>> The New Busy is not the old busy. Search, chat and e-mail from your inbox.
>>
>> http://www.windowslive.com/campaign/thenewbusy?
ocid=PID28326::T:WLMTAGL:ON:WL:en-US:WM_HMP:042010_3
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>
>
>
>
>--
>www.littleredleaves.com
>www.littleredleavesjournal.blogspot.com
>
>
>
>
>
>

Tyrone Williams

↑ Index

339. steve russell
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Tue 27 Jul 2010

He donated $$$ to Rilke & Trakl. Pretty cool.
& impressed B. Russell.

& ended with language games ... becoming less the positivist. No, giving both thumbs down on his early work.

His rep is still significant in the humanities (whether that means anything ??? who's to say...).

_____
From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Tue, July 27, 2010 2:11:27 PM
Subject: Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"

Wittgenstein is of much more interest to artists and possibly philosophers than he is to logicians and mathematicians. He didn't even understand Godel's work, thought that the subject matter of Godel's work was not amenable to logic, thought that because it involved the self-referential that it was as inevitably flawed as much of the rest of the logic involving self-reference. He read the most significant work in mathematical logic of his day and dismissed it as nonsense.

It seems he didn't think we could say much of real value about most interersting things. So he didn't really go for it the way Godel did.

Yu gotta at least go for it.

Wittgenstein went for it as a writer, as a kind of philosophical poet. Not as a logician.

He was a rich guy who gave it all away. That's pretty cool. But he was insignificant and even regressive as a logician. He missed the big boat of his time, the boat that Godel 'started'. That grew into Turing's boat and has sailed into now as the entirety of computing and all that has meant in so many fields.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

340. richard owens
Re: 2010 Subito Press Book Competition
Tue 27 Jul 2010

CHRIS &C:

tho i find myself packing boxes, parenting, copying bks before bouncing 600 miles from Bflo, etc -- i'm not ready to duck out of this conversation b/c i see it as one worth putting pressure on.

that sd, Chris, i need to take issue with how astoundingly abusive, aggressive and utterly patronizing the rhetorical construction of your last few messages were (i.e. "shit boys", "evangelical", "insincere", "that cracks me up", the tacit suggestion that i started this conversation to draw attention to DTC, etc). if we roll _back_ thru the conversation, my initial objection was to two things: 1) contests (and the _very_ particular view of poetry and, by extension, cultural production that the logic of contests presupposes and promotes); and 2) the centrality the language of submission enjoys within the poetry industry. nor was i using Noah's Subito msg to the list as a "staging ground" for some absurdly quixotic campaign to reconstruct the poetry industry by way of meatheaded brute force (which is what, again a subtle but nonetheless hyper-aggressive way, seem to suggest). rather, seeing a mid-career poet with recognition and some measure of influence, however great or small, announce a contest that called for reading fees simply struck me as wrong as something worth responding to -- and my initial response was never intended to foreclose on considering problems contest and prize culture might be articulated with.

Chris, i find myself sorely disappointed and saddened here by yr intervention in this conversation because, looking back across the full range of your messages, it's still unclear precisely why you intervened in the first place --- to extend the analysis, to defend contest culture, to discourage action, to warn against absolute statements, to publicly deliver a smack down by way of a certain critical politesse? i mean, aside from critiquing the logic of my (tactical hence provisional) position, what are you offering here?

when i sd no compromise i meant, quite simply, a total disavowal of contest culture, something which, if i was unclear, entails dissuading students from entering contests and questioning the logic of competition in the classroom, refusing to participate in contests yourself, questioning the logic of prize culture when solicitations for reading fees circulate. & i don't see any of this as so distracting or time consuming that it draws us away from deeper or more pressing concerns (i.e. the move toward the privatization of universities David points out or the linkages between university moneys and destructive corporate practices, interests, etc). opposing contest culture would also involve, as i sd in a previous msg, putting pressure on the publishers and institutions we admire to find alternate funding models and participate in practices that promote cooperation rather than competition. so, if we're considering Beyond Baroque, as Catherine has, or Omnidawn, which publishes Tyrone and which you pointed to earlier, i see nothing wrong with appealing to these publishers and institutions to put an end to contests that call for reading fees. here, engagement by way of appeal seems a far more meaningful way of _supporting_ these institutions than simply buying books from or donating money to them. and i suspect with a carefully constructed, well-measured letter of appeal signed by a wide range of poets, important cultural institutions like Beyond Baroque and publishers like Omnidawn might rethink these practices -- and, as i say, in turn, i shld hope that my own compromised or complicit practices are called into question, brought to my attention, etc.

out ... rich ...

.....richard owens
810 richmond ave
buffalo NY 14222-1167

damn the caesars, the journal damn the caesars, the blog

--- On Mon, 7/26/10, Little Red Leaves <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Little Red Leaves <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: 2010 Subito Press Book Competition
To: [redacted]
Date: Monday, July 26, 2010, 10:37 PM

Dear Rich--At this distance, here's what I know of your public presence in the past week: a massive launch from DTC/Punch Press (a piece of mail for which I'm incredibly grateful--holy shit the Marianne Morris poem!) & your intervention here. The first of these (the launch) is a tactic that very successfully addresses the concerns you want to address & offers one of the alternative models that Tyrone asked you to speak to. The second, as tactic, is thus far just a random belligerence, as far as I can tell, even though I understand that you & some others here don't think so. At least in its basic spirit anyhow.

I actually need to duck out of this thread for awhile & get some work done before the semester starts back up. Desperately trying to get back to writing a longer thing on Myung Mi Kim & Rachel Blau Duplessis--two poets (among many) whose work would be virtually stranded by the action you call for, unless I've somehow misunderstood your call. If I have misunderstood it, then please clarify--are you asking us to walk away from any press who runs a contest or charges a reading fee (taking w/us our money, our work, our reviews, our venues, etc)? I mean, in addition to listserv drive-by's, what's to be done that isn't already being done? (I'm really asking, here. If I'm missing what the action is, I'd like someone to clarify.)

I also want to ask you (& David--hi David) to seriously revisit the question of whether this type of absolutism can really be practiced from within the funded halls of a PhD program, while collecting a paycheck for teaching undergraduate students who are largely going into hock to pay for their ticket for that ride. (I know it isn't making you rich, but come on.) I fully understand your "top-down" theory about contests (that institutional funding--in the form of a grant for a press (or even a fellowship, right?)--is less questionable than the contest model because it supposedly doesn't prey on vulnerable writers), but honestly: it's UB's listserv & UB's dime you're posting on. I'm being blunt (and maybe even a bit reductive) here NOT because I think you should be ashamed of yourselves for accepting that funding & using it in your small press activities--I think the oppositein fact--but your call to action (or the way you've chosen to articulate it? here & in David's blog post) starts to seem not a little evangelical & even insincere. Professionalization in the arts is exactly what you're wanting to confront, right (using a refusal of contest-model funding particularly for small presses as the staging ground)? Shit guys: analyze, then. & proceed w/caution before moving into your tactical phase.

As someone you & David have both published & as someone who's published both of you, I need you (both) to know I'm saying this out of affection, respect & concern. (I hope it's not necessary to say it, but in case it is--I wouldn't have joined in here if that weren't true.) There are a number of other things to resist or struggle to complicate, in addition to capital, that mingle with our thing: a model for community building that's based in haphazard antagonism (largely towards, I begin to fear, affiliation) comes to mind, for a start. That's not to say you don't have my support in doing the work of problematizing capital, but maybe we can multi-task?

Yours,
CJ Martin

On Mon, Jul 26, 2010 at 2:23 PM, Catherine Daly <[redacted]>wrote:

> Sad news, Beyond Baroque is currently throwing its first contest.
>
> http://www.beyondbaroque.org/news.html
>
> <http://www.beyondbaroque.org/news.html>So here we have an independent cultural institution of long standing that has $1 rent, a mostly volunteer staff, and trustees/board members who are not donors, not effectively fundraising and grant writing except from government -- although it is possible that they are refusing to apply for funds from Readers Digest or

> the Irvine Foundation, etc. etc. -- that also refuses to make money from workshops (they are famous for offering free showers and workshops both! -- but they could charge for some classes like the Poetry Project does), the bookstore (by doing things like not asking local presses for donations of remaindered books or local poets for donations of used books; by not selling > books online; by not looking up the value of some of the rare first editions > that linger on the shelves), the archive, the art gallery, the readings/performances themselves, relationships with other arts institutions, or the press (by not listing all of the books in print on Amazon; by having broken paypal links on the site -- they are at SPD).
>
> Nope, they're having a contest.
>
> --
> All best,
> Catherine Daly
> [redacted]

--
www.littleredleaves.com
www.littleredleavesjournal.blogspot.com

↑ Index

341. Rob McLennan

new from above/ground press: Marilyn Irwin's for when you pick daisies

Tue 27 Jul 2010

humidex

i am drunk off your scent steam lingers

august mist bee sting bug itch

sparks stream from cigarettes casualties of war fuse into fire escape

shift of sand sift feather breath kiss whispers expose soap scum scars freckles there that curve like pisces

for when you pick daisies Marilyn Irwin
$4

published in Ottawa by above/ground press in an edition of 200 copies, July 2010
a/g subscribers receive a complimentary copy
to order, send cheques (add $1 for postage; outside Canada, $2) c/o rob mclennan, 858 Somerset Street West, main floor, Ottawa ON K1R 6R7

Originally published in a private edition by the author in an edition of 22 copies for a night above/ground poetry reading (with poets Cameron Anstee and Marcus McCann), lovingly hosted by rob mclennan at the Carleton Tavern, Ottawa, Ontario on July 16, 2010. A recent graduate of the Winter 2010 edition of rob mclennans seasonal poetry workshops and forthcoming graduate of Algonquins Creative Writing program, Marilyn Irwin can be seen (mostly) and heard (less) in and around the multi-faceted poetry scene of Ottawa.

http://abovegroundpress.blogspot.com/2010/07/new-from-aboveground-press-marilyn.html

-- writer/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...poetry - wild horses (U of Alberta) ...2nd novel - missing persons www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

342. David Seaman
Re: 2010 Subito Press Book Competition
Tue 27 Jul 2010

Important message first: It takes about 3 hours for a jalapeno burn to subside.

Ok, for your program effort, just do it. There is no reward for our work.

Really, as a 40 plus year professor, I can say this is the ... way to confusion and and depression. Just try to work for your best interests.

This year my only reward as a teacher was a letter from a parent. Otherwise, the salary is being reduced (University of Georgia System) and even the parking fee is going up.

All we have is each other.

David ï»¿

David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html

Follow my Twitter poetry at dseaman40

YouTube video of my Venice Biennale poem:
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JQ5bOuJBN_k

On 27 Jul, 2010,at 01:31 PM, David Hadbawnik <[redacted]> wrote:

> p.s. -- with regards to the question of higher education
>
> i came to the decision to apply to an MFA program while auditing tom clark's grad class at new college, frustrated by my inability to keep up with the work due to my two part-time gigs. i considered going to new college -- bullet dodged there! -- and wound up at texas state because they offered me the best deal. purely mercenary. no apologies. there were certain specific things i wanted to study and work on in my poetry, and the stubborn midwestern boy in me did not see the point of going into debt to do that. while there, there were things i was unhappy with and i spoke up about them, often to the chagrin of tom and other higher-ups.
>
> the phd is a different beast, as you know. nevertheless, ub offered me a good deal, again, and i felt that the blue state public university system would be more congenial to my own sensibilities and beliefs and ability to impact things through action. so i am the union rep for the department and i'm pretty active in the various ways open to grad students. we are struggling with not only budget cuts and a devastated state revenue, but the administration's proposed response to that, which is to essentially REMOVE u.b. from the SUNY system -- privatize it, and with that a free hand in raising tuition for already strapped students.
>
> and, as with others who come to the poetics program, i felt that here would be a vital place for my press and poetry to grow. what i'm saying is that this is an exchange. i have no illusions about that. i'm here to get certain things, i'm offering my energy and labor, i'm trying to make it a worthwhile encounter for my students. i look at rich owens and his BALLADS project, e.g., [not to mention punch press which has already been covered previously] and i see a valuable roadmap for how i want to do this. that is, already having certain poetic concerns, he's grounded those in careful study of theory and primary texts which has helped that project flower into something which, i'm not embarrassed nor hesitant to say, will prove to be some of the more interesting work being done at this time.

that's why I'M here and i wouldn't be here if i didn't believe that, flawed though it may be, the higher ed. system didn't have something of value to offer and i, through it, something of value to offer in return.

sincerely,

d

On Tue, Jul 27, 2010 at 11:21 AM, David Hadbawnik <[redacted]>wrote:

hello, cj!

extreme, yes. evangelical? god, i hope not. insincere? i see how it could seem so, but again, no.

i feel like something IS being misunderstood here, to a certain extent. perhaps on both sides, i dunno. my feeling is not that getting top-down funding of any sort -- be that institutional or sliding-scale subscription, or outright calls for donations from rich friends or relatives -- is pure as the driven snow. far from it. but if i am able to channel funds from a certain source and put that to the service of printing poems and b-sides and chaps, meanwhile throwing business to local printers and places like boxcar press, i do feel like that's categorically different than the contest model, which is based on growth (always got to build up and get more entries), and as has already been said, soliciting funds from hundreds of poets who do not have a chance at winning and are not going to get a full or fair read. i just do.

but as i state in my blog post, i started habenicht in 2000. at that time i worked various part-time jobs and everything came from my own dime. i created a budget and determined this is how much i can spend on that book, and i hustled to sell enough books to break even, more or less. now that i've cut my teeth doing that, the funding i receive to help with kadar koli allows me to do a SLIGHTLY larger journal, with a SLIGHTLY larger print run. i am about to take two boxes to the post office and this will go out entirely from my pocket. but here, i feel like, we're getting into gradations of purity, which was not the point at all.

to me, the point is simply to LOOK AROUND at the landscape and determine what is acceptable to you or not, as a poet, as a publisher, as a person involved with poetry at whatever level. the reason the intervention took place here (and on my blog) is that these are (virtual) spaces that such people frequent. it's not a drive-by just meant to stir things up. in the sense of spurring this discussion, which has already been both passionate and nuanced without devolving into mindless flaming, it's already been successful in my book. it has certainly made me rethink some of my heated rhetoric and extreme views -- though i doubt that for me personally those views will change, i understand better where folks are coming from -- and hopefully for others it's done the same. but again, look around and decide this is that i want from the poetry publishing world, this is what i don't want. and how can i change that? what could be done differently? the remarkable success of dos press in concert with LRL would certainly seem to be a model that i find admirable.

in that sense i feel like we are trying to multitask, though perhaps in a different sense than you mean -- as alongside these discussions are other discussions and i am constantly thinking about the next phase of what all this means in terms of action...

sincerely,

david

On Mon, Jul 26, 2010 at 10:37 PM, Little Red Leaves <
[redacted]> wrote:

*Dear Rich--At this distance, here's what I know of your public presence in the past week: a massive launch from DTC/Punch Press (a piece of mail for which I'm incredibly grateful--holy shit the Marianne Morris poem!) & your* *intervention here. The first of these (the launch) is a tactic that very successfully addresses the concerns you want to address & offers one of the* alternative models that Tyrone asked you to speak to. The second, as tactic, is thus far just a random belligerence, as far as I can tell, even though I understand that you & some others here don't think so. At least in its basic spirit anyhow.

*I actually need to duck out of this thread for awhile & get some work done before the semester starts back up. Desperately trying to get back to writing a longer thing on Myung Mi Kim & Rachel Blau Duplessis--two poets (among many) whose work would be virtually stranded by the action you call for, unless I've somehow misunderstood your call. If I have misunderstood it, then please clarify--are you asking us to walk away from any press who* runs a contest or charges a reading fee (taking w/us our money, our work, our reviews, our venues, etc)? I mean, in addition to listserv drive-by's, what's to be done that isn't already being done? (I'm really asking, here.

*If I'm missing what the action is, I'd like someone to clarify.)*

*I also want to ask you (& David--hi David) to seriously revisit the question of whether this type of absolutism can really be practiced from within the funded halls of a PhD program, while collecting a paycheck for teaching undergraduate students who are largely going into hock to pay for their ticket for that ride. (I know it isn't making you rich, but come on.) I fully understand your "top-down" theory about contests (that institutional funding--in the form of a grant for a press (or even a fellowship, right?)--is less questionable than the contest model because it supposedly doesn't prey on vulnerable writers), but honestly: it's UB's listserv & UB's dime you're posting on. I'm being blunt (and maybe even a bit reductive) here NOT because I think you should be ashamed of yourselves for accepting that funding & using it in your small press activities--I think the oppositein fact--but your call to action (or the way you've chosen to articulate it? here & in David's blog post) starts to seem not a little evangelical & even insincere. Professionalization in the arts is exactly what you're wanting to confront, right (using a refusal of contest-model funding particularly for small presses as the staging ground)? Shit guys: analyze, then. & proceed w/caution before moving into your tactical phase.*

As someone you & David have both published & as someone who's published both of you, I need you (both) to know I'm saying this out of affection, respect & concern. (I hope it's not necessary to say it, but in case it is--I wouldn't have joined in here if that weren't true.) There are a number of other things to resist or struggle to complicate, in addition to capital, that mingle with our thing: a model for community building that's based in haphazard antagonism (largely towards, I begin to fear, affiliation) comes to mind, for a start. That's not to say you don't have my support in doing the work of problematizing capital, but maybe we can multi-task?

Yours,
CJ Martin

On Mon, Jul 26, 2010 at 2:23 PM, Catherine Daly <[redacted]
wrote:

Sad news, Beyond Baroque is currently throwing its first contest.

http://www.beyondbaroque.org/news.html

<http://www.beyondbaroque.org/news.html>So here we have an independent cultural institution of long standing that has $1 rent, a mostly volunteer staff, and trustees/board members who are not donors, not effectively fundraising and grant writing except from government -- although it is possible that they are refusing to apply for funds from Readers Digest or the Irvine Foundation, etc. etc. -- that also refuses to make money from workshops (they are famous for offering free showers and workshops both! -- but they could charge for some classes like the Poetry Project does), the bookstore (by doing things like not asking local presses for donations of remaindered books or local poets for donations of used books; by not selling books online; by not looking up the value of some of the rare first editions that linger on the shelves), the archive, the art gallery, the readings/performances themselves, relationships with other arts institutions, or the press (by not listing all of the books in print on Amazon; by having broken paypal links on the site -- they are at SPD).

Nope, they're having a contest.

--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

guidelines

--
www.littleredleaves.com
www.littleredleavesjournal.blogspot.com

↑ Index

343. David Chirot
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Wed 28 Jul 2010

---

a little side note: (re Grenier/Trakl/Wittgenstein)

Robert Grenier early in his writing life translated a few (four or more) poems of Trakl's for an anthology--

Grenier has by some been considered as a mystic; by far his greatest philosophical interest/influence is Heidegger--

In "I HATE SPEECH"--One might consider the context, the time period--

on the one hand, the speech driven poetics of Projective Verse and many aspectsof Black Mountain, of the new York School-- as well as it being a time period swamped in SPEECHES-- coming from al directions and all media--

living and teaching in Franconia, NH, Grenier, while doing his daily running as well as sitting and listeing intently for hours to the sound of water dripping in a cistern--and to recordings of Pygmy music & sounds--

one finds Grenier developing his ear ever more acutely attuned to the smallest particles of both speech as SOUND and as sign-- the variety of ways in which for years his works have been published/presented, with an emphasis on the physical/visual/sonic structure literally and literarily of the Book-- taking it apart, putting it back togther in another from--whether as huge poster as la M'ASS AVE or box as in SENTENCES and also the three parts black box encased series of visual/verbl poems put out by by O Books ("Minnestoa" etc--)--and the varying sizes and shapes of other tests-- culminating in the huge serial works done in "lawyer's office "color markers--

in a Talk given at the Robert frost Room at Franconia--published in the late 90's--(forgive mne for a moment here the editor/publisher escapes me--wil come back: Stephen Dignazio--)--

Grenier notes that an interesting question to investigate is the conjunction between among, "only the imagination is real" of WCW's Spring and All and the "no ideas but in things/Mr" of Paterson-- to think on /with these as a both/and rather than the usual "either/or"--

to find ways in which there is an identification of the word and thing, then the letter and thing--so that the forming of a letter itself handwritten in time--is an emergence/appearance of sound & image simulateneously--at the same time as they are both physical things in action--

Olson wanted the citizen to go faster, faster--so that one thing follows on another--the action of the poem essaying to "pull even, " equal, that is, to the real itself"--with the action--

no more of the Aristotelian "after the fact" of writing following the action, behind it-- but--drawing even, so that action/writing take place as nearly as possible simultaenously--

Rimbaud already in the "Lettres du voyant" to Demeny and izambard in 1870--had written of the poetry of the Future "preceding the action"

which i have written on as being carried out literally/literarily by Rimbaud in that his writings precede in their descriptions, images, words--the actions which he began to live out after he stopped writing--

how many of his letters when no longer a poet carry the very images he has written of years earlier as Poetry & Prose Poetry----and now writes simply as bald description factual documents--

Rimbaud also wrote of the poet of the Future (also greatly effected by the total ful emancipation of Women)--as being "not unlike the Greek"-- one notes in Grenier's studies of Heidegger the many essays re Greek thought and poetry --

the trajectory of Grenier , his works, for some long time black listed by his former colleagues in the 'Language-centered" writing "community"--

has been one of far more radically "outside" work & life than those of his peers, in formal and philosophical, sonic/visual/visceral work--

Grenier's long involvements with the texts of the early Stein (which he was teaching at Franconia--as the "Yale Stein" became available)--as well as his studies singly, as teacher and in a reading group including Leslie Scalapino--in Whitman--the versionsof Leaves of Grass culminating esp in The Deathbed Edition--link him with the early modernism of WCW and the early Stein--as wel as the 19th century Whitman--whose work was not a "once and for all " "set in stone" text but an ongoing series of versions, alterations, rearrangements, additions, subtractions, changes in names, spellings, grammar, syntax--

(SERIES after al is the title of a Grenier book)--

i wd agree with many that MOBY DICK is a postmodernist so to speak text --and i wd include the work of E A Poe as well--

D H Lawrence in his STUDIES IN CLASSIC AMERICAN LITERATURE (which pre-dates WCW's In the American Grain)--notes a number of times that the Americans have relegated their classic works, in the "old American art speech"--to the nursery--"adventure stories, : :detective tales," science-fictions stories," etc etc--the Classic American texts dealt with issues, ideas, images, which the 20th century American, according to Lawrence, has to banish--to the nursery!--

"the pure products of America go crazy" as WCW noted--

"out there"--("the figure of Outward")--though, one might say, is the as yet hidden in plain site/sight/cite "classic american" outsider/avant-garde postmodern etc--

("where the 'outyard" is the 'backyard' to paraphrase from Grenier's little work on Narrative for the old Olson series--)

"The blank and ruin we see in Nature may be within our own eye"--(R W Emerson) "The most beautiful world is a heap of rubble tossed down in confusion/at random"--Heraclitus

"To shut the eyes is travel"--Emily Dickinson
"My voice goes after/what my eyes can't reach"--Walter Whitman

"Writing is time travel"--W S Burroughs
"It is a science-fiction film set in the past"--Federico Fellini, on his SATYRICON-

↑ Index

344. David Baratier
Re: on poetry contests
Wed 28 Jul 2010

We have a contest as one of many measures to distribute books, these are first books by people who become somewhat famous in terms of poetry. But, its poetry, and of course, this fame is limited. As the authors become more famous we sell more books. I feel no guilt about the authors we have given accolades to, some of the better known names we published first collections and given large audience to have included---

Joshua Cory

Gordon Massman

Amy King

Will Alexander

Julie Otten

Rodney Koeneke

Christopher Arigo

Sophia Starnes

Steve Davenport

Chris Stroffolino

Tony Gloggler

Joshua McKinney

Mary Weems

Dan Zimmerman

that is who comes to mind, there are more, nearly all sold out and in others hands. What use is poetry but to be read?

Be well

David Baratier, Editor

Pavement Saw Press
321 Empire Street
Montpelier OH 43543
http://pavementsaw.org

Subscribe to our e-mail listserv at http://pavementsaw.org/list/?p=subscribe&id

↑ Index

345. Jason Quackenbush
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Wed 28 Jul 2010

Hey Murat, thanks for the excellent counterpoint.

> "6.41 The sense of the world must lie outside the world. In the world everything is as it is and happens as it does happen. In it there is no value -- and if there were, it would be of no value."
>
> Do you not see the circularity of Wittgenstein's argument? While he pays lip service to by being "sympathetic" to ethical impulses, he condescends to it and relegates it to subservient category. If he can not talk "meaningfully" about something, then he does not talk about it. Therefore, that thing becomes invisible: "he didn't write about it because he couldn't." On a grand scale, is this argument any different from the drunkard who looks for > the key under the light because that's where the light is, not necessarily where the key is?

I don't see circularity, but rather the elucidation of a tautology. But I'm not terribly inclined to defend the argument of the tractatus, as I don't think it's particularly useful except as an example of where he was coming from in his later more compelling world. There are huge flaws in the tractatus, my favorite being the summation of Prop. 7 (the famous "whereof we cannot speak, therof we must remain silent") given by Frank Ramsey's translation "You can't say what you can't say and you can't whistle it either."

To the drunk looking for his keys analogy, I think there's a bit of that, and I think some of it is even intentional. That sort of uselessness of the actual arguments is I think part of what he had in mind in saying that the tractatus was meant to be a ladder that you could kick away once you climbed to the top.

> Wittgenstein never explores or goes after that "outside" world ("the sense of the world"). His thinking concerns itself only with what "as it is and happens as it does happen."

On the contrary, I think he doesn't think that stuff matters at all. In fact in his journals and in the brown books, he's almost dismissive of that part of experience as stuff that can be through empirical science. It just isn't the proper object of philosophy to deal with that stuff. It's empirical and there are other ways of thinking about it that are more fruitful.

> Here I think an analysis of syntax is important -specifically the English syntax, composed of subject and predicate- is important. That is the syntax for an empirical view of the world -where things either happen (are true) or don't happen (are not true). Wittgeinstein accepts this implicitly as the paradigm, as far as I can tell, with defending why.

well, he's talking about propositions, which by definition are sentences that can be true or false. Much of what precedes the quoted section deals with what propositions are, how they work, how they relate to facts, what facts are etc. And again, i think this is a fair criticism because this notion of the proposition as a thing at all arises from from Russell and Whiteheads elucidation of the predicate calculus in The Principals of Mathematics. That said, I'm not entirely sure I understand what the distinction you're drawing is, but I do think that we have lots of sentences in English which aren't propositions at all, and I think that's part of what the tractatus and in particular the first part of Philosophical investigations is trying to get at: that is, there are these parts of the world we can talk about where the notions of truth and falsity apply, and there's this other part which is more loose but that allows for a wider range of meaning than mere propositions do, and there is a wider part of that that carries neither truth value nor meaning and in that there are a wide variety of kinds of meaninglessness, nonsense, and senselessness. I don't think wittgenstein would necessarily disagree with you that it's a mistake to consider the subject predicate syntax as somehow decisive about the world, in fact I think the first 100 or so remarks of Philosophical Investigations are precisely an attack on that kind of view.

> Now, instead, consider a syntactical structure replete with conjunctive > forms (a syntax of possibilities, of potential thought) -as the agglutinative Turkish syntax is, which records thought in the process of > *emerging (once again, see Eda Anthology), not as true or false but as* > process, then a philosophical view of such a world would be totally different -pre-analytic, much more inclusive, in which a "subject-predicate"
> construction is only a part.
>
> "If there is a value which is of value, it must lie outside all happening
> and being-so. For all happening and being-so is accidental.
> What makes it non-accidental cannot lie in the world, for otherwise this > would again be accidental.
>
> It must lie outside the world."
>
> Here Wittgenstein is practicing, is following Hume's radical skepticism
> about the "innate logic" of reality to which the continental philosophy
> (from Spinoza to Kant, etc.) is a counterpoint.

Here I think you're misreading. part of this, tho, is that he's defined "the world" early on as a particularly limited sort of thing. "The world is everything that is the case." again, this is part of what he rejects later in his earlier thinking, and I don't think even he would defend it. But it isn't precisely a recitation of the is/ought problem per se, but rather I think a more nuanced assertion about the nature of "oughts" themselves. It's not a skeptical idea about moral facts, or at least its not just that, but rather a statement about whether we're able to say meaningful things about moral facts. Again, even the phrase "moral facts" he'd probably disavow as not meaninful in someway, but I think the basic form of what he'd say is "well, if you want to be a radical skeptic, go ahead, but the statement that there are not moral facts is just as meaningless as the statement that there are moral facts. You're still stuck in the flybottle if you're even trying to have that conversation. You'll get nowhere, best to come at it from a different angle."

Also, there's an important aspect to all this that the section I quoted doesn't mention, and that's the notion (most recently argued for by Cora Diamond I believe) that while wittgenstein thought that there were all sorts of things that couldn't be said, you could still use language to show the things that you can't talk about. Sadly, Wittgenstein never addresses CS Peirce directly in the surviving nachlass, although I'm fairly certain he must have grappled with him at some point because Frank Ramsey thought that there was in pragmatism a way out of the box the tractatus seems to draw, and there's certainly something like James and Peirce style pragmatism in his thinking that shows up by the time he dictated the brown book, and it's hard for me to see his later conception of "meaning as use" as anything other than a kind of pragmatism, albeit not the kind that Richard Rorty thought it was.

My point here again though is that what he was grappling with was a theory of language that seemed to constantly shut down any attempts to say things about a certain widely experienced and hugely important aspect of human life, and I think he saw it in a nearly tragic light, which is why I think he was so happy to describe the attribution of meaning to certain kinds of nonsense as "bewitchment by language." because it seems like you should be able to talk about these things, and we feel like when we're talking about them that we're saying meaningful things, but it's only when we reflect on what that might really mean that we have to realize that we have know way of knowing whether what we've said communicates what we hoped or not. As such, this becomes a much more epistemological than metaphysical position, and indeed I think that's how he ended up approaching the issue.

> "6.42 Hence also there can be no ethical propositions."
>
> Here one can see W's circular thinking in practice.

Again, it's important to note that he's talking about propositions and not sentences, or even more importantly signs. I think he would be ok with the idea of ethical signifiers.

> "Propositions cannot express anything higher."
>
> Yes, this is true if the only possible or valid linguistic structure

> having > any hold to reality consisted of the propositions, that is to say, > subject-predicate structure.
>
> This is a priori assumption on W's part having > to do, as far as I can see, very little connection to reality, the > state
> state in which language function. Subject=predicate is a mere > abstraction > from it.
>
I don't see how it you can have sentence that is true or false without it referring to an object and then predicating some quality to the object. You don't need subject-predicate word order to get that, but if you could give me an example of a statement that is capable of being true or false without having some kind of predicate, I might be able to grasp what you're getting at. To me, the fact that propositions contain predicates seems tautological.

>
> "6.43 If good or bad willing changes the world, it can only change the > limits of the world, not the facts; not the things that can be > expressed in > language."
>
> It seems to me wrong. If you change the limits of language (more > specifically of a language, that's why the importance of > translation), you > are changing what can be said in it. As I said, here lies the crucial > importance of translation and Benjamin's thought about it -on > disintegration, fragmentation, etc.
but when he's talking about the limits of language he means the limits of language, not the limits of a language. he's talking about what can and can't be talked about, full stop, not some concept that might be expressable in one language but difficult to express in another. He's talking about what it means for a sentence to have meaning at all, not whether it is understood as intended. And I think part of the big reason that Benjamin is unsatisfying to me on that score is that he relies so heavily on intention toward signified objects, and where that goes I follow wittgenstein into a severe skepticism about that sort of semiotic notion. it's not at all clear what such an object is, and if I recall correctly Benjamin uses various words for "bread" in different languages as an example. Well ok, bread is pain is brot is pan is lechem is naan is pita is tortilla is chapati is ... ? which do you intend? some ideal form of bread in the mind of god? a privately held abstraction that we take on faith is in someway similar to the private object in the mind of another party to the conversation? really? but what if I sit down at the table and choke a bit and say "bread!" do i really intend that same thing even tho my meaning is similar? no, not really, i mean, I'm choking, give me bread so i can try to swallow. same word. same object in the real world i'd signify by saying "this bread is excellent." completely different meaning. And meaning is what Wittgenstein is concerned with.

> "In brief, the world must thereby become quite another, it must so to speak
> wax or wane as a whole.
>
> The world of the happy is quite another than that of the unhappy."
>
> W. ignores the consequences of what he is saying here.

On the contrary, I think he's very conscious of them. I'm not sure what you mean he ignores them?

> "6.44 Not how the world is, is the mystical, but that it is."
>
> This sentence remind me of Einstein's "God does not play dice with the > universe." Cute, what it does not enter Einstein's thoughts in physics > (unless I misunderstand him).
>

I'd argue with that. I think it's a succint & pithy expression of Einstein's strong commitment to instrumentalism in scientific reasoning, without which it has been argued he'd never have come up with special relativity, on which his rejection of quantum mechanics was founded (which is where that quote comes from, if I recall correctly).

> "6.45 The contemplation of the world sub specie aeterni is its contemplation > as a limited whole.
>
> The feeling that the world is a limited whole is the mystical > feeling."
>
> That's where the great divide between W. and Benjamin comes.
> Benjamin is all > for breaking down these "wholes" in the realm of "ideal language. He > points > us to an outline of "a structure of escape."

>
> "Those are the sort of remarks, which he continually made whenever he > returned to notions of value and judgement, that I mean when I refer
> to > Wittgenstein's mysticism. One of the things that I think a large > number of > casual wittgenstein readers misunderstand is the idea that "the > limits of > the language form the limits of my world" is not a expression of a > sort of > nominalism, that is, it's not a statement about the world, it's a > statement > about language. the huge aspect of reality about which we are > incapable of > having meaningful discourse because we can't say anything meaningful > about > it, that for Wittgenstein is the most important part, and in that > part of
> human life lies all of the traditional notions of occultism,
> spirituality,
> faith, and religion."
>
> That's where Benjamin goes beyond Wittgeinstein, essentially in my > opinion
> rebuts him.

I feel like you're misunderstanding the argument though. Wittgenstein doesn't deny that language can be extended and that new ways of speaking and new grammars can be created. he's quite eloquent on that point in the remarks on the foundations of mathematics. What he does reject though is the notion that there's some completeness or idealness of language that is possible or even desirable. rather that language in its vagueness and uncertainty and particularity is where it's most useful and that's how language actually gets used most of the time unless you start getting caught up in philosophical nonsense. Where he draws a limit, he's drawing a limit not at any existing language, but at the possibility of meaning. Now, I'm not comitted to the notion that he's precisely correct about where he draws the line about what can and can't be meant (and again, this is more an epistemological and psychological claim than it is a metaphysical one). but i really only want to defend the notion that whereever that line was drawn, in wittgenstein's view, and in mine for somewhat different reasons, there is an area of human experience that is impossible to reach at and describe with meaningful meaningful language that is no less important for that reason, that that area of experience is what Wittgenstein referred to as the mystical, and probably most importantly, my own view that poetry is both capable and may even be necessary to guide others to encounter that experience for themselves so that we can be in some sort of communion with each other even though we can't describe or validate it in the same way that we could a sentence like "the earth revolves around the sun."

>
> "D. You're right that Grenier is a special case, and I'll admit i > was maybe > being a little propagandistic in my cooption of Language poetry. I > have a > hard time seeing them all as a unified group in any case, but > they're a > little too important to me personally to allow for the outright > materialism > that I felt Adam painted them with in his piece, although I think he's > largely right. The appeal to Grenier, I will confess, could be just > some > sleight of hand to try to rescue a larger movement from a specific > criticism, and I think it's fair to call me on that. That said, I > don't much > care if any of the big Language folks agree that their work is > suspicious of > the materiality of language, i think i see it there anyway as a sort
> of > irony that has to counterbalance the extreme focus on the textuality
> of > writing. To me, reading something like the Chinese Notebook, for > example, I > feel like there's a certain amount of whistling at the dark that's > going on,
> at least as it strikes me."
>
> I sympathize with your divided loyalty about Language School poets, > but I > think one should call a spade a spade.

Fair enough. Although I'm tempted to appeal to the Death of the Author and/or Umberto Eco's notion of machina pigra and just say that I don't care what Ron Silliman thinks about this particular topic, on my reading The Chinese Notebook is clearly written in a manner that is self-consciously suspicious of the materiality of the language as employed. (Although on that point, my own response to that poem, The Liar Paradox, was in blazevox a few years ago and can be read here for the curious: http://www.blazevox.org/061-jfq.pdf)

Thanks again for the fascinating conversation.

-Jason

↑ Index

346. Jason Quackenbush
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Wed 28 Jul 2010

---

just going to chime in with my usual response to this statement that i think he understood godel fine, i think he got the better of turing in their debates, and that his view of what mathematics are is much closer to what's probably right than Godel's weird platonism.

but Jim, you and I can probably go around and around about this for the rest of a transfinite number of years and never resolve it. not that that wouldn't be fun...

On Jul 27, 2010, at 11:11 AM, Jim Andrews wrote:

> Wittgenstein is of much more interest to artists and possibly philosophers than he is to logicians and mathematicians. He didn't even understand Godel's work, thought that the subject matter of Godel's work was not amenable to logic, thought that because it involved the self-referential that it was as inevitably flawed as much of the rest of the logic involving self-reference. He read the most significant work in mathematical logic of his day and dismissed it as nonsense.
>
> It seems he didn't think we could say much of real value about most interersting things. So he didn't really go for it the way Godel did.
>
> Yu gotta at least go for it.
>
> Wittgenstein went for it as a writer, as a kind of philosophical poet. Not as a logician.
>
> He was a rich guy who gave it all away. That's pretty cool. But he was insignificant and even regressive as a logician. He missed the big boat of his time, the boat that Godel 'started'. That grew into Turing's boat and has sailed into now as the entirety of computing and all that has meant in so many fields.

> ja
> http://vispo.com

↑ Index

347. steve dalachinsky
Re: on poetry contests
Wed 28 Jul 2010

---

wow i'm really out of the loop only heard of a coupla of these folks aand what does "somewhat famous" mean?

On Tue, 27 Jul 2010 22:23:30 -0700 David Baratier
<[redacted]> writes:
> We have a contest as one of many measures to distribute books, these > are first books by people who become somewhat famous in terms of > poetry. But, its poetry, and of course, this fame is limited. As the > authors become more famous we sell more books. I feel no guilt about > the authors we have given accolades to, some of the better known > names we published first collections and given large audience to > have included---
>
> Joshua Cory
>
> Gordon Massman
>
> Amy King
>
> Will Alexander
>
> Julie Otten
>
> Rodney Koeneke
>
> Christopher Arigo
>
> Sophia Starnes
>
> Steve Davenport
>
> Chris Stroffolino
>
> Tony Gloggler
>

> Joshua McKinney
>
> Mary Weems
>
> Dan Zimmerman
>
> that is who comes to mind, there are more, nearly all sold out and > in others hands. What use is poetry but to be read?
>
>
>
>
> Be well
>
> David Baratier, Editor
>
> Pavement Saw Press
> 321 Empire Street
> Montpelier OH 43543
> http://pavementsaw.org
>
> Subscribe to our e-mail listserv at
> http://pavementsaw.org/list/?p=subscribe&id
>
>
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

348. Little Red Leaves
Re: 2010 Subito Press Book Competition
Wed 28 Jul 2010

Dear Rich & David H--Sorry not to have checked in on this yesterday, as I'd have wanted immediately to apologize for not clarifying that I meant no personal attack by that last msg. In particular, I'm deeply sorry that I made it seem like I was suggesting some kind of dubious connection between the DTC launch and this thread---honestly, it never crossed my mind, but looking back I see how it could be taken this way. In another context maybe you'd have given me the benefit of the doubt on this, but this virtuality tends to lift the bile---I should have accounted for that and drafted accordingly, cautiously.

Otherwise, yeah: deadlock.

Onwards,
C

On Tue, Jul 27, 2010 at 8:32 PM, David Seaman <[redacted]> wrote:

> Important message first: It takes about 3 hours for a jalapeno burn to subside.
>
> Ok, for your program effort, just do it. There is no reward for our work.
>
> Really, as a 40 plus year professor, I can say this is the ... way to confusion and and depression. Just try to work for your best interests.
>
> This year my only reward as a teacher was a letter from a parent. Otherwise, the salary is being reduced (University of Georgia System) and even the parking fee is going up.
>
> All we have is each other.
>
> David ï»¿
>
> David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
> http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html
>
> Follow my Twitter poetry at dseaman40
>
> YouTube video of my Venice Biennale poem:
> http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JQ5bOuJBN_k
>
> On 27 Jul, 2010,at 01:31 PM, David Hadbawnik <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> p.s. -- with regards to the question of higher education
>
> i came to the decision to apply to an MFA program while auditing tom clark's > grad class at new college, frustrated by my inability to keep up with the work due to my two part-time gigs. i considered going to new college -- bullet dodged there! -- and wound up at texas state because they offered me

the best deal. purely mercenary. no apologies. there were certain specific things i wanted to study and work on in my poetry, and the stubborn midwestern boy in me did not see the point of going into debt to do that. while there, there were things i was unhappy with and i spoke up about them, often to the chagrin of tom and other higher-ups.

the phd is a different beast, as you know. nevertheless, ub offered me a good deal, again, and i felt that the blue state public university system would be more congenial to my own sensibilities and beliefs and ability to impact things through action. so i am the union rep for the department and i'm pretty active in the various ways open to grad students. we are struggling with not only budget cuts and a devastated state revenue, but the administration's proposed response to that, which is to essentially REMOVE u.b. from the SUNY system -- privatize it, and with that a free hand in raising tuition for already strapped students.

and, as with others who come to the poetics program, i felt that here would be a vital place for my press and poetry to grow. what i'm saying is that this is an exchange. i have no illusions about that. i'm here to get certain things, i'm offering my energy and labor, i'm trying to make it a worthwhile encounter for my students. i look at rich owens and his BALLADS project, e.g., [not to mention punch press which has already been covered previously] and i see a valuable roadmap for how i want to do this. that is, already having certain poetic concerns, he's grounded those in careful study of theory and primary texts which has helped that project flower into something which, i'm not embarrassed nor hesitant to say, will prove to be some of the more interesting work being done at this time.

that's why I'M here and i wouldn't be here if i didn't believe that, flawed though it may be, the higher ed. system didn't have something of value to offer and i, through it, something of value to offer in return.

sincerely,

d

On Tue, Jul 27, 2010 at 11:21 AM, David Hadbawnik <[redacted]
wrote:

> hello, cj!
>
> extreme, yes. evangelical? god, i hope not. insincere? i see how it could seem so, but again, no.
>
> i feel like something IS being misunderstood here, to a certain extent. perhaps on both sides, i dunno. my feeling is not that getting top-down funding of any sort -- be that institutional or sliding-scale subscription, or outright calls for donations from rich friends or relatives -- is pure as the driven snow. far from it. but if i am able to channel funds from a certain source and put that to the service of printing poems and b-sides and chaps, meanwhile throwing business to local printers and places like boxcar press, i do feel like that's categorically different than the contest model, which is based on growth (always got to build up and get more entries), and as has already been said, soliciting funds from hundreds of poets who do not have a chance at winning and are not going to get a full or fair read. i just do.
>
> but as i state in my blog post, i started habenicht in 2000. at that time i worked various part-time jobs and everything came from my own dime. i created a budget and determined this is how much i can spend on that book, and i hustled to sell enough books to break even, more or less. now that i've cut my teeth doing that, the funding i receive to help with kadar koli allows me to do a SLIGHTLY larger journal, with a SLIGHTLY larger print run. i am about to take two boxes to the post office and this will go out entirely from my pocket. but here, i feel like, we're getting into gradations of purity, which was not the point at all.
>
> to me, the point is simply to LOOK AROUND at the landscape and determine what is acceptable to you or not, as a poet, as a publisher, as a person involved with poetry at whatever level. the reason the intervention took place here (and on my blog) is that these are (virtual) spaces that such people frequent. it's not a drive-by just meant to stir things up. in the sense of spurring this discussion, which has already been both passionate

and nuanced without devolving into mindless flaming, it's already been successful in my book. it has certainly made me rethink some of my heated rhetoric and extreme views -- though i doubt that for me personally those views will change, i understand better where folks are coming from -- and hopefully for others it's done the same. but again, look around and decide this is that i want from the poetry publishing world, this is what i don't want. and how can i change that? what could be done differently? the remarkable success of dos press in concert with LRL would certainly seem to be a model that i find admirable.

in that sense i feel like we are trying to multitask, though perhaps in a different sense than you mean -- as alongside these discussions are other discussions and i am constantly thinking about the next phase of what all this means in terms of action...

sincerely,

david

On Mon, Jul 26, 2010 at 10:37 PM, Little Red Leaves <
[redacted]> wrote:

*Dear Rich--At this distance, here's what I know of your public presence in the past week: a massive launch from DTC/Punch Press (a piece of mail for which I'm incredibly grateful--holy shit the Marianne Morris poem!) & your intervention here. The first of these (the launch) is a tactic that very successfully addresses the concerns you want to address & offers one of the alternative models that Tyrone asked you to speak to. The second, as tactic, is thus far just a random belligerence, as far as I can tell, even though*

*I
understand that you & some others here don't think so. At least in its basic spirit anyhow.*

*I actually need to duck out of this thread for awhile & get some work done before the semester starts back up. Desperately trying to get back to writing a longer thing on Myung Mi Kim & Rachel Blau Duplessis--two poets (among many) whose work would be virtually stranded by the action you call for, unless I've somehow misunderstood your call. If I have misunderstood it, then please clarify--are you asking us to walk away from any press who runs a contest or charges a reading fee (taking w/us our money, our work, our reviews, our venues, etc)? I mean, in addition to listserv drive-by's, what's to be done that isn't already being done? (I'm really asking, here.
If I'm missing what the action is, I'd like someone to clarify.)*

*I also want to ask you (& David--hi David) to seriously revisit the question of whether this type of absolutism can really be practiced from within the funded halls of a PhD program, while collecting a paycheck for teaching undergraduate students who are largely going into hock to pay for their ticket for that ride. (I know it isn't making you rich, but come on.)
I
fully understand your "top-down" theory about contests (that institutional funding--in the form of a grant for a press (or even a fellowship, right?)--is less questionable than the contest model because it supposedly doesn't prey on vulnerable writers), but honestly: it's UB's listserv & UB's dime you're posting on. I'm being blunt (and maybe even a bit reductive) here NOT because I think you should be ashamed of yourselves for accepting that funding & using it in your small press activities--I think the oppositein fact--but your call to action (or the way you've chosen to articulate it?*

*here & in David's blog post) starts to seem not a little evangelical & even insincere. Professionalization in the arts is exactly what you're wanting to confront, right (using a refusal of contest-model funding particularly for small presses as the staging ground)? Shit guys: analyze, then. & proceed w/caution before moving into your tactical phase.*

As someone you & David have both published & as someone who's published both of you, I need you (both) to know I'm saying this out of affection, respect & concern. (I hope it's not necessary to say it, but in case it is--I wouldn't have joined in here if that weren't true.) There are a number of other things to resist or struggle to complicate, in addition to capital, that mingle with our thing: a model for community building that's based in haphazard antagonism (largely towards, I begin to fear, affiliation) comes to mind, for a start. That's not to say you don't have my support in doing the work of problematizing capital, but maybe we can multi-task?

*Yours,
CJ Martin*

*On Mon, Jul 26, 2010 at 2:23 PM, Catherine Daly <[redacted]
wrote:*

Sad news, Beyond Baroque is currently throwing its first contest.

http://www.beyondbaroque.org/news.html

<http://www.beyondbaroque.org/news.html>So here we have an independent cultural institution of long standing that has $1 rent, a mostly volunteer staff, and trustees/board members who are not donors, not effectively fundraising and grant writing except from government -- although it is possible that they are refusing to apply for funds from Readers Digest or

the Irvine Foundation, etc. etc. -- that also refuses to make money from workshops (they are famous for offering free showers and workshops both!
--
but they could charge for some classes like the Poetry Project does), the bookstore (by doing things like not asking local presses for donations
of remaindered books or local poets for donations of used books; by not selling books online; by not looking up the value of some of the rare first editions that linger on the shelves), the archive, the art gallery, the readings/performances themselves, relationships with other arts institutions, or the press (by not listing all of the books in print on Amazon; by having broken paypal links on the site -- they are at SPD).

Nope, they're having a contest.

--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

guidelines

--
www.littleredleaves.com
www.littleredleavesjournal.blogspot.com

--
www.littleredleaves.com
www.littleredleavesjournal.blogspot.com

↑ Index

349. Rob McLennan

new from above/ground press: rob mclennan's 16 Yonge

Wed 28 Jul 2010

---

*

point on a point; discuss, map of scatter, eyes broadsheet about,

Toronto Star, the Hemingway in you describes,

pinwheels, skipper, sailing ships talk like a pirate day, your birthday,

felt no sun,

*

Yonge + Queens Quay govern, nothing else disturbs,

distillery, grandstand
, emphasis against the year has been, unequal to place facts squared or squarely, in a book shape of a (shifting) harbour,

16 Yonge
by rob mclennan
$4

published in Ottawa by above/ground press in an edition of 200 copies, August 2010
a/g subscribers receive a complimentary copy

to order, send cheques (add $1 for postage; outside Canada, $2) c/o rob mclennan, 858 Somerset Street West, main floor, Ottawa ON K1R 6R7

Born in Ottawa, Canadas glorious capital city, rob mclennan currently lives in Ottawa. The author of more than twenty trade books of poetry, fiction and non-fiction, his most recent titles are the poetry collections Glengarry (2011), wild horses (2010) and kate street (2010) and a second novel, missing persons (2009), An editor and publisher, he runs above/ground press, Chaudiere Books (with Jennifer Mulligan), The Garneau Review (ottawater.com/garneaureview), seventeen seconds: a journal of poetry and poetics (ottawater.com/seventeenseconds) and the Ottawa poetry pdf annual ottawater (ottawater.com). He spent the 2007-8 academic year in Edmonton as writer-in-residence at the University of Alberta, and expects to spend much of the next year in Toronto. He regularly posts reviews, essays, interviews and other notices at robmclennan.blogspot.com

http://aboveground press.blogspot.com/2010/07/new-from-aboveground-press-rob.html

-- writer/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...poetry - wild horses (U of Alberta) ...2nd novel - missing persons www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

350. Jared Schickling

New Book Announcement: Zero's Blooming Excursion

Wed 28 Jul 2010

Dear List,

My new book, Zero's Blooming Excursion, realized over the course of three years and published last month, is available from BlazeVOX [books]:

http://www.blazevox.org/bk-js4.htm

And at Small Press Distribution:

http://www.spdbooks.org/Producte/9781609640019/zeros-blooming-excursion.aspx

I'd also be happy to send along any free copies. If you'd like one, please let me know.

All best,

Jared Schickling

[redacted]

Zero's Blooming Excursion seems a trans-bifurcation of voice, some cacophonous unity of strange symbols, visual, aural, intellectual, collaborating in the emergence of something deeply spiritual: The awakened human mind dealing with the chaos, projecting the Arabesque patterns of its own movements. If one is to be literate in the realm of Zero's merged pineal glands, one must make sense of its seams, as much a painting to make sense of (the repeated Chagall) or puzzle to construct (the chemistry and mathematics) as a poem to read, a critifiction seducing its reader into numerous re-reads, each one producing different patterns and forms of pleasure, the very embodiment of Calvino's ideal of multiplicity. Bizarro science, invisibility cloaking, numerology, Kabbala, lots of trivial news and obscure data (like patent backgrounds), all add up to a paranoid yet valid approach to the cosmos which seems to subvert or counter its own overt nihilism. Schickling's book is a brilliant success.

—Chuck Richardson

Zero's Blooming Excursion has "a hundred mouths," and each mouth speaks at once. With combinatory precision, Schickling brings a redactive resonance to the face of the page. Erasures zero in on what's important. Headlines, statistics, equations, weather reports, thought bubbles are more than frames. They are the forms of our common thinking. Reading Zero's Blooming Excursion is like hovering above one's own body while living; it's unsettling ecstasy. Read this book and you'll "find yourself next to yourself."

—Sasha Steensen

This is a book I had to struggle my way through. Often I wondered, what is going on here? Slowly it dawned on me: Jared Schickling has devised a poetics that oprates like an ecology. It is, among other qualities, indifferent to whether I understand it or not—and the poems are no more concerned with what you or I think of them than rocks, moss, lichen, yucca plants, or clouds care whether you admire their shapes or scrape your knee on their sharp edges. I respect that. It's tough, bracing, and worth the effort. It may take years to catch up to where these poems are taking us.

—Andrew Schelling

_____ The New Busy think 9 to 5 is a cute idea. Combine multiple calendars with Hotmail. http://www.windowslive.com/campaign/thenewbusy?tile=multicalendar&ocid=PID28326::T:WLMTAGL:ON:WL:en-US:WM_HMP:042010_5

↑ Index

351. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Wed 28 Jul 2010

Jason, David, Jim,

This thread has become so vast, in a very good way, so that I do not know how to respond to each (particularly to Jason's meticulous arguments), unless I spend a trans-finite portion of my day doing it, not that that would be a bad thing.

Jason, first let me respond to what you are saying. I think there is more we agree with on Wittgenstein than we disagree with. My objection to him is in the use and consequences of his rhetoric and his effect on poetry and poetics in the United States. It narrows the possibilities of poetry, particularly the way Language School applied his ideas. Let me explain what I mean:

a) It is true that Wittgenstein will not deny that the subject-predicate structure is not the only way a sentence can be constructed; but he delegates every other structure to second class by calling it "meaningless," unable to be expressed as "true or false," etc. (I need to go back to the text and choose a few more words with the same rhetorical effect).

But who has decided that the nature of reality consists (must express itself) as true or false and everything else is peripheral, secondary. That is a profound, unquestioned assumption on Wittgenstein's part the validity of which to me is much less clear -in fact, to be honest about it, is clearly "false."

I am more on the side of what Heraclitus says and David quotes: ""The most beautiful world is a heap of rubble tossed down in confusion/at random."

We see truth, if at all, through a glass darkly, which also constantly changes, is fluid. "Factual," "ethical," "pilosophical," even "scientific" values blur are very rarely distinct (a clear demarcation between objective and subjective basically impossible), and to build a reality structure on a fundementalist distinction between true and false (which W. does by privileging a prepositional view of what is real, as opposed to unsayable) is foolhardy. A poet's job, it seems to me, is exactly to deal with that unsayable -shall we consider ourselves to be dealing with nonsense or, as Language School or it follower Flarf does, indulging in language games or google games.

I do not disagree that we are may be doomed (The Spiritual Life of Replicants deals with that issue) to grasp reality only through language -but that does not mean that we have to do it by entering only through one straight straight straight gate -the prepositional sentence.

David, I think we agree in our view of Grenier. I was not aware Grenier's later work was blacklisted by Language School poets. At least they realized what he was getting at and his pursuit went awry from their approach to poetry.

Ciao,

Murat

On Wed, Jul 28, 2010 at 3:56 AM, Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote:

> Hey Murat, thanks for the excellent counterpoint.
>
> "6.41 The sense of the world must lie outside the world. In the world everything is as it is and happens as it does happen. In it there is no value -- and if there were, it would be of no value."
>
> Do you not see the circularity of Wittgenstein's argument? While he pays lip service to by being "sympathetic" to ethical impulses, he condescends to it and relegates it to subservient category. If he can not talk "meaningfully" about something, then he does not talk about it. Therefore, that thing becomes invisible: "he didn't write about it because he couldn't." On a grand scale, is this argument any different from the drunkard who looks for the key under the light because that's where the light is, not necessarily where the key is?
>
> I don't see circularity, but rather the elucidation of a tautology. But I'm not terribly inclined to defend the argument of the tractatus, as I don't think it's particularly useful except as an example of where he was coming from in his later more compelling world. There are huge flaws in the tractatus, my favorite being the summation of Prop. 7 (the famous "whereof we cannot speak, therof we must remain silent") given by Frank Ramsey's translation "You can't say what you can't say and you can't whistle it either."
>
> To the drunk looking for his keys analogy, I think there's a bit of that, and I think some of it is even intentional. That sort of uselessness of the actual arguments is I think part of what he had in mind in saying that the tractatus was meant to be a ladder that you could kick away once you climbed to the top.

Wittgenstein never explores or goes after that "outside" world ("the sense of the world"). His thinking concerns itself only with what "as it is and happens as it does happen."

On the contrary, I think he doesn't think that stuff matters at all. In fact in his journals and in the brown books, he's almost dismissive of that part of experience as stuff that can be through empirical science. It just isn't the proper object of philosophy to deal with that stuff. It's empirical and there are other ways of thinking about it that are more fruitful.

Here I think an analysis of syntax is important -specifically the English syntax, composed of subject and predicate- is important. That is the syntax for an empirical view of the world -where things either happen (are true) or don't happen (are not true). Wittgeinstein accepts this implicitly as the paradigm, as far as I can tell, with defending why.

well, he's talking about propositions, which by definition are sentences that can be true or false. Much of what precedes the quoted section deals with what propositions are, how they work, how they relate to facts, what facts are etc. And again, i think this is a fair criticism because this notion of the proposition as a thing at all arises from from Russell and Whiteheads elucidation of the predicate calculus in The Principals of Mathematics. That said, I'm not entirely sure I understand what the distinction you're drawing is, but I do think that we have lots of sentences in English which aren't propositions at all, and I think that's part of what the tractatus and in particular the first part of Philosophical investigations is trying to get at: that is, there are these parts of the world we can talk about where the notions of truth and falsity apply, and there's this other part which is more loose but that allows for a wider range of meaning than mere propositions do, and there is a wider part of that that carries neither truth value nor meaning and in that there are a wide variety of kinds of meaninglessness, nonsense, and senselessness. I don't think wittgenstein would necessarily disagree with you that it's a mistake to consider the subject predicate syntax as somehow decisive about the world, in fact I think the first 100 or so remarks of Philosophical Investigations are precisely an attack on that kind of view.

Now, instead, consider a syntactical structure replete with conjunctive forms (a syntax of possibilities, of potential thought) -as the agglutinative Turkish syntax is, which records thought in the process of *emerging (once again, see Eda Anthology), not as true or false but as process, then a philosophical view of such a world would be totally different -pre-analytic, much more inclusive, in which a "subject-predicate"*

construction is only a part.

"If there is a value which is of value, it must lie outside all happening and being-so. For all happening and being-so is accidental.
What makes it non-accidental cannot lie in the world, for otherwise this would again be accidental.

It must lie outside the world."

Here Wittgenstein is practicing, is following Hume's radical skepticism about the "innate logic" of reality to which the continental philosophy (from Spinoza to Kant, etc.) is a counterpoint.

Here I think you're misreading. part of this, tho, is that he's defined "the world" early on as a particularly limited sort of thing. "The world is everything that is the case." again, this is part of what he rejects later in his earlier thinking, and I don't think even he would defend it. But it isn't precisely a recitation of the is/ought problem per se, but rather I think a more nuanced assertion about the nature of "oughts" themselves. It's not a skeptical idea about moral facts, or at least its not just that, but rather a statement about whether we're able to say meaningful things about moral facts. Again, even the phrase "moral facts" he'd probably disavow as not meaninful in someway, but I think the basic form of what he'd say is "well, if you want to be a radical skeptic, go ahead, but the statement that there are not moral facts is just as meaningless as the statement that there are moral facts. You're still stuck in the flybottle if you're even trying to have that conversation. You'll get nowhere, best to come at it from a different angle."

Also, there's an important aspect to all this that the section I quoted doesn't mention, and that's the notion (most recently argued for by Cora Diamond I believe) that while wittgenstein thought that there were all sorts of things that couldn't be said, you could still use language to show the things that you can't talk about. Sadly, Wittgenstein never addresses CS Peirce directly in the surviving nachlass, although I'm fairly certain he must have grappled with him at some point because Frank Ramsey thought that there was in pragmatism a way out of the box the tractatus seems to draw, and there's certainly something like James and Peirce style pragmatism in his thinking that shows up by the time he dictated the brown book, and it's hard for me to see his later conception of "meaning as use" as anything other than a kind of pragmatism, albeit not the kind that Richard Rorty thought it was.

My point here again though is that what he was grappling with was a theory of language that seemed to constantly shut down any attempts to say things about a certain widely experienced and hugely important aspect of human life, and I think he saw it in a nearly tragic light, which is why I think he was so happy to describe the attribution of meaning to certain kinds of nonsense as "bewitchment by language." because it seems like you should be able to talk about these things, and we feel like when we're talking about them that we're saying meaningful things, but it's only when we reflect on what that might really mean that we have to realize that we have know way of knowing whether what we've said communicates what we hoped or not. As such, this becomes a much more epistemological than metaphysical position, and indeed I think that's how he ended up approaching the issue.

"6.42 Hence also there can be no ethical propositions."

Here one can see W's circular thinking in practice.

Again, it's important to note that he's talking about propositions and not sentences, or even more importantly signs. I think he would be ok with the idea of ethical signifiers.

"Propositions cannot express anything higher."

Yes, this is true if the only possible or valid linguistic structure having any hold to reality consisted of the propositions, that is to say, subject-predicate structure.

This is a priori assumption on W's part having to do, as far as I can see, very little connection to reality, the state state in which language function. Subject=predicate is a mere abstraction from it.

I don't see how it you can have sentence that is true or false without it referring to an object and then predicating some quality to the object. You don't need subject-predicate word order to get that, but if you could give me an example of a statement that is capable of being true or false without having some kind of predicate, I might be able to grasp what you're getting at. To me, the fact that propositions contain predicates seems tautological.

"6.43 If good or bad willing changes the world, it can only change the limits of the world, not the facts; not the things that can be expressed in language."

*It seems to me wrong. If you change the limits of language (more specifically of a language, that's why the importance of translation), you* are changing what can be said in it. As I said, here lies the crucial importance of translation and Benjamin's thought about it -on disintegration, fragmentation, etc.

but when he's talking about the limits of language he means the limits of language, not the limits of a language. he's talking about what can and can't be talked about, full stop, not some concept that might be expressable in one language but difficult to express in another. He's talking about what it means for a sentence to have meaning at all, not whether it is understood as intended. And I think part of the big reason that Benjamin is unsatisfying to me on that score is that he relies so heavily on intention toward signified objects, and where that goes I follow wittgenstein into a severe skepticism about that sort of semiotic notion. it's not at all clear what such an object is, and if I recall correctly Benjamin uses various words for "bread" in different languages as an example. Well ok, bread is pain is brot is pan is lechem is naan is pita is tortilla is chapati is ...
? which do you intend? some ideal form of bread in the mind of god? a privately held abstraction that we take on faith is in someway similar to the private object in the mind of another party to the conversation? really? but what if I sit down at the table and choke a bit and say "bread!" do i really intend that same thing even tho my meaning is similar? no, not really, i mean, I'm choking, give me bread so i can try to swallow. same word. same object in the real world i'd signify by saying "this bread is excellent." completely different meaning. And meaning is what Wittgenstein is concerned with.

"In brief, the world must thereby become quite another, it must so to speak
wax or wane as a whole.

The world of the happy is quite another than that of the unhappy."

W. ignores the consequences of what he is saying here.

On the contrary, I think he's very conscious of them. I'm not sure what you mean he ignores them?

"6.44 Not how the world is, is the mystical, but that it is."

This sentence remind me of Einstein's "God does not play dice with the universe." Cute, what it does not enter Einstein's thoughts in physics (unless I misunderstand him).

I'd argue with that. I think it's a succint & pithy expression of Einstein's strong commitment to instrumentalism in scientific reasoning, without which it has been argued he'd never have come up with special relativity, on which his rejection of quantum mechanics was founded (which is where that quote comes from, if I recall correctly).

"6.45 The contemplation of the world sub specie aeterni is its contemplation as a limited whole.

The feeling that the world is a limited whole is the mystical feeling."

That's where the great divide between W. and Benjamin comes. Benjamin is all for breaking down these "wholes" in the realm of "ideal language. He points us to an outline of "a structure of escape."

"Those are the sort of remarks, which he continually made whenever he returned to notions of value and judgement, that I mean when I refer to Wittgenstein's mysticism. One of the things that I think a large number of casual wittgenstein readers misunderstand is the idea that "the limits of the language form the limits of my world" is not a expression of a sort of nominalism, that is, it's not a statement about the world, it's a statement about language. the huge aspect of reality about which we are incapable of having meaningful discourse because we can't say anything meaningful about it, that for Wittgenstein is the most important part, and in that part of human life lies all of the traditional notions of occultism, spirituality, faith, and religion."

That's where Benjamin goes beyond Wittgeinstein, essentially in my opinion rebuts him.

I feel like you're misunderstanding the argument though. Wittgenstein doesn't deny that language can be extended and that new ways of speaking and new grammars can be created. he's quite eloquent on that point in the remarks on the foundations of mathematics. What he does reject though is the notion that there's some completeness or idealness of language that is possible or even desirable. rather that language in its vagueness and uncertainty and particularity is where it's most useful and that's how language actually gets used most of the time unless you start getting caught up in philosophical nonsense. Where he draws a limit, he's drawing a limit not at any existing language, but at the possibility of meaning. Now, I'm not comitted to the notion that he's precisely correct about where he draws the line about what can and can't be meant (and again, this is more an epistemological and psychological claim than it is a metaphysical one). but i really only want to defend the notion that whereever that line was drawn, in wittgenstein's view, and in mine for somewhat different reasons, there is an area of human experience that is impossible to reach at and describe with meaningful meaningful language that is no less important for that reason, that that area of experience is what Wittgenstein referred to as the mystical, and probably most importantly, my own view that poetry is both capable and may even be necessary to guide others to encounter that experience for themselves so that we can be in some sort of communion with each other even though we can't describe or validate it in the same way that we could a sentence like "the earth revolves around the sun."

"D. You're right that Grenier is a special case, and I'll admit i was maybe being a little propagandistic in my cooption of Language poetry. I have a hard time seeing them all as a unified group in any case, but they're a little too important to me personally to allow for the outright materialism that I felt Adam painted them with in his piece, although I think he's largely right. The appeal to Grenier, I will confess, could be just some sleight of hand to try to rescue a larger movement from a specific criticism, and I think it's fair to call me on that. That said, I don't much care if any of the big Language folks agree that their work is suspicious of the materiality of language, i think i see it there anyway as a sort of irony that has to counterbalance the extreme focus on the textuality of writing. To me, reading something like the Chinese Notebook, for example, I feel like there's a certain amount of whistling at the dark that's going on, at least as it strikes me."

I sympathize with your divided loyalty about Language School poets, but I think one should call a spade a spade.

Fair enough. Although I'm tempted to appeal to the Death of the Author and/or Umberto Eco's notion of machina pigra and just say that I don't care what Ron Silliman thinks about this particular topic, on my reading The Chinese Notebook is clearly written in a manner that is self-consciously suspicious of the materiality of the language as employed. (Although on that point, my own response to that poem, The Liar Paradox, was in blazevox a few > years ago and can be read here for the curious: http://www.blazevox.org/061-jfq.pdf)

>
> Thanks again for the fascinating conversation.
>
> -Jason

↑ Index

352. Stephen Vincent
New de blog
Wed 28 Jul 2010

---

http://stephenvincent.net/blog/

Some new stuff on blog may be of interest as in the poetry of the oblique:

Towers & Columns: (Discussion & photos) Brancusi (Google!), Ann Hamilton (Geyserville, California) & David Nash (at Yorkshire Sculpture Park, Yorkshire). An exploration of sorts, and an extension of an earlier blog discussion of Ellworth Kelly, Brancusi, the Mali Gazelle and the Paris Hotel shadow.

An photo homage to Malevich, from the Neighborhood Anthropology Series.

Haptic responses to readings/events by David Wolach, Kenny Goldsmith, Lawrence Kearney and Duncan McNaughton

As always, your responses appreciated.

Stephen Vincetn

↑ Index

353. Jason Quackenbush
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Wed 28 Jul 2010

---

marvelous david, thanks so much. there's a lot to chew on here, but I wanted to remark that for me at least, I think both the connection with Stein's early poetry so heavily laden with parataxis as it was and with Whitmans continual revision as a connection to refiguring the notion of the book, resonate with the sort of mysticism that I think i see in Grenier, something akin to text as process rather than product.

this, in my thinking at least, connects up with a rather fruitless obsessive period i spent shortly after the publication of the complete Ted Berrigan trying to find correspondences to Alfred North Whitehead's process philosophy in his various mundane occasional poems (by which i mean the often repeated trope in his poetry of picking a day or a set of activities and memorializing them in a poem eg today in ann arbor, 10 things i do every day, memorial day, etc.). At the end of my researches which didn't bear much out, after I got over my disappointment in discovering the great organizing principle I thought i'd discovered in fact was my own misreading of Whitehead, i realized i'd been looking very much at the wrong thing and that the real process philosophy stuff had to do more with the way he was compasing things than with any underlying metaphysics.

anyway, Berrigan also is a favorite spiritual master of mine, and what you're talking about in Grenier I think I see a bit in some of Berrigan as well.

On Jul 27, 2010, at 9:40 PM, David Chirot wrote:

> a little side note: (re Grenier/Trakl/Wittgenstein)
>
> Robert Grenier early in his writing life translated a few (four or more) > poems of Trakl's for an anthology--
>
> Grenier has by some been considered as a mystic; by far his greatest philosophical interest/influence is Heidegger--
>
> In "I HATE SPEECH"--One might consider the context, the time period--
>
> on the one hand, the speech driven poetics of Projective Verse and many > aspectsof Black Mountain, of the new York School-- > as well as it being a time period swamped in SPEECHES-- > coming from al directions and all media--
>
> living and teaching in Franconia, NH, Grenier, while doing his daily running > as well as sitting and listeing intently for hours to the sound of water > dripping in a cistern--and to recordings of Pygmy music & sounds--
>
> one finds Grenier developing his ear ever more acutely attuned to the smallest particles of both speech as SOUND and as sign--
> the variety of ways in which for years his works have been published/presented, with an emphasis on the physical/visual/sonic structure
> literally and literarily of the Book-- > taking it apart, putting it back togther in another from--whether as huge > poster as la M'ASS AVE or box as in SENTENCES and also the three parts

black box encased series of visual/verbl poems put out by by O Books ("Minnestoa" etc--)-- and the varying sizes and shapes of other tests-- culminating in the huge serial works done in "lawyer's office "color markers-- in a Talk given at the Robert frost Room at Franconia--published in the late 90's--(forgive mne for a moment here the editor/publisher escapes me--wil come back: Stephen Dignazio--)--

Grenier notes that an interesting question to investigate is the conjunction between among, "only the imagination is real" of WCW's Spring and All and the "no ideas but in things/Mr" of Paterson-- to think on /with these as a both/and rather than the usual "either/ or"-- to find ways in which there is an identification of the word and thing, then the letter and thing--so that the forming of a letter itself handwritten in time--is an emergence/appearance of sound & image simulateneously--at the same time as they are both physical things in action--

Olson wanted the citizen to go faster, faster--so that one thing follows on another--the action of the poem essaying to "pull even, " equal, that is, to the real itself"--with the action--

no more of the Aristotelian "after the fact" of writing following the action, behind it-- but--drawing even, so that action/writing take place as nearly as possible simultaenously--

Rimbaud already in the "Lettres du voyant" to Demeny and izambard in 1870--had written of the poetry of the Future "preceding the action"

which i have written on as being carried out literally/literarily by Rimbaud in that his writings precede in their descriptions, images, words--the actions which he began to live out after he stopped writing--

how many of his letters when no longer a poet carry the very images he has written of years earlier as Poetry & Prose Poetry----and now writes simply as bald description factual documents--

Rimbaud also wrote of the poet of the Future (also greatly effected by the total ful emancipation of Women)--as being "not unlike the Greek"-- one notes in Grenier's studies of Heidegger the many essays re Greek thought and poetry --

the trajectory of Grenier , his works, for some long time black listed by his former colleagues in the 'Language-centered" writing "community"-- has been one of far more radically "outside" work & life than those of his peers, in formal and philosophical, sonic/visual/visceral work--

Grenier's long involvements with the texts of the early Stein (which he was teaching at Franconia--as the "Yale Stein" became available)--as well as his studies singly, as teacher and in a reading group including Leslie Scalapino--in Whitman--the versionsof Leaves of Grass culminating esp in The Deathbed Edition--link him with the early modernism of WCW and the early Stein--as wel as the 19th century Whitman--whose work was not a "once and for all " "set in stone" text but an ongoing series of versions, alterations, rearrangements, additions, subtractions, changes in names, spellings, grammar, syntax--

(SERIES after al is the title of a Grenier book)--

i wd agree with many that MOBY DICK is a postmodernist so to speak text
--and i wd include the work of E A Poe as well--

D H Lawrence in his STUDIES IN CLASSIC AMERICAN LITERATURE (which pre-dates WCW's In the American Grain)--notes a number of times that the > Americans > have relegated their classic works, in the "old American art speech"--to the > nursery--"adventure stories, : :detective tales," science-fictions stories," > etc etc--the Classic American texts dealt with issues, ideas, images, which > the 20th century American, according to Lawrence, has to banish--to the > nursery!--

>
> "the pure products of America go crazy" as WCW noted--
>
> "out there"--("the figure of Outward")--though, one might say, is the as yet > hidden in plain site/sight/cite "classic american" outsider/avant-garde > postmodern etc--
>
> ("where the 'outyard" is the 'backyard' to paraphrase from Grenier's little > work on Narrative for the old Olson series--)
>
> "The blank and ruin we see in Nature may be within our own eye"--(R W Emerson)
> "The most beautiful world is a heap of rubble tossed down in confusion/at > random"--Heraclitus
>
> "To shut the eyes is travel"--Emily Dickinson
> "My voice goes after/what my eyes can't reach"--Walter Whitman
>
> "Writing is time travel"--W S Burroughs
> "It is a science-fiction film set in the past"--Federico Fellini, on his > SATYRICON-

↑ Index

354. Jason Quackenbush

Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"

Wed 28 Jul 2010

There we absolutely can agree. I think a misreading of wittgenstein has done all sorts of harm in both the realms of philosophy and poetry. however, i think most pertinent, and here I'll abandon a defense of wittgenstein and just move into my own thinking, is getting rid of the negative connotations of meaninglessness, nonsense, and senselessness when we're talking about poetry.

I have in mind a radical sort of idea that in poetry meaninglessness is impossible. that the way poetry works precludes an absence of sense. and that meaninglessness in the linguistic sense that gets outlined in Philosophical Investigations is actually a signifier of transcendental operation of language as it bridges between the realm of the immediately real (wherein i can stub my toe if i'm not paying attention) and the realm of the semiotically mediated (wherein I can write a long and angry letter to the manufacturer of my kitchen table for putting the leg of it in such an incredibly stupid place). I think that there is a place where those two genera overlap, and most of human experience lies there in the overlap, but there is an outer limit of the immediately real and the semiotically mediated that becomes a sort of free form grammatical playground stripped of conventional semiotic processes on the one hand, and a transcendent but deafening, or maybe muting, reality on the other. What I hope for, look for, wonder about the possibility of in my own work is how to possibly use that unattached signification of the one as a sort of roadmap to the inexpressable other. That, to me, is the mysticism of poetry that I wrote about in the original essay, and I think it's related in some ways to what Adam was talking about as a new spirituality.\

On Jul 28, 2010, at 10:59 AM, Murat Nemet-Nejat wrote:

> Jason, David, Jim,
>
> This thread has become so vast, in a very good way, so that I do not know > how to respond to each (particularly to Jason's meticulous arguments), > unless I spend a trans-finite portion of my day doing it, not that that > would be a bad thing.
>
> Jason, first let me respond to what you are saying. I think there is more we > agree with on Wittgenstein than we disagree with. My objection to him is in > the use and consequences of his rhetoric and his effect on poetry and > poetics in the United States. It narrows the possibilities of poetry, > particularly the way Language School applied his ideas. Let me explain what > I mean:
>
> a) It is true that Wittgenstein will not deny that the subject-predicate > structure is not the only way a sentence can be constructed; but he > delegates every other structure to second class by calling it

"meaningless," unable to be expressed as "true or false," etc. (I need to go back to the text and choose a few more words with the same rhetorical effect).

*But who has decided that the nature of reality consists (must express itself) as true or false and everything else is peripheral, secondary. That is a profound, unquestioned assumption on Wittgenstein's part the validity of which to me is much less clear -in fact, to be honest about it, is clearly "false."*

*I am more on the side of what Heraclitus says and David quotes:
""The most beautiful world is a heap of rubble tossed down in confusion/at random."*

We see truth, if at all, through a glass darkly, which also constantly changes, is fluid. "Factual," "ethical," "pilosophical," even "scientific" values blur are very rarely distinct (a clear demarcation between objective and subjective basically impossible), and to build a reality structure on a fundementalist distinction between true and false (which W. does by privileging a prepositional view of what is real, as opposed to unsayable) is foolhardy. A poet's job, it seems to me, is exactly to deal with that unsayable -shall we consider ourselves to be dealing with nonsense or, as Language School or it follower Flarf does, indulging in language games or google games.

*I do not disagree that we are may be doomed (The Spiritual Life of Replicants deals with that issue) to grasp reality only through language
-but that does not mean that we have to do it by entering only through one straight straight straight gate -the prepositional sentence.*

*David,
I think we agree in our view of Grenier. I was not aware Grenier's later work was blacklisted by Language School poets. At least they* > realized what > he was getting at and his pursuit went awry from their approach to > poetry.

>
> Ciao,
>
> Murat
>
> On Wed, Jul 28, 2010 at 3:56 AM, Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Hey Murat, thanks for the excellent counterpoint.
>
> "6.41 The sense of the world must lie outside the world. In the > world
> everything is as it is and happens as it does happen. In it there > is no > value -- and if there were, it would be of no value."
>
> Do you not see the circularity of Wittgenstein's argument? While > he pays > lip
> service to by being "sympathetic" to ethical impulses, he > condescends to
> it
> and relegates it to subservient category. If he can not talk
> "meaningfully"
> about something, then he does not talk about it. Therefore, that > thing > becomes invisible: "he didn't write about it because he couldn't."
> On a > grand scale, is this argument any different from the drunkard who > looks > for > the key under the light because that's where the light is, not > necessarily > where the key is?
>
> I don't see circularity, but rather the elucidation of a tautology.
> But I'm > not terribly inclined to defend the argument of the tractatus, as I > don't > think it's particularly useful except as an example of where he was > coming from in his later more compelling world. There are huge flaws in the tractatus, my favorite being the summation of Prop. 7 (the famous "whereof we cannot speak, therof we must remain silent") given by Frank Ramsey's translation "You can't say what you can't say and you can't whistle it either."

To the drunk looking for his keys analogy, I think there's a bit of that, and I think some of it is even intentional. That sort of uselessness of the actual arguments is I think part of what he had in mind in saying that the tractatus was meant to be a ladder that you could kick away once you climbed to the top.

Wittgenstein never explores or goes after that "outside" world ("the sense of the world"). His thinking concerns itself only with what "as it is and happens as it does happen."

On the contrary, I think he doesn't think that stuff matters at all. In fact in his journals and in the brown books, he's almost dismissive of that part of experience as stuff that can be through empirical science. It just isn't the proper object of philosophy to deal with that stuff. It's empirical and there are other ways of thinking about it that are more fruitful.

Here I think an analysis of syntax is important -specifically the English syntax, composed of subject and predicate- is important. That is the syntax for an empirical view of the world -where things either happen (are true) or don't happen (are not true). Wittgeinstein accepts this implicitly as the > paradigm, as far as I can tell, with defending why.

>
> well, he's talking about propositions, which by definition are sentences > that can be true or false. Much of what precedes the quoted section deals > with what propositions are, how they work, how they relate to facts, what > facts are etc. And again, i think this is a fair criticism because this > notion of the proposition as a thing at all arises from from Russell and > Whiteheads elucidation of the predicate calculus in The Principals of > Mathematics. That said, I'm not entirely sure I understand what the > distinction you're drawing is, but I do think that we have lots of sentences
> in English which aren't propositions at all, and I think that's part of what > the tractatus and in particular the first part of Philosophical > investigations is trying to get at: that is, there are these parts of the > world we can talk about where the notions of truth and falsity apply, and > there's this other part which is more loose but that allows for a wider > range of meaning than mere propositions do, and there is a wider part of > that that carries neither truth value nor meaning and in that there are a > wide variety of kinds of meaninglessness, nonsense, and senselessness. I > don't think wittgenstein would necessarily disagree with you that it's a > mistake to consider the subject predicate syntax as somehow decisive about > the world, in fact I think the first 100 or so remarks of Philosophical > Investigations are precisely an attack on that kind of view.
>
> Now, instead, consider a syntactical structure replete with conjunctive
> forms (a syntax of possibilities, of potential thought) -as the > agglutinative Turkish syntax is, which records thought in the process of > *emerging (once again, see Eda Anthology), not as true or false but as*

> process, then a philosophical view of such a world would be totally different -pre-analytic, much more inclusive, in which a "subject-predicate" construction is only a part.
>
> "If there is a value which is of value, it must lie outside all happening and being-so. For all happening and being-so is accidental. What makes it non-accidental cannot lie in the world, for otherwise this would again be accidental.
>
> It must lie outside the world."
>
> Here Wittgenstein is practicing, is following Hume's radical skepticism about the "innate logic" of reality to which the continental philosophy (from Spinoza to Kant, etc.) is a counterpoint.
>
> Here I think you're misreading. part of this, tho, is that he's defined "the world" early on as a particularly limited sort of thing. "The world is everything that is the case." again, this is part of what he rejects later in his earlier thinking, and I don't think even he would defend it. But it isn't precisely a recitation of the is/ought problem per se, but rather I think a more nuanced assertion about the nature of "oughts" themselves. It's not a skeptical idea about moral facts, or at least its not just that, but rather a statement about whether we're able to say meaningful things about moral facts. Again, even the phrase "moral facts" he'd probably disavow as not meaninful in someway, but I think the basic form of what he'd say is "well, if you want to be a radical skeptic, go ahead, but the statement that there are not moral facts is just as meaningless as the statement that there are moral facts. You're still stuck in the flybottle if you're even trying to have that conversation. You'll get nowhere, best to come at it > from a > different angle."

>
> Also, there's an important aspect to all this that the section I quoted > doesn't mention, and that's the notion (most recently argued for by Cora > Diamond I believe) that while wittgenstein thought that there were all sorts > of things that couldn't be said, you could still use language to show the > things that you can't talk about. Sadly, Wittgenstein never addresses CS > Peirce directly in the surviving nachlass, although I'm fairly certain he > must have grappled with him at some point because Frank Ramsey thought that > there was in pragmatism a way out of the box the tractatus seems to draw,
> and there's certainly something like James and Peirce style pragmatism in > his thinking that shows up by the time he dictated the brown book, and it's > hard for me to see his later conception of "meaning as use" as anything > other than a kind of pragmatism, albeit not the kind that Richard Rorty > thought it was.
>
> My point here again though is that what he was grappling with was a theory
> of language that seemed to constantly shut down any attempts to say things > about a certain widely experienced and hugely important aspect of human > life, and I think he saw it in a nearly tragic light, which is why I think > he was so happy to describe the attribution of meaning to certain kinds of > nonsense as "bewitchment by language." because it seems like you should be > able to talk about these things, and we feel like when we're talking about > them that we're saying meaningful things, but it's only when we reflect on > what that might really mean that we have to realize that we have know way of > knowing whether what we've said communicates what we hoped or not.

As such,
this becomes a much more epistemological than metaphysical position, and indeed I think that's how he ended up approaching the issue.

"6.42 Hence also there can be no ethical propositions."

Here one can see W's circular thinking in practice.

Again, it's important to note that he's talking about propositions and not sentences, or even more importantly signs. I think he would be ok with the idea of ethical signifiers.

"Propositions cannot express anything higher."

Yes, this is true if the only possible or valid linguistic structure having any hold to reality consisted of the propositions, that is to say, subject-predicate structure.

This is a priori assumption on W's part having to do, as far as I can see, very little connection to reality, the state state in which language function. Subject=predicate is a mere abstraction from it.

I don't see how it you can have sentence that is true or false without it referring to an object and then predicating some quality to the object. You don't need subject-predicate word order to get that, but if you could give me an example of a statement that is capable of being true or false without having some kind of predicate, I might be able to grasp what you're getting
at. To me, the fact that propositions contain predicates seems tautological.

"6.43 If good or bad willing changes the world, it can only change

> the > limits of the world, not the facts; not the things that can be > expressed > in > language."
>
> It seems to me wrong. If you change the limits of language (more > *specifically of a language, that's why the importance of* > translation),
> you > are changing what can be said in it. As I said, here lies the > crucial
> importance of translation and Benjamin's thought about it -on
> disintegration, fragmentation, etc.
>
> but when he's talking about the limits of language he means the > limits of > language, not the limits of a language. he's talking about what can
> and > can't be talked about, full stop, not some concept that might be > expressable
> in one language but difficult to express in another. He's talking > about what > it means for a sentence to have meaning at all, not whether it is > understood > as intended. And I think part of the big reason that Benjamin is > unsatisfying to me on that score is that he relies so heavily on > intention > toward signified objects, and where that goes I follow wittgenstein > into a > severe skepticism about that sort of semiotic notion. it's not at > all clear > what such an object is, and if I recall correctly Benjamin uses > various > words for "bread" in different languages as an example. Well ok, > bread is > pain is brot is pan is lechem is naan is pita is tortilla is > chapati is ...
> ? which do you intend? some ideal form of bread in the mind of god? a > privately held abstraction that we take on faith is in someway > similar to > the private object in the mind of another party to the > conversation? really?
> but what if I sit down at the table and choke a bit and say
> "bread!" do i > really intend that same thing even tho my meaning is similar? no, not > really, i mean, I'm choking, give me bread so i can try to swallow.
> same

> word. same object in the real world i'd signify by saying "this bread is excellent." completely different meaning. And meaning is what Wittgenstein is concerned with.
>
> "In brief, the world must thereby become quite another, it must so to speak wax or wane as a whole.
>
> The world of the happy is quite another than that of the unhappy."
>
> W. ignores the consequences of what he is saying here.
>
> On the contrary, I think he's very conscious of them. I'm not sure what you mean he ignores them?
>
> "6.44 Not how the world is, is the mystical, but that it is."
>
> This sentence remind me of Einstein's "God does not play dice with the universe." Cute, what it does not enter Einstein's thoughts in physics (unless I misunderstand him).
>
> I'd argue with that. I think it's a succint & pithy expression of Einstein's strong commitment to instrumentalism in scientific reasoning, without which it has been argued he'd never have come up with special relativity, on which his rejection of quantum mechanics was founded (which is where that quote comes from, if I recall correctly).
>
> "6.45 The contemplation of the world sub specie aeterni is its contemplation as a limited whole.
>
> The feeling that the world is a limited whole is the mystical feeling."
>
> That's where the great divide between W. and Benjamin comes. Benjamin is

all for breaking down these "wholes" in the realm of "ideal language. He points us to an outline of "a structure of escape."

"Those are the sort of remarks, which he continually made whenever he returned to notions of value and judgement, that I mean when I refer to Wittgenstein's mysticism. One of the things that I think a large number of casual wittgenstein readers misunderstand is the idea that "the limits of the language form the limits of my world" is not a expression of a sort of nominalism, that is, it's not a statement about the world, it's a statement about language. the huge aspect of reality about which we are incapable of having meaningful discourse because we can't say anything meaningful about it, that for Wittgenstein is the most important part, and in that part of human life lies all of the traditional notions of occultism, spirituality,
faith, and religion."

That's where Benjamin goes beyond Wittgeinstein, essentially in my opinion
rebuts him.

I feel like you're misunderstanding the argument though. Wittgenstein doesn't deny that language can be extended and that new ways of speaking and new grammars can be created. he's quite eloquent on that point in the remarks on the foundations of mathematics. What he does reject though is the notion that there's some completeness or idealness of language that is possible or even desirable. rather that language in its vagueness and uncertainty and particularity is where it's most useful and that's how language actually gets used most of the time unless you start getting caught up in philosophical nonsense. Where he draws a limit, he's drawing a limit not at any existing language, but at the possibility of meaning.

> Now, I'm
> not comitted to the notion that he's precisely correct about where he draws
> the line about what can and can't be meant (and again, this is more an > epistemological and psychological claim than it is a metaphysical one). but > i really only want to defend the notion that whereever that line was drawn,
> in wittgenstein's view, and in mine for somewhat different reasons, there is > an area of human experience that is impossible to reach at and describe with > meaningful meaningful language that is no less important for that reason, > that that area of experience is what Wittgenstein referred to as the > mystical, and probably most importantly, my own view that poetry is both > capable and may even be necessary to guide others to encounter that > experience for themselves so that we can be in some sort of communion with > each other even though we can't describe or validate it in the same way that > we could a sentence like "the earth revolves around the sun."
>
> "D. You're right that Grenier is a special case, and I'll admit i was > maybe
> being a little propagandistic in my cooption of Language poetry. I have a > hard time seeing them all as a unified group in any case, but they're a > little too important to me personally to allow for the outright materialism
> that I felt Adam painted them with in his piece, although I think he's > largely right. The appeal to Grenier, I will confess, could be just some > sleight of hand to try to rescue a larger movement from a specific > criticism, and I think it's fair to call me on that. That said, I don't > much > care if any of the big Language folks agree that their work is suspicious
> of
> the materiality of language, i think i see it there anyway as a sort of

> irony that has to counterbalance the extreme focus on the textuality of > writing. To me, reading something like the Chinese Notebook, for example,
> I
> feel like there's a certain amount of whistling at the dark that's going
> on,
> at least as it strikes me."
>
> I sympathize with your divided loyalty about Language School poets, but I > think one should call a spade a spade.
>
> Fair enough. Although I'm tempted to appeal to the Death of the Author > and/or Umberto Eco's notion of machina pigra and just say that I don't care > what Ron Silliman thinks about this particular topic, on my reading The > Chinese Notebook is clearly written in a manner that is self-consciously > suspicious of the materiality of the language as employed. (Although on that > point, my own response to that poem, The Liar Paradox, was in blazevox a few > years ago and can be read here for the curious:
> http://www.blazevox.org/061-jfq.pdf)
>
> Thanks again for the fascinating conversation.
>
> -Jason
>
> guidelines

↑ Index

355. Nic Sebastian

Final Ten Questions on Poets and Technology: Eric Elshtain

Wed 28 Jul 2010

Eric Elshtain responds this week to Ten Questions on Poets and Technology - http://bit.ly/bkJCAo
This series has now ended.

Series' standing page: http://bit.ly/c0aBUb
Best, Nic
Nic Sebastianhttp://verylikeawhale.wordpress.com

The New Busy is not the old busy. Search, chat and e-mail from your inbox. Get started.

↑ Index

356. David Kirschenbaum
boston phoenix on boston poet tea party
Thu 29 Jul 2010

---

http://thephoenix.com/boston/life/105988-marathon-man/?page=1#TOPCONTENT

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W. 28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)
http://itunes.apple.com/WebObjects/MZStore.woa/wa/viewPodcast?id=343169880
For music from Gilmore boys:
http://www.myspace.com/gilmoreboysmusic

↑ Index

357. Douglas Manson
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Thu 29 Jul 2010

---

viva la differance um kenosis ut pictura. we're all pals here in the spacetime continuum.

these are great threads.

On Wed, Jul 28, 2010 at 1:59 PM, Murat Nemet-Nejat <[redacted]>wrote:

> Jason, David, Jim,
>
> This thread has become so vast, in a very good way, so that I do not know how to respond to each (particularly to Jason's meticulous arguments), unless I spend a trans-finite portion of my day doing it, not that that would be a bad thing.

Jason, first let me respond to what you are saying. I think there is more we agree with on Wittgenstein than we disagree with. My objection to him is in the use and consequences of his rhetoric and his effect on poetry and poetics in the United States. It narrows the possibilities of poetry, particularly the way Language School applied his ideas. Let me explain what I mean:

a) It is true that Wittgenstein will not deny that the subject-predicate structure is not the only way a sentence can be constructed; but he delegates every other structure to second class by calling it "meaningless," unable to be expressed as "true or false," etc. (I need to go back to the text and choose a few more words with the same rhetorical effect).

*But who has decided that the nature of reality consists (must express itself) as true or false and everything else is peripheral, secondary. That is a profound, unquestioned assumption on Wittgenstein's part the validity of which to me is much less clear -in fact, to be honest about it, is clearly "false."*

I am more on the side of what Heraclitus says and David quotes:
""The most beautiful world is a heap of rubble tossed down in confusion/at random."

We see truth, if at all, through a glass darkly, which also constantly changes, is fluid. "Factual," "ethical," "pilosophical," even "scientific" values blur are very rarely distinct (a clear demarcation between objective and subjective basically impossible), and to build a reality structure on a fundementalist distinction between true and false (which W. does by privileging a prepositional view of what is real, as opposed to unsayable) is foolhardy. A poet's job, it seems to me, is exactly to deal with that unsayable -shall we consider ourselves to be dealing with nonsense or, as Language School or it follower Flarf does, indulging in language games or google games.

*I do not disagree that we are may be doomed (The Spiritual Life of Replicants deals with that issue) to grasp reality only through language -but that does not mean that we have to do it by entering only through one* straight straight straight gate -the prepositional sentence.

David,
I think we agree in our view of Grenier. I was not aware Grenier's later work was blacklisted by Language School poets. At least they realized what he was getting at and his pursuit went awry from their approach to poetry.

Ciao,

Murat

On Wed, Jul 28, 2010 at 3:56 AM, Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote:

Hey Murat, thanks for the excellent counterpoint.

"6.41 The sense of the world must lie outside the world. In the world everything is as it is and happens as it does happen. In it there is no value -- and if there were, it would be of no value."

Do you not see the circularity of Wittgenstein's argument? While he pays lip service to by being "sympathetic" to ethical impulses, he condescends to it and relegates it to subservient category. If he can not talk "meaningfully" about something, then he does not talk about it. Therefore, that thing becomes invisible: "he didn't write about it because he couldn't." On a grand scale, is this argument any different from the drunkard who looks for the key under the light because that's where the light is, not necessarily where the key is?

I don't see circularity, but rather the elucidation of a tautology. But I'm not terribly inclined to defend the argument of the tractatus, as I don't think it's particularly useful except as an example of where he was coming from in his later more compelling world. There are huge flaws in the tractatus, my favorite being the summation of Prop. 7 (the famous "whereof we cannot speak, therof we must remain silent") given by Frank Ramsey's translation "You can't say what you can't say and you can't whistle it either."

To the drunk looking for his keys analogy, I think there's a bit of that, and I think some of it is even intentional. That sort of uselessness of the actual arguments is I think part of what he had in mind in saying that the > tractatus was meant to be a ladder that you could kick away once you climbed > to the top.

>
> Wittgenstein never explores or goes after that "outside" world ("the sense > of the world"). His thinking concerns itself only with what "as it is and > happens as it does happen."
>
> On the contrary, I think he doesn't think that stuff matters at all. In > fact in his journals and in the brown books, he's almost dismissive of that > part of experience as stuff that can be through empirical science. It just > isn't the proper object of philosophy to deal with that stuff. It's > empirical and there are other ways of thinking about it that are more > fruitful.
>
> Here I think an analysis of syntax is important -specifically the English > syntax, composed of subject and predicate- is important. That is the syntax > for an empirical view of the world -where things either happen (are true)
> or > don't happen (are not true). Wittgeinstein accepts this implicitly as the > paradigm, as far as I can tell, with defending why.
>
> well, he's talking about propositions, which by definition are sentences
> that can be true or false. Much of what precedes the quoted section deals > with what propositions are, how they work, how they relate to facts, what > facts are etc. And again, i think this is a fair criticism because this > notion of the proposition as a thing at all arises from from Russell and > Whiteheads elucidation of the predicate calculus in The Principals of > Mathematics. That said, I'm not entirely sure I understand what the > distinction you're drawing is, but I do think that we have lots of sentences
> in English which aren't propositions at all, and I think that's part of what > the tractatus and in particular the first part of Philosophical > investigations is trying to get at: that is, there are these parts of the world we can talk about where the notions of truth and falsity apply, and there's this other part which is more loose but that allows for a wider range of meaning than mere propositions do, and there is a wider part of that that carries neither truth value nor meaning and in that there are a wide variety of kinds of meaninglessness, nonsense, and senselessness. I don't think wittgenstein would necessarily disagree with you that it's a mistake to consider the subject predicate syntax as somehow decisive about the world, in fact I think the first 100 or so remarks of Philosophical Investigations are precisely an attack on that kind of view.

*Now, instead, consider a syntactical structure replete with conjunctive forms (a syntax of possibilities, of potential thought) -as the agglutinative Turkish syntax is, which records thought in the process of emerging (once again, see Eda Anthology), not as true or false but as process, then a philosophical view of such a world would be totally different -pre-analytic, much more inclusive, in which a "subject-predicate"*
construction is only a part.

"If there is a value which is of value, it must lie outside all happening and being-so. For all happening and being-so is accidental.
What makes it non-accidental cannot lie in the world, for otherwise this would again be accidental.

It must lie outside the world."

Here Wittgenstein is practicing, is following Hume's radical skepticism about the "innate logic" of reality to which the continental philosophy (from Spinoza to Kant, etc.) is a counterpoint.

Here I think you're misreading. part of this, tho, is that he's defined "the world" early on as a particularly limited sort of thing. "The world is everything that is the case." again, this is part of what he rejects later in his earlier thinking, and I don't think even he would defend it. But it isn't precisely a recitation of the is/ought problem per se, but rather I think a more nuanced assertion about the nature of "oughts" themselves. It's not a skeptical idea about moral facts, or at least its not just that, but rather a statement about whether we're able to say meaningful things about > moral facts. Again, even the phrase "moral facts" he'd probably disavow as > not meaninful in someway, but I think the basic form of what he'd say is

> "well, if you want to be a radical skeptic, go ahead, but the statement that > there are not moral facts is just as meaningless as the statement that there > are moral facts. You're still stuck in the flybottle if you're even trying > to have that conversation. You'll get nowhere, best to come at it from a > different angle."
>
> Also, there's an important aspect to all this that the section I quoted > doesn't mention, and that's the notion (most recently argued for by Cora > Diamond I believe) that while wittgenstein thought that there were all sorts > of things that couldn't be said, you could still use language to show the > things that you can't talk about. Sadly, Wittgenstein never addresses CS
> Peirce directly in the surviving nachlass, although I'm fairly certain he > must have grappled with him at some point because Frank Ramsey thought that > there was in pragmatism a way out of the box the tractatus seems to draw,
> and there's certainly something like James and Peirce style pragmatism in > his thinking that shows up by the time he dictated the brown book, and it's > hard for me to see his later conception of "meaning as use" as anything
> other than a kind of pragmatism, albeit not the kind that Richard Rorty > thought it was.
>
> My point here again though is that what he was grappling with was a theory
> of language that seemed to constantly shut down any attempts to say things > about a certain widely experienced and hugely important aspect of human > life, and I think he saw it in a nearly tragic light, which is why I think > he was so happy to describe the attribution of meaning to certain kinds of > nonsense as "bewitchment by language." because it seems like you should be > able to talk about these things, and we feel like when we're talking about > them that we're saying meaningful things, but it's only when we reflect on > what that might really mean that we have to realize that we have know way of > knowing whether what we've said communicates what we hoped or not. As such,

> this becomes a much more epistemological than metaphysical position, and indeed I think that's how he ended up approaching the issue.
>
> "6.42 Hence also there can be no ethical propositions."
>
> Here one can see W's circular thinking in practice.
>
> Again, it's important to note that he's talking about propositions and not sentences, or even more importantly signs. I think he would be ok with the idea of ethical signifiers.
>
> "Propositions cannot express anything higher."
>
> Yes, this is true if the only possible or valid linguistic structure having any hold to reality consisted of the propositions, that is to say, subject-predicate structure.
>
> This is a priori assumption on W's part having to do, as far as I can see, very little connection to reality, the state state in which language function. Subject=predicate is a mere abstraction from it.
>
> I don't see how it you can have sentence that is true or false without it referring to an object and then predicating some quality to the object. You don't need subject-predicate word order to get that, but if you could give me an example of a statement that is capable of being true or false without having some kind of predicate, I might be able to grasp what you're getting at. To me, the fact that propositions contain predicates seems tautological.
>
> "6.43 If good or bad willing changes the world, it can only change the limits of the world, not the facts; not the things that can be expressed in language."

*It seems to me wrong. If you change the limits of language (more specifically of a language, that's why the importance of translation), you* are changing what can be said in it. As I said, here lies the crucial importance of translation and Benjamin's thought about it -on disintegration, fragmentation, etc.

but when he's talking about the limits of language he means the limits of language, not the limits of a language. he's talking about what can and can't be talked about, full stop, not some concept that might be expressable in one language but difficult to express in another. He's talking about what it means for a sentence to have meaning at all, not whether it is understood as intended. And I think part of the big reason that Benjamin is unsatisfying to me on that score is that he relies so heavily on intention toward signified objects, and where that goes I follow wittgenstein into a severe skepticism about that sort of semiotic notion. it's not at all clear what such an object is, and if I recall correctly Benjamin uses various words for "bread" in different languages as an example. Well ok, bread is pain is brot is pan is lechem is naan is pita is tortilla is chapati is
...
? which do you intend? some ideal form of bread in the mind of god? a privately held abstraction that we take on faith is in someway similar to the private object in the mind of another party to the conversation? really?
but what if I sit down at the table and choke a bit and say "bread!" do i really intend that same thing even tho my meaning is similar? no, not really, i mean, I'm choking, give me bread so i can try to swallow. same word. same object in the real world i'd signify by saying "this bread is excellent." completely different meaning. And meaning is what Wittgenstein is concerned with.

"In brief, the world must thereby become quite another, it must so to speak
wax or wane as a whole.

The world of the happy is quite another than that of the unhappy."

W. ignores the consequences of what he is saying here.

On the contrary, I think he's very conscious of them. I'm not sure what you mean he ignores them?

"6.44 Not how the world is, is the mystical, but that it is."

This sentence remind me of Einstein's "God does not play dice with the universe." Cute, what it does not enter Einstein's thoughts in physics (unless I misunderstand him).

I'd argue with that. I think it's a succint & pithy expression of Einstein's strong commitment to instrumentalism in scientific reasoning, without which it has been argued he'd never have come up with special relativity, on which his rejection of quantum mechanics was founded (which is where that quote comes from, if I recall correctly).

"6.45 The contemplation of the world sub specie aeterni is its contemplation as a limited whole.

The feeling that the world is a limited whole is the mystical feeling."

That's where the great divide between W. and Benjamin comes. Benjamin is all for breaking down these "wholes" in the realm of "ideal language. He points us to an outline of "a structure of escape."

"Those are the sort of remarks, which he continually made whenever he returned to notions of value and judgement, that I mean when I refer to Wittgenstein's mysticism. One of the things that I think a large number of casual wittgenstein readers misunderstand is the idea that "the limits of the language form the limits of my world" is not a expression of a sort of nominalism, that is, it's not a statement about the world, it's a statement about language. the huge aspect of reality about which we are incapable of having meaningful discourse because we can't say anything meaningful about it, that for Wittgenstein is the most important part, and in that part

> of
> human life lies all of the traditional notions of occultism,
> spirituality,
> faith, and religion."
>
> That's where Benjamin goes beyond Wittgeinstein, essentially in my > opinion
> rebuts him.
>
> I feel like you're misunderstanding the argument though. Wittgenstein > doesn't deny that language can be extended and that new ways of speaking
> and
> new grammars can be created. he's quite eloquent on that point in the > remarks on the foundations of mathematics. What he does reject though is
> the > notion that there's some completeness or idealness of language that is > possible or even desirable. rather that language in its vagueness and > uncertainty and particularity is where it's most useful and that's how > language actually gets used most of the time unless you start getting > caught > up in philosophical nonsense. Where he draws a limit, he's drawing a > limit > not at any existing language, but at the possibility of meaning. Now, I'm > not comitted to the notion that he's precisely correct about where he > draws
> the line about what can and can't be meant (and again, this is more an > epistemological and psychological claim than it is a metaphysical one).
> but > i really only want to defend the notion that whereever that line was > drawn,
> in wittgenstein's view, and in mine for somewhat different reasons, there
> is > an area of human experience that is impossible to reach at and describe > with > meaningful meaningful language that is no less important for that reason,
> that that area of experience is what Wittgenstein referred to as the > mystical, and probably most importantly, my own view that poetry is both > capable and may even be necessary to guide others to encounter that > experience for themselves so that we can be in some sort of communion
> with > each other even though we can't describe or validate it in the same way
> that > we could a sentence like "the earth revolves around the sun."
>
> "D. You're right that Grenier is a special case, and I'll admit i was > maybe

being a little propagandistic in my cooption of Language poetry. I have a hard time seeing them all as a unified group in any case, but they're a little too important to me personally to allow for the outright materialism
that I felt Adam painted them with in his piece, although I think he's largely right. The appeal to Grenier, I will confess, could be just some sleight of hand to try to rescue a larger movement from a specific criticism, and I think it's fair to call me on that. That said, I don't much care if any of the big Language folks agree that their work is suspicious of the materiality of language, i think i see it there anyway as a sort of irony that has to counterbalance the extreme focus on the textuality of writing. To me, reading something like the Chinese Notebook, for example, I feel like there's a certain amount of whistling at the dark that's going on,
at least as it strikes me."

I sympathize with your divided loyalty about Language School poets, but I think one should call a spade a spade.

Fair enough. Although I'm tempted to appeal to the Death of the Author and/or Umberto Eco's notion of machina pigra and just say that I don't care
what Ron Silliman thinks about this particular topic, on my reading The Chinese Notebook is clearly written in a manner that is self-consciously suspicious of the materiality of the language as employed. (Although on that point, my own response to that poem, The Liar Paradox, was in blazevox a few years ago and can be read here for the curious:
http://www.blazevox.org/061-jfq.pdf)

Thanks again for the fascinating conversation.

-Jason

guidelines

↑ Index

358. Séamas Cain
Signs & Writings
Thu 29 Jul 2010

"Signs & Writings"

at the Fundació Suñol

in Barcelona, Spain

http://fundaciosunol.org/exposicions/exposicions.php?lang=2

"All the works in this exhibition form part of the Josep Suñol Collection and were created between 1972 and the present day. The forty-two pieces chosen here reveal the recurring use of signs and writing in painting, collage and tapestry as a visual reading of the artists' need to communicate."

The artistic contributions document "multiple polysemy, which this exhibition aims to show with signs and writing as the backbone to the aesthetic language, whose iconography of composite material lines sketches out the artists' thoughts and is genetically contained in their signs, in the world of their ideas."

http://fundaciosunol.org/exposicions/exposicions.php?lang=2

Creative regards,

Séamas Cain
http://www.saorsainn.net
http://alazanto.org/seamascain
http://seamascain-writernetwork.org

↑ Index

359. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Thu 29 Jul 2010

Jason,

a) A few other condescending attributions by Wittgenstein: "Nonsensical," "bewitchment of language." All he had to add was "young and foolish," "wet behind the ears humanity. "Nonsensical" is a logical positivist term; "bewitchment of language" is just a more "poetic" expression of the same thought. Personally, I have grave doubts how far W.' moved away from his logical positivist origins at Cambridge.

b) As transfinite sets imply, any set can finally be broken to become the subset of another set, ad infinitum -building, breaking down and rebuilding... That way the distinction between "language" and "a language," as you put it, does not really exist. If so, there is not much difference between Witgenstein's "Language." and Benjamin's "ideal language." In this specific sense, in his use of the concept of "language," one might argue that W. -the quintessential liberal Christian Jew- was a cabbalist.

The difference, it seems to me, between W. and B. is that for W. "language" is a final absolute, therefore, unsayable. Surprisingly, counter-intuitively, for B. "ideal language" is not. B's "ideal language constantly breaks down, reforms, expands itself. It is a process, a continuous one.

Here one come, I think, to Benjamin's rebuttal of Wittgenstein within the framework, body of language itself, how language constantly, continuously breaks out of its limits towards the unsayable -which in its turn may create new fields of the unsayable: in the central importance of quotations and fragments (deterioration, fragmentation) in his writing, in his rhetorical ideal. Quotations are meta-factual. They are conjectural gestures, a rhetoric of possibilities, potentialities. They are on the level of language also always true (they are quoting someone) regardless of what they are saying. By definition quotations also are always fragments, taken from a larger whole. They need complementation (one of the constant features, themes in this thread has been to bring in what W. said before or after the specific discussed passage). When quotations are placed together, the need for complementation occurs across their jagged edges empowering the empty space among them. This is the unsayable, spiritual space.

The Arcades Project resolves the dilemma, blind alley W's thought leads us. It creates a detailed analysis of the physical, ethical, emotional, spiritual, intellectual analysis of the past continuing into the present (he called it "dialectical history). Here W's distinction between factual and ethical (nonsensical, etc.) has disappeared, has been resolved (that's why Adorno hated The Arcades Project writings so much and wanted to edit them out -they were too "redeptive," not positivist enough).

c) Jason, you say: "I don't see how it you can have sentence that is true or false without it referring to an object and then predicating some quality to the object. You don't need subject-predicate word order to get that, but if you could give me an example of a statement that is capable of being true or false without having some kind of predicate, I might be able to grasp what you're getting at. To me, the fact that propositions contain predicates seems tautological."

As I said, The Arcades Project is such an example. Through quotations (in which Benjamin's own ideas also function as quotations), Benjamin makes statements (in the shape of gestures), not about "the world/ realty,"; but about language where the distinction W. makes through abstraction does not exist. All the dimensions of thought and experience -ethics, history, facts, etc. etc,- blur, blend into each other. Since humanity experiences "reality" through language and its manners of regeneration, Benjamin's method seems to me much less nonsensical or "bewitchment" of reality than Wittgenstein'.

d) I am glad that you see words like "nonsensical, etc. should lose their negative connotations. But, of we do so, doesn't Wittgenstein tragic sense of life, which poets are so drawn to, basically vanish?

GREAT THREAD. THANK YOU.

Ciao,

Murat

On Wed, Jul 28, 2010 at 1:59 PM, Murat Nemet-Nejat <[redacted]>wrote:

> Jason, David, Jim,
>
> This thread has become so vast, in a very good way, so that I do not know how to respond to each (particularly to Jason's meticulous arguments), unless I spend a trans-finite portion of my day doing it, not that that would be a bad thing.
>
> Jason, first let me respond to what you are saying. I think there is more we agree with on Wittgenstein than we disagree with. My objection to him is in the use and consequences of his rhetoric and his effect on poetry and poetics in the United States. It narrows the possibilities of poetry, particularly the way Language School applied his ideas. Let me explain what I mean:
>
> a) It is true that Wittgenstein will not deny that the subject-predicate structure is not the only way a sentence can be constructed; but he delegates every other structure to second class by calling it "meaningless," unable to be expressed as "true or false," etc. (I need to go back to the text and choose a few more words with the same rhetorical effect).
>
> *But who has decided that the nature of reality consists (must express itself) as true or false and everything else is peripheral, secondary. That is a profound, unquestioned assumption on Wittgenstein's part the validity of which to me is much less clear -in fact, to be honest about it, is clearly "false."*
>
> I am more on the side of what Heraclitus says and David quotes:

> ""The most beautiful world is a heap of rubble tossed down in confusion/at random."
>
> We see truth, if at all, through a glass darkly, which also constantly changes, is fluid. "Factual," "ethical," "pilosophical," even "scientific" values blur are very rarely distinct (a clear demarcation between objective and subjective basically impossible), and to build a reality structure on a fundementalist distinction between true and false (which W. does by privileging a prepositional view of what is real, as opposed to unsayable) is foolhardy. A poet's job, it seems to me, is exactly to deal with that unsayable -shall we consider ourselves to be dealing with nonsense or, as Language School or it follower Flarf does, indulging in language games or google games.
>
> *I do not disagree that we are may be doomed (The Spiritual Life of Replicants deals with that issue) to grasp reality only through language -but that does not mean that we have to do it by entering only through one straight straight straight gate -the prepositional sentence.*
>
> David,
> I think we agree in our view of Grenier. I was not aware Grenier's later work was blacklisted by Language School poets. At least they realized what he was getting at and his pursuit went awry from their approach to poetry.
>
> Ciao,
>
> Murat
>
> On Wed, Jul 28, 2010 at 3:56 AM, Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Hey Murat, thanks for the excellent counterpoint.
>
> "6.41 The sense of the world must lie outside the world. In the world everything is as it is and happens as it does happen. In it there is no value -- and if there were, it would be of no value."
>
> Do you not see the circularity of Wittgenstein's argument? While he pays lip > service to by being "sympathetic" to ethical impulses, he condescends to it > and relegates it to subservient category. If he can not talk "meaningfully"
> about something, then he does not talk about it. Therefore, that thing becomes invisible: "he didn't write about it because he couldn't." On a grand scale, is this argument any different from the drunkard who looks for the key under the light because that's where the light is, not necessarily where the key is?

I don't see circularity, but rather the elucidation of a tautology. But I'm not terribly inclined to defend the argument of the tractatus, as I don't think it's particularly useful except as an example of where he was coming from in his later more compelling world. There are huge flaws in the tractatus, my favorite being the summation of Prop. 7 (the famous "whereof we cannot speak, therof we must remain silent") given by Frank Ramsey's translation "You can't say what you can't say and you can't whistle it either."

To the drunk looking for his keys analogy, I think there's a bit of that, and I think some of it is even intentional. That sort of uselessness of the actual arguments is I think part of what he had in mind in saying that the tractatus was meant to be a ladder that you could kick away once you climbed to the top.

Wittgenstein never explores or goes after that "outside" world ("the sense of the world"). His thinking concerns itself only with what "as it is and happens as it does happen."

On the contrary, I think he doesn't think that stuff matters at all. In fact in his journals and in the brown books, he's almost dismissive of that part of experience as stuff that can be through empirical science. It just isn't the proper object of philosophy to deal with that stuff. It's empirical and there are other ways of thinking about it that are more fruitful.

Here I think an analysis of syntax is important -specifically the English syntax, composed of subject and predicate- is important. That is the syntax for an empirical view of the world -where things either happen (are true) or don't happen (are not true). Wittgeinstein accepts this implicitly as the paradigm, as far as I can tell, with defending why.

> well, he's talking about propositions, which by definition are sentences that can be true or false. Much of what precedes the quoted section deals with what propositions are, how they work, how they relate to facts, what facts are etc. And again, i think this is a fair criticism because this notion of the proposition as a thing at all arises from from Russell and Whiteheads elucidation of the predicate calculus in The Principals of Mathematics. That said, I'm not entirely sure I understand what the distinction you're drawing is, but I do think that we have lots of sentences in English which aren't propositions at all, and I think that's part of what the tractatus and in particular the first part of Philosophical investigations is trying to get at: that is, there are these parts of the world we can talk about where the notions of truth and falsity apply, and there's this other part which is more loose but that allows for a wider range of meaning than mere propositions do, and there is a wider part of that that carries neither truth value nor meaning and in that there are a wide variety of kinds of meaninglessness, nonsense, and senselessness. I don't think wittgenstein would necessarily disagree with you that it's a mistake to consider the subject predicate syntax as somehow decisive about the world, in fact I think the first 100 or so remarks of Philosophical Investigations are precisely an attack on that kind of view.
>
> *Now, instead, consider a syntactical structure replete with conjunctive forms (a syntax of possibilities, of potential thought) -as the agglutinative Turkish syntax is, which records thought in the process of emerging (once again, see Eda Anthology), not as true or false but as process, then a philosophical view of such a world would be totally different -pre-analytic, much more inclusive, in which a "subject-predicate"*
> construction is only a part.
>
> "If there is a value which is of value, it must lie outside all happening and being-so. For all happening and being-so is accidental.
> What makes it non-accidental cannot lie in the world, for otherwise this would again be accidental.
>
> It must lie outside the world."
>
> Here Wittgenstein is practicing, is following Hume's radical skepticism about the "innate logic" of reality to which the continental philosophy (from Spinoza to Kant, etc.) is a counterpoint.
>
> Here I think you're misreading. part of this, tho, is that he's defined "the world" early on as a particularly limited sort of thing. "The world is everything that is the case." again, this is part of what he rejects later in his earlier thinking, and I don't think even he would defend it. But it isn't precisely a recitation of the is/ought problem per se, but rather I think a more nuanced assertion about the nature of "oughts" themselves. It's not a skeptical idea about moral facts, or at least its not just that, but rather a statement about whether we're able to say meaningful things about moral facts. Again, even the phrase "moral facts" he'd probably disavow as not meaninful in someway, but I think the basic form of what he'd say is "well, if you want to be a radical skeptic, go ahead, but the statement that there are not moral facts is just as meaningless as the statement that there are moral facts. You're still stuck in the flybottle if you're even trying to have that conversation. You'll get nowhere, best to come at it from a different angle."

Also, there's an important aspect to all this that the section I quoted doesn't mention, and that's the notion (most recently argued for by Cora Diamond I believe) that while wittgenstein thought that there were all sorts of things that couldn't be said, you could still use language to show the things that you can't talk about. Sadly, Wittgenstein never addresses CS Peirce directly in the surviving nachlass, although I'm fairly certain he must have grappled with him at some point because Frank Ramsey thought that there was in pragmatism a way out of the box the tractatus seems to draw, and there's certainly something like James and Peirce style pragmatism in his thinking that shows up by the time he dictated the brown book, and it's hard for me to see his later conception of "meaning as use" as anything other than a kind of pragmatism, albeit not the kind that Richard Rorty thought it was.

My point here again though is that what he was grappling with was a theory of language that seemed to constantly shut down any attempts to say things about a certain widely experienced and hugely important aspect of human life, and I think he saw it in a nearly tragic light, which is why I think he was so happy to describe the attribution of meaning to certain kinds of nonsense as "bewitchment by language." because it seems like you should be able to talk about these things, and we feel like when we're talking about them that we're saying meaningful things, but it's only when we reflect on what that might really mean that we have to realize that we have know way of knowing whether what we've said communicates what we hoped or not. As such, this becomes a much more epistemological than metaphysical position, and indeed I think that's how he ended up approaching the issue.

"6.42 Hence also there can be no ethical propositions."

Here one can see W's circular thinking in practice.

Again, it's important to note that he's talking about propositions and not sentences, or even more importantly signs. I think he would be ok with the idea of ethical signifiers.

> "Propositions cannot express anything higher."
>
> Yes, this is true if the only possible or valid linguistic structure having any hold to reality consisted of the propositions, that is to say, subject-predicate structure.
>
> This is a priori assumption on W's part having to do, as far as I can see, very little connection to reality, the state state in which language function. Subject=predicate is a mere abstraction from it.
>
> I don't see how it you can have sentence that is true or false without it referring to an object and then predicating some quality to the object. You don't need subject-predicate word order to get that, but if you could give me an example of a statement that is capable of being true or false without having some kind of predicate, I might be able to grasp what you're getting at. To me, the fact that propositions contain predicates seems tautological.
>
> "6.43 If good or bad willing changes the world, it can only change the limits of the world, not the facts; not the things that can be expressed in language."
>
> *It seems to me wrong. If you change the limits of language (more specifically of a language, that's why the importance of translation), you are changing what can be said in it. As I said, here lies the crucial importance of translation and Benjamin's thought about it -on disintegration, fragmentation, etc.*
>
> but when he's talking about the limits of language he means the limits of language, not the limits of a language. he's talking about what can and can't be talked about, full stop, not some concept that might be expressable in one language but difficult to express in another. He's talking about what it means for a sentence to have meaning at all, not whether it is understood as intended. And I think part of the big reason that Benjamin is unsatisfying to me on that score is that he relies so heavily on intention toward signified objects, and where that goes I follow wittgenstein into a severe skepticism about that sort of semiotic notion. it's not at all clear what such an object is, and if I recall correctly Benjamin uses various words for "bread" in different languages as an example. Well ok, bread is pain is brot is pan is lechem is naan is pita is tortilla is chapati is ... ? which do you intend? some ideal form of bread in the mind of god? a privately held abstraction that we take on faith is in someway similar to the private object in the mind of another party to the conversation? really? but what if I sit down at the table and choke a bit and say "bread!" do i really intend that same thing even tho my meaning is similar? no, not really, i mean, I'm choking, give me bread so i can try to swallow. same word. same object in the real world i'd signify by saying "this bread is excellent." completely different meaning. And meaning is what Wittgenstein is concerned with.

"In brief, the world must thereby become quite another, it must so to speak
wax or wane as a whole.

The world of the happy is quite another than that of the unhappy."

W. ignores the consequences of what he is saying here.

On the contrary, I think he's very conscious of them. I'm not sure what you mean he ignores them?

"6.44 Not how the world is, is the mystical, but that it is."

This sentence remind me of Einstein's "God does not play dice with the universe." Cute, what it does not enter Einstein's thoughts in physics (unless I misunderstand him).

I'd argue with that. I think it's a succint & pithy expression of Einstein's strong commitment to instrumentalism in scientific reasoning, without which it has been argued he'd never have come up with special relativity, on which his rejection of quantum mechanics was founded (which is where that quote comes from, if I recall correctly).

"6.45 The contemplation of the world sub specie aeterni is its contemplation
as a limited whole.

The feeling that the world is a limited whole is the mystical feeling."

That's where the great divide between W. and Benjamin comes. Benjamin is all for breaking down these "wholes" in the realm of "ideal language. He points us to an outline of "a structure of escape."

"Those are the sort of remarks, which he continually made whenever he returned to notions of value and judgement, that I mean when I refer to Wittgenstein's mysticism. One of the things that I think a large number of casual wittgenstein readers misunderstand is the idea that "the limits of the language form the limits of my world" is not a expression of a sort of nominalism, that is, it's not a statement about the world, it's a statement about language. the huge aspect of reality about which we are incapable of having meaningful discourse because we can't say anything meaningful about it, that for Wittgenstein is the most important part, and in that part of human life lies all of the traditional notions of occultism, spirituality, faith, and religion."

That's where Benjamin goes beyond Wittgeinstein, essentially in my opinion rebuts him.

I feel like you're misunderstanding the argument though. Wittgenstein doesn't deny that language can be extended and that new ways of speaking and new grammars can be created. he's quite eloquent on that point in the remarks on the foundations of mathematics. What he does reject though is the notion that there's some completeness or idealness of language that is possible or even desirable. rather that language in its vagueness and uncertainty and particularity is where it's most useful and that's how language actually gets used most of the time unless you start getting caught up in philosophical nonsense. Where he draws a limit, he's drawing a limit not at any existing language, but at the possibility of meaning. Now, I'm not comitted to the notion that he's precisely correct about where he draws the line about what can and can't be meant (and again, this is more an epistemological and psychological claim than it is a metaphysical one). but i really only want to defend the notion that whereever that line was drawn, in wittgenstein's view, and in mine for somewhat different reasons, there is an area of human experience that is impossible to reach at and describe with meaningful meaningful language that is no less important for that reason, that that area of experience is what Wittgenstein referred to as the mystical, and probably most importantly, my own view that poetry is both capable and may even be necessary to guide others to encounter that experience for themselves so that we can be in some sort of communion with each other even though we can't describe or validate it in the same way that we could a sentence like "the earth revolves around the sun."

"D. You're right that Grenier is a special case, and I'll admit i was maybe being a little propagandistic in my cooption of Language poetry. I have a hard time seeing them all as a unified group in any case, but they're a little too important to me personally to allow for the outright materialism that I felt Adam painted them with in his piece, although I think he's largely right. The appeal to Grenier, I will confess, could be just some sleight of hand to try to rescue a larger movement from a specific criticism, and I think it's fair to call me on that. That said, I don't much care if any of the big Language folks agree that their work is suspicious of the materiality of language, i think i see it there anyway as a sort of irony that has to counterbalance the extreme focus on the textuality of writing. To me, reading something like the Chinese Notebook, for example, I feel like there's a certain amount of whistling at the dark that's going on, at least as it strikes me."

I sympathize with your divided loyalty about Language School poets, but I think one should call a spade a spade.

Fair enough. Although I'm tempted to appeal to the Death of the Author and/or Umberto Eco's notion of machina pigra and just say that I don't care what Ron Silliman thinks about this particular topic, on my reading The Chinese Notebook is clearly written in a manner that is self-consciously suspicious of the materiality of the language as employed. (Although on that point, my own response to that poem, The Liar Paradox, was in blazevox a few years ago and can be read here for the curious: http://www.blazevox.org/061-jfq.pdf)

Thanks again for the fascinating conversation.

-Jason

↑ Index

360. Mark Prejsnar
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Thu 29 Jul 2010

"> the trajectory of Grenier , his works, for some long time black listed by > his former colleagues in the 'Language-centered" writing "community"-- "
>

this is indeed a fascinating claim ... blacklisted just how? details ????

--mark

"Roads
of excess were roads not taken, and that has made all the difference."

--Jerome McGann

--- On Wed, 7/28/10, Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
To: [redacted]
Date: Wednesday, July 28, 2010, 10:13 PM

marvelous david, thanks so much. there's a lot to chew on here, but I wanted to remark that for me at least, I think both the connection with Stein's early poetry so heavily laden with parataxis as it was and with Whitmans continual revision as a connection to refiguring the notion of the book, resonate with the sort of mysticism that I think i see in Grenier, something akin to text as process rather than product.

this, in my thinking at least, connects up with a rather fruitless obsessive period i spent shortly after the publication of the complete Ted Berrigan trying to find correspondences to Alfred North Whitehead's process philosophy in his various mundane occasional poems (by which i mean the often repeated trope in his poetry of picking a day or a set of activities and memorializing them in a poem eg today in ann arbor, 10 things i do every day, memorial day, etc.). At the end of my researches which didn't bear much out, after I got over my disappointment in discovering the great organizing principle I thought i'd discovered in fact was my own misreading of Whitehead, i realized i'd been looking very much at the wrong thing and that the real process philosophy stuff had to do more with the way he was compasing things than with any underlying metaphysics.

anyway, Berrigan also is a favorite spiritual master of mine, and what you're talking about in Grenier I think I see a bit in some of Berrigan as well.

On Jul 27, 2010, at 9:40 PM, David Chirot wrote:

> a little side note: (re Grenier/Trakl/Wittgenstein)
>
> Robert Grenier early in his writing life translated a few (four or more) poems of Trakl's for an anthology--
>
> Grenier has by some been considered as a mystic; by far his greatest philosophical interest/influence is Heidegger--
>
> In "I HATE SPEECH"--One might consider the context, the time period--
>
> on the one hand, the speech driven poetics of Projective Verse and many aspectsof Black Mountain, of the new York School--
> as well as it being a time period swamped in SPEECHES-- > coming from al directions and all media--
>
> living and teaching in Franconia, NH, Grenier, while doing his daily running as well as sitting and listeing intently for hours to the sound of water dripping in a cistern--and to recordings of Pygmy music & sounds--
>
> one finds Grenier developing his ear ever more acutely attuned to the smallest particles of both speech as SOUND and as sign--
> the variety of ways in which for years his works have been published/presented, with an emphasis on the physical/visual/sonic structure literally and literarily of the Book-- > taking it apart, putting it back togther in another from--whether as huge poster as la M'ASS AVE or box as in SENTENCES and also the three parts black box encased series of visual/verbl poems put out by by O Books ("Minnestoa" etc--)--
> and the varying sizes and shapes of other tests-- > culminating in the huge serial works done in "lawyer's office "color markers--
>
> in a Talk given at the Robert frost Room at Franconia--published in the late 90's--(forgive mne for a moment here the editor/publisher escapes me--wil come back: Stephen Dignazio--)--
>
> Grenier notes that an interesting question to investigate is the conjunction between among, "only the imagination is real" of WCW's Spring and All and the "no ideas but in things/Mr" of Paterson--
>
> to think on /with these as a both/and rather than the usual "either/or"--
>
> to find ways in which there is an identification of the word and thing, then the letter and thing--so that the forming of a letter itself handwritten in time--is an emergence/appearance of sound & image simulateneously--at the same time as they are both physical things in action--

Olson wanted the citizen to go faster, faster--so that one thing follows on another--the action of the poem essaying to "pull even, " equal, that is, to the real itself"--with the action--

no more of the Aristotelian "after the fact" of writing following the action, behind it--

but--drawing even, so that action/writing take place as nearly as possible simultaenously--

Rimbaud already in the "Lettres du voyant" to Demeny and izambard in 1870--had written of the poetry of the Future "preceding the action"

which i have written on as being carried out literally/literarily by Rimbaud in that his writings precede in their descriptions, images, words--the actions which he began to live out after he stopped writing--

how many of his letters when no longer a poet carry the very images he has written of years earlier as Poetry & Prose Poetry----and now writes simply as bald description factual documents--

Rimbaud also wrote of the poet of the Future (also greatly effected by the total ful emancipation of Women)--as being "not unlike the Greek"--
one notes in Grenier's studies of Heidegger the many essays re Greek thought and poetry --

the trajectory of Grenier , his works, for some long time black listed by his former colleagues in the 'Language-centered" writing "community"--

has been one of far more radically "outside" work & life than those of his peers, in formal and philosophical, sonic/visual/visceral work--

Grenier's long involvements with the texts of the early Stein (which he was teaching at Franconia--as the "Yale Stein" became available)--as well as his studies singly, as teacher and in a reading group including Leslie Scalapino--in Whitman--the versionsof Leaves of Grass culminating esp in The Deathbed Edition--link him with the early modernism of WCW and the early Stein--as wel as the 19th century Whitman--whose work was not a "once and for all " "set in stone" text but an ongoing series of versions, alterations, rearrangements, additions, subtractions, changes in names, spellings, grammar, syntax--

(SERIES after al is the title of a Grenier book)--

i wd agree with many that MOBY DICK is a postmodernist so to speak text --and i wd include the work of E A Poe as well--

D H Lawrence in his STUDIES IN CLASSIC AMERICAN LITERATURE (which pre> dates

> WCW's In the American Grain)--notes a number of times that the Americans have relegated their classic works, in the "old American art speech"--to the nursery--"adventure stories, : :detective tales," science-fictions stories," etc etc--the Classic American texts dealt with issues, ideas, images, which the 20th century American, according to Lawrence, has to banish--to the nursery!--
>
> "the pure products of America go crazy" as WCW noted--
>
> "out there"--("the figure of Outward")--though, one might say, is the as yet hidden in plain site/sight/cite "classic american" outsider/avant-garde postmodern etc--
>
> ("where the 'outyard" is the 'backyard' to paraphrase from Grenier's little work on Narrative for the old Olson series--)
>
> "The blank and ruin we see in Nature may be within our own eye"--(R W Emerson)
> "The most beautiful world is a heap of rubble tossed down in confusion/at random"--Heraclitus
>
> "To shut the eyes is travel"--Emily Dickinson
> "My voice goes after/what my eyes can't reach"--Walter Whitman
>
> "Writing is time travel"--W S Burroughs
> "It is a science-fiction film set in the past"--Federico Fellini, on his SATYRICON-

↑ Index

361. Danny Snelson

Simultaneous Online / Printed Matter Edit Publications Book Launch (11 Books Concerning Tan Lin's 7CV, Postcard, MediaWiki)

Thu 29 Jul 2010

Good Afternoon Poetics,

Announcing dual launch of the inaugural run of Edit Publications!

Printed Matter Launch<http://printedmatter.org/news/news.cfm?article_id=688> Hard copies sold at Printed Matter prices. White wine!

&

Edit Publications Online <http://aphasic-letters.com/edit/publications.html> All books available for free download or (mostly) at-cost print-on-demand.

If yr in NY: join us TONIGHT at PRINTED MATTER from 5-7 pm &for drinks at Cafe Loup afterward!
Otherwise: please make yrself at home on the website!

Yrs,
Danny

: :

Network Publishing at Printed Matter.
A LAUNCH: Thursday, JULY 29th, 5-7PM
195 Tenth Avenue, New York, NY 10001

A Series of Publications Edited by Danny Snelson

Concerning the Republication of Tan Linâ€™s Seven Controlled Vocabularies and Obituary 2004. The Joy of Cooking

On July 29th, Edit Publications launches eleven books expanding Tan Linâ€™s *Seven Controlled Vocabularies and Obiturary 2004. The Joy of Cooking *(Wesleyan Poetry Series, 2010). These printed editions derive from an event at the Kelly Writers House at the University of Pennsylvania on April 12th, 2010 titled â€œHandmade book, PDF, lulu, Appendix, Powerpoint, Kanban Board/Post-Its, Blurb, Dual Language (Chinese/ English) Edition, micro lecture, Selectric II interview, wine/cheese reception, Q&A (xerox), film.â€

Books published include: Purple/Pink Appendix by Tan Lin with an introduction by Danny Snelson, afterword by Charles Bernstein and indexes by Lawrence Giffin, Ashley Leavitt, John Paetsch, Danny Snelson, and Tan Lin. * Blurb* by Tan Lin. *Event Inventory and Documentation *(monochrome and polychrome editions) by Jeremy JF Thompson. Selected *Essays About a Bibliography, *with contributions by forty-eight authors. *7CV Chinese Edition (1-4) *(!!! characters !!!). 7CV Critical Reader, with full text downloads in PDF format. Printed on demand by lulu.com in a continual state of revision.

Event Editors and Authors include: Matthew Abess, Chris Alexander, Louis Asekoff, Stan Apps, Danielle Aubert, Charles Bernstein, Marie Buck, Lee Ann Brown, E. Shaskan Bumas, Ken Chen, Evelyn Chiâ€™en, Clare Churchouse, Cecilia Corrigan, AMJ Crawford, Kieran Daly, Monica de la Torre, Thom Donovan, Patrick Durgin, Kareem Estefan, J. Gordon Faylor, Al Filreis, Thomas Fink, Mashinka Firunts, Robert Fitterman, Jonathan Flatley, Brad Flis, Peter W. Fong, Christopher Funkhouser, Kristen Gallagher, Sarah Gambito, Ellen Gruber Garvey, Kenneth Goldsmith, Cecilia Gronberg/Jonas (J) Magnusson, Heidi Brayman Hackel, Erin Gautche, Lawrence Giffin, Diana Hamilton, Eddie Hopely, Paolo Javier, Greem Jellyfish, Josef Kaplan, John Keene, Diana Kingsley, Matthew Landis, Ashley Leavitt, Tan Lin, Warren Liu, Jessica Lowenthal, Sueyeun Juliette Lee, Maya Lin, Warren Liu, Dana Teen Lomax, Patrick

Lovelace, Dan Machlin, Rachel Malik, Josiah McElheny, Stephen McLaughlin, Joe Milutis, John Paetsch, Asher Penn, Ellen Quinn, Diana Ro, Raphael Rubenstein, Jay Sanders, Katherine Elaine Sanders, Karen L. Schiff, Jeremy Sigler, Danny Snelson, Carlos Soto, Kaegan Sparks, Chris Sylvester, Gordon Tapper, Michelle Taransky, Jeremy JF Thompson, Richard Turnbull, Dan Visel, Dorothy Wang, Andrew Weinstein, and Sara Wintz.

11 BOOKS/1 POSTCARD/+ A WIKI (link below)

Purple/Pink Appendix by Tan Lin with introduction by Danny Snelson; afterword by Charles Bernstein; indexes by Lawrence Giffin, Ashley Leavitt, John Paetsch, and Danny Snelson; readers reports; interview with Chris Alexander, Kristen Gallagher, Danny Snelson, and Gordon Tapper; expanded preface; tumblr stuff; cover spread by Clare Churchouse; Google Analytics; Markov chain; and bibliography.

*Blurb *by Tan Lin. Edited by Matthew Abess, Patrick Lovelace, Stephen McLaughlin, and Danny Snelson. With contributions by Christopher Alexander, Louis Asekoff, Stan Apps, Danielle Aubert, Charles Bernstein, E. Shaskan Bumas, Ken Chen, Cecilia Corrigan, Clare Churchouse, AMJ Crawford, Kieran Daly, MÃ³nica de la Torre, Thom Donovan, Patrick Durgin, Kareem Estefan, Robert Fitterman, Jonathan Flatley, Peter Fong, Christopher Funkhouser, Kristen Gallagher, Sarah Gambito, Kenneth Goldsmith, Diana Hamilton, Eddie Hopeley, Paolo Javier, Josef Kaplan, John Keene, Matthew Landis, Juliette Lee, Maya Lin, Warren Liu, Patrick Lovelace, Rachel Malik, Dan Machlin, Michael Ondaatje, Asher Penn, Josiah McElheny, Stephen McLaughlin, Jay Sanders, Katherine Sanders, Jeremy Sigler, Danny Snelson, Chris Sylvester, Gordon Tapper, Michele Taransky, Dan Visel, Dorothy Wang, and Sara Wintz.

*Event Inventory and Documentation (1-2) *by Jeremy JF Thompson with opening minutes by Eddie Hopely. A text and photographic documentation of all technological platforms used at the â€œEdit: Processing Network Publishingâ€ event at the Kelly Writers House on April 12th, 2010. Including documentation of SanDisk 4GB, JBL Control Monitors, Sony ICD-UX70, Anchor ANX-70, Sony EVI-D70, Canon Pixma MP210, Mackie 1402-VLZ PRO 14-channel mixer. With lists and maps. In monochrome and polychrome versions.

Selected Essays About a Bibliography. Essays on the expanded field of editing in a networked environment: bibliographic control, QR coding, font libraries, kanban, Facebook, blurb, metadata, PowerPoint, IBM Selectric II, pagination, bar code, and seminar. Event and online editors: E. Shaskan Bumas, Clare Churchouse, Kareem Estefan, J. Gordon Faylor, Kristen Gallagher, Diana Hamilton, Matthew Landis, Tan Lin, Katherine Elaine Sanders, Danny Snelson, Gordon Tapper, and Sara Wintz. Print editors: E. Shaskan Bumas, Kristen Gallagher, Tan Lin, and Danny Snelson. With contributions by Chris Alexander, Danielle Aubert, Lee Ann Brown, Marie Buck, E. Shaskan Bumas, Evelyn Chiâ€™en, Cecilia Corrigan, Alejandro Crawford, Kieran Daly, Kareem Estefan, J. Gordon Faylor, Al Filreis, Thomas Fink, Mashinka Firunts, Brad Flis, Peter W. Fong, Kristen Gallagher, Lawrence Giffin, Ellen Gruber Garvey, Cecilia Gronberg/Jonas (J) Magnusson, Heidi Brayman Hackel, Eddie Hopely, Josef Kaplan, Diana Kingsley, Matthew Landis, Juliette Lee, Tan Lin, Warren Liu, Dana Teen Lomax, Dan Machlin, Rachel Malik, Joe Milutis, Asher Penn, Ellen Quinn, Raphael Rubenstein, Katherine Sanders, Karen L. Schiff, Jeremy Sigler, Danny Snelson, Chris Sylvester, Gordon Tapper, Michelle Taransky, Jeremy JF Thompson, Richard Turnbull, Dan Visel, Andrew Weinstein, and Sara Wintz.

*7CV Chinese Edition (1-4) (ä¸ƒå—æŽ§è©žè¡¨å’Œ2004å¹´è¨ƒå‘Š) *translated by Chris Alexander, AMJ Crawford, and Cecilia Corrigan in Google Translate. Edition 1, in traditional Chinese without images. Edition 2, with images. Edition 3, in simplified Chinese with images. Edition 4, reverse translation from simplified Chinese into English.

*7CV Critical Reader *edited by Mashinka Firunts and Danny Snelson with Chris Cuellar and event editors Eddie Hopely and Sueyeun Juliette Lee. A portable library featuring excerpts from texts related to 7CV, the Edit event, and online reading environments. The PDF version contains links to direct downloads of full books and articles referenced in the reader.

all books available at Printed Matter and on lulu. We tried to make most of these books available as free pdf or at cost. Any profits generated from publications to be donated to the Emma Bee Bernstein AIR fund, the Leslie Scalapino Reed College Fund, the Asian American Writer's Workshop, Kundiman, and Wikipedia.

links:

Bomb Magazine Interview w/ Katherine Sanders:
http://bombsite.com/issues/999/articles/3467

Marketplace of Ideas radio broadcast w/ Colin Marshall:
http://colinmarshall.libsyn.com/experimental_poet_tan_lin_ iTunes download (freeeeee):

http://itunes.apple.com/us/podcast/the-marketplace-of-ideas/id266539442

Art in America interview w/ Asher Penn:
http://www.artinamericamagazine.com/news-opinion/conversations/2010-06-11/tan-lin/

Thom Donovan's WIld Horses of Fire: http://whof.blogspot.com/2010/04/tan-lin -metapoetic-extravaganza.html

and a WIKI LINK to the Edit open publication platform:

http://aphasic-letters.com/edit-wiki/index.php?
title=Network_Publishing_with_Tan_ Lin

↑ Index

362. Eleni Stecopoulos

*FW: This Sat 7/31 BAY AREA POETRY MARATHON (note: not at The Lab this time !)*

Thu 29 Jul 2010

From: [redacted]
Date: Tue, 27 Jul 2010 18:47:18 -0700
Subject: This Sat.: BAY AREA POETRY MARATHON (note: not at The Lab this time !)
To: [redacted]

* BAY AREA POETRY MARATHON *******

This Saturday, July 31 at 7:00pm at THE CCA WRITERS' STUDIO195 De Haro St., San Francisco(at the base of Potrero Hill on the corner of 15th & De Haro)

* MAP: http://www.mapquest.com/maps?
city=San+Francisco&state=CA&address=195+de+Haro+St&zipcode=94103-5121&country=US&latitude=37.767483&longitude=-122.401846&geocode=ADDRESS

* DIRECTIONS: If you are coming by subway, get off at the 16th and Mission station, then catch the #22 Bus heading east on 16th; get off as close to 16th & De Haro as you can (which probably will be either 16th & Kansas or 17th & De Haro) & walk north to De Haro. If you are coming by car, parking is readily available & free near the Writers' Studio.

READERS:
* MELANIE FARLEY just wrote a long poem called dog breath etudes. It took a long time. She lives in San Francisco and secretly (or not so secretly) listens to TLC, sometimes.

* DANA TEEN LOMAX's several books of poetry include Disclosure (forthcoming from Black Radish). She is currently working on Shhh! Lullabies for a Tired Nation & the illustrated anthology Kindergarde: Avant-garde Poems, Plays, Stories, & Songs for Children.

* CATHERINE MENG is the author of Tonight's the Night (Apostrophe Books 2007) & some chapbooks. She lives in Berkeley.

* ERIN MORRILL has mostly lived in the Bay Area since 2005. She & Andrew Kenower make chapbooks under the imprint Trafficker Press. She is a recent graduate from CCA's MFA in writing program, & her recent work appeared in Trickhouse (magically).

* PATRICIA POWELL is the author of the novels Me Dying Trial, A Small Gathering of Bones, The Pagoda, and most recently The Fullness of Everything. She teaches in the MFA program at Mills College in Oakland.

* JAIME ROBLES’s most recent book is Anime, Animus, Anima (Shearsman 2010). Her poetry has been published in numerous magazines, including Conjunctions, First Intensity, New American Writing, ShadowTrain, and Volt.

* ELENI STECOPOULOS is the author of Armies of Compassion (Palm Press 2010). She is currently writing an interdisciplinary book on the poetics of healing and a long poem titled Earth Also is a Private Language.

* JILL STENGEL is the founder of a+bend press and the author of numerous chapbooks & poems in journals. Her full-length collection is forthcoming soon from Black Radish Books.

↑ Index

363. Scott Howard

Call for Submissions: RECONFIGURATIONS / A Journal for Poetics & Poetry / Literature & Culture

Thu 29 Jul 2010

RECONFIGURATIONS: A Journal for Poetics & Poetry / Literature & Culture

ISSN: 1938-3592
http://reconfigurations.blogspot.com/

Volume 4: Emergence

Submissions: April thru August, 2010

Publication: November, 2010

Guidelines: Volume four of Reconfigurations, http://reconfigurations.blogspot.com/, seeks a variety of works concerning emergence—that is, the phenomena of appearing & becoming—across a wide range of signification: matters aleatory or nascent; objects concealed or manifest; actions impending or close-at-hand; communities indeterminate or realized; occurrences unforeseen or unexpected. Reconfigurations, ISSN: 1938-3592, is an electronic, peer-reviewed, international, annual journal for poetics and poetry, creative and scholarly writing, innovative and traditional concerns with literary arts and cultural studies. Reconfigurations publishes under a Creative Commons 3.0 open-access license, is MLA indexed, EBSCO distributed and independently managed.

Electronic Submissions: [redacted]

Submissions should be attached as a single .doc, .rtf, or .txt file. Visuals should be attached individually as .jpg, .gif or .bmp files. Please include the words "Reconfigurations submission" in the subject line of your message.

http://reconfigurations.blogspot.com/
ISSN: 1938-3592

RECONFIGURATIONS: A Journal for Poetics & Poetry / Literature & Culture

///

↑ Index

364. Rob McLennan

new(ish) on rob's clever blog

Thu 29 Jul 2010

-- 12 or 20 questions: with Gabriella Goliger
-- 2 new above/ground press chapbooks: Marilyn Irwin + rob mclennan
-- rob mclennan reads Tuesday, August 10th at the ART BAR, Toronto
-- 12 or 20 (small press) questions: Brian Clements on Firewheel Editions / sentence magazine
-- Mark Goldstein's Tracelanguage: A Shared Breath
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Nikki Reimer
-- Dorothea Lasky, Black Life
-- photo at the carleton tavern, parkdale market, ottawa
-- Ongoing notes: mid-July, 2010;
-- hinge, a BOAS anthology
-- Mammoth, Larissa Andrusyshyn
-- 12 or 20 (small press) questions: Edward Smallfield on Apogee Press
-- from Barcelona, a novel-in-progress;
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Robert Earl Stewart
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Jessica Smith
-- (another) very short story;
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Sasha Fletcher
-- Ongoing notes: the ottawa small press book fair, spring 2010;
-- today is jwcurry's birthday
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Dorothea Lasky
-- Robin Blaser, by Stan Persky and Brian Fawcett
-- 12 or 20 questions: Sarah Selecky
-- Jandak photography: how this photo came to be
-- Ongoing notes: the Toronto Small Press Fair, spring 2010
-- Notes on writing, writing

www.robmclennan.blogspot.com

+ some other new things at ottawa poetry newsletter
www.ottawapoetry.blogspot.com

+ some other new things at the Chaudiere Booksblog
www.chaudierebooks.blogspot.com

-- writer/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...poetry - wild horses (U of Alberta) ...2nd novel - missing persons
www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

365. Jim Andrews
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Thu 29 Jul 2010

> just going to chime in with my usual response to this statement that i think he understood godel fine,

o i think you're mistaken, jason, fer a change. the best thing i've read about godel/wittgenstein is by Rebecca Goldstein at http://www.edge.org/3rd_culture/goldstein05/goldstein05_index.html . if you search it for wittgenstein, you'll come across this, for instance:

"Wittgenstein never accepted Gödel's result; he said in The Foundations of Mathematics, posthumously published, that his task is not to discuss Gödel, but rather to bypass Gödel. He also called Gödel's results the tricks of a logical conjurer, logical artifices."

but the whole above url is quite fascinating. strongly recommended!

here is what godel said:

"As far as my theorem about undecidable propositions is concerned, it is indeed clear ... that Wittgenstein did not understand it (or pretended not to understand it). He interprets it as a kind of logical paradox, while in fact it is just the opposite, namely a mathematical theorem within an absolutely uncontroversial part of mathematics (finitary number theory or combinatorics)".

> i think he got the better of turing in their debates,

i'm not familiar with any debates between them. sounds interesting. what documentation exists of these debates?

> and that his view of what mathematics are is much closer to what's probably right than Godel's weird platonism.

the veracity of godel's results in mathematical logic do not depend on his "weird platonism" at all, of course, as i expect you fully understand.

godel's platonism got weird toward the end of his life.

godel starved himself to death out of paranoia about his food being poisoned. he suffered from mental issues toward the end of his life. his extreme platonism is associated with his period of decline, not his earlier, more robust period, when he published his famous results. the poor guy went off his rocker, finally.

wittgenstein was a terrific poet mistaken for a logician by some. i am partial to such poets.

ja
http://vispo.com
july 29 2010

↑ Index

366. amy king

TONIGHT / FRIDAY -- Amy De'Ath, Octavio R. Gonzalez, Gordon Massman, Tracy O Connor, Joanna Ruocco, Kate Schapira & Dustin Williamson!

Fri 30 Jul 2010

STAIN OF POETRY A READING SERIES @ 7 P.M.

JULY 30, FRIDAY ~

STAIN OF POETRY A READING SERIES @ 7 P.M.

JULY 30, FRIDAY ~ AMY DEâ€™ATH, OCTAVIO R. GONZALEZ, GORDON MASSMAN, TRACY O CONNOR, JOANNA RUOCCO, KATE SCHAPIRA & DUSTIN WILLIAMSON!

LISTENERS WILL RECEIVE ONE-OF-A-KIND HAND-PAINTED, HAND-MADE & SIGNED COPIES OF SYLLABIC VERSE BY BILL KNOTT.
FIRST TO COME, FIRST TO RECEIVE ONE OF THESE RARE BOOKS!

@ GOODBYE BLUE MONDAY â€“ BUSHWICK, BROOKLYN

WITH

AMY DEâ€™ATH studied American Literature with Creative Writing at the University of East Anglia and at Temple University in Philadelphia. Her poems have appeared in ONEDIT, QUID and others. Crater Press recently published her broadside, ANDROMEDA, THE WORLD WORKS FOR ME. She has two short books forthcoming in 2010. Her first collection will be published by Salt, and a chapbook will be coming out from Oystercatcher later in the year. Her poetry blog can be found atWWW.AMYDEATH.WORDPRESS.COM. â€œAmy Deâ€™Ath is the new fire for mortals. She peoples space. She plays tricks with the gods and with her readers. This is personal, and itâ€™s hot shit.â€ â€” Marcus Slease ~

OCTAVIO GONZALEZ is a Dominican-American poet from Santo Domingo and Brooklyn, N.Y. He teaches literature and composition at Rutgers University, where he is a doctoral student in English. Some of his work appears online and in print, in PUERTO DEL SOL, OCHO, MIPOESIAS, and other journals. His first chapbook, THE BOOK OF OURS, has just been published by Momotombo Press. ~

Attempting with the scientistâ€™s objectivity, GORDON MASSMAN has numbered over twenty-one hundred slices of his psyche in order to discover his most basic urges, motives, fears, addictions, and desires. He aspires to be the literary human genome project, and in doing so, unearth as fearlessly as possible aspects not only of his own, but those of the universal male psychology. Tarpaulin Sky Press recently published his collection, THE ESSENTIAL NUMBERS. This summer Spork Press will release a chapbook of this work. ~

TRACI O CONNORâ€™s first collection of fiction, RECIPES FOR ENDANGERED SPECIES, was recently released by Tarpaulin Sky Press, and she has published fictions and poems in various journals and magazines, including MID-AMERICAN REVIEW, GARGOYLE, DIAGRAM, LIT MAGAZINE, THE PINCH, H_NGM_N, FOURTEEN HILLS, MARGIE, GREEN MOUNTAINS REVIEW, SIDEBROW, BARROWSTREET, CV2 and POET LORE. Traciâ€™s currently at work on a collection of flash-memoirs about her Mormon childhood called SHELL-SHAPED PIECES OF BONE and a second collection of short stories. She teaches writing and literature at Guilford College in Greensboro, North Carolina where she lives with her spouseâ€”the writer, Jackson Connorâ€”their four children, one labradoodle, and a â€˜cat.â€™

~

JOANNA RUOCCO lives in Denver, Colorado. She is the author of a novel,THE MOTHERING COVEN, published by Ellipsis Press, and a short story collection, MANâ€™S COMPANIONS, published by Tarpaulin Sky. She co-edits BIRKENSNAKE, a fiction journal, with Brian Conn. ~

KATE SCHAPIRA is the author of TOWN (Factory School, Heretical Texts, 2010) and several chapbooks from Flying Guillotine Press, Cy Gist Press, horse less press, Rope-A-Dope Press and Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs. She runs the Publicly Complex reading series in Providence, RI.

~

DUSTIN WILLIAMSON is the author of OBSTRUCTED VIEW (Salacious Banter), EXHAUSTED

GRUNTS (Cannibal), and GORILLA DUST (Open 24 Hours). He publishes Rust Buckle Books, and is the current Monday night coordinator at the Poetry Project in NYC.

AT

GOODBYE BLUE MONDAY
1087 BROADWAY
(CORNER OF DODWORTH ST)
BROOKLYN, NY 11221-3013 [redacted]
J M Z TRAINS TO MYRTLE AVE
OR J TRAIN TO KOSCIUSKO ST
~

Hosted by Amy King and Ana BoÅ¾iÄeviÄ‡

www.stainofpoetry.com

****
Poetry, Publishing, Women & the Internet
+
http://amyking.wordpress.com/2010/07/12/your-own-revolution-poetry-publishing-the-internet/

Poets for Living Waters
+ http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/
****

↑ Index

367. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Fri 30 Jul 2010

I was basically saying what David was saying. I was surprise myself; but, as I said, found it realistic on the part of language school poets, if true.

David can answer your question better.

Ciao,

Murat

On Thu, Jul 29, 2010 at 12:08 PM, Mark Prejsnar <[redacted]> wrote:

> "> the trajectory of Grenier , his works, for some long time black listed by > his former colleagues in the 'Language-centered" writing "community"-- "
>
> this is indeed a fascinating claim ... blacklisted just how? details ????
>
> --mark
>
> "Roads
> of excess were roads not taken, and that > has made all the difference."
>
> --Jerome McGann
>
> --- On Wed, 7/28/10, Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Wednesday, July 28, 2010, 10:13 PM
>
> marvelous david, thanks so much. there's a lot to chew on here, but I wanted to remark that for me at least, I think both the connection with Stein's early poetry so heavily laden with parataxis as it was and with Whitmans continual revision as a connection to refiguring the notion of the book, resonate with the sort of mysticism that I think i see in Grenier, something akin to text as process rather than product.

this, in my thinking at least, connects up with a rather fruitless obsessive period i spent shortly after the publication of the complete Ted Berrigan trying to find correspondences to Alfred North Whitehead's process philosophy in his various mundane occasional poems (by which i mean the often repeated trope in his poetry of picking a day or a set of activities and memorializing them in a poem eg today in ann arbor, 10 things i do every day, memorial day, etc.). At the end of my researches which didn't bear much out, after I got over my disappointment in discovering the great organizing principle I thought i'd discovered in fact was my own misreading of Whitehead, i realized i'd been looking very much at the wrong thing and that the real process philosophy stuff had to do more with the way he was compasing things than with any underlying metaphysics.

anyway, Berrigan also is a favorite spiritual master of mine, and what you're talking about in Grenier I think I see a bit in some of Berrigan as well.

On Jul 27, 2010, at 9:40 PM, David Chirot wrote:

a little side note: (re Grenier/Trakl/Wittgenstein)

Robert Grenier early in his writing life translated a few (four or more) poems of Trakl's for an anthology--

Grenier has by some been considered as a mystic; by far his greatest philosophical interest/influence is Heidegger--

In "I HATE SPEECH"--One might consider the context, the time period--

on the one hand, the speech driven poetics of Projective Verse and many aspectsof Black Mountain, of the new York School-- as well as it being a time period swamped in SPEECHES--
coming from al directions and all media--

living and teaching in Franconia, NH, Grenier, while doing his daily running as well as sitting and listeing intently for hours to the sound of water dripping in a cistern--and to recordings of Pygmy music & sounds-- one finds Grenier developing his ear ever more acutely attuned to the smallest particles of both speech as SOUND and as sign-- the variety of ways in which for years his works have been published/presented, with an emphasis on the physical/visual/sonic structure

literally and literarily of the Book-- taking it apart, putting it back togther in another from--whether as huge poster as la M'ASS AVE or box as in SENTENCES and also the three parts black box encased series of visual/verbl poems put out by by O Books ("Minnestoa" etc--)--
and the varying sizes and shapes of other tests-- culminating in the huge serial works done in "lawyer's office "color markers-- in a Talk given at the Robert frost Room at Franconia--published in the late 90's--(forgive mne for a moment here the editor/publisher escapes me--wil

come back: Stephen Dignazio--)--

Grenier notes that an interesting question to investigate is the conjunction between among, "only the imagination is real" of WCW's Spring and All and the "no ideas but in things/Mr" of Paterson--

to think on /with these as a both/and rather than the usual "either/or"-- to find ways in which there is an identification of the word and thing, then the letter and thing--so that the forming of a letter itself handwritten

in time--is an emergence/appearance of sound & image simulateneously--at the same time as they are both physical things in action--

Olson wanted the citizen to go faster, faster--so that one thing follows
on another--the action of the poem essaying to "pull even, " equal, that is,
to
the real itself"--with the action-- no more of the Aristotelian "after the fact" of writing following the action, behind it-- but--drawing even, so that action/writing take place as nearly as possible

simultaenously--

Rimbaud already in the "Lettres du voyant" to Demeny and izambard in 1870--had written of the poetry of the Future "preceding the action"

which i have written on as being carried out literally/literarily by Rimbaud in that his writings precede in their descriptions, images, words--the actions which he began to live out after he stopped writing--

how many of his letters when no longer a poet carry the very images he has written of years earlier as Poetry & Prose Poetry----and now writes simply as bald description factual documents--

Rimbaud also wrote of the poet of the Future (also greatly effected by the total ful emancipation of Women)--as being "not unlike the Greek"-- one notes in Grenier's studies of Heidegger the many essays re Greek thought and poetry --

the trajectory of Grenier , his works, for some long time black listed by his former colleagues in the 'Language-centered" writing "community"--

has been one of far more radically "outside" work & life than those of his peers, in formal and philosophical, sonic/visual/visceral work--

Grenier's long involvements with the texts of the early Stein (which he was teaching at Franconia--as the "Yale Stein" became available)--as well as his studies singly, as teacher and in a reading group including Leslie Scalapino--in Whitman--the versionsof Leaves of Grass culminating esp in The Deathbed Edition--link him with the early modernism of WCW and the early Stein--as wel as the 19th century Whitman--whose work was not a "once and for all " "set in stone" text but an ongoing series of versions, alterations, rearrangements, additions, subtractions, changes in names,
spellings, grammar, syntax--

(SERIES after al is the title of a Grenier book)--

i wd agree with many that MOBY DICK is a postmodernist so to speak text
--and i wd include the work of E A Poe as well--

D H Lawrence in his STUDIES IN CLASSIC AMERICAN LITERATURE (which pre-dates WCW's In the American Grain)--notes a number of times that the Americans have relegated their classic works, in the "old American art speech"--to

the
nursery--"adventure stories, : :detective tales," science-fictions stories," etc etc--the Classic American texts dealt with issues, ideas, images, which the 20th century American, according to Lawrence, has to banish--to the nursery!--

"the pure products of America go crazy" as WCW noted--

"out there"--("the figure of Outward")--though, one might say, is the as yet hidden in plain site/sight/cite "classic american" outsider/avant-garde postmodern etc--

("where the 'outyard" is the 'backyard' to paraphrase from Grenier's little work on Narrative for the old Olson series--)

"The blank and ruin we see in Nature may be within our own eye"--(R W Emerson)
"The most beautiful world is a heap of rubble tossed down in confusion/at random"--Heraclitus

"To shut the eyes is travel"--Emily Dickinson
"My voice goes after/what my eyes can't reach"--Walter Whitman

"Writing is time travel"--W S Burroughs
"It is a science-fiction film set in the past"--Federico Fellini, on his SATYRICON-

↑ Index

@poetics

The UB Poetics Discussion Group

Archive of Electronic Correspondence

August 2010

301 messages · Fri 30 Jul 2010 – Tue 31 Aug 2010

August 2010 kept July's argument about the soul of poetry burning, and set beside it a vindication and a provocation — an anthology of the sacred honored, and the summer's ugliest political fight dragged into the room. Three hundred and one messages moved through the list, and its currents ran between the spirit poetry might still hold and the crude public quarrels of a hot American August. The month asked whether the sacred survives anywhere, in the poem or in the country.

The largest thread carried the decay of spirituality forward. The debate begun in July went on turning over whether poetry had lost its access to the holy, wandering through weird Platonisms and the claim that "wittgenstein was a terrific poet mistaken for a logician by some" — the room worrying whether the philosophical sublime, the sense of a poem reaching past the sayable, was recoverable or gone for good. It was the summer's most serious question, pursued in a nearly empty room with real hunger.

The vindication arrived from the establishment. Poems for the Millennium, Rothenberg and Joris's vast anthology of the century's radical and sacred and tribal poetries, won an American Book Award — the great ethnopoetic gathering, the one that had always insisted the holy and the experimental were the same pursuit, honored at last. Against the fear that spirituality had decayed out of poetry, here was a monument arguing the opposite: that the sacred had never left, only migrated to the margins the anthology had spent decades mapping — the shamanic, the tribal, the visionary, the deliberately difficult, all gathered as evidence that the holy was alive precisely where the mainstream had stopped looking.

The provocation came from the news. As the fight over a proposed mosque near Ground Zero convulsed the country, the room could not stay out of it — a thread of deliberately clashing terms, mosques and churches and cesspools, dragging the summer's religious bigotry onto the list, while another current kept up the fight against big oil from the spill still fouling the Gulf. The sacred was under discussion in the poems and under assault in the streets, and the room felt both at once.

I have set August down exactly as the archive delivered it — the decayed spirituality still debated, Poems for the Millennium honored, and the mosque fight and the oil breaking in from outside — because it was the month the list pursued the question of the sacred on every front at once: whether a poem can still reach the holy, whether the great anthology of the tribal and radical proves it can, and whether a country screaming about a mosque has any claim to the word at all. A room that will spend August asking whether Wittgenstein was really a poet while the nation argues over who may build a house of worship is a room that has not given up on the sacred, even as it watches the culture around it profane the word.

— Kristen M. Fabians

Index

Writers, names mentioned, and concepts. Every number links to its message. 301 in all.

WRITERS

Alexisquinlan 291
Allegrezza, William 193
AND, mIEKAL 262, 275, 282
Andrews, Jim 3, 17, 25, 38, 74, 142, 197, 212, 233, 267, 278
Armand, Louis 118
Baraban, Stephen 80, 81, 171, 202
Baratier, David 130
Barber, Stephanie 180
Beaulieu, Derek 155, 248
Behm-Steinberg, Hugh 96
Belz, Aaron 115
Benson, Cara 121, 159, 260
Bernstein, Charles 82
Bogle, Ann 179
Bolden, Emma 49
Books, Crane's Bill 211
Borchart, Sharon Mesmer/David 56, 251
Bowering, George 91, 92, 103, 104, 163, 277
Byrne, Mairead 174, 215
Calabrese, Rosalie 189
Carr, Michael 272
Casamassima, Christophe 39, 48, 244, 258
Cheek, Cris 143, 145, 254, 273
Chirot, David 149, 204, 206, 218, 301
Clark, Hilary 188, 208
Conrad, CA 12, 57, 85, 111, 195, 252, 297
Cunningham, John 35, 45
Dalachinsky, Steve 11, 29, 37, 60, 61, 147, 148, 160, 205, 219, 257, 283, 292
Daley, Ryan 66
Daly, Catherine 1, 32, 230
Damon, Maria 24, 47, 62, 64, 90, 178, 265
Davis, Jeff 133
Derekrogerson 54
Dewhurst, Robert 36, 192
Dickow, Alexander 116
Dorf, Carol 183
DuCharme, Mark 120
Dunagan, Patrick 22
Earl, Amanda 21
Ellis, Stephen 140, 236
Eylon, Dr. Dina Ripsman 238
Farrell, Michael 27, 83, 98, 106, 165, 209
Fieled, Adam 79, 289
Al Filreis 255
Ganick, Peter 138
Glass, Jesse 9, 153, 181
Hadbawnik, David 41
Hamilton, Robin 214
Healy, Randolph 293
Heller, Michael 240, 241
Hill, Laurie Schneider & Crag 141, 144
Howard, Scott 31
Janssen, Lisa 198
Johnson, Halvard 123
Jones, Chris 161
Karavatos, Nicholas 88, 89, 128, 129
Karmin, Jennifer 7, 51, 235
Kasimor, Mary 131, 132, 210, 288
King, Amy 30, 44, 65, 69, 101, 156, 220, 223, 249, 259, 261, 268, 271, 276, 280
Kirschenbaum, David 20, 26, 68, 191
Kuppers, Petra 234
Languell, Krystal 70
Latta, John 73
Lepson, Ruth 50, 127, 134, 157, 168, 169, 185, 221, 224, 225
Leuzzi, Tony 126
LoLordo, Nick 201
MacAllister, Bonnie 113
Malo, Mary Jo 6
Manson, Douglas 226, 242
Marvin, Cate 97
Maurer, Susan 58
McAdams, E. J. 232
McKevitt, Drew 274
McLennan, Rob 52, 86, 243
Melnicove, Mark 15, 40, 266
Michael 250, 281
Millicent 263
Morse, Jonathan 63, 84, 124, 154
Myers, Morgan 300
Nathanson, Tenney 95
Nelson, Paul 184, 279, 295
Nemet-Nejat, Murat 2, 13, 14, 23, 34, 175, 187, 203, 217, 237
Nielsen, Aldon 119, 173
Oha, Obododimma 42, 105, 190
Penton, Jonathan 286
Pritts, Nate 117, 246
Quackenbush, Jason 4, 8, 18, 19, 53, 55
Rothenberg, Jerome 164
Russell, Steve 28, 59, 114, 135, 137, 170, 176, 200, 222
Schickling, Jared 10, 102, 152, 182, 216, 227, 228, 229
Schlesinger, Kyle 298
Schwartz, Gerald 43
Seaman, David 99, 100, 122, 125, 146, 166
Side, Jeffrey 33, 77, 78, 108, 186, 213, 256, 285, 296

Siegell, Paul 46, 196
Sondheim, Alan 76, 136, 139, 150, 177, 231
Stroffolino, Chris 194
Sullivan, Gary 87, 107
Switaj, Elizabeth 199
Topel, Andrew 67
Truitt, Sam 72
Tynes, Jen 245
Vasquez-Giroux, Angela 75, 94, 109
Vincent, Stephen 253
Vincenz, Marc 207
Weeks, Jacquilyn 290
Weishaus, Joel 16, 299
Weiss, Mark 71, 93, 112, 167, 172, 264, 269, 270, 294
Wheeler, Susan 247
Wilcox, Dan 158, 239
Williams, Tyrone 162
Young, Mark 5, 287
Zimmerman, Daniel 110, 151
}, { Brad Brace 284

NAMES MENTIONED

Abdul, Selim 139, 143, 145, 149, 167
Adorno, Theodor 8, 14
Alice, Mary 4, 191
Allison, Dorothy 70, 96
Altemus, Reed 5
Ambrose, Joe 4, 20, 191, 259
Americans, Asian 139, 143, 145, 146, 147, 149, 151, 163, 166, 167, 301
Amerika, Mark 191
Anderson, Laurie 156, 157
Andre, Michael 157
Andrews, Betsy 259
Andrews, Bruce 255
Angelo, Michael 259
Anne, Sarah 218, 222, 225
Apollinaire, Guillaume 197, 203
Apps, Stan 192
Arbor, Ann 234
Armentrout, Rae 96
Ashbery, John 191
Austin, Mary 156, 157
Bachinsky, Elizabeth 96
Baker, Mary 5, 27
Baker, Peter 191
Balaz, Joe 5, 27
Ball, David 116
Baptiste, David 206
Barnes, Diane 5, 27
Basinski, Michael 191
Bates, Joe 232
Baxter, Ted 156, 157
Beck, Jeff 200, 209
Beckett, Samuel 88, 89, 128, 129, 200, 209, 281
Beer, John 198
Behrle, Jim 272
Belieu, Erin 30, 97
Bellamy, Dodie 7
Benjamin, Walter 5, 8, 14, 27, 217, 233, 237, 240
Bennett, John M. 62, 96
Berkeley, Michael 19, 34, 173, 194
Berkson, Bill 276
Berman, Tosh 108, 298
Bernard, George 96
Berrigan, Anselm 26, 191
Berry, Stephen 121, 135, 148, 170
Birmingham, Jed 298
Bishop, Elizabeth 287, 288
Blake, William 216, 217, 219, 233, 237
Blau, Rachel 30
Boat, Drunken 51
Boone, Bruce 36
Borges, Millicent 263
Bowen, Kevin 192
Bozicevic, Ana 156, 157, 259
Bradley, Tom 96, 286
Brainard, Joe 298
Brandonisio, Michael 5, 27
Brautigan, Richard 253
Brazil, David 287, 288
Brewerton, Andrew 293
Briante, Susan 70
Brinkley, Tony 5, 27
Bromige, David 130
Brossard, Nicole 30
Brown, Ann 232
Browne, Colin 192
Browning, Robert 20, 191
Bruno, Franklin 5, 27, 116, 191
Buckley, William 259
Bukowski, Charles 134
Burroughs, William S. 191, 259
Byron, Philip 5, 27
Cafe, Poets 191, 259
Cage, John 259
Cannon, Steve 20, 26, 191, 259
Carfagna, Ric 5, 27, 213
Carlos, William 5, 20, 27, 191, 235
Carr, Emily 244, 258
Carrion, Terri 250, 254, 264
Carroll, Jon 234
Carson, Margaret 32
Carter, Mike 62, 76
Castro, Michael 259
Cayley, John 62
Celan, Paul 191
Chan, Charlie 119
Chang, Juliana 119
Chapman, Cecelia 5, 27
Chapman, Wes 7

Chen, Ken 30
Cirelli, Michael 259
Claire, Paula 198
Clark, Cheryl 201, 205, 208, 277, 283
Clark, Tom 276
Clifford, Pat 72
Cobb, Allison 191
Coffey, Brian 239
Colby, Todd 191
Coleridge, Samuel Taylor 229, 285, 290, 295, 301
Collins, Billy 279
Coltrane, John 232
Columbus, Christopher 164, 169, 172, 174, 175, 178, 181, 187, 189, 194
Comments, Chicago 179, 199, 207, 251, 291
Connor, Brenda 5, 7, 27
Coolidge, Clark 194, 275, 277, 283
Cooper, Dennis 36, 90
Cooper, Paula 85, 232, 259
Cooperman, Matthew 120
Copp, Corina 192
Corbett, Bill 82
Coyote, Peter 191
Creeley, Robert 43, 82, 191, 298
Crumpacker, Caroline 121
Cully, Barbara 96
Curtis, Dana 156, 157, 235, 249, 280
Darragh, Tina 191
Davies, Kevin 118, 191
Davis, Jordan 191
Davis, Martin 216, 219
Dawkins, Richard 6
Delville, Michel 118
Dennis, Michael 85, 191
Dick, Jennifer K. 116
Dickinson, Emily 217
Donne, John 246
Donovan, Thom 234
Dowling, Sarah 255
Doxsee, Julie 235, 249, 280
Drucker, Johanna 118
Duhamel, Denise 96
Duncan, Andrew 191
Dunn, Jim 82, 85, 90
Durand, Marcella 191
Durbin, Kate 7, 30
Dutton, Paul 7
Dworkin, Craig 191
Dylan, Bob 204, 210
Dylan, Michael 204, 210
Edwards, Ken 298
Einstein, Albert 152, 165, 177, 185, 194, 209
Eli, Noah 96
Eliot, Joe 119, 197, 200, 203, 209
Elisa, Paula 116
Ellen, Mary 240
Elliot, Joe 20, 191
Elrick, Laura 20, 26, 191
Emerson, Claudia 32
England, Amy 18, 120, 191
Eshleman, Clayton 30
Eugene, Brett 129
Evenson, Brian 180
Farr, Raymond 5, 27
Federman, Raymond 116
Fink, Thomas 5, 27
Fisher, Allen 118
Fisher, Harrison 96
Fishman, Ellen 240, 241
Flynn, Nick 32
Foltz, Craig 96
Foster, Edward 191
Foster, Paul 191
Foucault, Michel 182, 194
Fox, Sarah 96
Foye, Raymond 82
France, Peter 9, 116, 146, 147, 151, 163, 166, 191, 218, 222, 225
Fraser, Simon 53, 74
Freeland, Charles 5, 27
Frost, Corey 159, 260
Fucaloro, Thomas 259
Fuhrman, Joanna 20, 191, 259
Gardner, Janet 121
Gatza, Geoffrey 276
Gaudry, Molly 30, 96
Genega, Paul 191
Gibson, William 55
Gilbert, Roger 191, 259
Giles, Samantha 96
Gilmore, Gary 20, 68, 191
Ginsberg, Allan 191, 204, 210, 259
Ginsberg, Allen 22, 191, 204, 259
Giorno, John 259
Gladman, Renee 26
Glover, Albert 43
Gluck, Robert 36
Godfrey, John 20, 26, 191
Godston, Daniel 51
Goldman, Judith 156, 157, 198
Goldsmith, Kenneth 191, 253
Goldstein, Laura 7
Goldstein, Mark 2, 4, 18, 19, 34
Gomez, Audrey 96
Goodman, Amy 21
Gordon, Ruth 96, 156, 157, 227
Gorrick, Anne 5, 27
Graham, Martha 240
Graham, Susan 96, 139, 143, 145, 149, 167
Greenberg, Arielle 30
Gregg, Linda 259
Gregory, Jane 51, 259
Grenier, Bob 8, 14

Griffin, Tim 96
Grinnell, Tracy 20, 26, 68, 191
Gwiazda, Piotr 5, 27
Halpern, Rob 36
Halsey, Alan 296, 298
Hamill, Janet 191
Hammond, Paul 120
Hannity, Sean 139, 143, 145, 149, 167
Harris, Kaplan 36, 191, 192
Harris, Ken 43
Hart, Matt 30, 117
Harvey, George 240
Hawkins, Bobbie 113
Hawthorne, Alison 217
Hayes, Jared 20, 191
Heller, Joseph 191, 240, 241
Heman, Bob 5, 27
Henderson, David 156, 157, 191
Henri, Charles 116
Henriksen, Matthew 117
Herbert, John 35, 36, 39, 45, 48, 49, 60, 61, 66, 114
Herd, Colin 36
Hernandez, Victor 191
Higgins, Dick 5, 27
Highfill, Mitch 191
Hillman, Brenda 30, 32
Hirschman, Jack 250, 254, 264
Hoag, Deb 286
Holman, Bob 68, 191, 259
Holmquest, Brandon 20, 191
Hoover, Edgar 143, 149, 167
Hoover, Paul 287, 288
Hopely, Eddie 156, 157
Horosky, Mark 191
House, White 139, 143, 145, 149, 167
Howard, Richard 130, 259
Hoy, Dan 30
Huang, Yunte 119
Hughes, Ted 191
Hunter, Carrie 5, 27
Iijima, Brenda 191
Ireland, Lauren 139, 143, 145, 149, 167
Israel, David R. 218, 222, 225
Israeli, Henry 218, 222, 225
Jackson, Jesse 240
Jacobs, Ken 20, 191
Jarnot, Lisa 26, 191
Javier, Paolo 259
Jeanne, Sarah 240
Johnson, Thomas 5, 20, 27, 46, 123, 191, 240, 241
Johnston, Daniel 298
Johnston, Devin 243
Jonas, Stephen 85, 90
Jones, Bob 30, 113, 284
Jordan, June 96
Jorgensen, Alexander 5, 27, 243
Joris, Pierre 20, 26, 116, 191, 218, 222, 225
Joseph, Safdie 154
Jullich, Jeffrey 191
Karasick, Adeena 32
Karl, Robert 139, 143, 145, 149, 167
Karl, Steven 30, 249, 280
Kaufman, Erica 20, 26
Kelley, Jeff 88, 89, 128, 129
Kelly, Paul 20, 113, 191, 255
Kelly, Robert 72
Kerouac, Jack 191, 204, 210, 234
Ketch, Shannon 191
Killian, Kevin 36, 126, 131
Kimball, Jack 82
Kirschenbaum, David A. 20, 26, 68, 191
Knott, Bill 268, 269
Konkol, Margaret 116
Koos, John 191
Kraus, Chris 7, 36, 192 Kraus, Karl 36
Krick, Jack 82, 85, 90
Kushner, Bill 259
Lamoureux, Mark 156, 157
Langer, Sam 5, 27
Larkin, Maryrose 159, 235, 260
Larkin, Philip 159, 164, 169, 172, 174, 175, 178, 181, 187, 194, 260
Larsen, David 247
Lauterbach, Ann 32
Lazer, Hank 243
Leary, Timothy 22, 259
Leigh, Mike 113
Levin, Jonathan 96
Levitsky, Rachel 7, 10
Lewis, Jeffrey 191
Lewis, Susan 204, 210
Lindley, Eric 235, 249, 280
London, Frank 120, 124, 132, 137, 153
Lookingbill, Colleen 5, 27
Loudon, Rebecca 7
Lovelace, Patrick 156, 157
Lowinger, Aaron 191
Luoma, Bill 191
Lurie, Bobbi 5, 27
Lynn, Heidi 30, 96
Lyons, Kim 191
Macdonald, Travis 5, 27
Madison, James 141
Malcolm, Janet 4, 14, 55
Malina, Judith 191
Mallarmé, Stéphane 301
Mancus, Tony 191
Mangold, Sarah 159, 260
Manguso, Sarah 191
Manning, Nicholas 116
Marie, Joshua 96

Martin, Chris 20, 116, 191, 192
Martin, Douglas A. 259
Martone, John 5, 27
Marvin, Lee 97, 218, 222, 225
Maughn, James 5, 27
Mayer, Bernadette 198
Maynard, James 4, 17, 82, 85, 90
McCaffery, Steve 248, 296
Mead, Taylor 191
Meltzer, David 88, 89, 108, 128, 129, 298
Menendez, Didi 276
Meng, Catherine 96
Meredith, William 52, 243
Metz, Scott 5, 27
Milks, Megan 7
Mills, David 191
Miriam, Erica 191
Mirov, Ben 235, 249, 280
Monk, Ray 8, 14
Moore, Nicholas 5, 27, 191, 250, 254, 264
Morgan, Edwin 214
Morris, Tim 96
Morton, Kathryn A. 51
Mottram, Eric 298
Moure, Erin 96
Moya, Erika 249, 280
Murphy, Michelle 30, 256
Murphy, Sheila E. 5, 27, 256, 287, 288
Myles, Eileen 26, 121, 191, 192, 259
Naka, Michelle 120
Nattell, Tom 239
Nelson, Gale 5, 27
Nelson, Paul E. 184, 279, 295
Newton, Keith 74
Nguyen, Hoa 276
Nichols, Travis 20, 191
Nielsen, Aldon L. 119, 173, 194
Noel, Urayoan 20, 191
Noland, Carrie 116
Norman, Peter 4, 218, 222, 225
Norton, John 119
Noteboom, Michelle 116
Nuttall, Jeff 298
Obenzinger, Hilton 96
Ochs, Phil 286
Oliver, Laura 191
Olson, Charles 43, 80, 156, 157, 198
Oppen, George 240, 241
Orange, Tom 20, 191
Osman, Jena 118
Ouzoonian, Amy 259
Padgett, Ron 30
Palin, Sarah 139, 143, 145, 149, 167
Palm, Lars 5, 27
Palmer, Michael 51, 218, 222, 225
Park, Chase 51
Parkway, Neal 120
Parrish, Katherine 191
Patton, Julie 232
Peirce, Kathleen 8, 14
Perez, James 51
Perloff, Marjorie 55
Peyrafitte, Nicole 20, 191
Phillip, Andrew 96, 156, 157
Pinker, Steven 191
Piuma, Chris 41
Place, Vanessa 7
Porter, Anne 15, 266
Pound, Scott 41, 197, 200, 203, 209
Powell, Douglas 88, 89, 128, 129
Prevallet, Kristen 26, 259
Price, Richard 298
Prigent, Christian 116
Professor, Kelly 119, 173, 194, 255
Pusateri, Chris 120
Quartermain, Peter 52
Ramsey, Frank 4, 8, 14, 17
Randall, Karen 5, 27
Raworth, Tom 298
Reagan, Nancy 143, 149, 167
Reeck, Matt 191
Reed, Lou 68
Remer, Justin 191
Retallack, Joan 30, 226, 236, 242
Reynolds, Sean 41, 249
Ribot, Marc 144
Rivera, Alex 96
Robinson, Elizabeth 96, 243
Robinson, Jeffrey 164, 169, 172, 174, 175, 178, 181, 187, 194
Robinson, Mary 164, 169, 172, 174, 175, 178, 180, 181, 187, 194, 197, 203, 212, 217
Roche, John 43
Rogers, Kimberley 240
Rorty, Richard 8, 14, 55
Rosenthal, Sarah 299
Ross, Joe 116
Ross, Steven 248
Rossiter, Charlie 239
Rothenberg, Jerry 164, 169, 172, 174, 175, 178, 181, 187, 194, 197, 203, 212, 217
Rothschild, Douglas 20, 26, 191
Rowan, Lou 118
Ruiz, Mariana 20, 191
Russo, Linda 192
Sanchez, Jorge 259
Sanders, Jay 43, 139, 143, 145, 149, 167
Sawyer, Chris 5, 27, 287
Sawyer, Larry 287, 288
Scalapino, Leslie 32
Schapira, Kate 70
Schmalz, Fred 96
Schultz, Susan M. 186
Scutti, Susan 259

Seaman, David W. 99, 100, 101, 103, 109, 110, 122, 125, 140, 146, 147, 151, 163, 166
Selby, Spencer 5, 27
Sendecki, Daniel 116
Shapiro, David 20, 191, 287
Shapiro, Gary 26, 288
Sherlock, Frank 191, 297
Shihab, Naomi 240
Shimoda, Brandon 191
Shipp, Matthew 11, 24, 29
Siegel, Nathaniel A. 259
Sikkema, Mike 245
Silliman, Ron 8, 14, 73
Simon, Greg 191, 240
Skinner, Jonathan 191, 232
Smith, Rod 191
Smith, Tracy K. 5, 7, 27, 191, 248, 287, 288
Snelson, Danny 156, 157
Spahr, Juliana 192
Spears, Patricia 22
Spektor, Regina 191
Spicer, Jack 218, 222, 225
Stanley, Jared 55
Stecopoulos, Eleni 234
Stein, Gertrude 84
Stein, Leigh 30
Stein, Suzanne 191
Stempleman, Jordan 96
Stevens, Wallace 197, 203
Stewart, Jon 139
Stewart, Susan 143, 145, 149, 167
Strickland, Stephanie 118
Swensen, Cole 30, 253
Tabios, Eileen R. 5, 27
Tankoos, Harry 191
Taylor, Jesse 5, 27
Terris, Susan 183, 194
Terry, Philip 156, 157
Tesser, Marjorie 191
Thomas, Dylan 191, 259
Thompson, Jon 72, 191
Thorson, Maureen 20, 191
Tieger, Aaron 272
Tobin, Adam 231
Torra, Joe 20
Tranter, John 30, 33
Tucker, Aaron 191
Turing, Alan 4, 17
Tyler, Mary 5, 27, 259
Varrone, Kevin 20, 191
Vassilakis, Nico 144
Vermont, Charlie 139, 143, 145, 149, 167
Veronica, Angela 120, 191, 227
Vincent, Gregory 118
Vogler, Brad 5, 27
Vollmer, Judith 130
Wagner, Catherine 217, 233, 237
Wakeling, Corey 5, 27
Waldman, Anne 20, 26, 30, 191, 259
Waldman, Ken 191
Walker, Alice 85, 90
Wallace, Sara 108
Walthausen, Abby 191
Warhol, Andy 191
Warner, Jim 119
Warren, Jim 272
Washington, Harold 51, 97, 139, 143, 145, 149, 167, 191
Weaver, Rebecca 96
Weiner, Hannah 192
White, Jared 20, 191
Wiener, Hannah 116
Wieners, John 82, 85, 90, 95, 111, 127, 133
Wiesenthal, Simon 218, 222, 225
Wilkinson, John 118
Wilkinson, Joshua 96
Williams, William Carlos 119, 173, 194
Williamson, Dustin 20, 191
Wilson, Steve 191
Winkfield, Trevor 298
Wittgenstein, Ludwig 2, 3, 4, 8, 13, 14, 17, 18, 19, 25, 28, 34, 38, 53, 55, 59, 62, 74, 81
Wolach, David 244
Wordsworth, William 229, 285, 290, 295, 301
Wright, James 4, 30, 51
Yacht, Peter F. 86, 243
Yankelevich, Matvei 30
Yeary, James 141, 144
Zukofsky, Louis 221, 223, 224

CONCEPTS

9/11 139, 143, 145, 149, 167, 170, 191, 218, 222, 225, 240, 286, 298
Activism and protest 149, 191, 218, 222, 225, 239, 259
Aesthetics 14, 28, 55, 59, 62, 70, 83, 92, 94, 97, 98, 99, 101, 103, 104, 110, 112, 122, 124, 125, 132, 137, 140, 153, 232, 259
Afghanistan 143, 149, 167
African American poetry 191
Anthologies 8, 14, 27, 36, 62, 71, 88, 89, 91, 93, 128, 129, 130, 144, 189, 191, 206, 217, 229, 286, 301
Anti-Semitism 219
Appropriation 19, 32, 34, 81, 216, 219
Archives and libraries 16, 39, 45, 48, 49, 60, 61, 66, 70, 85, 88, 89, 90, 114, 119, 128, 129, 150, 164, 169, 172, 174, 175, 177, 178, 181, 185, 187, 191, 192, 194, 218, 222, 225, 299
Asemic writing 206
Asian American poetry 119
Autobiography 119, 240
Avant-garde 41, 191, 206

Beauty 13, 25, 28, 53, 59, 74, 216, 219, 287, 288
Biography 62, 130
Black Mountain 43
Blogs 5, 6, 10, 12, 22, 23, 27, 30, 31, 32, 36, 37, 44, 46, 47, 50, 51, 52, 56, 57, 58, 64, 65, 67, 69, 73, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 97, 107, 111, 113, 116, 119, 123, 128, 129, 133, 154, 158, 161, 173, 179, 186, 191, 193, 194, 195, 196, 199, 204, 207, 210, 218, 220, 221, 222, 223, 224, 225, 235, 239, 242, 243, 244, 249, 251, 252, 253, 259, 261, 263, 268, 269, 276, 280, 291, 297, 298, 299, 300, 301
Book announcements 10, 16, 119, 121, 126, 131, 138, 159, 191, 206, 235, 260, 276, 281, 283, 297
Bookstores 46, 51, 62, 191, 239, 240, 241
Calls for submissions 70, 274
Capitalism 78, 79, 102
Censorship 149, 179, 191, 199, 207, 251, 259, 291
Cities 11, 24, 26, 29, 51, 128, 139, 143, 145, 149, 155, 167, 191, 232, 259, 276, 287
Class 191
Climate 224
Close reading 165, 177, 185, 194
Collage and montage 120, 197, 203, 287, 288
Conceptual writing 191
Conferences and festivals 1, 20, 26, 36, 43, 51, 97, 113, 144, 155, 180, 191, 234, 240, 259, 286
Copyright and permissions 134
Craft 70, 164, 169, 172, 174, 175, 178, 181, 187, 194, 197, 203, 212, 217
Creative writing pedagogy 18, 226, 236, 242, 259
Dada 197, 203
Deconstruction 6, 113
Difficulty 38, 53
Digital archives 191, 240, 241
Disability 234
Dreams 55, 114, 149, 191, 218, 222, 225, 274
Ecology and ecopoetics 74, 191, 232, 239
Editing 68, 144, 159, 190, 191, 260
Ekphrasis 77
Electronic poetry and hypertext 82, 85, 90, 127, 133, 136, 191
Elegy 287, 288
Empire and imperialism 130
Epic 51, 72, 156, 157, 159, 235, 249, 260, 280
Epistemology 8, 14, 18, 55
Ethics 8, 13, 14, 55, 234
Experimental poetry 191, 234, 285, 290, 295, 301
Fascism 278
Feminism 10, 97, 191, 290, 301
Film 23, 57, 119, 180, 191, 204, 206, 210, 240, 257, 259
Flarf 8, 14
Fluxus 249
Formalism 4, 18, 19, 34
Futurism 197, 203
Gender 191, 259, 290, 301
Grants and funding 51, 119, 139, 143, 145, 149, 167, 191, 218, 222, 225, 232, 234, 239, 240
Haiku 191
Humour and satire 33, 45, 48, 49, 51, 60, 61, 66, 114, 191
Identity politics 152, 162, 165, 176, 177, 185, 194, 200, 209
Ideology 285, 290, 295, 301
Improvisation 232, 235, 259
Indigenous and Native poetics 135
Interviews 16, 30, 36, 70, 165, 168, 177, 185, 194, 206, 209, 256, 259, 274, 297, 301
Israel and Palestine 218, 222, 225
Jewish poetics 238
Language poetry 8, 14, 81
Latino and Latin American poetry 191
Letters and correspondence 51, 139, 143, 145, 149, 167, 191
List moderation 139, 143, 145, 149, 167, 250, 254, 264
Little magazines 20, 31, 51, 85, 90, 96, 116, 130, 131, 139, 143, 145, 149, 167, 191, 206, 238, 249, 255, 259, 261, 263, 265, 271, 280, 298
Lyric poetry 239
Marxism 78, 102, 290, 301
Materiality of the text 8, 14
Memory 116, 191, 216, 219, 227, 231, 253
MFA programs 51, 136, 159, 191, 247, 259, 260
Modernism 78, 164, 169, 172, 174, 175, 178, 180, 181, 187, 194, 197, 203, 204, 210, 212, 217, 233, 237, 240, 285, 290, 295, 301
Mourning and loss 62, 216, 219, 220, 221, 223, 224
Multiculturalism 191, 285, 290, 295, 301
Music and poetry 20, 26, 46, 51, 55, 68, 72, 77, 80, 115, 119, 150, 160, 164, 168, 169, 172, 173, 174, 175, 177, 178, 181, 183, 185, 187, 191, 194, 202, 216, 219, 230, 232, 240, 241, 249, 250, 254, 259, 264, 280, 287, 288
Nationalism 143, 149, 167
Nature 4, 8, 14, 55, 62, 139, 143, 145, 149, 152, 156, 157, 162, 165, 167, 176, 177, 185, 191, 194, 200, 209, 227, 285, 290, 295, 301
Obituary and memorial 142, 160, 168, 214

Ontology 53, 74
Oulipo 17, 41
Performance and the poetry reading 68, 88, 89, 113, 120, 128, 129, 144, 158, 159, 189, 191, 194, 235, 239, 240, 250, 259, 260
Phenomenology 242
Philosophy 2, 3, 4, 8, 13, 14, 17, 18, 19, 25, 28, 32, 34, 38, 53, 55, 59, 62, 74, 118, 191, 206, 217, 232, 233, 237, 240
Place and region 71, 91, 93, 112, 124, 132, 137, 153, 167, 172, 191, 194, 264, 269, 270, 294
Poetics 8, 10, 14, 31, 36, 41, 45, 48, 49, 60, 61, 66, 68, 70, 81, 88, 89, 114, 118, 128, 129, 135, 136, 148, 156, 157, 170, 191, 194, 200, 204, 209, 210, 224, 226, 234, 235, 236, 240, 241, 242, 258, 285, 287, 290, 295, 301
Politics and poetry 88, 89, 128, 129, 221, 223, 224
Postmodernism 78, 285, 290, 295, 301
Print vs. digital 10, 12, 22, 23, 33, 57, 62, 77, 85, 108, 109, 111, 115, 117, 118, 119, 130, 159, 169, 173, 174, 180, 186, 187, 191, 192, 194, 195, 204, 210, 213, 226, 236, 237, 242, 252, 253, 260, 276, 296, 297
Prizes and awards 51, 130, 164, 169, 172, 173, 174, 175, 178, 181, 187, 191, 194, 197, 198, 203, 212, 217, 233, 237, 258, 259
Prose poem 130, 191
Prosody and meter 242
Queer poetics 5, 27, 30, 41, 85, 90, 191, 259
Race and poetry 119, 139, 143, 145, 149, 154, 161, 167, 191, 259
Reading announcements 46, 141, 144, 183, 191, 194, 237, 239, 249, 259, 280
Religion and the sacred 6, 8, 14, 17, 19, 32, 34, 53, 54, 55, 62, 74, 116, 139, 143, 145, 149, 167, 191, 216, 219, 240, 301
Representation 191, 220, 221, 223, 224, 285, 290, 295, 301
Reviewing and criticism 5, 8, 14, 27, 31, 33, 37, 44, 47, 50, 51, 55, 56, 58, 62, 64, 65, 69, 70, 71, 88, 89, 91, 93, 97, 118, 120, 126, 128, 129, 131, 139, 143, 144, 145, 149, 152, 159, 162, 165, 167, 169, 174, 176, 177, 180, 185, 187, 191, 192, 194, 197, 200, 203, 206, 209, 216, 219, 235, 240, 259, 260, 290, 298, 301
Revision 139, 143, 145, 149, 167
Romanticism 164, 169, 172, 174, 175, 178, 181, 187, 194, 197, 203, 212, 217, 233, 237
Science 2, 3, 4, 6, 8, 13, 14, 17, 18, 19, 25, 28, 32, 34, 38, 53, 59, 74, 191, 212, 217, 233, 237
Semiotics 8, 14, 18, 105
Serial poem 10, 191
Small press publishing 1, 10, 20, 26, 51, 52, 62, 67, 68, 70, 86, 120, 130, 144, 159, 191, 220, 221, 223, 224, 240, 243, 245, 246, 249, 258, 260, 272, 280, 286
Social media 20, 46, 68, 83, 88, 89, 92, 94, 97, 98, 99, 100, 101, 103, 104, 109, 110, 112, 113, 122, 124, 125, 128, 129, 132, 137, 140, 146, 147, 151, 153, 163, 166, 180, 182, 191, 194, 260, 301
Software and code 4, 17, 42, 53, 62, 74
Sonnet 33, 123
Sound poetry 128, 206
Subjectivity 8, 14, 25, 62, 120
Sublime 287, 288
Surrealism 10, 33, 152, 162, 165, 176, 177, 185, 191, 194, 200, 209, 213
Terrorism 139, 143, 145, 149, 167
The academy 10, 18, 27, 42, 46, 51, 62, 88, 89, 105, 118, 119, 120, 128, 129, 139, 143, 145, 149, 159, 164, 167, 169, 172, 173, 174, 175, 178, 181, 187, 190, 191, 194, 234, 240, 247, 249, 255, 259, 260, 280, 290, 301
The body 62, 80, 119, 152, 176, 200, 205, 234
The Holocaust 108
The internet 30, 37, 44, 47, 50, 56, 58, 64, 65, 69, 70, 97, 101, 103, 130, 133, 136, 139, 143, 145, 149, 156, 157, 167, 191, 206, 240, 273, 278, 301
The line 192
The listserv 130, 154, 182, 194, 202, 218, 222, 225, 275, 277, 283
Theatre 20, 51, 96, 119, 156, 157, 191, 205, 234, 239, 259, 292
Torture and Abu Ghraib 143, 149, 167, 218, 222, 225
Translation 4, 8, 14, 41, 62, 96, 116, 119, 130, 179, 191, 199, 207, 215, 218, 222, 225, 237, 251, 291
Visual and concrete poetry 2, 3, 4, 5, 13, 18, 19, 25, 27, 28, 34, 38, 53, 59, 74, 142, 144, 155, 197, 203, 206, 212, 217, 233, 237, 257, 267, 270, 273, 278
Visual art 51, 129, 136, 158, 183, 191, 194, 234, 249, 259, 274, 286
Women's writing 97

Contents

Every entry links to its message. 301 in all.

30 JUL 2010

1. Catherine Daly — Fwd: forwarded message from Louis Bourgeois
2. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
3. Jim Andrews — Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
4. Jason Quackenbush — Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"

31 JUL 2010

5. Mark Young — Otoliths #18 is now live
6. Mary Jo Malo — Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
7. Jennifer Karmin — July writers @ Everday Genius
8. Jason Quackenbush — Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
9. Jesse Glass — The France Issue of Ekleksographia is now on-line!
10. Jared Schickling — RENOEMOS, by Rachel Levitsky, is now available from Delete Press

1 AUG 2010

11. steve dalachinsky — the renewal of Spirituality in Poetry" or we can use audience at this ...
12. CA Conrad — MUGGED into poetry...
13. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
14. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
15. Mark Melnicove — Jena Osman's essay on Bern Porter
16. Joel Weishaus — Rain Taxi Interview

2 AUG 2010

17. Jim Andrews — Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
18. Jason Quackenbush — Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
19. Jason Quackenbush — Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
20. David Kirschenbaum — Last Call to Exhibit at Boog Fest's Small, Small Press Fair
21. Amanda Earl — AngelHousePress Essay by John C. Goodman
22. patrick dunagan — Re: MUGGED into poetry...
23. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: MUGGED into poetry...
24. Maria Damon — Re: the renewal of Spirituality in Poetry" or we can use audience at this gi...
25. Jim Andrews — Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
26. David Kirschenbaum — An Advertising Opportunity in Boog's Festival Issue
27. michael farrell — Re: Otoliths #18 is now live
28. steve russell — Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
29. steve dalachinsky — Re: the renewal of Spirituality in Poetry" or we can use audience at t...
30. amy king — Sept. 1, 2010 = Esque +++++ Vida -- Women in Letters and Literary Arts
31. Scott Howard — Call for Book Reviewer: _"The Small Space of a Pause"_
32. Catherine Daly — Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
33. Jeffrey Side — The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is “The Blast Area” by John Tranter
34. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
35. John Cunningham — New Narrative

3 AUG 2010

36. Robert Dewhurst — Re: New Narrative
37. steve dalachinsky — Re: Completely Objective Review + My Autogeography
38. Jim Andrews — Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
39. Christophe Casamassima — Re: New Narrative
40. Mark Melnicove — LITERATURE OR OTHER MATERIALS
41. David Hadbawnik — seeking panelists for medieval congress at kzoo
42. Obododimma Oha — Hot Seat Millionaires
43. Gerald Schwartz — Black Mountain North Symposium
44. amy king — Completely Objective Review + My Autogeography

45. John Cunningham — Re: New Narrative
46. Paul Siegell — Thursday at the U of PENN Bookstore
47. Maria Damon — Re: Completely Objective Review + My Autogeography
48. Christophe Casamassima — Re: New Narrative
49. Emma Bolden — Re: New Narrative
50. Ruth Lepson — Re: Completely Objective Review + My Autogeography
51. Jennifer Karmin — Aug 6: Dear Fisherman in Chicago
52. Rob McLennan — 12 or 20 small press questions
53. Jason Quackenbush — Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
54. derekrogerson — Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
55. Jason Quackenbush — Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"

4 AUG 2010

56. Sharon Mesmer/David Borchart — Re: Completely Objective Review + My Autogeography
57. CA Conrad — Re: MUGGED into poetry...
58. susan maurer — Re: Completely Objective Review + My Autogeography
59. steve russell — Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
60. steve dalachinsky — Re: New Narrative
61. steve dalachinsky — Re: New Narrative
62. Maria Damon — Book Announcement
63. Jonathan Morse — Of possible interest to poetry publishers
64. Maria Damon — Re: Completely Objective Review + My Autogeography
65. amy king — Re: Completely Objective Review + My Autogeography

5 AUG 2010

66. Ryan Daley — Fwd: New Narrative
67. andrew topel — derek beaulieu's 'swarms'
68. David Kirschenbaum — Thank You for Making Boog 19
69. amy king — Re: Completely Objective Review + My Autogeography
70. Krystal Languell — Bone Bouquet: Now Reading for Issue 3

6 AUG 2010

71. Mark Weiss — Boasting rights
72. sam truitt — Vatne's CARTOGRAPHIES OF SILENCE: Book Party at Bowery, Saturday, August 14th
73. John Latta — At Isola di Rifiuti
74. Jim Andrews — Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
75. Angela Vasquez-Giroux — a somewhat silly question.
76. Alan Sondheim — Mt. Tremper performance (sound)

7 AUG 2010

77. Jeffrey Side — The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is "Portions of Conversational Assemblies…
78. Jeffrey Side — “Entitlements: Post-Modernity, Capitalism, and the Threat to Poetry's Histor…
79. Adam Fieled — "Entitlements: Post-Modernity, Capitalism..."
80. Stephen Baraban — Spirituality in Poetry / "Cotton Song"
81. Stephen Baraban — The I Am NOT The Walrus school?
82. Charles Bernstein — John Wieners EPC page
83. michael farrell — competitions
84. Jonathan Morse — Jonathan Morse blogs about John C. Yoo, the grammar of relative clauses, a…
85. CA Conrad — John Wieners: HELLO JOHN, from 2010

8 AUG 2010

86. Rob McLennan — The Peter F. Yacht Club: a miscellany, 87. Gary Sullivan — Original poetry comics, make me an offer!

9 AUG 2010

88. Nicholas Karavatos — ...at Last Word Books in Olympa, WA on Thursday at 5:30pm...
89. Nicholas Karavatos — ...at SoulFood Books in Redmond, WA on Wednesday at 7:00pm...
90. Maria Damon — Re: John Wieners: HELLO JOHN, from 2010
91. George Bowering — Re: Boasting rights
92. George Bowering — Re: competitions
93. Mark Weiss — Re: Boasting rights
94. Angela Vasquez-Giroux — Re: competitions
95. Tenney Nathanson — Re: John Wieners: HELLO JOHN, from 2010
96. Hugh Behm-Steinberg — Announcing issue nine of Eleven Eleven
97. Cate Marvin — VIDA: Women in Literary Arts -- One Year Later: PLEASE READ!
98. michael farrell — Re: competitions
99. David Seaman — Re: competitions
100. David Seaman — Re: a somewhat silly question.
101. amy king — Re: competitions

10 AUG 2010

102. Jared Schickling — Re: “Entitlements: Post-Modernity, Capitalism, and the Threat to Poetry'...
103. George Bowering — Re: competitions
104. George Bowering — Re: competitions
105. Obododimma Oha — Vehicle Nicknames as Public Discourse
106. michael farrell — new cordite
107. Gary Sullivan — URL for original poetry comics art
108. Jeffrey Side — The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is “Doom Cusp” by David Meltzer
109. Angela Vasquez-Giroux — Re: a somewhat silly question.
110. Daniel Zimmerman — Re: competitions
111. CA Conrad — Re: John Wieners: HELLO JOHN, from 2010
112. Mark Weiss — Re: competitions
113. Bonnie MacAllister — Bonnie MacAllister: Crowning the May Queen
114. steve russell — Re: New Narrative
115. Aaron Belz — widespread acceptance, please

11 AUG 2010

116. Alexander Dickow — ekleksographia: the france issue
117. Nate Pritts — H_NGM_N BKS
118. Louis Armand — Hidden Agendas/Unreported Poetics
119. Aldon Nielsen — Yunte in NYT
120. Mark DuCharme — Stratford Park Reading Series: NAKA PIERCE & PUSATERI, Sept. 16th
121. Cara Benson — Reading Reminder: Belladonna* Dusie Thursday 8pm
122. David Seaman — Re: competitions
123. Halvard Johnson — Halvard Johnson, Obras Públicas

12 AUG 2010

124. Jonathan Morse — Grammar: folk belief vs. poetry
125. David Seaman — Re: competitions
126. Tony Leuzzi — Looking for someone to review new book of poems
127. Ruth Lepson — Re: John Wieners: HELLO JOHN, from 2010
128. Nicholas Karavatos — City of Tacoma & Puget Sound Poetry Connection’s Distinguished Writer...
129. Nicholas Karavatos — A-New Poetry Series at the Downtown Initiative for the Visual Arts in ...
130. David Baratier — Transcontinental Award, deadline Monday August 16th
131. Mary Kasimor — Re: Looking for someone to review new book of poems
132. Mary Kasimor — Re: Grammar: folk belief vs. poetry
133. Jeff Davis — Re: John Wieners: HELLO JOHN, from 2010
134. Ruth Lepson — does anyone
135. steve russell — End Times (Green) poetics, or Adopt A Gringo

136. Alan Sondheim — Fwd: Call for Participants | Listeners Project @ Hyde Park Art Center (fwd)
137. steve russell — Re: Grammar: folk belief vs. poetry
138. peter ganick — new text and art book by Peter Ganick
139. Alan Sondheim — Forwarded article below on the Mosque controversies (fwd)
140. Stephen Ellis — Re: competitions
141. Laurie Schneider & Crag Hill — mIEKAL aND, James Yeary, Crag Hill, reading at Avol's Books ...

13 AUG 2010

142. Jim Andrews — Re: competitions
143. cris cheek — Re: {spam?} Forwarded article below on the Mosque controversies (fwd)
144. Laurie Schneider & Crag Hill — Nico Vassilakis, James Yeary, Crag Hill, reading at Myopic B...
145. cris cheek — Re: {spam?} Forwarded article below on the Mosque controversies (fwd)
146. David Seaman — Re: competitions
147. steve dalachinsky — Re: competitions
148. steve dalachinsky — Re: End Times (Green) poetics, or Adopt A Gringo
149. David Chirot — Re: {spam?} Forwarded article below on the Mosque controversies (fwd)
150. Alan Sondheim — Re: Second Life - Group notice: Tomorrow Aug 14 - 3 PM SLT - Alan Sondheim ...
151. Daniel Zimmerman — Re: competitions

14 AUG 2010

152. Jared Schickling — Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
153. Jesse Glass — Re: Grammar: folk belief vs. poetry
154. Jonathan Morse — Re: Forwarded article below on the Mosque controversies (fwd)
155. derek beaulieu — visual poetry print
156. amy king — TONIGHT: The Perseids -- The Custer Observatory
157. Ruth Lepson — Re: TONIGHT: The Perseids -- The Custer Observatory
158. Dan Wilcox — Third Thursday Poetry Night, August 19: Jill Crammond Wickham
159. Cara Benson — Yes! Reading Aug 26, Albany NY

15 AUG 2010

160. steve dalachinsky — abbey lincoln
161. Chris Jones — Re: Forwarded article below on the Mosque controversies (fwd)
162. tyrone williams — Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
163. George Bowering — Re: competitions
164. Jerome Rothenberg — American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium
165. michael farrell — Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
166. David Seaman — Re: competitions
167. Mark Weiss — Re: {spam?} Forwarded article below on the Mosque controversies (fwd)

16 AUG 2010

168. Ruth Lepson — Re: abbey lincoln
169. Ruth Lepson — Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium
170. steve russell — Re: End Times (Green) poetics, or Adopt A Gringo
171. Stephen Baraban — One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota[h]to
172. Mark Weiss — Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium
173. Aldon Nielsen — Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium
174. Mairead Byrne — Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium
175. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium
176. steve russell — Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
177. Alan Sondheim — Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
178. Maria Damon — Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium
179. Ann Bogle — Comments in Chinese
180. stephanie barber — Fwd: Stephanie Barber REPRINT

181. Jesse Glass — Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium

17 AUG 2010

182. Jared Schickling — Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
183. carol dorf — Girlstock Art and Music Benefit - Saturday, August 21st Poetry Readings -- 5:00
184. Paul Nelson — Re: One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota[h]to
185. Ruth Lepson — Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
186. Jeffrey Side — The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is “Old Women Look Like This” by Susan M…
187. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium
188. Hilary Clark — Re: One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota[h]to
189. Rosalie Calabrese — Fw: ROSALIE CALABRESE POETRY READINGS SEPTEMBER 2010
190. Obododimma Oha — E-Newspaper Feedback: Countryman Meets Truckpusher
191. David Kirschenbaum — Save the Dates: Boog Fest, Fri. 9/24-Tues. 9/28

18 AUG 2010

192. Robert Dewhurst — WILD ORCHIDS vol. 2: HANNAH WEINER
193. William Allegrezza — books for glances
194. Chris Stroffolino — Clark Coolidge Polaroid 20
195. CA Conrad — CHINATOWN Philadelphia (Soma)tic Poetry Workshop
196. Paul Siegell — book trailers
197. Jim Andrews — Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium
198. Lisa Janssen — MoonLit #4 is out and it is awesome.
199. Elizabeth Switaj — Re: Comments in Chinese
200. steve russell — Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
201. Nick LoLordo — Re: One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota[h]to 202. Stephen Baraban — Re: One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota[h]to
203. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium
204. David Chirot — from forthcoming "Bob Dylan in America:" Chapter Two--published in New Yorke…
205. steve dalachinsky — for tuli kupferberg
206. David Chirot — SLOVA #8 pdf--ongoing talk with/works by Chirot--some texts in English now o…
207. marc vincenz — Re: Comments in Chinese
208. Hilary Clark — Re: One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota[h]to
209. michael farrell — Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
210. Mary Kasimor — Re: from forthcoming "Bob Dylan in America:" Chapter Two--published in New Y…
211. Crane's Bill Books — Re: One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota[h]to

19 AUG 2010

212. Jim Andrews — Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium
213. Jeffrey Side — The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is "Symphony No. 2" by Ric Carfagna
214. Robin Hamilton — Edwin Morgan
215. Mairead Byrne — edwin morgan bright star
216. Jared Schickling — Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS

20 AUG 2010

217. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium
218. David Chirot — re Ground Zero tolerance/intolerance: Tahar Djouat &Abdellatif Laabi--Demol…
219. steve dalachinsky — Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
220. amy king — OT -- LATEST POEMS @ POETS FOR LIVING WATERS
221. Ruth Lepson — Re: OT -- LATEST POEMS @ POETS FOR LIVING WATERS
222. steve russell — Re: re Ground Zero tolerance/intolerance: Tahar Djouat &Abdellatif Laabi--…
223. amy king — Re: OT -- LATEST POEMS @ POETS FOR LIVING WATERS
224. Ruth Lepson — Re: OT -- LATEST POEMS @ POETS FOR LIVING WATERS

225. Ruth Lepson — Re: re Ground Zero tolerance/intolerance: Tahar Djouat &Abdellatif Laabi--De...
226. Douglas Manson — poetry and pedagogy

21 AUG 2010

227. Jared Schickling — Re: re Ground Zero tolerance/intolerance: Tahar Djouat &Abdellatif Laabi...
228. Jared Schickling — Re: Ground Zero tolerance/intolerance: Tahar Djouat &Abdellatif Laabi--...
229. Jared Schickling — Re: Poems for the Millennium Ground Zero
230. Catherine Daly — Support Woodland Pattern
231. Alan Sondheim — Double (musical) Seance for Stephen Dydo and Adam Tobin
232. E. J. McAdams — Tuesday in NYC: Julie Patton LIVE!!!
233. Jim Andrews — Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium
234. Petra Kuppers — Call for Applications: Movement, Somatics and Writing: A Practice-Based Sym...
235. Jennifer Karmin — Aaaaaaaaaaalice in Albany / Brooklyn / Philly
236. Stephen Ellis — Re: poetry and pedagogy
237. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium

22 AUG 2010

238. Dr. Dina Ripsman Eylon — Deadline Extended: Women in Judaism Writing Competition
239. Dan Wilcox — 3 Guys from Albany to Perform at Oklahoma LaborFest, to Visit Albany, OK
240. Michael Heller — This Art Burning, Performances September 11th (7:30 PM) and September 12th...
241. Michael Heller — Correction and apologies
242. Douglas Manson — Re: poetry and pedagogy

23 AUG 2010

243. Rob McLennan — new(ish) on rob's clever blog
244. Christophe Casamassima — Dialogue's End: Inter[re]view with Emily Carr & David Wolach
245. Jen Tynes — chapbooks from Denrow and Sikkema!
246. Nate Pritts — H_NGM_N chapbooks from Liening & Donne

24 AUG 2010

247. Susan Wheeler — David Larsen
248. derek beaulieu — new from No: "Crowns Creek" by Steve McCaffery & Steven Ross Smith
249. amy king — THIS FRIDAY: Julie Doxsee, Curtis Jensen, Jennifer Karmin, Eric Lindley, Ben Mir...
250. Michael — AGAINST BIG OIL
251. Sharon Mesmer/David Borchart — Re: Comments in Chinese
252. CA Conrad — RICHARD BRAUTIGAN Urchin Reading
253. Stephen Vincent — Re: RICHARD BRAUTIGAN Urchin Reading
254. cris cheek — Re: AGAINST BIG OIL
255. Al Filreis — PoemTalk #35: Bruce Andrews
256. Jeffrey Side — Interview with Sheila E. Murphy at The Argotist Online

25 AUG 2010

257. steve dalachinsky — Re: AGAINST BIG OIL
258. Christophe Casamassima — Furniture Press Poetry Prize - Last Week to Enter
259. amy king — HOWL ! Festival 2010 POETRY Events
260. Cara Benson — Reminder: Yes! Reading Thurs Albany, NY
261. amy king — Fw: Poets for Living Waters in Poets & Writers
262. mIEKAL aND — Re: AGAINST BIG OIL
263. Millicent — Re: Poets for Living Waters in Poets & Writers
264. Mark Weiss — Re: AGAINST BIG OIL
265. Maria Damon — Re: Fw: Poets for Living Waters in Poets & Writers
266. Mark Melnicove — Bern Porter Chronology

267. Jim Andrews — Re: AGAINST BIG OIL
268. amy king — Some readers read Bill Knott
269. Mark Weiss — Re: Some readers read Bill Knott
270. Mark Weiss — Re: AGAINST BIG OIL
271. amy king — Re: Fw: Poets for Living Waters in Poets & Writers

26 AUG 2010

272. Michael Carr — Acting Out by Alli Warren
273. cris cheek — Re: AGAINST BIG OIL
274. Drew McKevitt — Vallum call for submissions
275. mIEKAL aND — email for Clark Coolidge
276. amy king — Geoffrey Gatza's SECRETS OF MY PRISON HOUSE --- Now Available!
277. George Bowering — Re: email for Clark Coolidge
278. Jim Andrews — Re: AGAINST BIG OIL

27 AUG 2010

279. Paul Nelson — A typical Billy Collins
280. amy king — TONIGHT - FRIDAY -- Julie Doxsee, Curtis Jensen, Jennifer Karmin, Eric Lindley, ...
281. Michael — Antonia Juhasz at B&B on Big Oil and the Gulf Disaster
282. mIEKAL aND — Re: AGAINST BIG OIL

28 AUG 2010

283. steve dalachinsky — Re: email for Clark Coolidge
284. { brad brace } — Industrial Average
285. Jeffrey Side — "The Conspiracy Against Poems" by Adam Fieled at The Argotist Online

29 AUG 2010

286. Jonathan Penton — news at UnlikelyStories.org
287. Mark Young — Now out from Otoliths — Larry Sawyer's "Unable to Fully California"
288. Mary Kasimor — Re: Now out from Otoliths — Larry Sawyer's "Unable to Fully California"
289. Adam Fieled — Apparition Poems on YouTube
290. Jacquilyn Weeks — Re: "The Conspiracy Against Poems" by Adam Fieled at The Argotist Online
291. alexisquinlan — Re: Comments in Chinese

30 AUG 2010

292. steve dalachinsky — benefit and tribute month
293. Randolph Healy — Wild Honey Press Podcast: Andrew Brewerton
294. Mark Weiss — Re: Apparition Poems on YouTube
295. Paul Nelson — Re: "The Conspiracy Against Poems" by Adam Fieled at The Argotist Online 296. Jeffrey Side — The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is “Paradigm of the Tinctures” by Steve ...

31 AUG 2010

297. CA Conrad — poet DAVID WOLACH is PhillySound Feature #8
298. Kyle Schlesinger — Recently on Mimeo Mimeo
299. Joel Weishaus — Poetica Critique of "A Community Writing Itself."
300. Morgan Myers — Re: "The Conspiracy Against Poems" by Adam Fieled at The Argotist Online
301. David Chirot — Re: "The Conspiracy Against Poems" by Adam Fieled at The Argotist Online

1. Catherine Daly

Fwd: forwarded message from Louis Bourgeois

Fri 30 Jul 2010

This is forwarded from another list. The contact person is Louis Bourgeois at http://voxpressonline.com/

<http://voxpressonline.com/>this may be his publisher address as well as the submissions address:
louis-bourgeois at hotmail dot com

VOX PRESS, INC (a non-profit literary press in Oxford, Mississippi) is in its initial stages of organizing a literary symposium for the summer of 2011, in Oxford. Mississippi. The purpose of the symposium will be to examine the current state of small press literary publishing, with particular emphasis on the problems and challenges faced by small presses and the resources and innovations that publishers like yourself are using to achieve your mission. In order for VOX to have a better understanding of how the small press literary world might benefit most from this event, please take a few moments and respond to the following questions:

Based upon your experience, what are the key challenges and concerns that small presses face today? (Please list in order of importance.) On a scale of 1 to 6 (with 1 meaning "not at all interested" and 6 meaning "extremely interested"), how interested would you be in attending a symposium designed to examine and address these challenges? If you would be interested in attending this type of symposium, which of the challenges and concerns that you identified would you most like to included in the event? (Please list in order of preference.) What resources, innovations, solutions, etc. have you found to be most useful in addressing the challenges and concerns that you face in your work? What type of formats and activities (e.g., formal presentations, panel discussions, workshops, "best practice" presentations, etc.) would be most useful for examining and addressing these concerns in a symposium setting? Have you or any other members of your press ever participated in a literary symposium or festival of this sort? If so, did you find that to be a satisfying experience? How could it have been improved? What specific benefits did you gain from participating?

If you are interested in this type of symposium, can you think of any problems or obstacles that might prevent you from attending and/or participating in the event?

Would you be interested in leading a workshop or participating in a panel discussion on one of the topics that you have identified above? (While the topics will be largely determined by the responses of potential participants, topics for the symposium might include: goals and strategies for greater inclusiveness, the role of new technologies, etc.) Would you be interested in writing an essay and/or giving a lecture on the theme: What Is the Current State and/or the Future of Literary Small Press Publishing in the 21st Century? Are there other related themes about which you would be interested in writing an essay and/or giving a lecture? Finally, are there any other issues that you would like to raise or recommendations that you would like to make for us at this time as we begin the initial planning for this event? Thank you for your response. Your comments and recommendations will play a vital role in the design and implementation of a literary symposium for you and your colleagues in the small press community.

Hi everybody, You could send replies to me and I would forward them to Louis, my ex-student and friend. best wishes,
Ann FW

_____

WOMPO

Headers -- OT - Off Topic; CFW - Calls for Work; POL - Political

Archives and subscription settings -- http://lists.ncc.edu/scripts/wa.exe?A0=WOM-PO

--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

↑ Index

2. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Fri 30 Jul 2010

What does exactly "weird platonism" mean? Could you explain. What is weird about them? Does that mean that one is not agreeing with what he is saying. It is easy to call someone crazy under the circumstances. It has happened quite often. I would really appreciate if someone can explain this "weirdness." Is it weird because Platonism is weird" or it is weird because he misreads Platonism or is it weird just because he was crazy?

As for "wittgenstein was a terrific poet mistaken for a logician by some": that sounds a complete put down to me. It is like saying a woman should stay home and raise children.

Jim, recently I talked to someone who had just graduated from Princeton College majoring in philosophy. It appeared to me -though he tried to cover it- he had not heard of Descartes's "cogito ergo sum." He had failed to pick up a reference to it. I understand the whole philosophy department at Princeton focuses on symbolic logic?

No Plato, no Descartes -all relegated to the realm of "poetry," etc. Is that what one means by "weird," that it is not symbolic logic?

Ciao,

Murat

On Thu, Jul 29, 2010 at 11:13 PM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

> just going to chime in with my usual response to this statement that i think he understood godel fine,
>
> o i think you're mistaken, jason, fer a change. the best thing i've read about godel/wittgenstein is by Rebecca Goldstein at http://www.edge.org/3rd_culture/goldstein05/goldstein05_index.html . if you > search it for wittgenstein, you'll come across this, for instance:
>
> "Wittgenstein never accepted Gödel's result; he said in The Foundations of Mathematics, posthumously published, that his task is not to discuss Gödel, but rather to bypass Gödel. He also called Gödel's results the tricks of a logical conjurer, logical artifices."
>
> but the whole above url is quite fascinating. strongly recommended!
>
> here is what godel said:
>
> "As far as my theorem about undecidable propositions is concerned, it is indeed clear ... that Wittgenstein did not understand it (or pretended not to understand it). He interprets it as a kind of logical paradox, while in fact it is just the opposite, namely a mathematical theorem within an absolutely uncontroversial part of mathematics (finitary number theory or combinatorics)".
>
> i think he got the better of turing in their debates,
>
> i'm not familiar with any debates between them. sounds interesting. what documentation exists of these debates?

> and that his view of what mathematics are is much closer to what's probably right than Godel's weird platonism.
>
> the veracity of godel's results in mathematical logic do not depend on his "weird platonism" at all, of course, as i expect you fully understand.
>
> godel's platonism got weird toward the end of his life.
>
> godel starved himself to death out of paranoia about his food being poisoned. he suffered from mental issues toward the end of his life. his extreme platonism is associated with his period of decline, not his earlier, > more robust period, when he published his famous results. the poor guy went off his rocker, finally.
>
> wittgenstein was a terrific poet mistaken for a logician by some. i am partial to such poets.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
> july 29 2010

↑ Index

3. Jim Andrews

Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"

Fri 30 Jul 2010

"Wittgenstein never accepted Gödel's result; he said in The Foundations of Mathematics, posthumously published, that his task is not to discuss Gödel, but rather to bypass Gödel. He also called Gödel's results the tricks of a logical conjurer, logical artifices." from http://www.edge.org/3rd_culture/goldstein05/goldstein05_index.html

my feeling is that there was no room for godel's work in wittgenstein's world view. he needed to not discuss godel but to bypass him.

wittgenstein's work in mathematical logic is not even remotely as important as that of godel. and godel's work is beautiful in a way that challenges any poet writing pretty conjectures and enigmatic pronouncements. it's beautiful and it's true. it's expressed in proofs that have stood the test of time. it uses the equally beautiful work of georg cantor, uses his diagonal argument (which was also used later by turing). it's the most significant work of mathematical logic of the twentieth century. it eclipses the work of any poet on mathematical logic. it redefines the poetry and philosophy of mathematical logic.

i think wittgenstein thought this sort of genuinely remarkable work in meta mathematics was simply impossible, that it was 'unsayable', and that his own sort of poetry was as good as it got.

godel shows us what really excellent work in mathematical logic is.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

4. Jason Quackenbush
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Fri 30 Jul 2010

I know that's the fashionable view among mathematicians and philosophers of mathematics who don't want to have to address the fact that Wittgenstein called them out for a level of metaphysical spookiness that most don't want to admit to like good scientific materialists, but that argument, including Godel's remarks on the matter, doesn't really comprehend what's going on in the remarks on the foundations of mathematics where Godel sentences are being discussed. It's also, I think, quite uncharitable to attribute that imprecision of thought to attribute the mistake that Wittgenstein is supposed to have made (that is, thinking that the incompleteness theorem was somehow incorrect) to a mathematical logician capable of holding his own among the likes of Bertrand Russell, Frank Ramsey, and John Maynard Keynes, Alan Turing, and Piero Sraffa, all of whom were in some way influenced by him at some point. Wittgenstein didn't dismiss or misunderstand the result, it's just that on his view of how mathematics worked, which was influenced by Brouwer and his own work on Frege and Russell's views, it's relatively trivial that there are true but unprovable statements in any significantly complex formal system, which is the only consequence of the theorem that he ever wrote anything about and even then, only as notes to himself for lectures and not anything he intended for public consumption. My guess is that he'd probably argue the law of the excluded middle would be such a proposition true but unprovable assumption in Brouwer's system for example. I think in Wittgenstein's view that would be more or less an obvious result of the constructed nature of mathematical language that he maintained at least from 1930 until the end of his life.

but what matters is that the remarks on the foundations of mathematics are primarily aimed at Russell and Whitehead's attempt in the Principles of Mathematics to ground arithmetic in formal logic, and where he probably screwed up was in his remarks about set theory, although I'm not convinced that that rejection isn't more of a reaction to the strange metaphysical character of sets themselves as opposed to any real trouble with the mathematics. As such, I think the Godel remarks really can only be read as a misunderstanding of incompleteness when they aren't seen in the light of being made really as an attack on the

if you're curious, Hilary Putnam and Juliet Floyd put forward an interesting reading of the "Notorious" paragraphs about the Incompleteness Theorem. P&F argues rather convincingly, I think, that Wittgenstein's remarks on Godel are actually about problems of translation from sentence letters in PM as a result of what Godel had shown. That is, that the results reveal a semantic problem in moving from formalized semantics of the sort that are provably complete (like Russell's system) but not, hypothetically, consistent to natural language semantics. Which, if they're right and that is what he was talking about in that fairly gnomic paragraph, is a pretty interesting insight into what the first incompleteness theorem establishes. P&F go so far as to make the case that he was actually anticipating something like model theory, and I think that's a bit of a stretch because I don't know that Wittgenstein would have cared all that much for how Tarski conceptualized models, but he does make a good case. The paper is here: http://www.scribd.com/doc/88248/Wittgenstein-on-Godel and some defenses of objections to it by people who really want to save the "wittgenstein didn't understand math, so what use is he as a philosopher" argument here: http://www.bu.edu/philo/faculty/Ramharter_vol_on_Goedel.pdf

Also, it should be remembered Wittgenstein only saw in the original paper by Godel with its reliance on the Skolem lemma and without the benefit of the many adjunct improvements on the theory, or indeed Kleene's Church-Turing thesis about computability drawing on the lambda calculus and Turing's work with the halting problem--which i think represents the first real synthesis of all the previosly occult and esoteric work on algorithms and computability into something more interesting than just poking David Hilbert's corpse with a sharp stick--didn't appear until after poor uncle ludwig had passed on. Which is to say, when W was writing about Godel in 1937, what matters in understanding Wittgenstein on Godel is Wittgenstein didn't care at all about the big issue results of the first incompleteness theorem, that is that there can't be a complete formalization of mathematics even as basic a mathematics as Peano Arithmetic that is complete and consistent. Which, again, was something that Wittgenstein felt he'd more or less demonstrated in the Tractatus, and seemed very much like a non sequitur to him, when the real issues in matehmatics was to combat the insidious philosophical importations present in formalism and platonism. which, notably, the incompleteness theorems as you say are completely agnostic towards.

The Turing/Wittgenstein discussions are really great and I highly recommend them. They're transcribed in a book called Wittgenstein's Lectures on the Foundations of Mathematics 1939, which is based on the shorthand transcripts of, I think, Rush Rhees, Alice Ambrose, GH von Wright, Peter Geach and Norman Malcolm. I think reasonable people can disagree about who got the upper hand more often, but seeing the two of them go back and forth is pretty astonishing and I'm forever jealous of the people who were in the room to watch it as it happened.

Also, I think you're giving him a bit of a short shrift as a logician. He did invent truth tables, after all, and that's a fairly significant contribution, as is the notion of "truth conditions" which first appears in the tractatus and is now more or less indispensable in talking about semantics in logical terms.

On Jul 29, 2010, at 8:13 PM, Jim Andrews wrote:

> just going to chime in with my usual response to this statement that i > think he understood godel fine,
>
> o i think you're mistaken, jason, fer a change. the best thing i've read > about godel/wittgenstein is by Rebecca Goldstein at > http://www.edge.org/3rd_culture/goldstein05/goldstein05_index.html . if you > search it for wittgenstein, you'll come across this, for instance:
>
> "Wittgenstein never accepted Gödel's result; he said in The Foundations of > Mathematics, posthumously published, that his task is not to discuss Gödel, > but rather to bypass Gödel. He also called Gödel's results the tricks of a > logical conjurer, logical artifices."
>
> but the whole above url is quite fascinating. strongly recommended!
>
> here is what godel said:
>
> "As far as my theorem about undecidable propositions is > concerned, it is indeed clear ... that Wittgenstein did not > understand it (or pretended not to understand it). He > interprets it as a kind of logical paradox, while in fact it is > just the opposite, namely a mathematical theorem within > an absolutely uncontroversial part of mathematics > (finitary number theory or combinatorics)".

> i think he got the better of turing in their debates,
>
> i'm not familiar with any debates between them. sounds interesting. what > documentation exists of these debates?
>
> and that his view of what mathematics are is much closer to what's > probably right than Godel's weird platonism.
>
> the veracity of godel's results in mathematical logic do not depend on his
> "weird platonism" at all, of course, as i expect you fully understand.
>
> godel's platonism got weird toward the end of his life.
>
> godel starved himself to death out of paranoia about his food being > poisoned. he suffered from mental issues toward the end of his life. his > extreme platonism is associated with his period of decline, not his earlier, > more robust period, when he published his famous results. the poor guy went > off his rocker, finally.
>
> wittgenstein was a terrific poet mistaken for a logician by some. i am > partial to such poets.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
> july 29 2010

↑ Index

5. Mark Young

Otoliths #18 is now live

Sat 31 Jul 2010

Issue 18, the southern winter 2010 issue, of Otoliths<http://the-otolith.blogspot.com/>has just gone live.

Let's get the obvious pun out of the way first. This is an august issue. It's packed with text in its many forms—as story, essay, review, or poem—as well as a wide range of visual media: collages, frottages, glyphs, postcards, paintings, notebook pages & some great new vispo.

Included in the issue are Emma Smith, Eileen R. Tabios, Mark Cunningham, Ed Baker, Piotr Gwiazda, Anne Gorrick, Ed Higgins, Jukka-Pekka Kervinen, Manfred Weidhorn, Carlos Soto-Román, Sally Ann McIntyre, James Maughn, Mark Francis Johnson, Sheila E. Murphy, Amanda Earl, Orchid Tierney, Philip Byron Oakes, Raymond Farr, Joe Balaz, Randall Brock, Meaghan Lank, Jeff Harrison, Mary Kasimor, Bruno Neiva, Benjamin Winkler, M. V. Montgomery, Ric Carfagna, Jessica Breheny, Jal Nicholl, Alexander Jorgensen, Mark Stricker, Reed Altemus, Jenny Enochsson, Felino Soriano, Corey Wakeling, Grzegorz Wróblewski, Lars Palm, Thomas Fink, Dorothee Lang & Steve Wing, Larry Sawyer, Paul Siegell, Beth Boettcher, Charles Freeland, Jake David, Márton Koppány, Katrinka Moore, Aidan Semmens, Connor Stratman, Stephen Nelson & Mike Cannell, SJ Fowler, Cath Vidler, Cecelia Chapman, rob mclennan, Cherie Hunter Day, Neil Ellman, Geof Huth, R. Riekki, Tony Brinkley, sean burn, Scott Metz, Travis Macdonald, Stuart Barnes, Spencer Selby, Keith Higginbotham, Sam Langer, Tony Rickaby, Bob Heman, Andrew Topel, Andrew Taylor, John Martone, Brad Vogler, Bobbi Lurie, Michael Brandonisio, Yonah Korngold, J. D. Nelson, Tyler L. Gobble reviewing Adam Robinson's *Say, Poem *, Sheila E. Murphy reviewing Out of the Box: Contemporary Australian Gay and Lesbian Poets, Cassie Eddington, & Colleen Lookingbill.

Enough there, & of sufficient variety, to keep everybody happy.

↑ Index

6. Mary Jo Malo

Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"

Sat 31 Jul 2010

Throughout this discussion, I contemplated a major edit to a softly-published (blogspot) poem, which contrasts scientific and spiritual ways of understanding. It always read ambiguously, so I finally cleaned it up in order to make the ambivalence more pronounced.

FIT LANGUAGE
after Richard Dawkins

science doesn't unweave
the poetry of a rainbow but justly strips the gods of shuttle and warped claims with sparkling webs which trick and trap then ungraciously collapse when fitter words appear explaining why life is too short for many their meager bliss snuffed out and for others too long moments of joy and terror are not balanced with the precision of a blind watchmaker or blamed on a reckless devil's chaplain who adapts to survive innocent of intent is cause a humbler palliation or is it true everything happens for a reason

Mary Jo
--
http://thisshiningwound.blogspot.com/
http://apophisdeconstructingabsurdity.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

7. Jennifer Karmin

July writers @ Everday Genius

Sat 31 Jul 2010

Need more summer reading?

