2:00 PM-3:00PM=E2=80=94Writing & Publishing Fiction in the USA=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Panel:=C2=A0=C2=A0Tour=C3=A9, Jewel Parker Rhodes (Arizona State Universit= y), > Randall Kenan (University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill), Martha > So= uthgate (Brooklyn College), &=C2=A0=C2=A0David Wright (University of Illinoi=
s, > Urban-Chapaign)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Moderator:=C2=A0=C2=A0John McCluskey (Indiana University, Bloomington)=C2=
=A0
>=C2=A0
> 3:30 PM-4:30 PM=E2=80=94Fiction Readings: Emerging Writers
Reading=C2=A0
>=C2=A0

> Panel: Emily Rabateau, Tayari Jones, & Mat Johnson=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> MC:=C2=A0=C2=A0Neil Roberts (Johns Hopkins University)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> 8:00 PM=E2=80=94Fiction & Poetry Readings=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Readers:=C2=A0=C2=A0Paule Marshall (New York University) & Lucille Clifton=
=C2=A0=C2=A0(St. > Mary's College, Maryland)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> MC:=C2=A0=C2=A0Trudier Harris (University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill)=
=C2=A0
> Welcome: David Taft Terry=C2=A0
> Director, The Reginald Lewis Museum=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> FRIDAY, OCTOBER 26=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> 9:00-10:30 AM=E2=80=94Querying the Black Diaspora=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Panel: Brent Edwards (Columbia University), Carole Boyce Davies > (Cornell= University), Jennifer Wilks (University of Texas, Austin), > Zita Nunes (Un= iversity of Maryland, College Park), & Suzette Spencer > (University of Wisc= onsin)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Moderator: Shona Jackson (Texas A&M University, College Station)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> 11:00-12:30 PM=E2=80=94Caribbean Writers in the United States: Other Black= > Diasporas=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Presentation:=C2=A0=C2=A0Fred D'Aguiar (Virginia Tech, Blacksburg)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Panel:=C2=A0=C2=A0Sandra Paquet (University of Miami), Daryl Dance (Univer= sity > of Richmond, VA), Carrol F. Coates (State University of New York, > B= inghamton), Veronica Gregg (Hunter College), Thomas Glave (State of > New Yo= rk, Binghamton)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0

> Moderator: Nelly Rosario (Texas State University, San Marcos)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> 12:30-1:30 PM=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0
Lunch=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> 2:00 PM-3:00PM=E2=80=94Writing and Publishing Poetry in the USA=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Presentation:=C2=A0=C2=A0Thomas Sayers Ellis (Sarah Lawrence College)=C2=
=A0
>=C2=A0
> Panel:=C2=A0=C2=A0Carl Phillips (Washington University, St. Louis), Kendra=
=C2=A0
> Hamilton (University of Virginia), Erica Hunt, Lyrae Van-Clief=C2=A0 > Stefanon,=C2=A0=C2=A0Gerald Barrax (North Carolina State University)=C2=
=A0
>=C2=A0
> Moderator:=C2=A0=C2=A0Dante Micheaux (New York University)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> 3:30 PM-4:30 PM=E2=80=94Poetry & the Legacy of the Black Arts Movement in=20=
the > USA=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Presentation:=C2=A0=C2=A0Sonia Sanchez (Temple University)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Respondents:=C2=A0=C2=A0Cheryl Clarke (Rutgers University), David Lionel= =C2=A0=C2=A0Smith > (Williams College), Gene Andrew Jarrett (Boston Universi= ty), James > Edward Smethurst (University of Massachusetts, Amherst), and Me=
ta D. > Jones (University of Texas, Austin)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Moderator:=C2=A0=C2=A0Margo Natalie Crawford (Indiana University, Blooming= ton)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> 8:00 PM=E2=80=94Poetry Readings=C2=A0

>=C2=A0
> Poets Reading: Natasha Trethewey (Emory University), Yusef Komunyakaa > (N= ew York University), & Carl Phillips (Washington University, St. > Louis)=
=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Welcome / MC: Adam Falk, Dean of Arts and Sciences, Johns Hopkins > Univer=
sity=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> 9:30-10:30 AM=E2=80=94Academic Editing and Publishing:=C2=A0=C2=A0The John= s Hopkins > University Press=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> One representative from the Book Division=C2=A0
> One representative from the Journals Division=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> 11:00-12:00 PM=E2=80=94Callaloo's Art=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Panel:=C2=A0=C2=A0Cherise Smith (University of Texas), Annette Lawrence (N= orth > Texas State University, Denton), Alvia Wardlaw, (Museum of Fine Arts,= > Houston), Valerie Cassel Oliver (Contemporary Arts Museum, > Houston),= =C2=A0=C2=A0& Franklin Sirmans (The Menil Collection, Houston), & Meta > Ewa=
Jones=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Moderator:=C2=A0=C2=A0Stephen Carpenter (Texas A&M University, College Sta= tion)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> 12:00-1:30 PM=C2=A0=C2=A0 Lunch=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> 2:00-3:30 PM=E2=80=94Poets Reading=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Van Jordan (University of Texas, Austin), Major Jackson (University of > V= ermont), Tracy K. Smith (Princeton University), Dawn Lundy Martin > (Univers= ity of Massachusetts),=C2=A0=C2=A0& Terrance Hayes (Carnegie Mellon > Univer=

sity)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> MC:=C2=A0=C2=A0Kyle G. Dargan (American University)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> 5:30-7:00 PM=E2=80=94Final Keynote Conversation / African American Literar= y > and Cultural Studies:=C2=A0=C2=A0The Present and the Future=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Panel: Brent Edwards (Columbia), Meta Jones (University of Texas, > Austin=
), Keith Leonard (American University), Michelle Wright > (University of Min= nesota), Ivy Wilson (Notre Dame University), Marlon > Ross (University of Vi= rginia), Fred Moten (Duke University)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Moderator:=C2=A0=C2=A0Thadious Davis (University of Pennsylvania)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> 7:30-8:00 PM=E2=80=94Fiction Writer Reading: John Edgar Wideman=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Introduction: Daniel Jerome Wideman=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> MC:=C2=A0=C2=A0Kyle Dargan=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> 8:15-9:30 PM=E2=80=94Cocktails, Dinner, and Closing Remarks=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Dinner (Conference participants and invited guests.)=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Closing Remarks: Kyle Dargan, Managing Editor, Callaloo; Ben Vinson, > Dir= ector of Africana Studies; Johns Hopkins University; Charles Henry > Rowell,= Editor of Callaloo=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> 9:30 PM-Until=E2=80=94Loving Callaloo/Stomping the Blues=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
> Celebration with live music, dance, drinks, etc.=C2=A0
>=C2=A0

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http=
://mail.aol.com

Date: Sat, 15 Sep 2007 08:31:57 -0800
From: Joel Weishaus <[redacted]>
Subject: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???

Hi Stephen:

I don't know of any poems by Ginsberg or Creeley that come from a walk. = You'd think that at least Ginsberg would have one. I did go on a walk = with Allan, and Phil Whalen, one of the circumambulations of Mt. = Tamalpais. Although Snyder wrote a poem on one of these walks (Allan = wasn't on that one), as far as I know Ginsberg didn't. I mention the one = with Allan on the first page of Reality Dreams: = http://www.cddc.vt.edu/host/weishaus/Real/real-1.htm

Best,
Joel

Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 13:20:36 -0700
From: Stephen Vincent <[redacted]>
Subject: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???

I am leading a "walking & writing" workshop this Fall at Stanford, using = the campus as our 'site'. One of the places I want us to walk is into = Special Collections, which has the Ginsberg and Creeley archives.
It would be lovely to find - in advance - any poems by either poet that = emerge out of a particular walk. And to have an original mss. available = to see, explore.
=20
I will appreciate any suggestions of titles - poems and/or journal = pieces.
=20
Thanks in advance, =20
Stephen Vincent

Date: Sat, 15 Sep 2007 13:56:27 EDT
From: Seena Liff <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: POETICS Digest - 13 Sep 2007 to 14 Sep 2007 (#2007-257)

I'm reading Daniel Deronda, by George Eliot. Before that, I read The Moonstone, by Wilkie Collins, before that, Wives and Daughters, and Cranford, by Elizabeth Gaskell. - Seena

* See what's new at http://www.aol.com

Date: Sat, 15 Sep 2007 12:12:58 -0400
From: Alan Sondheim <[redacted]>
Subject: Frustration

Frustration

Two crystal radios (crs) in parallel through the same antenna/ground system.

The larger, older one is in the box and can fine-tune through a vario- coupler, loose coupler, and now an air condenser. The output is drawn from the larger.

The system is increasingly frustrating and baroque, more and more stations are picked up, the tuning peaks are sharper, the sensitivity and amplitude much greater. Everything is passive and metal, except for the diodes - two in parallel for the older cr, one for the newer.

It's frustrating. The output is always similar, content-dependent, and I'm not interested in content, or rather the content of the wave-envelopes - interference, noise, static, and spherics included.

But the frustration - the content dominates, so I've now thrown filter after filter at it, reducing everything to nonsense, nothing but spew.

Why listen? Because it's a symptom of frustration.

The cr itself is of interest - every inductor has resistance and capaci- tance, every capacitor has inductance and resistance, every resistor has inductance and capacitance. But there are no resistors, only a small rf choke. I arrange and rearrange components, trying for the highest q- factor (filter sharpness), the loudest output. Sometimes a clip loosens and everything changes for the better or worse. Sometimes my hand brushes a coil and things change again. Reverse the clips, antenna/ground or the diodes, and things change yet again. Nothing's predictable, but the q and amplitude tends towards the same old thing. If I look for a signal in the noise beneath the signals, it's canceled out even in the noise. Or some- times not; you can hear straight-forward voices in the middle of crs.mp3, even with all the manipulation.

Again, it's metal come to life, arrangements of metal, nothing else, even the earphones are coils and magnets and thin metal diaphragms. There's none of the interiority of electronics, vacuum tubes, solid state, except for the diodes of course. Use a razor-blade diode, and even the solid- state's eliminated.

And manipulation of the output? Reverberation, hiss filters, hard limit- ing, normalizing, equalizing. To no point at all except to eliminate my own nausea. This might have been a search for aesthetic pleasure; instead it's grounded in an impossible novelty - what with the tuning coils and capacitor, cr sound is narrowly defined, almost traditional. I need a violin. I need something.

crs1 and crs2 are images of the interior of the older cr, which has now been placed in a box. There's a cat around. cr3 is the second cr on top of the closed box. The fourth file is the mp3.

http://www.asondheim.org/crs1.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/crs2.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/crs3.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/crs.mp3

(I wonder in terms of the poetics and phenomenology of the 'thing' here - they lie in arrangements, in channels - stations and noise, etc. are par- asitic, the whole a swirl, entanglement. Listen through the cross-sec- tions. There's also the semiotics of the flesh, the relationship and placements of antennas and grounds, the body, flustered, moving all those coils and dials. The oldest radio sets have a variety of tuning mechanisms - everything balances on everything. I'd say the pleasure quickens fast in all of this, but then, like plate cameras, a kind of exactitude emerges and delight when something after all comes clear. I'm thinking of modeling all of this as a _knot_ in the mathematical sense.)

Date: Sat, 15 Sep 2007 11:53:41 -0700
From: sandra de 1913 <[redacted]>
Subject: 1913's Rozanova Prize announcement

Hello friends,

1913 is chipper to announce the winner of The Rozanova Prize:

Ward Tietz's outstanding verb'sual book, Hg--The liquid, will receive publication by 1913 Press this coming year.

Many sincere thanks to all who entered the contest.
All entries were considered for publication by 1913.
Each entrant will receive a copy of the book.

Best things,
de 1913

--
http://www.journal1913.org
http://www.1913press.org

Date: Sat, 15 Sep 2007 16:34:23 -0400
From: Martha King <[redacted]>
Subject: NYC Prose Reading

Poets all - think prose on the first Thursday of the month:

=C2=A0

Martha King and Elinor Nauen present

=C2=A0

The Prose Pros at Mo=E2=80=99s =E2=80=93 i.e., Mo Pitkin=E2=80=99s House of=20= Satisfaction

34 Avenue A, New York City

For directions go www.mopitkins.com or call [redacted]

=C2=A0

Prose writers reading new works from 7 =E2=80=93 9 pm.

=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0
=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=
=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=
C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=
=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2= A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=
=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=
C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=
=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0 First up:=C2=A0 Thursday, Octo= ber 4

Jocelyn Lieu=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0
and=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2= =A0 Mort Zachter

=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0=
20

Jocelyn Lieu is known to East Siders as the author of What Isn=E2=80=99t The= re=C2=A0 (Nation Books), a book that takes us through what happened to us al= l on September 11.=C2=A0 We were here and so was she.=C2=A0 Her shards of na= rrative form a house for our communal grief, free of cant and hysteria.=C2= =A0 An earlier collection, Potential Weapons (Greywolf) garnered praise from= Sherman Alexie and Charles Baxter.

=C2=A0

=C2=A0

Mort Zachter has a very different memory of our neighborhood.=C2=A0 In Dough= (University of Georgia Press) an hilarious and inventively told memoir, he=20= recounts his personal search for the dough of financial security=E2=80=A6and= a family secret based on another version of the stuff.=C2=A0 For some 60 ye= ars his Uncle Harry lived in penury, running a day-old bread store on 9th St= reet.=C2=A0 Out of the blue, Mort inherited the results.=C2=A0 His book, whi= ch won the 2006 AWP Creative Nonfiction Award, takes on the perils of double= life and the many ways money foments cataclysmic changes.=C2=A0=20

=C2=A0

ADMISSION FREE / CONTRIBUTE GENEROUSLY!=20

All proceeds go to readers.=20

=C2=A0

And look for readings by Hettie Jones, Peter Trachtenberg, Maggie Dubris, Sh= aron Mesmer, Stanley Alpert, Stephanie Dickinson and many more.=C2=A0 Always= something unexpected. Always on the first Thursday of the month=E2=80=A6exc= ept January when the series takes a break.=C2=A0=C2=A0 For more information=20= email [redacted] or [redacted].

=C2=A0

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http= ://mail.aol.com

---

Date: Sat, 15 Sep 2007 17:44:21 -0400
From: William Slaughter <[redacted]>
Subject: Notice: Mudlark

New and On View: Mudlark Poster No. 70 (2007)

Walking with Elihu

Poems by Taylor Graham

Home Economics, 1825 | Seasons in the Smithy | Adolescent Myths Out of Work | After the Prayer Meeting | A Matter of Pennies Journey's End | Sanskrit | Forging Iron with Coal

Author's Note: Elihu Burritt, the Learned Blacksmith (1810-1879), grew up in a poor family in New Britain, Connecticut, and apprenticed himself to the local blacksmith to help support his family. While working full-time at the forge, he taught himself mathematics, astronomy, geography, and about fifty languages. Even though nearly penniless, he took on humanitarian causes and traveled to Europe, where he helped organize international peace congresses. To learn more about the land and people of Britain, especially farming practices, he walked from London to the northern tip of Scotland and then from London to Land's End in the south, and published journals of his walks. He was appointed consular agent at Birmingham, England, by President Lincoln. These poems are from a collection in-progress, working title "Walking with Elihu," which is looking for a publisher.

Taylor Graham is a volunteer search-and-rescue dog handler in the Sierra Nevada, and also helps her husband (a retired wildlife biologist) with his field projects. Her poems have appeared in International Poetry Review, The Iowa Review, The New York Quarterly, Poetry International, Southern Humanities Review, and elsewhere, including the anthology California Poetry: From the Gold Rush to the Present (Heyday Books, 2004). Her latest book, The Downstairs Dance Floor (Texas Review Press, 2006), was awarded the Robert Phillips Poetry Chapbook Prize. Taylor Graham's poems, "Cessna Down," "Last Seen at the ATM," "3/5, the Andes by proxy," and her essay, "The Search and the Poem," appeared as Mudlark Poster No. 1 (1997), inaugurating the Mudlark Poster Series.

Spread the word. Far and wide,

William Slaughter

MUDLARK
An Electronic Journal of Poetry & Poetics
Never in and never out of print...
E-mail: [redacted]
URL: http://www.unf.edu/mudlark

Date: Sat, 15 Sep 2007 18:36:34 -0400
From: Daniel Machlin <[redacted]>
Subject: Machlin/Solomon Book Party @ Zinc Bar NYC 9/16

JOINT BOOK PARTY/READING FOR TWO NEW UGLY DUCKLING PRESSE RELEASES:

DEAR BODY:
by Dan Machlin

&

BLUE AND RED THINGS
Laura Solomon

Sunday, September 16, 2007
Zinc Bar, 7:00 p.m.
90 West Houston,
between LaGuardia & Thompson, NYC
($5 suggested donation goes to the poets)

FOR MORE INFO IN THE BOOK AND ORDERING INFO:
http://www.uglyducklingpresse.org/page-dearbody.html
http://www.uglyducklingpresse.org/page-blueandredthings.html

TO REQUEST REVIEW COPIES/PRESS INFORMATION:
Email: [redacted]

DAN MACHLIN was born and raised in New York City. Previous works =20 include several chapbooks: 6x7 (Ugly Duckling Presse), This Side =20 Facing You (Heart Hammer Press), and In Rem (@ Press), as well as =20 Above Islands (Immanent Audio), an audio CD collaboration with singer/=20=

cellist Serena Jost. His poems and reviews have appeared in The =20 Poetry Project Newsletter, Talisman, Antennae, Crayon, Soft Targets, =20 Boog Literature and The Brooklyn Rail. Dan is the founding editor and =20= publisher of Futurepoem books, a former contributing editor of The =20 Transcendental Friend and a former curator of The Segue Series at =20 Bowery Poetry Club in NYC. Dear Body: is his first book-length =20 collection of poems.

LAURA SOLOMON was born in 1976 in Birmingham, Alabama and spent her =20 childhood in various small towns scattered across the southeast. Her =20 first book, Bivouac, was published by Slope Editions in 2002. Other =20 publications include a chapbook, Letters by which Sisters Will Know =20 Brothers (Katalanche Press 2005), and Haiku of Stones / Haiku des =20 Pierres by Jacques Poullaouec, a translation from the French with =20 Sika Fakambi (Editons Apog=E9e, 2006). Currently she lives in =20 Philadelphia.

UGLY DUCKLING PRESSE is a nonprofit art & publishing collective =20 producing small to mid-size editions of new poetry, translations, =20 lost works, and artist's books. The Presse favors emerging, =20 international, and "forgotten" writers with well-defined formal or =20 conceptual projects that are difficult to place at other presses. Its =20=

full-length books, chapbooks, artist=92s books, broadsides, magazine =20 and newspaper all contain handmade elements, calling attention to the =20= labor and history of bookmaking.=

End of POETICS Digest - 14 Sep 2007 to 15 Sep 2007 (#2007-258)
****

↑ Index

320. Alan Sondheim
radio radio
Sun 16 Sep 2007

radio radio

azaaa azaaa radio radio aaz zag Iazaaza azaaa aaz Rzaaa am kjajion an Ijaqian radio kjajion zakxd in Rope a E Radio 1yqiys inkjanj ayyxkk job 100 pow LIVE Injxrnxj robs radio kjajion 170 Baazaazaa aaz Taaaa 5 pow odd jinx radio Broadyakj uikjorc Caaa zap aha Aaaazaa Rzaaa Rzaaa 50a am ala E azaaa La Camjain Midnivuj Radio tohrnaqikp and port! Czaazaa Maaa aha 1000a aa Cokjxqqo and jug Ajjrayjionk Radio Radio E aa-aa azaaa aaz Eaaaaa aha Maaa zap La E aa 30a 40a zap E RADIO ink a Eemxrixnyx jut uikjorc and kohndk prop jut 3 4 and jrhx qajxkj LIVE Faaaazaa Saazaa Maaa aaazaaa aa aha Sxrgiyx aaazaaa aaaaaaaa Fohnjain Slharx Inyqhdxk dxjaiqk owe jug wayiqijixk dxjaiqk dxkyrimjionk CIA E aazaaa z Saazaa aa zip mribxk and vxj jut Iaaa digxrkx kmxxyu radio kjajion Likjxn job jut E aaz Ogxr La aa ala aazaaa Caaa aa aaza ala az azaaa azaaa Saza La RzaaaT azaaa aa aaza E La aa azaaaa zag La Pavxk khyu ark an injxvrajxd nxfk avvrxvajor on on jrhx aa aa Radio Radio a 1978 Kong jut Radio Sjajionk in Rzaaa Rzaaa qajxkj zag Rzaaa Rzaaa z 1978 E E azaaa aaz Rzaaa Wxz azaaa La La Saza Oaaa 170 aaza aa E aaza La Ada Rzaaa wxajhrinv Rzaaa Saza aa Ada E aaza Way aaaaaz zap Eaaaa! adganyxd wxajhrxk Sjajionk Onqinx RadioTofxr pasxk if xakc fiju and aaza PC Eqgik UKa E za za aaaaaazaaa E Likjxn qigx La aa Ada inyqhdinv 69 E zaaaaaaaz aaaaaaza zag Maaa La aa-aaaaaaza aa aaaaaaaazaa La aa Eaaaaa La aaza-azaaa aaza aa ala Rzaaa Maaa aa Eaaaaa zap E E zoosinv RADIO aa z road jug qajxkj aazaa aha E E Eaaaaa 69 jog qikjxn fxzqov jooq fiju La Saza zap 1La Faaaazaa La and joy jut UKa poke ahjuorijajigx juxrx rxaqqc a mqayx radio aaaaaazaaa La Rzaaa worjcwigx pinhjx phkiy nxfk fin Azaaa E xmikodx row fuiyu ask an uonxkj lhxkjion Ink xnjxrjaininv and rajinvk and jut Word fiju jug poke phkiy AMA E aa yoppxryiaqwrxx yuannxqk and Onqinx kiejxxnmarj kxrixk owe pact rxwxr do yuannxqk go wind fuaj jhrnk cow Radio wxxdk radio Tipxqinxk Radio za aha AMA az and mofxrwhq Wxz mhzqikuinv E E La zroadyakjk Radio Oaaa Onqinx fajyu phkiy gidxok za La Maaaaaaa

↑ Index

321. J Crockett
[set POETICS nomail]
Sun 16 Sep 2007

Works like a charm.

Helllllooo aXXo.

& hey, I wrote my first bash script!

Granted, it's more communication-languagey than intelligent, but it does an hour of work...

↑ Index

322. Jim Andrews
question
Sun 16 Sep 2007

---

a question.

i'm making a piece that lets the user configure various 'brushes' that are set in 'painting' motion simultaneously. i'm looking for a term to describe such a set of 'brushes'. let us call it x for the moment. you can create a new x and configure it. you can edit the brushes of an x (add, delete, configure). you can save an x.

since there can be several brushes in an x at once, i'm thinking x should relate to the many-handed. the hindu gods shiva and vishnu come to mind, but it seems inappropriate and presumptuous that x=shiva or x=vishnu.

the 'brushes' are virtual, and they 'paint' in ways related to http://vispo.com/temp/dbcinema.htm

suggestions?

ja?
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

323. Ann Bogle
Re: theory. the real. death.
Sun 16 Sep 2007

In a message dated 9/15/2007 10:55:44 A.M. Central Daylight Time, [redacted] writes:

theory. the real. death.

Torture is senseless violence, born in fear. The purpose of it is to force from one tongue, amid its screams and its vomiting up of blood, the secret of _everything._ Senseless violence: whether the victim talks or whether he dies under his agony, the secret that he cannot tell is always some- where else and out of reach. It is the executioner who becomes Sisyphus. If he puts _the question_ at all, he will have to continue forever.

Sartre (in the afterword to Henri Alleg, The Question, 1958)

Alan, thanks for this ...

* See what's new at http://www.aol.com

↑ Index

324. Ann Bogle
Re: Bill Griffiths
Sun 16 Sep 2007

This is sad. Sorry to those who know him. I've noticed a drop off in obituary announcements on Poetics -- I think the obituaries are very important in alerting us to the contributions and accomplishments of people who have worked in the arts & poetry. I have hoped the drop off is due to fewer recent deaths -- we have been blessed in recent years in the long lives of our poets! AMB

* See what's new at http://www.aol.com

↑ Index

325. Philip Metres
New Shite on Behind the Lines Poetry...
Sun 16 Sep 2007

Folks, here's some new posts on Behindthelinespoetry.blogspot.com

I know you've been dying to ignore this. Be the first on your blog to tell them you have the Ignore This decoder ring (part of a complete set of Decoder Rings, the Charles Olson Decorder ring sold separately).

Hal Johnson's "Sonnet: White Man's Burden"/How Ari Fleischer Makes me Crazy
Fady Joudah's "The Name of the Place"
The Clash's "Spanish Bombs"/News from Another Time
Ted Leo's "Since You Been Gone/Maps"/Punk Goes Pop
An Iraq War Veteran Joins the Muslim Student Union
Remembering September 11th, 2001/Yehuda Amichai's "The Diameter of the Bomb"
Philip Metres "Inspired by" Interview with Carlye Archibeque
Nir Nader's Interview with Israeli Poet Aharon Shabtai
Radnoti's "Seventh Eclogue"/Virgil in a Modern Hell Suppressing Dissent/The Questions of A.N.S.W.E.R.
Edward Dorn's "In the Morning"/The War So Far From Here
W. Scott Howard's "The Danger (Here)"/9/11 and the...
Martha Collins' Blue Front/News That Stays News

Robert Bly on "Now"/On Poetry, Rumi, Whitman, Bush...
PEACE SHOW 2007/"Watching the Jet Planes Dive" by William Stafford

Philip Metres
Associate Professor
Department of English
John Carroll University
20700 N. Park Blvd
University Heights, OH 44118
phone: [redacted] (work)
fax: [redacted]
http://www.philipmetres.com
http://www.behindthelinespoetry.blogspot.com

↑ Index

326. Philip Metres
Petraeus, Kipling, Fleischer, Johnson
Sun 16 Sep 2007

I was listening to the npr program "On The Media" yesterday while repairing and attaching a new table leg to my daughter's "special table," when Ari Fleischer was being interviewed by Brooke Gladstone about the Image Wars regarding the Iraq War.

Fleischer pulled out all the typical ad hominems and spins 1) about MoveOn.org--which performed its own ad hominems in their advertisement about General David Petraeus being a "General Betray Us" (a rhyme so pitifully obvious that it made me cringe to see it in print, even though I giggled over it when I thought of it myself), 2) about the peace movement, 3) about the left, 4) about the war in Iraq. Apparently, one ad (which you're welcome to watch and vomit in your mouth over), uses the typical rhetoric that essential blames the left in advance for making a guy feel like he's wasted his sacrifice...and he's lost both his legs in the war. But the sinister aspect of the ad, which Gladstone rightly confronts Fleischer on, is that ugly slippage in the "they" attacked us line. Really, Iraq attacked us?! WTF?!!!! I forgot, all of "them" are alike. Which leads me to Hal Johnson's "White Man's Burden," which is a phrase canonized by imperial poet Rudyard Kipling. (I should mention t! hat Petraeus quoted Kipling in his address to Congress.) Here's Kipling's poem, and then Johnson's.

White Man's Burden

Take up the White Man's burden--
Send forth the best ye breed--

Go bind your sons to exile
To serve your captives' need;
To wait in heavy harness,
On fluttered folk and wild--
Your new-caught, sullen peoples,
Half-devil and half-child.

Take up the White Man's burden--
In patience to abide,
To veil the threat of terror
And check the show of pride;
By open speech and simple,
An hundred times made plain
To seek another's profit,
And work another's gain.

Take up the White Man's burden--
The savage wars of peace--
Fill full the mouth of Famine
And bid the sickness cease;
And when your goal is nearest
The end for others sought,
Watch sloth and heathen Folly
Bring all your hopes to nought.

Take up the White Man's burden--
No tawdry rule of kings,
But toil of serf and sweeper--
The tale of common things.
The ports ye shall not enter,
The roads ye shall not tread,
Go make them with your living,
And mark them with your dead.

Take up the White Man's burden--
And reap his old reward:
The blame of those ye better,
The hate of those ye guard--
The cry of hosts ye humour
(Ah, slowly!) toward the light:--
"Why brought he us from bondage,
Our loved Egyptian night?"

Take up the White Man's burden--
Ye dare not stoop to less--

Nor call too loud on Freedom
To cloke your weariness;
By all ye cry or whisper,
By all ye leave or do,
The silent, sullen peoples
Shall weigh your gods and you.

Take up the White Man's burden--
Have done with childish days--
The lightly proferred laurel,
The easy, ungrudged praise.
Comes now, to search your manhood
Through all the thankless years
Cold, edged with dear-bought wisdom,
The judgment of your peers!

***

We all need to help them ay-rabs get their act together and love freedom, right?

***

"Sonnet: White Man's Burden" by Halvard Johnson

darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness
darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness
darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness
darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkless darkness darkness darkness darkness

darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkiness darkness
darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness

darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkling darkness
darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness
darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness

darkish darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkness darkest darkness

Philip Metres
Associate Professor
Department of English
John Carroll University
20700 N. Park Blvd
University Heights, OH 44118

phone: [redacted] (work)
fax: [redacted]
http://www.philipmetres.com
http://www.behindthelinespoetry.blogspot.com

↑ Index

327. Tisa Bryant

New Opera: Juana, October 12th and 13th at Theatre Artaud, San Francisco

Sun 16 Sep 2007

> Premiere of JUANA, October 12th and 13th at Theatre Artaud
>
> 8:00 p.m., Friday & Saturday, October 12-13, 2007
>
> $15 General Admission
> $10 Students and Seniors
> www.brownpapertickets.com/event/20173
> No one will be turned away for lack of funds
>
> V.I.P. Opening Night After-Show Reception
> Friday, October 12
> $25 (not including ticket price)
>
> Tenth Muse Presents brings you a sneak preview of Juana, a new opera by Composer, Carla Lucero. Juana is based on the historical novel, "Sor Juana's Second Dream", the story of 17th century Mexican poet, feminist and nun, Sor Juana Inés de la Cruz.
>
> The opera tells the story of her persecution at the hands of the Spanish inquisition because of her controversial writings and her love for another woman. She is now widely recognized as the first great poet of the Americas .
>
> This fully staged production of Juana will feature an hour of excerpts sung in the Spanish language (English supertitles projected), with Musical Direction by Ron Valentino and Stage Direction by Tracy Ward. Executive Producer is Valentin Aguirre. The libretto is co-written by Carla Lucero and Alicia Gaspar de Alba.
>
> Cast: Martha Rodriguez Salazar, Elena Krell, John Kendall Bailey, Kindra Scharich, Jennifer Boesing, Abraham Aviles-Scott, Joanne Um, Victor Khodadad, Jose Luis Munoz, and Miranda Demetor.
>
> Carla Lucero is best known for her seminal 2001 World Premiere of > Wuornos, the internationally acclaimed opera based on the Florida serial killer, Aileen Wuornos.

>
> Call [redacted] for more information. Or buy tickets online at: www.brownpapertickets.com/event/20173=

↑ Index

328. Bobbi Lurie
Re: Bill Griffiths
Sun 16 Sep 2007

Dear Ann, thank you for this post. i really appreciate it. what you say is important. thank you, bobbi

-----Original Message-----
From: Ann Bogle <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sun, 16 Sep 2007 3:46 am
Subject: Re: Bill Griffiths

This is sad. Sorry to those who know him. I've noticed a drop off in obituary announcements on Poetics -- I think the obituaries are very important in alerting us to the contributions and accomplishments of people who have worked in the arts & poetry. I have hoped the drop off is due to fewer recent deaths -- we have been blessed in recent years in the long lives of our poets!

AMB

* See what's new at http://www.aol.com

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

329. David Chirot
Fwd: Remembering Sabra and Shatila
Sun 16 Sep 2007

---------- Forwarded message ----------
From: David Chirot <[redacted]>
Date: Sep 16, 2007 7:57 AM
Subject: Fwd: Remembering Sabra and Shatila
To: [redacted]

Robert Fisk was in the first group of journalists to enter the Palestinian refugee camps on 18 September 1982, after the 48 hour war crime massacre ordered by Ariel Sharon ("The Butcher of Baghdad," called "A Man of Peace" by GW Bush) and carried out by Phalangist forces.

Remembering Sabra and Shatila

by Robert Fisk

http://www.informationclearinghouse.info/article4733.htm ---

A beautiful letter from Franklin Lamb is at:

Dissident Voice : The 25th Anniversary of the Massacre at Sabra-Shatilla http://www.dissidentvoice.org/2007/09/the-25th-anniversary-of-the-massacre-at-sabra-shatilla/ ---

↑ Index

330. William James Austin
Blackbox summer gallery
Sun 16 Sep 2007

Hello everyone,

The summer gallery of Blackbox is now live.? Please check it out.? Lots of good submissions; not easy to whittle it all down to a manageable grouping.? Obviously the submission period has ended.? I simply can't handle any more.? Plus I haven't received any new candidates over the past few days, so it seems like a good time to call time.

This season's gallery contains work by Karl Kempton, John M. Bennett and C. Mehri Bennett, Vernon Frazer, Marco Giovenale, Kaz Mazlanka, Nicholas Karavatos, Sheila E. Murphy -- a nice combination of regulars and newcomers.? It ain't easy for a newcomer to crack the Blackbox code, so let's give those guys a hand.???

Per usual, go to WilliamJamesAustin.com and follow the Blackbox link, or go direct to WilliamJamesAustin.com/Blackbox.html.? Then take a long stroll (scroll) through the galleries until you reach the latest.? Be sure to check out previous galleries on your way.

As always, mucho thanks to everyone to submits and contributes, whether or not s/he make it into this season's gallery.

Best, Bill

Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

331. Jonathan Minton
Word For/Word #12
Sun 16 Sep 2007

I'm pleased to announce that Word For/Word #12 is online at www.wordforword.info

with new work by Sommer Browning, Sue Carnahan, Raymond Farr, Adam Golaski, Andrew Grace, Garth Graeper, Eryn Green, Derek Henderson, Derek Pollard, Tom Hibbard, Jan Lauwereyns, Stan Mir, T.A. Noonan, Marcus Slease, Theresa Sotto, Ruy Ventura, derek beaulieu, C. Mehrl Bennett, John M. Bennett, Solamito Luigino, Ben Doyle, Sandra Miller, Crag Hill, Geof Huth, Donna Kuhn, J. Michael Mollohan, Ric Royer, Brian Strang, Thomas Lowe Taylor, Serge Segay Nico Vassilakis, Dan Waber, Ted Warnell, and Irving Weiss, plus reviews, and a special section (guest edited by Brian Whitener) of visual and sound poetry from Foro de Escrtores, a collaborative assembly of writers and artists based in Santiago, Chile.

Cheers!
Jonathan Minton
www.wordforword.info

++++++++++++++

"Sundog / Zodiac of a Fingernail," by T.A. Noonan

If you could clip me, I would be waxing crescent / Once I was a mouth, gibbous until I closed over you / You took my name from Ptolemy-terra australis-to balance me against something higher / My shape was all flats and ice / Katabatic winds rended my plateau at the edge / Interior, they moderated themselves / Sometimes the sun touched my white skin, and I burned like Brazil / My diamond dusts shimmered carnivale, radiation tricky as an open circuit / Now, this ridge slit through, a quick: something little, rough / The nail in front of your face slides under your waistband, parhelios to the snow / Parhelios to the snow, the nail in front of your face slides under your waistband / Now, this ridge slit through, a quick: something little, rough / My diamond dusts shimmer carnivale, radiation tricky as an open circuit / Sometimes I burn like Brazil when the sun touches my white skin, and the interior moderates itself / Katabatic winds rend my polar plateau at the edge / My shape is all flats and ice / You take my name from Ptolemy--terra australis--to balance me against something higher / At once I am a mouth, gibbous until I close over you / I could / would / being / wax crescent if you clip me

↑ Index

332. Jennifer Karmin
JOB: St. Mary's College
Sun 16 Sep 2007

(this is a forward. please don't respond to me.
good luck!)

St. Mary's College of Maryland at Historic St. Mary's City is seeking a tenure-track assistant/associate professor of Creative Writing, PhD or MFA, to begin August 2008.

The successful candidate will join a department in which creative writing and literary analysis are unusually well integrated, with many colleagues who publish and teach in both fields. He or she will be encouraged to participate in the departmental development of creative writing activities, in what is already a vibrant and rich campus writing community. Teaching responsibilities of three classes per semester, among them creative writing at all curricular levels; while we welcome candidates who are themselves poets, novelists, dramatists, or essayists, we would prefer a candidate who can comfortably teach in at least two genres. All faculty share in some way in the teaching of the Core Curriculum, which includes literature and expository writing classes, as well as first-year seminars and independent year-long senior theses.

St. Mary's College of Maryland, a public Carnegie Baccalaureate, Arts and Sciences institution located in Historic St. Mary's City, is Maryland's designated public honors college for the liberal arts, and candidates must be committed to providing a liberal arts education within a small college setting. With highly selective admissions policies, academically talented students, and a rigorous curriculum, we offer a small college experience similar to that found at exceptional private colleges. St. Mary's faculty benefit from a comprehensive program of support for scholarship, research, travel, and curriculum development, including course releases for pre-tenure faculty and leaves for tenured faculty. The quality of life is enhanced by the recreational opportunities of the Chesapeake region and by our proximity to Washington, D.C. and Baltimore.

To apply, please submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample of no more than 15 pages, and at least three letters of recommendation to Ruth Feingold, Chair, St. Mary's College of Maryland, 18952 E. Fisher Rd., St. Mary's City, MD 20686-3001.

Applications postmarked by October 15, 2007 will receive priority; Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

___ Take the Internet to Go: Yahoo!Go puts the Internet in your pocket: mail, news, photos & more. http://mobile.yahoo.com/go?refer=1GNXIC

↑ Index

333. Margaret Konkol

Fwd: Co-Worker's Poetry Readings

Sun 16 Sep 2007

Mike Basinski and Karlen Chase will be performing 9/20 and Karlen will be stylin' again the following week on 9/27. For those that haven't seen either read yet I will attest that they are well worth setting aside Derrida, Bergson or what-have-you for the evening.

Margaret

---------- Forwarded message ----------
Hello, all!

I have two poetry readings coming up, my first ones in Buffalo. If any of you can make either one of these, I'd love to see you there. I will have copies of my 1999 chapbook, Spreading Stars, for sale at both events.

When: Thursday, Sept. 20, 7pm
Where: Impact Artists' Gallery, Tri-Main Center, Suite 545, 2495 Main St., Buffalo Series: NEW/reNEW Series
Cost: $3
Who: Michael Basinski, UB Poetry Collection Curator, and Karlen Chase, UB

MLS Candidate
http://buffalonews.typepad.com/poetry_beat/2007/08/the-newrenew-se.html
Notes: There is free, security-monitored parking at night behind the Center.

When: Thursday, Sept. 27, 4pm
Where: Buffalo State College, Butler Library, Rooftop Garden
(rain/snow: Butler 210)
Series: Rooftop Poetry Series
Cost: Free
Who: Karlen Chase, UB MLS Candidate, and musician K. Corneilus http://www.buffalostate.edu/library/rooftop/members/chase.htm

Hope to see y'all there,
Karlen

Karlen Chase, MLS Candidate
Poetry Collection Student Assistant University Libraries University at Buffalo
420 Capen Hall
Buffalo, NY 14260-2200
[redacted]
http://karchase.googlepages.com

↑ Index

334. Dan Wilcox
Third Thursday Poetry, Albany, Miriam Herrera featured
Sun 16 Sep 2007

---

the Poetry Motel Foundation
presents

Third Thursday Poetry Night

at
the Social Justice Center
33 Central Ave., Albany, NY

Thursday, September 20, 2007
7:00 sign up; 7:30 start

Featured Poet: Miriam Herrera with open mic for poets before & after the feature

$3.00 donation.
Your persistent host: Dan Wilcox.

check out Miriam's Blog at:
http://miriamherrerapoems.googlepages.com/

KIVA AT CHACO CANYON

The kiva meditates on herself
On the roundness of the soul
On the eagle's circular vision.

Lie on your back, little girl-
Notice the sky! It's contained
In its own infinite funnel.

I know this kiva. We are old friends-
The mother we never had.
I recognize her! It's she Who forces one toward the middle.

In the kiva there is only middle.

Looking out through her bald blue eye
It's me:
Looking in, looking out.
#

↑ Index

335. W.B. Keckler

John Yau, Richard Kostelanetz & Simplified Submissions Guidelines on JBP

Sun 16 Sep 2007

"The Lives of the Heart" "Are ligneous, muscular, chemical./ Wear birch-colored feathers,/green tunnels of horse-tail reed./Wear calcified spirals, Fibonaccian spheres."--Jane Hirshfield

God Bless Texas, but God Bless Sundays even more! Today on Joe Brainard's Pyjamas a metaphysical reduction of all earth's stories by Richard Kostelanetz, a revisiting of a poetry collection by John Yau, simplified Submissions Guidelines (I drew them) and more are available for your perusal or abusal...if you have to choose between sackcloth or sackbut, choose the latter...

http://joebrainardspyjamas.blogspot.com/
(http://joebrainardspyjamas.blogspot.com/)

* See what's new at http://www.aol.com

↑ Index

336. Alan Sondheim

emotions decrees music zero (maybe the sound redeems me)

Sun 16 Sep 2007

emotions decrees music zero

3 solos reflecting a state of consciousness brought about by j indicating she can tell my moods by the titles for example frustration indicating so though s/he misses the excitement behind which i'm neutral though the stuff i make most likely isn't and going broke doesn't help things along the way as i try to fasten onto 'something creative' so this part's true my nails cracked something about stress and sleeping in the office at brown and then i don't want to think about much most music stresses me but mine doesn't why is that so anyway this is all play-arounds because i can't do my usual with the right hand there are always other paths. but really bio stuff - when i'm happiest i write ferocious about torture well when miserable something comes along out the window tentacle glass lens of the camera always on the loose it's moi moi moi

http://www.asondheim.org/moi.mp3
http://www.asondheim.org/moi2.mp3
http://www.asondheim.org/moi3.mp3

what frightens me most? that philosophy always the result of a damaged life will be itself damaged at best that i'll have nothing to say or it will be read as symptom or state-of-mind which shouldn't be a leverage at all any more than if i'm building /dev/nul it doesn't mean suicide or working as root isn't a sign of megalomania. the interstices of the text, the working-out of root issues against /dev/nul, the work of modeling a damaged species, this is fundamental. the sound of moi moi moi builds rooms where harmonics play against non-existent walls, play against them- selves, think of walls defined by harmonics, that is wavelengths, nothing material, you might have quantum rooms like that with music like this going on in them

↑ Index

337. Rob McLennan

Re: Bill Griffiths

Sun 16 Sep 2007

i agree completely; check out this recent post, too, for late Canadian poet Margaret Avison:

http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/2007/08/margaret-avison-1918-2007-in-review.html

if we won't talk about each other's accomplishments, who will?

rob

> Dear Ann, thank you for this post. i really appreciate it. what you say is important. thank you, bobbi
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Ann Bogle <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Sun, 16 Sep 2007 3:46 am
> Subject: Re: Bill Griffiths
>
> This is sad. Sorry to those who know him. I've noticed a drop off in obituary announcements on Poetics -- I think the obituaries are very important in > alerting us to the contributions and accomplishments of people who have worked in the arts & poetry. I have hoped the drop off is due to fewer recent deaths -- we have been blessed in recent years in the long lives of our poets!
>
> AMB
>
> * See what's new at http://www.aol.com
>
> _____
> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

-- poet/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...13th poetry coll'n - The Ottawa City Project .... 2007-8 writer in residence, U of Alberta * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

338. Pierre Joris
Re: Bill Griffiths
Sun 16 Sep 2007

Bill was an old & dear compañero – I posted a little note for him & a poem of his yesterday on Nomadics blog: http://pjoris.blogspot.com

Another old friend of his and mine, Bill Sherman, has posted a lovely homage to Bill Griffiths you shouldn't miss on his blog: http:// omoopart3.blogspot.com

Pierre

> Dear Ann, thank you for this post. i really appreciate it. what you say is important. thank you, bobbi
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Ann Bogle <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Sun, 16 Sep 2007 3:46 am
> Subject: Re: Bill Griffiths
>
> This is sad. Sorry to those who know him. I've noticed a drop off in > obituary announcements on Poetics -- I think the obituaries are very important
> in > alerting us to the contributions and accomplishments of people who have > worked in the arts & poetry. I have hoped the drop off is due to fewer recent > deaths -- we have been blessed in recent years in the long lives of our poets!
>
> AMB
>
> * See what's new at http:// www.aol.com
>
> ___
> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com
>
> --
> poet/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere > Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press > fair ...13th poetry coll'n - The Ottawa City Project ....

> 2007-8
> *writer in residence, U of Alberta * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/*

The poet: always in partibus infidelium -- Paul Celan

Pierre Joris
244 Elm Street
Albany NY 12202
h: [redacted]
c: [redacted]
o: 518 442 40 71
Euro cell: (011 33) 6 75 43 57 10
email: [redacted]
http://pierrejoris.com
Nomadics blog: http://pjoris.blogspot.com

↑ Index

339. lily robert-foley
Cascajal Block: Oldest Writing in the World.
Sun 16 Sep 2007

A few months ago, a discussion strand began that involved into one pertaining to the Cascajal block: an object belonging to the Olmec culture, a pre-colombian culture that predates the Maya, the remains of which are located primarily in what is currently Mexico. Anthropologists uncovered the block in 1999 and began publicizing it in 2006. I have been working on developing and designing the scope of an ongoing literary/artistic project that will and is treating the problem of the block: that problem namely being that it is a language—or bears enough similarity to what we might call a language that it might teach us something about what exactly a language is—that has no companion texts and is therefore totally untranslatable/incomprehensible. Some members of the list expressed a wish that I might keep everyone up to date on where the project is taking me. There are very few ideas that thrill me more than thinking that members of the listserv might be interested in helping to expand the girth and possibilities of this project.

I have started putting together a blog of the work I've been doing. If interest happens: http://glyphmachines.blogspot.com/2007/09/cascajal-block-hand-drawn- reproduction.html or just http://glyphmachines.blogspot.com.

I'm also writing this post in the form of an S.O.S.. Part of my hopes for this project is that it might form the basis of a Fulbright grant project. Everything has been going very well for me, except that in order to apply for a Fulbright to go to Mexico you must have a LETTER OF AFFILIATION from someone belonging to a relevant institution or involved in a relevant field in that country. I have tried contacting anthropologists, administrators and artists alike with no luck at all. I'm kind of coming to a wits end. Is there anyone who might be able to help me? Who knows a Mexican poet, professor or scientist who might be interested enough in a project like this to agree to write a letter of affiliation for me? I must admit that I personally feel that it is completely absurd to ask a complete stranger for a favor of this nature—I don't understand how exactly the Fulbright committee has come to believe that it is acceptable to make this demand of someone applying for a Fulbright. After all, I believe people apply for grants like these specifically because they do not have the means to complete a project on their own. Anyway. If there is anyone who could help... I would be overwhelmed with gratitude.

Or if anyone has any ideas about the block and unraveling its mystery. That is, after all, the point.

thank, thank, thank you.

Lily.

--
Powered By Outblaze

↑ Index

340. Jason Quackenbush
Re: question
Sun 16 Sep 2007

---

spider squid octopus
ratking

Jim Andrews wrote:
> a question.
>
> i'm making a piece that lets the user configure various 'brushes' that are > set in 'painting' motion simultaneously. i'm looking for a term to describe > such a set of 'brushes'. let us call it x for the moment. you can create a > new x and configure it. you can edit the brushes of an x (add, delete, > configure). you can save an x.

>
> since there can be several brushes in an x at once, i'm thinking x should > relate to the many-handed. the hindu gods shiva and vishnu come to mind, but > it seems inappropriate and presumptuous that x=shiva or x=vishnu.
>
> the 'brushes' are virtual, and they 'paint' in ways related to > http://vispo.com/temp/dbcinema.htm
>
> suggestions?
>
> ja?
> http://vispo.com
>

↑ Index

341. Jim Andrews
Re: question
Mon 17 Sep 2007

I just went with 'Brush set'.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

342. J Crockett
Source Available
Mon 17 Sep 2007

Here in Kansas City we're opening the source of Listenlight (2.0) and Gravity Way.

While I'm way ahead of the next Listenlight (at least by the Gravity Way <http://gravityway.com> source), you are welcome to it, as is everybody else, and welcome to use it.

Guaranteed to work when you need it to work, at least.

Good-bye.

↑ Index

343. EH
New Oppen article
Mon 17 Sep 2007

New Oppen article in this month's American Communist History, volume 6, number 1 (June 2007):

"A Poetry of Action: George Oppen and Communism" http://www.informaworld.com/smpp/content~content=a782008782~db=all~order=page

---
Moody friends. Drama queens. Your life? Nope! - their life, your story.
Play Sims Stories at Yahoo! Games.

↑ Index

344. Gerald Schwartz
a new shredder
Mon 17 Sep 2007

---

the machine accompanies the pull of the want so at 10:30 a.m. on a day many of us (STILL!) celebrate our constitution-- the President introduces a new shredding machine:
THE MUKASEY...

Gerald S.

↑ Index

345. Bobbi Lurie
Re: Bill Griffiths
Mon 17 Sep 2007

Dear Pierre,
thank you so much for this link to your blog. i read it and i'll go back there to read some more. i'm gonna read the other blog that you listed too.
thank you again,
bobbi

-----Original Message-----
From: Pierre Joris <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sun, 16 Sep 2007 6:25 pm
Subject: Re: Bill Griffiths

Bill was an old & dear compaÃ±ero â€“ I posted a little note for him & a poem of his yesterday on Nomadics blog: http://pjoris.blogspot.comÂ
Â
Another old friend of his and mine, Bill Sherman, has posted a lovely homage to Bill Griffiths you shouldn't miss on his blog: http://omoopart3.blogspot.comÂ
Â
PierreÂ
Â
>> Dear Ann, thank you for this post. i really appreciate it. what >> you say is important. thank you, bobbiÂ
>>Â
>>Â
>> -----Original Message-----Â
>> From: Ann Bogle <[redacted]>Â
>> To: [redacted]Â
>> Sent: Sun, 16 Sep 2007 3:46 amÂ
>> Subject: Re: Bill GriffithsÂ
>>Â
>>Â
>>Â
>> This is sad. Sorry to those who know him. I've noticed a drop >> off inÂ >> obituary announcements on Poetics -- I think the obituaries are >> very importantÂ >> inÂ
>> alerting us to the contributions and accomplishments of people >> who haveÂ >> worked in the arts & poetry. I have hoped the drop off is due to >> fewer recentÂ >> deaths -- we have been blessed in recent years in the long lives >> of our poets!Â
>>Â
>> AMBÂ
>>Â
>>Â
>>Â
>> * See what's new at http://>>

www.aol.comÂ
>>Â
>>Â
>> _____>> ___Â
>> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL >> Mail! - http://mail.aol.comÂ
>>Â
>>Â
>Â
> --Â
> poet/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & > ChaudiereÂ > Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small > pressÂ > fair ...13th poetry coll'n - The Ottawa City Project .... > 2007-8Â > writer in residence, U of Alberta * http://> robmclennan.blogspot.com/Â
Â
_____Â
Â
The poet: always in partibus infidelium -- Paul CelanÂ
_____Â
Pierre JorisÂ
244 Elm StreetÂ
Albany NY 12202Â
h: [redacted]Â
c: [redacted]Â
o: 518 442 40 71Â
Euro cell: (011 33) 6 75 43 57 10Â email: [redacted]Â
http://pierrejoris.comÂ
Nomadics blog: http://pjoris.blogspot.comÂ
_____Â
_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

346. Bobbi Lurie
Re: question
Mon 17 Sep 2007

---

i agree with the answer that jim gave--bobbi

-----Original Message-----
From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Mon, 17 Sep 2007 1:10 am
Subject: Re: question

I just went with 'Brush set'.

ja
http://vispo.com

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

347. CA Conrad
Eileen Myles, Hal Sirowitz, CAConrad read in PHILLY 9/28
Mon 17 Sep 2007

If you're in Philly 9/28
come over to Robin's Bookstore 108 S. 13th St., at 6pm details here: http://CAConradEVENTS.blogspot.com

↑ Index

348. Thomas savage
Re: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
Mon 17 Sep 2007

Allen wrote a poem called "Mugging Poem" during which he was mugged and then talked to some neighbors and or potential witnesses. This obviously involved walking and or running a bit, if I remember correctly, although it's not the kind of, I suspect, peaceful meditative walk you're contemplating. That Allen's kept his presence of mind enough to write this poem of course is meditative, in another way. Anyway, there's another earlier poem of Allen's called At Apollinaire's Grave in which he visits Pere Lachaise in Paris. I think he walks around the cemetery looking for the grave he wants to and eventually visits. Is that a walking poem? Regards, Tom Savage

Joel Weishaus <[redacted]> wrote: Hi Stephen:

I don't know of any poems by Ginsberg or Creeley that come from a walk. You'd think that at least Ginsberg would have one. I did go on a walk with Allan, and Phil Whalen, one of the circumambulations of Mt. Tamalpais. Although Snyder wrote a poem on one of these walks (Allan wasn't on that one), as far as I know Ginsberg didn't. I mention the one with Allan on the first page of Reality Dreams: http://www.cddc.vt.edu/host/weishaus/Real/real-1.htm

Best,
Joel

Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 13:20:36 -0700
From: Stephen Vincent
Subject: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???

I am leading a "walking & writing" workshop this Fall at Stanford, using the campus as our 'site'. One of the places I want us to walk is into Special Collections, which has the Ginsberg and Creeley archives. It would be lovely to find - in advance - any poems by either poet that emerge out of a particular walk. And to have an original mss. available to see, explore.

I will appreciate any suggestions of titles - poems and/or journal pieces.

Thanks in advance,

Stephen Vincent

Pinpoint customers who are looking for what you sell.

↑ Index

349. Tom W. Lewis
Re: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
Mon 17 Sep 2007

---

read this message and got the line "walking back into the retreat house" in my head -- I don't know where this appears in AG's corpus, but the passage below was used on Hydrogen Jukebox, the Philip Glass/Ginsberg collaboration:

"Cabin In The Rockies"

Sitting on a tree stump with half cup of tea, sundown behind mountains -
Nothing to do.
Not a word! Not a word!
Flies do all my talking for me - and the wind says something else.
Fly on my nose,
I'm not the Buddha,
There's no enlightenment here!
In the half-light of dawn
A few birds warble

under the Pleiades.
An hour after dawn
I haven't thought of Buddha once yet!
- walking back into the retreat house.

-----Original Message-----
From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]]
On Behalf Of Thomas savage
Sent: Monday, September 17, 2007 10:00
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???

Allen wrote a poem called "Mugging Poem" during which he was mugged and then talked to some neighbors and or potential witnesses. This obviously involved walking and or running a bit, if I remember correctly, although it's not the kind of, I suspect, peaceful meditative walk you're contemplating. That Allen's kept his presence of mind enough to write this poem of course is meditative, in another way. Anyway, there's another earlier poem of Allen's called At Apollinaire's Grave in which he visits Pere Lachaise in Paris. I think he walks around the cemetery looking for the grave he wants to and eventually visits. Is that a walking poem? Regards, Tom Savage

Joel Weishaus <[redacted]> wrote: Hi Stephen:

I don't know of any poems by Ginsberg or Creeley that come from a walk. You'd think that at least Ginsberg would have one. I did go on a walk with Allan, and Phil Whalen, one of the circumambulations of Mt. Tamalpais. Although Snyder wrote a poem on one of these walks (Allan wasn't on that one), as far as I know Ginsberg didn't. I mention the one with Allan on the first page of Reality Dreams: http://www.cddc.vt.edu/host/weishaus/Real/real-1.htm

Best,
Joel

Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 13:20:36 -0700
From: Stephen Vincent
Subject: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???

I am leading a "walking & writing" workshop this Fall at Stanford, using the campus as our 'site'. One of the places I want us to walk is into Special Collections, which has the Ginsberg and Creeley archives. It would be lovely to find - in advance - any poems by either poet that emerge out of a particular walk. And to have an original mss. available to see, explore.

I will appreciate any suggestions of titles - poems and/or journal pieces.

Thanks in advance,

Stephen Vincent

Pinpoint customers who are looking for what you sell.

↑ Index

350. Ruth Lepson
Re: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
Mon 17 Sep 2007

---

if you include poems about going to creeley's burial place at tulip lane in mt Auburn Cemetery in Cambridge then you will prob have many other poems--incl ed sanders' poem in hanging loose last year.

On 9/17/07 10:59 AM, "Thomas savage" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Allen wrote a poem called "Mugging Poem" during which he was mugged and then talked to some neighbors and or potential witnesses. This obviously involved walking and or running a bit, if I remember correctly, although it's not the kind of, I suspect, peaceful meditative walk you're contemplating. That Allen's kept his presence of mind enough to write this poem of course is meditative, in another way. Anyway, there's another earlier poem of Allen's called At Apollinaire's Grave in which he visits Pere Lachaise in Paris. I think he walks around the cemetery looking for the grave he wants to and eventually visits. Is that a walking poem? Regards, Tom Savage
>
> Joel Weishaus <[redacted]> wrote: Hi Stephen:
>
> I don't know of any poems by Ginsberg or Creeley that come from a walk. You'd think that at least Ginsberg would have one. I did go on a walk with Allan, and Phil Whalen, one of the circumambulations of Mt. Tamalpais. Although Snyder wrote a poem on one of these walks (Allan wasn't on that one), as far as I know Ginsberg didn't. I mention the one with Allan on the first page of Reality Dreams: http://www.cddc.vt.edu/host/weishaus/Real/real-1.htm
>
> Best,
> Joel
>
> Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 13:20:36 -0700
> From: Stephen Vincent
> Subject: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
>
> I am leading a "walking & writing" workshop this Fall at Stanford, using the campus as our 'site'. One of the places I want us to walk is into Special Collections, which has the Ginsberg and Creeley archives.
> It would be lovely to find - in advance - any poems by either poet that emerge out of a particular walk. And to have an original mss. available to see,

> explore.
>
> I will appreciate any suggestions of titles - poems and/or journal pieces.
>
> Thanks in advance,
>
> Stephen Vincent
>
> ---
> Pinpoint customers who are looking for what you sell.

↑ Index

351. Skip Fox

Re: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???

Mon 17 Sep 2007

Creeley:

"The Book" in _The Gold Diggers_.

"Walking" and "The Circle (Houses in" in _Words_.

***

The following two texts discuss walking in Creeley:

Chung, Ling. "Predicaments in Robert Creeley's _Words_." _Concerning Poetry_ 2, no. 2 (Fall 1969): 32-35.

Collings, Raymond Douglas, Jr. "Four Short Story Writers from Black Mountain College." M.A. thesis, University of North Carolina, 1968.

***

In addition:

Jerome Mazzaro wrote of Creeley's stumbling in _Pieces_ (_Kenyon Review_ 32, no. 1 *(whole no. 128)(Spring 1970): 163-68.) as well as in _For Love_ and _Words_ ("Witnessing: Robert Creeley's 'I.'" _Crazyhourse_, no. 24 (Spring 1983): 59-78.

Other texts on his "practice stumbling" (N. Mackey) in terms of prose style, but that's not what you want, right?

-----Original Message-----
From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Thomas savage
Sent: Monday, September 17, 2007 10:00 AM

To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???

Allen wrote a poem called "Mugging Poem" during which he was mugged and then talked to some neighbors and or potential witnesses. This obviously involved walking and or running a bit, if I remember correctly, although it's not the kind of, I suspect, peaceful meditative walk you're contemplating. That Allen's kept his presence of mind enough to write this poem of course is meditative, in another way. Anyway, there's another earlier poem of Allen's called At Apollinaire's Grave in which he visits Pere Lachaise in Paris. I think he walks around the cemetery looking for the grave he wants to and eventually visits. Is that a walking poem? Regards, Tom Savage

Joel Weishaus <[redacted]> wrote: Hi Stephen:

I don't know of any poems by Ginsberg or Creeley that come from a walk. You'd think that at least Ginsberg would have one. I did go on a walk with Allan, and Phil Whalen, one of the circumambulations of Mt. Tamalpais. Although Snyder wrote a poem on one of these walks (Allan wasn't on that one), as far as I know Ginsberg didn't. I mention the one with Allan on the first page of Reality Dreams: http://www.cddc.vt.edu/host/weishaus/Real/real-1.htm

Best,
Joel

Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 13:20:36 -0700
From: Stephen Vincent
Subject: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???

I am leading a "walking & writing" workshop this Fall at Stanford, using the campus as our 'site'. One of the places I want us to walk is into Special Collections, which has the Ginsberg and Creeley archives. It would be lovely to find - in advance - any poems by either poet that emerge out of a particular walk. And to have an original mss. available to see, explore.

I will appreciate any suggestions of titles - poems and/or journal pieces.

Thanks in advance,

Stephen Vincent

Pinpoint customers who are looking for what you sell.

↑ Index

352. Poetics List
Forward on behalf of Michael Davidson
Mon 17 Sep 2007

Call for Papers:

"The Politics of Global Modernism: Revisiting Colonial Modernity"

39th Convention, Northeast Modern Language Association (NeMLA) April 10-13, 2008 Buffalo, New York

This panel proposes to examine the modernist cultural production of marginal territories falling outside the Paris-London-New York nexus. While contemporary criticism has emphasized the global dynamics of modernist aesthetics, dominant understandings of modernist internationalism seldom do away with the preponderance of Anglo-French models of cosmopolitanism, whose encounters with non-Western cultures more often than not reproduced imperialist, orientalist dynamics. We will investigate alternative forms of engagement with modernism on the part of marginalized artists, in particular in a colonial context dominated by exclusive concepts of Eurocentric modernity. How did marginalized cultural production from the colonies undermine the imperialist patterns of appropriation of "primitive" art and culture by mainstream modernism? In what forms did vernacular modernisms, which distanced themselves from the mere imitation of Euro-American models, emerge? How did these alternative understandings of modernity engage with issues of cultural difference on the global level? How do their contributions help (re)conceptualize the relations, contradictions, and genealogies of modernism and the modern? To what extent does their critical focus on the vernacular provide a revision of modernism that would successfully reflect the ever-shifting global dynamics of the concept? While "modernism" will be primarily understood in its aesthetic sense, papers investigating the intersection of vernacular cultural productions and the theoretical/political critique of modernity will be favored. Papers only addressing works and artists from the Euro-American tradition will not be considered. Please send 250-word abstracts and short CVs to Edwige Tamalet Talbayev, UC San Diego ([redacted]) by September 30, 2007.

Please include with your abstract:
Name and Affiliation Email address Postal address Telephone number
A/V requirements (if any)

The complete Call for Papers for the 2008 Convention will be posted in June: http://www.nemla.org. Interested participants may submit abstracts to more than one NeMLA panel; however panelists can only present one paper.

Convention participants may present at a paper session panel and also present at a creative session or participate in a roundtable.

↑ Index

353. Thomas Devaney
On Charles North's "Cadenza"
Mon 17 Sep 2007

Yesterday, 9/16/07, The Philadelphia Inquirer published a review I wrote on the poet Charles North's recent book "Cadenza" (Hanging Loose Press).

The headline in part, is: "Charles North's poems, complex but clear and conversational, invite everything to the game."

http://www.philly.com/inquirer/entertainment/books/20070916_Patter_up__Verse_that_covers_all_the_bases.html

-Thomas Devaney

My own new book of poems is called "A Series of Small Boxes" published by Fish Drum: http://www.spdbooks.org/Details.asp?BookID=9781929495115

↑ Index

354. Kevin Killian
Blaser reading in San Francisco last Sunday
Mon 17 Sep 2007

Sunday September 16 was the benefit for San Francisco State's august Poetry Center and featured Robin Blaser at Knuth Hall in the Creative Arts Building, rather a utilitarian auditorium well dressed by Steve Dickison and staff to give a feeling of warmth, even sumptuousness, and a vase on the floor startling with tall sunflowers. Blaser avoided the podium and sat with his material well marked in hand, in an orange jacket that picked up something of that eerie sunflower light.

Being 82 hasn't taken away much of Blaser's glamor or erudition, and he has always known how to switch up in the middle of a reading between the heights of cosmogony and a low, earthy humor like Sophie Tucker, and thus it was last night. He came partly to celebrate the new editions of his poems (THE HOLY FOREST) and essays (THE FIRE), and his reading ranged widely--he announced that he was happy to hear that new editions of the collected poems of Robert Duncan and Jack Spicer are on their way--

It was a thrill to hear Blaser read the “Great Companions: Robert Duncan” and also the letter “to Robin” that’s in Spicer’s “Admonitions.” (And three poems by Spicer, including 2 from "15 False Propositions Against God." Then we got to hear maybe half an hour's worth of his own work, new and old; and when I say "new,"there are apparently fourteen poems written within the past 10 months, and the ones we heard were crackerjack.

Many of the usual suspects were there, including Michael McClure, Michael Palmer, Norma Cole, Bob Gluck, Fran Herndon, David and Hilde Burton, Christopher Wagstaff, Ariel Parkinson, Mark Linenthal, dozens more—I got to meet Ken Bullock who was responsible for the super profile slash interview that had appeared in the Berkeley Daily Planet last week--and to which Ron Silliman linked on his blog. Lots of the gang from UC Press, who put out both THE FIRE and THE HOLY FOREST (forgive the Billy Joel like pun!) but also tons of young people which was so nice to see. Michael Smoler and Marcus had driven up from LA to be there at this event--and rousing rounds of applause which gratified Blaser—you could tell—to the point of tears, this crazy loud applause which I hadn't heard since I used to see Callas lecture at Juilliard in the early 70s. Made me feel quite an old hand it did! But afterwards I told Dodie I was convinced that this was not the last time we'd see Robin, far from it, he seems wonderfully fit and he'll be around for many years--don't ask me how I know--I flunked out of medical school--and I was only psychic one time--but come back to me in 10 years and you'll see, he'll still be stumping the States.

↑ Index

355. Rob McLennan

ottawa small press book fair (reminder)

Mon 17 Sep 2007

---

the ottawa small press book fair (fall edition)

will be happening Saturday, October 27, 2007 in room 203 of the Jack Purcell Community Centre (on Elgin, at 320 Jack Purcell Lane)

for more info on this or other book fairs around Canada (if you have one, let me know!) check out:

http://smallpressbookfair.blogspot.com/

-- poet/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...13th poetry coll'n - The Ottawa City Project .... 2007-8 writer in residence, U of Alberta * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

356. Jack Foley
Email Addresses for Donald Hall & Eliot Weinberger
Mon 17 Sep 2007

Does anyone know email addresses for Donald Hall &/or Eliot Weinberger?

↑ Index

357. Larissa Shmailo
Email for John Ashbery
Mon 17 Sep 2007

Please backchannel. Many thanks.

Larissa

Larissa Shmailo (http://myspace.com/larissaworld)
"The poet, like the lover, is a menace on the assembly line."
-Rollo May

http:// (http://larissashmailo.blogspot.com/)
www.myspace.com/thenonetworld (http://www.myspace.com/thenonetworld) http://larissashmailo.blogspot.com (http://larissashmailo.blogspot.com/)

* See what's new at http://www.aol.com

↑ Index

358. Susan Webster Schultz
Sidwalk (anti-war) blog news
Mon 17 Sep 2007

Sidewalk blogger news: 9/17/07

http://www.facebook.com/album.php?aid=6374&l=faa87&id=654553661

Go to the third page of the album, where the most recent signs are recorded, and click on each picture to get a larger image and each sign's story.

During this past week the sidewalk blogger

--put up a roadside memorial to the war dead (or some of them) --acquired a co-conspirator, L.S., who put up three signs on Kahekili Highway --put four signs up on two pedestrian bridges over major windward O`ahu roadways, the Likelike in Kane`ohe and Kalanianaole Highway in Kailua.

Aloha,

S.

↑ Index

359. Jesse Glass

Ahadada Presents Kittihood By The Pussipo Collective, A New E-Chapbook

Tue 18 Sep 2007

Catherine Daly and her Pussipo collaborators continue to deconstruct Hello Kitty in this wonderful, pink e-anthology. Cathy Eisenhower, Elisa Gabbert, Danielle Pafunda, and Kathrine Varnes all lend a paw and a claw, and it's perfectly free for the clicking at www.ahadadabooks.com. Enjoy! Jess

↑ Index

360. Alan Sondheim

Human modeling again (notes for a talk)

Tue 18 Sep 2007

(first section at http://www.asondheim.org/ph.txt)

Human modeling again (notes for a talk)

I think 4 aspects - psychoanalytics, avatar-skin, medical modeling, AI communality/behavior/sociality - to be considered.

Well: Avatar-skin: surface of being human which is always a fiction; there is no exacting boundary where body ends and environment begins (think of breath, other processes). So this is splines, Bezier curves, NURBs, early polygon work, etc. now automated by Poser etc. Avatar-skin also applies to audio (later touch, scent, taste, etc.) - everything perceived from one human or other organism to another.

Well: AI communality/behavior/sociality: the internally-automated behavior of the avatar-skin; think of this as diachronic avatar, and avatar-skin as synchronic; each moves through the other. With AI, avatar is somewhat spread across the social; communication and communality extend the opaque body (metaphorically) into the translucent. Fundamental rules of the 'game' tending towards description.

