in this sense, we might say that the whole contemporary awareness of materiality in art is part of a larger ah spiritual materialism. i googled that term, after it occurred to me, and i assure you i'm using it in a different sense than chögyam trungpa, who uses it "to describe mistakes spiritual seekers commit which turn the pursuit of spiritualism into an ego building and confusion creating endeavor" (wikipedia). instead, i'm refering to a relatively common sort of philosophy in which the material substrate of ideation and even the spiritual is affirmed and its relations with even the flightiest of fancies are explored. not to denigrate or dismiss things like spirituality but to explore how they operate materially.

perhaps more evidently, now, this is also related to philosophies of mind in which the materiality of thought itself is affirmed--as a chemical and informational process, however emergent--and the brain and the mind that emerge from its processes are conceived as fully embodied in the material. so that the idea of being able to create thinking machines (however unlike us) becomes a real possibility. and we are conceptualized as nature's (near?) ultimate machines. and machines are conceptualized not as the simple things we once thought they must be but as often very complex biological creatures that, nonetheless, are embodied in the material world and are, therefore, subject to the constraints and possibilities of machines in the material world.

to wrap it up, we now see the relation between contemporary artistic emphasis on the materiality of writing/art and the larger moment of 'spiritual materialism'.

ja
http://vispo.com

> guidelines

--
www.jonathanball.com
www.jonathanball.blogspot.com
www.haikuhoroscopes.com

↑ Index

62. Aryanil Mukherjee
Re: spiritual materialism
Mon 6 Jul 2009

If we go even further back to Leaves of Grass, Whitman writes "if body is not soul, what is soul ?"

To me, that's theÂ essence of the material, of Western aesthetics.

On body, andÂ completely ignorant of the existence of Leaves of Grass,Â Rabindranath Thakur (Tagore) writes -" if body is not soul, what is body?" (very rough translation ....tailored a little to exactly reverse Whitman)

That is the essence of the spirit, of the East...

And of course, one could argue today, that they are one and the same, one a residence , the otherÂ its resident and it doesn't really matter which is which...

Aryanil

----- Original Message -----
From: "Christopher Rizzo" <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Monday, July 6, 2009 12:29:36 AM GMT -05:00 US/Canada Eastern Subject: Re: spiritual materialism

Jim,

Interesting post. Are you familiar with Charles Olson's work? In a conversation with Herbert Kenny, 1969, Olson says "I mean something I believe we possess crucially. I think our body is our soul. And if you don't have your body as a factor of creation, you don't have a soul." Olson articulates the same idea at other times, too.

In any event, an explanation of the above would prove lengthy, so please feel free to backchannel me if you're so inclined. I'm writing two books on Olson at the moment.

[redacted]

Bests,
Chris

On Sun, Jul 5, 2009 at 3:41 PM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

> it is commonly observed that a great deal of contemporary art/writing involves a double sense of 'the material'. the term is understood to refer not only to the subject matter (the 'standard' understanding in writing) but also the matter of the media in the piece, the material embodiment of the piece. it's also commonly observed that the latter awareness of and approach to composition not solely by ideation, meditation on the subject matter, but also through operation on the material embodiment, has come to be much more widely understood as a part of reading than it was a generation ago. when we encounter work that does not follow the grammars and approaches traditionally associated with work, we inquire into the methods of composition, the approach to materiality, and look for relations between those methods and approaches and the subject matter, or look for the subject matter in the light of those things. and so read differently, thereby. and in this way, we now read some literary work in ways that are closer to how we approach a great deal of visual art.
>
> but what i want to get at is something that isn't so commonly observed, at the moment, but may be in the next generation. and that's the relation of awareness of the materiality of writing/art to our ideas of who and what we are. that's erm awkwardly stated. what i'm trying to get at is this. the whole emphasis on materiality is involved in a larger movement to explore how things like ideation, imagination, the spiritual, beauty, truth, goodness, justice--all our ideals and things normally associated with the immaterial--operate in the material world.
>
> in this sense, we might say that the whole contemporary awareness of materiality in art is part of a larger ah spiritual materialism. i googled that term, after it occurred to me, and i assure you i'm using it in a different sense than chÃ¶gyam trungpa, who uses it "to describe mistakes spiritual seekers commit which turn the pursuit of spiritualism into an ego building and confusion creating endeavor" (wikipedia). instead, i'm refering to a relatively common sort of philosophy in which the material substrate of ideation and even the spiritual is affirmed and its relations with even the flightiest of fancies are explored. not to denigrate or dismiss things like spirituality but to explore how they operate materially.
>
> perhaps more evidently, now, this is also related to philosophies of mind in which the materiality of thought itself is affirmed--as a chemical and informational process, however emergent--and the brain and the mind that emerge from its processes are conceived as fully embodied in the material. so that the idea of being able to create thinking machines (however unlike us) becomes a real possibility. and we are conceptualized as nature's

> (near?) ultimate machines. and machines are conceptualized not as the simple things we once thought they must be but as often very complex biological creatures that, nonetheless, are embodied in the material world and are, therefore, subject to the constraints and possibilities of machines in the material world.
>
> to wrap it up, we now see the relation between contemporary artistic emphasis on the materiality of writing/art and the larger moment of 'spiritual materialism'.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com

↑ Index

63. David Baratier
Save our Ohio Libraries
Mon 6 Jul 2009

Libraries in Ohio are in danger of losing at least 20% and as high as 50% of funding from the State of Ohio if the cuts proposed by Governor Strickland are approved. This vote is still not solidified, and I ask that you immediately take action yourself as well as sending this e-mail to all other friends, families, and relatives living in Ohio. Cuts in Library hours, programs, materials, and all services libraries currently provide will especially hurt our rural cultural center here, and some libraries may even close.

In order to keep funding, please write notes and call the following people this week:

Senator Steve Buehrer [redacted]

Representative Bruce Goodwin [redacted]

Governor Ted Strickland [redacted] or write him a note right one the web http://www.governor.ohio.gov/Assistance/ContacttheGovernor/tabid/150/Default.aspx

Thank you for your time in this matter.

Be well

David Baratier, Editor

Pavement Saw Press
321 Empire Street

Montpelier OH 43543
http://pavementsaw.org

Subscribe to our e-mail listserv at http://pavementsaw.org/list/?p=subscribe&id=1
Be well

David Baratier, Editor

Pavement Saw Press
321 Empire Street
Montpelier OH 43543
http://pavementsaw.org

Subscribe to our e-mail listserv at
http://pavementsaw.org/list/?p=subscribe&id=1

↑ Index

64. Mark Weiss
Re: SoundEye Festival - final lineup - starts Wednesday
Mon 6 Jul 2009

Trevor: You've done it again! A great lineup. Wish I could be there.

Mark

At 12:54 PM 7/6/2009, Trevor Joyce wrote:
>[Apologies for cross-posting]
>
>Here's the final line-up (except for the Cabaret and the open-mic event, >both of which will be finalised on the night, though they're already full to >bursting) for this year's SoundEye Festival. Come and join us in Cork where >the drink, conversation and weather are great, and the poetry is even >better.
>
>*SoundEye #13
>8-12 July 2009
>Cork, Ireland
>(www.soundeye.org)
>*
>Wed July 8 • 18:00 • admission free
>Firkin Crane, Shandon, Cork
>Reading: Sean Bonney (UK) + Mairéad Byrne (Irl/USA) + Keith Tuma (USA)
>
>Thu July 9 • 18:00 • admission free
>Firkin Crane, Shandon, Cork

>Reading: James Cummins (Irl) + Frances Kruk (UK) + Keston Sutherland (UK)
>
>Thu July 9 • 20:30 • admission €5
>The Other Place Club, St. Augustine St. (just off Paradise Place / Western >Rd.), Cork
>SoundEye Cabaret (Programmed by Fergal Gaynor)
>With Isabella Oberlander (dancer AUT) + Boiled String (performance poetry >CYM) + Mathematical Muse (poetry / performance / music) + Retorika Quartet >with Camilla Griehsel (baroque and renaissance strings with soprano) + many >more
>
>Fri July 10 • 14:00 • admission free
>The Guesthouse, 10 Chapel Street, Shandon, Cork
>Reading: Swantje Lichtenstein (Ger) + Kevin Perryman (Ire/Ger) + Stephen >Rodefer (USA/Fr) + Michael Smith (Ire)
>
>Fri July 10 • 17:30 • admission free
>Firkin Crane, Shandon, Cork
>Reading: Jerome Rothenberg (USA) + Geoffrey Squires (Ire/UK) + Christine >Wertheim (Aus/UK/USA)
>
>Fri July 10 • 21:00 • admission free
>Meade's Wine Bar, 126 Oliver Plunkett Street, Cork
>[redacted]'s with M/C Mairéad Byrne
>(Pre-programmed open-mic)
>
>Sat July 11 • 11:30 • admission free
>Firkin Crane, Shandon, Cork
>Poetry by Default programmed by Jimmy Cummins
>Reading: Jim Goar (USA) + Marcus Slease (NIre) + David Toms (Ire)
>
>Sat July 11 • 17:00 • admission €3 (towards the upkeep of the building)
>(Sonic Vigil runs continuously 12:00 - 18:00)
>St. Fin Barre's Cathedral, Cork
>SoundEye/Sonic Vigil sound event
>Performance: Jaap Blonk (Nl) + Jerome Rothenberg (USA) + Christine Wertheim
>(UK/USA)
>
>Sat July 11 • 20:00 • admission free
>Eason's Hill Community Centre, Eason's Hill, Shandon, Cork

>Reading: Peter Manson (UK) + Maggie O'Sullivan (UK) + Tom Raworth (UK/Ire)
>[Tom Raworth's reading is generously supported by Poetry Ireland]
>
>Sun July 12 • 11:00 • admission free
>Firkin Crane, Shandon, Cork
>Reading: Thomas McCarthy (Ire) + Mark Mallon (Ger/Fin) + Luke Roberts (UK)
>
>Sun July 12 • 13:00 • admission free
>The Guesthouse, 10 Chapel Street, Shandon, Cork
>Reading: Billy Mills (Ire) + Martin Corless-Smith (UK/USA) + Catherine Walsh >(Ire)
>
>[The SoundEye Festival is made possible thanks to the Small Festivals Scheme >of The Irish Arts Council]
>

↑ Index

65. David-Baptiste Chirot

Re: spiritual materialism

Mon 6 Jul 2009

Dear Jim—

Actually the materialism of the spiritual and spiritual materialism is probably the oldest ideas of “spiritual/material” interrelationships

From Cave Paintings, pictograms to the most highly evolved human scripts like the Mayan, carved into stones and arranged—as well as Mayan Cave writing—these are the oldest forms of works which grew into the huge number of religions and belief systems in which the spiritual materialism is one of the major points of difference between them and religions where this belief in the power of the materiality does not exist. The current ideas of “materiality of the word” go back to the writings of the Russian Futurists in 1913 (The Word as Such,) writings and to many of the forms of writing developed from the Dadas Haussmann, Schwitters (The Letter as Such) , Hugo Ball to the Lettristes to Sound Poetry. The spiritual need not be and mostly is not the “dogmatic religious form” at all , but that related throughout history to speaking in tongues, mystical experiences, visions and the sense that all existing things persons everything are themselves spiritual materialism.

The material of the works that is used with writing is at the very start and through the entire history of writing. Often to make something seem “new,” like spiritual materialism or more directly, the effect of their materiasl on the arts and their reception, is a rebranded version of the "old," on order to market what is actually “old wine in new bottles."

For example—the uses of stone and caves wall were used because they ENDURE THROUGH TIME much better than other writing materials. Tens of thousand year old works by having existed so long through time have lost their message in terms of the present day reading—yet at the same time one immediately recognizes them AS WRING—and that they are communicating, transmitting still out into the cosmos, and that communication one may see hear read in the present, beyond meaning, yet material that is present and effecting one greatly.

All my work made with found objects stones grass broken branches machine parts plastic etc—are working together with, collaborating with ,the material and its limits, its demand and its questions back and forth when one works—and that is the reason I call my works “rubBEings”—for me they are as alive s anyone and as myself, and communicating, working with one, especially as in my works with paintings and rubBEings both, I touch the paper on one side and directly pressing back from the other are the materials.

Sometimes to heighten this, emphasize it, I have images fragments letters or words –facing towards the viewer on one side—and facing away from the viewer for those “on the other side” to see.

Many contemporary works that emphasize the materials used as presences in the work and also indicate the presence of an other presence—are made by hand. (In fact it is just announced today the world’s oldest Bible found so far is of course handwritten—I am not sure why Yahoo News thought—what—that it might be typewritten??)—

Book artists of today work much as the transcribers of the Book of Kells did and those in other cultures and timtes even earlier throughout the world. The use of papyrus birch bark, stone, al maner of materials, where deeply part of the spiritual. Oneof ht ideas of The Book most prevalent in American culture is that it does matter which form of The Book one uses, which material one in terms of binding, the kinds of illustrations or not, the types of the fonts and their changing sizes etc The spiritual materialism can be read and seen and touched in all versions, editions, al manner f Books and the editions of the bible through time have been one method of this, or the Torah, Kabala, the Gospels, the book of Psalms—handmade editions which “speak” with the very materials used—

Despite the existence of the “material word” of the last roughly thrity years in “experimental” writing, out of Russian Futurism, the trend is in

the opposite direction—to the virtual. That is spirit in a sense is displacing matter. This is one of the crucial changes that virtuality is working in society—the transference of the "real" to the virtual, while the real itself is becoming ever more often effectively "deleted."

During the recent protests in Iran and their grim suppression, how did the world follow the events? Via twitter, cell phone cameras, Facebook, cam corder hook ups and other electronic digital virtual transmissions and receptions. The protests themselves were by students and urban white collar workers and others with access to the electrically plugged in communications systems. (Battery operated devices do after al need to be plugged in at some point to recharge as do lap tops and others electronics.) Where and who were the rest of the Iranians? As far as the (observing) world was concerned, they did not exist—they had been left behind in the darkness of the unrecorded, unremitted, "backward" zones. Effectively, these Iranians were deleted in order that the focus be solely on the higher educated and tech-savvy primarily young urbanites

These Iranians then, do exist and via Neda, have become part of the world's conscious. American TV carried persons throwing stones at advancing armed police and army forces, and Americans were cheering for them. For decades exposed to stone throwing Palestinians as "bad" "terrorists" as they face the world's fourth largest military, Americans for the most part aere suposed to feel hatred and fear, and wishing "they would just go away." The change in the meaning of the same image (one could just as well use stock footage as "real') is so easily manipulated by simply changing the title, caption and media-created "context" that it is very easy to imagine that al events are "staged" for the cameras, while the real events take place off screen. Since "the world sees" the staged or not events—that is what exists as the real, the spiritual material of spiritual materialism.

In contrast are event s which are specifically intended to as mush as possible if not completely take place "off screen," so that events are "over with" and what remains is the new, cleansed arena of the media's presentations of the staged events celebrating "victory" or "war crimes, genocides, ethnic cleanings.

Even though Gaza has been deprived for long time of electricity except on rare occasions and very tiny amounts, the entire area was effectively made "off limits" by the banning of all media until after the events had made possible what is in effect "un fait accompli."

The genocides in Rwanda happend in the same manner—al contact with the outside, electrical, via cable, phones—was cut off and then the killings began.

In Cambodia also, the American bombings and the Khmer Rouge Regime, which banned al "modern" devices, created a "black hole" in terms of media, and so millions died "off screen."

Even within the USA the same "set up" is used—here on the bulk of the American Indian Reservations. Currently the American Indian health care is hitting a disastrous low point, with large drops in life expectancey and large gains in infant motility. Despair is rampant, and drugs and alcohol as always are there to help numb it. Entire peoples are again experiencing being "the Vanishing American Indian." Why isn't this covered except sporadically? According to the Federal employees in charge of many of these wide spread populations, the problem is one of distance, and also of the Indians not having computers. The Government feels it has done al it needs to do about getting information and registration forms for benefits and assistance, because it has created a special web site just for this specific purposes.

The commentary on this "black out" of Indians from the media, virtual view, is that well, it's their fault, because if they would just come to a Federal staion they could use a computer and find al this stuff. But they won't come in, being Indians and al the ugly stereotypes attached to this. No one seems to find it strange the Agents in charge of the people's welfare aren't at al motivated or interested in going out as they are supposed to and finding out what is going on. Why bother? Who cares about the persons vanishing into a black hole?

"Spiritual materialism" in a sense is a rediscovery process for those with the access and time and safety and comfort to do so. Peoples who have always known of it are "left out in the cold." The growing gaps between the rich and poor manifest themselves as the spiritual materialism of who is visible, paid attention to, made a Cause, and who is left off screen, in the dark, to vanish.

The world is not only fighting for oil to continue its polluting of the world and slaughters of person, but in a sense already fighting for who has access to the web, to electricity, to access and visibility as “spiritual materials” on screen while its opposites, the immaterial, vanish.

“Spiritual materialism is paradoxically the transference of the actuality of materialism into its philosophical and spiritual manifestations as abstract, distanced, as observing events and beings without being present. Those things and Beings not present as abstractions, symbols for Causes, Propaganda, manipulation and advertising-entertainment, are being “disappeared” by the materialism of Drones which are "spiritual" in that they are being guided by non-present persons on the other side of the world, who only see the things that are present on a screen as targets of focused techno-perception and massacre.

n Sun, Jul 5, 2009 at 3:41 PM, Jim Andrews
<[redacted]> wrote:

> it is commonly observed that a great deal of contemporary art/writing > > involves a double sense of 'the material'. the term is understood to refer > > not only to the subject matter (the 'standard' understanding in writing) but > > also the matter of the media in the piece, the material embodiment of the > > piece. it's also commonly observed that the latter awareness of and approach > > to composition not solely by ideation, meditation on the subject matter, but > > also through operation on the material embodiment, has come to be much more > > widely understood as a part of reading than it was a generation ago. When we > encounter work that does not follow the grammars and approaches

>
> traditionally associated with work, we inquire into the methods of > > composition, the approach to materiality, and look for relations between > > those methods and approaches and the subject matter, or look for the subject > > matter in the light of those things. and so read differently, thereby. and > > in this way, we now read some literary work in ways that are closer to how > we approach a great deal of visual art.

> > but what i want to get at is something that isn't so commonly observed, at > > the moment, but may be in the next generation. and that's the relation of > > awareness of the materiality of writing/art to our ideas of who and what we > > are. that's erm awkwardly stated. what i'm trying to get at is this. the > > whole emphasis on materiality is involved in a larger movement to explore > how things like ideation, imagination, the spiritual, beauty, truth,

> > goodness, justice--all our ideals and things normally associated with the > immaterial--operate in the material world.

> in this sense, we might say that the whole contemporary awareness of

> > materiality in art is part of a larger ah spiritual materialism. i googled

> > that term, after it occurred to me, and i assure you i'm using it in a > > different sense than chögyam trungpa, who uses it "to describe mistakes > > spiritual seekers commit which turn the pursuit of spiritualism into an ego

> > building and confusion creating endeavor" (wikipedia). instead, i'm refering

> > to a relatively common sort of philosophy in which the material substrate of > > ideation and even the spiritual is affirmed and its relations with even the > > flightiest of fancies are explored. not to denigrate or dismiss things like > spirituality but to explore how they operate materially.

> > perhaps more evidently, now, this is also related to philosophies of mind

> > in which the materiality of thought itself is affirmed--as a chemical and > > informational process, however emergent--and the brain and the mind that > > emerge from its processes are conceived as fully embodied in the material.

> > so that the idea of being able to create thinking machines (however unlike > us) becomes a real possibility. and we are conceptualized as nature's

> > (near?) ultimate machines. and machines are conceptualized not as the simple > > things we once thought they must be but as often very complex biological > > creatures that, nonetheless, are embodied in the material world and are, > > therefore, subject to the constraints and possibilities of machines in the

> material world.
>
> to wrap it up, we now see the relation between contemporary artistic > emphasis on the materiality of writing/art and the larger moment of
> 'spiritual materialism'.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
> ==========

guidelines

>

==========

Date: Mon, 6 Jul 2009 00:01:43 -0400
From: [redacted]
Subject: Re: spiritual materialism
To: [redacted]

Jim,

Coincidentally, I just finished a long poem entitled "The Spiritual Life of Replicants."

Ciao,

Murat

On Sun, Jul 5, 2009 at 3:41 PM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

it is commonly observed that a great deal of contemporary art/writing involves a double sense of 'the material'. the term is understood to refer not only to the subject matter (the 'standard' understanding in writing) but also the matter of the media in the piece, the material embodiment of the piece. it's also commonly observed that the latter awareness of and approach to composition not solely by ideation, meditation on the subject matter, but also through operation on the material embodiment, has come to be much more widely understood as a part of reading than it was a generation ago. when we encounter work that does not follow the grammars and approaches traditionally associated with work, we inquire into the methods of composition, the approach to materiality, and look for relations between those methods and approaches and the subject matter, or look for the subject matter in the light of those things. and so read differently, thereby. and in this way, we now read some literary work in ways that are closer to how we approach a great deal of visual art.

but what i want to get at is something that isn't so commonly observed, at the moment, but may be in the next generation. and that's the relation of awareness of the materiality of writing/art to our ideas of who and what we are. that's erm awkwardly stated. what i'm trying to get at is this. the whole emphasis on materiality is involved in a larger movement to explore how things like ideation, imagination, the spiritual, beauty, truth, goodness, justice--all our ideals and things normally associated with the immaterial--operate in the material world.

in this sense, we might say that the whole contemporary awareness of materiality in art is part of a larger ah spiritual materialism. i googled that term, after it occurred to me, and i assure you i'm using it in a > different sense than chögyam trungpa, who uses it "to describe mistakes spiritual seekers commit which turn the pursuit of spiritualism into an ego building and confusion creating endeavor" (wikipedia). instead, i'm refering to a relatively common sort of philosophy in which the material substrate of ideation and even the spiritual is affirmed and its relations with even the flightiest of fancies are explored. not to denigrate or dismiss things like spirituality but to explore how they operate materially.

>
> perhaps more evidently, now, this is also related to philosophies of mind in which the materiality of thought itself is affirmed--as a chemical and informational process, however emergent--and the brain and the mind that emerge from its processes are conceived as fully embodied in the material. so that the idea of being able to create thinking machines (however unlike us) becomes a real possibility. and we are conceptualized as nature's (near?) ultimate machines. and machines are conceptualized not as the simple things we once thought they must be but as often very complex biological creatures that, nonetheless, are embodied in the material world and are, therefore, subject to the constraints and possibilities of machines in the material world.
>
> to wrap it up, we now see the relation between contemporary artistic emphasis on the materiality of writing/art and the larger moment of 'spiritual materialism'.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com

Insert movie times and more without leaving Hotmail®.
http://windowslive.com/Tutorial/Hotmail/QuickAdd?ocid=TXT_TAGLM_WL_HM_Tutorial_QuickAdd_062009

↑ Index

66. David-Baptiste Chirot
Re: spiritual materialism
Mon 6 Jul 2009

Virtuality
as Transcendentalism in Reverse . . .

From the Transparent Eyeball to the All Seeing Panopticonic Eye

In his monumental five decade-long labor of love, the 18th Century Natural History, Buffon writes that perhaps the scaly tail of the beaver is due to its eating fish.

Which, "quite naturally," prompted some wag to query in that case, how long might be M Buffon's tail?--if, of course, he did eat fish!--

In the "Language" section of "Nature" Emerson writes:

1. Words are signs of natural facts.

("And ain't that a natural born fact, Jack," as the saying goes.)

2. Particular natural facts are symbols of particular spiritual facts.

(The fish in Peter's image being, say, Pisces, or the Christian symbol of the fish, St Peter as a fisher of men, or an allegory of the fish dying of polluted waters, or a sign for Fish Fry Fridays--)

3. Nature is the symbol of spirit.

(Completing Emerson's Transcendental and redeeming version of the dreaded Jesuitical machinations known as the syllogism.)

Very quickly one moves from natural facts to words as their signs, to "particular" natural facts being symbols of spiritual facts and then to nature as a symbol of spirit.

The movement from the natural to the spiritual, from signs to symbols in a peculiar way seems not unlike what one might call a "Transcendentalism of the Virtual." Or, perhaps, Transcendentalism in Reverse, in the way that Robert Smithson, after Nabokov, wrote of construction sites as "ruins in reverse."

One begins--in this reversal-- from the Transcendental "spirit"--the Virtual Image--Virtuality being not unlike "spirit" in the sense that is "there" via symbols (digital codes)--and since particular spiritual facts are symbols of particular natural facts--(whose signs are words)--then--"nature is the symbol of spirit."

In other words, the world is a symbol of the virtual. Words as "signs of natural facts" which are "spiritual facts" which are the turning of nature into the symbol of the spiritual--are both "signs of natural facts" and symbols of the spirit. Language and nature are symbols of spirit--or, Virtuality.

Spirit is Virtuality.
Virtuality is spirituality, and so, in a way, becomes, is, also virtue (The shared etymology of the Latin virtus.)

Virtuality as virtue, as another form of the spirituality which redeems the "fallen world" by turning it into a "symbol."

This has a strange effect on the experience of, perception of, the world, as it no longer exists, but is now world-as-symbol. For, if it is a symbol, this means the world is not "real."

The world-as-symbol becomes a place of tourism for the "virtual eye"-- taking the Surrealists' trips to the flea markets to new heights.

There are tours now for persons to take in which they are shown the "signage" and other "symbols" of the virtual that exist in their neighborhoods. This form of perception is considered a "virtue." The poet Charles Bernstein goes to China and comes back with --what else--but a great many photos of signs and "symbols." The disconnect between the English "mistranslations" from the Chinese is a”symbolic joke" and illustrative of one's own virtue as a perceiver of signs and symbols. (Though I always wonder if the Chinese might not actually be saying something like--well, we shall leave that to the reader's imagination.)

By virtue, so to speak, of this effect of the Virtual, what is seen in the world are only those things which are signs and symbols of the symbolic world of the Virtual.

What one sees in the world is a reflection of the Virtual. That is, one recognizes as "real" only those things which one knows from the Virtual. In a sense the tours of one's neighborhood as a trove of signage and symbols are a form of training in this recognition of the Virtual "real" and its virtues.

Yet what of those who live, pagans, beyond the pale of the virtues of Virtual "access?"

One speaks of the "dependence on foreign oil"--one hears little about the "dependence on electricity" in terms of access to the "real" as it is realized in the Virtual.

Are those who exist beyond electricity's reach those are without virtue?

This would seem to be the case for those affected by the following events: in Rwanda, when the massacres were to being, all cables, telephone lines, any electric access, was completely cut off. Once sealed from the real Virtual world, the now Virtual "disappeareds" were removed from the world as being without virtue. In Myanmar, protests were followed by the cut-off with the outside world of cable and phone access. In the world's largest ever prison, already Walled off from the world, a "refugee Camp," the Palestinians of Gaza are disappearing from virtue by virtue of the cut off of electricity. When all the lights go out--where will they be?

If one were to go about cutting off electricity, chopping off cables, pulling plugs, denying on line access to citizens for various reasons--controlling who is part of the Virtual and virtuous world--one might wonder if part of the possibility of this is to inculcate ever more "willing suspension of disbelief" in the Virtual and its virtues in the denizens of the Virtual.

For then will they not ever more willingly accede to the "transparency" of a new Transparent Eyeball in reverse, the Panoptical Eye of instantaneous "real time" surveillance of everyone and access to everyone's files, images, messages, transactions in order to keep "secure" the virtue of the Virtual?

The threat of the loss of the Virtual, of being a part of the virtues of the Virtual, may become a new form of discipline. And, desirous to not lose one's sense of Virtual Reality, might not one then accede to entering into a world wide prison?

To "die" outside the Virtual--or to "Live" as a prisoner.

Along those cheerful lines--Drew Kunz recently invited me to a group involved with thinking on the artistic developments through time taking the grid as a proposition for work. Personally I don't like grids at all (even though one benefits much of course from the virtues of the electronic grids--) and personal experience of them has done nothing to tarnish the dislike.

Yet paradoxically, due to this dislike of grids and what they may men in various circumstances, a great deal of my work has made use of them, far more than one realized.

This flickr gallery includes works made with overt and explicit as well as more covert and implicit grids. Many are from a series of "Walls" which will be forthcoming in a book from Otoliths. The examples here are often of language that is affected by violence, fire, the wear and tear of Time, the "dirtiness" of non-Virtual and virtuous existence.

Attached is an essay "Hidden in Plain Sight" which appeared in Otoliths which discuss the impact since childhood of construction sites, crow's nests and found materials on my work and methods.

The essay has a link to another short piece re Bob Cobbing, my friend and mentor. Of the two of us jw curry wrote that, outside the division of "Clean" and "Dirty" Schools of Visual Poetry, there was the "Quick'nDirty" School of Cobbing and Chirot. Bob Cobbing was one of the great geniuses and artists of the 20th Century. He and Kurt Schwitters, with Dubuffet, are for me the three most important artists of their times.

I see their work and what I continue on with as a kind of guerilla art of survival in the hidden in plain site/sight/cite of the real world, as opposed to existing solely in the Virtual world which is not real, but a reflection, though its effects are real.

This kind of work can be done anytime any where with next to nothing at all except the everything that is here and there, there, there--found all around one, right at hand. It is "born" of necessity, the Motherfucker of Invention.

Here is the link for the essay:

the-otolith.blogspot.com/2006/07/david-baptiste-chirothidden -in-plain.html

and here the flickr link

http://www.flickr.com/send?nsid=[redacted]&set=72157603474988121

> Date: Mon, 6 Jul 2009 11:47:59 -0600
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: spiritual materialism
> To: [redacted]
>
> Some of these ideas might approach the way Slavoj Zizek reads the Hegelian paradox that "the spirit is a bone" .... I am travelling without any books and so I can't say much more or even verify my quote etc but your the Olson quote brings this idea to mind, in light of the previous email.
>
> Jonathan Ball
>
> On Sun, Jul 5, 2009 at 10:29 PM, Christopher Rizzo <[redacted]>wrote:
>
> Jim,
>
> Interesting post. Are you familiar with Charles Olson's work? In a conversation with Herbert Kenny, 1969, Olson says "I mean something I believe we possess crucially. I think our body is our soul. And if you don't > have your body as a factor of creation, you don't have a soul." Olson articulates the same idea at other times, too.
>
> In any event, an explanation of the above would prove lengthy, so please feel free to backchannel me if you're so inclined. I'm writing two books on Olson at the moment.
>
> [redacted]
>
> Bests,
> Chris

On Sun, Jul 5, 2009 at 3:41 PM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

> it is commonly observed that a great deal of contemporary art/writing involves a double sense of 'the material'. the term is understood to refer not only to the subject matter (the 'standard' understanding in writing) but also the matter of the media in the piece, the material embodiment of the piece. it's also commonly observed that the latter awareness of and approach to composition not solely by ideation, meditation on the subject matter, but also through operation on the material embodiment, has come to be much more widely understood as a part of reading than it was a generation ago. when we encounter work that does not follow the grammars and approaches traditionally associated with work, we inquire into the methods of composition, the approach to materiality, and look for relations between those methods and approaches and the subject matter, or look for the subject matter in the light of those things. and so read differently, thereby. and in this way, we now read some literary work in ways that are closer to how we approach a great deal of visual art.

but what i want to get at is something that isn't so commonly observed, at the moment, but may be in the next generation. and that's the relation of awareness of the materiality of writing/art to our ideas of who and what we are. that's erm awkwardly stated. what i'm trying to get at is this. the whole emphasis on materiality is involved in a larger movement to explore how things like ideation, imagination, the spiritual, beauty, truth, goodness, justice--all our ideals and things normally associated with the immaterial--operate in the material world.

in this sense, we might say that the whole contemporary awareness of materiality in art is part of a larger ah spiritual materialism. i googled that term, after it occurred to me, and i assure you i'm using it in a different sense than chögyam trungpa, who uses it "to describe mistakes spiritual seekers commit which turn the pursuit of spiritualism into an ego building and confusion creating endeavor" (wikipedia). instead, i'm refering to a relatively common sort of philosophy in which the material substrate

> of
> ideation and even the spiritual is affirmed and its relations with even the > flightiest of fancies are explored. not to denigrate or dismiss things like > spirituality but to explore how they operate materially.
>
> perhaps more evidently, now, this is also related to philosophies of mind
> in which the materiality of thought itself is affirmed--as a chemical and > informational process, however emergent--and the brain and the mind that > emerge from its processes are conceived as fully embodied in the material.
> so that the idea of being able to create thinking machines (however unlike > us) becomes a real possibility. and we are conceptualized as nature's > (near?) ultimate machines. and machines are conceptualized not as the simple > things we once thought they must be but as often very complex biological > creatures that, nonetheless, are embodied in the material world and are, > therefore, subject to the constraints and possibilities of machines in the
> material world.
>
> to wrap it up, we now see the relation between contemporary artistic > emphasis on the materiality of writing/art and the larger moment of
> 'spiritual materialism'.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
> guidelines
>
> --
> www.jonathanball.com
> www.jonathanball.blogspot.com
> www.haikuhoroscopes.com

_____ Windows Live™
SkyDrive™: Get 25 GB of free online storage.
http://windowslive.com/online/skydrive?ocid=TXT_TAGLM_WL_SD_25GB_062009

↑ Index

67. Christopher Rizzo
Re: spiritual materialism
Mon 6 Jul 2009

I'm finding this string really quite interesting. Glad to hear evidence of such a wide-ranging interest.

Aryanil, much thanks for reminding me of Whitman and Tagore. I'm tempted to add Pound to that set, too.

There are a few significant differences between, say, Olson and Whitman. Briefly, Olson's cosmology took the philosophy of mathematics, quantum mechanics, and Cybernetic theory (which turns into information theory, really) into account, as well as the phenomenology of Merleau-Ponty, etc.

For sure, there are similarities to Whitman, but I figured (perhaps too hastily?) that a post-Heisenberg view of reality might key into Jim's ideas a bit more readily.

As for Eastern approaches to spirituality, perhaps one of the more interesting bits in Olson is his use of the first line from Wilhelm's translation of The Secret of the Golden Flower: "That which exists through itself is what is called meaning." And it is useful to note that Whilhelm translates "meaning" with a capital "M" (suggesting Tao), whereas Olson uses the term in lower-case.

Simply (and reductively), Olson uses the line to indicate something closer to autopoiesis than Logos, or rather the One. Creeley explains that one consequence of all this is that language is not "importantly" referential. Still provocative, I think.

And, Chris, as for Benjamin, I'm thinking of his use of "nunc stans," in particular, and what uses it may have in this context....

Anyway, just a few thoughts.

Bests,
Chris

On Mon, Jul 6, 2009 at 1:47 PM, Jonathan Ball <[redacted]> wrote:

> Some of these ideas might approach the way Slavoj Zizek reads the Hegelian paradox that "the spirit is a bone" .... I am travelling without any books and so I can't say much more or even verify my quote etc but your the Olson quote brings this idea to mind, in light of the previous email.
>
> Jonathan Ball
>
> On Sun, Jul 5, 2009 at 10:29 PM, Christopher Rizzo <[redacted] wrote:

Jim,

Interesting post. Are you familiar with Charles Olson's work? In a conversation with Herbert Kenny, 1969, Olson says "I mean something I believe we possess crucially. I think our body is our soul. And if you don't have your body as a factor of creation, you don't have a soul." Olson articulates the same idea at other times, too.

In any event, an explanation of the above would prove lengthy, so please feel free to backchannel me if you're so inclined. I'm writing two books on Olson at the moment.

[redacted]

Bests,
Chris

On Sun, Jul 5, 2009 at 3:41 PM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

> it is commonly observed that a great deal of contemporary art/writing involves a double sense of 'the material'. the term is understood to refer not only to the subject matter (the 'standard' understanding in writing) but also the matter of the media in the piece, the material embodiment of the piece. it's also commonly observed that the latter awareness of and approach to composition not solely by ideation, meditation on the subject matter, but also through operation on the material embodiment, has come to be much more widely understood as a part of reading than it was a generation ago. when we encounter work that does not follow the grammars and approaches traditionally associated with work, we inquire into the methods of composition, the approach to materiality, and look for relations between those methods and approaches and the subject matter, or look for the subject matter in the light of those things. and so read differently, thereby. and in this way, we now read some literary work in ways that are closer to

*how
we approach a great deal of visual art.*

*but what i want to get at is something that isn't so commonly observed, at the moment, but may be in the next generation. and that's the relation of awareness of the materiality of writing/art to our ideas of who and what we
are. that's erm awkwardly stated. what i'm trying to get at is this. the whole emphasis on materiality is involved in a larger movement to explore how things like ideation, imagination, the spiritual, beauty, truth, goodness, justice--all our ideals and things normally associated with the immaterial--operate in the material world.*

*in this sense, we might say that the whole contemporary awareness of materiality in art is part of a larger ah spiritual materialism. i googled that term, after it occurred to me, and i assure you i'm using it in a different sense than chÃ¶gyam trungpa, who uses it "to describe mistakes spiritual seekers commit which turn the pursuit of spiritualism into an ego
building and confusion creating endeavor" (wikipedia). instead, i'm refering to a relatively common sort of philosophy in which the material substrate
of
ideation and even the spiritual is affirmed and its relations with even the flightiest of fancies are explored. not to denigrate or dismiss things like spirituality but to explore how they operate materially.*

*perhaps more evidently, now, this is also related to philosophies of mind
in which the materiality of thought itself is affirmed--as a chemical and informational process, however emergent--and the brain and the mind that emerge from its processes are conceived as fully embodied in the material.
so that the idea of being able to create thinking machines (however unlike us) becomes a real possibility. and we are conceptualized as nature's*

> (near?) ultimate machines. and machines are conceptualized not as the simple
> things we once thought they must be but as often very complex biological > creatures that, nonetheless, are embodied in the material world and are, > therefore, subject to the constraints and possibilities of machines in the
> material world.
>
> to wrap it up, we now see the relation between contemporary artistic > emphasis on the materiality of writing/art and the larger moment of
> 'spiritual materialism'.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
> guidelines
>
> guidelines
>
> --
> www.jonathanball.com
> www.jonathanball.blogspot.com
> www.haikuhoroscopes.com

↑ Index

68. carol dorf

Reading on July 11, Cafe Nefali, Berkeley

Mon 6 Jul 2009

Hi everyone,
Carol Dorf will be reading on Saturday, July 11, 6:30-8:30 at Cafe Nefali in Berkeley (on Euclid) with Autumn Stephens and Judy Bebelar.
Best,
Carol

↑ Index

69. mIEKAL aND
appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Tue 7 Jul 2009

Which words make you wince?
Poets have been asked for their most hated words. What are yours?

'What word do you hate and why?' is the intriguing question put to a selection of poets by the Ledbury festival. Philip Wells's reply is the winner for me - 'pulchritude' is certainly up there on my blacklist. He even explains his animosity in suitably poetic terms:

"it violates all the magical impulses of balanced onomatopoeic language - it of course means "beautiful", but its meaning is nothing of the sort, being stuffed to the brim with a brutally latinate cudgel of barbaric consonants. If consonants represent riverbanks and vowels the river's flow, this is the word equivalent of the bottomless abyss of dry bones, where demons gather to spit acid."

For Geraldine Monk, "it's got to be 'redacted' which makes me feel totally sick. It's a brutish sounding word. It doesn't flow, it prods at you in a nasty manner."

Both these poets understand that the key to words that make you feel nauseous is not the meaning - it's easy, after all, to hate the word 'torture' – but something else entirely. Something idiosyncratic, something about the way the word feels in your mouth as you say it. The horrors of 'membrane', for instance. Or the eccentricity of 'gusset'.

Having said that, I'm still trying to get my head around Paul Batchelor's explanation that "I've always hated the word 'APPAL' (or 'appalled' or 'appalling') because I dislike hearing the sound of my name inside other words." I can't work out if there's a case of extreme ego or extreme self-hatred going on there.

And I can't help feeling that Ros Barber misses the point with her rather po-faced reply. "Words are to be loved. Their associations may be unpleasant but words themselves are full of poetry (and history, and geography)," she says. "Delicious vowel sounds and tongue-tickling consonants. There isn't a word in the English language that doesn't excite me if I think about it long enough."

Sorry, Ros, I can't agree. I'm with Rhian Edwards on 'chillax' - "the most unnecessary and obnoxious linguistic blend to have ever been coined". Except possibly for 'no-brainer'...

Whether it's 'hubby' or 'sassy' or 'webinar' – what are the words that make you wince?

(many folks are posting their most hated words in the comments)

http://www.guardian.co.uk/books/booksblog/2009/jul/07/words-wince-hated-poets

↑ Index

70. Nicholas Piombino
Re: mourning & poetics
Tue 7 Jul 2009

This is one of those threads that gets me thinking, and I've been looking forward to every post. I've not read them all, so I apologize if I am repeating anything. Eight years ago when someone I felt particularly close to died, almost literally in my arms, I needed some poetry that would help. What met my need at the time was Lynn Dreyer's book The White Museum (Roof,1986). Here's a sample: http://poetryproject.org/wp-content/uploads/v124-kimberly-lyons-lynne-dreyer .pdf. Something about its heartbeat, its wave-like backbeat, soothed me, the way a mother might rock a child during a stricken moment. That episode of choice in reading pushed me towards thinking about writing as healing, an issue that's been on my mind ever since.

Much of post-avant writing, obviously, employs parody, often of a particularly biting kind. It's no surprise that at a time of ear splitting, mind smashing hypocrisies and assaults on a social/political level that some of our best minds might want to address such grotesque realties in ways that accurately reflect them when modes of earnestness or literal or symbolic or abstract statement, what I once called writing below the din, won't suffice.

At a time of personal crisis, what one might want, what I wanted as I said, are truthful yet gentle words, singing, compassionate, and yes, even quiet words. Still, such occasional personal needs probably do not justify a dominant poetics of quietism in an ongoing way. There is something reassuring and stimulating about experiencing a number of relatively newer voices work to invent and persist with new forms that convincingly reflect the impossibility of accepting as such the eco-socio-political realities we are forced to live in right now. The post avant employs a biting, confrontational voice that says, to me anyway, don't give up trying to dispassionately recognize and reveal what that reality is, as painfully traumatic, as incessantly quotidian as it is coming to be. Forms that meet that continuous nightmare face to face, as unimaginable as it is, or was. Is the most relevant issue in contemporary poetics hegemony, or power, or is it which model, the quietist or the post-avant, suggests the more apropos interpretation of current reality as it actually presents itself?

Either way, life's needs are inordinately complex, and issues of poetic movement aside, one size will not always fit all.

On 7/6/09 9:25 AM, "Mary Jo Malo" <[redacted]> wrote:

> What happened to the original poster of this query? I'd be interested in her thoughts on the matter. (Lauren Russell)
>
> Lauren et al. Thank you for all your references and comments.
>
> What prompted my query is my observation (subjective perspective) that in the initial shock and grief of loss we tend to turn to classical, lyrical, and SoQ poetry rather than post-avant and other named postmodern poetry. Either it is because we are truly at a loss for words; and these poems are the most accessible and easily shared, or we haven't the intellectual and emotional resources to engage more abstract poetry. After a "suitable" period of time, when we've had time to process the grief, the creative process ignites, and we're able to craft and read postmodern or existential poetry which more accurately portrays the loss itself. In other words, words fail, but the art of them doesn't.
>
> Regarding the SoQ/Post-Avant dichotomy itself, what I've managed to glean from casual reading, is the criticism is aimed at ending what Mr. Silliman's considers a hegemony in traditional publishing and academia. My impression (again, subjective and lacking in pedantics) is that among the small press and internet poetics community, the hegemony is strictly post-avant.
>
> Mary

↑ Index

71. William Allegrezza

Series A in Chicago--Hunter and Kasimor

Tue 7 Jul 2009

Series A, July 8th
Series A: Mary Kasimor and Carrie Hunter
July 8, 2009]
Hyde Park Art Center

Come to Series A on July 8th at the Hyde Park Art Center in Chicago to hear Mary Kasimor and Carrie Hunter. The reading takes place from 7-8. The HPAC is at 5020 S. Cornell. Parking is easy, and it's easy to get to on public transportation. BYOB.

http://www.moriapoetry.com/seriesa.html

↑ Index

72. twshaner
Farrah Field & Jared White Reading in Eugene 7/11
Tue 7 Jul 2009

The DIVA Center's New Poetry Series presents an evening of poetry with Farrah Field and Jared White who will be reading from their work at 7:30 PM on Saturday, July 11th. Admission: donation.

Farrah Field lives in Brooklyn , New York , and earned her MFA at Columbia University . Â Her poems have appeared in Chelsea, Harp & Altar, Harpur Palate, Margie, Massachusetts Review, Mississippi Review, Pool, and Typo.

Field's first book of poems, Rising, won Four Way Booksâ€™ 2007 Levis Prize (selected by Tony Hoagland). Rising is a gripping debut collection that offers a new Southern poetry in which Field re-thinks Southern storytelling, turning away from narratives of proud heritage to show that what is alive is closest and most important.

Jared White was born in Boston and has lived in Brooklyn for about eight years during which time he received an MFA in poetry from Columbia . His poems have appeared in previous issues of Barrow Street , Cannibal, Coconut, Fulcrum, Harp & Altar, Horse Less Review, The Modern Review, Sawbuck, and Word For/Word, among other journals. A chapbook of poems entitled Yellowcake appears in the upcoming chapbook collection, Narwhal, from Cannibal Books.

White was awarded a University Writing prize from the Academy of American Poets . He maintains an occasional blog, No No Yes No Yes, at jaredswhite.blogspot.com.

Â

For an interview with the two poets, see:

http://pshares.blogspot.com/2008/06/new-voices-2-and-3-farrah-field-and.html

Â

↑ Index

73. Lauren Russell
Re: mourning & poetics
Tue 7 Jul 2009

Mary, thanks for this observation. I wonder if it is really true that people (or poets specifically?) are more likely to turn to classical or lyric works in the midst of grief. In my experience it is not. At a time in my life when I was grieving deeply, I read Alice Notley's From the Beginning literary dozens of times, carried it around with me in my bag, read and reread it without really thinking about its poetics but finding some purely emotional validation in the work that I wasn't finding elsewhere. It was only later, when I wrote an essay on From the Beginning, that I even noticed that there was a narrative. So I don't think that reading it as a griever required more intellectual resources than reading a lyric work would have, because I wasn't reading on an intellectual level at that time. Does that make sense?

Lauren

Date: Mon, 6 Jul 2009 09:25:57 -0400
From: Mary Jo Malo <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: mourning & poetics

What happened to the original poster of this query? I'd be interested in her thoughts on the matter. (Lauren Russell)

Lauren et al. Thank you for all your references and comments.

What prompted my query is my observation (subjective perspective) that in the initial shock and grief of loss we tend to turn to classical, lyrical, and SoQ poetry rather than post-avant and other named postmodern poetry. Either it is because we are truly at a loss for words; and these poems are the most accessible and easily shared, or we haven't the intellectual and emotional resources to engage more abstract poetry. After a "suitable" period of time, when we've had time to process the grief, the creative process ignites, and we're able to craft and read postmodern or existential poetry which more accurately portrays the loss itself. In other words, words fail, but the art of them doesn't.

Regarding the SoQ/Post-Avant dichotomy itself, what I've managed to glean from casual reading, is the criticism is aimed at ending what Mr. Silliman's considers a hegemony in traditional publishing and academia. My impression (again, subjective and lacking in pedantics) is that among the small press and internet poetics community, the hegemony is strictly post-avant.

Mary

--
http://thisshiningwound.blogspot.com/
http://apophisdeconstructingabsurdity.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

74. David Buuck
David Buuck & Alli Warren @ Books & Bookshelves 7/16
Tue 7 Jul 2009

Alli Warren & David Buuck
reading at B&B Thursday, July 16, 730pm

Books & Bookshelves
99 Sanchez, SF
http://booksandbookshelves.blogspot.com/

Alli Warren is the author of the chapbooks Schema, Yoke, Hounds, Cousins, No Can Do, and with Michael Nicoloff, Bruised Dick. Mitzvah Chaps will soon a publish a work variously known as That's What She Said, To From Where, What Kinds of Flutes We Should Use, and Alienated Beaver. She works in Berkeley and lives in Oakland.

David Buuck lives in Oakland. He is the author of The Shunt & several booklets of cross-genre writing. He is the founder of BARGE (the Bay Area Research Group in Enviro-aesthetics) & a writing teacher.

(apologies for cross-posting)

↑ Index

75. Al Filreis
PoemTalk #19 released: learn the language
Tue 7 Jul 2009

We are pleased to announce the release of PoemTalk #19, a discussion by Tom Mandel, Sarah Dowling and Rodrigo Toscano of Bob Perelman's "The Unruly Child":

http://www.poemtalk.org

PoemTalk programs are also available at the Poetry Foundation (http://www.poetryfoundation.org) and in iTunes. In your iTunes music store, type "PoemTalk" in the searchbox.

Al Filreis
http://www.writing.upenn.edu/~afilreis

↑ Index

76. Ruth Lepson
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Wed 8 Jul 2009

'indeed'

On 7/7/09 8:05 AM, "mIEKAL aND" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Which words make you wince?
> Poets have been asked for their most hated words. What are yours?
>
> 'What word do you hate and why?' is the intriguing question put to a selection of poets by the Ledbury festival. Philip Wells's reply is the winner for me - 'pulchritude' is certainly up there on my blacklist. He even explains his animosity in suitably poetic terms:
>
> "it violates all the magical impulses of balanced onomatopoeic language - it of course means "beautiful", but its meaning is nothing of the sort, being stuffed to the brim with a brutally latinate cudgel of barbaric consonants. If consonants represent riverbanks and vowels the river's flow, this is the word equivalent of the bottomless abyss of dry bones, where demons gather to spit acid."
>
> For Geraldine Monk, "it's got to be 'redacted' which makes me feel totally sick. It's a brutish sounding word. It doesn't flow, it prods at you in a nasty manner."
>
> Both these poets understand that the key to words that make you feel nauseous is not the meaning - it's easy, after all, to hate the word 'torture' but something else entirely. Something idiosyncratic, something about the way the word feels in your mouth as you say it. The horrors of 'membrane', for instance. Or the eccentricity of 'gusset'.
>
> Having said that, I'm still trying to get my head around Paul Batchelor's explanation that "I've always hated the word 'APPAL' (or 'appalled' or 'appalling') because I dislike hearing the sound of my name inside other words." I can't work out if there's a case of extreme ego or extreme self-hatred going on there.
>
> And I can't help feeling that Ros Barber misses the point with her rather po-faced reply. "Words are to be loved. Their associations may be unpleasant but words themselves are full of poetry (and history, and geography)," she says. "Delicious vowel sounds and tongue-tickling consonants. There isn't a word in the English language that doesn't excite me if I think about it long enough."
>
> Sorry, Ros, I can't agree. I'm with Rhian Edwards on 'chillax' - "the most unnecessary and obnoxious linguistic blend to have ever been coined". Except possibly for 'no-brainer'...
>
> Whether it's 'hubby' or 'sassy' or 'webinar' what are the words that make you wince?
>
> (many folks are posting their most hated words in the comments)

> http://www.guardian.co.uk/books/booksblog/2009/jul/07/words-wince-hated-poets

↑ Index

77. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Wed 8 Jul 2009

Ever since I read Catcher on the Rye almost fifty years ago, I hate the word "grand" -in the sense of something being grand- which was also Caulfield's least favorite word.

Ciao,

Murat

On Tue, Jul 7, 2009 at 8:05 AM, mIEKAL aND <[redacted]> wrote:

> Which words make you wince?
> Poets have been asked for their most hated words. What are yours?
>
> 'What word do you hate and why?' is the intriguing question put to a selection of poets by the Ledbury festival. Philip Wells's reply is the winner for me - 'pulchritude' is certainly up there on my blacklist. He even explains his animosity in suitably poetic terms:
>
> "it violates all the magical impulses of balanced onomatopoeic language - it of course means "beautiful", but its meaning is nothing of the sort, being stuffed to the brim with a brutally latinate cudgel of barbaric consonants. If consonants represent riverbanks and vowels the river's flow, this is the word equivalent of the bottomless abyss of dry bones, where demons gather to spit acid."
>
> For Geraldine Monk, "it's got to be 'redacted' which makes me feel totally sick. It's a brutish sounding word. It doesn't flow, it prods at you in a nasty manner."
>
> Both these poets understand that the key to words that make you feel nauseous is not the meaning - it's easy, after all, to hate the word 'torture' – but something else entirely. Something idiosyncratic, something about the way the word feels in your mouth as you say it. The horrors of 'membrane', for instance. Or the eccentricity of 'gusset'.
>
> Having said that, I'm still trying to get my head around Paul Batchelor's explanation that "I've always hated the word 'APPAL' (or 'appalled' or 'appalling') because I dislike hearing the sound of my name inside other words." I can't work out if there's a case of extreme ego or extreme self-hatred going on there.

> And I can't help feeling that Ros Barber misses the point with her rather po-faced reply. "Words are to be loved. Their associations may be unpleasant but words themselves are full of poetry (and history, and geography)," she says. "Delicious vowel sounds and tongue-tickling consonants. There isn't a word in the English language that doesn't excite me if I think about it long enough."
>
> Sorry, Ros, I can't agree. I'm with Rhian Edwards on 'chillax' - "the most unnecessary and obnoxious linguistic blend to have ever been coined". Except possibly for 'no-brainer'...
>
> Whether it's 'hubby' or 'sassy' or 'webinar' – what are the words that make you wince?
>
> (many folks are posting their most hated words in the comments)
>
> http://www.guardian.co.uk/books/booksblog/2009/jul/07/words-wince-hated-poets

↑ Index

78. steve dalachinsky
harold norse
Wed 8 Jul 2009

---

the poet harold norse passed recently and we will be doing a reading etc in his honor at the cornelia st cafe in manhattan july 20th 6 pm

if anyone knows a good source of where i can find info about norse's paintings please let me know

thanks steve

↑ Index

79. steve dalachinsky
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Wed 8 Jul 2009

---

catcher IN the rye

On Wed, 8 Jul 2009 00:11:59 -0400 Murat Nemet-Nejat <[redacted]>
writes:
> Ever since I read Catcher on the Rye almost fifty years ago, I hate > the word
> "grand" -in the sense of something being grand- which was also > Caulfield's

> least favorite word.
>
> Ciao,
>
> Murat
>
>
> On Tue, Jul 7, 2009 at 8:05 AM, mIEKAL aND <[redacted]>
> wrote:
>
> > Which words make you wince?
> > Poets have been asked for their most hated words. What are yours?
> >
> > 'What word do you hate and why?' is the intriguing question put to
> a > > selection of poets by the Ledbury festival. Philip Wells's reply > is the > > winner for me - 'pulchritude' is certainly up there on my > blacklist. He even > > explains his animosity in suitably poetic terms:
> >
> > "it violates all the magical impulses of balanced onomatopoeic > language - > > it of course means "beautiful", but its meaning is nothing of the > sort, > > being stuffed to the brim with a brutally latinate cudgel of > barbaric > > consonants. If consonants represent riverbanks and vowels the > river's flow, > > this is the word equivalent of the bottomless abyss of dry bones,
> where > > demons gather to spit acid."
> >
> > For Geraldine Monk, "it's got to be 'redacted' which makes me feel > totally > > sick. It's a brutish sounding word. It doesn't flow, it prods at > you in a > > nasty manner."
> >
> > Both these poets understand that the key to words that make you > feel > > nauseous is not the meaning - it's easy, after all, to hate the > word

> > 'torture' – but something else entirely. Something idiosyncratic, > something > > about the way the word feels in your mouth as you say it. The > horrors of > > 'membrane', for instance. Or the eccentricity of 'gusset'.
> >
> > Having said that, I'm still trying to get my head around Paul > Batchelor's > > explanation that "I've always hated the word 'APPAL' (or > 'appalled' or
> > 'appalling') because I dislike hearing the sound of my name inside > other > > words." I can't work out if there's a case of extreme ego or > extreme > > self-hatred going on there.
> >
> > And I can't help feeling that Ros Barber misses the point with her > rather > > po-faced reply. "Words are to be loved. Their associations may be > unpleasant > > but words themselves are full of poetry (and history, and > geography)," she > > says. "Delicious vowel sounds and tongue-tickling consonants.
> There isn't a > > word in the English language that doesn't excite me if I think > about it long > > enough."
> >
> > Sorry, Ros, I can't agree. I'm with Rhian Edwards on 'chillax' -
> "the most > > unnecessary and obnoxious linguistic blend to have ever been > coined". Except > > possibly for 'no-brainer'...
> >
> > Whether it's 'hubby' or 'sassy' or 'webinar' – what are the words > that make > > you wince?
> >
> > (many folks are posting their most hated words in the comments)
> >
> >

> >
>
http://www.guardian.co.uk/books/booksblog/2009/jul/07/words-wince-hated-poets
> guidelines
> >
>
>
>

↑ Index

80. Shankar, Ravi (English)

Drunken Boat's special tenth anniversary issue is live!

Wed 8 Jul 2009

Drunken Boat, international online journal of the arts, celebrates its tenth anniversary with Issue#10, featuring ten folios and over three hundred writers and artists. Including archival items from the Black Mountain School(1933-1957), 100 contemporary poets, Conceptual Fiction, Electronic Arts, MisTranslation, Visual and Video Poetry, Nonfiction, arts from Asia and by Tribal Peoples, and our Best in Show, a look back at the last 10 years of Drunken Boat. Now live online and featuring a new blog at:

http://www.drunkenboat.com

Join us on Friday, July 10th at the SoHo20 Gallery in NYC to celebrate the launch of this extraordinary issue.

Friday, July 10th
6:00 pm to 8:00 pm
SoHo20 Gallery
511 West 25th St.
Suite 605
NEW YORK, NY 10001

Thanks for your continued support!

The Editors, http://www.drunkenboat.com

****
Ravi Shankar
Ed., http://www.drunkenboat.com
Poet-in-Residence
Associate Professor
CCSU - English Dept.

[redacted]

↑ Index

81. Dan Glass
Re: mourning & poetics
Wed 8 Jul 2009

I wrote on some of these issues in a piece on Charles Bernstein's Girly Man for Jacket a couple years ago, here:

http://jacketmagazine.com/33/thomas-glass-bernstein.shtml

Specifically, how the poet's poet's response to 9/11, his grief around the event, creates a lyric (and even, as Lauren puts it, a classical, in fact explicitly Romantic) turn in the book. That lyric turn turns out to make the collection 'accessible' according to the majority of reviews.

Seconding the interest in this thread,,,

Dan

On Tue, Jul 7, 2009 at 6:29 AM, Nicholas Piombino
<[redacted]>wrote:

> This is one of those threads that gets me thinking, and I've been looking forward to every post. I've not read them all, so I apologize if I am repeating anything. Eight years ago when someone I felt particularly close to died, almost literally in my arms, I needed some poetry that would help. What met my need at the time was Lynn Dreyer's book The White Museum (Roof,1986). Here's a sample:
>
> http://poetryproject.org/wp-content/uploads/v124-kimberly-lyons-lynne-dreyer .pdf<http://poetryproject.org/wp-content/uploads/v124-kimberly-lyons-lynne-dreyer %0A.pdf>.
> Something about its heartbeat, its wave-like backbeat, soothed me, the way a mother might rock a child during a stricken moment. That episode of choice in reading pushed me towards thinking about writing as healing, an issue that's been on my mind ever since.
>
> Much of post-avant writing, obviously, employs parody, often of a particularly biting kind. It's no surprise that at a time of ear splitting, mind smashing hypocrisies and assaults on a social/political level that some > of our best minds might want to address such grotesque realties in ways that > accurately reflect them when modes of earnestness or literal or symbolic or abstract statement, what I once called writing below the din, won't suffice.

At a time of personal crisis, what one might want, what I wanted as I said, are truthful yet gentle words, singing, compassionate, and yes, even quiet words. Still, such occasional personal needs probably do not justify a dominant poetics of quietism in an ongoing way. There is something reassuring and stimulating about experiencing a number of relatively newer voices work to invent and persist with new forms that convincingly reflect the impossibility of accepting as such the eco-socio-political realities we are forced to live in right now. The post avant employs a biting, confrontational voice that says, to me anyway, don't give up trying to dispassionately recognize and reveal what that reality is, as painfully traumatic, as incessantly quotidian as it is coming to be. Forms that meet that continuous nightmare face to face, as unimaginable as it is, or was. Is the most relevant issue in contemporary poetics hegemony, or power, or is it which model, the quietist or the post-avant, suggests the more apropos interpretation of current reality as it actually presents itself?

Either way, life's needs are inordinately complex, and issues of poetic movement aside, one size will not always fit all.

On 7/6/09 9:25 AM, "Mary Jo Malo" <[redacted]> wrote:

What happened to the original poster of this query? I'd be interested in her thoughts on the matter. (Lauren Russell)

Lauren et al. Thank you for all your references and comments.

What prompted my query is my observation (subjective perspective) that in the initial shock and grief of loss we tend to turn to classical, lyrical, and SoQ poetry rather than post-avant and other named postmodern poetry. Either it is because we are truly at a loss for words; and these poems are the most accessible and easily shared, or we haven't the intellectual and emotional resources to engage more abstract poetry. After a "suitable" period of time, when we've had time to process the grief, the creative process ignites, and we're able to craft and read postmodern or existential poetry which more accurately portrays the loss itself. In other words, words fail, but the art of them doesn't.

Regarding the SoQ/Post-Avant dichotomy itself, what I've managed to glean from casual reading, is the criticism is aimed at ending what Mr. Silliman's considers a hegemony in traditional publishing and academia. My impression (again, subjective and lacking in pedantics) is that among the small press and internet poetics community, the hegemony is strictly post-avant.

> Mary

↑ Index

82. Mary Kasimor
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Wed 8 Jul 2009

I really hate words that have a corporate efficiency purpose, usually words that were nouns but have become verbs.

--- On Tue, 7/7/09, Ruth Lepson <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Ruth Lepson <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
To: [redacted]
Date: Tuesday, July 7, 2009, 11:11 PM

'indeed'

On 7/7/09 8:05 AM, "mIEKAL aND" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Which words make you wince?
> Poets have been asked for their most hated words. What are yours?
>
> 'What word do you hate and why?' is the intriguing question put to a selection of poets by the Ledbury festival. Philip Wells's reply is the winner for me - 'pulchritude' is certainly up there on my blacklist. He even explains his animosity in suitably poetic terms:
>
> "it violates all the magical impulses of balanced onomatopoeic language - it of course means "beautiful", but its meaning is nothing of the sort, being stuffed to the brim with a brutally latinate cudgel of barbaric consonants. If consonants represent riverbanks and vowels the river's flow, this is the word equivalent of the bottomless abyss of dry bones, where demons gather to spit acid."
>
> For Geraldine Monk, "it's got to be 'redacted' which makes me feel totally sick. It's a brutish sounding word. It doesn't flow, it prods at you in a nasty manner."
>
> Both these poets understand that the key to words that make you feel nauseous is not the meaning - it's easy, after all, to hate the word 'torture' but something else entirely. Something idiosyncratic, something about the way the word feels in your mouth as you say it. The horrors of 'membrane', for instance. Or the eccentricity of 'gusset'.

> Having said that, I'm still trying to get my head around Paul Batchelor's explanation that "I've always hated the word 'APPAL' (or 'appalled' or 'appalling') because I dislike hearing the sound of my name inside other words." I can't work out if there's a case of extreme ego or extreme self-hatred going on there.
>
> And I can't help feeling that Ros Barber misses the point with her rather po-faced reply. "Words are to be loved. Their associations may be unpleasant but words themselves are full of poetry (and history, and geography)," she says. "Delicious vowel sounds and tongue-tickling consonants. There isn't a word in the English language that doesn't excite me if I think about it long enough."
>
> Sorry, Ros, I can't agree. I'm with Rhian Edwards on 'chillax' - "the most unnecessary and obnoxious linguistic blend to have ever been coined". Except possibly for 'no-brainer'...
>
> Whether it's 'hubby' or 'sassy' or 'webinar' what are the words that make you wince?
>
> (many folks are posting their most hated words in the comments)
>
> http://www.guardian.co.uk/books/booksblog/2009/jul/07/words-wince-hated-poets

↑ Index

83. Allan Revich

Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude

Wed 8 Jul 2009

What = "poetics"
Why = it's a word than makes me wince.

-----Original Message-----
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of mIEKAL aND Sent: Tuesday, July 07, 2009 8:06 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: appalling, redacted, pulchritude

Which words make you wince?
Poets have been asked for their most hated words. What are yours?

'What word do you hate and why?' is the intriguing question put to a selection of poets by the Ledbury festival. Philip Wells's reply is the winner for me - 'pulchritude' is certainly up there on my blacklist. He even explains his animosity in suitably poetic terms:

"it violates all the magical impulses of balanced onomatopoeic language - it of course means "beautiful", but its meaning is nothing of the sort, being stuffed to the brim with a brutally latinate cudgel of barbaric consonants. If consonants represent riverbanks and vowels the river's flow, this is the word equivalent of the bottomless abyss of dry bones, where demons gather to spit acid."

For Geraldine Monk, "it's got to be 'redacted' which makes me feel totally sick. It's a brutish sounding word. It doesn't flow, it prods at you in a nasty manner."

Both these poets understand that the key to words that make you feel nauseous is not the meaning - it's easy, after all, to hate the word 'torture' - but something else entirely. Something idiosyncratic, something about the way the word feels in your mouth as you say it. The horrors of 'membrane', for instance. Or the eccentricity of 'gusset'.

Having said that, I'm still trying to get my head around Paul Batchelor's explanation that "I've always hated the word 'APPAL' (or 'appalled' or 'appalling') because I dislike hearing the sound of my name inside other words." I can't work out if there's a case of extreme ego or extreme self-hatred going on there.

And I can't help feeling that Ros Barber misses the point with her rather po-faced reply. "Words are to be loved. Their associations may be unpleasant but words themselves are full of poetry (and history, and geography)," she says. "Delicious vowel sounds and tongue-tickling consonants. There isn't a word in the English language that doesn't excite me if I think about it long enough."

Sorry, Ros, I can't agree. I'm with Rhian Edwards on 'chillax' - "the most unnecessary and obnoxious linguistic blend to have ever been coined". Except possibly for 'no-brainer'...

Whether it's 'hubby' or 'sassy' or 'webinar' - what are the words that make you wince?

(many folks are posting their most hated words in the comments)

http://www.guardian.co.uk/books/booksblog/2009/jul/07/words-wince-hated-poet s

↑ Index

84. Mary Kasimor
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Wed 8 Jul 2009

The word that I was looking for that I just HATE is "impacted." Mary

--- On Tue, 7/7/09, Ruth Lepson <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Ruth Lepson <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
To: [redacted]
Date: Tuesday, July 7, 2009, 11:11 PM

'indeed'

On 7/7/09 8:05 AM, "mIEKAL aND" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Which words make you wince?
> Poets have been asked for their most hated words. What are yours?
>
> 'What word do you hate and why?' is the intriguing question put to a selection of poets by the Ledbury festival. Philip Wells's reply is the winner for me - 'pulchritude' is certainly up there on my blacklist. He even explains his animosity in suitably poetic terms:
>
> "it violates all the magical impulses of balanced onomatopoeic language - it of course means "beautiful", but its meaning is nothing of the sort, being stuffed to the brim with a brutally latinate cudgel of barbaric consonants. If consonants represent riverbanks and vowels the river's flow, this is the word equivalent of the bottomless abyss of dry bones, where demons gather to spit acid."
>
> For Geraldine Monk, "it's got to be 'redacted' which makes me feel totally sick. It's a brutish sounding word. It doesn't flow, it prods at you in a nasty manner."
>
> Both these poets understand that the key to words that make you feel nauseous is not the meaning - it's easy, after all, to hate the word 'torture' but something else entirely. Something idiosyncratic, something about the way the word feels in your mouth as you say it. The horrors of 'membrane', for instance. Or the eccentricity of 'gusset'.
>
> Having said that, I'm still trying to get my head around Paul Batchelor's explanation that "I've always hated the word 'APPAL' (or 'appalled' or 'appalling') because I dislike hearing the sound of my name inside other words." I can't work out if there's a case of extreme ego or extreme self-hatred going on there.
>
> And I can't help feeling that Ros Barber misses the point with her rather po-faced reply. "Words are to be loved. Their associations may be unpleasant but words themselves are full of poetry (and history, and geography)," she says. "Delicious vowel sounds and tongue-tickling consonants. There isn't a word in the English language that doesn't excite me if I think about it long enough."
>
> Sorry, Ros, I can't agree. I'm with Rhian Edwards on 'chillax' - "the > most unnecessary and obnoxious linguistic blend to have ever been coined". Except possibly for 'no-brainer'...

>
> Whether it's 'hubby' or 'sassy' or 'webinar' what are the words that make you wince?
>
> (many folks are posting their most hated words in the comments)
>
> http://www.guardian.co.uk/books/booksblog/2009/jul/07/words-wince-hated-poets

↑ Index

85. David Chirot

Re: mourning & poetics

Wed 8 Jul 2009

I apologize i neglected before recommend a very great contemporary work on grief and mourning, the best in poetry i am aware of personally, --though i like also much alice notley's-- and the most interesting, experimental and engaging one--is THE LIGHT SANG AS IT LEFT YOUR EYES Our Autobiography as it is the lives of both Eileen and her father during the their life times and interrelationships before and after his dying.

(The word Sang is on the cover in red while the the others are in black=--as "sang" in French means blood"--so--a blood song, the two, father and daughter "being of the same blood," as family and also as Filipinos.)

TOf all books on this subject i know of, this one is the most beautiful arcing , aching and joyful presentations of what Freud called "The Work of Mourning."

The books uses a great many different forms and genres of poerey, including the visual, ekphrasis, hay(na)ku, blog posts and a series of "Cantos which has redacted and blank Cantos among them. There are also "playing a part" the translations by contemporary poets of other poets and poems created in English out of Eileen's collaboration's with other poets still. There are also translation by the author, as well as some poetry that simply appears untranslated,. History and place play a large role also--the Marcos Regime Era that Eileen grew up in, the Independence documents of the Philippines, and events real and fictional in the world outside the Philippines which are used as "narrative devices" as it were in creating a book long series of "songs" and "cantos" which chart the movement of emotions through time, preceding the old age, illness and death of the poet's father, and those which are in flux before and after death, with a theme of reconciliation. (Even with Ferdinand Marcos--whose Martial law created in Eileen's child a kindof mixed Being of half God and half God the Father as Dictator. (one interpretation of this--).

On Wed, Jul 8, 2009 at 7:37 AM, Dan Glass <[redacted]> wrote:

I wrote on some of these issues in a piece on Charles Bernstein's Girly Man for Jacket a couple years ago, here:

http://jacketmagazine.com/33/thomas-glass-bernstein.shtml

Specifically, how the poet's poet's response to 9/11, his grief around the event, creates a lyric (and even, as Lauren puts it, a classical, in fact explicitly Romantic) turn in the book. That lyric turn turns out to make the collection 'accessible' according to the majority of reviews.

Seconding the interest in this thread,,,

Dan

On Tue, Jul 7, 2009 at 6:29 AM, Nicholas Piombino
<[redacted]>wrote:

This is one of those threads that gets me thinking, and I've been looking forward to every post. I've not read them all, so I apologize if I am repeating anything. Eight years ago when someone I felt particularly close to died, almost literally in my arms, I needed some poetry that would help.
What met my need at the time was Lynn Dreyer's book The White Museum (Roof,1986). Here's a sample:

http://poetryproject.org/wp-content/uploads/v124-kimberly-lyons-lynne-dreyer.pdf<
http://poetryproject.org/wp-content/uploads/v124-kimberly-lyons-lynne-dreyer%0A.pdf
.
Something about its heartbeat, its wave-like backbeat, soothed me, the way a mother might rock a child during a stricken moment. That episode of choice in reading pushed me towards thinking about writing as healing, an issue that's been on my mind ever since.

Much of post-avant writing, obviously, employs parody, often of a particularly biting kind. It's no surprise that at a time of ear splitting, mind smashing hypocrisies and assaults on a social/political level that some of our best minds might want to address such grotesque realties in ways that accurately reflect them when modes of earnestness or literal or symbolic or abstract statement, what I once called writing below the din, won't suffice.