Check out the July writers at EVERYDAY GENIUS
edited by Kate Zambreno

Affinity Konar
Chris Kraus
Suzanne Scanlon
Janice Lee
Jâ€™Lyn Chapman
Megan Milks
Caroline Picard
Rachel Levitsky
Colleen Oâ€™Connor

Jennifer Karmin
Roz Ito
Vanessa Place
Hildebrand Pam Dick
Danielle Dutton
Danielle Pafunda
Bhanu Kapil
Ariana Reines
Janey Smith
Laura Goldstein
Rachel Gontijo AraÃºjo
Rebecca Loudon
Dodie Bellamy
Kate Durbin

http://www.everyday-genius.com/2010_07_01_archive.html

↑ Index

8. Jason Quackenbush
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Sat 31 Jul 2010

---

yeah, but reading him as a positivist is a total misunderstanding of his work. The reason that stuff shows up in positivism is because carnap and weissman completely misunderstood the tractatus as saying something it definitely was not, ie those things that can't be talked about or empirically investigated are themselves worthless and nonexistent. which is not the case. he just thought LANGUAGE about those things was nonsensical, but not that whatever the language about htose things was trying to express was delusional or wrong. that's where his mysticism lies, which is what very few people, including I think most wittgenstein scholars, fail to appreciate. I'm in fairly good company with my reading though, because I think Ray Monk and Jurgen Habermas's readings of him coincide with mine, albeit with a few differences.

for that second argument to work you'd have to accept something like David Lewis's resolution to the problem of universals which relies on set theory and modal realism, which I just don't buy. Again, I'll appeal to wittgenstein's remark that "when you are learning spelling you also learn how to spell the word "spelling" but no one calls this a second order spelling." or to put it another way, to quote dennett's sarcastic remark about a wittgensteinian ordinary language philosopher "if it can't be expressed in first order predicate logic, it's probably incorrect and meaningless."

I just really disagree with the notion that Wittgenstein held to anything like the idea that language was absolute and final in any way. Rather he thought it was limited, amorphous, changeable, and in no way capable of covering the wider extent of human life, which for him was a precondition for language that meaning requires. hence the comment "if a lion could talk we would not understand him."

And again, I'll return to probably the poorest understood aspect of wittgenstein's view of language which is that the things that can not be said can in fact be shown. they can be demonstrated. they can be pointed at indexically. what they can't be is explained, described, discussed, or whatever. If i want you to understand a religious experience, for example, i might give you a set of instructions that might allow you to recreate the experience for yourself, but if i start trying to describe it, then I begin to start talking in a way that isn't strictly meaningful in the way that other propositions are. Which, again, is why "philosophy ought to be written only as a form of poetry." Because poetic language is capable of showing in a way that ordinary language is not.

As for the Arcades project, it sounds really interesting, but it also doesn't sound like the same use of the word "true" as one uses in talking about propositions and the truth functions of logic and reasoning. Here again, the later wittgenstein is informative and i would appeal to the notion of family resemblances. Just because one uses the same word doesn't mean one is saying the same thing. And it sounds to me like what you're talking about in the arcades project is something with a kinship to the truth that exists in rational argument, but that is not fully the same thing. And I think that's fair and Wittgenstein would allow for that. Again, to me whatever disagreement we seem to have, and I don't think it's a huge one, seems to be over how to understand what Wittgenstein believed about language. So far I don't really think there's much that you've pointed at that doesn't fit into his conception of language in some way.

On Jul 29, 2010, at 8:33 AM, Murat Nemet-Nejat wrote:

> Jason,
>
> a) A few other condescending attributions by Wittgenstein: "Nonsensical," "bewitchment of language." All he had to add was "young and foolish," "wet behind the ears humanity. "Nonsensical" is a logical positivist term; "bewitchment of language" is just a more "poetic" expression of the same thought. Personally, I have grave doubts how far W.' moved away from his logical positivist origins at Cambridge.

b) As transfinite sets imply, any set can finally be broken to become the subset of another set, ad infinitum -building, breaking down and rebuilding... That way the distinction between "language" and "a language," as you put it, does not really exist. If so, there is not much difference between Witgenstein's "Language." and Benjamin's "ideal language." In this specific sense, in his use of the concept of "language," one might argue that W. -the quintessential liberal Christian Jew- was a cabbalist.

The difference, it seems to me, between W. and B. is that for W. "language" is a final absolute, therefore, unsayable. Surprisingly, counter-intuitively, for B. "ideal language" is not. B's "ideal language constantly breaks down, reforms, expands itself. It is a process, a continuous one.

Here one come, I think, to Benjamin's rebuttal of Wittgenstein within the framework, body of language itself, how language constantly, continuously breaks out of its limits towards the unsayable -which in its turn may create new fields of the unsayable: in the central importance of quotations and fragments (deterioration, fragmentation) in his writing, in his rhetorical ideal. Quotations are meta-factual. They are conjectural gestures, a rhetoric of possibilities, potentialities. They are on the level of language also always true (they are quoting someone) regardless of what they are saying. By definition quotations also are always fragments, taken from a larger whole. They need complementation (one of the constant features, themes in this thread has been to bring in what W. said before or after the specific discussed passage). When quotations are placed together, the need for complementation occurs across their jagged edges empowering the empty space among them. This is the unsayable, spiritual space.

The Arcades Project resolves the dilemma, blind alley W's thought leads us. It creates a detailed analysis of the physical, ethical, emotional, spiritual, intellectual analysis of the past continuing into the present (he called it "dialectical history). Here W's distinction between factual and ethical (nonsensical, etc.) has disappeared, has been resolved (that's why Adorno hated The Arcades Project writings so much and wanted to edit them out -they were too "redeptive," not positivist enough).

c) Jason, you say:
"I don't see how it you can have sentence that is true or false without it referring to an object and then predicating some quality to the object. You don't need subject-predicate word order to get that, but if you could give me an example of a statement that is capable of being true or false without having some kind of predicate, I might be able to grasp what you're getting
at. To me, the fact that propositions contain predicates seems tautological."

As I said, The Arcades Project is such an example. Through quotations (in which Benjamin's own ideas also function as quotations), Benjamin makes statements (in the shape of gestures), not about "the world/ realty,"; but about language where the distinction W. makes through abstraction does not exist. All the dimensions of thought and experience -ethics, history, facts, etc. etc,- blur, blend into each other. Since humanity experiences "reality" through language and its manners of regeneration, Benjamin's method seems to me much less nonsensical or "bewitchment" of reality than Wittgenstein'.

d) I am glad that you see words like "nonsensical, etc. should lose their negative connotations. But, of we do so, doesn't Wittgenstein tragic sense of life, which poets are so drawn to, basically vanish?

GREAT THREAD. THANK YOU.

Ciao,

Murat

On Wed, Jul 28, 2010 at 1:59 PM, Murat Nemet-Nejat
<[redacted]>wrote:

Jason, David, Jim,

This thread has become so vast, in a very good way, so that I do not know how to respond to each (particularly to Jason's meticulous arguments), unless I spend a trans-finite portion of my day doing it, not that that would be a bad thing.

Jason, first let me respond to what you are saying. I think there is more we agree with on Wittgenstein than we disagree with. My objection to him is in the use and consequences of his rhetoric and his effect on poetry and poetics in the United States. It narrows the possibilities of poetry, particularly the way Language School applied his ideas. Let me explain what I mean:

a) It is true that Wittgenstein will not deny that the subject-predicate structure is not the only way a sentence can be constructed; but he delegates every other structure to second class by calling it "meaningless," unable to be expressed as "true or false," etc. (I need to go back to the text and choose a few more words with the same rhetorical effect).

*But who has decided that the nature of reality consists (must express* itself) as true or false and everything else is peripheral, secondary. That is a profound, unquestioned assumption on Wittgenstein's part the *validity

of which to me is much less clear -in fact, to be honest about it, is clearly "false."*

I am more on the side of what Heraclitus says and David quotes:

""The most beautiful world is a heap of rubble tossed down in confusion/at random."

*We see truth, if at all, through a glass darkly, which also constantly changes, is fluid. "Factual," "ethical," "pilosophical," even "scientific"
values blur are very rarely distinct (a clear demarcation between objective and subjective basically impossible), and to build a reality structure on a fundementalist distinction between true and false (which W. does by privileging a prepositional view of what is real, as opposed to unsayable) is foolhardy. A poet's job, it seems to me, is exactly to deal with that unsayable -shall we consider ourselves to be dealing with nonsense or, as Language School or it follower Flarf does, indulging in language games or google games.*

*I do not disagree that we are may be doomed (The Spiritual Life of Replicants deals with that issue) to grasp reality only through language
-but that does not mean that we have to do it by entering only through one straight straight straight gate -the prepositional sentence.*

*David,
I think we agree in our view of Grenier. I was not aware Grenier's later work was blacklisted by Language School poets. At least they realized what he was getting at and his pursuit went awry from their approach to poetry.*

Ciao,

Murat

On Wed, Jul 28, 2010 at 3:56 AM, Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote:

Hey Murat, thanks for the excellent counterpoint.

"6.41 The sense of the world must lie outside the world. In the world everything is as it is and happens as it does happen. In it there is no value -- and if there were, it would be of no value."

*Do you not see the circularity of Wittgenstein's argument? While he pays lip service to by being "sympathetic" to ethical impulses, he condescends to
it
and relegates it to subservient category. If he can not talk "meaningfully" about something, then he does not talk about it. Therefore, that thing becomes invisible: "he didn't write about it because he couldn't." On a grand scale, is this argument any different from the drunkard who looks
for the key under the light because that's where the light is, not necessarily where the key is?*

I don't see circularity, but rather the elucidation of a tautology. But I'm not terribly inclined to defend the argument of the tractatus, as I don't think it's particularly useful except as an example of where he was coming from in his later more compelling world. There are huge flaws in the tractatus, my favorite being the summation of Prop. 7 (the famous "whereof we cannot speak, therof we must remain silent") given by Frank Ramsey's > translation "You can't say what you can't say and you can't whistle it either."

>
> To the drunk looking for his keys analogy, I think there's a bit of that, and I think some of it is even intentional. That sort of uselessness of the actual arguments is I think part of what he had in mind in saying that the tractatus was meant to be a ladder that you could kick away once you climbed to the top.
>
> Wittgenstein never explores or goes after that "outside" world ("the sense of the world"). His thinking concerns itself only with what "as it is and happens as it does happen."
>
> On the contrary, I think he doesn't think that stuff matters at all. In fact in his journals and in the brown books, he's almost dismissive of that part of experience as stuff that can be through empirical science. It just isn't the proper object of philosophy to deal with that stuff. It's empirical and there are other ways of thinking about it that are more fruitful.
>
> Here I think an analysis of syntax is important -specifically the English syntax, composed of subject and predicate- is important. That is the syntax for an empirical view of the world -where things either happen (are true) or don't happen (are not true). Wittgeinstein accepts this implicitly as the paradigm, as far as I can tell, with defending why.

*well, he's talking about propositions, which by definition are sentences that can be true or false. Much of what precedes the quoted section deals with what propositions are, how they work, how they relate to facts, what facts are etc. And again, i think this is a fair criticism because this notion of the proposition as a thing at all arises from from Russell and Whiteheads elucidation of the predicate calculus in The Principals of Mathematics. That said, I'm not entirely sure I understand what the distinction you're drawing is, but I do think that we have lots of sentences
in English which aren't propositions at all, and I think that's part of what the tractatus and in particular the first part of Philosophical investigations is trying to get at: that is, there are these parts of the world we can talk about where the notions of truth and falsity apply, and there's this other part which is more loose but that allows for a wider range of meaning than mere propositions do, and there is a wider part of that that carries neither truth value nor meaning and in that there are a wide variety of kinds of meaninglessness, nonsense, and senselessness. I don't think wittgenstein would necessarily disagree with you that it's a mistake to consider the subject predicate syntax as somehow decisive about the world, in fact I think the first 100 or so remarks of Philosophical Investigations are precisely an attack on that kind of view.*

*Now, instead, consider a syntactical structure replete with conjunctive forms (a syntax of possibilities, of potential thought) -as the agglutinative Turkish syntax is, which records thought in the process of emerging (once again, see Eda Anthology), not as true or false but as process, then a philosophical view of such a world would be totally* different -pre-analytic, much more inclusive, in which a "subject-predicate"

construction is only a part.

"If there is a value which is of value, it must lie outside all happening and being-so. For all happening and being-so is accidental.
What makes it non-accidental cannot lie in the world, for otherwise this would again be accidental.

It must lie outside the world."

Here Wittgenstein is practicing, is following Hume's radical skepticism about the "innate logic" of reality to which the continental philosophy
(from Spinoza to Kant, etc.) is a counterpoint.

Here I think you're misreading. part of this, tho, is that he's defined
"the world" early on as a particularly limited sort of thing. "The world is everything that is the case." again, this is part of what he rejects later in his earlier thinking, and I don't think even he would defend it. But it isn't precisely a recitation of the is/ought problem per se, but rather I think a more nuanced assertion about the nature of "oughts" themselves. It's not a skeptical idea about moral facts, or at least its not just that, but rather a statement about whether we're able to say meaningful things about moral facts. Again, even the phrase "moral facts" he'd probably disavow as not meaninful in someway, but I think the basic form of what he'd say is
"well, if you want to be a radical skeptic, go ahead, but the statement that there are not moral facts is just as meaningless as the statement that there are moral facts. You're still stuck in the flybottle if you're even trying to have that conversation. You'll get nowhere, best to come at it from a > different angle."

>
> Also, there's an important aspect to all this that the section I quoted doesn't mention, and that's the notion (most recently argued for by Cora Diamond I believe) that while wittgenstein thought that there were all sorts of things that couldn't be said, you could still use language to show the things that you can't talk about. Sadly, Wittgenstein never addresses CS Peirce directly in the surviving nachlass, although I'm fairly certain he must have grappled with him at some point because Frank Ramsey thought that there was in pragmatism a way out of the box the tractatus seems to draw, and there's certainly something like James and Peirce style pragmatism in his thinking that shows up by the time he dictated the brown book, and it's hard for me to see his later conception of "meaning as use" as anything other than a kind of pragmatism, albeit not the kind that Richard Rorty thought it was.
>
> My point here again though is that what he was grappling with was a theory of language that seemed to constantly shut down any attempts to say things about a certain widely experienced and hugely important aspect of human life, and I think he saw it in a nearly tragic light, which is why I think he was so happy to describe the attribution of meaning to certain kinds of nonsense as "bewitchment by language." because it seems like you should be able to talk about these things, and we feel like when we're talking about them that we're saying meaningful things, but it's only when we reflect on what that might really mean that we have to realize that we have know way of knowing whether what we've said communicates what we hoped or not. As such,

> this becomes a much more epistemological than metaphysical position, and > indeed I think that's how he ended up approaching the issue.
>
> "6.42 Hence also there can be no ethical propositions."
>
> Here one can see W's circular thinking in practice.
>
> Again, it's important to note that he's talking about propositions and not > sentences, or even more importantly signs. I think he would be ok with the > idea of ethical signifiers.
>
> "Propositions cannot express anything higher."
>
> Yes, this is true if the only possible or valid linguistic structure
> having > any hold to reality consisted of the propositions, that is to say, subject-predicate structure.
>
> This is a priori assumption on W's part having
> to do, as far as I can see, very little connection to reality, the state
> state in which language function. Subject=predicate is a mere abstraction > from it.
>
> I don't see how it you can have sentence that is true or false without
> it referring to an object and then predicating some quality to the object.
> You don't need subject-predicate word order to get that, but if you could > give me an example of a statement that is capable of being true or false > without having some kind of predicate, I might be able to grasp what you're > getting at. To me, the fact that propositions contain predicates seems > tautological.

> "6.43 If good or bad willing changes the world, it can only change the limits of the world, not the facts; not the things that can be expressed in language."
>
> *It seems to me wrong. If you change the limits of language (more specifically of a language, that's why the importance of translation), you are changing what can be said in it. As I said, here lies the crucial importance of translation and Benjamin's thought about it -on disintegration, fragmentation, etc.*
>
> but when he's talking about the limits of language he means the limits of language, not the limits of a language. he's talking about what can and can't be talked about, full stop, not some concept that might be expressable in one language but difficult to express in another. He's talking about what it means for a sentence to have meaning at all, not whether it is understood as intended. And I think part of the big reason that Benjamin is unsatisfying to me on that score is that he relies so heavily on intention toward signified objects, and where that goes I follow wittgenstein into a severe skepticism about that sort of semiotic notion. it's not at all clear what such an object is, and if I recall correctly Benjamin uses various words for "bread" in different languages as an example. Well ok, bread is pain is brot is pan is lechem is naan is pita is tortilla is chapati is ... ? which do you intend? some ideal form of bread in the mind of god? a privately held abstraction that we take on faith is in someway similar to the private object in the mind of another party to the conversation? really? but what if I sit down at the table and choke a bit and say "bread!" do i really intend that same thing even tho my meaning is similar? no,

not really, i mean, I'm choking, give me bread so i can try to swallow. same word. same object in the real world i'd signify by saying "this bread is excellent." completely different meaning. And meaning is what Wittgenstein is concerned with.

"In brief, the world must thereby become quite another, it must so to speak
wax or wane as a whole.

The world of the happy is quite another than that of the unhappy."

W. ignores the consequences of what he is saying here.

On the contrary, I think he's very conscious of them. I'm not sure what you mean he ignores them?

"6.44 Not how the world is, is the mystical, but that it is."

This sentence remind me of Einstein's "God does not play dice with the universe." Cute, what it does not enter Einstein's thoughts in physics (unless I misunderstand him).

I'd argue with that. I think it's a succint & pithy expression of Einstein's strong commitment to instrumentalism in scientific reasoning, without which it has been argued he'd never have come up with special relativity, on which his rejection of quantum mechanics was founded (which is where that quote comes from, if I recall correctly).

"6.45 The contemplation of the world sub specie aeterni is its contemplation
as a limited whole.

> The feeling that the world is a limited whole is the mystical feeling."
>
> That's where the great divide between W. and Benjamin comes. Benjamin is all for breaking down these "wholes" in the realm of "ideal language. He points us to an outline of "a structure of escape."
>
> "Those are the sort of remarks, which he continually made whenever he returned to notions of value and judgement, that I mean when I refer to Wittgenstein's mysticism. One of the things that I think a large number of casual wittgenstein readers misunderstand is the idea that "the limits of the language form the limits of my world" is not a expression of a sort of nominalism, that is, it's not a statement about the world, it's a statement about language. the huge aspect of reality about which we are incapable of having meaningful discourse because we can't say anything meaningful about it, that for Wittgenstein is the most important part, and in that part of human life lies all of the traditional notions of occultism, spirituality, faith, and religion."
>
> That's where Benjamin goes beyond Wittgeinstein, essentially in my opinion rebuts him.
>
> I feel like you're misunderstanding the argument though. Wittgenstein doesn't deny that language can be extended and that new ways of speaking and new grammars can be created. he's quite eloquent on that point in the > remarks on the foundations of mathematics. What he does reject though is the > notion that there's some completeness or idealness of language that is > possible or even desirable. rather that language in its vagueness and > uncertainty and particularity is where it's most useful and that's how > language actually gets used most of the time unless you start getting caught > up in philosophical nonsense. Where he draws a limit, he's drawing a limit > not at any existing language, but at the possibility of meaning. Now, I'm > not comitted to the notion that he's precisely correct about where he draws

> the line about what can and can't be meant (and again, this is more an > epistemological and psychological claim than it is a metaphysical one). but > i really only want to defend the notion that whereever that line was drawn,
> in wittgenstein's view, and in mine for somewhat different reasons, there is > an area of human experience that is impossible to reach at and describe with > meaningful meaningful language that is no less important for that reason, > that that area of experience is what Wittgenstein referred to as the > mystical, and probably most importantly, my own view that poetry is both > capable and may even be necessary to guide others to encounter that > experience for themselves so that we can be in some sort of communion with > each other even though we can't describe or validate it in the same way that > we could a sentence like "the earth revolves around the sun."
>
> "D. You're right that Grenier is a special case, and I'll admit i was > maybe
> being a little propagandistic in my cooption of Language poetry. I have a > hard time seeing them all as a unified group in any case, but they're a > little too important to me personally to allow for the outright materialism

that I felt Adam painted them with in his piece, although I think he's largely right. The appeal to Grenier, I will confess, could be just some sleight of hand to try to rescue a larger movement from a specific criticism, and I think it's fair to call me on that. That said, I don't much care if any of the big Language folks agree that their work is suspicious
of
the materiality of language, i think i see it there anyway as a sort of irony that has to counterbalance the extreme focus on the textuality of writing. To me, reading something like the Chinese Notebook, for example, I feel like there's a certain amount of whistling at the dark that's going
on,
at least as it strikes me."

I sympathize with your divided loyalty about Language School poets, but I think one should call a spade a spade.

Fair enough. Although I'm tempted to appeal to the Death of the Author and/or Umberto Eco's notion of machina pigra and just say that I don't care
what Ron Silliman thinks about this particular topic, on my reading The Chinese Notebook is clearly written in a manner that is self-consciously suspicious of the materiality of the language as employed. (Although on that point, my own response to that poem, The Liar Paradox, was in blazevox a few years ago and can be read here for the curious: http://www.blazevox.org/061-jfq.pdf)

Thanks again for the fascinating conversation.

-Jason

↑ Index

9. Jesse Glass

The France Issue of Ekleksographia is now on-line!

Sat 31 Jul 2010

http://ekleksographia.ahadadabooks.com/france/

Lots of great stuff! Enjoy! Jess

↑ Index

10. Jared Schickling

RENOEMOS, by Rachel Levitsky, is now available from Delete Press

Sat 31 Jul 2010

July 31, 2010

Dear All,

DELETE PRESS is proud to announce the release of Renoemos, by Rachel Levitsky. This conjuring, surreal, metapoetic, feminist, masculine and funny prose excursion—"imagination challenged the feeling by providing him specific images of himself"—is this celebrated author's debut book of fiction. Printed in an edition of 110, arriving enclosed in a sleek waxpaper envelope, the first 80 in their own original slipcover, for the shelf life of water soluble linocut covers, hand sewn—the book is priced at $12, which includes shipping. Secure orders can be placed through the Delete Press website, or please query first if check or money order is preferable.

Rachel Levitsky is the author of the book length serial poems Under the Sun (Futurepoem Books, 2003) and NEIGHBOR (Ugly Duckling Presse, 2009), as well as several chapbooks: Dearly, 3, 4, 6, (Duration Press, 2005); The Adventures of Yaya and Grace (Potes & Poets, 1999); Dearly, (a+bend press, 1999); Cartographies of Error (Leroy, 1999); and 2(1x1)Portraits (Baksun Books, 1998). Her first novel, The Story of My Accident Is Ours, is forthcoming (Futurepoem, 2011). Four mini-essays on the Poetics of Confinement can be found online at the Poetry Project's Project Blog. She teaches writing and literature at Naropa University's summer writing program, Bard Prison Initiative, and Pratt Institute. She is the founder and co-curator of Belladonna Series.

Happy reading to all, we look forward to hearing from you.

On behalf of Delete Press,

Jared

deletepress.org

[redacted]

↑ Index

11. steve dalachinsky

the renewal of Spirituality in Poetry" or we can use audience at this gig to help heep the spirit alive

Sun 1 Aug 2010

Piano(S)Poem
Wednesday, August 18, 2010
2 great sets @ the Stone
(Ave. C & E. 2nd Street)
Manhattan - F train to 2nd Ave.

8 p.m. set 1 - pianist Stephanie Stone
w/ poets Eve Packer & Yuko Otomo

10 p.m. set 2 - pianist Matthew Shipp in duo
with poet Steve Dalachinsky

$10 per set - if you want to stay for set 2
just pay an additional $5

stephanie stone will be leaving the city after this gig for awhile so please drop by and say hello

↑ Index

12. CA Conrad

MUGGED into poetry...

Sun 1 Aug 2010

MUGGED into poetry: http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com/

A new (Soma)tic Poetry Exercise for anyone who has been mugged.

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

13. Murat Nemet-Nejat

Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"

Sun 1 Aug 2010

Jim,

Is anybody claiming that Wittgenstein is a mathematician, unless you are equating philosophy and mathematics (which you may be doing) and saying that the only philosophy which is possible today is some kind of mathematical logic. You are comparing apples and oranges. When we are talking about Wittgenstein's or Godel's poetry, it seems to me, we are basically using metaphors.

It has always been accepted that an elegant mathematical proof (or process) has a beauty of its own. But that does not mean it is a beauty created by words.

As for Godels proofs being "beautiful and true. it's expressed in proofs that have stood the test of time," you are squirting a main issue in logical positivism and in Wittgenstein: "can a mathematical proof be "true" in the empirical sense ("truths" expressed in prepositional statements). In that sense does mathematics tell us anything about the world though its applications undoubtedly affect it. Of course here I tend to be more on your side since, as I said in my previous, the distinctions between objective-subjective, emprical/nonsensical, etc. are essentially arbitrary abstractions at best and basically illusionary.

As for Wittgenstein skirting God's argument, that's his modus of thought. He does the same withmetaphysical, ethical assertions about the world, saying they are nonsensical.

Ciao,

Murat

On Fri, Jul 30, 2010 at 2:50 PM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

> "Wittgenstein never accepted Gödel's result; he said in The Foundations of Mathematics, posthumously published, that his task is not to discuss Gödel, but rather to bypass Gödel. He also called Gödel's results the tricks of a logical conjurer, logical artifices."
> from http://www.edge.org/3rd_culture/goldstein05/goldstein05_index.html
>
> my feeling is that there was no room for godel's work in wittgenstein's world view. he needed to not discuss godel but to bypass him.
>
> wittgenstein's work in mathematical logic is not even remotely as important as that of godel. and godel's work is beautiful in a way that challenges any poet writing pretty conjectures and enigmatic pronouncements. it's beautiful and it's true. it's expressed in proofs that have stood the test of time. it > uses the equally beautiful work of georg cantor, uses his diagonal argument (which was also used later by turing). it's the most significant work of mathematical logic of the twentieth century. it eclipses the work of any poet on mathematical logic. it redefines the poetry and philosophy of mathematical logic.

>
> i think wittgenstein thought this sort of genuinely remarkable work in meta mathematics was simply impossible, that it was 'unsayable', and that his own sort of poetry was as good as it got.
>
> godel shows us what really excellent work in mathematical logic is.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com

↑ Index

14. Murat Nemet-Nejat

Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"

Sun 1 Aug 2010

Jason,

"yeah, but reading him as a positivist is a total misunderstanding of his work. The reason that stuff shows up in positivism is because carnap and weissman completely misunderstood the tractatus as saying something it definitely was not, ie those things that can't be talked about or empirically investigated are themselves worthless and nonexistent. which is not the case. he just thought LANGUAGE about those things was nonsensical, but not that whatever the language about htose things was trying to express was delusional or wrong. that's where his mysticism lies, which is what very few people, including I think most wittgenstein scholars, fail to appreciate. I'm in fairly good company with my reading though, because I think Ray Monk and Jurgen Habermas's readings of him coincide with mine, albeit with a few differences."

those things that can't be talked about or empirically investigated are themselves worthless and nonexistent. which is not the case. he just thought LANGUAGE about those things was nonsensical: don't you think this assertions itself is somewhat strange? What is exactly the difference between "worthless, nonexistent and nonsensical" unless the word "nonsensical" is being used here as a technical term used by Logical Positivists. In other words, how much of a real difference is that outside atmospherics?

"for that second argument to work you'd have to accept something like David Lewis's resolution to the problem of universals which relies on set theory and modal realism, which I just don't buy. Again, I'll appeal to wittgenstein's remark that "when you are learning spelling you also learn how to spell the word "spelling" but no one calls this a second order spelling." or to put it another way, to quote dennett's sarcastic remark about a wittgensteinian ordinary language philosopher "if it can't be expressed in first order predicate logic, it's probably incorrect and meaningless."

I think we misunderstand each other here. What I mean is that any given set (language) can be broken down (Benjamin's view). If it can be broken down, it can be "escaped" and talked about or pointed to. Perhaps we should talk more about this process of pointing of "pointing" which both Wittgenstein and Heiddeger talk about. I think they are striving towards a similar thing.

"I just really disagree with the notion that Wittgenstein held to anything like the idea that language was absolute and final in any way. Rather he thought it was limited, amorphous, changeable, and in no way capable of covering the wider extent of human life, which for him was a precondition for language that meaning requires. hence the comment "if a lion could talk we would not understand him."

Well, he may believe all of that; but when he relegates the language of a "the wider extent of human life" to the category" to being "nonsensical," he is creating a hierarchy of values (truths/and nonsensense, both "important?") which I can not quite accept or live with.

"And again, I'll return to probably the poorest understood aspect of wittgenstein's view of language which is that the things that can not be said can in fact be shown. they can be demonstrated. they can be pointed at indexically. what they can't be is explained, described, discussed, or whatever."

Why not? We discuss these things all the time. What are we doing now?

"If i want you to understand a religious experience, for example, i might give you a set of instructions that might allow you to recreate the experience for yourself, but if i start trying to describe it, then I begin to start talking in a way that isn't strictly meaningful in the way that other propositions are."

Here one can see how the phrase "in a way that isn't strictly meaningful in the way that other propositions are" is giving to everything which can be expressed in propositions over over things. As I said in my previous post, my disagreement with Wittgenstein is partly rhetorical, the hierartchical value system it creates and leads many others to stup and very restrictive conclusions or practices.

Take for instance, Normal Malcolm argument about dreaming, that dreaming can be reduced to a reporting of dreaming since, for convoluted reasons he explains in his book, nobody can prove that his/her dreaming occurred during sleep. The ridiculous argument he follows there is very similar to what you say in " "If i want you to understand a religious experience, for example, i might give you a set of instructions that might allow you to recreate the experience for yourself, but if i start trying to describe it, then I begin to start talking in a way that isn't strictly meaningful in the way that other propositions are."

"Which, again, is why "philosophy ought to be written only as a form of poetry." Because poetic language is capable of showing in a way that ordinary language is not."

Why not say then poetry is as much capable of philosophy as symbolic logic? It is not nonsensical truth, etc., etc. etc.

"As for the Arcades project, it sounds really interesting, but it also doesn't sound like the same use of the word "true" as one uses in talking about propositions and the truth functions of logic and reasoning.

That's what I mean. Instinctively, you are assigning -and I believe restricting- the "truth" value to one mode of expression and not the others. The Arcades Project talks about social, political, ethical, philosophical, aesthetic, moral issues in a synthesized language. That is its originality. Those hierarchies of truth -creating a hierarchy of validities and subtle taboos (like "weird mysticism or Platonism") are eliminated.

"Here again, the later wittgenstein is informative and i would appeal to the notion of family resemblances. Just because one uses the same word doesn't mean one is saying the same thing."

As I said before, my primary objection to Wittgenstein is rhetorical, and since one sees everything through the prism of language, that is a lot.

And it sounds to me like what you're talking about in the arcades project is something with a kinship to the truth that exists in rational argument, but that is not fully the same thing. And I think that's fair and Wittgenstein would allow for that. Again, to me whatever disagreement we seem to have, and I don't think it's a huge one, seems to be over how to understand what Wittgenstein believed about language. So far I don't really think there's much that you've pointed at that doesn't fit into his conception of language in some way.

I agree with you, Jason. Our disagreements on Wittgenstein are less than they appear. I am more focused on what Witggenstein has become to mean -which basically is a very restrictive and even damaging, particularly in poetry)- after himself.

Once again, great conversation.

Ciao,

Murat

- Show quoted text -

On Sat, Jul 31, 2010 at 7:21 PM, Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote:

> yeah, but reading him as a positivist is a total misunderstanding of his work. The reason that stuff shows up in positivism is because carnap and weissman completely misunderstood the tractatus as saying something it definitely was not, ie those things that can't be talked about or empirically investigated are themselves worthless and nonexistent. which is not the case. he just thought LANGUAGE about those things was nonsensical, but not that whatever the language about htose things was trying to express was delusional or wrong. that's where his mysticism lies, which is what very few people, including I think most wittgenstein scholars, fail to appreciate. I'm in fairly good company with my reading though, because I think Ray Monk and Jurgen Habermas's readings of him coincide with mine, albeit with a few differences.
>
> for that second argument to work you'd have to accept something like David Lewis's resolution to the problem of universals which relies on set theory and modal realism, which I just don't buy. Again, I'll appeal to wittgenstein's remark that "when you are learning spelling you also learn how to spell the word "spelling" but no one calls this a second order spelling." or to put it another way, to quote dennett's sarcastic remark about a wittgensteinian ordinary language philosopher "if it can't be expressed in first order predicate logic, it's probably incorrect and meaningless."
>
> I just really disagree with the notion that Wittgenstein held to anything like the idea that language was absolute and final in any way. Rather he thought it was limited, amorphous, changeable, and in no way capable of covering the wider extent of human life, which for him was a precondition for language that meaning requires. hence the comment "if a lion could talk we would not understand him."
>
> And again, I'll return to probably the poorest understood aspect of wittgenstein's view of language which is that the things that can not be said can in fact be shown. they can be demonstrated. they can be pointed at indexically. what they can't be is explained, described, discussed, or whatever. If i want you to understand a religious experience, for example, i might give you a set of instructions that might allow you to recreate the experience for yourself, but if i start trying to describe it, then I begin to start talking in a way that isn't strictly meaningful in the way that other propositions are. Which, again, is why "philosophy ought to be written only as a form of poetry." Because poetic language is capable of showing in a way that ordinary language is not.
>
> As for the Arcades project, it sounds really interesting, but it also doesn't sound like the same use of the word "true" as one uses in talking about propositions and the truth functions of logic and reasoning. Here again, the later wittgenstein is informative and i would appeal to the notion of family resemblances. Just because one uses the same word doesn't mean one is saying the same thing. And it sounds to me like what you're talking about in the arcades project is something with a kinship to the truth that exists in rational argument, but that is not fully the same thing. And I think that's fair and Wittgenstein would allow for that. Again, to me whatever disagreement we seem to have, and I don't think it's a huge one, seems to be over how to understand what Wittgenstein believed about language. So far I don't really think there's much that you've pointed at that doesn't fit into his conception of language in some way.

On Jul 29, 2010, at 8:33 AM, Murat Nemet-Nejat wrote:

Jason,

a) A few other condescending attributions by Wittgenstein: "Nonsensical," "bewitchment of language." All he had to add was "young and foolish," "wet behind the ears humanity. "Nonsensical" is a logical positivist term; "bewitchment of language" is just a more "poetic" expression of the same thought. Personally, I have grave doubts how far W.' moved away from his logical positivist origins at Cambridge.

b) As transfinite sets imply, any set can finally be broken to become the subset of another set, ad infinitum -building, breaking down and rebuilding... That way the distinction between "language" and "a language," as you put it, does not really exist. If so, there is not much difference between Witgenstein's "Language." and Benjamin's "ideal language." In this specific sense, in his use of the concept of "language," one might argue that W. -the quintessential liberal Christian Jew- was a cabbalist.

The difference, it seems to me, between W. and B. is that for W. "language" is a final absolute, therefore, unsayable. Surprisingly, counter-intuitively, for B. "ideal language" is not. B's "ideal language constantly breaks down, reforms, expands itself. It is a process, a continuous one.

Here one come, I think, to Benjamin's rebuttal of Wittgenstein within the framework, body of language itself, how language constantly, continuously breaks out of its limits towards the unsayable -which in its turn may create new fields of the unsayable: in the central importance of quotations and fragments (deterioration, fragmentation) in his writing, in his rhetorical ideal. Quotations are meta-factual. They are conjectural gestures, a rhetoric of possibilities, potentialities. They are on the level of language also always true (they are quoting someone) regardless of what they are saying. By definition quotations also are always fragments, taken from a larger whole. They need complementation (one of the constant features, themes in this thread has been to bring in what W. said before or after the specific discussed passage). When quotations are placed together, the need for complementation occurs across their jagged edges empowering the empty space among them. This is the unsayable, spiritual space.

The Arcades Project* resolves the dilemma, blind alley W's thought leads us. It creates a detailed analysis of the physical, ethical, emotional, spiritual, intellectual analysis of the past continuing into the present (he called it "dialectical history). Here W's distinction between factual and ethical (nonsensical, etc.) has disappeared, has been resolved (that's why Adorno hated The Arcades Project writings so much and wanted to edit them out -they were too "redeptive," not positivist enough).*

c) Jason, you say:
"I don't see how it you can have sentence that is true or false without it referring to an object and then predicating some quality to the object. You don't need subject-predicate word order to get that, but if you could give me an example of a statement that is capable of being true or false without having some kind of predicate, I might be able to grasp what you're getting at. To me, the fact that propositions contain predicates seems tautological."

As I said, The Arcades Project is such an example. Through quotations (in which Benjamin's own ideas also function as quotations), Benjamin makes statements (in the shape of gestures), not about "the world/ realty,"; but about language where the distinction W. makes through abstraction does not exist. All the dimensions of thought and experience -ethics, history, facts, etc. etc,- blur, blend into each other. Since humanity experiences "reality" through language and its manners of regeneration, Benjamin's method seems to me much less nonsensical or "bewitchment" of reality than Wittgenstein'.

d) I am glad that you see words like "nonsensical, etc. should lose their negative connotations. But, of we do so, doesn't Wittgenstein tragic sense of life, which poets are so drawn to, basically vanish?

GREAT THREAD. THANK YOU.

Ciao,

Murat

On Wed, Jul 28, 2010 at 1:59 PM, Murat Nemet-Nejat <[redacted]
wrote:

Jason, David, Jim,

This thread has become so vast, in a very good way, so that I do not know how to respond to each (particularly to Jason's meticulous arguments), unless I spend a trans-finite portion of my day doing it, not that that would be a bad thing.

Jason, first let me respond to what you are saying. I think there is more we agree with on Wittgenstein than we disagree with. My objection to him is in the use and consequences of his rhetoric and his effect on poetry and poetics in the United States. It narrows the possibilities of poetry, particularly the way Language School applied his ideas. Let me explain what I mean:

a) It is true that Wittgenstein will not deny that the subject-predicate structure is not the only way a sentence can be constructed; but he delegates every other structure to second class by calling it "meaningless,"
unable to be expressed as "true or false," etc. (I need to go back to the text and choose a few more words with the same rhetorical effect).

*But who has decided that the nature of reality consists (must express itself) as true or false and everything else is peripheral, secondary. That* is a profound, unquestioned assumption on Wittgenstein's part the validity of which to me is much less clear -in fact, to be honest about it, is clearly "false."

I am more on the side of what Heraclitus says and David quotes:

""The most beautiful world is a heap of rubble tossed down in confusion/at random."

We see truth, if at all, through a glass darkly, which also constantly changes, is fluid. "Factual," "ethical," "pilosophical," even "scientific" values blur are very rarely distinct (a clear demarcation between objective and subjective basically impossible), and to build a reality structure on a fundementalist distinction between true and false (which W. does by privileging a prepositional view of what is real, as opposed to unsayable) is foolhardy. A poet's job, it seems to me, is exactly to deal with that unsayable -shall we consider ourselves to be dealing with nonsense or, as Language School or it follower Flarf does, indulging in language games or google games.

I do not disagree that we are may be doomed (The Spiritual Life of Replicants deals with that issue) to grasp reality only through language
*-but that does not mean that we have to do it by entering only through* one straight straight straight gate -the prepositional sentence.

David,
I think we agree in our view of Grenier. I was not aware Grenier's later work was blacklisted by Language School poets. At least they realized what he was getting at and his pursuit went awry from their approach to poetry.

Ciao,

Murat

On Wed, Jul 28, 2010 at 3:56 AM, Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote:

Hey Murat, thanks for the excellent counterpoint.

"6.41 The sense of the world must lie outside the world. In the world everything is as it is and happens as it does happen. In it there is no value -- and if there were, it would be of no value."

Do you not see the circularity of Wittgenstein's argument? While he pays lip service to by being "sympathetic" to ethical impulses, he condescends to
it
and relegates it to subservient category. If he can not talk > about something, then he does not talk about it. Therefore, that thing becomes invisible: "he didn't write about it because he couldn't." On a grand scale, is this argument any different from the drunkard who looks for the key under the light because that's where the light is, not necessarily where the key is?
"meaningfully"

>
> I don't see circularity, but rather the elucidation of a tautology. But I'm not terribly inclined to defend the argument of the tractatus, as I don't think it's particularly useful except as an example of where he was coming from in his later more compelling world. There are huge flaws in the tractatus, my favorite being the summation of Prop. 7 (the famous "whereof we cannot speak, therof we must remain silent") given by Frank Ramsey's translation "You can't say what you can't say and you can't whistle it either."
>
> To the drunk looking for his keys analogy, I think there's a bit of that, and I think some of it is even intentional. That sort of uselessness of the actual arguments is I think part of what he had in mind in saying that the tractatus was meant to be a ladder that you could kick away once you climbed to the top.
>
> Wittgenstein never explores or goes after that "outside" world ("the sense of the world"). His thinking concerns itself only with what "as it is and happens as it does happen."
>
> On the contrary, I think he doesn't think that stuff matters at all. In fact in his journals and in the brown books, he's almost dismissive of that part of experience as stuff that can be through empirical science. It just isn't the proper object of philosophy to deal with that stuff. It's empirical and there are other ways of thinking about it that are more fruitful.

> Here I think an analysis of syntax is important -specifically the English
>
> syntax, composed of subject and predicate- is important. That is the syntax for an empirical view of the world -where things either happen (are true) or don't happen (are not true). Wittgeinstein accepts this implicitly as the paradigm, as far as I can tell, with defending why.
>
> well, he's talking about propositions, which by definition are sentences that can be true or false. Much of what precedes the quoted section deals with what propositions are, how they work, how they relate to facts, what facts are etc. And again, i think this is a fair criticism because this notion of the proposition as a thing at all arises from from Russell and Whiteheads elucidation of the predicate calculus in The Principals of Mathematics. That said, I'm not entirely sure I understand what the distinction you're drawing is, but I do think that we have lots of sentences in English which aren't propositions at all, and I think that's part of what the tractatus and in particular the first part of Philosophical investigations is trying to get at: that is, there are these parts of the world we can talk about where the notions of truth and falsity apply, and there's this other part which is more loose but that allows for a wider range of meaning than mere propositions do, and there is a wider part of that that carries neither truth value nor meaning and in that there are a wide variety of kinds of meaninglessness, nonsense, and senselessness. I don't think wittgenstein would necessarily disagree with you that it's a mistake to consider the subject predicate syntax as somehow decisive about the world, in fact I think the first 100 or so remarks of Philosophical Investigations are precisely an attack on that kind of view.
>
> Now, instead, consider a syntactical structure replete with conjunctive
>
> forms (a syntax of possibilities, of potential thought) -as the

> agglutinative Turkish syntax is, which records thought in the process of > *emerging (once again, see Eda Anthology), not as true or false but as* > process, then a philosophical view of such a world would be totally > different -pre-analytic, much more inclusive, in which a "subject-predicate"
> construction is only a part.
>
> "If there is a value which is of value, it must lie outside all happening
> and being-so. For all happening and being-so is accidental.
> What makes it non-accidental cannot lie in the world, for otherwise this > would again be accidental.
>
> It must lie outside the world."
>
> Here Wittgenstein is practicing, is following Hume's radical skepticism
> about the "innate logic" of reality to which the continental philosophy
> (from Spinoza to Kant, etc.) is a counterpoint.
>
> Here I think you're misreading. part of this, tho, is that he's defined
> "the world" early on as a particularly limited sort of thing. "The world is > everything that is the case." again, this is part of what he rejects later > in his earlier thinking, and I don't think even he would defend it. But it > isn't precisely a recitation of the is/ought problem per se, but rather I > think a more nuanced assertion about the nature of "oughts" themselves. It's > not a skeptical idea about moral facts, or at least its not just that, but > rather a statement about whether we're able to say meaningful things about > moral facts. Again, even the phrase "moral facts" he'd probably disavow as > not meaninful in someway, but I think the basic form of what he'd say is
> "well, if you want to be a radical skeptic, go ahead, but the statement that > there are not moral facts is just as meaningless as the statement that there > are moral facts. You're still stuck in the flybottle if you're even trying > to have that conversation. You'll get nowhere, best to come at it from a > different angle."

Also, there's an important aspect to all this that the section I quoted doesn't mention, and that's the notion (most recently argued for by Cora Diamond I believe) that while wittgenstein thought that there were all sorts of things that couldn't be said, you could still use language to show the things that you can't talk about. Sadly, Wittgenstein never addresses CS Peirce directly in the surviving nachlass, although I'm fairly certain he must have grappled with him at some point because Frank Ramsey thought that there was in pragmatism a way out of the box the tractatus seems to draw, and there's certainly something like James and Peirce style pragmatism in his thinking that shows up by the time he dictated the brown book, and it's hard for me to see his later conception of "meaning as use" as anything other than a kind of pragmatism, albeit not the kind that Richard Rorty thought it was.

My point here again though is that what he was grappling with was a theory of language that seemed to constantly shut down any attempts to say things about a certain widely experienced and hugely important aspect of human life, and I think he saw it in a nearly tragic light, which is why I think he was so happy to describe the attribution of meaning to certain kinds of nonsense as "bewitchment by language." because it seems like you should be able to talk about these things, and we feel like when we're talking about them that we're saying meaningful things, but it's only when we reflect on what that might really mean that we have to realize that we have know way of knowing whether what we've said communicates what we hoped or not. As such, this becomes a much more epistemological than metaphysical position, and indeed I think that's how he ended up approaching the issue.

"6.42 Hence also there can be no ethical propositions."

Here one can see W's circular thinking in practice.

Again, it's important to note that he's talking about propositions and not sentences, or even more importantly signs. I think he would be ok with the idea of ethical signifiers.

"Propositions cannot express anything higher."

Yes, this is true if the only possible or valid linguistic structure having any hold to reality consisted of the propositions, that is to say, subject-predicate structure.

This is a priori assumption on W's part having to do, as far as I can see, very little connection to reality, the state state in which language function. Subject=predicate is a mere abstraction from it.

I don't see how it you can have sentence that is true or false without

it referring to an object and then predicating some quality to the object.
You don't need subject-predicate word order to get that, but if you could give me an example of a statement that is capable of being true or false without having some kind of predicate, I might be able to grasp what you're getting at. To me, the fact that propositions contain predicates seems tautological.

"6.43 If good or bad willing changes the world, it can only change the limits of the world, not the facts; not the things that can be expressed
in language."

It seems to me wrong. If you change the limits of language (more *specifically of a language, that's why the importance of* translation),

> you
> are changing what can be said in it. As I said, here lies the crucial > importance of translation and Benjamin's thought about it -on > disintegration, fragmentation, etc.
>
> but when he's talking about the limits of language he means the limits of > language, not the limits of a language. he's talking about what can and > can't be talked about, full stop, not some concept that might be expressable > in one language but difficult to express in another. He's talking about what > it means for a sentence to have meaning at all, not whether it is understood > as intended. And I think part of the big reason that Benjamin is > unsatisfying to me on that score is that he relies so heavily on intention > toward signified objects, and where that goes I follow wittgenstein into a > severe skepticism about that sort of semiotic notion. it's not at all clear > what such an object is, and if I recall correctly Benjamin uses various > words for "bread" in different languages as an example. Well ok, bread is > pain is brot is pan is lechem is naan is pita is tortilla is chapati is
> ...
> ? which do you intend? some ideal form of bread in the mind of god? a > privately held abstraction that we take on faith is in someway similar to > the private object in the mind of another party to the conversation? really?
> but what if I sit down at the table and choke a bit and say "bread!" do i > really intend that same thing even tho my meaning is similar? no, not > really, i mean, I'm choking, give me bread so i can try to swallow. same > word. same object in the real world i'd signify by saying "this bread is > excellent." completely different meaning. And meaning is what Wittgenstein > is concerned with.
>
> "In brief, the world must thereby become quite another, it must so to
>
> speak
> wax or wane as a whole.
>
> The world of the happy is quite another than that of the unhappy."

> W. ignores the consequences of what he is saying here.
>
> On the contrary, I think he's very conscious of them. I'm not sure what you mean he ignores them?
>
> "6.44 Not how the world is, is the mystical, but that it is."
>
> This sentence remind me of Einstein's "God does not play dice with the universe." Cute, what it does not enter Einstein's thoughts in physics (unless I misunderstand him).
>
> I'd argue with that. I think it's a succint & pithy expression of
>
> Einstein's strong commitment to instrumentalism in scientific reasoning, without which it has been argued he'd never have come up with special relativity, on which his rejection of quantum mechanics was founded (which is where that quote comes from, if I recall correctly).
>
> "6.45 The contemplation of the world sub specie aeterni is its contemplation as a limited whole.
>
> The feeling that the world is a limited whole is the mystical feeling."
>
> That's where the great divide between W. and Benjamin comes. Benjamin is all for breaking down these "wholes" in the realm of "ideal language. He points us to an outline of "a structure of escape."
>
> "Those are the sort of remarks, which he continually made whenever he returned to notions of value and judgement, that I mean when I refer to Wittgenstein's mysticism. One of the things that I think a large number of casual wittgenstein readers misunderstand is the idea that "the limits of the language form the limits of my world" is not a expression of a sort of nominalism, that is, it's not a statement about the world, it's a statement about language. the huge aspect of reality about which we are incapable

> of
> having meaningful discourse because we can't say anything meaningful about
> it, that for Wittgenstein is the most important part, and in that part of > human life lies all of the traditional notions of occultism, spirituality,
> faith, and religion."
>
> That's where Benjamin goes beyond Wittgeinstein, essentially in my opinion
> rebuts him.
>
> I feel like you're misunderstanding the argument though. Wittgenstein > doesn't deny that language can be extended and that new ways of speaking and > new grammars can be created. he's quite eloquent on that point in the > remarks on the foundations of mathematics. What he does reject though is the > notion that there's some completeness or idealness of language that is > possible or even desirable. rather that language in its vagueness and > uncertainty and particularity is where it's most useful and that's how > language actually gets used most of the time unless you start getting caught > up in philosophical nonsense. Where he draws a limit, he's drawing a limit > not at any existing language, but at the possibility of meaning. Now, I'm > not comitted to the notion that he's precisely correct about where he draws
> the line about what can and can't be meant (and again, this is more an > epistemological and psychological claim than it is a metaphysical one). but > i really only want to defend the notion that whereever that line was drawn,
> in wittgenstein's view, and in mine for somewhat different reasons, there is > an area of human experience that is impossible to reach at and describe with > meaningful meaningful language that is no less important for that reason,
> that that area of experience is what Wittgenstein referred to as the > mystical, and probably most importantly, my own view that poetry is both > capable and may even be necessary to guide others to encounter that > experience for themselves so that we can be in some sort of communion with > each other even though we can't describe or validate it in the same way

that we could a sentence like "the earth revolves around the sun."

*"D. You're right that Grenier is a special case, and I'll admit i was maybe being a little propagandistic in my cooption of Language poetry. I have a hard time seeing them all as a unified group in any case, but they're a little too important to me personally to allow for the outright materialism
that I felt Adam painted them with in his piece, although I think he's largely right. The appeal to Grenier, I will confess, could be just some sleight of hand to try to rescue a larger movement from a specific criticism, and I think it's fair to call me on that. That said, I don't much care if any of the big Language folks agree that their work is suspicious of the materiality of language, i think i see it there anyway as a sort of irony that has to counterbalance the extreme focus on the textuality of writing. To me, reading something like the Chinese Notebook, for example, I feel like there's a certain amount of whistling at the dark that's going on,
at least as it strikes me."*

I sympathize with your divided loyalty about Language School poets, but I think one should call a spade a spade.

*Fair enough. Although I'm tempted to appeal to the Death of the Author and/or Umberto Eco's notion of machina pigra and just say that I don't care
what Ron Silliman thinks about this particular topic, on my reading The Chinese Notebook is clearly written in a manner that is self-consciously suspicious of the materiality of the language as employed. (Although on that point, my own response to that poem, The Liar Paradox, was in blazevox a few years ago and can be read here for the curious:
http://www.blazevox.org/061-jfq.pdf)*

Thanks again for the fascinating conversation.

> -Jason

↑ Index

15. Mark Melnicove
Jena Osman's essay on Bern Porter
Sun 1 Aug 2010

Jena Osman's essay, "Bern Porter: Recycling the Atmosphere," a consideration of his book THE WASTEMAKER and his role as an eco-poet, can be read right now at:

http://bernporter.com/essays

↑ Index

16. Joel Weishaus
Rain Taxi Interview
Sun 1 Aug 2010

Edward Picot's conversation with me on "The Gateless Gate" and Digital Literary Art is now available in Rain Taxi:
http://www.raintaxi.com/online/2010summer/

-Joel

Homepage: http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282
On-Line Archive:
www.cddc.vt.edu/host/weishaus/index.htm

↑ Index

17. Jim Andrews
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Mon 2 Aug 2010

> I know that's the fashionable view among mathematicians and philosophers of mathematics who don't want to have to address the fact that Wittgenstein called them out for a level of metaphysical

spookiness that most don't want to admit to like good scientific materialists,

Most mathematicians are work-a-day Platonists. They assume mathematical entities 'exist' in the sense that their properties remain invariant and the standard systems of mathematics are relatively consistent (relative to arithmetic) and they don't have to worry about the entities being contradictory anytime soon--probably never.

Most would also probably believe that "arithmetical truths are independent of any human activity", but don't think about it much.

> but that argument, including Godel's remarks on the matter, doesn't really comprehend what's going on in the remarks on the foundations of mathematics where Godel sentences are being discussed. It's also, I think, quite uncharitable to attribute that imprecision of thought to attribute the mistake that Wittgenstein is supposed to have made (that is, thinking that the incompleteness theorem was somehow incorrect) to a mathematical logician capable of holding his own among the likes of Bertrand Russell, Frank Ramsey, and John Maynard Keynes, Alan Turing, and Piero Sraffa, all of whom were in some way influenced by him at some point. Wittgenstein didn't dismiss or misunderstand the result, it's just that on his view of how mathematics worked, which was influenced by Brouwer and his own work on Frege and Russell's views, it's relatively trivial that there are true but unprovable statements in any significantly complex formal system, which is the only consequence of the theorem that he ever wrote anything about and even then, only as notes to himself for lectures and not anything he intended for public consumption.

Trivial? Well, no, it's not trivial. True but unprovable statements (undecidable statements) cannot be construed as yer run-of-the-mill axiom A. Yer run-of-the-mill axiom A is 'independent'. That is, one may assume A or ~A (but not both) and still end up with a consistent system (provided the rest are consistent). Typically, the system does not imply anything already about axioms. But, in the case of undecidable propositions, the system rules out their falsity. The negation of an undecidable statement is definitely false. Undecidable propositions were a whole new type of cat.

Godel showed that in sufficiently powerful formal systems, such propositions necessarily exist. So what? Well, it means that such formal systems are never 'complete' in the sense that there's always going to be more undecidable propositions, no matter how you go to town on it. He proved it ain't over even after the fat lady sings.

One of the burning questions of the time in which Godel did his work was whether math was basically over. If it's possible to build a theorem proving machine that will prove all provable theorems (and it is), then, so the argument ran, math is over. Let the machine do the proofs and we'll find something more interesting to do. What Godel showed was that there are always going to be more unprovable but true propositions. The machine obviously can't prove all true propositions, cuz some of them are unprovable. OK, then, can it decide which propositions are true and which are false?

Well, no. Surprisingly. "One consequence of the halting problem's undecidability is that there cannot be a general algorithm that decides whether a given statement about natural numbers is true or not." (quoted from http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Halting_problem). That is, Turing's work on the Halting problem--which demonstrated a task no conceivable machine could ever satisfactorily accomplish--also gives us the answer to various other questions such as this one.

Godel and Turing weren't out to create Windows or computers. They were out to solve outstanding mathematical and somewhat philosophical problems.

Godel and Turing showed that math can never be 'over'. For even if we built a machine that could prove all provable theorems--and apparently there's no reason why we couldn't do that--we cannot build a machine that provides us with all true propositions.

> My guess is that he'd probably argue the law of the excluded middle would be such a proposition true but unprovable assumption in Brouwer's system for example.

One of the differences Godel made is that Wittgenstein would have to prove it. Godel took meta mathematics from the realm of loosely conjectural philosophy into the realm of proof and logic.

Godel's work AS POETRY. There is no more beautiful work in or concerning meta mathematics. And it's engagement with language is profound. Godel numbering of all propositions. This redefines how we should think of poetry. It's the intensity of engagement with language and truth that matters, in this consideration.

This is the spiritual underpinning of things like OULIPO. Or so it seems to me at the moment.

I hope to respond more to your provocative and thoughtful post, Jason. But for now I have to try to fix dbCinema, which is broken. Google changed their image search stuff. Yeesh.

ja
August 1 2010

↑ Index

18. Jason Quackenbush
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Mon 2 Aug 2010

Yeah, I know people say that. They're absolutely completely wrong. Goldstein's not alone in that, lots of people think that's what Wittgenstein said. It isn't. The fact that there are lots of peoeple who completely fail to understand Wittgenstein is neither new nor interesting. The bulk of the philosophy departments at every school in England and America are obsessed with problems that if they'd bothered t read and understand Philosophical Investigations would be revealed as nothing of any importance at all. If you're genuinely curious and not committed to a preconceived notion about the work he did on mathematics, which is not complete or for that matter anything that he intended to be published as representative of his views, but are still, I think compelling refutations of formalism, then read the Remarks on the Foundations of Mathematics. Read the Lectures on the Foundations of Mathematics. Read the putnam & floyd paper that I linked. it discusses specifically the paragraph Rebecca Goldtsein is referring to and gives it a much more interesting and I think correct reading. To say that Wittgenstein didn't "accept" Godel's results (or axiomatic set theory's savior of Cantor from Russell's paradox for that matter) is to completely misconstrue an semiotic and linguistic position for a epistemological one.

As for Godel, I won't deny that the Incompleteness Theorems or his earlier completeness theorem are important. they are. they're strikingly original and they present a fundamental problem for mathematics that people are still grappling with. That said, they say nothing at all about what mathematics is or why it has the force that it does. Which is what Wittgenstein was thinking about and what he meant about "bypassing godel." Which is important, if one remembers, as one should, that Godel's '31 paper sent shock waves through the world of academic logicians and it was all that anyone was talking about in the thirties. Hell, it's still all that anyone talks about in mathematical logic courses at most universities. You need to do graduate work to start learning about much that happened after the nineteen forties. Godel is revolutionary in mathematics.

That said, walk into any Introductory Logic classroom in any university in the world, and my guess is that at some point they're going to talk about truth conditions and truth tables, and that's Wittgenstein. I brought them up to refute your statement, that I think Murat rightly calls out as unfairly dismissive, that he was a poet not a logician. He made lasting contributions to how we think about truth in formal reasoning, and that's important work. Is it as important as Incompleteness? No, but who cares? Nothing is as world changing as Incompleteness. It's the F=MA of mathematical logic. But it's not the be all and end all and there are other more important things to consider, particularly once you've accepted the most important result of incompleteness which is that you can't ground mathematics in a complete system of formal reasoning like the predicate calculus. Which from one point of view, is earthshaking, but frankly given the place that Wittgenstein was at with his thinking on epistemology and language by the mid thirties probably to him was not all that surprising.

On Jul 30, 2010, at 11:50 AM, Jim Andrews wrote:

> "Wittgenstein never accepted Gödel's result; he said in The Foundations of > Mathematics, posthumously published, that his task is not to discuss Gödel,
> but rather to bypass Gödel. He also called Gödel's results the tricks of a > logical conjurer, logical artifices."
> from http://www.edge.org/3rd_culture/goldstein05/goldstein05_index.html
>
> my feeling is that there was no room for godel's work in wittgenstein's world view. he needed to not discuss godel but to bypass him.
>
> wittgenstein's work in mathematical logic is not even remotely as important as that of godel. and godel's work is beautiful in a way that challenges any poet writing pretty conjectures and enigmatic pronouncements. it's beautiful and it's true. it's expressed in proofs that have stood the test of time. it uses the equally beautiful work of georg cantor, uses his diagonal argument (which was also used later by turing). it's the most significant work of mathematical logic of the twentieth century. it eclipses the work of any poet on mathematical logic. it redefines the poetry and philosophy of mathematical logic.
>
> i think wittgenstein thought this sort of genuinely remarkable work in meta mathematics was simply impossible, that it was 'unsayable', and that his own sort of poetry was as good as it got.
>
> godel shows us what really excellent work in mathematical logic is.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com

↑ Index

19. Jason Quackenbush
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Mon 2 Aug 2010

That's really strange. As far as I know most undergrad philosophy programs require a course in modern philosophy where you read descartes, hume, berkeley, spinoza, leibniz, bacon, hobbes, locke, and kant.

the weird platonism I was referring to has to do with Godel's later thinking which was heavily informed by Leibniz's monism which led him to a thoroughgoing idealism in almost everything, to the point where he was willing to assert that mathematical forms of the platonic kind were the only real things and formed the monad's of Leibniz's metaphysics. It's not weird because it's a weird view of the world and what it is, although I think it is pretty weird in that sense too, but rather because it rested, as I understand it, on disjunctive reasoning that either the mind was a sort of turing machine subject to halting problems and other unsolvables, or it was capable of surpassing the calculating powers of machines through access to the higher realm of pure mathematics. The latter which he used to deny "brain as turing machine" thinking was founded very much on some metaphysical and religious thinking which to my mind is not particularly appropriate for making those kinds of arguments. the weirdness is not the claim, that is, because platonism is no weirder than formalism to my way of thinking, but the manner by which it was argued for, which from my point of view looks to be very similar to a religious attitude for Godel. Which, while weird, I also think is kind of admirable even if it's completely wrong. But then, I feel the same way about Berkeley and spinoza, although not so much leibniz.

On Jul 30, 2010, at 8:49 AM, Murat Nemet-Nejat wrote:

> What does exactly "weird platonism" mean? Could you explain. What is weird > about them? Does that mean that one is not agreeing with what he is saying.
> It is easy to call someone crazy under the circumstances. It has happened > quite often. I would really appreciate if someone can explain this > "weirdness." Is it weird because Platonism is weird" or it is weird because > he misreads Platonism or is it weird just because he was crazy?
>
> As for "wittgenstein was a terrific poet mistaken for a logician by some":
> that sounds a complete put down to me. It is like saying a woman should stay > home and raise children.

Jim, recently I talked to someone who had just graduated from Princeton College majoring in philosophy. It appeared to me -though he tried to cover it- he had not heard of Descartes's "cogito ergo sum." He had failed to pick up a reference to it. I understand the whole philosophy department at Princeton focuses on symbolic logic?

No Plato, no Descartes -all relegated to the realm of "poetry," etc. Is that what one means by "weird," that it is not symbolic logic?

Ciao,

Murat

On Thu, Jul 29, 2010 at 11:13 PM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

just going to chime in with my usual response to this statement that i think he understood godel fine,

o i think you're mistaken, jason, fer a change. the best thing i've read about godel/wittgenstein is by Rebecca Goldstein at http://www.edge.org/3rd_culture/goldstein05/goldstein05_index.html . if you search it for wittgenstein, you'll come across this, for instance:

"Wittgenstein never accepted Gödel's result; he said in The Foundations of Mathematics, posthumously published, that his task is not to discuss Gödel, but rather to bypass Gödel. He also called Gödel's results the tricks of a logical conjurer, logical artifices."

but the whole above url is quite fascinating. strongly recommended!

here is what godel said:

"As far as my theorem about undecidable propositions is > concerned, it is indeed clear ... that Wittgenstein did not understand it (or pretended not to understand it). He interprets it as a kind of logical paradox, while in fact it is just the opposite, namely a mathematical theorem within an absolutely uncontroversial part of mathematics (finitary number theory or combinatorics)".

>
> i think he got the better of turing in their debates,
>
> i'm not familiar with any debates between them. sounds interesting. what documentation exists of these debates?
>
> and that his view of what mathematics are is much closer to what's probably right than Godel's weird platonism.
>
> the veracity of godel's results in mathematical logic do not depend on his "weird platonism" at all, of course, as i expect you fully understand.
>
> godel's platonism got weird toward the end of his life.
>
> godel starved himself to death out of paranoia about his food being poisoned. he suffered from mental issues toward the end of his life. his extreme platonism is associated with his period of decline, not his earlier, more robust period, when he published his famous results. the poor guy went off his rocker, finally.
>
> wittgenstein was a terrific poet mistaken for a logician by some. i am partial to such poets.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
> july 29 2010
>
> guidelines

↑ Index

20. David Kirschenbaum

Last Call to Exhibit at Boog Fest's Small, Small Press Fair

Mon 2 Aug 2010

Hi all,

Boog City would like to invite you again to exhibit at our 7th annual small, small press fair (with indie records and crafts, too).

The fair will span two days, Sat. Sept. 25-Sun. Sept. 26, and be held at Brooklyn’s Unnameable Books (600 Vanderbilt Ave.) in their spacious backyard. The fair will take place during the 4th annual Welcome to Boog City poetry and music festival.

The fair will open on Saturday with three hours of performances by authors from each of the tablers.

Tables are $30 for the fair, $20 dollars if you bring your own bridge table (up to 3’ x 3’) with a portion of the proceeds going to help Unnameable Books.

Door charge for attendees is by donation.

Please email me to reserve your table and schedule your reader. We look forward to the fair once again being a warm gathering with wonderful books, poetry, music, and other items from around our creative community.

You can reach me at this email address, [redacted].

This year’s festival will feature:

readings from

NYC Poets

Julian Brolaski
Sommer Browning
Steve Cannon
Joe Elliot
Laura Elrick
Farrah Field
John Godfrey
E. Tracy Grinnell
Shafer Hall
Ivy Johnson
Pierre Joris

Erica Kaufman
Noelle Kocot
Chris Martin
Urayoán Noel
Cate Peebles
Nicole Peyrafitte
Mariana Ruiz
David Shapiro
Anne Waldman w/Ambrose Bye
Jared White
Dustin Williamson

and

Non-NYC Poets

Peter Davis
Cathy Eisenhower
Brandon Holmquest
Ken Jacobs
Patti McCarthy
Chris McCreary
Jenn McCreary
Mel Nichols
Douglas Rothschild
Carlos Soto Román
Maureen Thorson
Joe Torra
Kevin Varrone

In Conversation, poets
David Shapiro and Joanna Fuhrman

Music from:

The newly expanded I feel tractor performs Bob Dylan's Highway 61 Revisited live.

and sets from

Beat Radio
Binary Marketing Show
Jeremiah Birnbaum
J.J. Hayes
Rorie Kelly
Lach Magnetic Island

Tom Orange
Brian Speaker
The Elastic No-No Band and more

Our second annual Poets' Theater night, curated and hosted by Gary Sullivan, and featuring performances of many short plays written and performed by local writers and actors.

This festival's panel, You Are Here: On the Site-Specific Poem, curated by Pattie McCarthy and Kevin Varrone.

And Buffalo's Satellite Telephone magazine will kick-off of season eight of our levy lives: celebrating the renegade press series with readings and a musical guest.

as ever,
David

P.S. Apologies if you received more than one copy of this email.

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W. 28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)
http://itunes.apple.com/WebObjects/MZStore.woa/wa/viewPodcast?id=343169880
For music from Gilmore boys:
http://www.myspace.com/gilmoreboysmusic

↑ Index

21. Amanda Earl

AngelHousePress Essay by John C. Goodman

Mon 2 Aug 2010

---

hi all,

In his essay Obscurity in Poetry, John C. Goodman, editor of ditch, cites various works that have been obscure in poetry, from 1066 to today. He discusses some of the motivations behind non-narrative poetry, including the human mind's ability and interest in non -linear connections, and urges us to consider the works in terms of writers' intentions.

To read the essay, please go to www.angelhousepress.com and click on essays.

best,
Amanda

Amanda Earl
AngelHousePress
www.angelhousepress.com
the angel is in the house

↑ Index

22. patrick dunagan
Re: MUGGED into poetry...
Mon 2 Aug 2010

Mugging (I)

by Allen Ginsberg
Allen Ginsberg
I

Tonite I walked out of my red apartment door on East tenth streetâ€™s duskâ€” Walked out of my home ten years, walked out in my honking neighborhood Tonite at seven walked out past garbage cans chained to concrete anchors Walked under black painted fire escapes, giant castiron plate covering a hole in ground â€”Crossed the street, traffic lite red, thirteen bus roaring by liquor store, past corner pharmacy iron grated, past Coca Cola & Mylai posters fading scraped on brick Past Chinese Laundry wood doorâ€™d, & broken cement stoop steps For Rent hall painted green & purple Puerto Rican style Along E. 10thâ€™s glass splattered pavement, kid blacks & Spanish oiled hair adolescentsâ€™ crowded house frontsâ€” Ah, tonite I walked out on my block NY City under humid summer sky Halloween, thinking what happened Timothy Leary joining brain police for a season? thinking whatâ€™s all this Weathermen, secrecy & selfrighteousness beyond reasonâ€”F.B.I. plots? Walked past a taxicab controlling the bottle strewn curbâ€” past young fellows with their umbrella handles & canes leaning against a ravaged Buick â€”and as I looked at the crowd of kids on the stoopâ€”a boy stepped up, put his arm around my neck tenderly I thought for a moment, squeezed harder, his umbrella handle against my skull, and his friends took my arm, a young brown companion tripped his foot â€™gainst my ankleâ€” as I went down shouting Om Ah HÅ«m to gangs of lovers on the stoop watching slowly appreciating, why this is a raid, these strangers mean strange business with whatâ€”my pockets, bald head, broken-healed-bone leg, my softshoes, my heartâ€” Have they knives? Om Ah HÅ«mâ€”Have they sharp metal wood to shove in eye ear ass? Om Ah HÅ«m & slowly reclined on the pavement, struggling to keep my woolen bag of poetry address calendar & Leary-lawyer notes hung from my shoulder dragged in my neat orlon shirt over the crossbar of a broken metal door dragged slowly onto the fire-soiled floor an abandoned store, laundry candy counter 1929â€” now a mess of papers & pillows & plastic car seat covers cracked cockroach-corpsed groundâ€” my wallet back pocket passed over the iron foot step guard and fell out, stole by God Muggersâ€™ lost fingers, Strangeâ€” Couldnâ€™t tellâ€”snakeskin wallet actually plastic, 70 dollars my bank money for a week, old broken walletâ€”and dreary plastic contentsâ€”Amex card & Manf. Hanover Trust Credit tooâ€”business card from Mr. Spears British Home Minister Drug Squadâ€”my draft cardâ€”membership ACLU & Naropa Institute Instructorâ€™s identification Om Ah HÅ«m I continued chanting Om Ah HÅ«m Putting my palm on the neck of an 18 year old boy fingering my back pocket crying â€œWhereâ€™s the moneyâ€ â€œOm Ah HÅ«m there isnâ€™t anyâ€ My card Chief Boo-Hoo Neo American Church New Jersey & Lower East Side Om Ah HÅ«m â€”what not forgotten crowded walletâ€”Mobil Credit, Shell? old lovers addresses on cardboard pieces, booksellers calling cardsâ€” â€”â€œShut up or weâ€™ll murder youâ€â€”â€œOm Ah HÅ«m take it easyâ€ Lying on the floor shall I shout more loud?â€”the metal door closed on blackness one boy felt my broken healed ankle, looking for hundred dollar bills behind my stocking werenâ€™t even thereâ€”a third boy untied my Seiko Hong Kong watch rough from right wrist leaving a clasp-prick skin tiny bruise â€œShut up and weâ€™ll get out of hereâ€â€”and so they left, as I rose from the cardboard mattress thinking Om Ah HÅ«m didnâ€™t stop em enough, the tone of voice too loudâ€”my shoulder bag with 10,000 dollars full of poetry left on the broken floorâ€”

November 2, 1974

On 1 August 2010 07:33, CA Conrad <[redacted]> wrote:

> MUGGED into poetry: http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com/
>
> A new (Soma)tic Poetry Exercise for anyone who has been mugged.
>
> --
> PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com
>
> THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

23. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: MUGGED into poetry...
Mon 2 Aug 2010

Last week I saw the Japanese movie Icho the Killer. Your poem reminded me of it.

Ciao,

Murat

On Sun, Aug 1, 2010 at 10:33 AM, CA Conrad <[redacted]> wrote:

> MUGGED into poetry: http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com/
>
> A new (Soma)tic Poetry Exercise for anyone who has been mugged.
>
> --
> PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com
>
> THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

24. Maria Damon
Re: the renewal of Spirituality in Poetry" or we can use audience at this gig to help heep the spirit alive
Mon 2 Aug 2010

---

wish i cd be there...esp if it's air-conditioned!

steve dalachinsky wrote:
> Piano(S)Poem
> Wednesday, August 18, 2010
> 2 great sets @ the Stone
> (Ave. C & E. 2nd Street)
> Manhattan - F train to 2nd Ave.
>
> 8 p.m. set 1 - pianist Stephanie Stone
> w/ poets Eve Packer & Yuko Otomo
>
> 10 p.m. set 2 - pianist Matthew Shipp in duo > with poet Steve Dalachinsky
>

> $10 per set - if you want to stay for set 2
> just pay an additional $5
>
>
> stephanie stone will be leaving the city after this gig for awhile > so please drop by and say hello
>
>

↑ Index

25. Jim Andrews

Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"

Mon 2 Aug 2010

> Is anybody claiming that Wittgenstein is a mathematician, unless you are equating philosophy and mathematics (which you may be doing) and saying that the only philosophy which is possible today is some kind of mathematical logic.

I didn't say that. don't think I implied that. didn't even think it.

> You are comparing apples and oranges. When we are talking about Wittgenstein's or Godel's poetry, it seems to me, we are basically using metaphors.

> It has always been accepted that an elegant mathematical proof (or > process)
has a beauty of its own. But that does not mean it is a beauty created by words.

Mathematics is written. There's a language associated with math. In some schools, study of math gives you a foreign language credit.

The subject of Godel's work was language. He proves stuff about formal systems. Formal systems are 'language games'. Open up the game box and you have an alphabet, rules for constructing propositions, rules of inference, existential and universal quantifiers, and so on.

In previous eras, language was not the subject of study of mathematics.

To read and understand Godel's work, like that of Cantor or Turing, is simply thrilling and satisfying in a way that I associate with reading the very best of poetry. And the subject of Godel's and Turing's work was language, in the above sense. They inquire into some of the limits of meaning and inquiry with language.

> As for Godels proofs being "beautiful and true. it's expressed in proofs that have stood the test of time," you are squirting a main issue in logical positivism and in Wittgenstein: "can a mathematical proof be "true" in the empirical sense ("truths" expressed in prepositional statements). In that sense does mathematics tell us anything about the world though its applications undoubtedly affect it. Of course here I tend to be more on your side since, as I said in my previous, the distinctions between objective-subjective, emprical/nonsensical, etc. are essentially arbitrary abstractions at best and basically illusionary.

Sorry, Murat, I have no idea what you mean.

ja
http://vispo.com
August 2 2010

↑ Index

26. David Kirschenbaum
An Advertising Opportunity in Boog's Festival Issue
Mon 2 Aug 2010

Hi all,

In a little under eight weeks, we'll be putting on our fourth annual Welcome to Boog City festival, featuring poets, musicians, and playwrights performing at four venues, in two boroughs, over five days, from Fri. Sept. 24-Tues. Sept. 28. Among the over 60 performers taking part are poets Steve Cannon, Laura Elrick, Farrah Field, John Godfrey, E. Tracy Grinnell, Shafer Hall, Pierre Joris, Erica Kaufman, Pattie McCarthy, Noelle Kocot, Douglas Rothschild, David Shapiro, and Anne Waldman.

Ten days before the event, we'll be putting out the festival issue of Boog City. This issue will feature pieces on some of the performers and a full schedule, illustrated with images of each of the performers.

Advertising in the festival issue of Boog City means you will reach more than 3,000 readers, poetry lovers, and small press aficionados throughout the East Village, other targeted areas of lower Manhattan; Williamsburg and Greenpoint, Brooklyn; as well as bonus distribution at Boog City's monthly events. That's an increase of 33.3% over our regular issues for no additional cost. And, since this issue is also a program for the festival, readers will give it a closer read as they check to see who's up later on that day and later on in the festival.

Boog City continues to offer our special Small Press Ad Rates. That means when you advertise with us you will save 50% off of our regular display ad rates.

* Full Page $220
* Half-Page $130
* Quarter-Page $70
* Eighth-Page $40

Here is a link to our full rate card:

http://www.welcometoboogcity.com/ad_rates.pdf

As I mentioned in previous emails to you, Boog City focuses on getting the word out about lesser-known artists, be they poets, prose writers, musicians, painters, photographers, or cartoonists. Each month we publish poetry from the likes of Anselm Berrigan, Renee Gladman, Lisa Jarnot, Eileen Myles, Kristin Prevallet, and Edwin Torres, alongside our Urban Folk music section, small press book reviews, political commentary, art, comics, and photographs.

We look forward to working with you to bring your message to the local arts community to increase awareness and sales of your publications in the New York area.

as ever,
David

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W. 28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)

↑ Index

27. michael farrell
Re: Otoliths #18 is now live
Mon 2 Aug 2010

---

sheila murphy reviews my (mine & jills & those in its) anthology in otoliths 18

http://the-otolith.blogspot.com/2010/06/sheila-e-murphy-review-of-out-of-box.html would be great if anyone associated with university libraries could order one esp those with queer or australian studies -- also if there are any editors keen to have it reviewed & would like a copy let me know

michael

> Date: Sun, 1 Aug 2010 00:18:23 +1000
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Otoliths #18 is now live
> To: [redacted]
>
> Issue 18, the southern winter 2010 issue, of Otoliths<http://the-otolith.blogspot.com/>has just gone live.
>
> Let's get the obvious pun out of the way first. This is an august issue. It's packed with text in its many forms—as story, essay, review, or poem—as well as a wide range of visual media: collages, frottages, glyphs, postcards, paintings, notebook pages & some great new vispo.
>
> *Included in the issue are Emma Smith, Eileen R. Tabios, Mark Cunningham, Ed Baker, Piotr Gwiazda, Anne Gorrick, Ed Higgins, Jukka-Pekka Kervinen, Manfred Weidhorn, Carlos Soto-Román, Sally Ann McIntyre, James Maughn, Mark Francis Johnson, Sheila E. Murphy, Amanda Earl, Orchid Tierney, Philip Byron Oakes, Raymond Farr, Joe Balaz, Randall Brock, Meaghan Lank, Jeff Harrison, Mary Kasimor, Bruno Neiva, Benjamin Winkler, M. V. Montgomery, Ric Carfagna, Jessica Breheny, Jal Nicholl, Alexander Jorgensen, Mark Stricker, Reed Altemus, Jenny Enochsson, Felino Soriano, Corey Wakeling, Grzegorz Wróblewski, Lars Palm, Thomas Fink, Dorothee Lang & Steve Wing, Larry Sawyer, Paul Siegell, Beth Boettcher, Charles Freeland, Jake David, Márton Koppány, Katrinka Moore, Aidan Semmens, Connor Stratman, Stephen Nelson & Mike Cannell, SJ Fowler, Cath Vidler, Cecelia Chapman, rob mclennan, Cherie Hunter Day, Neil Ellman, Geof Huth, R. Riekki, Tony Brinkley, sean burn, Scott Metz, Travis Macdonald, Stuart Barnes, Spencer Selby, Keith Higginbotham, Sam Langer, Tony Rickaby, Bob Heman, Andrew Topel, Andrew Taylor, John Martone, Brad Vogler, Bobbi Lurie, Michael Brandonisio, Yonah Korngold, J. D. Nelson, Tyler L. Gobble reviewing Adam Robinson's *Say, Poem *, Sheila E. Murphy reviewing Out of the Box: Contemporary Australian Gay and Lesbian Poets, Cassie Eddington, & Colleen Lookingbill.*
>
> Enough there, & of sufficient variety, to keep everybody happy.

↑ Index

28. steve russell
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Mon 2 Aug 2010

Interesting: Write a beauty proof, a proof that proves the existence of, ugh, beauty. I believe that such a thing exist, and perhaps Godel's work is more beautiful than anything Witt wrote, but still, when one begins to talk aesthetics, one is on fuzzy, very fuzzy ground. Of course, I know almost nothing as far as mathmatical logic is concerned. & I suffer from severe- bad- philosophy class PTSD, know what I'm saying?

_____
From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Fri, July 30, 2010 2:50:54 PM
Subject: Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"

"Wittgenstein never accepted Gödel's result; he said in The Foundations of Mathematics, posthumously published, that his task is not to discuss Gödel, but rather to bypass Gödel. He also called Gödel's results the tricks of a logical conjurer, logical artifices." from http://www.edge.org/3rd_culture/goldstein05/goldstein05_index.html

my feeling is that there was no room for godel's work in wittgenstein's world view. he needed to not discuss godel but to bypass him.

wittgenstein's work in mathematical logic is not even remotely as important as that of godel. and godel's work is beautiful in a way that challenges any poet writing pretty conjectures and enigmatic pronouncements. it's beautiful and it's true. it's expressed in proofs that have stood the test of time. it uses the equally beautiful work of georg cantor, uses his diagonal argument (which was also used later by turing). it's the most significant work of mathematical logic of the twentieth century. it eclipses the work of any poet on mathematical logic. it redefines the poetry and philosophy of mathematical logic.

i think wittgenstein thought this sort of genuinely remarkable work in meta mathematics was simply impossible, that it was 'unsayable', and that his own sort of poetry was as good as it got.

godel shows us what really excellent work in mathematical logic is.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

29. steve dalachinsky

Re: the renewal of Spirituality in Poetry" or we can use audience at this gig to help heep the spirit alive

Mon 2 Aug 2010

---

ha it's an airconditioned steam bath
On Mon, 2 Aug 2010 14:07:57 -0500 Maria Damon <[redacted]> writes:
> wish i cd be there...esp if it's air-conditioned!
>
> steve dalachinsky wrote:
> > Piano(S)Poem
> > Wednesday, August 18, 2010
> > 2 great sets @ the Stone
> > (Ave. C & E. 2nd Street)
> > Manhattan - F train to 2nd Ave.
> >
> > 8 p.m. set 1 - pianist Stephanie Stone
> > w/ poets Eve Packer & Yuko Otomo
> >
> > 10 p.m. set 2 - pianist Matthew Shipp in duo > > with poet Steve Dalachinsky
> >
> > $10 per set - if you want to stay for set 2
> > just pay an additional $5
> >
> >
> > stephanie stone will be leaving the city after this gig for > awhile
> > so please drop by and say hello
> >
> >
>
>
>

↑ Index

30. amy king

Sept. 1, 2010 = Esque +++++ Vida -- Women in Letters and Literary Arts

Mon 2 Aug 2010

ESQUE -- Ifestos and Oetry by ...

Carolyn Zaikowski
Matvei Yankelevich
Franz Wright
Anne Waldman
John Tranter
Cole Swensen
Leigh Stein
Heidi Lynn Staples
Tomaz Salamun
Joan Retallack
Ariana Reines
Ron Padgett & Olivier Brossard
Miguel Murphy
Sharon Mesmer
Steven Karl
Saeed Jones
Charles Bernstein
Tamiko Beyer
Jillian Brall
Julian Brolaski
Ching-In Chen
Ken Chen
Bei Dao (trans. Clayton Eshleman)
Amy De'ath
Lidija Dimkovska
Rachel Blau DuPlessis
Kate Durbin
Brenda Hillman
Molly Gaudry
Roxane Gay
Matt Hart
Dan Hoy

AND THEN SOME +

~~~~~~~~~~

VIDA -- WOMEN IN LETTERS AND LITERARY ARTS

vidaweb.org

September 1st:

* A newly designed site with easier navigation.
* New Blog: HER KIND.
* Readers comments.
* VIDA calendar updates.

Plus:

* Barrie Jean Borich dissects the Burlesque in her "State of the Art" Piece. * Erin Belieu slices and dices the tactful and tawdry in her "Deal With It" piece titled: "Full Disclosure: I Was a Teenage Poetry Bride." * Amy King interviews editor Arielle Greenberg for our very first "For the Record" entry.

And:

* The first installment of our Fall 2010 of "The Count": The Best
~~~~~~~~~~

American Series.

****

Poetry, Publishing, Women & the Internet
+ http://amyking.wordpress.com/2010/07/12/your-own-revolution-poetry-publishing-the-internet/

Poets for Living Waters
+ http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/
****

↑ Index

31. Scott Howard
Call for Book Reviewer: _"The Small Space of a Pause"_
Mon 2 Aug 2010

The editors at RECONFIGURATIONS are seeking a book reviewer for Elisabeth W. Joyce's _"The Small Space of a Pause": Susan Howe's Poetry and the Spaces Between_ (Bucknell, 2010).

Length for the review: between 1,500 and 2,500 words.
Deadline: November first.

If you're interested, please send a 2-page CV (or a brief note on your publications) along w/ a reply e-mail to: [redacted]

RECONFIGURATIONS: A Journal for Poetics & Poetry / Literature & Culture
http://reconfigurations.blogspot.com/

///

↑ Index

32. Catherine Daly
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Mon 2 Aug 2010

Thanks, Jason, for the opening for me to chime in on this thread.

The reason I was a religion and not a philosophy major was there were too many gang bang history of philo surveys forcing study of a bunch of white guys. My specialty was mysticism.

As I mentioned in passing on my blog, what it more problematic in this discussion to me is that, 1) Adam's sparking essay totally ignored the HUGE amount of experimental women's poetry which has a spiritual, if not religious, dimension. It's across traditions and practices. It includes most of the "major" writers. So I feel like the initial spark was based on -- dunno -- not reading Scalapino? Blau DuPlessis? Karasick? Hillman? Carson? Ronk? Fanny Howe? Then, what about the writers influenced by the transcendentalism of Emerson? Lauterbach? Brown?, 2) isn't it callow to call for an increased spirituality when it is the population that does not believe in any vague spirituality, is secular, may be radically peaceful, is not twelve-stepping (see vague spirituality, is not Mary Karr or Nick Flynn), may be under jihad, etc., that is under seige/on the edge/writing in danger?

Admittedly, this is not to your point, but the call for a poetry that includes ideas that are not part/cannot be part of anyone's direct experience, but only part of their received beliefs/assumptions/cultural conditioning: the approved narrative, the way we always interpret these things: the opposite of poetry.

Then too, of course Cantor is spiritual, and you've done a good job elucidating the aspects of ideas of the "ineffable" around W in particular, but -- how is language exactly unable to deal with experience? How is experience -- gosh, can't communicate anything about it? How are the quotes from religious texts about the bomb appropriate? The Dao of Physics -- what was THAT thing?

--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

↑ Index

33. Jeffrey Side

The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is “The Blast Area” by John Tranter

Mon 2 Aug 2010

The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is â€œThe Blast Areaâ€ by John Tranter

Description:

John Tranter's â€œThe Blast Areaâ€ (originally published as a pamphlet in 1974, and no longer in print) consists of poems that are varied and strange, often veering away from common sense into a quirky surrealism. The final third of the book consists of 'The Poem in Love', a sequence of fifteen pseudo-sonnets (set up by an epigraph from the possibly fictitious Paul Ducasse) which critic Andrew Johnson noted, 'might stand for the variety of strategies we employ to make sense of the world, and for the fleeting, unstable patterns we think we perceive in our experience. It's as if having reached an extreme of cynicism about "meaning", Tranter lets it in through the back door, and a new-found humour wit

Available as a free ebook here:

http://www.lulu.com/product/ebook/the-blast-area/12089423

↑ Index

34. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Mon 2 Aug 2010

Jason,

I get your point.
Deleuse thought very highly of Liebniz.

Ciao,

Murat

On Mon, Aug 2, 2010 at 1:16 AM, Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote:

> That's really strange. As far as I know most undergrad philosophy programs require a course in modern philosophy where you read descartes, hume, berkeley, spinoza, leibniz, bacon, hobbes, locke, and kant.
>
> the weird platonism I was referring to has to do with Godel's later thinking which was heavily informed by Leibniz's monism which led him to a thoroughgoing idealism in almost everything, to the point where he was willing to assert that mathematical forms of the platonic kind were the only real things and formed the monad's of Leibniz's metaphysics. It's not weird because it's a weird view of the world and what it is, although I think it is pretty weird in that sense too, but rather because it rested, as I understand it, on disjunctive reasoning that either the mind was a sort of turing machine subject to halting problems and other unsolvables, or it was capable of surpassing the calculating powers of machines through access to the higher realm of pure mathematics. The latter which he used to deny "brain as turing machine" thinking was founded very much on some metaphysical and religious thinking which to my mind is not particularly appropriate for making those kinds of arguments. the weirdness is not the claim, that is, because platonism is no weirder than formalism to my way of thinking, but the manner by which it was argued for, which from my point of view looks to be very similar to a religious attitude for Godel. Which, while weird, I also think is kind of admirable even if it's completely wrong. But then, I feel the same way about Berkeley and spinoza, although not so much leibniz.
>
> On Jul 30, 2010, at 8:49 AM, Murat Nemet-Nejat wrote:
>
> What does exactly "weird platonism" mean? Could you explain. What is weird

about them? Does that mean that one is not agreeing with what he is saying.
It is easy to call someone crazy under the circumstances. It has happened quite often. I would really appreciate if someone can explain this "weirdness." Is it weird because Platonism is weird" or it is weird because he misreads Platonism or is it weird just because he was crazy?

As for "wittgenstein was a terrific poet mistaken for a logician by some": that sounds a complete put down to me. It is like saying a woman should stay home and raise children.

Jim, recently I talked to someone who had just graduated from Princeton College majoring in philosophy. It appeared to me -though he tried to cover it- he had not heard of Descartes's "cogito ergo sum." He had failed to pick up a reference to it. I understand the whole philosophy department at Princeton focuses on symbolic logic?

No Plato, no Descartes -all relegated to the realm of "poetry," etc. Is that what one means by "weird," that it is not symbolic logic?

Ciao,

Murat

On Thu, Jul 29, 2010 at 11:13 PM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

just going to chime in with my usual response to this statement that i think he understood godel fine,

o i think you're mistaken, jason, fer a change. the best thing i've read about godel/wittgenstein is by Rebecca Goldstein at http://www.edge.org/3rd_culture/goldstein05/goldstein05_index.html . if you
search it for wittgenstein, you'll come across this, for instance:

"Wittgenstein never accepted Gödel's result; he said in The Foundations of Mathematics, posthumously published, that his task is not to discuss Gödel,

but rather to bypass Gödel. He also called Gödel's results the tricks of a logical conjurer, logical artifices."

but the whole above url is quite fascinating. strongly recommended!

here is what godel said:

"As far as my theorem about undecidable propositions is concerned, it is indeed clear ... that Wittgenstein did not understand it (or pretended not to understand it). He interprets it as a kind of logical paradox, while in fact it is just the opposite, namely a mathematical theorem within an absolutely uncontroversial part of mathematics (finitary number theory or combinatorics)".

i think he got the better of turing in their debates,

i'm not familiar with any debates between them. sounds interesting. what documentation exists of these debates?

and that his view of what mathematics are is much closer to what's

probably right than Godel's weird platonism.

the veracity of godel's results in mathematical logic do not depend on his
"weird platonism" at all, of course, as i expect you fully understand.

godel's platonism got weird toward the end of his life.

godel starved himself to death out of paranoia about his food being poisoned. he suffered from mental issues toward the end of his life. his extreme platonism is associated with his period of decline, not his earlier, more robust period, when he published his famous results. the poor guy went off his rocker, finally.

wittgenstein was a terrific poet mistaken for a logician by some. i am partial to such poets.

> ja
> http://vispo.com
> july 29 2010
>
> guidelines

↑ Index

35. John Cunningham
New Narrative
Mon 2 Aug 2010

I recently heard about this new literary phenomenon called the New Narrative. What is this?

John Herbert Cunningham

↑ Index

36. Robert Dewhurst
Re: New Narrative
Tue 3 Aug 2010

John,

Robert Gluck on NN (wonderful & best place to start):
http://www.sfsu.edu/~newlit/narrativity/issue_one/gluck.html

Bruce Boone's MY WALK WITH BOB:
http://www.spdbooks.org/Producte/0974950262/my-walk-with-bob.aspx

Bruce Boone's THE TRUTH ABOUT TED (full text):
http://xpoetics.blogspot.com/2010/03/truth-about-ted-reprint-in-honor-of.html

Rob Halpern on Steve Abbott's NN zine, SOUP:
http://jacketmagazine.com/39/perelman-halpern.shtml

Dennis Cooper on NN:
http://denniscooper-theweaklings.blogspot.com/2007_10_10_archive.html

Kevin Killian interview w/ Gary Sullivan:
http://home.jps.net/~nada/killian.htm

There's more out there (many google-able reviews of Boone's recent Century of Clouds reissue, for instance -- by Dana Ward, Colin Herd, & others; or the 90s anthology BITING THE ERROR: WRITERS EXPLORE NARRATIVE), but these would be my go-tos. Kaplan Harris also had a very helpful article in a recent issue of AMERICAN LITERATURE, tho it's not public online: vol. 81 no. 4 (Dec. 2009): 805-832, in case you wanna track it down.

An interesting thing for me is the way New Narrative concerns/poetics articulated at the turn of the 80s dovetail in the early 90s so closely with some of the writing being put out on Semiotexte's fantastic, mostly NY-based "Native Agents" list curated by Chris Kraus: Kraus's own novels (I LOVE DICK being something of a quantuum leap & manifesto), David Rattray's wonderful HOW I BECAME ONE OF THE INVISIBLE, Eileen Myles's patently non-Language 1st-person poems (see her remarks at the AdFemPo conference last fall posted on Harriet ... & her novel THE INFERNO finally came out, like, today), etc. I've always been compelled by this connection, but NN writers don't claim any influence on this somewhat later stuff outside their 'official' roster; as Boone simply says, "something was in the air" back then ...

best, Robbie

John Cunningham wrote:
> I recently heard about this new literary phenomenon called the New > Narrative. What is this?
>
> John Herbert Cunningham

↑ Index

37. steve dalachinsky

Re: Completely Objective Review + My Autogeography

Tue 3 Aug 2010

---

happy b day give walt a hug for me

On Tue, 3 Aug 2010 09:29:52 -0700 amy king <[redacted]> writes:
> Today's my bday (yes, I'm fishing), so if you are in Walt Whitman's > birthplace
> today, holla backchannel and I'll get you in the door...
>
> For those not in attendance, a completely objective review
> --
>
http://tsky-reviews.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-kings-slaves-to-do-these-thi ngs.html
>
>
> And an Autogeography --

> http://www.tarpaulinsky.com/Chronic/amy-king.html
>
> Kiss,
>
> Amy
>
>
>
> ********
> Poetry, Publishing, Women & the Internet
> +
>
http://amyking.wordpress.com/2010/07/12/your-own-revolution-poetry-publishing-the-internet/
>
>
>
> Poets for Living Waters
> + http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/
> ********
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

38. Jim Andrews
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Tue 3 Aug 2010

---

somebody else would have invented truth tables if he hadn't. they're like shopping carts.

would somebody else have done godel's strikingly original work? probably. eventually. but probably it would have taken quite a while.

i am attempting to download "Cora Diamond [Ed.] - Wittgenstein's Lectures on the Foundations of Mathematics, 1939". meanwhile, i've perused http://plato.stanford.edu/entries/wittgenstein-mathematics and the links you provided, jason.

wittgenstein's philosophy of mathematics is doomed to the obscurity suffered by other similarly finitistic approaches. he objects to set theory on philosophical grounds. which is fine but that sort of objection is not nearly as important as showing real contradictions in the theory. he didn't manage to do that.

the 'crisis of the foundations of mathematics' in the nineteenth century that motivated the development of set theory, including cantor's work on infinite sets, included an atmosphere in which there was great distrust about assumptions of the actually infinite. cantor's work was widely regarded as fatally flawed for its assumption of the existence of the actually infinite. the famous antagonisms of kronecker and poincare against cantor, and cantor's relegation to the margins of academia. and his ongoing battles with mental problems. and cantor's own exacerbation of his problems by his pronouncement that the existence of his transfinite numbers was justified in the mind of god.

but cantor and others were sufficiently careful in their dealings with the actually infinite that it has not, in fact, blown up in their faces. every undergraduate honours math student does a course in 'real analysis' that develops the real number system from the ground up using set theory and cantor's work (among many others).

finitistic approaches, very famously, generally have difficulty proving many of the most useful results of mathematics. the results that any theory simply has to be able to produce or no one uses the theory, regardless of its philosophical nobility.

by the way, jason, as an aside, when i studied cantor's work as an undergrad, well, it really blew me away as beautiful and profound. i understood why, going back to the time of pythagoras, mathematics has been associated with 'divine knowledge'. i mean, in the case of cantor's work, we learn things actually worth knowing about the infinite. "no one shall expel us from the paradise that cantor has created." david hilbert said that. and no one has managed it. not wittgenstein, not brouwer, nobody. cantor isn't the saviour. he was a 'martyr', of sorts (figuratively). so too with godel and turing.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

39. Christophe Casamassima

Re: New Narrative

Tue 3 Aug 2010

It's like old narrative, but newer. Eventually it will get old and become the not so new but not as old as the old new narrative. My God, a hundred years from now the Library of Congress system will be inundated by huge strings of genre names.

Christophe "not as old as I was tomorrow" Casamassima

On Mon, Aug 2, 2010 at 10:55 PM, John Cunningham
<[redacted]> wrote:
> I recently heard about this new literary phenomenon called the New > Narrative. What is this?
>
> John Herbert Cunningham
>
>
>

↑ Index

40. Mark Melnicove
LITERATURE OR OTHER MATERIALS
Tue 3 Aug 2010

LITERATURE OR OTHER MATERIALS BY NON-EMPLOYEES IS STRICTLY PROHIBITED ON THESE PREMISES.

http://mmelnicove.tumblr.com/

↑ Index

41. David Hadbawnik
seeking panelists for medieval congress at kzoo
Tue 3 Aug 2010

Dear Listservers:

Please see below, with regards to a roundtable discussion I'm organizing for next year's Medieval Congress in Kalamazoo, MI. We are looking for 1-2 more participants who are engaging in a scholarly way with medieval literature and contemporary poetics. Please back-channel to me if you are interested. The congress takes place May 12-15, 2011.

best,

David

*
*

*
*

*
*

Queering the Muse: Medieval Poetry and the Contemporary Poetic Imagination

A Roundtable, with David Hadbawnik (SUNY-UB), Chris Piuma (U Toronto), Dan Remein (NYU), Sean Reynolds (SUNY-UB), others TBD. Respondent: Eileen Joy. Presiding: Anna Klosowska.

20th-century poets have long used the medieval for inspiration, notably Ezra Pound, whose version of The Seafarer marked an important step in his poetic development, as well as being a superb contribution to the Anglo-Saxon translation corpus in its own right. However, not enough thought has been given to the ways in which contemporary poets reuse, reinterpret, and otherwise engage with medieval poetic tropes and practices. How can formally experimental “translations” of Old English, which take into account recent poetic and translation theory, be beneficial to the contemporary avant-garde? Or, to turn the question around, how can quintessentially contemporary reading and writing practices—such as the game-based approaches of OuLiPo, Conceptual Art with its ideas of “exhaustiveness” and boredom, and the use of factual/archival material—provide ways of reading or understanding medieval writing? The roundtable participants will explore the way such poetic practice constitutes a queer approach to medieval translation, which results in a wilder, more experimental, and perhaps truer way of understanding and engaging with the medieval poem.

↑ Index

42. Obododimma Oha
Hot Seat Millionaires
Tue 3 Aug 2010

"Playing ‘Who Wants to Be a Millionaire?’ from a Stingerweb software on a computer and living the illusion of winning in US dollars are obviously not as attractive as being Frank Edoho’s petrified guest. The truth is that some thousands of naira in hand are worth millions of US dollars in the imaginary computer bush. Even if the naira has become local wallpaper that lacks power compared to the US dollar, its real game value rises for Nigerian players looking out for the secret to survival."

Read full text of "Hot Seat Millionaires<http://234next.com/csp/cms/sites/Next/Home/5601796-182/hot_seat_millionaires___.csp>"
at:

http://234next.com/csp/cms/sites/Next/Home/5601796-182/hot_seat_millionaires___.csp

--
Obododimma Oha
http://udude.wordpress.com/

Dept. of English
University of Ibadan
Nigeria

&

Fellow, Centre for Peace & Conflict Studies
University of Ibadan

Phone: [redacted];
[redacted];
[redacted].

↑ Index

43. Gerald Schwartz
Black Mountain North Symposium
Tue 3 Aug 2010

Announcing the Black Mountain North Symposium, Rochester, New York, October 1-3.

This will be one of a number of events across a number of North American commemorating the centennial of poet and Black Mountain College rector Charles Olson.

Black Mountain North will not be limited to poetry panels and readings, but will include discussions and exhibits in the visual and performing arts in the collaborative and multidiciplinary spirit of Balck Mountain College.

Featured speakers will include Ed Sanders, mary Emma Harris, Martha Rittenhouse Treichler, Albert Glover, Penelope Creeley, Jen Bevin and David Landrey, among many others.

Program and other information can be found at: www.blackmountainnorth.org

Any questions you may have can be directed to John Roche at [redacted]

↑ Index

44. amy king
Completely Objective Review + My Autogeography
Tue 3 Aug 2010

Today's my bday (yes, I'm fishing), so if you are in Walt Whitman's birthplace today, holla backchannel and I'll get you in the door...

For those not in attendance, a completely objective review -- http://tsky-reviews.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-kings-slaves-to-do-these-things.html

And an Autogeography -- http://www.tarpaulinsky.com/Chronic/amy-king.html

Kiss,

Amy

****
Poetry, Publishing, Women & the Internet
+ http://amyking.wordpress.com/2010/07/12/your-own-revolution-poetry-publishing-the-internet/

Poets for Living Waters
+ http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/
****

↑ Index

45. John Cunningham
Re: New Narrative
Tue 3 Aug 2010

Thank you, Christophe. I enjoyed reading your response even though it didn't enlighten me one little bit. Still, the humour was entertaining. John Herbert Cunningham

-----Original Message-----
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Christophe Casamassima
Sent: August-03-10 7:12 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: New Narrative

It's like old narrative, but newer. Eventually it will get old and become the not so new but not as old as the old new narrative. My God, a hundred years from now the Library of Congress system will be inundated by huge strings of genre names.

Christophe "not as old as I was tomorrow" Casamassima

On Mon, Aug 2, 2010 at 10:55 PM, John Cunningham
<[redacted]> wrote:
> I recently heard about this new literary phenomenon called the New > Narrative. What is this?
>
> John Herbert Cunningham
>
>
>

↑ Index

46. Paul Siegell
Thursday at the U of PENN Bookstore
Tue 3 Aug 2010

A Charity Event!

This Thursday, August 5th from 6-8 @ the University of Pennsylvania Bookstore, the Light of Unity Association and Mad Poets Performance Series presents:

Paul Siegell * Bojan Louis * Kevyn Johnson * Stephanie Durann Seymour * Daniel Schall * Francesca Constanzo * Vernyce Dannells *and music by: Jaz * Anwar Thurston a/k/a Pastor Green. Hosted by Ebony Malaika Collier.

Poetry and music to benefit City Team Ministries: http://www.cityteam.org/

Here's the facebook invite: http://bit.ly/ae8Nnl

Thank you,
Paul
http://paulsiegell.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

47. Maria Damon
Re: Completely Objective Review + My Autogeography
Tue 3 Aug 2010

HAPPY BIRTHDAY AMY

amy king wrote:
> Today's my bday (yes, I'm fishing), so if you are in Walt Whitman's birthplace > today, holla backchannel and I'll get you in the door...
>
> For those not in attendance, a completely objective review
> -- http://tsky-reviews.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-kings-slaves-to-do-these-things.html

>
>
> And an Autogeography -- http://www.tarpaulinsky.com/Chronic/amy-king.html
>
> Kiss,
>
> Amy
>
>
>
> ********
> Poetry, Publishing, Women & the Internet
> + http://amyking.wordpress.com/2010/07/12/your-own-revolution-poetry-publishing-the-internet/
>
>
> Poets for Living Waters
> + http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/
> ********
>
>
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

48. Christophe Casamassima

Re: New Narrative

Tue 3 Aug 2010

It was not meant to be entertaining. Poetry can never be entertaining.

On Tue, Aug 3, 2010 at 12:40 PM, John Cunningham
<[redacted]> wrote:
> Thank you, Christophe. I enjoyed reading your response even though it didn't > enlighten me one little bit. Still, the humour was entertaining.
> John Herbert Cunningham
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On > Behalf Of Christophe Casamassima

> Sent: August-03-10 7:12 AM
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: New Narrative
>
> It's like old narrative, but newer. Eventually it will get old and > become the not so new but not as old as the old new narrative. My God, > a hundred years from now the Library of Congress system will be > inundated by huge strings of genre names.
>
> Christophe "not as old as I was tomorrow" Casamassima
>
> On Mon, Aug 2, 2010 at 10:55 PM, John Cunningham
> <[redacted]> wrote:
>> I recently heard about this new literary phenomenon called the New >> Narrative. What is this?
>>
>> John Herbert Cunningham
>>
>>
>>
>
>
>

↑ Index

49. Emma Bolden

Re: New Narrative

Tue 3 Aug 2010

I think I am going to start a movement call Old Narrative. It will involve putting old books in a blender and seeing what happens.

How does the New Narrative relate to New Narrativism, I wonder?

Sent from my iTelephoning Device

On Aug 3, 2010, at 12:40 PM, John Cunningham <[redacted]> wrote:

> Thank you, Christophe. I enjoyed reading your response even though it didn't enlighten me one little bit. Still, the humour was entertaining.
> John Herbert Cunningham
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Christophe Casamassima
> Sent: August-03-10 7:12 AM

> To: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: New Narrative
>
> It's like old narrative, but newer. Eventually it will get old and become the not so new but not as old as the old new narrative. My God, a hundred years from now the Library of Congress system will be inundated by huge strings of genre names.
>
> Christophe "not as old as I was tomorrow" Casamassima
>
> On Mon, Aug 2, 2010 at 10:55 PM, John Cunningham <[redacted]> wrote:
> I recently heard about this new literary phenomenon called the New Narrative. What is this?
>
> John Herbert Cunningham

↑ Index

50. Ruth Lepson

Re: Completely Objective Review + My Autogeography

Tue 3 Aug 2010

---

you are everywhere amy--good to hear you read & meet you too--happy days & year

On 8/3/10 1:13 PM, "Maria Damon" <[redacted]> wrote:

> HAPPY BIRTHDAY AMY
>
> amy king wrote:
> Today's my bday (yes, I'm fishing), so if you are in Walt Whitman's birthplace
> today, holla backchannel and I'll get you in the door...
>
> For those not in attendance, a completely objective review
> --
> http://tsky-reviews.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-kings-slaves-to-do-these-things.html
>
> And an Autogeography -- http://www.tarpaulinsky.com/Chronic/amy-king.html
>
> Kiss,

> Amy
>
> ********
> Poetry, Publishing, Women & the Internet
> +
> http://amyking.wordpress.com/2010/07/12/your-own-revolution-poetry-publishing-the-internet/
>
> Poets for Living Waters
> + http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/
> ********

↑ Index

51. Jennifer Karmin

Aug 6: Dear Fisherman in Chicago

Tue 3 Aug 2010

DEAR FISHERMAN
a solo exhibit by Rachel Slotnick with writing and music

Friday, August 6th
7pm - midnight opening reception

at Happy Dog Gallery
1542 N Milwaukee Ave, Floor 2
Chicago, Illinois
http://www.happydoggallery.tumblr.com

7:30pm Group Reading:

Abra Aducci
Mike Balatico
Adam Bienvenue
Daniel Godston

Jennifer Goldstick
Lisa Janssen
Jennifer Karmin
Julie Karnes
Gregory Kiewiet
Heather McShane
Heather Palmer
John Rich

Followed by music selections from DJ The Single Helix

ABRA ADDUCCI is currently pursuing her MFA in writing at the School of the Art Institute of Chicago.

MIKE BALATICO is from Tenessee.

DANIEL GODSTON teaches and lives in Chicago. His writings have appeared in Chase Park, After Hours, BlazeVOX, Versal, Beard of Bees, Drunken Boat, 580 Split, Kyoto Journal, Eratica, The Smoking Poet, Horse Less Review, Moria, Apparatus Magazine, EOAGH, Requited Journal, Sentinel Poetry, and other print publications and online journals. His poem â€œMask to Skin to Blood to Heart to Bone and Backâ€ was nominated by the editors of 580 Split for the Pushcart Prize. He also composes and performs music, and he works with the Borderbend Arts Collective to organize the annual Chicago Calling Arts Festival.

JENNIFER GOLDSTICK likes storytelling. This includes, but is not limited to: writing, reading, drawing, diagramming and telling stories. As a graduate of Washington University in St. Louisâ€™s Visual Communication program, she generally focuses on visual storytelling, but is constantly seeking new ways to convey any kind of emotional truth. Jenniferâ€™s mini-comic â€œRoots of a Tragedy,â€ a narrative which explores a series of student deaths in her hometown, is being self-published and will hit small, alternative comic bookstore shelves within the coming months. Her drawings and comics have been published in Spires Intercollegiate Arts & Literary Magazine and Key Magazine in Chicago.

LISA JANSSEN is a writer and archivist. Her work has appeared most recently in WSQ â€“ Women's Studies Quarterly, MAKE, and the chapbook Riffing on Bird and Other Sad Songs (dusi/e-chap kollektiv). She currently co-edits the literary journal MoonLit.

JENNIFER KARMIN has published, performed, exhibited, taught, and experimented with language across the U.S., Japan, and Kenya. She is the author of the text-sound epic Aaaaaaaaaaalice (Flim Forum Press, 2010) and the chapbook Evacuated: Disembodying Katrina (Dusie Kollektiv, 2009). Walking Poem, a collaborative street project, is featured online at How2. In Chicago, Jennifer teaches creative writing to immigrants at Truman College and works as a Poet-in-Residence for the public schools. http://aaaaaaaaaaalice.blogspot.com

JULIE KARNES received her MFA from the School of the Art Institute of Chicago in 2009. Her work won an honorable mention in The Atlantic's 2009 Student Writing Contest. She is currently working on a collection of short stories.

GREGORY KIEWIET's book of poetry, In the Company of Words, was published in 2007 by Past Tents Press. Other work has appeared in The Columbia Poetry Review, Marks: An On-line Journal of the Arts, Dispatch Detroit, Box, Woodward Magazine, Graffiti Rag, and others. He received an M. A. in English (Creative Writing) from Wayne State University (Detroit, MI) in 2001 and is completing an MFA in Writing at the School of the Art Institute of Chicago. Greg teaches at Wright College.

HEATHER MCSHANE's writings can be found at the2ndhand, fictionatwork, The Green Lantern Press blog, Pistil magazine, and Chicago Public Radioâ€™s Vocalo.

HEATHER PALMER holds a Masters of Fine Arts in Writing from the School of the Art Institute of Chicago and has current or forthcoming work in Willows Wept Review, Lamination Colony, Radioactive Moat, Omphalos 8, elimae, Storyglossia, Everyday Genius, Spork Magazine and more. Her book works include Charlieâ€™s Train (the2ndhand) and the forthcoming novel Complements: of Us (Spork Press). She writes and works in Chicago, but hails from Pennsylvania. http://fictionsandthelike.blogspot.com

ARMANDO PEREZ aka DJ THE SINGLE HELIX
The Single Helix is an experimental/ambient singer-songwriter and DJ currently living in Chicago. Recording songs with a computer, various keyboards, and a guitar, T.S.H. (Armando Perez) has leaked several mix tapes of art-rock and released an instrumental electronica album called "Journal of an Emotional Robot" on the Sonic Octopus imprint. He performs solo, or with a full band.

JOHN RICH is a performance artist, writer, and arts administrator. He co-founded the collaborative theater company Attention Deficit Drama (1997-2003), and currently performs with Every house has a door. He earned a BFA in painting from Grand Valley State University (1997), and is completing an MFA in Writing at the School of the Art Institute of Chicago (2010). He served as performance curator for the Urban Institute for Contemporary Arts and Columbia College Chicago (TICTOC), and has been the company manager for Goat Island Performance Group since 2006. He is at work on his first novel and a collaborative book-length correspondence project.

RACHEL SLOTNICK, originally from Los Altos, California, is a painter and writer. She received her MFA from the School of the Art Institute of Chicago in May 2010. During her time at SAIC, she traveled to Kenya on the Summer Literary Seminars Tuition Fellowship. She was also a finalist in the Fred Hillbruner Artist Book Fellowship. Her work is on display at the Joan Flasch Artist Book Collection at the School of the Art Institute of Chicago, at CafÃ© Bacci (Chicago, IL), at Horse Works inc (Morton Grove, IL), at Blue Horse Saddlery (Los Altos, CA), Art & Frames Unlimited (Mountain View, CA), Studio Trilogy Gallery (San Francisco, CA), The Tack Rack (Lexington, KY), and in Horses in Art Magazine. http://www.rachelslotnick.com

↑ Index

52. Rob McLennan

12 or 20 small press questions

Tue 3 Aug 2010

---

with Meredith Quartermain, on Nomados;

http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/2010/08/12-or-20-small-press-questions-meredith.html

rob

-- writer/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...poetry - wild horses (U of Alberta) ...2nd novel - missing persons www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

53. Jason Quackenbush

Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"

Tue 3 Aug 2010

I had a similar experience with transfinite numbers in an advanced logic class as an undergrad where we touched on real analysis on the way to understanding completeness and consistency proofs. I had a similar experience when my calculus instructor proved the power rule for me in office hours. i would never think to deny that there's something truly beautiful that goes on in mathematics, and I don't think the German Engineer would have denied that either. Someday I hope to be able as an old man to return to this stuff and study non- euclidean geometry and mathematical logic again, because you're absolutely right that it is a wonderful and amazing thing. Where I think I differ from you Godel Turing and Cantor is that I'm not comfortable moving from there to making metaphysical or ontological claims about things like numbers or geometrical shapes. To me, this stuff is just magic (per my def. of magic here: http://www.wetasphalt.com/content/magician-priest-conjurer-lawyer-law-mysticism-magic-and-occult) and there I think is probably Wittgenstein's biggest failing, in that he didn't take his thoughts on magic far enough. Although he rightly took Fraser to task for the Golden Bough interpretation of shamanism, I think he didn't pursue the connection between magic, the inneffable, and religious ritual to the end that I think his view of language allows.

As for truth tables, you're right, and provably so. Emil Post developed them in the 1920s and can't have read the Tractatus, because it was as yet unpublished and unknown in the US. I do think the semantic theory of truth embodied in his invention of truth conditions (Tractatus 4.4 and sub comments) is a significant contribution as well, but even Wittgenstein might have debated that since he later became something like a deflationist and his analysis of truth is one of the things that I think one can firmly point to as a definite example of the differences between early and later Wittgenstein. That said, I think one goes a bit awry to think that Wittgenstein's import for mathematics rests solely on his contributions to mathematical logic. I think, for example, there's no diminishing of the beauty of mathematics if one adopts his antiplatonism, and I think he makes strong arguments that a platonic theory of number, for example, has to answer. More importantly, I think he makes a strong connection between mathematical meaning and mathematical application. Which is to say, I think on a Wittgensteinian view, that the discovery that logarithms were useful in the calculus and in chemistry gave new meaning to logarithms that weren't there for the early inventors of logarithms who had no knowledge of calculus, the physics of cosmology, or scientific chemistry. They were primarily a short hand for dealing with complex calculations involving ratios. I think this analysis as finding new meaning for an old part of mathematics makes a lot more sense of the human encounter with new mathematical applications than does the platonic view that those mathematical entities already exist in the world waiting to be discovered whether people come along or not. In fact I think it makes things like logarithms or the number i more beautiful and even poetic in the fact that new meanings were found for them long after they were invented. I often wish he had lived a few more decades and could have seen the digital computer, because I wonder what he would have made of the work Turing/Godel/ Church et. al. were doing after seeing them given the meaning that calculating machines were able to make out of them. I think he would have thought it was a wonderful thing.

And at the same time, I think, maybe, he might argue that some of the awe that everybody who grasps things like incompleteness, transfinite numbers, and decideability problems (which, interestingly, he had no problem with. He thought that the halting problem was real and incorporated some of Turings work on algorithms into his thoughts on what mathematical meaning is) COULD be just the sort of giddiness one feels as a result of semantic paradoxes that come about through the syntactic manipulation that goes on in mathematics. ALthough clearly that's not the end of it, because the same thing happens like I said for a proof of the power rule, or an elegant proof of the pythagorean theorem, which both have a clear semantic meaning even in wittgenstein's sense of mathematical meaning. More importantly, while I'm not at all sure he's right, I think it is an interesting challenge to Set Theory to show that an infinite set should be analyzed as a rule for the unlimited extension of a series, much the way that a calculation that presents an irrational number is a rule about how to extend of the number to N+1 places, rather than an actual infinite thing-in-itself. I'd be very curious if you knew of anything that takes up that notion, because it's always struck me as very compelling although philosophers I respect and who understand this stuff better than me (and who are otherwise sympathetic to Wittgenstein's view of mathematics, like Putnam and Fine) have remarked in passing that they think he was wrong about how he analyzed the diagonal proof.

What matters to me though, particularly in the realm of how all of this applies to poetry, is that I still think that semantic paradox is a useful tool of poetry that is very good at pointing to things that might otherwise not be able to be expressed by other more normal means. I think, for example, that the liar paradox is an interesting way to approach the notion of divinity, something I used in a poem I'm very proud of that tries to express something about my experience of the divine (published here if you're curious: http://www.blazevox.org/061-jfq.pdf) . And I think that's useful in poetry, because I can't tell you what it feels like to experience the divine in the same way that I can tell you that cutting my finger while chopping onions is painful. But I can try to create that feeling through poetry, and by talking in that sort of way, using that kind of approach where meaning is both looser and also more pointed, I think poetry can express the otherwise inexpressable, and that too is a kind of magic.

Finally, because I think you might enjoy it as it relates to Wittgenstein's appreciation for Turing, I give you this remark from the Remarks on the Foundations of Mathematics:

"What harm is done e.g. by saying that God knows all irrational numbers? Or: that they are already there, even though we only know certain of them? Why are these pictures not harmless? For one thing, they hide certain problems.

Suppose that people go on and on calculating the expansion of Ï€. So God, who knows everything, knows whether they will have reached â€˜777â€™ by the end of the world. But can his omniscience decide whether they would have reached it after the end of the world? It cannot. I want to say: Even God can determine something mathematical only by mathematics. Even for him the mere rule of expansion cannot decide anything that it does not decide for us.

We might put it like this: if the rule for the expansion has been given us, a calculation can tell us that there is a â€˜2â€™ at the fifth place. Could God have known this, without the calculation, purely from the rule of expansion? I want to say: No."

Cheers and thanks again for the opportunity to flex these particular muscles. They do get rusty reading law books these days...

-Jason

On Aug 3, 2010, at 12:30 AM, Jim Andrews wrote:

> somebody else would have invented truth tables if he hadn't. they're like shopping carts.
>
> would somebody else have done godel's strikingly original work? probably. eventually. but probably it would have taken quite a while.
>
> i am attempting to download "Cora Diamond [Ed.] - Wittgenstein's Lectures on the Foundations of Mathematics, 1939". meanwhile, i've perused http://plato.stanford.edu/entries/wittgenstein-mathematics and the links you provided, jason.
>
> wittgenstein's philosophy of mathematics is doomed to the obscurity suffered by other similarly finitistic approaches. he objects to set theory on philosophical grounds. which is fine but that sort of objection is not nearly as important as showing real contradictions in the theory. he didn't manage to do that.
>
> the 'crisis of the foundations of mathematics' in the nineteenth century that motivated the development of set theory, including cantor's work on infinite sets, included an atmosphere in which there was great distrust about assumptions of the actually infinite. cantor's work was widely regarded as fatally flawed for its assumption of the existence of the actually infinite. the famous antagonisms of kronecker and poincare against cantor, and cantor's relegation to the margins of academia. and his ongoing battles with mental problems. and cantor's own exacerbation of his problems by his pronouncement that the existence of his transfinite numbers was justified in the mind of god.
>
> but cantor and others were sufficiently careful in their dealings > with the actually infinite that it has not, in fact, blown up in their faces. every undergraduate honours math student does a course in 'real analysis' that develops the real number system from the ground up using set theory and cantor's work (among many others).

>
> finitistic approaches, very famously, generally have difficulty proving many of the most useful results of mathematics. the results that any theory simply has to be able to produce or no one uses the theory, regardless of its philosophical nobility.
>
> by the way, jason, as an aside, when i studied cantor's work as an undergrad, well, it really blew me away as beautiful and profound. i understood why, going back to the time of pythagoras, mathematics has been associated with 'divine knowledge'. i mean, in the case of cantor's work, we learn things actually worth knowing about the infinite. "no one shall expel us from the paradise that cantor has created." david hilbert said that. and no one has managed it. not wittgenstein, not brouwer, nobody. cantor isn't the saviour. he was a 'martyr', of sorts (figuratively). so too with godel and turing.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com

↑ Index

54. derekrogerson
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Tue 3 Aug 2010

Coincidently, I've been reading Laura (Riding) Jackson's spiritual testament "The Telling" and it is very moving

http://books.google.com/books?id=DOhaAAAAMAAJ

↑ Index

55. Jason Quackenbush
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Tue 3 Aug 2010

On Aug 1, 2010, at 8:22 AM, Murat Nemet-Nejat wrote:
>
>
> those things that can't be talked about or empirically investigated
> are > themselves worthless and nonexistent. which is not the case. he just > thought > LANGUAGE about those things was nonsensical: don't you think this > assertions > itself is somewhat strange? What is exactly the difference between > "worthless, nonexistent and nonsensical" unless the word

> "nonsensical" is > being used here as a technical term used by Logical Positivists. In > other > words, how much of a real difference is that outside atmospherics?

Well, it's not used in the sense of the positivists, because the positivists adopted their use of the term from him rather than the other way around. He was never a positivist. His use of "sense" and it's various associated terms (actually in german his use of Sinn, unSinnig, and Sinnloss, sorry my german is worse than my french, which is terrible) is technical and derives from his reading of Frege. Frege's semantic theory asserts that there are two ways that a sentence or a word has meaning, it's sense, and it's reference. Usually this is talked about in terms of proper names, but Frege and Wittgenstein took it further, in that the reference of a proper name is the object that it attaches to like a label or a name tag. The object to which the word refers. Or the referential meaning of "Jason F Quackenbush" is me, the physical human being that has that name. Frege argued that there are terms that have no reference but that do have a sense. Take for example the name "Hamlet." There never was a person with that name, he's a fictional character. And yet, particularly within the context of the play, Hamlet definitely has a meaning and it's the same meaning whether the actual physical person playing Hamlet is Richard Burbage or Mel Gibson. (Granted you could argue that different actors portrayals of Hamlet have slightly different meanings since the character can be changed a bit, but I would argue that the possibilities of portrayal are reasonably finite and are all part of the meaning of the word). Anyway, That meaning is the "sense" of the word "Hamlet" which exists separate from. So when Wittgenstein says that a term like "Absolute Goodness" is nonsense, he means it doesn't have a sense in the Fregean sense of the term. That is, there are no criteria by which to determine the meaning of the word. The mysticism of this point of view is that never the less he recognizes that using a term like "Absolute Goodness" is trying to get at SOMETHING, and whatever that something is it seems to have some relation to more workaday uses of the word Good. The point in calling it nonsense is something like Heidegger's admonition to always pay attention to the phenomena first. That is, if you want to know what "good" means or any of the other concepts that get built up into grand metaphysical theories, don't let yourself drift away into the philosophical ether where there's nothing to ground the meaning of the words you're using the way that life as it is lived by people in communities grounds the meaning of the language we use to communicate. It's not nonsense in the sense that there's no there there, but nonsense in the sense that if you start talking that way, the way philosophers do, you're completely missing the point.

> "for that second argument to work you'd have to accept something like David > Lewis's resolution to the problem of universals which relies on set theory > and modal realism, which I just don't buy. Again, I'll appeal to > wittgenstein's remark that "when you are learning spelling you also learn > how to spell the word "spelling" but no one calls this a second order > spelling." or to put it another way, to quote dennett's sarcastic remark > about a wittgensteinian ordinary language philosopher "if it can't be > expressed in first order predicate logic, it's probably incorrect and > meaningless."
>
> I think we misunderstand each other here. What I mean is that any given set > (language) can be broken down (Benjamin's view). If it can be broken down, > it can be "escaped" and talked about or pointed to. Perhaps we should talk > more about this process of pointing of "pointing" which both Wittgenstein > and Heiddeger talk about. I think they are striving towards a > similar thing.

Ah, i see what you mean. I think you're right. I think maybe the distinction then is that W. conceived of language, or more properly meaning, as not a set, in the sense of a collection of things that form a totality, but rather a series of nodes that are connected to one another. I think he'd very much say that bits and pieces of it can be talked about in isolation, and in fact that's what his "language game" thought experiments were trying to do, to get at bits and pieces of language in isolation to see how they worked. The only thing I think he or I would have quibbled is that he would have rejected this as something second order, and would have said it's just another language game connected to all the other ones, and this is just a way of talking about language, but it's not anything like a metalanguage.

> "I just really disagree with the notion that Wittgenstein held to anything > like the idea that language was absolute and final in any way. Rather he > thought it was limited, amorphous, changeable, and in no way capable of > covering the wider extent of human life, which for him was a precondition > for language that meaning requires. hence the comment "if a lion could talk > we would not understand him."

>
> Well, he may believe all of that; but when he relegates the language of a
> "the wider extent of human life" to the category" to being "nonsensical," he > is creating a hierarchy of values (truths/and nonsensense, both "important?") which I can not quite accept or live with.

I think that's probably a fair criticism. The only defense I'll offer is that I don't think he was unaware that that's what he SEEMED to be saying, and he often talked about how much he admired saints and religious mystics who had devoted their lives to nonsense, and often qualified his talk of nonsense by saying that even though its nonsense he'd never dare try to dissuade people from talking about it. Rather he just wanted his ideas to be a kind of therapy to allow people who are persuaded by a certain kind of nonsense, that is the kind of nonsense popular among the philosophically inclined, to stop tormenting themselves with it because it never seems to get anywhere and the more you think about it the harder it is to really believe anything. And there he was speaking from experience. Bertrand Russell reports in his diaries and letters that Wittgenstein would often burst into his rooms at cambridge in the wee hours of the night talking about killing himself because he couldn't stop thinking about some puzzle or another and every time he felt like he'd got to an answer, a bunch of new objections would spring into being. Which is to say, I think he excludes from the negative value judgment that he makes about philosophers nonsense, the kind of thing that I think could be fairly called religious nonsense and poetic nonsense which themselves have value (and therefore a kind of meaning) in their use as an important part of human life even if they don't have the kind of meaning that a sentence like "I'm wearing tennis shoes right now" has.

> "And again, I'll return to probably the poorest understood aspect of wittgenstein's view of language which is that the things that can not be > said can in fact be shown. they can be demonstrated. they can be pointed at > indexically. what they can't be is explained, described, discussed, or whatever."
>
> Why not? We discuss these things all the time. What are we doing now?

well for example. I can tell you how i came to experience a connection to the divine. I can describe the physical and emotional feelings that I had as a part of that experience, and I can suggest to you activities that might help you recreate that experience myself. What I can't do is tell you if God is real or imaginary, if it is male or female. I can't tell you if it is a person that is intelligent or a mindless force of nature. All of the sentences there would fail because of the word being predicated, God, doesn't have a sense in the Fregean sense. Rather, for me at least, it points to my experience of the divine and that's the only way that I can talk about it in a way that is meaningful. Compounding the problem is the fact that there are other people who use the same word to mean the same thing I do, but also in there experience is something that allows them to make those kinds of statements. This is a fundamental disconnect that makes it impossible for either of us to tell if we're using the word correctly and there's no objective empirical object for us to go and take a look at to figure out which one of us has the meaning right. So in a sense, it's possible to talk about talking about those things, which is what we're doing now, while it's very difficult, if not impossible, to talk about them directly. And talking about talking about them, just like as I suggested to Jim, using semantic paradox and metaphor and maybe musical harmony, are ways to point at them, to give them a referential meaning even though they don't have a sense.

> "If i want you to understand a religious experience, for example, i > might > give you a set of instructions that might allow you to recreate the > experience for yourself, but if i start trying to describe it, then > I begin > to start talking in a way that isn't strictly meaningful in the way
> that > other propositions are."
>
> Here one can see how the phrase "in a way that isn't strictly > meaningful in > the way that other propositions are" is giving to everything which > can be > expressed in propositions over over things. As I said in my previous > post,
> my disagreement with Wittgenstein is partly rhetorical, the > hierartchical > value system it creates and leads many others to stup and very > restrictive
> conclusions or practices.
>
Right but take that in the context of the whole corpus of what's being said. Wittgenstein allowed for empirical truth, which is the vast bulk of what propositions deal with, and more or less dismissed it as needing any attention because it's obvious and easy. Take a look at my feet, you'll see whether the proposition "I'm wearing tennis shoes" is true or false. He distinguished another kind of truth, grammatical truth, as being true of propositions that take as their object not empirical facts but facts about how language is used and works. So for example, "That apple is red" is true if in the language I'm speaking red refers to the color of certain kinds of apples and if the apple I'm pointing at (that being an indexical expression) is the color of those kinds of apples. I can take this a step farther and say "some apples are red" and I'm no longer really saying much that's empirical so much as I'm saying something about how we talk about apples in the English language. The proposition is true not because apples are a certain color, although there's an element of this that's reflected in the grammar, but if when people are talking about apples, they sometimes use the word red to talk about their color. Grammatical truth is a lot harder to get at and comprehend tho, than empirical truth is, and most of what he wrote in his later period was about how grammatical truth works for certain slippery word that are the subjects of philosophical enquiry like epistemology and metaphysics. For example if you agree to look after my dog while I'm on vacation, I can say "that's good of you to do that for me." And the way to tell if that's true or not is not so much empirical inquiry, but grammatical inquiry into whether this is the sort of situation where the word good expresses something. Partly this is a rejection of a metaphysical conception of goodness as some eternal constant concept that the word "good" refers to. But it's also because we can imagine a situation where it would not be grammatical, like say I'm the Emperor and you are one of my subjects so that the situation is really that you are obliged to look after my dog if I tell you too and there is maybe even a cultural expectation that you should be honored to be able to do me a solid. In that case, "That's good of you" might mean something slightly different, in that it's merely polite because that's what one says to someone who takes care of something for you and it would be perceived as rude not to say it. both are meaningful statements that mean different things and are true only under specific circumstances that are defined by how language is used by the people using it.

> Take for instance, Normal Malcolm argument about dreaming, that dreaming can > be reduced to a reporting of dreaming since, for convoluted reasons he explains in his book, nobody can prove that his/her dreaming occurred during > sleep. The ridiculous argument he follows there is very similar to > what you > say in " "If i want you to understand a religious experience, for example, i > might give you a set of instructions that might allow you to recreate the > experience for yourself, but if i start trying to describe it, then I begin > to start talking in a way that isn't strictly meaningful in the way that > other propositions are."

well, that's Malcolm, and he wasn't Wittgenstein's best exegete. That someone dreamed something isn't, or at least wasn't at the time and is barely so now, a matter that can be empirically investigated. But my take on dreaming, which is I think what Wittgenstein had in mind, is that it is like it is with other kinds of expressions of internal sensations, the statement IS the evidence. If I tell someone a dream I had while I was asleep. We know what dreams are, we all have them, and we know what the report of the dream is. And we can doubt that someone is being truthful in a dream report, and suppose that they are telling us a lie for some reason (like perhaps they want to convince us they had a precognitive experience of some kind), but that doubt requires some grounds too. And so the entirety of the situation comes into play. Why would you be inclined to doubt that I really had the experience that I had? Is there some benefit to me lying? Does it seem doubtful that I was asleep at the time I supposedly had the dream? Am I the kind of person who often makes things up about things to get stuff? Maybe the answer is you just don't know whether the statement is true or not, but that's not the same thing as saying it isn't meaningful. Religious experiences are different because 1.) not everybody acknowledges that they have them 2.) they come in a wide number of varieties and descriptions that tend to be in line with prevailing cultural religious practices (by that I mean you rarely if ever hear about a shinto priest seeing an apparition of the blessed virgin) and 3.) sometimes the experience is so profound that it's difficult to do much more than talk about physical and emotional sensations, but those are descriptions of how the experience made me feel, they aren't a description of what it was that made me feel that way, of what the entity was that i encountered or whether it was an entity at all. That's the part that I say can't be described. Clearly there's something to it. Clearly it's an experience of a kind that billions of people have experienced, but it's not open to either a grammatical or empirical investigation in the same way other things are, which is why it's very hard to say anything about God that has a sense. But it can be pointed to, by my attitude and behavior, by my description of how I felt in the religious encounter, by poetry and music that recreates the feelings and gives it meaning of another kind that has nothing to do with the meanings of the words or music in itself but rather in the totality of how it reveals the experience of the divine for others.

> "Which, again, is why "philosophy ought to be written only as a form of > poetry." Because poetic language is capable of showing in a way that ordinary language is not."
>
> Why not say then poetry is as much capable of philosophy as symbolic logic?
> It is not nonsensical truth, etc., etc. etc.

well, again it depends on what you think philosophy ought to be doing. Perloff makes a good case that it is as much capable of philosophy as symbolic logic. I tend to disagree not so much because I think poetry is incapable of approaching the objects of philosophy, but largely because I think philosophy does a generally pretty crappy job of approaching its own objects and I'd rather not lower poetry to its level.

> "As for the Arcades project, it sounds really interesting, but it also doesn't sound like the same use of the word "true" as one uses in talking > about propositions and the truth functions of logic and reasoning.
>
> That's what I mean. Instinctively, you are assigning -and I believe restricting- the "truth" value to one mode of expression and not the others.
> The Arcades Project talks about social, political, ethical, philosophical, > aesthetic, moral issues in a synthesized language. That is its originality.
> Those hierarchies of truth -creating a hierarchy of validities and subtle > taboos (like "weird mysticism or Platonism") are eliminated.

Oh not at all though. I think there is a lot of truth out there in things other than logic and reasoning, and most of it is much more important than whether or not socrates really was a man or if all swans are in fact white. but "truth value" as i use it is a technical term that has to do specifically with propositions that can be symbolized and reasoned about with various rules of inference. And the sorts of sentences and expressions that have those other kinds of truth are not about the kinds of things that propositions can talk about, which are empirical and grammatical facts and whether or not they obtain.

> I agree with you, Jason. Our disagreements on Wittgenstein are less than > they appear. I am more focused on what Witggenstein has become to mean -which basically is a very restrictive and even damaging, > particularly in > poetry)- after himself.

Yeah. The poor guy. I sometimes feel very alone in my reading of him. Even though I know I'm right and that everybody else from Stanley Cavell and Cora Diamond back to Rudolph Carnap completely misunderstood what he was up to, whenever I talk to philosophically inclined folks about him I always feel like I'm fighting an uphill battle against all kinds of preconceived notions. Not to say that that's the case here, so much. :) I sometimes think maybe a lot of people just let Saul Kripke Richard Rorty and Hilary Putnam do their reading for them without recognizing that all of them are using Wittgenstein's ideas to their own ends, which are not the aims Wittgenstein had at all.

> Once again, great conversation.

Indeed, thanks so much for the engaging thoughts.
-Jason
>

↑ Index

56. Sharon Mesmer/David Borchart
Re: Completely Objective Review + My Autogeography
Wed 4 Aug 2010

Yay! Happy b-day!!!!

On Aug 3, 2010, at 1:13 PM, Maria Damon wrote:

> HAPPY BIRTHDAY AMY
>
> amy king wrote:
> Today's my bday (yes, I'm fishing), so if you are in Walt Whitman's birthplace today, holla backchannel and I'll get you in the door...
>
> For those not in attendance, a completely objective review -- http://tsky-reviews.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-kings-slaves-to-do-these-things.html
>
> And an Autogeography -- http://www.tarpaulinsky.com/Chronic/amy-king.html
>
> Kiss,
>
> Amy
>
> ********
> Poetry, Publishing, Women & the Internet +
> http://amyking.wordpress.com/2010/07/12/your-own-revolution-poetry-publishing-

> the-internet/
>
> Poets for Living Waters
> *+ http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/ ********

↑ Index

57. CA Conrad
Re: MUGGED into poetry...
Wed 4 Aug 2010

Murat, thanks for the tip, I'm going to watch that film!
Conrad

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

58. susan maurer
Re: Completely Objective Review + My Autogeography
Wed 4 Aug 2010

---

happy birthday. susan maurer

> Date: Tue, 3 Aug 2010 12:13:06 -0500
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: Completely Objective Review + My Autogeography
> To: [redacted]
>
> HAPPY BIRTHDAY AMY
>
> amy king wrote:
> Today's my bday (yes, I'm fishing), so if you are in Walt Whitman's birthplace today, holla backchannel and I'll get you in the door...
>
> For those not in attendance, a completely objective review
> -- http://tsky-reviews.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-kings-slaves-to-do-these-things.html
>
> And an Autogeography -- http://www.tarpaulinsky.com/Chronic/amy-king.html

> Kiss,
>
> Amy
>
> ********
> Poetry, Publishing, Women & the Internet
> + http://amyking.wordpress.com/2010/07/12/your-own-revolution-poetry-publishing-the-internet/
>
> Poets for Living Waters
> + http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/
> ********

↑ Index

59. steve russell

Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"

Wed 4 Aug 2010

---

i suppose beauty is simply the way one uses a given medium, but my robot will one day Prove that beauty exist.

beauty will be quantified.
I won't be satisfied by anything less.

Forget Turing.
My robot will one day rule ...

_____
From: steve russell <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Mon, August 2, 2010 5:12:05 PM
Subject: Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"

Interesting: Write a beauty proof, a proof that proves the existence of, ugh, beauty. I believe that such a thing exist, and perhaps Godel's work is more beautiful than anything Witt wrote, but still, when one begins to talk aesthetics, one is on fuzzy, very fuzzy ground. Of course, I know almost nothing as far as mathmatical logic is concerned. & I suffer from severe- bad-philosophy class PTSD, know what I'm saying?

From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Fri, July 30, 2010 2:50:54 PM
Subject: Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"

"Wittgenstein never accepted Gödel's result; he said in The Foundations of Mathematics, posthumously published, that his task is not to discuss Gödel, but rather to bypass Gödel. He also called Gödel's results the tricks of a logical conjurer, logical artifices." from http://www.edge.org/3rd_culture/goldstein05/goldstein05_index.html

my feeling is that there was no room for godel's work in wittgenstein's world view. he needed to not discuss godel but to bypass him.

wittgenstein's work in mathematical logic is not even remotely as important as that of godel. and godel's work is beautiful in a way that challenges any poet writing pretty conjectures and enigmatic pronouncements. it's beautiful and it's true. it's expressed in proofs that have stood the test of time. it uses the equally beautiful work of georg cantor, uses his diagonal argument (which was also used later by turing). it's the most significant work of mathematical logic of the twentieth century. it eclipses the work of any poet on mathematical logic. it redefines the poetry and philosophy of mathematical logic.

i think wittgenstein thought this sort of genuinely remarkable work in meta mathematics was simply impossible, that it was 'unsayable', and that his own sort of poetry was as good as it got.

godel shows us what really excellent work in mathematical logic is.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

60. steve dalachinsky
Re: New Narrative
Wed 4 Aug 2010

---

why not i found the word entertaining lately to have a whole new meaning in the serious content sense

On Tue, 3 Aug 2010 14:36:09 -0400 Christophe Casamassima
<[redacted]> writes:
> It was not meant to be entertaining. Poetry can never be > entertaining.
>
> On Tue, Aug 3, 2010 at 12:40 PM, John Cunningham
> <[redacted]> wrote:
> > Thank you, Christophe. I enjoyed reading your response even though > it didn't > > enlighten me one little bit. Still, the humour was entertaining.
> > John Herbert Cunningham
> >
> > -----Original Message-----
> > From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB)
> [mailto:[redacted]] On > > Behalf Of Christophe Casamassima
> > Sent: August-03-10 7:12 AM
> > To: [redacted]
> > Subject: Re: New Narrative
> >
> > It's like old narrative, but newer. Eventually it will get old
> and > > become the not so new but not as old as the old new narrative. My > God,
> > a hundred years from now the Library of Congress system will be > > inundated by huge strings of genre names.
> >
> > Christophe "not as old as I was tomorrow" Casamassima
> >
> > On Mon, Aug 2, 2010 at 10:55 PM, John Cunningham
> > <[redacted]> wrote:
> >> I recently heard about this new literary phenomenon called the
> New
> >> Narrative. What is this?
> >>
> >> John Herbert Cunningham
> >>
> >>
> >>
> >
> guidelines
> >

> >
>
>
>

↑ Index

61. steve dalachinsky
Re: New Narrative
Wed 4 Aug 2010

---

make sure those books don't have bedbugs

On Tue, 3 Aug 2010 14:44:11 -0400 Emma Bolden <[redacted]>
writes:
> I think I am going to start a movement call Old Narrative. It will > involve putting old books in a blender and seeing what happens.
>
> How does the New Narrative relate to New Narrativism, I wonder?
>
> Sent from my iTelephoning Device
>
> On Aug 3, 2010, at 12:40 PM, John Cunningham
> <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> > Thank you, Christophe. I enjoyed reading your response even though
> it didn't > > enlighten me one little bit. Still, the humour was entertaining.
> > John Herbert Cunningham
> >
> > -----Original Message-----
> > From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB)
> [mailto:[redacted]] On > > Behalf Of Christophe Casamassima
> > Sent: August-03-10 7:12 AM
> > To: [redacted]
> > Subject: Re: New Narrative
> >
> > It's like old narrative, but newer. Eventually it will get old
> and > > become the not so new but not as old as the old new narrative. My > God,
> > a hundred years from now the Library of Congress system will be > > inundated by huge strings of genre names.

> >
> > Christophe "not as old as I was tomorrow" Casamassima
> >
> > On Mon, Aug 2, 2010 at 10:55 PM, John Cunningham
> > <[redacted]> wrote:
> >> I recently heard about this new literary phenomenon called the
> New
> >> Narrative. What is this?
> >>
> >> John Herbert Cunningham
> >>
> >>
> >>
> >
> guidelines
> >
>
>
>

↑ Index

62. Maria Damon
Book Announcement
Wed 4 Aug 2010

Deep Language, by Alan Sondheim, Salt Publishing, 2010

Salt Publishing has just brought out my Deep Language; the URL is

http://www.saltpublishing.com/books/smp/9781844718030.htm

Please consider ordering this; it's inexpensive, and helps support Salt. If you don't want the book, please check out the publisher's other listings - Salt is one of the few independent companies who are not publish-on-demand; their books are found in bookstores, there are review copies, and so forth. They really need your support; they have a number of wonderful writers, and their paperbacks are high quality. Salt is at http://www.saltpublishing.com/ and they are very cool.

Deep Language,

Alan Sondheim

EAN13: 9781844718030 ISBN: 9781844718030 Author: Alan Sondheim Title: Deep Language Series: Salt Modern Poets Audience: General/trade Publisher: Salt Publishing Pub date: 30-Jul-10 Extent: 260pp Height: 246 mm Width: 189

mm Thickness: 15 mm Weight: 390 gms Supplier: Gardners Books Supplier: Ingram Book Group Supplier: Inbooks (James Bennett) Availability: NP Price: GBP 12.99 Price: USD 16.95 Rights: World

PAPERBACK / SOFTBACK

20% off at the UK Bookstore! 12.99 10.39

20% off at the US Bookstore! $16.95 $13.56

Short description/annotation: A series of short texts or poems that revel in structured and unstructured language, with all the gaps and excitement that happens when language is stressed to the limit.

Main description: In Sondheim.s Deep Language, writing detours through digital and other media, returning with new forms and genres, new ways of thinking philosophy, the body, religion, and everything else. This is a series of poems that revel in structured and unstructured language, with all the gaps and excitement that happens when language is stressed to the limit.

These pieces cohere, interrelate, interpenetrate; they develop the concept of deep language in any number of fascinating ways, ranging from intuitive writing to the use of scripts, code, and programming to elucidate hidden meanings . where none may have existed before.

Excerpt from book:

bunnies

the bunnies made strange calls, odd calls, gruntings, not the thumpings but the gruntings - ..I say. .there is a chair.. . Wittgenstein in translation . right over the other lupus. ears, just like that! .->:anyway the rabbits did this five or six times in a row and it seemed fairlyclear they were playing and right in front of us in the middle of the night. Honestly, you should have seen them! I never saw such a thing! I never knew rabbits could do such a thing! .Do not try to analyse your own inner experience.. - Wittgenstein in translation -:i pucker my lips constantly in the absence of the shakuhachi. i know its murmuring burbling abbling brook. now i.m at a loss, having transformed bAbbling into something else entirely . in any case, when i die, these three instruments will huddle in a maddening corner, bubbling with mournful murmuring cries . .Not it.s looking like him.. - Wittgenstein in translation .]]] here is a space. the one rabbit runs straight at the other and the other rabbit jumps vertically at the very last moment over the first rabbit and landf in the same spot.that.s .lands.. <..::

Write through my the bunnies made strange calls, odd calls, gruntings, not the thumpings but the gruntings . ..I say. .there is a chair.. - Wittgenstein in translation . right over the other lupus. ears, just like that! .->!

Unpublished endorsement: Alan Sondheim writes. In fear of death . literal fear, real fear, symbolic fear . he uses anything and everything at his disposal to make and unmake himself and all of us as statements, words, part-words, characters. Alan Sondheim is one of the precious few who joyfully . and in abject misery . risks these terrors of writing for us, for our pleasure and our undoing. What happens? Language disposes of us.

As if that were not all that is required of any writer, Alan Sondheim is also the poet, the artist, the maker who has most profoundly immersed himself and his work in the life-changing code-forms . of networked computation . that have the world and its .genesis redux. in their grip. John Cayley

Unpublished endorsement: Pioneer of experimental sensibility in multiple performance media Alan Sondheim tangles us up in these hypnotically repetitive, abject, slyly humorous and childishly gleeful, philosophically, aesthetically, theoretically and psychologically dense and insightful poems that are also essays, diasporic riffs and incantations, true confessions, Platonic dialogues, shtick, tantrums, aphorisms and manifesti. And that.s just the first 5 pieces! Maria Damon

Biographical note: Alan Sondheim was born in Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania; he lives with his partner, Azure Carter, in Brooklyn NY. He holds a B.A. and M.A. from Brown University in English. A new-media artist, writer, and theorist, he has exhibited, performed and lectured widely. Sondheim's writings include the anthology Being on Line: Net Subjectivity (Lusitania, 1996), Disorders of the Real (Station Hill, 1988), .echo (alt-X digital arts, 2001), Vel (Blazevox 2004-5), Sophia (Writers Forum, 2004), Orders of the Real (Writers Forum, 2005), The Accidental Artist (Fort/Da), Azure/Nature/Digital (Blue Lion, 2009), and The Wayward (Salt, 2004) as well as numerous chapbooks, ebooks, and articles.

↑ Index

63. Jonathan Morse

Of possible interest to poetry publishers

Wed 4 Aug 2010

-- and don't overlook the interesting comments.

http://www.insidehighered.com/news/2010/08/04/elk

These days, by the way, the Chronicle of Higher Education gets less interesting with every issue, while Inside Higher Ed gets more. The Chronicle is expensive; Inside Higher Ed is free. There's more to the economics of publishing than I understand.

Jonathan Morse

↑ Index

64. Maria Damon

Re: Completely Objective Review + My Autogeography

Wed 4 Aug 2010

Yeah, Happy Bday Amy!!! many more returns of the day, night and the next day and night and the next day and night and the nex da an nigh an th ne d a nig a t n ni i

Sharon Mesmer/David Borchart wrote:
> Yay! Happy b-day!!!!
>
>
> On Aug 3, 2010, at 1:13 PM, Maria Damon wrote:
>
>
>> HAPPY BIRTHDAY AMY
>>
>> amy king wrote:
>>
>>> Today's my bday (yes, I'm fishing), so if you are in Walt Whitman's birthplace today, holla backchannel and I'll get you in the door...
>>>
>>> For those not in attendance, a completely objective review -- http://tsky-reviews.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-kings-slaves-to-do-these-things.html
>>>
>>>
>>> And an Autogeography -- http://www.tarpaulinsky.com/Chronic/amy-king.html
>>>
>>> Kiss,
>>>
>>> Amy
>>>
>>>
>>> ********
>>> Poetry, Publishing, Women & the Internet + http://amyking.wordpress.com/2010/07/12/your-own-revolution-poetry-publishing-the-internet/
>>>
>>> Poets for Living Waters
>>> + http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/ ********

>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>
>
>

↑ Index

65. amy king
Re: Completely Objective Review + My Autogeography
Wed 4 Aug 2010

Thanks very much!

Cheers,

Amy

****
Poetry, Publishing, Women & the Internet
+ http://amyking.wordpress.com/2010/07/12/your-own-revolution-poetry-publishing-the-internet/

Poets for Living Waters
+ http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/
****

----- Original Message ----
From: susan maurer <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Wed, August 4, 2010 2:59:15 PM
Subject: Re: Completely Objective Review + My Autogeography

happy birthday. susan maurer

> Date: Tue, 3 Aug 2010 12:13:06 -0500
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: Completely Objective Review + My Autogeography
> To: [redacted]
>
> HAPPY BIRTHDAY AMY
>
> amy king wrote:
> Today's my bday (yes, I'm fishing), so if you are in Walt Whitman's birthplace

> today, holla backchannel and I'll get you in the door...
>
> For those not in attendance, a completely objective review
> --
> http://tsky-reviews.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-kings-slaves-to-do-these-things.html
>
> And an Autogeography -- http://www.tarpaulinsky.com/Chronic/amy-king.html
>
> Kiss,
>
> Amy

↑ Index

66. Ryan Daley
Fwd: New Narrative
Thu 5 Aug 2010

"Poetry can never be entertaining."

Wow. So sad.

---------- Forwarded message ----------
From: Christophe Casamassima <[redacted]>
Date: Tue, Aug 3, 2010 at 2:36 PM
Subject: Re: New Narrative
To: [redacted]

It was not meant to be entertaining. Poetry can never be entertaining.

On Tue, Aug 3, 2010 at 12:40 PM, John Cunningham
<[redacted]> wrote:
> Thank you, Christophe. I enjoyed reading your response even though it didn't > enlighten me one little bit. Still, the humour was entertaining.
> John Herbert Cunningham
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On > Behalf Of Christophe Casamassima
> Sent: August-03-10 7:12 AM
> To: [redacted]

> Subject: Re: New Narrative
>
> It's like old narrative, but newer. Eventually it will get old and > become the not so new but not as old as the old new narrative. My God, > a hundred years from now the Library of Congress system will be > inundated by huge strings of genre names.
>
> Christophe "not as old as I was tomorrow" Casamassima
>
> On Mon, Aug 2, 2010 at 10:55 PM, John Cunningham
> <[redacted]> wrote:
>> I recently heard about this new literary phenomenon called the New >> Narrative. What is this?
>>
>> John Herbert Cunningham
>>
>>
>>
>
guidelines
>
>

↑ Index

67. andrew topel

derek beaulieu's 'swarms'

Thu 5 Aug 2010

---

avantacular press announces the release of 'swarms' by derek beaulieu. to order a copy of his chapbook, visit:

http://avantacular-press.blogspot.com/2010/06/lthy.html

some forthcoming titles: 'very short stories' by marton koppany & andrew topel, a collection by peter ganick, a collection by scott helmes & 'chewed' by karl kempton

↑ Index

68. David Kirschenbaum

Thank You for Making Boog 19

Thu 5 Aug 2010

To revise my very first post sent to poetics 11 years ago today:

Hello to all from David Kirschenbaum, editor of Boog City.

19 years ago today, we published the first two Boog chapbooks in Albany, New York, and it's been a fun ride. To all out there who crossed my path along the way; influenced me/the press (one thing?); contributed work to various publications; performed at the many different events; collated, stapled and distributed; and opened their homes to me as though I were kin, thanks.

Since 1991, each year new works have been published that somewhere say Boog on 'em. For that, I thank you all.

Special shout-outs to:

Katie Yates-for her advice and getting me to Naropa;

d.a levy-spirit guide;

Lawrence Ferlinghetti-for showing the way;

Ed Sanders-for his words of encouragement, constant feedback, and contributions;

Lee Ann Brown-for her kindness and always giving me work at the asking;

Douglas Brinkley-for introducing me to Lou Reed and Naropa;

Jeffrey and Dorian Bergen, co-owners of ACA Galleries, who've provided their space, food, and beverages on the house so our levy lives series could celebrate over 100 small presses from across the U.S. and Canada. (We begin season 8 in September.);

Rachel Aydt- Boog's first author, and one of the best poets-and friends-around;

Rod Sperry- former cofounder, the most passionate co-editor a press could've wanted;

Brenda Iijima-former art editor and kosher poems collaborator, and warm and lengthy conversationalist;

Nathaniel Siegel-selfless beyond selfless, kind beyond kind;

Bob Holman and the Bowery Poetry Club and E. Tracy Grinnell and Litmus Press/Aufgabe, longterm advertisers and supports, without whom Boog City would not have been able to spread the words on and by so many talented writers, musicians, and artists;

My folks-for the use of their Jeep each issue distribution day and life;

The Sidewalk Café-home for so many Boog music events. Thanks Lach and Ben Krieger.

Jill Stengel-late night poetry (and life) conscience instant messenger;

Sean Cole-constant collaborator and acceptor of writing assignments;

Jesse Schoen-graphic designer to the stars;

Jim Behrle-king of distribution and unfiltered feedback;

Joanna Fuhrman-two-time poetry editor who isn't shy with the truth;

Jonathan Berger-oft times distributor, longest tenured editor, our music editor, de facto managing editor, lieutenant, and friend; and

Ian Wilder-for taking me to my first poetry reading and editing everything I've written for the past 23 years, and being my.

Thanks and Be Good,
David

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W. 28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)
http://itunes.apple.com/WebObjects/MZStore.woa/wa/viewPodcast?id=343169880
For music from Gilmore boys:
http://www.myspace.com/gilmoreboysmusic

↑ Index

69. amy king
Re: Completely Objective Review + My Autogeography
Thu 5 Aug 2010

Sweet! The day that keeps on giving...

Thanks, y'all!

x, Amy

****
Poetry, Publishing, Women & the Internet
+ http://amyking.wordpress.com/2010/07/12/your-own-revolution-poetry-publishing-the-internet/

Poets for Living Waters
+ http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/
****

----- Original Message ----
From: Maria Damon <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Wed, August 4, 2010 11:24:33 PM
Subject: Re: Completely Objective Review + My Autogeography

Yeah, Happy Bday Amy!!! many more returns of the day, night and the next day and night and the next day and night and the nex da an nigh an th ne d a nig a t n ni i

Sharon Mesmer/David Borchart wrote:
> Yay! Happy b-day!!!!
>
>
> On Aug 3, 2010, at 1:13 PM, Maria Damon wrote:
>
>
>> HAPPY BIRTHDAY AMY
>>
>> amy king wrote:
>>
>>> Today's my bday (yes, I'm fishing), so if you are in Walt Whitman's birthplace >>>today, holla backchannel and I'll get you in the door...
>>>
>>> For those not in attendance, a completely objective review --
>>>http://tsky-reviews.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-kings-slaves-to-do-these-things.html
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>> And an Autogeography -- http://www.tarpaulinsky.com/Chronic/amy-king.html
>>>
>>> Kiss,
>>>
>>> Amy
>>>
>>>
>>> ********
>>> Poetry, Publishing, Women & the Internet +
>>>http://amyking.wordpress.com/2010/07/12/your-own-revolution-poetry-publishing-the-internet/

>>>
>>> Poets for Living Waters
>>> + http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/ ********
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>
>
>

↑ Index

70. Krystal Languell

Bone Bouquet: Now Reading for Issue 3

Thu 5 Aug 2010

Please pass this call for submissions on to women who might be interested. Thank you for your support!

Bone Bouquet seeks to publish the best new writing by female poets, from artists both established and emerging. We are especially interested in work that is unpredictable, poems that have both sass and authority.

We are looking for poetry, interviews, craft essays, and reviews of chapbooks/books of poetry by women (please limit reviews to those that address books published in the last two years).

We have added two fabulous assistant editors to our staff: Elizabeth Brasher of New Mexico and Allison Layfield of California. These women rock.

Simultaneous submissions are fine, as long as we are notified when work is accepted elsewhere. Bone Bouquet only accepts previously unpublished work; we request first electronic rights, and would like to archive your work on the site. Please note that your work first appeared in Bone Bouquet if it is reprinted elsewhere on the web or in print. Submit up to five pages of poetry, up to twenty pages of interview, poetics essay, or review, up to three .jpeg images of original art. We look forward to reading your work, and are honored that you trust us to read it.

For more information on our aesthetic, please read our first two issues online, which feature work from Kate Schapira, Danielle Pafunda, Susan Briante and many other amazing poets.

All best,

Krystal Languell
Editor in Chief | Bone Bouquet
http://bonebouquet.submishmash.com/Submit

↑ Index

71. Mark Weiss
Boasting rights
Fri 6 Aug 2010

Check out Chris Andrews' review in the July 30
TLS of my anthology The Whole Island: Six Decades of Cuban Poetry. In a word, he calls it "magnificent."

Best,

Mark

New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
$16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm

"What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the poet alive in every sense of the word, and through every one of his senses. Instead of missing a beat or a part, Weiss' fragments are like Chekhov's short storiesthe more that gets
left out, the more they seem to contain… One can hear echoes from all the various ancestors...[but] the voice, at its center, its core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment
is both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure
musical threnody…[it] opens a window, not only
into a mind, but a person, a personality, this
human figure at the emotional center of the poem."

M.G. Stephens, in Jacket.
http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml

↑ Index

72. sam truitt
Vatne's CARTOGRAPHIES OF SILENCE: Book Party at Bowery, Saturday, August 14th
Fri 6 Aug 2010

Come and hear here CARTOGRAPHIES OF SILENCE: Performance and celebration, including music by Clifford Thompson composed for occasion.

The Bowery Poetry Club
Saturday, August 14th at 4pm
The link: http://www.bowerypoetry.com/#Event/92728

Touted as a minimalist epic, Cartographies of Silence comprises over one hundred untitled poem fragments - what Vatne calls "unconscious interruptions" - that navigate maps of being/non-being, writing/speaking/thinking, to reveal the mind-body experience where silence meets language. Robert Kelly writes, “Short words, short lines, short poems. How big they are. How Vatne manages to travel so far.”

Erik Vatne was born in New Jersey and holds degrees from Bard College and Trinity College Dublin. He recently completed a training program in psychotherapy and analysis at the C.G. Jung Institute in Zurich. There will be a book signing immediately following the performance. For more, visit www.erikvatne.com

Cartographies of Silence
Eric Vatne
Paperback, 160 pages
978-1-58177-113-8 15.95
www.stationhill.org
For more, please email [redacted]

_____
Sam Truitt
Managing Director Station Hill of Barrytown
120 Station Hill Road
Barrytown, NY 12507
O-[redacted]
C-[redacted]
www.stationhill.org
www.samtruitt.org

**

↑ Index

73. John Latta
At Isola di Rifiuti
Fri 6 Aug 2010

Some several may be interest'd in a piece call'd "What's Up with Silliman" examining the upshot and meaning of the already much-discussed decision by Ron Silliman to close comments at his blog.

http://isola-di-rifiuti.blogspot.com/2010/08/whats-up-with-silliman-mystery-builds.html

Other recent remarks on

Roberto Bolano's The Return (New Directions)

William Wylie's Route 36 (Flood Editions)

The Koch / O'Hara Letters, 1955-56 (Lost & Found Project) and, as they say, more.

JL
http://isola-di-rifiuti.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

74. Jim Andrews
Re: "The Decay of Spirituality in Poetry"
Fri 6 Aug 2010

> I had a similar experience with transfinite numbers in an advanced logic class as an undergrad where we touched on real analysis on the way to understanding completeness and consistency proofs. I had a similar experience when my calculus instructor proved the power rule for me in office hours. i would never think to deny that there's something truly beautiful that goes on in mathematics, and I don't think the German Engineer would have denied that either.

Who he?

> Someday I hope to be able as an old man to return to this stuff and study non-euclidean geometry and mathematical logic again, because you're absolutely right that it is a wonderful and amazing thing. Where I think I differ from you Godel Turing and Cantor is that I'm not comfortable moving from there to making metaphysical or ontological claims about things like numbers or geometrical shapes.

What metaphysical or ontological claims have I made that you would take issue with?

I think there's much to recommend finitistic approaches philosophically. However, if finitistic philosophies cannot produce formal systems that generate the standard and very useful results of traditional mathematics, results that are used in real-world applications, very often, then that would seem to indicate that finitistic approaches do not go as far as they need to and can without contradiction. Assuming the existence of the actually infinite seems to be required to give us a formal system with the full generative capability required to generate the standard results that do seem to be very useful in modelling situations in the world. Not to say that 'infinity goes on before our eyes'. But the analytical tools we can make to help us with whatever it is that goes on before our eyes seem to require the actually infinite to attain full generative capability.

This is different from, say, a green philosophy versus a black philosophy. Green philosophies/ecologies of mind may not provide us with the sort of economic growth associated with black philosophies, but they do allow us to continue living on the planet, whereas black philosophies hasten the demise of humanity and the planet as ecosystem.

There is no analogous moral and pragmatic issue involved in finitistic versus actually infinite mathematical philosophies. Also, although finitistic philosophies emphasize their seeming congruence with the observable world (in which we never observe the actually infinite, only the poetentially infinite), if finitistic philosophies cannot produce formal systems that generate all the standard theorems of real analysis, then that would seem to indicate either that the finitistic philosophies are a bit wonky, not as strong as they should be, or that the standard results are wonky. But it seems clear the latter isn't the case, since those standard results are widely used in applied math in modelling stuff in the world.

The 'fight' over the assumption of the existence of the actually infinite is over. Assuming the existence of the actually infinite has its place in every math department in the world and finitistic philosophies are not pursued with the seriousness that Wittgenstein, Brouwer, and the rest brought to the matter in a time when it was thought that such philosophies might well give us formal systems that were both more congruent with the observable world and also sufficiently rich and generative to be the standard formal systems in the math world. That battle was presumably over by the time Hilbert declared no one was gonna evict his ass or our ass from Georg's transfinite paradise hotel for mathematicians (1926).

"Cantor's ideas ultimately were largely accepted, strongly supported by David Hilbert, amongst others. Hilbert predicted: "No one will drive us from the paradise which Cantor created for us" (Hilbert, 1926). To which Wittgenstein replied "if one person can see it as a paradise of mathematicians, why should not another see it as a joke?" " from http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Controversy_over_Cantor%27s_theory

> To me, this stuff is just magic (per my def. of magic here: http://www.wetasphalt.com/content/magician-priest-conjurer-lawyer-law-mysticism-magic-and-occult)

and there I think is probably Wittgenstein's biggest failing, in that he didn't take his thoughts on magic far enough. Although he rightly took Fraser to task for the Golden Bough interpretation of shamanism, I think he didn't pursue the connection between magic, the inneffable, and religious ritual to the end that I think his view of language allows.

I read your essay. Well done. And I will remember not to play you cards for money.

> As for truth tables, you're right, and provably so. Emil Post developed them in the 1920s and can't have read the Tractatus, because it was as yet unpublished and unknown in the US. I do think the semantic theory of truth embodied in his invention of truth conditions (Tractatus 4.4 and sub comments) is a significant contribution as well, but even Wittgenstein might have debated that since he later became something like a deflationist and his analysis of truth is one of the things that I think one can firmly point to as a definite example of the differences between early and later Wittgenstein. That said, I think one goes a bit awry to think that Wittgenstein's import for mathematics rests solely on his contributions to mathematical logic. I think, for example, there's no diminishing of the beauty of mathematics if one adopts his antiplatonism, and I think he makes strong arguments that a platonic theory of number, for example, has to answer. More importantly, I think he makes a strong connection between mathematical meaning and mathematical application. Which is to say, I think on a Wittgensteinian view, that the discovery that logarithms were useful in the calculus and in chemistry gave new meaning to logarithms that weren't there for the early inventors of logarithms who had no knowledge of calculus, the physics of cosmology, or scientific chemistry. They were primarily a short hand for dealing with complex calculations involving ratios. I think this analysis as finding new meaning for an old part of mathematics makes a lot more sense of the human encounter with new mathematical applications than does the platonic view that those mathematical entities already exist in the world waiting to be discovered whether people come along or not.

We talked earlier, Jason, about truth tables being obvious enough that they would have been invented (and, as you say, were) by someone else had Wittgenstein not done it. And we recognize that though it could have taken considerably longer, given its outstanding brilliance, beauty, and originality, so too would Godel's work have been done by someone else had Godel not done it. Why? Because he was dealing with pressing problems that many people were therefore working on. Even calculus, which is by no means obvious and plain jane, was simultaneously created/discovered by Newton and Leibniz. Because calculus is a tool that is very useful to solving the pressing mathematical problems of the time in which Newton and Leibniz lived. And because many people were therefore working on those problems. And because, though the formulations of calculus by Newton and Leibniz differed in significant ways, the underlying strategy of limits was the same: the notion of a limit of an infinite sequence. And why was it the same? Cuz that's basically what yu gotta do to find, say, the tangent to an equation that represents a curve. The pressing problems of the time needed calculus. It was the logical tool to develop/create. And in that sense, it was 'discovered'. We develop and create. If others, working on the same problems, end up developing and creating the same tools, it would seem that we were, instead, 'discovering'. But there's only so many ways to do certain things. Hammers were probly discovered all over the world. And some of the underlying ideas implicit therein. Just like the Pythagorean theorem was 'discovered' in many cultures (for surveying) before the notion of proof emerged. There are only so many useful moves at any point in the 'game'. In a formal system/language game, only so many states are reachable from any given state.

Is this a Platonic or a nominalist take on the matter or something else?

> In fact I think it makes things like logarithms or the number i more beautiful and even poetic in the fact that new meanings were found for them long after they were invented. I often wish he had lived a few more decades and could have seen the digital computer, because I wonder what he would have made of the work Turing/Godel/Church et. al. were doing after seeing them given the meaning that calculating machines were able to make out of them. I think he would have thought it was a wonderful thing.

> And at the same time, I think, maybe, he might argue that some of the awe that everybody who grasps things like incompleteness, transfinite numbers, and decideability problems (which, interestingly, he had no problem with. He thought that the halting problem was real and incorporated some of Turings work on algorithms into his thoughts on what mathematical meaning is) COULD be just the sort of giddiness one feels as a result of semantic paradoxes that come about through the syntactic manipulation that goes on in mathematics.

Sure, we're all idiots and can't tell profound ideas from the witless pleasures of pushing symbols around.

> ALthough clearly that's not the end of it, because the same thing happens like I said for a proof of the power rule, or an elegant proof of the pythagorean theorem, which both have a clear semantic meaning even in wittgenstein's sense of mathematical meaning. More importantly, while I'm not at all sure he's right, I think it is an interesting challenge to Set Theory to show that an infinite set should be analyzed as a rule for the unlimited extension of a series,

I don't know what that means but should add that I'm not really curious to find out. I am more interested in your essay on magic than in Wittgenstein's mathematical philosophy. I'm sure he's an interesting writer, but his mathematical philosophy looks like a dead end to me. Since about 1926.

> much the way that a calculation that presents an irrational number is a rule about how to extend of the number to N+1 places, rather than an actual infinite thing-in-itself. I'd be very curious if you knew of anything that takes up that notion, because it's always struck me as very compelling although philosophers I respect and who understand this stuff better than me (and who are otherwise sympathetic to Wittgenstein's view of mathematics, like Putnam and Fine) have remarked in passing that they think he was wrong about how he analyzed the diagonal proof.

There are a couple of ways I'm aware of to think of irrational numbers. First, of course, we define a rational number as one that can be represented as A/B where A and B are integers and B is not 0. These are ratio-nal numbers. Irrational numbers are any numbers that can't be so represented.

It's simple enough to show that root 2 is irrational. So they exist, these numbers. We can represent root 2 as the length of the hypotenuse of a right angle triangle with legs of length 1. A very 'observable' number. Observable as the length of the hypotenuse of a simple triangle.

Another way to look at irrational numbers is their decimal expansion. It's fairly easy to show that the decimal expansion of rational numbers may start out willy nilly, but eventually there's a fixed block of digits that repeats forever after. like 9.028263789789789789789... the 789 part repeats forever; that's a rational number. Any number whose decimal expansion doesn't have this property (whereby a block of digits eventually repeats forever) is an irrational number.

One way to look at the set of real numbers is like this. Start with the rational numbers. Now we make convergent sequences whose elements are rational numbers. Some of those convergent sequences will converge to rational numbers, some to irrational numbers. The set of real numbers can be thought of as the closure of the set of limits of convergent rational sequences. In other words, every irrational number can be thought of as the limit of a convergent infinite sequence of rational numbers.

Irrational numbers are those numbers, together with the rational numbers, that are required to form a linear continuum. The construction of the real number system is towards a 'number line' of points that suffer no gaps.

> What matters to me though, particularly in the realm of how all of this applies to poetry, is that I still think that semantic paradox is a useful tool of poetry that is very good at pointing to things that might otherwise not be able to be expressed by other more normal means. I think, for example, that the liar paradox is an interesting way to approach the notion of divinity, something I used in a poem I'm very proud of that tries to express something about my experience of the divine (published here if you're curious: http://www.blazevox.org/061-jfq.pdf)

"philosophy ought to be written ... only as a form of poetry." ~Wittgenstein that's how he wrote it, isn't it. i got that. though i wasn't aware of the above quote.

i don't understand how it "expresses something about my experience of the divine". what's up with that?

> . And I think that's useful in poetry, because I can't tell you what it feels like to experience the divine in the same way that I can tell you that cutting my finger while chopping onions is painful. But I can try to create that feeling through poetry, and by talking in that sort of way, using that kind of approach where meaning is both looser and also more pointed, I think poetry can express the otherwise inexpressable, and that too is a kind of magic.

It can hint at it. And be strong enough to give readers the opportunity to create their own experience. i mean you can't express the inexpressable. or it wouldn't be inexpressable. but the writing can engage people in the creation of their own related experience and understanding.

> Finally, because I think you might enjoy it as it relates to Wittgenstein's appreciation for Turing, I give you this remark from the Remarks on the Foundations of Mathematics:

> "What harm is done e.g. by saying that God knows all irrational numbers? Or: that they are already there, even though we only know certain of them? Why are these pictures not harmless?
For one thing, they hide certain problems.

> Suppose that people go on and on calculating the expansion of Ï€. So God, who knows everything, knows whether they will have reached â€˜777â€™ by the end of the world. But can his omniscience decide whether they would have reached it after the end of the world? It cannot. I want to say: Even God can determine something mathematical only by mathematics. Even for him the mere rule of expansion cannot decide anything that it does not decide for us.

> We might put it like this: if the rule for the expansion has been given us, a calculation can tell us that there is a â€˜2â€™ at the fifth place. Could God have known this, without the calculation, purely from the rule of expansion? I want to say: No."

I think there are things that God can't do. There are impossibilities. And, if they're impossible, then they're also impossible for God. Can God make a rock s/he/it can't lift? In either case, there's something God can't do.

> Cheers and thanks again for the opportunity to flex these particular muscles. They do get rusty reading law books these days...

Well, next time I'm in Seattle, we'll have to get together. And if yer up in Victoria, too.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

75. Angela Vasquez-Giroux
a somewhat silly question.
Fri 6 Aug 2010

---

dear poets --

a press has asked to view my manuscript (yipee!) but, having not been published before, i am in need of a bit of guidance.

i'm working in standard MS word. if my press generally publishes books of between 85-100 pages, how many pages of word doc does that make?

(in my MS, the poems don't share pages)

any help is greatly appreciated!

thanks,

angela

↑ Index

76. Alan Sondheim

Mt. Tremper performance (sound)

Fri 6 Aug 2010

Mt. Tremper performance (sound)

Mt. Tremper performance - Foofwa d'Imobilite dance (you can hear the footstps); Azure Carter, voice; Alan Sondheim, violin, electric-acoustic oud, cura cumbus:

http://espdisk.com/alansondheim/mttremper.mp3

(There was a lot of echo in the space, but you get the idea.)

↑ Index

77. Jeffrey Side

The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is "Portions of Conversational Assemblies" by Felino A. Soriano

Sat 7 Aug 2010

The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is "Portions of Conversational Assemblies" by Felino A. Soriano
Description:
"Portions of Conversational Assemblies" by Felino A. Soriano are ekphrastic interpretations of various jazz recordings, and part of the larger, dedicated series of poems Soriano has dedicated 2010 to composing.

Available as a free ebook here:
http://www.lulu.com/product/ebook/portions-of-conversational-assemblies/12105086

↑ Index

78. Jeffrey Side

“Entitlements: Post-Modernity, Capitalism, and the Threat to Poetry's History” by Adam Filed at The Argotist Online

Sat 7 Aug 2010

â€œEntitlements: Post-Modernity, Capitalism, and the Threat to Poetry's Historyâ€ by Adam Filed at The Argotist Online:
http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Fieled%20essay%204.htm
Excerpt:
The flimsy history created by post-modernity contrives to impose an intimidating veneer; but a lack of real engagement with history creates a sense of the ephemeral which, if not embraced, (and post-modernists do express consonance with the â€œephemeralâ€ as such) must be rejected absolutely.

Many post-modern equations are simple: â€œincorporate or perishâ€ is one. What, beyond creating an imposing veneer, constitutes post-modern â€œincorporationâ€? Nothing. Post-modernists, for whatâ€™s often an obvious reason, feel entitled to stop at the surface; the reason is that a persistent sense of entitlement inhibits and destroys human depth. Deprivation often engenders depthâ€” if you have never been deprived, it is difficult to imagine a need for depth. And if you espouse and embrace Marxist levels of material engagement, but fail to connect them to your own existence and begin to take some personal responsibility for it, you become a kind of sham factory owner. Anyone in the arts who has not inherited funds the way that you have becomes an underling. Underlings can be brushed aside; what begins as warped Marxism becomes straightforward Darwinian obduracy. Simply put, the arts arenâ€™t fair, and they never have been. What post-modernity imposes is a context in which there is not only no justice in who â€œgets in,â€ there is no justice in what they feel they are entitled to do when/if they do get in. What do they feel entitled to do, more often than not?

↑ Index

79. Adam Fieled

"Entitlements: Post-Modernity, Capitalism..."

Sat 7 Aug 2010

I have a new essay online at the Argotist now: "Entitlements: Post-Modernity, Capitalism, and the Threat to Poetry's History":

http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Fieled%20essay%204.htm

Many Thanks,
Adam Fieled [redacted]

↑ Index

80. Stephen Baraban

Spirituality in Poetry / "Cotton Song"

Sat 7 Aug 2010

Various times when there have been threads on this list that involve "spirituality" "soul" and suchlike, I have meant to ask if someone could offer a clarifying interpretation of the line "God's body's got a soul" from Jean Toomer's "Cotton Song", that wonderfully vigorous poem from _Cane_, which is not only a classic of both the Harlem Rennaisance and the Lost Generation, as wikipedia would have it, but also another stupendous 1923 prose/poetry amalgam, alsongise Williams' _Spring and All_.

The question, what in fact does it mean to declare "God's body's got a soul". For those who have a monotheistic God-concept, it's not debatable that God is Spirit, is it, whether or not one may also have a sense of God as body [as in the Charles Olson Maximus (Volume 3) poem beginning "I believe in God/as fully physical".] So what does it mean to make a full-throated proclamation that God has a Soul?

Or does "God's body" in the poem mean "the human body created by God".

The poem anyway delights and surprises me with its sense of the soul needing the body to set it in motion.

Cotton Song

Come, brother, come. Lets lift it;
come now, hewit! roll away!
Shackles fall upon the Judgment Day
But lets not wait for it.
God's body's got a soul,
Bodies like to roll the soul,
Cant blame God if we dont roll,
Come, brother, roll, roll!

Cotton bales are the fleecy way,
Weary sinner's bare feet trod,
Softly, softly to the throne of God,
"We aint agwine t wait until th Judgment Day!

Nassur; nassur,
Hump.
Eoho, eoho, roll away!
We aint agwine to wait until th Judgment Day!"

God's body's got a soul,
Bodies like to roll the soul,
Cant blame God if we dont roll,
Come, brother, roll, roll!

↑ Index

81. Stephen Baraban
The I Am NOT The Walrus school?
Sat 7 Aug 2010

Absolutely fascinating, Murat. The implication would seem to be that L=A=N=G=U=A=G=E writing contains extremely strange sequences of words because that mirrors or fits appropriately alongside all the "meaninglessness"

that's spoken or written everywhere, as per this way of thinking [Hmmm, Shelley's "Hail to thee, blithe Spirit" would be utterly meaningless, but the next line "bird thou never wirt" is at least a proposition]. Giving the reader an insight into meaninglessness via extreme meaninglessness could be a more achievable goal than the allegedly oppression-shattering liberation of people's minds by disrupting syntax that was spoken of so much, and anyway seems more in line with the "clowntown is over" ethos of Langpo.

Can you point me to any essays by lango writers in which this mimicking of nonsense is stated as a program?

> Jason, first let me respond to what you are saying. I think there is more we agree with on Wittgenstein than we disagree with. My objection to him is in the use and consequences of his rhetoric and his effect on poetry and poetics in the United States. It narrows the possibilities of poetry, particularly the way Language School applied his ideas. Let me explain what I mean:
>
> a) It is true that Wittgenstein will not deny that the subject-predicate structure is not the only way a sentence can be constructed; but he delegates every other structure to second class by calling it "meaningless," unable to be expressed as "true or false," etc. (I need to go back to the text and choose a few more words with the same rhetorical effect).

↑ Index

82. Charles Bernstein
John Wieners EPC page
Sat 7 Aug 2010

John Wieners EPC page
http://epc.buffalo.edu/authors/wieners/

Poems selected by CA Conrad Edited & designed by Jack Krick

The EPC extends its warm thanks to Bill Corbett, Penelope Creeley, Jim Dunn, Raymond Foye, Jack Kimball and James Maynard for their invaluable assistance.

↑ Index

83. michael farrell
competitions
Sat 7 Aug 2010

---

a rodeo to an apple bob - this to most poetry comps -

http://www.nycmidnight.com/2010/FFC/challenge.htm

one thing i like about many u.s. poetry comps is that they have an aesthetic context -unlike australia where the pretence is almost always the best of the best - it may be acknowledged that different judges have different tastes but the blandout conventionalism of the basic premise is rarely challenged

(wasnt going to raise this issue again but provoked by the above appearing on my facebook page with the usual suggestion that i 'like' it. i 'x'ed it, with the reason 'offensive', but perhaps shdve clicked 'misleading')

↑ Index

84. Jonathan Morse
Jonathan Morse blogs about John C. Yoo, the grammar of relative clauses, and Gertrude Stein
Sat 7 Aug 2010

---

at

http://jonathan-morse.blogspot.com/2010/08/grammar-sentenced-to-life.html

↑ Index

85. CA Conrad
John Wieners: HELLO JOHN, from 2010
Sat 7 Aug 2010

John Wieners: HELLO JOHN, from 2010

THE BRAND NEW John Wieners EPC page:
http://epc.buffalo.edu/authors/wieners/

About a year and a half ago I complained to Jack Krick that there was no Wieners EPC page, and he said, "WELL THEN DO ONE WITH ME!" Jack Krick is one of those people who has been working hard for years for the love of poetry. He's pretty amazing! And he keeps the EPC pages lively and alive, and recently enough gave us the tremendous BLACKBURN page as well. Whatever THANKS Jack is given it can't possibly be enough!

So I read EVERYTHING by Wieners to take this opportunity seriously! Interlibrary loan ordered all of his books for me over a period of a year. It was fantastic, and I LOVE the librarians of the world! THANK YOU LIBRARIANS OF THE WORLD!

And all those amazing poets in Boston for their invaluable assistance. Jim Dunn was particularly great! As he always is!

Joey Yearous-Algozin and Robbie Dewhurst took me to the Special Collections at Buffalo where we found the boradside by Judith Walker with the Wieners photo and his poem HOME DUTY. That was great, and I thank everyone at Buffalo, including James Maynard for helping us reprint it on this new EPC page.

AN AMAZING FIND -- by sheer accident -- was when I was browsing the poetry section at the gay and lesbian library in Philadelphia and came across a couple of issues of LITTLE CAESARS magazine from the 1970's, published by Dennis Cooper. One of these had a Stephen Jonas tribute with an entry stating that the introduction to his 1965 collection TRANSMUTATIONS was written by John Wieners.

The love and magic of interlibrary loan then made TRANSMUTATIONS appear, and to my delight the introduction by Wieners was actually two separate poems (the first written in 1959, the second in 1965). Neither of these poems had ever been reprinted since this slender volume of Jonas's poems with the Basil King drawings in 1965. But Jack Krick has lovingly reprinted them here.

IN THE END what we need of course is a COLLECTED JOHN WIENERS. Right? Would anyone out there possibly disagree with me over this?

THANK YOU JACK KRICK, AND EVERYONE ELSE WHO HELPED MAKE THIS POSSIBLE!

LONG LIVE THE POETRY OF JOHN WIENERS! AND I ENCOURAGE YOU ALL TO UTILIZE INTERLIBRARY LOAN UNTIL A FULL COLLECTION IS AVAILABLE!

CAConrad

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

86. Rob McLennan
The Peter F. Yacht Club: a miscellany,
Sun 8 Aug 2010

---

a note on The Peter F. Yacht Club;

http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/2010/08/peter-f-yacht-club-miscellany.html

rob

-- writer/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...poetry - wild horses (U of Alberta) ...2nd novel - missing persons www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

87. Gary Sullivan
Original poetry comics, make me an offer!
Sun 8 Aug 2010

I've been selling the original art of the poetry comics I've drawn for Rain Taxi since 1997 at:

http://newlife.blogspot.com

If you see something that does not have a red "SOLD" in the description, it's still available. If you can't afford what I'm asking, make me an offer!

garypsullivan [at] gmail [dot] com

Thanks,

Gary

↑ Index

88. Nicholas Karavatos
...at Last Word Books in Olympa, WA on Thursday at 5:30pm...
Mon 9 Aug 2010

Intermedia Spoken Word with NICHOLAS KARAVATOS & JEFF KELLEY in Olympia, WA

Thursday · 5:30pm - 6:30pm

Last Word Books
211 4th Avenue East
Olympia, WA

Poet Nicholas Karavatos and electronic guitarist Jeff Kelley will be performing in spontaneous collaboration on the Last Word Books stage at 5:30pm on Thursday, August 12th.

In this inter-media spoken word performance celebrating the publication of No Asylum, musician Jeff Kelley processes his pitched signals layering sound upon sounds in conversation with poet Nicholas Karavatos reciting his poems.

NICHOLAS KARAVATOS is include…d in the anthology Punk Rock Saved My Ass (Ukiah: Medusa's Muse, 2010) and the latest issue of West Wind Review (Ashland: University of Southern Oregon, 2010). In December 2009, Amendment Nine (Arcata) published his first book No Asylum http://www.amazon.com/dp/0984280006/ref=cm_sw_su_dp

David Meltzer writes: "Nicholas Karavatos is a poet of great range and clarity. This book is an amazing collectanea of smart sharp political poetry in tandem with astute and tender love lyrics. All of it voiced with an impressive singularity."

NICHOLAS KARAVATOS lives near Dubai, teaching literature and writing at the American University of Sharjah in the United Arab Emirates. He has been an Assistant Professor there since 2006. From 2001 he had taught general studies at a small private college in Muscat, Sultanate of Oman.

NICHOLAS KARAVATOS is a graduate of Humboldt State University where he earned his B.A. in English with a minor in Art History (1986), and of New College of California where he earned an M.F.A. in Poetics (1999).

Audio Links:

http://www.archive.org/details/NicholasKaravatos-2009December2-ArcataTheaterLoungeCalifornia http://www.archive.org/details/NicholasKaravatos1992September20NorthCountryFairArcataPlaza http://www.archive.org/details/NicholasKaravatos-200818-AccidentGalleryInEurekaCa http://nicholaskaravatos.tumblr.com/

Info Links:

http://www.lastwordbooks.org/
http://www.facebook.com/pages/Nicholas-Karavatos/253191112780
http://nicholaskaravatos.blogspot.com/

NO ASYLUM is available from these independent booksellers:

Arcata, CA – Northtown Books
La Jolla, CA – D.G. Wills Books
Portland, OR – Powell's Books
Salem, OR – Tigress Books
San Francisco, CA – Bird & Beckett

San Francisco, CA – Books & Bookshelves
Venice, CA – Beyond Baroque

↑ Index

89. Nicholas Karavatos

...at SoulFood Books in Redmond, WA on Wednesday at 7:00pm...

Mon 9 Aug 2010

Intermedia Spoken Word with NICHOLAS KARAVATOS & JEFF KELLEY in Redmond, WA

Wednesday · 7:00pm - 8:00pm

SoulFood Books
15748 Redmond Way
Redmond, WA

Poet Nicholas Karavatos and electronic guitarist Jeff Kelley will be performing in spontaneous collaboration on the SoulFood Books stage at 7:00pm on Wednesday, August 11th.

In this inter-media spoken word performance celebrating the publication of No Asylum, musician Jeff Kelley processes his pitched signals layering sound upon sounds in conversation with poet Nicholas Karavatos reciting his poems.

NICHOLAS KARAVATOS is include...d in the anthology Punk Rock Saved My Ass (Ukiah: Medusa’s Muse, 2010) and the latest issue of West Wind Review (Ashland: University of Southern Oregon, 2010). In December 2009, Amendment Nine (Arcata) published his first book No Asylum http://www.amazon.com/dp/0984280006/ref=cm_sw_su_dp

David Meltzer writes: "Nicholas Karavatos is a poet of great range and clarity. This book is an amazing collectanea of smart sharp political poetry in tandem with astute and tender love lyrics. All of it voiced with an impressive singularity."

NICHOLAS KARAVATOS lives near Dubai, teaching literature and writing at the American University of Sharjah in the United Arab Emirates. He has been an Assistant Professor there since 2006. From 2001 he had taught general studies at a small private college in Muscat, Sultanate of Oman.

NICHOLAS KARAVATOS is a graduate of Humboldt State University where he earned his B.A. in English with a minor in Art History (1986), and of New College of California where he earned an M.F.A. in Poetics (1999).

Audio Links:

http://www.archive.org/details/NicholasKaravatos-2009December2-ArcataTheaterLoungeCalifornia http://www.archive.org/details/NicholasKaravatos1992September20NorthCountryFairArcataPlaza http://www.archive.org/details/NicholasKaravatos-200818-AccidentGalleryInEurekaCa http://nicholaskaravatos.tumblr.com/

Info Links:

http://www.lastwordbooks.org/
http://www.facebook.com/pages/Nicholas-Karavatos/253191112780
http://nicholaskaravatos.blogspot.com/

NO ASYLUM is available from these independent booksellers:

Arcata, CA – Northtown Books
La Jolla, CA – D.G. Wills Books
Portland, OR – Powell's Books
Salem, OR – Tigress Books
San Francisco, CA – Bird & Beckett
San Francisco, CA – Books & Bookshelves
Venice, CA – Beyond Baroque

↑ Index

90. Maria Damon
Re: John Wieners: HELLO JOHN, from 2010
Mon 9 Aug 2010

Thank you so much, Conrad. Wieners is one of my guiding lights.

CA Conrad wrote:
> John Wieners: HELLO JOHN, from 2010
>
> THE BRAND NEW John Wieners EPC page:
http://epc.buffalo.edu/authors/wieners/
>
> About a year and a half ago I complained to Jack Krick that there was > no Wieners EPC page, and he said, "WELL THEN DO ONE WITH ME!" Jack > Krick is one of those people who has been working hard for years for > the love of poetry. He's pretty amazing! And he keeps the EPC pages > lively and alive, and recently enough gave us the tremendous BLACKBURN > page as well. Whatever THANKS Jack is given it can't possibly be > enough!
>
> So I read EVERYTHING by Wieners to take this opportunity seriously!
> Interlibrary loan ordered all of his books for me over a period of a > year. It was fantastic, and I LOVE the librarians of the world!

> THANK YOU LIBRARIANS OF THE WORLD!
>
> And all those amazing poets in Boston for their invaluable assistance.
> Jim Dunn was particularly great! As he always is!
>
> Joey Yearous-Algozin and Robbie Dewhurst took me to the Special > Collections at Buffalo where we found the boradside by Judith Walker > with the Wieners photo and his poem HOME DUTY. That was great, and I > thank everyone at Buffalo, including James Maynard for helping us > reprint it on this new EPC page.
>
> AN AMAZING FIND -- by sheer accident -- was when I was browsing the > poetry section at the gay and lesbian library in Philadelphia and came > across a couple of issues of LITTLE CAESARS magazine from the 1970's, > published by Dennis Cooper. One of these had a Stephen Jonas tribute > with an entry stating that the introduction to his 1965 collection > TRANSMUTATIONS was written by John Wieners.
>
> The love and magic of interlibrary loan then made TRANSMUTATIONS > appear, and to my delight the introduction by Wieners was actually two > separate poems (the first written in 1959, the second in 1965).
> Neither of these poems had ever been reprinted since this slender > volume of Jonas's poems with the Basil King drawings in 1965. But > Jack Krick has lovingly reprinted them here.
>
> IN THE END what we need of course is a COLLECTED JOHN WIENERS.
Right?
> Would anyone out there possibly disagree with me over this?
>
> THANK YOU JACK KRICK, AND EVERYONE ELSE WHO HELPED MAKE THIS POSSIBLE!
>
> LONG LIVE THE POETRY OF JOHN WIENERS! AND I ENCOURAGE YOU
ALL TO > UTILIZE INTERLIBRARY LOAN UNTIL A FULL COLLECTION IS AVAILABLE!
>
> CAConrad
>
>

↑ Index

91. George Bowering
Re: Boasting rights
Mon 9 Aug 2010

Why are you telling us this?

gb

On Aug 6, 2010, at 7:51 AM, Mark Weiss wrote:

> Check out Chris Andrews' review in the July 30 TLS of my anthology The Whole Island: Six Decades of Cuban Poetry. In a word, he calls it "magnificent."
>
> Best,
>
> Mark
>
> New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
> $16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm
>
> "What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the poet alive in every sense of the word, and through every one of his senses. Instead of missing a beat or a part, Weiss' fragments are like Chekhov's short stories the more that gets left out, the more they seem to contain… One can hear echoes from all the various ancestors...[but] the voice, at its center, its core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment is both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure musical threnody...[it] opens a window, not only into a mind, but a person, a personality, this human figure at the emotional center of the poem."
>
> M.G. Stephens, in Jacket. http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml
>
> welcome.html

George Bowering

. . . or liver and onions

↑ Index

92. George Bowering
Re: competitions
Mon 9 Aug 2010

The ad for a competition that you have included says
"there are a total"

Are we to take it that entrants have to try to achieve that level of English usage?

gb

On Aug 7, 2010, at 4:27 PM, michael farrell wrote:

> a rodeo to an apple bob - this to most poetry comps -
>
> http://www.nycmidnight.com/2010/FFC/challenge.htm
>
> one thing i like about many u.s. poetry comps is that they have an aesthetic context -unlike australia where the pretence is almost always the best of the best - it may be acknowledged that different judges have different tastes but the blandout conventionalism of the basic premise is rarely challenged
>
> (wasnt going to raise this issue again but provoked by the above appearing on my facebook page with the usual suggestion that i 'like' it. i 'x'ed it, with the reason 'offensive', but perhaps shdve clicked 'misleading')
>
> welcome.html

George Bowering

Hiyo, Aluminum, away!

↑ Index

93. Mark Weiss
Re: Boasting rights
Mon 9 Aug 2010

Advertizing.

At 03:19 PM 8/9/2010, you wrote:
>Why are you telling us this?
>
>gb
>

>
>On Aug 6, 2010, at 7:51 AM, Mark Weiss wrote:
>
>>Check out Chris Andrews' review in the July 30 TLS of my anthology
>>The Whole Island: Six Decades of Cuban Poetry. In a word, he calls >>it "magnificent."
>>
>>Best,
>>
>>Mark
>>
>>
>>
>>New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
>>$16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm
>>
>>
>>"What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation >>of particulars. Here is the poet alive in every sense of the word, >>and through every one of his senses. Instead of missing a beat or a >>part, Weiss’ fragments are like Chekhov’s short stories the more >>that gets left out, the more they seem to contain… One can hear >>echoes from all the various ancestors...[but] the voice, at its >>center, its core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment is >>both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure musical threnody…[it] >>opens a window, not only into a mind, but a person, a personality, >>this human figure at the emotional center of the poem."
>>
>>M.G. Stephens, in Jacket.
>>http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb- stephens.shtml
>>
>
>George Bowering
>
>. . . or liver and onions
>
>

New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
$16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm

"What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the

poet alive in every sense of the word, and through every one of his senses. Instead of missing a beat or a part, Weiss' fragments are
like Chekhov's short storiesthe more that gets
left out, the more they seem to contain… One can
hear echoes from all the various
ancestors...[but] the voice, at its center, its
core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment
is both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure
musical threnody…[it] opens a window, not only
into a mind, but a person, a personality, this
human figure at the emotional center of the poem."

M.G. Stephens, in Jacket.
http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml

↑ Index

94. Angela Vasquez-Giroux
Re: competitions
Mon 9 Aug 2010

maybe my brain is on hiatus already, but for the life of me, I can't figure out what's wrong with "there are a total".

On Mon, Aug 9, 2010 at 3:24 PM, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

> The ad for a competition that you have included says
> "there are a total"
>
> Are we to take it that entrants have to try to achieve that level of > English usage?
>
> gb
>
> On Aug 7, 2010, at 4:27 PM, michael farrell wrote:
>
> a rodeo to an apple bob - this to most poetry comps -
>
> http://www.nycmidnight.com/2010/FFC/challenge.htm
>
> one thing i like about many u.s. poetry comps is that they have an > aesthetic context -unlike australia where the pretence is almost always the > best of the best - it may be acknowledged that different judges have > different tastes but the blandout conventionalism of the basic premise is > rarely challenged

>
> (wasnt going to raise this issue again but provoked by the above appearing on my facebook page with the usual suggestion that i 'like' it. i 'x'ed it, with the reason 'offensive', but perhaps shdve clicked 'misleading')
>
> George Bowering
>
> Hiyo, Aluminum, away!

↑ Index

95. Tenney Nathanson
Re: John Wieners: HELLO JOHN, from 2010
Mon 9 Aug 2010

—

↑ Index

96. Hugh Behm-Steinberg Announcing issue nine of Eleven Eleven
Mon 9 Aug 2010

Announcing the release of Issue #9, our summer print issue of Eleven Eleven, a journal of literature and art published by the graduate writing program at California College of the Arts.

Featuring brilliant poetry by Rae Armentrout, Elizabeth Bachinsky, Diego BÃ¡ez, Ching-in Chen, Amanda Chiado, Patrick Culliton, Barbara Cully, Ariel Dorfman, Denise Duhamel, Craig Foltz, Sarah Fox, Molly Gaudry, Susanne Gardinier, Samantha Giles, Gabe Gomez, Noah Eli Gordon, K. Lorraine Graham, ali lanzetta, Clarence Major, Natasha Marin, Catherine Meng, Toni Mirosevich, ErÃn Moure, Sachiko Murakami, Alexis Orgera, Danielle Pafunda, Melissa M. Parks, Elizabeth Robinson, Fred Schmalz, Heidi Lynn Staples, Jordan Stempleman, Bronwen Tate, Laura Ulewicz, Afaa M. Weaver, Joshua Marie Wilkinson, Jordan Windholz and Sarah Fran Wisby;

Dazzling prose by Preston Allen, Amelia Beamer, Sean Bernard, Elizabeth Bernstein, Aurora Brackett, J Morris, Manuel MuÃ±oz, Alissa Nutting, Hilton Obenzinger, Loren Rhoads, and Julie Wittes Schlack;

Wonderful translations of work by Georges-Olivier ChÃ¢teaureynaud (Edward Gauvin), Maria Negroni (Michelle Gil-Montero) and Bernard NoÃ«l (EleÌna Rivera);

Provocative drama by Bennett Fisher and L. Robert Griffin; and Banging art by Bradley Castellanos, Phillip Dvorak, CÃ©line Fernbach, Daniel Gordon, Karna Kurata, Wayne Levin, Polixeni Papapetrou, Romain Philippon, Leah Raintree, Sage Sohier and Lars TunbjÃ¶rk.

Plus reviews of Sum of Every Lost Ship by Allison Titus and Model Home by Eric Puchner!
All this and only $10! Just go to http://www.spdbooks.org/Producte/1548243910/eleven-eleven-vol-9-2010.aspx

Subscriptions? Four years, just $30! Make checks out to California College of the Arts, Attn: Eleven Eleven.

What's more, we're currently reading for issue 10, our winter online issue.

Send writing and/or checks to:

Eleven Eleven
California College of the Arts 1111 Eighth St.
San Francisco, CA 94107

↑ Index

97. Cate Marvin

VIDA: Women in Literary Arts -- One Year Later: PLEASE READ!

Mon 9 Aug 2010

---- Forwarded Message ----
From: Cate Marvin <[redacted]>
To: Cate Marvin <[redacted]>
Sent: Sun, August 8, 2010 2:00:11 PM
Subject: VIDA: Women in Literary Arts -- One Year Later: PLEASE READ!

Dear Friend,

Itâ€™s quite strange to realize it was only a year ago I sat hunkered down in my sweaty apartment writing an email that seemed to blast right out of my head.

If you received this missive, youâ€™ll know Iâ€™d spent the evening folding a LOT of laundry â€“ an endless chore made worse by the fact I was not only folding my laundry, but also that of my 8 month old daughter (any parent will attest that the act of sorting a mountain of brightly patterned shirts, socks and pajamas is in itself a certain hell). After projecting myself into the mindset of the narrator of Tillie Olsenâ€™s seminal short story â€œI Stand Here Ironing,â€ I allowed myself a couple glasses of wine. This, I believe, was a key factor in my committing the most grievous of email sins.

For not only did I send my email to numerous peopleâ€” worse, I concluded my missive with a most lamentable statement: â€œFeel free to forward this to anyone and everyone you think might be interested.â€

This email, titled: â€œAs I Stood Folding Laundry: Womenâ€™s Writing Now,â€ was spurred by my disgruntlement over the fact an AWP proposal Iâ€™d submitted--addressing a rhetorical means of dissent in contemporary American womenâ€™s poetry--had been rejected. In my email I worried aloud about whether this panel had been dismissed because of its distinctly feminist overtones, while also noting certain trends Iâ€™d observed in the literary world: specifically how male literary achievements are so often deemed more important than those of women with regard to publication, criticism, reviews, awards, etc.

While this disparity had long seemed obvious to me, Iâ€™d never before had the nerve to speak to it openly.

My email went on to describe my fantasy of creating an association that would serve to unite women writers, across genres, aesthetics, ethnicities and generations. Indeed, in the simple act of conceiving such an organizationâ€™s potential, I got so fired up that evening it seemed to me perfectly reasonable that I send my thoughts to every female writer I knew.

The following morning my in-box was full.

In less than twelve hours, Iâ€™d already received numerous repliesâ€”some from female poets I considered so awe-inspiringly important I was stunned to see their names appear on my computerâ€™s screen; others from women writers Iâ€™d never met, who wrote compelling accounts of their own frustrations, each one expressing a desire to create a national forum for the very issues my email had addressed.

I was awed by the response. But I was also afraid. Because I recognized that Iâ€™d unwittingly taken on a responsibility to remain true to all that Iâ€™d written only the night before. I realized I would not only need to acknowledge the immediate support with which my proposal had been received, but that I must also embrace it. I discovered that it was due to the poet Erin Belieuâ€™s initiative that my email reached the astonishing number of people it did. It was she who sent my email to some forty established female poets, who then sent it on to the female writers they knew. It was due to Erinâ€™s initial enthusiasm that my email went, as they say, viral, ending up on blogs, listservs and in newspapers throughout the country

So it only seemed fair to turn to the culprit who had so thoroughly disseminated my thoughts. I didnâ€™t in fact know Erin Belieu well personally, but I knew she had a reputation for gumption and guts, something this fantasy organization was going to need to get off the ground.

One short phone call later and I now had a co-director. It was that day that Erin and I co-founded the organization that began as WILLA, and has now transformed into a different name--VIDA: Women in Literary Arts.

[To create a more distinct identity and preempt possible legal issues, WILLA â€¨is now VIDA. We are confident that we've already begun to grow into our new â€¨name and feel that "VIDA" better reflects the vitality of our organization.]

So I write to you a year later from a poorly air-conditioned room while suffering the advances of a particularly persistent mosquito. I still have laundry that needs sorting. However, I can say that my life as a female writer been not only been invigorated, but deeply altered, in the best sense of the word, by the email I almost regretted sending a year ago.

VIDAâ€™s had a great first year. A few of many highlights include our mention in the New York Times for calling outPublisherâ€™s Weekly â€œTop Ten Best Books of 2009,â€ and their egregiously â€œfemale-freeâ€ list. VIDA also hosted a number of readings and conversations, including our AWP Evening of Burlesque, Roller Derby And Literature, which turned out to be just as thought provoking and fun as weâ€™d wanted our debut to be. Weâ€™ve recently been asked by AWP to be a sponsor of next yearâ€™s conference in Washington DC and are busily scheming to make our follow up just as memorable.

There are many more things under way for VIDA this year: we have a spiffy new website and blog (www.vidaweb.org) with articles and features youâ€™ll want to check out as well as a new Facebook page where you can find out about VIDA events and join the thousands of people there whoâ€™ve entered into our conversation. Weâ€™re also moving along in planning a national conference for those who want to support and know more about literature written by women. Itâ€™s heavy-lifting, but weâ€™re devoted to making this enormous and financially complicated project happen. More information will be coming about this soon.

Thank you for reading this. I hope that you will once again: â€œFeel free to forward this to anyone and everyone you think might be interested.â€

Your friend,

Cate
--
Cate Marvin, Associate Professor
Department of English
College of Staten Island, CUNY

Co-Director, VIDA: Women in Literary Arts

catemarvin.com

vidaweb.org

****
Poetry, Publishing, Women & the Internet
+ http://amyking.wordpress.com/2010/07/12/your-own-revolution-poetry-publishing-the-internet/

Poets for Living Waters
+ http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/
****

↑ Index

98. michael farrell
Re: competitions
Mon 9 Aug 2010

rodeo vernacular?

> Date: Mon, 9 Aug 2010 12:24:01 -0700
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: competitions
> To: [redacted]
>
> The ad for a competition that you have included says
> "there are a total"
>
> Are we to take it that entrants have to try to achieve that level of > English usage?
>
> gb
>
> On Aug 7, 2010, at 4:27 PM, michael farrell wrote:

> a rodeo to an apple bob - this to most poetry comps -
>
> http://www.nycmidnight.com/2010/FFC/challenge.htm
>
> one thing i like about many u.s. poetry comps is that they have an aesthetic context -unlike australia where the pretence is almost always the best of the best - it may be acknowledged that different judges have different tastes but the blandout conventionalism of the basic premise is rarely challenged
>
> (wasnt going to raise this issue again but provoked by the above appearing on my facebook page with the usual suggestion that i 'like' it. i 'x'ed it, with the reason 'offensive', but perhaps shdve clicked 'misleading')
>
> welcome.html
>
> George Bowering
>
> Hiyo, Aluminum, away!

↑ Index

99. David Seaman

Re: competitions

Mon 9 Aug 2010

While those of us in the grammar police (either official or clandestine) like to disparage any errors, we must also recognize that usage is flexible and evolving, It may be that there are myriad ways to express things, with a whole range of "levels of usage." Let's live with it and enjoy it.

David ï»¿

David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html

Follow my Twitter poetry at dseaman40

YouTube video of my Venice Biennale poem:
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JQ5bOuJBN_k

On 09 Aug, 2010,at 03:24 PM, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

> The ad for a competition that you have included says
> "there are a total"
>
> Are we to take it that entrants have to try to achieve that level of > English usage?
>
> gb
>
> On Aug 7, 2010, at 4:27 PM, michael farrell wrote:
>
> a rodeo to an apple bob - this to most poetry comps -
>
> http://www.nycmidnight.com/2010/FFC/challenge.htm
>
> one thing i like about many u.s. poetry comps is that they have an > aesthetic context -unlike australia where the pretence is almost > always the best of the best - it may be acknowledged that different > judges have different tastes but the blandout conventionalism of > the basic premise is rarely challenged
>
> (wasnt going to raise this issue again but provoked by the above > appearing on my facebook page with the usual suggestion that i
> 'like' it. i 'x'ed it, with the reason 'offensive', but perhaps > shdve clicked 'misleading')
>
> welcome.html
>
> George Bowering
>
> Hiyo, Aluminum, away!

↑ Index

100. David Seaman

Re: a somewhat silly question.

Mon 9 Aug 2010

Congratulations, first of all!

Formats can vary a l
Dear Angela,

Congratulations, first of all!

Formats can vary a lot, but your idea of a poem to a page sounds like a good standard. Hence, 85 poems?

Davidï»¿

David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html

Follow my Twitter poetry at dseaman40

YouTube video of my Venice Biennale poem:
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JQ5bOuJBN_k

On 06 Aug, 2010,at 04:40 PM, Angela Vasquez-Giroux <[redacted]> wrote:

> dear poets --
>
> a press has asked to view my manuscript (yipee!) but, having not been published before, i am in need of a bit of guidance.
>
> i'm working in standard MS word. if my press generally publishes books of between 85-100 pages, how many pages of word doc does that make?
>
> (in my MS, the poems don't share pages)
>
> any help is greatly appreciated!
>
> thanks,
>
> angela

↑ Index

101. amy king
Re: competitions
Mon 9 Aug 2010

Hear, hear! Or at least relax a bit and channel that energy towards something actually worth combatting...

****
Poetry, Publishing, Women & the Internet
+ http://amyking.wordpress.com/2010/07/12/your-own-revolution-poetry-publishing-the-internet/

Poets for Living Waters
+ http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/
****

----- Original Message ----
From: David Seaman <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Mon, August 9, 2010 10:30:19 PM
Subject: Re: competitions

While those of us in the grammar police (either official or clandestine) like to disparage any errors, we must also recognize that usage is flexible and evolving, It may be that there are myriad ways to express things, with a whole range of "levels of usage." Let's live with it and enjoy it.

David ï»¿

David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html

Follow my Twitter poetry at dseaman40

YouTube video of my Venice Biennale poem:
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JQ5bOuJBN_k

On 09 Aug, 2010,at 03:24 PM, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

> The ad for a competition that you have included says
> "there are a total"
>
> Are we to take it that entrants have to try to achieve that level of > English usage?
>
> gb
>
> On Aug 7, 2010, at 4:27 PM, michael farrell wrote:
>
> a rodeo to an apple bob - this to most poetry comps -
>
> http://www.nycmidnight.com/2010/FFC/challenge.htm
>
> one thing i like about many u.s. poetry comps is that they have an > aesthetic context -unlike australia where the pretence is almost > always the best of the best - it may be acknowledged that different > judges have different tastes but the blandout conventionalism of > the basic premise is rarely challenged
>
> (wasnt going to raise this issue again but provoked by the above
> appearing on my facebook page with the usual suggestion that i
> 'like' it. i 'x'ed it, with the reason 'offensive', but perhaps > shdve clicked 'misleading')

> welcome.html
>
> George Bowering
>
> Hiyo, Aluminum, away!

↑ Index

102. Jared Schickling
Re: "Entitlements: Post-Modernity, Capitalism, and the Threat to Poetry's > History" by Adam Fieled
Tue 10 Aug 2010

Adam Fieled,

Your love affair with categories and search for edifying "upward" feelings lead you to say some truly stupid things in your essay.

Post-modernity's "lack of real engagement with history" etc.

I find it interesting how well you resist or miss what the poetic interest in Marxist theory has been.

Written like a true capitalist.

Don't be jealous.

Cheers.

↑ Index

103. George Bowering
Re: competitions
Tue 10 Aug 2010

I guess that there is so much relaxing going on that I don't have to contribute to it.

gb

On Aug 9, 2010, at 8:24 PM, amy king wrote:

> Hear, hear! Or at least relax a bit and channel that energy > towards something > actually worth combatting...

****
Poetry, Publishing, Women & the Internet
+ http://amyking.wordpress.com/2010/07/12/your-own-revolution-poetry-publishing-the-internet/

Poets for Living Waters
+ http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/
****

----- Original Message -----
From: David Seaman <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Mon, August 9, 2010 10:30:19 PM
Subject: Re: competitions

While those of us in the grammar police (either official or clandestine) like to disparage any errors, we must also recognize that usage is flexible and evolving, It may be that there are myriad ways to express things, with a whole range of "levels of usage." Let's live with it and enjoy it.

David ï»¿

David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html

Follow my Twitter poetry at dseaman40

YouTube video of my Venice Biennale poem:
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JQ5bOuJBN_k

On 09 Aug, 2010,at 03:24 PM, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

The ad for a competition that you have included says
"there are a total"

Are we to take it that entrants have to try to achieve that level of English usage?

> gb
>
> On Aug 7, 2010, at 4:27 PM, michael farrell wrote:
>
> a rodeo to an apple bob - this to most poetry comps -
>
> http://www.nycmidnight.com/2010/FFC/challenge.htm
>
> one thing i like about many u.s. poetry comps is that they have an aesthetic context -unlike australia where the pretence is almost always the best of the best - it may be acknowledged that different judges have different tastes but the blandout conventionalism of the basic premise is rarely challenged
>
> (wasnt going to raise this issue again but provoked by the above appearing on my facebook page with the usual suggestion that i 'like' it. i 'x'ed it, with the reason 'offensive', but perhaps shdve clicked 'misleading')
>
> welcome.html
>
> George Bowering
>
> Hiyo, Aluminum, away!
>
> guidelines &
>
> guidelines &
>
> welcome.html

George Bowering

A ne'er-do-well who loves you

↑ Index

104. George Bowering
Re: competitions
Tue 10 Aug 2010

On Aug 9, 2010, at 11:58 PM, George Bowering wrote:

> Okay.
> "are" is a plural verb.
> "a total" is singular.
> You're supposed to put a singular with a singular.
> For example: "There is a total"
> Or "there is a building."
> Then you put a plural with a plural.
> For example: "there are totals"
> Or "there are buildings."
>
> g
>
> On Aug 9, 2010, at 12:46 PM, Angela Vasquez-Giroux wrote:
>
> maybe my brain is on hiatus already, but for the life of me, I can't figure > out what's wrong with "there are a total".
>
> On Mon, Aug 9, 2010 at 3:24 PM, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> The ad for a competition that you have included says
> "there are a total"
>
> Are we to take it that entrants have to try to achieve that level of English usage?
>
> gb
>
> On Aug 7, 2010, at 4:27 PM, michael farrell wrote:
>
> a rodeo to an apple bob - this to most poetry comps -
>
> http://www.nycmidnight.com/2010/FFC/challenge.htm
>
> one thing i like about many u.s. poetry comps is that they have an aesthetic context -unlike australia where the pretence is almost always the

> best of the best - it may be acknowledged that different judges have > different tastes but the blandout conventionalism of the basic premise is > rarely challenged
>
> (wasnt going to raise this issue again but provoked by the above appearing > on my facebook page with the usual suggestion that i 'like' it.
> i 'x'ed it,
> with the reason 'offensive', but perhaps shdve clicked
> 'misleading')
>
> welcome.html
>
> George Bowering
>
> Hiyo, Aluminum, away!
>
> guidelines
>
> welcome.html
>
> George Bowering
>
> <Dragons.jpeg>

George Bowering

. . . or liver and onions

↑ Index

105. Obododimma Oha
Vehicle Nicknames as Public Discourse
Tue 10 Aug 2010

"A talking public is very useful to business, and the Nigerian vehicle nickname geniuses are doing a good job in semiotically reinventing the vehicles for the overflooded Nigerian automobile market."

Read full text of "Vehicles Nicknames as Public Discourse<http://234next.com/csp/cms/sites/Next/Opinion/5604760-182/story.csp>"
at:

http://234next.com/csp/cms/sites/Next/Opinion/5604760-182/story.csp

--
Obododimma Oha
http://udude.wordpress.com/

Dept. of English
University of Ibadan
Nigeria

&

Fellow, Centre for Peace & Conflict Studies
University of Ibadan

Phone: [redacted];
[redacted];
[redacted].

↑ Index

106. michael farrell
new cordite
Tue 10 Aug 2010

---

cordite #33: creative commons

http://www.cordite.org.au/

↑ Index

107. Gary Sullivan
URL for original poetry comics art
Tue 10 Aug 2010

Sent the wrong URL before, sorry. It's at:

http://newlifecomic.blogspot.com

↑ Index

108. Jeffrey Side

The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is “Doom Cusp” by David Meltzer

Tue 10 Aug 2010

The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is â€œDoom Cuspâ€ by David Meltzer
Description:
"Doom Cusp" by David Meltzer is dedicated to the California artist Wallace Berman who was one of Meltzer's mentors when he became exiled there from Brooklyn. Berman's use of the Hebrew alphabet and especially the Aleph in his collages, reminded Meltzer of the presences of the Holocaust and seemed relevant today in the midst of another series of Holy Wars and their ultimate futility.

Available as a free ebook here:
http://www.lulu.com/product/ebook/doom-cusp/12186424

↑ Index

109. Angela Vasquez-Giroux

Re: a somewhat silly question.

Tue 10 Aug 2010

Thanks, David! The whole process is both overwhelming and exhilarating -- all to have the chance to get the book out. It's a good problem to have, and your advice is making it more manageable!

On Mon, Aug 9, 2010 at 10:37 PM, David Seaman <[redacted]> wrote:

> Congratulations, first of all!
>
> Formats can vary a l
> Dear Angela,
>
> Congratulations, first of all!
>
> Formats can vary a lot, but your idea of a poem to a page sounds like a good standard. Hence, 85 poems?
>
> Davidï»¿
>
> David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
> http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html

> Follow my Twitter poetry at dseaman40
>
> YouTube video of my Venice Biennale poem:
> http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JQ5bOuJBN_k
>
> On 06 Aug, 2010,at 04:40 PM, Angela Vasquez-Giroux <
> [redacted]> wrote:
>
> dear poets --
>
> a press has asked to view my manuscript (yipee!) but, having not been published before, i am in need of a bit of guidance.
>
> i'm working in standard MS word. if my press generally publishes books of between 85-100 pages, how many pages of word doc does that make?
>
> (in my MS, the poems don't share pages)
>
> any help is greatly appreciated!
>
> thanks,
>
> angela

↑ Index

110. Daniel Zimmerman

Re: competitions

Tue 10 Aug 2010

David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html
writes:
"While those of us in the grammar police (either official or clandestine) like to disparage any errors, we must also recognize that usage is flexible and evolving, It may be that there are myriad ways to express things, with a whole range of 'levels of usage.' Let's live with it and enjoy it."

.....

Ummm . . . :

"a total" ("a"=singular)
"is" (singular)
"This place is a total wreck."

"totals" (plural)
"are" (plural)
"Several totals are required to ensure accuracy."

The newest proposal for national educational standards in the U. S. recommends teaching grammatical agreement in grade three (the first grammatical principle mentioned in that set of standards). Many of my students in college composition seem unable to distinguish between one and more than one. Perhaps only a tiny neurological window exists for hard-wiring agreement, but given recent work in brain plasticity, I doubt it--though a fourteen-week semester usually proves insufficient for rehab. As Yale grad G. W. Bush wondered, "Is our children learning?" Good enough? Enjoy that?

~ Dan Zimmerman, Ph.D.
[redacted]

----- Original Message -----
From: "Angela Vasquez-Giroux" <[redacted]>
To: <[redacted]>
Sent: Monday, August 09, 2010 3:46 PM
Subject: Re: competitions

> maybe my brain is on hiatus already, but for the life of me, I can't figure > out what's wrong with "there are a total".
>
> On Mon, Aug 9, 2010 at 3:24 PM, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> The ad for a competition that you have included says
> "there are a total"
>
> Are we to take it that entrants have to try to achieve that level of > English usage?
>
> gb

> On Aug 7, 2010, at 4:27 PM, michael farrell wrote:
>
> a rodeo to an apple bob - this to most poetry comps -
>
> http://www.nycmidnight.com/2010/FFC/challenge.htm
>
> one thing i like about many u.s. poetry comps is that they have an aesthetic context -unlike australia where the pretence is almost always the best of the best - it may be acknowledged that different judges have different tastes but the blandout conventionalism of the basic premise is rarely challenged
>
> (wasnt going to raise this issue again but provoked by the above appearing on my facebook page with the usual suggestion that i 'like' it. i 'x'ed it, with the reason 'offensive', but perhaps shdve clicked 'misleading')
>
> George Bowering
>
> Hiyo, Aluminum, away!
>
> guidelines

↑ Index

111. CA Conrad

Re: John Wieners: HELLO JOHN, from 2010

Tue 10 Aug 2010

Maria, Tenney, and everyone else, thanks.

Great news is that there is a COLLECTED WIENERS in the works!

How exciting is THAT????

But until then I strongly suggest interlibrary loan is the way to go, unless you can actually afford the prices the thieves trying to cash in on the Wieners legacy by jacking up his out of print stock.

It's a great day knowing Wieners will be BACK IN PRINT!
Conrad

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

112. Mark Weiss
Re: competitions
Tue 10 Aug 2010

Total is singular. "There are ten books," but "there is a total of ten books."

At 03:46 PM 8/9/2010, you wrote:
>maybe my brain is on hiatus already, but for the life of me, I can't figure >out what's wrong with "there are a total".
>
>On Mon, Aug 9, 2010 at 3:24 PM, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> > The ad for a competition that you have included says
> > "there are a total"
> >
> > Are we to take it that entrants have to try to achieve that level of > > English usage?
> >
> > gb
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > On Aug 7, 2010, at 4:27 PM, michael farrell wrote:
> >
> > a rodeo to an apple bob - this to most poetry comps -
> >>
> >> http://www.nycmidnight.com/2010/FFC/challenge.htm
> >>
> >> one thing i like about many u.s. poetry comps is that they have an > >> aesthetic context -unlike australia where > the pretence is almost always the > >> best of the best - it may be acknowledged that different judges have > >> different tastes but the blandout conventionalism of the basic premise is > >> rarely challenged

> >>
> >> (wasnt going to raise this issue again but provoked by the above appearing > >> on my facebook page with the usual > suggestion that i 'like' it. i 'x'ed it, > >> with the reason 'offensive', but perhaps shdve clicked 'misleading')
> >>
> >>
> >>
> >>
> >
> > George Bowering
> >
> > Hiyo, Aluminum, away!
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
>

New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
$16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm

"What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the poet alive in every sense of the word, and through every one of his senses. Instead of missing a beat or a part, Weiss' fragments are
like Chekhov's short storiesthe more that gets
left out, the more they seem to contain… One can
hear echoes from all the various
ancestors...[but] the voice, at its center, its
core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment
is both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure
musical threnody…[it] opens a window, not only
into a mind, but a person, a personality, this
human figure at the emotional center of the poem."

M.G. Stephens, in Jacket.
http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml

↑ Index

113. Bonnie MacAllister

Bonnie MacAllister: Crowning the May Queen

Tue 10 Aug 2010

> Bonnie MacAllister performs on August 23rd at National Mechanics for the Fringe Festival Cabaret of a.d. amorosi's Monday Night Club (hosted by Needles Jones). She will show poetic films and do her deconstructed performance poetry as well as preview work from her piece in the Philadelphia Live Arts and Fringe Festival.

http://www.nationalmechanics.com/philadelphia-old-city-events

Please find the link to MacAllister's show in the Fringe:
http://www.livearts-fringe.org/details.cfm?id=14009

MacAllister wrote "Crowning the May Queen," one of four shorter works that comprise "The Waiting Room" (a production of Green Light Arts). The piece stars Kelly DeVose and TS Hawkins. "Crowning the May Queen" is deeply rooted in MacAllister's time in Ethiopia on a 2009 Fulbright-Hays. "The Waiting Room" features other short works by local Philadelphia women playwrights including Deborah Leigh Scott, Gabrielle Corsaro, and Vivian Appler. -- http: http://www.greenlightarts.org/ http://www.facebook.com/pages/Green-Light-Arts/300541836284 (Facebook)

Green Light Arts develops programs that create opportunities for women artists to have a positive impact on our community.

Green Light Arts is committed to its membership. By creating programs including The New Light Series, The Women’s Art Show, The Fiscal Partnership Program and The Emerging Artist Mentorship Program we unite our membership and offer new opportunities for collaboration and multidisciplinary creation. Our Fiscal Partnership program enables members the freedom to bring their artistic vision to life.

Green Light Arts supports women artists and believes that our strength lies in our ability to work together and to support each other.
--
http://bonnie-macallister.blogspot.com http://tinyurl.com/bonnie-macallister

↑ Index

114. steve russell
Re: New Narrative
Tue 10 Aug 2010

---

i was just getting used to the old narrative & along comes the Fucking New narrative.

the new narrative does nothing to enhance the old narrative.
i'm close to giving Up ... on Lit?
on life?

i don't want an Art that imitates life or a life that imitates Art ... i want to imitate myself dreaming.
No, even my dreams have become boring.
Ugh ...

_____
From: steve dalachinsky <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Wed, August 4, 2010 3:45:55 PM
Subject: Re: New Narrative

make sure those books don't have bedbugs

On Tue, 3 Aug 2010 14:44:11 -0400 Emma Bolden <[redacted]>
writes:
> I think I am going to start a movement call Old Narrative. It will > involve putting old books in a blender and seeing what happens.
>
> How does the New Narrative relate to New Narrativism, I wonder?
>
> Sent from my iTelephoning Device
>
> On Aug 3, 2010, at 12:40 PM, John Cunningham
> <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> > Thank you, Christophe. I enjoyed reading your response even though
> it didn't > > enlighten me one little bit. Still, the humour was entertaining.
> > John Herbert Cunningham
> >
> > -----Original Message-----
> > From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB)
> [mailto:[redacted]] On > > Behalf Of Christophe Casamassima

> > Sent: August-03-10 7:12 AM
> > To: [redacted]
> > Subject: Re: New Narrative
> >
> > It's like old narrative, but newer. Eventually it will get old
> and > > become the not so new but not as old as the old new narrative. My > God,
> > a hundred years from now the Library of Congress system will be > > inundated by huge strings of genre names.
> >
> > Christophe "not as old as I was tomorrow" Casamassima
> >
> > On Mon, Aug 2, 2010 at 10:55 PM, John Cunningham
> > <[redacted]> wrote:
> >> I recently heard about this new literary phenomenon called the
> New
> >> Narrative. What is this?
> >>
> >> John Herbert Cunningham
> >>
> >>
> >>
> >
> guidelines
> >
>
>
>

↑ Index

115. Aaron Belz

widespread acceptance, please

Tue 10 Aug 2010

Esteemed all,

I am seeking widespread acceptance for my second book, Lovely, Raspberry, which recently came out from Persea.

Toward that end I request that each of us spends 7:20 viewing http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Io0nUeDp7Ks Many of those poems are in the book. If you can identify the video's theme music, I might send you a free signed copy!

Anyway, email me off list and let's reconnect. There's a chance it's been way too long.

Belz

↑ Index

116. Alexander Dickow
ekleksographia: the france issue
Wed 11 Aug 2010

Ahadada Books' online journal Ekl
Friends, Strangers and Fellow Poets,

Ahadada Books' online journal Ekleksographia presents Wave Three: The France Issue,
http://ekleksographia.ahadadabooks.com/france/
in memory of Raymond Federman and guest edited by Alexander Dickow, featuring original work and translations by the editor and by Barbara Beck, Philippe Beck, Audrey van de Sandt, Alexis Tchoudnowsky, David Christoffel, Alessandro De Francesco, Noura Wedell, Jennifer K. Dick, Henri Droguet, Raymond Federman, Pierre Le Pillouër, Bruno Fern, Frédéric Forte, Michelle Noteboom, Albane Gellé, Liliane Giraudon, Mark Weiss, Amy Hollowell, Pierre Joris, Margaret Konkol, Nicholas Manning, Elisa McCool, Maria Rusanda Muresan, Jean-Claude Pinson, Leemore Malka, Jody Pou, Christian Prigent, Rufo Quintavalle, Joe Ross, James Sacré, David Ball, Alexandra Sashe, Eric Suchère, Carrie Noland, George Vance, Chet Wiener and Geneva Chao,

And featuring these reviews:

Adam Biles reviews Napoleon's Travelling Bookshelf by Sarah Hesketh
Nicholas Manning reviews Strata by Joe Ross
Jennifer K. Dick reviews Kardia by Claude Royet-Journoud
Margaret Konkol reviewsWIW?3: Hold me tight. Make me happy by C. J. Martin

With Thanks to Daniel Sendecki and Robert Dickow for their technical assistance.

Thank you for reading, and for helping us spread the news!

www.alexdickow.net/blog/

les mots! ah quel désert à la fin
merveilleux. -- Henri Droguet

↑ Index

117. Nate Pritts
H_NGM_N BKS
Wed 11 Aug 2010

Our first book, a reissue of William Heyen's LORD DRAGONFLY, is available now & here:

http://www.h-ngm-n.com/lord-dragonfly

The book includes the full text of the original volume with new notes by the author, a preface by series editor Nate Pritts & a critical appreciation by Matthew Henriksen.

In the coming months, check back for full-length poetry:

WOLF FACE by Matt Hart - October
HOW LIKE FOREIGN OBJECTS by Alexis Orgera - November
I AM NOT A PIONEER by Adam Fell - February

thx, np

_____
:: Dr. Nate Pritts

:: http://www.natepritts.com

↑ Index

118. Louis Armand
Hidden Agendas/Unreported Poetics
Wed 11 Aug 2010

A brief note in response to some queries on the UK Poetics list...

For anyone here interested in reviewing/ordering _Hidden Agendas/Unreported Poetics_ (published in June), details about the book can be found at litteraria/ff.cuni.cz/hidden_agendas.html. Review editors are welcome to send an email to [redacted] to reserve a copy. Contributors to _HA_ are Ali Alizadeh, Livio Beloi, Jeremy Davies, Stephan Delbos, Michel Delville, Johanna Drucker, Michael Farrel, Allen Fisher, Vincent Katz, Stephen Muecke, Jena Osman, Michael Rothenberg, Lou Rowan, Kyle Schlesinger, Robert Shepperd, Stephanie Strickland, John Wilkinson... This book ISN'T available via Amazon, etc.

Best,
Louis Armand

--
Louis Armand
Centre for Critical & Cultural Theory, Philosophy Faculty, Charles University, Nam. J. Palacha 2, 116 38 Praha 1, CZECH REPUBLIC www.louis-armand.com www.litterariapragensia.com www.vlakmagazine.com

↑ Index

119. Aldon Nielsen
Yunte in NYT
Wed 11 Aug 2010

Our good friend Yunte Huang's new book is featured in this morning's New York Times:

Charlie Chan: A Stereotype and a HeroBy CHARLES McGRATHPublished: August 10, 2010

Enlarge This Image<http://www.nytimes.com/2010/08/11/books/11chan.html?_r=1&ref=todayspaper>To many Asian-Americans, Charlie Chan is an offensive stereotype, another sort of Uncle Tom. Chan, the hero of six detective novels by Earl Derr Biggers and 47 Hollywood movies between 1926 and 1949, not to mention a 1970s Hanna-Barbera cartoon series <http://www.imdb.com/title/tt0068037/>, is pudgy, slant-eyed and inscrutable, and he speaks in singsong fortune-cookie English, saying things like, “If befriend donkey, expect to be kicked.” The California-born author and playwright Frank Chin<http://chintalks.blogspot.com/>, who has written essays denouncing Chan, would like to see him disappear altogether. <http://www.nytimes.com/2010/08/11/books/11chan.html?_r=1&ref=todayspaper> Twentieth Century Fox Home Video

Warner Oland as Charlie Chan in the 1935 film “Charlie Chan in Paris.” More Photos » <http://www.nytimes.com/slideshow/2010/08/10/books/11chan-ss.html> Multimedia Slide Show<http://www.nytimes.com/slideshow/2010/08/10/books/11chan-ss.html?ref=books> The 'Real' Charlie Chan<http://www.nytimes.com/slideshow/2010/08/10/books/11chan-ss.html?ref=books> Enlarge This Image<http://www.nytimes.com/2010/08/11/books/11chan.html?_r=1&ref=todayspaper> <http://www.nytimes.com/2010/08/11/books/11chan.html?_r=1&ref=todayspaper> Ruth Fremson/The New York Times

Yunte Huang has written an absorbing history of the legendary Charlie Chan.More Photos » <http://www.nytimes.com/slideshow/2010/08/10/books/11chan-ss.html>

But Yunte Huang, who was born and grew up in China, can't get enough of Chan and has written a book about his obsession: "Charlie Chan: The Untold Story of the Honorable Detective and His Rendezvous With American History." The book, which comes out from Norton next week, is part memoir, part history, part cultural-studies essay and part grab bag of odd and little-known details.

Biggers, who overlapped at Harvard with T. S. Eliot<http://topics.nytimes.com/top/reference/timestopics/people/e/t_s_eliot/index.html?inline=nyt-per> but did not exactly share his literary taste, said he got the idea for Chan while sitting in the New York Public Library<http://topics.nytimes.com/top/reference/timestopics/organizations/n/new_york_public_library/index.html?inline=nyt-org> in 1924 and reading about a real-life Honolulu detective named Chang Apana. Mr. Huang suggests that Biggers may have misremembered the details, but there is no doubt that Apana was the model for Chan, and Mr. Huang gives a full account of a life that was in many ways more interesting than the fictional version: born in Hawaii to Chinese parents, Apana moved to China and then back to Hawaii, where despite being virtually illiterate, he rose in the detective ranks of the Honolulu police. He wore a cowboy hat, carried a bullwhip and was said to leap from rooftop to rooftop like a human fly.

Mr. Huang gives an equally full account of Chan's movie history<http://charliechanfamily.tripod.com/> and of the actor with whom he was most memorably associated: a Swede named Warner Oland, who played a Jew in the first talkie, "The Jazz Singer," and then, because he had vaguely Asian features, made a specialty of Oriental villains. (The original Chan, George Kuwa, was Japanese.) Oland was a heavy drinker, Mr. Huang writes, and liked to take a nip before slipping into the Chan persona: it slowed down his speech and put a congenial, Chan-like grin on his face. In 1938, after Oland had boozed himself to a premature death and was replaced by an American named Sidney Toler, movie producers encouraged him to try the same trick.

But the most interesting story in "Charlie Chan" is Mr. Huang's own. "I have an alphabetic destiny," he said, laughing, over lunch in Chinatown last week. In the late 1980s he had been a student at Beijing University and, after the protests in Tiananmen Square in 1989, where he would have been on the day tanks opened fire if his parents hadn't lured him home on a false pretense, he determined to leave China. He got hold of a guidebook to American colleges, and "Alabama starts with A," he pointed out. "I was pretty desperate to get out of the country and the University of Alabama<http://topics.nytimes.com/top/reference/timestopics/organizations/u/university_of_alabama/index.html?inline=nyt-org> was the first school I looked up." He added that when he got there, "Tuscaloosa was another planet," and went on: "Nobody walked in the street. Everything was so slow, so clean and so empty."

When he got sick of the South, Mr. Huang said, he decided to go to Buffalo for a Ph.D. in English literature. He felt, he writes in "Charlie Chan," "like a bottom-feeding fish, one that cannot see the light of day in the muddy pond of America."

But why Buffalo? "Buffalo begins with B," he said, grinning. He worked as a delivery boy there, but happily gave up the restaurant business. "Graduate school is really easy compared to restaurant work," he pointed out.

At an estate sale he bought a couple of Biggers's novels and was immediately hooked. He began renting all the Chan movies he could find.

Mr. Huang, who is 41, divorced and the father of a young daughter, speaks nearly perfect, idiomatic English. He learned the language, he said, from listening to Voice of America<http://topics.nytimes.com/top/reference/timestopics/organizations/v/voice_of_america/index.html?inline=nyt-org>broadcasts with his family and also from going to church in Tuscaloosa. "On Sunday morning I'd stand on the corner carrying a Bible," he explained, "and people would stop and ask what church I was going to. 'Yours,' I'd say. I saw a lot of churches that way."

After Buffalo he spent four years teaching literature at Harvard, in Cambridge, Mass., before taking a job at the University of California, Santa Barbara<http://topics.nytimes.com/topics/reference/timestopics/organizations/u/university_of_california/index.html?inline=nyt-org>, and next year he has a fellowship at Cornell<http://topics.nytimes.com/top/reference/timestopics/organizations/c/cornell_university/index.html?inline=nyt-org>. "I'm kind of stuck in the C's right now," he said, "and I can't really move on. "Charlie Chan — that's a double C."

Chan was an obsession he pursued for years, he said, while trying to write a memoir called "The Yellow Alabaman" until a friend encouraged him to put that book aside and write instead about the detective. It was the aphorisms, the fortune-cookie sayings<http://www.reellifewisdom.com/the_top_10_wise_quotes_from_charlie_chan>, that first attracted him, and then he became interested in the way Chan is a projection of American fears and American imaginings about China — an embodiment, as he writes in the book, of “both the racist heritage and the creative genius” of his adopted nation’s culture.