Well: Medical modeling: Both diachronic and synchronic, the projected/introjected organs of the avatar-skin, always on the level of a model, i.e. a beating heart is fabricated on a subtextual level again from poly- gons, curves, splines, etc. The ontology is different as long as one remains within the realm of computational modeling. (One might say that _inscription_ in the real is paralleled by _fissure_ in the virtual.) Medical modeling is fundamental description tending towards explanation.

Well: Psychoanalytics: Here is where the following have to be taken into account: 1. The abject: epistemological/ontological/inscriptive 'smears' across domains. Corrosive and irreducible to the other categories. 2. Introjection/projection ('jectivity') - formation of internalized images from virtual to real. 3. Obscenity and interjections: Breakdowns of communication within communication. Psychoanalytics are not susceptible to mathesis beyond topology. (Level of the metaphoric: No verification procedures.)

But of course all of this is rough, not exactly accurate; ontology and epistemology, various branches and techniques of mathematics, can be thrown around heedlessly. Still I'd want to begin from the four aspects described here: body/surface, psychoanalytics/'mind', AI/habitus, and medical/observation-experimentation. One would have to further consider the role of apparatus, observation, observer, in all of this.

One final note - the concern - that, with formal and informal modeling systems of organisms/physics/mathematics: How is consciousness in relation? In other words, _what are the effects on the reader/programmer/ experimenter? How do these relate to abjection and jectivity if at all?

↑ Index

361. Jim Andrews
Re: question
Tue 18 Sep 2007

> spider
> squid
> octopus
> ratking

thanks, jason.

'brush set' isn't as evocative as 'octopus' or 'ratking', but it conveys the concept better, and it dawned on me today that's mainly what the primary language around it has to do.

'mask set' would be accurate, because the 'brushes' are 'masks'. a 'mask' is a grayscale graphic that hides and reveals some other graphic, in various degrees of opacity, depending on the shades of grey in the 'mask'.

but 'mask set' is a bit esoteric.

'brush set' will give people something simple to begin with. it will get a bit more complicated and, hopefully, exciting from there; hopefully, it'll open into the creation of types of graphics no one has seen yet.

in transition from 'dbslideshow' to 'dbcinema'.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

362. Eireene Nealand

Re: Human modeling again (notes for a talk)

Tue 18 Sep 2007

Hey, interesting stuff. Hope to hear more about it as you go.

Sam Weber at UCLA, by the way, is doing some interesting related work on the skin as a sampling device, or a screen. and Wlad Godzich at UC Santa Cruz is working with the possibility of using the DNA metaphor for thinking about posthuman identity.

See also Steve Barker's book 'Autoaesthetics' which was quite early and so, sometimes limited but the first two chapters are quite good.

There is a lot, I think to be done in thinking about iterative identities. fluid dynamics and chaos theory are in some ways providing us with a real chance to break down all of these body/surface dualisms, (the brain, Godzich likes to say, is a very densely folded skin, made out of that same material, he says).

And the insects/swarms are realy related to all of this, right?

i had an idea about avatars, and why this possibility of being in multiple places at once, via virtuality, requires precisely if not an iterative way of thinking than at least a relativistic, comparative one, but it's a long story, moire patterns, duchamp. etc.

e

On 9/17/07, Alan Sondheim <[redacted]> wrote:
> (first section at http://www.asondheim.org/ph.txt)
>
>
> Human modeling again (notes for a talk)
>
>
> I think 4 aspects - psychoanalytics, avatar-skin, medical modeling, AI > communality/behavior/sociality - to be considered.
>
> Well: Avatar-skin: surface of being human which is always a fiction; there > is no exacting boundary where body ends and environment begins (think of > breath, other processes). So this is splines, Bezier curves, NURBs, early > polygon work, etc. now automated by Poser etc. Avatar-skin also applies to > audio (later touch, scent, taste, etc.) - everything perceived from one > human or other organism to another.
>

> Well: AI communality/behavior/sociality: the internally-automated behavior > of the avatar-skin; think of this as diachronic avatar, and avatar-skin as > synchronic; each moves through the other. With AI, avatar is somewhat > spread across the social; communication and communality extend the opaque > body (metaphorically) into the translucent.
> Fundamental rules of the 'game' tending towards description.
>
> Well: Medical modeling: Both diachronic and synchronic, the projected/> introjected organs of the avatar-skin, always on the level of a model,
> i.e. a beating heart is fabricated on a subtextual level again from poly-> gons, curves, splines, etc. The ontology is different as long as one > remains within the realm of computational modeling. (One might say that > _inscription_ in the real is paralleled by _fissure_ in the virtual.)
> Medical modeling is fundamental description tending towards explanation.
>
> Well: Psychoanalytics: Here is where the following have to be taken into > account:
> 1. The abject: epistemological/ontological/inscriptive 'smears' across > domains. Corrosive and irreducible to the other categories.
> 2. Introjection/projection ('jectivity') - formation of internalized > images from virtual to real.
> 3. Obscenity and interjections: Breakdowns of communication within > communication.
> Psychoanalytics are not susceptible to mathesis beyond topology.
> (Level of the metaphoric: No verification procedures.)
>
> But of course all of this is rough, not exactly accurate; ontology and > epistemology, various branches and techniques of mathematics, can be > thrown around heedlessly. Still I'd want to begin from the four aspects > described here: body/surface, psychoanalytics/'mind', AI/habitus, and > medical/observation-experimentation. One would have to further consider > the role of apparatus, observation, observer, in all of this.
>
> One final note - the concern - that, with formal and informal modeling > systems of organisms/physics/mathematics: How is consciousness in > relation? In other words, _what are the effects on the reader/programmer/> experimenter? How do these relate to abjection and jectivity if at all?
>

↑ Index

363. Sylvester Pollet
Walk poems
Tue 18 Sep 2007

Don't miss Allen's haiku:

Put on my shirt and took it off in the sun walking the path to lunch.

"221 Syllables at Rocky Mountain Dharma Center" (from White Shroud) best, Sylvester

On Sep 18, 2007, at 12:04 AM, POETICS automatic digest system wrote:

> Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 13:20:36 -0700
> From: Stephen Vincent=20
> Subject: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
>
> I am leading a "walking & writing" workshop this Fall at Stanford, > using =
> the > campus as our 'site'. One of the places I want us to walk is into = > Special
> Collections, which has the Ginsberg and Creeley archives.
> It would be lovely to find - in advance - any poems by either poet
> that > emerge out of a particular walk. And to have an original mss.
> available =
> to > see, explore.
>
> I will appreciate any suggestions of titles - poems and/or journal =
> pieces.
>
> Thanks in advance,
>
> Stephen Vincent

↑ Index

364. Dan Waber
FootHills Harvest reading Saturday 9-22
Tue 18 Sep 2007

FootHills Publishing
Wheeler Hill Harvest Reading
Saturday, September 22, 3:00 PM
At the Czarnecki Homestead on Wheeler Hill

Primitive (no indoor bathroom) and rustic, but beautiful setting.
Directions online -- www.foothillspublishing.com/wheeler

Featured Readers
Heather Thomas and
Dan Waber

Open Reading to follow

Heather Thomas is a professor of writing and literature at Kutztown University of Pennsylvania and an award-winning poet who also writes under the name H.T. Harrison. She is the author of five previous collections. Her first FootHills release, Blue Ruby, is forthcoming.

Dan Waber is a visual poet, concrete poet, sound poet, performance poet, publisher, editor, playwright and multimedia artist whose work has appeared in all sorts of delicious places. Echolalia is a collection of poems forthcoming from FootHills.

Homemade soup and conversation afterwards.
Feel free to bring along some simple food or beverage to place on the community table.

No admission but donations gratefully accepted.

For those coming a long distance feel free to stay the night before or after at our Wheeler Hill homestead. Campout or throw a sleeping bag on the floor. Please drop me a note or call ahead of time if you'd like to do so and I'll fill you in with more details.

Email or call for more info:
[redacted]

p.s. Actually a triple header event - the reading, the autumnal equinox and our 23rd wedding anniversary.

↑ Index

365. silviamiho
Re: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
Tue 18 Sep 2007

> I don't know if these are the kind of poems you are looking for, but there are some Creeley's poems like: " Walking", "Walking down a / walk," Walking down/ backward" ," Walking the dog" and also " They walk in and fall into". all of them in the " Collected poems-1945-1975.

silvia miho

if you include poems about going to creeley's burial place at tulip lane in > mt Auburn Cemetery in Cambridge then you will prob have many other > poems--incl ed sanders' poem in hanging loose last year.
>
>
> On 9/17/07 10:59 AM, "Thomas savage" wrote:
>
> > Allen wrote a poem called "Mugging Poem" during which he was mugged and then > > talked to some neighbors and or potential witnesses. This obviously involved > > walking and or running a bit, if I remember correctly, although it's not the > > kind of, I suspect, peaceful meditative walk you're contemplating. That > > Allen's kept his presence of mind enough to write this poem of course is > > meditative, in another way. Anyway, there's another earlier poem of Allen's > > called At Apollinaire's Grave in which he visits Pere Lachaise in Paris. I > > think he walks around the cemetery looking for the grave he wants to and > > eventually visits. Is that a walking poem? Regards, Tom Savage
> >
> > Joel Weishaus wrote: Hi Stephen:
> >
> > I don't know of any poems by Ginsberg or Creeley that come from a walk.
You'd > > think that at least Ginsberg would have one. I did go on a walk with Allan, > > and Phil Whalen, one of the circumambulations of Mt. Tamalpais. Although > > Snyder wrote a poem on one of these walks (Allan wasn't on that one), as far > > as I know Ginsberg didn't. I mention the one with Allan on the first page of > > Reality Dreams: http://www.cddc.vt.edu/host/weishaus/Real/real-1.htm
> >
> > Best,
> > Joel
> >
> >
> > Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 13:20:36 -0700
> > From: Stephen Vincent
> > Subject: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
> >
> > I am leading a "walking & writing" workshop this Fall at Stanford, using
the > > campus as our 'site'. One of the places I want us to walk is into Special > > Collections, which has the Ginsberg and Creeley archives.

> > It would be lovely to find - in advance - any poems by either poet that emerge > > out of a particular walk. And to have an original mss. available to see, > > explore.
> >
> > I will appreciate any suggestions of titles - poems and/or journal pieces.
> >
> > Thanks in advance,
> >
> > Stephen Vincent
> >
> >
> >
> > ---
> > Pinpoint customers who are looking for what you sell.

Sílvia Miho

↑ Index

366. Aryanil Mukherjee
New Interview of John Ashbery @ KAURAB
Tue 18 Sep 2007

Kaurab Online just published -
A new interview of John Ashbery

1. Go to - http://www.kaurab.com/english/
2. Click on Interviews

Or directly go to -

http://www.kaurab.com/english/ashbery.html

Thanks

Aryanil

↑ Index

367. Tom W. Lewis
Saint Paul Almanac Release Party this Thursday in Saint Paul
Tue 18 Sep 2007

---

forward from Kimberly Nightingale:

Saint Paul Almanac Release Party is on Thursday, September 20, 6-9 p.m.

Everyone is invited to the Saint Paul Almanac book release party, Thursday, Sept. 20, from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Black Dog Cafe & Wine Bar to celebrate the release of the 2008 Saint Paul Almanac. The Black Dog is in the heart of Lowertown, at 4th and Broadway in Downtown St. Paul, MN.

We're closing down the street just in front of the Black Dog, and the Rondo HalfPintz Drill Team, Irish dancers Scoil na DTri, Hmong cultural dancers and bagpiper Mike Breidenbach will be performing. Irv Williams will play his butter-smooth sax with pianist Aane Fosse. You can also street dance with the traditional folk band House Blend.

Many quintessential Saint Paul characters will mingle in the crowd, including the Winter Carnival Royalty, Klondike Kates, and Wabasha gangsters. Free appetizers will be served throughout the evening, and we'll have doorprizes from Saint Paul retailers.

This is a free, family friendly event.

The Saint Paul Almanac celebrates the stories, poetry, history and other writings related to Saint Paul and the people who've lived here.

This year's Almanac includes writing from Garrison Keillor, Alexs Pate, Carol Connolly, David Mura, Ethna McKiernan, Mahmoud El-Kati, Phebe Hanson, May Lee, and Brian Thao Worra.

We hope to see you there!

Best wishes,

Kimberly

Kimberly Nightingale
Publisher | Editor
Saint Paul Almanac

http://www.saintpaulalmanac.com/

see also:
http://minnesotan-ice.blogspot.com/2007/09/saint-paul-almanac-release-party.html#links

↑ Index

368. CA Conrad
3 readings in Philadelphia coming up...
Tue 18 Sep 2007

...actually there's also Rae Armantrout reading this Thursday at the Kelly Writers House on the Penn campus at 6pm, but that one seems to have gotten lots of coverage.

At first I wasn't sure if I could get this link to stick, but this is a link which then links up the 3 readings I was talking about:

http://phillysound.blogspot.com/
2007_09_01_archive.html#4591888565630502584#4591888565630502584

I think this works! If it does not work, just go to The PhillySound and scroll to Sunday, 9/16
http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

If you're in Philadelphia in September there's poetry every week, somewhere.
CAConrad

↑ Index

369. Michael Heller
(no subject)
Tue 18 Sep 2007

--=======AVGMAIL-46EFFA8D248F======Content-Type: text/plain; charset=us-ascii; format=flowed; x-avg-checked=avg-ok-751D4E90

My "Beckmann Variations," a critico-poetic mixed genre piece which I read at Birkbeck College this Spring has appeared in the latest issue of New England Review (Vol 28, No. 3/2007).

Apologies for any cross-posting.

MH

---------- Uncertain Poetries: Essays on Poets, Poetry and Poetics (2005) and Exigent Futures: New and Selected Poems (2003) available at www.saltpublishing.com, amazon.com and good bookstores. Survey of work at: http://www.thing.net/~grist/ld/heller.htm Collaborations with Ellen Fishman Johnson at:
http://www.efjcomposer.com/EFJ/Collaborations.html --=======AVGMAIL-46EFFA8D248F======Content-Type: text/plain; x-avgÎrt; charset=us-ascii; x-avg-checked=avg-ok-751D4E90 Content-Description: "AVG certification"

No virus found in this outgoing message.
Checked by AVG Free Edition.
Version: 7.5.487 / Virus Database: 269.13.22/1015 - Release Date: 9/18/2007
11:53 AM

--=======AVGMAIL-46EFFA8D248F=======--

↑ Index

370. Mark Prejsnar
Language Harm tonite
Tue 18 Sep 2007

for those in or near north Georgia:

every other month the Atlanta Poets Group presents

Language Harm, the south's premier poetry performance event

tonight:

The Poetical is the Political with special guest star Megan Volpert

at Eyedrum
290 Martin Luther King Jr, Drive
(3 blocks east of Oakland Cemetary)

8:00 pm
$5 (for non-Eyedrum members)

www.eyedrum.org

www.atlantapoetsgroup.blogspot.com

↑ Index

371. kevin thurston upcoming readings in buffalo
Tue 18 Sep 2007

this thursday:
9/20 barbara cole & jay millAr
7 pm rust belt books, 202 allen st

next week:
9/27 'this aint the chicago review'
sean bonney, sophie robinson, ric royer & frances kruk
7 pm rust belt books, 202 allen st

9/28 academic trilogy: pilot, damn the caesars & p-queue launch 7 pm adam mickiewicz library, 628 fillmore

--
author of How to Irritate Friends & Isolate People

http://fuckinglies.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

372. David Chirot
Fwd: Kaurab Online-22 is Out (link to cover & table of contents)
Tue 18 Sep 2007

Dear Reader

Our new online issue (No.22) is out there for you.

Please visit www.kaurab.com and click on the cover design of the new issue.

This issue highlights –

a) Poems by Yashodhara Raychaudhuri, Abhijit Mitra, Soumana Dasgupta, Afroza Soma, Shouva Chattopadhyay, Sabbir Azam, Piu Roy and Subhro Bandopadhyay

b) Hospital Poem Series by Barin Ghosal and Santanu Bandopadhyay

c) Rub-Art (cover) on Indian Summer by David Baptiste Chirot based on a poem by Sabyasachi Sanyal double click cover image to read the poem and its "Indian Summer" response

d) Chhaayaashabda: Bread Art by Debesh Goswami

e) The Poetry of John Ashbery by Aryanil Mukhopadhyay

The new print issue of Kaurab (No.104) has also hit the stands in Kolkata and is available for purchase online.

Enjoy and please send us your comments and critique.

Thanks

Staff, KAURAB

↑ Index

373. Grant Jenkins
Bookstore List
Tue 18 Sep 2007

I've posted the compiled list of innovative-friendly bookstores in North America and the UK to my blog <http://blog.myspace.com/grantjenkins>. It can also be permanently found on my profile page <http://www.myspace.com/grantjenkins>. If you have more to add, please email me backchannel.

Grant
--

G. Matthew Jenkins
Director of the Writing Program

Faculty of English Language & Literature
The University of Tulsa
Tulsa, OK 74104
[redacted]

↑ Index

374. L Guevarra
University of California Press Annual Online Sale
Tue 18 Sep 2007

The Dirt Cheap Online Book Sale begins today!

Over 3,000 of our titles are being sold at dirt cheap prices! Dig through our vast selection of deeply discounted titles at http://go.ucpress.edu/sale07list.

In order to obtain the discount price you must either sign up for the UC Press eNews weekly newsletter or download an RSS feed. To sign up for the eNews or RSS go to our website at http://www.ucpress.edu and there you can sign up for either services.

Enjoy!

--
Lolita Guevarra
Electronic Marketing Coordinator
University of California Press
Tel. [redacted] | Fax [redacted]
[redacted]

*Sale ends October 31, 2007. Sale prices not available in countries of Europe, Africa, India and the Middle East. *Additional discounts over and above the sale price will not be honored, eg. authors and employees. All orders must be placed online.

↑ Index

375. steve russell
Re: Denis Johnson
Tue 18 Sep 2007

Sheila, it's good to hear from another Denis Johnson devote. I picked up a copy of The Incognito Lounge over, I think, 2 decades ago when I was miserable and living in Jacksonville, Florida. I got the book from the library. I picked it up because I thought it had a cool cover. I've been reading Johnson ever since. I haven't read the 'Nam novel yet, but I've heard it referred to as a "masterpiece" on more then a few occasions. It is interesting how the best poetry stays with you over the years. Having come across his work by chance is the sort of thing that normally happens in a Paul Auster novel. Johnson's poetry helped convince me to leave Jacksonville. I haven't regretted that decision. Take care,

Steve Russell

Sheila Murphy <[redacted]> wrote:
Steve, When The Incognito Lounge came out (it's named after a place very close to here), I memorized the whole title poem, and continue to celebrate many of the pieces in that book. The feel of the poems included changes across years, but I have always loved it - just in different ways. I knew Denis a bit when he was here in the Valley, and joined him and others in a writing group occasionally.

He is indeed poetic and visionary as a novelist, as well. Looking forward to the new novel. Well received so far.

Regarding Harrison, his ghazals are splendid, and I've read most of his work, also.

I can see why you are taken with the work of these two, in addition to Auster's whose work are less directly familiar to me at this time (but it won't be too long).

Sheila Murphy

----- Original Message ----
From: POETICS automatic digest system

To: [redacted]
Sent: Saturday, September 15, 2007 9:04:52 PM
Subject: POETICS Digest - 14 Sep 2007 to 15 Sep 2007 (#2007-258)

There are 14 messages totalling 1119 lines in this issue.

Topics of the day:

1. Denis Johnson/Jim Harrison/Paul Auster
2. Fwd: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration—Jo hns Hopkins University Oct. 24-27 2007
3. theory. the real. death.
4. September 20: Bonney and Kruk at Test (Toronto)
5. New Beard of Bees Human Chapbook
6. Bill Griffiths
7. Callaloo 30th anniversary celebrationâ€”Jo hns Hopkins University Oct. 24-27 2007
8. Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
9. POETICS Digest - 13 Sep 2007 to 14 Sep 2007 (#2007-257)

10. Frustration
11. 1913's Rozanova Prize announcement
12. NYC Prose Reading
13. Notice: Mudlark
14. Machlin/Solomon Book Party @ Zinc Bar NYC 9/16

Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 16:30:58 -0700
From: steve russell

Subject: Denis Johnson/Jim Harrison/Paul Auster

Denis Johnson has just published a new novel, The Tree of Smoke. I love the guys work. Anyone read Jesus' Son, or his poetry collected in The Incognito Lounge? He's in the same league with Jim Harrison and Paul Auster. These 3 are visionary authors. They've each written major work in fiction and poetry, as well as first rate short stories and plays. Great writers.

Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search that gives answers, not web links.

Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 19:19:14 -0400
From: Tisa Bryant
Subject: Fwd: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration=?WINDOWS-1252?Q?—Jo?= hns Hopkins University Oct. 24-27 2007

FYI

_____

My concern is never art, but always what art can be used for.

Gerhard Richter

Begin forwarded message:

> Subject: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration—Johns Hopkins University Oct. 24-27 2007
>
> With poetry and fiction readings, lectures, conversations, and panel discussions at Johns Hopkins University, this celebration of Callaloo's thirty years of continuous publication will bring together a group of the USA's best creative writers, intellectuals, academics, and artists to launch the journal into the next thirty years. Some of the more than 100 creative writers and scholars who will be reading and engaging in public discussions on writing creative texts and writing on these and other texts and the culture from which they derive include: Carole Boyce Davies, Lucille Clifton, Thadious Davis,

Eddie Glaude, Brent Edwards, Thomas Sayers Ellis, Thomas Glave, Farah Griffin, Trudier Harris, Yusef Komunyakaa, Wyhneema Lubiano, Paule Marshall, John McCluskey, Mark Anthony Neal, Carl Phillips, Tracy K. Smith, Natasha Trethewey, John Edgar Wideman, and many others.

Please find below links to the Center for Africana Studies at Johns Hopkins, the Callaloo conference homepage, online registration information, and the conference program. We hope to see you there.

—Callaloo Conference Planning Committee

http://web.jhu.edu/africana
http://callaloo.tamu.edu/conference.html
http://www.regonline.com/Checkin.asp?EventId=143619

THE 30th ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION OF CALLALOO

October 24-27, 2007

Hosted by the Center for Africana Studies, Johns Hopkins University Baltimore, Maryland

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 24

7:00 PM

Welcome—Amanda Anderson (Chairperson, Department of English, Johns Hopkins University)

Master of Ceremony: Ben Vinson III (Director, Center for Africana Studies, Johns Hopkins University)

The Occasion: Trudier Harris (University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill)

Comments & Acknowledgements: Charles Henry Rowell (Texas A&M University, College Station)

7:30 PM—Keynote Conversation: Black Studies, the Academy, & Contemporary Black Communities

MC: Ben Vinson III

Panel: Eddie Glaude (Princeton University), James Turner (Cornell University), William Strickland (University of Massachusetts, Amherst), Wahneema H. Lubiano (Duke University), & Suzette Spencer (University of Wisconsin, Madison)

Moderator: Farah Griffin, Columbia University

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25

9:00-10:30 AM—Henry Louis Gates' The Signifying Monkey after (Almost) Twenty Years

Panel: Joyce Ann Joyce (Temple University), Abdul JanMohammed (University of California, Berkeley), Mark Anthony Neal (Duke University), Zita Nunes (University of Maryland, College Park), & Fred Moten (Duke University)

Moderator: Michael Collins (Texas A&M University, College Station)

11:00-12:30 PM—African American Literary Studies and the Feminist Critique after The Color Purple

Panel: Susan Fraiman (University of Virginia), Daphne Brooks (Princeton), Deborah Grey White (Rutgers University), Kim Hall, (Barnard College), Keith Mitchell (University of Massachusetts at Lowell), Lovalearie King (Pennsylvania State University), & Carmen Gillespie (Bucknell University)

Moderator: Cheryl Wall (Rutgers University)

12:30-1:30 PM Lunch

2:00 PM-3:00PM—Writing & Publishing Fiction in the USA

Panel: Touré, Jewel Parker Rhodes (Arizona State University), Randall Kenan (University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill), Martha Southgate (Brooklyn College), & David Wright (University of Illinois, Urban-Chapaign)

Moderator: John McCluskey (Indiana University, Bloomington)

3:30 PM-4:30 PM—Fiction Readings: Emerging Writers Reading

Panel: Emily Rabateau, Tayari Jones, & Mat Johnson

MC: Neil Roberts (Johns Hopkins University)

8:00 PM—Fiction & Poetry Readings

Readers: Paule Marshall (New York University) & Lucille Clifton (St. Mary's College, Maryland)

MC: Trudier Harris (University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill)
Welcome: David Taft Terry
Director, The Reginald Lewis Museum

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 26

9:00-10:30 AM—Querying the Black Diaspora

Panel: Brent Edwards (Columbia University), Carole Boyce Davies (Cornell University), Jennifer Wilks (University of Texas, Austin), Zita Nunes (University of Maryland, College Park), & Suzette Spencer (University of Wisconsin)

Moderator: Shona Jackson (Texas A&M University, College Station)

11:00-12:30 PM—Caribbean Writers in the United States: Other Black Diasporas

Presentation: Fred D'Aguiar (Virginia Tech, Blacksburg)

Panel: Sandra Paquet (University of Miami), Daryl Dance (University of Richmond, VA), Carrol F. Coates (State University of New York, Binghamton), Veronica Gregg (Hunter College), Thomas Glave (State of New York, Binghamton)

Moderator: Nelly Rosario (Texas State University, San Marcos)

12:30-1:30 PM Lunch

2:00 PM-3:00PM—Writing and Publishing Poetry in the USA

Presentation: Thomas Sayers Ellis (Sarah Lawrence College)

Panel: Carl Phillips (Washington University, St. Louis), Kendra Hamilton (University of Virginia), Erica Hunt, Lyrae Van-Clief Stefanon, Gerald Barrax (North Carolina State University)

Moderator: Dante Micheaux (New York University)

3:30 PM-4:30 PM—Poetry & the Legacy of the Black Arts Movement in the USA

Presentation: Sonia Sanchez (Temple University)

Respondents: Cheryl Clarke (Rutgers University), David Lionel Smith (Williams College), Gene Andrew Jarrett (Boston University), James Edward Smethurst (University of Massachusetts, Amherst), and Meta D.

Jones (University of Texas, Austin)

Moderator: Margo Natalie Crawford (Indiana University, Bloomington)

8:00 PM—Poetry Readings

Poets Reading: Natasha Trethewey (Emory University), Yusef Komunyakaa (New York University), & Carl Phillips (Washington University, St. Louis)

Welcome / MC: Adam Falk, Dean of Arts and Sciences, Johns Hopkins University

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27

9:30-10:30 AM—Academic Editing and Publishing: The Johns Hopkins University Press

One representative from the Book Division
One representative from the Journals Division

11:00-12:00 PM—Callaloo's Art

Panel: Cherise Smith (University of Texas), Annette Lawrence (North Texas State University, Denton), Alvia Wardlaw, (Museum of Fine Arts, Houston), Valerie Cassel Oliver (Contemporary Arts Museum, Houston), & Franklin Sirmans (The Menil Collection, Houston), & Meta Ewa Jones

Moderator: Stephen Carpenter (Texas A&M University, College Station)

12:00-1:30 PM Lunch

2:00-3:30 PM—Poets Reading

Van Jordan (University of Texas, Austin), Major Jackson (University of Vermont), Tracy K. Smith (Princeton University), Dawn Lundy Martin (University of Massachusetts), & Terrance Hayes (Carnegie Mellon University)

MC: Kyle G. Dargan (American University)

5:30-7:00 PM—Final Keynote Conversation / African American Literary and Cultural Studies: The Present and the Future

Panel: Brent Edwards (Columbia), Meta Jones (University of Texas, Austin), Keith Leonard (American University), Michelle Wright

> (University of Minnesota), Ivy Wilson (Notre Dame University), Marlon Ross (University of Virginia), Fred Moten (Duke University)
>
> Moderator: Thadious Davis (University of Pennsylvania)
>
> 7:30-8:00 PM—Fiction Writer Reading: John Edgar Wideman
>
> Introduction: Daniel Jerome Wideman
>
> MC: Kyle Dargan
>
> 8:15-9:30 PM—Cocktails, Dinner, and Closing Remarks
>
> Dinner (Conference participants and invited guests.)
>
> Closing Remarks: Kyle Dargan, Managing Editor, Callaloo; Ben Vinson, Director of Africana Studies; Johns Hopkins University; Charles Henry Rowell, Editor of Callaloo
>
> 9:30 PM-Until—Loving Callaloo/Stomping the Blues
>
> Celebration with live music, dance, drinks, etc.

Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 20:29:32 -0400
From: Alan Sondheim
Subject: theory. the real. death.

theory. the real. death.

Torture is senseless violence, born in fear. The purpose of it is to force from one tongue, amid its screams and its vomiting up of blood, the secret of _everything._ Senseless violence: whether the victim talks or whether he dies under his agony, the secret that he cannot tell is always some- where else and out of reach. It is the executioner who becomes Sisyphus. If he puts _the question_ at all, he will have to continue forever.

Sartre (in the afterword to Henri Alleg, The Question, 1958)

Experiment solitary touching the impossibility of annihilation.

100. There is nothing more certain in nature than that it is impossible for any body to be utterly annihilated; but that as it was the work of the omnipotency of God to make somewhat of nothing, so it requireth the like omnipotency to turn somewhat into nothing. And therefore it is well said by an obscure writer of the sect of the chemists, that there is no such way to effect the strange transmutations of bodies, as to endevour and urge by all means the reducing of them to nothing. And herein is contained also a great secret of preservation of bodies from change; for if you can prohibit, that they neither turn into air, because no air cometh to them; nor go into the bodies adjacent, because they are utterly heterogeneal; nor make a round and circulation within themselves; they will never change, though they be in their nature never so perishable or mutable.

from Francis Bacon, Sylva Sylvarum or A Natural History, 1627

Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 21:33:45 -0400
From: Mark Truscott
Subject: September 20: Bonney and Kruk at Test (Toronto)

Dear friends of the Test Reading Series,

Indeed, it's been a while. We are now ready, however, to unveil the first three months of the fall season of our programming, beginning this coming Thursday of all days. Yikes.

Please mark those calendars.

Thursday, 20 September 2007, 8:00 p.m. (note new start time)
SEAN BONNEY and FRANCES KRUK (bios below)
Mercer Union, A Centre for Contemporary Art
37 Lisgar Street, Toronto
Free, free as the wind (though we still take donations)

More info, links to samples of our readers' work, and recordings of previous readings at www.testreading.org.

Thanks, as always, to the good people at Mercer Union for the support. Why not visit them online (www.mercerunion.org) to see what they're up to?

Coming up:

25 October: Trevor Joyce and the Max Middle Sound Project
29 November: Oana Avasilichioaei and Angela Carr

Hope to see you there,

Mark

****

SEAN BONNEY's selected poems, Blade Pitch Control Unit, were published by Salt in 2005. Since then he has produced Document:Hexprogress, Black Water and an ongoing set of versions of Baudelaire. His work has been translated into French, Spanish, and Icelandic. He lives in London and edits the lo-fi press yt communication with Frances Kruk.

FRANCES KRUK is a dual Polish-Canadian ex-pat currently undertaking doctoral research at the University of London (UK). She works in noise, words, and paint, and edits yt communication with Sean Bonney.

Date: Sat, 15 Sep 2007 09:53:19 -0500
From: Eric Elshtain
Subject: New Beard of Bees Human Chapbook

Beard of Bees Press is proud to present Life & Style by Marie Buck, a chapbook consisting of poems constructed with language from MySpace profiles--language that has, in turn, been rendered into the poetic forms & styles of such poets as Wyatt & Dickinson.

These poems will make you giddy, or your money back!

http://www.beardofbees.com/buck.html

Yours,

Eric Elshtain
Editor
Beard of Bees Press
http://www.beardofbees.com

Date: Sat, 15 Sep 2007 11:08:07 -0400
From: William James Austin
Subject: Re: Bill Griffiths

Shit!!Â Another "brilliant" gone to ground.Â We'll miss you, Bill.Â Best, Bill

-----Original Message-----
From: mIEKAL aND

To: [redacted]
Sent: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 5:59 pm
Subject: Bill Griffiths

via Tom Raworth's website:Â
Â
"Bill GriffithsÂ
Â
A short and by inference shocking note from Tom Pickard at dawn:
Iâ€™massuming Bill Griffiths is dead. Bill was a genuine in a poetic and academic world of mostly arseholes.Â
Â
Â he was in hospital last week but discharged himself and went to do his dialect gig at the tower on Saturday but felt so ill he went yem half way through. I think it was a heart attack as he was found with the radio and tvand computer on. Heâ€™ll be badly missedâ€“such an asset to this region and a good comrade, like they say.Â

Â
We exchanged notes only a week ago, about his Dialect talks at the Mordern Tower: his last words:Â
Â
Â Well, the first year we had about 5 visitors (by mistake?), 2nd year about 20 genuine callers, this yearâ€¦whee knaas? Perhaps a riot over how to pronounce the word butterlowey, with defenestrations and arrows arc-ing ower the ramparts.Â
Â Assuming I get there myself. Prostate seems to be growing unduly, my photo must be on every CCTV in every public convenience in the region. Am due an op â€œin the next six monthsâ€ but they have a grand senseof humour up here.Â
Â Hope celebrity Cambridge suits ye still. A friendâ€™s mother lives in Trumpington, which is a bend in the road and a few houses and an admirable church. She is now an old widow with a cat, how about that!Â
Â Have run out of rhymes, but save some up for Saturday,Â Â seeya onedayÂ
Â BillÂ
Â
We wonâ€™t, Bill: and I fucking regret it."Â
Â
Here's his Wikipedia page:Â
Â
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Bill_GriffithsÂ

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

---

Date: Sat, 15 Sep 2007 11:57:25 -0400
From: Bobbi Lurie
Subject: Re: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration=?utf-8?Q?â€”Jo?= hns Hopkins University Oct. 24-27 2007

hey, me too, Gerhard Richter. thanks a lot. love, bobbi

-----Original Message-----
From: Tisa Bryant
To: [redacted]
Sent: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 5:19 pm

Subject: Fwd: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebrationâ€”Jo hns Hopkins University Oct. 24-27 2007

FYIÂ
_____Â
Â
My concern is never art, but always what art can be used for.Â
Â
Gerhard RichterÂ
Â
Â
Begin forwarded message:Â
Â
> Subject: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebrationâ€”Johns Hopkins > University Oct. 24-27 2007Â
>Â
>Â
> With poetry and fiction readings, lectures, conversations, and panel > discussions at Johns Hopkins University, this celebration of > Callaloo's thirty years of continuous publication will bring together > a group of the USA'sbest creative writers, intellectuals, academics, > and artists to launch the journal into the next thirty years.Â Â Some of > the more than 100creative writers and scholars who will be reading > and engaging in public discussions on writing creative texts and > writing on these and other textsand the culture from which they > derive include: Carole Boyce Davies, Lucille Clifton, Thadious Davis, > Eddie Glaude,Â Â Brent Edwards, Thomas Sayers Ellis, Thomas Glave, Farah > Griffin, Trudier Harris, Yusef Komunyakaa, Wyhneema Lubiano, Paule > Marshall, John McCluskey, Mark Anthony Neal, Carl Phillips, Tracy K. > Smith, Natasha Trethewey, John Edgar Wideman, and many others.Â
>Â
> Please find below links to the Center for Africana Studies at Johns > Hopkins, the Callaloo conference homepage, online registration > information, and the conference program.Â Â We hope to see you there.Â
>Â
> â€”Callaloo Conference Planning CommitteeÂ
>Â
> http://web.jhu.edu/africanaÂ
> http://callaloo.tamu.edu/conference.htmlÂ
> http://www.regonline.com/Checkin.asp?EventId=143619Â
>Â
> THE 30th ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION OF CALLALOOÂ
>Â

> October 24-27, 2007Â
>Â
> Hosted by the Center for Africana Studies, Johns Hopkins University > Baltimore, MarylandÂ
>Â
> WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 24Â
>Â
> 7:00 PMÂ
>Â
> Welcomeâ€”Amanda Anderson (Chairperson, Department of English, JohnsÂ > Hopkins University)Â
>Â
> Master of Ceremony:Â Â Ben Vinson III (Director, Center for Africana > Studies,Â > Johns Hopkins University)Â
>Â
> The Occasion:Â Â Trudier Harris (University of North Carolina, Cha
=== message truncated ==

Catch up on fall's hot new shows on Yahoo! TV. Watch previews, get listings, and more!

↑ Index

376. Bobbi Lurie
Re: Bookstore List
Tue 18 Sep 2007

Dear Grant,
thank you so much for compiling this!--it's so hard to keep track of how many independent bookstores are closing--it's happening so fast--thanks for the help with finding out how many are still open.
Bobbi Lurie

-----Original Message-----
From: Grant Jenkins <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Tue, 18 Sep 2007 12:02 pm
Subject: Bookstore List

I've posted the compiled list of innovative-friendly bookstores in North America and the UK to my blog <http://blog.myspace.com/grantjenkins>. It can also be permanently found on my profile page <http://www.myspace.com/grantjenkins>. If you have more to add, please email me backchannel.?

?
Grant?
-- ?
G. Matthew Jenkins?
Director of the Writing Program?
Faculty of English Language & Literature?
The University of Tulsa?
Tulsa, OK 74104?
[redacted]?

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

377. Rob McLennan
Jonathan Meakin, Douglas Barbour + Sheila Murphy
Tue 18 Sep 2007

An evening of poetry with Jonathan Meakin (Edmonton)

and Continuations o-authors
Douglas Barbour (Edmonton)
+ Sheila Murphy (Phoenix AZ)

7:30pm, Thursday September 20
Hulbert's Cafe, 7601-115 Street, Edmonton Alberta recent interview with Douglas Barbour:

http://albertawriting.blogspot.com/2007/09/12-or-20-questions-with-douglas-barbour.html recent interview with Sheila Murphy:

http://12or20questions.blogspot.com/2007/09/12-or-20-questions-with-sheila-e-murphy.html

information on Continuations:
http://www.uap.ualberta.ca/UAP.asp?LID=41&bookID=664

come early! seating limited!

-- poet/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...13th poetry coll'n - The Ottawa City Project .... 2007-8 writer in residence, U of Alberta * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

378. Christophe Casamassima
Re: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
Tue 18 Sep 2007

Also Milton, going blind, recited, what? Paradise Lost to his daughter? Or something? Like...

> ----- Original Message -----
> From: "Joel Weishaus" <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
> Date: Sat, 15 Sep 2007 08:31:57 -0800
>
> Hi Stephen:
>
> I don't know of any poems by Ginsberg or Creeley that come from a walk. You'd think that at least Ginsberg would have one. I did go on a walk with Allan, and Phil Whalen, one of the circumambulations of Mt. Tamalpais. Although Snyder wrote a poem on one of these walks (Allan wasn't on that one), as far as I know Ginsberg didn't. I mention the one with Allan on the first page of Reality Dreams: http://www.cddc.vt.edu/host/weishaus/Real/real-1.htm
>
> Best,
> Joel
>
> Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 13:20:36 -0700
> From: Stephen Vincent <[redacted]>
> Subject: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
>
> I am leading a "walking & writing" workshop this Fall at Stanford, using the campus as our 'site'. One of the places I want us to walk is into Special Collections, which has the Ginsberg and Creeley archives.
> It would be lovely to find - in advance - any poems by either poet that emerge out of a particular walk. And to have an original mss. available to see, explore.
>
> I will appreciate any suggestions of titles - poems and/or journal pieces.
>
> Thanks in advance,
>
> Stephen Vincent

=
Pangaea Carpets - Unique Area Rugs
Your trusted source for Endless Knot, Tibet Rug Company, Samad, E'bella, Rugs by Robinson and more. Compare our prices on Rugs that stand apart from the ordinary.
http://a8-asy.a8ww.net/a8-ads/adftrclick?redirectid=6916b28cc702b2664aa1b7499d90a84a

--
Powered By Outblaze

↑ Index

379. linda norton
Re: Denis Johnson
Tue 18 Sep 2007

One of my favorite writers also. One line from the title story of JESUS SON stands out: the drug-addled narrator, no hero, finds himself alive in the midst of gore after a car crash. In response to some request for help that he cannot accommodate (too stoned), he says(I'm paraphrasing slightly), "Like I'm the president of this tragedy."

My copy of the book is at my office or I'd look it up. Better yet, everyone read the story to find the actual quote.

I've thought about this line many times in the last seven years.

Linda

-----Original Message-----
>From: steve russell <[redacted]>
>Sent: Sep 18, 2007 12:22 PM
>To: [redacted]
>Subject: Re: Denis Johnson
>
>Sheila, it's good to hear from another Denis Johnson devote. I picked up a copy of The Incognito Lounge over, I think, 2 decades ago when I was miserable and living in Jacksonville, Florida. I got the book from the library. I picked it up because I thought it had a cool cover. I've been reading Johnson ever since. I haven't read the 'Nam novel yet, but I've heard it referred to as a "masterpiece" on more then a few occasions. It is interesting how the best poetry stays with you over the years. Having come across his work by chance is the sort of thing that normally happens in a Paul Auster novel. Johnson's poetry helped convince me to leave Jacksonville. I haven't regretted that decision. Take care,
> Steve Russell

>
>Sheila Murphy <[redacted]> wrote:
> Steve, When The Incognito Lounge came out (it's named after a place very close to here), I memorized the whole title poem, and continue to celebrate many of the pieces in that book. The feel of the poems included changes across years, but I have always loved it - just in different ways. I knew Denis a bit when he was here in the Valley, and joined him and others in a writing group occasionally.
>
>He is indeed poetic and visionary as a novelist, as well. Looking forward to the new novel. Well received so far.
>
>Regarding Harrison, his ghazals are splendid, and I've read most of his work, also.
>
>I can see why you are taken with the work of these two, in addition to Auster's whose work are less directly familiar to me at this time (but it won't be too long).
>
>Sheila Murphy
>
>
>----- Original Message ----
>From: POETICS automatic digest system
>
>To: [redacted]
>Sent: Saturday, September 15, 2007 9:04:52 PM
>Subject: POETICS Digest - 14 Sep 2007 to 15 Sep 2007 (#2007-258)
>
>
>There are 14 messages totalling 1119 lines in this issue.
>
>Topics of the day:
>
>1. Denis Johnson/Jim Harrison/Paul Auster
>2. Fwd: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebrationâ€”Jo hns Hopkins University Oct.
>24-27 2007
>3. theory. the real. death.
>4. September 20: Bonney and Kruk at Test (Toronto)
>5. New Beard of Bees Human Chapbook
>6. Bill Griffiths

>7. Callaloo 30th anniversary celebrationÃ¢â,¬â€Jo hns Hopkins University Oct.
>24-27 2007
>8. Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
>9. POETICS Digest - 13 Sep 2007 to 14 Sep 2007 (#2007-257)
>10. Frustration
>11. 1913's Rozanova Prize announcement
>12. NYC Prose Reading
>13. Notice: Mudlark
>14. Machlin/Solomon Book Party @ Zinc Bar NYC 9/16
>
>----------
>
>Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 16:30:58 -0700
>From: steve russell
>
>Subject: Denis Johnson/Jim Harrison/Paul Auster
>
>Denis Johnson has just published a new novel, The Tree of Smoke. I love the guys work. Anyone read Jesus' Son, or his poetry collected in The Incognito Lounge? He's in the same league with Jim Harrison and Paul Auster. These 3 are visionary authors. They've each written major work in fiction and poetry, as well as first rate short stories and plays. Great writers.
>
>
>----------
>Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search that gives answers, not web links.
>
>----------
>
>Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 19:19:14 -0400
>From: Tisa Bryant
>Subject: Fwd: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration=?WINDOWS-1252?Q?=97Jo?= hns Hopkins University Oct. 24-27 2007
>
>FYI
>_____
>
>My concern is never art, but always what art can be used for.
>
>Gerhard Richter
>

>
>
>Begin forwarded message:
>
>> Subject: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration=97Johns Hopkins=20 >> University Oct. 24-27 2007
>>
>>
>> With poetry and fiction readings, lectures, conversations, and panel=20=
>
>> discussions at Johns Hopkins University, this celebration of=20
>> Callaloo's thirty years of continuous publication will bring together=20=
>
>> a group of the USA's best creative writers, intellectuals, academics,=20=
>
>> and artists to launch the journal into the next thirty years.=A0=A0Some =
>of=20
>> the more than 100 creative writers and scholars who will be reading=20
>> and engaging in public discussions on writing creative texts and=20 >> writing on these and other texts and the culture from which they=20
>> derive include: Carole Boyce Davies, Lucille Clifton, Thadious Davis,=20=
>
>> Eddie Glaude,=A0=A0Brent Edwards, Thomas Sayers Ellis, Thomas Glave,
=
>Farah=20
>> Griffin, Trudier Harris, Yusef Komunyakaa, Wyhneema Lubiano, Paule=20
>> Marshall, John McCluskey, Mark Anthony Neal, Carl Phillips, Tracy K.=20=
>
>> Smith, Natasha Trethewey, John Edgar Wideman, and many others.
>>
>> Please find below links to the Center for Africana Studies at Johns=20
>> Hopkins, the Callaloo conference homepage, online registration=20 >> information, and the conference program.=A0=A0We hope to see you = >there.
>>
>> =97Callaloo Conference Planning Committee
>>
>> http://web.jhu.edu/africana
>> http://callaloo.tamu.edu/conference.html
>> http://www.regonline.com/Checkin.asp?EventId=3D143619
>>
>> THE 30th ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION OF CALLALOO

>>
>> October 24-27, 2007
>>
>> Hosted by the Center for Africana Studies, Johns Hopkins University=20
>> Baltimore, Maryland
>>
>> WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 24
>>
>> 7:00 PM
>>
>> Welcome=97Amanda Anderson (Chairperson, Department of English, Johns >> Hopkins University)
>>
>> Master of Ceremony:=A0=A0Ben Vinson III (Director, Center for Africana=20=
>
>> Studies,
>> Johns Hopkins University)
>>
>> The Occasion:=A0=A0Trudier Harris (University of North Carolina, = >Chapel=20
>> Hill)
>>
>> Comments & Acknowledgements: Charles Henry Rowell (Texas A&M=20 >> University, College Station)
>>
>> 7:30 PM=97Keynote Conversation: Black Studies, the Academy, &=20
>> Contemporary Black Communities
>>
>> MC:=A0=A0Ben Vinson III
>>
>> Panel: Eddie Glaude (Princeton University), James Turner (Cornell=20
>> University), William Strickland (University of Massachusetts,=20
>> Amherst), Wahneema H. Lubiano (Duke University), & Suzette Spencer=20
>> (University of Wisconsin, Madison)
>>
>> Moderator:=A0=A0Farah Griffin, Columbia University
>>
>> THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25
>>
>> 9:00-10:30 AM=97Henry Louis Gates' The Signifying Monkey after = >(Almost)=20

>> Twenty Years
>>
>> Panel: Joyce Ann Joyce (Temple University), Abdul JanMohammed=20
>> (University of California, Berkeley), Mark Anthony Neal (Duke=20 >> University), Zita Nunes (University of Maryland, College Park), &=20
>> Fred=A0=A0Moten (Duke University)
>>
>> Moderator:=A0=A0Michael Collins (Texas A&M University, College = >Station)
>>
>> 11:00-12:30 PM=97African American Literary Studies and the Feminist=20
>> Critique after The Color Purple
>>
>> Panel:=A0=A0Susan Fraiman=A0=A0(University of Virginia), Daphne Brooks=20=
>
>> (Princeton), Deborah Grey White (Rutgers University), Kim Hall,=20
>> (Barnard College), Keith Mitchell (University of Massachusetts at=20
>> Lowell), Lovalearie King (Pennsylvania State University), & Carmen=20
>> Gillespie (Bucknell University)
>>
>> Moderator: Cheryl Wall (Rutgers University)
>>
>> 12:30-1:30 PM=A0=A0=A0=A0=A0=A0 Lunch
>>
>> 2:00 PM-3:00PM=97Writing & Publishing Fiction in the USA
>>
>> Panel:=A0=A0Tour=E9, Jewel Parker Rhodes (Arizona State University),=20=
>
>> Randall Kenan (University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill), Martha=20 >> Southgate (Brooklyn College), &=A0=A0David Wright (University of =
>Illinois,=20
>> Urban-Chapaign)
>>
>> Moderator:=A0=A0John McCluskey (Indiana University, Bloomington)
>>
>> 3:30 PM-4:30 PM=97Fiction Readings: Emerging Writers Reading
>>
>> Panel: Emily Rabateau, Tayari Jones, & Mat Johnson
>>
>> MC:=A0=A0Neil Roberts (Johns Hopkins University)

>>
>> 8:00 PM=97Fiction & Poetry Readings
>>
>> Readers:=A0=A0Paule Marshall (New York University) & Lucille =
>Clifton=A0=A0(St.=20
>> Mary's College, Maryland)
>>
>> MC:=A0=A0Trudier Harris (University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill)
>> Welcome: David Taft Terry
>> Director, The Reginald Lewis Museum
>>
>> FRIDAY, OCTOBER 26
>>
>> 9:00-10:30 AM=97Querying the Black Diaspora
>>
>> Panel: Brent Edwards (Columbia University), Carole Boyce Davies=20
>> (Cornell University), Jennifer Wilks (University of Texas, Austin),=20
>> Zita Nunes (University of Maryland, College Park), & Suzette Spencer=20=
>
>> (University of Wisconsin)
>>
>> Moderator: Shona Jackson (Texas A&M University, College Station)
>>
>> 11:00-12:30 PM=97Caribbean Writers in the United States: Other Black=20=
>
>> Diasporas
>>
>> Presentation:=A0=A0Fred D'Aguiar (Virginia Tech, Blacksburg)
>>
>> Panel:=A0=A0Sandra Paquet (University of Miami), Daryl Dance =
>(University=20
>> of Richmond, VA), Carrol F. Coates (State University of New York,=20 >> Binghamton), Veronica Gregg (Hunter College), Thomas Glave (State of=20=
>
>> New York, Binghamton)
>>
>> Moderator: Nelly Rosario (Texas State University, San Marcos)
>>
>> 12:30-1:30 PM=A0=A0=A0=A0=A0=A0 Lunch
>>

>>
>> 2:00 PM-3:00PM=97Writing and Publishing Poetry in the USA
>>
>> Presentation:=A0=A0Thomas Sayers Ellis (Sarah Lawrence College)
>>
>> Panel:=A0=A0Carl Phillips (Washington University, St. Louis), Kendra
>> Hamilton (University of Virginia), Erica Hunt, Lyrae Van-Clief
>> Stefanon,=A0=A0Gerald Barrax (North Carolina State University)
>>
>> Moderator:=A0=A0Dante Micheaux (New York University)
>>
>> 3:30 PM-4:30 PM=97Poetry & the Legacy of the Black Arts Movement in =
>the=20
>> USA
>>
>> Presentation:=A0=A0Sonia Sanchez (Temple University)
>>
>> Respondents:=A0=A0Cheryl Clarke (Rutgers University), David =
>Lionel=A0=A0Smith=20
>> (Williams College), Gene Andrew Jarrett (Boston University), James=20
>> Edward Smethurst (University of Massachusetts, Amherst), and Meta D.=20=
>
>> Jones (University of Texas, Austin)
>>
>> Moderator:=A0=A0Margo Natalie Crawford (Indiana University, = >Bloomington)
>>
>> 8:00 PM=97Poetry Readings
>>
>> Poets Reading: Natasha Trethewey (Emory University), Yusef Komunyakaa=20=
>
>> (New York University), & Carl Phillips (Washington University, St.=20 >> Louis)
>>
>> Welcome / MC: Adam Falk, Dean of Arts and Sciences, Johns Hopkins=20 >> University
>>
>> SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27
>>
>> 9:30-10:30 AM=97Academic Editing and Publishing:=A0=A0The Johns =

>Hopkins=20
>> University Press
>>
>> One representative from the Book Division
>> One representative from the Journals Division
>>
>> 11:00-12:00 PM=97Callaloo's Art
>>
>> Panel:=A0=A0Cherise Smith (University of Texas), Annette Lawrence = >(North=20
>> Texas State University, Denton), Alvia Wardlaw, (Museum of Fine Arts,=20=
>
>> Houston), Valerie Cassel Oliver (Contemporary Arts Museum,=20
>> Houston),=A0=A0& Franklin Sirmans (The Menil Collection, Houston), & =
>Meta=20
>> Ewa Jones
>>
>> Moderator:=A0=A0Stephen Carpenter (Texas A&M University, College = >Station)
>>
>> 12:00-1:30 PM=A0=A0 Lunch
>>
>> 2:00-3:30 PM=97Poets Reading
>>
>> Van Jordan (University of Texas, Austin), Major Jackson (University of=20=
>
>> Vermont), Tracy K. Smith (Princeton University), Dawn Lundy Martin=20 >> (University of Massachusetts),=A0=A0& Terrance Hayes (Carnegie Mellon=20=
>
>> University)
>>
>> MC:=A0=A0Kyle G. Dargan (American University)
>>
>>
>> 5:30-7:00 PM=97Final Keynote Conversation / African American Literary=20=
>
>> and Cultural Studies:=A0=A0The Present and the Future
>>
>> Panel: Brent Edwards (Columbia), Meta Jones (University of Texas,=20

>> Austin), Keith Leonard (American University), Michelle Wright=20 >> (University of Minnesota), Ivy Wilson (Notre Dame University), Marlon=20=
>
>> Ross (University of Virginia), Fred Moten (Duke University)
>>
>> Moderator:=A0=A0Thadious Davis (University of Pennsylvania)
>>
>> 7:30-8:00 PM=97Fiction Writer Reading: John Edgar Wideman
>>
>> Introduction: Daniel Jerome Wideman
>>
>> MC:=A0=A0Kyle Dargan
>>
>> 8:15-9:30 PM=97Cocktails, Dinner, and Closing Remarks
>>
>> Dinner (Conference participants and invited guests.)
>>
>> Closing Remarks: Kyle Dargan, Managing Editor, Callaloo; Ben Vinson,=20=
>
>> Director of Africana Studies; Johns Hopkins University; Charles Henry=20=
>
>> Rowell, Editor of Callaloo
>>
>> 9:30 PM-Until=97Loving Callaloo/Stomping the Blues
>>
>> Celebration with live music, dance, drinks, etc.
>>
>
>----------
>
>Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 20:29:32 -0400
>From: Alan Sondheim
>Subject: theory. the real. death.
>
>theory. the real. death.
>
>
>Torture is senseless violence, born in fear. The purpose of it is to force >from one tongue, amid its screams and its vomiting up of blood, the secret >of _everything._ Senseless violence: whether the victim talks or whether >he dies under his agony, the secret that he cannot tell is always some>where else and out of reach. It is the executioner who becomes Sisyphus.

>If he puts _the question_ at all, he will have to continue forever.
>
>Sartre (in the afterword to Henri Alleg, The Question, 1958)
>
>Experiment solitary touching the impossibility of annihilation.
>
>100. There is nothing more certain in nature than that it is impossible >for any body to be utterly annihilated; but that as it was the work of the >omnipotency of God to make somewhat of nothing, so it requireth the like >omnipotency to turn somewhat into nothing. And therefore it is well said >by an obscure writer of the sect of the chemists, that there is no such >way to effect the strange transmutations of bodies, as to endevour and >urge by all means the reducing of them to nothing. And herein is contained >also a great secret of preservation of bodies from change; for if you can >prohibit, that they neither turn into air, because no air cometh to them;
>nor go into the bodies adjacent, because they are utterly heterogeneal;
>nor make a round and circulation within themselves; they will never >change, though they be in their nature never so perishable or mutable.
>
>from Francis Bacon, Sylva Sylvarum or A Natural History, 1627
>
>----------
>
>Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 21:33:45 -0400
>From: Mark Truscott
>Subject: September 20: Bonney and Kruk at Test (Toronto)
>
>Dear friends of the Test Reading Series,
>
>Indeed, it's been a while. We are now ready, however, to unveil the >first three months of the fall season of our programming, beginning >this coming Thursday of all days. Yikes.
>
>Please mark those calendars.
>
>Thursday, 20 September 2007, 8:00 p.m. (note new start time)
>SEAN BONNEY and FRANCES KRUK (bios below)
>Mercer Union, A Centre for Contemporary Art
>37 Lisgar Street, Toronto
>Free, free as the wind (though we still take donations)

>
>More info, links to samples of our readers' work, and recordings of >previous readings at www.testreading.org.
>
>Thanks, as always, to the good people at Mercer Union for the support.
>Why not visit them online (www.mercerunion.org) to see what they're up
>to?
>
>Coming up:
>
>25 October: Trevor Joyce and the Max Middle Sound Project
>29 November: Oana Avasilichioaei and Angela Carr
>
>Hope to see you there,
>
>Mark
>
>*******
>
>SEAN BONNEY's selected poems, Blade Pitch Control Unit, were published >by Salt in 2005. Since then he has produced Document:Hexprogress, >Black Water and an ongoing set of versions of Baudelaire. His work has >been translated into French, Spanish, and Icelandic. He lives in >London and edits the lo-fi press yt communication with Frances Kruk.
>
>FRANCES KRUK is a dual Polish-Canadian ex-pat currently undertaking >doctoral research at the University of London (UK). She works in >noise, words, and paint, and edits yt communication with Sean Bonney.
>
>----------
>
>Date: Sat, 15 Sep 2007 09:53:19 -0500
>From: Eric Elshtain
>Subject: New Beard of Bees Human Chapbook
>
>Beard of Bees Press is proud to present Life & Style by Marie Buck, a chapbook >consisting of poems constructed with language from MySpace profiles-- language >that has, in turn, been rendered into the poetic forms & styles of such poets as >Wyatt & Dickinson.

>
>These poems will make you giddy, or your money back!
>
>http://www.beardofbees.com/buck.html
>
>Yours,
>
>
>
>
>
>Eric Elshtain
>Editor
>Beard of Bees Press
>http://www.beardofbees.com
>
>----------
>
>Date: Sat, 15 Sep 2007 11:08:07 -0400
>From: William James Austin
>Subject: Re: Bill Griffiths
>
>Shit!!=C2=A0 Another "brilliant" gone to ground.=C2=A0 We'll miss you, Bill.= >=C2=A0 Best, Bill
>
>-----Original Message-----
>From: mIEKAL aND
>
>To: [redacted]
>Sent: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 5:59 pm
>Subject: Bill Griffiths
>
>
>via Tom Raworth's website:=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
>"Bill Griffiths=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
>A short and by inference shocking note from Tom Pickard at dawn: I=E2=80=99m= >assuming Bill Griffiths is dead. Bill was a genuine in a poetic and academi= >c world of mostly arseholes.=C2=A0

>=C2=A0
>=C2=A0 he was in hospital last week but discharged himself and went to do hi= >s dialect gig at the tower on Saturday but felt so ill he went yem half way=20= >through. I think it was a heart attack as he was found with the radio and tv= >and computer on. He=E2=80=99ll be badly missed=E2=80=93such an asset to thi= >s region and a good comrade, like they say.=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
>We exchanged notes only a week ago, about his Dialect talks at the Mordern T= >ower: his last words:=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
>=C2=A0 Well, the first year we had about 5 visitors (by mistake?), 2nd year=20= >about 20 genuine callers, this year=E2=80=A6whee knaas? Perhaps a riot over=20= >how to pronounce the word butterlowey, with defenestrations and arrows arc-i= >ng ower the ramparts.=C2=A0
>=C2=A0 Assuming I get there myself. Prostate seems to be growing unduly, my=20= >photo must be on every CCTV in every public convenience in the region. Am du= >e an op =E2=80=9Cin the next six months=E2=80=9D but they have a grand sense=
>of humour up here.=C2=A0
>=C2=A0 Hope celebrity Cambridge suits ye still. A friend=E2=80=99s mother li= >ves in Trumpington, which is a bend in the road and a few houses and an admi= >rable church. She is now an old widow with a cat, how about that!=C2=A0
>=C2=A0 Have run out of rhymes, but save some up for Saturday,=C2=A0
>=C2=A0 seeya oneday=C2=A0
>=C2=A0 Bill=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
>We won=E2=80=99t, Bill: and I fucking regret it."=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
>Here's his Wikipedia page:=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
>http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Bill_Griffiths=C2=A0

>
>
>_____
>Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http=
>://mail.aol.com
>
>----------
>
>Date: Sat, 15 Sep 2007 11:57:25 -0400
>From: Bobbi Lurie
>Subject: Re: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration=?utf-8?Q?=E2=80=94Jo?
= hns Hopkins University Oct. 24-27 2007
>
>hey, me too, Gerhard Richter. thanks a lot. love, bobbi
>
>
>-----Original Message-----
>From: Tisa Bryant
>To: [redacted]
>Sent: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 5:19 pm
>Subject: Fwd: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration=E2=80=94Jo hns Hopkins U= >niversity Oct. 24-27 2007
>
>
>FYI=C2=A0
>_____=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
>My concern is never art, but always what art can be used for.=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
>Gerhard Richter=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
>Begin forwarded message:=C2=A0
>=C2=A0
>> Subject: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration=E2=80=94Johns Hopkins >
Uni= >versity Oct. 24-27 2007=C2=A0
>>=C2=A0
>>=C2=A0
>> With poetry and fiction readings, lectures, conversations, and panel > dis= >cussions at Johns Hopkins University, this celebration of > Callaloo's thirt= >y years of continuous publication will bring together > a group of the USA's=

>best creative writers, intellectuals, academics, > and artists to launch th= >e journal into the next thirty years.=C2=A0=C2=A0Some of > the more than 100= >creative writers and scholars who will be reading > and engaging in public=20=
>discussions on writing creative texts and > writing on these and other texts=
>and the culture from which they > derive include: Carole Boyce Davies, Luci= >lle Clifton, Thadious Davis, > Eddie Glaude,=C2=A0=C2=A0Brent Edwards, Thoma=
>s Sayers Ellis, Thomas Glave, Farah > Griffin, Trudier Harris, Yusef Komunya=
>kaa, Wyhneema Lubiano, Paule > Marshall, John McCluskey, Mark Anthony
Neal,=20=
>Carl Phillips, Tracy K. > Smith, Natasha Trethewey, John Edgar Wideman,
and=20=
>many others.=C2=A0
>>=C2=A0
>> Please find below links to the Center for Africana Studies at Johns > Hopk= >ins, the Callaloo conference homepage, online registration > information, an= >d the conference program.=C2=A0=C2=A0We hope to see you there.=C2=A0
>>=C2=A0
>> =E2=80=94Callaloo Conference Planning Committee=C2=A0
>>=C2=A0
>> http://web.jhu.edu/africana=C2=A0
>> http://callaloo.tamu.edu/conference.html=C2=A0
>> http://www.regonline.com/Checkin.asp?EventId=3D143619=C2=A0
>>=C2=A0
>> THE 30th ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION OF CALLALOO=C2=A0
>>=C2=A0
>> October 24-27, 2007=C2=A0
>>=C2=A0
>> Hosted by the Center for Africana Studies, Johns Hopkins University > Balt= >imore, Maryland=C2=A0
>>=C2=A0
>> WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 24=C2=A0
>>=C2=A0
>> 7:00 PM=C2=A0
>>=C2=A0
>> Welcome=E2=80=94Amanda Anderson (Chairperson, Department of English, Johns=

>=C2=A0
>> Hopkins University)=C2=A0
>>=C2=A0
>> Master of Ceremony:=C2=A0=C2=A0Ben Vinson III (Director, Center for Africa=
>na > Studies,=C2=A0
>> Johns Hopkins University)=C2=A0
>>=C2=A0
>> The Occasion:=C2=A0=C2=A0Trudier Harris (University of North Carolina, Cha=
>
>=== message truncated ===
>
>
>----------
>Catch up on fall's hot new shows on Yahoo! TV. Watch previews, get listings, and more!

Linda Norton

NEW WORK (words and images) at http://www.counterpathpress.org/cpathonline/issue%202/norton/nortonintro.html

(When you get there, click on the title of the essay, and keep clicking on NEXT as you get to the bottom of each page.)

http://bancroft.berkeley.edu/ROHO/about.html

↑ Index

380. Amish Trivedi
Re: Denis Johnson
Tue 18 Sep 2007

I lent my copy to a friend who moved to New York. She claims to have returned it to me. I think I would have remembered.

  Amish

linda norton <[redacted]> wrote:
  One of my favorite writers also. One line from the title story of JESUS SON stands out: the drug-addled narrator, no hero, finds himself alive in the midst of gore after a car crash. In response to some request for help that he cannot accommodate (too stoned), he says(I'm paraphrasing slightly), "Like I'm the president of this tragedy."

My copy of the book is at my office or I'd look it up. Better yet, everyone read the story to find the actual quote.

I've thought about this line many times in the last seven years.

Linda

-----Original Message-----
>From: steve russell

> Sent: Sep 18, 2007 12:22 PM
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: Denis Johnson
>
> Sheila, it's good to hear from another Denis Johnson devote. I picked up a copy of The Incognito Lounge over, I think, 2 decades ago when I was miserable and living in Jacksonville, Florida. I got the book from the library. I picked it up because I thought it had a cool cover. I've been reading Johnson ever since. I haven't read the 'Nam novel yet, but I've heard it referred to as a "masterpiece" on more then a few occasions. It is interesting how the best poetry stays with you over the years. Having come across his work by chance is the sort of thing that normally happens in a Paul Auster novel. Johnson's poetry helped convince me to leave Jacksonville. I haven't regretted that decision. Take care,
> Steve Russell
>
> Sheila Murphy wrote:
> Steve, When The Incognito Lounge came out (it's named after a place very close to here), I memorized the whole title poem, and continue to celebrate many of the pieces in that book. The feel of the poems included changes across years, but I have always loved it - just in different ways. I knew Denis a bit when he was here in the Valley, and joined him and others in a writing group occasionally.
>
> He is indeed poetic and visionary as a novelist, as well. Looking forward to the new novel. Well received so far.
>
> Regarding Harrison, his ghazals are splendid, and I've read most of his work, also.
>
> I can see why you are taken with the work of these two, in addition to Auster's whose work are less directly familiar to me at this time (but it won't be too long).
>
> Sheila Murphy
>
> ----- Original Message ----
> From: POETICS automatic digest system
>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Saturday, September 15, 2007 9:04:52 PM
> Subject: POETICS Digest - 14 Sep 2007 to 15 Sep 2007 (#2007-258)

There are 14 messages totalling 1119 lines in this issue.

Topics of the day:

1. Denis Johnson/Jim Harrison/Paul Auster
2. Fwd: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebrationâ€"Jo hns Hopkins University Oct. 24-27 2007
3. theory. the real. death.
4. September 20: Bonney and Kruk at Test (Toronto)
5. New Beard of Bees Human Chapbook
6. Bill Griffiths
7. Callaloo 30th anniversary celebrationÃ¢â,¬â€Jo hns Hopkins University Oct. 24-27 2007
8. Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
9. POETICS Digest - 13 Sep 2007 to 14 Sep 2007 (#2007-257)
10. Frustration
11. 1913's Rozanova Prize announcement
12. NYC Prose Reading
13. Notice: Mudlark
14. Machlin/Solomon Book Party @ Zinc Bar NYC 9/16

Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 16:30:58 -0700
From: steve russell

Subject: Denis Johnson/Jim Harrison/Paul Auster

Denis Johnson has just published a new novel, The Tree of Smoke. I love the guys work. Anyone read Jesus' Son, or his poetry collected in The Incognito Lounge? He's in the same league with Jim Harrison and Paul Auster. These 3 are visionary authors. They've each written major work in fiction and poetry, as well as first rate short stories and plays. Great writers.

Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search that gives answers, not web links.

Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 19:19:14 -0400
From: Tisa Bryant
Subject: Fwd: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration=?WINDOWS-1252?Q?—Jo?= hns Hopkins University Oct. 24-27 2007

FYI

My concern is never art, but always what art can be used for.

Gerhard Richter

Begin forwarded message:

Subject: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration—Johns Hopkins University Oct. 24-27 2007

With poetry and fiction readings, lectures, conversations, and panel > discussions at Johns Hopkins University, this celebration of Callaloo's thirty years of continuous publication will bring together > a group of the USA's best creative writers, intellectuals, academics, > and artists to launch the journal into the next thirty years. Some >of the more than 100 creative writers and scholars who will be reading and engaging in public discussions on writing creative texts and writing on these and other texts and the culture from which they derive include: Carole Boyce Davies, Lucille Clifton, Thadious Davis, > Eddie Glaude, Brent Edwards, Thomas Sayers Ellis, Thomas Glave, >Farah Griffin, Trudier Harris, Yusef Komunyakaa, Wyhneema Lubiano, Paule Marshall, John McCluskey, Mark Anthony Neal, Carl Phillips, Tracy K. > Smith, Natasha Trethewey, John Edgar Wideman, and many others.

Please find below links to the Center for Africana Studies at Johns Hopkins, the Callaloo conference homepage, online registration information, and the conference program. We hope to see you >there.