At a time of personal crisis, what one might want, what I wanted as I said, are truthful yet gentle words, singing, compassionate, and yes, even quiet words. Still, such occasional personal needs probably do not justify a dominant poetics of quietism in an ongoing way. There is something reassuring and stimulating about experiencing a number of relatively newer voices work to invent and persist with new forms that convincingly reflect the impossibility of accepting as such the eco-socio-political realities we are forced to live in right now. The post avant employs a biting, confrontational voice that says, to me anyway, don't give up trying to dispassionately recognize and reveal what that reality is, as painfully traumatic, as incessantly quotidian as it is coming to be. Forms that meet that continuous nightmare face to face, as unimaginable as it is, or was. Is the most relevant issue in contemporary poetics hegemony, or power, or is it which model, the quietist or the post-avant, suggests the more apropos interpretation of current reality as it actually presents itself?

Either way, life's needs are inordinately complex, and issues of poetic movement aside, one size will not always fit all.

On 7/6/09 9:25 AM, "Mary Jo Malo" <[redacted]> wrote:

What happened to the original poster of this query? I'd be interested in her thoughts on the matter. (Lauren Russell)

Lauren et al. Thank you for all your references and comments.

What prompted my query is my observation (subjective perspective) that in the initial shock and grief of loss we tend to turn to classical, lyrical, and SoQ poetry rather than post-avant and other named postmodern poetry. Either it is because we are truly at a loss for words; and these poems are the most accessible and easily shared, or we haven't the intellectual and emotional resources to engage more abstract poetry. After a "suitable" period of time, when we've had time to process the grief, the creative process ignites, and we're able to craft and read postmodern or existential poetry which more accurately portrays the loss itself. In other words, words fail, but the art of them doesn't.

> Regarding the SoQ/Post-Avant dichotomy itself, what I've managed to glean from casual reading, is the criticism is aimed at ending what Mr. Silliman's considers a hegemony in traditional publishing and academia. My impression (again, subjective and lacking in pedantics) is that among the small press and internet poetics community, the hegemony is strictly post-avant.
>
> Mary
>
> guidelines

↑ Index

86. Camille Martin
rogue embryo's blog
Wed 8 Jul 2009

Hi, please visit the blog of the last person in the world to get one:

http://www.rogueembryo.wordpress.com

Camille Martin

↑ Index

87. amy king
Stain's Hunter College MFA Spectacular in a new space!
Wed 8 Jul 2009

Hunter College MFA Spectacular in a new space!

Banias, Colic, Funaro, Hoffman, Joblin & Kearns

The Stain of Poetry: A Reading Series

Saturday, July 11, 2009, 6:00pm - 8:00pm

south 4th bar

90 South 4th Street at Berry St

Brooklyn, NY (L Train to Bedford)

In a Very Special Issue of Stain, we're test-driving a friendly new space in Williamsburg and celebrating Hunter's finest.

Ari Banias has poems in recent or upcoming issues of Literary Imagination, EOAGH, The Cincinnati Review, Field, Aufgabe, The Portable Boog Reader, and elsewhere. He sometimes teaches writing and literature at Hunter College, and often sells books and hosts readings at Unnameable Books, in Prospect Heights.

Danica Colic lives in Brooklyn and teaches writing at Hunter College, where she also received her MFA. Her poems have appeared in Terrain, RealPoetik, Arts & Letters, and Pebble Lake Review.

Maya Funaro's chapbook Setting in Motion was released this spring by Fox Point Press. She completed her MFA in poetry at Hunter College in May of 2008. She holds a B.A. in Visual Art from Brown University and has studied printmaking, bookbinding and letterpress printing in Providence, Bologna and New York. Born and raised in South Jersey, she currently makes her home in Sunset Park, Brooklyn.

Colie Hoffman lives and writes in New York, though she also calls North Carolina home. She received her MFA from Hunter College in 2009. Her work has appeared in Blood Orange Review, The Furnace Review and Obsidian.

Alana Joblin grew up in Philadelphia. Prior to making New York City her home eight years ago, she earned her B.A. at Oberlin College, studying English and Religion, followed by seven months of writing poems in Israel's desert, as part of the Arad Arts Project. Alana earned her MFA in poetry at Hunter College, where she also teaches undergraduate creative writing. Her work has appeared in Quarterly West, Crab Orchard Review, Womens Collaborative Circle and RealPoetik.

Caledonia Kearns lives in Brooklyn with her daughter and is the editor of two anthologies of Irish American women's writing. A proud graduate of Hunter College's MFA program, a selection of her poems were recently published in The New Haven Review.

And we're proud to introduce you to South 4th Bar: http://www.south4thbar.com/, a laid-back neighborhood haunt supportive of local art! Excellent brews & cocktails await.

South 4th Bar

90 South 4th St

(between Wythe Ave & Berry St)

Williamsburg, Brooklyn

Take L to Bedford Ave or J, M, Z trains to Marcy Ave

http://stainofpoetry.com

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

88. steve russell
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Wed 8 Jul 2009

The perfect word is the ugliest word: EAT.

--- On Wed, 7/8/09, Murat Nemet-Nejat <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Murat Nemet-Nejat <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
To: [redacted]
Date: Wednesday, July 8, 2009, 12:11 AM

Ever since I read Catcher on the Rye almost fifty years ago, I hate the word "grand" -in the sense of something being grand- which was also Caulfield's least favorite word.

Ciao,

Murat

On Tue, Jul 7, 2009 at 8:05 AM, mIEKAL aND <[redacted]> wrote:

> Which words make you wince?
> Poets have been asked for their most hated words. What are yours?
>
> 'What word do you hate and why?' is the intriguing question put to a selection of poets by the Ledbury festival. Philip Wells's reply is the winner for me - 'pulchritude' is certainly up there on my blacklist. He even explains his animosity in suitably poetic terms:
>
> "it violates all the magical impulses of balanced onomatopoeic language -

it of course means "beautiful", but its meaning is nothing of the sort, being stuffed to the brim with a brutally latinate cudgel of barbaric consonants. If consonants represent riverbanks and vowels the river's flow, this is the word equivalent of the bottomless abyss of dry bones, where demons gather to spit acid."

For Geraldine Monk, "it's got to be 'redacted' which makes me feel totally sick. It's a brutish sounding word. It doesn't flow, it prods at you in a nasty manner."

Both these poets understand that the key to words that make you feel nauseous is not the meaning - it's easy, after all, to hate the word 'torture' â€“ but something else entirely. Something idiosyncratic, something about the way the word feels in your mouth as you say it. The horrors of 'membrane', for instance. Or the eccentricity of 'gusset'.

Having said that, I'm still trying to get my head around Paul Batchelor's explanation that "I've always hated the word 'APPAL' (or 'appalled' or 'appalling') because I dislike hearing the sound of my name inside other words." I can't work out if there's a case of extreme ego or extreme self-hatred going on there.

And I can't help feeling that Ros Barber misses the point with her rather po-faced reply. "Words are to be loved. Their associations may be unpleasant but words themselves are full of poetry (and history, and geography)," she says. "Delicious vowel sounds and tongue-tickling consonants. There isn't a word in the English language that doesn't excite me if I think about it long enough."

Sorry, Ros, I can't agree. I'm with Rhian Edwards on 'chillax' - "the most unnecessary and obnoxious linguistic blend to have ever been coined". Except possibly for 'no-brainer'...

Whether it's 'hubby' or 'sassy' or 'webinar' â€“ what are the words that make you wince?

(many folks are posting their most hated words in the comments)

http://www.guardian.co.uk/books/booksblog/2009/jul/07/words-wince-hated-poets

↑ Index

89. Lauren Russell
Re: mourning & poetics
Wed 8 Jul 2009

This is wonderfully stated. Thanks.

Lauren

Date: Tue, 7 Jul 2009 09:29:00 -0400
From: Nicholas Piombino <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: mourning & poetics

This is one of those threads that gets me thinking, and I've been looking forward to every post. I've not read them all, so I apologize if I am repeating anything. Eight years ago when someone I felt particularly close to died, almost literally in my arms, I needed some poetry that would help. What met my need at the time was Lynn Dreyer's book The White Museum (Roof,1986). Here's a sample: http://poetryproject.org/wp-content/uploads/v124-kimberly-lyons-lynne-dreyer .pdf. Something about its heartbeat, its wave-like backbeat, soothed me, the way a mother might rock a child during a stricken moment. That episode of choice in reading pushed me towards thinking about writing as healing, an issue that's been on my mind ever since.

Much of post-avant writing, obviously, employs parody, often of a particularly biting kind. It's no surprise that at a time of ear splitting, mind smashing hypocrisies and assaults on a social/political level that some of our best minds might want to address such grotesque realties in ways that accurately reflect them when modes of earnestness or literal or symbolic or abstract statement, what I once called writing below the din, won't suffice.

At a time of personal crisis, what one might want, what I wanted as I said, are truthful yet gentle words, singing, compassionate, and yes, even quiet words. Still, such occasional personal needs probably do not justify a dominant poetics of quietism in an ongoing way. There is something reassuring and stimulating about experiencing a number of relatively newer voices work to invent and persist with new forms that convincingly reflect the impossibility of accepting as such the eco-socio-political realities we are forced to live in right now. The post avant employs a biting, confrontational voice that says, to me anyway, don't give up trying to dispassionately recognize and reveal what that reality is, as painfully traumatic, as incessantly quotidian as it is coming to be. Forms that meet that continuous nightmare face to face, as unimaginable as it is, or was. Is the most relevant issue in contemporary poetics hegemony, or power, or is it which model, the quietist or the post-avant, suggests the more apropos interpretation of current reality as it actually presents itself?

Either way, life's needs are inordinately complex, and issues of poetic movement aside, one size will not always fit all.

↑ Index

90. amy king

CFW - Call for Essays/Stories: Voices Through the Wall: Prisoners Write About Prisons [on behalf of Annie Finch]

Wed 8 Jul 2009

Call for Essays/StoriesVoices Through the Wall: Prisoners Write About PrisonsÂ Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â The editors seek non-fiction essays and prose fiction by men and women currently incarcerated in American prisons. We believe that inmates constitute a rich but untapped intellectual and cultural resource.Â We hope to create a collection that mines the experience and wisdom of inmates, in order to offer a better understanding of the prisonâ€™s place in society.Â We seek authors who write with the authority that only incarceration can bring.Â We want their voices to become part of a public dialogue about the prison system, its culture, the environment of todayâ€™s facilities, etc.Â Â

We are open to many styles, but all submitted essays/prose must draw on first-hand experience.Some topics of interest to us are: conditions; coping; visions of a better way to operate (both personally and institutionally); self-reflection on the work of dealing with time inside; the challenges of physical and psychological survival; personal histories; what works and why it works; what doesnâ€™t work and why it doesnâ€™t work, etc. Â We are also very open to seeing what we hadn't looked for.Â

Â Â Voices Through the Wall will showcase what the incarcerated have to offer to the public.Â We value polished, quality writing that takes thoughtful positions even on the most passionately felt ideas.
***
Word Limit: 5,000 words (approximately 15 double-spaced pages).Â Please number pages.Â Clearly composed handwritten manuscripts are also acceptable.Â There is no reading fee. Â Authors should not send the sole copies of their work.Â (Keep a copy of your own.)Â Please include sufficient contact information (direct or through a program supervisor) so that we can inform authors of our decisions.Â All contributors will be notified of results.Â
If possible, include postage (44-cent stamp) so we can mail our decision.Â We cannot return manuscripts (which will be recycled).

Program supervisors are encouraged to solicit high-quality work and submit essays together in a single mailing.
The editors may request revisions of promising work.
Send work to:Â â€œVoices Through the Wallâ€198 College Hill RoadClinton, NY 13323 Submission
deadline: March 1, 2010

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

91. Camille Martin
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Wed 8 Jul 2009

wuss

↑ Index

92. charles alexander
chax press now
Thu 9 Jul 2009

Chax Press is doing its best to get through a hot summer of publishing 7 books! Also creating new handprinted works, planning classes, youth programs, planning for the long range. And Chax Press needs help!

Wouldn't it be great if every local friend, long-distance friend, personal friend, poetry friend, poetics friend, pog friend, & every facebook friend, & friends on other lists, donated $10 or $5?! Yes! that's what we need, that's what it takes. Or $11 or $6 to more than make up for the cut paypal takes.

Our goal is 1000 contributions of $10 or $11 or $5 or $6.

Go to http://chax.org/donate and DO IT NOW, please! We are nonprofit and it IS tax deductible. Go! more poems, please.

If you've already given this spring or summer, then this message really isn't for you, unless you want it to be.

We're also creating a new electronic newsletter, and a donation will definitely put you on the list to receive it. Of course, if you don't want to receive it, just let us know.

In a few days we'll announce one new book, and two more in a few weeks, and several more at the end of the summer! This is the beginning. A leap is now!

Ready: 1, 2, 3, contribute!

Charles Alexander
Chax Press
411 N 7th Ave Ste 103
Tucson, AZ 85705-8388
[redacted]

↑ Index

93. David A. Kirschenbaum

This Wed../Douglas Rothschild Book Party & Stop Making Sense Live

Thu 9 Jul 2009

---

please forward

Boog City?s Classic Albums Live presents

Douglas Rothschild Book Party
& Talking Heads' Stop Making Sense Live

Wed., July 15, 7:00 p.m.
Free with a two-drink minimum

Sidewalk Café
94 Ave. A
NYC

*Doug reads from His Book Theogony plus sets from his hand-picked readers:
?Jim Behrle
?John Coletti
?Arlo Quint

*and Doug's album pick, Talking Heads' Stop Making Sense performed live by (and with solo sets from):

?Dibson T. Hoffweiler
?I feel tractor

?Bob Kerr
?Limp Richard

Hosted and curated by Boog City editor and publisher David Kirschenbaum

Directions: F/V to 2nd Ave., L to 1st Ave.
Venue is at E. 6th St.

For further information:
212-842-BOOG (2664), [redacted]

Boog City
http://www.welcometoboogcity.com

Boog City is a New York City-based small press now in its 18th year and East Village community newspaper of the same name. It has also published 35 volumes of poetry and various magazines, featuring work by Allen Ginsberg and Lawrence Ferlinghetti among others, and theme issues on baseball, women?s writing, and Louisville, Ky. It hosts and curates two regular performance series?d.a. levy lives: celebrating the renegade press, where each month a non-NYC small press and its writers and a musical act of their choosing is hosted at Chelsea?s ACA Galleries; and Classic Albums Live, where up to 13 local musical acts perform a classic album live at venues including The Bowery Poetry Club, Cake Shop, CBGB?s, and The Knitting Factory. Past albums have included Elvis Costello, My Aim is True; Nirvana, Nevermind; and Liz Phair, Exile in Guyville.

Jim Behrle
http://americanpoetry.biz

Jim Behrle lives in Brooklyn.

John Coletti

John Coletti is the author of The New Normalcy (Boog Literature), Physical Kind (Yo-Yo-Labs), and Same Enemy Rainbow (fewer & further).

Dibson T. Hoffweiler
http://www.myspace.com/dibson

The latest in a long line of quirky anti-folk ingenues, including Beck, Adam Green and Jeffrey Lewis, Dibs applies that time-honored tradition of off-beat songwriting to his own private world of sugar factories, laundry baskets and ducks. With a low voice, both sweet and deadpan, and a guitar-style both virtuosic and sloppy, Dibson Hoffweiler carves out a space of compassion and intelligence in a landscape of boring love songs and thinly-veiled songwriterly misogyny.

I feel tractor
http://www.myspace.com/ifeeltractor

I feel tractor performs music to "make your children feel funky like a donkey."

Bob Kerr

Bob Kerr was a founding member of the Minneapolis band Alien Detector. He has written songs for his plays Meet Uncle Casper, Kingdom Gone, and End Times, and wrote the book and lyrics for the 10-minute musical The Sticky-Fingered Fiancée.

Limp Richard
http://www.myspace.com/toddcarlstrom

Limp Richard's alter ego, Todd Carlstrom, has played in NYC bands for years (The Domestics, Heroes of the Alamo, Dirty Vicars, and currently, Todd Carlstrom and the Clamour). Limp rarely performs live, preferring to wait until Boog City presses him into service. His influences include, but are not limited to, squid, bacon, epilepsy medication, and the guy sitting next to you as you read this. He is managed by the beautiful, but criminally pathological, Remorah.

Arlo Quint
http://www.puppyflowers.com/9/quint.html

Arlo Quint is the author of Days On End (Open 24 Hours) and Photogenic Memory (Lame House).

Douglas Rothschild

Douglas Rothschild's life has been one long miasma of failure, disappointment, coffee, and overarching desire. Though he has not yet accomplished anything of note, Mr. Rothschild intends to continue on for some time yet. Some of this life, such as it is, has been chronicled in Bill Luoma's Works & Days and Jennifer Moxley's The Middle Room.

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W.28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)
F: [redacted]

↑ Index

94. steve dalachinsky
haiku reading
Thu 9 Jul 2009

The Living Theater Poetry Series
presents

SUMMER PLUMS FESTIVAL OF HAIKU

On Wednesday, July 22, 2009, 8pm

featuring:

Ernie Conrick, Steve Dalachinsky, John Farris, Tsaurah Litzky, Eve Packer, Tony Pupello, Cor Van Den Heuvel & Yuko Otomo

plus:

Haiku Writing Contest/Haiku Open Reading

curated by Tsaurah Litzky & Yuko Otomo series director: Dorothy Friedman August

$ 5

The Living Theater
19-21 Clinton St.
(between Houston & Stanton Sts.)
NYC

↑ Index

95. Kyle Schlesinger
ED SANDERS : GLYPHS 1962-2009 opens Friday July 10th at 6pm
Thu 9 Jul 2009

One final reminder...
KS

ED SANDERS : GLYPHS 1962-2009

A rare exhibition of nearly half a century of Ed Sanders?s glyph-poems produced between 1962 and 2009 will be on display at The Arm in Williamsburg [Brooklyn, NY] from July 10 through July 31. An opening reception will be held on July 10th at 6PM.

Building on a long history of utilizing a highly visible language that continues into the present, Sanders?s glyph-poems fuse image with text, and image as text. Political, personal, ephemeral, historical, uncanny, and humorous¡ªthe glyph-poems on display at The Arm appear in several different mediums, including original drawings, collages, mimeographed pages from Fuck You/ A Magazine of the Arts (1962-'65), plus a number featuring color images, and an artist?s book. Over 200 Glyph-works will be featured in the show.

In addition, Glyphs 1962-2009 will feature new letterpress prints and a limited edition catalogue produced on location at The Arm.

Edward Sanders is a poet, historian and musician. He is at work, since 1998, on a 9-volume America, a History in Verse. The first five volumes, tracing the history of the 20th century, have been completed and published in a fully indexed CD format, over 2,000 pages in length, by Blake Route Press. Another recent writing project is Poems for New Orleans, a book and CD on the history of that great city, and its tribulations during and after hurricane Katrina. He has been granted a Guggenheim fellowship in poetry, a National Endowment for the Arts fellowship in verse, an American Book Award for his collected poems, and other awards for his writing. Other books in print include Tales of Beatnik Glory (4 volumes published in a single edition), 1968, a History in Verse; The Poetry and Life of Allen Ginsberg, The Family, a history of the Charles Manson murder group, and Chekhov, a biography in verse of Anton Chekhov.

Sanders was the founder of the satiric folk/rock group, The Fugs, which has released many albums and CDs during its 45 year history. The Fugs have recently completed a CD, Be Free, The Fugs Final CD (Part 2), featuring 14 new tunes. Be Free will be released in late summer. Two of Sanders' books, The Family and Tales of Beatnik Glory, are under option to be made into movies. His selected poems, 1986-2008, Let?s Not Keep Fighting the Trojan War will be published by Coffee House Press in the fall of 2009. He lives in Woodstock, New York with his wife, the essayist and painter Miriam Sanders, and both are active in environmental and other social issues. Sanders will perform a section of America, the 17th Century, tracing the voyage of Henry Hudson up the Hudson River in 1609, at the Byrdcliffe Art Colony in Woodstock on August 8, as part of the 400th anniversary celebration of Hudson?s discoveries.

Opening reception for Glyphs 1962-2009 on Friday, July 10th from 6PM.

All inquiries may be addressed to:
Daniel Morris
The Arm
281 North 7th Street
Brooklyn, NY 11211
dan at thearmnyc dot com

↑ Index

96. Gloria Frym
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Thu 9 Jul 2009

---

such as "workshopped"
a verb that rivals "outsourced

Mary Kasimor wrote:
> I really hate words that have a corporate efficiency purpose, usually words that were nouns but have become verbs.
>
> --- On Tue, 7/7/09, Ruth Lepson <[redacted]> wrote:
>
>
> From: Ruth Lepson <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Tuesday, July 7, 2009, 11:11 PM
>
>
> 'indeed'
>
>
> On 7/7/09 8:05 AM, "mIEKAL aND" <[redacted]> wrote:
>
>
>> Which words make you wince?
>> Poets have been asked for their most hated words. What are yours?
>>
>> 'What word do you hate and why?' is the intriguing question put to a >> selection of poets by the Ledbury festival. Philip Wells's reply is >> the winner for me - 'pulchritude' is certainly up there on my >> blacklist. He even explains his animosity in suitably poetic terms:
>>
>> "it violates all the magical impulses of balanced onomatopoeic
>> language - it of course means "beautiful", but its meaning is nothing >> of the sort, being stuffed to the brim with a brutally latinate cudgel >> of barbaric consonants. If consonants represent riverbanks and vowels
>> the river's flow, this is the word equivalent of the bottomless abyss >> of dry bones, where demons gather to spit acid."
>>
>> For Geraldine Monk, "it's got to be 'redacted' which makes me feel >> totally sick. It's a brutish sounding word. It doesn't flow, it prods >> at you in a nasty manner."

>>
>> Both these poets understand that the key to words that make you feel >> nauseous is not the meaning - it's easy, after all, to hate the word
>> 'torture' but something else entirely. Something idiosyncratic, >> something about the way the word feels in your mouth as you say it.
>> The horrors of 'membrane', for instance. Or the eccentricity of >> 'gusset'.
>>
>> Having said that, I'm still trying to get my head around Paul >> Batchelor's explanation that "I've always hated the word 'APPAL' (or >> 'appalled' or 'appalling') because I dislike hearing the sound of my >> name inside other words." I can't work out if there's a case of >> extreme ego or extreme self-hatred going on there.
>>
>> And I can't help feeling that Ros Barber misses the point with her >> rather po-faced reply. "Words are to be loved. Their associations may >> be unpleasant but words themselves are full of poetry (and history, >> and geography)," she says. "Delicious vowel sounds and tongue-tickling >> consonants. There isn't a word in the English language that doesn't >> excite me if I think about it long enough."
>>
>> Sorry, Ros, I can't agree. I'm with Rhian Edwards on 'chillax' - "the >> most unnecessary and obnoxious linguistic blend to have ever been >> coined". Except possibly for 'no-brainer'...
>>
>> Whether it's 'hubby' or 'sassy' or 'webinar' what are the words that >> make you wince?
>>
>> (many folks are posting their most hated words in the comments)
>>
>> http://www.guardian.co.uk/books/booksblog/2009/jul/07/words-wince-hated-poets
>>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> ----------
>

>
> No virus found in this incoming message.
> Checked by AVG - www.avg.com
> Version: 8.5.387 / Virus Database: 270.13.8/2227 - Release Date: 07/09/09 05:55:00
>
>

--
Gloria Frym
Associate Professor
Writing & Literature Programs
California College of the Arts

↑ Index

97. amy king
Your city's / town's poetry reading calendar?
Thu 9 Jul 2009

I found this great one for Chicago (updated daily) -- http://www.chicagopoetrycalendar.org/

And always reference this one for New York -- http://www.poetz.com/calendar/

But I recently discovered in my web searches a sad lack of other city / town poetry reading sites. Perhaps my skills are lacking. Portland, OR only has one site about the police making poetry...?

Please send me your poetry reading sites so that I might update my list -- I'll post it here and on my blog for future reference when all seems complete! That way, whenever intrepid poets travel, they'll be able to check the sites and see what's what in your town!

Thanks,

Amy

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

98. Skip Fox
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Thu 9 Jul 2009

"creative writing" is the language of a bureaucrat, not a writer.

↑ Index

99. David Chirot
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Thu 9 Jul 2009

"THE AMERICAN PEOPLE" WHEN SAID BY ANY PERSON IN POLITICS

"radical,innovative poetry"--is always being asked for; meaning it is conventional, safe, dull

"native; native american" its patronizing and makes one think of "the natives are getting restless" in twenty million movies with Bwana aka Bwana Devil; it's American Indian as Russell Means pointed out everyone else is a something-American, Chinese-American, Irish-Americanm, African American; only Indians have America first--because the First Peoples--American Indian of course "American" is named for an Italian-- and then why is chef boy-ar-dee making "franco american spagetti"! a real puzzler since childhood

On Thu, Jul 9, 2009 at 11:06 AM, Gloria Frym <[redacted]> wrote:

> such as "workshopped"
> a verb that rivals "outsourced
>
> Mary Kasimor wrote:
>
> I really hate words that have a corporate efficiency purpose, usually > words that were nouns but have become verbs.
>
> --- On Tue, 7/7/09, Ruth Lepson <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: Ruth Lepson <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Tuesday, July 7, 2009, 11:11 PM
>
> 'indeed'
>
> On 7/7/09 8:05 AM, "mIEKAL aND" <[redacted]> wrote:

Which words make you wince?
Poets have been asked for their most hated words. What are yours?

'What word do you hate and why?' is the intriguing question put to a selection of poets by the Ledbury festival. Philip Wells's reply is the winner for me - 'pulchritude' is certainly up there on my blacklist. He even explains his animosity in suitably poetic terms:

"it violates all the magical impulses of balanced onomatopoeic language - it of course means "beautiful", but its meaning is nothing of the sort, being stuffed to the brim with a brutally latinate cudgel of barbaric consonants. If consonants represent riverbanks and vowels the river's flow, this is the word equivalent of the bottomless abyss of dry bones, where demons gather to spit acid."

For Geraldine Monk, "it's got to be 'redacted' which makes me feel totally sick. It's a brutish sounding word. It doesn't flow, it prods at you in a nasty manner."

Both these poets understand that the key to words that make you feel nauseous is not the meaning - it's easy, after all, to hate the word 'torture' but something else entirely. Something idiosyncratic, something about the way the word feels in your mouth as you say it. The horrors of 'membrane', for instance. Or the eccentricity of 'gusset'.

Having said that, I'm still trying to get my head around Paul Batchelor's explanation that "I've always hated the word 'APPAL' (or 'appalled' or 'appalling') because I dislike hearing the sound of my name inside other words." I can't work out if there's a case of extreme ego or extreme self-hatred going on there.

And I can't help feeling that Ros Barber misses the point with her rather po-faced reply. "Words are to be loved. Their associations may be unpleasant but words themselves are full of poetry (and history, and geography)," she says. "Delicious vowel sounds and tongue-tickling consonants. There isn't a word in the English language that doesn't excite me if I think about it long enough."

Sorry, Ros, I can't agree. I'm with Rhian Edwards on 'chillax' - "the most unnecessary and obnoxious linguistic blend to have ever been coined". Except possibly for 'no-brainer'...

Whether it's 'hubby' or 'sassy' or 'webinar' what are the words that make you wince?

> (many folks are posting their most hated words in the comments)
>
> http://www.guardian.co.uk/books/booksblog/2009/jul/07/words-wince-hated-poets guidelines &
>
> ---
>
> No virus found in this incoming message.
> Checked by AVG - www.avg.com Version: 8.5.387 / Virus Database: 270.13.8/2227 - Release Date: 07/09/09 05:55:00
>
> --
> Gloria Frym
> Associate Professor
> Writing & Literature Programs
> California College of the Arts

↑ Index

100. Martha Deed

Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude

Thu 9 Jul 2009

Do not like "No" and "can't"
But really can't stand "at the end of the day" a combination of acceptable words far worse than its parts.

Martha

--- On Wed, 7/8/09, Allan Revich <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Allan Revich <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude

To: [redacted]
Date: Wednesday, July 8, 2009, 1:52 PM

What = "poetics"
Why = it's a word than makes me wince.

-----Original Message-----
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of mIEKAL aND Sent: Tuesday, July 07, 2009 8:06 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: appalling, redacted, pulchritude

Which words make you wince?
Poets have been asked for their most hated words. What are yours?

'What word do you hate and why?' is the intriguing question put to a selection of poets by the Ledbury festival. Philip Wells's reply is the winner for me - 'pulchritude' is certainly up there on my blacklist. He even explains his animosity in suitably poetic terms:

"it violates all the magical impulses of balanced onomatopoeic language - it of course means "beautiful", but its meaning is nothing of the sort, being stuffed to the brim with a brutally latinate cudgel of barbaric consonants. If consonants represent riverbanks and vowels the river's flow, this is the word equivalent of the bottomless abyss of dry bones, where demons gather to spit acid."

For Geraldine Monk, "it's got to be 'redacted' which makes me feel totally sick. It's a brutish sounding word. It doesn't flow, it prods at you in a nasty manner."

Both these poets understand that the key to words that make you feel nauseous is not the meaning - it's easy, after all, to hate the word 'torture' - but something else entirely. Something idiosyncratic, something about the way the word feels in your mouth as you say it. The horrors of 'membrane', for instance. Or the eccentricity of 'gusset'.

Having said that, I'm still trying to get my head around Paul Batchelor's explanation that "I've always hated the word 'APPAL' (or 'appalled' or 'appalling') because I dislike hearing the sound of my name inside other words." I can't work out if there's a case of extreme ego or extreme self-hatred going on there.

And I can't help feeling that Ros Barber misses the point with her rather po-faced reply. "Words are to be loved. Their associations may be unpleasant but words themselves are full of poetry (and history, and geography)," she says. "Delicious vowel sounds and tongue-tickling consonants. There isn't a word in the English language that doesn't excite me if I think about it long enough."

Sorry, Ros, I can't agree. I'm with Rhian Edwards on 'chillax' - "the most unnecessary and obnoxious linguistic blend to have ever been coined". Except possibly for 'no-brainer'...

Whether it's 'hubby' or 'sassy' or 'webinar' - what are the words that make you wince?

(many folks are posting their most hated words in the comments)

http://www.guardian.co.uk/books/booksblog/2009/jul/07/words-wince-hated-poet s

↑ Index

101. gabriel siegel
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Thu 9 Jul 2009

---

country. snigger.

On Thu, Jul 9, 2009 at 4:36 PM, David Chirot <[redacted]> wrote:

> "THE AMERICAN PEOPLE" WHEN SAID BY ANY PERSON IN POLITICS
>
> "radical,innovative poetry"--is always being asked for; meaning it is conventional, safe, dull
>
> "native; native american" its patronizing and makes one think of "the natives are getting restless" in twenty million movies with Bwana aka Bwana Devil; it's American Indian as Russell Means pointed out everyone else is a something-American, Chinese-American, Irish-Americanm, African American; only Indians have America first--because the First Peoples--American Indian of course "American" is named for an Italian-- > and then why is chef boy-ar-dee making "franco american spagetti"!
> a real puzzler since childhood
>
> On Thu, Jul 9, 2009 at 11:06 AM, Gloria Frym <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> such as "workshopped"
> a verb that rivals "outsourced
>
> Mary Kasimor wrote:
>
> I really hate words that have a corporate efficiency purpose, usually words that were nouns but have become verbs.
>
> --- On Tue, 7/7/09, Ruth Lepson <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Ruth Lepson <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
To: [redacted]
Date: Tuesday, July 7, 2009, 11:11 PM

'indeed'

On 7/7/09 8:05 AM, "mIEKAL aND" <[redacted]> wrote:

Which words make you wince?
Poets have been asked for their most hated words. What are yours?

'What word do you hate and why?' is the intriguing question put to a selection of poets by the Ledbury festival. Philip Wells's reply is the winner for me - 'pulchritude' is certainly up there on my blacklist. He even explains his animosity in suitably poetic terms:

"it violates all the magical impulses of balanced onomatopoeic language - it of course means "beautiful", but its meaning is nothing of the sort, being stuffed to the brim with a brutally latinate cudgel of barbaric consonants. If consonants represent riverbanks and vowels the river's flow, this is the word equivalent of the bottomless abyss of dry bones, where demons gather to spit acid."

For Geraldine Monk, "it's got to be 'redacted' which makes me feel totally sick. It's a brutish sounding word. It doesn't flow, it prods at you in a nasty manner."

Both these poets understand that the key to words that make you feel nauseous is not the meaning - it's easy, after all, to hate the word 'torture' but something else entirely. Something idiosyncratic, something about the way the word feels in your mouth as you say it. The horrors of 'membrane', for instance. Or the eccentricity of 'gusset'.

Having said that, I'm still trying to get my head around Paul Batchelor's explanation that "I've always hated the word 'APPAL' (or 'appalled' or 'appalling') because I dislike hearing the sound of my name inside other words." I can't work out if there's a case of extreme ego or extreme self-hatred going on there.

And I can't help feeling that Ros Barber misses the point with her rather po-faced reply. "Words are to be loved. Their associations may be unpleasant but words themselves are full of poetry (and history, and geography)," she says. "Delicious vowel sounds and tongue-tickling consonants. There isn't a word in the English language that doesn't excite me if I think about it long enough."

Sorry, Ros, I can't agree. I'm with Rhian Edwards on 'chillax' - "the most unnecessary and obnoxious linguistic blend to have ever been coined". Except possibly for 'no-brainer'...

Whether it's 'hubby' or 'sassy' or 'webinar' what are the words that make you wince?

(many folks are posting their most hated words in the comments)

http://www.guardian.co.uk/books/booksblog/2009/jul/07/words-wince-hated-poets
guidelines &

No virus found in this incoming message.
Checked by AVG - www.avg.com Version: 8.5.387 / Virus Database: 270.13.8/2227 - Release Date: 07/09/09 05:55:00

--
Gloria Frym
Associate Professor
Writing & Literature Programs
California College of the Arts

guidelines

↑ Index

102. Jennifer Karmin

July 10 & 12: Printers' Ball Events in Chicago

Thu 9 Jul 2009

FRIDAY,
In Celebration of the 5th Annual Printersâ€™ Ball!

FRIDAY, JULY 10
The Science of Obscurity
7-10pm

at the Jupiter Outpost 1139 W. Fulton Market
Chicago, IL
free

The Chicago Underground Library celebrates â€œThe Science of Obscurity,â€ an evening of new, unpublished, and in-progress writing presented as science fair experiments. The night will also feature a public book launch via catapult and the mass purging of rejection lettersâ€”community literary rituals in need of revival! http://underground-library.org

SUNDAY, JULY 12
Collaboration Reading
2-4pm

at Woman Made Gallery
675 N. Milwaukee Avenue
Chicago, IL
free

For this event, writersâ€™ work and/or performance will involve interaction with other writers, performers, art forms, media, and maybe even with the audience. Participants in the event include Simone Muench and Philip Jenks, presenting collaboratively written poetry; Mars Gamba-Adisa Caulton, working with her own music; performance poetry duo Marty McConnell and Andi Strickland; Jennifer Karmin, in a live improvised collaborative performance of her text-sound epic Aaaaaaaaaaalice with Chicago writers Carrie Olivia Adams, Daniel Godston, Laura Goldstein, Amira Hanafi, and Larry Sawyer; and curator Nina Corwin in collaboration with Janice Misurell-Mitchell, internationally known improvisational flautist. http://www.womanmade.org/poetry.html

ABOUT THE PRINTERS' BALL
The fifth annual Printersâ€™ Ball is set to take place on Friday, July 31st (5-11pm), at Columbia College Chicago in the collegeâ€™s historic Ludington Building, at 1104 S. Wabash. Founded by Poetry magazine and the Poetry Foundation with Chicago literary organizations, the Printersâ€™ Ball is an annual celebration of print culture, featuring thousands of magazines, books, and broadsides available free of charge; live readings and music; letterpress, offset, and paper-making demonstrations; and much more.

↑ Index

103. Jonathan Ball
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Thu 9 Jul 2009

---

along those lines: "Creative Non-Fiction"

On Thu, Jul 9, 2009 at 2:22 PM, Skip Fox <[redacted]> wrote:

> "creative writing" is the language of a bureaucrat, not a writer.

--
www.jonathanball.com
www.jonathanball.blogspot.com
www.haikuhoroscopes.com

↑ Index

104. Jonathan Penton
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Thu 9 Jul 2009

Cerulean. It's the literary equivalent of pretending that you're gay at a strip club.

↑ Index

105. David Seaman
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Thu 9 Jul 2009

Semen, since my family name is Seaman. And students ask me if spelling counts.....

David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html

On Wednesday, July 08, 2009, at 02:02PM, "Mary Kasimor" <[redacted]> wrote:
>The word that I was looking for that I just HATE is "impacted."
>Mary
>
>--- On Tue, 7/7/09, Ruth Lepson <[redacted]> wrote:

>
>
>From: Ruth Lepson <[redacted]>
>Subject: Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
>To: [redacted]
>Date: Tuesday, July 7, 2009, 11:11 PM
>
>
>'indeed'
>
>
>On 7/7/09 8:05 AM, "mIEKAL aND" <[redacted]> wrote:
>
>> Which words make you wince?
>> Poets have been asked for their most hated words. What are yours?
>>
>> 'What word do you hate and why?' is the intriguing question put to a >> selection of poets by the Ledbury festival. Philip Wells's reply is >> the winner for me - 'pulchritude' is certainly up there on my >> blacklist. He even explains his animosity in suitably poetic terms:
>>
>> "it violates all the magical impulses of balanced onomatopoeic
>> language - it of course means "beautiful", but its meaning is nothing >> of the sort, being stuffed to the brim with a brutally latinate cudgel
>> of barbaric consonants. If consonants represent riverbanks and vowels
>> the river's flow, this is the word equivalent of the bottomless abyss >> of dry bones, where demons gather to spit acid."
>>
>> For Geraldine Monk, "it's got to be 'redacted' which makes me feel >> totally sick. It's a brutish sounding word. It doesn't flow, it prods >> at you in a nasty manner."
>>
>> Both these poets understand that the key to words that make you feel >> nauseous is not the meaning - it's easy, after all, to hate the word
>> 'torture' but something else entirely. Something idiosyncratic, >> something about the way the word feels in your mouth as you say it.
>> The horrors of 'membrane', for instance. Or the eccentricity of >> 'gusset'.
>>
>> Having said that, I'm still trying to get my head around Paul >> Batchelor's explanation that "I've always hated the word 'APPAL' (or
>> 'appalled' or 'appalling') because I dislike hearing the sound of my >> name inside other words." I can't work out if there's a case of >> extreme ego or extreme self-hatred going on there.

>>
>> And I can't help feeling that Ros Barber misses the point with her >> rather po-faced reply. "Words are to be loved. Their associations may >> be unpleasant but words themselves are full of poetry (and history, >> and geography)," she says. "Delicious vowel sounds and tongue-tickling >> consonants. There isn't a word in the English language that doesn't >> excite me if I think about it long enough."
>>
>> Sorry, Ros, I can't agree. I'm with Rhian Edwards on 'chillax' - "the >> most unnecessary and obnoxious linguistic blend to have ever been >> coined". Except possibly for 'no-brainer'...
>>
>> Whether it's 'hubby' or 'sassy' or 'webinar' what are the words that >> make you wince?
>>
>> (many folks are posting their most hated words in the comments)
>>
>> http://www.guardian.co.uk/books/booksblog/2009/jul/07/words-wince-hated-poets
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

106. Jim Andrews

Writing Post-Person: Poetics, Literacy and Sustainability in the Age of Disposable Discourse by Kedrick James

Thu 9 Jul 2009

Writing Post-Person: Poetics, Literacy and Sustainability in the Age of Disposable Discourse is Kedrick James's 2009 doctoral dissertation. It's a terrific look at the history of automated spam and how spoets (spam poets) are situated in that environment. He also develops very useful perspectives on informational garbage and recycling toward a poetics of sustainability and informational environmentalism. How do writers and and how does writing move forward in the age of automated, disposable discourse when writing is devalued by automated excess, and the proliferation of other, competing media? Kedrick James's thesis is hopeful, actually, in what many perceive to be a dark time for literary writing and education, and that hope is partly in what he sees arising from active engagement by writers in these issues.

What I've done at http://vispo.com/dbcinema/kedrick/slideshow.htm is to take four samples of writing from his thesis, together with photos of Kedrick and some of his graphical collages, and collage them in dbCinema in appreciation of what he's doing. I've also created a stir fry text at http://vispo.com/StirFryTexts/kedrick.htm from those samples of his thesis. You can read the quotations themselves by clicking on the rectangle in the stir fry or mix them together by mousing over the text.

I think his thesis is significant to contemporary writing and encourage you to visit his website, http://kedrickjames.net and his band's site http://disciplineofchaos.com -- he's in a collaging/sampling band. The thesis is not available online but if you want to read it, contact him.

↑ Index

107. charles alexander

chax press now

Fri 10 Jul 2009

Sorry I miffed the donate web address when I sent this yesterday. Thanks to all who found it anyway. The correct address is http://chax.org/donate.htm (now corrected below, too)

cheers to all,

Charles / Chax Press

Chax Press is doing its best to get through a hot summer of publishing 7 books! Also creating new handprinted works, planning classes, youth programs, planning for the long range. And Chax Press needs help!

Wouldn't it be great if every local friend, long-distance friend, personal friend, poetry friend, poetics friend, pog friend, & every facebook friend, & friends on other lists, donated $10 or $5?! Yes! that's what we need, that's what it takes. Or $11 or $6 to more than make up for the cut paypal takes.

Our goal is 1000 contributions of $10 or $11 or $5 or $6.

Go to http://chax.org/donate.htm and DO IT NOW, please! We are nonprofit and it IS tax deductible. Go! more poems, please.

If you've already given this spring or summer, then this message really isn't for you, unless you want it to be.

We're also creating a new electronic newsletter, and a donation will definitely put you on the list to receive it. Of course, if you don't want to receive it, just let us know.

In a few days we'll announce one new book, and two more in a few weeks, and several more at the end of the summer! This is the beginning. A leap is now!

Ready: 1, 2, 3, contribute!

Charles Alexander
Chax Press
411 N 7th Ave Ste 103
Tucson, AZ 85705-8388
[redacted]

↑ Index

108. steve dalachinsky
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Fri 10 Jul 2009

---

creative poo poo - to creates wha's important to write what's inmportant work shos jerk shops - doo do do

On Thu, 9 Jul 2009 15:22:51 -0500 Skip Fox <[redacted]> writes:
> "creative writing" is the language of a bureaucrat, not a writer.
>
>
>

↑ Index

109. steve dalachinsky
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Fri 10 Jul 2009

---

yes franco amwerican me too what a puzzle french spaghetti or fascist spaghetti

On Thu, 9 Jul 2009 13:36:10 -0700 David Chirot <[redacted]>
writes:
> "THE AMERICAN PEOPLE" WHEN SAID BY ANY PERSON IN POLITICS
>
> "radical,innovative poetry"--is always being asked for; meaning it > is > conventional, safe, dull
>

> "native; native american" its patronizing and makes one think of
> "the > natives are getting restless" in twenty million movies with Bwana > aka Bwana
> Devil; it's American Indian as Russell Means pointed out everyone > else is a > something-American, Chinese-American, Irish-Americanm, African > American;
> only Indians have America first--because the First Peoples--American > Indian
> of course "American" is named for an Italian-- > and then why is chef boy-ar-dee making "franco american spagetti"!
> a real puzzler since childhood
>
>
> On Thu, Jul 9, 2009 at 11:06 AM, Gloria Frym <[redacted]>
> wrote:
>
> > such as "workshopped"
> > a verb that rivals "outsourced
> >
> >
> > Mary Kasimor wrote:
> >
> >> I really hate words that have a corporate efficiency purpose, > usually
> >> words that were nouns but have become verbs.
> >>
> >> --- On Tue, 7/7/09, Ruth Lepson <[redacted]> wrote:
> >>
> >>
> >> From: Ruth Lepson <[redacted]>
> >> Subject: Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
> >> To: [redacted]
> >> Date: Tuesday, July 7, 2009, 11:11 PM
> >>
> >>
> >> 'indeed'
> >>
> >>
> >> On 7/7/09 8:05 AM, "mIEKAL aND" <[redacted]> wrote:
> >>

> >>
> >>
> >>> Which words make you wince?
> >>> Poets have been asked for their most hated words. What are > yours?
> >>>
> >>> 'What word do you hate and why?' is the intriguing question put > to a > >>> selection of poets by the Ledbury festival. Philip Wells's reply
> is
> >>> the winner for me - 'pulchritude' is certainly up there on my > >>> blacklist. He even explains his animosity in suitably poetic > terms:
> >>>
> >>> "it violates all the magical impulses of balanced onomatopoeic > language - it of course means "beautiful", but its meaning is > nothing > >>> of the sort, being stuffed to the brim with a brutally latinate > cudgel > >>> of barbaric consonants. If consonants represent riverbanks and > vowels
> >>> the river's flow, this is the word equivalent of the bottomless > abyss
> >>> of dry bones, where demons gather to spit acid."
> >>>
> >>> For Geraldine Monk, "it's got to be 'redacted' which makes me > feel > >>> totally sick. It's a brutish sounding word. It doesn't flow, it > prods
> >>> at you in a nasty manner."
> >>>
> >>> Both these poets understand that the key to words that make you
> feel > >>> nauseous is not the meaning - it's easy, after all, to hate the > word
> >>> 'torture' but something else entirely. Something > idiosyncratic, > >>> something about the way the word feels in your mouth as you say
> it.
> >>> The horrors of 'membrane', for instance. Or the eccentricity of
> >>> 'gusset'.
> >>>

> >>> Having said that, I'm still trying to get my head around Paul > >>> Batchelor's explanation that "I've always hated the word 'APPAL'
> (or > >>> 'appalled' or 'appalling') because I dislike hearing the sound > of my > >>> name inside other words." I can't work out if there's a case of > >>> extreme ego or extreme self-hatred going on there.
> >>>
> >>> And I can't help feeling that Ros Barber misses the point with > her > >>> rather po-faced reply. "Words are to be loved. Their > associations may > >>> be unpleasant but words themselves are full of poetry (and > history,
> >>> and geography)," she says. "Delicious vowel sounds and > tongue-tickling > >>> consonants. There isn't a word in the English language that > doesn't > >>> excite me if I think about it long enough."
> >>>
> >>> Sorry, Ros, I can't agree. I'm with Rhian Edwards on 'chillax' -
> "the > >>> most unnecessary and obnoxious linguistic blend to have ever > been > >>> coined". Except possibly for 'no-brainer'...
> >>>
> >>> Whether it's 'hubby' or 'sassy' or 'webinar' what are the > words that > >>> make you wince?
> >>>
> >>> (many folks are posting their most hated words in the comments)
> >>>
> >>>
> >>>
>
http://www.guardian.co.uk/books/booksblog/2009/jul/07/words-wince-hated-p oets
> Check
> >>> guidelines &
> >>>
> >>>
> >>

> >>
> >>
> >>
> >>
> >>
>

> >>
> >>
> >> No virus found in this incoming message.
> >> Checked by AVG - www.avg.com Version: 8.5.387 / Virus Database:
> >> 270.13.8/2227 - Release Date: 07/09/09 05:55:00
> >>
> >>
> >>
> >
> > --
> > Gloria Frym
> > Associate Professor
> > Writing & Literature Programs
> > California College of the Arts
> >
> >
> >
> guidelines
> >
>
>
>

↑ Index

110. CA Conrad
WHITE HELIUM
Fri 10 Jul 2009

WHITE HELIUM
for Sharon Mesmer is here:
http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com

↑ Index

111. CA Conrad
MARK(S)
Fri 10 Jul 2009

---

in Ted Pearson's MARK(S) zine online:
http://www.markszine.net

↑ Index

112. Lauren Russell
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Fri 10 Jul 2009

I hate the word "community," as in "The Black Community," "The LGBT Community," "The Jewish Community," etc., because it advances an oversimplified view of the world in asserting the existence of these enormous "communities" that do not actually exist. I mean, what is the often-discussed Black Community, anyway? There are many black communities, and there are black people who do not belong to any community, and there are black people who belong to communities that consist primarily of people who are not black. There is no single, homogenous "Black Community" as that misuse of the word seems to suggest.

Lauren

↑ Index

113. peter ganick
3 new books from a new press
Fri 10 Jul 2009

---

chalk editions is the name of a new press concentrating on experimental writing. published by jukka-pekka kervinen and peter ganick, the press has its first three publications ready for view. all texts are free of charge and can be downloaded easily.
http://chalkeditions.co.cc

we are accepting submissions of new writing now. please send to: < [redacted]> and/or <[redacted]> ... digital files in the pdf, doc, or rtf format only. all manuscripts will receive a response.

↑ Index

114. Nick Carbo
Polyverse Poetry Festival
Fri 10 Jul 2009

EVENT: POLYVERSE POETRY FESTIVAL
http://www.lboro.ac.uk/service/publ icity/news-releases/2009/87_PoetLau

reate.html

WHEN: Friday July 24th, through to Sunday July 26th, 2009.

VENUE: English & Drama Department of Loughborough University, Leicestershire, LE11 3TT, England, UKÂ http://www.lboro.ac.uk/departments/

ea/

TICKETS NOW ON SALE: Â£20 covers whole festival, including all events and a workshop. Alternatively, you can buy a Â£10 ticket for Carol Ann Duffy and the 'Dreams of May' event (both are included in the price).

Concessionary rates: Â£15 and Â£7 respectively.

All ticket enquiries to Helen Relf, telephone 01509 222 967 (overseas: [redacted]) between 9am-5pm BST, or e-mail [redacted]. (Any enquiries already made to other staff will be dealt with.)

HOW TO GET THERE:
http://www.lboro.ac.uk/about/map/pa ges/finding-lborouni.html

It would help if you could please RSVP on here to help us gauge projected ticket sales:Â http://www.facebook.com/group.php?g id=9528966169#/event.php?eid=480543

76182

For details of courses at Loughborough, seehttp://www.lboro.ac.uk/Â or telephone [redacted].

SPECIAL EVENTS at the festival:

****

****

SATURDAY EVENING:Â

CAROL ANN DUFFY, first ever female Poet Laureate.

Reading, question-and-answer session with the audience, and signing (evening, Saturday 25th July).

Please note that Carol Ann Duffy's appearance will be preceded by the critically acclaimed play-in-poetry 'Dreams of May' takes place on the evenin g of Saturday 25th July.Â

You have a choice: buy a Â£10 ticket to cover both of the above, or Â£20 for a full festival ticket, which covers the entire weekend, the above two performances, and a free workshop. (Concessionary rates: Â£7 and Â£15 respectively.)

Visit Carol Ann Duffy's web site to learn more about her writing and other work:Â http://www.carolannduffy.co.uk/

Polyverse Poetry Festival and the English and Drama Department of Loughborough University are very grateful to the Literature Network for supporting Carol Ann Duffy's appearance.Â http://www.literaturenetwork.org/

Carol Ann Duffy's performance is preceded by Panel of top young Leicestershire Poets (authors to be announced)

****

****

DREAMS OF MAY - first public performance of this critically acclaimed play outside London.
It is a one woman play in poetry about loss and transition. The play takes place on a train where the womanâ€™s memory is triggered by objects causing her to look over her life and confront her demons. This internal conversation is revealed to the audience through poetry and music, ultimately expressing a life of growth, and the discovery of a hope which allows the character to find her way forward.
Written by SUE GUINEYÂ http://www.sueguiney.com/Interview:
http://www.bookdepository.co.uk/WEB

SITE/WWW/WEBPAGES/viewarticle.php?t ype=interview&id=129

Starring ROSALIND CRESSYÂ http://www.thelionspart.co.uk/about us/rosalindcressy.html

The performance will be followed by a 15-minute question-and-answer session, which will allow the audience to interact directly with author Sue Guiney, and the actress Rosalind Cressy.

PLANET YOUNG byaward-winning poet Gerry Potter (aka Chloe Poems). Author of 'Miracle, Gerry's new show companion book, 'Planet Young' is released in the summer.Â

He is providing a free workshop at the festival.

http://www.studiosalford.com/

STORIES DRUMMED TO POLAR SKIES by Siobhan Logan.
Exclusive and specially rewritten version of the dazzling fusion of poetry and science spectacular. The original version of 'Stories Drummed to Polar Skies' was performed at the National Science Museum and the Richard Attenborough Centre. Siobhan's first book is now available to order: Firebridge to Skyshore: A Northern Lights Journey (published by Original /originalplusbooks.htm).
Press,http://www.freewebs.com/thesamsmith

http://homepage.ntlworld.com/siobha

n.logan1/

Siobhan is also offering a post-performance question-and-answer session to the audience.

POETS CONFIRMED TO READ/PERFORM

GAIL ASHTON, author of "Ghost Songs" (Cinnamon)
http://www.amazon.co.uk/Ghost-Songs

-Gail-Ashton/dp/1905614195

CAROLE BALDOCK (editor of "Orbis"), author of "Bitching" (poetry, publisher: Sound), widely anthologised, and also the author of numerous non-fiction books, including "How to Make Money from Writing" and "How to Succeed as a Single Parent".http://www.dublinwriters.org/eacorn

/features/deadg
oodfeature.html

DAVID BIRCUMSHAW, "The Ghost Machine," "A Chide's Alphabet" and "The Animal Subsidies" (Arrowhead) http://homepage.ntlworld.com/david.

bircumshaw/

JULIE BODEN, Birmingham Poet Laureate (2002/3), Poet-in-residence at Symphony Hall and Town Hall in Birmingham, amongst other highly poetic things! Author of "Beyond the Bullring"," Cut on the Bias", "Through the Eye of a Crow", "Wasted Lives", and "Bluebeard's Wife" (Pontefract Press). http://www.julieboden.co.uk/

J.BROOKES: "The Dresden Cantata", "Dusting the Bin" and "Deafening the Nose". http://pure-poetry.co.uk/otherpoets

/guestpoet2/jbrookes.htm

WAYNE BURROWS, editor of Staple, and author of "Marginalia" (Peterloo)Â http://wayneburrows.wordpress.com/

NICK CARBO, "Chinese, Japanese, What are These?", Andalusian Dawn" and "Secret Asian Man"Â http://www.cherry-grove.com/carbo.h

tml

SALLY CLARK, anthologised by Templar (2007-8), and placed in the Bridport 2005) and BBC Wildlife Poet (2005). http://www.myspace.com/sallyclarkpo

et

JANE COMMANE: anthologised in "Gists and Piths", "Bluebeard's Wives", et cetera; co-editor of "Under the Radar"; co-founder of Nine Arches Press (with Matt Nunn). http://www.saltpublishing.com/horiz on/issues/01/text/commane_jane.htm

ROSEMARY DUN, "Lorelei Gets it on" and "Born Lippy", plus the new CD "Me and My Big Mouth" (Big Mouth Productions) http://www.rosemarydun.co.uk/

ANDY FLETCHER
http://raggedraven.co.uk/collection

s.htm

ANGELA FRANCE, "Occupation" (Ragged Raven, released July 1st); runner-up 2009 Torbay Festival Competition, and recently shortlisted for a major literary prize .
http:
//www.facebook.com/l/;http://w ww.raggedraven.co.uk/collections.ht

m#Occupation

MARK GOODWIN, "Else" (Shearsman), anthologised in "Coffee House", etc. http://www.amazon.co.uk/Else-Mark-G oodwin/dp/1905700970

RADCLIFF GREGORY: "Oscar Wilde: Decadent by Design" (forthcoming, in 'Schismogenesis academic publication). Anthologised in Chroma, Coffee House, Poemata, et cetera. http://www.crystalclearcreators.org

.uk/content/9/Rad-Gregory.html

BRENDAN HAWTHORNE, editor of 'Read the Music' and Poet Laureate onÂ http://www.thestirrer.com.Â Publications: Station Fifteen (2008, Limited 1st edition, ISBN: 978-0-9554467-1-9); Slide (Poetry Monthly Press, 2007); Urban Dawn (bluechrome, 2004); The All Night Cafe and Other Dives (with Geoff Stevens, The Poetry Wednesbury Imprint, 2006). http://www.poetrywednesbury.co.uk/h tml/brendan_hawthorne.html

SONIA HENDY-ISAAC, "Flesh" (forthcoming, bluechrome)http://homepages.nildram.co.uk/~sim

mers/142eleven.html

MARTIN HOLROYD, editor of 'Poetry Monthly'Â http://www.poetrymonth.com/

CHRISTOPHER JAMES - WINNER: NATIONAL POETRY COMPETITION 2009 http://www.raggedraven.co.uk/collec tions.htm#The%20Invention%20of%20Bu

tterfly

PAT JOURDAN, award-winning poet, "The Cast-Iron Shore", "Turpentine", and "The Bedsit" (poetry), plus the new short story anthology "Rainy Pavements".Â http://patjourdan.co.uk/

CHRIS KINSEY: BBC Wildlife Poet of the Year in 2008. She received an Arts Council of Wales Writerâ€™s Bursary in 2000. Her collection, Kung Fu Lullabies, Ragged Raven Press, came out in 2004. A second collection, Cure for a Crooked Smile, is also forthcoming from Ragged Raven, and=2 0a third, Swarf, from Smokestack Books. Interviewed by BBC Radio Wales (June 7, 2009). http://leafbooks.co.uk/New/Leaf%20A

uthors/Kinsey,Chris.html

EMMA LEE, "Yellow Torchlight and the Blues" (Original Plus)http://homepage.ntlworld.com/teamle

e/index.html

PAUL LEE, "The Light Forecast" (Original Plus)http://homepage.ntlworld.com/teamle

e/index.html

BOB MEE: The Maker of Glass Eyes (Cinnamon, 2009) and Paradise Road (2003). http://raggedraven.co.uk/

MATT MERRITT: "Troy Town" (Arrowhead Press, 2008) http://polyolbion.blogspot.com/

IAN MORGAN, "The Flesh Suite" (forthcoming, bluechrome). Hyperlink to follow.

MATT NUNN: "Happy Cos I'm Blue" (Heaventree Press) http://www.mattthepoet.co.uk/

TONY PETCHÂ
http://raggedraven.co.uk/collection

s.htm

SUSAN RICHARDSON: "Creatures of the Intertidal Zone", and also one of the resident poets on BBC Radio 4's 'Saturday Live'.http://www.susanrichardsonwriter.co

.uk/

STEVE ROONEYÂ
http://www.myspace.com/sgrooney

GILLIAN SPRAGGS, author of "Outlaws & Highwaymen", editor of "Love Shook my Senses: Lesbian Love Poems". http://www.gilliansprаggs.com/

BEN STAINTON, "The Jealousies" (BeWrite) http://www.amazon.co.uk/Jealousies-

Benjamin-Stainton/dp/1905202962

GEOFF STEVENS, 2009 Ted Slade Award winner, "The Phrenology of Anaglypta" (bluechrome) et cetera; also editor of "The Purple Patch". http://www.geoffstevens.co.uk/

JON STONEÂ
http://www.bandijcat.com/

CAROL THISTLETHWAITEÂ http://www.bewrite.net/merchant2/4.

00/merchant.mv?Screen=PROD&Store_Co de=B&Product_Code=978-1-905202-76-8

PAM THOMPSON, author of 'The Japan Quiz' (forthcoming, Redbeck Press), Spin (Waldean P ress) and Parting the Ghosts of Salt (Redbeck Press); also widely anthologised. http://pamthompsonpoetry.wordpress.

com/

LYDIA TOWSEYÂ http://secretagentartist.wordpress.

com/about/

DEBORAH TYLER-BENNETT, "Clark Gable in Mansfield", 'Pavilions', and editor of "Coffee House" . http://www.poetrypf.co.uk/deborahty

lerbennettpage.html

TONY WILLIAMS: 'The Corner of Arundel Lane and Charles Street' (forthcoming, Salt Publishing). http://aye-lass.blogspot.com/

MIKE WILSON: Desperanto (forthcoming) http://www.amazon.co.uk/Desperanto-

Mike-Wilson/dp/0955402875/ref=sr_1_

1?ie=UTF8&s=books&qid=1209494460&sr

=8-1

* IMPORTANT NOTE: Programme subject to change. If a writer needs to withdraw from the festival, I will work to find a suitable replacement, and reflect the changes here as soon as they occur. Please bear in mind that if there are late withdrawals, this will mean a late change to the schedule. We are committed to ensuring that this quantity and quality of entertainment will be delivered during the course of the festival.

ALL WORKSHOPS ARE COMPLETELY FREE!

That's right, completely free, no catches. However, you will need to buy a ticket for the festival to be eligible. You will need book your workshop space in advance if you want to be guaranteed a place.Â

At present, you can only attend one free workshop, although this may change, depending on demand. To book a workshop, contact Helen Relf (details below) by e-mail or telephone, and let her know your three most preferred20choices. You will then be allocated to your most preferred workshop(s) with spaces left.

All workshop enquiries to Helen Relf, telephone 01509 222 967 (overseas: [redacted]) between 9am-5pm BST, or e-mail [redacted].

CONFIRMED TO GIVE WORKSHOPS:

CAROLE BALDOCK:

CINNAMON PRESS: Small Press Publishing (no maximum place limit)

SALLY CLARK:
"A Hole to See The Sky Through And Find a Poem In."
Led by Sally Clark this writing workshop will explore holes: from black holes, bolt holes, man holes to holes in your socks. Holes can be both a trap and an escape, framing what we experience of the world. With examples of views through holes from poets, philosophers, journalists, and sculptors plus a chance to make and use a few holes of your own, just bring pen and paper and let the holes provide the inspiration.

ANGELA FRANCE:
'Speaking through the Mask' - writing as persona. (20 places)

NICK CARBO: Writing With Chi: How to Harness the Energy of the Universe to Produce Poems.

JANE COMMANE & MATT NUNN: 'The Library & Museum of Imagination'

ROSEMARY DUN:
Poetry From Nowhere - how to write poetry when you're uninspired. You've got a deadline, or you have a nub of an idea which won't develop, or you just want to write a poem, and your muse appears to have deserted you. Come along and discover how to bring forth your poetry. Prepare to be bold and have fun. Workshop led by Rosemary Dun, lecturer, poet, writer and performer, MA Creative Writing. (15 places)

SONIA HENDY-ISAAC: Perfor mance Poetry & Performing Poetry

This workshop aims to explore the distinct differences between page and stage poetry; offering advice to those who may wish to move from one medium to the other. There will also be an opportunity for page poets to improve their reading skills and stage presence.

MATT MERRITT:
Poetry and Place: look at making poetry from your immediate locality, taking in geography, local history, etc. (15 - 20 places available)

GERRY POTTER: Looking at the origins of the participants and evoking those very early memories as a platform for work.

CHILDREN'S WORKSHOP - KERRY ORANGE: 'How to Write about Cheese or Sausages'

ADDITIONAL WORKSHOPS/ROUNDTABLES:

How to perform and where

Where to publish and howÂ

What to write about and why

Who to ask and what about

The event aims to offer a diverse array of poets and other contributors, ranging from the literary, through to the comic. Hopefully, there will be something for everyone.

Apart from the poets reading, some author authors will be available to meet in person and sign copies of their books on sale. One already confirmed is Louise Pymerhttp://chipmunkapublishing.co.uk/sh op/index.php?main_page=product_info

&products_id=86.

The event will also be attended by some poetry publishers/magazines, and some press, including:

BeWrite Books:Â http://www.bewrite.net/merchant2/me rchant.mv bluechromeÂ http://www.bluechrome.co.uk/store/s hop/

Cinnamon PressÂ http://www.cinnamonpress.com/index.

htm

Coffee House

Original Plus Books / The Journal
http://www.freewebs.com/thesamsmith

/

Poetry MonthlyÂ http://www.poetrymonthly.com/

PollutoÂ http://www.polluto.com/

Ragged Raven PressÂ http://raggedraven.co.uk/

StapleÂ http://staplemagazine.wordpress.com

/

Some of these publishers will be presenting exclusive showcases featuring cutting-edge modern poetry from some of their finest authors.

More details will be released as they are confirmed. Please send any enquiries or offers of help (organising, printing leaflets, promoting, et cetera) should be send to the creator of this site.

ACCOMMODATION

Warning: if you are thinking of booking accommodation in or around Loughborough this summer, you should do so as soon as you possibly can, particularly for Burleigh Court. Loughborough University has signed a contract with Japan's 2012 Olympic team, who will be visiting the campus from this summer. Don't risk not securing your accommodation!

Off-campus (hotels, b & b):http://www.smoothhound.co.uk/loughb

or.html

Budget on-campus accommodation:http://www.welcometoimago.com/accom modation/budget-accommodation/

Basic single room with wash hand basin To book contact Tel: 01509 223914

Single en-suite - kitchen facilities To book contact Tel: 01509 223803

Four-star accommodation is also available on-campus at Burleigh Court Hotel. Accommodation is subject to availability. Accommodation can be booked directly with Loughborough University's Reservation Teams on (01509) 22 8104/8122. Accommodation=2 0and any extras will be payable on departure.

Accommodation charges will be as follows:
Bed & Breakfast Rates
Â£68.00 inc vat lodge accommodation for sole occupancy
Â£79.00 inc vat executive accommodation for sole occupancy
Â£99.00 inc vat executive accommodation for double occupancy
Dinner, Bed & Breakfast Rates
Â£89.00 inc vat lodge accommodation for sole occupancy
Â£100.00 inc vat executive accommodation for sole occupancy
Â£149.00 inc vat executive accommodation for double occupancy

Please note that the charges for Burleigh Court are per room, per night. If you prefer a greater choice of accommodation type, please click the link for off-campus accommodation. There is a good bus service between Loughborough town and the university campus, many local taxi services, and plenty of parking space at the university.

Contact Details

Email:

Website:

http://artisanslibrary.ning.com/eve nts/e...

Location:

Leicester, United Kingdom

Recent news

↑ Index

115. Daniel Godston
The Bauhaus: 90 Years / 90 Days
Fri 10 Jul 2009

Hi all,

Updates regarding "The Bauhaus: 90 Years / 90 Days" can be accessed at http://bauhaus9090.org/. Please feel free to contact me if you are interested in participating in this project.

Thanks,

Dan

↑ Index

116. Michael
The new ROCKPILE Blog at Big Bridge Online
Fri 10 Jul 2009

Dear Big Bridge Readers,

Please check out the new ROCKPILE Website & Blog at Big Bridge, www.bigbridge.org/rockpile/

ROCKPILE is a collaboration between David Meltzer - poet, musician, essayist, and more - and Michael Rothenberg of Big Bridge Press. David and Michael will journey through eight cities in the U.S. to perform poetry and prose, composed while on the road, with local musicians and artists in each city. ROCKPILE will serve to educate and preserve as well as to create a history of collaboration. It will help to reinforce the tradition of the troubadour of all generations, central to the cultural upheaval and identity politics that reawakened poets, artists, musicians, and songwriters in the mid-1960s through the 1970s. The project will end with a final multimedia performance celebration in San Francisco.

The ROCKPILE Website & Blog will tell you all you need to know about the ROCKPILE project including performance dates, venues, artist bios and performance clips of some of the musicians we will be meeting and performing with in each of the cities.

Once we hit the road, we will be posting travel photos, journal entries, performance videos, interviews and more, daily, on the ROCKPILE Blog, so log on and join us as we travel around the country. Write us, comment on the blog, and let us know you are with us, let us know you care!

And of course, we hope to see you on the road!

Best,

Michael Rothenberg, David Meltzer, Terri Carrion & Ziggy.

ROCKPILE

www.bigbridge.org/rockpile/

Made possible by a grant from the Creative Work Fund, a program of the Walter and Elise Haas Fund, also supported by generous grants from The William and Flora Hewlett Foundation and The James Irvine Foundation, and support from the Committee on Poetry.

↑ Index

117. tyrone williams
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Fri 10 Jul 2009

Agree wholeheartedly, Lauren.

Tyrone

-----Original Message-----
>From: Lauren Russell <[redacted]>
>Sent: Jul 10, 2009 1:42 AM
>To: [redacted]
>Subject: Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
>
>I hate the word "community," as in "The Black Community," "The LGBT Community," "The Jewish Community," etc., because it advances an oversimplified view of the world in asserting the existence of these enormous "communities" that do not actually exist.Â I mean, what is the often-discussed Black Community, anyway?Â There are many black communities, and there are black people who do not belong to any community, and there are black people who belong to communities that consist primarily of people who are not black.Â There is no single, homogenous "Black Community" as that misuse of the word seems to suggest.
>
>Lauren
>

>
>
>
>

Tyrone Williams

↑ Index

118. Murat Nemet-Nejat

Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude

Fri 10 Jul 2009

Steve,
Right you are.
Ciao,
Murat

On Wed, Jul 8, 2009 at 4:15 AM, steve dalachinsky <[redacted]> wrote:

> catcher IN the rye
>
> On Wed, 8 Jul 2009 00:11:59 -0400 Murat Nemet-Nejat <[redacted]> writes:
> Ever since I read Catcher on the Rye almost fifty years ago, I hate the word
> "grand" -in the sense of something being grand- which was also Caulfield's > least favorite word.
>
> Ciao,
>
> Murat
>
> On Tue, Jul 7, 2009 at 8:05 AM, mIEKAL aND <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Which words make you wince?
> Poets have been asked for their most hated words. What are yours?
>
> 'What word do you hate and why?' is the intriguing question put to a > selection of poets by the Ledbury festival. Philip Wells's reply is the > winner for me - 'pulchritude' is certainly up there on my blacklist. He even > explains his animosity in suitably poetic terms:

"it violates all the magical impulses of balanced onomatopoeic language - it of course means "beautiful", but its meaning is nothing of the sort, being stuffed to the brim with a brutally latinate cudgel of barbaric consonants. If consonants represent riverbanks and vowels the river's flow, this is the word equivalent of the bottomless abyss of dry bones, where demons gather to spit acid."

For Geraldine Monk, "it's got to be 'redacted' which makes me feel totally sick. It's a brutish sounding word. It doesn't flow, it prods at you in a nasty manner."

*Both these poets understand that the key to words that make you feel nauseous is not the meaning - it's easy, after all, to hate the word
'torture' – but something else entirely. Something idiosyncratic, something about the way the word feels in your mouth as you say it. The horrors of 'membrane', for instance. Or the eccentricity of 'gusset'.*

Having said that, I'm still trying to get my head around Paul Batchelor's explanation that "I've always hated the word 'APPAL' (or 'appalled' or 'appalling') because I dislike hearing the sound of my name inside other words." I can't work out if there's a case of extreme ego or extreme self-hatred going on there.

And I can't help feeling that Ros Barber misses the point with her rather po-faced reply. "Words are to be loved. Their associations may be unpleasant but words themselves are full of poetry (and history, and geography)," she says. "Delicious vowel sounds and tongue-tickling consonants. There isn't a word in the English language that doesn't excite me if I think > about it long > enough."

>
> Sorry, Ros, I can't agree. I'm with Rhian Edwards on 'chillax' -
> "the most > unnecessary and obnoxious linguistic blend to have ever been
> coined". Except > possibly for 'no-brainer'...
>
> Whether it's 'hubby' or 'sassy' or 'webinar' – what are the words
> that make
> you wince?
>
> (many folks are posting their most hated words in the comments)
>
> http://www.guardian.co.uk/books/booksblog/2009/jul/07/words-wince-hated-p > oets
> guidelines

↑ Index

119. amy king

Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude

Fri 10 Jul 2009

Communities seem to actually be occasions, occasional or frequent occasions, and not, as you note, unified homogeneous (or static) groups. Akin to Wittgenstein's theory family resemblance and games. They appear as a solid front when they come together in the name of community to respond to something, typically an affront on people who, intentionally or not, carry the political label assigned or find themselves in circumstances that they voluntarily entered based on a loose premise -- and then dissolve again, unaware of each member's "community" status, until the next affront or call to occasion arises ...

Amy

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, Lauren Russell <[redacted]> wrote:

I hate the word "community," as in "The Black Community," "The LGBT Community," "The Jewish Community," etc., because it advances an oversimplified view of the world in asserting the existence of these enormous "communities" that do not actually exist. I mean, what is the often-discussed Black Community, anyway? There are many black communities, and there are black people who do not belong to any community, and there are black people who belong to communities that consist primarily of people who are not black. There is no single, homogenous "Black Community" as that misuse of the word seems to suggest.

Lauren

↑ Index

120. Catherine Daly
Re: MARK(S)
Fri 10 Jul 2009

---

so should the filter words be words you love or words you hate? or should they be some sort of allergen related words, like "tissue" and "histamine"?

On Thu, Jul 9, 2009 at 9:48 PM, CA Conrad<[redacted]> wrote:
> in Ted Pearson's MARK(S) zine online:
> http://www.markszine.net
>
>

--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

↑ Index

121. amy king
I want to write fiction but ...
Fri 10 Jul 2009

---

but poetry always stops me.Â

Just wondering, so thought I'd ask a bunch of poets who might have the same itch, why can't you scratch it?Â Â Why this hurdle in making the transition?Â

John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some fiction I end up writing a poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often think itâ€™s become for me a device for tricking myself into writing poetry."