Over lunch he said: “I grew up watching Chinese opera, where you have some of that same exaggeration, and growing up in that literary culture was very useful for understanding cultural ventriloquism and the whole idea of crossing over. It was fascinating to see how Chan was a sort of ‘yellowface’ performance.” He added that in the 30s the Charlie Chan movies were immensely popular in China, of all places, where they were seen as an antidote to the sinister caricature of the Fu Manchu films, but that attitudes had changed. Not long ago he was discussing with a Chinese publisher the possibility of translating “Charlie Chan” himself and bringing it out in China. The publisher listened politely and said, “Right now we’re actually more interested in Fu Manchu.” A version of this article appeared in print on August 11, 2010, on page C1 of the New York edition. --

Aldon L. Nielsen
Kelly Professor of American Literature
Department of English
117 Burrowes Building
The Pennsylvania State University
University Park, PA
16802-6200

[redacted]

sailing the blogosphere at http://heatstrings.blogspot.com

"kindling his mind (more
than his mind will kindle)"

--William Carlos Williams, early adopter

↑ Index

120. Mark DuCharme

Stratford Park Reading Series: NAKA PIERCE & PUSATERI, Sept. 16th

Wed 11 Aug 2010

The Stratford Park Reading Series

proudly presents...

Michelle Naka Pierce & Chris Pusateri

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 16th at 7:30 p.m.

A Donation is requested— but All are welcome!

A reception will follow the reading.

§

Address: 3030 O'Neal Parkway, Boulder, CO

http://www.mapquest.com/maps?city=Boulder&state=CO&address=3030+O'neal+Parkway&zipcode=80301

DIRECTIONS: O'Neal Parkway is off 30th Street in north Boulder between Valmont & Iris. Turn East at the signs for STRATFORD PARK WEST. The community house is the one-story building with a fence leading down to the street, half a block from 30th. Please park ONLY on O'Neal Parkway, O'Neal Circle, or in VISITOR spaces in the Stratford Park West lots. Please do not park in any other nearby lots. Thank you.

§

Born in Tokyo, Japan, Michelle Naka Pierce is the author of Beloved Integer and Tri/via, a collaboration with Veronica Corpuz. Excerpts from her manuscript She, A Blueprint for Intersurface, with collage art by Sue Hammond West, have been published in American Letters & Commentary, Trickhouse, Mandorla, Foursquare, Sous Rature, Upstairs at Duroc, and elsewhere. Pierce spent her sabbatical living in London and working on her new manuscript, tentatively titled Continuous Frieze Bordering Red, which contemplatives Rothko's floating borders in relation to unstable cultural borders. She is currently an associate professor and director of the writing center at Naropa University.

§ Born in the American midwest, Chris Pusateri has lived for extended periods in London, Mexico City and Kingston, Jamaica. He is the author of eight books and chapbooks of poetry, most recently Anon (BlazeVox, 2008) and North of There (Dusie, 2007), and his poems and critical prose have appeared in numerous magazines, including American Letters & Commentary, Boston Review, Chicago Review, Verse, and many others. His current manuscript, The Liberties, was written while residing in England, and takes as its premise the surveillance architecture built into British public life. A librarian by trade, he currently lives in the unincorporated suburban hinterland that divides Denver from Boulder.

§

UPCOMING EVENTS IN THE STRATFORD PARK READING SERIES
November 11th: Matthew Cooperman & Aby Kaupang

§

If
you no longer wish to receive email announcements of upcoming events in the Stratford Park Reading Series, please email [redacted] with the subject line "SPRS: REMOVE."

↑ Index

121. Cara Benson

Reading Reminder: Belladonna Dusie Thursday 8pm*

Wed 11 Aug 2010

Thursday, August 12, 2010; 8:00 pm
Belladonna* & Dusie present
Â
The Summer Reading
Please join us in celebrating these authors and their new books:
Â
Cara Benson: (made), BookThug
MairÃ©ad Byrne: The Best of (Whatâ€™s Left of) Heaven, Publishing Genius Caroline Crumpacker: Recherche Theories, EtherDome Press
Susana Gardner: Herso, An Heirship in Waves, Black Radish Books
Eileen Myles: Importance of Being Iceland, Semiotext(e); Inferno, O/R
Kate Zambreno: O Fallen Angel, Chiasmus Press
Â
Location: Book Thug Nation: 100 N. 3rd St; Between Berry St & Wythe Ave; Williamsbug, Brooklyn
Admission: FREEÂ
Â
http://www.belladonnaseries.org/readingseries.html

↑ Index

122. David Seaman

Re: competitions

Wed 11 Aug 2010

Get a life.

D
David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
http://perso
George,

Get a life.

D
David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html

Follow my Twitter poetry at dseaman40

YouTube video of my Venice Biennale poem:
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JQ5bOuJBN_k

On 10 Aug, 2010,at 03:05 AM, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

On Aug 9, 2010, at 11:58 PM, George Bowering wrote:

> Okay.
> "are" is a plural verb.
> "a total" is singular.
> You're supposed to put a singular with a singular.
> For example: "There is a total"
> Or "there is a building."
> Then you put a plural with a plural.
> For example: "there are totals"
> Or "there are buildings."
>
> g
>
> On Aug 9, 2010, at 12:46 PM, Angela Vasquez-Giroux wrote:
>
> maybe my brain is on hiatus already, but for the life of me, I can't figure > out what's wrong with "there are a total".
>
> On Mon, Aug 9, 2010 at 3:24 PM, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> The ad for a competition that you have included says
> "there are a total"
>
> Are we to take it that entrants have to try to achieve that level of English usage?
>
> gb
>
> On Aug 7, 2010, at 4:27 PM, michael farrell wrote:
>
> a rodeo to an apple bob - this to most poetry comps -
>
> http://www.nycmidnight.com/2010/FFC/challenge.htm
>
> one thing i like about many u.s. poetry comps is that they have an aesthetic context -unlike australia where the pretence is almost > always the > best of the best - it may be acknowledged that different judges have > different tastes but the blandout conventionalism of the basic premise is > rarely challenged

>
> (wasnt going to raise this issue again but provoked by the above appearing > on my facebook page with the usual suggestion that i 'like' it.
> i 'x'ed it,
> with the reason 'offensive', but perhaps shdve clicked
> 'misleading')
>
> welcome.html
>
> George Bowering
>
> Hiyo, Aluminum, away!
>
> guidelines
>
> welcome.html
>
> George Bowering
>
> <Dragonsjpeg>

George Bowering

. . . or liver and onions

↑ Index

123. Halvard Johnson

Halvard Johnson, Obras Públicas

Wed 11 Aug 2010

Dear Friends and Neighbors,

Just wanted to let you know that you're one click away from another messy collection by Halvard Johnson. There, I've said it, and here it is--

Obras Públicas
https://sites.google.com/site/vidalocabooks/halvard-johnson-obras-publicas

No extra charge for downloading it, printing it, passing it on. I will have to charge you for deleting or ignoring this message.

Hal Serving the tri-state area.

Halvard Johnson
==========

[redacted]
http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org
<http://www.hamiltonstone.org>
*
*
*
*
*
*
<http://www.hamiltonstone.org>The Perfection of Mozart's Third Eye and Other Sonnets
http://www.scribd.com/doc/27039868/Halvard-Johnson-THE-PERFECTION-OF-MOZART-S-THIRD-EYE-Other-Sonnets

Tango Bouquet
<http://www.scribd.com/doc/27039868/Halvard-Johnson-THE-PERFECTION-OF-MOZART-S-THIRD-EYE-Other-Sonnets>
https://docs.google.com/Doc?docid=0ATDp6rzKkBkhZGZwand2cHdfOWc1Mnh3Zw&hl=en

<https://docs.google.com/Doc?docid=0ATDp6rzKkBkhZGZwand2cHdfOWc1Mnh3Zw&hl=en>
Theory of Harmony
*
https://docs.google.com/viewer?url=http://xpressed.wippiespace.com/fall04/theory1.pdf
*
Rapsodie espagnole

*
https://docs.google.com/viewer?url=http://xpressed.wippiespace.com/
rapsodi.pdf
*
*
*
<https://docs.google.com/viewer?url=http://xpressed.wippiespace.com/rapsodi.pdf>The Sonnet Project
*
https://docs.google.com/viewer?url=http://xpressed.wippiespace.com/
hsonnet.pdf
*
*
*
*<https://docs.google.com/viewer?url=http://xpressed.wippiespace.com/hsonnet.pdf>
G(e)nome*
*http://xpressed.wippiespace.com/fall03/genome.pdf
*

↑ Index

124. Jonathan Morse
Grammar: folk belief vs. poetry
Thu 12 Aug 2010

On 8/10/2010 5:32 AM, Mark Weiss wrote:
> Total is singular. "There are ten books," but "there is a total of ten > books."
Oh, let's be poetic and LISTEN to the grammar. Consider, for instance, this sensitive passage from Randolph Quirk, Sidney Greenbaum, Geoffrey Leach, and Jan Svartvik, _A Comprehensive Grammar of the English Language_ (London: Longman, 1985):

"The _there_ of existential sentences . . . often determines concord, governing a singular form of the verb even when the following 'notional subject' is plural:

There's some people in the waiting room. <informal>

occurs alongside:

There are some people in the waiting room."

(Chapter 18.46, "The status of existential _there_ as subject," p. 1405)

The two sentences about people in the waiting room communicate slightly different senses of the word "there," don't they? Training yourself to hear the difference is one of the many things that poetry is good for.

So here's an exercise. Can you listen to this example from ch. 18.49, p. 1408, "There exist a number of similar medieval crosses in different parts of the country," and then articulate an explanation of why "There exists a number" would be computer language, not human language?

Jonathan Morse

> At 03:46 PM 8/9/2010, you wrote:
> maybe my brain is on hiatus already, but for the life of me, I can't figure > out what's wrong with "there are a total".
>
> On Mon, Aug 9, 2010 at 3:24 PM, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> The ad for a competition that you have included says
> "there are a total"
>
> Are we to take it that entrants have to try to achieve that level of > English usage?
>
> gb
>
> On Aug 7, 2010, at 4:27 PM, michael farrell wrote:
>
> a rodeo to an apple bob - this to most poetry comps -
>
> http://www.nycmidnight.com/2010/FFC/challenge.htm
>
> one thing i like about many u.s. poetry comps is that they have an > aesthetic context -unlike australia where the pretence is almost always the > best of the best - it may be acknowledged that different judges have > different tastes but the blandout conventionalism of the basic premise is > rarely challenged
>
> (wasnt going to raise this issue again but provoked by the above appearing > on my facebook page with the usual suggestion that i 'like' it. i 'x'ed it,
> with the reason 'offensive', but perhaps shdve clicked 'misleading')

George Bowering

Hiyo, Aluminum, away!

guidelines

New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
$16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm

"What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the poet alive in every sense of the word, and through every one of his senses. Instead of missing a beat or a part, Weiss' fragments are like Chekhov's short storiesthe more that gets left out, the more they seem to contain… One can hear echoes from all the various ancestors...[but] the voice, at its center, its core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment is both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure musical threnody...[it] opens a window, not only into a mind, but a person, a personality, this human figure at the emotional center of the poem."

M.G. Stephens, in Jacket.
http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml

↑ Index

125. David Seaman
Re: competitions
Thu 12 Aug 2010

Yes, I love it. George W Bush's language gave us a new perspective on the presidency and the electorate. Not to mention what a Yale education means. A level of usage, as I suggest.

David
David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html

Follow my Twitter poetry at dseaman40

YouTube video of my Venice Biennale poem:
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JQ5bOuJBN_k

On 10 Aug, 2010,at 08:59 AM, Daniel Zimmerman <[redacted]> wrote:

David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html
writes:
"While those of us in the grammar police (either official or clandestine) like to disparage any errors, we must also recognize that usage is flexible and evolving, It may be that there are myriad ways to express things, with a whole range of 'levels of usage.' Let's live with it and enjoy it."

.....

Ummm . . :

"a total" ("a"=singular)
"is" (singular)
"This place is a total wreck."

"totals" (plural)
"are" (plural)
"Several totals are required to ensure accuracy."

The newest proposal for national educational standards in the U. S. recommends teaching grammatical agreement in grade three (the first grammatical principle mentioned in that set of standards). Many of my students in college composition seem unable to distinguish between one and more than one. Perhaps only a tiny neurological window exists for hard-wiring agreement, but given recent work in brain plasticity, I doubt it--though a fourteen-week semester usually proves insufficient for rehab. As Yale grad G. W. Bush wondered, "Is our children learning?" Good enough? Enjoy that?

~ Dan Zimmerman, Ph.D.
[redacted]

----- Original Message -----
From: "Angela Vasquez-Giroux" <[redacted]>
To: <[redacted]>

Sent: Monday, August 09, 2010 3:46 PM
Subject: Re: competitions

> maybe my brain is on hiatus already, but for the life of me, I can't figure > out what's wrong with "there are a total".
>
> On Mon, Aug 9, 2010 at 3:24 PM, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> The ad for a competition that you have included says
> "there are a total"
>
> Are we to take it that entrants have to try to achieve that level of > English usage?
>
> gb
>
> On Aug 7, 2010, at 4:27 PM, michael farrell wrote:
>
> a rodeo to an apple bob - this to most poetry comps -
>
> http://www.nycmidnight.com/2010/FFC/challenge.htm
>
> one thing i like about many u.s. poetry comps is that they have an > aesthetic context -unlike australia where the pretence is almost always the > best of the best - it may be acknowledged that different judges have > different tastes but the blandout conventionalism of the basic premise is > rarely challenged
>
> (wasnt going to raise this issue again but provoked by the above appearing > on my facebook page with the usual suggestion that i 'like' it. i 'x'ed it,
> with the reason 'offensive', but perhaps shdve clicked 'misleading')
>
> George Bowering
>
> Hiyo, Aluminum, away!

> guidelines

↑ Index

126. Tony Leuzzi
Looking for someone to review new book of poems
Thu 12 Aug 2010

Hi everyone. If anyone's interested in reviewing Radiant Losses, my new book of poems from New Sins Press, I'd be glad to send you a review copy. It's been blurbed by Kevin Killian and Michael Waters--two VERY different poets who liked the work a lot. Any takers?

Tony Leuzzi

↑ Index

127. Ruth Lepson
Re: John Wieners: HELLO JOHN, from 2010
Thu 12 Aug 2010

That IS great news--and as it should be. Thank you for the Wieners EPC, too.

On 8/10/10 10:50 AM, "CA Conrad" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Maria, Tenney, and everyone else, thanks.
>
> Great news is that there is a COLLECTED WIENERS in the works!
>
> How exciting is THAT????
>
> But until then I strongly suggest interlibrary loan is the way to go, unless you can actually afford the prices the thieves trying to cash in on the Wieners legacy by jacking up his out of print stock.
>
> It's a great day knowing Wieners will be BACK IN PRINT!
> Conrad

↑ Index

128. Nicholas Karavatos

City of Tacoma & Puget Sound Poetry Connection's Distinguished Writer Series on Friday the 13th

Thu 12 Aug 2010

The City of Tacoma & Puget Sound Poetry Connection's Distinguished Writer Series presents poet Nicholas Karavatos and electronic guitarist Jeff Kelley performing in spontaneous collaboration at King's Bookshop at 7:000pm on Friday, August 13th. In this inter-media spoken word performance celebrating the publication of No Asylum, musician Jeff Kelley processes his pitched signals layering sound upon sounds in conversation with poet Nicholas Karavatos reciting his poems.

Intermedia Spoken Word with NICHOLAS KARAVATOS & JEFF KELLEY in Tacoma, WA
@
King's Bookshop
218 St. Helens Ave.
Tacoma, WA
@
7pm - Friday the 13th

NICHOLAS KARAVATOS is included in the anthology Punk Rock Saved My Ass (Ukiah: Medusa's Muse, 2010) and the latest issue of West Wind Review (Ashland: University of Southern Oregon, 2010). In December 2009, Amendment Nine (Arcata) published his first book No Asylum http://www.amazon.com/dp/0984280006/ref=cm_sw_su_dp

David Meltzer writes: "Nicholas Karavatos is a poet of great range and clarity. This book is an amazing collectanea of smart sharp political poetry in tandem with astute and tender love lyrics. All of it voiced with an impressive singularity."

NICHOLAS KARAVATOS lives near Dubai, teaching literature and writing at the American University of Sharjah in the United Arab Emirates. He has been an Assistant Professor there since 2006. From 2001 he had taught general studies at a small private college in Muscat, Sultanate of Oman.

NICHOLAS KARAVATOS is a graduate of Humboldt State University where he earned his B.A. in English with a minor in Art History (1986), and of New College of California where he earned an M.F.A. in Poetics (1999).

Audio Links: http://www.archive.org/details/NicholasKaravatos-2009December2-ArcataTheaterLoungeCalifornia
http://www.archive.org/details/NicholasKaravatos1992September20NorthCount

ryFairArcataPlaza http://www.archive.org/details/NicholasKaravatos-200818-AccidentGalleryInEurekaCa http://nicholaskaravatos.tumblr.com/

Info Links: http://pugetsoundpoetryconnection.art.officelive.com/default.aspx http://www.facebook.com/pages/Nicholas-Karavatos/253191112780 http://nicholaskaravatos.blogspot.com/

NO ASYLUM is available from these independent booksellers:
Arcata, CA – Northtown Books
La Jolla, CA – D.G. Wills Books
Portland, OR – Powell's Books
Salem, OR – Tigress Books
San Francisco, CA – Bird & Beckett
San Francisco, CA – Books & Bookshelves
Venice, CA – Beyond Baroque

↑ Index

129. Nicholas Karavatos

A-New Poetry Series at the Downtown Initiative for the Visual Arts in Eugene, OR on Saturday

Thu 12 Aug 2010

Intermedia Spoken Word with NICHOLAS KARAVATOS & JEFF KELLEY in Eugene, OR

and introducing poet TIM SHANER.

DIVA Annex (Downtown Initiative for the Visual Arts)
80 E. Broadway
Eugene, OR

A-New Poetry Series at the Downtown Initiative for the Visual Arts presents poet Nicholas Karavatos and electronic guitarist Jeff Kelley performing in spontaneous collaboration at DIVA Annex at 7:00pm on Saturday, August 14th.

In this inter-media spoken word performance celebrating the publication of No Asylum, musician Jeff Kelley processes his pitched signals layering sound upon sounds in conversation with poet Nicholas Karavatos reciting his poems.

NICHOLAS KARAVATOS is included in the anthology Punk Rock Saved My Ass (Ukiah: Medusa's Muse, 2010) and the latest issue of West Wind Review (Ashland: University of Southern Oregon, 2010). In December 2009, Amendment Nine (Arcata) published his first book No Asylum http://www.amazon.com/dp/0984280006/ref=cm_sw_su_dp

David Meltzer writes: "Nicholas Karavatos is a poet of great range and clarity. This book is an amazing collectanea of smart sharp political poetry in tandem with astute and tender love lyrics. All of it voiced with an impressive singularity."

NICHOLAS KARAVATOS lives near Dubai, teaching literature and writing at the American University of Sharjah in the United Arab Emirates. He has been an Assistant Professor there since 2006. From 2001 he had taught general studies at a small private college in Muscat, Sultanate of Oman.

NICHOLAS KARAVATOS is a graduate of Humboldt State University where he earned his B.A. in English with a minor in Art History (1986), and of New College of California where he earned an M.F.A. in Poetics (1999).

Audio Links: http://www.archive.org/details/NicholasKaravatos-2009December2-ArcataTheaterLoungeCalifornia http://www.archive.org/details/NicholasKaravatos1992September20NorthCountryFairArcataPlaza http://www.archive.org/details/NicholasKaravatos-200818-AccidentGalleryInEurekaCa http://nicholaskaravatos.tumblr.com/

Info Links:
http://divacenter.org/
http://www.facebook.com/pages/Nicholas-Karavatos/253191112780
http://nicholaskaravatos.blogspot.com/

NO ASYLUM is available from these independent booksellers:
Arcata, CA – Northtown Books
La Jolla, CA – D.G. Wills Books
Portland, OR – Powell’s Books
Salem, OR – Tigress Books
San Francisco, CA – Bird & Beckett
San Francisco, CA – Books & Bookshelves
Venice, CA – Beyond Baroque

↑ Index

130. David Baratier
Transcontinental Award, deadline Monday August 16th
Thu 12 Aug 2010

Last day to postmark is Monday August 16th or to send via the internet.

The Annual Transcontinental Poetry Award by Pavement Saw Press

All contributors receive books, chapbooks and journals equal to, or more than, the entry fee. Please mention this to your friends and all others who might be interested!

Electronic and mailed entries must meet these requirements: 1. The manuscript should be at least 48 pages of poetry and no more than 70 pages of poetry in length. Separations between sections are NOT a part of the page count. 2. A one page cover letter. Include a brief biography, the book's title, your name, address, and telephone number, and, if you have e-mail, your e-mail address. This should be followed by a page which lists publication acknowledgments for the book. For each acknowledgement mention the publisher (journal, anthology, chapbook etc.) and the poem published. 3. The manuscript should be bound with a single clip and begin with a title page including the book's title, your name, address, and telephone number, and, if you have e-mail, your e-mail address. 4. The second page should have only the title of the manuscript. There are to be no acknowledgments or mention of the author's name from this page forward. Submissions to the contest are blind judged. 5. There should be no more than one poem on each page. The manuscript can contain pieces longer than one page. 6. The manuscript should be paginated, beginning with the first page of poetry.

Each year Pavement Saw Press will publish at least one book of poetry and/or prose poems from manuscripts received during this competition. Selections are chosen through a blind judging process. The competition is open to anyone who has not previously published a volume of poetry or prose. The author receives $1000 and five percent of the 1000 copy press run. Previous judges have included Judith Vollmer, David Bromige, Bin Ramke and Howard McCord. This year David Baratier will be the judge; past students, Pavement Saw Press interns and employees are not allowed to submit. All poems must be original, all prose must be original, fiction or translations are not acceptable. Writers who have had volumes of poetry and/or prose under 40 pages printed or printed in limited editions of no more than 500 copies are eligible. Submissions are accepted during the months of June, July, and until August 15th. All submissions must have an August 16th, 2010, or earlier, postmark. This is an award for first books only.

If you wish to send via regular mail your manuscript should be accompanied by a check in the amount of $20.00 made payable to Pavement Saw Press. All US contributors to the contest will receive books, chapbooks and journals equal to, or more than, the entry fee. Add $3 (US) for other countries to cover the extra postal charge. Do not include an SASE for notification of results, this information will be sent with the free book. Do not send the only copy of your work. All manuscripts are recycled and individual comments on the manuscripts cannot be made.

If you wish to submit electronically, you should send $27.00 via paypal to [redacted]. We will then send you an e-mail confirmation as well as where to e-mail the manuscript. Electronic submissions need to be sent as PDF files or as word (.doc, .docx) files. Other formats are not accepted. The extra cost is to cover the paypal fees as well as the time, labor, ink, and so on, to print out your manuscript. In addition to the prize winner, sometimes another anonymous manuscript is chosen, if enough entries arrive. This â€œeditors choiceâ€ manuscript will be published under a standard royalty contract. A decision will be reached in November. Entries should be sent to:

Pavement Saw Press
Transcontinental Award Entry
321 Empire Street
Montpelier, OH 43543

All submissions must have an August 16th, or earlier, postmark or paypal payment. Submissions are accepted during the months of June, July, and August only. If you have questions, please ask us: info(at)pavementsaw.org

Be well

David Baratier, Editor

Pavement Saw Press
321 Empire Street
Montpelier OH 43543
http://pavementsaw.org

Subscribe to our e-mail listserv at http://pavementsaw.org/list/?p=subscribe&id=1

↑ Index

131. Mary Kasimor
Re: Looking for someone to review new book of poems
Thu 12 Aug 2010

What journal do you have in mind for the review? (I am interested.)

Mary Kasimor

--- On Wed, 8/11/10, Tony Leuzzi <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Tony Leuzzi <[redacted]>
Subject: Looking for someone to review new book of poems
To: [redacted]
Date: Wednesday, August 11, 2010, 11:20 PM

Hi everyone. If anyone's interested in reviewing Radiant Losses, my new book of poems from New Sins Press, I'd be glad to send you a review copy. It's been blurbed by Kevin Killian and Michael Waters--two VERY different poets who liked the work a lot. Any takers?

Tony Leuzzi

↑ Index

132. Mary Kasimor
Re: Grammar: folk belief vs. poetry
Thu 12 Aug 2010

---

love it!

Mary

--- On Wed, 8/11/10, Jonathan Morse <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Jonathan Morse <[redacted]>
Subject: Grammar: folk belief vs. poetry
To: [redacted]
Date: Wednesday, August 11, 2010, 11:08 PM

On 8/10/2010 5:32 AM, Mark Weiss wrote:
> Total is singular. "There are ten books," but "there is a total of ten books."
Oh, let's be poetic and LISTEN to the grammar. Consider, for instance, this sensitive passage from Randolph Quirk, Sidney Greenbaum, Geoffrey Leach, and Jan Svartvik, _A Comprehensive Grammar of the English Language_ (London: Longman, 1985):

"The _there_ of existential sentences . . . often determines concord, governing a singular form of the verb even when the following 'notional subject' is plural:

There's some people in the waiting room. <informal>

occurs alongside:

There are some people in the waiting room."

(Chapter 18.46, "The status of existential _there_ as subject," p. 1405)

The two sentences about people in the waiting room communicate slightly different senses of the word "there," don't they? Training yourself to hear the difference is one of the many things that poetry is good for.

So here's an exercise. Can you listen to this example from ch. 18.49, p. 1408, "There exist a number of similar medieval crosses in different parts of the country," and then articulate an explanation of why "There exists a number" would be computer language, not human language?

Jonathan Morse

> At 03:46 PM 8/9/2010, you wrote:
> maybe my brain is on hiatus already, but for the life of me, I can't figure out what's wrong with "there are a total".

On Mon, Aug 9, 2010 at 3:24 PM, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

The ad for a competition that you have included says
"there are a total"

Are we to take it that entrants have to try to achieve that level of English usage?

gb

On Aug 7, 2010, at 4:27 PM, michael farrell wrote:

a rodeo to an apple bob - this to most poetry comps -

http://www.nycmidnight.com/2010/FFC/challenge.htm

one thing i like about many u.s. poetry comps is that they have an aesthetic context -unlike australia where the pretence is almost always the best of the best - it may be acknowledged that different judges have different tastes but the blandout conventionalism of the basic premise is
rarely challenged

(wasnt going to raise this issue again but provoked by the above appearing on my facebook page with the usual suggestion that i 'like' it. i 'x'ed it,
with the reason 'offensive', but perhaps shdve clicked 'misleading')

George Bowering

Hiyo, Aluminum, away!

New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.

> $16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm
>
> "What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the poet alive in every sense of the word, and through every one of his senses. Instead of missing a beat or a part, Weissâ€™ fragments are like Chekhovâ€™s short storiesÂthe more that gets left out, the more they seem to containâ€¦ One can hear echoes from all the various ancestors...[but] the voice, at its center, its core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment is both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure musical threnodyâ€¦[it] opens a window, not only into a mind, but a person, a personality, this human figure at the emotional center of the poem."
>
> M.G. Stephens, in Jacket. http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml

↑ Index

133. Jeff Davis

Re: John Wieners: HELLO JOHN, from 2010

Thu 12 Aug 2010

Any more information you could give us about the COLLECTED WIENERS, CA?

Jeff

On the web at http://naturespoetry.blogspot.com

On Thu, Aug 12, 2010 at 10:17 AM, Ruth Lepson <[redacted]> wrote:
> That IS great news--and as it should be. Thank you for the Wieners EPC, too.
>
>
> On 8/10/10 10:50 AM, "CA Conrad" <[redacted]> wrote:
>
>> Maria, Tenney, and everyone else, thanks.
>>
>> Great news is that there is a COLLECTED WIENERS in the works!
>>
>> How exciting is THAT????
>>
>> But until then I strongly suggest interlibrary loan is the way to go, >> unless you can actually afford the prices the thieves trying to cash >> in on the Wieners legacy by jacking up his out of print stock.
>>
>> It's a great day knowing Wieners will be BACK IN PRINT!
>> Conrad

>
>

↑ Index

134. Ruth Lepson
does anyone
Thu 12 Aug 2010

---

know how to get in touch with Linda Bukowski? A former student of mine has done some settings of Bukowski & can¹t find her to get permission.

Many thanks for backchanneling me.

↑ Index

135. steve russell
End Times (Green) poetics, or Adopt A Gringo
Thu 12 Aug 2010

Been talking with my Green Party D.C. friends.
It really does seem as if the End has finally arrived and will be unfolding in many interesting ways as the 1st decade of century 21 comes to a close.

I mean, even the Rich are no longer getting richer.
It's that bad.
& the enviroment, as everyone knows, is a cesspool.

So I'm wondering: Where are the sustainable communities?
Artist, especially, should think very hard.

I haven't done the research, but I wonder if there's a Native American Tribe that has an Adopt a Gringo program. I've been rereading my Wendell Berry and I'm almost certain (I'm not good with absolutes) that the original natives of this country will have a huge leg up when things finally collapse.Run ... to the woods ... or someplace safe.

↑ Index

136. Alan Sondheim
Fwd: Call for Participants | Listeners Project @ Hyde Park Art Center (fwd)
Thu 12 Aug 2010

---------- Forwarded message ----------
Date: Thu, 12 Aug 2010 13:39:56
From: Judd Morrissey <[redacted]>

To: Judd Morrissey <[redacted]>
Subject: Fwd: Call for Participants | Listeners Project @ Hyde Park Art Center

Dear friends / colleagues,

I am forwarding a call from Chris Cuellar, a Chicago-based artist working within conceptual and digital poetics (and recent grad of our MFA Writing program). Feel free to contact him and please pass along to other artists, friends, students, etc. in your communities who might be interested.

very best to all Judd

From: [redacted]
Subject: Fwd: Call for Participants | Listeners Project @ Hyde Park Art Center

Below is an official call for participants for a current project for the fall. I know that all of you have many, many interesting contacts both far and wide, and would be extremely grateful if you could forward to any potentially interested parties. Please note that this call is for remote performances (meaning they can happen almost anywhere, though time zone differences are always pesky).

****

LISTENERS PROJECT 2010

Call for Participants

In conjunction with the Hyde Park Art Center's Ground Floor exhibition, The Listeners is a sound project that uses audio streaming technologies to investigate the increasingly ubiquitous phenomenon of telepresence, a form of liveness often associated with notions of network culture or ambient awareness.

The project space within the gallery consists of two primary elements: a recording station and a listening station. Ambient sound from the recording station will be streamed over the internet to a performer in a remote location, who will simply listen to the incoming audio stream. The performer's directive is to listen and verbally describe everything that he or she is hearing, while also streaming this verbal description back to the gallery in real-time. The recording station inside the gallery will be fully accessible to viewers, who, intentionally or not, will contribute audio content to the outgoing stream. The listening station, however, will only be accessible to a single viewer at a time, via one pair of headphones placed in a close enough proximity to the recording station, where the viewer will be able to listen to the performer's incoming verbal description of the nearby sonic environment.

The material requirements necessary to perform this piece are minimal: a computer, a microphone (most computers now have these built-in) and a steady internet connection. All performers will receive step-by-step setup instructions; no special technical experience is required.

The show will run from August 29 - October 31, 2010; with a listening performance running from 1pm-5pm, once per day, seven days a week. I would like to have enough performers enlisted such that all participants would perform no more than two times. If you are interested in participating: please contact me at [redacted]

Chris Cuellar

[logo.gif]

↑ Index

137. steve russell
Re: Grammar: folk belief vs. poetry
Thu 12 Aug 2010

Soon we'll be in 5th grade again, diagraming sentences. The nuns taught me ... & that's where it all went wrong.

_____
From: Jonathan Morse <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Thu, August 12, 2010 12:08:53 AM
Subject: Grammar: folk belief vs. poetry

On 8/10/2010 5:32 AM, Mark Weiss wrote:
> Total is singular. "There are ten books," but "there is a total of ten books."
Oh, let's be poetic and LISTEN to the grammar. Consider, for instance, this sensitive passage from Randolph Quirk, Sidney Greenbaum, Geoffrey Leach, and Jan Svartvik, _A Comprehensive Grammar of the English Language_ (London: Longman, 1985):

"The _there_ of existential sentences . . . often determines concord, governing a singular form of the verb even when the following 'notional subject' is plural:

There's some people in the waiting room. <informal>

occurs alongside:

There are some people in the waiting room."

(Chapter 18.46, "The status of existential _there_ as subject," p. 1405)

The two sentences about people in the waiting room communicate slightly different senses of the word "there," don't they? Training yourself to hear the difference is one of the many things that poetry is good for.

So here's an exercise. Can you listen to this example from ch. 18.49, p. 1408, "There exist a number of similar medieval crosses in different parts of the country," and then articulate an explanation of why "There exists a number" would be computer language, not human language?

Jonathan Morse

>
> At 03:46 PM 8/9/2010, you wrote:
>> maybe my brain is on hiatus already, but for the life of me, I can't figure >> out what's wrong with "there are a total".
>>
>> On Mon, Aug 9, 2010 at 3:24 PM, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>>
>> > The ad for a competition that you have included says
>> > "there are a total"
>> >
>> > Are we to take it that entrants have to try to achieve that level of >> > English usage?
>> >
>> > gb
>> >
>> >
>> >
>> >
>> > On Aug 7, 2010, at 4:27 PM, michael farrell wrote:
>> >
>> > a rodeo to an apple bob - this to most poetry comps -
>> >>
>> >> http://www.nycmidnight.com/2010/FFC/challenge.htm
>> >>
>> >> one thing i like about many u.s. poetry comps is that they have an >> >> aesthetic context -unlike australia where the pretence is almost always
the >> >> best of the best - it may be acknowledged that different judges have >> >> different tastes but the blandout conventionalism of the basic premise is >> >> rarely challenged
>> >>
>> >> (wasnt going to raise this issue again but provoked by the above
appearing >> >> on my facebook page with the usual suggestion that i 'like' it. i 'x'ed

it,
>> >> with the reason 'offensive', but perhaps shdve clicked 'misleading')
>> >>
>> >>
>> >>
>> >>
>> >
>> > George Bowering
>> >
>> > Hiyo, Aluminum, away!
>> >
>> >
>> >
>> >
>> >
>> >
>>
>
>
>
> New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
> $16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm
>
>
> "What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation of >particulars. Here is the poet alive in every sense of the word, and through >every one of his senses. Instead of missing a beat or a part, Weissâ€™ fragments >are like Chekhovâ€™s short storiesÂthe more that gets left out, the more they seem >to containâ€¦ One can hear echoes from all the various ancestors...[but] the >voice, at its center, its core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment is >both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure musical threnodyâ€¦[it] opens a window, >not only into a mind, but a person, a personality, this human figure at the >emotional center of the poem."
>
> M.G. Stephens, in Jacket.
>http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml
>
>

↑ Index

138. peter ganick
new text and art book by Peter Ganick
Thu 12 Aug 2010

*IMMEDIACY *is a new book by Peter Ganick, published by white sky books. It consists of an 81 page book-length text and numerous full-color full-page abstract paintings.

http://www.lulu.com/content/9170135

An inexpensive Download will be available by 9pm Eastern Daylight Time today. Thank you. Check out the generous Preview to view some of the text and paintings.

↑ Index

139. Alan Sondheim
Forwarded article below on the Mosque controversies (fwd)
Thu 12 Aug 2010

I just have to say I'm ashamed of this country, and scared - too much hatred against illegal immigrants (WHICH WE ALL ARE), and now Islam. Some of the protests are all too familiar Kristallnacht in tone - on Jon Stewart, there was a newsclip of a community going to burn a copy of the Koran on 9/11.

I can't argue this with anyone - I'm horrified and brought to tears by it. And we can't sit by and let a rabid racist right grow in this country - the affects have been seen repeatedly worldwide.

- Alan

---------- Forwarded message ----------
Date: Thu, 12 Aug 2010 15:20:36
From: [redacted]
To: [redacted]
Subject: [evol-psych] Digest Number 7327

There are 6 messages in this issue.

Topics in this digest:

1. News: Orangutan pantomime ~ elaborating the message
   From: Robert Karl Stonjek

2a. Re: Holistic Darwinism: The new evolutionary paradigm and some impli
From: Mike Tintner 2b. Re: Holistic Darwinism: The new evolutionary paradigm and some impli From: Steve Moxon

3. Bonobos and chimps
   From: mark hubey
4. The Rise of America's Idiot Culture
   From: ED
5. 8 Percent of U.S. Births to Illegal Immigrants
   From: R A Fonda

Messages

---

1. News: Orangutan pantomime ~ elaborating the message
   Posted by: "Robert Karl Stonjek" [redacted] rk_stonjek
   Date: Thu Aug 12, 2010 3:07 am ((PDT))

Orangutan pantomime: elaborating the message
Anne Russon1 and Kristin Andrews2

1Psychology Department, Glendon College, 2275 Bayview Avenue, Toronto, Ontario, Canada M4N 3M6 2Philosophy Department, York University, 4700 Keele St Toronto, Ontario, Canada M3J 1P3

*Author for correspondence ([redacted]). Abstract We present an exploratory study of forest-living orangutan pantomiming, i.e. gesturing in which they act out their meaning, focusing on its occurrence, communicative functions, and complexities. Studies show that captive great apes may elaborate messages if communication fails, and isolated reports suggest that great apes occasionally pantomime. We predicted forest-living orangutans would pantomime spontaneously to communicate, especially to elaborate after communication failures. Mining existing databases on free-ranging rehabilitant orangutans' behaviour identified 18 salient pantomimes. These pantomimes most often functioned as elaborations of failed requests, but also as deceptions and declaratives. Complexities identified include multimodality, re-enactments of past events and several features of language (productivity, compositionality, systematicity). These findings confirm that free-ranging rehabilitant orangutans pantomime and use pantomime to elaborate on their mess ages. Further, they use pantomime for multiple functions and create complex pantomimes that can express propositionally structured content. Thus, orangutan pantomime serves as a medium for communication, not a particular function. Mining cases of complex great ape communication originally reported in functional terms may then yield more evidence of pantomime.

Source: The Royal Society
http://rsbl.royalsocietypublishing.org/content/early/2010/08/05/rsbl.2010.0564.abstract?papetoc

Posted by
Robert Karl Stonjek

Messages in this topic (1)

---

4. The Rise of America's Idiot Culture
    Posted by: "ED" [redacted] seacrofter001
    Date: Thu Aug 12, 2010 7:59 am ((PDT))

August 12, 2010
The Rise of America's Idiot Culture The Muslim Community Center at Ground Zero: a Manufactured Controversy
By ANTHONY DiMAGGIO

A substantial racist uproar is taking place in conservative America, particularly in right-wing radio and television. Reactionary pundits are drawing increased attention to plans to build an Islamic community center in downtown Manhattan, near Ground Zero. Republicans and conservatives have long been known to harbor racist views of Islam, although they're hardly alone in this. Many on the right frame the entire religion as radical, fundamentalist, and a threat to national security. In light of this pattern, there's little surprising about the right's most recent attack on Muslim Americans as a secret, under the radar threat.

Islam has at times been portrayed on the right as the bedrock threat to American cultural values, and Muslims are depicted as uni-dimensionally set on overthrowing Christianity, enslaving the American public, and imposing "Sharia law." The last warning about "Sharia law" ? repeated by pundits like Sean Hannity and Rush Limbaugh ? among many others ? comes off as extremely ignorant, considering that the term "Sharia" itself means Islamic law. One should take the warnings of those who use the phrase "Sharia law" about as seriously as someone who masquerades as a legal scholar while talking about the importance of "American law law."

The American right has also taken to paranoid conspiracy theories charging that Obama is a non-citizen. As the story goes, Obama was really born in Kenya, and his "take over" of the White House represents a secret victory for radical Islam, since, as we all "know," Obama is a closet Muslim terrorist who is allied with Osama bin Laden and other radical Islamists. About half of Republicans believe either that Obama is not a citizen or that they cannot be sure of whether he is really an American citizen or not. These views are shared by nearly 60 percent of self-designated Tea Party supporters.

Of course, the nuances of the Islamic faith and the mainstream nature of the American Muslim community - the vast majority who oppose terrorism, fundamentalism, or repression of women - have been completely lost in the smug arrogance and incompetence of racists on the right.

The reactionary right has long been opposed to anything related to Arab culture and the Muslim religion in New York and around the country. One infamous example is New York's Khalil Gibran Arabic language academy, the first of its kind for the city. Rabid right-wingers railed against it, especially those in the "stop the Madrassa" campaign (many of whom worried about the dangers of "Madrassa schools," while apparently too ignorant to realize that the word Madrassa itself means school). I argued with one of the leaders of this group on Alan Colmes' radio show a few years ago. She seemed un-phased by the reality that there was never any concrete evidence that the Khalil Gibran academy was teaching Islamic values. As she announced on the show (despite my scorn for her comments), the very fact that there was no visible evidence of an Islamic curriculum was proof of just how good the schools' administrators and teachers were of hiding it. Such paranoia demonstrated how far conservative extremism and racism have come in recent years.

This brings us to the most recent "controversy" related to Islam: the Muslim community center planned for Manhattan. Right wingers in radio and at Fox News have gone into overdrive attacking it as a fundamental threat to the American way of life and to American security. Their racist diatribes have been hard for me to listen to, but they remain important to address, if for no other reason than so we can fight the ignorant assumptions behind them head on.

Here's a quick review of some of the most outrageous comments made in the American media:

- On Fox News, former Congressman Newt Gingrich attacked the community center for its planned location "right at the edge of a place where, let's be clear, thousands of Americans were killed in an attack by radical Islamists." On his website, Gingrich announced that "there should be no mosque near ground zero in New York so long as there are no churches or synagogues in Saudi Arabia." Gingrich's choice to spotlight the radical fundamentalist regime of Saudi Arabia (hypocritically supported by Gingrich himself when he was Speaker of the House in the 1990s) ? while neglecting moderate and secular governments in the Muslim world, speaks volumes about what he considers to be the "essence" of Islam. Gingrich's language is truly abhorrent; he frames those supporting the community center in Manhattan as part of the same "they" as the Islamic fundamentalists who perpetrated the 9-11 attacks. As far as Gingrich is concerned, there are no distinctions to be made in the monolithic "threat" that is the entire U.S. and world Muslim community.

- On Fox, Sarah Palin drew attention to "those innocent victims, those families of those who were killed in the 9-11 tragedy, it saddens me to think that people don't understand what building this mosque at such hallowed ground really represents." Inextricably linked to Palin's warnings is the assumption that the community center represents a single, overarching fifth column threat from American Muslims. This much was clear when she characterized its construction as "an unnecessary provocation" against the people of New York and the American people more generally.

- Fox News host Sean Hannity claimed that the "Iman" supporting the building of the community center is a figure who "supports what happened on 9/11" and "praises Osama bin Laden." Hannity, of course, failed to present any evidence linking community center supporters to defending the 9/11 attacks, but this hardly seemed to matter to him or his guest, Jay Seculow (of the American Center for Law and Justice), who complained that "you don't get to build a mosque on a site that's part of ground zero" because "that would be like putting at Pearl Harbor a monument of the Kamikaze pilots who tried to destroy U.S. troops, you just don't do that." In this case, Muslim Americans who had nothing to do with 9/11 are apparently the equivalent of Japanese soldiers who killed Americans during World War II.

- Right wing radio icon Rush Limbaugh, not to be outdone, warned that "the terrorists win" if the community center successfully moves forward. Limbaugh continued, posing a hypothetical comparing Muslim Americans to those who lynched blacks in the post Civil War era: "Let me ask you: What would happen, do you think, if the Ku Klux Klan wanted to establish a memorial at Gettysburg?" Limbaugh also employed a World War II analogy, likening the dangers of the community center to the destruction brought upon Japan by U.S. nuclear weapons: "Let's go to Hiroshima and Nagasaki and let's build giant monuments in the shape of nuclear bombs and call it the Manhattan Project. I mean you'd have Americans objecting to that, wouldn't you?"

What is most disturbing about the manufactured controversy involving the community center is the blatant arrogance and stupidity of the right in its warnings of an imminent "threat." Anyone who spends thirty seconds researching the Cordoba Group, the organization responsible for promoting the community center, would know that the group's representative, Feisal Abdul Rauf (targeted in Hannity attacks as pro-bin Laden and pro-9/11) is actually a public critic of Osama bin Laden and the 9/11 attacks, and a vocal supporter of improving relations between the U.S. and the Muslim world. None of this is conveyed in any of the right-wing slander above, however, as these pundits are content to showcase their ignorance regarding the basic facts surrounding the community center fiasco they "authoritatively" "report" on.

I should note that all of the pundits above premise their attacks on the Manhattan community center with statements that promotion of religious tolerance and cultural diversity are important and necessary. These claims, however, mean nothing when they are followed by fear mongering and attacks on Muslims as part of an all-encompassing threat that derives from some sort of uniform "Muslim culture" ? one that is seen as constituting a danger to U.S. security and the American way of life. These pundits refuse to distinguish between the tiny minority of those throughout the world who support terrorism in the name of Islam and the vast majority of Muslims who reject those beliefs. Their reluctance to take a reasonable, level-headed approach to the study of the Muslim faith is an indicator of their fanaticism, religious bigotry, and racism.

Rather than asking whether the Manhattan community center represents a threat, we should be asking ourselves what happened to our country when national discourse is hijacked by those who not only have no interest in facts, but see them as an active roadblock to advancing their racist agendas. The blatant racism and incompetence of those attacking the Manhattan community center should be obvious enough to those who pride themselves in promoting multi-culturalism, racial diversity, and respect for religious freedom. That the racist right remains so prominent in national television and radio is a sign, more than anything else, of the steep deterioration of American political discourse.

Anthony DiMaggio is the editor of media-ocracy (www.media-ocracy.com <http://www.media-ocracy.com/>), a daily online magazine devoted to the study of media, public opinion, and current events. He has taught U.S. and Global Politics at Illinois State University and North Central College, and is the author of When Media Goes to War <http://www.amazon.com/exec/obidos/ASIN/1583671994/counterpunchmaga> (2010) and Mass Media, Mass Propaganda <http://www.amazon.com/exec/obidos/ASIN/0739119036/counterpunchmaga> (2008). He can be reached at: [redacted] <mailto:[redacted]>

http://www.counterpunch.org/dimaggio08122010.html <http://www.counterpunch.org/dimaggio08122010.html>

Messages in this topic (1)

---

5. 8 Percent of U.S. Births to Illegal Immigrants
   Posted by: "R A Fonda" [redacted] rafonda2000
   Date: Thu Aug 12, 2010 8:01 am ((PDT))

   Study: 8 Percent of U.S. Births to Illegal Immigrants

Pew Hispanic Center Report Sheds Light on Americans at Center of Birthright Citizenship Debate

By DEVIN DWYER

WASHINGTON, August 11, 2010---

Eight percent of all babies born in the U.S. in 2008 belonged to illegal immigrant <http://newspreview.corp.dig.com/Politics/illegal-immigration-america-shadows-abc-news-special-series/story?id=11099873> parents, according to a groundbreaking analysis of U.S. Census Bureau data by the Pew Hispanic Center. Under the 14th amendment to the Constitution, each child obtained U.S. citizenship at birth while one or both of the parents remained undocumented.

The study <http://pewhispanic.org/reports/report.php?ReportID=125> sheds new light on a group of Americans at the center of a hot political debate <http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/birthright-citizenship-14th-amendment-republican-senators-explore-change/story?id=11313973> in recent weeks. Some Republican lawmakers have proposed revising birthright citizenship to bar U.S.-born children of illegal immigrants from obtaining legal status.

Pew estimates 340,000 of the 4.3 million newborns in U.S. hospitals in 2008 belonged to illegal immigrant parents. In total, 4 million U.S.-born, citizen children of illegal immigrants <http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/birth-tourism-industry-markets-us-citizenship-abroad/story?id=10359956> currently live in the country, according to the study.

The study is the most comprehensive, non-partisan research to date on children of illegal immigrants living in the U.S. and adds important context, and frames the ongoing debate. Previously there have been few reliable estimates of annual U.S. births to illegal immigrants.

Critics of birthright citizenship <http://abcnews.go.com/WN/debate-birthright-citizenship-aims-baby-tourism/story?id=11322850&page=1> have expressed concern over the burgeoning size of America's illegal immigrant <http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/illegal-immigration-america-shadows-abc-news-special-series/story?id=11099873> population, estimated at 10.8 million and whose offspring in the U.S. would be able to sponsor their parents and relatives for legal residency. The children are sometimes referred to as anchor babies.

"Birthright citizenship I think is a mistake," said Republican Sen. Lindsey Graham of South Carolina. "We should change our Constitution and say if you come here illegally and you have a child, that child's automatically not a citizen."

Senate Minority Leader Mitch McConnell and other leading Republicans, including Arizona senators Jon Kyl and John McCain, have indicated an openness to exploring the 14th Amendment issue raised by Sen. Graham. But some harbor deep reservations about changing the Constitution.

"It's a rather unseemly business and I think we ought to have some hearings about it," McConnell said of the practice of illegal immigrant mothers giving birth in the U.S.

"Congressional hearings are always warranted when members of Congress raise the issue of amending our Constitution," said McCain in a statement. "I believe that the Constitution is a strong, complete and carefully crafted document that has successfully governed our nation for centuries and any proposal to amend the Constitution should receive extensive and thoughtful consideration."

Birthright Citizenship Debate: Election Year Politics?

But some lawmakers are calling the push to revise the 14th Amendment nothing but a political stunt.

"I think it's good to take a look at all of our constitutional amendments. But I'll tell you something: if you think it's a coincidence that this sudden discussion begins three months before an election, you'd be very, very mistaken," said Vermont Independent Sen. Bernie Sanders on ABC's "Top Line" <http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/video/sanders-14th-amendment-100-percent-political-11314073>.

Pennsylvannia Democratic Sen. Arlen Specter, whose parents were immigrants to the U.S., has called U.S. citizenship by birth a fundamental right.

"The political pandering on the immigration issue has reached the hysterical level," Specter told ABC News. "To try to direct the effort at the children born in this country is just preposterous... How can newborn children protect themselves if politicians want to gain political gain... I would be shocked if this idea would gain political traction, but I'm being shocked on a daily basis by the United States Senate."

History of Birthright and the 14th Amendment

The 14th Amendment to the Constitution, which was enacted after the Civil War to grant citizenship to descendants of slaves, reads: "All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside."

"The drafter of the 14th Amendment provision on citizenship did make a statement that it would not include foreigners or aliens," said George Washington University constitutional law professor Jonathan Turley. "However, other senators made it clear that they believed that this provision guaranteed birthright citizenship."

The courts have repeatedly ruled that people who are born in the U.S. are American citizens and if Congress passed a law changing that, it would likely be repealed, experts say.

The Supreme Court <http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/Supreme_Court/> has only addressed the issue once, clarifying in 1898 that citizenship does apply to U.S.-born children of legal immigrants who have yet to become citizens.

"The legislative history may be a little mixed, but the language of the amendment seems to speak clearly in favor of birthright citizenship, regardless of what the intent may have been," Turley said.

The United States is one of the few remaining countries to grant citizenship to all children born on its soil. The United Kingdom, Ireland, India and Australia, among others, have since revised their birthright laws, no longer allowing every child born on their soil to get citizenship.

Messages in this topic (1)

---------- Yahoo! Groups Links

<*> To visit your group on the web, go to:
http://groups.yahoo.com/group/evolutionary-psychology/

<*> Your email settings:
Digest Email | Traditional

<*> To change settings online go to:
http://groups.yahoo.com/group/evolutionary-psychology/join (Yahoo! ID required)

<*> To change settings via email:
[redacted]

<*> Your use of Yahoo! Groups is subject to: http://docs.yahoo.com/info/terms/

↑ Index

140. Stephen Ellis

Re: competitions

Thu 12 Aug 2010

You must be totaled to be accurate. Is that like being 98.6% loaded?

Date: Tue, 10 Aug 2010 08:59:40 -0400
From: [redacted]
Subject: Re: competitions
To: [redacted]

David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html
writes:
"While those of us in the grammar police (either official or clandestine) like to disparage any errors, we must also recognize that usage is flexible and evolving, It may be that there are myriad ways to express things, with a whole range of 'levels of usage.' Let's live with it and enjoy it."

.....

Ummm . . . :

"a total" ("a"=singular)
"is" (singular)
"This place is a total wreck."

"totals" (plural)
"are" (plural)
"Several totals are required to ensure accuracy."

The newest proposal for national educational standards in the U. S. recommends teaching grammatical agreement in grade three (the first grammatical principle mentioned in that set of standards). Many of my students in college composition seem unable to distinguish between one and more than one. Perhaps only a tiny neurological window exists for hard-wiring agreement, but given recent work in brain plasticity, I doubt it--though a fourteen-week semester usually proves insufficient for rehab. As Yale grad G. W. Bush wondered, "Is our children learning?" Good enough? Enjoy that?

~ Dan Zimmerman, Ph.D.
[redacted]

----- Original Message -----
From: "Angela Vasquez-Giroux" <[redacted]>
To: <[redacted]>
Sent: Monday, August 09, 2010 3:46 PM
Subject: Re: competitions

maybe my brain is on hiatus already, but for the life of me, I can't figure out what's wrong with "there are a total".

On Mon, Aug 9, 2010 at 3:24 PM, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

The ad for a competition that you have included says
"there are a total"

Are we to take it that entrants have to try to achieve that level of English usage?

gb

On Aug 7, 2010, at 4:27 PM, michael farrell wrote:

a rodeo to an apple bob - this to most poetry comps -

http://www.nycmidnight.com/2010/FFC/challenge.htm

one thing i like about many u.s. poetry comps is that they have an aesthetic context -unlike australia where the pretence is almost always the best of the best - it may be acknowledged that different judges have different tastes but the blandout conventionalism of the basic premise is
rarely challenged

(wasnt going to raise this issue again but provoked by the above appearing on my facebook page with the usual suggestion that i 'like' it. i 'x'ed it,
with the reason 'offensive', but perhaps shdve clicked 'misleading')

George Bowering

Hiyo, Aluminum, away!

> guidelines

↑ Index

141. Laurie Schneider & Crag Hill

mIEKAL aND, James Yeary, Crag Hill, reading at Avol's Books (Madison), Monday August 16, 7 p.m.

Thu 12 Aug 2010

Avol's Books
315 W. Gorham
Madison

↑ Index

142. Jim Andrews

Re: competitions

Fri 13 Aug 2010

> Yes, I love it. George W Bush's language gave us a new perspective on the presidency and the electorate. Not to mention what a Yale education means. A level of usage, as I suggest.
>
> David

what is of value?

my mom passed away two years ago. i'm living in the house i inherited from my parents. forty years of stuff in the house. have to get rid of a lot of stuff.

she liked her china. it was of great value to her. but it isn't worth much anymore. cuz you can't put it in the dishwasher or the microwave oven. so young people don't want it very badly. and her mink coat. that was of great value to her. but nobody wants them anymore cuz they're beacons of barbarism. and the books. can barely give them away, around here.

she also placed value on proper grammar. to be able to speak properly and write properly. that too is changing, the value of such things. the idea of such things. not because of george bush, so much, as the international dimensions of contemporary communications and also the lack of intense concentration on grammar as a high priority in education. many of us correspond and/or speak regularly with people whose first language is not english. if they are generous enough to speak english with us, do we really want to demand 'proper english' from them? particularly if we cannot speak their language? i don't think so. we have more important things to deal with.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

143. cris cheek
Re: {spam?} Forwarded article below on the Mosque controversies (fwd)
Fri 13 Aug 2010

I couldn't agree more about the morbidity of the mosque debates Alan and by the statement that we are all immigrants

i do not however think it is the sole purview of the "right" to generate paranoia and hate speech (bearing in mind that "left" and "right" are also troubling formulations with troubled histories)

i've not seen Obama want to take down the fence with Mexico started under the odious Bush in the south west (for example . . . he sent more troops no less) nor actually close down Guantanamo (for example . . . all empty rhetoric for 18 months already now) nor do anything but escalate the war in Afghanistan (for example . . . although i guess that's not surprising since Democrat presidents have taken the US to war far more eagerly and frequently throughout the twentieth century than even their Republican counterparts . . . unless my math is just wrong, in the guise of the world's police . . . vomit) nor repeal the Patriot Act (for example . . . an act of insanity by GW Bush against which there was so much derision focussed when i first came to live here in the US and which Obama has re-ratified) nor address the hideous Department of Homeland Security . . . (a militarization of the State that builds inexorably on surveillance and controls brought in my that arch Big Brother sap J Edgar Hoover . . .)

. . .

and then which judge made a serious move on Prop 8 just a couple of weeks ago . . . a libertarian-leaning freedom of speech judge appointed by Ronald Reagan . . (what is Obama doing to end Reagan's appallingly debilitating and outright destructive War on Drugs?? btw)

attacks on the "right" by the "left" appear just as driven by paranoia and characterized by stereotypical terms and forms of abuse as attacks on the "left" by the "right"

it is as often unions who campaign against immigration on the grounds of competition for their members jobs and a previous wave of immigrants which tries to block the next as it is nationalists and xenophobes weaving their racist sentiments into planning and zoning debates and whipping up fearful sentiment

a pox on both Democrats and on Republicans

xx

cris

On Aug 12, 2010, at 4:26 PM, Alan Sondheim wrote:

> I just have to say I'm ashamed of this country, and scared - too much hatred against illegal immigrants (WHICH WE ALL ARE), and now Islam. Some > of the protests are all too familiar Kristallnacht in tone - on Jon Stewart, there was a newsclip of a community going to burn a copy of the > Koran on 9/11.
>
> I can't argue this with anyone - I'm horrified and brought to tears by it.
> And we can't sit by and let a rabid racist right grow in this country -
> the affects have been seen repeatedly worldwide.
>
> - Alan
>
> ---------- Forwarded message ----------
> Date: Thu, 12 Aug 2010 15:20:36
> From: [redacted]
> Reply-To: No Reply <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: [evol-psych] Digest Number 7327
>
> There are 6 messages in this issue.
>
> Topics in this digest:
>
> 1. News: Orangutan pantomime ~ elaborating the message
> From: Robert Karl Stonjek
>
> 2a. Re: Holistic Darwinism: The new evolutionary paradigm and some impli
> From: Mike Tintner
> 2b. Re: Holistic Darwinism: The new evolutionary paradigm and some impli
> From: Steve Moxon
>
> 3. Bonobos and chimps

From: mark hubey

4. The Rise of America's Idiot Culture
From: ED

5. 8 Percent of U.S. Births to Illegal Immigrants
From: R A Fonda

Messages

---

1. News: Orangutan pantomime ~ elaborating the message Posted by: "Robert Karl Stonjek" [redacted]
rk_stonjek
Date: Thu Aug 12, 2010 3:07 am ((PDT))

Orangutan pantomime: elaborating the message
Anne Russon1 and Kristin Andrews2

1Psychology Department, Glendon College, 2275 Bayview Avenue, Toronto, Ontario,
Canada M4N 3M6
2Philosophy Department, York University, 4700 Keele St Toronto, Ontario, Canada
M3J 1P3

Author for correspondence ([redacted]).*
Abstract
We present an exploratory study of forest-living orangutan pantomiming, i.e. gesturing in which they act out their meaning, focusing on its occurrence, communicative functions, and complexities. Studies show that captive great apes may elaborate messages if communication fails, and isolated reports suggest that great apes occasionally pantomime. We predicted forest-living orangutans would pantomime spontaneously to communicate, especially to elaborate after communication failures. Mining existing databases on free-ranging rehabilitant orangutans' behaviour identified 18 salient pantomimes. These pantomimes most often functioned as elaborations of failed requests, but also as deceptions and declaratives. Complexities identified include multimodality, reenactments of past events and several features of language (productivity, compositionality, systematicity). These findings confirm that free-ranging rehabilitant orangutans pantomime and use pantomime to elaborate on their mess ages. Further, they use pantomime for multiple functions and create complex pantomimes that can express propositionally structured content. Thus, orangutan pantomime serves as a medium for communication, not a particular function.

Mining cases of complex great ape communication originally reported in functional terms may then yield more evidence of pantomime.

Source: The Royal Society
http://rsbl.royalsocietypublishing.org/content/early/2010/08/05/rsbl.2010.0564.abstract?papetoc

Posted by
Robert Karl Stonjek

Messages in this topic (1)

---

4. The Rise of America's Idiot Culture
Posted by: "ED" [redacted] seacrofter001
Date: Thu Aug 12, 2010 7:59 am ((PDT))

August 12, 2010
The Rise of America's Idiot Culture The Muslim Community Center at Ground Zero: a Manufactured Controversy
By ANTHONY DiMAGGIO

A substantial racist uproar is taking place in conservative America, particularly in right-wing radio and television. Reactionary pundits are drawing increased attention to plans to build an Islamic community center in downtown Manhattan, near Ground Zero. Republicans and conservatives have long been known to harbor racist views of Islam, although they're hardly alone in this. Many on the right frame the entire religion as radical, fundamentalist, and a threat to national security. In light of this pattern, there's little surprising about the right's most recent attack on Muslim Americans as a secret, under the radar threat.

Islam has at times been portrayed on the right as the bedrock threat to American cultural values, and Muslims are depicted as uni-dimensionally set on overthrowing Christianity, enslaving the American public, and imposing "Sharia law." The last warning about "Sharia law" ? repeated by pundits like Sean Hannity and Rush Limbaugh ? among many others ? comes off as extremely ignorant, considering that the term "Sharia" itself means Islamic law. One should take the warnings of those who use the phrase "Sharia law" about as seriously as someone who masquerades as a legal scholar while talking about the importance of "American law law."

The American right has also taken to paranoid conspiracy theories charging that Obama is a non-citizen. As the story goes, Obama was really born in Kenya, and his "take over" of the White House represents a secret victory for radical Islam, since, as we all "know," Obama is a closet Muslim terrorist who is allied with Osama bin Laden and other radical Islamists. About half of Republicans believe either that Obama is not a citizen or that they cannot be sure of whether he is really an American citizen or not. These views are shared by nearly 60 percent of self-designated Tea Party supporters.

Of course, the nuances of the Islamic faith and the mainstream nature of the American Muslim community - the vast majority who oppose terrorism, fundamentalism, or repression of women - have been completely lost in the smug arrogance and incompetence of racists on the right.

The reactionary right has long been opposed to anything related to Arab culture and the Muslim religion in New York and around the country. One infamous example is New York's Khalil Gibran Arabic language academy, the first of its kind for the city. Rabid right-wingers railed against it, especially those in the "stop the Madrassa" campaign (many of whom worried about the dangers of "Madrassa schools," while apparently too ignorant to realize that the word Madrassa itself means school). I argued with one of the leaders of this group on Alan Colmes' radio show a few years ago. She seemed un-phased by the reality that there was never any concrete evidence that the Khalil Gibran academy was teaching Islamic values. As she announced on the show (despite my scorn for her comments), the very fact that there was no visible evidence of an Islamic curriculum was proof of just how good the schools' administrators and teachers were of hiding it. Such paranoia demonstrated how far conservative extremism and racism have come in recent years.

This brings us to the most recent "controversy" related to Islam: the Muslim community center planned for Manhattan. Right wingers in radio and at Fox News have gone into overdrive attacking it as a fundamental threat to the American way of life and to American security. Their racist diatribes have been hard for me to listen to, but they remain important to address, if for no other reason than so we can fight the ignorant assumptions behind them head on.

Here's a quick review of some of the most outrageous comments made in the American media:

- On Fox News, former Congressman Newt Gingrich attacked the community center for its planned location "right at the edge of a place where, let's be clear, thousands of Americans were killed in an attack by radical Islamists." On his website, Gingrich announced that "there should be no mosque near ground zero in New York so long as there are no churches or synagogues in Saudi Arabia." Gingrich's choice to spotlight the radical fundamentalist regime of Saudi Arabia (hypocritically supported by Gingrich himself when he was Speaker of the House in the 1990s) ? while neglecting moderate and secular governments in the Muslim world, speaks volumes about what he considers to be the "essence" of Islam. Gingrich's language is truly abhorrent; he frames those supporting the community center in Manhattan as part of the same "they" as the Islamic fundamentalists who perpetrated the 9-11 attacks. As far as Gingrich is concerned, there are no distinctions to be made in the monolithic "threat" that is the entire U.S. and world Muslim community.

- On Fox, Sarah Palin drew attention to "those innocent victims, those families of those who were killed in the 9-11 tragedy, it saddens me to think that people don't understand what building this mosque at such hallowed ground really represents." Inextricably linked to Palin's warnings is the assumption that the community center represents a single, overarching fifth column threat from American Muslims. This much was clear when she characterized its construction as "an unnecessary provocation" against the people of New York and the American people more generally.

- Fox News host Sean Hannity claimed that the "Iman" supporting the building of the community center is a figure who "supports what happened on 9/11" and "praises Osama bin Laden." Hannity, of course, failed to present any evidence linking community center supporters to defending the 9/11 attacks, but this hardly seemed to matter to him or his guest, Jay Seculow (of the American Center for Law and Justice), who complained that "you don't get to build a mosque on a site that's part of ground zero" because "that would be like putting at Pearl Harbor a monument of the Kamikaze pilots who tried to destroy U.S. troops, you just don't do that." In this case, Muslim Americans who had nothing to do with 9/11 are apparently the equivalent of Japanese soldiers who killed Americans during World War II.

- Right wing radio icon Rush Limbaugh, not to be outdone, warned that "the terrorists win" if the community center successfully moves forward. Limbaugh continued, posing a hypothetical comparing Muslim Americans to those who lynched blacks in the post Civil War era: "Let me ask you: What would happen, do you think, if the Ku Klux Klan wanted to establish a memorial at Gettysburg?" Limbaugh also employed a World War II analogy, likening the dangers of the community center to the destruction brought upon Japan by U.S. nuclear weapons: "Let's go to Hiroshima and Nagasaki and let's build giant monuments in the shape of nuclear bombs and call it the Manhattan Project. I mean you'd have Americans objecting to that, wouldn't you?"

What is most disturbing about the manufactured controversy involving the community center is the blatant arrogance and stupidity of the right in its warnings of an imminent "threat." Anyone who spends thirty seconds researching the Cordoba Group, the organization responsible for promoting the community center, would know that the group's representative, Feisal Abdul Rauf (targeted in Hannity attacks as pro-bin Laden and pro-9/11) is actually a public critic of Osama bin Laden and the 9/11 attacks, and a vocal supporter of improving relations between the U.S. and the Muslim world. None of this is conveyed in *any of the right-wing slander above, however, as these pundits are content to showcase their ignorance regarding the basic facts surrounding the community center fiasco they "authoritatively" "report"

on.*

*I should note that all of the pundits above premise their attacks on the Manhattan community center with statements that promotion of religious tolerance and cultural diversity are important and necessary. These claims, however, mean nothing when they are followed by fear mongering and attacks on Muslims as part of an all-encompassing threat that derives from some sort of uniform "Muslim culture" ? one that is seen as constituting a danger to U.S. security and the American
way of life. These pundits refuse to distinguish between the tiny minority of those throughout the world who support terrorism in the name
of Islam and the vast majority of Muslims who reject those beliefs.
Their reluctance to take a reasonable, level-headed approach to the study of the Muslim faith is an indicator of their fanaticism, religious bigotry, and racism.*

*Rather than asking whether the Manhattan community center represents a threat, we should be asking ourselves what happened to our country when national discourse is hijacked by those who not only have no interest in facts, but see them as an active roadblock to advancing their racist agendas. The blatant racism and incompetence of those attacking the Manhattan community center should be obvious enough to those who pride themselves in promoting multi-culturalism, racial diversity, and respect for religious freedom. That the racist right remains so prominent in national television and radio is a sign, more than anything else,
of the
steep deterioration of American political discourse.*

*Anthony DiMaggio is the editor of media-ocracy (www.media-ocracy.com <http://www.media-ocracy.com/>), a daily online magazine devoted to the study of media, public opinion, and current events. He has taught U.S. and Global Politics at Illinois State University and North Central College, and is the author of When Media Goes to War
<http://www.amazon.com/exec/obidos/ASIN/1583671994/counterpunchmaga>
(2010) and Mass Media, Mass Propaganda*

<http://www.amazon.com/exec/obidos/ASIN/0739119036/counterpunchmaga>
(2008). He can be reached at: [redacted] <mailto:[redacted]>

http://www.counterpunch.org/dimaggio08122010.html
<http://www.counterpunch.org/dimaggio08122010.html>

Messages in this topic (1)

---

5. 8 Percent of U.S. Births to Illegal Immigrants
Posted by: "R A Fonda" [redacted] rafonda2000
Date: Thu Aug 12, 2010 8:01 am ((PDT))

Study: 8 Percent of U.S. Births to Illegal Immigrants

Pew Hispanic Center Report Sheds Light on Americans at Center of Birthright Citizenship Debate

By DEVIN DWYER

WASHINGTON, August 11, 2010---

Eight percent of all babies born in the U.S. in 2008 belonged to illegal immigrant <http://newspreview.corp.dig.com/Politics/illegal-immigration-america-shadows-abc-news-special-series/story?id=11099873> parents, according to a groundbreaking analysis of U.S. Census Bureau data by the Pew Hispanic Center. Under the 14th amendment to the Constitution, each child obtained U.S. citizenship at birth while one or both of the parents remained undocumented.

The study <http://pewhispanic.org/reports/report.php?ReportID=125> sheds new light on a group of Americans at the center of a hot political debate <http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/birthright-citizenship-14th-amendment-republican-senators-explore-change/story?id=11313973>

in recent weeks. Some Republican lawmakers have proposed revising birthright citizenship to bar U.S.-born children of illegal immigrants from obtaining legal status.

Pew estimates 340,000 of the 4.3 million newborns in U.S. hospitals in 2008 belonged to illegal immigrant parents. In total, 4 million U.S.-born, citizen children of illegal immigrants
<http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/birth-tourism-industry-markets-us-citizenship-abroad/story?id=10359956>
currently live in the country, according to the study.

The study is the most comprehensive, non-partisan research to date on children of illegal immigrants living in the U.S. and adds important context, and frames the ongoing debate. Previously there have been few reliable estimates of annual U.S. births to illegal immigrants.

Critics of birthright citizenship
<http://abcnews.go.com/WN/debate-birthright-citizenship-aims-baby-tourism/story?id=11322850&page=1>
have expressed concern over the burgeoning size of America's illegal immigrant <http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/illegal-immigration-america-shadows-abc-news-special-series/story?id=11099873>
population, estimated at 10.8 million and whose offspring in the U.S. would be able to sponsor their parents and relatives for legal residency. The children are sometimes referred to as anchor babies.

"Birthright citizenship I think is a mistake," said Republican Sen. Lindsey Graham of South Carolina. "We should change our Constitution and say if you come here illegally and you have a child, that child's automatically not a citizen."

Senate Minority Leader Mitch McConnell and other leading Republicans, including Arizona senators Jon Kyl and John McCain, have indicated an openness to exploring the 14th Amendment issue raised by Sen. Graham. But some harbor deep reservations about changing the Constitution.

"It's a rather unseemly business and I think we ought to have some hearings about it," McConnell said of the practice of illegal immigrant mothers giving birth in the U.S.

"Congressional hearings are always warranted when members of Congress raise the issue of amending our Constitution," said McCain in a statement. "I believe that the Constitution is a strong, complete and carefully crafted document that has successfully governed our nation for centuries and any proposal to amend the Constitution should receive extensive and thoughtful consideration."

Birthright Citizenship Debate: Election Year Politics?

But some lawmakers are calling the push to revise the 14th Amendment nothing but a political stunt.

"I think it's good to take a look at all of our constitutional amendments. But I'll tell you something: if you think it's a coincidence that this sudden discussion begins three months before an election, you'd be very, very mistaken," said Vermont Independent Sen. Bernie Sanders on ABC's "Top Line" <http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/video/sanders-14th-amendment-100-percent-political-11314073>.

Pennsylvannia Democratic Sen. Arlen Specter, whose parents were immigrants to the U.S., has called U.S. citizenship by birth a fundamental right.

"The political pandering on the immigration issue has reached the hysterical level," Specter told ABC News. "To try to direct the effort at the children born in this country is just preposterous... How can newborn children protect themselves if politicians want to gain political gain... I would be shocked if this idea would gain political traction, but I'm being shocked on a daily basis by the United States Senate."

History of Birthright and the 14th Amendment

The 14th Amendment to the Constitution, which was enacted after the Civil War to grant citizenship to descendants of slaves, reads: "All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside."

"The drafter of the 14th Amendment provision on citizenship did make a statement that it would not include foreigners or aliens," said George Washington University constitutional law professor Jonathan Turley.

"However, other senators made it clear that they believed that this provision guaranteed birthright citizenship."

The courts have repeatedly ruled that people who are born in the U.S. are American citizens and if Congress passed a law changing that, it would likely be repealed, experts say.

The Supreme Court <http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/Supreme_Court/> has only addressed the issue once, clarifying in 1898 that citizenship does apply to U.S.-born children of legal immigrants who have yet to become citizens.

"The legislative history may be a little mixed, but the language of the amendment seems to speak clearly in favor of birthright citizenship, regardless of what the intent may have been," Turley said.

The United States is one of the few remaining countries to grant citizenship to all children born on its soil. The United Kingdom, Ireland, India and Australia, among others, have since revised their birthright laws, no longer allowing every child born on their soil to get citizenship.

Messages in this topic (1)

--
Yahoo! Groups Links

<> To visit your group on the web, go to:*
http://groups.yahoo.com/group/evolutionary-psychology/

<> Your email settings:*
Digest Email | Traditional

<> To change settings online go to:*
http://groups.yahoo.com/group/evolutionary-psychology/join (Yahoo! ID required)

> <> To change settings via email:*
> [redacted]
>
> <> Your use of Yahoo! Groups is subject to:*
> http://docs.yahoo.com/info/terms/
>
> ----------
> --
>
> welcome.html

↑ Index

144. Laurie Schneider & Crag Hill

Nico Vassilakis, James Yeary, Crag Hill, reading at Myopic Books (Chicago), Tuesday August 17, 7 p.m.

Fri 13 Aug 2010

Myopic Books
1564 N. Milwaukee
Chicago
[redacted]

James Yeary is a poet and visual/performance artist living in Portland, Oregon. He is a member of the Spare Room collective for whom he recently organized a festival of poetry for multiple voices. He is publisher of the chapbook series c_L books and is co-author (with Nate Orton) of the zine series my day. His work has appeared in ditch, Peaches & Bats, and SHIFTER.

Crag Hill until recently edited SCORE, one of only two journals dedicated exclusively to concrete/visual poetry. In the last three decades his work has appeared in over 100 journals and anthologies, including several available on-line. with Nico Vassilakis, he is editing the first major anthology of visual poetry, The Last Vispo anthology, due out this fall. His creative and critical works in progress can be found at http://scorecard.typepad.com.

Nico Vassilakis is a multimedia artist, poet and writer. He was a curator for the Subtext Reading Series in Seattle. His visual poetry videos have been shown at festivals and exhibitions of innovative language arts. Vassilakis' writings have appeared in numerous magazines, including: Ribot, Caliban, Aufgabe, Chain, Talisman, Central Park and Golden Handcuffs Review. His latest publications are TEXT LOSES TIME, a Vispo essay staReduction from BookThug, Disparate Magnets and Protracted Type, a collection of visual poetry, and recently, West of Dodge. Along with Crag Hill, Nico is currently editing The Last Vispo Anthology with 130 contributors from 25 countries

↑ Index

145. cris cheek

Re: {spam?} Forwarded article below on the Mosque controversies (fwd)

Fri 13 Aug 2010

---

hey Alan,

case in point:

http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/world-us-canada-10969738

xx

cris

On Aug 12, 2010, at 4:26 PM, Alan Sondheim wrote:

> I just have to say I'm ashamed of this country, and scared - too much hatred against illegal immigrants (WHICH WE ALL ARE), and now Islam. Some > of the protests are all too familiar Kristallnacht in tone - on Jon Stewart, there was a newsclip of a community going to burn a copy of the > Koran on 9/11.
>
> I can't argue this with anyone - I'm horrified and brought to tears by it.
> And we can't sit by and let a rabid racist right grow in this country -
> the affects have been seen repeatedly worldwide.
>
> - Alan
>
> ---------- Forwarded message ----------
> Date: Thu, 12 Aug 2010 15:20:36
> From: [redacted]
> Reply-To: No Reply <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: [evol-psych] Digest Number 7327
>
> There are 6 messages in this issue.
>
> Topics in this digest:
>
> 1. News: Orangutan pantomime ~ elaborating the message
> From: Robert Karl Stonjek

2a. Re: Holistic Darwinism: The new evolutionary paradigm and some impli
From: Mike Tintner
2b. Re: Holistic Darwinism: The new evolutionary paradigm and some impli
From: Steve Moxon

3. Bonobos and chimps
From: mark hubey

4. The Rise of America's Idiot Culture
From: ED

5. 8 Percent of U.S. Births to Illegal Immigrants
From: R A Fonda

Messages

---

1. News: Orangutan pantomime ~ elaborating the message Posted by: "Robert Karl Stonjek" [redacted]
rk_stonjek
Date: Thu Aug 12, 2010 3:07 am ((PDT))

Orangutan pantomime: elaborating the message
Anne Russon1 and Kristin Andrews2

1Psychology Department, Glendon College, 2275 Bayview Avenue, Toronto, Ontario,
Canada M4N 3M6
2Philosophy Department, York University, 4700 Keele St Toronto, Ontario, Canada
M3J 1P3

Author for correspondence ([redacted]).*
Abstract
We present an exploratory study of forest-living orangutan pantomiming, i.e.
gesturing in which they act out their meaning, focusing on its occurrence, communicative functions, and complexities. Studies show that captive great apes may elaborate messages if communication fails, and isolated reports suggest that great apes occasionally pantomime. We predicted forest-living orangutans would pantomime spontaneously to communicate, especially to elaborate after communication failures. Mining existing databases on free-ranging rehabilitant orangutans' behaviour identified 18 salient pantomimes. These pantomimes most often functioned as elaborations of failed requests, but also as deceptions and declaratives. Complexities identified include multimodality, re-enactments of past events and several features of language (productivity, compositionality, systematicity). These findings confirm that free-ranging rehabilitant orangutans pantomime and use pantomime to elaborate on their mess ages. Further, they use pantomime for multiple functions and create complex pantomimes that can express propositionally structured content. Thus, orangutan pantomime serves as a medium for communication, not a particular function.

Mining cases of complex great ape communication originally reported in functional terms may then yield more evidence of pantomime.

Source: The Royal Society
http://rsbl.royalsocietypublishing.org/content/early/2010/08/05/rsbl.2010.0564.abstract?papetoc

Posted by
Robert Karl Stonjek

Messages in this topic (1)

---

4. The Rise of America's Idiot Culture
Posted by: "ED" [redacted] seacrofter001
Date: Thu Aug 12, 2010 7:59 am ((PDT))

August 12, 2010
The Rise of America's Idiot Culture The Muslim Community Center at

Ground Zero: a Manufactured Controversy
By ANTHONY DiMAGGIO

A substantial racist uproar is taking place in conservative America, particularly in right-wing radio and television. Reactionary pundits are drawing increased attention to plans to build an Islamic community center in downtown Manhattan, near Ground Zero. Republicans and conservatives have long been known to harbor racist views of Islam, although they're hardly alone in this. Many on the right frame the entire religion as radical, fundamentalist, and a threat to national security. In light of this pattern, there's little surprising about the right's most recent attack on Muslim Americans as a secret, under the radar threat.

Islam has at times been portrayed on the right as the bedrock threat to American cultural values, and Muslims are depicted as uni-dimensionally set on overthrowing Christianity, enslaving the American public, and imposing "Sharia law." The last warning about "Sharia law" ? repeated by pundits like Sean Hannity and Rush Limbaugh ? among many others ? comes off as extremely ignorant, considering that the term "Sharia" itself means Islamic law. One should take the warnings of those who use the phrase "Sharia law" about as seriously as someone who masquerades as a legal scholar while talking about the importance of "American law law."

The American right has also taken to paranoid conspiracy theories charging that Obama is a non-citizen. As the story goes, Obama was really born in Kenya, and his "take over" of the White House represents a secret victory for radical Islam, since, as we all "know," Obama is a closet Muslim terrorist who is allied with Osama bin Laden and other radical Islamists. About half of Republicans believe either that Obama is not a citizen or that they cannot be sure of whether he is really an American citizen or not. These views are shared by nearly 60 percent of self-designated Tea Party supporters.

Of course, the nuances of the Islamic faith and the mainstream nature of the American Muslim community - the vast majority who oppose terrorism, fundamentalism, or repression of women - have been completely lost in the smug arrogance and incompetence of racists on the right.

The reactionary right has long been opposed to anything related to Arab culture and the Muslim religion in New York and around the country. One infamous example is New York's Khalil Gibran Arabic language academy, the first of its kind for the city. Rabid right-wingers railed against it, especially those in the "stop the Madrassa" campaign (many of whom worried about the dangers of "Madrassa schools," while apparently too ignorant to realize that the word Madrassa itself means school). I argued with one of the leaders of this group on Alan Colmes' radio show a few years ago. She seemed un-phased by the reality that there was never any concrete evidence that the Khalil Gibran academy was teaching Islamic values. As she announced on the show (despite my scorn for her comments), the very fact that there was no visible evidence of an Islamic curriculum was proof of just how good the schools' administrators and teachers were of hiding it. Such paranoia demonstrated how far conservative extremism and racism have come in recent years.

This brings us to the most recent "controversy" related to Islam: the Muslim community center planned for Manhattan. Right wingers in radio and at Fox News have gone into overdrive attacking it as a fundamental threat to the American way of life and to American security. Their racist diatribes have been hard for me to listen to, but they remain important to address, if for no other reason than so we can fight the ignorant assumptions behind them head on.

Here's a quick review of some of the most outrageous comments made in the American media:

- On Fox News, former Congressman Newt Gingrich attacked the community center for its planned location "right at the edge of a place where, let's be clear, thousands of Americans were killed in an attack by radical Islamists." On his website, Gingrich announced that "there should be no mosque near ground zero in New York so long as there are no churches or synagogues in Saudi Arabia." Gingrich's choice to spotlight the radical fundamentalist regime of Saudi Arabia (hypocritically supported by Gingrich himself when he was Speaker of the House in the 1990s) ? while neglecting moderate and secular governments in the Muslim world, speaks volumes about what he considers to be the "essence" of Islam. Gingrich's language is truly abhorrent; he frames those supporting the community center in Manhattan as part of the same "they" as the Islamic fundamentalists who perpetrated the 9-11 attacks. As far as Gingrich is concerned, there are no distinctions to be made in the monolithic "threat" that is the entire U.S. and world Muslim community.

- On Fox, Sarah Palin drew attention to "those innocent victims, those families of those who were killed in the 9-11 tragedy, it saddens me to think that people don't understand what building this mosque at such hallowed ground really represents." Inextricably linked to Palin's warnings is the assumption that the community center represents a single, overarching fifth column threat from American Muslims. This much was clear when she characterized its construction as "an unnecessary provocation" against the people of New York and the American people more generally.

- Fox News host Sean Hannity claimed that the "Iman" supporting the building of the community center is a figure who "supports what happened on 9/11" and "praises Osama bin Laden." Hannity, of course, failed to present any evidence linking community center supporters to defending the 9/11 attacks, but this hardly seemed to matter to him or his guest, Jay Seculow (of the American Center for Law and Justice), who complained that "you don't get to build a mosque on a site that's part of ground zero" because "that would be like putting at Pearl Harbor a monument of the Kamikaze pilots who tried to destroy U.S. troops, you just don't do that." In this case, Muslim Americans who had nothing to do with 9/11 are apparently the equivalent of Japanese soldiers who killed Americans during World War II.

- Right wing radio icon Rush Limbaugh, not to be outdone, warned that "the terrorists win" if the community center successfully moves forward. Limbaugh continued, posing a hypothetical comparing Muslim Americans to those who lynched blacks in the post Civil War era: "Let me ask you: What would happen, do you think, if the Ku Klux Klan wanted to establish a memorial at Gettysburg?" Limbaugh also employed a World War II analogy, likening the dangers of the community center to the destruction brought upon Japan by U.S. nuclear weapons: "Let's go to Hiroshima and Nagasaki and let's build giant monuments in the shape of nuclear bombs and call it the Manhattan Project. I mean you'd have Americans objecting to that, wouldn't you?"

What is most disturbing about the manufactured controversy involving the community center is the blatant arrogance and stupidity of the right in its warnings of an imminent "threat." Anyone who spends thirty seconds researching the Cordoba Group, the organization responsible for promoting the community center, would know that the group's representative, Feisal Abdul Rauf (targeted in Hannity attacks as pro-bin Laden and pro-9/11) is actually a public critic of Osama bin Laden and the 9/11 attacks, and a vocal supporter of improving relations between the U.S. and the Muslim world. None of this is conveyed in any of the right-wing slander above, however, as these pundits are content to showcase their ignorance regarding the basic facts surrounding the community center fiasco they "authoritatively" "report" on.

I should note that all of the pundits above premise their attacks on the Manhattan community center with statements that promotion of religious tolerance and cultural diversity are important and necessary. These claims, however, mean nothing when they are followed by fear mongering and attacks on Muslims as part of an all-encompassing threat that derives from some sort of uniform "Muslim culture" ? one that is seen as constituting a danger to U.S. security and the American way of life. These pundits refuse to distinguish between the tiny minority of those throughout the world who support terrorism in the name of Islam and the vast majority of Muslims who reject those beliefs. Their reluctance to take a reasonable, level-headed approach to the study of the Muslim faith is an indicator of their fanaticism, religious bigotry, and racism.

Rather than asking whether the Manhattan community center represents a threat, we should be asking ourselves what happened to our country when national discourse is hijacked by those who not only have no interest in facts, but see them as an active roadblock to advancing their racist agendas. The blatant racism and incompetence of those attacking the Manhattan community center should be obvious enough to those who pride themselves in promoting multi-culturalism, racial diversity, and respect for religious freedom. That the racist right remains so prominent in national television and radio is a sign, more than anything else, of the steep deterioration of American political discourse.

Anthony DiMaggio is the editor of media-ocracy (www.media-ocracy.com <http://www.media-ocracy.com/>), a daily online magazine devoted to the study of media, public opinion, and current events. He has taught U.S.

and Global Politics at Illinois State University and North Central College, and is the author of When Media Goes to War
<http://www.amazon.com/exec/obidos/ASIN/1583671994/counterpunchmaga>
(2010) and Mass Media, Mass Propaganda
<http://www.amazon.com/exec/obidos/ASIN/0739119036/counterpunchmaga>
(2008). He can be reached at: [redacted]
<mailto:[redacted]>

http://www.counterpunch.org/dimaggio08122010.html
<http://www.counterpunch.org/dimaggio08122010.html>

Messages in this topic (1)

---

5. 8 Percent of U.S. Births to Illegal Immigrants
Posted by: "R A Fonda" [redacted] rafonda2000
Date: Thu Aug 12, 2010 8:01 am ((PDT))

Study: 8 Percent of U.S. Births to Illegal Immigrants

Pew Hispanic Center Report Sheds Light on Americans at Center of Birthright Citizenship Debate

By DEVIN DWYER

WASHINGTON, August 11, 2010---

Eight percent of all babies born in the U.S. in 2008 belonged to illegal
immigrant
<http://newspreview.corp.dig.com/Politics/illegal-immigration-america-shadows-abc-news-special-series/story?id=11099873>

parents, according to a groundbreaking analysis of U.S. Census Bureau data by the Pew Hispanic Center. Under the 14th amendment to the Constitution, each child obtained U.S. citizenship at birth while one or both of the parents remained undocumented.

The study <http://pewhispanic.org/reports/report.php?ReportID=125> sheds new light on a group of Americans at the center of a hot political debate <http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/birthright-citizenship-14th-amendment-republican-senators-explore-change/story?id=11313973> in recent weeks. Some Republican lawmakers have proposed revising birthright citizenship to bar U.S.-born children of illegal immigrants from obtaining legal status.

Pew estimates 340,000 of the 4.3 million newborns in U.S. hospitals in 2008 belonged to illegal immigrant parents. In total, 4 million U.S.-born, citizen children of illegal immigrants <http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/birth-tourism-industry-markets-us-citizenship-abroad/story?id=10359956> currently live in the country, according to the study.

The study is the most comprehensive, non-partisan research to date on children of illegal immigrants living in the U.S. and adds important context, and frames the ongoing debate. Previously there have been few reliable estimates of annual U.S. births to illegal immigrants.

Critics of birthright citizenship <http://abcnews.go.com/WN/debate-birthright-citizenship-aims-baby-tourism/story?id=11322850&page=1> have expressed concern over the burgeoning size of America's illegal immigrant <http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/illegal-immigration-america-shadows-abc-news-special-series/story?id=11099873> population, estimated at 10.8 million and whose offspring in the U.S. would be able to sponsor their parents and relatives for legal residency. The children are sometimes referred to as anchor babies.

"Birthright citizenship I think is a mistake," said Republican Sen. Lindsey Graham of South Carolina. "We should change our Constitution and say if you come here illegally and you have a child, that child's automatically not a citizen."

Senate Minority Leader Mitch McConnell and other leading Republicans, including Arizona senators Jon Kyl and John McCain, have indicated an openness to exploring the 14th Amendment issue raised by Sen. Graham.

But some harbor deep reservations about changing the Constitution.

"It's a rather unseemly business and I think we ought to have some hearings about it," McConnell said of the practice of illegal immigrant mothers giving birth in the U.S.

"Congressional hearings are always warranted when members of Congress raise the issue of amending our Constitution," said McCain in a statement. "I believe that the Constitution is a strong, complete and carefully crafted document that has successfully governed our nation for centuries and any proposal to amend the Constitution should receive extensive and thoughtful consideration."

Birthright Citizenship Debate: Election Year Politics?

But some lawmakers are calling the push to revise the 14th Amendment nothing but a political stunt.

"I think it's good to take a look at all of our constitutional amendments. But I'll tell you something: if you think it's a coincidence that this sudden discussion begins three months before an election, you'd be very, very mistaken," said Vermont Independent Sen. Bernie Sanders on ABC's "Top Line" <http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/video/sanders-14th-amendment-100-percent-political-11314073>.

Pennsylvannia Democratic Sen. Arlen Specter, whose parents were immigrants to the U.S., has called U.S. citizenship by birth a fundamental right.

"The political pandering on the immigration issue has reached the hysterical level," Specter told ABC News. "To try to direct the effort at the children born in this country is just preposterous... How can newborn children protect themselves if politicians want to gain political gain... I would be shocked if this idea would gain political traction, but I'm being shocked on a daily basis by the United States Senate."

History of Birthright and the 14th Amendment

The 14th Amendment to the Constitution, which was enacted after the Civil War to grant citizenship to descendants of slaves, reads: "All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside."

"The drafter of the 14th Amendment provision on citizenship did make a statement that it would not include foreigners or aliens," said George Washington University constitutional law professor Jonathan Turley. "However, other senators made it clear that they believed that this provision guaranteed birthright citizenship."

The courts have repeatedly ruled that people who are born in the U.S. are American citizens and if Congress passed a law changing that, it would likely be repealed, experts say.

The Supreme Court <http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/Supreme_Court/> has only addressed the issue once, clarifying in 1898 that citizenship does apply to U.S.-born children of legal immigrants who have yet to become citizens.

"The legislative history may be a little mixed, but the language of the amendment seems to speak clearly in favor of birthright citizenship, regardless of what the intent may have been," Turley said.

The United States is one of the few remaining countries to grant citizenship to all children born on its soil. The United Kingdom, Ireland, India and Australia, among others, have since revised their birthright laws, no longer allowing every child born on their soil to get citizenship.

Messages in this topic (1)

--
Yahoo! Groups Links

<> To visit your group on the web, go to:*
http://groups.yahoo.com/group/evolutionary-psychology/

> <> Your email settings:*
> Digest Email | Traditional
>
> <> To change settings online go to:*
> http://groups.yahoo.com/group/evolutionary-psychology/join > (Yahoo! ID required)
>
> <> To change settings via email:*
> [redacted]
>
> <> Your use of Yahoo! Groups is subject to:*
> http://docs.yahoo.com/info/terms/
>
> ----------
> --
>
> welcome.html

↑ Index

146. David Seaman
Re: competitions
Fri 13 Aug 2010

--Boundary_(ID_BjBP9vFm4/x/EnfDmxSm9w)

Total... In the sentence, "This place is a total wreck," isn't "total" actually a modifier? and the singular noun "a wreck?"

Notice how the British say "The government are in session," when Americans say "The government is in session."

I like Jim Andrews' poignant tale of the house full of 40 years of acculturation. It makes me think of my own 40+ years of teaching French. There are some things I am learning to adjust and adjust to. For one, I'm getting over my annoyance at the French borrowings of English. Why would they say "le listing" when they have a perfectly good "la liste?" For another, they tend to say "c'est" even when it is followed by a plural complement.

New technologies can sometimes support good practices. Like some French correspondents, I almost gave up using accents in my emails, because the keystrokes are so tedious; now with iPad it is a one-touch event to slide your finger to the selected accented letter.

In my teaching, where students hadï»¿ accused me of making them into French proofreaders, I am learning to refrain from interrupting to correct errors if they are communicating successfully. The point in a restaurant in France is to get fed, not to demonstrate impeccable grammar. Of course accuracy and fluent expression nourish in another way.....

That said, we probably agree that it is valuable to know what the accurate standard of a language is, in order to appreciate deviation from it. N'est-ce pas?

David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html

Follow my Twitter poetry at dseaman40

YouTube video of my Venice Biennale poem:
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JQ5bOuJBN_k

On 12 Aug, 2010,at 04:51 PM, Stephen Ellis <[redacted]> wrote:

> You must be totaled to be accurate. Is that like being 98.6% loaded?
>
> Date: Tue, 10 Aug 2010 08:59:40 -0400
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: competitions
> To: [redacted]
>
> David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
> http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html
> writes:
> "While those of us in the grammar police (either official or clandestine)
> like to disparage any errors, we must also recognize that usage is flexible > and evolving, It may be that there are myriad ways to express things, > with a whole range of 'levels of usage.' Let's live with it and enjoy it."
>
> .....
>
> Ummm . . . :
>
> "a total" ("a"=singular)
> "is" (singular)
> "This place is a total wreck."
>
> "totals" (plural)
> "are" (plural)
> "Several totals are required to ensure accuracy."
>
> The newest proposal for national educational standards
> in the U. S. recommends teaching grammatical agreement > in grade three (the first grammatical principle mentioned > in that set of standards). Many of my students in college > composition seem unable to distinguish between one and > more than one. Perhaps only a tiny neurological window > exists for hard-wiring agreement, but given recent work in brain plasticity, I doubt it--though a fourteen-week semester usually proves insufficient for rehab. As Yale grad G. W. Bush wondered, "Is our children learning?" Good enough? Enjoy that?

>
> ~ Dan Zimmerman, Ph.D.
> [redacted]
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: "Angela Vasquez-Giroux" <angela.vasquez.gi

↑ Index

147. steve dalachinsky
Re: competitions
Fri 13 Aug 2010

why's everybody includin ahcandemics say you and i when it's you and me and yes i know when to say either or was that ether

On Fri, 13 Aug 2010 11:55:11 -0700 David Seaman <[redacted]> writes:
> Total... In the sentence, "This place is a total wreck," isn't > "total" actually a modifier? and the singular noun "a wreck?"
>
> Notice how the British say "The government are in session," when > Americans say "The government is in session."
>
> I like Jim Andrews' poignant tale of the house full of 40 years of > acculturation. It makes me think of my own 40+ years of teaching > French. There are some things I am learning to adjust and adjust to.
> For one, I'm getting over my annoyance at the French borrowings of > English. Why would they say "le listing" when they have a perfectly > good "la liste?" For another, they tend to say "c'est" even when it > is followed by a plural complement.
>
> New technologies can sometimes support good practices. Like some > French correspondents, I almost gave up using accents in my emails, > because the keystrokes are so tedious; now with iPad it is a > one-touch event to slide your finger to the selected accented > letter.
>
> In my teaching, where students had? accused me of making them into

> French proofreaders, I am learning to refrain from interrupting to > correct errors if they are communicating successfully. The point in > a restaurant in France is to get fed, not to demonstrate impeccable > grammar. Of course accuracy and fluent expression nourish in another > way.....
>
> That said, we probably agree that it is valuable to know what the > accurate standard of a language is, in order to appreciate deviation > from it. N'est-ce pas?
>
> David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
> http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html
>
> Follow my Twitter poetry at dseaman40
>
> YouTube video of my Venice Biennale poem:
> http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JQ5bOuJBN_k
>
>
>
>
>
> On 12 Aug, 2010,at 04:51 PM, Stephen Ellis <[redacted]>
> wrote:
>
> > You must be totaled to be accurate. Is that like being 98.6% > loaded?
> >
> > > Date: Tue, 10 Aug 2010 08:59:40 -0400
> > > From: [redacted]
> > > Subject: Re: competitions
> > > To: [redacted]
> > >
> > > David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
> > > http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html
> > > writes:
> > > "While those of us in the grammar police (either official or > clandestine)
> > > like to disparage any errors, we must also recognize that usage > is flexible > > > and evolving, It may be that there are myriad ways to express > things,

> > > with a whole range of 'levels of usage.' Let's live with it and > enjoy it."
> > >
> > >
>
.....
.....
> > >
> > > Ummm . . . :
> > >
> > > "a total" ("a"=singular)
> > > "is" (singular)
> > > "This place is a total wreck."
> > >
> > > "totals" (plural)
> > > "are" (plural)
> > > "Several totals are required to ensure accuracy."
> > >
> > > The newest proposal for national educational standards
> > > in the U. S. recommends teaching grammatical agreement
> > > in grade three (the first grammatical principle mentioned > > > in that set of standards). Many of my students in college > > > composition seem unable to distinguish between one and > > > more than one. Perhaps only a tiny neurological window > > > exists for hard-wiring agreement, but given recent work > > > in brain plasticity, I doubt it--though a fourteen-week > > > semester usually proves insufficient for rehab. As Yale > > > grad G. W. Bush wondered, "Is our children learning?"
> > > Good enough? Enjoy that?
> > >
> > > ~ Dan Zimmerman, Ph.D.
> > > [redacted]
> > >
> > >
> > > ----- Original Message -----
> > > From: "Angela Vasquez-Giroux" <angela.vasquez.gi
>
>

↑ Index

148. steve dalachinsky

Re: End Times (Green) poetics, or Adopt A Gringo

Fri 13 Aug 2010

---

the rich are no longer gettin richer ??? that's a laugh

On Thu, 12 Aug 2010 13:17:48 -0700 steve russell <[redacted]>
writes:
> Been talking with my Green Party D.C. friends.
> It really does seem as if the End has finally arrived and will be > unfolding in > many interesting ways as the 1st decade of century 21 comes to a > close.
>
> I mean, even the Rich are no longer getting richer.
> It's that bad.
> & the enviroment, as everyone knows, is a cesspool.
>
> So I'm wondering: Where are the sustainable communities?
> Artist, especially, should think very hard.
>
> I haven't done the research, but I wonder if there's a Native > American Tribe
> that has an Adopt a Gringo program. I've been rereading my Wendell > Berry and I'm > almost certain (I'm not good with absolutes) that the original > natives of this > country will have a huge leg up when things finally collapse.Run ...
> to the > woods ... or someplace safe.
>
>
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

149. David Chirot

Re: {spam?} Forwarded article below on the Mosque controversies (fwd)

Fri 13 Aug 2010

Dear Cris & Alan:

Thank you both for your letters.

The direction of the usa has been terrifying for decades now. For many years i have been working on various studies, research, readings, and expressing in writings, art work, letters, my conviction that one of the major symptoms of this direction has been the shifting use/abuse/misuse and deliberate abuse of the language; to quote Pasolini: "for a long time, the only symptoms we had to go one were in the language."

In Torture: The Cancer of Democracy France-Algeria 1954-1962 Phllipe Vidal-Naquet raises the question of how the use of Torture affects and poisons a Wstern Democracy: the same effects one may find in the USA since both knowledge & acceptance of Torture and the support of an Apartheid State became part of the everyday language and consciousness. Language of denial, language of double speak, rebrandings, Orwellian Newspeak as detailed in the appendix to 1984--a language and culture of ridicule initiated during the Reagan regime--the lack of questioning and critique, the growing sense of paranoia of both a State and corporate culture of Security, Surveillance, of the removal of more and more protections for any individual charged and even not charged with no longer criminal actions, but, increasingly, "intents," which may soon become "thoughts," --in broad daylight, almost day by day, freedoms being removed, the powers of the Executive Branch being extended without control--so that now the president can pick any person in the world and order their extra-judicial execution--the ridicule and critique of any form of Protest, whether in public or in writing, art--by artists and poets, critics and intellectuals--particpating in censorship and self-censorship-- all have generated a culture which is ever more immune to the uses of cruelty towards "Others" ranging from words to torture to ethnic cleansing and genocide-- everyday reading, listening, watching the news and what passes for "public discourse" one is presented with a non-stop stream of dis-information, distortions, denials, deliberate ignorance, bigotry, bullying-- and all too often, any form of holding to account is greeted with campaigns designed to silence and subvert the concept of justice, questioning, inquiry, let alone its expression, calls for these in action--

all too often, the most monstrous events, persons, politics, are shrugged off with the most bland cliches: "oh, but they're/he/she is such a nice person(s)-- --etc-- sadly, from the President on down, there is an increasing tolerance for intolerance--a goading towards acts of extreme violence and retaliations--at the personal level, and already paraded by the expansion of the US military presence, torture centers, "Black Op" and and other covert operations globally--by supporting torture and Apartheid elsewhere, the American citizen is opening the way to accepting these "at home"--detention camps for "illegal aliens" and the immense explosion in the US (increasingly privatized and more open to abuses) prison population--largest both numerically and by per centage of the population in the world--all point towards an embrace of other and ever harsher measures to be meted out to anyone and everyone--charged with or even with the remote possibility of being charged with--just about any "crime" any person with even minor "authority" dreams up in a fever of "patriotism"-- as Cris points out, it is not from the "right" only that such language has emerged, but across the society--and in every area of society and culture--

On Fri, Aug 13, 2010 at 10:57 AM, cris cheek <[redacted]> wrote:

> I couldn't agree more about the morbidity of the mosque debates Alan and by the statement that we are all immigrants
>
> i do not however think it is the sole purview of the "right" to generate paranoia and hate speech (bearing in mind that "left" and "right" are also troubling formulations with troubled histories)
>
> i've not seen Obama want to take down the fence with Mexico started under the odious Bush in the south west (for example . . . he sent more troops no less) nor actually close down Guantanamo (for example . . . all empty rhetoric for 18 months already now) nor do anything but escalate the war in Afghanistan (for example . . . although i guess that's not surprising since Democrat presidents have taken the US to war far more eagerly and frequently throughout the twentieth century than even their Republican counterparts . . . unless my math is just wrong, in the guise of the world's police . . . vomit) nor repeal the Patriot Act (for example . . . an act of insanity by GW Bush against which there was so much derision focussed when i first came to live here in the US and which Obama has re-ratified) nor address the hideous Department of Homeland Security . . . (a militarization of the State that builds inexorably on surveillance and controls brought in my that arch Big Brother sap J Edgar Hoover . . .)
>
> . . .
>
> and then which judge made a serious move on Prop 8 just a couple of weeks ago . . . a libertarian-leaning freedom of speech judge appointed by Ronald Reagan . . (what is Obama doing to end Reagan's appallingly debilitating and outright destructive War on Drugs?? btw)

attacks on the "right" by the "left" appear just as driven by paranoia and characterized by stereotypical terms and forms of abuse as attacks on the "left" by the "right"

it is as often unions who campaign against immigration on the grounds of competition for their members jobs and a previous wave of immigrants which tries to block the next as it is nationalists and xenophobes weaving their racist sentiments into planning and zoning debates and whipping up fearful sentiment

a pox on both Democrats and on Republicans

xx

cris

On Aug 12, 2010, at 4:26 PM, Alan Sondheim wrote:

I just have to say I'm ashamed of this country, and scared - too much hatred against illegal immigrants (WHICH WE ALL ARE), and now Islam. Some of the protests are all too familiar Kristallnacht in tone - on Jon Stewart, there was a newsclip of a community going to burn a copy of the Koran on 9/11.

I can't argue this with anyone - I'm horrified and brought to tears by it. And we can't sit by and let a rabid racist right grow in this country - the affects have been seen repeatedly worldwide.

- Alan

---------- Forwarded message ----------
Date: Thu, 12 Aug 2010 15:20:36
From: [redacted]
Reply-To: No Reply <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Subject: [evol-psych] Digest Number 7327

There are 6 messages in this issue.

Topics in this digest:

1. News: Orangutan pantomime ~ elaborating the message
From: Robert Karl Stonjek

2a. Re: Holistic Darwinism: The new evolutionary paradigm and some impli
From: Mike Tintner
2b. Re: Holistic Darwinism: The new evolutionary paradigm and some impli
From: Steve Moxon

3. Bonobos and chimps
From: mark hubey

4. The Rise of America's Idiot Culture
From: ED

5. 8 Percent of U.S. Births to Illegal Immigrants
From: R A Fonda

Messages

---

1. News: Orangutan pantomime ~ elaborating the message
Posted by: "Robert Karl Stonjek" [redacted] rk_stonjek
Date: Thu Aug 12, 2010 3:07 am ((PDT))

Orangutan pantomime: elaborating the message
Anne Russon1 and Kristin Andrews2

1Psychology Department, Glendon College, 2275 Bayview Avenue, Toronto, Ontario,
Canada M4N 3M6
2Philosophy Department, York University, 4700 Keele St Toronto, Ontario, Canada
M3J 1P3

Author for correspondence ([redacted]).*
Abstract
We present an exploratory study of forest-living orangutan pantomiming, i.e.
gesturing in which they act out their meaning, focusing on its occurrence, communicative functions, and complexities. Studies show that captive great apes may elaborate messages if communication fails, and isolated reports suggest that great apes occasionally pantomime. We predicted forest-living

*orangutans would pantomime spontaneously to communicate, especially to elaborate after communication failures. Mining existing databases on free-ranging rehabilitant orangutans' behaviour identified 18 salient pantomimes. These pantomimes most often functioned as elaborations of failed requests, but also as deceptions and declaratives. Complexities identified include multimodality, re-enactments of past events and several features of language (productivity, compositionality, systematicity). These findings confirm that free-ranging rehabilitant orangutans pantomime and use pantomime to elaborate on their mess ages. Further, they use pantomime for multiple functions and create complex pantomimes that can express propositionally structured content. Thus, orangutan pantomime serves as a medium for communication, not a particular function.
Mining cases of complex great ape communication originally reported in functional terms may then yield more evidence of pantomime.*

Source: The Royal Society

http://rsbl.royalsocietypublishing.org/content/early/2010/08/05/rsbl.2010.0564.abstract?papetoc

Posted by Robert Karl Stonjek

Messages in this topic (1)

---

4. The Rise of America's Idiot Culture
Posted by: "ED" [redacted] seacrofter001
Date: Thu Aug 12, 2010 7:59 am ((PDT))

*August 12, 2010
The Rise of America's Idiot Culture The Muslim Community Center at Ground Zero: a Manufactured Controversy*

By ANTHONY DiMAGGIO

A substantial racist uproar is taking place in conservative America, particularly in right-wing radio and television. Reactionary pundits are drawing increased attention to plans to build an Islamic community center in downtown Manhattan, near Ground Zero. Republicans and conservatives have long been known to harbor racist views of Islam, although they're hardly alone in this. Many on the right frame the entire religion as radical, fundamentalist, and a threat to national security. In light of this pattern, there's little surprising about the right's most recent attack on Muslim Americans as a secret, under the radar threat.

Islam has at times been portrayed on the right as the bedrock threat to American cultural values, and Muslims are depicted as uni-dimensionally set on overthrowing Christianity, enslaving the American public, and imposing "Sharia law." The last warning about "Sharia law" ? repeated by pundits like Sean Hannity and Rush Limbaugh ? among many others ? comes off as extremely ignorant, considering that the term "Sharia" itself means Islamic law. One should take the warnings of those who use the phrase "Sharia law" about as seriously as someone who masquerades as a legal scholar while talking about the importance of "American law law."

The American right has also taken to paranoid conspiracy theories charging that Obama is a non-citizen. As the story goes, Obama was really born in Kenya, and his "take over" of the White House represents a secret victory for radical Islam, since, as we all "know," Obama is a closet Muslim terrorist who is allied with Osama bin Laden and other radical Islamists. About half of Republicans believe either that Obama is not a citizen or that they cannot be sure of whether he is really an American citizen or not. These views are shared by nearly 60 percent of self-designated Tea Party supporters.

Of course, the nuances of the Islamic faith and the mainstream nature of the American Muslim community - the vast majority who oppose terrorism, fundamentalism, or repression of women - have been completely lost in the smug arrogance and incompetence of racists on the right.

The reactionary right has long been opposed to anything related to Arab culture and the Muslim religion in New York and around the country. One infamous example is New York's Khalil Gibran Arabic language academy, the first of its kind for the city. Rabid right-wingers railed against it, especially those in the "stop the Madrassa" campaign (many of whom worried about the dangers of "Madrassa schools," while apparently too ignorant to realize that the word Madrassa itself means school). I argued with one of the leaders of this group on Alan Colmes' radio show a few years ago. She seemed un-phased by the reality that there was never any concrete evidence that the Khalil Gibran academy was teaching Islamic values. As she announced on the show (despite my scorn for her comments), the very fact that there was no visible evidence of an Islamic curriculum was proof of just how good the schools' administrators and teachers were of hiding it. Such paranoia demonstrated how far conservative extremism and racism have come in recent years.

This brings us to the most recent "controversy" related to Islam: the Muslim community center planned for Manhattan. Right wingers in radio and at Fox News have gone into overdrive attacking it as a fundamental threat to the American way of life and to American security. Their racist diatribes have been hard for me to listen to, but they remain important to address, if for no other reason than so we can fight the ignorant assumptions behind them head on.

Here's a quick review of some of the most outrageous comments made in the American media:

- On Fox News, former Congressman Newt Gingrich attacked the community center for its planned location "right at the edge of a place where, let's be clear, thousands of Americans were killed in an attack by radical Islamists." On his website, Gingrich announced that "there should be no mosque near ground zero in New York so long as there are no churches or synagogues in Saudi Arabia." Gingrich's choice to spotlight the radical fundamentalist regime of Saudi Arabia (hypocritically supported by Gingrich himself when he was Speaker of the House in the 1990s) ? while neglecting moderate and secular governments in the Muslim world, speaks volumes about what he considers to be the "essence" of Islam. Gingrich's language is truly abhorrent; he frames those supporting the community center in Manhattan as part of the same "they" as the Islamic fundamentalists who perpetrated the 9-11 attacks. As far as Gingrich is concerned, there are no distinctions to be made in the monolithic "threat" that is the entire U.S. and world Muslim community.

- On Fox, Sarah Palin drew attention to "those innocent victims, those families of those who were killed in the 9-11 tragedy, it saddens me to think that people don't understand what building this mosque at such hallowed ground really represents." Inextricably linked to Palin's warnings is the assumption that the community center represents a single, overarching fifth column threat from American Muslims. This much was clear when she characterized its construction as "an unnecessary provocation" against the people of New York and the American people more generally.

- Fox News host Sean Hannity claimed that the "Iman" supporting the building of the community center is a figure who "supports what happened on 9/11" and "praises Osama bin Laden." Hannity, of course, failed to present any evidence linking community center supporters to defending the 9/11 attacks, but this hardly seemed to matter to him or his guest, Jay Seculow (of the American Center for Law and Justice), who complained that "you don't get to build a mosque on a site that's part of ground zero" because "that would be like putting at Pearl Harbor a monument of the Kamikaze pilots who tried to destroy U.S. troops, you just don't do that." In this case, Muslim Americans who had nothing to do with 9/11 are apparently the equivalent of Japanese soldiers who killed Americans during World War II.

- Right wing radio icon Rush Limbaugh, not to be outdone, warned that "the terrorists win" if the community center successfully moves forward. Limbaugh continued, posing a hypothetical comparing Muslim Americans to those who lynched blacks in the post Civil War era: "Let me ask you: What would happen, do you think, if the Ku Klux Klan wanted to establish a memorial at Gettysburg?" Limbaugh also employed a World War II analogy, likening the dangers of the community center to the destruction brought upon Japan by U.S. nuclear weapons: "Let's go to Hiroshima and Nagasaki and let's build giant monuments in the shape of nuclear bombs and call it the Manhattan Project. I mean you'd have Americans objecting to that, wouldn't you?"

What is most disturbing about the manufactured controversy involving the community center is the blatant arrogance and stupidity of the right in its warnings of an imminent "threat." Anyone who spends thirty seconds researching the Cordoba Group, the organization responsible for promoting the community center, would know that the group's representative, Feisal Abdul Rauf (targeted in Hannity attacks as pro-bin Laden and pro-9/11) is actually a public critic of Osama bin Laden and the 9/11 attacks, and a vocal supporter of improving relations between the U.S. and the Muslim world. None of this is conveyed in any of the right-wing slander above, however, as these pundits are content to showcase their ignorance regarding the basic facts surrounding the community center fiasco they "authoritatively" "report" on.

I should note that all of the pundits above premise their attacks on the Manhattan community center with statements that promotion of religious tolerance and cultural diversity are important and necessary. These claims, however, mean nothing when they are followed by fear mongering and attacks on Muslims as part of an all-encompassing threat that derives from some sort of uniform "Muslim culture" ? one that is seen as constituting a danger to U.S. security and the American way of life. These pundits refuse to distinguish between the tiny minority of those throughout the world who support terrorism in the name of Islam and the vast majority of Muslims who reject those beliefs. Their reluctance to take a reasonable, level-headed approach to the study of the Muslim faith is an indicator of their fanaticism, religious bigotry, and racism.

Rather than asking whether the Manhattan community center represents a threat, we should be asking ourselves what happened to our country when national discourse is hijacked by those who not only have no interest in facts, but see them as an active roadblock to advancing their racist agendas. The blatant racism and incompetence of those attacking the Manhattan community center should be obvious enough to those who pride themselves in promoting multi-culturalism, racial diversity, and respect for religious freedom. That the racist right remains so prominent in national television and radio is a sign, more than anything else, of the steep deterioration of American political discourse.

Anthony DiMaggio is the editor of media-ocracy (www.media-ocracy.com <http://www.media-ocracy.com/>), a daily online magazine devoted to the study of media, public opinion, and current events. He has taught U.S. and Global Politics at Illinois State University and North Central College, and is the author of When Media Goes to War <http://www.amazon.com/exec/obidos/ASIN/1583671994/counterpunchmaga> (2010) and Mass Media, Mass Propaganda <http://www.amazon.com/exec/obidos/ASIN/0739119036/counterpunchmaga> (2008). He can be reached at: [redacted] <mailto:[redacted]>

http://www.counterpunch.org/dimaggio08122010.html <http://www.counterpunch.org/dimaggio08122010.html>

Messages in this topic (1)

---

5. 8 Percent of U.S. Births to Illegal Immigrants
Posted by: "R A Fonda" [redacted] rafonda2000
Date: Thu Aug 12, 2010 8:01 am ((PDT))

Study: 8 Percent of U.S. Births to Illegal Immigrants

> Pew Hispanic Center Report Sheds Light on Americans at Center of Birthright Citizenship Debate
>
> By DEVIN DWYER
>
> WASHINGTON, August 11, 2010---
>
> Eight percent of all babies born in the U.S. in 2008 belonged to illegal immigrant < http://newspreview.corp.dig.com/Politics/illegal-immigration-america-shadows-abc-news-special-series/story?id=11099873
>
> parents, according to a groundbreaking analysis of U.S. Census Bureau data by the Pew Hispanic Center. Under the 14th amendment to the Constitution, each child obtained U.S. citizenship at birth while one or both of the parents remained undocumented.
>
> The study <http://pewhispanic.org/reports/report.php?ReportID=125> sheds new light on a group of Americans at the center of a hot political debate < http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/birthright-citizenship-14th-amendment-republican-senators-explore-change/story?id=11313973
>
> in recent weeks. Some Republican lawmakers have proposed revising birthright citizenship to bar U.S.-born children of illegal immigrants from obtaining legal status.
>
> Pew estimates 340,000 of the 4.3 million newborns in U.S. hospitals in 2008 belonged to illegal immigrant parents. In total, 4 million U.S.-born, citizen children of illegal immigrants < http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/birth-tourism-industry-markets-us-citizenship-abroad/story?id=10359956
>
> currently live in the country, according to the study.
>
> The study is the most comprehensive, non-partisan research to date on children of illegal immigrants living in the U.S. and adds important context, and frames the ongoing debate. Previously there have been few reliable estimates of annual U.S. births to illegal immigrants.
>
> Critics of birthright citizenship < http://abcnews.go.com/WN/debate-birthright-citizenship-aims-baby-tourism/story?id=11322850&page=1

have expressed concern over the burgeoning size of America's illegal immigrant
<
http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/illegal-immigration-america-shadows-abc-news-special-series/story?id=11099873

population, estimated at 10.8 million and whose offspring in the U.S. would be able to sponsor their parents and relatives for legal residency. The children are sometimes referred to as anchor babies.

"Birthright citizenship I think is a mistake," said Republican Sen. Lindsey Graham of South Carolina. "We should change our Constitution and say if you come here illegally and you have a child, that child's automatically not a citizen."

Senate Minority Leader Mitch McConnell and other leading Republicans, including Arizona senators Jon Kyl and John McCain, have indicated an openness to exploring the 14th Amendment issue raised by Sen. Graham. But some harbor deep reservations about changing the Constitution.

"It's a rather unseemly business and I think we ought to have some hearings about it," McConnell said of the practice of illegal immigrant mothers giving birth in the U.S.

"Congressional hearings are always warranted when members of Congress raise the issue of amending our Constitution," said McCain in a statement. "I believe that the Constitution is a strong, complete and carefully crafted document that has successfully governed our nation for centuries and any proposal to amend the Constitution should receive extensive and thoughtful consideration."

Birthright Citizenship Debate: Election Year Politics?

But some lawmakers are calling the push to revise the 14th Amendment nothing but a political stunt.

"I think it's good to take a look at all of our constitutional amendments. But I'll tell you something: if you think it's a coincidence that this sudden discussion begins three months before an election, you'd be very, very mistaken," said Vermont Independent Sen. Bernie Sanders on ABC's "Top Line"
<
http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/video/sanders-14th-amendment-100-percent-political-11314073
.

Pennsylvannia Democratic Sen. Arlen Specter, whose parents were immigrants to the U.S., has called U.S. citizenship by birth a fundamental right.

"The political pandering on the immigration issue has reached the hysterical level," Specter told ABC News. "To try to direct the effort at the children born in this country is just preposterous... How can newborn children protect themselves if politicians want to gain political gain... I would be shocked if this idea would gain political traction, but I'm being shocked on a daily basis by the United States Senate."

History of Birthright and the 14th Amendment

The 14th Amendment to the Constitution, which was enacted after the Civil War to grant citizenship to descendants of slaves, reads: "All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside."

"The drafter of the 14th Amendment provision on citizenship did make a statement that it would not include foreigners or aliens," said George Washington University constitutional law professor Jonathan Turley. "However, other senators made it clear that they believed that this provision guaranteed birthright citizenship."

The courts have repeatedly ruled that people who are born in the U.S. are American citizens and if Congress passed a law changing that, it would likely be repealed, experts say.

The Supreme Court <http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/Supreme_Court/> has only addressed the issue once, clarifying in 1898 that citizenship does apply to U.S.-born children of legal immigrants who have yet to become citizens.

"The legislative history may be a little mixed, but the language of the amendment seems to speak clearly in favor of birthright citizenship, regardless of what the intent may have been," Turley said.

The United States is one of the few remaining countries to grant citizenship to all children born on its soil. The United Kingdom, Ireland, India and Australia, among others, have since revised their birthright laws, no longer allowing every child born on their soil to get citizenship.

Messages in this topic (1)

Yahoo! Groups Links

<> To visit your group on the web, go to:*
http://groups.yahoo.com/group/evolutionary-psychology/

<> Your email settings:*
Digest Email | Traditional

<> To change settings online go to:*
http://groups.yahoo.com/group/evolutionary-psychology/join (Yahoo! ID required)

<> To change settings via email:*
[redacted]

<> Your use of Yahoo! Groups is subject to:*
http://docs.yahoo.com/info/terms/

↑ Index

150. Alan Sondheim

Re: Second Life - Group notice: Tomorrow Aug 14 - 3 PM SLT - Alan Sondheim - SLURL for tomorrow -

Fri 13 Aug 2010

SLURL for tomorrow - just got it -

http://slurl.com/secondlife/East%20of%20Odyssey/218/77/22

Thanks, Alan

==
email archive: http://sondheim.rupamsunyata.org/
webpage http://www.alansondheim.org music archive: http://www.espdisk.com/alansondheim/
==

↑ Index

151. Daniel Zimmerman
Re: competitions
Fri 13 Aug 2010

Right. The total appears (singular) at the bottom of the page, and may prove accurate if added by a tee-totaller.

~ Dan

----- Original Message -----
From: "David Seaman" <[redacted]>
To: <[redacted]>
Sent: Friday, August 13, 2010 2:55 PM
Subject: Re: competitions

Total... In the sentence, "This place is a total wreck," isn't "total" actually a modifier? and the singular noun "a wreck?"

Notice how the British say "The government are in session," when Americans say "The government is in session."

I like Jim Andrews' poignant tale of the house full of 40 years of acculturation. It makes me think of my own 40+ years of teaching French. There are some things I am learning to adjust and adjust to. For one, I'm getting over my annoyance at the French borrowings of English. Why would they say "le listing" when they have a perfectly good "la liste?" For another, they tend to say "c'est" even when it is followed by a plural complement.

New technologies can sometimes support good practices. Like some French correspondents, I almost gave up using accents in my emails, because the keystrokes are so tedious; now with iPad it is a one-touch event to slide your finger to the selected accented letter.

In my teaching, where students hadï»¿ accused me of making them into French proofreaders, I am learning to refrain from interrupting to correct errors if they are communicating successfully. The point in a restaurant in France is to get fed, not to demonstrate impeccable grammar. Of course accuracy and fluent expression nourish in another way.....

That said, we probably agree that it is valuable to know what the accurate standard of a language is, in order to appreciate deviation from it. N'est-ce pas?

David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html

Follow my Twitter poetry at dseaman40

YouTube video of my Venice Biennale poem:
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JQ5bOuJBN_k

On 12 Aug, 2010,at 04:51 PM, Stephen Ellis <[redacted]> wrote:

> You must be totaled to be accurate. Is that like being 98.6% loaded?
>
> Date: Tue, 10 Aug 2010 08:59:40 -0400
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: competitions
> To: [redacted]
>
> David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
> http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html
> writes:
> "While those of us in the grammar police (either official or clandestine)
> like to disparage any errors, we must also recognize that usage is flexible > and evolving, It may be that there are myriad ways to express things, > with a whole range of 'levels of usage.' Let's live with it and enjoy it."
>
> .....
>
> Ummm . . . :
>
> "a total" ("a"=singular)
> "is" (singular)
> "This place is a total wreck."
>
> "totals" (plural)
> "are" (plural)
> "Several totals are required to ensure accuracy."
>
> The newest proposal for national educational standards
> in the U. S. recommends teaching grammatical agreement
> in grade three (the first grammatical principle mentioned > in that set of standards). Many of my students in college > composition seem unable to distinguish between one and > more than one. Perhaps only a tiny neurological window
> exists for hard-wiring agreement, but given recent work > in brain plasticity, I doubt it--though a fourteen-week semester usually proves insufficient for rehab. As Yale grad G. W. Bush wondered, "Is our children learning?" Good enough? Enjoy that?

>
> ~ Dan Zimmerman, Ph.D.
> [redacted]
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: "Angela Vasquez-Giroux" <angela.vasquez.gi

↑ Index

152. Jared Schickling
Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
Sat 14 Aug 2010

Dear Steve, Alan, and whomever else,

your posts –

Taking Steve's idea of the present / nearing "End," and everything that suggests, as a baseline proposition—and less concerned with the accuracy of a truth than a thinking sensibility—much less any washed set of theory that doesn't offer something we've missed—how is one to think of a relevant poetry? What would a relevant poetry be? What is a relevant poetry? Affirmation and change and hope and things of that ilk don't seem to go anywhere—as according to the proposition they are inaccurate. Yet one persists insisting…

A far-flung surrealism is acutely popular, and so would be apparently perceived as somehow relevant. And yet so is a staunch eco poetic. Alan's post of xenophobia, corruption and broken glass alongside the systematicity of Pantomime Ape of Free Will speaks, perhaps, to where the two cohabitate. Nature nurtured.

In the end, and without much argument, I'm inclined to see this as formal questions. CA Conrad's recent brief "review" at Futurepost is peculiar, even if I'm quite possibly overstating my case, but it has me wondering:

"The term 'Identity Politics' is bad enough. It's meant to annihilate the efforts of those who literally bled for the room they made for us all. 'Identity Politics' makes a joke of it. It says that all it ever was was wallowing in the filth and conspiracy of politics, a game, it's all just been a game."

While we do know politics would hardly change (have changed) without politics. Part of the public social artist's civil agenda is to force action, political. Using, as with more faith in, artistic, biologic means of a-political, corrosive substance.

Any blood, here, IS identity politics. Conrad's joke is perverse because, as I read it, it can't achieve itself, so that it does. It is literal in its bleeding, sur-real and eco-logical, like a complete thought about the body.

And yet I don't think the passage, nor a review that "wipes me out" for that matter ("evie"'s reply), has intended this. It seems to bear the burden of its own conviction.

(Here I should suggest the value of all this. Well, upon now thinking about this which is something I wasn't thinking about before, today I resisted not tossing some recyclables. And I apologized to someone for something. And cleaned up
the dog in the neighbor's yard. Etc, coincidence perhaps. Which would be such work to parcel out. Also against the original proposition. Einstein's
definition of insanity.)

How is such a method, a process unintentional, defeated yet conjured, to be systemized, formalized, etc & et al discussed, articulated? In a relevant way?

Just a question.
Available on or off list.

↑ Index

153. Jesse Glass

Re: Grammar: folk belief vs. poetry

Sat 14 Aug 2010

Greenbaum's office was across the hall from mine at UW-M. He was a nice guy who pestered the hell out of me about how exactly would I say certain expressions concerning baseball. He was simply a shadow in my doorway and now he's a shadow on the Buf. list. and a famous one at that. Jess of Japan

On 8/12/2010, "steve russell" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Soon we'll be in 5th grade again, diagraming sentences. The nuns taught me .... & that's where it all went wrong.
>
> ---
>
> From: Jonathan Morse <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Thu, August 12, 2010 12:08:53 AM
> Subject: Grammar: folk belief vs. poetry

On 8/10/2010 5:32 AM, Mark Weiss wrote:
Total is singular. "There are ten books," but "there is a total of ten books."
Oh, let's be poetic and LISTEN to the grammar. Consider, for instance, this sensitive passage from Randolph Quirk, Sidney Greenbaum, Geoffrey Leach, and Jan Svartvik, _A Comprehensive Grammar of the English Language_ (London: Longman, 1985):

"The _there_ of existential sentences . . . often determines concord, governing a singular form of the verb even when the following 'notional subject' is plural:

There's some people in the waiting room. <informal>

occurs alongside:

There are some people in the waiting room."

(Chapter 18.46, "The status of existential _there_ as subject," p. 1405)

The two sentences about people in the waiting room communicate slightly different senses of the word "there," don't they? Training yourself to hear the difference is one of the many things that poetry is good for.

So here's an exercise. Can you listen to this example from ch. 18.49, p. 1408, "There exist a number of similar medieval crosses in different parts of the country," and then articulate an explanation of why "There exists a number" would be computer language, not human language?

Jonathan Morse

At 03:46 PM 8/9/2010, you wrote:
maybe my brain is on hiatus already, but for the life of me, I can't figure out what's wrong with "there are a total".

On Mon, Aug 9, 2010 at 3:24 PM, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

The ad for a competition that you have included says "there are a total"

Are we to take it that entrants have to try to achieve that level of English usage?

gb

On Aug 7, 2010, at 4:27 PM, michael farrell wrote:

a rodeo to an apple bob - this to most poetry comps -

http://www.nycmidnight.com/2010/FFC/challenge.htm

one thing i like about many u.s. poetry comps is that they have an aesthetic context -unlike australia where the pretence is almost always the best of the best - it may be acknowledged that different judges have different tastes but the blandout conventionalism of the basic premise is rarely challenged

(wasnt going to raise this issue again but provoked by the above appearing on my facebook page with the usual suggestion that i 'like' it. i 'x'ed it, with the reason 'offensive', but perhaps shdve clicked 'misleading')

George Bowering

Hiyo, Aluminum, away!

New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
$16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm

"What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the poet alive in every sense of the word, and through every one of his senses. Instead of missing a beat or a part,

> Weiss&#65533;&#65533;&#65533; fragments > are like Chekhov&#65533;&#65533;&#65533;s short stories$BB-(Bthe more that gets left out, the more they seem > to contain&#65533;&#65533;&#65533; One can hear echoes from all the various ancestors...[but] the > voice, at its center, its core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment is > both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure musical > threnody&#65533;&#65533;&#65533;[it] opens a window, > not only into a mind, but a person, a personality, this human figure at the > emotional center of the poem."
>
> M.G. Stephens, in Jacket.
> http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml

↑ Index

154. Jonathan Morse

Re: Forwarded article below on the Mosque controversies (fwd)

Sat 14 Aug 2010

On 8/12/2010 10:26 AM, Alan Sondheim wrote:
>
> I can't argue this with anyone - I'm horrified and brought to tears by > it. And we can't sit by and let a rabid racist right grow in this > country - the effects have been seen repeatedly worldwide.
Not just this country. On a listserv whose members don't pay much of their professional attention to language, I called attention to an anti-mosque blog by the New Republic's Marty Peretz, who attempted to score a point for innuendo by referring to President Obama as "Barack Hussein Obama." Back came an offlist reply from a Canadian who compared me to both the Daily Worker (the old Communist Party USA newspaper) and Joseph Goebbels.

In the same sentence too.

Jonathan Morse

↑ Index

155. derek beaulieu
visual poetry print
Sat 14 Aug 2010

hi folks;

Crimmitschau, Germany's Atomino Art Festival has produced prints of a letraset poem of mine.

The 33? x 23.5? print (see http://derekbeaulieu.wordpress.com/2010/08/13/atomino-print/) is produced in an edition of 100 copies, the 1st 50 of which will be hung through-out the city by Crimmitschau's Town Hall.

The remaining 50 copies - each signed and numbered - are available for $15CDN each. To order, drop me an email at [redacted]

derek beaulieu
2 - 733 2nd avenue nw
calgary alberta
canada T2N 0E4
[redacted]
http://derekbeaulieu.wordpress.com/

↑ Index

156. amy king
TONIGHT: The Perseids -- The Custer Observatory
Sat 14 Aug 2010

The Perseids
Curated by Kari Adelaide and SÃ¶rine Anderson
The Custer Observatory, August 14, 2010 ---- 6-8 pm

http://www.artcat.com/exhibits/11852

â€œA whirling light on the slopes of rushesâ€¦the dew of evening and the sweat of the stars are pairedâ€¦in the avalanche of milk from the fierce starsâ€¦The last hem of the breezes, there where the pheasant of the moon flees and diesâ€¦Thus do ships lie down in the silver stormâ€¦It is in the sweet escape called the future, an escape that is always possible, that the stars that until now have bent over our distress are resorbedâ€¦the shadow of trees, the whirling shadow of dust, to come to grips with our shadowâ€¦my eyes were only a shadow-theater.â€ â€“AndrÃ© Breton

An exploration of the infinite compendium under the nightsky, systematic illumination burdened by the glowing gravity of selfhood, immutable comings and goings of revelation, a moving forest of sky-violet, confronted by the fantastical and epic unknown, poetics of visible and invisible horizons, the flux of inner and outer cosmos, arc-lit trails of lunar dust, immutable myth of the cosmos, the strike of the atmosphere and notes of unsung nebulas, forgotten infinite wanderings, a labyrinth in a field of shadow stems, untamed galactic horizons, without the landmark of place, to the celestial shadow-theater of untamed epiphanies: A convergence of practices that emulate the physical nature of the meteor itself, a phantom shedding of particles that trace the emergence of individual spectral bodies.

Tales beyond the universe, unintimidated by the tension of inner and outer cosmos, stargazing and echoing light, intangible echoing tales, poetics of the impalpable, the haze of absence and the semblance of otherworldly horizons, a hovering systematic illumination of light, stars, time and space, where specificity is outweighed by the inconceivability of infinite realities. The uncertainty of self in oblivion, and the cosmic dust of the so-called radiant.

As the Perseids have been witnessed for thousands of years, we await the gleam of necessary illusion, momentarily clinging to the transparency of the universe, with serpentine and attentive contours, the sight of waiting, the sight of watching in anxious revelatory flashes, the rotation of desire and flashing vignettes, dust-stained moments of lucidity, the impossible imprint of fantasy, with flooded light and dissolution of self, prismatic and incandescent. The paralyzing Perseids, where image becomes an untouchable prismatic fluid.

Contributing Poets:
Ana Bozicevic
Phillip Dmochowski
Eddie Hopely
Amy King
Noelle Kocot
Mark Lamoureux
Patrick Lovelace
Danny Snelson
Jocelyn Spaar
Mary Austin Speaker

Contributing Artists:
Vanessa Albury
Jarrod Anderson
Ronnie Bass
Bhakti Baxter
Jesse Bransford
Jennie Hagevik Bringaker
Kadar Brock

Ernesto Burgos
Fia Cielen
Peter Clough
Crystal Curtis
Sonja Engelhardt
Jay Henderson
Juliet Jacobson
Alex Jovanovich
Denise Kupferschmidt
Jason Leinwand
Locker 03 (Jan Dhaese Edition)
David Matorin
Alex McQuilkin
Jeremy Olson
Max Razdow
Gordon Terry
Tithonus
Jan Van Woensel

Performances by:
Marthe Ramm Fortun
Andrea Goldman
David Merritt

Custer Observatory
1115 Main Bayview Road, Southold, New York, [redacted]
Tri-State Area
August 14 - August 14, 2010
Opening: Saturday, August 14, 6 - 8 PM

****

Poetry, Publishing, Women & the Internet
+
http://amyking.wordpress.com/2010/07/12/your-own-revolution-poetry-publishing-the-internet/

Poets for Living Waters
+ http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/
****

↑ Index

157. Ruth Lepson

Re: TONIGHT: The Perseids -- The Custer Observatory

Sat 14 Aug 2010

---

man, I need to move to NY

On 8/14/10 11:12 AM, "amy king" <[redacted]> wrote:

> The Perseids
> Curated by Kari Adelaide and Sörine Anderson
> The Custer Observatory, August 14, 2010 ---- 6-8 pm
>
> http://www.artcat.com/exhibits/11852
>
> ³A whirling light on the slopes of rushesŠthe dew of evening and the sweat of the stars are pairedŠin the avalanche of milk from the fierce starsŠThe last hem of the breezes, there where the pheasant of the moon flees and diesŠThus do ships lie down in the silver stormŠIt is in the sweet escape called the future, an escape that is always possible, that the stars that until now have bent over our distress are resorbedŠthe shadow of trees, the whirling shadow of dust, to come to grips with our shadowŠmy eyes were only a shadow-theater.² André Breton
>
> An exploration of the infinite compendium under the nightsky, systematic illumination burdened by the glowing gravity of selfhood, immutable comings and goings of revelation, a moving forest of sky-violet, confronted by the fantastical and epic unknown, poetics of visible and invisible horizons, the flux of inner and outer cosmos, arc-lit trails of lunar dust, immutable myth of the cosmos, the strike of the atmosphere and notes of unsung nebulas, forgotten infinite wanderings, a labyrinth in a field of shadow stems, untamed galactic horizons, without the landmark of place, to the celestial shadow-theater of untamed epiphanies: A convergence of practices that emulate the physical nature of the meteor itself, a phantom shedding of particles that trace the emergence of individual spectral bodies.
>
> Tales beyond the universe, unintimidated by the tension of inner and outer cosmos, stargazing and echoing light, intangible echoing tales, poetics of the impalpable, the haze of absence and the semblance of otherworldly horizons, a hovering systematic illumination of light, stars, time and space, where specificity is outweighed by the inconceivability of infinite realities. The uncertainty of self in oblivion, and the cosmic dust of the so-called radiant.
>
> As the Perseids have been witnessed for thousands of years, we await the gleam of necessary illusion, momentarily clinging to the transparency of the universe, with serpentine and attentive contours,

the sight of waiting, the sight of watching in anxious revelatory flashes, the rotation of desire and flashing vignettes, dust-stained moments of lucidity, the impossible imprint of fantasy, with flooded light and dissolution of self, prismatic and incandescent. The paralyzing Perseids, where image becomes an untouchable prismatic fluid.

Contributing Poets:
Ana Bozicevic
Phillip Dmochowski
Eddie Hopely
Amy King
Noelle Kocot
Mark Lamoureux
Patrick Lovelace
Danny Snelson
Jocelyn Spaar
Mary Austin Speaker

Contributing Artists:
Vanessa Albury
Jarrod Anderson
Ronnie Bass
Bhakti Baxter
Jesse Bransford
Jennie Hagevik Bringaker
Kadar Brock
Ernesto Burgos
Fia Cielen
Peter Clough
Crystal Curtis
Sonja Engelhardt
Jay Henderson
Juliet Jacobson
Alex Jovanovich
Denise Kupferschmidt
Jason Leinwand
Locker 03 (Jan Dhaese Edition)
David Matorin
Alex McQuilkin
Jeremy Olson
Max Razdow
Gordon Terry
Tithonus
Jan Van Woensel

Performances by:
Marthe Ramm Fortun

> Andrea Goldman
> David Merritt
>
> Custer Observatory
> 1115 Main Bayview Road, Southold, New York, [redacted]
> Tri-State Area
> August 14 - August 14, 2010
> Opening: Saturday, August 14, 6 - 8 PM
>
> ********
> Poetry, Publishing, Women & the Internet
> +
> http://amyking.wordpress.com/2010/07/12/your-own-revolution-poetry-publishing-the-internet/
>
> Poets for Living Waters
> + http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/
> ********

↑ Index

158. Dan Wilcox

Third Thursday Poetry Night, August 19: Jill Crammond Wickham

Sat 14 Aug 2010

---

the Poetry Motel Foundation
presents

Third Thursday Poetry Night

at
the Social Justice Center
33 Central Ave., Albany, NY

August 19
7:00 sign up; 7:30 start

Featured Poet: Jill Crammond Wickham

-- with an open mic for community poets before & after the feature; $3.00 donation, suggested; more if you got it, less if you can't.

Your tanned host: Dan Wilcox.

(I took this poem by Jill from her Blog, http://jillypoet.wordpress.com/)

The Parable of the Anvil and Garter
After a painting by Carrie Ann Baade

I waited all night by the window for you, hero, you and your white steed,
but you never arrived.
I would have mounted even a black horse had you ridden up on purity's dark seed– any horse in a storm, brute muscle and sweat saving me from lightning, hail, electricity gone wrong.
Meanwhile, the dishes piled up, dinner scorched in the womb of the oven missing its controls and the children straggled in with a rusty anvil recovered from the neighbor's garbage.
Without the steady hoof beat of rescue to march by, flying seems the only option.
Outside, in an absurd reversal of strength,
a single raven flees a host of sparrows giant predator diving and swerving to avoid the sting of lesser beaks.
Leaving the house in blue garter and bustier proves much easier than explaining why I am astride a gleaming metal weight, why the very burden meant to drag me down is allowing me to soar above the mossy rooftop.
Every parable has a moral. Draw conclusions at your own risk.

↑ Index

159. Cara Benson

Yes! Reading Aug 26, Albany NY

Sat 14 Aug 2010

Yes! Reading series launches fall/winter season with 3 stellar poets...

Sarah Giragosian, Jennifer Karmin, Maryrose Larkin: Yes!
Thursday, August 26 @ 7:30pm
Social Justice Center
33 Central Avenue
Albany, NY

Â
Sarah Giragosian earned an MFA in poetry from Boston University. She has interned as an assistant editor at Boston Review and recently had the opportunity to assist Professor Robert Shaw with editing his text, Blank Verse: A Guide to its History and Use, published through Ohio University Press. Her work has appeared in The New York Times. She is a PhD candidate at SUNY Albany.

Jennifer Karminâ€™s text-sound epic, Aaaaaaaaaaalice,...was published by Flim Forum Press in 2010. She curates the Red Rover Series and is co-founder of the public art group Anti Gravity Surprise. Her multidisciplinary projects have been presented at festivals, artist-run spaces, community centers, and on city streets across the U.S., Japan, and Kenya. A proud member of the Dusie Kollektiv, she is the author of the Dusie chapbook Evacuated: Disembodying Katrina. Walking Poem, a collaborative street project, is featured online at How2. In Chicago, Jennifer teaches creative writing to immigrants at Truman College and works as a Poet-in-Residence for the public schools.

Maryrose Larkin lives in Portland, Oregon, where she works as a freelance researcher. She is the author of Inverse (nine muses books, 2006), Whimsy Daybook 2007 (FLASH+CARD, 2006), The Book of Ocean (i.e. press, 2007) and DARC (FLASH+CARD, 2009. Larkin is one of the organizsers of Spare Room, a Portland-based writing collective, and is co-editor, with Sarah Mangold, of FLASH+CARD, a chapbook and ephemera poetry press. Her new book, The Name of This Intersection is Frost, is forthcoming from Shearsman Books. Â http://yesreading.wordpress.com/ Â You can't so no to yes.

↑ Index

160. steve dalachinsky
abbey lincoln
Sun 15 Aug 2010

---

great songstress composer poet has passed away at age 80

↑ Index

161. Chris Jones
Re: Forwarded article below on the Mosque controversies (fwd)
Sun 15 Aug 2010

On Thu, 2010-08-12 at 16:26 -0400, Alan Sondheim wrote:
> I just have to say I'm ashamed of this country and the same can be said here. While the local original occupants have their Aboriginal flag flying with the Australian flag at our local government chambers; boat people refugees are not allowed on these shores.

I call this racism.

And shame on racist Australia.

--
have chronic fatigue syndrome so may be delayed in reply or brain fog weird just to let you know that's all, Chris Jones.

Blog: http://abdevpoetics.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

162. tyrone williams
Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
Sun 15 Aug 2010

Jared,

A great, thinking post...

Tyrone

-----Original Message-----
>From: Jared Schickling <[redacted]>
>Sent: Aug 14, 2010 1:38 AM
>To: [redacted]
>Subject: Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
>
>Dear Steve, Alan, and whomever else,
>
>
>
>your posts â€“
>
>
>
>Taking Steveâ€™s idea of the present / nearing â€œEnd,â€ and >everything that suggests, as a baseline propositionâ€”and less concerned with the >accuracy of a truth than a thinking sensibilityâ€”much less any washed set of >theory that doesnâ€™t offer something weâ€™ve missedâ€”how is one to think of a >relevant poetry? What would a relevant >poetry be? What is a relevant poetry? Affirmation and change and hope and things >of that ilk donâ€™t seem to go anywhereâ€”as according to the proposition they are >inaccurate. Yet one persists insistingâ€¦

>
>
>
>A far-flung surrealism is acutely popular, and so would be
>apparently perceived as somehow relevant.
>And yet so is a staunch eco poetic.
>Alanâ€™s post of xenophobia, corruption and broken glass alongside the >systematicity of Pantomime Ape of Free Will speaks, perhaps, to where the two >cohabitate. Nature nurtured.
>
>
>
>In the end, and without much argument, Iâ€™m inclined to see >this as formal questions. CA Conradâ€™s >recent brief â€œreviewâ€ at Futurepost is peculiar, even if Iâ€™m quite possibly >overstating my case, but it has me wondering:
>
>
>
>â€œThe term â€˜Identity Politicsâ€™ is bad enough. Itâ€™s >meant to annihilate the efforts of those who literally bled for the room they >made for us all. â€˜Identity Politicsâ€™ makes a joke of it. It says >that all it ever was was wallowing in the filth and conspiracy of politics, a >game, itâ€™s all just been a game.â€
>
>
>
>While we do know politics would hardly change (have changed) >without politics. Part of the public >social artistâ€™s civil agenda is to force action, political. Using, as with more faith in, artistic, >biologic means of a-political, corrosive substance. Any blood, here, IS identity politics. Conradâ€™s joke is perverse because, as I read it, it canâ€™t achieve >itself, so that it does. It is literal >in its bleeding, sur-real and eco-logical, like a complete thought about the >body.

>
>
>
>And yet I donâ€™t think the passage, nor a review that â€œwipes >me outâ€ for that matter (â€œevieâ€â€™s reply), has intended this. It seems to bear the burden of its own >conviction.
>
>
>
>(Here I should suggest the value of all this. Well, upon now thinking about this which is >something I wasnâ€™t thinking about before, today I resisted not tossing some >recyclables. And I apologized to >someone for something. And cleaned up >the dog in the neighborâ€™s yard. Etc, >coincidence perhaps. Which would be >such work to parcel out. Also against the >original proposition. Einsteinâ€™s >definition of insanity.)
>
>
>
>How is such a method, a process unintentional, defeated yet conjured, >to be systemized, formalized, etc & et al discussed, articulated? In a relevant way?
>
>
>
>Just a question.
>Available on or off list.
>
>
>
>
>

Tyrone Williams

↑ Index

163. George Bowering
Re: competitions
Sun 15 Aug 2010

That's quite variable.
Rich professional golfers use a new tee 18 times a round.

gb

On Aug 13, 2010, at 5:19 PM, Daniel Zimmerman wrote:

> Right. The total appears (singular) at the bottom of the page, > and may prove accurate if added by a tee-totaller.
>
> ~ Dan
>
> ----- Original Message ----- From: "David Seaman" <[redacted]>
> To: <[redacted]>
> Sent: Friday, August 13, 2010 2:55 PM
> Subject: Re: competitions
>
>
> Total... In the sentence, "This place is a total wreck," isn't > "total" actually a modifier? and the singular noun "a wreck?"
>
> Notice how the British say "The government are in session," when > Americans say "The government is in session."
>
> I like Jim Andrews' poignant tale of the house full of 40 years of > acculturation. It makes me think of my own 40+ years of teaching > French. There are some things I am learning to adjust and adjust > to. For one, I'm getting over my annoyance at the French borrowings > of English. Why would they say "le listing" when they have a > perfectly good "la liste?" For another, they tend to say "c'est" > even when it is followed by a plural complement.
>
> New technologies can sometimes support good practices. Like some > French correspondents, I almost gave up using accents in my emails, > because the keystrokes are so tedious; now with iPad it is a one- > touch event to slide your finger to the selected accented letter.
>
> In my teaching, where students hadï»¿ accused me of making them into > French proofreaders, I am learning to refrain from interrupting to > correct errors if they are communicating successfully. The point in > a restaurant in France is to get fed, not to demonstrate impeccable > grammar. Of course accuracy and fluent expression nourish in > another way.....
>
> That said, we probably agree that it is valuable to know what the accurate standard of a language is, in order to appreciate deviation from it. N'est-ce pas?

David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html

Follow my Twitter poetry at dseaman40

YouTube video of my Venice Biennale poem:
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JQ5bOuJBN_k

On 12 Aug, 2010,at 04:51 PM, Stephen Ellis <[redacted]> wrote:

You must be totaled to be accurate. Is that like being 98.6% loaded?

Date: Tue, 10 Aug 2010 08:59:40 -0400
From: [redacted]
Subject: Re: competitions
To: [redacted]

David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html
writes:
"While those of us in the grammar police (either official or > clandestine)
like to disparage any errors, we must also recognize that usage is > flexible and evolving, It may be that there are myriad ways to express things, with a whole range of 'levels of usage.' Let's live with it and enjoy > it."

.....
.....

Ummm . . . :

"a total" ("a"=singular)
"is" (singular)
"This place is a total wreck."

"totals" (plural)
"are" (plural)

> "Several totals are required to ensure accuracy."
>
> The newest proposal for national educational standards in the U. S. recommends teaching grammatical agreement in grade three (the first grammatical principle mentioned in that set of standards). Many of my students in college composition seem unable to distinguish between one and more than one. Perhaps only a tiny neurological window exists for hard-wiring agreement, but given recent work in brain plasticity, I doubt it--though a fourteen-week semester usually proves insufficient for rehab. As Yale grad G. W. Bush wondered, "Is our children learning?" Good enough? Enjoy that?
>
> ~ Dan Zimmerman, Ph.D.
> [redacted]
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: "Angela Vasquez-Giroux" <angela.vasquez.gi
> welcome.html
> welcome.html

George Bowering

The world is my clam.

↑ Index

164. Jerome Rothenberg
American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium
Sun 15 Aug 2010

In advance of an official announcement, this is to report that Poems for the Millennium, volume 3: The University of California Book of Romantic and Postromantic Poetry, edited by myself and Jeffrey Robinson, will receive a 2010 American Book Award from the Before Columbus Foundation. It's my understanding that there will be fourteen such awards over all, including Amiri Baraka's The Afro-American Soul of American Classical Music and Dave Eggers' non-fiction narrative Zeitoun, both previously announced, as well as a lifetime achievement award for our old comrade-in-poetry Quincy Troupe.

The nominating statement for Poems for the Millennium reads as follows:

"Modernism rejected Romanticism in the way that one political leader rejects another-not because it is any different but because it wishes to win the same audience. This book demonstrates that the only thing that happened in Modernism was that a door opened onto still another aspect of the immense cultural experiment that Romanticism was-or as Rothenberg and Robinson might insist, as Romanticisms were (are). Central issues were what Rousseau called conscience de soi, self-awareness (but a self-awareness which deliberately did not separate itself from 'world'), a new interest in ethnicity and the local, and a shift from thinking of poetry as a 'craft' and of the poet as 'maker,' to thinking of it as a provoker of consciousness-even a creator of consciousness-and of the poet as Bard, Shaman. To know the work so carefully, lovingly and brilliantly assembled in this book is to know ourselves in a new and newly conscious way."

An awards ceremony and reception will take place on Sunday, September 19th from 1-4 p.m. at the Koret Auditorium, San Francisco Main Library, 100 Larkin Street, San Francisco, CA.

↑ Index

165. michael farrell

Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS

Sun 15 Aug 2010

---

hi jared

i like your tone

id like to consider different tones as a way of nutting out something

political tones leave me cold

many radio tones grate

close readings of voice (close listening - bernstein) get blocked by listeners horror at words spoken

we complain about whats being done to language but not the ultimately contemptuous tones used to voice it

id like to see a debate or an interview where a key word or discourse is focused on but in relation to (contesting) the (habitual) tone being used

q: "can you talk like a human being?" "maybe try talking about something unrelated to politics first"

> Date: Fri, 13 Aug 2010 23:38:01 -0600
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
> To: [redacted]
>
> Dear Steve, Alan, and whomever else,

your posts –

Taking Steve's idea of the present / nearing "End," and everything that suggests, as a baseline proposition—and less concerned with the accuracy of a truth than a thinking sensibility—much less any washed set of theory that doesn't offer something we've missed—how is one to think of a relevant poetry? What would a relevant poetry be? What is a relevant poetry? Affirmation and change and hope and things of that ilk don't seem to go anywhere—as according to the proposition they are inaccurate. Yet one persists insisting…

A far-flung surrealism is acutely popular, and so would be
apparently perceived as somehow relevant.
And yet so is a staunch eco poetic.
Alan's post of xenophobia, corruption and broken glass alongside the systematicity of Pantomime Ape of Free Will speaks, perhaps, to where the two cohabitate. Nature nurtured.

In the end, and without much argument, I'm inclined to see this as formal questions. CA Conrad's recent brief "review" at Futurepost is peculiar, even if I'm quite possibly overstating my case, but it has me wondering:

"The term 'Identity Politics' is bad enough. It's meant to annihilate the efforts of those who literally bled for the room they made for us all. 'Identity Politics' makes a joke of it. It says that all it ever was was wallowing in the filth and conspiracy of politics, a game, it's all just been a game."

While we do know politics would hardly change (have changed)
without politics. Part of the public social artist's civil agenda is to force action, political. Using, as with more faith in, artistic, biologic means of a-political, corrosive substance. Any blood, here, IS identity politics. Conrad's joke is perverse because, as I read it, it can't achieve itself, so that it does. It is literal in its bleeding, sur-real and eco-logical, like a complete thought about the > body.

>
> And yet I don't think the passage, nor a review that "wipes > me out" for that matter ("evie"'s reply), has intended this. It seems to bear the > burden of its own > conviction.
>
> (Here I should suggest the value of all this. Well, upon now thinking about this > which is > something I wasn't thinking about before, today I resisted not tossing some > recyclables. And I apologized to > someone for something. And cleaned up
> the dog in the neighbor's yard. Etc,
> coincidence perhaps. Which would be > such work to parcel out. Also against the > original proposition. Einstein's > definition of insanity.)
>
> How is such a method, a process unintentional, defeated yet conjured, > to be systemized, formalized, etc & et al discussed, articulated? In a relevant way?
>
> Just a question.
> Available on or off list.

↑ Index

166. David Seaman

Re: competitions

Sun 15 Aug 2010

Depends (not the diapers) whether (weather) ï»¿you and I are referring to you and me.

David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html

Follow my Twitter poetry at dseaman40

YouTube video of my Venice Biennale poem:
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JQ5bOuJBN_k

On 13 Aug, 2010,at 03:33 PM, steve dalachinsky <[redacted]> wrote:

> why's everybody includin ahcandemics say you and i when it's you and me and yes i know when to say either or was that ether
>
> On Fri, 13 Aug 2010 11:55:11 -0700 David Seaman <[redacted]> writes:
> Total... In the sentence, "This place is a total wreck," isn't "total" actually a modifier? and the singular noun "a wreck?"
>
> Notice how the British say "The government are in session," when Americans say "The government is in session."
>
> I like Jim Andrews' poignant tale of the house full of 40 years of acculturation. It makes me think of my own 40+ years of teaching French. There are some things I am learning to adjust and adjust to. For one, I'm getting over my annoyance at the French borrowings of English. Why would they say "le listing" when they have a perfectly good "la liste?" For another, they tend to say "c'est" even when it is followed by a plural complement.
>
> New technologies can sometimes support good practices. Like some French correspondents, I almost gave up using accents in my emails, because the keystrokes are so tedious; now with iPad it is a one-touch event to slide your finger to the selected accented letter.
>
> In my teaching, where students had? accused me of making them into French proofreaders, I am learning to refrain from interrupting to correct errors if they are communicating successfully. The point in a restaurant in France is to get fed, not to demonstrate impeccable grammar. Of course accuracy and fluent expression nourish in another way.....
>
> That said, we probably agree that it is valuable to know what the accurate standard of a language is, in order to appreciate deviation from it. N'est-ce pas?
>
> David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
> http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html
>
> Follow my Twitter poetry at dseaman40

YouTube video of my Venice Biennale poem:
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JQ5bOuJBN_k

On 12 Aug, 2010,at 04:51 PM, Stephen Ellis <[redacted]>
wrote:

You must be totaled to be accurate. Is that like being 98.6%
loaded?

Date: Tue, 10 Aug 2010 08:59:40 -0400
From: [redacted]
Subject: Re: competitions
To: [redacted]

David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html
writes:
"While those of us in the grammar police (either official or clandestine)
like to disparage any errors, we must also recognize that usage
is flexible and evolving, It may be that there are myriad ways to express things, with a whole range of 'levels of usage.' Let's live with it and enjoy it."

.....
.....

Ummm . . . :

"a total" ("a"=singular)
"is" (singular)
"This place is a total wreck."

"totals" (plural)
"are" (plural)
"Several totals are required to ensure accuracy."

The newest proposal for national educational standards
in the U. S. recommends teaching grammatical agreement
in grade three (the first grammatical principle mentioned > in that set of standards). Many of my students in college composition seem unable to distinguish between one and more than one. Perhaps only a tiny neurological window exists for hard-wiring agreement, but given recent work in brain plasticity, I doubt it--though a fourteen-week semester usually proves insufficient for rehab. As Yale grad G. W. Bush wondered, "Is our children learning?" Good enough? Enjoy that?

>
> ~ Dan Zimmerman, Ph.D.
> [redacted]
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: "Angela Vasquez-Giroux" <angela.vasquez.gi

↑ Index

167. Mark Weiss

Re: {spam?} Forwarded article below on the Mosque controversies (fwd)

Sun 15 Aug 2010

My god, Cris, you're becoming an American!

At 01:57 PM 8/13/2010, you wrote:
>I couldn't agree more about the morbidity of the mosque debates Alan >and by the statement that we are all immigrants
>
>i do not however think it is the sole purview of the "right" to >generate paranoia and hate speech (bearing in mind that "left" and >"right" are also troubling formulations with troubled histories)
>
>i've not seen Obama want to take down the fence with Mexico started >under the odious Bush in the south west (for example . . . he sent >more troops no less) nor actually close down Guantanamo (for >example . . . all empty rhetoric for 18 months already now) nor do >anything but escalate the war in Afghanistan (for example . . .
>although i guess that's not surprising since Democrat presidents have >taken the US to war far more eagerly and frequently throughout the >twentieth century than even their Republican counterparts . . .
>unless my math is just wrong, in the guise of the world's >police . . . vomit) nor repeal the Patriot Act (for example . . . an >act of insanity by GW Bush against which there was so much derision >focussed when i first came to live here in the US and which Obama has >re-ratified) nor address the hideous Department of Homeland >Security . . . (a militarization of the State that builds >inexorably on surveillance and controls brought in my that arch Big >Brother sap J Edgar Hoover . . .)

>
> . . .
>
>
>and then which judge made a serious move on Prop 8 just a couple of >weeks ago . . . a libertarian-leaning freedom of speech judge >appointed by Ronald Reagan . . (what is Obama doing to end Reagan's >appallingly debilitating and outright destructive War on Drugs?? btw)
>
>
>attacks on the "right" by the "left" appear just as driven by >paranoia and characterized by stereotypical terms and forms of abuse >as attacks on the "left" by the "right"
>
>it is as often unions who campaign against immigration on the grounds >of competition for their members jobs and a previous wave of >immigrants which tries to block the next as it is nationalists and >xenophobes weaving their racist sentiments into planning and zoning >debates and whipping up fearful sentiment
>
>
>a pox on both Democrats and on Republicans
>
>
>xx
>
>
>cris
>
>
>
>On Aug 12, 2010, at 4:26 PM, Alan Sondheim wrote:
>
>>I just have to say I'm ashamed of this country, and scared - too much >>hatred against illegal immigrants (WHICH WE ALL ARE), and now

>>Islam. Some >>of the protests are all too familiar Kristallnacht in tone - on Jon >>Stewart, there was a newsclip of a community going to burn a copy >>of the >>Koran on 9/11.
>>
>>I can't argue this with anyone - I'm horrified and brought to tears >>by it.
>>And we can't sit by and let a rabid racist right grow in this >>country -
>>the affects have been seen repeatedly worldwide.
>>
>>- Alan
>>
>>
>>---------- Forwarded message ----------
>>Date: Thu, 12 Aug 2010 15:20:36
>>From: [redacted]
>>Reply-To: No Reply <[redacted]>
>>To: [redacted]
>>Subject: [evol-psych] Digest Number 7327
>>
>>There are 6 messages in this issue.
>>
>>Topics in this digest:
>>
>>1. News: Orangutan pantomime ~ elaborating the message
>> From: Robert Karl Stonjek
>>
>>2a. Re: Holistic Darwinism: The new evolutionary paradigm and some >>impli
>> From: Mike Tintner
>>2b. Re: Holistic Darwinism: The new evolutionary paradigm and some >>impli
>> From: Steve Moxon
>>
>>3. Bonobos and chimps
>> From: mark hubey
>>
>>4. The Rise of America's Idiot Culture
>> From: ED
>>

>>5. 8 Percent of U.S. Births to Illegal Immigrants
>> From: R A Fonda
>>
>>
>>Messages
>>_____ __
>>1. News: Orangutan pantomime ~ elaborating the message
>> Posted by: "Robert Karl Stonjek" [redacted]
>>rk_stonjek
>> Date: Thu Aug 12, 2010 3:07 am ((PDT))
>>
>>Orangutan pantomime: elaborating the message
>>Anne Russon1 and Kristin Andrews2
>>
>>1Psychology Department, Glendon College, 2275 Bayview Avenue, >>Toronto, Ontario,
>>Canada M4N 3M6
>>2Philosophy Department, York University, 4700 Keele St Toronto, >>Ontario, Canada
>>M3J 1P3
>>
>>*Author for correspondence ([redacted]).
>>Abstract
>>We present an exploratory study of forest-living orangutan >>pantomiming, i.e.
>>gesturing in which they act out their meaning, focusing on its >>occurrence, >>communicative functions, and complexities. Studies show that >>captive great apes >>may elaborate messages if communication fails, and isolated reports >>suggest >>that great apes occasionally pantomime. We predicted forest-living >>orangutans
>>would pantomime spontaneously to communicate, especially to >>elaborate after >>communication failures. Mining existing databases on free-ranging >>rehabilitant >>orangutans' behaviour identified 18 salient pantomimes. These >>pantomimes most >>often functioned as elaborations of failed requests, but also as >>deceptions and >>declaratives. Complexities identified include >>multimodality, re- enactments of >>past events and several features of language (productivity, >>compositionality,

>>systematicity). These findings confirm that free-ranging rehabilitant >>orangutans pantomime and use pantomime to elaborate on their mess >>ages. Further, they use pantomime for multiple functions and create >>complex
>>pantomimes that can express propositionally structured content.
>>Thus, orangutan >>pantomime serves as a medium for communication, not a particular >>function.
>>Mining cases of complex great ape communication originally reported in >>functional terms may then yield more evidence of pantomime.
>>
>>Source: The Royal Society
>>http://rsbl.royalsocietypublishing.org/content/early/2010/08/05/>>rsbl.2010.0564.abstract?papetoc
>>
>>Posted by >>Robert Karl Stonjek
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>Messages in this topic (1)
>>_____ __
>>_____ __
>>_____ __
>>4. The Rise of America's Idiot Culture
>> Posted by: "ED" [redacted] seacrofter001
>> Date: Thu Aug 12, 2010 7:59 am ((PDT))
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>August 12, 2010
>>The Rise of America's Idiot Culture The Muslim Community Center at >>Ground Zero: a Manufactured Controversy
>>By ANTHONY DiMAGGIO
>>
>>A substantial racist uproar is taking place in conservative America, >>particularly in right-wing radio and television. Reactionary pundits >>are drawing increased attention to plans to build an Islamic community >>center in downtown Manhattan, near Ground Zero. Republicans and >>conservatives have long been known to harbor racist views of Islam, >>although they're hardly alone in this. Many on the right frame the >>entire religion as radical, fundamentalist, and a threat to national >>security. In light of this pattern, there's little surprising about >>the right's most recent attack on Muslim Americans as a secret, >>under the radar threat.

>>
>>Islam has at times been portrayed on the right as the bedrock >>threat to >>American cultural values, and Muslims are depicted as uni- dimensionally >>set on overthrowing Christianity, enslaving the American public, and >>imposing "Sharia law." The last warning about "Sharia >>law" ? repeated by pundits like Sean Hannity and Rush Limbaugh
>>? among many others ? comes off as extremely ignorant, >>considering that the term "Sharia" itself means Islamic law.
>>One should take the warnings of those who use the phrase "Sharia >>law" about as seriously as someone who masquerades as a legal >>scholar while talking about the importance of "American law >>law."
>>
>>The American right has also taken to paranoid conspiracy theories >>charging that Obama is a non-citizen. As the story goes, Obama was >>really born in Kenya, and his "take over" of the White House >>represents a secret victory for radical Islam, since, as we all >>"know," Obama is a closet Muslim terrorist who is allied with >>Osama bin Laden and other radical Islamists. About half of >>Republicans >>believe either that Obama is not a citizen or that they cannot be sure >>of whether he is really an American citizen or not. These views are >>shared by nearly 60 percent of self-designated Tea Party supporters.
>>
>>Of course, the nuances of the Islamic faith and the mainstream >>nature of >>the American Muslim community - the vast majority who oppose >>terrorism,
>>fundamentalism, or repression of women - have been completely lost in >>the smug arrogance and incompetence of racists on the right.
>>
>>The reactionary right has long been opposed to anything related to >>Arab

>>culture and the Muslim religion in New York and around the >>country. One >>infamous example is New York's Khalil Gibran Arabic language >>academy, the first of its kind for the city. Rabid right-wingers >>railed >>against it, especially those in the "stop the Madrassa" campaign >>(many of whom worried about the dangers of "Madrassa schools," >>while apparently too ignorant to realize that the word Madrassa itself >>means school). I argued with one of the leaders of this group on Alan >>Colmes' radio show a few years ago. She seemed un-phased by the >>reality that there was never any concrete evidence that the Khalil >>Gibran academy was teaching Islamic values. As she announced on the >>show (despite my scorn for her comments), the very fact that there was >>no visible evidence of an Islamic curriculum was proof of just how >>good >>the schools' administrators and teachers were of hiding it. Such >>paranoia demonstrated how far conservative extremism and racism have >>come in recent years.
>>
>>This brings us to the most recent "controversy" related to >>Islam: the Muslim community center planned for Manhattan. Right >>wingers >>in radio and at Fox News have gone into overdrive attacking it as a >>fundamental threat to the American way of life and to American >>security.
>>Their racist diatribes have been hard for me to listen to, but they >>remain important to address, if for no other reason than so we can >>fight
>>the ignorant assumptions behind them head on.
>>
>>Here's a quick review of some of the most outrageous comments made >>in the American media:
>>
>>- On Fox News, former Congressman Newt Gingrich attacked the community >>center for its planned location "right at the edge of a place where, >>let's be clear, thousands of Americans were killed in an attack by >>radical Islamists." On his website, Gingrich announced that >>"there should be no mosque near ground zero in New York so long as >>there are no churches or synagogues in Saudi Arabia."
>>Gingrich's choice to spotlight the radical fundamentalist regime of >>Saudi Arabia (hypocritically supported by Gingrich himself when he was >>Speaker of the House in the 1990s) ? while neglecting moderate and >>secular governments in the Muslim world, speaks volumes about what he >>considers to be the "essence" of Islam. Gingrich's language >>is truly abhorrent; he frames those supporting the community center in >>Manhattan as part of the same "they" as the Islamic >>fundamentalists who perpetrated the 9-11 attacks. As far as >>Gingrich is >>concerned, there are no distinctions to be made in the monolithic >>"threat" that is the entire U.S. and world Muslim community.

>>
>>- On Fox, Sarah Palin drew attention to "those innocent victims, >>those families of those who were killed in the 9-11 tragedy, it >>saddens >>me to think that people don't understand what building this mosque >>at such hallowed ground really represents." Inextricably linked to >>Palin's warnings is the assumption that the community center >>represents a single, overarching fifth column threat from American >>Muslims. This much was clear when she characterized its construction >>as "an unnecessary provocation" against the people of New York >>and the American people more generally.
>>
>>- Fox News host Sean Hannity claimed that the "Iman" supporting >>the building of the community center is a figure who "supports what >>happened on 9/11" and "praises Osama bin Laden." Hannity, >>of course, failed to present any evidence linking community center >>supporters to defending the 9/11 attacks, but this hardly seemed to >>matter to him or his guest, Jay Seculow (of the American Center for >>Law
>>and Justice), who complained that "you don't get to build a >>mosque on a site that's part of ground zero" because "that >>would be like putting at Pearl Harbor a monument of the Kamikaze >>pilots >>who tried to destroy U.S. troops, you just don't do that." In >>this case, Muslim Americans who had nothing to do with 9/11 are >>apparently the equivalent of Japanese soldiers who killed Americans >>during World War II.
>>
>>- Right wing radio icon Rush Limbaugh, not to be outdone, warned that
>>"the terrorists win" if the community center successfully moves >>forward. Limbaugh continued, posing a hypothetical comparing Muslim >>Americans to those who lynched blacks in the post Civil War era:
>>"Let me ask you: What would happen, do you think, if the Ku Klux >>Klan wanted to establish a memorial at Gettysburg?" Limbaugh also >>employed a World War II analogy, likening the dangers of the community >>center to the destruction brought upon Japan by U.S. nuclear weapons:

>>"Let's go to Hiroshima and Nagasaki and let's build giant >>monuments in the shape of nuclear bombs and call it the Manhattan >>Project. I mean you'd have Americans objecting to that, >>wouldn't you?"
>>
>>What is most disturbing about the manufactured controversy >>involving the >>community center is the blatant arrogance and stupidity of the >>right in >>its warnings of an imminent "threat." Anyone who spends thirty >>seconds researching the Cordoba Group, the organization responsible >>for >>promoting the community center, would know that the group's >>representative, Feisal Abdul Rauf (targeted in Hannity attacks as >>pro-bin Laden and pro-9/11) is actually a public critic of Osama bin >>Laden and the 9/11 attacks, and a vocal supporter of improving >>relations >>between the U.S. and the Muslim world. None of this is conveyed in >>any >>of the right-wing slander above, however, as these pundits are content
>>to showcase their ignorance regarding the basic facts surrounding the >>community center fiasco they "authoritatively" "report"
>>on.
>>
>>I should note that all of the pundits above premise their attacks
>>on the >>Manhattan community center with statements that promotion of religious >>tolerance and cultural diversity are important and necessary. These >>claims, however, mean nothing when they are followed by fear mongering
>>and attacks on Muslims as part of an all-encompassing threat that >>derives from some sort of uniform "Muslim culture" ? one >>that is seen as constituting a danger to U.S. security and the >>American
>>way of life. These pundits refuse to distinguish between the tiny >>minority of those throughout the world who support terrorism in the >>name
>>of Islam and the vast majority of Muslims who reject those beliefs.
>>Their reluctance to take a reasonable, level-headed approach to the >>study of the Muslim faith is an indicator of their fanaticism, >>religious

>>bigotry, and racism.
>>
>>Rather than asking whether the Manhattan community center represents a >>threat, we should be asking ourselves what happened to our country
>>when >>national discourse is hijacked by those who not only have no >>interest in
>>facts, but see them as an active roadblock to advancing their racist >>agendas. The blatant racism and incompetence of those attacking the >>Manhattan community center should be obvious enough to those who pride >>themselves in promoting multi-culturalism, racial diversity, and >>respect
>>for religious freedom. That the racist right remains so prominent in >>national television and radio is a sign, more than anything else,
>>of the
>>steep deterioration of American political discourse.
>>
>>Anthony DiMaggio is the editor of media-ocracy (www.media-ocracy.com >> > <http://www.media-ocracy.com/>), a daily online magazine devoted >>to the >>study of media, public opinion, and current events. He has taught >>U.S.
>>and Global Politics at Illinois State University and North Central >>College, and is the author of When Media Goes to War
>><http://www.amazon.com/exec/obidos/ASIN/1583671994/counterpunchmag
a>
>>(2010) and Mass Media, Mass Propaganda
>><http://www.amazon.com/exec/obidos/ASIN/0739119036/counterpunchmag
a> >>(2008). He can be reached at: [redacted] >><mailto:[redacted]>
>>
>>http://www.counterpunch.org/dimaggio08122010.html
>><http://www.counterpunch.org/dimaggio08122010.html>
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>Messages in this topic (1)

>>_____ __
>>_____ __
>>5. 8 Percent of U.S. Births to Illegal Immigrants
>> Posted by: "R A Fonda" [redacted] rafonda2000
>> Date: Thu Aug 12, 2010 8:01 am ((PDT))
>>
>>
>> Study: 8 Percent of U.S. Births to Illegal Immigrants
>>
>>
>> Pew Hispanic Center Report Sheds Light on Americans at >>Center of >> Birthright Citizenship Debate
>>
>>
>> By DEVIN DWYER
>>
>>WASHINGTON, August 11, 2010---
>>
>>Eight percent of all babies born in the U.S. in 2008 belonged to >>illegal >>immigrant
>><http://newspreview.corp.dig.com/Politics/illegal-immigration->>america-shadows-abc-news-special-series/story?id=11099873> >>parents, according to a groundbreaking analysis of U.S. Census Bureau >>data by the Pew Hispanic Center. Under the 14th amendment to the >>Constitution, each child obtained U.S. citizenship at birth while >>one or >>both of the parents remained undocumented.
>>
>>The study <http://pewhispanic.org/reports/report.php?ReportID=125> >>sheds >>new light on a group of Americans at the center of a hot political >>debate
>><http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/birthright-citizenship-14th>>amendment-republican-senators-explore-change/story?id=11313973> >>in recent weeks. Some Republican lawmakers have proposed revising >>birthright citizenship to bar U.S.-born children of illegal immigrants >>from obtaining legal status.
>>
>>Pew estimates 340,000 of the 4.3 million newborns in U.S. hospitals in >>2008 belonged to illegal immigrant parents. In total, 4 million

>>U.S.-born, citizen children of illegal immigrants >><http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/birth-tourism-industry-markets-us->>citizenship-abroad/story?id=10359956>
>>currently live in the country, according to the study.
>>
>>The study is the most comprehensive, non-partisan research to date on >>children of illegal immigrants living in the U.S. and adds important >>context, and frames the ongoing debate. Previously there have been few >>reliable estimates of annual U.S. births to illegal immigrants.
>>
>>Critics of birthright citizenship
>>><http://abcnews.go.com/WN/debate-birthright-citizenship-aims-baby->>tourism/story?id=11322850&page=1> >>have expressed concern over the burgeoning size of America's illegal >>immigrant >><http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/illegal-immigration-america-shadows->>abc-news-special-series/story?id=11099873> >>population, estimated at 10.8 million and whose offspring in the U.S. >>would be able to sponsor their parents and relatives for legal >>residency. The children are sometimes referred to as anchor babies.
>>
>>"Birthright citizenship I think is a mistake," said Republican Sen.
>>Lindsey Graham of South Carolina. "We should change our >>Constitution and >>say if you come here illegally and you have a child, that child's >>automatically not a citizen."
>>
>>Senate Minority Leader Mitch McConnell and other leading Republicans, >>including Arizona senators Jon Kyl and John McCain, have indicated an >>openness to exploring the 14th Amendment issue raised by Sen. Graham.
>>But some harbor deep reservations about changing the Constitution.
>>
>>"It's a rather unseemly business and I think we ought to have some >>hearings about it," McConnell said of the practice of illegal >>immigrant
>>mothers giving birth in the U.S.
>>
>>"Congressional hearings are always warranted when members of Congress >>raise the issue of amending our Constitution," said McCain in a >>statement. "I believe that the Constitution is a strong, complete and >>carefully crafted document that has successfully governed our >>nation for >>centuries and any proposal to amend the Constitution should receive >>extensive and thoughtful consideration."

>>
>>
>> Birthright Citizenship Debate: Election Year Politics?
>>
>>But some lawmakers are calling the push to revise the 14th Amendment >>nothing but a political stunt.
>>
>>"I think it's good to take a look at all of our constitutional >>amendments. But I'll tell you something: if you think it's a >>coincidence
>>that this sudden discussion begins three months before an election, >>you'd be very, very mistaken," said Vermont Independent Sen. Bernie >>Sanders on ABC's "Top Line" >><http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/video/sanders-14th-amendment-100->>percent-political-11314073>.
>>
>>
>>Pennsylvannia Democratic Sen. Arlen Specter, whose parents were >>immigrants to the U.S., has called U.S. citizenship by birth a >>fundamental right.
>>
>>"The political pandering on the immigration issue has reached the >>hysterical level," Specter told ABC News. "To try to direct the effort >>at the children born in this country is just preposterous... How can >>newborn children protect themselves if politicians want to gain >>political gain... I would be shocked if this idea would gain political >>traction, but I'm being shocked on a daily basis by the United States >>Senate."
>>
>>
>> History of Birthright and the 14th Amendment
>>
>>The 14th Amendment to the Constitution, which was enacted after the >>Civil War to grant citizenship to descendants of slaves, reads: "All >>persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the >>jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the >>state >>wherein they reside."
>>
>>"The drafter of the 14th Amendment provision on citizenship did make a >>statement that it would not include foreigners or aliens," said George >>Washington University constitutional law professor Jonathan Turley.

>>"However, other senators made it clear that they believed that this >>provision guaranteed birthright citizenship."
>>
>>The courts have repeatedly ruled that people who are born in the U.S. >>are American citizens and if Congress passed a law changing that, it >>would likely be repealed, experts say.
>>
>>The Supreme Court <http://abcnews.go.com/Politics/Supreme_Court/> has >>only addressed the issue once, clarifying in 1898 that citizenship >>does >>apply to U.S.-born children of legal immigrants who have yet to become >>citizens.
>>
>>"The legislative history may be a little mixed, but the language of
>>the >>amendment seems to speak clearly in favor of birthright citizenship, >>regardless of what the intent may have been," Turley said.
>>
>>The United States is one of the few remaining countries to grant >>citizenship to all children born on its soil. The United Kingdom, >>Ireland, India and Australia, among others, have since revised their >>birthright laws, no longer allowing every child born on their soil to >>get citizenship.
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>Messages in this topic (1)
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>---------- --
>>Yahoo! Groups Links
>>
>><*> To visit your group on the web, go to:
>> http://groups.yahoo.com/group/evolutionary-psychology/
>>

><<*> Your email settings:
>> Digest Email | Traditional
>>
><<*> To change settings online go to:
>> http://groups.yahoo.com/group/evolutionary-psychology/join >> (Yahoo! ID required)
>>
><<*> To change settings via email:
>> [redacted]
>> [redacted]
>>
>>
><<*> Your use of Yahoo! Groups is subject to: >> http://docs.yahoo.com/info/terms/
>>
>>---------- --
>>
>

New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
$16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm

"What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the poet alive in every sense of the word, and through every one of his senses. Instead of missing a beat or a part, Weiss' fragments are
like Chekhov's short storiesthe more that gets
left out, the more they seem to contain… One can
hear echoes from all the various
ancestors...[but] the voice, at its center, its
core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment
is both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure
musical threnody…[it] opens a window, not only
into a mind, but a person, a personality, this
human figure at the emotional center of the poem."

M.G. Stephens, in Jacket.
http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml

↑ Index

168. Ruth Lepson
Re: abbey lincoln
Mon 16 Aug 2010

she was esp a great composer & her ex, max roach, a great drummer see her interview on UTube about meeting billy holiday

On 8/15/10 4:52 AM, "steve dalachinsky" <[redacted]> wrote:

> great songstress composer poet has passed away at age 80

↑ Index

169. Ruth Lepson
Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium
Mon 16 Aug 2010

This is fantastic, Jerome. You know I had hoped to review the book, having worked it when a student did an independent study with me, but I haven't been up to it. I am happy to hear that the award is justly given.

On 8/15/10 4:53 PM, "Jerome Rothenberg" <[redacted]> wrote:

> In advance of an official announcement, this is to report that Poems for the Millennium, volume 3: The University of California Book of Romantic and Postromantic Poetry, edited by myself and Jeffrey Robinson, will receive a 2010 American Book Award from the Before Columbus Foundation. It's my understanding that there will be fourteen such awards over all, including Amiri Baraka's The Afro-American Soul of American Classical Music and Dave Eggers' non-fiction narrative Zeitoun, both previously announced, as well as a lifetime achievement award for our old comrade-in-poetry Quincy Troupe.
>
> The nominating statement for Poems for the Millennium reads as follows:
>
> "Modernism rejected Romanticism in the way that one political leader rejects another-not because it is any different but because it wishes to win the same audience. This book demonstrates that the only thing that happened in Modernism was that a door opened onto still another aspect of the immense cultural experiment that Romanticism was-or as Rothenberg and Robinson might insist, as Romanticisms were (are). Central issues were what Rousseau called conscience de soi, self-awareness (but a self-awareness which deliberately did not separate itself from 'world'), a new interest in ethnicity and the local, and a shift from thinking of poetry as a 'craft' and of the poet as 'maker,' to thinking of it as a provoker of consciousness-even a creator of consciousness-and of the poet as Bard, Shaman. To know the work so carefully, lovingly and brilliantly assembled in this book is to know ourselves in a new and newly conscious way."
>
> An awards ceremony and reception will take place on Sunday, September 19th

> from 1-4 p.m. at the Koret Auditorium, San Francisco Main Library, 100 Larkin Street, San Francisco, CA.

↑ Index

170. steve russell

Re: End Times (Green) poetics, or Adopt A Gringo

Mon 16 Aug 2010

They remain rich. They're not vulnerable, at least not in a $$$ sense. But has the market gone past 11 thousand since 9/11? I don't give a damn about the rich. What do they contribute?

--- On Fri, 8/13/10, steve dalachinsky <[redacted]> wrote:

From: steve dalachinsky <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: End Times (Green) poetics, or Adopt A Gringo
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, August 13, 2010, 4:25 PM

the rich are no longer gettin richer ??? that's a laugh

On Thu, 12 Aug 2010 13:17:48 -0700 steve russell <[redacted]> writes:
> Been talking with my Green Party D.C. friends.
> It really does seem as if the End has finally arrived and will be > unfolding in > many interesting ways as the 1st decade of century 21 comes to a > close.
>
> I mean, even the Rich are no longer getting richer.
> It's that bad.
> & the enviroment, as everyone knows, is a cesspool.
>
> So I'm wondering: Where are the sustainable communities?
> Artist, especially, should think very hard.
>
> I haven't done the research, but I wonder if there's a Native
> American Tribe
> that has an Adopt a Gringo program. I've been rereading my Wendell > Berry and I'm > almost certain (I'm not good with absolutes) that the original > natives of this > country will have a huge leg up when things finally collapse.Run ...
> to the > woods ... or someplace safe.

>
>
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

171. Stephen Baraban

One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota[h]to

Mon 16 Aug 2010

One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota{h}to
OR, The Argument Need not be Souring

There now is a list-mate named Bowering,
Who might think that the others are cowering;
Though the offense be slight,
If the usage ain't right,
He'll rim-shot a scorn that is towering.

↑ Index

172. Mark Weiss

Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium

Mon 16 Aug 2010

Richly deserved.

At 04:53 PM 8/15/2010, you wrote:
>In advance of an official announcement, this is >to report that Poems for the Millennium, volume >3: The University of California Book of Romantic >and Postromantic Poetry, edited by myself and >Jeffrey Robinson, will receive a 2010 American >Book Award from the Before Columbus >Foundation. It's my understanding that there >will be fourteen such awards over all, including >Amiri Baraka's The Afro-American Soul of >American Classical Music and Dave Eggers' >non-fiction narrative Zeitoun, both previously >announced, as well as a lifetime achievement >award for our old comrade-in-poetry Quincy Troupe.
>

>The nominating statement for Poems for the Millennium reads as follows:
>
> "Modernism rejected Romanticism in the way > that one political leader rejects another-not > because it is any different but because it > wishes to win the same audience. This book > demonstrates that the only thing that happened > in Modernism was that a door opened onto still > another aspect of the immense cultural > experiment that Romanticism was-or as > Rothenberg and Robinson might insist, as > Romanticisms were (are). Central issues were > what Rousseau called conscience de soi, > self-awareness (but a self-awareness which > deliberately did not separate itself from > 'world'), a new interest in ethnicity and the > local, and a shift from thinking of poetry as a > 'craft' and of the poet as 'maker,' to thinking > of it as a provoker of consciousness-even a > creator of consciousness-and of the poet as > Bard, Shaman. To know the work so carefully, > lovingly and brilliantly assembled in this book > is to know ourselves in a new and newly conscious way."
>
>An awards ceremony and reception will take place >on Sunday, September 19th from 1-4 p.m. at the >Koret Auditorium, San Francisco Main Library, >100 Larkin Street, San Francisco, CA.
>

New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
$16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm

"What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the poet alive in every sense of the word, and through every one of his senses. Instead of missing a beat or a part, Weiss’ fragments are
like Chekhov’s short storiesthe more that gets
left out, the more they seem to contain… One can
hear echoes from all the various
ancestors...[but] the voice, at its center, its
core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment

is both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure
musical threnody…[it] opens a window, not only
into a mind, but a person, a personality, this
human figure at the emotional center of the poem."

M.G. Stephens, in Jacket.
http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml

↑ Index

173. Aldon Nielsen
Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium
Mon 16 Aug 2010

That is great news -- When they gave the award to Lorenzo Thomas's DON'T DENY MY NAME I had a great time at the ceremony in a Berkeley jazz club -- Ish played piano!

The Amiri title in Jerome's post may confuse some folk -- that's the book's subtitle -- It refers to his U of California Press collection of music essays titled DIGGING.

--
Aldon L. Nielsen
Kelly Professor of American Literature
Department of English
117 Burrowes Building
The Pennsylvania State University
University Park, PA
16802-6200

[redacted]

sailing the blogosphere at http://heatstrings.blogspot.com

"kindling his mind (more
than his mind will kindle)"

--William Carlos Williams, early adopter

↑ Index

174. Mairead Byrne
Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium
Mon 16 Aug 2010

---

that's wonderful. hope to assign it for contemporary poetry class next year.

x
mairéad

On Mon, Aug 16, 2010 at 2:28 PM, Ruth Lepson <[redacted]> wrote:

> This is fantastic, Jerome. You know I had hoped to review the book, having worked it when a student did an independent study with me, but I haven't been up to it. I am happy to hear that the award is justly given.
>
> On 8/15/10 4:53 PM, "Jerome Rothenberg" <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> In advance of an official announcement, this is to report that Poems for the Millennium, volume 3: The University of California Book of Romantic and Postromantic Poetry, edited by myself and Jeffrey Robinson, will receive a 2010 American Book Award from the Before Columbus Foundation. It's my understanding that there will be fourteen such awards over all, including Amiri Baraka's The Afro-American Soul of American Classical Music and Dave Eggers' non-fiction narrative Zeitoun, both previously announced, as well as a lifetime achievement award for our old comrade-in-poetry Quincy Troupe.
>
> The nominating statement for Poems for the Millennium reads as follows:
>
> "Modernism rejected Romanticism in the way that one political leader rejects another-not because it is any different but because it wishes to win the same audience. This book demonstrates that the only thing that happened in Modernism was that a door opened onto still another aspect of the immense cultural experiment that Romanticism was-or as Rothenberg and Robinson might insist, as Romanticisms were (are). Central issues were what Rousseau called conscience de soi, self-awareness (but a self-awareness which deliberately did not separate itself from 'world'), a new interest in ethnicity and the local, and a shift from thinking of poetry as a 'craft' and of the poet as 'maker,' to thinking of it as a provoker of consciousness-even a creator of consciousness-and of the poet as Bard, Shaman. To know the work so carefully, lovingly and brilliantly assembled in this book is to know ourselves in a new and newly conscious way."

> An awards ceremony and reception will take place on Sunday, September 19th
> from 1-4 p.m. at the Koret Auditorium, San Francisco Main Library, 100 Larkin > Street, San Francisco, CA.
>
> guidelines &

--
http://www.whatsleftofheaven.com/

↑ Index

175. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium
Mon 16 Aug 2010

Jerome and Jeffrey,

Well earned congratulations. The nominating statement is entirely to the point.

Ciao,

Murat

On Sun, Aug 15, 2010 at 4:53 PM, Jerome Rothenberg <[redacted]>wrote:

> In advance of an official announcement, this is to report that Poems for the Millennium, volume 3: The University of California Book of Romantic and Postromantic Poetry, edited by myself and Jeffrey Robinson, will receive a 2010 American Book Award from the Before Columbus Foundation. It's my understanding that there will be fourteen such awards over all, including Amiri Baraka's The Afro-American Soul of American Classical Music and Dave Eggers' non-fiction narrative Zeitoun, both previously announced, as well as a lifetime achievement award for our old comrade-in-poetry Quincy Troupe.
> Jer
> The nominating statement for Poems for the Millennium reads as follows:
>
> "Modernism rejected Romanticism in the way that one political leader rejects another-not because it is any different but because it wishes to win the same audience. This book demonstrates that the only thing that happened in Modernism was that a door opened onto still another aspect of the immense cultural experiment that Romanticism was-or as Rothenberg and Robinson might insist, as Romanticisms were (are). Central issues were what Rousseau called conscience de soi, self-awareness (but a self-awareness which deliberately did not separate itself from 'world'), a new interest in ethnicity and the local, and a shift from thinking of poetry as a 'craft' and of the poet as 'maker,' to thinking of it as a provoker of consciousness-even a creator of > consciousness-and of the poet as Bard, Shaman. To know the work so carefully, lovingly and brilliantly assembled in this book is to know ourselves in a new and newly conscious way."

>
> An awards ceremony and reception will take place on Sunday, September 19th from 1-4 p.m. at the Koret Auditorium, San Francisco Main Library, 100 Larkin Street, San Francisco, CA.

↑ Index

176. steve russell

Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS

Mon 16 Aug 2010

Wait a minute. You didn't clean up AFTER the dog. You actually cleanedÂ THE DOG. I'm speechless. That sort of thing doesn't happen in my neighborhood. Â
--- On Sat, 8/14/10, Jared Schickling <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Jared Schickling <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
To: [redacted]
Date: Saturday, August 14, 2010, 1:38 AM

Dear Steve, Alan, and whomever else,

your posts â€“

Taking Steveâ€™s idea of the present / nearing â€œEnd,â€ and everything that suggests, as a baseline propositionâ€”and less concerned with the accuracy of a truth than a thinking sensibilityâ€”much less any washed set of theory that doesnâ€™t offer something weâ€™ve missedâ€”how is one to think of a relevant poetry?Â What would a relevant poetry be?Â What is a relevant poetry?Â Affirmation and change and hope and things of that ilk donâ€™t seem to go anywhereâ€”as according to the proposition they are inaccurate.Â Yet one persists insistingâ€¦

A far-flung surrealism is acutely popular, and so would be apparently perceived as somehow relevant. And yet so is a staunch eco poetic. Alanâ€™s post of xenophobia, corruption and broken glass alongside the systematicity of Pantomime Ape of Free Will speaks, perhaps, to where the two cohabitate.Â Nature nurtured.Â

In the end, and without much argument, Iâ€™m inclined to see this as formal questions.Â CA Conradâ€™s recent brief â€œreviewâ€ at Futurepost is peculiar, even if Iâ€™m quite possibly overstating my case, but it has me wondering:

â€œThe term â€˜Identity Politicsâ€™ is bad enough.Â Itâ€™s meant to annihilate the efforts of those who literally bled for the room they made for us all.Â â€˜Identity Politicsâ€™ makes a joke of it.Â It says that all it ever was was wallowing in the filth and conspiracy of politics, a game, itâ€™s all just been a game.â€

While we do know politics would hardly change (have changed) without politics.Â Part of the public social artistâ€™s civil agenda is to force action, political.Â Using, as with more faith in, artistic, biologic means of a-political, corrosive substance.Â Any blood, here, IS identity politics.Â Conradâ€™s joke is perverse because, as I read it, it canâ€™t achieve itself, so that it does.Â It is literal in its bleeding, sur-real and eco-logical, like a complete thought about the body.Â

And yet I donâ€™t think the passage, nor a review that â€œwipes me outâ€ for that matter (â€œevieâ€â€™s reply), has intended this.Â It seems to bear the burden of its own conviction.Â

(Here I should suggest the value of all this.Â Well, upon now thinking about this which is something I wasnâ€™t thinking about before, today I resisted not tossing some recyclables.Â And I apologized to someone for something.Â And cleaned up
the dog in the neighborâ€™s yard.Â Etc, coincidence perhaps.Â Which would be such work to parcel out.Â Also against the original proposition.Â Einsteinâ€™s
definition of insanity.)

How is such a method, a process unintentional, defeated yet conjured, to be systemized, formalized, etc & et al discussed, articulated?Â In a relevant way?

Just a question.
Available on or off list.Â Â Â

Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â

↑ Index

177. Alan Sondheim
Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
Mon 16 Aug 2010

---

isn't that what we all do? talk about things unrelated to politics?

have you seen Fox news lately? how long should we be delicate?

if anyone has ideas of direct action, cultural or otherwise, please backchannel

On Sun, 15 Aug 2010, michael farrell wrote:

> hi jared
>
> i like your tone
>
> id like to consider different tones as a way of nutting out something
>
> political tones leave me cold
>
> many radio tones grate
>
> close readings of voice (close listening - bernstein) get blocked by listeners horror at words spoken
>
> we complain about whats being done to language but not the ultimately contemptuous tones used to voice it
>
> id like to see a debate or an interview where a key word or discourse is focused on but in relation to (contesting) the (habitual) tone being used
>
> q: "can you talk like a human being?" "maybe try talking about something unrelated to politics first"
>
> Date: Fri, 13 Aug 2010 23:38:01 -0600
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
> To: [redacted]
>
> Dear Steve, Alan, and whomever else,
>
> your posts ?
>
> Taking Steve?s idea of the present / nearing ?End,? and everything that suggests, as a baseline proposition?and less concerned with the accuracy of a truth than a thinking sensibility?much less any washed set of theory that doesn?t offer something we?ve missed?how is one to think of a relevant poetry? What would a relevant poetry be? What is a relevant poetry? Affirmation and change and hope and things of that ilk don?t seem to go anywhere?as according to the proposition they are inaccurate. Yet one persists insisting?

A far-flung surrealism is acutely popular, and so would be
apparently perceived as somehow relevant.
And yet so is a staunch eco poetic.
Alan?s post of xenophobia, corruption and broken glass alongside the systematicity of Pantomime Ape of Free Will speaks, perhaps, to where the two cohabitate. Nature nurtured.

In the end, and without much argument, I?m inclined to see
this as formal questions. CA Conrad?s
recent brief ?review? at Futurepost is peculiar, even if I?m quite possibly overstating my case, but it has me wondering:

?The term ?Identity Politics? is bad enough. It?s
meant to annihilate the efforts of those who literally bled for the room they made for us all. ?Identity Politics? makes a joke of it. It says that all it ever was was wallowing in the filth and conspiracy of politics, a game, it?s all just been a game.?

While we do know politics would hardly change (have changed)
without politics. Part of the public social artist?s civil agenda is to force action, political. Using, as with more faith in, artistic, biologic means of a-political, corrosive substance. Any blood, here, IS identity politics. Conrad?s joke is perverse because, as I read it, it can?t achieve itself, so that it does. It is literal in its bleeding, sur-real and eco-logical, like a complete thought about the body.

And yet I don?t think the passage, nor a review that ?wipes me out? for that matter (?evie??s reply), has intended this. It seems to bear the burden of its own conviction.

> (Here I should suggest the value of all this. Well, upon now thinking about this which is > something I wasn?t thinking about before, today I resisted not tossing some recyclables. And I apologized to > someone for something. And cleaned up
> the dog in the neighbor?s yard. Etc,
> coincidence perhaps. Which would be > such work to parcel out. Also against the > original proposition. Einstein?s
> definition of insanity.)
>
> How is such a method, a process unintentional, defeated yet conjured, > to be systemized, formalized, etc & et al discussed, articulated? In a relevant way?
>
> Just a question.
> Available on or off list.

==
email archive: http://sondheim.rupamsunyata.org/
webpage http://www.alansondheim.org
music archive: http://www.espdisk.com/alansondheim/
==

↑ Index

178. Maria Damon
Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium
Mon 16 Aug 2010

Mazel Tov, Jerry. Well-deserved indeed.

Jerome Rothenberg wrote:
> In advance of an official announcement, this is to report that Poems for the Millennium, volume 3: The University of California Book of Romantic and Postromantic Poetry, edited by myself and Jeffrey Robinson, will receive a 2010 American Book Award from the Before Columbus Foundation. It's my understanding that there will be fourteen such awards over all, including Amiri Baraka's The Afro-American Soul of American Classical Music and Dave Eggers' non-fiction narrative Zeitoun, both previously announced, as well as a lifetime achievement award for our old comrade-in-poetry Quincy Troupe.

>
> The nominating statement for Poems for the Millennium reads as follows:
>
> "Modernism rejected Romanticism in the way that one political leader rejects another-not because it is any different but because it wishes to win the same audience. This book demonstrates that the only thing that happened in Modernism was that a door opened onto still another aspect of the immense cultural experiment that Romanticism was-or as Rothenberg and Robinson might insist, as Romanticisms were (are). Central issues were what Rousseau called conscience de soi, self-awareness (but a self-awareness which deliberately did not separate itself from 'world'), a new interest in ethnicity and the local, and a shift from thinking of poetry as a 'craft' and of the poet as 'maker,' to thinking of it as a provoker of consciousness-even a creator of consciousness-and of the poet as Bard, Shaman. To know the work so carefully, lovingly and brilliantly assembled in this book is to know ourselves in a new and newly conscious way."
>
> An awards ceremony and reception will take place on Sunday, September 19th from 1-4 p.m. at the Koret Auditorium, San Francisco Main Library, 100 Larkin Street, San Francisco, CA.
>
>

↑ Index

179. Ann Bogle
Comments in Chinese
Mon 16 Aug 2010

I've been told that comments in Chinese to weblogs are "spam." I have deleted a few of those comments. Then I realized that they may not be spam but may be legitimate comments. I have begun to translate 14 of them using Babelfish. They seem to be wisdom sayings, such as this one: "The success may attract the friend, frustrates may test the friend." I'd like information -- if anyone has experience -- about issues in Chinese blogging, including censorship.

↑ Index

180. stephanie barber

Fwd: Stephanie Barber REPRINT

Mon 16 Aug 2010

---

hello all, below is the announcement for the reprinting of my* book these here separated to see how they standing alone* this is a transcription of the soundtracks of 6 of my films and videos with a disc of these 6 included. this is put out by the excellent publishing genius press and i'm really happy with it. the new cover is a drawing by the terrific peter barrickman!

the pre-order price is $14 and then it goes up to $20 i think. so, read about it below and if you haven't gotten one think about ordering from the press now while you can save a few clams. check out the other great titles at publishing genius press and the amazing drawings and paintings of peter barrickman. be well and thank you and let me know if you want freedom from the eternal bondage of this email list, i will oblige. promise.

[image: Pgblogbanner] <http://go.madmimi.com/redirects/1fd581070c382bbb8c4ab6a4956889f1?pa=1634314832>

Publishing Genius is pleased to announce the re-release of Stephanie Barber's book and DVD, *These Here Separated to See How They Standing Alone or the Soundtracks of Six Films by Stephanie Barber<http://go.madmimi.com/redirects/341462bf36e42c5354cab5f05f78ea72?pa=1634314832> *.

The collection packages a DVD of six of Barber's films with a print version of their soundtracks. The new version is redesigned, and features a cover drawing by Peter Barrickman.

Barber's films and artwork have shown internationally at festivals and museums like MOMA, NY Film Festival, the Tate Modern, Rotterdam, the Poor Farm and others. Her writing was recently selected by Brian Evenson for the Wigleaf Top 50. In July, Artforum praised her work, saying, "Barber is a modernist artist fashioning . . . appealing and opaque documents that speak to our emotional lives."

The book/DVD is available now for preorder at the Publishing Genius website, PublishingGenius.com<http://go.madmimi.com/redirects/95b720c432e55b9dc2946511d67f5593?pa=1634314832>, and will ship on September 1. The preorder price is discounted to $14, more than 25% off.

For questions, review copies, or to contact Stephanie Barber, email Adam Robinson at [redacted]. [image: facebook]<http://go.madmimi.com/redirects/c30a073d72249a812b627f9a4ecd358e?pa=1634314832> [image:

twitter]<http://go.madmimi.com/redirects/59f943d50c539ec05cc198c4e9106c7d?pa=1634314832> ©2010 Publishing Genius | 2200 Maryland Ave C1 | Baltimore MD | 21218

This email was sent to [redacted]. To ensure that you continue receiving our emails, please add us to your address book or safe list. View this email on the web here<http://mim.io/d9835?fe=1&pact=1634314832> . You can also forward to a friend<http://go.madmimi.com/forward/1634314832?amx=318219186> .

Powered by Mad Mimi<http://madmimi.com/?fe=1&pact=1634314832&utm_source=Publishing+Genius&utm_medium=customer+promotion&utm_campaign=Stephanie+Barber>®

--
stephanie

http://stephaniebarber.com/<http://stephaniebarber.com/>
http://www.publishinggenius.com/2007/09/these-here-separated-to-see-how-they.html
1818 east lafayette ave. baltimore md 21213

↑ Index

181. Jesse Glass

Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium

Mon 16 Aug 2010

Congratulations! Fantastic book. Jess

On 8/15/2010, "Jerome Rothenberg" <[redacted]> wrote:

> In advance of an official announcement, this is to report that Poems for the Millennium, volume 3: The University of California Book of Romantic and Postromantic Poetry, edited by myself and Jeffrey Robinson, will receive a 2010 American Book Award from the Before Columbus Foundation. It's my understanding that there will be fourteen such awards over all, including Amiri Baraka's The Afro-American Soul of American Classical Music and Dave Eggers' non-fiction narrative Zeitoun, both previously announced, as well as a lifetime achievement award for our old comrade-in-poetry Quincy Troupe.
>
> The nominating statement for Poems for the Millennium reads as follows:
>
> "Modernism rejected Romanticism in the way that one political leader rejects another-not because it is any different but because it wishes to win the same audience. This book demonstrates that the only thing that happened in Modernism was that a door opened onto still another aspect of the immense cultural experiment that Romanticism was-or as Rothenberg and Robinson might insist, as > Romanticisms were (are). Central issues were what Rousseau called conscience de soi, self-awareness (but a self-awareness which deliberately did not separate itself from 'world'), a new interest in ethnicity and the local, and a shift from thinking of poetry as a 'craft' and of the poet as 'maker,' to thinking of it as a provoker of consciousness-even a creator of consciousness-and of the poet as Bard, Shaman. To know the work so carefully, lovingly and brilliantly assembled in this book is to know ourselves in a new and newly conscious way."

>
> An awards ceremony and reception will take place on Sunday, September 19th from 1-4 p.m. at the Koret Auditorium, San Francisco Main Library, 100 Larkin Street, San Francisco, CA.

↑ Index

182. Jared Schickling

Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS

Tue 17 Aug 2010

Michael, and Tyrone,

I appreciate it. But I don't understand the question. Truly. Tyrone you did not ask a question. So Michael. Is there some thing I do, something wonderful it must be, that isn't political? Economic? I'll anticipate your answer, at the risk of being wrong, and argue, that's the purpose of trying an angle. i think emily dickinson said that. and that's how mosquitoes win. Only after they're there are you free to swat them. I also remember something from Foucault somewhere, on a Facebook post (serious), when asked why he must always make everything political. His response, which I'm butchering, involved something about caring for that which of the greatest consequence for the greatest number.

The reason I respond in this way is because I’m not all that singular, and because this is a public forum.
I believe in these things like the poem but not like the poetry of the poem, it’s not ideal like that, but I do believe that someone sits down to all kinds of pages and may return transformed.
Or not transformed. Or transformed by degrees with all kinds of transformations. These if at all are mostly incremental. What lasting import. But what does permanent transformation require. I think I read that on a listserv. That’s the difference even if a little beside the point between popular and literary literatures; the one returns you equipped differently. So what does that mean. Do I recycle? Yes; but it’s piling up rather quickly as I’m rather lazy in these things which I don’t throw away. Am I still vegan? I was but my wife’s a chef, and I couldn’t be so lucky. And I like my share in neighbor cow. Do I clean up the dog on the walk like I should? Mow the grass? (cf. lazy.)

I take these responsibilities very seriously, and I don’t need to convince anyone that worlds are ending.

But the question was, what about entering this contest when you’ve opened your big trap on the matter contrarily.

I don't know if that addresses your question because I don't understand the question.

But I'll bet if we were face to face and allowed to smoke our talk and thoughts would be unrecognizable. I read about that recently on a listserv too.

Sincerely,
Jared

↑ Index

183. carol dorf

Girlstock Art and Music Benefit - Saturday, August 21st Poetry Readings -- 5:00

Tue 17 Aug 2010

I'll be reading at the Girlstock benefit for the Women's Cancer Resource Center with Susan Terris and Autumn Stephens. Afterwards there will be music, and other performances.

Saturday, August 21
Carol Dorf (with Susan Terris and Autumn Stephens)
at Girlstock, Evening 4
Mina Dresden Gallery
312 Valencia @ 14th street, San Francisco
5:00-6:30 (I don't think we'll actually be reading before 5:30) for more info-- http://www.girlstock.com/girlstock.html

All best,
Carol

↑ Index

184. Paul Nelson
Re: One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota[h]to
Tue 17 Aug 2010

Stephen,

You mighta scored more points with GB had you done an "eye-rhyme" limerick.

Those take a little longer.

Paul Nelson
Seattle, WA

Paul E. Nelson

SPLAB!
C. City, WA
[redacted]

_____
From: Stephen Baraban <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Mon, August 16, 2010 11:43:31 AM
Subject: One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota[h]to

One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota{h}to
OR, The Argument Need not be Souring

There now is a list-mate named Bowering,
Who might think that the others are cowering;
Though the offense be slight,
If the usage ain't right,
He'll rim-shot a scorn that is towering.

↑ Index

185. Ruth Lepson
Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
Tue 17 Aug 2010

well, this is slightly off the point but give money to relief in Pakistan--a region the size of england is now underwater, 20 million displaced.

On 8/16/10 3:07 PM, "Alan Sondheim" <[redacted]> wrote:

> isn't that what we all do? talk about things unrelated to politics?
>
> have you seen Fox news lately? how long should we be delicate?
>
> if anyone has ideas of direct action, cultural or otherwise, please

backchannel

On Sun, 15 Aug 2010, michael farrell wrote:

hi jared

i like your tone

id like to consider different tones as a way of nutting out something

political tones leave me cold

many radio tones grate

close readings of voice (close listening - bernstein) get blocked by listeners horror at words spoken

we complain about whats being done to language but not the ultimately contemptuous tones used to voice it

id like to see a debate or an interview where a key word or discourse is focused on but in relation to (contesting) the (habitual) tone being used

q: "can you talk like a human being?" "maybe try talking about something unrelated to politics first"

Date: Fri, 13 Aug 2010 23:38:01 -0600
From: [redacted]
Subject: Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
To: [redacted]

Dear Steve, Alan, and whomever else,

your posts ?

Taking Steve?s idea of the present / nearing ?End,? and everything that suggests, as a baseline proposition?and less concerned with the accuracy of a truth than a thinking sensibility?much less any washed set of theory that doesn?t offer something we?ve missed?how is one to think of a relevant poetry? What would a relevant poetry be? What is a relevant poetry? Affirmation and change and hope and things of that ilk don?t seem to go anywhere?as according to the proposition they are inaccurate. Yet one persists insisting?

A far-flung surrealism is acutely popular, and so would be
apparently perceived as somehow relevant.
And yet so is a staunch eco poetic.
Alan?s post of xenophobia, corruption and broken glass alongside the systematicity of Pantomime Ape of Free Will speaks, perhaps, to where the two cohabitate. Nature nurtured.

In the end, and without much argument, I?m inclined to see
this as formal questions. CA Conrad?s
recent brief ?review? at Futurepost is peculiar, even if I?m quite possibly overstating my case, but it has me wondering:

?The term ?Identity Politics? is bad enough. It?s
meant to annihilate the efforts of those who literally bled for the room they made for us all. ?Identity Politics? makes a joke of it. It says that all it ever was was wallowing in the filth and conspiracy of politics, a game, it?s all just been a game.?

While we do know politics would hardly change (have changed)
without politics. Part of the public social artist?s civil agenda is to force action, political. Using, as with more faith in, artistic, biologic means of a-political, corrosive substance. Any blood, here, IS identity politics. Conrad?s joke is perverse because, as I read it, it can?t achieve itself, so that it does. It is literal
in its bleeding, sur-real and eco-logical, like a complete thought about the body.

And yet I don?t think the passage, nor a review that ?wipes me out? for that matter (?evie??s reply), has intended this. It seems to bear the burden of its own conviction.

(Here I should suggest the value of all this. Well, upon now thinking about this which is something I wasn?t thinking about before, today I resisted not tossing some recyclables. And I apologized to someone for something. And cleaned up the dog in the neighbor?s yard. Etc, coincidence perhaps. Which would be such work to parcel out. Also against the original proposition. Einstein?s definition of insanity.)

How is such a method, a process unintentional, defeated yet conjured, to be systemized, formalized, etc & et al discussed, articulated? In a relevant way?

Just a question.
Available on or off list.

==
email archive: http://sondheim.rupamsunyata.org/
webpage http://www.alansondheim.org
music archive: http://www.espdisk.com/alansondheim/
==

↑ Index

186. Jeffrey Side

The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is “Old Women Look Like This” by Susan M. Schultz.

Tue 17 Aug 2010

The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is â€œOld Women Look Like Thisâ€ by Susan M. Schultz.
Description:
Inspired by a series of paintings by Elizabeth Berdann, "Old Women Look Like This" by Susan M. Schultz is about very old age. Schultz tests the comparison of old age to childhood by placing old people into unexpected narratives, including children's stories, among them "Pippi Longstocking" and "Diary of a Wimpy Kid". An imaginative off-shoot of her "Dementia Blog" (Singing Horse, 2008).
Available as a free ebook here:
http://www.lulu.com/product/ebook/old-women-look-like-this/12287311

↑ Index

187. Murat Nemet-Nejat

Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium

Tue 17 Aug 2010

Mairéad,

Interesting, this way Romantic poetry becomes an integral part of contemporary/modern poetry, which I thought it always was, particularly on the German side.

Ciao,

Murat

On Mon, Aug 16, 2010 at 3:02 PM, Mairead Byrne <[redacted]> wrote:

> that's wonderful. hope to assign it for contemporary poetry class next year.
> x
> mairéad
>
> On Mon, Aug 16, 2010 at 2:28 PM, Ruth Lepson <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> This is fantastic, Jerome. You know I had hoped to review the book, having > worked it when a student did an independent study with me, but I haven't been up to it. I am happy to hear that the award is justly given.
>
> On 8/15/10 4:53 PM, "Jerome Rothenberg" <[redacted]> wrote:

In advance of an official announcement, this is to report that Poems for the Millennium, volume 3: The University of California Book of Romantic and Postromantic Poetry, edited by myself and Jeffrey Robinson, will receive a 2010 American Book Award from the Before Columbus Foundation. It's my understanding that there will be fourteen such awards over all, including Amiri Baraka's The Afro-American Soul of American Classical Music and Dave Eggers' non-fiction narrative Zeitoun, both previously announced, as well as a lifetime achievement award for our old comrade-in-poetry Quincy Troupe.

The nominating statement for Poems for the Millennium reads as follows:

"Modernism rejected Romanticism in the way that one political leader rejects another-not because it is any different but because it wishes to win the same audience. This book demonstrates that the only thing that happened in Modernism was that a door opened onto still another aspect of the immense cultural experiment that Romanticism was-or as Rothenberg and Robinson might insist, as Romanticisms were (are). Central issues were what Rousseau called conscience de soi, self-awareness (but a self-awareness which deliberately did not separate itself from 'world'), a new interest in ethnicity and the local, and a shift from thinking of poetry as a 'craft' and of the poet as 'maker,' to thinking of it as a provoker of consciousness-even a creator of consciousness-and of the poet as Bard, Shaman. To know the work so carefully, lovingly and brilliantly assembled in this book is to know ourselves in a new and newly conscious way."

An awards ceremony and reception will take place on Sunday, September 19th

> from 1-4 p.m. at the Koret Auditorium, San Francisco Main Library, 100 Larkin > Street, San Francisco, CA.
>
> guidelines &
>
> guidelines
>
> --
> http://www.whatsleftofheaven.com/

↑ Index

188. Hilary Clark

Re: One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota[h]to

Tue 17 Aug 2010

Dear list,

Snide attacks such as the limerick below are pathetic. Aren't all members on this list free to make comments of the sort George Bowering made? Or are some members more equal than others?

I am unsubscribing from this list.

Hilary Clark

Stephen Baraban wrote:
> One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota{h}to
> OR, The Argument Need not be Souring
>
>
> There now is a list-mate named Bowering,
> Who might think that the others are cowering;
> Though the offense be slight,
> If the usage ain't right,
> He'll rim-shot a scorn that is towering.
>
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

189. Rosalie Calabrese

Fw: ROSALIE CALABRESE POETRY READINGS SEPTEMBER 2010

Tue 17 Aug 2010

--- On Tue, 8/17/10, Rosalie Calabrese <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Rosalie Calabrese <[redacted]>
Subject: Fw: ROSALIE CALABRESE POETRY READINGS SEPTEMBER 2010
To: [redacted]
Date: Tuesday, August 17, 2010, 1:01 PM

--- On Tue, 8/17/10, Rosalie Calabrese <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Rosalie Calabrese <[redacted]>
Subject: Fw: ROSALIE CALABRESE POETRY READINGS SEPTEMBER 2010
To: [redacted]
Date: Tuesday, August 17, 2010, 1:00 PM

--- On Tue, 8/17/10, Rosalie Calabrese <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Rosalie Calabrese <[redacted]>
Subject: Fw: ROSALIE CALABRESE POETRY READINGS SEPTEMBER 2010
To: [redacted]
Date: Tuesday, August 17,
2010, 1:00 PM

--- On Tue, 8/17/10, Rosalie Calabrese <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Rosalie Calabrese <[redacted]>
Subject: Fw: ROSALIE CALABRESE POETRY READINGS SEPTEMBER 2010
To: [redacted]
Date: Tuesday, August 17,
2010, 12:59 PM

--- On Tue, 8/17/10, Rosalie Calabrese <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Rosalie Calabrese <[redacted]>
Subject: ROSALIE CALABRESE POETRY READINGS SEPTEMBER 2010
To: [redacted]
Date: Tuesday, August 17, 2010,
12:41 PM

Two Dates and a poem:

Sunday, September 12 at 2:00 PM
West Side Community Garden

A group reading - mixed genre

Free Admission; Donations Accepted
(No Rain Date; No Open Mic)

West Side Community Garden
entrances at 89th + 90th St.
between Amsterdam & Columbus Ave.

Subway: 1 or C to 86th St.
Bus: 7, 11, 104, 10 or 86th St. Crosstown

Monday, September 13 at 7:00 P.M.
The Brownstone Poets 2010 Anthology Reading Limited Open Mic - Free Admission

BookCourt
163 Court Street
Cobble Hill, Brooklyn, NY 11201

Phone # [redacted]

http://www.bookcourt.org/

Subway: F or G to Bergen St.; R to Court St.; 4 or 5 to Borough Hall

No new poems this time, but here's my very first one to be published. It appeared in ByLine, November, 1990:

MAKING A SUBMISSION

Change the typewriter ribbon, put more paper in the copier,
Agonize over a cover letter (Written on your last sheet of good stationery)
Seal the envelop and re-open it to insert the forgotten S.A.S.E., Rush to the post office and stand on line, waiting anxiously to Give up your latest offspring.

Go back home, wondering if the piece will be accepted, soon to Appear in slightly altered form, like your grown-up child Encountered unexpectedly on the street;
or will it return,

Battered and travel-weary, like a baby bird temporarily Sent out of its cage to fly around the house?

↑ Index

190. Obododimma Oha

E-Newspaper Feedback: Countryman Meets Truckpusher

Tue 17 Aug 2010

"It is a very good development that writers of articles published in e-zines and e-newspapers can “hear” the voices of readers praising, condemning, scolding, correcting, and even stimulating debates on issues that are raised in the article, or in the comments made by other readers. Previously in single medium printed dailies and magazines, readers could not provide such responses so conveniently and in a way that it could appear with other comments as connected discourse."

Read full text of "E-newspaper Feedback: Countryman Meets Truckpusher<http://234next.com/csp/cms/sites/Next/Opinion/Editorial/5607503-182/story.csp>"
at:
http://234next.com/csp/cms/sites/Next/Opinion/Editorial/5607503-182/story.csp

--
Obododimma Oha
http://udude.wordpress.com/

Dept. of English
University of Ibadan
Nigeria

&

Fellow, Centre for Peace & Conflict Studies
University of Ibadan

Phone: [redacted];
[redacted];
[redacted].

↑ Index

191. David Kirschenbaum

Save the Dates: Boog Fest, Fri. 9/24-Tues. 9/28

Tue 17 Aug 2010

Hi,

A little over a month from now, from Fri., Sept. 24 through Tues. Sept. 28, we'll be putting on the fourth annual Welcome to Boog City poetry and music festival. It will feature 43 poets and 17 musical acts over the five days.

Among the festival highlights are:

—our classic album live series presents it's first ever album performed by just one act, Bob Dylan's Highway 61 Revisited by i feel tractor;

—our levy lives series devotes a night to Buffalo's Satellite Telephone magazine;

—our 7th annual small, small press fair, with exhibits from a host of small presses, and readings by their authors;

—a discussion on site-specific poems; and

—poet David Shapiro reading and in conversation with poet Joanna Fuhrman.

The full schedule for the event is below this note, followed by performer bios and websites.

If you need any additional information you can reach me at 212-842- BOOG (2664) or [redacted].

as ever,
David

4th Annual

Welcome to Boog City festival
5 Days of Poetry and Music

Friday Sept. 24, Sidewalk Café
94 Ave. A
NYC

Free with a two-drink minimum

7:00 p.m. Noelle Kocot
7:20 p.m. Pierre Joris
7:35 p.m. Maureen Thorson
7:55 p.m. Steve Cannon
8:00 p.m. Nicole Peyrafitte
8:20 p.m. Poetry Talk Talk-David Shapiro reading and in conversation with Joanna Fuhrman

9:10 p.m. Anne Waldman and Ambrose Bye-poetry and music
9:50 p.m. Magnetic Island-music
10:50 p.m. i feel tractor performs, for its 45th anniversary, Bob Dylan's Highway 61 Revisited
12:00 a.m. The Elastic No-No Band-music

Directions: F/V to 2nd Ave., L to 1st Ave.
Venue is at E.6th St.

Sat. Sept. 25, Unnameable Books
7th Annual Small, Small Press Fair

Unnameable Books
600 Vanderbilt Ave.
Brooklyn

Free

Featuring readings from authors of the exhibiting presses

12:00 p.m. Fair begins

1:00 p.m. Fay Chiang, Bowery Books (ed. Marjorie Tesser)
1:10 p.m. Mark Horosky, Flying Guillotine Press (eds. Sommer Browning and Tony Mancus)
1:20 p.m. Abby Walthausen, Fractious Press (ed. Veronica Liu)
1:30 p.m. Jeffrey Jullich, Litmus Press/Aufgabe (ed. E. Tracy Grinnell)
1:40 p.m. Miriam Atkin, little scratch pad editions (ed. Douglas Manson)

1:50 p.m. Break

2:10 p.m. Matt Reeck, No, Dear magazine (ed. Alex Cuff)
2:20 p.m. Tom Orange-music
2:35 p.m. Dennis Leroy Kangalee, Savage Paw Press (ed. Kangalee)
2:45 p.m. David Mills, Straw Gate Books (ed. Phyllis Wat)

2:55 p.m. Break

3:15 p.m. Binary Marketing Show-music
3:45 p.m. Urayoán Noel
4:00 p.m. Peter Davis
4:20 p.m. Mel Nichols
4:40 p.m. John Godfrey
4:55 p.m. Jenn McCreary
5:20 p.m. Beat Radio-music
5:50 p.m. Ken Jacobs

6:10 p.m. Sommer Browning
6:30 p.m. Chris McCreary
6:50 p.m. Cathy Eisenhower
7:10 p.m. Rod Smith
7:35 p.m. Rorie Kelly-music
8:10 p.m. Lach-music
8:40 p.m. Douglas Rothschild

Directions: 2, 3 to Grand Army Plaza, C to Clinton-Washington avenues, Q to 7th Ave.
Venue is bet. Prospect Pl./St. Marks Ave.

Sun. Sept. 26, Unnameable Books
7th Annual Small, Small Press Fair, Day 2

Unnameable Books
600 Vanderbilt Ave.
Brooklyn

Free

12:00 p.m. Dustin Williamson
12:15 p.m. Kevin Varrone
12:35 p.m. Brandon Holmquest
12:55 p.m. Pattie McCarthy
1:20 p.m. Brian Speaker-music
1:50 p.m. Ivy Johnson
2:05 p.m. Carlos Soto Román
2:25 p.m. erica kaufman
2:40 p.m. Shafer Hall

2:55 p.m.-3:15-break

3:15 p.m.-5:00 p.m.
You Are Here: On the Site-Specific Poem
curated and hosted by Pattie McCarthy and Kevin Varrone

With panelists Allison Cobb, CA Conrad, Marcella Durand, Tonya Foster, and Carlos Soto Roman

Directions: 2, 3 to Grand Army Plaza, C to Clinton-Washington avenues, Q to 7th Ave.
Venue is bet. Prospect Pl./St. Marks Ave.

Sun. Sept. 26, Zinc Bar

Zinc Bar
82 W. 3rd St.
NYC

$5 suggested

6:30 p.m.-8:45 p.m. You Are Here: Readings of Site-Specific Poems
curated and hosted by Pattie McCarthy and Kevin Varrone

With readings from Allison Cobb, CA Conrad,
Marcella Durand, and Carlos Soto Roman

Directions: A/B/C/D/E/F/V to W. 4th St.
Venue is bet. Sullivan and Thompson sts.

Mon. Sept. 27, Unnameable Books

Unnameable Books
600 Vanderbilt Ave.
Brooklyn

Free

6:00 p.m. Chris Martin
6:15 p.m. Cate Peebles
6:30 p.m. Julian Brolaski
6:45 p.m. Farrah Field
7:05 p.m. J.J. Hayes-music

7:35 p.m. Break

7:45 p.m. Joe Elliot
8:00 p.m. E. Tracy Grinnell
8:15 p.m. Jared White
8:30 p.m. Mariana Ruiz Firmat
8:45 p.m. Laura Elrick
9:05 p.m. Jeremiah Birnbaum of The Ramblers-music

Directions: 2, 3 to Grand Army Plaza, C to Clinton-Washington avenues,
Q to 7th Ave.
Venue is bet. Prospect Pl./St. Marks Ave.

Tues. Sept. 28, ACA Galleries, 6:00 p.m.

d.a. levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

Satellite Telephone magazine
(Buffalo, N.Y.)

ACA Galleries
529 W.20th St., 5th Flr.
NYC

Free

Event will be hosted by Satellite Telephone editor
Robert Dewhurst

featuring readings from

Todd Colby
Dorothea Lasky
Eileen Myles
Rebekah Rutkoff

and music from

Franklin Bruno

There will be wine, cheese, and crackers, too.

Directions: C/E to 23rd St., 1/9 to 18th St.
Venue is bet. 10th and 11th avenues

Welcome to Boog City 3 Bios and Websites

*Friday

Ambrose Bye http://www.myspace.com/fastspeakingmusicmyspace Ambrose Bye, musician (piano/keyboard, guitar, voice) and composer, grew up in the environment of The Jack Kerouac School of Disembodied Poetics at Naropa University, counting Allen Ginsberg and William Burroughs as “poetic” godfathers. He graduated from The University of California, Santa Cruz with a degree in music/sociology and was certified at the music /production program at the Pyramind Institute in San Francisco, working on numerous productions and his own compositions as well. He also studied and played in gamelan orchestras in Bali, Indonesia, Boulder, and Santa Cruz. He has performed on stage a number of times, accompanying poets and performers at New York’s Issue Project Room, The Poetry Project, The Bowery Poetry Club, KGB Bar, at The Boulder Theatre’s “Music and Poetry for Progressives” headlined by Thurston Moore of Sonic Youth, Naropa University, The New School, White Columns Gallery, and San Francisco’s Meridian Gallery. He is in production with his next CD, “Hombres”. His most recent CD is “Matching Half” with Anne Waldman and Akilah Oliver, which was produced by Farfalla, McMillen, Parrish. His previous composing/ production credits include “In The Room of Never Grieve”, (produced by Coffee House Press) and “The Eye of the Falcon” (Farfalla, McMillen, Parrish) with poetry by Anne Waldman. His music accompanies the video “The Wake- Up Call of a Poet” , produced by the Buddhist Broadcasting Foundation, the Netherlands and was broadcast over Dutch TV in December, 2009.

Steve Cannon Originally from the cultural hot bed of New Orleans, Steve Cannon developed a taste for the arts at a very young age. An institution himself, Professor Cannon has been active in the multicultural artistic community on the Lower East Side in New York City for almost four decades. As the executive director and founder of Tribes, he has been the central figure of the organization since its inception in 1991. He continues to pave its artistic direction, despite having lost his eyesight over a decade ago, an unfortunate occurrence that has only served to sharpen his vision and heighten his desire to advance the development of the arts. A retired professor of the humanities at Medgar Evers College in the CUNY system and the author of the underground classic Groove, Bang and Jive Around, he is closely connected to artists and educators throughout the city. In the early ’60s, he was heavily involved in Umbra, a consortium of primary African-American artists of all disciplines, including such literary luminaries as Ishmael Reed, Calvin Hernton, Victor Hernandez, and David Henderson.

Since then, Umbra artists served as founding members and advisors to Tribes. Besides holding court at Tribes, Professor Cannon also serves as the "Official Heckler" at the neighboring Nuyorican Poets Cafe, a brother organization, as well as an advisor to The House of Tribes Theater, a sister organization. In recent years, he extended his influence across the Atlantic with collaborations with Spanish curator Mireia Sentis. Together, they curated Humor and Rage, an exhibition featuring five minority American artists from diverse ethnic backgrounds, which was exhibited in 2001 at La Pedrera, the historical building designed by Gaudi, in Barcelona.

Elastic No-No Band http://www.elasticnonoband.com/ Elastic No-No Band sings songs about manboobs and Klaus Kinski and cheese fries. Also, songs about love and sex and pain and stuff. Sometimes the band is made up of many people, and sometimes it's just one guy. That guy is Justin Remer, and he turns 30 on September 24, the day of this show. As a birthday present, you should come to this show and enjoy yourself. (If you want, you could buy one of our CDs too. That certainly wouldn't hurt.) [ed’s. note: you could also buy Justin an adult beverage.]

Joanna Fuhrman http://www.redroom.com/author/joanna-fuhrman Joanna Fuhrman is the author of four books of poetry, most recently Pageant (Alice James Books) and Moraine (Hanging Loose Press). She teaches poetry at Rutgers University and in public schools through Teachers & Writers Collaborative. She is the poetry editor for Boog City and the Poetry Project’s Wednesday night reading series curator for the 2010-2011 season.

i feel tractor http://www.myspace.com/ifeeltractor i feel tractor is a 5-piece band that has been around for over a decade, released a self-titled 7", appeared on numerous comps including Frequency - Issue One, Polyamory's new skin for the old ceremony, and Goodbye Better's Weird Terrain, and came out with its first full-length, Once I had an earthquake (Goodbye Better) in 2005. Its newest album, Mellow Crypt, should be appearing sometime in the near future.

Pierre Joris http://pierrejoris.com/home.html Pierre Joris is a poet, translator, essayist, and anthologist who left Luxembourg at 19 and has since lived in France, England, Algeria, and the United States. He has published over 40 books, most recently Canto Diurno #4: The Tang Extending from the Blade, an Ahadada e-book, Justifying the Margins: Essays 1990-2006, and Aljibar I & II (poems). Other recent publications include the CD Routes, not Roots and Meditations on the Stations of Mansour Al-Hallaj 1-21. Recent translations include Paul Celan: Selections and Lightduress by Paul Celan, which received the 2005 PEN Poetry Translation Award. With Jerome Rothenberg he edited the award-winning anthologies Poems for the Millennium (volumes I & II). He teaches at the University of Albany, SUNY.

Noelle Kocot http://www.wavepoetry.com/authors/25-noelle-kocot Noelle Kocot is the author of four books, most recently, Poem for the End of Time and Sunny Wednesday (both from Wave Books). She has a poetry book, The Bigger World, and a discography also forthcoming from Wave. She writes at least one poem a day, and sometimes over 10 poems a day. She has won awards from The National Endowment for the Arts, The Fund for Poetry, The American Poetry Review, and the Academy of American Poets. Originally from Brooklyn, she now lives in South Jersey.

Magnetic Island http://www.myspace.com/magneticislandband Magnetic Island is a musical collective helmed by Lisa Liu and SMV. The pair work with a rotating cast of collaborators to create a unique brand of experimental indie rock. The band has been releasing singles in anticipation of its debut EP, Out At Sea, due this September. Liu and SMV previously formed the core of RENMINBI, a trio founded in 2003 that released three EPs (most recently July 2009’s Surface) and one full-length album (May 2008’s The Phoenix).

Nicole Peyrafitte http://www.nicolepeyrafitte.com/ Nicole Peyrafitte is a performance artist born and raised in the French Pyrenees. She considers herself a Gasco-Rican (1/2 Gascon, 1/2 American) and citizen of Brooklyn. She pursues related multi-cultural and multi-media investigations that integrate her voice, texts, visuals, and also cooking.

David Shapiro
http://jacketmagazine.com/23/shap-p.html
David Shapiro has published more than 20 volumes of art and literary criticism, translations, and anthologies. He has won many prizes and was the first to write a book on John Ashbery and a monograph on Jasper Johns's drawings. His New and Selected Poems (1965–2006) came out from Overlook Press.

Maureen Thorson http://www.maureenthorson.com/ Maureen Thorson is the author of three chapbooks: Twenty Questions for the Drunken Sailor (dusie/flynpyntar press), Mayport (Poetry Society of America), and Novelty Act (Ugly Duckling Presse). Her poetry has recently appeared or is forthcoming in Lungfull!, Barrelhouse, and Hotel Amerika. She lives in Washington, D.C., where she co-curates the In Your Ear reading series at the D.C. Arts Center and runs Big Game Books, the tiniest press in the world.

Anne Waldman “She is the fastest, wittiest woman to run with the wolves in some time.” -Ken Tucker, The New York Times Poet Anne Waldman has been an active member of the “Outrider” experimental poetry community for over 40 years as writer, sprechstimme performer, professor, editor, magpie scholar, infra- structure, and cultural/political activist. Her published work is prodigious, and she has concentrated on the long poem as a cultural intervention with such projects as Marriage: A Sentence, Structure of The World Compared to a Bubble; the recent Manatee/Humanity (Penguin Poets), which is a book-length rhizomic meditation on evolution and endangered species; and the 900-page Iovis Trilogy, Colors In The Mechanism of Concealment, which will be published by Coffee House Press in 2011.

Publishers Weekly recently referred to Anne Waldman as “A counter- cultural giant.” Waldman, grew up on Macdougal Street in the heart of Greenwich Village where she still lives, and bi-furcated to Boulder, Colo. in 1974 when she co-founded The Jack Kerouac School of Disembodied Poetics with Allen Ginsberg at Naropa University, the first Buddhist inspired school in the West, where she currently serves as artistic director of its celebrated Summer Writing program. Waldman helped found and direct The Poetry Project at St. Mark’s Church In-the-Bowery, where she worked first as assistant director and then director for a decade. Waldman has also collaborated extensively with a number of artists, musicians, and dancers, most recently artists Pat Steir and Kiki Smith and theater director Judith Malina. She has also been working most recently with other media, including film and video with her husband, writer and video/film director Ed Bowes. She also performs with her son, musician/composer Ambrose Bye. Their latest CD is “Matching Half” with Akilah Oliver. Some of her performances may be viewed on YouTube.

*Saturday

Miriam Atkin, little scratch pad press http://remembertoforgetmybuffalo.blogspot.com/http://www.dougfinmanson.blogspot.com/ little scratch pad press publishes significant chapbooks by new and established poets and writers. Founded in 1996, it has published works by Aaron Lowinger, Kristi Meal, Jonathan Skinner and Michael Basinski. Forthcoming titles are Don't Have One by Miriam Atkin, and a set of meditations on painter Chaim Soutine, Excoriate Exhale, by Heller Levinson.

Miriam Atkin's recent study of the resurgence of the pastoral in visual art,Art and Artifice in the Garden: Species-Being and the Memory of Paradise, examines the critique of technology and industry in literature, painting, and film, beginning with the Lascaux petroglyphs and concluding with New Landscape photography. She holds an MFA in Art Criticism and Writing from the School of Visual Arts and lives in Brooklyn. Her first collection of writing, Don't Have One, is out from little scratch pad press.