—Callaloo Conference Planning Committee

http://web.jhu.edu/africana
http://callaloo.tamu.edu/conference.html
http://www.regonline.com/Checkin.asp?EventId=143619

THE 30th ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION OF CALLALOO

October 24-27, 2007

Hosted by the Center for Africana Studies, Johns Hopkins University
Baltimore, Maryland

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 24

7:00 PM

Welcome—Amanda Anderson (Chairperson, Department of English, Johns Hopkins University)

Master of Ceremony: Ben Vinson III (Director, Center for Africana > Studies, Johns Hopkins University)

The Occasion: Trudier Harris (University of North Carolina, >Chapel Hill)

Comments & Acknowledgements: Charles Henry Rowell (Texas A&M University, College Station)

7:30 PM—Keynote Conversation: Black Studies, the Academy, & Contemporary Black Communities

MC: Ben Vinson III

Panel: Eddie Glaude (Princeton University), James Turner (Cornell University), William Strickland (University of Massachusetts, Amherst), Wahneema H. Lubiano (Duke University), & Suzette Spencer (University of Wisconsin, Madison)

Moderator: Farah Griffin, Columbia University

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25

9:00-10:30 AM—Henry Louis Gates' The Signifying Monkey after >(Almost) Twenty Years

Panel: Joyce Ann Joyce (Temple University), Abdul JanMohammed (University of California, Berkeley), Mark Anthony Neal (Duke University), Zita Nunes (University of Maryland, College Park), & Fred Moten (Duke University)

Moderator: Michael Collins (Texas A&M University, College >Station)

11:00-12:30 PM—African American Literary Studies and the Feminist Critique after The Color Purple

Panel: Susan Fraiman (University of Virginia), Daphne Brooks > (Princeton), Deborah Grey White (Rutgers University), Kim Hall, (Barnard College), Keith Mitchell (University of Massachusetts at Lowell), Lovalearie King (Pennsylvania State University), & Carmen Gillespie (Bucknell University)

Moderator: Cheryl Wall (Rutgers University)

12:30-1:30 PM Lunch

2:00 PM-3:00PM—Writing & Publishing Fiction in the USA

Panel: Touré, Jewel Parker Rhodes (Arizona State University), > Randall Kenan (University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill), Martha Southgate (Brooklyn College), & David Wright (University of >Illinois, Urban-Chapaign)

Moderator: John McCluskey (Indiana University, Bloomington)

3:30 PM-4:30 PM—Fiction Readings: Emerging Writers Reading

Panel: Emily Rabateau, Tayari Jones, & Mat Johnson

MC: Neil Roberts (Johns Hopkins University)

8:00 PM—Fiction & Poetry Readings

Readers: Paule Marshall (New York University) & Lucille >Clifton (St. Mary's College, Maryland)

MC: Trudier Harris (University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill)
Welcome: David Taft Terry
Director, The Reginald Lewis Museum

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 26

9:00-10:30 AM—Querying the Black Diaspora

Panel: Brent Edwards (Columbia University), Carole Boyce Davies (Cornell University), Jennifer Wilks (University of Texas, Austin), Zita Nunes (University of Maryland, College Park), & Suzette Spencer > (University of Wisconsin)

Moderator: Shona Jackson (Texas A&M University, College Station)

11:00-12:30 PM—Caribbean Writers in the United States: Other Black > Diasporas

Presentation: Fred D'Aguiar (Virginia Tech, Blacksburg)

Panel: Sandra Paquet (University of Miami), Daryl Dance >(University of Richmond, VA), Carrol F. Coates (State University of New York, Binghamton), Veronica Gregg (Hunter College), Thomas Glave (State of > New York, Binghamton)

Moderator: Nelly Rosario (Texas State University, San Marcos)

12:30-1:30 PM Lunch

2:00 PM-3:00PM—Writing and Publishing Poetry in the USA

Presentation: Thomas Sayers Ellis (Sarah Lawrence College)

Panel: Carl Phillips (Washington University, St. Louis), Kendra Hamilton (University of Virginia), Erica Hunt, Lyrae Van-Clief Stefanon, Gerald Barrax (North Carolina State University)

Moderator: Dante Micheaux (New York University)

3:30 PM-4:30 PM—Poetry & the Legacy of the Black Arts Movement in >the USA

Presentation: Sonia Sanchez (Temple University)

Respondents: Cheryl Clarke (Rutgers University), David >Lionel Smith (Williams College), Gene Andrew Jarrett (Boston University), James Edward Smethurst (University of Massachusetts, Amherst), and Meta D. > Jones (University of Texas, Austin)

Moderator: Margo Natalie Crawford (Indiana University, >Bloomington)

8:00 PM—Poetry Readings

Poets Reading: Natasha Trethewey (Emory University), Yusef Komunyakaa > (New York University), & Carl Phillips (Washington University, St. Louis)

Welcome / MC: Adam Falk, Dean of Arts and Sciences, Johns Hopkins University

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27

9:30-10:30 AM—Academic Editing and Publishing: The Johns >Hopkins University Press

One representative from the Book Division
One representative from the Journals Division

11:00-12:00 PM—Callaloo's Art

Panel: Cherise Smith (University of Texas), Annette Lawrence >(North Texas State University, Denton), Alvia Wardlaw, (Museum of Fine Arts, >

Houston), Valerie Cassel Oliver (Contemporary Arts Museum, Houston), & Franklin Sirmans (The Menil Collection, Houston), & >Meta Ewa Jones

Moderator: Stephen Carpenter (Texas A&M University, College >Station)

12:00-1:30 PM Lunch

2:00-3:30 PM—Poets Reading

Van Jordan (University of Texas, Austin), Major Jackson (University of > Vermont), Tracy K. Smith (Princeton University), Dawn Lundy Martin (University of Massachusetts), & Terrance Hayes (Carnegie Mellon > University)

MC: Kyle G. Dargan (American University)

5:30-7:00 PM—Final Keynote Conversation / African American Literary > and Cultural Studies: The Present and the Future

Panel: Brent Edwards (Columbia), Meta Jones (University of Texas, Austin), Keith Leonard (American University), Michelle Wright (University of Minnesota), Ivy Wilson (Notre Dame University), Marlon > Ross (University of Virginia), Fred Moten (Duke University)

Moderator: Thadious Davis (University of Pennsylvania)

7:30-8:00 PM—Fiction Writer Reading: John Edgar Wideman

Introduction: Daniel Jerome Wideman

MC: Kyle Dargan

8:15-9:30 PM—Cocktails, Dinner, and Closing Remarks

Dinner (Conference participants and invited guests.)

Closing Remarks: Kyle Dargan, Managing Editor, Callaloo; Ben Vinson, > Director of Africana Studies; Johns Hopkins University; Charles Henry > Rowell, Editor of Callaloo

9:30 PM-Until—Loving Callaloo/Stomping the Blues

Celebration with live music, dance, drinks, etc.

Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 20:29:32 -0400
From: Alan Sondheim
Subject: theory. the real. death.

theory. the real. death.

Torture is senseless violence, born in fear. The purpose of it is to force from one tongue, amid its screams and its vomiting up of blood, the secret of _everything._ Senseless violence: whether the victim talks or whether he dies under his agony, the secret that he cannot tell is always somewhere else and out of reach. It is the executioner who becomes Sisyphus. If he puts _the question_ at all, he will have to continue forever.

Sartre (in the afterword to Henri Alleg, The Question, 1958)

Experiment solitary touching the impossibility of annihilation.

100. There is nothing more certain in nature than that it is impossible for any body to be utterly annihilated; but that as it was the work of the omnipotency of God to make somewhat of nothing, so it requireth the like omnipotency to turn somewhat into nothing. And therefore it is well said by an obscure writer of the sect of the chemists, that there is no such way to effect the strange transmutations of bodies, as to endevour and urge by all means the reducing of them to nothing. And herein is contained also a great secret of preservation of bodies from change; for if you can prohibit, that they neither turn into air, because no air cometh to them; nor go into the bodies adjacent, because they are utterly heterogeneal; nor make a round and circulation within themselves; they will never change, though they be in their nature never so perishable or mutable.

from Francis Bacon, Sylva Sylvarum or A Natural History, 1627

Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 21:33:45 -0400
From: Mark Truscott
Subject: September 20: Bonney and Kruk at Test (Toronto)

Dear friends of the Test Reading Series,

Indeed, it's been a while. We are now ready, however, to unveil the first three months of the fall season of our programming, beginning this coming Thursday of all days. Yikes.

Please mark those calendars.

Thursday, 20 September 2007, 8:00 p.m. (note new start time)
SEAN BONNEY and FRANCES KRUK (bios below)
Mercer Union, A Centre for Contemporary Art
37 Lisgar Street, Toronto
Free, free as the wind (though we still take donations)

More info, links to samples of our readers' work, and recordings of previous readings at www.testreading.org.

Thanks, as always, to the good people at Mercer Union for the support. Why not visit them online (www.mercerunion.org) to see what they're up to?

Coming up:

25 October: Trevor Joyce and the Max Middle Sound Project
29 November: Oana Avasilichioaei and Angela Carr

Hope to see you there,

Mark

****

SEAN BONNEY's selected poems, Blade Pitch Control Unit, were published by Salt in 2005. Since then he has produced Document:Hexprogress, Black Water and an ongoing set of versions of Baudelaire. His work has been translated into French, Spanish, and Icelandic. He lives in London and edits the lo-fi press yt communication with Frances Kruk.

FRANCES KRUK is a dual Polish-Canadian ex-pat currently undertaking doctoral research at the University of London (UK). She works in noise, words, and paint, and edits yt communication with Sean Bonney.

Date: Sat, 15 Sep 2007 09:53:19 -0500
From: Eric Elshtain
Subject: New Beard of Bees Human Chapbook

Beard of Bees Press is proud to present Life & Style by Marie Buck, a chapbook consisting of poems constructed with language from MySpace profiles--language that has, in turn, been rendered into the poetic forms & styles of such poets as Wyatt & Dickinson.

These poems will make you giddy, or your money back!

http://www.beardofbees.com/buck.html

Yours,

Eric Elshtain
Editor
Beard of Bees Press
http://www.beardofbees.com

Date: Sat, 15 Sep 2007 11:08:07 -0400
From: William James Austin
Subject: Re: Bill Griffiths

Shit!!Â Another "brilliant" gone to ground.Â We'll miss you, Bill.>Â Best, Bill

-----Original Message-----
From: mIEKAL aND

To: [redacted]
Sent: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 5:59 pm
Subject: Bill Griffiths

via Tom Raworth's website:Â
Â
"Bill GriffithsÂ
Â
A short and by inference shocking note from Tom Pickard at dawn:
Iâ€™m>assuming Bill Griffiths is dead. Bill was a genuine in a poetic and academi>c world of mostly arseholes.Â
Â
Â he was in hospital last week but discharged himself and went to do hi>s dialect gig at the tower on Saturday but felt so ill he went yem half way >through. I think it was a heart attack as he was found with the radio and tv>and computer on. Heâ€™ll be badly missedâ€“such an asset to thi>s region and a good comrade, like they say.Â
Â
We exchanged notes only a week ago, about his Dialect talks at the Mordern T>ower: his last words:Â
Â
Â Well, the first year we had about 5 visitors (by mistake?), 2nd year >about 20 genuine callers, this yearâ€¦whee knaas? Perhaps a riot over >how to pronounce the word butterlowey, with defenestrations and arrows arc-i>ng ower the

ramparts.Â
Â Assuming I get there myself. Prostate seems to be growing unduly, my >photo must be on every CCTV in every public convenience in the region. Am du>e an op â€œin the next six monthsâ€ but they have a grand sense>of humour up here.Â
Â Hope celebrity Cambridge suits ye still. A friendâ€™s mother li>ves in Trumpington, which is a bend in the road and a few houses and an admi>rable church. She is now an old widow with a cat, how about that!Â
Â Have run out of rhymes, but save some up for Saturday,Â Â seeya onedayÂ
Â BillÂ
Â
We wonâ€™t, Bill: and I fucking regret it."Â
Â
Here's his Wikipedia page:Â
Â
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Bill_GriffithsÂ

Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http>://mail.aol.com

----

Date: Sat, 15 Sep 2007 11:57:25 -0400
From: Bobbi Lurie
Subject: Re: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebration=?utf-8?Q?â€"Jo?= hns Hopkins University Oct. 24-27 2007

hey, me too, Gerhard Richter. thanks a lot. love, bobbi

-----Original Message-----
From: Tisa Bryant
To: [redacted]
Sent: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 5:19 pm
Subject: Fwd: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebrationâ€"Jo hns Hopkins U>niversity Oct. 24-27 2007

FYIÂ
_____Â
Â
My concern is never art, but always what art can be used for.Â
Â
Gerhard RichterÂ
Â
Â

> Begin forwarded message:Â
> Â
> Subject: Callaloo 30th anniversary celebrationâ€"Johns Hopkins > Uni>versity Oct. 24-27 2007Â
> Â
> Â
> With poetry and fiction readings, lectures, conversations, and panel > dis>cussions at Johns Hopkins University, this celebration of > Callaloo's thirt>y years of continuous publication will bring together > a group of the USA's>best creative writers, intellectuals, academics, > and artists to launch th>e journal into the next thirty years.Â Â Some of > the more than 100>creative writers and scholars who will be reading > and engaging in public >discussions on writing creative texts and > writing on these and other texts>and the culture from which they > derive include: Carole Boyce Davies, Luci>lle Clifton, Thadious Davis, > Eddie Glaude,Â Â Brent Edwards, Thoma>s Sayers Ellis, Thomas Glave, Farah > Griffin, Trudier Harris, Yusef Komunya>kaa, Wyhneema Lubiano, Paule > Marshall, John McCluskey, Mark Anthony Neal, >Carl Phillips, Tracy K. > Smith, Natasha Trethewey, John Edgar Wideman, and >many others.Â
> Â
> Please find below links to the Center for Africana Studies at Johns > Hopk>ins, the Callaloo conference homepage, online registration > information, an>d the conference program.Â Â We hope to see you there.Â
> Â
> â€"Callaloo Conference Planning CommitteeÂ
> Â
> http://web.jhu.edu/africanaÂ
> http://callaloo.tamu.edu/conference.htmlÂ
> http://www.regonline.com/Checkin.asp?EventId=143619Â
> Â
> THE 30th ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION OF CALLALOOÂ
> Â
> October 24-27, 2007Â
> Â
> Hosted by the Center for Africana Studies, Johns Hopkins University > Balt>imore, MarylandÂ
> Â
> WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 24Â
> Â
> 7:00 PMÂ
> Â
> Welcomeâ€"Amanda Anderson (Chairperson, Department of English, Johns>Â Hopkins University)Â
> Â
> Master of Ceremony:Â Â Ben Vinson III (Director, Center for Africa>na > Studies,Â Johns Hopkins University)Â
> Â
> The Occasion:Â Â Trudier Harris (University of North Carolina, Cha> > === message truncated ==>

> ---
> Catch up on fall's hot new shows on Yahoo! TV. Watch previews, get listings, and more!

Linda Norton

NEW WORK (words and images) at http://www.counterpathpress.org/cpathonline/issue%202/norton/nortonintro.html

(When you get there, click on the title of the essay, and keep clicking on NEXT as you get to the bottom of each page.)

http://bancroft.berkeley.edu/ROHO/about.html

"Christopher Columbus, as everyone knows, is honored by posterity because he was the last to discover America." -James Joyce

↑ Index

381. Joanna Fuhrman
denis johnson
Tue 18 Sep 2007

Linda,

That's such a coincidence. I just taught JUST that paragraph last week in my intro creative writing class. I typed up the paragraph and asked my students (in pairs) to rewrite it in a way that would be as sentimental and cliché as possible. It was pretty funny.

best,

Joanna

--
One of my favorite writers also. One line from the title story of JESUS SON stands out: the drug-addled narrator, no hero, finds himself alive in the midst of gore after a car crash. In response to some request for help that he cannot accommodate (too stoned), he says(I'm paraphrasing slightly), "Like I'm the president of this tragedy."

My copy of the book is at my office or I'd look it up. Better yet, everyone read the story to find the actual quote.

I've thought about this line many times in the last seven years.

Linda

Join Excite! - http://www.excite.com
The most personalized portal on the Web!

↑ Index

382. mIEKAL aND
Re: University of California Press Annual Online Sale
Tue 18 Sep 2007

I highly recommend folks spend a few moments trolling around. Simply for signing up for one of their newsletters I got more than 50% discounts. Special gems I got are a hard cover of Silliman's Age of Huts for like $7 & Maximus Poems for $20.

I also got a few wine books I've wanted for a long time.

~mIEKAL

(at no time have I ever had any affiliation with UC Press :-)

On Sep 18, 2007, at 2:21 PM, L Guevarra wrote:

> The Dirt Cheap Online Book Sale begins today!
>
> Over 3,000 of our titles are being sold at dirt cheap prices! Dig through our vast selection of deeply discounted titles at http://go.ucpress.edu/sale07list.
>
> In order to obtain the discount price you must either sign up for the UC Press eNews weekly newsletter or download an RSS feed. To sign up for the eNews or RSS go to our website at http://www.ucpress.edu and there you can sign up for either services.
>
> Enjoy!
>
> --
> Lolita Guevarra
> Electronic Marketing Coordinator
> University of California Press
> Tel. [redacted] | Fax [redacted]
> [redacted]
>
> Sale ends October 31, 2007. Sale prices not available in countries of Europe, Africa, India and the Middle East.*
> Additional discounts over and above the sale price will not be honored, eg. authors and employees. All orders must be placed online.*

↑ Index

383. Diane DiPrima

Re: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???

Wed 19 Sep 2007

Dictated it, actually. Or that¹s the story. He had two daughters.

Diane

From: Christophe Casamassima <[redacted]>
<[redacted]>
Date: Wed, 19 Sep 2007 05:21:50 +0800
To: <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???

Also Milton, going blind, recited, what? Paradise Lost to his daughter? Or something? Like...

> ----- Original Message -----
> From: "Joel Weishaus" <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
> Date: Sat, 15 Sep 2007 08:31:57 -0800
>
> Hi Stephen:
>
> I don't know of any poems by Ginsberg or Creeley that come from a walk. You'd think that at least Ginsberg would have one. I did go on a walk with Allan, and Phil Whalen, one of the circumambulations of Mt. Tamalpais. Although Snyder wrote a poem on one of these walks (Allan wasn't on that one), as far as I know Ginsberg didn't. I mention the one with Allan on the first page of Reality Dreams: http://www.cddc.vt.edu/host/weishaus/Real/real-1.htm
>
> Best,
> Joel
>
> Date: Fri, 14 Sep 2007 13:20:36 -0700
> From: Stephen Vincent <[redacted]>
> Subject: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???
>
> I am leading a "walking & writing" workshop this Fall at Stanford, using the campus as our 'site'. One of the places I want us to walk is into Special Collections, which has the Ginsberg and Creeley archives.
> It would be lovely to find - in advance - any poems by either poet that emerge out of a particular walk. And to have an original mss. available to see, explore.

> I will appreciate any suggestions of titles - poems and/or journal pieces.
>
> Thanks in advance,
>
> Stephen Vincent

=
Pangaea Carpets - Unique Area Rugs
Your trusted source for Endless Knot, Tibet Rug Company, Samad, E'bella, Rugs by Robinson and more. Compare our prices on Rugs that stand apart from the ordinary.
http://a8-asy.a8ww.net/a8-ads/adftrclick?redirectid=6916b28cc702b2664aa1b749
9d90a84a

--
Powered By Outblaze

↑ Index

384. Alan Sondheim
notes like i used to write and some pictures for joy
Wed 19 Sep 2007

Notes from the Structure of Reality

In my Structure of Reality (which is under review), there are three fundamental layers to what I call the 'topology of intention'; these are of interest since they critique any structuring, conscious or unconscious, 'like a language.' The layers are the real, interpretation, and language; there is a 'zone' between the real and interpretation, and mappings all across the layers. The real is knowable through interpretation which does not presuppose language (syntactics, sememe); the mappings are tight, how- ever, between interpretation and language. One might think of this as a pre-linguistic representation without the thwarting embodiment of lan- guage. You can see this at work when the 'unnamed' of the real skews into anomaly - in other words, when anomaly appears without the aegis of lang- uage. Consider for example something falling without the presence of an ostensible object; the 'something falling' might be construed as such by a thud or less-interpretable sound. Repeat this enough and a name is gener- ated; if it remains on the level of a singularity or the anecdote, it might be quickly forgotten - except for the possibility of a marker of some sort, for example, a recording.

Heinz von Foerster: "Since nothing in the environment corresponds to negation, negation as well as all other 'logical particles' (inclusion, alternation, implication, etc.) must arise within the organism as a consequence of perceiving the relation of itself with respect to its environment." (From "Thoughts and Notes on Cognition.") SoR p. 69

Cyclical chains sailing past O and I - maybe modeling through the tangent function. Is the repetition assumed to be 'complete'? A cyclical chain is a loop with any number of nodes; think of one as nul, O, and another or the same as universal, I. Then circle. What happens? One moves from 0 through infinity perhaps then back again. The simplest equation here: tangent. Each revolution is marked perhaps by sliding along the x-axis: equivalent but not identical graphs. And so we're there. We can visit as many times as we like.

Does distributivity really fail w gesture? (The old Land experiments in color vision as well as a structural analysis of gesture seem to imply that distributivity in Aristotelian logic fails in daily life - which further implies the potential for superimposition as the basis for a logic of gesture.)

The thinness of language - ontologically existing on the level of the sheave - language carries no weight at all. From within the avatar, the sheaves, surfaces, have zero-width, one-pixel width, nul-width, as 2d mathematical manifolds embedded within 3d space; they've all got the same measure as the continuum, but zero volume in the embedding space - like- wise language has zero volume.

Language, speaking, is always frustrated, flustered. It can't get around things. Meaning: One can't get around things through language, not even through performatives (which indicate real-material embodiment elsewhere).

Meditation medication goes nowhere.

Aristotle's Problems - sexual problems related to fluidity, abjection, in part iv - numbers pp 327-328, Loeb edition. The beginning of the fifteenth book is of great interest - he describes number systems with different bases which is fascinating given the apparent absence of zero.

Conservancy of the Problems, Bacon of all people working through them almost two thousand years later; not that much had changed. The Problems are on the level of the anecdote - curiosity cabinet, wonders - same as any fundamentalist text - wonder upon wonder without internalized structure or subtext - everything is new, raw, unrelated. Or causality is pushed back into categories which are taken for granted, even though, like heat or air, they're composite.

What is meant by modeling? Think of a 'world-particle' W whose scope is anything, process, etc.: W(...). what does that tell us? What are the processes of narrowing the scope, increasing the information - in other words filtering?

Along these lines, modeling is always a filtering.

Four negations: annihilation, -x s.t. --x > x; 'chain negation' s.t. -x > y; -y > z or whatever; combinations of these; negative of the 'set-aside' - form of retrievable absence.

States and nodes of graphs represented/mapped into states and nodes of graphs - this includes the possibility of 'foreign' graphs which are disruptive. The whole becomes an excursion into description rather than explanation, which is seen as a subset.

There should be limited copies of the Structure of Reality online/offline - dates from 1977, I wasn't a child.

10 linked images:

http://www.asondheim.org/linked01.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/linked02.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/linked03.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/linked04.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/linked05.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/linked06.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/linked07.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/linked08.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/linked09.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/linked10.jpg

↑ Index

385. David Baratier
a new collection of poems by Charlie Rossiter from FootHills Publishing
Wed 19 Sep 2007

FootHills Publishing is pleased to announce the release of

"The Night We Danced With the Raelettes"

Occurrences In and Around College Park Maryland
in the 1960s For the Most Part
To the Best of My Recollection

a collection of poems by Charles Rossiter.

(Ordering information below)

It's all here: leaving home for the first time, hanging out with guys from the dorm; road trips; summer jobs as diverse and improbable as delivering yeast for Budweiser, supervising a pick-your-own strawberry patch, and sweating it out in the coal fields of Bethlehem Steel. There are also musings about life, literature, friendship, and the bliss and pain that comes with searching for, finding, and losing love.

"Charlie Rossiter's book takes us a high-speed journey into memory and the past. It makes the 60's come alive again. More importantly, it makes us laugh and cry. Tender, funny, evocative, this book is one not to be missed." Maria Mazziotti Gillan Founder & Executive Director, Poetry Center, Passaic Co. CC, Paterson, NJ and editor, Paterson Literary Review.

> From the Book:

When Someone Asks Me Who Was First

We still lived in dorms
segregated by sex
but I lived on the first floor
in back
which meant that once we decided
it was easy
to lift her through the window walk around
and come in the front door
as if nothing monumental were about to happen
but it did
right there in my narrow iron dorm bed
just a wall away
from the distant din
of rowdy dorm guys
without dates
on saturday night.

When someone asks me
who was first
I think of Nanya
and that night
which is not precisely true.
There was someone or two before her, I'm almost certain.
I forget the details
and the names.

But the night I lifted Nanya through the window
as if she were
a princess, Lady Guenivere,
Rapunsel-in-Reverse,
and I were Galahad
or Robin Hood
or any stirring figure out of myth or legend.

That night
she became the first.

Charlie Rossiter, NEA Fellowship recipient and threetime Pushcart Prize nominee, hosts the audio website poetrypoetry.com. A widelypublished poet, his work has been featured on NPR and numerous statewide public radio networks. During the `90s he hosted the Poetry Motel TV program, still seen on cable stations in some parts of the Northeast. His chapbook, What Men Talk About, won the first Red Wheel Barrow Prize from Pudding House Press. Other publications include CR's Greatest Hits: 19752001 and Around the House, also from Pudding House Press. He recently performed at the Geraldine R. Dodge Poetry Festival in NJ, and was among a handful of poets selected to perform at the 2005 Chicago Blues Festival. An expanded 2nd edition of Back Beat, his co-authored book of memoir and poetry was published by Fractal Edge Press (2006). He is profiled in Contemporary Authors. Some of the poems in this collection formed the basis of The Night We Danced With the Raelettes, a one-person play produced at Victory Gardens Theatre in Chicago.

The Night We Danced With the Raelettes
is a 60 page hand-sewn book with spine - $14.00

For more information, a picture of the book or to order on-line go to:

http://www.foothillspublishing.com/2007/id176.htm

To order through mail send total price plus $1.75 Shipping and Handling ($2.25 in Canada; $3.25 other countries) for each address sent to. (NYS Residents please add $1.12 Sales Tax per book)

Send orders to:

FootHills Publishing
PO Box 68
Kanona, NY 14856

↑ Index

386. Barry Schwabsky
Fwd: Bill Griffiths appreciation
Wed 19 Sep 2007

Received from Ken Edwards of Reality Street:

A nice appreciation of Bill appeared in the Newcastle local paper The Journal – you can read it here -

http://icnewcastle.icnetwork.co.uk/journallive/culture/tm_method=full%26objectid=19805663%26siteid=50081-name_page.html

Thanks to Peter Hodgkiss for drawing my attention to it.

Ken Edwards
Reality Street Editions
63 All Saints Street
Hastings, East Sussex TN34 3BN
www.realitystreet.co.uk

↑ Index

387. David A. Kirschenbaum
Boog City presents BlazeVOX Books and Compass Jazz
Wed 19 Sep 2007

Please forward

Boog City presents

d.a. levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

BlazeVOX Books
(Kenmore, N.Y.)

Tues. Sept. 25, 6:00 p.m. sharp, free

ACA Galleries
529 W.20th St., 5th Flr.
NYC

Featuring readings from

Joel Chace
Amy King
Ruth Lepson
Douglas Manson
Kyle Schlesinger

and music from
Compass Jazz

There will be wine, cheese, and crackers, too.

Curated and with an introduction by Boog City editor David Kirschenbaum

---

*BlazeVOX Books
http://www.blazevox.org/
BlazeVOX Books has published over 40 volumes, mostly poetry, and will publish approximately 20-25 more each year during 2007 and 2008. Their latest publications, are by Noah Eli Gordon, Joe Amato and Megan Volpert.

Overall Performer Bios

Joel Chace
http://www.sidereality.com/volume1issue4/interviewsv1n4/interviewwithjoelchace.htm Joel Chace has published poetry and prose poetry in print and electronic magazines such as 6ix, Tomorrow, Lost and Found Times, Coracle, xStream, Three Candles, 2River View, Joey & the Black Boots, Recursive Angel, and Veer. He has published more than a dozen print and electronic collections. Forthcoming from BlazeVox Books is Cleaning the Mirror: New and Selected Poems, and, from Paper Kite Press, Matter No Matter, another full-length collection. He is the poetry Eeitor for the experimental electronic magazine 5_Trope.

Compass Jazz
http://www.purevolume.com/compass
Compass Jazz group has been playing together for 30 years, at venues throughout New York City, and all over the U.S.

Amy King http://www.amyking.org Amy King is the author of I¹m the Man Who Loves You and Antidotes for an Alibi, both from BlazeVOX Books, and The People Instruments (Pavement Saw Press). She teaches creative writing and English at Nassau Community College, is the editor-in-chief for the literary arts journal MiPOesias, and is a member of the Poetics List Editorial Board.

Ruth Lepson Ruth Lepson is poet-in-residence at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston.Her previous book of poems is Dreaming in Color (Alice James Books) and the University of Illinois Press published an anthology she edited, Poetry from Sojourner: A Feminist Anthology. Her writing has appeared in Jacket, Carve, EAOGH, and Shampoo, among others. Recently she has been collaborating with jazz musicians.

Douglas Manson
http://www.buffalostate.edu/library/rooftop/members/manson.htm Douglas

Manson is author of a book of poems Roofing and Siding (BlazeVOX Books), and recent chapbooks At Any Point and Sections in Four Seasons. He edits and publishes Celery Flute: The Kenneth Patchen Newsletter and little scratch pad editions chapbooks.

Kyle Schlesinger
http://www.kyleschlesinger.com
Kyle Schlesinger's most recent book is Hello Helicopter (BlazeVox, 2007).

Directions: C/E to 23rd St., 1/9 to 18th St.
Venue is bet. 10th and 11th avenues

Next event:
Tues. Oct. 30, 2007
Talisman House (Jersey City, N.J.)

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W.28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://boogcityevents.blogspot.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)
F: [redacted]

↑ Index

388. Andy Gricevich
Re: Blaser reading in San Francisco last Sunday
Wed 19 Sep 2007

Yeah, what a fantastic reading. Such incredible writing, and such a gorgeous, mellifluous voice. It felt historic, and very present. I feel fortunate to have been able to make it to SFSU before heading back to Madison. Still reeling from Blaser, from Norma Cole and Robert Gluck's lovely speeches... I had told myself, "you've got the Coach House edition--don't be too hasty..." but here I am, with the expanded "Holy Forest" and "The Fire," and thoroughly the better for it. He's an inspiration, no doubt about it.

sleeplessly, from a motel in Kearny, NE,

Andy

Moody friends. Drama queens. Your life? Nope! - their life, your story.
Play Sims Stories at Yahoo! Games.

↑ Index

389. Barry Schwabsky
my west coast tour
Wed 19 Sep 2007

West coast friends, if you happen to be in the neighborhood of any of these events, please come by:

Monday, September 24, 1 pm -- lecture, "Painting after Photography, Again," School for the Contemporary Arts, Simon Fraser University, Alexander Centre, Visual Arts Studio, 611 Alexander St., Vancouver, BC

Wednesday, September 26, noon -- lecture, "Painting after Photography, Again," Roski School of Fine Arts, University of Southern California, 3001 S. Flower Street, Los Angeles, CA

Thursday, September 27, 7:30 pm -- panel discussion on the art of Robert Youds, Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, 1040 Moss Street, Victoria, BC

Saturday, September 28, 8 pm -- poetry reading with Eric Giraud, 1067 Granville, Vancouver, BC

↑ Index

390. Pierre Joris
EQUIPAGE IS RE-LAUNCHING
Wed 19 Sep 2007

This just in via Peter Riley, and I believe of interest to people on this list – I think of Equipage as one of the very best, and maybe the most consistently adventurous of the smaller presses in the UK – Pierre Joris:

E Q U I P A G E

c/o Rod Mengham, Jesus College, Cambridge, CB5 8BL, U.K.

EQUIPAGE IS RE-LAUNCHING

with the Cartalia series

seven new titles individually designed and printed with hot metal on laid paper by the Polish printing company Cartalia

Isobel Armstrong, Desert Collages, price £4.50
David Chaloner, Beyond These Lines, price £4.50
William Fuller, Dry Land, price £4.50
Brian Henry, In the Unlikely Event of a Water, price £4.50
Tracy Ryan, Bloc Notes, £4.50
Marjorie Welish, A Test of Spacing, price £4.50
Grzegorz Wroblewski, Our Flying Objects, price £4.50

all available from 1 October 2007

LAUNCH READING:

DAVID CHALONER JOHN KINSELLA

There will be reading to launch the new series at 18.00 on 6 October at Heffer¹s Bookshop, Trinity Street, Cambridge

David Chaloner will read from his new book, Beyond These Lines John Kinsella will read from his work and from Tracy Ryan¹s new book, Bloc Notes

This event is ticketed but free of charge. To obtain your ticket, contact HYPERLINK mailto:[redacted]

RECENTLY PUBLISHED:

Simon Jarvis, F subscript zero, 8 x 9in., 20pp, price £4.00
Carol Watts, Brass, Running, A5, 20pp, price £3.00
Rod Mengham, Diving Tower, A5, 16pp, price £3.00
Elizabeth Willis, The Great Egg of Night, A5, 20pp, price £3.00
John Kinsella, Love Sonnets, A5, 64pp, price £3.00
Barry MacSweeney, Horses in Boiling Blood, A4, perfect bound, 84pp,price £8.00
Caroline Bergvall, 8 Figs, A5, 48pp, price £3.00
Tony Lopez, Equal Signs, A5, 40pp, price £3.00

All publications are post free if ordered direct from the address given above.
Cheques should be made payable to Equipage.

BACKLIST

J.H.Prynne, Biting the Air, A5, 20pp, price £3.00
Anna Mendelssohn, Implacable Art (published by Equipage/Folio) perfect bound, 140pp, including 32pp of drawings, price £7.95 + £1.00 p&p
Peter Minter, Morning, Hyphen, A5, 36pp, price £3.00
Andrew Duncan (editor and translator), Depart, Kaspar: Modern German Poems, A5, 44pp, price £3.00
Brian Catling, Large Ghost, A5, 20pp, price £3.00

Accomplices: Poems for Stephen Rodefer, A5, 28pp, price £3.00
Tadeusz Pioro, Infinite Neighbourhood, A5, 28pp, price £3.00
Allen Fisher, Ring Shout, A5, 16pp, price £3.00
Marjorie Welish, Begetting Textile, A5, 24pp, price £3.00
William Fuller, Roll, A5, 24pp, price £3.00
Drew Milne, The Gates of Gaza, A5, 20pp, price £3.00
Barry MacSweeney, Sweet Advocate, A5, 24pp, price £3.00
Peter Gizzi, Add This to the House, A5, 40pp, price £3.00
Drew Milne, Familiars, A5, 24pp, price £3.00
J.H.Prynne, Pearls That Were, perfect bound, 28pp, price £4.00
Ian Patterson, Much More Pronounced, A5, 24pp, price £3.00
John Wilkinson, Reverses, A5, 28pp, price £3.00
Jennifer Moxley, Wrong Life, A5, 28pp, price £3.00
John Kinsella, The Benefaction, A5, 62pp, price £3.00
Ralph Hawkins, The Coiling Dragon The Scarlet Bird The White Tiger A Blue & Misted Shroud, A5, 44pp, price £3.00
Geoff Ward, Rainer Maria Rilke: Duino Elegies, A5, 28pp, price £3.00
David Chaloner, Art for Others, A5, 16pp, price £3.00
Drew Milne, As It Were, A5, 20pp, price £3.00
John Forbes, Humidity, A5, 28pp, price £3.00
R.F. Langley, Jack, A5, 28pp, price £3.00
Iain Sinclair, The Ebbing of the Kraft, A5, 40pp. price £3.00
Pierre Alferi, Personal Pong, translated by Kevin Nolan, A5, 20pp, price £3.00
John Wilkinson, Sarn Helen, A5, 32pp, price £3.00
J.H. Prynne, For the Monogram, A5, 20pp, price £3.00
John Kinsella, Graphology, A5, 36pp, price £3.00
John Tranter, Gasoline Kisses, A5, 40pp, price £3.00
Keston Sutherland, Lidia, A5, 24pp, price £3.00
Richard Makin, universlipre, A5, 52pp, price £3.00
John James, Schlegel Eats a Bagel, A5, 24pp, price £3.00
Simon Perril, Spirit Level, A5, 20pp, price £3.00
Keston Sutherland, Prag, A5, 12pp, price £3.00
John Kinsella, The Radnoti Poems, A5, 56pp, price £3.00
Mas Abe, Agile, A5, 12pp, price £3.00
Peter Hughes, Paul Klee¹s Diary, A5, 32pp, price £3.00
Barry MacSweeney, Pearl, A4, 28pp, price £4.00
Peter Hughes, Psyche in the Gargano, A5, 24pp, price £3.00
Richard Makin, f : w :d, A5, 48pp, price £3.00
Tony Lopez, Negative Equity, A5, 40pp, price £3.00
Out to Lunch, Turnpike Ruler, A5, 32pp, price £3.00
Ulli Freer, Blvd.s, A5, 32pp, price £3.00

Drew Milne, How Peace Came, A5, 28pp, price £3.00
J.H.Prynne, Her Weasels Wild Returning, A5, 12pp, price £3.00
Antonio Bellotti (ed.), Milk of Late(anthology), A5, 60pp, price £3.00
John Wilkinson, Torn off a Strip, A5, 36pp, price £3.00
Peter Riley, Lecture, A5, 28pp, price £3.00
David Chaloner, The Edge, A5, 28pp, price £3.00
Michael Haslam, Four Poems, A5, 36pp, price £3.00
Caroline Bergvall, Strange Passage, A5, 28pp, price £3.00
Andrew Duncan, Alien Skies, A5, 32pp, price £3.00
Ian Patterson, Tense Fodder, A5, 24pp, price £3.00
Drew Milne, Satyrs and Mephitic Angels, A5, 20pp, price £3.00
Rod Mengham, Feuds, A5, 20pp, price £3.00
Alan Halsey, Reasonable Distance, A5, 24pp, price £3.00
Ulli Freer, Sand Poles, A5, 28pp, price £3.00
Out to Lunch, 28 Sliverfish Macronix, A5, 32pp, price £3.00
D.S.Marriott, Lative, A5, 24pp, price £2.00
John Wilkinson, The Nile, A5, 28pp, price £2.00

ALSO AVAILABLE Published by Salt (Folio):

Luska Mengham, Leaked Out Local, A5, 20pp, price £2.00

ALSO AVAILABLE Published by Zoland Books

Rudy Burckhardt and Simon Pettet, Talking Pictures: the Photography of Rudy Burckhardt , A4, perfect bound, 248 pp, price £15.00

The poet: always in partibus infidelium -- Paul Celan

Pierre Joris
244 Elm Street
Albany NY 12202
h: [redacted]
c: [redacted]
o: 518 442 40 71
Euro cell: (011 33) 6 75 43 57 10
email: [redacted]
http://pierrejoris.com
Nomadics blog: http://pjoris.blogspot.com

↑ Index

391. Charlie Rossiter

"The Night We Danced With the Raelettes" Charlie Rossiter Poetry Book Published]

Wed 19 Sep 2007

From: FootHills Publishing
Date: 9/18/2007 8:17:33 PM
Subject: Charles Rossiter Poetry Book Published

FootHills Publishing is pleased to announce the release of

"The Night We Danced With the Raelettes"

Occurrences In and Around College Park Maryland
in the 1960s For the Most Part
To the Best of My Recollection

a collection of poems by Charles Rossiter.

(Ordering information below)

It's all here: leaving home for the first time, hanging out with guys from the dorm; road trips; summer jobs as diverse and improbable as delivering yeast for Budweiser, supervising a pick-your-own strawberry patch, and sweating it out in the coal fields of Bethlehem Steel. There are also musings about life, literature, friendship, and the bliss and pain that comes with searching for, finding, and losing love.

"Charlie Rossiter's book takes us a high-speed journey into memory and the past. It makes the 60's come alive again. More importantly, it makes us laugh and cry. Tender, funny, evocative, this book is one not to be missed."

Maria Mazziotti Gillan
Founder & Executive Director, Poetry Center, Passaic Co. CC, Paterson, NJ and editor, Paterson Literary Review.

From the Book:

When Someone Asks Me Who Was First

We still lived in dorms
segregated by sex
but I lived on the first floor
in back
which meant that once we decided
it was easy
to lift her through the window
walk around

and come in the front door
as if nothing monumental were about to happen
but it did
right there in my narrow iron dorm bed
just a wall away
from the distant din
of rowdy dorm guys
without dates
on saturday night.

When someone asks me
who was first
I think of Nanya
and that night
which is not precisely true.
There was someone or two
before her, I'm almost certain.
I forget the details
and the names.

But the night I lifted
Nanya through the window
as if she were
a princess, Lady Guenivere,
Rapunsel-in-Reverse,
and I were Galahad
or Robin Hood
or any stirring figure
out of myth or legend.

That night
she became the first.

Charlie Rossiter, NEA Fellowship recipient and threetime Pushcart Prize nominee, hosts the audio website poetrypoetry.com. A widelypublished poet, his work has been featured on NPR and numerous statewide public radio networks. During the `90s he hosted the Poetry Motel TV program, still seen on cable stations in some parts of the Northeast. His chapbook, What Men Talk About, won the first Red Wheel Barrow Prize from Pudding House Press. Other publications include CR's Greatest Hits: 19752001 and Around the House also from Pudding House Press. He recently performed at the Geraldine R. Dodge Poetry Festival in NJ, and was among a handful of poets selected to perform at the 2005 Chicago Blues Festival. An expanded 2nd edition of Back Beat, his co-authored book of memoir and poetry was published by Fractal Edge Press (2006). He is profiled in Contemporary Authors. Some of the poems in this collection formed the basis of The Night We Danced With the Raelettes, a one-person play produced at Victory Gardens Theatre in Chicago.

The Night We Danced With the Raelettes
is a 60 page hand-sewn book with spine - $14.00

For more information, a picture of the book or to order on-line go to:

http://www.foothillspublishing.com/2007/id176.htm

To order through mail send total price plus $1.75 Shipping and Handling ($2.25 in Canada; $3.25 other countries) for each address sent to. (NYS Residents please add $1.12 Sales Tax per book)

Send orders to:

FootHills Publishing
PO Box 68
Kanona, NY 14856

↑ Index

392. Tom Bell

Teaching geezers, books

Wed 19 Sep 2007

I will be teaching at a senior center. I'm looking for good books and publishers' addresses. Any suggestions welcome

↑ Index

393. James Cervantes

Edit your replies, please! Re: POETICS Digest - 17 Sep 2007 to 18 Sep 2007 (#2007-261)

Wed 19 Sep 2007

On 9/18/07, POETICS automatic digest system
<[redacted]> wrote:
> There are 29 messages totalling 3015 lines in this issue.>

Had I done what a lot of people seem to do, you would have received a dozen screens of unncessary quoting. Please edit your replies and cut to the chase. Thanks!

It gets in the way of my reading Alan Sondheim's marvelous posts.

-- Jim
~~~~~~
~ Salt River Review: http://www.poetserv.org
~ http://www.hamiltonstone.org/catalog.html#temporarymeaning
~ http://www.fieralingue.it/documenti/mr_bondo.pdf
~ http://www.poetserv.org/jvc/home/index.html
~ UPDATED: http://home.earthlink.net/~jvcervantes/~ http://www.flickr.com/photos/[redacted]/

↑ Index

394. Rachel Loden

new on wordstrumpet: the dangerfield prize and other musings

Wed 19 Sep 2007

---

http://wordstrumpet.blogspot.com/

* The Dangerfield Prize : those annoying prizes, and something to do about them

  (Read the full post below, if that's easier)

* The Ministry of Silly Walks : John Cleese on authority in comedy

* Poetry, Heresy, and Delirium : how does a drive-in in Connecticut connect to heresiology in contemporary poetry?

* Another Kind of Heaven : chapbooks and why more libraries don't buy them

The Dangerfield Prize

I'm naming this post after something completely chimerical, as real at present as /Nessiteras rhombopteryx/ (the Loch Ness monster) or other triumphs of cryptozoology. But the Dangerfield Prize, and prizes like it, may have more going for them than cryptids like Nessie.

Last month I mentioned the scholarship recently established for a student graduating from first Canadian poet laureate George Bowering's old high school in Oliver, British Columbia, who "must have a demonstrated interest in writing and be a bit of a pain in the ass."

This scholarship, as I said at the time, opens up all sorts of new imaginative vistas for awards. I'm forced to think about awards in the fall, when I have to decide whether to nominate ten people (plus any number of single works in journals or other small press publications) for the Pushcart Prize. If I decide to participate, as I've done since 2002, my ten nominees will get a letter from Pushcart asking them to send their own selection from their 2007 small press-published work for consideration for the next year's anthology. If I also nominate single pieces from magazines and anthologies, the editors of those publications will get slightly different (but similar) letters.
~~~~~~

If any of my nominees actually wins, they'll become contributing editors as well and get to send in their own lists of nominations in future years.

So why do I have to think about whether to go through this drill? Why isn't it more fun? Because since I've been doing it, only one of my nominees has actually won a Pushcart. The sheer number of nominations pouring in to Pushcart's P.O. box in Wainscott, NY, is enormous and (do the math: each year's winners become nominators) growing like kudzu every year. So any individual nominee stands a vanishingly small chance of winning.

On top of this, there's more than a small aesthetic difference between my taste and that of the annually-chosen poetry editors. Bill Henderson, who founded Pushcart because of his own frustrations with the literary establishment, is, I suspect, a sterling guy who's pursued his mission with nothing short of heroism. Unfortunately, though, we don't happen to be on the same page (for the most part) about what constitutes an outstanding work of poetry in a given year.

That, I think, is to be expected: these are /his/ awards, his bailiwick, and his taste (and that of his chosen editors) rules the day. But as a result I have to wonder: shall I really trouble, say, Rae Armantrout with another nomination, when she's never won? Why should she bother to go through the fairly onerous drill, only to lose yet again?

Even worse, if I do nominate her again, and she puts herself through those paces, doesn't she begin to associate me with the absurdity of it all? Have I really done her a good turn, or have I wasted her time? Questions like these have made me puzzle over my nominations year after year, never seriously considering some extremely worthy candidates because I know they stand zero chance, and apologizing in advance to those I do nominate for what may be a particularly thankless errand.

All this, plus the fact that there is almost universal frustration with awards of all kinds, has made me wonder: what's stopping any of us from taking a page from Bowering's book, or Henderson's, and launching our own awards?

After all, there is actually no prize with a Pushcart Prize, other than publication. The scholarship given in Bowering's name (though probably not endowed from his personal kitty, though I don't have the inside poop) is obviously something most of us can't dream of setting up. But even if the prize loot were extremely modest indeed, or nonexistent -- other than some sort of fuss made by announcement and (for example) publication of the winning work(s) somewhere -- wouldn't it, at the very least, make some deserving writer's day, and be an absolute hoot?

And, if the standards exercised were rigorous enough -- or witty and cryptozoologically wild enough -- couldn't it become more than that? Would it be ridiculous to hope that (in some small way) it could actually help to shape the aesthetic environment of the times?

That's why I'm musing on a still very-much-imaginary Dangerfield Prize, and why I hope others will indulge in similar musings of their own.

Rachel Loden
http://wordstrumpet.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

395. Christina E Lovin
Re: Teaching geezers, books
Wed 19 Sep 2007

Tom:

PASSAGER is a journal that publishes work by older writers (http://raven.ubalt.edu/features/passager/). They also sponsor a poetry contest for writers over 50, as well as solicit work for other special issues. Passager recently began publishing books, as well.

Christina Lovin

-----Original Message-----
From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Tom Bell
Sent: Wednesday, September 19, 2007 9:49 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Teaching geezers, books

I will be teaching at a senior center. I'm looking for good books and publishers' addresses. Any suggestions welcome

↑ Index

396. Alan Sondheim
Gita
Wed 19 Sep 2007

Gita

Could the ancients hear spherics directly? Oh, I think so! Otherwise the drums would not have been constructed with additive functions in mind. Nor with spectral tonalities in mind. Remember, they harbor air and other spherics, closed and vibrating! But surely not the aurora, is that additive? Or magnetic storms, antipodean lightning strikes, are they additive? Every particle has its split-second say! The drum reflects! The drum resonates! Eight fingers, two thumbs, the drum resonates! Whose counting? I am.

http://www.asondheim.org/gita1.mp3
http://www.asondheim.org/gita2.mp3
http://www.asondheim.org/gita3.mp3
http://www.asondheim.org/gita4.mp3

small Nepalese drum

↑ Index

397. Jennifer Karmin
Fellowship: University of Louisville
Wed 19 Sep 2007

Axton Poetry Fellow,
University of Louisville, Fall 2008

Writers who have received their terminal degree within the last five years in Creative Writing are invited to apply for an Axton Fellowship in Creative Writing. The purpose of these fellowships is to provide recent graduates with time to further their own work, to associate them with a distinguished faculty, and to allow them to contribute to a vibrant creative writing community.

Two fellows, one in poetry and one in fiction, will be appointed for the academic years 2008-2009 and 2009-2010, and will be awarded a stipend and benefits. Each fellow will give a reading in the Axton reading series once during her or his tenure, will run one, two-day literary seminar, and will teach one course each semester. Of these courses, one will be of the fellow's design, another will be on the teaching of creative writing, and the other two will be upper level creative writing or literature courses. The fellows will be expected to be in residence in Louisville during their fellowship period.

The fellowships will provide a stipend of $25,000 a year plus benefits for two years.

Candidates for the fellowship should submit the following documents:

a) a current CV
b) a one-page proposal for an undergraduate course
c) a writing sample-no more than 25 pages
d) at least three letters of recommendation.

Applications must be postmarked by November 2, 2007.

Mail applications to: Axton Fellowships, Paul Griner,
Director of Creative Writing, Department of English, Bingham Humanities 315, University of Louisville, Louisville, Kentucky, 40292.

___ Tonight's top picks. What will you watch tonight? Preview the hottest shows on Yahoo! TV. http://tv.yahoo.com/

↑ Index

398. Charlotte Mandel
Re: Teaching geezers, books
Wed 19 Sep 2007

Tom - I can send you a copy of out of print Saturday's Women: Eileen W. Barnes Anthology of poems by women over 40, ed and intro Charlotte Mandel, coedited Rachel Hadas & Maxine Silverman (Saturday Press). And a copy of my chapbook Keeping Him Alive, aged father/daughter interwoven with father/small child (Silver Apples Press). If you'd want more for your class, I'd have to check the supply. Backchannel your mailing address if interested. Whereabouts is the senior center? Charlotte

On Sep 19, 2007, at 9:48 AM, Tom Bell wrote:

I will be teaching at a senior center. I'm looking for good books and publishers' addresses. Any suggestions welcome

↑ Index

399. Catherine Daly
CALL FOR SUMBISSIONS: Voices From Leimert Park
Wed 19 Sep 2007

Leimert Park is a neighborhood in Los Angeles, CA

CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

VOICES FROM LEIMERT PARK
VOLUME II

ELIAS WONDIMU OF TSEHAI PUBLISHERS IS PUBLISHING A SECOND VOLUME OF THE ACCLAIMED ANTHOLOGY VOICES FROM LEIMERT PARK

IF YOU'VE BEEN INVOLVED IN THE LEIMERT PARK LITERARY SCENE AT ANY LEVEL, PLEASE FEEL FREE TO SUBMIT UP TO 5 POEMS (AS ATTACHMENTS) TO:

[redacted]

DEADLINE: FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 28

FOR MORE INFO CONTACT MICHAEL DATCHER
[redacted]

---------- Take the Internet to Go: Yahoo!Go puts the Internet in your pocket:<http://us.rd.yahoo.com/evt=48253/*http://mobile.yahoo.com/go?refer=1GNXIC>mail, news, photos more.

__._,_.___ Messages in this topic
<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/CobaltPoets/message/11763;_ylc=X3oDMTM2N3FyNjNoBF9TAzk3MzU5NzE0BGdycElkAzM2MjYxODMEZ3Jwc3BJZAMxNzA1MDIwMDgyBG1zZ0lkAzExNzYzBHNlYwNmdHIEc2xrA3Z0cGMEc3RpbWUDMTE5MDI0NTU5NgR0cGNJZAMxMTc2Mw-->
(1) Reply (via web post)
<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/CobaltPoets/post;_ylc=X3oDMTJxcWZ0MzZkBF9TAzk3MzU5NzE0BGdycElkAzM2MjYxODMEZ3Jwc3BJZAMxNzA1MDIwMDgyBG1zZ0lkAzExNzYzBHNlYwNmdHIEc2xrA3JwbHkEc3RpbWUDMTE5MDI0NTU5Ng--?act=reply&messageNum=11763>|
Start a new topic
<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/CobaltPoets/post;_ylc=X3oDMTJlY2E5NGs4BF9TAzk3MzU5NzE0BGdycElkAzM2MjYxODMEZ3Jwc3BJZAMxNzA1MDIwMDgyBHNlYwNmdHIEc2xrA250cGMEc3RpbWUDMTE5MDI0NTU5Ng-->
Messages<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/CobaltPoets/messages;_ylc=X3oDMTJlaTI0Z3Z1BF9TAzk3MzU5NzE0BGdycElkAzM2MjYxODMEZ3Jwc3BJZAMxNzA1MDIwMDgyBHNlYwNmdHIEc2xrA21zZ3MEc3RpbWUDMTE5MDI0NTU5Ng-->|
Files<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/CobaltPoets/files;_ylc=X3oDMTJmNzkwZjE3BF9TAzk3MzU5NzE0BGdycElkAzM2MjYxODMEZ3Jwc3BJZAMxNzA1MDIwMDgyBHNlYwNmdHIEc2xrA2ZpbGVzBHN0aW1lAzExOTAyNDU1OTY->|
Photos<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/CobaltPoets/photos;_ylc=X3oDMTJlNmVxMm83BF9TAzk3MzU5NzE0BGdycElkAzM2MjYxODMEZ3Jwc3BJZAMxNzA1MDIwMDgyBHNlYwNmdHIEc2xrA3Bob3QEc3RpbWUDMTE5MDI0NTU5Ng-->
[image: Yahoo! Groups]<http://groups.yahoo.com/;_ylc=X3oDMTJkdjNuMnRjBF9TAzk3NDc2NTkwBGdycElkAzM2MjYxODMEZ3Jwc3BJZAMxNzA1MDIwMDgyBHNlYwNmdHI

Ec2xrA2dmcARzdGltZQMxMTkwMjQ1NTk2>
Change settings via the Web<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/CobaltPoets/join;_ylc=X3oDMTJmZGpiMDhnBF9TAzk3NDc2NTkwBGdycElkAzM2MjYxODMEZ3Jwc3BJZAMxNzA1MDIwMDgyBHNlYwNmdHIEc2xrA3N0bmdzBHN0aW1lAzExOTAyNDU1OTY->(Yahoo!
ID required)
Change settings via email: Switch delivery to Daily
Digest<[redacted]?subject=Email+Delivery:+Digest>|
Switch
format to Traditional<[redacted]?subject=Change+Delivery+Format:+Traditional> Visit Your Group
<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/CobaltPoets;_ylc=X3oDMTJkdmpzMWc0BF9TAzk3NDc2NTkwBGdycElkAzM2MjYxODMEZ3Jwc3BJZAMxNzA1MDIwMDgyBHNlYwNmdHIEc2xrA2hwZgRzdGltZQMxMTkwMjQ1NTk2>|
.

__,_._,___
--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

↑ Index

400. Charles Bernstein
Fordham (NYC) reading series
Wed 19 Sep 2007

POETS OUT LOUD FALL 2007 / New York
all readings at 7:00 pm

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 24
Charles Bernstein & Rachel Blau DuPlessis

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 9
Mei-mei Berssenbrugge & Tan Lin & John Yau

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 29
Bruce Andrews & Tracie Morris reception & book signing to follow

free & open to the public 12th Floor Lounge

Fordham University - Lincoln Center
113 W. 60th Street (corner of Columbus Ave.)

For more info: http://www.fordham.edu/pol

---

http://epc.buffalo.edu/authors/bersnstein/blog

↑ Index

401. Steven Zultanski
Announcing President's Choice
Wed 19 Sep 2007

Hello there all,

I'm happy to announce the publication of a new little magazine that perhaps you will enjoy!

President's Choice is a poetry magazine project that will run for 10 issues. Each issue will feature 6-7 poets represented by 6-10 pages each. Issue number one contains truly fantastic new work by:

Marie Buck
Rodrigo Toscano
Craig Dworkin
Laura Elrick
Bhanu Kapil
Paper Rad
Robert Fitterman

The link to the really ugly blog selling this really good-looking product is this link here: http://www.presidentschoice.blogspot.com/

Also, a note: President's Choice is a Lil' Norton publication.

So far, the other Lil' Norton titles are Model Homes and The Physical Poets. Both are interesting mags and worth checking out:
http://www.modelhomepage.blogspot.com/
http://physicalpoetry.blogspot.com/

Best,
Steve Z.

↑ Index

402. mIEKAL aND

Music Scholar Barred From U.S., but No One Will Tell Her Why

Thu 20 Sep 2007

Music Scholar Barred From U.S., but No One Will Tell Her Why

By NINA BERNSTEIN
Published: September 17, 2007

http://www.nytimes.com/2007/09/17/nyregion/17musicologist.html

Nalini Ghuman, an up-and-coming musicologist and expert on the British composer Edward Elgar, was stopped at the San Francisco airport in August last year and, without explanation, told that she was no longer allowed to enter the United States.

The latest news and reader discussions from around the five boroughs and the region.
Go to City Room »

Her case has become a cause célèbre among musicologists and the subject of a protest campaign by the American Musicological Society and by academic leaders like Leon Botstein, the president of Bard College at Annandale-on-Hudson, N.Y., where Ms. Ghuman was to have participated last month in the Bard Music Festival, showcasing Elgar's music.

But the door has remained closed to Ms. Ghuman, an assistant professor at Mills College in Oakland, Calif., who is British and who had lived, studied and worked in this country for 10 years before her abrupt exclusion.

The mystery of her case shows how difficult, if not impossible, it is to defend against such a decision once the secretive government process has been set in motion.

After a year of letters and inquiries, Ms. Ghuman and her Mills College lawyer have been unable to find out why her residency visa was suddenly revoked, or whether she was on some security watch list. Nor does she know whether her application for a new visa, pending since last October, is being stymied by the shadow of the same unspecified problem or mistake.

In a tearful telephone interview from her parents' home in western Wales, Ms. Ghuman, 34, an Oxford graduate who earned her Ph.D. from the University of California, Berkeley, said she felt like a character in Kafka.

"I don't know why it's happened, what I'm accused of," she said. "There's no opportunity to defend myself. One is just completely powerless."

Kelly Klundt, a spokeswoman for Customs and Border Protection in the Department of Homeland Security, said officers at San Francisco International Airport had no choice but to bar Ms. Ghuman because the State Department, at its discretion, had revoked her visa. The State Department would not discuss the case, citing the confidentiality of individual visa records.

Mr. Botstein, who wrote to Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice in the hope of having the visa problem resolved before the music festival, said Ms. Ghuman's case is symptomatic. "This is an example of the xenophobia, incompetence, stupidity and then bureaucratic intransigence that we are up against," he said, also citing the case of a teacher of Arabic at Bard who missed the first weeks of the spring semester this year because of visa problems. "What is at stake is America's pre-eminence as a place of scholarship."

Ms. Ghuman is certainly not alone in her frustration. Academic and civil liberties groups point to other foreign scholars who have been denied entry without explanation at an airport, or refused a visa when they applied. A pending lawsuit by the American Civil Liberties Union contends that the Bush administration is using heightened security measures to keep foreign scholars out on ideological grounds in violation of the First Amendment rights of American scholars to hear them.

But Ms. Ghuman's case does not seem to fit such a pattern. Few believe that her book in progress, "India in the English Musical Imagination, 1890-1940," or her work on Elgar, best known by Americans for "Pomp and Circumstance," could have raised red flags in Washington. And if it were a question of security profiling, nothing in her background fits.

She was born in Wales. Her mother is a British homemaker, and her father, an emeritus professor of educational psychology at the University of Wales, was born in India to a Sikh family and moved to Britain in the 1960s. Last semester, Ms. Ghuman tried to teach her students by video link. This academic year, she is on an unpaid leave of absence.

"The arbitrary and inexplicable exclusion of Dr. Ghuman has been a personal tragedy for her and a cause of distress to Mills and to American higher education," said Janet L. Holmgren, the president of Mills College, who called her "one of our most distinguished faculty members."

"She seems to be in this limbo," said Ms. Ghuman's fiancé, Paul Flight, 47, who has visited her three times in Britain and is considering a move there. Mr. Flight, a countertenor, co-directed Darius Milhaud's opera about Orpheus and Eurydice with Ms. Ghuman at Mills three years ago.

Ms. Ghuman's descent into the bureaucratic netherworld began on Aug. 8, 2006, when she and Mr. Flight returned to San Francisco from a research trip to Britain. Armed immigration officers met them at the airplane door and escorted Ms. Ghuman away.

In a written account of the next eight hours that she prepared for her lawyer, Ms. Ghuman said that officers tore up her H-1B visa, which was valid through May 2008, defaced her British passport, and seemed suspicious of everything from her music cassettes to the fact that she had listed Welsh as a language she speaks. A redacted government report about the episode obtained by her lawyer under the Freedom of Information Act erroneously described her as “Hispanic.”

↑ Index

403. Alan Sondheim

WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME

Thu 20 Sep 2007

WHAT ARE THESE FISH

Please help me, what are these fish? Large schools gathered tightly together in the Providence River, Rhode Island. They're about 18" in length. I can only guess invasive species, maybe ocean-hungry spawning but I DON'T KNOW FISH.

http://www.asondheim.org/fish8.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/fish19.jpg

Time: late afternoon/early evening.
Numbers: Approximately 1000.
Behavior: Swarming, schooling, occasional 'flashing' of sides.
Color: Seemed almost transparent, grey-blue, dull.

WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH

↑ Index

404. Tom Bell

Re: Teaching geezers, books

Thu 20 Sep 2007

Great!

Tom Bell
St. Cair Senior Center
325 St. Clair
Murfreesboro, TN 37130

[redacted]

↑ Index

405. cralan kelder

Revenge of the american - Versal 5 launch at IVY in Paris (france) 9/25

Thu 20 Sep 2007

I realise that the majority of list recipients are in North America - on the chance that there are list members in Europe, I post this announcement four of Versal¹s editors will be reading this Tuesday the 25th at the IVY Writers Reading Series reading series for a Versal 5 launch;

IVY Writers reading series, is moderated by american poets michelle noteboom and jennifer k dick this Tuesday 25 september will feature a culturally imperialistic invasion with the following poets of mixed-US origin:

heather hartley kai lashley
nicholas manning
cralan kelder

and prue duggan - australia
anna arov - russia

LA RENTREE 2007 IVY Writers' Reading
+++IVY WRITERS PARIS launches another season with a reading for VERSAL Magazine issue 5 +++

25 September at 19h30. AT: LE NEXT, 17, rue Tiquetonne, 75002 Paris (just off rue Montorgeuil) M°Etienne Marcel /Les Halles. Au sous-sol! Tel : 01 42 36 18 93. Entrée gratuit. http://www.lenext.com/ On commence notre saison par une lecture en anglais pour la revue VERSAL (Amsterdam) avec Cralan Kelder, Nicholas Manning, Heather Hartley, Prue Duggan, Anna Arov et Kai Lashly!

online details here; http://ivywritersparis.blogspot.com/

Obviously if anybody can make it, please come and say hello.

Cralan Kelder

Versal
http://www.wordsinhere.com
http://www.cralan.com
--

↑ Index

406. Kathleen Ossip
NYFA Fellows reading Monday 9/24
Thu 20 Sep 2007

POETS IN THE GARDEN

Anselm Berrigan, Brandon Downing, Sharon Mesmer, and Kathleen Ossip, all 2007 NYFA Fellows in Poetry, will read at the The Sixth Street and Avenue B Community Garden, with a question and answer period to follow.

DATE: Monday September 24

TIME: 6:30 p.m.

PLACE: The Sixth Street and Avenue B Community Garden

Please join us!

****

See what's new at http://www.aol.com

↑ Index

407. Christina Lovin
Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
Thu 20 Sep 2007

I believe the fish may be herring, which are found in the Providence River. Herring also have a black spot behind their gills, as do those in your photos. Eighteen inches is pretty large for Atlantic herring, but not unheard of. Hopefully, you can confirm this with someone familiar with the fish population in your area.

Very cool photos! Thanks.

---------- Original message from Alan Sondheim <[redacted]>: ----------

> WHAT ARE THESE FISH
>
> Please help me, what are these fish? Large schools gathered > tightly together in the Providence River, Rhode Island.
> They're about 18" in length. I can only guess invasive species, > maybe ocean-hungry spawning but I DON'T KNOW FISH.
>
> http://www.asondheim.org/fish8.jpg
> http://www.asondheim.org/fish19.jpg
>
> Time: late afternoon/early evening.
> Numbers: Approximately 1000.
> Behavior: Swarming, schooling, occasional 'flashing' of sides.
> Color: Seemed almost transparent, grey-blue, dull.

> WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH

↑ Index

408. Douglas Manson spare couch?
Thu 20 Sep 2007

i'll be in NYC giving a reading with BlazeVOX books authors next Tuesday (Sept. 25) for the Boog City d.a.levy lives reading series at the ACA galleries on W. 20th & wondered if there was anyone gracious with couch available in the NYC area for that night. Someone mentioned David K. but I don't know how to contact him. am d.a.levy fan, tho.

Thanks,
Douglas Manson

↑ Index

409. Gerald Schwartz
Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
Thu 20 Sep 2007

If thin, smelt or alewives. If chubby, shad.

Gerald S.

> I believe the fish may be herring, which are found in the Providence River. Herring also have a black spot behind their gills, as do those in your photos. Eighteen inches is pretty large for Atlantic herring, but not unheard of. Hopefully, you can confirm this with someone familiar with the fish population in your area.
>
> Very cool photos! Thanks.
>
> ---------- Original message from Alan Sondheim
> <[redacted]>: ----------
>
> WHAT ARE THESE FISH
>
> Please help me, what are these fish? Large schools gathered tightly together in the Providence River, Rhode Island. They're about 18" in length. I can only guess invasive species, maybe ocean-hungry spawning but I DON'T KNOW FISH.
>
> http://www.asondheim.org/fish8.jpg
> http://www.asondheim.org/fish19.jpg

> Time: late afternoon/early evening.
> Numbers: Approximately 1000.
> Behavior: Swarming, schooling, occasional 'flashing' of sides.
> Color: Seemed almost transparent, grey-blue, dull.
>
> WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH

↑ Index

410. Maria Damon

Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME

Thu 20 Sep 2007

---

herring! yummy!

Christina Lovin wrote:
> I believe the fish may be herring, which are found in the Providence River. Herring also have a black spot behind their gills, as do those in your photos. Eighteen inches is pretty large for Atlantic herring, but not unheard of. Hopefully, you can confirm this with someone familiar with the fish population in your area.
>
> Very cool photos! Thanks.
>
> ---------- Original message from Alan Sondheim <[redacted]>: ----------
>
>
>
>> WHAT ARE THESE FISH
>>
>> Please help me, what are these fish? Large schools gathered >> tightly together in the Providence River, Rhode Island.
>> They're about 18" in length. I can only guess invasive species, >> maybe ocean-hungry spawning but I DON'T KNOW FISH.
>>
>> http://www.asondheim.org/fish8.jpg
>> http://www.asondheim.org/fish19.jpg
>>
>> Time: late afternoon/early evening.
>> Numbers: Approximately 1000.
>> Behavior: Swarming, schooling, occasional 'flashing' of sides.
>> Color: Seemed almost transparent, grey-blue, dull.
>>

>> WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH
>>

↑ Index

411. eric unger
Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
Thu 20 Sep 2007

---

lovely photos by the way... just hope they aren't an exotic invasive.

On 9/20/07, Christina Lovin <[redacted]> wrote:
> I believe the fish may be herring, which are found in the Providence River. Herring also have a black spot behind their gills, as do those in your photos. Eighteen inches is pretty large for Atlantic herring, but not unheard of. Hopefully, you can confirm this with someone familiar with the fish population in your area.
>
> Very cool photos! Thanks.
>
> ---------- Original message from Alan Sondheim <[redacted]>: ----------
>
>
> > WHAT ARE THESE FISH
> >
> > Please help me, what are these fish? Large schools gathered > > tightly together in the Providence River, Rhode Island.
> > They're about 18" in length. I can only guess invasive species, > > maybe ocean-hungry spawning but I DON'T KNOW FISH.
> >
> > http://www.asondheim.org/fish8.jpg
> > http://www.asondheim.org/fish19.jpg
> >
> > Time: late afternoon/early evening.
> > Numbers: Approximately 1000.
> > Behavior: Swarming, schooling, occasional 'flashing' of sides.
> > Color: Seemed almost transparent, grey-blue, dull.
> >
> > WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH
>

↑ Index

412. W.B. Keckler
Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
Thu 20 Sep 2007

As soon as I saw them the word "menhaden" came to mind...I don't remember ever encountering this word consciously, so I looked it up...

and they looked like they...

so thank you Angel Heurtebise for the transmission...

if they are indeed menhaden....

what a lovely word....