Kristy Bowen -- "While one of the coolest things about poetry for me is the ability to twist language in all sorts of ways, fiction depends far too much on meaning, on conveyance, to allow too much twisting or prodding before you lose your reader. Even in my own reading exploits, the point from which I enter a piece of fiction is entirely different from the state of mind in which I enter a poem. Anything can happen in a poem, jumps of logic, of image, of meaning, and I'm ..."Â cont'd here:Â http://tiny.cc/fiction502

http://tiny.cc/fiction502

Amy

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

122. Mary Kasimor

Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Fri 10 Jul 2009

Well...I have attempted to write fiction, but it takes so long. I don't think that is the reason, though. I know many poets write fiction and non-fiction. I find that my brain works with short bursts of thoughts, not prolonged bursts of thoughts. It is a shame. Maybe those of us who would like to write fiction should start an online workshop of sorts. (I was reading the below post, and yes, poetry is word acrobatics, certainly more than fiction. Mary

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, amy king <[redacted]> wrote:

From: amy king <[redacted]>
Subject: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 12:27 PM

but poetry always stops me.Â

Just wondering, so thought I'd ask a bunch of poets who might have the same itch, why can't you scratch it?Â Â Why this hurdle in making the transition?Â

John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some fiction I end up writing a poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often think itâ€™s become for me a device for tricking myself into writing poetry."

Kristy Bowen -- "While one of the coolest things about poetry for me is the ability to twist language in all sorts of ways, fiction depends far too much on meaning, on conveyance, to allow too much twisting or prodding before you lose your reader. Even in my own reading exploits, the point from which I enter a piece of fiction is entirely different from the state of mind in which I enter a poem. Anything can happen in a poem, jumps of logic, of image, of meaning, and I'm ..."Â cont'd here:Â http://tiny.cc/fiction502

http://tiny.cc/fiction502

Amy

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

123. Aryanil Mukherjee

Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Fri 10 Jul 2009

---

delighted to join the team. same itch. scratched it too...

and the scratch has given me time and again what I callÂ hybrid or multidiciplinaryÂ text where fiction, film writing, reportage and poetry have performed a fast merry-go-round so as to remain undistinguishable...

I think poets have a great advantage here compared to fiction writers - they are more ambidextrous than their counterparts.

Aryanil

----- Forwarded Message -----
From: "amy king" <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Friday, July 10, 2009 1:27:58 PM GMT -05:00 US/Canada Eastern Subject: I want to write fiction but ...

but poetry always stops me.Â

Just wondering, so thought I'd ask a bunch of poets who might have the same itch, why can't you scratch it?Â Â Why this hurdle in making the transition?Â

John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some fiction I end up writing a poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often think itâ€™s become for me a device for tricking myself into writing poetry."

Kristy Bowen -- "While one of the coolest things about poetry for me is the ability to twist language in all sorts of ways, fiction depends far too much on meaning, on conveyance, to allow too much twisting or prodding before you lose your reader. Even in my own reading exploits, the point from which I enter a piece of fiction is entirely different from the state of mind in which I enter a poem. Anything can happen in a poem, jumps of logic, of image, of meaning, and I'm ..."Â cont'd here:Â http://tiny.cc/fiction502

http://tiny.cc/fiction502

Amy

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

124. David Chirot

fw new soundscape / performed text - buds have spoken b(l)ack - from sean burn

Fri 10 Jul 2009

---

one of the best multi media artists there is and with political/human rights & awareness work and conscience

---------- Forwarded message ----------
From: sean burn <[redacted]>
Date: Fri, Jul 10, 2009 at 9:48 AM

dear all

just to let you know i have a new soundscape / performed text *buds have spoken b(l)ack *premièred at this years carlisles arts festival. details below

Arcade Arts Exhibition, Unit 2-4 Lowther Arcade, Carlisle, Cumbria CA3. 11am - 5pm. Friday 17th – Sat 25th July. for full program contact Caroline Dalton 07856820680 / [redacted] *buds have spoken b(l)ack. 5'38''. 2009. *a soundscape / performed text in tribute to the work of lorna graves, visual artist whose work came from the land, and was produced outdoors if possible, allowing the elements to leave their traces on her work. in response i have made a soundmap overlayered with a text spoken / whispered / chanted etc to create a landscape that transcends the recognisable, to find the magical.

*sean burn is a writer, performer & outsider artist with a growing international reputation. the maker of fifteen poetry films which have now received many screenings worldwide, as well as at tate modern and national film theatre studios, london. *his performance for non-theatre spaces - bastilles englan concerned with 'escaping all our asylums' is currently touring. his latest spoken word cd was *speaksong with gareth mitchell, musician. *skrev press (www.skrevpress.com <http://www.skrev-press.com/>) are publishing a third full collection of his writing – *wings are giving out – shortly. more at www.gobscure.info <http://www.gobscure.info/>

if you are unable to attend in person you are welcome to download this work for free as an mp3 file (5'38'' / 6mb) from www.sendspace.com/file/ti3uuo

best wishes sean burn

↑ Index

125. Stephen Vincent
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Fri 10 Jul 2009

Yes, as a definable, factual, actual group, 'community' is/was probably always a fiction. Yet, 'community' particularly as a word representing group fiction(s) back circa 196_ - 197_ was in many ways a very effective one in terms of uniting people and giving power to create, support, pass and enforce legislation (new laws) that overturned discriminatory practices, furthering job training and promotion, opening up kinds of scholarship, no matter what any individual of any color or sexual or ethnic persuasion thought about their actual relationship (or not) to to such within their own ascribed 'community'. I suspect nothing would have ever changed without multiple 'communities ' , fictitious, or momentary, or we would be still stuck with our white fore-present-future white fathers who might have been quite happy to be still in charge of the 'community at large.' (Think Cheney for starters, et al!).

By the way, the Souther Poverty Law Center needs your contributions. Phone call last night tells me the Center is tracking 87 hate groups in California alone, and that, across the country, hate crimes are on a big rise - attributing part of that to portions of the population who cannot tolerate having an African-American President.

Stephen Vincent
http://stephenvincent.net/blog/

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, tyrone williams <[redacted]> wrote:

From: tyrone williams <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude

To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 9:56 AM

Agree wholeheartedly, Lauren.

Tyrone

-----Original Message-----
>From: Lauren Russell <[redacted]>
>Sent: Jul 10, 2009 1:42 AM
>To: [redacted]
>Subject: Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
>
>I hate the word "community," as in "The Black Community," "The LGBT Community," "The Jewish Community," etc., because it advances an oversimplified view of the world in asserting the existence of these enormous "communities" that do not actually exist. I mean, what is the often-discussed Black Community, anyway? There are many black communities, and there are black people who do not belong to any community, and there are black people who belong to communities that consist primarily of people who are not black. There is no single, homogenous "Black Community" as that misuse of the word seems to suggest.
>
>Lauren
>
>
>
>
>

Tyrone Williams

↑ Index

126. Carol Novack

Performance by Iranian-born author Amir Parsa et al., including me: Weds., July 15, Purdah 2.0: Body Matters, Engendered 09 Festival, closing night

Fri 10 Jul 2009

Closing Night Engendered 09, Purdah 2.0: Body Matters

July 15, Halvai Gallery, 75 Grand St, NY, 7pm Onwards

*
*

"Now, Then, and Forever:

*revolutions, politics, literature, contestation *

* *

* Creative-Critical-Contemporary*

*C*ome to see, hear and discuss the works of some of the leading avant-garde writers of our time

Canto XIV - Dusk's Ether with Ashes

the bassadiga

Interactive Readings and Discussions

Amir Parsa

With

Joe Brentâ€¨& Amir ElSaffar

Kaveh Bassiri

Sarah Husain

Carol Novack

Rodrigo Toscano

July 15, 200, Halvai Gallery , ([redacted] in Soho)

7 Prelude | 7:30 Bassa | 8 Fragments | 9 Party

Canto XIV - Dusk's Ether with Ashes

Parafrags (parallel fragments) to Canto XIV at Halvai Gallery unfolding on:

1. Engendered.org: Canto XIV Narraflow

2. Twitter (amparsa): Canto XIV Narratweet

3. Bassadiga: Canto XIV Oralities/Readation,

4. +

A bassadiga is a short interventionist interlude with minimal props meant to present inroads into artistic and/or literary innovations and alternatives. The bassadiga consists of readings, oral expressions and, occasionally, brief mini-lectures and minimalistically performative interactions and discussions.

About Amir Parsa: An internationally acclaimed writer and poet, Amir Parsa is the author of over ten literary books, most recently* Drive-by Cannibalism in the Baroque Tradition*, and Erre. An uncategorizable body of work, Mr. Parsa's literary oeuvre - written in English, French and Persian - constitutes a radical polyphonic enterprise that puts into question national, cultural and aesthetic attachments and discourses while fashioning new genres, forms and even species of literary artifacts (*Fragment *and Ifs & Co.). He was included in the anthology of new French and Francophone poets (Ed. Huguet 2004). Born in Tehran, Mr. Parsa holds degrees from Princeton and Columbia and currently lives in New York, where he is a Lecturer and Educator at the Museum of Modern Art. His work is featured in Purdah 2.0: Body Matters as a site specific installation and constitutes one fragment of canto XIV. [image: mailto:] [image: Engendered] [image: Pardah 2.0] [image: Engendered] <http://www.engendered.org/> [image: Purdah 2.0 Body Matters]

Purdah 2.0: Body Matters
The Second Annual Arts Exhibition at Engendered

June 25th-July 16th, 2009 | Halvai Gallery, 75 Grand Street, NY Opening Reception: June 30, 2009 7 p.m.

After the inaugural edition of Purdah - the unprecedented transcultural exhibition on art, gender and sexuality last year, Engendered presents Purdah 2.0: Body Matters.

Curated In Two Parts by:
Amina Begum Ahmed & Priyanka Mathew

Exhibition Director :
Myna Mukherjee

Body Matters is a contemporary & provocative exploration both of why the body matters and what matters of the body are, have been and could become. Across cultures, how do we find a visual and aesthetic language to engage with the body as simultaneously a site of refuge, resistance, tradition, freedom, sorrow, solace, desire, pain, rebellion, and rage? Body Matters investigates the body as a site for contestations of power & violence, perception & reality, memory & loss, and finally, station & displacement - especially within urban ecologies and the ever morphous shifting boundaries of personal and political geographies.

Ahmed brings together diverse artists whose stories and experiences form a narrative that excavates, personalizes and reclaims the 'body' that has been subsumed by the dominant normative . On the other hand, Mathew's curation of artists explores the human form as an agent/catalyst to dissect political, social and metaphysical dialogues on sexuality, gender and the relationships in the grey areas that don't qualify neatly in either category.

Body Matters brings together figurative, conceptual, experiential and also site specific works by some of the most leading, iconic and emergent transcultural artists from India, Pakistan, Iran, U.S & China.

For more info: [redacted]
<http://mc/compose?to=[redacted]> visit www.engendered.org

Sunil Gupta along with - Performance Poetry Talks Screenings Education Anwar Saeed Marcus Leatherdale Ayesha Durrani Abir Karmarkar Raghava KK Fareeda Batool Khalil Chishtee Dong Ming Guang Shailja Gupta Amita Bhatt Srinivas Kuruganti Amir Parsa Pritika Chowdhry Noelle Williams Salman Toor Ariane Lopez-Huici Marco Guerra & Yasmina Alaoui In collaboration with [image: Tucker Robbins] <http://www.tuckerrobbins.com/> [image: Halvai]<http://www.halvai.com/>

--
Latest Publications
http://www.drunkenboat.com/db10/10vis/novack/beginning.html
http://necessaryfiction.com/2009/07/carol-novack-four-variations.html
http://fr.calameo.com/read/000007739c1b68f2a353f http://www.wheelhousemagazine.com/prose/Execution_All_Fall_Down.mp3 http://www.wheelhousemagazine.com/poetry/Desire.mp3 http://www.the-chimaera.com/Feb2009/Theme/Poems/Novack.html
http://www.crossingchaos.com/WHAT_TO_DO_WITH_THE_BABIES_by_CAROL_NOVACK.html

Blog: http://carolnovack.blogspot.com/

Coming in 2010: The illustrated collection "Giraffes in Hiding: The Mythical Memoirs of Carol Novack," from Crossing Chaos Enigmatic Ink.

CD: INVENTIONS II: Fictions, Fusions & Poems is available for purchase at http://cdbaby.com/cd/cnwdcmbrm

FILM: http://www.vudici.net/movies/Civil_War/Civil_War_1.html

MAD HATTERS' REVIEW: edgy & enlightened art, literature, & music in the Age of Dementia: http://www.madhattersreview.com

"Mapquest If you walk swiftly to reach deadlines, you may miss the turn. If you walk slowly to arrive at specific places, you may miss the turn. Walk without point past the playgrounds and cemeteries, wedding rotundas and taverns. Walk only toward possibility without thought and reflection without light." - CN c. 2008 from "Gated Communities"

↑ Index

127. David Chirot
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Fri 10 Jul 2009

"The blank and ruin we see in Nature {prose here on poetics} is in our own eye.
R W Emerson

i've never really understood why this endless setting against each other of two different things is supposed to be so important; are Americans too hooked on the US vs THEM mentality---? do poets feel so insecure they have to keep attacking prose?

a good deal of what a piece of writing is is what is there not only on the part of the writer, but the reader also people write of wanting "open work"
yet isn't there a narrowness rather than openness on the part of the reader who demands openness but only of a certain kind?
how open is the reader to openness--?
does it justt end at a narrow point--or, before even reading, judge a piece as "unopen" --because prose say is "never open?"--

i.e. if one approaches a "poem" as always superior to "dull, functional narrative unloved unwanted prose"--then of course poetry will come out, no matter if it is good or bad-- i think it is a lack of imagiantion; perhaps a form of lack of corage to--keep the doors and windows open to find among what blows in rains in snows --has to offer-to make use of and find interest in- doesn't everyone i a sense when they get tiredof the poem or prose infront of them start writing it in some other way--? (the French writer Pierre bayard brings this up in his book on How to tlak about books one has never read--) as Aryanil wrote--one is really as a writer multi disclinipary--i've been a reorter, a reviewer, an essaysist, a traanslator, a visua/sound/lecial poet, a collage artoist, a griffiti maker, maker of ruBEings, of clay impression spray paintings vbideo maker fiklm maker actor screen play writer . .. etc from each kind of writing both as writer and reader one always find materials of interest and use--there is always something to "pick up on" in one media or grnre for a completely different one; so as not to be creating the "expected unexpected" dictated bythe set of rules one adhers to, or "school, type, group, community" of writers adheres to no, one takes and learns from every method continually because they are al interrelated--al are writing and reading written and read silent or aloud-or with other materials than pen and ink, pencil and eraser-- prose does la lot of things far better than poetry and often times may be poetry of a kind only the very best of poems can touch and poetry does things prose doesn't do-though it can rise to the heights of the best prose--

one takes note that many poets write both good poems and good prose--good radio or film scripts--good drama--good short stories (dylan thomas for example-)

Felix Feneon demostarted that one may make both novellas and peotry out of the from of the 3 line faits divers, "Nouvelles en trois lignes" (Nouvelles are both short stories and 'the news"--)

perhaps what Amy notes is poetry as a specialization, in which case it becomes separate, and even elitist in its view of other forms of writing, and constructs a hierarchy within itself, in which only certain forms are permitted, only certain words, only certain distortions dis uptures transgressions and so on, the more specialized it becomes-

if more writings are viewed as interconnected by being simply different forms of the same underlying act,writing, then they are writing al of them and each has a lot to give to each--

unlike Aranil, i don't think anyone kind of writer has an advantage over the other, such as poets over prose writers, in making the ulti-disciplinary art adfer all, a poet is writing this!

isn't the poet going to do their best to "sell the idea of poetry's superiority?"

the idea of one kind of humans, one kind of writers, being better than another (poets better than prose writers)--the world's too ful of "superiority" and "us vs them" as it is--
and whatabout greatreporters journalist--??
"why i have believed as many as 5 impossible things before breakfast!" says the Red Queen in Alice through the Lookingglass-- writers of the world unite!!!!
nothing to lose but the chains that divide one kind of writer from another

On Fri, Jul 10, 2009 at 10:56 AM, Aryanil Mukherjee <[redacted]>wrote:

> delighted to join the team. same itch. scratched it too...
>
> and the scratch has given me time and again what I call hybrid or multidiciplinary text where fiction, film writing, reportage and poetry have performed a fast merry-go-round so as to remain undistinguishable...
>
> I think poets have a great advantage here compared to fiction writers - they are more ambidextrous than their counterparts.
>
> Aryanil
>
> ----- Forwarded Message -----
> From: "amy king" <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Friday, July 10, 2009 1:27:58 PM GMT -05:00 US/Canada Eastern

Subject: I want to write fiction but ...

but poetry always stops me.

Just wondering, so thought I'd ask a bunch of poets who might have the same itch, why can't you scratch it? Why this hurdle in making the transition?

John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some fiction I end up writing a poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often think it's become for me a device for tricking myself into writing poetry."

Kristy Bowen -- "While one of the coolest things about poetry for me is the ability to twist language in all sorts of ways, fiction depends far too much on meaning, on conveyance, to allow too much twisting or prodding before you lose your reader. Even in my own reading exploits, the point from which I enter a piece of fiction is entirely different from the state of mind in which I enter a poem. Anything can happen in a poem, jumps of logic, of image, of meaning, and I'm ..." cont'd here: http://tiny.cc/fiction502

http://tiny.cc/fiction502

Amy

———

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

128. Jade Hudson
ToxicPoetry.com Call for Submissions
Fri 10 Jul 2009

Dear Poets, I have had the pleasure of taking part in the creation of a new independent online publication for experimental mp3 poetry (www.toxicpoetry.com). We are in the process of constructing our first issue and are calling for submissions. Everyone who does mp3 format poetry is welcome to submit. Check out our guidelines at www.toxicpoetry.com Thank you,

--Jade Hudson

↑ Index

129. George Bowering
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Fri 10 Jul 2009

I have never found it to be a problem.
I have managed a lot of novels and books of stories.

I think that that is not all that uncommon in Canada.
Kroetsch, Atwood, MacEwen, Ondaatje, McFadden, Cohen, etc.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 10:27 AM, amy king wrote:

> but poetry always stops me.
>
> Just wondering, so thought I'd ask a bunch of poets who might have the same itch, why can't you scratch it? Why this hurdle in making the transition?
>
> John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some fiction I end up writing a > poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often think it’s become for me a device for tricking myself into writing poetry."
>
> Kristy Bowen -- "While one of the coolest things about poetry for me is the ability to > twist language in all sorts of ways, fiction depends far too much on meaning, on conveyance, to allow too much twisting or prodding before you lose your reader. Even in my own reading exploits, the point from which I enter a piece of fiction is entirely different from the state > of mind in which I enter a poem. Anything can happen in a poem, jumps of logic, of image, of meaning, and I'm ..." cont'd here: http://tiny.cc/fiction502

>
> http://tiny.cc/fiction502
>
> Amy
>
> _____
>
> Amy's Alias
>
> http://amyking.org/
>
> welcome.html

Geo. Bowering,
RCAF 227498

↑ Index

130. Charlotte Mandel

Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Fri 10 Jul 2009

Well, I have published some short fiction, but stopped after struggling with one piece that wanted to become a novel. It would have required research and mind-attention for too long a time. And in fiction, I have to deal with people - often stubbornly insistent on having their own way. Poetry gives me greater joy of language. And I can go anywhere, discover music in rhythm and thought.
Charlotte

On Jul 10, 2009, at 1:27 PM, amy king wrote:

but poetry always stops me.

Just wondering, so thought I'd ask a bunch of poets who might have the same itch, why can't you scratch it? Why this hurdle in making the transition?

John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some fiction I end up writing a poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often think it’s become for me a device for tricking myself into writing poetry."

Kristy Bowen -- "While one of the coolest things about poetry for me is the ability to twist language in all sorts of ways, fiction depends far too much on meaning, on conveyance, to allow too much twisting or prodding before you lose your reader. Even in my own reading exploits, the point from which I enter a piece of fiction is entirely different from the state of mind in which I enter a poem. Anything can happen in a poem, jumps of logic, of image, of meaning, and I'm ..." cont'd here: http:// tiny.cc/fiction502

http://tiny.cc/fiction502

Amy

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

131. mIEKAL aND
"Locavores," "staycations" get official in dictionary
Fri 10 Jul 2009

(speaking of words to despise—staycation makes me want to forget the neologisms ever existed)

"Locavores," "staycations" get official in dictionary

http://www.reuters.com/article/lifestyleMolt/idUSTRE5690LE20090710

"Locavores" can officially take a "staycation" this year, being among 100 new words to feature in the 2009 edition of a leading U.S. dictionary, Merriam-Webster's Collegiate Dictionary.

John Morse, president and publisher of Merriam-Webster Inc., said staycation -- meaning a vacation spent at home or nearby -- was a good example of a word meeting a need and establishing itself in the language very quickly, having first appeared in 2005 but taken off in use in 2007.

He said people enjoyed blending existing words.

"Another example of this kind of creative wordplay from this year's list is frenemy: one who pretends to be a friend but is actually an enemy," said Morse in a statement.

"But, in addition to these 'portmanteau words', we have added new words from more predictable categories, like science, health, technology, and popular culture, which have also seen widespread use across a variety of publications."

Many of the new words which appear in the 11th updated print edition and online version of the dictionary reflected the importance of the environment, such a "carbon footprint," which is a measure of carbon emissions, and "green-collar," referring to jobs that help the environment.

Words relating to health and medicine were also featured such as "locavore," or a person eating foods grown locally, and "cardioprotective," meaning serving to protect the heart.

The list included "waterboarding," an interrogation technique decried by human rights groups in which water is poured into the detainee's mouth and nose to give the sensation of drowning.

Pop culture gave rise to a list of new words, with this year's edition featuring "docusoap," "fan fiction," and "reggaeton" -- a popular music of Puerto Rico that combines rap with Caribbean rhythms.

Words from online activities were also making their way into the mainstream, some of which have come back into popular use, such as "sock puppet," which can mean a hand puppet made of a sock or a false online identity used to deceive.

"Vlog," a blog containing video material, makes its first appearance in the dictionary as does "webisode," a TV show that can be seen through a website.

New eating trends were also highlighted by first-time entries such as "acai" and "goji," both berries that can used in drinks or as juice, and "shawarma," meaning a sandwich of sliced lamb or chicken with vegetables, and often tahini, wrapped in pita bread.

Merriam-Webster Inc. has been revising and publishing dictionaries since 1843.

Here's the link to the list of 100 new words:

http://www.merriam-webster.com/info/newwords09.htm

↑ Index

132. Christophe Casamassima

Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Fri 10 Jul 2009

---

i am currently in the transition, working on longish prose. my advise to myself was, make prose theatrical. if poetry, in some sense, the lyric, is musical, then prose should at least be as musical - but with such great bulk and hulk the best it can do is be theatrical. what do i mean? here's the first bit, from the temporarily titled "The Rose"

â€œAbout that kiss,â€ she said, bending toward the Basin: â€œtoo pluperfectâ€¦ not preternatural enough.â€ Everyone at that time had exhausted their own causality, insipience being the modern cÃ¶urap, the engendered benevolence doled out at the fraternal order of single mothers reunion, and sunbleached in a stylized fruit basket. She took another sip of Warm Tea: â€œRice planters: Ogden, Bertram, Daly and Francesco ripped her in two for a sandbagfull.â€ The Sign, the Rose, Three Horses, the Cattle â€“ even the investigation meant nothing to her. Their names, hers, was a trifle â€“ no one knew who or what came next. An old woman, and grieving flesh made a corpulent plow, divulging the scars of languid hygiene: â€œI said â€˜lascivivious,â€™â€ she said at her reflection in the Warm Tea. â€œIt is an incongruous fallacy to believe anything more, that a horse could make tepid an incongruous force â€“ that of the mind over a trifle. Who can bare it? Who should want to?â€ The Warm Tea gurgled at the disparity â€“ she lunged again: â€œAfter eight long, hard earned and a forcep â€“ thatâ€™s the total bigamy.â€

> ----- Original Message -----
> From: "amy king" <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: I want to write fiction but ...
> Date: Fri, 10 Jul 2009 10:27:58 -0700
>
> but poetry always stops me.Â
>
> Just wondering, so thought I'd ask a bunch of poets who might have the same itch, why can't you scratch it?Â Â Why this hurdle in making the transition?Â
>
> John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some fiction I end up writing a > poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often think itâ€™s become for me a device for tricking myself into writing poetry."
>
> Kristy Bowen -- "While one of the coolest things about poetry for me is the ability to > twist language in all sorts of ways, fiction depends far too much on meaning, on conveyance, to allow too much twisting or prodding before you lose your reader. Even in my own reading exploits, the point from which I enter a piece of fiction is entirely different from the state > of mind in which I enter a poem. Anything can happen in a poem, jumps of logic, of image, of meaning, and I'm ..."Â cont'd here:Â http://tiny.cc/fiction502

>
> http://tiny.cc/fiction502
>
> Amy
>
> _____
>
> Amy's Alias
>
> http://amyking.org/

--
Powered By Outblaze

↑ Index

133. Allan Revich
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Fri 10 Jul 2009

Ouch!

In my high school days I probably would have asked you if your family lived in a submarine (courtesy of a joke that was popular with us pubescent boys)...

Q: What's long and hard and full of se(a)men?
A: A submarine.

I suspect that the word "submarine" may now join your personal list of wince-words! Sorry :)

Allan

-----Original Message-----
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of David Seaman

Sent: Thursday, July 09, 2009 9:44 PM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude

Semen, since my family name is Seaman. And students ask me if spelling counts.....

David W. Seaman, Ph.D.
http://personal.georgiasouthern.edu/~dseaman/Welcome.html

On Wednesday, July 08, 2009, at 02:02PM, "Mary Kasimor" <[redacted]> wrote:
>The word that I was looking for that I just HATE is "impacted."
>Mary
>
>--- On Tue, 7/7/09, Ruth Lepson <[redacted]> wrote:
>
>
>From: Ruth Lepson <[redacted]>
>Subject: Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
>To: [redacted]
>Date: Tuesday, July 7, 2009, 11:11 PM
>
>
>'indeed'
>
>
>On 7/7/09 8:05 AM, "mIEKAL aND" <[redacted]> wrote:
>
>> Which words make you wince?
>> Poets have been asked for their most hated words. What are yours?
>>
>> 'What word do you hate and why?' is the intriguing question put to a >> selection of poets by the Ledbury festival. Philip Wells's reply is >> the winner for me - 'pulchritude' is certainly up there on my >> blacklist. He even explains his animosity in suitably poetic terms:
>>
>> "it violates all the magical impulses of balanced onomatopoeic
>> language - it of course means "beautiful", but its meaning is nothing >> of the sort, being stuffed to the brim with a brutally latinate cudgel
>> of barbaric consonants. If consonants represent riverbanks and vowels
>> the river's flow, this is the word equivalent of the bottomless abyss >> of dry bones, where demons gather to spit acid."
>>

>> For Geraldine Monk, "it's got to be 'redacted' which makes me feel >> totally sick. It's a brutish sounding word. It doesn't flow, it prods >> at you in a nasty manner."
>>
>> Both these poets understand that the key to words that make you feel >> nauseous is not the meaning - it's easy, after all, to hate the word
>> 'torture' - but something else entirely. Something idiosyncratic, >> something about the way the word feels in your mouth as you say it.
>> The horrors of 'membrane', for instance. Or the eccentricity of >> 'gusset'.
>>
>> Having said that, I'm still trying to get my head around Paul >> Batchelor's explanation that "I've always hated the word 'APPAL' (or
>> 'appalled' or 'appalling') because I dislike hearing the sound of my >> name inside other words." I can't work out if there's a case of >> extreme ego or extreme self-hatred going on there.
>>
>> And I can't help feeling that Ros Barber misses the point with her >> rather po-faced reply. "Words are to be loved. Their associations may >> be unpleasant but words themselves are full of poetry (and history, >> and geography)," she says. "Delicious vowel sounds and tongue-tickling >> consonants. There isn't a word in the English language that doesn't >> excite me if I think about it long enough."
>>
>> Sorry, Ros, I can't agree. I'm with Rhian Edwards on 'chillax' - "the >> most unnecessary and obnoxious linguistic blend to have ever been >> coined". Except possibly for 'no-brainer'...
>>
>> Whether it's 'hubby' or 'sassy' or 'webinar' - what are the words that >> make you wince?
>>
>> (many folks are posting their most hated words in the comments)
>>
>>
http://www.guardian.co.uk/books/booksblog/2009/jul/07/words-wince-hated-poet s guidelines &
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
>

↑ Index

134. Skip Fox
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Fri 10 Jul 2009

I sat down almost three years ago and began writing something I thought totally worthless, beyond publication possibilities (on purpose), etc. and have to date written an ungodly amount of revisions of a 150-page novella. Can't stop going back in. (Even this morning, after submitting it to a publisher yesterday.)

Before that, only little, single-impulse stories. "Flasher fictions" as one editor described them.

Now I feel the sense that the difference in poetry/fiction from the writing standpoint is vibrant and real, but also protean and (sorry Bob) not the use beyond taxonomy that people would normally consider.

I remember Creeley writing that he wanted to be considered a "writer" rather than a "poet." I certainly see what he means (having written poetry for nearly four decades), but I also see the draw in my engagement with fiction is just a winsome, compelling, alluring, etc. as that within the writing of poetry.

In both, a luminous fleshy presence.

I won't trade any of my various experiences (and in writing all types of poetry as well) for any of the others. (Thankfully, one doesn't have to.)

↑ Index

135. Peter hidden poem with brain scans and chairs
Fri 10 Jul 2009

hidden poem with brain scans and chairs<http://ciccariello.viewbook.com/brain#/1/>

Peter Ciccariello
http://invisiblenotes.blogspot.com/
http://uncommonvision.blogspot.com/
http://poemsfromprovidence.blogspot.com/
http://uncommon-vision.blogspot.com/

You can find my art and writing updates on Twitter
https://twitter.com/ciccariello

↑ Index

136. Mary Kasimor
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Fri 10 Jul 2009

I figure that those who can write both fiction and poetry are either more talented or more tenacious. What are your thoughts on that?

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 2:34 PM

I have never found it to be a problem.
I have managed a lot of novels and books of stories.

I think that that is not all that uncommon in Canada.
Kroetsch, Atwood, MacEwen, Ondaatje, McFadden, Cohen, etc.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 10:27 AM, amy king wrote:

> but poetry always stops me.
>
> Just wondering, so thought I'd ask a bunch of poets who might have the same itch, why can't you scratch it?Â Â Â Why this hurdle in making the transition?
>
> John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some fiction I end up writing a > poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often think itâ€™s become for me a device for tricking myself into writing poetry."
>
> Kristy Bowen -- "While one of the coolest things about poetry for me is the ability to twist language in all sorts of ways, fiction depends far too much on meaning, on conveyance, to allow too much twisting or prodding before you lose your reader. Even in my own reading exploits, the point from which I enter a piece of fiction is entirely different from the state of mind in which I enter a poem. Anything can happen in a poem, jumps of logic, of image, of meaning, and I'm ..."Â cont'd here:Â http://tiny.cc/fiction502

> http://tiny.cc/fiction502
>
> Amy
>
> _____
>
> Amy's Alias
>
> http://amyking.org/

Geo. Bowering,
RCAFÂ 227498

↑ Index

137. George Bowering
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Fri 10 Jul 2009

On Jul 10, 2009, at 3:51 PM, Mary Kasimor wrote:

> I figure that those who can write both fiction and poetry are > either more talented or more tenacious. What are your thoughts on > that?
>
>
Have observed without being able to analyse---

That is, George Stanley is a superb and form-inventing poet, but he could never write two pages of prose fiction.

On the other hand the good poet Gilbert Sorrentino became one of the US's very best novelists.
In reading him it is a lot more work to read the novels than to read the poems.
I expect that such was also true of the writing.

George Henry Bowering
Once saw Alexis Smith plain.

↑ Index

138. Nicholas Piombino
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Fri 10 Jul 2009

When I was looking at Ashbery's Selected recently (I've been a fan for over 40 years) I had the thought: there is real coloring of fiction about this writing, only the "episodes" and "interior monologues" are very brief and evanescent. Yet a particular and recognizable attitude, "voice", whatever, and a sense of a specific life, with its relationships, big and petty issues, disappointments, revelations, worries, surprises, dejections being reflected on, is continuous.

On 7/10/09 4:03 PM, "Charlotte Mandel" <[redacted]> wrote:

> John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some fiction I end up writing a > poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often think it¹s become for me a device for tricking myself into writing poetry."

↑ Index

139. steve russell
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Fri 10 Jul 2009

there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish. & of course we have the Buk, as well as Raymond Carver. I blame the so-called creative writing programs for the unfortunate distinction between fiction and prose. Jeanette Winterson doesn't make such distinctions when she discusses her work.

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, Mary Kasimor <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Mary Kasimor <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 6:51 PM

I figure that those who can write both fiction and poetry are either more talented or more tenacious. What are your thoughts on that?

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 2:34 PM

I have never found it to be a problem.
I have managed a lot of novels and books of stories.

I think that that is not all that uncommon in Canada.
Kroetsch, Atwood, MacEwen, Ondaatje, McFadden, Cohen, etc.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 10:27 AM, amy king wrote:

> but poetry always stops me.
>
> Just wondering, so thought I'd ask a bunch of poets who might have the same itch, why can't you scratch it?Â Â Â Why this hurdle in making the transition?
>
> John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some fiction I end up writing a > poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often think > itâ€™s become for me a device for tricking myself into writing poetry."
>
> Kristy Bowen -- "While one of the coolest things about poetry for me is the ability to twist language in all sorts of ways, fiction depends far too much on > meaning, on conveyance, to allow too much twisting or prodding before > you lose your reader. Even in my own reading exploits, the point from > which I enter a piece of fiction is entirely different from the state > of mind in which I enter a poem. Anything can happen in a poem, jumps > of logic, of image, of meaning, and I'm ..."Â cont'd here:Â http://tiny.cc/fiction502
>
> http://tiny.cc/fiction502
>
> Amy
>
> ———
>
> Amy's Alias
>
> http://amyking.org/

Geo. Bowering,
RCAFÂ 227498

↑ Index

140. carol dorf
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Fri 10 Jul 2009

---

fungible labor force

sounds like a fungus but actually means workers without any rights to their jobs

↑ Index

141. Susan Webster Schultz
recent Tinfish Editor blog posts
Fri 10 Jul 2009

Please have a look:

* "The angel at the center of this rind": Wallace Stevens and Hawai's Pineapple Culture
* The Connections Between Things: Gary Y. Okihiro, Ledward Kaapana and the Centrality of Hawaiian Culture
* "I AM SURPRISED WHEN THE SAME SEASON RETURNS": Albert Saijo in Volcano

http://tinfisheditor.blogspot.com

aloha, Susan

↑ Index

142. Jonathan Morse
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Fri 10 Jul 2009

---

steve russell wrote:
> there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish.
Goethe. Rilke. Hardy. Hugo. If you'll accept non-fiction, you can add Yeats and Dryden. If you count letters as imaginative literature, and why shouldn't you?, you can add Keats and Dickinson. Think big.

Jonathan Morse

↑ Index

143. Lauren Russell
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Sat 11 Jul 2009

You make a good point, Stephen, and I can accept that this (mis)use of "community" may have served a purpose, though I don't think I like the term any better, or the tendency of politicians and the media to invoke "Community" in order to make sweeping generalizations.

And thanks, Tyrone. I'm glad to know that I'm not alone in feeling this way.

Lauren

Date: Fri, 10 Jul 2009 11:19:26 -0700
From: Stephen Vincent <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude

Yes, as a definable, factual, actual group, 'community' is/was probably alw= ays a fiction.=A0 Yet,=A0 'community' particularly as a word representing g= roup fiction(s) back circa 196_ - 197_ was in many ways a very effective on= e in terms of uniting people and giving power to create, support, pass and = enforce legislation (new laws) that overturned discriminatory practices, fu= rthering job training and promotion, opening up kinds of scholarship, no ma= tter what any individual of any color or sexual or ethnic persuasion though= t about their actual relationship (or not) to to such within their own ascr= ibed 'community'.=A0=A0 I suspect nothing would have ever changed without m= ultiple 'communities ' , fictitious, or momentary,=A0 or we would be still = stuck with our white fore-present-future white fathers who might have been = quite happy to be still in charge of the 'community at large.' (Think Chene= y for starters, et al!).=20

By the way, the Souther Poverty Law Center needs your contributions. Phone = call last night tells me the Center is tracking 87 hate groups in Californi= a alone, and that, across the country, hate crimes are on a big rise - attr= ibuting part of that to portions of the population who cannot tolerate havi= ng an African-American President.=20

Stephen Vincent
=A0http://stephenvincent.net/blog/

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, tyrone williams <[redacted]> wrote:

From: tyrone williams <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 9:56 AM

Agree wholeheartedly, Lauren.

Tyrone

-----Original Message-----
>From: Lauren Russell <[redacted]>
>Sent: Jul 10, 2009 1:42 AM
>To: [redacted]
>Subject: Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
>
>I hate the word "community," as in "The Black Community," "The LGBT Commun= ity," "The Jewish Community," etc., because it advances an oversimplified v= iew of the world in asserting the existence of these enormous "communities"= that do not actually exist.=A0 I mean, what is the often-discussed Black C= ommunity, anyway?=A0 There are many black communities, and there are black = people who do not belong to any community, and there are black people who b= elong to communities that consist primarily of people who are not black.=A0=
 There is no single, homogenous "Black Community" as that misuse of the wor= d seems to suggest.
>
>Lauren
>

↑ Index

144. Wallis Leslie
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Sat 11 Jul 2009

"to die for"

What terrible inattention to the words coming out of our mouths leads us to say we would die for whatever delectable morsel coming into our mouths. How the misuse of that phrase diminishes what people have died for or what people are willing to die for.

Wallis Leslie

--- On Thu, 7/9/09, Lauren Russell <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Lauren Russell <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
To: [redacted]
Date: Thursday, July 9, 2009, 10:42 PM

I hate the word "community," as in "The Black Community," "The LGBT Community," "The Jewish Community," etc., because it advances an oversimplified view of the world in asserting the existence of these enormous "communities" that do not actually exist. I mean, what is the often-discussed Black Community, anyway? There are many black communities, and there are black people who do not belong to any community, and there are black people who belong to communities that consist primarily of people who are not black. There is no single, homogenous "Black Community" as that misuse of the word seems to suggest.

Lauren

↑ Index

145. steve dalachinsky

Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude

Sat 11 Jul 2009

---

lighten up
it's a ny thing to die for or that dress is just to die for

anyay what else is there worth dying for if not fashion
or a good cupcake

On Fri, 10 Jul 2009 21:51:15 -0700 Wallis Leslie <[redacted]>
writes:
> "to die for"
>
> What terrible inattention to the words coming out of our mouths > leads us to say we would die for whatever delectable morsel coming > into our mouths. How the misuse of that phrase diminishes what > people have died for or what people are willing to die for.
>
> Wallis Leslie
>
> --- On Thu, 7/9/09, Lauren Russell <[redacted]> wrote:
>
>
> From: Lauren Russell <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Thursday, July 9, 2009, 10:42 PM
>
>

> I hate the word "community," as in "The Black Community," "The LGBT > Community," "The Jewish Community," etc., because it advances an > oversimplified view of the world in asserting the existence of these > enormous "communities" that do not actually exist. I mean, what is > the often-discussed Black Community, anyway? There are many black > communities, and there are black people who do not belong to any > community, and there are black people who belong to communities that > consist primarily of people who are not black. There is no single, > homogenous "Black Community" as that misuse of the word seems to > suggest.
>
> Lauren
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

146. Asian Cha

Cha: An Asian Literary Journal seeks "Lost Teas"

Sat 11 Jul 2009

We at CHA realise that sadly online journals often fold leaving countless works without a home. If you have lost a work in this way, CHA may be interested in republishing your work in our new regular section, "Lost Teas". Please see our submission guidelines for more details: http://www.asiancha.com/guidelines.

↑ Index

147. Daniel
Reading in New Jersey
Sat 11 Jul 2009

I will read, along with some contributors to Arsenal, a new magazine I edit, at

EXHALE YOGA STUDIO
223 rt. 18 south
East Brunswick, NJ

on Friday, July 24th, from 8:00-11:00 p.m.
An open reading will follow.

~ Daniel Zimmerman

↑ Index

148. amy king
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Sat 11 Jul 2009

Skip,

From what little I've seen lately, it seems some of the most recent collections of short stories are beginning to resemble "flash fiction." I wonder if this is indicative of some sort of general waning of our communal attention spans, or what book publishers see as such.

Best,
Amy

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, Skip Fox <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Skip Fox <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 4:40 PM

I sat down almost three years ago and began writing something I thought totally worthless, beyond publication possibilities (on purpose), etc. and have to date written an ungodly amount of revisions of a 150-page novella. Can't stop going back in. (Even this morning, after submitting it to a publisher yesterday.)

Before that, only little, single-impulse stories. "Flasher fictions" as one editor described them.

Now I feel the sense that the difference in poetry/fiction from the writing standpoint is vibrant and real, but also protean and (sorry Bob) not the use beyond taxonomy that people would normally consider.

I remember Creeley writing that he wanted to be considered a "writer" rather than a "poet." I certainly see what he means (having written poetry for nearly four decades), but I also see the draw in my engagement with fiction is just a winsome, compelling, alluring, etc. as that within the writing of poetry.

In both, a luminous fleshy presence.

I won't trade any of my various experiences (and in writing all types of poetry as well) for any of the others. (Thankfully, one doesn't have to.)

↑ Index

149. Nicholas Piombino

Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Sat 11 Jul 2009

Exploringfictions Douglas Messerli's fiction blog

http://exploringfictions.blogspot.com/2009/07/douglas-messerli-seven-stories - from.html

On 7/10/09 9:36 PM, "Jonathan Morse" <[redacted]> wrote:

> steve russell wrote:
> there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish.
> Goethe. Rilke. Hardy. Hugo. If you'll accept non-fiction, you can add Yeats and Dryden. If you count letters as imaginative literature, and why shouldn't you?, you can add Keats and Dickinson. Think big.
>
> Jonathan Morse

↑ Index

150. Mary Kasimor

Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Sat 11 Jul 2009

I am waiting for Roberto Bolano's collection of poetry. I think that it will be out in November. His fiction is amazing and my understanding is that he wanted to write poetry, but fiction brought in the money.

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, Jonathan Morse <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Jonathan Morse <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 8:36 PM

steve russell wrote:
> there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish.
Goethe. Rilke. Hardy. Hugo. If you'll accept non-fiction, you can add Yeats and Dryden. If you count letters as imaginative literature, and why shouldn't you?, you can add Keats and Dickinson. Think big.

Jonathan Morse

↑ Index

151. steve russell
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Sat 11 Jul 2009

& I neglected to mention Gilbert Sorrentino or Paul Auster. Reginald Gibbons, too, another excellent poet/fiction writer and critic, and translator. There's a rather large list of very inventive, versatile writer/poets .... Mark Strand ....

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, steve russell <[redacted]> wrote:

From: steve russell <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 8:40 PM

there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish. & of course we have the Buk, as well as Raymond Carver. I blame the so-called creative writing programs for the unfortunate distinction between fiction and prose. Jeanette Winterson doesn't make such distinctions when she discusses her work.

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, Mary Kasimor <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Mary Kasimor <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 6:51 PM

I figure that those who can write both fiction and poetry are either more talented or more tenacious. What are your thoughts on that?

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 2:34 PM

I have never found it to be a problem.
I have managed a lot of novels and books of stories.

I think that that is not all that uncommon in Canada.
Kroetsch, Atwood, MacEwen, Ondaatje, McFadden, Cohen, etc.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 10:27 AM, amy king wrote:

> but poetry always stops me.
>
> Just wondering, so thought I'd ask a bunch of poets who might have the same itch, why can't you scratch it?Â Â Â Why this hurdle in making the transition?
>
> John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some fiction I end up writing a > poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often think > itâ€™s become for me a device for tricking myself into writing poetry."
>
> Kristy Bowen -- "While one of the coolest things about poetry for me is the ability to twist language in all sorts of ways, fiction depends far too much on
> meaning, on conveyance, to allow too much twisting or prodding before > you lose your reader. Even in my own reading exploits, the point from > which I enter a piece of fiction is entirely different from the state > of mind in which I enter a poem. Anything can happen in a poem, jumps > of logic, of image, of meaning, and I'm ..."Â cont'd here:Â http://tiny.cc/fiction502
>
> http://tiny.cc/fiction502
>
> Amy
>
> ———

> Amy's Alias
>
> http://amyking.org/

Geo. Bowering,
RCAFÂ 227498

↑ Index

152. George Bowering
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Sat 11 Jul 2009

Here we go;
the usual widening and widening of the topic
until we can include everything, such as L'il Abner and,oh, The Wire.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 6:36 PM, Jonathan Morse wrote:

> steve russell wrote:
> there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish.
> Goethe. Rilke. Hardy. Hugo. If you'll accept non-fiction, you can add Yeats and Dryden. If you count letters as imaginative literature, and why shouldn't you?, you can add Keats and Dickinson. Think big.
>
> Jonathan Morse
>
> welcome.html

George B.
Author of his own misfortunes.

↑ Index

153. George Bowering
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Sat 11 Jul 2009

Didn't that guy that lived on the Olympic Peninsula and was imitated by all the Creative Writhing students skip from poetry to short fiction? Can't remember his name. Wrote a book called something like What Do
We Talk About When we Talk about Love or some such topic.

gb

On Jul 11, 2009, at 10:20 AM, steve russell wrote:

> & I neglected to mention Gilbert Sorrentino or Paul Auster. Reginald Gibbons, too, another excellent poet/fiction writer and critic, and translator. There's a rather large list of very inventive, versatile writer/poets .... Mark Strand ....
>
> --- On Fri, 7/10/09, steve russell <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: steve russell <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 8:40 PM
>
> there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish. & of course we have the Buk, as well as Raymond Carver. I blame the so-called creative writing programs for the unfortunate distinction between fiction and prose. Jeanette Winterson doesn't make such distinctions when she discusses her work.
>
> --- On Fri, 7/10/09, Mary Kasimor <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: Mary Kasimor <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 6:51 PM
>
> I figure that those who can write both fiction and poetry are either more talented or more tenacious. What are your thoughts on that?
>
> --- On Fri, 7/10/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: George Bowering <[redacted]>

Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 2:34 PM

I have never found it to be a problem.
I have managed a lot of novels and books of stories.

I think that that is not all that uncommon in Canada.
Kroetsch, Atwood, MacEwen, Ondaatje, McFadden, Cohen, etc.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 10:27 AM, amy king wrote:

but poetry always stops me.

Just wondering, so thought I'd ask a bunch of poets who might have the same itch, why can't you scratch it? Why this hurdle in making the transition?

John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some fiction I end up writing a poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often think it's become for me a device for tricking myself into writing poetry."

Kristy Bowen -- "While one of the coolest things about poetry for me is the ability to twist language in all sorts of ways, fiction depends far too much on meaning, on conveyance, to allow too much twisting or prodding before you lose your reader. Even in my own reading exploits, the point from which I enter a piece of fiction is entirely different from the state of mind in which I enter a poem. Anything can happen in a poem, jumps of logic, of image, of meaning, and I'm ..." cont'd here: http://tiny.cc/fiction502

http://tiny.cc/fiction502

Amy

———

> Amy's Alias
>
> http://amyking.org/
>
> welcome.html
>
> Geo. Bowering,
> RCAF 227498
>
> welcome.html
>
> welcome.html
>
> welcome.html
>
> welcome.html

George Bowering, esq.
Not a morning kind of guy.

↑ Index

154. Catherine Daly
Chaparral--Summer, 2009
Sat 11 Jul 2009

---

new la poetry 'zine

The summer issue of Chaparral is here! The new edition features an interview with Maggie Nelson and work by Dinah Lenney, Marsha de la O, Lynne Thompson, Leilani Hall, Gail Wronsky and others.

http://www.chaparralpoetry.net/

--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

↑ Index

155. Mark DuCharme

REMINDER: Robinson, Fleisher & Amato This Thursday, Stratford Park Reading Series

Sat 11 Jul 2009

Please join us at the STRATFORD PARK READING SERIES as three extraordinary writers present readings of their work: ELIZABETH ROBINSON, KASS FLEISHER & JOE AMATO.

It all happens THIS THURSDAY, JULY 16th at 7:30 p.m.

Address: 3030 O'NEAL PARKWAY, Boulder, Colorado
(across the street from Naropa University's Paramita campus & the Boulder Cork restaurant)
http://www.mapquest.com/maps?city=Boulder&state=CO&address=3030+O'neal+Parkway&zipcode=80301

A Donation is requested— but All are welcome!

A reception will follow the reading

§

DIRECTIONS: O'Neal Parkway is off 30th Street in north Boulder between Valmont & Iris. Turn East at the signs for STRATFORD PARK WEST. The community house is the one-story building with a fence leading down to the street, half a block from 30th. Please park ONLY on O'Neal Parkway, O'Neal Circle, or in VISITOR spaces in the Stratford Park West lots. Please do not park in any other nearby lots. Thank you.

§

Elizabeth Robinson's most recent books are Inaudible Trumpeters and The Orphan & its Relations. She has been a recipient of grants from the Fund for Poetry and the Foundation for Contemporary Arts, and has also been a winner of the Fence Modern Poets Series and the National Poetry Series. She spends money that she does not have as a co-editor with Colleen Lookingbil of EtherDome Chapbooks, and co-editor with Beth Anderson and Laura Sims of Instance Press.

Kass Fleisher authored Talking Out of School: Memoir of an Educated Woman (Dalkey Archive Press, 2008); The Adventurous (experimental prose; Factory School, 2007); Accidental Species: A Reproduction (experimental prose; Chax Press, 2005); and The Bear River Massacre and the Making of History (nonfiction; SUNY Press, 2004). Her work has appeared in The Iowa Review, Denver Quarterly, Mandorla, Notre Dame Review, Postmodern Culture, and Z Magazine, and she writes screenplays with her partner, Joe Amato.

Joe Amato's most recent volume of poetry, Pain Plus Thyme, was released by Factory School last summer. His memoir, Once an Engineer: A Song of the Salt City, is due out from SUNY Press in September, and his first novel, Big Man with a Shovel, is due out from Chax Press later this year. He's completed a second novel, Samuel Taylor's Last Night, and is currently at work on a third novel, which takes its title from a 1938 sci-fi novella, Who Goes There?

§

UPCOMING IN THE STRATFORD PARK READING SERIES:
Thursday, October 8th at 7:30 p.m.— Jack Collom & Amy Catanzano.

§

If you no longer wish to receive email announcements of upcoming events in the Stratford Park Reading Series, please email [redacted] with the subject line "SPRS: REMOVE."

Insert movie times and more without leaving Hotmail®.
http://windowslive.com/Tutorial/Hotmail/QuickAdd?ocid=TXT_TAGLM_WL_HM_Tutorial_QuickAdd_062009

↑ Index

156. steve dalachinsky
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Sun 12 Jul 2009

raymond carver

On Sat, 11 Jul 2009 13:04:36 -0700 George Bowering <[redacted]>
writes:
> Didn't that guy that lived on the Olympic Peninsula and was imitated
>
> by all the Creative Writhing students > skip from poetry to short fiction? Can't remember his name. Wrote a
>
> book called something like What Do
> We Talk About When we Talk about Love or some such topic.
>
> gb
>
> On Jul 11, 2009, at 10:20 AM, steve russell wrote:
>
> > & I neglected to mention Gilbert Sorrentino or Paul Auster.
> > Reginald Gibbons, too, another excellent poet/fiction writer and
>
> > critic, and translator. There's a rather large list of very > > inventive, versatile writer/poets .... Mark Strand ....
> >
> > --- On Fri, 7/10/09, steve russell <[redacted]>
> wrote:
> >
> > From: steve russell <[redacted]>
> > Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> > To: [redacted]
> > Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 8:40 PM
> >
> > there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate
>
> > work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider
>
> > Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish. & of > > course we have the Buk, as well as Raymond Carver. I blame the so-
>
> > called creative writing programs for the unfortunate distinction
>
> > between fiction and prose. Jeanette Winterson doesn't make such > > distinctions when she discusses her work.
> >
> > --- On Fri, 7/10/09, Mary Kasimor <[redacted]> wrote:
> >

> > From: Mary Kasimor <[redacted]>
> > Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> > To: [redacted]
> > Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 6:51 PM
> >
> > I figure that those who can write both fiction and poetry are > > either more talented or more tenacious. What are your thoughts on
>
> > that?
> >
> > --- On Fri, 7/10/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
> >
> >
> > From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
> > Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> > To: [redacted]
> > Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 2:34 PM
> >
> >
> > I have never found it to be a problem.
> > I have managed a lot of novels and books of stories.
> >
> > I think that that is not all that uncommon in Canada.
> > Kroetsch, Atwood, MacEwen, Ondaatje, McFadden, Cohen, etc.
> >
> > gb
> >
> >
> > On Jul 10, 2009, at 10:27 AM, amy king wrote:
> >
> >> but poetry always stops me.
> >>
> >>
> >> Just wondering, so thought I'd ask a bunch of poets who might > have > >> the same itch, why can't you scratch it? Why this hurdle in > >> making the transition?
> >>
> >>
> >> John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some
>
> >> fiction I end up writing a > >> poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often > think > >> it’s become for me a device for tricking myself into writing > poetry."

> >>
> >>
> >> Kristy Bowen -- "While one of the coolest things about poetry for
>
> >> me is the ability to > >> twist language in all sorts of ways, fiction depends far too much > on > >> meaning, on conveyance, to allow too much twisting or prodding > before > >> you lose your reader. Even in my own reading exploits, the point > from > >> which I enter a piece of fiction is entirely different from the > state > >> of mind in which I enter a poem. Anything can happen in a poem, > jumps
> >> of logic, of image, of meaning, and I'm ..." cont'd here:
> http://
> >> tiny.cc/fiction502
> >>
> >> http://tiny.cc/fiction502
> >>
> >>
> >> Amy
> >>
> >> _____
> >>
> >>
> >>
> >>
> >>
> >> Amy's Alias
> >>
> >> http://amyking.org/
> >>
> >>
> >>
> >>
>

> >> welcome.html
> >
> > Geo. Bowering,
> > RCAF 227498
> >
> >
>
> > welcome.html
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
>
> > welcome.html
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
>
> > welcome.html
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
>
> > welcome.html
>
> George Bowering, esq.
> Not a morning kind of guy.
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

157. Sarah Sarai
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Sun 12 Jul 2009

I wanted to create a perfect cheese soufflé but I wrote a poem. I wanted wings of wax but a broken kite was left in my stocking. I wanted boundaries pushed but was told that would stretch the fabric. I wanted to write a bestseller but penned a dazzling laundry list. I imagined I wanted imagination but got a paisley scarf. I wanted to write myself silly but started where I ended near the top over the right corner beside the doorway, no, not that one, there, yes, to the pantry and would you mind getting a can of Campbell's Chicken 'n Noodle soup (it's a classic). I wanted to write an obituary but the idiot wouldn't die. I wanted a week with Javier Bardem but he is a novel. I wanted another week with Penelope Cruz but she is a toaster oven. I wanted God to show me some love. Sun, rain and a glowing moon.

Uneventfully yours,
Sarah Sarai
Popinjay in the Court of Louis Vuitton
(& valise to the stars)

↑ Index

158. Dan Wilcox
Third Thursday Poetry Night, July 16 - Dominick Rizzo
Sun 12 Jul 2009

the Poetry Motel Foundation
presents

Third Thursday Poetry Night

at
the Social Justice Center
33 Central Ave., Albany, NY

Thursday, July 16
7:00 sign up; 7:30 start

Featured Poet: Dominick Rizzo

Dominick Rizzo is the author of the poetry collection "The Spiral Staircase of my Life" (Authorhouse), a portion of the proceeds of the sales of which go to suicide prevention organizations.

-- with an open mic for community poets before & after the feature: $3.00 donation, suggested; more if you got it, less if you can't.

Your summertime host: Dan Wilcox.

↑ Index

159. Paul Nelson
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Sun 12 Jul 2009

Paul E. Nelson

Global Voices Radio
SPLAB!
A
Raymond Carver.

Paul E. Nelson

Global Voices Radio
SPLAB!
American Sentences
Organic Poetry
Poetry Postcard Blog

Ilalqo, WA [redacted]

_____
From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Saturday, July 11, 2009 1:04:36 PM
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Didn't that guy that lived on the Olympic Peninsula and was imitated by all the Creative Writhing students skip from poetry to short fiction? Can't remember his name. Wrote a book called something like What Do We Talk About When we Talk about Love or some such topic.

gb

On Jul 11, 2009, at 10:20 AM, steve russell wrote:

> & I neglected to mention Gilbert Sorrentino or Paul Auster. Reginald Gibbons, too, another excellent poet/fiction writer and critic, and translator. There's a rather large list of very inventive, versatile writer/poets .... Mark Strand ....
>
> --- On Fri, 7/10/09, steve russell <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: steve russell <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 8:40 PM

there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish. & of course we have the Buk, as well as Raymond Carver. I blame the so-called creative writing programs for the unfortunate distinction between fiction and prose. Jeanette Winterson doesn't make such distinctions when she discusses her work.

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, Mary Kasimor <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Mary Kasimor <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 6:51 PM

I figure that those who can write both fiction and poetry are either more talented or more tenacious. What are your thoughts on that?

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 2:34 PM

I have never found it to be a problem.
I have managed a lot of novels and books of stories.

I think that that is not all that uncommon in Canada.
Kroetsch, Atwood, MacEwen, Ondaatje, McFadden, Cohen, etc.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 10:27 AM, amy king wrote:

but poetry always stops me.

Just wondering, so thought I'd ask a bunch of poets who might have the same itch, why can't you scratch it? Why this hurdle in making the transition?

John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some fiction I end up writing a poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often think

itâ€™s become for me a device for tricking myself into writing poetry."

Kristy Bowen -- "While one of the coolest things about poetry for me is the ability to twist language in all sorts of ways, fiction depends far too much on meaning, on conveyance, to allow too much twisting or prodding before you lose your reader. Even in my own reading exploits, the point from which I enter a piece of fiction is entirely different from the state of mind in which I enter a poem. Anything can happen in a poem, jumps of logic, of image, of meaning, and I'm ..." cont'd here: http://tiny.cc/fiction502

http://tiny.cc/fiction502

Amy

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

Geo. Bowering,
RCAF 227498

>

George Bowering, esq.
Not a morning kind of guy.

↑ Index

160. Mary Kasimor
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Sun 12 Jul 2009

Creative writhing!

--- On Sat, 7/11/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Saturday, July 11, 2009, 3:04 PM

Didn't that guy that lived on the Olympic Peninsula and was imitated by all the Creative Writhing students skip from poetry to short fiction? Can't remember his name. Wrote a book called something like What Do We Talk About When we Talk about Love or some such topic.

gb

On Jul 11, 2009, at 10:20 AM, steve russell wrote:

> & I neglected to mention Gilbert Sorrentino or Paul Auster. Reginald Gibbons, too, another excellent poet/fiction writer and critic, and translator. There's a rather large list of very inventive, versatile writer/poets .... Mark Strand ....
>
> --- On Fri, 7/10/09, steve russell <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: steve russell <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 8:40 PM
>
> there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish. & of course we have the Buk, as well as Raymond Carver. I blame the so-called creative writing programs for the unfortunate distinction between fiction and prose. Jeanette Winterson doesn't make such distinctions when she discusses her work.
>
> --- On Fri, 7/10/09, Mary Kasimor <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Mary Kasimor <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 6:51 PM

I figure that those who can write both fiction and poetry are either more talented or more tenacious. What are your thoughts on that?

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 2:34 PM

I have never found it to be a problem.
I have managed a lot of novels and books of stories.

I think that that is not all that uncommon in Canada.
Kroetsch, Atwood, MacEwen, Ondaatje, McFadden, Cohen, etc.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 10:27 AM, amy king wrote:

but poetry always stops me.

Just wondering, so thought I'd ask a bunch of poets who might have the same itch, why can't you scratch it?Â Â Â Why this hurdle in making the transition?

John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some fiction I end up writing a poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often think itâ€™s become for me a device for tricking myself into writing poetry."

Kristy Bowen -- "While one of the coolest things about poetry for me is the ability to twist language in all sorts of ways, fiction depends far too much on meaning, on conveyance, to allow too much twisting or prodding before you lose your reader. Even in my own reading exploits, the point from which I enter a piece of fiction is entirely different from the state of mind in which I enter a poem. Anything can happen in a poem, jumps
of logic, of image, of meaning, and I'm ..."Â cont'd here:Â http://tiny.cc/fiction502

> http://tiny.cc/fiction502
>
> Amy
>
> ———
>
> Amy's Alias
>
> http://amyking.org/
>
> Geo. Bowering,
> RCAFÂ 227498

George Bowering, esq.
Not a morning kind of guy.

↑ Index

161. Murat Nemet-Nejat

Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Sun 12 Jul 2009

David,

"constructs a hierarchy within itself, in which only certain forms are permitted, only certain words, only certain distortions dis uptures transgressions and so on, the more specialized it becomes-"

such "permitted" disruptions or transgressions are no disruptions/ transgressions at all, but the reverse, the very definition of conventional thought. It becomes a hierarchy convinced in its own superiority, the others merely "quietists."

Ciao,

Murat

On Fri, Jul 10, 2009 at 3:05 PM, David Chirot <[redacted]>wrote:

> "The blank and ruin we see in Nature {prose here on poetics} is in our own eye.
> R W Emerson
>
> i've never really understood why this endless setting against each other of two different things is supposed to be so important; are Americans too hooked on the US vs THEM mentality---?
> do poets feel so insecure they have to keep attacking prose?
>
> a good deal of what a piece of writing is is what is there not only on the part of the writer, but the reader also
> people write of wanting "open work"
> yet isn't there a narrowness rather than openness on the part of the reader who demands openness but only of a certain kind?
> how open is the reader to openness--?
> does it justt end at a narrow point--or, before even reading, judge a piece as "unopen" --because prose say is "never open?"--
>
> i.e. if one approaches a "poem" as always superior to "dull, functional narrative unloved unwanted prose"--then of course poetry will come out, no matter if it is good or bad-- > i think it is a lack of imagiantion; perhaps a form of lack of corage to--keep the doors and windows open to find among what blows in rains in snows --has to offer-to make use of and find interest in- > doesn't everyone i a sense when they get tiredof the poem or prose infront of them start writing it in some other way--?
> (the French writer Pierre bayard brings this up in his book on How to tlak about books one has never read--) > as Aryanil wrote--one is really as a writer multi disclinipary--i've been a reorter, a reviewer, an essaysist, a traanslator, a visua/sound/lecial poet, a collage artoist, a griffiti maker, maker of ruBEings, of clay impression spray paintings vbideo maker fiklm maker actor screen play writer . .. etc from each kind of writing both as writer and reader one always find materials of interest and use--there is always something to "pick up on" in one media or grnre for a completely different one; so as not to be creating the "expected unexpected" dictated bythe set of rules one adhers to, or "school, type, group, community" of writers adheres to no, one takes and learns from every method continually because they are al interrelated--al are writing and reading written and read silent or aloud-or with other materials than pen and ink, pencil and eraser-- prose does la lot of things far better than poetry and often times may be poetry of a kind only the very best of poems can touch and poetry does things prose doesn't do-though it can rise to the heights of the best prose--

one takes note that many poets write both good poems and good prose--good radio or film scripts--good drama--good short stories (dylan thomas for example-)

Felix Feneon demostarted that one may make both novellas and peotry out of the from of the 3 line faits divers, "Nouvelles en trois lignes" (Nouvelles are both short stories and 'the news"--)

perhaps what Amy notes is poetry as a specialization, in which case it becomes separate, and even elitist in its view of other forms of writing, and constructs a hierarchy within itself, in which only certain forms are permitted, only certain words, only certain distortions dis uptures transgressions and so on, the more specialized it becomes-

if more writings are viewed as interconnected by being simply different forms of the same underlying act,writing, then they are writing al of them and each has a lot to give to each--

unlike Aranil, i don't think anyone kind of writer has an advantage over the other, such as poets over prose writers, in making the ulti-disciplinary art adfer all, a poet is writing this!

isn't the poet going to do their best to "sell the idea of poetry's superiority?"

the idea of one kind of humans, one kind of writers, being better than another (poets better than prose writers)--the world's too ful of "superiority" and "us vs them" as it is--
and whatabout greatreporters journalist--??
"why i have believed as many as 5 impossible things before breakfast!" says the Red Queen in Alice through the Lookingglass-- writers of the world unite!!!!
nothing to lose but the chains that divide one kind of writer from another

On Fri, Jul 10, 2009 at 10:56 AM, Aryanil Mukherjee <[redacted]
wrote:

delighted to join the team. same itch. scratched it too...

and the scratch has given me time and again what I call hybrid or multidiciplinary text where fiction, film writing, reportage and poetry have performed a fast merry-go-round so as to remain undistinguishable...

I think poets have a great advantage here compared to fiction writers - they are more ambidextrous than their counterparts.

Aryanil

----- Forwarded Message -----
From: "amy king" <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Friday, July 10, 2009 1:27:58 PM GMT -05:00 US/Canada Eastern Subject: I want to write fiction but ...

but poetry always stops me.

Just wondering, so thought I'd ask a bunch of poets who might have the same itch, why can't you scratch it? Why this hurdle in making the transition?

John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some fiction I end up writing a poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often think it's become for me a device for tricking myself into writing poetry."

Kristy Bowen -- "While one of the coolest things about poetry for me is the ability to twist language in all sorts of ways, fiction depends far too much on meaning, on conveyance, to allow too much twisting or prodding before you lose your reader. Even in my own reading exploits, the point from which I enter a piece of fiction is entirely different from the state of mind in which I enter a poem. Anything can happen in a poem, jumps of logic, of image, of meaning, and I'm ..." cont'd here: http://tiny.cc/fiction502

http://tiny.cc/fiction502

Amy

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

guidelines

guidelines

↑ Index

162. Matt Henriksen
Autumn it gestures. by Thomas Hummel from Cannibal Books
Sun 12 Jul 2009

Now Available:

Autumn it gestures.
by Thomas Hummel
32 pages, hand-sewn $8

flesheatingpoems.blogspot.com

↑ Index

163. Nick Carbo
Last poetry book by Nick Carbó
Sun 12 Jul 2009

CHINESE, JAPANESE, WHAT ARE THESE? (Pecan Grove Press, 2009)

Just released:?http://tinyurl.com/mm5sz2

Nick Carbo
http://www.npr.org/features/feature.php?wfId=1667164

↑ Index

164. Charlotte Mandel
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Sun 12 Jul 2009

Yes, Raymond Carver - as steve russell included in his listing.

On Jul 11, 2009, at 4:04 PM, George Bowering wrote:

Didn't that guy that lived on the Olympic Peninsula and was imitated
by all the Creative Writhing students
skip from poetry to short fiction? Can't remember his name. Wrote a book called something like What Do
We Talk About When we Talk about Love or some such topic.

gb

On Jul 11, 2009, at 10:20 AM, steve russell wrote:

> & I neglected to mention Gilbert Sorrentino or Paul Auster. Reginald Gibbons, too, another excellent poet/fiction writer and critic, and translator. There's a rather large list of very inventive, versatile writer/poets .... Mark Strand ....

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, steve russell <[redacted]> wrote:

From: steve russell <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 8:40 PM

there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish. & of course we have the Buk, as well as Raymond Carver. I blame the so-called creative writing programs for the unfortunate distinction between fiction and prose. Jeanette Winterson doesn't make such distinctions when she discusses her work.

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, Mary Kasimor <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Mary Kasimor <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 6:51 PM

I figure that those who can write both fiction and poetry are either more talented or more tenacious. What are your thoughts on that?

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 2:34 PM

I have never found it to be a problem.
I have managed a lot of novels and books of stories.

I think that that is not all that uncommon in Canada.
Kroetsch, Atwood, MacEwen, Ondaatje, McFadden, Cohen, etc.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 10:27 AM, amy king wrote:

but poetry always stops me.

Just wondering, so thought I'd ask a bunch of poets who might have the same itch, why can't you scratch it? Why this hurdle in making the transition?

John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some fiction I end up writing a poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often think it's become for me a device for tricking myself into writing poetry."

Kristy Bowen -- "While one of the coolest things about poetry for me is the ability to twist language in all sorts of ways, fiction depends far too much on meaning, on conveyance, to allow too much twisting or prodding before you lose your reader. Even in my own reading exploits, the point from which I enter a piece of fiction is entirely different from the state of mind in which I enter a poem. Anything can happen in a poem, jumps of logic, of image, of meaning, and I'm ..." cont'd here: http://tiny.cc/fiction502

http://tiny.cc/fiction502

Amy

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

welcome.html

Geo. Bowering,
RCAF 227498

welcome.html

> welcome.html
>
> welcome.html
>
> welcome.html

George Bowering, esq.
Not a morning kind of guy.

↑ Index

165. Charlotte Mandel

Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Sun 12 Jul 2009

Thanks, Sarah -
great lines, and story of my life too.
Charlotte

On Jul 12, 2009, at 3:22 AM, Sarah Sarai wrote:

I wanted to create a perfect cheese soufflé but I wrote a poem. I wanted wings of wax but a broken kite was left in my stocking. I wanted boundaries pushed but was told that would stretch the fabric. I wanted to write a bestseller but penned a dazzling laundry list. I imagined I wanted imagination but got a paisley scarf. I wanted to write myself silly but started where I ended near the top over the right corner beside the doorway, no, not that one, there, yes, to the pantry and would you mind getting a can of Campbell's Chicken 'n Noodle soup (it's a classic). I wanted to write an obituary but the idiot wouldn't die. I wanted a week with Javier Bardem but he is a novel. I wanted another week with Penelope Cruz but she is a toaster oven. I wanted God to show me some love. Sun, rain and a glowing moon.

Uneventfully yours,
Sarah Sarai

Popinjay in the Court of Louis Vuitton
(& valise to the stars)

↑ Index

166. Murat Nemet-Nejat

Re: hidden poem with brain scans and chairs

Sun 12 Jul 2009

A response to Peter's "brain scan and chairs" poem:

```
immense pool                ro!
                              or
of sadness          o      r
                         o p in an inner             o  r!
                  o       r
waveless          o     r                        deep o     p
          because soundnest

                                  because airless
```

O!

Ciao,
Murat

On Fri, Jul 10, 2009 at 6:15 PM, Peter <[redacted]> wrote:

> hidden poem with brain scans and chairs<http://ciccariello.viewbook.com/brain#/1/>
>
> Peter Ciccariello
> http://invisiblenotes.blogspot.com/
> http://uncommonvision.blogspot.com/
> http://poemsfromprovidence.blogspot.com/
> http://uncommon-vision.blogspot.com/
> You can find my art and writing updates on Twitter
> https://twitter.com/ciccariello

↑ Index

167. tyrone williams
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Sun 12 Jul 2009

George,

Yes--you mean Raymond Carver...

Tyrone

-----Original Message-----
>From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
>Sent: Jul 11, 2009 4:04 PM
>To: [redacted]
>Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
>
>Didn't that guy that lived on the Olympic Peninsula and was imitated
>by all the Creative Writhing students
>skip from poetry to short fiction? Can't remember his name. Wrote a >book called something like What Do
>We Talk About When we Talk about Love or some such topic.
>
>gb
>
>On Jul 11, 2009, at 10:20 AM, steve russell wrote:
>
>> & I neglected to mention Gilbert Sorrentino or Paul Auster.
>> Reginald Gibbons, too, another excellent poet/fiction writer and >> critic, and translator. There's a rather large list of very >> inventive, versatile writer/poets .... Mark Strand ....
>>
>> --- On Fri, 7/10/09, steve russell <[redacted]> wrote:
>>
>> From: steve russell <[redacted]>
>> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
>> To: [redacted]
>> Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 8:40 PM
>>
>> there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate
>> work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider >> Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish. & of >> course we have the Buk, as well as Raymond Carver. I blame the so->> called creative writing programs for the unfortunate distinction >> between fiction and prose. Jeanette Winterson doesn't make such >> distinctions when she discusses her work.