Beat Radio http://www.beatradio.org/ Beat Radio is an American indie pop project guided by New York singer- songwriter Brian Sendrowitz. The current lineup also features Dan Bills, Brian Ver Straten, Evan Duby, and Mike McCabe. Beat Radio released their debut LP The Great Big Sea in 2007 and the follow up, Safe Inside the Sound, in fall 2009. The band has embarked on a singles series for 2010, releasing two songs each month via bandcamp. Gilbert Ng photo

Binary Marketing Show http://www.binarymarketingshow.com/ Abram Morphew set out for the wilderness of the Birkhead Mountains in search of seclusion, and a place to let his thoughts wonder in peace. He was delighted to discover tunnels, previously only known to the elders of Birkhead, leading to a magical city where he would happen upon a fellow survivor of the elements...

Bethany Carder, awaking from a hypnotic state induced by a small band of mystics, discovered Abram Morphew wondering the ancient underground tunnels beneath the mystical city. Carder was fascinated by Morphew's ideas of healing through experimentation with light, sound, energy, and the power of intent. Emotional turmoil, once so powerful, released through instruments and moving images. They continued forward, energetic pullies attached to cages covered in flesh, time travelers in moments of here connection, near connections, missing the point only to find it resides within and without you. This is the story of the binary marketing show

Their new EP "Clues from the Past" was released last month, and their tour kicked off in Philadelphia, taking them as far west as East Glacier, Mont.

Sommer Browning
http://www.asthmachronicles.blogspot.com/
Sommer Browning writes poems, draws comics, and makes books. Her latest chapbook, written with Brandon Shimoda, is The Bowling (Greying Ghost). She lives in the Mountain Time Zone.

Fay Chiang, Bowery Books http://www.nyu.edu/clubs/generasian/spring03/Features/faychiang.htm http://www.boweryartsandscience.org/?page_id=5 Bowery Books is the independent poetry press of Bowery Arts & Science, the non-profit that also provides programs for Bowery Poetry Club. Its mission is to reflect the vigor and diversity of poetry, to publish poetry books and recordings by exceptional established and emerging poets whose work might otherwise lack representation, and to expand the audience for poetry. Edited by Bob Holman and Marjorie Tesser, Bowery Books has published essential anthologies, such as Bowery Women: Poems and Estamos Aquí, Poems by Migrant Farmworkers, as well as works by unique poets like Taylor Mead, the octogenarian Andy Warhol intimate, Poez, a performing street poet, and a romp featuring the Bowery Bartenders. It sponsors the Bowery Voices series, thus far: Body of Water by surrealist poet Janet Hamill, with photographs by Patti Smith, The Touch by punk medievalist Cynthia Kraman, and most recently activist-artist-poet Fay Chiang’s 7 Continents 9 Lives.

Fay Chiang is a writer, artist, and community/cultural activist living and working in Chinatown and the Lower East Side of New York City for the past four decades. Raised in the backroom of a Queens laundry by immigrant parents from Guandong, China, she writes from her experiences as a woman of color from the working class. She believes culture is a psychological weapon to reclaim our past, define our present, and envision possibilities for our future; and that the development of culture is an integral part of progressive social change and social justice movements. Currently working at Project Reach, a youth and community center for young people at risk in Chinatown/Lower East Side, she lives in the East Village.

Peter Davis http://artisnecessary.com/ Peter Davis is the author of Hitler's Mustache and Poetry! Poetry! Poetry!. He edited Poet's Bookshelf: Contemporary Poets on Books that Shaped Their Art. His poems have been in journals like Jacket, No Tell Motel, and Court Green. More info, including about his music project, Short Hand, is available at artisnecessary.com.

Cathy Eisenhower http://www.brooklynrail.org/2010/04/poetry/two-sections-from-distance-decay Cathy Eisenhower is the author of Language of the Dog-head [chapbook] (Phylum Press), clearing without reversal (Edge), and would with and (Roof).

John Godfrey http://www.wavepoetry.com/authors/57-john-godfrey John Godfrey has lived in the East Village since the Sixties. He has been a fellow of the General Electric Foundation and of the Foundation for Contemporary Arts. Wave Books published his ninth collection, City of Corners. He is a registered nurse in a specialty clinic at a city hospital in East Flatbush.

Mark Horosky, Flying Guillotine Press
http://activedriveway-mth.blogspot.com/
http://flyingguillotinepress.blogspot.com/
In 2008, Tony Mancus and Sommer Browning, two friends from poetry school, started Flying Guillotine Press. They endeavor to make pretty, small, handbound, medulla oblongata-exploding poetry chapbooks cheaply. They work in Denver, Colorado and Arlington, Virginia.

Mark Horosky is the author of the chapbook collection of prose poems, Let It Be Nearby and the forthcoming chapbooks More Frisk Than Risk (Flying Guillotine Press) and Fabulous Beasts (The Equalizer). He is a special education teacher in Brooklyn, New York.

Ken Jacobs
http://www.phylumpress.com/covers/sooner.htm
Ken Jacobs's pamphlet Sooner (Phylum Press) was released in December 2009. He lives in Washington, D.C.

Jeffrey Jullich, Litmus Press
http://www.litmuspress.org/portraitofcolondashparenthesis.html
http://www.litmuspress.org/ Jeffrey Jullich is the author of Portrait of Colon Dash Parenthesis (Litmus Press) and Thine Instead Thank (Harry Tankoos Books). His poetry, criticism, and translations have appeared in numerous journals and magazines including American Letters & Commentary, Aufgabe, Boston Review, Chain, Ecopoetics, Fence, LUNGFULL!, New American Writing, Poetry, Rain Taxi, Shiny, Spoon River, and VeRT.

Litmus Press is a nonprofit literature and arts organization dedicated to supporting innovative, cross-genre writing, with an emphasis on poetry and international works in translation. Litmus press publishes two to three single author works a year, in addition to Aufgabe, an annual journal of poetry, translations, essays, reviews, and art.

Dennis Leroy Kangalee, Nomad Junkie
http://outlawpoetry.com/2010/07/13/dennis-leroy-kangalee-its-not-life-thats-bad-its-society/ http://www.nomadjunkie.com/ Known as the Nomad Junkie due to his peripatetic lifestyle and artistic restlessness, Dennis Leroy Kangalee is an N.Y.C.-based writer from Queens born to West Indian parents. An outsider artist from the get go, he has no degree and has won no awards. His stories, plays, essays, and satire reflect his own anger and frustration as he sees the world's injustice in an everyday observation. An expelled performing artist from Juilliard and maverick of the New York underground, Kangalee has led several lives and is constantly looking for meaning. Since 1997, he has begged, borrowed, and stolen to support his art.

Urged by the Last Poets to continue writing prose during the creation of his 2001 cult-film movie about racism and its consequences, As an Act of Protest, Kangalee’s writing is political and personal. Inspired by the Black Arts Movement, punk, and the Theater of the Absurd, Kangalee draws inspiration from his own life as opposed to Literary History or knowledge of the classics. Adopting the “Nomad Junkie” as his nom de plume while homeless and later in a self-imposed exile overseas, he writes for the little man caught in the snow and beneath the corporate avalanche, those who draw lines in the sand, the losers, the rebels, the tormented, and the romantic rovers hovering on the margins of the mainstream who dare to try to make sense of “Life in Society” and the doorway of 21st century-Brave New World ethos.

Currently, he is developing his first full-length spoken word album, My Dying City, an experimental radio drama that presents itself as a cubistic portrait of a spirit crushed under the weight of corporate- friendly gentrification.

Kangalee is married and lives in N.Y.C. Nina Fleck photo.

Rorie Kelly http://www.roriekelly.com/ Rorie Kelly is a singer/songwriter and conquistadora originally from Long Island. Her main goal in life is to travel around in her little blue car and make music and art. She was recently named one of Long Island's "Top 10 Indie Artists You've Never Heard of" by Long Island Pulse Magazine and is about to release her first full length album, Wish Upon a Bottlecap. She is also a published writer of feminist blogs, music reviews, and poetry. More information and pretty songs can be found at the above site.

Lach http://www.lachtoday.com/ As a songwriter Lach founded the Antifolk art and music movement, which is sited as a main inspiration by hundreds of performers today from Beck and Jeffrey Lewis to Hamell on Trial, The Moldy Peaches, and Regina Spektor in U.S.A. to the likes of Laura Marling and Emmy the Great in the U.K.

Chris McCreary
http://furniturepressbooks.com/books/mccrearyundone/
http://www.ixnaypress.com/
Chris McCreary's new book, Undone, was just published by Furniture Press. Along with Jenn McCreary, he co-edits ixnay press a small Philadelphia-based poetry press. He teaches English at a private high school outside of Philly.

Jenn McCreary http://jennmccreary.com/ Jenn McCreary is the author of :ab ovo:, published by Dusie Press in the spring of 2009. She is also the author of two chapbooks: errata stigmata (Potes & Poets Press), & four o’clock pocket chiming (Beautiful Swimmer Press); the e-chapbook:Maps & Legends: (Scantily Clad Press) & a doctrine of signatures (Singing Horse Press).

Her poetry has been published in magazines including Combo, Lungfull!, Tool: A Magazine, POM2, So To Speak, Sous Rature, Tangent, & How2. She lives with her husband, the writer Chris McCreary, & their twin sons in Philadelphia, where she co-edits ixnay press with Chris, works for the Mural Arts Program, & serves on the board of the Philly Spells Writing Center.

David Mills, Straw Gate Press http://www.brooklynrail.org/2010/07/books/rapid-transit-june10-2 http://www.leafscape.org/StrawGateBooks/index.html Founded by Phyllis Wat in 2005, Straw Gate Books publishes poetry and occasional related texts. They are particularly interested in works by women and non-polemical writing with an underlying social content. Straw Gate also features new authors and authors whose work is under- served.

Author David Mills has received Henry James, Cave Canem and Breadloaf fellowships, as well as New York Foundation of the Arts, Brio, and Hughes/Diop Awards. He also won the inaugural 2008 Pan African Literary Forum Poetry Prize and a Soros grant. David's work has appeared in Callaloo, Rattapallax, The Pedestal, Hanging Loose Press, Aloud, and elsewhere. He has recorded his poetry on RCA Records and toured Europe performing his work with jazz bands. His book, The Dream Detective, is a 2010 publication of Straw Gate Books.

Mel Nichols http://stevenfama.blogspot.com/2009/11/mel-nichols-catalytic-exteriorization.html Mel Nichols' recent books are Catalytic Exteriorization Phenomenon (National Poetry Series finalist; Edge) and Bicycle Day (Slack Buddha 2008). Recent journal publications include Poetry, New Ohio Review, and The Brooklyn Rail.

Urayoán Noel http://www.urayoannoel.com Urayoán Noel was born in Puerto Rico, divides his time between the Bronx and upstate, and teaches English at SUNY-Albany. His creative and critical writings have recently appeared in Fence; Orbis (U.K.); Diasporic Avant-Gardes (Palgrave); and Malditos latinos, malditos sudacas. Poesía hispanoamericana made in USA (México, D.F., El billar de Lucrecia). His new book, Hi-density Politics, is forthcoming from BlazeVOX.

Tom Orange http://destinationout.vox.com/ After eight years in the D.C. poetry scene and adjunct teaching there and a year in Nashville, Tom Orange moved back to his home town of Cleveland, where he is active in the local arts and music scenes. Recent work includes "Tremont Poetography," a group poet-photographer book and exhibition at Doubting Thomas Gallery; solo and small group experimental music performances on alto sax, clarinet, guitar, banjo, and dulcimer at The Scarab Club (Detroit), [redacted] 224 Gallery (Buffalo), Audio Visual Baptism (Cleveland), and the Post_Moot Convocation (Oxford, Ohio); and an excerpt from his chapbook American Dialectics (Slack Buddha) being reprinted in Against Expression: An Anthology of Conceptual Writing (edited by Craig Dworkin and Kenneth Goldsmith for Northwestern University Press) due out this December. His music blog can be found at the above url.

Matt Reeck, No, Dear magazine http://www.nodearmagazine.com/ Matt Reeck has published poetry and translations in magazines and chapbooks, including “Midwinter” by Fact-Simile Press. “Coyote Pursues,” his marionette theater collaboration with the visual artist Deborah Simon, was performed during St Ann’s Warehouse's Labapalooza in June.

No, Dear is a hand-sewn print poetry publication featuring the work of New York City poets.

Douglas Rothschild http://pierrejoris.com/blog/?p=1377 DglsN.Rthsjchld has been walking & thinking for a long time. Occasionally he sits. Sometimes he writes these thoughts down. Many great poems have come to him in this manner. & you can read some of them in his book THEOGONY published last spring by SubPress.

Rod Smith http://epc.buffalo.edu/authors/smithr/ Rod Smith is the author of Deed, Music or Honesty, Protective Immediacy, and In Memory of My Theories. He edits the journal Aerial, publishes Edge Books, and manages Bridge Street Books in Washington, D.C. He is also currently editing The Selected Letters of Robert Creeley with Kaplan Harris and Peter Baker for The University of California Press.

Abby Walthausen, Fractious Press http://www.literaturesandwich.com/ http://www.fractiouspress.com/ Fractious Press is a small artist-run publishing collective founded in the Bronx and Washington Heights, New York in 2005. Since its first release, which was named in the Village Voice’s Best of New York 2005, the press has published emerging artists and writers of fiction, poetry, comics, and zines, and has occasionally co-hosted day-long zine and small press fairs in Upper Manhattan. The May 2010 edition of the fair was held with support from the Manhattan Community Arts Fund. ForeWord magazine called the press “innovative … a kind of counterculture collaborative.”

Abby Walthausen likes to write what could be considered the “historical fiction” of poetry. She spends her time taking all the fun out of poetry for high school students. Her poetry book The Internet is forthcoming from Fractious Press.

*Sunday

Unnameable and Zinc

Allison Cobb http://www.factoryschool.com/pubs/heretical/vol5/cobb/index.html Allison Cobb is the author of Born2 (Chax Press) about growing up in Los Alamos, N.M., and the just-published Green-Wood (Factory School), which chronicles her experiences in Brooklyn's famous nineteenth- century cemetery. She lived for a number of years in New York City, where she worked for the Environmental Defense Fund. She now lives in Portland, Ore., and works for an energy conservation nonprofit.

CAConrad http://caconrad.blogspot.com/ http://phillysound.blogspot.com/ CAConrad is the recipient of the 2009 Gil Ott Book Award for The Book of Frank (Wave Books). He is also the author of Advanced Elvis Course (Soft Skull Press), (Soma)tic Midge (Faux Press), Deviant Propulsion (Soft Skull Press), and a collaboration with poet Frank Sherlock, The City Real & Imagined (Factory School). The son of white trash asphyxiation, his childhood included selling cut flowers along the highway for his mother and helping her shoplift.

Marcella Durand http://www.futurepoem.com/bookpages/trafficandweather.html Futurepoem Books published Marcella Durand’s book-length site-specific poem, Traffic & Weather. The poem was written during a six-month residency at the Lower Manhattan Cultural Council in which she worked alongside visual artists in a raw office space. Her other books include, most recently, Deep Eco Pre, a collaboration with Tina Darragh published by Little Red Leaves, and AREA, published by Belladonna Books. She is currently working on a new collection of poems written mostly from the same table in the New York Public Library’s Leroy Street branch. John Sarsgard photo.

Tonya Foster http://writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/x/Foster.php Tonya Foster is the author of poetry, fiction, and essays that have been published in a variety of journals including Callaloo, DrumVoices, Gulf Coast, the Hat, Lungfull!, nocturnes, and Traffic. She was an art/poetry columnist for The Poetry Project Newsletter and has published non-fiction essays in NY Arts Magazine, NYFA Quarterly, and The Poetry Project Newsletter. Her work has also appeared in the anthologies: Free Radicals: American Poets before their First Books, (Subpress), edited by Jordan Davis and Sarah Manguso; and POeP! (Rattapallax Press), edited by Edwin Torres and Anselm Berrigan, one of the first eBook literary journals dedicated to innovative poetry. She’s the author of A Swarm of Bees in High Court (Belladonna Books) and co-editor of Third Mind: Teaching Creative Writing Through Visual Art (Teachers and Writers Collaborative). Foster is currently completing A Mathematics of Chaos, a cross-genre, multi-media piece about New Orleans, home, and home-buoys; Monkey Talk, an inter-genre piece about race, paranoia, surveillance, and need; and A History of the Bitch, a collection of poems.

Foster received her bachelor of arts in English and political science from Newcomb College, Tulane University, her master of fine arts in creative writing from the University of Houston, and is a Ph.D. candidate at City University of

New York Graduate Center. A recipient of a number of fellowships, notably from the Ford Foundation, the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, and the City University of New York, Foster teaches at Bard College. A native of New Orleans, she writes and resides in Harlem.

Shafer Hall
http://shaferhall.blogspot.com/
Shafer Hall is a poet and bartender in New York City. His first collection "Never Cry Woof" is available from No Tell Books. He can be found on the internet at the above url.

Brandon Holmquest http://essay-poems.blogspot.com/ Brandon Holmquest is the author of City: Bolshevik superpoem in 5 cantos (Ugly Duckling), a translation of Manuel Maples Arce; Stereo Daguerreotype (Splitleaves Press); and The Sorrows of Young Worthless (Truck Press). He lives in Philadelphia.

Ivy Johnson
Ivy Johnson is a vegetarian. Her Boog Reader Pamphlet Walt Disney's Light Show Extravaganza will be out this fall.

erica kaufman
http://sites.google.com/site/ericajane0808/
erica kaufman is the author of censory impulse.

Pattie McCarthy http://www.apogeepress.com/authors_mccarthy.html Pattie McCarthy is the author of Table Alphabetical of Hard Words, Verso, and bk of (h)rs, all from Apogee Press. Recent work has appeared in Colorado Review, Dusie, Eoagh, ixnay reader, The Poker, The Poetry Project Newsletter, and The Tangent. She has taught literature and creative writing at Queens College—CUNY, Loyola University Maryland, Towson University, and, currently, Temple University. She lives in Philadelphia.

Carlos Soto Román http://the-otolith.blogspot.com/2010/04/carlos-soto-roman.html Carlos Soto Román was born in Valparaíso, Chile. He has published the books La Marcha de los Quiltros (The Mongrel's march), Haiku Minero (Miner Haiku), and Cambio y Fuera (Over and Out). His work has been collected in Bar (Anthology) and in Pozo (collective book). In 2004 he received the Creation Fellowship of the Book & Reading Council of the Chilean Government. He has resided in Philadelphia since March 2009, is a member of The New Philadelphia Poets, and the editor of the new cooperative anthology of U.S. poetry, Elective Affinities.

Brian Speaker http://www.myspace.com/speakerb http://www.reverbnation.com/brianspeaker Brian Speaker is a Brooklyn-based singer, songwriter, producer and engineer. For one year, from September 3, 2008 to September 2, 2009, Brian wrote, recorded and posted a song onto the Internet every single day. The entire 365-song catalog, titled Spiral Notebook, is available for free online. He is currently putting the finishing touches on a rock opera about a lone spaceman's mission for inner-galactic peace called The Mars Chronicles. Several of Brian's songs have appeared on television, and his list of recording and production credits for independent music in NYC is vast.

Kevin Varrone http://www.uglyducklingpresse.org/catalog/browse/item/?pubID=66 Kevin Varrone’s most recent collection, g-point almanac: passyunk lost, is just out from Ugly Duckling Presse, as is a companion chapbook, The Philadelphia Improvements. His previous collection, g- point almanac: id est, was published by Instance Press. Individual poems are available electronically at Duration Press, in Big Bridge, Cross Connect, and [out of nowhere]. He lives in South Philly and teaches at Temple University.

Dustin Williamson http://rustbucklebooks.blogspot.com/ Dustin Williamson is the author of the chapbooks Obstructed View (Salacious Banter), Gorilla Dust (Open 24 Hours), and Exhausted Grunts (Cannibal Books). He is the publisher of Rust Buckle Books. He served as the Monday Night coordinator last season at the Poetry Project.

*Monday

Jeremiah Birnbaum of The Ramblers http://www.theramblersnyc.com/ http://www.jeremiahbirnbaum.com/ The Ramblers are a rock ’n’ roll band based out of New York. They released their new fan-funded CD, Getting There, to a packed house at Joe's Pub and great reviews, including a Critic's Pick from New York Magazine, and Blogcritics.org, who compared them to Little Feat, The Band and the E Street Band. With Jeremiah Birnbaum, proverbial son-of- a-preacherman (his dad's a rabbi) and Scott Stein at the helm—sharing singing duties and writing the band's material together—The Ramblers' unique brand of Americana fused with the best of Southern rock has earned them a devoted following and the opportunity to open for Levon Helm at his Midnight Ramble, where they received an encore and a standing ovation.

Julian Brolaski http://electiveaffinitiesusa.blogspot.com/2010/02/julian-t-brolaski.html Julian T. Brolaski is the recent editor of NO GENDER: Reflections on the Life & Work of kari edwards with erica kaufman and E. Tracy Grinnell (Litmus Press), and author of the chapbook buck in a corridor (flynpyntar), gowanus atropolis (forthcoming, Ugly Duckling) and Advice for Lovers (forthcoming, City Lights). Brolaski lives in Brooklyn where xe is an editor at Litmus Press, curates vaudeville shows, and plays country music with The Low & the Lonesome. New work is on the blog hermofwarsaw.

Joe Elliot http://www.sptraffic.org/html/book_reviews/elliot.html Joe Elliot ran a weekly reading series at Biblios Bookstore in the early ’90s, and helped move the series to the Zinc Bar where it continues. He co-edited two chapbook series:

A Musty Bone and Situations, which published authors such as Antje Katcher, Paul Genega, Duncan Nichols, Mitch Highfill, Kim Lyons, Douglas Rothschild, Shannon Ketch, Lisa Jarnot, Bill Luoma, Kevin Davies, Marcella Durand and many others. Joe is the author of numerous chapbooks including: You Gotta Go In It's The Big Game, Poems To Be Centered On Much Much Larger Sheets Of Paper, 15 Clanking Radiators, 14 Knots, Reduced, Half Gross (a collaboration with artist John Koos), and Object Lesson (a collaboration with artist Rich O'Russa). Granary Books published If It Rained Here, a collaboration with artist Julie Harrison. His work has appeared in many magazines, including The World, The Poker, Giants Play Well In The Drizzle, The Poetry Project Newsletter, Torque, and Arras. His long poem, 101 Designs for The World Trade Center, was published by Faux Press' e-mag, and a subpress published a collection of his work, Opposable Thumb, in 2006.

Laura Elrick http://electiveaffinitiesusa.blogspot.com/2010/06/laura-elrick.html Laura Elrick's latest text-based work (as yet untitled) is a book-length series of poems that proceeds by accretive and migratory iteration; other works include a video-poem Stalk, a set of audio pieces for doubled-voice, and two books of poetry:Fantasies in Permeable Structures (Factory School), and sKincerity (Krupskaya). Her essay "Poetry, Ecology, and the Production of Lived Space" was recently published in the the eco language reader edited by Brenda Iijima (Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs/Nightboat Books). She lives in Brooklyn.

Farrah Field http://adultish.blogspot.com/ Farrah Field's first book of poems, Rising, won Four Way Books' 2007 Levis Prize. Her poems have appeared in many publications including Harp & Altar, We Are So Happy to Know Something, Ploughshares, and are forthcoming in Lit, Fou, and Mantis. She co-hosts a reading series called Yardmeter Editions and blogs at the above url.

Mariana Ruiz Firmat http://www.brooklynrail.org/2010/03/poetry/two-mariana Mariana Ruiz Firmat is a poet and publisher of Three Sad Tigers Press. Recent work can be found in the March 2010 issue of the Brooklyn Rail. She is the author Another Strange Island (Open 24 Hours Press) and Smiling Into the Noise (Boog Literature). After riding her bicycle cross-country 11 years ago she landed in Brooklyn and has been there ever since. She currently works as union organizer. For more information about 3 sad tigers press please visit the website at: 3sadtigerspress.blogspot.com.

E. Tracy Grinnell http://jacketmagazine.com/40/at-grinnell-tracy.shtml E. Tracy Grinnell is the author of Helen: A Fugue (Belladonna Elder Series #1), Some Clear Souvenir (O Books), and Music or Forgetting (O Books), as well as the limited edition chapbooks Mirrorly, A Window (flynpyntar), Leukadia (Trafficker Press), Hell and Lower Evil (Lyre Lyre Pants on Fire), Humoresque (Blood Pudding/Dusie #3) Quadriga, a collaboration with Paul Foster Johnson (gong chapbooks), Of the Frame (Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs), and Harmonics(Melodeon Poetry Systems). She is the founding editor of Litmus Press and Aufgabe, and she lives in Brooklyn.

J.J. Hayes http://www.myspace.com/jjhayes J.J. Hayes writes poetry, song and philosophy. He has been published occasionally. Steven Pinker in The Stuff of Thought quotes J.J's 2004 letter "One World Scientific Language?" as an example of neo-Whorfian linguistic determinism. J.J. is thinking about how to respond, but wonders if his response will be determined by his language...

Chris Martin http://flavors.me/chrismartin Chris Martin is the author of American Music (Copper Canyon). Coffee House Press will publish his second book of poetry, Becoming Weather, next year. After editing the full 11-issue run of Puppy Flowers, he recently retired it, though they can all still be seen on your computer. He lives around the corner.

Cate Peebles http://www.foumagazine.net/ Cate Peebles' work has appeared in numerous print and online journals including: Tin House, Octopus, CutBank, Cannibal, No Tell Motel, Forklift, Ohio, and La Petite Zine. Her chapbook Taco Truck to Awesometown was published by Scantily Clad Press last year. She co-edits Fou, an online poetry magazine, and lives in Brooklyn.

Jared White http://jaredswhite.blogspot.com/ Jared White was born in Massachusetts and lives in New York. His chapbook Yellowcake was included in the hand-sewn anthology Narwhal from Cannibal Books. He has poems recently published or forthcoming in Action Yes, Coconut, Fulcrum, Laurel Review, and Modern Review, and essays in Harp & Altar, Open Letters Monthly, and Poets off Poetry. He co-directs the Yardmeter Editions event series in Brooklyn and blogs occasionally at the above url.

*Tuesday

Satellite Telephone http://nolongdistance.endingthealphabet.org/ Satellite Telephone was founded in Portland, Ore. in 2007, on a contact-high from the mimeo retrospective, A Secret Location on the Lower East Side (Granary Books). Three editions have been issued since, as the publication has moved from Portland, to Los Angeles, to Buffalo. The vision of the zine will soon be manifest in a series of chapbooks and broadsides as well, to be published under the imprint Scary Topiary Press.

Franklin Bruno http://nervousuntothirst.blogspot.com/ Franklin Bruno is a musician and writer based in Queens. He has recorded and toured as chief songwriter for the bands Nothing Painted Blue and (currently) The Human Hearts, and as a solo artist. His most recent release, Local Currency 1991-1998 (Fayettenam) collects four- track/lo-fi recordings from out-of-print vinyl seven-inches and compilations. He is a frequent collaborator with The Mountain Goats' John Darnielle, both as a multi-instrumentalist on the acclaimed 4AD albums The Sunset Tree and Tallahassee, and in the occasional duo The Extra Glens. He is the author of a book on Elvis Costello's Armed Forces in Continuum's 33 1/3 series, and of the poetry chapbook Policy Instrument (Lame House). His poetry has appeared in Satellite Telephone, The Brooklyn Rail, and Abraham Lincoln; his essays and criticism, in The Nation, Oxford American, and The Believer.

Todd Colby http://gleefarm.blogspot.com/ Todd Colby has published four books of poetry: Ripsnort, Cush, Riot in the Charm Factory: New and Selected Writings, and Tremble & Shine, all published by Soft Skull Press. Todd has performed his poetry on PBS and MTV, and his collaborative books and paintings with artist David Lantow can be seen in the Brooklyn Museum of Art and The Museum of Modern Art special collections libraries. Todd serves on the Board of Directors for The Poetry Project, where he has also taught several poetry workshops.

Robert Dewhurst http://endingthealphabet.org/ Robert Dewhurst edits Satellite Telephone, and co-edits Wild Orchids. His poetry and critical prose have appeared in Satellite Telephone, Peaches & Bats, On Contemporary Practice, and The Poetry Project Newsletter. An essay of his on the 70s newspaper Gay Sunshine will appear in the volume Porn Archives, forthcoming from SUNY Press. He currently lives in Buffalo, NY, where he attends the Poetics Program at SUNY-Buffalo.

Dorothea Lasky http://www.birdinsnow.com/ Dorothea Lasky is the author of two full-length collections of poetry, AWE (Wave Books, 2007) and Black Life (Wave Books, 2010), and numerous chapbooks. Currently, she researches creativity and education at the University of Pennsylvania.

Eileen Myles http://www.eileenmyles.com/ Eileen Myles has written thousands of poems since she gave her first reading at CBGB’s in 1974. Her books include The Inferno, The Importance of Being Iceland, Sorry, Tree, Skies, on my way, Cool for You, School of Fish, Maxfield Parrish, Not Me, and Chelsea Girls. In 1995, with Liz Kotz, she edited The New Fuck You: Adventures in Lesbian Reading, for Semiotext(e).

Rebekah Rutkoff
http://fence.fenceportal.org/v13n1/
Rebekah Rutkoff is an artist, moving image curator and Ph.D. candidate in the English Department at the CUNY Graduate Center. She lives in Brooklyn.

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City

330 W. 28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)
http://itunes.apple.com/WebObjects/MZStore.woa/wa/viewPodcast?id=343169880
For music from Gilmore boys:
http://www.myspace.com/gilmoreboysmusic

↑ Index

192. Robert Dewhurst
WILD ORCHIDS vol. 2: HANNAH WEINER
Wed 18 Aug 2010

Announcing WILD ORCHIDS vol. 2: HANNAH WEINER.

165 pgs. of creative criticism on and inspired by HANNAH WEINER.

Essays & approaches by: Stan Apps, Jeremiah Bowen, Laynie Browne, CAConrad, Corina Copp, Kaplan Harris, Jennifer Karmin, Chris Kraus, Eileen Myles, Jennifer Russo, Marta Werner, Juliana Spahr, and Joey Yearous-Algozin.

Additionally, the volume includes stunning 'NEW' MATERIAL by Weiner herself: selections from Hannah's previously unpublished THE BOOK OF REVELATIONS, a long-lost manuscript that was recently 'discovered' by Marta Werner in Weiner's archive at UCSD; as well as a full transcript of Weiner's 1995 conversation with Charles Bernstein for LINEbreak, made from producer Martín Spinelli's raw tape of the session which includes over twenty minutes of dialog that was edited out of the broadcast version.

Only $9: <http://wildorchids.endingthealphabet.org>.

↑ Index

193. William Allegrezza books for glances
Wed 18 Aug 2010

If you have an extra copy of a book you have published in the past five years, send it to me for my daily glance project at p-ramblings (http://allegrezza.blogspot.com). Just e-mail me for my address.

Bill

↑ Index

194. Chris Stroffolino
Clark Coolidge Polaroid 20
Wed 18 Aug 2010

---

perhaps just a tribute to "I Zimbra" in spirit, if not in feel....

may be of some interest here...

http://www.youtube.com/watch?vòg1fgQlACo

On Aug 17, 2010, at 9:01 PM, POETICS automatic digest system wrote:

> There are 11 messages totalling 768 lines in this issue.
>
> Topics of the day:
>
> 1. One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota[h]to
> 2. American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium (6)
> 3. MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS (3)
> 4. Girlstock Art and Music Benefit - Saturday, August 21st Poetry Readings --
> 5:00
>
> ---
>
> Date: Mon, 16 Aug 2010 11:43:31 -0700
> From: Stephen Baraban <[redacted]>
> Subject: One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota[h]to
>
> One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota{h}to
> OR, The Argument Need not be Souring
>
> There now is a list-mate named Bowering,
> Who might think that the others are cowering;
> Though the offense be slight,
> If the usage ain't right,
> He'll rim-shot a scorn that is towering.
>
> ---
>
> Date: Mon, 16 Aug 2010 14:51:10 -0400
> From: Mark Weiss <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium

Richly deserved.

At 04:53 PM 8/15/2010, you wrote:
In advance of an official announcement, this is to report that Poems for the Millennium, volume 3: The University of California Book of Romantic and Postromantic Poetry, edited by myself and Jeffrey Robinson, will receive a 2010 American Book Award from the Before Columbus Foundation. It's my understanding that there will be fourteen such awards over all, including Amiri Baraka's The Afro-American Soul of American Classical Music and Dave Eggers' non-fiction narrative Zeitoun, both previously announced, as well as a lifetime achievement award for our old comrade-in-poetry Quincy Troupe.

The nominating statement for Poems for the Millennium reads as follows:

"Modernism rejected Romanticism in the way that one political leader rejects another-not because it is any different but because it wishes to win the same audience. This book demonstrates that the only thing that happened in Modernism was that a door opened onto still another aspect of the immense cultural experiment that Romanticism was-or as Rothenberg and Robinson might insist, as Romanticisms were (are). Central issues were what Rousseau called conscience de soi, self-awareness (but a self-awareness which deliberately did not separate itself from 'world'), a new interest in ethnicity and the local, and a shift from thinking of poetry as a 'craft' and of the poet as 'maker,' to thinking of it as a provoker of consciousness-even a creator of consciousness-and of the poet as Bard, Shaman. To know the work so carefully, lovingly and brilliantly assembled in this book is to know ourselves in a new and newly conscious way."

An awards ceremony and reception will take place on Sunday, September 19th from 1-4 p.m. at the Koret Auditorium, San Francisco Main Library, 100 Larkin Street, San Francisco, CA.

3D
3D
3D==========> =========

New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
$16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm

"What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the poet alive in every sense of the word, and through every one of his senses. Instead of missing a beat or a part, Weiss' fragments are like Chekhov's short storiesthe more that gets left out, the more they seem to contain… One can hear echoes from all the various ancestors...[but] the voice, at its center, its core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment is both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure musical threnody...[it] opens a window, not only into a mind, but a person, a personality, this human figure at the emotional center of the poem."

M.G. Stephens, in Jacket.
http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml

3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D

Date: Mon, 16 Aug 2010 15:02:29 -0400
From: Mairead Byrne <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium

that's wonderful. hope to assign it for contemporary poetry class next year.

x
mairéad

On Mon, Aug 16, 2010 at 2:28 PM, Ruth Lepson
<[redacted]> wrote> :

This is fantastic, Jerome. You know I had hoped to review the book, havin> g worked it when a student did an independent study with me, but I haven't been up to it. I am happy to hear that the award is justly given.

On 8/15/10 4:53 PM, "Jerome Rothenberg" <[redacted]> wrote:

In advance of an official announcement, this is to report that Poems fo> r
the Millennium, volume 3: The University of California Book of Romantic and Postromantic Poetry, edited by myself and Jeffrey Robinson, will receiv> e
a 2010 American Book Award from the Before Columbus Foundation. It's my understanding that there will be fourteen such awards over all, includi> ng Amiri Baraka's The Afro-American Soul of American Classical Music and Dave
Eggers' non-fiction narrative Zeitoun, both previously announced, as we> ll as a lifetime achievement award for our old comrade-in-poetry Quincy Troupe.

The nominating statement for Poems for the Millennium reads as follows:

"Modernism rejected Romanticism in the way that one political leader rejects another-not because it is any different but because it wishes to win th> e same audience. This book demonstrates that the only thing that happened in Modernism was that a door opened onto still another aspect of the immen> se cultural experiment that Romanticism was-or as Rothenberg and Robinson might insist, as Romanticisms were (are). Central issues were what Rousseau called conscience de soi, self-awareness (but a self-awareness which deliberately did not separate itself from 'world'), a new interest in ethnicity and the local,

and a shift from thinking of poetry as a 'craft' and of the poet as 'maker,' to thinking of it as a provoker of consciousness-even a creator of consciousness-and of the poet as Bard, Shaman. To know the work so carefully, lovingly and brilliantly assembled in this book is to know ourselves in> a new and newly conscious way."

An awards ceremony and reception will take place on Sunday, September 19th from 1-4 p.m. at the Koret Auditorium, San Francisco Main Library, 100 Larkin
Street, San Francisco, CA.

3D
==========> ===========
guidelines &

3D
3D==========> ==========
guidelin> es

--
http://www.whatsleftofheaven.com/

3D
3D
3D
3D

3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D

Date: Mon, 16 Aug 2010 15:03:10 -0400
From: Murat Nemet-Nejat <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium

Jerome and Jeffrey,

Well earned congratulations. The nominating statement is entirely to the point.

Ciao,

Murat

On Sun, Aug 15, 2010 at 4:53 PM, Jerome Rothenberg <[redacted]
wrote:

In advance of an official announcement, this is to report that Poems for the Millennium, volume 3: The University of California Book of Romantic and Postromantic Poetry, edited by myself and Jeffrey Robinson, will receive a 2010 American Book Award from the Before Columbus Foundation. It's my understanding that there will be fourteen such awards over all, including Amiri Baraka's The Afro-American Soul of American Classical Music and Dave Eggers' non-fiction narrative Zeitoun, both previously announced, as well as a lifetime achievement award for our old comrade-in-poetry Quincy Troupe.
Jer
The nominating statement for Poems for the Millennium reads as follows:

"Modernism rejected Romanticism in the way that one political leader rejects another-not because it is any different but because it wishes to win the same audience. This book demonstrates that the only thing that happened in Modernism was that a door opened onto still another aspect of the immense cultural experiment that Romanticism was-or as Rothenberg and Robinson might insist, as Romanticisms were (are). Central issues were what Rousseau called conscience de soi, self-awareness (but a self-awareness which deliberately did not separate itself from 'world'), a new interest in ethnicity and the local, and a shift from thinking of poetry as a 'craft' and of the poet as 'maker,' to thinking of it as a provoker of consciousness-even a creator of consciousness-and of the poet as Bard, Shaman. To know the work so carefully, lovingly and brilliantly assembled in this book is to know ourselves in a new and newly conscious way."

An awards ceremony and reception will take place on Sunday, September 19th from 1-4 p.m. at the Koret Auditorium, San Francisco Main Library, 100 Larkin Street, San Francisco, CA.

guidelines

Date: Mon, 16 Aug 2010 12:03:38 -0700
From: steve russell <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS

Wait a minute. You didn't clean up AFTER the dog. You actually cleanedÂ> THE DOG.
I'm speechless. That sort of thing doesn't happen in my neighborhood.
Â
--- On Sat, 8/14/10, Jared Schickling <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Jared Schickling <[redacted]>

Subject: Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
To: [redacted]
Date: Saturday, August 14, 2010, 1:38 AM

Dear Steve, Alan, and whomever else,

your posts â€“

Taking Steveâ€™s idea of the present / nearing â€œEnd,â€> and everything that suggests, as a baseline propositionâ€”and less concer> ned with the accuracy of a truth than a thinking sensibilityâ€”much less any washe> d set of theory that doesnâ€™t offer something weâ€™ve missedâ€”ho> w is one to think of a relevant poetry?Â What would a relevant poetry be?Â What is a relevant poetry?Â Affirmation and change an> d hope and things of that ilk donâ€™t seem to go anywhereâ€”as according to the p> roposition they are inaccurate.Â Yet one persists insistingâ€¦

A far-flung surrealism is acutely popular, and so would be
apparently perceived as somehow relevant.
And yet so is a staunch eco poetic.
Alanâ€™s post of xenophobia, corruption and broken glass alongside th> e systematicity of Pantomime Ape of Free Will speaks, perhaps, to where the t> wo
cohabitate.Â Nature nurtured.Â

In the end, and without much argument, Iâ€™m inclined to see this as formal questions.Â CA Conradâ€™s recent brief â€œreviewâ€ at Futurepost is peculiar, even if I> â€™m quite possibly overstating my case, but it has me wondering:

â€œThe term â€˜Identity Politicsâ€™ is bad enough.Â > Itâ€™s meant to annihilate the efforts of those who literally bled for the room th> ey made for us all.Â â€˜Identity Politicsâ€™ makes a joke of > it.Â It says that all it ever was was wallowing in the filth and conspiracy of politics,> a game, itâ€™s all just been a game.â€

While we do know politics would hardly change (have changed) without politics.Â Part of the public social artistâ€™s civil agenda is to force action, political.Â U> sing, as with more faith in, artistic,
biologic means of a-political, corrosive substance.Â Any blood, here, > IS identity politics.Â Conradâ€™s joke is perverse because, as I> read it, it canâ€™t achieve itself, so that it does.Â It is literal in its bleeding, sur-real and eco-logical, like a complete thought about th> e body.Â

And yet I donâ€™t think the passage, nor a review that â€œwipes me outâ€ for that matter (â€œevieâ€â€™s reply), h> as intended this.Â It seems to bear the burden of its own conviction.Â

(Here I should suggest the value of all this.Â Well, upon now thinking> about this which is something I wasnâ€™t thinking about before, today I resisted not toss> ing some recyclables.Â And I apologized to someone for something.Â And cleaned up
the dog in the neighborâ€™s yard.Â Etc,
coincidence perhaps.Â Which would be such work to parcel out.Â Also against the original proposition.Â Einsteinâ€™s
definition of insanity.)

How is such a method, a process unintentional, defeated yet conjured, to be systemized, formalized, etc & et al discussed, articulated?
Â In > a relevant way?

Just a question.
Available on or off list.Â Â Â

Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â
Â > Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â
3D
3D
==========> =========

3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D

Date: Mon, 16 Aug 2010 15:07:29 -0400
From: Alan Sondheim <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS

isn't that what we all do? talk about things unrelated to politics?

have you seen Fox news lately? how long should we be delicate?

if anyone has ideas of direct action, cultural or otherwise, please
backchannel

On Sun, 15 Aug 2010, michael farrell wrote:

hi jared

i like your tone

id like to consider different tones as a way of nutting out something

political tones leave me cold

many radio tones grate

close readings of voice (close listening - bernstein) get blocked by listeners horror at words spoken

we complain about whats being done to language but not the ultimately contemptuous tones used to voice it

id like to see a debate or an interview where a key word or discourse is focused on but in relation to (contesting) the (habitual) tone being used

q: "can you talk like a human being?" "maybe try talking about something unrelated to politics first"

Date: Fri, 13 Aug 2010 23:38:01 -0600
From: [redacted]
Subject: Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
To: [redacted]

Dear Steve, Alan, and whomever else,

your posts ?

Taking Steve?s idea of the present / nearing ?End,? and everything that suggests, as a baseline proposition?and less concerned with the accuracy of a truth than a thinking sensibility?much less any washed set of theory that doesn?t offer something we?ve missed?how is one to think of a relevant poetry? What would a relevant poetry be? What is a relevant poetry? Affirmation and change and hope and things of that ilk don?t seem to go anywhere?as according to the proposition they are inaccurate. Yet one persists insisting?

A far-flung surrealism is acutely popular, and so would be
apparently perceived as somehow relevant.
And yet so is a staunch eco poetic.
Alan?s post of xenophobia, corruption and broken glass alongside the systematicity of Pantomime Ape of Free Will speaks, perhaps, to where the two cohabitate. Nature nurtured.

In the end, and without much argument, I?m inclined to see this as formal questions. CA Conrad?s
recent brief ?review? at Futurepost is peculiar, even if I?m quite possibly overstating my case, but it has me wondering:

?The term ?Identity Politics? is bad enough. It?s
meant to annihilate the efforts of those who literally bled for the room they made for us all. ?Identity Politics? makes a joke of it. It says that all it ever was was wallowing in the filth and conspiracy of politics, a game, it?s all just been a game.?

While we do know politics would hardly change (have changed)
without politics. Part of the public social artist?s civil agenda is to force action, political.
Using, as with more faith in, artistic, biologic means of a-political, corrosive substance. Any blood, here, IS identity politics. Conrad?s joke is perverse because, as I read it, it can?t achieve itself, so that it does. It is literal in its bleeding, sur-real and eco-logical, like a complete thought about the body.

And yet I don?t think the passage, nor a review that ?wipes me out? for that matter (?evie??s reply), has intended this. It seems to bear the burden of its own conviction.

(Here I should suggest the value of all this. Well, upon now thinking about this which is something I wasn?t thinking about before, today I resisted not tossing some recyclables. And I apologized to someone for something. And cleaned up the dog in the neighbor?s yard. Etc, coincidence perhaps. Which would be such work to parcel out. Also against the original proposition. Einstein?s definition of insanity.)

How is such a method, a process unintentional, defeated yet conjured, to be systemized, formalized, etc & et al discussed, articulated? In a relevant way?

Just a question.
Available on or off list.

=> email archive: http://sondheim.rupamsunyata.org/
webpage http://www.alansondheim.org
music archive: http://www.espdisk.com/alansondheim/
=>

Date: Mon, 16 Aug 2010 15:42:13 -0500
From: Maria Damon <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium

Mazel Tov, Jerry. Well-deserved indeed.

Jerome Rothenberg wrote:
In advance of an official announcement, this is to report that Poems fo> r the Millennium, volume 3: The University of California Book of Romantic> and Postromantic Poetry, edited by myself and Jeffrey Robinson, will rec> eive a 2010 American Book Award from the Before Columbus Foundation. It'> s my understanding that there will be fourteen such awards over all, incl> uding Amiri Baraka's The Afro-American Soul of American Classical Music a> nd Dave Eggers' non-fiction narrative Zeitoun, both previously announced,> as well as a lifetime achievement award for our old comrade-in-poetry Qu> incy Troupe.

The nominating statement for Poems for the Millennium reads as follows:>

"Modernism rejected Romanticism in the way that one political leader r> ejects another-not because it is any different but because it wishes to w> in the same audience. This book demonstrates that the only thing that hap> pened in Modernism was that a door opened onto still another aspect of th> e immense cultural experiment that Romanticism was-or as Rothenberg and R> obinson might insist, as Romanticisms were (are). Central issues were wha> t Rousseau called conscience de soi, self-awareness (but a self-awareness> which deliberately did not separate itself from 'world'), a new interest> in ethnicity and the local, and a shift from thinking of poetry as a 'cr> aft' and of the poet as 'maker,' to thinking of it as a provoker of consc> iousness-even a creator of consciousness-and of the poet as Bard, Shaman.> To know the work so carefully, lovingly and brilliantly assembled in thi> s book is to know ourselves in a new and newly conscious way."

An awards ceremony and reception will take place on Sunday,
September 1> 9th from 1-4 p.m. at the Koret Auditorium, San Francisco Main Library, 10> 0 Larkin Street, San Francisco, CA.

3D
3D=====> ==========

3D
3D
3D

3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D

Date: Tue, 17 Aug 2010 00:14:26 +0000
From: Jesse Glass <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium

Congratulations! Fantastic book. Jess

On 8/15/2010, "Jerome Rothenberg" <[redacted]> wrote:

In advance of an official announcement, this is to report that Poems for the Millennium, volume 3: The University of California Book of Romantic and Postromantic Poetry, edited by myself and Jeffrey Robinson, will receive a 2010 American Book Award from the Before Columbus Foundation. It's my understanding that there will be fourteen such awards over all, including Amiri Baraka's The Afro-American Soul of American Classical Music and Dave Eggers' non-fiction narrative Zeitoun, both previously announced, as well as a lifetime achievement award for our old comrade-in-poetry Quincy Troupe.

The nominating statement for Poems for the Millennium reads as follows:

"Modernism rejected Romanticism in the way that one political leader rejects another-not because it is any different but because it wishes to win the same audience. This book demonstrates that the only thing that happened in Modernism was that a door opened onto still another aspect of the immense cultural experiment that Romanticism was-or as Rothenberg and Robinson might insist, as Romanticisms were (are). Central issues were what Rousseau called conscience de soi, self-awareness (but a self-awareness which deliberately did not separate itself from 'world'), a new interest in ethnicity and the local, and a shift from thinking of poetry as a 'craft' and of the poet as 'maker,' to thinking of it as a provoker of consciousness-even a creator of consciousness-and of the poet as Bard, Shaman. To know the work so carefully, lovingly and brilliantly assembled in this book is to know ourselves in a new and newly conscious way."

An awards ceremony and reception will take place on Sunday,
September 19th from 1-4 p.m. at the Koret Auditorium, San Francisco
Main Library, 100 Larkin Street, San Francisco, CA.

Date: Mon, 16 Aug 2010 22:56:57 -0600
From: Jared Schickling <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS

Michael, and Tyrone,

I appreciate it. But I don't understand the question. Truly.
Tyrone you > did not ask a question. So Michael. Is there some thing I do, something> wonderful it must be, that isn't political? Economic? I'll anticipate > your answer, at the risk of being wrong, and argue, that's the purpos> e of trying an angle. i think emily dickinson said that. and that's how m> osquitoes win. Only after they're there are you free to swat them.
I also> remember something from Foucault somewhere, on a Facebook post (serious)> , when asked why he must always make everything political. His response> , which I'm butchering, involved something about caring for that which > of the greatest consequence for the greatest number.

The reason I respond in this way is because I'm not all that singular, and because this is a public forum.
I believe in these things like the poem but not like the poetry of the poem, it's not ideal like that, but I do believe that someone sits do> wn to all kinds of pages and may return transformed.
Or not transformed. Or transformed by degrees with all kinds of transformations. These if at all > are mostly incremental. What lasting import. But what does permanent tran> sformation require. I think I read that on a listserv. That's the difference even if a little beside the point between popular and literary literatures; the o> ne returns you equipped differently. So what does that mean. Do I recycle? Yes; but it's piling up rather quickly as I'm rather lazy in these things which I don't throw away. A> m I still vegan? I was but my wife's a chef, and I couldn't be so lu> cky. And I like my share in neighbor cow. Do I clean up the dog on the wa> lk

like I should? Mow the grass? (cf. lazy.)
I take these responsibilities very seriously, and I don’t need to convince anyone that worlds are ending.

But the question was, what about entering this contest when you’ve opened your big trap on the matter contrarily.

I don't know if that addresses your question because I don't understand the> question.

But I'll bet if we were face to face and allowed to smoke our talk and thou> ghts would be unrecognizable. I read about that recently on a listserv too> .

Sincerely,
Jared

>
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D
3D

Date: Tue, 17 Aug 2010 06:29:14 -0800
From: carol dorf <[redacted]>
Subject: Girlstock Art and Music Benefit - Saturday, August 21st Poetry Readings -- 5:00

I'll be reading at the Girlstock benefit for the Women's Cancer Resource

Center with Susan Terris and Autumn Stephens. Afterwards there will be music, and other performances.

Saturday, August 21
Carol Dorf (with Susan Terris and Autumn Stephens)
at Girlstock, Evening 4
Mina Dresden Gallery
312 Valencia @ 14th street, San Francisco
5:00-6:30 (I don't think we'll actually be reading before 5:30)
for more info-- http://www.girlstock.com/girlstock.html

All best,
Carol

Date: Mon, 16 Aug 2010 11:56:44 -0700
From: Aldon Nielsen <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium

That is great news -- When they gave the award to Lorenzo Thomas's DON'T DENY MY NAME I had a great time at the ceremony in a Berkeley jazz club -- Ish played piano!

The Amiri title in Jerome's post may confuse some folk -- that's the book's subtitle -- It refers to his U of California Press collection of music essays titled DIGGING.

--
Aldon L. Nielsen
Kelly Professor of American Literature
Department of English
117 Burrowes Building
The Pennsylvania State University
University Park, PA
16802-6200

[redacted]

sailing the blogosphere at http://heatstrings.blogspot.com

"kindling his mind (more
than his mind will kindle)"

> --William Carlos Williams, early adopter
>
> ---
>
> End of POETICS Digest - 16 Aug 2010 to 17 Aug 2010 (#2010-192)
> **********

↑ Index

195. CA Conrad
CHINATOWN Philadelphia (Soma)tic Poetry Workshop
Wed 18 Aug 2010

CHINATOWN Philadelphia (Soma)tic Poetry Workshop

Limited number of participants.
To register and see more details please visit: http://myforehead.blogspot.com/

This is going to be an amazing time! Hope to see you there! CAConrad

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

196. Paul Siegell book trailers
Wed 18 Aug 2010

---

hello friends,

gotta few minutes to cross the Ben Franklin Bridge and enjoy a book trailer or three over on YouTube?

speakers up:

> NEW: jambandbootleg: http://bit.ly/cBn6oq
>
> SORTA NEW: wild life rifle fire: http://bit.ly/aLaNz2
>
> WAS ONCE NEW: Poemergency Room: http://bit.ly/bIJNxD

whaddaya think?

many thanks,
paul>
http://paulsiegell.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

197. Jim Andrews
Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium
Wed 18 Aug 2010

> The nominating statement for Poems for the Millennium reads as follows:
>
> "Modernism rejected Romanticism in the way that one political leader rejects another-not because it is any different but because it wishes to win the same audience. This book demonstrates that the only thing that happened in Modernism was that a door opened onto still another aspect of the immense cultural experiment that Romanticism was-or as Rothenberg and Robinson might insist, as Romanticisms were (are). Central issues were what Rousseau called conscience de soi, self-awareness (but a self-awareness which deliberately did not separate itself from 'world'), a new interest in ethnicity and the local, and a shift from thinking of poetry as a 'craft' and of the poet as 'maker,' to thinking of it as a provoker of consciousness-even a creator of consciousness-and of the poet as Bard, Shaman. To know the work so carefully, lovingly and brilliantly assembled in this book is to know ourselves in a new and newly conscious way."

Congrats on the award.

That's a pretty odd above paragraph, though. Uh, a very romantic paragraph. Like it was written by someone trying hard to pretend to be a thinker and critic with some historical perspective. Modernism is a huge historical period that spans from around 1910 to 1955 or so. Poetry changed quite a bit in that time. Pound, Eliot, Stevens, Apollinaire, yada yada. Dada. Futurism, The world went through two world wars. Technological change went through the roof. Poetry developed as a written thing very dramatically during modernism. The poetry of people like Pound, Eliot, and Stevens explores the possibilities of writing and reading way beyond a document as 'score' simply meant to be read aloud. The notion of 'voice' goes through huge changes. The notions of juxtaposition, collage, and visuality enter poetry with great strength. And so much more.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

198. Lisa Janssen
MoonLit #4 is out and it is awesome.
Wed 18 Aug 2010

Contributors include award winning poets Allyssa Wolf and Judith Goldman, a mystery collab between Bernadette Mayer and Jennifer Karmin, short stories by Amina Cain and Nick Collias, artwork by Neil Hagerty and Krista Franklin, and new work from Pamela Olson, John Beer, Roger Craik, Rebecca Bush, Robert Masterson, Ralph La Charity, Josh Sebrasky, Steve Roth, Vladimir Swirynsky, Suzanne Savakas, David Pavlich, Joel Craig, Lisa Janssen and Claire McMahon.

Order copies from:

http://www.dragcity.com/products/moonlit-4

Stores email: [redacted] for store pricing.

Thanks fellow poets!!

Lisa Janssen

↑ Index

199. Elizabeth Switaj
Re: Comments in Chinese
Wed 18 Aug 2010

Babelfish is highly unreliable when it comes to the translation of Chinese. You could run a menu through it and it will come out sounding like a "wisdom saying" half the time.

As for censorship, not sure that it relates to the question you've asked, but the Great Fire Wall of China is pretty spotty and it doesn't take much technical knowledge to get around, though there can be serious consequences if something is traced back to a particular person.

On 16 August 2010 22:52, Ann Bogle <[redacted]> wrote:

> I've been told that comments in Chinese to weblogs are "spam." I have deleted a few of those comments. Then I realized that they may not be spam but may be legitimate comments. I have begun to translate 14 of them using Babelfish. They seem to be wisdom sayings, such as this one: "The success may attract the friend, frustrates may test the friend." I'd like information -- if anyone has experience -- about issues in Chinese blogging, including censorship.

↑ Index

200. steve russell
Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
Wed 18 Aug 2010

Jared, I hope you'll excuse myÂ most recent (glib)Â sound/bite. I'm afraid I have no idea how to address the question of what may or may not be relevant inÂ poetry or what could possibly be considered a "relevant poetry." I was at a lose when I saw the post concerning the Renewel of Spirtitually in contemporary poetics. Poetry, after all, is a thing of the spirit, yes? So why must it be renewed? Of course, it would be nice if more poets addressed the urgent concerns of the day rather than dwell exclusivelyÂ on private matters. Yeats was very active in Irish politics. Ditto Pound (though not IrishÂ issuesÂ ... & too bad he...), Eliot (too bad he, too...), andÂ Lawrence (my favorite writer/poet/period). The word Relevant frightens me. When I hear it, I quickly become a Beckett tramp -- I ask myself, "Am I beginning to Mean Something." I'm simply not prepared for the burden of even considering what is or isn't relevant in contemporary art & poetry.
 Consider: I'm presently listening to a beautiful Jeff Beck lick from the late 70s. & it strikes me asÂ prefectly relevant. Why? Because it's beautiful. & what makes it beautiful? Because BeckÂ has mastered the tools of his trade and plays beautifully.
Â
Enjoyed your post. Take care --
Â
Â

--- On Sat, 8/14/10, Jared Schickling <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Jared Schickling <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
To: [redacted]
Date: Saturday, August 14, 2010, 1:38 AM

Dear Steve, Alan, and whomever else,

your posts â€“

Taking Steveâ€™s idea of the present / nearing â€œEnd,â€ and everything that suggests, as a baseline propositionâ€”and less concerned with the accuracy of a truth than a thinking sensibilityâ€”much less any washed set of theory that doesnâ€™t offer something weâ€™ve missedâ€”how is one to think of a relevant poetry?Â What would a relevant poetry be?Â What is a relevant poetry?Â Affirmation and change and hope and things of that ilk donâ€™t seem to go anywhereâ€”as according to the proposition they are inaccurate.Â Yet one persists insistingâ€¦

A far-flung surrealism is acutely popular, and so would be apparently perceived as somehow relevant. And yet so is a staunch eco poetic. Alanâ€™s post of xenophobia, corruption and broken glass alongside the systematicity of Pantomime Ape of Free Will speaks, perhaps, to where the two cohabitate.Â Nature nurtured.Â

In the end, and without much argument, Iâ€™m inclined to see this as formal questions.Â CA Conradâ€™s recent brief â€œreviewâ€ at Futurepost is peculiar, even if Iâ€™m quite possibly overstating my case, but it has me wondering:

â€œThe term â€˜Identity Politicsâ€™ is bad enough.Â Itâ€™s meant to annihilate the efforts of those who literally bled for the room they made for us all.Â â€˜Identity Politicsâ€™ makes a joke of it.Â It says that all it ever was was wallowing in the filth and conspiracy of politics, a game, itâ€™s all just been a game.â€

While we do know politics would hardly change (have changed) without politics.Â Part of the public social artistâ€™s civil agenda is to force action, political.Â Using, as with more faith in, artistic, biologic means of a-political, corrosive substance.Â Any blood, here, IS identity politics.Â Conradâ€™s joke is perverse because, as I read it, it canâ€™t achieve itself, so that it does.Â It is literal in its bleeding, sur-real and eco-logical, like a complete thought about the body.Â

And yet I donâ€™t think the passage, nor a review that â€œwipes me outâ€ for that matter (â€œevieâ€â€™s reply), has intended this.Â It seems to bear the burden of its own conviction.Â

(Here I should suggest the value of all this.Â Well, upon now thinking about this which is something I wasnâ€™t thinking about before, today I resisted not tossing some recyclables.Â And I apologized to someone for something.Â And cleaned up
the dog in the neighborâ€™s yard.Â Etc,
coincidence perhaps.Â Which would be such work to parcel out.Â Also against the original proposition.Â Einsteinâ€™s
definition of insanity.)

How is such a method, a process unintentional, defeated yet conjured, to be systemized, formalized, etc & et al discussed, articulated?Â In a relevant way?

Just a question.
Available on or off list.Â Â Â

Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â

↑ Index

201. Nick LoLordo

Re: One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota[h]to

Wed 18 Aug 2010

There was once(1) a subscriber named "Clark"
Who would simply not tolerate snark.
Her dudgeon rose high, til
She clicked on "reply"--
Clark's remarks missed their mark. We LIKE snark!

(1) until very recently

****

On Tue, Aug 17, 2010 at 9:11 AM, Hilary Clark <[redacted]> wrote:

> Dear list,
>
> Snide attacks such as the limerick below are pathetic. Aren't all members on this list free to make comments of the sort George Bowering made? Or are some members more equal than others?
>
> I am unsubscribing from this list.
>
> Hilary Clark
>
> Stephen Baraban wrote:
>
> One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota{h}to
> OR, The Argument Need not be Souring
>
> There now is a list-mate named Bowering,
> Who might think that the others are cowering;
> Though the offense be slight,
> If the usage ain't right,
> He'll rim-shot a scorn that is towering.

--
V. Nicholas LoLordo
[redacted]

↑ Index

202. Stephen Baraban
Re: One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota[h]to
Wed 18 Aug 2010

Oh, dear.

Snide? I was trying to be amiably humorous, regarding the different attitudes that have been expressed about grammatical, spelling, etc. correctness, prompted by George Bowering's recent posting, and the history of his similar postings.

I ADMIRE people who are sticklers for what they feel is important, so I wasn't trying to say that what I called "a scorn that is towering" is such a terrible thing. I thought that was clear both from invoking the humorous song "You say potayto, and I say potahto", and from the phrase "the argument need not be souring".

I think I am being mistaken for one of the very angry people who are sometimes/often found in poetry these days--I hope I can be understand as not such--and I certainly hope no-one will actually unsubscribe because of this.

Stephen M. Baraban aspiring-to-be-non-boorish USAmerican {and I am truly grateful to G.B. for passing on the formulation "USAmerican"]

--- On Tue, 8/17/10, Hilary Clark <[redacted]> wrote:

> From: Hilary Clark <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota[h]to
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Tuesday, August 17, 2010, 12:11 PM
> Dear list,
>
> Snide attacks such as the limerick below are pathetic.
> Aren't all members on this list free to make comments of the > sort George Bowering made? Or are some members more equal > than others?
>
> I am unsubscribing from this list.
>
> Hilary Clark
>
> Stephen Baraban wrote:
> One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota{h}to
> OR, The Argument Need not be Souring

> There now is a list-mate named Bowering,
> Who might think that the others are cowering;
> Though the offense be slight,
> If the usage ain't right,
> He'll rim-shot a scorn that is towering.

↑ Index

203. Murat Nemet-Nejat

Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium

Wed 18 Aug 2010

Jim,

Nobody I think is denying what you are saying. The statement mere states that the seeds, origins of many of these changes, the forces that propelled them, came into being during the Romantic period -in my opinion, mostly through its visionary side.

Ciao,

Murat

On Wed, Aug 18, 2010 at 3:04 PM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

> The nominating statement for Poems for the Millennium reads as follows:
>
> "Modernism rejected Romanticism in the way that one political leader rejects another-not because it is any different but because it wishes to win the same audience. This book demonstrates that the only thing that happened in Modernism was that a door opened onto still another aspect of the immense cultural experiment that Romanticism was-or as Rothenberg and Robinson might insist, as Romanticisms were (are). Central issues were what Rousseau called conscience de soi, self-awareness (but a self-awareness which deliberately did not separate itself from 'world'), a new interest in ethnicity and the local, and a shift from thinking of poetry as a 'craft' and of the poet as 'maker,' to thinking of it as a provoker of consciousness-even a creator of consciousness-and of the poet as Bard, Shaman. To know the work so carefully, lovingly and brilliantly assembled in this book is to know ourselves in a new and newly conscious way."
>
> Congrats on the award.
>
> That's a pretty odd above paragraph, though. Uh, a very romantic paragraph.

> Like it was written by someone trying hard to pretend to be a thinker and critic with some historical perspective. Modernism is a huge historical period that spans from around 1910 to 1955 or so. Poetry changed quite a bit in that time. Pound, Eliot, Stevens, Apollinaire, yada yada. Dada. Futurism, The world went through two world wars. Technological change went through the roof. Poetry developed as a written thing very dramatically during modernism. The poetry of people like Pound, Eliot, and Stevens explores the possibilities of writing and reading way beyond a document as 'score' simply meant to be read aloud. The notion of 'voice' goes through huge changes. The notions of juxtaposition, collage, and visuality enter poetry with great strength. And so much more.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com

↑ Index

204. David Chirot

from forthcoming "Bob Dylan in America:" Chapter Two--published in New Yorker--Dylan & the Beats--

Wed 18 Aug 2010

---

very good excerpt--(makes one want to read the entire book--which is quite something today with the glut of dylan tomes--) entire chapter--from this upcoming book, published in the new yorker-- great fotos, too!--

just recently many books have picked up have come across the same quotes (real or no) of dylan re his first reading of kerouac's Mexico City Blues (in 1959--) and immense effect Jean-Lous Lebris Kerouac had on him--as wel as his long involvements with Allen G--excellent background history on the various trains of influence out of the many forms of American Radicalism from the Wobblies on--and involvements of Kerouac and Ginsberg with these--and its differing from the Radicalism of the folk scene from which dylan first emerged--(in the opening paragraphs--the effects on Kerouac and via him back to/foward from Copland score for Steinbeck's Of Mice and Men, directed by Lewis Milestone (great name, so so director--)--the conjunction of a popular culture film score out of Copland's forms of modernism--to showing up in chorus in mexico City Blues--to Desotlaion Row--to Ginsberg--very wel done and illuminating facts history along the way-- the discussion here (poetics list) re --barely at any rate--social & political and poetry--makes it al the more intersting to read this fine excerpt-- onwo/ards!

david-bc

“Bob Dylan in America<http://www.amazon.com/Bob-Dylan-America-Sean-Wilentz/dp/0385529880>,” by the historian Sean Wilentz <http://seanwilentz.com/>, will be published in September by Doubleday. The following excerpt is Chapter 2 of the book. Penetrating Aether: The Beat Generation and Allen Ginsberg’s America by Sean Wilentz

Read more http://www.newyorker.com/online/blogs/newsdesk/2010/08/sean-wilentz-bob-dylan-in-america.html#ixzz0woewN1Kz

↑ Index

205. steve dalachinsky

for tuli kupferberg

Wed 18 Aug 2010

---

there will be a tribute to tuli on his birthday sept 28th at the living theater 7pm onward
free vent if you want more info back channeol dalachinsky

a walk to the butcher’s @ sunset (for tuli kupferberg)

there are strange animals that appear between light & dark dug at glass spilled on to the street & overall the bit of dense crochet the patterns of square content / square in square shape of body in black thru the window of a bar square in square
each pane intact / ready to be splintered here a milestone of visions exquisite rules of the gone broken as the corpse itself is divested of age finally (of) death
sharp pains & grandly groomed
the body no more than the thing itself a rug & once you wrapped around/inside it but oh how it looks & feels (as i feel) like you strands of hair & air tangled in quiet invisibility & you the thing itself & pardon me if i divest myself of all but the CARRY of what remains of the skelter in the cold cold flesh the step before one’s bones will gleam a bit inside yer crazy coat the pinks aghast @ what seems chilly but remarks the silken truthes there is still the color of your living scalp claps for all the stretching fold-weeselves inta candles & photographs of us always pro verbs

vencano chura virgin I uh vencano chura VIRGIN
la madria ah padria zynfoon dehla
eeefahna dark foliage ah morn place a relic ‘neath the neither & the nether of where-you–go-from- here light skin light objects glaring white surfaces of dark tables of light system is the time when system was & wasn’t it - undisputed – borscht & ball of matzo meal by all standards the gold standard no longer what it is or was black gloves & overcast sky & the cliché of rain at the graveyard sunsets missed in a matter of minutes as one turns one’s head the other way dug of glass pirt the woooobster aanawrite here where’s amorphous chug-a-lug the chachoo smog the zone sources actually reflected & sunsets too no longer valid til another sunset’s come & gone & you yer gone – but the big jive’s GIVE even that’s collapsed since no one’s there no longer to deflate it’s AllNess

SALAAAAAAAAAM & lick ‘em clean & break da breath be ver(y) age-wise as you are a-skin at the next stop was the cleaver clean whaaahood toward the FIN-ish

& as you leave us here to box with the empty fools
i have only one small thing to ask were the butchers like a team of surgeons or the surgeons more like THEM?

vencano chura virgin I uh vencano chura VIRGIN
la madria ah padria zynfoon dehla
eeefahna dark foliage ah morn

dalachinsky nyc 7/10

On Wed, 18 Aug 2010 12:56:19 -0700 Nick LoLordo <[redacted]>
writes:
> There was once(1) a subscriber named "Clark"

> Who would simply not tolerate snark.
> Her dudgeon rose high, til
> She clicked on "reply"--
> Clark's remarks missed their mark. We LIKE snark!
>
> (1) until very recently
>
> **********
>
> On Tue, Aug 17, 2010 at 9:11 AM, Hilary Clark
> <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> > Dear list,
> >
> > Snide attacks such as the limerick below are pathetic. Aren't all > members > > on this list free to make comments of the sort George Bowering > made? Or are > > some members more equal than others?
> >
> > I am unsubscribing from this list.
> >
> > Hilary Clark
> >
> > Stephen Baraban wrote:
> >
> >> One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota{h}to
> >> OR, The Argument Need not be Souring
> >>
> >>
> >> There now is a list-mate named Bowering,
> >> Who might think that the others are cowering;
> >> Though the offense be slight,
> >> If the usage ain't right,
> >> He'll rim-shot a scorn that is towering.
> >>
> >>
> >>
> >>
> >
> guidelines
> >

>
>
>
> --
> V. Nicholas LoLordo
> [redacted]
>
>
>

↑ Index

206. David Chirot

SLOVA #8 pdf--ongoing talk with/works by Chirot--some texts in English now on line--

Wed 18 Aug 2010

---

since so many are making announcements of their works appearing: here is one from d-bc:

this is a very very great honor & happiness for me to appear in SLOVA as Russian art, poetry, writing, cinema,dance has had an immense impact on me as person and writer/artist since very young when at 12 i first stumbled on Mayakovsky-- Russian Visual Poetry & Sound Poetry esp have had a profound effect on/with me-- i Thank with all my heart Gleb Kolomiets for all his work with me and also especially for his friendship and ongoing conversations via the mails-- and my Thanks to al the editors at SLOVA-- and to Michael Jacobson for introducing me to Gleb-- (there wil be solo show of my works in Russia also-- they already appeared in two traveleing group shows--one re Asemic works which Gleb did al the work on putting together, a prodigious task as dealing with red tape alone an exhausting endeavor in every way

The Russian journal SOVA #8 is now available as a pdf-- also some texts are available in English at the web site beginning on page 7 is the continuation of ongoing conversation/interview by Gleb Kolomiets & David Baptiste Chirot

throughout the issue there are great many works by Chirot

if interested, i can repost the announcement for SLOVA 7 in which the Kolomiets-Chirot conversation began--this issue has also many works by Chirot throughout and also works by Edward Kulemin, a Russian Visual Poet whose works i greatly like and respect-- both he and Gleb Kolomiets are among the Visual Poets in a forthcoming

Anthology from Openned.com which i was invited to edit/curate-- (they were invited long before i knew anything re SLOVA)

i recently received the print edition of SLOVA #7--a very impressive, professional and beautiful publication-- covers in color and everything printed on very high quality paper--with excellent layouts in the Russian tradition

Slova#8 - download free <http://www.scribd.com/word/view/35773282>
www.scribd.com

‘Slova’ (‘The words’ – name in English) is non-commercial and non-profit project. ‘Slova’ journal was established in 2007 to review radical and avant-garde tendencies in contemporary literature, ph... by slova_journal in Magazines/Newspapers, Philosophy, and poetry ‘Slova’ (‘The words’ – name in English) is non-commercial and non-profit project. ‘Slova’ journal was established in 2007 to review radical and avant-garde tendencies in contemporary literature, philosophy and art. In 2009 ‘Slova’ was registered in ISSN international centre. Artists, literati an...

some texts from SLOVA now available at the website slova.uuuq.com

↑ Index

207. marc vincenz
Re: Comments in Chinese
Wed 18 Aug 2010

Plenty of Chinese SPAM novels out there. No seriously - I lived in Shanghai for over ten years. Some of the best fiction in China is web-based. In so far as censorship is concerned, I doubt that anything of serious merit could manage to navigate out of the Chinese government's spiderweb. That is, of course, unless you go through Hong Kong. Look at Google for Sun Tzu's sake. FYI, Wolf Totem was available online long before it got on to the bestsellers' list.

On 16 August 2010 17:52, Ann Bogle <[redacted]> wrote:

> I've been told that comments in Chinese to weblogs are "spam." I have deleted a few of those comments. Then I realized that they may not be spam but may be legitimate comments. I have begun to translate 14 of them using Babelfish. They seem to be wisdom sayings, such as this one: "The success may attract the friend, frustrates may test the friend." I'd like information -- > if anyone has experience -- about issues in Chinese blogging, including > censorship.

↑ Index

208. Hilary Clark
Re: One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota[h]to
Wed 18 Aug 2010

Who are "we"? This reply illustrates precisely what I said in my last post.

"Clark"

Nick LoLordo wrote:
> There was once(1) a subscriber named "Clark"
> Who would simply not tolerate snark.
> Her dudgeon rose high, til
> She clicked on "reply"--
> Clark's remarks missed their mark. We LIKE snark!
>
> (1) until very recently
>
> **********
>
> On Tue, Aug 17, 2010 at 9:11 AM, Hilary Clark <[redacted]> wrote:
>
>
>> Dear list,
>>
>> Snide attacks such as the limerick below are pathetic. Aren't all members >> on this list free to make comments of the sort George Bowering made? Or
are >> some members more equal than others?
>>
>> I am unsubscribing from this list.
>>
>> Hilary Clark
>>
>> Stephen Baraban wrote:
>>
>>
>>> One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota{h}to
>>> OR, The Argument Need not be Souring
>>>

>>>
>>> There now is a list-mate named Bowering,
>>> Who might think that the others are cowering;
>>> Though the offense be slight,
>>> If the usage ain't right,
>>> He'll rim-shot a scorn that is towering.
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>
>>
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

209. michael farrell
Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
Wed 18 Aug 2010

---

jared / alan

i think i was probably unclear in several ways

jared my post as a whole wasnt addressed to you ..yr post just set me off on a train (buggy, piece of wood sliding downhill

my line about saying something not related to politics was not 'aimed' at this list or anyone on it .. but was a joke interview question that a journalist might ask a politician just as a way of scrutinising their tone & seeing if they cd come up with a better one: a workshop question

i used the word politics too reductively ..'politician' wdve been more accurate

> Date: Wed, 18 Aug 2010 12:46:35 -0700
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
> To: [redacted]
>
> Jared, I hope you'll excuse my most recent (glib) sound/bite. I'm afraid I have no idea how to address the question of what may or may not be relevant in poetry or what could possibly be considered a "relevant poetry." I was at a lose when I saw the post concerning the Renewel of Spirtitually in contemporary poetics. Poetry, after all, is a thing of the spirit, yes? So why must it be renewed? Of course, it would be nice if more poets addressed the urgent concerns of the day rather than dwell exclusively on private matters. Yeats was very active in Irish politics. Ditto Pound (though not Irish issues ... & too bad he...), Eliot (too bad he, too...), and Lawrence (my favorite writer/poet/period). The word Relevant frightens me. When I hear it, I quickly become a Beckett tramp -- I ask myself, "Am I beginning to Mean Something." I'm simply not prepared for the burden of even considering what is or isn't relevant in contemporary art & poetry.

Consider: I'm presently listening to a beautiful Jeff Beck lick from the late 70s. & it strikes me as prefectly relevant. Why? Because it's beautiful. & what makes it beautiful? Because Beck has mastered the tools of his trade and plays beautifully.

Enjoyed your post. Take care --

--- On Sat, 8/14/10, Jared Schickling <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Jared Schickling <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
To: [redacted]
Date: Saturday, August 14, 2010, 1:38 AM

Dear Steve, Alan, and whomever else,

your posts –

Taking Steve's idea of the present / nearing "End," and everything that suggests, as a baseline proposition—and less concerned with the accuracy of a truth than a thinking sensibility—much less any washed set of theory that doesn't offer something we've missed—how is one to think of a relevant poetry? What would a relevant poetry be? What is a relevant poetry? Affirmation and change and hope and things of that ilk don't seem to go anywhere—as according to the proposition they are inaccurate. Yet one persists insisting…

A far-flung surrealism is acutely popular, and so would be
apparently perceived as somehow relevant.
And yet so is a staunch eco poetic.
Alan's post of xenophobia, corruption and broken glass alongside the systematicity of Pantomime Ape of Free Will speaks, perhaps, to where the two cohabitate. Nature nurtured.

In the end, and without much argument, I'm inclined to see this as formal questions. CA Conrad's recent brief "review" at Futurepost is peculiar, even if I'm quite possibly overstating my case, but it has me wondering:

"The term 'Identity Politics' is bad enough. It's meant to annihilate the efforts of those who literally bled for the room they made for us all. 'Identity Politics' makes a joke of it. It says that all it ever was was wallowing in the filth and conspiracy of politics, a game, it's all just been a game."

While we do know politics would hardly change (have changed) without politics. Part of the public social artist's civil agenda is to force action, political. Using, as with more faith in, artistic, biologic means of a-political, corrosive substance. Any blood, here, IS identity politics. Conrad's joke is perverse because, as I read it, it can't achieve itself, so that it does. It is literal in its bleeding, sur-real and eco-logical, like a complete thought about the body.

And yet I don't think the passage, nor a review that "wipes me out" for that matter ("evie"'s reply), has intended this. It seems to bear the burden of its own conviction.

(Here I should suggest the value of all this. Well, upon now thinking about this which is something I wasn't thinking about before, today I resisted not tossing some recyclables. And I apologized to someone for something. And cleaned up the dog in the neighbor's yard. Etc, coincidence perhaps. Which would be such work to parcel out. Also against the original proposition. Einstein's > definition of insanity.)

>
> How is such a method, a process unintentional, defeated yet conjured, > to be systemized, formalized, etc & et al discussed, articulated? In a relevant way?
>
> Just a question.
> Available on or off list.

↑ Index

210. Mary Kasimor

Re: from forthcoming "Bob Dylan in America:" Chapter Two--published in New Yorker--Dylan & the Beats--

Wed 18 Aug 2010

I grew up in MInnesota in the 1960's. I remember when a friend's older sister turned us on to Dylan--even though we didn't necessarily understand what he was doing, we knew that what he was doing was very important and big. He still takes my breath away.

Mary

--- On Wed, 8/18/10, David Chirot <[redacted]> wrote:

From: David Chirot <[redacted]>
Subject: from forthcoming "Bob Dylan in America:" Chapter Two--published in New Yorker--Dylan & the Beats--
To: [redacted]
Date: Wednesday, August 18, 2010, 3:22 PM

very good excerpt--(makes one want to read the entire book--which is quite something today with the glut of dylan tomes--) entire chapter--from this upcoming book, published in the new yorker-- great fotos, too!--

just recently many books have picked up have come across the same quotes (real or no) of dylan re his first reading of kerouac's Mexico City Blues (in 1959--) and immense effect Jean-Lous Lebris Kerouac had on him--as wel as his long involvements with Allen G--excellentÂ background history on the various trains of influence out of the many forms of American Radicalism from the Wobblies on--and involvements of Kerouac and Ginsberg with these--and its differing from the Radicalism of the folk scene from which dylan first emerged--(in the opening paragraphs--the effects on Kerouac and via him back to/fowardÂ from Copland score for Steinbeck's Of Mice and Men, directed by Lewis Milestone (great name, so so director--)--the conjunction of a popular culture film score out of Copland's forms of modernism--to showing up in chorus in mexico City Blues--to Desotlaion Row--to Ginsberg--very wel done and illuminating facts history along the way-- the discussion here (poetics list)Â re --barely at any rate--social & political and poetry--makes it al the more intersting to read this fine excerpt-- onwo/ards!

david-bc

â€œBob Dylan in America<http://www.amazon.com/Bob-Dylan-America-Sean-Wilentz/dp/0385529880>,â€ by the historian Sean Wilentz <http://seanwilentz.com/>, will be published in September by Doubleday. The following excerpt is Chapter 2 of the book. Penetrating Aether: The Beat Generation and Allen Ginsbergâ€™s America by Sean Wilentz

Read more
http://www.newyorker.com/online/blogs/newsdesk/2010/08/sean-wilentz-bob-dylan-in-america.html#ixzz0woewN1Kz

↑ Index

211. Crane's Bill Books

Re: One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota[h]to

Wed 18 Aug 2010

It's sad to see poets reduced to trading limericks. Shouldn't we at least be firing off supremely elegant and withering hendecasyllables? Jeffrey

----- Original Message -----
From: "Stephen Baraban" <[redacted]>
To: <[redacted]>
Sent: Monday, August 16, 2010 12:43 PM
Subject: One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota[h]to

> One Writes Potatoe, Another Writes Pota{h}to
> OR, The Argument Need not be Souring
>
> There now is a list-mate named Bowering,
> Who might think that the others are cowering;
> Though the offense be slight,
> If the usage ain't right,
> He'll rim-shot a scorn that is towering.

↑ Index

212. Jim Andrews

Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium

Thu 19 Aug 2010

I think the world changed a great deal from Romanticism through Modernism, Murat. The nomination statement implies Modernism and Romanticism barely differ, if you read it. Because Romanticism preceded Modernism, of course the antecedants of the Modern era can usually be found in Romanticism or among the Victorians. But the nominating statement does not acknowlege the deep originality of the Modern era--an originality borne from unprecedented global turmoil, the rise of the middle class in both Europe and North America, unprecedented scientific and technological advance, and deep conviction in the power and value of language, art, and science despite the tragic conditions that prevailed through much of Modernism. Such as World War I, the Spanish Flu that followed (which killed millions world-wide), the great (global) depression of the thirties, and World War II.

ja
http://vispo.com

> Jim,
>
> Nobody I think is denying what you are saying. The statement mere states that the seeds, origins of many of these changes, the forces that propelled them, came into being during the Romantic period -in my opinion, mostly through its visionary side.
>
> Ciao,
>
> Murat

> On Wed, Aug 18, 2010 at 3:04 PM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> The nominating statement for Poems for the Millennium reads as follows:
>
> "Modernism rejected Romanticism in the way that one political leader rejects another-not because it is any different but because it wishes to win the same audience. This book demonstrates that the only thing that happened in Modernism was that a door opened onto still another aspect of the immense cultural experiment that Romanticism was-or as Rothenberg and Robinson might insist, as Romanticisms were (are). Central issues were what Rousseau called conscience de soi, self-awareness (but a self-awareness which deliberately did not separate itself from 'world'), a new interest in ethnicity and the local, and a shift from thinking of poetry as a 'craft' and of the poet as 'maker,' to thinking of it as a provoker of consciousness-even a creator of consciousness-and of the poet as Bard, Shaman. To know the work so carefully, lovingly and brilliantly assembled in this book is to know ourselves in a new and newly conscious way."

↑ Index

213. Jeffrey Side

The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is "Symphony No. 2" by Ric Carfagna

Thu 19 Aug 2010

The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is "Symphony No. 2" by Ric Carfagna:

Description:

"Symphony No. 2" by Ric Carfagna (and a follow-up to his "Symphony No. 1") is a work not to be construed as a symphony in a strictly classical sense, as is the case with the symphonic forms of works by Mozart or Haydn, but more along the lines of works by obtuse unwieldy 20th century composers such as Norgard, Nystroem, Segerstam and Pettersson. It comprises not so much of thematic elements as it does the repetition of images in differing contexts. It starts off with a burst of dissonance then settles down into a placid, surreal, disjunctive utterance. It also attempts to conjure up the ghosts of cubist poetry (a short lived and little known poetic phenomena) with Carfagnaâ€™s own idiosyncratic spin on it.

Available as a free ebook here:

http://www.lulu.com/product/ebook/symphony-no-2/12297253

↑ Index

214. Robin Hamilton
Edwin Morgan
Thu 19 Aug 2010

Edwin Morgan has died, at the age of 90.

http://www.guardian.co.uk/books/2010/aug/19/edwin-morgan-scotland-national-poet

It's difficult to know what to say. I was one of his students at Glasgow in the sixties, so my knowledge of him and his work goes back over forty years.

A towering presence, whose stature increased in the course of years.

Two endings of poems:

'From time the souvenirs are deeds.'
--"From the Domain of Arnheim"

' -- Of course, but nothing is ever the same.
now is it? You'll remember Mercury.'
-- "The First Men on Mercury"

Robin Hamilton

↑ Index

215. Mairead Byrne
edwin morgan bright star
Thu 19 Aug 2010

---

scots makar / translator / energizer / brightest star

http://www.guardian.co.uk/books/2010/aug/19/edwin-morgan-scotland-national-poet

--
http://www.whatsleftofheaven.com/

↑ Index

216. Jared Schickling
Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
Thu 19 Aug 2010

Stephen B. I'd suggest that something identifiable as "love," passionate love, is not possible without anger, hatred, well-placed hatred. Knowing hell to know heaven. That's a buddhist principle. I would prefer Blake. And I'll bet the inimitable George Bowering can take it just fine. I'll bet he knows his use of the term "mediocrities" holds water.

Steve R. There's no need for me to excuse your remark though I appreciate your concern. Thank you. The truth is holistically there's dog in the yard to be cleaned up—the value of such fiction's framing is that we begin, perhaps, to see China's Guiyu not just from or as or relatable to America but it. Which is to say, there in your mirror, mine, it.

Michael F. I can empathize with not wanting to squirm. If we can agree that it's just peachy for the wonders (such a popular word today) of poems and poet trees to go on sprouting the wonders of bubbles as larger actual worlds, literally, die …we do know what species of bear whale tuna tiger gorilla dog lake weed culture insect ice cap etc etc etc will be gone in the lifetimes of anyone around in another 40 years, right? … and role WE've played, right … and if we're willing to call every purposeful artist and critic hell bent on evolution, as opposed to stagnation, a "politician" … then yes, politics is something crass to art. I've also attended the poetry workshop.

I should probably substantiate that some of the above
actually exists but this doesn't seem the appropriate forum. Plus who am I to judge lol.

Steve R, the word "relevant" is indeed uncertainly frightening. ED's idea about coming at it from the angle – that to somehow get to it one skirts the issue, writes and reads around it – "it" specifically loose here – connotation (vast, inclusive words) versus denotation (unending, drooling words). And I appreciate your honesty, "I'm simply not prepared for the burden of even considering what is or isn't relevant…" My friend C once poked and prodded his old Navy buddy to run naked with him through Joshua Tree. Poked and prodded for days and then, "C, I'm just not psychologically prepared." That undeniability promptly ended the prodding.

I also couldn't disagree more about beauty depending on mastering tools. Or, more precisely, that it depends on something vocational.

You have a point but when I hear this I hear stifling specializations. "Learn the scales,
then forget them." The dog in the yard is beautiful because of what it is—the fact of the dog plus that which I hadn't seen in it [sic] before. In fact beauty and wonder would seem to depend more fully on realizing error – the admission of duncery. But I think part of the trouble here would be agreeing on how we're using the term "beautiful." I'd suggest there's two kinds of beauty (and probably more) – and sticking to guitar players – on the one hand, of the sort John McLaughlin produced in Miles Davis's basement that drove all those critics
nuts – in short, there is beauty somehow in loss / thwarting of expectation, the re-discovery of something thought understood (in this case, "music"). I don't know how to define that beauty other than as that, which is of course in line with the definition. The other is based upon all kinds of factors that lead one to just like blue, where one brings to materials and artifacts and performances his and her expectations and expects them to be fulfilled albeit in novel ways, nonetheless the fulfilling of expectation, anticipation, etc. As if memory were involved. Not "what" you get, as the "what" is prefab, but "how" you get there. A diverting beauty. The blues-model, you might say.

And, to end on the correct note—I have enjoyed your post, and all of them.

Jared

↑ Index

217. Murat Nemet-Nejat

Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium

Fri 20 Aug 2010

Jim, the answer depend to which aspect of the Romantic movement you are looking at. German Romanticism and accompanying philosophies and poetries (and also Blake in the English side) have as much to do with the Modern World as anything else. The difference is that that aspect has resulted in a more jaundiced view of progress than your view of the unadulterated glories of modernism. Look at Hegel and Benjamin, or Hegel and Marx, or Nietzsche and Wagner and Nazism. One can not have one without the other. The 20th Century has also one of the most atrocious, blood thirsty periods in human history, its great scientific and intellectual achievements (and I will not deny those achievements are real) making these blood thirty impulses more efficient.

I am aware that I am extending the definition of Romanticism back to the end of 18th century and moving it away from a English focus; but the Millennium anthology is doing the same thing.

Anyhow, one should not forget, the Industrial Revolution is one of the creators of Romanicism or that Romanticism in the States took the shape of Transcendentalism (with deep connections to German and Eastern ideas), Thoreau, Melvillle, Hawthorne and Dickinson -in many ways, quintessential modern figures.

Romanticism is not merely Wordsworth's late pablum poetry; but of his Preludes, as radical a poem as ever has been one; of Blake, of Keats's Odes, etc.

Ciao,

Murat

On Thu, Aug 19, 2010 at 12:17 AM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

> I think the world changed a great deal from Romanticism through Modernism, Murat. The nomination statement implies Modernism and Romanticism barely differ, if you read it. Because Romanticism preceded Modernism, of course the antecedants of the Modern era can usually be found in Romanticism or among the Victorians. But the nominating statement does not acknowlege the deep originality of the Modern era--an originality borne from unprecedented global turmoil, the rise of the middle class in both Europe and North America, unprecedented scientific and technological advance, and deep conviction in the power and value of language, art, and science despite the tragic conditions that prevailed through much of Modernism. Such as World War I, the Spanish Flu that followed (which killed millions world-wide), the great (global) depression of the thirties, and World War II.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
>
> Jim,
>
> Nobody I think is denying what you are saying. The statement mere states that the seeds, origins of many of these changes, the forces that propelled > them, came into being during the Romantic period -in my opinion, mostly through its visionary side.
>
> Ciao,

> Murat
>
> On Wed, Aug 18, 2010 at 3:04 PM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> The nominating statement for Poems for the Millennium reads as follows:
>
> "Modernism rejected Romanticism in the way that one political leader rejects another-not because it is any different but because it wishes to win the same audience. This book demonstrates that the only thing that happened in Modernism was that a door opened onto still another aspect of the immense cultural experiment that Romanticism was-or as Rothenberg and Robinson might insist, as Romanticisms were (are). Central issues were what Rousseau called conscience de soi, self-awareness (but a self-awareness which deliberately did not separate itself from 'world'), a new interest in ethnicity and the local, and a shift from thinking of poetry as a 'craft' and of the poet as 'maker,' to thinking of it as a provoker of consciousness-even a creator of consciousness-and of the poet as Bard, Shaman. To know the work so carefully, lovingly and brilliantly assembled in this book is to know ourselves in a new and newly conscious way."

↑ Index

218. David Chirot

re Ground Zero tolerance/intolerance: Tahar Djouat &Abdellatif Laabi-- Demolitions, dispossession, displacement

Fri 20 Aug 2010

In the immense loudness of the immense hate & lies surrounding one non-stop in the US media-- --loudness, repetition & the Big Lie all going together as Hitler remarked-- i find myself listening --though Jack Spicer (to whom one is of course paradoxically listening)--says "no one listens to poetry anymore"- i find myself listening to two poets, Tahar Djaout & Abdellatif Laabi, the first who lived, wrote, risked & died, the second who writes, risks and was imprisoned-- as voices, poetry, very much of these times--for their guidance, example-- poets in the US one often finds saying that they are "taking risks in their writing"-- is it "risks" that one takes when this is the approved mode? are there not other risks one might be called--or forced-- to take, if taking seriously and listening seriously to the immense lies & hate inundating the "communications" environment--

I have wondered, thought about, studied available information, for a long time if decades of the US support, funding and arming of events such as described in the two articles received from Jewish Peace News linked below-- have not steadily eroded a resistance to such events, actions, attitudes occurring within the USA. Denying and supporting at the same time such actions and attitudes, has this not created an atmosphere in which since 9/11 what is now crystallized by the hysteria over the Mosque/Cultural Center at Ground Zero --whipped up for politcal expedience without thinking of where, to what terrible things this may only too tragically lead to--is allowed to grow in strength, in irrationality, in a hatred which can spiral out of control?

(from the first of the two articles linked to below, re Ground Zero "Ramadan Kareem from the Netanyahu and Obama Administrations" http://www.icahd.org/?p=5994 by Jeff Halper of the Israeli Committee Against Home Demolitions: : Now some 1,500 Muslim graves have been cleared in several nighttime operations to make way for.....a $100 million Museum of Tolerance and Human Dignity, a project of the Simon Wiesenthal Center in Los Angeles. (Ironically, Rabbi Marvin Hier, the Wiesenthal Center's Director, appeared on Fox News to express his opposition to the construction of a mosque near Ground Zero in Manhattan, because the site of the 9/11 attack "is a cemetery.")

Already so many of the policies the USA uses itself and supports abroad regarding torture, detention, rendition, security, surveillance, secrecy, ethnic cleansing, the super cession & ignoring of both US and International law are being turned inward, to be used within the USA on "illegal aliens," on protesters, activists, the Muslim community, and the enormous backward turn in the treatment of American Indians, that the boundaries have been crossed as to what is considered as Human Rights. communication rather than assassination. Genocide & slavery are not that far distant in American history that their hideous legacies, continuing to smolder, are only all to easily encouraged and allowed to "come back to life" in all manner of deadly forms and expressions. Turning blind eyes to what is supported abroad, erodes & dims the perceptions of what happens "at home." In fact, the support & encouragement of such actions, attitudes, makes them all the more readily able to spring into action "here." Hidden in plain site,sight, cite things which have been ever more accomodated, rendered perfectly acceptable for many, are not really noticed at all until the edge is reached, or that situation where it is "too late." The history of the 20th century is one in which just such events occurred, in which groups of persons were singled out and made to bear the horror of the full brunt of hatred, intolerance, genocide. The McCarthy years, as often noted in the French and British news groups and journals' writing of the "new McCarthyism" in the USA of the last few decades, have already returned, as well as the horrific period of the Palmer Raids, out of which emerged the FBI. The ease with which such transformations may occur, "even in democractic countries," is brilliantly presented in The Last Summer of Reason, by the Algerian Moghrebi poet, journalist and novelist Tahar Djaout (1954-93). Leaving for work one fine morning, Djaout was dragged from his and gunned down in front of his house by extremists. Already in this country, during the Primaries in various states, Tea Party & other agitators, extremists, were advocating attacking elected Representives in front of their homes. Djaout famously wrote:

.Silence is death. / If you are silent you are dead, / And if you speak you are dead, / So speak and die.

The great Morrocan poet Abdellatif Laabi, himself imprisoned 8 years in his country before exile in France, writes in The World's Embrace Selected Poems (City Lights, 2003,in French & English: translations by Anne George, Edris Makward, Victor Reinking & Pierre Joris):*

*
*I risk speaking of my darkness
I am wrapped in darkness
and do not beg for deliverance
I will live inside this chaos
furnish it like a cell
make a bed with the straw of my books*

and:

*Tell me what you see
Are they burning books in public squares
Are they shaving women's heads before stoning them
Are there processions of hooded men waving crosses and scimitars
Why are you silent, my beloved
Are we on a floating island
or drifting on a torpedo
Are we alone
or chained to other brothers of misfortune*

Abdellatif Laabi in "The Earth Opens and Welcomes You," a poem dedicated to Tahar Djaout, written but not published until ten years later, sings:

*Sleep well my friend
Sleep the sleep of the just Get some rest, even from your dreams
let us for awhile carry the burden*

Jack Spicer wrote that "No one listens to poetry;" one might ask oneself if by this Spicer is not saying that no one hears poetry, but that even in hearing, reading, "no one is listening"--

In times like these, with the examples of such poets as Tahar Djaout & Abdellatif Laabi, to truly LISTEN to poetry that "risk(s) speaking of (my) darkness" is of the utmost importance, a matter risking indeed silence, life and death-- for, if one listens, are not "we" facing these same questions, may one not be called to take such risks as not being truly listened to, perhaps even to the point of life & death for so many around one--

"*Are we on a floating island
or drifting on a torpedo
Are we alone
or chained to other brothers of misfortune"*

Jewish Peace News:

With the tacit agreement of the US administration, Netanyahu has recently okayed increased home demolitions throughout the West Bank, followed by the destruction of an entire village in the Negev. Demolitions, dispossession and displacement by Israel continue both beyond and within the "green line."

The first report and analysis below "Ramadan Kareem from the Netanyahu and Obama Administrations"

http://www.icahd.org/?p=5994 <http://www.icahd.org/?p=5994%20>

is authored by Jeff Halper of the Israeli Committee Against Home Demolitions; the second

(This article originally appeared on the Ynet news portal on August 9th, 2010:) http://www.ynet.co.il/articles/0,7340,L-3930888,00.html

- translated by Dena Shunra [http://hebrew.shunra.net/]

is by Haia Noah, an researcher and activist with the Negev Civil Equality and Coexistence Forum.

Rela Mazali

Jewish Peace News editors:
Joel Beinin

Racheli Gai
Rela Mazali
Sarah Anne Minkin
Judith Norman
Lincoln Z. Shlensky
Rebecca Vilkomerson
Alistair Welchman

Jewish Peace News archive and blog: http://jewishpeacenews.blogspot.com
---
Jewish Peace News sends its news clippings only to subscribers. To subscribe, unsubscribe, or manage your subscription, go to http://www.jewishpeacenews.net

↑ Index

219. steve dalachinsky
Re: MOSQUES, CHURCHES, APES, CESSPOOLS
Fri 20 Aug 2010

---

blake was great but if ya read carefully was unwittingly(?) an anti-semite
On Thu, 19 Aug 2010 16:10:34 -0600 Jared Schickling
<[redacted]> writes:
> Stephen B. I'd suggest that something > identifiable as "love," passionate love, is not possible without > anger, hatred, > well-placed hatred. Knowing hell to > know heaven. That's a buddhist > principle. I would prefer Blake. And I'll bet the inimitable
> George Bowering
> can take it just fine. I'll bet he > knows his use of the term "mediocrities" holds water.
>
>
>
> Steve R. There's no > need for me to excuse your remark though I appreciate your concern.
> Thank you.
> The truth is holistically there's dog in the yard to be cleaned > up—the > value of such fiction's framing is that we begin, perhaps, to see > China's Guiyu

> not just from or as or relatable to America but it. Which is to > say, there in your mirror, mine, it.
>
>
>
> Michael F. I can
> empathize with not wanting to squirm.
> If we can agree that it's just peachy for the wonders (such a > popular > word today) of poems and poet trees to go on sprouting the wonders > of bubbles
> as larger actual worlds, literally, die …we do know what species of > bear whale
> tuna tiger gorilla dog lake weed culture insect ice cap etc etc etc > will be > gone in the lifetimes of anyone around in another 40 years, right? …
> and role
> WE've played, right … and if we're willing to call every purposeful > artist and > critic hell bent on evolution, as opposed to stagnation, a > "politician" … then > yes, politics is something crass to art.
> I've also attended the poetry workshop.
>
>
>
>
> I should probably substantiate that some of the above > actually exists but this doesn't seem the appropriate forum. Plus > who am I to judge lol.
>
>
>
> Steve R, the word "relevant" is indeed uncertainly frightening.
> ED's idea about coming at it from the angle > – that to somehow get to it one skirts the issue, writes and reads > around it –
> "it" specifically loose here – connotation (vast, inclusive words) > versus > denotation (unending, drooling words).
> And I appreciate your honesty, "I'm simply not prepared for the > burden > of even considering what is or isn't relevant…" My friend C once > poked and prodded his old Navy buddy to run > naked with him through Joshua Tree.

> Poked and prodded for days and then, "C, I'm just not > psychologically > prepared." That undeniability promptly > ended the prodding.
>
>
>
> I also couldn't disagree more about beauty depending on > mastering tools. Or, more precisely,
> that it depends on something vocational.
> You have a point but when I hear this I hear stifling
> specializations. "Learn the scales,
> then forget them." The dog in the yard > is beautiful because of what it is—the fact of the dog plus that > which I hadn't > seen in it [sic] before. In fact beauty > and wonder would seem to depend more fully on realizing error – the > admission
> of duncery. But I think part of the > trouble here would be agreeing on how we're using the term > "beautiful." I'd suggest there's two kinds of beauty (and > probably more) – and sticking to guitar players – on the one hand, > of the sort
> John McLaughlin produced in Miles Davis's basement that drove all > those critics > nuts – in short, there is beauty somehow in loss / thwarting of > expectation,
> the re-discovery of something thought understood (in this case,
> "music"). I don't know how to define that beauty other > than as that, which is of course in line with the definition. The > other is based upon all kinds of factors > that lead one to just like blue, where one brings to materials and > artifacts > and performances his and her expectations and expects them to be > fulfilled
> albeit in novel ways, nonetheless the fulfilling of expectation, > anticipation, > etc. As if memory were involved. Not "what" you get, as the "what"
> is prefab,

> but “how” you get there. A diverting > beauty. The blues-model, you might > say.
>
>
>
> And, to end on the correct note—I have enjoyed your > post, and all of them.
>
> Jared
>
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

220. amy king

OT -- LATEST POEMS @ POETS FOR LIVING WATERS

Fri 20 Aug 2010

WE CAR
Poets for Living Waters -- http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/

WE CARE ABOUT THE SMALL PEOPLE BY JULES BOYKOFF
THREE POEMS BY DAVID WOLACH
TWO POEMS BY JASON QUACKENBUSH
POEM FOR NANA BY JUNE JORDAN
TOLLBOOTH BY SARAH GREEN & LEORA FRIDMAN
TWO POEMS BY MICHAEL HETTICH
THREE POEMS BY DERRICK AUSTIN
EXCERPT FROM THE BOTTOM BY BETSY ANDREWS
HUSTLE AND BLOW BY BRETT EVANS
EARTH POEMS AND OIL SPILLS BY ALBERT B. CASUGA
REALLY PRETTY IMMATURE IF YOU THINK BY MIKE YOUNG
TWO POEMS BY SANDY TSENG
AGAIN AND AGAIN I MARRY THE EARTH BY AMIR HUSSAIN
TWO POEMS BY ELLEN WISE
TWO POEMS BY PAMELA VILLARS
THREE POEMS BY WENDY BROWN-BÃEZ
THERE IS NO WAY BACK BY PATRICIA MONAGHAN
TWO POEMS BY DONNA PECORE
THREE POEMS BY RICK REIBSTEIN

TWO POEMS BY SAMPSON STARKWEATHER
TWO POEMS BY ANNIE FINCH
WHEN THE ANSWER IS NO BY GWYN MCVAY
TWO POEMS BY ELIZABETH KATE SWITAJ
OIL ODE BY GARY BARWIN
WHEN IT RAINS, IT SNOWS BY NATHAN LOGAN
THREE POEMS BY GREG FUCHS
CONSIDERING OPTIONS FOR CONTROLLING THE BP BLOWOUT IN THE GULF OF MEXICO BY KRISTIN PREVALLET
WHAT IS YOUR PERSONAL CONNECTION TO THE OCEAN? BY MARY KRANE DERR
THREE POEMS BY ILONA MARTONFI
FROM GREEN THERAPEUTICS THIS WHALE BY HELLER LEVINSON
TWO POEMS BY MYL SCHULZ
BEYOND PETROLEUM BY ANA BOÅ½IÄŒEVIÄ†
THE BIRDS BY E. TRACY GRINNELL
TWO POEMS + VIDEO [MOURNING AND WITNESSING WALK FOR THE GULF COAST] BY CAROLYN ZAIKO
BP PT: A TOXIC TRYST BY NICKY TISO
WRECKONING BY AMANDA PARKER
TWO POEMS BY SARAH GREEN
TWO POEMS BY NAOMI LOWINSKY
HONORING WORLD OCEAN DAYâ€“DUBLIN, IRELAND ACTION
THREE POEMS BY DEBORAH MEADOWS
THREE POEMS BY RICHARD JEFFREY NEWMAN
A KIND OF SOLUTION BY DAN CHELOTTI
GEOMETRY BY BARBARA STRASKO
THREE POEMS BY RICHARD OYAMA
WATER OFF A DUCKâ€™S BY ERIN VIRGIL
THREE POEMS BY SHELLY TAYLOR
TWO POEMS BY LESLIE MCGRATH
TWO POEMS BY TREY MOORE
THREE POEMS BY ARISA WHITE
COAST FUNERAL BY ABE LOUISE YOUNG
SOME LIVES OF WATER BY DAN FEATHERSTON
THREE POEMS BY TRINA BURKE
AN ESSAY BY DANA GUTHRIE MARTIN
CRAW-DADDY BY REBECCA ANNE RENNER
MOMMY, CAN I HAVE THE BP OIL SPILL FOR XMAS? BY K. SILEM MOHAMMAD

PROSTRATE BY BRIGITTE GOETZE
COMPLAINT BY DANIEL LIN
TWO POEMS BY VIVEK SHARMA
JUNE 4â€”THE DOW CLOSES DOWN 9931 BY SUSAN BRIANTE
A SURVIVOR STATE BY JOHN LAMBREMONT, SR.
TWO POEMS BY GREG SANTOS
CLEMENS AND ANNA BY LOUIS E. BOURGEOIS
THE GULF OF I STATEMENTS: WATER EXPERIMENT #1 BY JILL MAGI
WE LIVE IN A PERMANENT STATE OF CLEAN UP BY JOSHUA SCHUSTER
LETTER FOR UP NORTH ASSOCIATES BY BRIAN BOYLES
THREE POEMS BY REBECCA FOUST / ART BY LORNA STEVENS
LEAKING OIL WELL AS LUNCHTIME ENTERTAINMENT AT MY HUSBANDâ€™S HI-TECH COMPANY BY PENELOPE SCHOTT
REQUIEM FOR A CEO BY JENNE ANDREWS
PRESS RELEASE: 10 JUNE 2010 BY JULIE L. MOORE
THREE POEMS BY KAMAU RUCKER
TWO POEMS BY STACY G. ERICSON
DEMOLISH A SMALL GROVE BY REBECCA KINZIE BASTIAN
THREE POEMS BY CURTIS JENSEN
TWO POEMS BY SHAUN Oâ€™REILLY
THREE POEMS BY JAMES BRUSH
FOUR POEMS BY CARLA MARTIN-WOOD
THREE POEMS BY AMY DRYANSKY
DEEPWATER BY SAEED JONES
THREE POEMS BY MATTHEW GAVIN FRANK
TWO POEMS BY LOUIE CREW
TWO POEMS BY JASON CRANE
THREE POEMS BY MIKE ESPANA-MCGEEHON
I AM A NATURAL WONDER BY ANNE CECELIA HOLMES & LILY LADEWIG
WITHOUT REPRESENTATION BY RITA BANERJEE
A CENTO OF THE GARBAGE PATCH BY BRAD RICHARD
THREE POEMS BY MACKENZIE CARIGNAN
TO CORPORATE HEADQUARTERSâ€¦A MEMO BY MARA BUCK
MOURNING BY KIRSTEN OGDEN
THE SEA GODDESS TELLS HIS STORY BY CHRISTINE SWINT
TWO POEMS BY TIMOTHY PILGRIM
TWO POEMS BY MARIE-ELIZABETH MALI
FROM THE UNFINISHED BY MARK DUCHARME
SUMMER VACATION BY SUSAN BROWNE
A POETRY ACTION BY MATTHEW FALK
LETTER #1, TO THE CONSCIENCE EMBODIED BY RICHARD HAMILTON

JULY POEM BY KATHLEEN OSSIP
TWO POEMS BY MICHAEL ROTHENBERG
BURNING WATER BY MINNIE-BRUCE PRATT
DOLPHIN ISLAND BY RANDY BATES
MY LOUISIANA LOVE BY ANNE BARNGROVER

Poets for Living Waters -- http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/ Latest article in Poets and Writers, "Poets Act on Oil Spill" -- http://www.pw.org/content/poets_act_on_oil_spill

****

Now That's WAC
+ http://wearechampion.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-king.html

Amy's Alias
+ http://amyking.org/
****

↑ Index

221. Ruth Lepson
Re: OT -- LATEST POEMS @ POETS FOR LIVING WATERS
Fri 20 Aug 2010

---

it's very moving that you're doing this, Amy--I know its debatable whether political poetry changes anything & that is a huge subject--am reading Mark Scroggins' wonderful bio of Zukofsky now & that comes up in his life often--but it's necessary for those who rea this to know that the poetry community is at least thinking about what is happening to our planet.

On 8/20/10 1:58 PM, "amy king" <[redacted]> wrote:

> WE CAR
> Poets for Living Waters -- http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/
>
> WE CARE ABOUT THE SMALL PEOPLE BY JULES BOYKOFF
> THREE POEMS BY DAVID WOLACH
> TWO POEMS BY JASON QUACKENBUSH
> POEM FOR NANA BY JUNE JORDAN
> TOLLBOOTH BY SARAH GREEN & LEORA FRIDMAN
> TWO POEMS BY MICHAEL HETTICH
> THREE POEMS BY DERRICK AUSTIN
> EXCERPT FROM THE BOTTOM BY BETSY ANDREWS
> HUSTLE AND BLOW BY BRETT EVANS
> EARTH POEMS AND OIL SPILLS BY ALBERT B. CASUGA
> REALLY PRETTY IMMATURE IF YOU THINK BY MIKE YOUNG
> TWO POEMS BY SANDY TSENG
> AGAIN AND AGAIN I MARRY THE EARTH BY AMIR HUSSAIN

TWO POEMS BY ELLEN WISE
TWO POEMS BY PAMELA VILLARS
THREE POEMS BY WENDY BROWN-BÁEZ
THERE IS NO WAY BACK BY PATRICIA MONAGHAN
TWO POEMS BY DONNA PECORE
THREE POEMS BY RICK REIBSTEIN
TWO POEMS BY SAMPSON STARKWEATHER
TWO POEMS BY ANNIE FINCH
WHEN THE ANSWER IS NO BY GWYN MCVAY
TWO POEMS BY ELIZABETH KATE SWITAJ
OIL ODE BY GARY BARWIN
WHEN IT RAINS, IT SNOWS BY NATHAN LOGAN
THREE POEMS BY GREG FUCHS
CONSIDERING OPTIONS FOR CONTROLLING THE BP BLOWOUT IN THE GULF OF MEXICO BY KRISTIN PREVALLET
WHAT IS YOUR PERSONAL CONNECTION TO THE OCEAN? BY MARY KRANE DERR
THREE POEMS BY ILONA MARTONFI
FROM GREEN THERAPEUTICS THIS WHALE BY HELLER LEVINSON
TWO POEMS BY MYL SCHULZ
BEYOND PETROLEUM BY ANA BO®IÈEVIÆ
THE BIRDS BY E. TRACY GRINNELL
TWO POEMS + VIDEO [MOURNING AND WITNESSING WALK FOR THE GULF COAST] BY CAROLYN ZAIKO
BP PT: A TOXIC TRYST BY NICKY TISO
WRECKONING BY AMANDA PARKER
TWO POEMS BY SARAH GREEN
TWO POEMS BY NAOMI LOWINSKY
HONORING WORLD OCEAN DAY-DUBLIN, IRELAND ACTION
THREE POEMS BY DEBORAH MEADOWS
THREE POEMS BY RICHARD JEFFREY NEWMAN
A KIND OF SOLUTION BY DAN CHELOTTI
GEOMETRY BY BARBARA STRASKO
THREE POEMS BY RICHARD OYAMA
WATER OFF A DUCK'S BY ERIN VIRGIL
THREE POEMS BY SHELLY TAYLOR
TWO POEMS BY LESLIE MCGRATH
TWO POEMS BY TREY MOORE
THREE POEMS BY ARISA WHITE
COAST FUNERAL BY ABE LOUISE YOUNG
SOME LIVES OF WATER BY DAN FEATHERSTON
THREE POEMS BY TRINA BURKE
AN ESSAY BY DANA GUTHRIE MARTIN
CRAW-DADDY BY REBECCA ANNE RENNER
MOMMY, CAN I HAVE THE BP OIL SPILL FOR XMAS? BY K. SILEM MOHAMMAD
PROSTRATE BY BRIGITTE GOETZE

COMPLAINT BY DANIEL LIN
TWO POEMS BY VIVEK SHARMA
JUNE 4--THE DOW CLOSES DOWN 9931 BY SUSAN BRIANTE
A SURVIVOR STATE BY JOHN LAMBREMONT, SR.
TWO POEMS BY GREG SANTOS
CLEMENS AND ANNA BY LOUIS E. BOURGEOIS
THE GULF OF I STATEMENTS: WATER EXPERIMENT #1 BY JILL MAGI
WE LIVE IN A PERMANENT STATE OF CLEAN UP BY JOSHUA SCHUSTER
LETTER FOR UP NORTH ASSOCIATES BY BRIAN BOYLES
THREE POEMS BY REBECCA FOUST / ART BY LORNA STEVENS
LEAKING OIL WELL AS LUNCHTIME ENTERTAINMENT AT MY HUSBAND'S HI-TECH COMPANY BY PENELOPE SCHOTT
REQUIEM FOR A CEO BY JENNE ANDREWS
PRESS RELEASE: 10 JUNE 2010 BY JULIE L. MOORE
THREE POEMS BY KAMAU RUCKER
TWO POEMS BY STACY G. ERICSON
DEMOLISH A SMALL GROVE BY REBECCA KINZIE BASTIAN
THREE POEMS BY CURTIS JENSEN
TWO POEMS BY SHAUN O'REILLY
THREE POEMS BY JAMES BRUSH
FOUR POEMS BY CARLA MARTIN-WOOD
THREE POEMS BY AMY DRYANSKY
DEEPWATER BY SAEED JONES
THREE POEMS BY MATTHEW GAVIN FRANK
TWO POEMS BY LOUIE CREW
TWO POEMS BY JASON CRANE
THREE POEMS BY MIKE ESPANA-MCGEEHON
I AM A NATURAL WONDER BY ANNE CECELIA HOLMES & LILY LADEWIG
WITHOUT REPRESENTATION BY RITA BANERJEE
A CENTO OF THE GARBAGE PATCH BY BRAD RICHARD
THREE POEMS BY MACKENZIE CARIGNAN
TO CORPORATE HEADQUARTERS…A MEMO BY MARA BUCK
MOURNING BY KIRSTEN OGDEN
THE SEA GODDESS TELLS HIS STORY BY CHRISTINE SWINT
TWO POEMS BY TIMOTHY PILGRIM
TWO POEMS BY MARIE-ELIZABETH MALI
FROM THE UNFINISHED BY MARK DUCHARME
SUMMER VACATION BY SUSAN BROWNE
A POETRY ACTION BY MATTHEW FALK
LETTER #1, TO THE CONSCIENCE EMBODIED BY RICHARD HAMILTON
JULY POEM BY KATHLEEN OSSIP
TWO POEMS BY MICHAEL ROTHENBERG
BURNING WATER BY MINNIE-BRUCE PRATT
DOLPHIN ISLAND BY RANDY BATES
MY LOUISIANA LOVE BY ANNE BARNGROVER

> Poets for Living Waters -- http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/
> Latest article in Poets and Writers, "Poets Act on Oil Spill" -- http://www.pw.org/content/poets_act_on_oil_spill
>
> ********
> Now That's WAC
> + http://wearechampion.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-king.html
>
> Amy's Alias
> + http://amyking.org/
> ********

↑ Index

222. steve russell

Re: re Ground Zero tolerance/intolerance: Tahar Djouat &Abdellatif Laabi-- Demolitions, dispossession, displacement

Fri 20 Aug 2010

Tolerance finally ends up in a musuem.
Along with Â justice, dignityÂ & all of those other big abstractions people used to believe in.

What a world ...

Powerful poems from Tahar Djouat &Abdellatif Laabi.
Glad to learn 2 new names.

_____
From: David Chirot <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Fri, August 20, 2010 11:18:06 AM
Subject: re Ground Zero tolerance/intolerance: Tahar Djouat &Abdellatif Laabi-- Demolitions, dispossession, displacement

In the immense loudness of the immense hate & lies surrounding one non-stop in the US media-- --loudness, repetition & the Big Lie all going together as Hitler remarked-- i find myself listening --though Jack Spicer (to whom one is of course paradoxically listening)--says "no one listens to poetry anymore"- i find myself listening to two poets, Tahar Djaout & Abdellatif Laabi, the first who lived, wrote, risked & died, the second who writes, risks and was imprisoned-- as voices, poetry, very much of these times--for their guidance, example-- poets in the US one often finds saying that they are "taking risks in their writing"-- is it "risks" that one takes when this is the approved mode? are there not other risks one mightÂ be called--or forced-- to take, if taking seriously and listening seriously to the immense lies & hate inundating the "communications" environment--

I have wondered, thought about, studied available information,Â for a long time if decades of the US support, funding and arming of events such as described in the two articles received from Jewish Peace News linked below--Â have not steadily eroded a resistance to such events, actions, attitudes occurring within the USA.Â Denying and supporting at the same time such actions and attitudes, has this not created an atmosphere in which since 9/11 what is now crystallized by the hysteria over the Mosque/Cultural Center at Ground Zero --whipped up for politcal expedience without thinking of where, to what terrible things this may only too tragically lead to--is allowed to grow in strength, in irrationality, in a hatred which can spiral out of control?

(from the first of the two articles linked to below, re Ground Zero "Ramadan Kareem from the Netanyahu and Obama Administrations" http://www.icahd.org/?p=5994 Â by Jeff Halper of the Israeli Committee Against Home Demolitions: : Now some 1,500 Muslim graves have been cleared in several nighttime operations to make way forâ€¦..a $100 million Museum of Tolerance and Human Dignity, a project of the Simon Wiesenthal Center in Los Angeles. (Ironically, Rabbi Marvin Hier, the Wiesenthal Centerâ€™s Director, appeared on Fox News to express his opposition to the construction of a mosque near Ground Zero in Manhattan, because the site of the 9/11 attack â€œis a cemetery.â€)

Â Â Â Already so many of the policies the USA uses itself and supports abroad regarding torture, detention, rendition, security, surveillance, secrecy, ethnic cleansing, the super cession & ignoring of both US and International law are being turned inward, to be used within the USA on "illegal aliens," on protesters, activists, the Muslim community, and the enormous backward turn in the treatment of American Indians, that the boundaries have been crossed as to what is considered as Human Rights. communication rather than assassination.Â Genocide & slavery are not that far distant in American history that their hideous legacies, continuing to smolder, are only all to easily encouraged and allowed to "come back to life" in all manner of deadly forms and expressions. Â Â Turning blind eyes to what is supported abroad, erodes & dims the perceptions of what happens "at home."Â In fact, the support & encouragement of such actions, attitudes, makes them all the more readily able to spring into action "here."Â Hidden in plain site,sight, cite things which have been ever more accomodated, rendered perfectly acceptable for many, are not really noticed at all until the edge is reached, or that situation where it is "too late."Â The history of the 20th century is one in which just such events occurred, in which groups of persons were singled out and made to bear the horror of the full brunt of hatred, intolerance, genocide. The McCarthy years, as often noted in the French and British news groups and journals' writing of the "new McCarthyism" in the USA of the last few decades, have already returned, as well as the horrific period of the Palmer Raids, out of which emerged the FBI. Â Â Â Â The ease with which such transformations may occur, "even in democractic countries," is brilliantly presented in The Last Summer of Reason, by the Algerian Moghrebi poet, journalist and novelist Tahar Djaout (1954-93).Â Leaving for work one fine morning, Djaout was dragged from his and gunned down in front of his house by extremists. Already in this country, during the Primaries in various states, Tea Party & other agitators, extremists, were advocating attacking elected Representives in front of their homes. Â Â Â Â Djaout famously wrote:

Â Â Â .Silence is death. / If you are silent you are dead, / And if you speak you are dead, / So speak and die.

The great Morrocan poet Abdellatif Laabi, himself imprisoned 8 years in his country before exile in France,Â writes in The World's EmbraceÂ Selected Poems (City Lights, 2003,in French & English: translations by Anne George, Edris Makward, Victor Reinking & Pierre Joris):*

*
*I risk speaking of my darkness
I am wrapped in darkness
and do not beg for deliverance
I will live inside this chaos
furnish it like a cell
make a bed with the straw of my books*

and:

*Tell me what you see
Are they burning books in public squares
Are they shaving women's heads before stoning them
Are there processions of hooded men
waving crosses and scimitars
Why are you silent, my beloved
Are we on a floating island
or drifting on a torpedo
Are we alone
or chained to other brothers of misfortune*

Abdellatif Laabi in "The Earth Opens and Welcomes You," a poem dedicated to Tahar Djaout, written but not published until ten years later, sings:

*Sleep well my friend
Sleep the sleep of the just Get some rest, even from your dreams
let us for awhile carry the burden*

Jack Spicer wrote that "No one listens to poetry;" one might ask oneself if by this Spicer is not saying that no one hears poetry, but that even in hearing, reading, "no one is listening"--

In times like these, with the examples of such poets as Tahar Djaout & Abdellatif Laabi, to truly LISTEN to poetry that "risk(s) speaking of (my) darkness" is of the utmost importance, a matter risking indeed silence, life and death--

for, if one listens, are not "we" facing these same questions, may one not be called to take such risks as not being truly listened to, perhaps even to the point of life & death for so many around one--

"*Are we on a floating island
or drifting on a torpedo
Are we alone
or chained to other brothers of misfortune"*

Jewish Peace News:

With the tacit agreement of the US administration, Netanyahu has recently okayed increased home demolitions throughout the West Bank, followed by the destruction of an entire village in the Negev. Demolitions, dispossession and displacement by Israel continue both beyond and within the "green line."

The first report and analysis below "Ramadan Kareem from the Netanyahu and Obama Administrations"

http://www.icahd.org/?p=5994 <http://www.icahd.org/?p=5994%20>

is authored by Jeff Halper of the Israeli Committee Against Home Demolitions; the second

(This article originally appeared on the Ynet news portal on August 9th, 2010:) http://www.ynet.co.il/articles/0,7340,L-3930888,00.html

- translated by Dena Shunra [http://hebrew.shunra.net/]

is by Haia Noah, an researcher and activist with the Negev Civil Equality and Coexistence Forum.

Rela Mazali

Jewish Peace News editors:
Joel Beinin

Racheli Gai
Rela Mazali
Sarah Anne Minkin
Judith Norman
Lincoln Z. Shlensky
Rebecca Vilkomerson
Alistair Welchman

Jewish Peace News archive and blog: http://jewishpeacenews.blogspot.com
---
Jewish Peace News sends its news clippings only to subscribers. To subscribe, unsubscribe, or manage your subscription, go to http://www.jewishpeacenews.net

↑ Index

223. amy king
Re: OT -- LATEST POEMS @ POETS FOR LIVING WATERS
Fri 20 Aug 2010

Thanks, Ruth. Yes, some question the "validity" and/or the "point," as if the hint of "clear" or purpose is something to sneer at and/or mock. Bully for those who waste their time with such efforts. May they feel superior in their insular, mousey might! I should connect them all so that they can high five each other... but I don't have time. Only time to say, glad you're enjoying the site and some of its offerings, Ruth - and your note of support is very much appreciated!

Best,

Amy

****
Now That's WAC
+ http://wearechampion.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-king.html

Amy's Alias
+ http://amyking.org/
****

----- Original Message ----
From: Ruth Lepson <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Fri, August 20, 2010 2:55:19 PM
Subject: Re: OT -- LATEST POEMS @ POETS FOR LIVING WATERS

it's very moving that you're doing this, Amy--I know its debatable whether political poetry changes anything & that is a huge subject--am reading Mark

Scroggins' wonderful bio of Zukofsky now & that comes up in his life often--but it's necessary for those who rea this to know that the poetry community is at least thinking about what is happening to our planet.

On 8/20/10 1:58 PM, "amy king" <[redacted]> wrote:

> WE CAR
> Poets for Living Waters -- http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/
>
> WE CARE ABOUT THE SMALL PEOPLE BY JULES BOYKOFF
> THREE POEMS BY DAVID WOLACH
> TWO POEMS BY JASON QUACKENBUSH
> POEM FOR NANA BY JUNE JORDAN
> TOLLBOOTH BY SARAH GREEN & LEORA FRIDMAN
> TWO POEMS BY MICHAEL HETTICH
> THREE POEMS BY DERRICK AUSTIN
> EXCERPT FROM THE BOTTOM BY BETSY ANDREWS
> HUSTLE AND BLOW BY BRETT EVANS
> EARTH POEMS AND OIL SPILLS BY ALBERT B. CASUGA
> REALLY PRETTY IMMATURE IF YOU THINK BY MIKE YOUNG
> TWO POEMS BY SANDY TSENG
> AGAIN AND AGAIN I MARRY THE EARTH BY AMIR HUSSAIN
> TWO POEMS BY ELLEN WISE
> TWO POEMS BY PAMELA VILLARS
> THREE POEMS BY WENDY BROWN-BÃEZ
> THERE IS NO WAY BACK BY PATRICIA MONAGHAN
> TWO POEMS BY DONNA PECORE
> THREE POEMS BY RICK REIBSTEIN
> TWO POEMS BY SAMPSON STARKWEATHER
> TWO POEMS BY ANNIE FINCH
> WHEN THE ANSWER IS NO BY GWYN MCVAY
> TWO POEMS BY ELIZABETH KATE SWITAJ
> OIL ODE BY GARY BARWIN
> WHEN IT RAINS, IT SNOWS BY NATHAN LOGAN
> THREE POEMS BY GREG FUCHS
> CONSIDERING OPTIONS FOR CONTROLLING THE BP BLOWOUT IN THE GULF OF MEXICO BY
> KRISTIN PREVALLET
> WHAT IS YOUR PERSONAL CONNECTION TO THE OCEAN? BY MARY KRANE DERR
> THREE POEMS BY ILONA MARTONFI
> FROM GREEN THERAPEUTICS THIS WHALE BY HELLER LEVINSON
> TWO POEMS BY MYL SCHULZ
> BEYOND PETROLEUM BY ANA BOÅ½IÄŒEVIÄ†
> THE BIRDS BY E. TRACY GRINNELL
> TWO POEMS + VIDEO [MOURNING AND WITNESSING WALK FOR THE GULF COAST] BY
> CAROLYN ZAIKO
> BP PT: A TOXIC TRYST BY NICKY TISO

WRECKONING BY AMANDA PARKER
TWO POEMS BY SARAH GREEN
TWO POEMS BY NAOMI LOWINSKY
HONORING WORLD OCEAN DAY-DUBLIN, IRELAND ACTION
THREE POEMS BY DEBORAH MEADOWS
THREE POEMS BY RICHARD JEFFREY NEWMAN
A KIND OF SOLUTION BY DAN CHELOTTI
GEOMETRY BY BARBARA STRASKO
THREE POEMS BY RICHARD OYAMA
WATER OFF A DUCK'S BY ERIN VIRGIL
THREE POEMS BY SHELLY TAYLOR
TWO POEMS BY LESLIE MCGRATH
TWO POEMS BY TREY MOORE
THREE POEMS BY ARISA WHITE
COAST FUNERAL BY ABE LOUISE YOUNG
SOME LIVES OF WATER BY DAN FEATHERSTON
THREE POEMS BY TRINA BURKE
AN ESSAY BY DANA GUTHRIE MARTIN
CRAW-DADDY BY REBECCA ANNE RENNER
MOMMY, CAN I HAVE THE BP OIL SPILL FOR XMAS? BY K. SILEM MOHAMMAD
PROSTRATE BY BRIGITTE GOETZE
COMPLAINT BY DANIEL LIN
TWO POEMS BY VIVEK SHARMA
JUNE 4--THE DOW CLOSES DOWN 9931 BY SUSAN BRIANTE
A SURVIVOR STATE BY JOHN LAMBREMONT, SR.
TWO POEMS BY GREG SANTOS
CLEMENS AND ANNA BY LOUIS E. BOURGEOIS
THE GULF OF I STATEMENTS: WATER EXPERIMENT #1 BY JILL MAGI
WE LIVE IN A PERMANENT STATE OF CLEAN UP BY JOSHUA SCHUSTER
LETTER FOR UP NORTH ASSOCIATES BY BRIAN BOYLES
THREE POEMS BY REBECCA FOUST / ART BY LORNA STEVENS
LEAKING OIL WELL AS LUNCHTIME ENTERTAINMENT AT MY HUSBAND'S HI-TECH COMPANY BY PENELOPE SCHOTT
REQUIEM FOR A CEO BY JENNE ANDREWS
PRESS RELEASE: 10 JUNE 2010 BY JULIE L. MOORE
THREE POEMS BY KAMAU RUCKER
TWO POEMS BY STACY G. ERICSON
DEMOLISH A SMALL GROVE BY REBECCA KINZIE BASTIAN
THREE POEMS BY CURTIS JENSEN
TWO POEMS BY SHAUN O'REILLY
THREE POEMS BY JAMES BRUSH
FOUR POEMS BY CARLA MARTIN-WOOD
THREE POEMS BY AMY DRYANSKY
DEEPWATER BY SAEED JONES
THREE POEMS BY MATTHEW GAVIN FRANK
TWO POEMS BY LOUIE CREW
TWO POEMS BY JASON CRANE

> THREE POEMS BY MIKE ESPANA-MCGEEHON
> I AM A NATURAL WONDER BY ANNE CECELIA HOLMES & LILY LADEWIG
> WITHOUT REPRESENTATION BY RITA BANERJEE
> A CENTO OF THE GARBAGE PATCH BY BRAD RICHARD
> THREE POEMS BY MACKENZIE CARIGNAN
> TO CORPORATE HEADQUARTERS...A MEMO BY MARA BUCK
> MOURNING BY KIRSTEN OGDEN
> THE SEA GODDESS TELLS HIS STORY BY CHRISTINE SWINT
> TWO POEMS BY TIMOTHY PILGRIM
> TWO POEMS BY MARIE-ELIZABETH MALI
> FROM THE UNFINISHED BY MARK DUCHARME
> SUMMER VACATION BY SUSAN BROWNE
> A POETRY ACTION BY MATTHEW FALK
> LETTER #1, TO THE CONSCIENCE EMBODIED BY RICHARD HAMILTON
> JULY POEM BY KATHLEEN OSSIP
> TWO POEMS BY MICHAEL ROTHENBERG
> BURNING WATER BY MINNIE-BRUCE PRATT
> DOLPHIN ISLAND BY RANDY BATES
> MY LOUISIANA LOVE BY ANNE BARNGROVER
>
> Poets for Living Waters -- http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/
> Latest article in Poets and Writers, "Poets Act on Oil Spill" -- http://www.pw.org/content/poets_act_on_oil_spill
>
> ********
> Now That's WAC
> + http://wearechampion.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-king.html
>
> Amy's Alias
> + http://amyking.org/
> ********

↑ Index

224. Ruth Lepson

Re: OT -- LATEST POEMS @ POETS FOR LIVING WATERS

Fri 20 Aug 2010

---

thanks for writing, Amy, exactly on point--I am thinking how to incorporate global warming & other issues--poor Pakistan, for ex, beyond all imagination--into my poetry without being didcatic--and the ecopoetry panel at the rethinking poetics conf in June was stimulating--thought it was going to be up on UTube but haven't seen it--does anyone know. keep on, ruth

On 8/20/10 7:31 PM, "amy king" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Thanks, Ruth. Yes, some question the "validity" and/or the "point," as if the hint of "clear" or purpose is something to sneer at and/or mock. Bully for those who waste their time with such efforts. May they feel superior in their insular, mousey might! I should connect them all so that they can high five each other... but I don't have time. Only time to say, glad you're enjoying the > site and some of its offerings, Ruth - and your note of support is very much appreciated!
>
> Best,
>
> Amy
>
> ********
> Now That's WAC
> + http://wearechampion.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-king.html
>
> Amy's Alias
> + http://amyking.org/
> ********
>
> ----- Original Message ----
> From: Ruth Lepson <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Fri, August 20, 2010 2:55:19 PM
> Subject: Re: OT -- LATEST POEMS @ POETS FOR LIVING WATERS
>
> it's very moving that you're doing this, Amy--I know its debatable whether political poetry changes anything & that is a huge subject--am reading Mark Scroggins' wonderful bio of Zukofsky now & that comes up in his life often--but it's necessary for those who rea this to know that the poetry community is at least thinking about what is happening to our planet.
>
> On 8/20/10 1:58 PM, "amy king" <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> WE CAR
> Poets for Living Waters -- http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/
>
> WE CARE ABOUT THE SMALL PEOPLE BY JULES BOYKOFF
> THREE POEMS BY DAVID WOLACH
> TWO POEMS BY JASON QUACKENBUSH
> POEM FOR NANA BY JUNE JORDAN
> TOLLBOOTH BY SARAH GREEN & LEORA FRIDMAN

TWO POEMS BY MICHAEL HETTICH
THREE POEMS BY DERRICK AUSTIN
EXCERPT FROM THE BOTTOM BY BETSY ANDREWS
HUSTLE AND BLOW BY BRETT EVANS
EARTH POEMS AND OIL SPILLS BY ALBERT B. CASUGA
REALLY PRETTY IMMATURE IF YOU THINK BY MIKE YOUNG
TWO POEMS BY SANDY TSENG
AGAIN AND AGAIN I MARRY THE EARTH BY AMIR HUSSAIN
TWO POEMS BY ELLEN WISE
TWO POEMS BY PAMELA VILLARS
THREE POEMS BY WENDY BROWN-BÁEZ
THERE IS NO WAY BACK BY PATRICIA MONAGHAN
TWO POEMS BY DONNA PECORE
THREE POEMS BY RICK REIBSTEIN
TWO POEMS BY SAMPSON STARKWEATHER
TWO POEMS BY ANNIE FINCH
WHEN THE ANSWER IS NO BY GWYN MCVAY
TWO POEMS BY ELIZABETH KATE SWITAJ
OIL ODE BY GARY BARWIN
WHEN IT RAINS, IT SNOWS BY NATHAN LOGAN
THREE POEMS BY GREG FUCHS
CONSIDERING OPTIONS FOR CONTROLLING THE BP BLOWOUT IN THE GULF OF MEXICO BY KRISTIN PREVALLET
WHAT IS YOUR PERSONAL CONNECTION TO THE OCEAN? BY MARY KRANE DERR
THREE POEMS BY ILONA MARTONFI
FROM GREEN THERAPEUTICS THIS WHALE BY HELLER LEVINSON
TWO POEMS BY MYL SCHULZ
BEYOND PETROLEUM BY ANA BO®IÈEVIÆ
THE BIRDS BY E. TRACY GRINNELL
TWO POEMS + VIDEO [MOURNING AND WITNESSING WALK FOR THE GULF COAST] BY CAROLYN ZAIKO
BP PT: A TOXIC TRYST BY NICKY TISO
WRECKONING BY AMANDA PARKER
TWO POEMS BY SARAH GREEN
TWO POEMS BY NAOMI LOWINSKY
HONORING WORLD OCEAN DAY-DUBLIN, IRELAND ACTION
THREE POEMS BY DEBORAH MEADOWS
THREE POEMS BY RICHARD JEFFREY NEWMAN
A KIND OF SOLUTION BY DAN CHELOTTI
GEOMETRY BY BARBARA STRASKO
THREE POEMS BY RICHARD OYAMA
WATER OFF A DUCK'S BY ERIN VIRGIL
THREE POEMS BY SHELLY TAYLOR
TWO POEMS BY LESLIE MCGRATH
TWO POEMS BY TREY MOORE

THREE POEMS BY ARISA WHITE
COAST FUNERAL BY ABE LOUISE YOUNG
SOME LIVES OF WATER BY DAN FEATHERSTON
THREE POEMS BY TRINA BURKE
AN ESSAY BY DANA GUTHRIE MARTIN
CRAW-DADDY BY REBECCA ANNE RENNER
MOMMY, CAN I HAVE THE BP OIL SPILL FOR XMAS? BY K. SILEM MOHAMMAD
PROSTRATE BY BRIGITTE GOETZE
COMPLAINT BY DANIEL LIN
TWO POEMS BY VIVEK SHARMA
JUNE 4--THE DOW CLOSES DOWN 9931 BY SUSAN BRIANTE
A SURVIVOR STATE BY JOHN LAMBREMONT, SR.
TWO POEMS BY GREG SANTOS
CLEMENS AND ANNA BY LOUIS E. BOURGEOIS
THE GULF OF I STATEMENTS: WATER EXPERIMENT #1 BY JILL MAGI
WE LIVE IN A PERMANENT STATE OF CLEAN UP BY JOSHUA SCHUSTER
LETTER FOR UP NORTH ASSOCIATES BY BRIAN BOYLES
THREE POEMS BY REBECCA FOUST / ART BY LORNA STEVENS
LEAKING OIL WELL AS LUNCHTIME ENTERTAINMENT AT MY HUSBAND'S HI-TECH COMPANY BY
PENELOPE SCHOTT
REQUIEM FOR A CEO BY JENNE ANDREWS
PRESS RELEASE: 10 JUNE 2010 BY JULIE L. MOORE
THREE POEMS BY KAMAU RUCKER
TWO POEMS BY STACY G. ERICSON
DEMOLISH A SMALL GROVE BY REBECCA KINZIE BASTIAN
THREE POEMS BY CURTIS JENSEN
TWO POEMS BY SHAUN O'REILLY
THREE POEMS BY JAMES BRUSH
FOUR POEMS BY CARLA MARTIN-WOOD
THREE POEMS BY AMY DRYANSKY
DEEPWATER BY SAEED JONES
THREE POEMS BY MATTHEW GAVIN FRANK
TWO POEMS BY LOUIE CREW
TWO POEMS BY JASON CRANE
THREE POEMS BY MIKE ESPANA-MCGEEHON
I AM A NATURAL WONDER BY ANNE CECELIA HOLMES & LILY LADEWIG
WITHOUT REPRESENTATION BY RITA BANERJEE
A CENTO OF THE GARBAGE PATCH BY BRAD RICHARD
THREE POEMS BY MACKENZIE CARIGNAN
TO CORPORATE HEADQUARTERS...A MEMO BY MARA BUCK
MOURNING BY KIRSTEN OGDEN
THE SEA GODDESS TELLS HIS STORY BY CHRISTINE SWINT
TWO POEMS BY TIMOTHY PILGRIM
TWO POEMS BY MARIE-ELIZABETH MALI
FROM THE UNFINISHED BY MARK DUCHARME
SUMMER VACATION BY SUSAN BROWNE

> A POETRY ACTION BY MATTHEW FALK
> LETTER #1, TO THE CONSCIENCE EMBODIED BY RICHARD HAMILTON
> JULY POEM BY KATHLEEN OSSIP
> TWO POEMS BY MICHAEL ROTHENBERG
> BURNING WATER BY MINNIE-BRUCE PRATT
> DOLPHIN ISLAND BY RANDY BATES
> MY LOUISIANA LOVE BY ANNE BARNGROVER
>
> Poets for Living Waters -- http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/
> Latest article in Poets and Writers, "Poets Act on Oil Spill" -- http://www.pw.org/content/poets_act_on_oil_spill
>
> ********
> Now That's WAC
> + http://wearechampion.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-king.html
>
> Amy's Alias
> + http://amyking.org/
> ********

↑ Index

225. Ruth Lepson

Re: re Ground Zero tolerance/intolerance: Tahar Djouat &Abdellatif Laabi-- Demolitions, dispossession, displacement

Fri 20 Aug 2010

I appreciate knowing of them, too, and thank you for your largehearted post.

On 8/20/10 3:07 PM, "steve russell" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Tolerance finally ends up in a musuem.
> Along with justice, dignity & all of those other big abstractions people used to believe in.
>
> What a world ...
>
> Powerful poems from Tahar Djouat &Abdellatif Laabi.
> Glad to learn 2 new names.

From: David Chirot <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Fri, August 20, 2010 11:18:06 AM
Subject: re Ground Zero tolerance/intolerance: Tahar Djouat &Abdellatif Laabi-- Demolitions, dispossession, displacement

In the immense loudness of the immense hate & lies surrounding one non-stop in the US media--
--loudness, repetition & the Big Lie all going together as Hitler remarked-- i find myself listening --though Jack Spicer (to whom one is of course paradoxically listening)--says "no one listens to poetry anymore"- i find myself listening to two poets, Tahar Djaout & Abdellatif Laabi, the first who lived, wrote, risked & died, the second who writes, risks and was imprisoned-- as voices, poetry, very much of these times--for their guidance, example-- poets in the US one often finds saying that they are "taking risks in their writing"-- is it "risks" that one takes when this is the approved mode?
are there not other risks one might be called--or forced-- to take, if taking seriously and listening seriously to the immense lies & hate inundating the "communications" environment--

I have wondered, thought about, studied available information, for a long time if decades of the US support, funding and arming of events such as described in the two articles received from Jewish Peace News linked below-- have not steadily eroded a resistance to such events, actions, attitudes occurring within the USA. Denying and supporting at the same time such actions and attitudes, has this not created an atmosphere in which since 9/11 what is now crystallized by the hysteria over the Mosque/Cultural Center at Ground Zero --whipped up for politcal expedience without thinking of where, to what terrible things this may only too tragically lead to--is allowed to grow in strength, in irrationality, in a hatred which can spiral out of control?

(from the first of the two articles linked to below, re Ground Zero "Ramadan Kareem from the Netanyahu and Obama Administrations"
http://www.icahd.org/?p=5994
by Jeff Halper of the Israeli Committee Against Home Demolitions:
:
Now some 1,500 Muslim graves have been cleared in several nighttime operations to make way forŠ..a $100 million Museum of Tolerance and Human Dignity, a project of the Simon Wiesenthal Center in Los Angeles.

(Ironically, Rabbi Marvin Hier, the Wiesenthal Center¹s Director, appeared on Fox News to express his opposition to the construction of a mosque near Ground Zero in Manhattan, because the site of the 9/11 attack ³is a cemetery.²)

Already so many of the policies the USA uses itself and supports abroad regarding torture, detention, rendition, security, surveillance, secrecy, ethnic cleansing, the super cession & ignoring of both US and International law are being turned inward, to be used within the USA on "illegal aliens," on protesters, activists, the Muslim community, and the enormous backward turn in the treatment of American Indians, that the boundaries have been crossed as to what is considered as Human Rights. communication rather than assassination. Genocide & slavery are not that far distant in American history that their hideous legacies, continuing to smolder, are only all to easily encouraged and allowed to "come back to life" in all manner of deadly forms and expressions.

Turning blind eyes to what is supported abroad, erodes & dims the perceptions of what happens "at home." In fact, the support & encouragement of such actions, attitudes, makes them all the more readily able to spring into action "here." Hidden in plain site,sight, cite things which have been ever more accomodated, rendered perfectly acceptable for many, are not really noticed at all until the edge is reached, or that situation where it is "too late." The history of the 20th century is one in which just such events occurred, in which groups of persons were singled out and made to bear the horror of the full brunt of hatred, intolerance, genocide. The McCarthy years, as often noted in the French and British news groups and journals' writing of the "new McCarthyism" in the USA of the last few decades, have already returned, as well as the horrific period of the Palmer Raids, out of which emerged the FBI.

*The ease with which such transformations may occur, "even in democractic countries," is brilliantly presented in The Last Summer of Reason, by the Algerian Moghrebi poet, journalist and novelist Tahar Djaout (1954-93). Leaving for work one fine morning, Djaout was dragged from his and gunned down in front of his house by extremists. Already in this country, during the Primaries in various states, Tea Party & other agitators, extremists, were advocating attacking elected Representives in front of their homes.*

Djaout famously wrote:

.Silence is death. / If you are silent you are dead, / And if you speak you are dead, / So speak and die.

*The great Morrocan poet Abdellatif Laabi, himself imprisoned 8 years in his country before exile in France, writes in The World's Embrace Selected Poems
(City Lights, 2003,in French & English: translations by Anne George, Edris Makward, Victor Reinking & Pierre Joris):

*
*I risk speaking of my darkness
I am wrapped in darkness
and do not beg for deliverance
I will live inside this chaos
furnish it like a cell
make a bed with the straw of my books*

and:

*Tell me what you see
Are they burning books in public squares
Are they shaving women's heads before stoning them
Are there processions of hooded men
waving crosses and scimitars
Why are you silent, my beloved
Are we on a floating island
or drifting on a torpedo
Are we alone
or chained to other brothers of misfortune*

Abdellatif Laabi in "The Earth Opens and Welcomes You," a poem dedicated to Tahar Djaout, written but not published until ten years later, sings:

*Sleep well my friend
Sleep the sleep of the just Get some rest, even from your dreams
let us for awhile carry the burden*

Jack Spicer wrote that "No one listens to poetry;" one might ask oneself if by this Spicer is not saying that no one hears poetry, but that even in hearing, reading, "no one is listening"--

In times like these, with the examples of such poets as Tahar Djaout & Abdellatif Laabi, to truly LISTEN to poetry that "risk(s) speaking of (my) darkness" is of the utmost importance, a matter risking indeed silence, life and death--

for, if one listens, are not "we" facing these same questions, may one not be called to take such risks as not being truly listened to, perhaps even to the point of life & death for so many around one--

"*Are we on a floating island
or drifting on a torpedo
Are we alone
or chained to other brothers of misfortune"*

Jewish Peace News:

With the tacit agreement of the US administration, Netanyahu has recently okayed increased home demolitions throughout the West Bank, followed by the destruction of an entire village in the Negev. Demolitions, dispossession and displacement by Israel continue both beyond and within the "green line."

The first report and analysis below "Ramadan Kareem from the Netanyahu and Obama Administrations"

http://www.icahd.org/?p=5994 <http://www.icahd.org/?p=5994%20>

is authored by Jeff Halper of the Israeli Committee Against Home Demolitions; the second

(This article originally appeared on the Ynet news portal on August 9th, 2010:) http://www.ynet.co.il/articles/0,7340,L-3930888,00.html

- translated by Dena Shunra [http://hebrew.shunra.net/]

is by Haia Noah, an researcher and activist with the Negev Civil Equality and Coexistence Forum.

Rela Mazali

Jewish Peace News editors:
Joel Beinin
Racheli Gai
Rela Mazali
Sarah Anne Minkin
Judith Norman
Lincoln Z. Shlensky
Rebecca Vilkomerson
Alistair Welchman

Jewish Peace News archive and blog: http://jewishpeacenews.blogspot.com
---
Jewish Peace News sends its news clippings only to subscribers. To subscribe, unsubscribe, or manage your subscription, go to http://www.jewishpeacenews.net

↑ Index

226. Douglas Manson poetry and pedagogy
Fri 20 Aug 2010

Hi Everyone

Does anyone know how I can cheaply obtain a copy of Retallack and Spahr's Poetry and Pedagogy: The Challenge of the Contemporary, a book published a few years ago? the book is ridiculously expensive to buy new and my two main sources of books, the Brooklyn Public and CUNY libraries do not own this book. I am embarrassingly, shamefully poor and disastrously in need of a new pedagogy and poetics. I am hoping that this book will renew my energies, teaching experiences and my bank account, after I am hired for excitingly new poetry teaching gigs inspired by this book.

I tremendously love adverbs. Do you?

Please backchannel if you know how I can get this book on the cheap. Free, even.

Your pal,
Douglas Manson

↑ Index

227. Jared Schickling
Re: re Ground Zero tolerance/intolerance: Tahar Djouat &Abdellatif Laabi-- > Demolitions, dispossession, displacement
Sat 21 Aug 2010

David,

You know, I'm reading this after reading my Grace Paley and I don't agree how no one hears anything anymore, but I've heard what you mean, and I won't name names, but they're out there. I found one across town back home. He had a laughable living situation. Another, and they were friends, one to break your heart. And they weren't always that way. I wouldn't limit what risk means.

Families

The sheep families are out in the meadow
Caddy and her two big lambs Gruff and Veronica

Veronica raises her curly head then bends to the grass
Usefully she shits green grass and wool is her work

Gruff is going away he will become something else Father of generations? What? more likely meat that is a male in war on pasture his work is meat

Grace Paley

Semezdin Mehmedinovic, who lived and printed through the shelling:

"That's Europe [or fill in the blank], a sign of weakness: endless self-affirmation, the end of the world. Shells killing kids. Imaginations turned 180 degrees, gone wild, emptied of memory. This is probably sheer esoterica: I think about how their blocked consciousness is not a reaction to the images of war, but nature preparing them for long years of battle. What kind of curriculum will be put in place for kids ripped apart by shrapnel as sharp as razors? Imagine a teacher assigning 'Snail House' or 'The Enchanted Saddle.' It's easier to think of war as their only school. And there are plenty of shells, they're so devastating that only the Schwartzeneggers have a chance to survive--at least acording to post-modern theorists--left to themselves, wandering naked through the global desert and the infosphere, new nomads freed from feudal prejudice, not as members of a nation but as carriers of information they'll exchange between themselves together in the planetary community. Right now it's true that shells are falling on Bosnia, Sarajevo, but it's unlikely that's where it will end."

"the war has shown you can't even rely on someone else's memory" listening plus what

**

there's also the first full-length work of verse from Abdellatif Laabi in English, from Leafe Press 2009, Fragments of a Forgotten Genesis, trans. Gordon Hadfield and Nancy Hadfield:

http://www.leafepress.com/catalog/laabi/forgottengenesis.html

And a play online, The Jackal's Baptism, Mayday 2009, trans. Gordon Hadfield:

http://www.maydaymagazine.com/issue1translaabi.php

↑ Index

228. Jared Schickling
Re: Ground Zero tolerance/intolerance: Tahar Djouat &Abdellatif Laabi-- > Demolitions, dispossession, displacement (2)
Sat 21 Aug 2010

And Rue du Retour, in English, a novella spanning 8 years on the day he drives home or thereabouts. Can't remember.

↑ Index

229. Jared Schickling
Re: Poems for the Millennium Ground Zero
Sat 21 Aug 2010

---

and just to round things out

"Tolerance finally ends up in a musuem. Along with justice, dignity, & all of those other big abstractions people used to believe in."

Wordsworth mentions "blind fondness"

and in an abstract just now: "...the paper concludes by suggesting neither [ST] Coleridge nor any modern legal scholar who invokes romantic reading strategies can achieve the vaunted interpretive objectivity legal authority seems to require."

and Sade in the anthology and Greek having justice as evil

↑ Index

230. Catherine Daly
Support Woodland Pattern
Sat 21 Aug 2010

There is still room to sign up and share your musical talents in support of our Alternating Currents Live concert series! 8 Straight hours of music, fun and dance!

Don't be shy. Call today and sign up, [redacted].

Here are the details: We ask that each Music Marathon participant perform 10 minutes of music - jazz, folk, hip hop, rock, instrumental, experimental, etc. or any combination, and raise AT LEAST $25 in pledges. Individual pledges can be for any amount—ask family, friends, neighbors, your mechanic, and anyone else you encounter regularly to support your music and support Woodland Pattern with a pledge.

See who has already signed up here:
http://www.woodlandpattern.org/music_marathon_2010.shtml

Hope to see you there!

Melissa Czarnik
Marketing Director
[redacted]
www.woodlandpattern.org

↑ Index

231. Alan Sondheim
Double (musical) Seance for Stephen Dydo and Adam Tobin
Sat 21 Aug 2010

Double (musical) Seance for Stephen Dydo and Adam Tobin

Rhythm from the Casio SK-1 with lead viola

Best yet because of accompaniment; in 4, it's a continuous chord and in 3 it's a series held in the SK-1's limited memory - starting and stopping create the stanzaic structure of the piece.

Ah if I could only make money from my God-Given talent, what I would do, after paying off my debts, to better this beautiful world!

http://espdisk.com/alansondheim/viola4.mp3
http://espdisk.com/alansondheim/viola5.mp3

↑ Index

232. E. J. McAdams
Tuesday in NYC: Julie Patton LIVE!!!
Sat 21 Aug 2010

Social Environmental Aesthetics (SEA) Poetry Series #5:
JULIE EZELLE PATTON

Tuesday, August 24th

7-9pm

(in conjunction with the SEA Exhibit entitled CONSUME)

$5 suggested donation. Cash Bar.

EXIT ART, 475 10th Avenue (between 36th and 37th Streets), NYC

Julie Ezelle Patton will be reading, followed by a reading/panel with local food activists, including James Subudhi, Environmental Policy and Advocacy Coordinator, WE ACT for Environmental Justice, Inc. (WE ACT) and others to be announced. There will be time for the audience to ask questions and get involved in the discussion. Please plan to hang out in the bar following the formal presentation.

Julie Ezelle Patton is the author of Using Blue To Get Black, Notes for Some (Nominally) Awake, and A Garden Per Verse (or What Else do You Expect from Dirt?). Julie's work has appeared in ((eco (lang)(uage(reader)), Critiphoria, and nocturnes. "Room for Opal," a sound/text installation that Julie created as a Green Horizons Fellow at Bates College, is lovingly explored in Jonathan Skinner's "Listening with Patton" (ON: Contemporary Practice, 2008). Julie's performance work, featured at the Stone, Jazz Standard, and noted international venues, emphasizes improvisation, collaboration, and other worldy chora-graphs. She has shape-shifted into a cat-witch for Sop Doll: A Jack Tale Noh (written by Lee Ann Brown and Tony Torn), Desdemona in Othello Syndrome (Uri Caine's 2009 Grammy nominated CD), a ring-tone (Ravi Coltrane's At Night), and "Onyx Blackly's" voice of doom for Barnaby McAll's Triplum. Her publik dissertation, "Chateau in z' Ghetto," is an ArkiTextual dwelling space foregrounding creative utilitarian projects, ill-literacy, ritual maintenance work, neighborhood love-economies, and the familial philosophy of "Making Do" in the urban desert of Cleveland, Ohio. The writing of this "home-ek" project is exhibited, litter-ally and artifactually, in its own Salon des Refusés. Spin-offs of this season-based (unreel) reality show reflect Julie's practice as a native plant and green space advocate ("Let It Bee Gardens," "Rockefeller Park Project," "Poet Tree Mitigation Works"), market gardener ("Sun Raw") and eco/arts educator ("Old School"). Julie is a recipient of an Acadia Arts Foundation Grant (2008), and a New York Foundation for the Arts Poetry Fellowship (2007). Julie has taught at the Cooper Union for the Advancement of Science & Art, Naropa, Teachers & Writers Collaborative and Schule fur Dichtung (Vienna, Austria). She lives in the "East Pillage" of New York City.

↑ Index

233. Jim Andrews
Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium
Sat 21 Aug 2010

> Jim, the answer depend to which aspect of the Romantic movement you are looking at. German Romanticism and accompanying philosophies and poetries (and also Blake in the English side) have as much to do with the Modern World as anything else. The difference is that that aspect has resulted in a > more jaundiced view of progress than your view of the unadulterated glories > of modernism.

Don't assume you have any idea about my views, please, Murat.

> Look at Hegel and Benjamin, or Hegel and Marx, or Nietzsche and Wagner and Nazism. One can not have one without the other. The 20th Century has also one of the most atrocious, blood thirsty periods in human history, its great scientific and intellectual achievements (and I will not deny those achievements are real) making these blood thirty impulses more efficient.

Yes, it was especially horrific precisely because of the scale and conviction with which many of its massacres were executed, and this was only possible with greater butchery through technology.

But this also distinguishes the Modern era from the era of Romanticism, Murat, highlights yet another of the dramatic differences between them.

The point of the discussion, recall, is that, contrary to the nominating statement, Modernism differs quite strongly from Romanticism.

Not to say that the Romantic or its effects and influence was not present in Modernity or has departed even now.

The nominating statement says "Modernism rejected Romanticism in the way that one political leader rejects another--not because it is any different but because it wishes to win the same audience. This book demonstrates that the only thing that happened in Modernism was that a door opened onto still another aspect of the immense cultural experiment that Romanticism was..." It says they hardly differ and that Modernism merely extends what is already announced in Romanticism. Both of those statements are obviously false. And I'm not quite sure 'where they're going' with that.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

234. Petra Kuppers

Call for Applications: Movement, Somatics and Writing: A Practice-Based Symposium, University of Michigan

Sat 21 Aug 2010

Call for Fellowship Applications: Movement, Somatics and Writing: A Practice-Based Research Symposium February 18th/19th, Duderstadt Video Performance Studio, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor

Conference Team: Amy Sara Carroll, Assistant Professor of English and American Culture (Latina/o Studies), UM Thom Donovan, poet and essayist, co-editor of ON: Contemporary Practice and the weblog Wild Horses Of Fire Kate

Elswit, Andrew W. Mellon Fellow (Drama/Dance), Stanford University Bhanu Kapil, Assistant Professor, Jack Kerouac School of Disembodied Poetics, Naropa University (Cross-Genre Narrative and Poetics) Jina Kim, PhD student, English/Women?s Studies, UM (Visual Culture) Petra Kuppers, Associate Professor of English, UM (Performance Studies) Eleni Stecopoulos, poet, writer, educator, curator of the Poetics of Healing project at the Poetry Center, San Francisco State University

In our forth arts-based inquiry symposium (after Anarcha: African American culture/Disability Culture/Medical Ethics; Touching Time: Bodies/Writing/Histories; Eco-Performance) we want to build on the inter- or transdisciplinary methods explored so far, and invite scholars and artists to engage in experimental writing and art practice at the sites/cites of the moving, living body and the moving, living text.

We invite up to ten fellows (graduate students, faculty, independent artists and writers) to come together for two days, to workshop, to use performances and presentations as provocations, and to plumb methods of merging art practice and critical writing . The specific topics we will address are yet to be determined by applicants? interests. But, to date, this symposium?s foci include or relate to innovative methodologies, writing-as-practice, somatics/embodiment, breath poetics, prosodic magic, language limit zones, conceptual ?isms, skin and membranes, mixed media and metaphors, the ethics of touch and movement, enjambed spacetime, transitions and becoming _____ . We will be in praxis together: this is not a conference to share the results of previous research or practice. Thus, we are not looking for papers, performances, portfolios, or readings; we plan to experiment. Come and share the excitement of your creative and critical research, present a workshop based on your passions, and find out what could happen?

Each invitee will have transport and accommodation costs reimbursed up to $200 dollars. The conference hotel offers rooms for about sixty dollars a night, and we will assist people who want to be hosted by graduate students.

Application Process: please send a short CV, a sample of your writing (creative, experimental, performative or critical), and a brief statement about why you would like to participate, to [redacted]. You can also send URLs or a DVD or CD with performance or visual arts material. Query first about snail mail address by emailing the symposium director: Petra Kuppers, [redacted].

Deadline: October 1, 2010 Notification: October 20, 2010

--
Petra Kuppers
Associate Professor
English, Theatre and Dance, Women's Studies

University of Michigan
435 S. State Street
3187 Angell Hall
Ann Arbor
MI 48109-1003
mobile: [redacted]
email: [redacted]
Artistic Director of The Olimpias homepage: www.olimpias.org

↑ Index

235. Jennifer Karmin

Aaaaaaaaaaalice in Albany / Brooklyn / Philly

Sat 21 Aug 2010

---

hi poetics friends.....hope to see some of you this week in albany or brooklyn or philly. details below.

my text-sound epic aaaaaaaaaaalice is now available on spd. flim forum press still has a few review copies left so be in touch. big thanks to all who have already shown their support. it means a lot.

onwards,
jen karmin

Flim Forum Press presents
Aaaaaaaaaaalice by Jennifer Karmin

travelogue in 11 cantos scored for polyvocal improvisation to buy online:

http://www.aaaaaaaaaaalice.blogspot.com or thru SPD:

htpp://www.spdbooks.org

to query:
[redacted]

THURSDAY, AUGUST 26th
Yes! Reading Series
http://yesreading.wordpress.com/
@ the Albany Social Justice Center
33 Central Ave -- Albany, NY
7:30pm
Sarah Giragosian

Jennifer Karmin
Maryrose Larkin

FRIDAY, AUGUST 27th
Stain of Poetry
http://stainofpoetry.wordpress.com/
@ Goodbye Blue Monday
1087 Broadway -- Brooklyn, NY
7pm
Julie Doxsee
Curtis Jensen
Jennifer Karmin
Eric Lindley
Ben Mirov
Peter Spagnulo

SATURDAY, AUGUST 28th
Whenever We Feel Like It
http://wheneverwefeellikeit.blogspot.com/
@ Jose Pistolas
263 S 15th St -- Philly, PA
4pm
Jennifer Karmin
Pattie McCarthy
Carlos Soto Roman

↑ Index

236. Stephen Ellis
Re: poetry and pedagogy
Sat 21 Aug 2010

Why not just write a new poetic pedagogy yourself? Forget buying or borrowing one. What's the point of that? You're going to have to learn to be sterling on your own some day, so what not just start now?

Ciao.

> Date: Fri, 20 Aug 2010 21:00:26 -0400
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: poetry and pedagogy
> To: [redacted]
>
> Hi Everyone
>
> Does anyone know how I can cheaply obtain a copy of Retallack and Spahr's Poetry and Pedagogy: The Challenge of the Contemporary, a book published a > few years ago? the book is ridiculously expensive to buy new and my two main sources of books, the Brooklyn Public and CUNY libraries do not own this book. I am embarrassingly, shamefully poor and disastrously in need of a new pedagogy and poetics. I am hoping that this book will renew my energies, teaching experiences and my bank account, after I am hired for excitingly new poetry teaching gigs inspired by this book.

>
> I tremendously love adverbs. Do you?
>
> Please backchannel if you know how I can get this book on the cheap. Free, even.
>
> Your pal,
> Douglas Manson

↑ Index

237. Murat Nemet-Nejat

Re: American Book Award for Poems for the Millennium

Sat 21 Aug 2010

> "Jim, the answer depend to which aspect of the Romantic movement you are looking at. German Romanticism and accompanying philosophies and poetries (and also Blake in the English side) have as much to do with the Modern World as anything else. The difference is that that aspect has resulted in a > more jaundiced view of progress than your view of the unadulterated glories of modernism.

Don't assume you have any idea about my views, please, Murat."

Jim, you do have a gung-ho attitude towards progress and glories of modernism. Here is how you express it: "But the nominating statement does not acknowlege the deep originality of the Modern era--an originality borne from unprecedented global turmoil, the rise of the middle class in both Europe and North America, unprecedented scientific and technological advance, and deep conviction in the power and value of language, art, and science despite the tragic conditions that prevailed through much of Modernism."

The rise of middle class and technological advances had already started in the 19th century. De Toqueville's work on America is all about that. What does "deep conviction in the power and value of language, art and science" mean? Do you mean before the Modern Age these things were not valued? What about the Biblical "at the beginning was the word"? Is there a stronger statement about the value of language? As for the "value of art" - have you thought about Benjamin's essay about the work of art in an age of mechanical reproduction? Once again, I am not denying the profound significance of the intellectual achievements and social transformations of the 20th century; but to think that these occurred out of nothing, that time starts at 1901 is, pardon my expression, a bit ridiculous.

Look at Hegel and Benjamin, or Hegel and Marx, or Nietzsche > and Wagner and Nazism. One can not have one without the other. The 20th > Century has also one of the most atrocious, blood thirsty periods in human > history, its great scientific and intellectual achievements (and I will not > deny those achievements are real) making these blood thirty impulses more > efficient.
>

"Yes, it was especially horrific precisely because of the scale and conviction with which many of its massacres were executed, and this was only possible with greater butchery through technology."

But, Jim, that is what you say: "unprecedented scientific and technological advance, and deep conviction in the power and value of language, art, and science despite the tragic conditions that prevailed through much of Modernism."

The word "despite" do not suggest a cause and effect relationship. In fact, many of the glories of modern thought were often also the enablers of these conditions. Your initial statement tries to separate them.

With the rest of your statement I do not have much disagreement. Of course, the Modern Era created new intellectual conditions, often attacking Romantic thinkers, poets and artists themselves. But these attacks are often exaggerated, disingenuous or one sided. For instance, I am reading at the present moment Brian Kim Stefans's The Fashionable Noise. In one of his essays in the book he uses a Tennison "translation" I believe of an old Scottish ballad as a source text. Many 19th century writers and thinkers have constituted the backbone of Modern thought. This to seems self evident. Didn't Cantor do most of his work in the 19th century?

Ciao,

Murat

On Sat, Aug 21, 2010 at 2:50 PM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

> Jim, the answer depend to which aspect of the Romantic movement you are looking at. German Romanticism and accompanying philosophies and poetries (and also Blake in the English side) have as much to do with the Modern World as anything else. The difference is that that aspect has resulted in a more jaundiced view of progress than your view of the unadulterated glories of modernism.

Don't assume you have any idea about my views, please, Murat.

Look at Hegel and Benjamin, or Hegel and Marx, or Nietzsche and Wagner and Nazism. One can not have one without the other. The 20th Century has also one of the most atrocious, blood thirsty periods in human history, its great scientific and intellectual achievements (and I will not deny those achievements are real) making these blood thirty impulses more efficient.

Yes, it was especially horrific precisely because of the scale and conviction with which many of its massacres were executed, and this was only possible with greater butchery through technology.

But this also distinguishes the Modern era from the era of Romanticism, Murat, highlights yet another of the dramatic differences between them.

The point of the discussion, recall, is that, contrary to the nominating statement, Modernism differs quite strongly from Romanticism.

Not to say that the Romantic or its effects and influence was not present in Modernity or has departed even now.

The nominating statement says "Modernism rejected Romanticism in the way that one political leader rejects another--not because it is any different but because it wishes to win the same audience. This book demonstrates that the only thing that happened in Modernism was that a door opened onto still another aspect of the immense cultural experiment that Romanticism was..." It says they hardly differ and that Modernism merely extends what is already announced in Romanticism. Both of those statements are obviously false. And I'm not quite sure 'where they're going' with that.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

238. Dr. Dina Ripsman Eylon

Deadline Extended: Women in Judaism Writing Competition

Sun 22 Aug 2010

Women in Judaism's First Annual Writing Competition
www.womeninjudaism.org

Women in Judaism: A Multidisciplinary is now accepting submissions for its 2010 annual writing competition. The e-journal is looking for unpublished submissions of short fiction, poetry, and essays on Jewish themes that touch the lives and experiences of Jewish women.

PRIZES:

Short Fiction
First Place: $250
Second Place: $100
Third Place: $50

Poetry
First Place: $250
Second Place: $100
Third Place: $50

Essays
First Place: $250
Second Place: $100
Third Place: $50

Winning entries will be published in the two yearly issues of the journal.

GENERAL GUIDELINES: We accept only electronic submissions. Send submissions to the journal's editor-in-chief, Dr. Dina Ripsman Eylon: [redacted] Submit one short story/poem/essay per entry fee. Multiple submissions are allowed. All styles and forms are accepted. No simultaneous submissions are allowed. Submissions should arrive by email before the set deadline.

EXTENDED DEADLINE:
October 1, 2010.

FORMAT:
All entries should be in Word or RTF with author's full name, address, phone number, and email address, appearing on the first page of each entry.

ENTRY FEE:
$10 (US/CAD) fee for each short story or essay. $5 (US/CAD) for each poem. Form of payment: Use PayPal on the journal's website (see the Donate button at the bottom of each webpage), or mail a money order payable to Women in

Judaism at the following address:
Women in Judaism: A Multidisciplinary Journal
1136-3 Centre St., Ste. 246
Thornhill, ON L4J 3M8 Canada

Contact: Dr. Dina Ripsman Eylon
Email: [redacted]

↑ Index

239. Dan Wilcox

3 Guys from Albany to Perform at Oklahoma LaborFest, to Visit Albany, OK

Sun 22 Aug 2010

"3 Guys from Albany" to Perform at Oklahoma LaborFest, to Visit Albany, OK

"3 Guys from Albany," a poetry performance group, have been invited to be featured poets at the Oklahoma LaborFest, held August 26-28 in Oklahoma City, OK. "3 Guys from Albany" will perform on August 26 at Coffey's Café in the Plaza District (http://www.coffyscafe.org/#) and will read as part of "Oklahoma Speaks" on August 28 at the Lyric Theatre Auditorium (http://www.oklahomarevelator.com/laborfest). On August 27, "3 Guys from Albany" will perform at the Albany/Wade Senior Center in Albany, OK. A complete itinerary is included below.

"3 Guys from Albany" (Tom Nattell, Charlie Rossiter and Dan Wilcox) have a mission to read their poetry in each of the Albanys in the U.S. They are friends who share the idea that poetry should be a part of society rather than apart from it -- relevant, communicative and, above all, honest. Their poems address social issues such as the homeless, peace and war, and the environment, as well as joyful celebrations of art, love and life. They have toured the United States since 1993 and so far they have read in 12 of the 18 Albanys in the USA. They have released a 60-minute cassette tape and CD of their poetry performance, available at their readings or by mail. Although Tom Nattell died of cancer in January 2005, Charlie & Dan are continuing the project, along with the ever-present nudging from the spirit of Tom.

Charlie Rossiter is a recipient of an NEA fellowship for his poetry and is the host of www.poetrypoetry.com.

Dan Wilcox hosts the Third Thursday open mic at the Social Justice Center in Albany, NY & has the world's largest collection of photos of unknown poets. You can find him at dwlcx.blogspot.com

Tom Nattell was an international mail artist, environmentalist, poet and peace activist who wrote the "Simple Life" column for Metroland, Albany's entertainment weekly.

For more information about "3 Guys from Albany" e-mail: [redacted], or visit the website, www.3guysfromalbany.com.

3 Guys from Albany August 2010 Tour

August 26, Oklahoma LaborFest Poetry Reading, 7PM, Coffey's Café, 1739 N.W. 16th St, Oklahoma City, OK

August 27, Albany/Wade Senior Center, 12:30PM, Albany, OK

August 28, "Oklahoma Speaks," 7PM, Lyric Theatre Auditorium, 1801 NW 16th St., Oklahoma City, OK

August 29, Full Circle Bookstore, 2PM, 50 Penn Place Mall, Oklahoma City, OK

↑ Index

240. Michael Heller

This Art Burning, Performances September 11th (7:30 PM) and September 12th (4:30 PM)

Sun 22 Aug 2010

PRESS RELEASE

THIS ART BURNING –A STAGED PERFORMANCE FEATURING NEW EXPLORATIONS IN SETTING POETRY THROUGH VIDEO, SPOKEN WORD, MUSICAL ACCOMPANIMENT, OPERA AND SONG AT THE PHILLY FRINGE.

THIS ART BURNING, a multimedia musical and literary event by the composer Ellen Fishman-Johnson and the poet Michael Heller will be presented on Saturday, September 11 at 7:30 PM and Sunday, September 12 at 4 PM at the Performance Garage at 1515 Brandywine Street, Philadelphia, 19130. Admission $10.00. For tickets, contact the Festival Box Office at (215) [redacted] or visit www.livearts-fringe.org.

This Art Burning brings to the Philly Fringe Festival the collaborations of composer Ellen Fishman-Johnson and poet Michael Heller. Their unique multimedia works integrate Fishman-Johnson's music and video with Heller's modernist texts on autobiography, art, history, religion and culture, several of which were created especially for this performance.

Fishman-Johnson and Heller have been working together since they met at the Yaddo artist colony in 1990. Their first collaboration, Heteroglossia, for taped music and text (1991), earned them an invitation to the 1991 Montreal International Computer Music Conference.
Their next work, Freedom, after all? premiered at the Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore in 1992. Their Internet film, After Montale, produced in 2002 and based on a poem by Heller, creates a musical score paced to the visual unfolding of the text.

Their most extensive undertaking to date, Benjamin, is a multimedia opera based on the life and tragic suicide of Walter Benjamin, the 20th century German-Jewish literary critic and philosopher. It was presented at the Philadelphia Fringe Festival in 2000. The Philadelphia Inquirer praised the work for the “palpable commitment from its creators,” its “ideal musical language” and a score “that is perfectly communicative.” Portions of the opera are in this program.

This Art Burning, a work based on Heller’s poem “Autobiographia,” is a highly-charged multimedia exploration through music and words of the Jewish cultural and musical heritage the two artists share.

A highlight of this performance is the premier of a new piece for violin and video,
Out of Pure Sound, featuring four of Heller’s poems, and performed by violinist Leah Kim.

Other artists involved in the program are percussionist Harvey Price and pianist, Sheri Melcher who will accompany singers Shannon Coulter, Amanda Matyas, Brian Vandenberge and Robert Brandt. Christopher G. McGinley will direct a small choir. Lighting is by Catherine Lee and sound design by Simon Rogers.

This project is partially supported by a grant from the Philadelphia Chapter of the American Composers Forum.

ELLEN FISHMAN-JOHNSON writes for traditional ensembles as well as those incorporating electro-acoustic sound and video. She often works with choreographers, dancers, artists and poets. She recently collaborated for a third time with choreographer and former Martha Graham dancer, Jeanne Ruddy, on a piece titled Lark (2009). Merilyn Jackson writing in The Philadelphia Inquirer cited Fishman-Johnson's "sprightly, complex 21st-century score whose swirling arpeggios harmonized well with the choreography." Her choral piece, Women Who Came Before Us, based on a poem by Naomi Shihab Nye, was described by David Patrick Stearns, music critic for The Philadelphia Inquirer, as "compelling." Fishman-Johnson is currently the Director of New Media at Springside School in Philadelphia.

MICHAEL HELLER has published over twenty books of poetry, essays and memoir, most recently Eschaton (2009) and Beckmann Variations & other poems (2010). Mr. Heller has won numerous awards for his work, which The New York Times described as "intent on inquiry, filled with illumination." His poems and essays have appeared in such publications as The Paris Review, The Nation, The Atlantic Review and The New York Times. He has taught at New York University and at colleges and universities in the United States and Europe. He lives in Manhattan.

[]

CONTACT INFO
Ellen Fishman-Johnson [redacted], [redacted]
Also see www.efjcomoser.com.

Website: www.michaelhellerpoetry.com. Recent publications: Beckmann Variations & other poems (Shearsman, 2010), Eschaton (new poems) (Talisman House Publishers, 2009), Two Novellas: Marble Snows & The Study (ahadada press, 2009) are all available from their publishers, at good bookstores and from SPD and amazon.com. Speaking The Estranged: Essays on the Work of George Oppen (Salt, 2008); Uncertain Poetries: Essays on Poets, Poetry and Poetics (Salt, 2005) and Exigent Futures: New and Selected Poems (Salt, 2003) are available from www.saltpublishing.com, amazon.com and good bookstores. Survey of work at http://www.thing.net/~grist/ld/heller.htm Collaborations with the composer Ellen Fishman Johnson at http://www.efjcomposer.com/EFJ/Collaborations.html Recordings at http://writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/x/Heller.html

Website: www.michaelhellerpoetry.com. Recent publications: Beckmann Variations & other poems (Shearsman, 2010), Eschaton (new poems) (Talisman House Publishers, 2009), Two Novellas: Marble Snows & The Study (ahadada press, 2009) are all available from their publishers, at good bookstores and from SPD and amazon.com. Speaking The Estranged: Essays on the Work of George Oppen (Salt, 2008); Uncertain Poetries: Essays on Poets, Poetry and Poetics (Salt, 2005) and Exigent Futures: New and Selected Poems (Salt, 2003) are available from www.saltpublishing.com, amazon.com and good bookstores. Survey of work at http://www.thing.net/~grist/ld/heller.htm Collaborations with the composer Ellen Fishman Johnson at http://www.efjcomposer.com/EFJ/Collaborations.html Recordings at http://writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/x/Heller.html

↑ Index

241. Michael Heller
Correction and apologies
Sun 22 Aug 2010

Correction: admission to This Art Burning is $15.00. My apologies.

Website: www.michaelhellerpoetry.com. Recent publications: Beckmann Variations & other poems (Shearsman, 2010), Eschaton (new poems) (Talisman House Publishers, 2009), Two Novellas: Marble Snows & The Study (ahadada press, 2009) are all available from their publishers, at good bookstores and from SPD and amazon.com. Speaking The Estranged: Essays on the Work of George Oppen (Salt, 2008); Uncertain Poetries: Essays on Poets, Poetry and Poetics (Salt, 2005) and Exigent Futures: New and Selected Poems (Salt, 2003) are available from www.saltpublishing.com, amazon.com and good bookstores. Survey of work at http://www.thing.net/~grist/ld/heller.htm Collaborations with the composer Ellen Fishman Johnson at http://www.efjcomposer.com/EFJ/Collaborations.html Recordings at http://writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/x/Heller.html

↑ Index

242. Douglas Manson

Re: poetry and pedagogy

Sun 22 Aug 2010

Okay. You're right. First I stopped driving cars and grew new feet, then I learned endocrine phonology and syncopated heartbeat prosody, then I drew a circle around myself and promised not to leave until a bird landed on my outstretched arm and sang 14 iambs.

Afterward I enrolled in the curriculum of the soul and paid all my back parataxes.

Next stop, Coney Island with a six pack and a relapsed phenomenologist.

Pick up thy lyres and toot, o craftspeople.

Or go to:
http://dougfinmanson.blogspot.com/2010/07/courses-workshops-and-seminars-offered.html

and sign up. Classes begin next week. Please pay in potatoes and tomatoes.

D

On Sat, Aug 21, 2010 at 9:41 PM, Stephen Ellis <[redacted]>wrote:

> Why not just write a new poetic pedagogy yourself? Forget buying or borrowing one. What's the point of that? You're going to have to learn to be sterling on your own some day, so what not just start now?
>
> Ciao.
>
> Date: Fri, 20 Aug 2010 21:00:26 -0400
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: poetry and pedagogy
> To: [redacted]

> Hi Everyone
>
> Does anyone know how I can cheaply obtain a copy of Retallack and Spahr's Poetry and Pedagogy: The Challenge of the Contemporary, a book published a > few years ago? the book is ridiculously expensive to buy new and my two main sources of books, the Brooklyn Public and CUNY libraries do not own this book. I am embarrassingly, shamefully poor and disastrously in need of > a new pedagogy and poetics. I am hoping that this book will renew my energies, teaching experiences and my bank account, after I am hired for excitingly new poetry teaching gigs inspired by this book.
>
> I tremendously love adverbs. Do you?
>
> Please backchannel if you know how I can get this book on the cheap.
> Free,
> even.
>
> Your pal,
> Douglas Manson

↑ Index

243. Rob McLennan

new(ish) on rob's clever blog

Mon 23 Aug 2010

-- 12 or 20 questions: with Elizabeth Robinson
-- Walking Brun's Wick: bpNichol's The Martyrology Book 5
-- Joanne Irene Page McLennan: June 30, 1940-August 19, 2010
-- my mother (joanne irene page mclennan): a medical update;
-- call for submisions (forward); dusty owl chapbook
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Alisha Piercy
-- fiction: from "boy and girl and man and woman," a novel-in-progress
-- friday the thirteenth, toronto;
-- Al Rempel, understories
-- rob mclennan's Ottawa poetry workshops: September-December
-- The Peter F. Yacht Club: a miscellany,
-- Lissa Wolsak's Squeezed Light: Collected Poems 1994-2005
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Hank Lazer
-- Creaturely and Other Essays, by Devin Johnston
-- Open Letter 14.3: Kootenay School of Writing

-- 12 or 20 (small press) questions: Meredith Quarter...
-- another weekend in old glengarry;
-- Bloomsday, High Park;
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Alexander Jorgensen
-- Peter Norman's At the Gates of the Theme Park
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Gabriella Goliger
-- 2 new above/ground press chapbooks: Marilyn Irwin + rob mclennan

www.robmclennan.blogspot.com

+ some other new things at ottawa poetry newsletter
www.ottawapoetry.blogspot.com

+ some other new things at the Chaudiere Booksblog
www.chaudierebooks.blogspot.com

-- writer/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...poetry - wild horses (U of Alberta) ...2nd novel - missing persons
www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

244. Christophe Casamassima
Dialogue's End: Inter[re]view with Emily Carr & David Wolach
Mon 23 Aug 2010

---

http://thedialoguesend.blogspot.com/

This is the second installment of inter[re]views between authors at Furniture Press Books and Black Radish Books. In this turn, Emily Carr and David Wolach enter something that looks like the pages of Jaques Derrida's Cinders.

Emily Carr reviews David Wolach's Occultations, while David reviews Emily's Directions for Flying.

↑ Index

245. Jen Tynes
chapbooks from Denrow and Sikkema!
Mon 23 Aug 2010

---

horse less chapbooks from Jennifer Denrow and Mike Sikkema are here!
Order them now!
Right now!
$6 each or both for $10!
Free shipping!

Man o man!
http://www.horselesspress.com/chapbooks.html

↑ Index

246. Nate Pritts
H_NGM_N chapbooks from Liening & Donne
Mon 23 Aug 2010

H_NGM_N BKS has two new portable document format chapbooks out -->

Brad Liening. OBLIVION, MORE.

Matthew Donne. WONDROUS MACHINERY.

Check them out here ::

http://www.h-ngm-n.com/h_ngm_n-books/

_____
:: Dr. Nate Pritts

:: http://www.natepritts.com

↑ Index

247. Susan Wheeler
David Larsen
Tue 24 Aug 2010

David, if you're out there -- or if anyone might give me current contact information -- please backchannel. Thanks! Susan

Susan Wheeler

Creative Writing Program
Princeton University
6th Floor
New South Building
Princeton, NJ 08544

[redacted] office
[redacted]

↑ Index

248. derek beaulieu

new from No: "Crowns Creek" by Steve McCaffery & Steven Ross Smith

Tue 24 Aug 2010

No press is proud to announce the publication of

CROWNS CREEK
by Steve McCaffery & Steven Ross Smith

CROWNS CREEK was originally published in an edition of 100 copies in 1978 by anonbeyondpress and has been reprinted.

published in an edition of 100 copies of 8 leaves in a numbered folder (of which 50 are for sale). $5 each (including shipping)

for more information, or to order copies, email
[redacted]

derek beaulieu
2 - 733 2nd avenue nw
calgary alberta
canada T2N 0E4
[redacted]
http://derekbeaulieu.wordpress.com/

↑ Index

249. amy king

THIS FRIDAY: Julie Doxsee, Curtis Jensen, Jennifer Karmin, Eric Lindley, Ben Mirov and Peter Spagnuolo!

Tue 24 Aug 2010

August 27, Friday ~ Julie Doxsee, Curtis

Stain of Poetry presents:

August 27, Friday ~ Julie Doxsee, Curtis Jensen, Jennifer Karmin, Eric Lindley, Ben Mirov and Peter Spagnuolo!

7 PM @ Goodbye Blue Monday â€“ Bushwick, Brooklyn

with

Julie Doxsee holds a PhD from the University of Denver and is the author of Objects for a Fog Death (Black Ocean 2010) and Undersleep (Octopus Books 2008). She teaches creative writing, literature, and academic writing at Koc University in Istanbul, Turkey, where she lives on the European side of the Bosphorus. ~

Curtis Jensen works and studies in Brooklyn, but heâ€™d rather be somewhere else. He maintains a blog at theendofwaste.blogspot.com ~

Jennifer Karminâ€™s text-sound epic, Aaaaaaaaaaalice, was published by Flim Forum Press in 2010. She curates the Red Rover Series and is co-founder of the public art group Anti Gravity Surprise. Her multidisciplinary projects have been presented at festivals, artist-run spaces, community centers, and on city streets across the U.S., Japan, and Kenya. A proud member of the Dusie Kollektiv, she is the author of the Dusie chapbook Evacuated: Disembodying Katrina. Walking Poem, a collaborative street project, is featured online at How2. At home in Chicago, Jennifer teaches creative writing to immigrants at Truman College and works as a Poet-in-Residence for the public schools. ~

Eric Lindley is a bi-coastal artist/researcher/teacher, living with a foot in New York and a foot in Los Angeles. His work, ranging from critical/creative cross-genre writing, to biofeedback installation, to fluxus-style event scores, puppet-musicals, digital photography, experimentally-based research in cognitive linguistics, and electro-folk music, has appeared in/at: Eoagh, Antennae, Joyland, The Santa Monica Museum of Art, the CUNY graduate galleries, Telic Gallery, the Veleslavasay Panorama, Machine Project, REDCAT, the Knitting Factory, the Juliard School of Music, Pianos, the Smell, The Royal College of Music (UK), STEIM (Netherlands), and many other places that his body has occupied at one point or another. He has recently finished a book-length set of narrative, semi-fictional prose-poems, as well as two full-length albums of electronic folk musicâ€”the second as â€œCareful,â€ to be released March, 2010. Please consider submitting to his lovingly co-edited, online-and-soon-to-be-print literary journal, [out of nothing]. ~

Ben Mirov is the author of I IS TO VORTICISM (New Michigan Press, 2010) and GHOST MACHINE (Cakerain, 2010). He is poetry editor of LIT Magazine and general editor of pax americana. He lives in Brooklyn. ~

Peter Spagnuolo is the author of the letterpress chapbooks A Squatterâ€™s Midden and Ten by Fourteen, as well as Egg and Dart (2010). He lives in Greenpoint, Brooklyn, where his vices have wrestled his virtues to a draw.

at

Goodbye Blue Monday
1087 Broadway
(corner of Dodworth St)
Brooklyn, NY 11221-3013 [redacted]
J M Z trains to Myrtle Ave
or J train to Kosciusko St
~

Hosted by Steven Karl, Erika Moya, and Christie Ann Reynolds
www.stainofpoetry.com

****

Now That's WAC
+ http://wearechampion.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-king.html

Amy's Alias
+ http://amyking.org/
****

↑ Index

250. Michael
AGAINST BIG OIL
Tue 24 Aug 2010

Against Big Oil benefit performance for the Louisiana Bucket Brigade at Rancho Parnassus, 132 Sixth Street (between Natomas and Minna St.) in San Francisco on the 27th of August, 8-11pm.

Musicians, poets and artists: Michael Rothenberg and Terri Carrion of the poetry/music ensemble Rockpile; Jack Hirschman and Agneta Falk Hirschman; Dana Alberts of the band Minus One; performance poetic eruptions of David Magdalene and Judy Irwin (on synthesizer); the eco-eroticism of La Tigresa and the Tongues of Flame; Marc Kockinos, Chrissy Moore, Arthur Sheridan, Josh Boylan, Dee Allen, Geoffrey Todd Lake, Daniel Michael McKenzie, Bethany Rose and Pablo Rosales.

$5 donation no one turned away.

For more info call Carl Macki at [redacted]. Thanks.

↑ Index

251. Sharon Mesmer/David Borchart
Re: Comments in Chinese
Tue 24 Aug 2010

I ran my Chinese blog comments thru Babelfish, made poems, and the poems were pub'd in the recent Satellite Telephone:

http://nolongdistance.endingthealphabet.org/

If you want to see them let me know and I can b/c them to you.

-- Sharon Mesmer

On Aug 18, 2010, at 4:53 PM, marc vincenz wrote:

> Plenty of Chinese SPAM novels out there. No seriously - I lived in Shanghai for over ten years. Some of the best fiction in China is web-based.
> In so far as censorship is concerned, I doubt that anything of serious merit could manage to navigate out of the Chinese government's spiderweb.
> That is, of course, unless you go through Hong Kong. Look at Google for Sun Tzu's sake. FYI, Wolf Totem was available online long before it got on to the bestsellers' list.
>
> On 16 August 2010 17:52, Ann Bogle <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> I've been told that comments in Chinese to weblogs are "spam." I have deleted a few of those comments. Then I realized that they may not be spam but > may be legitimate comments. I have begun to translate 14 of them using Babelfish. They seem to be wisdom sayings, such as this one: "The success may > attract the friend, frustrates may test the friend." I'd like information
> --
> if anyone has experience -- about issues in Chinese blogging, including censorship.

↑ Index

252. CA Conrad
RICHARD BRAUTIGAN Urchin Reading
Tue 24 Aug 2010

RICHARD BRAUTIGAN Urchin Reading

on 9/9/10
all details here: http://UrchinPoetry.blogspot.com
SEE YOU THERE!
CAConrad

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

253. Stephen Vincent
Re: RICHARD BRAUTIGAN Urchin Reading
Tue 24 Aug 2010

Urchin? Yes. Brautigan's origins as a kid were those of a Depression era dirt scraping for whatever he could find & value genuine urchin. But he also grew to be 6' 4" - not exactly an urchin look! But, in my memory, he always lookt physically stark, frail - a scarecrow with the poetry of a sweetheart. I suspect he would love the idea of Conrad & Co. putting his poems up in the air for free. In San Francisco circa 1967, he liked to give broadsides of his poems away gratis on the street.

Stephen V
http://stephenvincent.net/blog/
Among much else, currently featuring a Paris sidewalk 'dare to fashion' photo of Kenny Goldsmith, Cole Swensen, Abgygail Lang, and a mysterioso.

--- On Tue, 8/24/10, CA Conrad <[redacted]> wrote:

From: CA Conrad <[redacted]>
Subject: RICHARD BRAUTIGAN Urchin Reading
To: [redacted]
Date: Tuesday, August 24, 2010, 11:34 AM

RICHARD BRAUTIGAN Urchin Reading

on 9/9/10
all details here: http://UrchinPoetry.blogspot.com
SEE YOU THERE!
CAConrad

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

254. cris cheek
Re: AGAINST BIG OIL
Tue 24 Aug 2010

---

is there a move in favor of "little oil" and if so what is that??

On Aug 24, 2010, at 1:24 PM, Michael wrote:

> Against Big Oil benefit performance for the Louisiana Bucket > Brigade at Rancho Parnassus, 132 Sixth Street (between Natomas and > Minna St.) in San Francisco on the 27th of August, 8-11pm.

>
> Musicians, poets and artists: Michael Rothenberg and Terri Carrion of the poetry/music ensemble Rockpile; Jack Hirschman and Agneta Falk Hirschman; Dana Alberts of the band Minus One; performance poetic eruptions of David Magdalene and Judy Irwin (on synthesizer); the eco-eroticism of La Tigresa and the Tongues of Flame; Marc Kockinos, Chrissy Moore, Arthur Sheridan, Josh Boylan, Dee Allen, Geoffrey Todd Lake, Daniel Michael McKenzie, Bethany Rose and Pablo Rosales.
>
> $5 donation no one turned away.
>
> For more info call Carl Macki at [redacted]. Thanks.
>
> welcome.html

↑ Index

255. Al Filreis

PoemTalk #35: Bruce Andrews

Tue 24 Aug 2010

Today we are releasing the 35th episode of the PoemTalk series. This is a 25-minute audio podcast program, a discussion of Bruce Andrews's "Center" from Moebius. The PoemTalkers this time are Tan Lin, Sarah Dowling, and Chris Funkhouser.

http://www.poemtalk.org
http://www.poetryfoundation.org/journal/audioitem.html?id=2616

PoemTalk is a co-production of the Center for Programs in Contemporary Writing, the Kelly Writers House, and the Poetry Foundation.

Next time on PoemTalk, we are on the road, in Chicago, talking with three Chicagoans about Jennifer Scappettone's rewriting of H.D.

- Al Filreis

Al Filreis
Kelly Professor
Faculty Dir., Kelly Writers House
Dir., Center for Programs in Contemporary Writing
University of Pennsylvania
http://www.writing.upenn.edu/~afilreis

Al Filreis
Kelly Professor
Faculty Dir., Kelly Writers House
Dir., Center for Programs in Contemporary Writing
University of Pennsylvania

↑ Index

256. Jeffrey Side
Interview with Sheila E. Murphy at The Argotist Online
Tue 24 Aug 2010

Interview with Sheila E. Murphy at The Argotist Online:
http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Murphy%20interview.htm

↑ Index

257. steve dalachinsky
Re: AGAINST BIG OIL
Wed 25 Aug 2010

---

just saw a film about nazis and an unfished film about warsaw ghetto they made for propaganda purposes - talk about destroying the planet what's a bit of gas here or there

On Wed, 25 Aug 2010 12:39:12 -0700 Jim Andrews <[redacted]> writes:
> what an idea mr ford!!! amazing!!!
> the car and millions of them!!!
>
> thank you, yes, it's the way to go.
>
> it's great, just great, except it ends up destroying the planet.
>
> what? destroying the planet? how could it?
>
> the chemical burning process of the fuel pollutes the atmosphere and > wars > are fought for possession of oil resources and even though we come
> to > realize that oil is destroying the planet, the massive global > engines of > industry depend on it and will not relinquish their dependence on > it.
>
> i couldn't possibly know that.

>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
>
>
>

↑ Index

258. Christophe Casamassima

Furniture Press Poetry Prize - Last Week to Enter

Wed 25 Aug 2010

Greetings, everyone,

The FPPP ends on August 31, 2010.

If you'd still like to enter, please see the following link:

http://furniturepressbooks.com/furniture-press-poetry-prize/

Furniture Press Poetry Prize
2nd Annual Furniture Press Poetry Prize

Deadline: August 31, 2010

Judge: M. Magnus, author of Verb Sap (Narrow House, 2008), and the forthcoming Heraclitean Pride (Furniture Press, 2010).

Winner of the 2009 Furniture Press Poetry Prize: Emily Carr’s Directions for Flying: Right Side Lower Arms Raise Arms Bend Knees Repeat on Left (36 Fits: A Young Wife’s Almanac).

The 2nd annual Furniture Press Poetry Prize will be awarded to the writer that best exemplifies the poetics and particularities of Furniture Press’ editors and judges.

One judge will be invited to determine a manuscript’s “pressability” and will work with anonymous, unidentified texts. Only the editor of Furniture Press will know the true identity of the applicants and their work. Each text will be assigned a number and distributed to the judge.

After the first round of readings, the judge will assign a winner. The winner of the Prize will receive a publishing contract in which the winning manuscript will be published as a trade paperback. S/he will also receive 20 copies of his/her book. All applicants will receive a copy of the winning title.

1. Send 1 unpublished manuscript per entry. It must be between 50 and 80 pages of poetry and/or its derivatives. Include a cover letter with your name, address, eMail and short bio. Do not put your name or the title of your submission on the pages of the manuscript.

2. Send a $10 fee per manuscript submitted. 100% of the cash goes to the pressing, publishing and promotion of the winning books. Editors and judges do not get kickbacks. Please send checks or money orders only, made out to Furniture Press.

2a. You can send a $10 fee by choosing “Pay Now” below. Remember to add your name and manuscript title to the “Special Instructions” box when ordering. If you do not add this information, we cannot verify that you paid the fee!

3. Send manuscripts to Furniture Press Poetry Prize c/o Towson Arts Collective, 406 York Road (lower level), Towson, MD 21204. The manuscripts may also be sent electronically to

[redacted].

Please use the following format in your subject line: FPPP submission, [author name], [title]. Also, please let us know when the $10 fee was sent so we may match it with the submission.

We strongly encourage you to send us work – it’s also a very good way to catch the attention of the editors who may want to publish your work in the future, despite whether or not you win the prize. Plus you get copies of the winning book (hopefully yours!) plus chapbooks and ephemera from our past catalogues.

↑ Index

259. amy king
HOWL ! Festival 2010 POETRY Events
Wed 25 Aug 2010

HOWL ! Festival 2010 POETRY Events

Dear Friends:

You are

HOWL ! Festival 2010 POETRY Events

Dear Friends:

You are invited to attend this yearâ€™s HOWL ! Festival !
We have a number of poetry events which I hope you will come and experience:

Monday Sept 6th Theatre 80 St. Marks: 80 Saint Marks Place 4pm-6pm $10.00 SISTER SON/JI by Sonia Sanchez In Sister Son/Ji, written by Sonia Sanchez, directed by SC2 and starring Jacqueline Gregg, poet/playwright Sanchez unflinchingly examines the paradoxical notions of liberation within in the Black Power Movement. Sonia Sanchez is a Poet. Mother. Professor. National and International lecturer on Black Culture and Literature, Womenâ€™s Liberation, Peace and Racial Justice, as well as an author of over 16 books... Sc2 is the founder & Artistic Director of BeBop Theatre Collective... Jacqueline Gregg, who has performed in countless plays, both classical and modern, also works extensively with various educational theatre organizations, bringing classical as well as contemporary theatre to schools in and around New York City. After the show we will present a Talk-Back with Ms. Sanchez. Door proceeds to benefit the Actors Fund for HOWL! HELP. Advance Tickets: http://www.brownpapertickets.com/event/124400

Tuesday Sept 7th Theatre 80 St. Marks: 80 Saint Marks Place 8pm-10:30pm $10.00 THE BEAT LEGACY IN FILM, WORDS & MUSIC: Ruth Du, Marc Thorman & Bob Holman ALLEN GINSBERG, WILLIAM BURROUGHS and JOHN CAGEâ€¦ their groundbreaking and experimental work in the Post War years still resonates and has influenced many of the current generation of artists living and working now in the East Village/Lower East Side. Tonightâ€™s program celebrates that and features RUTH DU's short film 'SIX '55', an historical interpretation of the first night Allen Ginsberg recited 'Howl' in San Francisco, at the Six Gallery in 1955... 2 PIECES BY MARC THORMAN -- 'Writing through Howl (1986) For Allen Ginsberg on his Sixtieth Birthday' by John Cage, an example of Cage's 'writing through' process, which searches the poem 'Howl' sequentially for words that share letters with Allen Ginsberg's name resulting in what Cage called 'mesostic' poetry, his term derived from the word 'acrostic' and 'I Am Right, You Are Wrong,' music by Marc Thorman, text by William S. Burroughs featuring the recorded voice of Allen Ginsberg reading the text to two live improvised instrumental trios. With Marc Thorman: piano, Gregory Post: keyboards, Eric Cooper: cello, Sean Ormiston: string bass, and Patrick O'Reilly & Cory Bracken on percussion. Marc Thorman is a composer, pianist, author and teacher in New York City. His compositions include works for computer, live electronics, solo piano, voice, orchestra, and chamber ensembles, as well as mixed-media works that combine sounds, spoken word, and visual images. Marc earned a doctoral degree in music composition from the City University of New York in 2002 and has taught music theory and history in CUNY colleges citywide. In the 1990s He edited the legendary 'zine 'High Heel News'... So far as we know, BOB HOLMAN and his porkpie are the sole purveyors of the Lower East Side Poetry Hat Trick: he ran readings and was Project Coordinator at the St Mark's Poetry Project from1974-84, helped reopen and was the Original Slammaster of the Nuyorican Poets Cafe 1988-96, and founded and has been Artistic Director of the Bowery Poetry Club since 2002. For good measure, he was on the Board of A Gathering of the Tribes from 1994-2000. He teaches at Columbia and NYU, and recently helped found the Endangered Language Alliance, using poetry to illuminate the plight of vanishing languages and cultures. In his spare time he writes the poems; tonight he reads them to us. Door proceeds to benefit The Actors Fund for HOWL! HELP. Advance tickets:

http://www.brownpapertickets.com/event/123728

Thursday Sept 9th Theatre 80 St. Marks: 80 Saint Marks Place 8pm-9:30pm $10.00 FILM: JERRY ARONSON'S 'THE LIFE AND TIMES OF ALLEN GINSBERG' The re-release of Jerry Aronson's biopic, The Life and Times of Allen Ginsberg, timed to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of 'Howl,' suits this wonderful documentary and proves Ginsberg central to all radical artistic and political movements of the past 60 years. The feature-length film, segmented by decade, provides ample footage of Ginsberg's life; but extras added into this package, including footage of his memorial and 35 interviews with artists inspired by the visionary poet--from Beck to Lawrence Ferlinghetti--solidify Ginsberg as an American cultural icon. The film unravels Ginsberg's obsession for life and death around his mother's nervous breakdown and his father's affinity for poetry. Interviews with Ginsberg from each decade, both amongst his Beat friends like Burroughs and Huncke, and later with talk show hosts William Buckley and Dick Cavett, show the author's progression from sexual politics in the '40s and '50s to the 'politics of ecstasy' in the '60s and '70s, when he founded the Flower Power movement with Tim Leary, and later, Naropa Univeristy. Ample footage of Ginsberg's stepmother provides a sensitive outsider's opinion on how he blossomed into one of the most spontaneous minds of the century. The film transcends simple Ginsberg descriptions by framing his life with historical happenings to contextualize the author's words and actions. The Life and Times of Allen Ginsberg reminds the viewer that there is no better example of an artist devoted to a life of letters, activism, and idealism than the original beatnik... Following the screening, there will be a talk-back with director Jerry Aronson...Door proceeds to benefit The Actors Fund for HOWL! HELP. Advance Tickets: http://www.brownpapertickets.com/event/124543

Friday Sept 10th Tompkins Square Park South Stage 5pm to 7pm FREE ! The HOWL ! Festival in the Park begins with the Allen Ginsberg Poetry Reading: featuring poets Anne Waldman with Ambrose Bye, John Giorno, hosted by Bob Holman with readings by Betsy Andrews, Jennifer Blowdryer, Ana Bozicevic, Guillermo Castro, Steve Dalachinsky, Thomas Fucaluro, Daniel Gallant, Alan Gilbert, Amy King, Mariposa, Douglas A. Martin, Angelo Nikolopoulos, Amy Ouzunian, Meghann Plunkett, Jon Sands, Susan Scotti, Jean Ann Verlee, Michael Warr, Chavisa Woods, Advocate of Wordz, Ra ARA ya and a group reading of Allen Ginsbergâ€™s poem HOWL.

Saturday Sept 11th Tompkins Square Park Stage 11am to 7pm FREE ! Poets in the Park : Poets Bill Kushner, Kristin Prevallet, Eileen Myles, Emmanuel Xavier, and Dorothy Lasky will read throughout the day. Tyler Burbaâ€™s band: Visit, a band greatly inspired by Allen Ginsberg's life and works, will be paying tribute to Ginsberg's lesser-known musical side by performing songs off his album First Blues as well as songs featured on the boxset Holy Soul Jelly Roll ("Airplane Blues," "Vomit Express," "Gospel Noble Truths"). The band will perform songs of William Blake's that Ginsberg tuned ("Infant Joy," "The Echoing Green," "The Sick Rose"), as well as original songs that were inspired by Ginsberg's work. More info: www.visit-music.net Go to www.howlfestival.com see the calendar for complete schedule of days events.

Saturday Sept 11th and Sunday Sept 12th Theatre 80 St. Marks: 80 Saint Marks Place: 8pm to 9:30pm $10.00 All-Male OEDIPUS REX A vibrant rendition of the ancient Greek classic, The Faux-Real Theatre Company in conjunction with Verse Theater Manhattan presents an all-male OEDIPUS REX, 'exactly as Sophocles intended it!' With a cast of 12 utilizing the performance techniques of the ancient Greeks, Faux-Real presents a 'traditional' rendition of Sophoclesâ€™ OEDIPUS REX that says 'what was considered traditional 2400 years ago is off-the-hook today.' Incorporating the colorful aesthetic of these ancient performances and utilizing a broad physical style of acting powered by live music, songs and dancing, ALL-MALE OEDIPUS REX looks beyond the 'fate versus free will' interpretations of this classic, to explore the alluring underbelly of this primal text. Their heightened approach reveals what is terrifying and vital in this most tragic of tragedies, enhancing the storyâ€™s power to roil our subconscious and awaken the heroes within. Founding Artistic Director of The Faux-Real Theatre Company, Mark Greenfield has created such shows as FUNBOX Times Square, William Shakespeareâ€™s Haunted House and Htebcam (A Backwards Re-working of Macbeth). In addition to his work with Faux-Real, Mark was a writer for the Drew Barrymore film Whip It, and the lead actor in the Amir Naderi film VEGAS: Based on a True Story (to be released this fall). Greenfield toured the country for two-years with IMAGO the Theatre Mask Ensemble, and he played Arlecchino for five-years with the Southern Italian Commedia dellâ€™Arte company I Giullari Di Piazza. Door proceeds to benefit The Actors Fund for HOWL! HELP. More Information: http://www.fauxreal.org Advance Tickets: http://www.brownpapertickets.com/event/124635

Monday, Sep 13 Theatre 80 St. Marks: 80 Saint Marks Place 8pm -10:30pm $10.00 Regie Cabicoâ€™s â€œthat bird looks like 2 mustaches kissingâ€ A queer multidisciplinary exploration of love, marriage and gender, curated and hosted by spoken word pioneer and comedian Regie Cabico. With film director and monologuist Silas Howard, performance artist Heather Arc and others... Regie Cabico is a spoken word pioneer having won the Nuyorican Poets Cafe Grand Slam and is the first openly queer and Asian American performer to take top prizes in the National Poetry Slam. Television credits include 2 seasons of HBOâ€™s Def Poetry Jam. He is the recipient of three New York Innovative Theater Award Nominations for his work in the New York Company of TOO MUCH LIGHT MAKES THE BABY GO BLIND, with an award for Best Performance Art Production. The Kenyon Review recently named him 'The Lady Gaga of Poetry' and Bust Magazine named him in the 100 Men We Love... Door proceeds to benefit The Actors Fund for HOWL! HELP. Advance Tickets: http://www.brownpapertickets.com/event/124644

Thursday, Sep 16 Saint Marks Church In-The-Bowery, 131 East 10th Street (at Second Avenue) 8 pm - 10 pm $8.00 The Howl! Arts Project 2010 Presents: POETRY TURN ON ! Poets Thomas Fucaloro, Meghann Plunkett, Jon Sands, Jeanann Verlee, Michael Warr of The Bowery Poetry Club, poets Steve Cannon , Steve Dalachinsky, Amy Ouzoonian, Susan Scutti, Chavisa Woods, RA ARA ya of A Gathering of the Tribes, poets Daniel Gallant, Vanessa Hidary, Mariposa, Advocate of Wordz of Nuyorican Poets Cafe, and poets Julian Brolaski, Joanna Fuhrman, Paolo Javier, Dorothea Lasky of The Poetry Project come together one night only to share their poems with you... Hosted by Nathaniel Siegel to benefit HOWL! H.E.L.P. Advance Tickets: http://www.brownpapertickets.com/event/124975

Saturday, Sept 18th and Sunday Sept 19th Theatre 80 St. Marks: 80 Saint Marks Place 2pm - 3:15pm $5.00 URBAN WORD: VERBAL FIRE Urban Word mentor Regie Cabico and Executive Director Michael Cirelli curate and host a spoken word showcase by New Yorkâ€™s young poets and their mentors who have taken top prizes at Brave New Voices International Youth Poetry Slam competition, Speak Green at Sundance Film Festival, and the National Poetry Slam. See why they are the current reigning champions on HBOâ€™s Brave New Voices documentary... Regie Cabico is a spoken word pioneer having won the Nuyorican Poets Cafe Grand Slam and is the first openly queer and Asian American performer to take top prizes in the National Poetry Slam. Television credits include 2 seasons of HBOâ€™s Def Poetry Jam. He is the recipient of three New York Innovative Theater Award Nominations for his work in the New York Company of TOO MUCH LIGHT MAKES THE BABY GO BLIND, with an award for Best Performance Art Production. The Kenyon Review recently named him 'The Lady Gaga of Poetry' and Bust Magazine named him in the 100 Men We Love... Michael Cirelli is the Executive Director of Urban Word NYC, a grassroots non-profit organization that provides free, safe, uncensored and ongoing writing and performance opportunities for NYC teens. He is also the director of the Annual Spoken Word & Hip-Hop Teacher & Community Leader Training Institute at the University of Wisconsin that won the 2007 North American Association of Summer Sessions 'Creative and Innovative Program Award.' He is the author of the award-winning teaching guide, 'Hip-Hop Poetry & the Classics' (Milk Mug, 2004), a standards-based curriculum that explores the relationship between hip-hop lyrics and 'classic' poems. He is currently working on two other curricula utilizing hip-hop to engage students. His collection of poetry, 'Lobster with Olâ€™ Dirty Bastard' (Hanging Loose, 2008) was a NY Times Book Review independent press best seller, and his next book, 'Vacations on the Black Star Line' (Hanging Loose, 2009) is forthcoming. Along with teaching writing workshops and performing across the country, he was previously the director of PEN Center Westâ€™s 'Poet in the Classroom Program.' He was featured on season 5 of Russell Simmons' Def Poetry... Founded on the belief that teenagers can and must speak for themselves, Urban Word NYCâ„¢ (UW) has been at the forefront of the youth spoken word, poetry and hip-hop movements in New York City since 1999. Door proceeds to benefit The Actors Fund for HOWL! HELP. More Information: http://www.urbanwordnyc.org/uwnyc/index.php?q=About Advance Tickets: http://www.brownpapertickets.com/event/124662

Thank you for your support of this yearâ€™s HOWL ! Festival and HOWL ! ARTS Project to benefit HOWL ! H.E.L.P !

Peace and love,

Nathaniel A. Siegel
HOWL ! Festival

--
****

Now That's WAC
+ http://wearechampion.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-king.html

Nepotism?
+ http://tsky-reviews.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-kings-slaves-to-do-these-things.html

Amy's Alias
+ http://amyking.org/
****

↑ Index

260. Cara Benson
Reminder: Yes! Reading Thurs Albany, NY
Wed 25 Aug 2010

Please post and forward!
(Plus show up, eh? People are coming in from out of town to read for us. Albany, represent!)

Yes! Reading series launches fall/winter season with 3 stellar poets...

Sarah Giragosian, Jennifer Karmin, Maryrose Larkin: Yes!
Thursday, August 26 @ 7:30pm
Social Justice Center
33 Central Avenue
Albany, NY
Â
Sarah Giragosian earned an MFA in poetry from Boston University. She has interned as an assistant editor at Boston Review and recently had the opportunity to assist Professor Robert Shaw with editing his text, Blank Verse: A Guide to its History and Use, published through Ohio University Press. Her work has appeared in The New York Times. She is a PhD candidate at SUNY Albany.

Jennifer Karminâ€™s text-sound epic, Aaaaaaaaaaalice,...was published by Flim Forum Press in 2010. She curates the Red Rover Series and is co-founder of the public art group Anti Gravity Surprise. Her multidisciplinary projects have been presented at festivals, artist-run spaces, community centers, and on city streets across the U.S., Japan, and Kenya. A proud member of the Dusie Kollektiv, she is the author of the Dusie chapbook Evacuated: Disembodying Katrina. Walking Poem, a collaborative street project, is featured online at How2. In Chicago, Jennifer teaches creative writing to immigrants at Truman College and works as a Poet-in-Residence for the public schools.

Maryrose Larkin lives in Portland, Oregon, where she works as a freelance researcher. She is the author of Inverse (nine muses books, 2006), Whimsy Daybook 2007 (FLASH+CARD, 2006), The Book of Ocean (i.e. press, 2007) and DARC (FLASH+CARD, 2009. Larkin is one of the organizsers of Spare Room, a Portland-based writing collective, and is co-editor, with Sarah Mangold, of FLASH+CARD, a chapbook and ephemera poetry press. Her new book, The Name of This Intersection is Frost, is forthcoming from Shearsman Books.

Â
http://yesreading.wordpress.com/Â or http://www.facebook.com/profile.php?id=560292797#!/event.php?eid=126473417399159&ref=mf

Â
You can't so no to yes.

↑ Index

261. amy king
Fw: Poets for Living Waters in Poets & Writers
Wed 25 Aug 2010

Poets and Writers Magazine --- latest ---

http://www.pw.org/content/poets_act_on_oil_spill

Best,

Amy

--
****
Now That's WAC
+ http://wearechampion.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-king.html

Nepotism?
+ http://tsky-reviews.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-kings-slaves-to-do-these-things.html

Amy's Alias
+ http://amyking.org/
****

↑ Index

262. mIEKAL aND
Re: AGAINST BIG OIL
Wed 25 Aug 2010

At the cooperative (http://organicvalley.coop) I work at we are encouraging a lot of farmers to grow sunflowers, hazelnuts or switchgrass & produce their own bio-fuels on site. No mega-corporations, endangered environment, policy wonks, graft, militarization of third world countries needed.

~mIEKAL

On Tue, Aug 24, 2010 at 3:49 PM, cris cheek <[redacted]> wrote:
> is there a move in favor of "little oil" and if so what is that??
>

↑ Index

263. Millicent
Re: Poets for Living Waters in Poets & Writers
Wed 25 Aug 2010

It is a beautiful site and I am very proud to be a part of it! Thanks for posting the link.

Millicent Borges Accardi

-----Original Message-----
From: amy king <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Wed, Aug 25, 2010 1:19 pm
Subject: Fw: Poets for Living Waters in Poets & Writers

Poets and Writers Magazine --- latest --- http://www.pw.org/content/poets_act_on_oil_spill

est,
Amy

--
****
ow That's WAC
 http://wearechampion.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-king.html
Nepotism?
 http://tsky-reviews.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-kings-slaves-to-do-these-things.html

Amy's Alias
 http://amyking.org/
****

↑ Index

264. Mark Weiss
Re: AGAINST BIG OIL
Wed 25 Aug 2010

Extra virgin?

At 04:49 PM 8/24/2010, you wrote:
>is there a move in favor of "little oil" and if so what is that??
>
>
>On Aug 24, 2010, at 1:24 PM, Michael wrote:
>
>>

>>Against Big Oil benefit performance for the Louisiana Bucket >>Brigade at Rancho Parnassus, 132 Sixth Street (between Natomas and >>Minna St.) in San Francisco on the 27th of August, 8-11pm.
>>
>>Musicians, poets and artists: Michael Rothenberg and Terri Carrion >>of the poetry/music ensemble Rockpile; Jack Hirschman and Agneta >>Falk Hirschman; Dana Alberts of the band Minus One; performance >>poetic eruptions of David Magdalene and Judy Irwin (on >>synthesizer); the eco-eroticism of La Tigresa and the Tongues of >>Flame; Marc Kockinos, Chrissy Moore, Arthur Sheridan, Josh Boylan, >>Dee Allen, Geoffrey Todd Lake, Daniel Michael McKenzie, Bethany
>>Rose and Pablo Rosales.
>>
>>
>>$5 donation no one turned away.
>>
>>
>>For more info call Carl Macki at [redacted]. Thanks.
>>
>

New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
$16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm

"What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the poet alive in every sense of the word, and through every one of his senses. Instead of missing a beat or a part, Weiss' fragments are
like Chekhov's short storiesthe more that gets
left out, the more they seem to contain… One can
hear echoes from all the various
ancestors...[but] the voice, at its center, its
core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment
is both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure
musical threnody…[it] opens a window, not only
into a mind, but a person, a personality, this
human figure at the emotional center of the poem."

M.G. Stephens, in Jacket.
http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml

↑ Index

265. Maria Damon
Re: Fw: Poets for Living Waters in Poets & Writers
Wed 25 Aug 2010

---

yay. you go grrls.

amy king wrote:
> Poets and Writers Magazine --- latest ---
>
> http://www.pw.org/content/poets_act_on_oil_spill
>
>
> Best,
>
> Amy
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

266. Mark Melnicove
Bern Porter Chronology
Wed 25 Aug 2010

Bern Porter Chronology, 1954-1962, by Bern Porter (typescript from 1960 and 1962) can now be found at:

www.bernporter.com

Mark Melnicove
Bern Porter Literary Executor

↑ Index

267. Jim Andrews
Re: AGAINST BIG OIL
Wed 25 Aug 2010

---

what an idea mr ford!!! amazing!!!
the car and millions of them!!!

thank you, yes, it's the way to go.

it's great, just great, except it ends up destroying the planet.

what? destroying the planet? how could it?

the chemical burning process of the fuel pollutes the atmosphere and wars are fought for possession of oil resources and even though we come to realize that oil is destroying the planet, the massive global engines of industry depend on it and will not relinquish their dependence on it.

i couldn't possibly know that.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

268. amy king
Some readers read Bill Knott
Wed 25 Aug 2010

More here -- http://www.flickr.com/photos/amyking/sets/72157624682880241/

Cheers,

Amy

p.s. Marc Weiss ...

--
****
Now That's WAC
+ http://wearechampion.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-king.html

Nepotism?
+ http://tsky-reviews.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-kings-slaves-to-do-these-things.html

Amy's Alias
+ http://amyking.org/
****

↑ Index

269. Mark Weiss
Re: Some readers read Bill Knott
Wed 25 Aug 2010

Who's the fat old dude with the sute chick? Oh, that's me!

Can you send it to me as an attachment? I don't know how to capture an image from Flickr.

At 05:43 PM 8/25/2010, you wrote:
>More here -- http://www.flickr.com/photos/amyking/sets/72157624682880241/

>
>Cheers,
>
>Amy
>
>
>p.s. Marc Weiss ...
>
>
>
>--
>******
>Now That's WAC
>+ http://wearechampion.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-king.html
>
>Nepotism?
>+
>http://tsky-reviews.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-kings-slaves-to-do-these-things.html
>
>
>
>Amy's Alias
>+ http://amyking.org/
>*****
>
>
>
>
>

New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
$16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm

"What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the poet alive in every sense of the word, and through every one of his senses. Instead of missing a beat or a part, Weiss' fragments are like Chekhov's short storiesthe more that gets left out, the more they seem to contain… One can hear echoes from all the various ancestors...[but] the voice, at its center, its

core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment
is both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure
musical threnody…[it] opens a window, not only
into a mind, but a person, a personality, this
human figure at the emotional center of the poem."

M.G. Stephens, in Jacket.
http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml

↑ Index

270. Mark Weiss
Re: AGAINST BIG OIL
Wed 25 Aug 2010

What he really would have said is "it's the Jews' fault."

At 03:39 PM 8/25/2010, you wrote:
>what an idea mr ford!!! amazing!!!
>the car and millions of them!!!
>
>thank you, yes, it's the way to go.
>
>it's great, just great, except it ends up destroying the planet.
>
>what? destroying the planet? how could it?
>
>the chemical burning process of the fuel >pollutes the atmosphere and wars are fought for >possession of oil resources and even though we >come to realize that oil is destroying the >planet, the massive global engines of industry >depend on it and will not relinquish their dependence on it.
>
>i couldn't possibly know that.
>
>ja
>http://vispo.com

New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
$16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm

"What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the poet alive in every sense of the word, and through every one of his senses. Instead of

missing a beat or a part, Weiss' fragments are
like Chekhov's short storiesthe more that gets
left out, the more they seem to contain… One can
hear echoes from all the various
ancestors...[but] the voice, at its center, its
core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment
is both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure
musical threnody…[it] opens a window, not only
into a mind, but a person, a personality, this
human figure at the emotional center of the poem."

M.G. Stephens, in Jacket.
http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml

↑ Index

271. amy king
Re: Fw: Poets for Living Waters in Poets & Writers
Wed 25 Aug 2010

Thanks, Millicent and Maria!

----- Original Message ----
From: Maria Damon

yay. you go grrls.

amy king wrote:
> Poets and Writers Magazine --- latest ---

> http://www.pw.org/content/poets_act_on_oil_spill

↑ Index

272. Michael Carr
Acting Out by Alli Warren
Thu 26 Aug 2010

Please see the announcement below.
Michael Carr

---------- Forwarded message ----------
From: Editions Louis Wain <[redacted]>
Date: Wed, Aug 25, 2010 at 8:00 PM
Subject: Acting Out by Alli Warren
To: [redacted]

Editions Louis Wain is pleased to announce the availability of a new chapbook:

Acting Out
by Alli Warren
28 pgs, saddle-stapled
Cover art by Matthew Arnone
$6

For a sample from this book, and to purchase it through Paypal, please visit the site:
http://editionslouiswain.com/books/

Also available from Editions Louis Wain:
- Succubus Blues by Jim Behrle
- Roseland by Dana Ward
- Necco Face by Michael Carr, Jess Mynes, & Aaron Tieger
- The Collected Typos of Aaron Tieger

Special Offer -- get all five ELW publications for $22, see the site for details.

↑ Index

273. cris cheek
Re: AGAINST BIG OIL
Thu 26 Aug 2010

---

so JIm,

what forms of transport have you used during the past five years??

and if you're really in such a retro-eco frame of mind, why do you use the internet??

xx

cc

On Aug 25, 2010, at 3:39 PM, Jim Andrews wrote:

> what an idea mr ford!!! amazing!!!
> the car and millions of them!!!
>
> thank you, yes, it's the way to go.
>
> it's great, just great, except it ends up destroying the planet.
>
> what? destroying the planet? how could it?
>
> the chemical burning process of the fuel pollutes the atmosphere > and wars > are fought for possession of oil resources and even though we come to > realize that oil is destroying the planet, the massive global > engines of > industry depend on it and will not relinquish their dependence on it.

>
> i couldn't possibly know that.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
>
> welcome.html

↑ Index

274. Drew McKevitt
Vallum call for submissions
Thu 26 Aug 2010

Vallum 8:1 "Futures" call for submissions / www.vallummag.com

We plunge forward, often with our eyes closed, not knowing what is in store for us. Realities unfold, dreams are realized or fail to materialize. Many possible futures are on the verge of happening. What do we have to say about the time that has yet to come, the Future(s) of this world?

ALSO: Special Section on "Found" and "Overheard" Poems.

Audio files, visual art, reviews, essays or poet interviews can be submitted by email. Poetry must be submitted by regular mail.

DEADLINE: October 1, 2010

Please mail all poetry submissions to:

Vallum

PO BOX 598, Victoria Station

Montreal, QC H3Z 2Y6

CANADA

↑ Index

275. mIEKAL aND
email for Clark Coolidge
Thu 26 Aug 2010

---

apologies for sending to the list

does anyone have an email for Clark Coolidge?

~mIEKAL

↑ Index

276. amy king

Geoffrey Gatza's SECRETS OF MY PRISON HOUSE --- Now Available!

Thu 26 Aug 2010

Geoffrey Gatzaâ€™s poems go straight to the point
NOW AVAILABLE!

Geoffrey Gatzaâ€™s poems go straight to the point. From one to another the plane is consistent, the tone both literate and congenial; the feeling, one of an assessment of options while moving through choice to definition, a definition-in-progress of how to be, allowing large time outs for horseplay, an inventory of asides that end up occupying large chunks of mind. The book as ethos â€“ you can live with it -- you wish â€“ why not?

â€”Bill Berkson

Poetry expects poets to do their duty, writes Geoffrey Gatza in "Tempus Fidget".

GG certainly does his duty by us, poetry readers. In so many ways. His vast publishing energy, so much to be grateful for. And in these pages you will find unmistakable evidence of a perhaps even greater benison: many terrific original works. This is one of the brightest new voices in poetry today.

Secrets of My Prison House is a consistently exciting, nervy collection of mind-moment-heart-truths that will slip inside you and unpredictably grow. A Gatza poem inscribes (as the great cover photo promises) the tears of a clown wandering in the city. Vividly and freely colored by the golden crayon of choices, the poems like a clown's tears may enter your busy day for a while and quickly enough wash away. But not from the whacky inner sanctum of feeling. And only until night falls.

Steel is heavy, steel is art.

I'd rather speak to the cat.

Yes, and yes.

â€”Tom Clark

Inventions. I want to say that Gatzaâ€™s poetic inventions get inside my mind and change it, â€œstopopedâ€ in this uncomfortable era where elegance is mismatched with a kind of directness that zeros in and rockets. Inventions that make one think twice and look again. â€œWell strike me up a gum tree.â€

â€”Hoa Nguyen

@ BLAZEVOX BOOKS -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ggatza.htm

Book Information:
Â· Paperback: 100 pages
Â· Binding: Perfect-Bound
Â· Publisher: BlazeVOX [books]
Â· ISBN: 978-1-60964-000-2

Geoffrey Gatza is the editor and Publisher of BlazeVOX [books] and the author of eight books of poetry; Secrets of my Prison House will be out in the Fall of 2010. Kenmore: Poem Unlimited and Not So Fast Robespierre are now available from Menendez Publishing. HouseCat Kung Fu: Strange Poems for Wild Children is also available from Meritage Press. He lives in Buffalo, NY with his girlfriend and two cats.

http://www.geoffreygatza.com/
http://www.blazevox.org

****
Now That's WAC
+ http://wearechampion.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-king.html

Amy's Alias
+ http://amyking.org/
****

↑ Index

277. George Bowering
Re: email for Clark Coolidge
Thu 26 Aug 2010

Clark doesnt do computer.
You have to write him by regular mail.

gb

On Aug 26, 2010, at 9:06 AM, mIEKAL aND wrote:

> apologies for sending to the list
>
> does anyone have an email for Clark Coolidge?
>
> ~mIEKAL
>
> welcome.html

George Bowering

I'll take meatloaf

↑ Index

278. Jim Andrews
Re: AGAINST BIG OIL
Thu 26 Aug 2010

> so JIm,
>
> what forms of transport have you used during the past five years??

plane train automobile bike shank's mare poetry.

> and if you're really in such a retro-eco frame of mind, why do you use the internet??

because the internet is the only place to talk with progressive people who say computers are to blame for the economic collapse and computer art is fascistic.

kidding aside, our engineers need to consider eco systems when building engine systems, and i think we're all sick of billionaire oil idiots running the world into the ground and politician stooges like george w bush catering to their desires at the expense of the environment. it seems fairly obvious by now, doesn't it, that the engines of industry (and our cars and so on) are going to have to burn things like hydrogen, the byproduct of which is water, rather than petroleum. and the same goes for the engines that make those engines.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

279. Paul Nelson
A typical Billy Collins
Fri 27 Aug 2010

---

fan:

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=uVu4Me_n91Y

Paul E. Nelson

SPLAB!
C. City, WA
[redacted]

↑ Index

280. amy king

TONIGHT - FRIDAY -- Julie Doxsee, Curtis Jensen, Jennifer Karmin, Eric Lindley, Ben Mirov and Peter Spagnuolo!

Fri 27 Aug 2010

August 27, Friday ~ Julie Doxsee, Curtis Stain of Poetry presents:August 27, Friday ~ Julie Doxsee, Curtis Jensen, Jennifer Karmin, Eric Lindley, Ben Mirov and Peter Spagnuolo!7 PM @ Goodbye Blue Monday ÃƒÂƒÃ‚Â¢ÃƒÂ‚Ã‚Â€ÃƒÂ‚Ã‚Â“ Bushwick, BrooklynwithJulie Doxsee holds a PhD from the Unersity of Denver and is theauthor of Objects for a Fog Death (Black Ocean 2010) and Undersleep(Octopus Books 2008). She teaches creative writing, literature, andacademic writing at Koc University in Istanbul, Turkey, where shelives on the European side of the Bosphorus.~Curtis Jensen works and studies in Brooklyn, but heÃƒÂ¢Ã‚Â€Ã‚Â™d rather besomewhere else. He maintains a blog at theendofwaste.blogspot.com~Jennifer KarminÃƒÂ¢Ã‚Â€Ã‚Â™s text-sound epic, Aaaaaaaaaaalice, was published byFlim Forum Press in 2010. She curates the Red Rover Series and isco-founder of the public art group Anti Gravity Surprise. Hermultidisciplinary projects have been presented at festivals,artist-run spaces, community centers, and on city streets across theU.S., Japan, and Kenya. A proud member of the Dusie Kollektiv, she isthe author of the Dusie chapbook Evacuated: Disembodying Katrina.Walking Poem, a collaborative street project, is featured online atHow2. At home in Chicago, Jennifer teaches creative writing toimmigrants at Truman Colleworks as a Poet-in-Residence for thepublic schools.~Eric Lindley is a bi-coastal artist/researcher/teacher, living with afoot in New York and a foot in Los Angeles. His work, ranging fromcritical/creative cross-genre writing, to biofeedback installation, tofluxus-style event scores, puppet-musicals, digital photography,experimentally-based research in cognitive linguistics, andelectro-folk music, has appeared in/at: Eoagh, Antennae, Joyland, TheSanta Monica Museum of Art, the CUNY graduate galleries, TelicGallery, the Veleslavasay Panorama, Machine Project, REDCAT, theKnitting Factory, the Juliard School of Music, Pianos, the Smell, TheRoyal College of Music (UK), STEIM (Netherlands), and many otherplaces that his body has occupied at one point or another. He hasrecently finished a book-length set of narrative, semi-fictionalprose-poems, as well as two full-length albums of electronic folkmusicÃ¢Â€Â”the second as Ã¢Â€ÂœCareful,Ã¢Â€Â to be released March, 2010. Pleaseconsider submitting to his lovinge-and-soon-to-be-print literary journal, [out of nothing].~Ben Mirov is the author of I IS TO VORTICISM (New Michigan Press,2010) and GHOST MACHINE (Cakerain, 2010). He is poetry editor of LITMagazine and general editor of pax americana. He lives in Brooklyn.~Peter Spagnuolo is the author of the letterpress chapbooks ASquatterâ€™s Midden and Ten by Fourteen, as well as Egg and Dart (2010).He lives in Greenpoint, Brooklyn, where his vices have wrestled hisvirtues to a draw.atGoodbye Blue Monday1087 Broadway(corner of Dodworth St)Brooklyn, NY 11221-3013 [redacted]J M Z trains to Myrtle Aveor J train to Kosciusko St~Hosted by Steven Karl, Erika Moya, and Christie Ann Reynoldswww.stainofpoetry.comNow That's WAC+ http://wearechampion.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-king.htmlAmy's Alias+ http://amyking.org/ ********

↑ Index

281. Michael

Antonia Juhasz at B&B on Big Oil and the Gulf Disaster

Fri 27 Aug 2010

Untitled Document
Bird & Beckett Books & Records
653 Chenery Street
in San Francisco's Glen Park neighborhood

[redacted] -- www.birdbeckett.com

Thursday, Sept. 9 at 7:00 pm
The Bird & Beckett Political Book Discussion Group hosts
A Talk with Antonia Juhasz

director of Global Exchange's Chevron Project and author of
The Tyranny of Oil:
The World's Most Powerful Industry and What We Must Do To Stop It

Antonia will discuss her book and her ongoing research into the offshore oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico that began with the April 20, 2010 explosion of BP's "Deepwater Horizon" rig.

She has been making frequent trips to the Gulf region and is at work on a new book about the disaster, due to be published in April 2011.

15 free tickets for reserved seats are available in advance at the bookshop on a first-come, first-served basis.
No phone reservations for these tickets, please.
Ticket holders must arrive before 6:45 pm the evening of the talk.

Please note that seating is very limited.
Total capacity is approximately 25 seated, 15 standing.

↑ Index

282. mIEKAL aND
Re: AGAINST BIG OIL
Fri 27 Aug 2010

Hydrogen is so 20th century.

http://www.inhabitat.com/2009/09/09/first-algae-powered-car-attempts-to-cross-us-on-25-gallons/

On Aug 26, 2010, at 10:35 PM, Jim Andrews wrote:

> it seems fairly obvious by now, doesn't it, that the engines of industry (and our cars and so on) are going to have to burn things like hydrogen, the byproduct of which is water, rather than petroleum. and the same goes for the engines that make those engines.

=!=
Data Visualization for the Synaptically Inspired http://filevillage.info

↑ Index

283. steve dalachinsky
Re: email for Clark Coolidge
Sat 28 Aug 2010

contact ugly duckling presse they are working on a new book fot him have all infoo yes mail or phone

On Thu, 26 Aug 2010 20:29:37 -0700 George Bowering <[redacted]>
writes:
> Clark doesnt do computer.
> You have to write him by regular mail.
>
> gb
>
>
> On Aug 26, 2010, at 9:06 AM, mIEKAL aND wrote:
>
> > apologies for sending to the list
> >
> > does anyone have an email for Clark Coolidge?
> >
> > ~mIEKAL
> >
>
> > welcome.html

>
> George Bowering
>
> I'll take meatloaf
>
>
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

284. { brad brace }
Industrial Average
Sat 28 Aug 2010

"Fines, penalties and reputational damage from non-compliance with anti-corruption laws are accelerating. The global crackdown could put your firm - and you - on the radar of multiple investigators simultaneously. With Dow Jones Anti-Corruption, you efficiently screen third parties, quickly spot potentially risky business relationships and demonstrate your compliance to prosecutors. Detecting risk early saves more than money."

http://www.bbrace.net/screen-names.html

↑ Index

285. Jeffrey Side
"The Conspiracy Against Poems" by Adam Fieled at The Argotist Online
Sat 28 Aug 2010

"The Conspiracy Against Poems" by Adam Fieled at The Argotist Online
http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Fieled%20essay%205.htm

Excerpts: â€œThere is no historical evidence to suggest that during the Romantic era, something called â€œPoeticsâ€ existed. At the time, Wordsworth and Coleridge, both identifiable as â€œLakeâ€ poets, initiated investigations of a theoretical nature, centered on poetry. These investigations were one of Coleridgeâ€™s mÃ©tiers; Wordsworth rarely identified himself as something other than a poet. The controversies that surrounded Wordsworth, from the publication of Lyrical Ballads forwards, were centered jointly on his poems and the theories that buttressed them. Why is it that in 2010, a majority of poets, particularly those toiling in experimental milieus, seem both more grounded in and more stimulated by theories than by the poems they bolster? What is this nebulous entity, â€œpoetics,â€ and how has it sapped the life out of what it is meant to serve? The chief weakness of the pursuit of â€œpoetics,â€ as I see it, is that it puts premiums on two red herringsâ€”novelties and political correctness. â€œPoetics,â€ as practiced by the bolder American universities, wants to investigate the newest of the new, anything (striated, of course, within the taut bounds of political correctness) that has not been done before. But practicing â€œpoeticsâ€ creates and perpetuates its own kind of romantic ideologyâ€”an unthinking and uncritical belief in oneâ€™s self-representations as planted firmly in the new, fresh, and bold.â€ â€œPoets weaned on poetics never quite reconcile themselves to the reality that poems spun out of flimsy theoretical material cannot have any great or striking impact, either in the long or the short term. All this movement towards theory and concept is mirrored in other art forms; but as the post-modern impulse ages, it may be seen that when taken to an extreme, as it has been in experimental poetry, it creates such an aura of rapid obsolescence around new poetry that one wonders why new poems are being written at all.â€ â€œSimply put, poetics is mainly a construct established and put into propulsive motion by white, middle-class academics; and as multiculturalism has emerged as a subsidiary branch of post-modernism, a sense of guilt moves participants not only towards the outrÃ© but towards anything ethnic or deviant. The problem with poetics generally is that there is little quality control. The conceit of post-modern poetics is that there is no such thing as â€œqualityâ€; quality is a teetering edifice erected by hegemonic white males to reinforce a master narrative patched up against invasion.â€ â€œGenerations are now beginning to emerge who have been weaned on these approaches. The upshot is that poets have been formed who respond to theory first, poems second. If poems are a subsidiary branch of theories, then poetry as an endeavor has become so bastardized and decadent that it has ceased to be itself.â€

http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Fieled%20essay%205.htm

↑ Index

286. Jonathan Penton

news at UnlikelyStories.org

Sun 29 Aug 2010

I'd like to begin this yammering by apologizing for the delay in new free content at www.UnlikelyStories.org. As you probably know, we've been working hard on our new line of perfectbound books. I never wanted the free material at UnlikelyStories.org to particularly suffer in favor of these books, but it has, and I want to apologize for that. We intend to put out an issue in mid-September.