* See what's new at http://www.aol.com

↑ Index

413. Bobbi Lurie
Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
Thu 20 Sep 2007

---

wait! how this? http://www.reticulatedsplines.org/stuff/Fish!.htm?

bobbi

-----Original Message-----
From: Gerald Schwartz <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Thu, 20 Sep 2007 11:16 am
Subject: Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME

If thin, smelt or alewives. If chubby, shad.?
?
Gerald S.?
?
>I believe the fish may be herring, which are found in the Providence River.
>Herring also have a black spot behind their gills, as do those in your >photos.
Eighteen inches is pretty large for Atlantic herring, but not >unheard of.
Hopefully, you can confirm this with someone familiar with the >fish population in your area.?
>?
> Very cool photos! Thanks.?
>?
> ---------- Original message from Alan Sondheim > <[redacted]>: ---------- >?
>?
>> WHAT ARE THESE FISH?

>>?
>> Please help me, what are these fish? Large schools gathered?
>> tightly together in the Providence River, Rhode Island.?
>> They're about 18" in length. I can only guess invasive species,?
>> maybe ocean-hungry spawning but I DON'T KNOW FISH.?
>>?
>> http://www.asondheim.org/fish8.jpg?
>> http://www.asondheim.org/fish19.jpg?
>>?
>> Time: late afternoon/early evening.?
>> Numbers: Approximately 1000.?
>> Behavior: Swarming, schooling, occasional 'flashing' of sides.?
>> Color: Seemed almost transparent, grey-blue, dull.?
>>?
>> WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

414. Poetry Project
Events at The Poetry Project September 2007
Thu 20 Sep 2007

Hello everyone,

Let the readings begin!

Also, Workshops!

Your Pal,

The Poetry Project

MONDAY, September 24, 8pm
HETTIE JONES & JOAN LARKIN

Hettie Jones¹s twenty books for children and adults include her memoir of the Beat scene, How I Became Hettie Jones; the poetry collection Drive, which won the Poetry Society of America¹s Norma Farber Award; Big Star Fallin¹ Mama, Five Women in Black Music, honored by the New York Public Library; and No Woman No Cry, a memoir she authored for Bob Marley¹s widow, Rita. Just published are From Midnight to Dawn, the Last Tracks of the Underground Railroad (with Jacqueline Tobin), and a third poetry collection, Doing 70. Jones is the former Chair of the PEN Prison Writing Committee, and the editor of Aliens at the Border, a poetry collection from her workshop at the Bedford Hills Correctional Facility. Joan Larkin¹s most recent collection is My Body: New and Selected Poems (Hanging Loose Press). Previous books include Cold River (which received a 1997 Lambda Award),and Sor Juana¹s Love Poems (translated with Jaime Manrique). Larkin co-founded Out & Out Books during the feminist literary explosion of the 70¹s. She has served as poetry editor for the queer journal Bloom and co-edits the University of Wisconsin Press autobiography series, ³Living Out.² Her anthology of coming-out stories, A Woman Like That, was nominated for Publishing Triangle and Lambda awards for nonfiction. In her fourth decade of teaching writing, she teaches in the low-residency MFA program in Poetry at New England College.

WEDNESDAY, September 26, 8pm
LISA JARNOT & SPARROW

Lisa Jarnot was born in Buffalo, New York and now lives in Queens. She is the author of three full-length collections of poetry: Some Other Kind of Mission, Ring of Fire, and Black Dog Songs. Her biography of poet Robert Duncan is forthcoming from University of California Press. Her fourth full-length collection of poetry is forthcoming from Flood Editions. She is a teacher and a blogger. Sparrow is in the midst of his fifth campaign for President. He lives in Phoenicia, New York with his wife, Violet Snow, and his daughter Sylvia. Behind their house, an elderly rabbit named Bananacake resides in a rustic hutch. Sparrow writes the gossip column for the Phoenicia Times. (He invents all the gossip.) Sparrow's books are Republican Like Me: a Diary of My Presidential Campaign, Yes, You ARE a Revolutionary! and America: A Prophecy -- the Sparrow Reader (all on Soft Skull Press).

FRIDAY, September 28, 10pm
MASHA TUPITSYN & NORA, a film.

Masha Tupitsyn is a fiction writer and feminist critic who lives in New York City. She received her MA in Literature and Cultural Theory from the University of Sussex in England. Her fiction and criticism has been published or is forthcoming in the anthology Wreckage of Reason: XXperimental Women Writers Writing in the 21st Century, Make/Shift, and Bookforum, among other places. Beauty Talk & Monsters, her first book, is a collection of film-based stories recently published by Semiotext(e). She is currently working on her new book, Showtime. Masha¹s reading will be accompanied by a screening of Nora, a short narrative by Portland-based artists Holly Andres and Grace Carter, in which an afternoon encounter between two lovers plays out in an unusual fashion. The film examines gender roles in terms of sexuality, power, violence and commerce by using tools of the classic suspense/thriller genre, most notably Hitchcock's Psycho. Please visit them online at http://hollyandres.com/ & http://gracecarterfilms.com.

WRITING WORKSHOPS AT THE POETRY PROJECT:

BASIC AND BOLD: LOGOS R US PATRICIA SPEARS JONES
TUESDAYS AT 7PM: 10 SESSIONS BEGIN OCTOBER 9TH

Every writer finds a niche, a gesture, the thing that works in what they do. At some point it may become a style or convention. Sometimes it becomes a crutch. One way to break the mode is to be radical‹that is, return to the roots. What brought you to poetry in the first place? This is a workshop for writers who want to re-look at how the structure and elements of poetry provide the wherewithal to make poems that are as ambitious, thoughtful and innovative as you want them to be. There will be in class writing, assignments, reading, and a revision project called ‹CAN THIS POEM BE SAVED?‹ in which you bring a poem that simply has not come to closure; seems to be stuck; or needs to be looked at by fresh eyes in the hope of finding what could make it work. This workshop is geared toward writers who have been seriously writing for some time. Please submit 5-8 pages of poetry and a brief description of what you¹d like to accomplish in the workshop by September 28. African American poet, playwright and cultural commentator, Patricia Spears Jones is author of two collections, Femme du Monde and The Weather That Kills.

POETRY LAB: FORMS OF JOYFUL EXPERIMENTATION TODD COLBY
FRIDAYS AT 7PM: 10 SESSIONS BEGIN OCTOBER 12TH

In this workshop we'll forge new paths to the poem by investigating how far a poem can depart from being ³a poem² and yet still be a poem. We'll experiment with breath, heartbeat, movement, blogs, the alchemy of words, visions, letters to the editor, spontaneity, psychoanalysis, collaborations, appropriations and self-hypnosis, along with various traditional forms. The main objective is to create a supportive and inviting atmosphere in our joyfully experimental "Lab." A partial reading list will include: Hannah Weiner, Jacques Lacan, Gertrude Stein, Diane Williams, David Markson, Miranda July, Thomas Bernhard, Bill Knott, Arthur Rimbaud, Alice Notley, Mina Loy, Charles Olson, and Ludwig Wittgenstein. Todd Colby is the author of Tremble & Shine, Riot in the Charm Factory, Cush, and Ripsnort, all of which were published by Soft Skull Press.

WORLDLY AND INFINITELY DIMENSIONAL:
A WORKSHOP RACHEL LEVITSKY
SATURDAYS AT 12PM: 10 SESSIONS BEGIN OCTOBER 13

In these times, the possibilities by which we may amplify, record, document, display, shape, formulate, and publish words increases daily. Although expanded media and its wide reach are in themselves a meaningful fact of our times, they don¹t necessarily enhance a poetry¹s resonance. How do we, and by we I mean both ourselves as ones and ourselves as groups, best construct and perform our poetries so as to be present in these particular times and yet open to the infinite possibilities of ³projection,² ³conception,² ³performance²? Familiarizing ourselves with poets like Abigail Child, Julie Patton, Cecilia Vicuña, Bob Dylan, Linton Kwesi Johnson (some will be visiting the workshop), we will consider all means available and any means necessary to project living works into our world. Individually and collaboratively we¹ll construct performances, visual works, sound events, improvisations, etc. Rachel Levitsky is the author of Under the Sun (Futurepoem) and is the founder and co-editor of Belladonna Books.

The workshop fee is $350, which includes a one-year individual Poetry Project membership and tuition for any and all fall spring and fall classes. Reservations are required due to limited class space, and payment must be received in advance. Please send payment and reservations to: The Poetry Project, St. Mark¹s Church, 131 E. 10th St., NY, NY 10003. For more information please call [redacted] or e-mail [redacted].

Become a Poetry Project Member! http://poetryproject.com/membership.php

Fall Calendar: http://www.poetryproject.com/calendar.php

The Poetry Project is located at St. Mark's Church-in-the-Bowery
131 East 10th Street at Second Avenue
New York City 10003
Trains: 6, F, N, R, and L.
[redacted]
www.poetryproject.com

Admission is $8, $7 for students/seniors and $5 for members (though now those who take out a membership at $85 or higher will get in FREE to all regular readings).

We are wheelchair accessible with assistance and advance
notice. For more info call [redacted].

If you¹d like to be unsubscribed from this mailing list, please drop a line at [redacted].

↑ Index

415. George Bowering

Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME

Thu 20 Sep 2007

On Sep 20, 2007, at 10:29 AM, Maria Damon wrote:

> herring! yummy!

Agh, you remind me of the Norwegian B&B breakfast table!

>
> Christina Lovin wrote:
>> I believe the fish may be herring, which are found in the Providence >> River. Herring also have a black spot behind their gills, as do >> those in your photos. Eighteen inches is pretty large for Atlantic >> herring, but not unheard of. Hopefully, you can confirm this with >> someone familiar with the fish population in your area.
>>
>> Very cool photos! Thanks.
>>
>> ---------- Original message from Alan Sondheim
>> <[redacted]>: ----------
>>
>>
>>> WHAT ARE THESE FISH
>>> Please help me, what are these fish? Large schools gathered tightly >>> together in the Providence River, Rhode Island. They're about 18" in >>> length. I can only guess invasive species, maybe ocean-hungry
>>> spawning but I DON'T KNOW FISH.
>>> http://www.asondheim.org/fish8.jpg
>>> http://www.asondheim.org/fish19.jpg
>>> Time: late afternoon/early evening. Numbers: Approximately 1000.
>>> Behavior: Swarming, schooling, occasional 'flashing' of sides.
>>> Color: Seemed almost transparent, grey-blue, dull.
>>> WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH
>
>
Geo. H. Bowering
Adaptable yet reliable.

↑ Index

416. George Bowering
Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
Thu 20 Sep 2007

In Newfoundland there is a little feller called a Caplin.
Resembles a Smelt

gb

On Sep 20, 2007, at 10:16 AM, Gerald Schwartz wrote:

> If thin, smelt or alewives. If chubby, shad.
>
> Gerald S.
>
>> I believe the fish may be herring, which are found in the Providence >> River. Herring also have a black spot behind their gills, as do those >> in your photos. Eighteen inches is pretty large for Atlantic >> herring, but not unheard of. Hopefully, you can confirm this with >> someone familiar with the fish population in your area.
>>
>> Very cool photos! Thanks.
>>
>> ---------- Original message from Alan Sondheim
>> <[redacted]>: ----------
>>
>>> WHAT ARE THESE FISH
>>>
>>> Please help me, what are these fish? Large schools gathered >>> tightly together in the Providence River, Rhode Island.
>>> They're about 18" in length. I can only guess invasive species, >>> maybe ocean-hungry spawning but I DON'T KNOW FISH.
>>>
>>> http://www.asondheim.org/fish8.jpg
>>> http://www.asondheim.org/fish19.jpg
>>>
>>> Time: late afternoon/early evening.
>>> Numbers: Approximately 1000.
>>> Behavior: Swarming, schooling, occasional 'flashing' of sides.
>>> Color: Seemed almost transparent, grey-blue, dull.
>>>
>>> WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH
>
>
George Harvey Bowering
More than meets the eye.

↑ Index

417. Patrick F. Durgin

Kenning Editions Reading Tour: Dorantes, Seldess, Hofer, Durgin

Thu 20 Sep 2007

In anticipation of the publication of _sexoPUROsexoVELOZ and SEPTIEMBRE: A Bilingual Edition of Books Two and Three of Dolores Dorantes, by Dolores Dorantes_ (trans. Jen Hofer), Kenning Editions is sponsoring a reading tour up and down, though mostly down, the west coast. The schedule includes four readers--Dolores Dorantes, Patrick Durgin, Jen Hofer, and Jesse Seldess--unless otherwise specified.

Tue. 10/16, 7:00 PM, Kootenay School of Writing <http://www.kswnet.org/> (Spartacus Books), Vancouver, BC.

Thu. 10/18, 7:00 PM, Emergent Forms Series <http://emergent-forms.blogspot.com/>, Southern Oregon University, Ashland.

Fri. 10/19, 7:30 PM, Spare Room Series <http://www.flim.com/spareroom/> (New American Art Union), Portland.

Sun. 10/21, 7:00 PM, New Yipes Series <http://newyipes.blogspot.com/> (21 Grand), Oakland, CA. (Dolores Dorantes, Demosthenes Agrafiotis, and films by Katie Edmonds)

Mon. 10/22, 7:30 PM, Moe's Books <http://www.telegraphbooks.com/monday.htm>, Berkeley.

Tues. 10/23, 6:00 PM, University of California at Santa Cruz Living Writers Series <http://humwww.ucsc.edu/CWP/news.html>.

Thu. 10/25, 3:30 PM, The Poetry Center of San Francisco State University <http://www.sfsu.edu/%7epoetry/eventCalendar.html>.

Fri. 10/26, 7:30 PM, Modern Times Bookstore <http://www.mtbs.com/events_oct07.html>, San Francisco. (Dorantes, Durgin, and Hofer)

Sun. 10/28, 7 PM, The Smell <http://www.thesmell.org/index1.html>, Los Angeles. (Dorantes, Durgin, and Hofer))

10/29, 7 PM, Calarts, Valencia. (Dorantes and Hofer)

Most of Patrick Durgin's poetry has been published in small press and fine press zines and chapbooks—most recently, a short collection entitled Imitation Poems <http://www.atticusfinch.org/durgin.htm>. He will be reading from that book and conducting performances from Hannah Weiner's Open House <http://www.spdbooks.org/Details.asp?BookID=0976736411>, which he recently edited for Kenning Editions <http://www.kenningeditions.com/>. Durgin is also founder and publisher of the press. Jesse Seldess relocated from Chicago to Berlin, Germany and most recently from Berlin to Karlsruhe, where he continues to edit the journal Antennae and organize the Floating Series of exhibitions and events. He will read from his debut collection from Kenning Editions, Who Opens <http://www.spdbooks.org/Details.asp?BookID=0976736403>. Dolores Dorantes joins us from Ciudad Juárez, Chihuahua, where she is founding director of the border arts collective Compañía Frugal, which supports autonomous projects in the arts and counts among its activities publication of the bi-weekly poetry broadside series Hoja Frugal, printed in editions of 4000 and distributed free throughout Mexico. She will read from her premier full-length collection, copublished by Counterpath Press <http://www.counterpathpress.org/>and Kenning Editions, and entitled sexoPUROsexoVELOZ and Septiembre: A Bilingual Edition of Books Two and Three of Dolores Dorantes, by Dolores Dorantes <http://www.spdbooks.org/Details.asp?BookID=9780976736424>. Reading in tandem with Dorantes is poet-translator Jen Hofer, joining us from Los Angeles. Hofer's recent publications include lip wolf <http://www.actionbooks.org/catalog.html#solorzano>, a translation of Laura Solórzano's lobo de labio (Action Books, 2007), Sin puertas visibles: An Anthology of Contemporary Poetry by Mexican Women <http://www.upress.pitt.edu/BookDetails.aspx?bookId=35445>(University of Pittsburgh Press and Ediciones Sin Nombre, 2003), slide rule (subpress, 2002), and the chapbooks laws (Dusie Kollectiv, 2006) and lawless (Seeing Eye Books, 2003). She and Durgin will read together from their collaborative, hybrid-genre book The Route, very shortly forthcoming from Atelos <http://www.atelos.org/>.

↑ Index

418. Maria Damon

Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME

Thu 20 Sep 2007

---

yeah, lemme at 'em!

George Bowering wrote:
> On Sep 20, 2007, at 10:29 AM, Maria Damon wrote:
>
>> herring! yummy!
>
> Agh, you remind me of the Norwegian B&B breakfast table!
>
>
>>
>> Christina Lovin wrote:

>>> I believe the fish may be herring, which are found in the Providence >>> River. Herring also have a black spot behind their gills, as do >>> those in your photos. Eighteen inches is pretty large for Atlantic >>> herring, but not unheard of. Hopefully, you can confirm this with >>> someone familiar with the fish population in your area.
>>>
>>> Very cool photos! Thanks.
>>>
>>> ---------- Original message from Alan Sondheim
>>> <[redacted]>: ----------
>>>
>>>
>>>> WHAT ARE THESE FISH
>>>> Please help me, what are these fish? Large schools gathered tightly >>>> together in the Providence River, Rhode Island. They're about 18" >>>> in length. I can only guess invasive species, maybe ocean-hungry
>>>> spawning but I DON'T KNOW FISH.
>>>> http://www.asondheim.org/fish8.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/fish19.jpg
>>>> Time: late afternoon/early evening. Numbers: Approximately 1000.
>>>> Behavior: Swarming, schooling, occasional 'flashing' of sides.
>>>> Color: Seemed almost transparent, grey-blue, dull.
>>>> WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH
>>
>>
> Geo. H. Bowering
> Adaptable yet reliable.

↑ Index

419. Carol Novack
Offering Lyrical Fiction Workshop, Manhattan
Thu 20 Sep 2007

Lyrical Fiction Writing Workshop for Intermediate & Advanced Writers
(Greenwich Village or other location in the vicinity)

I'm a widely published fiction writer and poet, the publisher/editor-in-chief of an increasingly popular and respected literary/multi-media e-journal, and an instructor/workshop leader of fiction writing and performance reading at an arts center in Queens, where I've received glowing reviews. I've also been an adjunct instructor of English in two area colleges, a copy-editor/writer for a well-known glossy magazine, and a featured reader in many prose and poetry series in the vicinity and elsewhere. I run my own series at the KGB Bar.

Finally, I have a Master's Degree in Social Work, with a concentration in community organizing and social group work. The skills I learned during my pursuit of the degree come in very handy in a workshop setting. Ok. Enough about me already!

If enough writers are interested (two have responded thus far), I will offer the following workshop, including a session or two on performance reading, at participants' request. I envision leading 6 - 8 intensive, weekly, or bi-monthly meetings in my apartment or elsewhere in the Greenwich/West Village vicinity. Dates and times will be scheduled according to participants' needs and preferences. Cost will be reasonable and dependent on several factors.

This is not a typical write by rules "how to" workshop; it's for serious writers of literary fictions, fusions, and/or poems. If you're a fiction writer, you might end up writing some poetry, as one of my students did, much to her shock and delight!

LYRICAL FICTION WRITING

The discovery and development of one's authentic voice/s through surrender to process is a liberating experience, sometimes exhausting, but always energizing in the deepest sense. This workshop will sharpen writing skills, with a focus on process and language, language as music and visual art, via discussions, writing exercises, prompts, and readings of other authors' prose, as well as prose by participants. How can we tap into our unique thinking, feeling and knowing processes to discover and develop our own special voices, create prose that sings, and images that startle, delight, and disturb? This workshop is for intermediate and advanced writers interested in exploring what they can do with language. It is also a stimulating and inspiring course for those who suffer from so-called writers' block. Respond to [redacted], svp!

↑ Index

420. Bobbi Lurie

Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME

Thu 20 Sep 2007

---

here!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!! i found it!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

yeah, lemme at 'em!?
?
George Bowering wrote:?
> On Sep 20, 2007, at 10:29 AM, Maria Damon wrote:?
>?
>> herring! yummy!?
>?
> Agh, you remind me of the Norwegian B&B breakfast table!?
>?
>?
>>?
>> Christina Lovin wrote:?
>>> I believe the fish may be herring, which are found in the Providence >>> River. Herring also have a black spot behind their gills, as do >>> those in your photos. Eighteen inches is pretty large for Atlantic >>> herring, but not unheard of. Hopefully, you can confirm this with >>> someone familiar with the fish population in your area.?
>>>?
>>> Very cool photos! Thanks.?
>>>?
>>> ---------- Original message from Alan Sondheim >>> <[redacted]>: ----------?
>>>?
>>>?
>>>> WHAT ARE THESE FISH?
>>>> Please help me, what are these fish? Large schools gathered tightly >>>> together in the Providence River, Rhode Island. They're about 18" >>>> in length. I can only guess invasive species, maybe ocean-hungry >>>> spawning but I DON'T KNOW FISH.?
>>>> http://www.asondheim.org/fish8.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/fish19.jpg?
>>>> Time: late afternoon/early evening. Numbers: Approximately 1000.
>>>> Behavior: Swarming, schooling, occasional 'flashing' of sides. >>>> Color: Seemed almost transparent, grey-blue, dull.?
>>>> WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH?
>>?
>>?
> Geo. H. Bowering?
> Adaptable yet reliable.?

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

421. Mark DuCharme
Reading in Boulder, CO this Saturday
Thu 20 Sep 2007

Potato Clock Editions presents
A BOOK RELEASE PARTY
celebrating the publication of

Lives of the Poets
by Patrick Pritchett

&

The Crowd Poems
by Mark DuCharme

Saturday, September 22nd 8:30 p.m. at Exhibitrek
1711 15th Street (just North of Arapahoe)
Boulder, CO 80302

Patrick Pritchett is the author of BURN and several chapbooks, including LIVES OF THE POETS, ANTIPHONAL, SALT, MY LOVE and RESIDE. He is a Lecturer in the History and Literature Program at Harvard.

Mark DuCharme is the author of COSMOPOLITAN TREMBLE, INFINITY SUBSECTIONS and, most recently, THE SENSORY CABINET. He has been on the faculty of the Summer Writing Program at Naropa University, and currently teaches at Front Range Community College.

Potato Clock Editions is a small press based in Boulder which has been publishing limited edition chapbooks of innovative poetry since 2001.

Funded by a grant from the Boulder Arts Commission

(Apologies for cross-posting.)

_____
Capture your memories in an online journal!
http://www.reallivemoms.com?ocid=TXT_TAGHM&loc=us=

↑ Index

422. lily robert-foley
more glyphmachines
Thu 20 Sep 2007

More about the Cascajal Block and the Olmecs. This entry is titled, "What do you mean, 'It's a language'?" If so inclined:

http://glyphmachines.blogspot.com

Thank you so much to those who suggested names of affiliates in Mexico. I have attained success! The search is off! (Melanie Smith). And also thank you anyone who has anything useful to add to the project of translating the block (in this case, specifically mIEKL aND).

Lily

--
Powered By Outblaze

↑ Index

423. Tracey Gagne
Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
Thu 20 Sep 2007

There are some scary looking fish there!!

Tracey

On 9/20/07, Bobbi Lurie <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> wait! how this? http://www.reticulatedsplines.org/stuff/Fish!.htm?
>
> bobbi
>
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Gerald Schwartz <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Thu, 20 Sep 2007 11:16 am
> Subject: Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
>
>
> If thin, smelt or alewives. If chubby, shad.?
> ?
> Gerald S.?

> ?
> >I believe the fish may be herring, which are found in the Providence > River. >Herring also have a black spot behind their gills, as do those in > your >photos. Eighteen inches is pretty large for Atlantic herring, but not > >unheard of. Hopefully, you can confirm this with someone familiar with the > >fish population in your area.?
> >?
> > Very cool photos! Thanks.?
> >?
> > ---------- Original message from Alan Sondheim > <[redacted]>:
> ---------- >?
> >?
> >> WHAT ARE THESE FISH?
> >>?
> >> Please help me, what are these fish? Large schools gathered?
> >> tightly together in the Providence River, Rhode Island.?
> >> They're about 18" in length. I can only guess invasive species,?
> >> maybe ocean-hungry spawning but I DON'T KNOW FISH.?
> >>?
> >> http://www.asondheim.org/fish8.jpg?
> >> http://www.asondheim.org/fish19.jpg?
> >>?
> >> Time: late afternoon/early evening.?
> >> Numbers: Approximately 1000.?
> >> Behavior: Swarming, schooling, occasional 'flashing' of sides.?
> >> Color: Seemed almost transparent, grey-blue, dull.?
> >>?
> >> WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH
>
> _____
> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! -
> http://mail.aol.com
>

↑ Index

424. Tracey Gagne

Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME

Thu 20 Sep 2007

I agree! That's a very cool word!

Tracey

On 9/20/07, W.B. Keckler <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> As soon as I saw them the word "menhaden" came to mind...I don't remember > ever encountering this word consciously, so I looked it up...
>
> and they looked like they...
>
> so thank you Angel Heurtebise for the transmission...
>
> if they are indeed menhaden....
>
> what a lovely word....
>
>
>
> * See what's new at > http://www.aol.com
>

↑ Index

425. Tracey Gagne
Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
Thu 20 Sep 2007

Very cool pics!

On 9/20/07, Alan Sondheim <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> WHAT ARE THESE FISH
>
> Please help me, what are these fish? Large schools gathered > tightly together in the Providence River, Rhode Island.
> They're about 18" in length. I can only guess invasive species, > maybe ocean-hungry spawning but I DON'T KNOW FISH.
>
> http://www.asondheim.org/fish8.jpg
> http://www.asondheim.org/fish19.jpg
>
> Time: late afternoon/early evening.
> Numbers: Approximately 1000.
> Behavior: Swarming, schooling, occasional 'flashing' of sides.
> Color: Seemed almost transparent, grey-blue, dull.
>

> WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH
>

↑ Index

426. Alan Sondheim

Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME

Fri 21 Sep 2007

Thanks everyone! I think they're menhaden which are fascinating fish - there are enormous numbers, important for ocean ecology, filter-feeders and little known, related to herrings. It was amazing watching them. Menhaden grow to 15" which seems about right.

Thanks again! - Alan

On Thu, 20 Sep 2007, Christina Lovin wrote:

> I believe the fish may be herring, which are found in the Providence River. Herring also have a black spot behind their gills, as do those in your photos. Eighteen inches is pretty large for Atlantic herring, but not unheard of. Hopefully, you can confirm this with someone familiar with the fish population in your area.
>
> Very cool photos! Thanks.
>
> ---------- Original message from Alan Sondheim <[redacted]>: ----------
>
> WHAT ARE THESE FISH
>
> Please help me, what are these fish? Large schools gathered > tightly together in the Providence River, Rhode Island.
> They're about 18" in length. I can only guess invasive species,
> maybe ocean-hungry spawning but I DON'T KNOW FISH.
>
> http://www.asondheim.org/fish8.jpg
> http://www.asondheim.org/fish19.jpg
>
> Time: late afternoon/early evening.
> Numbers: Approximately 1000.
> Behavior: Swarming, schooling, occasional 'flashing' of sides.
> Color: Seemed almost transparent, grey-blue, dull.
>
> WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH

========== Work on YouTube, blog at

http://nikuko.blogspot.com . Tel [redacted]. Webpage directory http://www.asondheim.org . Email: [redacted].
http://clc.as.wvu.edu:8080/clc/Members/sondheim for theory; also check WVU Zwiki, Google for recent. Write for info on books, cds, performance, dvds, etc.
==========

↑ Index

427. David Baratier
Pavement Saw Listserv
Fri 21 Sep 2007

We regularly post exclusive material on our national list: interviews, diatribes, consumer recalls of our more dangerous products, new Pavement Saw loungewear and so on. If you would like to have the posts sent to you, here is the address.

http://pavementsaw.org/list/?p=subscribe&id=1

Send this to friends who might be interested. The 8,000 subscriber will recieve a number of free books.

If you live near us & would like material that is specific to our area Fort Wayne, Indiana; Ann Arbor, Michigan; and Toledo, Ohio and throughout the fine state of Ohio use this link as well:

http://pavementsaw.org/list/?p=subscribe&id=1

subscribing to both is fine, it will not create a conflict--

Be well

David Baratier, Editor

Pavement Saw Press
321 Empire Street
Montpelier, OH 43543
http://pavementsaw.org

↑ Index

428. Barry Schwabsky
Fwd: I assume you know this but...
Fri 21 Sep 2007

Anyone have any analytical thoughts on this? I don't except that he may have--well, can't help but have--more interesting taste than his predecessor.

Pulitzer Winner to Take Over as New Yorker's Poetry Editor

Paul Muldoon will become poetry editor of The New Yorker.

By MOTOKO RICH Published: September 20, 2007 Alice Quinn, the poetry editor of The New Yorker, is stepping down after 20 years and will be succeeded in one of the most influential posts in the poetry world by Paul Muldoon, the Pulitzer Prize-winning poet. Mr. Muldoon, 56, will remain chairman of the Princeton University Center for the Creative and Performing Arts. An Irish-born poet who has published 10 volumes of verse, he will also continue to write and teach at Princeton. Ms. Quinn, 58, will leave the magazine in early November. She is executive director of the Poetry Society of America and an adjunct professor at Columbia University's School of the Arts. She said she wanted to devote more time to those jobs as well as to a collection of Elizabeth Bishop's journals and notebooks that she is editing. "I had to keep stealing days to get up to the archive during the week," she said, referring to the collection of Ms. Bishop's papers at Vassar College. "I don't want to take five or six years doing this book." Mr. Muldoon quickly emerged as the leading candidate after Ms. Quinn announced her intentions. "It's not just a matter of picking the best poet you can think of," said David Remnick, editor of The New Yorker. "It's also somebody who would know how to be in touch with an enormous range of poets, and that narrows it down a little bit more. And also somebody who's not in Alaska." Mr. Remnick added that the selection of Mr. Muldoon, who had his first poem published when he was just 16, did not represent "some sort of radical aesthetic or theoretical shift." He added, "It's not as if we went from a structuralist to a post-structuralist or a Beat to a conservative." In her tenure at the magazine, Ms. Quinn, who was also a fiction editor for 14 years, worked with a range of poets that included Joseph Brodsky, Jane Kenyon, Louise Glück, Yusef Komunyakaa, John Ashbery, Charles Simic, Eavan Boland and Mark Strand. Ms. Quinn said she was particularly proud of having introduced so many poets in translation to New Yorker audiences. The magazine has sometimes been criticized for publishing the same poets repeatedly and playing favorites, but Ms. Quinn said that 85 percent of what she published came to her in the mail "with little or no notice." She said that the magazine regularly received more than 600 poems a week. Mr. Muldoon said he had no particular agenda for the job, which is a part-time post. "One would want to be absolutely open to the poem that one simply did not expect to have made its way into the world and somehow suddenly falls on one's desk," he said. Next Article in Books (12 of 15) »

↑ Index

429. Barry Schwabsky
my west coast tour (correction)
Fri 21 Sep 2007

Just noticed a typo in my announcement a couple of days ago--a week from Saturday, when I will be reading at 1067 Granville in Vancouver with Eric Giraud, is of course the 29th of September (not the 28th).

↑ Index

430. Rachel Loden
Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
Fri 21 Sep 2007

My grandfather was a herring broker. Unfortunately, I can't stand herring.

I wonder what David Bromige thinks of herring.

Maria wrote:

> yeah, lemme at 'em!
>
> George Bowering wrote:
> On Sep 20, 2007, at 10:29 AM, Maria Damon wrote:
>
> herring! yummy!
>
> Agh, you remind me of the Norwegian B&B breakfast table!
>
> Christina Lovin wrote:
> I believe the fish may be herring, which are found in the Providence
> River. Herring also have a black spot behind their gills, as do > those in your photos. Eighteen inches is pretty large for Atlantic > herring, but not unheard of. Hopefully, you can confirm this with > someone familiar with the fish population in your area.
>
> Very cool photos! Thanks.
>
> ---------- Original message from Alan Sondheim
> <[redacted]>: ----------
>
> WHAT ARE THESE FISH
> Please help me, what are these fish? Large schools

> gathered tightly > together in the Providence River, Rhode Island. They're > about 18"
> in length. I can only guess invasive species, maybe ocean-hungry
> spawning but I DON'T KNOW FISH.
> http://www.asondheim.org/fish8.jpg
> http://www.asondheim.org/fish19.jpg
> Time: late afternoon/early evening. Numbers: Approximately 1000.
> Behavior: Swarming, schooling, occasional 'flashing' of sides.
> Color: Seemed almost transparent, grey-blue, dull.
> WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH
>
> Geo. H. Bowering
> Adaptable yet reliable.

↑ Index

431. susan maurer

Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME

Fri 21 Sep 2007

---

wanted to see the fishes . the site is blocked for adult content. susan maurer> Date: Thu, 20 Sep 2007 18:04:28 -0400> From: [redacted]> Subject: Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME> To: [redacted]> > wait! how this? http://www.reticulatedsplines.org/stuff/Fish!.htm?> > bobbi > > > -----Original Message-----> From: Gerald Schwartz <[redacted]>> To: [redacted]> Sent: Thu, 20 Sep 2007 11:16 am> Subject: Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME> > > If thin, smelt or alewives. If chubby, shad.?> ?> Gerald S.?> ?> >I believe the fish may be herring, which are found in the Providence River. >Herring also have a black spot behind their gills, as do those in your >photos. Eighteen inches is pretty large for Atlantic herring, but not >unheard of. Hopefully, you can confirm this with someone familiar with the >fish population in your area.?> >?> > Very cool photos! Thanks.?> >?> > ---------- Original message from Alan Sondheim > <[redacted]>: ---------- >?> >?> >> WHAT ARE THESE FISH?> >>?> >> Please help me, what are these fish? Large schools gathered?> >> tightly together in the Providence River, Rhode Island.?> >> They're about 18" in length. I can only guess invasive species,?> >> maybe ocean-hungry spawning but I DON'T KNOW FISH.?> >>?> >> http://www.asondheim.org/fish8.jpg?> >> http://www.asondheim.org/fish19.jpg?> >>?> >> Time: late afternoon/early evening.?> >> Numbers: Approximately 1000.?> >> Behavior: Swarming, schooling, occasional 'flashing' of sides.?> >> Color: Seemed almost transparent, grey-blue, dull.?> >>?> >> WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH > >

_____> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com
_____ Can you find the hidden words? Take a break and play Seekadoo! http://club.live.com/seekadoo.aspx?icid=seek_wlmailtextlink=

↑ Index

432. Dan Waber
Third Friday Art Exhibit & Book Launch
Fri 21 Sep 2007

Tonight:

Things Found (Out): Recent works by David Hage Opening reception 6pm followed by...

Jim Warner, 8:30pm
reading from his new book, "Too Bad It's Poetry" (Paper Kite Press)
Jim will sign copies of his book after the reading.
For a review of the book, please see:

http://www.diamondcityweekly.com/columns/story.asp?id=46114

A limited open mic will follow. Refreshments served.

If you're planning on taking the trolley in Wilkes-Barre for the Third Friday Art Walk destinations, Paper Kite Studio is now on the map! Take the trolley to the west side, take the bus, walk, drive, skateboard...just don't miss it!

Paper Kite Studio
443 Main Street
Kingston, PA 18704
http://www.wordpainting.com/

↑ Index

433. W.B. Keckler
Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
Fri 21 Sep 2007

Wow, thanks Angel Heurtebise...Alan thinks yr right!

Now I'm gonna go out to my car in the garage tonight and listen to the celestial mechanics of its radio for some good transmissions...

"Cegeste, Levez-vous!"

-----Original Message-----
From: Alan Sondheim <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Fri, 21 Sep 2007 12:21 am
Subject: Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME

Thanks everyone! I think they're menhaden which are fascinating fish - there are enormous numbers, important for ocean ecology, filter-feeders and little known, related to herrings. It was amazing watching them. Menhaden grow to 15" which seems about right.?
?
Thanks again! - Alan?
?
On Thu, 20 Sep 2007, Christina Lovin wrote:?
?
> I believe the fish may be herring, which are found in the Providence River. Herring also have a black spot behind their gills, as do those in your photos. Eighteen inches is pretty large for Atlantic herring, but not unheard of. Hopefully, you can confirm this with someone familiar with the fish population in your area.?
>?
> Very cool photos! Thanks.?
>?
> ---------- Original message from Alan Sondheim <[redacted]>: ----------?
>?
>?
>> WHAT ARE THESE FISH?
>>?
>> Please help me, what are these fish? Large schools gathered?
>> tightly together in the Providence River, Rhode Island.?
>> They're about 18" in length. I can only guess invasive species,?
>> maybe ocean-hungry spawning but I DON'T KNOW FISH.?
>>?
>> http://www.asondheim.org/fish8.jpg?
>> http://www.asondheim.org/fish19.jpg?
>>?
>> Time: late afternoon/early evening.?
>> Numbers: Approximately 1000.?
>> Behavior: Swarming, schooling, occasional 'flashing' of sides.?
>> Color: Seemed almost transparent, grey-blue, dull.?
>>?

>> WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH?
>?
>?
?
==========?
Work on YouTube, blog at http://nikuko.blogspot.com . Tel [redacted].?
Webpage directory http://www.asondheim.org . Email: [redacted].?
http://clc.as.wvu.edu:8080/clc/Members/sondheim for theory; also check?
WVU Zwiki, Google for recent. Write for info on books, cds, performance,?
dvds, etc.
==========?

_____ Email
and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! -
http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

434. Charlie Rossiter
$1US = $1CN
Fri 21 Sep 2007

Well I certainly got good use out of the old exchange rate--did Vancouver on $1 to $1.50 rate just a few years ago, but nothing lasts forever...and I'll still be up there when I get a chance, and I'll still be using rte 3 from Buffalo to Detroit because it's such a much more pleasant drive on the north side of the lake. In fact, I'll be there next month.

So, enjoy, my Canadian friends...perhaps more of you will come down for a visit, readings, etc.

Charlie

--
"Poetry is good for you and so is the blues."
Charlie said that.
www.poetrypoetry.com
where you hear poems read by poets who wrote them

www.myspace.com/whiskeybucketbluesreview
hear Charlie & Henry sing the blues

www.myspace.com/charlierossiter
hear Charlie as solo performance poet

www.myspace.com/avantretro (hear avantretro poems)

www.myspace.com/jackthe71special
 hear Jack's original blues, blues rock & roots

↑ Index

435. Bobbi Lurie
Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
Fri 21 Sep 2007

---

dear tracey, you are right...those fish are scary...but what about this one? bobbi

Don't worry this one's dead.

From: Tracey Gagne [redacted]

There are some scary looking fish there!!

Tracey

On 9/20/07, Bobbi Lurie <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> wait! how this? http://www.reticulatedsplines.org/stuff/Fish!.htm?
>
> bobbi
>
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Gerald Schwartz <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Thu, 20 Sep 2007 11:16 am
> Subject: Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
>
>
> If thin, smelt or alewives. If chubby, shad.?
> ?
> Gerald S.?
> ?
> >I believe the fish may be herring, which are found in the Providence > River. >Herring also have a black spot behind their gills, as do those in > your >photos. Eighteen inches is pretty large for Atlantic herring, but not > >unheard of. Hopefully, you can confirm this with someone familiar with the > >fish population in your area.?
> >?
> > Very cool photos! Thanks.?

> >?
> > ---------- Original message from Alan Sondheim > <[redacted]>:
> ---------- >?
> >?
> >> WHAT ARE THESE FISH?
> >>?
> >> Please help me, what are these fish? Large schools gathered?
> >> tightly together in the Providence River, Rhode Island.?
> >> They're about 18" in length. I can only guess invasive species,?
> >> maybe ocean-hungry spawning but I DON'T KNOW FISH.?
> >>?
> >> http://www.asondheim.org/fish8.jpg?
> >> http://www.asondheim.org/fish19.jpg?
> >>?
> >> Time: late afternoon/early evening.?
> >> Numbers: Approximately 1000.?
> >> Behavior: Swarming, schooling, occasional 'flashing' of sides.?
> >> Color: Seemed almost transparent, grey-blue, dull.?
> >>?
> >> WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH
>
> _____
> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! -
> http://mail.aol.com
>

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

436. David A. Kirschenbaum

Last Call: Advertise in Boog City 45

Fri 21 Sep 2007

Please forward

Last Call to Advertise in

Boog City 45

*Deadline

--Wed. Sept. 26-Ad copy to editor
--Sat. Sept. 29-Issue to be distributed

Email to reserve ad space ASAP

We have 2,250 copies distributed and available free throughout Manhattan's East Village, and Williamsburg and Greenpoint, Brooklyn.

Take advantage of our indie discount ad rate. We are once again offering a 50% discount on our 1/8-page ads, cutting them from $60 to $30. (The discount rate also applies to larger ads.)

Advertise your small press's newest publications, your own titles or upcoming readings, or maybe salute an author you feel people should be reading, with a few suggested books to buy. And musical acts, advertise your new albums, indie labels your new releases.

(We're also cool with donations, real cool.)

Email [redacted]
or call 212-842-BOOG(2664) for more information.

thanks,
David

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W.28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://boogcityevents.blogspot.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)
F: [redacted]

↑ Index

437. Maria Damon

Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME

Fri 21 Sep 2007

---

what fish these are i think i know they will not see me stop and wince to ask if there is some fish-prince awaiting an alanic kiss and miles to go before our bliss

W.B. Keckler wrote:
> Wow, thanks Angel Heurtebise...Alan thinks yr right!
>
> Now I'm gonna go out to my car in the garage tonight and listen to the celestial mechanics of its radio for some good transmissions...
>
> "Cegeste, Levez-vous!"
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Alan Sondheim <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Fri, 21 Sep 2007 12:21 am
> Subject: Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
>
>
> Thanks everyone! I think they're menhaden which are fascinating fish - there are enormous numbers, important for ocean ecology, filter-feeders and little known, related to herrings. It was amazing watching them. Menhaden grow to 15" which seems about right.?
> ?
> Thanks again! - Alan?
> ?
> On Thu, 20 Sep 2007, Christina Lovin wrote:?
> ?
>
>> I believe the fish may be herring, which are found in the Providence River. Herring also have a black spot behind their gills, as do those in your photos. Eighteen inches is pretty large for Atlantic herring, but not unheard of. Hopefully, you can confirm this with someone familiar with the fish population in your area.?
>> ?
>> Very cool photos! Thanks.?
>> ?
>> ---------- Original message from Alan Sondheim <[redacted]>: ----------?
>> ?
>> ?
>>
>>> WHAT ARE THESE FISH?
>>> ?
>>> Please help me, what are these fish? Large schools gathered?
>>> tightly together in the Providence River, Rhode Island.?

>>> They're about 18" in length. I can only guess invasive species,?
>>> maybe ocean-hungry spawning but I DON'T KNOW FISH.?
>>> ?
>>> http://www.asondheim.org/fish8.jpg?
>>> http://www.asondheim.org/fish19.jpg?
>>> ?
>>> Time: late afternoon/early evening.?
>>> Numbers: Approximately 1000.?
>>> Behavior: Swarming, schooling, occasional 'flashing' of sides.?
>>> Color: Seemed almost transparent, grey-blue, dull.?
>>> ?
>>> WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH?
>>>
>> ?
>> ?
>>
> ?
>
==========?
> Work on YouTube, blog at http://nikuko.blogspot.com . Tel [redacted].?
> Webpage directory http://www.asondheim.org . Email: [redacted].?
> http://clc.as.wvu.edu:8080/clc/Members/sondheim for theory; also check?
> WVU Zwiki, Google for recent. Write for info on books, cds, performance,?
> dvds, etc.
==========?
>
>
> _____
> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com
>

↑ Index

438. Adam Tobin

Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME

Fri 21 Sep 2007

There is a recent book about menhaden by H. Bruce Franklin, called "The Most Important Fish in the Sea" -- apparently the menhaden fishery is one of the largest industries in the atlantic. They are an important source of oil, and a major ingredient in pet food. They also eat algae, and the overfishing of menhaden causes red tides etc. that obliterate all forms of sea life.

Alan, stop by the store later today and I'll sell you a copy of that book...

Adam

↑ Index

439. Alex
Re: $1US = China threatens 'nuclear option' of dollar sales
Fri 21 Sep 2007

China's government has discussed the possibility of exercising the "nuclear option" for some time - most often on CCTV9, English language programming modeled after CNN and promising a "Chinese perspective". And the media, necessarily, is state-controlled - at least on the Mainland. Yes, one enters Hong Kong, at least I do, to the comforting activism of human rights organizations and locals very much a part of what's political culture. Be warned and, perhaps, wary, because the world is gonna look different soon. And having been away from life in the U.S. for so long, nearly nine years, I cannot help but to wonder, head in hands, all idealism decapitated, how it is the "riotous many" Stateside have manage to f@*k things up so badly. Start reading Sun Tzu's "Art of War". Consider, too, what a "win-win situation" actually means.

Regards,
Alex J.

--

Telegraph.co.uk
China threatens 'nuclear option' of dollar sales
By Ambrose Evans-Pritchard
Last Updated: 8:39pm BST 10/08/2007

The Chinese government has begun a concerted campaign of economic threats against the United States, hinting that it may liquidate its vast holding of US treasuries if Washington imposes trade sanctions to force a yuan revaluation.

Two officials at leading Communist Party bodies have given interviews in recent days warning - for the first time - that Beijing may use its $1.33 trillion (£658bn) of foreign reserves as a political weapon to counter pressure from the US Congress.

Shifts in Chinese policy are often announced through key think tanks and academies. Described as China's "nuclear option" in the state media, such action could trigger a dollar crash at a time when the US currency is already breaking down through historic support levels.

It would also cause a spike in US bond yields, hammering the US housing market and perhaps tipping the economy into recession. It is estimated that China holds over $900bn in a mix of US bonds.

Xia Bin, finance chief at the Development Research Centre (which has cabinet rank), kicked off what now appears to be government policy with a comment last week that Beijing's foreign reserves should be used as a "bargaining chip" in talks with the US.

"Of course, China doesn't want any undesirable phenomenon in the global financial order," he added.

He Fan, an official at the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences, went even further today, letting it be known that Beijing had the power to set off a dollar collapse if it choose to do so.

"China has accumulated a large sum of US dollars. Such a big sum, of which a considerable portion is in US treasury bonds, contributes a great deal to maintaining the position of the dollar as a reserve currency. Russia, Switzerland, and several other countries have reduced the their dollar holdings.

"China is unlikely to follow suit as long as the yuan's exchange rate is stable against the dollar. The Chinese central bank will be forced to sell dollars once the yuan appreciated dramatically, which might lead to a mass depreciation of the dollar," he told China Daily.

The threats play into the presidential electoral campaign of Hillary Clinton, who has called for restrictive legislation to prevent America being "held hostage to economic decicions being made in Beijing, Shanghai, or Tokyo".

She said foreign control over 44pc of the US national debt had left America acutely vulnerable.

Simon Derrick, a currency strategist at the Bank of New York Mellon, said the comments were a message to the US Senate as Capitol Hill prepares legislation for the Autumn session.

"The words are alarming and unambiguous. This carries a clear political threat and could have very serious consequences at a time when the credit markets are already afraid of contagion from the subprime troubles," he said.

A bill drafted by a group of US senators, and backed by the Senate Finance Committee, calls for trade tariffs against Chinese goods as retaliation for alleged currency manipulation.

The yuan has appreciated 9pc against the dollar over the last two years under a crawling peg but it has failed to halt the rise of China's trade surplus, which reached $26.9bn in June.

Henry Paulson, the US Tresury Secretary, said any such sanctions would undermine American authority and "could trigger a global cycle of protectionist legislation".

Mr Paulson is a China expert from his days as head of Goldman Sachs. He has opted for a softer form of diplomacy, but appeared to win few concession from Beijing on a unscheduled trip to China last week aimed at calming the waters.

--
Marcus Aurelius: "The object of life is not to be on the side of the majority, but to escape finding oneself in the ranks of the insane."

↑ Index

440. Jennifer Karmin
JOB: Neighborhood Writing Alliance
Fri 21 Sep 2007

The Neighborhood Writing Alliance (NWA)http://www.jot.org in Chicago, IL is seeking highly organized, creative, self-motivated applicants for the full-time position of Assistant Director of the Neighborhood Writing Alliance and Editor of the 'Journal of Ordinary Thought.'

The Assistant Director/Editor is primarily responsible for guiding the editorial content of the 'Journal of Ordinary Thought,' its development and production on a quarterly schedule, and assisting with the development and implementation of programming. The responsibilities also include: facilitating one to two weekly writing workshops, conducting outreach on behalf of the organization, contributing to fundraising efforts, representing the 'Journal' and the organization, and other administrative duties. The Assistant Director/Editor reports to the Executive Director and directs the editorial process of the 'Journal of Ordinary Thought.'

The position is full-time and includes a benefits package. A full job description is available. Please send a cover letter, resume, salary history/expectations, and writing samples (please send two short samples each addressing a different audience—perhaps a narrative piece, an appeal letter, a portion of a grant proposal, or a segment of a program summary) by October 5th.

Carrie Spitler
Neighborhood Writing Alliance
1313 East 60th Street, Suite 238
Chicago, IL 60637

Additional Qualifications: A minimum of two years of editorial experience and two additional years of teaching writing in adult and/or community-based educational settings; demonstrated knowledge and interest in Chicago, its arts and literary communities, and social issues; strong interest and familiarity with a variety of writing styles as well as community responses to pressing social issues; ability and willingness to travel throughout Chicago; exposure to fundraising at a not-for-profit; ability to work with diverse groups of adults; and strong communication and computer skills. Some evening and weekend work is required with some flexibility in office hours. Self-motivation, accuracy, attention to detail, and ability to meet deadlines are also essential.

___
Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search
that gives answers, not web links.
http://mobile.yahoo.com/mobileweb/onesearch?refer=1ONXIC

↑ Index

441. Eric Dickey
Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
Fri 21 Sep 2007

Menhaden? in a river? I thought these were in a river. American Shad are anadromous (like salmon).

Adam Tobin <[redacted]> wrote: There is a recent book about menhaden by H. Bruce Franklin, called "The Most Important Fish in the Sea" -- apparently the menhaden fishery is one of the largest industries in the atlantic. They are an important source of oil, and a major ingredient in pet food. They also eat algae, and the overfishing of menhaden causes red tides etc. that obliterate all forms of sea life.

Alan, stop by the store later today and I'll sell you a copy of that book...

Adam

Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search that gives answers, not web links.

↑ Index

442. amy king
How Can I Convince You ...
Fri 21 Sep 2007

---

to meet me here for some free wine and cheese, among things?

d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

Tuesday, 25 Sep 2007 | 6 P.M.

ACA Galleries
529 W.20th St., 5th Flr.
(bet. 10th and 11th avenues)
NYC

Tues. Sept. 25
BlazeVOX Books
Kenmore, N.Y.)

Featuring readings from

Joel Chace
Amy King
Ruth Lepson
Douglas Manson
Kyle Schlesinger
Michael Ruby
Ryan Daley
Meghan Punschke

and music from
Compass Jazz

Oct. 30 Talisman House (Jersey City, N.J.)
Nov. 27 Big Game Books (Washington, D.C.)
Dec. 18 Six NYC Presses: Belladonna Books, Cy Gist Press, Futurepoem Books, Kitchen Press, Litmus Press/Aufgabe, Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs

The season runs through July and will also feature:
Abraham Lincoln (Ashland, Ore.)
Instance Press (Boulder, Co.; New York City; Richmond, Va.)

Outside Voices (Charlottesville, Va.)
Effing Press (Austin, Texas)
Ixnay Press (Philadelphia)
and more...

http://www.amyking.org/events/56/

Reviews of I'M THE MAN WHO LOVES YOU

Matt Hart / Coldfront Magazine
http://reviews.coldfrontmag.com/2007/06/im_the_man_who_.html

Mark Lamoureux / BOOG City
http://welcometoboogcity.com/boogpdfs/bc43.pdf

Nick Piombino / fait accompli
http://nickpiombino.blogspot.com/2007_03_18_archive.html

Thomas Fink / Galatea Resurrects
http://galatearesurrection6.blogspot.com/2007/05/im-man-who-loves-you-by-amy-king.html

~

Recent Review of ANTIDOTES FOR AN ALIBI

Adam Fieled / Stoning the Devil
http://adamfieled.blogspot.com/2007/05/book-review-amy-king-antidote-for-alibi.html

~

What To Wear During An Orange Alert?
http://wearduringorangealert.blogspot.com/2007/07/writers-corner_12.html

~

http://www.amyking.org/blog

Looking for a deal? Find great prices on flights and hotels with Yahoo! FareChase.

↑ Index

443. Brigitte Byrd
Randy Prunty?
Fri 21 Sep 2007

I'm looking for Randy. . . .

Brigitte Byrd, PhD

Assistant Professor

Department of Language and Literature

Clayton State University

[redacted] (Voice)

[redacted] (Fax)

http://a-s.clayton.edu/bbyrd/Homepage.htm

↑ Index

444. Adam Tobin
Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
Fri 21 Sep 2007

I'm not sure, but I believe that the canals that run through downtown Providence are extensions of Naragansett Bay, and most of the "rivers" in the neighborhood are in fact estuaries...

-----Original Message-----
From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Eric Dickey
Sent: Friday, September 21, 2007 2:28 PM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME

Menhaden? in a river? I thought these were in a river. American Shad are anadromous (like salmon).

Adam Tobin <[redacted]> wrote: There is a recent book about menhaden by H. Bruce Franklin, called "The Most Important Fish in the Sea" -- apparently the menhaden fishery is one of the largest industries in the atlantic. They are an important source of oil, and a major ingredient in pet food. They also eat algae, and the overfishing of menhaden causes red tides etc. that obliterate all forms of sea life.

Alan, stop by the store later today and I'll sell you a copy of that book...

Adam

Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search that gives answers, not web links.

↑ Index

445. amy king
Next Friday in Brooklyn, NYC
Fri 21 Sep 2007

MiPOesias presents

~~ CHRISTOPHER STACKHOUSE , ARACELIS GIRMAY and DURIEL E. HARRIS ~~

Hosted by Evie Shockley, Quest Editor

Friday, September 28th @ 7 P.M.

~~

ARACELIS GIRMAY writes poetry, fiction, & essays. Originally from Santa Ana, California, she earned degrees from Connecticut College & NYU. Girmay is a Cave Canem Fellow & former Watson Fellow. Her poems have been published in Callaloo, Bellevue Literary Review, Indiana Review, and Ploughshares, among others. Her book of poems, Teeth, will be published by Curbstone Press: summer, 2007.

CHRISTOPHER STACKHOUSE the author of "Slip" (Corollary Press, 2005) and co-author with writer John Keene on the collaborative book "Seismosis" (1913 Press, 2006), which features Keene's text and Stackhouse's drawings. He is an editor for literary journal Fence Magazine, a Cave Canem Writer Fellow, a 2005 Fellow in Poetry New York Foundation For The Arts, and Bard College, Milton Avery Graduate School of the Arts, M.F.A. Writing Candidate.

Heralded as one of three Chicago poets for the 21st century by WBEZ Chicago Public Radio, DURIEL E. HARRIS is a co-founder of the Black Took Collective and Poetry Editor for Obsidian III. Drag (Elixir Press, 2003), her first book, was hailed by Black Issues Book Review as one of the best poetry volumes of the year. She is currently at work on AMNESIAC, a media art project (poetry volume, DVD, sound recording, website) funded in part by the University of California Santa Barbara Center for Black Studies Race and Technology Initiative. AMNESIAC writings appear or are forthcoming in Stone Canoe, nocturnes, The Encyclopedia Project, Mixed Blood, and The Ringing Ear. A performing poet/sound artist, Harris is a Cave Canem fellow, recent resident at The MacDowell Colony, and member of the free jazz ensemble Douglas Ewart & Inventions. She teaches English at St. Lawrence University in upstate New York.

~~~~~~~

STAIN BAR
766 Grand Street Brooklyn , NY 11211
(L train to Grand Street Stop, walk 1 block west)
718/[redacted]
http://www.stainbar.com/

~~~~~~~~

Read QUEST here ----> http://www.mipoesias.com/EVIESHOCKLEYISSUE/

Hope you'll stop by!

Amy King
Editor
http://www.mipoesias.com

please forward

apologies for cross-posting

Be a better Globetrotter. Get better travel answers from someone who knows.
Yahoo! Answers - Check it out.

↑ Index

446. George Bowering
Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
Fri 21 Sep 2007

So much depends upon
a dead green herring
beside the boiled eggs
on a Swedish table.

↑ Index

447. Carol Novack
Visiting poet looking for a feature in NYC
Fri 21 Sep 2007

Poet Helen Ruggieri will be in NYC for the AWP Conference January 30 - Feb. 2, 2008. She'd be a great featured reader (I've heard her myself), so if any of you series curators can fit her in, preferably but not necessarily on any other eve but the 1st, when yours truly is curating a KGB Bar reading (starring online publishers/editors plus guest star Rikki Ducornet), please let me know. Thanks!
-- Carol

Helen Ruggieri's "Glimmer Girls," a book of poetry, from Mayapple Press."creates a landscape in which girls practice becoming women. The universality of the adolescent experience is rendered in these insightful poems with grace, ease and understanding." SHe loves reviewers who say nice things.

A book of short prose journal pieces about Japan, "The Character for Woman," is available from Foothills Publishing. Reviewers called it "down to earth" because it answers unasked questions about living in a foreign culture like, should I hang my undies on the line outside? Her haiku have won international competitions in Japan: to understand war/share a driveway/with new neighbors.

Other poems and prose pieces have recently been in Spoon River Poetry Review, Poetry Midwest, Hawaii Pacific Review (Best of the Decade), Cream City Review, Mystic River, Adirondack Review, and in many anthologies. She's a columnist for Mad Hatters' Review. Google "Helen Ruggieri" or visit www.helenruggieri.com.

Ruggieri lives in Olean, NY along the Allegheny River. She is a journal keeper, a master gardener, and has a black sash in tai chi.

--
MAD HATTERS' REVIEW: Edgy & Enlightened Literature, Art & Music in the Age
of Dementia: http://www.madhattersreview.com
KEEP THE MAD HATTERS ALIVE! MAKE A TAX DEDUCTIBLE DONATION HERE:
https://www.fracturedatlas.org/site/contribute/donate/580

http://carolnovack.blogspot.com/

My NEW CD: INVENTIONS I: Fictions, Fusions & Poems is available for purchase via: http://www.madhatthttersreview.com/cds_dvds/inventions1.html

Review & Interview: http://www.outsiderwriters.org/content/view/319/1/

http://www.myspace.com/madhattercarollers
http://www.myspace.com/madhattersreview

↑ Index

448. Michael Rothenberg

David Meltzer and Michael Rothenberg read in Bisbee, Tuscon, Albuquerque

Fri 21 Sep 2007

David Meltzer and Michael Rothenberg will be reading in Bisbee, Tuscon and Albuquerque in October. Hope to see you there!

Bisbee-Friday, October 5, 7:30pm

David Meltzer& Michael Rothenberg reading followed by booksigning and reception
Central School Project, Poets Voice Series
43 Howell Ave in Old Bisbee
Admission: $6 ($4 students with ID)

Tuscon--Monday, October 8, 2007 - 7:00pm

The Z Mansion: David Meltzer & Michael Rothenberg
288 N. Church Ave.
in downtown Tucson
7pm start time
$5 at the door. $3 for students. Contact: Chax Press, [redacted]

Chax Press & POG events are made possible in part by contributions from the Tucson Pima Arts Council and the Arizona Commission on the Arts, with funding from the State of Arizona and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Albuquerque--Fri Oct 12th @ 7:30 pm

Wordspace Poetry Series: David Meltzer & Michael Rothenberg @ the Outpost Performance Space 210 Yale Blvd SE in Albuquerque $5 at the door. For more info contact Outpost @ [redacted]

ABOUT THE READERS

In 1960, David Meltzer's poems appeared in the ground-breaking anthology, The New American Poetry. He has gone on to create a substantial body of work that is pervaded with "a kind of bop-perfection." Having arrived in San Francisco in 1957, he is associated both with the Beats and the San Francisco Renaissance, often reading with jazz musicians at bars and coffeehouses. His recent book, Beat Thing (La Alameda Press), winner of the PEN Oakland Josephine Miles award, is both tribute to down-in-the-street wildness and rant against the romantic commodification which surrounds the Beat Generation. Meltzer brings forth the original spirit of Beat in an encyclopedic cascade of details whose dense, deep, fierce, funny, raucous, free-associative jazz energy infuses every line. Beat Thing is an ecstatic chant of defiance and celebration. Meltzer's Copy: The Selected Poems, edited by Michael Rothenberg, has now come out with nearly 50 years of Meltzer's poetry and provides ample evidence of his stylistic breadth as well as the music and humor active in it.

Michael Rothenberg's work as an editor is well known, not only for David's Copy, but also As Ever: Selected Poems of Joanne Kyger; Overtime: Selected Poems of Philip Whalen; Way More West: Selected Poems of Edward Dorn and the Collected Poems of Philip Whalen. He is also editor of Big Bridge, www.bigbridge.org , a prominent online literary zine. Rothenberg is the author of The Paris Journals; Monk Daddy; Grown Up Cuba; and recently Unhurried Vision from La Alameda Press, which charts the year Rothenberg spent caring for the terminally ill Philip Whalen. In 1976 he moved to California and co-founded Shelldance, a bromeliad and orchid nursery in Pacifica. An active environmentalist, Rothenberg has been a leading force in the protection of Bay Area coastal lands and endangered species.

from THE ART / THE VEIL, by David Meltzer

Light on ancient text.
Flicker of word
Moving into word.
They ask me what I do.
Enough.

[]

Abruptly Europe dies.
Bloody tallis I wave
To cars to eyes. Dies.
The silk blazing.

[]

Noisily yank a failed poem
out of the typewriter roller.
My hair falls into the keys.
Not grey but silver
whose light
reminds me of work to be done.

[]

It isn't fame or failure
just so many books to read
so many words to write
and the backyard garden is Paradise. I could spend
all day naming things and all night
breaking promises

[]

Dawn loon silhouette
skims over the lagoon

its crazed song
unable to tame my rage into a haiku.

[]

The deception of a new typewriter ribbon gets him going another few years.

by David Meltzer, copyright © 1981. All rights reserved.

SIMPLIFY INFINITY, by Michael Rothenberg

Rain slaughters the balcony

I'm invisible

Flowers blown off red skeletons

I'm describing my death

My mother tells me come inside

But there's nothing inside worth imagining

It's all outside

Starlings in confusion

Where the body is purified by danger

July 14, 2001

by Michael Rothenberg from Monk Daddy, Blue Press. All rights reserved.

↑ Index

449. Bobbi Lurie

Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME

Fri 21 Sep 2007

---

no, actually, nothing does...bobbi lurie

So much depends upon?
a dead green herring?
beside the boiled eggs?
on a Swedish table.?

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

450. Alan Sondheim

Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME

Fri 21 Sep 2007

They are, they're rivers as well of course, but the fish move up through them apparently.

- Alan

On Fri, 21 Sep 2007, Adam Tobin wrote:

> I'm not sure, but I believe that the canals that run through downtown Providence are extensions of Naragansett Bay, and most of the "rivers" in the neighborhood are in fact estuaries...
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Eric Dickey
> Sent: Friday, September 21, 2007 2:28 PM
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
>
> Menhaden? in a river? I thought these were in a river. American Shad are anadromous (like salmon).
>
> Adam Tobin <[redacted]> wrote: There is a recent book about menhaden by H. Bruce Franklin, called "The Most Important Fish in the Sea" -- apparently the menhaden fishery is one of the largest industries in the atlantic. They are an important source of oil, and a major ingredient in pet food. They also eat algae, and the overfishing of menhaden causes red tides etc. that obliterate all forms of sea life.
>
> Alan, stop by the store later today and I'll sell you a copy of that book...
>
> Adam

> ---
> Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search that gives answers, not web links.

==========
========== Work on YouTube, blog at http://nikuko.blogspot.com . Tel [redacted]. Webpage directory http://www.asondheim.org . Email: [redacted]. http://clc.as.wvu.edu:8080/clc/Members/sondheim for theory; also check WVU Zwiki, Google for recent. Write for info on books, cds, performance, dvds, etc.
==========
==========

↑ Index

451. Catherine Daly
Re: Visiting poet looking for a feature in NYC
Fri 21 Sep 2007

---

uh, aren't we all? at least those of us who will be in New York for the conference -- which, by the way, has a really great book fair

--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

↑ Index

452. Alan Sondheim
Re: Human modeling again (notes for a talk)
Fri 21 Sep 2007

Sorry for the late reply - I want to thank you for this. I've found a couple of books that are useful - especially Aesthetic Computing, edited by Paul Wishwick, MIT - which covers similar ground. There's also the Second Life "The Official Guide" which I just got - mainly for the URLs and stuff on scripting.

Is this the same Sam Weber who was doing theory work years ago? Do you have URLs?

Thanks greatly - Alan

On Tue, 18 Sep 2007, Eireene Nealand wrote:

> Hey, interesting stuff. Hope to hear more about it as you go.

> Sam Weber at UCLA, by the way, is doing some interesting related work on the skin as a sampling device, or a screen. and Wlad Godzich at UC Santa Cruz is working with the possibility of using the DNA metaphor for thinking about posthuman identity.
>
> See also Steve Barker's book 'Autoaesthetics' which was quite early and so, sometimes limited but the first two chapters are quite good.
>
> There is a lot, I think to be done in thinking about iterative identities. fluid dynamics and chaos theory are in some ways providing us with a real chance to break down all of these body/surface dualisms, (the brain, Godzich likes to say, is a very densely folded skin, made out of that same material, he says).
>
> And the insects/swarms are realy related to all of this, right?
>
> i had an idea about avatars, and why this possibility of being in multiple places at once, via virtuality, requires precisely if not an iterative way of thinking than at least a relativistic, comparative one, but it's a long story, moire patterns, duchamp. etc.
>
> e
>
> On 9/17/07, Alan Sondheim <[redacted]> wrote:
> (first section at http://www.asondheim.org/ph.txt)
>
> Human modeling again (notes for a talk)
>
> I think 4 aspects - psychoanalytics, avatar-skin, medical modeling, AI communality/behavior/sociality - to be considered.
>
> Well: Avatar-skin: surface of being human which is always a fiction; there is no exacting boundary where body ends and environment begins (think of breath, other processes). So this is splines, Bezier curves, NURBs, early polygon work, etc. now automated by Poser etc. Avatar-skin also applies to audio (later touch, scent, taste, etc.) - everything perceived from one human or other organism to another.
>
> Well: AI communality/behavior/sociality: the internally-automated behavior of the avatar-skin; think of this as diachronic avatar, and avatar-skin as synchronic; each moves through the other. With AI, avatar is somewhat spread across the social; communication and communality extend the opaque body (metaphorically) into the translucent.
> Fundamental rules of the 'game' tending towards description.
>
> Well: Medical modeling: Both diachronic and synchronic, the projected/

> introjected organs of the avatar-skin, always on the level of a model, i.e. a beating heart is fabricated on a subtextual level again from polygons, curves, splines, etc. The ontology is different as long as one remains within the realm of computational modeling. (One might say that _inscription_ in the real is paralleled by _fissure_ in the virtual.) Medical modeling is fundamental description tending towards explanation.
>
> Well: Psychoanalytics: Here is where the following have to be taken into account:
> 1. The abject: epistemological/ontological/inscriptive 'smears' across domains. Corrosive and irreducible to the other categories.
> 2. Introjection/projection ('jectivity') - formation of internalized images from virtual to real.
> 3. Obscenity and interjections: Breakdowns of communication within communication.
> Psychoanalytics are not susceptible to mathesis beyond topology. (Level of the metaphoric: No verification procedures.)
>
> But of course all of this is rough, not exactly accurate; ontology and epistemology, various branches and techniques of mathematics, can be thrown around heedlessly. Still I'd want to begin from the four aspects described here: body/surface, psychoanalytics/'mind', AI/habitus, and medical/observation-experimentation. One would have to further consider the role of apparatus, observation, observer, in all of this.
>
> One final note - the concern - that, with formal and informal modeling systems of organisms/physics/mathematics: How is consciousness in relation? In other words, _what are the effects on the reader/programmer/experimenter? How do these relate to abjection and jectivity if at all?

========== Work on YouTube, blog at http://nikuko.blogspot.com . Tel [redacted]. Webpage directory http://www.asondheim.org . Email: [redacted]. http://clc.as.wvu.edu:8080/clc/Members/sondheim for theory; also check WVU Zwiki, Google for recent. Write for info on books, cds, performance, dvds, etc. ==========

↑ Index

453. charles alexander
new on chaxblog, certain slants
Fri 21 Sep 2007

Three new posts up on <http://chax.org/blog.htm>chaxblog

> BENJAMIN'S SPECTACLES: Spring Ulmer's first book, from Kore Press > OOOOOklahoma for the last four & a half days > after chax press move, the new address

http://chax.org/blog.htm

see Junction Press, http://junctionpress.com/books/alexander.html for my latest book and see http://www.gopog.org for the next reading in the POG series in Tucson, this Sunday!

charles

charles alexander / chax press

fold the book inside the book keep it open always read from the inside out speak then

Chax Press
[redacted] (studio)
[redacted] (cell)
[redacted]
chax.org
101 W. Sixth St.
Tucson, AZ 85701-1000

↑ Index

454. Alan Sondheim
[...] would have guessed [...]
Sat 22 Sep 2007

[...] would have guessed [...]