>>
>> --- On Fri, 7/10/09, Mary Kasimor <[redacted]> wrote:
>>
>> From: Mary Kasimor <[redacted]>
>> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
>> To: [redacted]
>> Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 6:51 PM
>>
>> I figure that those who can write both fiction and poetry are >> either more talented or more tenacious. What are your thoughts on >> that?
>>
>> --- On Fri, 7/10/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>>
>>
>> From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
>> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
>> To: [redacted]
>> Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 2:34 PM
>>
>>
>> I have never found it to be a problem.
>> I have managed a lot of novels and books of stories.
>>
>> I think that that is not all that uncommon in Canada.
>> Kroetsch, Atwood, MacEwen, Ondaatje, McFadden, Cohen, etc.
>>
>> gb
>>
>>
>> On Jul 10, 2009, at 10:27 AM, amy king wrote:
>>
>>> but poetry always stops me.
>>>
>>>
>>> Just wondering, so thought I'd ask a bunch of poets who might have >>> the same itch, why can't you scratch it? Why this hurdle in >>> making the transition?
>>>
>>>
>>> John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some >>> fiction I end up writing a >>> poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often think >>> itâ€™s become for me a device for tricking myself into writing poetry."

>>>
>>>
>>> Kristy Bowen -- "While one of the coolest things about poetry for >>> me is the ability to >>> twist language in all sorts of ways, fiction depends far too much on >>> meaning, on conveyance, to allow too much twisting or prodding before >>> you lose your reader. Even in my own reading exploits, the point from >>> which I enter a piece of fiction is entirely different from the state >>> of mind in which I enter a poem. Anything can happen in a poem, jumps >>> of logic, of image, of meaning, and I'm ..." cont'd here: http:// >>> tiny.cc/fiction502
>>>
>>> http://tiny.cc/fiction502
>>>
>>>
>>> Amy
>>>
>>> _____
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>> Amy's Alias
>>>
>>> http://amyking.org/
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>> welcome.html
>>
>> Geo. Bowering,
>> RCAF 227498
>>
>>
>> welcome.html
>>
>>

>>
>>
>>
>> welcome.html
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>
>> welcome.html
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>
>> welcome.html
>
>George Bowering, esq.
>Not a morning kind of guy.
>
>

Tyrone Williams

↑ Index

168. Mark Weiss

Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Sun 12 Jul 2009

Yeats wrote short fiction. The Stories of Red Hanrahan. And there are stories embedded in the intros to the two editions of A Vision.

At 04:01 PM 7/11/2009, you wrote:
>Here we go;
>the usual widening and widening of the topic
>until we can include everything, such as L'il Abner and,oh, The Wire.
>
>gb
>
>
>On Jul 10, 2009, at 6:36 PM, Jonathan Morse wrote:
>
>>steve russell wrote:

>>>there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate
>>>work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider >>>Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish.
>>Goethe. Rilke. Hardy. Hugo. If you'll accept non-fiction, you can >>add Yeats and Dryden. If you count letters as imaginative >>literature, and why shouldn't you?, you can add Keats and >>Dickinson. Think big.
>>
>>Jonathan Morse
>>
>
>George B.
>Author of his own misfortunes.
>
>

↑ Index

169. steve russell
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Sun 12 Jul 2009

Sure, and why not throw in the Goddamn bible. I mean, hell, what is the bible? Narrative? Epic poetry? I'm thinking mostly of the Old Testament, of course. As for "The Wire, " I'm a big fan of crime fiction, and George Pelacanos is the main producer of "The Wire." Indeed, in the broad sense of the term (...poet...), why not include Pelacanos as a poet of the streets of Washington, D.C.? Perhaps Q Taratino is the poet of video store clerks, if not their saint. Why not talk about failed poets who turned to fiction after their bout with poetry. Consider William Faulkner. As for cartoonist, I have no problem calling E Gorey, or even Mr. peanuts Schultz, a poet. Ugh, what was the topic???

--- On Sat, 7/11/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Saturday, July 11, 2009, 4:01 PM

Here we go;
the usual widening and widening of the topic
until we can include everything, such as L'il Abner and,oh, The Wire.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 6:36 PM, Jonathan Morse wrote:

> steve russell wrote:
> there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish.
> Goethe. Rilke. Hardy. Hugo. If you'll accept non-fiction, you can add Yeats and Dryden. If you count letters as imaginative literature, and why shouldn't you?, you can add Keats and Dickinson. Think big.
>
> Jonathan Morse

George B.
Author of his own misfortunes.

↑ Index

170. Camille Martin
new on Rogue Embryo
Sun 12 Jul 2009

New on Rogue Embryo
http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

- A False Start: T. S. Eliot, Snoopy, and the Artist's Statement
- Rae Armantrout’s Waves of Punchlines
- Anselm Hollo’s Heavy Jars: “Hard to say whether the jars’ve gotten any lighter.”
- e.ratio Sonnets: Nathan Thompson and Camille Martin
- Camille Martin’s upcoming events
- If the needle is a poem, then what is the fang?
- Laura Jensen: Degrees of Separation from Bad Boats
- Serendipity and the Felon: Jiri Kolar, Emmet Gowin, and the Cortical Iceberg

and more . . .

Camille Martin
http://www.camillemartin.ca
http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

↑ Index

171. Sarah Sarai
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Sun 12 Jul 2009

UTILIZE

Sarah Sarai
knows Steve Dalchinsky as a ny thing and a thing to die for (and agrees w/him but only this once)

<<<<<<<<<<<<<<<<<<
lighten up
it's a ny thing to die for or that dress is just to die for

anyay what else is there worth dying for if not fashion
or a good cupcake

On Fri, 10 Jul 2009 21:51:15 -0700 Wallis Leslie <[redacted]>
writes:
> "to die for"
>
> What terrible inattention to the words coming out of our mouths
> leads us to say we would die for whatever delectable morsel coming > into our mouths. How the misuse of that phrase diminishes what > people have died for or what people are willing to die for.
>
> Wallis Leslie
>

↑ Index

172. Camille Martin
Re: hidden poem with brain scans and chairs
Sun 12 Jul 2009

Love this!

Camille

_____
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [[redacted]] On Behalf Of Peter [[redacted]]
Sent: Friday, July 10, 2009 6:15 PM
To: [redacted]
Subject: hidden poem with brain scans and chairs hidden poem with brain scans and chairs<http://ciccariello.viewbook.com/brain#/1/>

Peter Ciccariello
http://invisiblenotes.blogspot.com/
http://uncommonvision.blogspot.com/
http://poemsfromprovidence.blogspot.com/
http://uncommon-vision.blogspot.com/

You can find my art and writing updates on Twitter
https://twitter.com/ciccariello

↑ Index

173. steve dalachinsky
Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
Mon 13 Jul 2009

---

sarh you only agree with me THIS ONCE???

On Sun, 12 Jul 2009 17:37:42 -0400 Sarah Sarai <[redacted]>
writes:
> UTILIZE
>
>
>
> Sarah Sarai
> knows Steve Dalchinsky as a ny thing and a thing to die for (and > agrees w/him but only > this once)
>
> <<<<<<<<<<<<<<<<<<
> lighten up
> it's a ny thing to die for > or that dress is just to die for
>
> anyay what else is there worth dying for if not fashion
> or a good cupcake
>
> On Fri, 10 Jul 2009 21:51:15 -0700 Wallis Leslie > <[redacted]>
> writes:
> > "to die for"
> >
> > What terrible inattention to the words coming out of our mouths
> > leads us to say we would die for whatever delectable morsel coming
>
> > into our mouths. How the misuse of that phrase diminishes what > > people have died for or what people are willing to die for.
> >
> > Wallis Leslie
> >
>

>
>

↑ Index

174. Sara Wintz
paging duriel harris
Mon 13 Jul 2009

---

hi!

looking for duriel harris...

any info please contact me backchannel at

[redacted]

thanks!
sara

↑ Index

175. { brad brace }
1984
Mon 13 Jul 2009

July 7, 2009: The MetaConstruct

These are scans, in no particular order, of an installation proposal packet ignored by galleries all over the world (but mostly in Canada.) Twenty-five years later, there is still no support for this work. In fact, it's been clearly denied and suppressed. Given a choice between another installation and seeing art-institutions burn to the ground along with all their attendant curatorial neophytes -- it wouldn't take more than two seconds to decide. To hell with government arts-funding!

http://bbrace.net/Metaconstruct.html
http://bbrace.laughingsquid.net/Metaconstruct.html

http://www.bbrace.net/M-scans/M-scans.html

http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/installation-proposal-packet-1984/7391264 http://www.scribd.com/doc/17303459/installation-proposalpacket-1984

↑ Index

176. Michael Kelleher

Literary Buffalo Newsletter 07.13.09-07.19.09

Mon 13 Jul 2009

LITERARY BUFFALO
07.13.09-07.19.09

MEMBER EVENT: JUST BUFFALO GOES TO THE BALLPARK!

FRIDAY AUGUST 14TH, 7:35 P.M.
COCA COLA FIELD
SECTION 106 (FIRST BASE SIDE, BEHIND HOME PLATE)
275 WASHINGTON STREET BUFFALO, NY
ADMISSION FREE FOR CURRENT JUST BUFFALO MEMBERS!

Guests and children $10
Children under 3 FREE
35 Seats Available
RSVP REQUIRED!
Please call [redacted] to reserve yours!

I see great things in baseball. It's our game - the American game.

-Walt Whitman, poet

This isn't a poetry reading. This is baseball.

-Ed Adamczyk, writer & village historian of Kenmore

BABEL

'Most Innovative Arts Programming (Any Artform)'

-Buffalo Spree Magazine Best of Buffalo 2009

BABEL 2009-2010 SEASON SUBSCRIPTIONS ON SALE NOW!

October 9, A.S. Byatt
November 20, Ha Jin
March 5, Azar Nafisi
April 16, Salman Rushdie

Previous Subscriber: $85
New Subscriber: $110
These subscriptions include general admission seating at all 4 events.

Patron: $275
Patron Pair: $450
Patron level subscriptions include VIP reserved seating and admission to all pre-event author receptions.

Purchase subscriptions now at http://www.justbuffalo.org/babel or by phone at [redacted].

EVENTS THIS WEEK

All events free and open to the public unless otherwise noted. For more detailed information and a complete listing of furute events, please visit the Literary Buffalo web calendar:

http://www.justbuffalo.org/index.php?task=view&id=22

07.16.09

Talking Leaves Books, Just Buffalo, Hallwalls Contemporary Arts Center
Reading/Signing for: April and Oliver
Thursday, July 16, 7:00 PM
Talking Leaves Books, 3158 Main St.

07.18.09

Stop, Look, and Listen Poetry
Irene Sipos and Open Mic
Saturday, July 18 2:00 PM
Impact Artists' Gallery, Suite 545, Tri-Main Center | 2495 Main Street

---

JUST BUFFALO MEMBERS? WRITER CRITIQUE GROUP

The member writer critique group meets 1st and 3rd Tuesdays at the Market Arcade. The critique group WILL continue to meet all summer long.

Click here for more info:

http://www.justbuffalo.org/media/pdf/CritiqueGroup0409.pdf

UNSUBSCRIBE

If you would like to unsubscribe from this list, just say so and you will immediately be removed. _____

Michael Kelleher
Artistic Director
Just Buffalo Literary Center
Market Arcade
617 Main St., Ste. 202A
Buffalo, NY 14203
[redacted]
[redacted] (fax)

www.justbuffalo.org
[redacted]

↑ Index

177. Michael O'Driscoll
Special Journal Issue on Event and Sound in Poetry
Mon 13 Jul 2009

A special issue of ESC: English Studies in Canada that members of the list might find of interest:

"On Discreteness: Event and Sound in Poetry." Edited by Louis Cabri and Peter Quartermain. Digital Sound Editor Michael Hennessey.

As Guest Editor Louis Cabri writes, "What most of these sixteen contributors to ESC: English Studies in Canada share--wihch makes this issue somewhat timely--is the intent to listen to the sound of poets' (and for one contributor, to listen to the sound of actors') poetry recordings, including other poetry performances. In this respect, there are contributors who consider recordings of Gertrude Stein and William Carlos Williams, Brion Gyson and Kenneth Rexroth, and contemporaries Caroline Bergvall, Charles Bernstein, Anne Carson, and Geraldine Monk, among others, from Canada, the U.S., and the UK."

Print copies of the issue include a compact disc with 47 tracks considered in the articles. Contributions from: Rachel Blau DuPlessis, Scott Pound, Bob Perelman, Brook Houglum, Michael Hennessey, Meredith Quartermain, Suzanne Zelazo, Katherine Verhagen, Emily Carr, Brian Reed, Tom Orange, Bruce Holsapple, Reuven Tsur, Sarah Parry, Geoffrey Hlibchuk, Jon Cotner and Andy Fitch.

For more information, or to purchase an issue for $25.00 (postage included), contact [redacted].

--
Michael O'Driscoll
Assoc. Professor
English and Film Studies
3-5 Humanities Centre
University of Alberta
Edmonton, AB, T6G 2E5

Editor, ESC: English Studies in Canada
www.arts.ualberta.ca/~esc/

↑ Index

178. charles alexander ta(l)king eyes, by Jacque Brogan
Mon 13 Jul 2009

"ta(l)king eyes is the most ambitious and successful long poem since Adrienne Rich's An Atlas of the Difficult World. In its honesty, imaginative brilliance, hybridic nature, and deep passions, it hits the reader the way William Carlos Williams's Spring and All must have hit its first readers. Powerful, truthful, and unforgettable -- this long poem is a fully achieved epic experiment for our times." -- Daniel T. O'Hara

ta(l)king eyes
by Jacque Vaught Brogan
134 pages
ISBN 9780925904812
$21

The newest Chax Press book, by Jacque Vaught Brogan, is now available for purchase. It's oversized and priced slightly higher than our other paperback poetry books. However, those who reply to this message with an order, will receive a $1 discount plus free shipping, for a total of $4.50 discount in comparison to buying it in the normal way on our web site. Total cost then is $20. When you reply via email, let me know if you'd rather send in payment by mail and receive the book in return, or if you'd rather call in a credit or debit charge. If you prefer the ease of ordering on our web site, the direct page for this book is

http://www.chax.org/poets/brogan.htm

If you choose to send in payment, send it to Chax Press at 411 N 7th Ave, Ste 103, Tucson, AZ 85705-8388.

More information is available on our web site: http://chax.org

Information on more new books, by Joel Bettridge and Jane Sprague, to come your way within 2 weeks. Altogether we plan on announcing 7 new books this summer.

Thank you!
Charles / Chax Press

↑ Index

179. Regina Pinto
Re: POETICS Digest - 11 Jul 2009 to 12 Jul 2009 (#2009-154)
Mon 13 Jul 2009

A potheosis? / A poteose?

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ZHQgTiWyrq0

Video Poetry, Suspense, Motion Continuous, Floating Foam / Espumas Flutuantes , [redacted], Dancing on the leaves from where the frogs jump!

Regina Pinto
http://pintor.tumblr.com

↑ Index

180. charles alexander
new book from chax: Salt, My Love
Mon 13 Jul 2009

At Chax Press, we have been working for more than a year on the handmade book, Salt, My Love: A Ballad, by Patrick Pritchett. The book was actually printed in 2008, and a few copies were finished and sent to the author. But the handpainting in these books by Cynthia Miller is extremely time consuming, and the books have taken many more months to have enough for us to announce the book publicly. Now is that moment, though indeed, not all of the books are yet finished. But please, overwhelm us with orders for this truly remarkable letterpress- printed, hand-bound book, and we will ship what we have and finish more as soon as possible.

"At last the light dims, and salt finds our mouths again."

Patrick Pritchett's 10 part, sensuous, spiritual, and philosophical love poem unfolds amid Cynthia Miller's white painted pages. Literally, several pages unfold to turn a 20-page, 2-signature hand- sewn structure into a 24-page book printed letterpress on Nideggen paper. The book's covers, from St. Armand paper mill in Montreal, are a hand-made crinkly grey-brown paper whose texture recalls ancient scrolls, or the edge of the sea, a source of salt, as Pritchett writes, "the salt is taking us / both out to sea."

The book is printed in 2 colors on Nideggen paper with Perpetua foundry type. It is sewn in a 2-signature method with concertina, and the covers are papers of tan linen fibers, handmade by the St. Armand papermill in Montreal.

The visual artist Cynthia Miller, for long a major part of the artistic program at Chax Press, has hand-painted multiple pages in the book, using both pochoir method and free paint method. These paintings are entirely done in white acrylic and white ink.

A few copies of Salt, My Love were boxed and sent to press subscribers, and now unboxed copies are available to the public at a price of $90 each. Discounts are available to libraries and educators and for multiple purchases; please inquire. In addition, standing orders to Chax Press, who commit to purchasing all that we publish, receive a 30% discount. We will not charge for shipping this book on pre-paid orders.

This book is not available on our web site as of yet.

You may order it by sending a check to us at 411 N 7th Ave, Ste 103, Tucson, AZ 85705-8388. Or, you may respond to this email, and we can arrange a time for you to call in with a credit or debit card payment.

Thank you!
Charles/Chax Press

ps: We also have recently sent out an announcement for a new book by Jacque Vaught Brogan. Information on more new books, by Joel Bettridge and Jane Sprague, to come your way within 2 weeks. Altogether we plan on announcing 7 new books this summer.

↑ Index

181. Skip Fox
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Mon 13 Jul 2009

That's it!

-----Original Message-----
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Mary Kasimor
Sent: Sunday, July 12, 2009 11:24 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Creative writhing!

↑ Index

182. Mary Kasimor
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Mon 13 Jul 2009

I am a The Wire addict. It takes place in Baltimore.
mary

--- On Sun, 7/12/09, steve russell <[redacted]> wrote:

From: steve russell <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2009, 1:04 PM

Sure, and why not throw in the Goddamn bible. I mean, hell, what is the bible? Narrative? Epic poetry? I'm thinking mostly of the Old Testament, of course. As for "The Wire, " I'm a big fan of crime fiction, and George Pelacanos is the main producer of "The Wire." Indeed, in the broad sense of the term (...poet...), why not include Pelacanos as a poet of the streets of Washington, D.C.? Perhaps Q Taratino is the poet of video store clerks, if not their saint. Why not talk about failed poets who turned to fiction after their bout with poetry. Consider William Faulkner. As for cartoonist, I have no problem calling E Gorey, or even Mr. peanuts Schultz, a poet. Ugh, what was the topic???

--- On Sat, 7/11/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Saturday, July 11, 2009, 4:01 PM

Here we go;
the usual widening and widening of the topic
until we can include everything, such as L'il Abner and,oh, The Wire.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 6:36 PM, Jonathan Morse wrote:

> steve russell wrote:
> there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish.
> Goethe. Rilke. Hardy. Hugo. If you'll accept non-fiction, you can add Yeats and Dryden. If you count letters as imaginative literature, and why shouldn't you?, you can add Keats and Dickinson. Think big.
>
> Jonathan Morse

George B.
Author of his own misfortunes.

↑ Index

183. Jeffrey Gardiner
Re: ta(l)king eyes, by Jacque Brogan
Mon 13 Jul 2009

Charles,
I'd like to call in an order and pay by credit charge...and receive the discount. Tell me a best time to call and the number.

thanks,
Jeff
> "ta(l)king eyes is the most ambitious and successful long poem since > Adrienne Rich's An Atlas of the Difficult World. In its honesty, > imaginative brilliance, hybridic nature, and deep passions, it hits > the reader the way William Carlos Williams's Spring and All must have > hit its first readers. Powerful, truthful, and unforgettable -- this > long poem is a fully achieved epic experiment for our times." -- > Daniel T. O'Hara
>
> ta(l)king eyes
> by Jacque Vaught Brogan
> 134 pages
> ISBN 9780925904812
> $21
>
> The newest Chax Press book, by Jacque Vaught Brogan, is now available > for purchase. It's oversized and priced slightly higher than our other > paperback poetry books. However, those who reply to this message with > an order, will receive a $1 discount plus free shipping, for a total > of $4.50 discount in comparison to buying it in the normal way on our > web site. Total cost then is $20. When you reply via email, let me > know if you'd rather send in payment by mail and receive the book in > return, or if you'd rather call in a credit or debit charge. If you > prefer the ease of ordering on our web site, the direct page for this > book is
>
> http://www.chax.org/poets/brogan.htm
>
>
> If you choose to send in payment, send it to Chax Press at 411 N 7th > Ave, Ste 103, Tucson, AZ 85705-8388.
>
> More information is available on our web site: http://chax.org
>
> Information on more new books, by Joel Bettridge and Jane Sprague, to > come your way within 2 weeks. Altogether we plan on announcing 7 new > books this summer.
>
>
> Thank you!

> Charles / Chax Press
>

--

↑ Index

184. Mary Kasimor
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Mon 13 Jul 2009

I bet many poets do write fiction, but we write it for ourselves. I like to simply write whatever and wherever my brain takes me. It may be awful writing--I don't know because I am too close to it, but it is fun and a bit scary and exciting. I really never know exactly where I am going.

Mary Kasimor

--- On Sun, 7/12/09, steve russell <[redacted]> wrote:

From: steve russell <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2009, 1:04 PM

Sure, and why not throw in the Goddamn bible. I mean, hell, what is the bible? Narrative? Epic poetry? I'm thinking mostly of the Old Testament, of course. As for "The Wire, " I'm a big fan of crime fiction, and George Pelacanos is the main producer of "The Wire." Indeed, in the broad sense of the term (...poet...), why not include Pelacanos as a poet of the streets of Washington, D.C.? Perhaps Q Taratino is the poet of video store clerks, if not their saint. Why not talk about failed poets who turned to fiction after their bout with poetry. Consider William Faulkner. As for cartoonist, I have no problem calling E Gorey, or even Mr. peanuts Schultz, a poet. Ugh, what was the topic???

--- On Sat, 7/11/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Saturday, July 11, 2009, 4:01 PM

Here we go;
the usual widening and widening of the topic
until we can include everything, such as L'il Abner and,oh, The Wire.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 6:36 PM, Jonathan Morse wrote:

> steve russell wrote:
> there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish.
> Goethe. Rilke. Hardy. Hugo. If you'll accept non-fiction, you can add Yeats and Dryden. If you count letters as imaginative literature, and why shouldn't you?, you can add Keats and Dickinson. Think big.
>
> Jonathan Morse

George B.
Author of his own misfortunes.

↑ Index

185. steve russell
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Mon 13 Jul 2009

Could anyone recommend a decent "creative writing" workshop?

--- On Mon, 7/13/09, Skip Fox <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Skip Fox <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Monday, July 13, 2009, 1:38 PM

That's it!

-----Original Message-----
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On
Behalf Of Mary Kasimor
Sent: Sunday, July 12, 2009 11:24 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Creative writing!

↑ Index

186. Hilary Clark
Re: Special Journal Issue on Event and Sound in Poetry
Mon 13 Jul 2009

Hello,

I'd like to purchase one copy of this special issue of ESC, please. How do I pay?

Thanks,
Hilary Clark

English Dept.
University of Saskatchewan
9 Campus Drive
Saskatoon, SK S7N 5A5
[redacted]

Michael O'Driscoll wrote:
> A special issue of ESC: English Studies in Canada that members of the list > might find of interest:
>
> "On Discreteness: Event and Sound in Poetry." Edited by Louis Cabri and > Peter Quartermain. Digital Sound Editor Michael Hennessey.
>
> As Guest Editor Louis Cabri writes, "What most of these sixteen contributors > to ESC: English Studies in Canada share--wihch makes this issue somewhat > timely--is the intent to listen to the sound of poets' (and for one > contributor, to listen to the sound of actors') poetry recordings, including > other poetry performances. In this respect, there are contributors who > consider recordings of Gertrude Stein and William Carlos Williams, Brion > Gyson and Kenneth Rexroth, and contemporaries Caroline Bergvall, Charles > Bernstein, Anne Carson, and Geraldine Monk, among others, from Canada, the > U.S., and the UK."
>
> Print copies of the issue include a compact disc with 47 tracks considered > in the articles. Contributions from: Rachel Blau DuPlessis, Scott Pound, Bob > Perelman, Brook Houglum, Michael Hennessey, Meredith Quartermain, Suzanne > Zelazo, Katherine Verhagen, Emily Carr, Brian Reed, Tom Orange, Bruce > Holsapple, Reuven Tsur, Sarah Parry, Geoffrey Hlibchuk, Jon Cotner and Andy > Fitch.
>
> For more information, or to purchase an issue for $25.00 (postage included), > contact [redacted].
>
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

187. brian whitener

Re: POETICS Digest - 11 Jul 2009 to 12 Jul 2009 (#2009-154)

Mon 13 Jul 2009

---

dear friends

we at displaced press are very please to announce the publication of our latest book:

Johan Jönson's Collobert Orbital, translated by Johannes Göransson Now Available<http://displacedpress.blogspot.com/2009/06/johan-jonsons-collobert-orbital.html> We are pleased to announce the publication of Johan Jönson's Collobert Orbital (translated by Johannes Göransson)

Praise for Collobert Orbital from Mark Nowak:

If Vicente Huidobro met Georges Bataille on a Waste Management(R)truck, the result might be something akin to Johan Jönsson's Collobert Orbital, the new manifesto of "the waste-disposal-working-class." At times soaring across "aerospatiality," at others existentially grounded in "an overheated world factory" of "all work, all healthcare, all logistics," Jönsson's linguistic propulsions and dynamic formal innovations challenge "a victorious bourgeois poetry order" to, once again, rearticulate verse experimentation to the politics and poetics of working a day job.

Praise for Collobert Orbital from Bruce Andrews

DNA bonanza contaminant reverie, target overhead. Flock to revelator gridded up to have no stake in history. See that their grave is kept clean. Fatalize wrong, upend amphetamachinic tort. Zero immunity. Cology — hyperplex mini flair, underalphabetic biodebt. Ssay. I couldn't remember the advanced memory formula. Dunno ergo soma. Autoquadrilateral & exogeneric, the transparencies regroup. Law intuition anything uncocked reason craters. Eco rad mono dead with note attached, incalculably inorganic property of the object continuity you just heard — the world, overtime. Mooniac, tricked-up torso love before discharges false dichotomies start stuttering. Ahysterical — swiftest closeup transplant nude spatiality. "To speak an ecstatic technology." The flattest are the busiest arterial munchies. Sextras: bend them over. Faster buckle conjure against choice as surrogate overheating extinction as obliteratable chew. Speed mash mouth lexicon amphetamaneuver. The goo goo amok, self torture broad-minded guts — interzonad gaffered all over you. Put tools in your face. Overdifferent anti-creamery daub up name. Existential logistics: a porous will, a rectal will suckling finality. Mutate epithet or no ending belowgistics. Buzzerless blisscharge, cuties with fists pry open your syllables.

Cunnilanguage, cunnilanguish — hope, a surgical implant. Wishful stun: harmony is a warning where anything can breathe. Poppy, missile! Safe, natural, bombing run — victory post-mortem lab blubber. Difference gets you dead. Prey unwriting rumba complicity radio spook you white on white disgust. Whiteous coke on scalpel socialized ice cream. The larval class: vote yes. Cattle reward you, interzonked Fanonical swearing in cattle corporation. Dark retro, subtlety reverses it up the ass. Wage labor, context meltdowns. War — short term memory loss. You think about a lot of things when you're insoluble. Reptility: turn gold into cash. PEWS (Political Economy [of the] World System) refusal mash-up. Organize the slaves to vaporize hegemon. Any accident would be one ending.

- Bruce Andrews

available at spd:
http://www.spdbooks.org/Producte/9780982212011/collobert-orbital.aspx

best,

brian, daniel, and steven

2009/7/12 POETICS automatic digest system <[redacted]>

> There are 7 messages totalling 471 lines in this issue.
>
> Topics of the day:
>
> 1. appalling, redacted, pulchritude
> 2. I want to write fiction but ... (3)
> 3. Chaparral--Summer, 2009
> 4. REMINDER: Robinson, Fleisher & Amato This Thursday, Stratford Park Reading > Series
> 5. Third Thursday Poetry Night, July 16 - Dominick Rizzo
>
> ---
>
> Date: Sat, 11 Jul 2009 13:46:14 +0530
> From: steve dalachinsky <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
>
> lighten up
> it's a ny thing to die for
> or that dress is just to die for
>
> anyay what else is there worth dying for if not fashion
> or a good cupcake

On Fri, 10 Jul 2009 21:51:15 -0700 Wallis Leslie <[redacted]>
writes:
"to die for"

What terrible inattention to the words coming out of our mouths leads us to say we would die for whatever delectable morsel coming into our mouths. How the misuse of that phrase diminishes what people have died for or what people are willing to die for.

Wallis Leslie

--- On Thu, 7/9/09, Lauren Russell <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Lauren Russell <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: appalling, redacted, pulchritude
To: [redacted]
Date: Thursday, July 9, 2009, 10:42 PM

I hate the word "community," as in "The Black Community," "The LGBT Community," "The Jewish Community," etc., because it advances an oversimplified view of the world in asserting the existence of these enormous "communities" that do not actually exist. I mean, what is the often-discussed Black Community, anyway? There are many black communities, and there are black people who do not belong to any community, and there are black people who belong to communities that consist primarily of people who are not black. There is no single, homogenous "Black Community" as that misuse of the word seems to suggest.

Lauren

Date: Sat, 11 Jul 2009 13:01:09 -0700
From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Here we go;
the usual widening and widening of the topic
until we can include everything, such as L'il Abner and,oh, The Wire.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 6:36 PM, Jonathan Morse wrote:

steve russell wrote:
there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate
work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish.
Goethe. Rilke. Hardy. Hugo. If you'll accept non-fiction, you can add Yeats and Dryden. If you count letters as imaginative literature, and why shouldn't you?, you can add Keats and Dickinson. Think big.

Jonathan Morse

welcome.html

George B.
Author of his own misfortunes.

Date: Sat, 11 Jul 2009 13:04:36 -0700
From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Didn't that guy that lived on the Olympic Peninsula and was imitated =20
by all the Creative Writhing students
skip from poetry to short fiction? Can't remember his name. Wrote a =20
book called something like What Do
We Talk About When we Talk about Love or some such topic.

gb

On Jul 11, 2009, at 10:20 AM, steve russell wrote:

& I neglected to mention Gilbert Sorrentino or Paul Auster. =20

Reginald Gibbons, too, another excellent poet/fiction writer and =20 critic, and translator. There's a rather large list of very =20
inventive, versatile writer/poets .... Mark Strand ....

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, steve russell <[redacted]> wrote:

From: steve russell <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 8:40 PM

there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate =20
work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider =20
Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish. & of =20
course we have the Buk, as well as Raymond Carver. I blame the so-=20
called creative writing programs for the unfortunate distinction =20
between fiction and prose. Jeanette Winterson doesn't make such =20 distinctions when she discusses her work.

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, Mary Kasimor <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Mary Kasimor <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 6:51 PM

I figure that those who can write both fiction and poetry are =20 either more talented or more tenacious. What are your thoughts on =20
that?

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 2:34 PM

I have never found it to be a problem.
I have managed a lot of novels and books of stories.

I think that that is not all that uncommon in Canada.
Kroetsch, Atwood, MacEwen, Ondaatje, McFadden, Cohen, etc.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 10:27 AM, amy king wrote:

but poetry always stops me.

Just wondering, so thought I'd ask a bunch of poets who might have =20=

the same itch, why can't you scratch it? Why this hurdle in =20
making the transition?

John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some =20
fiction I end up writing a poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often think it=92s become for me a device for tricking myself into writing = poetry."

Kristy Bowen -- "While one of the coolest things about poetry for =20
me is the ability to twist language in all sorts of ways, fiction depends far too much on meaning, on conveyance, to allow too much twisting or prodding before you lose your reader. Even in my own reading exploits, the point from which I enter a piece of fiction is entirely different from the state of mind in which I enter a poem. Anything can happen in a poem, jumps of logic, of image, of meaning, and I'm ..." cont'd here: http://=20=

tiny.cc/fiction502

http://tiny.cc/fiction502

Amy

———

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=
welcome.html

Geo. Bowering,
RCAF 227498

=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=
welcome.html

=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=
welcome.html

=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=
welcome.html

=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=3D=
welcome.html

George Bowering, esq.
Not a morning kind of guy.

Date: Sat, 11 Jul 2009 13:40:18 -0700
From: Catherine Daly <[redacted]> Subject: Chaparral--Summer, 2009

new la poetry 'zine

The summer issue of Chaparral is here! The new edition features an interview with Maggie Nelson and work by Dinah Lenney, Marsha de la O, Lynne Thompson, Leilani Hall, Gail Wronsky and others.

http://www.chaparralpoetry.net/

--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

Date: Sat, 11 Jul 2009 18:05:27 -0600
From: Mark DuCharme <[redacted]>
Subject: REMINDER: Robinson, Fleisher & Amato This Thursday, Stratford Park Reading Series

Please join us at the STRATFORD PARK READING SERIES as three extraordinary = writers present readings of their work: ELIZABETH ROBINSON=2C KASS FLEISHER= & JOE AMATO.

It all happens THIS THURSDAY=2C JULY 16th at 7:30 p.m.

Address: 3030 O=92NEAL PARKWAY=2C Boulder=2C Colorado (across the street from Naropa University=92s Paramita campus & the Boulder= Cork restaurant)

http://www.mapquest.com/maps?city=3DBoulder&state=3DCO&address=3D3030+O=92n=eal+Parkway&zipcode=3D80301<http://www.mapquest.com/maps?city=3DBoulder&state=3DCO&address=3D3030+O=92n=

%0Aeal+Parkway&zipcode=3D80301>

A Donation is requested=97 but All are welcome!

A reception will follow the reading

=A7

DIRECTIONS: O=92Neal Parkway is off 30th Street in north Boulder between Va= lmont & Iris. Turn East at the signs for STRATFORD PARK WEST. The communi= ty house is the one-story building with a fence leading down to the street= =2C half a block from 30th. Please park ONLY on O=92Neal Parkway=2C O=92Ne= al Circle=2C or in VISITOR spaces in the Stratford Park West lots. Please = do not park in any other nearby lots. Thank you.

=A7

Elizabeth Robinson's most recent books are Inaudible Trumpeters and The Orp= han & its Relations. She has been a recipient of grants from the Fund for = Poetry and the Foundation for Contemporary Arts=2C and has also been a winn= er of the Fence Modern Poets Series and the National Poetry Series. She sp= ends money that she does not have as a co-editor with Colleen Lookingbil of= EtherDome Chapbooks=2C and co-editor with Beth Anderson and Laura Sims of = Instance Press.
=20
Kass Fleisher authored Talking Out of School: Memoir of an Educated Woman (= Dalkey Archive Press=2C 2008)=3B The Adventurous (experimental prose=3B Fac= tory School=2C 2007)=3B Accidental Species: A Reproduction (experimental pr= ose=3B Chax Press=2C 2005)=3B and The Bear River Massacre and the Making of= History (nonfiction=3B SUNY Press=2C 2004). Her work has appeared in The

I= owa Review=2C Denver Quarterly=2C Mandorla=2C Notre Dame Review=2C Postmode= rn Culture=2C and Z Magazine=2C and she writes screenplays with her partner= =2C Joe Amato.
=20

Joe Amato's most recent volume of poetry=2C Pain Plus Thyme=2C was released= by Factory School last summer. His memoir=2C Once an Engineer: A Song of t= he Salt City=2C is due out from SUNY Press in September=2C and his first no= vel=2C Big Man with a Shovel=2C is due out from Chax Press later this year.=
He's completed a second novel=2C Samuel Taylor's Last Night=2C and is curr= ently at work on a third novel=2C which takes its title from a 1938 sci-fi = novella=2C Who Goes There?
=20

=A7

UPCOMING IN THE STRATFORD PARK READING SERIES:
Thursday=2C October 8th at 7:30 p.m.=97 Jack Collom & Amy Catanzano.

=A7

If you no longer wish to receive email announcements of upcoming events in = the Stratford Park Reading Series=2C please email [redacted]= with the subject line "SPRS: REMOVE."

Insert movie times and more without leaving Hotmail=AE.=20 http://windowslive.com/Tutorial/Hotmail/QuickAdd?ocid=3DTXT_TAGLM_WL_HM_Tut= orial_QuickAdd_062009=

Date: Sun, 12 Jul 2009 03:22:09 -0400
From: Sarah Sarai <[redacted]>

Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...

I wanted to create a perfect cheese souffl=E9 but I wrote a poem.
I wanted wings of wax but a broken kite was left in my stocking.
I wanted boundaries pushed but was told that would stretch the fabric.
I wanted to write a bestseller but penned a dazzling laundry list.
I imagined I wanted imagination but got a paisley scarf.
I wanted to write myself silly but started where I ended near the top ove= r the right corner=20 beside the doorway, no, not that one, there, yes, to the pantry and would= you mind getting=20
a can of Campbell=92s Chicken =91n Noodle soup (it=92s a classic).
I wanted to write an obituary but the idiot wouldn=92t die.
I wanted a week with Javier Bardem but he is a novel.
I wanted another week with Penelope Cruz but she is a toaster oven.
I wanted God to show me some love. Sun, rain and a glowing moon.

Uneventfully yours,
Sarah Sarai
Popinjay in the Court of Louis Vuitton
(& valise to the stars)

Date: Sun, 12 Jul 2009 10:55:15 -0400
From: Dan Wilcox <[redacted]> Subject: Third Thursday Poetry Night, July 16 - Dominick Rizzo

the Poetry Motel Foundation
presents

Third Thursday Poetry Night

at
the Social Justice Center
33 Central Ave., Albany, NY

Thursday, July 16
7:00 sign up; 7:30 start

Featured Poet: Dominick Rizzo

Dominick Rizzo is the author of the poetry collection =93The Spiral =20 Staircase of my Life=94 (Authorhouse), a portion of the proceeds of the =20=

> sales of which go to suicide prevention organizations.
>
> -- with an open mic for community poets before & after the feature: =20
> $3.00 donation, suggested; more if you got it, less if you can=92t.=20
>
> Your summertime host: Dan Wilcox.
> =20=
>
> ---
>
> End of POETICS Digest - 11 Jul 2009 to 12 Jul 2009 (#2009-154)
> **********

↑ Index

188. amy king

Re: Your city's / town's poetry reading calendar? - Last calls?

Mon 13 Jul 2009

I'm finishing up the list - if anyone has more to add, please send today!

Thanks,

Amy

--- On Thu, 7/9/09, amy king wrote:

I found this great one for Chicago (updated daily) -- http://www.chicagopoetrycalendar.org/

But I recently discovered in my web searches a sad lack of other city / town poetry reading sites. Perhaps my skills are lacking. Portland, OR only has one site about the police making poetry...?

Please send me your poetry reading sites so that I might update my list -- I'll post it here and on my blog for future reference when all seems complete! That way, whenever intrepid poets travel, they'll be able to check the sites and see what's what in your town!

Thanks,

Amy

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

189. George Bowering
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Mon 13 Jul 2009

Oh boy, Baltimore.
The crab cakes at the Lexington Market the best anywhere.

gb

On Jul 13, 2009, at 11:32 AM, Mary Kasimor wrote:

> I am a The Wire addict. It takes place in Baltimore.
> mary
>
> --- On Sun, 7/12/09, steve russell <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: steve russell <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Sunday, July 12, 2009, 1:04 PM
>
> Sure, and why not throw in the Goddamn bible. I mean, hell, what is the bible? Narrative? Epic poetry? I'm thinking mostly of the Old Testament, of course. As for "The Wire, " I'm a big fan of crime fiction, and George Pelacanos is the main producer of "The Wire." Indeed, in the broad sense of the term (...poet...), why not include Pelacanos as a poet of the streets of Washington, D.C.? Perhaps Q Taratino is the poet of video store clerks, if not their saint. Why not talk about failed poets who turned to fiction after their bout with poetry. Consider William Faulkner. As for cartoonist, I have no problem calling E Gorey, or even Mr. peanuts Schultz, a poet. Ugh, what was the topic???
>
> --- On Sat, 7/11/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Saturday, July 11, 2009, 4:01 PM
>
> Here we go;
> the usual widening and widening of the topic
> until we can include everything, such as L'il Abner and,oh, The Wire.
>
> gb

> On Jul 10, 2009, at 6:36 PM, Jonathan Morse wrote:
>
> steve russell wrote:
> there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish. Goethe. Rilke. Hardy. Hugo. If you'll accept non-fiction, you can add Yeats and Dryden. If you count letters as imaginative literature, and why shouldn't you?, you can add Keats and Dickinson. Think big.
>
> Jonathan Morse
>
> welcome.html
>
> George B.
> Author of his own misfortunes.
>
> welcome.html
>
> welcome.html
>
> welcome.html

George "Whip" Bowering
No slugging average to speak of.

↑ Index

190. George Bowering
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Mon 13 Jul 2009

"Workshop." There's your problem right there.

gb

On Jul 13, 2009, at 11:43 AM, steve russell wrote:

> Could anyone recommend a decent "creative writhing" workshop?

> --- On Mon, 7/13/09, Skip Fox <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: Skip Fox <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Monday, July 13, 2009, 1:38 PM
>
> That's it!
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB)
> [mailto:[redacted]] On
> Behalf Of Mary Kasimor
> Sent: Sunday, July 12, 2009 11:24 AM
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
>
> Creative writhing!
>
> welcome.html
>
> welcome.html

George H. Bowering, OUH
Born without a religion.

↑ Index

191. Skip Fox
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Mon 13 Jul 2009

Dick Cheney used to run the most highly profiled program. But these days a prospective student might head to regional hotspots outside of her or his country.

-----Original Message-----
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of steve russell
Sent: Monday, July 13, 2009 1:43 PM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Could anyone recommend a decent "creative writhing" workshop?

--- On Mon, 7/13/09, Skip Fox <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Skip Fox <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Monday, July 13, 2009, 1:38 PM

That's it!

-----Original Message-----
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On
Behalf Of Mary Kasimor
Sent: Sunday, July 12, 2009 11:24 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Creative writhing!

↑ Index

192. Maria Damon
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Mon 13 Jul 2009

---

there are a number of forms of "movement meditation" such as Authentic Movement, Continuum, etc., all of which cd fulfill this delightful moniker.

steve russell wrote:
> Could anyone recommend a decent "creative writhing" workshop?
>
> --- On Mon, 7/13/09, Skip Fox <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: Skip Fox <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Monday, July 13, 2009, 1:38 PM
>
> That's it!
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On
> Behalf Of Mary Kasimor
> Sent: Sunday, July 12, 2009 11:24 AM
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
>

> Creative writhing!
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

193. Ruth Lepson

Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Mon 13 Jul 2009

---

hardy too

On 7/12/09 12:44 PM, "Charlotte Mandel" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Yes, Raymond Carver - as steve russell included in his listing.
>
> On Jul 11, 2009, at 4:04 PM, George Bowering wrote:
>
> Didn't that guy that lived on the Olympic Peninsula and was imitated by all the Creative Writhing students
> skip from poetry to short fiction? Can't remember his name. Wrote a book called something like What Do
> We Talk About When we Talk about Love or some such topic.
>
> gb
>
> On Jul 11, 2009, at 10:20 AM, steve russell wrote:
>
> & I neglected to mention Gilbert Sorrentino or Paul Auster. Reginald Gibbons, too, another excellent poet/fiction writer and critic, and translator. There's a rather large list of very inventive, versatile writer/poets .... Mark Strand ....
>
> --- On Fri, 7/10/09, steve russell <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: steve russell <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 8:40 PM
>
> there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish. & of course we have the Buk, as well as Raymond Carver. I blame the so-called creative writing programs for the unfortunate distinction between fiction and prose. Jeanette Winterson doesn't make such distinctions when she discusses her work.

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, Mary Kasimor <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Mary Kasimor <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 6:51 PM

I figure that those who can write both fiction and poetry are either more talented or more tenacious. What are your thoughts on that?

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 2:34 PM

I have never found it to be a problem.
I have managed a lot of novels and books of stories.

I think that that is not all that uncommon in Canada.
Kroetsch, Atwood, MacEwen, Ondaatje, McFadden, Cohen, etc.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 10:27 AM, amy king wrote:

but poetry always stops me.

Just wondering, so thought I'd ask a bunch of poets who might have the same itch, why can't you scratch it? Why this hurdle in making the transition?

John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some fiction I end up writing a poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often think it¹s become for me a device for tricking myself into writing poetry."

Kristy Bowen -- "While one of the coolest things about poetry for me is the ability to twist language in all sorts of ways, fiction depends far too much on meaning, on conveyance, to allow too much twisting or prodding before you lose your reader. Even in my own reading exploits, the point from which I enter a piece of fiction is entirely different from the state of mind in which I enter a poem. Anything can happen in a poem, jumps of logic, of image, of meaning, and I'm ..." cont'd here: http://tiny.cc/fiction502

http://tiny.cc/fiction502

Amy

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

welcome.html

Geo. Bowering,
RCAF 227498

welcome.html

welcome.html

> welcome.html
>
> welcome.html
>
> George Bowering, esq.
> Not a morning kind of guy.

↑ Index

194. Daniel Godston
updates at bauhaus9090.org
Mon 13 Jul 2009

You are invited to visit the "The Bauhaus: 90 Years / 90 Days" website (www.bauhaus9090.org). Updates include --

"Rediscovery and Rebirth" -- Gropius in Chicago Coalition event
"Some Knowledge of Schlemmer Is Required" -- a machinima by Patrick Lichty
"Working Class History and the Institute of Design" -- essay by Janina Ciezadlo
"Bauhaus Reverse Abecedarian" -- poem by Dan Godston
"The Twittering Machine" -- a poem by Alice Shapiro
"5 Against 4" -- a painting by Lee Barry
"BauHouse" -- a poem by Cathleen Schandelmeier
"Extremely Hungary Beuer" -- design by Istvan Banyai

You can register at the site and contribute to forums, and more features will be added soon.

↑ Index

195. Nick Carbo
Poetry review of Chinese, Japanese, What are These? up at Hyphen Magazine.
Mon 13 Jul 2009

---

reviewed by Barbara Jane Reyes (Poeta en San Francisco).
http://tinyurl.com/lng4nq

Thanks!

↑ Index

196. Adam Tobin
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Tue 14 Jul 2009

Mr. Bowering,
Sir, isn't it true that you are working on a poetics of crabbiness yourself? or is that just (and this, and proper grammar) a fiction?
at

> Oh boy, Baltimore.
> The crab cakes at the Lexington Market the best anywhere.
>
> gb
>
> On Jul 13, 2009, at 11:32 AM, Mary Kasimor wrote:
>
> I am a The Wire addict. It takes place in Baltimore.
> mary
>
> --- On Sun, 7/12/09, steve russell <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: steve russell <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Sunday, July 12, 2009, 1:04 PM
>
> Sure, and why not throw in the Goddamn bible. I mean, hell, what is the bible? Narrative? Epic poetry? I'm thinking mostly of the Old Testament, of course. As for "The Wire, " I'm a big fan of crime fiction, and George Pelacanos is the main producer of "The Wire." Indeed, in the broad sense of the term (...poet...), why not include Pelacanos as a poet of the streets of Washington, D.C.? Perhaps Q Taratino is the poet of video store clerks, if not their saint. Why not talk about failed poets who turned to fiction after their bout with poetry. Consider William Faulkner. As for cartoonist, I have no problem calling E Gorey, or even Mr. peanuts Schultz, a poet. Ugh, what was the topic???
>
> --- On Sat, 7/11/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Saturday, July 11, 2009, 4:01 PM

Here we go;
the usual widening and widening of the topic
until we can include everything, such as L'il Abner and,oh, The Wire.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 6:36 PM, Jonathan Morse wrote:

steve russell wrote:
there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay.
Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish.
Goethe. Rilke. Hardy. Hugo. If you'll accept non-fiction, you can add Yeats and Dryden. If you count letters as imaginative literature, and why shouldn't you?, you can add Keats and Dickinson. Think big.

Jonathan Morse

welcome.html

George B.
Author of his own misfortunes.

welcome.html

welcome.html

welcome.html

George "Whip" Bowering
No slugging average to speak of.

↑ Index

197. Ryan Daley
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Tue 14 Jul 2009

Pelicanos also writes a lot about DC, which he calls "Drama City," and which they discuss much in The Wire.

ps. Pelicanos only produces some of the episodes, not even a majority.

On Mon, Jul 13, 2009 at 2:32 PM, Mary Kasimor <[redacted]> wrote:

> I am a The Wire addict. It takes place in Baltimore.
> mary
>
> --- On Sun, 7/12/09, steve russell <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: steve russell <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Sunday, July 12, 2009, 1:04 PM
>
> Sure, and why not throw in the Goddamn bible. I mean, hell, what is the bible? Narrative? Epic poetry? I'm thinking mostly of the Old Testament, of course. As for "The Wire, " I'm a big fan of crime fiction, and George Pelacanos is the main producer of "The Wire." Indeed, in the broad sense of the term (...poet...), why not include Pelacanos as a poet of the streets of Washington, D.C.? Perhaps Q Taratino is the poet of video store clerks, if not their saint. Why not talk about failed poets who turned to fiction after their bout with poetry. Consider William Faulkner. As for cartoonist, I have no problem calling E Gorey, or even Mr. peanuts Schultz, a poet. Ugh, what was the topic???
>
> --- On Sat, 7/11/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Saturday, July 11, 2009, 4:01 PM
>
> Here we go;
> the usual widening and widening of the topic
> until we can include everything, such as L'il Abner and,oh, The Wire.
>
> gb
>
> On Jul 10, 2009, at 6:36 PM, Jonathan Morse wrote:

> steve russell wrote:
> there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish.
> Goethe. Rilke. Hardy. Hugo. If you'll accept non-fiction, you can add Yeats and Dryden. If you count letters as imaginative literature, and why shouldn't you?, you can add Keats and Dickinson. Think big.
>
> Jonathan Morse
>
> George B.
> Author of his own misfortunes.

↑ Index

198. George Bowering

Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Tue 14 Jul 2009

On Jul 13, 2009, at 3:00 PM, Ruth Lepson wrote:

> hardy too

Well, it was the other way round. . . .

> On 7/12/09 12:44 PM, "Charlotte Mandel" <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Yes, Raymond Carver - as steve russell included in his listing.
>
> On Jul 11, 2009, at 4:04 PM, George Bowering wrote:
>
> Didn't that guy that lived on the Olympic Peninsula and was imitated by all the Creative Writhing students

skip from poetry to short fiction? Can't remember his name. Wrote a book called something like What Do
We Talk About When we Talk about Love or some such topic.

gb

On Jul 11, 2009, at 10:20 AM, steve russell wrote:

& I neglected to mention Gilbert Sorrentino or Paul Auster. Reginald Gibbons, too, another excellent poet/fiction writer and critic, and translator. There's a rather large list of very inventive, versatile writer/poets .... Mark Strand ....

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, steve russell <[redacted]> wrote:

From: steve russell <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 8:40 PM

there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish. & of course we have the Buk, as well as Raymond Carver. I blame the so-called creative writing programs for the unfortunate distinction between fiction and prose. Jeanette Winterson doesn't make such distinctions when she discusses her work.

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, Mary Kasimor <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Mary Kasimor <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 6:51 PM

I figure that those who can write both fiction and poetry are either more talented or more tenacious. What are your thoughts on that?

--- On Fri, 7/10/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 2:34 PM

> I have never found it to be a problem.
> I have managed a lot of novels and books of stories.
>
> I think that that is not all that uncommon in Canada.
> Kroetsch, Atwood, MacEwen, Ondaatje, McFadden, Cohen, etc.
>
> gb
>
> On Jul 10, 2009, at 10:27 AM, amy king wrote:
>
> but poetry always stops me.
>
> Just wondering, so thought I'd ask a bunch of poets who might have the same itch, why can't you scratch it? Why this hurdle in making the transition?
>
> John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some fiction I end up writing a poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often think it's become for me a device for tricking myself into writing poetry."
>
> Kristy Bowen -- "While one of the coolest things about poetry for me is the ability to twist language in all sorts of ways, fiction depends far too much on meaning, on conveyance, to allow too much twisting or prodding before you lose your reader. Even in my own reading exploits, the point from which I enter a piece of fiction is entirely different from the state of mind in which I enter a poem. Anything can happen in a poem, jumps of logic, of image, of meaning, and I'm ..." cont'd here: http://tiny.cc/fiction502
>
> http://tiny.cc/fiction502
>
> Amy
>
> _____

> Amy's Alias
>
> http://amyking.org/
>
> welcome.html
>
> Geo. Bowering,
> RCAF 227498
>
> welcome.html
>
> welcome.html
>
> welcome.html
>
> welcome.html
>
> George Bowering, esq.
> Not a morning kind of guy.
>
> welcome.html
>
> guidelines &
>
> welcome.html

Geo. Bowering
Heavy feet. Light heart.

↑ Index

199. Gabrielle Welford

Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Tue 14 Jul 2009

---

aye, me too--stories, novel, essays... i'm english... but that can't be what's going on, can it?

On Fri, 10 Jul 2009, George Bowering wrote:

> I have never found it to be a problem.
> I have managed a lot of novels and books of stories.
>
> I think that that is not all that uncommon in Canada.
> Kroetsch, Atwood, MacEwen, Ondaatje, McFadden, Cohen, etc.
>
> gb
>
> On Jul 10, 2009, at 10:27 AM, amy king wrote:
>
> but poetry always stops me.
>
> Just wondering, so thought I'd ask a bunch of poets who might have the same itch, why can't you scratch it? Why this hurdle in making the transition?
>
> John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some fiction I end up writing a poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often think it's become for me a device for tricking myself into writing poetry."
>
> Kristy Bowen -- "While one of the coolest things about poetry for me is the ability to twist language in all sorts of ways, fiction depends far too much on meaning, on conveyance, to allow too much twisting or prodding before you lose your reader. Even in my own reading exploits, the point from which I enter a piece of fiction is entirely different from the state of mind in which I enter a poem. Anything can happen in a poem, jumps of logic, of image, of meaning, and I'm ..." cont'd here: http://tiny.cc/fiction502

> http://tiny.cc/fiction502
>
> Amy
>
> _____
>
> Amy's Alias
>
> http://amyking.org/
>
> welcome.html
>
> Geo. Bowering,
> RCAF 227498

↑ Index

200. Gabrielle Welford

Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Tue 14 Jul 2009

---

hmmm... tenacious, might be...

On Fri, 10 Jul 2009, Mary Kasimor wrote:

> I figure that those who can write both fiction and poetry are either more talented or more tenacious. What are your thoughts on that?
>
> --- On Fri, 7/10/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Friday, July 10, 2009, 2:34 PM
>
> I have never found it to be a problem.

I have managed a lot of novels and books of stories.

I think that that is not all that uncommon in Canada.
Kroetsch, Atwood, MacEwen, Ondaatje, McFadden, Cohen, etc.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 10:27 AM, amy king wrote:

but poetry always stops me.

Just wondering, so thought I'd ask a bunch of poets who might have the same itch, why can't you scratch it?Â Â Â Why this hurdle in making the transition?

John Ashbery -- "...every time I sit down and try to write some fiction I end up writing a poem instead, so it gets continually postponed. In fact I often think itâ€™s become for me a device for tricking myself into writing poetry."

Kristy Bowen -- "While one of the coolest things about poetry for me is the ability to twist language in all sorts of ways, fiction depends far too much on meaning, on conveyance, to allow too much twisting or prodding before you lose your reader. Even in my own reading exploits, the point from which I enter a piece of fiction is entirely different from the state of mind in which I enter a poem. Anything can happen in a poem, jumps of logic, of image, of meaning, and I'm ..."Â cont'd here:Â http://tiny.cc/fiction502

http://tiny.cc/fiction502

Amy

———

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

> Geo. Bowering,
> RCAFÂ 227498

↑ Index

201. David Kirschenbaum
Boog City 58 Print and Online PDF Editions Available
Tue 14 Jul 2009

Please forward

Hi all,

The print edition of Boog City 58 will be available today. You can read the pdf version now at:

http://welcometoboogcity.com/boogpdfs/bc58.pdf

Thanks,
David

Boog City 58

now available

featuring:

On the Cover

Our Printed Matter section, edited by Paolo Javier

—"Mark Lamoureux’s formal and conceptual ingenuity are a pleasure. Constantly creating his own organic forms, he employs the field of the page for composition in a manner not unlike Robert Duncan." —from Star Maps: Lamoureux and Lin Explore Varying Cosmos; Astronomy Orgonon by Mark Lamoureux (BlazeVOX Books), reviewed by Tim Peterson

—"Lin’s mourning is a strange and productive tribute indeed, since it implicitly plays upon the actor’s name to address questions of space and inscription."

from Star Maps: Lamoureux and Lin Explore Varying Cosmos; Heath by Tan Lin (Zaesterle Press), reviewed by Alan Ramón Clinton

And From Our Poetry section, edited by Joanna Fuhrman (excerpt below)

—Bushwick, Brooklyn's Douglas Piccinnini with
"My Notebook is in Your Car"

Few things you can do over that you can do over to reach completion.

Say, like a drop from this cup added from some other cup which is no longer our friend.

And Inside

Art editor Cora Lambert brings us work from Buchwick, Brooklyn's Dapper Chap Quarterly comic anthology.

And the Rest of Our Poetry section (excerpts below)

—Elmhurst, Queens' Geoffrey Cruickshank-Hagenbuckle with "Tragic Wand"

They’re tearing down the brownstones
And townhouses in New York—

“We don’t draw pictures
Of the storm,
We draw power from it.”

—Salt Lake City's Shira Dentz with
"if it were rep-re-sent-a-tion-al"

grate sunflowers slice worm into salad ohright bread would be better seal eyes with their envelopes black seeds furry centers

and

"buds"

just buds pressing on thick black light made of holes there are crocuses starting to bloom;

maybe in your head

—Greenpoint, Brooklyn's Kate Hall with "Variation"

Fat

My therapist asks what I think of my looks. “I could lose a little weight,” I tell her.
The next thing I know, I am in the basement of a church talking about my eating.
“I had a hamburger for lunch,” I tell them.
“Maybe you should change your hairstyle,” the woman to my left says. “I like my hair,” I tell her.
“I was just thinking you could maybe layer the back,” she goes on.
I get up to leave. “Do you have a sponsor?”
a woman in the back row asks.

—Tucson, Arizona's Laynie Browne with "Ps(alm) for a Boy Reading"

Lying on his belly

legs kicking up absently behind him

Boy of seven, reading The Hobbit

and

"Ps(alm) for Transformational Silence"

How will you comfort me?
Read to me from a book of ps(alms)

And From Our Music section, Urban Folk edited by Jonathan Berger

—"Semerdjian produces such exciting and bracing pop music, filled with a range of influences." from Semerdjian Doesn’t Let Art Get in the Way of a Good Time; The Big Beauty by Alan Semerdjian, reviewed by Jonathan Berger

—"‘Thank You’ is a remembrance of a long-lost friend. ‘I never ever thought that I’d be one to be quoting that Long Island son,’ she sings. ‘When all is said and done only the good die young.’" from New and Old: 21st Century Output from Julia Douglass; Poor People on TV and In Scarsdale by Julia Douglass, reviewed by Berger

—"Decay looms everywhere in the songs on Speck, but the last two songs, like the first, present a sense of optimism." from Young Girl, Old Soul: Denying Decay Through the Power of Song; Speck by Alexa Woodward, reviewed by Berger

—Costello’s Web: Traveling Bands; Semerdjian, Kathy Zimmer, and Brownbird Rudy Relic videos reviewed by Berger

—Forever Came Today: Disingenuous Lines of Thought Provoked Since Michael Jackson’s Death
By Paula Carino

And thanks to our copy editor, Joe Bates.

Please patronize our advertisers:

Hanging Loose Press * http://www.hangingloosepress.com/
House Press * http://www.housepress.org/records.html
Lorraine Leckie * http://www.lorraineleckie.com/HTML/
Schwervon * http://www.schwervon.com/
Alan Semerdjian * http://www.alansemerdjian.com/
Rev. Billy Talen for Mayor * http://www.voterevbilly.org/

To advertise in Boog City, see our ad rate card:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/ad_rates.pdf

Advertising or donation inquiries can also be directed to [redacted] or by calling 212-842-BOOG (2664),
or you can send money to [redacted] via https://www.paypal.com/

Poetry Submission Guidelines: Email subs to [redacted], with no more than five poems, all in one attached file with “My Name Submission” in the subject line and as the name of the file, ie: Walt Whitman Submission. Or mail with an SASE to Poetry editor, Boog City, 330 W. 28th St., Suite 6H, N.Y., N.Y. 10001-4754.

Want to write a review (or be reviewed)
in Boog’s Urban Folk music or printed matter sections?
Email UF editor Jonathan Berger, [redacted] or printed matter editor Paolo Javier, [redacted]

Want to have your work appear in our art section?
Query our art editor, Cora Lambert, [redacted]

2,250 copies of Boog City are distributed among, and available for free at, the following locations:

MANHATTAN

East Village
Sunshine Theater * 143 E. Houston St. (bet. 1st & 2nd Avenues)
Bluestockings * 172 Allen St. (bet. Stanton & Rivington sts.)
Pianos * 158 Ludlow St. (bet. Stanton and Rivington sts.)
Living Room * 154 Ludlow St. (bet. Stanton and Rivington sts.)
Cake Shop * 152 Ludlow St. (bet. Stanton and Rivington sts.)
Bowery Poetry Club * 308 Bowery (bet. Houston & Bleecker sts.)
Think Coffee * 1 Bleecker St. (@ Bowery)
Trash and Vaudeville (upstairs) * 4 St. Mark's Pl. (bet. 2nd & 3rd aves.)
Mission Café * 82 Second Ave. (bet. 4th & 5th sts.)
Anthology Film Archives * 32 Second Ave. (bet. 1st & 2nd sts.)
Sidewalk Café * 94 Avenue A (bet. 6th & 7th sts.)
Nuyorican Poets Café * 236 E. 3rd St. (bet. Avenues B & C)
Lakeside Lounge * 162 Avenue B (bet. 10th & 11th sts.)
Life Café * 343 E. 10th St. (bet. Avenues A & B)
St. Mark's Books * 31 Third Ave. (bet. St. Mark's Pl. & 9th St.)
St. Mark's Church * 131 E.10th St. (bet. 2nd & 3rd aves.)

Lower Manhattan Acme Underground * 9 Great Jones St. (bet. Broadway & Lafayette St.) Shakespeare & Co. * 716 Broadway (bet. Waverly & Astor places) Other Music * 15 E. 4th St. (bet. Broadway & Lafayette St.) Angelika Film Center * 18 W. Houston St. (bet. Broadway & Mercer St.) Think Coffee * 248 Mercer St. (bet. W. 4th and W. 3rd sts.) Mercer Street Books * 206 Mercer St. (bet. Bleecker & Houston sts.) McNally Jackson * 52 Prince St. (bet. Mulberry & Lafayette sts.) Hotel Chelsea * 222 W. 23rd St. (bet. 7th & 8th aves.)

BROOKLYN

Greenpoint Greenpoint Coffee House * 195 Franklin St. (bet. Freeman & Green sts.) East Coast Aliens * 216 Franklin St. (bet. Huron & Green sts.) Thai Café * 925 Manhattan Ave. (bet. Kent St. & Greenpoint Ave.) Matchless * 557 Manhattan Ave. (bet. Nassau and Driggs aves.) Champion Coffe * 1108 Manhattan Ave. (bet. Clay & DuPont sts.)

Williamsburg
Sideshow Gallery * 319 Bedford Ave. (bet. S.2nd & S.3rd sts.)
Supercore Café * 305 Bedford Ave. (bet. S.1st & S.2nd sts.)
Spoonbill & Sugartown * 218 Bedford Ave. (bet. N.4th & N.5th sts.)
Ear Wax Records * 218 Bedford Ave. (bet. N.4th & N.5th sts.)

Bliss Café * 191 Bedford Ave. (bet. N.6th & N.7th sts.)
Spike Hill * 184 Bedford Ave. (bet. N.6th & N.7th sts.)
Soundfix/Fix Cafe * 110 Bedford Ave. (at N.11th St.)

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W. 28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)

↑ Index

202. steve russell
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Tue 14 Jul 2009

---

but Pelacanos, the wire producer, writes novels. they're set in d.c. --- On Mon, 7/13/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

> From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Monday, July 13, 2009, 5:07 PM
> Oh boy, Baltimore.
> The crab cakes at the Lexington Market the best anywhere.
>
> gb
>
> On Jul 13, 2009, at 11:32 AM, Mary Kasimor wrote:
>
> I am a The Wire addict. It takes place in Baltimore.
> mary
>
> --- On Sun, 7/12/09, steve russell <[redacted]>
> wrote:
>
> From: steve russell <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Sunday, July 12, 2009, 1:04 PM
>
> Sure, and why not throw in the Goddamn bible. I mean, hell, what is the bible? Narrative? Epic poetry? I'm thinking mostly of the Old Testament, of course. As for "The Wire, " I'm a big fan of crime fiction, and George Pelacanos is the main producer of "The Wire." Indeed, in the broad sense of the term (...poet...), why not include Pelacanos as a poet of the streets of Washington, D.C.? Perhaps Q Taratino is the poet of video store clerks, if not their saint. Why not talk about failed poets who turned to fiction after their bout with poetry. Consider William Faulkner. As for cartoonist, I have no problem calling E Gorey, or even Mr. peanuts Schultz, a poet. Ugh, what was the topic???

--- On Sat, 7/11/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Saturday, July 11, 2009, 4:01 PM

Here we go;
the usual widening and widening of the topic
until we can include everything, such as L'il Abner
and,oh, The Wire.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 6:36 PM, Jonathan Morse wrote:

steve russell wrote:
there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish.
Goethe. Rilke. Hardy. Hugo. If you'll accept
non-fiction, you can add Yeats and Dryden. If you count
letters as imaginative literature, and why shouldn't you?,
you can add Keats and Dickinson. Think big.

Jonathan Morse

George B.
Author of his own misfortunes.

> George "Whip" Bowering
> No slugging average to speak of.

↑ Index

203. Jonathan Penton

Come to our read in Terlingua, Texas! (seriously. Terlingua, Texas. It's the Taos of Tomorrow.)

Tue 14 Jul 2009

Donna Snyder, Deb Hoag and Jonathan Penton will be attending the Way Out West Book Festival in Alpine, Texas on July 31st and August 1st. The WOW Texas Festival is an off-beat celebration of Southwestern literature; a hip and fun interpretation of what it means to be a desert-bound writer. Check out http://www.wowtxbookfestival.com/ for more information.

On Saturday, immediately after the festival, we'll be driving through the sunset to La Kiva Restaurant and Bar in Terlingua, Texas (http://www.lakiva.net/), which happens to be my favorite bar in my favorite area on earth. Terlingua is the town between the Big Bend National Park and the Big Bend Texas State Park, itself an ancient mining site with a cemetery that makes you feel icky in the best possible way. And reverent. Terlingua is one of the many tiny towns in the southwest that has been occupied by anarchists, Wiccans, freaks, and weirdoes, and La Kiva is a wonderfully friendly place to congregate with them. I cannot sufficiently sing the praises of Big Bend National Park and Terlingua's Chisos Mining Company Motel as a vacation spot (though I admit that August is not the time of year one normally explores the area). Terlingua's the subject of the 2007 documentary /"Ghost Town: 24 Hours in Terlingua/."

If you live in the Big Bend area and have never been, our reading there is, clearly, the perfect opportunity to investigate. If not, be sure to lift a drink to us that weekend, for we will be reading in Terlingua, and you will not.

That's:
Donna Snyder, Deb Hoag, and Jonathan Penton
Saturday, August 1st, 9pm Central Daylight Time
La Kiva Restaurant and Bar
Highway 170 in Terlingua, Texas

Hugs and kisses,
--
Jonathan Penton
http://www.unlikelystories.org/

Donna Snyder is the founder and curator of The Tumblewords Project, a community-based writing workshop that has served the Southwest on almost every Saturday for the past fourteen years. She has presented hundreds of creative writing workshops as an artist in the schools in the El Paso/ Las Cruces region, various local literary festivals, and community-funded events. She has published her work in such journals as /"Puerto Del Sol, Sin Fronteras, BorderSenses/," and select on-line journals. She has been a featured artist in such performance events and venues as the Taos Poetry Circus, the Border Book Festival, El Paso Museum of Art’s Museo-Literati reading series, the Branigan Library Authors Series, Umbilicus Mundi, the South Broadway Cultural Center in Albuquerque, the Out on a Limb series at the Santa Fe Actor’s Theater, and the Texas Kick-Ass Poets tour. She was a member of El Paso’s seminal poetry jam band, Central Nervous System. Her work as an artist, cultural and political organizer, and grassroots lawyer has been featured in articles in the "/El Paso Times, Bridge Review, Albuquerque Journal, Stanton Street, Alamogordo Daily News/," and the /"Las Cruces Sun/." In 2002 she won the Emma Tenayuca prize for her human rights work.

Currently, Donna is preparing poetry manuscripts for El Rancho Press, Mouthfeel Press, and, of course, Unlikely Books, which will publish her manuscript in the summer of 2010. She’s also working on the first edition of /Mezcla/, the print anthology of The Tumblewords Project.

--

Deb Hoag will be reading from/ "Crashin' the Real: one woman's search for truth, justice . . . and Steven Tyler" /(Dog Horn Publishing, 2009). When gonzo columnist Eve Petra is fired by her magazine's new owner, she spends a couple of days (okay, a week or so) wallowing in self-pity and Jack Daniels. To her great dismay, no one wants to hire a middle-aged female version of Hunter Thompson. The market has changed. People have changed. The only thing that hasn't changed is Eve.

Lying on her bed wondering what the hell has happened to her life, it comes to her. Who has weathered every whim of the fickle public for nearly five decades? Who has shown the ability to rise from the ashes of every disaster? Who is looking down at her from a poster taped to her bedroom ceiling?

Rock god Steven Tyler.

Deb Hoag holds a Ph.D. in Clinical Psychology from the University of Detroit Mercy. She has been working in the mental health field for sixteen years, and is currently living and working in Flagstaff, Arizona. In 2010 Unlikely Books will publish /"Dr. Gonzo: A series of loosely related essays on equality, visibility and modern mental health/."

--

Jonathan Penton's books of poetry are /"Last Chap/" (Vergin' Press, 2004),/ "Painting Rust"/ and "/Blood and Salsa" /(bound together in one volume by Unlikely Books, 2006) and /"Prosthetic Gods"/ (New Sins Press, 2008). He'll be carrying these books and reading from them, and will have post-it notes so that he does not lose his place.

↑ Index

204. George Bowering

Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Tue 14 Jul 2009

I recommend the Florida Street Cafe in DC for scrapple.

gb

On Jul 14, 2009, at 3:11 AM, steve russell wrote:

> but Pelacanos, the wire producer, writes novels. they're set in d.c.
> --- On Mon, 7/13/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Monday, July 13, 2009, 5:07 PM
> Oh boy, Baltimore.
> The crab cakes at the Lexington Market the best anywhere.
>
> gb
>
> On Jul 13, 2009, at 11:32 AM, Mary Kasimor wrote:
>
> I am a The Wire addict. It takes place in Baltimore.
> mary

--- On Sun, 7/12/09, steve russell <[redacted]>
wrote:

From: steve russell <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2009, 1:04 PM

Sure, and why not throw in the Goddamn bible. I mean, hell, what is the bible? Narrative? Epic poetry? I'm thinking mostly of the Old Testament, of course. As for "The Wire, " I'm a big fan of crime fiction, and George Pelacanos is the main producer of "The Wire." Indeed, in the broad sense of the term (...poet...), why not include
Pelacanos as a poet of the streets of Washington, D.C.?
Perhaps Q Taratino is the poet of video store clerks, if not their saint. Why not talk about failed poets who turned to fiction after their bout with poetry. Consider William Faulkner. As for cartoonist, I have no problem calling E Gorey, or even Mr. peanuts Schultz, a poet. Ugh, what was the topic???

--- On Sat, 7/11/09, George Bowering <[redacted]>
wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Saturday, July 11, 2009, 4:01 PM

Here we go;
the usual widening and widening of the topic
until we can include everything, such as L'il Abner
and,oh, The Wire.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 6:36 PM, Jonathan Morse wrote:

steve russell wrote:
there are a few singular talents who've
managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish.

> Goethe. Rilke. Hardy. Hugo. If you'll accept
> non-fiction, you can add Yeats and Dryden. If you count
> letters as imaginative literature, and why shouldn't you?,
> you can add Keats and Dickinson. Think big.
>
> Jonathan Morse
>
> George B.
> Author of his own misfortunes.
>
> George "Whip" Bowering
> No slugging average to speak of.
>
> welcome.html

George H. Bowering, OC
Dull as dishwater.