This year, we're releasing Tom Bradley's /My Hands Were Clean /bound together in one volume with Deb Hoag's /Dr. Gonzo/, Anne McMillen's /Monolith/ bound together with León De la Rosa's /Soy solo palabras but wish to be a city/, and /Unlikely Stories of the Third Kind/, a 400-page anthology featuring visual art, a CD, and a DVD intended to be representative of the wide variety of work UnlikelyStories.org has been publishing since 1998. We planned to hold a massive affair at the upcoming Burning Man Festival. Unfortunately, this event has had to be rescheduled due to illness. We apologize to everyone who hoped to see us there, and regret that a clothing-optional book release party is off this year's plate.

However, a new release strategy has been planned. Unlikely Books will be performing at the Bowery Poetry Club in Manhattan on Sunday, November 21st . We will do four other reads in the week before that performance. We're tentatively planning on reading in Portsmouth, New Hampshire, Boston, Cape Cod, and one other New York City read. There's debate as to where the other New York City and the Boston reads should be, and we welcome input.

Each show will be different--I mean, of course they will be, we're all young and brash and sexy but not actually so young as to do five performances in one week--each show will have different contributors to /Unlikely Stories of the Third Kind/. If you are a contributor to /Unlikely Stories of the Third Kind/ or if Unlikely has published a physical chapbook of yours, and you'll be in the Northeast Corridor the third week of November, write me and let me know; I'd be delighted to put you on a playbill. If you've already done that, please be patient--you will hear back.

/Unlikely Stories of the Third Kind/ should begin shipping September 7th -- we'll be boxing 'em up and singing union songs on Labor Day (well, I know a little Phil Ochs, so that's close enough). At this time, you can still go to http://shop.makeitnewmedia.com/Unlikely-Books_c3.htm and pre-order copies of /Unlikely Stories of the Third Kind/ to get free shipping on this five-pound book, and frankly, I think you should. I'll turn off free shipping when I get up on September 7th .

/My Hands Were Clean/Dr. Gonzo/ will begin shipping on September 11th (well, that's a Saturday, so probably September 13th , possibly September 10th , but you know, in celebration of the founding of the Satyagraha movement). /Monolith/Soy solo palabras but wish to be a city/ will be released on our November mini-tour.

If you're looking for something to read until then, do consider our chapbooks at http://shop.makeitnewmedia.com/Unlikely-Books_c3.htm , or the chapbooks of our buddies at Virgogray press at http://shop.makeitnewmedia.com/Virgogray-

Press_c7.htm . Also there are twelve years of archives at http://www.UnlikelyStories.org/ . That's neat, too.

Thanks for bearing with us, and we hope to see you, however modestly-dressed, in November!

–
Jonathan Penton
http://www.unlikelystories.org/

↑ Index

287. Mark Young
Now out from Otoliths — Larry Sawyer's "Unable to Fully California"
Sun 29 Aug 2010

Unable to Fully California

Larry Sawyer

128 pages

Cover collage by Krista Franklin

Otoliths, 2010

ISBN: 978-0-9807651-3-7

$15.95 + p&h

URL:
http://www.lulu.com/product/paperback/unable-to-fully-california/12200921

Also available through Amazon in a week or two

The poetry of Larry Sawyer arrives free of any investment in a "poetics" or worldview and therefore ties its shoes on the run: "The city is a Smith and Wesson covered in noon." The sublime lies in "covered in noon," the waking world in the Smith and Wesson. So there's a spontaneity of composition (anything can happen and does) that reminds us of what René Char was supposed to have been. On first impression, the poems can seem scattershot, like the art works of Niki de Saint Phalle composed by shotgun. Some of the pellets form patterns, some impressions they make are deeper than others, and some even pierce the metal canvas. Because Sawyer's style is so open, the casual and intense find comfort in each other and the remarkable detail emerges: "What horizon / spreads in the distance / muscles ripening?" Much of this work is therefore fresh and unexpectable, like the final line of his elegy at Char's gravesite: "Quiet snow, gossip over the hero's grave." —Paul Hoover

The split infinitive title that is *Unable to Fully California *prompts the question: What in 2010 is most real? Larry Sawyer leads us in response to “the exotic trigonometry” that invokes twirled concepts, blended wines, plus deliciously intentional mistakes. In this spree of sight and sound, nouns take up residence while collocating in new roles as verbs alive in trans-plantation. The tenor and vehicle of similes yield a vivid array of bleached blond poems that skid across the page. Their x axis is transmuted from horizon line to stars as yet unnamed from which we readers readily infer we’re not in Kansas anymore. —Sheila E. Murphy

I love the clear style, unforced music. It is not so much a strange poetry as the poetry of a stranger, the way Bishop was a Brazilian in Boston and a Bostonian in Brazil. I fell in love with your “blue fruit” and “inescapable tomorrow,” also what seems like renunciation not of sentimentality but of cliché …I like even the quasi-Romantic dislocations here: “There is a beauty to ice / only a statue understands.” I’m not a statue, so I only partially understand, but that should be more than enough for Larry Sawyer’s uncanny picnic on no grass … seemed as real as the Bronx, and I couldn’t stop thinking: I am so lucky that this poetry is so good. —David Shapiro

↑ Index

288. Mary Kasimor

Re: Now out from Otoliths — Larry Sawyer's "Unable to Fully California"

Sun 29 Aug 2010

This book should be a lot of fun to read.

Mary Kasimor

--- On Sun, 8/29/10, Mark Young <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Mark Young <[redacted]> Subject: Now out from Otoliths â€” Larry Sawyer's "Unable to Fully California"
To: [redacted]
Date: Sunday, August 29, 2010, 7:54 AM

Unable to Fully California

Larry Sawyer

128 pages

Cover collage by Krista Franklin

Otoliths, 2010

ISBN: 978-0-9807651-3-7

$15.95 + p&h

URL:
http://www.lulu.com/product/paperback/unable-to-fully-california/12200921

Also available through Amazon in a week or two

The poetry of Larry Sawyer arrives free of any investment in a â€œpoeticsâ€ or worldview and therefore ties its shoes on the run: â€œThe city is a Smith and Wesson covered in noon.â€ The sublime lies in â€œcovered in noon,â€ the waking world in the Smith and Wesson. So thereâ€™s a spontaneity of composition (anything can happen and does) that reminds us of what RenÃ© Char was supposed to have been. On first impression, the poems can seem scattershot, like the art works of Niki de Saint Phalle composed by shotgun. Some of the pellets form patterns, some impressions they make are deeper than others, and some even pierce the metal canvas. Because Sawyerâ€™s style is so open, the casual and intense find comfort in each other and the remarkable detail emerges: â€œWhat horizon / spreads in the distance / muscles ripening? â€ Much of this work is therefore fresh and unexpectable, like the final line of his elegy at Charâ€™s gravesite: â€œQuiet snow, gossip over the heroâ€™s grave.â€ â€”Paul Hoover

The split infinitive title that is *Unable to Fully California *prompts the question: What in 2010 is most real? Larry Sawyer leads us in response to â€œthe exotic trigonometryâ€ that invokes twirled concepts, blended wines, plus deliciously intentional mistakes. In this spree of sight and sound, nouns take up residence while collocating in new roles as verbs alive in trans-plantation. The tenor and vehicle of similes yield a vivid array of bleached blond poems that skid across the page. Their x axis is transmuted from horizon line to stars as yet unnamed from which we readers readily infer weâ€™re not in Kansas anymore. â€”Sheila E. Murphy

I love the clear style, unforced music. It is not so much a strange poetry as the poetry of a stranger, the way Bishop was a Brazilian in Boston and a Bostonian in Brazil. I fell in love with your â€œblue fruitâ€ and â€œinescapable tomorrow,â€ also what seems like renunciation not of sentimentality but of clichÃ© â€¦I like even the quasi-Romantic dislocations here: â€œThere is a beauty to ice / only a statue understands.â€ Iâ€™m not a statue, so I only partially understand, but that should be more than enough for Larry Sawyerâ€™s uncanny picnic on no grass â€¦ seemed as real as the Bronx, and I couldnâ€™t stop thinking: I am so lucky that this poetry is so good. â€”David Shapiro

↑ Index

289. Adam Fieled

Apparition Poems on YouTube

Sun 29 Aug 2010

These Apparition Poems, filmed at Eris Temple in Philly, are my best argument:

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=o3-sRxj4qnc

Best,
Adam

↑ Index

290. Jacquilyn Weeks

Re: "The Conspiracy Against Poems" by Adam Fieled at The Argotist Online

Sun 29 Aug 2010

Actually, "poetics" was a useful and much-debated concept that eighteenth-century poets and scholars routinely traced back to Classical Greco-Roman work.

From *A New and Complete Dictionary of Arts and Sciences: Comprehending All the Branches of Useful Knowledge *(1754): "POETICS: the doctrine of poetry, or the laws and rules of conducting pieces, or compositions of poetry, such as Aristotle's poetics, a work much valued."

From *The Critical Review, or Annals of Literature *(1797), in a review of the second edition of Coleridge's Poems: "As no author can justly be offended at liberal criticism, Mr. Coleridge 'returns his acknowledgements to the different reviewers for the assistance which they have afforded him in detecting his poetic deficiencies.' Upon a revisal of his productions, he has omitted some which he was less pleased, and has substituted new pieces for the discarded poems."

The same volume uses the the term in broader scope for a review of Herder on the Advancement of the Belles Letteres:* * "fourth fragment (letter eighty seventh) points out the influence of the Provencal poetry on the culture and poetics of Europe. The qualities, exterior and internal, of the Italian poetry are considered. The characteristics of French tales and theatrical pieces are also examined; after which observations occur on the poetics of Spain."

I could cite lots more examples, but a basic search for "poetics" (limited to volumes published between 1700-1800) on Google Books will give you about 2,720 results. ECCO, is even better, if you have access to it. (Of course, the overwhelming majority of of these hits will be attributable to European middle- or upper-class men.)

Adam, I'm not trying to be rude - just trying to clarify, but I'd be interested knowing:

1. When/where do you suggest that the concept of "poetics" comes into being? Could it be that you are arguing with someone (or some school) in particular?

2. Are you suggesting that "poetics" means something different in the 21c. than it meant in the Romantic period?

3. You suggest that "poets have been formed who respond to theory first, poems second" - how, precisely, are you distinguishing between "theory" and "poetry" in this context? (Can the distinction as you're making it be applied to all poets throughout poetic history?) (Is that what you're trying to do?)

4. How do you intuit whether poetry or theory came first in a particular work without getting bogged down in dead-end debates about author intentionality?

5. Why are you so invested in Coleridge and Wordsworth specifically? (In dismissing political correctness, are you invalidating all the feminist/Marxist/post-colonial arguments leveled against the limits of their "new language"?) If you are interested in more diverse work, would it, perhaps, be worthwhile to consider poetics as they are developed in non-Western histories of poetry? I am not deeply familiar with the history of Asian poetry, but, just guessing from the importance of poetry to court culture, I would imagine that they have a history of poetry theory that is much longer and better documented than the European history. Persian poetry has exquisitely complex rules, and has for millennia.

Any clarification would be much appreciated.

All best wishes,
Jacqui Weeks

University of Notre Dame
PhD Candidate Department of English
Gender Studies Program
Keough-Naughton Institute for Irish Studies
356 O'Shaughnessy Hall
Notre Dame, IN 46556

On Sat, Aug 28, 2010 at 9:46 AM, Jeffrey Side <[redacted]> wrote:

> "The Conspiracy Against Poems" by Adam Fieled at The Argotist Online
> http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Fieled%20essay%205.htm
>
> Excerpts:
> “There is no historical evidence to suggest that during the Romantic era, something called “Poetics” existed. At the time, Wordsworth and Coleridge, both identifiable as “Lake” poets, initiated investigations of a theoretical

nature, centered on poetry. These investigations were one of Coleridge's métiers; Wordsworth rarely identified himself as something other than a poet. The controversies that surrounded Wordsworth, from the publication of Lyrical Ballads forwards, were centered jointly on his poems and the theories that buttressed them. Why is it that in 2010, a majority of poets, particularly those toiling in experimental milieus, seem both more grounded in and more stimulated by theories than by the poems they bolster? What is this nebulous entity, "poetics," and how has it sapped the life out of what it is meant to serve? The chief weakness of the pursuit of "poetics," as I see it, is that it puts premiums on two red herrings—novelties and political correctness. "Poetics," as practiced by the bolder American universities, wants to investigate the newest of the new, anything (striated, of course, within the taut bounds of political correctness) that has not been done before. But practicing "poetics" creates and perpetuates its own kind of romantic ideology—an unthinking and uncritical belief in one's self-representations as planted firmly in the new, fresh, and bold."
"Poets weaned on poetics never quite reconcile themselves to the reality that poems spun out of flimsy theoretical material cannot have any great or striking impact, either in the long or the short term. All this movement towards theory and concept is mirrored in other art forms; but as the post-modern impulse ages, it may be seen that when taken to an extreme, as it has been in experimental poetry, it creates such an aura of rapid obsolescence around new poetry that one wonders why new poems are being written at all."
"Simply put, poetics is mainly a construct established and put into propulsive motion by white, middle-class academics; and as multiculturalism has emerged as a subsidiary branch of post-modernism, a sense of guilt moves participants not only towards the outré but towards anything ethnic or deviant. The problem with poetics generally is that there is little quality control. The conceit of post-modern poetics is that there is no such thing as "quality"; quality is a teetering edifice erected by hegemonic white males to reinforce a master narrative patched up against invasion."
"Generations are now beginning to emerge who have been weaned on these approaches. The upshot is that poets have been formed who respond to theory first, poems second. If poems are a subsidiary branch of theories, then poetry as an endeavor has become so bastardized and decadent that it has ceased to be itself."

http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Fieled%20essay%205.htm

↑ Index

291. alexisquinlan
Re: Comments in Chinese
Sun 29 Aug 2010

Sharon--

This sounds cool, and I'd love to see the work. Thanks!

Alexis Quinlan

On Aug 24, 2010, at 1:46 PM, Sharon Mesmer/David Borchart <[redacted]> wrote:

> I ran my Chinese blog comments thru Babelfish, made poems, and the poems were pub'd in the recent Satellite Telephone:
>
> http://nolongdistance.endingthealphabet.org/
>
> If you want to see them let me know and I can b/c them to you.
>
> -- Sharon Mesmer
>
> On Aug 18, 2010, at 4:53 PM, marc vincenz wrote:
>
> Plenty of Chinese SPAM novels out there. No seriously - I lived in Shanghai for over ten years. Some of the best fiction in China is web-based. In so far as censorship is concerned, I doubt that anything of serious merit could manage to navigate out of the Chinese government's spiderweb. That is, of course, unless you go through Hong Kong. Look at Google for Sun Tzu's sake. FYI, Wolf Totem was available online long before it got on to the bestsellers' list.
>
> On 16 August 2010 17:52, Ann Bogle <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> I've been told that comments in Chinese to weblogs are "spam." I have deleted a few of those comments. Then I realized that they may not be spam but may be legitimate comments. I have begun to translate 14 of them using Babelfish. They seem to be wisdom sayings, such as this one: "The success may attract the friend, frustrates may test the friend." I'd like information -- if anyone has experience -- about issues in Chinese blogging, including censorship.

↑ Index

292. steve dalachinsky
benefit and tribute month
Mon 30 Aug 2010

can ya send the info out to yer lists benefit for ira cohen sept 8 at bowery 7 or 8 not sure also a

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TULI

a big tribute to tuli kupferberg will take sept 28 7 pm onward
at the living theater - clinton street
between houston and stanton
FREE and open to the public many speakers, readers musicians & surprise guests

if ya knew him
 come and say a word or 3

steve

↑ Index

293. Randolph Healy
Wild Honey Press Podcast: Andrew Brewerton
Mon 30 Aug 2010

The first part of Andrew Brewerton's reading of "Raag Leaves for Paresh Chakraborty", published by Shearsman Books, is available at the link below.

http://feeds.feedburner.com/RaagLeavesForPareshChakraborty*
*
You can simply listen to this first part or subscribe to the entire series.

A new part will be added daily.

best wishes

Randolph Healy

PS Apologies if you receive this more than once

↑ Index

294. Mark Weiss
Re: Apparition Poems on YouTube
Mon 30 Aug 2010

You're very thin. Admirable.

Mark

At 02:30 PM 8/29/2010, you wrote:
>These Apparition Poems, filmed at Eris Temple in Philly, are my best argument:
>
>http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=o3-sRxj4qnc
>
>Best,
>Adam
>
>
>
>

New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
$16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm

"What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the poet alive in every sense of the word, and through every one of his senses. Instead of missing a beat or a part, Weiss' fragments are
like Chekhov's short storiesthe more that gets
left out, the more they seem to contain… One can
hear echoes from all the various
ancestors...[but] the voice, at its center, its
core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment
is both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure
musical threnody…[it] opens a window, not only
into a mind, but a person, a personality, this
human figure at the emotional center of the poem."

M.G. Stephens, in Jacket.
http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml

↑ Index

295. Paul Nelson

Re: "The Conspiracy Against Poems" by Adam Fieled at The Argotist Online

Mon 30 Aug 2010

"Experience first, explanations afterward." Muhammad Subuh Sumohadiwidjojo

Paul E. Nelson

SPLAB!
C. City, WA
[redacted]

From: Jeffrey Side <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sat, August 28, 2010 6:46:55 AM
Subject: "The Conspiracy Against Poems" by Adam Fieled at The Argotist Online

"The Conspiracy Against Poems" by Adam Fieled at The Argotist Online
http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Fieled%20essay%205.htm

Excerpts: â€œThere is no historical evidence to suggest that during the Romantic era, something called â€œPoeticsâ€ existed. At the time, Wordsworth and Coleridge, both identifiable as â€œLakeâ€ poets, initiated investigations of a theoretical nature, centered on poetry. These investigations were one of Coleridgeâ€™s mÃ©tiers; Wordsworth rarely identified himself as something other than a poet. The controversies that surrounded Wordsworth, from the publication of Lyrical Ballads forwards, were centered jointly on his poems and the theories that buttressed them. Why is it that in 2010, a majority of poets, particularly those toiling in experimental milieus, seem both more grounded in and more stimulated by theories than by the poems they bolster? What is this nebulous entity, â€œpoetics,â€ and how has it sapped the life out of what it is meant to serve? The chief weakness of the pursuit of â€œpoetics,â€ as I see it, is that it puts premiums on two red herringsâ€”novelties and political correctness. â€œPoetics,â€ as practiced by the bolder American universities, wants to investigate the newest of the new, anything (striated, of course, within the taut bounds of political correctness) that has not been done before. But practicing â€œpoeticsâ€ creates and perpetuates its own kind of romantic ideologyâ€”an unthinking and uncritical belief in oneâ€™s self-representations as planted firmly in the new, fresh, and bold.â€ â€œPoets weaned on poetics never quite reconcile themselves to the reality that poems spun out of flimsy theoretical material cannot have any great or striking impact, either in the long or the short term. All this movement towards theory and concept is mirrored in other art forms; but as the post-modern impulse ages, it may be seen that when taken to an extreme, as it has been in experimental poetry, it creates such an aura of rapid obsolescence around new poetry that one wonders why new poems are being written at all.â€ â€œSimply put, poetics is mainly a construct established and put into propulsive motion by white, middle-class academics; and as multiculturalism has emerged as a subsidiary branch of post-modernism, a sense of guilt moves participants not only towards the outrÃ© but towards anything ethnic or deviant. The problem with poetics generally is that there is little quality control. The conceit of post-modern poetics is that there is no such thing as â€œqualityâ€; quality is a teetering edifice erected by hegemonic white males to reinforce a master narrative patched up against invasion.â€ â€œGenerations are now beginning to emerge who have been weaned on these approaches. The upshot is that poets have been formed who respond to theory first, poems second. If poems are a subsidiary branch of theories, then poetry as an endeavor has become so bastardized and decadent that it has ceased to be itself.â€

http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Fieled%20essay%205.htm

↑ Index

296. Jeffrey Side

The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is “Paradigm of the Tinctures” by Steve McCaffery and Alan Halsey

Mon 30 Aug 2010

The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is â€œParadigm of the Tincturesâ€ by Steve McCaffery and Alan Halsey

Description:

This revised and expanded edition of â€œParadigm of the Tincturesâ€ by Steve McCaffery and Alan Halsey revisits the classic humanist idea of the Sister Arts where poetry is understood to be a speaking picture and a picture a silent poem. The revisitation, however, is bluntly revisionary and the result is a fresh text-graphic dialogue.

Available as a free ebook here:

http://www.lulu.com/product/ebook/paradigm-of-the-tinctures/12456406

↑ Index

297. CA Conrad

poet DAVID WOLACH is PhillySound Feature #8

Tue 31 Aug 2010

---

poet DAVID WOLACH is PhillySound Feature #8

Please see the feature at this link:
http://phillysound.blogspot.com/2010_08_01_archive.html

The feature includes a new poem by Wolach, "HOSPITEL (for Frank Sherlock)", an extensive interview about his new book of poetry OCCULTATIONS (Black Radish, 2010), and community commentary from J. TOWNSEND, BRENDA IIJIMA, ROB HALPERN, THOM DONOVAN, and JULES BOYKOFF.

If you're in Philadelphia THIS FRIDAY (9/3/10), come hear DAVID WOLACH read with FRANK SHERLOCK, CARLOS SOTO ROMAN, and JULIE DOXSEE at Fergie's Pub (1214 Sansom St.), 7:30 pm (this event is sponsored by THE NEW PHILADELPHIA POETS)

ENJOY THE DAVID WOLACH FEATURE!
CAConrad

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

298. Kyle Schlesinger
Recently on Mimeo Mimeo
Tue 31 Aug 2010

Jed Birmingham has posted some excellent material on the Mimeo Mimeo blog recently, including:

* late Tish
* Kenward Elmslie¹s Power Plant Poems
* Ed Dorn¹s Wild Dog
* Carol Berge¹s Light Years
* Rocky Ledge
* Angel Hair
* Ted Berrigan¹s Living with Chris
* Jack Spicer¹s J magazine
* Marijuana Review

&&& more at: http://mimeomimeo.blogspot.com/

And thanks to everyone who has asked when the next issue will be available. We¹re working on Mimeo Mimeo #4 now, which will include contributions by Miles Champion, Trevor Winkfield, Tom Raworth, Alastair Johnston, David Meltzer, Asa Benveniste, Alan Halsey, Ken Edwards, Richard Price, Eric Mottram, and Jeff Nuttall.

Best,

Kyle
--
POEMS & PICTURES
Curated by Kyle Schlesinger
Center for Book Arts
New York City
July 7, 2010 - September 11, 2010
Berman, Brainard, Creeley, Dine, and many more Details at: http://cuneiformpress.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

299. Joel Weishaus
Poetica Critique of "A Community Writing Itself."
Tue 31 Aug 2010

Dear Friends and Colleagues:

My fifth Poetica critique is of "A Community Writing Itself: Conversations with Vanguard Writers of the Bay Area," Edited by Sarah Rosenthal:
http://www.cddc.vt.edu/host/weishaus/Poetica/blog-5.htm

Introduction:
http://www.cddc.vt.edu/host/weishaus/Poetica/intro.htm

Thank you, As Always.
-Joel

Joel Weishaus
Homepage: http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282
On-Line Archive:
www.cddc.vt.edu/host/weishaus/index.htm

↑ Index

300. Morgan Myers
Re: "The Conspiracy Against Poems" by Adam Fieled at The Argotist Online
Tue 31 Aug 2010

I usually try to stay out of these things, but sometimes you just have to say something.

http://critiquemanque.blogspot.com/2010/08/conspiracy-against-growing-hell-up.html

↑ Index

301. David Chirot

Re: "The Conspiracy Against Poems" by Adam Fieled at The Argotist Online

Tue 31 Aug 2010

Dear Jacqui Weeks--

Many many thanks for this wonderful, inspiring letter, with so many questions & examples to work with!--

In my limited experience, no matter what culture & time period i have & continue to read poetry in, there is always a poetics, many poetics, written by and about the poets one is reading--whether it be essays, reviews, critical notices or remarks in letters, notebooks, and within the works themselves . . .

The more different cultures & time periods i read in, the more poetics one finds-- it is not as though people in some "pre-theory" age or world, from the point of view of a very narrow contemporary American point of view--did not THINK very intensely about what poetry is, about the work that poets were doing, about the ways in which poetry functions in relation with the language it is being written in--the society it is being written in--about the structures and elements of letters, words, lines, phrases, sound, visuality,readership, distribution-- the questions of copying, plagiarism, the "writing of the No," all the questions with which one may work in the "current context" existed elsewhere and, in many ways, since the very creation of writing itself, even before it became formalized into writing "systems"--one finds examples of poets, "proto-poets," thinking about what today is called "poetics,"--a name which as Jacqui Weeks points out--is a term already used by and defined by Aristotle, as one example alone--

Last week, within one of the brief "El Colonel" pieces i write, often at facebook,-- which are fiction which includes "monologues" or "thoughts" by the protagonist along the lines of what Mallarme called the "poeme critique"--a reader responded by directing me to certain sections of Aristotle's Poetics--for more to think about in relation with the thoughts expressed in the piece-and the sections recommended a great opening into what was written and far beyond--

A very great, revelatory & deeply profound recent example of a poetry and its poetics working with each other is Murat Nemet-Nejat's EDA: An Anthology of Contemporary Turkish Poetry.

A groundbreaking classic in global poetry and poetics in human history is still Jerome Rothernberg's Technicians of the Sacred-- and one may turn to Jerry's blog Poets & Poetics to find poetics from, again--a global context, from all eras of the histories of different parts of the world, a wide variety of languages, cultures, poems, songs, writings, poetics---

The internet is overflowing with poetries & poetics from the world over, with examples from historical periods pre-dating Aristotle . . . to the most contemporary, exciting theory one can-- and cannot!!-even imagine until finding these works--available via simple search--

It is often pointed out that Americans, in poetics, poetry also--tend to be too isolationist, too much in mind consciously or not of being "Number One," and so ignore what is happening, what has happened, outside of the USA, and often outside the immediate sound byted present--

Actions, events, examples, information which may seem "true" within a very narrow context--and in whose own interest it is necessary to continually limit, control, what are given as examples, ideas, concepts, histories, poets and poetries, poetics--to be sound byted, discussed, discarded, and so on--are heavily dependent on their being taken to be as it were, unquestioningly, "at the center of the world, at the most up-to-the-minute moment in time"--so that the competition to remain dominant, to be perceived as "the Number One," with in this proscribed sphere, require continual efforts to control & limit what is produced, discussed, what it is that tops the "hit parade" for inclusion in the "leading" syllabi, anthologies, critical studies, etc etc--a self-reproducing "machine" that engenders its own fears and anxieties about being "part of it all"--and which, if one stops accepting it unquestioningly, is for the most part a parade of "Emperors with No Clothes"--

It struck me in reading Adam's excerpts from his essay that many of the "things" which appear to be disturbing him regarding the continual "necessity" of the latest, newest, most fashionable etc are perhaps primarily "market driven," in the sense that for any discipline, within itself, there is the drive to continue producing materials which generate in turn ways of classifying, colonizing, territroializing both "new works" under a given rubric, as well as generating retrospectively their "predecessors," or "examples avant la lettre," all of which produce new anthologies, course syllabi, examples for essays, papers, theses, interviews, reviews-- and, in turn--are used to create new positions within sub divisions with in departments in academia etc etc or new areas requiring "new" reviewers, bloggers, web sites, curators of exhibitions, performances etc etc--

But these are only a few very small glimpses of the myriad ways to "look at" the situation perhaps--

Again, many many thanks to You, Jacqui Weeks for this exceptional, greatly informing and inspiring letter!--

david-bc

On Sun, Aug 29, 2010 at 12:31 PM, Jacquilyn Weeks <[redacted]> wrote:

Actually, "poetics" was a useful and much-debated concept that eighteenth-century poets and scholars routinely traced back to Classical Greco-Roman work.

*From *A New and Complete Dictionary of Arts and Sciences: Comprehending All the Branches of Useful Knowledge (1754):
"POETICS: the doctrine of poetry, or the laws and rules of conducting pieces, or compositions of poetry, such as Aristotle's poetics, a work much valued."

*From *The Critical Review, or Annals of Literature *(1797), in a review of the second edition of Coleridge's Poems:*
"As no author can justly be offended at liberal criticism, Mr. Coleridge 'returns his acknowledgements to the different reviewers for the assistance which they have afforded him in detecting his poetic deficiencies.' Upon a revisal of his productions, he has omitted some which he was less pleased, and has substituted new pieces for the discarded poems."

*The same volume uses the the term in broader scope for a review of Herder on the Advancement of the Belles Letteres:* *
"fourth fragment* (letter eighty seventh) points out the influence of the Provencal poetry on the culture and poetics of Europe. The qualities, exterior and internal, of the Italian poetry are considered. The characteristics of French tales and theatrical pieces are also examined; after which observations occur on the poetics of Spain."*

I could cite lots more examples, but a basic search for "poetics" (limited to volumes published between 1700-1800) on Google Books will give you about 2,720 results. ECCO, is even better, if you have access to it. (Of course, the overwhelming majority of of these hits will be attributable to European middle- or upper-class men.)

Adam, I'm not trying to be rude - just trying to clarify, but I'd be interested knowing:

1. When/where do you suggest that the concept of "poetics" comes into being? Could it be that you are arguing with someone (or some school) in particular?

2. Are you suggesting that "poetics" means something different in the 21c. than it meant in the Romantic period?

3. You suggest that "poets have been formed who respond to theory first, poems second" - how, precisely, are you distinguishing between "theory" and "poetry" in this context? (Can the distinction as you're making it be applied to all poets throughout poetic history?) (Is that what you're trying to do?)

4. How do you intuit whether poetry or theory came first in a particular work without getting bogged down in dead-end debates about author intentionality?

5. Why are you so invested in Coleridge and Wordsworth specifically? (In dismissing political correctness, are you invalidating all the feminist/Marxist/post-colonial arguments leveled against the limits of their "new language"?) If you are interested in more diverse work, would it, perhaps, be worthwhile to consider poetics as they are developed in non-Western histories of poetry? I am not deeply familiar with the history of Asian poetry, but, just guessing from the importance of poetry to court culture, I would imagine that they have a history of poetry theory that is much longer and better documented than the European history. Persian poetry has exquisitely complex rules, and has for millennia.

Any clarification would be much appreciated.

All best wishes,
Jacqui Weeks

University of Notre Dame
PhD Candidate Department of English
Gender Studies Program
Keough-Naughton Institute for Irish Studies
356 O'Shaughnessy Hall
Notre Dame, IN 46556

On Sat, Aug 28, 2010 at 9:46 AM, Jeffrey Side <[redacted]> wrote:

"The Conspiracy Against Poems" by Adam Fieled at The Argotist Online
http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Fieled%20essay%205.htm

Excerpts:
“There is no historical evidence to suggest that during the Romantic era, something called “Poetics” existed. At the time, Wordsworth and Coleridge, both identifiable as “Lake” poets, initiated investigations of a theoretical nature, centered on poetry. These investigations were one of Coleridge’s métiers; Wordsworth rarely identified himself as something other than a poet. The controversies that surrounded Wordsworth, from the publication of Lyrical Ballads forwards, were centered jointly on his poems and the theories that buttressed them. Why is it that in 2010, a majority of > poets,

> particularly those toiling in experimental milieus, seem both more grounded > in and more stimulated by theories than by the poems they bolster? What is > this nebulous entity, "poetics," and how has it sapped the life out of what > it is meant to serve? The chief weakness of the pursuit of "poetics," as I > see it, is that it puts premiums on two red herrings—novelties and political > correctness. "Poetics," as practiced by the bolder American universities, > wants to investigate the newest of the new, anything (striated, of course, > within the taut bounds of political correctness) that has not been done > before. But practicing "poetics" creates and perpetuates its own kind of > romantic ideology—an unthinking and uncritical belief in one's > self-representations as planted firmly in the new, fresh, and bold."
> "Poets weaned on poetics never quite reconcile themselves to the reality > that poems spun out of flimsy theoretical material cannot have any great or > striking impact, either in the long or the short term. All this movement > towards theory and concept is mirrored in other art forms; but as the > post-modern impulse ages, it may be seen that when taken to an extreme, as > it has been in experimental poetry, it creates such an aura of rapid > obsolescence around new poetry that one wonders why new poems are being > written at all."
> "Simply put, poetics is mainly a construct established and put into > propulsive motion by white, middle-class academics; and as multiculturalism > has emerged as a subsidiary branch of post-modernism, a sense of guilt moves > participants not only towards the outré but towards anything ethnic or > deviant. The problem with poetics generally is that there is little quality > control. The conceit of post-modern poetics is that there is no such thing > as "quality"; quality is a teetering edifice erected by hegemonic white > males to reinforce a master narrative patched up against invasion."
> "Generations are now beginning to emerge who have been weaned on these > approaches. The upshot is that poets have been formed who respond to theory > first, poems second. If poems are a subsidiary branch of theories, then > poetry as an endeavor has become so bastardized and decadent that it has > ceased to be itself."
>
> http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Fieled%20essay%205.htm

> guidelines

↑ Index

@poetics

The UB Poetics Discussion Group

Archive of Electronic Correspondence

September 2010

258 messages · Tue 31 Aug 2010 – Thu 30 Sep 2010

September 2010 sent the thinned room after the deepest question a formalist can ask — what the limits of a formal system are, and whether a poem lives inside those limits or slips past them. Two hundred and fifty-eight messages moved through the list, and its largest thread reached, improbably, into mathematics and logic, asking what poetry becomes after the great twentieth-century proofs that every system has an outside. It was the list being characteristically itself: a nearly deserted room taking up the hardest possible abstraction for the pleasure of it.

The largest thread was language and poetry after Gödel and Turing. The room turned over what it means to write inside a medium after the mathematicians had shown that no formal system can be both complete and consistent — that there are always true things it cannot prove, always an outside to any set of rules. One poster deflated the grandeur beautifully, noting that after decades of theory "i've been in the deconstruction industry for twenty years", unsure anymore whether it was construction or its opposite. The undecidable had become the room's native air.

The quarrel, gentler, was over recovery and lineage. A thread built a Mina Loy portal, gathering the scattered work of the great neglected modernist into one place — the incomplete system of literary memory patched, one recovered poet at a time — while an Olson query kept the Black Mountain line in view. If no system is ever complete, the room seemed to answer, then the work is endless recovery: forever hunting the true things the canon left unproven, forever dragging another Mina Loy back from the margin into the light where she could be read again.

And a death closed the month in the register of the unfinished. Michael Gizzi died in late summer, the poet of quick, torqued, associative lines, and the room noted the loss before any official obituary had appeared — the news outrunning the record, a life ended before the systems that catalog such things had caught up. It was Gödel's lesson in miniature: the fact arriving ahead of the proof, the death real before it was written down.

I have set September down exactly as the archive delivered it — poetry after the limits of logic, the Mina Loy recovery, and Michael Gizzi gone before the obituary — because it was the month the list took the incompleteness of every system as its subject and found the idea everywhere: in the poem that exceeds its rules, in the canon that must forever be patched with recovered names, in the death that outran its own record. A room that answers a proof about the limits of formal systems by building a portal to a forgotten poet and mourning one just lost is a room that understands what to do with incompleteness, which is not to despair of it but to keep filling in, by hand, the true things the system could not hold.

— Kristen M. Fabians

Index

Writers, names mentioned, and concepts. Every number links to its message. 258 in all.

WRITERS

AND, mIEKAL 32, 56, 98, 115, 141
Andrews, Jim 38, 89, 127, 132, 133, 164, 169, 177, 202, 204, 225, 231
Angeline, Mary 118
Armand, Louis 151
Baraban, Stephen 93
Beaulieu, Derek 81, 114, 197
Belz, Aaron 111
Benson, Cara 20, 34, 47, 57, 76, 86, 157, 172, 183
Bibby, Michael 105
Bloch, Julia 17, 123
Borchart, Sharon Mesmer/David 235, 256
Bowering, George 224
Brown, Pam 74, 92
Byrne, Mairead 180, 182
Cain, Séamas 4, 49, 173, 174, 185
Carfagna, Richard 179
Chapman, Chris 220
Cheek, Cris 108, 158
Coffey, Dan 54
Conrad, CA 21, 130
Crawford, Holly 119
Dalachinsky, Steve 13, 27, 59, 121, 122
Daley, Ryan 255
Daly, Catherine 152
Damon, Maria 62, 63, 78
Devineni, Ram 170
Dickey, Eric 117
Dolin, Sharon 211
Donovan, Thom 162
Dorf, Carol 149
DuCharme, Mark 26, 53, 72, 253
Edgerton, Michael Tod 250
ELECTRONICS, ART 51, 109, 128, 168, 234
Ellis, Stephen 257
Elshtain, Eric 134
Farrell, Michael 24, 82, 167, 205, 206
Fidler, Farrah 110
Fieled, Adam 31
Foley, Jack 155
Fox, Sarah 66
Frazer, Vernon 194
Ganick, Peter 22, 113, 143
Giannini, David 100
Glass, Dan 90, 91, 136, 207
Glass, Jesse 103
Glazier, Loss Pequeño 107
Godston, Dan 44, 45, 46, 88, 229
Golata, Russ 222
Grant, Peter 209
Hadbawnik, David 216
Hansen, Michael 200
Harmon, Elliot 165
Heller, Michael 14
Herd, Colin 55
Hey, Damian 140
Howard, Scott 217
Javier, Paolo 242
Jenkins, Grant 160
Jeroen, Nieuwland 126
Johnson, Halvard 58, 251
Jpjones 40
Karavatos, Nicholas 23, 39, 48, 67
Karmin, Jennifer 12, 87, 146, 199, 230
Kasimor, Mary 36, 79, 80
Katko, Justin 43, 73
Kelder, Cralan 29
Kennedy, Evan 196
Kimmelman, Burt 19, 213
King, Amy 7, 15, 61, 77, 85, 153, 186, 187, 241, 258
Kirschenbaum, David 120, 176
Konkol, Margaret 201
Law, Iris 246
Lepson, Ruth 35, 37, 42
Levato, Francesco 101
Loden, Rachel 178, 214
Malo, Mary Jo 215
Martin, Camille 5, 95
Maurer, Susan 249
Mauro, Nicole 6
McCollough, Aaron 159
McLennan, Rob 1, 10, 16, 129, 184
McVay, Gwyn 247
Meersman, Philip 30, 106, 116
Mindock, Gloria 145
Minton, Jonathan 188
Mollohan, J. Michael 148
Morse, Jonathan 18
Nelson, Paul 65, 131
Nemet-Nejat, Murat 94, 154, 191, 192, 239, 240
Nielsen, Aldon 150, 161, 233
Oha, Obododimma 84, 104, 203
Palagi, Naomi Buck 237
Phipps, Wanda 248
Piombino, Nicholas 195
Poe, Deborah 97, 166
Pritts, Nate 228
Project, Poetry 71, 124, 190
Pusateri, Chris 112

Robbins, Micah 218
Robert-foley, Lily 137, 138, 163
Roche, John 8, 254
Rosenthal, Sarah 223
Rothenberg, Jerome 96
Russell, Steve 175, 198, 227, 243
Samuels, Lisa 25, 135
Sarai, Sarah 83, 142
Savage, Thomas 33
Sawyer, Larry 144
Schickling, Jared 75
Schultz, Susan Webster 28, 156
Shankar, Ravi (English) 50, 99
Side, Jeffrey 2, 60, 189, 208, 232, 245
Siegell, Paul 9
Slaughter, William 147
Sondheim, Alan 210, 212
Stroffolino, Chris 252
Sweeney, Chad 68, 125
Timmons, Mathew 193
Vincent, Stephen 3, 70, 219
Weinstein, Eric 226
Weiss, Mark 64, 171, 181, 221, 236, 244
Welch, Michael Dylan 52
Wharton, Samuel 11
Wickens, Jessica 41
Wilcox, Dan 102
Winks, Christopher Leland 69, 238
}, { Brad Brace 139

NAMES MENTIONED

Abramowitz, Harold 157, 183, 193, 199
Abrams, Jen 121
Abrams, Sam 254
Adams, John 70
Agamben, Giorgio 124
Ali, Kazim 96, 100
Alice, Mary 46, 50, 52, 120, 125, 176, 233
Ambrose, Joe 120, 176
Americans, Asian 50, 123
Amerika, Mark 120, 176
Amling, Eric 153, 186
Amram, David 13, 121
Anderson, Erik 55
Andrews, Bruce 151, 190
Ang, Brian 90, 91, 136
Angelo, Michael 51
Anne, Sarah 34
Aragon, Louis 30
Arendt, Hannah 30
Armantrout, Rae 34, 178, 214, 252, 256
Arnold, Bob 29, 37
Ashbery, John 120, 176, 252, 256
Atkins, Tim 90, 91, 136, 150
Atlanta, Mark P. 101
Ave, Jackson 162, 195
Baker, Lori 211, 222, 252, 256
Baker, Peter 120, 176
Baldwin, James 233
Ballardini, Anny 92
Baraka, Amiri 121
Barber, Stephanie 151
Barnes, Diane 32
Bartlett, Jennifer 7
Barwin, Gary 193
Basinski, Michael 120, 176
Baxter, Ted 135
Beckett, Samuel 22
Beckett, Tom 39, 48, 67, 137, 149, 150, 154, 161, 163, 167, 171, 192
Bee, Susan 34
Behrendt, Lynn 47
Belieu, Erin 258
Bellamy, Dodie 70
Bennett, Bill 22
Bennett, John M. 22, 29, 37, 188
Berger, Jonathan 120, 176
Berkeley, Michael 123, 125
Berlin, Irving 30, 43, 88
Bernard, Kenneth 211, 252, 256
Bernhard, Thomas 30, 106, 116, 118
Bernstein, Charles 7, 160
Bernstein, Emma 227
Berridge, David 134
Berrigan, Anselm 71, 120, 124, 176
Berrigan, Edmund 190
Berry, Jake 120, 176, 189, 245
Betts, Gregory 114, 193
Bishop, Elizabeth 211, 252, 256
Blau, Rachel 7, 17
Boat, Drunken 50, 97, 99, 166
Bolton, Ken 92
Bowen, David 46
Bozicevic, Ana 7
Bradley, John 11
Brazil, David 136, 138
Brecht, George 211, 252, 256
Brockwell, Stephen 1, 10
Broder, Melissa 188
Bronk, William 19
Brooks, Gwendolyn 218, 227, 252, 256
Brossard, Nicole 7
Brown, Ann 178, 214, 252, 256
Brown, James 256
Browne, Colin 11
Browning, Robert 120, 176
Bruno, Franklin 120, 176
Bryan, John 211, 252, 256
Bryant, Elizabeth 34, 47, 57, 76
Burke, Carolyn 74, 82
Burke, Edmund 4
Burroughs, William 120, 176
Burton, Philip 44, 45, 46, 88
Butterick, George 179, 201, 209, 224, 252, 256

Byrne, Edward 50
Cafe, Poets 71, 120, 176
Cage, John 124
Campbell, Jeremy 135, 225
Cannon, Steve 71, 120, 176
Capen, Samuel P. 54, 106, 118
Carfagna, Ric 22
Carlos, William 120, 125, 176
Carroll, John 92
Carson, Anne 10
Carson, Margaret 4
Carter, Allison 183, 193
Carter, Angela 88
Carter, Michael 121
Caruso, Fred 19
Casamassima, Christophe 184
Casey, Sean 29, 37
Cayley, John 210, 252, 256
Celan, Paul 120, 176
Cervantes, James 188
Chace, Joel 22
Chang, Iris 226
Chang, Tina 99
Child, Abigail 190
Claire, Barbara 8, 55, 97
Clare, John 49, 174, 182, 190
Clark, David 164, 225
Clark, Emilie 7, 29, 37, 164, 211, 252, 256
Clark, Hilary 55
Clarke, Robin 164, 233
Clausen, Andy 71, 124
Cleary, John 44
Clifford, Pat 216, 252, 256
Clinton, Bill 13, 121, 242
Cobb, Allison 120, 176
Cohen, Joshua 151, 190
Cohen, Leonard 148
Cohn, Jim 254
Colby, Todd 120, 176
Coleridge, Samuel Taylor 213, 252, 256
Collom, Jack 29, 37
Conrad, Tony 21, 26, 33, 35, 36, 65, 66, 72, 79, 80, 120, 130, 176
Cooley, Nicole 10
Coolidge, Clark 252, 256
Cooperman, Matthew 53
Copp, Corina 178, 214, 252, 256
Corman, Roger 29, 37
County, Madison 49, 174, 182, 222
Coyote, Peter 120, 176
Creeley, Robert 120, 135, 172, 176
Critchley, Emily 34
Crosby, Harry 120, 176
Crouch, Jeff 22
Crouse, John 22
Cunningham, Mark 11
Curley, Jon 19
Cutts, Simon 29, 37
Darragh, Tina 120, 176
Darras, Jacques 96, 100
Davenport, Steve 43
Davies, Alan 120, 176
Davies, Kevin 120, 176
Davinio, Caterina 51, 109, 128, 168, 234
Davis, Jordan 120, 176
Davis, Leigh 135
Davis, Peter 92, 120, 176
Dennis, Carl 10, 120, 142, 176, 211, 252, 256
Derrida, Jacques 137, 149, 150, 154, 161, 163, 167, 171, 192
Dewhurst, Robert 120, 176
Dickinson, Mark 19, 124, 145
Dillon, Matt 102
Dixon, Nancy 233
Donahue, Joseph 190
Dowling, Sarah 17
Downing, Brandon 190
Duggan, Laurie 92
Duncan, Robert 120, 176
Durand, Marcella 120, 176
Durbin, Kate 7, 193
Dworkin, Craig 120, 176
Earl, James 233
Edgar, Chris 30
Edmond, Martin 92, 218, 252, 256
Edmond, Murray 135
Edwards, Ken 219, 252, 256
Elena, Maria 51
Eliot, Joe 60
Ellen, Mary 227, 247
Elliot, Joe 30, 106, 116, 118, 120, 165, 176
Elrick, Laura 76, 120, 176
England, Amy 30, 53, 112, 120, 153, 176, 211, 219, 252, 256
Eshleman, Clayton 85, 158
Esther, Little 74, 82
Eugene, Brett 50
Evans, Bill 121
Fagan, Kate 92
Farr, Raymond 22
Faulkner, William 44
Felix, Joel 125
Finch, Annie 85, 136, 222
Fink, Tom 19
Finkelstein, Norman 213, 252, 256
Fisher, Allen 96, 100
Fisher, Ann 19
Fishman, Ellen 14
Fitterman, Robert 138
Fletcher, Sasha 187
Foley, Patrick 155
Foltz, Craig 188
Foster, Paul 45, 120, 176
France, Peter 120, 138, 176, 211, 252, 256

Frances, Mary 76, 230
Fraser, Gregory 45
Fraser, Ian 223
Fraser, Kathleen 10, 223
Freeman, Micah 108, 122
Freind, Bill 153
Friedman, Dorothy 121
Frost, Corey 179, 201, 209, 224, 252, 256
Fucaloro, Thomas 71
Fuhrman, Joanna 71, 120, 176
Garrison, Deborah 222
Gaudry, Molly 7
Genega, Paul 120, 176
Genet, Jean 49, 174, 182
Gibson, Morgan 211, 252, 256
Gibson, William 213, 252, 256
Gilbert, Susan 55, 120, 176
Gilmore, Gary 120, 176
Ginsberg, Allen 30, 49, 120, 131, 174, 176, 182, 185
Gioia, Dana 245
Gizzi, Michael 235, 241, 250, 251, 252, 253, 255, 256, 257
Glave, Thomas 233
Glover, Albert 254
Glück, Robert 223
Godfrey, John 71, 120, 124, 176
Godston, Jon 229
Golaski, Adam 87
Goldberg, Michael 151
Goldman, Emma 147
Goldsmith, Kenneth 120, 176, 211, 252, 256
Goldstein, Laura 12
Goldstein, Mark 97
Gomez, Audrey 233
Goodman, Craig 8
Gordon, Robert 71, 124
Gottlieb, Michael 120, 176
Graham, Lea 164
Greenberg, Samuel 5, 95
Greene, Graham 8, 44, 45, 46, 88
Gregg, Linda 15
Griffin, Tim 230
Grinnell, Tracy 76, 120, 176
Guthrie, Camille 12
Halle, Steve 30
Hamill, Janet 120, 176
Hamilton, Scott 135
Hammond, Paul 53, 112
Hansen, Jefferson 200
Hardy, Edmund 233
Harper, Michael 44
Harris, Kaplan 29, 37, 50, 120, 176, 233
Harryman, Carla 153, 186
Hart, Matt 7
Harvey, James 14
Harvey, Roy 17
Hayes, Jared 120, 176, 211, 252, 256
Haynes, Bob 43
Hejinian, Lyn 47
Heller, Mike 14, 120, 176
Henderson, David 120, 176, 211, 252, 256
Henri, Charles 30
Hernandez, Victor 120, 176
Herron, Patrick 233
Highfill, Mitch 120, 176
Hill, Crag 98
Hillman, Brenda 7
Hinton, Laura 57, 153, 186
Hirsch, Edward 170, 249
Hofer, Jen 157, 183, 199
Hoff, James 211, 252, 256
Hogue, Cynthia 172
Holman, Bob 13, 120, 135, 176
Holmes, Janet 153
Holmes, Michael 186
Holmquest, Brandon 120, 176
Horosky, Mark 120, 176
Horrocks, Roger 135
Horton, David 45
House, Poets 96, 100
Hoy, Dan 7
Huang, Yunte 211, 252, 256
Hughes, Peter 120, 176
Iijima, Brenda 76, 120, 176, 218, 252, 256
Indiana, Robert 120, 176
Ireland, Lauren 4, 19, 49, 174, 182, 185
Israel, David 13, 121
Jackson, Jesse 26, 36, 65, 72, 79, 80, 120, 176, 233
Jacobs, Ken 120, 176
Jarnot, Lisa 120, 176, 211, 252, 256
Jeffery, Mark 121
Jenkins, Matthew 160
Jenks, Philip 34
Jhave, David 225
Johnson, Kent 29, 37
Johnston, Daniel 225
Jones, Brian 7, 44, 55, 120, 124, 171, 176, 211, 233, 252, 256
Jones, David 155
Jones, Jill 40, 66, 92
Jordan, June 233
Joris, Pierre 57, 120, 121, 151, 176, 190
Joritz, Jane 92
Joseph, Safdie 11, 90, 91, 136
Jouet, Jacques 138
Jullich, Jeffrey 120, 176
Kafka, Franz 211, 252, 256
Kaplan, Leslie 211, 252, 256
Kaprow, Allan 211, 252, 256
Karl, Steven 7
Kathryn, Mary 188
Katz, Eliot 121

Kazay, Jamie 44
Kelly, Patrick 120, 176, 233
Kerouac, Jack 12, 120, 176
Ketch, Shannon 120, 176
Killian, Kevin 70
Kilroy, Kevin 12
Kim, Myung Mi 219, 252, 256
Kimball, Jack 120, 176
Kirschenbaum, David A. 120, 176
Klane, Matthew 188
Knott, Bill 243
Kolm, Ron 13, 121
Koos, John 120, 176
Kuhl, Nancy 99
Kuhn, Thomas 232
Kyger, Joanne 29, 37
Lacan, Jacques 164
Lamoureux, Mark 6
Lang, Peter 19
Law, Iris A. 246
Laynor, Gregory 55
Lazer, Hank 208, 211, 245, 252, 256
Leftwich, Jim 22
Leggott, Michele 135
Leonard, Tom 96, 100, 158
Lewis, Bernard 121
Lewis, Jeffrey 120, 176
Lewis, Jerry 124
Lewis, Joel 19, 124
Licht, Alan 256
Lim, Eugene 187
Livingston, Reb 99
Lloyd, Warren 131
Locke, John 123
Logan, William 44, 45, 46, 88
Lomax, Alan 76
London, Frank 30, 45, 50, 53, 110, 112
Lorde, Audre 233
Louise, Bobbie 29, 37
Mac Low, Jackson 30
Lowe, Thomas 22
Lowinger, Aaron 120, 176
Luoma, Bill 120, 176
Luther, Martin 30, 93
Lynn, Heidi 7, 57
Lyons, Kim 71, 120, 176
Madrid, Anthony 188
Malcolm, Janet 211, 252, 256
Malina, Judith 13, 120, 121, 176
Mallarmé, Stéphane 81
Mancus, Tony 120, 176
Manguso, Sarah 120, 176
Mansel, Chris 208, 252, 256
Manson, Douglas 120, 176
Manson, Peter 96, 100
Manzarek, Ray 131
Marclay, Christian 211, 256
Marie, Anne 29, 30, 37, 106, 116, 118, 188
Marmer, Jake 110
Marsh, Bill 19, 213, 252, 256
Marshall, Robert 211, 217, 252, 256
Marvin, Lee 258
Mason, Janet 211, 252, 256
Massey, Joseph 5, 136
Maud, Ralph 224
Mead, Taylor 120, 176
Meltzer, David 39, 48, 67
Mendoza, Mark 108, 122
Menendez, Didi 31
Meredith, William 11
Miller, David 29, 37
Miller, Paul D. 88, 121
Mills, David 120, 176
Milton, John 211, 252, 256
Mingus, Charlie 45
Minter, Peter 92
Miriam, Erica 120, 176
Mitchell, Roger 145
Monk, Ian 138
Moody, Rick 233
Moore, Allison 26, 36, 65, 72, 79, 80, 115, 120, 176, 233
Moore, John 115
Moore, Marianne 33, 35, 93
Moreland, Sean 10
Morgan, Bill 71, 124
Morgan, Robin 2, 29, 37
Moriarty, Laura 190
Morris, Daniel 213, 252, 256
Morris, Dee 213, 252, 256
Morris, William 30
Morrison, Bill 193
Mullen, Harryette 158
Murfin, Ira S. 87
Murphy, Paul 7, 22
Murphy, Sheila E. 22, 45, 232
Myles, Eileen 76, 120, 130, 151, 176, 190, 227, 247
Naka, Michelle 53, 112
Nakagawa, Jane 92
Naylor, Paul 233
Nelson, Paul E. 65, 79, 131
Neruda, Pablo 249
Newlove, John 10
Newman, Charlie 44
Nichols, Travis 120, 176
Nicole, Anna 6
Niedecker, Lorine 26, 36, 40, 65, 66, 72, 79, 80, 145
Nielsen, Aldon L. 150, 161, 167, 233
Nixon, Richard 178, 214, 252, 256
Noel, Urayoan 120, 176
Norman, Peter 121, 171
Norton, John 70

Notley, Alice 124
Nudel, Harry 121
O'Sullivan, Maggie 96, 100
Oliver, John 29, 37, 120, 124, 176
Olson, Charles 179, 201, 209, 224, 252, 256
Olson, John 98
Olson, Kirby 45, 102, 179, 201, 209, 224, 229, 252, 256
Oppen, George 14, 179, 201, 209, 224, 252, 256
Opstedal, Kevin 29, 37
Orange, Tom 120, 176
Orlovsky, Peter 71, 124
Osman, Jena 47
Owens, Richard 216, 218, 252, 256
Pacific, Asian 28, 135, 152, 209, 226, 252, 256
Padgett, Ron 7, 29, 37, 187
Palm, Lars 22, 90, 91, 136
Palmer, Michael 223
Parkway, Neal 53, 112
Parrish, Katherine 120, 176
Patterson, Ian 13, 121
Perloff, Marjorie 213, 252, 256
Peterson, Katie 12, 46
Pettet, Simon 71, 124
Pettit, Emily 17
Peyrafitte, Nicole 120, 121, 176
Piccinnini, Douglas 71, 120, 176
Pine, White 125
Pinker, Steven 120, 176
Place, Vanessa 138
Portugal, Anne 210, 252, 256
Potter, Steve 55
Pound, Ezra 25, 27, 40, 42, 63, 66, 69, 74, 78, 82, 93, 155
Powell, Ren 39, 48, 67
Prater, David 92
Price, Richard 57
Prince, Richard 120, 176
Professor, Kelly 150, 161, 167, 233
Purcell, Jack 129
Radon, Lisa 98
Randall, Karen 233
Ratcliffe, Stephen 76
Reeck, Matt 120, 176
Reed, Marthe 57
Reilly, Evelyn 49, 50, 174, 182
Remer, Justin 120, 176
Rerick, Michael 47
Retallack, Joan 7
Richert, Dan 193
Riding, Laura 25
Riley, Denise 216, 252, 256
Rimbaud, Dee 196, 205, 252, 256
Robbins, Bruce 252, 256
Robertson, Lisa 124
Robinson, Elizabeth 86, 184
Robinson, Jeffrey 96, 100
Roden, Steve 211, 252, 256
Rogers, Jennifer 14
Roitman, Judith 76
Ronk, Martha 57
Rosenstock, Gabriel 4
Rosenthal, Chuck 223
Ross, Harry 45
Rothenberg, Jerry 64
Rothschild, Douglas 120, 176
Roy, Camille 223
Ruiz, Mariana 120, 176
Russo, Linda 57
Sama, Metta 71
Sampirisi, Jenny 98
Sanchez, Jorge 15
Sanders, Jay 30, 71, 102, 124
Sappho 93
Savage, Tom 121
Scalapino, Leslie 34, 47, 57, 76, 124, 223
Schelling, Andrew 30
Schoen, Jesse 120, 176
Schroeder, Steven 11, 45
Schulman, Sarah 86
Schultz, Lou 28, 156
Schultz, Susan M. 28, 156
Schwartz, Jerry 88
Schwitters, Kurt 193
Scutti, Susan 13, 71, 121
Seabolt, Brian 188
Sendecki, Daniel 92
Shakespeare, William 120, 176, 252, 256
Shapiro, David 110, 120, 176
Shelley, Percy Bysshe 44
Sherlock, Frank 120, 176
Sherman, Cindy 23, 151
Shimoda, Brandon 7, 120, 176
Siegel, Nathaniel 15, 71
Silliman, Ron 3, 85
Silverman, Oren 43, 121
Simon, Greg 14, 71, 120, 124, 158, 176
Simon, John 211, 252, 256
Sinclair, John 233
Skinner, Jonathan 120, 176
Sky, Tarpaulin 97, 125, 166
Smith, Harry 71, 120, 124, 176
Smith, Hazel 92
Smith, Jenny 151
Smith, Joseph 102
Smith, Rod 120, 176, 227
Snyder, Rick 29, 37
Sparling, Ken 184
Spektor, Regina 120, 176
Spyker, James 129
Stanton, Rob 13, 120, 121, 176
Stein, Gertrude 26, 36, 40, 65, 66, 72, 79, 80, 120, 176, 193

Stein, Leigh 7
Stein, Suzanne 207, 252, 256
Steinberg, Susan 258
Stewart, Amanda 92
Strauss, Adam 76
Strickland, Stephanie 151, 190
Strongin, Lynn 188
Sullivan, Andrew 120, 176
Sullivan, Robert 135
Swensen, Cole 7
Szymaszek, Stacy 76, 151, 190
Tankoos, Harry 120, 176
Taransky, Michelle 17
Taylor, Steven 71, 121, 124
Taylor, Tom 22, 193
Tesser, Marjorie 120, 176
Texas, Irving 146
Theater, Poets 256
Thompson, George 120, 176
Thorson, Maureen 120, 176
Timmons, Matt 120, 176, 193
Tognazzini, Anthony 151
Topel, Andrew 22
Toscano, Rodrigo 76
Townsend, Cheryl 258
Tranter, John 7
Treadwell, Elizabeth 57, 223
Tribbey, Hugh 22
Truitt, Sam 172
Tucker, Aaron 120, 176
Turco, Lewis 111, 117, 121
Turner, Victor 159, 178, 214, 252, 256
Tyler, Richard 184
Unger, Brian 37
Upton, Lawrence 22
Valery, Paul 121
Varrone, Kevin 120, 176
Vassilakis, Nico 98, 115
Veronica, Angela 53, 112, 120, 176
Wagner, Catherine 34, 76, 191, 204, 221, 240, 252, 256
Waldman, Anne 7, 30, 71, 120, 124, 176
Waldman, Ken 120, 176
Waldrop, Rosmarie 43, 124
Walker, Alice 233
Walker, Laura 230
Wallace, George 121
Wallace, Nicole 190, 233
Walthausen, Abby 120, 176
Warhol, Andy 120, 176
Washington, George 52, 120, 131, 155, 159, 172, 176, 178, 214, 252, 256
Watson, Carl 121
Watson, Scott 45, 211, 252, 256
Watts, Carol 190
Weber, Damian 229
Wedde, Ian 135
Weiser, Karen 124
Weiss, Irving 188
Weiss, Jason 64, 171, 181, 221, 236, 240, 244, 252, 256
Welch, Jen 52
Welish, Marjorie 151
Wertheim, Christine 151, 157, 193, 199
White, Helen 30, 106, 116, 118
White, Jared 120, 176
Whitman, Walt 120, 176
Wiener, Hannah 30
Wieners, John 29, 37
Wilkinson, John 151, 190
Williams, Jonathan 196, 205, 252, 256
Williams, Paul O. 19, 42, 69, 78, 86, 115
Williams, Robin 124
Williams, Roger 124
Williams, Tyrone 213
Williams, William Carlos 19, 93, 150, 156, 161, 167, 233
Williamson, Dustin 120, 176
Willis, Elizabeth 136
Wilson, Karen 120, 176
Wittgenstein, Ludwig 164
Wright, C. D. 7, 50
Wright, Tim 92
Yankelevich, Matvei 7
Yau, John 252, 256
Young, Mark 232
Zappa, Frank 229
Zorn, John 110
Zucker, Rachel 47
Zukofsky, Louis 42

CONCEPTS

9/11 12, 13, 17, 30, 58, 67, 83, 106, 116, 118, 120, 176
Activism and protest 105, 116, 120, 176
Aesthetics 2, 17, 140, 145, 210, 211, 239, 246, 252, 256
African American poetry 120, 176, 233
Anthologies 12, 30, 39, 48, 52, 54, 67, 93, 98, 106, 118, 120, 135, 151, 153, 172, 176, 178, 186, 187, 214, 252, 256
Appropriation 123, 140, 231, 236, 238, 239, 244
Archives and libraries 17, 39, 44, 45, 46, 48, 67, 73, 88, 93, 99, 107, 120, 125, 145, 159, 172, 176, 210, 211, 223, 229, 232, 252, 256
Asemic writing 81
Autobiography 47, 69, 78, 120, 139, 148, 176, 217, 252, 256
Avant-garde 30, 81, 96, 100, 120, 176, 245
Beat generation 131
Beauty 20, 30, 49, 115, 174, 182
Biography 69, 74, 78, 82, 202, 252, 256
Black Mountain 8, 254

Blogs 1, 2, 3, 7, 9, 10, 11, 15, 16, 17, 18, 21, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 30, 33, 34, 35, 36, 39, 40, 44, 47, 48, 52, 55, 56, 57, 58, 61, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 69, 71, 72, 74, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 82, 84, 85, 87, 91, 92, 96, 98, 99, 100, 106, 113, 115, 116, 118, 120, 129, 130, 136, 138, 142, 146, 150, 153, 156, 159, 161, 167, 170, 176, 180, 182, 184, 186, 190, 193, 196, 205, 207, 211, 215, 217, 219, 223, 226, 230, 233, 241, 246, 249, 250, 251, 252, 255, 256
Book announcements 6, 16, 52, 64, 70, 97, 120, 125, 138, 145, 153, 176, 210, 213, 228, 229, 252, 256
Bookstores 14, 41, 46, 87, 120, 176, 211, 252, 256
Calls for submissions 41, 101, 123, 197, 217, 246, 252, 256
Censorship 120, 131, 176
Cities 45, 120, 149, 153, 154, 161, 163, 167, 170, 176, 186, 192, 211, 249
Class 120, 176
Collage and montage 30, 53, 98, 112, 115, 171
Conceptual writing 120, 138, 176
Conferences and festivals 4, 8, 13, 14, 15, 24, 25, 27, 30, 40, 44, 45, 46, 49, 63, 66, 69, 71, 74, 78, 82, 86, 88, 93, 96, 100, 106, 109, 116, 118, 120, 123, 125, 128, 153, 160, 168, 174, 176, 178, 182, 186, 214, 222, 229, 230, 233, 234, 252, 254, 256
Copyright and permissions 123, 159
Craft 211, 252, 256
Creative writing pedagogy 30, 137, 149, 150, 154, 159, 161, 163, 167, 171, 192, 233
Dada 30, 116
Deconstruction 127, 137, 149, 150, 154, 161, 163, 167, 171, 175, 192, 212, 215, 252, 256
Difficulty 76, 211, 252, 256
Digital archives 14, 120, 176, 210, 223, 235, 241, 250, 252, 255, 256
Disability 105
Dreams 15, 30, 46, 75, 109, 110, 120, 123, 153, 176, 186, 202, 238, 244, 252, 256
Ecology and ecopoetics 30, 49, 120, 174, 176, 182, 190
Editing 98, 120, 124, 153, 176
Electronic poetry and hypertext 71, 96, 100, 107, 120, 127, 135, 137, 149, 150, 154, 159, 161, 162, 163, 167, 171, 175, 176, 192, 202, 210, 223, 242, 252, 256
Elegy 172
Empire and imperialism 155
Epic 87, 146, 157, 158, 183, 199, 230
Epistemology 177, 181, 191, 198, 202, 204, 206, 220, 221, 240, 252, 256
Ethics 123
Experimental poetry 22, 49, 120, 140, 160, 174, 176, 182
Fascism 202, 204, 221, 239, 240, 252, 256
Feminism 120, 146, 153, 176, 186
Film 13, 30, 44, 45, 46, 49, 88, 110, 116, 120, 131, 174, 176, 182, 190, 211, 225, 230, 252, 256
Flarf 159
Free verse 69, 78
Gender 120, 123, 176
Grants and funding 14, 17, 120, 131, 145, 153, 160, 172, 176, 178, 186, 190, 209, 211, 214, 252, 256
Haiku 22, 30, 52, 120, 176
Harlem Renaissance 233
Humour and satire 70, 115, 120, 129, 176, 213, 252, 256
Ideology 123
Improvisation 30, 44, 45, 46, 87, 88, 164, 194, 215, 252, 256
Interviews 10, 19, 74, 82, 103, 105, 120, 131, 142, 170, 172, 176, 187, 196, 205, 208, 223, 225, 232, 246, 249, 252, 256
Israel and Palestine 13, 121
Language poetry 30, 120, 176, 245
Latino and Latin American poetry 120, 176
Letters and correspondence 47, 105, 120, 155, 176
List moderation 15, 187
Little magazines 7, 10, 12, 15, 19, 29, 30, 37, 41, 43, 54, 59, 62, 97, 99, 102, 103, 105, 106, 115, 118, 120, 125, 135, 140, 147, 151, 153, 155, 159, 166, 170, 176, 178, 184, 186, 187, 190, 197, 210, 214, 217, 230, 246, 249, 252, 256
Lyric poetry 6, 115, 145
Memory 49, 89, 94, 102, 120, 168, 174, 176, 182, 213, 252, 256
MFA programs 12, 59, 62, 70, 99, 105, 120, 147, 153, 170, 176, 186, 187, 232, 249, 250, 255
Modernism 21, 24, 25, 26, 27, 33, 35, 36, 40, 60, 63, 65, 66, 69, 72, 78, 79, 80, 149, 154, 160, 161, 163, 167, 192
Mourning and loss 107, 124, 192
Multiculturalism 120, 176
Music and poetry 8, 13, 14, 22, 30, 42, 44, 45, 46, 49, 71, 77, 88, 92, 109, 110, 120, 124, 168, 169, 174, 176, 182, 190, 191, 193, 204, 210, 211, 212, 221, 226, 230, 240, 252, 256
Nationalism 233
Nature 49, 98, 120, 132, 133, 154, 161, 163, 164, 167, 174, 176, 182, 192, 234, 251
Negativity and refusal 98
Obituary and memorial 71, 89, 94, 124, 155
Objectivism 42

Ontology 97, 166
Oulipo 127, 137, 138, 149, 150, 154, 161, 163, 167, 171, 175, 192, 202, 252, 256
Performance and the poetry reading 1, 13, 14, 15, 19, 23, 30, 39, 53, 99, 102, 105, 108, 112, 120, 122, 125, 138, 153, 168, 170, 176, 178, 182, 186, 211, 222, 226, 227, 249, 252, 256
Phenomenology 123, 159
Philosophy 110, 120, 124, 133, 140, 158, 163, 176, 177, 181, 190, 191, 192, 198, 202, 204, 206, 210, 220, 221, 231, 236, 238, 239, 240, 244, 252, 256
Place and region 15, 64, 120, 171, 176, 181, 221, 236, 240, 244, 252, 256
Poetics 2, 10, 14, 19, 26, 36, 39, 48, 54, 65, 67, 72, 79, 80, 96, 100, 106, 107, 110, 118, 119, 120, 124, 127, 135, 137, 147, 149, 150, 151, 153, 154, 157, 159, 161, 163, 167, 171, 175, 176, 177, 180, 181, 182, 183, 184, 186, 187, 190, 191, 192, 198, 199, 202, 204, 206, 210, 217, 220, 221, 231, 232, 236, 238, 239, 240, 244, 246, 252, 256
Politics and poetry 39, 48, 67
Post-structuralism 171
Postmodernism 60
Print vs. digital 9, 21, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 33, 36, 40, 60, 63, 65, 66, 69, 72, 75, 78, 79, 80, 93, 115, 120, 125, 130, 132, 133, 141, 157, 176, 183, 199, 210, 223, 225, 252, 256
Prizes and awards 17, 30, 50, 70, 120, 125, 131, 170, 176, 178, 190, 214, 249, 252, 256
Procedural and constraint writing 49, 174, 182
Prose poem 120, 176, 199, 230
Queer poetics 7, 120, 176, 227, 233, 247
Race and poetry 3, 15, 120, 123, 176, 233
Reading announcements 13, 112, 120, 121, 125, 129, 158, 176, 178, 211, 214, 227, 252, 256
Religion and the sacred 71, 120, 123, 124, 140, 176, 193, 211, 239, 252, 256
Representation 120, 133, 176, 233
Reviewing and criticism 17, 19, 32, 39, 48, 53, 67, 68, 90, 91, 98, 101, 105, 112, 120, 123, 125, 129, 136, 145, 146, 147, 153, 159, 163, 164, 166, 172, 176, 186, 187, 192, 200, 207, 209, 210, 225, 246, 252, 256
Romanticism 96, 100
Science 120, 124, 127, 132, 133, 137, 149, 150, 154, 161, 163, 167, 171, 175, 176, 177, 181, 182, 191, 192, 198, 202, 204, 206, 210, 220, 221, 232, 240, 252, 256
Semiotics 104, 115, 159, 203, 252, 256
Serial poem 17, 69, 78, 120, 176, 189
Small press publishing 1, 10, 12, 16, 30, 53, 70, 81, 87, 90, 91, 97, 99, 112, 120, 125, 129, 134, 138, 146, 153, 176, 178, 184, 186, 190, 211, 214, 216, 223, 230, 237, 252, 256
Social media 16, 30, 39, 48, 67, 106, 116, 118, 120, 159, 176, 211, 248, 252, 256
Software and code 89, 94, 132, 159, 193, 225, 231, 236, 238, 239, 244
Sonnet 5, 22, 95, 251
Sound poetry 193
Structuralism 171
Subjectivity 53, 101, 120, 123, 137, 149, 150, 154, 161, 163, 167, 171, 176, 192, 217
Sublime 178, 214, 252, 256
Surrealism 30, 116, 120, 176, 239
The academy 18, 19, 23, 30, 39, 48, 53, 59, 62, 67, 70, 84, 96, 97, 99, 100, 104, 105, 107, 112, 120, 123, 125, 135, 145, 146, 147, 150, 151, 153, 156, 158, 159, 160, 161, 166, 167, 172, 176, 184, 185, 186, 187, 190, 197, 203, 210, 230, 232, 233, 245, 250, 252, 254, 255, 256
The body 30, 57, 75, 124
The canon 110
The internet 120, 123, 176
The Iraq war 30
The line 8
The listserv 16, 57, 71, 110, 124, 168, 187, 190, 211, 252, 256
Theatre 13, 15, 30, 96, 100, 110, 120, 121, 124, 125, 131, 153, 158, 176, 178, 186, 188, 214, 252, 256
Translation 19, 25, 27, 30, 40, 41, 43, 44, 45, 46, 50, 63, 66, 69, 78, 81, 88, 93, 101, 120, 125, 137, 138, 146, 149, 150, 154, 161, 163, 167, 170, 171, 172, 176, 181, 192, 246, 249
Visual and concrete poetry 30, 38, 81, 89, 94, 98, 115, 127, 132, 133, 137, 149, 150, 154, 161, 163, 164, 167, 169, 171, 172, 175, 177, 181, 191, 192, 198, 202, 204, 206, 220, 221, 225, 231, 232, 236, 238, 239, 240, 244, 252, 256
Visual art 19, 44, 45, 46, 51, 88, 97, 109, 120, 125, 128, 131, 146, 155, 164, 172, 176, 193, 197, 211, 213, 214, 219, 222, 229, 246, 252, 256
Women's writing 61, 186

Contents

Every entry links to its message. 258 in all.

31 AUG 2010

1. Rob McLennan — new from above/ground press: Stephen Brockwell's Impossible Books

1 SEP 2010

2. Jeffrey Side — Re: "The Conspiracy Against Poems" by Adam Fieled at The Argotist Online
3. Stephen Vincent — Timoth Yu on Ron Silliman
4. Séamas Cain — Prairie Voices

2 SEP 2010

5. Camille Martin — New @ Rogue Embryo: Samuel Greenberg + Katrina + unarmed + Joseph Massey
6. Nicole Mauro — Latest from Black Radish Books
7. amy king — Esque -- a new online journal of p/oetry and man/ifesto
8. John Roche — Linebreakers: Poetry and Dance in Rochester, NY
9. Paul Siegell — Goodreads Book Giveaway
10. Rob McLennan — 17 seconds: a journal of poetry + poetics, issue 2 now online!
11. Samuel Wharton — sawbuck 4.3: a day late but still great!
12. Jennifer Karmin — Red Rover Series / Experiment #39

3 SEP 2010

13. steve dalachinsky — busy month for stev dalachinsky and yuko otomo
14. Michael Heller — Reminder: This Art Burning
15. amy king — OT: Sonia Sanchez at HOWL Festival Monday Sept 6 4pm
16. Rob McLennan — above/ground press 2011 subscriptions now available;

4 SEP 2010

17. julia bloch — Sept. 11: Rachel Blau DuPlessis in Philadelphia

5 SEP 2010

18. Jonathan Morse — Vanity possibility?
19. Kimmelman, Burt — Curley and Kimmelman in Rutherford
20. Cara Benson — Looking for creative works/projects in community
21. CA Conrad — your MINA LOY PORTAL

6 SEP 2010

22. peter ganick — chalk editions new catalogue - the first 38
23. Nicholas Karavatos — ...at The Cobalt in Canoga Park, CA on Tuesday, Sept. 7th at 9pm...
24. michael farrell — Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
25. Lisa Samuels — Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
26. Mark DuCharme — Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL

7 SEP 2010

27. steve dalachinsky — Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
28. Susan Webster Schultz — recent posts on Tinfish Editor's Blog
29. Cralan Kelder — please welcome Full Metal Poem
30. Philip Meersman — Re: Looking for creative works/projects in community
31. Adam Fieled — Three "Equations" Links
32. mIEKAL aND — metabolic GLYPH cannibals: Incantations for the Coming Apocalypse
33. Thomas savage — Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
34. Cara Benson — Day 1 of Leslie Scalapino tribute up on Delirious Hem
35. Ruth Lepson — Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
36. Mary Kasimor — Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
37. Ruth Lepson — Re: please welcome Full Metal Poem
38. Jim Andrews — Why Tragically Hip?

39. Nicholas Karavatos — ...at Ugly Mug in Orange, CA on Wednesday at 8pm...
40. jpjones — Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
41. Jessica Wickens — call for submissions: Monday Night #10
42. Ruth Lepson — The Poem of a Life

8 SEP 2010

43. Justin Katko — If A Then B
44. Dan Godston — My Favorite Banned Books Abecedarian Read-Out
45. Dan Godston — Translating 2010
46. Dan Godston — Two Way Tarot Mirrors
47. Cara Benson — * Day 2 (of 4): Leslie Scalapino Tribute *
48. Nicholas Karavatos — ...at Café des Artistes in Fallbrook, CA on Wednesday, Sept. 8...
49. Séamas Cain — ... reality-particles; sounds & images
50. Shankar, Ravi (English) — Drunken Boat #12 is live online!
51. ART ELECTRONICS — Invitation CORRENTI NOMADI - Videopoetry Exhibition
52. Michael Dylan Welch — Seabeck Haiku Retreat, November 4-7, 2010
53. Mark DuCharme — REMINDER: Thursday 9/16, NAKA PIERCE & PUSATERI at Stratford Park
54. Dan Coffey — poetics/poetry journal issues

9 SEP 2010

55. colin herd — anything anymore anywhere summer 2010
56. mIEKAL aND — poemicstrip - call for participation
57. Cara Benson — Leslie Scalapino Tribute: Day 3 of 4
58. Halvard Johnson — 9/11 in pictures & words
59. steve dalachinsky — Re: please apply and/or spread the word!!!
60. Jeffrey Side — The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is “Disturb the Universe: The Collected E…
61. amy king — OT: More Troubling Data About Women Writers
62. Maria Damon — please apply and/or spread the word!!!
63. Maria Damon — Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
64. Mark Weiss — blog note
65. Paul Nelson — Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
66. Sarah Fox — Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
67. Nicholas Karavatos — ...at DG Wills Books in La Jolla, CA on 9/11/10...
68. Chad Sweeney — Review of the Lost Notebooks at Bookslut
69. Christopher Leland Winks — Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
70. Stephen Vincent — John Norton's new book!
71. Poetry Project — Upcoming Events at The Poetry Project
72. Mark DuCharme — Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
73. Justin Katko — UConn request

10 SEP 2010

74. Pam Brown — Not Myrna, Mina
75. Jared Schickling — Re: The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is Disturb the Universe: The Coll…
76. Cara Benson — Leslie Scalapino Tribute: Day 4 of 4
77. amy king — Dunno. I don't do POP
78. Maria Damon — Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
79. Mary Kasimor — Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
80. Mary Kasimor — Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
81. derek beaulieu — 3 new chapbooks from NO press: Zits, Molotiu/Mallarme, Upton
82. michael farrell — Re: Not Myrna, Mina

11 SEP 2010

83. Sarah Sarai — Re: 9/11 in pictures & words
84. Obododimma Oha — A Gospel According to a Stolen Book

85. amy king — What Is the State of American Poetry? Leading American Poets Speak -- Anis Shiva...
86. Cara Benson — PEN Freedom to Write at Bklyn Bookfair this Sunday
87. Jennifer Karmin — Sept 18: Adam Golaski & Jen Karmin in Chicago
88. Dan Godston — Aural Architecture / Chicago Calling

12 SEP 2010

89. Jim Andrews — Auntie Georgie
90. Dan Glass — The 30 word review
91. Dan Glass — Re: The 30 word review
92. Pam Brown — the zounds of music - new issue of Ekleksographia
93. Stephen Baraban — Loy and Pound

13 SEP 2010

94. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: Auntie Georgie
95. Camille Martin — New @ Rogue Embryo: Samuel Greenberg's Lowly Eye
96. Jerome Rothenberg — Itinerary - Europe and New York - 2010
97. Deborah Poe — Cadmium Text Series Sept. 18: Deborah Poe, Claire Hero, Sarah Goldstein
98. mIEKAL aND — Xerolage 46 - STARINGS by Nico Vassilakis
99. Shankar, Ravi (English) — WordForge, Monday Sept 13, Kuhl and Shankar
100. David Giannini — Re: Itinerary - Europe and New York - 2010
101. Francesco Levato — Deadline Extended: Atlanta Review - Italy Issue
102. Dan Wilcox — Third Thursday Poetry Night, September 16, John Roche

14 SEP 2010

103. Jesse Glass — 3 a.m. Maga: Poetry, Scrying, Enochian and Babes of the Abyss
104. Obododimma Oha — From Their Ringtones You Shall Know Them
105. Bibby, Michael — JOB: Assistant Professor Creative Writing - Poetry
106. Philip Meersman — Re: poetics/poetry journal issues
107. Loss Pequeño Glazier — EPC at the Library of Congress
108. cris cheek — forwarded . . . re: Mainliner (readings in Cinci)
109. ART ELECTRONICS — PreVisioni Digital Art Festival Invitation
110. Farrah Fidler — Fwd: Subscribing to The Poetics List (and posting)
111. Aaron Belz — Teaching through Turco - help?
112. Chris Pusateri — Pusateri & Pierce at Stratford Park, Thurs 9/16, 7:30pm
113. peter ganick — ex-ex-lit blog

15 SEP 2010

114. derek beaulieu — new from No: "Blastogenesis" by Gregory Betts
115. mIEKAL aND — Xerolage 47 - iu by John Moore Williams
116. Philip Meersman — DAstrugistenDA @ Butfilmfestival September 11th in Breda, Nederland
117. Eric Dickey — Re: Teaching through Turco - help?
118. Angeline, Mary — Re: poetics/poetry journal issues

16 SEP 2010

119. Holly Crawford — Re: David Berridge's Dept of Micro Poetics at AC Institute
120. David Kirschenbaum — Boog Fest Starts Fri. 9/24 & Program Issue Online
121. steve dalachinsky — Re: Teaching through Turco - help?
122. steve dalachinsky — Re: forwarded . . . re: Mainliner (readings in Cinci)
123. julia bloch — CFP: graduate student conference on Virtual Histories @Penn
124. Poetry Project — Upcoming Events at The Poetry Project & Fall Workshop Offerings
125. Chad Sweeney — Chad Sweeney's new book from Alice James
126. nieuwland jeroen — (no subject)
127. Jim Andrews — language and poetry after godel and turing

17 SEP 2010

128. ART ELECTRONICS — Fw: Caterina Davinio virtual performance SL featured in IMAF 2010
129. Rob McLennan — the ottawa small press book fair, fall 2010;

130. CA Conrad — PHILLY BOOK PARTY The Book of Frank (WAVE Books, 2010)
131. Paul Nelson — Michael McClure at Doe Bay on Orcas Island

18 SEP 2010

132. Jim Andrews — I Am A Strange Loop
133. Jim Andrews — I Am A Strange Loop 2
134. Eric Elshtain — New Beard of Bees Chapbook
135. Lisa Samuels — Ka Mate Ka Ora, issue 9

19 SEP 2010

136. Dan Glass — this week on the 30 word review
137. lily robert-foley — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
138. lily robert-foley — Poetry Reading Thursday in Paris with Vanessa Place and Frédéric Forte
139. { brad brace } — PPP (pleated plaid pamphlets series)
140. Damian Hey — New Experimental Literature and Art Journal: and/or
141. mIEKAL aND — Xerox Sutra Editions plagiarizes Xexoxial Editions
142. Sarah Sarai — cast thy pod upon the sarai; ed go essay on my poems; 9/20 brooklyn reading B…
143. peter ganick — new URL for chalk editions -- please note
144. Larry Sawyer — Re: Unable to Fully California by Larry Sawyer available on Otoliths
145. Gloria Mindock — Cervena Barva Press Announces A New Book, "Triage" by Tam Lin Neville
146. Jennifer Karmin — 9/25: Karmin & Pluecker in San Diego
147. William Slaughter — Notice: Mudlark

20 SEP 2010

148. J. Michael Mollohan — Re: PPP (pleated plaid pamphlets series)
149. carol dorf — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
150. Aldon Nielsen — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
151. Louis Armand — 2 New York readings
152. Catherine Daly — Fwd: Daly Reading @ Poetry / Hybrid Stage, WeHo Book Fair
153. amy king — THIS FRIDAY -- Deborah Ager, Eric Amling, Bill Freind, Laura Hinton, Janet Holme…
154. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
155. Jack Foley — Performance & Essay UPDATE to FLASHPOINT #13
156. Susan Webster Schultz — recent posts on Tinfish Editor's Blog
157. Cara Benson — Also @ W. Hollywood Bookfair

21 SEP 2010

158. cris cheek — Will Alexander
159. Aaron McCollough — CFP: Journal of Electronic Publishing (Digital Poetics/Poetries)
160. Jenkins, Grant — Professional Organization for Exp Poetry?
161. Aldon Nielsen — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
162. Thom Donovan — 2nd Ave Poetry OCCULT launch this SATURDAY (via Paolo Javier)
163. lily robert-foley — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
164. Jim Andrews — Sign After the X by David Clark
165. Elliot Harmon — Thursday night in San Francisco: Lee Ann Roripaugh, Kaya Oakes, Cynthia Wey…
166. Deborah Poe — 24 September: Deborah Poe and Max Winter @ Bard Roving
167. michael farrell — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing

22 SEP 2010

168. ART ELECTRONICS — Poets, books of poetry, and small publishers in Lazio.
169. Jim Andrews — take it easy
170. Ram Devineni — Rattapallax 10th Anniversary Reading on Sept 24, 2010
171. Mark Weiss — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
172. Cara Benson — Tonight: Hogue. Truitt. Yes! Reading Albany, NY
173. Séamas Cain — The Prairie Gaeltacht, by Séamas Cain

174. Séamas Cain — ... reality-particles; image & sound in nature
175. steve russell — Fw: language and poetry after godel and turing

23 SEP 2010

176. David Kirschenbaum — Boog Fest Starts Tomorrow
177. Jim Andrews — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
178. Rachel Loden — UC Santa Cruz next Thursday, September 30
179. Carfagna, Richard — Olson query
180. Mairead Byrne — Re: The Prairie Gaeltacht, by Séamas Cain
181. Mark Weiss — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
182. Mairead Byrne — Re: ... reality-particles; image & sound in nature
183. Cara Benson — @ W. Hollywood Bookfair (take two)
184. Rob McLennan — new(ish) on rob's clever blog
185. Séamas Cain — Allen Ginsberg's "HOWL"
186. amy king — TOMORROW: Deborah Ager, Eric Amling, Laura Hinton, Janet Holmes, Filip Marinovic…
187. amy king — Soda Series #3 -- Sunday, September 26th @ 7pm -- A conversation with: Paula Bo…
188. Jonathan Minton — Word For/Word #17
189. Jeffrey Side — Some sections of "Cyclones in High Northern Latitudes" are now in Apocryphal…
190. Poetry Project — Upcoming Events at The Poetry Project
191. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
192. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
193. Mathew Timmons — Contribute to the Worlds Largest Sound Poetry Choir ever!

24 SEP 2010

194. Vernon Frazer — MPROVISATIONS by Vernon Frazer now on Scribd
195. Nicholas Piombino — 2nd Avenue Poetry Launch 9/25 Long Island City
196. Evan Kennedy — The Swan's Rag: Issue Two
197. derek beaulieu — Call for submissions
198. steve russell — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
199. Jennifer Karmin — Sept 26: W. Hollywood Book Fair

25 SEP 2010

200. Michael Hansen — Chicago Review call for essays on A. R. Ammons
201. Margaret Konkol — Re: Olson query
202. Jim Andrews — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
203. Obododimma Oha — Re: [New-Poetry] From Their Ringtones You Shall Know Them
204. Jim Andrews — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
205. michael farrell — Re: The Swan's Rag: Issue Two
206. michael farrell — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing

26 SEP 2010

207. Dan Glass — this week on the 30 word review
208. Jeffrey Side — Hank Lazer interviewed by Chris Mansel --- The Argotist Onlline
209. Peter Grant — Re: Olson query
210. Alan Sondheim — Chris Funkhouser and Alan Sondheim event, Fri. Oct 1, Unnameable Books, Bro…
211. Sharon Dolin — Fwd: Poetry Chapbook Reading Wednesday, September 29
212. Alan Sondheim — Sweetness, the riff

27 SEP 2010

213. Kimmelman, Burt — Marsh Hawk Press Fall Book Launch (Readings by Finkelstein, Morris et al.)
214. Rachel Loden — New Writing Series @ UCSD next Wednesday, October 6
215. Mary Jo Malo — IMPROVISATIONS by Vernon Frazer now on Scribd

216. David Hadbawnik — habenicht press announces: CRASS SONGS OF SAND & BRINE by Micah Robbins
217. Scott Howard — RECONFIGURATIONS: Call for Submissions (Special Feature / Graphic Non-Fictio…
218. Micah Robbins — »SOUS LES PAVÉS« vol.1 no.1
219. Stephen Vincent — Ken Edwards & Ken Edwards & Myung Mi Kim in San Francisco
220. Chris Chapman — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
221. Mark Weiss — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
222. Russ Golata — : For Immediate Release

28 SEP 2010

223. Sarah Rosenthal — Gala Launch: A Community Writing Itself
224. George Bowering — Re: Olson query
225. Jim Andrews — Recent on Netartery
226. Eric Weinstein — Tolides! Chang! Weinstein! Reading in Brooklyn
227. steve russell — The Ugh/liest lango poet in D.C.
228. Nate Pritts — BIG BRIGHT SUN
229. Dan Godston — bicycles and the arts

29 SEP 2010

230. Jennifer Karmin — Oct 2: Mommy! Mommy! reading in LA
231. Jim Andrews — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
232. Jeffrey Side — Mark Young interviewed by Sheila E. Murphy at The Argotist Online
233. Aldon Nielsen — Fwd: Celebrating African American Literature - CFP
234. ART ELECTRONICS — Invitation sguardi sonori 2010 + infinite spaces
235. Sharon Mesmer/David Borchart — Michael Gizzi
236. Mark Weiss — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
237. Naomi Buck Palagi — silver roof tantrum
238. Christopher Leland Winks — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
239. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
240. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
241. amy king — Re: Michael Gizzi
242. paolo javier — 2AP Vol 3
243. steve russell — briefly & Exact/a description on the working of Godel's mind/!/!/!/!/!/!/!/…
244. Mark Weiss — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
245. Jeffrey Side — 'Responding to Dana Gioia's, "Can Poetry Matter?"' by Jake Berry at The Argo…
246. Iris Law — Call for Submissions: LANTERN REVIEW
247. Gwyn McVay — Re: The Ugh/liest lango poet in D.C.
248. Wanda Phipps — I'm Reading Tomorrow (Thursday) in Long Island
249. susan maurer — Re: Rattapallax 10th Anniversary Reading on Sept 24, 2010
250. Michael Tod Edgerton — Re: Michael Gizzi
251. Halvard Johnson — RIP Michael Gizzi (1949-2010)
252. Chris Stroffolino — Michael
253. Mark DuCharme — Re: Michael Gizzi
254. John Roche — Black Mountain North Symposium
255. Ryan Daley — Re: Michael Gizzi

30 SEP 2010

256. Sharon Mesmer/David Borchart — Re: Michael
257. Stephen Ellis — Re: Michael Gizzi
258. amy king — NYU Panel Presentation: Women in the Literary Arts -- Tomorrow, Friday, October …

1. Rob McLennan

new from above/ground press: Stephen Brockwell's Impossible Books

Tue 31 Aug 2010

Stephen Harpers Shoes

Long days holding up the country, short nights breathing fresh air.
Each morning, a minion polishes away
a days accumulated scuffs with matt black petroleum paste.
My burnished upper reflects the blurred image of the face above but does not shine.
My heel grinds even the iridescent
beetle, silent, powerless, beautiful,
Into the Langevin asphalt. My steel shank would never pass security if the face did not control it personally.
The feet have no particular smell, like winter air or snow. I complain of the unguents, salves and balms, reeking of sulphur that, despite all evidence to the contrary, will not relieve the cracked and callused heels.

Impossible Books (the Carleton Installment)
by Stephen Brockwell
$4

published in Ottawa in an edition of 200 copies, and launched as part of the above/ground press 17th anniversary reading/party, September 3rd, at the Carleton Tavern;

to order, send cheques (add $1 for postage; outside Canada, add $2 US) to rob mclennan, 858 Somerset Street West, main floor, Ottawa Ontario Canada K1R 6R7

Stephen Brockwell's most recent book is The Real Made Up (Toronto: ECW Press, 2007). The first installment of his Impossible Books project was delivered at the Olive Reading Series in December 2007. Brockwell is trying to find a way to run a small IT company and write poems without going completely mad. Stephen recently moved to the charming Ottawa neighbourhood of Lindenlea just north of Beechwood Avenue.

http://abovegroundpress.blogspot.com/2010/08/new-from-aboveground-press-stephen.html

http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/2010/08/aboveground-press-17th-anniversary.html

-- writer/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...poetry - wild horses (U of Alberta) ...2nd novel - missing persons www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

2. Jeffrey Side

Re: "The Conspiracy Against Poems" by Adam Fieled at The Argotist Online

Wed 1 Sep 2010

Morgan your blog post misses the point of Adam's argument, which is that he is concerned with various writing practices (heavily formed by, and dependent on, ideas of "poetics") as being regarded as aesthetic acts in themselves, with the poems (or texts) produced by these practices subordinate to the practice itself. I am forced to agree with him, here. I think he has a point. For me, the act of writing is not as important as the end product. I don't see the necessity for an insistence that poetics can only have significance if it revolves around "the act of making".

↑ Index

3. Stephen Vincent

Timoth Yu on Ron Silliman

Wed 1 Sep 2010

Suggest check out the current section of Jacket on the work of Ron Silliman. Tim Yu's eye on Ketjak and Tjanting are genuinely critical and illuminating re Lang Po politics et al, including edgy issues of race & class. Personally I find Yu's work as one of the smarter kettles currently percolating on the stove.

Stephen V
http://stephenvincent.net/blog/
still percolating

↑ Index

4. Séamas Cain

Prairie Voices

Wed 1 Sep 2010

IMRAM, a national literary festival in Ireland, in association with the Dublin City Arts Centre and TíAitreo, will present "The Prairie Gaeltacht" by Séamas Cain. Performances will begin at 7:00 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday, September 20 and 21, 2010 at CITY ARTS, 15 Bachelor's Walk, Dublin 1, Ireland.

Describing the script for The Prairie Gaeltacht, Liam Carson, director of the IMRAM Festival, said "poetic, beautiful, moving, simple, evocative. I'm really looking forward to experiencing the performance."

And the Irish writer Gabriel Rosenstock described the script as "very moving."

http://www.cityarts.ie/events/2010/09/20/-the-prairie-gaeltacht-gaeltacht-na-bhfarthailte/

THE PRAIRIE GAELTACHT

"I remember herds of buffalo on the prairie, beautiful Indian ponies ... the coyotes howling at dusk." So speaks one voice in Séamas Cain's dramatic evocation of what he calls The Prairie Gaeltacht.

Drawing on his own conversations with relatives, Séamas Cain's narrative probes deep into family, land and language. Through their plain but poetic voices, history is relived. Here Irish settlers learn from Indians "where strawberries grew and which birds were most delicious to hunt." Here is Thomas Burke, kinsman of Edmund, fleeing to the Irish Colonies of Minnesota in 1878. We are brought from the time of the wagon trains to the day electricity arrived in the village of Murdock in 1922. Along the way we hear stories of the Molly Maguires, the communitarian Connemaras and their vision of creating a Gaelic socialist utopia on the prairies of western Minnesota; of fiddlers and harmonica players at dances; of droughts, crop failures, snowstorms, and swarms of locusts.

The Prairie Gaeltacht is an extraordinary bi-lingual journey into a haunting past. Actors from TíAitreo will re-create in Irish the words and stories of Séamas Cain's grandparents and their cousins and friends, whilst Cain himself will narrate in English.

A unique insight into an almost forgotten history, The Prairie Gaeltacht is a deeply personal odyssey from one of America's most radical and inventive of poets.

http://www.cityarts.ie/events/2010/09/20/-the-prairie-gaeltacht-gaeltacht-na-bhfarthailte/

Séamas Cain
http://www.saorsainn.net

http://alazanto.org/seamascain
http://seamascain-writernetwork.org

↑ Index

5. Camille Martin

New @ Rogue Embryo: Samuel Greenberg + Katrina + unarmed + Joseph Massey

Thu 2 Sep 2010

New @ Rogue Embryo
http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

* Samuel Greenberg's Braided Secrets
http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com/2010/09/01/samuel-greenbergs-braided-secrets/

* Katrina fifth anniversary: PBS documentary http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com/2010/08/29/katrina-fifth-anniversary-pbs-documentary/

* Blue Flag at Bayou Sauvage
http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com/2010/08/18/blue-flag-at-bayou-sauvage/

* unarmed & in living colour http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com/2010/07/25/unarmed-in-living-colour/

* The Language of Desire to Speak: Joseph Massey's Exit North http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com/2010/07/22/the-language-of-the-desire-to-speak-joseph-masseys-exit-north/

Cheers!

Camille Martin

Sonnets:
http://www.shearsman.com/pages/books/catalog/2010/martin.html

Codes of Public Sleep :
http://www.spdbooks.org/Producte/9781897388112/codes-of-public-sleep.aspx

↑ Index

6. Nicole Mauro

Latest from Black Radish Books

Thu 2 Sep 2010

Black Radish Books is thrilled to announce Spectre, by Mark Lamoureux, is now available for purchase via SPD (http://www.spdbooks.org/Producte/9780982573112/spectre.aspx).

Spectre is as ectoplasmic as it is phantasmagoric, and a whole lot of lyric fun. Back channel us at [redacted] if you're interested in reviewing.

Happy Long Weekends, poetry laborers...

Nicole

↑ Index

7. amy king

Esque -- a new online journal of p/oetry and man/ifesto

Thu 2 Sep 2010

From the editors Amy King and Ana Bozicevic

a new online journal of p/oetry and man/ifesto:

ESQUE
http://www.esquemag.com
http://www.esque.eu

note: esque is a flash site. wait a full minute while it loads. enjoy.

In ISSUE 1:

OETRY is the kitchen sink. Charles Bernstein. Bei Dao. Tamiko Beyer. Jackie Clark. Amy De'Ath. Lidija Dimkovska. Kate Durbin. Steven Karl. Natalie Lyalin. Filip Marinovich. Sharon Mesmer. Miguel Murphy. Ariana Reines. Saeed Jones. Tomaz Salamun. Evie Shockley. Heidi Lynn Staples. Leigh Stein. Cole Swensen. John Tranter. Matvei Yankelevich.

IFESTO is everything but. Jennifer Bartlett. Jillian Brall. Ching-In Chen. Ken Chen. Rachel Blau DuPlessis. Jennifer H. Fortin. Molly Gaudry. Roxane Gay. Matt Hart. Brenda Hillman. Dan Hoy. Ron Padgett & Olivier Brossard. Lars Palm. Joan Retallack. Brandon Shimoda. Anne Waldman. Franz Wright. Carolyn Zaikowski.

visit
ESQUE
http://www.esquemag.com
http://www.esque.eu

--
****

Now That's WAC
+ http://wearechampion.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-king.html

Nepotism?
+ http://tsky-reviews.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-kings-slaves-to-do-these-things.html

Amy's Alias
+ http://amyking.org/
****

↑ Index

8. John Roche
Linebreakers: Poetry and Dance in Rochester, NY
Thu 2 Sep 2010

Tuesday, September 7 at 7 pm, the Physikos Studio in Village Gate (302 N. Goodman St., E-201, Rochester) presents LINEBREAKERS: An Evening of Dance, Poetry, and Music featuring dancer and choreographer Claire Elizabeth Barratt, accompanied by noted guitarist Steve Greene and joined in collaboration by poet John Roche. Admission is $8.

Claire Elizabeth Barratt, Director of Cilla Vee Life Arts in Asheville, North Carolina, and originally from the UK, will be stopping in Rochester for one performance only during her tour of the Northeast and Canada. Her website is http://www.cillavee.com/

Steve Greene is a jazz guitarist, teacher, and recording artist. As a composer he specializes in writing for modern dance companies. He has worked with the critically acclaimed Garth Fagan Dance and most recently with Fujima Kanso in Japan. He will be performing with the Handmade Orchestra on October 1 at the Black Mountain North Symposium in Rochester. His website is http://www.stevegreene.com/

John Roche, Associate Professor of English at RIT, is the author of two full-length poetry collections from FootHills Publishing (Kanona, NY), has edited two other collections, and has a forthcoming book from theenk Books (Palmyra, NY).

↑ Index

9. Paul Siegell
Goodreads Book Giveaway
Thu 2 Sep 2010

Hello,

I am participating in a free book giveaway over at Goodreads. Signed copies of my wild life rifle fire are now up for grabs. Would you like to enter to win? Here is the link to the giveaway: http://bit.ly/c8I7oG

Also, ever wonder what one of my shaped-poems sounded like? Rattle has just posted a poem of mine online that they published last winter, and they have included audio of me reading it. The poem is from the book jambandbootleg. Here is the link to the poem: http://bit.ly/aBVN6g

I hope this note has found you all well. Thanks for taking a look!

Yours,
Paul
http://paulsiegell.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

10. Rob McLennan

17 seconds: a journal of poetry + poetics, issue 2 now online!

Thu 2 Sep 2010

---

the second issue of 17 seconds: a journal of poetry + poetics is finally online at www.ottawater.com/seventeenseconds

rob mclennan, editor
Roland Prevost, managing editor

Conversations with John Newlove - by Carla Comellini

Love, Anne Carson: a fictional essay in the wrong order - by rob mclennan

Joe in the Balkans: an interview with Joe Blades - by Tatjana Bijelic

An Interview with Dennis Cooley - by Sean Moreland

'in the estuary' and 'funereal relief re-lives' - two poems by Pearl Pirie

Horologic - a poem by Kathleen Fraser surveillance of LECTURE: excerpt from a work-in-progress - by Kathleen Fraser seventeen seconds: a journal of poetry and poetics comes out as the natural extension of the eight issues of Poetics.ca edited by rob mclennan and Stephen Brockwell. Highlighting the diversity of voice, style, practice and politic, seventeen seconds continues the resolve to provide a forum for dialogue on contemporary poetics, with a focus on Canadian writing. Over the past two decades, the amount of critical writing published in print literary journals on Canadian poetry, specifically, seems to have decreased dramatically, but slowly returned through a number of online journals. seventeen seconds simply wishes to help strengthen the dialogue and the ongoing conversation about writing through publishing new writing, and conversation about new writing. How else are we supposed to learn anything, unless we keep talking?

Feedback and submission queries are most welcome.
az421 (at) freenet (dot) carleton (dot) ca

rob mclennan

-- writer/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...poetry - wild horses (U of Alberta) ...2nd novel - missing persons www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

11. Samuel Wharton

sawbuck 4.3: a day late but still great!

Thu 2 Sep 2010

---

friends~

it's september already & that means time for the fall issue of *sawbuck<http://www.sawbuckpoetry.blogspot.com/>
*!

this time around you'll find sparkly new poetries from the following folk:

Pete Zeller
Steven Schroeder
Joseph Mains
Melissa DeGezelle
Mark Cunningham
Michael H. Brownstein
Jenny Browne
John Bradley
Kristin Bock
Meredith Blankinship

i hope very much that you all enjoy this issue.

& keep in mind: we are always reading submissions for future issues, so if you have something stashed away that might fit our parameters, please send it along!

cheerio ~samuel day wharton, editor, sawbuck<http://www.sawbuckpoetry.blogspot.com/>

↑ Index

12. Jennifer Karmin

Red Rover Series / Experiment #39

Thu 2 Sep 2010

Red Rover Series
{readings that play with reading}

Experiment #39:
I Will Be Not Here

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 11th
7pm / doors lock 7:30

Featuring:
Kevin Kilroy
Amanda Marbais
Andrew K. Peterson

at Outer Space Studio
1474 N. Milwaukee Ave
Chicago, Illinois
suggested donation $4

NEW VENUE near CTA Damen blue line third floor walk up not wheelchair accessible

KEVIN KILROY writes fiction. Excerpts form his recently completed novel, STAN a triptych have been published by Pinstripe Fedora, Fact-Simile, and Hot Whiskey. He teaches Beat Literature and Writing classes for Columbia College and Flashpoint. Zenyatta is his favorite horse. Paul Curreri is his favorite singer. Georgia is currently his favorite state. Nicolet Bay is his favorite Beach.

AMANDA MARBAIS' stories have most recently appeared in Monkeybicycle, Hobart web, Kill Author, Fiction at Work, The2ndHand, Staccato and elsewhere. She is the Managing/Fiction Editor for Requited Journal. She lives in Chicago.

ANDREW K. PETERSON is the author of Museum of Thrown Objects (BlazeVox 2010), Between Here and the Telescopes (collaborations with Elizabeth Guthrie, Slumgullion 08), and a forthcoming chapbook, bonjour meriwether and the rabid maps (Fact-Simile). His writing has appeared in Fact Simile's The A sh Anthology, Hot Whiskey Press' The Meat Issue, Jennifer Karmin's ongoing 4000 Words 4000 Dead project, and other journals, most recently, online at 350 Poems Project, Dusie, The Offending Adam, and Requited. He is a co-editor of Livestock Editions, a small press devoted to poetry. He received an MFA from Naropa Univ.'s Kerouac School, and lives in Massachusetts.

Red Rover Series is curated by Laura Goldstein and Jennifer Karmin. Each event is designed as a reading experiment with participation by local, national, and international writers, artists, and performers. The series was founded in 2005 by Amina Cain and Jennifer Karmin.

Email ideas for reading experiments to us at [redacted]

The schedule for events is listed at http://groups.yahoo.com/group/redroverseries

↑ Index

13. steve dalachinsky

busy month for stev dalachinsky and yuko otomo

Fri 3 Sep 2010

---

sept 4 ps1 at 3pm steve and yuko with film's by andrew lampert sept 8 benefit for ira cohen at bowery poetry club 7 pm

sept 10 howl opening 5-7 pm

Saturday, September 11th, Litquake's NYC Litcrawl begins at 6PM in the East Village presenting one hundred authors in seventeen venues over three phases, progressing down Bowery across Houston Street and culminating with a party at Fontana's.

-- 7 PM -- BOWERY ELECTRIC -- Bob Holman, Clayton Patterson, Ron Kolm, Susan Scutti, Jim Feast, Anna Mockler, and Steve Dalachinsky

I'm honored to host this venue of infamous and insightful, funny and profane provocateurs and Unbearables who will be jumping off on 9/11, evoking good or evil or something in between.

BOWERY ELECTRIC
327 Bowery, New York, NY 10003 (at Bond St)

http://litcrawl.org/events/lower-east-side-denizens-on-911

sept 12 benefit for fire in the kitchen music festival 2 pm 458 w 57th st apt 4F

sept 16 howl poetry reading at st marks church 7 pm sept 19 2pm yuko with basscentric at bowery poetry club

sept 20 steve at local 269 1 year anniversary of vocal series 7 pm onward and the big one

the living theater presents:

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TULI

Tuesday Sept. 28, 7 pm until forever

at the Living Theater -
21 Clinton Street
between Houston and Stanton
(F, J, M, G to Essex - Delancey stop
or F to Second Ave.)

FREE and open to the public

a cast of 100's including
speakers, readers, musicians i.e. the Fuxxons,
Judith Malina, David Amram, John Kruth, Peter Stampfel,
Steve Ben Israel, the Unbearables
& many more. plus surprise guests

BRING FOOD AND DRINK

if ya knew him
come and say a word or 3

for info email [redacted]
or call [redacted]

↑ Index

14. Michael Heller
Reminder: This Art Burning
Fri 3 Sep 2010

THIS ART BURNING

A STAGED PERFORMANCE FEATURING NEW EXPLORATIONS IN SETTING POETRY THROUGH VIDEO, SPOKEN WORD, MUSICAL ACCOMPANIMENT, OPERA AND SONG AT THE PHILLY FRINGE.

This multimedia musical and literary event by the composer Ellen Fishman-Johnson and the poet Michael Heller will be presented on Saturday, September 11 at 7:30 PM and Sunday, September 12 at 4 PM at the Performance Garage at 1515 Brandywine Street, Philadelphia, 19130. This project is partially supported by a grant from the Philadelphia Chapter of the American Composers Forum. For tickets, contact the Festival Box Office at [redacted] or visit <http://www.livearts-fringe.org>www.livearts-fringe.org.

The performance will feature Out of Pure Sound, a piece for violin and video that will be premiered by violinist Leah Kim. An excerpt can be found at: <http://www.youtube.com/user/efjcomposer#p/a/u/0/bG41LmyuemI>http://www.youtube.com/user/efjcomposer#p/a/u/0/bG41LmyuemI

Performers include Shannon Coulter-Soprano, Katie Golan-Mezzo Soprano, Brian Vandenberge-Tenor, Robert Brandt-Baritone, Leah Kim-Violin, Harvey Price-Percussion and Sheri Melcher-Piano with Christopher G. McGinley conducting. Lighting Design is by Catherine Lee and Sound Design by Simon Rogers. Choir members include Alexis Ford, Amy Poznansky,James Mikijanic, Ryan Tibbets

Website: www.michaelhellerpoetry.com. Recent publications: Beckmann Variations & other poems (Shearsman, 2010), Eschaton (new poems) (Talisman House Publishers, 2009), Two Novellas: Marble Snows & The Study (ahadada press, 2009) are all available from their publishers, at good bookstores and from SPD and amazon.com. Speaking The Estranged: Essays on the Work of George Oppen (Salt, 2008); Uncertain Poetries: Essays on Poets, Poetry and Poetics (Salt, 2005) and Exigent Futures: New and Selected Poems (Salt, 2003) are available from www.saltpublishing.com, amazon.com and good bookstores. Survey of work at http://www.thing.net/~grist/ld/heller.htm Collaborations with the composer Ellen Fishman Johnson at http://www.efjcomposer.com/EFJ/Collaborations.html Recordings at http://writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/x/Heller.html

↑ Index

15. amy king

OT: Sonia Sanchez at HOWL Festival Monday Sept 6 4pm

Fri 3 Sep 2010

SISTER SON/JI by Sonia Sanchez
Monday, Sep 6 4 PM - 6 PM
$10.00

SISTER SON/JI by Sonia Sanchez
Monday, Sep 6 4 PM - 6 PM
$10.00
Theatre 80 St. Marks, 80 St. Marks Place [redacted]

The Howl! Festival presents iconoclastic poet Sonia Sanchez & a production of her play â€œSister Son/ji.â€ Ms. Sanchez will be present for a rare audience talkback moderated by the artstic director of BeBop Theatre Collective, SC2. This event also celebrates the publication Iâ€™m Black When Iâ€™m Singing, Iâ€™m Blue When I Ainâ€™t and Other Plays. Fans of Ms. Sanchez receive for the first time all of her plays which span five decades.

Sonia Sanchez was quoted in Brian Lankerâ€™s, I Dream A World: Portraits of Black Women Who Have Changed America that she writes â€ To keep in contact with our ancestors and to spread truth to people.â€ And perhaps that is why she remains such an enduring and influential figure in the landscape of American literature. Fans of Ms. Sanchez receive for the first time all of her plays which span five decades.

Nathaniel Siegel, Executive Director of The Howl Festival is â€œecstatic over Sonia Sanchezâ€™ generosity & commitment to Howl!. This event brings the history, political passion and multidisciplinary elements to Howl!. Ms. Sanchez has inspired many artists and this event also includes poetry tributes curated by slam poet and spoken word pioneer Regie Cabico as well as a dance performance.by Genesis Dance Company.

In Sister Son/Ji, written by Sonia Sanchez, directed by SC2 and starring Jacqueline Gregg, poet/playwright Sanchez unflinchingly examines the paradoxical notions of liberation within in the Black Power Movement.

Sonia Sanchez is a Poet. Mother. Professor. National and International lecturer on Black Culture and Literature, Womenâ€™s Liberation, Peace and Racial Justice, as well as an author of over 16 books.

This solo play stars Jacqueline Gregg, who has performed in countless plays, both classical and modern, also works extensively with various educational theatre organizations, bringing classical as well as contemporary theatre to schools in and around New York City.

Door proceeds to benefit the Actors Fund for HOWL! HELP.

Advance Tickets:
$10.00 tickets go to http://www.brownpapertickets.com/event/124400

Tickets at the door 1 hour before showtime on the day of the show (cash only).

--
****

Esque, A New Magazine
+ http://esquemag.com

Nepotism?
+ http://tsky-reviews.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-kings-slaves-to-do-these-things.html

Amy's Alias
+ http://amyking.org/
****

↑ Index

16. Rob McLennan

above/ground press 2011 subscriptions now available;

Fri 3 Sep 2010

I'm now offering my usual annual $40 above/ground press subscription for 2011 (& check out our group on facebook).

YES! I WANT EVERYTHING ABOVE/GROUND PRESS HAS TO OFFER! GIVE ME A 2011 SUBSCRIPTION (STARTING TODAY, THANK GOD) FOR ONLY FORTY (40) DOLLARS (IN THE US, $40 US).

give $40 to rob mclennan, or mail: c/o 858 Somerset Street West, main floor, Ottawa Ontario Canada K1R 6R7 regular notices are also sent out through an email list of Ottawa-area literary events. to get on the list, email me at [redacted]

http://www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com/

-- writer/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...poetry - wild horses (U of Alberta) ...2nd novel - missing persons www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

17. julia bloch

Sept. 11: Rachel Blau DuPlessis in Philadelphia

Sat 4 Sep 2010

EMERGENCY FEELING presents
Rachel Blau DuPlessis
& a draft [beer] party celebrating Pitch: Drafts 77-95 (Salt)
(co-sponsored by Whenever We Feel Like It & Emergency)

Saturday, September 11, 4pm Jose Pistolas 263 S 15th St, Philadelphia http://www.josepistolas.com/ RACHEL BLAU DUPLESSIS is an American poet-critic whose on-going long poem project, begun in 1986, is collected here in Torques: Drafts 58-76, as well as in Drafts 1-38, Toll (Wesleyan U.P., 2001) , Drafts 39-57, Pledge, with Draft unnnumbered: Precis (Salt Publishing, 2004) and Pitch: Drafts 77-95 (Salt Publishing, 2010). DuPlessis was awarded a residency at Bellagio in 2007; she was the recipient of a Pew Fellowship for Artists and of the Roy Harvey Pearce/ Archive for New Poetry Prize, both in 2002.

EMERGENCY is designed to address several questions we see arising in contemporary North American poetry around issues of emergence and literary community. We've created an ongoing dialogue among working poets on how they think about poetic lineage, theoretical stances, and aesthetic practice. Emergency is curated by Julia Bloch and Sarah Dowling. http://emergency-reading.blogspot.com/

WHENEVER WE FEEL LIKE IT is put on by Committee of Vigilance members Emily Pettit and Michelle Taransky. The Committee of Vigilance is a subdivision of Sleepy Lemur Quality Enterprises, which is the production division of The Meeteetzee Institute. http://wheneverwefeellikeit.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

18. Jonathan Morse
Vanity possibility?
Sun 5 Sep 2010

If you scroll down to the bottom of either my web page (http://jonathanmorse.net) or my blog (http://jonathan-morse.blogspot.com) you should see a tasteful fake-wood bookshelf bearing two little click-to-open picture books by me. This comes from an online vanity press called issuu.com. It does words as well as pictures, and unlike other vanity presses it's free.

Anything there to interest you? I've set it not to allow downloads of my books, but if you'd like to give away printouts, that can be done.

Jonathan Morse
University of Hawaii at Manoa

↑ Index

19. Kimmelman, Burt
Curley and Kimmelman in Rutherford
Sun 5 Sep 2010

The William Carlos Williams Poetry Cooperative Presents

A Poetry Reading by

Jon Curley and Burt Kimmelman
(and a reading of WCW's poems by Joel Lewis)

Hosted by John Trause and Jane Fisher

Wednesday, October 6th, 7 PM

Williams Center for the Arts
One Williams Plaza
Rutherford, NJ 07070
[redacted]
www.williamscenter.org<http://www.williamscenter.org/>

Jon Curley is a poet living in Jersey City. His first book of poems, New Shadows, was published last year by Dos Madres Press. A book of criticism, Poets and Partitions: Confronting Communal Identity in Northern Ireland, will be published next year. He is in the Humanities Department of New Jersey of Technology.

Burt Kimmelman has published six collections of poetry - As If Free (Talisman House, Publishers, 2009), There Are Words (Dos Madres Press, 2007), Somehow (Marsh Hawk Press, 2005), The Pond at Cape May Point (Marsh Hawk Press, 2002), a collaboration with the painter Fred Caruso, First Life (Jensen/Daniels Publishing, 2000), and Musaics (Sputyen Duyvil Press, 1992). A poem from his newest book was featured on NPR's The Writer's Almanac. For over a decade he was Senior Editor of the now defunct Poetry New York: A Journal of Poetry and Translation. He is a professor of English at New Jersey Institute of Technology and the author of two book-length literary studies: The "Winter Mind": William Bronk and American Letters (Fairleigh Dickinson University Press, 1998); and, The Poetics of Authorship in the Later Middle Ages: The Emergence of the Modern Literary Persona (Peter Lang Publishing, 1996; paperback 1999). He also edited The Facts on File Companion to 20th-Century American Poetry (Facts on File, 2005) and co- edited The Facts on File Companion to American Poetry (Facts on File, 2007). He has published scores of essays on medieval, modern, and contemporary poetry. A recent interview with Tom Fink has appeared online in Jacket 40.

↑ Index

20. Cara Benson

Looking for creative works/projects in community

Sun 5 Sep 2010

Looking for creative works/projects in community. Creating a line of study, here. Please send all suggestions my way. Examples include: Kaia Sand's Portland poetry walks, Claudia Rankine's Provenance of Beauty, Tree Museum in the Bronx. Also, artmaking/writing with community.

Interventions.
Re-inventions.
Decorations.
Instigations.
And just plain old creation, in situ. Of situ.

Thinking social justice and sustainability. Yes, art and politics.

Many thanks. I'll compile list and send back to this list.

Cara Benson

↑ Index

21. CA Conrad
your MINA LOY PORTAL
Sun 5 Sep 2010

---

the "your MINA LOY PORTAL" is finished
http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com/

and I would like to dedicate this to a man (okay, I'll NOT embarrass him and not mention his name) who recently said to me, "MARIANNE MOORE WAS THE MODERNIST WOMAN POET!" when I mentioned how much Mina Loy's poems mean to my life, and then I said in response to him, "Ah, well, I didn't realize there should only be one. But yet you mention ALL THESE MEN!" HAHAHA! To YOU, sir, and YOU know exactly who you are. Hope you're learning shame.

but for the love of Mina!
the splendor of all that is Mina!

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

22. peter ganick
chalk editions new catalogue - the first 38
Mon 6 Sep 2010

---

chalkeditions's publications.

*the up-to-date catalogue. *[list in reverse order of publication date]

*all books free-of-charge for reading, download, or printing. [please acknowledge (c)] *

*we are reading manuscripts now. *send manuscripts to:

[redacted] and [redacted]

digital submissions only.

*
*

*mIEKAL aND - metabolic GLYPH cannibals: Incantations for the Coming Apocalypse<http://www.scribd.com/doc/36942105/mIEKAL-aND-metabolic-GLYPH-cannibals-Incantations-for-the-Coming-Apocalypse> *

*<http://www.scribd.com/doc/36942105/mIEKAL-aND-metabolic-GLYPH-cannibals-Incantations-for-the-Coming-Apocalypse> *poetry by mIEKAL aND

*
*

*Felino A. Soriano - Appositional Comprehensions<http://www.scribd.com/doc/36813014/Felino-A-Soriano-Appositional-Comprehensions>
*

poetry by Felino A. Soriano

David E. Patten - The Jazz Symphonic Glass Ear<http://www.scribd.com/doc/36752257/David-E-Patten-The-Jazz-Symphonic-Glass-Ear>
**

poetry by David E. Patten

John Crouse - DISMEMBERS<http://www.scribd.com/doc/33244350/John-Crouse-DISMEMBERS> experimental poetry by John Crouse

 *
*

*
*

*Jukka-Pekka Kervinen - t o o L<http://www.scribd.com/doc/32257250/Jukka-Pekka-Kervinen-t-o-o-L>
***

experimental texts by Jukka-Pekka Kervinen

* *

*
*

*Jim Leftwich - sef] [po<http://www.scribd.com/doc/32216291/Jim-Leftwich-sef-po> ***

experimental poetry by Jim Leftwich

*
*

*Ric Carfagna - Symphony No. 1<http://www.scribd.com/doc/32170981/Ric-Carfagna-Symphony-No-1>
***

poetry by Ric Carfagna

*
*

*Hugh Tribbey - MIME BOX<http://www.scribd.com/doc/32170816/Hugh-Tribbey-MIME-BOX>
***

experimental poetry by Hugh Tribbey

*
*

* *

*Jim Leftwich - SO FOR BY<http://www.scribd.com/doc/29105250/Jim-Leftwich-SO-FOR-BY>
*

experimental poetry by Jim Leftwich

*
*

*Billy Bob Beamer - WORD DUST POMES<http://www.scribd.com/doc/29028748/Billy-Bob-Beamer-WORD-DUST-POMES>
***

experimental poetry by Billy Bob Beamer

*
*

*
*

*Peter Ganick - rehearse this<http://www.scribd.com/doc/29013806/Peter-Ganick-rehearse-this>
***

experimental poetry by Peter Ganick

*
*

*Ivan Arguelles - WHAT ARE PROBABLY MY MEMOIRS<http://www.scribd.com/doc/28974871/Ivan-Arguelles-WHAT-ARE-PROBABLY-MY-MEMOIRS>
***

poetry by Ivan Arguelles

Alan Sondheim - http:::::<http://www.scribd.com/doc/28974697/Alan-Sondheim-http>
**

experimental writings by Alan Sondheim

*
*

* *

Raymond Farr - Two Texts<http://www.scribd.com/doc/28974654/Raymond-Farr-Two-Texts>
**

poetry by Raymond Farr

Halvard Johnson - THE PERFECTION OF MOZART'S THIRD EYE & Other Sonnets<http://www.scribd.com/doc/27039868/Halvard-Johnson-THE-PERFECTION-OF-MOZART-S-THIRD-EYE-Other-Sonnets> **

poetry by Halvard Johnson

Joel Chace - SCRIPTS TOO SCAFFOLD<http://www.scribd.com/doc/26145183/Joel-Chace-SCRIPTS-TOO-SCAFFOLD>
**

experimental poetry by Joel Chace

John Crouse - ENTRANCES<http://www.scribd.com/doc/26144648/John-Crouse-ENTRANCES> **

experimental poetry by John Crouse

Jim Leftwich - AT AS ON<http://www.scribd.com/doc/26143482/Jim-Leftwich-AT-AS-ON>
**

experimental poetry by Jim Leftwich

John M. Bennett - T ICK TICK TIC K<http://www.scribd.com/John-M-Bennett-T-ICK-TICK-TIC-K/d/25483907> experimental poetry by John M. Bennett
**

Lars Palm - fragments from this<http://www.scribd.com/doc/25107260/Lars-Palm-fragments-from-this>
**

poetry by Lars Palm

Thomas Lowe Taylor - "...of shooting stars and brightness."<http://www.scribd.com/doc/24182946/Thomas-Lowe-Taylor-of-shooting-stars-and-brightness>
**

poetry by Thomas Lowe Taylor

Andrew Topel - RE-ECHOES<http://www.scribd.com/doc/23253381/Andrew-Topel-RE-ECHOES>
**

experimental poetry by Andrew Topel

Jim Leftwich - OF IF IN<http://www.scribd.com/doc/22547754/Jim-Leftwich-OF-IF-IN>
**

experimental poetry by Jim Leftwich

Peter Ganick - g=e=i=s=t=l=i=c=h<http://www.scribd.com/doc/22286605/Peter-Ganick-g-e-i-s-t-l-i-c-h>
**

experimental poetry by Peter Ganick

Hugh R. Tribbey - waitinale glasses<http://www.scribd.com/doc/21912900/Hugh-R-Tribbey-waitinale-glasses>
**

experimental poetry by Hugh R. Tribbey

Lawrence Upton - water lines<http://www.scribd.com/doc/21912732/Lawrence-Upton-water-lines>
**

poetry by Lawrence Upton

Jeff Crouch - furious peddler<http://www.scribd.com/doc/21612809/Jeff-Crouch-furious-peddler> experimental writing by Jeff Crouch
**

*
*

*Sheila E. Murphy - Reverse Haibun<http://www.scribd.com/doc/21062779/Sheila-E-Murphy-Reverse-Haibun> reverse haibun by Sheila E. Murphy
***

John M. Bennett - Fla g Wh ale<http://www.scribd.com/doc/19686134/John-M-Bennett-Fla-g-Wh-ale> poetry by John M. Bennett zachary count lawrence - parsing<http://www.scribd.com/doc/19580683/zachary-count-lawrence-parsing>
**

**

poetry by zachary count lawrence

Sheila E. Murphy - circumsanct<http://www.scribd.com/doc/19475026/Sheila-E-Murphy-circumsanct>
**

poetry by Sheila E. Murphy

Ivan Arguelles - SECRET POEM<http://www.scribd.com/doc/19445335/Ivan-Arguelles-SECRET-POEM>

poetry by Ivan Arguelles

Ivan Arguelles - SATURDAY AFTERNOON IN THE UPANISHADS<http://www.scribd.com/doc/19362306/Ivan-Arguelles-SATURDAY-AFTERNOON-IN-THE-UPANISHADS>
**

poetry by Ivan Arguelles

Alan Sondheim - Pushing to Convulsion<http://www.scribd.com/doc/19258792/Alan-Sondheim-Pushing-to-Convulsion>
**

experimental writing by Alan Sondheim

Jim Leftwich - BEGET STATESMAN<http://www.scribd.com/doc/18003367/Jim-Leftwich-BEGET-STATESMAN>
**

experimental writing by Jim Leftwich

Jim Leftwich - TIME JUNK<http://www.scribd.com/doc/17243139/Jim-Leftwich-TIME-JUNK>
**

experimental writing by Jim Leftwich

Peter Ganick - recent / how recent<http://www.scribd.com/doc/17097034/Peter-Ganick-recent-how-recent>
**

experimental writing by Peter Ganick

Jukka-Pekka Kervinen - Bad Knob<http://www.scribd.com/doc/17044277/JukkaPekka-Kervinen-Bad-Knob> experimental poetry by Jukka-Pekka Kervinen
**

--

"It all boils down to words, I must not forget this, I have not forgotten it."

-- Samuel Beckett, The Unnameable.

↑ Index

23. Nicholas Karavatos

...at The Cobalt in Canoga Park, CA on Tuesday, Sept. 7th at 9pm...

Mon 6 Sep 2010

NICHOLAS KARAVATOS
Poetry Reading & Book-signing

Tuesday, September 7, 2010 – 9:00pm
The Cobalt, 22047 Sherman Way, Canoga Park, CA
http://www.poetrysuperhighway.com/cobalt/index.html
(Cobalt Poets)

Nicholas Karavatos
Dept of Language & Literature
American University of Sharjah
PO Box 26666

Sharjah
United Arab Emirates

↑ Index

24. michael farrell
Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
Mon 6 Sep 2010

---

wonderful ca - mina loy is the - as is moore - not forgetting gertrude stein -

i like the singular the - especially when every1 disagrees

i was at a poetry festival in sydney on the weekend - almost every panel mentioned pound - i was surprised that hed become the (there)

> Date: Sun, 5 Sep 2010 21:54:23 -0400
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: your MINA LOY PORTAL
> To: [redacted]
>
> the "your MINA LOY PORTAL" is finished
> http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com/
>
> and I would like to dedicate this to a man (okay, I'll NOT embarrass him and not mention his name) who recently said to me, "MARIANNE MOORE WAS THE MODERNIST WOMAN POET!" when I mentioned how much Mina Loy's poems mean to my life, and then I said in response to him, "Ah, well, I didn't realize there should only be one. But yet you mention ALL THESE MEN!" HAHAHA! To YOU, sir, and YOU know exactly who you are. Hope you're learning shame.
>
> but for the love of Mina!
> the splendor of all that is Mina!
>
> --
> PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com
>
> THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

25. Lisa Samuels

Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL

Mon 6 Sep 2010

Yes, wonderful language & loving reproach, CA. Not forgetting Laura Riding, and multiplications of names always please. & though I was also at the Home & Away conference, Michael, I didn't hear the Pound, maybe had different earphones in my head hearing different translations. Or perhaps you mean the 2nd conference you then went to: were they really Pounding, there? Makes one worry even more about the Australian leadership vacuum. Fondly, Lisa

On Tue, Sep 7, 2010 at 12:18 PM, michael farrell <[redacted]> wrote:
> wonderful ca - mina loy is the - as is moore - not forgetting gertrude stein -
>
> i like the singular the - especially when every1 disagrees
>
> i was at a poetry festival in sydney on the weekend - almost every panel mentioned pound - i was surprised that hed become the (there)
>
>
>> Date: Sun, 5 Sep 2010 21:54:23 -0400
>> From: [redacted]
>> Subject: your MINA LOY PORTAL
>> To: [redacted]
>>
>> the "your MINA LOY PORTAL" is finished
>> http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com/
>>
>> and I would like to dedicate this to a man (okay, I'll NOT embarrass >> him and not mention his name) who recently said to me, "MARIANNE MOORE >> WAS THE MODERNIST WOMAN POET!" when I mentioned how much Mina Loy's >> poems mean to my life, and then I said in response to him, "Ah, well,
>> I didn't realize there should only be one. But yet you mention ALL >> THESE MEN!" HAHAHA! To YOU, sir, and YOU know exactly who you are.
>> Hope you're learning shame.
>>
>> but for the love of Mina!
>> the splendor of all that is Mina!
>>

>>
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>
>> --
>> PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com
>>
>> THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com
>>
>
>

↑ Index

26. Mark DuCharme
Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
Mon 6 Sep 2010

Loy, Stein, HD, Niedecker and (Riding) Jackson are all AT LEAST comparably deserving as Moore. Personally, of these, my favorites are Stein, Niedecker & Loy.

Thanks for doing this, Conrad. I hope that man truly is shamed— or better still, enlightened. But if I had to guess, without knowing him (and presuming that I don't), I wouldn't say it was likely....

Cheers,

Mark DuCharme

> Date: Sun, 5 Sep 2010 21:54:23 -0400
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: your MINA LOY PORTAL
> To: [redacted]
>
> ---------- Information from the mail header ----------
> Sender: "Poetics List (UPenn, UB)" <[redacted]>
> Poster: CA Conrad <[redacted]>
> Subject: your MINA LOY PORTAL
> ---
>
> the "your MINA LOY PORTAL" is finished

> http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com/
>
> and I would like to dedicate this to a man (okay, I'll NOT embarrass him and not mention his name) who recently said to me, "MARIANNE MOORE WAS THE MODERNIST WOMAN POET!" when I mentioned how much Mina Loy's poems mean to my life, and then I said in response to him, "Ah, well, I didn't realize there should only be one. But yet you mention ALL THESE MEN!" HAHAHA! To YOU, sir, and YOU know exactly who you are. Hope you're learning shame.
>
> but for the love of Mina!
> the splendor of all that is Mina!
>
> --
> PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com
>
> THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

27. steve dalachinsky

Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL

Tue 7 Sep 2010

---

how bout myrna loy??

On Tue, 7 Sep 2010 12:47:03 +1200 Lisa Samuels <[redacted]> writes:
> Yes, wonderful language & loving reproach, CA. Not forgetting Laura > Riding, and multiplications of names always please. & though I was > also at the Home & Away conference, Michael, I didn't hear the > Pound,
> maybe had different earphones in my head hearing different > translations. Or perhaps you mean the 2nd conference you then went
> to:
> were they really Pounding, there? Makes one worry even more about
> the > Australian leadership vacuum. Fondly, Lisa

>
> On Tue, Sep 7, 2010 at 12:18 PM, michael farrell
> <[redacted]> wrote:
> > wonderful ca - mina loy is the - as is moore - not forgetting > gertrude stein -
> >
> > i like the singular the - especially when every1 disagrees
> >
> > i was at a poetry festival in sydney on the weekend - almost every > panel mentioned pound - i was surprised that hed become the (there)
> >
> >
> >> Date: Sun, 5 Sep 2010 21:54:23 -0400
> >> From: [redacted]
> >> Subject: your MINA LOY PORTAL
> >> To: [redacted]
> >>
> >> the "your MINA LOY PORTAL" is finished
> >> http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com/
> >>
> >> and I would like to dedicate this to a man (okay, I'll NOT > embarrass > >> him and not mention his name) who recently said to me, "MARIANNE
> MOORE
> >> WAS THE MODERNIST WOMAN POET!" when I mentioned how much Mina
> Loy's
> >> poems mean to my life, and then I said in response to him, "Ah,
> well,
> >> I didn't realize there should only be one. But yet you mention
> ALL
> >> THESE MEN!" HAHAHA! To YOU, sir, and YOU know exactly who you
> are.
> >> Hope you're learning shame.
> >>
> >> but for the love of Mina!
> >> the splendor of all that is Mina!
> >>
> >>
> >>
> >>

> >>
> >>
> >>
> >>
> >>
> >>
> >> --
> >> PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com
> >>
> >> THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com
> >>
> >
> >
>
>
>

↑ Index

28. Susan Webster Schultz

recent posts on Tinfish Editor's Blog

Tue 7 Sep 2010

---

* Ordinary Affects
  <http://tinfisheditor.blogspot.com/2010/09/ordinary-affects.html>
* Retail Alzheimer's: What I learned from the phrase...
  <http://tinfisheditor.blogspot.com/2010/09/mother-news-or-what-i-learned-from.html>
* My poem for Fred Ho
  <http://tinfisheditor.blogspot.com/2010/09/my-poem-for-fred-ho.html>
*
    o Arguing for Poetry During a Recession <http://tinfisheditor.blogspot.com/2010/08/arguing-for-poetry-during-recession.html>
    o Allyn Bromley at "the Whitney of the Pacific": art...
      <http://tinfisheditor.blogspot.com/2010/08/allyn-bromley-at-whitney-of-pacific-art.html>
    o Sentences to Paragraphs: More English 100 Exercise...
      <http://tinfisheditor.blogspot.com/2010/08/sentences-to-paragraphs-more-exercises.html>
    o _Old Women Look Like This_: an ebook <http://tinfisheditor.blogspot.com/2010/08/old-women-look-like-this-ebook.html>

o Slouching Toward English 100A To Be Reborn <http://tinfisheditor.blogspot.com/2010/08/slouching-toward-english-100a-to-be.html>
o When does life end? A multiple choice test.
<http://tinfisheditor.blogspot.com/2010/08/when-does-life-end-multiple-choice-test.html>
o Toward a Documentary Poem about Alzheimer's Care &...
<http://tinfisheditor.blogspot.com/2010/08/toward-documentary-poem-about.html>
o Teaching Documentary Poetry in Two Hours to Non-Na...
<http://tinfisheditor.blogspot.com/2010/08/teaching-documentary-poetry-in-two.html>
o "What is our children learning?" and other late su...
<http://tinfisheditor.blogspot.com/2010/08/what-is-our-children-learning-and-other.html>

At http://tinfisheditor.blogspot.com

aloha, Susan M. Schultz

↑ Index

29. Cralan Kelder
please welcome Full Metal Poem
Tue 7 Sep 2010

We are pleased to announce and make available the first Full Metal Poem magazine. FMP is our irreverent new Magazine edited from Amsterdam and Hamburg and filled with Poetry Art Photography.

http://www.fullmetalpoem.com

It's a beautiful numbered edition of 250 - around 100 pages with stencil-printing and a wrap-around handbound jacket.

After almost two years of work, we're pleased at how it turned out, please click here to take a look:

http://fullmetalpoem.com/images.html

Working backwards from A Secret Location on the Lower East Side, we paged through all the old mags we could get our hands on for design and put together a list of writers we like who are still writing and some who are no longer among us, we also brought in some new writers:

Bob Arnold / John Bennett / Noel Black / Rolf Dieter Brinkmann / Thomas A Clark / Jack Collom / Cid Corman / Simon Cutts / Stephen Delbos / Amanda Deutch / Oliver Dunne / Gerald Hausman / Kent Johnson / Joanne Kyger / Louise

Landes Levi / Marie T. Martin / Gui Mayo / Chris McCabe / David Miller / Clark Morgan / F.A. Nettelbeck / Kevin Opstedal / Ron Padgett / Francis Poole / Silke Scheuermann / Harris Schiff / Pete Simonelli / Will Skinker / Tom Snyder / Brian Unger / John Wieners / Lucien Zell / John Casey / Peter Dejong / Eliza Newman-Saul

Because postage is so ridiculous at the moment - about $7 to mail a copy from europe, we brought a box of 20 copies to SF and will mail them from there - a few copies will be at City Lights to check out. There are also a few copies at St. Marks.

So the cost is $12 + $2 shipping = $14 grand total

If you would like to order a copy please email mail[@]cralan.com we've got about 100 left in total, they're moving along well

↑ Index

30. Philip Meersman

Re: Looking for creative works/projects in community

Tue 7 Sep 2010

Look at what the DAstrugistenDA collective has done and does.

Here some more info about several DAstrugistenDA performances

DAstrugistenDA

1. DAstrugistenDA:

The international poetic collective "DAstrugistenDA" was formed spontaneously in the Macedonian city of Struga in August of 2005. In this city every year a world famous poetry festival (the Struga Poetry Evenings) is organised.

Peter Waugh (GBR), Philip Meersman (BEL) and Sergey Biryukov (RUS) had a poetic encounter. All three are working in different fields and with experimental forms of poetry - sound, visual, video, etc. Their efforts and styles were rapidly combined and were shown in Struga and other cities of Macedonia during several groundbreaking performances. In the process of working together the name of the group was born, in which markedly the place of their first encounter (Struga) is given a prominent place together with the cut-up name of that direction in art which is very dear to all three of them: DadaÃ¯sm. Lieven Vercauteren (BEL) applied later by writing an application poem, he was promptly accepted.

Their unique way of collaborating, improvising and performing arrangements of each others poems can be seen as a fresh and new form of collaborative poetry.

2. Projects by DAstrugistenDA

*1. "Echo in the tower", installation drafts, Kaliningrad, 2005. *

DAstrugistenDA proposed to create an enlightened soundscape around the Kaliningrad tower. In front of the tower and on its walls a sound performance would take place: 3 poets based on the works of I. Kant and H. Arendt.

This installation drafts were created for the "Tower Kronprinz: Second Advent" 2006 competition for the Kaliningrad Branch of the National Center for Contemporary Arts

2. Guerrilla Reading, Brussels, 2006

During the opening of the group exhibition of Mario Villaggi in Saint-Josse in 2006, Peter Waugh took the train from Vienna to Brussels to join the DAstrugistenDA members to hold a Guerrilla Reading. Unplanned, the members, dazzled the audience with multilingual improvisation and pure poetry. After their 1 hour reading all DAstrugistenDA members went home.

*3. DAstrugistenDA: Bar none: 48h poetry reading behind bars, Brussels, 2007 *

DAstrugistenDA performed 48h continuously poetry, caged at Beursschouwburg in Brussels wearing orange overalls at the BRXLBRAVO 2007 festival. Because artists all over the world are still being barred from public life, are being prosecuted, jailed, killedâ€¦ because of what they write or say.

No-one should be prosecuted, jailed, killed because of his/her opinion or words.

This project is an idea that resulted from discussions between Sergej Birjukov and Philip Meersman.

4. PoÃ«pera in one act, Berlin, 2009

During the 1st European Poetry Slam Days in 2009 in Berlin, DAstrugistenDA made a multilingual tribute to the Avant Garde, Zaum, DaDa en Surreal Movements in poetry. This time they made a collaborative arrangement of their poems and created a whole poÃ«pera in one act especially for this event.

5. BUTFF, Breda, 2010

During the BUT film festival in Breda, the DastrugistenDA will do 3 different poetry interventions.

a. Angst und Sprache, a search for voices and sounds as reactions to traumatic events.

Different historical events still keep people wandering about what they might do or should do or have to do when similar events do happen in their neighbourhood, family, daily environment. 9/11 was one of these historical events. But also the atrocities that happened in Rwanda, Bosnia, Darfourâ€¦ But also the floods in Pakistan, the Oil disaster in the Gulf of Mexico, in the Niger deltaâ€¦ No one responds to the screams, giving the wrongdoer plenty of time to do wrong. Bystanders are distressed but feel too ill-equipped to respond, and there is an insufficiency in assigning responsibility - a "diffusion of responsibility". DastrugistenDA asks the question what we, international poets and sound artists would do or could do to make people understand or even better, to make them notice, recognise the emergency and to let them decide to act on it.

b. Box ring.

Poetry talks will be held twice in a Box ring. Together the DastrugistenDA will be negotiating words, phrases and sounds into a time â€“ location based performance.

The courtyard, the ring, the audience are all parts in a play, all decorum and no content. Or are the words the decorum and the audience the deus ex machina to rescue the world from its images?

Twice the games will be opened twice talks will start. The ultimate question remains: will these talks bring results, a solution, a better understanding, a sound result or will they be only sounds and fury, a perpetuum mobile of syllables ringing hollow, a poem written on a piece of paper while holding the ring?

c) Breakfast & BUTFF. The Day After

DAstrugistenDA makes a multilingual tribute to the Avant Garde, Zaum, DaDa en Surreal Movements in poetry. In a collaborative arrangement of their poems, DastrugistenDA will wake up people over coffee and croissants to the sounds of language. What happens The Day After? Nobody knows, yet.

*6. White Breakfast @ Beursschouwburg *

(not accepted because of too political)

In 2007 the DAstrugistenDA imprisoned themselves at Beursschouwburg in orange overalls to support freedom of speech and the closure of GITMO.

In 2010 GITMO is still open and people are still being tortured, imprisoned or executed because of their opinion, words, texts, art.

During the breakfast at the end of the White Night 2010, the DAstrugistenDA will perform in white overalls above, in front and amongst the audience taking breakfast in honour of:

- the birthdays of Mahatma Ghandi (October 2nd) (Nobel peace prize winner), Carl von Ossietzky (Nobel peace prize winner), Sergei Aleksandrovich Yesenin (poet), Gerardo Diego (poet), Louis Aragon (poet);

- the deaths of William Morris (poet) and Gustav Stresemann (Nobel peace prize winner);
- the last public sighting of Edgar Allen Poe;
- the foundation of The Truth;
- the independence in 1932 of Iraq from Great Britain;
- the German reunion of 1990;
- the ruling of the fact that Allen Ginsberg's Howl and Other Poems were not obscene;
- the Adoption of â€œSOSâ€ in 1906 as THE international distress signal and
- the morning after the International Day of Non-Violence with sound-, word- and performance poetry.

They will perform there own poetry, new instant collaboratively created work and poetry (un)known poets from all around the world and more in particular the writings of the people whoâ€™re honoured by the DAstrugistenDA.

They hope that with their performance they will help bring peace and understanding without violence, with sounds and words.

*
*

3. Links to DAstrugistenDA material on the www:

â€œFeuerwerkgedichte ohne feuer in Ghentâ€:

http://vids.myspace.com/index.cfm?fuseaction=vids.individual&VideoID=2226092

â€œKonings Tor: Echo im Turmâ€ for the Kaliningrad Museum of Contemporary Art: Second Advent:

http://kronprinz-competition.ncca-kaliningrad.ru/2006/otkr/dastr.jpg

Bar none: 48h poetry reading behind bars:
â€œThe Walkâ€:

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=em4cUgfSheo&feature=channel_page
â€œRaingattaâ€:

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=P-IO4UifjVU&feature=channel_page

Some pictures: http://homyndrik.livejournal.com/267707.html

4. CV of DastrugistenDA members:

Philip Meersman â™,

Â°1971

Writes in NL, EN, FR, DE, ES & multilingual forms

Creates impro, sound & poetry installations & performances using current affairs, socio-political & environmental issues in BE, NL, FR, IT, AT, BG, MK, RO, IL, AR, DE, EE, HUâ€¦

Translated in AR, BG, EN, ES, FR, IT, IW, JP, MK, RO & RU

Published internationally in magazines, (festival) anthologies, & on the www

Co-founder of DAstrugistenDA, artiestencollectief JA!, BruSlam & TnXR-productions

Teaching poetry & performance + consultant & scout for poetry festivals & anthologies

Words are weapons & images of a(n un) certain meaning

More soon via www.spooninmybrain.org

* *

Peter Ian Waugh was born in Barnet, London in 1956. Has lived in Vienna since 1981, where he works as a freelance translator and English teacher. Co-founder of Labyrinth and co-editor of subdream, the Vienna Journal of English Language Poetry, publisher of Labyrinth poetry books. Studied with Allen Ginsberg, Ann Waldman, Jackson Mac Low, Ed Sanders, Andrew Schelling, Blixa Bargeld, Andrei Bitov, Henri Chopin and others. Has organised and particpated in numerous readings in Vienna and Austria, including appearances with the groups Dunkler Sand and the Karl Sayer Jazz Sextet and the Erste Wiener Lesetheater. His poetry has appeared in anthologies and magazines in England, the U.S.A., Austria, Slovakia, Macedonia and Croatia, as well as in the chapbooks Horizon Firelight (2000) and Haiku Butterfly Death Dream (2002). Verse translations include the bilingual German-English volumes Terminal by Klara KÃ¶ttner-Benigni and Standpoints by Edith Sommer

Sergej Birjukov was born in 1950, Sergej Birjukov is a poet, philologist, sound-poet, performance artist, and researcher of the Avant-Garde who works in the Martin Luther University in Halle, Germany. Birjukov has written several books of his own poetry and art-research. He has realized performances in Russia, Germany, Ukraine, Estonia, Poland, Finland, Canada, Netherlands, Serbia, and has participated in international exhibitions of visual poetry. His poetry is translated into German, Italian, Japan, English, Spanish, French languages. Birjokov was awarded the Diploma Number One from the Institute of history of Russian Avant-Garde for his work on theory, history and practice of Russian Avant-Garde.

Since 1984 Fjorton (Â°1966, Belgium) has been active in the fields of theatre, poetry, prose, psychology, plastic arts, the body, mindfulness and spirituality. His endeavours in these 'arts' were (more or less frantic) fights to keep on digging in the well of his own creativity, sometimes connecting his doing with the doings of other people. As an actor Fjortonplayed parts in about 17 plays, most (but not all) of them for children. As a director-playwright he creates original plays and transcribes known plays from e.g. Pinter. Lieven published in the capacity as poet-writer-publisher 4 collections of poems: Blue Valentines (1989), Decado (1991), Een kwart eeuw kinds (A quarter of a century childlike, 1993) and Haram (1994). Together with Philip Meersman he wrote, staged and played Flight 39.1 in 1996 and the project (compilation) "de min" in 2003. On behalf of the tsunami 12-12 foundation he contributed to "Woordenvloed". Within the Flemish art collective "JA" Fjorton works together with Philip Meersman on "Oh & Zie" and other projects. He has written several stories for children. Nowadays he enjoys more word-oriented settings: poetry, poetry of sounds, music and images. Alone and with others.

Kind regards,

Philip Meersman
www.myspace.com/spooninmybrain
www.facebook.com/spooninmybrain
www.youtube.com/spooninmybrain
skype: Spooninmybrain
[redacted]
www.poetasdelmundo.com/verInfo_europa.asp?ID=4337
11/09/10: DAstrugistenDA @ But Filmfestival, Breda, NL (http://www.butff.nl)
19/09/2010: BruSlam, CBK Slam voorronde Antwerpen, Zuiderzinnen
04-09/10/10: IX Festival Internacional de PoesÃa El Salvador 2010, El Salvador
27/09/10: BruSlam: Sylvie Marie & Helen White (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)
25/10/10: BruSlam: Bart Stouten & Cindya Izzarelli (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)
29/11/10: BruSlam: Andy Fierens, Bernhard Christiansen & Pascal Leclercq (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)
31/01/11: BruSlam: Neil Elliot & Tom Driesen (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)
28/02/11: BruSlam: Tomas Sidoli & Olaf Risee (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)
28/03/11: BruSlam: Dizzylez & ACG Vianen (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)

On Sun, Sep 5, 2010 at 5:06 PM, Cara Benson <[redacted]> wrote:

> Looking for creative works/projects in community. Creating a line of study, here. Please send all suggestions my way. Examples include: Kaia Sand's Portland > poetry walks, Claudia Rankine's Provenance of Beauty, Tree Museum in the Bronx.
> Also, artmaking/writing with community.

> Interventions.
> Re-inventions.
> Decorations.
> Instigations.
> And just plain old creation, in situ. Of situ.
>
> Thinking social justice and sustainability. Yes, art and politics.
>
> Many thanks. I'll compile list and send back to this list.
>
> Cara Benson

--
Philip Meersman
!!! New Address
Tentoonstellingslaan 418, bus 46
1090 Jette
Belgium
tel[redacted]

↑ Index

31. Adam Fieled

Three "Equations" Links

Tue 7 Sep 2010

These are all links for poems from the Equations series, due out eventually from Blue & Yellow Dog Press:

http://www.listenlight.net/21/adam-fieled

http://www.redroom.com/articlestory/equation-20

http://www.miporadio.posterous.com/equations-by-adam-fieled

Many thanks to Didi Menendez and Mackenzie Carignan.
Peace!
Adam

↑ Index

32. mIEKAL aND
metabolic GLYPH cannibals: Incantations for the Coming Apocalypse
Tue 7 Sep 2010

---

new from chalk editions

metabolic GLYPH cannibals: Incantations for the Coming Apocalypse

by mIEKAL aND

http://www.scribd.com/doc/36942105/mIEKAL-aND-metabolic-GLYPH-cannibals-Incantations-for-the-Coming-Apocalypse

What the Critics Say....

When I had read this story, I was filled with awe. I could not remain in my room and went out of doors. I felt as if I were locked up in a ward too. — Nikolai Lenin

A master of understatement, of concealed meaning, of twilight scenes and of prose as compressed as poetry, whose heroes don't want what they want? — Andrei Voznesensky

If you don't already have a copy in each of your toilets, then this ought to persuade you. — Foodtripper

"Go along and be amused, amazed and transported" — Clive Barnes, New York Post

He was looked upon by those who believed in him as the greatest revolutionist in the history of contemporary literature, and by those who scoffed as the perpetrator of a gigantic literary hoax. As it happens, neither of the two opinions is wholly correct. His "revolution" resembles a literary putsch, and if his writing is "a hoax" nevertheless she earnestly believes in it. — Michael Gold, The New Masses

Pay no attention to what the critics say... Remember, a statue has never been set up in honor of a critic! — Jean Sibelius

↑ Index

33. Thomas savage
Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
Tue 7 Sep 2010

I too like Mina Loy and have learned to enjoy Marianne Moore long after an unfortunate personal encounter with her late in her life which is not relevant here. It seems to me that H.D. belongs in this list of modernist woman poets, too.

From: CA Conrad <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Sun, September 5, 2010 9:54:23 PM
Subject: your MINA LOY PORTAL

the "your MINA LOY PORTAL" is finished
http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com/

and I would like to dedicate this to a man (okay, I'll NOT embarrass him and not mention his name) who recently said to me, "MARIANNE MOORE WAS THE MODERNIST WOMAN POET!" when I mentioned how much Mina Loy's poems mean to my life, and then I said in response to him, "Ah, well, I didn't realize there should only be one. But yet you mention ALL THESE MEN!" HAHAHA! To YOU, sir, and YOU know exactly who you are. Hope you're learning shame.

but for the love of Mina!
the splendor of all that is Mina!

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

34. Cara Benson
Day 1 of Leslie Scalapino tribute up on Delirious Hem
Tue 7 Sep 2010

Rae Armantrout:
"Many people claim to oppose hierarchies. Leslie S

Rae Armantrout:
"Many people claim to oppose hierarchies. Leslie Scalapinoâ€¦came closer to actually doing so than anyone I have known."

Emily Critchley
essays Leslie Scalapinoâ€™s â€œalternative ways of seeing.â€

Philip Jenks
remembersâ€œa force of good.â€

Susan Bee
recalls â€œthis introverted and luminous being.â€

* * * * * *

A TRIBUTE TO LESLIE SCALAPINO, 1944â€“2010 DAY ONE OF FOUR

Rae ArmantroutÂ |Â Susan BeeÂ |Â Elizabeth-Jane BurnettÂ |Â Sarah Anne CoxÂ |Â Emily CritchleyÂ

Michael CrossÂ |Â Anne GorrickÂ |Â Philip JenksÂ |Â Kristi MaxwellÂ + more

* * * * * *

edited by Cara Benson + Elizabeth Bryant + Catherine Wagner

Delirious Hem
http://delirioushem.blogspot.com

↑ Index

35. Ruth Lepson
Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
Tue 7 Sep 2010

in scroggins' zukofsky bio he talks abt z's appreciation for moore--wd never have thought to put her in the company of the others mentioned here so have learned somthing

On 9/7/10 10:15 AM, "Thomas savage" <[redacted]> wrote:

> I too like Mina Loy and have learned to enjoy Marianne Moore long after an unfortunate personal encounter with her late in her life which is not relevant here. It seems to me that H.D. belongs in this list of modernist woman poets, too.
>
> _____
> From: CA Conrad <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Sun, September 5, 2010 9:54:23 PM
> Subject: your MINA LOY PORTAL
>
> the "your MINA LOY PORTAL" is finished
> http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com/
>
> and I would like to dedicate this to a man (okay, I'll NOT embarrass him and not mention his name) who recently said to me, "MARIANNE MOORE WAS THE MODERNIST WOMAN POET!" when I mentioned how much Mina Loy's poems mean to my life, and then I said in response to him, "Ah, well, I didn't realize there should only be one. But yet you mention ALL THESE MEN!" HAHAHA! To YOU, sir, and YOU know exactly who you are. Hope you're learning shame.

> but for the love of Mina!
> the splendor of all that is Mina!

↑ Index

36. Mary Kasimor

Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL

Tue 7 Sep 2010

In my opinion, Niedecker is amazing. She toiled away in the backwoods of Michigan. I love her poetry. I also find Loy and Stein fascinating. But there is something heroic about Niedecker...
Â
Mary Kasimor
Â
From: Mark DuCharme <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
To: [redacted]
Date: Monday, September 6, 2010, 8:16 PM

Loy, Stein, HD, Niedecker and (Riding) Jackson are all AT LEAST comparably deserving as Moore.Â Personally, of these, my favorites are Stein, Niedecker & Loy.

Thanks for doing this, Conrad.Â I hope that man truly is shamedâ€” or better still, enlightened.Â But if I had to guess, without knowing him (and presuming that I don't), I wouldn't say it was likely....

Cheers,

Mark DuCharme

> Date: Sun, 5 Sep 2010 21:54:23 -0400
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: your MINA LOY PORTAL
> To: [redacted]
>
> ---------- Information from the mail header ----------
> Sender:Â Â Â Â Â "Poetics List (UPenn, UB)" <[redacted]>

> Poster:Â Â Â Â Â CA Conrad <[redacted]>
> Subject:Â Â Â your MINA LOY PORTAL
> ----------
>
> the "your MINA LOY PORTAL" is finished
> http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com/
>
> and I would like to dedicate this to a man (okay, I'll NOT embarrass > him and not mention his name) who recently said to me, "MARIANNE MOORE > WAS THE MODERNIST WOMAN POET!"Â when I mentioned how much Mina Loy's
> poems mean to my life, and then I said in response to him, "Ah, well,
> I didn't realize there should only be one.Â But yet you mention ALL > THESE MEN!"Â HAHAHA!Â To YOU, sir, and YOU know exactly who you are.
> Hope you're learning shame.
>
> but for the love of Mina!
> the splendor of all that is Mina!
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> --
> PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com
>
> THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com
>
Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â

↑ Index

37. Ruth Lepson

Re: please welcome Full Metal Poem

Tue 7 Sep 2010

---

what a wonderful poem by Tom Snyder

On 9/7/10 4:52 AM, "Cralan Kelder" <[redacted]> wrote:

> We are pleased to announce and make available the first Full Metal Poem magazine. FMP is our irreverent new Magazine edited from Amsterdam and Hamburg > and filled with Poetry Art Photography.
>
> http://www.fullmetalpoem.com
>
> It's a beautiful numbered edition of 250 - around 100 pages with stencil-printing and a wrap-around handbound jacket.
>
> After almost two years of work, we're pleased at how it turned out, please click here to take a look:
>
> http://fullmetalpoem.com/images.html
>
> Working backwards from A Secret Location on the Lower East Side, we paged through all the old mags we could get our hands on for design and put together a list of writers we like who are still writing and some who are no longer among us, we also brought in some new writers:
>
> Bob Arnold / John Bennett / Noel Black / Rolf Dieter Brinkmann / Thomas A Clark / Jack Collom / Cid Corman / Simon Cutts / Stephen Delbos / Amanda Deutch / Oliver Dunne / Gerald Hausman / Kent Johnson / Joanne Kyger / Louise Landes Levi / Marie T. Martin / Gui Mayo / Chris McCabe / David Miller / Clark Morgan / F.A. Nettelbeck / Kevin Opstedal / Ron Padgett / Francis Poole / Silke Scheuermann / Harris Schiff / Pete Simonelli / Will Skinker / Tom Snyder / Brian Unger / John Wieners / Lucien Zell / John Casey / Peter Dejong / Eliza Newman-Saul
>
> Because postage is so ridiculous at the moment - about $7 to mail a copy from europe, we brought a box of 20 copies to SF and will mail them from there - a few copies will be at City Lights to check out. There are also a few copies at St. Marks.
>
> So the cost is $12 + $2 shipping = $14 grand total
>
> If you would like to order a copy please email mail[@]cralan.com
> we've got about 100 left in total, they're moving along well

↑ Index

38. Jim Andrews
Why Tragically Hip?
Tue 7 Sep 2010

Why have the Tragically Hip made it in Canada but not in the USA?

54' 40"? That's a bit clearer.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

39. Nicholas Karavatos
...at Ugly Mug in Orange, CA on Wednesday at 8pm...
Tue 7 Sep 2010

Poetry Reading & Book-signing with Nicholas Karavatos

Wednesday, September 8, 2010 – 8:00pm
Ugly Mug
261 N. Glassel St.
Orange, CA
http://www.poetryidiots.com/
(Two Idiots Peddling Poetry)

NICHOLAS KARAVATOS is included in the anthology Punk Rock Saved My Ass (Ukiah: Medusa's Muse, 2010) and the latest issue of West Wind Review (Ashland: University of Southern Oregon, 2010). In December 2009, Amendment Nine (Arcata) published his first book No Asylum
http://www.amazon.com/dp/0984280006/ref=cm_sw_su_dp

David Meltzer writes: "Nicholas Karavatos is a poet of great range and clarity. This book is an amazing collectanea of smart sharp political poetry in tandem with astute and tender love lyrics. All of it voiced with an impressive singularity."

NICHOLAS KARAVATOS lives near Dubai, teaching literature and writing at the American University of Sharjah in the United Arab Emirates. He has been an Assistant Professor there since 2006. From 2001 he had taught general studies at a small private college in Muscat, Sultanate of Oman.

NICHOLAS KARAVATOS is a graduate of Humboldt State University where he earned his B.A. in English with a minor in Art History (1986), and of New College of California where he earned an M.F.A. in Poetics (1999).

Audio Links:
http://www.archive.org/details/NicholasKaravatos2010July15TigressBooksSalemOregonUsa http://www.archive.org/details/NicholasKaravatos-2009December2-ArcataTheaterLoungeCalifornia http://www.archive.org/details/NicholasKaravatos1992September20NorthCountryFairArcataPlaza http://www.archive.org/details/NicholasKaravatos-200818-AccidentGalleryInEurekaCa http://nicholaskaravatos.tumblr.com/

Info Links:
http://www.facebook.com/pages/Nicholas-Karavatos/253191112780
http://nicholaskaravatos.blogspot.com/

NO ASYLUM is available from these independent booksellers:

Arcata, CA – Northtown Books
La Jolla, CA – D.G. Wills Books
Olympia, WA - Last Word Books
Portland, OR – Powell's Books
Salem, OR – Tigress Books
San Francisco, CA – Bird & Beckett
San Francisco, CA – Books & Bookshelves
Venice, CA – Beyond Baroque

Nicholas Karavatos
Dept of Language & Literature
American University of Sharjah
PO Box 26666
Sharjah
United Arab Emirates

↑ Index

40. jpjones
Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
Tue 7 Sep 2010

Hi Lisa,

It was at the second event. However, the names of Stein and Niedecker (and many others) were also brought up - I referred to all three in varying contexts. My reference to Pound was shading to negative, a noting regarding Chinese poetry. It would have been foolish for me not to note that historical case. And Pound's name was used with some very negative connotations as well. But, yes, the name was there.

We seem to have a government here as of today (it seems to have become a 'paradigm' rather than a 'government'). Whether we have any leaders is a fair point.

And thanks, CA, for the portal. Fabulous.

Cheers,
Jill

_____
Jill Jones

www.jilljones.com.au

On Tue Sep 7 10:47 , Lisa Samuels sent:

>Yes, wonderful language & loving reproach, CA. Not forgetting Laura >Riding, and multiplications of names always please. & though I was >also at the Home & Away conference, Michael, I didn't hear the Pound, >maybe had different earphones in my head hearing different >translations. Or perhaps you mean the 2nd conference you then went to:
>were they really Pounding, there? Makes one worry even more about the >Australian leadership vacuum. Fondly, Lisa
>
>On Tue, Sep 7, 2010 at 12:18 PM, michael farrell [redacted]> wrote:
>> wonderful ca - mina loy is the - as is moore - not forgetting gertrude stein -
>>
>> i like the singular the - especially when every1 disagrees
>>
>> i was at a poetry festival in sydney on the weekend - almost every panel mentioned pound - i was surprised that hed become the (there)
>>
>>
>>> Date: Sun, 5 Sep 2010 21:54:23 -0400
>>> From: [redacted]
>>> Subject: your MINA LOY PORTAL
>>> To: [redacted]
>>>
>>> the "your MINA LOY PORTAL" is finished
>>> http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com/
>>>
>>> and I would like to dedicate this to a man (okay, I'll NOT embarrass >>> him and not mention his name) who recently said to me, "MARIANNE
MOORE
>>> WAS THE MODERNIST WOMAN POET!" when I mentioned how much
Mina Loy's

>>> poems mean to my life, and then I said in response to him, "Ah, well,
>>> I didn't realize there should only be one. But yet you mention ALL >>> THESE MEN!" HAHAHA! To YOU, sir, and YOU know exactly who you are.
>>> Hope you're learning shame.
>>>
>>> but for the love of Mina!
>>> the splendor of all that is Mina!
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>> --
>>> PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com
>>>
>>> THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com
>>>
>>
>>
>

↑ Index

41. Jessica Wickens
call for submissions: Monday Night #10
Tue 7 Sep 2010

Monday Night, a journal of new literature, is now accepting submissions for Issue 10 (Summer 2011). We publish quality prose and poetry in online and print editions, from new and emerging writers from across the country and around the world. Monday Night is distributed at independent bookstores and sold on our website. Click here to view or purchase Issue 9.<http://www.mondaynightlit.com/read/9_bellizzi.html>

GUIDELINES

Please follow these guidelines carefully. You can also find them on our website. If you still have questions, write to: [redacted].

POETRY: Send up to five poems. All styles and lengths are welcome.

PROSE: Fiction, nonfiction, and essays up to 5,000 words. Send up to three pieces of prose.

Translations are welcome in all genres.

NO PREVIOUSLY PUBLISHED WORK:

We accept unpublished work only. This includes online publications. If you have published the piece in any online or print journal, please do not submit it to Monday Night.

SIMULTANEOUS SUBMISSIONS:

YES. Please inform us if your work is accepted elsewhere, so we can remove it from consideration.

HOW TO SUBMIT:

Email submissions to [redacted]<file:///C:/Documents%20and%20Settings/jwickens/Desktop/[redacted]>. Send one doc, rtf, or pdf file attached to your email. Please title or label all your work clearly within the document. Your name and contact info should also appear on your submission.

We do not confirm receipt of submissions.

DEADLINE: December 15, 2010

RESPONSE TIME: We will respond to all submissions by February 2011.

PAYMENT: Each published writer will receive two print copies of the issue in which their work appears.

↑ Index

42. Ruth Lepson

The Poem of a Life

Tue 7 Sep 2010

Read Mark Scroggins¹ excellent bio of Louis Zukofsky (2007). It weaves his life & his work together, just as Z himself did. It is straightforward, endlessly informative, clear, full of tidbits about & deep connections to other poets, discussions of objectivism, and an ending including people we know, esp LangPos & Z¹s influence on them, as well as summaries of his contributions to postmodern poetry. Celia¹s music. Not to mention a feel for NY at the time. And Jewishness. And Pound & Williams, as well as Creeley¹s surprise that Z considered him one of his best friends. Ya never know.

↑ Index

43. Justin Katko

If A Then B

Wed 8 Sep 2010

Dear people:

A new magazine themed on translation has just been published out of Berlin - you can but it for 15 Euros from here: http://ifa-thenb.org/. They are looking for stuff for the next issue: write to the editor Pablo Larios < [redacted] > for info. Table of contents of issue 1 is below. --- Justin Katko

David Gutkin
Looking/Listening with Earle Brown's December 1952

Vvork
Variety Evening

Eve Essex
Re-Performing Cornelius Cardew

Pablo Larios
J. G. Hamann, Sécrétaire-Traducteur

Lindsay Lawson Unfortunate Objects

Darri Lorenzen
Folds

Justin Katko
On A Specimen of Palaeobotanic Epigraphy: J.H. Prynne's Runic Fertility Prayer

Dossier: Language Log

Hayley Silverman
The Everything

Kenneth Haynes
Fiddling with Symbols: Guy Davenport on his Fiction

Ida Hattemer-Higgins
Hakeldama, or The Killer's Children

Helen Dewitt
The French Style of Mlle Matsumoto

Anne de Vries

Ulf Stolterfoht / Rosmarie Waldrop
from Lingos V

↑ Index

44. Dan Godston

My Favorite Banned Books Abecedarian Read-Out

Wed 8 Sep 2010

My Favorite Banned Books Abecedarian Read-Out

Saturday, October 2, 2010 (1-5 p.m.)

Logan <http://www.chipublib.org/branch/details/library/logan-square/> Square Library

3000 W. Fullerton Ave.

Chicago, IL 60647

Free and open to the public.

"My Favorite Banned Books Abecedarian Read-Out" is happening on Saturday, October 2, in celebration of the 2010 Banned Books Week. We will begin with A and end with Z: participants will start by reading excerpts from books whose titles / authors whose names begin with the letter A (such as As I Lay Dying by William Faulkner) and end with the letter Z (such as Their Eyes Were Watching God by Zora Neale Hurston). The Abecedarian was chosen as a way of structuring the event because it is a systematic way of having the event progress, and to highlight the fact that banned and challenged books exist throughout the alphabet, across the spectrum of creative expression and cultural life. Participants will include: Vittorio Carli, Dan Cleary, Elizabeth Harper, Jeffrey Helgeson, Wayne Allen Jones, Jamie Kazay, Katrina Kemble, Shelley Nation-Watson, Charlie Newman, Cathleen Schandelmeier-Bartels, Arlene Walters, Judith Wiker, Dan Godston, and other TBA individuals. This event happens during the 2010 Chicago <http://www.chicagocalling.org/> Calling Arts Festival and Chicago <http://www.chicagoartistsmonth.org/> Artists Month.

The "My Favorite Banned Books" blog

"My Favorite Banned Books Abecedarian Read-Out" has a web component – a blog called "My Favorite Banned Books" (www.myfavoritebannedbooks.blogspot.com). People from across the country will be invited to write testimonials about their favorite banned books, and audio links, photographs, and other media content will be added to this blog during the weeks leading up to the event.

2010 Chicago Calling Arts Festival

During the 2010 Annual Chicago Calling Arts Festival, Chicago-based artists collaborate with artists in other locations -- both here in the U.S. and abroad.

These collaborations involve a range of art forms -- including music, dance, film, literature, and intermedia -- and they are prepared or improvised. Some Chicago Calling events involve live feeds between Chicago and other locations. 2010 Chicago Calling events include “Bicycles and the Arts” at Happy Dog Gallery, “Translations 2010” at the Reconstruction Room, “Seda Röder / Burton Greene - Harrison Bankhead Duo Concert” at Curtiss Hall, “Temperatures and Shapes” at Elastic Sound & Vision Gallery, “I Remember Fred” at the Velvet Lounge, “Chicago Calling and Waiting for the Bus” at Café Ballou, “Two Way Tarot Mirrors” at Myopic Books, “My Favorite Banned Books Abecedarian Read-Out” at the Logan Square Library, “Aural Architecture” at WNUR, and other events.

↑ Index

45. Dan Godston
Translating 2010
Wed 8 Sep 2010

Translating 2010 at the Reconstruction Room

Wednesday, October 6, 2010 (8 p.m.)

The Reconstruction Room <http://www.recroomers.com/> at the Black Rock Bar

3614 N. Damen Ave.

Chicago, IL 60618

The Reconstruction Room presents Translating 2010, which is part of the Fifth Annual Chicago Calling Arts <http://www.chicagocalling.org/> Festival and Chicago Artists <http://www.chicagoartistsmonth.org/> Month. Translating 2010 explores the theme of “translations” in its wide range of permutations and possibilities: translating matter into energy, poetry into prose, time into memories, the present into the past and the future into the present, sound into words and the page into the air, promises into reality / ideals into facts, pencils into sketches into sculptures, DOS into HTML, 1999 into 2012 into The Long Now, frames into motion, and clouds into rain and water into ice.

Participants to include:

· A Guest Giving Way like Ice Melting: Thirteen Ways of Looking at Laozi -- Sou Vai Keng (Macao) and Steven Schroeder (Chicago)

· Erin Teegarden (Chicago), Della Watson (San Francisco), and Eric Cressley (Pittsburgh)

· Brett Foster reads a selection of his English translations of Cecco Angiolieri’s poetry

· RaKel Delgado (Barcelona), Saul Aguirre (Chicago), and Luis Humberto Valadez, (Chicago)

· Catie Olson (Chicago), Meg Duguid (Chicago), and the purveyors of Lovitt Restaurant <http://www.lovittrestaurant.com/> (Colville, WA)

· Eric Elshtain (Chicago) and Gregory Fraser (Carrollton, Georgia)

· Francesco Levato (Chicago) reads English translations of poems by Tiziano Fratus and Fabiano Alborghetti, and he and and Mariela Griffor (Gross Pointe Farms, MI) give a bilingual reading of her poetry

· Happy 150th Birthday, Jules LaForgue, Piccolo Mountains Repertoire -- David Harrison Horton (Beijing), Sheila Murphy (Phoenix), Harry Ross (London), and Dan Godston (Chicago)

Free and open to the public, donations accepted.

Chicago Calling is organized by the Borderbend <http://www.borderbend.org/> Arts Collective, a 501(c)(3) organization whose mission is to promote the arts, to create opportunities for artists to explore new directions in and between art forms, and to engage the community. Annual Borderbend projects include Chicago Calling and the Mingus Awareness Project. Other organizations partner with Borderbend to enrich and extend the reach of its project, such as the Experimental Piano Series, which is co-produced by the Chicago Composers Forum and Borderbend, in partnership with the PianoForte Foundation.

2010 Chicago Calling Arts Festival

During the 2010 Annual Chicago Calling Arts Festival, Chicago-based artists collaborate with artists in other locations -- both here in the U.S. and abroad. These collaborations involve a range of art forms -- including music, dance, film, literature, and intermedia -- and they are prepared or improvised. Some Chicago Calling events involve live feeds between Chicago and other locations. 2010 Chicago Calling events include “Bicycles and the Arts” at Happy Dog Gallery, “Translations 2010” at the Reconstruction Room, “Seda Röder / Burton Greene - Harrison Bankhead Duo Concert” at Curtiss Hall, “Temperatures and Shapes” at Elastic Sound & Vision Gallery, “I Remember Fred” at the Velvet Lounge, “Chicago Calling and Waiting for the Bus” at Café Ballou, “Two Way Tarot Mirrors” at Myopic Books, “My Favorite Banned Books Abecedarian Read-Out” at the Logan Square Library, “Aural Architecture” at WNUR, and other events.

Chicago Artists Month

Throughout October, you are invited to meet hundreds of Chicago visual artists at exhibitions, workshops, open studios, tours, neighborhood art walks and more in venues across the city. Presented by the Chicago Department of Cultural Affairs in collaboration with more than 200 program partners, Chicago Artists Month aims to showcase the extraordinary talent and vibrancy of Chicago's art community.

This year's theme, "The City as Studio," explores the impact of the urban environment on Chicago artists and their work, and the contributions that artists make to the vitality of our city. The place where art is imagined and made, whether in a physical or virtual space, affects the idea, the process and the final product. And the art, once created, leaves a mark on the place it occupies. Chicago Artists Month 2010 looks at how the city influences art and artists, and how artists transform the city by contributing to civic dialogue and quality of life.

↑ Index

46. Dan Godston
Two Way Tarot Mirrors
Wed 8 Sep 2010

Two Way Tarot Mirrors

Saturday, October 2, 2010 (7 p.m.)

Myopic Books <http://www.myopicbookstore.com/>

1564 N. Milwaukee Ave.

Chicago, IL 60622

The Myopic Books Poetry <http://www.myopicbookstore.com/poetry.html> Series presents Two Way Tarot Mirrors, a collaborative writing project which is part of the Fifth Annual <http://www.chicagocalling.org/> Chicago Calling Arts Festival, and Chicago Artists Month <http://www.chicagoartistsmonth.org/> . Two Way Tarot Mirrors involves people in Chicago working with people elsewhere, on projects wherein tarot cards are part of the collaborative process. Participants will include: Kristy Bowen (Chicago), Janina Ciezadlo (Chicago), Dan Godston (Chicago), Billie Maciunas (Orlando), Ira Murfin (Chicago), Andrew K. Peterson (Boston), Larry Sawyer (Chicago), Susan Shie, and other TBA individuals.

Unlike one's reflection in a regular mirror, the playback/feedback in TWTM isn't an exact reflection of the original thing that's sent. As Alice enters the looking glass, she finds that what's on the other side is something different than she had expected; similarly, the two-sided mirror brings about something different and unexpected. A mirror can seem to be flat, yet it can become three-dimensional, and it can lead to dream worlds. Mirror games don't end up with perfect parallels; i.e. Harpo and Groucho's mirror game in Duck Soup.

Fifth Annual Chicago Calling Arts Festival

During the Fifth Annual Annual Chicago Calling Arts Festival, Chicago-based artists collaborate with artists in other locations -- both here in the U.S. and abroad. These collaborations involve a range of art forms -- including music, dance, film, literature, and intermedia -- and they are prepared or improvised. Some Chicago Calling events involve live feeds between Chicago and other locations. 2010 Chicago Calling events include “Bicycles and the Arts” at Happy Dog Gallery, “Translations 2010” at the Reconstruction Room, “Seda Röder / Burton Greene - Harrison Bankhead Duo Concert” at Curtiss Hall, “Temperatures and Shapes” at Elastic Sound & Vision Gallery, “I Remember Fred” at the Velvet Lounge, “Chicago Calling and Waiting for the Bus” at Café Ballou, “Two Way Tarot Mirrors” at Myopic Books, “My Favorite Banned Books Abecedarian Read-Out” at the Logan Square Library, “Aural Architecture” at WNUR, and other events.

↑ Index

47. Cara Benson
* Day 2 (of 4): Leslie Scalapino Tribute *
Wed 8 Sep 2010

Jena Osman
on her correspondence with Leslie Scalapino

Ruth

Jena Osman
on her correspondence with Leslie Scalapino

Ruth LepsonÂ
edits: Lyn Hejinian and Leslie Scalapino in collaboration and conversationÂ

Michael Rerick Â
essays "Delay Series" (fromÂ way)Â

Jodi Chilson:Â
"and skimming over ZITHER and Autobiography again, now, I discover"Â

* * * * * *Â

A TRIBUTE TO LESLIE SCALAPINO 1944â€“2010
DAY TWO OF FOURÂ

Lynn Behrendt Â |Â Jodi Chilson Â | Â K. Lorraine GrahamÂ Â |Â Â Megan KaminskiÂ Â
Â
Ruth Lepson Â | Â Jena Osman Â | Â Deborah PoeÂ Â |Â Â Michael RerickÂ Â

Â Â
Jennifer StyperkÂ Â | Â Rachel Zucker

+ more...
Â
* * * * * *Â

edited by Cara Benson + Elizabeth Bryant + Catherine WagnerÂ

Delirious HemÂ
http://delirioushem.blogspot.com

↑ Index

48. Nicholas Karavatos
...at Café des Artistes in Fallbrook, CA on Wednesday, Sept. 8...
Wed 8 Sep 2010

Book-signing & Reading with NICHOLAS KARAVATOS in Fallbrook, CA

6:00pm - 8:00pm
Café des Artistes
103 S. Main St.
Fallbrook, CA

NICHOLAS KARAVATOS is included in the anthology Punk Rock Saved My Ass (Ukiah: Medusa's Muse, 2010) and the latest issue of West Wind Review (Ashland: University of Southern Oregon, 2010). In December 2009, Amendment Nine (Arcata) published his first book No Asylum http://www.amazon.com/dp/0984280006/ref=cm_sw_su_dp

David Meltzer writes: "Nicholas Karavatos is a poet of great range and clarity. This book is an amazing collectanea of smart sharp political poetry in tandem with astute and tender love lyrics. All of it voiced with an impressive singularity."

NICHOLAS KARAVATOS lives near Dubai, teaching literature and writing at the American University of Sharjah in the United Arab Emirates. He has been an Assistant Professor there since 2006. From 2001 he had taught general studies at a small private college in Muscat, Sultanate of Oman.

NICHOLAS KARAVATOS is a graduate of Humboldt State University where he earned his B.A. in English with a minor in Art History (1986), and of New College of California where he earned an M.F.A. in Poetics (1999).

Audio Links:

http://www.archive.org/details/NicholasKaravatos-2009December2-ArcataTheaterLoungeCalifornia

http://www.archive.org/details/NicholasKaravatos1992September20NorthCountryFairArcataPlaza http://www.archive.org/details/NicholasKaravatos-200818-AccidentGalleryInEurekaCa http://nicholaskaravatos.tumblr.com/

Info Links:

http://www.kbgressitt.com/events/
http://www.facebook.com/pages/Nicholas-Karavatos/253191112780
http://nicholaskaravatos.blogspot.com/

NO ASYLUM is available from these independent booksellers:

Arcata, CA – Northtown Books
La Jolla, CA – D.G. Wills Books
Olympia, WA - Last Word Books
Portland, OR – Powell's Books
Salem, OR – Tigress Books
San Francisco, CA – Bird & Beckett
San Francisco, CA – Books & Bookshelves
Venice, CA – Beyond Baroque

Nicholas Karavatos
Dept of Language & Literature
American University of Sharjah
PO Box 26666
Sharjah
United Arab Emirates

↑ Index

49. Séamas Cain

... reality-particles; sounds & images

Wed 8 Sep 2010

IMRAM, a national literary festival in Ireland, in association with the Dublin City Arts Centre, will present "tríd an gcoill" by Séamas Cain and Slavek Kwi. This Installation with recorded or live performances will take place at 1:00 p.m. to 5:45 p.m. from September 23 through September 27, 2010 at the Grapevine Space of CITY ARTS, 15 Bachelor's Walk, Dublin 1, Ireland.

For additional information phone
Nick Reilly at CITY ARTS, i.e.,

Phone ([redacted] ...

http://www.cityarts.ie/events/2010/09/23/-trid-an-gcoill

tríd an gcoill
"through the woods"

A collection of reality-particles; sounds and images from Dromore Woods. An audiovisual installation, with recorded or live performances.

tríd an gcoill, a 120-page poem by Séamas Cain, is itself a poetic field recording. It evokes a walk through Dromore Woods in County Clare. It immerses the reader in a stream of words and word-clusters. The overall effect is hypnotic, as we are led by a piped piper into the heart of the wood.

Czech sound-artist Slavek Kwi has created an audiovisual installation from underwater and field recordings captured in Dromore Woods itself, and fused these elements with Séamas Cain's chanted recital of tríd an gcoill. This installation with performances will be open to the public in City Arts, with Free Admission. tríd an gcoill creates a unique space in which one can experience nature and language through sounds and visions of uncanny beauty.

Séamas Cain is an Irish-American experimental poet, a friend and colleague of Jean Genet and Allen Ginsberg. One of the most radical voices in modern literature he writes in Irish, Scottish Gaelic, Old Celtic, Spanish and English.

For additional information, go to ...

http://seamascain-writernetwork.org

Slavek Kwi is a Czech sound-artist, composer and researcher. From the early nineties he has operated under the name "Artificial Memory Trace."

For additional information, go to ...

http://www.artificialmemorytrace.com

Seamus Johnson described Cain's recorded chantings of tríd an gcoill for this Installation as "incantatory, rhythmic, passionate, guttural, mezmerizing. Cain is the baritone ascending to Apollo. Or, is he the baritone ascending Mt. Carmel? He does tend to get carried away in performance, lost in a kind of trance, at times in the passion of the moment whacking the microphones. Indeed, Cain's performance is hypnotic! Plenty of auditory images! And plenty of rich and diverse sounds to be chopped up for computer-randomization!"

Slavek Kwi used chance operations to distribute the fragments of Cain's chantings in various speakers of a vertical Speaker Tree, which doesn't brake the continuous chanting, but changes the architecture as texture and dynamics. Also, Kwi used chance operations on the distribution in speakers of the timbre of Cain's chantings.

Kwi's Installation includes a color film, with parts of the text of the tríd an gcoill poem superimposed in scrolling effect over images from Dromore Woods, a slide-show with 1,500 slides, an environmental soundtrack on external 5.1 system and also a Voice Tower, all edited using chance operations. Kwi's Installation also includes physical objects from Dromore Woods.

For additional information, go to ...

http://www.cityarts.ie/events/2010/09/23/-trid-an-gcoill

http://www.artificialmemorytrace.com

http://www.freewebs.com/seamascain/liamcarsonsreview.htm

http://www.freewebs.com/seamascain/questionsanswers.htm

http://alazanto.org/seamascain

http://www.saorsainn.net

_____

↑ Index

50. Shankar, Ravi (English)

Drunken Boat #12 is live online!

Wed 8 Sep 2010

Check out the 12th issue of Drunken Boat <http://www.drunkenboat.com/>, featuring a special folio on Pulitzer Prize winning poet Franz Wright including new poems and drafts of his older poems, "Celtic Twilight," a folio of Irish Americans on Eugene O'Neill featuring such contributor as Alice McDermott, Maureen Howard and actor Brian Dennehy, a Short Short fiction folio, Desire & Interaction, the best of the new media arts, as well as our normal fare of exceptional Poetry, Fiction & Nonfiction, featuring many contributors including Irina Reyn, Duriel E. Harris, Robin Helmley and Jurica Pavièiæ. Now live and online!

We invite you to celebrate its launch at a memorable event in New York City. On September 22nd from 7-10pm at the American Irish Historical Society <http://www.aihs.org>.

Performers will include London’s own editor and poet James Byrne, Chicago-based essayist Jeanie Chung, author T.J. English, poet and performance artist Duriel E. Harris, novelist Maureen Howard, translator and transversioner Gabriela Jauregui, editor and poet Caledonia Kearns, Black 47 frontman Larry Kirwan, poet Leslie McGrath, author Caitlin Leffel, author and director Ciar´n O’Reilly, scholar Katherine Sugg, musician and fiction writer Chris Tarry, fiction writer Deepak Unnikrishnan, installation artist Quintan Ana Wikswo, and poet Eamonn Wall.

Celtic Twilight is dedicated to Haiti relief after the horrific event of January 12, 2010, and the folio includes a donation link for the Ireland-borne organization Concern Worldwide, which has been on the ground in Haiti since 1994. Join us for this extraordinary evening, open to the public and with served refreshments, to celebrate Drunken Boat and Irish American arts and culture.

RSVPs are required. If you'd like to celebrate with us, please contact Meaghan Doherty of AIHS at [redacted] or call her at [redacted].

Drunken Boat is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization that depends on the contributions of its readership to continue to thrive. Please consider making a tax-deductible donation today: http://www.drunkenboat.com/db12/support.php

Thanks for your continued support! Plunge into the summer issue of Drunken Boat while the weather's still warm and let us know what you think.

Best,

Ravi
Executive Director, http://www.drunkenboat.com

****

Ravi Shankar
Ed., http://www.drunkenboat.com
Poet-in-Residence
Associate Professor
CCSU - English Dept.
[redacted]
[redacted]

↑ Index

51. ART ELECTRONICS

Invitation CORRENTI NOMADI - Videopoetry Exhibition

Wed 8 Sep 2010

Video by Caterina Davinio featured in: CORRENTI NOMADI - Videopoetry Exhibition at Circolo Poetico Correnti - V. Cavour 18/a Crema September 18 - 19 2010 See preview: "Goa Radio Station from North Pole / Self-Poertrait 2010" (2', 2010) http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=egjq40amqx0 "Big Splash" (1':50", 2009) http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=7fior5mk_zM

CORRENTI NOMADI - Participating Artists:
 Massimo Arrigoni, Davide Bramante, Roberto Rossin, Patrizia Monzani, Michele Lambo, Fludd
Caterina Davinio, Semiolabile cinematografica, Maria Korporal

Maria Grazia Martina, Elena Chiesa, Giovanni Fontana
Angelo Ricciardi, SempreCreativaPoetica (Alberto Mori + GinoGinel)?

Caterina Davinio
::
DVD or secure web files featured on demand to curators and gallery owners.
Contact: [redacted]
Web: http://xoomer.virgilio.it/cprezi/caterinadav.html

_____
More:
http://xoomer.alice.it/kareninazoom/daviniobook.htm (En)
Archeo Computer-Poetry (on YouTube)
http://www.youtube.com/CaterinaDav

↑ Index

52. Michael Dylan Welch
Seabeck Haiku Retreat, November 4-7, 2010
Wed 8 Sep 2010

Haiku Northwest, the Washington State region of the Haiku Society of America, is pleased to announce the third annual Seabeck Haiku Getaway, to be held November 4-7, 2010. Activities include presentations, workshops, readings, critique sessions, renku writing, haiga displays, a retreat anthology, haiku show-and-tell, book launches, book fair, silent auction, and more. Our featured speaker is Charles Trumbull, editor and publisher of Modern Haiku (www.modernhaiku.org). Other speakers include Penny Harter, Ce Rosenow, Christopher Herold, Michael Dylan Welch, Jerry Ball, Alice Frampton, Tanya McDonald, Richard Tice, Deborah P Kolodji, and others. Discount registration ends September 30 (just $199 for all events, accommodations, and meals from Thursday through Sunday; day rates and other options available).

For more information, please visit the following sites.

General information: http://sites.google.com/site/haikunorthwest/seabeck-haiku-getaway

Weekend schedule: http://sites.google.com/site/haikunorthwest/seabeck-haiku-getaway/2010schedule

Registration form: http://sites.google.com/site/haikunorthwest/seabeck-haiku-getaway/2010-Registration

For photos of our 2009 retreat, please visit http://picasaweb.google.com/MichaeDylanWelch/SeabeckHaikuGetaway2009#. And for a brief video of haiku by attendees, please visit http://tobaccoroadpoet.blogspot.com/2009/10/seabeck-haiku-getaway-haiku-reading.html.

For more information, please contact Michael Dylan Welch at [redacted]. If you have an interest in haiku, please do consider attending.

↑ Index

53. Mark DuCharme

REMINDER: Thursday 9/16, NAKA PIERCE & PUSATERI at Stratford Park

Wed 8 Sep 2010

The Stratford Park Reading Series

proudly presents...

Michelle Naka Pierce & Chris Pusateri

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 16th at 7:30 p.m.

A Donation is requested— but All are welcome!

A reception will follow the reading.

§

Address: 3030 O'Neal Parkway, Boulder, CO

http://www.mapquest.com/maps?city=Boulder&state=CO&address=3030+O'neal+Parkway&zipcode=80301

DIRECTIONS: O'Neal Parkway is off 30th Street in north Boulder between Valmont & Iris. Turn East at the signs for STRATFORD PARK WEST. The community house is the one-story building with a fence leading down to the street, half a block from 30th. Please park ONLY on O'Neal Parkway, O'Neal Circle, or in VISITOR spaces in the Stratford Park West lots. Please do not park in any other nearby lots. Thank you.

§

Born in Tokyo, Japan, Michelle Naka Pierce is the author of Beloved Integer and Tri/via, a collaboration with Veronica Corpuz. Excerpts from her manuscript She, A Blueprint for Intersurface, with collage art by Sue Hammond West, have been published in American Letters & Commentary, Trickhouse, Mandorla, Foursquare, Sous Rature, Upstairs at Duroc, and elsewhere. Pierce spent her sabbatical living in London and working on her new manuscript, tentatively titled Continuous Frieze Bordering Red, which contemplatives Rothko's floating borders in relation to unstable cultural borders. She is currently an associate professor and director of the writing center at Naropa University.

§ Born in the American midwest, Chris Pusateri has lived for extended periods in London, Mexico City and Kingston, Jamaica. He is the author of eight books and chapbooks of poetry, most recently Anon (BlazeVox, 2008) and North of There (Dusie, 2007), and his poems and critical prose have appeared in numerous magazines, including American Letters & Commentary, Boston Review, Chicago Review, Verse, and many others. His current manuscript, The Liberties, was written while residing in England, and takes as its premise the surveillance architecture built into British public life. A librarian by trade, he currently lives in the unincorporated suburban hinterland that divides Denver from Boulder.

§

UPCOMING EVENTS IN THE STRATFORD PARK READING SERIES
November 11th: Matthew Cooperman & Aby Kaupang

§

If
you no longer wish to receive email announcements of upcoming events in the Stratford Park Reading Series, please email [redacted] with the subject line "SPRS: REMOVE."

↑ Index

54. Dan Coffey poetics/poetry journal issues
Wed 8 Sep 2010

Free (only charging shipping) to the first backchannelers:

CHAIN #'s 5, 6, 7

INTREPID (A Decade and Then Some: An Anthology, ed. Allen DeLoach, 1976, constitutes Intrepid nos. 25-35)

CREDENCES: A JOURNAL OF TWENTIETH CENTURY POETRY AND POETICS (straight outta 4th floor Capen): New Series: Vol. 1, no.1; Vol. 2, no. 1; Vol. 3, no.2.

6x6: Issue #4 (Ugly Duckling Presse) Sept 2001

Thanks!

↑ Index

55. colin herd anything anymore anywhere summer 2010
Thu 9 Sep 2010

Dear List,

The Summer 2010 issue of 'anything anymore anywhere' is out now. (Just close your eyes and imagine it's still Summer, I guess.)

Details at the blog: http://anything-anymore-anywhere.blogspot.com

The contributors for this issue are:

nick-e melville, Eric Karl Anderson, Ruth Lepson, Bobby Larsson, Michael Wayne, Hilary Clark, Gareth Trew, Celia Gilbert, Chris Brownsword, Caroline Crew, Stephen Nelson, Caroline Zilk, andrew topel, Gregory Laynor, M.J. Nicholls, Josh Jones, A.W.Singerman, Greg Thomas, Claire Potter, Chris Emslie, Katie Craig, Victoria Gray, Irina Nedelcu, Sandy Christie

Submissions welcome for our next issue. (to anythinganymoreanywhereATgooglemail.com)

Colin.

↑ Index

56. mIEKAL aND
poemicstrip - call for participation
Thu 9 Sep 2010

---

poemicstrip

a trip to the world of poemics

call for participation

http://poemicstrip.blogspot.com/

anyone interested in becoming a contributor to the poemicstrip blog, please send me an email (pszren(at)wp(dot)pl) and I will send you an invitation (and then please click on the link in the invitation email and start posting poemics on the poemicstrip blog).

poemics is the art between poetry and comics, or the art of blending elements of poetry and comics. please join us, let's do something together!

to those who already are contributors to the poemicstrip blog, and to our readers - if you know anyone interested in becoming a contributor, please distribute the message :)

↑ Index

57. Cara Benson

Leslie Scalapino Tribute: Day 3 of 4

Thu 9 Sep 2010

Leslie Scalapino Tribute: Day 3 of 4Â
>----------
>

Leslie Scalapino Tribute: Day 3 of 4Â
>----------
>
>
>
>Notes on keeping company with Leslie's life and writing:
>Martha Ronk + Linda Russo
>+ Elizabeth Treadwell + Marthe Reed + Pierre Joris
>
>Elizabeth Bryant in conversation with Leslie Scalapino (with poems by Scalapino)
>
>"Leslie Loved Invasion of the Body Snatchers": Laura Hinton
>
>Joyelle McSweeney on Dahlia's Iris
>
>
>
>* * * * * *
>
>A TRIBUTE TO LESLIE SCALAPINO Â 1944â€“2010 Â DAY THREE OF FOUR
>
>
>Laura HintonÂ |Â Linda RussoÂ | Â Pierre Joris |Â
>Â
>Marthe Reed |Celia BlandÂ | Richard Price | Elizabeth Bryant
>
>Â Joyelle McSweeney | Elizabeth Treadwell | Heidi Lynn Staples
>
>
>
>+ more...
>Â
>* * * * * *Â

>
>edited by Cara Benson + Elizabeth Bryant + Catherine WagnerÂ
>
>Delirious HemÂ
>http://delirioushem.blogspot.com
>
>--
You received this message because you are subscribed to the Google Groups "wemakebooks" group.
To post to this group, send email to [redacted].
To unsubscribe from this group, send email to
For more options, visit this group at http://groups.google.com/group/wemakebooks?hl=en.

↑ Index

58. Halvard Johnson
9/11 in pictures & words
Thu 9 Sep 2010

Here again, some images and words related to 9/11 and NYC.

9/11+4 in pictures<http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home/lynda-and-hal/9-11-4> 9/11+ in words<http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home/lynda-and-hal/9-11-texts>

Hal Serving the tri-state area.

Halvard Johnson
==========

[redacted]
http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org

↑ Index

59. steve dalachinsky
Re: please apply and/or spread the word!!!
Thu 9 Sep 2010

---

ya mean any ole poet ????
myrna loy maybe or old beat up post beat degeeless guy with socks no underwear and a goatee?

On Thu, 9 Sep 2010 13:37:13 -0500 Maria Damon <[redacted]> writes:
> Dear all:
> the Creative Writing program in my dept is looking for a poet.
> Please
> apply.
>
> Assistant Professor of Creative Writing (poetry)
>
> The Department of English at the University of Minnesota, Twin > Cities,
> invites applications for an Assistant Professor of Creative Writing
>
> (poetry), a tenure-track position with a 2/2 course load, to begin > fall > semester 2011. Successful applicants are expected to maintain an > active > record of publication in poetry; teach primarily in the graduate > creative writing program; direct MFA theses; serve on MFA admissions > committee; act as advisor to dislocate (the graduate student > literary > magazine); and teach some undergraduate creative writing and > literature > courses. Required Qualifications: The M.F.A. or Ph.D. in creative > writing, English, or related field, with degree in hand; primary > specialization in poetry; college/university-level teaching > experience;
>
> and at least one collection of poetry published by a national > press.
> Complete job description can be found here:
> http://employment.umn.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind‰504
>
>
>

↑ Index

60. Jeffrey Side

The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is “Disturb the Universe: The Collected Essays of Adam Fieled” by Adam Fieled

Thu 9 Sep 2010

The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is â€œDisturb the Universe: The Collected Essays of Adam Fieledâ€ by Adam Fieled

Description:

In "Disturb the Universe: The Collected Essays of Adam Fieled", we see a young poet wrestling with old problems: how to move forward and conserve simultaneously, how to form coherent judgments regarding what will endure and what will not, how to, as Eliot wrote in â€œFour Quartetsâ€, â€˜purify the dialect of the tribeâ€™. These essays are bold stabs in search of new directions, which push the envelope past what post-modernism in poetry has heretofore allowed. They may prove to be enduring benchmarks of a period of transition and turmoil.

Available as a free ebook here:

http://www.lulu.com/product/ebook/disturb-the-universe-the-collected-essays-of-adam-fieled/12562609

↑ Index

61. amy king

OT: More Troubling Data About Women Writers

Thu 9 Sep 2010

Today, VIDA (http://vidaweb.org/) responds to recent discussions regarding publishing practices and numbers on Slate
-- http://scribe.doublex.com/blog/xxfactor/more-troubling-data-about-women-writers

Please share the article and draw attention to the disparities / these queries. Stay tuned for more articles to appear in mainstream venues.

Thanks much,

Amy

--
****
Now That's WAC
+ http://wearechampion.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-king.html

Nepotism?
+ http://tsky-reviews.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-kings-slaves-to-do-these-things.html

Amy's Alias
+ http://amyking.org/
****

↑ Index

62. Maria Damon
please apply and/or spread the word!!!
Thu 9 Sep 2010

Dear all:
the Creative Writing program in my dept is looking for a poet. Please apply.

Assistant Professor of Creative Writing (poetry)

The Department of English at the University of Minnesota, Twin Cities, invites applications for an Assistant Professor of Creative Writing (poetry), a tenure-track position with a 2/2 course load, to begin fall semester 2011. Successful applicants are expected to maintain an active record of publication in poetry; teach primarily in the graduate creative writing program; direct MFA theses; serve on MFA admissions committee; act as advisor to dislocate (the graduate student literary magazine); and teach some undergraduate creative writing and literature courses. Required Qualifications: The M.F.A. or Ph.D. in creative writing, English, or related field, with degree in hand; primary specialization in poetry; college/university-level teaching experience; and at least one collection of poetry published by a national press. Complete job description can be found here: http://employment.umn.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind‰504

↑ Index

63. Maria Damon
Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
Thu 9 Sep 2010

---

i think i'll be giving a talk in which i pretend i think myrna loy is mina loy...

steve dalachinsky wrote:
> how bout myrna loy??
>
>
> On Tue, 7 Sep 2010 12:47:03 +1200 Lisa Samuels <[redacted]>
> writes:

>
>> Yes, wonderful language & loving reproach, CA. Not forgetting Laura >> Riding, and multiplications of names always please. & though I was >> also at the Home & Away conference, Michael, I didn't hear the >> Pound,
>> maybe had different earphones in my head hearing different >> translations. Or perhaps you mean the 2nd conference you then went
>> to:
>> were they really Pounding, there? Makes one worry even more about
>> the >> Australian leadership vacuum. Fondly, Lisa
>>
>> On Tue, Sep 7, 2010 at 12:18 PM, michael farrell
>> <[redacted]> wrote:
>>
>>> wonderful ca - mina loy is the - as is moore - not forgetting
>>>
>> gertrude stein -
>>
>>> i like the singular the - especially when every1 disagrees
>>>
>>> i was at a poetry festival in sydney on the weekend - almost every
>>>
>> panel mentioned pound - i was surprised that hed become the (there)
>>
>>>
>>>> Date: Sun, 5 Sep 2010 21:54:23 -0400
>>>> From: [redacted]
>>>> Subject: your MINA LOY PORTAL
>>>> To: [redacted]
>>>>
>>>> the "your MINA LOY PORTAL" is finished
>>>> http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com/
>>>>
>>>> and I would like to dedicate this to a man (okay, I'll NOT
>>>>
>> embarrass
>>
>>>> him and not mention his name) who recently said to me, "MARIANNE
>>>>
>> MOORE
>>

>>>> WAS THE MODERNIST WOMAN POET!" when I mentioned how much Mina
>>>>
>> Loy's
>>
>>>> poems mean to my life, and then I said in response to him, "Ah,
>>>>
>> well,
>>
>>>> I didn't realize there should only be one. But yet you mention
>>>>
>> ALL
>>
>>>> THESE MEN!" HAHAHA! To YOU, sir, and YOU know exactly who you
>>>>
>> are.
>>
>>>> Hope you're learning shame.
>>>>
>>>> but for the love of Mina!
>>>> the splendor of all that is Mina!
>>>>
>>>>
>>>>
>>>>
>>>>
>>>>
>>>>
>>>>
>>>>
>>>>
>>>> --
>>>> PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com
>>>>
>>>> THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com
>>>>
>>>>
>>
>>>
>>
>>
>>

>>
>
>

↑ Index

64. Mark Weiss

blog note

Thu 9 Sep 2010

Jerry Rothenberg has posted three poems and a chunk of my afterword from my new book As Landscape (Chax Press) at http://poemsandpoetics.blogspot.com/2010/09/mark-weiss-3-poems-excerpt-from.html.

Best,

Mark

New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape. $16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm

"What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the poet alive in every sense of the word, and through every one of his senses. Instead of missing a beat or a part, Weiss' fragments are like Chekhov's short storiesthe more that gets left out, the more they seem to contain… One can hear echoes from all the various ancestors...[but] the voice, at its center, its core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment is both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure musical threnody…[it] opens a window, not only into a mind, but a person, a personality, this human figure at the emotional center of the poem."

M.G. Stephens, in Jacket. http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml

↑ Index

65. Paul Nelson
Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
Thu 9 Sep 2010

Niedecker lived in Wisconsin, but hey, when you've seen one "fly-over state" you've seen them all.

Agreed, she is fabulous.

Paul "Illinois-Native" Nelson

Paul E. Nelson

SPLAB!
C. City, WA
[redacted]

_____
From: Mary Kasimor <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Tue, September 7, 2010 8:23:48 AM
Subject: Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL

In my opinion, Niedecker is amazing. She toiled away in the backwoods of Michigan. I love her poetry. I also find Loy and Stein fascinating. But there is something heroic about Niedecker...

Mary Kasimor

From: Mark DuCharme <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
To: [redacted]
Date: Monday, September 6, 2010, 8:16 PM

Loy, Stein, HD, Niedecker and (Riding) Jackson are all AT LEAST comparably deserving as Moore. Personally, of these, my favorites are Stein, Niedecker & Loy.

Thanks for doing this, Conrad. I hope that man truly is shamedâ€” or better still, enlightened. But if I had to guess, without knowing him (and presuming that I don't), I wouldn't say it was likely....

Cheers,

Mark DuCharme

> Date: Sun, 5 Sep 2010 21:54:23 -0400
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: your MINA LOY PORTAL
> To: [redacted]

>
> ---------- Information from the mail header

> Sender: "Poetics List (UPenn, UB)" <[redacted]>
> Poster: CA Conrad <[redacted]>
> Subject: your MINA LOY PORTAL
>

>
> the "your MINA LOY PORTAL" is finished
> http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com/
>
> and I would like to dedicate this to a man (okay, I'll NOT embarrass > him and not mention his name) who recently said to me, "MARIANNE
MOORE
> WAS THE MODERNIST WOMAN POET!" when I mentioned how much Mina
Loy's
> poems mean to my life, and then I said in response to him, "Ah, well,
> I didn't realize there should only be one. But yet you mention ALL > THESE MEN!" HAHAHA! To YOU, sir, and YOU know exactly who you are.
> Hope you're learning shame.
>
> but for the love of Mina!
> the splendor of all that is Mina!
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> --
> PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com
>
> THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com
>

↑ Index

66. Sarah Fox
Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
Thu 9 Sep 2010

Actually Niedecker toiled away (as a hospital janitor at times even) in the boggy wetlands of Black Hawk Island off Lake Koshkonong in Fort Atkinson, WI. But yes, she's splendid indeed. Condensarist.

I LOVE THE MINA LOY HEART PORTAL!!! Thanks Conrad!!!

Sarah

On Tue, Sep 7, 2010 at 5:51 PM, [redacted] <[redacted]>wrote:

> Hi Lisa,
>
> It was at the second event. However, the names of Stein and Niedecker (and many > others) were also brought up - I referred to all three in varying contexts. My > reference to Pound was shading to negative, a noting regarding Chinese poetry. It > would have been foolish for me not to note that historical case. And Pound's name > was used with some very negative connotations as well. But, yes, the name was there.
>
> We seem to have a government here as of today (it seems to have become a > 'paradigm' rather than a 'government'). Whether we have any leaders is a > fair point.
>
> And thanks, CA, for the portal. Fabulous.
>
> Cheers,
> Jill
>
> _____
> Jill Jones
>
> www.jilljones.com.au
>
> On Tue Sep 7 10:47 , Lisa Samuels sent:
>
> Yes, wonderful language & loving reproach, CA. Not forgetting Laura > Riding, and multiplications of names always please. & though I was also at the Home & Away conference, Michael, I didn't hear the Pound, maybe had different earphones in my head hearing different translations. Or perhaps you mean the 2nd conference you then went to: were they really Pounding, there? Makes one worry even more about the Australian leadership vacuum. Fondly, Lisa

On Tue, Sep 7, 2010 at 12:18 PM, michael farrell [redacted]>
wrote:
wonderful ca - mina loy is the - as is moore - not forgetting gertrude stein -

i like the singular the - especially when every1 disagrees

i was at a poetry festival in sydney on the weekend - almost every panel mentioned pound - i was surprised that hed become the (there)

Date: Sun, 5 Sep 2010 21:54:23 -0400
From: [redacted]
Subject: your MINA LOY PORTAL
To: [redacted]

the "your MINA LOY PORTAL" is finished
http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com/

and I would like to dedicate this to a man (okay, I'll NOT embarrass him and not mention his name) who recently said to me, "MARIANNE MOORE WAS THE MODERNIST WOMAN POET!" when I mentioned how much Mina Loy's poems mean to my life, and then I said in response to him, "Ah, well, I didn't realize there should only be one. But yet you mention ALL THESE MEN!" HAHAHA! To YOU, sir, and YOU know exactly who you are. Hope you're learning shame.

but for the love of Mina!
the splendor of all that is Mina!

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

> THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com
>
> guidelines &
>
> guidelines &
>
> guidelines &

↑ Index

67. Nicholas Karavatos
...at DG Wills Books in La Jolla, CA on 9/11/10...
Thu 9 Sep 2010

Reading & Book-Signing with NICHOLAS KARAVATOS in La Jolla, CA

D.G. Wills Books
7461 Girard Ave.
La Jolla, CA

Saturday, September 11th
7pm

NICHOLAS KARAVATOS is included in the anthology Punk Rock Saved My Ass (Ukiah: Medusa's Muse, 2010) and the latest issue of West Wind Review (Ashland: University of Southern Oregon, 2010). In December 2009, Amendment Nine (Arcata) published his first book No Asylum http://www.amazon.com/dp/0984280006/ref=cm_sw_su_dp

David Meltzer writes: "Nicholas Karavatos is a poet of great range and clarity. This book is an amazing collectanea of smart sharp political poetry in tandem with astute and tender love lyrics. All of it voiced with an impressive singularity."

NICHOLAS KARAVATOS lives near Dubai, teaching literature and writing at the American University of Sharjah in the United Arab Emirates. He has been an Assistant Professor there since 2006. From 2001 he had taught general studies at a small private college in Muscat, Sultanate of Oman.

NICHOLAS KARAVATOS is a graduate of Humboldt State University where he earned his B.A. in English with a minor in Art History (1986), and of New College of California where he earned an M.F.A. in Poetics (1999).

Audio Links:

http://www.archive.org/details/NicholasKaravatos-2009December2-ArcataTheaterLoungeCalifornia http://www.archive.org/details/NicholasKaravatos1992September20NorthCountryFairArcataPlaza http://www.archive.org/details/NicholasKaravatos-200818-AccidentGalleryInEurekaCa http://nicholaskaravatos.tumblr.com/

Info Links:

http://www.dgwillsbooks.com/
http://www.facebook.com/pages/Nicholas-Karavatos/253191112780
http://nicholaskaravatos.blogspot.com/

NO ASYLUM is available from these independent booksellers:

Arcata, CA – Northtown Books
La Jolla, CA – D.G. Wills Books
Olympia, WA - Last Word Books
Portland, OR – Powell's Books
Salem, OR – Tigress Books
San Francisco, CA – Bird & Beckett
San Francisco, CA – Books & Bookshelves
Venice, CA – Beyond Baroque

Nicholas Karavatos
Dept of Language & Literature
American University of Sharjah
PO Box 26666
Sharjah
United Arab Emirates

↑ Index

68. Chad Sweeney
Review of the Lost Notebooks at Bookslut
Thu 9 Sep 2010

New review of the Lost Notebooks of Juan Sweeney de las Minas de Cobre (Forklift Books) at Bookslut.

Thanks to Elizabeth Hildreth . . .
http://www.bookslut.com/poetry/2010_09_016577.php

Salud,
Chad

↑ Index

69. Christopher Leland Winks
Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
Thu 9 Sep 2010

Supposedly, Myrna Loy (nee Williams) was inspired by a "wild Russian writer of free verse" to change her surname to match Mina (nee Lowy)'s.

The story is in Carolyn Burke's biography of Mina, "Mina Loy: Becoming Modern."

Now where is the long-promised reissue of her long poem "Anglo-Mongrels and the Rose" and her memoir of Arthur Cravan, "Colossus"?

----- Original Message -----
From: Maria Damon <[redacted]>
Date: Thursday, September 9, 2010 2:48 pm
Subject: Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
To: [redacted]

> i think i'll be giving a talk in which i pretend i think myrna loy is
>
> mina loy...
>
> steve dalachinsky wrote:
> > how bout myrna loy??
> >
> >
> > On Tue, 7 Sep 2010 12:47:03 +1200 Lisa Samuels <[redacted]>
> > writes:
> >
> >> Yes, wonderful language & loving reproach, CA. Not forgetting Laura > >> Riding, and multiplications of names always please. & though I was > >> also at the Home & Away conference, Michael, I didn't hear the > >> Pound,
> >> maybe had different earphones in my head hearing different > >> translations. Or perhaps you mean the 2nd conference you then went
>
> >> to:
> >> were they really Pounding, there? Makes one worry even more about
>
> >> the > >> Australian leadership vacuum. Fondly, Lisa
> >>
> >> On Tue, Sep 7, 2010 at 12:18 PM, michael farrell
> >> <[redacted]> wrote:
> >>
> >>> wonderful ca - mina loy is the - as is moore - not forgetting
> >>>
> >> gertrude stein -

> >>
> >>> i like the singular the - especially when every1 disagrees
> >>>
> >>> i was at a poetry festival in sydney on the weekend - almost every
> >>>
> >> panel mentioned pound - i was surprised that hed become the (there)
> >>
> >>>
> >>>> Date: Sun, 5 Sep 2010 21:54:23 -0400
> >>>> From: [redacted]
> >>>> Subject: your MINA LOY PORTAL
> >>>> To: [redacted]
> >>>>
> >>>> the "your MINA LOY PORTAL" is finished
> >>>> http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com/
> >>>>
> >>>> and I would like to dedicate this to a man (okay, I'll NOT
> >>>>
> >> embarrass
> >>
> >>>> him and not mention his name) who recently said to me, "MARIANNE

> >>>>
> >> MOORE
> >>
> >>>> WAS THE MODERNIST WOMAN POET!" when I mentioned how much Mina
> >>>>
> >> Loy's
> >>
> >>>> poems mean to my life, and then I said in response to him, "Ah,

> >>>>
> >> well,
> >>
> >>>> I didn't realize there should only be one. But yet you mention

> >>>>
> >> ALL
> >>
> >>>> THESE MEN!" HAHAHA! To YOU, sir, and YOU know exactly who you

> >>>>
> >> are.
> >>
> >>>> Hope you're learning shame.
> >>>>

> >>>> but for the love of Mina!
> >>>> the splendor of all that is Mina!
> >>>>
> >>>>
> >>>>
> >>>>
> >>>>
> >>>>
> >>>>
> >>>>
> >>>>
> >>>>
> >>>> --
> >>>> PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com
> >>>>
> >>>> THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com
> >>>>
> >>>> ==========
>
> >>>>
> >>
> >>> ==========
>
> >>>
> >>
> >> ==========
> >>
> >>
> >>
> >
> > ==========
> >

↑ Index

70. Stephen Vincent

John Norton's new book!

Thu 9 Sep 2010

John Norton, my friend and John Norton, my friend and poet and one of the best kept secrets of San Francisco has just sent me the Press Release for his new book. I and Beverly Dahlen (who writes the blurb) think it's really good and I am more than happy to share the release:

Air Transmigra

A New Book of Poetry by John Norton

Ithuriel SpearÂ Â Â Â
www.ithuriel.com

In 1990, Norton received the American Book Award for The Light at the End of the Bog, his first book. John Norton now gives us a seminal new book in which comedy, sardonic delight, and compassion play out within an intense variety of personal, family, community and corporate terrains. In the title poem, Air Transmigra, the pilot announces to his passengers:

Â â€¦

this is your Captain return your mind

to its locked upright position

make sure the heart is securely fastened

check the overhead for personal obsessions

their content will shift during flightâ€¦

Â

we are going down

do not be alarmed

this is normal procedureâ€¦

Â

It's quickly not clear whether we are listening to a crazed pilot or to the voice of a demonic god.Â Whether or not we as readers are kidnapped to become joint victims in an eventual crash, Norton provides us with a comic and insightful vision into a collective fall from grace!

Â

The volumeâ€™s tightly constructed poems rivet the eye and ear in ways that keep us close to the edge of an Everyman's migration through a world where the ecstatic, implosive and hellish are close companions. And the poems deliver with the wakeup call carried on a clean sharp cut of a winterâ€™s wind.

Â

A native of Boston, Norton pursued studies in English at Boston College, the University of Pennsylvania, and taught at the University of California Riverside. In 1974, on moving to San Francisco he joined Robert Gluck's writing workshop whose members included the now well-known poets and writers Dodie Bellamy, Kevin Killian and Camille Megan Adams.

Â

Pages: 92

ISBN 978-0-9793390-6-6

Â

Available through Amazon and Small Press Distribution.

Â

Price:Â USAÂ $15, CANÂ
$17, UKÂ Â£10, EUROÂ â,¬12

↑ Index

71. Poetry Project

Upcoming Events at The Poetry Project

Thu 9 Sep 2010

Why hi,

We are back for season 45 (--45!), officially re-perched below the steeple at St. Mark¹s & ready to go. The first brought-to-you-by-The-Poetry-Project-event will happen Wednesday September 22 (look below), but until then The Poetry Project will be participating in two events -- one sponsored by St. Mark¹s Church (Sept 12) & the other by the HOWL! Festival (Sept 16). Details for those events are also listed below, or you can look at them on our Project Blog too http://poetryproject.org/project-blog. Seeing you soon!

Love,

The Poetry Project

WEDNESDAY SEPTEMBER 22 / 8PM
Peter Orlovsky Memorial Reading

Poet, singer, farmer, yodeler, banjo-picker, Buddhist-practitioner, Allen Ginsberg¹s lifelong-companion, Kerouac¹s Simon Darlovsky in Desolation

Angels & George in The Dharma Bums, the generous & wonderfully whimsical Peter Orlovsky, (July 8, 1933 May 30, 2010), was an unforgettable & hugely colorful presence in the East Village, and in and around the Poetry Project. Please join us in a night of music, video, song and poetry, as some of his closest friends pay tribute to him including: Chuck Lief, Philip Glass, Ed Sanders, Steven Taylor, Hal Willner, Janine Pommy Vega, Andy Clausen, Patti Smith, Anne Waldman, Gordon Ball, Rosebud Pettet, Simon Pettet, Bill Morgan, Anselm Berrigan, and John Godfrey. This event will take place in the Sanctuary. Admission is FREE.

SUNDAY SEPTEMBER 12 / 2PM 4PM
An Afternoon with the Arts Projects of St. Mark¹s

Please join The Poetry Project along with Danspace, Incubator Arts Project and St. Mark¹s Church-in-the-Bowery for a ³season launch² event on Sunday, September 12 from 2-4pm. Poets Kimberly Lyons and Douglas Piccinnini will give short readings. You can also meet some members of the Poetry Project¹s new artistic support staff and Board of Directors.

THURSDAY SEPTEMBER 16 / 8PM
The 3rd Poetry Turn On for HOWL!

Poetry Turn On!
Thursday Sept 16, 2010
St. Marks Church in the Bowery
131 E 10th St
8PM-10PM

$8 general admission For advance tickets / http://www.brownpapertickets.com/event/124975 For more info check out HOWL! Festival¹s site / http://www.howlfestival.com/ presented by HOWL ! ARTS Project 2010 to benefit THE ACTORS FUND HOWL ! H.E.L.P. Fund !

Poets Thomas Fucaloro, Meghann Plunkett, Jon Sands, Jeanann Verlee, Michael Warr of The Bowery Poetry Club, poets Steve Cannon, Steve Dalachinsky, Amy Ouzoonian, Susan Scutti, Chavisa Woods, RA (R!)Araya of A Gathering of the Tribes, poets Daniel Gallant, Vanessa Hidary, Mariposa, Advocate of Wordz of Nuyorican Poets Cafe, poets Bridgette Wimberly, Melanie Hope, Metta Sama of Cave Canem and poets Julian Brolaski, Joanna Fuhrman, Paolo Javier, Dorothea Lasky of The Poetry Project come together one night only to share their poems with you ! Hosted by Nathaniel Siegel.

Cash only tickets available at the door the evening of the performance.

Become a Poetry Project Member! http://poetryproject.org/become-a-member

Calendar http://www.poetryproject.org/program-calendar

The Poetry Project is located at St. Mark's Church-in-the-Bowery
131 East 10th Street (at 2nd Avenue)
New York, NY 10003

Trains: 6, F, N, R, and L.
[redacted]
www.poetryproject.org

Admission is $8 / $7 for students & seniors / $5 for members (though now those who take out a membership at $95 or higher will get in FREE to all regular readings).

We are wheelchair accessible with assistance & advance notice. For more info call [redacted].

If you¹d like to be unsubscribed from this mailing list, please drop a line at [redacted].

↑ Index

72. Mark DuCharme
Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
Thu 9 Sep 2010

Don't you mean Wisconsin?

> Date: Tue, 7 Sep 2010 08:23:48 -0700
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
> To: [redacted]
>
> ---------- Information from the mail header ----------
> Sender: "Poetics List (UPenn, UB)" <[redacted]>
> Poster: Mary Kasimor <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
> ---
>
> In my opinion, Niedecker is amazing. She toiled away in the backwoods of Mi= > chigan. I love her poetry. I also find Loy and Stein fascinating. But there= > is something heroic about Niedecker...
> =C2=A0
> Mary Kasimor
> =C2=A0
> From: Mark DuCharme <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Monday, September 6, 2010, 8:16 PM

Loy, Stein, HD, Niedecker and (Riding) Jackson are all AT LEAST comparably = deserving as Moore.=C2=A0 Personally, of these, my favorites are Stein, Nie=
decker & Loy.=20

Thanks for doing this, Conrad.=C2=A0 I hope that man truly is shamed=E2=80=
=94 or better still, enlightened.=C2=A0 But if I had to guess, without know= ing him (and presuming that I don't), I wouldn't say it was likely....

Cheers,

Mark DuCharme

Date: Sun, 5 Sep 2010 21:54:23 -0400
From: [redacted]
Subject: your MINA LOY PORTAL
To: [redacted]
=20
---------- Information from the mail header ----------=

Sender:=C2=A0 =C2=A0 =C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0"Poetics List (UPenn, UB)"
<POETIC=
[redacted]>
Poster:=C2=A0 =C2=A0 =C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0CA Conrad <[redacted]>
Subject:=C2=A0 =C2=A0 =C2=A0 your MINA LOY PORTAL
----------=

=20
the "your MINA LOY PORTAL" is finished
http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com/=20
and I would like to dedicate this to a man (okay, I'll NOT embarrass him and not mention his name) who recently said to me, "MARIANNE MOORE
WAS THE MODERNIST WOMAN POET!"=C2=A0 when I mentioned how much Mina Loy's
poems mean to my life, and then I said in response to him, "Ah, well,
I didn't realize there should only be one.=C2=A0 But yet you mention ALL THESE MEN!"=C2=A0 HAHAHA!=C2=A0 To YOU, sir, and YOU know exactly who you=
are.
Hope you're learning shame.
=20
but for the love of Mina!
the splendor of all that is Mina!
=20 =20

> =20 > =20 > =20 > =20 > =20 > =20 > =20 > =20
> --=20
> PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com
> =20
> THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com
> =20
> *=3D=3D=3D

Dear Steve, hi,
See my poem from 1996 'Not Myrna, Mina' in my books '50-50' (Little Esther Books, 1997)
and/or 'Dear Deliria' (Salt Publishing, 2002)

Also, for general interest, an interview I made with Mina Loy's biographer Carolyn Burke here -
http://jacketmagazine.com/05/mina-iv.html

and

Dear Michael & Lisa,
I missed the Pound thing at the Trans Tasman Symposium too.
Sure you weren't dreaming, up there in the horizontal aisle Michael?

All the best,
Pam

--

_____

blog : http://thedeletions.blogspot.com
website : http://pambrownbooks.blogspot.com/
associate editor : http://jacketmagazine.com/

& continuing with Jacket2 in 2011

_____

↑ Index

75. Jared Schickling

Re: The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is Disturb the Universe: The Collected Essays of Adam Fieled by Adam Fieled

Fri 10 Sep 2010

---

for Adam Fieled

DEFENSE of the I DEAL FORM

I considered that a poet must compose fiction to be a poet, not true tales, and I was no fiction-monger, if that is true teaching, then this its own lock, keeping how it keeps, whose key wants who or what sustains it as whom, or what, is sustained, key and lock, or as the poets are forever dinning into our ears, do we hear nothing and see nothing exactly we were adults good god, if you must write of childhood, be sure it's only due your adulthood, as childhood traumas, like life recollected, knows best. And while we are alive, we shall be nearest to knowing as it seems if as far as possible we had no commerce or communion with the body whose first person was impossible to get beyond, wherefore one avoids the 1st person.

"unknown unknowns" : National Intelligence by their imagining of nothing in particular they must cease from imagining to feel the human part everything they didn't possessed not the torpor, vacancy a flying dream the mouth makes with it

↑ Index

76. Cara Benson
Leslie Scalapino Tribute: Day 4 of 4
Fri 10 Sep 2010

Leslie Scalapino Tribute: Day 4 of 4

Â
Â
Eileen Myles
"from a conversation with Stacy Szymaszek"
Â
Â
Judith Roitman
"No Self"
Â
Â
Brenda Iijima
"Leslie's books are survival pods"
Â
Â
Rodrigo Toscano
"Simultaneous Multi-Local Mass-Body Rhythm in way"
Â
Â
Dana Teen Lomax
"'the difficulty' (the necessity)"

Â
Â
Leslie Scalapino
"Eco-Logic in Writing"
Â
* * * * * *
Â
Â
A TRIBUTE TO LESLIE SCALAPINOÂ 1944â€“2010Â DAY FOUR OF FOUR
Â
Â
Julian T. Brolaski | Laura Elrick | E. Tracy Grinnell
Brenda Iijima | Elizabeth James | Dana Teen Lomax | Eileen Myles
Frances Presley | Stephen Ratcliffe | Judith Roitman | Sarah Rosenthal
Â Leslie Scalapino | Adam Strauss | Rodrigo Toscano
Â
Â
+ more...
Â
* * * * * *
Â
edited by Cara Benson + Elizabeth Bryant + Catherine Wagner
Â
Delirious Hem
http://delirioushem.blogspot.com

↑ Index

77. amy king
Dunno. I don't do POP
Fri 10 Sep 2010

But I made an effort - could use some work, but here's

Violent Blossoming Cities Ask How to Hear the Song
http://gagajournal.blogspot.com/2010/09/violent-blossoming-cities-ask-how-to.html

They're still seeking work there too....

Enjoyish,

Amy

****
Now That's WAC
+ http://wearechampion.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-king.html

Amy's Alias
+ http://amyking.org/
****

↑ Index

78. Maria Damon
Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
Fri 10 Sep 2010

---

hey i can use that! thanks, Chris Winks.

Christopher Leland Winks wrote:
> Supposedly, Myrna Loy (nee Williams) was inspired by a "wild Russian writer of free verse" to change her surname to match Mina (nee Lowy)'s.
>
> The story is in Carolyn Burke's biography of Mina, "Mina Loy: Becoming Modern."
>
> Now where is the long-promised reissue of her long poem "Anglo-Mongrels and the Rose" and her memoir of Arthur Cravan, "Colossus"?
>
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Maria Damon <[redacted]>
> Date: Thursday, September 9, 2010 2:48 pm
> Subject: Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
> To: [redacted]
>
>
>
>> i think i'll be giving a talk in which i pretend i think myrna loy is
>>
>> mina loy...
>>
>> steve dalachinsky wrote:
>> > how bout myrna loy??
>> >
>> >
>> > On Tue, 7 Sep 2010 12:47:03 +1200 Lisa Samuels <[redacted]>

>> > writes:
>> >
>> >> Yes, wonderful language & loving reproach, CA. Not forgetting Laura >> >> Riding, and multiplications of names always please. & though I was >> >> also at the Home & Away conference, Michael, I didn't hear the >> >> Pound,
>> >> maybe had different earphones in my head hearing different >> >> translations. Or perhaps you mean the 2nd conference you then went
>>
>> >> to:
>> >> were they really Pounding, there? Makes one worry even more about
>>
>> >> the >> >> Australian leadership vacuum. Fondly, Lisa
>> >>
>> >> On Tue, Sep 7, 2010 at 12:18 PM, michael farrell
>> >> <[redacted]> wrote:
>> >>
>> >>> wonderful ca - mina loy is the - as is moore - not forgetting
>> >>>
>> >> gertrude stein -
>> >>
>> >>> i like the singular the - especially when every1 disagrees
>> >>>
>> >>> i was at a poetry festival in sydney on the weekend - almost >> every
>> >>>
>> >> panel mentioned pound - i was surprised that hed become the (there)
>> >>
>> >>>
>> >>>> Date: Sun, 5 Sep 2010 21:54:23 -0400
>> >>>> From: [redacted]
>> >>>> Subject: your MINA LOY PORTAL
>> >>>> To: [redacted]
>> >>>>
>> >>>> the "your MINA LOY PORTAL" is finished
>> >>>> http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com/
>> >>>>
>> >>>> and I would like to dedicate this to a man (okay, I'll NOT
>> >>>>
>> >> embarrass
>> >>

>> >>>> him and not mention his name) who recently said to me, "MARIANNE
>>
>> >>>>
>> >> MOORE
>> >>
>> >>>> WAS THE MODERNIST WOMAN POET!" when I mentioned how much Mina
>> >>>>
>> >> Loy's
>> >>
>> >>>> poems mean to my life, and then I said in response to him, "Ah,
>>
>> >>>>
>> >> well,
>> >>
>> >>>> I didn't realize there should only be one. But yet you mention
>>
>> >>>>
>> >> ALL
>> >>
>> >>>> THESE MEN!" HAHAHA! To YOU, sir, and YOU know exactly who you
>>
>> >>>>
>> >> are.
>> >>
>> >>>> Hope you're learning shame.
>> >>>>
>> >>>> but for the love of Mina!
>> >>>> the splendor of all that is Mina!
>> >>>>
>> >>>>
>> >>>>
>> >>>>
>> >>>>
>> >>>>
>> >>>>
>> >>>>
>> >>>>
>> >>>>
>> >>>>
>> >>>> --

>> >>>> PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com
>> >>>>
>> >>>> THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com
>> >>>>
>> >>>> ==========
>>
>> >>>>
>> >>
>> >>> ==========
>>
>> >>>
>> >>
>> >> ==========
>> >>
>> >>
>> >>
>> >
>> > ==========
>> >
>>
>>
>>
>
>

↑ Index

79. Mary Kasimor

Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL

Fri 10 Sep 2010

I live in the middle of nowhere in the heart of Minnesota. (Minnesota is a beautiful state--Minneapolis,St. Paul, and Duluth are great, but I don't live in any of those places.)
Â Ha!
Â
Mary Kasimor
--- On Thu, 9/9/10, Paul Nelson <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Paul Nelson <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
To: [redacted]
Date: Thursday, September 9, 2010, 2:01 PM

Niedecker lived in Wisconsin, but hey, when you've seen one "fly-over state" you've seen them all.

Agreed, she is fabulous.

Paul "Illinois-Native" Nelson

Paul E. Nelson

SPLAB!
C. City, WA
[redacted]

_____
From: Mary Kasimor <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Tue, September 7, 2010 8:23:48 AM
Subject: Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL

In my opinion, Niedecker is amazing. She toiled away in the backwoods of Michigan. I love her poetry. I also find Loy and Stein fascinating. But there is something heroic about Niedecker...

Mary Kasimor

From: Mark DuCharme <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
To: [redacted]
Date: Monday, September 6, 2010, 8:16 PM

Loy, Stein, HD, Niedecker and (Riding) Jackson are all AT LEAST comparably deserving as Moore.Â Personally, of these, my favorites are Stein, Niedecker & Loy.

Thanks for doing this, Conrad.Â I hope that man truly is shamedâ€” or better still, enlightened.Â But if I had to guess, without knowing him (and presuming that I don't), I wouldn't say it was likely....

Cheers,

Mark DuCharme

> Date: Sun, 5 Sep 2010 21:54:23 -0400
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: your MINA LOY PORTAL
> To: [redacted]
>
> ---------- Information from the mail header

> Sender:Â Â Â Â Â "Poetics List (UPenn, UB)" <[redacted]>

> Poster:Â Â Â Â Â CA Conrad <[redacted]>
> Subject:Â Â Â your MINA LOY PORTAL
>

>
> the "your MINA LOY PORTAL" is finished
> http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com/
>
> and I would like to dedicate this to a man (okay, I'll NOT embarrass > him and not mention his name) who recently said to me, "MARIANNE MOORE > WAS THE MODERNIST WOMAN POET!"Â when I mentioned how much Mina Loy's > poems mean to my life, and then I said in response to him, "Ah, well,
> I didn't realize there should only be one.Â But yet you mention ALL > THESE MEN!"Â HAHAHA!Â To YOU, sir, and YOU know exactly who you are.
> Hope you're learning shame.
>
> but for the love of Mina!
> the splendor of all that is Mina!
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> --
> PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com
>
> THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com
>
Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â

↑ Index

80. Mary Kasimor
Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
Fri 10 Sep 2010

That makes it even better.

--- On Thu, 9/9/10, Mark DuCharme <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Mark DuCharme <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
To: [redacted]
Date: Thursday, September 9, 2010, 4:55 PM

Don't you mean Wisconsin?