"However, notwithstanding this apparent variety, mantras are always regarded as a form of speech differing from language in that, unlike language, they are not bound by 'conventions' nor associated with objects, but on the contrary are oriented toward the very origin of the Word and of the energy."

From Vac, The Concept of the Word in Selected Hindu Tantras, Andre Padoux, SUNY Press, 1990.

"The pleasure in the act of Venus is the greatest of the pleasures of the senses; the matching of it with itch is unproper; ahtough that also be pleasing to the touch. But the causes are profound. First, all the organs of the senses qualify the motions of the spirits; and make so many several species of motions, and pleasure or displeasures thereupon, as there be diversities of organs. The instruments of sight, hearing, taste, and smell, are of several frame, and so are the parts for generation. Therefore Scaliger doth well to make the pleasure of generation a sixth sense; and if there were any other differing organs, and qualified perforations for the spirits to pass, there would be more than the five senses; neither do we well know whether some beasts and birds have not senses that we know not; and the very scent of dogs is almost a sense by itself."

From Bacon, Sylva Sylvarum, 693.

"The spline that is numbered as six defines the top of the breasts. It curves in to form the hollow of the back and the shoulder blades. This spline is also the widest of the three, because the area between splines five and six will overlap into the attached arms.

"Spline number seven outlines the middle of the breasts. Its effect on the shape of the breasts can be seen the clearest in the top view. The nipples are modeled separately and attached at the very front and slightly to the sides of spline number seven.

"The eighth spline [...] profiles the base of the breasts. In the front view, both splines seven and eight curve around to form the roundness of the breasts. While seven and eight curve down in the front view, number six curves up. The middle front vertices of splines seven through nine are moved up to form the thoracic arch. All three splines curve inward at the back for the shoulder blades and spine."

From 3-D Human Modeling and Animation, Peter Ratner, Wiley, 1998.

"Why do all men, both foreign and Greek, count in tens, and not in any other numbers? For instance, they might count 2,3,4,5, and then repeat one, five, two five, and so on as now they say eleven, twelve, and so on. Or why do they not stop at a number beyond ten and repeat from there? For each number is made by putting a preceding number and one, two, and so on with another number before them, and hence another number is formed, but they always count from ten as a limit. For as this is invariably done it clearly cannot be due to chance; for what is invariable and occurs in every case cannot be a chance arrangement but must be due to nature. [...] Or is it because all men have ten fingers? Having then counters of a natural number, they number all other quantities by this number. The Thracians are the only race who count in fours, because like children they cannot remember very far, nor have they any use for any large number."

From Aristotle, Problems, XV, 3, trans. W. S. Hett, Loeb, 1926.

"Their lives are graced through my reading their works come alive. Devouring their living works compress their lives into one. Insolence of their letters directed actions of my own. Coming into fruition of work and life through my reading of them."

From Textbook of Thinking, Alan Sondheim, open-lock, 1991.

↑ Index

455. Daniel Zimmerman

Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME

Sat 22 Sep 2007

Also known as Bunkers or Bug fish, the latter because of a large parasite that lives in the mouth. More pounds of Menhaden are landed each year than any other fish species in America. It is an important commercial fishery species. http://www.dnr.state.md.us/bay/cblife/fish/atl_menhaden.html

----- Original Message -----
From: "Alan Sondheim" <[redacted]>
To: <[redacted]>
Sent: Friday, September 21, 2007 6:55 PM
Subject: Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME

> They are, they're rivers as well of course, but the fish move up through them apparently.
>
> - Alan
>
> On Fri, 21 Sep 2007, Adam Tobin wrote:
>
> I'm not sure, but I believe that the canals that run through downtown Providence are extensions of Naragansett Bay, and most of the "rivers" in the neighborhood are in fact estuaries...
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]]
> On
> Behalf Of Eric Dickey
> Sent: Friday, September 21, 2007 2:28 PM
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
>
> Menhaden? in a river? I thought these were in a river. American Shad are

anadromous (like salmon).

Adam Tobin <[redacted]> wrote: There is a recent book about menhaden by H. Bruce Franklin, called "The Most Important Fish in the Sea"
-- apparently the menhaden fishery is one of the largest industries in the atlantic. They are an important source of oil, and a major ingredient in pet food. They also eat algae, and the overfishing of menhaden causes red tides etc. that obliterate all forms of sea life.

Alan, stop by the store later today and I'll sell you a copy of that book...

Adam

Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search that gives answers, not web links.

==========
Work on YouTube, blog at http://nikuko.blogspot.com . Tel [redacted].
Webpage directory http://www.asondheim.org . Email: [redacted].
http://clc.as.wvu.edu:8080/clc/Members/sondheim for theory; also check WVU Zwiki, Google for recent. Write for info on books, cds, performance, dvds, etc.
==========

↑ Index

456. Pierre Joris
New Posts on Nomadics Blog
Sat 22 Sep 2007

---

check out these recent posts on Nomadics blog: http://pjoris.blogspot.com

Maurice Blanchot at 100
Equipage is re-launching
Death of a poet and scholar: Bill Griffiths Recent signandsight features
Bill Griffiths (1948-2007)
Mary Beach & Claude Pélieu are Back!
Further News re Pessoa

be well – I will spend a few hours today reading in Blanchot's "The Infinite Conversation."

Pierre

_____

The poet: always in partibus infidelium -- Paul Celan

_____

Pierre Joris
244 Elm Street
Albany NY 12202
h: [redacted]
c: [redacted]
o: 518 442 40 71
Euro cell: (011 33) 6 75 43 57 10
email: [redacted]
http://pierrejoris.com
Nomadics blog: http://pjoris.blogspot.com

_____

↑ Index

457. Charles Baldwin
Re: Human modeling again (notes for a talk)
Sat 22 Sep 2007

Same Weber (de Man student etc.), I think, but isn't he at the German Dept. @ Northwestern? I think he left UCLA a few years back.

>>> Alan Sondheim <[redacted]> 09/21/07 9:13 PM >>>
Sorry for the late reply - I want to thank you for this. I've found a couple of books that are useful - especially Aesthetic Computing, edited by Paul Wishwick, MIT - which covers similar ground. There's also the Second Life "The Official Guide" which I just got - mainly for the URLs and stuff on scripting.

Is this the same Sam Weber who was doing theory work years ago? Do you have URLs?

Thanks greatly - Alan

On Tue, 18 Sep 2007, Eireene Nealand wrote:

> Hey, interesting stuff. Hope to hear more about it as you go.
>
> Sam Weber at UCLA, by the way, is doing some interesting related work on the skin as a sampling device, or a screen. and Wlad Godzich at UC Santa Cruz is working with the possibility of using the DNA metaphor for thinking about posthuman identity.
>
> See also Steve Barker's book 'Autoaesthetics' which was quite early and so, sometimes limited but the first two chapters are quite good.
>
> There is a lot, I think to be done in thinking about iterative identities. fluid dynamics and chaos theory are in some ways providing us with a real chance to break down all of these body/surface dualisms, (the brain, Godzich likes to say, is a very densely folded skin, made out of that same material, he says).
>
> And the insects/swarms are realy related to all of this, right?
>
> i had an idea about avatars, and why this possibility of being in multiple places at once, via virtuality, requires precisely if not an iterative way of thinking than at least a relativistic, comparative one, but it's a long story, moire patterns, duchamp. etc.
>
> e
>
> On 9/17/07, Alan Sondheim <[redacted]> wrote:
> (first section at http://www.asondheim.org/ph.txt)
>
> Human modeling again (notes for a talk)
>
> I think 4 aspects - psychoanalytics, avatar-skin, medical modeling, AI communality/behavior/sociality - to be considered.
>
> Well: Avatar-skin: surface of being human which is always a fiction; there is no exacting boundary where body ends and environment begins (think of > breath, other processes). So this is splines, Bezier curves, NURBs, early polygon work, etc. now automated by Poser etc. Avatar-skin also applies to audio (later touch, scent, taste, etc.) - everything perceived from one human or other organism to another.

>
> Well: AI communality/behavior/sociality: the internally-automated behavior of the avatar-skin; think of this as diachronic avatar, and avatar-skin as synchronic; each moves through the other. With AI, avatar is somewhat spread across the social; communication and communality extend the opaque body (metaphorically) into the translucent.
> Fundamental rules of the 'game' tending towards description.
>
> Well: Medical modeling: Both diachronic and synchronic, the projected/ introjected organs of the avatar-skin, always on the level of a model, i.e. a beating heart is fabricated on a subtextual level again from poly-gons, curves, splines, etc. The ontology is different as long as one remains within the realm of computational modeling. (One might say that _inscription_ in the real is paralleled by _fissure_ in the virtual.)
> Medical modeling is fundamental description tending towards explanation.
>
> Well: Psychoanalytics: Here is where the following have to be taken into account:
> 1. The abject: epistemological/ontological/inscriptive 'smears' across domains. Corrosive and irreducible to the other categories.
> 2. Introjection/projection ('jectivity') - formation of internalized images from virtual to real.
> 3. Obscenity and interjections: Breakdowns of communication within communication.
> Psychoanalytics are not susceptible to mathesis beyond topology.
> (Level of the metaphoric: No verification procedures.)
>
> But of course all of this is rough, not exactly accurate; ontology and epistemology, various branches and techniques of mathematics, can be thrown around heedlessly. Still I'd want to begin from the four aspects described here: body/surface, psychoanalytics/'mind', AI/habitus, and medical/observation-experimentation. One would have to further consider the role of apparatus, observation, observer, in all of this.
>
> One final note - the concern - that, with formal and informal modeling systems of organisms/physics/mathematics: How is consciousness in relation? In other words, _what are the effects on the reader/programmer/ experimenter? How do these relate to abjection and jectivity if at all?

========== Work on YouTube, blog at

http://nikuko.blogspot.com . Tel [redacted]. Webpage directory http://www.asondheim.org . Email: [redacted]. http://clc.as.wvu.edu:8080/clc/Members/sondheim for theory; also check WVU Zwiki, Google for recent. Write for info on books, cds, performance, dvds, etc.
==========

↑ Index

458. Vernon Frazer

David Meltzer and Michael Rothenberg read in Bisbee, Tuscon, Albuquerque (posted on behalf of Michael Rothenberg)

Sat 22 Sep 2007

David Meltzer and Michael Rothenberg will be reading in Bisbee, Tuscon and Albuquerque in October. Hope to see you there!

Bisbee-Friday, October 5, 7:30pm

David Meltzer& Michael Rothenberg reading followed by booksigning and reception Central School Project, Poets Voice Series

43 Howell Ave in Old Bisbee

Admission: $6 ($4 students with ID)

Tuscon--Monday, October 8, 2007 - 7:00pm

The Z Mansion: David Meltzer & Michael Rothenberg

288 N. Church Ave.

in downtown Tucson

7pm start time

$5 at the door. $3 for students. Contact: Chax Press, [redacted]

Chax Press & POG events are made possible in part by contributions from the Tucson Pima Arts Council and the Arizona Commission on the Arts, with funding from the State of Arizona and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Albuquerque--Fri Oct 12th @ 7:30 pm

Wordspace Poetry Series: David Meltzer & Michael Rothenberg @ the Outpost Performance Space 210 Yale Blvd SE in Albuquerque

$5 at the door. For more info contact Outpost @ [redacted] [redacted]

ABOUT THE READERS

In 1960, David Meltzer's poems appeared in the ground-breaking anthology, The New American Poetry. He has gone on to create a substantial body of work that is pervaded with "a kind of bop-perfection." Having arrived in San Francisco in 1957, he is associated both with the Beats and the San Francisco Renaissance, often reading with jazz musicians at bars and coffeehouses. His recent book, Beat Thing (La Alameda Press), winner of the PEN Oakland Josephine Miles award, is both tribute to down-in-the-street wildness and rant against the romantic commodification which surrounds the Beat Generation. Meltzer brings forth the original spirit of Beat in an encyclopedic cascade of details whose dense, deep, fierce, funny, raucous, free-associative jazz energy infuses every line. Beat Thing is an ecstatic chant of defiance and celebration. Meltzer's Copy: The Selected Poems, edited by Michael Rothenberg, has now come out with nearly 50 years of Meltzer's poetry and provides ample evidence of his stylistic breadth as well as the music and humor active in it.

Michael Rothenberg's work as an editor is well known, not only for David's Copy, but also As Ever: Selected Poems of Joanne Kyger; Overtime: Selected Poems of Philip Whalen; Way More West: Selected Poems of Edward Dorn and the Collected Poems of Philip Whalen. He is also editor of Big Bridge, www.bigbridge.org , a prominent online literary zine. Rothenberg is the author of The Paris Journals; Monk Daddy; Grown Up Cuba; and recently Unhurried Vision from La Alameda Press, which charts the year Rothenberg spent caring for the terminally ill Philip Whalen. In 1976 he moved to California and co-founded Shelldance, a bromeliad and orchid nursery in Pacifica. An active environmentalist, Rothenberg has been a leading force in the protection of Bay Area coastal lands and endangered species.

from THE ART / THE VEIL, by David Meltzer

Light on ancient text.

Flicker of word

Moving into word.

They ask me what I do.

Enough.

[]

Abruptly Europe dies.

Bloody tallis I wave

To cars to eyes. Dies.

The silk blazing.

[]

Noisily yank a failed poem
out of the typewriter roller.
My hair falls into the keys.
Not grey but silver
whose light
reminds me of work
to be done.
[]
It isn't fame or failure
just so many books to read
so many words to write
and the backyard garden is Paradise. I could spend
all day naming things and all night
breaking promises
[]
Dawn loon
silhouette
skims over the lagoon
its crazed song
unable to tame my rage into a haiku.
[]
The deception of a new typewriter ribbon gets him going another few years.
by David Meltzer, copyright C 1981. All rights reserved.
SIMPLIFY INFINITY, by Michael Rothenberg
Rain slaughters the balcony
I'm invisible
Flowers blown off red skeletons
I'm describing my death

My mother tells me come inside

But there's nothing inside worth imagining

It's all outside

Starlings in confusion

Where the body is purified by danger

July 14, 2001

by Michael Rothenberg from Monk Daddy, Blue Press. All rights reserved.

↑ Index

459. Tracey Gagne

Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME

Sat 22 Sep 2007

I wonder how many people in this thread are in RI or thereabouts. That's where I'm from, although I've been living in Atlanta, GA for several years now. I visit RI several times a year to see family and friends.

Tracey

On 9/21/07, Alan Sondheim <[redacted]> wrote:
> They are, they're rivers as well of course, but the fish move up through > them apparently.
>
> - Alan
>
>
> On Fri, 21 Sep 2007, Adam Tobin wrote:
>
> > I'm not sure, but I believe that the canals that run through downtown > > Providence are extensions of Naragansett Bay, and most of the "rivers" in > > the neighborhood are in fact estuaries...
> >
> >
> > -----Original Message-----
> > From: UB Poetics discussion group [mailto:[redacted]] On > > Behalf Of Eric Dickey
> > Sent: Friday, September 21, 2007 2:28 PM
> > To: [redacted]
> > Subject: Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
> >

> > Menhaden? in a river? I thought these were in a river. American Shad are > > anadromous (like salmon).
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > Adam Tobin <[redacted]> wrote: There is a recent book about > > menhaden by H. Bruce Franklin, called "The Most Important Fish in the Sea"
> > -- apparently the menhaden fishery is one of the largest industries in the > > atlantic. They are an important source of oil, and a major ingredient in > > pet food. They also eat algae, and the overfishing of menhaden causes red > > tides etc. that obliterate all forms of sea life.
> >
> > Alan, stop by the store later today and I'll sell you a copy of that book...
> >
> > Adam
> >
> >
> >
> > ---
> > Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search that gives answers, not web links.
> >
> >
>
>
>
==========
==========
> Work on YouTube, blog at http://nikuko.blogspot.com . Tel [redacted].
> Webpage directory http://www.asondheim.org . Email: [redacted].
> http://clc.as.wvu.edu:8080/clc/Members/sondheim for theory; also check > WVU Zwiki, Google for recent. Write for info on books, cds, performance, > dvds, etc.
==========
==========
>

↑ Index

460. Maria Damon
Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
Sat 22 Sep 2007

a work of genius!

George Bowering wrote:
> So much depends upon
> a dead green herring
> beside the boiled eggs
> on a Swedish table.

↑ Index

461. ALDON L NIELSEN
Re: Human modeling again (notes for a talk)
Sat 22 Sep 2007

Yes, Sam Weber left UCLA years ago -- His 2004 book THEATRICALITY AS MEDIUM lists him as Avalon Professor of Comparative Literature at Northwestern -- As was true during his UCLA years, he spends part of each year in Paris, where he now directs Northwestern's Paris Program in Critical Theory. That book also contains his essay "Scene and Screen: Electronic Media and Theatricality." It was my good fortune in the late 90s to be one of the members of Weber's NEH summer seminar on seriality -- On Sat, Sep 22, 2007 08:54 AM, Charles Baldwin <[redacted]> wrote:

> Same Weber (de Man student etc.), I think, but isn't he at the German Dept. @ Northwestern? I think he left UCLA a few years back.
>
> Alan Sondheim <[redacted]> 09/21/07 9:13 PM >
> Sorry for the late reply - I want to thank you for this. I've found a couple of books that are useful - especially Aesthetic Computing, edited by Paul Wishwick, MIT - which covers similar ground. There's also the Second Life "The Official Guide" which I just got - mainly for the URLs > and stuff on scripting.
>
> Is this the same Sam Weber who was doing theory work years ago? Do you have URLs?
>
> Thanks greatly - Alan
>
> On Tue, 18 Sep 2007, Eireene Nealand wrote:
>
> Hey, interesting stuff. Hope to hear more about it as you go.

Sam Weber at UCLA, by the way, is doing some interesting related work on the skin as a sampling device, or a screen. and Wlad Godzich at UC Santa Cruz is working with the possibility of using the DNA metaphor for thinking about posthuman identity.

See also Steve Barker's book 'Autoaesthetics' which was quite early and so, sometimes limited but the first two chapters are quite good.

There is a lot, I think to be done in thinking about iterative identities. fluid dynamics and chaos theory are in some ways providing us with a real chance to break down all of these body/surface dualisms, (the brain, Godzich likes to say, is a very densely folded skin, made out of that same material, he says).

And the insects/swarms are realy related to all of this, right?

i had an idea about avatars, and why this possibility of being in multiple places at once, via virtuality, requires precisely if not an iterative way of thinking than at least a relativistic, comparative one, but it's a long story, moire patterns, duchamp. etc.

e

On 9/17/07, Alan Sondheim <[redacted]> wrote:
(first section at http://www.asondheim.org/ph.txt)

Human modeling again (notes for a talk)

I think 4 aspects - psychoanalytics, avatar-skin, medical modeling, AI communality/behavior/sociality - to be considered.

Well: Avatar-skin: surface of being human which is always a fiction; there is no exacting boundary where body ends and environment begins (think of breath, other processes). So this is splines, Bezier curves, NURBs, early polygon work, etc. now automated by Poser etc. Avatar-skin also applies to audio (later touch, scent, taste, etc.) - everything perceived from one human or other organism to another.

Well: AI communality/behavior/sociality: the internally-automated behavior of the avatar-skin; think of this as diachronic avatar, and avatar-skin as synchronic; each moves through the other. With AI, avatar is somewhat spread across the social; communication and communality extend the opaque body (metaphorically) into the translucent.

Fundamental rules of the 'game' tending towards description.

Well: Medical modeling: Both diachronic and synchronic, the projected/ introjected organs of the avatar-skin, always on the level of a model, i.e. a beating heart is fabricated on a subtextual level again from polygons, curves, splines, etc. The ontology is different as long as one remains within the realm of computational modeling. (One might say that inscription in the real is paralleled by _fissure_ in the virtual.)
Medical modeling is fundamental description tending towards explanation.

Well: Psychoanalytics: Here is where the following have to be taken into account:
1. The abject: epistemological/ontological/inscriptive 'smears' across domains. Corrosive and irreducible to the other categories.
2. Introjection/projection ('jectivity') - formation of internalized images from virtual to real.
3. Obscenity and interjections: Breakdowns of communication within communication.
Psychoanalytics are not susceptible to mathesis beyond topology.
(Level of the metaphoric: No verification procedures.)

But of course all of this is rough, not exactly accurate; ontology and epistemology, various branches and techniques of mathematics, can be thrown around heedlessly. Still I'd want to begin from the four aspects described here: body/surface, psychoanalytics/'mind', AI/habitus, and medical/observation-experimentation. One would have to further consider the role of apparatus, observation, observer, in all of this.

One final note - the concern - that, with formal and informal modeling systems of organisms/physics/mathematics: How is consciousness in relation? In other words, _what are the effects on the reader/programmer/ experimenter? How do these relate to abjection and jectivity if at all?

==========
Work on YouTube, blog at http://nikuko.blogspot.com . Tel [redacted].
Webpage directory http://www.asondheim.org . Email: [redacted].
http://clc.as.wvu.edu:8080/clc/Members/sondheim for theory; also check WVU Zwiki, Google for recent. Write for info on books, cds, performance, dvds, etc.
==========

> ==========

<<

For these and all our transgressions, may all Creation
Forgive us for what we have done to them and to ourselves.
Amen.

Once we were strangers in someone else's house,
Now we are strangers in our own heads – forgive us.
Forgive us for driving them out and the theft of their homes,
For the colonies that exclude, the occupation enforced by guns.
Forgive us the vanity – the flags and soldiers and Knessets –
That makes us forget the voices of Prophets.
For these and all our transgressions, may all Creation
Forgive us for what we have done to them and to ourselves.
Amen.

Once we were strangers in someone else's house,
Now we are strangers in our own heads – forgive us.
Forgive us the hatred, the violence, the pain.
Forgive us all the evils we have done while crying "Never Again."
We have planted, but we pray that no one reaps.
Forgive us for driving Palestinians to do the same.
For these and all our transgressions, may all Creation
Forgive us for what we have done to them and to ourselves.
Amen.

We are ever strangers in someone else's house,
But we can always be at home in our heads – redeem us.
Bless Palestinians and Israelis to seek only peace.
Take off the masks, the grand ideas, take down the Wall, and uncover the sweet flesh.
Allow us to feel our hearts, to feel compassion, each other's distress.
Give us the wisdom to free ourselves from war, to allow each other's contrition.
For these and all our transgressions, may all Creation
Allow us to make amends for what we have done to them and to ourselves.
Amen.

Hilton Obenzinger

↑ Index

463. Eireene Nealand

Re: Human modeling again (notes for a talk)

Sat 22 Sep 2007

---

aha. yes, you're right about Northwestern. I still think of a UCLA guy...California loyalties. humph.

Here's are some good links. And the annoucement for the paper-in-progress that you may want to ask about. I heard excerpts from it at a talk at UC Santa Cruz, date & title, etc. below.

The official web page w/ e-mail address.
http://www.german.northwestern.edu/faculty/weber.html

and

texts of some of his work here:
http://www.hydra.umn.edu/weber/
(the one on digital democracy/displaced bodies is really good) a good bibliography of his work with links to many other intresting folk as well:

http://www.egs.edu/faculty/samuelweber.html

***

More info on the paper with his skin/sampling thoughts that I was so excited to hear:

Thursday, March 22, at 5:00 pm, Room 420 Humanities One,
On the Politics of Protection and Projection
Samuel Weber, Avalon Foundation Professor of Humanities, Northwestern University

Samuel Weber studied with Paul de Man and Theodor W. Adorno, whose book, Prisms, he co-translated into English. The translation of and introduction to Theodor Adorno's most important book of cultural criticism helped define the way in which the work of the Frankfurt School would be read and understood in the English- speaking world. Professor Weber has also published books on Balzac, Lacan, and Freud as well as on the relation of institutions and media to interpretation. His most recent books include Theatricality as Medium (2004) and Targets of Opportunity (2005). Currently, he is completing work on a book entitled Benjamin's-abilities.

Co-sponsored by History of Consciousness and the Psychoanalysis and Sexuality Research Unit of the Institute for Humanities Research

On 9/22/07, Charles Baldwin <[redacted]> wrote:
> Same Weber (de Man student etc.), I think, but isn't he at the German Dept.
@ Northwestern? I think he left UCLA a few years back.
>
> >>> Alan Sondheim <[redacted]> 09/21/07 9:13 PM >>>
> Sorry for the late reply - I want to thank you for this. I've found a > couple of books that are useful - especially Aesthetic Computing, edited > by Paul Wishwick, MIT - which covers similar ground. There's also the > Second Life "The Official Guide" which I just got - mainly for the URLs > and stuff on scripting.

>
> Is this the same Sam Weber who was doing theory work years ago? Do you > have URLs?
>
> Thanks greatly - Alan
>
>
> On Tue, 18 Sep 2007, Eireene Nealand wrote:
>
> > Hey, interesting stuff. Hope to hear more about it as you go.
> >
> > Sam Weber at UCLA, by the way, is doing some interesting related work > > on the skin as a sampling device, or a screen. and Wlad Godzich at UC > > Santa Cruz is working with the possibility of using the DNA metaphor > > for thinking about posthuman identity.
> >
> > See also Steve Barker's book 'Autoaesthetics' which was quite early > > and so, sometimes limited but the first two chapters are quite good.
> >
> > There is a lot, I think to be done in thinking about iterative > > identities. fluid dynamics and chaos theory are in some ways providing > > us with a real chance to break down all of these body/surface > > dualisms, (the brain, Godzich likes to say, is a very densely folded > > skin, made out of that same material, he says).
> >
> > And the insects/swarms are realy related to all of this, right?
> >
> > i had an idea about avatars, and why this possibility of being in > > multiple places at once, via virtuality, requires precisely if not an > > iterative way of thinking than at least a relativistic, comparative > > one, but it's a long story, moire patterns, duchamp. etc.
> >
> > e
> >
> > On 9/17/07, Alan Sondheim <[redacted]> wrote:
> >> (first section at http://www.asondheim.org/ph.txt)
> >>
> >>
> >> Human modeling again (notes for a talk)
> >>

> >>
> >> I think 4 aspects - psychoanalytics, avatar-skin, medical modeling, AI > >> communality/behavior/sociality - to be considered.
> >>
> >> Well: Avatar-skin: surface of being human which is always a fiction; there > >> is no exacting boundary where body ends and environment begins (think
of > >> breath, other processes). So this is splines, Bezier curves, NURBs, early > >> polygon work, etc. now automated by Poser etc. Avatar-skin also applies
to > >> audio (later touch, scent, taste, etc.) - everything perceived from one > >> human or other organism to another.
> >>
> >> Well: AI communality/behavior/sociality: the internally-automated behavior
> >> of the avatar-skin; think of this as diachronic avatar, and avatar-skin as > >> synchronic; each moves through the other. With AI, avatar is somewhat > >> spread across the social; communication and communality extend the opaque
> >> body (metaphorically) into the translucent.
> >> Fundamental rules of the 'game' tending towards description.
> >>
> >> Well: Medical modeling: Both diachronic and synchronic, the projected/
> >> introjected organs of the avatar-skin, always on the level of a model,
> >> i.e. a beating heart is fabricated on a subtextual level again from poly-> >> gons, curves, splines, etc. The ontology is different as long as one > >> remains within the realm of computational modeling. (One might say that > >> _inscription_ in the real is paralleled by _fissure_ in the virtual.)
> >> Medical modeling is fundamental description tending towards explanation.
> >>
> >> Well: Psychoanalytics: Here is where the following have to be taken into > >> account:
> >> 1. The abject: epistemological/ontological/inscriptive 'smears' across > >> domains. Corrosive and irreducible to the other categories.
> >> 2. Introjection/projection ('jectivity') - formation of internalized > >> images from virtual to real.
> >> 3. Obscenity and interjections: Breakdowns of communication within > >> communication.
> >> Psychoanalytics are not susceptible to mathesis beyond topology.
> >> (Level of the metaphoric: No verification procedures.)
> >>

> >> But of course all of this is rough, not exactly accurate; ontology and > >> epistemology, various branches and techniques of mathematics, can be > >> thrown around heedlessly. Still I'd want to begin from the four aspects > >> described here: body/surface, psychoanalytics/'mind', AI/habitus, and > >> medical/observation-experimentation. One would have to further consider > >> the role of apparatus, observation, observer, in all of this.
> >>
> >> One final note - the concern - that, with formal and informal modeling > >> systems of organisms/physics/mathematics: How is consciousness in > >> relation? In other words, _what are the effects on the reader/programmer/> >> experimenter? How do these relate to abjection and jectivity if at all?
> >>
> >
> >
>
>
>
==========
> Work on YouTube, blog at http://nikuko.blogspot.com . Tel [redacted].
> Webpage directory http://www.asondheim.org . Email: [redacted].
> http://clc.as.wvu.edu:8080/clc/Members/sondheim for theory; also check > WVU Zwiki, Google for recent. Write for info on books, cds, performance, > dvds, etc.
==========
>

↑ Index

464. Patrick F. Durgin

Publication Announcement: Dolores Dorantes' sexoPUROsexoVELOZ and Septiembre

Sat 22 Sep 2007

Fresh from the presses and on the cusp of the retail pipeline is the first full-length collection in English by Mexican poet Dolores Dorantes. */sexoPUROsexoVELOZ /and/ Septiembre:/ a bilingual edition of books two and three of /Dolores Dorantes/, by Dolores Dorantes. *Translated by Jen Hofer. Published with Counterpath Press.

/sexoPUROsexoVELOZ/ and /Septiembre/ are books two and three of Mexican poet Dolores Dorantes lifelong project titled /Dolores Dorantes/. These works consist of fragmented interlocking sequences of poems that create a scaffolding to frame Dorantes' vivid explorations of the intensely personal and intensely social questions that inhabit the space called "Dolores Dorantes." Dorantes writes, "May be / I had to forget how…" ; it is from within the particular experience she offers of forgetting /how/ that we might, perhaps, begin to remember /why/.

Dorantes was born in Veracruz in 1973 and has lived most of her life in Ciudad Juárez, where socioeconomic violence and politically-charged daily brutalities have informed her radically humane and beautifully incisive work as a poet, journalist, and cultural worker. Dorantes is a rare presence in Mexican literary communities, in that she takes a wide-ranging international stance toward poetry and poetics while refusing to accept state support from a government she cannot respect. She has published four book-length works of poetry in Mexico, and is a founding member of the border arts collective Compañía Frugal (The Frugal Company), which counts among its activities publication of the monthly poetry broadside series /Hoja Frugal/, printed in editions of 4,000 and distributed free throughout Mexico.

ISBN: 978-0-9767364-2-4. $14.95 Order from SPD <http://www.spdbooks.org/Details.asp?BookID=9780976736424>, 2CO <https://www.2checkout.com/2co/buyer/orderpage?TCOID=60531101a83b8cf687274346ccef4b07&sid=1266894>, Amazon <http://www.amazon.com/sexoPUROsexoVELOZ-Septiembre-Bilingual-Dolores-Dorantes/dp/097673642X/ref=sr_1_1/105-6627572-1224456?ie=UTF8&s=books&qid=1189099275&sr=8-1>, via subscription <http://www.kenningeditions.com/images/sub07-08.pdf>, or from Counterpath <http://www.counterpathpress.org/index.html>.

www.da-crouton.com | www.kenningeditions.com

↑ Index

465. barbara jane bermeo

Poetry Reading @ the Berkeley Art Museum: Asian American Poetry Now

Sat 22 Sep 2007

Feel free to send out the following announcement.

Poetry Reading
Asian American Poetry Now
Berkeley Art Museum
Location/Entrances
2626 Bancroft Way
2621 Durant Avenue

Between College and Telegraph
October 21, 2007; 3:00 p.m.
Gallery C

How are young Asian American poets grappling with some of the issues that have engaged the artists featured in One Way or Another? Eight West Coast–and New York–based Asian American poets, from the same generation as the exhibition artists and with a comparable range of cultural backgrounds, will read from work that parallels the "post-identity" premise of One Way or Another. Their poetry displays a range of exciting experimental styles that depart from the focus on identity politics that has marked the work of many Asian American poets since the 1960s.

Poet and UC Berkeley Ph.D. candidate Chris Chen, whose dissertation explores experimental currents within contemporary Asian American and African American poetry, will introduce and moderate the program. Featured poets are Eileen Tabios, Tsering Wangmo Dhompa, Cathy Park Hong, Paolo Javier, David Lau, Barbara Jane Reyes, and Truong Tran.

Public programs for One Way or Another are supported by UC Berkeley's Consortium for the Arts, Doreen B. Townsend Center for the Humanities, and Asian American Studies Program, and cosponsored by Asia Society Northern California.
Hours (Galleries, Museum Store)
Wednesday – Sunday 11 a.m. - 5 p.m.
Thursdays 11 a.m. - 7 p.m.

Gallery Admission Prices

Free BAM/PFA Members
UC Berkeley students, faculty, and staff Children (12 & under)
$8 Adults (18-64)
$5 Non-UC Berkeley students
Young adults (13-17)

Senior citizens (65 & over)
Disabled persons

Free First Thursdays at BAM/PFA

Free admission to the galleries, public programs, and a 5:30 PFA screening, the first Thursday of every month.

---

http://barbarajanereyes.com
http://poetaensanfrancisco.blog-city.com

↑ Index

466. konrad

SF, THU & FRI THIS WEEK: kino21 presents Debord / Neo-Benshi

Sat 22 Sep 2007

Hello Friends,

This is just a brief reminder of two rare events
kino21 sponsors next week in San Francisco.
http://www.kino21.org/

THURSDAY SEPTEMBER 27TH, 8PM
Artists' Television Access 992 Valencia, at 21st. St.

Guy Debord's Last Feature Film
IN GIRUM IMUS NOCTE ET CONSUMIMUR IGNI

A Latin palindrome also known as "The Devil's Verse" is the title of Debord's look back on his life of adventure and resistance. Hugo Ball Room Labs has dubbed Ken Knabb's ENGLISH TRANSLATION onto the soundtrack so you can watch and listen instead of read your way through Debord's narration of the film. Our similar presentation of Debord's "Society of the Spectacle" last year sold out, so arrive early!

http://www.atasite.org/calendar/?x=2530
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Guy_Debord

* * *

FRIDAY SEPTEMBER 28th, 8pm (yes, the next night)
CounterPULSE (yes, that's how they write it) 1310 Mission, at 9th St.

THE NEW TALKIES (reprise): A Neo-benshi Cabaret curated by Jen Nellis

In case you missed the sold out show in July, this is a repeat performance with one substitution. In place of Rodney Koeneke, Dennis Somera will be presenting his wicked interpretation of WEST SIDE STORY. David Brazil, Amanda Davidson, Jennifer Nellis, Wayne Smith, Konrad Steiner and Stephanie Young are also performing.

http://www.counterpulse.org/calendar.shtml
phone: [redacted] for reservations.

^Z

↑ Index

467. michelle detorie
WOMB POETRY :: EQUINOX ISSUE
Sat 22 Sep 2007

WOMB POETRY :: EQUINOX ISSUE
ISSUE 1.5 is now online

http://www.wombpoetry.com

featuring work by

Kelli Russell Agodon
Nicole Cooley
Kate Greenstreet
Luisa A. Igloria
Eve Rifkah
Jennifer Karmin + vispo
Nicki Hastie
Raina León
Alexis Pauline Gumbs
Arlene Biala
Nava Fader
C Mehrl Bennett
Laura Goldstein
Jill Alexander Essbaum
Kristen Orser
Pearl Pirie
Kathryn Douglas
Angela Veronica Wong

Juliet Cook
Lillian Baker Kennedy

All the Best, Michelle Detorie apologies for x-posting!

--
http://www.wombpoetry.blogspot.com/http://www.hexpresse.blogspot.com http://www.daphnomancy.com/

↑ Index

468. Alan Sondheim
Thrown Delight
Sat 22 Sep 2007

Thrown Delight

Here we are just as delight is a form of suffocation.
However, we we we we we we we we we we we we we.
Therefore, we we we we we we we we we we we we we.
The man kills the woman. The woman kills the man.
The man kills the man in woman. The woman kills the woman in man.
Therefore, we we we we we we we we we we we we we.
And, we we we we we we we we we we we we we.
Imagine Nikuko swallowing everything in sight.
Therefore imagine everything swallowing Nikuko in sight.
Imagine everything swallowing Nikuko in sight.
Therefore imagine Nikuko swallowing everything in sight.

http://www.asondheim.org/throesofdeligh1.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/throesofdeligh2.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/throesofdeligh3.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/throesofdeligh4.jpg
http://www.asondheim.org/throesofdeligh5.jpg

↑ Index

469. Dillon Westbrook
what's doin' in Chicago?
Sat 22 Sep 2007

Dearest Listers,

Have a day or two to kill in Chicago beginning of next week, wondering from any residents thereof what's crucial attendance. Never been in my natural life. Back or forward channel.

thanks,
Dillon

↑ Index

470. Andy Gricevich
Jess experts?
Sun 23 Sep 2007

I've just paid my fourth visit to the exhibit "Jess: To and From the Printed Page" here in Madison. It's amazing; if you're near one of the places it's visiting, go!!! Here's the link with the itinerary:

http://www.ici-exhibitions.org/exhibitions/jess/jess.html

And now my question:
One of my favorite pieces in the exhibit it Jess's "Didactic Nickelodeon no.2" (I've written a bit about it on my blog, if you're interested--the link to that's at the end of this). The text in this series is taken from, or inspired by, Sir Charles Sherrington's 1938 work Man on His Nature. I've only been able to find that text under the oppressive umbrella of JSTOR, from which I'm excluded, stuck in the rain of extra-academic life. Is it possible for anyone to grab the PDF and email it to me?

(I could ask some college friends here, but this gives me the opportunity to point out the existence of this great and strange work to those who might not know of it).

If not, does anyone know whether the Jess piece quotes Sherrington literally or processes it in some way?

Thanks for your help!

all the best,

Andy
http://ndgwriting.blogspot.com/2007_08_01_archive.html

Yahoo! oneSearch: Finally, mobile search that gives answers, not web links.

↑ Index

471. Andrew Jones

Fwd: TWENTY TO LIFE MICHIGAN PREMIERE TOUR

Sun 23 Sep 2007

---------- Forwarded message ----------
From: Adam Brook <[redacted]>
Date: Sep 23, 2007 3:19 AM
Subject: TWENTY TO LIFE MICHIGAN PREMIERE TOUR
To:

TWENTY TO LIFE MICHIGAN PREMIERE TOUR

John Sinclair and Director Steve Gebhardt will be conducting a MICHIGAN PREMIERE TOUR of our film TWENTY TO LIFE: The Life & Times of John Sinclair and would be delighted if you could attend a screening near you.

The US Premiere is in Flint on John Sinclair's 66th birthday, 2 nd of October, with details as below. The opening reception will honor people who are in the film. Jeff Grand, Pun Plamondon, Genie Parker, Leni Sinclair and others are planning to be there and we hope you will be able to join them. The Detroit screening is at MoCAD (Museum of Contempoary Art Detroit) at Woodward & Garfield on Saturday 6 October, as below.

For advance tickets to any of the screenings please contact our tour manager, Adam Brook, at [redacted] or [redacted].

If you need directions or other information, please contact our tour manager, Adam Brook, at [redacted] or [redacted].

You can check out the film's web site at www.twentytolifefilm.com

Thanks for listening, and we are hoping to see you soon,

MICHIGAN PREMIERE TOUR

> Musicus Media & Big Chief Productions Present
> TWENTY TO LIFE: The Life & Times of John Sinclair
> A Film by Steve Gebhardt
>
> U.S. Premiere
> Tuesday, October 2, 2007
> Flint Institute of Arts
> Flint, Michigan
> To Benefit Flint Creative Alliance
> Reception: 5:00-7:00 pm
> Screening: 7:00-8:30 pm
> Q & A with Steve Gebhardt & John Sinclair: 8:30-9:00 pm

After Party @ Churchill's Pub: 10:00 pm
Performance by John Sinclair with Glowb

Wednesday, October 3, 2007
Grand Rapids Micro-Cinema
Grand Rapids, Michigan
Introduction by Steve Gebhardt: 7:00 pm
Screening: 7:30-9:00 pm
Q & A with Steve Gebhardt & John Sinclair: 9:00-9:30 pm
After Party @ Whiskey Lounge: 10:00 pm
Performance by John Sinclair with the Vincent Hayes Project

Thursday, October 4, 2007
Inside Out Gallery
Traverse City, Michigan
Introduction by Steve Gebhardt: 7:00 pm
Screening: 7:30-9:00 pm
Q & A with Steve Gebhardt & John Sinclair: 9:00-9:30 pm
After Party @ Inside Out Gallery: 10:00 pm
Performance by John Sinclair

Friday, October 5, 2007
Heart Center Library
Big Rapids, Michigan
In Association with Tribe Life Productions
Introduction by Steve Gebhardt: 7:00 pm
Screening: 7:30-9:00 pm
Q & A with Steve Gebhardt & John Sinclair: 9:00-9:30 pm
After Party: 10:00 pm
Performance by John Sinclair & His Blues Scholars
Featuring Michael, Dan, Tom & Daisy Mae Erlewine

Saturday, October 6, 2007
Museum of Contemporary Art Detroit (MoCAD)
Woodward & Garfield
Detroit, Michigan
Introduction by Steve Gebhardt: 7:00 pm
Screening: 7:00-8:30 pm
Q & A with Steve Gebhardt & John Sinclair: 8:30-9:00 pm
After Party @ Butcher's Inn in Eastern Market: 9:30 pm
Performance by John Sinclair & Jeff Grand: 10:30 pm

Sunday, October 7, 2007

> Whitehall Playhouse
> Whitehall, Michigan
> Introduction by Steve Gebhardt: 7:00 pm
> Screening: 7:30-9:00 pm
> Q & A with Steve Gebhardt & John Sinclair: 9:00-9:30 pm
> After Party @# Playhouse: 10:00 pm
> Performance by John Sinclair with the Vincent Hayes Project
>
> Wednesday, October 10, 2007
> Michigan Theater
> Ann Arbor, Michigan
> Reception: 6:30-7:00 pm
> Screening: 7:00-8:30 pm
> Q & A with Steve Gebhardt & John Sinclair: 8:30-9:00 pm
> After Party @ FireFly Club: 10:00 pm
> Performance by John Sinclair & Jeff Grand

If you would like to be removed from this mailing list just ask. I am sending this to EVERYONE in my address book.

↑ Index

472. Aryanil Mukherjee
Charyapada Discovery Celebrates 100 years
Sun 23 Sep 2007

In1907, Indian literary critic and researcher Haraprasad Shastri discovered Charjapadas (or Charyapadas) - the earliest recorded poetry of North Eastern India written approx. between 8th-12th century C.E. It was a palm-leaf manuscript, carefully preserved, containing 47 padas (verses) written by 23 Buddhist poets from an area now covered by the Indian states of Assam, West Bengal, Bihar, Orissa and the country of Bangladesh. These poems were written in a pro-Sanskrit form of early Bengali language.

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Charyapada

↑ Index

473. Lewis LaCook
The monolith and the monster ballad
Sun 23 Sep 2007

09/11/2007

Is it hard to love? The long road on which there shall be no parking at anytime also cannot define gravity albeit denser and more shallow and also spattered with lights. Even in Einstein sitting quietly is distance and sitting louder against the woods is some miles more. Filters can pill those bitter arid notes on a guitar. Though sometimes at night you come upon that curve behind thickening trees where broadway's video pollution bends to your heels shuffling elyria ave pebbles ahead of you for breadcrumbs. Life's most magnificent wonder is god's mercy it says. Sure but i never want to be perfect. Leave me alone you'd say i'll just die and everyone would be better off would go the outer shirt but where would i put my cigarettes

i think i'm being crushed. Would it be hard to evolve?
That night it dipped below 40. You saunter through the curl behind sheffield centre. Dips in the road studded with neon delicate and jutting fold your shadow into curbs to protect it from these cannibal streetlights in which your mother's silences listen as you silk past the mill undetected but for this. The skunk pads swiftly across your path. That might be how neal cassady died. Just dropped in to see what condition my condition was in. Oh, the yellow placards denoting wet floor the soundtrack with the gain all the way down the islets of shadows trees make on the sidewalk after midnight after midnight the down the street the down on all four! It threatened rain both of those days but it never did and now it's clear to everyone breathing the same old exhaust you look up from walking held to earth and some lawns unowned are allowed to grow wild.
I'm just relieved to be able to crack my knuckles again. Two deer chasing safety under streetlights pothol'd with silk lisps and empty aftermidnight concrete through which these veins of stress and trembling run. One day our core will cool. Do you find it difficult to stripe across pavement that way? A woody smear of burn turns onto reid ave a wallowing in learnedness where birdhouses look like pallid floating faces in the dark. There you're humming a monster love ballad for the universe. The highs wash over you swallow the walls and shit light back at the moon the lows traul o'neil blvd for wombs to angel and crave vertices to the pit of their mantles. You'll fracture your hands pouncing and skimming through dense grasses trying to grasp what has always and ever been void.

And on those nights clouds crazed the sky like a history of pressure pressed in rock? Then the headlights trouble you the newest churches calmly sleep as you pass by.

09/22/2007

Lewis LaCook
Director of Web Development
Abstract Outlooks Media

[redacted]

http://www.abstractoutlooks.com
Abstract Outlooks Media - Premium Web Hosting, Development, and Art Photography

http://www.lewislacook.org
lewislacook.org - New Media Poetry and Poetics

http://www.xanaxpop.org
Xanax Pop - the Poetry of Lewis LaCook

Check out the hottest 2008 models today at Yahoo! Autos.
http://autos.yahoo.com/new_cars.html

↑ Index

474. steve d. dalachinsky

Fw: Tuesday: Living Lab: Musetry + Ilgenfritz

Sun 23 Sep 2007

Tuesday, September 25
8:00pm

The Living Lab
at the Living Theatre
21 Clinton St. (below Houston)

8pm
James Ilgenfritz - solo bass works from composers Gordon Beeferman, Steve Rush, Miller Puckette, Jeffrey Treviño, Brian Griffeath-Loeb, Anthony Braxton, Luciano Berio, and Jimmy Giuffre
+
9pm

The Musetry Project
featuring vocalist Ellen Christi (ellenchristi.com)
poet Steve Dalachinsky and special guest, bassist James Ilgenfritz with Adam Lane (bass)
Eddy Rollin (oboe and assorted instruments)
Ravish Momin (percussion) and Ty Cumbie (leader, guitar)

$10 partly benefits the Living Theatre (http://www.livingtheatre.org/) and its ongoing struggle to wake up the world and pay the rent!

++++++++++++

The Musetry Project moves forward with its first performance including poet Steve Dalachinsky, and its second with the seasoned and highly gifted vocalist Ellen Christi. Musetry is a truly experimental project that attempts to create a fusion form from music and poetry. Whether or not it succeeds is almost irrelevant. The interest – and entertainment – lie in witnessing the attempt.

The Living Lab is an experimental music and performance labaratory begun in May, 2007 at the Living Theatre in downtown Manhattan. The Living Lab provides opportunities for experimenting musicians, poets and performing artists to develop and present their work to the public. Although the Living Lab is independent, it shares the Living Theatre’s 60-year-old commitment to contributing to positive social awareness and change through mind-expanding performance work. With a new venue, the Living Theatre, a new name and a new emphasis on experimentation with combined disciplines, The Living Lab is poised to become an important entity in New York alternative culture.

Living Theatre Mission Statement
To call into question who we are to each other in the social environment of the theater, to undo the knots that lead to misery, to spread ourselves across the public's table like platters at a banquet, to set ourselves in motion
like a vortex that pulls the spectator into action, to fire the body's secret engines, to pass through the prism
and come out a rainbow, to insist that what happens in the jails matters, to cry "Not in my name!"

at the hour of execution, to move from the theater to the street and from the street to the theater.
This is what The Living Theatre does today.
It is what it has always done.

Ty Cumbie
art : : design : : words
[redacted]

↑ Index

475. Gabrielle Welford

Re: Fw: Educators: Teach about the Jena 6 (fwd)

Sun 23 Sep 2007

---

thought some among us, teachers, might be interested in this. best, gabe

---------- Forwarded message ----------
Date: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 06:59:23 -0700 (PDT)
From: Elizabeth Davis <[redacted]>

Dear Tara & Bree, Thank you for this information. I am a DC public school teacher who is desperate for help on how to use Jena 6 as a teachable moment and connect it to the current lives and circumstances of the students I teach. This Your information has been a blessing. I have downloaded and copied all of it for use in my classroom. Thank you! Elizabeth , DC teacher

--- Tara Mack <[redacted]> wrote:
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: bree
> Sent: Wednesday, September 19, 2007 8:27 AM
>
> Hello educators,
>
> I'm attaching a curriculum that we have been working on with teachers > activists from across the country. I hope you find it useful in learning > more about this situation and to teach about it in your classrooms. If > you are able to use it, drop me a line and tell me about it. Look > forward to seeing you soon, perhaps at the NYCoRE Back To School Night > (October 5th, 7:30, @ Carlito's Cafe.)
>
> Talk to you soon,
> Bree
> _____

> NYCoRE / Network of Teacher Activist Groups (TAG) present:
>
> Revealing Racist Roots:
> The 3 R's for Teaching About the Jena 6
>
> The Jena 6 is much bigger than Jim Crow being found alive and well in > the South. The Jena 6 crystallizes the police violence, discrimination, > and criminalization faced by African American and other youth of color.
> The Jena 6 are high school students, youth like the youth in our > classrooms with experiences that are all too similar. But the. Jena 6 > case also shows that the legacy of the Civil Rights movement is alive in > our youth, communities, and schools.
>
> If all students are expected to learn about our country's justice > system, our history, our laws and our rights, what kinds of lessons can > we learn from the Jena 6?
>
> TAG's resource guide, entitled, Revealing Racist Roots: the 3 R's for > Teaching About the Jena 6 , calls upon educators to bring discussions > about the case of the Jena 6 to their schools. TAG is a growing network > of teacher organizations with a focus on social justice education, > including NYCoRE, Teachers for Social Justice, Chicago, and Teachers 4 > Social Justice, San Fransisco. TAG collected resources and lesson ideas > to help teachers and students understand contemporary racial conflict by > placing the case of the Jena 6 within a historical framework.
>
> Topics include:
>
> The Historical Context of American Racism
> Linking to Literature
> Media Literacy
> Artivism: Responding Through the Arts
> Social Action
> Detailed Mathematics Unit
> Links to organizations & more information
>
> The outpouring of national support for the Jena 6 has pushed the court > to vacate the conviction of Mychal Bell and reduce charges against the > other students. But they are still not free and justice has not been > done. TEACH about the JENA 6 in your classroom TODAY.
>
> Download the resource guide in PDF Version or Word Version for FREE > at: www.nycore.org OR www.t4sj.org

---

my website: http://thedcteacher.blogspot.com

↑ Index

476. Pierre Joris
Bill Griffiths obituary in The Guardian
Sun 23 Sep 2007

Ken Edwards just sent this email:

Will Rowe's obituary of Bill Griffiths appeared in yesterday's (Sat 22 Sept) Guardian.

You can read the online version at http://www.guardian.co.uk/obituaries/story/0,,2174637,00.html

I have written one for The Times, and will let you know if and when it appears.

Ken Edwards
Reality Street Editions
63 All Saints Street
Hastings, East Sussex TN34 3BN

www.realitystreet.co.uk

Visit the Reality Street stand at the Small Publishers Fair, Conway Hall, Red Lion Square, London WC1 from 11am-5pm on Saturday 13 October

---

In philosophical terms, human liberty is the basic question of art.
-- Joseph Beuys

Pierre Joris
244 Elm Street
Albany NY 12202
h: [redacted]
c: [redacted]
o: 518 442 40 71
Euro cell: (011 33) 6 75 43 57 10
email: [redacted]
http://pierrejoris.com/
Nomadics blog: http://pjoris.blogspot.com

↑ Index

477. Bobbi Lurie

Re: Yom Kippur Liturgy from Hilton Obenzinger---my response

Sun 23 Sep 2007

SORRY GROUP--I HAD TO DELETE A LOT BECAUSE LIST ONLY ACCEPTS 800 WORDS--IF YOU WANT FULL TEXT I'LL BACKCHANNEL AS AN ATTACHMENT Â

the day that Jews ask for forgiveness for sins and transgressions.

Â

DAVID, ARE YOU A JEW? AND, IF SO, DID YOU ASK FORGIVENESS FOR YOUR SINS AND YOUR TRANSGRESSIONS OVER THE PAST YEAR? AND IF YOUâ€™RE NOT A JEW: WHY ARE YOU TALKING ABOUT YOM KIPPUR? I MEAN I GOT THE PART WHERE YOU GAVE US YOUR CONCLUSION THAT THE HOLOCAUST WAS THE FAULT OF THE JEWS ETC. AND ALL THE OTHER POSTS YOU SEND THOUGH EVEN THOUGH A MILLION HORRIFYING THINGS ARE HAPPENING IN THIS WORLD IT SEEMS YOUR FOCUS IS STRICTLY ANTI-ISRAEL BUT THERE ARE THINGS TO CRICIZE THERE, ITâ€™S GOOD TO TALK ABOUT ITâ€”BUT: WITH MY LAST BREATH I WILL NOT LET YOU GET AWAY WITH BLAMING THE JEWS ON THE HOLOCAUSTâ€”NO WAY!!!!

Â

Â

Years ago I wrote my own version of the enumeration of shortcomings and sins

Â

WHICH SINS? YOURS OR SOMEONE ELSEâ€™S?

Â

A

magazine printed it,

Â

WELL, IF A MAGAZINE PRINTED IT: IT MUST BE TRUE, RIGHT? (bobbi)

Â

and I received a message from a professor

Â

CONGRATULATIONS. NOW YOU CAN PUT THAT ON YOUR BIO. (bobbi)

Â

attributed to that prolific author, Anonymous,

Â

YES. ANONYMOUS IS VERY PROLIFIC. (bobbi)

Â

and he was going to present a paper

at a conference , I have updated it slightly,

Â

THATâ€™S OUR PROBLEM. WE HAVE NO WAY OF KNOWING WHICH PARTS YOU UPDATED. (bobbi)

Â

and I send it out again.Â May you all be inscribed in the Book of Life.

Â

WHO THE HELL ARE YOU TALKING TO? DONâ€™T THROW THOSE WORDS OUT LIKE THAT!!!!!!!!! (bobbi)

Â

Â

Yom Kippur Liturgy

Â

Once we were strangers in someone else's house,

Â

ALMOST ALWAYS. AND OUR SUITCASES STAY PACKED. THATâ€™S ALWAYS BEEN RULE #1 (bobbi)

Â

Now we are strangers in our own heads

Â

WAIT A SECOND. Iâ€™M NO STRANGER IN MY OWN HEAD. (bobbi)

Â

â€“Â Â Â Â Â Â Â forgive us.

Â

FORGIVE WHO?

Â

 Forgive the beatings, the burlap bags that suffocate Â

Â

FORGIVE YASSER ARAFAT FOR CARING MORE ABOUT THE $$$$$$$$$$$ HE COULD SEND TO SWITZERLAND AND YET STILL PRETEND TO LIVE WITHIN THE IMAGE OF â€œPOET AS REVOLUTIONARYâ€ OR â€œPOET AS POLITICAL FIGUREâ€ CAUSE WE KNOW NO POET WANTS TO TRASH THAT ROMANTIC SELF-IMAGE HEâ€™S BEEN CULTIVATING JUST TO GET DOWN TO THE HARD PART OF BUILDING ROADS, AND SCHOOLS AND HOSPITALS--INSTEAD OF HELPING HIS PEOPLE. (ON THE OTHER HAND, NO, HE DOESNâ€™T GET ANY FORGIVENESS FOR THAT ONE)

Â

 And forgive us the fig trees uprooted Â

Â

YES. THIS TRULY IS A TRAGEDY. THIS MUST BE REMEDIED. ABSOLUTELY IT MUST. (bobbi)

Â

 Once we were strangers in someone else's house,

Â

NO ALWAYS. â€œAND KEEP THAT SUITCASE PACKEDâ€ (bobbi)

Â

 Now we are strangers in our own heads

Â

NOW THAT PART ISNâ€™T TRUE. DO YOU KNOW THE WRITER AMOS OZ? HIS FICTION IS BEAUTIFUL. BUT EVEN MORE, HEâ€™S PART OF â€œPEACE NOWâ€ A MOVEMENT IN ISRAEL (I HOPE IT STILL EXISTSâ€”BECAUSE WHEN ARAFAT WALKED AWAY FROM BEING OFFERED 98% OF WHAT HE WANTED HE JUST WALKED AWAY/ DIDNâ€™T EVEN TRY

TO NEGOTIATE AND THEN, TRAGICALLY, SHARON WALKED UP TO THE MOUNT. THAT WAS SUCH A TRAGEDY FOR SO MANY)

Â

Forgive ....â€“ the flags

Â

YES, REALLY. WHEN WILL WE DO AWAY WITH FLAGS? (bobbi)

Â

and soldiers and Knessets â€“

Â

PLEASE LEAVE THE SOLDIERS AND THE KNESSET OUT OF IT, PLEASE. THAT HAS NOTHING TO DO WITH THE ABOVE. (bobbi)

Â

That makes us forget the voices of Prophets.

Â

NO WAY THEIR VOICES ARE FORGOTTEN. WE JUST GOTTA FIND A WAY TO REMEDY THIS HORRIFYING SITUATION. BUT NO ONEâ€™S FORGOTTEN THE VOICES OF THE PROPHETS. AT LEAST NOT FROM WHERE Iâ€™M SITTING. (bobbi)

Â

Forgive us all the evils we have done while crying "Never Again."

Â

NO. THATâ€™S NOT RIGHT. AS FAR AS â€œEVILSâ€ OK THERE ARE A LOT OF CRAZY FANATICS IN ALL GROUPS BUT ITâ€™S BECAUSE WHEN ALMOST EVERY HOLIDAY YOU HAVE (NOT CELEBRATE) IS ABOUT SURVIVALâ€¦WELL, AND THE HOLOCAUST IS JUST TO HORRIFYING TO EVEN CATAGORIZE AMONG ALL THE MANY THINGS WHICH HAPPENED IN HISTORYâ€”SO â€œNEVER AGAINâ€ IS DEFINITELY THE CRY AND THAT CRY WILL CONTINUED REGARDLESS OF ALL THE BOTCHED WORK OF POLITICIANS (bobbi)

Â

Â

We have planted, but we pray that no one reaps.

Â

THATâ€™S A TOTAL LIE. I CAN GIVE YOU A BILLION EXAMPLES OF WHY THAT IS A TOTAL LIE BUT JUST FOR NOW, PLEASE CHECK YOUR FACTS: JUST LOOK UP HOW MUCH MONEY ISRAEL GAVE TO AID VICTIMS IN DARFUR. (bobbi)

Â

Â

Â

We are ever strangers in someone else's house,

Â

Â

NO, WEâ€™RE NOT. WE HAVE A COUNTRY NOW. AND, YES, ITâ€™S A MESS. BUT NO WAY WE ARE GOING TO LET GO OF THAT HAVEN OF OURS. BECAUSE THERE ARE TOO MANY PEOPLE ON THIS EARTH LIKE YOU (WHO SOMEHOW GET OBSESSED WITH JEWS AND BLAMING JEWS) AND WE NEED A PLACE TO BE AT PEACE AWAY FROM THEM.(bobbi)

Â

But we can always be at home in our heads â€“

Â

Â

AND ARE YOU AT HOME IN YOUR HEAD? BECAUSE IT ALWAYS COMES DOWN TO THE INDIVIDUAL. (bobbi)

Â

BOBBI LURIE

Â

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

478. Raymond Bianchi

Re: what's doin' in Chicago?

Sun 23 Sep 2007

Dillon

drop me a line we can do beer with poets here if you like??

R

---------- Original message ----------
From: Dillon Westbrook <[redacted]>

> Dearest Listers,
>
> Have a day or two to kill in Chicago beginning of next week, > wondering from any residents thereof what's crucial attendance. Never > been in my natural life. Back or forward channel.
>
> thanks,
> Dillon

↑ Index

479. Rachel Loden

from bromridge re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME

Sun 23 Sep 2007

Forwarding this from David Bromige [[redacted]]:

I feel obliged to participate in this herring that you are holding. As a boy in England, I often ate herring. I believe it must have been one of the cheaper foodstuffs in those days. I ate it for breakfast with potatoes left over from the night before. But nonethe-less, I grew up thin as a rake. I believe herring are now an endangered species and I no longer eat them. My diet still consists mainly of potatoes, somewhat to the consternation of my wife who grew up on pasta. What does George Bowering eat? David

Maria Damon wrote:

Could someone let Bromering know we need his input on herring pronto???!

Rachel Loden wrote:

My grandfather was a herring broker. Unfortunately, I can't stand herring.

I wonder what David Bromige thinks of herring.

Maria wrote:

> yeah, lemme at 'em!
>
> George Bowering wrote:
>
> On Sep 20, 2007, at 10:29 AM, Maria Damon wrote:
>
> herring! yummy!

> Agh, you remind me of the Norwegian B&B breakfast table!

↑ Index

480. Rachel Loden
Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
Sun 23 Sep 2007

Okay, a work of genius. I will admit that with some difficulty. But I bet Blowering never spent Christmas in Helsinki with his in-laws, eating lutefisk.

Lutefisk is whitefish cured with lye. The lye turns it into a sort of gelatinous mass:

So much depends upon a grey lye

fish

glazed with K-Y jelly

beside the white
in-laws.

Maria wrote:

> a work of genius!
>
> George Bowering wrote:
> So much depends upon
> a dead green herring
> beside the boiled eggs
> on a Swedish table.

↑ Index

481. David-Baptiste Chirot
Re: Yom Kippur Liturgy from Hilton Obenzinger---my response
Sun 23 Sep 2007

Dear Bobbie:

I didn't write this, as you can see it is from Hilton Obenzinger. My father's father was Jewish, but my father never knew him. My youngest son's grandfather was a refugee from the Holocaust. My niece is Jewish and grew up and lives in Brooklyn.

I take full responsability for sending the letter because I think it is prayer for compassion, for the heart to open to compassion, to ask for forgiveness for one's wrongs, to not hold on to the darknesses of the past but to build the future with light.

I think that what Dr. Obenzinger is saying about the piece being called "folkloric" and written by "anonymous" is a sign that many people find the message of compassion a beautiful one that is also in their own hearts. It is a prayer that does not "belong" to any one specific person so to speak, but to "anyone". It is a message of peace.

Dr. Obenzinger does not at all say the Holocaust is the fault of the Jews. Please read his words more carefully.

Here in Milwaukee is the nation's only Black Holocaust Museum, founded by Dr. James Cameron, the survivor of a mass lynching. Looking out my window, walking the neighborhood, there's no need of Jena or Katrina to understand the concept of a Black Holocaust in America. It's effects are ongoing every minute.

Since my father had hardly any family I grew up identifying with my mother's French-Indian side of the family. When I was about five my Great-Aunt told me the horror story of what happened to almost all the Indians in the family loaded on trains and given infected blankets. My first wife is a Mohawk. Last week I went to a rez with a friend. Again, a Holocaust that went into the building of the USA, and one whose effects are ongoing every minute.

When I read Dr. Obenzinger's prayer, I feel it is for an end to Holocausts. An end to Holocausts against one's people and also those actions on this way by one's people against others. In short, a prayer for Peace.

> Date: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 13:33:50 -0400
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: Yom Kippur Liturgy from Hilton Obenzinger---my response
> To: [redacted]
>
> SORRY GROUP--I HAD TO DELETE A LOT BECAUSE LIST ONLY ACCEPTS 800 WORDS--IF YOU WANT FULL TEXT I'LL BACKCHANNEL AS AN ATTACHMENT
>
> the day that Jews ask for forgiveness for sins and
>
> transgressions.
>
> DAVID, ARE YOU A JEW? AND, IF SO, DID YOU ASK FORGIVENESS FOR YOUR SINS AND YOUR TRANSGRESSIONS OVER THE PAST YEAR? AND IF YOU'RE NOT A JEW: WHY ARE YOU TALKING ABOUT YOM KIPPUR? I MEAN I GOT THE

> PART WHERE YOU GAVE US YOUR CONCLUSION THAT THE HOLOCAUST WAS THE FAULT OF THE JEWS ETC. AND ALL THE OTHER POSTS YOU SEND THOUGH EVEN THOUGH A MILLION HORRIFYING THINGS ARE HAPPENING IN THIS WORLD IT SEEMS YOUR FOCUS IS STRICTLY ANTI-ISRAEL BUT THERE ARE THINGS TO CRICIZE THERE, IT'S GOOD TO TALK ABOUT IT—BUT: WITH MY LAST BREATH I WILL NOT LET YOU GET AWAY WITH BLAMING THE JEWS ON THE HOLOCAUST—NO WAY!!!!
>
> Years ago I wrote my own version of the
>
> enumeration of shortcomings and sins
>
> WHICH SINS? YOURS OR SOMEONE ELSE'S?
>
> A
>
> magazine printed it,
>
> WELL, IF A MAGAZINE PRINTED IT: IT MUST BE TRUE, RIGHT? (bobbi)
>
> and I received a message from a professor
>
> CONGRATULATIONS. NOW YOU CAN PUT THAT ON YOUR BIO. (bobbi)
>
> attributed to
>
> that prolific author, Anonymous,
>
> YES. ANONYMOUS IS VERY PROLIFIC. (bobbi)

and he was going to present a paper

at a conference , I have updated it

slightly,

THAT'S OUR PROBLEM. WE HAVE NO WAY OF KNOWING WHICH PARTS YOU UPDATED. (bobbi)

and I send it out again. May you all be inscribed in the Book of Life.

WHO THE HELL ARE YOU TALKING TO? DON'T THROW THOSE WORDS OUT LIKE THAT!!!!!!!!! (bobbi)

Yom Kippur Liturgy

Once we were strangers in someone else's house,

ALMOST ALWAYS. AND OUR SUITCASES STAY PACKED. THAT'S ALWAYS BEEN RULE #1 (bobbi)

Now we are strangers in our own heads

WAIT A SECOND. I'M NO STRANGER IN MY OWN HEAD. (bobbi)

– forgive us.

FORGIVE WHO?

Forgive the beatings, the burlap bags that suffocate

FORGIVE YASSER ARAFAT FOR CARING MORE ABOUT THE $$$$$$$$$$$ HE COULD SEND TO SWITZERLAND AND YET STILL PRETEND TO LIVE WITHIN THE IMAGE OF "POET AS REVOLUTIONARY" OR "POET AS POLITICAL FIGURE" CAUSE WE KNOW NO POET WANTS TO TRASH THAT ROMANTIC SELF-IMAGE HE'S BEEN CULTIVATING JUST TO GET DOWN TO THE HARD PART OF BUILDING ROADS, AND SCHOOLS AND HOSPITALS--INSTEAD OF HELPING HIS PEOPLE. (ON THE OTHER HAND, NO, HE DOESN'T GET ANY FORGIVENESS FOR THAT ONE)

And forgive us the fig trees uprooted

YES. THIS TRULY IS A TRAGEDY. THIS MUST BE REMEDIED. ABSOLUTELY IT MUST. (bobbi)

Once we were strangers in someone else's house,

NO ALWAYS. "AND KEEP THAT SUITCASE PACKED" (bobbi)

Now we are strangers in our own heads

NOW THAT PART ISN'T TRUE. DO YOU KNOW THE WRITER AMOS OZ? HIS FICTION IS BEAUTIFUL. BUT EVEN MORE, HE'S PART OF "PEACE NOW" A MOVEMENT IN ISRAEL (I HOPE IT STILL EXISTS—BECAUSE WHEN ARAFAT WALKED AWAY FROM BEING OFFERED 98% OF WHAT HE WANTED HE JUST WALKED AWAY/ DIDN'T EVEN TRY TO NEGOTIATE AND THEN, TRAGICALLY, SHARON WALKED UP TO THE MOUNT. THAT WAS SUCH A TRAGEDY FOR SO MANY)

Forgive ....– the flags

YES, REALLY. WHEN WILL WE DO AWAY WITH FLAGS? (bobbi)

and soldiers and Knessets –

PLEASE LEAVE THE SOLDIERS AND THE KNESSET OUT OF IT, PLEASE. THAT HAS NOTHING TO DO WITH THE ABOVE. (bobbi)

That makes us forget the voices of Prophets.

NO WAY THEIR VOICES ARE FORGOTTEN. WE JUST GOTTA FIND A WAY TO REMEDY THIS HORRIFYING SITUATION. BUT NO ONE'S FORGOTTEN THE VOICES OF THE PROPHETS. AT LEAST NOT FROM WHERE I'M SITTING. (bobbi)

Forgive us all the evils we have done while crying "Never Again."