↑ Index

205. Michael Roberson

Poetry and Failure

Tue 14 Jul 2009

Struck by the acuteness of and subsequent attention to Christian Bök's discussion of "Writing and Failure" on the Harriet Blog, I am looking for further considerations of poetry and failure or poetry and inadequacy. In one regard, much has been written about poets and personal inadequacies or senses of failure, but what about the actual writing of poetry as an inevitably impossible, doomed, or failed endeavor? Do we continue to write poetry because it ultimately fails to do what we hope it might or should? Is the "failure of poetry" a failure of language, or poetics?

Any thoughts or ideas would be immensely appreciated.

↑ Index

206. { brad brace }

six new pleated plaid pamphlets published!

Tue 14 Jul 2009

---

131 Running Deer Running Great Risk Running Rampant
132 Running Servant Running Up After Running Water
133 Running Wild Runs Counter Runs Roaring
134 Ruptured Hymen Rural Idyll Ruses Detected
135 Rush Repeat Rushed Fused Rushing Waters
136 Russet Brown Russian Revolution Rust Dust

six new pleated plaid pamphlets published!
only $15 over 878 pages!

{ brad brace }

> Pleated Plaid Pamphlets
> Volumes 131-136 Number 2
> [accompaniment to insatiable abstraction engine]
>
> http://www.bbrace.net/abstraction-engine.html
> [redacted]

brad brace, bbrace, architecture, engineering, biography, memoir, illustration, map, creative, writing, drama, opera, puzzles, games, samizdat, artists' books, poetry, fluxus, contemporary, art, design, fiction,musical

ppp131-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-131-no-2/7400200

ppp132-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-132-no-2/7400242

ppp133-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-133-no-2/7400304

ppp134-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-134-no-2/7400332

ppp136-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-136-no-2/7400366

ppp137-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-137-no-2/7400420

↑ Index

207. E. J. McAdams
Reminder: Marcella Durand at Exit Art Wednesday (NYC)
Tue 14 Jul 2009

SEA Poetry SeriesFeaturing poet Marcella Durand Wednesday, July 15
7:30pm - 9pm
FREE
Come early and see the exhibit END OF OIL
Stay late for the cash bar reception

For more details:
http://www.seapoetryseries.blogspot.com/

Please forward to friends!!

↑ Index

208. steve dalachinsky
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Wed 15 Jul 2009

---

that's what most folks do WORK SHOP

On Mon, 13 Jul 2009 14:08:01 -0700 George Bowering <[redacted]>
writes:
> "Workshop." There's your problem right there.
>
> gb
>
>
> On Jul 13, 2009, at 11:43 AM, steve russell wrote:
>

> > Could anyone recommend a decent "creative writhing" workshop?
> >
> > --- On Mon, 7/13/09, Skip Fox <[redacted]> wrote:
> >
> > From: Skip Fox <[redacted]>
> > Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> > To: [redacted]
> > Date: Monday, July 13, 2009, 1:38 PM
> >
> > That's it!
> >
> > -----Original Message-----
> > From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB)
> > [mailto:[redacted]] On
> > Behalf Of Mary Kasimor
> > Sent: Sunday, July 12, 2009 11:24 AM
> > To: [redacted]
> > Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> >
> > Creative writhing!
> >
>
> > welcome.html
> >
> >
> >
> >
>
> > welcome.html
> >
>
> George H. Bowering, OUH
> Born without a religion.
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

209. mIEKAL aND
Activist wrongly accused of Brad Will's murder
Wed 15 Jul 2009

Oaxaca Justice Condemns Innocent APPO Man for the Murder of Brad Will No Evidence and No Witnesses to the Actual Crime: Juan Manuel Martinez Moreno Sentenced to Prison

By Nancy Davies
Commentary from Oaxaca

http://www.narconews.com/Issue58/article3679.html

July 10, 2009

Juan Manuel Martinez Moreno has been sentenced to prison by the judge of the Fifth Federal Court, Rosa Iliana Noriega Perez, for the murder of US Indymedia videographer Brad Will on October 26, 2006. This in spite of:

* Brad Will video-graphed his murderers running toward him carrying pistols * The two assailants shown in the video, Abel Zarate, registrar of Santa Lucia del Camino, and Oswaldo Manuel Aguilar Coello who was a municipal police officer, were arrested but subsequently released by government orders. Both are strongly tied to the PRI * There was no evidence for accusing Juan Martinez Moreno, who was standing near, not facing, Brad Will when Will was shot * The “witnesses” in fact saw nothing; Feria Perez, the chief witness, admitted he repeated hearsay from Democracy Now:

Activists Protest Jailing of Oaxaca Activist in Will Killing

And here in New York, a group of activists rallied outside the Mexican consulate Monday to protest the latest in the case of the slain American journalist Brad Will. Will was shot and killed on October 27, 2006, while covering the popular uprising in the Mexican province of Oaxaca. His own camera captured his shooting. Will’s family and friends have criticized the Mexican government for charging a Oaxaca activist with Will’s murder instead of state police forces. Last week, a Mexican judge reportedly ruled that the activist, Juan Moreno, can be held indefinitely and that hearsay evidence can be used against him. Mark Read, a friend of Brad Will, criticized Moreno’s prosecution.

Mark Read: “Juan Manuel Martinez Moreno, the man falsely accused of Brad’s murder, is also a part of this movement, also a man of principle. That Brad’s murder is being used to railroad a fellow political activist is the most profound insult to his memory. And it is not the first time that his death has been used in such a way.”

↑ Index

210. Elizabeth Switaj
Re: Poetry and Failure
Wed 15 Jul 2009

> Do we continue to write poetry because it ultimately fails to do what we hope it might or should?

That may be so for some and certainly is why I continue to write* a poem*, but other than that I continue writing because those hopes shift and are various.

> Is the "failure of poetry" a failure of language, or poetics?

Yes.

↑ Index

211. Evan Munday
Re: Poetry and Failure
Wed 15 Jul 2009

I can't speak to that, but I can recommend another book by Bök's publishers (and, in the interests of full disclosure, my employer) that may help: The Laundromat Essay by Kyle Buckley.

http://www.chbooks.com/catalogue/laundromat_essay

The book is ostensibly a long poem about a man's attempt to retrieve his clothing from a nearby laundromat, but is more about the failure and disappointment of poetry than anything else.

From a Calgary Herald interview with Buckley:

The former University of Calgary student first cobbled together the thoughts behind The Laundromat Essay as part of a thesis for his master's degree in English literature. He couldn't defend it, however, because he became increasingly fascinated with how it was a failure.

'I had a lot of questions when writing it,' he says. 'In some ways, it was the failure of cohesiveness in poetry and those questions of concerns that I wrapped into how I rewrote the book. It's almost a book written within the collapsing ruins of another book.'

Evan

Publicist
Coach House Books

On Jul 14, 2009, at 6:36 PM, Michael Roberson wrote:

> Struck by the acuteness of and subsequent attention to Christian Bök's discussion of "Writing and Failure" on the Harriet Blog, I am looking for further considerations of poetry and failure or poetry and inadequacy. In one regard, much has been written about poets and personal inadequacies or senses of failure, but what about the actual writing of poetry as an inevitably impossible, doomed, or failed endeavor? Do we continue to write poetry because it ultimately fails to do what we hope it might or should? Is the "failure of poetry" a failure of language, or poetics?
>
> Any thoughts or ideas would be immensely appreciated.

↑ Index

212. Jim Andrews

Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Wed 15 Jul 2009

---

ya and in that order.

ja
http://vispo.com

From: "steve dalachinsky"
> that's what most folks do WORK SHOP

,,,

↑ Index

213. amy king

Special Issue of Ekleksographia -- Guest edited by Amy King

Wed 15 Jul 2009

Special Issue of Ekleksographia --
Guest edited by Amy King
Â
http://ekleksographia.ahadadabooks.com/issuetwo/
Â
Â
Featuring work by:
Â
Diana Adams

Cynthia Arrieu-King with Hillary Gravendyk
Anny Ballardini Â Â Â Â Â Â Â
Jeanne Marie Beaumont
Dan Boehl Â Â Â Â
Alexander Dickow
Linh Dinh Â Â Â Â Â
Tomas EkstrÃ¶m
Erica Miriam Fabri Â Â Â
Farrah Field
Adam Fieled Â
Annie Finch
Ossian Foley Â
Jennifer H. Fortin
Maya Funaro
Heather Green
Niels Hav, trans. by P. K. Brask & Patrick Friesen
Scott Hightower
Dan Hoy Â Â Â Â Â Â
Dorta JagiÄ‡, trans. by Ana BoÅ¾iÄeviÄ‡
Amy King Â Â Â Â Â
Tony Mancus
Nicholas Manning Â Â Â Â
Miguel Murphy
Gina Myers Â Â
Keith Newton
Obododimma Oha Â Â Â
Daniela Olszewska
Maya Pindyck Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â
Matthew Rotando
TomaÅ¾ Å alamun, trans. with Michael Thomas Taren Â Â Â Â Â Â Â
Barry Schwabsky
Evie Shockley Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â
Lytton Smith
Sampson Starkweather Â Â Â Â Â
Rohith Sundararaman
Chris Vitiello Â
David Wolach
Â
http://ekleksographia.ahadadabooks.com/issuetwo/
Â
Future issues forthcoming curated by Pam Brown and Alan Halsey.Â Also special theme issues, Oulipo, GLBT, Boston , ChicagoÂ and Prague issues are in the works.Â

Â
Please forward and enjoy responsibly.Â
Â
Â http://ekleksographia.ahadadabooks.com/issuetwo/
Â

_____

Amy's Alias
http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

214. Christopher Rizzo
Re: Poetry and Failure
Wed 15 Jul 2009

Hi Michael. Thanks for the stimulating questions. I jotted a response on my blog, if you'd care to read:
www.inplaceofchairs.blogspot.com

Bests,
Chris

On Tue, Jul 14, 2009 at 6:36 PM, Michael Roberson <[redacted]>wrote:

> Struck by the acuteness of and subsequent attention to Christian BÃ¶k's discussion of "Writing and Failure" on the Harriet Blog, I am looking for further considerations of poetry and failure or poetry and inadequacy. In one regard, much has been written about poets and personal inadequacies or senses of failure, but what about the actual writing of poetry as an inevitably impossible, doomed, or failed endeavor? Do we continue to write poetry because it ultimately fails to do what we hope it might or should? Is the "failure of poetry" a failure of language, or poetics?
>
> Any thoughts or ideas would be immensely appreciated.

↑ Index

215. Paul Siegell
A widespread, high-spirited head rush
Wed 15 Jul 2009

Hi,

What was the last concert you went to?

JUST RELEASED: jambandbootleg by Paul Siegell

AMAZON (already re-stocking):
http://www.amazon.com/jambandbootleg-Paul-Siegell/dp/098162832X/ref=sr_1_2?ie=UTF8&s=books&qid=1246128940&sr=8-2

A-HEAD PUBLISHING: http://a-headpublishing.com/A-Head_book_store.html

"For centuries, people have tried to take words and turn them into music. What Paul Siegell does in his collection of poetry, jambandbootleg, is take music and turn it back into words. And he does it exceptionally well, capturing both the excitement of concert-going and the poetic essence of the improvisational music scene." â€”MARC BROWNSTEIN, bass player of the Disco Biscuits

"Behold! Blend pinches of the Beats and Phish with a big bowl of Fantastic Originality â€“ unlike any poet I've ever known â€“ wave a burning match over it, inhale deeply. The astonishing dream that fills your head â€“ that's Paul Siegell." â€”CHARLES McNAIR, Paste Magazine

"Siegell is a wild madman, a verbal musician as imposing as a rock star, who just happens to also go behind the curtain of his raucous stage and share some wonderfully personal sides that wrap an arm around the audience he continues to entertain." â€”GRADY HARP, Amazon "Top 10" Reviewer

Please forward to anyone who'd appreciateâ€”Let's get into the song!

in tremendous appreciation,
paul> http://paulsiegell.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

216. Gabrielle Welford

Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Thu 16 Jul 2009

---

yes, me too--never know, exactly. i do love it that way...

----- Original Message -----
From: Mary Kasimor <[redacted]>
Date: Monday, July 13, 2009 2:04 pm
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]

> I bet many poets do write fiction, but we write it for ourselves. I like to simply write whatever and wherever my brain takes me. It may be awful writing--I don't know because I am too close to it, but it is fun and a bit scary and exciting. I really never know exactly where I am going.

Mary Kasimor

--- On Sun, 7/12/09, steve russell <[redacted]> wrote:

From: steve russell <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2009, 1:04 PM

Sure, and why not throw in the Goddamn bible. I mean, hell, what is the bible? Narrative? Epic poetry? I'm thinking mostly of the Old Testament, of course. As for "The Wire, " I'm a big fan of crime fiction, and George Pelacanos is the main producer of "The Wire." Indeed, in the broad sense of the term (...poet...), why not include Pelacanos as a poet of the streets of Washington, D.C.? Perhaps Q Taratino is the poet of video store clerks, if not their saint. Why not talk about failed poets who turned to fiction after their bout with poetry. Consider William Faulkner. As for cartoonist, I have no problem calling E Gorey, or even Mr. peanuts Schultz, a poet. Ugh, what was the topic???

--- On Sat, 7/11/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Saturday, July 11, 2009, 4:01 PM

Here we go;
the usual widening and widening of the topic
until we can include everything, such as L'il Abner and,oh, The Wire.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 6:36 PM, Jonathan Morse wrote:

steve russell wrote:
there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish. Goethe. Rilke. Hardy. Hugo. If you'll accept non-fiction, you can add Yeats and Dryden. If you count letters as imaginative literature, and why shouldn't you?, you can add Keats and Dickinson. Think big.

> Jonathan Morse
>
> George B.
> Author of his own misfortunes.

↑ Index

217. Sarah Sarai
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Thu 16 Jul 2009

Baltimore: also *Homicide" (Yay, Homicide)

If you have nothing better to do and self-esteem issues you could spend a short time at http://www.myspace.com/sarahsarai where I have archived a few of my short stories which made it online (others made it into print). (Finishing a longer work and hoping to get another longer work out there.) And I'm a poet.

Distinctions are useless. EXCEPT: Poets are more fun than fiction writers, more companionable.

Your friend and mine,

Sarah Sarai
Reconciled to Your Fate

http://my3000lovingarms.blogspot.com/
http://www.myspace.com/sarahsarai http://www.verbsap.com/2005mar/sarai.html

"I have been called to a holy office by the Lord Himself, who most mercifully appeared before me, His servant, in the year 1743, when He opened my sight into the spiritual world and enabled me to converse with spirits and angels, in which state I have continued up to this day." Emanuel Swedenborg

↑ Index

218. George Bowering
Re: A widespread, high-spirited head rush
Thu 16 Jul 2009

On Jul 15, 2009, at 6:24 PM, Paul Siegell wrote:

> Hi,
>
> What was the last concert you went to?

I guess it was the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra doing Beethoven's Ninth and other stuff about 18 months ago.

gb

↑ Index

219. Roy Exley
Re: Poetry and Failure
Thu 16 Jul 2009

Hi Michael,

Don't forget Samuel Beckett's words - "No matter - try again - fail again - fail better". If everything was successful perfection, there would be no point in going on - it's in the blood to keep trying and failing better, orbiting around the impossibility of perfection, but keeping it in sight. Missed aspirations might seem like failure but we are driven on to new and perhaps more relevant aspirations. Destiny might seem like a very abstract and vague concept but experience seems to tell us that it does have a reality in our lives.

Roy Exley.

On 15/7/09 11:22 pm, "Christopher Rizzo" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Hi Michael. Thanks for the stimulating questions. I jotted a response on my blog, if you'd care to read:
> www.inplaceofchairs.blogspot.com
>
> Bests,
> Chris
>
> On Tue, Jul 14, 2009 at 6:36 PM, Michael Roberson <[redacted]>wrote:
>
> Struck by the acuteness of and subsequent attention to Christian Bök's discussion of "Writing and Failure" on the Harriet Blog, I am looking for further considerations of poetry and failure or poetry and inadequacy. In one regard, much has been written about poets and personal inadequacies or senses of failure, but what about the actual writing of poetry as an inevitably impossible, doomed, or failed endeavor? Do we continue to > write poetry because it ultimately fails to do what we hope it might or should? Is the "failure of poetry" a failure of language, or poetics?

>
> Any thoughts or ideas would be immensely appreciated.

↑ Index

220. steve dalachinsky
Re: A widespread, high-spirited head rush
Thu 16 Jul 2009

---

rashied ali quintet last nite
tonite kronos qt
i go to almost 1 or 2 a nite
On Thu, 16 Jul 2009 00:11:22 -0700 George Bowering <[redacted]>
writes:
> On Jul 15, 2009, at 6:24 PM, Paul Siegell wrote:
>
> > Hi,
> >
> > What was the last concert you went to?
>
> I guess it was the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra doing Beethoven's
> Ninth
> and other stuff about 18 months ago.
>
> gb
>
>
>

↑ Index

221. Lars Palm
Tom Beckett from ungovernable press
Thu 16 Jul 2009

Dear All,

what can I say more than that ungovernable press is happy to announce the arrival of

Another Shadow? by Tom Beckett

the summer night may look a little different after you've read it

cheers,
lars

http://ungovernablepress.weebly.com

http://mischievoice.blogspot.com

↑ Index

222. Joel Weishaus
"The Gateless Gate" Pages 25-26
Thu 16 Jul 2009

Dear Friends and Colleagues:

Here are pages 25-26 of "The Gateless Gate":
http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/Gate/Pgs%2025-26.htm

Mirror site:
http://www.cddc.vt.edu/host/weishaus/Gate/Pgs%2025-26.htm

Introduction: http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/Gate/Intro.htm

Notes:

1- I've decided to send two (one screen), instead of four pages, as I'm sure that many of you are pressed for time. 2-The colors have been changed, so that they may appear on each monitor closer to what I've intended. 3-The bibliography (Bib) link at the bottom of each page has been fixed, and bookmarks added. 4-As always, please let me know if you want to be deleted from these notices.

-Joel

↑ Index

223. carol dorf
Re: Poetry and Failure
Thu 16 Jul 2009

Hard to say where one "poem" ends and the next begins.

Don't forget pleasure -- pleasure in language, pleasure in structuring the "poem," referencing experience.

(Almost all of reading, for me; and a good part of my writing.)

On Wed, Jul 15, 2009 at 11:56 AM, Elizabeth Switaj <[redacted]> wrote:

> Do we continue to write poetry because it ultimately fails to do what we hope it might or should?

> That may be so for some and certainly is why I continue to write a poem*, but other than that I continue writing because those hopes shift and are various.*
>
> Is the "failure of poetry" a failure of language, or poetics?
>
> Yes.

↑ Index

224. PJ
submission call - audio poetry
Thu 16 Jul 2009

"from east to west: bicoastal

"from east to west: bicoastal verse" - fall '09: Audio Poetry

Our fall issue will have an accompanying audio supplement, hopefully both online and as a CD. Every poem in our audio section will be linked to a recording of the poem. The text of the poem should be sent in the body of an email to PJ Nights ([redacted]) with "audio submission" in the subject line. The audio of the poem can be attached to the email and should be an .mp3 file. If you don't have recording software, try "Audacity" (http://audacity.sourceforge.net/), an open-source, cross-platform sound recorder.

The deadline for the fall issue is August 15, 2009.
Links to our current and past issues can be found at http://www.geocities.com/pj_nights (until the end of October when we will be acquiring a new domain name).

Thank you!

PJ Nights

↑ Index

225. Thomas savage
Re: Poetry and Failure
Thu 16 Jul 2009

Sometimes poetry fails and sometimes it succeeds. Which it is depends upon what the poetry is trying to do and whether the poetry produced is any good or not. Regards, Tom Savage

--- On Tue, 7/14/09, Michael Roberson <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Michael Roberson <[redacted]>
Subject: Poetry and Failure
To: [redacted]
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2009, 6:36 PM

Struck by the acuteness of and subsequent attention to Christian Bök's discussion of "Writing and Failure" on the Harriet Blog, I am looking for further considerations of poetry and failure or poetry and inadequacy. In one regard, much has been written about poets and personal inadequacies or senses of failure, but what about the actual writing of poetry as an inevitably impossible, doomed, or failed endeavor? Do we continue to write poetry because it ultimately fails to do what we hope it might or should? Is the "failure of poetry" a failure of language, or poetics?

Any thoughts or ideas would be immensely appreciated.

↑ Index

226. David-Baptiste Chirot

Life Writing in Poetry Workshop with Judith Harway 7/25/09

Thu 16 Jul 2009

Date: Thu, 16 Jul 2009 10:10:10 -0700
From: [redacted]
Subject: Life Writing in Poetry Workshop with Judith Harway 7/25/09
To: [redacted]

Local author and teacher

Leads a workshop at Woodland Pattern Book Center

Life Writing
in Poetry

(Milwaukee, WI) On Saturday, July 25, 2009, from 1-4pm, writer and teacher Judith Harway will teach a one-day workshop which will work with students to identify and address the key stories punctuating our lives. Through variety of activities (brainstorming, directed writing exercises, reading contemporary poems and discussion), participants will discover what influences them in life and writing and how to creatively put it on paper.

Judith Harway's books of poetry include All That is Left (Turning Point Books, 2009) and The Memory Box (Zarigueya Press, 2002). Her work has appeared in dozens of literary journals, and has earned fellowships from the Wisconsin Arts Board, the Hambidge Center and the MacDowell Colony. She is on the faculty of the Milwaukee Institute of Art and Design.

###

Event Listing

When: Saturday, July 25, 2009; 1pm-4pm

What: Life Writing in Poetry with Judith Harway

Where: Woodland Pattern Book Center, 720 E. Locust St. Milwaukee, WI 53212

Cost: $30/$25 membersLink: http://www.woodlandpattern.org/workshops/adults.shtml#harway Life Writing in Poetry with Judith Harway Saturday, July 25, 1-4pm $30 / $25 members This workshop will help participants to identify and frame key stories from life in poetry. Through a variety of activities (brainstorming, directed writing exercises, reading contemporary poems, discussion), participating writers will discover new influences and directions, and explore the range of their own voices.

http://www.woodlandpattern.org/

Woodland Pattern Book Center

720 E. Locust Street

Milwaukee, WI 53212

phone [redacted]

Windows Live™: Keep your life in sync.
http://windowslive.com/explore?ocid=TXT_TAGLM_WL_BR_life_in_synch_062009

↑ Index

227. David-Baptiste Chirot

Woodland Pattern: Creativity & Aging Anthology Celebration and Reading with Jack Collom

Thu 16 Jul 2009

Creativity & Aging Anthology Celebration

and Reading with Jack Collom
Date: Wed, 15 Jul 2009 15:45:08 -0700
From: [redacted]
Subject: Celebration with Jack Collom at MPL
To: [redacted]

Creativity & Aging Anthology Celebration

and Reading with Jack Collom

Saturday, July 18, 2009; 2pm (FREE)

Milwaukee Public Library, Loos Room

814 W. Wisconsin Ave.

Milwaukee, WI 53233

Please join us in the Loos Room at Milwaukee Public Library on Saturday, July 18th at 2pm for a reading to celebrate the publication of Woodland Pattern's Creativity & Aging Anthology with:

Poet-in-Residence, Jack Collom

Creativity & Aging Workshop Students

Aviva Cristy

Joe Radke

The Creativity & Aging workshops were held every Tuesday & Thursday, from 1pm-3pm, for the past seven weeks at the Wilson Park Senior Center. The students were instructed by Joe Radke, Aviva Cristy, and Poet-in-Residence, Jack Collom.

Jack Collom was born in Chicago, Illinois, 8 November 1931, and grew up in nearby Western Springs. He walked a lot in Salt Creek Woods and began bird watching at age 11. He joined the U.S. Air Force and wrote his first poems in Tripoli, Libya. He earned an MA in English on the GI Bill, and has taught Creative Writing free-lance for over thirty years. He is Adjunct Professor at Naropa University, where he received the 2001 President's Award for Faculty and has been teaching Eco-lit (Ecology Literature) for 19 consecutive years, as well as outreach teacher-training.

Collom has authored 22 books and chapbooks of poetry. He is, moreover, responsible for three collections (with essays and commentary) of writings by children, all published by Teachers & Writers Collaborative, New York. In 2001, Tuumba Press issued a more than 500-page-long volume, Red Car Goes By, as his Selected Poems. His latest books are Exchanges of Earth & Sky and Situations, Sings (with Lyn Hejinian).

Jack Collom long ago rejected the notion that a distinction is to be made between the quotidian and the poetic. There is poetry everywhere. But to find poetry everywhere means that one is incessantly engaged with the world at the level of poetry.... His attention to surprise is pronounced but never programmatic. The result is (as Merrill Gilfillan has phrased it) “the dance and weave between fierce notation and ceilingless song.” from Editors’ Preface to Red Car Goes By.

Light refreshments will be served.

For more information contact Chuck Stebelton at [redacted].

Made possible with generous support from: The Greater Milwaukee Foundation, The Helen Bader Foundation, Faye McBeath Foundation, National Endowment for the Arts, Interfaith Older Adult Programs, UWM Center on Age & Community, & UWM Osher Lifelong Learning Institute.

http://www.woodlandpattern.org/

Woodland Pattern Book Center

720 E. Locust Street

Milwaukee, WI 53212

phone [redacted]

Insert movie times and more without leaving Hotmail®.
http://windowslive.com/Tutorial/Hotmail/QuickAdd?ocid=TXT_TAGLM_WL_HM_Tutorial_QuickAdd_062009

↑ Index

228. steve russell

Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Thu 16 Jul 2009

& both are equally depressing, but people seem to enjoy shopping. Strange.

--- On Wed, 7/15/09, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

> From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Wednesday, July 15, 2009, 4:10 PM
> ya and in that order.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
> From: "steve dalachinsky"

> that's what most folks
> do WORK SHOP
>
> ,,,

↑ Index

229. amy king

Special Issue of Ekleksographia -- Failed to Include

Thu 16 Jul 2009

Cover art credit:Â Orna Ben Shoshan, "The Burden of Happiness"

--- On Wed, 7/15/09, amy king wrote:

Special Issue of Ekleksographia --
Guest edited by Amy King
Â
http://ekleksographia.ahadadabooks.com/issuetwo/
Â
Â
Featuring work by:
Â
Diana Adams
Cynthia Arrieu-King with Hillary Gravendyk
Anny Ballardini Â Â Â Â Â Â Â

Jeanne Marie Beaumont
Dan Boehl Â Â Â Â
Alexander Dickow
Linh Dinh Â Â Â Â Â
Tomas EkstrÃ¶m
Erica Miriam Fabri Â Â Â
Farrah Field
Adam Fieled Â
Annie Finch
Ossian Foley Â
Jennifer H. Fortin
Maya Funaro
Heather Green
Niels Hav, trans. by P. K. Brask & Patrick Friesen
Scott Hightower
Dan Hoy Â Â Â Â Â Â
Dorta JagiÄ‡, trans. by Ana BoÅ¾iÄeviÄ‡
Amy King Â Â Â Â Â
Tony Mancus
Nicholas Manning Â Â Â Â
Miguel Murphy
Gina Myers Â Â
Keith Newton
Obododimma Oha Â Â Â
Daniela Olszewska
Maya Pindyck Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â
Matthew Rotando
TomaÅ¾ Å alamun, trans. with Michael Thomas Taren Â Â Â Â Â Â Â
Barry Schwabsky
Evie Shockley Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â
Lytton Smith
Sampson Starkweather Â Â Â Â Â
Rohith Sundararaman
Chris Vitiello Â
David Wolach
Â
http://ekleksographia.ahadadabooks.com/issuetwo/
Â
Future issues forthcoming curated by Pam Brown and Alan Halsey.Â Also special theme issues, Oulipo, GLBT, Boston , ChicagoÂ and Prague issues are in the works.Â
Â

Please forward and enjoy responsibly.Â
Â
Â http://ekleksographia.ahadadabooks.com/issuetwo/
Â

_____

Amy's Alias
http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

230. Patrick Dillon
Re: A widespread, high-spirited head rush
Thu 16 Jul 2009

Appropriate to the title of your book, the last concert I attended was Robert Randolph and the Family Band. He seems to be mostly admired by the jam band scene. I went because I am a fervent fan of the so-called "sacred steel" music.

I wasn't disappointed. He played Glenn Lee's "Joyful Sounds." I think there are very few opportunities to hear that piece of music live. Glenn Lee's song is probably my favorite recording I have ever heard. It is a piece of music where each moment is better than the next. When the song starts to fade out it becomes jaw droppingly good, I would really love to hear the full unedited recording. Pesky fade out.

You can download the song here for $1:
http://www.amazon.com/Joyful-Sounds/dp/B0011V925Q

On Thu, Jul 16, 2009 at 2:11 AM, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

> On Jul 15, 2009, at 6:24 PM, Paul Siegell wrote:
>
> Hi,
>
> What was the last concert you went to?
>
> I guess it was the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra doing Beethoven's Ninth and other stuff about 18 months ago.
>
> gb

↑ Index

231. Jordan Stempleman
Re: Tom Beckett from ungovernable press
Thu 16 Jul 2009

---

fuck yes!

> Date: Thu, 16 Jul 2009 09:07:26 -0400
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Tom Beckett from ungovernable press
> To: [redacted]
>
> Dear All,
>
> what can I say more than that ungovernable press is happy to announce the arrival of
>
> Another Shadow? by Tom Beckett
>
> the summer night may look a little different after you've read it
>
> cheers,
> lars
>
> http://ungovernablepress.weebly.com
>
> http://mischievoice.blogspot.com

_____ Windows Live™ SkyDrive™: Get 25 GB of free online storage. http://windowslive.com/online/skydrive?ocid=TXT_TAGLM_WL_SD_25GB_062009

↑ Index

232. steve russell
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Thu 16 Jul 2009

The chili dogs at Benâ€™s Chili Bowl, overrated. Ben's, btw, is

The chili dogs at Benâ€™s Chili Bowl, overrated. Ben's, btw, is mentioned a few times in a couple of the Pelecanos novels.

--- On Tue, 7/14/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...

To: [redacted]
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2009, 3:50 PM

I recommend the Florida Street Cafe in DC for scrapple.

gb

On Jul 14, 2009, at 3:11 AM, steve russell wrote:

> Â but Pelacanos, the wire producer,Â writes novels. they're set in d.c.
> --- On Mon, 7/13/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Monday, July 13, 2009, 5:07 PM
> Oh boy, Baltimore.
> The crab cakes at the Lexington Market the best anywhere.
>
> gb
>
> On Jul 13, 2009, at 11:32 AM, Mary Kasimor wrote:
>
> I am a The Wire addict. It takes place in Baltimore.
> mary
>
> --- On Sun, 7/12/09, steve russell <[redacted]>
> wrote:
>
> From: steve russell <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Sunday, July 12, 2009, 1:04 PM
>
> Sure, and why not throw in the Goddamn bible. I mean, > hell, what is the bible? Narrative? Epic poetry? I'm > thinking mostly of the Old Testament, of course.Â As > for "The Wire, " I'm a big fan of crime fiction, and George > Pelacanos is the main producer of "The Wire." Indeed, in the > broad sense of the term (...poet...), why not include
> Pelacanos as a poet of the streets of Washington, D.C.?
> Perhaps Q Taratino is the poet of video store clerks, if not > their saint. Why not talk about failed poets who turned to > fiction after their bout with poetry. Consider William
> Faulkner. As for cartoonist, I have no problem calling E > Gorey, or evenÂ Mr. peanuts Schultz, a poet. Ugh, what > was the topic???

--- On Sat, 7/11/09, George Bowering <[redacted]>
wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Saturday, July 11, 2009, 4:01 PM

Here we go;
the usual widening and widening of the topic
until we can include everything, such as L'il Abner
and,oh, The Wire.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 6:36 PM, Jonathan Morse wrote:

steve russell wrote:
there are a few singular talents who've
managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish.
Goethe. Rilke. Hardy. Hugo. If you'll accept
non-fiction, you can add Yeats and Dryden. If you count
letters as imaginative literature, and why shouldn't you?,
you can add Keats and Dickinson. Think big.

Jonathan Morse

George B.
Author of his own misfortunes.

George "Whip" Bowering

> No slugging average to speak of.
>
> welcome.html

George H. Bowering, OC
Dull as dishwater.

↑ Index

233. amy king
Poetry Events / Calendars -- complete but ...
Thu 16 Jul 2009

The permanent link for the Poetry Events / Calendars is here:

http://amyking.wordpress.com/2009/07/16/poetry-events-calendars/

However, I will add the calendar to at least two more online venues such as Red Room and Goodreads, and perhaps others, once the calendar is a little more filled out. I don't have time at the moment, but it seems there are a few major cities and small town series that have been omitted. Please feel free to backchannel addt'l suggestions or post them in the comments to be added to the list. Once I've added more over the next few days, I'll duplicate the listing for others who don't venture to my blog.

Thanks to all who chipped in and provided links! Hopefully this resource will serve those on the hunt for live poetry for a long time!

Best,

Amy

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

234. Jennifer Karmin
JOB: Literacy & Health Education (Chicago)
Thu 16 Jul 2009

Project Director
Literacy and Health Education Programs
The Gwendolyn Brooks Center for Black Literature and Creative Writing at Chicago State University

Since its inception, the Gwendolyn Brooks Center for Black Literature and Creative Writing at Chicago State University has supported projects that use literary and artistic approaches to address social justice issues. For five years, the Centerâ€™s focus has been the HIV/AIDS Youth Prevention Education Program (H.Y.P.E.) which targets teenagers and young adults. Our HIV Youth Prevention Education (H.Y.P.E.) programâ€™s mission is to educate high school students, adult learners, and the local community through creative literacy programs. These programs focus on HIV prevention and care as well as cultural sensitivity and the removal of stigmas.

The artistic nature of the project requires the inclusion of artists with a variety of backgrounds and extensive experience in education. The Project Director will provide management of the project including logistics, marketing and technical support. This individual will also be the liaison between the Centerâ€™s Literacy and Health Education programs, the schools and other venues, and guide the educational focus. The Project Director will be responsible for the HIV/AIDS education component of the project. The Project Director should have leadership abilities and managerial expertise to implement and further the goals of the Centerâ€™s Literacy and Health Education programs and aid the Brooks Center in sustaining this important work. The Project Director will work effectively as part of a team of Brooks Center staff and CSU administrators. The Project Director reports to the director of the Gwendolyn Brooks Center.

Duties â€¢ Manage H.Y.P.E programs, most notably the Positive Poetry Performance Troupes. â€¢ Help identify and guide a core group of teaching artists and serve as the conduit between the artistic staff and Brooks Center/CSU administrative staff. â€¢ Aid in the establishment of a sustained and replicable model for using the arts focusing particularly on the literature and social justice emphasis of Gwendolyn Brooks and other like-minded writers and artists. â€¢ Oversee the creation and publication of a third international anthology of creative writing from people of color on HIV/AIDS. â€¢ Participate in/contribute to planning for the expansion of GBC social justice programs. â€¢ Enthusiastically promote partnerships, programs, and projects to be pursued by the Brooks Center in an effort to further the work of Gwendolyn Brooks and Brooks Center programming. â€¢ As meeting with administrators from schools and other venues is critical to the success of these programs, the Project Director must own a car and possess a valid driverâ€™s license and automobile insurance. Qualifications â€¢ A minimum of five years experience in non-profit or arts management â€¢ A minimum of five years experience working in educational settings â€¢ Must be extremely organized and capable of independent thought and multi-tasking â€¢ Advanced knowledge of Chicago Public Schools and the Chicago Artistic and Non-profit Communities â€¢ Advanced knowledge of literature and the arts â€¢ Must be an effective communicator in all mediums. â€¢ Strong administrative skills â€¢ M.A., M.F.A. or Ph.D. preferred

Salary:
This is a full-time consultant position, renewed annually. Salary negotiable.

Application:
Chicago State University is an equal opportunity employer.
Interested applicants should mail a cover letter, a C.V./rÃ©sumÃ©, and a list of personal references to:

Quraysh Ali Lansana, Director
The Gwendolyn Brooks Center for Black Literature and Creative Writing
Associate Professor of English and Creative Writing
Chicago State University
Douglas Hall 210-A 9501 S. King Drive
Chicago, IL 60628-1598

The deadline for applications is August 7, 2009.
The start date is September 1, 2009.

↑ Index

235. Sam Truitt
Re: Poetry and Failure
Thu 16 Jul 2009

Is this thread I'm surprised not to see Laura Riding (Jackson) hasn't come up - her sentiment as nailed by posthumous title THE FAILURE OF POETRY, THE PROMISE OF LANGUAGE (ed. John Nolan) underscored by her giving up poems in the late 1930's - tied to truth, to being true - but she writes someplace (her essay on Stein maybe?):

â€œâ€¦if poetry had all subjects taken away from it, there was one subject of which poetry could not be deprived, namely, that poetry had come to an end.

Here was an ingenious method for indefinitely postponing the end of poetryâ€¦ since poetry was to write about nothing, it could write about everything from the standpoint of nothing; it could still have its epic without the burden of having to have convictions about it.â€

----- Original Message ----
From: carol dorf <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Thursday, July 16, 2009 9:22:50 AM
Subject: Re: Poetry and Failure

Hard to say where one "poem" ends and the next begins.

Don't forget pleasure -- pleasure in language, pleasure in structuring the "poem," referencing experience.

(Almost all of reading, for me; and a good part of my writing.)

On Wed, Jul 15, 2009 at 11:56 AM, Elizabeth Switaj <[redacted]> wrote:

> Do we continue to write poetry because it ultimately fails to do what we hope it might or should?
>
> That may be so for some and certainly is why I continue to write a poem*, but other than that I continue writing because those hopes shift and are various.*
>
> Is the "failure of poetry" a failure of language, or poetics?
>
> Yes.

↑ Index

236. Luke Schlueter
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Thu 16 Jul 2009

Yeah, I actually called myself on behalf of friends. I guess they sold out pretty quickly early this aft. Sorry.

L.

_____

From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) on behalf of steve russell
Sent: Thu 7/16/2009 3:02 PM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...

& both are equally depressing, but people seem to enjoy shopping. Strange.

--- On Wed, 7/15/09, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

> From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Wednesday, July 15, 2009, 4:10 PM
> ya and in that order.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com <http://vispo.com/>
> From: "steve dalachinsky"
> that's what most folks
> do WORK SHOP
>
> ,,,

↑ Index

237. steve russell

Re: Poetry and Failure

Thu 16 Jul 2009

too many people forget pleasure. sure, poetry is hard work, but sweating out a poem is still fun. a big disappointment if the poem is a complete failure, but fun almost always happens at some point during the shaping, & considering the $$$$ rewards, who'd write the stuff if this were not the case?

--- On Thu, 7/16/09, carol dorf <[redacted]> wrote:

From: carol dorf <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Poetry and Failure
To: [redacted]
Date: Thursday, July 16, 2009, 9:22 AM

Hard to say where one "poem" ends and the next begins.

Don't forget pleasure -- pleasure in language, pleasure in structuring the "poem," referencing experience.

(Almost all of reading, for me; and a good part of my writing.)

On Wed, Jul 15, 2009 at 11:56 AM, Elizabeth Switaj <[redacted]> wrote:

> Do we continue to write poetry because it ultimately fails to do what we hope it might or should?
>
> That may be so for some and certainly is why I continue to write a poem*, but other than that I continue writing because those hopes shift and are various.*
>
> Is the "failure of poetry" a failure of language, or poetics?
>
> Yes.

↑ Index

238. David Chirot
Re: Poetry and Failure
Thu 16 Jul 2009

before essaying to "answer the question" isn't it perhaps necessary to first ask some questions of oneself, of the speaker, of the audience, of the readers?

What Power, whose Power and where from, and how, and why-- Who Speaks-- the One Presumed to Know-- to one so that there is the pressure to respond as though the question itself is unquestioningly a question which one must ask of oneself and others? of Poetry?

Is the very asking of and response to the question not in itself a form of informing one of one's inadequacy, one's failure in not asking the question oneself without being told to do so?

That is, that at the center of the question is the unquestioning belief in its Truth, in the manner of fiction readers and their "willing suspension of disbelief?

In other words, before even asking questions of the question, one is immediately acquiescing to its terms of inadequacy, failure, abjectness, defeat, being crushed down being obedient--not asking questions but being a "model prisoner/worker"--

From the start, one accepts the designations offered by these questions and the either/or set up it projects on to oneself . . . .

Might not the inadequacy the failure or the success in a sense being with asking why is it that one accepst the voice of the questioern as Authority, and why it is one unquestioningly "follows it," allows it to define the range of one's possibilities of existence--within such a narrow confinement--

Does the question and ones' responses to it in fact have anything to do with "Poetry"-- Is not the question about Who What and Where has the Power to prevent persons from asking How, Why?--

To paraphrase Emerson:

"The failure and inadequacy one sees in poetry is within one's own eye."

What sort of success --or failure--is one thinking of, desiring, demanding for?

To be known, recognized in one's lifetime? And when that is dubiously or not achieved, to think of the inadequacy of poetry--or perhaps the inadequacy of the thinkers, critics, taste makers, publishers of poetry--

What are the standards one sets oneself for one's own person to decide if one has failed or not?

Do the applause and notice of others count the most in the scale of achievement?

I think the best example there is of a poet finding poetry inadequate to the tasks he demands of it is Rimbaud.
He stopped writing poetry and "became somebody else."

Emile Nelligan, sometimes called the Quebecois/Canadian Rimbaud--for his talent evinced at an early age--also called it quits with poetry and committed himself to an asylum for the rest of hislife.

Many are the poets around the world who left behind them one book, unnoticed in their time, and stopped writing, turning instead to other activities.

Paul Valery, George Oppen, "left poetry" for decades each, only to return later in life to finding in poetry what they had no found elsewhere. Laura Riding left Poetry but wrote about it in prose--

What does one mean by "inadequacy?" In the las tpoem in his Larry Eigner's first published book (by the Creeleys, in Majorca)-ends with the question which has Rimbaud's "literally and in every other sense" of meanings expressed simultaneously, punning----"am I an incompetent after all?"

In the 1980's there was argae in Art Criticism for the concept of the "abject." is the poetic "inadequacy" related to the abject? Think of al the meanings of the word "inadequacy," their contexts--their allusions--their expression as "received ideas--"

What is the motivation for one to choose to find poetry, and/or one's poetry--inadequate, a failure?

Is this the choice of the poet, or of the poet vi-vis the recognition she receives from others, one's sense of one's work as inadequate, a failure?

How much does the recognition even when negative mean to you, poet--

Does one write for an audience only--for oneself only--

Does one want to be ignored but also "known of"--or even "fairly well known--"--" a cult figure?--"

"A minor writer with major ambitions s/he is an example of those who overshot the reach of their abilities."

"A major poet in the guise of a minor---"

Personally, i think the idea of merely stating the failure or inadequacy of poetry as though "everyone knows what it means"--is to begin from a foundation that is hazy, vague, and unsteady --.

Needn't the terms be treated with more precision, , defined more clearly--perhaps find themselves to be "as yet unknown and/or little understood?"

Are failure and/or inadequacy and al the examples given anything different from the Received Ideas like those in Flaubert's dictionary of these?

Is the discussion being held because of the failure and inadequate in thinking up any other topic to address?

Is the failure one receives from "outside" directly or indirectly or not at all related to the success or failure of the works on the inside of the poet--

Who gives the critic and canon maker, the taste maker the noise maker, the One Presumed to Know the right to be the judge of the works, of the poet-- doesn't one just sign away one's rights in terms of what will be the controlling factor in many ways of what it is to be essaying as a career--

For this is the question that needs also to be asked: iso ne speaking of a poet's CAREER--or of their VOCATION--

Isn't it a sign of the careerism associated with these rankings, "failures," inadequacies " that one is required in some way to 'take al these into account?"

The question is--to whom are these questions addressed--primarily career poets who read the Harriett blog, the primarily academic /white collar readers-- and aren't many of these institutions, careers, ultimately dependent not so much on the failure or success of the work or ine's failure or success in terms of anthologies, papers, but heavil dependence as well on the moneys of priavte foundations, the military, sweatshop labor for corporations assuaging guilt by helping to pay for a program or two- "on the failure of poetry?"

If enough poets are convinced they have failed--what shall they do then--where to seek elsewhere for anew kind of career-- or to restart the career by "radically altering one's approach"--

What motives do these questions discussions have on, vis-a-vis with--this boredom and confinement within institutions, hierarchies within grou'ps,' rigid structures of al kinds in society and poetics that hamper and drastically narrow done one's field ot action or thought, s o that within this very narrow limited aperture, one is gauged by the merest slips of tense as to the success or failure of one's fitting in or not to hose deemed worth recognition--or to be sadly among those shipped off into the snow to die--or simply exiled to inferior jobs and non noticed careers which in themselves may make the once poet give it up for some other more intereting and "profitable" hobby so called--

With so man questions of these kinds, whais usefu to keep i mind is-what is the motivation for the question? What is the motivation for this rarticular writer NOW to ask it and to make his own judgements on their determinations--

One might say that the most overlooked thing is that the asking of the question re failure and inadequacy is accepted as a given.

Aren't often the things most in need of questioning toese that persons and poets accept meekly as givens, things 'everyone knows"--"automatically, without saying?"

In one sense is not a person''s asking the question based on others taking it as a given property of poetry to be judged as a success or inadequate, a failure by oneself and/or others- -is this asking of questions re "failure/success" based on what one takes to be givens that al 'accept"-- or on a self-imposed given?

On Tue, Jul 14, 2009 at 3:36 PM, Michael Roberson <[redacted]>wrote:

> Struck by the acuteness of and subsequent attention to Christian Bök's discussion of "Writing and Failure" on the Harriet Blog, I am looking for further considerations of poetry and failure or poetry and inadequacy. In one regard, much has been written about poets and personal inadequacies or senses of failure, but what about the actual writing of poetry as an inevitably impossible, doomed, or failed endeavor? Do we continue to write poetry because it ultimately fails to do what we hope it might or should? Is the "failure of poetry" a failure of language, or poetics?
>
> Any thoughts or ideas would be immensely appreciated.

↑ Index

239. Maria Damon

Re: A widespread, high-spirited head rush

Thu 16 Jul 2009

The FAB trio: Billy Bang, Barry Altschul, and Joe Fonda, at a small club in Basel a coupla weeks ago. Fabulous indeed.

Patrick Dillon wrote:
> Appropriate to the title of your book, the last concert I attended was > Robert Randolph and the Family Band. He seems to be mostly admired by the > jam band scene. I went because I am a fervent fan of the so-called "sacred > steel" music.
>
> I wasn't disappointed. He played Glenn Lee's "Joyful Sounds." I think there > are very few opportunities to hear that piece of music live. Glenn Lee's > song is probably my favorite recording I have ever heard. It is a piece of > music where each moment is better than the next. When the song starts to > fade out it becomes jaw droppingly good, I would really love to hear the > full unedited recording. Pesky fade out.
>
> You can download the song here for $1:
> http://www.amazon.com/Joyful-Sounds/dp/B0011V925Q
>
> On Thu, Jul 16, 2009 at 2:11 AM, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>
>
>> On Jul 15, 2009, at 6:24 PM, Paul Siegell wrote:
>>
>> Hi,

>>
>>> What was the last concert you went to?
>>>
>>>
>> I guess it was the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra doing Beethoven's Ninth >> and other stuff about 18 months ago.
>>
>> gb
>>
>>
>>
>>
>
>

↑ Index

240. Jim Andrews
new dbCinema series: Olga
Thu 16 Jul 2009

---

i've been writing a graphic synthesizer/langu(im)age processor called dbCinema and, recently, dbCinemizing with some images of Olga, the Vancouver fashion model and book maker--as in artists' books and regular books. i've read one of her books called Soros. the writing is by Kedrick James. Olga's visuals are Russian Constructivistic. It's a real page turner! Soros was hanged before his first meeting with Soros on January 6 1990. Soros will give no choice but to award them enough divergence to go wrong. By June of 1993 Soros was against this time. Of course it helps if you know a little of the Soros story.

the dbCinema series on Olga is at http://vispo.com/dbcinema/olga

i think these are rather intense.

Many thanks to Olga for permission to display these on vispo.com. And to Miles de Courcy, the photographer, and Katherine Soucie, the dress designer.

In Internet Explorer and Opera the series stops around image 470 (of 581 images) on my system. Works fine in Safari and Firefox, however. Opera will display all images if you increase the disk cache size in Preferences. But I can't get Internet Explorer to display all the images, on my system. So I recommend you don't use that browser. Too bad. Used to be a good browser. But it's now the Bush administration of browsers: mad with security issues. Overkill. No fun. Forces of dullness. If yer on a PC, the F11 key toggles yer browser fullscreen and back. All the images are 1280 x 1024 pixels, so they probly take up all yer real estate.

The first pass through the images is relatively slow as it downloads the big images one by one. But that is well-suited to a first viewing: each of the images is meant as something viewable as a still. When all of them have downloaded, it speeds up to 12.5 frames per second (if yer puter is up to the job) and so you see it in a different light, as a high-res, 47 second video. and it is quite different this way.

the controls at top left let you pause it on and off and advance by one image or go back one image. you can also change the delay between images.

it is meant to be experienced this way, rather than simply as a video that plays with no interactivity.

There are more dbCinema image series at http://vispo.com/dbcinema/meditations.htm

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

241. Nicholas Piombino
Re: Poetry and Failure
Thu 16 Jul 2009

"Opens magazine several times at the fact that poetry is at crossroads."

F. Scott Fitzgerald (from "The Notebooks", in "The Crack Up", edited by Edmund Wilson)

On 7/16/09 6:28 PM, "Sam Truitt" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Is this thread I'm surprised not to see Laura Riding (Jackson) hasn't come up - her sentiment as nailed by posthumous title THE FAILURE OF POETRY, THE PROMISE OF LANGUAGE (ed. John Nolan) underscored by her giving up poems in the > late 1930's - tied to truth, to being true - but she writes someplace (her essay on Stein maybe?):
>
> [3]Šif poetry had all subjects taken away from it,
> there was one subject of which poetry could not be deprived, namely, that poetry had come to an end. Here was an ingenious method for indefinitely postponing the end of poetryŠ since poetry was to write about nothing, it could > write about everything from the standpoint of nothing; it could still have its epic without the burden of having to have convictions about it.[2]

> ----- Original Message ----
> From: carol dorf <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Thursday, July 16, 2009 9:22:50 AM
> Subject: Re: Poetry and Failure
>
> Hard to say where one "poem" ends and the next begins.
>
> Don't forget pleasure -- pleasure in language, pleasure in structuring the "poem," referencing experience.
>
> (Almost all of reading, for me; and a good part of my writing.)
>
> On Wed, Jul 15, 2009 at 11:56 AM, Elizabeth Switaj <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Do we continue to write poetry because it ultimately fails to do what we hope it might or should?
>
> That may be so for some and certainly is why I continue to write a poem*, but other than that I continue writing because those hopes shift and are various.*
>
> Is the "failure of poetry" a failure of language, or poetics?
>
> Yes.

↑ Index

242. Alan Sondheim
Lynx Bookmark File
Fri 17 Jul 2009

Lynx Bookmark File

Some older Net history - this is a bookmark file I kept from 1995 to maybe ten years ago; some, perhaps most, of the sites are down, but the file itself seems of interest since a lot of the sites were 'historic' one way or another. Enjoy if you can -

- Alan

<title>Bookmark file</title>

<LI>Kyushu Online
<LI>ftp wuarchive.wustl.edu
<LI>ftp archive.umich.edu
<LI>huge software directory
<LI>Social Indicators of Development
<LI>Internet Text: 0
<LI>World Population
<LI>mud directory
<LI>Welcome directory
<LI>MOO directory
<LI>Desert Research Institute Home
Page
<LI>HISTORY
AND PREHISTORY OF THE WEB
<LI>irc directory
<LI>The
Psychology of Cyberspace <LI> The Ancient World Web: The Ultimate Index of All Things Ancient <LI>CyberAtlas Index
<LI>Argos Ancient World Search
<LI>The Internet Biodiversity Service
<LI>CYBERMIND CONFERENCE 96
<LI>The Tree of Life
Home Page
<LI>t2
<LI>Akkadian
language
(Babylonian and Assyrian cuneiform texts)

<LI>Index of /mail-archives/cybermind
<LI>RADAR Online
Magazine-Multi-lingual, Fukuoka area news
<LI>The MUD
Resource Collection: Research
<LI>Julia!
<LI>Cybersociology Mag
<LI> The Perl Journal
<LI>Fukuoka Suburbs
<LI>Nectec FTP Archive.
<LI>The Linux Documentation
Project:
Homepage
<LI>Figlet Server
<LI>Nihonjo
Journal
<LI>Sarasvati Sindhu civilization, language and script: Index
<LI>Kyoto National Museum
<LI>Fukuoka NOW!
<LI>NewMedia
<LI><a href="http://micro.magnet.fsu.edu/micro/gallery/phytochemicals/phytochemical
.html">
Molecular Expressions
<LI>Thunus' Home page:
Linux
<LI>tomsrtbt home page
<LI>Phatlinux
<LI>The Early History of Indo-European Languages

<LI>Fukuoka Music
<LI>Jargon File
Resources
<LI>Monochrome - Probably the UK's largest internet BBS
<LI>Buddhist Studies - Art
<LI>The Internet: An Ethnographic Approach
<LI>Buddhist
Studies WWW
VL
<LI>Wordlist
<LI>The Middle English
<LI>Cybermind
<LI>Akkad ian
Cuneiform Test, list 1.
<LI>The Internet A Writer's Guide
<LI>Internet
Ancient History Sourcebook: Main Page
<LI>BeeHive <LI>The Early History of Data Networks
<LI> Bonpo Homepage
<LI> The Computer Museum
History
<LI>Online PDP-8 Main Page
<LI>Early Recorded Sounds and Wax Cylinders
<LI>
Cybermind Archive Links

<LI>FreeSpeech Internet Television
<LI>Mailing List Archives Nettime
<LI>Another Cybermind Web Page
<LI>Eric Weisstein's World of Mathematics <LI>Artport Idea Line
<LI>Internet Resources Meta-Index
<LI>Aquatic Botany
<LI>Lichens of North America
<LI>INSIDE THE SKULL
HOUSE - Introduction
<LI>Zen Buddhism WWW Virtual Library
<LI>1911 Encyclopedia Britannica
<LI>AncientScripts.com
<LI>Crocodilians
<LI>CDLI (Cuneiform project)
<LI>BirdSource- Birding with a Purpose.
<LI>List of Lists for Internet Research
<LI>Gongsun Longzi
<LI>BROOKLYN BOTANIC GARDEN >> NEW YORK METROPOLITAN FLORA
<LI> Brainstorms
<LI>Everglade

Reclamation
<LI>The Career Network, from The Chronicle of Higher Education
<LI>CPAN (Perl modules)
<LI>CORAL Reef
<LI>Worldometers:
Population
<LI>Ancient Near East
<LI>Whalesong
<LI>Florida Lagoon biology
<LI>Reference Library of Digitized Insect Sounds
<LI>Rational
Japanese: Contents
<LI>Centre
for European Sociology Bibliography <LI>SourceForge.net: Project of
the Month
<LI>Arabian Nights / Omar
Khayyam
<LI>Japanese Historical Maps
<LI><a href="http://www.apa.org/journals/pag/press_releases/march_2003/pag181140.
html">Psychology and Aging - Featured Article <LI>Microbiology Microbes Bacteria
Information and Links <LI>A Digital Base Map of
the Americas
<LI>Linmodem-HOWTO

<LI>The Swinburne Project
<LI>Pure Land Mountain
<LI>Stephen Wolfram: A
New Kind of Science Explorer: Mathematica Kit
<LI>Matthew G. Kirschenbaum: Darknet Nostalgia <LI>Mitch Kapor's
Weblog: October 2002 Archives
<LI>Radical Software
<LI>Welcome to ARKive
<LI>REALbasic - Download.com
<LI>FLAC - Free Lossless Audio Codec
<LI>WTMA Wet Tropics
<LI>Diana Deutsch's Web Page
<LI>Spamotomy
<LI>Computer Dream
Survey - About
<LI>chris murray's tex files
<LI>Discordia || Cyborg Liberation?
<LI>dichtung-digital
<LI>wrytings
<LI>company in space
<LI>M/C Journal - Fibre
<LI>Pebbles PDA Project
<LI>The great Cybermind novel

<LI><a href="http://www.evolutionzone.com/kulturezone/c-g.writing/index_body.html"
>Computer Generated Writing
<LI> Jacket 24 -
Nada
Gordon, in conversation with Tom Beckett
<LI>BROOKLYN
BOTANIC GARDEN
>> Plant Records
<LI>Crag Hill's poetry scorecard: November 2003 Archives <LI>Syndic8.com - Welcome!
<LI><a href="http://www.amie.or.jp/daruma/Goshiki%20Daruma
%20.html">Goshiki
Daruma and Color Symbols ?F??? \F?U?
<LI>People Link's New World
Village
<LI><a href="http://www.fukuoka-now.com/news/search_results.php?
lang=&browse=y">Fukuoka
Now English News
<LI>A Taste of Linux
<LI>Mydoom elimination
<LI>Semantic Web Research Group - OWL Site -
owl.mindswap.org
<LI>Cycling '74
<LI>Lin uxDevCenter.com:
Why Run Free Software on a PDA? [Jan. 29, 2004]
<LI>za urus
<LI>NRDC: Nature's Voice

<LI>Crocodilian Biology Database - Crocodiles, Caimans, Alligators, Gharials
<LI>Irreversibility and Heat Generation in the Computing Process
<LI>The Fundamental Physical Limits of Computation
<LI>CM2001
Article: Sandy Baldwin
<LI>Python Programming Language
<LI>Solving Cubic Equations
<LI>LiveWires 2004 : Python course
<LI>rowena
<LI>Sakhalin Island
<LI>NOVA | Secrets of
the
Crocodile Caves | PBS
<LI>ZNet's Chomsky
Archive
<LI>The Art
and
Politics of Arthur Szyk
<LI>Welcome to the Tibetan Buddhist
Resource Center
<LI>Droplet - Microscopy of the Protozoa
<LI>NYU CAT - Technologies and Projects
<LI>Vintage Calculators Web

Museum
<LI>GeoVRML.org
<LI>
Butterflies of North America
<LI>Ambient Devices - Everyday Wireless Objects (Smart Personal Objects, Pervasive Computing, Ubiquitous Computing)
<LI>tangible media group
<LI>BABEL: A Glossary of Computer Related Abbreviations and Acronyms
<LI>Textbook of Bacteriology
<LI>Butterflies and Skippers of North America -
<LI>Fairchild vr
Herbarium
<LI>world premiere: the phenomenology of the virtual
<LI>Plutschow - Chinese Sacrificial Practices
<LI>MeshForum
<LI>Oxymorons.info - Oxymorons, Oxymoron
<LI>Mathtools.net -
<LI>Chi nese mathematics
<LI>Lewis Carroll Scrapbook Home
<LI>Florian
Cramer
<LI>Plasma Science and Technology
<LI>David Em
Bio
<LI>RLE :: Signals, Information, and Algorithms Laboratory
<LI>ARS Electronica FESTIVAL <LI>Brooklyn Botanic Garden:

New York Metropolitan Flora Project
<LI>Ziff Davis Web Buyer's Guide: IT white papers, product reviews and technology buying guides.
<LI>Fukuoka
Now English News
<LI>hamradio source

↑ Index

243. George Bowering
Re: A widespread, high-spirited head rush
Fri 17 Jul 2009

I love Rashied Ali. My favourite drummer.
I heard him with the Aylers around 1967
]and I heard him in Vancouver last year.
I didn't know he did concerts, though.

gb

On Jul 16, 2009, at 3:23 AM, steve dalachinsky wrote:

> rashied ali quintet last nite
> tonite kronos qt
> i go to almost 1 or 2 a nite
> On Thu, 16 Jul 2009 00:11:22 -0700 George Bowering <[redacted]>
> writes:
> On Jul 15, 2009, at 6:24 PM, Paul Siegell wrote:
>
> Hi,
>
> What was the last concert you went to?
>
> I guess it was the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra doing Beethoven's
> Ninth
> and other stuff about 18 months ago.

> gb
>
> welcome.html

Geo. H. Bowering
Adaptable yet reliable.

↑ Index

244. George Bowering
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Fri 17 Jul 2009

I agree with that.
But you can say you were there.
That's the main thing, I think.

gb

On Jul 16, 2009, at 1:31 PM, steve russell wrote:

> The chili dogs at Ben’s Chili Bowl, overrated. Ben's, btw, is
>
> The chili dogs at Ben’s Chili Bowl, overrated. Ben's, btw, is mentioned a few times in a couple of the Pelecanos novels.
>
> --- On Tue, 7/14/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2009, 3:50 PM
>
> I recommend the Florida Street Cafe in DC for scrapple.
>
> gb
>
> On Jul 14, 2009, at 3:11 AM, steve russell wrote:
>
> but Pelacanos, the wire producer, writes novels. they're set in d.c.
> --- On Mon, 7/13/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Monday, July 13, 2009, 5:07 PM
Oh boy, Baltimore.
The crab cakes at the Lexington Market the best anywhere.

gb

On Jul 13, 2009, at 11:32 AM, Mary Kasimor wrote:

I am a The Wire addict. It takes place in Baltimore.
mary

--- On Sun, 7/12/09, steve russell <[redacted]>
wrote:

From: steve russell <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2009, 1:04 PM

Sure, and why not throw in the Goddamn bible. I mean, hell, what is the bible? Narrative? Epic poetry? I'm thinking mostly of the Old Testament, of course. As for "The Wire, " I'm a big fan of crime fiction, and George Pelacanos is the main producer of "The Wire." Indeed, in the broad sense of the term (...poet...), why not include
Pelacanos as a poet of the streets of Washington, D.C.?
Perhaps Q Taratino is the poet of video store clerks, if not their saint. Why not talk about failed poets who turned to fiction after their bout with poetry. Consider William Faulkner. As for cartoonist, I have no problem calling E Gorey, or even Mr. peanuts Schultz, a poet. Ugh, what was the topic???

--- On Sat, 7/11/09, George Bowering <[redacted]>
wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Saturday, July 11, 2009, 4:01 PM

Here we go;

the usual widening and widening of the topic
until we can include everything, such as L'il Abner
and,oh, The Wire.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 6:36 PM, Jonathan Morse wrote:

steve russell wrote:
there are a few singular talents who've
managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish.
Goethe. Rilke. Hardy. Hugo. If you'll accept
non-fiction, you can add Yeats and Dryden. If you count
letters as imaginative literature, and why shouldn't you?,
you can add Keats and Dickinson. Think big.

Jonathan Morse

George B.
Author of his own misfortunes.

George "Whip" Bowering
No slugging average to speak of.

welcome.html

> George H. Bowering, OC
> Dull as dishwater.
>
> welcome.html
>
> welcome.html

George H. Bowering
Wishes your happiness.

↑ Index

245. Patrick Dillon
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Fri 17 Jul 2009

> The chili dogs at Ben’s Chili Bowl, overrated. Ben's, btw, is
>
> The chili dogs at Ben’s Chili Bowl, overrated. Ben's, btw, is mentioned a few times in a couple of the Pelecanos novels.

Ben's is famous for chili half smokes, not chili dogs (but they serve both). And it's obviously famous for reasons unrelated to food.

On Thu, Jul 16, 2009 at 3:31 PM, steve russell <[redacted]>wrote:

> The chili dogs at Ben’s Chili Bowl, overrated. Ben's, btw, is
>
> The chili dogs at Ben’s Chili Bowl, overrated. Ben's, btw, is mentioned a few times in a couple of the Pelecanos novels.
>
> --- On Tue, 7/14/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2009, 3:50 PM
>
> I recommend the Florida Street Cafe in DC for scrapple.
>
> gb

On Jul 14, 2009, at 3:11 AM, steve russell wrote:

but Pelacanos, the wire producer, writes novels. they're set in d.c.
--- On Mon, 7/13/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Monday, July 13, 2009, 5:07 PM
Oh boy, Baltimore.
The crab cakes at the Lexington Market the best anywhere.

gb

On Jul 13, 2009, at 11:32 AM, Mary Kasimor wrote:

I am a The Wire addict. It takes place in Baltimore.
mary

--- On Sun, 7/12/09, steve russell <[redacted]>
wrote:

From: steve russell <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2009, 1:04 PM

Sure, and why not throw in the Goddamn bible. I mean, hell, what is the bible? Narrative? Epic poetry? I'm thinking mostly of the Old Testament, of course. As for "The Wire, " I'm a big fan of crime fiction, and George Pelacanos is the main producer of "The Wire." Indeed, in the broad sense of the term (...poet...), why not include
Pelacanos as a poet of the streets of Washington, D.C.?
Perhaps Q Taratino is the poet of video store clerks, if not their saint. Why not talk about failed poets who turned to fiction after their bout with poetry. Consider William Faulkner. As for cartoonist, I have no problem calling E Gorey, or even Mr. peanuts Schultz, a poet. Ugh, what was the topic???

--- On Sat, 7/11/09, George Bowering <[redacted]>
wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Saturday, July 11, 2009, 4:01 PM

Here we go;
the usual widening and widening of the topic
until we can include everything, such as L'il Abner
and,oh, The Wire.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 6:36 PM, Jonathan Morse wrote:

steve russell wrote:
there are a few singular talents who've
managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish.
Goethe. Rilke. Hardy. Hugo. If you'll accept
non-fiction, you can add Yeats and Dryden. If you count
letters as imaginative literature, and why shouldn't you?,
you can add Keats and Dickinson. Think big.

Jonathan Morse

George B.
Author of his own misfortunes.

George "Whip" Bowering
No slugging average to speak of.

> welcome.html
>
> George H. Bowering, OC
> Dull as dishwater.

↑ Index

246. Emily Carr
Re: Poetry and Failure
Fri 17 Jul 2009

Hi, Michael. Tthese are interesting questions. Though I also wonder why we apply terms like success & failure to poetry, & when we do so who is speaking to & for whom & whether, in defining these terms, we are thinking about intent or affect or a combination of the two or perhaps even a third, more useful term. There are so many approaches to the notion of failure in poetry, & (surely this is why you've asked) Christian's is only one. I've begun to think through my own at the Toadlily Press Blog, if you are interested:

http://toadlilypress.com/toadlily-blog/.

Cheers,
Emily

On Thu, Jul 16, 2009 at 4:28 PM, Sam Truitt <[redacted]> wrote:

Is this thread I'm surprised not to see Laura Riding (Jackson) hasn't come up - her sentiment as nailed by posthumous title THE FAILURE OF POETRY, THE PROMISE OF LANGUAGE (ed. John Nolan) underscored by her giving up poems in the late 1930's - tied to truth, to being true - but she writes someplace (her essay on Stein maybe?):

“…if poetry had all subjects taken away from it, there was one subject of which poetry could not be deprived, namely, that poetry had come to an end. Here was an ingenious method for indefinitely postponing the end of poetry… since poetry was to write about nothing, it could write about everything from the standpoint of nothing; it could still have its epic without the burden of having to have convictions about it.”

----- Original Message ----
From: carol dorf <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Thursday, July 16, 2009 9:22:50 AM
Subject: Re: Poetry and Failure

Hard to say where one "poem" ends and the next begins.

Don't forget pleasure -- pleasure in language, pleasure in structuring the "poem," referencing experience.

(Almost all of reading, for me; and a good part of my writing.)

On Wed, Jul 15, 2009 at 11:56 AM, Elizabeth Switaj <[redacted]> wrote:

> Do we continue to write poetry because it ultimately fails to do what we hope it might or should?
>
> That may be so for some and certainly is why I continue to write a poem*, but other than that I continue writing because those hopes shift and are various.*
>
> Is the "failure of poetry" a failure of language, or poetics?
>
> Yes.

↑ Index

247. Sam Truitt
Re: Poetry and Failure
Fri 17 Jul 2009

"You can say anything in prose, so poetry should be reserved for saying nothing" (Khlebnikov), like the soul, lost at the xroads.

----- Original Message ----
From: Nicholas Piombino <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Thursday, July 16, 2009 11:46:21 PM
Subject: Re: Poetry and Failure

"Opens magazine several times at the fact that poetry is at crossroads."

F. Scott Fitzgerald (from "The Notebooks", in "The Crack Up", edited by Edmund Wilson)

On 7/16/09 6:28 PM, "Sam Truitt" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Is this thread I'm surprised not to see Laura Riding (Jackson) hasn't come up - her sentiment as nailed by posthumous title THE FAILURE OF POETRY, THE PROMISE OF LANGUAGE (ed. John Nolan) underscored by her giving up poems in the > late 1930's - tied to truth, to being true - but she writes someplace (her essay on Stein maybe?):
>
> Â³Å if poetry had all subjects taken away from it,
> there was one subject of which poetry could not be deprived, namely, that poetry had come to an end. Here was an ingenious method for indefinitely postponing the end of poetryÅ since poetry was to write about nothing, it could > write about everything from the standpoint of nothing; it could still have its epic without the burden of having to have convictions about it.Â²
>
> ----- Original Message ----
> From: carol dorf <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Thursday, July 16, 2009 9:22:50 AM
> Subject: Re: Poetry and Failure
>
> Hard to say where one "poem" ends and the next begins.
>
> Don't forget pleasure -- pleasure in language, pleasure in structuring the "poem," referencing experience.
>
> (Almost all of reading, for me; and a good part of my writing.)
>
> On Wed, Jul 15, 2009 at 11:56 AM, Elizabeth Switaj <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Do we continue to write poetry because it ultimately fails to do what we hope it might or should?
>
> That may be so for some and certainly is why I continue to write a poem*, but other than that I continue writing because those hopes shift and are various.*
>
> Is the "failure of poetry" a failure of language, or poetics?
>
> Yes.

↑ Index

248. mIEKAL aND
Palindrome for David Bromige
Fri 17 Jul 2009

(In the middle of reshelving some old mags I found this inside a copy of the David Bromige issue of The Difficulties, edited by Tom Beckett)

Debut brag sore tip radar nod. Dad dotes mile van. Edit non word team nor page look cuckoo beer tred. No, who read set in bards evil kook lives drab nites. Dear oh wonder tree book. Cuckoo leg apron meat. Drown on tide. Navel, I'm set odd, add on radar pit. Eros garb tubed.

↑ Index

249. amy king
Tough economy - insight?
Fri 17 Jul 2009

I've got a few friends -- poet friends -- who have recently suffered the "lay off" axe. While I suspect this axe is wielded to make more profits for stockholders and management (didn't JP Morgan just pull in a huge unpredicted spike in profit this quarter?), I know the concrete reality is that my friends are suffering and may for some time to come. Profit increases are fun to brag about and buy yachts with, but finding enough cash to feed the landlord isn't so pleasant.

So I'm asking: what would you do? Any job insight advice? What work/markets are still available to these poets, many with college degrees? Where do you seek listings friendly to the poetically-inclined? Know of any work available in NY? (Feel free to backchannel on that last question, for I have some astute poet friends ready, smart, and quite able)

Just wondering. And if you have any stories -- inspiring or otherwise -- please do share~

Thanks,

Amy

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

250. Mary Kasimor
Re: Poetry and Failure
Fri 17 Jul 2009

Yes, I agree. And some of my best poems have been unexpected "works of genius." I love writing and finding the unexpected as I wrte. If it is too easy to write, it's not half as much fun.

Mary

--- On Thu, 7/16/09, steve russell <[redacted]> wrote:

From: steve russell <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Poetry and Failure
To: [redacted]
Date: Thursday, July 16, 2009, 7:44 PM

too many people forget pleasure. sure, poetry is hard work, but sweating out a poem is still fun. a big disappointment if the poem is a complete failure, but fun almost always happens at some point during the shaping, & considering the $$$$ rewards, who'd write the stuff if this were not the case?

--- On Thu, 7/16/09, carol dorf <[redacted]> wrote:

From: carol dorf <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Poetry and Failure
To: [redacted]
Date: Thursday, July 16, 2009, 9:22 AM

Hard to say where one "poem" ends and the next begins.

Don't forget pleasure -- pleasure in language, pleasure in structuring the "poem," referencing experience.

(Almost all of reading, for me; and a good part of my writing.)

On Wed, Jul 15, 2009 at 11:56 AM, Elizabeth Switaj <[redacted]> wrote:

> Do we continue to write poetry because it ultimately fails to do what we hope it might or should?
>
> That may be so for some and certainly is why I continue to write a poem*, but other than that I continue writing because those hopes shift and are various.*

> Is the "failure of poetry" a failure of language, or poetics?
>
> Yes.