> Date: Tue, 7 Sep 2010 08:23:48 -0700
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
> To: [redacted]
>
> ---------- Information from the mail header ----------
> Sender: "Poetics List (UPenn, UB)" <[redacted]>
> Poster: Mary Kasimor <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
> ---
>
> In my opinion, Niedecker is amazing. She toiled away in the backwoods of Mi= > chigan. I love her poetry. I also find Loy and Stein fascinating. But there= > is something heroic about Niedecker...
> =C2=A0
> Mary Kasimor
> =C2=A0
> From: Mark DuCharme <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Monday, September 6, 2010, 8:16 PM
>
> Loy, Stein, HD, Niedecker and (Riding) Jackson are all AT LEAST comparably = > deserving as Moore.=C2=A0 Personally, of these, my favorites are Stein, Nie=
> decker & Loy.=20
>
> Thanks for doing this, Conrad.=C2=A0 I hope that man truly is shamed=E2=80=
> =94 or better still, enlightened.=C2=A0 But if I had to guess, without know= > ing him (and presuming that I don't), I wouldn't say it was likely....
>
> Cheers,

Mark DuCharme

Date: Sun, 5 Sep 2010 21:54:23 -0400
From: [redacted]
Subject: your MINA LOY PORTAL
To: [redacted]
=20
---------- Information from the mail header ----------=

Sender:=C2=A0 =C2=A0 =C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0"Poetics List (UPenn, UB)"
<POETIC=
[redacted]>
Poster:=C2=A0 =C2=A0 =C2=A0=C2=A0=C2=A0CA Conrad <[redacted]>
Subject:=C2=A0 =C2=A0 =C2=A0 your MINA LOY PORTAL
----------=

=20
the "your MINA LOY PORTAL" is finished
http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com/=20
and I would like to dedicate this to a man (okay, I'll NOT embarrass him and not mention his name) who recently said to me, "MARIANNE MOORE
WAS THE MODERNIST WOMAN POET!"=C2=A0 when I mentioned how much Mina Loy's
poems mean to my life, and then I said in response to him, "Ah, well,
I didn't realize there should only be one.=C2=A0 But yet you mention ALL THESE MEN!"=C2=A0 HAHAHA!=C2=A0 To YOU, sir, and YOU know exactly who you=
are.
Hope you're learning shame.
=20
but for the love of Mina!
the splendor of all that is Mina!
=20 =20 =20 =20 =20 =20 =20 =20 =20 =20 --=20
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com
=20

> THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com
> =20
> *=3D=3D=3D

derek beaulieu
2 - 733 2nd avenue nw
calgary alberta
canada T2N 0E4
[redacted]
http://derekbeaulieu.wordpress.com/

↑ Index

82. michael farrell

Re: Not Myrna, Mina

Fri 10 Sep 2010

---

pam / lisa - no, pound didnt say make it new zealand, but make it new south wales, apparently someone had to be the most mentioned poet .. galway kinnell was in the running for the silver .. i was just mildly surprised, but then as we have no literary pages, how wd we know what other people are reading, thinking about etc

i didnt get any sleep the whole festival - during sessions i mean

> Date: Fri, 10 Sep 2010 14:37:16 +1000
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Not Myrna, Mina
> To: [redacted]
>
> Date: Tue, 7 Sep 2010 12:59:02 +0530
> From: steve dalachinsky <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: your MINA LOY PORTAL
>
> how bout myrna loy??
>
> ---
>
> Dear Steve, hi,
> See my poem from 1996 'Not Myrna, Mina' in my books '50-50' (Little Esther Books, 1997)
> and/or 'Dear Deliria' (Salt Publishing, 2002)
>
> Also, for general interest, an interview I made with Mina Loy's biographer Carolyn Burke here -
> http://jacketmagazine.com/05/mina-iv.html
>
> and
>
> Dear Michael & Lisa,
> I missed the Pound thing at the Trans Tasman Symposium too.

> Sure you weren't dreaming, up there in the horizontal aisle Michael?
>
> All the best,
> Pam
>
> --
>
> _____
>
> blog : http://thedeletions.blogspot.com
> website : http://pambrownbooks.blogspot.com/
> associate editor : http://jacketmagazine.com/
>
> & continuing with Jacket2 in 2011
>
> _____

↑ Index

83. Sarah Sarai

Re: 9/11 in pictures & words

Sat 11 Sep 2010

I clicked, dreading. No need. Some of the best shots yet, Halvard. If you or anyone you know has photos near the Lex/25 Armory, please share. Thanks...s.

↑ Index

84. Obododimma Oha

A Gospel According to a Stolen Book

Sat 11 Sep 2010

Care to read the essay, "A Gospel According to a Stolen Book<http://x-pensiverrors.blogspot.com/2010/09/gospel-according-to-stolen-book.html>
"?
Visit:
http://x-pensiverrors.blogspot.com/2010/09/gospel-according-to-stolen-book.html

--
Obododimma Oha
http://udude.wordpress.com/

Dept. of English
University of Ibadan
Nigeria

&

Fellow, Centre for Peace & Conflict Studies
University of Ibadan

Phone: [redacted];
[redacted];
[redacted].

↑ Index

85. amy king

What Is the State of American Poetry? Leading American Poets Speak -- Anis Shivani

Sat 11 Sep 2010

Video/poem highlights from Annie Finch, Ron Silliman, Clayton Eshleman, and Danielle Pafunda

http://www.huffingtonpost.com/anis-shivani/state-of-american-poetry_b_706734.html

Best,
Amy

****
Now That's WAC
+ http://wearechampion.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-king.html

Amy's Alias
+ http://amyking.org/
****

↑ Index

86. Cara Benson

PEN Freedom to Write at Bklyn Bookfair this Sunday

Sat 11 Sep 2010

Support PEN at the Brooklyn Book Fair this weekend:
Â
PEN Freedom to Write: A 50th Anniversary Celebration Reading
When: Sunday, September 12
Where: International Stage at BrooklynÂ Book Festival, Brooklyn Heights, NYC
What time: 10 a.m.

WithCathy Park Hong, Roxana Robinson, Sarah Schulman, Vera B. Williams, and Xiaoda Xiao

Â

PENâ€™s venerable Freedom to Write Program, which has fought for and won the release of hundreds of writers imprisoned for their work around the world, turns 50 this year. Come celebrate with us at the Brooklyn Book Festival, where PEN Members and friends will take the stage to read excerpts from the works of some of the many writers PEN has assisted through the years. This reading, part of PENâ€™s international â€œBecause Writers Speak Their Mindsâ€ campaign, honors the thousands of writers around the world today who are risking their safety and security to exercise their creative freedom.

http://www.pen.org/viewmedia.php/prmMID/5260/prmID/1873

↑ Index

87. Jennifer Karmin

Sept 18: Adam Golaski & Jen Karmin in Chicago

Sat 11 Sep 2010

Saturday, September 18
7pm

Adam Golaski
Jennifer Karmin in a live improvisation with Mairead Case, Chris Cuellar, Denise Dooley, Kath Duffy & Ira S. Murfin

Myopic Bookstore
1564 N. Milwaukee Ave, 2nd floor
Chicago, Illinois
http://www.myopicbookstore.com

ADAM GOLASKI darns his daughterâ€™s socks. He wrote Color Plates (Rose Metal Press). He wrote Worse Than Myself (Raw Dog Screaming Press). He sleeps on the back of a bumble bee. He gnawed his own leg off. Adam is the co-founder of Flim Forum Press, a press he co-founded. Adam listens to Paul McCartneyâ€™s â€œCominâ€™ Upâ€ on repeat hoping the cosmos will reveal itself and it does. Little Stories is his blog. This is the combination of search terms that hypnotized Google: â€œAdam + Golaski + Little + Stories.â€

JENNIFER KARMIN's text-sound epic, Aaaaaaaaaaalice, was published by Flim Forum Press in 2010. She curates the Red Rover Series and is co-founder of the public art group Anti Gravity Surprise. Her multidisciplinary projects have been presented at festivals, artist-run spaces, community centers, and on city streets across the U.S., Japan, and Kenya. A proud member of the Dusie Kollektiv, she is the author of the Dusie chapbook Evacuated: Disembodying Katrina. Walking Poem, a collaborative street project, is featured online at How2. In Chicago,

Jennifer teaches creative writing to immigrants at Truman College and works as a Poet-in-Residence for the public schools.

↑ Index

88. Dan Godston
Aural Architecture / Chicago Calling
Sat 11 Sep 2010

Aural Architecture at WNUR

Thursday, October 7, 2010 (7:30 p.m.)

WNUR (89.3 FM)

1877 Campus Drive

Evanston, IL 60208

Aural Architecture, which is part of the Fifth Annual Chicago Calling Arts Festival and Chicago Artists Month, explores sonic properties of buildings and how natural soundscapes relate to the built environment, and includes musicians interacting with buildings' sounds. A sculptor will present a sculpture that pertains to this theme, and musicians in remote locations will perform together telematically via Skype, with contributions of audio recordings from inside and around buildings --

• Julia Miller (guitar), Jeff Carter (sculpture), Satya Gummuluri (vocals), Dan Godston (trumpet), and Anthony Poretti (drums) at WNUR;

• Berg26 at a 19th Century morgue in Berlin -- Annie Goh, Florian Goeschke, Thomas Wochnik, Anna Bäumer, Patrick Muller, Daniel Imhoff, Elen Flügge, Christof Wenta, Damian Rebgetz, and Alexander Sieber;

• Marcos Fernandes at the Yamagin Archive (Shimonoseki, Japan);

• audio recording contributions by Barry Blesser, Tony Schwartz and Jimmy Giuffre, and other TBA individuals

During the Fifth Annual Chicago Calling Arts Festival, Chicago-based artists collaborate with artists in other locations -- both here in the U.S. and abroad. These collaborations involve a range of art forms -- including music, dance, film, literature, and intermedia -- and they are prepared or improvised. Some Chicago Calling events involve live feeds between Chicago and other locations. 2010 Chicago Calling events include "Bicycles and the Arts" at Happy Dog Gallery, "Translations 2010" at the Reconstruction Room, "Seda Röder / Burton Greene - Harrison Bankhead Duo Concert" at Curtiss Hall, "Temperatures and Shapes / Arctic Live" at Elastic Sound & Vision Gallery, "I Remember Fred" at the Velvet Lounge, "Chicago Calling, Waiting for the Bus" at Café Ballou, "Two Way Tarot Mirrors” at Myopic Books, “My Favorite Banned Books Abecedarian Read-Out” at the Logan Square Library, “Aural Architecture” at WNUR, and other events.

↑ Index

89. Jim Andrews
Auntie Georgie
Sun 12 Sep 2010

It's only been over the last few years that, suddenly, just about all the folks in my family as old as my parents have all passed away. My mother and her four siblings have all died. On my father's side, only his older brother is still alive; his three sisters are dead.

My mom was the executor of her older sister Georgie's estate. And Georgie never had any kids. So mom ended up with a lot of photos and things from Georgie. Scrapbooks of at least a thousand obituaries; diaries; old cheques; divorce papers; marriage certificates; things like that.

I inherited the house from my parents, and have been going through 40 years of stuff. Mom found it hard to throw stuff out. I have to throw a lot of it out. But I was very fond of Georgie, and have tried, over the last few months, to put together something in her memory. I'm not sure how interesting it will be to people who didn't know Georgie, but she was quite remarkable, really, in several ways.

http://vispo.com/georgie takes you to 170 pictures of Georgie arranged from birth to near the time of her death.

http://vispo.com/georgie/georgie.htm takes you to something I wrote about Georgie.

I also wrote the software that displays the photos.

ja

↑ Index

90. Dan Glass
The 30 word review
Sun 12 Sep 2010

Dear all,,,

Please check out a new short-form review project I've just started.

Kicking things off with reviews of a pamphlet by Brian Ang, Joseph Atkins, Tiffany Denman and Jeanine Webb, and a Lars Palm chapbook. Updates frequently.

I'm especially interested in chapbooks, journals, and other self-published (and especially freely distributed) materials. If you have something you'd like reviewed, or want to review yrself, email me backchannel or at

[redacted]

Enjoy—

Dan

↑ Index

91. Dan Glass

Re: The 30 word review

Sun 12 Sep 2010

---

http://the30wordreview.blogspot.com/

On Sun, Sep 12, 2010 at 11:43 AM, Dan Glass <[redacted]>wrote:

> Dear all,,,
>
> Please check out a new short-form review project I've just started.
>
> Kicking things off with reviews of a pamphlet by Brian Ang, Joseph Atkins, Tiffany Denman and Jeanine Webb, and a Lars Palm chapbook. Updates frequently.
>
> I'm especially interested in chapbooks, journals, and other self-published (and especially freely distributed) materials. If you have something you'd like reviewed, or want to review yrself, email me backchannel or at
>
> [redacted]
>
> Enjoy—
>
> Dan

↑ Index

92. Pam Brown
the zounds of music - new issue of Ekleksographia
Sun 12 Sep 2010

New issue of Ekleksographia (Wave Two) guest edited by Pam Brown.
Audio files, photos, poetry and prose.

Contributors :
Chris Andrews - Anny Ballardini - Bird Lane Nettle- Ken Bolton
Pam Brown - Kurt Brereton - Kieran Carroll - Justin Clemens
CAConrad - Peter Davis - Roger Dean & Hazel Smith
Laurie Duggan - Martin Edmond - Kate Fagan - Michael Farrell
Jill Jones - Kit Kelen - Rachel Loden - Conor Madigan
Peter Minter - Jane Joritz–Nakagawa - David Prater
Maurice Scully - Amanda Stewart - Tim Wright

http://ekleksographia.ahadadabooks.com/brown/index.html

Thanks to AhaDada's Ekleksographia general editor Jesse Glass and Matthew Teutsch and Daniel Sendecki, techno editors.

--

_____

blog : http://thedeletions.blogspot.com
website : http://pambrownbooks.blogspot.com/
associate editor : http://jacketmagazine.com/

& continuing with Jacket2 in 2011

_____

↑ Index

93. Stephen Baraban
Loy and Pound
Sun 12 Sep 2010

Since we've been posting about Mina Loy, and peripherally (sp.?) about Pound's big shadow at a poetic conference, I thought someone might mention THIS moment in literary history, and since no one else has, I'll do so:

In 1921 Ezra Pound wrote to Marianne Moore: "... is there anyone in America except you, Bill [William Carlos Williams] and Mina Loy who can write anything of interest in verse?"

_____

However, Loy did not make the cut as far as the 60's poetry anthology edited by Pound and Marcella Spann, _Confucius to Cummings_ (a New Directions paperback from 1964, I suppose the hardback came out before that).

I perhaps have not seen this book at all since I was fascinated by it in the summer of 1973, having a copy out on a summer library loan. I just now checked the Table of Contents as clickable on amazon.com, and the women poets in the book are:

Sappho; Santa Teresa D'Avila; Elizabeth I; Marie-Francoise-Catherine De Beaveau, La Marquise De Boufflers; Felicia Dorothea Hemans; Elizabeth Barrett Browining; H.D.; and Marianne Moore.

Re/ Elizabeth I, and that Marquise, I'd point out that Pound and Spann have a definite bias in favor of the writings of powerful persons in this book. Among the men, we find Henry VIII, Lorenzo De' Medici, and Martin Luther [a translation of "Ein Fester Burg Ist Unser Gott"]

↑ Index

94. Murat Nemet-Nejat

Re: Auntie Georgie

Mon 13 Sep 2010

Jim,
Thank you for all these pictures. Georgie's life seems to embody Capra's vision of a good life in It's a Wonderful Life.
Ciao,
Murat

On Sun, Sep 12, 2010 at 12:39 AM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

> It's only been over the last few years that, suddenly, just about all the folks in my family as old as my parents have all passed away. My mother and her four siblings have all died. On my father's side, only his older brother > is still alive; his three sisters are dead.
>
> My mom was the executor of her older sister Georgie's estate. And Georgie never had any kids. So mom ended up with a lot of photos and things from Georgie. Scrapbooks of at least a thousand obituaries; diaries; old cheques;
> divorce papers; marriage certificates; things like that.
>
> I inherited the house from my parents, and have been going through 40 years of stuff. Mom found it hard to throw stuff out. I have to throw a lot of it out. But I was very fond of Georgie, and have tried, over the last few months, to put together something in her memory. I'm not sure how interesting it will be to people who didn't know Georgie, but she was quite > remarkable, really, in several ways.

>
> http://vispo.com/georgie takes you to 170 pictures of Georgie arranged from > birth to near the time of her death.
>
> http://vispo.com/georgie/georgie.htm takes you to something I wrote about Georgie.
>
> I also wrote the software that displays the photos.
>
> ja

↑ Index

95. Camille Martin

New @ Rogue Embryo: Samuel Greenberg's Lowly Eye

Mon 13 Sep 2010

New @ Rogue Embryo
http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

* The Lowly Eye: Samuel Greenberg’s Platonic Argument

http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com/2010/09/12/the-lowly-eye-samuel-greenbergs-platonic-argument/

Cheers!

Camille Martin

Sonnets:
http://www.shearsman.com/pages/books/catalog/2010/martin.html

Codes of Public Sleep :
http://www.spdbooks.org/Producte/9781897388112/codes-of-public-sleep.aspx

↑ Index

96. Jerome Rothenberg

Itinerary - Europe and New York - 2010

Mon 13 Sep 2010

For any who may be in the vicinity and want to be in touch, our next trip to Paris with planned side trips to the U.K. and Germany starts on September 25 and runs through October 30. For this our principal address will again be c/o Montgomery, 175 rue de Courcelles, just off Place Marechal Juin, Paris 75017, tel. 01 43 80 90 40. The best way to reach us will be via email: [redacted] or [redacted] or (for Diane, directly) [redacted], at least until we've made arrangements for a European cell phone.

The public schedule, to which other events may still be added, is:

October 10: Reading as part of Poetzone International World Poetry Festival of the DAI (Deutsch Amerikanisches Institut), Heidelberg (booking via the DAI website: http://www.dai-heidelberg.de/content/index_eng.html).

October 14, 7:00 p.m.: Reading, with Jacques Darras, at International Conference "Poets and Publishers Circulating Avant-Garde Poetry (1945-2010)," Université du Maine in Le Mans.

October 19, 6:00 p.m.: Reading with Allen Fisher and Maggie O'Sullivan, plus a group reading for Poems for the Millennium, volume 3, with Jeffrey Robinson and others, at The other Room, International Anthony Burgess Foundation, Manchester, U.K.

October 20, 7:30 p.m.: Reading, Rose Theater, Edge Hill University, Liverpool, U.K.

October 21, 7:00 p.m.: Group reading for Poems for the Millennium, volume 3, with Jeffrey Robinson, Tom Leonard, Aonghas Macneicail, Peter Manson, others, at Center for Contemporary Arts, Glasgow.

October 26, 7:00 p.m.: Reading, with Kazim Ali, for Poets Live at The Highlander Pub, 8 rue de Nevers, Metro Pont Neuf or Odéon, Paris.

Thereafter, from October 30 to November 6, we'll be spending the week in New York, and I'll be reading and talking on "Experimental Romanticism & the Roots of Contemporary Poetics" in the Passwords series at Poets House, November 5 at 7:00 p.m.

Return date to San Diego is November 6, after which we'll relax at home until the next trip comes up.

Jerome Rothenberg
1026 San Abella
Encinitas, CA 92024
[redacted]
[redacted]
http://writing.upenn.edu/epc/authors/rothenberg/
ethnopoetics web site: http://ubu.com/ethno/
j.r. in spanish: http://writing.upenn.edu/epc/authors/rothenberg/esp/
blog: poemsandpoetics.blogspot.com

Poetry must have something in it
that is barbaric, vast and wild.
-- D. Diderot

↑ Index

97. Deborah Poe

Cadmium Text Series Sept. 18: Deborah Poe, Claire Hero, Sarah Goldstein

Mon 13 Sep 2010

Saturday, September 18, 2010 at 2pm

The Gallery at R&F Handmade Paints
84 Ten Broeck Avenue
Kingston, NY 12401

A $5 donation is suggested.

For directions please visit R&F's website <http://www.rfpaints.com/>.

*Sarah Goldstein's *poems have appeared or are forthcoming in: Bateau, Barrow Street, Caketrain, Denver Quarterly, and Verse. She is also a visual artist and has received awards in painting and drawing from the Rhode Island Council on the Arts and the Ontario Arts Council. Her first book, Fables, is forthcoming from Tarpaulin Sky Press in spring 2011. She currently resides in western Massachusetts.

*Claire Hero *is the author of *Sing, Mongrel *(Noemi Press) and two chapbooks: Cabinet (dancing girl press) and afterpastures, winner of the 2007 Caketrain Chapbook Competition. She teaches creative writing at SUNY-New Paltz.

*Deborah Poe *is the author of the poetry collections Elements (Stockport Flats Press 2010) and *Our Parenthetical Ontology *(CustomWords 2008). Deborah's writing has recently appeared in journals such as *Jacket Magazine *, Peaches & Bats, Sidebrow, Filter and Denver Quarterly. Deborah Poe is assistant professor of English at Pace University, fiction editor of the international online journal of the arts, *Drunken Boat *and guest curator/editor for Trickhouse's "Experiment" door 2010/2011. For more information about Deborah, visit www.deborahpoe.com

↑ Index

98. mIEKAL aND

Xerolage 46 - STARINGS by Nico Vassilakis

Mon 13 Sep 2010

- - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - -

X E R O L A G E 4 6

- - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - -

Xerolage 46 - STARINGS by Nico Vassilakis

http://xexoxial.org/is/xerolage46/by/nico_vassilakis

This is what an alphabet does when the books are closed and the letters are off duty. The characters cavort, mate, replicate, coagulate, instigate, insinuate, explode... Free of responsibility, the alphabet dances.

- Rosaire Appel

In Starings we enter into a second universe (macro- and microcosmic at the same time), where letters and punctuation marks are every bit as real and hallucinatory, transitory and unerasable creatures as stars, planets, grains of interstellar dust, microorganisms or atomic particles are in the first one. They multiply, interweave with each other and with light and darkness, open frequently like a zip and what we have inside are themselves again in a different shape. Their presence is so intense that they (and each contrapuntal pair of their constellations) would start to speak to us immediately — if only letters could do that. Listen. This is meaning in the moment of birth.

- Márton Koppány

Nico Vassilakis' STARINGS occupies us by combining radically different registers of meaning — violence and play, destruction and creation, character and scatter. And we are occupied when we enter each image, as in taken over or filled up, concentrate on or in, we have control or have lost control of meaning here. Not that there need be an either/or in these pages. There is only is. So dwell a while.

- Jenny Sampirisi

Most interesting composition results from the mental equivalent of crossing one's eyes, tuning to a place between. Vassilakis hits a sweet spot with the dynamic works in Starings, their textures, accumulations, and rhythmic repetitions creating instances of chaos and clarity, recognition and refusal.

- Lisa Radon

from the introduction:

Dear Alphabet’s Demur, You take lines and shapes and given possibilities and make alphabet. You use it to make sounds and you map out trajectories of thought. You make names and call your children by them. This is done everywhere. And it’s been done for thousands of years until you became bored with this method — until you surrounded and suffocated yourself with these products of your creation.

You go through ubiquitous, unrelenting text — you are altered by text, by its message. You’ve had to alter how you see. You are forced to alter text itself. You stare your way through words and into middles of words. You resolve the noise of your eyes. The information you see, you seek, to find another nature therein.

REVIEW

"The Noise of Your Eyes" by John Olson on Tillalala Chronicles
http://tillalala.blogspot.com/2010/08/noise-of-your-eyes.html

Nico’s more recent books include: Diptych (Otolith), Askew (bbc press), TEXT LOSES TIME (manypenny press), staReduction (Book Thug), Disparate Magnets (BlazeVox), Protracted Type (Blue Lion Books), Irrational Dude with Robert Mittenthal (tir aux pigeons), West Of Dodge (redfox press).

With Crag Hill, Nico Vassilakis is editing a major international anthology of visual poetry, The LastVispo Anthology. Over 130 contributors from over 20 countries.

The primary investigation of Xerolage is how collage technique of 20th century art, typography, computer graphics, visual & concrete poetry movements & the art of the copier have been combined. Each issue is devoted to the work of one artist.

24 pages, 8.5 x 11, $7 includes postage
Subscriptions: 4 issues/$20

XEXOXIAL EDITIONS
10375 Cty Hway Alphabet
La Farge WI 54639

[redacted]

↑ Index

99. Shankar, Ravi (English)

WordForge, Monday Sept 13, Kuhl and Shankar

Mon 13 Sep 2010

Monday September 13, 7pm‹Nancy Kuhl and Ravi Shankar

Plus OPEN MIKE

Location: The Studio @ Billings Forge
563 Broad Street, Hartford, CT 06106
http://wfreadings.blogspot.com/

Nancy Kuhl¹s second full-length collection of poems, Suspend, was published in May 2010 by Shearsman Books; her first book, The Wife of the Left Hand, was published in 2007. She is the author of two chapbooks: The Nocturnal Factory and Means of Securing Houses &c. from Mischief by Thunder and Lightning, a limited edition artist's book. She is co-editor of Phylum Press, a small poetry publisher, and Curator of Poetry for the Yale Collection of American Literature at the Beinecke Rare Book and Manuscript Library at Yale University, where she curates the Yale Collection of American Literature Reading Series.

Ravi Shankar is founding editor and executive director of Drunken Boat, online journal of the arts, co-directs the Creative Writing Program at CCSU and teaches in the first international MFA Program at City College of Hong Kong. His books include Seamless Matter (Rain Taxi), Voluptuous Bristle (Finishing Line), Wanton Textiles w/ Reb Livingston (No Tell Books) and Instrumentality (Cherry Grove). With Leslie McGrath, he edited the posthumous poems of Reetika Vazirani, Radha Says and with Nathalie Handal & Tina Chang, Language for a New Century: Contemporary Poetry from Asia, the Middle East & Beyond.

Plus OPEN MIKE

Location: The Studio @ Billings Forge
563 Broad Street, Hartford, CT 06106
http://wfreadings.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

100. David Giannini
Re: Itinerary - Europe and New York - 2010
Mon 13 Sep 2010

Thanks, Jerome,
for the notice , your itinerary.

I hope you received the books I sent.

Safe journeying!
Best,
David
David Giannini
P.O. Box 562
Becket, MA 01223

----- Original Message -----
From: "Jerome Rothenberg" <[redacted]>
To: <[redacted]>
Sent: Monday, September 13, 2010 1:13 AM
Subject: Itinerary - Europe and New York - 2010

For any who may be in the vicinity and want to be in touch, our next trip to Paris with planned side trips to the U.K. and Germany starts on September 25 and runs through October 30. For this our principal address will again be c/o

Montgomery, 175 rue de Courcelles, just off Place Marechal Juin, Paris 75017, tel. 01 43 80 90 40. The best way to reach us will be via email: [redacted] or [redacted] or (for Diane, directly) [redacted], at least until we've made arrangements for a European cell phone.

The public schedule, to which other events may still be added, is:

October 10: Reading as part of Poetzone International World Poetry Festival of the DAI (Deutsch Amerikanisches Institut), Heidelberg (booking via the DAI website: http://www.dai-heidelberg.de/content/index_eng.html).

October 14, 7:00 p.m.: Reading, with Jacques Darras, at International Conference "Poets and Publishers Circulating Avant-Garde Poetry (1945-2010)," Université du Maine in Le Mans.

October 19, 6:00 p.m.: Reading with Allen Fisher and Maggie O'Sullivan, plus a group reading for Poems for the Millennium, volume 3, with Jeffrey Robinson and others, at The other Room, International Anthony Burgess Foundation, Manchester, U.K.

October 20, 7:30 p.m.: Reading, Rose Theater, Edge Hill University, Liverpool, U.K.

October 21, 7:00 p.m.: Group reading for Poems for the Millennium, volume 3, with Jeffrey Robinson, Tom Leonard, Aonghas Macneicail, Peter Manson, others, at Center for Contemporary Arts, Glasgow.

October 26, 7:00 p.m.: Reading, with Kazim Ali, for Poets Live at The Highlander Pub, 8 rue de Nevers, Metro Pont Neuf or Odéon, Paris.

Thereafter, from October 30 to November 6, we'll be spending the week in New York, and I'll be reading and talking on "Experimental Romanticism & the Roots of Contemporary Poetics" in the Passwords series at Poets House, November 5 at 7:00 p.m.

Return date to San Diego is November 6, after which we'll relax at home until the next trip comes up.

Jerome Rothenberg
1026 San Abella
Encinitas, CA 92024
[redacted]
[redacted]
http://writing.upenn.edu/epc/authors/rothenberg/
ethnopoetics web site: http://ubu.com/ethno/
j.r. in spanish: http://writing.upenn.edu/epc/authors/rothenberg/esp/
blog: poemsandpoetics.blogspot.com

Poetry must have something in it
that is barbaric, vast and wild.
-- D. Diderot

↑ Index

101. Francesco Levato

Deadline Extended: Atlanta Review - Italy Issue

Mon 13 Sep 2010

Call for Submissions: Atlanta Review - Italy Issue

Deadline extended to October 15th, 2010

Atlanta Review seeks submissions of Italian poetry translated into English for an upcoming issue focused on Italy.

Please send 3-5 unpublished poetry translations, via email, as an attachment, to the address below. Submissions should be in Microsoft Word format, 12 point type. Please include your name and contact email, as well as the original title and author in your submission. And though only the English version will appear in Atlanta Review, please include the original language version of each poem.

Deadline: submissions must be received by October 15th, 2010

Send submissions to:

Francesco Levato
[redacted]

Please put Atlanta Review and your name in the subject line.

For more information:
http://www.atlantareview.com
http://www.francescolevato.com

↑ Index

102. Dan Wilcox

Third Thursday Poetry Night, September 16, John Roche

Mon 13 Sep 2010

---

the Poetry Motel Foundation

presents

Third Thursday Poetry Night

at

the Social Justice Center

33 Central Ave., Albany, NY

September 16, 2010

7:00 sign up; 7:30 start

Featured Poet: John Roche

John Roche is an Associate Professor of English at Rochester Institute of Technology, where he advises the campus literary magazine, “Signatures,” and teaches a variety of literature and creative writing classes. His full-length poetry collections, “Topicalities” (2008) and “On Conesus” (2005) are available from Foothills Publishing (Kanona, NY).

-- with an open mic for community poets before & after the feature: $3.00 donation, suggested; more if you got it, less if you can’t.

Your Maximus host: Dan Wilcox.

Bee Sting
by John Roche

Heading home from Olson Centenary, Worcester get off the Thruway at Palmyra, near Joseph Smith’s rock enter hamlet of Hopewell

see historical plaque near old cemetery

BEE STING

Curiosity gets ahold of me

Spawned by three days with Olson historeins

So I do a uie in front of billboard advertising

AUTOGENESIS: Customize your Ride

(Olson would approve of this orthogenetic sentiment

as would Janis Joplin

though, as Sanders recounts, their date went nowhere

Turning round in dead end lane of shotgun shacks without getting shot face to face now with

BEE STING DEATH

SECOND KNOWN IN NORTH AMERICA

ON MAY 12, 1814 TIMOTHY RYAN

DIED WITHIN ONE HOUR FROM

ANAPHYLAXIS TO BEE STING.

U.S. 2000 EST. 50 DEATHS/YR.

M. BADGER: EAGLE SCOUT PROJECT

Math.washington.edu Website identifies location:

Dillon Family Cemetery

And includes gravestone epitaph:

In memory of Timothy Ryan who died May 12th 1814 in the 66th year of his age

A thousand ways cut short our days
None are exempt from death
A honey bee by stinging me
Did stop my mortal breath

↑ Index

103. Jesse Glass

3 a.m. Maga: Poetry, Scrying, Enochian and Babes of the Abyss

Tue 14 Sep 2010

An interview about Gaha Noas Zorge (New Sins) and my hidden life in Japan is live via the latest 3 a.m. Magazine. Here's the link, http://www.3ammagazine.com/3am/scrying-in-shin-urayasu/or google it up you googlers, gig it up you gigglers, etc.

Jess

P.S. My reading from Gaha can be found on youtube.

↑ Index

104. Obododimma Oha

From Their Ringtones You Shall Know Them

Tue 14 Sep 2010

"A ringtone advertises the owner of the mobile phone. It says: listen to me as I tell a bit about this fellow's difference. By extension, the medium has become the addressee and could even be a signifier of the addresser. These days when mobile telephony has brought further stress upon marriages and other relationships, is it not ingenious to configure the rings in such a way that the clever addressee can tell who is calling, at least to be able to know whether to answer, where to answer, what to answer; or to know which story to tell later to the person eavesdropping by the side? The medium will eventually be the accomplice as well as the evidence."

To read the full text of "From Their Ringtones You Shall Know Them<http://234next.com/csp/cms/sites/Next/Opinion/Columns/5618388-182/story.csp>," visit:
http://234next.com/csp/cms/sites/Next/Opinion/Columns/5618388-182/story.csp

--
Obododimma Oha
http://udude.wordpress.com/

Dept. of English
University of Ibadan
Nigeria

&

Fellow, Centre for Peace & Conflict Studies
University of Ibadan

Phone: [redacted];
[redacted];
[redacted].

↑ Index

105. Bibby, Michael

JOB: Assistant Professor Creative Writing - Poetry

Tue 14 Sep 2010

Tenure-track assistant professor in Creative Writing-Poetry, full-time appointment beginning August 2011. MFA or PhD required by time of appointment. Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to teaching, service, and professional activity including published poetry (preferably a book). The 4/4 course load will include creative writing, general education courses in composition and literature, and other courses in the English major depending on interest and expertise. Course reduction available for advising the student literary magazine.

Submit letter of application and curriculum vita as email attachments (PDF or Word) to Kim van Alkemade, Search Committee Chair, at [redacted].

Review of applications begins November 15, 2010. Letters of recommendation, transcripts, and writing sample will be requested from selected candidates, and the committee may meet with these candidates at AWP. Successful on-campus interviews will include a demonstration of teaching effectiveness and a brief poetry reading. The search will continue until the position is filled.

All candidates must furnish proof of eligibility to work in the U.S. upon appointment. Offers of employment are contingent upon successful completion of a criminal background check. Evidence of a commitment to understanding diverse populations will be required as part of the on-campus interview. Women, persons of color, veterans, and the disabled are encouraged to apply. Shippensburg University is committed to equal employment opportunity. For more information about the Department of English and Shippensburg University, see www.ship.edu/english.

---

ad forwarded by

Michael Bibby
Professor, Dept. of English
Shippensburg University
1871 Old Main Dr.
Shippensburg, PA 17257
[redacted]

↑ Index

106. Philip Meersman

Re: poetics/poetry journal issues

Tue 14 Sep 2010

Hi,
if any left, I would love to receive these journals, anthologies...
Philip Meersman
Tentoonstellingslaan 418, bus 46
1090 Jette
Belgium

Thanks.
Philip
On Thu, Sep 9, 2010 at 5:53 AM, Dan Coffey <[redacted]> wrote:

> Free (only charging shipping) to the first backchannelers:
>
> CHAIN #'s 5, 6, 7
>
> INTREPID (A Decade and Then Some: An Anthology, ed. Allen DeLoach, 1976, constitutes Intrepid nos. 25-35)
>
> CREDENCES: A JOURNAL OF TWENTIETH CENTURY POETRY AND POETICS (straight outta 4th floor Capen): New Series: Vol. 1, no.1; Vol. 2, no. 1; Vol. 3, no.2.
>
> 6x6: Issue #4 (Ugly Duckling Presse) Sept 2001

> ---
>
> Thanks!

--
Philip Meersman
!!! New Address
Tentoonstellingslaan 418, bus 46
1090 Jette
Belgium
tel[redacted]
www.myspace.com/spooninmybrain
www.facebook.com/spooninmybrain
www.youtube.com/spooninmybrain
skype: Spooninmybrain
[redacted]
www.poetasdelmundo.com/verInfo_europa.asp?ID=4337
21/07/10: BruSlam, CBK Slam voorronde Gent with special guest Luulur from Estonia, HotsyTotsy, Ghent, BE (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)
08/08/2010: PoetrySlam @ Watou
14-16/08/10: Sziget Festival, Hungary
11/09/10: DAstrugistenDA @ But Filmfestival, Breda, NL (http://www.butff.nl)
19/09/2010: BruSlam, CBK Slam voorronde Antwerpen, Zuiderzinnen
04-09/10/10: IX Festival Internacional de Poesía El Salvador 2010, El Salvador
27/09/10: BruSlam: Sylvie Marie & Helen White (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)
25/10/10: BruSlam: Bart Stouten & Cindya Izzarelli (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)
29/11/10: BruSlam: Andy Fierens, Bernhard Christiansen & Pascal Leclercq (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)
31/01/11: BruSlam: Neil Elliot & Tom Driesen (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)
28/02/11: BruSlam: Tomas Sidoli & Olaf Risee (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)
28/03/11: BruSlam: Dizzylez & ACG Vianen (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)

↑ Index

107. Loss Pequeño Glazier
EPC at the Library of Congress
Tue 14 Sep 2010

I am pleased to announce that, as of yesterday, the Electronic Poetry Center has been formally added to the Research Collections of the Library of Congress.

This is an outstanding recognition of the nearly twenty years of collection building and electronic arts community efforts of the EPC. Thanks to all on the Poetics List, at UB, and at UPenn for their support. All in the poetics community can all feel very positive about this news. It is a pleasure to share it with you all! PS. Some EPC Updates and emendations forthcoming!

--
Dr. Loss Pequeño Glazier
Director, Electronic Poetry Center
{ http://epc.buffalo.edu/ }
Dept. of Media Study - 231 CFA University at Buffalo
Buffalo, New York 14260

↑ Index

108. cris cheek
forwarded . . . re: Mainliner (readings in Cinci)
Tue 14 Sep 2010

We would like to invite you to read your work in Cincinnati, OH as part of our Mainliner reading series. Mainliner is a brand spanking new DIY reading series held at InkTank in Over-the-Rhine.

We will provide payment for transportation, food, and a place to stay. We hope that these modest offerings will be satisfactory. Thank you for your time and hope to hear from you soon.

Mark Mendoza & Micah Freeman

p.s.
please pass this around to anyone you think might be interested and have them get in touch with us: [redacted] or [redacted]

↑ Index

109. ART ELECTRONICS
PreVisioni Digital Art Festival Invitation
Tue 14 Sep 2010

Dear friends,
Join me in Genoa at PreVisioni Digital Art Festival (attached invitation)
DIGITAL ART, VIDEO, PERFORMANCE, POETRY
Digital music, Glitch, Minimal, Industrial, Ambient Multimedia Concert & Screenings.

Screenings:

Location 1: Vico San Cristoforo, Genoa
September 18, 2010 - 06:00 PM - 10:00 PM
CATERINA DAVINIO
The First poetry Space Shuttle Landing on Second Life
http://www.youtube.com/watch?vãzMgGMiUuw Digital Video, Installation&Performance
Music: Mirko lalit Egger Collaboration SL: Riccardo Preziosi.
(Curators:Art Commission - Genova)

CONCERT: Digital music, Glitch, Minimal, Industrial and Ambient (Volumia Association Curators).

Location 2: Via Pré 103, 105, 107 rosso, Genoa
September 18, 2010 - 03:00 PM - 10:00 PM
CATERINA DAVINIO
Poem in Red
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=H6sEv3pICnU Dedicated to Ferrari Modena car.
(in "Videopoetry Dream". Curators: Circolo Poetico Correnti, SempreCreativaPoetica).

MUSIC: Selection of Multimedia Concert, Duplex Ride Curator

Don't miss it, if some of you are in Genoa!

Caterina Davinio
::
DVD or secure web files featured on demand to curators and gallery owners.
Contact: [redacted]
Web: http://xoomer.virgilio.it/cprezi/caterinadav.html

_____
More:
http://xoomer.alice.it/kareninazoom/daviniobook.htm (En)
Archeo Computer-Poetry (on YouTube)
http://www.youtube.com/CaterinaDav

↑ Index

110. Farrah Fidler
Fwd: Subscribing to The Poetics List (and posting)
Tue 14 Sep 2010

Trying again

Hi,

I hope you're well. I would like to subscribe to the list and also submit the event info below for post consideration.

Thanks!
Farrah

*
*

Jazz Talmud World Premiere + Ayn Sof Arkestra*

featuring* *Jake Marmer (poetry), Frank London (trumpet), and Greg Wall (saxophone/clarinet)

Monday, September 27th, Door open 7:30pm, Show Starts 8:00pm

The Cell Theatre - 338 West 23rd Street btwn. 8th and 9th Ave. (C, E train to 23rd Street)

*Price: *$15/$12 for students

For more info: http://jakemarmer.wordpress.com/jazz-talmud-premiere/

JAZZ TALMUD: WORLD PREMIERE

Jazz Talmud is a poetry and music project with Talmudic modes of dialog, spontaneous interpretations, interruptions, arguing, and the ecstatic attempts at wisdom. The poems mimic Talmudic rhetoric, style and turns of phrase, as they reflect on the contemporary Jewish experience, jazz, dreams, loneliness and more. The horn players, acting as Talmud’s interpreters Rashi and Tosefot spontaneously riff on the spoken material and each other’s reaction to it.

* *

AYN SOF ARKESTRA & BIGGER BAND

NYC’s newest addition to the canon of new Jewish influenced music and culture, the Ayn Sof Arkestra and Bigger Band, under the direction of saxophonist Jazz Rabbi Greg Wall and grammy winning trumpeter Frank London. The Arkestra consists of some of the most innovative artists on the scene today, such as Pam Fleming, Paul Shapiro, Aaron Alexander, Fima Ephron, Eyal Maoz and many others. The repertoire will consist of original compositions and arrangements of the members and guest composers, in the great NuJu/Rad Jew/SunRaJoo tradition.

About the artists:

*
*

Jake Marmer merges poetry, music, and performance into various philosophically potent mixtures. He has performed extensively in New Yorkand

Jerusalem with his band Frantic Turtle, Mima'amakim collective, and various hip downtown characters.

Trumpeter/composer Frank London is a Grammy-winning member of the Klezmatics, and has performed with John Zorn, LL Cool J, Mel Torme, LaMonte Young, They Might Be Giants, David Byrne, among others. He is featured on over 100 CDs.

Saxophonist Greg Wall has performed and recorded with Hasidic New Wave, Greg Wall Trio, The Wall/London Band, Neshama Carlebach, the Hi-Tops, Greg Wall's Unity Orchestra, and has made many session appearances for record dates and film scores.

The Ayn Sof Arkestra and Bigger Band is 15-piece radical jazz and klezmer project under the direction of Greg Wall and Frank London. It's NYC's newest and hottest addition to the canon of Jewish influenced music and culture.

↑ Index

111. Aaron Belz

Teaching through Turco - help?

Tue 14 Sep 2010

Friends,

Again I am teaching through the first 70 pages of Lewis Turco's BOOK OF FORMS, and again I lack an adequate outline from which to work. These pages are jam-packed with information that would fall naturally into a traditional, nested outline, and I've never taken time to write one. Does anyone have an outline of this book, or the first 1/3 of this book, to share? I'd be much obliged...

Send offline: [redacted]

Thanks!

Aaron Belz

↑ Index

112. Chris Pusateri

Pusateri & Pierce at Stratford Park, Thurs 9/16, 7:30pm

Tue 14 Sep 2010

For those living in or passing through Boulder, Colorado:

The Stratford Park Reading Series presents:

Chris Pusateri
&
Michelle Naka Pierce

Where/when:

This Thursday, 16 September
7:30pm

3030 Oneal Parkway, Boulder, Colorado

http://www.mapquest.com/maps?city=Boulder&state=CO&address=3030+O'neal+Parkway&zipcode=80301 DIRECTIONS: O'Neal Parkway is off 30th Street in north Boulder between Valmont & Iris. Turn East at the signs for STRATFORD PARK WEST. The community house is the one-story building with a fence leading down to the street, half a block from 30th. Please park ONLY on O'Neal Parkway, O'Neal Circle, or in VISITOR spaces in the Stratford Park West lots. Please do not park in any other nearby lots. Thank you.

Bios:

Born in Tokyo, Japan, Michelle Naka Pierce is the author of Beloved Integer and Tri/via, a collaboration with Veronica Corpuz. Excerpts from her manuscript She, A Blueprint for Intersurface, with collage art by Sue Hammond West, have been published in American Letters & Commentary, Trickhouse, Mandorla, Foursquare, Sous Rature, Upstairs at Duroc, and elsewhere. Pierce spent her sabbatical living in London and working on her new manuscript, tentatively titled Continuous Frieze Bordering Red, which contemplatives Rothko's floating borders in relation to unstable cultural borders. She is currently an associate professor and director of the writing center at Naropa University.
§
Born in the American midwest, Chris Pusateri has lived for extended periods in London, Mexico City and Kingston, Jamaica. He is the author of eight books and chapbooks of poetry, most recently Anon (BlazeVox, 2008) and North of There (Dusie, 2007). His poems and critical prose have appeared in numerous magazines, including American Letters & Commentary, Boston Review, Chicago Review, Verse, and many others. His current manuscript, The Liberties, was written while residing in England, and takes as its premise the surveillance architecture built into British public life. A librarian by trade, he currently lives in the unincorporated suburban hinterland that divides Denver from Boulder.

↑ Index

113. peter ganick
ex-ex-lit blog
Tue 14 Sep 2010

http://ex-ex-lit.blogspot.com has reached its 500th post.
viva ex-ex-lit!

↑ Index

114. derek beaulieu
new from No: "Blastogenesis" by Gregory Betts
Wed 15 Sep 2010

No press is proud to announce the publication of BLASTOGENESIS
by Gregory Betts

Blastogenesis is one form of viral reproduction wherein growth of select parts accelerate until they break away and become themselves new, independent organisms with identical or more significantly different characteristics from the original. Sometimes an out-growth becomes antagonistic to its source. The Three Words per Poem project tracks the mutation from harvesting personal data for profit unconsciously to inviting personal participation for poetry consciously. The short story was written in response to the media coverage of events in Toronto leading up to the G8 and G20 summits in July 2010. Parts of the story were printed out and posted to various parts of Toronto during the G20 protests by people associated with the Poetic Interventions Project.

published in an edition of 50 handbound copies (of which 20 are for sale). $4 each (including shipping)

for more information, or to order copies, email
[redacted]

derek beaulieu
2 - 733 2nd avenue nw
calgary alberta
canada T2N 0E4
[redacted]
http://derekbeaulieu.wordpress.com/

↑ Index

115. mIEKAL aND
Xerolage 47 - iu by John Moore Williams
Wed 15 Sep 2010

Xerolage 47 - iu by John Moore Williams

http://xexoxial.org/is/xerolage47/by/john_moore_williams

What we have here are digital talismanic suggestions. In this series of vispo, design elements construct a place for you and eye to land. The dotted i returns u see. Letterforms conjure humanity in their very simplicity. These compositions rework certain concrete poetic ideas. The letters i and u undergo new permutations. It’s a satisfying jaunt through renewed verbo-visual possibilities. John Moore Williams is part of the next wave of visual poet.

- Nico Vassilakis

I didn't know who I am before I saw Xerolage 47. I didn't know what I was, or the difference between I and U. I was continually thinking U were I when you were nothing of the kind. But in this book, in this John Moore Williams book, we discover that I am the mother of U, who is I bent in the middle and whose feet point up to the sky. Sometimes, I am a shadow. Sometimes, I is a change. Sometimes, I am in a pile of U's and cannot get out. Sometimes, I is a whirling of shapes. Sometimes, I am spare. Because I go on forever, and I end at the end of each finger, each of which is just another I. I is clean. I am dirty. And in John Moore Williams' hands of ten small I's, I is everywhere and everything, the letter is examined as a meaning and a shape, the I is made into structures of beauty, and if you read the book you just might know what I am and you are.

- Geof Huth

from the introduction:

We are used to thinking of letters as merely media, as windows through which some message is conveyed without interference. They are the superconductors of significance, channels devoid of impedance or static, through which content is, ideally, passed with crystal clarity. This is perhaps most obviously true of the letter I, which has become so concretely associated with individual identity that it has practically disappeared as its own entity. The shape itself reinforces this disappearance; of all the letterforms it is perhaps the sparest, the most Spartan. Compounding this is the fact that it lends itself so easily to the conflation of form and content—it is, unlike most single letters, a word, and one that abstractly yet forcefully resembles its referent. It is the human form in hieroglyph, a body inscribed.

iu seeks to accept, complicate and reject this conflation, this crystal-clear union of sign and signifier. In accepting the sparest of letterforms as its subject, then attempting to create a wide variety of forms out of this simple cloth, the book embraces the generativity of restriction. At the same time, it attempts to explore the multifarious and complex meanings of identity and individuality through simple, iconic forms. Many of the pieces employ the archetypal forms and arrangements of the comic book, that most lyric and identity-obsessed of popular fiction forms, while others work through more concrete arrangements, attempting to graphically depict the semantic content in much the same way the letterform itself does. Oh, and then there's the letter U, which our shorthand age has rendered nearly as pictographic as I.

John Moore Williams claims to be a poet and, occasionally, an artist. He also claims, marginally more lucratively, to be a copywriter and editor. It's fairly certain that he lives in Oakland, California, and that he has authored I discover i is an android (Trainwreck Press, 2008), writ10 (VUGG Books, 2008) and [+!] (Calliope Nerve, 2009)—the last in collaboration with Matina Stamatakis and Kane X. Faucher. He also edits the visual poetry journal The Bleed (avantexte.com/thebleed). His blog is called SinTax (fissuresofmen.blogspot.com).

The primary investigation of Xerolage is how collage technique of 20th century art, typography, computer graphics, visual & concrete poetry movements & the art of the copier have been combined. Each issue is devoted to the work of one artist.

24 pages, 8.5 x 11, $7 includes postage
Subscriptions: 4 issues/$20

XEXOXIAL EDITIONS
10375 Cty Hway Alphabet
La Farge WI 54639

↑ Index

116. Philip Meersman

DAstrugistenDA @ Butfilmfestival September 11th in Breda, Nederland

Wed 15 Sep 2010

>
> 5. BUTFF, Breda, 2010
> http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=TixyPu9_k4s
>
> During the BUT film festival in Breda, the DastrugistenDA will do 3 > different poetry interventions.

>
> a. Angst und Sprache, a search for voices and sounds as reactions to > traumatic events.
>
> Different historical events still keep people wandering about what they > might do or should do or have to do when similar events do happen in their > neighbourhood, family, daily environment. 9/11 was one of these historical > events. But also the atrocities that happened in Rwanda, Bosnia, Darfour…
> But also the floods in Pakistan, the Oil disaster in the Gulf of Mexico, in > the Niger delta… No one responds to the screams, giving the wrongdoer plenty > of time to do wrong. Bystanders are distressed but feel too ill-equipped to > respond, and there is an insufficiency in assigning responsibility - a > "diffusion of responsibility". DastrugistenDA asks the question what we, > international poets and sound artists would do or could do to make people > understand or even better, to make them notice, recognise the emergency
and > to let them decide to act on it.
>
> b. Box ring.
>
> Poetry talks will be held twice in a Box ring. Together the DastrugistenDA > will be negotiating words, phrases and sounds into a time – location based > performance.
>
> The courtyard, the ring, the audience are all parts in a play, all decorum > and no content. Or are the words the decorum and the audience the deus ex > machina to rescue the world from its images?
>
> Twice the games will be opened twice talks will start. The ultimate > question remains: will these talks bring results, a solution, a better > understanding, a sound result or will they be only sounds and fury, a > perpetuum mobile of syllables ringing hollow, a poem written on a piece of > paper while holding the ring?
>
> c) Breakfast & BUTFF. The Day After
>
> DAstrugistenDA makes a multilingual tribute to the Avant Garde, Zaum, DaDa
> en Surreal Movements in poetry. In a collaborative arrangement of their > poems, DastrugistenDA will wake up people over coffee and croissants to the > sounds of language. What happens The Day After? Nobody knows, yet.

>
>
>
>
>
Philip Meersman
Tentoonstellingslaan 418, bus 46
1090 Jette
Belgium
tel[redacted]
www.myspace.com/spooninmybrain
www.facebook.com/spooninmybrain
www.youtube.com/spooninmybrain
skype: Spooninmybrain
[redacted]
www.poetasdelmundo.com/verInfo_europa.asp?ID=4337
11/09/10: DAstrugistenDA @ But Filmfestival, Breda, NL (
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=TixyPu9_k4s)
19/09/2010: BruSlam, CBK Slam voorronde Antwerpen, Zuiderzinnen ( http://www.creatiefschrijven.be) 27/09/10: BruSlam: Sylvie Marie & Helen White (http://bruslam.over-blog.com
)
25/10/10: BruSlam: Bart Stouten & Cindya Izzarelli (
http://bruslam.over-blog.com)
27/11/10: Belgian Championship Poetry Slam @ Espace Magh 29/11/10: BruSlam: Andy Fierens, Bernhard Christiansen & Pascal Leclercq (
http://bruslam.over-blog.com)
15-16/12/10: European Championship Poetry Slam
17-18/12/10: Poetry Slam & symposium in Mons
19/12/10: European Poetry Slam Demonstration @ Beursschouwburg
31/01/11: BruSlam: Neil Elliot & Tom Driesen (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)
28/02/11: BruSlam: Tomas Sidoli & Olaf Risee (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)
28/03/11: BruSlam: Dizzylez & ACG Vianen (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)

↑ Index

117. Eric Dickey
Re: Teaching through Turco - help?
Wed 15 Sep 2010

I am considering using this book and would also appreciate seeing such an outline.

[redacted]

From: Aaron Belz <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Tue, September 14, 2010 2:22:26 PM
Subject: Teaching through Turco - help?

Friends,

Again I am teaching through the first 70 pages of Lewis Turco's BOOK OF FORMS, and again I lack an adequate outline from which to work. These pages are jam-packed with information that would fall naturally into a traditional, nested outline, and I've never taken time to write one. Does anyone have an outline of this book, or the first 1/3 of this book, to share? I'd be much obliged...

Send offline: [redacted]

Thanks!

Aaron Belz

↑ Index

118. Angeline, Mary
Re: poetics/poetry journal issues
Wed 15 Sep 2010

I too would like copies of the Chain journals etc, but do not know who to "backchannel"? Mary Angeline2535 Kenwood Drive Boulder Co 80305

-----Original Message-----
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) on behalf of Philip Meersman Sent: Tue 9/14/2010 6:43 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: poetics/poetry journal issues

Hi,
if any left, I would love to receive these journals, anthologies...
Philip Meersman
Tentoonstellingslaan 418, bus 46
1090 Jette
Belgium

Thanks.
Philip
On Thu, Sep 9, 2010 at 5:53 AM, Dan Coffey <[redacted]> wrote:

> Free (only charging shipping) to the first backchannelers:
>
> CHAIN #'s 5, 6, 7

> INTREPID (A Decade and Then Some: An Anthology, ed. Allen DeLoach, 1976, constitutes Intrepid nos. 25-35)
>
> CREDENCES: A JOURNAL OF TWENTIETH CENTURY POETRY AND POETICS (straight outta 4th floor Capen): New Series: Vol. 1, no.1; Vol. 2, no. 1; Vol. 3, no.2.
>
> 6x6: Issue #4 (Ugly Duckling Presse) Sept 2001
> ---
>
> Thanks!

--
Philip Meersman
!!! New Address
Tentoonstellingslaan 418, bus 46
1090 Jette
Belgium
tel[redacted]
www.myspace.com/spooninmybrain
www.facebook.com/spooninmybrain
www.youtube.com/spooninmybrain
skype: Spooninmybrain
[redacted]
www.poetasdelmundo.com/verInfo_europa.asp?ID=4337
21/07/10: BruSlam, CBK Slam voorronde Gent with special guest Luulur from Estonia, HotsyTotsy, Ghent, BE (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)
08/08/2010: PoetrySlam @ Watou
14-16/08/10: Sziget Festival, Hungary
11/09/10: DAstrugistenDA @ But Filmfestival, Breda, NL (http://www.butff.nl)
19/09/2010: BruSlam, CBK Slam voorronde Antwerpen, Zuiderzinnen
04-09/10/10: IX Festival Internacional de Poesía El Salvador 2010, El Salvador
27/09/10: BruSlam: Sylvie Marie & Helen White (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)
25/10/10: BruSlam: Bart Stouten & Cindya Izzarelli (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)
29/11/10: BruSlam: Andy Fierens, Bernhard Christiansen & Pascal Leclercq (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)
31/01/11: BruSlam: Neil Elliot & Tom Driesen (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)

28/02/11: BruSlam: Tomas Sidoli & Olaf Risee (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)
28/03/11: BruSlam: Dizzylez & ACG Vianen (http://bruslam.over-blog.com)

↑ Index

119. Holly Crawford
Re: David Berridge's Dept of Micro Poetics at AC Institute
Thu 16 Sep 2010

David Berridge's curated an assortment of projects, performances and short "residencies" for poets in the tiny narrow alcove all under the title Department of Micro Poetics at AC Institute in NYC. It all opened September 9 and will continue to 6 weeks.

AC Institute
547 W. 27th St., 6th Floor
NY, NY 10001
Wednesday, Thursday., Friday and Saturday 1-6 pm.
(The alcove is open Monday-Saturday 9-6 pm).
www.artcurrents.org

↑ Index

120. David Kirschenbaum
Boog Fest Starts Fri. 9/24 & Program Issue Online
Thu 16 Sep 2010

Hi,

Next week, from Fri., Sept. 24 through Tues. Sept. 28, we'll be putting on the fourth annual Welcome to Boog City poetry and music festival. It will feature 43 poets and 12 musical acts over the five days.

You can view the web-only color pdf version of Boog City’s Welcome to Boog City issue here:

http://welcometoboogcity.com/boogpdfs/bc65.pdf

replete with:

* the full schedule illustrated with performer pics

*music editor Jonathan Berger on festival performers Rorie Kelly and Magnetic Island

*small press editor Douglas Manson interviews Robert Dewhurst, editor of d.a. levy lives visiting press Satellite Telephone

*printed matter editor Arlo Quint on John Godfrey and Douglas Piccinnini on Julian T. Brolaski

*poems by fest performers Allison Cobb, Todd Colby, Noelle Kocot, and Chris Martin

and thanks to Jesse Schoen ([redacted]) who designed the festival's logo.

Among the festival highlights are:

—our classic album live series presents its first ever album performed by just one act, Bob Dylan's Highway 61 Revisited by i feel tractor;

—our d.a. levy lives series devotes a night to Buffalo's Satellite Telephone magazine;

—our 7th annual small, small press fair, with exhibits from a host of small presses, and readings by their authors;

—a discussion on, and readings of, site-specific poems; and

—poet David Shapiro reading and in conversation with poet Joanna Fuhrman.

The full schedule for the event is below this note, followed by performer bios and websites.

If you need any additional information you can reach me at 212-842- BOOG (2664) or [redacted].

as ever,
David

P.S. Physical copies of this issue, Boog City 65, are available at the below drop spots.

3,000 copies of Boog City are distributed among, and available for free at, the following locations:

MANHATTAN

East Village
Sunshine Theater * 143 E. Houston St. (bet. 1st & 2nd Avenues)
Bluestockings * 172 Allen St. (bet. Stanton & Rivington sts.)
Pianos * 158 Ludlow St. (bet. Stanton and Rivington sts.)
Living Room * 154 Ludlow St. (bet. Stanton and Rivington sts.)
Cake Shop * 152 Ludlow St. (bet. Stanton and Rivington sts.)
Bowery Poetry Club * 308 Bowery (bet. Houston & Bleecker sts.)
Think Coffee * 1 Bleecker St. (@ Bowery)
Trash and Vaudeville (upstairs) * 4 St. Mark’s Pl. (bet. 2nd & 3rd aves.)
Mission Café * 82 Second Ave. (bet. 4th & 5th sts.)

Anthology Film Archives * 32 Second Ave. (bet. 1st & 2nd sts.)
Sidewalk Café * 94 Avenue A (bet. 6th & 7th sts.)
Nuyorican Poets Café * 236 E. 3rd St. (bet. Avenues B & C)
Lakeside Lounge * 162 Avenue B (bet. 10th & 11th sts.)
Life Café * 343 E. 10th St. (bet. Avenues A & B)
St. Mark's Books * 31 Third Ave. (bet. St. Mark's Pl. & 9th St.)
St. Mark's Church * 131 E.10th St. (bet. 2nd & 3rd aves.)

Lower Manhattan Acme Underground * 9 Great Jones St. (bet. Broadway & Lafayette St.) Shakespeare & Co. * 716 Broadway (bet. Waverly & Astor places) Other Music * 15 E. 4th St. (bet. Broadway & Lafayette St.) Angelika Film Center * 18 W. Houston St. (bet. Broadway & Mercer St.) Think Coffee * 248 Mercer St. (bet. W. 4th and W. 3rd sts.) Mercer Street Books * 206 Mercer St. (bet. Bleecker & Houston sts.) Housing Works Cafe * 126 Crosby St. (bet. E. Houston & Prince sts.) McNally Jackson * 52 Prince St. (bet. Mulberry & Lafayette sts.) ACA Galleries * 529 W. 20th St., 5th Flr.(bet. 10th/11th aves.) Hotel Chelsea * 222 W. 23rd St. (bet. 7th & 8th aves.)

BROOKLYN

Greenpoint Matchless * 557 Manhattan Ave. (bet. Nassau and Driggs aves.) Enid's * 560 Manhattan Ave. (bet. Nassau and Driggs aves.) Thai Café * 925 Manhattan Ave. (bet. Kent St. & Greenpoint Ave.) Champion Coffee * 1108 Manhattan Ave. (bet. Clay & DuPont sts.)

Williamsburg
Sideshow Gallery * 319 Bedford Ave. (bet. S.2nd & S.3rd sts.)
Supercore Café * 305 Bedford Ave. (bet. S.1st & S.2nd sts.)
Spoonbill & Sugartown * 218 Bedford Ave. (bet. N.4th & N.5th sts.)
Public Assembly * 70 North 6th St. (bet. Wythe & Kent aves.) 50
Bliss Café * 191 Bedford Ave. (bet. N.6th & N.7th sts.)
Spike Hill * 184 Bedford Ave. (bet. N.6th & N.7th sts.)
Soundfix/Fix Cafe * 44 Berry St. (bet. N.11th & N.12th sts.)

Unnameable Books * 600 Vanderbilt Ave. (bet. Prospect Place/St. Marks Avenue)

Please patronize our advertisers:

Alice James Books * http://www.alicejamesbooks.org/

Casagrande Press * http://www.casagrandepress.com/

Indiana Review * http://indianareview.org/

NYQ Books * http://www.nyqbooks.org/

Red Rock Review * http://sites.csn.edu/english/redrockreview/issue.htm

The Georgia Review * http://www.thegeorgiareview.com/

Vanitas magazine * http://www.vanitasmagazine.com/

To advertise in Boog City, see our ad rate card:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/ad_rates.pdf

Advertising or donation inquiries can also be directed to [redacted] or by calling 212-842-BOOG (2664),
or you can send money to [redacted] via https://www.paypal.com/

Poetry Submission Guidelines: Email subs to [redacted], with no more than five poems, all in one attached file with “My Name Submission” in the subject line and as the name of the file, ie: Walt Whitman Submission. Or mail with an SASE to Joanna Fuhrman, Poetry editor, Boog City, 330 W. 28th St., Suite 6H, N.Y., N.Y. 10001-4754.

Want to write a review (or be reviewed)
in Boog’s Urban Folk music or printed matter sections?
Email UF editor Jonathan Berger, [redacted] or printed matter editor Arlo Quint, [redacted]

Want to have your work appear in our art section?
Query our art editor, Cora Lambert, [redacted]

4th Annual

Welcome to Boog City festival
5 Days of Poetry and Music

Friday Sept. 24, Sidewalk Café
94 Ave. A
NYC

Free with a two-drink minimum

7:00 p.m. Noelle Kocot
7:20 p.m. Pierre Joris
7:35 p.m. Maureen Thorson
7:55 p.m. Steve Cannon
8:00 p.m. Nicole Peyrafitte
8:20 p.m. Poetry Talk Talk-David Shapiro reading and

in conversation with Joanna Fuhrman
9:10 p.m. Anne Waldman and Ambrose Bye-poetry and music
9:50 p.m. Magnetic Island-music
10:50 p.m. i feel tractor performs Bob Dylan's Highway 61 Revisited for its 45th anniversary
12:00 a.m. The Elastic No-No Band-music

Directions: F/V to 2nd Ave., L to 1st Ave.
Venue is at East 6th Street

Sat. Sept. 25, Unnameable Books
7th Annual Small, Small Press Fair

Unnameable Books
600 Vanderbilt Ave.
Brooklyn

Free

Featuring readings from authors of the exhibiting presses

12:00 p.m. Fair begins

12:35 p.m. Fay Chiang, Bowery Books (ed. Marjorie Tesser)
12:45 p.m. Michael Gottlieb, Faux | Other (eds. Jack Kimball and Alan Davies)
12:55 p.m. Mark Horosky, Flying Guillotine Press (eds. Sommer Browning and Tony Mancus)
1:05 p.m. Abby Walthausen, Fractious Press (ed. Veronica Liu)
1:15 p.m. Jeffrey Jullich, Litmus Press/Aufgabe (ed. E. Tracy Grinnell)
1:25 p.m. Miriam Atkin, little scratch pad editions (ed. Douglas Manson)

1:35 p.m. Break

1:55 p.m. Matt Reeck, No, Dear magazine (ed. Alex Cuff)
2:05 p.m. Tom Orange-music
2:20 p.m. Dennis Leroy Kangalee, Savage Paw Press (ed. Kangalee)
2:30 p.m. David Mills, Straw Gate Books (ed. Phyllis Wat)

2:40 p.m. Break

3:00 p.m. Binary Marketing Show-music
3:30 p.m. erica kaufman
3:45 p.m. Sommer Browning
4:05 p.m. Peter Davis
4:25 p.m. Mel Nichols
4:45 p.m. John Godfrey

5:00 p.m. Jenn McCreary
5:20 p.m. Beat Radio-music
5:55 p.m. Ken Jacobs
6:15 p.m. Urayoán Noel
6:30 p.m. Chris McCreary
6:50 p.m. Cathy Eisenhower
7:10 p.m. Rod Smith
7:35 p.m. Rorie Kelly-music
8:10 p.m. Lach-music
8:40 p.m. Douglas Rothschild

Directions: 2, 3 to Grand Army Plaza, C to Clinton-Washington avenues, Q to 7th Ave.
Venue is bet. Prospect Pl./St. Marks Ave.

Sun. Sept. 26, Unnameable Books
7th Annual Small, Small Press Fair, Day 2

Unnameable Books
600 Vanderbilt Ave.
Brooklyn

Free

12:00 p.m. Dustin Williamson
12:15 p.m. Kevin Varrone
12:35 p.m. Brandon Holmquest
12:55 p.m. Pattie McCarthy
1:20 p.m. Brian Speaker-music
1:50 p.m. Ivy Johnson
2:05 p.m. Carlos Soto Román
2:25 p.m. Shafer Hall

2:40 p.m.-3:00-break

3:00 p.m.-5:00 p.m.
You Are Here: On the Site-Specific Poem
curated and hosted by Pattie McCarthy and Kevin Varrone

With panelists Allison Cobb, CA Conrad, Marcella Durand, Tonya Foster, and Carlos Soto Roman

Directions: 2, 3 to Grand Army Plaza, C to Clinton-Washington avenues, Q to 7th Ave.
Venue is bet. Prospect Pl./St. Marks Ave.

Sun. Sept. 26, Zinc Bar

Zinc Bar
82 W. 3rd St.
NYC

$5 suggested

6:30 p.m.-8:45 p.m. You Are Here: Readings of Site-Specific Poems
curated and hosted by Pattie McCarthy and Kevin Varrone

With readings from Allison Cobb, CA Conrad,
Marcella Durand, and Carlos Soto Roman

Directions: A/B/C/D/E/F/V to W. 4th St.
Venue is bet. Sullivan and Thompson sts.

Mon. Sept. 27, Unnameable Books

Unnameable Books
600 Vanderbilt Ave.
Brooklyn

Free

6:00 p.m. Chris Martin
6:15 p.m. Cate Peebles
6:30 p.m. Julian T. Brolaski
6:45 p.m. Farrah Field
7:05 p.m. J.J. Hayes-music

7:35 p.m. Break

7:45 p.m. Joe Elliot
8:00 p.m. E. Tracy Grinnell
8:15 p.m. Jared White
8:30 p.m. Mariana Ruiz Firmat
8:45 p.m. Laura Elrick
9:05 p.m. Jeremiah Birnbaum of The Ramblers-music

Directions: 2, 3 to Grand Army Plaza, C to Clinton-Washington avenues,
Q to 7th Ave.
Venue is bet. Prospect Pl./St. Marks Ave.

Tues. Sept. 28, ACA Galleries, 6:00 p.m.

d.a. levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

Satellite Telephone magazine
(Buffalo, N.Y.)

ACA Galleries
529 W.20th St., 5th Flr.
NYC

Free

Event will be hosted by Satellite Telephone editor
Robert Dewhurst

featuring readings from

Todd Colby
Dorothea Lasky
Eileen Myles
Rebekah Rutkoff

and music from

Franklin Bruno

There will be wine, cheese, and crackers, too.

Directions: C/E to 23rd St., 1/9 to 18th St.
Venue is bet. 10th and 11th avenues

Welcome to Boog City 3 Bios and Websites

*Friday

Ambrose Bye http://www.myspace.com/fastspeakingmusicmyspace Ambrose Bye, musician (piano/keyboard, guitar, voice) and composer, grew up in the environment of The Jack Kerouac School of Disembodied Poetics at Naropa University, counting Allen Ginsberg and William Burroughs as “poetic” godfathers. He graduated from The University of California, Santa Cruz with a degree in music/sociology and was certified at the music /production program at the Pyramind Institute in San Francisco, working on numerous productions and his own compositions as well. He also studied and played in gamelan orchestras in Bali, Indonesia, Boulder, and Santa Cruz. He has performed on stage a number of times, accompanying poets and performers at New York’s Issue Project Room, The Poetry Project, The Bowery Poetry Club, KGB Bar, at The Boulder Theatre’s “Music and Poetry for Progressives” headlined by Thurston Moore of Sonic Youth, Naropa University, The New School, White Columns Gallery, and San Francisco’s Meridian Gallery. He is in production with his next CD, “Hombres”. His most recent CD is “Matching Half” with Anne Waldman and Akilah Oliver, which was produced by Farfalla, McMillen, Parrish. His previous composing/ production credits include “In The Room of Never Grieve”, (produced by Coffee House Press) and “The Eye of the Falcon” (Farfalla, McMillen, Parrish) with poetry by Anne Waldman. His music accompanies the video “The Wake- Up Call of a Poet” , produced by the Buddhist Broadcasting Foundation, the Netherlands and was broadcast over Dutch TV in December, 2009.

Steve Cannon Originally from the cultural hot bed of New Orleans, Steve Cannon developed a taste for the arts at a very young age. An institution himself, Professor Cannon has been active in the multicultural artistic community on the Lower East Side in New York City for almost four decades. As the executive director and founder of Tribes, he has been the central figure of the organization since its inception in 1991. He continues to pave its artistic direction, despite having lost his eyesight over a decade ago, an unfortunate occurrence that has only served to sharpen his vision and heighten his desire to advance the development of the arts. A retired professor of the humanities at Medgar Evers College in the CUNY system and the author of the underground classic Groove, Bang and Jive Around, he is closely connected to artists and educators throughout the city. In the early ’60s, he was heavily involved in Umbra, a consortium of primary African-American artists of all disciplines, including such literary luminaries as Ishmael Reed, Calvin Hernton, Victor Hernandez, and David Henderson.

Since then, Umbra artists served as founding members and advisors to Tribes. Besides holding court at Tribes, Professor Cannon also serves as the "Official Heckler" at the neighboring Nuyorican Poets Cafe, a brother organization, as well as an advisor to The House of Tribes Theater, a sister organization. In recent years, he extended his influence across the Atlantic with collaborations with Spanish curator Mireia Sentis. Together, they curated Humor and Rage, an exhibition featuring five minority American artists from diverse ethnic backgrounds, which was exhibited in 2001 at La Pedrera, the historical building designed by Gaudi, in Barcelona.

Elastic No-No Band http://www.elasticnonoband.com/ Elastic No-No Band sings songs about manboobs and Klaus Kinski and cheese fries. Also, songs about love and sex and pain and stuff. Sometimes the band is made up of many people, and sometimes it's just one guy. That guy is Justin Remer, and he turns 30 on September 24, the day of this show. As a birthday present, you should come to this show and enjoy yourself. (If you want, you could buy one of our CDs too. That certainly wouldn't hurt.) [ed’s. note: you could also buy Justin an adult beverage.]

Joanna Fuhrman http://www.redroom.com/author/joanna-fuhrman Joanna Fuhrman is the author of four books of poetry, most recently Pageant (Alice James Books) and Moraine (Hanging Loose Press). She teaches poetry at Rutgers University and in public schools through Teachers & Writers Collaborative. She is the poetry editor for Boog City and the Poetry Project’s Wednesday night reading series curator for the 2010-2011 season.

i feel tractor http://www.myspace.com/ifeeltractor i feel tractor is a 5-piece band that has been around for over a decade, released a self-titled 7", appeared on numerous comps including Frequency - Issue One, Polyamory's new skin for the old ceremony, and Goodbye Better's Weird Terrain, and came out with its first full-length, Once I had an earthquake (Goodbye Better) in 2005. Its newest album, Mellow Crypt, should be appearing sometime in the near future.

Pierre Joris http://pierrejoris.com/home.html Pierre Joris is a poet, translator, essayist, and anthologist who left Luxembourg at 19 and has since lived in France, England, Algeria, and the United States. He has published over 40 books, most recently Canto Diurno #4: The Tang Extending from the Blade, an Ahadada e-book, Justifying the Margins: Essays 1990-2006, and Aljibar I & II (poems). Other recent publications include the CD Routes, not Roots and Meditations on the Stations of Mansour Al-Hallaj 1-21. Recent translations include Paul Celan: Selections and Lightduress by Paul Celan, which received the 2005 PEN Poetry Translation Award. With Jerome Rothenberg he edited the award-winning anthologies Poems for the Millennium (volumes I & II). He teaches at the University of Albany, SUNY.

Noelle Kocot http://www.wavepoetry.com/authors/25-noelle-kocot Noelle Kocot is the author of four books, most recently, Poem for the End of Time and Sunny Wednesday (both from Wave Books). She has a poetry book, The Bigger World, and a discography also forthcoming from Wave. She writes at least one poem a day, and sometimes over 10 poems a day. She has won awards from The National Endowment for the Arts, The Fund for Poetry, The American Poetry Review, and the Academy of American Poets. Originally from Brooklyn, she now lives in South Jersey.

Magnetic Island http://www.myspace.com/magneticislandband Magnetic Island is a musical collective helmed by Lisa Liu and SMV. The pair work with a rotating cast of collaborators to create a unique brand of experimental indie rock. The band has been releasing singles in anticipation of its debut EP, Out At Sea, due this September. Liu and SMV previously formed the core of RENMINBI, a trio founded in 2003 that released three EPs (most recently July 2009’s Surface) and one full-length album (May 2008’s The Phoenix).

Nicole Peyrafitte http://www.nicolepeyrafitte.com/ Nicole Peyrafitte is a performance artist born and raised in the French Pyrenees. She considers herself a Gasco-Rican (1/2 Gascon, 1/2 American) and citizen of Brooklyn. She pursues related multi-cultural and multi-media investigations that integrate her voice, texts, visuals, and also cooking.

David Shapiro
http://jacketmagazine.com/23/shap-p.html
David Shapiro has published more than 20 volumes of art and literary criticism, translations, and anthologies. He has won many prizes and was the first to write a book on John Ashbery and a monograph on Jasper Johns's drawings. His New and Selected Poems (1965–2006) came out from Overlook Press.

Maureen Thorson http://www.maureenthorson.com/ Maureen Thorson is the author of three chapbooks: Twenty Questions for the Drunken Sailor (dusie/flynpyntar press), Mayport (Poetry Society of America), and Novelty Act (Ugly Duckling Presse). Her poetry has recently appeared or is forthcoming in Lungfull!, Barrelhouse, and Hotel Amerika. She lives in Washington, D.C., where she co-curates the In Your Ear reading series at the D.C. Arts Center and runs Big Game Books, the tiniest press in the world.

Anne Waldman “She is the fastest, wittiest woman to run with the wolves in some time.” -Ken Tucker, The New York Times Poet Anne Waldman has been an active member of the “Outrider” experimental poetry community for over 40 years as writer, sprechstimme performer, professor, editor, magpie scholar, infra- structure, and cultural/political activist. Her published work is prodigious, and she has concentrated on the long poem as a cultural intervention with such projects as Marriage: A Sentence, Structure of The World Compared to a Bubble; the recent Manatee/Humanity (Penguin Poets), which is a book-length rhizomic meditation on evolution and endangered species; and the 900-page Iovis Trilogy, Colors In The Mechanism of Concealment, which will be published by Coffee House Press in 2011.

Publishers Weekly recently referred to Anne Waldman as “A counter- cultural giant.” Waldman, grew up on Macdougal Street in the heart of Greenwich Village where she still lives, and bi-furcated to Boulder, Colo. in 1974 when she co-founded The Jack Kerouac School of Disembodied Poetics with Allen Ginsberg at Naropa University, the first Buddhist inspired school in the West, where she currently serves as artistic director of its celebrated Summer Writing program. Waldman helped found and direct The Poetry Project at St. Mark’s Church In-the-Bowery, where she worked first as assistant director and then director for a decade. Waldman has also collaborated extensively with a number of artists, musicians, and dancers, most recently artists Pat Steir and Kiki Smith and theater director Judith Malina. She has also been working most recently with other media, including film and video with her husband, writer and video/film director Ed Bowes. She also performs with her son, musician/composer Ambrose Bye. Their latest CD is “Matching Half” with Akilah Oliver. Some of her performances may be viewed on YouTube.

*Saturday

Miriam Atkin, little scratch pad press http://remembertoforgetmybuffalo.blogspot.com/ http://www.dougfinmanson.blogspot.com/ little scratch pad press publishes significant chapbooks by new and established poets and writers. Founded in 1996, it has published works by Aaron Lowinger, Kristi Meal, Jonathan Skinner and Michael Basinski. Forthcoming titles are Don't Have One by Miriam Atkin, and a set of meditations on painter Chaim Soutine, Excoriate Exhale, by Heller Levinson.

Miriam Atkin's recent study of the resurgence of the pastoral in visual art,Art and Artifice in the Garden: Species-Being and the Memory of Paradise, examines the critique of technology and industry in literature, painting, and film, beginning with the Lascaux petroglyphs and concluding with New Landscape photography. She holds an MFA in Art Criticism and Writing from the School of Visual Arts and lives in Brooklyn. Her first collection of writing, Don't Have One, is out from little scratch pad press.

Beat Radio http://www.beatradio.org/ Beat Radio is an American indie pop project guided by New York singer- songwriter Brian Sendrowitz. The current lineup also features Dan Bills, Brian Ver Straten, Evan Duby, and Mike McCabe. Beat Radio released their debut LP The Great Big Sea in 2007 and the follow up, Safe Inside the Sound, in fall 2009. The band has embarked on a singles series for 2010, releasing two songs each month via bandcamp. Gilbert Ng photo

Binary Marketing Show http://www.binarymarketingshow.com/ Abram Morphew set out for the wilderness of the Birkhead Mountains in search of seclusion, and a place to let his thoughts wonder in peace. He was delighted to discover tunnels, previously only known to the elders of Birkhead, leading to a magical city where he would happen upon a fellow survivor of the elements...

Bethany Carder, awaking from a hypnotic state induced by a small band of mystics, discovered Abram Morphew wondering the ancient underground tunnels beneath the mystical city. Carder was fascinated by Morphew's ideas of healing through experimentation with light, sound, energy, and the power of intent. Emotional turmoil, once so powerful, released through instruments and moving images. They continued forward, energetic pullies attached to cages covered in flesh, time travelers in moments of here connection, near connections, missing the point only to find it resides within and without you. This is the story of the binary marketing show

Their new EP "Clues from the Past" was released last month, and their tour kicked off in Philadelphia, taking them as far west as East Glacier, Mont.

Sommer Browning
http://www.asthmachronicles.blogspot.com/
Sommer Browning writes poems, draws comics, and makes books. Her latest chapbook, written with Brandon Shimoda, is The Bowling (Greying Ghost). She lives in the Mountain Time Zone.

Fay Chiang, Bowery Books
http://www.nyu.edu/clubs/generasian/spring03/Features/faychiang.htm
http://www.boweryartsandscience.org/?page_id=5 Bowery Books is the independent poetry press of Bowery Arts & Science, the non-profit that also provides programs for Bowery Poetry Club. Its mission is to reflect the vigor and diversity of poetry, to publish poetry books and recordings by exceptional established and emerging poets whose work might otherwise lack representation, and to expand the audience for poetry. Edited by Bob Holman and Marjorie Tesser, Bowery Books has published essential anthologies, such as Bowery Women: Poems and Estamos Aquí, Poems by Migrant Farmworkers, as well as works by unique poets like Taylor Mead, the octogenarian Andy Warhol intimate, Poez, a performing street poet, and a romp featuring the Bowery Bartenders. It sponsors the Bowery Voices series, thus far: Body of Water by surrealist poet Janet Hamill, with photographs by Patti Smith, The Touch by punk medievalist Cynthia Kraman, and most recently activist-artist-poet Fay Chiang’s 7 Continents 9 Lives.

Fay Chiang is a writer, artist, and community/cultural activist living and working in Chinatown and the Lower East Side of New York City for the past four decades. Raised in the backroom of a Queens laundry by immigrant parents from Guandong, China, she writes from her experiences as a woman of color from the working class. She believes culture is a psychological weapon to reclaim our past, define our present, and envision possibilities for our future; and that the development of culture is an integral part of progressive social change and social justice movements. Currently working at Project Reach, a youth and community center for young people at risk in Chinatown/Lower East Side, she lives in the East Village.

Peter Davis http://artisnecessary.com/ Peter Davis is the author of Hitler's Mustache and Poetry! Poetry! Poetry!. He edited Poet's Bookshelf: Contemporary Poets on Books that Shaped Their Art. His poems have been in journals like Jacket, No Tell Motel, and Court Green. More info, including about his music project, Short Hand, is available at artisnecessary.com.

Cathy Eisenhower http://www.brooklynrail.org/2010/04/poetry/two-sections-from-distance-decay Cathy Eisenhower is the author of Language of the Dog-head [chapbook] (Phylum Press), clearing without reversal (Edge), and would with and (Roof).

John Godfrey http://www.wavepoetry.com/authors/57-john-godfrey John Godfrey has lived in the East Village since the Sixties. He has been a fellow of the General Electric Foundation and of the Foundation for Contemporary Arts. Wave Books published his ninth collection, City of Corners. He is a registered nurse in a specialty clinic at a city hospital in East Flatbush.

Michael Gottlieb, Faux | Other
http://www.brooklynrail.org/2010/07/books/memoir-yin-and-lang Michael Gottlieb is the author of The Likes of Us, Lost and Found, Gorgeous Plunge, The River Road, New York, Ninety-Six Tears, and other books of poetry. His remarkable Memoir & Essay was just published to wide acclaim by Faux | Other. It contains a memoir about New York City as it was home in the ’70s and ’80s to the nascence of Language Poetry, with candid cameos of many of those involved, and an essay about the possible means of survival that younger poets have available to them. The book has been widely discussed on blogs, in reviews and interviews. His poem This I Find Hard to Believe is just out in the July/August issue of The Brooklyn Rail.

Faux | Other was begun in 2010 by Alan Davies and Jack Kimball to publish and promote new works of poetry by Susie Timmons, Jack Kimball and Michael Gottlieb, and to reissue the 70s magazine A Hundred Posters (edited by Davies).

Mark Horosky, Flying Guillotine Press
http://activedriveway-mth.blogspot.com/
http://flyingguillotinepress.blogspot.com/
In 2008, Tony Mancus and Sommer Browning, two friends from poetry school, started Flying Guillotine Press. They endeavor to make pretty, small, handbound, medulla oblongata-exploding poetry chapbooks cheaply. They work in Denver, Colorado and Arlington, Virginia.

Mark Horosky is the author of the chapbook collection of prose poems, Let It Be Nearby and the forthcoming chapbooks More Frisk Than Risk (Flying Guillotine Press) and Fabulous Beasts (The Equalizer). He is a special education teacher in Brooklyn, New York.

Ken Jacobs
http://www.phylumpress.com/covers/sooner.htm
Ken Jacobs’s pamphlet Sooner (Phylum Press) was released in December 2009. He lives in Washington, D.C.

Jeffrey Jullich, Litmus Press/Aufgabe
http://www.litmuspress.org/portraitofcolondashparenthesis.html
http://www.litmuspress.org/ Jeffrey Jullich is the author of Portrait of Colon Dash Parenthesis (Litmus Press) and Thine Instead Thank (Harry Tankoos Books). His poetry, criticism, and translations have appeared in numerous journals and magazines including American Letters & Commentary, Aufgabe, Boston Review, Chain, Ecopoetics, Fence, LUNGFULL!, New American Writing, Poetry, Rain Taxi, Shiny, Spoon River, and VeRT.

Litmus Press is a nonprofit literature and arts organization dedicated to supporting innovative, cross-genre writing, with an emphasis on poetry and international works in translation. Litmus press publishes two to three single author works a year, in addition to Aufgabe, an annual journal of poetry, translations, essays, reviews, and art.

Dennis Leroy Kangalee, Nomad Junkie
http://outlawpoetry.com/2010/07/13/dennis-leroy-kangalee-its-not-life-thats-bad-its-society/ http://www.nomadjunkie.com/ Known as the Nomad Junkie due to his peripatetic lifestyle and artistic restlessness, Dennis Leroy Kangalee is an N.Y.C.-based writer from Queens born to West Indian parents. An outsider artist from the get go, he has no degree and has won no awards. His stories, plays, essays, and satire reflect his own anger and frustration as he sees the world's injustice in an everyday observation. An expelled performing artist from Juilliard and maverick of the New York underground, Kangalee has led several lives and is constantly looking for meaning. Since 1997, he has begged, borrowed, and stolen to support his art.

Urged by the Last Poets to continue writing prose during the creation of his 2001 cult-film movie about racism and its consequences, As an Act of Protest, Kangalee’s writing is political and personal. Inspired by the Black Arts Movement, punk, and the Theater of the Absurd, Kangalee draws inspiration from his own life as opposed to Literary History or knowledge of the classics. Adopting the “Nomad Junkie” as his nom de plume while homeless and later in a self-imposed exile overseas, he writes for the little man caught in the snow and beneath the corporate avalanche, those who draw lines in the sand, the losers, the rebels, the tormented, and the romantic rovers hovering on the margins of the mainstream who dare to try to make sense of “Life in Society” and the doorway of 21st century-Brave New World ethos.

Currently, he is developing his first full-length spoken word album, My Dying City, an experimental radio drama that presents itself as a cubistic portrait of a spirit crushed under the weight of corporate- friendly gentrification.

Kangalee is married and lives in N.Y.C. Nina Fleck photo.

erica kaufman
http://sites.google.com/site/ericajane0808/
erica kaufman is the author of censory impulse.

Rorie Kelly http://www.roriekelly.com/ Rorie Kelly is a singer/songwriter and conquistadora originally from Long Island. Her main goal in life is to travel around in her little blue car and make music and art. She was recently named one of Long Island's "Top 10 Indie Artists You've Never Heard of" by Long Island Pulse Magazine and is about to release her first full length album, Wish Upon a Bottlecap. She is also a published writer of feminist blogs, music reviews, and poetry. More information and pretty songs can be found at the above site.

Lach http://www.lachtoday.com/ As a songwriter Lach founded the Antifolk art and music movement, which is sited as a main inspiration by hundreds of performers today from Beck and Jeffrey Lewis to Hamell on Trial, The Moldy Peaches, and Regina Spektor in U.S.A. to the likes of Laura Marling and Emmy the Great in the U.K.

Chris McCreary
http://furniturepressbooks.com/books/mccrearyundone/
http://www.ixnaypress.com/
Chris McCreary's new book, Undone, was just published by Furniture Press. Along with Jenn McCreary, he co-edits ixnay press a small Philadelphia-based poetry press. He teaches English at a private high school outside of Philly.

Jenn McCreary http://jennmccreary.com/ Jenn McCreary is the author of :ab ovo:, published by Dusie Press in the spring of 2009. She is also the author of two chapbooks: errata stigmata (Potes & Poets Press), & four o’clock pocket chiming (Beautiful Swimmer Press); the e-chapbook:Maps & Legends: (Scantily Clad Press) & a doctrine of signatures (Singing Horse Press).

Her poetry has been published in magazines including Combo, Lungfull!, Tool: A Magazine, POM2, So To Speak, Sous Rature, Tangent, & How2. She lives with her husband, the writer Chris McCreary, & their twin sons in Philadelphia, where she co-edits ixnay press with Chris, works for the Mural Arts Program, & serves on the board of the Philly Spells Writing Center.

David Mills, Straw Gate Press
http://www.brooklynrail.org/2010/07/books/rapid-transit-june10-2
http://www.leafscape.org/StrawGateBooks/index.html Founded by Phyllis Wat in 2005, Straw Gate Books publishes poetry and occasional related texts. They are particularly interested in works by women and non-polemical writing with an underlying social content. Straw Gate also features new authors and authors whose work is under- served.

Author David Mills has received Henry James, Cave Canem and Breadloaf fellowships, as well as New York Foundation of the Arts, Brio, and Hughes/Diop Awards. He also won the inaugural 2008 Pan African Literary Forum Poetry Prize and a Soros grant. David’s work has appeared in Callaloo, Rattapallax, The Pedestal, Hanging Loose Press, Aloud, and elsewhere. He has recorded his poetry on RCA Records and toured Europe performing his work with jazz bands. His book, The Dream Detective, is a 2010 publication of Straw Gate Books.

Mel Nichols http://stevenfama.blogspot.com/2009/11/mel-nichols-catalytic-exteriorization.html Mel Nichols' recent books are Catalytic Exteriorization Phenomenon (National Poetry Series finalist; Edge) and Bicycle Day (Slack Buddha 2008). Recent journal publications include Poetry, New Ohio Review, and The Brooklyn Rail.

Urayoán Noel http://www.urayoannoel.com Urayoán Noel was born in Puerto Rico, divides his time between the Bronx and upstate, and teaches English at SUNY-Albany. His creative and critical writings have recently appeared in Fence; Orbis (U.K.); Diasporic Avant-Gardes (Palgrave); and Malditos latinos, malditos sudacas. Poesía hispanoamericana made in USA (México, D.F., El billar de Lucrecia). His new book, Hi-density Politics, is forthcoming from BlazeVOX.

Tom Orange http://destinationout.vox.com/ After eight years in the D.C. poetry scene and adjunct teaching there and a year in Nashville, Tom Orange moved back to his home town of Cleveland, where he is active in the local arts and music scenes. Recent work includes "Tremont Poetography," a group poet-photographer book and exhibition at Doubting Thomas Gallery; solo and small group experimental music performances on alto sax, clarinet, guitar, banjo, and dulcimer at The Scarab Club (Detroit), [redacted] 224 Gallery (Buffalo), Audio Visual Baptism (Cleveland), and the Post_Moot Convocation (Oxford, Ohio); and an excerpt from his chapbook American Dialectics (Slack Buddha) being reprinted in Against Expression: An Anthology of Conceptual Writing (edited by Craig Dworkin and Kenneth Goldsmith for Northwestern University Press) due out this December. His music blog can be found at the above url.

Matt Reeck, No, Dear magazine http://www.nodearmagazine.com/ Matt Reeck has published poetry and translations in magazines and chapbooks, including "Midwinter" by Fact-Simile Press. "Coyote Pursues," his marionette theater collaboration with the visual artist Deborah Simon, was performed during St Ann's Warehouse's Labapalooza in June.

No, Dear is a hand-sewn print poetry publication featuring the work of New York City poets.

Douglas Rothschild http://pierrejoris.com/blog/?p=1377 DglsN.Rthsjchld has been walking & thinking for a long time. Occasionally he sits. Sometimes he writes these thoughts down. Many great poems have come to him in this manner. & you can read some of them in his book THEOGONY published last spring by SubPress.

Rod Smith http://epc.buffalo.edu/authors/smithr/ Rod Smith is the author of Deed, Music or Honesty, Protective Immediacy, and In Memory of My Theories. He edits the journal Aerial, publishes Edge Books, and manages Bridge Street Books in Washington, D.C. He is also currently editing The Selected Letters of Robert Creeley with Kaplan Harris and Peter Baker for The University of California Press.

Abby Walthausen, Fractious Press http://www.literaturesandwich.com/ http://www.fractiouspress.com/ Fractious Press is a small artist-run publishing collective founded in the Bronx and Washington Heights, New York in 2005. Since its first release, which was named in the Village Voice's Best of New York 2005, the press has published emerging artists and writers of fiction, poetry, comics, and zines, and has occasionally co-hosted day-long zine and small press fairs in Upper Manhattan. The May 2010 edition of the fair was held with support from the Manhattan Community Arts Fund. ForeWord magazine called the press "innovative … a kind of counterculture collaborative."

Abby Walthausen likes to write what could be considered the "historical fiction" of poetry. She spends her time taking all the fun out of poetry for high school students. Her poetry book The Internet is forthcoming from Fractious Press.

*Sunday

Unnameable and Zinc

Allison Cobb http://www.factoryschool.com/pubs/heretical/vol5/cobb/index.html Allison Cobb is the author of Born2 (Chax Press) about growing up in Los Alamos, N.M., and the just-published Green-Wood (Factory School), which chronicles her experiences in Brooklyn's famous nineteenth- century cemetery. She lived for a number of years in New York City, where she worked for the Environmental Defense Fund. She now lives in Portland, Ore., and works for an energy conservation nonprofit.

CAConrad http://caconrad.blogspot.com/ http://phillysound.blogspot.com/ CAConrad is the recipient of the 2009 Gil Ott Book Award for The Book of Frank (Wave Books). He is also the author of Advanced Elvis Course (Soft Skull Press), (Soma)tic Midge (Faux Press), Deviant Propulsion (Soft Skull Press), and a collaboration with poet Frank Sherlock, The City Real & Imagined (Factory School). The son of white trash asphyxiation, his childhood included selling cut flowers along the highway for his mother and helping her shoplift.

Marcella Durand http://www.futurepoem.com/bookpages/trafficandweather.html Futurepoem Books published Marcella Durand's book-length site-specific poem, Traffic & Weather. The poem was written during a six-month residency at the Lower Manhattan Cultural Council in which she worked alongside visual artists in a raw office space. Her other books include, most recently, Deep Eco Pre, a collaboration with Tina Darragh published by Little Red Leaves, and AREA, published by Belladonna Books. She is currently working on a new collection of poems written mostly from the same table in the New York Public Library's Leroy Street branch. John Sarsgard photo.

Tonya Foster http://writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/x/Foster.php Tonya Foster is the author of poetry, fiction, and essays that have been published in a variety of journals including Callaloo, DrumVoices, Gulf Coast, the Hat, Lungfull!, nocturnes, and Traffic. She was an art/poetry columnist for The Poetry Project Newsletter and has published non-fiction essays in NY Arts Magazine, NYFA Quarterly, and The Poetry Project Newsletter. Her work has also appeared in the anthologies: Free Radicals: American Poets before their First Books, (Subpress), edited by Jordan Davis and Sarah Manguso; and POeP! (Rattapallax Press), edited by Edwin Torres and Anselm Berrigan, one of the first eBook literary journals dedicated to innovative poetry. She's the author of A Swarm of Bees in High Court (Belladonna Books) and co-editor of Third Mind: Teaching Creative Writing Through Visual Art (Teachers and Writers Collaborative). Foster is currently completing A Mathematics of Chaos, a cross-genre, multi-media piece about New Orleans, home, and home-buoys; Monkey Talk, an inter-genre piece about race, paranoia, surveillance, and need; and A History of the Bitch, a collection of poems.

Foster received her bachelor of arts in English and political science from Newcomb College, Tulane University, her master of fine arts in creative writing from the University of Houston, and is a Ph.D. candidate at City University of New York Graduate Center. A recipient of a number of fellowships, notably from the Ford Foundation, the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, and the City University of New York, Foster teaches at Bard College. A native of New Orleans, she writes and resides in Harlem.

Shafer Hall
http://shaferhall.blogspot.com/
Shafer Hall is a poet and bartender in New York City. His first collection "Never Cry Woof" is available from No Tell Books. He can be found on the internet at the above url.

Brandon Holmquest http://essay-poems.blogspot.com/ Brandon Holmquest is the author of City: Bolshevik superpoem in 5 cantos (Ugly Duckling), a translation of Manuel Maples Arce; Stereo Daguerreotype (Splitleaves Press); and The Sorrows of Young Worthless (Truck Press). He lives in Philadelphia.

Ivy Johnson
Ivy Johnson is a vegetarian. Her first chapbook, Walt Disney's Light Show Extravaganza, will be out this fall from Boog Literature.

Pattie McCarthy http://www.apogeepress.com/authors_mccarthy.html Pattie McCarthy is the author of Table Alphabetical of Hard Words, Verso, and bk of (h)rs, all from Apogee Press. Recent work has appeared in Colorado Review, Dusie, Eoagh, ixnay reader, The Poker, The Poetry Project Newsletter, and The Tangent. She has taught literature and creative writing at Queens College—CUNY, Loyola University Maryland, Towson University, and, currently, Temple University. She lives in Philadelphia.

Carlos Soto Román http://the-otolith.blogspot.com/2010/04/carlos-soto-roman.html Carlos Soto Román was born in Valparaíso, Chile. He has published the books La Marcha de los Quiltros (The Mongrel's march), Haiku Minero (Miner Haiku), and Cambio y Fuera (Over and Out). His work has been collected in Bar (Anthology) and in Pozo (collective book). In 2004 he received the Creation Fellowship of the Book & Reading Council of the Chilean Government. He has resided in Philadelphia since March 2009, is a member of The New Philadelphia Poets, and the editor of the new cooperative anthology of U.S. poetry, Elective Affinities.

Brian Speaker http://www.myspace.com/speakerb http://www.reverbnation.com/brianspeaker Brian Speaker is a Brooklyn-based singer, songwriter, producer and engineer. For one year, from September 3, 2008 to September 2, 2009, Brian wrote, recorded and posted a song onto the Internet every single day. The entire 365-song catalog, titled Spiral Notebook, is available for free online. He is currently putting the finishing touches on a rock opera about a lone spaceman's mission for inner-galactic peace called The Mars Chronicles. Several of Brian's songs have appeared on television, and his list of recording and production credits for independent music in NYC is vast.

Kevin Varrone http://www.uglyducklingpresse.org/catalog/browse/item/?pubID=66 Kevin Varrone’s most recent collection, g-point almanac: passyunk lost, is just out from Ugly Duckling Presse, as is a companion chapbook, The Philadelphia Improvements. His previous collection, g- point almanac: id est, was published by Instance Press. Individual poems are available electronically at Duration Press, in Big Bridge, Cross Connect, and [out of nowhere]. He lives in South Philly and teaches at Temple University.

Dustin Williamson http://rustbucklebooks.blogspot.com/ Dustin Williamson is the author of the chapbooks Obstructed View (Salacious Banter), Gorilla Dust (Open 24 Hours), and Exhausted Grunts (Cannibal Books). He is the publisher of Rust Buckle Books. He served as the Monday Night coordinator last season at the Poetry Project.

*Monday

Jeremiah Birnbaum of The Ramblers http://www.theramblersnyc.com/ http://www.jeremiahbirnbaum.com/ The Ramblers are a rock ’n’ roll band based out of New York. They released their new fan-funded CD, Getting There, to a packed house at Joe's Pub and great reviews, including a Critic's Pick from New York Magazine, and Blogcritics.org, who compared them to Little Feat, The Band and the E Street Band. With Jeremiah Birnbaum, proverbial son-of- a-preacherman (his dad's a rabbi) and Scott Stein at the helm—sharing singing duties and writing the band's material together—The Ramblers' unique brand of Americana fused with the best of Southern rock has earned them a devoted following and the opportunity to open for Levon Helm at his Midnight Ramble, where they received an encore and a standing ovation.

Julian T. Brolaski http://electiveaffinitiesusa.blogspot.com/2010/02/julian-t-brolaski.html Julian T. Brolaski is the recent editor of NO GENDER: Reflections on the Life & Work of kari edwards with erica kaufman and E. Tracy Grinnell (Litmus Press), and author of the chapbook buck in a corridor (flynpyntar), gowanus atropolis (forthcoming, Ugly Duckling) and Advice for Lovers (forthcoming, City Lights). Brolaski lives in Brooklyn where xe is an editor at Litmus Press, curates vaudeville shows, and plays country music with The Low & the Lonesome. New work is on the blog hermofwarsaw.

Joe Elliot http://www.sptraffic.org/html/book_reviews/elliot.html Joe Elliot ran a weekly reading series at Biblios Bookstore in the early ’90s, and helped move the series to the Zinc Bar where it continues. He co-edited two chapbook series: A Musty Bone and Situations, which published authors such as Antje Katcher, Paul Genega, Duncan Nichols, Mitch Highfill, Kim Lyons, Douglas Rothschild, Shannon Ketch, Lisa Jarnot, Bill Luoma, Kevin Davies, Marcella Durand and many others. Joe is the author of numerous chapbooks including: You Gotta Go In It’s The Big Game, Poems To Be Centered On Much Much Larger Sheets Of Paper, 15 Clanking Radiators, 14 Knots, Reduced, Half Gross (a collaboration with artist John Koos), and Object Lesson (a collaboration with artist Rich O’Russa). Granary Books published If It Rained Here, a collaboration with artist Julie Harrison. His work has appeared in many magazines, including The World, The Poker, Giants Play Well In The Drizzle, The Poetry Project Newsletter, Torque, and Arras. His long poem, 101 Designs for The World Trade Center, was published by Faux Press’ e-mag, and a subpress published a collection of his work, Opposable Thumb, in 2006.

Laura Elrick http://electiveaffinitiesusa.blogspot.com/2010/06/laura-elrick.html Laura Elrick’s latest text-based work (as yet untitled) is a book-length series of poems that proceeds by accretive and migratory iteration; other works include a video-poem Stalk, a set of audio pieces for doubled-voice, and two books of poetry:Fantasies in Permeable Structures (Factory School), and sKincerity (Krupskaya). Her essay “Poetry, Ecology, and the Production of Lived Space” was recently published in the the eco language reader edited by Brenda Iijima (Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs/Nightboat Books). She lives in Brooklyn.

Farrah Field http://adultish.blogspot.com/ Farrah Field's first book of poems, Rising, won Four Way Books' 2007 Levis Prize. Her poems have appeared in many publications including Harp & Altar, We Are So Happy to Know Something, Ploughshares, and are forthcoming in Lit, Fou, and Mantis. She co-hosts a reading series called Yardmeter Editions and blogs at the above url.

Mariana Ruiz Firmat http://www.brooklynrail.org/2010/03/poetry/two-mariana http://3sadtigers.blogspot.com/ Mariana Ruiz Firmat is a poet and publisher of Three Sad Tigers Press. Recent work can be found in the March 2010 issue of the Brooklyn Rail. She is the author Another Strange Island (Open 24 Hours Press) and Smiling Into the Noise (Boog Literature). After riding her bicycle cross-country 11 years ago she landed in Brooklyn and has been there ever since. She currently works as union organizer.

E. Tracy Grinnell http://jacketmagazine.com/40/at-grinnell-tracy.shtml E. Tracy Grinnell is the author of Helen: A Fugue (Belladonna Elder Series #1), Some Clear Souvenir (O Books), and Music or Forgetting (O Books), as well as the limited edition chapbooks Mirrorly, A Window (flynpyntar), Leukadia (Trafficker Press), Hell and Lower Evil (Lyre Lyre Pants on Fire), Humoresque (Blood Pudding/Dusie #3) Quadriga, a collaboration with Paul Foster Johnson (gong chapbooks), Of the Frame (Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs), and Harmonics(Melodeon Poetry Systems). She is the founding editor of Litmus Press and Aufgabe, and she lives in Brooklyn.

J.J. Hayes http://www.myspace.com/jjhayes J.J. Hayes writes poetry, song and philosophy. He has been published occasionally. Steven Pinker in The Stuff of Thought quotes J.J's 2004 letter "One World Scientific Language?" as an example of neo-Whorfian linguistic determinism. J.J. is thinking about how to respond, but wonders if his response will be determined by his language...

Chris Martin http://flavors.me/chrismartin Chris Martin is the author of American Music (Copper Canyon). Coffee House Press will publish his second book of poetry, Becoming Weather, next year. After editing the full 11-issue run of Puppy Flowers, he recently retired it, though they can all still be seen on your computer. He lives around the corner.

Cate Peebles http://www.foumagazine.net/ Cate Peebles' work has appeared in numerous print and online journals including: Tin House, Octopus, CutBank, Cannibal, No Tell Motel, Forklift, Ohio, and La Petite Zine. Her chapbook Taco Truck to Awesometown was published by Scantily Clad Press last year. She co-edits Fou, an online poetry magazine, and lives in Brooklyn.

Jared White http://jaredswhite.blogspot.com/ Jared White was born in Massachusetts and lives in New York. His chapbook Yellowcake was included in the hand-sewn anthology Narwhal from Cannibal Books. He has poems recently published or forthcoming in Action Yes, Coconut, Fulcrum, Laurel Review, and Modern Review, and essays in Harp & Altar, Open Letters Monthly, and Poets off Poetry. He co-directs the Yardmeter Editions event series in Brooklyn and blogs occasionally at the above url.

*Tuesday

Satellite Telephone http://nolongdistance.endingthealphabet.org/ Satellite Telephone was founded in Portland, Ore. in 2007, on a contact-high from the mimeo retrospective, A Secret Location on the Lower East Side (Granary Books). Three editions have been issued since, as the publication has moved from Portland, to Los Angeles, to Buffalo. The vision of the zine will soon be manifest in a series of chapbooks and broadsides as well, to be published under the imprint Scary Topiary Press.

Franklin Bruno http://nervousuntothirst.blogspot.com/ Franklin Bruno is a musician and writer based in Queens. He has recorded and toured as chief songwriter for the bands Nothing Painted Blue and (currently) The Human Hearts, and as a solo artist. His most recent release, Local Currency 1991-1998 (Fayettenam) collects four- track/lo-fi recordings from out-of-print vinyl seven-inches and compilations. He is a frequent collaborator with The Mountain Goats' John Darnielle, both as a multi-instrumentalist on the acclaimed 4AD albums The Sunset Tree and Tallahassee, and in the occasional duo The Extra Glens. He is the author of a book on Elvis Costello's Armed Forces in Continuum's 33 1/3 series, and of the poetry chapbook Policy Instrument (Lame House). His poetry has appeared in Satellite Telephone, The Brooklyn Rail, and Abraham Lincoln; his essays and criticism, in The Nation, Oxford American, and The Believer.

Todd Colby http://gleefarm.blogspot.com/ Todd Colby has published four books of poetry: Ripsnort, Cush, Riot in the Charm Factory: New and Selected Writings, and Tremble & Shine, all published by Soft Skull Press. Todd has performed his poetry on PBS and MTV, and his collaborative books and paintings with artist David Lantow can be seen in the Brooklyn Museum of Art and The Museum of Modern Art special collections libraries. Todd serves on the Board of Directors for The Poetry Project, where he has also taught several poetry workshops.

Robert Dewhurst http://endingthealphabet.org/ Robert Dewhurst edits Satellite Telephone, and co-edits Wild Orchids. His poetry and critical prose have appeared in Satellite Telephone, Peaches & Bats, On Contemporary Practice, and The Poetry Project Newsletter. An essay of his on the 70s newspaper Gay Sunshine will appear in the volume Porn Archives, forthcoming from SUNY Press. He currently lives in Buffalo, NY, where he attends the Poetics Program at SUNY-Buffalo.

Dorothea Lasky http://www.birdinsnow.com/ Dorothea Lasky is the author of two full-length collections of poetry, AWE (Wave Books, 2007) and Black Life (Wave Books, 2010), and numerous chapbooks. Currently, she researches creativity and education at the University of Pennsylvania.

Eileen Myles http://www.eileenmyles.com/ Eileen Myles has written thousands of poems since she gave her first reading at CBGB's in 1974. Her books include The Inferno, The Importance of Being Iceland, Sorry, Tree, Skies, on my way, Cool for You, School of Fish, Maxfield Parrish, Not Me, and Chelsea Girls. In 1995, with Liz Kotz, she edited The New Fuck You: Adventures in Lesbian Reading, for Semiotext(e).

Rebekah Rutkoff
http://fence.fenceportal.org/v13n1/
Rebekah Rutkoff is an artist, moving image curator and Ph.D. candidate in the English Department at the CUNY Graduate Center. She lives in Brooklyn.

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W. 28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)
http://itunes.apple.com/WebObjects/MZStore.woa/wa/viewPodcast?id=343169880
For music from Gilmore boys:
http://www.myspace.com/gilmoreboysmusic

↑ Index

121. steve dalachinsky
Re: Teaching through Turco - help?
Thu 16 Sep 2010

LET'S MAKE THIS A PARTY BRING FOOD AND DRINK

THE LIVING

THEATER PRESENTS:

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TULI
a celebration of the life of the late great Tuli Kupferberg

Tuesday Sept. 28, 7 pm until forever
at the Living Theater -
21 Clinton Street
between Houston and Stanton
(F, J, M, G to Essex - Delancey stop
or F to Second Ave)
FREE and open to the public a cast of 100's including Videos by Thelma Blitz
speakers, readers, musicians i.e. the Fuxxons,
Judith Malina, David Amram, John Kruth and Jon S. Hall, Don Fleming, Brendan Evans, Samara Kupferberg, Peter Stampfel, Steve Ben Israel, Sky Hall, Jeffery Lewis, Ron Kolm, Jim Feast, Susan Scutti, Bob Fass, Jill Rapaport, Tom Savage, Norman Savitt, Dorothy Friedman August, Clayton Patterson,Valery Oisteanu, Carl Watson, David Huberman, Steve Dalachinsky, Yuko Otomo, Tsaurah Litzky, Danny Shot, Cary Abrams, Coby Batty, Steven Taylor, Pierre Joris and Nicole Peyrafitte, George Wallace, Richard West, Thaddeus Rutkowski, Eliot Katz, Harry Nudel, Lorie Reinstein, Herschel Silverman, Mike Golden, Michael Carter, Stephen Paul Miller, possible appearances by Amiri Baraka, Bob Fass & many more. plus surprise guests

BRING FOOD AND DRINK

if ya knew him
come and say a word or 3
for info email [redacted]
or call 1212 - 925 - 5256

On Tue, 14 Sep 2010 17:22:26 -0400 Aaron Belz <[redacted]> writes:
> Friends,
>
> Again I am teaching through the first 70 pages of Lewis Turco's BOOK
> OF
> FORMS, and again I lack an adequate outline from which to work.
> These pages > are jam-packed with information that would fall naturally into a > traditional, > nested outline, and I've never taken time to write one. Does anyone > have an > outline of this book, or the first 1/3 of this book, to share? I'd > be much > obliged...

>
> Send offline: [redacted]
>
> Thanks!
>
> Aaron Belz
>
>
>

↑ Index

122. steve dalachinsky

Re: forwarded . . . re: Mainliner (readings in Cinci)

Thu 16 Sep 2010

---

thanks for passing this on to all chris it is rare someone will offer what they propose

On Tue, 14 Sep 2010 11:01:57 -0400 cris cheek <[redacted]> writes:
> We would like to invite you to read your work in Cincinnati, OH as > part of > our Mainliner reading series. Mainliner is a brand spanking new DIY > reading > series held at InkTank in Over-the-Rhine.
>
> We will provide payment for transportation, food, and a place to > stay. We > hope that these modest offerings will be satisfactory. Thank you for > your > time and hope to hear from you soon.
>
>
> Mark Mendoza & Micah Freeman
>
>
>
> p.s.
> please pass this around to anyone you think might be interested
>
> and have them get in touch with us: [redacted] or > [redacted]
>

>
>

↑ Index

123. julia bloch
CFP: graduate student conference on Virtual Histories @Penn
Thu 16 Sep 2010

CALL FOR PAPERS | VIRTUAL HISTORIES
Graduate Humanities Forum | http://humanities.sas.upenn.edu/ghf.shtml
Penn Humanities Forum | http://humanities.sas.upenn.edu
University of Pennsylvania

DEADLINE: THURSDAY, OCTOBER 14, 2010
SUBMIT proposals (250 words maximum) and one-page CV by e-mail attachment to Scott Enderle (enderlej [at] english.upenn.edu).

The Graduate Humanities Forum of the University of Pennsylvania invites submissions for its 11th annual conference: "Virtual Histories." The one-day interdisciplinary conference will take place on Friday, February 18th, 2011 at the Penn Humanities Forum in conjunction with its 2010-2011 topic: "Virtuality."

Ours is, as the commonplace would have it, an age of information. Viewed as part of the old-fashioned scheme of Stone, Bronze, and Iron, our age seems rarefied indeed: hard yet malleable, iron is apt to be shaped by our will, but information is infinitely more so. Poised to escape into pure ideality, we may find it easy to forget that the virtual also has a history.

"Virtual Histories" foregrounds the historical matrix in which our information technologies are embedded, seeking traces of the virtual in the rituals and dreams of the past, while at the same time considering the history of virtuality as one not yet enacted.

We invite submissions from a wide range of disciplines exploring points of continuity and rupture between past, present, and future virtualities. How do the other worlds of religious doctrine overlap with the other world of Second Life? What is the long history of icons, scripts, and avatars? To what degree are instant wire transfers more virtual than the bills of sale and credit, bank notes, or paper money of earlier centuries? What is the phenomenology of a bank run? What are the ramifications of virtual experience for the empiricism of Locke, Berkeley, and Hume? What is the material history of the virtual? How have constructs of gender and race virtualized bodies, and what are the ethics of bodily escape and transcendence among Platonic users of sites such as match.com?

At the same time as we seek to historicize the virtual, we invite contributions that limn possibilities not yet realized, exploring the potential of distant reading and text mining, and considering prospects that continue to emerge for politics, social interaction, and art, not only in visual, but also in auditory and even tactile forms. What new subjectivities and experiences might the virtual make available, perhaps even as it calls into question the stability of those concepts?

Other topics for proposals might include the following:

-The demarcation of the virtual.
-The material bases of virtual superstructures.
-"New" media of past eras and virtual appropriations of "old" media.
-Grammars and ideologies of the virtual.
-Imagined communities and virtual nations.
-Intellectual Property and virtual appropriation.
-Mimesis, simulation, and sensory prosthetics.

Conference Keynote: LISA NAKAMURA (Illinois, Urbana-Champaign) GRIEFING CULTURE AND INCIVILITY ON THE INTERNET Lisa Nakamura is the author or coeditor of four books, including _Digitizing Race: Visual Cultures of the Internet_ (University of Minnesota Press, 2007) and _Race After the Internet_ (with Peter Chow-White, Routledge, forthcoming 2011). She is currently working on a new monograph tentatively entitled Workers Without Bodies: Towards a Theory of Race and Digital Labor in Virtual Worlds. Nakamura is the Director of the Asian American Studies Program, Professor in the Institute of Communication Research and Media Studies Program, and Professor of Asian American Studies at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign, where she teaches courses on Asian Americans and media as well as introductory and advanced courses on new media criticism, history, and theory.

Proposals should be no longer than 250 words, and should be submitted along with a one-page CV by email attachment to Scott Enderle (enderlej [at] english.upenn.edu). The deadline for proposals is Thursday, October 14th, 2010.

↑ Index

124. Poetry Project

Upcoming Events at The Poetry Project & Fall Workshop Offerings

Thu 16 Sep 2010

Hi Everyone,

Just a reminder, the Peter Orlovsky Memorial Reading will take place next Wednesday, September 22nd in the Sanctuary at 8pm. Admission is free & see below for more details. Also included in this informational & friendly reminder are the descriptions & sign-up infor for The Poetry Project¹s fall workshops. Workshops will be lead by Karen Weiser, Sally Silvers, Joel Lewis, & Akilah Oliver. It¹s not too late to sign-up. Peruse & see you soon.

Love,

The Poetry Project

UPCOMING /

WEDNESDAY SEPTEMBER 22 / 8PM
Peter Orlovsky Memorial Reading

Poet, singer, farmer, yodeler, banjo-picker, Buddhist-practitioner, Allen Ginsberg¹s lifelong-companion, Kerouac¹s Simon Darlovsky in Desolation Angels & George in The Dharma Bums, the generous & wonderfully whimsical Peter Orlovsky, (July 8, 1933 May 30, 2010), was an unforgettable & hugely colorful presence in the East Village, and in and around the Poetry Project. Please join us in a night of music, video, song and poetry, as some of his closest friends pay tribute to him including: Chuck Lief, Philip Glass, Ed Sanders, Steven Taylor, Hal Willner, Janine Pommy Vega, Andy Clausen, Patti Smith, Anne Waldman, Gordon Ball, Rosebud Pettet, Simon Pettet, Bill Morgan, Anselm Berrigan, and John Godfrey. This event will take place in the Sanctuary. Admission is FREE.

FALL 2010 WORKSHOPS & SIGN-UP INFO /

TO NEITHER EXTREME: TEXTS FROM OTHER CENTURIES AND THE WORKS CONTEMPORARY POETS MAKE FROM THEM KAREN WEISER
FRIDAYS 7PM ‹ 9PM / 10 SESSIONS / BEGINS OCTOBER 8TH

So much of how we think of history comes to us in the form of narratives. What happens to our understanding when that text from the past is poetry or is re-visioned into poetry? How do poets work with historical texts or different kinds of older disciplinary narratives? For a brief period early scientific texts were poems, and yet our culture seems to have mostly forgotten that poetry has the capacity to be wide in what it attempts to do or think through. Lisa Robertson writes in the poem ³Palinode/²: ³Though my object is history, not neutrality / I am prepared to adhere to neither extreme.² My hope is that we can explore our own writing as it comes out of a reading practice, considering history without feeling inclined to ³adhere² to its formulations. We will look at pairings made up of contemporary poems and the works (or historical subjects) they converse with, seriously engaging both texts on their own terms and together, while writing poems that make use of the past to open new vistas of inquiry. Some texts will include selections from: A Key Into the Language of America by Rosmarie Waldrop and A Key Into the Language of America by Roger Williams; Fred Moten¹s Hughson¹s Tavern and Jill Lepore¹s New York Burning; and Aaron Kunin¹s The Sore Throat and William James The Principles of Psychology, Vol. 1. ; Lisa Robertson¹s R¹s Boat and Rousseau¹s ³Fifth Walk²; Elizabeth Willis¹s Meteoric Flowers and Erasmus Darwin¹s The Botanic Garden; Susan Howe¹s ³Thorow² and Thoreau¹s Walden. Karen Weiser¹s first book of poems, To Light Out, was published by Ugly Duckling Presse in the Spring of 2010. She is a doctoral candidate at the CUNY Graduate Center studying early American literature.

POETRY ON THE FLY JOEL LEWIS
SATURDAYS NOON ‹ 2PM / 5 SESSIONS / BEGINS OCTOBER 9TH

Although the contemporary trend in poetry tends towards book-length projects and beyond, what is a poet to do when she lives on the fringes of a far-away ³up & coming² neighborhood, shares an apartment with 5 other people (three of which are in a band) and juggles a series of poorly paying and widely scattered teaching jobs? This workshop focuses on the art of writing where you happen to be and taking advantage of a few snatched moments in a coffee bar or on a seat in a slowly moving ³G² train. Working paradigms include Frank O¹Hara Œs Lunch Poems, written during the noon sup on a stationary store¹s chained typewriter (instructor will explain this piece of equipment to those under 30), Philip Whalen¹s poetry of notebooks compressed into viable worlds, Paul Blackburn¹s subway poems and his open-form Journals project & Joan Kyger¹s in-the-moment poetics. Requirements for class are: a notebook, some form of writing device and a Metro Card with some money on it. Joel Lewis travels to work via ferry, light rail subway, bus and goat cart to his social work gig on Staten Island ‹ always with a roller ball pen & Moleskine® notebook at his ready. He is considered the sole member of the 4th generation of New York School Poets, while serving as the poetic conscious for the state of New Jersey. With that in mind, his most recent book is Learning From New Jersey (Talisman House).

OUT OF YOUR MIND (AND IN YOUR BODY): A MOVEMENT WORKSHOP FOR WRITERS SALLY SILVERS
TUESDAYS AT 7PM ‹ 9PM / 10 SESSIONS / BEGINS OCTOBER 12TH

This is a movement workshop for writers who want to explore creating movement out of words and writing out of movement. No dance, theater, or athletic ability/experience is required. Dancers or choreographers who want to work with language and with untrained movers are also very welcome. We¹ll start with a physical warm up designed to fire up your senses, center you in your body, and get your creative juices flowing. We¹ll explore ways of writing inspired by movement. We¹ll look at people moving on video (from Jerry Lewis, and Robin Williams to sports to break dancing, from Yvonne Rainer, Douglas Dunn, Bill T. Jones to my own dances) with an eye toward new kinds of writing: texts to accompany performance, to combine poetry with documentation, that designs movement or is energized by it. We¹ll look at some texts that have inspired or accompanied dance & performance (from Emily Dickinson to Vito Acconci to John Cage, etc.) And we¹ll especially look at our own writing to imagine performing it & putting it in motion. Through collaborations, talking about videos, writing and editing together and alone, we¹ll create performances that spotlight the experiments that start with our bodies. When you stimulate your body, your creative process comes alive in ways that will amaze you. Let¹s open some new horizons for your writing. Did I already say no movement training or dance experience necessary? Wear or bring comfortable clothes & shoes. Sally Silvers is writer/ choreographer who has been making dances and texts for 30 years. Her first group work featured non-dancer poets. She also currently dances for Yvonne Rainer.

THE IRREPARABLE, IRRETRIEVABLE AND FORGIVENESS AKILAH OLIVER
SATURDAYS AT NOON ‹ 2PM / 5 SESSIONS / BEGINS NOVEMBER 13TH

For this workshop process, consider the poem as that which poses the question, that the poem doesn¹t necessarily represent knowledge or ³experience², but rather seeks to understand the world, in all its terribly beautiful humanness. What is rupture? Rapture? What does it mean, essentially, to forgive? Are both loss and love forms of the irretrievable? In this workshop, we will pay careful attention to the composition of the poem as a process as of investigation and discovery into these questions, and the many questions that spin off from these. Can language, poetry, the collapsing of text, create an/other text that transmutes, holds, witnesses, traces, and recreates itself? Where does the body enter this discourse? Where does the sentence/line begin? Can a poem witness? This workshop invites participants think of the poem as a compositional field to investigate the irreparable, the irretrievable, and forgiveness. We will look at theory and philosophical texts next to poetry, and vice versa. For example, Alice Notley read alongside Giorgio Agamben; Avital Ronell read alongside Leslie Scalapino. A poet, performer, and teacher, Akilah Oliver¹s most recent book is A Toast in the House of Friends (Coffee House Books).

The workshop fee is $350, which includes a one year Sustaining Poetry Project membership and tuition for any and all spring and fall classes. Reservations are required due to limited class space, and payment must be received in advance. Caps on class sizes, if in effect, will be determined by workshop leaders. If you would like to reserve a spot in any of the classes, you can sign-up here:

http://poetryproject.org/get-involved/sign-up-for-workshops. You can also email us at [redacted], or call [redacted].

Become a Poetry Project Member! http://poetryproject.org/become-a-member

Calendar http://www.poetryproject.org/program-calendar

The Poetry Project is located at St. Mark's Church-in-the-Bowery
131 East 10th Street (at 2nd Avenue)
New York, NY 10003

Trains: 6, F, N, R, and L.
[redacted]
www.poetryproject.org

Admission is $8 / $7 for students & seniors / $5 for members (though now those who take out a membership at $95 or higher will get in FREE to all regular readings).

We are wheelchair accessible with assistance & advance notice. For more info call [redacted].

If you¹d like to be unsubscribed from this mailing list, please drop a line at [redacted].

↑ Index

125. Chad Sweeney

Chad Sweeney's new book from Alice James

Thu 16 Sep 2010

Chad Sweeney's new book of poems, Parable of Hide and Seek, was officially released today by Alice James Books, available at www.alicejamesbooks.org If anyone is interested in reviewing the book, please contact Chad or Alice James Books.

Parable of Hide and Seek was one of two manuscripts chosen from the Beatrice Hawley Prize entries. Individual poems were published in Best American Poetry 2008, American Poetry Review, Black Warrior, New American Writing, Denver Qtly, Verse, Volt, Slope, Tarpaulin Sky and elsewhere. Chad's earlier books are An Architecture from BlazeVox, Arranging the Blaze from Anhinga, and the recent bilingual chapbook, The Lost Notebooks of Juan Sweeney from Forklift. Next year White Pine will publish Sweeney's translations (from the Farsi with Mojdeh Marashi) of the Selected Poems of H.E. Sayeh. For more information: www.chadsweeney.com

Reading Dates in Michigan, New Jersey, Philadelphia, California, Chicago: Oct 11, Mount Pleasant, Michigan. 7PM, Wellspring Literary Series, Art Reach Center, 111 E. Broadway, Mount Pleasant, MI.

Oct 14, Kalamazoo, Michigan. 7PM, Book release, Kalamazoo Public Library, 315 South Rose Street.

Oct 20, Lincroft, New Jersey. 12-2PM, Brookdale College, Twin Lights Room.

Oct 20: Red Bank, New Jersey. Alice James Books Fundraiser: 7PM, venue TBA (host Laura McCullough).

Oct 21: Philadelphia. 3 PM, ALTA Conference, bilingual reading.

Oct 22: Philadelphia. 3 PM, Subtropics magazine reading, ALTA conference.

Oct 22: Philadelphia. 6PM, Moonstone Arts Center, 110A, South 13th, Second Floor.

Nov 4: Berkeley, CA. 7:30 PM, Poetry Flash Presents: Moeâ€™s Books, 2476 Telegraph Avenue.

Nov 5: Sacramento, CA. 3PM, Sacramento State University, library gallery.

Nov 5: Sacramento, CA. 7PM, Word Festival at the Guild Theater.

Nov 7: Santa Cruz, CA. Felix Kulpa Gallery, 4PM, New Cadence Reading Series.

Nov 8: Haward, CA. Distinguished Writer Series, California State University East Bay, 7PM, University Libraryâ€™s Biella Room, 25800 Carlos Bee Blvd.

Nov 18: Kalamazoo, MI. 7PM, Fire CafÃ©, Poets on the Page Reading Series.

Nov 19: Evanston, IL. 6 PM, Brothers K, Rhino Magazine Series.

Dec 16: Grand Rapids, MI. 7PM, Literary Life Books, 758 Wealthy Street, SE.

Jan 20: Kalamazoo, MI. 7PM, Kalamazoo College, Stetson Chapel, Academy Street.

↑ Index

126. nieuwland jeroen

(no subject)

Thu 16 Sep 2010

Dearest all,
a short piece about the artwork of Monika CichoÅ„. Not poetry I do realise but her work deals with chaos, void, the unnameable, so poetic in that way :)
--> http://tinyurl.com/3algfgd
Best,
Jeroen

↑ Index

127. Jim Andrews
language and poetry after godel and turing
Thu 16 Sep 2010

saw an ad on tv about training for 'interesting and well-payed careers in the construction industry'.

it occurs to me i've been in the deconstruction industry for twenty years.

or is it the reconstruction industry? or the preconstruction industry? or is it the introstruction industry? the introspuction industry? or just the destruction industry?

the pay sucks. no doubt about it. but the hammerin and yammerin are fun.

i have a course in mind. here's some of the reading. the course would be called 'language and poetry after godel and turing'. the course would explore computational poetics. there's some yammerin bout manovitch et all concerning poetics of new media. ya ya. but get down to the really revolutionary changes in thought. that's what brought about the computer revolution in the first place. that's the work of godel and turing. computational poetics involves the poetics of the universal machine. universal? in what sense? the course ultimately looks at how notions of who and what we are have changed in light of the development of the universal machine. and how our notions of what language is have changed. and how that has affected poetry from oulipo to contemporary work by poet programmers.

on formally undecidable propositions of principia mathematica and related systems - k godel
godel escher bach - douglas hoffstadter
i am a strange loop - douglas hoffstadter
incompleteness - rebecca goldstein
engines of logic - martin davis
oulipo compendium - harry matthews
the essential turing - b. jack copeland
how we became post human - n k hayles prehistoric digital poetry - c funkhouser

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

128. ART ELECTRONICS

Fw: Caterina Davinio virtual performance SL featured in IMAF 2010

Fri 17 Sep 2010

Caterina Davinio virtual performance in SL of the 53. Venice Biennale featured in IMAF 2010 - 12th International Multimedial Art Festival

Join us in 12th International Multimedial Art Festival, Serbia!

Programme of the IMAF 2010

17.09. 2010. MAS Gallery (Multimedial Art Studio), S. Markovica 41, Odzaci (Serbia)

17:00 - 17:10 Opening of the festival.

17:20 - 18:05 Radoslav B. Chugaly (Serbia):"MOBBING" - performance

18:15- 18:30 Nenad Bogdanovic (Serbia):"ART= LIFE (GAMBLE)" - performance

18:40- 19:00 Heike Pfingsten (Germany):"GALLON" - performance

19:10 - 19:20 Gordana Zlatanovic (Serbia): "CHRISTMAS DWARFS (Army who hatesvoodoo)" - performance

19:30 - 19:40 Caterina Davinio (Italy):"THE FIRST POETRY SPACE SHUTTLE LANDING ON SECOND LIFE" - video

19:45- 20:00 Pilar Talavera (Peru):"POSITIVE HOMESICK PILLS THE ODZACICHAPTER" - video performance

18. 09. 2010. MASGallery (Multimedial Art Studio), S. Markovica 41, Odzaci (Serbia)

17:00 - 17:15 MP_art (Serbia): "MP_per_16 HENTAI SERBIA" - performance

17:30 - 18:45 Dragan Vojvodic (Serbia):"WINDOWS 2010" - performance

17:45- 18:00 Gordana Zlatanovic (Serbia):"HEMP" - performance

19:00- 19:30 Henrik Hedinge (Sweden): "GenderFlux" - performance

19:45 - 20:45 Stanisa Krstic (Serbia):"GENTLE SWING OF DESTRUCTION" - performance

20:50- 20:56 Ana Alenso (Venezuela):"WAY" - action-video

21:00- 21:05 Peter Baren (Nederland): "ARK-UNKNOWN PLEASURES= LOOP" - video

↑ Index

129. Rob McLennan

the ottawa small press book fair, fall 2010;

Fri 17 Sep 2010

---

span-o (the small press action network - ottawa) presents:

> the ottawa > small press > book fair

fall 2010 edition will be happening Saturday, October 16, 2010 in room 203 of the Jack Purcell Community Centre (on Elgin, at 320 Jack Purcell Lane).

contact rob at [redacted] to sign up for a table, etc.

"once upon a time, way way back in October 1994, rob mclennan & James Spyker invented a two-day event called the ottawa small press book fair, and held the first one at the National Archives of Canada..." Spyker moved to Toronto soon after the first one, but the fair continues, thanks in part to the help of generous volunteers, various writers and publishers, and the public for coming out to participate with alla their love and their dollars.

General info: the ottawa small press book fair noon to 5pm (opens at 11:00 for exhibitors) admission free to the public.
$20 for exhibitors, full tables
$10 for half-tables
(payable to rob mclennan, c/o 858 Somerset St W, main floor, Ottawa Ontario K1R 6R7; send by October 11 if you would like to appear in the exhibitor catalogue).

note: for the sake of increased demand, we are now offering half tables. for catalog, exhibitors should send (on paper, not email name of press, address, email, web address, contact person, type of publications, list of publications (with price), if submissions are being considered & any other pertinent info, including upcoming ottawa-area events (if any).

& don't forget the pre-fair reading usually held the night before, info tba!

also, due to the increased demand for table space, exhibitors are asked to confirm far earlier than usual. i.e. -- before, say, the day of the fair.the fair usually contains exhibitors with poetry books, novels, cookbooks, posters, t-shirts, graphic novels, comic books, magazines, scraps of paper, gum-ball machines with poems, 2x4s with text, etc, including (at previous events) Bywords, Dusty Owl, Chaudiere Books, above/ground press, Room 302 Books,

The Puritan, The Ottawa Arts Review, Buschek Books, The Grunge Papers, Broken Jaw Press, BookThug, Proper Tales Press, and others.

happens twice a year, founded in 1994 by rob mclennan & James Spyker. now run by rob mclennan thru span-o.questions, [redacted] free things can be mailed for fair distribution to the same address. we will not be selling things for folk who cant make it, sorry. also, always looking for volunteers to poster, move tables, that sort of thing. let me know if anyone able to do anything. thanks.

for more information, bother rob mclennan.if you're able/willing to distribute posters/fliers for the fair, send me an email at [redacted]

http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/2010/09/ottawa-small-press-book-fair-fall-2010.html

-- writer/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...poetry - wild horses (U of Alberta) ...2nd novel - missing persons www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

130. CA Conrad
PHILLY BOOK PARTY The Book of Frank (WAVE Books, 2010)
Fri 17 Sep 2010

PHILLY BOOK PARTY The Book of Frank (WAVE Books, 2010)

ALL DETAILS AT http://CAConradEVENTS.blogspot.com

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 2ND, 2PM -- KELLY WRITERS HOUSE, PHILADELPHIA

I'm VERY EXCITED about the release of the new and expanded edition of The Book of Frank with an Afterword by Eileen Myles.

WE'RE GOING TO HAVE A GREAT TIME, AND I HOPE THAT YOU CAN JOIN US ON OCTOBER 2ND!

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

131. Paul Nelson

Michael McClure at Doe Bay on Orcas Island

Fri 17 Sep 2010

Contact: Paul Nelson

Contact: Paul Nelson

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Tel: [redacted]

E-mail: [redacted]

BEAT POET MICHAEL MCCLURE TO READ AT DOE BAY CAFÃ‰ ON ORCAS ISLAND Rare Northwest Appearance Includes Public Reading & Film Screening

Seattle, WA, September 17, 2010â€”Michael McClureis a poet, playwright, songwriter, and novelist who initially gained fame as one of the five poets who read at the infamous San Francisco Six Gallery reading in 1955, where Allen Ginsberg first read Howl. On October 17 and 18, 2010, heâ€™ll perform a public reading and screen the film Abstract Alchemist of the Flesh, a film about his life and work at the Doe Bay CafÃ© on Orcas Island. McClure is the writer of 16 books of poetry, and has received numerous awards, including a Guggenheim Fellowship, an Obie Award for Best Play, an NEA grant, the Alfred Jarry Award, and a Rockefeller grant for playwriting. His play The Beard provoked numerous censorship battles. In Los Angeles, the cast was arrested after each performance for fourteen nights in a row. Later, The Beard received two Obies in New York, and it has played a role in U.S. censorship and free speech battles since 1966 when it won its first lawsuit.

McClure has worked extensively Doorsâ€™ keyboardist Ray Manzarek, and they have collaborated on several CDâ€™s. Third Mind, a film of Michael and Ray's conversations and performances, premiered on the Sundance Channel. McClure's songs include "Mercedes Benz," popularized by Janis Joplin. His journalism has been featured in Rolling Stone, Vanity Fair, the L.A. Times and San Francisco Chronicle. Michael McClure's next two books are Of Indigo and Saffron from UC Press, and Mysteriosos and other poems from New Directions. McClure performed on December 8, 2009 with The Charles Lloyd Quartet in Los Angeles at Disney Hall.

On Sunday, October 17, Michael McClure will perform a public reading of his work at 7:30pm. The film screening will take place on Monday, October 18 at 7:30pm and Michael will be available for questions following the film. Admission to both events is FREE. All events will be held at the Doe Bay Cafe, 107 Doe Bay Road, Olga WA 98279. SPLAB is an intergenerational writing, performance, resource and outreach center. Founded in 1997 in Auburn, Washington, by poets Paul Nelson and Danika Dinsmore, SPLABâ€™s office is now located Seattle's Columbia City neighborhood. SPLAB hosts a weekly writer's critique circle, Living Room, every Tuesday at 7pm in the Cultural Corner of Columbia School, at 3528 S Ferdinand in Seattle. For more SPLAB event information, visit www.splab.org.

###

For more information or to arrange an interview with Michael McClure, contact Paul Nelson at [redacted].

Paul E. Nelson

SPLAB!
C. City, WA
[redacted]

↑ Index

132. Jim Andrews
I Am A Strange Loop
Sat 18 Sep 2010

---

i'm reading douglas hofstadter's book 'i am a strange loop' at the moment.

wow! what a book!

this email is addressed to jason quackenbush and anyone else who followed/follows our friendly debate concerning the godel+turing vs wittgenstein issue.

i'm finding hofstadter's book, jason, revelatory about the deepest, profoundest contributions of godel and turing. that's what i want to try to address in this email, to some extent.

first i should say that i always found his earlier book 'godel escher bach' hard to read. it had such a 'golly gee' tone. whereas 'i am a strange loop' is mature.

hofstadter sees godel as being the first person to realize that the formal system of principia mathematica (pm) is capable of simulating many other systems. say what? simulating? what does that mean?

well, consider 'godel numbering'. anyone who has looked at godel's proof of the existence of undecidable propositions has looked at 'godel numbering'. which was a way of simulating pm in pm. in particular, godel was able to show that a proposition very like 'this proposition is not provable' is well-formed in pm and is undecidable, ie, can be neither proved nor disproved; in other words, it can't be proved and is true in pm.

to show the existencee of such undecidable propositions (and, hence, the incompleteness of systems such as pm), godel worked out 'godel numbering', ie, a very clever way of mapping all possible propositions to the natural numbers, and a way of mapping, say, the rules of inference of pm to recursive combinatorial mathematical functions from the set of integers to the set of integers.

we can think of this as a kind of programming. where the programming language only allows arithemetic. and what is being programmed is a simulation of principia mathematica.

of course, what goes on in computers, at the hardware level, is just arithmetic. adding of integers. multiplication of integers. though it's in base 2.

"Computers originated as integer-calculation machines, and they are still of course validly describable as such -- but we now realize, as Kurt Godel first did back in 1931, that such devices can be equally validly perceived and talked about in terms that are fantastically different from what their originators intended" (Hoftstadter, page 245)

Hofstadter takes up the notion of the 'universal machine' at some length. And of 'universal beings'. and this is getting close to the real significance of the book and of Hofstadter's deepest theme since godel escher bach.

a 'universal machine', roughly speaking, is one that is not dedicated and limited to any particular task. our computers, being programmable, can be programmed to do anything any conceivable machine can do. the 'turing machine' is as powerful as any possible machine. just like pm is basically as powerful as any of the other formal systems we might use. pm and similar systems, that are simply capable of arithmetic, are the standard mathematical formal systems.

hofstadter talks about the simple notion of a universal machine, ie, one that isn't dedicated to a particular task. then he says:

"You can use the hardware inside a cell phone to house a word processor, a web browser, a gaggle of video games, and on and on. This, in essence, is what the computer revolution is all about: when a certain well-defined threshhold--I'll call it the 'Godel-Turing threshhold'--is surpassed, then a computer can emulate any kind of machine." (p 242)

And a couple of paragraphs later:

"Inspired by Godel's mapping of PM into itself, Turing realized that the critical threshold for this kind of computational universality comes at exactly that point where a machine is flexible enough to read and correctly interpret a set of data that describe its own structure. At this crucial juncture, a machine can, in principle, explicitly watch how it does any particular task, step by step. Turing realized that a machine that has this critical level of flexibility can imitate any other machine no matter how complex the latter is. In other words, there is nothing more flexible than a universal machine. Universality is as far as you can go." (p 242)

"The early computer engineers thought of their computers as number-crunching devices and did not see numbers as a universal medium. Today, we do not see numbers that way either, but our lack of understanding is for an entirely different reason--in fact for exactly the opposite reason. Today it is because all those numbers are so neatly hidden behind the screen.... I could list hundreds of things that take place on computer screens, but few people ever think about the fact that all of this is happening couresy of addition and multiplication of integers way down at the hardware level. (p. 244)

Of course, the main theme of Hofstadter's book 'I Am A Strange Loop' concerns the relation of our own nature to that of the universal machine, and the sort of universality he talks about. I won't go into that in this email. A fascinating book, though. I highly recommend it.

ja
Sept 18, 2010
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

133. Jim Andrews
I Am A Strange Loop 2
Sat 18 Sep 2010

Another quote from Hoftstadter's book.

"Kurt Godel was the first person to realize and exploit the fact that the positive integers, though they might superficially seem to be very austere and isolated, in fact constitute a profoundly rich representational medium.

They can mimic or mirror any kind of pattern. Like any human language, where nouns and verbs (etc) can engage in unlimitedly complex additive and multiplicative (etc) dancing, and can thereby 'talk', via code or analogy, about events of any sort, numerical or non-numerical. This is what I meant when I wrote, in chapter 9, that the seeds of pm's destruction were already hinted at by the seemingly innocent fact that pm had enough power to talk about arbitrarily subtle properties of whole numbers.

People of earlier eras had intuited much of this richness when they had tried to embed the nature of many diverse aspects of the world around us -- stars, planets, atoms, molecules, colors, curves, notes, harmonies, melodies, and so forth -- in numerical equations or other types of numerical patterns. Four centureis ago, launcing this whole tendency, Galileo had famously declared, "The book of Nature is written in the language of mathematics" . And yet, despite all these centuries of highly successful mathematizations of various aspects of the world, no one before Godel had realized that one of the domains that mathematics can model is the doing of mathematics itself.

The bottom line, then, is that the unanticipated self-referential twist that Godel found lurking inside Prinipia Mathematica was a natural and inevitable outcome of the deep representational power of whole numbers. Just as it is no miracle that a video system can create a self-referential loop, but rather a kind of obvious triviality due to the power of TV cameras (or, to put it more precisely, the immensely rich representaional power of very large arrays of pixels), so too it is no miracle that Prinipia Mathematica (or any other comparable system) contains self-focused sentences like Godel's formula, for the system of integers, exactly like a TV camera (only more so!) can 'point' at any system whatsoever and can reproduce that system's patterns perfectly on the the metaphorical 'screen' constituted by its set of theorems. And just as in video feedback, the swirsls that result from PM pointing at itself have all sorts of unexpected, emergent properties that require a brand-new vocabulary to describe them." (p 161).

The positive integers as "a profoundly rich representational medium" is, of course, right in front of our nose. This text is ultimately represented with/by integers in the computer. And the multimedia nature of the computer is, again, a consequence of the strong representational capacities of the integers.

Consequences for poetry?

Well, poetry, for me, is about intensest engagement with language. Intensest in what way? Well, intensest significance in all ways. Godel and Turing's work has rocked not only mathematical logic but philosophy, understood properly, and also the quotidian via the computer revolution. Their work has ushered in profound changes in what we think of as language and of how language and number relate to one another. And their work has ushered in profound changes in who and what we think we are. Their work has allowed us to see how we ourselves can be thought of as machines--without demeaning ourselves or our capacities at all--for their work has shown us that the notion of a universal machine is incomparably far beyond the notion of 'dedicated machine' that we have known for so long to circumscribe our notions of what machines are.

Poetry is uncoupled now from a notion of it as dedicated solely to words on paper. Not to go there is as regressive as to think of machines simply as necessarily being dedicated as they have been in the past.

ja
Sept 18, 2010
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

134. Eric Elshtain
New Beard of Bees Chapbook
Sat 18 Sep 2010

Please read David Berridge's Game, Global, Green, Grown, Guys.

Thanks!

http://www.beardofbees.com/berridge.html

Eric Elshtain
Editor
Beard of Bees Press
http://www.beardofbees.com

↑ Index

135. Lisa Samuels
Ka Mate Ka Ora, issue 9
Sat 18 Sep 2010

---

k a m a t e k a o r a # 9
http://www.nzepc.auckland.ac.nz/kmko/index09.asp

The New Zealand Electronic Poetry Centre (nzepc) is pleased to announce the ninth issue of /Ka Mate Ka Ora: A New Zealand Journal of Poetry and Poetics/, with a special focus on North American legacies in the southern hemisphere.

* Murray Edmond, Trade and True: Anthologies Fifty Years After Donald Allen’s /The New American Poetry/
* Virginia Gow, ‘The Activity of Evidence’: Robert Creeley’s New Zealand
* Jeffrey Paparoa Holman, Hello, America: Christchurch’s 1970s Pacific Moment
* Scott Hamilton, Before Erebus: Five Footnotes to Kendrick Smithyman’s ‘Aircrash in Antarctica’
* Ian Wedde, Does Poetry Matter?
* Roger Horrocks, Leigh Davis (1955-2009)
* Paul Millar, Jacquie Baxter / JC Sturm (1927-2009)

* Murray Edmond, ‘Landed Poem Upwards’: Martyn Sanderson (1938-2009)
* Robert Sullivan, Cape Return: for Alistair Te Ariki Campbell (1925-2009)

* * kmko is edited by Murray Edmond with assistance from Hilary Chung, Michele Leggott, and Lisa Samuels at the University of Auckland, and with the support of a team of consulting and contributing editors. It publishes research essays and readings of New Zealand-related material and welcomes contributions from poets, academics, essayists, teachers and students from within New Zealand and overseas. Submission guidelines and further information at www.nzepc.auckland.ac.nz/kmko/about.asp * *

↑ Index

136. Dan Glass
this week on the 30 word review
Sun 19 Sep 2010

---

http://the30wordreview.blogspot.com/

Reviews of:

Meteoric Flowers, by Elizabeth Willis (Atticus Finch press)
Abraham Lincoln #2
The Lack Of, by Joseph Massey (Nasturtium press)
Taiga Issue T
Spy Wednesday, by David Brazil (TAXT press)
whomeanswhat, by Lars Palm (Sacrifice Press) Poetry is not Enough, by Brian Ang, Joseph Atkins, Tiffany Denman, and Jeanine Webb.

↑ Index

137. lily robert-foley
Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
Sun 19 Sep 2010

Regarding the Deconstruction industry:

Just briefly (this is not exactly in response to the deconstruction industry/construction industry thing): I'm working on a thesis in Paris about the auto-translation of Beckett and the translation/reception of Derrida in the United States, and I realized that many people who read Derrida don't know that Deconstruction is not a made up word in French—which to my mind changes implicitly the reception and understanding of the concept.

Well, ok, Deconstruction is a made up word in French but it wasn't made up by Derrida, and it's not a bizarre, fancy sounding word that to most people actually just means, "word you would never understand so you should never use". For example, you see it constantly on the side of buildings that are "under construction"—which means, not that the building is being torn down and rebuilt, but that the structure of the building remains intact while certain defunct features are being removed and replaced or redone. In America we might call this remodeling or rehabbing.

I am still looking for a better word in English to translate this word, but have not quite found it. Perhaps "under construction" is actually perfect.

I think this is useful, not only for understanding Deconstruction but even for pedagogical purposes. I remember being an undergraduate and wanting very badly to understand what Deconstruction was but have many professors evade the subject. If someone had just translated the word for me and explained that in this case it refers to texts instead of buildings I would have been very happy I think.

Ok, thanks!

Lily

On Fri, Sep 17, 2010 at 5:50 AM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote: > saw an ad on tv about training for 'interesting and well-payed careers in > the construction industry'.
>
> it occurs to me i've been in the deconstruction industry for twenty years.
>
> or is it the reconstruction industry? or the preconstruction industry? or is > it the introstruction industry? the introspuction industry? or just the > destruction industry?
>
> the pay sucks. no doubt about it. but the hammerin and yammerin are fun.
>
> i have a course in mind. here's some of the reading. the course would be > called 'language and poetry after godel and turing'. the course would > explore computational poetics. there's some yammerin bout manovitch et all > concerning poetics of new media. ya ya. but get down to the really > revolutionary changes in thought. that's what brought about the computer > revolution in the first place. that's the work of godel and turing.
> computational poetics involves the poetics of the universal machine.
> universal? in what sense? the course ultimately looks at how notions of who
> and what we are have changed in light of the development of the universal > machine. and how our notions of what language is have changed. and how
that > has affected poetry from oulipo to contemporary work by poet programmers.

>
> on formally undecidable propositions of principia mathematica and related > systems - k godel
> godel escher bach - douglas hoffstadter
> i am a strange loop - douglas hoffstadter
> incompleteness - rebecca goldstein
> engines of logic - martin davis
> oulipo compendium - harry matthews
> the essential turing - b. jack copeland
> how we became post human - n k hayles
> prehistoric digital poetry - c funkhouser
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
>
>

↑ Index

138. lily robert-foley
Poetry Reading Thursday in Paris with Vanessa Place and Frédéric Forte
Sun 19 Sep 2010

Dear friends,

You are cordially invited to an evening of poetry (/other) in my apartment. The two authors who will be showcased in this edition of the series are Frédéric Forte and Vanessa Place. The lecture will be bilingual (and awesome). There will also be wine and cheese. I hope very much that you will join us.

The day : Thursday, September 23, 2010-09-09
The hour : 19h
The address : 14 Rue Brochant
The code : 63A82 (ring « Rochat de la Vallée)
The métro : Brochant
My number in case of urgencies : 06.98.66.10.50

Vanessa Place is a writer, a lawyer, and co-director of Les Figues Press. She is author of Dies: A Sentence (2006), La Medusa (Fiction Collective 2, 2008), Notes on Conceptualisms, co-authored with Robert Fitterman (Ugly Duckling Presse, 2009), and The Guilt Project: Rape, Morality and Law (2010). A book of conceptual poetry, Statement of Facts, will be published in France by éditions ère, as Exposé des Faits (trad : Chloe Delaume); a trilogy of conceptual work, Statement of Facts, Statement of the Case, and Argument, is forthcoming from Blanc Press (USA). Her Factory-type chapbook series is available via oodpress (Brazil). Place is also a regular contributor to X-tra Art Quarterly, and has lectured and performed internationally.

http://www.lesfigues.com/lfp/68/vanessa-place
http://www.editions-ere.net/projet319

Frédéric Forte has been a member of Oulipo since March 2005. He was born in Toulouse in 1973 and currently lives in Paris. He discovered Raymond Queneau's Exercices de style when he was 12 years old and remembers the first time he read the word « Oulipo » with an uncanny precision and clarity. A few years later, he play electric bass in a rock band. He has been writing poetry since 1999. Under the advisement of Jacques Jouet, he sends his manuscripts to l'Attente (publishing house) which in 2002 published Discographie et Banzuke and in 2004 N/S, a series of bilingual poems written with Ian Monk. In January 2005, Opéras-minute is published at Théâtre Typographique. In 2008 along with his editor, Bénédicte Vilgrain, he translates a number of the desAnagrammgedichte d'Oskar Pastior under the title 21 poèmes-anagrammes d'après Hebel. From September 2009 to June 2010, he has been dedicating himself to the writing of poète<=>public http://www.oulipo.net/oulipiens/ff

Please repost
Merci de faire suivre

Chèrs amis,

Vous êtes cordialement invités à une soirée poésie (/autres) dans mon appartement. Les deux auteurs presentés dans cette édition de la série sont Frédéric Forte et Vanessa Place. La lecture sera bilingue (et magnifique!). Il y aura egalement du vin et du fromage. Je souhaite vous voir bientôt.

Le jour : Jeudi, le 23 Septembre
L'heure : 19 :00
L'adresse : 14 Rue Brochant
Le code : 63A82 (sonnez « Rochat de la Vallée»)
Le métro : Brochant
Mon numéro en cas d'urgence: 06.98.66.10.50

Vanessa Place est écrivain, avocate et co-directrice de la maison d'édition Les Figues. Elle est l'auteur de Dies: A Sentence (2006), La Medusa (Fiction Collective 2, 2008), Notes on Conceptualisms, avec Robert Fitterman (Ugly Duckling Presse, 2009), et The Guilt Project: Rape, Morality and Law (2010). Un livre de poésie conceptuelle, Statement of Facts, sera publié en France par les éditions ère, sous le titre Exposé des Faits (trad : Chloe Delaume) ; une trilogie d'ouvrages conceptuels, Statement of Facts, Statement of the Case, et Argument, est à venir chez Blanc Press (USA). Sa Factory-type série de mini-livres est disponible chez oodpress (Brésil). Place est aussi contributrice reguliére de X-tra Art Quarterly. Elle a egalement donné des lectures et performances internationales. http://www.lesfigues.com/lfp/68/vanessa-place http://www.editions-ere.net/projet319

Frédéric Forte est membre de l'Oulipo depuis mars 2005. Il est né en 1973 à Toulouse et vit à Paris. Il a découvert les Exercices de style de Raymond Queneau à l'âge de 12 ans et a le souvenir très net du mot « Oulipo » lu pour la première fois dans un manuel à cette occasion. Quelques années plus tard, il joue de la basse électrique dans un groupe de rock. À partir de 1999, il écrit de la poésie. Sur les conseils de Jacques Jouet, il envoie ses manuscrits aux éditions de l'Attente qui publient en 2002 Discographie et Banzuke puis en 2004 N/S, livre de poèmes bilingues écrit avec Ian Monk. En janvier 2005, Opéras-minute est publié au Théâtre Typographique. C'est avec son éditrice, Bénédicte Vilgrain, qu'il traduit quelques-un des Anagrammgedichte d'Oskar Pastior publiés en 2008 sous le titre de 21 poèmes-anagrammes d'après Hebel. De septembre 2009 à juin 2010, il se consacre à la résidence d'écriture poète<=>public. http://www.oulipo.net/oulipiens/ff http://poete-public.blogspot.com

↑ Index

139. { brad brace }

PPP (pleated plaid pamphlets series)

Sun 19 Sep 2010

---

can you not escape the nagging doubt that the world is just a shuffled pack of lies? as global art histories are gleefully consumed by flames!

an art-memoir: five stunning 2000+ page volumes: PPP (pleated plaid pamphlets series)

fresh new scans recompiled as massive collections covering 40+ years of personal art activity; includes an evolving full-colour compilation of the earlier, smaller pamphlets featuring a pleated-plaid frontispiece: all five mega-volumes available now for $2500US delivered on DVD

order: http://bbrace.net/ppp/ppp.html
http://bbrace.laughingsquid.net/ppp/ppp.html

everybody knows that the dice are loaded everybody rolls with their fingers crossed everybody knows that the war is over everybody knows the good guys lost everybody knows the fight was fixed the poor stay poor, the rich get rich
that's how it goes

everybody knows
everybody knows that the boat is leaking
everybody knows that the captain lied
everybody has this broken feeling like their father or their dog just died

injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere
we are caught in an inescapable network of mutuality tied in a single garment of destiny
whatever affects one directly, affects all indirectly

Pleated Plaid Pamphlet (2009)
Volumes 176-188
[accompaniment to insatiable abstraction engine]

http://bbrace.laughingsquid.net/abstraction-engine.html
http://www.bbrace.net/abstraction-engine.html

176 - Right Road Right Relation Radish Oil
177 - Righteous Indignation Righteous Fury Rage and Despair
178 - Rage and Radishes Righteous Souls Righteous Violence
179 - Rage Born Righteousness Endureth Forever Rightly Regarded
180 - Ragged Chorus Rightly Responsible Rigid and Solemn
181 - Ragged Fringes Rigid Cheeks Rigid Definitions
182 - Ragged Gasps Rigid Digit Rigid Grins
183 - Ragged Raft Rigid Protocols Rigid Rhythm
184 - Ragged Regalia Rigidly Erect Rigor Mortis
185 - Ragged Relief Rigorous Crystallization Ring and Then Knock
186 - Ragged Remains Ring Bolt Ringed Horizon
187 - Ragged Ring Riot Shutters Ripe Moments
188 - Ragged Staring Wretch Ripe Raspberries Ripped Open

order: http://bbrace.net/ppp/ppp.html
http://bbrace.laughingsquid.net/ppp/ppp.html

↑ Index

140. Damian Hey
New Experimental Literature and Art Journal: and/or
Sun 19 Sep 2010

and/or is a journal for creative experimental writing and/or innovative graphic art. The journal seeks submissions from writers and/or other sorts of artists whose work openly challenges the boundaries (mimetic, aesthetic, symbolic, cultural, political, philosophical, economic, spiritual, etc.) of literary and/or artistic expression. Here is a link to our homepage: http://and-or.web.officelive.com/default.aspx

We are currently in the process of accepting submissions for our inaugural issue. If you have creative writing and/or graphic art that might be appropriate, please consider submitting them to us. Be sure to check out our submission guidelines<https://outlook.molloy.edu/submissions.aspx>, though, before sending work to us.

↑ Index

141. mIEKAL aND

Xerox Sutra Editions plagiarizes Xexoxial Editions

Sun 19 Sep 2010

This spanking new 20th anniversary edition of The Plagiarist Codex has been lovingly colorized by shy pornographers in distant lands.

http://www.scribd.com/doc/37659386/Plagiarist-Codex

↑ Index

142. Sarah Sarai

cast thy pod upon the sarai; ed go essay on my poems; 9/20 brooklyn reading Babbo's /Nurske/Sarai (free)

Sun 19 Sep 2010

---

1 reading Mon, Sept. 20 I read poe. w/ Dennis Nurske at Babbo's Books & Fez Cafe, 242 Prospect Park West, Brooklyn, 8 p.m. FREE! Outdoors if weather's okay! www.babbosbooks.com

1 essay Three poems from my collection THE FUTURE IS HAPPY are the topic of "Heaven, Hell & Middle Earth," an essay by Ed Go (Other Rooms), at http://otherroomspress.blogspot.com/2010/08/filler_7143.html

2 interviews:
(1) Joe Milford's Poetry Show, podded:
http://www.blogtalkradio.com/joe-milford-show/2010/09/18/joe-milford-hosts-sarah-sarai

(2) WKCR FM, Anne Fiero's "Studio A":
http://www.annecammon.com/audio/Sarah_Sarai.mp3

. . .
Sarah Sarai
still the hardest working poet in my apartment http://my3000lovingarms.blogspot.com

↑ Index

143. peter ganick

new URL for chalk editions -- please note

Sun 19 Sep 2010

---

we've had to change the address of chalk editions the new address is: http://www.scribd.com/chalkeditions

the site has been redesigned.
we hope you'll peruse some of the experimental literature there.

no charge to read, download, or copy.
we are reading manuscripts at this time.
*
*

peter ganick and jukka-pekka kervinen

↑ Index

144. Larry Sawyer

Re: Unable to Fully California by Larry Sawyer available on Otoliths

Sun 19 Sep 2010

—

↑ Index

145. Gloria Mindock

Cervena Barva Press Announces A New Book, "Triage" by Tam Lin Neville

Sun 19 Sep 2010

Cervena Barva Press Announces a New Book
"Triage" by Tam Lin Neville

Â

Tam Lin Neville lives and writes in Somerville, MA. Journey Cake , her previous poetry collection, was published by BkMk Press (University of Missouri, Kansas City). She has received a Somerville Arts Council grant. Her poems have appeared in Harvard Review, Mademoiselle, American Poetry Review, Ironwood and Sulfur , among others. With her husband, Bert Stern, she co-edits Off The Grid Press, a press for poets over sixty. She also works for Changing Lives Through Literature, an alternative sentencing program.

Tam Lin Nevilleâ€™s new book, Triage , reminds us that our cherished notions of freedom, happiness and plenty actually conceal large communities of entrapment, misery and poverty where many are simply left to die â€“ triaged, if you will â€“ in front of our eyes. An observant neighbor, a journalist, and above all, a poet of great skill and heart, Neville speaks for those who cannot speak for themselves. Few poets writing today have the patience and talent to guide us toward such a civilizing compassion. â€”Roger Mitchell

Behind this remarkable book is a mind that has long contemplated the humanity of those she meets every day â€“ neighbor, stranger, friend. Yet she speaks from a respectful distance and this enables her to write poems with no self-interest, only clear sight and generosity. Her language is spare, stripped of all aesthetic preening, creating a poetry that is both accurate and visionary. â€”Betsy Sholl

Triage is a tough, uncompromising book, but one thatâ€™s also big-hearted, despite the sorrow so evident in the title and in many of the individual poems. Written with great economy and precision, the lyric here is not merely a display of skill, but a form of wisdom literature, a site map to help us navigate these difficult times. I hear the voices of Dickinson and Niedecker â€“ stern mentors, indeed. In Nevilleâ€™s poems their legacies are gracefully and fearlessly served. â€”David Wojahn

$15.00 | ISBN: 978-0-9844732-3-6 | 51 Pages

Order online at http://www.thelostbookshelf.com/cervenabooks.html

Triage

$15.00

Shipping

$3.00

Total

$18.00

Â

Send check or money order payable to:
Cervena Barva Press
P.O. Box 440357,
W. Somerville, MA 02144-3222
e-mail: [redacted]

Send me_____copies of " Triage " Â Total enclosed:Â $_____

Name_____

Street_____

City_____State_____Zip_____

e-mail_____Phone_____

Thank you for posting.

Gloria Mindock

[redacted]

↑ Index

146. Jennifer Karmin

9/25: Karmin & Pluecker in San Diego

Sun 19 Sep 2010

We hope you can join us on Saturday, September 25 at 7pm for our first event of the season featuring Jennifer Karmin and John Pluecker.

You can view our fall schedule of readings online at http://agitpropreadings.blogspot.com

Agitprop Gallery
Saturday, September 25, 7pm
2837 University Avenue in North Park (Entrance on Utah, behind Glenn's Market)
San Diego, California

Jennifer Karminâ€™s text-sound epic, Aaaaaaaaaaalice, was published by Flim Forum Press in 2010. She curates the Red Rover Series and is co- founder of the public art group Anti Gravity Surprise.Â Her multidisciplinary projects have been presented at festivals, artist- run spaces, community centers, and on city streets across the U.S., Japan, and Kenya. A proud member of the Dusie Kollektiv, she is the author of the Dusie chapbook Evacuated: Disembodying Katrina. Walking Poem, a collaborative street project, is featured online at How2.Â In Chicago, Jennifer teaches creative writing to immigrants at Truman College and works as a Poet-in-Residence for the public schools.

John Pluecker is a writer, interpreter and translator. His work has been published by journals and magazines in the U.S. and Mexico, including the Rio Grande Review, Picnic, Third Text and Literal. He has published five books in translation from the Spanish, including essays by a leading Mexican feminist, short stories from Ciudad JuÃ¡rez and a police detective novel. A limited-run artist book, Routes into Texas, was published in early 2010.

Agitprop readings are free, but wine and donations to the gallery are always welcome.Â We hope to see you there and for festivities before and afterward!

↑ Index

147. William Slaughter
Notice: Mudlark
Sun 19 Sep 2010

New and On View: Mudlark Flash No. 58 (2010)

Janlori Goldman

Washing Dishes in Evergreen, Colorado, and End of the World

Janlori Goldman received an MFA from Sarah Lawrence College. Her poems have appeared in The Cortland Review, The Mom Egg, For the Crowns of Your Heads: Poems for Haiti, and are forthcoming in The Sow's Ear and Calyx, A Journal of Art and Literature by Women. She teaches at Columbia University's School of Public Health and lives in New York City with her daughter and sweetheart.

Spread the word. Far and wide,

William Slaughter

MUDLARK
An Electronic Journal of Poetry & Poetics Never in and never out of print...
E-mail: [redacted]
URL: http://www.unf.edu/mudlark

↑ Index

148. J. Michael Mollohan
Re: PPP (pleated plaid pamphlets series)
Mon 20 Sep 2010

Shouldn't you attribute the lyrics to Leonard Cohen?

----- Original Message -----
From: "{ brad brace }" <[redacted]>
To: <[redacted]>
Sent: Sunday, September 19, 2010 8:36 AM Subject: PPP (pleated plaid pamphlets series) > can you not escape the nagging doubt that the world is just a shuffled pack of lies?

> as global art histories are gleefully consumed by flames!
>
> an art-memoir: five stunning 2000+ page volumes: PPP (pleated plaid pamphlets series)
>
> fresh new scans recompiled as massive collections covering 40+ years of personal art activity; includes an evolving full-colour compilation of the earlier, smaller pamphlets featuring a pleated-plaid frontispiece: all five mega-volumes available now for $2500US delivered on DVD

order: http://bbrace.net/ppp/ppp.html
http://bbrace.laughingsquid.net/ppp/ppp.html

everybody knows that the dice are loaded
everybody rolls with their fingers crossed everybody knows that the war is over everybody knows the good guys lost
everybody knows the fight was fixed
the poor stay poor, the rich get rich
that's how it goes
everybody knows
everybody knows that the boat is leaking
everybody knows that the captain lied
everybody has this broken feeling
like their father or their dog just died

injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere
we are caught in an inescapable network of mutuality
tied in a single garment of destiny
whatever affects one directly, affects all indirectly

Pleated Plaid Pamphlet (2009)
Volumes 176-188
[accompaniment to insatiable abstraction engine]

http://bbrace.laughingsquid.net/abstraction-engine.html
http://www.bbrace.net/abstraction-engine.html

176 - Right Road Right Relation Radish Oil
177 - Righteous Indignation Righteous Fury Rage and Despair
178 - Rage and Radishes Righteous Souls Righteous Violence
179 - Rage Born Righteousness Endureth Forever Rightly Regarded
180 - Ragged Chorus Rightly Responsible Rigid and Solemn
181 - Ragged Fringes Rigid Cheeks Rigid Definitions
182 - Ragged Gasps Rigid Digit Rigid Grins
183 - Ragged Raft Rigid Protocols Rigid Rhythm
184 - Ragged Regalia Rigidly Erect Rigor Mortis
185 - Ragged Relief Rigorous Crystallization Ring and Then Knock

> 186 - Ragged Remains Ring Bolt Ringed Horizon
> 187 - Ragged Ring Riot Shutters Ripe Moments
> 188 - Ragged Staring Wretch Ripe Raspberries Ripped Open
>
> order: http://bbrace.net/ppp/ppp.html
> http://bbrace.laughingsquid.net/ppp/ppp.html
>
> [redacted]

↑ Index

149. carol dorf

Re: language and poetry after godel and turing

Mon 20 Sep 2010

Lily,
I find this redefinition very helpful -- I wish I had learned it in grad school.
It connects deconstructionism with urban life more seemlessly -- the way "Modernism"
refers to architecture as well as a literary movement.
Thanks,
Carol

On Sun, Sep 19, 2010 at 2:14 AM, lily robert-foley <
[redacted]> wrote:

> Regarding the Deconstruction industry:
>
> Just briefly (this is not exactly in response to the deconstruction industry/construction industry thing): I'm working on a thesis in Paris about the auto-translation of Beckett and the translation/reception of Derrida in the United States, and I realized that many people who read Derrida don't know that Deconstruction is not a made up word in French—which to my mind changes implicitly the reception and understanding of the concept.
>
> Well, ok, Deconstruction is a made up word in French but it wasn't made up by Derrida, and it's not a bizarre, fancy sounding word that to most people actually just means, "word you would never understand so you should never use". For example, you see it constantly on the side of buildings that are "under construction"—which means, not that the building is being torn down and rebuilt, but that the structure of the building remains intact while certain defunct features are being removed and replaced or redone. In America we might call this remodeling or rehabbing.

I am still looking for a better word in English to translate this word, but have not quite found it. Perhaps "under construction" is actually perfect.

I think this is useful, not only for understanding Deconstruction but even for pedagogical purposes. I remember being an undergraduate and wanting very badly to understand what Deconstruction was but have many professors evade the subject. If someone had just translated the word for me and explained that in this case it refers to texts instead of buildings I would have been very happy I think.

Ok, thanks!

Lily

On Fri, Sep 17, 2010 at 5:50 AM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:
saw an ad on tv about training for 'interesting and well-payed careers in the construction industry'.

it occurs to me i've been in the deconstruction industry for twenty years.

or is it the reconstruction industry? or the preconstruction industry? or is it the introstruction industry? the introspuction industry? or just the destruction industry?

the pay sucks. no doubt about it. but the hammerin and yammerin are fun.

i have a course in mind. here's some of the reading. the course would be called 'language and poetry after godel and turing'. the course would explore computational poetics. there's some yammerin bout manovitch et all concerning poetics of new media. ya ya. but get down to the really revolutionary changes in thought. that's what brought about the computer revolution in the first place. that's the work of godel and turing. computational poetics involves the poetics of the universal machine. universal? in what sense? the course ultimately looks at how notions of who
and what we are have changed in light of the development of the universal machine. and how our notions of what language is have changed. and how that
has affected poetry from oulipo to contemporary work by poet programmers.

on formally undecidable propositions of principia mathematica and related

> systems - k godel
> godel escher bach - douglas hoffstadter
> i am a strange loop - douglas hoffstadter
> incompleteness - rebecca goldstein
> engines of logic - martin davis
> oulipo compendium - harry matthews
> the essential turing - b. jack copeland
> how we became post human - n k hayles
> prehistoric digital poetry - c funkhouser
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
>
> guidelines

↑ Index

150. Aldon Nielsen

Re: language and poetry after godel and turing

Mon 20 Sep 2010

Deconstruction is absolutely not a made-up word in either French or English. Derrida quite deliberately seized upon an existing word, in part to distinguish what he was talking about from Heidegger's "destruction." In America, Russell Atkins (see my essay in the current poetics issue of MELUS) was writing essays about a critical deconstruction in the late 1950s.

On Sun, Sep 19, 2010 at 5:14 AM, lily robert-foley <
[redacted]> wrote:

> Regarding the Deconstruction industry:
>
> Just briefly (this is not exactly in response to the deconstruction industry/construction industry thing): I'm working on a thesis in Paris about the auto-translation of Beckett and the translation/reception of Derrida in the United States, and I realized that many people who read Derrida don't know that Deconstruction is not a made up word in French—which to my mind changes implicitly the reception and understanding of the concept.
>
> Well, ok, Deconstruction is a made up word in French but it wasn't made up by Derrida, and it's not a bizarre, fancy sounding word that to most people actually just means, "word you would never understand so you should never use". For example, you see it constantly on the side of buildings that are "under construction"—which means, not that the building is being torn down and rebuilt, but that the structure of the building remains intact while certain defunct features are being removed and replaced or redone. In America we might call this remodeling or rehabbing.

I am still looking for a better word in English to translate this word, but have not quite found it. Perhaps "under construction" is actually perfect.

I think this is useful, not only for understanding Deconstruction but even for pedagogical purposes. I remember being an undergraduate and wanting very badly to understand what Deconstruction was but have many professors evade the subject. If someone had just translated the word for me and explained that in this case it refers to texts instead of buildings I would have been very happy I think.

Ok, thanks!

Lily

On Fri, Sep 17, 2010 at 5:50 AM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:
saw an ad on tv about training for 'interesting and well-payed careers in the construction industry'.

it occurs to me i've been in the deconstruction industry for twenty years.

or is it the reconstruction industry? or the preconstruction industry? or is it the introstruction industry? the introspuction industry? or just the destruction industry?

the pay sucks. no doubt about it. but the hammerin and yammerin are fun.

i have a course in mind. here's some of the reading. the course would be called 'language and poetry after godel and turing'. the course would explore computational poetics. there's some yammerin bout manovitch et all concerning poetics of new media. ya ya. but get down to the really revolutionary changes in thought. that's what brought about the computer revolution in the first place. that's the work of godel and turing. computational poetics involves the poetics of the universal machine. universal? in what sense? the course ultimately looks at how notions of who
and what we are have changed in light of the development of the universal machine. and how our notions of what language is have changed. and how that > has affected poetry from oulipo to contemporary work by poet programmers.

>
> on formally undecidable propositions of principia mathematica and related systems - k godel
> godel escher bach - douglas hoffstadter
> i am a strange loop - douglas hoffstadter
> incompleteness - rebecca goldstein
> engines of logic - martin davis
> oulipo compendium - harry matthews
> the essential turing - b. jack copeland
> how we became post human - n k hayles
> prehistoric digital poetry - c funkhouser
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
>
> guidelines

--
Aldon L. Nielsen
Kelly Professor of American Literature
Department of English
117 Burrowes Building
The Pennsylvania State University
University Park, PA
16802-6200

[redacted]

sailing the blogosphere at http://heatstrings.blogspot.com

"kindling his mind (more
than his mind will kindle)"

--William Carlos Williams, early adopter

↑ Index

151. Louis Armand
2 New York readings
Mon 20 Sep 2010

Litteraria Pragensia warmly invites you to 2 upcoming New York readings, on the occassion of the North American release of THE RETURN OF KRAL MAJALES: PRAGUE'S INTERNATIONAL LITERARY RENAISSANCE 1990-2010

AN ANTHOLOGY and the launch of our new magazine VLAK:
CONTEMPORARY POETICS AND THE ARTS:

RETURN OF KRAL MAJALES
Thursday 23 September, 6pm
CZECH CENTER NEW YORK
321 East 73rd Street
featuring readings by Julie Chibbaro, Myla Goldberg, Anthony Tognazzini, Gwen Albert, Joe Sherman, Jenny Smith, Vincent Farnsworth... litteraria.ff.cuni.cz/books/kral_majales.html<http://www.litterariapragensia.com />
http://www.bohemiannationalhall.com/index/viewevt/lang/en/ev/207/page/0

VLAK
Monday 27 September, 8pm
The Poetry Project at St. Mark's Church
131 E. 10th Street
Featuring readings by Jess Firoini, Elizabeth Gross, Vincent Katz, Arlo Quint, Stacy Szymaszek, Eileen Myles, John Wilkinson, Joshua Cohen, Stephanie Strickland, Bruce Andrews, Louis Armand, Christine Wertheim, Stephanie Barber, Pierre Joris, Marjorie Welish...
www.vlakmagazine.com
http://poetryproject.org/program-calendar/vlak.html
[*NB copies of the recently published collection of critical writings, HIDDEN AGENDAS: UNREPORTED POETICS will be available at this event. For further details, please visit http://litteraria.ff.cuni.cz/books/hidden_agendas.html]

Everyone welcome!

--
Centre for Critical & Cultural Theory, Charles University, Nam. J. Palacha 2, 116 38 Praha 1, CZECH REPUBLIC www.litterariapragensia.com www.vlakmagazine.com

↑ Index

152. Catherine Daly
Fwd: Daly Reading @ Poetry / Hybrid Stage, WeHo Book Fair
Mon 20 Sep 2010

9th Annual West Hollywood Book Fair
Sunday, September 26, 2010
10AM to 6PM
West Hollywood Park

647 N. San Vicente Blvd.
West Hollywood, CA

FREE Parking at the Pacific Design Center at 8687 Melrose Ave.

Poetry / Hybrid Stage
Sponsored By House of Blues Sunset Strip

MARK DOTY READING
4:50PM-5:10PM

JIM ARNOLD READING
5:10PM-5:25PM

CATHERINE DALY READING
5:25PM-5:40PM

--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

↑ Index

153. amy king
THIS FRIDAY -- Deborah Ager, Eric Amling, Bill Freind, Laura Hinton, Janet Holmes & Debrah Morkun!
Mon 20 Sep 2010

Friday, September 24th Â· 7:00pm - 9:00pm
Stain of Poetry presents

Friday, September 24th Â· 7:00pm - 9:00pm

Our first fall reading blows into town on the wings of Debrah, Deborah, Laura, Janet, Bill & Eric! Don't miss them. We won't.

Who: Deborah Ager, Eric Amling, Bill Freind, Laura Hinton, Janet Holmes & Debrah Morkun!

Deborah Ager's first book, Midnight Voices, was published in 2009. Her poems appear in Best New Poets 2006, The Bloomsbury Review, New England Review, The Georgia Review, Quarterly West and New South. She's received fellowships from the Mid Atlantic Arts Foundation, the MacDowell Colony, and the Virginia Center for the Creative Arts, and she received a Walter E. Dakin Fellowship to the Sewanee Writers' Conference. She is founding editor of 32 Poems Magazine. Many poems first appearing in 32 Poems have been honored in the Best American Poetry and Best New Poets anthologies and on Verse Daily and Poetry Daily.

~

Eric Amling is the author of several chapbooks including TWIN VAPOR (Human Hair & Co.), SPLIT LEVEL IGLOO (Human Hair & Co.), and the most recent NINE LIVE TWO-HEADED ANIMALS (Greying Ghost Press). His illustrations and books can be found at www.humanhairandco.org

~

Bill Freind is the author of American Field Couches (BlazeVox, 2008) and An Anthology (housepress, 2000); he is also editing a collection of essays on Araki Yasusada that is forthcoming from Shearsman. He lives near an abandoned golf course in South Jersey.

~

Laura Hinton is the author of a poetry book, Sisyphus My Love (To Record a Dream in a Bathtub) (BlazeVox), and a critical book, The Perverse Gaze of Sympathy: Sadomasochistic Sentiments from Clarissa to Rescue 911 (SUNY Press). She is also the co-editor of We Who Love to Be Astonished: Experimental Womenâ€™s Writing and Performance Poetics (University of Alabama Press). She has edited three special sections for the online journal How2, including the current feature, â€œReading Carla Harryman.â€ She is now at work (co-editor) of a special issue in Postmodern Culture on poetâ€™s theater, as well as a book on womenâ€™s hybrid poetry and the arts. She is a Professor of English at the City College of New York. In New York City she edits a chapbook series, Mermaid Tenement Press, and comments on feminism and the hybrid arts at her blog site â€œChant de la Sireneâ€ (www.chantdelasirene.com).

~

Janet Holmes is author of five books of poetry, most recently The ms of my kin (Shearsman) and F2F (U of Notre Dame Pr). She is also director and editor of Ahsahta Press, a 35-year-old all-poetry press based at Boise State University, and professor of English there in the MFA Program in Creative Writing.

~

Debrah Morkun lives in Philadelphia, where she is the founding member of The New Philadelphia Poets, a group committed to expanding the spaces for poetry in Philadelphia. Her first full-length book, Projection Machine, was released by BlazeVox Books April 2010. View some of her work at www.debrahmorkun.com.

at

Goodbye Blue Monday

1087 Broadway
(corner of Dodworth St)
Brooklyn, NY 11221-3013 [redacted]

J M Z trains to Myrtle Ave
or J train to Kosciusko St

~

Hosted by Amy King, Ana BoÅ¾iÄeviÄ‡ et al
http://stainofpoetry.wordpress.com/

****
Esque
+ http://www.esquemag.com

Amy's Alias
+ http://amyking.org/
****

↑ Index

154. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
Mon 20 Sep 2010

Hi, Lily,

but deconstructionism in literature does not mean remodeling. It is a much more drastic reviewing of the nature of literature. Whatever deconstruction means when on the side of a building, it does not mean that in Derrida, for instance. Deconstructionism is more like saying that a building is designed by its inhabitants and not by its architects. The confusion is understandable. It requires a reorientation of thinking.

Ciao,

Murat

On Mon, Sep 20, 2010 at 9:21 AM, carol dorf <[redacted]> wrote:

> Lily,
> I find this redefinition very helpful -- I wish I had learned it in grad school.
> It connects deconstructionism with urban life more seemlessly -- the way "Modernism"
> refers to architecture as well as a literary movement.

Thanks,
Carol

On Sun, Sep 19, 2010 at 2:14 AM, lily robert-foley <
[redacted]> wrote:

Regarding the Deconstruction industry:

Just briefly (this is not exactly in response to the deconstruction industry/construction industry thing): I'm working on a thesis in Paris about the auto-translation of Beckett and the translation/reception of Derrida in the United States, and I realized that many people who read Derrida don't know that Deconstruction is not a made up word in French—which to my mind changes implicitly the reception and understanding of the concept.

Well, ok, Deconstruction is a made up word in French but it wasn't made up by Derrida, and it's not a bizarre, fancy sounding word that to most people actually just means, "word you would never understand so you should never use". For example, you see it constantly on the side of buildings that are "under construction"—which means, not that the building is being torn down and rebuilt, but that the structure of the building remains intact while certain defunct features are being removed and replaced or redone. In America we might call this remodeling or rehabbing.

I am still looking for a better word in English to translate this word, but have not quite found it. Perhaps "under construction" is actually perfect.

I think this is useful, not only for understanding Deconstruction but even for pedagogical purposes. I remember being an undergraduate and wanting very badly to understand what Deconstruction was but have many professors evade the subject. If someone had just translated the word for me and explained that in this case it refers to texts instead of buildings I would have been very happy I think.

Ok, thanks!

Lily

On Fri, Sep 17, 2010 at 5:50 AM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:
saw an ad on tv about training for 'interesting and well-payed careers in the construction industry'.

it occurs to me i've been in the deconstruction industry for twenty years.

or is it the reconstruction industry? or the preconstruction industry? or
is
it the introstruction industry? the introspuction industry? or just the destruction industry?

the pay sucks. no doubt about it. but the hammerin and yammerin are fun.

i have a course in mind. here's some of the reading. the course would be called 'language and poetry after godel and turing'. the course would explore computational poetics. there's some yammerin bout manovitch et all concerning poetics of new media. ya ya. but get down to the really revolutionary changes in thought. that's what brought about the computer revolution in the first place. that's the work of godel and turing. computational poetics involves the poetics of the universal machine. universal? in what sense? the course ultimately looks at how notions of who
and what we are have changed in light of the development of the universal machine. and how our notions of what language is have changed. and how that has affected poetry from oulipo to contemporary work by poet programmers.

on formally undecidable propositions of principia mathematica and related
systems - k godel
godel escher bach - douglas hoffstadter
i am a strange loop - douglas hoffstadter
incompleteness - rebecca goldstein
engines of logic - martin davis
oulipo compendium - harry matthews
the essential turing - b. jack copeland
how we became post human - n k hayles
prehistoric digital poetry - c funkhouser

ja
http://vispo.com

guidelines

> guidelines

↑ Index

155. Jack Foley

Performance & Essay UPDATE to FLASHPOINT #13

Mon 20 Sep 2010

PERFORMANCE & ESSAY UPDATE
to FLASHPOINT issue #13 on DAVID JONES: Painter & Poet .....

FLASHPOINT #13
http://www.flashpointmag.com (http://www.flashpointmag.com/)

announcing THREE NEW features:

Colin Wilcockson: "Notes on Some Letters of David Jones"

Massimo Bacigalupo: "Giano Accame [1928-2009]
IN MEMORIAM" (Accame's "Art and Usury from Dante to Pound" appears in FlashPoint #11
at http://www.flashpointmag.com/accame1.htm)

Robert Coover's NOIR: reviewed by JR Foley

AND
For Those in the Washington, D.C. Area on October 14 & 21
at Kensington Row Bookshop, 3786 Howard Ave., Kensington, Maryland [redacted] (http://www.kensingtonrowbookshop.com (
http://www.kensingtonrowbookshop.com/))

JR Foley & Carlo Parcelli will perform from their recent work sampled in FlashPoint #13,
including:

Thursday, Oct. 14, 7 pm: JR Foley reads from AMBLER'S GRASS

Thursday, Oct. 21, 7:30 pm: Poet/Vaudevillian Carlo Parcelli performs a selection of Dramatic Monologues from his Novel in Verse
The Canaanite Gospel: A Meditation on Empire:
the Easter Sequence

Drawn from dozens of biblical and secular sources,
these monologues,
at once historical, profane, blasphemous, comedic and vulgar, tell a revisionist tale of what transpired in Judea, Easter Week/Passover 33 AD and beyond
during the reign of the Roman Emperor Tiberius.

Mr. Parcelli will appear in 'authentic'
First Century Eastern Mediterranean garb.

"Come heavy, or don't come at all."--- Junior Soprano

FlashPoint: A Journal of the Arts and Politics

"Along the frontier where the arts & politics clash ..."

↑ Index

156. Susan Webster Schultz

recent posts on Tinfish Editor's Blog

Mon 20 Sep 2010

Please come by.

* OLD WOMEN LOOK LIKE THIS: notes toward a talk <http://tinfisheditor.blogspot.com/2010/09/old-women-look-like-this-notes-toward.html>
* William Carlos Williams Takes On Tea Baggers and O...
<http://tinfisheditor.blogspot.com/2010/09/william-carlos-williams-takes-on-tea.html>
* Report from the academic front-line
<http://tinfisheditor.blogspot.com/2010/09/report-from-academic-front-line.html>
* Ordinary Affects
<http://tinfisheditor.blogspot.com/2010/09/ordinary-affects.html>
* Retail Alzheimer's: What I learned from the phrase...
<http://tinfisheditor.blogspot.com/2010/09/mother-news-or-what-i-learned-from.html>

* My poem for Fred Ho
<http://tinfisheditor.blogspot.com/2010/09/my-poem-for-fred-ho.html>

aloha, Susan M. Schultz

↑ Index

157. Cara Benson
Also @ W. Hollywood Bookfair
Mon 20 Sep 2010

LETTER WRITING DESK: ESCRITORIO PUBLICO With Jen Hofer The escritorio pÃºblico is a public letter-writing desk most often set up on sidewalks in public space, though sometimes invited into museums, galleries and other cultural spaces. The escritorio consists of a folding table made by the man who built Jenâ€™s house in 1920, on which she sets up her grandmotherâ€™s Olivetti Lettera 22 typewriter, writing paper and envelopes. She types letters in either Spanish or English for passers-by, charging $2 for a letter, $3 for a love letter and $5 for an illicit love letter.

Escritorio pÃºblico is an enactment of public practice, an ethic of radical listening, and a manifestation of the gift economy.
LOCATION AT THE BOOK FAIR: The Lounge on the Center of The Field
READING EXPERIMENT IN PROGRESS
With Chicago Poet Jennifer Karmin
â€œReading Experiment in Progressâ€ is an interactive performance, transforming the book fair from a space of commerce to a space for creative exchange. Poet Jennifer Karmin invites passers-by to participate in a mini-reading of her text-sound epic Aaaaaaaaaaalice.
ROAMING READING
With Poet Cara Benson
Cara Benson will walk Whitmanesquely among/through/within West Hollywoodâ€™s booths and books spouting bouts of words from her latest volume of prose poems (made). This in-situ situ includes, but is not limited to, inscribing lines on land with colored chalk, embodying kinetic parataxis, and otherwise performing acts of high priestess trance-chant poetics. Subject to turn on a dime.
LES FIGUES SHOWCASE READING
1:20-1:50 p.m.
Poetry/Hybrid Stage
Featuring: Harold Abramowitz, Mathew Timmons and Christine Wertheim

Les Figues will be at booth E51. All Les Figues titles â€” all on sale!
Â
9th Annual West Hollywood Book Fair
Sunday, September 26, 2010
10AM to 6PM
West Hollywood Park
647 N. San Vicente Blvd.

↑ Index

158. cris cheek

Will Alexander

Tue 21 Sep 2010

Will Alexander will read from his poetry

Tuesday, September 21 at 7:30pm

Leonard Theater, Peabody Hall

Miami University, Oxford, OH

"Alexander's verbal flights strike me as more shamanistic than free-associational or automatic. His evocation of upper and lower worlds, and his vocabulary which bridges poetry, philosophy, myth, and science, give his verbal fulgurations a sense of linguistic seed that suddenly sprouts, then resprouts . . . . He may be the first major ‘outsider artist' in American poetry. Whatever he is, he is a force to reckon with, whose self-propelled soarings evoke Simon Rodia's ‘Watt's Tower' as well as Siberian ecstasies." *—*Clayton Eshleman, American Poet

"Alexander's poems are unpunctuated, their expanding structures suggest that each might be read as a single very long, very complex sentence . . . a complex sentence machine turning out elaborate grammatical parallelisms, extensive series of epic catalogues, and open-ended syntax of discordant clauses and appended prepositional phrases." *—*Harryette Mullen, Callaloo

*Will Alexander<http://www.greeninteger.com/pipbios_detail.cfm?PIPAuthorID=7> is a poet, novelist, essayist, artist and educator from Los Angeles. His poetic works include Exobiology as Goddess, Asia & Haiti, Above the Human Nerve Domain and The Stratospheric Cantacles. His philosophical essays, Towards the Primeval Lightening Field, were published by O Books in 1999. His novel,Sunrise in Armageddon, was published by Spuyten Duyvil in 2006. He has performed throughout the country, and taught courses at the University of California at San Diego, Naropa University, Hofstra University, and Mills College. His book of poems The Sri Lankan Loxodrome<http://www.ndpublishing.com/books/AlexanderSriLankan.html> was released in 2009 by New Directions Publishing. His work has appeared in numerous journals and periodicals including Callaloo, Conjunctions, apex of the M, Sulfur, and many others*. * *

↑ Index

159. Aaron McCollough

CFP: Journal of Electronic Publishing (Digital Poetics/Poetries)

Tue 21 Sep 2010

Dear Poetics Listâ€”

Iâ€™m writing today in my capacity as guest editor for The Journal of Electronic Publishing, which has been a pioneer in responding critically to digital technologiesâ€™ impact on â€œpublishingâ€ as both a notion and a semiotic distribution system since 1995 (before there was even a google to google-sculpt with!).

Â

JEP is published by the Scholarly Publishing Office (SPO), a unit of the University of Michigan Library, which is committed to designing affordable and sustainable publishing solutions in the â€œnetwork eraâ€ (with a serious commitment to open-access publishing).

Â

JEPâ€™s long-time editor, Judith Axel Turner, is retiring, and I have been asked to curate one of several issues to be published in the interim before a new editor-in-chief is appointed.

Â

Given my interests and background, Iâ€™ve chosen to put together an issue broadly dedicated to digital poetry publishing. Iâ€™m hoping you might be interested in contributing an article. This issue will bring together many distinct but related conversations concerning relationships between poetry and the wide array of digital prostheses that are shaping and have shaped 21st Century poetics. Iâ€™m also hoping this issue will bring the pertinent conversations to the attention of new audiences. Submission deadline is April 15, 2011.

Â

A short (but not exhaustive) list of areas of focus for this issue includes:

Â

1. Â Â Â The status of the digital poetry â€œutopia.â€ With approximately ten years of broadband-living now behind us, are we in a position to reassess (perhaps reaffirm) the early promise of digital media for poetry and poetics? Or, from a more phenomenological angleâ€¦ has reading without paper changed, and/or is it still changing, the experience of poetry? So what?

2. Â Â Â How has digital poetry publishing impacted poetry pedagogy (in either creative writing or more traditional study)?

3. Â Â Â Â How has digital publishing influenced or altered the notion of what a poetry â€œbookâ€ is or should be? How has is changed or not changed the economics of poetry book publication? How has is changed or not changed the â€œcultural capitalâ€ attached to such publication?

4. Â Â Â Digital media and poetry community/communities. The social aspects (especially as market potential) of digital networking have been discussed ad nauseam for several years. Blogs. Facebook. Etc. Still, poetryâ€™s coterieism has an ancient provenance. What unique problems or benefits have comeâ€”or are comingâ€”for poetry with the on-going acceleration of electronic interconnection?

5. Â Â Â Media/Form/Content. How is the stuff of digital media blending with the stuff of poetry? Immediately, Iâ€™m thinking of the way Flarf takes algorithmic formal modeling and raw textual content from various digital locations to make something new, to reflects on its own parts, and also reflect outward on the broader social, political, and economic circumstances that generate and shape the sources. But Iâ€™m using Flarf here as shorthand for many developments where the product and process of digital publishing blur in significant ways. Â Â

Iâ€™m expecting mainly to publish pieces that are critical or, at least, quasi-scholarly, but that doesnâ€™t mean the issue has no room for creative or essayistic work. In some cases, a review of contexts will make sense, but ultimately Iâ€™m looking for work that builds from contexts to unique arguments and insights about a specific facet of the relationships between â€œdigital publishingâ€ and â€œpoetry.â€ Iâ€™m happy to consider re-publishing a relevant piece as long as you own the rights or are able to get permission to reuse the material.

Â

Please let me know if this prospect appeals to you, and Iâ€™d be happy to give you more information (including deadlines, etc.). Iâ€™m also happy to help you brainstorm if you are interested in contributing but also interested in bouncing some ideas around with me first.

Â

More information about JEP and SPO (including links) are at the end of this letter.

Â

Thanks for considering.

Â

Yoursâ€”

Â

Aaron McCollough

Â

The Journal of Electronic Publishing (JEP), http://www.journalofelectronicpublishing.org/, is a forum for research and discussion about contemporary publishing practices, and the impact of those practices upon users. Our contributors and readers are publishers, scholars, librarians, journalists, students, technologists, attorneys, retailers, and others with an interest in the methods and means of contemporary publishing. At its inception in January 1995, JEP carved out an important niche by recognizing that print communication was in the throes of significant change, and that digital communication would become an important--and in some cases predominant--means for transmitting published information.

JEP aspires to document the changes in publishing, and in some cases to stimulate and shape the direction of those changes. The articles present innovative ideas, best practices, and leading-edge thinking about all aspects of publishing, authorship, and readership. The editor and publisher are committed to presenting wide-ranging and diverse viewpoints on contemporary publishing practices, and to encouraging dialogue and understanding between key decision-makers in publishing and those who are affected by the decisions being made.

The content of each issue, and the overall tone of the Journal is the responsibility of the editor, Judith Axler Turner. Ms. Turner has worked as a reporter for the New York Times, Washington Post, and the National Journal. She pioneered the many electronic publishing innovations made by the Chronicle of Higher Education in the late twentieth century as their Director of Electronic Publishing. She is now an information technology management consultant at Turner Consulting Group, which principally serves the federal government.

JEP is published by the Scholarly Publishing Office (SPO), http://www.lib.umich.edu/spo/, a unit of the University of Michigan University Library. SPO is committed to the concept of library-based scholarly publishing.

Indeed, the SPO believes that this is a necessary next step for academic libraries, as the university takes control not only of the creation of information, but its dissemination. To do that, the SPO has been unstinting in its effort to provide low-cost, scalable mechanisms for electronic publication and distribution of journals and scholarly databases.

SPO's publishing efforts for JEP are supported in part by the University of Michigan University Library, and in part by sponsorship of industry leaders in scholarly communication and electronic publishing whose names are at the bottom of each JEP page. SPO recognizes and respects the strengths of traditional publishing firms, and encourages an open and ongoing exchange of information and ideas such that we fulfill our common vision of advancing knowledge and scholarship. We appreciate the spirit of partnership represented by publisher commitments to sponsor JEP.

↑ Index

160. Jenkins, Grant
Professional Organization for Exp Poetry?
Tue 21 Sep 2010

If there is a professional organization for those of us who write (about) experimental poetry, then I don't know what it is. If there is such a thing, please enlighten me.

If there isn't, then perhaps it's time to start one. I know many of us are anti-establishment, anti-academy, yada yada, and there certainly is no imperative for everyone or anyone to join. However, since so many of us try to make a living in, around, and about innovative poetry, it seems prudent and timely.

Sure we go to conferences, like MLA, &Now, and Louisville's 20C conference; even AWP has become hospitable to those of us who do not do referential, expressive poetry. Certainly, I think many of us have been piggybacking on the Modernist Studies Association or other groups like that as a home-away-from-home, but I always feel so schizophrenic when I'm there, with papers on Edwardian periodicals and fashion AND Charles Bernstein, as if the were from the same epoch. Maybe they are, but I think genre and an attitude towards modernity make a difference.

If anyone is interested in forming a formal organization, either as a stand-alone entity, one with an annual conference, or as a part of the MLA, backchannel me.

Yrs,

Grant

Grant Matthew Jenkins, Assoc. Prof.
Director of African American Studies
Faculty of English Language and Literature
The University of Tulsa
Tulsa, OK 74104
[redacted]

↑ Index

161. Aldon Nielsen

Re: language and poetry after godel and turing

Tue 21 Sep 2010

---

points all well taken -- but I don't think you'll find Derrida responding favorably to "deconstructionism."

On Mon, Sep 20, 2010 at 12:07 PM, Murat Nemet-Nejat <[redacted]>wrote:

> Hi, Lily,
>
> but deconstructionism in literature does not mean remodeling. It is a much more drastic reviewing of the nature of literature. Whatever deconstruction means when on the side of a building, it does not mean that in Derrida, for instance. Deconstructionism is more like saying that a building is designed by its inhabitants and not by its architects. The confusion is understandable. It requires a reorientation of thinking.
>
> Ciao,
>
> Murat
>
> On Mon, Sep 20, 2010 at 9:21 AM, carol dorf <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Lily,
> I find this redefinition very helpful -- I wish I had learned it in grad school.
> It connects deconstructionism with urban life more seemlessly -- the way "Modernism"
> refers to architecture as well as a literary movement.
> Thanks,
> Carol
>
> On Sun, Sep 19, 2010 at 2:14 AM, lily robert-foley <
> [redacted]> wrote:
>
> Regarding the Deconstruction industry:

Just briefly (this is not exactly in response to the deconstruction industry/construction industry thing): I'm working on a thesis in Paris about the auto-translation of Beckett and the translation/reception of Derrida in the United States, and I realized that many people who read Derrida don't know that Deconstruction is not a made up word in French—which to my mind changes implicitly the reception and understanding of the concept.

Well, ok, Deconstruction is a made up word in French but it wasn't made up by Derrida, and it's not a bizarre, fancy sounding word that to most people actually just means, "word you would never understand so you should never use". For example, you see it constantly on the side of buildings that are "under construction"—which means, not that the building is being torn down and rebuilt, but that the structure of the building remains intact while certain defunct features are being removed and replaced or redone. In America we might call this remodeling or rehabbing.

I am still looking for a better word in English to translate this word, but have not quite found it. Perhaps "under construction" is actually perfect.

I think this is useful, not only for understanding Deconstruction but even for pedagogical purposes. I remember being an undergraduate and wanting very badly to understand what Deconstruction was but have many professors evade the subject. If someone had just translated the word for me and explained that in this case it refers to texts instead of buildings I would have been very happy I think.

Ok, thanks!

Lily

On Fri, Sep 17, 2010 at 5:50 AM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote: saw an ad on tv about training for 'interesting and well-payed careers
in the construction industry'.

it occurs to me i've been in the deconstruction industry for twenty years.

or is it the reconstruction industry? or the preconstruction industry?
or

is it the introstruction industry? the introspuction industry? or just the destruction industry?

the pay sucks. no doubt about it. but the hammerin and yammerin are fun.

i have a course in mind. here's some of the reading. the course would be called 'language and poetry after godel and turing'. the course would explore computational poetics. there's some yammerin bout manovitch et
all concerning poetics of new media. ya ya. but get down to the really revolutionary changes in thought. that's what brought about the computer revolution in the first place. that's the work of godel and turing.
computational poetics involves the poetics of the universal machine.
universal? in what sense? the course ultimately looks at how notions of
who
and what we are have changed in light of the development of the universal machine. and how our notions of what language is have changed. and how
that
has affected poetry from oulipo to contemporary work by poet programmers.

on formally undecidable propositions of principia mathematica and related
systems - k godel
godel escher bach - douglas hoffstadter
i am a strange loop - douglas hoffstadter
incompleteness - rebecca goldstein
engines of logic - martin davis
oulipo compendium - harry matthews
the essential turing - b. jack copeland
how we became post human - n k hayles
prehistoric digital poetry - c funkhouser

ja
http://vispo.com

guidelines

> guidelines
>
> guidelines

--
Aldon L. Nielsen
Kelly Professor of American Literature
Department of English
117 Burrowes Building
The Pennsylvania State University
University Park, PA
16802-6200

[redacted]

sailing the blogosphere at http://heatstrings.blogspot.com

"kindling his mind (more
than his mind will kindle)"

--William Carlos Williams, early adopter

↑ Index

162. Thom Donovan
2nd Ave Poetry OCCULT launch this SATURDAY (via Paolo Javier)
Tue 21 Sep 2010

---

you are invited to the launch of *2nd Ave Poetry <http://2ndavepoetry.com/>, vol 3: The Occult

*guest edited by alan ramon CLINTON

*
Saturday, September 25
5-7 pm
FREE
The Creek and The Cave <http://www.thecreekandthecave.com/>
10-93 Jackson Ave, Long Island City
(on the E, G, & 7 train, B61 bus)
*

featuring readings & multimedia performances by

*mitch HIGHFILL * toni SIMON * hector CANONGE *

*charles BORKHUIS * priscilla STADLER *

*brenda COULTAS * jill MAGI * kelly SPIVEY *
*douglas a. MARTIN * mark LAMOUREAUX*

downstairs after-party* *with live set by dj *DESPO *

volume 3 also includes work by

kevin* KILLIAN * leslie SCALAPINO * dodie BELLAMY
jeremy THOMPSON * *rit *PREMNATH * caitlin PARKER
tsering wangmo DHOMPA * thom DONOVAN
r. zamora LINMARK * thomas FINK * denise DUHAMEL
filip MARINOVICH * ca CONRAD * frank SHERLOCK
lyn GOERINGER * matt JONES * clayton ESHLEMAN
charles BERNSTEIN * stephanie GRAY * gerrit LANSING
vincent KATZ * *rusty *MORRISON * laynie BROWNE
tim PETERSON * john HARKEY * *r.m. *ENGELHARDT
emmy CATEDRAL * yago CURA * ernest CONCEPCION
*
dorothea LASKY * jonny* FARROW  alan ramon CLINTON*

↑ Index

163. lily robert-foley
Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
Tue 21 Sep 2010

Hello Murat!

It's true Deconstruction is not the same thing as remodeling. However, I think it is very important when reading and especially in teaching Derrida to understand the effects of the translation—what is lost and gained in the passage from one language to another. Deconstruction is primarily a method of reading that is tied to a long and complex history of many different (textual) notions in philosophy and literature. It is difficult (if not impossible and perhaps purposefully so), so to speak, to separate the bird from the branch (is that an expression, separate the bird from the branch?) and give a totalizing definition of Deconstruction that is not tied directly to its specific context(s) while in use. This is exactly why it can be so valuable to examine the meaning of the word in French; and by word I mean: also the resonances that it has beyond its use in philosophy and literary criticism: its various homophones and homonyms, its figural history, its roots and dissemination into the culture at large etc. What does a French speaker (such as Derrida) "hear" when using the word "Deconstruction." This is also useful for other concepts in Derrida such as play. Of course a precise definition of the word in translation is not a definition of the concept or its use.

I very much like the metaphor of the building that is designed by its inhabitants. I think remodeling can be useful (although, I agree, not an adequate translation! Deconstruction is a much better translation for Deconstruction) for a similar reason: I think it's a common misconception that Deconstruction means to undo or negate structure, which, in my reading, is not the case. Nice to be able to discuss this.

xoxo

Lily

On Mon, Sep 20, 2010 at 6:07 PM, Murat Nemet-Nejat <[redacted]> wrote:
> Hi, Lily,
>
> but deconstructionism in literature does not mean remodeling. It is a much > more drastic reviewing of the nature of literature. Whatever deconstruction > means when on the side of a building, it does not mean that in Derrida, for > instance. Deconstructionism is more like saying that a building is designed > by its inhabitants and not by its architects. The confusion is > understandable. It requires a reorientation of thinking.
>
> Ciao,
>
> Murat
>
>
> On Mon, Sep 20, 2010 at 9:21 AM, carol dorf <[redacted]> wrote:
>
>> Lily,
>> I find this redefinition very helpful -- I wish I had learned it in grad >> school.
>> It connects deconstructionism with urban life more seemlessly -- the way
>> "Modernism"
>> refers to architecture as well as a literary movement.
>> Thanks,
>> Carol
>>
>> On Sun, Sep 19, 2010 at 2:14 AM, lily robert-foley <
>> [redacted]> wrote:
>>
>> > Regarding the Deconstruction industry:

>> >
>> > Just briefly (this is not exactly in response to the deconstruction >> > industry/construction industry thing): I'm working on a thesis in >> > Paris about the auto-translation of Beckett and the >> > translation/reception of Derrida in the United States, and I realized >> > that many people who read Derrida don't know that Deconstruction is >> > not a made up word in French—which to my mind changes implicitly the >> > reception and understanding of the concept.
>> >
>> > Well, ok, Deconstruction is a made up word in French but it wasn't >> > made up by Derrida, and it's not a bizarre, fancy sounding word that >> > to most people actually just means, "word you would never understand >> > so you should never use". For example, you see it constantly on the >> > side of buildings that are "under construction"—which means, not that >> > the building is being torn down and rebuilt, but that the structure of >> > the building remains intact while certain defunct features are being >> > removed and replaced or redone. In America we might call this >> > remodeling or rehabbing.
>> >
>> > I am still looking for a better word in English to translate this >> > word, but have not quite found it. Perhaps "under construction" is >> > actually perfect.
>> >
>> > I think this is useful, not only for understanding Deconstruction but >> > even for pedagogical purposes. I remember being an undergraduate and >> > wanting very badly to understand what Deconstruction was but have many >> > professors evade the subject. If someone had just translated the word >> > for me and explained that in this case it refers to texts instead of >> > buildings I would have been very happy I think.
>> >
>> > Ok, thanks!
>> >
>> > Lily
>> >
>> >
>> >
>> > On Fri, Sep 17, 2010 at 5:50 AM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote: >> > > saw an ad on tv about training for 'interesting and well-payed careers
>> in >> > > the construction industry'.
>> > >

>> > > it occurs to me i've been in the deconstruction industry for twenty >> > years.
>> > >
>> > > or is it the reconstruction industry? or the preconstruction industry?
>> or
>> > is >> > > it the introstruction industry? the introspuction industry? or just the >> > > destruction industry?
>> > >
>> > > the pay sucks. no doubt about it. but the hammerin and yammerin are >> fun.
>> > >
>> > > i have a course in mind. here's some of the reading. the course would >> be >> > > called 'language and poetry after godel and turing'. the course would >> > > explore computational poetics. there's some yammerin bout manovitch et
>> > all >> > > concerning poetics of new media. ya ya. but get down to the really >> > > revolutionary changes in thought. that's what brought about the >> computer
>> > > revolution in the first place. that's the work of godel and turing.
>> > > computational poetics involves the poetics of the universal machine.
>> > > universal? in what sense? the course ultimately looks at how notions of
>> > who
>> > > and what we are have changed in light of the development of the >> universal >> > > machine. and how our notions of what language is have changed. and how
>> > that >> > > has affected poetry from oulipo to contemporary work by poet >> programmers.
>> > >
>> > > on formally undecidable propositions of principia mathematica and >> related
>> > > systems - k godel
>> > > godel escher bach - douglas hoffstadter
>> > > i am a strange loop - douglas hoffstadter
>> > > incompleteness - rebecca goldstein
>> > > engines of logic - martin davis
>> > > oulipo compendium - harry matthews
>> > > the essential turing - b. jack copeland

>> > > how we became post human - n k hayles
>> > > prehistoric digital poetry - c funkhouser
>> > >
>> > > ja
>> > > http://vispo.com
>> > >
>> > guidelines
>> > >
>> >
>> guidelines
>> >
>>
>>
>
>

↑ Index

164. Jim Andrews

Sign After the X by David Clark

Tue 21 Sep 2010

David Clarke has created a new work of net art called Sign After the X (http://signafterthex.net) in collaboration with Marina Roy and Graham Meisner. Sign After the X is structurally similar to some of Clark's earlier works such as A is for Apple (http://aisforapple.net) and 88 Constellations for Wittgenstein (http://88constellations.net). The form of these works is one that Clark has been developing for some time now; A is for Apple, the first of them, was published in 2002.

The nodes or chapters or sections of these hypermedia works are done in Flash. They're multimedia approaches to a subject. We hear a voice reading a text about Freud or Lacan or Wittgenstein or X (etc) while Clark's animated visuals improvise with the text--in the sense that the visuals explicate or explore or expand or riff on the text's meaning. Sign After the X is organized into five categories: Mind, Body, Land, Language, and Law. Each of these contains anywhere from four to thirty nodes/Flash works.

The putative subject of Sign After the X is "the letter X and it's multiple meanings in our culture". And, yes, I can see that in some of the material presented. But it seems to me there's considerably more going on than that.

For instance, in the 'Mind' section, we encounter about thirty hypermedia works, many of which are explanatory of or exploratory of Freud's ideas. Perhaps these are indeed related to X, but I don't know how. However, that is not a criticism; the hypermedia works are often compelling in their voiced text and almost always are interesting in their visual nature and workings. The connection with X is not obvious and might emerge with more exploration of other parts of the work, which is unusually large for a work of net art.

Some of the hypermedia works are not so good. The reading of Coleridge's "Kubla Kahn", for instance. Particularly by the guy who normally reads those theorified texts. Yeesh. But many of them are fascinating and considerably more original than a bad reading of "Kubla Khan" accompanied with mild visuals. The interest of Clark's work, to me, is in his avoiding, for the most part, such cliches of digital literary production. His background is in visual art. The individual nodes are often very polished, and that which links them, and the resulting overall shape and semantic, thematic structure, are of great interest in these fascinating works by David Clark. I don't see anyone else exploring this sort of form in the same way Clark has been since 2002.

If you find Sign After the X of interest, you should also check out his site http://chemicalpictures.net for other projects and writings.

ja
http://netartery.vispo.com
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

165. Elliot Harmon

Thursday night in San Francisco: Lee Ann Roripaugh, Kaya Oakes, Cynthia Weyuker

Tue 21 Sep 2010

Idiolexicon Poetry Series
Rancho Parnassus, 132 6th St, San Francisco
Thursday, September 23, 7 PM
Free

On September 23, three innovative artists will share their work at Rancho Parnassus in San Francisco: poet Lee Ann Roripaugh (On the Cusp of a Dangerous Year, SIU Press 2009), writer Kaya Oakes (Slanted and Enchanted: The Evolution of Indie Culture, Holt Paperbacks 2009), and experimental musical saw player Cynthia Weyuker. More information: http://www.idiolexicon.com/

↑ Index

166. Deborah Poe

24 September: Deborah Poe and Max Winter @ Bard Roving

Tue 21 Sep 2010

Deborah Poe and Max Winter read

Friday September 24th 6pm

Olin 102, Bard College

Annandale-on-Hudson NY

Deborah Poe is the author of the poetry collections Elements (Stockport Flats Press 2010) and Our Parenthetical Ontology (CustomWords 2008). Deborah's writing has recently appeared in journals such as Jacket Magazine, Peaches & Bats, Sidebrow, Filter Literary Journal, and Denver Quarterly. Deborah Poe is assistant professor of English at Pace University, fiction editor of the international online journal of the arts Drunken Boat, and guest curator/editor for Trickhouse's "Experiment" door 2010/2011. For more information, visit www.deborahpoe.com.

Max Winter's book The Pictures was published by Tarpaulin Sky Press in 2007. His work has appeared in The New Republic, Ploughshares, Denver Quarterly, Colorado Review, The Yale Review, Boulevard, The Iowa Review, Sentence, and Parthenon West. He has published reviews in The New York Times Book Review, Bomb, and many other publications. He is currently one of the poetry editors of Fence.

↑ Index

167. michael farrell

Re: language and poetry after godel and turing

Tue 21 Sep 2010

---

or at all > points all well taken -- but I don't think you'll find Derrida responding favorably to "deconstructionism."

>
> On Mon, Sep 20, 2010 at 12:07 PM, Murat Nemet-Nejat <[redacted]>wrote:
>
> Hi, Lily,
>
> but deconstructionism in literature does not mean remodeling. It is a much more drastic reviewing of the nature of literature. Whatever deconstruction means when on the side of a building, it does not mean that in Derrida, for instance. Deconstructionism is more like saying that a building is designed by its inhabitants and not by its architects. The confusion is understandable. It requires a reorientation of thinking.

Ciao,

Murat

On Mon, Sep 20, 2010 at 9:21 AM, carol dorf <[redacted]> wrote:

Lily,
I find this redefinition very helpful -- I wish I had learned it in grad school.
It connects deconstructionism with urban life more seemlessly -- the way "Modernism"
refers to architecture as well as a literary movement.
Thanks,
Carol

On Sun, Sep 19, 2010 at 2:14 AM, lily robert-foley <
[redacted]> wrote:

Regarding the Deconstruction industry:

Just briefly (this is not exactly in response to the deconstruction industry/construction industry thing): I'm working on a thesis in Paris about the auto-translation of Beckett and the translation/reception of Derrida in the United States, and I realized that many people who read Derrida don't know that Deconstruction is not a made up word in French—which to my mind changes implicitly the reception and understanding of the concept.

Well, ok, Deconstruction is a made up word in French but it wasn't made up by Derrida, and it's not a bizarre, fancy sounding word that to most people actually just means, "word you would never understand so you should never use". For example, you see it constantly on the side of buildings that are "under construction"—which means, not that the building is being torn down and rebuilt, but that the structure of the building remains intact while certain defunct features are being removed and replaced or redone. In America we might call this remodeling or rehabbing.

I am still looking for a better word in English to translate this word, but have not quite found it. Perhaps "under construction" is actually perfect.

I think this is useful, not only for understanding Deconstruction but even for pedagogical purposes. I remember being an undergraduate and wanting very badly to understand what Deconstruction was but have many professors evade the subject. If someone had just translated the word for me and explained that in this case it refers to texts instead of buildings I would have been very happy I think.

Ok, thanks!

Lily

On Fri, Sep 17, 2010 at 5:50 AM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:
saw an ad on tv about training for 'interesting and well-payed careers in the construction industry'.

it occurs to me i've been in the deconstruction industry for twenty years.

or is it the reconstruction industry? or the preconstruction industry? or is it the introstruction industry? the introspuction industry? or just the destruction industry?

the pay sucks. no doubt about it. but the hammerin and yammerin are fun.

i have a course in mind. here's some of the reading. the course would be called 'language and poetry after godel and turing'. the course would explore computational poetics. there's some yammerin bout manovitch et all concerning poetics of new media. ya ya. but get down to the really revolutionary changes in thought. that's what brought about the computer revolution in the first place. that's the work of godel and turing. computational poetics involves the poetics of the universal machine. universal? in what sense? the course ultimately looks at how notions of who and what we are have changed in light of the development of the universal machine. and how our notions of what language is have changed. and how

that
has affected poetry from oulipo to contemporary work by poet programmers.

on formally undecidable propositions of principia mathematica and related
systems - k godel
godel escher bach - douglas hoffstadter
i am a strange loop - douglas hoffstadter
incompleteness - rebecca goldstein
engines of logic - martin davis
oulipo compendium - harry matthews
the essential turing - b. jack copeland
how we became post human - n k hayles
prehistoric digital poetry - c funkhouser

ja
http://vispo.com

guidelines

guidelines

guidelines

--
Aldon L. Nielsen
Kelly Professor of American Literature
Department of English
117 Burrowes Building
The Pennsylvania State University
University Park, PA
16802-6200

[redacted]

sailing the blogosphere at http://heatstrings.blogspot.com

"kindling his mind (more
than his mind will kindle)"

> --William Carlos Williams, early adopter

↑ Index

168. ART ELECTRONICS

Poets, books of poetry, and small publishers in Lazio.

Wed 22 Sep 2010

Dear friends, meeting in Nettuno, near Rome, for the festival of the small publishers, where, on October 3rd 2010, I will present three video works in an event dedicated to Edoardo Sanguineti. Following the list of featured works, which falls within the context of an initiative that provides three days of extensive itinerary of contemporary poetry readings. Participants: publishing houses, associations, libraries, poets, literary critics, teachers, students of local schools, citizens of all ages: book presentations, meetings with poets and critics, readings and performances, video installation and video projection, exhibition of poetry art books, poetry, poetry slam, intensive workshop of reading and writing of poetry, poetry competition.

Coordination by Ugo Magnanti in collaboration with Amati and Enrico Pietrangeli. We are waiting for you!

Caterina Davinio
::
Web: http://xoomer.virgilio.it/cprezi/caterinadav.html
More: http://xoomer.alice.it/kareninazoom/daviniobook.htm (En)
Archeo Computer-Poetry http://www.youtube.com/CaterinaDav

_____

Poets, poetry books, and small publishers in Lazio.
Where: Forte Sangallo, Nettuno,
When: 1-2-3 ottobre 2010.

VIDEO:
WHERE: Forte Sangallo. Sala del Camino.
WHEN: Sunday, October 3
15:00 to 19:00 hours
PROJECTIONS ON SOME NATIONAL OCCURRENCES: VIDEOPOETRY
(Section dedicated to the memory of Edoardo Sanguineti).

Caterina Davinio, - The First Poetry Space Shuttle Landing on Second Life, 53. Biennale di Venezia. 5', 2010. Music: Mirko Lalit Egger; - Goa Radio Station from North Pole - Self Poertrait, 2', 2010. Music: Mirko Lalit Egger; - Finally I Remember, 2', 2010. Music: The Nuv.

↑ Index

169. Jim Andrews
take it easy
Wed 22 Sep 2010

---

i just thought this was very now and then.

http://www.google.ca/images?q=winslow standin on the corner make sure you copy the whole line or you won't get the 'standin on the corner' part of the url.

these are pictures taken in winslow arizona. the good folks of winslow arizona made this magical spot, a homage to the eagles's song from the 70's "take it easy" which contains the lines

well i'm standin on a corner in winslow arizona such a fine sight to see it's a girl, my lord, in a flat-bed ford
slowin down to take a look at me come on, baby, don't say maybe i gotta know if your sweet love is gonna save me
we may lose and we may win though we will never be here again so open up, I'm climbin' in, so take it easy

you see the reflection in the window of the blonde in the truck. and an eagle perched on the window on the second floor. and the glenn frey/jackson brownish guy with the guitar.

well, it turns out that the whole thing is in danger now cuz the building next door to it burned down. the site is fenced off and they need $35,000 to repair it. and, these days in winslow, that money just ain't around.

the happy ending, of course, would be if one of those millionaire eagles coughed up the cash.

"take it easy" was the first song on the first eagles album. and, though they made many brilliant songs, "take it easy" is probably the best of them. jackson browne wrote most of it. glenn frey heard browne playing it downstairs and asked if he could use it for his new band. jackson said yes but you have to finish it. wow did frey finish it.

and they don't owe the folks in winslow anything, perhaps, but thanks for making such a beautiful thing in homage to their song. a place where lots of people suddenly found themselves, as it were, in one of their favorite songs.

but it's sad the place is maybe going down. can't even 'take it easy' anymore without a fence around it and demolition a possibility.

i thought that was an interesting comment on the state of things now. and in relation to another era in usamerican history.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

170. Ram Devineni
Rattapallax 10th Anniversary Reading on Sept 24, 2010
Wed 22 Sep 2010

Dear Friends:

The 10th Anniversary of Rattapallax magazine heralds a landmark in the magazineâ€™s history as it shifts entirely online, but you get to see them live. Featured readers include EDWARD HIRSCH, author of "The Living Fire: New and Selected Poems" and winner of the National Book Critics Circle Award. Also, EILEEN MYLES, author of "Inferno: A Poet's Novelâ€, RACHEL ZUCKER, author of "Museum of Accidents", a finalist for the National Books Critics Award in 2009. Other readers include EDWIN TORRES, author of "In the Function of External Circumstances" along with poet and translator IDRA NOVEY, author of "The Next Country". Screening of short video pieces by Scott Gelber from Monofonus Press and the Teleportal reading series (http://www.teleportalreadings.org). Hosted by editor FLAVIA ROCHA.

September 24, 2010 at 7:00 pm

Theresa Lang Community and Student Center, Arnhold Hall

THE NEW SCHOOL, 55 West 13th Street, 2nd floor, New York, NY. FREE

Co-sponsored by the Creative Writing MFA Programs
http://www.newschool.edu/writing/events.aspx?id=52634

Also, watch an exclusive interview with Edward Hirsch, a poet and head of the Guggenheim Foundation, about the Chilean poet Pablo Nerudaâ€™s exile at Sampsonia Way Magazine:
http://www.sampsoniaway.org/blog/2010/08/19/edward-hirsch-on-pablo-nerudas-exile/

This event was funded in part by Poets & Writers, Inc. through public funds from the New York City Department of Cultural Affairs. The Experimental Television Center's Presentation Funds program is supported by the New York State Council on the Arts. Additional support provided by New York City

Department of Cultural Affairs in partnership with the City Council and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Cheers

Ram Devineni

Publisher

↑ Index

171. Mark Weiss
Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
Wed 22 Sep 2010

Likewise bricolage/bricoleur and collage--the most plebian words, which is part of the point--the connection to the everyday, but also to the proletariat. The tendency has been the opposite in English.

The call it defamiliarization of common words to create a clerical language is nothing new in English--think of what Ernest Jones and company did to Freud's German: the I becomes the ego, the it becomes the id.

Since at least the Norman Conquest English has gone through waves of latinization. As the latin term becomes domesticated a new latin term (often from French) is substituted, which in turn gets domesticated. The process I think is driven by somebody's need to maintain class and professional distinctions--one stands upon a platform of authority built of words.

Translating familiar words to familiar words wouldn't make the complex simple--in the case of structuralism/poststructuralism the words are used in extended, less-familiar ways--but a layer of separation from the common folk would be stripped away. Too late for that, I guess.

At 05:14 AM 9/19/2010, you wrote:
>Regarding the Deconstruction industry:
>
>Just briefly (this is not exactly in response to the deconstruction >industry/construction industry thing): I'm working on a thesis in >Paris about the auto-translation of Beckett and the >translation/reception of Derrida in the United States, and I realized >that many people who read Derrida don't know that Deconstruction is >not a made up word in French—which to my mind changes implicitly the >reception and understanding of the concept.

>
>Well, ok, Deconstruction is a made up word in French but it wasn't >made up by Derrida, and it's not a bizarre, fancy sounding word that
>to most people actually just means, "word you would never understand >so you should never use". For example, you see it constantly on the >side of buildings that are "under construction"—which means, not that >the building is being torn down and rebuilt, but that the structure of >the building remains intact while certain defunct features are being >removed and replaced or redone. In America we might call this >remodeling or rehabbing.
>
>I am still looking for a better word in English to translate this >word, but have not quite found it. Perhaps "under construction" is >actually perfect.
>
>I think this is useful, not only for understanding Deconstruction but >even for pedagogical purposes. I remember being an undergraduate and >wanting very badly to understand what Deconstruction was but have many >professors evade the subject. If someone had just translated the word >for me and explained that in this case it refers to texts instead of >buildings I would have been very happy I think.
>
>Ok, thanks!
>
>Lily
>
>
>
>On Fri, Sep 17, 2010 at 5:50 AM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:
> > saw an ad on tv about training for 'interesting and well-payed careers in > > the construction industry'.
> >
> > it occurs to me i've been in the deconstruction industry for twenty years.
> >
> > or is it the reconstruction industry? or the > preconstruction industry? or is > > it the introstruction industry? the introspuction industry? or just the > > destruction industry?

> >
> > the pay sucks. no doubt about it. but the hammerin and yammerin are fun.
> >
> > i have a course in mind. here's some of the reading. the course would be > > called 'language and poetry after godel and turing'. the course would > > explore computational poetics. there's some yammerin bout manovitch et all > > concerning poetics of new media. ya ya. but get down to the really > > revolutionary changes in thought. that's what brought about the computer > > revolution in the first place. that's the work of godel and turing.
> > computational poetics involves the poetics of the universal machine.
> > universal? in what sense? the course ultimately looks at how notions of who
> > and what we are have changed in light of the development of the universal > > machine. and how our notions of what language is have changed. and how that > > has affected poetry from oulipo to contemporary work by poet programmers.
> >
> > on formally undecidable propositions of principia mathematica and related
> > systems - k godel
> > godel escher bach - douglas hoffstadter
> > i am a strange loop - douglas hoffstadter
> > incompleteness - rebecca goldstein
> > engines of logic - martin davis
> > oulipo compendium - harry matthews
> > the essential turing - b. jack copeland
> > how we became post human - n k hayles
> > prehistoric digital poetry - c funkhouser
> >
> > ja
> > http://vispo.com
> >
> >
>

New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
$16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm

"What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the poet alive in every sense of the word, and through every one of his senses. Instead of missing a beat or a part, Weiss' fragments are

like Chekhov's short storiesthe more that gets
left out, the more they seem to contain… One can
hear echoes from all the various
ancestors...[but] the voice, at its center, its
core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment
is both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure
musical threnody…[it] opens a window, not only
into a mind, but a person, a personality, this
human figure at the emotional center of the poem."

M.G. Stephens, in Jacket.
http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml

↑ Index

172. Cara Benson
Tonight: Hogue. Truitt. Yes! Reading Albany, NY
Wed 22 Sep 2010

Tonight at 7:30pm in Albany, NY...

Cynthia Hogue and Sam Truitt.

Yes! Reading. Social Justice Center.
33 Central Avenue.

http://yesreading.wordpress.com/

Cynthia Hogue has published seven collections of poetry, most recently The Incognito Body (2006), Or Consequence (2010), and the co-authored When the Water Came: Evacuees of Hurricane Katrina (interview-poems with photographs by Rebecca Ross), also published in 2010. Among her honors are a Fulbright Fellowship, a National Endowment for the Arts Fellowship in poetry, the H.D. Fellowship at the Beinecke Library at Yale University, an Arizona Commission on the Arts Project Grant, and the Witter Bynner Translation Residency Fellowship at the Santa Fe Art Institute.

Sam Truitt was born in Washington, DC, and raised there and in Tokyo, Japan. He is the author of the forthcoming Vertical Elegies 6: Street Mete (Station Hill, 2010) and the previously published Vertical Elegies: Three Works (UDP, 2008), Vertical Elegies 5: The Section (Georgia, 2003) and Anamorphosis Eisenhower (Lost Roads, 1998), among other books. An excerpt of Raton Rex (from Three Works) was selected by Robert Creeley for 2002 Best American Poetry (Scribner), and his work has also been anthologized in A Best of Fence: The First Nine Years (Fence Books, 2009) American Poetry: The Next Generation (Carnegie Mellon, 2000). His poems have appeared in Ploughshares, Denver Quarterly, Boston Review, Explosive, Jacket, Talisman, and First Intensity, among other journals. His critical writing may be found in Fulcrum and the American Book Review. His works of visual poetry have been exhibited at the Rothstein Gallery, Tonic and the St. Marks Poetry Project and may be seen on www.ubu.com, among other sites. His writing is in a semi-permanent installation at the Paramount Hotel's Whiskey Bar, designed by Philippe Starck, off Times Square in New York City.

↑ Index

173. Séamas Cain

The Prairie Gaeltacht, by Séamas Cain

Wed 22 Sep 2010

_____

Físeán de 'Prairie Gaeltacht' le
feiscint, ach an nasc thíos a leanúint ...

Follow the link to view a video of 'The Prairie Gaeltacht'.

http://www.ustream.tv/recorded/9708043

_____

Séamas Cain
http://www.saorsainn.net
http://alazanto.org/seamascain
http://seamascain-writernetwork.org
http://www.mnartists.org/Seamas_Cain

_____

↑ Index

174. Séamas Cain

... reality-particles; image & sound in nature

Wed 22 Sep 2010

_____

IMRAM, a national literary festival in Ireland, in association with the Dublin City Arts Centre, will present "tríd an gcoill" by Séamas Cain and Slavek Kwi.

This Installation with recorded or live performances will take place at 1:00 p.m. to 5:45 p.m. from September 23 through September 27, 2010 at the Grapevine Space of CITY ARTS, 15 Bachelor’s Walk, Dublin 1, Ireland.

The Opening for "tríd an gcoill" will be held at 1:00 p.m. on September 23. Admission is free.

For additional information phone
Nick Reilly at CITY ARTS, i.e.,

Phone ([redacted] ...

http://www.cityarts.ie/events/2010/09/23/-trid-an-gcoill

tríd an gcoill
"through the woods"

A collection of reality-particles; sounds and images from Dromore Woods. An audiovisual installation, with recorded or live performances.

tríd an gcoill, a 120-page poem by Séamas Cain, is itself a poetic field recording. It evokes a walk through Dromore Woods in County Clare. It immerses the reader in a stream of words and word-clusters. The overall effect is hypnotic, as we are led by a piped piper into the heart of the wood.

Czech sound-artist Slavek Kwi has created an audiovisual installation from underwater and field recordings captured in Dromore Woods itself, and fused these elements with Séamas Cain's chanted recital of tríd an gcoill. This installation with performances will be open to the public in City Arts, with Free Admission. tríd an gcoill creates a unique space in which one can experience nature and language through sounds and visions of uncanny beauty.

Séamas Cain is an Irish-American experimental poet, a friend and colleague of Jean Genet and Allen Ginsberg. One of the most radical voices in modern literature he writes in Irish, Scottish Gaelic, Old Celtic, Spanish and English.

For additional information, go to ...

http://seamascain-writernetwork.org

Slavek Kwi is a Czech sound-artist, composer and researcher. From the early nineties he has operated under the name "Artificial Memory Trace."

For additional information, go to ...

http://www.artificialmemorytrace.com

Seamus Johnson described Cain's recorded chantings of tríd an gcoill for this Installation as "incantatory, rhythmic, passionate, guttural, mezmerizing. Cain is the baritone ascending to Apollo. Or, is he the baritone ascending Mt. Carmel? He does tend to get carried away in performance, lost in a kind of trance, at times in the passion of the moment whacking the microphones. Indeed, Cain's performance is hypnotic! Plenty of auditory images! And plenty of rich and diverse sounds to be chopped up for computer-randomization!"

Slavek Kwi used chance operations to distribute the fragments of Cain's chantings in various speakers of a vertical Speaker Tree, which doesn't brake

the continuous chanting, but changes the architecture as texture and dynamics. Also, Kwi used chance operations on the distribution in speakers of the timbre of Cain's chantings.

Kwi's Installation includes a color film, with parts of the text of the tríd an gcoill poem superimposed in scrolling effect over images from Dromore Woods, a slide-show with 1,500 slides, an environmental soundtrack on external 5.1 system and also a Voice Tower, all edited using chance operations. Kwi's Installation also includes physical objects from Dromore Woods.

For additional information, go to ...

http://www.cityarts.ie/events/2010/09/23/-trid-an-gcoill

http://www.artificialmemorytrace.com

http://www.freewebs.com/seamascain/liamcarsonsreview.htm

http://www.freewebs.com/seamascain/questionsanswers.htm

http://alazanto.org/seamascain

http://www.saorsainn.net

↑ Index

175. steve russell

Fw: language and poetry after godel and turing

Wed 22 Sep 2010

---

yeah, the godel/escher/bach book was awesome.
&, i think, a bestseller

--- On Thu, 9/16/10, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
Subject: language and poetry after godel and turing
To: [redacted]
Date: Thursday, September 16, 2010, 11:50 PM

saw an ad on tv about training for 'interesting and well-payed careers in the construction industry'.

it occurs to me i've been in the deconstruction industry for twenty years.

or is it the reconstruction industry? or the preconstruction industry? or is it the introstruction industry? the introspuction industry? or just the destruction industry?

the pay sucks. no doubt about it. but the hammerin and yammerin are fun.

i have a course in mind. here's some of the reading. the course would be called 'language and poetry after godel and turing'. the course would explore computational poetics. there's some yammerin bout manovitch et all concerning poetics of new media. ya ya. but get down to the really revolutionary changes in thought. that's what brought about the computer revolution in the first place. that's the work of godel and turing. computational poetics involves the poetics of the universal machine. universal? in what sense? the course ultimately looks at how notions of who and what we are have changed in light of the development of the universal machine. and how our notions of what language is have changed. and how that has affected poetry from oulipo to contemporary work by poet programmers.

on formally undecidable propositions of principia mathematica and related systems - k godel
godel escher bach - douglas hoffstadter
i am a strange loop - douglas hoffstadter
incompleteness - rebecca goldstein
engines of logic - martin davis
oulipo compendium - harry matthews
the essential turing - b. jack copeland
how we became post human - n k hayles
prehistoric digital poetry - c funkhouser

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

176. David Kirschenbaum
Boog Fest Starts Tomorrow
Thu 23 Sep 2010

Hi,

Here it is, beginning tomorrow, Fri., Sept. 24 through Tues. Sept. 28, we'll be putting on the fourth annual Welcome to Boog City poetry and music festival. It will feature 43 poets and 12 musical acts over the five days.

You can view the web-only color pdf version of Boog City’s Welcome to Boog City issue here:

http://welcometoboogcity.com/boogpdfs/bc65.pdf

replete with:

* the full schedule illustrated with performer pics

*music editor Jonathan Berger on festival performers Rorie Kelly and Magnetic Island

*small press editor Douglas Manson interviews Robert Dewhurst, editor of d.a. levy lives visiting press Satellite Telephone

*printed matter editor Arlo Quint on John Godfrey and Douglas Piccinnini on Julian T. Brolaski

*poems by fest performers Allison Cobb, Todd Colby, Noelle Kocot, and Chris Martin

and thanks to Jesse Schoen ([redacted]) who designed the festival's logo.

Among the festival highlights are:

—our classic album live series presents its first ever album performed by just one act, Bob Dylan's Highway 61 Revisited by i feel tractor;

—our d.a. levy lives series devotes a night to Buffalo's Satellite Telephone magazine;

—our 7th annual small, small press fair, with exhibits from a host of small presses, and readings by their authors;

—a discussion on, and readings of, site-specific poems; and

—poet David Shapiro reading and in conversation with poet Joanna Fuhrman.

—poet Anne Waldman performing with musician Ambrose Bye

The full schedule for the event is below this note, followed by performer bios and websites.

If you need any additional information you can reach me at 212-842- BOOG (2664) or [redacted].

as ever,
David

P.S. Physical copies of this issue, Boog City 65, are available at the below drop spots.

3,000 copies of Boog City are distributed among, and available for free at, the following locations:

MANHATTAN

East Village
Sunshine Theater * 143 E. Houston St. (bet. 1st & 2nd Avenues)

Bluestockings * 172 Allen St. (bet. Stanton & Rivington sts.)
Pianos * 158 Ludlow St. (bet. Stanton and Rivington sts.)
Living Room * 154 Ludlow St. (bet. Stanton and Rivington sts.)
Cake Shop * 152 Ludlow St. (bet. Stanton and Rivington sts.)
Bowery Poetry Club * 308 Bowery (bet. Houston & Bleecker sts.)
Think Coffee * 1 Bleecker St. (@ Bowery)
Trash and Vaudeville (upstairs) * 4 St. Mark's Pl. (bet. 2nd & 3rd aves.)
Mission Café * 82 Second Ave. (bet. 4th & 5th sts.)
Anthology Film Archives * 32 Second Ave. (bet. 1st & 2nd sts.)
Sidewalk Café * 94 Avenue A (bet. 6th & 7th sts.)
Nuyorican Poets Café * 236 E. 3rd St. (bet. Avenues B & C)
Lakeside Lounge * 162 Avenue B (bet. 10th & 11th sts.)
Life Café * 343 E. 10th St. (bet. Avenues A & B)
St. Mark's Books * 31 Third Ave. (bet. St. Mark's Pl. & 9th St.)
St. Mark's Church * 131 E.10th St. (bet. 2nd & 3rd aves.)