NO. THAT'S NOT RIGHT. AS FAR AS "EVILS" OK THERE ARE A LOT OF CRAZY FANATICS IN ALL GROUPS BUT IT'S BECAUSE WHEN ALMOST EVERY HOLIDAY

YOU HAVE (NOT CELEBRATE) IS ABOUT SURVIVAL…WELL, AND THE HOLOCAUST IS JUST TO HORRIFYING TO EVEN CATAGORIZE AMONG ALL THE MANY THINGS WHICH HAPPENED IN HISTORY—SO "NEVER AGAIN" IS DEFINITELY THE CRY AND THAT CRY WILL CONTINUED REGARDLESS OF ALL THE BOTCHED WORK OF POLITICIANS (bobbi)

We have planted, but we pray that no one reaps.

THAT'S A TOTAL LIE. I CAN GIVE YOU A BILLION EXAMPLES OF WHY THAT IS A TOTAL LIE BUT JUST FOR NOW, PLEASE CHECK YOUR FACTS: JUST LOOK UP HOW MUCH MONEY ISRAEL GAVE TO AID VICTIMS IN DARFUR. (bobbi)

We are ever strangers in someone else's house,

NO, WE'RE NOT. WE HAVE A COUNTRY NOW. AND, YES, IT'S A MESS. BUT NO WAY WE ARE GOING TO LET GO OF THAT HAVEN OF OURS. BECAUSE THERE ARE TOO MANY PEOPLE ON THIS EARTH LIKE YOU (WHO SOMEHOW GET OBSESSED WITH JEWS AND BLAMING JEWS) AND WE NEED A PLACE TO BE AT PEACE AWAY FROM THEM.(bobbi)

But we can always be at home in our heads –

AND ARE YOU AT HOME IN YOUR HEAD? BECAUSE IT ALWAYS COMES DOWN TO THE INDIVIDUAL. (bobbi)

> BOBBI LURIE
>
> _____
> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

_____

Capture your memories in an online journal!
http://www.reallivemoms.com?ocid=TXT_TAGHM&loc=us=

↑ Index

482. Robin Hamilton
Unavailable Websites
Sun 23 Sep 2007

Does anyone know anything about websites, especially in North America, being unavailable at the moment?

I've been trying to access LEME (Lexicon of Modern English) for the last day or so, without success. It's hosted by the University of Toronto. Their main site is up, but the library links as a whole seem to be down, not just LEME.

There are also a couple of major financial sites in the US that seem to be unobtainable.

Odd. Is there a cyber attack or something underway?

Or is it just coincidence?

Anyone else been having problems with sites that should be easily available?

Robin Hamilton

↑ Index

483. Bobbi Lurie
PLEASE COULD SOMEONE HELP ME GET TO ARCHIVES
Sun 23 Sep 2007

Dear Buffalo List--

Could someone tell me how I can get to archives on this list?

Bobbi Lurie

_____
Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

484. George Bowering
Re: what's doin' in Chicago?
Sun 23 Sep 2007

Git thee to the Art Institute of Chicago.

Outside of Wrigley, it's the spot.

gb

On Sep 22, 2007, at 8:41 PM, Dillon Westbrook wrote:

> Dearest Listers,
>
> Have a day or two to kill in Chicago beginning of next week, wondering > from any residents thereof what's crucial attendance. Never been in my > natural life. Back or forward channel.
>
> thanks,
> Dillon
>
>
George Harry Bowering,
Never got his share.

↑ Index

485. George Bowering
Re: from bromridge re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
Sun 23 Sep 2007

On Sep 23, 2007, at 11:24 AM, Rachel Loden wrote:

> Forwarding this from David Bromige [[redacted]]:
>
> I feel obliged to participate in this herring that you are holding. As a boy in England, I often ate herring. I believe it must have been one of the cheaper foodstuffs in those days. I ate it for breakfast with potatoes left over from the night before. But nonethe-less, I grew up thin as a rake. I believe herring are now an endangered species and I no longer eat them. My diet still consists mainly of potatoes, somewhat to the consternation of my wife who grew up on pasta. What does George Bowering eat? David

I would show you, but if I put a photo here the Comintern in Buffalo would reject my posting.

I can say that if I am ever in Newfoundland again I will eat a cod fish every day.

George Harry Bowering
Likes towns with -ver- in them.

↑ Index

486. Rob McLennan
new(ish) on rob's clever blog
Sun 23 Sep 2007

---

new(ish) on rob's clever blog

-- Report: The (second annual) Edmonton Poetry Festival
-- an opening of the plains (poem)
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Jacob Wren
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Gil McElroy
-- ongoing (further) notes - mid-September, 2007
-- a poem & some upcoming Edmonton readings
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Erin Moure
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Phil Hall
-- ongoing notes early September, 2007
-- 12 or 20 questions: for Jessica Westhead
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Lance Blomgren
-- Some Workshops: Toronto & Quebec
-- 12 or 20 questions: with George Bowering
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Nathaniel G. Moore
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Noah Eli Gordon
-- Rob Winger's Muybridge's Horse

-- The 2007 Lampman-Scott Award Reading
-- So I'm officially in Edmonton now...
-- Jane Jordan: A obit written by Lynne Alsford, coordinator of the Sasquatch reading series.
-- new (finally, slowly) from above/ground press
-- Prairie Fire Press; 2007 writing contests
-- ongoing notes: late August, 2007 (Stuart Ross; Aaron McCollough's Little Ease, Ahsahta Press; Jennifer Moxley, The Line, Post-Apollo Press)
-- Ariana Reines' The Cow
-- Naomi Guttman's Wet Apples, White Blood
-- Pumping Irony Poetry Workshop by Stephen Brockwell at Collected Works Bookstore & Coffeebar
-- above/ground press 2008 subscriptions (starting today)
-- Sylvia Legris' Nerve Squall
-- Margaret Avison (1918-2007)
-- dANDelion presents --- Radical Translations
-- a slate of (Ottawa) readings
-- An Uncollected Andrew Suknaski poem
-- ottawa international writers festival; here are upcoming August/September events:
-- another weekend in old Glengarry
-- poem for my sister's wedding
-- Multi-Art Show OTTAWA ART BAZAAR Benefits Ottawa Art Community
-- Noah Eli Gordon's A Fiddle Pulled from the Throat of a Sparrow
-- The House That Jack Built: The Collected Lectures of Jack Spicer

www.robmclennan.blogspot.com

+ some other new things at the alberta, writing blog www.albertawriting.blogspot.com

+ some other new things at ottawa poetry newsletter, www.ottawapoetry.blogspot.com

+ some other other new things at the Chaudiere Books blog, www.chaudierebooks.blogspot.com

-- poet/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...13th poetry coll'n - The Ottawa City Project .... 2007-8 writer in residence, U of Alberta * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

487. Warren Lloyd
Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
Sun 23 Sep 2007

Hello All,

Can anyone recommend a good place to start to learn how to publish a hypertext? I am editing a text that has wonderful theoretical affinities with hypertext. In addition to the printed version I wanted to give hypertexting a whirl even if only a portion of the original text made it into a hypertext. I have very little specific knowledge about how to write code or how to begin to think about producing a hypertext, but for what I lack in specificity I think I can make up for with ambition and creativity-- maybe. So, can anyone recommend a book or a web page or point me in the right direction. I only post to the list about this because I am working with a deadline and I have already opened my mouth with a proposal, so I figured with the amount of knowledge on this list I might be able to avoid some obstacles that a naivete would be sure to encounter. I am extremely thankful to anyone who could possibly help.

Best for now,
Warren

Take the Internet to Go: Yahoo!Go puts the Internet in your pocket: mail, news, photos & more.

↑ Index

488. Gabrielle Welford
Re: from bromridge re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
Sun 23 Sep 2007

kippers, mmmmm! pickled herring, mmmm! and what about mackerel, then, hey? only place i can find mackerel here is japanese groceries. okay in hawaii--saba. is mackerel endangered too? gabrielle

On Sun, 23 Sep 2007, Rachel Loden wrote:

> Forwarding this from David Bromige [[redacted]]:
>
> I feel obliged to participate in this herring that you are holding. As a boy in England, I often ate herring. I believe it must have been one of the cheaper foodstuffs in those days. I ate it for breakfast with potatoes left over from the night before. But nonethe-less, I grew up thin as a rake. I believe herring are now an endangered species and I no longer eat them. My diet still consists mainly of potatoes, somewhat to the consternation of my wife who grew up on pasta. What does George Bowering eat? David

> Maria Damon wrote:
>
> Could someone let Bromering know we need his input on herring pronto???!
>
> Rachel Loden wrote:
>
> My grandfather was a herring broker. Unfortunately, I can't stand herring.
>
> I wonder what David Bromige thinks of herring.
>
> Maria wrote:
>
> yeah, lemme at 'em!
>
> George Bowering wrote:
>
> On Sep 20, 2007, at 10:29 AM, Maria Damon wrote:
>
> herring! yummy!
>
> Agh, you remind me of the Norwegian B&B breakfast table!

↑ Index

489. Gabrielle Welford

Re: mid)rib issue 1 now online!

Sun 23 Sep 2007

---

beautiful issue, wonderful poetry. thanks, gabe

On Wed, 12 Sep 2007, amy king wrote:

> http://midribpoetry.com/
>
> ---------- Forwarded message ----------
> From: [redacted]
> Date: Sep 12, 2007 3:57 PM
> Subject: mid)rib issue 1 now online!
>
> We're pleased to announce the inaugural issue of mid)rib. It is the mid)rib staff's hope to foster an international voice for experimental poetics. We hope you'll take as much pleasure in reading the work of our contributors as we have. In the issue you'll find new work from an eclectic group of writers, including: Tomas S. Butkus, Joel Chace, Regina Derieva, Anna Fulford, H.T. Harrison, Scott Hartwich, Beth Joselow, Kerry Shawn Keys, Amy King, Sarah Maclay, Nicholas Messenger, Bonnie Jean Michalski, Matt Reiter, Susan M. Schultz, Lauren Goodwin Slaughter, Ted Stimpfle and Jim Warner. We welcome your comments and feedback. Please feel free to forward this to any interested parties. Enjoy.

Thanks,
the mid)rib staff

andy martrich, editor
gordon faylor, editorial assistant jeremy schevling, art boy/ designer
craig czury, contributing editor

http://midribpoetry.com/

Reviews of I'M THE MAN WHO LOVES YOU

Matt Hart / Coldfront Magazine
http://reviews.coldfrontmag.com/2007/06/im_the_man_who_.html

Mark Lamoureux / BOOG City
http://static.scribd.com/docs/kflyu7ufa6w1n.swf

Nick Piombino / fait accompli
http://nickpiombino.blogspot.com/2007_03_18_archive.html

Thomas Fink / Galatea Resurrects
http://galatearesurrection6.blogspot.com/2007/05/im-man-who-loves-you-by-amy-king.html

~

Recent Review of ANTIDOTES FOR AN ALIBI

Adam Fieled / Stoning the Devil
http://adamfieled.blogspot.com/2007/05/book-review-amy-king-antidote-for-alibi.html

~

What To Wear During An Orange Alert?
http://wearduringorangealert.blogspot.com/2007/07/writers-corner_12.html

~

> http://www.amyking.org/blog
>
> ----
>
> ---
> Building a website is a piece of cake.
> Yahoo! Small Business gives you all the tools to get online.

↑ Index

490. George Bowering
Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
Sun 23 Sep 2007

Rachel didn't mention that you bury this lutefish in lye in a hole,
and dig it up much later.
What does the kitchen smell like, Rachel?

On Sep 23, 2007, at 12:08 PM, Rachel Loden wrote:

> Okay, a work of genius. I will admit that with some difficulty. But > I bet
> Blowering never spent Christmas in Helsinki with his in-laws, eating > lutefisk.
>
> Lutefisk is whitefish cured with lye. The lye turns it into a sort of > gelatinous mass:
>
>
> So much depends > upon
>
> a grey lye
> fish
>
> glazed with K-Y
> jelly
>
> beside the white
> in-laws.
>
>
> Maria wrote:
>

>> a work of genius!
>>
>> George Bowering wrote:
>>> So much depends upon
>>> a dead green herring
>>> beside the boiled eggs
>>> on a Swedish table.
>>
>
>
G. Bowering, DLitt.
I still haven't opened it.

↑ Index

491. Jim Andrews
Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
Sun 23 Sep 2007

> Hello All,
>
> Can anyone recommend a good place to start to learn how to publish a hypertext? I am editing a text that has wonderful theoretical affinities with hypertext. In addition to the printed version I wanted to give hypertexting a whirl even if only a portion of the original text made it into a hypertext. I have very little specific knowledge about how to write code or how to begin to think about producing a hypertext, but for what I lack in specificity I think I can make up for with ambition and creativity-- maybe. So, can anyone recommend a book or a web page or point me in the right direction. I only post to the list about this because I am working with a deadline and I have already opened my mouth with a proposal, so I figured with the amount of knowledge on this list I might be able to avoid some obstacles that a naivete would be sure to encounter. I am extremely thankful to anyone who could possibly help.
>
> Best for now,
> Warren

Hi Warren,

It would be useful to hear more about what you want to do before making any recommendations about how you might proceed.

There are some HTML editors around, such as Dreamweaver from Adobe, that are quite nice for editing HTML (Hypertext Markup Language) documents. One of the blessings/curses of Dreamweaver is that you don't have to learn HTML at the code level (until it goes wrong). Google 'Dreamweaver' or 'HTML editors'.

It is useful to know HTML at the code level, however, particularly if you plan to make a habit of HTML. If you google 'HTML tutorials', you will come across many. I often use http://w3schools.com (bookmark this) when I need to look up something concerning HTML or CSS (Cascading Style Sheets) or Javascript. Also, if you learn HTML at the code level, you don't need Dreamweaver or other HTML editors. Though I know HTML at the code level and use Dreamweaver. It allows me to work faster than I would otherwise, and that usually means more creatively.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

492. Hugh Nicoll

Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations

Sun 23 Sep 2007

Warren, hi,

First, good luck with your project. Jim Andrews has already suggested Dreamweaver, and not knowing much about the nature of your project or the deadline you're under, I am not sure if alternatives will prove helpful or not.

That said, for composing hypertexts that you could then export to the web, take a look at Storyspace (Mac and Windows), or Tinderbox (currently Mac only) from Eastgate Systems.

<http://www.eastgate.com/storyspace/>

<http://www.eastgate.com/Tinderbox/>

These tools may not meet your immediate needs, but could prove useful in the long run if you choose to explore authoring hypertexts with tools that can provide more flexibility than the web offers. Another option might be to write in or export to a wiki.

Hope this helps,

Hugh

--
Hugh Nicoll
JALT, ld-sig co-coordinator
http://hughnicoll.org/blog/
[redacted]

↑ Index

493. amy king
Re: PLEASE COULD SOMEONE HELP ME GET TO ARCHIVES
Sun 23 Sep 2007

Dear Bobbi,

Please access the archive here:
http://listserv.acsu.buffalo.edu/archives/poetics.html

Best,
Amy

Bobbi Lurie <[redacted]> wrote: Dear Buffalo List--

Could someone tell me how I can get to archives on this list?

Bobbi Lurie

Pinpoint customers who are looking for what you sell.

↑ Index

494. Alan Sondheim
home and film
Sun 23 Sep 2007

---

home and film

1. Why the turtle in turtle.jpg.
The turtle was there on the grounds; the film of the real was projected beyond or across the world of the turtle, or one should say, home.

2. Why the film of the real. We watched the screen for hours on end in our home; leaves and branches, buildings and a solitary star anchored the image changing as the day changes, and the night.

3. Why the film. The film was visible in the home of the day, which is to say the tiredness or sleep of the night; perhaps the night's dream played upon us for those days and weeks without end.

4. Why is the audience facing elsewhere. Recording the mise en scene it was more than clear that so many of us are used to action, the propriety of seizure, grasping at straws; still, there was something inexorable in the uncanny image which practically slept its way across the homeland screen.

http://www.asondheim.org/turtle13.jpg

1. We are contained and we do not escape.
2. In walls and ceilings are walls and ceilings, inescapable.
3. Our sickness travels around our lungs, our feet flail.
4. We do not leave from this spot and someone's naming.

http://www.asondheim.org/turtle14.jpg

↑ Index

495. Bobbi Lurie

Re: Yom Kippur Liturgy from Hilton Obenzinger---my response

Sun 23 Sep 2007

David,

Â

Thank you for answering.

Â

I know text was from Hilton Obenzinger just as I know your other text came from a review of some work of Hannah Arendt. But because Iâ€™m not so much into reading text as into context and subtext, I needed clarification and so I thank you for that.

Â

Nonetheless, I have no idea what a prayer for Yom Kippur (the day after Yom Kippur) has anything to do with this poetics list. And if this prayer belongs to â€œanyoneâ€ why is it so specific?

Â

I know Obenzinger does not say the Holocaust is the fault of the Jews. That conclusion came from your other conclusions from Hannah Arendt.

Â

I agree with you re: the situation in our country. And I truly have compassion for all people who have suffered due to the ignorance and cruelty of their fellow man (doesnâ€™t that include all of us?). For this, I believe we must do much more than ask forgiveness. We must â€œdoâ€ something.

Â

I am very happy to read this prayer you sent is a call for an end to all holocausts. I do pray this can be a reality. We certainly need it now.

Â

Thank you for your communication.

Â

I join you in a prayer for peace.

Â

In Friendship,

Bobbi Lurie

-----Original Message-----
From: David-Baptiste Chirot <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 2:24 pm
Subject: Re: Yom Kippur Liturgy from Hilton Obenzinger---my response

Dear Bobbie: I didn't write this, as you can see it is from Hilton Obenzinger. y father's father was Jewish, but my father never knew him. y youngest son's grandfather was a refugee from the Holocaust. y niece is Jewish and grew up and lives in Brooklyn. I take full responsability for sending the letter because I think it is prayer or compassion, for the heart to open to compassion, to ask for forgiveness for ne's wrongs, to not hold on to the darknesses of the past but to build the uture with light. I think that what Dr. Obenzinger is saying about the piece being called folkloric" and written by "anonymous" is a sign that many people find the essage of compassion a beautiful one that is also in their own hearts. It is prayer that does not "belong" to any one specific person so to speak, but to anyone". It is a message of peace.

r. Obenzinger does not at all say the Holocaust is the fault of the Jews. lease read his words more carefully. Here in Milwaukee is the nation's only Black Holocaust Museum, founded by Dr. ames Cameron, the survivor of a mass lynching. Looking out my window, walking he neighborhood, there's no need of Jena or Katrina to understand the concept f a Black Holocaust in America. It's effects are ongoing every minute. Since my father had hardly any family I grew up identifying with my mother's rench-Indian side of the family. When I was about five my Great-Aunt told me he horror story of what happened to almost all the Indians in the family oaded on trains and given infected blankets. My first wife is a Mohawk. Last eek I went to a rez with a friend. Again, a Holocaust that went into the uilding of the USA, and one whose effects are ongoing every minute. When I read Dr. Obenzinger's prayer, I feel it is for an end to Holocausts. n end to Holocausts against one's people and also those actions on this way by ne's people against others. n short, a prayer for Peace.

Date: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 13:33:50 -0400
From: [redacted]
Subject: Re: Yom Kippur Liturgy from Hilton Obenzinger---my response
To: [redacted]

SORRY GROUP--I HAD TO DELETE A LOT BECAUSE LIST ONLY ACCEPTS 800 WORDS--IF YOU ANT FULL TEXT I'LL BACKCHANNEL AS AN ATTACHMENT

the day that Jews ask for forgiveness for sins and

transgressions.

DAVID, ARE YOU A JEW? AND, IF SO, DID YOU ASK FORGIVENESS FOR YOUR SINS AND OUR TRANSGRESSIONS OVER THE PAST YEAR? AND IF YOUâ€™RE NOT A JEW: WHY ARE YOU ALKING ABOUT YOM KIPPUR? I MEAN I GOT THE PART WHERE YOU GAVE US YOUR ONCLUSION THAT THE HOLOCAUST WAS THE FAULT OF THE JEWS ETC. AND ALL THE OTHER OSTS YOU SEND THOUGH EVEN THOUGH A MILLION HORRIFYING THINGS ARE HAPPENING IN HIS WORLD IT SEEMS YOUR FOCUS IS STRICTLY ANTI-ISRAEL BUT THERE ARE THINGS TO RICIZE THERE, ITâ€™S GOOD TO TALK ABOUT ITâ€"BUT: WITH MY LAST BREATH I WILL NOT ET YOU GET AWAY WITH BLAMING THE JEWS ON THE HOLOCAUSTâ€"NO WAY!!!!

Years ago I wrote my own version of the

enumeration of shortcomings and sins

WHICH SINS? YOURS OR SOMEONE ELSEâ€™S?

A

magazine printed it,

WELL, IF A MAGAZINE PRINTED IT: IT MUST BE TRUE, RIGHT? (bobbi)

and I received a message from a professor

CONGRATULATIONS. NOW YOU CAN PUT THAT ON YOUR BIO. (bobbi)

attributed to

that prolific author, Anonymous,

YES. ANONYMOUS IS VERY PROLIFIC. (bobbi)

and he was going to present a paper

at a conference , I have updated it

slightly,

THATâ€™S OUR PROBLEM. WE HAVE NO WAY OF KNOWING WHICH PARTS YOU UPDATED. (bobbi)

and I send it out again. May you all be inscribed in the Book of Life.

WHO THE HELL ARE YOU TALKING TO? DONâ€™T THROW THOSE WORDS OUT LIKE HAT!!!!!!!!! (bobbi)

Yom Kippur Liturgy

Once we were strangers in someone else's house,

ALMOST ALWAYS. AND OUR SUITCASES STAY PACKED. THATâ€™S ALWAYS BEEN RULE #1 bobbi)

Now we are strangers in our own heads

WAIT A SECOND. Iâ€™M NO STRANGER IN MY OWN HEAD. (bobbi)

â€“ forgive us.

FORGIVE WHO?

Forgive the beatings, the burlap bags that suffocate

FORGIVE YASSER ARAFAT FOR CARING MORE ABOUT THE $$$$$$$$$$$ HE COULD SEND TO WITZERLAND AND YET STILL PRETEND TO LIVE WITHIN THE IMAGE OF â€œPOET AS EVOLUTIONARYâ€ OR â€œPOET AS POLITICAL FIGUREâ€ CAUSE WE KNOW NO POET WANTS TO RASH THAT ROMANTIC SELF-IMAGE HEâ€™S BEEN CULTIVATING JUST TO GET DOWN TO THE ARD PART OF BUILDING ROADS, AND SCHOOLS AND HOSPITALS--INSTEAD OF HELPING HIS EOPLE. (ON THE OTHER HAND, NO, HE DOESNâ€™T GET ANY FORGIVENESS FOR THAT ONE)

And forgive us the fig trees uprooted

YES. THIS TRULY IS A TRAGEDY. THIS MUST BE REMEDIED. ABSOLUTELY IT MUST. bobbi)

Once we were strangers in someone else's house,

NO ALWAYS. â€œAND KEEP THAT SUITCASE PACKEDâ€ (bobbi)

Now we are strangers in our own heads

NOW THAT PART ISNâ€™T TRUE. DO YOU KNOW THE WRITER AMOS OZ? HIS FICTION IS EAUTIFUL. BUT EVEN MORE, HEâ€™S PART OF â€œPEACE NOWâ€ A MOVEMENT IN ISRAEL (I HOPE T STILL EXISTSâ€”BECAUSE WHEN ARAFAT WALKED AWAY FROM BEING OFFERED 98% OF WHAT E WANTED HE JUST WALKED AWAY/ DIDNâ€™T EVEN TRY TO NEGOTIATE AND THEN, RAGICALLY, SHARON WALKED UP TO THE MOUNT. THAT WAS SUCH A TRAGEDY FOR SO MANY)

Forgive ....â€“ the flags

YES, REALLY. WHEN WILL WE DO AWAY WITH FLAGS? (bobbi)

and soldiers and Knessets â€“

PLEASE LEAVE THE SOLDIERS AND THE KNESSET OUT OF IT, PLEASE. THAT HAS NOTHING O DO WITH THE ABOVE. (bobbi)

That makes us forget the voices of Prophets.

NO WAY THEIR VOICES ARE FORGOTTEN. WE JUST GOTTA FIND A WAY TO REMEDY THIS ORRIFYING SITUATION. BUT NO ONEâ€™S FORGOTTEN THE VOICES OF THE PROPHETS. AT EAST NOT FROM WHERE Iâ€™M SITTING. (bobbi)

Forgive us all the evils we have done while crying "Never Again."

NO. THATâ€™S NOT RIGHT. AS FAR AS â€œEVILSâ€ OK THERE ARE A LOT OF CRAZY FANATICS N ALL GROUPS BUT ITâ€™S BECAUSE WHEN ALMOST EVERY HOLIDAY YOU HAVE (NOT ELEBRATE) IS ABOUT SURVIVALâ€¦WELL, AND THE HOLOCAUST IS JUST TO HORRIFYING TO VEN CATAGORIZE AMONG ALL THE MANY THINGS WHICH HAPPENED IN HISTORYâ€”SO â€œNEVER GAINâ€ IS DEFINITELY THE CRY AND THAT CRY WILL CONTINUED REGARDLESS OF ALL THE OTCHED WORK OF POLITICIANS (bobbi)

We have planted, but we pray that no one reaps.

THATâ€™S A TOTAL LIE. I CAN GIVE YOU A BILLION EXAMPLES OF WHY THAT IS A TOTAL IE BUT JUST FOR NOW, PLEASE CHECK YOUR FACTS: JUST LOOK UP HOW MUCH MONEY SRAEL GAVE TO AID VICTIMS IN DARFUR. (bobbi)

We are ever strangers in someone else's house,

NO, WEâ€™RE NOT. WE HAVE A COUNTRY NOW. AND, YES, ITâ€™S A MESS. BUT NO WAY WE ARE OING TO LET GO OF THAT HAVEN OF OURS. BECAUSE THERE ARE TOO MANY PEOPLE ON THIS ARTH LIKE YOU (WHO SOMEHOW GET OBSESSED WITH JEWS AND BLAMING JEWS) AND WE NEED PLACE TO BE AT PEACE AWAY FROM THEM.(bobbi)

But we can always be at home in our heads â€“

AND ARE YOU AT HOME IN YOUR HEAD? BECAUSE IT ALWAYS COMES DOWN TO THE NDIVIDUAL. (bobbi)

BOBBI LURIE

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - ttp://mail.aol.com

_____ apture your memories in an online journal! ttp://www.reallivemoms.com?ocid=TXT_TAGHM&loc=us=

_____ Email
and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! -
http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

496. Bobbi Lurie
Re: PLEASE COULD SOMEONE HELP ME GET TO ARCHIVES
Sun 23 Sep 2007

Dear Amy,

Thank you!!!!

Bobbi

-----Original Message-----
From: amy king <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 8:41 pm
Subject: Re: PLEASE COULD SOMEONE HELP ME GET TO ARCHIVES

Dear Bobbi,

Please access the archive here:
http://listserv.acsu.buffalo.edu/archives/poetics.html

Best,
Amy

Bobbi Lurie <[redacted]> wrote: Dear Buffalo List--

Could someone tell me how I can get to archives on this list?

Bobbi Lurie

Pinpoint customers who are looking for what you sell.

_____ Email
and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! -
http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

497. Barrett Watten
some posts
Sun 23 Sep 2007

Post 37: Continuous Reading: Ten Reviews in Ten Days (Part 1) reviews of Daniel Bouchard, Brenda Coultas, Suzanne Doppelt, Robert Fitterman, Merrill Gilfillan http://www.english.wayne.edu/fac%5Fpages/ewatten/posts/post37.html

Post 38: Continuous Reading, Interrupted (Part 2) review of Ted Greenwald; to be continued
http://www.english.wayne.edu/fac%5Fpages/ewatten/posts/post38.html

Post 39: A Fractal Reading of Spring & All
http://www.english.wayne.edu/fac%5Fpages/ewatten/posts/post39.html

Post 40: Transcendental One-Liners: Words Fail Me at MOCAD
http://www.english.wayne.edu/fac%5Fpages/ewatten/posts/post40.html

↑ Index

498. Warren Lloyd
Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
Sun 23 Sep 2007

Thanks all for the great advice! I think I have plenty to start working. If I have more questions I'll post again. Thanks sincerely for the quick and helpful responses!

Best for now,
Warren

Hugh Nicoll <[redacted]> wrote:
Warren, hi,

First, good luck with your project. Jim Andrews has already suggested Dreamweaver, and not knowing much about the nature of your project or the deadline you're under, I am not sure if alternatives will prove helpful or not.

That said, for composing hypertexts that you could then export to the web, take a look at Storyspace (Mac and Windows), or Tinderbox (currently Mac only) from Eastgate Systems.

These tools may not meet your immediate needs, but could prove useful in the long run if you choose to explore authoring hypertexts with tools that can provide more flexibility than the web offers. Another option might be to write in or export to a wiki.

Hope this helps,

Hugh

--
Hugh Nicoll
JALT, ld-sig co-coordinator
http://hughnicoll.org/blog/
[redacted]

Shape Yahoo! in your own image. Join our Network Research Panel today!

↑ Index

499. Jim Andrews
Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
Mon 24 Sep 2007

> <http://www.eastgate.com/storyspace/>
>
> <http://www.eastgate.com/Tinderbox/>
>
> These tools may not meet your immediate needs, but could prove useful in the long run if you choose to explore authoring hypertexts with tools that can provide more flexibility than the web offers. Another option might be to write in or export to a wiki.
>
> Hope this helps,
> Hugh

I don't know anything about Tinderbox, but Storyspace does not "provide more flexibility than the Web offers". Storyspace was used to create some influential literary hypertexts back, erm, what?, in the early to mid nineties? But it hasn't been particularly popular, even in literary circles, since HTML editors proliferated with the rise of the Web in 94-97. I understand Storyspace was wonderful at the time: it was maybe the first and best tool developed by literary folks for literary folks, as a tool for the development of a new type of literary work. Pretty exciting, at the time.

I read that one may export Storybook projects to HTML. But you certainly could not contain all the functionality provided even just by Javascript in Storybook. Javascript is a fullblown programming language. I don't think Storyspace provides a fullblown programming language.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

500. lily robert-foley
Re: what's doin' in Chicago?
Mon 24 Sep 2007

ooh... can I come too?

what to do in Chicago: art institute, yes, bean assuredly (that's the big bean shaped object if you walk a little north of the art institute). The MCA is probably worth a go to. There are often free concerts outdoors at Millenium Park, which is that giant Frank Ghery pompadour right behind the bean. Most of all, though: take a ride on the el, especially if you haven't really been here before. Riding around up there, surveying the rooftops, it's my favorite thing! for the first four months I lived here I felt like i was on a non-stop roller coaster ride (except without the nausea). But make sure you get a window seat! Also Chicago's landscape is fascinatingly diverse. Get on the orange (or, if you're adventurous, the green) line and go all the way down south, then come back up and take the red line all the way up north and then pop into the Green Mill off the Lawrence Red line stop for some drinks and some jazz— hoppin' til 4am!).

And then... there's one of my favorite places in all of Chicago. It's a library of artists books—books that artists made. It's small and quiet and up on I think the 7th floor of an art institute building. I don't think I have the exact address and finding it online might prove difficult. The best way to do it (the way I've done it in the past) is to go to the library at the museum of the art institute and ask them there about it. I believe it's on Wabash. They should know. It's one of the most wonderous places in the world and its full of treasures. But downtown Chicago is like that too. The architecture along the Chicago river is absolutely stunning (I think there's some kind of boat tour you can do that's supposed to be pretty good).

And absolutely the best, most chicago, best most chicago restaurant (this is if you really want to understand what is amazing about Chicago!) take a cab up to Hot Doug's. I mean, just check out this website and tell me it doesn't sound amazing. http://www.hotdougs.com. It is. And in the true Chicago style, it's probably not worth the cab fare if you're a vegetarian.

And then, my PERSONAL favorite place in Chicago (besides my apartment), if you're going to be in town on a Saturday or a Sunday is The Green Lantern Gallery and Press at 1511 Milwaukee and Honore... pop in on a Sunday between 1 and 6 and I'll give you the tour. But, you know. That's a lot.

Can you tell I heart Chicago?

Hope that helps.

Cheers!

Lily

> ----- Original Message -----
> From: "Raymond Bianchi" <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: what's doin' in Chicago?
> Date: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 17:42:02 +0000
>
> Dillon
>
> drop me a line we can do beer with poets here if you like??
>
> R
>
> ---------- Original message ----------
> From: Dillon Westbrook <[redacted]>
>
> Dearest Listers, Have a day or two to kill in Chicago beginning of next week, wondering from any residents thereof what's crucial attendance. Never been in my natural life. Back or forward channel. thanks, Dillon

--
Powered By Outblaze

↑ Index

501. Geoffrey Gatza
Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
Mon 24 Sep 2007

New York City ‹ home to the United Nations and some of the most ethnically diverse communities on the planet ‹ often finds itself in the curious position of being grudgingly hospitable to some of the world¹s most controversial heads of state and loathsome tyrants.

The arrival yesterday of Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, the Iranian president best known here for criticizing the United States and calling the Holocaust a myth, is the latest example of the diplomatic dance New York has long performed with international firebrands.

Last week the Police Department denied Iran¹s request to allow Mr. Ahmadinejad to visit ground zero, but BlazeVOX [books] is allowing him to participate in a Poetry reading Tuesday. Geoffrey Gatza spoke last night to a sympathetic and mostly Iranian audience at a Midtown hotel. ³We are thrilled that President Ahmadinejad will read from his upcoming BlazeVOX book.²

Tony Snow, The White House press secretary was quoted, why not give him a book, Gatza¹s published everyone else, why not him too, he said with disgust.
---
http://welcometoboogcity.com/

Season 5 of d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

ACA Galleries, 529 W.20th St., 5th Floor.
(bet. 10th and 11th avenues) NYC

Tues. Sept. 25 BlazeVOX Books
6:00 p.m., free

Featuring readings from Joel Chace, Amy King, Ruth Lepson, Douglas Manson, Kyle Schlesinger and music from Compass Jazz

---
--

Best, Geoffrey

Geoffrey Gatza
Editor & Publisher

BlazeVOX [books]
Publisher of weird little books

[redacted]
http://www.blazevox.org

↑ Index

502. kevin thurston

two readings this week, 'this aint the chicago review' and an triple launch

Mon 24 Sep 2007

'This ain't the Chicago Review'
sean bonney
frances kruk
sophie robinson
ric royer
thursday, sept [redacted]
rust belt books, 202 allen st

triple launch extravaganza
contributors to P-Queue, Damn the Caesars & Pilot

jose alvergue, ben bedard, sean bonney, jon cotner, kai fierle-hedrick, frances kruk, karen maccormack, steve mccaffery, sophie robinson & siobhan scarry
friday, sept [redacted]
adam mickiewicz library, 612 fillmore ave

--
author of How to Irritate Friends & Isolate People

http://fuckinglies.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

503. Raymond Bianchi
Re: what's doin' in Chicago?
Mon 24 Sep 2007

---

wrigley YUK

---------- Original message ----------
From: George Bowering <[redacted]>

> Git thee to the Art Institute of Chicago.
>
> Outside of Wrigley, it's the spot.
>
> gb
>
> On Sep 22, 2007, at 8:41 PM, Dillon Westbrook wrote:
>
> Dearest Listers,
>
> Have a day or two to kill in Chicago beginning of next week, wondering from any residents thereof what's crucial attendance. Never been in my natural life. Back or forward channel.
>
> thanks,
> Dillon
>
> George Harry Bowering,
> Never got his share.

↑ Index

504. jcu
Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
Mon 24 Sep 2007

HI Waren,

Storyspace is an interesting program to write in.
Butjust a reminder that the problem with storyspace
is that only other readers with storyspace software
can read your hypertext. Too bad there isn't a freeware hypertext writing program out there that everyone can use.

j

----- Original Message -----
From: "Hugh Nicoll" <[redacted]>
To: <[redacted]>
Sent: Sunday, September 23, 2007 10:39 PM
Subject: Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations

> Warren, hi,
>
> First, good luck with your project. Jim Andrews has already suggested Dreamweaver, and not knowing much about the nature of your project or the deadline you're under, I am not sure if alternatives will prove helpful or not.
>
> That said, for composing hypertexts that you could then export to the web, take a look at Storyspace (Mac and Windows), or Tinderbox (currently Mac only) from Eastgate Systems.
>
> <http://www.eastgate.com/storyspace/>
>
> <http://www.eastgate.com/Tinderbox/>
>
> These tools may not meet your immediate needs, but could prove useful in the long run if you choose to explore authoring hypertexts with tools that can provide more flexibility than the web offers. Another option might be to write in or export to a wiki.
>
> Hope this helps,
>
> Hugh
>
> --
> Hugh Nicoll
> JALT, ld-sig co-coordinator

> http://hughnicoll.org/blog/
> [redacted]

↑ Index

505. Christophe Casamassima
Writing by Degrees Conference...
Mon 24 Sep 2007

If anyone's going to be at the Writing by Degrees conference in Binghampton who'd like to get together during or after or before or... let's try to get an impromptu group together, maybe hang at the hotel rooms or local venues maybe to exchange work, talk about work, work...

just an idea!

christophe casamassima

=
Disability Income
Unable to work due to Depression? Qualify for Disability Income.
http://a8-asy.a8ww.net/a8-ads/adftrclick?
redirectid=ecf02d16ed4e8e8944c5c0e060754f85

--
Powered By Outblaze

↑ Index

506. Bobbi Lurie
Re: two readings this week, 'this aint the chicago review' and an triple launch
Mon 24 Sep 2007

Kevin, i'm going to read your blog when i get home tonight because anyone who's written a book titled "How to Irritate Friends & Isolate People" sounds like someone i'd like to read. --Bobbi Lurie

-----Original Message-----
From: kevin thurston <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Mon, 24 Sep 2007 6:15 am
Subject: two readings this week, 'this aint the chicago review' and an triple launch

'This ain't the Chicago Review'
sean bonney
frances kruk

sophie robinson
ric royer
thursday, sept [redacted]
rust belt books, 202 allen st

triple launch extravaganza
contributors to P-Queue, Damn the Caesars & Pilot
jose alvergue, ben bedard, sean bonney, jon cotner, kai fierle-hedrick, frances kruk, karen maccormack, steve mccaffery, sophie robinson & siobhan scarry
friday, sept [redacted]
adam mickiewicz library, 612 fillmore ave

--
author of How to Irritate Friends & Isolate People

http://fuckinglies.blogspot.com/

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

507. Bobbi Lurie
Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
Mon 24 Sep 2007

And one more suggestion: why not put the U.N. in Venezuela or something?

and please, more importantly, PLEASE read his speeches translated directly from Farsi cause they sound a lot different than the ones he gives to the U.S. directly.

Bobbi Lurie

p.s. too bad i won't be in NYC until next week....well, maybe it's better that way...but please send a synopsis of all of this. i'd really like toÂ know moreÂ about it.

-----Original Message-----
From: Geoffrey Gatza <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 11:45 pm
Subject: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

New York City â€¹ home to the United Nations and some of the most ethnically iverse communities on the planet â€¹ often finds itself in the curious osition of being grudgingly hospitable to some of the worldÂ¹s most ontroversial heads of state and loathsome tyrants.

he arrival yesterday of Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, the Iranian president best nown here for criticizing the United States and calling the Holocaust a yth, is the latest example of the diplomatic dance New York has long erformed with international firebrands.

ast week the Police Department denied IranÂ¹s request to allow Mr. hmadinejad to visit ground zero, but BlazeVOX [books] is allowing him to articipate in a Poetry reading Tuesday. Geoffrey Gatza spoke last night to sympathetic and mostly Iranian audience at a Midtown hotel. Â³We are hrilled that President Ahmadinejad will read from his upcoming BlazeVOX ook.Â² ony Snow, The White House press secretary was quoted, why not give him a ook, GatzaÂ¹s published everyone else, why not him too, he said with isgust.

---
ttp://welcometoboogcity.com/

eason 5 of d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

CA Galleries, 529 W.20th St., 5th Floor.
bet. 10th and 11th avenues) NYC

ues. Sept. 25 BlazeVOX Books
:00 p.m., free

eaturing readings from Joel Chace, Amy King, Ruth Lepson, Douglas Manson, yle Schlesinger and music from Compass Jazz

---
-
Best, Geoffrey
Geoffrey Gatza
ditor & Publisher

BlazeVOX [books]
ublisher of weird little books

[redacted]
ttp://www.blazevox.org

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

508. mIEKAL aND
Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
Mon 24 Sep 2007

As has been mentioned previously, there is a number of idiotproof wikis out there that are available for free. If yr just starting out & can't install yr own, pbwiki is a good one to check out. You can create a site with your own subdomain. Of course with free there is some ads but these guys are pretty good at keeping the wikispam off their sites...

http://pbwiki.com/

I use phpwiki for our various projects & like it alot. Most hosting solutions have an autoinstaller for an early version of this. Here's a project that Maria D & I have been working on for a few years.

http://joglars.org/EnterWriting/index.php/WritingDubuffetsTitles

On Sep 24, 2007, at 7:30 AM, jcu wrote:

> HI Waren,
> Storyspace is an interesting program to write in. Butjust a > reminder that the problem with storyspace
> is that only other readers with storyspace software
> can read your hypertext. Too bad there isn't a freeware > hypertext writing program out there that everyone can > use.
> j
>
> ----- Original Message ----- From: "Hugh Nicoll" <[redacted]>
> To: <[redacted]>
> Sent: Sunday, September 23, 2007 10:39 PM
> Subject: Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
>
> Warren, hi,
> First, good luck with your project. Jim Andrews has already suggested > Dreamweaver, and not knowing much about the nature of your project or > the deadline you're under, I am not sure if alternatives will prove > helpful or not.
> That said, for composing hypertexts that you could then export to the > web, take a look at Storyspace (Mac and Windows), or Tinderbox > (currently Mac only) from Eastgate Systems.
> <http://www.eastgate.com/storyspace/>
> <http://www.eastgate.com/Tinderbox/>
> These tools may not meet your immediate needs, but could prove useful > in the long run if you choose to explore authoring hypertexts with > tools that can provide more flexibility than the web offers. Another > option might be to write in or export to a wiki.

> Hope this helps,
> Hugh
> --
> Hugh Nicoll
> JALT, ld-sig co-coordinator
> http://hughnicoll.org/blog/
> [redacted]

↑ Index

509. Raymond Bianchi

Re: what's doin' in Chicago?

Mon 24 Sep 2007

OK since we are giving recommendations for Chicago

1) Hot Dogs- Super Dawg on Milwaukee it is far away from Yuppie Land (where Hot Dougs is) and is pure Chicago also Gene and Judes is very good.
2) Music- Rosas Lounge in Humboldt Park
3) Beefs- (Yes in Chicago they are beefs) Mr Beef on Orleans but only for lunch
4) Good Food- LULA on Logan Square by the monument
5) Bar- Green Mill full of slammers but why not??
6) DELI- Manny's Deli is off of Roosevelt it is one of the last parts of the Maxwell Street Area still that exists.
7) Bookstores- Go to Hyde Park and spend the afternoon at Seminary Coop

---------- Original message ----------
From: lily robert-foley <[redacted]>

> ooh... can I come too?
>
> what to do in Chicago: art institute, yes, bean assuredly (that's the big bean shaped object if you walk a little north > of the art institute). The MCA is probably worth a go to. There are often free concerts outdoors at Millenium Park, > which is that giant Frank Ghery pompadour right behind the bean. Most of all, though: take a ride on the el, > especially if you haven't really been here before. Riding around up there, surveying the rooftops, it's my favorite > thing! for the first four months I lived here I felt like i was on a non-stop roller coaster ride (except without the > nausea). But make sure you get a window seat! Also Chicago's landscape is fascinatingly diverse. Get on the orange > (or, if you're adventurous, the green) line and go all the way down south, then come back up and take the red line all the way up north and then pop into the Green Mill off the Lawrence Red line stop for some drinks and some jazz—hoppin' til 4am!).

And then... there's one of my favorite places in all of Chicago. It's a library of artists books—books that artists made.
It's small and quiet and up on I think the 7th floor of an art institute building. I don't think I have the exact address and finding it online might prove difficult. The best way to do it (the way I've done it in the past) is to go to the library at the museum of the art institute and ask them there about it. I believe it's on Wabash. They should know.
It's one of the most wonderous places in the world and its full of treasures.
But downtown Chicago is like that too.
The architecture along the Chicago river is absolutely stunning (I think there's some kind of boat tour you can do that's supposed to be pretty good).

And absolutely the best, most chicago, best most chicago restaurant (this is if you really want to understand what is amazing about Chicago!) take a cab up to Hot Doug's. I mean, just check out this website and tell me it doesn't sound amazing. http://www.hotdougs.com. It is. And in the true Chicago style, it's probably not worth the cab fare if you're a vegetarian.

And then, my PERSONAL favorite place in Chicago (besides my apartment), if you're going to be in town on a Saturday or a Sunday is The Green Lantern Gallery and Press at 1511 Milwaukee and Honore... pop in on a Sunday between 1 and 6 and I'll give you the tour. But, you know. That's a lot.

Can you tell I heart Chicago?

Hope that helps.

Cheers!

Lily

----- Original Message -----
From: "Raymond Bianchi"
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: what's doin' in Chicago?
Date: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 17:42:02 +0000

> Dillon
>
> drop me a line we can do beer with poets here if you like??
>
> R
>
> ---------- Original message ----------
> From: Dillon Westbrook
>
> Dearest Listers, Have a day or two to kill in Chicago beginning of next week, wondering from any residents thereof what's crucial attendance. Never been in my natural life. Back or forward channel. thanks, Dillon
>
> --
> Powered By Outblaze

↑ Index

510. Christophe Casamassima

Benjamin/Distraction vs Concentration

Mon 24 Sep 2007

The below appears in section 15 of Benjamin's "Art in the Age of Mechanical Reproduction". I'm having a hard time getting at this. any help?

Christophe

"The distracted person, too, can form habits. More, the ability to master certain tasks in a state of distraction proves that their solution has become a matter of habit. Distraction as provided by art presents a covert control of the extent to which new tasks have become soluble by apperception. Since, moreover, individuals are tempted to avoid such tasks, art will tackle the most difficult and most important ones where it is able to mobilize the masses. Today it does so in the film. Reception in a state of distraction, which is increasing noticeably in all fields of art and is symptomatic of profound changes in apperception, finds in the film its true means of exercise. The film with its shock effect meets this mode of reception halfway. The film makes the cult value recede into the background not only by putting the public in the position of the critic, but also by the fact that at the movies this position requires no attention. The public is an examiner, but an absent-minded one."

=
sun protection

Access to Answers, Info, Forums On sun protection & More.
http://a8-asy.a8ww.net/a8-ads/adftrclick?redirectid=991f8eefd1aecb43417c177bf9638d6c

--
Powered By Outblaze

↑ Index

511. susan maurer
anna sianos photography show at the bowery poetry club
Mon 24 Sep 2007

---

do catch anna sianos photgraphy show at the bowery poetry club. there is also a closing reading and reception at 10. on 9-26 and this is a fun lively group. the second run of my RAPTOR RHAPSODY is now available (poets wear prada)
susan maurer _____
Gear up for Halo® 3 with free downloads and an exclusive offer. It’s our way of saying thanks for using Windows Live™. http://gethalo3gear.com?ocid=SeptemberWLHalo3_WLHMTxt_2=

↑ Index

512. Hugh Nicoll
Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
Mon 24 Sep 2007

Hi Jim, Warren, j, all

Jim, thanks for the feedback. Perhaps I should've said that Storyspace offers a different kind of flexiblity than html. I read Warren's first post as an indirect statement of lack of familiarity/fluency with html, and by extension Javascript. Re: j's point: Storyspace readers can be distributed for free with hypertexts published in Storyspace, and though I haven't worked with any of the open-source note-taking/hypertext tools in the last year, there are still a number available. See for example, <http://www.w3.org/Status.html>

Within the hypertext research community, discussions and definitions of the field, the nature of links, and a number of other core topics are on-going. Ted Nelson, who coined the term "hypertext" has stated in no uncertain terms that the web is not hypertext. It is certainly a version, and quite obviously the most popular and most accessible one. My main point was that there other options, and reflects my lack of fluency with Dreamweaver, which in my experience presents some interesting learning curves, like all the other tools out there.

Ted Nelson and his team are still working on xanadu, and from what I saw at Hypertext 2007 earlier this month, progress is being made on alternative visions.

<http://www.sigweb.org/ht07/> <http://www.xanadu.net/>

all bests,

Hugh

On 9/24/07, jcu <[redacted]> wrote:
> HI Waren,
>
> Storyspace is an interesting program to write in.
> Butjust a reminder that the problem with storyspace
> is that only other readers with storyspace software
> can read your hypertext. Too bad there isn't a freeware > hypertext writing program out there that everyone can > use.
>
> j
>
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: "Hugh Nicoll" <[redacted]>
> To: <[redacted]>
> Sent: Sunday, September 23, 2007 10:39 PM
> Subject: Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
>
>
> > Warren, hi,
> >
> > First, good luck with your project. Jim Andrews has already suggested > > Dreamweaver, and not knowing much about the nature of your project or > > the deadline you're under, I am not sure if alternatives will prove > > helpful or not.
> >
> > That said, for composing hypertexts that you could then export to the > > web, take a look at Storyspace (Mac and Windows), or Tinderbox > > (currently Mac only) from Eastgate Systems.
> >
> > <http://www.eastgate.com/storyspace/>
> >

> > <http://www.eastgate.com/Tinderbox/>
> >
> > These tools may not meet your immediate needs, but could prove useful
> > in the long run if you choose to explore authoring hypertexts with > > tools that can provide more flexibility than the web offers. Another > > option might be to write in or export to a wiki.
> >
> > Hope this helps,
> >
> > Hugh
> >
> > --
> > Hugh Nicoll
> > JALT, ld-sig co-coordinator
> > http://hughnicoll.org/blog/
> > [redacted]
> >
>

--
Hugh Nicoll
JALT, ld-sig co-coordinator
http://hughnicoll.org/blog/
[redacted]

↑ Index

513. Jordan Stempleman
Re: what's doin' in Chicago?
Mon 24 Sep 2007

---

replace 5) w/ Fred Anderson's Velvet Lounge, and I'm with you 100% Ray.

> Date: Mon, 24 Sep 2007 13:54:24 +0000> From: [redacted]> Subject: Re: what's doin' in Chicago?> To: [redacted]> > OK since we are giving recommendations for Chicago> > 1) Hot Dogs- Super Dawg on Milwaukee it is far away from Yuppie Land (where Hot Dougs is) and is pure Chicago also Gene and Judes is very good. > 2) Music- Rosas Lounge in Humboldt Park> 3) Beefs- (Yes in Chicago they are beefs) Mr Beef on Orleans but only for lunch> 4) Good Food- LULA on Logan Square by the monument > 5) Bar- Green Mill full of slammers but why not??> 6) DELI- Manny's Deli is off of Roosevelt it is one of the last parts of the Maxwell Street Area still that exists. > 7) Bookstores- Go to Hyde Park and spend the afternoon at Seminary Coop > > ---------- Original message ---------- > From: lily robert-foley <[redacted]> > > > ooh... can I come too? > > > > what to do in Chicago: art institute, yes, bean assuredly (that's the big bean > > shaped object if you walk a little north > > of the art institute). The MCA is probably worth a go to. There are often free > > concerts outdoors at Millenium Park, > > which is that giant Frank Ghery pompadour right behind the bean. Most of all, > > though: take a ride on the el, > > especially if you haven't really been here before. Riding around up there, > > surveying the rooftops, it's my favorite > > thing! for the first four months I lived here I felt like i was on a non-stop > > roller coaster ride (except without the > > nausea). But make sure you get a window seat! Also Chicago's landscape is > > fascinatingly diverse. Get on the orange > > (or, if you're adventurous, the green) line and go all the way down south, then > > come back up and take the red line all > > the way up north and then pop into the Green Mill off the Lawrence Red line stop > > for some drinks and some jazz— > > hoppin' til 4am!). > > > > And then... there's one of my favorite places in all of Chicago. It's a library > > of artists books—books that artists made. > > It's small and quiet and up on I think the 7th floor of an art institute > > building. I don't think I have the exact address > > and finding it online might prove difficult. The best way to do it (the way > > I've done it in the past) is to go to the > > library at the museum of the art institute and ask them there about it. I > > believe it's on Wabash. They should know. > > It's one of the most wonderous places in the world and its full of treasures. > > But downtown Chicago is like that too. > > The architecture along the Chicago river is absolutely stunning (I think there's > > some kind of boat tour you can do > > that's supposed to be pretty good). > > > > And absolutely the best, most chicago, best most chicago restaurant (this is if > > you really want to understand what is > > amazing about Chicago!) take a cab up to Hot Doug's. I mean, just check out > > this website and tell me it doesn't > > sound amazing. http://www.hotdougs.com. It is. And in the true Chicago > > style, it's probably not worth the cab fare > > if you're a vegetarian. > > > > And then, my PERSONAL favorite place in Chicago (besides my apartment), if > > you're going to be in town on a Saturday > > or a Sunday is The Green Lantern Gallery and Press at 1511 Milwaukee and > > Honore... pop in on a Sunday between 1 > > and 6 and I'll give you the tour. But, you know. That's a lot. > > > > Can you tell I heart Chicago? > > > > Hope that helps. > > > > Cheers! > > > > Lily > > > > > > > > > > ----- Original Message ----- > > > From: "Raymond Bianchi" > > > To: [redacted] > > > Subject: Re: what's doin' in Chicago? > > > Date: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 17:42:02 +0000 > > > > > > > > > Dillon > > > > > > drop me a line we can do beer with poets here if you like?? > > > > > > R > > > > > > ---------- Original message ---------- > > > From: Dillon Westbrook > > > > > > Dearest Listers, Have a day or two to kill in Chicago beginning > > > > of next week, wondering from any residents thereof what's crucial > > > > attendance. Never been in my natural life. Back or forward > > > > channel. thanks, Dillon > > > > > > > > > > > -- > >

Powered By Outblaze

Capture your memories in an online journal!
http://www.reallivemoms.com?ocid=TXT_TAGHM&loc=us=

↑ Index

514. Thomas savage

Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

Mon 24 Sep 2007

If Ahmedinajad denies the Holocaust, then he is obviously just simply wrong. But American propaganda on all things being suspect, who knows if he ever really said that. Anyway, just as Iraq had no weapons of mass destruction, the government of Iran may be telling the truth when it says that it is developing nuclear power for peaceful uses. Who knows? Anyway, I'm glad someone in NYC outside the UN is giving Mr. Ahmedinajad a forum in which to express himself. Is he really going to read poetry? This must be the first time I've heard of a "world leader" writing poetry since the former head of the Sandinistas read some poetry he'd written on a trip I took to Nicaragua many years ago. Anyway, whatever their mistaken views (a la Baraka and his part of a poem about 9/11), everyone deserves to be heard. Regards, Tom Savage

Bobbi Lurie <[redacted]> wrote: And one more suggestion: why not put the U.N. in Venezuela or something?

and please, more importantly, PLEASE read his speeches translated directly from Farsi cause they sound a lot different than the ones he gives to the U.S. directly.

Bobbi Lurie

p.s. too bad i won't be in NYC until next week....well, maybe it's better that way...but please send a synopsis of all of this. i'd really like toÂ know moreÂ about it.

-----Original Message-----
From: Geoffrey Gatza
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 11:45 pm
Subject: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

New York City ??home to the United Nations and some of the most ethnically iverse communities on the planet ??often finds itself in the curious osition of being grudgingly hospitable to some of the worldÂ¹s most ontroversial heads of state and loathsome tyrants.

he arrival yesterday of Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, the Iranian president best nown here for criticizing the United States and calling the Holocaust a yth, is the latest example of the diplomatic dance New York has long erformed with international firebrands.

ast week the Police Department denied IranÂ¹s request to allow Mr. hmadinejad to visit ground zero, but BlazeVOX [books] is allowing him to articipate in a Poetry reading Tuesday. Geoffrey Gatza spoke last night to sympathetic and mostly Iranian audience at a Midtown hotel. Â³We are hrilled that President Ahmadinejad will read from his upcoming BlazeVOX ook.Â²

ony Snow, The White House press secretary was quoted, why not give him a ook, GatzaÂ¹s published everyone else, why not him too, he said with isgust.
---
ttp://welcometoboogcity.com/

eason 5 of d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

CA Galleries, 529 W.20th St., 5th Floor.
bet. 10th and 11th avenues) NYC

ues. Sept. 25 BlazeVOX Books
:00 p.m., free

eaturing readings from Joel Chace, Amy King, Ruth Lepson, Douglas Manson, yle Schlesinger and music from Compass Jazz

---
-
Best, Geoffrey
Geoffrey Gatza
ditor & Publisher

BlazeVOX [books]
ublisher of weird little books

[redacted]
ttp://www.blazevox.org

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

---
Moody friends. Drama queens. Your life? Nope! - their life, your story.
Play Sims Stories at Yahoo! Games.

↑ Index

515. David-Baptiste Chirot

Re: Yom Kippur Liturgy//the importance of the text, of reading, & of facts

Mon 24 Sep 2007

Dear Bobbie:

Please stop confusing me with someone else.
I did not send the Hannah Arendt text to this list, nor did I make any comment on it.
As Casey Stengel used to say, "You can look it up."

You write that "I'm not so much into reading text as into context and subtext"--I think one addresses all three. If one is cavalier with texts and immediately jumps to their contexts and subtexts, via a "not so much" reading, this often results in misrepresentations, misapprehensions, mis-information. This can in some cases become the smearing of others based on an ignoring of the actual text at the privileging of a skim-reading which sees maybe two buzzwords and ignores the rest of the writing.

I.E A text itself needs to be read deeply and in full as having within it context and subtext, as well as taking place within these.

Again, if you will "look it up," the original message was sent on Yom Kippur, not the day after, as you allege.

If you knew the text was from Hilton Obenzinger, why did you address all your assumptions and questions to me, as though I had written it? And now you say I am making conclusions from a Hannah Arendt article which I didn't even send or comment on.

At the same time as misidentifying me with others' texts, you demanded I explain my identity.

If a prayer doesn't belong here on this list, I am sure the Poetics Moderator would let me know. It's being here means that the Moderator accepted it as being within the bounds of the Poetics List's conversation. After all, all manner of topics relatively tangential to poetics are discussed, and a Liturgy does not seem too far beyond the pale.

I find it saddening and ironic that you grill me about my identity and at the same time misattribute texts and posts to me as well as conclusions which I have never made here nor anywhere else nor ever would even entertain the remotest idea of.

And beyond that, I find it frightening, for you accuse me of something I think is unthinkable, sickening, insane and horrific. That is, that the Jewish people are to blame for the Holocaust. How you ever arrived at this conclusion by your method of "not so much into reading text as into context and subtext" I think shows the need to be much more attentive with all three--text, context, subtext. The appalling assertion of a "conclusion" you attribute to me is not only something that's never occured to me, (it's completely factually false so why would one think it?), your assertion is based on a text not even sent by me, and is your own conclusion in judging that text.

You ask what place a post of a Liturgy has to do with poetics. Yet what kind of poetics are you advocating by this example? A poetics which interrogates the sender of a post with a text not written by themselves, as though they are the author, and attributing to the author and the sender a conclusion which is not found with either? And, upon that being refuted, attributing a post and comment never sent by the person to them, and again drawing a completely false accusation from this?

I don't see how reading for "context" and "subtext" works very well when one does not pay attention to the text in the first case, and in the second case, the fact that the text is not even from the person whose identity you have been so demanding in having defined seems to render the entire issue null.

It would seem that you have a floating context and subtext which you are applying arbitrarily to texts which are not closely examined at all. "Context" and "subtext" in search of a text, an author to "frame" as it were, a "suspect" who "fits the profile" as long as the actual evidence, the text, is almost completely ignored. The sender, who is not even the author of the text, needs to be interrogated, while the text itself is not given any real form of examination.

From a "poetics" view alone--setting aside the ethical and real-life potential consequences--this method is very irresponsible, as it does not read texts, but projects onto them pre-fabricated readings which imprison the text, the writer, the non-writer supposedly the writer, in a series of cells constructed of pre-framed "evidences." One is not reading, nor finding evidence, but simply interrogating the identity of the subject supposedly the "author" whether or not they actually are, and then, without having read the text, but having "read" the author/non-author/sender of the text, reading out the ultimatum of the pre-framing context and sub text to the condemned.

In discussing texts, it is important to include the text (as idiotic as this may sound, that, yes, to discuss a text one needs to include the text--) as well as the context and subtext--otherwise, one begins to be discussing an empty space which becomes framed from without by pre-judgements, prejudices, imposed conclusions, all based on things not present in the text itself, which, being nearly erased as it were, can be used as a palimpsest for the Authoritatively inscribed projections of the one who sits in judgement.

In other words, the American Homeland Security methods of the "Justice" System being transposed to poetics, if one carries it far enough. And who wants this, in life and poetics?

In my own work I use and think very much on this phrase by Paul Celan: "Poetry no longer imposes itself, it exposes itself."

A poetics which imposes conclusions, pre-fabricated contexts and subtexts, demands proofs of identity, ignores facts--to me, in my way of thinking of Celan's words, this is not poetry nor poetics. It's the way Holocausts, genocides, dictatorships, ethnic cleansings, juntas, repressive regimes and institutions of all sorts, often begin--

> Date: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 22:56:02 -0400
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: Yom Kippur Liturgy from Hilton Obenzinger---my response
> To: [redacted]
>
> David,
>
> Thank you for answering.
>
> I know text was from Hilton Obenzinger just as I know your other text came from a review of some work of Hannah Arendt. But because I'm not so much into reading text as into context and subtext, I needed clarification and so I thank you for that.
>
> Nonetheless, I have no idea what a prayer for Yom Kippur (the day after Yom Kippur) has anything to do with this poetics list. And if this prayer belongs to "anyone" why is it so specific?
>
> I know Obenzinger does not say the Holocaust is the fault of the Jews. That conclusion came from your other conclusions from Hannah Arendt.
>
> I agree with you re: the situation in our country. And I truly have compassion for all people who have suffered due to the ignorance and cruelty of their fellow man (doesn't that include all of us?). For this, I believe we must do much more than ask forgiveness. We must “do” something.

I am very happy to read this prayer you sent is a call for an end to all holocausts. I do pray this can be a reality. We certainly need it now.

Thank you for your communication.

I join you in a prayer for peace.

In Friendship,

Bobbi Lurie

-----Original Message-----
From: David-Baptiste Chirot <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 2:24 pm
Subject: Re: Yom Kippur Liturgy from Hilton Obenzinger---my response

Dear Bobbie:
I didn't write this, as you can see it is from Hilton Obenzinger.
y father's father was Jewish, but my father never knew him.
y youngest son's grandfather was a refugee from the Holocaust.
y niece is Jewish and grew up and lives in Brooklyn.
I take full responsability for sending the letter because I think it is prayer or compassion, for the heart to open to compassion, to ask for forgiveness for ne's wrongs, to not hold on to the darknesses of the past but to build the uture with light.
I think that what Dr. Obenzinger is saying about the piece being called folkloric" and written by "anonymous" is a sign that many people find the essage of compassion a beautiful one that is also in their own hearts. It is prayer that does not "belong" to any one specific person so to speak, but to anyone". It is a message of peace.

r. Obenzinger does not at all say the Holocaust is the fault of the Jews. lease read his words more carefully.

Here in Milwaukee is the nation's only Black Holocaust Museum, founded by Dr. ames Cameron, the survivor of a mass lynching. Looking out my window, walking he neighborhood, there's no need of Jena or Katrina to understand the concept f a Black Holocaust in America. It's effects are ongoing every minute.
Since my father had hardly any family I grew up identifying with my mother's rench-Indian side of the family. When I was about five my Great-Aunt told me he horror story of what happened to almost all the Indians in the family oaded on trains and given infected blankets. My first wife is a Mohawk. Last eek I went to a rez with a friend. Again, a Holocaust that went into the uilding of the USA, and one whose effects are ongoing every minute.
When I read Dr. Obenzinger's prayer, I feel it is for an end to Holocausts. n end to Holocausts against one's people and also those actions on this way by ne's people against others.
n short, a prayer for Peace.

Date: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 13:33:50 -0400
From: [redacted]
Subject: Re: Yom Kippur Liturgy from Hilton Obenzinger---my response
To: [redacted]

SORRY GROUP--I HAD TO DELETE A LOT BECAUSE LIST ONLY ACCEPTS 800 WORDS--IF YOU ANT FULL TEXT I'LL BACKCHANNEL AS AN ATTACHMENT

the day that Jews ask for forgiveness for sins and

transgressions.

DAVID, ARE YOU A JEW? AND, IF SO, DID YOU ASK FORGIVENESS FOR YOUR SINS AND OUR TRANSGRESSIONS OVER THE PAST YEAR? AND IF YOU'RE NOT A JEW: WHY ARE YOU ALKING ABOUT YOM KIPPUR? I MEAN I GOT THE PART WHERE YOU GAVE US YOUR ONCLUSION THAT THE HOLOCAUST WAS THE FAULT OF THE JEWS ETC. AND ALL THE OTHER OSTS YOU SEND THOUGH EVEN THOUGH A MILLION HORRIFYING THINGS ARE HAPPENING IN HIS WORLD IT SEEMS YOUR FOCUS IS STRICTLY ANTI-ISRAEL BUT THERE ARE THINGS TO RICIZE THERE, IT'S GOOD TO TALK ABOUT IT—BUT: WITH MY LAST BREATH I WILL NOT ET YOU GET AWAY WITH BLAMING THE JEWS ON THE HOLOCAUST—NO WAY!!!!

Years ago I wrote my own version of the

enumeration of shortcomings and sins

WHICH SINS? YOURS OR SOMEONE ELSE'S?

A

magazine printed it,

WELL, IF A MAGAZINE PRINTED IT: IT MUST BE TRUE, RIGHT? (bobbi)

and I received a message from a professor

CONGRATULATIONS. NOW YOU CAN PUT THAT ON YOUR BIO. (bobbi)

attributed to

that prolific author, Anonymous,

YES. ANONYMOUS IS VERY PROLIFIC. (bobbi)

and he was going to present a paper

at a conference , I have updated it

slightly,

THAT'S OUR PROBLEM. WE HAVE NO WAY OF KNOWING WHICH PARTS YOU UPDATED. (bobbi)

and I send it out again. May you all be inscribed in the Book of Life.

WHO THE HELL ARE YOU TALKING TO? DON'T THROW THOSE WORDS OUT LIKE HAT!!!!!!!!! (bobbi)

Yom Kippur Liturgy

Once we were strangers in someone else's house,

ALMOST ALWAYS. AND OUR SUITCASES STAY PACKED. THAT'S ALWAYS BEEN RULE #1
bobbi)

Now we are strangers in our own heads

WAIT A SECOND. I'M NO STRANGER IN MY OWN HEAD. (bobbi)

– forgive us.

FORGIVE WHO?

Forgive the beatings, the burlap bags that suffocate

FORGIVE YASSER ARAFAT FOR CARING MORE ABOUT THE $$$$$$$$$$$ HE COULD SEND TO WITZERLAND AND YET STILL PRETEND TO LIVE WITHIN THE IMAGE OF "POET AS EVOLUTIONARY" OR "POET AS POLITICAL FIGURE" CAUSE WE KNOW NO POET WANTS TO RASH THAT ROMANTIC SELF-IMAGE HE'S BEEN CULTIVATING JUST TO GET DOWN TO THE ARD PART OF BUILDING ROADS, AND SCHOOLS AND HOSPITALS--INSTEAD OF HELPING HIS EOPLE. (ON THE OTHER HAND, NO, HE DOESN'T GET ANY FORGIVENESS FOR THAT ONE)

And forgive us the fig trees uprooted

YES. THIS TRULY IS A TRAGEDY. THIS MUST BE REMEDIED. ABSOLUTELY IT MUST.
bobbi)

Once we were strangers in someone else's house,

NO ALWAYS. "AND KEEP THAT SUITCASE PACKED" (bobbi)

Now we are strangers in our own heads

NOW THAT PART ISN'T TRUE. DO YOU KNOW THE WRITER AMOS OZ? HIS FICTION IS EAUTIFUL. BUT EVEN MORE, HE'S PART OF "PEACE NOW" A MOVEMENT IN ISRAEL (I HOPE

T STILL EXISTS—BECAUSE WHEN ARAFAT WALKED AWAY FROM BEING OFFERED 98% OF WHAT E WANTED HE JUST WALKED AWAY/ DIDN'T EVEN TRY TO NEGOTIATE AND THEN, RAGICALLY, SHARON WALKED UP TO THE MOUNT. THAT WAS SUCH A TRAGEDY FOR SO MANY)

Forgive ....– the flags

YES, REALLY. WHEN WILL WE DO AWAY WITH FLAGS? (bobbi)

and soldiers and Knessets –

PLEASE LEAVE THE SOLDIERS AND THE KNESSET OUT OF IT, PLEASE. THAT HAS NOTHING
O DO WITH THE ABOVE. (bobbi)

That makes us forget the voices of Prophets.