↑ Index

251. Mary Kasimor

Re: Tough economy - insight?

Fri 17 Jul 2009

My understanding is that colleges and universities are doing well during the bad economy. If your friends have MA's or MFA's, I suggest that they talk to the chairs in the English or other departments that they are qualified to teach in.

--- On Fri, 7/17/09, amy king <[redacted]> wrote:

From: amy king <[redacted]>
Subject: Tough economy - insight?
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 17, 2009, 1:47 PM

I've got a few friends -- poet friends -- who have recently suffered the "lay off" axe. While I suspect this axe is wielded to make more profits for stockholders and management (didn't JP Morgan just pull in a huge unpredicted spike in profit this quarter?), I know the concrete reality is that my friends are suffering and may for some time to come. Profit increases are fun to brag about and buy yachts with, but finding enough cash to feed the landlord isn't so pleasant.

So I'm asking: what would you do? Any job insight advice? What work/markets are still available to these poets, many with college degrees? Where do you seek listings friendly to the poetically-inclined? Know of any work available in NY? (Feel free to backchannel on that last question, for I have some astute poet friends ready, smart, and quite able)

Just wondering. And if you have any stories -- inspiring or otherwise -- please do share~

Thanks,

Amy

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

252. Daniel Godston

Bauhaus9090 updates

Fri 17 Jul 2009

"The Bauhaus: 90 Years / 90 Days" is a new project which commemorates the 90th anniversary of the Bauhaus. Every day during this 90-day project (from July 6 till October 3), a project happens which creatively plays around with and pays homage to an aspect of the Bauhaus. Examples of those projects might include a dance performance inspired by Oskar Schlemmer's ballet, a musical performance that uses a Kandinsky painting as a graphic score, a fiber art project inspired by Anni Albers' work, a poem inspired by Walter Gropius' architecture, a short story inspired by Marianne Brandt's work, an essay reflecting on an aspect of the Bauhaus movement, and so on.

You are invited to visit "The Bauhaus: 90 Years / 90 Days" website (www.bauhaus9090.org). You can register on the site and join the forums, and there are other features too. Here are some updates --

PROJECTS
"The Twittering Machine," a poem by Alice Shapiro
"Composition for Josef Albers," a painting by Tony Renner
"FORM FOLLOW FUNCTION," a poem by Charlie Newman
"Some Knowledge of Schlemmer Is Required," a machinima by Patrick Lichty
"Up / Down," a poem by Jamie Kazay
"Influence in Time," a painting by Jeremy Hight
"Inutil Paisagem," a poem by Matthew S. Barton
"Working Class History and the Institute of Design," an essay with photos by Janina Ciezadlo
"BauHouse," a poem by Cathleen Schandelmeier
"Littlehampton's Lobsters," a community art project in Littlehampton, West Sussex, UK
"The Anagrammed Bauhaus," a poem by Dave Morice

EVENTS
"Laszlo Moholy-Nagy Birthday Celebration" (Monday, July 20)
"Chicago Bauhaus in July" (Saturday, July 25)

"The Bauhaus: 90 Years / 90 Days" is being organized by the Borderbend Arts Collective and the Gropius in Chicago Coalition.

↑ Index

253. cranesbill
Re: Palindrome for David Bromige
Fri 17 Jul 2009

This is lovely! Thanks for posting it.
David Benedetti has a fat three-ring binder overflowing with palindromes.
Apparently it's his main project.
J. A. Lee

----- Original Message -----
From: "mIEKAL aND" <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2009 12:26:55 PM GMT -07:00 US/Canada Mountain
Subject: Palindrome for David Bromige

(In the middle of reshelving some old mags I found this inside a copy Â of the David Bromige issue of The Difficulties, edited by Tom Beckett)

Debut brag sore tip radar nod. Â Dad dotes mile van. Â Edit non word Â team nor page look cuckoo beer tred. Â No, who read set in bards evil Â kook lives drab nites. Â Dear oh wonder tree book. Â Cuckoo leg apron Â meat. Â Drown on tide. Â Navel, I'm set odd, add on radar pit. Â Eros Â garb tubed.

↑ Index

254. Halvard Johnson
Re: Poetry and Failure
Fri 17 Jul 2009

"I have nothing to say and am saying it, and that is poetry." --John Cage (more or less)

Hal

"A paranoid is someone who knows a little of what's going on."
--William S. Burroughs

Halvard Johnson
==========
[redacted]
http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org

On Fri, Jul 17, 2009 at 1:23 PM, Sam Truitt <[redacted]> wrote:

"You can say anything in prose, so poetry should be reserved for saying nothing"
(Khlebnikov), like the soul, lost at the xroads.

----- Original Message ----
From: Nicholas Piombino <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Thursday, July 16, 2009 11:46:21 PM
Subject: Re: Poetry and Failure

"Opens magazine several times at the fact that poetry is at crossroads."

F. Scott Fitzgerald (from "The Notebooks", in "The Crack Up", edited by Edmund Wilson)

On 7/16/09 6:28 PM, "Sam Truitt" <[redacted]> wrote:

Is this thread I'm surprised not to see Laura Riding (Jackson) hasn't come up
- her sentiment as nailed by posthumous title THE FAILURE OF POETRY, THE PROMISE OF LANGUAGE (ed. John Nolan) underscored by her giving up poems in the late 1930's - tied to truth, to being true - but she writes someplace (her essay on Stein maybe?):

Â³Å if poetry had all subjects taken away from it,
there was one subject of which poetry could not be deprived, namely, that poetry had come to an end. Here was an ingenious method for indefinitely postponing the end of poetryÅ since poetry was to write about nothing, it could write about everything from the standpoint of nothing; it could still have its epic without the burden of having to have convictions about it.Â²

----- Original Message ----
From: carol dorf <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Thursday, July 16, 2009 9:22:50 AM
Subject: Re: Poetry and Failure

Hard to say where one "poem" ends and the next begins.

> Don't forget pleasure -- pleasure in language, pleasure in structuring the
> "poem," referencing experience.
>
> (Almost all of reading, for me; and a good part of my writing.)
>
> On Wed, Jul 15, 2009 at 11:56 AM, Elizabeth Switaj <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Do we continue to write poetry because it ultimately fails to do what we > hope it might or should?
>
> That may be so for some and certainly is why I continue to write a poem*,* > but other than that I continue writing because those hopes shift and are various.
>
> Is the "failure of poetry" a failure of language, or poetics?
>
> Yes.
>
> guidelines
>
> guidelines &
>
> guidelines &

↑ Index

255. mIEKAL aND

Fwd: poets barred

Fri 17 Jul 2009

Apparently UK is starting to adopt US-style profiling in the name of terrorism...

Begin forwarded message:

> From: GILES GOODLAND <[redacted]>
> Date: July 17, 2009 1:39:56 PM CDT
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: poets barred
> Reply-To: British & Irish poets <[redacted]>
>
> This made me cross, and want to cry:
>
> http://www.ledburyreporter.co.uk/news/4498396.Top_poets_denied_entry_to_UK_for_festival/

↑ Index

256. steve russell

Re: Tough economy - insight?

Fri 17 Jul 2009

---

i can think of jobs, not careers, that would be available since what applies in d.c. should also apply in NY. your friends could supplement their income with courier work or catering work. after 9/11, courier work has shrunk, but there's still plenty or work available, even part-time work. & the same holds true of catering. Still, few people are willing to make either of these options into careers. but during tough times ...

--- On Fri, 7/17/09, amy king <[redacted]> wrote:

> From: amy king <[redacted]>
> Subject: Tough economy - insight?
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Friday, July 17, 2009, 2:47 PM
> I've got a few friends -- poet > friends -- who have recently suffered the "lay off" axe.
> While I suspect this axe is wielded to make more profits for > stockholders and management (didn't JP Morgan just pull in a > huge unpredicted spike in profit this quarter?), I know the > concrete reality is that my friends are suffering and may > for some time to come. Profit increases are fun to brag > about and buy yachts with, but finding enough cash to feed > the landlord isn't so pleasant.
>
> So I'm asking: what would you do? Any job insight > advice? What work/markets are still available to these > poets, many with college degrees? Where do you seek > listings friendly to the poetically-inclined? Know of any > work available in NY? (Feel free to backchannel on that > last question, for I have some astute poet friends ready,

> smart, and quite able)
>
> Just wondering. And if you have any stories -- inspiring or otherwise -- please do share~
>
> Thanks,
>
> Amy
>
> _____
>
> Amy's Alias
>
> http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

257. steve russell

Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Fri 17 Jul 2009

---

who complained about the usual widening/widening of the topic? Writing fiction/poetry, the bible,Â and now chili half/smokes. jeez

--- On Fri, 7/17/09, Patrick Dillon <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Patrick Dillon <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 17, 2009, 9:18 AM

> The chili dogs at Benâ€™s Chili Bowl, overrated. Ben's, btw, is
>
> The chili dogs at Benâ€™s Chili Bowl, overrated. Ben's, btw, is mentioned a few times in a couple of the Pelecanos novels.

Ben's is famous for chili half smokes, not chili dogs (but they serve both). And it's obviously famous for reasons unrelated to food.

On Thu, Jul 16, 2009 at 3:31 PM, steve russell <[redacted]>wrote:

> The chili dogs at Benâ€™s Chili Bowl, overrated. Ben's, btw, is
>
> The chili dogs at Benâ€™s Chili Bowl, overrated. Ben's, btw, is mentioned a few times in a couple of the Pelecanos novels.
>
> --- On Tue, 7/14/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2009, 3:50 PM
>
> I recommend the Florida Street Cafe in DC for scrapple.
>
> gb
>
> On Jul 14, 2009, at 3:11 AM, steve russell wrote:
>
> Â but Pelacanos, the wire producer,Â writes novels. they're set in d.c.
> --- On Mon, 7/13/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Monday, July 13, 2009, 5:07 PM
> Oh boy, Baltimore.
> The crab cakes at the Lexington Market the best anywhere.
>
> gb
>
> On Jul 13, 2009, at 11:32 AM, Mary Kasimor wrote:
>
> I am a The Wire addict. It takes place in Baltimore.
> mary
>
> --- On Sun, 7/12/09, steve russell <[redacted]>
> wrote:
>
> From: steve russell <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...

To: [redacted]
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2009, 1:04 PM

Sure, and why not throw in the Goddamn bible. I mean, hell, what is the bible? Narrative? Epic poetry? I'm thinking mostly of the Old Testament, of course.Â As for "The Wire, " I'm a big fan of crime fiction, and George Pelacanos is the main producer of "The Wire." Indeed, in the broad sense of the term (...poet...), why not include Pelacanos as a poet of the streets of Washington, D.C.? Perhaps Q Taratino is the poet of video store clerks, if not their saint. Why not talk about failed poets who turned to fiction after their bout with poetry. Consider William Faulkner. As for cartoonist, I have no problem calling E Gorey, or evenÂ Mr. peanuts Schultz, a poet. Ugh, what was the topic???

--- On Sat, 7/11/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Saturday, July 11, 2009, 4:01 PM

Here we go;
the usual widening and widening of the topic
until we can include everything, such as L'il Abner
and,oh, The Wire.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 6:36 PM, Jonathan Morse wrote:

steve russell wrote:
there are a few singular talents who've
managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish.
Goethe. Rilke. Hardy. Hugo. If you'll accept
non-fiction, you can add Yeats and Dryden. If you count
letters as imaginative literature, and why shouldn't you?,
you can add Keats and Dickinson. Think big.

Jonathan Morse

> George B.
> Author of his own misfortunes.
>
> George "Whip" Bowering
> No slugging average to speak of.
>
> welcome.html
>
> George H. Bowering, OC
> Dull as dishwater.

↑ Index

258. Stephen Vincent
Paris places to stay???
Fri 17 Jul 2009

We're going to Paris for 10 days in September. If you know of such, I will much appreciate any good suggestions on a nice place (affordable) to stay that is 'central'.

I will take any suggestions b/c.

Thank you,

Stephen Vincent
http://stephenvincent.net/blog/

↑ Index

259. Alison Croggon
Re: Poetry and Failure
Fri 17 Jul 2009

I like Giacometti on this - one of my signal quotations: "Success, failure, they are both secondary"

On Sat, Jul 18, 2009 at 4:19 AM, Emily Carr<[redacted]> wrote:
> Hi, Michael. Tthese are interesting questions. Though I also wonder > why we apply terms like success & failure to poetry, & when we do > so who is speaking to & for whom & whether, in defining these terms, > we are thinking about intent or affect or a combination of the two or > perhaps even a third, more useful term. There are so many approaches > to the notion of failure in poetry, & (surely this is why you've > asked) Christian's is only one. I've begun to think through my own at > the Toadlily Press Blog, if you are interested:
>
> http://toadlilypress.com/toadlily-blog/.
>
> Cheers,
> Emily
>
>
>
> On Thu, Jul 16, 2009 at 4:28 PM, Sam Truitt <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Is this thread I'm surprised not to see Laura Riding (Jackson) hasn't > come up - her sentiment as nailed by posthumous title THE FAILURE OF > POETRY, THE PROMISE OF LANGUAGE (ed. John Nolan) underscored by her > giving up poems in the late 1930's - tied to truth, to being true - > but she writes someplace (her essay on Stein maybe?):
>
> “…if poetry had all subjects taken away from it, > there was one subject of which poetry could not be deprived, namely, that > poetry had come to an end. Here was an ingenious method for indefinitely > postponing the end of poetry… since poetry was to write about nothing, it could > write about everything from the standpoint of nothing; it could still have its > epic without the burden of having to have convictions about it.”

>
>
>
>
> ----- Original Message ----
> From: carol dorf <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Thursday, July 16, 2009 9:22:50 AM
> Subject: Re: Poetry and Failure
>
> Hard to say where one "poem" ends and the next begins.
>
> Don't forget pleasure -- pleasure in language, pleasure in structuring the
> "poem," referencing experience.
>
> (Almost all of reading, for me; and a good part of my writing.)
>
> On Wed, Jul 15, 2009 at 11:56 AM, Elizabeth Switaj <[redacted]> wrote:
>
>> > Do we continue to write poetry because it ultimately fails to do what we >> hope it might or should?
>>
>> That may be so for some and certainly is why I continue to write* a poem*, >> but other than that I continue writing because those hopes shift and are >> various.
>>
>> >Is the "failure of poetry" a failure of language, or poetics?
>>
>> Yes.
>>
>>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

--
Editor, Masthead: http://www.masthead.net.au
Blog: http://theatrenotes.blogspot.com
Home page: http://www.alisoncroggon.com

↑ Index

260. Rob McLennan
12 or 20 questions with Kevin Killian
Sat 18 Jul 2009

---

here:

http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/2009/07/12-or-20-questions-with-kevin-killian.html

rob

-- writer/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...14th poetry coll'n - gifts (Talon) ...2nd novel - missing persons www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

261. Cindy King
Eat Fresh: Joy Harjo for Subway
Sat 18 Jul 2009

Six inch, anyone?

http://fittoboom.msnbc.msn.com/?source=msn&gt1=25054#/home/video/10/0

_____ Windows Live™ Hotmail®: Search, add, and share the web's latest sports videos. Check it out. http://www.windowslive.com/Online/Hotmail/Campaign/QuickAdd?ocid=TXT_TAGLM_WL_QA_HM_sports_videos_072009&cat=sports

↑ Index

262. steve dalachinsky
Re: Poetry and Failure
Sat 18 Jul 2009

---

since so many "insiders" strive so hard to be outsiders these days i guess failure in poetry "world "may be considered a plus (HA) tho most that consider themselves outsider who are insiders are both successful in their work and their career tho nothin ever seems enough

On Sat, 18 Jul 2009 11:33:41 +1000 Alison Croggon <[redacted]>
writes:
> I like Giacometti on this - one of my signal quotations: "Success, > failure, they are both secondary"
>
> On Sat, Jul 18, 2009 at 4:19 AM, Emily Carr<[redacted]>
> wrote:
> > Hi, Michael. Tthese are interesting questions. Though I also > wonder > > why we apply terms like success & failure to poetry, & when we > do > > so who is speaking to & for whom & whether, in defining these > terms,
> > we are thinking about intent or affect or a combination of the two
> or > > perhaps even a third, more useful term. There are so many > approaches
> > to the notion of failure in poetry, & (surely this is why you've > > asked) Christian's is only one. I've begun to think through my own
> at
> > the Toadlily Press Blog, if you are interested:
> >
> > http://toadlilypress.com/toadlily-blog/.
> >
> > Cheers,
> > Emily
> >
> >
> >
> > On Thu, Jul 16, 2009 at 4:28 PM, Sam Truitt <[redacted]>
> wrote:
> >
> > Is this thread I'm surprised not to see Laura Riding (Jackson) > hasn't > > come up - her sentiment as nailed by posthumous title THE FAILURE
> OF > > POETRY, THE PROMISE OF LANGUAGE (ed. John Nolan) underscored by > her > > giving up poems in the late 1930's - tied to truth, to being true
> -
> > but she writes someplace (her essay on Stein maybe?):
> >

> > “…if poetry had all subjects taken away from it,
> > there was one subject of which poetry could not be deprived, > namely, that > > poetry had come to an end. Here was an ingenious method for > indefinitely > > postponing the end of poetry… since poetry was to write about > nothing, it could > > write about everything from the standpoint of nothing; it could > still have its > > epic without the burden of having to have convictions about it.”
> >
> >
> >
> >
> > ----- Original Message ----
> > From: carol dorf <[redacted]>
> > To: [redacted]
> > Sent: Thursday, July 16, 2009 9:22:50 AM
> > Subject: Re: Poetry and Failure
> >
> > Hard to say where one "poem" ends and the next begins.
> >
> > Don't forget pleasure -- pleasure in language, pleasure in > structuring the
> > "poem," referencing experience.
> >
> > (Almost all of reading, for me; and a good part of my writing.)
> >
> > On Wed, Jul 15, 2009 at 11:56 AM, Elizabeth Switaj
> <[redacted]> wrote:
> >
> >> > Do we continue to write poetry because it ultimately fails to > do what we > >> hope it might or should?
> >>
> >> That may be so for some and certainly is why I continue to write* > a poem*,
> >> but other than that I continue writing because those hopes shift > and are > >> various.
> >>
> >> >Is the "failure of poetry" a failure of language, or poetics?

> >>
> >> Yes.
> >>
> guidelines
> >>
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
> >
>
>
>
> --
> Editor, Masthead: http://www.masthead.net.au
> Blog: http://theatrenotes.blogspot.com
> Home page: http://www.alisoncroggon.com
>
>
>

↑ Index

263. steve dalachinsky

Re: A widespread, high-spirited head rush

Sat 18 Jul 2009

---

you saw rashied with ayler i'll ask him
what dya mean ya din't know he did concerts?
semantics he did a gig 3 sets is that better usage of lingo?

On Fri, 17 Jul 2009 00:47:03 -0700 George Bowering <[redacted]>
writes:
> I love Rashied Ali. My favourite drummer.
> I heard him with the Aylers around 1967
>]and I heard him in Vancouver last year.
> I didn't know he did concerts, though.
>
> gb
>
>

> On Jul 16, 2009, at 3:23 AM, steve dalachinsky wrote:
>
> > rashied ali quintet last nite
> > tonite kronos qt
> > i go to almost 1 or 2 a nite
> > On Thu, 16 Jul 2009 00:11:22 -0700 George Bowering
> <[redacted]>
> > writes:
> >> On Jul 15, 2009, at 6:24 PM, Paul Siegell wrote:
> >>
> >>> Hi,
> >>>
> >>> What was the last concert you went to?
> >>
> >> I guess it was the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra doing
> Beethoven's
> >> Ninth
> >> and other stuff about 18 months ago.
> >>
> >> gb
> >>
> >>
> >>
> >
> >
>
> > welcome.html
>
> Geo. H. Bowering
> Adaptable yet reliable.
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

264. amy king
Re: Eat Fresh: Joy Harjo for Subway
Sat 18 Jul 2009

Cool story (sans the sub part, perhaps)!

Amy

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

--- On Sat, 7/18/09, Cindy King wrote:

Six inch, anyone?

http://fittoboom.msnbc.msn.com/?source=msn&gt1=25054#/home/video/10/0

_____

↑ Index

265. Jonathan Morse
Re: Tough economy - insight?
Sat 18 Jul 2009

Mary Kasimor wrote:
> My understanding is that colleges and universities are doing well during the bad economy.
Ye gods, Mary. No they aren't. Subscribe (free) to http://www.insidehighered.com to learn how misinformed you've been.

Jonathan Morse
University of Hawaii

↑ Index

266. George Bowering
Re: I want to write fiction but ...
Sat 18 Jul 2009

I used to think that the chili at Tim Hortons is pretty good, but you get tired of it soon.

gb

On Jul 17, 2009, at 6:20 PM, steve russell wrote:

> who complained about the usual widening/widening of the topic?
> Writing fiction/poetry, the bible, and now chili half/smokes. jeez
>
> --- On Fri, 7/17/09, Patrick Dillon <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: Patrick Dillon <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Friday, July 17, 2009, 9:18 AM

The chili dogs at Ben’s Chili Bowl, overrated. Ben's, btw, is

The chili dogs at Ben’s Chili Bowl, overrated. Ben's, btw, is mentioned a few times in a couple of the Pelecanos novels.

Ben's is famous for chili half smokes, not chili dogs (but they serve both).
And it's obviously famous for reasons unrelated to food.

On Thu, Jul 16, 2009 at 3:31 PM, steve russell
<[redacted]>wrote:

The chili dogs at Ben’s Chili Bowl, overrated. Ben's, btw, is

The chili dogs at Ben’s Chili Bowl, overrated. Ben's, btw, is mentioned a few times in a couple of the Pelecanos novels.

--- On Tue, 7/14/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2009, 3:50 PM

I recommend the Florida Street Cafe in DC for scrapple.

gb

On Jul 14, 2009, at 3:11 AM, steve russell wrote:

but Pelacanos, the wire producer, writes novels. they're set in d.c.
--- On Mon, 7/13/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Monday, July 13, 2009, 5:07 PM
Oh boy, Baltimore.

The crab cakes at the Lexington Market the best anywhere.

gb

On Jul 13, 2009, at 11:32 AM, Mary Kasimor wrote:

I am a The Wire addict. It takes place in Baltimore.
mary

--- On Sun, 7/12/09, steve russell <[redacted]>
wrote:

From: steve russell <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2009, 1:04 PM

Sure, and why not throw in the Goddamn bible. I mean, hell, what is the bible? Narrative? Epic poetry? I'm thinking mostly of the Old Testament, of course. As for "The Wire, " I'm a big fan of crime fiction, and George Pelacanos is the main producer of "The Wire." Indeed, in the broad sense of the term (...poet...), why not include
Pelacanos as a poet of the streets of Washington, D.C.?
Perhaps Q Taratino is the poet of video store clerks, if not their saint. Why not talk about failed poets who turned to fiction after their bout with poetry. Consider William Faulkner. As for cartoonist, I have no problem calling E Gorey, or even Mr. peanuts Schultz, a poet. Ugh, what was the topic???

--- On Sat, 7/11/09, George Bowering <[redacted]>
wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Saturday, July 11, 2009, 4:01 PM

Here we go;
the usual widening and widening of the topic
until we can include everything, such as L'il Abner
and,oh, The Wire.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 6:36 PM, Jonathan Morse wrote:

steve russell wrote:
there are a few singular talents who've
managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish.
Goethe. Rilke. Hardy. Hugo. If you'll accept
non-fiction, you can add Yeats and Dryden. If you count
letters as imaginative literature, and why shouldn't you?,
you can add Keats and Dickinson. Think big.

Jonathan Morse

George B.
Author of his own misfortunes.

George "Whip" Bowering
No slugging average to speak of.

welcome.html

George H. Bowering, OC
Dull as dishwater.

guidelines

> guidelines
>
> welcome.html
>
> welcome.html

GB
Under electronic surveillance.

↑ Index

267. Daniel Godston
Moholy-Nagy birthday celebration
Sun 19 Jul 2009

The great artist Laszlo Moholy-Nagy was born on July 20, 1895. You are invited to join us, as we celebrate Moholy-Nagy's birthday at Brown Rice -- screening of Moholy-Nagy's "Lobsters" & discussion of "Littlehampton's Lobsters"

Janina Ciezadlo reads part of "The Truth to Materials," her essay about the Bauhaus.

performance of "Moholy #2" (composition by Guillermo Gregorio) Guillermo Gregorio -- clarinet & saxophone
Christopher Preissing -- flute
Dan Godston -- trumpet & small instruments
Alex Wing -- upright bass
Joshua Manchester -- percussion

Brown Rice
4432 N. Kedzie Ave., 1st floor
Chicago, IL 60625
9 p.m. starting time. Doors open one half hour before performance time, all ages. Brown Rice is a half block north of the Montrose / Kedzie intersection, close to the Kedzie station on the CTA brown line. The entrance is below a sign that reads "Perfect." Please call [redacted] for more info.

http://www.brownricemusic.org
http://www.bauhaus9090.org
http://www.moholy-nagy.org http://www.epitonic.com/artists/guillermogregorio.html
http://www.notations21.net/viewscores.html
http://www.myspace.com/auristrio
http://www.myspace.com/alexwing
http://www.joshuamanchester.com

↑ Index

268. CA Conrad

Giovanni's Room Bookstore VERY IMPORTANT PLEASE READ! HELP IS NEEDED!

Sun 19 Jul 2009

This post with photos and links is also at PhillySound:
http://phillysound.blogspot.com/2009_07_01_archive.html

Giovanni's Room
345 South 12th St. (corner of 12th & Pine Sts.)
Philadelphia, PA 19107
215/[redacted]
[redacted]
http://www.queerbooks.com

GIOVANNI'S ROOM BOOKSTORE in Philadelphia is the world's largest Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgendered, Feminist bookstore. The catalog of titles it holds for us is staggering, and no where in any brick and mortar store, independent or corporate, can we find all these titles together to browse whenever we want, to purchase whenever we want. I worked at the store for nearly 7 years, and its importance for LGBT and feminist readers around the world was something I felt, and took seriously when it was felt.

While independent bookstores have been disappearing, none have been disappearing as quickly as queer/feminist bookstores. Corporate bookstores WILL NOT carry ALL these titles for you to discover. I remember a woman coming into the store who was 78 years old, and had been married, had children, and was now wanting to come out of the closet. The Coming Out section of books is unlike any other in the world, and I also showed her the video NITRATE KISSES. I forget what she purchased, but I remember feeling, truly feeling the importance of Giovanni's Room Bookstore at helping create a place for this woman who was older than my grandmothers.

The store has survived MANY tough times, including bricks being thrown through the windows. The bricks from these hate crimes now line the owner's garden. Edwin Hermance, Skip, and all their amazing staff and volunteers are facing an enormous crisis. Major reconstruction is about to take place on the store's one wall, and it will cost A LOT of money. Edwin and Skip and all the staff want you to PLEASE shop at the store to help them in this time of need. IF THERE ARE BOOKS YOU WANT but cannot find, they WILL order them for you. Below is a note from Edwin Hermance with many more details. Please shop at Giovanni's Room, for all our sake! CAConrad

---

from Edwin Hermance, owner of Giovanni's Room Bookstore

Giovanni's Room, the oldest independent LGBT bookstore in the United States today, needs your help and support to survive. Our 12th St. wall, which is structurally unsound, must be taken down and rebuilt from the ground up; construction will begin by sometime in August. The cost of this renovation, roughly $50,000, will not be easily paid; independent bookstores, lgbt bookstores included, have never been that profitable. Our store's success is measured by the people Giovanni's Room has helped in an almost limitless number of ways and by the exposure we have given to authors and publishers, filmmakers and musicians.

This will be a delicate time in the store's history. We need your support more than ever, and the store will remain open during the construction. Here is what we are asking you to do:

*Continue to shop at Giovanni's Room despite the challenges.
*Order in person, online, by email, and by phone.
*Show your support!

We have often faced adversity. In the beginning, in 1973, we had hardly any books to sell and the store was staffed 100% by volunteers. When homophobic landlords evicted us from the Spruce Street location and no one, on a major street, would rent to Giovanni's Room, we were able to raise the down payment for the current location by borrowing from you, our customers. Over 100 volunteers helped renovate the building to make the beautiful space we have occupied since 1979.

Now, at this defining juncture, we have formed a Committee that will be addressing fundraising, volunteers, special community and author events, and other activities to help meet the cost of this repair.

Keep gay heritage alive. Volunteer your time - make a financial pledge! Your support to Giovanni's Room will help us survive our 36th year.

Edwin Hermance

HOPE YOU MAKE IT OVER TO GIOVANNI'S ROOM! LET'S KEEP THIS PLACE ALIVE!
CAConrad

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

269. David Chirot
Re: poets barred
Sun 19 Jul 2009

Dear mIEKAL:

many thanks for forwarding this there is the example of the Guantanamo Poets, whose works went through along and literally "tortuous process" including which poems were cleared and how they were translated;the poems were done by order of the Army by non-literary translators. Every attempt was made to suppress anything that might in any way be considered to be carrying hidden messages to the outside world. Poetry after al with "poetic language" which can be interpreted many different ways, would seem to be a possible way of spreading propaganda or messages to relatives, organized groups,journalists, etc. here are two essay/reviews which are re the Guantanamo and a flickr of visual poetry

Death from this Window/Doors of Guantanamo --*
**
*http://www.flickr.com/photos/chirotzer0/sets/72157618302466170/
42 items | 0 viewsvisual-sonic-visceral poetry

David-Baptiste Chirot: "Waterboarding &
Poetry"<http://www.wordforword.info/vol13/dbc.htm>

Wordforword #13 Spring 2008
(also has Visual Poetry by chirot)

Kaurab Translation Site
Poems from Guantánamo
The Detainees Speak
David Baptite Chirot
<http://www.kaurab.com/english/books/guantanamo.html>

in the US in the last few years a very large number of cultural events been canceled or forced to find other homes, if possible--predominately anything Palestinian or connected with Palestine-Israel and exhibitions like that of a Jewish Cultural center in Chicago which are perceived by a person or group that finds anything remotely "critical of Israel" being expressed.(outside the US called "the New McCarthyism"

This is a report of Opening Night for this year's Palestinian Festival of Literature in Jerusalem. The Closing Night--the poets toured in between--was also banned; the British Consulate intervened and the Festival continued in their Consulate.

also at my blog there are videos, photostream, morei nformations on the poets and their tour- several of the poets are Palestinian-Americans living in the US--there are also interviews with the poets

On opposite sides of the world, two"democracies" are banning not only poetry but many other kinds of "Free Speech"-- below is the tittle and address for a post that arrived today from Jewish Peace Mews--two articles and a great many links--re the trials of the outspoken in many different areas of life and the stifling of Free Speech within Israel--

the reason given in UK, USA, Israel and many other countries for an "assault" on their own laws regarding Freedom of Expression as well as breaking International Laws to forbid freedom of Expression in other countries-- the reason always given is "Security" to make YOU more secure --the State will dispossess YOU of increasingly more rights-- making "more secure" the individual citizen is effectively finding a way to secure them with a "security state"--the population as a whole becomes prisoners of the State controlling their lives-

Monday, May 25, 2009 Palfest 09: Culture vs. Power The Guardian reports today that armed Israeli police last night tried to halt the opening night of the Palestinian Festival of Literature, organised by Ahdaf Soueif, when they ordered a Palestinian theatre in East Jerusalem to close, claiming that the festival - which is funded by the British Council and UNESCO - had received funding from the Palestinian Authority. Soueif writes on Palfest's author blog http://www.palfest.org/authorsblog.html <http://www.palfest.org/authorsblog.html>(referring to a famous phrase of Edward Said's): Today, my friends, we saw the clearest example of our mission: to confront the culture of power with the power of culture. Authority. Soueif writes on Palfest's author blog<http://www.palfest.org/authorsblog.html>(referring to a famous phrase of Edward Said's):

Today, my friends, we saw the clearest example of our mission: to confront the culture of power with the power of culture.

Despite attempts to prevent the sharing and transmission of culture, Palfest is using all the communications tools at its disposal to reach out -- for videos, photos, blogs and other Palfest updates go here<http://www.palfest.org/connect.html>.
Here's a video from the opening night:
Rela Mazali: The criminal investigation of New Profile and freedom of expressionhttp:// davidbaptistechirot.blogspot.com/2009/07/rela-mazali-criminal-investigation-of.html

On Fri, Jul 17, 2009 at 1:44 PM, mIEKAL aND <[redacted]> wrote:

> Apparently UK is starting to adopt US-style profiling in the name of terrorism...
>
> Begin forwarded message:
>
> From: GILES GOODLAND <[redacted]>
> Date: July 17, 2009 1:39:56 PM CDT
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: poets barred
> Reply-To: British & Irish poets <[redacted]>
>
> This made me cross, and want to cry:
>
> http://www.ledburyreporter.co.uk/news/4498396.Top_poets_denied_entry_to_UK_for_festival/

↑ Index

270. Troy Camplin
Re: spiritual materialism
Sun 19 Jul 2009

Troy Cam
My book Diaphysics is precisely about spiritual matierialism.

Troy Camplin

_____
From: Christopher Rizzo <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]

Sent: Monday, July 6, 2009 3:08:12 PM
Subject: Re: spiritual materialism

I'm finding this string really quite interesting. Glad to hear evidence of such a wide-ranging interest.

Aryanil, much thanks for reminding me of Whitman and Tagore. I'm tempted to add Pound to that set, too.

There are a few significant differences between, say, Olson and Whitman. Briefly, Olson's cosmology took the philosophy of mathematics, quantum mechanics, and Cybernetic theory (which turns into information theory, really) into account, as well as the phenomenology of Merleau-Ponty, etc.

For sure, there are similarities to Whitman, but I figured (perhaps too hastily?) that a post-Heisenberg view of reality might key into Jim's ideas a bit more readily.

As for Eastern approaches to spirituality, perhaps one of the more interesting bits in Olson is his use of the first line from Wilhelm's translation of The Secret of the Golden Flower: "That which exists through itself is what is called meaning." And it is useful to note that Whilhelm translates "meaning" with a capital "M" (suggesting Tao), whereas Olson uses the term in lower-case.

Simply (and reductively), Olson uses the line to indicate something closer to autopoiesis than Logos, or rather the One. Creeley explains that one consequence of all this is that language is not "importantly" referential. Still provocative, I think.

And, Chris, as for Benjamin, I'm thinking of his use of "nunc stans," in particular, and what uses it may have in this context....

Anyway, just a few thoughts.

Bests,
Chris

On Mon, Jul 6, 2009 at 1:47 PM, Jonathan Ball <[redacted]> wrote:

> Some of these ideas might approach the way Slavoj Zizek reads the Hegelian paradox that "the spirit is a bone" .... I am travelling without any books and so I can't say much more or even verify my quote etc but your the Olson quote brings this idea to mind, in light of the previous email.
>
> Jonathan Ball
>
> On Sun, Jul 5, 2009 at 10:29 PM, Christopher Rizzo <[redacted] wrote:
>
> Jim,

Interesting post. Are you familiar with Charles Olson's work? In a conversation with Herbert Kenny, 1969, Olson says "I mean something I believe we possess crucially. I think our body is our soul. And if you don't have your body as a factor of creation, you don't have a soul." Olson articulates the same idea at other times, too.

In any event, an explanation of the above would prove lengthy, so please feel free to backchannel me if you're so inclined. I'm writing two books on Olson at the moment.

[redacted]

Bests,
Chris

On Sun, Jul 5, 2009 at 3:41 PM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

> it is commonly observed that a great deal of contemporary art/writing involves a double sense of 'the material'. the term is understood to refer not only to the subject matter (the 'standard' understanding in writing) but also the matter of the media in the piece, the material embodiment of the piece. it's also commonly observed that the latter awareness of and approach to composition not solely by ideation, meditation on the subject matter, but also through operation on the material embodiment, has come to be much more widely understood as a part of reading than it was a generation ago. when we encounter work that does not follow the grammars and approaches traditionally associated with work, we inquire into the methods of composition, the approach to materiality, and look for relations between those methods and approaches and the subject matter, or look for the subject matter in the light of those things. and so read differently, thereby. and in this way, we now read some literary work in ways that are closer to how

we approach a great deal of visual art.

but what i want to get at is something that isn't so commonly observed, at the moment, but may be in the next generation. and that's the relation of awareness of the materiality of writing/art to our ideas of who and what we are. that's erm awkwardly stated. what i'm trying to get at is this. the whole emphasis on materiality is involved in a larger movement to explore how things like ideation, imagination, the spiritual, beauty, truth, goodness, justice--all our ideals and things normally associated with the immaterial--operate in the material world.

in this sense, we might say that the whole contemporary awareness of materiality in art is part of a larger ah spiritual materialism. i googled that term, after it occurred to me, and i assure you i'm using it in a different sense than chögyam trungpa, who uses it "to describe mistakes spiritual seekers commit which turn the pursuit of spiritualism into an ego building and confusion creating endeavor" (wikipedia). instead, i'm refering to a relatively common sort of philosophy in which the material substrate of ideation and even the spiritual is affirmed and its relations with even the flightiest of fancies are explored. not to denigrate or dismiss things like spirituality but to explore how they operate materially.

perhaps more evidently, now, this is also related to philosophies of mind in which the materiality of thought itself is affirmed--as a chemical and informational process, however emergent--and the brain and the mind that emerge from its processes are conceived as fully embodied in the material. so that the idea of being able to create thinking machines (however unlike us) becomes a real possibility. and we are conceptualized as nature's (near?) ultimate machines. and machines are conceptualized not as the

> simple
> things we once thought they must be but as often very complex biological > creatures that, nonetheless, are embodied in the material world and are,
> therefore, subject to the constraints and possibilities of machines in the
> material world.
>
> to wrap it up, we now see the relation between contemporary artistic emphasis on the materiality of writing/art and the larger moment of 'spiritual materialism'.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
> guidelines
>
> guidelines
>
> --
> www.jonathanball.com
> www.jonathanball.blogspot.com
> www.haikuhoroscopes.com

↑ Index

271. Camille Martin
new on Rogue Embryo's blog
Mon 20 Jul 2009

New on Rogue Embryo
http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

Alberta Turner: What do you mean, mean?
the air blanked out. it had been seen on its mind.
Empty Lawns and Battered Days: Rupert Loydell’s “Slow-Motion” Extreme Inefficiency: The Way Things Go (film by Peter Fischli and David Weiss)
Signs of Rita
Hypnagogic Dreams: John Franklin’s Fig Newton on a Piano Stool

Previously:

- Serendipity and the Felon: Jiri Kolar, Emmet Gowin, and the Cortical Iceberg
- Laura Jensen: Degrees of Separation from Bad Boats
- If the needle is a poem, then what is the fang?
- Camille Martin’s upcoming events
- e.ratio Sonnets: Nathan Thompson and Camille Martin
- Anselm Hollo’s Heavy Jars: “Hard to say whether the jars’ve gotten any lighter.”
- Rae Armantrout’s Waves of Punchlines
- A False Start: T. S. Eliot, Snoopy, and the Artist's Statement

and more . . .

Camille Martin
http://www.camillemartin.ca
http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

↑ Index

272. Jonathan Ball
Re: Poetry and Failure
Mon 20 Jul 2009

Hello, lady people! Pigeons are good.
Winter is good. Stoolpigeons are good--- thought they're in league with the government, trying to kill all spontaneity.
Hello everyone! Time to start losing.
Losing is good. Losing is what we came here to do, and it's going quite well, thanks for asking.

--- Kevin Connolly, from "Counterpane"

↑ Index

273. Michael Kelleher
Literary Buffalo E-Newsletter 07.20.09-07.26.09
Mon 20 Jul 2009

LITERARY BUFFALO
07.20.09-07.26.09

MEMBER EVENT: JUST BUFFALO GOES TO THE BALLPARK!

FRIDAY AUGUST 14TH, 7:35 P.M.
COCA COLA FIELD

SECTION 106 (FIRST BASE SIDE BEHIND HOME PLATE)
275 WASHINGTON STREET BUFFALO, NY

ADMISSION FREE FOR CURRENT JUST BUFFALO MEMBERS
Guests and children $10
Children under 3 FREE
35 Seats Available
RSVP REQUIRED!
Please call [redacted] to reserve yours!

I see great things in baseball.Ë‡ It's our game - the American game.

-Walt Whitman, poet

This isn't a poetry reading. This is baseball.

-Ed Adamczyk, writer & village historian of Kenmore

BABEL

Most Innovative Arts Programming (Any Artform)
Buffalo Spree Magazine's Best of Buffalo 2009 Award

BABEL 2009-2010 SEASON SUBSCRIPTIONS ON SALE NOW!

October 9, A.S. Byatt
November 20, Ha Jin
March 5, Azar Nafisi
April 16, Salman Rushdie

Previous Subscriber: $85
New Subscriber: $110
These subscriptions include general admission seating at all 4 events.

Patron: $275
Patron Pair: $450
Patron level subscriptions include VIP reserved seating and admission to all pre-event author receptions.

Purchase subscriptions now at http://www.justbuffalo.org/babel or by phone at [redacted].

EVENTS THIS WEEK

All events free and open to the public unless otherwise noted. For more detailed information and a complete listing of furute events, please visit the Literary Buffalo web calendar:

http://www.justbuffalo.org/index.php?task=view&id=22

07.22.09

Talking Leaves Books
Catherine Parker and Roland Martin
Performance/Book signing for: A Rose Beside The Water
Wednesday, July 22, 7:00 PM
Talking Leaves Books, 3158 Main St.

JUST BUFFALO MEMBER s WRITER CRITIQUE GROUP

The member writer critique group meets 1st and 3rd Tuesdays at the Market Arcade. The critique group WILL continue to meet all summer long.

Click here for more info:

http://www.justbuffalo.org/media/pdf/CritiqueGroup0409.pdf

UNSUBSCRIBE

If you would like to unsubscribe from this list, just say so and you will immediately be removed. _____

Michael Kelleher
Artistic Director
Just Buffalo Literary Center
Market Arcade
617 Main St., Ste. 202A
Buffalo, NY 14203
[redacted]
[redacted] (fax)
www.justbuffalo.org
[redacted]

↑ Index

274. Sam Truitt
Re: Poetry and Failure
Mon 20 Jul 2009

Right - many thanks - that's the terrific saying - with the triple understanding of "nothing" as no correspondence outside itself - no purpose - it doesn't do anything except what it does - not causal - it's intransitive (as came up) and so the PLEASURE (also come up) is in and of itself - what Williams said, "If it's not a pleasure it's not a poem" - and then "nothing" as an IMPOSSIBILITY - as even a vacuum has a form, or there is a meeting - and so one can keep saying - or trying, as somebody said - but one fails - one FALLS, which is the cadence (dance) and Cage's chance too (both from the Latin "cadere" - to fall). That

"nothing" is like Cage's SILENCE, an experiential impossibility - it's a concept - going back to the vacuum - as he discovered entering in a sound-proof chamber and heard the hum of his nervous system. That there is an inside. So, what's the point of saying - speaking or writing - except the pleasure and the finding, measuring, how things fall out, arrange themselves, in language or any other symbolic system... I have found personally it's to put myself into a situation in which I can no harm. Celine said someplace that there are two kinds of poets: those that write and those that don't, noting the latter are more happy. And maybe if you don't try you can't fail... I don't know if that Ridingly true, but it does seem to have something to do with self - that very thing that seems in a situation of composition necessary to be out of - as self is "separate" - it's critical, divides: you lose the whole - and there is one, just as there is nothing, too - we sense - like "the hub of a wheel, the immobile center that makes rotation possible." But the fail is a pleasure - it gets at the root of how we are - the risk - as someplace I heard we are born with two instincts: reaction to loud noises and fear of falling.

----- Original Message ----
From: Halvard Johnson <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2009 4:33:44 PM
Subject: Re: Poetry and Failure

"I have nothing to say and am saying it, and that is poetry." --John Cage (more or less)

Hal

"A paranoid is someone who knows a little of what's going on."
--William S. Burroughs

Halvard Johnson
==========
[redacted]
http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org

On Fri, Jul 17, 2009 at 1:23 PM, Sam Truitt <[redacted]> wrote:

> "You can say anything in prose, so poetry should be reserved for saying nothing"
> (Khlebnikov), like the soul, lost at the xroads.

----- Original Message ----
From: Nicholas Piombino <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Thursday, July 16, 2009 11:46:21 PM
Subject: Re: Poetry and Failure

"Opens magazine several times at the fact that poetry is at crossroads."

F. Scott Fitzgerald (from "The Notebooks", in "The Crack Up", edited by Edmund Wilson)

On 7/16/09 6:28 PM, "Sam Truitt" <[redacted]> wrote:

Is this thread I'm surprised not to see Laura Riding (Jackson) hasn't come up
- her sentiment as nailed by posthumous title THE FAILURE OF POETRY, THE PROMISE OF LANGUAGE (ed. John Nolan) underscored by her giving up poems in the late 1930's - tied to truth, to being true - but she writes someplace (her essay on Stein maybe?):

Â³Å if poetry had all subjects taken away from it,
there was one subject of which poetry could not be deprived, namely, that poetry had come to an end. Here was an ingenious method for indefinitely postponing the end of poetryÅ since poetry was to write about nothing, it could write about everything from the standpoint of nothing; it could still have its epic without the burden of having to have convictions about it.Â²

----- Original Message ----
From: carol dorf <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Thursday, July 16, 2009 9:22:50 AM
Subject: Re: Poetry and Failure

Hard to say where one "poem" ends and the next begins.

Don't forget pleasure -- pleasure in language, pleasure in structuring the
"poem," referencing experience.

> (Almost all of reading, for me; and a good part of my writing.)
>
> On Wed, Jul 15, 2009 at 11:56 AM, Elizabeth Switaj <[redacted]>
> wrote:
>
> Do we continue to write poetry because it ultimately fails to do what
> we
> hope it might or should?
>
> That may be so for some and certainly is why I continue to write a* > poem,*
> but other than that I continue writing because those hopes shift and are
> various.
>
> Is the "failure of poetry" a failure of language, or poetics?
>
> Yes.
>
> guidelines
>
> guidelines &
>
> guidelines &

↑ Index

275. steve russell

Re: spiritual materialism

Mon 20 Jul 2009

---

sounds sort of similiar to dianetics, or scientology in drag. cynical, ugh, me. ---
On Sun, 7/19/09, Troy Camplin <[redacted]> wrote:

> From: Troy Camplin <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: spiritual materialism
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Sunday, July 19, 2009, 9:46 PM

Troy Cam
My book Diaphysics is precisely about spiritual matierialism.

Troy Camplin

From: Christopher Rizzo <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Monday, July 6, 2009 3:08:12 PM
Subject: Re: spiritual materialism

I'm finding this string really quite interesting. Glad to hear evidence of such a wide-ranging interest.

Aryanil, much thanks for reminding me of Whitman and Tagore. I'm tempted to add Pound to that set, too.

There are a few significant differences between, say, Olson and Whitman. Briefly, Olson's cosmology took the philosophy of mathematics, quantum mechanics, and Cybernetic theory (which turns into information theory, really) into account, as well as the phenomenology of Merleau-Ponty, etc.

For sure, there are similarities to Whitman, but I figured (perhaps too hastily?) that a post-Heisenberg view of reality might key into Jim's ideas a bit more readily.

As for Eastern approaches to spirituality, perhaps one of the more interesting bits in Olson is his use of the first line from Wilhelm's translation of The Secret of the Golden Flower: "That which exists through itself is what is called meaning." And it is useful to note that Whilhelm translates "meaning" with a capital "M" (suggesting Tao), whereas Olson uses > the term in lower-case.

>
> Simply (and reductively), Olson uses the line to indicate something closer > to autopoiesis than Logos, or rather the One. Creeley explains that one > consequence of all this is that language is not "importantly" referential.
> Still provocative, I think.
>
> And, Chris, as for Benjamin, I'm thinking of his use of "nunc stans," in > particular, and what uses it may have in this context....
>
> Anyway, just a few thoughts.
>
> Bests,
> Chris
>
> On Mon, Jul 6, 2009 at 1:47 PM, Jonathan Ball <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Some of these ideas might approach the way Slavoj Zizek reads the Hegelian > paradox that "the spirit is a bone" .... I am travelling without any books > and so I can't say much more or even verify my quote etc but your the Olson > quote brings this idea to mind, in light of the previous email.
>
> Jonathan Ball
>
> On Sun, Jul 5, 2009 at 10:29 PM, Christopher Rizzo <[redacted] wrote:
>
> Jim,
>
> Interesting post. Are you familiar with Charles Olson's work? In a > conversation with Herbert Kenny, 1969, Olson says "I mean something I > believe we possess crucially. I think our body is our soul. And if you don't > have your body as a factor of creation, you don't have a soul." Olson articulates the same idea at other times, too.

In any event, an explanation of the above would prove lengthy, so please feel free to backchannel me if you're so inclined. I'm writing two books
on Olson at the moment.

[redacted]

Bests,
Chris

On Sun, Jul 5, 2009 at 3:41 PM, Jim Andrews
<[redacted]>
wrote:

> it is commonly observed that a great deal
of contemporary art/writing
involves a double sense of 'the material'.
the term is understood to refer
not only to the subject matter (the
'standard' understanding in writing)
but
also the matter of the media in the piece,
the material embodiment of
the piece. it's also commonly observed that the latter awareness of and
approach
to composition not solely by ideation, meditation on the subject
matter,
but also through operation on the material embodiment, has come to be much
more widely understood as a part of reading than it was a generation ago.
when
we encounter work that does not follow the grammars and approaches
traditionally associated with work, we inquire into the methods of

composition, the approach to materiality,
and look for relations between those methods and approaches and the subject matter, or look for the subject
matter in the light of those things. and so read differently, thereby.
and
in this way, we now read some literary work
in ways that are closer to
how
we approach a great deal of visual art.

but what i want to get at is something that isn't so commonly observed,
at
the moment, but may be in the next generation. and that's the relation
of awareness of the materiality of writing/art
to our ideas of who and what
we
are. that's erm awkwardly stated. what i'm trying to get at is this.
the whole emphasis on materiality is involved in a larger movement to explore how things like ideation, imagination, the
spiritual, beauty, truth,
goodness, justice--all our ideals and things
normally associated with
the
immaterial--operate in the material world.

in this sense, we might say that the whole
contemporary awareness of materiality in art is part of a larger ah spiritual materialism. i googled
that term, after it occurred to me, and i assure you i'm using it in a different sense than chögyam trungpa, who uses it "to describe mistakes spiritual seekers commit which turn the pursuit of spiritualism into an ego

building and confusion creating endeavor" (wikipedia). instead, i'm refering
to a relatively common sort of philosophy in which the material
substrate
of ideation and even the spiritual is affirmed and its relations with even
the flightiest of fancies are explored. not to denigrate or dismiss things like spirituality but to explore how they operate materially.

perhaps more evidently, now, this is also related to philosophies of mind
in which the materiality of thought itself is affirmed--as a chemical
and informational process, however emergent--and the brain and the mind
that emerge from its processes are conceived as fully embodied in the material.
so that the idea of being able to create thinking machines (however unlike
us) becomes a real possibility. and we are conceptualized as nature's (near?) ultimate machines. and machines are conceptualized not as the simple things we once thought they must be but as often very complex
biological creatures that, nonetheless, are embodied in the material world and
are,
therefore, subject to the constraints and possibilities of machines in
the
material world.

> to wrap it up, we now see the relation > between contemporary artistic
> emphasis on the materiality of writing/art
> and the larger moment of
> 'spiritual materialism'.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
> accept all posts. Check
> guidelines
>
> accept all posts. Check
> guidelines
>
> --
> www.jonathanball.com
> www.jonathanball.blogspot.com
> www.haikuhoroscopes.com
>
> all posts. Check guidelines

↑ Index

276. steve russell

Re: I want to write fiction but ...

Mon 20 Jul 2009

---

chili

you know a little goes l o n gest

once you b u r
p

--- On Sat, 7/18/09, George Bowering <[redacted]> wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Saturday, July 18, 2009, 4:23 PM
I used to think that the chili at Tim Hortons is pretty good,
but you get tired of it soon.

gb

On Jul 17, 2009, at 6:20 PM, steve russell wrote:

who complained about the usual widening/widening of the topic?Â
Writing fiction/poetry, the bible,Â and now chili half/smokes. jeez

--- On Fri, 7/17/09, Patrick Dillon <[redacted]>
wrote:

From: Patrick Dillon <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 17, 2009, 9:18 AM

The chili dogs at Benâ€™s Chili Bowl, overrated.
Ben's, btw, is

The chili dogs at Benâ€™s Chili Bowl, overrated.
Ben's, btw, isÂ
mentioned a few times in a couple of the Pelecanos novels.

Ben's is famous for chili half smokes, not chili dogs (but theyÂ serve both).
And it's obviously famous for reasons unrelated to food.

On Thu, Jul 16, 2009 at 3:31 PM, steve russellÂ
<[redacted]>wrote:

> The chili dogs at Benâ€™s Chili Bowl, overrated.
> Ben's, btw, is
>
> The chili dogs at Benâ€™s Chili Bowl, overrated.
> Ben's, btw, isÂ
> mentioned a
> few times in a couple of the Pelecanos novels.
>
> --- On Tue, 7/14/09, George Bowering <[redacted]>
> wrote:
>
> From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Tuesday, July 14, 2009, 3:50 PM
>
> I recommend the Florida Street Cafe in DC for > scrapple.
>
> gb
>
> On Jul 14, 2009, at 3:11 AM, steve russell wrote:
>
> Â Â Â but Pelacanos, the wire > producer,Â writes novels. they're setÂ > in d.c.
> --- On Mon, 7/13/09, George Bowering <[redacted]>
> wrote:
>
> From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction but
> ...
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Monday, July 13, 2009, 5:07 PM
> Oh boy, Baltimore.
> The crab cakes at the Lexington Market the > best anywhere.
>
> gb
>
> On Jul 13, 2009, at 11:32 AM, Mary Kasimor
> wrote:
>
> I am a The Wire addict. It takes place > in Baltimore.

mary

--- On Sun, 7/12/09, steve russell
<[redacted]>
wrote:

From: steve russell <[redacted]> Subject: Re: I want to write fiction
but ...
To: [redacted]
Date: Sunday, July 12, 2009, 1:04 PM

Sure, and why not throw in the Goddamn bible. I mean, hell, what is the bible? Narrative? Epic poetry? I'm thinking mostly of the Old Testament, of course.Â As for "The Wire, " I'm a big fan of crime fiction, and George Pelacanos is the main producer of "The Wire." Indeed, in the broad sense of the term (...poet...), why not include
Pelacanos as a poet of the streets of
Washington, D.C.?
Perhaps Q Taratino is the poet of video store clerks, if not their saint. Why not talk about failed poets who turned to fiction after their bout with poetry.
Consider William
Faulkner. As for cartoonist, I have no problem calling E Gorey, or evenÂ Mr. peanuts Schultz, a poet. Ugh, what
was the topic???

--- On Sat, 7/11/09, George Bowering
<[redacted]>
wrote:

From: George Bowering <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: I want to write fiction
but ...
To: [redacted]

Date: Saturday, July 11, 2009, 4:01
PM

Here we go;
the usual widening and widening of the topic until we can include everything, such as L'il Abner
and,oh, The Wire.

gb

On Jul 10, 2009, at 6:36 PM, Jonathan Morse wrote:

steve russell wrote:
there are a few singular talents who've managed to create 1st rate work in fiction, poetry, and drama as well as the essay. Consider Denis Johnson, or Jim
Harrison, or the late Thomas Dish.
Goethe. Rilke. Hardy. Hugo. If you'll accept
non-fiction, you can add Yeats and Dryden.
If you count
letters as imaginative literature, and why shouldn't you?, you can add Keats and Dickinson. Think big.

Jonathan Morse

& does not accept all posts. Check guidelines &

George B.
Author of his own misfortunes.

does not accept
all posts. Check guidelines &

does not accept
all posts. Check guidelines &

does not accept
all posts. Check guidelines &

George "Whip" Bowering
No slugging average to speak of.

not accept all info: http://epc.buffalo.edu/

accept all posts. Check
welcome.html

George H. Bowering, OC
Dull as dishwater.

accept all posts. CheckÂ
guidelines

accept all posts. CheckÂ
guidelines

all posts. CheckÂ
welcome.html

> all posts. CheckÂ
> welcome.html
>
> GB
> Under electronic surveillance.

↑ Index

277. Jim Andrews
Re: spiritual materialism
Mon 20 Jul 2009

---

i'm sure 'spiritual materialism' could mean any number of um things. that's part of its poetical if not philosophical appeal, as poetry is the art of being profoundly vague. so one doesn't like to 'disambiguate' too strongly.

however, here's a bit more about what i had in mind. others will have their own, different notions of what it might mean.

many of us, as writers and/or artists or whatever, find ourselves working with 'the material' in ways that we weren't earlier on. with less emphasis on transcribing our 'inner thoughts and feelings' and more emphasis on what the words are saying. and yes there are often things we want to get them to say, if we can (like now), but we observe that not only are we not entirely clear what that might be, until we find the words, but that even when we do, they aren't quite what we thought they might be and are often better as something we didn't anticipate at all via not mindless manipulation of symbols but through a process of writerly/artistic discovery that involves mind and mindless, material and material, material and spiritual. via engaging with the material both in an objective manner, as things on a page subject to choice and cutup, random and thoughtful selection...and all the compositional techniques we use.

and this different engagement with 'the material' is part of what i had in mind as a kind of materialism. of course the term 'materialism' has a very interesting history going back to Indian and Greek atomism and into the contemporary world in many different ways. usually the 'material' is atomistic. matter. a philosophy of the composition of matter and the generation of the ten thousand things.

only recently has it been associated with consumerist zeal and denials of the importance of feelings, emotions, and so on. a blip on the map.

usually there's a scientistic element, often a strong one, to materialisms. they often seek to apply an occam-like razor to eliminate assumptions that are not required or attribute causes to supernatural agents. materialisms usually do their darndest to appeal only to reason and material evidence in their theories.

but of course, as artists, we are by no means in the bizness of appealing solely to reason. we don't produce many theories of the universe and everything but, instead, are basically wordy minstrels singing into the black hole of mind and media. and, for lack of a better word, there is a 'spiritual' dimension to what we talk about, what we do, how we go about it, and so on. emotion, feeling, mood, tone, connotation, subjectivity, all these are normally important to art.

yet our approach, or the approach of many of us, to writing and/or art or whatever, in our current age, does involve this 'materialism' i mentioned that does indeed have a scientistic dimension in that we do try to keep our eye somewhat objectively not on what we ourselves are feeling and thinking about what we're creating but on what others might also get from it and, beyond that, in our approach to working with the material as recombinant, as involved in the processes of network cutup, reassembly, and our sources of the material can be spam or texts recovered from net searches or whatever and our methods of composition can involve the algorithmic and so on. kedrick james's term for all this is 'writing post-person'.

but, even so, we are not so much interested in creating interesting language machines as in the human appeal of these machines made out of words. so that a contemporary, writerly materialism usually involves some sort of meditation on our relations with language and machines. not to dehumanize but to locate and explore our humanity in relation to mind and mindlessness, the intention and the unintended, the machine and the human.

there's that kurzweil book 'the age of spiritual machines'. with emphasis on artificial intelligence. and that's interesting, but typically our emphasis is not on artificial intelligence but on our own intelligence extended, changed, dwarfed, zoomed, augmented, pounded, filtered, twittered, frittered, coerced, directed, freed, drugged, blasted, spliced, diced, googled, ogled, bamboozled, frugalled, layered, informationalized, playered, stirred, blurred, penetrated, iconized, infiltrated, visualized, datafied, search enginized, tokenized, blip bopified, ding donglered and piece-wise transformed via our engagement with language and contemporary language environments. our own intelligences are somewhat artificial. and we operate in a material combinatorium of language not as in a meaningless concourse of atoms but in our own very purposefully processual cyclotrons, intent upon both the material and energy of its release.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

278. Mary Kasimor
Re: Tough economy - insight?
Mon 20 Jul 2009

I have not read everything in insidehighered, but I think that what I said was misunderstood by you, based on what I did read. I am not saying that careers are doing well in higher ed. I am saying that there are adjunct semester by semester jobs available because when the economy is bad, people go back to college. I am talking about surivival mode, not tenure. I am now a tenured instructor at a technical/community college in the midwest. We are not currently hiring tenure track positions, but I can say that we will be hiring adjunct positions. I have done the adjunct route, and I know that it is not ideal and I know that it is very frustrating for people with PhDs. (I have two lowly Master's degrees from a state university.) However, I do know that adjunct teaching is a better position than selling shoes at Kohl's, which was another option for me about 12 years ago. I can also understand that working as an adjunct and wondering if your bills will be paid causes a great deal of stress because I have also dealt with that stress. I was supporting my two children and myself from semester to semester with very little child support from their dad ($100/month). In a very bad economy, I am saying that it is better than many other possible scenarios. Sometimes you just have to suck it up. Mary

--- On Sat, 7/18/09, Jonathan Morse <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Jonathan Morse <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Tough economy - insight?
To: [redacted]
Date: Saturday, July 18, 2009, 2:53 PM

Mary Kasimor wrote:
> My understanding is that colleges and universities are doing well during the bad economy.
Ye gods, Mary. No they aren't. Subscribe (free) to http://www.insidehighered.com to learn how misinformed you've been.

Jonathan Morse
University of Hawaii

↑ Index

279. Jennifer Karmin
July 25 & 26: Wisconsin Readings
Mon 20 Jul 2009

SATURDAY, JULY 25

Poets:
QURAYSH ALI LANSANA
JENNIFER KARMIN

Musicians:
AUSTIN SPIKA
I HAVE THREE HANDS

6pm at Blueberries Cafe
515 Sixth Street
Racine, Wisconsin

BONK! series
sponsored by the Racine Public Library http://bonkperformanceseries.wordpress.com

SUNDAY, JULY 26

Poets:
ANDY GRICEVICH
JENNIFER KARMIN

2pm at Avol's Bookstore
315 West Gorham Street
Madison, Wisconsin
http://www.avolsbooks.com

@@@

Madison, Wisconsin. He very rarely, and with extensive discomfort, blogs at ndgwriting.blogspot.com.

JENNIFER KARMINâ€™s text-sound epic Aaaaaaaaaaalice will be published by Flim Forum Press in 2009. She curates the Red Rover Series and is a founding member of the public art group Anti Gravity Surprise. Her multidisciplinary projects have been presented nationally at festivals, artist-run spaces, and on city streets.Â Jennifer teaches creative writing to immigrants at Truman College and works as a Poet in Residence for the Chicago Public Schools. Recent poems are published in the journals Cannot Exist, MoonLit, Otoliths, and anthologized in Come Together: Imagine Peace(Bottom Dog Press), Not A Muse (Haven Books), and The City Visible: Chicago Poetry for the New Century (Cracked Slab Books).

AUSTIN SPIKA is recognized as an outstanding percussionist in a variety of musical genres, having received numerous awards and recognitions throughout his young career.Â In 2007, CL Barnhouse published Rim Shot, Spikaâ€™s first concert band/parade snare composition co-written with Donald Young.Â He has been involved with many musical organizations in the Racine and Milwaukee areas including three award-winning years with the Racine Lighthouse Brigade percussion line, three years with the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee Jazz and Wind Ensembles, and several summers with the Wisconsin Conservatory of Music Jazz Ensembles.Â

↑ Index

280. Vernon Frazer

Please check out the new ROCKPILE Website & Blog at Big Bridge (from Michael Rothenberg)

Tue 21 Jul 2009

ROCKPILE is a collaboration between David Meltzer — poet, musician, essayist, and more — and Michael Rothenberg of Big Bridge Press. David and Michael will journey through eight cities in the U.S. to perform poetry and prose, composed while on the road, with local musicians and artists in each city. ROCKPILE will serve to educate and preserve as well as to create a history of collaboration. It will help to reinforce the tradition of the troubadour of all generations, central to the cultural upheaval and identity politics that reawakened poets, artists, musicians, and songwriters in the mid-1960s through the 1970s. The project will end with a final multimedia performance celebration in San Francisco.

The ROCKPILE Website & Blog will tell you all you need to know about the ROCKPILE project including performance dates, venues, artist bios and performance clips of some of the musicians we will be meeting and performing with in each of the cities.

Once we hit the road, we will be posting travel photos, journal entries, performance videos, interviews and more, daily, on the ROCKPILE Blog, so log on and join us as we travel around the country. Write us, comment on the blog, and let us know you are with us, let us know you care!

And of course, we hope to see you on the road!

Best,

Michael Rothenberg, David Meltzer, Terri Carrion & Ziggy.

ROCKPILE

www.bigbridge.org/rockpile/

Made possible by a grant from the Creative Work Fund, a program of the Walter and Elise Haas Fund, also supported by generous grants from The William and Flora Hewlett Foundation and The James Irvine Foundation, and support from the Committee on Poetry.

↑ Index

281. George Bowering

Re: A widespread, high-spirited head rush

Wed 22 Jul 2009

Remember when Rashied played instead of Elvin Jones in a quartet that Had Alice instead of Mccoy?

Whew, that was good. Listened to some just today.

gb

On Jul 18, 2009, at 10:34 AM, steve dalachinsky wrote:

> you saw rashied with ayler i'll ask him
> what dya mean ya din't know he did concerts?
> semantics he did a gig 3 sets is that better usage of lingo?
>
> On Fri, 17 Jul 2009 00:47:03 -0700 George Bowering <[redacted]>
> writes:
> I love Rashied Ali. My favourite drummer.
> I heard him with the Aylers around 1967
> Jand I heard him in Vancouver last year.
> I didn't know he did concerts, though.
>
> gb

> On Jul 16, 2009, at 3:23 AM, steve dalachinsky wrote:
>
> rashied ali quintet last nite
> tonite kronos qt
> i go to almost 1 or 2 a nite
> On Thu, 16 Jul 2009 00:11:22 -0700 George Bowering
> <[redacted]>
> writes:
> On Jul 15, 2009, at 6:24 PM, Paul Siegell wrote:
>
> Hi,
>
> What was the last concert you went to?
>
> I guess it was the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra doing > Beethoven's
> Ninth
> and other stuff about 18 months ago.
>
> gb
>
> welcome.html
>
> Geo. H. Bowering
> Adaptable yet reliable.
>
> welcome.html

Geo. H. Bowering
Adaptable yet reliable.

↑ Index

282. David Kirschenbaum
Tues./Boog City presents P-Queue/Queue Books
Wed 22 Jul 2009

please forward

Boog City presents

d.a. levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

Season 6 finale:

P-Queue/Queue Books
(Buffalo, N.Y.)

this Tues., July 28, 6:00 p.m. sharp, free

ACA Galleries
529 W. 20th St., 5th Flr.
NYC

Event will be hosted by
P-Queue/Queue Books editor Andrew Rippeon

Featuring readings from

José Felipe Alvergue
Stephen Collis
Zack Finch
Sueyeun Juliette Lee
Ben Miller

There will be wine, cheese, and crackers, too.

Curated and with an introduction by Boog City editor David Kirschenbaum

---

P-Queue/Queue Books
http://www.p-queue.org/

P-Queue was founded in 2003 by Sarah Campbell with the special intent to investigate the overlaps and departures between the prose line and that of verse. Today P-Queue continues these investigations, while also exploring other such tipping points, including visual-textual, spoken-written, and polemic-poetic. A chapbook series started in 2007, and treats primarily collaborative projects.

Performer Bios

José Felipe Alvergue
http://jacketmagazine.com/36/r-chainlinks-rb-alvergue.shtml

With an M.F.A. from the Cal Arts School of Critical Studies, José Felipe Alvergue is presently a student of the SUNY Buffalo Poetics Program. He is the author of us look up/ there red dwells (Queue Books).

Stephen Collis
http://epc.buffalo.edu/authors/collis/

Stephen Collis is the author of three books of poetry, Mine (New Star); Anarchive (New Star), which was nominated for the Dorothy Livesay Poetry Prize; and The Commons (Talonbooks)—the latter two of which form parts of his on-going "Barricades Project." He is also the author of two book-length studies, Phyllis Webb and the Common Good (Talonbooks) and Through Words of Others: Susan Howe and Anarcho- Scholasticism (ELS Editions). His new book, On the Material (which includes the long poem "4x4") is forthcoming from Talonbooks next year. Long a member of the Kootenay School of Writing, he teaches American literature, poetry, and poetics at Simon Fraser University.

Zack Finch
http://bostonreview.net/BR29.6/finch.php

Zack Finch is a doctoral candidate in the poetics program at the State University of New York at Buffalo and teaches periodically as a visiting lecturer in creative writing at Dartmouth College. His poems and reviews have appeared in journals such as Poetry, American Letters & Commentary, Boston Review, and Tin House.

Sueyeun Juliette Lee
http://corollarypress.blogspot.com/

Sueyeun Juliette Lee lives in Philadelphia, where she edits Corollary Press, a chapbook series devoted to new work by writers of color. Her publications include That Gorgeous Feeling (Coconut Books), and the chapbooks Mental Commitment Robots (Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs), Perfect Villagers (Octopus Books), and Trespass Slightly In (Coconut).

Benjamin Miller

Benjamin Miller has an M.F.A. from CalArts and is a writer and a musician. He lives in NYC.

Directions:
C/E to 23rd St., 1/9 to 18th St.
Venue is bet. 10th and 11th avenues

Next event:

Thurs. Sept. 10
d.a. levy lives: celebrating the renegade press, Season 7 Kick-Off Day 2 of 3rd annual Welcome to Boog City poetry and music festival

Rope-A-Dope Press (South Boston, Mass.)
http://ropeadopebooks.blogspot.com/

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W.28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)

↑ Index

283. steve russell
Re: Tough economy - insight?
Wed 22 Jul 2009

---

i forgot to mention dog walking. & the money is excellent if you can do it free lance. it works in d.c. because many people are workoholics and haven't lives but do have an income and enough guilt to pay someone to walk their dogs. do the arthimitic. one dog per/half hour/15.00 ... add dogs ... evem at a reduced rate ...

--- On Fri, 7/17/09, Mary Kasimor <[redacted]> wrote:

> From: Mary Kasimor <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: Tough economy - insight?
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Friday, July 17, 2009, 2:56 PM
> My understanding is that colleges and > universities are doing well during the bad economy. If your > friends have MA's or MFA's, I suggest that they talk to the > chairs in the English or other departments that they are > qualified to teach in.
>
> --- On Fri, 7/17/09, amy king <[redacted]>
> wrote:
>
> From: amy king <[redacted]>
> Subject: Tough economy - insight?
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Friday, July 17, 2009, 1:47 PM
>
> I've got a few friends -- poet friends -- who have recently > suffered the "lay off" axe. While I suspect this axe is wielded to make more profits for stockholders and management (didn't JP Morgan just pull in a huge unpredicted spike in profit this quarter?), I know the concrete reality is that my friends are suffering and may for some time to come. Profit increases are fun to brag about and buy yachts with, but finding enough cash to feed the landlord isn't so pleasant.

So I'm asking: what would you do? Any job insight advice? What work/markets are still available to these poets, many with college degrees? Where do you seek listings friendly to the poetically-inclined? Know of any work available in NY? (Feel free to backchannel on that last question, for I have some astute poet friends ready, smart, and quite able)

Just wondering. And if you have any stories -- inspiring or otherwise -- please do share~

Thanks,

Amy

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

284. steve russell
Poetry/Failure
Wed 22 Jul 2009

---

so, with Auden, suppose that "Poetry makes nothing happen."

or, as Charles Simic points out: "The act of torture consist of various strategies/meant to increase/ the imagination of homo sapiens."

it seems as though we're left with little more than irony. besides pleasure, what can poetry offer?

perhaps the one successful didatic poet of the 20th century, Bertold Brecht, said it best:

All roads led into the mire in my time.
My tongue betrayed me to the butchers.
There was little I could do. But those in power
Sat safer withut me: that was my hope.
So passed my time
Which hadbeen given to me on earth.

↑ Index

285. Kyle Schlesinger new mailing address
Wed 22 Jul 2009

Dear friends,

As of August 1, 2009 the mailing address for Kyle Schlesinger and Cuneiform Press will be:

Kyle Schlesinger
Cuneiform Press
5003 Eilers Avenue
Austin, Texas 78751

Telephone number, email, and urls will remain the same. We're bringing along a new Vandercook, type cabinet, and other letterpress goods. Watch for new publications this fall, starting with Bill Berkson and George Schneeman's collaboration TED BERRIGAN.