Lower Manhattan Acme Underground * 9 Great Jones St. (bet. Broadway & Lafayette St.) Shakespeare & Co. * 716 Broadway (bet. Waverly & Astor places) Other Music * 15 E. 4th St. (bet. Broadway & Lafayette St.) Angelika Film Center * 18 W. Houston St. (bet. Broadway & Mercer St.) Think Coffee * 248 Mercer St. (bet. W. 4th and W. 3rd sts.) Mercer Street Books * 206 Mercer St. (bet. Bleecker & Houston sts.) Housing Works Cafe * 126 Crosby St. (bet. E. Houston & Prince sts.) McNally Jackson * 52 Prince St. (bet. Mulberry & Lafayette sts.) ACA Galleries * 529 W. 20th St., 5th Flr.(bet. 10th/11th aves.) Hotel Chelsea * 222 W. 23rd St. (bet. 7th & 8th aves.)

BROOKLYN

Greenpoint Matchless * 557 Manhattan Ave. (bet. Nassau and Driggs aves.) Enid's * 560 Manhattan Ave. (bet. Nassau and Driggs aves.) Thai Café * 925 Manhattan Ave. (bet. Kent St. & Greenpoint Ave.) Champion Coffee * 1108 Manhattan Ave. (bet. Clay & DuPont sts.)

Williamsburg
Sideshow Gallery * 319 Bedford Ave. (bet. S.2nd & S.3rd sts.)
Supercore Café * 305 Bedford Ave. (bet. S.1st & S.2nd sts.)
Spoonbill & Sugartown * 218 Bedford Ave. (bet. N.4th & N.5th sts.)
Public Assembly * 70 North 6th St. (bet. Wythe & Kent aves.) 50
Bliss Café * 191 Bedford Ave. (bet. N.6th & N.7th sts.)
Spike Hill * 184 Bedford Ave. (bet. N.6th & N.7th sts.)
Soundfix/Fix Cafe * 44 Berry St. (bet. N.11th & N.12th sts.)

Unnameable Books * 600 Vanderbilt Ave. (bet. Prospect Place/St. Marks Avenue)

Please patronize our advertisers:

Alice James Books * http://www.alicejamesbooks.org/

Casagrande Press * http://www.casagrandepress.com/

Indiana Review * http://indianareview.org/

NYQ Books * http://www.nyqbooks.org/

Red Rock Review * http://sites.csn.edu/english/redrockreview/issue.htm

The Georgia Review * http://www.thegeorgiareview.com/

Vanitas magazine * http://www.vanitasmagazine.com/

To advertise in Boog City, see our ad rate card:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/ad_rates.pdf

Advertising or donation inquiries can also be directed to [redacted] or by calling 212-842-BOOG (2664),
or you can send money to [redacted] via https://www.paypal.com/

Poetry Submission Guidelines: Email subs to [redacted], with no more than five poems, all in one attached file with “My Name Submission” in the subject line and as the name of the file, ie: Walt Whitman Submission. Or mail with an SASE to Joanna Fuhrman, Poetry editor, Boog City, 330 W. 28th St., Suite 6H, N.Y., N.Y. 10001-4754.

Want to write a review (or be reviewed)
in Boog’s Urban Folk music or printed matter sections?
Email UF editor Jonathan Berger, [redacted] or printed matter editor Arlo Quint, [redacted]

Want to have your work appear in our art section?
Query our art editor, Cora Lambert, [redacted]

4th Annual

Welcome to Boog City festival
5 Days of Poetry and Music

Friday Sept. 24, Sidewalk Café
94 Ave. A
NYC

Free with a two-drink minimum

7:00 p.m. Noelle Kocot
7:20 p.m. Pierre Joris
7:35 p.m. Maureen Thorson
7:55 p.m. Steve Cannon
8:00 p.m. Nicole Peyrafitte
8:20 p.m. Poetry Talk Talk-David Shapiro reading and in conversation with Joanna Fuhrman
9:10 p.m. Anne Waldman and Ambrose Bye-poetry and music
9:50 p.m. Magnetic Island-music
10:50 p.m. i feel tractor performs Bob Dylan's Highway 61 Revisited for its 45th anniversary
12:00 a.m. The Elastic No-No Band-music

Directions: F/V to 2nd Ave., L to 1st Ave.
Venue is at East 6th Street

Sat. Sept. 25, Unnameable Books
7th Annual Small, Small Press Fair

Unnameable Books
600 Vanderbilt Ave.
Brooklyn

Free

Featuring readings from authors of the exhibiting presses

12:00 p.m. Fair begins

12:35 p.m. Fay Chiang, Bowery Books (ed. Marjorie Tesser)
12:45 p.m. Michael Gottlieb, Faux | Other (eds. Jack Kimball and Alan Davies)
12:55 p.m. Mark Horosky, Flying Guillotine Press (eds. Sommer Browning and Tony Mancus)
1:05 p.m. Abby Walthausen, Fractious Press (ed. Veronica Liu)
1:15 p.m. Jeffrey Jullich, Litmus Press/Aufgabe (ed. E. Tracy Grinnell)
1:25 p.m. Miriam Atkin, little scratch pad editions (ed. Douglas Manson)

1:35 p.m. Break

1:55 p.m. Matt Reeck, No, Dear magazine (ed. Alex Cuff)
2:05 p.m. Tom Orange-music
2:20 p.m. Dennis Leroy Kangalee, Savage Paw Press (ed. Kangalee)
2:30 p.m. David Mills, Straw Gate Books (ed. Phyllis Wat)

2:40 p.m. Break

3:00 p.m. Binary Marketing Show-music
3:30 p.m. erica kaufman
3:45 p.m. Sommer Browning
4:05 p.m. Peter Davis
4:25 p.m. Mel Nichols
4:45 p.m. John Godfrey
5:00 p.m. Jenn McCreary
5:20 p.m. Beat Radio-music
5:55 p.m. Ken Jacobs
6:15 p.m. Urayoán Noel
6:30 p.m. Chris McCreary
6:50 p.m. Cathy Eisenhower
7:10 p.m. Rod Smith
7:35 p.m. Rorie Kelly-music
8:10 p.m. Lach-music
8:40 p.m. Douglas Rothschild

Directions: 2, 3 to Grand Army Plaza, C to Clinton-Washington avenues, Q to 7th Ave.
Venue is bet. Prospect Pl./St. Marks Ave.

Sun. Sept. 26, Unnameable Books
7th Annual Small, Small Press Fair, Day 2

Unnameable Books
600 Vanderbilt Ave.
Brooklyn

Free

12:00 p.m. Dustin Williamson
12:15 p.m. Kevin Varrone
12:35 p.m. Brandon Holmquest
12:55 p.m. Pattie McCarthy
1:20 p.m. Brian Speaker-music
1:50 p.m. Ivy Johnson
2:05 p.m. Carlos Soto Román
2:25 p.m. Shafer Hall

2:40 p.m.-3:00-break

3:00 p.m.-5:00 p.m.
You Are Here: On the Site-Specific Poem
curated and hosted by Pattie McCarthy and Kevin Varrone

With panelists Allison Cobb, CA Conrad, Marcella Durand, Tonya Foster, and Carlos Soto Roman

Directions: 2, 3 to Grand Army Plaza, C to Clinton-Washington avenues,
Q to 7th Ave.
Venue is bet. Prospect Pl./St. Marks Ave.

Sun. Sept. 26, Zinc Bar

Zinc Bar
82 W. 3rd St.
NYC

$5 suggested

6:30 p.m.-8:45 p.m. You Are Here: Readings of Site-Specific Poems
curated and hosted by Pattie McCarthy and Kevin Varrone

With readings from Allison Cobb, CA Conrad,
Marcella Durand, and Carlos Soto Roman

Directions: A/B/C/D/E/F/V to W. 4th St.
Venue is bet. Sullivan and Thompson sts.

Mon. Sept. 27, Unnameable Books

Unnameable Books
600 Vanderbilt Ave.
Brooklyn

Free

6:00 p.m. Chris Martin
6:15 p.m. Cate Peebles
6:30 p.m. Julian T. Brolaski
6:45 p.m. Farrah Field
7:05 p.m. J.J. Hayes-music

7:35 p.m. Break

7:45 p.m. Joe Elliot
8:00 p.m. E. Tracy Grinnell
8:15 p.m. Jared White
8:30 p.m. Mariana Ruiz Firmat
8:45 p.m. Laura Elrick
9:05 p.m. Jeremiah Birnbaum of The Ramblers-music

Directions: 2, 3 to Grand Army Plaza, C to Clinton-Washington avenues,
Q to 7th Ave.
Venue is bet. Prospect Pl./St. Marks Ave.

Tues. Sept. 28, ACA Galleries, 6:00 p.m.

d.a. levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

Satellite Telephone magazine
(Buffalo, N.Y.)

ACA Galleries
529 W.20th St., 5th Flr.
NYC

Free

Event will be hosted by Satellite Telephone editor
Robert Dewhurst

featuring readings from

Todd Colby
Dorothea Lasky
Eileen Myles
Rebekah Rutkoff

and music from

Franklin Bruno

There will be wine, cheese, and crackers, too.

Directions: C/E to 23rd St., 1/9 to 18th St.
Venue is bet. 10th and 11th avenues

Welcome to Boog City 3 Bios and Websites

*Friday

Ambrose Bye http://www.myspace.com/fastspeakingmusicmyspace Ambrose Bye, musician (piano/keyboard, guitar, voice) and composer, grew up in the environment of The Jack Kerouac School of Disembodied Poetics at Naropa University, counting Allen Ginsberg and William Burroughs as “poetic” godfathers. He graduated from The University of California, Santa Cruz with a degree in music/sociology and was certified at the music /production program at the Pyramind Institute in San Francisco, working on numerous productions and his own compositions as well. He also studied and played in gamelan orchestras in Bali, Indonesia, Boulder, and Santa Cruz. He has performed on stage a number of times, accompanying poets and performers at New York's Issue Project Room, The Poetry Project, The Bowery Poetry Club, KGB Bar, at The Boulder Theatre's "Music and Poetry for Progressives" headlined by Thurston Moore of Sonic Youth, Naropa University, The New School, White Columns Gallery, and San Francisco's Meridian Gallery. He is in production with his next CD, "Hombres". His most recent CD is "Matching Half" with Anne Waldman and Akilah Oliver, which was produced by Farfalla, McMillen, Parrish. His previous composing/ production credits include "In The Room of Never Grieve", (produced by Coffee House Press) and "The Eye of the Falcon" (Farfalla, McMillen, Parrish) with poetry by Anne Waldman. His music accompanies the video "The Wake- Up Call of a Poet" , produced by the Buddhist Broadcasting Foundation, the Netherlands and was broadcast over Dutch TV in December, 2009.

Steve Cannon Originally from the cultural hot bed of New Orleans, Steve Cannon developed a taste for the arts at a very young age. An institution himself, Professor Cannon has been active in the multicultural artistic community on the Lower East Side in New York City for almost four decades. As the executive director and founder of Tribes, he has been the central figure of the organization since its inception in 1991. He continues to pave its artistic direction, despite having lost his eyesight over a decade ago, an unfortunate occurrence that has only served to sharpen his vision and heighten his desire to advance the development of the arts. A retired professor of the humanities at Medgar Evers College in the CUNY system and the author of the underground classic Groove, Bang and Jive Around, he is closely connected to artists and educators throughout the city. In the early '60s, he was heavily involved in Umbra, a consortium of primary African-American artists of all disciplines, including such literary luminaries as Ishmael Reed, Calvin Hernton, Victor Hernandez, and David Henderson.

Since then, Umbra artists served as founding members and advisors to Tribes. Besides holding court at Tribes, Professor Cannon also serves as the "Official Heckler" at the neighboring Nuyorican Poets Cafe, a brother organization, as well as an advisor to The House of Tribes Theater, a sister organization. In recent years, he extended his influence across the Atlantic with collaborations with Spanish curator Mireia Sentis. Together, they curated Humor and Rage, an exhibition featuring five minority American artists from diverse ethnic backgrounds, which was exhibited in 2001 at La Pedrera, the historical building designed by Gaudi, in Barcelona.

Elastic No-No Band http://www.elasticnonoband.com/ Elastic No-No Band sings songs about manboobs and Klaus Kinski and cheese fries. Also, songs about love and sex and pain and stuff. Sometimes the band is made up of many people, and sometimes it's just one guy. That guy is Justin Remer, and he turns

30 on September 24, the day of this show. As a birthday present, you should come to this show and enjoy yourself. (If you want, you could buy one of our CDs too. That certainly wouldn't hurt.) [ed’s. note: you could also buy Justin an adult beverage.]

Joanna Fuhrman http://www.redroom.com/author/joanna-fuhrman Joanna Fuhrman is the author of four books of poetry, most recently Pageant (Alice James Books) and Moraine (Hanging Loose Press). She teaches poetry at Rutgers University and in public schools through Teachers & Writers Collaborative. She is the poetry editor for Boog City and the Poetry Project’s Wednesday night reading series curator for the 2010-2011 season.

i feel tractor http://www.myspace.com/ifeeltractor i feel tractor is a 5-piece band that has been around for over a decade, released a self-titled 7", appeared on numerous comps including Frequency - Issue One, Polyamory's new skin for the old ceremony, and Goodbye Better's Weird Terrain, and came out with its first full-length, Once I had an earthquake (Goodbye Better) in 2005. Its newest album, Mellow Crypt, should be appearing sometime in the near future.

Pierre Joris http://pierrejoris.com/home.html Pierre Joris is a poet, translator, essayist, and anthologist who left Luxembourg at 19 and has since lived in France, England, Algeria, and the United States. He has published over 40 books, most recently Canto Diurno #4: The Tang Extending from the Blade, an Ahadada e-book, Justifying the Margins: Essays 1990-2006, and Aljibar I & II (poems). Other recent publications include the CD Routes, not Roots and Meditations on the Stations of Mansour Al-Hallaj 1-21. Recent translations include Paul Celan: Selections and Lightduress by Paul Celan, which received the 2005 PEN Poetry Translation Award. With Jerome Rothenberg he edited the award-winning anthologies Poems for the Millennium (volumes I & II). He teaches at the University of Albany, SUNY.

Noelle Kocot http://www.wavepoetry.com/authors/25-noelle-kocot Noelle Kocot is the author of four books, most recently, Poem for the End of Time and Sunny Wednesday (both from Wave Books). She has a poetry book, The Bigger World, and a discography also forthcoming from Wave. She writes at least one poem a day, and sometimes over 10 poems a day. She has won awards from The National Endowment for the Arts, The Fund for Poetry, The American Poetry Review, and the Academy of American Poets. Originally from Brooklyn, she now lives in South Jersey.

Magnetic Island http://www.myspace.com/magneticislandband Magnetic Island is a musical collective helmed by Lisa Liu and SMV. The pair work with a rotating cast of collaborators to create a unique brand of experimental indie rock. The band has been releasing singles in anticipation of its debut EP, Out At Sea, due this September. Liu and SMV previously formed the core of RENMINBI, a trio founded in 2003 that released three EPs (most recently July 2009's Surface) and one full-length album (May 2008's The Phoenix).

Nicole Peyrafitte http://www.nicolepeyrafitte.com/ Nicole Peyrafitte is a performance artist born and raised in the French Pyrenees. She considers herself a Gasco-Rican (1/2 Gascon, 1/2 American) and citizen of Brooklyn. She pursues related multi-cultural and multi-media investigations that integrate her voice, texts, visuals, and also cooking.

David Shapiro
http://jacketmagazine.com/23/shap-p.html
David Shapiro has published more than 20 volumes of art and literary criticism, translations, and anthologies. He has won many prizes and was the first to write a book on John Ashbery and a monograph on Jasper Johns's drawings. His New and Selected Poems (1965–2006) came out from Overlook Press.

Maureen Thorson http://www.maureenthorson.com/ Maureen Thorson is the author of three chapbooks: Twenty Questions for the Drunken Sailor (dusie/flynpyntar press), Mayport (Poetry Society of America), and Novelty Act (Ugly Duckling Presse). Her poetry has recently appeared or is forthcoming in Lungfull!, Barrelhouse, and Hotel Amerika. She lives in Washington, D.C., where she co-curates the In Your Ear reading series at the D.C. Arts Center and runs Big Game Books, the tiniest press in the world.

Anne Waldman "She is the fastest, wittiest woman to run with the wolves in some time." -Ken Tucker, The New York Times Poet Anne Waldman has been an active member of the "Outrider" experimental poetry community for over 40 years as writer, sprechstimme performer, professor, editor, magpie scholar, infra- structure, and cultural/political activist. Her published work is prodigious, and she has concentrated on the long poem as a cultural intervention with such projects as Marriage: A Sentence, Structure of The World Compared to a Bubble; the recent Manatee/Humanity (Penguin Poets), which is a book-length rhizomic meditation on evolution and endangered species; and the 900-page Iovis Trilogy, Colors In The Mechanism of Concealment, which will be published by Coffee House Press in 2011.

Publishers Weekly recently referred to Anne Waldman as "A counter- cultural giant." Waldman, grew up on Macdougal Street in the heart of Greenwich Village where she still lives, and bi-furcated to Boulder, Colo. in 1974 when she co-founded The Jack Kerouac School of Disembodied Poetics with Allen Ginsberg at Naropa University, the first Buddhist inspired school in the West, where she currently serves as artistic director of its celebrated Summer Writing program. Waldman helped found and direct The Poetry Project at St. Mark's Church In-the-Bowery, where she worked first as assistant director and then director for a decade. Waldman has also collaborated extensively with a number of artists, musicians, and dancers, most recently artists Pat Steir and Kiki Smith and theater director Judith Malina. She has also been working most recently with other media, including film and video with her husband, writer and video/film director Ed Bowes. She also performs with her son, musician/composer Ambrose Bye. Their latest CD is “Matching Half” with Akilah Oliver. Some of her performances may be viewed on YouTube.

*Saturday

Miriam Atkin, little scratch pad press http://remembertoforgetmybuffalo.blogspot.com/ http://www.dougfinmanson.blogspot.com/ little scratch pad press publishes significant chapbooks by new and established poets and writers. Founded in 1996, it has published works by Aaron Lowinger, Kristi Meal, Jonathan Skinner and Michael Basinski. Forthcoming titles are Don't Have One by Miriam Atkin, and a set of meditations on painter Chaim Soutine, Excoriate Exhale, by Heller Levinson.

Miriam Atkin's recent study of the resurgence of the pastoral in visual art,Art and Artifice in the Garden: Species-Being and the Memory of Paradise, examines the critique of technology and industry in literature, painting, and film, beginning with the Lascaux petroglyphs and concluding with New Landscape photography. She holds an MFA in Art Criticism and Writing from the School of Visual Arts and lives in Brooklyn. Her first collection of writing, Don't Have One, is out from little scratch pad press.

Beat Radio http://www.beatradio.org/ Beat Radio is an American indie pop project guided by New York singer- songwriter Brian Sendrowitz. The current lineup also features Dan Bills, Brian Ver Straten, Evan Duby, and Mike McCabe. Beat Radio released their debut LP The Great Big Sea in 2007 and the follow up, Safe Inside the Sound, in fall 2009. The band has embarked on a singles series for 2010, releasing two songs each month via bandcamp. Gilbert Ng photo

Binary Marketing Show http://www.binarymarketingshow.com/ Abram Morphew set out for the wilderness of the Birkhead Mountains in search of seclusion, and a place to let his thoughts wonder in peace. He was delighted to discover tunnels, previously only known to the elders of Birkhead, leading to a magical city where he would happen upon a fellow survivor of the elements...

Bethany Carder, awaking from a hypnotic state induced by a small band of mystics, discovered Abram Morphew wondering the ancient underground tunnels beneath the mystical city. Carder was fascinated by Morphew's ideas of healing through experimentation with light, sound, energy, and the power of intent. Emotional turmoil, once so powerful, released through instruments and moving images. They continued forward, energetic pullies attached to cages covered in flesh, time travelers in moments of here connection, near connections, missing the point only to find it resides within and without you. This is the story of the binary marketing show

Their new EP "Clues from the Past" was released last month, and their tour kicked off in Philadelphia, taking them as far west as East Glacier, Mont.

Sommer Browning
http://www.asthmachronicles.blogspot.com/
Sommer Browning writes poems, draws comics, and makes books. Her latest chapbook, written with Brandon Shimoda, is The Bowling (Greying Ghost). She lives in the Mountain Time Zone.

Fay Chiang, Bowery Books
http://www.nyu.edu/clubs/generasian/spring03/Features/faychiang.htm
http://www.boweryartsandscience.org/?page_id=5 Bowery Books is the independent poetry press of Bowery Arts & Science, the non-profit that also provides programs for Bowery Poetry Club. Its mission is to reflect the vigor and diversity of poetry, to publish poetry books and recordings by exceptional established and emerging poets whose work might otherwise lack representation, and to expand the audience for poetry. Edited by Bob Holman and Marjorie Tesser, Bowery Books has published essential anthologies, such as Bowery Women: Poems and Estamos Aquí, Poems by Migrant Farmworkers, as well as works by unique poets like Taylor Mead, the octogenarian Andy Warhol intimate, Poez, a performing street poet, and a romp featuring the Bowery Bartenders. It sponsors the Bowery Voices series, thus far: Body of Water by surrealist poet Janet Hamill, with photographs by Patti Smith, The Touch by punk medievalist Cynthia Kraman, and most recently activist-artist-poet Fay Chiang’s 7 Continents 9 Lives.

Fay Chiang is a writer, artist, and community/cultural activist living and working in Chinatown and the Lower East Side of New York City for the past four decades. Raised in the backroom of a Queens laundry by immigrant parents from Guandong, China, she writes from her experiences as a woman of color from the working class. She believes culture is a psychological weapon to reclaim our past, define our present, and envision possibilities for our future; and that the development of culture is an integral part of progressive social change and social justice movements. Currently working at Project Reach, a youth and community center for young people at risk in Chinatown/Lower East Side, she lives in the East Village.

Peter Davis http://artisnecessary.com/ Peter Davis is the author of Hitler's Mustache and Poetry! Poetry! Poetry!. He edited Poet's Bookshelf: Contemporary Poets on Books that Shaped Their Art. His poems have been in journals like Jacket, No Tell Motel, and Court Green. More info, including about his music project, Short Hand, is available at artisnecessary.com.

Cathy Eisenhower http://www.brooklynrail.org/2010/04/poetry/two-sections-from-distance-decay Cathy Eisenhower is the author of Language of the Dog-head [chapbook] (Phylum Press), clearing without reversal (Edge), and would with and (Roof).

John Godfrey http://www.wavepoetry.com/authors/57-john-godfrey John Godfrey has lived in the East Village since the Sixties. He has been a fellow of the General Electric Foundation and of the Foundation for Contemporary Arts. Wave Books published his ninth collection, City of Corners. He is a registered nurse in a specialty clinic at a city hospital in East Flatbush.

Michael Gottlieb, Faux | Other
http://www.brooklynrail.org/2010/07/books/memoir-yin-and-lang Michael Gottlieb is the author of The Likes of Us, Lost and Found, Gorgeous Plunge, The River Road, New York, Ninety-Six Tears, and other books of poetry. His remarkable Memoir & Essay was just published to wide acclaim by Faux | Other. It contains a memoir about New York City as it was home in the ’70s and ’80s to the nascence of Language Poetry, with candid cameos of many of those involved, and an essay about the possible means of survival that younger poets have available to them. The book has been widely discussed on blogs, in reviews and interviews. His poem This I Find Hard to Believe is just out in the July/August issue of The Brooklyn Rail.

Faux | Other was begun in 2010 by Alan Davies and Jack Kimball to publish and promote new works of poetry by Susie Timmons, Jack Kimball and Michael Gottlieb, and to reissue the 70s magazine A Hundred Posters (edited by Davies).

Mark Horosky, Flying Guillotine Press
http://activedriveway-mth.blogspot.com/
http://flyingguillotinepress.blogspot.com/
In 2008, Tony Mancus and Sommer Browning, two friends from poetry school, started Flying Guillotine Press. They endeavor to make pretty, small, handbound, medulla oblongata-exploding poetry chapbooks cheaply. They work in Denver, Colorado and Arlington, Virginia.

Mark Horosky is the author of the chapbook collection of prose poems, Let It Be Nearby and the forthcoming chapbooks More Frisk Than Risk (Flying Guillotine Press) and Fabulous Beasts (The Equalizer). He is a special education teacher in Brooklyn, New York.

Ken Jacobs
http://www.phylumpress.com/covers/sooner.htm

Ken Jacobs’s pamphlet Sooner (Phylum Press) was released in December 2009. He lives in Washington, D.C.

Jeffrey Jullich, Litmus Press/Aufgabe
http://www.litmuspress.org/portraitofcolondashparenthesis.html
http://www.litmuspress.org/ Jeffrey Jullich is the author of Portrait of Colon Dash Parenthesis (Litmus Press) and Thine Instead Thank (Harry Tankoos Books). His poetry, criticism, and translations have appeared in numerous journals and magazines including American Letters & Commentary, Aufgabe, Boston Review, Chain, Ecopoetics, Fence, LUNGFULL!, New American Writing, Poetry, Rain Taxi, Shiny, Spoon River, and VeRT.

Litmus Press is a nonprofit literature and arts organization dedicated to supporting innovative, cross-genre writing, with an emphasis on poetry and international works in translation. Litmus press publishes two to three single author works a year, in addition to Aufgabe, an annual journal of poetry, translations, essays, reviews, and art.

Dennis Leroy Kangalee, Nomad Junkie
http://outlawpoetry.com/2010/07/13/dennis-leroy-kangalee-its-not-life-thats-bad-its-society/ http://www.nomadjunkie.com/ Known as the Nomad Junkie due to his peripatetic lifestyle and artistic restlessness, Dennis Leroy Kangalee is an N.Y.C.-based writer from Queens born to West Indian parents. An outsider artist from the get go, he has no degree and has won no awards. His stories, plays, essays, and satire reflect his own anger and frustration as he sees the world's injustice in an everyday observation. An expelled performing artist from Juilliard and maverick of the New York underground, Kangalee has led several lives and is constantly looking for meaning. Since 1997, he has begged, borrowed, and stolen to support his art.

Urged by the Last Poets to continue writing prose during the creation of his 2001 cult-film movie about racism and its consequences, As an Act of Protest, Kangalee’s writing is political and personal. Inspired by the Black Arts Movement, punk, and the Theater of the Absurd, Kangalee draws inspiration from his own life as opposed to Literary History or knowledge of the classics. Adopting the “Nomad Junkie” as his nom de plume while homeless and later in a self-imposed exile overseas, he writes for the little man caught in the snow and beneath the corporate avalanche, those who draw lines in the sand, the losers, the rebels, the tormented, and the romantic rovers hovering on the margins of the mainstream who dare to try to make sense of “Life in Society” and the doorway of 21st century-Brave New World ethos.

Currently, he is developing his first full-length spoken word album, My Dying City, an experimental radio drama that presents itself as a cubistic portrait of a spirit crushed under the weight of corporate- friendly gentrification.

Kangalee is married and lives in N.Y.C. Nina Fleck photo.

erica kaufman
http://sites.google.com/site/ericajane0808/
erica kaufman is the author of censory impulse.

Rorie Kelly http://www.roriekelly.com/ Rorie Kelly is a singer/songwriter and conquistadora originally from Long Island. Her main goal in life is to travel around in her little blue car and make music and art. She was recently named one of Long Island's "Top 10 Indie Artists You've Never Heard of" by Long Island Pulse Magazine and is about to release her first full length album, Wish Upon a Bottlecap. She is also a published writer of feminist blogs, music reviews, and poetry. More information and pretty songs can be found at the above site.

Lach http://www.lachtoday.com/ As a songwriter Lach founded the Antifolk art and music movement, which is sited as a main inspiration by hundreds of performers today from Beck and Jeffrey Lewis to Hamell on Trial, The Moldy Peaches, and Regina Spektor in U.S.A. to the likes of Laura Marling and Emmy the Great in the U.K.

Chris McCreary
http://furniturepressbooks.com/books/mccrearyundone/
http://www.ixnaypress.com/
Chris McCreary's new book, Undone, was just published by Furniture Press. Along with Jenn McCreary, he co-edits ixnay press a small Philadelphia-based poetry press. He teaches English at a private high school outside of Philly.

Jenn McCreary http://jennmccreary.com/ Jenn McCreary is the author of :ab ovo:, published by Dusie Press in the spring of 2009. She is also the author of two chapbooks: errata stigmata (Potes & Poets Press), & four o’clock pocket chiming (Beautiful Swimmer Press); the e-chapbook:Maps & Legends: (Scantily Clad Press) & a doctrine of signatures (Singing Horse Press).

Her poetry has been published in magazines including Combo, Lungfull!, Tool: A Magazine, POM2, So To Speak, Sous Rature, Tangent, & How2. She lives with her husband, the writer Chris McCreary, & their twin sons in Philadelphia, where she co-edits ixnay press with Chris, works for the Mural Arts Program, & serves on the board of the Philly Spells Writing Center.

David Mills, Straw Gate Press
http://www.brooklynrail.org/2010/07/books/rapid-transit-june10-2
http://www.leafscape.org/StrawGateBooks/index.html Founded by Phyllis Wat in 2005, Straw Gate Books publishes poetry and occasional related texts. They are particularly interested in works by women and non-polemical writing with an underlying social content. Straw Gate also features new authors and authors whose work is under- served.

Author David Mills has received Henry James, Cave Canem and Breadloaf fellowships, as well as New York Foundation of the Arts, Brio, and Hughes/Diop Awards. He also won the inaugural 2008 Pan African Literary Forum Poetry Prize and a Soros grant. David’s work has appeared in Callaloo, Rattapallax, The Pedestal, Hanging Loose Press, Aloud, and elsewhere. He has recorded his poetry on RCA Records and toured Europe performing his work with jazz bands. His book, The Dream Detective, is a 2010 publication of Straw Gate Books.

Mel Nichols http://stevenfama.blogspot.com/2009/11/mel-nichols-catalytic-exteriorization.html Mel Nichols’ recent books are Catalytic Exteriorization Phenomenon (National Poetry Series finalist; Edge) and Bicycle Day (Slack Buddha 2008). Recent journal publications include Poetry, New Ohio Review, and The Brooklyn Rail.

Urayoán Noel http://www.urayoannoel.com Urayoán Noel was born in Puerto Rico, divides his time between the Bronx and upstate, and teaches English at SUNY-Albany. His creative and critical writings have recently appeared in Fence; Orbis (U.K.); Diasporic Avant-Gardes (Palgrave); and Malditos latinos, malditos sudacas. Poesía hispanoamericana made in USA (México, D.F., El billar de Lucrecia). His new book, Hi-density Politics, is forthcoming from BlazeVOX.

Tom Orange http://destinationout.vox.com/ After eight years in the D.C. poetry scene and adjunct teaching there and a year in Nashville, Tom Orange moved back to his home town of Cleveland, where he is active in the local arts and music scenes. Recent work includes “Tremont Poetography,” a group poet-photographer book and exhibition at Doubting Thomas Gallery; solo and small group experimental music performances on alto sax, clarinet, guitar, banjo, and dulcimer at The Scarab Club (Detroit), [redacted] 224 Gallery (Buffalo), Audio Visual Baptism (Cleveland), and the Post_Moot Convocation (Oxford, Ohio); and an excerpt from his chapbook American Dialectics (Slack Buddha) being reprinted in Against Expression: An Anthology of Conceptual Writing (edited by Craig Dworkin and Kenneth Goldsmith for Northwestern University Press) due out this December. His music blog can be found at the above url.

Matt Reeck, No, Dear magazine http://www.nodearmagazine.com/ Matt Reeck has published poetry and translations in magazines and chapbooks, including “Midwinter” by Fact-Simile Press. “Coyote Pursues,” his marionette theater collaboration with the visual artist Deborah Simon, was performed during St Ann’s Warehouse's Labapalooza in June.

No, Dear is a hand-sewn print poetry publication featuring the work of New York City poets.

Douglas Rothschild http://pierrejoris.com/blog/?p=1377 DglsN.Rthsjchld has been walking & thinking for a long time. Occasionally he sits. Sometimes he writes these thoughts down. Many great poems have come to him in this manner. & you can read some of them in his book THEOGONY published last spring by SubPress.

Rod Smith http://epc.buffalo.edu/authors/smithr/ Rod Smith is the author of Deed, Music or Honesty, Protective Immediacy, and In Memory of My Theories. He edits the journal Aerial, publishes Edge Books, and manages Bridge Street Books in Washington, D.C. He is also currently editing The Selected Letters of Robert Creeley with Kaplan Harris and Peter Baker for The University of California Press.

Abby Walthausen, Fractious Press http://www.literaturesandwich.com/ http://www.fractiouspress.com/ Fractious Press is a small artist-run publishing collective founded in the Bronx and Washington Heights, New York in 2005. Since its first release, which was named in the Village Voice's Best of New York 2005, the press has published emerging artists and writers of fiction, poetry, comics, and zines, and has occasionally co-hosted day-long zine and small press fairs in Upper Manhattan. The May 2010 edition of the fair was held with support from the Manhattan Community Arts Fund. ForeWord magazine called the press "innovative … a kind of counterculture collaborative."

Abby Walthausen likes to write what could be considered the "historical fiction" of poetry. She spends her time taking all the fun out of poetry for high school students. Her poetry book The Internet is forthcoming from Fractious Press.

*Sunday

Unnameable and Zinc

Allison Cobb http://www.factoryschool.com/pubs/heretical/vol5/cobb/index.html Allison Cobb is the author of Born2 (Chax Press) about growing up in Los Alamos, N.M., and the just-published Green-Wood (Factory School), which chronicles her experiences in Brooklyn's famous nineteenth- century cemetery. She lived for a number of years in New York City, where she worked for the Environmental Defense Fund. She now lives in Portland, Ore., and works for an energy conservation nonprofit.

CAConrad http://caconrad.blogspot.com/ http://phillysound.blogspot.com/ CAConrad is the recipient of the 2009 Gil Ott Book Award for The Book of Frank (Wave Books). He is also the author of Advanced Elvis Course (Soft Skull Press), (Soma)tic Midge (Faux Press), Deviant Propulsion (Soft Skull Press), and a collaboration with poet Frank Sherlock, The City Real & Imagined (Factory School). The son of white trash asphyxiation, his childhood included selling cut flowers along the highway for his mother and helping her shoplift.

Marcella Durand
http://www.futurepoem.com/bookpages/trafficandweather.html Futurepoem Books published Marcella Durand's book-length site-specific poem, Traffic & Weather. The poem was written during a six-month residency at the Lower Manhattan Cultural Council in which she worked alongside visual artists in a raw office space. Her other books include, most recently, Deep Eco Pre, a collaboration with Tina Darragh published by Little Red Leaves, and AREA, published by Belladonna Books. She is currently working on a new collection of poems written mostly from the same table in the New York Public Library's Leroy Street branch. John Sarsgard photo.

Tonya Foster http://writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/x/Foster.php Tonya Foster is the author of poetry, fiction, and essays that have been published in a variety of journals including Callaloo, DrumVoices, Gulf Coast, the Hat, Lungfull!, nocturnes, and Traffic. She was an art/poetry columnist for The Poetry Project Newsletter and has published non-fiction essays in NY Arts Magazine, NYFA Quarterly, and The Poetry Project Newsletter. Her work has also appeared in the anthologies: Free Radicals: American Poets before their First Books, (Subpress), edited by Jordan Davis and Sarah Manguso; and POeP! (Rattapallax Press), edited by Edwin Torres and Anselm Berrigan, one of the first eBook literary journals dedicated to innovative poetry. She's the author of A Swarm of Bees in High Court (Belladonna Books) and co-editor of Third Mind: Teaching Creative Writing Through Visual Art (Teachers and Writers Collaborative). Foster is currently completing A Mathematics of Chaos, a cross-genre, multi-media piece about New Orleans, home, and home-buoys; Monkey Talk, an inter-genre piece about race, paranoia, surveillance, and need; and A History of the Bitch, a collection of poems.

Foster received her bachelor of arts in English and political science from Newcomb College, Tulane University, her master of fine arts in creative writing from the University of Houston, and is a Ph.D. candidate at City University of New York Graduate Center. A recipient of a number of fellowships, notably from the Ford Foundation, the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, and the City University of New York, Foster teaches at Bard College. A native of New Orleans, she writes and resides in Harlem.

Shafer Hall
http://shaferhall.blogspot.com/
Shafer Hall is a poet and bartender in New York City. His first collection "Never Cry Woof" is available from No Tell Books. He can be found on the internet at the above url.

Brandon Holmquest http://essay-poems.blogspot.com/ Brandon Holmquest is the author of City: Bolshevik superpoem in 5 cantos (Ugly Duckling), a translation of Manuel Maples Arce; Stereo Daguerreotype (Splitleaves Press); and The Sorrows of Young Worthless (Truck Press). He lives in Philadelphia.

Ivy Johnson
Ivy Johnson is a vegetarian. Her first chapbook, Walt Disney's Light Show Extravaganza, will be out this fall from Boog Literature.

Pattie McCarthy http://www.apogeepress.com/authors_mccarthy.html Pattie McCarthy is the author of Table Alphabetical of Hard Words, Verso, and bk of (h)rs, all from Apogee Press. Recent work has appeared in Colorado Review, Dusie, Eoagh, ixnay reader, The Poker, The Poetry Project Newsletter, and The Tangent. She has taught literature and creative writing at Queens College—CUNY, Loyola University Maryland, Towson University, and, currently, Temple University. She lives in Philadelphia.

Carlos Soto Román http://the-otolith.blogspot.com/2010/04/carlos-soto-roman.html Carlos Soto Román was born in Valparaíso, Chile. He has published the books La Marcha de los Quiltros (The Mongrel's march), Haiku Minero (Miner Haiku), and Cambio y Fuera (Over and Out). His work has been collected in Bar (Anthology) and in Pozo (collective book). In 2004 he received the Creation Fellowship of the Book & Reading Council of the Chilean Government. He has resided in Philadelphia since March 2009, is a member of The New Philadelphia Poets, and the editor of the new cooperative anthology of U.S. poetry, Elective Affinities.

Brian Speaker http://www.myspace.com/speakerb http://www.reverbnation.com/brianspeaker Brian Speaker is a Brooklyn-based singer, songwriter, producer and engineer. For one year, from September 3, 2008 to September 2, 2009, Brian wrote, recorded and posted a song onto the Internet every single day. The entire 365-song catalog, titled Spiral Notebook, is available for free online. He is currently putting the finishing touches on a rock opera about a lone spaceman's mission for inner-galactic peace called The Mars Chronicles. Several of Brian's songs have appeared on television, and his list of recording and production credits for independent music in NYC is vast.

Kevin Varrone http://www.uglyducklingpresse.org/catalog/browse/item/?pubID=66 Kevin Varrone's most recent collection, g-point almanac: passyunk lost, is just out from Ugly Duckling Presse, as is a companion chapbook, The Philadelphia Improvements. His previous collection, g- point almanac: id est, was published by Instance Press. Individual poems are available electronically at Duration Press, in Big Bridge, Cross Connect, and [out of nowhere]. He lives in South Philly and teaches at Temple University.

Dustin Williamson http://rustbucklebooks.blogspot.com/ Dustin Williamson is the author of the chapbooks Obstructed View (Salacious Banter), Gorilla Dust (Open 24 Hours), and Exhausted Grunts (Cannibal Books). He is the publisher of Rust Buckle Books. He served as the Monday Night coordinator last season at the Poetry Project.

*Monday

Jeremiah Birnbaum of The Ramblers http://www.theramblersnyc.com/ http://www.jeremiahbirnbaum.com/ The Ramblers are a rock ’n’ roll band based out of New York. They released their new fan-funded CD, Getting There, to a packed house at Joe's Pub and great reviews, including a Critic's Pick from New York Magazine, and Blogcritics.org, who compared them to Little Feat, The Band and the E Street Band. With Jeremiah Birnbaum, proverbial son-of- a-preacherman (his dad's a rabbi) and Scott Stein at the helm—sharing singing duties and writing the band's material together—The Ramblers' unique brand of Americana fused with the best of Southern rock has earned them a devoted following and the opportunity to open for Levon Helm at his Midnight Ramble, where they received an encore and a standing ovation.

Julian T. Brolaski http://electiveaffinitiesusa.blogspot.com/2010/02/julian-t-brolaski.html Julian T. Brolaski is the recent editor of NO GENDER: Reflections on the Life & Work of kari edwards with erica kaufman and E. Tracy Grinnell (Litmus Press), and author of the chapbook buck in a corridor (flynpyntar), gowanus atropolis (forthcoming, Ugly Duckling) and Advice for Lovers (forthcoming, City Lights). Brolaski lives in Brooklyn where xe is an editor at Litmus Press, curates vaudeville shows, and plays country music with The Low & the Lonesome. New work is on the blog hermofwarsaw.

Joe Elliot http://www.sptraffic.org/html/book_reviews/elliot.html Joe Elliot ran a weekly reading series at Biblios Bookstore in the early ’90s, and helped move the series to the Zinc Bar where it continues. He co-edited two chapbook series: A Musty Bone and Situations, which published authors such as Antje Katcher, Paul Genega, Duncan Nichols, Mitch Highfill, Kim Lyons, Douglas Rothschild, Shannon Ketch, Lisa Jarnot, Bill Luoma, Kevin Davies, Marcella Durand and many others. Joe is the author of numerous chapbooks including: You Gotta Go In It’s The Big Game, Poems To Be Centered On Much Much Larger Sheets Of Paper, 15 Clanking Radiators, 14 Knots, Reduced, Half Gross (a collaboration with artist John Koos), and Object Lesson (a collaboration with artist Rich O’Russa). Granary Books published If It Rained Here, a collaboration with artist Julie Harrison. His work has appeared in many magazines, including The World, The Poker, Giants Play Well In The Drizzle, The Poetry Project Newsletter, Torque, and Arras. His long poem, 101 Designs for The World Trade Center, was published by Faux Press’ e-mag, and a subpress published a collection of his work, Opposable Thumb, in 2006.

Laura Elrick http://electiveaffinitiesusa.blogspot.com/2010/06/laura-elrick.html Laura Elrick’s latest text-based work (as yet untitled) is a book-

length series of poems that proceeds by accretive and migratory iteration; other works include a video-poem Stalk, a set of audio pieces for doubled-voice, and two books of poetry:Fantasies in Permeable Structures (Factory School), and sKincerity (Krupskaya). Her essay “Poetry, Ecology, and the Production of Lived Space” was recently published in the the eco language reader edited by Brenda Iijima (Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs/Nightboat Books). She lives in Brooklyn.

Farrah Field http://adultish.blogspot.com/ Farrah Field’s first book of poems, Rising, won Four Way Books’ 2007 Levis Prize. Her poems have appeared in many publications including Harp & Altar, We Are So Happy to Know Something, Ploughshares, and are forthcoming in Lit, Fou, and Mantis. She co-hosts a reading series called Yardmeter Editions and blogs at the above url.

Mariana Ruiz Firmat http://www.brooklynrail.org/2010/03/poetry/two-mariana http://3sadtigers.blogspot.com/ Mariana Ruiz Firmat is a poet and publisher of Three Sad Tigers Press. Recent work can be found in the March 2010 issue of the Brooklyn Rail. She is the author Another Strange Island (Open 24 Hours Press) and Smiling Into the Noise (Boog Literature). After riding her bicycle cross-country 11 years ago she landed in Brooklyn and has been there ever since. She currently works as union organizer.

E. Tracy Grinnell http://jacketmagazine.com/40/at-grinnell-tracy.shtml E. Tracy Grinnell is the author of Helen: A Fugue (Belladonna Elder Series #1), Some Clear Souvenir (O Books), and Music or Forgetting (O Books), as well as the limited edition chapbooks Mirrorly, A Window (flynpyntar), Leukadia (Trafficker Press), Hell and Lower Evil (Lyre Lyre Pants on Fire), Humoresque (Blood Pudding/Dusie #3) Quadriga, a collaboration with Paul Foster Johnson (gong chapbooks), Of the Frame (Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs), and Harmonics(Melodeon Poetry Systems). She is the founding editor of Litmus Press and Aufgabe, and she lives in Brooklyn.

J.J. Hayes http://www.myspace.com/jjhayes J.J. Hayes writes poetry, song and philosophy. He has been published occasionally. Steven Pinker in The Stuff of Thought quotes J.J’s 2004 letter “One World Scientific Language?” as an example of neo-Whorfian linguistic determinism. J.J. is thinking about how to respond, but wonders if his response will be determined by his language...

Chris Martin http://flavors.me/chrismartin Chris Martin is the author of American Music (Copper Canyon). Coffee House Press will publish his second book of poetry, Becoming Weather, next year. After editing the full 11-issue run of Puppy Flowers, he recently retired it, though they can all still be seen on your computer. He lives around the corner.

Cate Peebles http://www.foumagazine.net/ Cate Peebles' work has appeared in numerous print and online journals including: Tin House, Octopus, CutBank, Cannibal, No Tell Motel, Forklift, Ohio, and La Petite Zine. Her chapbook Taco

Truck to Awesometown was published by Scantily Clad Press last year. She co-edits Fou, an online poetry magazine, and lives in Brooklyn.

Jared White http://jaredswhite.blogspot.com/ Jared White was born in Massachusetts and lives in New York. His chapbook Yellowcake was included in the hand-sewn anthology Narwhal from Cannibal Books. He has poems recently published or forthcoming in Action Yes, Coconut, Fulcrum, Laurel Review, and Modern Review, and essays in Harp & Altar, Open Letters Monthly, and Poets off Poetry. He co-directs the Yardmeter Editions event series in Brooklyn and blogs occasionally at the above url.

*Tuesday

Satellite Telephone http://nolongdistance.endingthealphabet.org/ Satellite Telephone was founded in Portland, Ore. in 2007, on a contact-high from the mimeo retrospective, A Secret Location on the Lower East Side (Granary Books). Three editions have been issued since, as the publication has moved from Portland, to Los Angeles, to Buffalo. The vision of the zine will soon be manifest in a series of chapbooks and broadsides as well, to be published under the imprint Scary Topiary Press.

Franklin Bruno http://nervousuntothirst.blogspot.com/ Franklin Bruno is a musician and writer based in Queens. He has recorded and toured as chief songwriter for the bands Nothing Painted Blue and (currently) The Human Hearts, and as a solo artist. His most recent release, Local Currency 1991-1998 (Fayettenam) collects four- track/lo-fi recordings from out-of-print vinyl seven-inches and compilations. He is a frequent collaborator with The Mountain Goats' John Darnielle, both as a multi-instrumentalist on the acclaimed 4AD albums The Sunset Tree and Tallahassee, and in the occasional duo The Extra Glens. He is the author of a book on Elvis Costello's Armed Forces in Continuum's 33 1/3 series, and of the poetry chapbook Policy Instrument (Lame House). His poetry has appeared in Satellite Telephone, The Brooklyn Rail, and Abraham Lincoln; his essays and criticism, in The Nation, Oxford American, and The Believer.

Todd Colby http://gleefarm.blogspot.com/ Todd Colby has published four books of poetry: Ripsnort, Cush, Riot in the Charm Factory: New and Selected Writings, and Tremble & Shine, all published by Soft Skull Press. Todd has performed his poetry on PBS and MTV, and his collaborative books and paintings with artist David Lantow can be seen in the Brooklyn Museum of Art and The Museum of Modern Art special collections libraries. Todd serves on the Board of Directors for The Poetry Project, where he has also taught several poetry workshops.

Robert Dewhurst http://endingthealphabet.org/ Robert Dewhurst edits Satellite Telephone, and co-edits Wild Orchids. His poetry and critical prose have appeared in Satellite Telephone, Peaches & Bats, On Contemporary Practice, and The Poetry Project Newsletter. An essay of his on the 70s newspaper Gay Sunshine will appear in the volume Porn Archives, forthcoming from SUNY Press. He currently lives in Buffalo, NY, where he attends the Poetics Program at SUNY-Buffalo.

Dorothea Lasky http://www.birdinsnow.com/ Dorothea Lasky is the author of two full-length collections of poetry, AWE (Wave Books, 2007) and Black Life (Wave Books, 2010), and numerous chapbooks. Currently, she researches creativity and education at the University of Pennsylvania.

Eileen Myles http://www.eileenmyles.com/ Eileen Myles has written thousands of poems since she gave her first reading at CBGB's in 1974. Her books include The Inferno, The Importance of Being Iceland, Sorry, Tree, Skies, on my way, Cool for You, School of Fish, Maxfield Parrish, Not Me, and Chelsea Girls. In 1995, with Liz Kotz, she edited The New Fuck You: Adventures in Lesbian Reading, for Semiotext(e).

Rebekah Rutkoff
http://fence.fenceportal.org/v13n1/
Rebekah Rutkoff is an artist, moving image curator and Ph.D. candidate in the English Department at the CUNY Graduate Center. She lives in Brooklyn.

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W. 28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)
http://itunes.apple.com/WebObjects/MZStore.woa/wa/viewPodcast?id=343169880
For music from Gilmore boys:
http://www.myspace.com/gilmoreboysmusic

↑ Index

177. Jim Andrews
Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
Thu 23 Sep 2010

---

language and poetry after godel and turing.

but, in poetry circles, godel and turing just do not compute, as you see in the responses to this thread, which dealt with derrida, not godel and turing.

and this is one of the reasons why poetry itself is isolated.

poetry, these days, needs to be an umbrella term for deep concerns of language and art cross-stitched amongs many fields and modes of perception/reception. for instance, the role of language in contemporary mathematical logic is of philosophical significance and also has turned out to be of very practical significance in that the work of godel and turing led to the creation of the computer, that universal number+language machine.

the philosophical underpinnings of the poetics of computation, of computer art, can be strongly linked with the work of godel and turing and its consequences concerning language, epistemology, philosophy of mind, and the multimedial/intermedial.

poetry needs to be able to travel at the forefront of any field.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

178. Rachel Loden
UC Santa Cruz next Thursday, September 30
Thu 23 Sep 2010

Please come and say hello if you're in the area, or tell a local friend. . . .

The Living Writers Reading Series at UC Santa Cruz presents:

A reading by Rachel Loden

Thursday, September 30

6:00 pm

UC Santa Cruz

Humanities Lecture Hall 206

Info (UCSC Literature Dept.): [redacted]

Rachel Loden is the author of Dick of the Dead (Ahsahta Press), a finalist for both the 2010 PEN USA Literary Award for Poetry and the California Book Award. It was also one of the three most-cited books in Attention Span 2009 ("a collectively-drawn map of the field"), landing on lists by Rae Armantrout and others. The Washington Post's "Poet's Choice" column featured a poem from the book and it has been called "oddly sublime" and "intoxicating" by the Poetry Project Newsletter and "expansive and whimsical" by the Brooklyn Rail. Loden's first book, Hotel Imperium (Georgia), won the Contemporary Poetry Series competition and was selected as one of the ten best poetry books of the year by the San Francisco Chronicle, which called it "quirky and beguiling." It was also short-listed for the Northern California Book Award. Loden has published four chapbooks, including The Last Campaign (which won the Hudson Valley Writers' Center chapbook competition) and The Richard Nixon Snow Globe (Wild Honey Press). Her work has appeared or is forthcoming in New American Writing, Lana Turner: A Journal of Poetry and Opinion, two editions of the Best American Poetry series, Western Wind: An Introduction to Poetry, and many other magazines and anthologies. Loden's microplay, "A Quaker Meeting in Yorba Linda," was performed in New York as part of Plays on Words: A Poets Theater Festival curated by Tony Torn, Lee Ann Brown and Corina Copp. She is the recipient of a Pushcart Prize, a Fellowship in Poetry from the California Arts Council, an &NOW Award, and a grant from the Fund for Poetry.

↑ Index

179. Carfagna, Richard

Olson query

Thu 23 Sep 2010

Hi,
I was wondering if anyone knows who took over the official scholarship of
Charles Olson after the death of George Butterick?

Also, what with the release in the past couple of year of the Daybooks of Oppen
and the collected Notebooks of Frost, does anyone know of plans to mine the Olson collection at Storrs to produce a similar type of tome?

Thanks,
Ric

↑ Index

180. Mairead Byrne

Re: The Prairie Gaeltacht, by Séamas Cain

Thu 23 Sep 2010

Seamus! Tá an volume an low!
Ach feiceann sé ana suimiul.
Mairéad

On Wed, Sep 22, 2010 at 2:16 PM, Séamas Cain <[redacted]> wrote:

> _____
>
> Físeán de 'Prairie Gaeltacht' le
> feiscint, ach an nasc thíos a leanúint ...
>
> Follow the link to view a video of 'The Prairie Gaeltacht'.
>
> http://www.ustream.tv/recorded/9708043
>
> _____
>
> Séamas Cain
> http://www.saorsainn.net
> http://alazanto.org/seamascain
> http://seamascain-writernetwork.org
> http://www.mnartists.org/Seamas_Cain
>
> _____

--
Mairéad Byrne, PhD
Associate Professor of Poetry + Poetics
Rhode Island School of Design
Providence RI 02903

Office: College Building 420
Phone: [redacted]
[redacted]
http://www.whatsleftofheaven.com/
www.maireadbyrne.blogspot.com
www.couscousonthegrass.blogspot.com

↑ Index

181. Mark Weiss
Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
Thu 23 Sep 2010

Please translate? I tried, but, the closer I got to the center of the onion the less there was.

At 03:43 AM 9/23/2010, you wrote:
>language and poetry after godel and turing.
>

>but, in poetry circles, godel and turing just do >not compute, as you see in the responses to this >thread, which dealt with derrida, not godel and turing.
>
>and this is one of the reasons why poetry itself is isolated.
>
>poetry, these days, needs to be an umbrella term >for deep concerns of language and art >cross-stitched amongs many fields and modes of >perception/reception. for instance, the role of >language in contemporary mathematical logic is >of philosophical significance and also has >turned out to be of very practical significance >in that the work of godel and turing led to the >creation of the computer, that universal number+language machine.
>
>the philosophical underpinnings of the poetics >of computation, of computer art, can be strongly >linked with the work of godel and turing and its >consequences concerning language, epistemology, >philosophy of mind, and the multimedial/intermedial.
>
>poetry needs to be able to travel at the forefront of any field.
>
>ja
>http://vispo.com

New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
$16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm

"What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the poet alive in every sense of the word, and through every one of his senses. Instead of missing a beat or a part, Weiss' fragments are
like Chekhov's short storiesthe more that gets
left out, the more they seem to contain… One can
hear echoes from all the various
ancestors...[but] the voice, at its center, its
core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment
is both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure
musical threnody…[it] opens a window, not only

into a mind, but a person, a personality, this
human figure at the emotional center of the poem."

M.G. Stephens, in Jacket.
http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml

↑ Index

182. Mairead Byrne

Re: ... reality-particles; image & sound in nature

Thu 23 Sep 2010

This sounds great too. I played audio of 4 poems by Slavek at*[redacted] * this year, during the SoundEye Festival of the Arts of the Word. The first 3 poems was written in "a purely phonetic imaginary language," which Slavek introduced as follows:

When I left former-Czechoslovakia in 1986, I attempted to cross border in mountains between Austria and Germany, that time called West Germany. I was captured by German authorities and placed in camp for political refugees in Schonau Am Konigsee in Alps. Only way to express myself was that time writing; mainly poetry and drawing – i could not make music. I was writing in Czech language, but nobody would understand. My mother tongue became very fast sort of redundant and also I was not able to write in any other language. I entered in strange transition: i started to write in purely phonetic imaginary language, I was focussed only on sounds and still keeping characteristic sounds of Czech language. I recorded 3 examples of such poems, originally written 1986; there is no meaning except for tonal qualities of spoken word. Since then I didn't write in this lingo.

**

The 4th poem was a stunning "reading scientific (Latin) names of beetles from index of book." There was a very strong response to Slavek's work: I wish he could have been there in person.

Good luck with "tríd an gcoill."

Mairéad

On Wed, Sep 22, 2010 at 2:27 PM, Séamas Cain <[redacted]> wrote:

> ---
>
> IMRAM, a national literary festival in Ireland, in association with the Dublin City Arts Centre, will present "tríd an gcoill" by Séamas Cain and Slavek Kwi.

This Installation with recorded or live performances will take place at 1:00 p.m. to 5:45 p.m. from September 23 through September 27, 2010 at the Grapevine Space of CITY ARTS, 15 Bachelor's Walk, Dublin 1, Ireland.

The Opening for "tríd an gcoill" will be held at 1:00 p.m. on September 23. Admission is free.

For additional information phone Nick Reilly at CITY ARTS, i.e.,

Phone ([redacted] ...

http://www.cityarts.ie/events/2010/09/23/-trid-an-gcoill

tríd an gcoill
"through the woods"

A collection of reality-particles; sounds and images from Dromore Woods. An audiovisual installation, with recorded or live performances.

tríd an gcoill, a 120-page poem by Séamas Cain, is itself a poetic field recording. It evokes a walk through Dromore Woods in County Clare. It immerses the reader in a stream of words and word-clusters. The overall effect is hypnotic, as we are led by a piped piper into the heart of the wood.

Czech sound-artist Slavek Kwi has created an audiovisual installation from underwater and field recordings captured in Dromore Woods itself, and fused these elements with Séamas Cain's chanted recital of tríd an gcoill. This installation with performances will be open to the public in City Arts, with Free Admission. tríd an gcoill creates a unique space in which one can experience nature and language through sounds and visions of uncanny beauty.

Séamas Cain is an Irish-American experimental poet, a friend and colleague of Jean Genet and Allen Ginsberg. One of the most radical voices in modern literature he writes in Irish, Scottish Gaelic, Old Celtic, Spanish and English.

For additional information, go to ...

http://seamascain-writernetwork.org

Slavek Kwi is a Czech sound-artist, composer and researcher. From the early nineties he has operated under the name "Artificial Memory Trace."

> For additional information, go to ...
>
> http://www.artificialmemorytrace.com
>
> Seamus Johnson described Cain's recorded chantings of tríd an gcoill for this Installation as "incantatory, rhythmic, passionate, guttural, mezmerizing. Cain is the baritone ascending to Apollo. Or, is he the baritone ascending Mt. Carmel? He does tend to get carried away in performance, lost in a kind of trance, at times in the passion of the moment whacking the microphones. Indeed, Cain's performance is hypnotic! Plenty of auditory images! And plenty of rich and diverse sounds to be chopped up for computer-randomization!"
>
> Slavek Kwi used chance operations to distribute the fragments of Cain's chantings in various speakers of a vertical Speaker Tree, which doesn't brake the continuous chanting, but changes the architecture as texture and dynamics. Also, Kwi used chance operations on the distribution in speakers of the timbre of Cain's chantings.
>
> Kwi's Installation includes a color film, with parts of the text of the tríd an gcoill poem superimposed in scrolling effect over images from Dromore Woods, a slide-show with 1,500 slides, an environmental soundtrack on external 5.1 system and also a Voice Tower, all edited using chance operations. Kwi's Installation also includes physical objects from Dromore Woods.
>
> For additional information, go to ...
>
> http://www.cityarts.ie/events/2010/09/23/-trid-an-gcoill
>
> http://www.artificialmemorytrace.com
>
> http://www.freewebs.com/seamascain/liamcarsonsreview.htm
>
> http://www.freewebs.com/seamascain/questionsanswers.htm
>
> http://alazanto.org/seamascain
>
> http://www.saorsainn.net
>
> _____

--
Mairéad Byrne, PhD
Associate Professor of Poetry + Poetics

Rhode Island School of Design
Providence RI 02903

Office: College Building 420
Phone: [redacted]
http://www.whatsleftofheaven.com/
www.maireadbyrne.blogspot.com
www.couscousonthegrass.blogspot.com

↑ Index

183. Cara Benson
@ W. Hollywood Bookfair (take two)
Thu 23 Sep 2010

LETTER WRITING DESK: ESCRI
Forgive the repeat. First note got garbled.

LETTER WRITING DESK: ESCRITORIO PUBLICO With Jen Hofer The escritorio pÃºblico is a public letter-writing desk most often set up on sidewalks in public space, though sometimes invited into museums, galleries and other cultural spaces. The escritorio consists of a folding table made by the man who built Jenâ€™s house in 1920, on which she sets up her grandmotherâ€™s Olivetti Lettera 22 typewriter, writing paper and envelopes. She types letters in either Spanish or English for passers-by, charging $2 for a letter, $3 for a love letter and $5 for an illicit love letter.

Escritorio pÃºblico is an enactment of public practice, an ethic of radical listening, and a manifestation of the gift economy.
LOCATION AT THE BOOK FAIR: The Lounge on the Center of The Field

READING EXPERIMENT IN PROGRESS
With Chicago Poet Jennifer Karmin
â€œReading Experiment in Progressâ€ is an interactive performance, transforming the book fair from a space of commerce to a space for creative exchange. Poet Jennifer Karmin invites passers-by to participate in a mini-reading of her text-sound epic Aaaaaaaaaaalice.
LOCATION: VARIOUS
Â
ROAMING READING
With Poet Cara Benson
Cara Benson will walk Whitmanesquely among/through/within West Hollywoodâ€™s booths and books spouting bouts of words from her latest volume of prose poems

(made). This in-situ situ includes, but is not limited to, inscribing lines on land with colored chalk, embodying kinetic parataxis, and otherwise performing acts of high priestess trance-chant poetics. Subject to turn on a dime.
LOCATION: MOVING TARGET
Â
LES FIGUES SHOWCASE READING
1:20-1:50 p.m.
Poetry/Hybrid Stage
Featuring: Harold Abramowitz, Mathew Timmons and Allison Carter

Les Figues will be at booth E51. All Les Figues titles â€” all on sale!
Â
9th Annual West Hollywood Book Fair
Sunday, September 26, 2010
10AM to 6PM
West Hollywood Park
647 N. San Vicente Blvd.

↑ Index

184. Rob McLennan
new(ish) on rob's clever blog
Thu 23 Sep 2010

-- Ongoing notes: West Coast Line + The New Quarterly
-- fiction: from "boy and girl and man and woman," a novel-in-progress
-- the ottawa small press book fair, fall 2010;
-- Book by Ken Sparling
-- third issue of margaret christakos' influency now online
-- 12 or 20 questions: J.A. Tyler on Mud Luscious Press
-- today would have been their 43rd wedding anniversary
-- Melanie Siebert, Deepwater Vee
-- carleton university writers workshop + writing contest
--- fwd: Launch of the Annual Issue of Arc Poetry Magazine
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Nicholas Ruddock
-- the second issue of 17 seconds: a journal of poetry + poetics
-- 2 new above/ground press chapbooks: Stephen Brockwwell and Gwendolyn Guth
-- another fragment of Sleeping in Toronto: G20
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Christophe Casamassima
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Susan Telfer
-- above/ground press 17th anniversary reading/launch/party
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Elizabeth Robinson

-- Walking Brun's Wick: bpNichol's The Martyrology Book 5
-- Joanne Irene Page McLennan: June 30, 1940-August 19, 2010
-- my mother (joanne irene page mclennan): a medical update;
-- call for submisions (forward); dusty owl chapbook
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Alisha Piercy

www.robmclennan.blogspot.com

+ some other new things at ottawa poetry newsletter
www.ottawapoetry.blogspot.com

+ some other new things at the Chaudiere Booksblog
www.chaudierebooks.blogspot.com

-- writer/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...poetry - wild horses (U of Alberta) ...2nd novel - missing persons
www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

185. Séamas Cain

Allen Ginsberg's "HOWL"

Thu 23 Sep 2010

_____

THE JOHN DEVITT POETRY SEMINAR

Tuesday, September 28th, 2010
at 6:00 p.m. in the Board Room

at the ...

MATER DEI INSTITUTE, CLONLIFFE ROAD,
DUBLIN 3, Ireland

(The First Session of the Academic Year)

Speaker : Séamas Cain, on
Allen Ginsberg's "HOWL"

"I saw the best minds of my generation destroyed by madness, starving hysterical naked, dragging themselves through the negro streets at dawn looking for an angry fix."

Audiofile at ...

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=MVGoY9gom50&feature=related

Tuesday, September 28th, 2010
at 6:00 p.m. in the Board Room
of the Mater Dei Institute

Wine Reception to Follow

Free Admission

ALL ARE WELCOME

http://irishcentreforpoetrystudies.materdei.ie/pages/events/john-devitt-poetry-seminars.php

Séamas Cain
http://www.saorsainn.net
http://alazanto.org/seamascain
http://seamascain-writernetwork.org
http://www.mnartists.org/Seamas_Cain

_____

↑ Index

186. amy king

TOMORROW: Deborah Ager, Eric Amling, Laura Hinton, Janet Holmes, Filip Marinovich & Debrah Morkun!

Thu 23 Sep 2010

SEPTEMBER 24, FRIDAY ~ DEBORAH AGER, ERIC AMLING, L
Stain of Poetry

SEPTEMBER 24, FRIDAY ~ DEBORAH AGER, ERIC AMLING, LAURA HINTON, JANET HOLMES, FILIP MARINOVICH & DEBRAH MORKUN!

7 PM @ GOODBYE BLUE MONDAY - BUSHWICK, BROOKLYN

WITH

DEBORAH AGER's first book, MIDNIGHT VOICES, was published in 2009. Her poems appear in BEST NEW POETS 2006, THE BLOOMSBURY REVIEW, NEW ENGLAND REVIEW, THE GEORGIA REVIEW, QUARTERLY WEST andNEW SOUTH. She's received fellowships from the Mid Atlantic Arts Foundation, the MacDowell Colony, and the Virginia Center for the Creative Arts, and she received a Walter E. Dakin Fellowship to the Sewanee Writers' Conference. She is founding editor of 32 POEMS MAGAZINE. Many poems first appearing in 32 POEMS have been honored in the BEST AMERICAN POETRY and BEST NEW POETSanthologies and on VERSE DAILY and POETRY DAILY.

~

ERIC AMLING is the author of several chapbooks including TWIN VAPOR (Human Hair & Co.), SPLIT LEVEL IGLOO (Human Hair & Co.), and the most recent NINE LIVE TWO-HEADED ANIMALS (Greying Ghost Press). His illustrations and books can be found at WWW.HUMANHAIRANDCO.ORG

~

LAURA HINTON is the author of a poetry book, SISYPHUS MY LOVE (TO RECORD A DREAM IN A BATHTUB) (BlazeVox), and a critical book, THE PERVERSE GAZE OF SYMPATHY: SADOMASOCHISTIC SENTIMENTS FROMClarissa TO Rescue 911 (SUNY Press). She is also the co-editor of WE WHO LOVE TO BE ASTONISHED: EXPERIMENTAL WOMEN'S WRITING AND PERFORMANCE POETICS (University of Alabama Press). She has edited three special sections for the online journal HOW2, including the current feature, "Reading Carla Harryman." She is now at work (co-editor) of a special issue in Postmodern Culture on poet's theater, as well as a book on women's hybrid poetry and the arts. She is a Professor of English at the City College of New York. In New York City she edits a chapbook series, Mermaid Tenement Press, and comments on feminism and the hybrid arts at her blog site "Chant de la Sirene" (WWW.CHANTDELASIRENE.COM).

~

JANET HOLMES is author of five books of poetry, most recently THE MS OF MY KIN (Shearsman) and F2F (U of Notre Dame Pr). She is also director and editor of Ahsahta Press, a 35-year-old all-poetry press based at Boise State University, and professor of English there in the MFA Program in Creative Writing.

~

FILIP MARINOVICH is the author of ZERO READERSHIP (Ugly Duckling Presse 2008) and of the forthcoming AND IF YOU DON'T GO CRAZY I'LL MEET YOU HERE TOMORROW (Ugly Duckling Presse 2011). He is a poet living in New York City.

~

DEBRAH MORKUN lives in Philadelphia, where she is the founding member of The New Philadelphia Poets, a group committed to expanding the spaces for poetry in Philadelphia. Her first full-length book,PROJECTION MACHINE, was released by BlazeVox Books April 2010. View some of her work at WWW.DEBRAHMORKUN.COM.

AT

GOODBYE BLUE MONDAY

1087 BROADWAY
(CORNER OF DODWORTH ST)
BROOKLYN, NY 11221-3013 [redacted]

J M Z TRAINS TO MYRTLE AVE
OR J TRAIN TO KOSCIUSKO ST

~

Hosted by Amy King, Ana BoÅ¾iÄeviÄ‡ et al

~

http://stainofpoetry.com/

--
****

+ http://amyking.org/

****

↑ Index

187. amy king

Soda Series #3 -- Sunday, September 26th @ 7pm -- A conversation with: Paula Bomer, Sasha Fletcher, Amy King and Eugene Lim

Thu 23 Sep 2010

A conversation with: Paula Bomer, Sasha Fletcher, Amy King and Eugene Lim

Paula Bomer is the author of the forthcoming story collection Baby and Other Stories (Word Riot Press, December 2010). Her fiction has appeared in Open City, The New York Tyrant, The Mississippi Review, Fiction and elsewhere. Sheâ€™s the co-publisher at Artistically Declined Press and the supervising editor of the literary journal, Sententia.ï»¿

Sasha Fletcher is the author of the novella WHEN ALL OUR DAYS ARE NUMBERED MARCHING BANDS WILL FILL THE STREETS AND WE WILL NOT HEAR THEM BECAUSE WE WILL BE UPSTAIRS IN THE CLOUDS [ml press 2010]. He is an MFA candidate in Poetry at Columbia University in the city of New York.

Amy Kingâ€™s latest book is Slaves to Do These Things(Blazevox) and forthcoming I Want to Make You Safe (Litmus Press). King moderates the Poetics List (SUNY-Buffalo/University of Pennsylvania) and the Womenâ€™s Poetry Listserv (WOMPO). She also teaches English and Creative Writing at SUNY Nassau Community College. She is currently preparing a book of interviews with the poet, Ron Padgett. She co-edits two magazines: Esque

(http://www.esquemag.com/) and Poets for Living Waters (http://poetsgulfcoast.wordpress.com/). For more, visithttp://amyking.org

Eugene Lim is author of Fog & Car and co-editor of The Harp & Altar Anthology. His fiction has appeared or is forthcoming in the Brooklyn Rail, Sleepingfish, elimae, No Colony, the mlp anthology [First Year], and The Denver Quarterly.

SODA SERIES is a bi-monthly conversation between four different writers, hosted by Greg Gerke and John Dermot Woods.

* Where

Soda Bar in Prospect Heights, Brooklyn.
629 Vanderbilt Ave.
View Map Here
http://sodaseries.com/

Nearest Transit:

7th Ave (Q, B)
Grand Army Plaza (2, 3)
Clinton-Washington Aves (C)

Parking: Street

Accepts Credit Cards: Yes

****

Amy's Alias
+ http://amyking.org/
****

↑ Index

188. Jonathan Minton
Word For/Word #17
Thu 23 Sep 2010

I'm pleased to announce that Word For/Word #17 is online at www.wordforword.info

with poetry and visuals by

Katie Marie Nealon, Matthew Klane, John M. Bennett, Rebecca Givens Rolland, Jeremy Behreandt, Megan Boatright, Rebecca Mertz, Craig Foltz, Irving Weiss, Angela Hume, Kate Ingold, Kathryn Cowles, David Detrich, Becca Jensen, Mario Cervantes, Anthony Madrid, Mary Ocher, Melissa Broder, Brennen Wysong, and Brian Seabolt, plus essays, reviews, and a special feature on the poet Lynn Strongin.

Cheers!

Jonathan Minton

www.wordforword.info

+ + +

"Yes, Noise, or No," by Brennen Wysong

Buy a wolf trap and a handkerchief. Purchase a wolf-proof door. You will construct tiny cityscapes with bird bones inside snow globes. You will fill the globes with a mixture of bits of tinsel and freshly ground pepper. The wolves will in fact be wolfram. The warmth will be war. The theater will be where the war will be waged. You, inchworm, will measure the marigolds. And then, it will happen just like this: You will cover your body in a dull dusting of wolfram, hoping someone will rub against you for warmth, hoping you will bring brief shadow to a darkened theater, where the marigolds have been ushered to their seats in the wings. The wings-and they are yours, of course, attached to your back after losing your hands-will be read by X-ray tubes using the wolfram. You will try to find tumult on the periodic table of elements. It will be between flue and oxen. The theater will have no stage. The devil will win by one. You will toss snow globes of Tehran into an angry sea. Oxen, yes.

↑ Index

189. Jeffrey Side

Some sections of "Cyclones in High Northern Latitudes" are now in Apocryphaltext

Thu 23 Sep 2010

Some sections from Jake Berry and my long poem "Cyclones in High Northern Latitudes" are now in Apocryphaltext:

http://www.apocryphaltextpoetry.com/apocryphal_text_4/jake_berry_jeffrey_side.htm

↑ Index

190. Poetry Project

Upcoming Events at The Poetry Project

Thu 23 Sep 2010

Hi Everyone,

The 45th season officially begins this Monday, September 27 with a reading for VLAK magazine & on September 29, Joseph Donahue & Laura Moriarty will ring in the Wednesday Night Series. To see further into The Poetry Project¹s event future, visit our Program Calendar http://bit.ly/agYs0P ‹ & as always, see you soon!

Love,
The Poetry Project

MONDAY SEPTEMBER 27 / 8PM
VLAK

This reading launches the inaugural issue of VLAK, an international magazine with a broad focus on contemporary poetics, art, film, philosophy, music, science, design, politics, performance, ecology, and new media. VLAK is edited by Louis Armand, Edmund Berrigan, Carol Watts, Stephan Delbos, David Vichnar and Clare Wallace. The reading will feature contributors Pierre Joris, Eileen Myles, Elizabeth Gross, Marjorie Wellish, Vincent Katz, Bruce Andrews, Brandon Downing, Abigail Child, Arlo Quint, Stacy Szymaszek, Stephanie Barber, John Wilkinson, Jess Fiorini, Joshua Cohen, Stephanie Strickland, Louis Armand and others. Reception with WINE!

WEDNESDAY SEPTEMBER 29 / 8PM
JOSEPH DONAHUE & LAURA MORIARTY

Joseph Donahue's most recent collections of poetry include Incidental Eclipse and Terra Lucida. This fall, Talisman House will publish Dissolves, Terra Lucida IV-VII, the second volume of an ongoing sequence. He lives in Durham, North Carolina.

Laura Moriarty¹s books include A Tonalist an essay poem from Nightboat Books, the novels, Cunning and Ultravioleta. A Semblance: Selected and New Poems, 1975 2007 came out from Omnidawn in 2007. She won the Poetry Center Book Award in 1983, a Wallace Alexander Gerbode Foundation Award in Poetry in 1992, a New Langton Arts Award in Literature 1998 and a Fund for Poetry grant in 2007. She has taught at Mills College and Naropa University, among other places, and is Deputy Director of Small Press Distribution. For more, see the blog A Tonalist Notes.

Become a Poetry Project Member! http://poetryproject.org/become-a-member

Calendar http://www.poetryproject.org/program-calendar

The Poetry Project is located at St. Mark's Church-in-the-Bowery
131 East 10th Street (at 2nd Avenue)
New York, NY 10003

Trains: 6, F, N, R, and L.

www.poetryproject.org

Admission is $8 / $7 for students & seniors / $5 for members (though now those who take out a membership at $95 or higher will get in FREE to all regular readings).

We are wheelchair accessible with assistance & advance notice. For more info call [redacted].

If you¹d like to be unsubscribed from this mailing list, please drop a line at [redacted].

↑ Index

191. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
Thu 23 Sep 2010

Jim,

"but, in poetry circles, godel and turing just do not compute, as you see in the responses to this thread, which dealt with derrida, not godel and turing.

and this is one of the reasons why poetry itself is isolated."

I have heard many reasons why poetry is isolated, but this is a new one.

"poetry, these days, needs to be an umbrella term for deep concerns of language and art cross-stitched amongs many fields and modes of perception/reception. for instance, the role of language in contemporary mathematical logic is of philosophical significance and also has turned out to be of very practical significance in that the work of godel and turing led to the creation of the computer, that universal number+language machine."

What exactly does the above passage mean, particularly the phrase "the role of language in contemporary mathematical logic"?

"the philosophical underpinnings of the poetics of computation, of computer art, can be strongly linked with the work of godel and turing and its consequences concerning language, epistemology, philosophy of mind, and the multimedial/intermedial."

As far as I can see, all you are saying here is that poetry is not poetry unless related to Godel and Turing's work. That's quite a bit of a tall order, don't you think, though I can understand their potential or realized importance in some kind of poetry.

"poetry needs to be able to travel at the forefront of any field."

What does also this sentence mean, that poetry should become a kind of supermench, the way opera was for Wagner?

Ciao,

Murat

On Thu, Sep 23, 2010 at 3:43 AM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

> language and poetry after godel and turing.
>
> but, in poetry circles, godel and turing just do not compute, as you see in the responses to this thread, which dealt with derrida, not godel and turing.
>
> and this is one of the reasons why poetry itself is isolated.
>
> poetry, these days, needs to be an umbrella term for deep concerns of language and art cross-stitched amongs many fields and modes of perception/reception. for instance, the role of language in contemporary mathematical logic is of philosophical significance and also has turned out to be of very practical significance in that the work of godel and turing led to the creation of the computer, that universal number+language machine.
>
> the philosophical underpinnings of the poetics of computation, of computer art, can be strongly linked with the work of godel and turing and its consequences concerning language, epistemology, philosophy of mind, and the multimedial/intermedial.
>
> poetry needs to be able to travel at the forefront of any field.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com

↑ Index

192. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
Thu 23 Sep 2010

Hi, Lily,

I never doubted the importance of such overtones in the original and their loss in the translation. I only wanted to say that deconstruction, as it has ended meaning in poetics and philosophy, is much more, beyond re-modeling. It was trying to avoid decepive simplications. I am glad you liked my metaphor of deconstruction being a building designed by its inhabitants. It came to me on the spur of the moment.

Ciao,
Murat

On Tue, Sep 21, 2010 at 3:06 PM, lily robert-foley <
[redacted]> wrote:

> Hello Murat!
>
> It's true Deconstruction is not the same thing as remodeling. However, I think it is very important when reading and especially in teaching Derrida to understand the effects of the translation—what is lost and gained in the passage from one language to another. Deconstruction is primarily a method of reading that is tied to a long and complex history of many different (textual) notions in philosophy and literature. It is difficult (if not impossible and perhaps purposefully so), so to speak, to separate the bird from the branch (is that an expression, separate the bird from the branch?) and give a totalizing definition of Deconstruction that is not tied directly to its specific context(s) while in use. This is exactly why it can be so valuable to examine the meaning of the word in French; and by word I mean: also the resonances that it has beyond its use in philosophy and literary criticism: its various homophones and homonyms, its figural history, its roots and dissemination into the culture at large etc. What does a French speaker (such as Derrida) "hear" when using the word "Deconstruction." This is also useful for other concepts in Derrida such as play. Of course a precise definition of the word in translation is not a definition of the concept or its use.
>
> I very much like the metaphor of the building that is designed by its inhabitants. I think remodeling can be useful (although, I agree, not an adequate translation! Deconstruction is a much better translation for Deconstruction) for a similar reason: I think it's a common misconception that Deconstruction means to undo or negate structure, which, in my reading, is not the case. Nice to be able to discuss this.
>
> xoxo
>
> Lily
>
> On Mon, Sep 20, 2010 at 6:07 PM, Murat Nemet-Nejat <[redacted]>
> wrote:
> Hi, Lily,
>
> but deconstructionism in literature does not mean remodeling. It is a much > more drastic reviewing of the nature of literature. Whatever deconstruction > means when on the side of a building, it does not mean that in Derrida, for > instance. Deconstructionism is more like saying that a building is designed by its inhabitants and not by its architects. The confusion is understandable. It requires a reorientation of thinking.

Ciao,

Murat

On Mon, Sep 20, 2010 at 9:21 AM, carol dorf <[redacted]> wrote:

Lily,
I find this redefinition very helpful -- I wish I had learned it in grad school.
It connects deconstructionism with urban life more seemlessly -- the way
"Modernism"
refers to architecture as well as a literary movement.
Thanks,
Carol

On Sun, Sep 19, 2010 at 2:14 AM, lily robert-foley <[redacted]> wrote:

Regarding the Deconstruction industry:

Just briefly (this is not exactly in response to the deconstruction industry/construction industry thing): I'm working on a thesis in Paris about the auto-translation of Beckett and the translation/reception of Derrida in the United States, and I realized that many people who read Derrida don't know that Deconstruction is not a made up word in French—which to my mind changes implicitly the reception and understanding of the concept.

Well, ok, Deconstruction is a made up word in French but it wasn't made up by Derrida, and it's not a bizarre, fancy sounding word that to most people actually just means, "word you would never understand so you should never use". For example, you see it constantly on the side of buildings that are "under construction"—which means, not that the building is being torn down and rebuilt, but that the structure of the building remains intact while certain defunct features are being removed and replaced or redone. In America we might call this remodeling or rehabbing.

I am still looking for a better word in English to translate this word, but have not quite found it. Perhaps "under construction" is actually perfect.

I think this is useful, not only for understanding Deconstruction but even for pedagogical purposes. I remember being an undergraduate and wanting very badly to understand what Deconstruction was but have many professors evade the subject. If someone had just translated the word for me and explained that in this case it refers to texts instead of buildings I would have been very happy I think.

Ok, thanks!

Lily

On Fri, Sep 17, 2010 at 5:50 AM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:
saw an ad on tv about training for 'interesting and well-payed careers in the construction industry'.

it occurs to me i've been in the deconstruction industry for twenty years.

or is it the reconstruction industry? or the preconstruction industry? or is it the introstruction industry? the introspuction industry? or just the destruction industry?

the pay sucks. no doubt about it. but the hammerin and yammerin are fun.

i have a course in mind. here's some of the reading. the course would be called 'language and poetry after godel and turing'. the course would explore computational poetics. there's some yammerin bout manovitch et all concerning poetics of new media. ya ya. but get down to the really revolutionary changes in thought. that's what brought about the computer revolution in the first place. that's the work of godel and turing. computational poetics involves the poetics of the universal machine. universal? in what sense? the course ultimately looks at how notions

> of
> who
> and what we are have changed in light of the development of the universal > machine. and how our notions of what language is have changed. and how
> that
> has affected poetry from oulipo to contemporary work by poet programmers.
>
> on formally undecidable propositions of principia mathematica and related
> systems - k godel
> godel escher bach - douglas hoffstadter
> i am a strange loop - douglas hoffstadter
> incompleteness - rebecca goldstein
> engines of logic - martin davis
> oulipo compendium - harry matthews
> the essential turing - b. jack copeland
> how we became post human - n k hayles
> prehistoric digital poetry - c funkhouser
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
>
> guidelines
>
> guidelines
>
> guidelines

↑ Index

193. Mathew Timmons

Contribute to the Worlds Largest Sound Poetry Choir ever!

Thu 23 Sep 2010

Hello Evereybody!

You may or may not know that I have a show up at a phone gallery right now - the show is The Archanoids at 323 Projects http://323projects.com I'd like to invite you to contribute to the worlds largest sound poetry choir ever by Oct 1!

The Archanoids exists as the inaugural exhibition of 323 Projects which you can visit by calling [redacted] or (323) TIE-IN-LA. The show is open all day and all night, every day of the week until October 11, 2010. 323 Projects phone gallery will present a new track from the album, The Archanoids, every other day and invite callers to participate in a collective sound poem by leaving a message and following an online score.

CALL NOW! to participate in The Arc of Noise, the world's largest collaborative sound poetry choir!

Watch the video score at http://323projects.com and call [redacted] or (323) TIE-IN-LA to contribute. You can listen to a track from the album, The Archanoids then leave a message that follows the score by hitting play on the video at the beep, you may also press 1 twice to skip straight to leaving a message.

You can read a write up of The Archanoids by Joshua Morrison at Fine Arts LA

http://www.fineartsla.com/defineartsla-exclusive-poet.html and a note at TRY HARDER. http://try-har-der.blogspot.com/2010/09/mathew-timmons-archanoids-323projects.html Shana Nys Dambrot of flavorpill says, â€œMathew Timmons is a hard-core collaborator with no regard for traditional boundaries when it comes to mixing media and even entire genres. â€¦ Listen, speak, repeat as necessary.â€ http://flavorpill.com/losangeles/events/2010/9/6/mathew-timmons-the-arachnoids?utm_source=losangeles&utm_medium=email&utm_campaign=issue_392

The Archanoids
an album of solo and collaborative sound poetries 2005-2010
$10 + S&H
https://www.paypal.com/cgi-bin/webscr?cmd=_s-xclick&hosted_button_id=Z59PNZPG5E3HY

Insert Press http://insertpress.net in collaboration with 323 Projects and Pleonasm Music is pleased to present The Archanoids, an album of solo and collaborative sound poetries, 2005-2010.

Pleonasm Music, http://pleonasmmusic.org the net-label run by Christian Cummings, An independent musical community of uncategorizable avant-weird living room minstrels par excellence, will release a free downloadable selection of tracks from the album.

Insert Press is releasing the full album including a 32 page booklet of scores and written work from the album which can be purchased only through Insert Press for $10 + S&H.

The Archanoids

Composers (in the order they appear): Robert Darry, Mathew Timmons, Hugo Ball, Gertrude Stein, Christian BÃ¶k, Kurt Schwitters, Theodor Seuss Geisel, Luigi Russolo, Claude Gauvreau, Janine Armin, Giacomo Balla & F. T. Marinetti

Performers (in the order they appear): Robert Darry, Mathew Timmons, Sandy Ding, Harold Abramowitz, js makkos, Gary Barwin, Gregory Betts, Janine Armin, Amaranth Borsuk, Amina Cain, Allison Carter, Kate Durbin, Gabriela Jauregui, Stephanie Taylor, Donato Mancini & Christine Wertheim.

Remixes by last nights of paris. Album mixed by Patrick Navarre.

Programming / Audio Engineering of The Arc of Noise collaborative sound poem by Dan Richert.

best
M

Mathew Timmons
http://generalprojects.blogspot.com http://insertpress.net
http://blancpress.com

↑ Index

194. Vernon Frazer
MPROVISATIONS by Vernon Frazer now on Scribd
Fri 24 Sep 2010

---

http://www.scribd.com/doc/38013484/IMPROVISATIONS-by-Vernon-Frazer

↑ Index

195. Nicholas Piombino
2nd Avenue Poetry Launch 9/25 Long Island City
Fri 24 Sep 2010

2nd Ave Poetry , vol 3: The Occult

guest edited by alan ramon CLINTON

Saturday, September 25
5-7 pm
FREE
The Creek and The Cave
10-93 Jackson Ave, Long Island City
(on the E, G, & 7 train, B61 bus)

featuring readings & multimedia performances by

mitch HIGHFILL * toni SIMON * hector CANONGE
charles BORKHUIS * priscilla STADLER
brenda COULTAS * jill MAGI * kelly SPIVEY
douglas a. MARTIN * mark LAMOUREAUX
downstairs after-PARTY with live set by dj DESPO

volume 3 also includes work by

kevin KILLIAN * leslie SCALAPINO * dodie BELLAMY
jeremy THOMPSON * rit PREMNATH * caitlin PARKER
tsering wangmo DHOMPA * thom DONOVAN
r. zamora LINMARK * thomas FINK * denise DUHAMEL
filip MARINOVICH * ca CONRAD * frank SHERLOCK
lyn GOERINGER * matt JONES * clayton ESHLEMAN
charles BERNSTEIN * stephanie GRAY * gerrit LANSING
vincent KATZ * rusty MORRISON * laynie BROWN
tim PETERSON * john HARKEY * r.m. ENGELHARDT
emmy CATEDRAL * yago CURA * ernest CONCEPCION
jonny FARROW * alan ramon CLINTON

↑ Index

196. Evan Kennedy
The Swan's Rag: Issue Two
Fri 24 Sep 2010

Hello Swans,

We at Dirty Swan Projects are happy to announce THE SWANâ€™S RAG ISSUE TWO! The line up speaks for itself.

ROB HALPERN: L O V E S O N G (T O M Y F A L L E N S O L D I E R)
BOB GLÃœCK: Ed's First Sexual Experience
CEDAR SIGO: 7/23/10
ROB HALPERN: from Trolley's Kind
An Interview with WILDE BOY ALEX DIMITROV
BRUCE BOONE: My Walk with Evan
JACK FROST: Ex/Sex is a High School History Class You Remember
TED REES: Bahd Nay Foo Yah
TOM MEYER on Jonathan Williams
Threesome Polaroids from JONATHAN WILLIAMS
A Poem from SARA LARSEN

Images of Rimbaud in West Oakland from JOHNNY TOWNMOUSE, additional images from ÅUKASZ SÅAWINSKI.

Images and purchasing instructions here:
http://theswansrag.blogspot.com (NSFW?).

Kisses and misses,

Dirty Swan Projects

↑ Index

197. derek beaulieu
Call for submissions
Fri 24 Sep 2010

---

hey folks;
NOD magazine -- the University of Calgary's undergrad-run literary magazine -- is looking for submissions. its a fun, scrappy magazine and can use the support. why not help out?
derek

**
Sent: Friday, September 24, 2010 10:45 AM
Subject: Call for submissions

NÅD Magazine CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

Submit prose, poetry or visual art by October 31st for your chance to be published in the University of Calgary's only undergraduate literary magazine.

Submissions are accepted via e-mail (preferable) or snail mail. For e-mail submissions, please send your work as an attached file. Please inform us if you are an undergraduate or not when submitting to the magazine.

Visual artists should be aware that their work must be easily transferable into digital format and that all work will be printed in black and white except for work chosen as cover art.

Submit to:

NÅD Magazine
Department of English, University of Calgary 2500 University Drive N.W.
Calgary, AB
T2T 1N4

or

[redacted]

NÅD Magazine Issue Twelve on Sale now!!! See our booth in Mac Hall for Club's Week*

↑ Index

198. steve russell
Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
Fri 24 Sep 2010

---

interesting.
but i'm wary of the word forefront.
does poetry necessarily need to be ... there.

i'm happy to see it in the bleachers,
or with the cheerleaders.

really, i may have to re/read the esher/bach/GOD-el thing. occassionally, it's fun to actually have something of a clue,or sort of know what i'm talking about. which, in my book, means ... Witt vs. Godel: it's a tie.

--- On Thu, 9/23/10, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
To: [redacted]
Date: Thursday, September 23, 2010, 3:43 AM

language and poetry after godel and turing.

but, in poetry circles, godel and turing just do not compute, as you see in the responses to this thread, which dealt with derrida, not godel and turing.

and this is one of the reasons why poetry itself is isolated.

poetry, these days, needs to be an umbrella term for deep concerns of language and art cross-stitched amongs many fields and modes of perception/reception. for instance, the role of language in contemporary mathematical logic is of philosophical significance and also has turned out to be of very practical significance in that the work of godel and turing led to the creation of the computer, that universal number+language machine.

the philosophical underpinnings of the poetics of computation, of computer art, can be strongly linked with the work of godel and turing and its consequences concerning language, epistemology, philosophy of mind, and the multimedial/intermedial.

poetry needs to be able to travel at the forefront of any field.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

199. Jennifer Karmin
Sept 26: W. Hollywood Book Fair
Fri 24 Sep 2010

9th Annual West Hollywood Book Fair
Sunday, September 26th
10AM to 6PM
West Hollywood Park, California
647 N. San Vicente Blvd.
http://www.westhollywoodbookfair.org

Les Figues Press presents site-specific performances
by Cara Benson, Jen Hofer and Jennifer Karmin & readings by Harold Abramowitz, Mathew Timmons and Christine Wertheim

ROAMING READING - with Cara Benson
Cara Benson will walk Whitmanesquely among/through/within West Hollywoodâ€™s booths and books spouting bouts of words from her latest volume of prose poems (made). This in-situ situ includes, but is not limited to, inscribing lines on land with colored chalk, embodying kinetic parataxis, and otherwise performing acts of high priestess trance-chant poetics. Subject to turn on a dime.

LETTER WRITING DESK: ESCRITORIO PUBLICO - with Jen Hofer
The escritorio pÃºblico is a public letter-writing desk most often set up on sidewalks in public space, though sometimes invited into museums, galleries and other cultural spaces. The escritorio consists of a folding table made by the man who built Jenâ€™s house in 1920, on which she sets up her grandmotherâ€™s Olivetti Lettera 22 typewriter, writing paper and envelopes. She types letters in either Spanish or English for passers-by, charging $2 for a letter, $3 for a love letter and $5 for an illicit love letter.Â Escritorio pÃºblico is an enactment of public practice, an ethic of radical listening, and a manifestation of the gift economy.
Location: The Lounge on the Center of The Field

READING EXPERIMENT IN PROGRESS - with Jennifer Karmin
â€œReading Experiment in Progressâ€ is an interactive performance, transforming the book fair from a space of commerce to a space for creative exchange. Chicago poet Jennifer Karmin invites passers-by to participate in a mini-reading of her text-sound epic Aaaaaaaaaaalice.

LES FIGUES SHOWCASE READING
1:20-1:50 pm
Poetry/Hybrid Stage

Featuring: Harold Abramowitz, Mathew Timmons and Christine Wertheim
Les Figues Press will be at booth E51.
All Les Figues titles on sale!
http://www.lesfigues.com

↑ Index

200. Michael Hansen
Chicago Review call for essays on A. R. Ammons
Sat 25 Sep 2010

Chicago Review is gathering materials for a special issue on A. R. Ammons. We are looking for critical essays (in the range of 1500 to 3000 words) on any topic related to Ammons's work. If you would like to submit an essay (or idea) for consideration, please send a 250-word abstract to [redacted] by November 15, 2010.

We look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,
Michael Hansen & Joel Calahan
Chicago Review
*5801 S Kenwood
Chicago, IL 60637
http://humanities.uchicago.edu/orgs/review/*

↑ Index

201. Margaret Konkol
Re: Olson query
Sat 25 Sep 2010

Hey Ric,

I believe Ralph Maude is working on a collection of Olson's unpublished late works.

Cheers,
Margaret

On Thu, Sep 23, 2010 at 9:57 AM, Carfagna, Richard <
[redacted]> wrote:

> Hi,
> I was wondering if anyone knows who took over the official scholarship of > Charles Olson after the death of George Butterick?
>
> Also, what with the release in the past couple of year of the Daybooks

> of Oppen
> and the collected Notebooks of Frost, does anyone know of plans to mine the Olson
> collection at Storrs to produce a similar type of tome?
>
> Thanks,
> Ric

↑ Index

202. Jim Andrews
Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
Sat 25 Sep 2010

> interesting.
> but i'm wary of the word forefront.
> does poetry necessarily need to be ... there.

not everyone has to be there, of course. poetry 'covers' many mentalities. many 'mansions'.

the lights are pretty much off, though, in the poetry mansion and it's black as night, concerning knowledge about things like the theory of computation, Godel, and so forth. and folks are frightened: computer art is fascistic, don't you know, and computers are to blame for the economic collapse, etc etc. we can't be machines because that would mean it's all an empty mechanical random concourse of atoms. and so on. people are frightened by computers and computing in many ways, from the challenge they pose just in how to use them in day to day life, to the 'threats' they pose to our identity, to the role they sometimes play in art and poetry.

yet here we are using computers to talk about poetry. and using them to do so many other things in our pursuit of poetry.

knowledge of things like the theory of computation not only can help dispel fear--because the fear is mostly of the sort where we fear what we do not understand--but, in matters of poetry, also provides us with, say, approaches to language that can be useful in poetry and poetics.

also, the theory of computation and godel's work are fundamental to the poetics of computation.

> i'm happy to see it in the bleachers,
> or with the cheerleaders.

ha. yes i think it would be very pleasant to be with the cheerleaders in the bleachers.

> really, i may have to re/read the esher/bach/GOD-el thing.

if yer after a hofstadter book, try 'i am a strange loop'. i'm finding that one more readable. rebbeca goldstein's book called 'incompleteness' is good on godel, his proof and biography (and friendship with einstein)--and also concerning godel/wittgenstein. martin davis's book 'engines of logic' is an instant classic in the 'history of ideas'. it looks at the life and work of leibniz, boole, frege, cantor, hilbert, godel, and turing concerning the development of the computer. it was leibniz's dream to create an 'aide to human reason', which, he felt, required a language of symbolic logic. martin davis is, himself, a renowned usamerican logician. his book is excellent on the math and logic, on the history of ideas, in its biographical sketches, and in its historical perspective. great book. another relevant book is the oulipo compendium edited by harry matthews. oulipo started in 1960 and is/was the first erm poetry movement or group or whatever to seriously cross the borders of math and poetry. also, theirs is/was a kind of 'axiomatic' approach that relates closely to mathematical logic. another inerestin book is prehistoric digital poetry by chris funkhouser. this looks at digital poetry from 1959 to 1995. basically pre-web. this mainly looks at the work of the earlier poet-programmers.

> occassionally, it's fun to actually have something of a clue,or sort of know what i'm talking about. which, in my book, means ... Witt vs. Godel: it's a tie.

ha. well, wittgenstein is still, of course, very influential in matters of philosophy and even, somewhat, in literary matters. whereas godel's work never really was, except in mathematical logic.

ja
http://vispo.com

> --- On Thu, 9/23/10, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Thursday, September 23, 2010, 3:43 AM
>
> language and poetry after godel and turing.
>
> but, in poetry circles, godel and turing just do not compute, as you see in the responses to this thread, which dealt with derrida, not godel and turing.

> and this is one of the reasons why poetry itself is isolated.
>
> poetry, these days, needs to be an umbrella term for deep concerns of language and art cross-stitched amongs many fields and modes of perception/reception. for instance, the role of language in contemporary mathematical logic is of philosophical significance and also has turned out to be of very practical significance in that the work of godel and turing led to the creation of the computer, that universal number+language machine.
>
> the philosophical underpinnings of the poetics of computation, of computer art, can be strongly linked with the work of godel and turing and its consequences concerning language, epistemology, philosophy of mind, and the multimedial/intermedial.
>
> poetry needs to be able to travel at the forefront of any field.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com

↑ Index

203. Obododimma Oha

Re: [New-Poetry] From Their Ringtones You Shall Know Them

Sat 25 Sep 2010

Hi Tijani!
Thanks for reading the article & responding.
Regards.
Obododimma.

On Sat, Sep 25, 2010 at 12:38 PM, BY TJMST <[redacted]> wrote:

> hi Obodo et al
> thanks for psychologically sharing the repugnant but atimes soothing palaver of ringtones.I must say i will reminisce in delightfully, distatefully later on this web.Frankly i dont think i like them -almost a loathing experience personally.The bad aspect of it is tat a customised ringtone might even turn off someone else that' s a turn -on.
> The
> CELL PHONE is an interesting tool for a wide variety of gaiety yet there's a challenge to users conscience...whom to blame?The softwar e pedlers or the buyer or the licenceeor communication commission?Amen for answered prayers or poetry.

Gbemi TIJANI MST

On 9/14/10, Obododimma Oha <[redacted]> wrote:

"A ringtone advertises the owner of the mobile phone. It says: listen to me as I tell a bit about this fellow's difference. By extension, the medium has become the addressee and could even be a signifier of the addresser. These days when mobile telephony has brought further stress upon marriages and other relationships, is it not ingenious to configure the rings in such a way that the clever addressee can tell who is calling, at least to be able to know whether to answer, where to answer, what to answer; or to know which story to tell later to the person eavesdropping by the side? The medium will eventually be the accomplice as well as the evidence."

To read the full text of "From Their Ringtones You Shall Know Them<http://234next.com/csp/cms/sites/Next/Opinion/Columns/5618388-182/story.csp>,"
visit:

http://234next.com/csp/cms/sites/Next/Opinion/Columns/5618388-182/story.csp

--
Obododimma Oha
http://udude.wordpress.com/

Dept. of English
University of Ibadan
Nigeria

&

Fellow, Centre for Peace & Conflict Studies
University of Ibadan

Phone: [redacted];
[redacted];
[redacted].

New-Poetry mailing list
[redacted]
http://wiz.cath.vt.edu/mailman/listinfo/new-poetry

--
Obododimma Oha
http://udude.wordpress.com/

Dept. of English
University of Ibadan
Nigeria

&

Fellow, Centre for Peace & Conflict Studies
University of Ibadan

Phone: [redacted];
[redacted];
[redacted].

↑ Index

204. Jim Andrews

Re: language and poetry after godel and turing

Sat 25 Sep 2010

> "the philosophical underpinnings of the poetics of computation, of computer art, can be strongly linked with the work of godel and turing and its consequences concerning language, epistemology, philosophy of mind, and the multimedial/intermedial."
>
> As far as I can see, all you are saying here is that poetry is not poetry unless related to Godel and Turing's work.

I would hope you're the only one who reads it that way, Murat. Cuz that's not what I said. But, by now, how could I be surprised by your reading it that way, considering that you've also said that computer art is fascistic and that computers are to blame for the economic collapse. Computers, computer art, and, possibly, computer artists seem to freak you out. I find it hard to talk with you about these things cuz yer always jumping to this sort of conclusion.

What I was saying is this. The work of Godel and Turing is fundamental to the poetics of computation and computer art and the multimedial/intermedial because it is fundamental to the theory of computation; and the theory of computation is concerned with exploring the theoretical capabilities and limitations of computing machines.

Turing invented the 'Turing machine', the 'abstract machine', the mathematical model of a computing machine, to show that there are some tasks that no computing machine can ever carry out. In other words, he invented the modern computer to show that it has certain limitations. As opposed to inventing it to get it to do stuff that couldn't be done otherwise. Which, to me, is the sort of poetical thing that we see time and again in Godel's and Turing's work.

> That's quite a bit of a tall > order, don't you think, though I can understand their potential or realized > importance in some kind of poetry.
>
> "poetry needs to be able to travel at the forefront of any field."
>
> What does also this sentence mean, that poetry should become a kind of supermench, the way opera was for Wagner?

Supermench? No. When we look at the impact of computing on language, we can talk about it in many ways, can concentrate on different things. The way, for instance, that the net crosses X with Y, brings ideas into contact with one another, and, consequently, the languages associated with those ideas. Or the way it brings media into contact with one another, by being capable of representing all sorts of different media all on the same screen or in the same machine; and, consequently, brings the languages both of and about those media into contact with one another. Or the way it brings people into contact with one another, being capable of representing communication channels (such as telephone) as well as traditional media like print, recorded sound, and video/TV, etc.

The impact of computing on language is in all sorts of cross-fertilization of language X with language Y, whether the languages are natural or other types of languages.

Poetry is one of the fields that can use those energies expressively, innovatively, in a way that captures the contemporary, and furthers our understanding of what is happening to language(s) and us via computing.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

205. michael farrell
Re: The Swan's Rag: Issue Two
Sat 25 Sep 2010

---

thanks for making me realise rimbaud looks like ben affleck

> Date: Fri, 24 Sep 2010 11:21:13 -0700
> From: [redacted]

> Subject: The Swan's Rag: Issue Two
> To: [redacted]
>
> Hello Swans,
>
> We at Dirty Swan Projects are happy to announce THE SWAN'S RAG ISSUE TWO! The line up speaks for itself.
>
> ROB HALPERN: L O V E S O N G (T O M Y F A L L E N S O L D I E R)
> BOB GLÜCK: Ed's First Sexual Experience
> CEDAR SIGO: 7/23/10
> ROB HALPERN: from Trolley's Kind
> An Interview with WILDE BOY ALEX DIMITROV
> BRUCE BOONE: My Walk with Evan
> JACK FROST: Ex/Sex is a High School History Class You Remember
> TED REES: Bahd Nay Foo Yah
> TOM MEYER on Jonathan Williams
> Threesome Polaroids from JONATHAN WILLIAMS
> A Poem from SARA LARSEN
>
> Images of Rimbaud in West Oakland from JOHNNY TOWNMOUSE, additional images from £UKASZ S£AWINSKI.
>
> Images and purchasing instructions here:
> http://theswansrag.blogspot.com (NSFW?).
>
> Kisses and misses,
>
> Dirty Swan Projects

↑ Index

206. michael farrell

Re: language and poetry after godel and turing

Sat 25 Sep 2010

---

does poetry need anything?

i could say poetry needs to be more like blondie - but thats really my need -

> Date: Fri, 24 Sep 2010 12:08:06 -0700
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
> To: [redacted]
>
> interesting.
> but i'm wary of the word forefront.
> does poetry necessarily need to be ... there.

i'm happy to see it in the bleachers,
or with the cheerleaders.

really, i may have to re/read the esher/bach/GOD-el thing.
occassionally, it's fun to actually have something of a clue,or sort of know what i'm talking about. which, in my book, means ... Witt vs. Godel: it's a tie.

--- On Thu, 9/23/10, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
To: [redacted]
Date: Thursday, September 23, 2010, 3:43 AM

language and poetry after godel and turing.

but, in poetry circles, godel and turing just do not compute, as you see in the responses to this thread, which dealt with derrida, not godel and turing.

and this is one of the reasons why poetry itself is isolated.

poetry, these days, needs to be an umbrella term for deep concerns of language and art cross-stitched amongs many fields and modes of perception/reception. for instance, the role of language in contemporary mathematical logic is of philosophical significance and also has turned out to be of very practical significance in that the work of godel and turing led to the creation of the computer, that universal number+language machine.

the philosophical underpinnings of the poetics of computation, of computer art, can be strongly linked with the work of godel and turing and its consequences concerning language, epistemology, philosophy of mind, and the multimedial/intermedial.

poetry needs to be able to travel at the forefront of any field.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

207. Dan Glass
this week on the 30 word review
Sun 26 Sep 2010

Two theories of the present—preservation & sincerity.

Lovejoy by Phoebe Wayne
Tout Va Bien by Suzanne Stein

http://the30wordreview.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

208. Jeffrey Side
Hank Lazer interviewed by Chris Mansel --- The Argotist Onlline
Sun 26 Sep 2010

Hank Lazer interviewed by Chris Mansel --- The Argotist Onlline

http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Lazer%20interview%202.htm

Excerpt:

CM: Where do you suppose the self-destructiveness trait comes from that occurs in so many writers?

HL: From frustration, as a consequence of marginalization, and from succumbing to a dangerous set of culturally romanticized stereotypes. First, the frustration and maginalization routes. A writer, particularly a poet, places himself in an odd position in relation to dominant cultural value. A poet decides to value certain kinds of somewhat aimless, impractical, non-money-making activities, and he decides to make room and time in his life for these activities. Furthermore, heâ€™s apt to be pursuing a rather elusive mode of language â€“ not necessarily the direct, communicative, â€œuseful,â€ commercially manipulative kind of language skill that society readily appreciates and rewards (in advertising, in journalism, and in other modes of persuasive and/or manipulative writing). So, what heâ€™s doing with his time is aberrant â€“ hard to explain. And yet, if he is really engaged in a serious and profound relationship to poetry, he does have certain sporadic validating experiences â€“ a sense of connection to a longstanding human enterprise of considerable wisdom, joy, and pleasure. The self-destructiveness may arise as a gesture of anger and frustration, arising from a sense that oneâ€™s primary life activity is not appreciated or understood or respected. The self-destructiveness becomes an act oddly complicit with that ignoring and marginalizing by the society at large, while it is also a somewhat desperate call for attention and significance.

http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Lazer%20interview%202.htm

↑ Index

209. Peter Grant

Re: Olson query

Sun 26 Sep 2010

Ric, Please read my review of Ralph Maud's Charles Olson at the Harbor (talonbooks 2008) in Pacific Rim Review of Books #10 for a possible answer to your first question...

http://www.prrb.ca/articles/issue10-olson.html

Peter

> Date: Thu, 23 Sep 2010 09:57:54 -0400
> From: "Carfagna, Richard" <[redacted]>
> Subject: Olson query
>
> Hi,
> I was wondering if anyone knows who took over the official scholarship of > Charles Olson after the death of George Butterick?
>
> Also, what with the release in the past couple of year of the Daybooks of Oppen
> and the collected Notebooks of Frost, does anyone know of plans to mine
> the Olson
> collection at Storrs to produce a similar type of tome?
>
> Thanks,
> Ric

↑ Index

210. Alan Sondheim

Chris Funkhouser and Alan Sondheim event, Fri. Oct 1, Unnameable Books, Brooklyn! (please announce/forward)

Sun 26 Sep 2010

Chris Funkhouser and Alan Sondheim event, Fri. Oct 1, Unnameable Books

Friday, October 1 7:30pm - 9:30pm
Location Unnameable Books
600 Vanderbilt Ave.
Brooklyn, NY
Created By
Unnameable Boox
More Info DIGITAL POETICS 10.01.10

Performances of fingered music, digital projection, codework and text. Viola, oud, saz, guitar? Keyboard. Laptop. Microphone. Books.

CHRIS FUNKHOUSER is a poet, scholar, and multimedia artist. In 2009, the Associated Press commissioned him to prepare digital poems for the occasion of Barack Obama's inauguration. He is author of the documentary study, Prehistoric Digital Poetry: An Archaeology of Forms, 1959-1995, and an eBook (CD-ROM), Selections 2.0. He currently teaches at New Jersey Institute of Technology and University of Pennsylvania, is a Senior Editor at PennSound, a member of the scientific review committee of the digital literature journal regards crois?s (University of Paris 8), is on the Advisory Board of the Digital Poetry Archive of Canada, and is an External Collaborator with Ncleo de Ciberteatro, Insituto Politcnico do Porto (Portugal). Since 1986 he has been an editor with We Press, with whom he has produced poetry in a variety of media. A widely published author, he was Visiting Fulbright Scholar at Multimedia University in Cyberjaya, Malaysia (2006), on the summer writing program faculty of the Naropa University (2007), and is presently Digital Poet-in-Residence at Bowery Poetry Club (New York City).

ALAN SONDHEIM is our (all our) resident genius and provocateur. He is also an important artist, theorist, code-worker, poet, musician, choreographer, essayist, filmmaker, video-maker, performer and new-media innovator, who has been working tirelessly and prolifically and with astonishing results since before I was born. If youre lucky, you may be on one of his email lists, which are the primary way he distributes his writing and other work.

Sondheim has a new book of poetry out from Salt Press: DEEP LANGUAGE. Maria Damon says it tangles us up in these hypnotically repetitive, abject, slyly humorous and childishly gleeful, philosophically, aesthetically, theoretically and psychologically dense and insightful poems, that are also essays, diasporic riffs and incantations, true confessions, Platonic dialogues, shtick, tantrums, aphorisms and manifesti. John Cayley says he is one of the precious few who joyfully and in abject misery risks these terrors of writing for us, for our pleasure and our undoing. What happens? Language disposes of us.

↑ Index

211. Sharon Dolin

Fwd: Poetry Chapbook Reading Wednesday, September 29

Sun 26 Sep 2010

Dear Friends, Writers, Teachers,

Please see the announcement below. It should be a terrific evening!

Sharon

Sharon Dolin
[redacted]
www.sharondolin.com

> Having difficulty viewing this email? Click here.
>
> Don't miss out on autumn
> courses!
> Click here for course descriptions and to register!
>
> Alternatives to Type
> Learn how to fashion, handle, and print from movable type-high elements on the letterpress.
> With Bryan Baker
> October 2-3
>
> Crossed Structure & Secret Belgian Binding
> A two-day workshop in contemporary book structures based on pre-16th century bindings.
> With Emily Martin
> October 9-10
>
> Bookbinding I
> This core class will introduce students to the basic materials, techniques and history of bookbinding.
> With Shanna Yarbrough
> October 7-December 13
>
> Japanese Water-Based Woodblock Printing
> Create images using the ancient traditional Japanese Ukiyo-e style of printing by hand, still widely used in Japan today.
> With Takuji Hamanaka
> October 11-December 13
>
> Save The Date!
>
> Artist Talk:
> Catya Plate
>
> Wednesday, October 13, 6:30 p.m.
> Featured Artist Catya Plate discusses her newest work, Clothespin Tarot, a series of 78 watercolor and pencil drawings inspired by the traditional Tarot.
> $10/$5 CBA Members
> Suggested Donation
>
> ~

Center Broadsides Reading Series

Wednesday, October 20, 6:30 p.m.
Poets Alex Cuff and David Henderson will read their work. Organized by Lisa Jarnot.
$10/$5 CBA Members
Suggested Donation

Quick Links:

Browse our Upcoming Classes

Current Exhibitions
Opportunities
Online Calendar
Flickr
Facebook
Twitter
Blog

This Week:

Poetry Chapbook Reading

Wednesday, September 29, 6:30 p.m.

Join us for a reading celebrating the release of Alexander Long's limited-edition, artist-made chapbook Still Life, published as part of the Center for Book Arts' annual Poetry Chapbook program. This year's chapbook was letterpress printed and hand bound by Barbara Henry in an edition of 100. Also available will be a letterpress chapbook by Terrance Hayes, Between Ghosts, designed and produced by Amber McMillan in an edition of 100. In addition, the Center is producing three limited-edition broadsides of poems by Jennifer Perrine, Deborah Flanagan, and Hadara Bar-Nadav. The four poets will read their work, joined by series organizers Terrence Hayes and Sharon Dolin.

Alexander Long's manuscript was selected from a pool of 400 entries. Terrance

Hayes commented,"This imaginative collection had the wildly associative qualities of a poet bound to the past and present. His meditations on the likes of Malcolm X, Kafka and Lincoln combined the personal to the historical, the lyrical to the narrative. These poems made an immediate and enduring impression on me."

Where:
Center for Book Arts
28 West 27th Street, Third Floor
New York, New York 10001

Gallery Hours:
M-F 10am-6pm
Sat 10am-4pm

Suggested Admission:
$5 members/$10 non-members
Next Week:

Professional Development Workshop:
Find a Collaborator!
Artists and Writers Mixer

With Wennie Huang and Ed Go

Wednesday, October 6, 6:30pm

Have you ever wanted to work collaboratively? Are you looking for a new collaborator? Bring a piece of your visual or written work to this Professional Development Workshop to learn more about the collaborative process and meet other emerging artists and writers. Wennie Huang and Ed Go will discuss their collaboration, and we will experiment with short hands-on exercises.

Where:
Center for Book Arts
28 West 27th Street, Third Floor
New York, New York 10001

Suggested Admission:
$5 members/$10 non-members
Currently on View in our Galleries:

Ear to the Page

Ear to the Page explores the interaction between recordings and books, using three categories: sound works that reflect the structure and aesthetic of books; packages that thematically entail a book as well as a CD or vinyl record; and books that have a sound component or somehow serve to transcribe or document ideas that previously existed, or potentially can exist, as sound.

Artists/Musicians included in the exhibition are: Vito Acconci, Juan Arkotxa & Leslie Mackenzie, Bernard Baschet & Francois Baschet, Cathy Berberian & Eugenio Carmi, George Brecht, Inge Bruggeman & Hank Lazer, Jose Luis Castillejo, Jon Gibson, Kenneth Goldsmith, Grace Jones, Jennie C. Jones, Allan Kaprow, Dan Lander & Micah Lexier, Christian Marclay, Marshall McLuhan with Jerome Agel, Quentin Fiore, & John Simon, Michalis Pichler, Steve Roden, Allen Ruppersberg, Tate Shaw & Andrew Sallee, Masumi Shibata, Michael Snow, Jan van der Marck/Art by Telephone, and Dennis Yuen & Morry Galonoy. Organized by James Hoff and Alan Licht, Independent Curators.

Artist Talk: Wednesday, November 3, 6:30 pm

Featured Artist Project:
Catya Plate: Clothespin Tarot

This project comprises a series of original drawings and an artist book as well as an animated film. Since 2003 Plate has been working on a series of 78 watercolor and pencil drawings inspired by the 78 cards of the traditional tarot. Clothespins have always played a key role in Plate's work and in this exhibition they become Clothespin Freaks; figures who, made of clear plastic clothespins, doll's body parts and sewn pieces, are the real heroes in this subversive Tarot adventure. The installation features a new animated film, The Reading, which is a culminating artist project to this body of work.

Artist Talk: Wednesday, October 13, 6:30 pm

Featured Artist Project:
Barbara Tetenbaum and the Triangular Press: Recent Works
2010 Bishop Faculty Fellow

Every year the Center for Book Arts invites an artist/ instructor from outside of New York to teach a master class and to give a formal lecture in New York City. Barbara Tetenbaum, The Sally R. Bishop Master Faculty Fellow for 2010, has been printing artist books under the imprint, Triangular Press, since 1979. She is currently Professor and Department Head of Book Arts at Oregon College of Art & Craft in Portland, OR. She is the recipient of two Fulbright awards to teach in Leipzig, Germany and in Usti nad Labem in the Czech Republic, and has received other awards of support for her artwork and research. Her books are held in public collections in the U.S., Canada, England, France, Germany and the Netherlands. Her master class, Artist Book Strategies: Exploring Music and Musical Scores, will be held at the Center on November 19-21.

Artist Talk: Friday, November 19th , 6:30 pm

Where:
Center for Book Arts
28 West 27th Street, Third Floor
New York, New York 10001

Gallery Hours:
M-F 10am-6pm
Sat 10am-4pm

Admission: Free
Support the Center and receive great benefits...

Discounts on all Center for Book Arts classes
Reduced admission to the Center's public events, readings, and workshops
Discounts at select NYC art supply stores and the Center's bookstore
Receive course catalogues and special invitations to exclusive events
Membership starts at $50
Click here for more information and join today!

28 West 27th Street, Third Floor
New York, New York 10001
[redacted]
www.centerforbookarts.org

The Center's Visual Arts Program and related Public Programs are supported in part by the Lily Auchincloss Foundation, the Wolf Kahn & Emily Mason Foundation, and the Dedalus Foundation. Additional support for the Center's programs is provided in part by the Achelis Foundation, the Carnegie Corporation, the J.M. Kaplan Fund, the Milton and Sally Avery Arts Fund, the New York City Department of Cultural Affairs, the New York State Council on the Arts, and the Pine Tree Foundation of New York. Programs are also supported, in part, by public funds from the New York City Department of Cultural Affairs in partnership with the City Council. Support for the Center's Collections Initiative comes from the National Endowment for the Arts, the Institute of Museum and Library Services, the Max and Victoria Dreyfus Foundation, and the Gladys Krieble Delmas Foundation. Major funding for the Center's Capacity Building programs is provided by the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, the Robert Sterling Clark Foundation, the Hyde & Watson Foundation, and the New York Community Trust. Special support for the Center's Artist-in-Residence program has been provided by the Foundation for Contemporary Arts. The Center also acknowledges the generous support of its patrons and members.

> Forward email
>
> This email was sent to [redacted] by [redacted].
> Update Profile/Email Address | Instant removal with SafeUnsubscribe™ | Privacy Policy.
> Email Marketing by
>
> The Center for Book Arts | 28 West 27th Street | Third Floor | New York | NY | 10001

↑ Index

212. Alan Sondheim
Sweetness, the riff
Sun 26 Sep 2010

Sweetness

Chris Funkhouser and I were writing back and forth about riffs and I realize I rarely use them, at least not consciously, since they tend to repeat themselves uncomfortably; in any case, sweetness1 uses a riff one way or another for a little song; in sweetness2, the riff's dissolved, deconstructed, transformed, to no end, or one and another; just a little guitar music dealing with a "theme" of sorts, maybe time for a hit tune maybe.

http://espdisk.com/alansondheim/sweetness1.mp3
http://espdisk.com/alansondheim/sweetness2.mp3

↑ Index

213. Kimmelman, Burt
Marsh Hawk Press Fall Book Launch (Readings by Finkelstein, Morris et al.)
Mon 27 Sep 2010

Please join us for the Marsh Hawk Press Fall Book Launch featuring readings by Norman Finkelstein and other Marsh Hawk Press authors.

Thursday, October 14, 2010
6:00 PM to 8:00 PM

Ceres Gallery
547 W 27th St # 201, New York, NY
[redacted]

Refreshments in our usual abundant over-the-top style

Fall Books:

Inside the Ghost Factory<http://www.marshhawkpress.org/Finkelstein2.htm>

Norman Finkelstein

Inside the Ghost Factory finds Norman Finkelstein returning to his pre-Track fascination with the Coleridgean fancy, first delineated in Restless Messengers. Here, however, Samuel Coleridge meets William Gibson and the result is a retro- Blakean myth for the age of Text and Tweet. These transmissions from "elsewhere," manufactured on the assembly lines of "Ghosts, Incorporated. Poetry, Incorporated" (Limited, I might add), are gleefully dissected by Finkelstein as so much "clap-trap." Still, there's no correcting the blur of occultation and occlusion for the poet who believes "Books were made for secrets they cannot/keep: this is what it means to be/read."-Tyrone Williams If Not for the Courage<http://www.marshhawkpress.org/Morris2.htm> Daniel Morris Everyday life in the household and memory of Daniel Morris's suburban Jewish-professorpoet and father of toddlers has rarely been rendered with the energy, good humor, and luminous detail we meet in Daniel Morris's If Not for the Courage. These poems are at once hilarious and heart-breaking; they take us straight to the scene of the crime, allowing us to witness the most absurd and agonizingly funny moments of daily routine against the backdrop of unrelieved media blitz. The courage of Morris's title is evident throughout. -Marjorie Perloff

↑ Index

214. Rachel Loden

New Writing Series @ UCSD next Wednesday, October 6

Mon 27 Sep 2010

New Writing Series presents:

A reading by Rachel Loden

Wednesday, October 6

4:30 pm

Visual Arts Performance Space

UC San Diego

Free

Sponsored by the Dean, Arts & Humanities Division and the Department of Literature

http://literature.ucsd.edu/news/currentevents/writingseries.html

Rachel Loden is the author of Dick of the Dead (Ahsahta Press), a finalist for both the 2010 PEN USA Literary Award for Poetry and the California Book Award. It was also one of the three most-cited books in Attention Span 2009 ("a collectively-drawn map of the field"), landing on lists by Rae Armantrout and others. The Washington Post's "Poet's Choice" column featured a poem from the book and it has been called "oddly sublime" and "intoxicating" by the Poetry Project Newsletter and "expansive and whimsical" by the Brooklyn Rail. Loden's first book, Hotel Imperium (Georgia), won the Contemporary Poetry Series competition and was selected as one of the ten best poetry books of the year by the San Francisco Chronicle, which called it "quirky and beguiling." It was also short-listed for the Northern California Book Award. Loden has published four chapbooks, including The Last Campaign (which won the Hudson Valley Writers' Center chapbook competition) and The Richard Nixon Snow Globe (Wild Honey Press). Her work has appeared or is forthcoming in New American Writing, Lana Turner: A Journal of Poetry and Opinion, two editions of the Best American Poetry series, Western Wind: An Introduction to Poetry, and many other magazines and anthologies. Loden's microplay, "A Quaker Meeting in Yorba Linda," was performed in New York as part of Plays on Words: A Poets Theater Festival curated by Tony Torn, Lee Ann Brown and Corina Copp. She is the recipient of a Pushcart Prize, a Fellowship in Poetry from the California Arts Council, an &NOW Award, and a grant from the Fund for Poetry.

↑ Index

215. Mary Jo Malo
IMPROVISATIONS by Vernon Frazer now on Scribd
Mon 27 Sep 2010

Vernon,

A formatting achievement par excellence! What a wonderful opportunity for readers to access your spontaneous poetry, a nearly extinct form.

Mary Jo

--
http://thisshiningwound.blogspot.com/
http://apophisdeconstructingabsurdity.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

216. David Hadbawnik

habenicht press announces: CRASS SONGS OF SAND & BRINE by Micah Robbins

Mon 27 Sep 2010

I'm pleased to announce this new chapbook <http://habenichtpress.com/?p=523>by Micah Robbins, publisher of Interbirth Books<http://www.interbirthbooks.org/>.
Thanks to Micah, as well as to Richard Owens and Clifford Riley for helping design the cover.

"We are the kids in black — night-worn hangers-on tired and out of smokes
piss wasted — dead in the eye

watching shubie legs pump rusted pedals rattle hoary boards as they pass
the pavilion — ours taken in the night"

12pp. Letter-press cover designed by Richard Owens and Clifton Riley. Hand-sewn. Habenicht Press, 2010. $7 plus shipping.

↑ Index

217. Scott Howard

RECONFIGURATIONS: Call for Submissions (Special Feature / Graphic Non-Fiction)

Mon 27 Sep 2010

RECONFIGURATIONS: A Journal for Poetics & Poetry / Literature & Culture, ISSN: 1938-3592,
http://reconfigurations.blogspot.com/

Volume 4: Special Feature / Graphic Non-Fiction
Submissions: September thru October, 2010
Publication: November, 2010

Guidelines: Volume four of Reconfigurations, http://reconfigurations.blogspot.com/, seeks a variety of works for a special feature concerning graphic non-fiction. Marshall McLuhan's "Understanding Media" describes comics as a "cool media," where the tension between medium and message is key. That notion seems especially relevant to graphic non-fiction, where the desire to 'report' often collides with visual expression: the result being a work that demands intense reader participation and interpretation, thus calling attention to the author's choice to work within the comics form.

Reconfigurations seeks essays that explore this tension within the medium, art, and/or texts of graphic nonfiction (such as memoir, history, reports, journalism, travel writing).

Reconfigurations, ISSN: 1938-3592, http://reconfigurations.blogspot.com/, is an electronic, peer-reviewed, international, annual journal for poetics and poetry, creative and scholarly writing, innovative and traditional concerns with literary arts and cultural studies. Reconfigurations publishes under a Creative Commons 3.0 open-access license, is MLA indexed, EBSCO distributed and independently managed.

Electronic Submissions: [redacted]. Submissions should be attached as a single .doc, .rtf, or .txt file. Visuals should be attached individually as .jpg, .gif or .bmp files. Please include the words "Special Feature (Graphic Non-Fiction)" in the subject line of your message.

///

↑ Index

218. Micah Robbins
»SOUS LES PAVÉS« vol.1 no.1
Mon 27 Sep 2010

»SOUS LES PAVÉS« is a FREE bi-monthly newsletter of ideation and poetry distributed by mailing list only & funded by the generous donations of its readers.

To join the mailing list & to donate visit »SOUS LES PAVÉS« at http://interbirthbooks.com/?page_id=161 or write Micah Robbins | 3515 Fairview Ave. | Dallas, TX 75223 ~ [redacted]

Vol.1 No.1 includes work by The Rejection Group, Richard Owens, Edmond Caldwell, Linh Dinh, Lisa Burdige, David Hadbawnik, Micah Robbins, Gene Tanta, Brenda Iijima, and Brooks Johnson.

Please support this effort by donating & joining the growing list of recipients . . .

↑ Index

219. Stephen Vincent
Ken Edwards & Ken Edwards & Myung Mi Kim in San Francisco
Mon 27 Sep 2010

Ken Edwards & Myung Mi Kim gave phenomenal readings this past Saturday night for the SF State Poetry Center at the Meridian Gallery. Amazing (& not improbable) how the remains of war (England/WW II & Korea/American) keep poking their shards up into a memoried & active present. Interesting, or the persuasion of poetry to make the shard penetrate the consciousness much more pointedly (memorably) (convincingly) than prose of a more detached/abstracted order. Kudos. Stephen V http://stephenvincent.net/blog/

↑ Index

220. Chris Chapman

Re: language and poetry after godel and turing

Mon 27 Sep 2010

---

derrida does borrow another word from the construction industry - subjectile. it refers to a surface before it is painted. if you do a google search you'll find it used to describe priming, sanding, and finishing products in the french dry-wall trades.

On Sat, Sep 25, 2010 at 7:23 PM, michael farrell <[redacted]>wrote:

> does poetry need anything?
>
> i could say poetry needs to be more like blondie - but thats really my need
> -
>
> Date: Fri, 24 Sep 2010 12:08:06 -0700
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
> To: [redacted]
>
> interesting.
> but i'm wary of the word forefront.
> does poetry necessarily need to be ... there.
>
> i'm happy to see it in the bleachers,
> or with the cheerleaders.
>
> really, i may have to re/read the esher/bach/GOD-el thing.
> occassionally, it's fun to actually have something of a clue,or sort of
> know what i'm talking about. which, in my book, means ... Witt vs. Godel:
> it's a tie.
>
> --- On Thu, 9/23/10, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Thursday, September 23, 2010, 3:43 AM

language and poetry after godel and turing.

but, in poetry circles, godel and turing just do not compute, as you see in the responses to this thread, which dealt with derrida, not godel and turing.

and this is one of the reasons why poetry itself is isolated.

poetry, these days, needs to be an umbrella term for deep concerns of language and art cross-stitched amongs many fields and modes of perception/reception. for instance, the role of language in contemporary mathematical logic is of philosophical significance and also has turned out to be of very practical significance in that the work of godel and turing led to the creation of the computer, that universal number+language machine.

the philosophical underpinnings of the poetics of computation, of computer art, can be strongly linked with the work of godel and turing and its consequences concerning language, epistemology, philosophy of mind, and the multimedial/intermedial.

poetry needs to be able to travel at the forefront of any field.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

221. Mark Weiss
Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
Mon 27 Sep 2010

To say that "Poetry is one of the fields that can use those energies expressively, innovatively, in a way that captures the contemporary, and furthers our understanding of what is happening to language(s) and us via computing" is far different than proposing a "poetics of computation." The latter reduces the concept of poetics to nonsense. There are things in the world that are simply different from each other.

At 05:13 PM 9/25/2010, you wrote:
>>"the philosophical underpinnings of the poetics of computation, of computer >>art, can be strongly linked with the work of godel and turing and its >>consequences concerning language, epistemology, philosophy of mind, and
the >>multimedial/intermedial."
>>
>>As far as I can see, all you are saying here is that poetry is not poetry >>unless related to Godel and Turing's work.
>
>I would hope you're the only one who reads it >that way, Murat. Cuz that's not what I said.
>But, by now, how could I be surprised by your >reading it that way, considering that you've >also said that computer art is fascistic and >that computers are to blame for the economic >collapse. Computers, computer art, and,
>possibly, computer artists seem to freak you >out. I find it hard to talk with you about these >things cuz yer always jumping to this sort of conclusion.
>
>What I was saying is this. The work of Godel and >Turing is fundamental to the poetics of >computation and computer art and the >multimedial/intermedial because it is >fundamental to the theory of computation; and >the theory of computation is concerned with >exploring the theoretical capabilities and limitations of computing machines.
>
>Turing invented the 'Turing machine', the
>'abstract machine', the mathematical model of a >computing machine, to show that there are some >tasks that no computing machine can ever carry >out. In other words, he invented the modern >computer to show that it has certain >limitations. As opposed to inventing it to get >it to do stuff that couldn't be done otherwise.
>Which, to me, is the sort of poetical thing that >we see time and again in Godel's and Turing's work.

>
>>That's quite a bit of a tall
>>order, don't you think, though I can understand their potential or realized >>importance in some kind of poetry.
>>
>>"poetry needs to be able to travel at the forefront of any field."
>>
>>What does also this sentence mean, that poetry should become a kind of >>supermench, the way opera was for Wagner?
>
>Supermench? No. When we look at the impact of >computing on language, we can talk about it in >many ways, can concentrate on different things.
>The way, for instance, that the net crosses X
>with Y, brings ideas into contact with one >another, and, consequently, the languages >associated with those ideas. Or the way it >brings media into contact with one another, by >being capable of representing all sorts of >different media all on the same screen or in the >same machine; and, consequently, brings the >languages both of and about those media into >contact with one another. Or the way it brings >people into contact with one another, being >capable of representing communication >channels (such as telephone) as well as >traditional media like print, recorded sound, and video/TV, etc.
>
>The impact of computing on language is in all >sorts of cross-fertilization of language X with >language Y, whether the languages are natural or other types of languages.
>
>Poetry is one of the fields that can use those >energies expressively, innovatively, in a way >that captures the contemporary, and furthers our >understanding of what is happening to language(s) and us via computing.
>
>ja
>http://vispo.com

New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
$16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm

"What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the poet alive in every sense of the word, and through every one of his senses. Instead of missing a beat or a part, Weiss' fragments are like Chekhov's short storiesthe more that gets left out, the more they seem to contain… One can hear echoes from all the various ancestors...[but] the voice, at its center, its core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment is both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure musical threnody…[it] opens a window, not only into a mind, but a person, a personality, this human figure at the emotional center of the poem."

M.G. Stephens, in Jacket.
http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml

↑ Index

222. Russ Golata
: For Immediate Release
Mon 27 Sep 2010

Â
Creative Spirit Festival
Bamboo Arts Center, De Leon Springs,Â Friday Oct. 16 Noon
Â
News Release
For Immediate Use
Â
Contact: Gary Broughman, [redacted]
Â
The Orlando Poetry Ensemble will be among the musical and spoken word performers on stage Saturday, Oct. 16 at the Creative Spirit Festival near De Leon Springs in Volusia County. Admission is free.
Â
Some of Central Floridaâ€™s best known talent will gather at Bamboo Arts, a nonprofit celebration center, in a tribute to the creative and artistic spirit.
All performances will be original material.
Â
Musical groups include ElectricChurchâ€™s Matt and Mary of New Smyrna Beach, Treblehawk from Ocala, Daytonaâ€™s Park-O-Lators, and DeLandâ€™s BluesGotUs.

Professional storytellers Susan Oâ€™Hara of Brevard County and Cheryl Floyd of DeLand will join a list of performing poets which includes the Orlando PoetryÂ Ensemble, Russ Golata who's work has beenÂ featured in Autum Leaves, Big Bridge among others,Â and FerlinguiÂ Â and Darlyn Finch, whose work was highlighted on Garrison Keillorâ€™s national radio show, Writerâ€™s Almanac.
Â
The family friendly event runs from noon to 8 p.m., climaxing with a bonfire and drum circle at 7 p.m. The Kidâ€™s Zone includes games, prizes and face painting.
Â
Described as â€œa day in a higher dimension,â€ the outdoor event also will feature psychic readings and healings, massage, kayaking on Cave Lake, and vendors offering handcrafted jewelry, mystic crystals, and more. The Kidâ€™s Zone will host a variety of childrenâ€™s games.
Â Bamboo Arts is a Florida nonprofit focused on spirituality, creativity and sustainable living. The Center includes an organic garden and regularly schedules workshops on growing in the Florida climate. Gardener Chris Baker will be on hand at the festival to provide garden tours, and organic plant starts.
Â
Healthy wraps, sandwiches, smoothies and non-alcoholic drinks will be available throughout the day. Bamboo Arts and Celebration Center is located seven miles north of DeLand at 4490 Cave Lake Road, De Leon Springs. For more information on the festival schedule, a map, and a list of coming events, visit www.bambooartscenter.com, or call [redacted]

↑ Index

223. Sarah Rosenthal

Gala Launch: A Community Writing Itself

Tue 28 Sep 2010

You are invited to a gala launch for:

A Community Writing Itself: Conversations with Vanguard Writers of the Bay Area Edited by Sarah Rosenthal (Dalkey Achive, 2010)

When: Saturday October 9, 2010 â€“ 7:30pm

Where:
Small Press Traffic at the California College of the Arts
Timken Lecture Hall, 1111 â€“ 8th Street, SF, CA 94107
http://smallpresstraffic.org/directions

Who:
Kathleen Fraser, Robert GlÃ¼ck, Michael Palmer, Camille Roy, Sarah Rosenthal, & Elizabeth Treadwell reading for Leslie Scalapino

What:
Readings by authors featured in the book
Q&A with audience members*
Wine, nonalcoholic beverages, and desserts
$5-10; members free

*You are invited to bring your own questions for Kathleen, Robert, Michael, and Camille, about any aspect of their work. Below please find a (not exhaustive!) list of links in case that's helpful as a starting point.

More about the project: http://www.dalkeyarchive.com/book/?GCOI=15647100098560

Kathleen Fraser:
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Kathleen_Fraser http://epc.buffalo.edu/authors/fraser/http://www.woodlandpattern.org/poems/kathleen_fraser01.shtml http://www.literaryhistory.com/20thC/Fraser.htm http://poemtalkatkwh.blogspot.com/2009/01/cant-stop-cars-poemtalk-13.html http://www.studiocleo.com/cauldron/volume4/contents/index.html
http://jacketmagazine.com/31/lett-prit-fras.html
http://jacketmagazine.com/25/guest-iv.html

Michael Palmer:
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Michael_Palmer
http://www.poets.org/poet.php/prmPID/98
http://www.english.illinois.edu/maps/poets/m_r/palmer/palmer.htm
http://www.poemhunter.com/michael-palmer/http://jjgallaher.blogspot.com/2006/09/michael-palmers-poetry_07.html http://archjournal.wustl.edu/node/36 http://www.stmarys-ca.edu/external/Mary/archive/Mary_spring2003/interviews/palmer.htm

http://www.poetryfoundation.org/archive/poem.html?id=181659
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=X0ilP2PX7rA

Camille Roy:
http://www.shampoopoetry.com/ShampooTwentytwo/roy.html
http://www.shampoopoetry.com/ShampooTwentynine/roy.html
http://www.sfsu.edu/~poetry/narrativity/issue_two/quotes_Camille.html http://chax.org/eoagh/issue3/issuethree/roy.html
http://www.asu.edu/pipercwcenter/how2journal/archive/online_archive/v1_2_1999/current/forum/forum.html http://blogs.salon.com/0001600/
http://www.cca.edu/calendar/1174

Robert GlÃ¼ck:
http://writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/x/Gluck.php
http://www.sfsu.edu/~newlit/narrativity/issue_one/gluck.html
http://denniscooper-theweaklings.blogspot.com/2010/08/spotlight-on-robert-gluck-jack.html http://www.raintaxi.com/online/2004spring/gluck.shtml
http://www.dipity.com/timetube/YouTube_Graphic_Narrative_Storytelling/list http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/New_Narrative

↑ Index

224. George Bowering
Re: Olson query
Tue 28 Sep 2010

Ralph Maud

On Sep 25, 2010, at 12:11 PM, Margaret Konkol wrote:

> Hey Ric,
>
> I believe Ralph Maude is working on a collection of Olson's unpublished late > works.
>
> Cheers,
> Margaret
>
> On Thu, Sep 23, 2010 at 9:57 AM, Carfagna, Richard <
> [redacted]> wrote:
>
> Hi,
> I was wondering if anyone knows who took over the official scholarship

> of
> Charles Olson after the death of George Butterick?
>
> Also, what with the release in the past couple of year of the > Daybooks
> of Oppen
> and the collected Notebooks of Frost, does anyone know of plans to > mine
> the Olson
> collection at Storrs to produce a similar type of tome?
>
> Thanks,
> Ric
>
> guidelines
>
> welcome.html

George Bowering

Hiyo, Aluminum, away!

↑ Index

225. Jim Andrews
Recent on Netartery
Tue 28 Sep 2010

Recent on http://netartery.vispo.com ,
Netartery, writers gone wrong

AMY WINEHOUSE LINKS
http://netartery.vispo.com/?p=371
Links to several videos of songs by, compilation interviews with, and articles about the voice.

NIGHTINGALE'S PLAYGROUND http://netartery.vispo.com/?p=373
Nightingale's Playground is an ambitious online work of digital fiction by Andy Campbell divided into four interlinked parts: an atmospheric browser based experience; an interactive virtual book with pages you can turn with the mouse; a short eBook download; and an immersive 3D game-like application that takes the written word into strange new dimensions.

INSTANT POETRY PATENTS
http://netartery.vispo.com/?p=342
David Jhave Johnston on an idea in algorithmic poetry.

SIGN AFTER THE X
http://netartery.vispo.com/?p=329
A review of a new work of net art by David Clark, author of 'A is for Apple' and '88 Constellations for Wittgenstein'.

SUFFEROSA, AN "INTERACTIVE MOVIE"
http://netartery.vispo.com/?p=317
Links to a new online work by Dawid Marcinkowski, and interesting comments on related work by Toni Dove.

AUNTIE GEORGIE
http://netartery.vispo.com/?p=311
Link to an online photo memorial to Jim Andrews's aunt, and writing about her life and work as a "ballsy banker with soul."

ja
Sept 28/2010

↑ Index

226. Eric Weinstein Tolides! Chang! Weinstein! Reading in Brooklyn
Tue 28 Sep 2010

Hi all,

Just a reminder that Tryfon Tolides <http://www.tryfontolides.com/>, Leslie C. Chang <http://www.fordhampress.com/detail.html?id=9780823232000>, & I<http://www.pw.org/content/eric_weinstein>will be reading this Thursday<http://chinmusicpoetry.blogspot.com/2010/09/tryfon-tolides-leslie-c-chang-and-eric.html>, 9/30 at 7:00 PM at Pacific Standard Bar<http://www.pacificstandardbrooklyn.com/>(map here<http://maps.google.com/maps?oe=UTF-8&ie=UTF8&q=pacific+standard+bar&fb=1&gl=us&hq=pacific+standard+bar&hnear=New+York,+NY&cid=0,0,15901018951695438005&ei=iCKiTJf8EIKBlAf06si3BA&ved=0CCAQnwIwAQ&ll=40.683193,-73.98026&spn=0.007973,0.013754&z=16&iwloc=A>) as part of the Chin Music Reading Series<http://chinmusicpoetry.blogspot.com/>. It's close to the B/D, N/Q/R, 2/3 and 4/5 trains, so if you're anywhere nearby, I'd be delighted if you could make it.

Thanks & all best,

Eric

↑ Index

227. steve russell
The Ugh/liest lango poet in D.C.
Tue 28 Sep 2010

Sos I'm there for the reading at Bridge Street Books doing my Outsider thing, it's a week since Bernstein has read & D Buck Chopra, aka, Buck Downs, makes his untimely appearance looking something akin to a Baptist minister in his slick brown loafers, his pink polo shirt & that off white, red striped, droopy Brooks Brothers tie. Is that the real Buck Downs, the so-called (see Rod Smith) legend?

& there's Ellen Myles (spelling???), doing her lesbian thing, looking good in that brown pant suit thing she's wearing, and, to my near astonishment, the internationally known poet is not signing, no one is asking her for her autograph, and we're all seated anxiously awaiting what????

(do people really enjoy poetry readings, or is it another "art" appreciation thing?)

in any event

the main event

is about to commence

when

when

when

The Gong

(that near to death/death experience sounds)

& we're now Tibetian monks
& the festivities begin

& the moral of this little tale concerning the relevant in contemporary poetry is Simply Point.

↑ Index

228. Nate Pritts
BIG BRIGHT SUN
Tue 28 Sep 2010

Hey all!

I'm excited to say that my new book, BIG BRIGHT SUN, is out from BlazeVOX Books! I hope you'll consider getting a copy - you can order it through

BlazeVOX or Amazon or from me directly for only $10 (with no shipping; instead of $16!) by following this link:

http://www.h-ngm-n.com/books

Anthony McCann said :: In these poems the world comes true. And how! All this sky glued to the trees and the world surface by the resin of sun-soaked American speech! You can feel this book poised listening to itself and all the light, sound, thought and feeling passing through it.

Thanks so much for your support,

Nate

_____

:: Dr. Nate Pritts

:: http://www.natepritts.com

↑ Index

229. Dan Godston
bicycles and the arts
Tue 28 Sep 2010

Bicycles and the Arts

Friday, October 1, 2010 (8 p.m.)

Happy Dog Gallery

1542 N. Milwaukee Ave., 2nd floor

Chicago, IL 60622

You are invited to attend “Bicycles and the Arts,” a multidisciplinary event that happens during the Fifth Annual Chicago Calling Arts Festival and Chicago Artists Month. "Bicycles and the Arts" creatively explores connections between these two vital elements of culture and society --

* "Wheels on the Ground and in the Sky," a group exhibition with paintings, sculptures, and videos -- models of multi-functional bike racks by Andrew DelaRosa and John Bambino; photographs by Janina Ciezadlo; a painting by Alpha Bruton; a bike-book sculpture by Regin Ingloria; a sculpture by Matt Weber; "Pigeon-toed About Homage" by Catie Olson, which is inspired by Jean Tinguely’s "Homage to New York"; a video of Rob Frye’s recent FLUX Bike ride in Los Angeles; and "Bikes Make the World Go ‘Round," an interactive kinetic sculpture presented by Working Bikes Cooperative;

* John Greenfield reads from his new book "Bars Across America: Drinking and Biking from Coast to Coast";

* Chicago Underground Library presents a Pop Up Library;

* a musical ensemble performs -- Derek Repsch (electronics and amplified bicycle), Andrew Royal (violin), Jon Godston (soprano saxophone), Robin Boudreaux (tenor saxophone), Dan Godston (trumpet), Alex Wing (guitar), and Jimmy Bennington (drums) -- including a telematic performance with an ensemble in Detroit and an homage to Frank Zappa's 1963 appearance on The Steve Allen Show (when Zappa taught Allen how to play a bicycle and the Steve Allen Orchestra performed with the musical bicycles);

* conversations with bicycle groups in other communities across the U.S. via skype, including Spearfish Bike Cooperative (Spearfish, SD) and the New Orleans Community Bike Project;

* images and sounds of projects by U.S. and international artists and organizations are presented -- sounds by Emeka Ogboh (Lagos, Nigeria), and images from a recent exhibition about bicycle culture at the Museum of Copenhagen, and those by Ultra Grøn (Copenhagen) and Cay Brøndum (Copenhagen).

"Bicycles and the Arts" involves partnerships with the Active Transportation Alliance, Copenhagen Cyclery, Working Bikes Cooperative, and the League of Illinois Bicyclists. We would also like to thank the Copenhagen Center for Traffic for their help.

$7 suggested donation, all ages and open to the public.

www.chicagocalling.org

↑ Index

230. Jennifer Karmin
Oct 2: Mommy! Mommy! reading in LA
Wed 29 Sep 2010

Featuring:
Cara Be Mommy!Â Mommy!
7:30pm Saturday, October 2

Featuring:
Cara Benson
Sean Griffin
Jennifer Karmin
Kate Zambreno

at Pieter (Performance Art Space DANCE)
420 W Ave 33, #10

Los Angeles, CA (Lincoln Heights)
http://www.pieterpasd.com

Mommy! Mommy! presents
â€œMommy, I'm Sorryâ€ Forgiven, forgiven
http://mommymommyreadingseries.blogspot.com

Door at 7:30.
Show at 8.
Event is Free.
Please bring non-monetary contribution like liquor or something for them to provide guests at shows or like clothing to put in their clothing exchange shop.

CARA BENSON is author of a book of interconnected pre-elegaic prose poems for humans animals plants and earth called (made). Her book length poetic meditation on historical, biological, and cosmological evolution, Protean Parade, is due out from Black Radish Books early 2011. Benson teaches poetry in a NY State Prison and edits the online text and art journal Sous Rature.

SEAN GRIFFIN, composer and interdisciplinary artist, lives and works in Los Angeles. He has developed compositional and interdisciplinary methodologies positioned at the intersection of sound and performance, creating large and small-scale concert works, collaborative sound and video installations, and film scores. His works have been presented by Los Angeles' REDCAT, the Armand Hammer Museum, June in Buffalo, Berlin's VolksbÃ¼hne, Secession Vienna, London's Royal Academy and the Tate Modern, Festival d'Avignon, Taipei City Arts Festival, Walker Art Center, and Centre Pompidou. His current work addresses scripting rhythmic regimentation and conflicting behaviors in performances by instrumentalists, vocalists, and actors in a large-scale event called Cold Spring at EMPAC this year. He holds a Ph.D. from the University of California at San Diego.

JENNIFER KARMIN's text-sound epic, Aaaaaaaaaaalice, was published by Flim Forum Press in 2010. She curates the Red Rover Series and is co-founder of the public art group Anti Gravity Surprise.Â Her multidisciplinary projects have been presented at festivals, artist-run spaces, community centers, and on city streets across the U.S., Japan, and Kenya. A proud member of the Dusie Kollektiv, she is the author of the Dusie chapbook Evacuated: Disembodying Katrina. Walking Poem, a collaborative street project, is featured online at How2.Â In Chicago, Jennifer teaches creative writing to immigrants at Truman College and works as a Poet-in-Residence for the public schools.

KATE ZAMBRENO's first published novel, O Fallen Angel, won Chiasmus Press' "Undoing the Novel - First Book Contest" and was published in April. She writes the literary blog Frances Farmer Is My Sister , which will inspire a collection of essays to be published by Semiotext(e)'s Active Agents series in Fall 2011. She is the prose editor of Nightboat Books, and recently curated July for Everyday Genius.

↑ Index

231. Jim Andrews
Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
Wed 29 Sep 2010

From: "Mark Weiss":
> To say that "Poetry is one of the fields that can use those energies expressively, innovatively, in a way that captures the contemporary, and furthers our understanding of what is happening to language(s) and us via computing" is far different than proposing a "poetics of computation." The latter reduces the concept of poetics to nonsense. There are things in the world that are simply different from each other.

How does the notion of poetics of computation "reduce the concept of poetics to nonsense", Mark?

The notion of poetics of computation is certainly involved in philosophies or poetics of computer art. Because what distinguishes computer art from other types of art is a consequence of the computational capabilities of computers, capabilities that aren't shared with other media or machines.

'Computer poetry', or whatever we call poetry that's specific to computing media, is a type of computer art. Consequently, poetics of computation is relevant to 'computer poetry'.

But, more generally, I think poetics of computation are relevant, in a literary context, beyond poetry that's specific to computing media. Because even if we're not making art that's specific to computing media, we're interested in the special characteristics and properties of media that we work with. Just like we're interested in philosophies that grow out of those characteristics and properties.

Here's a very concrete example of how the theory of computation can be of use in art and, therefore, to poetics of computation.

I remember reading someone quite well-known in computer poetry and media art say that no machine can re-write its own code. But this is false. Computers certainly are capable, given the appropriate programming, of re-writing their own code. The writer perpetually came across as thinking that computers are glorified typewriters or glorified tvs or stereos and so forth. In other words, he came across as thinking that computers are glorified traditional media devices. Now, if that's what somebody thinks, then their expectations, concerning digital art, are going to be 'more of the same'. More traditional art, just a bit different in gadgetry. However, properly understood--and the theory of computation is very useful to a proper understanding--computers are very far beyond simply being traditional media devices in a different guise. They are radically flexible machines, are flexible to the point that they can rewrite their own code, and there is no proof and probably never will be that there exist thought processes of which humans are capable and computers are not. In other words, computers are likely, in theory, as flexible as thought itself. This sort of understanding makes for higher expectations concerning computer art.

And surely also involve something we might describe as poetics of computation.

ja
http://vispo.com
Sept 29, 2010

↑ Index

232. Jeffrey Side
Mark Young interviewed by Sheila E. Murphy at The Argotist Online
Wed 29 Sep 2010

Mark Young interviewed by Sheila E. Murphy at The Argotist Online:
http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Young%20interview.htm

Excerpt:

Sheila E. Murphy: Your organizational and educational experiences seem to have contributed in a wide variety of ways, bringing on an artistic version of â€œdeferred compensation.â€ Given your strong familiarity with the corporate world, the university environment, and the artistic sphere, please share your views on the possibility of bringing a wider range of people to poetry. Is this a fantasy, or is it possible in our current time?

Mark Young: Let me go out on a limb here & say I believe we have already exceeded the upper limits of the poetic macrocosm, but because there are no regulations or restrictions, no fire marshalls standing at the entrances counting the numbers going in, it's going to keep on growing. For a while, anyway.

Why has it grown so much? Population growth, obviously. More people, more poets. A world made smaller by technology, & with English the lingua franca we are now seeing Indian & Chinese & Ghanian poets writing in a second language as part of the everyday offerings. The exponential growth of publishing methodology which means more books, more cheaply. More magazinesâ€”duotrope's digest has around 3000 outlets listed. The growth of MFA programs in creative writingâ€”this is going to be one of the first areas to go belly up. It's simple economics. People in these programs are trained only to become teachers of MFA programs in creative writing programs; there will soon beâ€”if there isn't alreadyâ€”an oversupply of teachers; demand for the programs will drop off because there's no guarantee of a job on the other side; & bums on seats is the guiding principle of academia these days.

So it may seem we have opposing points of view, you wanting to bring more people, me saying there are already too many. But I think we both have caveats attached, qualifiers perhaps; & what we're both moving towards is how do we attract more peopleâ€”whether already in the macrocosm or still to comeâ€”to the type of poetry we care about, to that part of it we both adhere to.

Let me step outside the sphere of poetics for a moment & quote from a book that is a cornerstone of my library, Thomas Kuhn's The Structure of Scientific Revolutions. In it Kuhn puts forward his beliefs as to why certain bodies of thought, often exemplified by specific texts, provided the impetus to change the way particular fields of science were pursued, the way what he called "paradigm shifts" came about:

They were able to do so because they shared two essential characteristics. Their achievement was sufficiently unprecedented to attract an enduring group of adherents away from competing modes of scientific activity. Simultaneously, it was sufficiently open-ended to leave all sorts of problems for the redefined group of practitioners to resolve.

I'll explain why I think Kuhn is relevant. To me, poetics, like politics, has a reasonably revolutionary left wing & a conservative right. &, again like politics, it is the left that is full of schisms. Yet the left wing has a history as strong as that that the right professes to. But these days its impact is diminished because it's splintered. I have fairly eclectic & wide-ranging tastes, but when I came back to poetry I found that if I wanted to read one group of poets I liked I had to go here, & if I wanted to read another group I had to go there, & another elsewhere, & if I wanted to see/read vispo, then I had to go searching in 100 places. & yet they're all essentially related even though sometimes the bloodlines are denied.

Back to Kuhn. We have the "enduring group of adherents"; we have the open-endedness; what we don't have is a sense of the commonality that actually does exist even though many practioners spend a deal of time turning the minor differences into unbridgeable chasms. Somehow we have to bring things back together again, to show the breadth & the strength of the left even if the house has many mansions. I think that by doing that we will attract a wider & better-informed audience. It's what I've tried to do with Otoliths. [â€¦] I think I am succeeding in bringing things back together again, to show the breadth & the strength of the left even if the house has many mansions.

↑ Index

233. Aldon Nielsen

Fwd: Celebrating African American Literature - CFP

Wed 29 Sep 2010

---

*Celebrating African American Literature: *

*Race, Sexual Identity, and African American Literature *

*September 30-October 1, 2011 *

*Penn StateUniversity *

*Nittany Lion Inn *

Join us for the next in our series of conferences Celebrating African American Literature, which will focus on representations of race and sexual identity throughout the history of the tradition. Confirmed speakers and presenters include

*Sharon Bridgforth *

http://www.afterellen.com/people/2008/6/sharonbridgforth<http://www.afterellen.com/people/2008/6/sharonbridgforth> * *

Marci Blackman http://www.marciblackman.com/<http://www.marciblackman.com/> * *

Thomas Glave http://thomasglave.com/ <http://thomasglave.com/>* *

Duriel Harris http://www.stlawu.edu/diverse/profiles/harris.html<http://www.stlawu.edu/diverse/profiles/harris.html>

Trudier Harris http://englishcomplit.unc.edu/people/harrist<http://englishcomplit.unc.edu/people/harrist>

G. Winston James  http://gaylife.about.com/b/2010/03/31/shaming-the-devil.htm<http://gaylife.about.com/b/2010/03/31/shaming-the-devil.htm>
* *

E. Patrick Johnson http://www.epatrickjohnson.com/

Randall Kenan http://englishcomplit.unc.edu/people/kenanr<http://englishcomplit.unc.edu/people/kenanr>

*Charles I. Nero
http://www.bates.edu/x51736.xml*<http://www.bates.edu/x51736.xml>

*Robert Reid-Pharr **
http://www.gc.cuny.edu/faculty/new_faculty/reidpharr.htm*<http://www.gc.cuny.edu/faculty/new_faculty/reidpharr.htm>

We invite paper, panel, and roundtable proposals on theoretical, critical, or pedagogical approaches to texts, topics, and authors, including any of the following:

LGBTQ Literature across histories and genres; Race and Sexual Identity; Interraciality and Same Sex Desire; Masculinity; Community; Sexuality, Desire, and The Harlem Renaissance; Homophobic Expressions; Critiques of Heteronormativity; Intersectionality; Transnational Implications; Comedy; Nationalism, Sexuality and The Black Arts Movement;* *James Baldwin; Richard Bruce Nugent; Marci Blackman; Ann Allen Shockley; Audre Lorde; E. Lynn Harris; Owen Dodson; Michelle Cliff; Cheryl Clarke, Alexis DeVeaux, Melvin Dixon, Thomas Glave; Shay Youngblood, April Sinclair; Alice Moore Dunbar Nelson; Gloria Naylor; James Earl Hardy; Gayl Jones; Wallace Thurman; G. Winston James; Brian Keith Jackson; Samuel R. Delaney; Helen Elaine Lee; Sharon Bridgforth; Jewelle Gomez; Jacqueline Woodson; Alice Walker; June Jordan; Carolivia Herron; Sapphire; Thomas Glave, and others.

*A PSU Outreach event sponsored by the College of the Liberal Arts, the Africana Research Center, the Department of English, the Equal Opportunity Planning Committee, the Institute for the Arts and Humanities, Kelly Family Professor Aldon Nielsen, and the African American Literature and Culture Society. *

*Submit abstracts at *[redacted]<https://webmail.psu.edu/webmail/blankIe.html> *by February 5, 2011. Email notifications will be sent by April 1, 2011. Conference presenters must register by August 15, 2011. *

Submit questions about website/travel/lodging/directions to [redacted]<https://webmail.psu.edu/webmail/blankIe.html>

Submit questions about proposals and abstracts to Shirley Moody ([redacted] <https://webmail.psu.edu/webmail/blankIe.html>) or Lovalerie King ([redacted] <https://webmail.psu.edu/webmail/blankIe.html>)

--
Aldon L. Nielsen
Kelly Professor of American Literature
Department of English
117 Burrowes Building
The Pennsylvania State University

University Park, PA
16802-6200

[redacted]

sailing the blogosphere at http://heatstrings.blogspot.com

"kindling his mind (more
than his mind will kindle)"

--William Carlos Williams, early adopter

↑ Index

234. ART ELECTRONICS

Invitation sguardi sonori 2010 + infinite spaces

Wed 29 Sep 2010

INFINITE SPACES Exhibition - WAITING FOR YOU ALL ON OCTOBER 9 2010 IN ROMA! Dear friends, Join me at the Opening of the exhibition "Infinite Spaces" at Museo della Civiltà Romana in Rome, on October 9 at 5:00 PM (the exhibition will last until October 30 2010). I will present in this context my new installation "Aliens Safari": 75 photos, digital elaborations, graphics, frames from video, and poetry on aluminum, dedicated to the infinite spaces of Kenya, for giving you a great experience of air, green, clouds, wind, velocity, savage nature, this is poetry! "The First Poetry Space Shuttle Landing on Second Life" (digital video, 2010) will be featured in the same context, in the video art festival "Sguardi Sonori 2010". Curators: Carlo Fatigoni, Sandro Cecchi and Faticart Cultural Association.

Caterina Davinio
::
Web: http://xoomer.virgilio.it/cprezi/caterinadav.html

_____
More:
http://xoomer.alice.it/kareninazoom/daviniobook.htm (En)
Archeo Computer-Poetry http://www.youtube.com/CaterinaDav

↑ Index

235. Sharon Mesmer/David Borchart

Michael Gizzi

Wed 29 Sep 2010

Does anyone have any details regarding the death of Michael Gizzi, aside from: http://writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/

??

x, Sharon Mesmer

↑ Index

236. Mark Weiss
Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
Wed 29 Sep 2010

My comment was about use of language, not about use of computers.

You seem to think that the words poetics, philosophy and theory are interchangeable. They're not.

Moveable type and paper, together and separately, created possibilities for poetry that hadn't existed before. Is there a poetics of paper? A poetics of type? Does calling it in either case a poetics explain anything?

At 04:08 AM 9/29/2010, you wrote:
>From: "Mark Weiss":
>>To say that "Poetry is one of the fields that can >use those energies expressively, innovatively, in >a way that captures the contemporary, and >furthers our understanding of what is happening >to language(s) and us via computing" is far >different than proposing a "poetics of >computation." The latter reduces the concept of >poetics to nonsense. There are things in the >world that are simply different from each other.
>
>How does the notion of poetics of computation
>"reduce the concept of poetics to nonsense", Mark?
>
>The notion of poetics of computation is >certainly involved in philosophies or poetics of >computer art. Because what distinguishes >computer art from other types of art is a >consequence of the computational capabilities of >computers, capabilities that aren't shared with other media or machines.
>
>'Computer poetry', or whatever we call poetry >that's specific to computing media, is a type of >computer art. Consequently, poetics of >computation is relevant to 'computer poetry'.
>

>But, more generally, I think poetics of >computation are relevant, in a literary context, >beyond poetry that's specific to computing >media. Because even if we're not making art >that's specific to computing media, we're >interested in the special characteristics and >properties of media that we work with. Just like >we're interested in philosophies that grow out >of those characteristics and properties.
>
>Here's a very concrete example of how the theory >of computation can be of use in art and, therefore, to poetics of computation.
>
>I remember reading someone quite well-known in >computer poetry and media art say that no >machine can re-write its own code. But this is >false. Computers certainly are capable, given >the appropriate programming, of re-writing their >own code. The writer perpetually came across as >thinking that computers are glorified >typewriters or glorified tvs or stereos and so >forth. In other words, he came across as >thinking that computers are glorified >traditional media devices. Now, if that's what >somebody thinks, then their expectations, >concerning digital art, are going to be 'more of >the same'. More traditional art, just a bit >different in gadgetry. However, properly >understood--and the theory of computation is >very useful to a proper understanding--computers >are very far beyond simply being traditional >media devices in a different guise. They are >radically flexible machines, are flexible to the >point that they can rewrite their own code, and >there is no proof and probably never will be >that there exist thought processes of which >humans are capable and computers are not. In >other words, computers are likely, in theory, as >flexible as thought itself. This sort of >understanding makes for higher expectations concerning computer art.
>
>And surely also involve something we might describe as poetics of computation.

>
>ja
>http://vispo.com
>Sept 29, 2010
>

New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
$16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm

"What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the poet alive in every sense of the word, and through every one of his senses. Instead of missing a beat or a part, Weiss' fragments are
like Chekhov's short storiesthe more that gets
left out, the more they seem to contain… One can
hear echoes from all the various
ancestors...[but] the voice, at its center, its
core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment
is both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure
musical threnody…[it] opens a window, not only
into a mind, but a person, a personality, this
human figure at the emotional center of the poem."

M.G. Stephens, in Jacket.
http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml

↑ Index

237. Naomi Buck Palagi
silver roof tantrum
Wed 29 Sep 2010

My first! Chapbook out from Dancing Girl Press, silver roof tantru

My first! Chapbook out from Dancing Girl Press, silver roof tantrum:
http://www.dancinggirlpress.com/silver.html

-Naomi Buck Palagi

↑ Index

238. Christopher Leland Winks

Re: language and poetry after godel and turing

Wed 29 Sep 2010

Computers don't dream.

----- Original Message -----
From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
Date: Wednesday, September 29, 2010 10:32 am
Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
To: [redacted]

> From: "Mark Weiss":
> > To say that "Poetry is one of the fields that can > use those energies expressively, innovatively, in
> a way that captures the contemporary, and
> furthers our understanding of what is happening
> to language(s) and us via computing" is far > different than proposing a "poetics of > computation." The latter reduces the concept of > poetics to nonsense. There are things in the > world that are simply different from each other.
>
> How does the notion of poetics of computation "reduce the concept of poetics > to nonsense", Mark?
>
> The notion of poetics of computation is certainly involved in philosophies > or poetics of computer art. Because what distinguishes computer art from > other types of art is a consequence of the computational capabilities of > computers, capabilities that aren't shared with other media or machines.
>
> 'Computer poetry', or whatever we call poetry that's specific to computing > media, is a type of computer art. Consequently, poetics of computation is > relevant to 'computer poetry'.
>
> But, more generally, I think poetics of computation are relevant, in a > literary context, beyond poetry that's specific to computing media. Because > even if we're not making art that's specific to computing media, we're > interested in the special characteristics and properties of media

that we work with. Just like we're interested in philosophies that grow out of those characteristics and properties.

Here's a very concrete example of how the theory of computation can be of use in art and, therefore, to poetics of computation.

I remember reading someone quite well-known in computer poetry and media art say that no machine can re-write its own code. But this is false. Computers certainly are capable, given the appropriate programming, of re-writing their own code. The writer perpetually came across as thinking that computers are glorified typewriters or glorified tvs or stereos and so forth. In other words, he came across as thinking that computers are *glorified traditional media devices. Now, if that's what somebody thinks, then their expectations, concerning digital art, are going to be 'more of the same'. More traditional art, just a bit different in gadgetry. However, properly understood--and the theory of computation is very useful to a proper understanding--computers are very far beyond simply being traditional media devices in a different guise. They are radically flexible machines, are flexible to the point that they can rewrite their own code, and there is no proof and probably never will be that there exist thought processes of which humans are capable and computers are not. In other words, computers are likely, in theory, as flexible as thought itself. This sort of* understanding makes for higher expectations concerning computer art.

And surely also involve something we might describe as poetics of computation.

*ja
http://vispo.com
Sept 29, 2010*

↑ Index

239. Murat Nemet-Nejat

Re: language and poetry after godel and turing

Wed 29 Sep 2010

"the lights are pretty much off, though, in the poetry mansion and it's black as night, concerning knowledge about things like the theory of computation, Godel, and so forth. and folks are frightened: computer art is fascistic, don't you know, and computers are to blame for the economic collapse, etc etc. we can't be machines because that would mean it's all an empty mechanical random concourse of atoms. and so on. people are frightened by computers and computing in many ways, from the challenge they pose just in how to use them in day to day life, to the 'threats' they pose to our identity, to the role they sometimes play in art and poetry."

Jim, As far as I can see the above are your words, not mine. I never said computer art is fascistic. I may have said something like "*computers*create fascistic possibilities" as they create also possibilities for chaos/and freedom and outreach. There is no doubt computers add a very strong doze of instability to the world -as things may happen in lightening speed- for good and evil. Because of computers our traditional ideal of privacy is already undermined. If it chooses to, the state now has the capability to know many things about ourselves -more than we ourselves care remember- and one day can use that knowledge for subtle (or implicit) blackmail (like having an internal inhibiting chip, so to speak). On the other hand, the state computer gives a potent tool to the public at a relatively cheap price. It facilitates asymmetrical conflict, etc. etc. etc....

Computer is a double-edged sword as I said a number of times before. Its ambiguous, high octane energy (its historically absolutely pivotal place) makes it sublimely poetic. My work -as, if you had bothered to look at it you would have discovered; as you know, I had made it available to you- is saturated with references to machines and computers and the affinity (basically spiritual, almost religious) between them and the human mind. The poem The Spiritual Life of Replicants is about that relation and how it affects consciousness, language and the concept of time. In other words, the idea that I am "freaked," "scared" by computers is utter nonsense. I am excited by it, its potent ambiguity.

To be blunt about it, my frustration with you is that you seem to be one of those who know a lot and understand nothing. When I approached you in the past with a philosophical, conceptual question about computers (questions which have nothing to to symbolic logic, etc.), you answered with a software software solution (use this program, do this, do that!) revealing to me that even the import of my question is beyond your understanding.

I follow your work reasonably well, quite often checking the links you mention on this list. When I wrote about your Angkor Wat piece about a year ago, I attacked you because you basically knew nothing about the places whose images you were appropriating for your own version of "surrealism," that those places were much more profoundly odd than your surrealism -and the profound disjunctive effect that lack of knowledge was creating and that you were not even aware of this moral/philosophical and finally aesthetic, in other words, poetic failure.

Ciao,

Murat

On Wed, Sep 29, 2010 at 4:08 AM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

> From: "Mark Weiss":
>
> To say that "Poetry is one of the fields that can
>
> use those energies expressively, innovatively, in a way that captures the contemporary, and furthers our understanding of what is happening to language(s) and us via computing" is far different than proposing a "poetics of computation." The latter reduces the concept of poetics to nonsense. There are things in the world that are simply different from each other.
>
> How does the notion of poetics of computation "reduce the concept of poetics to nonsense", Mark?
>
> The notion of poetics of computation is certainly involved in philosophies or poetics of computer art. Because what distinguishes computer art from other types of art is a consequence of the computational capabilities of computers, capabilities that aren't shared with other media or machines.
>
> 'Computer poetry', or whatever we call poetry that's specific to computing media, is a type of computer art. Consequently, poetics of computation is relevant to 'computer poetry'.
>
> But, more generally, I think poetics of computation are relevant, in a literary context, beyond poetry that's specific to computing media. Because even if we're not making art that's specific to computing media, we're interested in the special characteristics and properties of media that we > work with. Just like we're interested in philosophies that grow out of those characteristics and properties.

>
> Here's a very concrete example of how the theory of computation can be of use in art and, therefore, to poetics of computation.
>
> *I remember reading someone quite well-known in computer poetry and media art say that no machine can re-write its own code. But this is false. Computers certainly are capable, given the appropriate programming, of re-writing their own code. The writer perpetually came across as thinking that computers are glorified typewriters or glorified tvs or stereos and so forth. In other words, he came across as thinking that computers are glorified traditional media devices. Now, if that's what somebody thinks, then their expectations, concerning digital art, are going to be 'more of the same'. More traditional art, just a bit different in gadgetry. However, properly understood--and the theory of computation is very useful to a proper understanding--computers are very far beyond simply being traditional media devices in a different guise. They are radically flexible machines, are flexible to the point that they can rewrite their own code, and there is no proof and probably never will be that there exist thought processes of which humans are capable and computers are not. In other words, computers are likely, in theory, as flexible as thought itself. This sort of understanding makes for higher expectations concerning computer art.*
>
> And surely also involve something we might describe as poetics of computation.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
> Sept 29, 2010

↑ Index

240. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
Wed 29 Sep 2010

Mark,

You made the exact point. I was questioning Jim's "poetics of computation." He ducked answering by saying "Poetry is one of the field that can use..."

Ciao,

Murat

On Mon, Sep 27, 2010 at 9:27 PM, Mark Weiss <[redacted]> wrote:

> To say that "Poetry is one of the fields that can use those energies expressively, innovatively, in a way that captures the contemporary, and furthers our understanding of what is happening to language(s) and us via computing" is far different than proposing a "poetics of computation." The latter reduces the concept of poetics to nonsense. There are things in the world that are simply different from each other.
>
> At 05:13 PM 9/25/2010, you wrote:
>
> "the philosophical underpinnings of the poetics of computation, of computer
> art, can be strongly linked with the work of godel and turing and its consequences concerning language, epistemology, philosophy of mind, and the > multimedial/intermedial."
>
> As far as I can see, all you are saying here is that poetry is not poetry unless related to Godel and Turing's work.
>
> I would hope you're the only one who reads it that way, Murat. Cuz that's not what I said. But, by now, how could I be surprised by your reading it that way, considering that you've also said that computer art is fascistic and that computers are to blame for the economic collapse. Computers, computer art, and, possibly, computer artists seem to freak you out. I find it hard to talk with you about these things cuz yer always jumping to this sort of conclusion.
>
> What I was saying is this. The work of Godel and Turing is fundamental to the poetics of computation and computer art and the multimedial/intermedial because it is fundamental to the theory of computation; and the theory of computation is concerned with exploring the theoretical capabilities and limitations of computing machines.
>
> *Turing invented the 'Turing machine', the 'abstract machine', the mathematical model of a computing machine, to show that there are some tasks that no computing machine can ever carry out. In other words, he invented the modern computer to show that it has certain limitations. As opposed to inventing it to get it to do stuff that couldn't be done otherwise. Which, to me, is the sort of poetical thing that we see time and again in Godel's and Turing's work.*
>
> That's quite a bit of a tall
> order, don't you think, though I can understand their potential or realized
> importance in some kind of poetry.

"poetry needs to be able to travel at the forefront of any field."

What does also this sentence mean, that poetry should become a kind of supermench, the way opera was for Wagner?

Supermench? No. When we look at the impact of computing on language, we can talk about it in many ways, can concentrate on different things. The way, for instance, that the net crosses X with Y, brings ideas into contact with one another, and, consequently, the languages associated with those ideas. Or the way it brings media into contact with one another, by being capable of representing all sorts of different media all on the same screen or in the same machine; and, consequently, brings the languages both of and about those media into contact with one another. Or the way it brings people into contact with one another, being capable of representing communication channels (such as telephone) as well as traditional media like print, recorded sound, and video/TV, etc.

The impact of computing on language is in all sorts of cross-fertilization of language X with language Y, whether the languages are natural or other types of languages.

Poetry is one of the fields that can use those energies expressively, innovatively, in a way that captures the contemporary, and furthers our understanding of what is happening to language(s) and us via computing.

ja
http://vispo.com

New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
$16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm

"What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the poet alive in every sense of the word, and through every one of his senses. Instead of missing a beat or a part, Weiss' fragments are like Chekhov's short storiesthe more that gets left out, the more they seem to contain… One can hear echoes from all the various ancestors…[but] the voice, at its center, its core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment is both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure musical threnody…[it] opens a window, not only into a mind, but a person, a personality, this human figure at the emotional center of the poem."

M.G. Stephens, in Jacket.
http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml

↑ Index

241. amy king
Re: Michael Gizzi
Wed 29 Sep 2010

No official obit yet, but -- http://www.poetryfoundation.org/harriet/2010/09/michael-gizzi/

****
Now That's WAC
+ http://wearechampion.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-king.html

Amy's Alias
+ http://amyking.org/
****

_____
From: Sharon Mesmer/David Borchart <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Wed, September 29, 2010 11:04:58 AM
Subject: Michael Gizzi

Does anyone have any details regarding the death of Michael Gizzi, aside from:
http://writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/

??

x, Sharon Mesmer

↑ Index

242. paolo javier
2AP Vol 3
Wed 29 Sep 2010

2nd Ave Poetry, vol. 3

guest edited by Alan Ramon Clinton

includes work by

*JEREMY THOMPSON *¦ *PRISCILLA STADLER *¦ KELLY SPIVEY ¦* TONI SIMON*

FRANK SHERLOCK ¦ LESLIE SCALAPINO ¦ SRESHTA RIT PREMNATH ¦ TIM PETERSON

CAITLIN PARKER ¦ RUSTY MORRISON ¦ DOUGLAS A. MARTIN ¦ FILIP MARINOVICH

* JILL MAGI* ¦ R. ZAMORA LINMARK ¦ DOROTHEA LASKY ¦ MARK LAMOUREAUX

* GERRIT LANSING* ¦ KEVIN KILLIAN ¦ VINCENT KATZ ¦ *JOYELLE MCSWEENEY
*

*MATT JONES * ¦ *MITCH HIGHFILL * ¦ JOHN HARKEY ¦ STEPHANIE GRAY
¦ LYN GOERINGER *
*

THOMAS FINK ¦ JONNY FARROW ¦ CLAYTON ESHLEMAN ¦ *R.M. ENGELHARDT * ¦ DENISE DUHAMEL

THOM DONOVAN ¦ TSERING WANGMO DHOMPA ¦ *YAGO CURA * ¦ BRENDA COULTAS

CA CONRAD ¦ ERNEST CONCEPCION ¦ ALAN RAMON CLINTON ¦ HECTOR CANONGE

LAYNIE BROWNE ¦ CHARLES BORKHUIS ¦ CHARLES BERNSTEIN ¦ DODIE BELLAMY

www.2ndavepoetry.com

↑ Index

243. steve russell

briefly & Exact/a description on the working of Godel's mind/!/!/!/!/!/!/!/!/!/!/!/!/

Wed 29 Sep 2010

---

or, as Bill Knott once said in a poem:

A kite in the shape of a map floats over the land it depicts

We begin our lecture with a little conceit, in Tallahassee.
Godel has been appointed a chair in their Math department (Dirac, the great Austrian nobel phys/ taught there)

Godel says to his class, does Florida State rule???

(back in the day/ 14 consecutive top 5 finishes. Today, don't ask.)

& if Florida State don't rule, how that?
By competing with themselves?

Or by Playing ANOTHER TEAM.....

He does the Ven diagram thing.
He say///that a ? BIG circle with lots of little interrelated circles blending in (looking kind of liike a single key chain with dozens of smaller key chains hooked up ovally to Mr. big chain link...) ....

He say, what that prove?

NOTHING.

it's simply an odd looking key chain thing

BIG

it's sets.
it's Vi sual
it's all about sets go Outside the set and find another set. It's the weekend. Get laid. Do the assignment, get lost, I'm busy.

he say: FORGET RUSSELL
he say: FORGET HIS BUDDY EGGHEAD

he say: FUCK LOGIC

& sadly, he's dismissed for exercising that filthy tongue of his & sent back home to Austria where it barely occurs to him that the war has been long long over due, but really, it would seem, that maybe/perhaps, it's really over.

↑ Index

244. Mark Weiss
Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
Wed 29 Sep 2010

Or, Computers dream, but they don't tell their analysts.

Computers have drives. Computers fantasize about their motherboards.

At 12:05 PM 9/29/2010, you wrote:
>Computers don't dream.
>
>

>----- Original Message -----
>From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
>Date: Wednesday, September 29, 2010 10:32 am
>Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
>To: [redacted]
>
>
> > From: "Mark Weiss":
> > > To say that "Poetry is one of the fields that can > > use those energies expressively, innovatively, in > > a way that captures the contemporary, and > > furthers our understanding of what is happening
> > to language(s) and us via computing" is far > > different than proposing a "poetics of > > computation." The latter reduces the concept of > > poetics to nonsense. There are things in the > > world that are simply different from each other.
> >
> > How does the notion of poetics of computation "reduce the concept of > > poetics
> > to nonsense", Mark?
> >
> > The notion of poetics of computation is certainly involved in > > philosophies > > or poetics of computer art. Because what distinguishes computer art > > from > > other types of art is a consequence of the computational capabilities
> > of > > computers, capabilities that aren't shared with other media or machines.
> >
> > 'Computer poetry', or whatever we call poetry that's specific to > > computing
> > media, is a type of computer art. Consequently, poetics of > > computation is > > relevant to 'computer poetry'.
> >
> > But, more generally, I think poetics of computation are relevant, in
> > a > > literary context, beyond poetry that's specific to computing media.
> > Because
> > even if we're not making art that's specific to computing media, > > we're > > interested in the special characteristics and properties of media

> > that we > > work with. Just like we're interested in philosophies that grow out > > of those > > characteristics and properties.
> >
> > Here's a very concrete example of how the theory of computation can > > be of > > use in art and, therefore, to poetics of computation.
> >
> > I remember reading someone quite well-known in computer poetry and > > media art
> > say that no machine can re-write its own code. But this is false.
> > Computers
> > certainly are capable, given the appropriate programming, of > > re-writing > > their own code. The writer perpetually came across as thinking that > > computers are glorified typewriters or glorified tvs or stereos and > > so > > forth. In other words, he came across as thinking that computers are > > glorified traditional media devices. Now, if that's what somebody > > thinks,
> >
> > then their expectations, concerning digital art, are going to be > > 'more of > > the same'. More traditional art, just a bit different in gadgetry.
> > However, > > properly understood--and the theory of computation is very useful to
> > a > > proper understanding--computers are very far beyond simply being > > traditional > > media devices in a different guise. They are radically flexible > > machines, > > are flexible to the point that they can rewrite their own code, and > > there is > > no proof and probably never will be that there exist thought > > processes of > > which humans are capable and computers are not. In other words, > > computers > > are likely, in theory, as flexible as thought itself. This sort of > > understanding makes for higher expectations concerning computer art.
> >

> >
> > And surely also involve something we might describe as poetics of > > computation.
> >
> > ja
> > http://vispo.com
> > Sept 29, 2010
> >
> >
>

New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
$16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm

"What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the poet alive in every sense of the word, and through every one of his senses. Instead of missing a beat or a part, Weiss' fragments are like Chekhov's short storiesthe more that gets left out, the more they seem to contain… One can hear echoes from all the various ancestors...[but] the voice, at its center, its core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment is both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure musical threnody…[it] opens a window, not only into a mind, but a person, a personality, this human figure at the emotional center of the poem."

M.G. Stephens, in Jacket.
http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml

↑ Index

245. Jeffrey Side

'Responding to Dana Gioia's, "Can Poetry Matter?"' by Jake Berry at The Argotist Online

Wed 29 Sep 2010

'Responding to Dana Gioia's, "Can Poetry Matter?"' by Jake Berry at The Argotist Online

http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Berry%20essay%202.htm

Excerpt:

Gioia seeks alternatives in the past, in how previous generations of poets managed to survive when their principle occupation could not sustain them. This is a valuable examination and it certainly bears consideration. And there are examples even today of poets surviving, and working, beyond the academic culture. Yet almost none of them are accepted as valid by that dominant culture. Hank Lazer made a strong argument in this regard in the two volumes of his Opposing Poetries. Those poetries being the academic, writing school poetry, which he calls "plainverse", and the, at that time, up and coming avant-garde which generally falls under the term 'language' poetry. Regarding this, it seems the academy has found a solution to revolt by taking a lesson from the markets of the 1970s. Rather than resist the burgeoning "revolution" against complacency and materialism it simply devoured it in the name of style and fashion and sold the trappingsâ€”the clothes, haircuts, and symbologyâ€”in a slightly refined form to the culture at large. The result was the decadence of the late 1970s and 1980s. Similarly, the academy has begun to absorb some of the language poets, often over the strenuous objection of the writing school poets, and has thereby transformed the avant-garde into a codified, institutionally verified avant-garde that can be taught (marketed) to a growing, though less popular, subculture. One can imagine a time (is that time already here?) when in order to be accepted as an avant-garde poet a young writer would be required to have a masters and possibly a doctorate in the avant-garde formula of the day. In such a condition anything genuinely avant-garde would be utterly dismissed, marginalized to the point of invisibility.

↑ Index

246. Iris Law
Call for Submissions: LANTERN REVIEW
Wed 29 Sep 2010

Lantern Review: A Journal of Asian American Poetry, seeks submissions of poetry, translations, visual art, essays on poetics, and collaborative work for its second issue. Submissions are now being accepted through November 29, 2010 via our online form. Please visit www.lanternreview.com to readour guidelines<http://www.lanternreview.com/submissionsguidelines.html>in detail.

ABOUT US: Lantern Review is published in two formats: a twice-annual electronic magazine, and a blog which our team of staff writers updates weekly with interviews, reviews, literary news, writing prompts, and more. We aim to serve the literary community by providing a virtual space in which to promote and discuss the work of contemporary Asian American poets and artists. LR seeks to publish expertly crafted work in a variety of forms and aesthetics, including traditional and experimental pieces, hybrid forms, multimedia work, and new translations. We welcome pieces from anglophone writers of all ethnic backgrounds whose work has a vested interest in issues relevant to the Asian diaspora in North America, as well as work created collaboratively in a community context.

CONTACT INFORMATION:
[redacted]
Iris A. Law, Editor
Mia Ayumi Malhotra, Associate Editor

--
Iris A. Law
Poet | Editor
[redacted]

↑ Index

247. Gwyn McVay
Re: The Ugh/liest lango poet in D.C.
Wed 29 Sep 2010

> & there's Ellen Myles (spelling???), doing her lesbian thing, looking good in that brown pant suit thing she's wearing

Dear Mr. Russell:

If you were able to tell that Ms. Myles was a lesbian from whatever she was doing ("lesbian things," after all, include brushing one's teeth), then I am baffled as to why you would think she cares about your opinion of that "pant suit thing." I find your thing to be a creepy misogyny thing. Some of us female things do not actually dress for your male gaze. (And no, your having described the appearance of Mr. Downs in the preceding paragraph thing does not let you off the hook for slyly making us guess at whom you mean by "Ugh/liest." It's a societal thing.)

Plus five points for clever use of the space bar. Minus several million for the visual evaluation thing. And who am I to be grading your things? That, my dear sir, is precisely my point thing.

Sincerely,
Short Fat Obscure Poet Thing

↑ Index

248. Wanda Phipps
I'm Reading Tomorrow (Thursday) in Long Island
Wed 29 Sep 2010

If you are in the area drop on by
I'm reading tomorrow morning in Long Island:
FARMINGDALE STATE COLLEGE FEATURED READING on the Farmingdale State College Campus as part of the Visiting Writers Program

free and open to public Thursday, September 30, 2010 11:00 AM Ward Hall, Great Room
2350 Broadhollow Road
Farmingdale New York 11735

--
Wanda Phipps

Check out my websites: http://mindhoney.com and http://www.myspace.com/wandaphippsband

My latest book of poetry Field of Wanting: Poems of Desire available at:
http://www.blazevox.org/bk-wp.htm

And my 1st full-length book of poems Wake-Up Calls: 66 Morning Poems available (print and Kindle editions) at:
http://www.amazon.com/exec/obidos/ASIN/193236031X/ref=rm_item

↑ Index

249. susan maurer
Re: Rattapallax 10th Anniversary Reading on Sept 24, 2010
Wed 29 Sep 2010

congrats ram jsut got this or i would be there. susan maurer

> Date: Wed, 22 Sep 2010 04:25:00 -0700
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Rattapallax 10th Anniversary Reading on Sept 24, 2010
> To: [redacted]
>
> Dear Friends:
>
> The 10th Anniversary of Rattapallax magazine heralds a landmark in the magazine's history as it shifts entirely online, but you get to see them live. Featured readers include EDWARD HIRSCH, author of "The Living Fire: New and Selected Poems" and winner of the National Book Critics Circle Award. Also, EILEEN MYLES, author of "Inferno: A Poet's Novel", RACHEL ZUCKER, author of "Museum of Accidents", a finalist for the National Books Critics Award in 2009. Other readers include EDWIN TORRES, author of "In the Function of External Circumstances" along with poet and translator IDRA NOVEY, author of "The Next Country". Screening of short video pieces by Scott Gelber from Monofonus Press and the Teleportal reading series (http://www.teleportalreadings.org). Hosted by editor FLAVIA ROCHA.

September 24, 2010 at 7:00 pm

Theresa Lang Community and Student Center, Arnhold Hall

THE NEW SCHOOL, 55 West 13th Street, 2nd floor, New York, NY. FREE

Co-sponsored by the Creative Writing MFA Programs
http://www.newschool.edu/writing/events.aspx?id=52634

Also, watch an exclusive interview with Edward Hirsch, a poet and head of the Guggenheim Foundation, about the Chilean poet Pablo Neruda's exile at Sampsonia Way Magazine: http://www.sampsoniaway.org/blog/2010/08/19/edward-hirsch-on-pablo-nerudas-exile/

This event was funded in part by Poets & Writers, Inc. through public funds from the New York City Department of Cultural Affairs. The Experimental Television Center's Presentation Funds program is supported by the New York State Council on the Arts. Additional support provided by New York City Department of Cultural Affairs in partnership with the City Council and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Cheers

Ram Devineni

Publisher

↑ Index

250. Michael Tod Edgerton
Re: Michael Gizzi
Wed 29 Sep 2010

It was such a shock to see this email.Michael was my professor and then thesis advisor at Brown. I knew him not only as a wonderful poet, but as a great guy and an encouraging, supportive teacher. He was really very generous, and I'm left wishing I'd been able to give more to him in return and to have known him better. My thoughts are very much with his family and loved ones. This is really very sad news.

Tod

Michael Tod Edgerton
MFA '06, Program in Literary Arts, Brown University
PhD student, Dept. of English, University of Georgia

_____
From: amy king <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Wed, September 29, 2010 1:54:29 PM
Subject: Re: Michael Gizzi

No official obit yet, but --
http://www.poetryfoundation.org/harriet/2010/09/michael-gizzi/

****
Now That's WAC
+ http://wearechampion.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-king.html

Amy's Alias
+ http://amyking.org/
****

_____
From: Sharon Mesmer/David Borchart <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Wed, September 29, 2010 11:04:58 AM
Subject: Michael Gizzi

Does anyone have any details regarding the death of Michael Gizzi, aside from:
http://writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/

??

x, Sharon Mesmer

↑ Index

251. Halvard Johnson
RIP Michael Gizzi (1949-2010)
Wed 29 Sep 2010

Half Measures

This being a democracy,
one should resemble a description,
and not a rumor to oneself.

Naïve to think relationships are equal.
Human nature is a public nuisance, humanity a bully after all.

Are you experienced?
Does water experience the ocean?
Freedom's useless if you can't eat.

The world is enormous,

then you leave the house.

--Michael Gizzi

fr. New Depths of Deadpan
Providence: Burning Deck, 2009

Hal Serving the tri-state area.

Halvard Johnson
==========

[redacted]
http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org
<http://www.hamiltonstone.org/>
*Obras Públicas<https://sites.google.com/site/vidalocabooks/halvard-johnson-obras-publicas>
; The Perfection of Mozart's Third Eye and Other Sonnets<http://www.scribd.com/doc/27039868/Halvard-Johnson-THE-PERFECTION-OF-MOZART-S-THIRD-EYE-Other-Sonnets>
;*
*Organ Harvest with Entrance of Clones<http://www.amazon.com/Harvest-Entrance-Clones-Halvard-Johnson/dp/0965404390/ref=sr_1_1?ie=UTF8&s=books&qid=1283182804&sr=8-1>

; Tango Bouquet<https://docs.google.com/Doc?docid=0ATDp6rzKkBkhZGZwand2cHdfOWc1Mnh3Zw&hl=en>
; Theory of Harmony<https://docs.google.com/viewer?url=http://xpressed.wippiespace.com/fall04/theory1.pdf>
; Rapsodie espagnole<https://docs.google.com/viewer?url=http://xpressed.wippiespace.com/rapsodi.pdf>
; Guide to the Tokyo Subway<http://www.amazon.com/Guide-Tokyo-Subway-Other-Poems/dp/0971487316/ref=sr_1_3?s=books&ie=UTF8&qid=1283183153&sr=1-3>
; The Sonnet Project<https://docs.google.com/viewer?url=http://xpressed.wippiespace.com/hsonnet.pdf>
; G(e)nome <http://xpressed.wippiespace.com/fall03/genome.pdf>; Winter Journey <http://capa.conncoll.edu/johnson.winter.html>; Eclipse<http://capa.conncoll.edu/johnson.eclipse.html>
; The Dance of the Red Swan <http://capa.conncoll.edu/johnson.dance.html>; *
*Transparencies & Projections <http://capa.conncoll.edu/johnson.transp.html>
*

↑ Index

252. Chris Stroffolino

Michael

Wed 29 Sep 2010

There's too much to say about Michael Gizzi
He was fun. He did so much for me.
The first poem of his that struck me was called "Possum's Creed"
(one day he called to tell me he was singing "The Farmer In The Deli")
He wore the badge of high art lighter than most (does that sound pretentious---ugh).
At times wickedly cynical. Glint eyes
(try to hide your deep suffering by whatever means necessary).
Often in a tandom.
John Yau and he were running buddies, verbal sparring partners when I first met him
(circa 90?). Also, he and Clark Coolidge (when CC and I both lived near Michael).

Even when he was bed-ridden in the mid-90s, he was one of those guys who could really HOLD COURT as it were from his bed; Barbeio (sp?) and her amazing art was around a lot then--he'd play Basement Tapes & a lot of James Brown (he was into James Booker too). Going to see Dylan at Tanglewood with him and Clark Coolidge was a trip (Clark kept on saying, "he better not play that religious stuff." Michael laughed at me mischeviously; he not-so-secretly was hoping Dylan would (more so to piss CC off probably---the lord works in mysterious way; just like a real Italian kid). & Shakespeare plays. Michael & Ashbery

There's too much to say about Michael; and I know I've only scratched the surface.
I haven't made it back east for almost a decade; but we became facebook friends in the last year.
We wrote a few comments on each other's walls....

On Sep 27, 2010, at 9:03 PM, POETICS automatic digest system wrote:

> There are 21 messages totalling 1474 lines in this issue.
>
> Topics of the day:
>
> 1. Olson query (2)
> 2. language and poetry after godel and turing (5)
> 3. [New-Poetry] From Their Ringtones You Shall Know Them
> 4. The Swan's Rag: Issue Two
> 5. this week on the 30 word review
> 6. Hank Lazer interviewed by Chris Mansel --- The Argotist Onlline
> 7. Fwd: Poetry Chapbook Reading Wednesday, September 29
> 8. Marsh Hawk Press Fall Book Launch (Readings by Finkelstein, Morris et al.)
> 9. Sweetness, the riff
> 10. New Writing Series @ UCSD next Wednesday, October 6
> 11. IMPROVISATIONS by Vernon Frazer now on Scribd
> 12. habenicht press announces: CRASS SONGS OF SAND & BRINE by Micah Robbins
> 13. RECONFIGURATIONS: Call for Submissions (Special Feature / Graphic Non-Fiction)
> 14. »SOUS LES PAVÉS« vol.1 no.1
> 15. Chris Funkhouser and Alan Sondheim event, Fri. Oct 1, Unnameable Books, Brooklyn! (please announce/forward)
> 16. Ken Edwards & Ken Edwards & Myung Mi Kim in San Francisco
>
> ---
>
> Date: Sat, 25 Sep 2010 15:11:58 -0400

From: Margaret Konkol <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Olson query

Hey Ric,

I believe Ralph Maude is working on a collection of Olson's unpublished late works.

Cheers,
Margaret

On Thu, Sep 23, 2010 at 9:57 AM, Carfagna, Richard <
[redacted]> wrote:

Hi,
I was wondering if anyone knows who took over the official scholarship
of
Charles Olson after the death of George Butterick?

Also, what with the release in the past couple of year of the Daybooks
of Oppen
and the collected Notebooks of Frost, does anyone know of plans to mine
the Olson
collection at Storrs to produce a similar type of tome?

Thanks,
Ric

guidelines

Date: Sat, 25 Sep 2010 13:02:21 -0700
From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing

interesting.
but i'm wary of the word forefront.

does poetry necessarily need to be ... there.

not everyone has to be there, of course. poetry 'covers' many mentalities.
many 'mansions'.

the lights are pretty much off, though, in the poetry mansion and it's black as night, concerning knowledge about things like the theory of computation, Godel, and so forth. and folks are frightened: computer art is fascistic, don't you know, and computers are to blame for the economic collapse, etc etc. we can't be machines because that would mean it's all an empty mechanical random concourse of atoms. and so on. people are frightened by computers and computing in many ways, from the challenge they pose just in how to use them in day to day life, to the 'threats' they pose to our identity, to the role they sometimes play in art and poetry.

yet here we are using computers to talk about poetry. and using them to do so many other things in our pursuit of poetry.

knowledge of things like the theory of computation not only can help dispel fear--because the fear is mostly of the sort where we fear what we do not understand--but, in matters of poetry, also provides us with, say, approaches to language that can be useful in poetry and poetics.

also, the theory of computation and godel's work are fundamental to the poetics of computation.

i'm happy to see it in the bleachers,
or with the cheerleaders.

ha. yes i think it would be very pleasant to be with the cheerleaders in the bleachers.

really, i may have to re/read the esher/bach/GOD-el thing.

if yer after a hofstadter book, try 'i am a strange loop'. i'm finding that one more readable. rebbeca goldstein's book called 'incompleteness' is good on godel, his proof and biography (and friendship with einstein)-- and also concerning godel/wittgenstein. martin davis's book 'engines of logic' is an instant classic in the 'history of ideas'. it looks at the life and work of leibniz, boole, frege, cantor, hilbert, godel, and turing concerning the development of the computer. it was leibniz's dream to create an 'aide to human reason', which, he felt, required a language of symbolic logic. martin davis is, himself, a renowned usamerican logician. his book is excellent on the math and logic, on the history of ideas, in its biographical sketches, and in its historical perspective. great book. another relevant book is the oulipo compendium edited by harry matthews. oulipo started in 1960 and is/was the first erm poetry movement or group or whatever to seriously cross the borders of math and poetry. also, theirs is/was a kind of 'axiomatic' approach that relates closely to mathematical logic. another inerestin book is prehistoric digital poetry by chris funkhouser. this looks at digital poetry from 1959 to 1995. basically pre-web. this mainly looks at the work of the earlier poet-programmers.

occassionally, it's fun to actually have something of a clue,or sort of know what i'm talking about. which, in my book, means ... Witt vs. Godel: it's a tie.

ha. well, wittgenstein is still, of course, very influential in matters of philosophy and even, somewhat, in literary matters. whereas godel's work never really was, except in mathematical logic.

ja
http://vispo.com

--- On Thu, 9/23/10, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
To: [redacted]
Date: Thursday, September 23, 2010, 3:43 AM

language and poetry after godel and turing.

but, in poetry circles, godel and turing just do not compute, as you see in the responses to this thread, which dealt with derrida, not godel and turing.

and this is one of the reasons why poetry itself is isolated.

poetry, these days, needs to be an umbrella term for deep concerns of language and art cross-stitched amongs many fields and modes of perception/reception. for instance, the role of language in contemporary mathematical logic is of philosophical significance and also has turned out to be of very practical significance in that the work of godel and turing led to the creation of the computer, that universal number +language machine.

the philosophical underpinnings of the poetics of computation, of computer art, can be strongly linked with the work of godel and turing and its consequences concerning language, epistemology, philosophy of mind, and the multimedial/intermedial.

poetry needs to be able to travel at the forefront of any field.

ja
http://vispo.com

Date: Sat, 25 Sep 2010 13:19:42 -0700
From: Obododimma Oha <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: [New-Poetry] From Their Ringtones You Shall Know Them

Hi Tijani!
Thanks for reading the article & responding.
Regards.
Obododimma.

On Sat, Sep 25, 2010 at 12:38 PM, BY TJMST <[redacted]> wrote:

hi Obodo et al
thanks for psychologically sharing the repugnant but atimes soothing palaver of ringtones.I must say i will reminisce in delightfully, distatefully later on this web.Frankly i dont think i like them - almost a loathing experience personally.The bad aspect of it is tat a customised
ringtone might even turn off someone else that' s a turn -on.
The CELL PHONE is an interesting tool for a wide variety of gaiety yet there's a challenge to users conscience...whom to blame?The softwar e pedlers or the buyer or the licenceeor communication commission?Amen for answered prayers or poetry.
Gbemi TIJANI MST

On 9/14/10, Obododimma Oha <[redacted]> wrote:

"A ringtone advertises the owner of the mobile phone. It says:
listen to me as I tell a bit about this fellow's difference. By extension, the medium has become the addressee and could even be a signifier of the addresser.
These days when mobile telephony has brought further stress upon marriages and other relationships, is it not ingenious to configure the rings in such a way that the clever addressee can tell who is calling, at least to be able to know whether to answer, where to answer, what to answer; or to know which story to tell later to the person eavesdropping by the side? The medium will eventually be the accomplice as well as the evidence."

To read the full text of "From Their Ringtones You Shall Know Them<http://234next.com/csp/cms/sites/Next/Opinion/Columns/5618388-182/story.csp
,"
visit:

http://234next.com/csp/cms/sites/Next/Opinion/Columns/5618388-182/story.csp

--
Obododimma Oha
http://udude.wordpress.com/

Dept. of English
University of Ibadan
Nigeria

&

Fellow, Centre for Peace & Conflict Studies
University of Ibadan

Phone: [redacted];
[redacted];
[redacted].

New-Poetry mailing list
[redacted]
http://wiz.cath.vt.edu/mailman/listinfo/new-poetry

--
Obododimma Oha
http://udude.wordpress.com/

Dept. of English
University of Ibadan
Nigeria

&

Fellow, Centre for Peace & Conflict Studies
University of Ibadan

Phone: [redacted];
[redacted];
[redacted].

Date: Sat, 25 Sep 2010 14:13:07 -0700
From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing

"the philosophical underpinnings of the poetics of computation, of computer art, can be strongly linked with the work of godel and turing and its consequences concerning language, epistemology, philosophy of mind, and the multimedial/intermedial."

As far as I can see, all you are saying here is that poetry is not poetry unless related to Godel and Turing's work.

I would hope you're the only one who reads it that way, Murat. Cuz that's not what I said. But, by now, how could I be surprised by your reading it that way, considering that you've also said that computer art is fascistic and that computers are to blame for the economic collapse. Computers, computer art, and, possibly, computer artists seem to freak you out. I find it hard to talk with you about these things cuz yer always jumping to this sort of conclusion.

What I was saying is this. The work of Godel and Turing is fundamental to the poetics of computation and computer art and the multimedial/intermedial because it is fundamental to the theory of computation; and the theory of computation is concerned with exploring the theoretical capabilities and limitations of computing machines.

*Turing invented the 'Turing machine', the 'abstract machine', the mathematical model of a computing machine, to show that there are some tasks that no computing machine can ever carry out. In other words, he invented the modern computer to show that it has certain limitations. As opposed to inventing it to get it to do stuff that couldn't be done otherwise. Which, to me, is the sort of poetical thing that we see time and again in Godel's and Turing's work.*

*That's quite a bit of a tall
order, don't you think, though I can understand their potential or realized importance in some kind of poetry.*

"poetry needs to be able to travel at the forefront of any field."

What does also this sentence mean, that poetry should become a kind of supermench, the way opera was for Wagner?

*Supermench? No. When we look at the impact of computing on language, we can talk about it in many ways, can concentrate on different things. The way, for instance, that the net crosses X with Y, brings ideas into contact with one another, and, consequently, the languages associated with those ideas.
Or the way it brings media into contact with one another, by being capable of representing all sorts of different media all on the same screen or in the same machine; and, consequently, brings the languages both of and about those media into contact with one another. Or the way it brings people into contact with one another, being capable of representing communication channels (such as telephone) as well as traditional media like print, recorded sound, and video/TV, etc.*

The impact of computing on language is in all sorts of cross-fertilization of language X with language Y, whether the languages are natural or other types of languages.

Poetry is one of the fields that can use those energies expressively, innovatively, in a way that captures the contemporary, and furthers our understanding of what is happening to language(s) and us via computing.

ja
http://vispo.com

Date: Sat, 25 Sep 2010 23:19:22 +0000
From: michael farrell <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: The Swan's Rag: Issue Two

thanks for making me realise rimbaud looks like ben affleck

Date: Fri, 24 Sep 2010 11:21:13 -0700
From: [redacted]
Subject: The Swan's Rag: Issue Two
To: [redacted]

Hello Swans,

We at Dirty Swan Projects are happy to announce THE SWAN'S RAG ISSUE TWO! The line up speaks for itself.

ROB HALPERN: L O V E S O N G (T O M Y F A L L E N S O L D I E R)
BOB GLÜCK: Ed's First Sexual Experience
CEDAR SIGO: 7/23/10
ROB HALPERN: from Trolley's Kind
An Interview with WILDE BOY ALEX DIMITROV
BRUCE BOONE: My Walk with Evan
JACK FROST: Ex/Sex is a High School History Class You Remember
TED REES: Bahd Nay Foo Yah
TOM MEYER on Jonathan Williams
Threesome Polaroids from JONATHAN WILLIAMS
A Poem from SARA LARSEN

Images of Rimbaud in West Oakland from JOHNNY TOWNMOUSE, additional images from £UKASZ S£AWINSKI.

Images and purchasing instructions here: http://theswansrag.blogspot.com (NSFW?).

Kisses and misses,

Dirty Swan Projects

Date: Sat, 25 Sep 2010 23:23:08 +0000
From: michael farrell <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing

does poetry need anything?

i could say poetry needs to be more like blondie - but thats really my need=
-

Date: Fri=2C 24 Sep 2010 12:08:06 -0700
From: [redacted]
Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
To: [redacted]
=20
interesting.
but i'm wary of the word forefront.
does poetry necessarily need to be ... there.
=20
i'm happy to see it in the bleachers=2C
or with the cheerleaders.
=20
really=2C i may have to re/read the esher/bach/GOD-el thing.
occassionally=2C it's fun to actually have something of a clue=2Cor sort = of know what i'm talking about. which=2C in my book=2C means ...
Witt vs. G=
odel: it's a tie.=20 =20
--- On Thu=2C 9/23/10=2C Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:
=20

> From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Thursday=2C September 23=2C 2010=2C 3:43 AM > =20
> language and poetry after godel and turing.
> =20
> but=2C in poetry circles=2C godel and turing just do not compute=2C
> as yo= > u see in the responses to this thread=2C which dealt with derrida=2C > not go=
> del and turing.
> =20
> and this is one of the reasons why poetry itself is isolated.
> =20 > poetry=2C these days=2C needs to be an umbrella term for deep > concerns of= > language and art cross-stitched amongs many fields and modes of > perception= > /reception. for instance=2C the role of language in contemporary > mathematic= > al logic is of philosophical significance and also has turned out to > be of = > very practical significance in that the work of godel and turing led > to the= > creation of the computer=2C that universal number+language machine.
> =20
> the philosophical underpinnings of the poetics of computation=2C of > compu= > ter art=2C can be strongly linked with the work of godel and turing > and its= > consequences concerning language=2C epistemology=2C philosophy of > mind=2C =
> and the multimedial/intermedial.
> =20
> poetry needs to be able to travel at the forefront of any field.
> =20
> ja
> http://vispo.com=20
> =
> 3D
> =
> 3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D
> =3D=3D=3D=3D=
> guidelin=
> =20 > =20 > =20

=20
=
3D
=
3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D =3D=3D=3D=3D=
guidelin=
=20
=

=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D

Date: Sun, 26 Sep 2010 08:54:20 -0700
From: Dan Glass <[redacted]>
Subject: this week on the 30 word review

Two theories of the present=97preservation & sincerity.

Lovejoy by Phoebe Wayne
Tout Va Bien by Suzanne Stein

http://the30wordreview.blogspot.com/

=
3D

=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D

Date: Sun, 26 Sep 2010 18:36:08 +0200
From: Jeffrey Side <[redacted]>
Subject: Hank Lazer interviewed by Chris Mansel --- The Argotist Onlline

Hank Lazer interviewed by Chris Mansel --- The Argotist Onlline =20
http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Lazer%20interview%202.htm =20 =20 =20
Excerpt:
=20
CM: Where do you suppose the self-destructiveness trait comes from that occ= urs in so many writers?
=20
HL: From frustration, as a consequence of marginalization, and from succumb=
ing to a dangerous set of culturally romanticized stereotypes. First, the f= rustration and maginalization routes. A writer, particularly a poet, places= himself in an odd position in relation to dominant cultural value. A poet = > decides to value certain kinds of somewhat aimless, impractical, non-money-= > making activities, and he decides to make room and time in his life for the= > se activities. Furthermore, he=E2=80=99s apt to be pursuing a rather elusiv=

> e mode of language =E2=80=93 not necessarily the direct, communicative, =E2=
> =80=9Cuseful,=E2=80=9D commercially manipulative kind of language skill tha= > t society readily appreciates and rewards (in advertising, in journalism, a= > nd in other modes of persuasive and/or manipulative writing). So, what he= > =E2=80=99s doing with his time is aberrant =E2=80=93 hard to explain. And y= > et, if he is really engaged in a serious and profound relationship to poetr= > y, he does have certain sporadic validating experiences =E2=80=93 a sense o= > f connection to a longstanding human enterprise of considerable wisdom, joy=
> , and pleasure. The self-destructiveness may arise as a gesture of anger an= > d frustration, arising from a sense that one=E2=80=99s primary life activit= > y is not appreciated or understood or respected. The self-destructiveness b= > ecomes an act oddly complicit with that ignoring and marginalizing by the s= > ociety at large, while it is also a somewhat desperate call for attention a= > nd significance.=20
>
> =20
> http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Lazer%20interview%202.htm
> =20 > =20
>
> =
> 3D
> =
> 3D
> =
> 3D
> =
> 3D

=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D

Date: Sun, 26 Sep 2010 13:25:19 -0700
From: Peter Grant <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Olson query

Ric, Please read my review of Ralph Maud's Charles Olson at the Harbor (talonbooks 2008) in Pacific Rim Review of Books #10 for a possible answer to your first question...

http://www.prrb.ca/articles/issue10-olson.html

Peter

Date: Thu, 23 Sep 2010 09:57:54 -0400
From: "Carfagna, Richard" <[redacted]>
Subject: Olson query

Hi,
I was wondering if anyone knows who took over the official scholarship
of
Charles Olson after the death of George Butterick?

Also, what with the release in the past couple of year of the Daybooks
of Oppen
and the collected Notebooks of Frost, does anyone know of plans to mine
the Olson
collection at Storrs to produce a similar type of tome?

Thanks,

Ric

Date: Sun, 26 Sep 2010 22:45:03 -0400
From: Sharon Dolin <[redacted]>
Subject: Fwd: Poetry Chapbook Reading Wednesday, September 29

Dear Friends, Writers, Teachers,

Please see the announcement below. It should be a terrific evening!

Sharon

Sharon Dolin
[redacted]
www.sharondolin.com

Having difficulty viewing this email? Click here.
=20
Don't miss out on autumn
courses!
Click here for course descriptions and to register!
=20
Alternatives to Type
Learn how to fashion, handle, and print from movable type-high = elements on the letterpress.=20
With Bryan Baker
October 2-3
=20
Crossed Structure & Secret Belgian Binding
A two-day workshop in contemporary book structures based on pre-16th = century bindings. =20
With Emily Martin
October 9-10
=20
Bookbinding I
This core class will introduce students to the basic materials, = techniques and history of bookbinding.=20
With Shanna Yarbrough
October 7-December 13
=20
Japanese Water-Based Woodblock Printing
Create images using the ancient traditional Japanese Ukiyo-e style
of =
printing by hand, still widely used in Japan today.

> With Takuji Hamanaka
> October 11-December 13
> =20 > =20 > =20
> Save The Date!
> =20
> Artist Talk:
> Catya Plate
> =20
> Wednesday, October 13, 6:30 p.m.
> Featured Artist Catya Plate discusses her newest work, Clothespin =
> Tarot, a series of 78 watercolor and pencil drawings inspired by the = > traditional Tarot.
> $10/$5 CBA Members
> Suggested Donation
> =20
> ~
> =20
> Center Broadsides Reading Series
> =20
> Wednesday, October 20, 6:30 p.m.
> Poets Alex Cuff and David Henderson will read their work.
> Organized =
> by Lisa Jarnot.
> $10/$5 CBA Members
> Suggested Donation
> =20
> Quick Links:
> =20
> Browse our > Upcoming Classes
> =20
> Current Exhibitions
> Opportunities
> Online Calendar
> Flickr
> Facebook
> Twitter
> Blog
> =20 > =20 > =20 > =20 > =20 > =20 > =20
> This Week:

=20
Poetry Chapbook Reading
=20 =20 =20 =20
Wednesday, September 29, 6:30 p.m.
=20
Join us for a reading celebrating the release of Alexander Long's = limited-edition, artist-made chapbook Still Life, published as part
of = the Center for Book Arts' annual Poetry Chapbook program. This year's = chapbook was letterpress printed and hand bound by Barbara Henry in an = edition of 100. Also available will be a letterpress chapbook by = Terrance Hayes, Between Ghosts, designed and produced by Amber McMillan =
in an edition of 100. In addition, the Center is producing three = limited-edition broadsides of poems by Jennifer Perrine, Deborah = Flanagan, and Hadara Bar-Nadav. The four poets will read their work, = joined by series organizers Terrence Hayes and Sharon Dolin.=20 =20
Alexander Long's manuscript was selected from a pool of 400 entries. =
Terrance Hayes commented,"This imaginative collection had the wildly = associative qualities of a poet bound to the past and present. His = meditations on the likes of Malcolm X, Kafka and Lincoln combined
the = personal to the historical, the lyrical to the narrative. These poems = made an immediate and enduring impression on me." =20
Where:=20
Center for Book Arts
28 West 27th Street, Third Floor
New York, New York 10001
=20
Gallery Hours:=20
M-F 10am-6pm
Sat 10am-4pm
=20
Suggested Admission:=20
$5 members/$10 non-members
Next Week:
=20
Professional Development Workshop:
Find a Collaborator!

Artists and Writers Mixer
=20
With Wennie Huang and Ed Go =20 =20 =20
Wednesday, October 6, 6:30pm
=20
Have you ever wanted to work collaboratively? Are you looking for a = new collaborator? Bring a piece of your visual or written work to this = Professional Development Workshop to learn more about the collaborative = process and meet other emerging artists and writers. Wennie Huang and = Ed Go will discuss their collaboration, and we will experiment with = short hands-on exercises. =20 =20 =20
Where:=20
Center for Book Arts
28 West 27th Street, Third Floor
New York, New York 10001
=20
Suggested Admission:=20
$5 members/$10 non-members
Currently on View in our Galleries:
=20
Ear to the Page =20 =20 =20
Ear to the Page explores the interaction between recordings and books, = using three categories: sound works that reflect the structure and = aesthetic of books; packages that thematically entail a book as well as = a CD or vinyl record; and books that have a sound component or somehow = serve to transcribe or document ideas that previously existed, or = potentially can exist, as sound.=20 =20
Artists/Musicians included in the exhibition are: Vito Acconci, Juan =
Arkotxa & Leslie Mackenzie, Bernard Baschet & Francois Baschet, Cathy = Berberian & Eugenio Carmi, George Brecht, Inge Bruggeman & Hank

Lazer, =
Jose Luis Castillejo, Jon Gibson, Kenneth Goldsmith, Grace Jones, Jennie =
C. Jones, Allan Kaprow, Dan Lander & Micah Lexier, Christian Marclay, =
Marshall McLuhan with Jerome Agel, Quentin Fiore, & John Simon, Michalis =
Pichler, Steve Roden, Allen Ruppersberg, Tate Shaw & Andrew Sallee, = Masumi Shibata, Michael Snow, Jan van der Marck/Art by Telephone,
and =
Dennis Yuen & Morry Galonoy. Organized by James Hoff and Alan Licht, =
Independent Curators.
=20
Artist Talk: Wednesday, November 3, 6:30 pm =20
Featured Artist Project:
Catya Plate: Clothespin Tarot
=20 =20 =20
This project comprises a series of original drawings and an artist = book as well as an animated film. Since 2003 Plate has been working on = a series of 78 watercolor and pencil drawings inspired by the 78 cards = of the traditional tarot. Clothespins have always played a key role
in = Plate's work and in this exhibition they become Clothespin Freaks; = figures who, made of clear plastic clothespins, doll's body parts
and = sewn pieces, are the real heroes in this subversive Tarot adventure. =
The installation features a new animated film, The Reading, which is a = culminating artist project to this body of work.
=20
Artist Talk: Wednesday, October 13, 6:30 pm =20
Featured Artist Project:
Barbara Tetenbaum and the Triangular Press: Recent Works=20
2010 Bishop Faculty Fellow =20 =20 =20
Every year the Center for Book Arts invites an artist/ instructor
from = outside of New York to teach a master class and to give a formal lecture =

in New York City. Barbara Tetenbaum, The Sally R. Bishop Master Faculty =
Fellow for 2010, has been printing artist books under the imprint, =
Triangular Press, since 1979. She is currently Professor and Department = Head of Book Arts at Oregon College of Art & Craft in Portland, OR. She = is the recipient of two Fulbright awards to teach in Leipzig, Germany = and in Usti nad Labem in the Czech Republic, and has received other = awards of support for her artwork and research. Her books are held in = public collections in the U.S., Canada, England, France, Germany and the = Netherlands. Her master class, Artist Book Strategies: Exploring Music = and Musical Scores, will be held at the Center on November 19-21.=20 =20
Artist Talk: Friday, November 19th , 6:30 pm=20 =20
Where:=20
Center for Book Arts
28 West 27th Street, Third Floor
New York, New York 10001
=20
Gallery Hours:=20
M-F 10am-6pm
Sat 10am-4pm
=20
Admission: Free
Support the Center and receive great benefits...
=20
Discounts on all Center for Book Arts classes
Reduced admission to the Center's public events, readings, and = workshops=20
Discounts at select NYC art supply stores and the Center's bookstore
Receive course catalogues and special invitations to exclusive events
Membership starts at $50
Click here for more information and join today!
=20
28 West 27th Street, Third Floor
New York, New York 10001
[redacted]
www.centerforbookarts.org =20 =20
The Center's Visual Arts Program and related Public Programs are = supported in part by the Lily Auchincloss Foundation, the Wolf Kahn & = Emily Mason Foundation, and the Dedalus Foundation. Additional support = for the Center's programs is provided in part by the Achelis Foundation, =

the Carnegie Corporation, the J.M. Kaplan Fund, the Milton and Sally = Avery Arts Fund, the New York City Department of Cultural Affairs, the =
New York State Council on the Arts, and the Pine Tree Foundation of New =
York. Programs are also supported, in part, by public funds from the =
New York City Department of Cultural Affairs in partnership with the = City Council. Support for the Center's Collections Initiative comes from = the National Endowment for the Arts, the Institute of Museum and Library = Services, the Max and Victoria Dreyfus Foundation, and the Gladys =
Krieble Delmas Foundation. Major funding for the Center's Capacity = Building programs is provided by the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, the =
Robert Sterling Clark Foundation, the Hyde & Watson Foundation, and the =
New York Community Trust. Special support for the Center's =
Artist-in-Residence program has been provided by the Foundation for = Contemporary Arts. The Center also acknowledges the generous support of = its patrons and members.
=20 =20 =20 =20 Forward email
=20
This email was sent to [redacted] by =
[redacted].
Update Profile/Email Address | Instant removal with SafeUnsubscribe=99 =
| Privacy Policy.
Email Marketing by =20
The Center for Book Arts | 28 West 27th Street | Third Floor | New =
York | NY | 10001
=20

=
3D

=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D

Date: Mon, 27 Sep 2010 09:26:47 -0400
From: "Kimmelman, Burt" <[redacted]>
Subject: Marsh Hawk Press Fall Book Launch (Readings by Finkelstein, Morris et al.)

Please join us for the Marsh Hawk Press Fall Book Launch featuring readings=
by Norman Finkelstein and other Marsh Hawk Press authors.

Thursday, October 14, 2010
6:00 PM to 8:00 PM

Ceres Gallery
547 W 27th St # 201, New York, NY
[redacted]

Refreshments in our usual abundant over-the-top style

Fall Books:

Inside the Ghost Factory<http://www.marshhawkpress.org/Finkelstein2.htm

Norman Finkelstein

Inside the Ghost Factory finds Norman Finkelstein returning to his pre-Trac= k fascination with the Coleridgean fancy, first delineated in Restless Mess= engers. Here, however, Samuel Coleridge meets William Gibson and the result= is a retro- Blakean myth for the age of Text and Tweet. These transmission= s from "elsewhere," manufactured on the assembly lines of "Ghosts, Incorpor= ated. Poetry, Incorporated" (Limited, I might add), are gleefully dissected= by Finkelstein as so much "clap-trap." Still, there's no correcting the bl= ur of occultation and occlusion for the poet who believes "Books were made = for secrets they cannot/keep: this is what it means to be/read."- Tyrone Wil= liams
If Not for the Courage<http://www.marshhawkpress.org/Morris2.htm>
Daniel Morris

Everyday life in the household and memory of Daniel Morris's suburban Jewis= h-professorpoet and father of toddlers has rarely been rendered with the en= ergy, good humor, and luminous detail we meet in Daniel Morris's If Not for= the Courage. These poems are at once hilarious and heart-breaking; they ta= ke us straight to the scene of the crime, allowing us to witness the most a= bsurd and agonizingly funny moments of daily routine against the backdrop o= f unrelieved media blitz. The courage of Morris's title is evident througho= ut. -Marjorie Perloff

=
3D
=
3D
=
3D

=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D

Date: Sun, 26 Sep 2010 23:22:44 -0400
From: Alan Sondheim <[redacted]>
Subject: Sweetness, the riff

Sweetness

Chris Funkhouser and I were writing back and forth about riffs and I realize I rarely use them, at least not consciously, since they tend to repeat themselves uncomfortably; in any case, sweetness1 uses a riff one way or another for a little song; in sweetness2, the riff's dissolved, deconstructed, transformed, to no end, or one and another; just a little guitar music dealing with a "theme" of sorts, maybe time for a hit tune maybe.

http://espdisk.com/alansondheim/sweetness1.mp3
http://espdisk.com/alansondheim/sweetness2.mp3

Date: Mon, 27 Sep 2010 06:45:41 -0700
From: Rachel Loden <[redacted]>
Subject: New Writing Series @ UCSD next Wednesday, October 6

New Writing Series presents:

A reading by Rachel Loden

Wednesday, October 6

4:30 pm

Visual Arts Performance Space

UC San Diego

Free

Sponsored by the Dean, Arts & Humanities Division and the Department of Literature

http://literature.ucsd.edu/news/currentevents/writingseries.html

Rachel Loden is the author of Dick of the Dead (Ahsahta Press), a finalist for both the 2010 PEN USA Literary Award for Poetry and the California Book Award. It was also one of the three most-cited books in Attention Span 2009 ("a collectively-drawn map of the field"), landing on lists by Rae Armantrout and others. The Washington Post's "Poet's Choice" column featured a poem from the book and it has been called "oddly sublime" and "intoxicating" by the Poetry Project Newsletter and "expansive and whimsical" by the Brooklyn Rail. Loden's first book, Hotel Imperium (Georgia), won the Contemporary Poetry Series competition and was selected as one of the ten best poetry books of the year by the San Francisco Chronicle, which called it "quirky and beguiling." It was also short-listed for the Northern California Book Award. Loden has published four chapbooks, *including The Last Campaign (which won the Hudson Valley Writers' Center chapbook competition) and The Richard Nixon Snow Globe (Wild Honey Press).

Her work has appeared or is forthcoming in New American Writing, Lana Turner: A Journal of Poetry and Opinion, two editions of the Best American Poetry series, Western Wind: An Introduction to Poetry, and many other magazines and anthologies. Loden's microplay, "A Quaker Meeting in Yorba Linda," was performed in New York as part of Plays on Words: A Poets Theater Festival curated by Tony Torn, Lee Ann Brown and Corina Copp. She is the recipient of a Pushcart Prize, a Fellowship in Poetry from the California Arts Council, an &NOW Award, and a grant from the Fund for Poetry.*

Date: Mon, 27 Sep 2010 11:55:24 -0500
From: Mary Jo Malo <[redacted]>
Subject: IMPROVISATIONS by Vernon Frazer now on Scribd

Vernon,

A formatting achievement par excellence! What a wonderful opportunity for readers to access your spontaneous poetry, a nearly extinct form.

Mary Jo

--
http://thisshiningwound.blogspot.com/
http://apophisdeconstructingabsurdity.blogspot.com/

Date: Mon, 27 Sep 2010 13:11:12 -0400
From: David Hadbawnik <[redacted]>
Subject: habenicht press announces: CRASS SONGS OF SAND & BRINE by Micah Robbins

I=92m pleased to announce this new chapbook <http://habenichtpress.com/?p= =3D523>by
Micah Robbins*, publisher of Interbirth*
Books<http://www.interbirthbooks.org/>.
*Thanks to Micah, as well as to Richard Owens and *Clifford Riley
for helping design the cover.

"We are the kids in black =97 night-worn
hangers-on tired and out of smokes
piss wasted =97 dead in the eye

watching shubie legs pump rusted pedals
rattle hoary boards as they pass
the pavilion =97 ours taken in the night"

12pp. Letter-press cover designed by Richard Owens and Clifton Riley.
Hand-sewn. Habenicht Press, 2010. $7 plus shipping.

=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D

Date: Mon, 27 Sep 2010 14:20:30 -0600
From: Scott Howard <[redacted]>
Subject: RECONFIGURATIONS: Call for Submissions (Special Feature /

Graphic Non-Fiction)

RECONFIGURATIONS=3A A Journal for Poetics =26 Poetry / Literature =26 Cu= lture=2C =

ISSN=3A 1938-3592=2C =

http=3A//reconfigurations=2Eblogspot=2Ecom/ =

=

Volume 4=3A Special Feature / Graphic Non-Fiction =

Submissions=3A September thru October=2C 2010 =

Publication=3A November=2C 2010 =

=

Guidelines=3A Volume four of Reconfigurations=2C http=3A//reconfiguratio=
ns=2Eblogspot=2Ecom/=2C seeks a variety of works for a special feature c= oncerning graphic non-fiction=2E Marshall McLuhan=92s =93Understanding =
Media=94 describes comics as a =93cool media=2C=94 where the tension bet= ween medium and message is key=2E That notion seems especially relevant= to graphic non-fiction=2C where the desire to =91report=92 often collid= es with visual expression=3A the result being a work that demands intens= e reader participation and interpretation=2C thus calling attention to t= he author=92s choice to work within the comics form=2E =

=

Reconfigurations seeks essays that explore this tension within the mediu= m=2C art=2C and/or texts of graphic nonfiction (such as memoir=2C histor= y=2C reports=2C journalism=2C travel writing)=2E =

=

> Reconfigurations=2C ISSN=3A 1938-3592=2C http=3A//
> reconfigurations=2Eblo=
> gspot=2Ecom/=2C is an electronic=2C peer-reviewed=2C > international=2C an= > nual journal for poetics and poetry=2C creative and scholarly > writing=2C= > innovative and traditional concerns with literary arts and cultural > stu= > dies=2E Reconfigurations publishes under a Creative Commons 3=2E0
> open-= > access license=2C is MLA indexed=2C EBSCO distributed and > independently = > managed=2E =
>
> =
>
> Electronic Submissions=3A crowe=40du=2Eedu=2E Submissions should be > att= > ached as a single =2Edoc=2C =2Ertf=2C or =2Etxt file=2E Visuals > should = > be attached individually as =2Ejpg=2C =2Egif or =2Ebmp files=2E > Please = > include the words =93Special Feature (Graphic Non-Fiction)=94 in the > sub= > ject line of your message=2E
>
> ///
>
> =
> 3D
> =
> 3D
> =
> 3D
> =
> 3D
> =
> 3D
> =
> 3D
> =
> 3D
> =
> 3D
> =
> 3D
> =
> 3D

=
3D

Date: Mon, 27 Sep 2010 17:45:39 -0400
From: Micah Robbins <[redacted]>
Subject: =?ISO-8859-1?Q?=BBSOUS_LES_PAV=C9S=AB_?= vol.1 no.1

=BBSOUS LES PAV=C9S=AB is a FREE bi-monthly newsletter of ideation and po= etry distributed by mailing list only & funded by the generous donations o= f its readers.=20

To join the mailing list & to donate visit =BBSOUS LES PAV=C9S=AB at http://interbirthbooks.com/?page_id=3D161 or write Micah Robbins | 3515
Fairview Ave. | Dallas, TX 75223 ~ [redacted]

Vol.1 No.1 includes work by The Rejection Group, Richard Owens, Edmond Caldwell, Linh Dinh, Lisa Burdige, David Hadbawnik, Micah Robbins, Gene Tanta, Brenda Iijima, and Brooks Johnson.

Please support this effort by donating & joining the growing list of recipients . . .

=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=

3D
=
3D

Date: Sun, 26 Sep 2010 21:00:41 -0400
From: Alan Sondheim <[redacted]>
Subject: Chris Funkhouser and Alan Sondheim event, Fri. Oct 1, Unnameable Books, Brooklyn! (please announce/forward)

Chris Funkhouser and Alan Sondheim event, Fri. Oct 1, Unnameable Books

Friday, October 1 7:30pm - 9:30pm
Location Unnameable Books
600 Vanderbilt Ave.
Brooklyn, NY
Created By
Unnameable Boox
More Info DIGITAL POETICS 10.01.10

Performances of fingered music, digital projection, codework and text. Viola, oud, saz, guitar? Keyboard. Laptop. Microphone. Books.

CHRIS FUNKHOUSER is a poet, scholar, and multimedia artist. In 2009, the Associated Press commissioned him to prepare digital poems for the occasion of Barack Obama's inauguration. He is author of the documentary study, Prehistoric Digital Poetry: An Archaeology of Forms, 1959-1995, and an eBook (CD-ROM), Selections 2.0. He currently teaches at New Jersey Institute of Technology and University of Pennsylvania, is a Senior Editor at PennSound, a member of the scientific review committee of the digital literature journal regards crois?s (University of Paris 8), is on the Advisory Board of the Digital Poetry Archive of Canada, and is an External Collaborator with Ncleo de Ciberteatro, Insituto Politcnico do Porto (Portugal). Since 1986 he has been an editor with We Press, with whom he has produced poetry in a variety of media. A widely published author, he was Visiting Fulbright Scholar at Multimedia University in Cyberjaya, Malaysia (2006), on the summer writing program faculty of the Naropa

University (2007), and is presently Digital Poet-in-Residence at Bowery Poetry Club (New York City).

ALAN SONDHEIM is our (all our) resident genius and provocateur. He is also an important artist, theorist, code-worker, poet, musician, choreographer, essayist, filmmaker, video-maker, performer and new-media innovator, who has been working tirelessly and prolifically and with astonishing results since before I was born. If youre lucky, you may be on one of his email lists, which are the primary way he distributes his writing and other work.

*Sondheim has a new book of poetry out from Salt Press: DEEP LANGUAGE.
Maria Damon says it tangles us up in these hypnotically repetitive, abject, slyly humorous and childishly gleeful, philosophically, aesthetically, theoretically and psychologically dense and insightful poems, that are also essays, diasporic riffs and incantations, true confessions, Platonic dialogues, shtick, tantrums, aphorisms and manifesti. John Cayley says he is one of the precious few who joyfully and in abject misery risks these terrors of writing for us, for our pleasure and our undoing. What happens? Language disposes of us.*

---

*Date: Mon, 27 Sep 2010 15:26:09 -0700
From: Stephen Vincent <[redacted]>
Subject: Ken Edwards & Ken Edwards & Myung Mi Kim in San Francisco*

*=A0=0A Ken Edwards & Myung Mi Kim gave phenomenal readings this past Saturd= ay night for the SF State Poetry =0ACenter at the Meridian Gallery. Amazing=
(& not improbable) how the =0Aremains of war (England/WW II & Korea/ Americ= an) keep poking their shards up into a=A0=0Amemoried & active present. Inte= resting, or the persuasion of poetry to make the shard penetrate the consci= ousness much more pointedly (memorably) (convincingly)=A0 than prose of a m= ore detached/abstracted order. Kudos.=20*

Stephen V
http://stephenvincent.net/blog/

=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D

Date: Mon, 27 Sep 2010 20:59:16 -0400
From: Chris Chapman <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing

derrida does borrow another word from the construction industry - subjectile. it refers to a surface before it is painted. if you do a google search you'll find it used to describe priming, sanding, and finishing products in the french dry-wall trades.

On Sat, Sep 25, 2010 at 7:23 PM, michael farrell
<[redacted]>wrote:

does poetry need anything?

i could say poetry needs to be more like blondie - but thats really my need

-

Date: Fri, 24 Sep 2010 12:08:06 -0700
From: [redacted]
Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
To: [redacted]

interesting.
but i'm wary of the word forefront.
does poetry necessarily need to be ... there.

i'm happy to see it in the bleachers,
or with the cheerleaders.

really, i may have to re/read the esher/bach/GOD-el thing.
occassionally, it's fun to actually have something of a clue,or sort of
know what i'm talking about. which, in my book, means ... Witt vs. Godel:
it's a tie.

--- On Thu, 9/23/10, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
To: [redacted]
Date: Thursday, September 23, 2010, 3:43 AM

language and poetry after godel and turing.

but, in poetry circles, godel and turing just do not compute, as you see in the responses to this thread, which dealt with derrida, not godel and turing.

and this is one of the reasons why poetry itself is isolated.

poetry, these days, needs to be an umbrella term for deep concerns of language and art cross-stitched amongs many fields and modes of perception/reception. for instance, the role of language in contemporary mathematical logic is of philosophical significance and also has turned out to be of very practical significance in that the work of godel and

turing
led to the creation of the computer, that universal number+language machine.

the philosophical underpinnings of the poetics of computation, of computer art, can be strongly linked with the work of godel and turing and its consequences concerning language, epistemology, philosophy of mind, and the multimedial/intermedial.

poetry needs to be able to travel at the forefront of any field.

ja
http://vispo.com

guidelines

Date: Mon, 27 Sep 2010 21:27:36 -0400
From: Mark Weiss <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing

To say that "Poetry is one of the fields that can=20
use those energies expressively, innovatively, in=20
a way that captures the contemporary, and=20
furthers our understanding of what is happening=20
to language(s) and us via computing" is far=20
different than proposing a "poetics of=20
computation." The latter reduces the concept of=20
poetics to nonsense. There are things in the=20
world that are simply different from each other.

At 05:13 PM 9/25/2010, you wrote:
"the philosophical underpinnings of the poetics of computation, of= computer art, can be strongly linked with the work of godel and turing and its consequences concerning language, epistemology, philosophy of mind, and=

the
multimedial/intermedial."

As far as I can see, all you are saying here is that poetry is not poetry
unless related to Godel and Turing's work.