NO WAY THEIR VOICES ARE FORGOTTEN. WE JUST GOTTA FIND A WAY TO REMEDY THIS ORRIFYING SITUATION. BUT NO ONE'S FORGOTTEN THE VOICES OF THE PROPHETS. AT EAST NOT FROM WHERE I'M SITTING. (bobbi)

Forgive us all the evils we have done while crying "Never Again."

NO. THAT'S NOT RIGHT. AS FAR AS "EVILS" OK THERE ARE A LOT OF CRAZY FANATICS N ALL GROUPS BUT IT'S BECAUSE WHEN ALMOST EVERY HOLIDAY YOU HAVE (NOT ELEBRATE) IS ABOUT SURVIVAL...WELL, AND THE HOLOCAUST IS JUST TO HORRIFYING TO VEN CATAGORIZE AMONG ALL THE MANY THINGS WHICH HAPPENED IN HISTORY—SO "NEVER GAIN" IS DEFINITELY THE CRY AND THAT CRY WILL CONTINUED REGARDLESS OF ALL THE OTCHED WORK OF POLITICIANS (bobbi)

We have planted, but we pray that no one reaps.

THAT'S A TOTAL LIE. I CAN GIVE YOU A BILLION EXAMPLES OF WHY THAT IS A TOTAL
IE BUT JUST FOR NOW, PLEASE CHECK YOUR FACTS: JUST LOOK UP HOW MUCH MONEY
SRAEL GAVE TO AID VICTIMS IN DARFUR. (bobbi)

We are ever strangers in someone else's house,

NO, WE'RE NOT. WE HAVE A COUNTRY NOW. AND, YES, IT'S A MESS. BUT NO WAY WE ARE OING TO LET GO OF THAT HAVEN OF OURS. BECAUSE THERE ARE TOO MANY PEOPLE ON THIS ARTH LIKE YOU (WHO SOMEHOW GET OBSESSED WITH JEWS AND BLAMING > JEWS) AND WE NEED

> PLACE TO BE AT PEACE AWAY FROM THEM.(bobbi)
>
> But we can always be at home in our heads –
>
> AND ARE YOU AT HOME IN YOUR HEAD? BECAUSE IT ALWAYS COMES DOWN TO THE > NDIVIDUAL. (bobbi)
>
> BOBBI LURIE
>
> _____
> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - ttp://mail.aol.com
>
> _____
> apture your memories in an online journal!
> ttp://www.reallivemoms.com?ocid=TXT_TAGHM&loc=us=
>
> _____
> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

_____ More photos; more messages; more whatever – Get MORE with Windows Live™ Hotmail®. NOW with 5GB storage. http://imagine-windowslive.com/hotmail/?locale=en-us&ocid=TXT_TAGHM_migration_HM_mini_5G_0907=

↑ Index

516. Jeffrey Side
"Multiple Registers, Intertextuality and Boundaries of Intepretation in Veronica Forrest-Thompson"
Mon 24 Sep 2007

I have an article on Veronica Forrest-Thompson at Shadow Train:

"Multiple Registers, Intertextuality and Boundaries of Intepretation in Veronica Forrest-Thompson"

http://shadowtrain.com/id201.html

↑ Index

517. Mary Kasimor
Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
Mon 24 Sep 2007

I assumed that Geoffrey was playing with us!!! Well?
Mary

Thomas savage <[redacted]> wrote:
If Ahmedinajad denies the Holocaust, then he is obviously just simply wrong. But American propaganda on all things being suspect, who knows if he ever really said that. Anyway, just as Iraq had no weapons of mass destruction, the government of Iran may be telling the truth when it says that it is developing nuclear power for peaceful uses. Who knows? Anyway, I'm glad someone in NYC outside the UN is giving Mr. Ahmedinajad a forum in which to express himself. Is he really going to read poetry? This must be the first time I've heard of a "world leader" writing poetry since the former head of the Sandinistas read some poetry he'd written on a trip I took to Nicaragua many years ago. Anyway, whatever their mistaken views (a la Baraka and his part of a poem about 9/11), everyone deserves to be heard. Regards, Tom Savage

Bobbi Lurie wrote: And one more suggestion: why not put the U.N. in Venezuela or something?

and please, more importantly, PLEASE read his speeches translated directly from Farsi cause they sound a lot different than the ones he gives to the U.S. directly.

Bobbi Lurie

p.s. too bad i won't be in NYC until next week....well, maybe it's better that way...but please send a synopsis of all of this. i'd really like toÂ know moreÂ about it.

-----Original Message-----
From: Geoffrey Gatza

To: [redacted]
Sent: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 11:45 pm
Subject: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

New York City ??home to the United Nations and some of the most ethnically iverse communities on the planet ??often finds itself in the curious osition of being grudgingly hospitable to some of the worldÂ¹s most ontroversial heads of state and loathsome tyrants.

he arrival yesterday of Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, the Iranian president best nown here for criticizing the United States and calling the Holocaust a yth, is the latest example of the diplomatic dance New York has long erformed with international firebrands.

ast week the Police Department denied IranÂ¹s request to allow Mr. hmadinejad to visit ground zero, but BlazeVOX [books] is allowing him to articipate in a Poetry reading Tuesday. Geoffrey Gatza spoke last night to sympathetic and mostly Iranian audience at a Midtown hotel. Â³We are hrilled that President Ahmadinejad will read from his upcoming BlazeVOX ook.Â²

ony Snow, The White House press secretary was quoted, why not give him a ook, GatzaÂ¹s published everyone else, why not him too, he said with isgust.
---
ttp://welcometoboogcity.com/

eason 5 of d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

CA Galleries, 529 W.20th St., 5th Floor.
bet. 10th and 11th avenues) NYC

ues. Sept. 25 BlazeVOX Books
:00 p.m., free

eaturing readings from Joel Chace, Amy King, Ruth Lepson, Douglas Manson, yle Schlesinger and music from Compass Jazz

---
-
Best, Geoffrey
Geoffrey Gatza
ditor & Publisher

BlazeVOX [books]
ublisher of weird little books

[redacted]
ttp://www.blazevox.org

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

---
Moody friends. Drama queens. Your life? Nope! - their life, your story.
Play Sims Stories at Yahoo! Games.

Boardwalk for $500? In 2007? Ha!
Play Monopoly Here and Now (it's updated for today's economy) at Yahoo! Games.

↑ Index

518. eric unger
Re: what's doin' in Chicago?
Mon 24 Sep 2007

The Lincoln Park conservatory or the Garfield Park conservatory, both free and open to the public. The Garfield Conservatory is probably better, it has the "fern room", the largest indoor collection of ferns in the world, as well as an incredible cacti room. It happens to be in a horrible neighborhood, but all you have to do is take the Green line to Conservatory. The Lincoln Park Conservatory is right near the lake in a better, if not more yuppie, neighborhood. Plus it is right next to one of the few free zoos in the land, the Lincoln Park zoo.

Some other great suggestions here, but I would try one of Chicago's garden conservatories first.

Best,

Eric

On 9/24/07, Jordan Stempleman <[redacted]> wrote:
> replace 5) w/ Fred Anderson's Velvet Lounge, and I'm with you 100% Ray.
>
> > Date: Mon, 24 Sep 2007 13:54:24 +0000> From: [redacted]> Subject: Re: what's doin' in Chicago?> To: [redacted]> > OK since we are giving recommendations for Chicago> > 1) Hot Dogs- Super Dawg on Milwaukee it is far away from Yuppie Land (where Hot Dougs is) and is pure Chicago also Gene and Judes is very good. > 2) Music- Rosas Lounge in Humboldt Park> 3) Beefs- (Yes in Chicago they are beefs) Mr Beef on Orleans but only for lunch> 4) Good Food- LULA on Logan Square by the monument > 5) Bar- Green Mill full of slammers but why not??> 6) DELI- Manny's Deli is off of Roosevelt it is one of the last parts of the Maxwell Street Area still that exists. > 7) Bookstores- Go to Hyde Park and spend the afternoon at Seminary Coop > > ---------- Original message ---------- > From: lily robert-foley <[redacted]> > > > ooh... can I come too? > > > > what to do in Chicago: art institute, yes, bean assuredly (that's the big bean > > shaped object if you walk a little north > > of the art institute). The MCA is probably worth a go to. There are often free > > concerts outdoors at Millenium Park, > > which is that giant Frank Ghery pompadour right behind the bean. Most of all, > > though: take a ride on the el, > > especially if you haven't really been here before. Riding around up there, > > surveying the rooftops, it's my favorite > > thing! for the first four months I lived here I felt like i was on a non-stop > > roller coaster ride (except without the > > nausea). But make sure you get a window seat! Also Chicago's landscape is > > fascinatingly diverse. Get on the orange > > (or, if you're adventurous, the green) line and go all the way down south, then > > come back up and take the red line all > > the way up north and then pop into the Green Mill off the Lawrence Red line stop > > for some drinks and some jazz— > > hoppin' til 4am!). > > > > And then... there's one of my favorite places in all of Chicago. It's a library > > of artists books—books that artists made. > > It's small and quiet and up on I think the 7th floor of an art institute > > building. I don't think I have the exact address > > and finding it online might prove difficult. The best way to do it (the way > > I've done it in the past) is to go to the > > library at the museum of the art institute and ask them there about it. I > > believe it's on Wabash. They should know. > > It's one of the most wonderous places in the world and its full of treasures. > > But downtown Chicago is like that too. > > The architecture along the Chicago river is absolutely stunning (I think there's > > some kind of boat tour you can do > > that's supposed to be pretty good). > > > > And absolutely the best, most chicago, best most chicago restaurant (this is if > > you really want to understand what is > > amazing about Chicago!) take a cab up to Hot Doug's. I mean, just check out > > this website and tell me it doesn't > > sound amazing. http://www.hotdougs.com. It is. And in the true Chicago > > style, it's probably not worth the cab fare > > if you're a vegetarian. > > > > And then, my PERSONAL favorite place in Chicago (besides my apartment), if > > you're going to be in town on a Saturday > > or a Sunday is The Green Lantern Gallery and Press at 1511 Milwaukee and > > Honore... pop in on a Sunday between 1 > > and 6 and I'll give you the tour. But, you know. That's a lot. > > > > Can you tell I heart Chicago? > > > > Hope that helps. > > > > Cheers! > > > > Lily > > > > > > > > > > ----- Original Message ----- > > > From: "Raymond Bianchi" > > > To: [redacted] > > > Subject: Re: what's doin' in Chicago? > > > Date: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 17:42:02 +0000 > > > > > > > > >

Dillon > > > > > > drop me a line we can do beer with poets here if you like?? > > > > > > R > > > > > > ---------- Original message ---------- > > > From: Dillon Westbrook > > > > > > Dearest Listers, Have a day or two to kill in Chicago beginning > > > > of next week, wondering from any residents thereof what's crucial > > > > attendance. Never been in my natural life. Back or forward > > > > channel. thanks, Dillon > > > > > > > > > > > -- > > Powered By Outblaze
> _____
> Capture your memories in an online journal!
> http://www.reallivemoms.com?ocid=TXT_TAGHM&loc=us

↑ Index

519. Jason Quackenbush
Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
Mon 24 Sep 2007

What's the Baraka 9-11 poem you're referring to?

And how do we know that this Ahmedinajad appearance won't just be Kent Johnson in a keffiya?

On Mon, 24 Sep 2007, Thomas savage wrote:

> If Ahmedinajad denies the Holocaust, then he is obviously just simply wrong. But American propaganda on all things being suspect, who knows if he ever really said that. Anyway, just as Iraq had no weapons of mass destruction, the government of Iran may be telling the truth when it says that it is developing nuclear power for peaceful uses. Who knows? Anyway, I'm glad someone in NYC outside the UN is giving Mr. Ahmedinajad a forum in which to express himself. Is he really going to read poetry? This must be the first time I've heard of a "world leader" writing poetry since the former head of the Sandinistas read some poetry he'd written on a trip I took to Nicaragua many years ago. Anyway, whatever their mistaken views (a la Baraka and his part of a poem about 9/11), everyone deserves to be heard. Regards, Tom Savage
>
> Bobbi Lurie <[redacted]> wrote: And one more suggestion: why not put the U.N. in Venezuela or something?
>
> and please, more importantly, PLEASE read his speeches translated directly from Farsi cause they sound a lot different than the ones he gives to the U.S. directly.
>
> Bobbi Lurie
>
> p.s. too bad i won't be in NYC until next week....well, maybe it's better that way...but please send a synopsis of all of this. i'd really like toÂ know moreÂ about

it.

-----Original Message-----
From: Geoffrey Gatza
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 11:45 pm
Subject: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

New York City ??home to the United Nations and some of the most ethnically iverse communities on the planet ??often finds itself in the curious osition of being grudgingly hospitable to some of the worldÂ¹s most ontroversial heads of state and loathsome tyrants.

he arrival yesterday of Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, the Iranian president best nown here for criticizing the United States and calling the Holocaust a yth, is the latest example of the diplomatic dance New York has long erformed with international firebrands.

ast week the Police Department denied IranÂ¹s request to allow Mr. hmadinejad to visit ground zero, but BlazeVOX [books] is allowing him to articipate in a Poetry reading Tuesday. Geoffrey Gatza spoke last night to sympathetic and mostly Iranian audience at a Midtown hotel. Â³We are hrilled that President Ahmadinejad will read from his upcoming BlazeVOX ook.Â²

ony Snow, The White House press secretary was quoted, why not give him a ook, GatzaÂ¹s published everyone else, why not him too, he said with isgust.
---
ttp://welcometoboogcity.com/

eason 5 of d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

CA Galleries, 529 W.20th St., 5th Floor.
bet. 10th and 11th avenues) NYC

ues. Sept. 25 BlazeVOX Books
:00 p.m., free

eaturing readings from Joel Chace, Amy King, Ruth Lepson, Douglas Manson, yle Schlesinger and music from Compass Jazz

---
-

> Best, Geoffrey
> Geoffrey Gatza
> ditor & Publisher
> ----------
> BlazeVOX [books]
> ublisher of weird little books
> ----------
> [redacted]
> ttp://www.blazevox.org
>
> ---
>
> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com
>
> ----------
> Moody friends. Drama queens. Your life? Nope! - their life, your story. Play Sims Stories at Yahoo! Games.

↑ Index

520. Stephen Vincent

Re: Walk Poems by Creeley and/or Ginsberg???

Mon 24 Sep 2007

Please excuse this 'generalized' and delayed response to all the various and kind responses to this Creeley-Ginsberg (and now Eigner) request for walking poems in the Stanford archives! I have been on the road for a bit - even, accompanied by Allen Bramhall, (a real multi-generational Yankee local), a delightful Indian summer walk around Walden Pond (a narrow, for good counter-erosion reasons, wire fenced trail) with joggers, baby strollers, just plain strollers, and Pond swimmers amongst afternoon trees, shadows, sun, and that still oddly juxtapositional still operative railroad track at the pond's upper edge.

And Concord as the country's early Lit breadbasket, a delight to stroll within, as well.

Thank you, all.

Stephen Vincent
http://stephenvincent.net/blog/

Stephen Vincent <[redacted]> wrote:I am leading a "walking & writing" workshop this Fall at Stanford, using the campus as our 'site'. One of the places

I want us to walk is into Special Collections, which has the Ginsberg and Creeley archives. It would be lovely to find - in advance - any poems by either poet that emerge out of a particular walk. And to have an original mss. available to see, explore.

I will appreciate any suggestions of titles - poems and/or journal pieces.

Thanks in advance,

Stephen Vincent

↑ Index

521. steve russell
Chirot/bobbie lurie/Yom Kippur
Mon 24 Sep 2007

Israel has been at times an obsession of mine, although I claim no Jewish roots, none. Zionism seems problematic, to put it mildly. A recent book (the 2 author's names escape me, the book is entitled Why the Jews), makes the claim that anti-Zionism is no different then anti-Semitism. If this is true, that would mean the whole bloody issue is off limits to anyone other then Israelis or Palestinians. Seems a bit extreme. A book entitled Hannah Arendt's Jewish writings has recently been released. I'm going to pick it up. I can trust Hannah in a way that I can't trust the half truths of the above mentioned authors.

Shape Yahoo! in your own image. Join our Network Research Panel today!

↑ Index

522. Chris Pusateri
Poetry in Boulder, Wednesday Sept. 26th
Mon 24 Sep 2007

The Yellow Pine Reading Series
presents

Selah Saterstrom
Clarissa Cuttrell
Joe Richey
Michelle Naka Pierce
Chris Pusateri

Wednesday, September 26th from 7:30-9pm

at

Wild Sage Community House
1650 Zamia Avenue
Boulder, Colorado

Ellen Orleans will MC

Admission is free.

For more info, please call
[redacted]

_____ News, entertainment and everything you care about at Live.com. Get it now! http://www.live.com/getstarted.aspx=

↑ Index

523. Rachel Loden
Re: WHAT ARE THESE FISH I DON'T KNOW FISH PLEASE HELP ME
Mon 24 Sep 2007

It's unspeakable, George, as you might imagine. You have to soak the lutefisk in water for days in order to make it edible and whatever you soak it in becomes unusable for any other purpose.

Serve with a dollop of whipped cream. Yum!

But have you heard of surströmming? This is fermented Baltic herring, sold in cans which start to bulge like footballs as the fermentation process continues. You want to open the cans underwater in the bathtub, because they might explode.

And the smell, apparently... I haven't had the pleasure, but am told that surströmming is usually served outdoors.

George Bowering wrote:

> Rachel didn't mention that you bury this lutefish in lye in a hole,
> and dig it up much later.
> What does the kitchen smell like, Rachel?
>
> On Sep 23, 2007, at 12:08 PM, Rachel Loden wrote:
>
> Okay, a work of genius. I will admit that with some > difficulty. But
> I bet
> Blowering never spent Christmas in Helsinki with his in-laws, eating
> lutefisk.

> Lutefisk is whitefish cured with lye. The lye turns it > into a sort of
> gelatinous mass:
>
> So much depends
> upon
>
> a grey lye
> fish
>
> glazed with K-Y
> jelly
>
> beside the white
> in-laws.
>
> Maria wrote:
>
> a work of genius!
>
> George Bowering wrote:
> So much depends upon
> a dead green herring
> beside the boiled eggs
> on a Swedish table.
>
> G. Bowering, DLitt.
> I still haven't opened it.

↑ Index

524. Murat Nemet-Nejat

Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

Mon 24 Sep 2007

Tom,

I watched some of Ahmedinejad's talk at the Mational Press Club. He refused to say that the Holocaust did take place. In my vocabulary this means he is denying it or obfuscating its existence. I must say Ahmedinejad talks like every cheap politician in The United States. In the same talk, in answer to a question, he basically denied Israel's right to exist. It was so bad that someone blinked out his initial response in Persian, which basically was that "we (Iran) had already made their decisision about the matter." He used a very final word for decision "idam," which also means "sentence of capital punishment." When the sound came back, the answer was softened a bit to something like "why should the Arabs pay for the sins of the Europeans. Of course here he is using the lawyerly rhetoric of: "it did not happen, but even it did why should the Arabs suffer for it."

In actuality, Ahmedinejad looked much creepier that I thought he would.

Ciao,

Murat

On 9/24/07, Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> What's the Baraka 9-11 poem you're referring to?
>
> And how do we know that this Ahmedinajad appearance won't just be Kent > Johnson in a keffiya?
>
> On Mon, 24 Sep 2007, Thomas savage wrote:
>
> > If Ahmedinajad denies the Holocaust, then he is obviously just simply > wrong. But American propaganda on all things being suspect, who knows if he > ever really said that. Anyway, just as Iraq had no weapons of mass > destruction, the government of Iran may be telling the truth when it says > that it is developing nuclear power for peaceful uses. Who knows? Anyway, > I'm glad someone in NYC outside the UN is giving Mr. Ahmedinajad a forum
in > which to express himself. Is he really going to read poetry? This must be > the first time I've heard of a "world leader" writing poetry since the > former head of the Sandinistas read some poetry he'd written on a trip I > took to Nicaragua many years ago. Anyway, whatever their mistaken views
(a > la Baraka and his part of a poem about 9/11), everyone deserves to be > heard. Regards, Tom Savage
> >
> > Bobbi Lurie <[redacted]> wrote: And one more suggestion: why > not put the U.N. in Venezuela or something?
> >
> > and please, more importantly, PLEASE read his speeches translated > directly from Farsi cause they sound a lot different than the ones he gives > to the U.S. directly.

> >
> >
> > Bobbi Lurie
> >
> >
> > p.s. too bad i won't be in NYC until next week....well, maybe it's > better that way...but please send a synopsis of all of this. i'd really like > toknow moreabout it.
> >
> >
> > -----Original Message-----
> > From: Geoffrey Gatza
> > To: [redacted]
> > Sent: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 11:45 pm
> > Subject: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > New York City ??home to the United Nations and some of the most > ethnically
> > iverse communities on the planet ??often finds itself in the curious > > osition of being grudgingly hospitable to some of the world¹s most > > ontroversial heads of state and loathsome tyrants.
> >
> > he arrival yesterday of Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, the Iranian president best > > nown here for criticizing the United States and calling the Holocaust a > > yth, is the latest example of the diplomatic dance New York has long > > erformed with international firebrands.
> >
> > ast week the Police Department denied Iran¹s request to allow Mr.
> > hmadinejad to visit ground zero, but BlazeVOX [books] is allowing him to > > articipate in a Poetry reading Tuesday. Geoffrey Gatza spoke last night
> to > > sympathetic and mostly Iranian audience at a Midtown hotel. ³We are > > hrilled that President Ahmadinejad will read from his upcoming BlazeVOX
> > ook.²
> >
> > ony Snow, The White House press secretary was quoted, why not give him
a > > ook, Gatza¹s published everyone else, why not him too, he said with
> > isgust.

> > ----------
> > ttp://welcometoboogcity.com/
> >
> > eason 5 of d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press
> >
> > CA Galleries, 529 W.20th St., 5th Floor.
> > bet. 10th and 11th avenues) NYC
> >
> > ues. Sept. 25 BlazeVOX Books
> > :00 p.m., free
> >
> > eaturing readings from Joel Chace, Amy King, Ruth Lepson, Douglas > Manson,
> > yle Schlesinger and music from Compass Jazz
> >
> > ----------
> > -
> > Best, Geoffrey
> > Geoffrey Gatza
> > ditor & Publisher
> > ----------
> > BlazeVOX [books]
> > ublisher of weird little books
> > ----------
> > [redacted]
> > ttp://www.blazevox.org
> >
> >
> > _____
> > Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! -
> http://mail.aol.com
> >
> >
> >
> > ----------
> > Moody friends. Drama queens. Your life? Nope! - their life, your story.
> > Play Sims Stories at Yahoo! Games.
> >
>

↑ Index

525. Komninos Zervos
Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
Mon 24 Sep 2007

---

there is a freeware available and that is html.
in half a day you can learn the basics to coding hypertexts in html.
how hard is it to write click here to go to next page that is the code for linking the document the code resides in to another document ie nextpage.html
--
komninos zervos
http://komninos.com.au

↑ Index

526. steve russell
& to further clarify/Chirot/Lurie/Yom Kippur
Mon 24 Sep 2007

I neglected to mention the names of the above said authors in my most recent post: Dennis Prager and Joseph Telushkin.

Catch up on fall's hot new shows on Yahoo! TV. Watch previews, get listings, and more!

↑ Index

527. Ruth Lepson
Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
Mon 24 Sep 2007

---

not everyone deserves to be heard in an invited forum. how about hitler? ever see the SNL parody of The News Hour? "Good evening, Mr Hitler, we're so glad you could join us tonight." "Thank you for expressing your opinion," etc. He has often denied the Holocaust & wants to see all Jews destroyed. Think of how he treats his own people, not to mention the Christians & Jews in Iran.

On 9/24/07 12:54 PM, "Mary Kasimor" <[redacted]> wrote:

> I assumed that Geoffrey was playing with us!!! Well?
> Mary
>
> Thomas savage <[redacted]> wrote:
> If Ahmedinajad denies the Holocaust, then he is obviously just simply wrong.
> But American propaganda on all things being suspect, who knows if he ever really said that. Anyway, just as Iraq had no weapons of mass destruction, the government of Iran may be telling the truth when it says that it is developing nuclear power for peaceful uses. Who knows? Anyway, I'm glad someone in NYC outside the UN is giving Mr. Ahmedinajad a forum in which to express himself. Is he really going to read poetry? This must be the first time I've heard of a "world leader" writing poetry since the former head of the Sandinistas read some poetry he'd written on a trip I took to Nicaragua many years ago. Anyway, whatever their mistaken views (a la Baraka and his part of a poem about 9/11), everyone deserves to be heard. Regards, Tom Savage

Bobbi Lurie wrote: And one more suggestion: why not put the U.N. in Venezuela or something?

and please, more importantly, PLEASE read his speeches translated directly from Farsi cause they sound a lot different than the ones he gives to the U.S. directly.

Bobbi Lurie

p.s. too bad i won't be in NYC until next week....well, maybe it's better that way...but please send a synopsis of all of this. i'd really like toÂ know moreÂ about it.

-----Original Message-----
From: Geoffrey Gatza
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 11:45 pm
Subject: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

New York City ??home to the United Nations and some of the most ethnically iverse communities on the planet ??often finds itself in the curious osition of being grudgingly hospitable to some of the worldÂ¹s most ontroversial heads of state and loathsome tyrants.

he arrival yesterday of Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, the Iranian president best nown here for criticizing the United States and calling the Holocaust a yth, is the latest example of the diplomatic dance New York has long erformed with international firebrands.

ast week the Police Department denied IranÂ¹s request to allow Mr. hmadinejad to visit ground zero, but BlazeVOX [books] is allowing him to articipate in a Poetry reading Tuesday. Geoffrey Gatza spoke last night to sympathetic and mostly Iranian audience at a Midtown hotel. Â³We are hrilled that President Ahmadinejad will read from his upcoming BlazeVOX ook.Â²

ony Snow, The White House press secretary was quoted, why not give him a ook, GatzaÂ¹s published everyone else, why not him too, he said with isgust.
---------- ttp://welcometoboogcity.com/

eason 5 of d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

CA Galleries, 529 W.20th St., 5th Floor.
bet. 10th and 11th avenues) NYC

ues. Sept. 25 BlazeVOX Books
:00 p.m., free

eaturing readings from Joel Chace, Amy King, Ruth Lepson, Douglas Manson, yle Schlesinger and music from Compass Jazz

---------- -
Best, Geoffrey
Geoffrey Gatza
ditor & Publisher
---------- BlazeVOX [books]
ublisher of weird little books

[redacted]
ttp://www.blazevox.org

Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

---------- Moody friends. Drama queens. Your life? Nope! - their life, your story. Play Sims Stories at Yahoo! Games.

> Boardwalk for $500? In 2007? Ha!
> Play Monopoly Here and Now (it's updated for today's economy) at Yahoo! Games.

↑ Index

528. Michael Cross
George Albon contact info?
Mon 24 Sep 2007

Can anyone back-channel an email address for George Albon? George, are you on this list?!

Thanks,
Michael Cross

↑ Index

529. Michael Cross
Hugh Kenner estate?
Mon 24 Sep 2007

Does anyone know who to be in touch with about Kenner's estate?

Thanks,
Michael

↑ Index

530. Dillon Westbrook
Re: what's doin' in Chicago?
Mon 24 Sep 2007

Once again, the List comes through so much better than google. Thanks everyone for the rec's- very little chance of wasting my two days there now, there should be a 'poets -as-local-tour-guides' service in every major city, as poets seem to have the best dope on wherever they live.

Dillon

On Sep 24, 2007, at 10:26 AM, eric unger wrote:

> The Lincoln Park conservatory or the Garfield Park conservatory, both free and open to the public. The Garfield Conservatory is probably better, it has the "fern room", the largest indoor collection of ferns in the world, as well as an incredible cacti room. It happens to be in a horrible neighborhood, but all you have to do is take the Green line to Conservatory. The Lincoln Park Conservatory is right near the lake in a better, if not more yuppie, neighborhood. Plus it is right next to one of the few free zoos in the land, the Lincoln Park zoo.

Some other great suggestions here, but I would try one of Chicago's garden conservatories first.

Best,

Eric

On 9/24/07, Jordan Stempleman <[redacted]> wrote:
replace 5) w/ Fred Anderson's Velvet Lounge, and I'm with you 100% Ray.

Date: Mon, 24 Sep 2007 13:54:24 +0000> From: [redacted]> Subject: Re: what's doin' in Chicago?> To:
[redacted]> > OK since we are giving recommendations for Chicago> > 1) Hot Dogs- Super Dawg on Milwaukee it is far away from Yuppie Land (where Hot Dougs is) and is pure Chicago also Gene and Judes is very good. > 2) Music-Rosas Lounge in Humboldt Park> 3) Beefs- (Yes in Chicago they are beefs) Mr Beef on Orleans but only for lunch> 4) Good Food- LULA on Logan Square by the monument > 5) Bar- Green Mill full of slammers but why not??> 6) DELI- Manny's Deli is off of Roosevelt it is one of the last parts of the Maxwell Street Area still that exists. > 7) Bookstores- Go to Hyde Park and spend the afternoon at Seminary Coop > > ---------- Original message
---------- > From: lily robert-foley <[redacted]> > > > ooh... can I come too? > > > what to do in Chicago: art institute, yes, bean assuredly (that's the big bean > > shaped object if you walk a little north of the art institute). The MCA is probably worth a go to.
There are often free > > concerts outdoors at Millenium Park, > > which is that giant Frank Ghery pompadour right behind the bean.
Most of all, > > though: take a ride on the el, > > especially if you haven't really been here before. Riding around up there, > > surveying the rooftops, it's my favorite > > thing! for the first four months I lived here I felt like i was on a non-stop > > roller coaster ride (except without the > > nausea). But make sure you get a window seat! Also Chicago's landscape is > > fascinatingly diverse. Get on the orange > > (or, if you're adventurous, the green) line and go all the way down south, then come back up and take the red line all > > the way up north and then pop into the Green Mill off the Lawrence Red line stop > for some drinks and some jazz— > > hoppin' til 4am!). > > > >
And then... there's one of my favorite places in all of Chicago.
It's a library > > of artists books—books that artists made. > >
It's small and quiet and up on I think the 7th floor of an art institute > > building. I don't think I have the exact address > and finding it online might prove difficult. The best way to do it (the way > > I've done it in the past) is to go to the > > > library at the museum of the art institute and ask them there about it. I > > believe it's on Wabash. They should know. > > It's one of the most wonderous places in the world and its full of treasures. > > But downtown Chicago is like that too. > > The architecture along the Chicago river is absolutely stunning (I think there's > > some kind of boat tour you can do > > that's supposed to be pretty good). > > > > And absolutely the best, most chicago, best most chicago restaurant (this is if > > you really want to understand what is > > amazing about Chicago!) take a cab up to Hot Doug's. I mean, just check out > > this website and tell me it doesn't > > sound amazing. http://www.hotdougs.com. It is. And in the true Chicago > > style, it's probably not worth the cab fare > > if you're a vegetarian. > > > And then, my PERSONAL favorite place in Chicago (besides my apartment), if > > you're going to be in town on a Saturday > > or a Sunday is The Green Lantern Gallery and Press at 1511 Milwaukee and > > Honore... pop in on a Sunday between 1 > > and 6 and I'll give you the tour. But, you know. That's a lot. > > > Can you tell I heart Chicago? > > > > Hope that helps. > > > > Cheers! > > > > Lily > > > > > > > > > ----- Original Message ----- > > > From: "Raymond Bianchi" > > > To: [redacted] > > > Subject: Re: what's doin' in Chicago? > > > Date: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 17:42:02 +0000 > > > > > > Dillon > > > > > > drop me a line we can do beer with poets here if you like?? > > > > > > R > > > > > > ---------- Original message ---------- > > > From: Dillon Westbrook > > Dearest Listers, Have a day or two to kill in Chicago beginning > > > > of next week, wondering from any residents thereof what's crucial > > > > attendance. Never been in my natural life. Back or forward > > > > channel. thanks, Dillon > > -- > > Powered By Outblaze_____ Capture your memories in an online journal! http://www.reallivemoms.com?ocid=TXT_TAGHM&loc=us

↑ Index

531. Alan Sondheim

Xenakis at Target and the True Artist

Mon 24 Sep 2007

Xenakis at Target

The True Artist finds Inspiration everywhere. Here I was, in the popular Target "Department Store" searching for inexpensive miniDV tapes, when I noticed the speaker system began acting up in a most unusual way, as if it were consciously imitating the famed composer Xenakis. What to do, what to do! I quickly took out my surround-sound Zoom H2 solid-state audio recor- der, and began recording the remarkable Sound, as I paced from speaker to speaker, passing shoppers who paid little attention to the Beauty in their midst. Now my only hope is one of them, perhaps someone purchasing toys or kitchenware, will come across these files, and realize, with a sense of Loss and Ecstasy, what they had missed, and what has been returned. Ah, how little Memory is necessary when the hard molecular structure of the World gives us the Gift of the Past, space-time at our fingertips, silent Beauty sounding once again.

http://www.asondheim.org/targetxenakis.mp3 http://www.asondheim.org/targetxenakisb.mp3

↑ Index

532. jcu

Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations

Mon 24 Sep 2007

---

storyspace is a little more complex.
you can link words to other words, for example,
within the same page and view the hypertext story like a visual map to see how the links establish a particular rhizomic structure. html is limited is this regard.

j

----- Original Message -----
From: "Komninos Zervos" <[redacted]>
To: <[redacted]>
Sent: Monday, September 24, 2007 7:17 PM
Subject: Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations

> there is a freeware available and that is html.
> in half a day you can learn the basics to coding hypertexts in html.
> how hard is it to write click here to go to next page
> that is the code for linking the document the code resides in to another document ie nextpage.html
> --
> komninos zervos
> http://komninos.com.au

↑ Index

533. amy king
Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
Mon 24 Sep 2007

I think that's a good assumption!

Best,
Amy

Mary Kasimor <[redacted]> wrote: I assumed that Geoffrey was playing with us!!! Well? Mary

---
Building a website is a piece of cake.
Yahoo! Small Business gives you all the tools to get online.

↑ Index

534. Ruth Lepson
Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
Mon 24 Sep 2007

---

thanks for your comments, Murat.

On 9/24/07 7:02 PM, "Murat Nemet-Nejat" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Tom,
>
> I watched some of Ahmedinejad's talk at the Mational Press Club. He refused to say that the Holocaust did take place. In my vocabulary this means he is denying it or obfuscating its existence. I must say Ahmedinejad talks like every cheap politician in The United States. In the same talk, in answer to a question, he basically denied Israel's right to exist. It was so bad that someone blinked out his initial response in Persian, which basically was that "we (Iran) had already made their decisision about the matter." He used a very final word for decision "idam," which also means "sentence of capital punishment." When the sound came back, the answer was softened a bit to something like "why should the Arabs pay for the sins of the Europeans. Of course here he is using the lawyerly rhetoric of: "it did not happen, but even it did why should the Arabs suffer for it."
>
> In actuality, Ahmedinejad looked much creepier that I thought he would.
>
> Ciao,
>
> Murat
>
> On 9/24/07, Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> What's the Baraka 9-11 poem you're referring to?

And how do we know that this Ahmedinajad appearance won't just be Kent Johnson in a keffiya?

On Mon, 24 Sep 2007, Thomas savage wrote:

If Ahmedinajad denies the Holocaust, then he is obviously just simply wrong. But American propaganda on all things being suspect, who knows if he ever really said that. Anyway, just as Iraq had no weapons of mass destruction, the government of Iran may be telling the truth when it says that it is developing nuclear power for peaceful uses. Who knows? Anyway, I'm glad someone in NYC outside the UN is giving Mr. Ahmedinajad a forum in which to express himself. Is he really going to read poetry? This must be the first time I've heard of a "world leader" writing poetry since the former head of the Sandinistas read some poetry he'd written on a trip I took to Nicaragua many years ago. Anyway, whatever their mistaken views (a la Baraka and his part of a poem about 9/11), everyone deserves to be heard. Regards, Tom Savage

Bobbi Lurie <[redacted]> wrote: And one more suggestion: why not put the U.N. in Venezuela or something?

and please, more importantly, PLEASE read his speeches translated directly from Farsi cause they sound a lot different than the ones he gives to the U.S. directly.

Bobbi Lurie

p.s. too bad i won't be in NYC until next week....well, maybe it's better that way...but please send a synopsis of all of this. i'd really like toknow moreabout it.

-----Original Message-----
From: Geoffrey Gatza
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 11:45 pm
Subject: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

New York City ??home to the United Nations and some of the most ethnically
iverse communities on the planet ??often finds itself in the curious osition of being grudgingly hospitable to some of the world¹s most

ontroversial heads of state and loathsome tyrants.

he arrival yesterday of Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, the Iranian president best nown here for criticizing the United States and calling the Holocaust a yth, is the latest example of the diplomatic dance New York has long erformed with international firebrands.

ast week the Police Department denied Iran¹s request to allow Mr. hmadinejad to visit ground zero, but BlazeVOX [books] is allowing him to articipate in a Poetry reading Tuesday. Geoffrey Gatza spoke last night to sympathetic and mostly Iranian audience at a Midtown hotel. ³We are hrilled that President Ahmadinejad will read from his upcoming BlazeVOX ook.²

ony Snow, The White House press secretary was quoted, why not give him a ook, Gatza¹s published everyone else, why not him too, he said with isgust.
---------- ttp://welcometoboogcity.com/

eason 5 of d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

CA Galleries, 529 W.20th St., 5th Floor.
bet. 10th and 11th avenues) NYC

ues. Sept. 25 BlazeVOX Books
:00 p.m., free

eaturing readings from Joel Chace, Amy King, Ruth Lepson, Douglas Manson,
yle Schlesinger and music from Compass Jazz

---------- -
Best, Geoffrey
Geoffrey Gatza
ditor & Publisher

BlazeVOX [books]
ublisher of weird little books

[redacted]
ttp://www.blazevox.org

Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! -

> http://mail.aol.com
>
> ---
> Moody friends. Drama queens. Your life? Nope! - their life, your story.
> Play Sims Stories at Yahoo! Games.

↑ Index

535. Amish Trivedi
Re: Hugh Kenner estate?
Mon 24 Sep 2007

No, but I'm pretty sure his wife is still in Athens, GA.

We kept meaning to go see him and then the day we decided to go, we found out he had died.

Good luck though!

Amish

Michael Cross <[redacted]> wrote:
Does anyone know who to be in touch with about Kenner's estate?

Thanks,
Michael

"Christopher Columbus, as everyone knows, is honored by posterity because he was the last to discover America." -James Joyce

↑ Index

536. Jennifer Karmin
SUBMISSIONS: Select Media Festival 6
Mon 24 Sep 2007

Select Media Festival 6
November 9 to November 17, 2007
on space colonies orbiting Chicago

CALL FOR PROJECTS, WORKSHOPS, VIDEOS AND ART ACTION
Deadline for project proposals: OCT 5, 2007
contact: [redacted]

see last year's fest at http://www.selectmediafestival.org

SMF6: Space>Place>
We are seeking terrestrial-bodied people that make documentaries, short films, animations, interactive projects, workshops, music, skillshares, cultural interventions, visual art, sci-fi presentations and media to share and present to aliens and earthlings orbiting in an around Chicago.

Select Media Festival features video programs, brand new media, installations, performance programs, street art, public projects as well as experimental and advanced music. Our goal is to share innovative art and technology projects as well as culturally and socially charged work. The festival is produced by Public Media Institute and Lumpen. It is organized by artists and activists from Chicago. It is the sister festival to Version.

This years festivals components include:

- The Mothership; we will building a spaceship and welcome your additions and ideas to create installations within and around the spacecraft.

-Performance Program: Live music and performance.

-The Film/Video Program: Docs, shorts, animation. kick ass work.

-TLVSN: we will be airing and creating cable tv episodes during the festival. You can send us your tv programs and short videos to air on cable access during the festival. SMF will also tape all performances during the festival to air on tv on a future date.

-The Other net and The Brand New Media: Are you making technology and art projects? We are seeking sweet netbased and technology driven projects.

Space is the Place...
please join us.

Pinpoint customers who are looking for what you sell.
http://searchmarketing.yahoo.com/

↑ Index

537. Small Press Traffic

This week at Small Press Traffic

Tue 25 Sep 2007

Small Press Traffic is thrilled to present:

The California College of the Arts Centennial Reading & Celebration

Friday, September 28, 2007
Timken Lecture Hall • 7:30 p.m.

CCA's 100! Don't miss the party. MFA Program in Writing alumni and faculty poets read as part of CCA's Centennial Celebration. Come hear alumni Solidad Decosta, Steffi Drewes, Andy Nicholson, and Jessica Wickens as well as faculty Gloria Frym, Kevin Killian, Joseph Lease, Denise Newman, and Lisa Robertson read from their work. Refreshments will be served.

Unless otherwise noted, events are $5-10, sliding scale, free to current SPT members and CCA faculty, staff, and students. There's no better time to join SPT. Check out: http://www.sptraffic.org/html/supporters.htm

Unless otherwise noted, our events are presented in Timken Lecture Hall California College of the Arts 1111 Eighth Street, San Francisco (just off the intersection of 16th & Wisconsin)

Directions & map:
http://www.sptraffic.org/html/directions.htm

We'll see you Fridays!

_____

Dana Teen Lomax, Interim Director
Small Press Traffic
Literary Arts Center at CCA
1111 -- 8th Street
San Francisco, CA 94107
[redacted]
http://www.sptraffic.org

↑ Index

538. Charlie Rossiter
Re: what's doin' in Chicago?
Tue 25 Sep 2007

In Oct and for the next couple months--
The Day of the Dead Exhibit at Nat'l Museum of Mexican art--Pilsen, also the murals around Pilsen

2. Viet Nam Veterans Art Museum

3 Blues Heaven Foundation in the old Chess Record building

Chicago folks, if you haven't been to these places, check them out. they're all google-able.

Charlie

---------- Original Message ----------
Subject: Re: what's doin' in Chicago?
From: "Raymond Bianchi" <[redacted]>
Date: Mon, September 24, 2007 8:54 am
To:

OK since we are giving recommendations for Chicago

1) Hot Dogs- Super Dawg on Milwaukee it is far away from Yuppie Land (where Hot Dougs is) and is pure Chicago also Gene and Judes is very good.
2) Music- Rosas Lounge in Humboldt Park
3) Beefs- (Yes in Chicago they are beefs) Mr Beef on Orleans but only for lunch
4) Good Food- LULA on Logan Square by the monument
5) Bar- Green Mill full of slammers but why not??
6) DELI- Manny's Deli is off of Roosevelt it is one of the last parts of the Maxwell Street Area still that exists.
7) Bookstores- Go to Hyde Park and spend the afternoon at Seminary Coop

---------- Original message ----------
From: lily robert-foley <[redacted]>

> ooh... can I come too?
>
> what to do in Chicago: art institute, yes, bean assuredly (that's the big bean > shaped object if you walk a little north > of the art institute). The MCA is probably worth a go to. There are often free > concerts outdoors at Millenium Park, > which is that giant Frank Ghery pompadour right behind the bean. Most of all, > though: take a ride on the el, > especially if you haven't really been here before. Riding around up there, > surveying the rooftops, it's my favorite > thing! for the first four months I lived here I felt like i was on a non-stop > roller coaster ride (except without the > nausea). But make sure you get a window seat! Also Chicago's landscape is > fascinatingly diverse. Get on the orange > (or, if you're adventurous, the green) line and go all the way down south, then > come back up and take the red line all > the way up north and then pop into the Green Mill off the Lawrence Red line stop > for some drinks and some jazz—> hoppin' til 4am!).

>
> And then... there's one of my favorite places in all of Chicago. It's a library > of artists books—books that artists made.
> It's small and quiet and up on I think the 7th floor of an art institute > building. I don't think I have the exact address > and finding it online might prove difficult. The best way to do it (the way > I've done it in the past) is to go to the > library at the museum of the art institute and ask them there about it. I > believe it's on Wabash. They should know.
> It's one of the most wonderous places in the world and its full of treasures.
> But downtown Chicago is like that too.
> The architecture along the Chicago river is absolutely stunning (I think there's > some kind of boat tour you can do > that's supposed to be pretty good).
>
> And absolutely the best, most chicago, best most chicago restaurant (this is if > you really want to understand what is > amazing about Chicago!) take a cab up to Hot Doug's. I mean, just check out > this website and tell me it doesn't > sound amazing. http://www.hotdougs.com. It is. And in the true Chicago > style, it's probably not worth the cab fare

> if you're a vegetarian.
>
> And then, my PERSONAL favorite place in Chicago (besides my apartment), if > you're going to be in town on a Saturday > or a Sunday is The Green Lantern Gallery and Press at 1511 Milwaukee and > Honore... pop in on a Sunday between 1 > and 6 and I'll give you the tour. But, you know. That's a lot.
>
> Can you tell I heart Chicago?
>
> Hope that helps.
>
> Cheers!
>
> Lily
>
>
>
> > ----- Original Message -----
> > From: "Raymond Bianchi"
> > To: [redacted]
> > Subject: Re: what's doin' in Chicago?
> > Date: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 17:42:02 +0000
> >
> >
> > Dillon
> >
> > drop me a line we can do beer with poets here if you like??
> >
> > R
> >
> > ---------- Original message ----------
> > From: Dillon Westbrook
> >
> > > Dearest Listers, Have a day or two to kill in Chicago beginning > > > of next week, wondering from any residents thereof what's crucial > > > attendance. Never been in my natural life. Back or forward > > > channel. thanks, Dillon
>
> >
>
>

> --
> Powered By Outblaze

↑ Index

539. Jim Andrews
Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
Tue 25 Sep 2007

> there is a freeware available and that is html.
> in half a day you can learn the basics to coding hypertexts in html.
> how hard is it to write click here to go to
> next page
> that is the code for linking the document the code resides in to > another document ie nextpage.html
> --
> komninos zervos

true. also, it's interesting to learn something about the architecture of the html document. the <head>. the <body>. the <meta> tags. the simple 'tag' model where 'tags' start and then end. the head begins with <head> and ends with </head>. the way any tag is like that. bolded text starts with and ends with , etc. mark-up language.

it gives you a different view on the document. in english classes, one learns about a different type of architecture of the document. the sentence, the paragraph, the chapter, the quatrain, the architectures of argument, rhetoric, drama, poetry. whereas to learn html is to learn the architecture of the document that allows computers and programs to operate on the document. parse it. mark it up appropriately. display it properly. but also do other things to different parts of it.

and these different architectures are not without some common purposes.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

540. Andy Gricevich
Re: Xenakis at Target and the True Artist
Tue 25 Sep 2007

I can certainly imagine Xenakis' ghost infiltrating the corporate supercenters of the world.

This one reminds me of his early "crackling lumps of coal" piece.

Beautiful stuff--and courageous of you to wander the hellish halls of T.

Catch up on fall's hot new shows on Yahoo! TV. Watch previews, get listings, and more!

↑ Index

541. Bobbi Lurie
Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
Tue 25 Sep 2007

Ruth,
Thank you.
Yes, Ruth, not only that but the Iranian people themselves don't want this maniac ruling their lives. Letting him speakÂ at Columbia gives the Iranian people a very sad picture of America: they want America to help them and America is just giving this guy the go ahead/ giving him more and more credibility with their gullibility. And yes, he wants all the Jews destroyed, and yes he wants Israel blown off the map (I'm not saying it/Â HE is PLEASEÂ LISTENÂ TOÂ WHAT THIS MANIAC IS SAYING (it's not so hard to do/ he's saying it every day) and then, for those who don't care about Israel, wellÂ guess who's next: America. And anyone who knows me knows I'm no political fantatic and I'm no alarmist and I'm not on the right or any of the rationalizations you might want to put on me but I'm listening to this guy and I hear him and I think we owe it to ourselves and to the entire world to listen to him and realize he is as serious as Hitler was when he outlined HIS plan just as clearly, (both of theseÂ horrific creaturesÂ have been very clear of their goals)Â with just as many people not listening to him. First of all, we owe it to the Iranian people to show them we stand for something other than "scoops" or whatever the media sees themselves doing by bringing us "all the news that's fit to cover"--too bad they leave so much out. And if anyone wants to believe his sweet talk, and won't listen to what he's actually saying (and I'll repeat it again: listen to his daily speeches translated directly from Farsi) then I'd say we are back in the days of Hitler's rise. And I am not, in any way, being dramatic. He's pulling women off the street for not covering up enough/ he's tearing academics from their positions, he's calling himself the messiah for godsakes--don't you hear what he's saying? It's scary for me that people aren't listening to what he's saying. Please see below and listen to Ruth: she knows what she's talking about.
Bobbi Lurie

-----Original Message-----
From: Ruth Lepson <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]

Sent: Mon, 24 Sep 2007 6:35 pm
Subject: Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

not everyone deserves to be heard in an invited forum. how about hitler? ver see the SNL parody of The News Hour? "Good evening, Mr Hitler, we're so lad you could join us tonight." "Thank you for expressing your opinion," tc. He has often denied the Holocaust & wants to see all Jews destroyed. hink of how he treats his own people, not to mention the Christians & Jews n Iran.

n 9/24/07 12:54 PM, "Mary Kasimor" <[redacted]> wrote:
> I assumed that Geoffrey was playing with us!!! Well?
Mary

Thomas savage <[redacted]> wrote: If Ahmedinajad denies the Holocaust, then he is obviously just simply wrong. But American propaganda on all things being suspect, who knows if he ever really said that. Anyway, just as Iraq had no weapons of mass destruction, the government of Iran may be telling the truth when it says that it is developing nuclear power for peaceful uses. Who knows? Anyway, I'm glad someone in NYC outside the UN is giving Mr. Ahmedinajad a forum in which to express himself. Is he really going to read poetry? This must be the first time I've heard of a "world leader" writing poetry since the former head of the Sandinistas read some poetry he'd written on a trip I took to Nicaragua many years ago. Anyway, whatever their mistaken views (a la Baraka and his part of a poem about 9/11), everyone deserves to be heard. Regards, Tom Savage

Bobbi Lurie wrote: And one more suggestion: why not put the U.N. in Venezuela or something?

and please, more importantly, PLEASE read his speeches translated directly from Farsi cause they sound a lot different than the ones he gives to the U.S. directly.

Bobbi Lurie

p.s. too bad i won't be in NYC until next week....well, maybe it's better that way...but please send a synopsis of all of this. i'd really like toÃ, know moreÃ, about it.

-----Original Message-----
From: Geoffrey Gatza
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 11:45 pm
Subject: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

New York City ??home to the United Nations and some of the most ethnically iverse communities on the planet ??often finds itself in the curious osition of being grudgingly hospitable to some of the worldÃ‚Â¹s most ontroversial heads of state and loathsome tyrants.

 he arrival yesterday of Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, the Iranian president best nown here for criticizing the United States and calling the Holocaust a yth, is the latest example of the diplomatic dance New York has long erformed with international firebrands.

 ast week the Police Department denied IranÃ‚Â¹s request to allow Mr. hmadinejad to visit ground zero, but BlazeVOX [books] is allowing him to articipate in a Poetry reading Tuesday. Geoffrey Gatza spoke last night to sympathetic and mostly Iranian audience at a Midtown hotel. Ã‚Â³We are hrilled that President Ahmadinejad will read from his upcoming BlazeVOX ook.Ã‚Â² ony Snow, The White House press secretary was quoted, why not give him a ook, GatzaÃ‚Â¹s published everyone else, why not him too, he said with isgust.

 ---
 ttp://welcometoboogcity.com/

 eason 5 of d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

 CA Galleries, 529 W.20th St., 5th Floor.
 bet. 10th and 11th avenues) NYC

 ues. Sept. 25 BlazeVOX Books
 :00 p.m., free

 eaturing readings from Joel Chace, Amy King, Ruth Lepson, Douglas Manson, yle Schlesinger and music from Compass Jazz

 ---
 -
 Best, Geoffrey
 Geoffrey Gatza
 ditor & Publisher

 BlazeVOX [books]
 ublisher of weird little books

 [redacted]
 ttp://www.blazevox.org

 _____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

---
Moody friends. Drama queens. Your life? Nope! - their life, your story.
Play Sims Stories at Yahoo! Games.

Boardwalk for $500? In 2007? Ha!
Play Monopoly Here and Now (it's updated for today's economy) at Yahoo! Games.

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

542. Bobbi Lurie
Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
Tue 25 Sep 2007

Murat,

Creepy is the word.
Thank you for what you write.

Bobbi Lurie

-----Original Message-----
From: Murat Nemet-Nejat <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Mon, 24 Sep 2007 5:02 pm
Subject: Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

Tom, I watched some of Ahmedinejad's talk at the Mational Press Club. He refused o say that the Holocaust did take place. In my vocabulary this means he is enying it or obfuscating its existence. I must say Ahmedinejad talks like very cheap politician in The United States. In the same talk, in answer to question, he basically denied Israel's right to exist. It was so bad that omeone blinked out his initial response in Persian, which basically was hat "we (Iran) had already made their decisision about the matter." He used very final word for decision "idam," which also means "sentence of capital unishment." When the sound came back, the answer was softened a bit to omething like "why should the Arabs pay for the sins of the Europeans. Of ourse here he is using the lawyerly rhetoric of: "it did not happen, but ven it did why should the Arabs suffer for it." In actuality, Ahmedinejad looked much creepier that I thought he would. Ciao, Murat On 9/24/07, Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote:

What's the Baraka 9-11 poem you're referring to?

And how do we know that this Ahmedinajad appearance won't just be Kent Johnson in a keffiya?

On Mon, 24 Sep 2007, Thomas savage wrote:

> If Ahmedinajad denies the Holocaust, then he is obviously just simply wrong. But American propaganda on all things being suspect, who knows if he ever really said that. Anyway, just as Iraq had no weapons of mass destruction, the government of Iran may be telling the truth when it says that it is developing nuclear power for peaceful uses. Who knows? Anyway, I'm glad someone in NYC outside the UN is giving Mr. Ahmedinajad a forum in which to express himself. Is he really going to read poetry? This must be the first time I've heard of a "world leader" writing poetry since the former head of the Sandinistas read some poetry he'd written on a trip I took to Nicaragua many years ago. Anyway, whatever their mistaken views (a la Baraka and his part of a poem about 9/11), everyone deserves to be heard. Regards, Tom Savage
>
> Bobbi Lurie <[redacted]> wrote: And one more suggestion: why not put the U.N. in Venezuela or something?
>
> and please, more importantly, PLEASE read his speeches translated directly from Farsi cause they sound a lot different than the ones he gives to the U.S. directly.
>
>
> Bobbi Lurie
>
>
> p.s. too bad i won't be in NYC until next week....well, maybe it's better that way...but please send a synopsis of all of this. i'd really like toknow moreabout it.
>
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Geoffrey Gatza
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 11:45 pm
> Subject: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
>
>
>
>

> New York City ??home to the United Nations and some of the most ethnically
> iverse communities on the planet ??often finds itself in the curious > osition of being grudgingly hospitable to some of the worldÂ¹s most > ontroversial heads of state and loathsome tyrants.
>
> he arrival yesterday of Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, the Iranian president best > nown here for criticizing the United States and calling the Holocaust a > yth, is the latest example of the diplomatic dance New York has long > erformed with international firebrands.
>
> ast week the Police Department denied IranÂ¹s request to allow Mr.
> hmadinejad to visit ground zero, but BlazeVOX [books] is allowing him to > articipate in a Poetry reading Tuesday. Geoffrey Gatza spoke last night to > sympathetic and mostly Iranian audience at a Midtown hotel. Â³We are > hrilled that President Ahmadinejad will read from his upcoming BlazeVOX
> ook.Â²
>
> ony Snow, The White House press secretary was quoted, why not give him a > ook, GatzaÂ¹s published everyone else, why not him too, he said with > isgust.
> ---
> ttp://welcometoboogcity.com/
>
> eason 5 of d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press
>
> CA Galleries, 529 W.20th St., 5th Floor.
> bet. 10th and 11th avenues) NYC
>
> ues. Sept. 25 BlazeVOX Books
> :00 p.m., free
>
> eaturing readings from Joel Chace, Amy King, Ruth Lepson, Douglas Manson, > yle Schlesinger and music from Compass Jazz
>
> ---
> -
> Best, Geoffrey
> Geoffrey Gatza
> ditor & Publisher

> ----------
> BlazeVOX [books]
> ublisher of weird little books
> ----------
> [redacted]
> ttp://www.blazevox.org
>
>
> _____
> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com
>
>
>
> ----------
> Moody friends. Drama queens. Your life? Nope! - their life, your story.
> Play Sims Stories at Yahoo! Games.
>

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

543. Justin Katko

Providence Reading Oct 2: Yt Communication

Tue 25 Sep 2007

Dearest List Poetics:

I bring you news of coming events. When I refer now to Yt Communication, I refer to three London poets: Sean Bonney, Frances Kruk, Sophie Robinson. They're actually not just from London they're from Hackney and they're not just from Hackney, they're from Armed Hackney, and they're not just from Armed Hackney, they're from the Payback & Affinity Yt Crackers Wing Commando Lineament Bee of Armed Hackney, which has to do with making known that their poetry will make your already-glowing SHIT Actually Flicker 2-Dimensionally. SO.

These "poets", being my friends and allies in a world of Finite Love, these Poets being the generative pattern emanating from the ground beneath all the best stuff thereby making them a primary node in the international lattice-aura homotrope, these POETS will be reading poems loudly and showing films and making sounds with machines and distributing small small press books and essentially handing out receipts to the recognized. If you're there and you understand then you'll understand. This is all happening one week from now, 8pm Tuesday October 2nd at Firehouse 13 (41 Central St, off Broad), being the 2nd event in the media poetry series called The Program.

Repeat.

*

Sean Bonney * Frances Kruk * Sophie Robinson * Joshua Strauss
* 8pm Tuesday October 2nd *
@ Firehouse 13, Providence - Directions<http://firehouse13.org/direction.php>

*

Doors @ 7, live music by The Gentleman, and all of it featuring the discrete physician Joshua Strauss (Buffalo). Snacks too and a cash bar. little donation at door. please see me there. i'll be pleased to see you. and do pass this on.
website: http://plantarchy.us/the-program/

Also do note that these poets are touring the States en route from Buffalo, so check them out at Rust Belt on Thurs Sept 27th @ 7pm (with Ric Royer) and then the next day at the Adam Mickiewicz Library on Fri Sept 28 @ 8pm. Then follow their 1-Dimensional stroboscope to Providence and lace out with us.

FINITE LOVE
~ Justin Katko

Critical Documents
http://plantarchy.us

↑ Index

544. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
Tue 25 Sep 2007

Jim,

Once again, everything you explain has a beautiful clarity.

Ciao,

Murat

On 9/25/07, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> > there is a freeware available and that is html.
> > in half a day you can learn the basics to coding hypertexts in html.
> > how hard is it to write click here to go to

> > next page
> > that is the code for linking the document the code resides in to > > another document ie nextpage.html
> > --
> > komninos zervos
>
> true. also, it's interesting to learn something about the architecture of > the html document. the <head>. the <body>. the <meta> tags. the simple > 'tag'
> model where 'tags' start and then end. the head begins with <head> and > ends > with </head>. the way any tag is like that. bolded text starts with
> and > ends with , etc. mark-up language.
>
> it gives you a different view on the document. in english classes, one > learns about a different type of architecture of the document. the > sentence,
> the paragraph, the chapter, the quatrain, the architectures of argument, > rhetoric, drama, poetry. whereas to learn html is to learn the > architecture > of the document that allows computers and programs to operate on the > document. parse it. mark it up appropriately. display it properly. but > also > do other things to different parts of it.
>
> and these different architectures are not without some common purposes.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
>

↑ Index

545. Tony Trigilio

David Trinidad & Jeffery Conway reading / Columbia College Chicago / October 3

Tue 25 Sep 2007

POETRY READING
David Trinidad & Jeffery Conway

Wednesday, October 3, 2007
5:30 p.m.

Columbia College Chicago
Music Center Concert Hall
1014 South Michigan Avenue

Free & open to the public
Sponsored by the English Department of Columbia College Chicago
For more information: [redacted]

DAVID TRINIDAD is a member of the Core Poetry Faculty at Columbia College. His most recent book, THE LATE SHOW, was published by Turtle Point Press in 2007. With Denise Duhamel and Maureen Seaton, he edited SAINTS OF HYSTERIA: A HALF-CENTURY OF COLLABORATIVE AMERICAN POETRY (Soft Skull Press, 2007). With Jeffery Conway and Lynn Crosbie, he co-wrote PHOEBE 2002: AN ESSAY IN VERSE (Turtle Point, 2003), a mock-epic based on the 1950 film ALL ABOUT EVE. His other books include ANSWER SONG (High Risk Books, 1994), HAND OVER HEART: POEMS 1981-1988 (Amethyst Press, 1991), PAVANE (Sherwood Press, 1981), and PLASTICVILLE (Turtle Point, 2000), a finalist for the Lenore Marshall Poetry Prize of the Academy of American Poets. He edited POWERLESS (High Risk, 1996), the selected poems of Tim Dlugos, and with Maxine Scates, HOLDING OUR OWN: THE SELECTED POEMS OF ANN STANFORD (Copper Canyon Press, 2001).

Jeffery Conway's poems have appeared in many magazines and journals, such as THE WORLD, THE PORTABLE LOWER EAST SIDE, B CITY, BROOKLYN REVIEW, THE JAMES WHITE REVIEW, PAINTED BRIDE QUARTERLY, MiPo, COURT GREEN, and THE LITERARY REVIEW. His work can also be found in many anthologies, such as THE BRINK: POSTMODERN POETRY FROM 1965 TO THE PRESENT; BEND, DON'T SHATTER: POETS ON THE BEGINNING OF DESIRE; and SAINTS OF HYSTERIA: A HALF-CENTURY OF COLLABORATIVE AMERICAN POETRY. His books include BLOOD POISONING (Cold Calm Press, 1995); PLUSH: SELECTED POEMS OF SKY GILBERT, COURTNEY McFARLANE, JEFFERY CONWAY, R.M. VAUGHN, and DAVID TRINIDAD (Coach House Press, 1995); and two collaborations with Lynn Crosbie and David Trinidad, CHAIN CHAIN CHAIN (Ignition Press, 2000) and PHOEBE 2002: AN ESSAY IN VERSE (Turtle Point Press, 2003). His most recent collection, THE ALBUM THAT CHANGED MY LIFE (Cold Calm Press, 2006), was a finalist for the 2007 Lambda Literary Award. He lives in New York City.

↑ Index

546. Gabrielle Welford
wait a minute
Tue 25 Sep 2007

dear poetics folks, i'm sorry, i've got to wade in here. there are many maniacs ruling countries in this world. we _have_ to question quite cynically why our own maniacs (whom i now consider extremely evil-- definitely horrific creatures, and they are our problem, not some other peoples') are interested in attacking some of them but not others. why is the u.s. spending billions to support israel and more billions to wipe out iraq, a country that threatened neither israel nor the u.s.? why was israel "founded" in the first place? was it really because the u.s. and england love the jewish people so much? (both countries rejected the idea of allowing jewish refugees to immigrate after WWII.) or was it another cynical move to make sure the u.s. and england have a foot to control stability/instability in teh middle east, home of oil fields that supply both east and west and of a christian crusade that has gone on for 1000 years? surely it's clear that christians have a much worse record than moslems when it comes to slaughtering jews. what does this new cosying up mean? i don't trust it at all.

ahmadinejad may be a lunatic too, though in an interview by 60 minutes, (http://www.cbsnews.com/stories/2007/09/21/60minutes/main3286690.shtml?) he sounds more like a man very carefully aware that his country could well be the target of the next u.s. shock and awe. it is not our job to go around making sure that leaders of other countries are treating their people right. right now the burmese are up in arms against their gov't. the iranians have overthrown their leaders many times before. it is a very ancient civilization. we had better look to our own mess.

the extremely difficult and painful situation begun by outside empires fiddling with the status quo in different parts of the world (pakistan/india, north and south ireland, hawaii, israel and the arab countries surrounding it, africa as a whole) requires us to step back a bit from immediate gut reactions and look at the bigger picture.

the leaders of countries are not the ones suffering. it is always the people. and it will be us too, more and more, if the craziness that is our lot now in the u.s. goes on. all best, gabe

On Tue, 25 Sep 2007, Bobbi Lurie wrote:

> Ruth, Thank you. Yes, Ruth, not only that but the Iranian people themselves don't want this maniac ruling their lives. Letting him speakÂ at Columbia gives the Iranian people a very sad picture of America: they want America to help them and America is just giving this guy the go ahead/ giving him more and more credibility with their gullibility. And yes, he wants all the Jews destroyed, and yes he wants

*Israel blown off the map (I'm not saying it/Â HE is PLEASEÂ LISTENÂ TOÂ WHAT THIS MANIAC IS SAYING (it's not so hard to do/he's saying it every day) and then, for those who don't care about Israel, wellÂ guess who's next: America. And anyone who knows me knows
I'm no political fantatic and I'm no alarmist and I'm not on the right or any of the rationalizations you might want to put on me but I'm listening to this guy and I hear him and I think we owe it to ourselves and to the entire world to listen to him and realize he is as serious as Hitler was when he outlined HIS plan just as clearly, (both of theseÂ horrific creaturesÂ have been very clear of their goals)Â with just as many people not listening to him. First of all, we owe it to the Iranian people to show them we stand for something other than "scoops"
or whatever the media sees themselves doing by bringing us "all the news that's fit to cover"--too bad they leave so much out. And if anyone wants to believe his sweet talk, and won't listen to what he's actually saying (and I'll repeat it again: listen to his daily speeches translated directly from Farsi) then I'd say we are back in the days of Hitler's rise. And I am not, in any way, being dramatic. He's pulling women off the street for not covering up enough/ he's tearing academics from their positions, he's calling himself the messiah for godsakes--don't you hear what he's saying? It's scary for me that people aren't listening to what he's saying. Please see below and listen to Ruth: she knows what she's talking about. Bobbi Lurie*

*-----Original Message-----
From: Ruth Lepson <[redacted]>
Sent: Mon, 24 Sep 2007 6:35 pm*

*not everyone deserves to be heard in an invited forum. how about hitler?
ver see the SNL parody of The News Hour? "Good evening, Mr Hitler, we're so glad you could join us tonight." "Thank you for expressing your opinion," tc. He has often denied the Holocaust & wants to see all Jews destroyed. think of how he treats his own people, not to mention the Christians & Jews n Iran.*

Thomas savage <[redacted]> wrote:

*If Ahmedinajad denies the Holocaust, then he is obviously just simply wrong.
But American propaganda on all things being suspect, who knows if he ever really said that. Anyway, just as Iraq had no weapons of mass destruction, the government of Iran may be telling the truth when it says that it is developing nuclear power for peaceful uses. Who knows? Anyway, I'm glad someone in NYC outside the UN is giving Mr. Ahmedinajad a forum in which to express himself.
Is he really going to read poetry? This must be the first time I've heard of a "world leader" writing poetry since the former head of the Sandinistas read some poetry he'd written on a trip I took to Nicaragua many years ago. Anyway, whatever their mistaken views (a la Baraka and his part of a poem about 9/11), everyone deserves to be heard. Regards, Tom Savage*

Bobbi Lurie wrote: And one more suggestion: why not put the U.N. in Venezuela or something?

and please, more importantly, PLEASE read his speeches translated directly from Farsi cause they sound a lot different than the ones he gives to the U.S. directly.

Bobbi Lurie

p.s. too bad i won't be in NYC until next week....well, maybe it's better that way...but please send a synopsis of all of this. i'd really like toÃ‚ know moreÃ‚ about it.

-----Original Message-----
From: Geoffrey Gatza
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 11:45 pm
Subject: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

New York City ??home to the United Nations and some of the most ethnically iverse communities on the planet ??often finds itself in the curious osition of being grudgingly hospitable to some of the worldÃ‚Â¹s most ontroversial heads of state and loathsome tyrants.

he arrival yesterday of Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, the Iranian president best nown here for criticizing the United States and calling the Holocaust a yth, is the latest example of the diplomatic dance New York has long erformed with international firebrands.

ast week the Police Department denied IranÃ‚Â¹s request to allow Mr. hmadinejad to visit ground zero, but BlazeVOX [books] is allowing him to articipate in a Poetry reading Tuesday. Geoffrey Gatza spoke last night to sympathetic and mostly Iranian audience at a Midtown hotel. Ã‚Â³We are hrilled that President Ahmadinejad will read from his upcoming BlazeVOX ook.Ã‚Â²

ony Snow, The White House press secretary was quoted, why not give him a ook, GatzaÃ‚Â¹s published everyone else, why not him too, he said with isgust.
----
ttp://welcometoboogcity.com/

eason 5 of d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

CA Galleries, 529 W.20th St., 5th Floor.
bet. 10th and 11th avenues) NYC

ues. Sept. 25 BlazeVOX Books
:00 p.m., free

eaturing readings from Joel Chace, Amy King, Ruth Lepson, Douglas Manson, yle Schlesinger and music from Compass Jazz

-
Best, Geoffrey
Geoffrey Gatza
ditor & Publisher

BlazeVOX [books]
ublisher of weird little books

[redacted]
ttp://www.blazevox.org

Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! -
http://mail.aol.com

Moody friends. Drama queens. Your life? Nope! - their life, your story.
Play Sims Stories at Yahoo! Games.

Boardwalk for $500? In 2007? Ha!
Play Monopoly Here and Now (it's updated for today's economy) at Yahoo! Games.

Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! -
http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

547. reJennifer Bartlett
PEACE MARCH
Tue 25 Sep 2007

There is a peace march in DC this Saturday Sept. 29th

Be there! _____ Kick back and relax with hot games and cool activities at the Messenger Café. http://www.cafemessenger.com?ocid=TXT_TAGLM_SeptWLtagline=

↑ Index

548. Thomas savage
Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
Tue 25 Sep 2007

You may be right, Murat. I watched him last night on the Charlie Rose Show and while he sidestepped the issue of the Holocaust, he said repeatedly that Iran and he wanted to be friends with the people o f all nations. When asked about the purpose of his nuclear program, he insisted again that it was for peaceful purposes. I watched his face very carefully. On this latter point, there seemed to be sincerity emanating from him. Maybe I've just been conned by him. There is no way of knowing any of the truth of this matter without going to Iran. Nevertheless, he was convincing. I can usually tell when our politicians are lying, which is most of the time. If he is more cunning than he appeared, I had no way of telling that. Regards, Tom Savage

Bobbi Lurie <[redacted]> wrote: Murat,

Creepy is the word.
Thank you for what you write.

Bobbi Lurie

-----Original Message-----
From: Murat Nemet-Nejat
To: [redacted]
Sent: Mon, 24 Sep 2007 5:02 pm
Subject: Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

Tom, I watched some of Ahmedinejad's talk at the Mational Press Club. He refused o say that the Holocaust did take place. In my vocabulary this means he is enying it or obfuscating its existence. I must say Ahmedinejad talks like very cheap politician in The United States. In the same talk, in answer to question, he basically denied Israel's right to exist. It was so bad that omeone blinked out his initial response in Persian, which basically was hat "we (Iran) had already made their decisision about the matter." He used very final word for decision

"idam," which also means "sentence of capital unishment." When the sound came back, the answer was softened a bit to omething like "why should the Arabs pay for the sins of the Europeans. Of ourse here he is using the lawyerly rhetoric of: "it did not happen, but ven it did why should the Arabs suffer for it." In actuality, Ahmedinejad looked much creepier that I thought he would. Ciao, Murat On 9/24/07, Jason Quackenbush wrote:

What's the Baraka 9-11 poem you're referring to?

And how do we know that this Ahmedinajad appearance won't just be Kent Johnson in a keffiya?

On Mon, 24 Sep 2007, Thomas savage wrote:

> If Ahmedinajad denies the Holocaust, then he is obviously just simply wrong. But American propaganda on all things being suspect, who knows if he ever really said that. Anyway, just as Iraq had no weapons of mass destruction, the government of Iran may be telling the truth when it says that it is developing nuclear power for peaceful uses. Who knows? Anyway, I'm glad someone in NYC outside the UN is giving Mr. Ahmedinajad a forum in which to express himself. Is he really going to read poetry? This must be the first time I've heard of a "world leader" writing poetry since the former head of the Sandinistas read some poetry he'd written on a trip I took to Nicaragua many years ago. Anyway, whatever their mistaken views (a la Baraka and his part of a poem about 9/11), everyone deserves to be heard. Regards, Tom Savage
>
> Bobbi Lurie wrote: And one more suggestion: why not put the U.N. in Venezuela or something?
>
> and please, more importantly, PLEASE read his speeches translated directly from Farsi cause they sound a lot different than the ones he gives to the U.S. directly.
>
>
> Bobbi Lurie
>
>
> p.s. too bad i won't be in NYC until next week....well, maybe it's better that way...but please send a synopsis of all of this. i'd really like toknow moreabout it.
>
>
> -----Original Message-----

> From: Geoffrey Gatza
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 11:45 pm
> Subject: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
>
>
>
>
> New York City ??home to the United Nations and some of the most ethnically
> iverse communities on the planet ??often finds itself in the curious > osition of being grudgingly hospitable to some of the world¹s most > ontroversial heads of state and loathsome tyrants.
>
> he arrival yesterday of Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, the Iranian president best > nown here for criticizing the United States and calling the Holocaust a > yth, is the latest example of the diplomatic dance New York has long > erformed with international firebrands.
>
> ast week the Police Department denied Iran¹s request to allow Mr.
> hmadinejad to visit ground zero, but BlazeVOX [books] is allowing him to > articipate in a Poetry reading Tuesday. Geoffrey Gatza spoke last night
to > sympathetic and mostly Iranian audience at a Midtown hotel. ³We are > hrilled that President Ahmadinejad will read from his upcoming BlazeVOX
> ook.²
>
> ony Snow, The White House press secretary was quoted, why not give him a > ook, Gatza¹s published everyone else, why not him too, he said with > isgust.
> ---
> ttp://welcometoboogcity.com/
>
> eason 5 of d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press
>
> CA Galleries, 529 W.20th St., 5th Floor.
> bet. 10th and 11th avenues) NYC
>
> ues. Sept. 25 BlazeVOX Books
> :00 p.m., free
>
> eaturing readings from Joel Chace, Amy King, Ruth Lepson, Douglas

Manson,
> yle Schlesinger and music from Compass Jazz
>
> ----------
> -
> Best, Geoffrey
> Geoffrey Gatza
> ditor & Publisher
> ----------
> BlazeVOX [books]
> ublisher of weird little books
> ----------
> [redacted]
> ttp://www.blazevox.org
>
>
> _____
> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com
>
>
>
> ----------
> Moody friends. Drama queens. Your life? Nope! - their life, your story.
> Play Sims Stories at Yahoo! Games.
>

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

---
Take the Internet to Go: Yahoo!Go puts the Internet in your pocket: mail, news, photos & more.

↑ Index

549. Metta Sama

Re: Music Scholar Barred From U.S., but No One Will Tell Her Why

Tue 25 Sep 2007

---

i watched the film "The U.S. versus John Lennon" last evening, & it's amazing how similar these cases were. & amazing how both artists used Kafka to express this terror they were in.

M

↑ Index

550. Andrew Rippeon
Invitation/Reminder: In Buffalo this week
Tue 25 Sep 2007

Dear Friends-

In Buffalo this week:

Thursday, September 27, 7pm.

"This Ainâ€™t the Chicago Review." Readings by Sean Bonney, Frances Kruk, Sophie Robinson and Ric Royer. Rust Belt Books (202 Allen St.)

(http://artvoice.com/issues/v6n38/literary/result_of_chaos_and_luck)

Friday, September 28, 8 PM

"Triple Launch Extravaganza." Launch readings given by contributors to Damn the Caesars, Pilot, and P-Queue. The Adam Mickiewicz Library (612 Fillmore Ave.)

http://damnthecaesars.org/http://www.p-queue.org/

↑ Index

551. Ryan Daley
Re: wait a minute
Tue 25 Sep 2007

Gabe,

applause

Here here.

-Ryan

On 9/25/07, Gabrielle Welford <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> dear poetics folks, i'm sorry, i've got to wade in here. there are many > maniacs ruling countries in this world. we _have_ to question quite > cynically why our own maniacs (whom i now consider extremely evil-- > definitely horrific creatures, and they are our problem, not some other > peoples') are interested in attacking some of them but not others. why is > the u.s. spending billions to support israel and more billions to wipe out > iraq, a country that threatened neither israel nor the u.s.? why was > israel "founded" in the first place? was it really because the u.s. and > england love the jewish people so much? (both countries rejected the idea > of allowing jewish refugees to immigrate after WWII.) or was it another > cynical move to make sure the u.s. and england have a foot to control > stability/instability in teh middle east, home of oil fields that supply > both east and west and of a christian crusade that has gone on for 1000 > years? surely it's clear that christians have a much worse record than > moslems when it comes to slaughtering jews. what does this new cosying up > mean? i don't trust it at all.

>
> ahmadinejad may be a lunatic too, though in an interview by 60 minutes,
>
(http://www.cbsnews.com/stories/2007/09/21/60minutes/main3286690.shtml?)
> he sounds more like a man very carefully aware that his country could well > be the target of the next u.s. shock and awe. it is not our job to go > around making sure that leaders of other countries are treating their > people right. right now the burmese are up in arms against their gov't.
> the iranians have overthrown their leaders many times before. it is a > very ancient civilization. we had better look to our own mess.
>
> the extremely difficult and painful situation begun by outside empires
> fiddling with the status quo in different parts of the world > (pakistan/india, north and south ireland, hawaii, israel and the arab > countries surrounding it, africa as a whole) requires us to step back a > bit from immediate gut reactions and look at the bigger picture.
>
> the leaders of countries are not the ones suffering. it is always the > people. and it will be us too, more and more, if the craziness that is > our lot now in the u.s. goes on. all best, gabe
>
> On Tue, 25 Sep 2007, Bobbi Lurie wrote:
>
> > Ruth, Thank you. Yes, Ruth, not only that but the Iranian people > > themselves don't want this maniac ruling their lives. Letting him > > speakat Columbia gives the Iranian people a very sad picture of > > America: they want America to help them and America is just giving this > > guy the go ahead/ giving him more and more credibility with their > > gullibility. And yes, he wants all the Jews destroyed, and yes he wants > > Israel blown off the map (I'm not saying it/HE is > > PLEASELISTENTOWHAT THIS MANIAC IS SAYING (it's not so hard to do/
> > he's saying it every day) and then, for those who don't care about > > Israel, wellguess who's next: America. And anyone who knows me knows

> > I'm no political fantatic and I'm no alarmist and I'm not on the right > > or any of the rationalizations you might want to put on me but I'm > > listening to this guy and I hear him and I think we owe it to ourselves > > and to the entire world to listen to him and realize he is as serious as > > Hitler was when he outlined HIS plan just as clearly, (both of > > thesehorrific creatureshave been very clear of their goals)with > > just as many people not listening to him. First of all, we owe it to the > > Iranian people to show them we stand for something other than "scoops"
> > or whatever the media sees themselves doing by bringing us "all the news > > that's fit to cover"--too bad they leave so much out. And if anyone > > wants to believe his sweet talk, and won't listen to what he's actually > > saying (and I'll repeat it again: listen to his daily speeches > > translated directly from Farsi) then I'd say we are back in the days of > > Hitler's rise. And I am not, in any way, being dramatic. He's pulling > > women off the street for not covering up enough/ he's tearing academics
> > from their positions, he's calling himself the messiah for > > godsakes--don't you hear what he's saying? It's scary for me that people > > aren't listening to what he's saying. Please see below and listen to > > Ruth: she knows what she's talking about. Bobbi Lurie
>
> > -----Original Message-----
> > From: Ruth Lepson <[redacted]>
> > Sent: Mon, 24 Sep 2007 6:35 pm
> >
> > not everyone deserves to be heard in an invited forum. how about hitler?
> > ver see the SNL parody of The News Hour? "Good evening, Mr Hitler, we're > > so glad you could join us tonight." "Thank you for expressing your > > opinion," tc. He has often denied the Holocaust & wants to see all Jews > > destroyed. think of how he treats his own people, not to mention the > > Christians & Jews n Iran.
> >
> > Thomas savage <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> > If Ahmedinajad denies the Holocaust, then he is obviously just simply > wrong.
> > But American propaganda on all things being suspect, who knows if he > ever > > really said that. Anyway, just as Iraq had no weapons of mass > destruction, the > > government of Iran may be telling the truth when it says that it is > developing > > nuclear power for peaceful uses. Who knows? Anyway, I'm glad someone in

> NYC
> > outside the UN is giving Mr. Ahmedinajad a forum in which to express > himself.
> > Is he really going to read poetry? This must be the first time I've > heard of a
> > "world leader" writing poetry since the former head of the Sandinistas
> read
> > some poetry he'd written on a trip I took to Nicaragua many years ago.
> Anyway, > > whatever their mistaken views (a la Baraka and his part of a poem about > 9/11), > > everyone deserves to be heard. Regards, Tom Savage
> >
> > Bobbi Lurie wrote: And one more suggestion: why not put the U.N. in > Venezuela
> > or something?
> >
> > and please, more importantly, PLEASE read his speeches translated > directly > > from Farsi cause they sound a lot different than the ones he gives to > the U.S. > > directly.
> >
> >
> > Bobbi Lurie
> >
> >
> > p.s. too bad i won't be in NYC until next week....well, maybe it's > better that > > way...but please send a synopsis of all of this. i'd really like toÂ > know
> > moreÂ about it.
> >
> >
> > -----Original Message-----
> > From: Geoffrey Gatza
> > To: [redacted]
> > Sent: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 11:45 pm
> > Subject: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
> >

> >
> >
> >
> > New York City ??home to the United Nations and some of the most > ethnically
> > iverse communities on the planet ??often finds itself in the curious > > osition of being grudgingly hospitable to some of the worldÂ¹s most > > ontroversial heads of state and loathsome tyrants.
> >
> > he arrival yesterday of Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, the Iranian president best > > nown here for criticizing the United States and calling the Holocaust a > > yth, is the latest example of the diplomatic dance New York has long > > erformed with international firebrands.
> >
> > ast week the Police Department denied IranÂ¹s request to allow Mr.
> > hmadinejad to visit ground zero, but BlazeVOX [books] is allowing him
> to > > articipate in a Poetry reading Tuesday. Geoffrey Gatza spoke last night
> to > > sympathetic and mostly Iranian audience at a Midtown hotel. Â³We are > > hrilled that President Ahmadinejad will read from his upcoming BlazeVOX
> > ook.Â²
> >
> > ony Snow, The White House press secretary was quoted, why not give him
> a > > ook, GatzaÂ¹s published everyone else, why not him too, he said with
> > isgust.
> > ---
> > ttp://welcometoboogcity.com/
> >
> > eason 5 of d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press
> >
> > CA Galleries, 529 W.20th St., 5th Floor.
> > bet. 10th and 11th avenues) NYC
> >
> > ues. Sept. 25 BlazeVOX Books
> > :00 p.m., free
> >
> > eaturing readings from Joel Chace, Amy King, Ruth Lepson, Douglas > Manson,
> > yle Schlesinger and music from Compass Jazz
> >

> > ----------
> > -
> > Best, Geoffrey
> > Geoffrey Gatza
> > ditor & Publisher
> > ----------
> > BlazeVOX [books]
> > ublisher of weird little books
> > ----------
> > [redacted]
> > ttp://www.blazevox.org
> >
> >
>
> > _____
> > Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! -
> > http://mail.aol.com
> >
> >
> >
> > ----------
> > Moody friends. Drama queens. Your life? Nope! - their life, your story.
> > Play Sims Stories at Yahoo! Games.
> >
> >
> >
> > ----------
> > Boardwalk for $500? In 2007? Ha!
> > Play Monopoly Here and Now (it's updated for today's economy) at Yahoo!
> Games.
> >
> >
> > _____
> > Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! -
> http://mail.aol.com
> >
>

↑ Index

552. Murat Nemet-Nejat

Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

Tue 25 Sep 2007

Tom,

Do you believe that Ahmedinejad believes there are no gays in Iran? Is he sincerely stupid or is he a lier or something we do not understand. I think the second one.

Perhaps he believes God is almighty and Iran is run by God's laws and the punishment for homosexuality is execution -Idam, the same word he used for Israel.- Since God's laws (and their executions) are ideal and perfect, all homosexuals are executed. Therefore, there are no homosexuals in Iran. Do you want to follow this argument?

You must be aware that Ahmedinejad is following the same argument about Israel. Since the existence of Israel is against God's law -the argument being why should the Arabs pay for Europeans' sins ("if the Holocaust occurred at all")- therefore, Israel does not exist, its mere physical existence requires "execution" of the law. Israel does not exist the way homosexuals do not exist. Do you want to follow this argument also?

The physical human reality -in the sense we understand it- does not seem to be relevant to Ahmedinejad- easily to be executed out. Do you believe in this kind of sincerity?

I am trying hard not to scream and talk about the beady eyed smirk on his face.

Ciao,

Murat

On 9/25/07, Thomas savage <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> You may be right, Murat. I watched him last night on the Charlie Rose
> Show and while he sidestepped the issue of the Holocaust, he said repeatedly > that Iran and he wanted to be friends with the people o f all nations. When > asked about the purpose of his nuclear program, he insisted again that it > was for peaceful purposes. I watched his face very carefully. On this > latter point, there seemed to be sincerity emanating from him. Maybe I've > just been conned by him. There is no way of knowing any of the truth of > this matter without going to Iran. Nevertheless, he was convincing. I can > usually tell when our politicians are lying, which is most of the time. If > he is more cunning than he appeared, I had no way of telling that. Regards, > Tom Savage
>

> Bobbi Lurie <[redacted]> wrote: Murat,
>
>
>
> Creepy is the word.
> Thank you for what you write.
>
>
>
> Bobbi Lurie
>
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Murat Nemet-Nejat
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Mon, 24 Sep 2007 5:02 pm
> Subject: Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
>
>
>
>
> Tom,
> I watched some of Ahmedinejad's talk at the Mational Press Club. He > refused
> o say that the Holocaust did take place. In my vocabulary this means he is > enying it or obfuscating its existence. I must say Ahmedinejad talks like > very cheap politician in The United States. In the same talk, in answer to > question, he basically denied Israel's right to exist. It was so bad that > omeone blinked out his initial response in Persian, which basically was > hat "we (Iran) had already made their decisision about the matter." He > used > very final word for decision "idam," which also means "sentence of capital > unishment." When the sound came back, the answer was softened a bit to > omething like "why should the Arabs pay for the sins of the Europeans. Of > ourse here he is using the lawyerly rhetoric of: "it did not happen, but > ven it did why should the Arabs suffer for it."
> In actuality, Ahmedinejad looked much creepier that I thought he would.
> Ciao,
> Murat
> On 9/24/07, Jason Quackenbush wrote:
>
> What's the Baraka 9-11 poem you're referring to?

>
> And how do we know that this Ahmedinajad appearance won't just be Kent > Johnson in a keffiya?
>
> On Mon, 24 Sep 2007, Thomas savage wrote:
>
> > If Ahmedinajad denies the Holocaust, then he is obviously just simply > wrong. But American propaganda on all things being suspect, who knows if
> he > ever really said that. Anyway, just as Iraq had no weapons of mass > destruction, the government of Iran may be telling the truth when it says > that it is developing nuclear power for peaceful uses. Who knows? Anyway, > I'm glad someone in NYC outside the UN is giving Mr. Ahmedinajad a forum
> in > which to express himself. Is he really going to read poetry? This must be > the first time I've heard of a "world leader" writing poetry since the > former head of the Sandinistas read some poetry he'd written on a trip I > took to Nicaragua many years ago. Anyway, whatever their mistaken views (a > la Baraka and his part of a poem about 9/11), everyone deserves to be > heard. Regards, Tom Savage
> >
> > Bobbi Lurie wrote: And one more suggestion: why > not put the U.N. in Venezuela or something?
> >
> > and please, more importantly, PLEASE read his speeches translated > directly from Farsi cause they sound a lot different than the ones he > gives
> to the U.S. directly.
> >
> >
> > Bobbi Lurie
> >
> >
> > p.s. too bad i won't be in NYC until next week....well, maybe it's > better that way...but please send a synopsis of all of this. i'd really > like
> toknow moreabout it.
> >
> >
> > -----Original Message-----
> > From: Geoffrey Gatza
> > To: [redacted]

> > Sent: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 11:45 pm
> > Subject: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > New York City ??home to the United Nations and some of the most > ethnically
> > iverse communities on the planet ??often finds itself in the curious > > osition of being grudgingly hospitable to some of the world¹s most > > ontroversial heads of state and loathsome tyrants.
> >
> > he arrival yesterday of Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, the Iranian president best > > nown here for criticizing the United States and calling the Holocaust a > > yth, is the latest example of the diplomatic dance New York has long > > erformed with international firebrands.
> >
> > ast week the Police Department denied Iran¹s request to allow Mr.
> > hmadinejad to visit ground zero, but BlazeVOX [books] is allowing him to > > articipate in a Poetry reading Tuesday. Geoffrey Gatza spoke last night
> to > > sympathetic and mostly Iranian audience at a Midtown hotel. ³We are > > hrilled that President Ahmadinejad will read from his upcoming BlazeVOX
> > ook.²
> >
> > ony Snow, The White House press secretary was quoted, why not give him
a > > ook, Gatza¹s published everyone else, why not him too, he said with
> > isgust.
> > ---
> > ttp://welcometoboogcity.com/
> >
> > eason 5 of d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press
> >
> > CA Galleries, 529 W.20th St., 5th Floor.
> > bet. 10th and 11th avenues) NYC
> >
> > ues. Sept. 25 BlazeVOX Books
> > :00 p.m., free
> >
> > eaturing readings from Joel Chace, Amy King, Ruth Lepson, Douglas > Manson,

> > yle Schlesinger and music from Compass Jazz
> >
> > ----------
> > -
> > Best, Geoffrey
> > Geoffrey Gatza
> > ditor & Publisher
> > ----------
> > BlazeVOX [books]
> > ublisher of weird little books
> > ----------
> > [redacted]
> > ttp://www.blazevox.org
> >
> >
> > _____
> > Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! -
> http://mail.aol.com
> >
> >
> >
> > ----------
> > Moody friends. Drama queens. Your life? Nope! - their life, your story.
> > Play Sims Stories at Yahoo! Games.
> >
>
>
>
> _____
> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! -
> http://mail.aol.com
>
>
>
> ----------
> Take the Internet to Go: Yahoo!Go puts the Internet in your pocket: mail, > news, photos & more.
>

↑ Index

553. Bobbi Lurie
Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
Tue 25 Sep 2007

Dear Tom,
Forget Charlie Rose interview and forget his look of sincerity. Please look at what he's been doing to (against) his own people (in Iran) (really scary this past month)/ please listen to what he claims to be (ie; his version of The Messiah--and he DOES claim to be that) and please read his speeches translated DIRECTLY from Farsi. please. just that. (forget u.s. broadcasts--and don't worry--you will have no problem finding his speeches from Farsi to the world--he repeats the same stuff every day)
Bobbi Lurie

From: Thomas savage [redacted]

Subject: Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

You may be right, Murat. I watched him last night on the Charlie Rose Show and hile he sidestepped the issue of the Holocaust, he said repeatedly that Iran nd he wanted to be friends with the people o f all nations. When asked about he purpose of his nuclear program, he insisted again that it was for peaceful urposes. I watched his face very carefully. On this latter point, there eemed to be sincerity emanating from him. Maybe I've just been conned by him. here is no way of knowing any of the truth of this matter without going to ran. Nevertheless, he was convincing. I can usually tell when our politicians re lying, which is most of the time. If he is more cunning than he appeared, I ad no way of telling that. Regards, Tom Savage Bobbi Lurie <[redacted]> wrote:
Murat,

Creepy is the word.
hank you for what you write.

Bobbi Lurie

----Original Message-----
rom: Murat Nemet-Nejat
o: [redacted]
ent: Mon, 24 Sep 2007 5:02 pm
ubject: Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25 om, watched some of Ahmedinejad's talk at the Mational Press Club. He refused say that the Holocaust did take place. In my vocabulary this means he is nying it or obfuscating its existence. I must say Ahmedinejad talks like ery cheap politician in The United States. In the same talk, in answer to uestion, he basically denied Israel's right to exist. It was so bad that meone blinked out his initial response in Persian, which basically was at "we (Iran) had already made their decisision about the matter." He used ery final word for decision "idam," which also means "sentence of capital nishment." When the sound came back, the answer was softened a bit to mething like "why should the Arabs pay for the sins of the Europeans. Of urse here he is using the lawyerly rhetoric of: "it did not happen, but en it did why should the Arabs suffer for it."

n actuality, Ahmedinejad looked much creepier that I thought he would.
iao,
urat
n 9/24/07, Jason Quackenbush wrote:
What's the Baraka 9-11 poem you're referring to?
And how do we know that this Ahmedinajad appearance won't just be Kent ohnson in a keffiya?
On Mon, 24 Sep 2007, Thomas savage wrote:
> If Ahmedinajad denies the Holocaust, then he is obviously just simply rong. But American propaganda on all things being suspect, who knows if he ver really said that. Anyway, just as Iraq had no weapons of mass estruction, the government of Iran may be telling the truth when it says hat it is developing nuclear power for peaceful uses. Who knows? Anyway,
'm glad someone in NYC outside the UN is giving Mr. Ahmedinajad a forum in hich to express himself. Is he really going to read poetry? This must be he first time I've heard of a "world leader" writing poetry since the ormer head of the Sandinistas read some poetry he'd written on a trip I ook to Nicaragua many years ago. Anyway, whatever their mistaken views (a a Baraka and his part of a poem about 9/11), everyone deserves to be eard. Regards, Tom Savage

Bobbi Lurie wrote: And one more suggestion: why ot put the U.N. in Venezuela or something?

and please, more importantly, PLEASE read his speeches translated irectly from Farsi cause they sound a lot different than the ones he gives o the U.S. directly.

Bobbi Lurie

p.s. too bad i won't be in NYC until next week....well, maybe it's etter that way...but please send a synopsis of all of this. i'd really like oknow moreabout it.

-----Original Message-----
From: Geoffrey Gatza
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 11:45 pm
Subject: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

New York City ??home to the United Nations and some of the most thnically iverse communities on the planet ??often finds itself in the curious osition of being grudgingly hospitable to some of the worldÂ¹s most ontroversial heads of state and loathsome tyrants.

he arrival yesterday of Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, the Iranian president best nown here for criticizing the United States and calling the Holocaust a yth, is the latest example of the diplomatic dance New York has long erformed with international firebrands.

ast week the Police Department denied IranÂ¹s request to allow Mr. hmadinejad to visit ground zero, but BlazeVOX [books] is allowing him to articipate in a Poetry reading Tuesday. Geoffrey Gatza spoke last night o sympathetic and mostly Iranian audience at a Midtown hotel. Â³We are hrilled that President Ahmadinejad will read from his upcoming BlazeVOX ook.Â²

ony Snow, The White House press secretary was quoted, why not give him a ook, GatzaÂ¹s published everyone else, why not him too, he said with isgust.

---

ttp://welcometoboogcity.com/

eason 5 of d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

CA Galleries, 529 W.20th St., 5th Floor.
bet. 10th and 11th avenues) NYC

ues. Sept. 25 BlazeVOX Books
:00 p.m., free

eaturing readings from Joel Chace, Amy King, Ruth Lepson, Douglas anson, yle Schlesinger and music from Compass Jazz

-

Best, Geoffrey
Geoffrey Gatza
ditor & Publisher

BlazeVOX [books]
ublisher of weird little books

[redacted]

ttp://www.blazevox.org

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - ttp://mail.aol.com

---
Moody friends. Drama queens. Your life? Nope! - their life, your story.
Play Sims Stories at Yahoo! Games.

_____ mail and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - ttp://mail.aol.com

---
ake the Internet to Go: Yahoo!Go puts the Internet in your pocket: mail, news, hotos & more.

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

554. Bobbi Lurie
Re: wait a minute
Tue 25 Sep 2007

Hi Gabeâ€”I will have to delete some of your text to fit the 800 word limit. but can provide full text as backchannel (but i am leaving town so please bear with me if you'd like me to respond--i will be off computer in a few days)--please forgive my large letters and italics--my computer isn't working correctly and i'm not sure my msg. will come through.

Â

we _have_ to question quite cynically why our own maniacs

Â

truer words never spoken (bobbi)

Â
why was israel "founded" in the first place?Â was it really because the u.s. and england love the jewish people so much?Â

Â

Â Not at all. The U.N. gave it the o.k. (but only because of the Holocaust) (bobbi)

Â

Â

ahmadinejad may be a lunatic too, though in an interview by 60 minutes, (http://www.cbsnews.com/stories/2007/09/21/60minutes/main3286690.shtml?

Â

Gabe, this is all I ask: listen to ahmadinejad with a direct translation from the Farsi/ not on a U.S. showâ€”but please listen to what heâ€™s saying daily to his poor people (who are being arrested right and left)â€”listen to how he tells them he is the messiah (different words usedâ€”but he thinks heâ€™s it)â€”please just listen to his speeches from FarsiÂ (bobbi)

Â

we had better look to our own mess.

Â

True. (bobbi)

Â

Â

the leaders of countries are not the ones suffering.Â it is always the people.Â

Â

True. And the people of Iran are suffering a lot now and I think it would help if we at least didnâ€™t broadcast ahmadinejadâ€™s â€œkind wordsâ€ because Iranians are losing all possible freedoms now and I think theyâ€™d like some support from the u.s. and Iâ€™m not talking about war or shock and awe or any of it)bobbi)

Â

and it will be us too, more and more, if the craziness that is our lot now in the u.s. goes on.Â all best, gabe

Â

p.s. I will not be able to be on computer for about a month so if I do not answer your response, please know Iâ€™ll be back on in November.

Â

-----Original Message-----
From: Gabrielle Welford [redacted]
Sent: Tue, 25 Sep 2007 7:10 am

dear poetics folks, i'm sorry, i've got to wade in here. there are many aniacs ruling countries in this world. we _have_ to question quite ynically why our own maniacs (whom i now consider extremely evil-- efinitely horrific creatures, and they are our problem, not some other eoples') are interested in attacking some of them but not others. why is he u.s. spending billions to support israel and more billions to wipe out raq, a country that threatened neither israel nor the u.s.? why was srael "founded" in the first place? was it really because the u.s. and ngland love the jewish people so much? (both countries rejected the idea f allowing jewish refugees to immigrate after WWII.) or was it another ynical move to make sure the u.s. and england have a foot to control tability/instability in teh middle east, home of oil fields that supply oth east and west and of a christian crusade that has gone on for 1000 ears? surely it's clear that christians have a much worse record than oslems when it comes to slaughtering jews. what does this new cosying up ean? i don't trust it at all.
ahmadinejad may be a lunatic too, though in an interview by 60 minutes, http://www.cbsnews.com/stories/2007/09/21/60minutes/main3286690.shtml?)
e sounds more like a man very carefully aware that his country could well e the target of the next u.s. shock and awe. it is not our job to go round making sure that leaders of other countries are treating their eople right. right now the burmese are up in arms against their gov't.
he iranians have overthrown their leaders many times before. it is a ery ancient civilization. we had better look to our own mess.
the extremely difficult and painful situation begun by outside empires iddling with the status quo in different parts of the world pakistan/india, north and south ireland, hawaii, israel and the arab ountries surrounding it, africa as a whole) requires us to step back a it from immediate gut reactions and look at the bigger picture.
the leaders of countries are not the ones suffering. it is always the eople. and it will be us too, more and more, if the craziness that is ur lot now in the u.s. goes on. all best, gabe
On Tue, 25 Sep 2007, Bobbi Lurie wrote:
> Ruth, Thank you. Yes, Ruth, not only that but the Iranian people themselves don't want this maniac ruling their lives. Letting him speakÃ‚Â at Columbia gives the Iranian people a very sad picture of America: they want America to help them and America is just giving this guy the go ahead/ giving him more and more credibility with their gullibility. And yes, he wants all the Jews destroyed, and yes he wants Israel blown off the map (I'm not saying it/Ã‚Â HE is PLEASEÃ‚Â LISTENÃ‚Â TOÃ‚Â WHAT THIS MANIAC IS SAYING (it's not so hard to do/

he's saying it every day) and then, for those who don't care about Israel, wellÃ‚Â guess who's next: America. And anyone who knows me knows
I'm no political fantatic and I'm no alarmist and I'm not on the right or any of the rationalizations you might want to put on me but I'm listening to this guy and I hear him and I think we owe it to ourselves and to the entire world to listen to him and realize he is as serious as Hitler was when he outlined HIS plan just as clearly, (both of theseÃ‚Â horrific creaturesÃ‚Â have been very clear of their goals)Ã‚Â with just as many people not listening to him. First of all, we owe it to the Iranian people to show them we stand for something other than "scoops"
or whatever the media sees themselves doing by bringing us "all the news that's fit to cover"--too bad they leave so much out. And if anyone wants to believe his sweet talk, and won't listen to what he's actually saying (and I'll repeat it again: listen to his daily speeches translated directly from Farsi) then I'd say we are back in the days of Hitler's rise. And I am not, in any way, being dramatic. He's pulling women off the street for not covering up enough/ he's tearing academics
from their positions, he's calling himself the messiah for godsakes--don't you hear what he's saying? It's scary for me that people aren't listening to what he's saying. Please see below and listen to Ruth: she knows what she's talking about. Bobbi Lurie
> -----Original Message-----
From: Ruth Lepson <[redacted]>
Sent: Mon, 24 Sep 2007 6:35 pm

not everyone deserves to be heard in an invited forum. how about hitler? ver see the SNL parody of The News Hour? "Good evening, Mr Hitler, we're so glad you could join us tonight." "Thank you for expressing your opinion," tc. He has often denied the Holocaust & wants to see all Jews destroyed. think of how he treats his own people, not to mention the Christians & Jews n Iran.

Thomas savage <[redacted]> wrote:
> If Ahmedinajad denies the Holocaust, then he is obviously just simply rong.
But American propaganda on all things being suspect, who knows if he ever really said that. Anyway, just as Iraq had no weapons of mass destruction, he government of Iran may be telling the truth when it says that it is eveloping

nuclear power for peaceful uses. Who knows? Anyway, I'm glad someone in NYC outside the UN is giving Mr. Ahmedinajad a forum in which to express himself.
Is he really going to read poetry? This must be the first time I've heard of "world leader" writing poetry since the former head of the Sandinistas read some poetry he'd written on a trip I took to Nicaragua many years ago. nyway, whatever their mistaken views (a la Baraka and his part of a poem about /11), everyone deserves to be heard. Regards, Tom Savage

Bobbi Lurie wrote: And one more suggestion: why not put the U.N. in Venezuela or something?

and please, more importantly, PLEASE read his speeches translated directly from Farsi cause they sound a lot different than the ones he gives to the .S. directly.

Bobbi Lurie

p.s. too bad i won't be in NYC until next week....well, maybe it's better hat way...but please send a synopsis of all of this. i'd really like toÃƒâ€š know moreÃƒâ€š about it.

-----Original Message-----
From: Geoffrey Gatza
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 11:45 pm
Subject: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

New York City ??home to the United Nations and some of the most ethnically iverse communities on the planet ??often finds itself in the curious osition of being grudgingly hospitable to some of the worldÃƒâ€šÃ‚Â¹s most ontroversial heads of state and loathsome tyrants.

he arrival yesterday of Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, the Iranian president best nown here for criticizing the United States and calling the Holocaust a yth, is the latest example of the diplomatic dance New York has long erformed with international firebrands.

ast week the Police Department denied IranÃƒâ€šÃ‚Â¹s request to allow Mr. hmadinejad to visit ground zero, but BlazeVOX [books] is allowing him to articipate in a Poetry reading Tuesday. Geoffrey Gatza spoke last night to sympathetic and mostly Iranian audience at a Midtown hotel. Ãƒâ€šÃ‚Â³We are hrilled that President Ahmadinejad will read from his upcoming BlazeVOX ook.Ãƒâ€šÃ‚Â² ony Snow, The White House press secretary was quoted, why not give him a ook, GatzaÃƒâ€šÃ‚Â¹s published everyone else, why not him too, he said with

isgust.
---
ttp://welcometoboogcity.com/

eason 5 of d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

CA Galleries, 529 W.20th St., 5th Floor.
bet. 10th and 11th avenues) NYC

ues. Sept. 25 BlazeVOX Books
:00 p.m., free

eaturing readings from Joel Chace, Amy King, Ruth Lepson, Douglas Manson, yle Schlesinger and music from Compass Jazz

---
-
Best, Geoffrey
Geoffrey Gatza
ditor & Publisher

BlazeVOX [books]
ublisher of weird little books

[redacted]
ttp://www.blazevox.org

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

---
Moody friends. Drama queens. Your life? Nope! - their life, your story.
Play Sims Stories at Yahoo! Games.

Boardwalk for $500? In 2007? Ha!
Play Monopoly Here and Now (it's updated for today's economy) at Yahoo! ames.

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - ttp://mail.aol.com

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

↑ Index

555. Seth Forrest
Contact Information for Edith Jarolim?
Tue 25 Sep 2007

Does anyone out there know how I could get in touch with Edith Jarolim, the editor of Paul Blackburn's Collected Poems? I think I may have found a few unpublished poems by Paul Blackburn.
Thanks,
Seth

--
Seth Forrest
PhD Candidate
Department of English University of California, Davis
wwwenglish.ucdavis.edu
http://trc.ucdavis.edu/sjforrest

↑ Index

556. steve russell
Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
Tue 25 Sep 2007

No, Bobbie, you are not an alarmist. But Ahmadinejad does not have anywhere near the power Hitler had. The Sunni's are the majority in the greater mid-east. Still, I understand your concern. I'm convinced that the shitty U.S. policy in the mid-east is largely responsible for our being in the mess we're in. If we hadn't overthrown the democratically elected (?), and replaced him with our mole, the shah, perhaps we wouldn't be having this discussion.

Bobbi Lurie <[redacted]> wrote: Ruth,
Thank you.
Yes, Ruth, not only that but the Iranian people themselves don't want this maniac ruling their lives. Letting him speak at Columbia gives the Iranian people a very sad picture of America: they want America to help them and America is just giving this guy the go ahead/ giving him more and more credibility with their gullibility. And yes, he wants all the Jews destroyed, and yes he wants Israel blown off the map (I'm not saying it/ HE is PLEASE LISTEN TO WHAT THIS MANIAC IS SAYING (it's not so hard to do/ he's saying it every day) and then, for those who don't care about Israel, well guess who's next: America. And anyone who knows me knows I'm no political fantatic and I'm no alarmist and I'm not on the right or any of the rationalizations you might want to put on me but I'm listening to this guy and I hear him and I think we owe it to ourselves and to the entire world to listen to him and realize he is as serious as Hitler was when he outlined HIS plan just as clearly, (both of these horrific creatures have been very clear of their goals) with just as many people not listening to him. First of all, we owe it to the Iranian people to show them we stand for something other than "scoops" or whatever the media sees themselves doing by bringing us "all the news that's fit to cover"--too bad they leave so much out. And if anyone wants to believe his sweet talk, and won't listen to what he's actually saying (and I'll repeat it again: listen to his daily speeches translated directly from Farsi) then I'd say we are back in the days of Hitler's rise. And I am not, in any way, being dramatic. He's pulling women off the street for not covering up enough/ he's tearing academics from their positions, he's calling himself the messiah for godsakes--don't you hear what he's saying? It's scary for me that people aren't listening to what he's saying. Please see below and listen to Ruth: she knows what she's talking about.

Bobbi Lurie

-----Original Message-----
From: Ruth Lepson
To: [redacted]
Sent: Mon, 24 Sep 2007 6:35 pm
Subject: Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

not everyone deserves to be heard in an invited forum. how about hitler? ver see the SNL parody of The News Hour? "Good evening, Mr Hitler, we're so lad you could join us tonight." "Thank you for expressing your opinion," tc. He has often denied the Holocaust & wants to see all Jews destroyed. hink of how he treats his own people, not to mention the Christians & Jews n Iran.

n 9/24/07 12:54 PM, "Mary Kasimor" wrote:
> I assumed that Geoffrey was playing with us!!! Well?
Mary

Thomas savage wrote: If Ahmedinajad denies the Holocaust, then he is obviously just simply wrong. But American propaganda on all things being suspect, who knows if he ever really said that. Anyway, just as Iraq had no weapons of mass destruction, the government of Iran may be telling the truth when it says that it is developing nuclear power for peaceful uses. Who knows? Anyway, I'm glad someone in NYC outside the UN is giving Mr. Ahmedinajad a forum in which to express himself. Is he really going to read poetry? This must be the first time I've heard of a "world leader" writing poetry since the former head of the Sandinistas read some poetry he'd written on a trip I took to Nicaragua many years ago. Anyway, whatever their mistaken views (a la Baraka and his part of a poem about 9/11), everyone deserves to be heard. Regards,
Tom Savage

Bobbi Lurie wrote: And one more suggestion: why not put the U.N. in Venezuela or something?

and please, more importantly, PLEASE read his speeches translated directly from Farsi cause they sound a lot different than the ones he gives to the U.S. directly.

Bobbi Lurie

p.s. too bad i won't be in NYC until next week....well, maybe it's better that way...but please send a synopsis of all of this. i'd really like toÂ know moreÂ about it.

-----Original Message-----
From: Geoffrey Gatza
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 11:45 pm
Subject: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

New York City ??home to the United Nations and some of the most ethnically iverse communities on the planet ??often finds itself in the curious osition of being grudgingly hospitable to some of the worldÂ¹s most ontroversial heads of state and loathsome tyrants.

he arrival yesterday of Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, the Iranian president best nown here for criticizing the United States and calling the Holocaust a yth, is the latest example of the diplomatic dance New York has long erformed with international firebrands.

ast week the Police Department denied IranÂ¹s request to allow Mr. hmadinejad to visit ground zero, but BlazeVOX [books] is allowing him to articipate in a Poetry reading Tuesday. Geoffrey Gatza spoke last night to sympathetic and mostly Iranian audience at a Midtown hotel. Â³We are hrilled that President Ahmadinejad will read from his upcoming BlazeVOX ook.Â²

ony Snow, The White House press secretary was quoted, why not give him a ook, GatzaÂ¹s published everyone else, why not him too, he said with isgust.
---
ttp://welcometoboogcity.com/

eason 5 of d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

CA Galleries, 529 W.20th St., 5th Floor.
bet. 10th and 11th avenues) NYC

ues. Sept. 25 BlazeVOX Books
:00 p.m., free

eaturing readings from Joel Chace, Amy King, Ruth Lepson, Douglas Manson, yle Schlesinger and music from Compass Jazz

---
-
Best, Geoffrey
Geoffrey Gatza
ditor & Publisher

BlazeVOX [books]
ublisher of weird little books

[redacted]
ttp://www.blazevox.org

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

---
Moody friends. Drama queens. Your life? Nope! - their life, your story.
Play Sims Stories at Yahoo! Games.

Boardwalk for $500? In 2007? Ha!
Play Monopoly Here and Now (it's updated for today's economy) at Yahoo! Games.

_____ Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com

---
Luggage? GPS? Comic books?
Check out fitting gifts for grads at Yahoo! Search.

↑ Index

557. David Goldstein
Wa-Kow! Thursday Oct 4
Tue 25 Sep 2007

The Wa-KOW! Collective

invites you to the premiere of

Holy/Oil

at Living Arts of Tulsa

Where:
308 S. Kenosha Ave, Tulsa, OK

When:
Opening: 5-8 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 4.
Artist's Talk: 6:30 p.m.

Holy/Oil runs through October 25.

Holy/Oil is a multimedia installation by the Wa-KOW! Collective that explores the cultural, ethical and aesthetic intersections of oil and religion in Tulsa, Oklahoma. The Wa-KOW! Collective is Grant Jenkins, Nathan Halverson, David Goldstein and Mindy Stricke.

↑ Index

558. Joel Bettridge
Poetry, Art, and the Book: a Conference at Yale Univeristy
Tue 25 Sep 2007

The Beinecke Rare Book and Manuscript Library and the Arts of the Book Collection at Yale University invite historians, literary scholars, poets, artists, publishers, and book arts enthusiasts to participate in Metaphor Taking Shape: Poetry, Art, and the Book, a symposium to be held on March 13 & 14, 2008, on the campus of Yale University. Speakers will include Carolee Campbell, Macy Chadwick, Steve Clay, Simon Cutts, Johanna Drucker, Ann Lauterbach, Anna Moschovakis, Chad Oness, Kyle Schelessinger, Buzz Spector, C. D. Wright, and John Yau. The symposium will highlight strengths of the Yale Arts of the Book Collection and the Modern European and American collections at the Beinecke Rare Book and Manuscript Library in the accompanying exhibitions: "Metaphor Taking Shape: Poetry, Art, and the Book" at the Beinecke Rare Book and Manuscript Library, and "The Publisher's Roundtable: Book Artists in Dialogue" at the Arts of the Book Collection.

Additional details are available online:
http://beinecke.library.yale.edu/metaphor/index.html

For more information about Poetry at Beinecke Library visit:
http://beineckepoetry.wordpress.com/

Nancy Kuhl
Associate Curator, Yale Collection of American Literature
The Beinecke Rare Book and Manuscript Library
Yale University
121 Wall Street, P.O. Box 208240

New Haven, CT 06520-8240
Phone: [redacted]

African American Studies at Beinecke Library:
http://beineckejwj.wordpress.com/
Poetry at Beinecke Library: http://beineckepoetry.wordpress.com/

↑ Index

559. Dan Waber

New Release from Paper Kite Press - Too Bad It's Poetry by Jim Warner

Tue 25 Sep 2007

Too Bad It's Poetry, by Jim Warner

"The amazing poem "east/west" is a must read. Warner successfully weaves--or more aptly fuses--references to music, spirituality, psychology, pop culture and literature as he explores themes of exile and identity. In these electric poems we journey with him as he both searches for and invents a new home--this one made of language."-- Toi Derricotte

Diamond City review here:
http://www.diamondcityweekly.com/columns/story.asp?id=46114

A 45-sized collection of poetry, shrink wrapped for freshness. $16 (includes shipping)

Order here: http://www.wordpainting.com/shop.shtml

Paper Kite Press
443 Main Street
Kingston, PA 18704
USA
http://www.wordpainting.com/

↑ Index

560. Tom Beckett

New at E-values

Tue 25 Sep 2007

My interview with Alan Davies is here: http://willtoexchange.blogspot.com

* See what's new at http://www.aol.com

↑ Index

561. Grant Matthew Jenkins
Premier of "Holy/Oil" by the Wa-KOW! Collective, Tulsa OK
Tue 25 Sep 2007

The Wa-KOW! Collective

invites you to the premiere of

Holy/Oil

at Living Arts of Tulsa

Where:
308 S. Kenosha Ave, Tulsa, OK

When:
Opening: 5-8 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 4.
Artist's Talk: 6:30 p.m.

Holy/Oil runs through October 25.

Combining poetry, photography, and sound, Holy/Oil is a multimedia installation that explores the intersections of oil and religion in Tulsa, Oklahoma. The Wa-KOW! Collective is Grant Jenkins, Nathan Halverson, David Goldstein and Mindy Stricke.

↑ Index

562. Thomas savage
Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
Tue 25 Sep 2007

Okay, Murat. His attitude toward homosexuality was not discussed on the program. I only heard of this today from someone else and saw something about it in today's New York Times. Thirty seven years ago when I was briefly in Teheran on the way to Afghanistan and India, I was told by two young men that men in the Muslim world had sex with one another until they got married. I had no idea whether this was true or not but because I was twenty-two at the time, it stuck with me. More recently, in Afghanistan under the Taliban, the punishment for being caught in homosexual activity was to be placed in a house which was then collapsed onto you. If you survived this ordeal you were let go. Which is the more primitive and inhumane, even anti-human, since homosexuality is natural and human, I don't wish to speculate. Anyway, since I'm now told homosexuals are executed in Iran, I would certainly never go there until this changed. Regards, Tom Savage

Murat Nemet-Nejat <[redacted]> wrote: Tom,

Do you believe that Ahmedinejad believes there are no gays in Iran? Is he sincerely stupid or is he a lier or something we do not understand. I think the second one.

Perhaps he believes God is almighty and Iran is run by God's laws and the punishment for homosexuality is execution -Idam, the same word he used for Israel.- Since God's laws (and their executions) are ideal and perfect, all homosexuals are executed. Therefore, there are no homosexuals in Iran. Do you want to follow this argument?

You must be aware that Ahmedinejad is following the same argument about Israel. Since the existence of Israel is against God's law -the argument being why should the Arabs pay for Europeans' sins ("if the Holocaust occurred at all")- therefore, Israel does not exist, its mere physical existence requires "execution" of the law. Israel does not exist the way homosexuals do not exist. Do you want to follow this argument also?

The physical human reality -in the sense we understand it- does not seem to be relevant to Ahmedinejad- easily to be executed out. Do you believe in this kind of sincerity?

I am trying hard not to scream and talk about the beady eyed smirk on his face.

Ciao,

Murat

On 9/25/07, Thomas savage wrote:
>
> You may be right, Murat. I watched him last night on the Charlie Rose
> Show and while he sidestepped the issue of the Holocaust, he said repeatedly > that Iran and he wanted to be friends with the people o f all nations. When > asked about the purpose of his nuclear program, he insisted again that it > was for peaceful purposes. I watched his face very carefully. On this > latter point, there seemed to be sincerity emanating from him. Maybe I've > just been conned by him. There is no way of knowing any of the truth of > this matter without going to Iran. Nevertheless, he was convincing. I can > usually tell when our politicians are lying, which is most of the time. If > he is more cunning than he appeared, I had no way of telling that. Regards,
> Tom Savage
>
> Bobbi Lurie wrote: Murat,
>
>
>
> Creepy is the word.

> Thank you for what you write.
>
>
>
> Bobbi Lurie
>
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Murat Nemet-Nejat
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Mon, 24 Sep 2007 5:02 pm
> Subject: Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
>
>
>
>
> Tom,
> I watched some of Ahmedinejad's talk at the Mational Press Club. He > refused
> o say that the Holocaust did take place. In my vocabulary this means he is > enying it or obfuscating its existence. I must say Ahmedinejad talks like > very cheap politician in The United States. In the same talk, in answer to > question, he basically denied Israel's right to exist. It was so bad that > omeone blinked out his initial response in Persian, which basically was > hat "we (Iran) had already made their decisision about the matter." He > used
> very final word for decision "idam," which also means "sentence of capital > unishment." When the sound came back, the answer was softened a bit to > omething like "why should the Arabs pay for the sins of the Europeans. Of > ourse here he is using the lawyerly rhetoric of: "it did not happen, but > ven it did why should the Arabs suffer for it."
> In actuality, Ahmedinejad looked much creepier that I thought he would.
> Ciao,
> Murat
> On 9/24/07, Jason Quackenbush wrote:
>
> What's the Baraka 9-11 poem you're referring to?
>
> And how do we know that this Ahmedinajad appearance won't just be Kent > Johnson in a keffiya?
>
> On Mon, 24 Sep 2007, Thomas savage wrote:

>
> > If Ahmedinajad denies the Holocaust, then he is obviously just simply > wrong. But American propaganda on all things being suspect, who knows if
> he > ever really said that. Anyway, just as Iraq had no weapons of mass > destruction, the government of Iran may be telling the truth when it says > that it is developing nuclear power for peaceful uses. Who knows? Anyway, > I'm glad someone in NYC outside the UN is giving Mr. Ahmedinajad a forum
> in > which to express himself. Is he really going to read poetry? This must be > the first time I've heard of a "world leader" writing poetry since the > former head of the Sandinistas read some poetry he'd written on a trip I > took to Nicaragua many years ago. Anyway, whatever their mistaken views (a > la Baraka and his part of a poem about 9/11), everyone deserves to be > heard. Regards, Tom Savage
> >
> > Bobbi Lurie wrote: And one more suggestion: why > not put the U.N. in Venezuela or something?
> >
> > and please, more importantly, PLEASE read his speeches translated > directly from Farsi cause they sound a lot different than the ones he > gives
> to the U.S. directly.
> >
> >
> > Bobbi Lurie
> >
> >
> > p.s. too bad i won't be in NYC until next week....well, maybe it's > better that way...but please send a synopsis of all of this. i'd really > like
> toknow moreabout it.
> >
> >
> > -----Original Message-----
> > From: Geoffrey Gatza
> > To: [redacted]
> > Sent: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 11:45 pm
> > Subject: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25
> >
> >
> >

> >
> > New York City ??home to the United Nations and some of the most > ethnically
> > iverse communities on the planet ??often finds itself in the curious > > osition of being grudgingly hospitable to some of the world¹s most > > ontroversial heads of state and loathsome tyrants.
> >
> > he arrival yesterday of Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, the Iranian president best > > nown here for criticizing the United States and calling the Holocaust a > > yth, is the latest example of the diplomatic dance New York has long > > erformed with international firebrands.
> >
> > ast week the Police Department denied Iran¹s request to allow Mr.
> > hmadinejad to visit ground zero, but BlazeVOX [books] is allowing him to > > articipate in a Poetry reading Tuesday. Geoffrey Gatza spoke last night
> to > > sympathetic and mostly Iranian audience at a Midtown hotel. ³We are > > hrilled that President Ahmadinejad will read from his upcoming BlazeVOX
> > ook.²
> >
> > ony Snow, The White House press secretary was quoted, why not give him
a > > ook, Gatza¹s published everyone else, why not him too, he said with
> > isgust.
> > ---
> > ttp://welcometoboogcity.com/
> >
> > eason 5 of d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press
> >
> > CA Galleries, 529 W.20th St., 5th Floor.
> > bet. 10th and 11th avenues) NYC
> >
> > ues. Sept. 25 BlazeVOX Books
> > :00 p.m., free
> >
> > eaturing readings from Joel Chace, Amy King, Ruth Lepson, Douglas > Manson,
> > yle Schlesinger and music from Compass Jazz
> >
> > ---
> > -
> > Best, Geoffrey

> > Geoffrey Gatza
> > ditor & Publisher
> > ----------
> > BlazeVOX [books]
> > ublisher of weird little books
> > ----------
> > [redacted]
> > ttp://www.blazevox.org
> >
> >
> > _____
> > Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! -
> http://mail.aol.com
> >
> >
> >
> > ----------
> > Moody friends. Drama queens. Your life? Nope! - their life, your story.
> > Play Sims Stories at Yahoo! Games.
> >
>
>
>
> _____
> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! -
> http://mail.aol.com
>
>
>
> ----------
> Take the Internet to Go: Yahoo!Go puts the Internet in your pocket: mail, > news, photos & more.
>

Tonight's top picks. What will you watch tonight? Preview the hottest shows on Yahoo! TV.

↑ Index

563. steve d. dalachinsky

Fw: Benefit for Billy Bang THIS WEEKEND!

Tue 25 Sep 2007

Friends of Bang present
We Take Care of Our Own
A Benefit for Billy Bang

3 Phenomenal Bands:
Other Dimensions in Music, Roy Campbell, Daniel Carter, William Parker, Charles Downs Aftermath Band: Ted Daniel, Andrew Bemkey, Todd Nicholson, Newman Taylor-Baker Commitment : Jason Kao Hwang, Sabir Mateen, Henry Warner, William Parker, Zen Matsuura

Sunday, September 30
7 pm

Admission: $25

at Ariane and Alain Kirili's
17 White Street
New York, NY 10013
btw Avenue of the Americas and West Broadway

New York, NY - On August 7, violinist Billy Bang received a much needed hip replacement surgery at Englewood Hospital in Englewood, NJ (thanks to the Jazz Foundation of America for making the procedure possible). Billy is recovering nicely, but he has not been able to work at all for the past few months. He needs to continue to rest and recover for at least another three to four weeks. In an effort to assist him in meeting all of his expenses, his friends have organized a benefit which will include performances by some of the best musicians living in New York.

The benefit will be taking place at the home of sculptor and avantJazz enthusiast Alain Kirili and his wife photographer Ariane Lopez-Huici. Alain Kirili has a history of collaborating with musicians of the avantjazz scene. In fact a Bang solo CD, "Commandment" was recorded during a live performance in Kirili's loft in March of 1997.

Please come by to check out what will no doubt be an amazing night of music, all for the worthy cause of keeping Billy Bang in the black!

#####

↑ Index

564. Ruth Lepson

Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

Tue 25 Sep 2007

---

he IS cunning--he has tried to get 500 centrifuges. he imprisons dissendents. he calls his gvot a democracy but only people approved by the council are even allowed to run. he intimidates minorities. he is a thug. he wants to destroy israel. he uses language in the most slippery way. columbia is known for inviting 'leftists' even if they are dictators, which he is. he had plenty of opportunity to speak at the UN, & to C. Rice, & on 60 Mins. w/out columbia inviting him & giving him a US forum which will reflect well on him in his own country--he will be seen as a powerful world leader who can get people in the US to applaud when he denies the Holocaust.

On 9/25/07 9:53 AM, "Thomas savage" <[redacted]> wrote:

> You may be right, Murat. I watched him last night on the Charlie Rose Show and while he sidestepped the issue of the Holocaust, he said repeatedly that Iran and he wanted to be friends with the people o f all nations. When asked about the purpose of his nuclear program, he insisted again that it was for peaceful purposes. I watched his face very carefully. On this latter point, there seemed to be sincerity emanating from him. Maybe I've just been conned by him. There is no way of knowing any of the truth of this matter without going to Iran. Nevertheless, he was convincing. I can usually tell when our politicians are lying, which is most of the time. If he is more cunning than he appeared, I had no way of telling that. Regards, Tom Savage
>
> Bobbi Lurie <[redacted]> wrote: Murat,
>
> Creepy is the word.
> Thank you for what you write.
>
> Bobbi Lurie
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Murat Nemet-Nejat
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Mon, 24 Sep 2007 5:02 pm
> Subject: Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

Tom,
I watched some of Ahmedinejad's talk at the Mational Press Club. He refused o say that the Holocaust did take place. In my vocabulary this means he is enying it or obfuscating its existence. I must say Ahmedinejad talks like very cheap politician in The United States. In the same talk, in answer to question, he basically denied Israel's right to exist. It was so bad that omeone blinked out his initial response in Persian, which basically was hat "we (Iran) had already made their decisision about the matter." He used very final word for decision "idam," which also means "sentence of capital unishment." When the sound came back, the answer was softened a bit to omething like "why should the Arabs pay for the sins of the Europeans. Of ourse here he is using the lawyerly rhetoric of: "it did not happen, but ven it did why should the Arabs suffer for it."
In actuality, Ahmedinejad looked much creepier that I thought he would.
Ciao,
Murat
On 9/24/07, Jason Quackenbush wrote:

What's the Baraka 9-11 poem you're referring to?

And how do we know that this Ahmedinajad appearance won't just be Kent Johnson in a keffiya?

On Mon, 24 Sep 2007, Thomas savage wrote:

If Ahmedinajad denies the Holocaust, then he is obviously just simply wrong. But American propaganda on all things being suspect, who knows if he ever really said that. Anyway, just as Iraq had no weapons of mass destruction, the government of Iran may be telling the truth when it says that it is developing nuclear power for peaceful uses. Who knows? Anyway, I'm glad someone in NYC outside the UN is giving Mr. Ahmedinajad a forum in which to express himself. Is he really going to read poetry? This must be the first time I've heard of a "world leader" writing poetry since the former head of the Sandinistas read some poetry he'd written on a trip I took to Nicaragua many years ago. Anyway, whatever their mistaken views (a la Baraka and his part of a poem about 9/11), everyone deserves to be heard. Regards, Tom Savage

Bobbi Lurie wrote: And one more suggestion: why not put the U.N. in Venezuela or something?

and please, more importantly, PLEASE read his speeches translated directly from Farsi cause they sound a lot different than the ones he gives to the U.S. directly.

Bobbi Lurie

p.s. too bad i won't be in NYC until next week....well, maybe it's better that way...but please send a synopsis of all of this. i'd really like toknow moreabout it.

-----Original Message-----
From: Geoffrey Gatza
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 11:45 pm
Subject: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

New York City ??home to the United Nations and some of the most ethnically
iverse communities on the planet ??often finds itself in the curious osition of being grudgingly hospitable to some of the world¹s most ontroversial heads of state and loathsome tyrants.

he arrival yesterday of Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, the Iranian president best nown here for criticizing the United States and calling the Holocaust a yth, is the latest example of the diplomatic dance New York has long erformed with international firebrands.

ast week the Police Department denied Iran¹s request to allow Mr. hmadinejad to visit ground zero, but BlazeVOX [books] is allowing him to articipate in a Poetry reading Tuesday. Geoffrey Gatza spoke last night to sympathetic and mostly Iranian audience at a Midtown hotel. ³We are hrilled that President Ahmadinejad will read from his upcoming BlazeVOX ook.²

ony Snow, The White House press secretary was quoted, why not give him a ook, Gatza¹s published everyone else, why not him too, he said with isgust.
----
ttp://welcometoboogcity.com/

eason 5 of d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

CA Galleries, 529 W.20th St., 5th Floor.
bet. 10th and 11th avenues) NYC

ues. Sept. 25 BlazeVOX Books
:00 p.m., free

> eaturing readings from Joel Chace, Amy King, Ruth Lepson, Douglas Manson, > yle Schlesinger and music from Compass Jazz
>
> ----------
> -
> Best, Geoffrey
> Geoffrey Gatza
> ditor & Publisher
> ----------
> BlazeVOX [books]
> ublisher of weird little books
> ----------
> [redacted]
> ttp://www.blazevox.org
>
> _____
> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com
>
> ----------
> Moody friends. Drama queens. Your life? Nope! - their life, your story. Play Sims Stories at Yahoo! Games.
>
> _____
> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com
>
> ----------
> Take the Internet to Go: Yahoo!Go puts the Internet in your pocket: mail, news, photos & more.

↑ Index

565. Ruth Lepson

Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

Tue 25 Sep 2007

---

exactly.

On 9/25/07 11:09 AM, "Murat Nemet-Nejat" <[redacted]> wrote:

Tom,

Do you believe that Ahmedinejad believes there are no gays in Iran? Is he sincerely stupid or is he a lier or something we do not understand. I think the second one.

Perhaps he believes God is almighty and Iran is run by God's laws and the punishment for homosexuality is execution -Idam, the same word he used for Israel.- Since God's laws (and their executions) are ideal and perfect, all homosexuals are executed. Therefore, there are no homosexuals in Iran. Do you want to follow this argument?

You must be aware that Ahmedinejad is following the same argument about Israel. Since the existence of Israel is against God's law -the argument being why should the Arabs pay for Europeans' sins ("if the Holocaust occurred at all")- therefore, Israel does not exist, its mere physical existence requires "execution" of the law. Israel does not exist the way homosexuals do not exist. Do you want to follow this argument also?

The physical human reality -in the sense we understand it- does not seem to be relevant to Ahmedinejad- easily to be executed out. Do you believe in this kind of sincerity?

I am trying hard not to scream and talk about the beady eyed smirk on his face.

Ciao,

Murat

On 9/25/07, Thomas savage <[redacted]> wrote:

You may be right, Murat. I watched him last night on the Charlie Rose Show and while he sidestepped the issue of the Holocaust, he said repeatedly that Iran and he wanted to be friends with the people o f all nations. When asked about the purpose of his nuclear program, he insisted again that it was for peaceful purposes. I watched his face very carefully. On this latter point, there seemed to be sincerity emanating from him. Maybe I've just been conned by him. There is no way of knowing any of the truth of this matter without going to Iran. Nevertheless, he was convincing. I can usually tell when our politicians are lying, which is most of the time. If he is more cunning than he appeared, I had no way of telling that. Regards, Tom Savage

Bobbi Lurie <[redacted]> wrote: Murat,

Creepy is the word.
Thank you for what you write.

Bobbi Lurie

-----Original Message-----
From: Murat Nemet-Nejat
To: [redacted]
Sent: Mon, 24 Sep 2007 5:02 pm
Subject: Re: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

Tom,
I watched some of Ahmedinejad's talk at the Mational Press Club. He refused
o say that the Holocaust did take place. In my vocabulary this means he is enying it or obfuscating its existence. I must say Ahmedinejad talks like very cheap politician in The United States. In the same talk, in answer to question, he basically denied Israel's right to exist. It was so bad that omeone blinked out his initial response in Persian, which basically was hat "we (Iran) had already made their decisision about the matter." He used very final word for decision "idam," which also means "sentence of capital unishment." When the sound came back, the answer was softened a bit to omething like "why should the Arabs pay for the sins of the Europeans. Of ourse here he is using the lawyerly rhetoric of: "it did not happen, but ven it did why should the Arabs suffer for it."
In actuality, Ahmedinejad looked much creepier that I thought he would.
Ciao,
Murat
On 9/24/07, Jason Quackenbush wrote:

What's the Baraka 9-11 poem you're referring to?

And how do we know that this Ahmedinajad appearance won't just be Kent Johnson in a keffiya?

On Mon, 24 Sep 2007, Thomas savage wrote:

If Ahmedinajad denies the Holocaust, then he is obviously just simply wrong. But American propaganda on all things being suspect, who knows if he ever really said that. Anyway, just as Iraq had no weapons of mass destruction, the government of Iran may be telling the truth when it says that it is developing nuclear power for peaceful uses. Who knows? Anyway, I'm glad someone in NYC outside the UN is giving Mr. Ahmedinajad a forum in which to express himself. Is he really going to read poetry? This must be the first time I've heard of a "world leader" writing poetry since the former head of the Sandinistas read some poetry he'd written on a trip I took to Nicaragua many years ago. Anyway, whatever their mistaken views (a la Baraka and his part of a poem about 9/11), everyone deserves to be heard. Regards, Tom Savage

Bobbi Lurie wrote: And one more suggestion: why not put the U.N. in Venezuela or something?

and please, more importantly, PLEASE read his speeches translated directly from Farsi cause they sound a lot different than the ones he gives
to the U.S. directly.

Bobbi Lurie

p.s. too bad i won't be in NYC until next week....well, maybe it's better that way...but please send a synopsis of all of this. i'd really like
toknow moreabout it.

-----Original Message-----
From: Geoffrey Gatza
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sun, 23 Sep 2007 11:45 pm
Subject: Ahmadinejad to read at BlazeVOX [books] in NYC Sept 25

New York City ??home to the United Nations and some of the most ethnically
iverse communities on the planet ??often finds itself in the curious osition of being grudgingly hospitable to some of the world¹s most ontroversial heads of state and loathsome tyrants.

he arrival yesterday of Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, the Iranian president best nown here for criticizing the United States and calling the Holocaust a yth, is the latest example of the diplomatic dance New York has long erformed with international firebrands.

ast week the Police Department denied Iran¹s request to allow Mr.
hmadinejad to visit ground zero, but BlazeVOX [books] is allowing him to articipate in a Poetry reading Tuesday. Geoffrey Gatza spoke last night
to sympathetic and mostly Iranian audience at a Midtown hotel. ³We are hrilled that President Ahmadinejad will read from his upcoming BlazeVOX
ook.²

ony Snow, The White House press secretary was quoted, why not give him a ook, Gatza¹s published everyone else, why not him too, he said with isgust.
---
ttp://welcometoboogcity.com/

eason 5 of d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

CA Galleries, 529 W.20th St., 5th Floor.
bet. 10th and 11th avenues) NYC

ues. Sept. 25 BlazeVOX Books
:00 p.m., free

eaturing readings from Joel Chace, Amy King, Ruth Lepson, Douglas
Manson,
yle Schlesinger and music from Compass Jazz

-
Best, Geoffrey
Geoffrey Gatza
ditor & Publisher

BlazeVOX [books]
ublisher of weird little books

[redacted]
ttp://www.blazevox.org

Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! -
http://mail.aol.com

Moody friends. Drama queens. Your life? Nope! - their life, your story.

> Play Sims Stories at Yahoo! Games.
>
> _____
> Email and AIM finally together. You've gotta check out free AOL Mail! - http://mail.aol.com
>
> ----------
> Take the Internet to Go: Yahoo!Go puts the Internet in your pocket: mail, news, photos & more.

↑ Index

566. amy king

Reminder -- Tonight, You're Invited

Tue 25 Sep 2007

---

d.a levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

Tuesday, 25 Sep 2007 | 6 P.M.

ACA Galleries
529 W.20th St. , 5th Flr.
(bet. 10th and 11th avenues)
NYC

Tues. Sept. 25
BlazeVOX Books
(Kenmore , N.Y.)

Featuring readings from

Joel Chace
Amy King
Ruth Lepson
Douglas Manson
Kyle Schlesinger
Michael Ruby
Ryan Daley
Meghan Punschke

and music from
Compass Jazz

Oct. 30 Talisman House (Jersey City , N.J.)
Nov. 27 Big Game Books (Washington , D.C.)
Dec. 18 Six NYC Presses: Belladonna Books, Cy Gist Press, Futurepoem Books, Kitchen Press, Litmus Press/Aufgabe, Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs

The season runs through July and will also feature:
Abraham Lincoln (Ashland , Ore.)
Instance Press (Boulder, Co.; New York City ; Richmond , Va.)
Outside Voices (Charlottesville , Va.)
Effing Press (Austin , Texas)
Ixnay Press (Philadelphia)
and more...

http://www.amyking.org/events/56/

Reviews of I'M THE MAN WHO LOVES YOU

Matt Hart / Coldfront Magazine
http://reviews.coldfrontmag.com/2007/06/im_the_man_who_.html

Mark Lamoureux / BOOG City
http://welcometoboogcity.com/boogpdfs/bc43.pdf

Nick Piombino / fait accompli
http://nickpiombino.blogspot.com/2007_03_18_archive.html

Thomas Fink / Galatea Resurrects
http://galatearesurrection6.blogspot.com/2007/05/im-man-who-loves-you-by-amy-king.html

~

Recent Review of ANTIDOTES FOR AN ALIBI

Adam Fieled / Stoning the Devil
http://adamfieled.blogspot.com/2007/05/book-review-amy-king-antidote-for-alibi.html

~

What To Wear During An Orange Alert?
http://wearduringorangealert.blogspot.com/2007/07/writers-corner_12.html

~

http://www.amyking.org/blog

Take the Internet to Go: Yahoo!Go puts the Internet in your pocket: mail, news, photos & more.

↑ Index

567. Jim Andrews
Re: Hypertext/ Html - Text Recomendations
Tue 25 Sep 2007

> storyspace is a little more complex.
> you can link words to other words, for example,