Cheers,

Kyle
- - - - -
Kyle Schlesinger
Proprietor

Cuneiform Press
www.cuneiformpress.com
www.cuneiformpress.blogspot.com

↑ Index

286. Charles Bernstein
University of Alabama Press Recession Sale
Wed 22 Jul 2009

Hank Lazer and I are glad to pass this on to the Poetics List (some of our favorite books).
Our Summer Recession special on select titles.

Not 20% off ... not 30% ...
not even one-third off ...
One half-price.
Yes you heard that right ... a fifty percent discount.
five o
incredible? unbelievable?
perhaps ...
But act now while supplies last ...

The University of Alabama Press is proud to offer a

RECESSION SPECIAL

on many of the titles found in its Modern and Contemporary Poetics Series.

Purchase any of the following books at 50% off the regular retail price. (See below for pricing in USD and ISBNs required for ordering.)

To purchase a copy of any of these titles at the HALF PRICE discount offer, good through August 30, 2009, just call our warehouse in Chicago toll-free at [redacted] or locally at [redacted] and mention sales code MCPRS-01.

As always, we invite you to forward this e-mail to any of your colleagues who you think might be interested, or suggest names and addresses to which we should send future mailings. If you have any questions, please contact me directly at [redacted] or [redacted].

For more information on these and other titles in the Modern and Contemporary Poetics Series, visit our website at http://uapress.ua.edu/series.cfm?id=MCP.

Rebecca Todd Minder
Electronic Marketing, Advertising, and Exhibits Manager

The University of Alabama Press
Box 870380, Tuscaloosa, AL 35487-0380
[redacted]
[redacted] * [redacted] fax

Led by Language by Rachel Back
(paper, ISBN 0-8173-1132-7): $27.50 now $13.75

Another South by Bill Lavender
(paper, ISBN 0-8173-1241-2): $28.95 now $14.48

Syncopations by Jed Rasula
(paper, ISBN 0-8173-5030-6): $29.95 now $14.98

A Poetics of Impasse by Susan M. Schultz
(paper, ISBN 0-8173-5198-1): $36.00 now $18.00

What Is a Poet? by Hank Lazer
(paper, ISBN 0-8173-0326-X): $29.75 now $14.88

Simulcast by Benjamin Friedlander
(paper, ISBN 0-8173-5028-4): $29.95 now $14.98

The Point Is To Change It by Jerome McGann
(paper, ISBN 0-8173-5408-5): $32.95 now $16.48

Hart Crane by Brian M. Reed
(paper, ISBN 0-8173- 5270-8): $35.00 now $17.50

Louis Zukofsky by Mark Scroggins
(paper, ISBN 0-8173- 0957-8): $27.50 now $13.75

All prices are in U.S. Dollars / Canada residents add 7% GST / International shipping: $8.50 per book
Domestic shipping: $5.00 for the first book and $1.00 for each additional book Offer expires August 30, 2009

Sales Code: MCPRS-01

↑ Index

287. Séamas Cain
"a sonic field recording ..."
Wed 22 Jul 2009

---

tríd an gcoill
("through the woods")

by Séamas Cain

has been published by The Red Jasper in Dublin, Ireland

to read Liam Carson's review of the book in the July 2009 issue of
"Poetry Ireland Review"
go to ...

http://www.freewebs.com/seamascain/liamcarsonsreview.htm to read Séamas Cain's response to various questions from Liam Carson, go to ...

http://www.freewebs.com/seamascain/questionsanswers.htm

tríd an gcoill
("through the woods")

ISBN 978-0-9563001-0-2

http://www.freewebs.com/seamascain/

may be purchased from

"An Seancheann"
(The Old Head)
Books & Collections,
Woodley House,
Castletownshend Road,
Skibbereen, County Cork,
Ireland

Web-site: http://www.worldwidebookshop.com/detail/16526AB/

Phone: [redacted]

E-mail: [redacted]

↑ Index

288. Sam Truitt
Re: Poetry and Failure
Wed 22 Jul 2009

Right - many thanks - that's the terrific saying - with the triple understanding of "nothing" as no correspondence outside itself - no purpose - it doesn't do anything except what it does - not causal - it's intransitive (as came up) and so the PLEASURE (also come up) is in and of itself - what Williams said, "If it's not a pleasure it's not a poem" - and then "nothing" as an IMPOSSIBILITY - as even a vacuum has a form, or there is a meeting - and so one can keep saying - or trying, as somebody said - but one fails - one FALLS, which is the cadence (dance) and Cage's chance too (both from the Latin "cadere" - to fall). That "nothing" is like Cage's SILENCE, an experiential impossibility - it's a concept - going back to the vacuum - as he discovered entering in a sound-proof chamber and heard the hum of his nervous system. That there is an inside. So, what's the point of saying - speaking or writing - except the pleasure and the finding, measuring, how things fall out, arrange themselves, in language or any other symbolic system... I have found personally it's to put myself into a situation in which I can no harm. Celine said someplace that there are two kinds of poets: those that write and those that don't, noting the latter are more happy. And maybe if you don't try you can't fail... I don't know if that Ridingly true, but it does seem to have something to do with self - that very thing that seems in a situation of composition necessary to be out of - as self is "separate" - it's critical, divides: you lose the whole - and there is one, just as there is nothing, too - we sense - like "the hub of a wheel, the immobile center that makes rotation possible." But the fail is a pleasure - it gets at the root of how we are - the risk - as someplace I heard we are born with two instincts: reaction to loud noises and fear of falling.

----- Original Message ----
From: Halvard Johnson <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Friday, July 17, 2009 4:33:44 PM
Subject: Re: Poetry and Failure

"I have nothing to say and am saying it, and that is poetry." --John Cage (more or less)

Hal

"A paranoid is someone who knows a little of what's going on."
--William S. Burroughs

Halvard Johnson
==========
[redacted]
http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org

On Fri, Jul 17, 2009 at 1:23 PM, Sam Truitt <[redacted]> wrote:

> "You can say anything in prose, so poetry should be reserved for saying nothing"
> (Khlebnikov), like the soul, lost at the xroads.
>
> ----- Original Message ----
> From: Nicholas Piombino <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Thursday, July 16, 2009 11:46:21 PM
> Subject: Re: Poetry and Failure
>
> "Opens magazine several times at the fact that poetry is at crossroads."
>
> F. Scott Fitzgerald (from "The Notebooks", in "The Crack Up", edited by Edmund Wilson)
>
> On 7/16/09 6:28 PM, "Sam Truitt" <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Is this thread I'm surprised not to see Laura Riding (Jackson) hasn't come up
> - her sentiment as nailed by posthumous title THE FAILURE OF POETRY, THE PROMISE OF LANGUAGE (ed. John Nolan) underscored by her giving up poems in the > late 1930's - tied to truth, to being true - but she writes someplace (her > essay on Stein maybe?):
>
> Â³Å if poetry had all subjects taken away from it,
> there was one subject of which poetry could not be deprived, namely, that poetry had come to an end. Here was an ingenious method for indefinitely postponing the end of poetryÅ since poetry was to write about nothing, it could > write about everything from the standpoint of nothing; it could still have its > epic without the burden of having to have convictions about it.Â²
>
> ----- Original Message ----
> From: carol dorf <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Thursday, July 16, 2009 9:22:50 AM
> Subject: Re: Poetry and Failure

Hard to say where one "poem" ends and the next begins.

Don't forget pleasure -- pleasure in language, pleasure in structuring the
"poem," referencing experience.

(Almost all of reading, for me; and a good part of my writing.)

On Wed, Jul 15, 2009 at 11:56 AM, Elizabeth Switaj <[redacted]>
wrote:

Do we continue to write poetry because it ultimately fails to do what we hope it might or should?

That may be so for some and certainly is why I continue to write a poem*,* but other than that I continue writing because those hopes shift and are various.

Is the "failure of poetry" a failure of language, or poetics?

Yes.

guidelines

guidelines &

guidelines &

↑ Index

289. Jesse Glass
Experimental Poetry/Performance in Baltimore/Washington Area
Wed 22 Jul 2009

I'd like to connect with experimental poetry/performance groups in the Baltimore/Washington area for a project at the University of Maryland, College Park. Back channel please. Jesse

↑ Index

290. blacksox
Showdown in O Town-7/23, 7pm
Wed 22 Jul 2009

Thursday, July 23 7PM to 10PM at The Cameo Theatre (located in the old Cruises Only building - 1013 E. Colonial Drive), Team Orlando 2009 will face off against three other teams packed with amazing poets in a National Poetry Slam style bout where, after four rounds, one team will win the first ever Showdown in O-Town. Our teams are so far:

Team Orlando 2009: Shawn Welcome, Curtis Meyer, Ronin, MyVerse, Alex Ruiz - the most talented team Orlando will ever throw at the National Poetry Slam thus far. This is an amazing mix of accomplished poets and hungry newcomers who will rock your faces off with their poetic might.

Team Slamazon: Kendra Corrie, Dani O., Veronica Smith, Holly Riggs - this team features both winners of the 2009 Fringe Poetry Smackdown (who both won with 30s), a 2009 Smackdown runner up, and a poetic leviathan emerging from the depths. This steam is fierce. They will destroy you with their verse, then wear your skin like a pelt.

Team Payback: Tod Caviness, Trevor Fraiser, Tam Tam the Sandwich Man, Alex Vega - all these poets were part of the Broken Speech Post-Season and they seek vengenance on Team Orlando for denying them from representing the City Beautiful.

Team Pandemonium : Chaz Yorick, Lilly, Michael Sloan, Zachary Kluckman - this team is the ultimate wildcard. We can only speculate the mayhem this mysterious group can cause.

These teams will face Team Orlando at the Showdown in O-Town in an epic bout never seen before in the City Beautiful...until now.

And we have a super special feature to kick off the show - individual National Poetry Slam Champion and individual World Poetry Slam Champion Mighty Mike McGee.

Wanna hear the best part? You can see this National Poetry Slam style bout with a side of legendary for just $5. $5 to see amazing poetry. $5 to get your face rocked so far off, you can put it on a wall as a trophy to tell your grandchildren about that time poetry rocked your face off on this night. For your $5, you not only get to witness awesome poetry but get your name thrown in the hat for a door prize: a $25 gift card to Urban Think, Orlando's only independent book store. All proceeds go to Team Orlando 2009.

Peace
Russ Golata

↑ Index

291. Daniel Godston
Chicago Bauhaus in July
Wed 22 Jul 2009

"Chicago Bauhaus in July"

Saturday, July 25 (3-6 p.m.)

at Acme Art Works

You are invited to attend "Chicago Bauhaus in July," which features poetry and micro-fiction readings, an art talk, musical performances, a discussion about the Michael Reese Hospital, a "Metallic Fest" workshop, and a conversation about a new Cairo-Chicago project initiative. The purposes of "Chicago Bauhaus in July" are to creatively explore the Bauhaus spirit, and to raise awareness about the current effort to preserve the buildings on the Michael Reese Hospital campus.

* * *

Al DeGenova, Jamie Kazay, Charlie Newman, and Larry Sawyer read selections of their poetry.

David Boykin performs a set of solo percussion.

Amanda Marbais reads several micro-fiction pieces.

Members of the Gropius in Chicago Coalition give a presentation about the ongoing campaign to preserve the buildings designed by Bauhaus founder Walter Gropius, on the Michael Reese Hospital campus.

performance by Amalgamating --

Paul Hartsaw -- tenor saxophone

Dan Godston -- trumpet

Alex Wing -- drums

Jerome Bryerton -- drums

Bert Stabler gives a talk about how his artwork has been influenced by Bauhaus artists Paul Klee and Laszlo Moholy-Nagy.

Houreya Elsayed and Dan Godston talk about the Cairo-Chicago project, via skype.

"Metallic Festival" workshop

In 1929, the Bauhaus hosted a Metallic Festival, during which participants dressed up in metal outfits. Part of the impetus behind that was the Bauhaus' insistence that industrialization could be playful. Also, Bauhaus artist/choreographer Oskar Schlemmer created "Metal Dance," which explored metal as a material that has remarkable light-reflecting properties. Participants of the "Metallic Festival" workshop will design metal costumes, as well as have the opportunity to make hand-sculpted metal objects (such as hats and miniature buildings). Also, musicians will interact with the sounds of amplified metal, during a several-minute improvised piece.

$5 suggested donation, sliding scale

This event is hosted by the Near Northwest Arts Council at Acme Art Works, and it is co-organized by the Borderbend Arts Collective and the Gropius in Chicago Coalition.

Acme Art Works

St Paul's Cultural Center

2215 West North Ave.

Chicago, IL 60647

http://www.nnwac.org/

http://www.gropiuschicago.org

http://requitedjournal.com/index.php?/masthead/

http://www.myspace.com/davidboykinexpanse

http://www.myspace.com/zootsuitbeatnick

http://metastablesound.com/

http://www.milkmag.org/

http://www.bertstabler.com

http://www.myspace.com/alexwing

http://www.myspace.com/jeromebryerton

http://www.bauhaus9090.org

↑ Index

292. Troy Camplin
Re: spiritual materialism
Wed 22 Jul 2009

It is as completely unrelated to dianetics as one could possibly be, trust me. The term is Greek. Dia- means through, and physics from physis, meaning nature. "Through the levels of nature." That's diaphysics.

Troy

_____
From: steve russell <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Monday, July 20, 2009 3:14:44 PM
Subject: Re: spiritual materialism

sounds sort of similiar to dianetics, or scientology in drag. cynical, ugh, me. ---
On Sun, 7/19/09, Troy Camplin <[redacted]> wrote:

> From: Troy Camplin <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: spiritual materialism
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Sunday, July 19, 2009, 9:46 PM
> Troy Cam
> My book Diaphysics is precisely about spiritual > matierialism.
>
> Troy Camplin
>
> _____
> From: Christopher Rizzo <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Monday, July 6, 2009 3:08:12 PM
> Subject: Re: spiritual materialism
>
> I'm finding this string really quite interesting. Glad to > hear evidence of > such a wide-ranging interest.
>
> Aryanil, much thanks for reminding me of Whitman and > Tagore. I'm tempted to > add Pound to that set, too.
>
> There are a few significant differences between, say, Olson

> and Whitman.
> Briefly, Olson's cosmology took the philosophy of mathematics, quantum > mechanics, and Cybernetic theory (which turns into information theory, > really) into account, as well as the phenomenology of Merleau-Ponty, etc.
>
> For sure, there are similarities to Whitman, but I figured (perhaps too > hastily?) that a post-Heisenberg view of reality might key into Jim's ideas > a bit more readily.
>
> As for Eastern approaches to spirituality, perhaps one of the more > interesting bits in Olson is his use of the first line from Wilhelm's > translation of The Secret of the Golden Flower: "That which exists through > itself is what is called meaning." And it is useful to note that Whilhelm > translates "meaning" with a capital "M" (suggesting Tao), whereas Olson uses > the term in lower-case.
>
> Simply (and reductively), Olson uses the line to indicate something closer > to autopoiesis than Logos, or rather the One. Creeley explains that one > consequence of all this is that language is not "importantly" referential.
> Still provocative, I think.
>
> And, Chris, as for Benjamin, I'm thinking of his use of "nunc stans," in > particular, and what uses it may have in this context....
>
> Anyway, just a few thoughts.
>
> Bests,
> Chris
>
> On Mon, Jul 6, 2009 at 1:47 PM, Jonathan Ball <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Some of these ideas might approach the way Slavoj
> Zizek reads the Hegelian

paradox that "the spirit is a bone" .... I am travelling without any books and so I can't say much more or even verify my quote etc but your the Olson quote brings this idea to mind, in light of the previous email.

Jonathan Ball

On Sun, Jul 5, 2009 at 10:29 PM, Christopher Rizzo <[redacted]
wrote:

Jim,

Interesting post. Are you familiar with Charles Olson's work? In a conversation with Herbert Kenny, 1969, Olson says
"I mean something I believe we possess crucially. I think our body is our soul. And if you don't have your body as a factor of creation, you don't have a soul." Olson
articulates the same idea at other times, too.

In any event, an explanation of the above would prove lengthy, so please feel free to backchannel me if you're so inclined. I'm writing two books
on Olson at the moment.

[redacted]

Bests,
Chris

On Sun, Jul 5, 2009 at 3:41 PM, Jim Andrews
<[redacted]>
wrote:

> it is commonly observed that a great deal
of contemporary art/writing
involves a double sense of 'the material'.
the term is understood to refer
not only to the subject matter (the

'standard' understanding in writing)
but also the matter of the media in the piece,
the material embodiment of
the
piece. it's also commonly observed that the latter awareness of and
approach
to composition not solely by ideation, meditation on the subject
matter,
but
also through operation on the material embodiment, has come to be much
more widely understood as a part of reading than
it was a generation ago.
when
we encounter work that does not follow the
grammars and approaches
traditionally associated with work, we inquire into the methods of
composition, the approach to materiality,
and look for relations
between those methods and approaches and the subject matter, or look for the
subject
matter in the light of those things. and so
read differently, thereby.
and
in this way, we now read some literary work
in ways that are closer to
how
we approach a great deal of visual art.

but what i want to get at is something that isn't so commonly observed,
at
the moment, but may be in the next generation. and that's the relation
of
awareness of the materiality of writing/art
to our ideas of who and what
we

are. that's erm awkwardly stated. what i'm trying to get at is this.
the
whole emphasis on materiality is involved in a larger movement to explore
how things like ideation, imagination, the
spiritual, beauty, truth,
goodness, justice--all our ideals and things
normally associated with
the
immaterial--operate in the material world.

in this sense, we might say that the whole
contemporary awareness of materiality in art is part of a larger ah spiritual materialism. i
googled
that term, after it occurred to me, and i assure you i'm using it in a different sense than chögyam trungpa, who uses it "to describe mistakes
spiritual seekers commit which turn the pursuit of spiritualism into an ego
building and confusion creating endeavor" (wikipedia). instead, i'm
refering
to a relatively common sort of philosophy in which the material
substrate
of ideation and even the spiritual is affirmed
and its relations with even
the
flightiest of fancies are explored. not to denigrate or dismiss things
like spirituality but to explore how they operate materially.

perhaps more evidently, now, this is also related to philosophies of
mind
in which the materiality of thought itself
is affirmed--as a chemical
and informational process, however emergent--and

> the brain and the mind
> that > emerge from its processes are conceived as
> fully embodied in the
> material.
> so that the idea of being able to create
> thinking machines (however
> unlike
> us) becomes a real possibility. and we are > conceptualized as nature's > (near?) ultimate machines. and machines are > conceptualized not as the
> simple
> things we once thought they must be but as
> often very complex
> biological
> creatures that, nonetheless, are embodied in
> the material world and
> are,
> therefore, subject to the constraints and
> possibilities of machines in
> the
> material world.
>
> to wrap it up, we now see the relation > between contemporary artistic
> emphasis on the materiality of writing/art
> and the larger moment of
> 'spiritual materialism'.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
> accept all posts. Check
> guidelines
>
> accept all posts. Check
> guidelines
>
> --
> www.jonathanball.com
> www.jonathanball.blogspot.com
> www.haikuhoroscopes.com
>
> all posts. Check guidelines

↑ Index

293. Jade Hudson
Last call for Toxic Issue 1
Thu 23 Jul 2009

This is a friendly reminder that the submission period for www.toxicpoetry.com is quickly coming to its end. We will be closing the doors for the first issue on July 28th.

Once again, we are an online publication for international, experimental, mp3 poetry. We welcome submissions from anyone who is experimenting with the mp3 format.

If you would like to send us work:
-E-mail [redacted] with your mp3(s) as (an) attachment(s), with the title(s) of the piece(s) and your name.

If you have questions, comments, or info that can help us: -E-mail [redacted]

You are free to send as much work as you like. In fact, we welcome this.

Much thanks to those that have already blessed us with their submissions.

Happy Submitting and a Toxic Toast,

Jade Hudson

Toxic Co-editor and Webmaster

<[redacted]>

↑ Index

294. David Kirschenbaum
A Few Tables Available at Boog Fest's Small, Small Press Fair
Thu 23 Jul 2009

Hi all,

Boog City still has room for a few more tablers and would like to invite you to exhibit at our 6th annual small, small press fair (with indie records and crafts, too).

For the first time the fair will span two days, Sat. Sept. 12-Sun. Sept. 13, and will be held at a new location, Brooklyn’s Unnameable Books (600 Vanderbilt Ave.) in their backyard. The fair will take place during the final two days of the 3rd annual Welcome to Boog City poetry and music festival.

The fair will open on Saturday with two-and-a-half hours of performances by authors from each of the tablers.

Tables are $30 for the fair, $20 dollars if you bring your own bridge table (of up to 3’ x 3’) with a portion of the proceeds going to help Unnameable Books.

Door charge for attendees is by donation.

Please email me, Boog City editor and publisher David Kirschenbaum, to [redacted] , as soon as possible to reserve your table and schedule your reader. We look forward to the fair once again being a warm gathering with wonderful books, poetry, music, and other items from around our creative community.

This year’s fair will feature a barbecue from our good friends at Unnameable, as well as readings, musical performances, poets in conversation, and a lively panel. Below this note is the schedule for the two days of the fair.

as ever,
David

Sat. 9/12, 12:00 p.m.
Unnameable Books
600 Vanderbilt Ave., bet. Prospect Pl.
St. Marks Ave., Brooklyn

6th Annual Small, Small Press Fair Featuring readings from authors of the exhibiting presses from 12:00 p.m.-2:30 p.m. Presses include:

Dan Wilcox, A.P.D. (Dan Wilcox)
Jennifer Knox, Bloof Books (Shanna Compton)
Andrew Hughes, Book Thug (Jay MillAr)
Norman Lock, Ellipsis Press (Eugene Lim) reader TK, EOAGH (Tim Peterson) reader TK, Litmus Press (Julian Brolaski) reader TK, Outskirts Press (Will Hallgren) Austin Alexis, Poets Wear Prada (Roxanne Hoffman) reader TK, Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs Press (Brenda Ijima) reader TK, 2nd Avenue Press (Paolo Javier) reader TK, Straw Gate Press (Phyllis Wat)
Rachel Levitsky, Ugly Duckling Presse (Matvei Yankelevich)

2:30 p.m.-Jesse Schoen-music

3:00 p.m.-Ammiel Alcalay
3:15 p.m.-Danielle Le Gros Georges
3:35 p.m.-Ryan Walker
3:55 p.m.-Jim Dunn
4:15 p.m.-Phoebe Kreutz-music
4:45 p.m.-Karen Weiser
5:00 p.m.-Katie Yates
5:20 p.m.-Dana Ward
5:40 p.m.-Anselm Berrigan
5:55 p.m.-Anselm Berrigan
in conversation with Buck Downs
6:25 p.m.-Buck Downs
6:45 p.m.-Gracefully-music
7:15 p.m.-Jean-Paul Pecqueur
7:30 p.m.-Brenda Coultas
7:45 p.m.-Mike County
8:05 p.m.-Ish Klein

Sun. 9/13, 12:00 p.m.
Unnameable Books
6th Annual Small, Small Press Fair

12:00 p.m.-Paul Foster Johnson
12:15 p.m.-Nick Piombino
12:30 p.m.-Eric Gelsinger
12:45 p.m.-Joanna Sondheim
1:00 p.m.-Tracey McTague
1:15 p.m.-Alan Semerdjian-music
1:45 p.m.-Martha King
2:00 p.m.-Brendan Lorber
2:15 p.m.-Dan Wilcox
2:35 p.m.-Basil King

2:50 p.m.-3:00-break

3:00 p.m.-Discussion of Politics, Community, Poetics curated and moderated by Greg Fuchs featuring Jonathan Allen, Antonio D'Ambrosio, Allen Gilbert, Eileen Myles, and more

4:30 p.m.-4:40-break

4:40 p.m.-Corina Copp
4:55 p.m.-Lewis Warsh
5:10 p.m.-Hailey Higdon
5:30 p.m.-Shanna Compton

5:45 p.m.-Angela Veronica Wong
6:00 p.m.-Dorit-music
6:30 p.m.-Cristiana Baik
6:45 p.m.-Paolo Javier
7:00 p.m.-Sara Wintz
7:15 p.m.-Ryan Murphy
7:30 p.m.-Gary Parrish
7:45 p.m.-Justin Marks

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W. 28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)

↑ Index

295. Douglas Manson
Re: Tough economy - insight?
Thu 23 Jul 2009

Weirdly enough, I am moving to NYC just as Amy sees her friends and poets losing jobs. There has to be a way that people can form a group or organization, or as Duncan said somewhere--create the free association of mutual interests--to put all this corporate/institutionally-squandered skill, smarts, agility and amazing perception to work, and meaningfully so. We know why the economy is derailed, but why not start making work by making something new that people are actively interested and engaged in--not anything already done to death, or that bores us into paralysis--

I just hate to think of how many people out there are seemingly idled by a brain-stalled system, failed promises, and the sluggish, backwards logic of our education system. and i'm sick of getting emails that start out "wish I had better news to give you about our department...the economy" blah blah blah.

yuck,
doug

On Wed, Jul 22, 2009 at 8:13 AM, steve russell <[redacted]>wrote:

> i forgot to mention dog walking. & the money is excellent if you can do it free lance. it works in d.c. because many people are workoholics and haven't lives but do have an income and enough guilt to pay someone to walk their dogs. do the arthimitic. one dog per/half hour/15.00 ... add dogs ... evem

at a reduced rate ...

--- On Fri, 7/17/09, Mary Kasimor <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Mary Kasimor <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Tough economy - insight?
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 17, 2009, 2:56 PM
My understanding is that colleges and universities are doing well during the bad economy. If your friends have MA's or MFA's, I suggest that they talk to the chairs in the English or other departments that they are qualified to teach in.

--- On Fri, 7/17/09, amy king <[redacted]> wrote:

From: amy king <[redacted]>
Subject: Tough economy - insight?
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 17, 2009, 1:47 PM

I've got a few friends -- poet friends -- who have recently suffered the "lay off" axe. While I suspect this axe is wielded to make more profits for stockholders and management (didn't JP Morgan just pull in a huge unpredicted spike in profit this quarter?), I know the concrete reality is that my friends are suffering and may for some time to come. Profit increases are fun to brag about and buy yachts with, but finding enough cash to feed the landlord isn't so pleasant.

So I'm asking: what would you do? Any job insight advice? What work/markets are still available to these poets, many with college degrees? Where do you seek listings friendly to the poetically-inclined? Know of any work available in NY? (Feel free to backchannel on that last question, for I have some astute poet friends ready, smart, and quite able)

Just wondering. And if you have any stories -- inspiring or otherwise -- please do share~

Thanks,

Amy

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

296. crystal hoffman
Re: Tough economy - insight?
Fri 24 Jul 2009

Copy editing work is tough, but its always a good place to start into the publishing field. The company I work for Beacon Premedia Global is growing and hiring. I work on the American Physical Society's journal APR D: Particles, Fields, Gravitation, and Cosmology. (Absolutely fascinating research on the nature of dark matter being done right now). I could give you contact information if you like. It's twenty hours a week, work from home, ten hours have to be done 9-5 and the rest are flex, pay is anywhere between 11 and 13 and hour depending on experience, 60 hours PTO.

Let me know if you are interested.

Crystal J. Hoffman
[redacted]

--- On Thu, 7/23/09, Douglas Manson <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Douglas Manson <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Tough economy - insight?
To: [redacted]
Date: Thursday, July 23, 2009, 6:38 PM

Weirdly enough, I am moving to NYC just as Amy sees her friends and poets losing jobs. There has to be a way that people can form a group or organization, or as Duncan said somewhere--create the free association of mutual interests--to put all this corporate/institutionally-squandered skill, smarts, agility and amazing perception to work, and meaningfully so. We know why the economy is derailed, but why not start making work by making something new that people are actively interested and engaged in--not anything already done to death, or that bores us into paralysis--

I just hate to think of how many people out there are seemingly idled by a brain-stalled system, failed promises, and the sluggish, backwards logic of our education system. and i'm sick of getting emails that start out "wish I had better news to give you about our department...the economy" blah blah blah.

yuck,
doug

On Wed, Jul 22, 2009 at 8:13 AM, steve russell <[redacted]>wrote:

> i forgot to mention dog walking. & the money is excellent if you can do it free lance. it works in d.c. because many people are workoholics and haven't lives but do have an income and enough guilt to pay someone to walk their dogs. do the arthimitic. one dog per/half hour/15.00 ... add dogs ... evem at a reduced rate ...
>
> --- On Fri, 7/17/09, Mary Kasimor <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: Mary Kasimor <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: Tough economy - insight?
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Friday, July 17, 2009, 2:56 PM
> My understanding is that colleges and universities are doing well during the bad economy. If your friends have MA's or MFA's, I suggest that they talk to the chairs in the English or other departments that they are qualified to teach in.
>
> --- On Fri, 7/17/09, amy king <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: amy king <[redacted]>
> Subject: Tough economy - insight?

To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 17, 2009, 1:47 PM

I've got a few friends -- poet friends -- who have recently suffered the "lay off" axe. While I suspect this axe is wielded to make more profits for stockholders and management (didn't JP Morgan just pull in a huge unpredicted spike in profit this quarter?), I know the concrete reality is that my friends are suffering and may for some time to come. Profit increases are fun to brag about and buy yachts with, but finding enough cash to feed the landlord isn't so pleasant.

So I'm asking: what would you do? Any job insight advice? What work/markets are still available to these poets, many with college degrees? Where do you seek listings friendly to the poetically-inclined? Know of any work available in NY? (Feel free to backchannel on that last question, for I have some astute poet friends ready, smart, and quite able)

Just wondering. And if you have any stories -- inspiring or otherwise -- please do share~

Thanks,

Amy

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

297. John Tranter
Announcing Jacket 37 -- Early 2009
Fri 24 Jul 2009

Announcing Jacket 37 -- Early 2009

Like the 2004 Hubble Ultra Deep Field image, http://hubblesite.org/newscenter/archive/releases/2004/07/image/a/format/large_web/

... Jacket glitters with constellations and galaxies of luminous and sometimes bewildering insights:
Catch it now, before it swims out of your ken:

http://jacketmagazine.com/37/index.shtml

Jacket magazine: Editor: John Tranter -- Associate Editor: Pam Brown

Visit our new Jacket Notes pages:
readings, new books & magazines, blogs, etc.
http://sites.google.com/site/jacket-notes/Home

You may send Letters to the Editor:
please be concise and courteous.
http://jacketmagazine.com/00/letters2the-editor.shtml

We only have time to read for Jacket in June, July and January:
please don't send material out of season.

"I dislike a great deal of contemporary poetry -- all of the past you read is usually quite great -- but it is a useful thorn to have in one's side." (Frank O'Hara)

In brief, Jacket 37 contents:

========== Articles ==========

 Caroline Bergvall: A Cat in the Throat on bilingual occupants

 Louis Bury: The Exercise and the Oulipo: 99 Variations on a Thesis

 Christopher Rizzo: An Extensive Body of Work: Robert Creeley's Poetics of Affect: "American poetry is indeed "full of daybooks," but American poetry -- and criticism -- are also filled with what Harry Frankfurt accurately terms well-developed programs of producing bullshit..."

 Beverly Dahlen: Some notes on George Stanley 's "Vancouver: A Poem"

 Christopher Funkhouser: Presents: Maria Damon's textile styling

 Jack Spicer's "The Book of the Death of Arthur", by Jim Goar

 George Kalamaras (ed.): Surrealist Inquiry: "Would You Lend Money To?"

 David Kaufmann: Frank O'Hara's Timing

 Kevin Killian: Jack Spicer's Secret

 Burt Kimmelman: George Oppen and Martin Heidegger: The Philosophy and Poetry of "Gelassenheit", and the Language of Faith

 An excerpt from John Latta's blog, "Isola di Rifiuti", May 2009

 Stephen Mooney: Discontinuous Visuality -- Brakhage's 'just seeing', and background temporality in contemporary poetics

 Douglas Piccinnini: Ashbery In Paris: Out of School

 H. K. Rainey: Along Comes Something: Mapping Motion in Selections from Lyn Hejinian's "Happily"

 Dale Smith: 'Lyric Poetry after Auschwitz'?: Kent Johnson and Political Satire

 Richard Swigg: Parts, Pairs, Positions: A Reading of George Oppen's "Discrete Series"

 Duncan White: "The American Areas": Place, Language and the Construction of Everyday Life in the Novels of Ben Marcus

========== Heaney Agonistes ==========

 Jeffrey Side: The Dissembling Poet: Seamus Heaney and the Avant-garde

 Rob Stanton: 'A shy soul fretting and all that ': Heaney, Prynne and Brands of Uncertainty

 The Group in Belfast, 1960s: (Seamus Heaney: The Early Years)

Letters to the Editor from:  Ira Lightman;  John Muckle;  J.P. Craig;  Jamie McKendrick;  David Latane;  Aidan Semmens;  Ira Lightman (2);  Jamie McKendrick (2);  Ira Lightman (3);  Desmond Swords;  Todd Swift and Jeffrey Side;  Jeffrey Side, reply to Desmond Swords;  Jamie McKendrick (3);  Ira Lightman (4);  Jeffrey Side responds to Ira Lightman;  Jeffrey Side responds to Jamie McKendrick;  From Desmond Swords, 2009-04-07;  From Jamie McKendrick, 2009-04-09;  Jeffrey Side responds to Jamie McKendrick;  Andrew Boobier

========== Poems ==========

 Louis Armand: Correspondences

 Joel Chace: Six poems: Scaffold, 19-24

 Tom Clark: Three poems: Keats on Shipboard, September 1820 / Comic Interpretation / from "Little Cantos": 1

 Peter Davis: Five poems

 Elizabeth Fodaski: Two poems: Latent Progress / Short History

 Joergen Gassilewski, "saturation", translated by Robert Oesterbergh

 Chrissie Gittins: Three poems: Anxiety / Menopause / Sex Drive Problem

 Jim Goar: Three poems: Just passing through / Sunken treasure / overseas edition

 Phil Hall: Four poems: An Apprenticeship Ends / Variorum / Stephen Foster / Sawmill Tuning

 Barbara Henning: Three prose pieces: Out of Detroit / Organ Light / Protestants and Catholics

 Brian Henry: Three poems: Oklahoma / George W. Bush / Actually Sounding

 Tom Hibbard: Poem: VII. Big Snow

 Fanny Howe: After Watching Klimov's "Agoniya"

 John Kinsella: Seven poems from "Graphology"

 Heller Levinson: from green therapeutics this whale

 Steve McOrmond: Night Figures

 Geoff Page: Southward

 Alan Loney: Testament : tenth muse

 Camille Martin: 8 Sonnets

 Annie Mullen: Three poems: You're Highness / Jarlyth and Phyllis / News of the World

 Tomas Salamun: Three poems, translated by Brian Henry: The Loire Delta / poem ("If I don't know what to do...") / Greece

 Edgar Saavedra: "Island", translated by Kristin Dykstra

 Lisa Samuels: from "Metropolis"

 Beth Staley: The first voice loop was an echo

 John Tranter: Two Poems: Derek Walcott's Lips; and Craig Raine's Arsehole: variations on a theme by Helen Farish

 Barry Wallenstein: Five poems: Shades of Keats / The Fabulous Backdrop / Euphoria Ripens / The Mite and the Peacock / Gazing at Raindrops

 Les Wicks: Healed and Hurt

 Harriet Zinnes: Two poems: The Wilderness / Conclusion

========== Interviews ==========

 Joe Amato in conversation with Chris Pusateri, 2009

 Eric Baus in conversation with Cynthia Arrieu-King: Bushwick, N.Y., 4 May 2009

 Aaron Kunin in conversation with Ben Lerner

 Jennifer Moxley in conversation with Noah Eli Gordon

 Murat Nemet-Nejat in conversation with Kent Johnson, 2009

 David Shapiro: in conversation with Kent Johnson, 2009, with an Introduction by Don Share

 Rachel Zolf in conversation with Joel Bettridge, 2008-2009

========== Featured Review ==========

 Philip Mead: Networked Language: Culture & History in Australian Poetry, reviewed by Pam Brown

========== Feature ==========

 Rachel Blau DuPlessis: Draft 94: Mail Art

========== Reviews ==========

 Louis Armand: "Solicitations: Essays on Criticism and Culture", reviewed by Jeroen Nieuwland

 Anny Ballardini: "Ghost Dance in 33 Movements", reviewed by Crag Hill

 Jules Boykoff and Kaia Sand: "Landscapes of Dissent: Guerrilla Poetry & Public Space", reviewed by Philip Metres

 Jacques Derrida: "Monolinguism of the Other or The Prosthesis of Origin" (translated by Patrick Mensah), reviewed by Tom Hibbard: When Poetry Becomes Visual: Derrida's "Monolingualism of the Other"

 Rosmarie Waldrop (ed.). Dichten = [number ten], 16 new (to American readers) German poets, reviewed by Catherine Hales

 Sharon Dolin: "Burn and Dodge", reviewed by Robert Mueller

 Joseph Donahue: "Terra Lucida", reviewed by John Olson

 Elena Fanailova: "The Russian Version" (poems), Translated by Genya Turovskaya and Stephanie Sandler, reviewed by Stephan Delbos

 Adam Fieled: "When You Bit", reviewed by Jeffrey Side

 Sandy Florian: "The Tree of No", reviewed by Robert Savino Oventile

 Tim Gaze: "Noology", reviewed by Michael Farrell

 Nora Delaney: The Poetry of Melissa Green

 Rob Halpern and Taylor Brady: "Snow Sensitive Skin", reviewed by Thom Donovan

 John Hollander, "A Draft of Light: Poems", reviewed by by Alex Lewis

 Mystery Man! "... he may be a hypocrite, like some fornicating Baptist pastor. This seems to be what some of his critics think." Kent Johnson: "Homage to the Last Avant-Garde", reviewed by Peter Davis

 Rae Desmond Jones: "Blow Out", reviewed by Martin Duwell. See over 80 photos from the launch for that book here.

 August Kleinzahler: Sleeping It Off in Rapid City: Poems, New and Selected, Reviewed by Michael Aiken

 Ben Lerner: Barbara Claire Freeman and S.M. Stone: "No, / but... ": Ben Lerner's "Didactic Elegy"

 Jonathan Littell: "The Kindly Ones", translated by Charlotte Mandell, reviewed by Stash Luczkiw

 Clive Matson: "Mainline to the Heart", reviewed by Kevin Ring

 George Messo: "Entrances", reviewed by Alistair Noon

 Jennifer Moxley: "Clampdown", reviewed by Rob Stanton

 Eugene Ostashevsky: "The Life and Opinions of DJ Spinoza". Drawings by Eugene Timerman, reviewed by Timothy Leonido

 Ron Padgett: "How to Be Perfect", reviewed by Jack Cox

 Barbara Roether; "The Middle Atlas: Poems from Morocco 2004-2006", reviewed by Monica Peck

 Jerome Rothenberg & Jeffrey C. Robinson, eds. "Poems for the Millennium: The University of California Book of Romantic & Postromantic Poetry". Volume Three, reviewed by Joe Safdie

 Craig Santos Perez: "from UNINCORPORATED TERRITORY", reviewed by Mary Kasimor

 Ryoko Sekiguchi: "Two Markets, Once Again", Translated from the French by Sarah Riggs, reviewed by Eric Selland

 Brandon Shimoda: "The Alps", reviewed by Brandon Downing

 "Gertrude Stein: Selections", Joan Retallack (Ed.), reviewed by Jill Magi

 Stephanie Strickland; "Zone : Zero", Ahsahta Press, 2008 reviewed by Rachel Daley

 Tao Lin: "you are a little bit happier than i am", reviewed by C.S. Perez

 Steve Tills: "Rugh Stuff", reviewed by Gerald Schwartz

 Keith Waldrop: "The Real Subject: Queries and Conjectures of Jacob Delafon with Sample Poems", reviewed by C.S. Perez

 Sonja Yelich: "get some", reviewed by Lisa Samuels

 Andrew Zawacki: "Petals of Zero Petals of One", reviewed by Daniel Shoemaker

 Lila Zemborain: "mauve sea-orchids" (Trans. Rosa Alcala and Monica de la Torre), reviewed by Marie Larson

_____

John Tranter
39 Short Street, Balmain 2041, Australia

Phone Sydney (61+2+) 95 55 85 02

http://johntranter.com/
http://jacketmagazine.com/

_____

John Tranter
39 Short Street, Balmain 2041, Australia

Phone Sydney (61+2+) 95 55 85 02

http://johntranter.com/
http://jacketmagazine.com/

↑ Index

298. Rachel Loden

D. A. Powell & Rachel Loden in San Francisco

Fri 24 Jul 2009

Thursday, August 6th at 7 p.m.

D. A. Powell & Rachel Loden

Reading from their new books,
Chronic & Dick of the Dead

Bookshop West Portal
80 West Portal Avenue
San Francisco, CA 94127
[redacted]

http://www.bookshopwestportal.com/

D. A. Powell is the author of Tea, Lunch and Cocktails. The latter was a finalist for the Lambda and the National Book Critics' Circle Awards. His most recent collection is Chronic (Graywolf, 2009). Together with David Trinidad and a cast of hundreds, Powell is also the author of By Myself: An Autobiography (Turtle Point, 2009). A former Briggs-Copeland lecturer in Poetry at Harvard University, Powell now teaches in the English Department at University of San Francisco.

Rachel Loden is the author of Dick of the Dead, which came out in May. Her first book, Hotel Imperium, was selected as one of the ten best poetry books of the year by the San Francisco Chronicle, which called it "quirky and beguiling." It was also shortlisted for the Bay Area Book Reviewers Award. Honors include two appearances in the Best American Poetry series, a Pushcart Prize, a Fellowship in Poetry from the California Arts Council, and a grant from the Fund for Poetry.

↑ Index

299. mIEKAL aND
The cost of our dead poets society
Fri 24 Jul 2009

The cost of our dead poets society

http://www.guardian.co.uk/commentisfree/2009/jul/23/keats-house-funding

The enormous sums spent on dead authors' houses should be used to support those with few other chances to write

Keats House in Hampstead, the low pale villa where the poet lived, has been renovated and will be opened to the public tomorrow. It is proudly proclaimed to be the house where he penned Ode to a Nightingale and asked the girl next door to marry him. Yet Keats lived there for just two years, albeit his most creative. It prompts the question – does this postcard-pretty house of a writer who died at 26, which will attract those who like visiting pretty houses in Hampstead, deserve a £424,000 grant by the Heritage Lottery Fund, supplemented by the Corporation of London?

Let's contrast the apparent ease of finding the money for the young man Keats with the struggles over Mrs Gaskell, whose former house is at 84 Plymouth Grove, Ardwick, Manchester. It is a Grade II*-listed Regency-style villa, and it is on the English Heritage buildings at risk register. The Gaskell Society says it needs over £2m to save it, yet it has secured just £260,000, covering the first phase of renovation. I hope the society does not find the rest of the money; let the house rot and wilt and tumble down. These houses of the well-read dead signify only the self-importance of the literary society, waving the bowl to feed the cult of the author.

I used to live in Ardwick, and knew the Gaskell house long before I knew of her, or read anything by her. For years I walked by, to and from school, in total ignorance. Yet, while I became sympathetic to the didactic aims of her works, which make her of far higher social importance than Keats, and may explain her relative neglect, I would rather see the energies of these literary societies channelled differently. Dare they turn their gazes from the dead to the living?

The Gaskell Society declares that "the restoration of the building will act as a flagship for the regeneration of a socially disadvantaged area". This is a repulsive sentiment – the girls of nearby Moss Side need more than Mrs Gaskell's bricks to inspire them – and it is hard not to think that the fundraisers are leeching off the "socially disadvantaged" label of the area that has grown up around it.

But by ditching these shrines to dead writers, they could begin to make a real difference to living ones. Gaskell made her fortune and reputation writing about downtrodden women. Ardwick has plenty of them, many of whom could be finding their own literary voice. Ardwick needs youth centres and libraries and creative writing groups, where these woefully under-represented working-class women can be encouraged. Then we would have a richer and more diversified literature – actually penned by those that live it.

Let us find ways of encouraging potential writers. Then I will give you an area that will be its own social regeneration. Because it is the works that matter, not which room the author squatted in, twiddling her hair and sucking the end of her quill. I'm sure that Mrs Gaskell would agree.

↑ Index

300. Nate Pritts
ZOMG! H_NGM_N #8, y'all
Fri 24 Jul 2009

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT --->

Like, it's night time & there are these two guys & they're all like, I'm gonna break into this BANK, yo. To steal the MON-ey. And the other guy is like, yo, what about the H_NGM_N? Like for realz? And the first guy is like what - that tired old washed up old guy? Like no one has even SEEN him for like YEARS or something. Guys probably dead.

http://www.h-ngm-n.com

And the second guy is like yo. And so it was that there were guys straight up robbing banks all over the city & when I say bank I mean JOURNALS PUBLISHING BAD POETRY & then there's like this quick cut, right, where you see like SOMEthing on a balcony or some junk, like high up like looking down all bad@$$ & then these two guys are like about to break into the bank still? By which I mean BAD POETRY RUNNING RAMPANT all up in the grill of the fair city? And what?

http://www.h-ngm-n.com

So
that's it man. It's like yo - H_NGM_N #8. SWOOP. And like everyone thought he was dead & yo & like that was it? But he's here & cleaning house & by house I mean THE LANDSCAPE OF CONTEMPORARY POETRY & by cleaning I mean like straight up cleaning.

So it's like not only for you but for the city & banks & POETRY & also for yourself that you must needs click yon link & spread the word that, like, if you were afraid to go out at night? Or read poetry? There is no more reason to fear ever now:

http://www.h-ngm-n.com

yrs ever & always -

n8 & crew

PS follow the 'M_N on Twitter for updates --> http://twitter.com/TW_TT_R

_____
:: Dr. Nate Pritts

:: http://www.natepritts.com

_____ NEW mobile Hotmail. Optimized for YOUR phone. Click here.

http://windowslive.com/Mobile?ocid=TXT_TAGLM_WL_CS_MB_new_hotmail_072009

↑ Index

301. Aryanil Mukherjee
Re: The cost of our dead poets society
Fri 24 Jul 2009

Second it. Really....what a waste...

Just a tiny fraction of that could have helpedÂ so many homeless poets...

aryanil

----- Original Message -----
From: "mIEKAL aND" <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Friday, July 24, 2009 11:39:22 AM GMT -05:00 US/Canada Eastern Subject: The cost of our dead poets society

The cost of our dead poets society

http://www.guardian.co.uk/commentisfree/2009/jul/23/keats-house-funding

The enormous sums spent on dead authors' houses should be used to support those with few other chances to write

Keats House in Hampstead, the low pale villa where the poet lived, has been renovated and will be opened to the public tomorrow. It is proudly proclaimed to be the house where he penned Ode to a Nightingale and asked the girl next door to marry him. Yet Keats lived there for just two years, albeit his most creative. It prompts the question â€“ does this postcard-pretty house of a writer who died at 26, which will attract those who like visiting pretty houses in Hampstead, deserve a Â£424,000 grant by the Heritage Lottery Fund, supplemented by the Corporation of London?

Let's contrast the apparent ease of finding the money for the young man Keats with the struggles over Mrs Gaskell, whose former house is at 84 Plymouth Grove, Ardwick, Manchester. It is a Grade II*-listed Regency-style villa, and it is on the English Heritage buildings at risk register. The Gaskell Society says it needs over Â£2m to save it, yet it has secured just Â£260,000, covering the first phase of renovation. I hope the society does not find the rest of the money; let the house rot and wilt and tumble down. These houses of the well-read dead signify only the self-importance of the literary society, waving the bowl to feed the cult of the author.

I used to live in Ardwick, and knew the Gaskell house long before I knew of her, or read anything by her. For years I walked by, to and from school, in total ignorance. Yet, while I became sympathetic to the didactic aims of her works, which make her of far higher social importance than Keats, and may explain her relative neglect, I would rather see the energies of these literary societies channelled differently. Dare they turn their gazes from the dead to the living?

The Gaskell Society declares that "the restoration of the building will act as a flagship for the regeneration of a socially disadvantaged area". This is a repulsive sentiment â€“ the girls of nearby Moss Side need more than Mrs Gaskell's bricks to inspire them â€“ and it is hard not to think that the fundraisers are leeching off the "socially disadvantaged" label of the area that has grown up around it.

But by ditching these shrines to dead writers, they could begin to make a real difference to living ones. Gaskell made her fortune and reputation writing about downtrodden women. Ardwick has plenty of them, many of whom could be finding their own literary voice. Ardwick needs youth centres and libraries and creative writing groups, where these woefully under-represented working-class women can be encouraged. Then we would have a richer and more diversified literature â€“ actually penned by those that live it.

Let us find ways of encouraging potential writers. Then I will give you an area that will be its own social regeneration. Because it is the works that matter, not which room the author squatted in, twiddling her hair and sucking the end of her quill. I'm sure that Mrs Gaskell would agree.

↑ Index

302. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: The cost of our dead poets society
Fri 24 Jul 2009

Joe,

Would you have felt differently if the house was of a poet you thought more highly of? I have a sense Keats ios not too high on your list of poets.

Murat

On Fri, Jul 24, 2009 at 11:39 AM, mIEKAL aND <[redacted]> wrote:

> The cost of our dead poets society
>
> http://www.guardian.co.uk/commentisfree/2009/jul/23/keats-house-funding
>
> The enormous sums spent on dead authors' houses should be used to support those with few other chances to write
>
> Keats House in Hampstead, the low pale villa where the poet lived, has been renovated and will be opened to the public tomorrow. It is

proudly proclaimed to be the house where he penned Ode to a Nightingale and asked the girl next door to marry him. Yet Keats lived there for just two years, albeit his most creative. It prompts the question – does this postcard-pretty house of a writer who died at 26, which will attract those who like visiting pretty houses in Hampstead, deserve a £424,000 grant by the Heritage Lottery Fund, supplemented by the Corporation of London?

Let's contrast the apparent ease of finding the money for the young man Keats with the struggles over Mrs Gaskell, whose former house is at 84 Plymouth Grove, Ardwick, Manchester. It is a Grade II-listed Regency-style villa, and it is on the English Heritage buildings at risk register. The Gaskell Society says it needs over £2m to save it, yet it has secured just £260,000, covering the first phase of renovation. I hope the society does not find the rest of the money; let the house rot and wilt and tumble down. These houses of the well-read dead signify only the self-importance of the literary society, waving the bowl to feed the cult of the author.*

I used to live in Ardwick, and knew the Gaskell house long before I knew of her, or read anything by her. For years I walked by, to and from school, in total ignorance. Yet, while I became sympathetic to the didactic aims of her works, which make her of far higher social importance than Keats, and may explain her relative neglect, I would rather see the energies of these literary societies channelled differently. Dare they turn their gazes from the dead to the living?

The Gaskell Society declares that "the restoration of the building will act as a flagship for the regeneration of a socially disadvantaged area". This is a repulsive sentiment – the girls of nearby Moss Side need more than Mrs Gaskell's bricks to inspire them – and it is hard not to think that the fundraisers are leeching off the "socially disadvantaged" label of the area that has grown up around it.

But by ditching these shrines to dead writers, they could begin to make a real difference to living ones. Gaskell made her fortune and reputation writing about downtrodden women. Ardwick has plenty of them, many of whom could be finding their own literary voice. Ardwick needs youth centres and libraries and creative writing groups, where these woefully under-represented working-class women can be encouraged. Then we would have a richer and more diversified literature – actually penned by those that live it.

Let us find ways of encouraging potential writers. Then I will give you an area that will be its own social regeneration. Because it is the works that matter, not which room the author squatted in, twiddling her hair and sucking the end of her quill. I'm sure that Mrs

> Gaskell would agree.

↑ Index

303. Catherine Daly
Re: The cost of our dead poets society
Fri 24 Jul 2009

Are you the one who also posted about how Edith Wharton's House is losing money?http://www.edithwharton.org/

<http://www.edithwharton.org/>"Thanks to the generosity of our supporters, the co-operation of our principal creditors, and to a large gift from the Alice M. Kaplan Memorial Reserve, The Mount has staved off the threat of foreclosure that has recently threatened its existence."

It always annoyed me that Lowe's supports Biltmore and not The Mount, but The Mount people really overestimated the appeal of Wharton and the Berkshires, and never hit up serious interior design / construction money.

As opposed to The Mount, it seems that Gaskell's house is supposed to be turned into a community center. I think that sounds like a good use, rather than teaching writing in soulless "youth centres," teaching writing in a pretty house that local craftsmen helped restore. I think everyone's beginning to realize how public objects become landmarks. That said, "street view" of the existing community center indicates it is in yet another tumbledown mansion.

The Keats house has been a museum since 1925.

--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

↑ Index

304. nieuwland jeroen
Visual art / poetry
Fri 24 Jul 2009

Dear everyone,

I've had some discussions recently following from a remark by a friend that the distinction between visual art and poetry is reactionary, similarly to the hard and fast distinction that used to be made between sculpure and painting.

Personally I can't help but thinking that even though often the distinction is blurred, there remains an essential difference between the two; namely, that visual art might, but need not use language, but for poetry, however widely understood, language is an essential ingredient.

Does anyone have any thoughts on this?

Thanks and best, Jeroen

↑ Index

305. cris cheek
part: short life housing
Fri 24 Jul 2009

Hi all,
i've got a new book out in the world. I urge you to support The Gig, a fine fine press, and buy a copy. It's a handsome book and i'm very proud of it!

You can order thru SPD and Bridge Street Books too i hope.

I expect to be doing some live readings to promote it (so, erm. . . all offers welcome ;-))

cris cheek
part: short life housing

This book collects seven texts written between 1981 and 1999, by UK-born, US-based poet/multimedia artist cris cheek. cheek was one of the key figures in the London poetry scene of the 1980s â€” the so-called â€œlinguistically-innovative poetryâ€ grouping later anthologized in Robert Sheppard and Adrian Clarkeâ€™s Floating Capital: New Poets from London. Likewise, he became central to developments in Performance Writing emerging out of variant distributed networks during the following decade. He has remained a prolific, genre-slipping figure: poet, performance artist and musician, whose activities range from the ambitious conceptual project Things Not Worth Keeping to recordings with the ensembles Slant and Garam Masala. Yet to date his publications have been relatively scarce and elusive, a situation which part: short life housing goes far to rectify.

At the heart of this book are two long sequences, previously unpublished aside from short extracts: â€œcanning town chronicles,â€ a scathing set of verbal accretions that emerged from the wreckage of the Thatcher era; and â€œf o g s,â€ a series of typestracts quarried from verbal improvisations recorded during outdoor walks in densely foggy weather. Also included are several shorter pieces, including a selection of early 1980s work and â€œplain speaking yet,â€ cheekâ€™s memorial to the novelist Kathy Acker. The poems have, in keeping with the authorâ€™s concern for the specificity of occasion and publication, been revised and visually reimagined with this volume in mind.

*

For all its thickness, unanticipated moves, visual beauty, and playful language acrobatics, the poetry of part: short life housing consistently retains the edge of serious critique. There are few poets as attuned to the sounds and ambient fogs of everyday life as cris cheek, yet his record is tuned and sharply turned toward the reimagining of social knowledge. This volume is a generous move towards the full representation of cheekâ€™s crucial project. â€” Carla Harryman

Finally a good and rich span of writings from cris cheek. Hereâ€™s an artist and writer whose work has always taken up active tenancy of the languages and the streets of urban living, recording them and composing them back into the dense abstract neighbourhoods of his pieces. With this careful selection, cris cheek reminds us that he is a Londoner and as such is as inhabited by Dickensâ€™ dark maze of industrial streets as by mind-altering years of activist art lodgings, smoggy thoughtful wanderings or the eerie shock of the thatcheritic city. Thatâ€™s at least two hundred years of grime, greed and energy youâ€™ll find distilled in the cellular lines and ink splashes of this great volume. â€“ Caroline Bergvall â€œi s y o u r t o n g u e a g l o m / w e a p o n t h a t s t a i n s ?â€ cris cheek is the Kepler of Chisenhale Dance Space. After a century of developments in poetic form best understood as a series of metaphors for transcribed speech, cheekâ€™s poetry often actually is transcribed speech, throwing shapes on the page that pay homage to (and lay the ghosts of) all the dead metaphors. As in Alvin Lucierâ€™s I Am Sitting in a Room, the speech in cheekâ€™s work functions as something like echolocation: its reflections (on him and in us) mapping out an ever more complex and multifocal shape for the public sphere, â€œw h e r e o t h e r s f e a r t o / t / r e a d.â€ â€” Peter Manson cris cheek, part: short life housing. The Gig, 2009. ISBN 978-0-9735875-5-5. 270pp, 6â€³ x 9â€³, perfectbound.

*

ORDERING INFORMATION (with a special deal!)

Within Canada: $22.50 â€” Within the US: $22.50 US
UK: Â£17 â€” Euro: â‚¬22
All prices include postage.

A special deal: for $8 Cdn / $8 US / Â£5 / â‚¬7, add one of the following:

* Slant, the canning town chronicles, sound&language (CD with cheek, Sianed Jones, Phillip Jeck â€” music based around texts collected in part: short life housing, as well as a reading of a Kinks tuneâ€¦!) * cris cheek, the church, the school, the beer (Critical Documents) * Antiphonies: Essays on Womenâ€™s Experimental Poetries in Canada * Maggie Oâ€™Sullivan, Palace of Reptiles * Allen Fisher, Entanglement

Please make out cheques to â€œNate Dorwardâ€, & send to:
109 Hounslow Ave, North York, ON, M2N 2B1, Canada
(email: ndorward [at-sign] ndorward [dot] com)

↑ Index

306. cris cheek
part: short life housing (review)
Fri 24 Jul 2009

---

just up on Chris Goode's highly estimable blog, following an excellent write up on Tom Raworth's collected prose "Earn Your Milk" and sundry other items:

In a slightly different mode but no less vimful is cris cheek's part: short life housing, a big event in itself but exciting also in that it's the first item to arise in a fair while from Nate Dorward's excellent The Gig in Toronto. This really handsome book collects work from the early 80s up to the nearly present, and it's as good as introduction to cheek's work as you could wish for without actually seeing & hearing him unleash the true complexity of these works in performance. Having carried around this volume with me for a while, jumping in and out of it, I begin to see how (for me, right now) it reflects my own interest in the practice of place-ma(r)king in performance, a practice that can be lived in, that's not some reflective treetop or secluded glade, but a grimy, spunky, urban site whose churning, whirling multiplicities contain actual life behaviours, not just mimickings or courtroom sketches of these. The language here is able to be both edificial and viral, to jump (somewhat as theatre does, but free of some of theatre's topical responsibilities) between testimony and speculation; it is a language containing a cast of thousands, but also never quite adding up to one whole. To an extent this is a feature of the book as a whole: a kind of nagging provisionality, equal to the degree in which text in cheek's work is never just text, but is a participant in a whole playground (or workshop) of presences and effects. For example, I'm glad, on encountering here the fascinating canning town chronicles (from 1991-94) to know the CD of the same name by Slant, cheek's group with Sianed Jones and Philip Jeck, which terrifically effectively animates the same resources. Whether or not one knows cris's performative practices, however, I'm certain anyone would recognize the imperative embedded in all the works collected here to approach reading as a whole-body practice, and as an enterprise made sense of only in the context of collective action. The only possible reason I can see for cheek never to have received the props he's due in British writing networks is that he's scary like that. He needs you up on your feet: you just can't think hard enough or fast enough to stick with him if you're sitting down.

(Having said which, Jonny and I were lucky enough to spend some time hanging out with cris during his recent UK visit -- he's based in the States now; we miss him -- and there was a good measure of sedentary lolling in the hot June weather. What started out as a quick lunch squeezed in between his other appointments turned into a six hour marathon of anecdote and argument and much laughter, which left a real impression of wanting to stay more strongly connected to him than I've been of late. Eventually we adjourned to the BFI for drinks: and as cris finally left us, striding off through the bar, his imposing stature arguing productively with the lovely skirty kilty thing he was wearing, and his bald head bobbing above the post-work throng, we heard a slightly camp voice from the table behind us say: "Julius Caesar has left the building." Quite so.)

http://beescope.blogspot.com/2009/07/imagine-life.html

↑ Index

307. Jennifer Karmin
July 28: Marhsall, NC
Fri 24 Jul 2009

THE MARSHALL AURICULAR HOUR
Tuesday Night Summer Series

JULY 28
with writers
Amina Cain
Jennifer Karmin
Kristin Prevallet
and musician Steve Davidowski

at The French Broad Institute of Time and The River 68 North Main Street
Marshall, North Carolina

AMINA CAIN is the author of I Go To Some Hollow (Les Figues Press, 2009), a collection of stories that revolve quietly around human relationality, landscape, and emptiness.Â Her work has appeared or is forthcoming in publications such as 3rd bed, Action Yes, Denver Quarterly, Dewclaw, Encyclopedia vol. 2, La Petite Zine, and Sidebrow and has been translated into Polish on MINIMALBOOKS.Â She is also a curator, most recently for When Does It or You Begin? (Memory as Innovation), a month long festival of writing, performance, and video that took place at Links Hall in Chicago last January.Â She currently lives in Los Angeles.

JENNIFER KARMIN's text-sound epic Aaaaaaaaaaalice will be published by Flim Forum Press in 2009. She curates the Red Rover Series and is a founding member of the public art group Anti Gravity Surprise. Her multidisciplinary projects have been presented nationally at festivals, artist-run spaces, and on city streets.Â Jennifer teaches creative writing to immigrants at Truman College and works as a Poet in Residence for the Chicago Public Schools. Recent poems are published in the journals Cannot Exist, MoonLit, Otoliths, and anthologized in Come Together: Imagine Peac(Bottom Dog Press), Not A Muse (Haven Books), and The City Visible: Chicago Poetry for the New Century (Cracked Slab Books).

KRISTIN PREVALLET's books include I, Afterlife: Essay in Mourning Time(Essay Press, 2007), Shadow Evidence Intelligence (Factory School, 2006), Scratch Sides: Poetry, Documentation, and Image-Text Projects (Skanky Possum, 2002), and Perturbation, My Sister: A Study of Max Ernstâ€™s Hundred Headless Woman (First Intensity, 1997).Â She co-edited Third Mind: Creative Writing Through Visual Art with Tonya Foster (Teachers & Writers, 2002), an anthology of essays about the challenges and rewards of uniting art and writing in the classroom. Her selected edition of Helen Adamâ€™s ballads and collages, The Helen Adam Reader, was published by the National Poetry Foundation in 2007.

THE FRENCH BROAD INSTITUTE OF TIME AND THE RIVER (FBI) is an arts venue and residency program founded by poet Lee Ann Brown and actor/director Tony Torn.

↑ Index

308. Regina Pinto
News
Sat 25 Jul 2009

1- My new experimental, sound, visual poetry work "An Iranian Rose is an Iranian Rose is an Iranian Rose" / 2009 (http://arteonline.arq.br/neda/) is participating of the Project Pantea's Rose by Deb King

July 25th is a 'Global Day of Action in Unity with the People of Iran.'

Pantea's Rose intends to be a simple show of solidarity, of shared humanity, with the mothers, fathers and children, the artists, academics and working people of Iran. Considering the importance the internet has been to the Iranian people's communication with the outside world, a net action take place is particularly appropriate.

http://www.panteasroses.com

2- My work "Café com Pão" / 2008 (http://arteonline.arq.br/train/) is participating of the FILE 09:

http://www.file.org.br

FILE 10 NURBS PROTO 4KT is the title of the FILE 09 exhibition that takes place in São Paulo, Brazil, from July 28 to August 30, 2009 at the Fiesp - Ruth Cardoso Cultural Center, from July 28 to August 30, Monday 11 a.m.-8 p.m., Tuesday to Saturday 10 a.m.-8 p.m. and Sunday 10 a.m.-7 p.m.

This year, we have the honor to present FILE 10 -- ten years of events accomplished in the city of São Paulo, ten years of discussion on art and technology in Brazil.

The 10th edition of FILE - Electronic Language International Festival - the major art and technology festival in Brazil and Latin America shows a great diversity of national and international research and productions. In this 10th edi tion 300 artists participate - among groups, collectives and individual works - from more than 30 nationalities, with productions in the areas of digital culture.

CAFÉ COM PÃO

"Café com Pão: coffee with bread, experimental visual/sound poetry by the artist Regina Pinto ." Tags: Manuel Badeira, Trem de Ferro, Henri Bergson, Interactive, Digital poetry, Sound Poetry, Visual poetry, New Media, Web art, experimental, literary, programming, movies, photos, Regina Célia Pinto, Bruno Ferreira Pinto (voice), Brigitte Neufeldt (voice), Myron Turner (voice), poetics, innovative"

==========

Regina Pinto

http://arteonline.arq.br
http://pintor.tumblr.com

↑ Index

309. EJOYCE
Slow Language
Sat 25 Jul 2009

On NPR this morning Scott Simon asked a novelist how the Internet has affected writing. He responded that he now finds it difficult to read writers like Henry James because he has grown unaccustomed to complicated syntax and longer, more developed arguments and that a movement needs to be started like the Slow Foods Movement that he called Slow Language. He said that poetry constitutes slow language.

--Lisa Joyce

p.s. It took me a long time to write this message but, sadly, I write it from a long distance from any other readers. Does Slow Language, like Slow Foods, need to embrace the local and the locally produced?

↑ Index

310. Jim Andrews
Book by Dominic McIver Lopes: A Philosophy of Computer Art
Sat 25 Jul 2009

Dominic McIver Lopes has a book coming out in August called A Philosophy of Computer Art; info at http://www.apoca.mentalpaint.net . I see a précis at http://aesthetics-online.org/articles/index.php?articles_id=40

He teaches Philosophy in Vancouver. Nice to have a different sort of approach to these matters. A philosopher.

And he talks about my piece Seattle Drift. In which the basic philosophy is 'do me'. Which, come to think of it, fits in with his philosophy, which stresses computation and interactivity in 'computer art', which he distinguishes from 'digital art'.

A useful distinction. Just about all art, these days, is involved in the digital. Even dance and the most print-minded endeavors of the literary. the most fundamental phenomenological characteristic of computers is programmability. this is what separates computers from other types of man-made machines. 'turing-complete' programmability provides a radical flexibility in what machines can do. flexibility so radical that there is no proof, and probably never will be, that there exist thought processes of which humans are capable and computers are not.

there probably never will be such proof because if such proof existed, it would mean that there was proof that there are types of machines that go beyond the capabilities of turing machines. and such proof has been sought since the early days of computing, to no avail.

what does this mean for computer art?

well, there are many artists who see computers as glorified media machines. glorified typewriters. or glorified sound editing facilities. and so on. more of the same only easier and better. so their notion of computer art does not go very far. we shall have more of the same from them. because that's what you get when you think of computers as glorified old-media machines. and of course we're getting lots of it.

whereas if we see computers as offering really quite radical possibilities, possibilities that are poetentially as flexible as thought itself in dynamic generation, then we have to revise our notions concerning the vistas of computer art. and not settle for more of the same.

programming that is not interactive can be very interesting, of course. it can also be made to respond to the surroundings or remote data in ways that aren't interactive with the audience but are nonetheless involved in growth and change, learning and possibly even thought of some sort. and that can be interesting in art pieces.

but i agree with Lopes that there is something special to interactivity with people in computer art. really good interactivity brings modes of discovery that are most interesting to me, among works of computer art. there can be a kind of dialogue or communication that is deeply satisfying as an art experience. perhaps because this sort of communication most dramatically and immediately explores our relations with machines and each other and ourselves. we get an inkling of some form of thought and communication that is a deep mixture of human thought and emotion and communication together with this new element we know is on the horizon of thought, ie, the thought of machines.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

311. William Slaughter
Notice: Mudlark
Sat 25 Jul 2009

New and On View: Mudlark Poster No. 82 (2009)

Five Poems by Jesse Shipway

Jesse Shipway earned his PhD in the School of English, Journalism and European Languages at the University of Tasmania. He has published essays, reviews and poems in a number of journals including Journal of Genocide Research, Australian Literary Studies, Architectural Review (Australia) and Island. He edits the literature site www.anastomoo.com and lives with his family in Hobart, Tasmania.

Spread the word. Far and wide,

William Slaughter

MUDLARK
An Electronic Journal of Poetry & Poetics
Never in and never out of print...
E-mail: [redacted]
URL: http://www.unf.edu/mudlark

↑ Index

312. steve dalachinsky
Re: Visual art / poetry
Sun 26 Jul 2009

---

try visual poetry

On Fri, 24 Jul 2009 10:57:18 -0700 nieuwland jeroen <[redacted]>
writes:
> Dear everyone,
>
>
> I've had some discussions recently
> following from a remark by a friend that the distinction between > visual art and poetry is reactionary, similarly to the hard and > fast
> distinction that used to be made between sculpure and painting.
>
> Personally I can't help but thinking > that even though often the distinction is blurred, there remains an > essential difference between the two; namely, that > visual art might, but need not use language, but for poetry, however
> widely
> understood, language is an essential ingredient.
>
> Does anyone have any thoughts on this?
>
> Thanks and best, Jeroen
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

313. amy king

This Saturday: Stain Carries on -- ~ Julian Brolaski, Adam Fieled, Nada Gordon, Scott Hightower, Chris Stackhouse & David Wolach ~

Sun 26 Jul 2009

The Stain of Poetry carries on, so please forward:

Â

The Stain of Poetry carries on, so please forward:

Â

Â

We're excited to introduce you to our new venue, Goodbye Blue Monday!Â A "cave of wonders, living room, library, and curiosity shop," they offer a variety:Â sake-infused lemonade, your favorite beers, chocolate cake and other tasty items -- what more could you want?Â How about some killer poets?Â Join us for the superlaunch with:

Â

Saturday, August 1st @ 7 p.m.

Â

~ Julian Brolaski, Adam Fieled, Nada Gordon, Scott Hightower, Chris Stackhouse & David Wolach ~

Â

Â

Goodbye Blue Monday

(go through cafe room

to back garden stage)

1087 Broadway

(corner of Dodworth St)

Brooklyn, NY 11221-3013

[redacted]

Â

J M Z trains to Myrtle Ave

or J train to Kosciusko St.

Â

~

Â

Julian T. Brolaski is the author of the chapbooks Hellish Death Monsters (Spooky Press,Â 2001), Letters to Hank Williams (True West Press, 2003), The Daily Usonian(Atticus/Finch, 2004) and Madame Bovaryâ€™s Diary (Cy Press, 2005) (under the name Tanya Brolaski), Buck in a Corridor (flynpyntar, 2008) and the blog herm of warsaw.Â Xir first book gowanus atropolis is forthcoming from Ugly Duckling Presse. Brolaski lives in Brooklyn where xe writes poetry, serves as a Litmus Press editor, plays country music inThe Low & the Lonesome, and curates thâ€™every-other-monthly freakshow Mongrel Vaudeville.

Â

~

Â

Adam Fieled is a poet, musician, and critic based in Philadelphia. He has released several books and chapbooks, maintains two blogs,and is finishing his PhD at Temple University, where he teaches.

Â

~

Â

Nada Gordon is the author of four poetry books: Folly, V. Imp, Are Not Our Lowing Heifers Sleeker than Night-Swollen Mushrooms?, and foriegnn bodie â€“ and, with Gary Sullivan, an e-pistolary techno-romantic non-fiction novel, Swoon. She practices poetry as deep entertainment and is a proud member of the Flarf Collective. Visit her blog athttp://ululate.blogspot.com.

Â

~

Â

Scott Hightowerâ€™s third collection, â€œPart of the Bargain,â€ received the 2004 Hayden Carruth Award. His translations from Spanish have garnered him a Willis Barnstone Translation Prize. He is a contributing editor to â€œThe Journal.â€Â His reviews frequently appear in â€œColdfront Magazineâ€ and â€œBoxcar Poetry Review.â€Â Â A native of central Texas, he lives with one foot in New York City, one in Texas, and one in Madrid, Spain. He teaches at NYU, and has taught poetry, non-fiction writing, and translation at Drew, F.I.T., Fordham, and Poets House.

Â

~

Â

Christopher Stackhouse is the author of poetry collected in the chapbook Slip (Corollary Press, 2005); co-author of Seismosis (1913 Press, 2006), a dialogic collaboration featuring Stackhouseâ€™s drawings and text by writer/professor John Keene (Northwestern University), with essays from poet Ed Roberson and poet/critic Geoffrey Jacques. He holds has MFA in Writing/Interdisciplinary Studies from Bard College; is a Cave Canem Writers Fellow; and is a 2005 Fellow in Poetry, New York Foundation for the Arts. His recent essays have been published in the literary journal American Poet, and the anthology A Best of Fence: The First Nine Years. He will be a guest faculty member in the Naropa University Summer Writing Program 2009, at the Jack Kerouac School of Disembodied Poetics in Boulder, Colorado. He organizes Readings at Max Protetch Gallery in New York City with poet/assistant gallery director Stuart Krimko. Currently completing a manuscript of poetry, while also doing research for the development of a non-fiction book on poetics, Stackhouse lives and works in Brooklyn New York.