I would hope you're the only one who reads it=20
that way, Murat. Cuz that's not what I said.=20
But, by now, how could I be surprised by your=20
reading it that way, considering that you've=20
also said that computer art is fascistic and=20
that computers are to blame for the economic=20
collapse. Computers, computer art, and,=20
possibly, computer artists seem to freak you=20
out. I find it hard to talk with you about these=20
things cuz yer always jumping to this sort of conclusion.

What I was saying is this. The work of Godel and=20
Turing is fundamental to the poetics of=20
computation and computer art and the=20
multimedial/intermedial because it is=20
fundamental to the theory of computation; and=20
the theory of computation is concerned with=20
exploring the theoretical capabilities and limitations of computing= machines.

Turing invented the 'Turing machine', the=20
'abstract machine', the mathematical model of a=20
computing machine, to show that there are some=20
*tasks that no computing machine can ever carry=20*
out. In other words, he invented the modern=20 computer to show that it has certain=20
limitations. As opposed to inventing it to get=20
it to do stuff that couldn't be done otherwise.=20
Which, to me, is the sort of poetical thing that=20
we see time and again in Godel's and Turing's work.

That's quite a bit of a tall order, don't you think, though I can understand their potential or= realized
importance in some kind of poetry.

"poetry needs to be able to travel at the forefront of any field."

What does also this sentence mean, that poetry should become a kind of supermench, the way opera was for Wagner?

Supermench? No. When we look at the impact of=20
computing on language, we can talk about it in=20
many ways, can concentrate on different things.=20
The way, for instance, that the net crosses X=20
with Y, brings ideas into contact with one=20
another, and, consequently, the languages=20
associated with those ideas. Or the way it=20
brings media into contact with one another, by=20
being capable of representing all sorts of=20
different media all on the same screen or in the=20
same machine; and, consequently, brings the=20
languages both of and about those media into=20
contact with one another. Or the way it brings=20 people into contact with one another, being=20
capable of representing communication=20
channels (such as telephone) as well as=20
traditional media like print, recorded sound, and video/TV, etc.

The impact of computing on language is in all=20
sorts of cross-fertilization of language X with=20 language Y, whether the languages are natural or other types of languages.

Poetry is one of the fields that can use those=20
energies expressively, innovatively, in a way=20
that captures the contemporary, and furthers our=20 understanding of what is happening to language(s) and us via computing.

ja
http://vispo.com
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D
=3D=3D=3D=3D=

New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
$16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm

"What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a=20
lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the=20

poet alive in every sense of the word, and=20
through every one of his senses. Instead of=20
missing a beat or a part, Weiss=92 fragments are=20
like Chekhov=92s short stories=ADthe more that gets=20
left out, the more they seem to contain=85 One can=20
hear echoes from all the various=20
ancestors...[but] the voice, at its center, its=20
core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment=20
is both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure=20
musical threnody=85[it] opens a window, not only=20
into a mind, but a person, a personality, this=20
human figure at the emotional center of the poem."

M.G. Stephens, in Jacket.=20
http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml

=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D
=
3D

End of POETICS Digest - 25 Sep 2010 to 27 Sep 2010 (#2010-226)
***\

253. Mark DuCharme
Re: Michael Gizzi
Wed 29 Sep 2010

He was was one of a handful of contemporaries of whom I can honestly say that I never read a poem which bored me. Although clearly it may take awhile, I can't wait for the Collected.

Mark DuCharme

↑ Index

254. John Roche
Black Mountain North Symposium
Wed 29 Sep 2010

A quick reminder that the Black Mountain North Symposium is this weekend (October 1-3) in Rochester, NY. The festivities commence unofficially Thursday night at Writers & Books, 740 University Avenue, Rochester, with a reading by Albert Glover, Jim Cohn, and Sam Abrams. Full schedule and registration information here: http://www.blackmountainnorth.org/

John Roche
[redacted]

↑ Index

255. Ryan Daley
Re: Michael Gizzi
Wed 29 Sep 2010

I too was shocked. I've known Michael as both a friend and colleague for about 5 years. We lost touch in recent years. I'm deeply saddened by this news, and have felt all day that I should have done more to keep up with him. Michael always had the best edits, the best words: he certainly wasn't a bullshitter by any means. He told me always what I needed to hear, even if I didn't exactly know what that was. I consider him central to my development as one who thinks, writes, and views films (Mike introduced me to Antonioni, and to Russian Ark).

I'm not expecting this feeling to pass quickly, and my heart and thoughts certainly go out to his friends and family.

You will be missed, Mike.

-Ryan Daley

On Wed, Sep 29, 2010 at 5:58 PM, Michael Tod Edgerton <
[redacted]> wrote:

> It was such a shock to see this email.Michael was my professor and then thesis > advisor at Brown. I knew him not only as a wonderful poet, but as a great guy > and an encouraging, supportive teacher. He was really very generous, and I'm > left wishing I'd been able to give more to him in return and to have known him > better. My thoughts are very much with his family and loved ones. This is really > very sad news.
>
> Tod
> ---
> Michael Tod Edgerton
> MFA '06, Program in Literary Arts, Brown University
> PhD student, Dept. of English, University of Georgia
>
> ---
> From: amy king <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Wed, September 29, 2010 1:54:29 PM
> Subject: Re: Michael Gizzi
>
> No official obit yet, but --
> http://www.poetryfoundation.org/harriet/2010/09/michael-gizzi/
>
> ********
> Now That's WAC
> + http://wearechampion.blogspot.com/2010/08/amy-king.html
>
> Amy's Alias
> + http://amyking.org/
> ********
>
> ---

> From: Sharon Mesmer/David Borchart <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Wed, September 29, 2010 11:04:58 AM
> Subject: Michael Gizzi
>
> Does anyone have any details regarding the death of Michael Gizzi, aside from:
> http://writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/
>
> ??
>
> x, Sharon Mesmer
> &
>
> &

↑ Index

256. Sharon Mesmer/David Borchart
Re: Michael
Thu 30 Sep 2010

I agree with you, Chris: there's so much. Michael was the editor of my first book, from Hard Press, and I really believe that were it not for him I'd probably still be shopping it around. I'm sure there are many, many similar stories about him.

Goddess bless him. Again.

On Sep 29, 2010, at 8:45 PM, Chris Stroffolino wrote:

> There's too much to say about Michael Gizzi
> He was fun. He did so much for me.
> The first poem of his that struck me was called "Possum's Creed"
> (one day he called to tell me he was singing "The Farmer In The Deli")
> He wore the badge of high art lighter than most (does that sound pretentious---ugh).
> At times wickedly cynical. Glint eyes
> (try to hide your deep suffering by whatever means necessary).
> Often in a tandom.
> John Yau and he were running buddies, verbal sparring partners when I first met him

(circa 90?). Also, he and Clark Coolidge (when CC and I both lived near Michael).

Even when he was bed-ridden in the mid-90s, he was one of those guys who could really HOLD COURT as it were from his bed; Barbeio (sp?) and her amazing art was around a lot then--he'd play Basement Tapes & a lot of James Brown (he was into James Booker too).
Going to see Dylan at Tanglewood with him and Clark Coolidge was a trip (Clark kept on saying, "he better not play that religious stuff." Michael laughed at me mischeviously; he not-so-secretly was hoping Dylan would (more so to piss CC off probably---the lord works in mysterious way; just like a real Italian kid). & Shakespeare plays. Michael & Ashbery

There's too much to say about Michael; and I know I've only scratched the surface. I haven't made it back east for almost a decade; but we became facebook friends in the last year.
We wrote a few comments on each other's walls....

On Sep 27, 2010, at 9:03 PM, POETICS automatic digest system wrote:

There are 21 messages totalling 1474 lines in this issue.

Topics of the day:

1. Olson query (2)
2. language and poetry after godel and turing (5)
3. [New-Poetry] From Their Ringtones You Shall Know Them
4. The Swan's Rag: Issue Two
5. this week on the 30 word review
6. Hank Lazer interviewed by Chris Mansel --- The Argotist Onlline
7. Fwd: Poetry Chapbook Reading Wednesday, September 29
8. Marsh Hawk Press Fall Book Launch (Readings by Finkelstein, Morris et al.)
9. Sweetness, the riff
10. New Writing Series @ UCSD next Wednesday, October 6
11. IMPROVISATIONS by Vernon Frazer now on Scribd
12. habenicht press announces: CRASS SONGS OF SAND & BRINE by Micah Robbins
13. RECONFIGURATIONS: Call for Submissions (Special Feature / Graphic Non-Fiction)
14. »SOUS LES PAVÉS« vol.1 no.1
15. Chris Funkhouser and Alan Sondheim event, Fri. Oct 1, Unnameable Books, Brooklyn! (please announce/forward)
16. Ken Edwards & Ken Edwards & Myung Mi Kim in San Francisco

---

Date: Sat, 25 Sep 2010 15:11:58 -0400
From: Margaret Konkol <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Olson query

Hey Ric,

I believe Ralph Maude is working on a collection of Olson's unpublished late works.

Cheers,
Margaret

On Thu, Sep 23, 2010 at 9:57 AM, Carfagna, Richard <[redacted]> wrote:

Hi,
I was wondering if anyone knows who took over the official scholarship of
Charles Olson after the death of George Butterick?

Also, what with the release in the past couple of year of the Daybooks of Oppen
and the collected Notebooks of Frost, does anyone know of plans to mine the Olson collection at Storrs to produce a similar type of tome?

Thanks,
Ric

Date: Sat, 25 Sep 2010 13:02:21 -0700
From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing

interesting.
but i'm wary of the word forefront.
does poetry necessarily need to be ... there.

not everyone has to be there, of course. poetry 'covers' many mentalities.

many 'mansions'.

the lights are pretty much off, though, in the poetry mansion and it's black as night, concerning knowledge about things like the theory of computation, Godel, and so forth. and folks are frightened: computer art is fascistic, don't you know, and computers are to blame for the economic collapse, etc etc. we can't be machines because that would mean it's all an empty mechanical random concourse of atoms. and so on. people are frightened by computers and computing in many ways, from the challenge they pose just in how to use them in day to day life, to the 'threats' they pose to our identity, to the role they sometimes play in art and poetry.

yet here we are using computers to talk about poetry. and using them to do so many other things in our pursuit of poetry.

knowledge of things like the theory of computation not only can help dispel fear--because the fear is mostly of the sort where we fear what we do not understand--but, in matters of poetry, also provides us with, say, approaches to language that can be useful in poetry and poetics.

also, the theory of computation and godel's work are fundamental to the poetics of computation.

i'm happy to see it in the bleachers,
or with the cheerleaders.

ha. yes i think it would be very pleasant to be with the cheerleaders in the bleachers.

really, i may have to re/read the esher/bach/GOD-el thing.

if yer after a hofstadter book, try 'i am a strange loop'. i'm finding that one more readable. rebbeca goldstein's book called 'incompleteness' is good on godel, his proof and biography (and friendship with einstein)--and also concerning godel/wittgenstein. martin davis's book 'engines of logic' is an instant classic in the 'history of ideas'. it looks at the life and work of leibniz, boole, frege, cantor, hilbert, godel, and turing concerning the development of the computer. it was leibniz's dream to create an 'aide to human reason', which, he felt, required a language of symbolic logic. martin davis is, himself, a renowned usamerican logician. his book is excellent on the math and logic, on the history of ideas, in its biographical sketches, and in its historical perspective. great book. another relevant book is the oulipo compendium edited by harry matthews. oulipo started in 1960 and is/was the first erm poetry movement or group or whatever to seriously cross the borders of math and poetry. also, theirs is/was a kind of 'axiomatic' approach that relates closely to mathematical logic. another inerestin book is prehistoric digital poetry by chris funkhouser. this looks at digital poetry from 1959 to 1995. basically pre-web. this mainly looks at the work of the earlier poet-programmers.

occassionally, it's fun to actually have something of a clue,or sort of know what i'm talking about. which, in my book, means ... Witt vs. Godel: it's a tie.

ha. well, wittgenstein is still, of course, very influential in matters of philosophy and even, somewhat, in literary matters. whereas godel's work never really was, except in mathematical logic.

ja
http://vispo.com

--- On Thu, 9/23/10, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
To: [redacted]
Date: Thursday, September 23, 2010, 3:43 AM

language and poetry after godel and turing.

but, in poetry circles, godel and turing just do not compute, as you see in the responses to this thread, which dealt with derrida, not godel and turing.

and this is one of the reasons why poetry itself is isolated.

poetry, these days, needs to be an umbrella term for deep concerns of language and art cross-stitched amongs many fields and modes of perception/reception. for instance, the role of language in contemporary mathematical logic is of philosophical significance and also has turned out to be of very practical significance in that the work of godel and turing led to the creation of the computer, that universal number+language machine.

the philosophical underpinnings of the poetics of computation, of computer art, can be strongly linked with the work of godel and turing and its consequences concerning language, epistemology, philosophy of mind, and the multimedial/intermedial.

poetry needs to be able to travel at the forefront of any field.

ja
http://vispo.com

Date: Sat, 25 Sep 2010 13:19:42 -0700
From: Obododimma Oha <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: [New-Poetry] From Their Ringtones You Shall Know Them

Hi Tijani!
Thanks for reading the article & responding.
Regards.
Obododimma.

On Sat, Sep 25, 2010 at 12:38 PM, BY TJMST <[redacted]> wrote:

hi Obodo et al
thanks for psychologically sharing the repugnant but atimes soothing palaver of ringtones.I must say i will reminisce in delightfully, distatefully later on this web.Frankly i dont think i like them -almost a loathing experience personally.The bad aspect of it is tat a customised ringtone might even turn off someone else that' s a turn -on.
The CELL PHONE is an interesting tool for a wide variety of gaiety yet there's a challenge to users conscience...whom to blame?The softwar e pedlers or the buyer or the licenceeor communication commission?Amen for answered prayers or poetry.
Gbemi TIJANI MST

On 9/14/10, Obododimma Oha <[redacted]> wrote:

"A ringtone advertises the owner of the mobile phone. It says: listen to me as I tell a bit about this fellow's difference. By extension, the medium has become the addressee and could even be a signifier of the addresser.
These days when mobile telephony has brought further stress upon marriages and other relationships, is it not ingenious to configure the rings in such a way that the clever addressee can tell who is calling, at least to be able to know whether to answer, where to answer, what to answer; or to know which story to tell later to the person eavesdropping by the side? The medium will eventually be the accomplice as well as the evidence."

To read the full text of "From Their Ringtones You Shall Know Them<http://234next.com/csp/cms/sites/Next/Opinion/Columns/5618388-182/story.csp>,"
visit:

http://234next.com/csp/cms/sites/Next/Opinion/Columns/5618388-182/story.csp

--
Obododimma Oha
http://udude.wordpress.com/

Dept. of English
University of Ibadan
Nigeria

&

Fellow, Centre for Peace & Conflict Studies
University of Ibadan

Phone: [redacted];
[redacted];
[redacted].

New-Poetry mailing list
[redacted]
http://wiz.cath.vt.edu/mailman/listinfo/new-poetry

--
Obododimma Oha
http://udude.wordpress.com/

Dept. of English
University of Ibadan
Nigeria

&

Fellow, Centre for Peace & Conflict Studies
University of Ibadan

Phone: [redacted];
[redacted];
[redacted].

Date: Sat, 25 Sep 2010 14:13:07 -0700
From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing

"the philosophical underpinnings of the poetics of computation, of computer art, can be strongly linked with the work of godel and turing and its consequences concerning language, epistemology, philosophy of mind, and the multimedial/intermedial."

As far as I can see, all you are saying here is that poetry is not poetry unless related to Godel and Turing's work.

I would hope you're the only one who reads it that way, Murat. Cuz that's not what I said. But, by now, how could I be surprised by your reading it that way, considering that you've also said that computer art is fascistic and that computers are to blame for the economic collapse. Computers, computer art, and, possibly, computer artists seem to freak you out. I find it hard to talk with you about these things cuz yer always jumping to this sort of conclusion.

What I was saying is this. The work of Godel and Turing is fundamental to the poetics of computation and computer art and the multimedial/intermedial because it is fundamental to the theory of computation; and the theory of computation is concerned with exploring the theoretical capabilities and limitations of computing machines.

*Turing invented the 'Turing machine', the 'abstract machine', the mathematical model of a computing machine, to show that there are some tasks that no computing machine can ever carry out. In other words, he invented the modern computer to show that it has certain limitations. As opposed to inventing it to get it to do stuff that couldn't be done otherwise. Which, to me, is the sort of poetical thing that we see time and again in Godel's and Turing's work.*

That's quite a bit of a tall order, don't you think, though I can understand their potential or realized importance in some kind of poetry.

"poetry needs to be able to travel at the forefront of any field."

What does also this sentence mean, that poetry should become a kind of supermench, the way opera was for Wagner?

Supermench? No. When we look at the impact of computing on language, we can talk about it in many ways, can concentrate on different things. The way, for instance, that the net crosses X with Y, brings ideas into contact with one another, and, consequently, the languages associated with those ideas. Or the way it brings media into contact with one another, by being capable of representing all sorts of different media all on the same screen or in the same machine; and, consequently, brings the languages both of and about those media into contact with one another. Or the way it brings people into contact with one another, being capable of representing communication channels (such as telephone) as well as traditional media like print, recorded sound, and video/TV, etc.

The impact of computing on language is in all sorts of cross-fertilization of language X with language Y, whether the languages are natural or other types of languages.

Poetry is one of the fields that can use those energies expressively, innovatively, in a way that captures the contemporary, and furthers our understanding of what is happening to language(s) and us via computing.

ja
http://vispo.com

Date: Sat, 25 Sep 2010 23:19:22 +0000
From: michael farrell <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: The Swan's Rag: Issue Two

thanks for making me realise rimbaud looks like ben affleck

Date: Fri, 24 Sep 2010 11:21:13 -0700
From: [redacted]
Subject: The Swan's Rag: Issue Two
To: [redacted]

Hello Swans,

We at Dirty Swan Projects are happy to announce THE SWAN'S RAG ISSUE TWO! The line up speaks for itself.

ROB HALPERN: L O V E S O N G (T O M Y F A L L E N S O L D I E R)
BOB GLÜCK: Ed's First Sexual Experience

CEDAR SIGO: 7/23/10
ROB HALPERN: from Trolley's Kind
An Interview with WILDE BOY ALEX DIMITROV
BRUCE BOONE: My Walk with Evan
JACK FROST: Ex/Sex is a High School History Class You Remember
TED REES: Bahd Nay Foo Yah
TOM MEYER on Jonathan Williams
Threesome Polaroids from JONATHAN WILLIAMS
A Poem from SARA LARSEN

Images of Rimbaud in West Oakland from JOHNNY TOWNMOUSE, additional images from £UKASZ S£AWINSKI.

Images and purchasing instructions here:
http://theswansrag.blogspot.com (NSFW?).

Kisses and misses,

Dirty Swan Projects

Date: Sat, 25 Sep 2010 23:23:08 +0000
From: michael farrell <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing

does poetry need anything?

i could say poetry needs to be more like blondie - but thats really my need=
-

Date: Fri=2C 24 Sep 2010 12:08:06 -0700
From: [redacted]
Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
To: [redacted]
=20
interesting.
but i'm wary of the word forefront.
does poetry necessarily need to be ... there.
=20
i'm happy to see it in the bleachers=2C
or with the cheerleaders.
=20

really=2C i may have to re/read the esher/bach/GOD-el thing.
occassionally=2C it's fun to actually have something of a clue=2Cor sort = of know what i'm talking about. which=2C in my book=2C means ... Witt vs. G=
odel: it's a tie.=20 =20
--- On Thu=2C 9/23/10=2C Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:
=20
From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
To: [redacted]
Date: Thursday=2C September 23=2C 2010=2C 3:43 AM =20
language and poetry after godel and turing.
=20 but=2C in poetry circles=2C godel and turing just do not compute=2C as yo= u see in the responses to this thread=2C which dealt with derrida=2C not go= del and turing.
=20
and this is one of the reasons why poetry itself is isolated.
=20 poetry=2C these days=2C needs to be an umbrella term for deep concerns of= language and art cross-stitched amongs many fields and modes of perception= /reception. for instance=2C the role of language in contemporary mathematic= al logic is of philosophical significance and also has turned out to be of = very practical significance in that the work of godel and turing led to the= creation of the computer=2C that universal number+language machine.
=20
the philosophical underpinnings of the poetics of computation=2C of compu= ter art=2C can be strongly linked with the work of godel and turing and its= consequences concerning language=2C epistemology=2C philosophy of mind=2C = and the multimedial/intermedial.
=20
poetry needs to be able to travel at the forefront of any field.
=20
ja
http://vispo.com=20
=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D= =20 =20 =20 =20
=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D= =20
=

Date: Sun, 26 Sep 2010 08:54:20 -0700
From: Dan Glass <[redacted]>
Subject: this week on the 30 word review

Two theories of the present=97preservation & sincerity.

Lovejoy by Phoebe Wayne
Tout Va Bien by Suzanne Stein

http://the30wordreview.blogspot.com/

Date: Sun, 26 Sep 2010 18:36:08 +0200
From: Jeffrey Side <[redacted]>
Subject: Hank Lazer interviewed by Chris Mansel --- The Argotist Onlline

Hank Lazer interviewed by Chris Mansel --- The Argotist Onlline =20
http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Lazer%20interview%202.htm =20 =20 =20
Excerpt:
=20
CM: Where do you suppose the self-destructiveness trait comes from that occ= urs in so many writers?
=20
HL: From frustration, as a consequence of marginalization, and from succumb=
ing to a dangerous set of culturally romanticized stereotypes. First, the f= rustration and maginalization routes. A writer, particularly a poet, places= himself in an odd position in relation to dominant cultural value. A poet = decides to value certain kinds of somewhat aimless, impractical, non-money-= making activities, and he decides to make room and time in his life for the= se activities. Furthermore, he=E2=80=99s apt to be pursuing a rather elusiv=
e mode of language =E2=80=93 not necessarily the direct, communicative, =E2=
=80=9Cuseful,=E2=80=9D commercially manipulative kind of language skill tha= t society readily appreciates and rewards (in advertising, in journalism, a= nd in other modes of persuasive and/or manipulative writing). So, what he= =E2=80=99s doing with his time is aberrant =E2=80=93 hard to explain. And y= et, if he is really engaged in a serious and profound relationship to poetr= y, he does have certain sporadic validating experiences =E2=80=93 a sense o= f connection to a longstanding human enterprise of considerable wisdom, joy=
, and pleasure. The self-destructiveness may arise as a gesture of anger an= d frustration, arising from a sense that one=E2=80=99s primary life activit= y is not appreciated or understood or respected. The self-destructiveness b= ecomes an act oddly complicit with that ignoring and marginalizing by the s= ociety at large, while it is also a somewhat desperate call for attention a= nd significance.=20

=20
http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Lazer%20interview%202.htm =20 =20

Date: Sun, 26 Sep 2010 13:25:19 -0700
From: Peter Grant <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Olson query

Ric, Please read my review of Ralph Maud's Charles Olson at the Harbor (talonbooks 2008) in Pacific Rim Review of Books #10 for a possible answer to your first question...

http://www.prrb.ca/articles/issue10-olson.html

Peter

Date: Thu, 23 Sep 2010 09:57:54 -0400
From: "Carfagna, Richard" <[redacted]>
Subject: Olson query

Hi,
I was wondering if anyone knows who took over the official scholarship
of
Charles Olson after the death of George Butterick?

Also, what with the release in the past couple of year of the Daybooks
of Oppen
and the collected Notebooks of Frost, does anyone know of plans to mine
the Olson
collection at Storrs to produce a similar type of tome?

Thanks,
Ric

Date: Sun, 26 Sep 2010 22:45:03 -0400
From: Sharon Dolin <[redacted]>
Subject: Fwd: Poetry Chapbook Reading Wednesday, September 29

Dear Friends, Writers, Teachers,

Please see the announcement below. It should be a terrific evening!

Sharon

Sharon Dolin
[redacted]
www.sharondolin.com

Having difficulty viewing this email? Click here.
=20
Don't miss out on autumn
courses!
Click here for course descriptions and to register!
=20
Alternatives to Type
Learn how to fashion, handle, and print from movable type-high = elements on the letterpress.=20
With Bryan Baker
October 2-3
=20
Crossed Structure & Secret Belgian Binding
A two-day workshop in contemporary book structures based on pre-16th = century bindings. =20
With Emily Martin
October 9-10
=20
Bookbinding I
This core class will introduce students to the basic materials, =
techniques and history of bookbinding.=20
With Shanna Yarbrough
October 7-December 13
=20
Japanese Water-Based Woodblock Printing
Create images using the ancient traditional Japanese Ukiyo-e style of = printing by hand, still widely used in Japan today.
With Takuji Hamanaka
October 11-December 13
=20 =20 =20
Save The Date!
=20

Artist Talk:
Catya Plate
=20
Wednesday, October 13, 6:30 p.m.
Featured Artist Catya Plate discusses her newest work, Clothespin = Tarot, a series of 78 watercolor and pencil drawings inspired by the = traditional Tarot.
$10/$5 CBA Members
Suggested Donation
=20
~
=20
Center Broadsides Reading Series
=20
Wednesday, October 20, 6:30 p.m.
Poets Alex Cuff and David Henderson will read their work. Organized =
by Lisa Jarnot.
$10/$5 CBA Members
Suggested Donation
=20
Quick Links:
=20 Browse our Upcoming Classes
=20
Current Exhibitions
Opportunities
Online Calendar
Flickr
Facebook
Twitter
Blog
=20 =20 =20 =20 =20 =20 =20
This Week:
=20
Poetry Chapbook Reading
=20 =20 =20 =20
Wednesday, September 29, 6:30 p.m.
=20

Join us for a reading celebrating the release of Alexander Long's = limited-edition, artist-made chapbook Still Life, published as part of = the Center for Book Arts' annual Poetry Chapbook program. This year's = chapbook was letterpress printed and hand bound by Barbara Henry in an = edition of 100. Also available will be a letterpress chapbook by = Terrance Hayes, Between Ghosts, designed and produced by Amber McMillan = in an edition of 100. In addition, the Center is producing three = limited-edition broadsides of poems by Jennifer Perrine, Deborah = Flanagan, and Hadara Bar-Nadav. The four poets will read their work, = joined by series organizers Terrence Hayes and Sharon Dolin.=20 =20
Alexander Long's manuscript was selected from a pool of 400 entries. =
Terrance Hayes commented,"This imaginative collection had the wildly = associative qualities of a poet bound to the past and present. His = meditations on the likes of Malcolm X, Kafka and Lincoln combined the = personal to the historical, the lyrical to the narrative. These poems = made an immediate and enduring impression on me." =20
Where:=20
Center for Book Arts
28 West 27th Street, Third Floor
New York, New York 10001
=20
Gallery Hours:=20
M-F 10am-6pm
Sat 10am-4pm
=20
Suggested Admission:=20
$5 members/$10 non-members
Next Week:
=20
Professional Development Workshop:
Find a Collaborator!
Artists and Writers Mixer
=20
With Wennie Huang and Ed Go =20 =20 =20
Wednesday, October 6, 6:30pm
=20
Have you ever wanted to work collaboratively? Are you looking for a = new collaborator? Bring a piece of your visual or written work to this = Professional Development Workshop to learn more about the collaborative = process and meet other emerging artists and writers. Wennie Huang and = Ed Go will discuss their collaboration, and we will experiment with = short hands-on exercises. =20 =20

=20
Where:=20
Center for Book Arts
28 West 27th Street, Third Floor
New York, New York 10001
=20
Suggested Admission:=20
$5 members/$10 non-members
Currently on View in our Galleries:
=20
Ear to the Page =20 =20 =20
Ear to the Page explores the interaction between recordings and books, =
using three categories: sound works that reflect the structure and = aesthetic of books; packages that thematically entail a book as well as = a CD or vinyl record; and books that have a sound component or somehow =
serve to transcribe or document ideas that previously existed, or = potentially can exist, as sound.=20 =20
Artists/Musicians included in the exhibition are: Vito Acconci, Juan =
Arkotxa & Leslie Mackenzie, Bernard Baschet & Francois Baschet, Cathy =
Berberian & Eugenio Carmi, George Brecht, Inge Bruggeman & Hank Lazer, =
Jose Luis Castillejo, Jon Gibson, Kenneth Goldsmith, Grace Jones, Jennie =
C. Jones, Allan Kaprow, Dan Lander & Micah Lexier, Christian Marclay, =
Marshall McLuhan with Jerome Agel, Quentin Fiore, & John Simon, Michalis =
Pichler, Steve Roden, Allen Ruppersberg, Tate Shaw & Andrew Sallee, =
Masumi Shibata, Michael Snow, Jan van der Marck/Art by Telephone, and = Dennis Yuen & Morry Galonoy. Organized by James Hoff and Alan Licht, = Independent Curators.
=20
Artist Talk: Wednesday, November 3, 6:30 pm =20
Featured Artist Project:
Catya Plate: Clothespin Tarot
=20 =20 =20
This project comprises a series of original drawings and an artist = book as well as an animated film. Since 2003 Plate has been working on = a series of 78 watercolor and pencil drawings inspired by the 78 cards = of the traditional tarot. Clothespins have always played a key role in = Plate's work and in this exhibition they become Clothespin Freaks; = figures who, made of clear plastic clothespins, doll's body parts and = sewn pieces, are the real heroes in this subversive Tarot adventure. =
The installation features a new animated film, The Reading, which is a = culminating artist project to this body of work.

=20
Artist Talk: Wednesday, October 13, 6:30 pm =20
Featured Artist Project:
Barbara Tetenbaum and the Triangular Press: Recent Works=20
2010 Bishop Faculty Fellow =20 =20 =20
Every year the Center for Book Arts invites an artist/ instructor from = outside of New York to teach a master class and to give a formal lecture =
in New York City. Barbara Tetenbaum, The Sally R. Bishop Master Faculty = Fellow for 2010, has been printing artist books under the imprint, =
Triangular Press, since 1979. She is currently Professor and Department =
Head of Book Arts at Oregon College of Art & Craft in Portland, OR. She = is the recipient of two Fulbright awards to teach in Leipzig, Germany = and in Usti nad Labem in the Czech Republic, and has received other = awards of support for her artwork and research. Her books are held in = public collections in the U.S., Canada, England, France, Germany and the = Netherlands. Her master class, Artist Book Strategies: Exploring Music = and Musical Scores, will be held at the Center on November 19-21.=20 =20
Artist Talk: Friday, November 19th , 6:30 pm=20 =20
Where:=20
Center for Book Arts
28 West 27th Street, Third Floor
New York, New York 10001
=20
Gallery Hours:=20
M-F 10am-6pm
Sat 10am-4pm
=20
Admission: Free
Support the Center and receive great benefits...
=20
Discounts on all Center for Book Arts classes Reduced admission to the Center's public events, readings, and = workshops=20
Discounts at select NYC art supply stores and the Center's bookstore
Receive course catalogues and special invitations to exclusive events
Membership starts at $50
Click here for more information and join today!
=20
28 West 27th Street, Third Floor
New York, New York 10001
[redacted]
www.centerforbookarts.org

=20 =20
The Center's Visual Arts Program and related Public Programs are = supported in part by the Lily Auchincloss Foundation, the Wolf Kahn & = Emily Mason Foundation, and the Dedalus Foundation. Additional support = for the Center's programs is provided in part by the Achelis Foundation, =
the Carnegie Corporation, the J.M. Kaplan Fund, the Milton and Sally =
Avery Arts Fund, the New York City Department of Cultural Affairs, the =
New York State Council on the Arts, and the Pine Tree Foundation of New =
York. Programs are also supported, in part, by public funds from the =
New York City Department of Cultural Affairs in partnership with the = City Council. Support for the Center's Collections Initiative comes from = the National Endowment for the Arts, the Institute of Museum and Library =
Services, the Max and Victoria Dreyfus Foundation, and the Gladys =
Krieble Delmas Foundation. Major funding for the Center's Capacity = Building programs is provided by the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, the =
Robert Sterling Clark Foundation, the Hyde & Watson Foundation, and the =
New York Community Trust. Special support for the Center's =
Artist-in-Residence program has been provided by the Foundation for = Contemporary Arts. The Center also acknowledges the generous support of = its patrons and members.
=20 =20 =20 =20 Forward email
=20
This email was sent to [redacted] by =
[redacted].
Update Profile/Email Address | Instant removal with SafeUnsubscribe=99 =
| Privacy Policy.
Email Marketing by =20
The Center for Book Arts | 28 West 27th Street | Third Floor | New =
York | NY | 10001
=20

Date: Mon, 27 Sep 2010 09:26:47 -0400
From: "Kimmelman, Burt" <[redacted]>
Subject: Marsh Hawk Press Fall Book Launch (Readings by Finkelstein, Morris et al.)

Please join us for the Marsh Hawk Press Fall Book Launch featuring readings=
by Norman Finkelstein and other Marsh Hawk Press authors.

Thursday, October 14, 2010
6:00 PM to 8:00 PM

Ceres Gallery
547 W 27th St # 201, New York, NY
[redacted]

Refreshments in our usual abundant over-the-top style

Fall Books:

Inside the Ghost Factory<http://www.marshhawkpress.org/Finkelstein2.htm>

Norman Finkelstein

Inside the Ghost Factory finds Norman Finkelstein returning to his pre-Trac= k fascination with the Coleridgean fancy, first delineated in Restless Mess= engers. Here, however, Samuel Coleridge meets William Gibson and the result= is a retro- Blakean myth for the age of Text and Tweet. These transmission=
s from "elsewhere," manufactured on the assembly lines of "Ghosts, Incorpor= ated. Poetry, Incorporated" (Limited, I might add), are gleefully dissected= by Finkelstein as so much "clap-trap." Still, there's no correcting the bl= ur of occultation and occlusion for the poet who believes "Books were made = for secrets they cannot/keep: this is what it means to be/read."-Tyrone Wil= liams
If Not for the Courage<http://www.marshhawkpress.org/Morris2.htm>
Daniel Morris

Everyday life in the household and memory of Daniel Morris's suburban Jewis= h-professorpoet and father of toddlers has rarely been rendered with the en= ergy, good humor, and luminous detail we meet in Daniel Morris's If Not for= the Courage. These poems are at once hilarious and heart-breaking; they ta= ke us straight to the scene of the crime, allowing us to witness the most a= bsurd and agonizingly funny moments of daily routine against the backdrop o= f unrelieved media blitz. The courage of Morris's title is evident througho=
ut. -Marjorie Perloff

Date: Sun, 26 Sep 2010 23:22:44 -0400
From: Alan Sondheim <[redacted]>
Subject: Sweetness, the riff

Sweetness

Chris Funkhouser and I were writing back and forth about riffs and I realize I rarely use them, at least not consciously, since they tend to repeat themselves uncomfortably; in any case, sweetness1 uses a riff one way or another for a little song; in sweetness2, the riff's dissolved, deconstructed, transformed, to no end, or one and another; just a little guitar music dealing with a "theme" of sorts, maybe time for a hit tune maybe.

http://espdisk.com/alansondheim/sweetness1.mp3
http://espdisk.com/alansondheim/sweetness2.mp3

Date: Mon, 27 Sep 2010 06:45:41 -0700
From: Rachel Loden <[redacted]>
Subject: New Writing Series @ UCSD next Wednesday, October 6

New Writing Series presents:

A reading by Rachel Loden

Wednesday, October 6

4:30 pm

Visual Arts Performance Space

UC San Diego

Free

Sponsored by the Dean, Arts & Humanities Division and the Department of Literature

http://literature.ucsd.edu/news/currentevents/writingseries.html

Rachel Loden is the author of Dick of the Dead (Ahsahta Press), a finalist for both the 2010 PEN USA Literary Award for Poetry and the California Book Award. It was also one of the three most-cited books in Attention Span 2009 ("a collectively-drawn map of the field"), landing on lists by Rae Armantrout and others. The Washington Post's "Poet's Choice" column featured a poem from the book and it has been called "oddly sublime" and "intoxicating" by the Poetry Project Newsletter and "expansive and whimsical" by the Brooklyn Rail. Loden's first book, Hotel Imperium (Georgia), won the Contemporary Poetry Series competition and was selected as one of the ten best poetry books of the year by the San Francisco Chronicle, which called it "quirky and beguiling." It was also short-listed for the Northern California Book Award. Loden has published four chapbooks, including The Last Campaign (which won the Hudson Valley Writers' Center chapbook competition) and The Richard Nixon Snow Globe (Wild Honey Press). Her work has appeared or is forthcoming in New American Writing, Lana Turner: A Journal of Poetry and Opinion, two editions of the Best American Poetry series, Western Wind: An Introduction to Poetry, and many other magazines and anthologies. Loden's microplay, "A Quaker Meeting in Yorba Linda," was performed in New York as part of Plays on Words: A Poets Theater Festival curated by Tony Torn, Lee Ann Brown and Corina Copp. She is the recipient of a Pushcart Prize, a Fellowship in Poetry from the California Arts Council, an &NOW Award, and a grant from the Fund for Poetry.

Date: Mon, 27 Sep 2010 11:55:24 -0500
From: Mary Jo Malo <[redacted]>
Subject: IMPROVISATIONS by Vernon Frazer now on Scribd

Vernon,

A formatting achievement par excellence! What a wonderful opportunity for readers to access your spontaneous poetry, a nearly extinct form.

Mary Jo

--
http://thisshiningwound.blogspot.com/
http://apophisdeconstructingabsurdity.blogspot.com/

Date: Mon, 27 Sep 2010 13:11:12 -0400
From: David Hadbawnik <[redacted]>
Subject: habenicht press announces: CRASS SONGS OF SAND & BRINE by Micah Robbins

I=92m pleased to announce this new chapbook <http://habenichtpress.com/?p= =3D523>by
Micah Robbins*, publisher of Interbirth Books<http://www.interbirthbooks.org/>.*
*Thanks to Micah, as well as to Richard Owens and Clifford Riley for helping design the cover.*

"We are the kids in black =97 night-worn
hangers-on tired and out of smokes
piss wasted =97 dead in the eye

watching shubie legs pump rusted pedals
rattle hoary boards as they pass
the pavilion =97 ours taken in the night"

12pp. Letter-press cover designed by Richard Owens and Clifton Riley.
Hand-sewn. Habenicht Press, 2010. $7 plus shipping.

Date: Mon, 27 Sep 2010 14:20:30 -0600
From: Scott Howard <[redacted]>
Subject: RECONFIGURATIONS: Call for Submissions (Special Feature / Graphic Non-Fiction)

RECONFIGURATIONS=3A A Journal for Poetics =26 Poetry / Literature =26 Cu= lture=2C =

ISSN=3A 1938-3592=2C =

http=3A//reconfigurations=2Eblogspot=2Ecom/ =

=

Volume 4=3A Special Feature / Graphic Non-Fiction =

Submissions=3A September thru October=2C 2010 =

Publication=3A November=2C 2010 =

=

Guidelines=3A Volume four of Reconfigurations=2C http=3A//reconfiguratio=
ns=2Eblogspot=2Ecom/=2C seeks a variety of works for a special feature c= oncerning graphic non-fiction=2E Marshall McLuhan=92s =93Understanding =
Media=94 describes comics as a =93cool media=2C=94 where the tension bet= ween medium and message is key=2E That notion seems especially relevant= to graphic non-fiction=2C where the desire to =91report=92 often collid=
es with visual expression=3A the result being a work that demands intens= e reader participation and interpretation=2C thus calling attention to t= he author=92s choice to work within the comics form=2E =

=

Reconfigurations seeks essays that explore this tension within the mediu= m=2C art=2C and/or texts of graphic nonfiction (such as memoir=2C histor= y=2C reports=2C journalism=2C travel writing)=2E =

=

Reconfigurations=2C ISSN=3A 1938-3592=2C http=3A//reconfigurations=2Eblo= gspot=2Ecom/=2C is an electronic=2C peer-reviewed=2C international=2C an= nual journal for poetics and poetry=2C creative and scholarly writing=2C= innovative and traditional concerns with literary arts and cultural stu= dies=2E Reconfigurations publishes under a Creative Commons 3=2E0 open-= access license=2C is MLA indexed=2C EBSCO distributed and independently = managed=2E =

=

Electronic Submissions=3A crowe=40du=2Eedu=2E Submissions should be att= ached as a single =2Edoc=2C =2Ertf=2C or =2Etxt file=2E Visuals should = be attached individually as =2Ejpg=2C =2Egif or =2Ebmp files=2E Please = include the words =93Special Feature (Graphic Non-Fiction)=94 in the sub= ject line of your message=2E

///

Date: Mon, 27 Sep 2010 17:45:39 -0400
From: Micah Robbins <[redacted]>
Subject: =?ISO-8859-1?Q?=BBSOUS_LES_PAV=C9S=AB_?= vol.1 no.1

=BBSOUS LES PAV=C9S=AB is a FREE bi-monthly newsletter of ideation and po= etry

distributed by mailing list only & funded by the generous donations o= f its readers.=20

To join the mailing list & to donate visit =BBSOUS LES PAV=C9S=AB at http://interbirthbooks.com/?page_id=3D161 or write Micah Robbins | 3515 Fairview Ave. | Dallas, TX 75223 ~ [redacted]

Vol.1 No.1 includes work by The Rejection Group, Richard Owens, Edmond Caldwell, Linh Dinh, Lisa Burdige, David Hadbawnik, Micah Robbins, Gene Tanta, Brenda Iijima, and Brooks Johnson.

Please support this effort by donating & joining the growing list of recipients . . .

Date: Sun, 26 Sep 2010 21:00:41 -0400
From: Alan Sondheim <[redacted]>
Subject: Chris Funkhouser and Alan Sondheim event, Fri. Oct 1, Unnameable Books, Brooklyn! (please announce/forward)

Chris Funkhouser and Alan Sondheim event, Fri. Oct 1, Unnameable Books

Friday, October 1 7:30pm - 9:30pm
Location Unnameable Books
600 Vanderbilt Ave.
Brooklyn, NY
Created By
Unnameable Boox
More Info DIGITAL POETICS 10.01.10

Performances of fingered music, digital projection, codework and text. Viola, oud, saz, guitar? Keyboard. Laptop. Microphone. Books.

CHRIS FUNKHOUSER is a poet, scholar, and multimedia artist. In 2009, the Associated Press commissioned him to prepare digital poems for the occasion of Barack Obama's inauguration. He is author of the documentary study, Prehistoric Digital Poetry: An Archaeology of Forms, 1959-1995, and an eBook (CD-ROM), Selections 2.0. He currently teaches at New Jersey Institute of Technology and University of Pennsylvania, is a Senior Editor at PennSound, a member of the scientific review committee of the digital literature journal regards crois?s (University of Paris 8), is on the Advisory Board of the Digital Poetry Archive of Canada, and is an External Collaborator with Ncleo de Ciberteatro, Insituto Politcnico do Porto (Portugal). Since 1986 he has been an editor with We Press, with whom he has produced poetry in a variety of media. A widely published author, he was Visiting Fulbright Scholar at Multimedia University in Cyberjaya, Malaysia (2006), on the summer writing program faculty of the Naropa University (2007), and is presently Digital Poet-in-Residence at Bowery Poetry Club (New York City).

ALAN SONDHEIM is our (all our) resident genius and provocateur. He is also an important artist, theorist, code-worker, poet, musician, choreographer, essayist, filmmaker, video-maker, performer and new-media innovator, who has been working tirelessly and prolifically and with astonishing results since before I was born. If youre lucky, you may be on one of his email lists, which are the primary way he distributes his writing and other work.

Sondheim has a new book of poetry out from Salt Press: DEEP LANGUAGE. Maria Damon says it tangles us up in these hypnotically repetitive, abject, slyly humorous and childishly gleeful, philosophically, aesthetically, theoretically and psychologically dense and insightful poems, that are also essays, diasporic riffs and incantations, true confessions, Platonic dialogues, shtick, tantrums, aphorisms and manifesti. John Cayley says he is one of the precious few who joyfully and in abject misery risks these terrors of writing for us, for our pleasure and our undoing. What happens? Language disposes of us.

Date: Mon, 27 Sep 2010 15:26:09 -0700
From: Stephen Vincent <[redacted]>
Subject: Ken Edwards & Ken Edwards & Myung Mi Kim in San Francisco

=A0=0A Ken Edwards & Myung Mi Kim gave phenomenal readings this past Saturd= ay night for the SF State Poetry =0ACenter at the Meridian Gallery. Amazing=
(& not improbable) how the =0Aremains of war (England/WW II & Korea/Americ= an) keep poking their shards up into a=A0=0Amemoried & active present. Inte= resting, or the persuasion of poetry to make the shard penetrate the consci= ousness much more pointedly (memorably) (convincingly)=A0 than prose of a m= ore detached/abstracted order. Kudos.=20
Stephen V
http://stephenvincent.net/blog/

Date: Mon, 27 Sep 2010 20:59:16 -0400
From: Chris Chapman <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing

derrida does borrow another word from the construction industry - subjectile. it refers to a surface before it is painted. if you do a google search you'll find it used to describe priming, sanding, and finishing products in the french dry-wall trades.

On Sat, Sep 25, 2010 at 7:23 PM, michael farrell <[redacted]>wrote:

does poetry need anything?

i could say poetry needs to be more like blondie - but thats really my need -

Date: Fri, 24 Sep 2010 12:08:06 -0700
From: [redacted]
Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
To: [redacted]

interesting.
but i'm wary of the word forefront.
does poetry necessarily need to be ... there.

i'm happy to see it in the bleachers,
or with the cheerleaders.

really, i may have to re/read the esher/bach/GOD-el thing.
occassionally, it's fun to actually have something of a clue,or sort of know what i'm talking about. which, in my book, means ... Witt vs. Godel: it's a tie.

--- On Thu, 9/23/10, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
To: [redacted]
Date: Thursday, September 23, 2010, 3:43 AM

language and poetry after godel and turing.

but, in poetry circles, godel and turing just do not compute, as you see in the responses to this thread, which dealt with derrida, not godel and

turing.

and this is one of the reasons why poetry itself is isolated.

poetry, these days, needs to be an umbrella term for deep concerns of language and art cross-stitched amongs many fields and modes of perception/reception. for instance, the role of language in contemporary mathematical logic is of philosophical significance and also has turned out to be of very practical significance in that the work of godel and turing led to the creation of the computer, that universal number+language machine.

the philosophical underpinnings of the poetics of computation, of computer art, can be strongly linked with the work of godel and turing and its consequences concerning language, epistemology, philosophy of mind, and the multimedial/intermedial.

poetry needs to be able to travel at the forefront of any field.

ja
http://vispo.com

Date: Mon, 27 Sep 2010 21:27:36 -0400
From: Mark Weiss <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: language and poetry after godel and turing

To say that "Poetry is one of the fields that can=20
use those energies expressively, innovatively, in=20
a way that captures the contemporary, and=20
furthers our understanding of what is happening=20
to language(s) and us via computing" is far=20
different than proposing a "poetics of=20
computation." The latter reduces the concept of=20
poetics to nonsense. There are things in the=20
world that are simply different from each other.

At 05:13 PM 9/25/2010, you wrote:
"the philosophical underpinnings of the poetics of computation, of= computer

art, can be strongly linked with the work of godel and turing and its consequences concerning language, epistemology, philosophy of mind, and= the multimedial/intermedial."

As far as I can see, all you are saying here is that poetry is not poetry unless related to Godel and Turing's work.

*I would hope you're the only one who reads it=20
that way, Murat. Cuz that's not what I said.=20
But, by now, how could I be surprised by your=20
reading it that way, considering that you've=20
also said that computer art is fascistic and=20
that computers are to blame for the economic=20
collapse. Computers, computer art, and,=20
possibly, computer artists seem to freak you=20
out. I find it hard to talk with you about these=20
things cuz yer always jumping to this sort of conclusion.*

*What I was saying is this. The work of Godel and=20
Turing is fundamental to the poetics of=20
computation and computer art and the=20
multimedial/intermedial because it is=20
fundamental to the theory of computation; and=20
the theory of computation is concerned with=20
exploring the theoretical capabilities and limitations of computing= machines.*

*Turing invented the 'Turing machine', the=20
'abstract machine', the mathematical model of a=20
computing machine, to show that there are some=20
tasks that no computing machine can ever carry=20
out. In other words, he invented the modern=20 computer to show that it has certain=20
limitations. As opposed to inventing it to get=20
it to do stuff that couldn't be done otherwise.=20
Which, to me, is the sort of poetical thing that=20
we see time and again in Godel's and Turing's work.*

*That's quite a bit of a tall
order, don't you think, though I can understand their potential or= realized importance in some kind of poetry.*

"poetry needs to be able to travel at the forefront of any field."

What does also this sentence mean, that poetry should become a kind of supermench, the way opera was for Wagner?

Supermench? No. When we look at the impact of=20
computing on language, we can talk about it in=20
many ways, can concentrate on different things.=20
The way, for instance, that the net crosses X=20
with Y, brings ideas into contact with one=20
another, and, consequently, the languages=20
associated with those ideas. Or the way it=20
brings media into contact with one another, by=20
being capable of representing all sorts of=20
different media all on the same screen or in the=20
same machine; and, consequently, brings the=20
languages both of and about those media into=20
contact with one another. Or the way it brings=20 people into contact with one another, being=20
capable of representing communication=20
channels (such as telephone) as well as=20
traditional media like print, recorded sound, and video/TV, etc.

The impact of computing on language is in all=20
sorts of cross-fertilization of language X with=20
language Y, whether the languages are natural or other types of languages.

Poetry is one of the fields that can use those=20
energies expressively, innovatively, in a way=20
that captures the contemporary, and furthers our=20
understanding of what is happening to language(s) and us via computing.

ja
http://vispo.com
=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=

New from Chax Press: Mark Weiss, As Landscape.
$16. Order from http://www.chax.org/poets/weiss.htm

"What a beautiful set of circumstances! What a=20
lovely concatenation of particulars. Here is the=20
poet alive in every sense of the word, and=20
through every one of his senses. Instead of=20
missing a beat or a part, Weiss=92 fragments are=20
like Chekhov=92s short stories=ADthe more that gets=20
left out, the more they seem to contain=85 One can=20
hear echoes from all the various=20
ancestors...[but] the voice, at its center, its=20

> core, is pure Mark Weiss. His use of the fragment=20
> is both elegant and bafflingly clear, a pure=20
> musical threnody=85[it] opens a window, not only=20
> into a mind, but a person, a personality, this=20
> human figure at the emotional center of the poem."
>
> M.G. Stephens, in Jacket.=20
> http://jacketmagazine.com/40/r-weiss-rb-stephens.shtml
>
> ---
>
> End of POETICS Digest - 25 Sep 2010 to 27 Sep 2010 (#2010-226)
> **********

↑ Index

257. Stephen Ellis

Re: Michael Gizzi

Thu 30 Sep 2010

I first read Michael Gizzi in a slim volume entitled (I think) Interferon, in the right field bleachers of the triple A Portland Seadogs, in Portland, Maine, in September 1998. I don't know who won the game (who could care?) but I became an immediate and avid fan. Of Michael's. He get a lot of extra base hits as well as lots of cheap off-infield-shins singles that inevitably dribbled to the only unoccupied portion of the field. I can still see Michael's wafer-thin wiry figure hoofin' out a scab double, and appearing, sliding under the tag, just safe, on page 4.

> Date: Wed, 29 Sep 2010 20:44:20 -0600
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: Michael Gizzi
> To: [redacted]
>
> He was was one of a handful of contemporaries of whom I can honestly say that I never read a poem which bored me. Although clearly it may take awhile, I can't wait for the Collected.
>
> Mark DuCharme

↑ Index

258. amy king

NYU Panel Presentation: Women in the Literary Arts -- Tomorrow, Friday, October 1st, @ 2:00 p.m.

Thu 30 Sep 2010

Panel Presentation: Women in th
Friday, October 1st, @ 2:00Â p.m.

Panel Presentation: Women in the Literary Arts

A new organization for women in the literary arts, VIDA seeks to explore critical and cultural perceptions of writing by women through meaningful conversation and the exchange of ideas among existing and emerging literary communities. Featuring nine founding members: poets Erin Belieu, Cate Marvin, Danielle Pafunda, Ann Townsend, and Amy King; fiction writers Susan Steinberg and Cheryl Strayed; childrenâ€™s author Kekla Magoon; and creative nonfiction writer Barrie Jean Borich. Co-sponsored with VIDA.

Location:Â Â Lillian Vernon Creative Writers House, 58 West 10th Street, between 5th and 6th Avenues

http://cwp.fas.nyu.edu/page/readingseries

****

Amy's Alias
+ http://amyking.org/Â
****

↑ Index

@poetics

The UB Poetics Discussion Group

Archive of Electronic Correspondence

October 2010

233 messages · Thu 30 Sep 2010 – Sun 31 Oct 2010

October 2010 was a month about things wearing out and slipping away — the poet nobody could locate anymore, the beloved book coming apart in the hand, the room itself thinning toward its own disappearance. Two hundred and thirty-three messages moved through the list, and its currents ran to entropy in every register: literary reputations that had faded, physical volumes falling to pieces, and the recurring temptation to defect from poetry altogether. The month reads as a quiet meditation on decay, conducted by a room that was itself decaying.

The largest thread went looking for a vanished man. Under the heading of whatever happened to Michael Benedikt, the room tried to trace the prose-poem champion who had assembled the great 1976 anthology and then dropped from view — the book remembered as one that "a generation or two read to pieces", worn soft and coverless from handling, even as its editor had faded from the record. It was reputation as entropy: a book loved to destruction while the name behind it quietly disappeared, the poet outlived by his own crumbling paperback.

The quarrel, tender and strange, made decay itself the subject. A thread on entropy and books invited the room to describe its favorite weathered volumes — the annotated, the water-stained, the spine-broken, the ones that had aged alongside their readers — turning physical decrepitude into a form of love. Against a culture racing toward the pristine digital file, the room chose to celebrate the mortal object: the book precisely because it wears out, because it carries the marks of the hands that held it.

Underneath ran the decade's standing temptation and the era's politics. A thread on beginning fiction voiced, once more, the pull away from poetry toward the longer form, while another marked the rich getting richer, the ruling class pulling away as the recession's recovery reached only the top. Everywhere the same motion: things wearing thin, value draining toward the few, the poem tempted to abandon itself. Even the recovery projects that had cheered earlier years felt, this October, less like triumphant rescue than like triage — a race to name the fading before they faded entirely, conducted by a room that could feel its own edges going soft.

I have set October down exactly as the archive delivered it — the vanished Benedikt, the anthology read to pieces, the love of weathered books, and the widening gap between the rich and the rest — because it was the month the list made entropy its theme and found it everywhere, in the faded poet and the falling-apart paperback and the thinning room itself. A commons that answers its own dwindling by celebrating the book that wears out from being loved, and by trying to remember the man whose great anthology outlasted his name, is a commons making its peace with decay the only way it can: by insisting that a thing worn to pieces was, by that very wear, a thing well used.

— Kristen M. Fabians

Index

Writers, names mentioned, and concepts. Every number links to its message. 233 in all.

WRITERS

Allegrezza, William 14, 36
AND, mIEKAL 97, 146, 190
Andrews, Jim 4, 89, 166, 180
Armand, Louis 119
Ballardini, Anny 218
Beaulieu, Derek 35, 113, 164, 204
Benson, Cara 52, 86, 212
Black, Sheila 43
Bloch, Julia 2
Books, Crane's Bill 55, 170
Borchart, Sharon Mesmer/David 15, 122, 203
Bowering, George 48, 72
Byrne, Mairead 186, 213
Cain, Séamas 161
Calabrese, Rosalie 172
Casamassima, Christophe 16, 93, 179, 200
Chernoff, Maxine 98, 134
Chirot, David-Baptiste 154
Ciccariello, Peter 173
Conrad, CA 37
Cárthaigh, Tomás Ó 114, 198
Dalachinsky, Steve 49, 50, 120
Daley, Ryan 33, 90
Daly, Catherine 68, 209
Damon, Maria 99
Davis, Jeff 217
Devineni, Ram 26
Dickow, Alexander 21
Dolin, Sharon 42
DuCharme, Mark 12, 157
Dunagan, Patrick 117, 162
ELECTRONICS, ART 23, 208
Ellis, Stephen 20
Evans, Steve 177
Farrell, Michael 46
Fieled, Adam 24, 100, 131
Al Filreis 62
Foster, Edward 28
G, Stephanie 105
Garr, Megan M 80
Giragosian, Sarah 181, 184
Glass, Dan 44, 64, 220
Glass, Jesse 91, 116, 121, 138, 148, 149, 167, 194, 207, 215, 226, 227
Godston, Dan 6, 29, 39, 74
Golata, Russ 56
Grant, Peter 158
Grotjohn, Robert 47
Hadbawnik, David 144, 193, 202
Henry, Ron 45
Howard, Scott 17, 61, 123
III, Nicholas Ruiz 223
Johnson, Halvard 81, 96, 110
Karmin, Jennifer 84, 101, 139, 140, 187, 232
Katz, Adam 199
Kimmelman, Burt 22, 70
King, Amy 54, 73, 94, 95, 118, 150, 153, 183, 205
Kirschenbaum, David 107, 126, 185
Latta, John 211
Leaves, Little Red 66, 67, 75
Lepson, Ruth 102, 182
Levato, Francesco 210
Loden, Rachel 159
MacAllister, Bonnie 132
Manson, Douglas 175
Martin, Camille 30, 63, 169, 178
McCaffery, Stephen 82
McLennan, Rob 18, 145, 214, 216, 224
Meersman, Philip 106
Michael 83, 87
Miller, David James 221
Morse, Jonathan 19, 133
Mukherjee, Aryanil 165
Nathanson, Tenney 69
Nelson, Jason 201
Nelson, Paul 196, 206
Nemet-Nejat, Murat 163
Novack, Carol 78
Oha, Obododimma 88
Palagi, Naomi Buck 92, 108
Penton, Jonathan 115
Perman, John 195
Phipps, Wanda 143
Piombino, Nicholas 1
Poe, Deborah 79, 191
Press, Effing 31
Pritts, Nate 189
Project, Poetry 3, 57, 112, 171, 219
Roberson, Michael 60
Rosenthal, Sarah 38, 77
Ross, Stuart 41
Russell, Steve 7, 8, 9, 34, 65, 71
Sarai, Sarah 51
Schlesinger, Kyle 125, 147
Schneider, Laurie Beth 104
Schultz, Susan Webster 228
Seabolt, Brian 40
Side, Jeffrey 58, 103, 109, 124, 129, 135, 136, 137, 168, 174, 197, 231
Siegell, Paul 85, 151, 152
Skinner, Jonathan 155, 156

Smith, Rod 141
Sondheim, Alan 13
Split, Five Eighty 59
Sullivan, Gary 11
Tangney, ShaunAnne 27
St. Thomasino 5, 25
Truitt, Sam 160
Tsai, A. 53
Tysh, Chris 111
Unger, Eric 225
Valley, Country 176
Vassilakis, Nico 188
Vincenz, Marc 142
Waldrop, Rosmarie 233
Waters, Jacqueline 192
Weinstein, Eric 222
Weiss, Mark 230
Wickens, Jessica 32
Wilcox, Dan 127, 128
Xu, Lynn 10
Young, Mark 130, 229
}, { Brad Brace 76

NAMES MENTIONED

Abelson, Alex 57
Abramowitz, Harold 67
Acker, Kathy 202
Ackerman, Amanda 66
Adams, Robert 101, 139, 140
Alexander, Charles 218
Ali, Kazim 141
Alice, Mary 6, 78, 111, 185, 205
Allison, Dorothy 32
Alpert, Barry 218
Anderson, Laurie 68
Andrews, Bruce 69
Anne, Katherine 72, 75, 111
Anton, Robert 48, 50, 71, 82, 111
Apps, Stan 66
Archambeau, Robert 119
Armantrout, Rae 69, 141, 171
Armitage, Simon 68
Arnold, Bob 83, 111
Atlanta, Mark P. 126
Austin, Geer 31
Bacon, Francis 103
Badiou, Alain 141
Baik, Cristiana 126, 171
Baker, Mary 56, 229
Balaz, Joe 229
Baldessari, John 68
Baldwin, James 43, 48, 50, 65, 71, 82, 111
Baldwin, Mary 47, 49, 82, 111
Ball, Michael 179
Ballard, Micah 117
Baraka, Amiri 232
Barnes, Diane 118, 160
Barton, John 29, 74, 111
Bates, Joe 155, 156
Beasley, Bruce 141
Beatty, Warren 209
Becker, Claire 141
Beckett, Samuel 40
Benedict, Michael 91, 97, 98, 99, 104, 105, 116, 121, 122, 134, 138, 144, 148, 167
Benedikt, Michael 99, 148, 221, 226
Benjamin, Walter 132
Bennett, John M. 218, 229
Berkeley, Michael 77, 111, 205
Berlin, Irving 210
Berman, Tosh 125
Bernstein, Charles 141
Berrigan, Anselm 69
Berrigan, Ted 232
Berry, Jake 130, 135
Berry, Stephen 119
Besemer, Jen 74, 111
Betts, Gregory 204, 216
Birmingham, Jed 147
Bishop, Elizabeth 184
Blau, Rachel 119
Boat, Drunken 45, 79, 111, 210
Bogle, Ann 78, 111
Borges, Millicent 218
Boughn, Michael 82
Boughn, Mike 111
Bowen, Kevin 6, 92, 108
Boyer, Anne 220
Bozicevic, Ana 153
Bradley, Tom 78, 115
Brady, Andrea 141
Brainard, Joe 125
Brakhage, Stan 83, 111
Brautigan, Richard 83, 111
Brazil, David 184
Brennan, Susan 26
Brockwell, Stephen 224
Bronk, William 70
Brouwer, Joel 141
Brown, Ann 217
Brown, Lily 141
Brown, Pam 218
Browne, Colin 141
Burns, Megan 6
Burrus, Harry 154
Burton, Philip 6, 185
Byrd, Don 82, 111
Byron, Philip 229
Bök, Christian 119
Cade, Toni 43, 48, 50, 65, 71, 82, 111
Cage, John 83, 111
Campbell, Andy 180
Campbell, Jeremy 67, 214
Campbell, Sarah 67

Capen, Samuel P. 202
Carfagna, Ric 40
Carlos, William 184, 229
Carr, Emily 204
Carr, Julie 141
Carrion, Terri 83, 87, 111
Carson, Anne 3, 219
Carson, Margaret 40
Caruso, Fred 70
Carver, Jane 219
Castro, Michael 83, 111
Cayley, John 180
Cebula, Travis 229
Celan, Paul 141
Chace, Joel 40, 229
Chang, Juliana 53, 82, 111
Chapman, Wes 209
Chen, Chris 220
Chomsky, Noam 141
Claire, Paula 218
Clark, Cheryl 180, 212
Clarke, Jack 180
Clemente, Francesco 68
Clinton, Bill 120
Close, Chuck 68
Clover, Joshua 141
Cobbing, Bob 164, 204
Coleman, Victor 199
Coleman, Wanda 37, 112
Coltrane, John 124
Columbus, Christopher 177, 186, 211, 213
Comments, Chicago 173
Conrad, Tony 37, 112
Cooley, Nicole 153
Cooper, Paula 3
Cooperman, Matthew 66, 141, 157
Corey, Josh 132, 229
Corso, Gregory 219
Cotter, John 78, 111
County, Mike 56, 209
Covey, Bruce 126
Crane, Lee 111
Crangle, Sara 119
Creeley, Robert 83, 111, 125, 141, 194, 217
Crouch, Jeff 229
Cunningham, Michael 145
Cutts, Simon 176
Daly, Luke 225
Darragh, Tina 67
Davies, Alan 126
Davies, Kevin 119, 154
Davinio, Caterina 23, 208
Delville, Michel 119
Deming, Richard 141
Dennis, Michael 82, 111, 218
Desmond, Rae 78, 111
Dewhurst, Robert 202
Dickens, Charles 135
Dickinson, Emily 42, 70, 78, 111
Dickison, Steve 66
Dine, Jim 125
Dixon, Bill 52, 82, 86, 111, 219
Doller, Ben 141
Doller, Sandra 126, 141
Donato, Claire 171
Donovan, Thom 171
Doxsee, Julie 141
Drescher, Julia 66, 67
Drucker, Johanna 119, 125
Duncan, Andrew 230
Duncan, Robert 83, 95, 111, 120
Durand, Marcella 67, 153
Durgin, Patrick F. 202
Dworkin, Craig 84, 111, 119
Dybka, Jilly 6
Eakins, Patricia 78, 111
Edgar, John 65
Edwards, Ken 147
Eigner, Larry 155, 156
Elena, Maria 66, 67
Eli, Noah 141
Eliot, Joe 210
Ellen, Mary 8, 9, 209
Elliott, George 118
Elshtain, Eric 39
England, Amy 69, 139, 140, 146, 205, 209
Epstein, Thomas 95
Esther, Little 119
Fagin, Larry 66
Farr, Raymond 229
Faulkner, Andrew 73
Felix, Joel 31
Ferrini, Henry 82, 111
Finch, Peter 56, 67, 205
Fink, Thomas 40, 66
Fink, Tom 70
Fisher, Allen 119
Fishman, Lisa 141
Fitterman, Rob 35, 204
Fitzgerald, Scott 72, 111
Fletcher, Nielsen 209
Fletcher, Sasha 18, 214
Foley, Jack 25
Forche, Carolyn 209
Foust, Graham 141
Fox, Hugh 78, 111
France, Peter 69, 117
Franco, James 25
Fraser, Gregory 39
Fraser, Kathleen 38
Frazer, Tony 233
Frazer, Vernon 40, 124, 218
Freeland, Charles 229
Frym, Gloria 67

Gallaher, John 141
Gander, Forrest 141, 233
Garcia, Rodrigo 66
Garrison, Deborah 56, 214
Gelsinger, Eric 225
Gevirtz, Susan 66, 67
Gibson, William 133
Gilbert, Roger 83, 111
Gilmore, Gary 126, 185
Gim, Carmen 111
Gimenez, Carmen 66, 75, 111
Ginsberg, Allan 120
Ginsberg, Allen 25, 83, 95, 111, 117
Giorno, John 175
Giscombe, Cecil 141
Gizzi, Michael 1, 15, 233
Gizzi, Peter 141
Godard, Barbara 218
Goldman, Judith 62, 66
Goldsmith, Kenneth 84, 111, 141, 155, 156
Goldstein, Laura 101, 139, 140, 232
Goodman, Amy 209
Gordon, Ruth 141
Gottlieb, Michael 229
Graham, Susan 180
Greenberg, Arielle 73, 141
Greene, Jonathan 6
Greenspan, Alan 20, 34
Greenwald, Ted 67
Gregory, Jane 126, 180
Gridley, Sarah 141
Griffin, Tim 176
Guinzio, Carolyn 66
Guston, Philip 125
Hajnoczky, Helen 204
Halsey, Alan 146, 147
Hamill, Sam 196
Hamilton, Scott 229
Hammond, Paul 126
Hardy, Thomas 48, 50, 71, 82, 111
Harris, Kaplan 202
Harris, Ken 82, 111, 209
Harryman, Carla 111, 202
Harvey, George 145
Hastings, Katherine 209
Hawkes, John 171
Hawkins, Bobbie 83, 111
Hawkins, William 214
Hawley, Anthony 141
Hayes, Jared 141
Heighton, Steven 214
Heintz, Kurt 101, 139, 140
Hejinian, Lyn 52, 86, 111
Heller, Jan 95, 153
Heller, Joseph 78, 83, 111
Heller, Michael 58
Heman, Bob 78, 111, 229
Hendricks, Brent 69
Henri, Charles 21
Hershon, Bob 57
Hershon, Robert 57
Hillman, Brenda 141
Hoag, Deb 115
Hofer, Jen 141, 202
Hoffman, Daniel 153
Holman, Bob 26
Hoover, Paul 141
Huang, Yunte 141
Hughes, Langston 111
Hume, Christine 141
Hunt, Erica 69
Hunter, Carrie 57, 66
Hyland, John 202
Iijima, Brenda 141, 153, 155, 156
Irvine, James 209
Israel, David R. 131, 142
Israeli, Henry 126
Jackson, Bruce 82
Jackson, Jesse 92, 108, 111
Jacob, Max 184
Jamahl, Iris 40
Jarnot, Lisa 117, 119, 141
Jeffery, Mark 101, 139, 140
Jesurun, John 219
Jhave, David 180
Johnson, Charles 51, 82, 111
Johnson, Kent 193
Johnson, Thomas 81, 90, 96, 110, 111, 118, 146, 155, 156, 218
Johnston, Daniel 147, 180
Jonas, Stephen 83, 111
Jones, Bob 29, 78, 111, 209
Jones, Edward P. 51, 82, 111
Jones, Jill 229
Jones, Tom 119
Joris, Pierre 181
Joseph, Safdie 78, 111
Kane, Daniel 141
Kaplan, Josef 82, 111
Karl, Steven 205
Katko, Justin 171
Katz, Alex 68
Kazay, Jamie 74, 111
Keats, John 160
Kelley, Mike 132
Kelly, Paul 2, 62, 70, 209
Kelsey, Karla 77, 111
Kendal, Emily 206
Kendig, Diane 218
Kennedy, Kit 209, 229
Kerouac, Jack 78, 83, 111
Kerry, John 2
Killebrew, Paul 112
Kilroy, Kevin 6

Kimball, Jack 126
King, Martha 22
Kirschenbaum, David A. 107, 126, 185
Kocik, Robert 52, 82, 86
Koeneke, Rodney 220
Konkol, Margaret 82, 111
Koons, Jeff 68
Kunin, Aaron 141
Kushner, Bill 26
Kyger, Joanne 117, 125
Ladkin, Sam 119
Lang, Peter 70
Lau, David 3, 57
Lauterbach, Ann 209
Lavender, Bill 232
Lavery, John 145
Lease, Joseph 220
Leong, Michael 229
Lerner, Ben 192
Levin, Lauren 64
Levin, Lynn 85, 111
Lewis, Joel 101, 139, 140, 232
Lewis, Susan 232
Livingston, Reb 126, 185
Lloyd, Warren 209
Logan, John 6
Lomax, Alan 77, 111
London, Frank 6, 39, 83, 205, 209
London, Rick 83, 111
Lopez, Richard 209
Lorca, Federico García 129, 174
Louise, Bobbie 68, 83, 111, 229
Lowenfels, Walter 232
Luna, Christopher 83, 111
Lurie, Bobbi 218
Lynn, Heidi 153
Macdonald, Travis 66, 229
Mackey, Mary 78, 111
Mackey, Nathaniel 43, 48, 50, 65, 71, 82, 111
Madison, James 146
Madrid, Anthony 6
Malcolm, Janet 68
Malina, Judith 120
Mandel, Charlotte 218
Mangold, Sarah 206
Mansel, Chris 103
Marie, Joshua 141
Marie, Julie 29
Marino, Elizabeth 29
Marsh, William 70
Marshall, Robert 17, 209
Martinez, Michael 209
Mauro, Nicole 229
Meier, Richard 68
Meirose, Jim 229
Meltzer, David 83, 111, 147
Mengham, Rod 141
Meyer, Thomas 217
Middleton, Peter 119
Miller, Lee 14, 32, 221, 226, 229
Milne, Drew 119
Milton, John 202
Mingus, Charles 6
Mohammad, Kasey 141
Monk, Geraldine 146
Moore, Nicholas 209, 229
Morgan, Bill 141
Morgan, Robin 34
Moriarty, Laura 141
Mornar, Brian 67
Morris, Jason 162
Morrison, Rusty 67
Morton, Kathryn A. 83, 111
Mosconi, Joseph 66
Motika, Stephen 126
Moure, Erin 69
Moxley, Jennifer 141, 233
Moya, Erika 205
Murfin, Ira S. 6
Murphy, Michelle 209
Murphy, Sheila E. 39, 218, 229
Murray, Elizabeth 29
Murray, George 145
Mycue, Edward 218
Myles, Eileen 8, 9, 37, 141, 179, 187
Nakell, Martin 78, 111
Nelson, Gale 196, 229
Nelson, Paul E. 206
Newman, Charlie 29
Newman, Denise 77, 111
Niedecker, Lorine 67, 155, 156
Nixon, Richard 115
Norman, Peter 145, 180
Norton, John 141
Notley, Alice 117, 141
Noto, John 60
Nowak, Mark 210
O'Hara, Frank 11
Oliver, Laura 141
Olivia, Carrie 101, 139, 140
Olsen, Lance 141
Olson, Charles 39, 82, 83, 111, 128, 141, 155, 156, 158, 206
Olson, John 206, 219
Orange, Tom 84, 111
Osman, Jena 119
Owens, Richard 82, 193
Pacific, Asian 155, 156
Pacosz, Christina 218
Padin, Clemente 154
Palmer, Michael 38, 67
Parker, Frank 69, 218
Parker, Michael 115
Parkway, Neal 157

Paterson, William 75, 111
Patterson, Ian 119
Pavelich, David 62
Perez, James 68
Perlman, John 195
Pessoa, Fernando 214
Peterson, Katie 6
Pettet, Simon 163
Phillip, Andrew 22
Phillips, John 176
Phillips, Leigh 126, 185
Phillips, Malcolm 68, 119
Piccinnini, Douglas 3, 57
Pierce, Scott 31
Piombino, Nick 141
Place, Vanessa 101, 139, 140, 187, 209, 232
Pollack, Jackson 135, 218
Pollock, Jackson 218
Porter, Anne 72, 75, 82, 111
Portugal, Anne 69, 141, 233
Posamentier, Evelyn 218
Pound, Ezra 19
Pound, Scott 135
Prevallet, Kristin 52, 82, 86, 111
Price, Richard 147
Di Prima, Diane 95, 120
Prize, Poets 209
Professor, Kelly 62
Prynne, J. H. 119
Puckett, Caleb 229
Pullinger, Kate 145
Purves, Robin 119
Quarles, Lanny 218
Randall, Karen 125
Raphael, Dan 206
Rasula, Jed 181
Raven, Francis 40
Raworth, Tom 82, 111, 141, 147
Reagan, Nancy 166
Reed, Brian 141
Reed, Marthe 101, 139, 140, 232
Retallack, Joan 141
Reynolds, Sean 57, 205
Richards, Brian 218
Ridley, Sandra 145
Riggs, Sarah 141
Rimbaud, Dee 78, 83, 111
Rivera, Alex 67
Robertson, Lisa 141
Robinson, Jeffrey C. 160
Robinson, Josh 119, 141
Robinson, Mary 27, 160
Robinson, Peter 145
Rosenstock, Gabriel 161
Rosenthal, Chuck 209
Ross, Harry 6, 39
Rossiter, Charlie 29
Rothenberg, Jerome 83, 111, 129, 160, 174
Rothenberg, Jerry 111, 129, 174
Rothenberg, Michael 83, 87, 111, 119
Rowan, Lou 119, 185
Roy, Camille 38, 77, 111
Sailers, Cynthia 169
Sakkis, John 66
Sala, Jerome 159, 171
Salle, David 68
Sawyer, Chris 6
Scalapino, Leslie 38, 141, 219
Schelling, Andrew 176
Schiavo, Michael 205
Schickling, Jared 218, 229
Schneeman, George 125
Schroeder, Steven 29, 39
Schultz, Susan M. 228
Schwabsky, Barry 54, 82, 111, 209
Seaman, David W. 208
Segal, Martin E. 95, 120
Selby, Spencer 141
Shakespeare, William 209
Shapiro, David 3, 219
Shapiro, Gary 68
Shaughnessy, Brenda 57
Shaw, Lytle 141
Shelley, Percy Bysshe 29, 187
Sheppard, Robert 119
Sherlock, Frank 37, 112
Sherman, Bill 41, 43, 44, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 53, 65, 71, 82, 111
Sherry, James 209
Sherwood, Kenneth 77, 111
Shmailo, Larissa 78, 111
Sigo, Cedar 37, 57, 117
Silem, Kasey 141
Silliman, Ron 218
Silver, Stephanie 219
Simone, Frank 57
Simpson, Bennett 113
Sky, Tarpaulin 69, 75, 111
Smith, Patricia 209
Smith, Tracy K. 66, 67, 73, 75, 111, 141, 217, 218
Smithson, Robert 155, 156
Snyder, Gary 155, 156
Sontag, Susan 22, 215, 227, 230
Spahr, Juliana 155, 156
Sparling, Ken 18, 145, 214
Spicer, Jack 227, 230
Stanley, Jared 94
Stecopoulos, Eleni 66
Stein, Gertrude 78, 84, 111
Stein, Suzanne 111
Stevens, Wallace 66
Stevenson, Matt 184
Stewart, Susan 119

Stone, David 16
Strauss, Adam 40
Strickland, Stephanie 119
Sutherland, Keston 119, 141
Swensen, Cole 141
Taransky, Michelle 6
Taylor, Cecil 124
Taylor, Jesse 69, 209
Taylor, Wendy 115
Tejada, Roberto 66
Templeton, Fiona 219
Terry, Philip 68
Texas, Irving 75, 111, 125, 184, 209
Theater, Poets 202
Thilleman, Tod 78, 111
Thomas, Dylan 84, 111, 119, 209
Thompson, Jon 218
Thomson, Stephen 119
Thurston, Scott 63, 146
Timmons, Jeffrey 67
Timmons, Mathew 67
Treadwell, Elizabeth 38
Turner, Brian 3, 57
Tzara, Tristan 78, 111
Upton, Lawrence 164
Valery, Paul 55, 72, 111
Vazquez, Lourdes 75
Vermont, Charlie 29, 77, 111, 205
Vickery, Ann 119
Victoria, Nancy 83, 111
Vidal, Pierre 135
Vincent, Gregory 119, 218
Virgil 3, 57
Vogler, Brad 66
Volpert, Megan 118
Wagner, Catherine 141
Waldman, Anne 117, 160
Waldrop, Keith 1, 15
Walker, Alice 43, 48, 50, 65, 71, 82, 111
Wallace, Mark 84, 111
Wallace, Sara 125, 209
Warhol, Andy 83, 111, 139, 140, 187
Warner, Jim 218
Warren, Jim 32
Washington, Harold 73, 82, 111, 117, 126, 185, 187, 202
Watson, Sasha 6, 32, 39
Weber, Charles 132
Webster, Daniel 131, 142
Weiner, Hannah 202
Weishaus, Joel 218
Welch, Lew 83, 111
Wetherington, Laura 66
Whalen, Philip 83, 111, 219
Wharton, Samuel 40
Whitman, Walt 135
Wieners, John 205
Wilkinson, John 119, 141
Wilkinson, Joshua 141
Williams, Jonathan 217
Williams, Tony 120, 166, 180
Wilson, Erin 77, 111
Wilson, Robert 68
Wilson, Steve 206
Winkfield, Trevor 147
Wittgenstein, Ludwig 180
Wordsworth, William 135, 160
Wright, James 2, 141
Young, Karl 218
Zavatsky, Bill 83, 111
Zucker, Adam 132

CONCEPTS

Activism and protest 52, 86, 95, 111, 112, 120, 153, 197, 209
Aesthetics 2, 6, 119, 132, 135, 197, 209
African American poetry 83, 111
Anthologies 2, 75, 77, 78, 83, 84, 91, 97, 98, 99, 104, 105, 111, 116, 121, 122, 134, 138, 144, 148, 154, 158, 163, 167, 171, 172, 202, 205, 208, 209, 210, 221, 226, 232
Appropriation 27, 181
Archives and libraries 6, 73, 77, 82, 111, 112, 118, 141, 165, 170, 182, 189, 194, 202, 209, 215, 216, 217, 221, 226, 227, 230
Autobiography 3, 17, 22, 73, 75, 83, 111, 229, 230, 232
Avant-garde 83, 111, 119, 135, 197
Beat generation 83, 111
Beauty 68, 227, 230
Biography 36, 95, 123, 141, 209
Black Mountain 141
Blogs 2, 6, 11, 16, 17, 18, 21, 25, 26, 37, 51, 54, 57, 61, 62, 64, 66, 67, 75, 77, 78, 81, 82, 84, 85, 90, 94, 96, 110, 111, 112, 118, 128, 132, 133, 145, 147, 152, 159, 162, 171, 173, 179, 183, 185, 186, 187, 203, 205, 206, 211, 213, 214, 216, 217, 218, 220, 224, 228, 229, 232
Book announcements 3, 38, 57, 83, 111, 117, 120, 131, 139, 140, 142, 174, 187, 189, 193, 195, 209, 232, 233
Bookstores 6, 78, 84, 105, 111, 118, 121, 122, 134, 138, 141, 144, 147, 148, 167
Calls for submissions 17, 18, 59, 80, 111, 181, 184, 214
Cities 6, 22, 57, 67, 111, 112, 155, 156, 185, 209
Climate 155, 156
Collage and montage 30, 57, 83, 111, 135, 141
Conceptual writing 84, 155, 156
Conferences and festivals 6, 39, 56, 66, 73, 74, 82, 111, 118, 128, 139, 140, 143, 145, 161, 209, 210, 214, 232

Craft 165, 182
Creative writing pedagogy 160
Dada 124
Deconstruction 69
Difficulty 60, 83, 111, 130, 211
Digital archives 2, 24
Dreams 6, 55, 72, 78, 84, 111, 127, 171
Ecology and ecopoetics 78, 111, 155, 156, 170, 194, 215, 227, 230
Editing 77, 161
Electronic poetry and hypertext 23, 69, 89, 111, 201
Elegy 141, 210
Empire and imperialism 184, 218, 219
Epic 84, 111
Epistemology 200
Ethics 181, 184
Experimental poetry 160, 219
Feminism 27, 52, 82, 86, 111, 185, 205, 209
Film 6, 25, 82, 83, 111, 130, 132, 135, 139, 140, 143, 166, 185, 209, 210, 232, 233
Flarf 104
Formalism 27
Gender 73, 209
Ghazal 214
Grants and funding 45, 57, 77, 79, 111, 112, 123, 139, 140, 158, 160, 171, 187, 205, 209
Haiku 2, 31
Humour and satire 30, 68, 209
Imagism 62
Improvisation 6, 202
Indigenous and Native poetics 161
Interviews 20, 34, 66, 70, 77, 111, 117, 130, 141, 147, 180, 197, 206, 209, 210, 216
Israel and Palestine 126, 131, 142
Jewish poetics 29
Language poetry 11, 161
Latino and Latin American poetry 75, 111
Letters and correspondence 67, 83, 111, 130, 135, 141
List moderation 19, 73, 104
Little magazines 3, 17, 32, 36, 40, 45, 57, 59, 60, 61, 70, 73, 77, 78, 79, 106, 111, 112, 119, 120, 147, 155, 156, 158, 171, 181, 185, 187, 198, 202, 204, 205, 209, 214, 225, 227, 230
Lyric poetry 67, 104, 160
Memory 67, 117, 127, 202, 218
MFA programs 45, 57, 59, 69, 75, 79, 111, 171, 202, 205, 209, 219, 232
Modernism 104, 135
Mourning and loss 13, 117, 127, 161, 227, 230
Multiculturalism 209
Music and poetry 3, 6, 9, 13, 22, 24, 26, 29, 57, 68, 69, 74, 77, 78, 83, 84, 100, 102, 111, 112, 114, 115, 124, 126, 130, 131, 132, 135, 142, 151, 160, 163, 180, 185, 197, 202, 205, 209, 219, 225
Nationalism 181
Nature 68, 69, 117, 143, 160, 165, 182, 209
Obituary and memorial 19, 57, 141, 213
Ontology 45, 78, 79, 111
Performance and the poetry reading 37, 45, 52, 56, 57, 75, 77, 78, 79, 82, 83, 86, 111, 120, 127, 132, 135, 143, 146, 157, 171, 205, 209, 216, 225
Phenomenology 208
Philosophy 51, 69, 82, 93, 111, 197, 200, 209
Place and region 27, 132, 155, 156, 209, 230, 233
Poet laureate 120, 217, 232
Poetics 9, 12, 17, 19, 20, 34, 43, 48, 50, 52, 61, 65, 67, 69, 70, 71, 77, 82, 83, 84, 89, 111, 117, 119, 153, 155, 156, 160, 175, 180, 186, 188, 202, 211, 213, 219, 221, 226, 231
Poets Against the War 196
Politics and poetry 197
Postmodernism 135
Print vs. digital 37, 38, 66, 67, 76, 78, 100, 102, 103, 104, 109, 111, 112, 114, 124, 125, 129, 136, 161, 174, 180, 190, 197, 207, 215, 218, 225, 227, 230, 231, 233
Prizes and awards 1, 2, 15, 51, 57, 73, 77, 78, 82, 84, 111, 112, 157, 159, 160, 171, 180, 185, 187, 205, 208, 209, 219, 233
Procedural and constraint writing 141, 180
Prose poem 78, 91, 97, 98, 99, 104, 105, 111, 116, 121, 122, 134, 138, 144, 148, 167, 219
Psychoanalysis 78, 111
Queer poetics 8, 9, 11, 118, 170, 194, 215, 227, 230
Race and poetry 95, 117, 120
Reading announcements 15, 22, 37, 45, 78, 111, 115, 120, 143, 213, 214, 219
Religion and the sacred 73, 83, 111, 119, 161, 185, 198, 209
Representation 123
Reviewing and criticism 3, 31, 45, 57, 58, 64, 69, 73, 75, 77, 78, 79, 83, 84, 85, 93, 98, 105, 111, 112, 116, 119, 121, 122, 134, 138, 144, 148, 157, 159, 160, 165, 167, 171, 182, 185, 191, 204, 205, 209, 210, 211, 213, 216, 219, 220, 232
Romanticism 135, 160
Semiotics 89, 111, 180
Serial poem 43, 48, 50, 65, 71, 82, 111, 112, 210
Small press publishing 2, 3, 18, 38, 45, 57, 75, 77, 78, 79, 83, 84, 95, 107, 111, 112, 120, 126, 139, 140, 145, 157, 159, 171, 209, 214, 216, 220, 222, 224, 225, 232
Social media 6, 10, 22, 76, 111, 114, 117, 126, 143, 173, 185, 219

Software and code 2, 76, 111
Sonnet 21, 30, 63, 81, 90, 96, 110, 111, 169, 178
Sound poetry 37
Structuralism 141
Subjectivity 17, 157, 181, 184
Sublime 104
Surrealism 68, 91, 97, 98, 99, 104, 105, 116, 121, 122, 124, 134, 138, 144, 148, 167, 184
The academy 2, 3, 19, 27, 45, 57, 62, 69, 70, 75, 77, 79, 84, 88, 111, 112, 118, 120, 123, 135, 139, 140, 155, 156, 157, 160, 171, 177, 185, 186, 202, 205, 208, 209, 211, 213, 219, 232
The body 27, 103, 120, 200, 219
The Holocaust 232
The internet 62, 180, 181, 184, 217
The Iraq war 210
The line 120
The listserv 3, 10, 57, 73, 112, 117, 131, 142, 171, 211, 213, 219
Theatre 78, 95, 111, 120, 202, 209
Translation 6, 39, 59, 66, 69, 70, 75, 77, 83, 111, 141, 161, 165, 181, 182, 184, 196, 208, 210, 214, 218, 219, 233
Vietnam 67, 209
Visual and concrete poetry 4, 23, 89, 111, 154, 164, 166, 180, 204
Visual art 6, 23, 29, 56, 57, 68, 70, 74, 76, 84, 103, 111, 117, 127, 135, 141, 187, 209, 219
Women's writing 73

Contents

Every entry links to its message. 233 in all.

30 SEP 2010

1. Nicholas Piombino — Re: Michael Gizzi
2. julia bloch — Oct. 5: Albarrán and Soto Román in Philly
3. Poetry Project — Upcoming Events at The Poetry Project

1 OCT 2010

4. Jim Andrews — Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
5. St. Thomasino — a noun sing e·ratio call for mss
6. Dan Godston — Two Way Tarot Mirrors
7. steve russell — the ruling class ... the rich getting richer
8. steve russell — Re: The Ugh/liest lango poet in D.C.
9. steve russell — Re: The Ugh/liest lango poet in D.C.
10. Lynn Xu — CANARIUM BOOKS: Open Reading Period Announcement

2 OCT 2010

11. Gary Sullivan — Origin of Langpo, Frank O'Hara vs. Academia, etc.
12. Mark DuCharme — Re: the ruling class ... the rich getting richer

3 OCT 2010

13. Alan Sondheim — music from last night and more
14. William Allegrezza — Come to Series A this Wednesday
15. Sharon Mesmer/David Borchart — Re: Michael Gizzi
16. Christophe Casamassima — Onthology/audio: New recordings from David Stone and Les Wade
17. Scott Howard — RECONFIGURATIONS: Call for Submissions (Special Feature / Graphic Non-Fictio…
18. Rob McLennan — new(ish) on rob's clever blog
19. Jonathan Morse — Re: the ruling class ... the rich getting richer

4 OCT 2010

20. Stephen Ellis — Re: the ruling class ... the rich getting richer 21. Alexander Dickow — From the Mouth of the Gulper Eel: find the gimmick, win a signed book of…
22. Kimmelman, Burt — Lopate and Kimmelman This Thursday in the East Village, 6:30 PM
23. ART ELECTRONICS — VISUAL POETRY TODAY
24. Adam Fieled — "Returns" on PennSound
25. St. Thomasino — Jack Foley on the movie, Howl.
26. Ram Devineni — VERSE: LAUNCH OF THE VIDEO WEB SERIES PARTY
27. ShaunAnne Tangney — Robinson Jeffers Edited collection CFP
28. Edward Foster — new Talisman
29. Dan Godston — Chicago Calling, Waiting 4 the Bus
30. Camille Martin — New @ Rogue Embryo: Looms + Poemicstrip + shell bud 31. Effing Press — Days and Works of the féneon collective

5 OCT 2010

32. Jessica Wickens — 10/19 Reading & Release Party: Monday Night Lit & Swill Magazine
33. Ryan Daley — beginning fiction
34. steve russell — Re: the ruling class ... the rich getting richer
35. derek beaulieu — new from NO: DIIRECTIONS by Fitterman and Giasson
36. William Allegrezza — Spirits Seeking Submission
37. CA Conrad — CAConrad & Cedar Sigo THIS COMING SUNDAY at
38. Sarah Rosenthal — Book Launch; Website Launch

6 OCT 2010

39. Dan Godston — Translating 2010
40. Brian Seabolt — Raft 1 now online
41. Stuart Ross — Re: beginning fiction
42. Sharon Dolin — Reading in Shelburne Falls this Thurs. at 7
43. sheila black — Re: beginning fiction
44. Dan Glass — Re: beginning fiction
45. Ron Henry — EVENTS CALENDAR: SOON Productions Presents a Poetry Reading by Deborah Poe and ...
46. michael farrell — Re: beginning fiction

7 OCT 2010

47. Robert Grotjohn — Re: beginning fiction
48. George Bowering — Re: beginning fiction
49. steve dalachinsky — Re: beginning fiction
50. steve dalachinsky — Re: beginning fiction
51. Sarah Sarai — Re: beginning fiction
52. Cara Benson — Oct 12: Belladonna* NYC Fundraiser
53. a. tsai — Re: beginning fiction
54. amy king — Fw: 12 Abandoned Poems
55. Crane's Bill Books — Re: beginning fiction
56. Russ Golata — Creative Spirit Festival De Leon Springs Florida
57. Poetry Project — Upcoming Events at The Poetry Project & Some Other Things
58. Jeffrey Side — Review by me of 'Eschaton', by Michael Heller (Talisman House, 2009)
59. Five eighty Split — 580 SPLIT call for submissions

8 OCT 2010

60. Michael Roberson — Early issues of Juxta...
61. Scott Howard — discussion @ RECONFIGURATIONS
62. Al Filreis — now releasing PoemTalk episode #36: writing through imagism
63. Camille Martin — New @ Rogue Embryo: Poetic Polyphony in Scott Thurston's Internal Rhyme
64. Dan Glass — this week on the 30 Word Review
65. steve russell — Re: beginning fiction
66. Little Red Leaves — +++ LRL5 Official Launch +++
67. Little Red Leaves — +++ Announcing 5 New Titles form LRL e-editions +++

9 OCT 2010

68. Catherine Daly — Exquisite Corpse Drawings at The Gasser Grunert Gallery, New York
69. Tenney Nathanson — Tucson: POG PRESENTS this Saturday, October 9, at 8pm: poets Erin Moure ...
70. Kimmelman, Burt — Burt Kimmelman in Philadelphia
71. steve russell — Re: beginning fiction
72. George Bowering — Re: beginning fiction
73. amy king — VIDA: Women in Literary Arts -- New Content, New Questions

10 OCT 2010

74. Dan Godston — Facets of Southeast Asia
75. Little Red Leaves — Poets Carmen Giménez Smith and Rosa Alcalá read in Kyle, TX on 10/29
76. { brad brace } — Profile Portraits: the Spain collection!
77. Sarah Rosenthal — Reading - Headlands Center for the Arts; Sunday 10/17; 1pm
78. Carol Novack — 3 City Book Tour: "Giraffes in Hiding: The Mythical Memoirs of Carol Novack"

11 OCT 2010

79. Deborah Poe — Fwd: Poetry Reading - SOON Productions presents poets Deborah Poe and Carolin...
80. Megan M Garr — Versal reading for 9
81. Halvard Johnson — Just gotta say

82. Stephen McCaffery — OLSON CONFERENCE IN BUFFALO
83. Michael — Letter to Friends of Big Bridge
84. Jennifer Karmin — Oct 16 & 17: Poetry in Chicago & Racine
85. Paul Siegell — Rattle reviews jambandbootleg
86. Cara Benson — BELLADONNA* Benefit: Oct 12 @ Dixon Place, NYC

12 OCT 2010

87. Michael — Update on Big Bridge Donations
88. Obododimma Oha — Once Upon an Ogboju Style
89. Jim Andrews — Leo Flores's dissertation
90. Ryan Daley — Re: Just gotta say

13 OCT 2010

91. Jesse Glass — Whatever Happened to Michael Benedict?
92. Naomi Buck Palagi — an evening with dancing girl press
93. Christophe Casamassima — Chris McCreary on Elective Affinities and a Review in the Poetry P…
94. amy king — "The Crisis of the Humanities Officially Arrives"
95. amy king — FRIDAY: Diane di Prima Reads in New York; WEDNESDAY: Muriel Rukeyser Tribute
96. Halvard Johnson — Re: Just gotta say
97. mIEKAL aND — Re: Whatever Happened to Michael Benedict?
98. Maxine Chernoff — Re: Whatever Happened to Michael Benedict?
99. Maria Damon — Re: Whatever Happened to Michael Benedict?
100. Adam Fieled — Multi-Media Collab. on YouTube
101. Jennifer Karmin — Red Rover Series fall/winter 2010
102. Ruth Lepson — Re: Multi-Media Collab. on YouTube
103. Jeffrey Side — The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is “Soddoma: Cantos of Ulysses” by Chris…
104. Laurie Beth Schneider — Re: Whatever Happened to Michael Benedict?

14 OCT 2010

105. stephanie g — Re: Whatever Happened to Michael Benedict?
106. Philip Meersman — Poets Philip Meersman, Peter Waugh, Sergej Birjukov and the international…
107. David Kirschenbaum — Advertise in Boog NYC Small Presses Issue
108. Naomi Buck Palagi — Fw: an evening with dancing girl press
109. Jeffrey Side — Amended link to Chris Mansel's "Soddoma: Cantos of Ulysses"
110. Halvard Johnson — Mainly Black
111. Chris Tysh — Re: POETICS Digest - 9 Oct 2010 to 12 Oct 2010 (#2010-235)
112. Poetry Project — Upcoming Events at The Poetry Project
113. derek beaulieu — new from No: "Smash Swizzle Fizz" by Natalie Simpson
114. Tomás Ó Cárthaigh — Re: Multi-Media Collab. on YouTube
115. Jonathan Penton — Tom Bradley, Deb Hoag, and the NoLa Bookfair!
116. Jesse Glass — Re: Whatever Happened to Michael Benedict?
117. patrick dunagan — SIGO/QUINT/YACKULIC reading in Brooklyn 10/15/10
118. amy king — ATLANTA - FRIDAY AND SATURDAY (QUEER FESTIVAL)

15 OCT 2010

119. Louis Armand — poetics books online + new title
120. steve dalachinsky — 3 di prima readings in ny
121. Jesse Glass — Re: Whatever Happened to Michael Benedict?
122. Sharon Mesmer/David Borchart — Re: Whatever Happened to Michael Benedict?
123. Scott Howard — NEH Institute for the Digital Humanities @ The University of Denver: Call fo…
124. Jeffrey Side — The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is “Margin L” by Vernon Frazer.
125. Kyle Schlesinger — POEMS & PICTURES

16 OCT 2010

126. David Kirschenbaum — d.a. levy lives: celebrating the renegade press 2010-11 schedule
127. Dan Wilcox — Third Thursday Poetry Night October 21, Jacqueline Ahl
128. Dan Wilcox — Gloucester's Charles Olson Festival

17 OCT 2010

129. Jeffrey Side — The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is “The Jigoku Zoshi Hells: A Book of Var...
130. Mark Young — Out from Otoliths—Jake Berry & Jeffrey Side's "Distant Voices"
131. Adam Fieled — "Ardent" on last.fm
132. Bonnie MacAllister — Soundoffka Vol. 2- An Aural & Visual Exhibition at VWVOFFKA
133. Jonathan Morse — Dash Snow, Mel Gibson, the Marquis de Sade, and other great artists
134. Maxine Chernoff — Re: Whatever Happened to Michael Benedict?

18 OCT 2010

135. Jeffrey Side — “Distant Voices: an email correspondence” by Jake Berry & Jeffrey Side
136. Jeffrey Side — New link for Vernon Frazer's ebook "Margin L"
137. Jeffrey Side — Jerome Rothenberg's "The Jigoku Zoshi Hells: A Book of Variations" temporari...
138. Jesse Glass — Re: Whatever Happened to Michael Benedict?
139. Jennifer Karmin — Red Rover Series / Experiment #40
140. Jennifer Karmin — Red Rover Series (re-send / Chicago info)
141. Rod Smith — New at Bridge Street: Brathwaite, Cage, O'Hara Now, Olson, Perec, Poets on Teac...
142. marc vincenz — Re: "Ardent" on last.fm
143. Wanda Phipps — UPCOMING READINGS
144. David Hadbawnik — Re: Whatever Happened to Michael Benedict?
145. Rob McLennan — the ottawa international writers festival 2010 fall edition, october 20-26
146. mIEKAL aND — Fwd: The Xexoxial/Quincunx Shaped Reading
147. Kyle Schlesinger — Advertise in Mimeo Mimeo
148. Jesse Glass — Re: Whatever Happened to Michael Benedikt?
149. Jesse Glass — Entropy and Books--Descriptons of Favorite Weathered Volumes and Texts

19 OCT 2010

150. amy king — OT -- VIDA: Women in Literary Arts -- Call for web help!
151. Paul Siegell — Soundtrack to a Poetry Book
152. Paul Siegell — how hot are your pepper people?
153. amy king — Poets for Living Waters reading with Jan Heller Levi, Marcella Durand, Nicole Co...
154. David-Baptiste Chirot — openned announces Visual Poetry Anthology "Openned Eyes"
155. Jonathan Skinner — Ecopoetics workshop
156. Jonathan Skinner — Ecopoetics workshop (correction)
157. Mark DuCharme — MATTHEW COOPERMAN & ABY KAUPANG: Nov. 11th, Stratford Park Reading Series

20 OCT 2010

158. Peter Grant — Charles Olson website
159. Rachel Loden — Sala & Loden in NYC, Weds. 10/27
160. sam truitt — Jeffrey C. Robinson's UNTAM'D WING... Review copies available
161. Séamas Cain — Technicians of the Sacred ?
162. patrick dunagan — PUSH press
163. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Turkish Poet Arif Damar (1925-2010)
164. derek beaulieu — new from No: "Wire & Fork" by Bob Cobbing
165. Aryanil Mukherjee — New Translations of Utpal Kumar Basu @ Kaurab

21 OCT 2010

166. Jim Andrews — Russell Williams
167. Jesse Glass — Re: Whatever Happened to Michael Benedict?

168. Jeffrey Side — Some new poems at Fieralingue
169. Camille Martin — New @ Rogue Embryo
170. Crane's Bill Books — Re: Entropy and Books--Descriptons of Favorite Weathered Volumes and T...

22 OCT 2010

171. Poetry Project — Upcoming Events at The Poetry Project & Some News Too
172. Rosalie Calabrese — Rosalie Calabrese Poetry News - November 2010
173. Peter ciccariello — fail better beckett IV

24 OCT 2010

174. Jeffrey Side — Jerome Rothenberg's Argotist Ebook 'The Jigoku Zoshi Hells: A Book of Variat...
175. Douglas Manson — seeking John Giorno email or contact
176. Country Valley — Empty Hands Broadside Series
177. Steve Evans — Attention Span 2010 Now Complete
178. Camille Martin — New @ Rogue Embryo: death's head + not all slopes are tragic
179. Christophe Casamassima — Onthology/audio: Eileen Myles & CAConrad
180. Jim Andrews — New on Netartery (Writers Gone Wrong)
181. Sarah Giragosian — Call for Submissions of Translation Praxis to Barzakh
182. Ruth Lepson — Re: New Translations of Utpal Kumar Basu @ Kaurab
183. amy king — Poetry speed ...
184. Sarah Giragosian — Call for Submissions of Elizabeth Bishop's Translated Work to Barzakh
185. David Kirschenbaum — Boog City presents Gigantic Sequins and Christopher Paul Stelling
186. Mairead Byrne — Re: Attention Span 2010 Now Complete
187. Jennifer Karmin — Oct 26: Eileen Myles & Amira Hanafi in Chicago

25 OCT 2010

188. Nico Vassilakis — staring
189. Nate Pritts — H_NGM_N #11, WOLF FACE & Submissions
190. mIEKAL aND — Re: Entropy and Books--Descriptons of Favorite Weathered Volumes and Texts
191. Deborah Poe — review of Deborah Poe's Elements
192. Jacqueline Waters — New pamphlet: BEN LERNER / Leaving the Atocha Station
193. David Hadbawnik — a question mark above the sun
194. Jesse Glass — Re: Entropy and Books--Descriptons of Favorite Weathered Volumes and Texts
195. John Perman — Idiolects of Silence new book by John Perlman
196. Paul Nelson — Sam Hamill @ Doe Bay
197. Jeffrey Side — Interview with me at Fieralingue
198. Tomás Ó Cárthaigh — Re: New on Netartery (Writers Gone Wrong)
199. Adam Katz — contact info for Victor Coleman?

26 OCT 2010

200. Christophe Casamassima — New Title from Furniture Press Books: Anne Ashbaugh, Mythopoiesis ...

27 OCT 2010

201. Jason Nelson — Heliozoa: digital poetry portal
202. David Hadbawnik — Carla Harryman, Patrick Durgin, Poets Theater in Buffalo Oct 29-30
203. Sharon Mesmer/David Borchart — Re: Poetry speed ...
204. derek beaulieu — new from NO PRESS Fall 2010
205. amy king — THIS FRIDAY @ Stain -- Drysdale, Lepson, Reid, Schiavo & Sharif!
206. Paul Nelson — Innovative NW Poets
207. Jesse Glass — Re: Entropy and Books--Descriptons of Favorite Weathered Volumes and Texts

28 OCT 2010

208. ART ELECTRONICS — Caterina Davinio's latest book Serial Phenomenologies
209. Catherine Daly — LA: LMU's Bellarmine Forum on Feminist Art & Activism continues
210. Francesco Levato — New Title from Marick Press: Francesco Levato, Elegy for Dead Languages
211. John Latta — Re: Attention Span 2010 Now Complete
212. Cara Benson — PEN Prison Writing Benefit: Nov 1 NYC
213. Mairead Byrne — Re: Attention Span 2010 Now Complete
214. Rob McLennan — new(ish) on rob's clever blog
215. Jesse Glass — Re: Entropy and Books--Descriptons of Favorite Weathered Volumes and Texts
216. Rob McLennan — Pearl Pirie's been shed bore (Chaudiere Books)

29 OCT 2010

217. Jeff Davis — Wordplay this Sunday: Lee Ann Brown
218. Anny Ballardini — The Poets' Corner - an update
219. Poetry Project — Coming up @ The Poetry Project
220. Dan Glass — The 30 Word Review huge update—
221. David James Miller — Re: Whatever Happened to Michael Benedikt?
222. Eric Weinstein — Chapbook Release
223. Nicholas Ruiz III — Kritikos V.7 Sept.-Oct. 2010

30 OCT 2010

224. Rob McLennan — las vegas,
225. eric unger — Chicago: November 6 Poetry and Prints Reading Series at SPUDNIK: Gelsinger / D…
226. Jesse Glass — Re: Whatever Happened to Michael Benedikt?
227. Jesse Glass — Re: Entropy and Books--Descriptons of Favorite Weathered Volumes and Texts

31 OCT 2010

228. Susan Webster Schultz — newish on Tinfish Editor's Blog
229. Mark Young — Issue 19 of Otoliths is now live
230. Mark Weiss — Re: Entropy and Books--Descriptons of Favorite Weathered Volumes and Texts
231. Jeffrey Side — The new ebook from Argotist Ebooks is "Impressive (Big) Instant (Bang) !" by…
232. Jennifer Karmin — Red Rover Series / Experiment #41
233. Rosmarie Waldrop — new from Burning Deck

1. Nicholas Piombino
Re: Michael Gizzi
Thu 30 Sep 2010

I had known Michael Gizzi's work and admired it and had been to a few of readings of his but had never really gotten to know him. This past April he showed up at a party and came over to talk with me. He told me he was reading at the KGB Bar with Keith Waldrop. Unfortunately there was a mistake in the listing and I got there right after he finished. He went to have a smoke and I went outside with him. When we talked it was as if we had always known each other. I was annoyed about the error in the announcement and we commiserated about the inadequacies of the poetry scene. We exchanged recent books, and I had the distinct feeling I had found a new friend. We went back upstairs, Keith got up to read, and announced he had dedicated his latest book (Transcendental Studies) to Michael Gizzi, which in 2009 won the National Book Award.

On 9/30/10 6:58 AM, "Stephen Ellis" <[redacted]> wrote:

> I first read Michael Gizzi in a slim volume entitled (I think) Interferon, in the right field bleachers of the triple A Portland Seadogs, in Portland, Maine, in September 1998. I don't know who won the game (who could care?) but I became an immediate and avid fan. Of Michael's. He get a lot of extra base hits as well as lots of cheap off-infield-shins singles that inevitably dribbled to the only unoccupied portion of the field. I can still see Michael's wafer-thin wiry figure hoofin' out a scab double, and appearing, sliding under the tag, just safe, on page 4.
>
> Date: Wed, 29 Sep 2010 20:44:20 -0600
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: Michael Gizzi
> To: [redacted]
>
> He was was one of a handful of contemporaries of whom I can honestly say that I never read a poem which bored me. Although clearly it may take awhile, I can't wait for the Collected.
>
> Mark DuCharme

↑ Index

2. julia bloch

Oct. 5: Albarrán and Soto Román in Philly

Thu 30 Sep 2010

---

a read
The Kelly Writers House and the Emergency Poetry Series present

a reading by poets
RAQUEL ALBARRÁN and CARLOS SOTO ROMÁN

Tuesday, October 5, at 6:00 PM in the Arts Café
Kelly Writers House | 3805 Locust Walk
No registration required - this event is free & open to the public

---

RAQUEL ALBARRÁN (San Juan, 1983) is a doctoral candidate at the University of Pennsylvania. Her poetry and prose has appeared in several Puerto Rican literary journals, including Derivas, a collective literary blog for emergent Puerto Rican writers that she also co-founded in 2006. Her first poetry collection, La intimidad de los extraños (Stranger Intimacy) is expected to be published in Mexico City.

CARLOS SOTO ROMÁN was born in Valparaíso, Chile. He has published the books La Marcha de los Quiltros (The Mongrel's March, 1999), Haiku Minero (Miner Haiku, 2007) and Cambio y Fuera (Over and Out, 2009). He has resided in Philadelphia since March 2009, is a member of The New Philadelphia Poets and the editor of the new cooperative anthology of U.S. poetry, Elective Affinities. He is also a pharmacist and is pursuing a Masters in Bioethics at the University of Pennsylvania.

THE EMERGENCY POETRY SERIES addresses North American poetic practice as it is centered around close-knit communities, long-distance mentorships, new media, and chapbook exchange, asking how theoretical stances and aesthetic practices are transmitted among poets at different stages in their careers. The series was launched in 2006 with support from the Kerry Sherin Wright Prize for programming at Kelly Writers House in Philadelphia, an award designed to support a project that demonstrates aesthetic capaciousness and literary communitarianism. All readings are held at the Writers House and are available online at PennSound. For more information visit http://emergency-reading.blogspot.com/.

↑ Index

3. Poetry Project

Upcoming Events at The Poetry Project

Thu 30 Sep 2010

Hi Everyone,

Happy week of rain! We have some good things up our sleeves for you next week, including the first Open Reading & Friday Night Series event of season 45. Stay tuned.

Love,

The Poetry Project

MONDAY OCTOBER 4 / 8PM
Open Reading

Sign-in at 7:45

WEDNESDAY OCTOBER 6 / 8PM
Anne Carson & David Shapiro

Anne Carson was born in Canada and teaches ancient Greek for a living. She is the author of Autobiography of Red (Knopf, 1998), Men in the Off Hours (Knopf 2001), Decreation: Poetry, Essays, Opera (Knopf, 2005), NOX (New Directions, 2010), and many other works.

David Shapiro has written many books since his first, January, emerged in l965 from Holt, Rinehart and Winston with poems written when the poet was l3-l6. He was a violinist in his youth and was educated at Columbia, Cambridge University, and has taught at Columbia, Cooper Union, Brooklyn, Bard, and Princeton, both as art historian and as poet. His ten books of poetry include Poems from Deal, A Man Holding an Acoustic Panel, The Page-turner, Lateness, House (Blown Apart), Burning Interior, To an Idea, After a Lost Original, and the recent Selected Poems. He has a one-man exhibit of his collages at Turtle Point Press this Fall.

FRIDAY OCTOBER 8 / 10PM
Douglas Piccinnini & David Lau

Douglas Piccinnini's writing has appeared or is forthcoming in The Antioch Review, The Cultural Society, EOAGH, Jacket, Lana Turner, Ping Pong, So and So, Supermachine and Verse. A chapbook, Sâ™¢FT, is forthcoming from The Cultural Society. He lives in Brooklyn, NY and curates the CROWD Reading Series.

David Lau's first book of poetry, Virgil and the Mountain Cat, came out last year from UC Press. He is co-editor of Lana Turner: a Journal of Poetry and Opinion. He teaches regularly at Cabrillo College and the University of California, Santa Cruz; for spring 2011, he is visiting faculty in the graduate program in creative writing at St. Mary's College. New poems are forthcoming in A Public Space and Columbia. His other ongoing projects include Laborland, a video documentary on labor and art in California, and political organizing with the student movement in the golden state.

Become a Poetry Project Member! http://poetryproject.org/become-a-member

Calendar http://www.poetryproject.org/program-calendar

The Poetry Project is located at St. Mark's Church-in-the-Bowery
131 East 10th Street (at 2nd Avenue)
New York, NY 10003

Trains: 6, F, N, R, and L.
[redacted]
www.poetryproject.org

Admission is $8 / $7 for students & seniors / $5 for members (though now those who take out a membership at $95 or higher will get in FREE to all regular readings).

We are wheelchair accessible with assistance & advance notice. For more info call [redacted].

If youâ€™d like to be unsubscribed from this mailing list, please drop a line at [redacted].

↑ Index

4. Jim Andrews
Re: language and poetry after godel and turing
Fri 1 Oct 2010

---

sorry i didn't read your poem, murat. if you backchannel it to me, i will try to read it.

as for the rest of the stuff, i think that's it for me on the thread. but it's been a slice.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

5. St. Thomasino
a noun sing e·ratio call for mss
Fri 1 Oct 2010

---

e·

e·ratio is reading for issue 14, the fall 2010 issue. e·ratio publishes poetry in the postmodern idioms with an emphasis on the intransitive. no simultaneous submissions, please. reply within two weeks. this reading period ends october 31. please see contact page for further info and where to send.

http://www.eratiopostmodernpoetry.com/

e·

↑ Index

6. Dan Godston

Two Way Tarot Mirrors

Fri 1 Oct 2010

Two Way Tarot Mirrors

Saturday, October 2, 2010 (7 p.m.)

Myopic Books <http://www.myopicbookstore.com/>

1564 N. Milwaukee Ave.

Chicago, IL 60622

[redacted]

admission: free and open to the public

The Myopic Books Poetry <http://www.myopicbookstore.com/poetry.html> Series presents Two Way Tarot Mirrors, a collaborative writing project which is part of the Fifth Annual <http://www.chicagocalling.org/> Chicago Calling Arts Festival and Chicago Artists Month <http://www.chicagoartistsmonth.org/> . A mirror can seem to be flat, yet it can become three-dimensional and can lead to dream worlds. Unlike one's reflection in a regular mirror, the playback/feedback in Two Way Tarot Mirrors isn't an exact reflection of the original thing that's sent. As Alice enters the looking glass, she finds that what's on the other side is something different than she had expected; similarly, the two-sided mirror brings about something different and unexpected. Mirror games don't end up with perfect parallels -- i.e. Harpo and Groucho's mirror game in Duck Soup.

Two Way Tarot Mirrors involves people in Chicago working with people elsewhere, on projects that involve tarot cards as part of the collaborative process. Participants include:

· Michelle Taransky <http://www.omnidawn.com/contest/contest_2008.htm> (Philadelphia) and Larry Sawyer <http://www.milkmag.org/> (Chicago)

· Arcana -- a collaboration with Kristy Bowen <http://www.kristybowen.net/> (Chicago), Megan Burns (New Orleans), Julie Strand (Boise, ID), Bronwen Tate (Providence, RI), Katie Capello (Redwood City, CA), Jilly Dybka (Kingston Spring, TN), Ed Smallfield (Madrid), Amy Shrader (Seattle), Susan Slaviero (Chicago), Sarah Tracey (Chicago), and Erika Mikkalo (Chicago), and Susan Yount (Chicago)

· Andrew K. Peterson (Boston) and Kevin Kilroy (Chicago)

· Q & A: a random collaboration between Ira S. Murfin <http://www.l4ec.org/bios/> , an assortment of out of town artists and intellects, and the folks present in the room

· <http://www.keepgoing.org/issue38_onus/masthead.html> H. V. Cramond (Chicago), <http://www.aliceblueiereview.org/four/poetry/watson.html> Della Watson (San Francisco), and sparkleface (Oakland)

· Anny Ballardini <http://annyballardini.blogspot.com/> (Bozen, Italy), Billie Maciunas <http://estuarium.com/eveoffluxus/> (Orlando), Susan Sie <http://susanshie.blogspot.com/> (Ohio), Fruit for the Apocalypse (London), Harry Ross (London), Helen Scarlett-O <http://www.red-scarlett.co.uk/> 'Neill (London), and Dan Godston (Chicago)

Fifth Annual Chicago Calling Arts Festival

Chicago Calling is a multi-arts collaboration festival. During the Fifth Annual Chicago Calling Arts Festival, people in Chicago work with people outside of Chicago -- both here in the U.S. and abroad. These collaborations include a range of art forms, such as music, dance, film, literature, and intermedia -- and they are prepared or improvised. Some Chicago Calling events involve live feeds between Chicago and other locations. 2010 Chicago Calling events include "Bicycles and the Arts" at Happy Dog Gallery, "Translations 2010" at the Reconstruction Room, "Seda Röder / Burton Greene - Harrison Bankhead Duo Concert" at Curtiss Hall in the Fine Arts Building, "Temperatures and Shapes / Arctic Live" at Elastic Sound & Vision Gallery, "I Remember Fred" at the Velvet Lounge, "Chicago Calling, Waiting for the Bus" at Café Ballou, "Aural Architecture" at WNUR, "Two Way Tarot Mirrors" at Myopic Books, "Facets of Southeast Asia" at the Zhou B. Art Center, "Chicago Equinix" at Soapbox Music, "The City as Studio / Curatorial Practice" at the Phantom Gallery Chicago Network Office, and "My Favorite Banned Books Abecedarian Read-Out" at the Logan Square Library.

Borderbend Arts Collective

Chicago Calling is organized by the Borderbend Arts Collective <http://www.borderbend.org/> , a 501(c)(3) organization whose mission is to promote the arts by to creating opportunities for artists to explore the aesthetic geography along the borders and boundaries between art forms. Poetry, music, performance, and the visual arts are no longer discreet modes: hybrid forms, and interarts collaborations proliferate in global arenas.

Borderbend events encourage artists to use innovative aesthetic technologies and create strategies to engage and collaborate with artists from divergent communities in Chicago and the world. Multi-venue performances of music, poetry and visual arts exhibitions and interdisciplinary festivals reach beyond immediate cultural and aesthetic neighborhoods to cross borders and boundaries among participants, audiences and art forms.

Annual Borderbend projects include Chicago Calling and the Mingus Awareness Project. Other organizations partner with Borderbend to enrich and extend the reach of its project, such as the Experimental Piano Series, which is co-produced by the Chicago Composers Forum and Borderbend, in partnership with the PianoForte Foundation.

Donations are greatly appreciated — they help to support the Borderbend Arts Collective”s programs. Since Borderbend is a 501(c)(3) not-for-profit organization, donations are tax deductible.

Chicago Artists Month

Throughout October, you are invited to meet hundreds of Chicago visual artists at exhibitions, workshops, open studios, tours, neighborhood art walks and more in venues across the city. Presented by the Chicago Department of Cultural Affairs in collaboration with more than 200 program partners, Chicago Artists Month aims to showcase the extraordinary talent and vibrancy of Chicago’s art community.

This year's theme, "The City as Studio,” explores the impact of the urban environment on Chicago artists and their work, and the contributions that artists make to the vitality of our city. The place where art is imagined and made, whether in a physical or virtual space, affects the idea, the process and the final product. And the art, once created, leaves a mark on the place it occupies. Chicago Artists Month 2010 looks at how the city influences art and artists, and how artists transform the city by contributing to civic dialogue and quality of life.

event listing on facebook: http://tinyurl.com/2bceos6

↑ Index

7. steve russell
the ruling class ... the rich getting richer
Fri 1 Oct 2010

why didn't anyone tell me that the Federal Reserve is owned & operated by a consortium of 200 families?

there i am, walking about in total ignornance.
& what am i to do about wising up???

↑ Index

8. steve russell
Re: The Ugh/liest lango poet in D.C.
Fri 1 Oct 2010

well, i think she's on record.
after all, Ms. Myles is internationally known.

note, the speaker of the set piece cleverly avoids describing himself. although i wasn't necessarily describing myself either.

i do sometimes abused cheap puns.

--- On Wed, 9/29/10, Gwyn McVay <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Gwyn McVay <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: The Ugh/liest lango poet in D.C.
To: [redacted]
Date: Wednesday, September 29, 2010, 4:39 PM

> & there's Ellen Myles (spelling???), doing her lesbian thing, looking good in that brown pant suit thing she's wearing

Dear Mr. Russell:

If you were able to tell that Ms. Myles was a lesbian from whatever she was doing ("lesbian things," after all, include brushing one's teeth), then I am baffled as to why you would think she cares about your opinion of that "pant suit thing." I find your thing to be a creepy misogyny thing. Some of us female things do not actually dress for your male gaze. (And no, your having described the appearance of Mr. Downs in the preceding paragraph thing does not let you off the hook for slyly making us guess at whom you mean by "Ugh/liest." It's a societal thing.)

Plus five points for clever use of the space bar. Minus several million for the visual evaluation thing. And who am I to be grading your things? That, my dear sir, is precisely my point thing.

Sincerely,
Short Fat Obscure Poet Thing

↑ Index

9. steve russell
Re: The Ugh/liest lango poet in D.C.
Fri 1 Oct 2010

---

that is, abuse cheap puns.
cheaply pun.
find it hard to refrain from plotting a pun...
sometime hum Paul M's "Man on the run" although i don't like that song.

--- On Fri, 10/1/10, steve russell <[redacted]> wrote:

From: steve russell <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: The Ugh/liest lango poet in D.C.
To: " UB)Poetics List (UPenn" <[redacted]>
Date: Friday, October 1, 2010, 2:42 PM

well, i think she's on record.
after all, Ms. Myles is internationally known.

note, the speaker of the set piece cleverly avoids describing himself. although i wasn't necessarily describing myself either.

i do sometimes abused cheap puns.

--- On Wed, 9/29/10, Gwyn McVay <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Gwyn McVay <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: The Ugh/liest lango poet in D.C.
To: [redacted]
Date: Wednesday, September 29, 2010, 4:39 PM

> & there's Ellen Myles (spelling???), doing her lesbian thing, looking good in that brown pant suit thing she's wearing

Dear Mr. Russell:

If you were able to tell that Ms. Myles was a lesbian from whatever she was doing ("lesbian things," after all, include brushing one's teeth), then I am baffled as to why you would think she cares about your opinion of that "pant suit thing." I find your thing to be a creepy misogyny thing. Some of us female things do not actually dress for your male gaze. (And no, your having described the appearance of Mr. Downs in the preceding paragraph thing does not let you off the hook for slyly making us guess at whom you mean by "Ugh/liest." It's a societal thing.)

Plus five points for clever use of the space bar. Minus several million for the visual evaluation thing. And who am I to be grading your things? That, my dear sir, is precisely my point thing.

Sincerely,
Short Fat Obscure Poet Thing

↑ Index

10. Lynn Xu
CANARIUM BOOKS: Open Reading Period Announcement
Fri 1 Oct 2010

Dear friends,

Canarium Books is accepting submissions from now until November 1st. Please help us get the word out (Facebook status/listserv/word-of-mouth/students/colleagues/friends): there's no reading fee and our turnaround is fairly quick—we're aiming to announce what we've chosen in March. Details can be found at our website: www.canariumbooks.org

We welcome submissions from anyone (except our former classmates and teachers), regardless of publication history. Thanks for your time and continued support. We've had a great year with the books we've done so far, and we're ready for more. Beginning in March, some of us will be touring with our authors, so we hope to see you somewhere and soon.

Sincerely,

Lynn (and on behalf of Josh, Robyn, and Nick)

Canarium Books
[redacted]
www.canariumbooks.org

↑ Index

11. Gary Sullivan
Origin of Langpo, Frank O'Hara vs. Academia, etc.
Sat 2 Oct 2010

"Why, when I'm done with that homosexual Irish-American icon of permissiveness, NO ONE will enjoy reading his poetry!"

I've added six new pieces of original poetry comics art for sale to:

http://newlifecomic.blogspot.com/

And there are maybe 4 or 5 pieces from the two dozen that I posted a month or so ago.

Please visit! I need money! You need art!

Gary

↑ Index

12. Mark DuCharme

Re: the ruling class ... the rich getting richer

Sat 2 Oct 2010

Perhaps you can begin the process by telling us all exactly what your source is, where you found it & why you consider it reliable.

These are questions I ask my students all the time. And when you have answered them, I think we will all be wiser.

Sincerely,

Mark DuCharme

> Date: Fri, 1 Oct 2010 11:37:16 -0700
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: the ruling class ... the rich getting richer
> To: [redacted]
>
> ---------- Information from the mail header ----------
> Sender: "Poetics List (UPenn, UB)" <[redacted]>
> Poster: steve russell <[redacted]>
> Subject: the ruling class ... the rich getting richer
> ----------
>
> why didn't anyone tell me that the Federal Reserve is owned & operated by a consortium > of 200 families?
>
> there i am, walking about in total ignornance.
> & what am i to do about wising up???

↑ Index

13. Alan Sondheim
music from last night and more
Sun 3 Oct 2010

music from last night and more

chris funkhouser's recording (with added small-club echo) of azure and me last night performing after chris and amy (thanks, chris!)

http://espdisk.com/alansondheim/adamzperform.mp3

i'm playing electric-acoustic oud, electric-acoustic guitar, viola, electric saz and i'm playing them all too well.

so now i can retire.
i hate retirement (since the last sentence).
now i can do all the things i've always wanted to do.
i can steal from anyone, jail will last such a short time.
did i tell you i was the one who burned down brooklyn?
no? well i'll keep you guessing.

now if brooklyn burns down tonight for any reason you can say - he did it. he said he would do it and he did it. you know he's retired and he thinks that gives him the right to do anything. well maybe that's true, look what he did - he burned down brooklyn.

i should add that even though i have a deep attachment to brooklyn, it is not my native land.

since i'm retired, though, the whole world is my oyster. however, it would be truer to say my oyster is the whole world, especially if my oyster were our red-eared slider, who has not yet retired (our turtle is very young). did i tell you i forgot my name? did you ask me?

walking away and into second life residency and too sad momentum http://www.alansondheim.org/goodbyetoallthat.mp4

the arctic overflows with mourning and uttermost grief of cauldron.
http://www.alansondheim.org/ arctic pngs

i might as well be dead.

↑ Index

14. William Allegrezza
Come to Series A this Wednesday
Sun 3 Oct 2010

Please come to Series A this Wednesday to hear Hillard and Miller.

October 6, 7:00-8:00 p.m.
Donora Hillard
Julia Miller

At the Hyde Park Art Center, 5020 S. Cornell, Chicago.

Free parking. Easy public transit access. Free. BYOB.

Please note: the reading starts on time because the HPAC closes at 8.

For more information, visit http://www.moriapoetry.com/seriesa.html

There are only two more events for Series A. It will close for good after the November event.

↑ Index

15. Sharon Mesmer/David Borchart
Re: Michael Gizzi
Sun 3 Oct 2010

I had the privilege of intro'ing Michael at that reading -- it was also the last time I saw him. I hadn't planned to go to the reading because I was flying to Copenhagen the next day and hadn't even packed. But I ran into him on the street, we had drinks, and I went. He was laughing and happy, the reading was great, and I got to say in a public forum how much he meant to me as an editor and poet. I am so grateful for the confluence of influences that brought me to that moment.

On Sep 30, 2010, at 11:09 AM, Nicholas Piombino wrote:

> I had known Michael Gizzi's work and admired it and had been to a few of readings of his but had never really gotten to know him. This past April he showed up at a party and came over to talk with me. He told me he was reading at the KGB Bar with Keith Waldrop. Unfortunately there was a mistake in the listing and I got there right after he finished. He went to have a smoke and I went outside with him. When we talked it was as if we had always known each other. I was annoyed about the error in the announcement and we commiserated about the inadequacies of the poetry scene. We exchanged recent books, and I had the distinct feeling I had found a new friend. We went back upstairs, Keith got up to read, and announced he had dedicated his latest book (Transcendental Studies) to Michael Gizzi, which in 2009 won the National Book Award.
>
> On 9/30/10 6:58 AM, "Stephen Ellis" <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> I first read Michael Gizzi in a slim volume entitled (I think) Interferon, in the right field bleachers of the triple A Portland Seadogs, in Portland,

> Maine, in September 1998. I don't know who won the game (who could care?) but I became an immediate and avid fan. Of Michael's. He get a lot of extra base hits as well as lots of cheap off-infield-shins singles that inevitably dribbled to the only unoccupied portion of the field. I can still see Michael's wafer-thin wiry figure hoofin' out a scab double, and appearing, sliding under the tag, just safe, on page 4.
>
> Date: Wed, 29 Sep 2010 20:44:20 -0600
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: Michael Gizzi
> To: [redacted]
>
> He was was one of a handful of contemporaries of whom I can honestly say that I never read a poem which bored me. Although clearly it may take awhile, I can't wait for the Collected.
>
> Mark DuCharme

↑ Index

16. Christophe Casamassima

Onthology/audio: New recordings from David Stone and Les Wade

Sun 3 Oct 2010

Hi, everyone,

I'm hoping to turn you on to a new recordings project from the Center for the Emerging Text Studios in Baltimore. The first two episodes feature David Stone and Les Wade.

The site will feature recordings by poets and writers from the American Northeast. If you'd like to be a part of this project, or would like to make a suggestion, please eMail me here at [redacted].

See it hear it: http://onthologyaudio.blogspot.com/

And please become a follower.

Christophe Casamassima

↑ Index

17. Scott Howard

RECONFIGURATIONS: Call for Submissions (Special Feature / Graphic Non-Fiction)

Sun 3 Oct 2010

This is a multi-part message in MIME format.

----b3e28f5819c44ee23037

RECONFIGURATIONS: A Journal for Poetics & Poetry / Literature & Culture, ISSN: 1938-3592,
http://reconfigurations.blogspot.com/

Volume 4: Special Feature / Graphic Non-Fiction
Submissions: September thru October, 2010
Publication: November, 2010

Guidelines: Volume four of Reconfigurations, http://reconfigurations.blogspot.com/, seeks a variety of works for a special feature concerning graphic non-fiction. Marshall McLuhan's "Understanding Media" describes comics as a "cool media," where the tension between medium and message is key. That notion seems especially relevant to graphic non-fiction, where the desire to 'report' often collides with visual expression: the result being a work that demands intense reader participation and interpretation, thus calling attention to the author's choice to work within the comics form.

Reconfigurations seeks essays that explore this tension within the medium, art, and/or texts of graphic nonfiction (such as memoir, history, reports, journalism, travel writing).

Reconfigurations, ISSN: 1938-3592, http://reconfigurations.blogspot.com/, is an electronic, peer-reviewed, international, annual journal for poetics and poetry, creative and scholarly writing, innovative and traditional concerns with literary arts and cultural studies. Reconfigurations publishes under a Creative Commons 3.0 open-access license, is MLA indexed, EBSCO distributed and independently managed.

Electronic Submissions: [redacted]. Submissions should be attached as a single .doc, .rtf, or .txt file. Visuals should be attached individually as .jpg, .gif or .bmp files. Please include the words "Special Feature (Graphic Non-Fiction)" in the subject line of your message.

///

----b3e28f5819c44ee23037

27 Sep 2010 14:20:30 -0600
From: Scott Howard <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Date: Mon, 27 Sep 2010 14:20:30 -0600
2007; 32bit)
Content-Language: en
Subject: RECONFIGURATIONS: Call for Submissions (Special Feature / Graphic Non-Fiction)
Priority: normal

RECONFIGURATIONS: A Journal for Poetics & Poetry / Literature & Culture,
ISSN: 1938-3592,
http://reconfigurations.blogspot.com/

Volume 4: Special Feature / Graphic Non-Fiction
Submissions: September thru October, 2010
Publication: November, 2010

Guidelines: Volume four of Reconfigurations, http://reconfigurations.blogspot.com/, seeks a variety of works for a special feature concerning graphic non-fiction. Marshall McLuhan's "Understanding Media" describes comics as a "cool media," where the tension between medium and message is key. That notion seems especially relevant to graphic non-fiction, where the desire to 'report' often collides with visual expression: the result being a work that demands intense reader participation and interpretation, thus calling attention to the author's choice to work within the comics form.

Reconfigurations seeks essays that explore this tension within the medium, art, and/or texts of graphic nonfiction (such as memoir, history, reports, journalism, travel writing).

Reconfigurations, ISSN: 1938-3592, http://reconfigurations.blogspot.com/, is an electronic, peer-reviewed, international, annual journal for poetics and poetry, creative and scholarly writing, innovative and traditional concerns with literary arts and cultural studies. Reconfigurations publishes under a Creative Commons 3.0 open-access license, is MLA indexed, EBSCO distributed and independently managed.

Electronic Submissions: [redacted]. Submissions should be attached as a single .doc, .rtf, or .txt file. Visuals should be attached individually as .jpg, .gif or .bmp files. Please include the words "Special Feature (Graphic Non-Fiction)" in the subject line of your message.

///

----b3e28f5819c44ee23037--

↑ Index

18. Rob McLennan
new(ish) on rob's clever blog
Sun 3 Oct 2010

-- Ken McGoogan, How the Scots Invented Canada
-- How Should A Person Be? Sheila Heti
-- (another) very short story;
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Sarah Leavitt
-- Sasha Fletcher, when all our days are numbered
-- fwd: call for submissions, hospital
-- Infinite Difference: Other Poetries by U.K. Women
-- today's horoscope, the globe & mail,
-- Ongoing notes: West Coast Line + The New Quarterly
-- fiction: from "boy and girl and man and woman," a novel-in-progress
-- the ottawa small press book fair, fall 2010;
-- Book by Ken Sparling

www.robmclennan.blogspot.com

+ at Open Book Toronto, "Casa Mendoza," http://www.openbooktoronto.com/articles/casa_mendoza

-- writer/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...poetry - wild horses (U of Alberta) ...2nd novel - missing persons www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

19. Jonathan Morse
Re: the ruling class ... the rich getting richer
Sun 3 Oct 2010

On 10/2/2010 5:57 PM, Mark DuCharme wrote to Steve Russell, whose original message follows below:
> Perhaps you can begin the process by telling us all exactly what your source is, where you found it& why you consider it reliable.
Russell's concern-troll question actually does have something to do with poetry. Here, from an American Nazi publication, is an obituary for Eustace Mullins, whose book _Secrets of the Federal Reserve_ is Russell's source, whether he knows it or not.

http://www.theoccidentalobserver.net/authors/Mott-Mullins.html

And here (shameless commercial) is a link to an article about Mullins and his influence on Ezra Pound.

http://jacketmagazine.com/34/morse-pound.shtml

Jonathan Morse
University of Hawaii at Manoa

> Date: Fri, 1 Oct 2010 11:37:16 -0700
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: the ruling class ... the rich getting richer
> To: [redacted]
>
> ---------- Information from the mail header ----------
> Sender: "Poetics List (UPenn, UB)"<[redacted]>
> Poster: steve russell<[redacted]>
> Subject: the ruling class ... the rich getting richer
> ---
>
> why didn't anyone tell me that the Federal Reserve is owned& operated by a consortium > of 200 families?
>
> there i am, walking about in total ignornance.
> & what am i to do about wising up???

↑ Index

20. Stephen Ellis
Re: the ruling class ... the rich getting richer
Mon 4 Oct 2010

Alan Greenspan said in an interview with the PBS guy, what's his name, McNeil? That the Federal Reserve is an institution that is "independent from the government." Or go to Article 13, section 8 of the Constitution. (I think those are the correct numbers and sections.) Anyway, this is so well known, it barely needs mention. Less well known is that the U.S. declarted bankruptcy in June, 1933, and has since operated under Emergency War Powers, with the Treasury Secretary - not the President or Congress or the Judicial branch - managing the bankruptcy. Ask not where the (as of a year ago) 9.7 trillion dollars of the Congressionally mandated 800 billion dollar bank bailout went. But . . . shouldn't we be asking about that, then cringing over the supposed wealth of 200 families we don't know the names of. Hell, we don't even know the brand of sneakers they wear. And we never will. And sources? Haven't time at the moment (a rare day of "going to work"), but type in a few of the above "key words" and Google them. Keep in mind that information from sites with names like Prison Planet, etc., may be a little skewed. But there could be a grain of truth there, too. "Truth." Whatever you want to believe that is.

Ciao.

> Date: Sat, 2 Oct 2010 21:57:31 -0600
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: the ruling class ... the rich getting richer
> To: [redacted]
>
> Perhaps you can begin the process by telling us all exactly what your source is, where you found it & why you consider it reliable.
>
> These are questions I ask my students all the time. And when you have answered them, I think we will all be wiser.
>
> Sincerely,
>
> Mark DuCharme
>
> Date: Fri, 1 Oct 2010 11:37:16 -0700
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: the ruling class ... the rich getting richer
> To: [redacted]
>
> ---------- Information from the mail header ----------
> Sender: "Poetics List (UPenn, UB)" <[redacted]>
> Poster: steve russell <[redacted]>
> Subject: the ruling class ... the rich getting richer
> ---
>
> why didn't anyone tell me that the Federal Reserve is owned & operated by a consortium > of 200 families?
>
> there i am, walking about in total ignornance.
> & what am i to do about wising up???

↑ Index

21. Alexander Dickow

From the Mouth of the Gulper Eel: find the gimmick, win a signed book of poetry...

Mon 4 Oct 2010

From Adam Biles at Gulper Eel, http://gulpereel.net/frontpage/?p=1429: Alexander Dickow's "Riddle Sonnet." Â Alexander has composed a sonnet with a difference for Gulper Eel. What we want you to tell us is â€“ whatâ€™s the gimmick? The most detailed answer received before the end of the month will win a signed copy of Caramboles, Alexanderâ€™s much lauded bilingual poetry collection. All answers to [redacted].

The solution and the name of the winner will be published on the 1st of November. Alexander will be the judge, and his decision is final. Enjoy.

Â
www.alexdickow.net/blog/

les mots! ah quel dÃ©sert Ã la fin
merveilleux. -- Henri Droguet
Â
www.alexdickow.net/blog/

les mots! ah quel dÃ©sert Ã la fin
merveilleux. -- Henri Droguet

↑ Index

22. Kimmelman, Burt

Lopate and Kimmelman This Thursday in the East Village, 6:30 PM

Mon 4 Oct 2010

---

* P R O S E P R O S *
Thursday, October 7

6:30 to 7:45 p.m. [starts & ends on time!]
At the Sidewalk Café
94 Avenue A at 6th Street, NYC 10009 * [redacted]
F to Second Avenue (exit at First Avenue)

WHAT: Prose Pros presents prose readings - stories, essays, critique, and in-between forms by master writers. The programs pair two prose practitioners linked by agreement or opposition, by topic similarities or discordances. Meet writers new to you. See writers you know.

WHERE: The comfortable back room of the Lower East Side's Sidewalk Café (home of anti-folk music). All readings are on Thursdays at 6:30 (sharp), usually the first Thursday of the month. Food and drink are available; we ask for contributions to pay the readers.

READING ON OCTOBER 7: Phillip Lopate and Burt Kimmelman

Two writers born in Brooklyn just four years apart focus on the city they both love. Phillip Lopate, known for his delicious skewering of the chattering classes, for celebrations of the city then and now, and for powerful critiques of the wallowing-in-my-addiction memoir, has most recently published Notes on Sontag, and, in 2008, Two Marriages, a pair of novellas.

Burt Kimmelman will read from a memoir that reanimates the Park Slope neighborhood of Fifth Avenue when he was a teen, when this now gentrified neighborhood of restaurants and boutiques resembled Hubert Selby's Red Hook. Kimmelman's most recent book is a collection of poems, As If Free.

Find us online: Please friend "Prose Pros" on Facebook.

See also: <http://www.philliplopate.com/> philliplopate.com<http://philliplopate.com>
njit.edu/~kimmelma<http://njit.edu/~kimmelma>

Or contact:

Martha King at [redacted]<mailto:[redacted]>
Elinor Nauen at [redacted]<mailto:[redacted]>

# # #

.

↑ Index

23. ART ELECTRONICS
VISUAL POETRY TODAY
Mon 4 Oct 2010

Join us at the the opening of the exhibition VISUAL POETRY TODAY, where I participate with two works, a digital poetry tribute to my master and friend Eugenio Miccini. * Fw to persons who might be interested.

VISUAL POETRY EXHIBITION
Organized by L'Ortica Culture Center
"POESIA VISIVA OGGI? VIETATO PENSARE MA LIBERI DI ANDARE"
With a tribute to:

EUGENIO M ICCINI
WHERE: SALA MENOUNO del MEGA FORLÌ - C.so Della Repubblica n. 144 - Forlì, Italia
WHEN: OCTOBER 9 - 21, 2010
Opening: October 9 2010 - 04:00 PM
(Curator: Davide Argnani)

Caterina Davinio
::
DVD or secure web files featured on demand to curators and gallery owners.
Contact: [redacted]
Web: http://xoomer.virgilio.it/cprezi/caterinadav.html

_____
More: http://xoomer.alice.it/kareninazoom/daviniobook.htm

↑ Index

24. Adam Fieled
"Returns" on PennSound
Mon 4 Oct 2010

The entirety o
For interested parties,

The entirety of my Mipo chap Returns, including "Wittgenstein's Song," is now on PennSound:

http://www.writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/x/Fieled.php

Poems in this chap have originally appeared in moria, Sous Rature, and elsewhere.

Enjoy.
Adam [redacted]

↑ Index

25. St. Thomasino
Jack Foley on the movie, Howl.
Mon 4 Oct 2010

e·

Jack Foley on the movie, Howl. (With James Franco as Allen Ginsberg.)

http://eratio.blogspot.com/

e·

↑ Index

26. Ram Devineni
VERSE: LAUNCH OF THE VIDEO WEB SERIES PARTY
Mon 4 Oct 2010

VERSE: LAUNCH OF THE VIDEO WEB SERIES PARTY

October 5, 2010 at 10pm at Bowery Poetry Club

308 Bowery (Between Houston and Bleecker), NYC

F train to 2nd Ave, 6 to Bleecker St. FREE

Catch the first episode at:

http://rattapallax.com/blog/verse/

VERSE: A murder mystery. When a young poet discovers a lost manuscript, he is drawn into the New York City literary world with the only key to an unsolved, 30-year-old murder. Produced by Rattapallax Productions. Directed by Ram Devineni. Script by Susan Brennan. Music by Shira E. & the Tiny Tornadoes.

Featured readers Jon Sands, Angel Nafis, Bill Kushner, Lamont B. Steptoe, Susan Brennan, Joelle Hann & Maggie Balistreri. Free.

Also appearing in series are Mark Greenfield, Julie Berndt & Bob Holman.

Cheers

Ram Devineni

↑ Index

27. ShaunAnne Tangney
Robinson Jeffers Edited collection CFP
Mon 4 Oct 2010

Apologies For Cross-Postings -- Please Circulate Widely

CALL FOR PROPOSALS

The editor of a book collection tentatively called The Wild That Attracts Us: New Critical Essays on Robinson Jeffers invites proposals for essays that evidence the advance in Jeffers scholarship, especially since the publication of the most recent collections in the early- and mid-1990s. Since the publication of those volumes, there have been significant accomplishments in Jeffers scholarship: the entire five volumes of the Collected Poetry and the first of three volumes of the Collected Letters have been released, Jeffers Studies was established, and The Robinson Jeffers Association has flourished. Given the enlivened atmosphere of Jeffers scholarship, the time is right for a new collection of essays, one that significantly adds to the body of critical work on Robinson Jeffers.

To that end, proposals are invited for essays that specifically address the critical sea-change of the past two decades, especially as it concerns Jeffers study, including but not limited to: the full advance of ecocriticism; the re-imagining of regionalism as place studies; the continuing development of cultural studies and the new historicism; the development of the New Formalism; the increasingly poignant vector of science and literature; the advances in narratology; the glaring omission of feminist analysis in Jeffers scholarship; the similar dearth of writing about the teaching of Jeffers. The primary audience for this project will be academic, faculty and students primarily at the undergraduate and graduate level; secondary audiences would include the general public, especially given that Jeffers has long maintained an energetic and mindful readership.

Proposals should be 750-1,000 words, include a clear title, highlight a unique contribution to Jeffers scholarship, and provide the editor with an unambiguous argument as to Jeffers' poetry, the critical tactics undertaken by the essay's author, and the significance of the essay to Jeffers scholarship as a whole. The deadline for proposals is December 31, 2010. Proposals may be sent either electronically or in hard copy to the appropriate address below.

ShaunAnne Tangney

Associate Professor of English

Humanities Division

Minot State University

500 University Ave. W

Minot, ND 58707

[redacted]

↑ Index

28. Edward Foster

new Talisman

Mon 4 Oct 2010

—

↑ Index

29. Dan Godston

Chicago Calling, Waiting 4 the Bus

Mon 4 Oct 2010

You are invited to attend “Chicago Calling, Waiting 4 the Bus" at Café Ballou, on Monday, October 4 (7 p.m.) --

* Matthew Barton (Chicago) and Duane Vorhees (Bangkok) -- poetry collaboration

* "Postcard from NYC" -- Al DeGenova (Chicago), Charlie Rossiter (Chicago), Dan Cox (Albany, NY), and Ralph Murre (Baileys Harbor, WI)

* Lisa Hemminger (San Diego) and Jeff Mroz (Chicago) -- poetry and music collaboration

* Wayne Allen Jones (Chicago) and Robert Karimi (Minneapolis) -- poetry collaboration

* Tribute to Tuli Kupferberg: Steve Dalachinsky (New York) talks about Kupferberg, and then an ensemble performs a rendition of The Fugs’ “Nothing”

* "A Mess O Poems: from now on, we will NOT have died young” -- a poetry collaboration between Elizabeth Marino (Chicago) and Sally Evans (Edinburgh)

* Buddha 309 (Chicago) and Tony Renner (St. Louis) -- poetry and visual art collaboration

* Chainpoem, with Marie Countryman (Vermont), Yentz Melanov (Munich), Song Zijiang (Macao), Charlie Newman (Chicago), Francoise La Maline (Buenos Aires), Steven Schroeder (Chicago), Murray One (Calgary), Mindaugas Briedis (Vilnius), Ken Hada (Ada, OK), and David Breeden (Minneapolis)

* Shelley Nation-Watson (Chicago) and Amanda Purdom (Tulsa, OK) -- poetry collaboration

* Orin Buck (photography) and Bob Rashkow (Chicago) -- poetry and visual art collaboration

* Sid Yiddish (Chicago) and John Hardwick (Bloomington, IN) -- musical collaboration

Café Ballou
939 N. Western Ave.
Chicago, IL 60622
[redacted]

↑ Index

30. Camille Martin

New @ Rogue Embryo: Looms + Poemicstrip + shell bud

Mon 4 Oct 2010

New @ Rogue Embryo
http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

* "Looms" in Talking Writing: where peasants now hack at tough clods . . .

* Full Size Patterns: A Poemicstrip using 1950s British Boy Scout comic strips * shell bud (a collage for Hanna)

Cheers!

Camille Martin

Sonnets:
http://www.shearsman.com/pages/books/catalog/2010/martin.html

Codes of Public Sleep:
http://www.spdbooks.org/Producte/9781897388112/codes-of-public-sleep.aspx

↑ Index

31. Effing Press

Days and Works of the féneon collective

Mon 4 Oct 2010

From Effing Press and Skanky Possum Press:

Hello Friends,

This book, in collaboration with Skanky Possum Press, has been a long time coming and we're proud to announce that THE DAYS AND WORKS OF THE FENEON COLLECTIVE is printed and bound and ready to ship.

Buy this book now and receive a FREE effing press publication of your choosing. (just write it in the message field of the paypal order form).

http://effingpress.com/feneon-collective.htm

Works and Days of the fenéon collective edited by Anonyme

7x5, 60 pages saddle-stitched
isbn: 0-9794745-9-0

co-published with Skanky Possum Press $10.00

printed in an edition of 645
September, 2010

This collection, anonymously edited, collects the writing of a collective of poets that created a project inspired by a similar effort in 1906 led by the French art critic Felix Feneon. The original collective published (also anonymously)haiku-like bulletins derived from the police blotters of that year) where as the collective 2008-2009 collective focused on the accidents, murders, suicides, labor disputes, and banal contretemps of early 21st century US and (to a lesser extent) UK poetry communities.

All your favorite poets of today are caught in the acts of life's strangeness and criminality.

The books is printed in letterpress and risograph with soy-based ink and bound in Suede Tex papers limited to an edition of only a few hundred copies.

http://effingpress.com/feneon-collective.htm

--
Scott Pierce

EFFING PRESS
703 W. 11th Street #1
Austin, TX 78701

[redacted]

www.effingpress.com

↑ Index

32. Jessica Wickens
10/19 Reading & Release Party: Monday Night Lit & Swill Magazine
Tue 5 Oct 2010

Announcing a joint celebration for the 9th Issue of Monday Night and the 5th Issue of Swill Magazine!

Join the editors and our beautiful and/or talented contributors for an evening of prose, poetry, and impropriety:

Tuesday 10/19, 7:00pm
Cafe Van Kleef
1621 Telegraph Ave (downtown Oakland)

Readings from: Marissa Bell Toffoli, Sean Craven, Amber DiPietra, Allison Landa, Warren Lutz, Rob Pierce, Della Watson

Hope to see you there!

Monday Night ~ a journal of new literature
Editors: Heather Miller, Nana Twumasi, Jessica Wickens

Swill Magazine ~ Fiction for the Ill Literate
Editors: Sean Craven, Rob Pierce

↑ Index

33. Ryan Daley
beginning fiction
Tue 5 Oct 2010

Dear Listservers,

I'm interested in hearing recommendations on short story writers, particularly writers of color, to incorporate into my short story creative writing class.

Thanks in advance!

-ryan

↑ Index

34. steve russell
Re: the ruling class ... the rich getting richer
Tue 5 Oct 2010

---

one friend tells me that poets are about as enlightening when they discuss economics as economist when they talk about poetry ...

i'm obviously not an authority.
nothing new there.

another friend, a true wise guy, guy i know from the neighborhood tells me this:

OK. So here's a more interesting question. Say you had a pile of money. Would you invest it in the Fed in order to own a piece. Would that be a good idea given this country's liabilities? Or are the 200 families kind of a more shadowy group like the knights templar or illuminati? Was any of this predicted in revelations, or nostradamus or the mayan calendar?. I'm worried. J.P Morgan was once owned by J.P Morgan, I have it on good authority.

--- On Mon, 10/4/10, Stephen Ellis <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Stephen Ellis <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: the ruling class ... the rich getting richer
To: [redacted]
Date: Monday, October 4, 2010, 6:55 AM

Alan Greenspan said in an interview with the PBS guy, what's his name, McNeil? That the Federal Reserve is an institution that is "independent from the government." Or go to Article 13, section 8 of the Constitution. (I think those are the correct numbers and sections.) Anyway, this is so well known, it barely needs mention. Less well known is that the U.S. declarted bankruptcy in June, 1933, and has since operated under Emergency War Powers, with the Treasury Secretary - not the President or Congress or the Judicial branch - managing the bankruptcy. Ask not where the (as of a year ago) 9.7 trillion dollars of the Congressionally mandated 800 billion dollar bank bailout went. But . . . shouldn't we be asking about that, then cringing over the supposed wealth of 200 families we don't know the names of. Hell, we don't even know the brand of sneakers they wear. And we never will. And sources? Haven't time at the moment (a rare day of "going to work"), but type in a few of the above "key words" and Google them. Keep in mind that information from sites with names like Prison Planet, etc., may be a little skewed. But there could be a grain of truth there, too. "Truth." Whatever you want to believe that is.

Ciao.

> Date: Sat, 2 Oct 2010 21:57:31 -0600
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: the ruling class ... the rich getting richer
> To: [redacted]
>
> Perhaps you can begin the process by telling us all exactly what your source is, where you found it & why you consider it reliable.
>
> These are questions I ask my students all the time. And when you have answered them, I think we will all be wiser.
>
> Sincerely,
>
> Mark DuCharme
>
> Date: Fri, 1 Oct 2010 11:37:16 -0700
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: the ruling class ... the rich getting richer
> To: [redacted]
>
> ---------- Information from the mail header ----------
> Sender: "Poetics List (UPenn, UB)" <[redacted]>
> Poster: steve russell <[redacted]>
> Subject: the ruling class ... the rich getting richer
> ----------

> why didn't anyone tell me that the Federal Reserve is owned & operated by a consortium > of 200 families?
>
> there i am, walking about in total ignornance.
> & what am i to do about wising up???

↑ Index

35. derek beaulieu
new from NO: DIIRECTIONS by Fitterman and Giasson
Tue 5 Oct 2010

No press is proud to announce the publication of

Directions

by Robert Fitterman and Steve Giasson

For Les Figues Press' fundraising auction, Fitterman offered something called "Not A Thing;" an offer to collaborate on a conceptual text.

Giasson won the bid and together they came up with a text titled Directions where they chart out the various ways to get from Fitterman's apartment to Giasson's . car, ship, plan, bicycle and more.

Published in an edition of 60 handbound copies (30 of which are for sale), each copy has handcut BFKRives covers.

Directions is available for $8 (shipping included).

To order, please email [redacted]

derek beaulieu
2 - 733 2nd avenue nw
calgary alberta
canada T2N 0E4
[redacted]
http://derekbeaulieu.wordpress.com/

↑ Index

36. William Allegrezza
Spirits Seeking Submission
Tue 5 Oct 2010

Spirits is now accepting art and literary works for its 2010 fall semester publication.

Submission Guidelines:

POETRY:
A maximum of six (6) poems in .docº format per person;

SHORT FICTION and ESSAYS:
A maximum of 2,500 words in .docº format per person;

ARTWORK:
A maximum of six (6) artworks in either .jpg[1], .tif[2], or .eps[3] format per person.

Submission Deadline:

OCTOBER 18, 2010

Submission Procedure:

E-MAIL:
Send art; literary work(s); and a brief, personal biography to

[redacted]

Please note that I am not an editor for this magazine, just the faculty sponsor. That said, it typically looks like a nice print mag. If you want a sample, send me your address.

↑ Index

37. CA Conrad
CAConrad & Cedar Sigo THIS COMING SUNDAY at
Tue 5 Oct 2010

CAConrad & Cedar Sigo THIS COMING SUNDAY at

Molly's Bookshop
COME TO THE 10/10/10 POETRY READING AT 1010 SOUTH S. 9TH STREET next to Fante's in Philadelphia's Italian Market

Cedar has come all the way from San Francisco to share work from his new City Lights book with us.
Details with link at:
http://caconradevents.blogspot.com/2010/10/with-cedar-sigo-in-philadelphia.html

BOOK PARTIES / READINGS FOR The Book of Frank

with Eileen Myles 10/08/10 in BALTIMORE (for i.e. reading series) all details at: http://CAConradEVENTS.blogspot.com with Cedar Sigo 10/10/10 in PHILADELPHIA (for Jubilant Thicket series) all details at: http://CAConradEVENTS.blogspot.com with PhillySound poets 10/16/10 in NYC (for Enclave Series) all details at: http://CAConradEVENTS.blogspot.com with Danbert Nobacon & Frank Sherlock 10/18/10 in Philadelphia all details at: http://CAConradEVENTS.blogspot.com with Wanda Coleman 10/20/10 in NYC (at the Poetry Project) all details at: http://CAConradEVENTS.blogspot.com

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

38. Sarah Rosenthal
Book Launch; Website Launch
Tue 5 Oct 2010

Reminder:Â
Â
This Saturday, October 9, 7:30pm, there's a gala launch for:
Â
A Community Writing Itself: Conversations with Vanguard Writers of the Bay Area, edited by Sarah Rosenthal (Dalkey Achive, 2010)

Small Press Traffic at the California College of the Arts
Timken Lecture Hall, 1111 â€“ 8th Street, SF, CA 94107
http://smallpresstraffic.org/directions

Featuring Kathleen Fraser, Robert GlÃ¼ck, Michael Palmer, Camille Roy, Sarah Rosenthal, & Elizabeth Treadwell reading for Leslie Scalapino

Readings by authors featured in the book
Q&A with audience members
Wine, nonalcoholic beverages, and desserts
$5-10; members free

You are invited to bring your own questions for Kathleen, Robert, Michael, and Camille, about any aspect of their work.

Find out moreÂ about the project at the brand new website: http://www.acommunitywritingitself.com

↑ Index

39. Dan Godston
Translating 2010
Wed 6 Oct 2010

"Translating 2010" at the Reconstruction Room

Wednesday, October 6, 2010 (8 p.m.)

The Reconstruction Room at the Black Rock Bar

3614 N. Damen Ave.

Chicago, IL 60618

[redacted]

Admission: free and open to the public, donations accepted

The Reconstruction Room presents “Translating 2010,” which is part of the Fifth Annual Chicago Calling Arts Festival and Chicago Artists Month. Translating 2010 explores the theme of “translations” in its wide range of permutations and possibilities: translating matter into energy, poetry into prose, time into memories, the present into the past and the future into the present, sound into words and the page into the air, promises into reality / ideals into facts, pencils into sketches into sculptures, DOS into HTML, 1999 into 2012 into The Long Now, frames into motion, and clouds into rain and water into ice.

Participants and projects include:

• "A Guest Giving Way like Ice Melting: Thirteen Ways of Looking at Laozi" -- Sou Vai Keng (Macao) and Steven Schroeder (Chicago)

• Erin Teegarden (Chicago), Della Watson (San Francisco), and Eric Cressley (Pittsburgh) -- poetry collaboration

• Brett Foster reads a selection of his English translations of Cecco Angiolieri’s poetry

• RaKel Delgado (Barcelona), Saul Aguirre (Chicago), and Luis Humberto Valadez (Chicago)

• Steven Teref (Chicago) reads translations of Serbian poetry

• "Recipe Roulette" -- a collaboration between Catie Olson (Chicago), Meg Duguid (Chicago), and the purveyors of Lovitt Restaurant (Colville, WA)

• Eric Elshtain (Chicago) and Gregory Fraser (Carrollton, Georgia) -- poetry collaboration

• Francesco Levato (Chicago) reads English translations of poems by Tiziano Fratus and Fabiano Alborghetti, and Francesco and Mariela Griffor (Grosse Pointe Farms, MI) give a bilingual reading of her poetry

• "Happy 150th Birthday, Jules LaForgue, Piccolo Mountains Repertoire" -- Sheila E. Murphy (Phoenix), Harry Ross (London), Jenni Olson (California), and Dan Godston (Chicago)

We would like to thank Alliance Française de Chicago and Instituto Italiano di Cultura for their donations.

www.chicagocalling.org

↑ Index

40. Brian Seabolt
Raft 1 now online
Wed 6 Oct 2010

Raft, a new spoken-word literary journal, is now online, at:

www.raftmagazineonline.com

Issue 1 features new work from:

Scott Abels
Niamh Bagnell
Susan Powers Bourne
Ric Carfagna
Jan Carson
Joel Chace
Arkava Das
Mark DuCharme
Iris Jamahl Dunkle
Bonnie Emerick
Michael Farrell
Adam Fieled
Thomas Fink
Vernon Frazer
R. Jess Lavolette
David Mohan
Debrah Morkun
Paul Nelson
Francis Raven

Chad Scheel
Sam Schild
Brian Seabolt
Adam Strauss
Mark Stricker
Samuel Day Wharton
Karena Youtz

Raft is currently accepting new work for issue 2 (deadline: December 16, 2010).

Best--

Brian Seabolt
Raft Magazine
www.raftmagazineonline.com

_____

While he read Moll held a little aloof, with downcast eyes, saying to herself,
Now he's at the part where, and a little later, Now he's at the part where, and so remained until the rustle of the sheet going back into the envelope announced that he had finished.

Samuel Beckett, Malone Dies_____

--

_____
Search for products and services at:
http://search.mail.com

↑ Index

41. Stuart Ross
Re: beginning fiction
Wed 6 Oct 2010

Sherman Alexie from the U.S.

Rabindranath Maharaj from Canada.

On 10-10-05 10:51 AM, "Ryan Daley" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Dear Listservers,
>
> I'm interested in hearing recommendations on short story writers, particularly writers of color, to incorporate into my short story creative writing class.

> Thanks in advance!
>
> -ryan

↑ Index

42. Sharon Dolin
Reading in Shelburne Falls this Thurs. at 7
Wed 6 Oct 2010

I'll be reading in the Collected Poets Series at the Mocha Maya's Coffeehouse with Josephine Dickinson this Thurs. at 7pm. 7:00 p.m. at Mocha Maya's, 47 Bridge Street, Shelburne Falls, MA, Phone: [redacted]. ($2-$5 suggested donation).

Here's the link to the site: http://collectedpoets.com/
Sharon

Sharon Dolin
[redacted]
www.sharondolin.com

↑ Index

43. sheila black
Re: beginning fiction
Wed 6 Oct 2010

James Baldwin, Toni Cade Bambara, Nathaniel Mackey (long poem, etc), Zora Neale Hurston, Brent Staples, Alice Walker, William Raspberry.

Sheila Black

--- On Wed, 10/6/10, Stuart Ross <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Stuart Ross <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: beginning fiction
To: "Poetics List (UPenn, UB)" <[redacted]>
Date: Wednesday, October 6, 2010, 10:53 AM

Sherman Alexie from the U.S.

Rabindranath Maharaj from Canada.

On 10-10-05 10:51 AM, "Ryan Daley" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Dear Listservers,
>
> I'm interested in hearing recommendations on short story writers, particularly writers of color, to incorporate into my short story

> creative writing class.
>
> Thanks in advance!
>
> -ryan

↑ Index

44. Dan Glass

Re: beginning fiction

Wed 6 Oct 2010

Angie Chau—Quiet as They Come is beautiful stuff—

http://www.angiechau.com/

On Wed, Oct 6, 2010 at 8:53 AM, Stuart Ross <[redacted]> wrote:

> Sherman Alexie from the U.S.
>
> Rabindranath Maharaj from Canada.
>
> On 10-10-05 10:51 AM, "Ryan Daley" <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Dear Listservers,
>
> I'm interested in hearing recommendations on short story writers, particularly writers of color, to incorporate into my short story creative writing class.
>
> Thanks in advance!
>
> -ryan

↑ Index

45. Ron Henry

EVENTS CALENDAR: SOON Productions Presents a Poetry Reading by Deborah Poe and Caroline Manring on 10/16/10 at 4:00 pm at Buffalo St. Books in Ithaca, NY

Wed 6 Oct 2010

Deborah Poe and Caroline Manring will read from their poetry this Saturday, October 16, at 4:00 p.m. at Buffalo Street Books, in the DeWitt Mall (corner of

E. Buffalo and N. Cayuga St. in downtown Ithaca, NY). This reading is free and open to the public.

DEBORAH POE is the author of the poetry collections Elements (Stockport Flats Press, 2010) and Our Parenthetical Ontology (CustomWords, 2008). Deborah's writing has recently appeared in journals such as Jacket Magazine, Peaches & Bats, Sidebrow, Filter Literary Journal and Denver Quarterly. She is assistant professor of English at Pace University, fiction editor of the international online journal of the arts, Drunken Boat and guest curator/editor for Trickhouse's "Experiment" door 2010/2011. For more information about Deborah, visit www.deborahpoe.com.

CAROLINE MANRING earned her BA from Cornell University and her MFA from the Iowa Writers' Workshop. She has held a Teaching Writing Fellowship and a Leggett-Schupes Fellowship, and her poems have appeared in Drunken Boat, Hot Metal Bridge, Juked, Babel Fruit, and elsewhere. Her poetry chapbook, No Postman, was published last winter by Split Oak Press. She is Assistant Poetry Editor of the literary magazine Seneca Review, and she currently teaches Literature, Creative Writing, and a freshman seminar called "The Avian Persuasion" at Hobart and William Smith Colleges. She fiddles on a violin made in 1932 by her great-grandfather, Harley Manring, who was a postman.

This event has been made possible in part with grant support from the Community Arts Partnership. SOON Productions is dedicated to bringing innovative poets and writers to Ithaca for readings and talks. Please visit our website at http://soonproductions.org for more information about the series.

For more information, contact:

Ron Henry
SOON Productions
Email: [redacted]
Web: http://soonproductions.org

↑ Index

46. michael farrell
Re: beginning fiction
Wed 6 Oct 2010

---

tom cho, australia

(book title, look who's morphing)

> Date: Wed, 6 Oct 2010 11:53:27 -0400
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: beginning fiction

> To: [redacted]
>
> Sherman Alexie from the U.S.
>
> Rabindranath Maharaj from Canada.
>
> On 10-10-05 10:51 AM, "Ryan Daley" <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Dear Listservers,
>
> I'm interested in hearing recommendations on short story writers, particularly writers of color, to incorporate into my short story creative writing class.
>
> Thanks in advance!
>
> -ryan

↑ Index

47. Robert Grotjohn
Re: beginning fiction
Thu 7 Oct 2010

Hisaye Yamamoto, "The Legend of Miss Sasagawara"
Annie Choi, "Happy Birthday or Whatever"
JE Wideman "Doc's Story"
On Thu, Oct 7, 2010 at 6:19 AM, michael farrell <[redacted]> wrote:

> tom cho, australia
>
> (book title, look who's morphing)
>
> Date: Wed, 6 Oct 2010 11:53:27 -0400
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: beginning fiction
> To: [redacted]
> >
> Sherman Alexie from the U.S.
>
> Rabindranath Maharaj from Canada.

> On 10-10-05 10:51 AM, "Ryan Daley" <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Dear Listservers,
>
> I'm interested in hearing recommendations on short story writers, particularly writers of color, to incorporate into my short story creative writing class.
>
> Thanks in advance!
>
> -ryan

--
Robert Grotjohn
Professor Emeritus of English
Mary Baldwin College

↑ Index

48. George Bowering
Re: beginning fiction
Thu 7 Oct 2010

Thomas Hardy. Stephen Crane. Ivan Turgenev. Anton Chekhov

gb

On Oct 6, 2010, at 9:18 AM, sheila black wrote:

> James Baldwin, Toni Cade Bambara, Nathaniel Mackey (long poem, etc), Zora Neale Hurston, Brent Staples, Alice Walker, William Raspberry.
>
> Sheila Black
>
> --- On Wed, 10/6/10, Stuart Ross <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: Stuart Ross <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: beginning fiction
> To: "Poetics List (UPenn, UB)" <[redacted]>
> Date: Wednesday, October 6, 2010, 10:53 AM
>
> Sherman Alexie from the U.S.

> Rabindranath Maharaj from Canada.
>
> On 10-10-05 10:51 AM, "Ryan Daley" <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Dear Listservers,
>
> I'm interested in hearing recommendations on short story writers, particularly writers of color, to incorporate into my short story creative writing class.
>
> Thanks in advance!
>
> -ryan
>
> welcome.html
>
> welcome.html

George Bowering

Author of the fairly good Canadian novel.

↑ Index

49. steve dalachinsky

Re: beginning fiction

Thu 7 Oct 2010

---

dazai rilke checkov doestoevsky kafka

On Thu, 7 Oct 2010 14:42:10 +0900 Robert Grotjohn <[redacted]> writes:
> Hisaye Yamamoto, "The Legend of Miss Sasagawara"
> Annie Choi, "Happy Birthday or Whatever"
> JE Wideman "Doc's Story"
> On Thu, Oct 7, 2010 at 6:19 AM, michael farrell
> <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> > tom cho, australia
> >
> > (book title, look who's morphing)

> >
> >
> >
> > > Date: Wed, 6 Oct 2010 11:53:27 -0400
> > > From: [redacted]
> > > Subject: Re: beginning fiction
> > > To: [redacted]
> > >
> > > Sherman Alexie from the U.S.
> > >
> > > Rabindranath Maharaj from Canada.
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > >
> > > On 10-10-05 10:51 AM, "Ryan Daley" <[redacted]> wrote:
> > >
> > > > Dear Listservers,
> > > >
> > > > I'm interested in hearing recommendations on short story
> writers,
> > > > particularly writers of color, to incorporate into my short > story
> > > > creative writing class.
> > > >
> > > > Thanks in advance!
> > > >
> > > > -ryan
> > >
> Check
> >
> guidelines
> >
>
>
>
> --
> Robert Grotjohn
> Professor Emeritus of English
> Mary Baldwin College
>

>
>

↑ Index

50. steve dalachinsky
Re: beginning fiction
Thu 7 Oct 2010

---

dazai rilke checkov doestoevsky kafka carver cheever salinger dubus
 joyce thomas (skin trade)
kawabata murakami aktagawa

On Thu, 7 Oct 2010 00:10:09 -0700 George Bowering <[redacted]>
writes:
> Thomas Hardy. Stephen Crane. Ivan Turgenev. Anton Chekhov
>
> gb
>
>
> On Oct 6, 2010, at 9:18 AM, sheila black wrote:
>
> > James Baldwin, Toni Cade Bambara, Nathaniel Mackey (long poem, > > etc), Zora Neale Hurston, Brent Staples, Alice Walker, William > > Raspberry.
> >
> > Sheila Black
> >
> > --- On Wed, 10/6/10, Stuart Ross <[redacted]> wrote:
> >
> > From: Stuart Ross <[redacted]>
> > Subject: Re: beginning fiction
> > To: "Poetics List (UPenn, UB)" <[redacted]>
> > Date: Wednesday, October 6, 2010, 10:53 AM
> >
> > Sherman Alexie from the U.S.
> >
> > Rabindranath Maharaj from Canada.
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > On 10-10-05 10:51 AM, "Ryan Daley" <[redacted]> wrote:
> >

> >> Dear Listservers,
> >>
> >> I'm interested in hearing recommendations on short story
> writers,
> >> particularly writers of color, to incorporate into my short > story
> >> creative writing class.
> >>
> >> Thanks in advance!
> >>
> >> -ryan
> >
>
> > welcome.html
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
>
> > welcome.html
>
> George Bowering
>
> Author of the fairly good Canadian novel.
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

51. Sarah Sarai
Re: beginning fiction
Thu 7 Oct 2010

---

in response to request for short stories:

Edward P. Jones (U.S.) He won a Pulitzer for a novel, but (for me) it's his short stories which shine. Some are D.C.-based. All Aunt Hagar's Children.

Charles Johnson (U.S.) has at least one story collection. To philosophy lovers, however, I recommend his novel Oxherding Tale. And despite flaws, novel, Dreamer, about MLK, is absolutely beautiful.

Zora Neale Hurston, anything she writes is wonderful.

Jun'ichirô Tanizaki -- long time since I read them, but man I loved his short stories

Sarah Sarai
http://my3000lovingarms.blogspot.com

↑ Index

52. Cara Benson
Oct 12: Belladonna NYC Fundraiser*
Thu 7 Oct 2010

SUPPORT BELLADONNA*Â Â Â THE TIME IS NOW!
Poetics List:

SUPPORT BELLADONNA*Â Â Â THE TIME IS NOW!
Well, okay. October 12.
But YOU CAN BUY YOUR TICKETS NOW.

Belladonna*s upcoming fundraiser performance and silent auction on October 12 in NYC!

We expect this to be a banner year for Belladonna*, which, as you know, is more thanÂ a press or a reading series; it is also a community structure and resource, committedÂ to non-hierarchal, activist, feminist modes of production of books and critical conversation. This summer we reorganized ourselves into The Belladonna* Collaborative -- a natural extension of how Belladonna has always worked, with a rhizomatic body, full of healthy organs, lacking a singular head.

At this Benefit, we are hoping to earn the funds toÂ complete our budget for 2011. This year weâ€™ve been fortunate to beÂ the recipient of funds from both NYSCA and The O Books Fund. We are halfway to our goal of $20,000, which will allow us to publish andÂ promote our 2011 book series â€“ A Year in the Commons -- made up exclusively of collaborative, collective, or multi-authored works--including The Wide Road, Lyn Hejinian and Carla Harrymanâ€™s long-awaited â€œbuddy picaresque.â€ We will also host 8 literary community events, and apply for our federal not-for-profit status.Â Part of our Benefit proceeds will also support Dixon Place-NYCâ€™s Lab for Performance, which has generously housed our events for 5 years.

Join us for a pre-performance Champagne Salon with the creators ofÂ the two performances, Robert Kocik and Daria Fain of the Phoneme Choir and Colette Alexander and Kristin Prevallet of Seasons: Quartets. You can purchase an advance ticket for the Benefit with the Salon for $50 at the Belladonna website, click level of â€˜Supporterâ€™ or higher from the drop down box on the home page: http://belladonnaseries.org/

You can also see a preview of our amazing silent auction items at http://belladonnaseries.org/auction

Please forward to interested parties! Thanks for your time and support.

All best,
Belladonna* Collaborative

↑ Index

53. a. tsai
Re: beginning fiction
Thu 7 Oct 2010

How to Escape from a Leper Colony, Tiphanie Yanique Hunger, Lan Samantha Chang Drown, Junot Diaz
Edwidge Danticat

On Wed, Oct 6, 2010 at 4:19 PM, michael farrell <[redacted]> wrote:
> tom cho, australia
>
> (book title, look who's morphing)
>
>
>
>> Date: Wed, 6 Oct 2010 11:53:27 -0400
>> From: [redacted]
>> Subject: Re: beginning fiction
>> To: [redacted]
>>
>> Sherman Alexie from the U.S.
>>
>> Rabindranath Maharaj from Canada.
>>
>>
>>
>>
>> On 10-10-05 10:51 AM, "Ryan Daley" <[redacted]> wrote:
>>
>> > Dear Listservers,
>> >
>> > I'm interested in hearing recommendations on short story writers, >> > particularly writers of color, to incorporate into my short story >> > creative writing class.

>> >
>> > Thanks in advance!
>> >
>> > -ryan
>>
>
>

↑ Index

54. amy king

Fw: 12 Abandoned Poems

Thu 7 Oct 2010

> From: Barry Schwabsky
>
> I would like to let you know of my new publication, 12 Abandoned Poems, from Kilmog Press in New Zealand:
>
> http://kilmogpress.blogspot.com/2010/10/barry-schwabsky-12-abandoned-poems.html
>
> Barry Schwabsky, 12 Abandoned Poems, Kilmog Press, 2010, hardback, edition of 55
> copies, NZ$45.00 ISBN: 978-0-9864616-7-5, available at Parsons Bookshop in Auckland, or direct from publisher ($6 / $10 dom / inter. postage)
> [redacted]

↑ Index

55. Crane's Bill Books

Re: beginning fiction

Thu 7 Oct 2010

Leonora Carrington, The Seventh Horse
Julio Cortazar, End of the Game; Unreasonable Hours
Rikki Ducornet, The Complete Butcher's Tales
Jamaica Kincaid, At the Bottom of the River
Tommaso Landolfi, Words in Commotion
Valery Larbaud, Childish Things
Silvina Ocampo, Leopoldina's Dream
Istvan Orkeny, One Minute Stories

----- Original Message -----

> Dear Listservers,
>
> I'm interested in hearing recommendations on short story writers, particularly writers of color, to incorporate into my short story creative writing class.
>
> Thanks in advance!
>
> -ryan

↑ Index

56. Russ Golata

Creative Spirit Festival De Leon Springs Florida

Thu 7 Oct 2010

Â
Creative Spirit Festival
Bamboo Arts Center, De Leon Sprin

Â Creative Spirit Festival Bamboo Arts Center, De Leon Springs,Â Friday Oct. 16 Noon Â Â TheÂ Poetry Ensemble of OrlandoÂ will be among the musical and spoken word performers on stage Saturday, Oct. 16 at the Creative Spirit Festival near De Leon Springs in Volusia County. Admission is free. Â Some of Central Floridaâ€™s best known talent will gather at Bamboo Arts, a nonprofit celebration center, in a tribute to the creative and artistic spirit. All performances will be original material. Â Musical groups include ElectricChurchâ€™s Matt and Mary of New Smyrna Beach, Treblehawk from Ocala, Daytonaâ€™s Park-O-Lators, and DeLandâ€™s BluesGotUs. Professional storytellers Susan Oâ€™Hara of Brevard County and Cheryl Floyd of DeLand will join a list of performing poets which includes the PoetryÂ Ensemble of Orlando, PoetÂ Russ Golata will be performing as well as Darlyn Finch, whose work was highlighted on Garrison Keillorâ€™s national radio show,Â The family friendly event runs from noon to 8 p.m., climaxing with a bonfire and drum circle at 7 p.m. The Kidâ€™s Zone includes games, prizes and face painting. Â Described as â€œa day in a higher dimension,â€ the outdoor event also will feature psychic readings and healings, massage, kayaking on Cave Lake, and vendors offering handcrafted jewelry, mystic crystals, and more. The Kidâ€™s Zone will host a variety of childrenâ€™s games. Â Bamboo Arts is a Florida nonprofit focused on spirituality, creativity and sustainable living. The Center includes an organic garden and regularly schedules workshops on growing in the Florida climate. Gardener Chris Baker will be on hand at the festival to provide garden tours, and organic plant starts. Â Healthy wraps, sandwiches, smoothies and non-alcoholic drinks will be available throughout the day.

Bamboo Arts and Celebration Center is located seven miles north of DeLand at 4490 Cave Lake Road, De Leon Springs. For more information on the festival schedule, a map, and a list of coming events, visitÂ the bamboo arts websiteÂ

↑ Index

57. Poetry Project

Upcoming Events at The Poetry Project & Some Other Things

Thu 7 Oct 2010

Hi Everyone,

Itâ€™s Thursday again & we have some readings to announce â€” just see down below for the full listings, as well as reader bios. Also, The Poetry Projectâ€™s videographer, Alex Abelson, has edited the footage from The Peter Orlovsky Memorial Reading on 9/22/2010 into a wonderful montage â€” see it on our blog: http://bit.ly/d2dw8K. In other Project-related news, make sure to take a look at the newest addition to The Poetry Projectâ€™s online store â€” the Books & Recordings section â€” itâ€™s been stocked with some real gems: http://bit.ly/bcfhWt !

Seeing you soon,

The Poetry Project

FRIDAY OCTOBER 10 / 10PM
DOUGLAS PICCINNINI & DAVID LAU

Douglas Piccinnini's writing has appeared or is forthcoming in The Antioch Review, The Cultural Society, EOAGH, Jacket, Lana Turner, Ping Pong, So and So, Supermachine and Verse. A chapbook, Sâ™¢FT, is forthcoming from The Cultural Society. He lives in Brooklyn, NY and curates the CROWD Reading Series.

David Lau's first book of poetry, Virgil and the Mountain Cat, came out last year from UC Press. He is co-editor of Lana Turner: a Journal of Poetry and Opinion. He teaches regularly at Cabrillo College and the University of California, Santa Cruz; for spring 2011, he is visiting faculty in the graduate program in creative writing at St. Mary's College. New poems are forthcoming in A Public Space and Columbia. His other ongoing projects include Laborland, a video documentary on labor and art in California, and political organizing with the student movement in the golden state.

MONDAY OCTOBER 11 / 8PM
CHRISTIE ANN REYNOLDS & SIMONE WHITE

Christie Ann Reynolds is a native New Yorker and holds degrees from Hofstra University, Queens College and The New School. Her chapbook, idiot heart, was chosen in 2008 by Brenda Shaughnessy for The New School Chapbook Competition. She is the co-author of a chapbook, Girl Boy Girl Boy forthcoming with Correspondences and author of Revenge Poems, Supermachine's first chapbook. Christie Ann was the recipient of a 2003 undergraduate Academy of American Poetry Award. Some of her work has been published or is forthcoming in Blaze Vox, La Petite Zine, The Houston Literary Review, Pax Americana, Maggy, Sub-Lit, and others. She teaches writing at Hofstra University, for The Borough Writing Workshop and is co-curator of the Stain of Poetry Reading Series.

Simone White's first book, House Envy of All the World, was published this year by Factory School. Her work has appeared in The Recluse, Callaloo, Ploughshares and the exhibition catalog for The Studio Museum's Flow, among other places. Currently a Ph.D. candidate in English at CUNY Graduate Center, she teaches at Hunter College and lives in Brooklyn.

WEDNESDAY OCTOBER 13 / 8PM
CEDAR SIGO & ROBERT HERSHON

Cedar Sigo is 32 years old. His books include Selected Writings, Expensive Magic, Portraits and Music For Torching. This past year he blogged for SFMOMA. He has collaborated with many visual artists including Oscar Tuazon, Colter Jacobsen, Will Yackulic and Frank Haines. His new collection of poetry, Stranger In Town, is number four in the City Lights Spotlight Series. He lives in San Francisco.

Robert Hershon's most recent book is Calls from the Outside World, his 12th collection. His work has appeared in The Nation, American Poetry Review and Poetry 180, among many others, and he has recently written for the Poetry Foundation and Best American Poetry websites. Among his awards are two fellowships from the National Endowment for the Arts and three from the New York State Foundation on the Arts. Hershon has edited Hanging Loose Press since 1966 and served as director of The Print Center for 35 years.

Become a Poetry Project Member! http://poetryproject.org/become-a-member

Calendar http://www.poetryproject.org/program-calendar

The Poetry Project is located at St. Mark's Church-in-the-Bowery
131 East 10th Street (at 2nd Avenue)
New York, NY 10003

Trains: 6, F, N, R, and L.

www.poetryproject.org

Admission is $8 / $7 for students & seniors / $5 for members (though now those who take out a membership at $95 or higher will get in FREE to all regular readings).

We are wheelchair accessible with assistance & advance notice. For more info call [redacted].

If youâ€™d like to be unsubscribed from this mailing list, please drop a line at [redacted].

↑ Index

58. Jeffrey Side

Review by me of 'Eschaton', by Michael Heller (Talisman House, 2009)

Thu 7 Oct 2010

---

http://coloradoreview.colostate.edu/cr/bookreviews/eschaton.html

↑ Index

59. Five eighty Split

580 SPLIT call for submissions

Thu 7 Oct 2010

---

hi all,

580 SPLIT is a lit journal run by MFA students at Mills College in Oakland, CA.

we're now accepting submissions for our spring 2011 issue (#13)! until nov. 3.

this issue's theme is lines of (dis)connection -- with the following topic areas: 1) immigration & cultural translation, 2) alternative language, 3) imprisonment.

submission guidelines here.

↑ Index

60. Michael Roberson

Early issues of Juxta...

Fri 8 Oct 2010

I am looking for a couple of essays from Juxta #1 and #2, but am having difficulty tracking down print copies of the magazine. Can anyone help me out?

Also, does anyone have an email address for John Noto? Please send to me if possible. I'm looking for his essay on the "New Synthesis."

Thanks all.

↑ Index

61. Scott Howard discussion @ RECONFIGURATIONS
Fri 8 Oct 2010

FYI . . .

RECONFIGURATIONS: A Journal for Poetics & Poetry / Literature & Culture, http://reconfigurations.blogspot.com/

will host a round table discussion in response to DAYS AND WORKS OF THE FENEON COLLECTIVE. Selected moments from that conversation will be published as a special feature in Volume Four of the journal.

To contribute, send your comments by November 15.

///

↑ Index

62. Al Filreis
now releasing PoemTalk episode #36: writing through imagism
Fri 8 Oct 2010

Today we are releasing the 36th episode of PoemTalk. This one features a discussion of H.D.'s "Sea Poppies" and Jennifer Scappettone's "Vase Poppies" by Don Share, David Pavelich and Judith Goldman:

http://www.poemtalk.org
http://www.poetryfoundation.org/

- Al Filreis

Al Filreis
Kelly Professor
Faculty Dir., Kelly Writers House
Dir., Center for Programs in Contemporary Writing
University of Pennsylvania

on the web: http://writing.upenn.edu/~afilreis blog: http://writing.upenn.edu/~afilreis/blog
PoemTalk: http://www.poemtalk.org

↑ Index

63. Camille Martin
New @ Rogue Embryo: Poetic Polyphony in Scott Thurston's Internal Rhyme
Fri 8 Oct 2010

New @ Rogue Embryo
http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

* Poetic Polyphony in Scott Thurston's Internal Rhyme
http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com/2010/10/06/poetic-polyphony-in-scott-thurston%E2%80%99s-internal-rhyme/

Cheers!

Camille Martin

Sonnets:
http://www.spdbooks.org/Producte/9781848610705/sonnets.aspx

Codes of Public Sleep:
http://www.spdbooks.org/Producte/9781897388112/codes-of-public-sleep.aspx

↑ Index

64. Dan Glass
this week on the 30 Word Review
Fri 8 Oct 2010

---

exciting reading—

http://the30wordreview.blogspot.com/

NOT TIME by Lauren Levin
Mrs. Maybe #3
Cannot Exist #3
Gaha Noas Zorge by Jesse Glass

Enjoy—

Dan

↑ Index

65. steve russell
Re: beginning fiction
Fri 8 Oct 2010

& John Edgar Wideman.
plus Nigerian write Acebe, author of Things Fall Apart (forgot his 1st name).

--- On Wed, 10/6/10, sheila black <[redacted]> wrote:

From: sheila black <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: beginning fiction
To: [redacted]
Date: Wednesday, October 6, 2010, 12:18 PM

James Baldwin, Toni Cade Bambara, Nathaniel Mackey (long poem, etc), Zora Neale Hurston, Brent Staples, Alice Walker, William Raspberry.

Sheila Black

--- On Wed, 10/6/10, Stuart Ross <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Stuart Ross <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: beginning fiction
To: "Poetics List (UPenn, UB)" <[redacted]>
Date: Wednesday, October 6, 2010, 10:53 AM

Sherman Alexie from the U.S.

Rabindranath Maharaj from Canada.

On 10-10-05 10:51 AM, "Ryan Daley" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Dear Listservers,
>
> I'm interested in hearing recommendations on short story writers, particularly writers of color, to incorporate into my short story creative writing class.
>
> Thanks in advance!
>
> -ryan

↑ Index

66. Little Red Leaves
+++ LRL5 Official Launch +++
Fri 8 Oct 2010

Dear Friends,

We are excited to announce the official launch of Little Red Leaves Issue 5 -- our biggest issue yet with over 30 new poets, extended project features from Carmen Giménez Smith and Robin Tremblay-McGaw, an interview with Brenda Ilijima by Thomas Fink, a gorgeous selection from the Paros Translation Symposium as well as 5 new e-editions.

==========Please check it out at: http://littleredleaves.com/LRL5/5home.html ==========
Included in the issue:

____Special Feature from the Paros Translation Symposium edited and introduced by Joseph Mosconi. With Susan Gevirtz, Angelos Parthenis, Steve Dickison, John Sakkis, Demosthenes Agrafiotis, Eleni Stecopoulos, Katerina Iliopoulou, Liana Sakelliou, Mairi Alexopoulou, Maria Laina, Phoebe Giannisi, Siarita Kouka, Socrates Kabouropoulos, Thanasis Maskaleris,and Vassilis Manoussakis.

____New Work By: Hugo García Manríquez, Stan Apps, Valerie Coulton & Ed Smallfield, Amina Cain, Carolyn Guinzio, Roberto Tejada, Jimmy Lo, Justin Audia, Travis Macdonald, Tasha Marren, Cindy Savett, Kelli Stevens Kane, Aby Kaupang, Carrie Hunter, Amanda Ackerman, Judith Goldman, Jared Shickling, Brad Vogler, Matthew Cooperman, Beverly Dahlen, Karen Hannah, Arkava Das, Christine Kanownik, Laura Wetherington, Burt Kimmelman, Nathalie Knight, William Allegrezza, Meg Barboza, Adam Fagin, and Matt McBride.

___Project Features: Carmen Giménez Smith __Selections from *Goodbye Flicker *__, Robin Tremblay-McGaw __Selections from *THE MELMOTH LETTERS*__

__Thomas Fink Interviews Brenda Ilijima

++Plus 5 New e-editions++ http://littleredleaves.com/ebooks/index.html Sarah Campbell's __Everything We Could Ask For__, Brian Mornar's __Three American Letters__, Mathew Timmons' __Sound Noise__, Gloria Frym's __Any Time Soon__, and Eléna Rivera's __Remembrance of Things Plastic__.

With many thanks to all our readers and everyone included!!

Ash Smith, CJ Martin, Julia Drescher, and Chad Heltzel LRL5 Editors

http://littleredleaves.com

--
www.littleredleaves.com
www.littleredleavesjournal.blogspot.com

↑ Index

67. Little Red Leaves

+++ Announcing 5 New Titles form LRL e-editions +++

Fri 8 Oct 2010

Dear Friends,

We are pleased to announce 5 amazing new titles from LRL e-editions by Sarah Campbell, Brian Mornar, Gloria Frym, Mathew Timmons, and Eléna Rivera. As always, titles are available as FREE downloads <http://www.littleredleaves.com/ebooks/>or in paperback through lulu.com<http://stores.lulu.com/LRLebooks>.

==========Please visit http://www.littleredleaves.com/ebooks/ ==========

Sarah Campbell __*Everything We Could Ask For*__ : In this second collection, Campbell's richly minimal poems come once again, as poet Zack Finch has written "sieved out of turbulence," pressed to the point that each syllable counts out from the unaccounted. In sparse and reflective lines,Campbell's poems move with an understated plangency -- turning the volume up at the edges of ordinary speech. http://littleredleaves.com/ebooks/Sarah_Campbell.html

Brian Mornar __*Three American Letters*__: "We receive, but how do we speak?" writes Brian Mornar in Three American Letters. Part poetics, part physical manifesto and essay, Mornar takes on the lyric in the gleaming line between urban and outskirts, between speech and movement, in American poetry: "...always on a string between the farm and the city finds reassurance in this between as a place...Here we find our bodies again as if for the first time." Mornar spins quotations into questions and eloquence in 4 intertwined sections that move through the fallen utopia of Hawthorne's The Blithdale Romance, the letters of Lorine Niedecker, Ashbery's distant rural patterns "thrust...into the urban present.", as well as Benjamin's Arcades. Moving with a fractured luminance, Mornar asks what it means to be handed down language -- to read through one's place and predecessors and to move back through such passages-- through "the traceable topography of the edge of the throat's arches." http://littleredleaves.com/ebooks/Brian_Mornar.html

Gloria Frym __*Any Time Soon*__: "In the case of Vietnam, what is a reference" writes Michael Palmer over 20 years ago in the context of a different war and different time. In Any Time Soon, Frym writes from the reality that "there is no post war" or external context from which to view our current saturation. Language occurs in the thick of it, taking a "swipe at "friendly fire"" ,watching "the poles and their birdhouses." Yet, as in this line, where political obsession twists towards avian respite, Frym's lines torque from exasperation, and critique, to tenderness. Or, to put it another way, she writes "...I would like to find money/ you didn't know I had/ Under my pillow in an unmarked envelope/ on a rose marked High Octane Stocks// Can you handle this?" http://littleredleaves.com/ebooks/Gloria_Frym.html

Mathew Timmons __Sound Noise__: Sounded through a persian rug (or snagged carpet) of google searches, Mathew Timmons pries apart how we receive and process sensory information. As if search alerts themselves were as much mirror as atomized prosthesis, Timmons replicates a pattern attuned to static in the gaps -- one that signals the subtle difference between Sound and Noise (and the snowy movement of the "static" image). Search here is configured as a multiplicitous chase towards a broken prototype. But, as he writes "I chucked the thought that it could ever be perfect again, so I tracked down a copy instead. Then when I got the copy, I realized it didn't fit like the original." http://littleredleaves.com/ebooks/Mathew_Timmons.html

Eléna Rivera __*Remembrance of Things Plastic*__: In Remembrance of Things Plastic, Eléna Rivera charts a path between cultural displacement and the hyper-pull of consumer images. Migrating from the strictures of girlhood ("Marooned in a room the size of a dollhouse") through the acculturation implicit in Garbo's eyebrows, Rivera laments the social split between self-hood and the feminine body -- the insurgent exchange of the personal for plastic that accompanies American adolescence. Through these small remembrances, Rivera recalls the isolation of one between objects: "I was given a shiny plastic yellow ring-shaped radio," She writes "with a twist; you could twist it open and hold it up to your ear like a phone." http://littleredleaves.com/ebooks/Elena_Rivera.html

And, as always our full catalog of free books, including work by Tina Darragh & Marcella Durand, Divya Victor, Norma Cole, Susan Gevirtz, Ted Greenwald, Yedda Morrison, and Harold Abramowitz is available at http://littleredleaves.com/ebooks/

Thank you!

Ash Smith, CJ Martin, Julia Drescher
http://littleredleaves.com

--
www.littleredleaves.com
www.littleredleavesjournal.blogspot.com

↑ Index

68. Catherine Daly

Exquisite Corpse Drawings at The Gasser Grunert Gallery, New York

Sat 9 Oct 2010

More than 200 internationally recognized visual artists and photographers are participating in a major series of collaborative drawings known as the Armitage Gone! Dance Exquisite Corpse project. They will be brought together at the Gasser Grunert Gallery for three weeks only.

As with the 1920's surrealist parlor game "cadavre exquise," each drawing is constructed in a sequential combination by three or four artists; one for the head and shoulders, one or two for the torso, and one for the legs and feet.

Composed on one sheet of paper that is passed from one artist to the next, the process celebrates the themes of chance encounters, surprise and radical juxtaposition. Artists were unaware of who was participating in each composition and could not view the image/word provided by previous artist. Works were created over the past year at a number of drawing parties or were shipped from one artist to the next.

Among the artists participating are: Vito Acconci, Laurie Anderson, Donald Baechler, John Baldessari, Ross Bleckner, Louise Bourgeois, Cecily Brown, Sandro Chia, Francesco Clemente, Chuck Close, Will Cotton, Eric Fischl, Robert Gober, Alex Katz, Karen Kilimnik, Jeff Koons, Richard Meier, Malcolm Morley, Tom Otterness, Tony Oursler, Chloe Piene, Enoc Perez, Richard Phillips, David Salle, Dana Schutz, Andres Serrano, Joel Shapiro, Rosemarie Trockel, William Wegman, Robert Wilson and Terry Winters. David Salle serves as curator and the project is managed by Tanja Grunert.

The works are a universal size of 16x30 inches.

The "performative" aspect of art-making is celebrated as the Exquisite Corpse demonstrates how drawing and dance share an unpredictable nature and spontaneity. Proceeds will benefit Armitage Gone! Dance, an internationally acclaimed contemporary dance company under the direction of renowned choreographer Karole Armitage. For three decades as a choreographer and director, Armitage has actively pushed the boundaries of classicism to create a contemporary idiom blending new dance, music and art. Her dances are full of wit, humor and sophistication and possess a fierce and sensuous beauty. Like some of the best contemporary art, Armitage's concept of beauty involves making connections between unlikely things. Karole Armitage has deep roots in the artistic community and has been dedicated to fusing dance with the visual arts. Her collaborations with artists such as Jeff Koons, Brice Marden, David Salle, Philip Taaffe, Vera Lutter and many others began early in her career an d continue actively to this day. The Exquisite Corpse project is a way for a wide range of artists to express their support for Armitage's work and also a way for her to acknowledge artists who have played a large role in her career.

CONTACT: Tanja Grunert [redacted]

41 Essex Street, New York City, 10002 USA

in

--

All best,

Catherine Daly

[redacted]

--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

↑ Index

69. Tenney Nathanson

Tucson: POG PRESENTS this Saturday, October 9, at 8pm: poets Erin Moure and Brent Hendricks

Sat 9 Oct 2010

POG PRESENTS October 9, 2010: Saturday - Erin Mouré and Brent Hendricks - 8 PM, St. Andrews Episcopal Church (map), 545 S. 5th Ave., Tucson, AZ. $5 General, $3 Students, all ages. Erin Mouré is a Montreal poet and translator of poetry from Galician, French, Spanish, Portuguese to English. She has read from her work in English, French and Galician in Canada, USA, England, Wales, France, Spain, Portugal, Slovenia, Germany and Japan, and has given seminars in translation, language and construction of identity, and poetics. She is the author of ten books of poetry, seven books of translations, and two books of essays. Her latest book of poems is O Resplandor published by House of Anansi Press (March 23, 2010). Her books include the essay collection My Beloved Wager (NeWest Press, 2009), the poetry collections Little Theaters (Anansi, 2006) and Expeditions of a Chimæra (Bookthug, 2009) and the translations Notebooks of Roses and Civilization (Coach House Books, 2007) and m-Talá (Shearsman Books, 2009) Of her work, Melissa Jacques has written: "Erin Mouré's poetry is fragmented, meta-critical and explicitly deconstructive. Folding everyday events and ordinary people into complex and often irresolvable philosophical dilemmas, Mouré challenges the standards of accessibility and common sense. Not surprisingly, her work has met with a mixed response. Critics are often troubled by the difficult and therefore alienating nature of the writing; even amongst Mouré's advocates, the issues of accessibility and political efficacy are recurrent themes." UN

I touched the fur on her head, her head bowed, she at the edge of the bed, sitting bowed, I touched her hair, full resonance, the bell.

Flag lashing against the pole, no rain.

I leaned and touched her head, she did not look at me.

She touched my palm with her hair.

The flagropes tremoured.

Spoke a leaf.

The herald of sheep’s coats.

(When I look up: a small thread, an alarm bell.)

—Erin Mouré
from the sequence Map of Calgary in O Resplandor.

Erin Mouré at EPC http://epc.buffalo.edu/authors/moure/

• • •

Brent Hendricks is a graduate of Harvard Law School and the MFA program at the University of Arizona. He is the author of Thaumatrope (Action Books, 2007) and his work has appeared in a number of magazines, including Black Warrior Review, Bomb, Conjunctions, Iowa Review, Ploughshares, Poetry, Prairie Schooner and Tarpaulin Sky. He lives in Tucson with the fiction writer Kate Bernheimer, and their daughter, Xia.

About Thaumatrope by Brent Hendricks from:

Dear Reader: This wonderful book you hold in your hands (are those your hands?)
holds your fortune. —Gillian Conoley

Ante up: Brent Hendricks's Thaumatrope works like an ideogram thrown by a cardsharp, a decapitated allegory set in "the golden age of little bars.”
—Daniel Tiffan
Everything
Friends should learn to think differently about leaving – everything goes away:
the sun, clouds,
even stars become nothing after a while
* * *
Remember when we found that old mill by the stream?
The fallen walls, leaves dropping, ancient mounds of archeology
Remember being 13?
The angle of the light?
And how we slipped down into the smell of earth, kissed in the deep gash
where the wheel used to be?
— Brent Hendricks
"Everything" first appeared in Ploughshares.
Stay tuned to our CALENDAR page for more POG events this Fall!
November 6, 2010: Saturday - Anselm Berrigan and Shelly Taylor -8 PM, St.

Andrews Episcopal Church (map), 545 S. 5th Ave., Tucson, AZ
January 29, 2011: Saturday -Erica Hunt (poetry) and Marty Ehrlich (jazz saxophone)- 7:30 PM, poetry & music, Chax Press special event cosponsored by POG, Recital Hall, Pima Center for the Arts at Pima Community College West Campus, 2202 West Anklam, Tucson, PDF Map.
March 5, 2011: Saturday - Keith & Rosmarie Waldrop - 8 PM, The University of Arizona Poetry Center (map), 1508 E. Helen Street, Tucson, AZ
March 15, 2011: Tuesday - Samuel Ace and . . . . - 8 PM, Z Mansion, 288 N. Church Ave. (map), Tucson, AZ
March 26, 2010: Saturday - George Mattingly and Frank Parker - 8 PM, The Drawing Studio (map), 33 S. Sixth Avenue, Tucson.
April 2011 - Arizona Quarterly Reading - Rae Armantrout, Time and place TBA
* Times and places may be subject to change. Events may be added as well. This is a dynamic schedule. However, we do our best to be accurate. You can count on POG!

↑ Index

70. Kimmelman, Burt

Burt Kimmelman in Philadelphia

Sat 9 Oct 2010

Reading by Burt Kimmelman

Introduction by Al Filreis

Tuesday, October 26th, 6 PM

Kelly Writers House at the University of Pennsylvania
3805 Locust Walk
Philadelphia, PA 19104

tel: 215-746-POEM
fax: [redacted] [redacted]<mailto:[redacted]> http://www.writing.upenn.edu/~wh/

Burt Kimmelman has published six collections of poetry - As If Free (Talisman House, Publishers, 2009), There Are Words (Dos Madres Press, 2007), Somehow (Marsh Hawk Press, 2005), The Pond at Cape May Point (Marsh Hawk Press, 2002), a collaboration with the painter Fred Caruso, First Life (Jensen/Daniels Publishing, 2000), and Musaics (Sputyen Duyvil Press, 1992). A poem from his newest book was featured on NPR's The Writer's Almanac. For over a decade he was Senior Editor of the now defunct Poetry New York: A Journal of Poetry and Translation. He is a professor of English at New Jersey Institute of Technology and the author of two book-length literary studies: The

"Winter Mind": William Bronk and American Letters (Fairleigh Dickinson University Press, 1998); and, The Poetics of Authorship in the Later Middle Ages: The Emergence of the Modern Literary Persona (Peter Lang Publishing, 1996; paperback 1999). He also edited The Facts on File Companion to 20th-Century American Poetry (Facts on File, 2005) and co- edited The Facts on File Companion to American Poetry (Facts on File, 2007). He has published scores of essays on medieval, modern, and contemporary poetry. A recent interview with Tom Fink has appeared online in Jacket 40.

↑ Index

71. steve russell

Re: beginning fiction

Sat 9 Oct 2010

---

i almost forgot, Jamaica Kincaid. amazing, gorgeous prose.

--- On Thu, 10/7/10, steve dalachinsky <[redacted]> wrote:

From: steve dalachinsky <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: beginning fiction
To: [redacted]
Date: Thursday, October 7, 2010, 8:05 AM

dazai rilke checkov doestoevsky kafka carver cheever salinger dubus
joyce thomas (skin trade)
kawabata murakami aktagawa

On Thu, 7 Oct 2010 00:10:09 -0700 George Bowering <[redacted]>
writes:
> Thomas Hardy. Stephen Crane. Ivan Turgenev. Anton Chekhov
>
> gb
>
>
> On Oct 6, 2010, at 9:18 AM, sheila black wrote:
>
> > James Baldwin, Toni Cade Bambara, Nathaniel Mackey (long poem, > > etc), Zora Neale Hurston, Brent Staples, Alice Walker, William > > Raspberry.
> >
> > Sheila Black
> >
> > --- On Wed, 10/6/10, Stuart Ross <[redacted]> wrote:
> >
> > From: Stuart Ross <[redacted]>

> > Subject: Re: beginning fiction
> > To: "Poetics List (UPenn, UB)" <[redacted]>
> > Date: Wednesday, October 6, 2010, 10:53 AM
> >
> > Sherman Alexie from the U.S.
> >
> > Rabindranath Maharaj from Canada.
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > On 10-10-05 10:51 AM, "Ryan Daley" <[redacted]> wrote:
> >
> >> Dear Listservers,
> >>
> >> I'm interested in hearing recommendations on short story
> writers,
> >> particularly writers of color, to incorporate into my short > story
> >> creative writing class.
> >>
> >> Thanks in advance!
> >>
> >> -ryan
> >
>
> > welcome.html
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
>
> > welcome.html
>
> George Bowering
>
> Author of the fairly good Canadian novel.
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

72. George Bowering

Re: beginning fiction

Sat 9 Oct 2010

Ernest Hemingway
D.H. Lawrence
Katherine Anne Porter
F. Scott Fitzgerald
de Maupassant

On Oct 7, 2010, at 10:50 AM, Crane's Bill Books wrote:

> Leonora Carrington, The Seventh Horse
> Julio Cortazar, End of the Game; Unreasonable Hours
> Rikki Ducornet, The Complete Butcher's Tales
> Jamaica Kincaid, At the Bottom of the River
> Tommaso Landolfi, Words in Commotion
> Valery Larbaud, Childish Things
> Silvina Ocampo, Leopoldina's Dream
> Istvan Orkeny, One Minute Stories
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> Dear Listservers,
>
> I'm interested in hearing recommendations on short story writers, particularly writers of color, to incorporate into my short story creative writing class.
>
> Thanks in advance!
>
> -ryan
>
> welcome.html
>
> welcome.html
>
> welcome.html

George Bowering

The poor man's "who?"

↑ Index

73. amy king

VIDA: Women in Literary Arts -- New Content, New Questions

Sat 9 Oct 2010

VIDA counts Publishers Weekly in 2010
--http://vidaweb.org/publishers-weekly-kirkus-review

+ PLUS -- THE QUESTIONS

This month, we counted the number of books reviewed by authorsâ€™ gender in the 2010 issues of Publishers Weekly (through the August 23 issue). We hope youâ€™ll join us in wondering aloud what these numbers can tell us about current publishing trends.

We heartily welcome answers to a few questions inspired by the numbers posted at the site:

1.) Fiction books are reviewed in close to equal numbers, which may indicate women are writing as much or more fiction than men. However when we look to see who is receiving the prizes, grants, and awards for fiction, the numbers tell a very different story: male authors receive the majority of prizes. Consider the â€œBest of 2009â€ lists (here) selected by the L.A. Times, Library Journal, Salon, Washington Post, as well as historical awards for fiction such as the L.A. Times Book Prize (23 Men / 6 Women), the National Book Awards (18 Men / 8 Women), THE PEN/Faulkner Award for Fiction (24 Men / 5 Women), the Pulitzer Prize for Fiction (40 Men / 16 Women), and the list goes on (click here for the â€œHistorical Countâ€œ). If women are equally reviewed for their work in fiction, why doesnâ€™t the distribution of prizes reflect that balance?

2.) Nonfiction reviews are overwhelmingly dominated by men, but womenâ€™s nonfiction seems often to be funneled into subcategories such as â€œLifestyleâ€ which contains Parenting, Gardening, Cooking, and Health. Are these subcategories indicative of the balkanization of nonfiction written by women? Is â€œLifestyleâ€ nonfiction-lite? Which subject matter defines the general category of nonfiction?

3.) Though fiction written by women is reviewed equally with menâ€™s, the leap from book to audio is made largely by male-authored titles. Does the selection of books to audio reflect prize-worthy picks or are the audio books simply targeted towards a male audience?

4.) Poetry is one genre where women seem to be well received these days, and yet, the reviews evidence a primary interest in poetry written by men. Is the attention women poets seem to be receiving merely reflective of an increase in awareness of womenâ€™s poetry but not in equal measure?

5.) Are more men defining and interpreting religion in books than women? Or are female-friendly religions like Wicca and neo-paganism only coming into their own and making their way from the New Age niche onto Christianity-dominated Religion lists?

6.) In conversation with women who write Childrenâ€™s Literature, Iâ€™ve learned that the genre is considered, by some, a warm up for writing adult fiction and should not be noted on resumes or in conversation in lieu of more â€œserious, adultâ€ work. Does this prejudice reflect the fact that these books are predominantly authored by women? Are fewer men writing childrenâ€™s books because the work of rearing children still presumably falls within the female sphere?

--http://vidaweb.org/publishers-weekly-kirkus-review

â€œOn Gender and Publishingâ€: A Panel Moderated by Carmen GimÃ©nez Smith -- http://vidaweb.org/on-gender-and-publishing-a-panel-moderated-by-carmen-gimenez-smith

What We Talk About When Weâ€™re Talking About â€œThe Countâ€ --http://vidaweb.org/what-we-talk-about-when-were-talking-about-the-count

Amy King Talks with Christian Teresi, Conference Director of AWP --http://vidaweb.org/amy-king-talks-with-christian-teresi-conference-director-of-awp

"Best of 2009" and "Historical Count" --http://vidaweb.org/best-of-2009

Arielle Greenberg on â€œGynocentric Anthems,â€ the Gurlesque, and Creative Partnerships --http://vidaweb.org/gynocentric-anthems

Where We Bump and Grind It: On Resisting Redemption in Womenâ€™s Memoir --http://vidaweb.org/where-we-bump-and-grind

Africa is in This World â€“ On Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie --http://vidaweb.org/africa-is-in-this-world

Full Disclosure: I Was A Teenage Poetry Bride --http://vidaweb.org/full-disclosure

Due Date vs. Deadline --http://vidaweb.org/due-date-vs-deadline

VIDA: WOMEN IN LITERARY ARTS

http://vidaweb.org/

****
Amy's Alias
+ http://amyking.org/
****

↑ Index

74. Dan Godston

Facets of Southeast Asia

Sun 10 Oct 2010

You are invited to attend "Facets of Southeast Asia," a multidisciplinary event that happens at the Zhou B. Art Center during the Fifth Annual Chicago Calling Arts Festival. "Facets of Southeast Asia" creatively explores dimensions of this dynamic and culturally vibrant region of the world. Participants include: . Geejay Arriola (Davao City, Philippines) and Cesar Conde (Chicago) -- music and painting collaboration . Duane Vorhees (Bangkok) and Matthew Barton (Chicago) -- poetry collaboration . Mojdeh Stoakley (Chicago) and Kamal Sabran (Malaysia) -- poetry and music collaboration . Manit Sriwanichpoom (Bangkok), Jamie Kazay (Chicago), and Tim Armentrout (Ronceverte, WV) -- poetry and visual art collaboration . Basia Toczydlowska (Chicago) gives a presentation about her recent trip to southeast Asia . Jen Besemer (Chicago) and an Daracha / As Yet Unnamed artist (Bangkok) -- poetry and visual art collaboration

admission: free and open to the public

In Your Space, 3rd floor
Zhou B. Art Center
1029 W. 35th St.
Chicago, IL 60609
[redacted]

http://www.zbcenter.org/

www.chicagocalling.org

↑ Index

75. Little Red Leaves

Poets Carmen Giménez Smith and Rosa Alcalá read in Kyle, TX on 10/29

Sun 10 Oct 2010

Please join us for an evening with poets Carmen Giménez Smith and Rosa Alcalá at the Katherine Anne Porter House! Directions and poet bios below:

Poetry Reading: Carmen Giménez Smith and Rosa Alcalá
October 29, 2010

*Doors open at 7PM; reading will begin by 8PM. *
*
*
Katherine Anne Porter Literary Center
508 Center St.
Kyle, TX 78640

Directions and Parking info here:
http://www.english.txstate.edu/kap/Location.html

The event is sponsored by Little Red Leaves <http://www.littleredleaves.com>, with the help of Katie Angermeier, current writer in residence at the KAP Literary Center.

POET BIOS:

Rosa Alcalá is the author of one full-length collection of poetry, Undocumentaries (Shearsman, 2010), and two chapbooks, *Some Maritime Disasters This Century *(Belladonna, 2003) and *Undocumentary *(Dos Press, 2008). Her work appears in the anthology, *The Wind Shifts: New Latino Poetry *(University of Arizona Press, 2007), and in journals such as *Mandorla, Chain, Barrow Street, Tarpaulin Sky,and The Brooklyn Rail*. Alcalá has also translated poetry by Cecilia Vicuña, Lourdes Vázquez, and Lila Zemborain, among others. She holds an MFA in Creative Writing from Brown University, and a PhD in English from the State University of New York at Buffalo. Born and raised in Paterson, NJ, she currently resides in El Paso, Texas, where she teaches in the Department of Creative Writing and Bilingual MFA Program at the University of Texas at El Paso. *Carmen Giménez Smith is an assistant professor of creative writing at New Mexico State University, and publisher for Noemi Press as well as editor-in-chief of Puerto del Sol. Her work has most recently appeared in jubilat, Ploughshares and Colorado Review and is forthcoming in A Public Space, Denver Quarterly and New American Writing. Her collection of poetry, Odalisque in Pieces, was published by the University of Arizona Press in 2009. A memoir called Bring Down the Little Birds was published by University of Arizona Press in 2010. *

--
www.littleredleaves.com
www.littleredleavesjournal.blogspot.com

↑ Index

76. { brad brace }

Profile Portraits: the Spain collection!

Sun 10 Oct 2010

---

you are numbered you are product
you are doomed

PROXY Gallery
http://cart.iabrace.com
http://bit.ly/proxygallery

now showing: Profile Portraits (the spain collection) build your own exhibition + catalogue now accepting commissions for encaustic profile paintings on 12x12" panels, any subject!

PROXY GALLERY (now showing: the spain collection): Select and assemble your own custom art exhibition with catalogue! Ultra hi-res art files, suitable for printing, are delivered in one custom pdf/ebook. Thousands of enlarged (custom, patented algorithms) and enhanced photographs (now, likely several hundred thousands, soon over a million,) mostly low-res cellphone, web-cam, and low-end digital camera self-portraits (self-packaging), culled from dating/social websites -- as you might expect, there is some explicit content (more than is permitted here unfortunately: you really should see them all, but it probably makes little difference) -- fascinating and occasionally disturbing. I've decided to also add a set of painting-filters -- this was good, as it enabled a 'recovery' of many more worthwhile images, and also clouded any possible erogenous/irregular corporate claims, but the project now extends beyond my life-span. I could easily make small paintings from these images but who support that activity? Let's see: commissioned portrait paintings, I'm thinking 12" square encaustic on panels, from your choice of subject are available for $15,000US. It's interesting to find the balance/inertia point between the look of photo and painting, and it speaks to the current social/heroic condition! Often it makes faces look squinty so it's necessary to 'bring-back' facial aspects. The display images on this site are but quick approximations of the larger art files which simply don't scale -- kinda like paint on canvas. Another advantage of the painting filters is that they drastically reduce the file sizes and make it well-nigh impossible for someone to covertly res-up these display images for printing. It's quite incredible to realize that many of these pictures were only 3-4K or so when I started to work on them. You may realize that this is not the first time I've collected anonymous found-public imagery: notably dumpster-diving (bicycling with backpack at midnight,) at photofinishers' in the 70's. And of course, there's the "Insatiable Abstraction Engine" -- collections from newsgroups. [http://bbrace.net/insatiable-abstraction.html] But come to think it, nearly all my work involves repeated multiples or collections of imagery. My new friends. Whenever possible I retained any color casts, cropping and lighting. The portraits are actually very considered, sometimes selections made/altered merely to obscure the identity that they wished to presumably portray initially. Sunglasses are a popular ruse, as are close-ups of cleavage, butts, tattoos, feet and groins. (Curiously, I've yet to see a picture of hands... ok, now I have: some intricate fingernails and the love/hate finger-tats.) Many feature-obilerating camera-flash-portraits in the bathroom mirror. Many of course, occur in and around motorized vehicles. Only one (so far) in a grocery store. And some, but surprisingly few, are filched from somewhere online, but this must be a risky choice in the event of an 'actual encounter.' How much introductory information/description do you want to put out there to begin with? There are some very creative, even artful, solutions to this dilemma. Various select groups of portraits are included in each PDF 500-page ebook/catalogue for $250 (sorry about the price but it was a hellish amount of work and I guarantee you won't be disappointed or YMB), and can be ordered directly. The images contain sufficient resolution to print them out on letter-size/A4 paper (or coffee-mugs, keychains, magnets, photo-stamps, cards, calendars, tea-towels...), for an instant exhibition. Use my verified Paypal account to have the DVD delivered at no charge: [[redacted]; http://bbrace.laughingsquid.net/buy-into.html] Or, even better, assemble your own catalogue/exhibition at the Proxy Gallery storefront [http://cart.iabrace.com/]. Art files are only $1 each. My new friends. Having been recently kicked-off Facebook (there was an anonymous report of a depicted nipple!), and losing 5,000 appreciative friends - it was the perfect place to host a social-media profile-portrait-collection, I've decided to also open an online storefront where individual high-res files will sell for only $1/each. [http://cart.iabrace.com] How hypocritical to object to profile pictures that were on FB to begin with; but it's fun to now position coloured boxes and bars over n

PROXY Gallery
http://cart.iabrace.com
http://bit.ly/proxygallery

now showing: Profile Portraits (the spain collection)
build your own exhibition + catalogue
now accepting commissions for encaustic profile paintings on 12x12" panels, any subject!

/:b

↑ Index

77. Sarah Rosenthal

Reading - Headlands Center for the Arts; Sunday 10/17; 1pm

Sun 10 Oct 2010

You're invited to a poetry reading on Sunday, October 17 at the Headlands Center for the Arts Fall Open House featuring:

Judy Halebsky
Dana Teen Lomax
Denise Newman
Megan Pruiett
Sarah Rosenthal
Camille Roy
Maw Shein Win
Erin Wilson

Reading: 1-2pm, East Wing of Building 944, 2nd floor.

Open House: 12-5pm. Visit art studios; eat in the Building 944 cafÃ© or bring a picnic. Also enjoy beach-walking, trail-hiking, wildflower-gazing, bird-watching, and fresh-air-breathing. Family-friendly!

Event Description: http://www.headlands.org/event_detail.asp?key=20&eventkey=807

Directions: http://www.headlands.org/article.asp?key=23

Judy Halebsky teaches literature and writing at Dominican University of California. Her book of poems, Sky=Empty, won the 2009 New Issues Poetry Prize. She has also published a chapbook Japanese for Daydreamers, and in journals including Five Fingers Review, Ping Pong and Eleven Eleven. With a collective of Tokyo poets, she edits and translates the bilingual poetry journal Eki Mae. The MacDowell Colony, the Millay Colony, and the Canada Council for the Arts have supported her work.

Dana Teen Lomax is the author of Disclosure (Black Radish Books), Rx (Dusie), CurrenÂ¢y (Palm Press), and Room (a+bend), and the co-editor of Letters to Poets: Conversations about Poetics, Politics, & Community (Saturnalia Books). Sheâ€™s writing Shhh! Lullabies for a Tired Nation and editing an anthology of experimental work for children. She teaches at SFSU and lives in San Quentin with her radical family.

Denise Newman's third collection of poems, The New Make Believe, was recently published by The Post-Apollo Press, and last year New Directions published her translation of Azorno by the late Danish poet Inger Christensen. She teaches at CCA.

Megan Pruiett concluded her two years as a Headlands Affiliate Artist in July 2010, just in time for the birth of her daughter Imogen. She is the author of To Music (Etherdome Press) and several published and unpublished poems, some of which are forthcoming in the Kelsey Street Press blog Kelseyst.com.

Sarah Rosenthal is the author of Manhatten, How I Wrote This Story, sitings, and not-chicago. Her interview collection A Community Writing Itself: Conversations with Vanguard Writers of the Bay Area was recently published by Dalkey Archive. An affiliate artist at Headlands, she has received grant-supported residencies at Vermont Studio Center, Soul Mountain, and Ragdale.

Camille Royâ€™s book Sherwood Forest, a collection poems and prose, was selected by the FuturePoem 2010 panel for publication in its 2011 series. She co-edited Biting The Error: Writers Explore Narrative. Her books include Cheap Speech, Craquer, Swarm, The Rosy Medallions, and Cold Heaven. She has taught creative writing several institutions, including San Francisco State, SummerArts, and Naropa.

Erin Wilson's poetry has been published in numerous journals and anthologized in Hinge (Crack Press) and Kindergarde (a Small Press Traffic project, forthcoming). Her chapbook Break-Night Dawn was a finalist in Omnidawn's 2010 Chapbook Contest. With Zoey Kroll she cofounded Pocket Seed Library, a community seed-saving and picnic advocacy organization. She is also a librarian and lives in Berkeley.

Maw Shein Win lives in Berkeley, California. Her work has been published in various journals such as 2River, No Tell Motel, Moria, Babel Fruit, and Big Bridge. She was cofounder of Comet, a literary, arts, and culture magazine, and is currently an Affiliate Artist at Headlands Center for the Arts.

↑ Index

78. Carol Novack

3 City Book Tour: "Giraffes in Hiding: The Mythical Memoirs of Carol Novack"

Sun 10 Oct 2010

---

Announcing the Emergence and Grand October Launchings of the fully illustrated collection “Giraffes in Hiding: The Mythical Memoirs of Carol Novack” (Spuyten Duyvil Press <http://www.spuytenduyvil.net/>)

(Discount <http://www.spuytenduyvil.net/novackannounce.html>* for Those Who Can’t Come to the Readings)*

* *

*So … What About & Why Read the Hiding Giraffes? Here’s a Bit of Promo Buzz: *

“THE most seductive, original, impacting work I have seen for years. A fascinating combination of Kerouacian street-talk plus a trip through the museum of Modern Art in Chicago, plus a nod-off to Kosty's furthest out experimentalism. Magnifique!” -- Hugh Fox

"Carol Novack’s Giraffes in Hiding mirrors our weltanschauung by using its own language against it or by using its own language to pry open the circus hidden within it. If we say the world is insane or we say the world is a manic whirl, Novack embraces manic insanity with a great hug of laughter. She flings images, characters, ideas, and language around until they all, finally losing, - no, abandoning - their moorings, collide, crash, ka-bang one into another creating nuclear reactions of the non-sense that is even Emily Dickinson’s “divine sense,” although Novack would certainly hurl those two words (and that idea) against each other until they radiated. To read this book is to bring the giraffes out of hiding!" -- Martin Nakell

In “Giraffes in Hiding” Carol Novack proves once again that she is the all-time champion of wild, wigged out, original prose/ poetry and poetic prose. The first full-length collection of her work, subtitled “The Mythical Memoirs of Carol Novack,” is a feast of fusions, inventions, myths, dreams, forms, and possibilities. There’s no one like Novack, and here she is at her best as she chases her ontological tail round and round the intelligible, unknown worlds of her subconscious (and ours). Think Alice in Wonderland on acid simultaneously dancing with Tristan Tzara, Rimbaud, Oedipus, Pandora, Gertrude Stein, Proust, Kerouac, and that weird kid next door who ate all of the heads off your Barbie Dolls and you’ll begin to get a feel for what she’s up to. -- Mary Mackey

“Carol Novack is a conundrum to literary editors whose ideas of poetry and fiction as forms are rigid. To such editors, Novack might say, as one of her personae does, ‘Your imagination has closed walls.’ The best term for Novack’s typical literary form— flash fiction qua prose poem *qua *fusion—is Novack’s own, invention. Her eloquent inventions are witty, lyrical, and new, even as they reinvent the themes of family, myth, art, and self. The crux of Novack’s art is her imaginative power to bring alternate realities to vibrant life.” -- Larissa Shmailo “She’s great at creating a Freudian cage, & trapping the reader in it. 'Tis very powerful.” --Rae Desmond Jones

“She has the literary equivalent of perfect pitch, like those musicians who can specify the hertz of birds and burps. Uncanny tympani!” -- Tom Bradley

* *

_____

PROVIDENCE, R.I.!

COUSIN’S READING SERIES

*Sunday, OCTOBER 17, 6:30 pm

Abe's Bar <http://abesprovidence.com/>

*302 Wickenden Street

*With Matt Bell, John Cotter, & Adam Golask

* *

* *

****

* *

NEW YORK NEW YORK!

BROWNSTONE POETS

*Tuesday, October 19th, 7 pm

*Tillie’s of Brooklyn

*248 DeKalb Ave.

With Heller Levinson

See press release <http://www.pr.com/press-release/264845> for details

* *

* *

* *

****

* *

* *

* *

*Friday, OCTOBER 22, 2010, 7 pm

Happy Ending Lounge <http://www.happyendinglounge.com/>

302 Broome Street, NYC

(between Forsyth & Eldridge)

Hosts: Hon. Tod Thilleman, Publisher, & Hon. Nava Renek, Managing Editor,

*Spuyten Duyvil Press <http://www.spuytenduyvil.net/> *

Coming from the mountains of Western North Carolina to the lowlands of The Lower East Side, Carol will read from her spectacularly illustrated book with friends who will also read tidbits from their own repertoires:

* *

* *

Ann Bogle, whose short stories have appeared in The Quarterly, Fiction International, Gulf Coast, Big Bridge, Mad Hatters' Review, Istanbul Literary Review, Metazen, and other journals. Her chapbooks are XAM: Paragraph Series, dog barks up a tree at the apple left in it under a deerslim moon, and most recently, Solzhenitsyn Jukebox (Argotist Ebooks). See her blog <http://www.annbogle.blogspot.com/>.

* *

*Vivian Demuth, *author of the ecological novel, Eyes of the Forest, and the poetry chapbook, Breathing Nose Mountain. Each summer, she hosts a Poetry on the Peaks event at a Forestry fire lookout where she works in the Rocky Mountains. Her fiction and poetry have been published in journals in Canada, Mexico, Europe and the United States. See her website.<http://www.viviandemuth.wordpress.com/>

* *

Patricia Eakins, author of The Hungry Girls and Other Stories and *The Marvelous Adventures of Pierre Baptiste (a novel) which won both the NYU Press Prize for Fiction and the Capricorn Fiction Award of the Writer’s Voice. Her work has appeared in numerous journals, including The Iowa Review*, *Parnassus, Conjunctions, *and The Paris Review, which awarded her the Aga Khan Prize for Fiction.

Bob Heman, prose poet extraordinaire, author of several collections and publisher of the inventive journal *CLWN WR. *Some of his "Information" pieces are included in the new anthology, *An Introduction to the Prose Poem *, published by Firewheel Editions in 2009.

*George Spencer, a resident of Ecuador part of the year, *started the first poetry slam in Quito. He co-produces Thin Air Poetry Cable Show, NYC. Recent poems are in Adirondack Review, Spinozablue, Fieralingue (Italy) and Retort (Australia).

*Yuriy Tarnawsky, *author of more than two dozen books of poetry, drama, and fiction both in Ukrainian and English. A linguist by training, he has worked as a computer scientist specializing in natural language processing and as professor of Ukrainian literature at Columbia U. His latest book is a collection of mininovels: Like Blood in Water (FC2, 2007).* ***

* *

****

* *

*Monday, October 26th, 8 – 9pm

We Three Productions Present Biweekly Readings of Poetry and Prose at Bar 82

www.bar82nyc.com

136 2nd Avenue @ St. Marks

[redacted]

Reading with 3 Others

FREE

* *

* *

****

*
*

*
*

CHICAGOGO!

* *

QUIMBY'S BOOKSTORE <http://quimbys.com/>

*Friday, October 29th, 7 pm

1854 W North Ave
Chicago, IL 60622

With Eckhard Gerdes, Joseph Suglia, & Garrett Cook

* *

* *

****

* *

* *

MYOPIC BOOKS <http://myopicbookstore.com/>

*Saturday, October 30th, 7 pm

1564 N Milwaukee Ave

Chicago, IL 60622-2008

Get Directions<http://maps.google.com/maps?f=q&hl=en&geocode=&q=myopic+books&sll=41.90364,-87.675373&sspn=0.043375,0.091066&g=Wicker+Park,+Chicago,+IL&ie=UTF8&t=h&cid=41909815,-87677010,12373357635863647148&s=AARTsJo2qsxpeOlKAjeKgcO69TGOS6cKcw&ll=41.910621,-87.677175&spn=0.002395,0.003219&z=17&iwloc=A&output=embed>

[redacted]

* *

--

*
 *
MAD HATTERS' REVIEW: edgy & enlightened art, literature, & music in the Age of Dementia: http://www.madhattersreview.com

Instinct paralyzes the populace with numb plumped lips, viola hips, deals the finishing touch with its sting. No matter that rations dwindle in recession and there’s naught but figments left to bring to the picnic. The Players believe they will find the solution. It’s a cinch, really, they say, Greek chorus style: Where there’s a will, there's a way. . . . (fr. PICNIC ... Exquisite Corpse)

↑ Index

79. Deborah Poe

Fwd: Poetry Reading - SOON Productions presents poets Deborah Poe and Caroline Manring on Saturday 10/16/10 at 4:00 p.m. at Buffalo Street Books in Ithaca, NY

Mon 11 Oct 2010

Friends,

If you're in the Ithaca area, I hope you can join us.
Best wishes, Deborah
--------- Forwarded message ---------

Please join us as Deborah Poe and Caroline Manring read from their poetry Saturday, October 16, at 4:00 p.m. at Buffalo Street Books, in the DeWitt Mall

(corner of E. Buffalo and N. Cayuga St. in downtown Ithaca, NY). This reading is free and open to the public.

DEBORAH POE is the author of the poetry collections Elements (Stockport Flats Press, 2010) and Our Parenthetical Ontology (CustomWords, 2008). Deborah's writing has recently appeared in journals such as Jacket Magazine, Peaches & Bats, Sidebrow, Filter Literary Journal and Denver Quarterly. She is assistant professor of English at Pace University, fiction editor of the international online journal of the arts, Drunken Boat and guest curator/editor for Trickhouse's "Experiment" door 2010/2011. For more information about Deborah, visit www.deborahpoe.com.

CAROLINE MANRING earned her BA from Cornell University and her MFA from the Iowa Writers' Workshop. She has held a Teaching Writing Fellowship and a Leggett-Schupes Fellowship, and her poems have appeared in Drunken Boat, Hot Metal Bridge, Juked, Babel Fruit, and elsewhere. Her poetry chapbook, No Postman, was published last winter by Split Oak Press. She is Assistant Poetry Editor of the literary magazine Seneca Review, and she currently teaches Literature, Creative Writing, and a freshman seminar called "The Avian Persuasion" at Hobart and William Smith Colleges. She fiddles on a violin made in 1932 by her great-grandfather, Harley Manring, who was a postman.

This event has been made possible in part with grant support from the Community Arts Partnership. SOON Productions is dedicated to bringing innovative poets and writers to Ithaca for readings and talks. Please visit our website at http://soonproductions.org for more information about the series.

Please feel free to forward this email to anyone who might be interested in this event.

For more information, contact:

Ron Henry
SOON Productions
Email: [redacted]
Web: http://soonproductions.org

↑ Index

80. Megan M Garr
Versal reading for 9
Mon 11 Oct 2010

Call for submissions: Versal 9

The reading period for Versal 9 is now open. Send us your poetry, story, prose, art and inbetweens. Versal is an internationally acclaimed literary annual published in Amsterdam that brings together the world's urgent, involved, and unexpected.

http://versal.wordsinhere.com.

Inquiries (only) can be directed to: [redacted]. Deadline: January 15, 2011.

↑ Index

81. Halvard Johnson

Just gotta say

Mon 11 Oct 2010

When it comes to unfulfilled potential, this list takes the cake.

Hal Serving the tri-state area.

Halvard Johnson
==========

[redacted]
http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org
<http://www.hamiltonstone.org/>
http://sites.google.com/site/vidalocabooks/home
<http://www.hamiltonstone.org/>
*Obras Públicas<https://sites.google.com/site/vidalocabooks/halvard-johnson-obras-publicas>
; The Perfection of Mozart's Third Eye and Other Sonnets<http://www.scribd.com/doc/27039868/Halvard-Johnson-THE-PERFECTION-OF-MOZART-S-THIRD-EYE-Other-Sonnets>
;*
*Organ Harvest with Entrance of Clones<http://www.amazon.com/Harvest-Entrance-Clones-Halvard-Johnson/dp/0965404390/ref=sr_1_1?ie=UTF8&s=books&qid=1283182804&sr=8-1>
; Tango Bouquet<https://docs.google.com/Doc?docid=0ATDp6rzKkBkhZGZwand2cHdfOWc1Mnh3Zw&hl=en>
; Theory of Harmony<https://docs.google.com/viewer?url=http://xpressed.wippiespace.com/fall04/theory1.pdf>
; *

Rapsodie espagnole<https://docs.google.com/viewer?url=http://xpressed.wippiespace.com/rapsodi.pdf>
; Guide to the Tokyo Subway<http://www.amazon.com/Guide-Tokyo-Subway-Other-Poems/dp/0971487316/ref=sr_1_3?s=books&ie=UTF8&qid=1283183153&sr=1-3>
; The Sonnet Project<https://docs.google.com/viewer?url=http://xpressed.wippiespace.com/hsonnet.pdf>
; *
G(e)nome <http://xpressed.wippiespace.com/fall03/genome.pdf>; Winter Journey <http://capa.conncoll.edu/johnson.winter.html>;
Eclipse<http://capa.conncoll.edu/johnson.eclipse.html>
; The Dance of the Red Swan <http://capa.conncoll.edu/johnson.dance.html>;
*
*Transparencies & Projections <http://capa.conncoll.edu/johnson.transp.html>
*

↑ Index

82. Stephen McCaffery
OLSON CONFERENCE IN BUFFALO
Mon 11 Oct 2010

The Centenary of Charles Olson's Birth will be marked in Buffalo by the following events upcoming this week.

Internationally Acclaimed British poet TOM RAWORTH reads in
The Poetry Collection on Thursday Oct. 14 at 12.30pm

and again at the WESTERN NEW YORK BOOK ARTS CENTER downtown at 428 Washington (at Mohawk) at 8.00pm.

This second event is to launch the symposium OLSON @ THE CENTURY: AN ARCHIVAL & PROJECTIVE REAPPRAISAL

Friday panels commence at 10.00am with Michael Boughn, Richard Owens, Chris Sylvester and Dennis Tedlock

Break 12.15pm

1.00pm Round Table discussion with Tom Raworth, Bruce Jackson, and Steve McCaffery

1.45pm Afternoon Panel with Carla Billiteri, Kaplan P. Harris, Margaret Konkol and Don Byrd

8.000pm A screening of THE POLIS IS THIS: a film documentary on Charles Olson by Henry Ferrini.
Cash Bar

Saturday Oct. 16: MARATHON READING of Charles Olson's THE MAXIMUS POEMS 11.00 am. - 4.00pm KARPELES MANUSCRIPT MUSEUM 453 Porter Ave.

AL EVENTS ARE FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

On Oct 8, 2010, at 12:04 AM, POETICS automatic digest system wrote:

> There are 6 messages totalling 293 lines in this issue.
>
> Topics of the day:
>
> 1. Fw: 12 Abandoned Poems
> 2. beginning fiction (4)
> 3. Oct 12: Belladonna NYC Fundraiser*
>
> welcome.html
>
> ---
>
> Date: Thu, 7 Oct 2010 09:33:43 -0700
> From: amy king <[redacted]>
> Subject: Fw: 12 Abandoned Poems
>
> From: Barry Schwabsky
>
> I would like to let you know of my new publication, 12 Abandoned Poems, from > Kilmog Press in New Zealand:
>
> http://kilmogpress.blogspot.com/2010/10/barry-schwabsky-12-abandoned-poems.html
>
> Barry Schwabsky, 12 Abandoned Poems, Kilmog Press, 2010, hardback, edition of 55
> copies, NZ$45.00 ISBN: 978-0-9864616-7-5, available at Parsons Bookshop in > Auckland, or direct from publisher ($6 / $10 dom / inter. postage)
> [redacted]

welcome.html

Date: Thu, 7 Oct 2010 14:42:10 +0900
From: Robert Grotjohn <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: beginning fiction

Hisaye Yamamoto, "The Legend of Miss Sasagawara"
Annie Choi, "Happy Birthday or Whatever"
JE Wideman "Doc's Story"