Â

~

Â

David Wolach is professor of writing, poetics, & philosophy at The Evergreen State in Olympia, Washington, and visiting poet in Bard Collegeâ€™s Workshop in Language & Thinking.Â Author of Fractions of M, The Transcendental Insect Reader, Acts of Art/Works of Violence, and the forthcoming Scripto Erratum (sound/text compositions, scored with composer Arun Chandra & video artist Tasha Glen), Davidâ€™s work has appeared this year or is forthcoming from Bird Dog, CRIT, Night Train, Diode, The Concelebratory Shoehorn Review, Venereal Kittens, [...]: An Anthology of New American Writing, AB OVO, and Ignavia Press: Journal of Transgressive Queer Writing.Â Much of his work is multi-media and performative, and has been featured at venues such as Buffalo Poetics Series 2009, The American Cybernetics Conference 2009, and Bardâ€™s Visiting Poets Series.Â David is also editor of Wheelhouse Magazine & Press and curator of PRESS: A Cross-Cultural Literary Conference.

Â

~

Â

Hosted by Amy King and Ana BoÅ¾iÄeviÄ‡

Â

Â

Â

INFO:Â
http://stainofpoetry.wordpress.com/

Â

RSVP:Â
http://www.facebook.com/event.php?eid=103132898882

Â

Â

Â

Â

Â

Â

--

Â

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

314. Lisa Samuels
Oystercatcher Press wins UK pamphlet award
Sun 26 Jul 2009

I meant to send this earlier. It's great to see a wide-ranging avant chapbook press win such a thing.
See story following the individual winner (Elizabeth Burns) write-up:

'Oystercatcher Press has won the UK Poetry Publisher Award of the Michael Marks Awards for Poetry Pamphlets at PBS' http://www.guardian.co.uk/books/2009/jun/25/poetry-pamphlet-award-elizabeth-burns

Lisa

↑ Index

315. Paul Nelson
Re: Slow Language
Sun 26 Jul 2009

Lisa,

Have you seen the Big Bridge Slow Poetry anthology?

http://bigbridge.org/BB14/SLOWPO.HTM

Bon appetit.

Paul

Paul E. Nelson

Global Voices Radio
SPLAB!
American Sentences
Organic Poetry
Poetry Postcard Blog

Ilalqo, WA [redacted]

From: EJOYCE <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Saturday, July 25, 2009 6:04:15 AM
Subject: Slow Language

On NPR this morning Scott Simon asked a novelist how the Internet has affected writing. He responded that he now finds it difficult to read writers like Henry James because he has grown unaccustomed to complicated syntax and longer, more developed arguments and that a movement needs to be started like the Slow Foods Movement that he called Slow Language. He said that poetry constitutes slow language.

--Lisa Joyce

p.s. It took me a long time to write this message but, sadly, I write it from a long distance from any other readers. Does Slow Language, like Slow Foods, need to embrace the local and the locally produced?

↑ Index

316. Jim Andrews
Re: Visual art / poetry
Mon 27 Jul 2009

> I've had some discussions recently
> following from a remark by a friend that the distinction between > visual art and poetry is reactionary, similarly to the hard and fast > distinction that used to be made between sculpure and painting.

what do you mean by "reactionary"?

books on language in visual art have tended to concentrate on the work of conceptual artists. such as kosuth.

visual poetry has not been prominent in visual art, certainly. partly because visual art is a gallery-oriented thing. and more involved in commerce than poetry tends to be.

also, visual poetry very often is not sophisticated as image, ie, it's not up to snuff as image. but even when it is, it's usually not very involved in gallerys and commerce and so on.

> Personally I can't help but thinking
> that even though often the distinction is blurred, there remains an > essential difference between the two; namely, that
> visual art might, but need not use language, but for poetry, however
> widely
> understood, language is an essential ingredient.

what do you mean by "language"?

i think that what we think of as language is changing.

just fer instance, in the theory of computation, a language can be simply a set of strings. and the theory of computation can be viewed as the study of the formal properties of sets of strings, of languages. clearly this notion of language is a bit different from what a poet might typically think of as language.

but, also, we see how the realm of the visual can in some cases be mapped to languages. we 'parse' the visual field. we give space a kind of syntax and grammar. pattern recognition is language recognition because patterns are expressed in computing environments as strings or sets of strings or rules for generating sets of strings.

all of which is just to suggest that part of the whole intensity of our moment as poets involves a deep broadening and reexamination of what we think of as language and where and how language operates. and of course this touches arts and science.

concerning poetry, for me, it's the intensity of the engagement with language that counts. not whether it's in a particular form of language.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

317. Marcus Bales
Re: Slow Language
Mon 27 Jul 2009

Carrie Fisher: "Instant gratification takes too long." (A character in one of her novels says it, not her).

On 25 Jul 2009 at 9:04, EJOYCE wrote:

Date sent: Sat, 25 Jul 2009 09:04:15 -0400
Send reply to: "Poetics List (UPenn, UB)" <[redacted]>
From: EJOYCE <[redacted]>
Subject: Slow Language
To: [redacted]

> On NPR this morning Scott Simon asked a novelist how the Internet has affected writing. He responded that he now finds it difficult to read writers like Henry James because he has grown unaccustomed to complicated syntax and longer, more developed arguments and that a movement needs to be started like the Slow Foods Movement that he called Slow Language. He said that poetry constitutes slow language.
>
> --Lisa Joyce
>
> p.s. It took me a long time to write this message but, sadly, I write it from a long distance from any other readers. Does Slow Language, like Slow Foods, need to embrace the local and the locally produced?

↑ Index

318. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: Visual art / poetry
Mon 27 Jul 2009

Hi Jim,

"also, visual poetry very often is not sophisticated as image, ie, it's not up to snuff as image. but even when it is, it's usually not very involved in gallerys and commerce and so on."

I do agree about poetry not being involved in commerce part of your comment. But what do you mean by "not sophisticated"? Are you not equating sophistication by the techinical prowess of computers, in that way, being trapped by the ghost of progress? Is progress not a quality that often the poets/artists of one age feel about themselves only to be disillusioned later, to be debunked or attacked by a later age?

Ciao,

Murat

On Mon, Jul 27, 2009 at 2:28 AM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

> I've had some discussions recently
> following from a remark by a friend that the distinction between
> visual art and poetry is reactionary, similarly to the hard and fast > distinction that used to be made between sculpure and painting.
>
> what do you mean by "reactionary"?
>
> books on language in visual art have tended to concentrate on the work of > conceptual artists. such as kosuth.
>
> visual poetry has not been prominent in visual art, certainly. partly > because visual art is a gallery-oriented thing. and more involved in > commerce than poetry tends to be.
>
> also, visual poetry very often is not sophisticated as image, ie, it's not > up to snuff as image. but even when it is, it's usually not very involved in > gallerys and commerce and so on.
>
> Personally I can't help but thinking
> that even though often the distinction is blurred, there remains an
> essential difference between the two; namely, that
> visual art might, but need not use language, but for poetry, however
> widely
> understood, language is an essential ingredient.
>
> what do you mean by "language"?
>
> i think that what we think of as language is changing.
>
> just fer instance, in the theory of computation, a language can be simply a > set of strings. and the theory of computation can be viewed as the study of the formal properties of sets of strings, of languages. clearly this notion of language is a bit different from what a poet might typically think of as language.

>
> but, also, we see how the realm of the visual can in some cases be mapped to languages. we 'parse' the visual field. we give space a kind of syntax and grammar. pattern recognition is language recognition because patterns are expressed in computing environments as strings or sets of strings or rules for generating sets of strings.
>
> all of which is just to suggest that part of the whole intensity of our moment as poets involves a deep broadening and reexamination of what we think of as language and where and how language operates. and of course this touches arts and science.
>
> concerning poetry, for me, it's the intensity of the engagement with language that counts. not whether it's in a particular form of language.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com

↑ Index

319. Camille Martin
new on Rogue Embryo's blog
Mon 27 Jul 2009

New on Rogue Embryo’s blog:

New & improved font!

Also:
Experiment #61
a pinch of salt
Continents of Foam: Elisée Reclus’ Analogous Phenomena
The Prince of Orange
Gail Tarantino: Learning to Use Spoon by Reading Braille how beautiful is the universe
When Houses Were Alive

http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

Camille Martin
http://www.camillemartin.ca
http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

↑ Index

320. Douglas Manson
Re: Visual art / poetry
Mon 27 Jul 2009

A great set of questions, and Jim's post is helpful in thinking about them.

I also wonder why the distinction would be reactionary.

There were a lot of visual artists/media artists in the poetics seminars led by Charles Bernstein at UB in the 1990s.

Jim is wrong about poets in galleries--hundreds of visual poets have had their work in flagship museums/galleries, and too many to list here, but the most recent is Lawrence Wiener's 40 year retrospective at the Whitney Museum.

Dick Higgins' term intermedia (and his book on that subject) is the most useful, I think, to understanding the relationships of/ between and in the arts.

People should reject the distinction & develop as much as possible as cultural, creative, performing, practicing artists and writers.

The distinction is classical, categorical (Aristotelian) and relates to social identities more than any practice. From the sociological viewpoint, we can understand the economic meaning and use of the distinction, the specific "places" constructed for the making, distributing, consumption of the work. This is found in concrete form in the academic disciplines, and among organizations, associations, foundations, etc. i.e.: museum vs. library. Lessing's book Laocoon.

Conceptual artists, digital artists, conceptual writers, digital literature--etc. the viewpoint from aesthetics and poetics is of a fluid continuum of practices and works.

Our computer screens, our monitors, are now a place of text bound by a heretofore visually-oriented "frame" (a TV)--though digital writing can be projected on, or through, just about any medium now.

Also the distinction of the limitation of language v. universality of image--thus the 1960s-onward excitement over the idea of visual poetry bringing, immediately, poetic forms into international exchange beyond the limits of any local language.

see the poem, talk the art.

Now someone should tell us all about the distinction between thinking and art. Are art and thinking different?

douglas

On Sun, Jul 26, 2009 at 6:21 PM, steve dalachinsky <[redacted]>wrote:

> try visual poetry
>
> On Fri, 24 Jul 2009 10:57:18 -0700 nieuwland jeroen <[redacted]>
> writes:
> Dear everyone,
>
> I've had some discussions recently
> following from a remark by a friend that the distinction between > visual art and poetry is reactionary, similarly to the hard and
> fast
> distinction that used to be made between sculpure and painting.
>
> Personally I can't help but thinking
> that even though often the distinction is blurred, there remains an
> essential difference between the two; namely, that
> visual art might, but need not use language, but for poetry, however
> widely
> understood, language is an essential ingredient.
>
> Does anyone have any thoughts on this?
>
> Thanks and best, Jeroen

--
www.dougfinmanson.blogspot.com
www.myspace.com/inksaudible

↑ Index

321. Laura Hinton
Re: Visual art / poetry
Mon 27 Jul 2009

Although verbal and visual languages are different, they are both "languages." I've been reading W.J.T. Mitchell, who conceptualizes many of these issues in historic and conceptual detail. The classic perspective traditionally perceives the "visual" as not "language," as not artifice but "natural," or "immediate"

to the eye -- therefore, something very unlike poetry. That perspective, historically (for example, Gombrich) has given way to a recognition that such "immediacy" in the visual image is a myth, and that visual images are as manipulated and textual as are verbal/poetic ones.

--
Laura Hinton
Professor of English
City College of New York
http://www.mermaidtenementpress.com
http://www.chantdelasirene.com

On Mon, Jul 27, 2009 at 2:28 AM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

> I've had some discussions recently
> following from a remark by a friend that the distinction between
> visual art and poetry is reactionary, similarly to the hard and fast > distinction that used to be made between sculpure and painting.
>
> what do you mean by "reactionary"?
>
> books on language in visual art have tended to concentrate on the work of > conceptual artists. such as kosuth.
>
> visual poetry has not been prominent in visual art, certainly. partly > because visual art is a gallery-oriented thing. and more involved in > commerce than poetry tends to be.
>
> also, visual poetry very often is not sophisticated as image, ie, it's not
> up to snuff as image. but even when it is, it's usually not very involved in
> gallerys and commerce and so on.
>
> Personally I can't help but thinking
> that even though often the distinction is blurred, there remains an
> essential difference between the two; namely, that
> visual art might, but need not use language, but for poetry, however
> widely
> understood, language is an essential ingredient.
>
> what do you mean by "language"?
>
> i think that what we think of as language is changing.
>
> just fer instance, in the theory of computation, a language can be simply a > set of strings. and the theory of computation can be viewed as the study of > the formal properties of sets of strings, of languages. clearly this notion > of language is a bit different from what a poet might typically think of as language.

>
> but, also, we see how the realm of the visual can in some cases be mapped to languages. we 'parse' the visual field. we give space a kind of syntax and grammar. pattern recognition is language recognition because patterns are expressed in computing environments as strings or sets of strings or rules for generating sets of strings.
>
> all of which is just to suggest that part of the whole intensity of our moment as poets involves a deep broadening and reexamination of what we think of as language and where and how language operates. and of course this touches arts and science.
>
> concerning poetry, for me, it's the intensity of the engagement with language that counts. not whether it's in a particular form of language.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com

↑ Index

322. Maria Damon

mercy mercy mercy

Mon 27 Jul 2009

Merce Cunningham, the American choreographer who was among a handful of 20th-century figures to make dance a major art and a major form of theater, died Sunday night. He was 90 and lived in Manhattan.

Read More:
http://www.nytimes.com/?emc=na

↑ Index

323. Laurie Schneider & Crag Hill

Re: Visual art / poetry

Mon 27 Jul 2009

Jeroen:

Ah, a question that seems to never get satisfactorily answered. People have been trying since Plato:

http://humanities.uchicago.edu/faculty/mitchell/glossary2004/utpicturapoesis.htm

Best, Crag

----- Original Message -----
From: "nieuwland jeroen" <[redacted]>
To: <[redacted]>
Sent: Friday, July 24, 2009 9:57 AM
Subject: Visual art / poetry

> Dear everyone,
>
> I've had some discussions recently
> following from a remark by a friend that the distinction between
> visual art and poetry is reactionary, similarly to the hard and fast > distinction that used to be made between sculpure and painting.
>
> Personally I can't help but thinking
> that even though often the distinction is blurred, there remains an
> essential difference between the two; namely, that
> visual art might, but need not use language, but for poetry, however
> widely
> understood, language is an essential ingredient.
>
> Does anyone have any thoughts on this?
>
> Thanks and best, Jeroen

No virus found in this incoming message.
Checked by AVG - www.avg.com
Version: 8.5.392 / Virus Database: 270.13.29/2261 - Release Date: 07/25/09
05:58:00

↑ Index

324. nieuwland jeroen
Re: Visual art / poetry
Mon 27 Jul 2009

Thanks Jim,
'reactionary' wasn't a word my friend used, but I assume he meant that there was a time when a distinction between visual art / poetry made sense, or at least was accepted, but that now it is anachronistic.

I guess it does come down to what is meant with language and I do understand that images could be arranged in a formally 'linguistic' systematicity. It seems weird though that a visual artist or poet could present their work as either art or poetry. Not that I insist on the distinction, on the contrary. But I do have my doubts about calling syntactically/grammatically mapped images poetry. Isn't there a systematicity inherent in everything? Maybe it's the communal element I'm missing, that language is an agreed upon convention, used by a group of people..

"...part of the whole intensity of our moment as poets involves a deep broadening and reexamination of what we think of as language": I think this maybe is an accurate description of our present situation; that we're in a transitional moment with respect to language, leaving an unclear distinction between visual art / poetry.

J.

From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Monday, July 27, 2009 8:28:55 AM
Subject: Re: Visual art / poetry

> I've had some discussions recently
> following from a remark by a friend that the distinction between
> visual art and poetry is reactionary, similarly to the hard and fast > distinction that used to be made between sculpure and painting.

what do you mean by "reactionary"?

books on language in visual art have tended to concentrate on the work of conceptual artists. such as kosuth.

visual poetry has not been prominent in visual art, certainly. partly because visual art is a gallery-oriented thing. and more involved in commerce than poetry tends to be.

also, visual poetry very often is not sophisticated as image, ie, it's not up to snuff as image. but even when it is, it's usually not very involved in gallerys and commerce and so on.

> Personally I can't help but thinking > that even though often the distinction is blurred, there remains an essential > difference between the two; namely, that > visual art might, but need not use language, but for poetry, however widely > understood, language is an essential ingredient.

what do you mean by "language"?

i think that what we think of as language is changing.

just fer instance, in the theory of computation, a language can be simply a set of strings. and the theory of computation can be viewed as the study of the formal properties of sets of strings, of languages. clearly this notion of language is a bit different from what a poet might typically think of as language.

but, also, we see how the realm of the visual can in some cases be mapped to languages. we 'parse' the visual field. we give space a kind of syntax and grammar. pattern recognition is language recognition because patterns are expressed in computing environments as strings or sets of strings or rules for generating sets of strings.

all of which is just to suggest that part of the whole intensity of our moment as poets involves a deep broadening and reexamination of what we think of as language and where and how language operates. and of course this touches arts and science.

concerning poetry, for me, it's the intensity of the engagement with language that counts. not whether it's in a particular form of language.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

325. David Chirot
Re: The cost of our dead poets society
Mon 27 Jul 2009

One good thing abt the museums and landmarks approach is it helps generate money for the local community via tourism
The money could be used for as Catherine suggest library places to teach or make zine posters anything-
(there might be pressure to just crank out more little replicas of the house and the figure(s) of the writer/s who lived in the house-
the "Fauxk Art" approach i call it-
local citizens become elves in a little Bronte workshop and one day rebel!
and burn the place down and then no more tourists--

seriously, there have been efforts in recent years to restore the houses Poe lived in in NYC-- my mother years ago sent a long long New Yorker article by a man who was in search of the house where Walt Whitman lived when he wrote and produced the First Edition of leaves of Grass. A very long search! Finally the writer climbs many flights of stairs and knocks on the door of the place where Whitman would've lived--and a giant Rastafarian answers the door.

The writers says--did you know that the great poet Walt Whitman lived here when he wrote Leaves of Grass, the first version?

the gentleman at the door replied--ho do you know a great poet isn't living here NOW.

Recently, by accident, someone fired an actual shot during those mass recreations of the Battel of gettyburg in whcih people i exact historical uniforms and with gun replicas and swords and cannon fight out the "reply" of the 150 year old batte.

I am surprised more people
do not start taking advantge of these battles to do some battling of their own--

i wonder if someday to keep the costs of maintenance down, these scenes might not be presented as are those of the caves where the cave paintings are-- the caves one may no longer visit as part of their "protection" are replicated in every way, and that way the tourist, the interested, the curious--may "re--experience in a literal way via the re-creation of the original house where once upon a time the great so and so wrote in one corner and used the chamber pot in another-

to experience via a replica--is a very interesting concept in itself-- does one experience the same sensory and spiritual aura & drama of the original site? or does one come away with a replica of what might have been one's experience in the face or inside the original? so that one's "experience" becomes removed from the site, distanced by replication-- and is another way in which the world is "evacuated" by the simulacrum, the replicants, reproductions, simulations--

one's feelings of a place are no longer of place but of an abstracted, distanced "idea" or "concept" of the "installation"-- the materials one is experiencing are not the same as the originals, perhaps made out of an entirely different kind of material, though looking all the same "very life-like"--

so now the living may visit a place where no one lived but is a life-like replica of a place where formerly people actually lived--

if "no one" other than an idea of a being, lives inside the replica--then is one encountering--no one? or a replkicant of the "writers spirit which one may still feel haunting these old walls."

so--a "spirit" of the writer--becomes a replicant of the spirit of the writer existing in a replicated home of the writer--

surrounded by so much replication, does human remain strictly human, or does it not perhaps begin to take on "the feelings and emotions of an imagination or idea of a replicant's feelings and ideas"-- and so eventually the person who enter the replicated house and meet the replicants of the spirits of the dead writer--inhabiting and haunting these replicated spaces--what then?--eventually the person becomes awarre of the touch of the replicated as being more real than the untouched original-to themselves and their freinds and al the rest who come there-- and by feeling only replications, replicants eventual the human might dream, desire to be also a replicant of oneself's' dead being, or of one's living one--to "live on" as a replication of one 's spirit in a physical way impossible before--

then death would become more important than life because in death one can replicate life without the consequences as one remains only inside the replication of ones "safe" abode--

there would be then the necessitating of making a replicated body as well a replicated spirit-- one doesn't even have to die to "have one's replicant and spirit walk beside one"-- (perhaps related to --or a replicant of --"the Third Who Walks beside me"--as in Eliot or Burroughs-Gysin's The third mind--??-[-they had in mind the quote from Eliot])

i wi leave off there, but it is a variant on-what exactly are people seeking to view an original house where once the lady's slippers trod?

are one's dreams one's life one's imagination altered by the contact with the spirit 'sitl infusing these pieces of furniture, these curtains, the very fireplace, with the spirit of the writer--"

so that one walks out with a part of the "dead' one's being accompanying one-- and would this really be radically different once one was going to replicated caves and houses---

to touch greatness is this a way to Thank the writer and also hope that God willing some of the Greatness might rub off on oneself, or inhabit oneself as it is "drunk in," as one is "immersed in its spirit waves"--

i think the strangest "home of a writer" i have seen/been was that of Nostradamus (this was before much had been made of it being such--i imagine now a tourist trap of the Nostradamus-predictad MegaMagnitude!)-)--in Saint-Remy, where Van Gogh much later on committed suicide in the asylum just outside the little town--

this place was so tiny and almost unnoticeable in a street without sunshine straight out of literally-- to be sure!-- the "Dark Ages"-- as t was so anonymously like every other tiny low ceilinged stone house among the row of them lined exactly next each other--

the streets looked more like it belonged in the nearby town of Uzes-- which is to say-- like a much darker copy of the film Las Hurdas (Land without bread) by Luis Bunuel (a mockumentary)

On Fri, Jul 24, 2009 at 10:53 AM, Catherine Daly <[redacted]>wrote:

> Are you the one who also posted about how Edith Wharton's House is losing money?http://www.edithwharton.org/
>
> <http://www.edithwharton.org/>"Thanks to the generosity of our supporters, the co-operation of our principal creditors, and to a large gift from the Alice M. Kaplan Memorial Reserve, The Mount has staved off the threat of foreclosure that has recently threatened its existence."
>
> It always annoyed me that Lowe's supports Biltmore and not The Mount, but The Mount people really overestimated the appeal of Wharton and the Berkshires, and never hit up serious interior design / construction money.
>
> As opposed to The Mount, it seems that Gaskell's house is supposed to be turned into a community center. I think that sounds like a good use, rather > than teaching writing in soulless "youth centres," teaching writing in a pretty house that local craftsmen helped restore. I think everyone's beginning to realize how public objects become landmarks. That said, "street view" of the existing community center indicates it is in yet another tumbledown mansion.
>
> The Keats house has been a museum since 1925.
>
> --
> All best,
> Catherine Daly
> [redacted]

↑ Index

326. Small Press Traffic
hey batter batter, swing batter
Mon 27 Jul 2009

Bill Luoma has been working hard in preparation for his August baseball writing laboratory at the Oakland Coliseum.
Check out what's in store for the workshop at http://oakdish.blogspot.com/.

There is still room available for this event, so sign up today at [redacted].

_____
The title of the workshop is Oakdish.

Oakland A's /White Sox Game with Bill Luoma
Oakland Coliseum Saturday August 22nd

3:45pm workshop/6:05pm game
$40 includes admission to the game and a baseball to take home/ $30 students and members

In the spirit of the Basketball Aritcle by Meyer and Waldman and Yo-Yo's with Money by Berrigan and Schiff, we will spend some time working on the body of baseball & poetry. Or just poetry since that encompasses baseball.

read:
* Beyond A Boundary, C.L.R. James, Duke Up 1993

* The American Game: Capitalism, Decolonialization, World Domination, and Baseball, John D. Kelly, Prickly Paradigm Press 1996

* The Basketball Article, Bernadette Mayer and Anne Waldman, Shark Books 2005 bring:notebook, pen, binoculars, short poem that will fit on a baseball, some phrase, collage on 4x6 baseball card, hat get:

* 1 baseball
* 1 copy (facsimile) of Yo-Yo's with Money, Ted Berrigan and Harris Schiff, United Artists 1977
* 1 copy (original) of the proceeds of whatever we do published by subpress if there is enough work/interest
* 1 bleachers ticket to Oakland vs Detroit

--
Samantha Giles
Executive Director
Small Press Traffic Literary Arts Center
sptraffic.org
smallpresstraffic.blogspot.com

↑ Index

327. Jonathan Morse
Visuals and verbals
Mon 27 Jul 2009

Photography, language, and memory are discussed on the blog "The Art Part" at http://jonathan-morse.blogspot.com.

Jonathan Morse

↑ Index

328. Jim Andrews
Re: Visual art / poetry
Tue 28 Jul 2009

---

it's nothing about computers, murat. a lot of visual poetry--of course there are wonderful exceptions--is not interesting as image. it is often interesting as text/image hybrid and possibly as language and/or poem in a mainly literary vein, or as proto-information/text step one poetics creator or as schematic language machine blueprint or musical 'score' or any number of other things that are strong enough functionally/conceptually that, in a real sense, it doesn't matter that, as image, they are naive or poorly executed or just not interested in the piece simply as image. usually visual poetry isn't by people whose main thing is visual art or who, otherwise, have managed to pick up a sense of image that makes inroads both literarily, in a broad sense, and in visual art.

but, similarly, if you look at visual art, how often is it interesting concerning language even when it uses written language? it might be interesting as image or installation or event or in any number of other typically visual-art-oriented parameters.

moreover, some scepticism regarding the efficacy of attention to the visual art oriented quality of image is warranted. often what's of interest is of interest as image for silly reasons. popular culture is a forty five year old determinedly juvenile. visual poetry is not often popular, it doesn't have to do the popular thing, and that also is valuable.

also, a certain scepticism regarding the value of gallerys is useful. i remember hearing a big canadian curator say 'an artist without a gallery is nothing'. which is unbelievably arrogant. you know, in net art, early on, there was talk about the value of artists doing net art to be free from the gallerys. but of course much of that was punk-minded propaganda to attract the attention of a gallery.

so i don't intend the remark simply as a criticism of visual poetry or visual poets.

the practice is fluid, as douglas suggests. but my observation is that there still are lots of divides between visual art and visual poetry.

ja
http://vispo.com

----- Original Message -----
From: "Murat Nemet-Nejat" <[redacted]>
To: <[redacted]>
Sent: Monday, July 27, 2009 6:13 AM
Subject: Re: Visual art / poetry

> Hi Jim,
>
> "also, visual poetry very often is not sophisticated as image, ie, it's not
> up to snuff as image. but even when it is, it's usually not very involved in > gallerys and commerce and so on."
>
> I do agree about poetry not being involved in commerce part of your comment.
> But what do you mean by "not sophisticated"? Are you not equating sophistication by the techinical prowess of computers, in that way, being trapped by the ghost of progress? Is progress not a quality that often the poets/artists of one age feel about themselves only to be disillusioned later, to be debunked or attacked by a later age?
>
> Ciao,
>
> Murat

↑ Index

329. steve dalachinsky

Re: mercy mercy mercy

Tue 28 Jul 2009

---

went to open house at his studio lasdt nite to honor him films wine crackrs sausage fruit and a lovely rooftop in westbeth

On Mon, 27 Jul 2009 10:59:38 -0500 Maria Damon <[redacted]> writes:
> Merce Cunningham, the American choreographer who was among a > handful of 20th-century figures to make dance a major art and > a major form of theater, died Sunday night. He was 90 and > lived in Manhattan.
>
> Read More:
> http://www.nytimes.com/?emc=na
>
>
>

↑ Index

330. Jonathan Morse
CFP: Ashbery in Paris, 2010
Tue 28 Jul 2009

---

http://www.fabula.org/actualites/article30672.php

-- from Ron Silliman's blog.

Jonathan Morse

↑ Index

331. James Robinson
Re: Visual art / poetry
Tue 28 Jul 2009

Interesting thread.

It's funny. I am in the midst of proposing a show to a gallery. The name of the show is "I HATE POETRY READINGS"... Basically, it's an anthology bound on walls that promotes a public reading of work that resists , on some level, vocalization. I've always enjoyed art receptions and believe that kind of tone, and the communication amongst the viewers, is appropriate to fulfilling a text's meaning. Regular readings, in my experience, are so one way and very colonizing on the part of the reader...Further, there is also a serious tone, a stuffiness, that seems to stifle what could be valuable conversations regarding the work. The work I am looking for, and the work I've so far found for it, is what I call "post-genre" works. I somehow think it's important to stay away from the words "poems", "poetry", "visual poetry" -- people have assumptions of what these are, also, there are stereotypes of the "poem and poet" that I think are negative and cheesy-- black berets, warm and humid personalities. Case in point, I remember talking about poems to people who could care less-- their response: "Isn't poetry what you do before suicide?"-- So there's "poetry as symptom"...

Work being produced today fail public's templates of what a poem is-- largely because of curriculum and public education...

SO here's my thought:
1) Come up with a new label
2) do readings in appropriate settings
3) Publish and sell posters instead of books.

JR

On Mon, Jul 27, 2009 at 1:32 PM, nieuwland jeroen <[redacted]> wrote:

> Thanks Jim,
> 'reactionary' wasn't a word my friend used, but I assume he meant that there was a time when a distinction between visual art / poetry made sense, or at least was accepted, but that now it is anachronistic.

I guess it does come down to what is meant with language and I do understand that images could be arranged in a formally 'linguistic' systematicity. It seems weird though that a visual artist or poet could present their work as either art or poetry. Not that I insist on the distinction, on the contrary. But I do have my doubts about calling syntactically/grammatically mapped images poetry. Isn't there a systematicity inherent in everything? Maybe it's the communal element I'm missing, that language is an agreed upon convention, used by a group of people..

"...part of the whole intensity of our moment as poets involves a deep broadening and reexamination of what we think of as language": I think this maybe is an accurate description of our present situation; that we're in a transitional moment with respect to language, leaving an unclear distinction between visual art / poetry.

J.

From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Monday, July 27, 2009 8:28:55 AM
Subject: Re: Visual art / poetry

I've had some discussions recently following from a remark by a friend that the distinction between visual art and poetry is reactionary, similarly to the hard and fast distinction that used to be made between sculpure and painting.

what do you mean by "reactionary"?

books on language in visual art have tended to concentrate on the work of conceptual artists. such as kosuth.

visual poetry has not been prominent in visual art, certainly. partly because visual art is a gallery-oriented thing. and more involved in commerce than poetry tends to be.

also, visual poetry very often is not sophisticated as image, ie, it's not up to snuff as image. but even when it is, it's usually not very involved in gallerys and commerce and so on.

Personally I can't help but thinking that even though often the distinction is blurred, there remains an essential difference between the two; namely, that visual art might, but need not use language, but for poetry, however widely understood, language is an essential ingredient.

what do you mean by "language"?

i think that what we think of as language is changing.

just fer instance, in the theory of computation, a language can be simply a set of strings. and the theory of computation can be viewed as the study of the formal properties of sets of strings, of languages. clearly this notion of language is a bit different from what a poet might typically think of as language.

but, also, we see how the realm of the visual can in some cases be mapped to languages. we 'parse' the visual field. we give space a kind of syntax and grammar. pattern recognition is language recognition because patterns are expressed in computing environments as strings or sets of strings or rules for generating sets of strings.

all of which is just to suggest that part of the whole intensity of our moment as poets involves a deep broadening and reexamination of what we think of as language and where and how language operates. and of course this touches arts and science.

concerning poetry, for me, it's the intensity of the engagement with language that counts. not whether it's in a particular form of language.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

332. Eric Hoffman
Reading at Small's in New York City, 9/12/09
Tue 28 Jul 2009

Eric Hoffman
Reading at Small's Jazz Club in New York City
http://www.smallsjazzclub.com/

When: Saturday, September 12th, 2009
Where: Small's Jazz Club located at 183 W. 10th Street in the Village.
Time: 5 p.m.

Hope to see you there!

↑ Index

333. Stephen Vincent
Re: Visual art / poetry
Tue 28 Jul 2009

As much as I think/know there are many by now great pieces of 'concrete poetry' that implicate both mediums - visual and linguistic(aka 'words', 'letters') - into an integrated object, I think it's also fun, insightful, etc., to keep and figure out ways to keep both mediums 'knocking heads' with each other - that is, exploring ways in which the combination of visual and linguistic offer the opportunity, for example, to yoke together opposites and/or similarities to produce something different - maybe comic and/or baroque in ways that provoke the senses and mind into unpredictable places/pieces.

I say this now in part - if I can be self-serving here - because of a current blog "Daily Phrase Project" for this month in which my practice has been to combine a photograph and either a piece of signage or a spoken phrase into 'a unit.' In addition to keeping my eye and ear perked to the local ground (tho phrases sometime leap out of the international TV set), I find both the exploration and the resulting combinations often to be revelatory. As to whether or not this work may also be taken as a form of 'social sculpture', that thought, for whatever its worth, has crossed my mind, too. As well as make me rethink other viz/po considerations.
If interested take a look at:
http://stephenvincent.net/blog/

Stephen Vincent

--- On Mon, 7/27/09, nieuwland jeroen <[redacted]> wrote:

From: nieuwland jeroen <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Visual art / poetry

To: [redacted]
Date: Monday, July 27, 2009, 10:32 AM

Thanks Jim,
'reactionary' wasn't a word my friend used, but I assume he meant that there was a time when a distinction between visual art / poetry made sense, or at least was accepted, but that now it is anachronistic.

I guess it does come down to what is meant with language and I do understand that images could be arranged in a formally 'linguistic' systematicity. It seems weird though that a visual artist or poet could present their work as either art or poetry. Not that I insist on the distinction, on the contrary. But I do have my doubts about calling syntactically/grammatically mapped images poetry. Isn't there a systematicity inherent in everything? Maybe it's the communal element I'm missing, that language is an agreed upon convention, used by a group of people..

"...part of the whole intensity of our moment as poets involves a deep broadening and reexamination of what we think of as language": I think this maybe is an accurate description of our present situation; that we're in a transitional moment with respect to language, leaving an unclear distinction between visual art / poetry.

J.

From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Monday, July 27, 2009 8:28:55 AM
Subject: Re: Visual art / poetry

> I've had some discussions recently
> following from a remark by a friend that the distinction between
> visual art and poetry is reactionary, similarly to the hard and fast > distinction that used to be made between sculpure and painting.

what do you mean by "reactionary"?

books on language in visual art have tended to concentrate on the work of conceptual artists. such as kosuth.

visual poetry has not been prominent in visual art, certainly. partly because visual art is a gallery-oriented thing. and more involved in commerce than poetry tends to be.

also, visual poetry very often is not sophisticated as image, ie, it's not up to snuff as image. but even when it is, it's usually not very involved in gallerys and commerce and so on.

> Personally I can't help but thinking > that even though often the distinction is blurred, there remains an essential difference between the two; namely, that > visual art might, but need not use language, but for poetry, however widely understood, language is an essential ingredient.

what do you mean by "language"?

i think that what we think of as language is changing.

just fer instance, in the theory of computation, a language can be simply a set of strings. and the theory of computation can be viewed as the study of the formal properties of sets of strings, of languages. clearly this notion of language is a bit different from what a poet might typically think of as language.

but, also, we see how the realm of the visual can in some cases be mapped to languages. we 'parse' the visual field. we give space a kind of syntax and grammar. pattern recognition is language recognition because patterns are expressed in computing environments as strings or sets of strings or rules for generating sets of strings.

all of which is just to suggest that part of the whole intensity of our moment as poets involves a deep broadening and reexamination of what we think of as language and where and how language operates. and of course this touches arts and science.

concerning poetry, for me, it's the intensity of the engagement with language that counts. not whether it's in a particular form of language.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

334. steve russell
Re: The cost of our dead poets society
Tue 28 Jul 2009

---

now i don't mind a little tourism in the town where i grew up as it gave us the Kerouax house in Orlando Florida, but where are those little greasy elves when you need them to burn down DISNEY WORLD??????????????????????

--- On Mon, 7/27/09, David Chirot <[redacted]> wrote:

From: David Chirot <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: The cost of our dead poets society
To: [redacted]
Date: Monday, July 27, 2009, 2:42 PM

One good thing abt the museums and landmarks approach is it helps generate money for the local community via tourism
The money could be used for as Catherine suggest library places to teach or make zine posters anything-
(there might be pressure to just crank out more little replicas of the house and the figure(s) of the writer/s who lived in the house-
the "Fauxk Art" approach i call it-
local citizens become elves in a little Bronte workshop and one day rebel!
and burn the place down and then no more tourists--

seriously, there have been efforts in recent years to restore the houses Poe lived in in NYC-- my mother years ago sent a long long New Yorker article by a man who was in search of the house where Walt Whitman lived when he wrote and produced the First Edition of leaves of Grass. A very long search! Finally the writer climbs many flights of stairs and knocks on the door of the place where Whitman would've lived--and a giant Rastafarian answers the door.

The writers says--did you know that the great poet Walt Whitman lived here when he wrote Leaves of Grass, the first version?

the gentleman at the door replied--ho do you know a great poet isn't living here NOW.

Recently, by accident, someone fired an actual shot during those mass recreations of the Battel of gettyburg in whcih people i exact historical uniforms and with gun replicas and swords and cannon fight out the "reply" of the 150 year old batte.

I am surprised more people
do not start taking advantge of these battles to do some battling of their own--

i wonder if someday to keep the costs of maintenance down, these scenes might not be presented as are those of the caves where the cave paintings are-- the caves one may no longer visit as part of their "protection" are replicated in every way, and that way the tourist, the interested, the curious--may "re--experience in a literal way via the re-creation of the original house where once upon a time the great so and so wrote in one corner and used the chamber pot in another-

to experience via a replica--is a very interesting concept in itself-- does one experience the same sensory and spiritual aura & drama of the original site? or does one come away with a replica of what might have been one's experience in the face or inside the original? so that one's "experience" becomes removed from the site, distanced by replication-- and is another way in which the world is "evacuated" by the simulacrum, the replicants, reproductions, simulations--

one's feelings of a place are no longer of place but of an abstracted, distanced "idea" or "concept" of the "installation"-- the materials one is experiencing are not the same as the originals, perhaps made out of an entirely different kind of material, though looking all the same "very life-like"--

so now the living may visit a place where no one lived but is a life-like replica of a place where formerly people actually lived--

if "no one" other than an idea of a being, lives inside the replica--then is one encountering--no one? or a replkicant of the "writers spirit which one may still feel haunting these old walls."

so--a "spirit" of the writer--becomes a replicant of the spirit of the writer existing in a replicated home of the writer--

surrounded by so much replication, does human remain strictly human, or does it not perhaps begin to take on "the feelings and emotions of an imagination or idea of a replicant's feelings and ideas"-- and so eventually the person who enter the replicated house and meet the replicants of the spirits of the dead writer--inhabiting and haunting these replicated spaces--what then?--eventually the person becomes awarre of the touch of the replicated as being more real than the untouched original-to themselves and their freinds and al the rest who come there--

and by feeling only replications, replicants eventual the human might dream, desire to be also a replicant of oneself's' dead being, or of one's living one--to "live on" as a replication of one 's spirit in a physical way impossible before--

then death would become more important than life because in death one can replicate life without the consequences as one remains only inside the replication of ones "safe" abode--

there would be then the necessitating of making a replicated body as well a replicated spirit-- one doesn't even have to die to "have one's replicant and spirit walk beside one"-- (perhaps related to --or a replicant of --"the Third Who Walks beside me"--as in Eliot or Burroughs-Gysin's The third mind--??-[-they had in mind the quote from Eliot])

i wi leave off there, but it is a variant on-what exactly are people seeking to view an original house where once the lady's slippers trod?

are one's dreams one's life one's imagination altered by the contact with the spirit 'sitl infusing these pieces of furniture, these curtains, the very fireplace, with the spirit of the writer--"

so that one walks out with a part of the "dead' one's being accompanying one--

and would this really be radically different once one was going to replicated caves and houses---

to touch greatness is this a way to Thank the writer and also hope that God willing some of the Greatness might rub off on oneself, or inhabit oneself as it is "drunk in," as one is "immersed in its spirit waves"--

i think the strangest "home of a writer" i have seen/been was that of Nostradamus (this was before much had been made of it being such--i imagine now a tourist trap of the Nostradamus-predictad MegaMagnitude!)-)--in Saint-Remy, where Van Gogh much later on committed suicide in the asylum just outside the little town--

this place was so tiny and almost unnoticeable in a street without sunshine straight out of literally-- to be sure!-- the "Dark Ages"-- as t was so anonymously like every other tiny low ceilinged stone house among the row of them lined exactly next each other--

the streets looked more like it belonged in the nearby town of Uzes-- which is to say-- like a much darker copy of the film Las Hurdas (Land without bread) by Luis Bunuel (a mockumentary)

On Fri, Jul 24, 2009 at 10:53 AM, Catherine Daly <[redacted]>wrote:

> Are you the one who also posted about how Edith Wharton's House is losing money?http://www.edithwharton.org/
>
> <http://www.edithwharton.org/>"Thanks to the generosity of our supporters, the co-operation of our principal creditors, and to a large gift from the Alice M. Kaplan Memorial Reserve, The Mount has staved off the threat of foreclosure that has recently threatened its existence."
>
> It always annoyed me that Lowe's supports Biltmore and not The Mount, but The Mount people really overestimated the appeal of Wharton and the Berkshires, and never hit up serious interior design / construction money.
>
> As opposed to The Mount, it seems that Gaskell's house is supposed to be turned into a community center. I think that sounds like a good use, rather > than teaching writing in soulless "youth centres," teaching writing in a pretty house that local craftsmen helped restore. I think everyone's beginning to realize how public objects become landmarks. That said, "street view" of the existing community center indicates it is in yet another tumbledown mansion.
>
> The Keats house has been a museum since 1925.
>
> --
> All best,
> Catherine Daly
> [redacted]

↑ Index

335. Jim Andrews
Re: Visual art / poetry
Tue 28 Jul 2009

> "...part of the whole intensity of our moment as poets involves a deep broadening and reexamination of what we think of as language": I think this maybe is an accurate description of our present situation; that we're in a transitional moment with respect to language, leaving an unclear distinction between visual art / poetry.
>
> J.

it may be that the gulf between the realms of visual art and visual poetry is, partly, a result of visual poetry doing something not simply worse but basically different from visual art. and that 'something' may relate to the above. the engagement of visual poetry with issues of language can be totally diverse and intense. difficult. idiosyncratic. personal. universal. but engaged with matters from computing to orality, poetry to code, visual art to publishing.

'the image' is not the main thing in visual poetry. this is often not understood by visual artists and visual poetry appears as the domain of writers who are simply incompetent and mainly unimaginative concerning everything visual. of course there is lots of that, but the main thing is that the image is not the main thing, in visual poetry, as it is in visual art. instead, it's the nature and intensity of the engagement with language.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

336. Anny Ballardini
the Four Seasons - a tribute to Antonio Vivaldi
Tue 28 Jul 2009

For an exceptional summer, as exceptional are the contributors to this issue, an issue that concludes The Four Seasons, one poem after another to honor Antonio Vivaldi. Today, on the commemoration of his death on July 28, 1741, I felt I had to send out this announcement and I rushed to put together an Editorial. Only while writing these words, I realized it is July 28. Things happen above and below. I am therefore paying my reverence to the Maestro of the Conservatorio dell’Ospedale della Pietà to thank him for his music.

Summer:

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=340

· Editorial: Anny Ballardini<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2965> · Charlotte Mandel<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2967> · Marton Koppany<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2975> · Bob Grumman <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2976> · Dan Waber <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2977> * ·* Hoshang Merchant<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2978> · Max Richards<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2980> · Barbara Crooker<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3003> · Tony Trigilio<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3004> · Barry Spacks<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3005> · Carol Novack<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3006> · Tad Richards<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3007> · Jerome Rothenberg<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3008> · Jon Corelis <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3009> · Wendy Vardaman<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3010> · Edward Mycue<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3011> · James Cervantes<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3012> · David Howard<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3013> · Frank Parker<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3014> · Ann Fisher-Wirth<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3015> · Ruth Fainlight<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3016> · Pierre Joris<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3017> · Grace Cavalieri<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3018> · Elizabeth Smither<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3019> · Eileen Tabios<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3020> · Nancy Keane <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3021> · Douglas Clark<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3022> · Jeff Harrison

<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3023>· Sonja James<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3024> · Marilyn Hacker<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3029> · Pam Brown <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3030> * ·* Crag Hill <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3031> *· * Obododimma Oha<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3032> · Fan Ogilvie <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3034> · Ned Condini <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3035> · Diane Kendig<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3036> · Jerry McGuire<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3037> · Donna Pecore<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3038> · Barry Alpert<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3039> · William Allegrezza<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3040> · Rebecca Seiferle<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3041> · Geraldine Monk<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3043> · Geof Huth <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3045> * ·* John Gery <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3051> *· * Eugen Galasso <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3060> · Wendy Taylor Carlisle<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3061> · Evelyn Posamentier<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3062> · Lars Palm <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3067> * ·* Daniel Zimmerman<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3075> · Karl Young <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3076> · Paolo Dalponte<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3085> · Sharon Dolin<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3107>

And to thank all those who have followed me in this yearlong Tribute I would like to invite you to read the previous issues with further additions:

Spring:

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=333

· Editorial: Anny Ballardini<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2861> · Lesley Wheeler<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2862> ·

Barry Spacks<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2863> · Jerome Rothenberg<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2864> · Joseph Duemer<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2865> · Frank Parker<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2866> · Camille Martin<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2867> · David Howard<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2868> · Jeff Harrison <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2869>· Márton Koppány <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2870> · Pam Brown <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2871> · Elizabeth Smither <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2872> · Edward Mycue <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2873> · Pierre Joris <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2874> · Dennis Barone <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2875> · Martin J. Walker <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2876> · Geof Huth <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2877> · Barbara Crooker <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2878> · Silvia Levenson <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2879> · Mark Young <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2880> · Katia Kapovich <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2881>· Daniela Gioseffi <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2882> · Jon Corelis <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2883> · Edward Mycue <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2884> (Second Part) · Jesse Glass<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2885> · Ned Condini <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2886> · Wendy Taylor Carlisle<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2887> · Tom Savage <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2888> · Wendy Vardaman<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2889> · Evelyn Posamentier<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2890> · Larry Jaffe <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2893> · Donna Pecore<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2899> · Patricia Valdata<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2900> · Jill Jones <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?

pa=printpage&pid=2901> · Tad
Richards<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2902> · Hoshang Merchant<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?
pa=printpage&pid=2903> · Tim Mayo <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?
pa=printpage&pid=2904> *· * Karl Young <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2905> *· * David Graham <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2906> ·
Eve Rifkah <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2907> · Ren Katherine Powell<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?
pa=printpage&pid=2908> · Penelope
Schott<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2909> ·
Alexander Jorgensen<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?
pa=printpage&pid=2911> · Larissa
Shmailo<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2912> ·
Beebe Barksdale-Bruner<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?
pa=printpage&pid=2913> · Linda Benninghoff<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2914> · Charlotte Mandel<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?
pa=printpage&pid=2915> · Katerina
Klemer<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2916> ·
Claire Keyes <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?
pa=printpage&pid=2917>· Georgia Ann Banks-Martin <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2918> *· * Christina
Pacosz<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2919> ·
Phibby Venable<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?
pa=printpage&pid=2920> · Ada Jill Schneider<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2921> ·
Ann Fisher-Wirth<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?
pa=printpage&pid=2922> · Spencer
Selby<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2923> · Amy Gottlieb<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2925> ·
Fan Ogilvie <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2926> · Paul Vangelisti<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?
pa=printpage&pid=2944> · Jerry McGuire<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2945> ·
Jim Leftwich<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2948> · Wendy Taylor Carlisle<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?
pa=printpage&pid=2950> · Jean Vengua
<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2951> · Dan Waber <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2952> * ·*
John Bloomberg-Rissman <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?
pa=printpage&pid=2962>· Bob Grumman

<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2964>· Sharon Dolin<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2966> · Berty Skuber<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2968> · Patrick McManus<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2969> · David-Baptiste Chirot<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3000> · Jennifer Hill<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3057>

*Winter:
*
http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=329

· Editorial: Anny Ballardini<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2744> · Martha King <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2745> · Hiram Larew <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2746> · James Cervantes<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2747> · Laura Kennelly<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2748> · Edward Mycue<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2749> · Alicia Ostriker<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2750> · Geof Huth <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2751> · Elizabeth Smither<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2752> · Daniel Zimmerman<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2753> · Barry Spacks<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2754> · Eve Rifkah <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2757> · Gertrude Halstaed<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2758> · Beverly Matherne<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2759> · Donna Pecore<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2760> · Jeff Harrison<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2761> · Grace Cavalieri<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2762> · Diane Lockward<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2763> · Camille Martin<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2764> · Dennis Barone<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2765> · Alan Sondheim<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2766> · Alexander

Dickow<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2767> · Douglas Clark<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2768> · David Graham<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2769> · Bob Grumman <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2770> · Eileen Tabios<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2771> · Sarah Menefee<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2772> · Pam Brown <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2773> * ·* Ray DiPalma <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2774> · Jerry McGuire<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2775> · Henry Reed <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2776> · Paolo Ruffilli<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2777> · Allen Bramhall<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2778> · J.P. Dancing Bear<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2779> · Mark Weiss <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2780> · Susan Rich <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2781> · Karl Young <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2782> · Ruth Fainlight<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2783> · Geoffrey Gatza<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2787> · Jim Leftwich<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2788> · Alan Michael Parker<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2789> · Barbara Crooker<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2790> · Jerome Rothenberg<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2792> · Deborah Humphreys<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2793> · Paolo Dalponte<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2794> · Susan Edwards<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2795> · Jean Lamberty<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2796> · Ned Condini <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2797> · Jill Jones <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2798> · Lois Roma-Deeley<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2799> · Fan Ogilvie <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2800> · Peter Ciccariello<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2801> ·

Frank Parker<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2803> · Jon Corelis <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2804> · Tim Mayo <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2805> *· * Alan Halsey <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2812> * ·* Spencer Selby<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2814> · Márton Koppány<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2815> · Wendy Vardaman<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2816> · Dan Waber <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2817> * ·* Wendy Taylor Carlisle<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2818> · Evelyn Posamentier<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2819> · Sheila E. Murphy<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2820> · Ann Fisher-Wirth<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2822> · Bob Holman <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2823> · Berty Skuber<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2824> · Michael Peverett<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2825> · Obododimma Oha<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2828> · Richard Dillon<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2830> · Diane Kendig<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2831> · Jukka-Pekka Kervinen<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2833> · Geraldine Monk<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2851> · William Allegrezza<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2853> * ·* Séamas Cain<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2854> · Tad Richards<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2855> · Bill Morgan <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2856> · Hoshang Merchant<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2857> · James Finnegan<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2858> · Michael Snider<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2859> · Yerra Sugarman<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2860> · Paul Vangelisti<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2946> · Jukka-Pekka Kervinen<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2961> · Patrick McManus<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2992> ·

Bob Grumman <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2993> · Jennifer Hill<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3056>

Autumn: http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=318

· Introduction by Anny Ballardini<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2567> · Dirk Vekemans<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2568> · Bobbi Lurie <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2569> · Anny Ballardini<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2570> · Obododimma Oha<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2571> · Jeff Harrison<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2572> · Cecil Touchon<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2573> · Halvard Johnson<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2574> · Jill McCabe Johnson<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2575> · Ann Neuser Lederer<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2576> · Barbara Crooker<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2577> · Christina Pacosz<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2578> · Penelope Schott<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2579> · Georgia Ann Banks-Martin<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2580> · Sandra Giedeman<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2581> · Joel Weishaus<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2582> · Pat Falk <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2583> · Tim Mayo <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2584> · Wendy Taylor Carlisle <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2585> · Wendy Vardaman<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2586> · Bill Morgan <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2587> · Eileen Tabios<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2588> · Sheila E. Murphy<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2589> · Alan Sondheim<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2590> · David Graham<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2591> · Tad Richards<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2592>

· Bob Grumman <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2593> · Henry Gould <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2594> · Jukka-Pekka Kervinen<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2595> · Guido Catalano<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2596> · Ruth Fainlight<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2597> · Ann Fisher-Wirth<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2598> · Fan Ogilvie <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2599> · Larissa Shmailo<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2600> · Geof Huth <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2608> * ·* Grace Cavalieri<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2609> · Mark Weiss <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2610> · Pam Brown <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2621> * ·* David Howard <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2622> · Edward Mycue<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2623> · Elizabeth Smither<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2625> · Elena Karina Byrne<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2626> · David-Baptiste Chirot<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2627> · Nico Vassilakis<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2631> · Allen Bramhall<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2632> · Dan Waber <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2633> * ·* Aaron Belz <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2635> * ·* Nicholas Piombino<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2636> · Joseph Duemer<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2645> · Daniel Zimmerman<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2646> · Geoffrey Gatza<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2647> · Jon Corelis <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2648> · Berty Skuber<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2649> · Peter Ciccariello<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2650> · Evelyn Posamentier<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2657> · Sharon Dolin<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2658> · Mark Young

<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2659> · Charles Martin<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2660> · Skip Fox <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2661> *· * Dianalee Velie<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2662> · William Allegrezza<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2663> · Karl Young <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2802> · Richard Dillon<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2813> · Dan Waber <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2826> * ·* Geraldine Monk<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2852> * ·* Paul Vangelisti<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2947> · Jim Leftwich<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2949> · Hoshang Merchant<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2979>

The main index of the Poets' Corner:

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content

As usual the order of apparition follows the order by which I received the submission.

My best wishes,

Anny Ballardini

--
Anny Ballardini
http://annyballardini.blogspot.com/
http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=poetshome
http://www.lulu.com/content/5806078
http://www.moriapoetry.com/ebooks.html
I Tell You: One must still have chaos in one to give birth to a dancing star!
Friedrich Nietzsche

↑ Index

337. Nico Vassilakis
SuBtExT/Seattle : Norma Cole & Will Owen : 8/5/09
Tue 28 Jul 2009

---

for more info:

http://subtextreadingseries.blogspot.com/

thanks for your time,

nico

_____ NEW mobile Hotmail. Optimized for YOUR phone. Click here. http://windowslive.com/Mobile?ocid=TXT_TAGLM_WL_CS_MB_new_hotmail_072009

↑ Index

338. Maria Damon

Poetry and Cultural Studies: A Reader. Book Party, Bowery Poetry Club!

Tue 28 Jul 2009

September 19, 2009
3:00-5:30 PM
BOWERY POETRY CLUB, NYC BOOK PARTY
FOR:
POETRY AND CULTURAL STUDIES: A READER, edited by Maria Damon and Ira Livingston
CELEBRATE POETRY'S ENGAGEMENT WITH THE SOCIAL!
GET YOUR PICTURE TAKEN WITH WALTER BENJAMIN!
ENTERTAINMENT AT 4:30: READINGS BY TRACIE MORRIS, CHARLES BERNSTEIN, AMITAVA KUMAR AND OTHER SPECIAL GUESTS.
FREE AND OPEN TO THE POETRY-AND-CULTURAL-STUDIES-LOVING PUBLIC

This volume is the first of its kind to collect classic and contemporary work focused on the intersection of poetry and cultural studies, reaching from Wordsworth's "Preface to Lyrical Ballads" and W. E. B. Du Bois's "Of the Sorrow Songs" to present-day essays on rap lyrics, queer poetry, folk poetry, and beyond. Rethinking poetic experience and its roles in popular or mass culture, these essays effectively delineate the relationship between poetry and the public social culture in which it is engendered.

Partial List of Contributors: Lila Abu-Lughod, Theodor Adorno, Miguel Algarín, Walter Benjamin, Charles Bernstein, Kamau Brathwaite, Bruce Campbell, Steven Caton, Dipesh Chakrabarty, Page Dubois, W. E. B. Du Bois, Rachel Blau Duplessis, Antony Easthope, Henry Louis Gates, Jr., Stephen Henderson, Yunte Huang, Robin Kelley, Audre Lorde, Hans Robert Jauss, John Mowitt, Americo Paredes, Jacques Rancière, Kristin Ross, Eve Kosofsky Sedgwick, Trinh Minh Ha, Barrett Watten, William Wordsworth.

"It is time for this book. Poetry is studied more and more frequently with a cultural studies approach, and Damon and Livingston provide the perfect balance in this collection."--Juliana Spahr

COPIES OF THE BOOK WILL BE OFFERED FOR SALE AT AUTHORS' DISCOUNT

↑ Index

339. Andy Gricevich
Meta-Shakespearean Socially Critical Theater in Minneapolis
Wed 29 Jul 2009

Hi, all!

Our theater group, the Nonsense Company, will premiere our big new theater piece, STORM STILL, at the Minnesota Fringe Festival, starting this weekend. If anyone's interested in socially critical metatextuality (gosh, who isn't?), avant-garde music, historical oddities, experimental writing, humor and pathos, very well-rehearsed acting, and a bit of targeted nastiness, please do come! It will be strange, fun, and probably a bit distressing.

(The attentive may also catch fragments of Foucault, Spicer, Crane, and others).

I've pasted our mass email blurb below. Hope you're all doing well!

Andy

Hello, all!

The Nonsense Company is proud to premiere its new play-thing, STORM STILL, as part of the Minnesota Fringe Festival, starting this Friday!

Outside an abandoned school a war rages.
Inside, three kids have been performing an unsupervised rendition of King Lear for years.
Further inside, the mad King debates the purpose of theater with his Fool, a licensed therapist.

There is music of many kinds, rapid character shifts, trenchant bits, hilarity, sadness, history, poetry, centuries-old legalese and medical jargon, and even a little Shakespeare.

The Philadelphia City Paper called it "Extremely funny, clever, literate, engrossing, and absurd, carefully orchestrated chaos that made for fantastic entertainment." And they only saw 25 percent of it.

July 31st-August 2nd
and August 6th-8th

all shows at 10 p.m. (the show runs 95 intermissionless minutes)
City of Lakes Waldorf School
2344 Nicollet Avenue South

Help alert the masses! And support the Fringe:
http://www.fringefestival.org/2009/show/?id=1154

Hope to see you there!

The Nonsense Company
http://www.nonsensecompany.com

↑ Index

340. steve dalachinsky
george russell
Wed 29 Jul 2009

---

pan-metric
a-metric the great composer thorist -pianist george russell passed away
at 86
listen if you never have

↑ Index

341. Alexander Jorgensen
Pushcart Prize - looking for news
Wed 29 Jul 2009

Anyone able to pass along some news on the most recently awaited Pushcart?
Your time will be much appreciated.

Regards,
AGJ

↑ Index

342. steve dalachinsky
reading
Wed 29 Jul 2009

Steve Dalachinsky - words
with Albey Balgochian's Bassentric:
Lisle Ellis...bass

Mike Bisio...bass
Albey Balgochian...bass

Aug. 11th, 2009, 8 P.M.
@ Local 269 (269 E Houston St.)
the bar on the corner of Houston & Suffolk St.

$10

↑ Index

343. Audrey Berry
Re: Visual art / poetry
Wed 29 Jul 2009

Jim, you write,"it's the intensity of the engagement with language that counts. Not whether it's in a particular form of language." This hits it dead on. The intensity of the engagement becomes particularly transparent in the visual form, especially when the act of (spontaneous) making is evident in the visual poem. When the action of the brush is undeniable, its splatter, intention and even its accident, the energy speaks, and language formed out of the shape. At least this is one of the many ways it's possible. This is a bit different for digital visual poetry, since the body is not as directly evident. I'm curious what you think about this notion. For me, visual poetry is visceral. It acts upon the body more immediately than language alone. The image is registered by the brain before language, or as 'open language', as it impacts the senses. Size and color, whether something is can be touched or manipulated are other factors. Visual poetry gets people to "walk through" poems, it can invite and engage even the most reluctant and distracted viewer/participant. Audrey

--- On Mon, 7/27/09, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: Visual art / poetry
To: [redacted]
Date: Monday, July 27, 2009, 2:28 AM

> I've had some discussions recently
> following from a remark by a friend that the distinction between
> visual art and poetry is reactionary, similarly to the hard and fast > distinction that used to be made between sculpure and painting.

what do you mean by "reactionary"?

books on language in visual art have tended to concentrate on the work of conceptual artists. such as kosuth.

visual poetry has not been prominent in visual art, certainly. partly because visual art is a gallery-oriented thing. and more involved in commerce than poetry tends to be.

also, visual poetry very often is not sophisticated as image, ie, it's not up to snuff as image. but even when it is, it's usually not very involved in gallerys and commerce and so on.

> Personally I can't help but thinking
> that even though often the distinction is blurred, there remains an essential difference between the two; namely, that
> visual art might, but need not use language, but for poetry, however widely understood, language is an essential ingredient.

what do you mean by "language"?

i think that what we think of as language is changing.

just fer instance, in the theory of computation, a language can be simply a set of strings. and the theory of computation can be viewed as the study of the formal properties of sets of strings, of languages. clearly this notion of language is a bit different from what a poet might typically think of as language.

but, also, we see how the realm of the visual can in some cases be mapped to languages. we 'parse' the visual field. we give space a kind of syntax and grammar. pattern recognition is language recognition because patterns are expressed in computing environments as strings or sets of strings or rules for generating sets of strings.

all of which is just to suggest that part of the whole intensity of our moment as poets involves a deep broadening and reexamination of what we think of as language and where and how language operates. and of course this touches arts and science.

concerning poetry, for me, it's the intensity of the engagement with language that counts. not whether it's in a particular form of language.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

344. steve dalachinsky
Re: The cost of our dead poets society
Wed 29 Jul 2009

---

speaking of kerouac
it's been proven and upheld by the courts tht kerouac's will was foged

now we'll see if it holds up when contested if it does the entire estste goes to his only living relative a nephew who is destitute drunk living in a trailer park the samps' now turn it all around say kerouasc' letter was forged and that nicosia is a bloodsucker but those phonies tho they have done good by publishing alot of jk's unpublished stuff have made it a multi-million dollar business anywa those who sided with sampas and you all know who you are may have to go loking elsewhere for employment soon any one for a bottle of cheap port wine???

On Tue, 28 Jul 2009 08:47:17 -0700 steve russell <[redacted]>
writes:
> now i don't mind a little tourism in the town where i grew up as it > gave us the Kerouax house in Orlando Florida, but where are those > little greasy elves when you need them to burn down DISNEY > WORLD??????????????????????
>
> --- On Mon, 7/27/09, David Chirot <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: David Chirot <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: The cost of our dead poets society
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Monday, July 27, 2009, 2:42 PM
>
> One good thing abt the museums and landmarks approach is it helps > generate > money for the local community via tourism
> The money could be used for as Catherine suggest library places to > teach or > make zine posters anything-> (there might be pressure to just crank out more little replicas of > the house > and the figure(s) of the writer/s who lived in the house-
> the "Fauxk Art" approach i call it-> local citizens become elves in a little Bronte workshop and one day > rebel!
> and burn the place down and then no more tourists--
>
> seriously, there have been efforts in recent years to restore the > houses Poe

> lived in in NYC-- > my mother years ago sent a long long New Yorker article by a man who > was in > search of the house where Walt Whitman lived when he wrote and > produced the > First Edition of leaves of Grass. A very long search! Finally the > writer
> climbs many flights of stairs and knocks on the door of the place > where
> Whitman would've lived--and a giant Rastafarian answers the door.
>
> The writers says--did you know that the great poet Walt Whitman > lived here
> when he wrote Leaves of Grass, the first version?
>
> the gentleman at the door replied--ho do you know a great poet isn't > living
> here NOW.
>
> Recently, by accident, someone fired an actual shot during those > mass
> recreations of the Battel of gettyburg in whcih people i exact > historical > uniforms and with gun replicas and swords and cannon fight out the > "reply"
> of the 150 year old batte.
>
> I am surprised more people > do not start taking advantge of these battles to do some battling of > their > own--
>
>
> i wonder if someday to keep the costs of maintenance down, these > scenes > might not be presented as are those of the caves where the cave > paintings
> are-- > the caves one may no longer visit as part of their "protection" are > replicated in every way, and that way the tourist, the interested,
> the > curious--may "re--experience in a literal way via the > re-creation of the > original house where once upon a time the great so and so wrote in > one > corner and used the chamber pot in another-

>
> to experience via a replica--is a very interesting concept in > itself-- > does one experience the same sensory and spiritual aura & drama of
> the > original site?
> or does one come away with a replica of what might have been one's > experience in the face or inside the original?
> so that one's "experience" becomes removed from the site, distanced
> by > replication-- > and is another way in which the world is "evacuated" by the > simulacrum, the > replicants, reproductions, simulations--
>
> one's feelings of a place are no longer of place but of an > abstracted,
> distanced "idea" or "concept" of the "installation"-- > the materials one is experiencing are not the same as the originals, > perhaps > made out of an entirely different kind of material, though looking > all the > same "very life-like"--
>
> so now the living may visit a place where no one lived but is a > life-like > replica of a place where formerly people actually lived--
>
> if "no one" other than an idea of a being, lives inside the > replica--then is > one encountering--no one? or a replkicant of the "writers spirit > which one > may still feel haunting these old walls."
>
> so--a "spirit" of the writer--becomes a replicant of the spirit of
> the > writer existing in a replicated home of the writer--
>

> surrounded by so much replication, does human remain strictly human, > or does > it not perhaps begin to take on "the feelings and emotions of an > imagination
> or idea of a replicant's feelings and ideas"-- > and so eventually the person who enter the replicated house and meet
> the > replicants of the spirits of the dead writer--inhabiting and > haunting these > replicated spaces--what then?--eventually the person becomes awarre > of the > touch of the replicated as being more real than the untouched > original-to > themselves and their freinds and al the rest who come there--
>
> and by feeling only replications, replicants eventual the human > might dream, > desire to be also a replicant of oneself's' dead being, or of one's > living
> one--to "live on" as a replication of one 's spirit in a physical > way > impossible before--
>
> then death would become more important than life because in death > one can > replicate life without the consequences as one remains only inside
> the > replication of ones "safe" abode--
>
> there would be then the necessitating of making a replicated body as > well a > replicated spirit-- > one doesn't even have to die to "have one's replicant and spirit > walk beside
> one"-- > (perhaps related to --or a replicant of --"the Third Who Walks > beside > me"--as in Eliot or Burroughs-Gysin's The third mind--??-[-they had > in mind
> the quote from Eliot])
>
> i wi leave off there, but it is a variant on-what exactly are people > seeking > to view an original house where once the lady's slippers trod?

>
> are one's dreams one's life one's imagination altered by the contact
> with > the spirit 'sitl infusing these pieces of furniture, these curtains,
> the > very fireplace, with the spirit of the writer--"
>
> so that one walks out with a part of the "dead' one's being > accompanying > one--
>
> and would this really be radically different once one was going to > replicated caves and houses---
>
> to touch greatness is this a way to Thank the writer and also hope > that God > willing some of the Greatness might rub off on oneself, or inhabit > oneself
> as it is "drunk in," as one is "immersed in its spirit waves"--
>
> i think the strangest "home of a writer" i have seen/been was that
> of > Nostradamus (this was before much had been made of it being such--i > imagine
> now a tourist trap of the Nostradamus-predictad > MegaMagnitude!)-)--in > Saint-Remy, where Van Gogh much later on committed suicide in the > asylum
> just outside the little town--
>
> this place was so tiny and almost unnoticeable in a street without > sunshine > straight out of literally-- to be sure!-- the "Dark Ages"-- as t was > so > anonymously like every other tiny low ceilinged stone house among > the row of > them lined exactly next each other--
>
> the streets looked more like it belonged in the nearby town of > Uzes--

> which is to say-- > like a much darker copy of the film Las Hurdas (Land without bread) > by Luis
> Bunuel (a mockumentary)
>
> On Fri, Jul 24, 2009 at 10:53 AM, Catherine Daly
> <[redacted]>wrote:
>
> > Are you the one who also posted about how Edith Wharton's House is > losing > > money?http://www.edithwharton.org/
> >
> > <http://www.edithwharton.org/>"Thanks to the generosity of our > supporters,
> > the co-operation of our principal creditors, and to a large gift > from the > > Alice M. Kaplan Memorial Reserve, The Mount has staved off the > threat of > > foreclosure that has recently threatened its existence."
> >
> > It always annoyed me that Lowe's supports Biltmore and not The > Mount, but
> > The Mount people really overestimated the appeal of Wharton and
> the > > Berkshires, and never hit up serious interior design / > construction money.
> >
> > As opposed to The Mount, it seems that Gaskell's house is supposed > to be > > turned into a community center. I think that sounds like a good > use,
> > rather > > than teaching writing in soulless "youth centres," teaching > writing in a > > pretty house that local craftsmen helped restore. I think > everyone's > > beginning to realize how public objects become landmarks. That > said,
> > "street view" of the existing community center indicates it is in > yet > > another tumbledown mansion.
> >

> > The Keats house has been a museum since 1925.
> >
> > --
> > All best,
> > Catherine Daly
> > [redacted]
> >
> guidelines
> >
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

345. William Allegrezza
Have Save Cracked Slab Books
Wed 29 Jul 2009

Cracked Slab Books is trying to stay alive through the recession. In order to do that, we are offering three of our books 45%-60% off their usual prices in order to raise some funds. One of the books is our anthology of Chicago Poetry, The City Visible. The other books are Garin Cycholl's Rafetown Georgics and Michelle Noteboom's Edging. Please help us by purchasing a book.

To purchase the books at the special price, visit http://crackedslabbooks.com/facebook.html

Bill Allegrezza

↑ Index

346. Adam Katz
Got a used copy of 'A'?
Wed 29 Jul 2009

Hello,You know how sometimes it's possible to just give someone the perfect gift? Well, I put a lot of thought into gifts for the people who are important in my life, and my best friend is getting married in Boston on Sunday, and if I could give him a copy of Zukofsky's 'A' - but it's out of print! See, he's a medieval scholar, but he loves modernist literature, though doesn't study it enough to know about 'A' yet, and I am really, really hoping...anyways, if someone has a copy they'd be willing to sell - for less than the cheapest copy on Amazon, which is $80 and I'm sure wouldn't come in time, and can meet me in Boston/Cambridge on Saturday/Sunday or have it delivered to the friend there who I'll be staying with - please backchannel! Best, Adam Katz

↑ Index

347. Mary Kasimor
Re: Have Save Cracked Slab Books
Wed 29 Jul 2009

Bill, The anthology looks very interesting. I ordered it--I hope that helps.
Best,
Mary Kasimor

--- On Wed, 7/29/09, William Allegrezza <[redacted]> wrote:

From: William Allegrezza <[redacted]>
Subject: Have Save Cracked Slab Books
To: [redacted]
Date: Wednesday, July 29, 2009, 3:56 PM

Cracked Slab Books is trying to stay alive through the recession. In order to do that, we are offering three of our books 45%-60% off their usual prices in order to raise some funds. One of the books is our anthology of Chicago Poetry, The City Visible. The other books are Garin Cycholl's Rafetown Georgics and Michelle Noteboom's Edging. Please help us by purchasing a book.

To purchase the books at the special price, visit http://crackedslabbooks.com/facebook.html

Bill Allegrezza

↑ Index

348. Allan Revich
Re: Visual art / poetry
Wed 29 Jul 2009

I think that one of the advantages (among a few admitted disadvantages) of living in the age of postmodernity is that we no longer need to feel bound to any limiting grand narratives.

There is room for poetry that rhymes. There is room for poetry that is pleasing to the ear. There is room for poetry that is classically composed. There is room for short-forms, long-forms, old forms, sonnets, villanelles, haiku, senryu, tanka, and zen. And there is also room for visual poetry, language poetry, concrete poetry, and for fluxus/intermedia works that cannot even be easily classed as poetry.

Write, read, make, and create whatever it is that pleases you --- and as long as the global village continues to communicate via bits and bytes, you are bound to find an audience and some fellow travelers on whatever road you happen to travel on.

Allan

-----Original Message-----
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of James Robinson
Sent: Tuesday, July 28, 2009 9:08 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: Visual art / poetry

Interesting thread.

It's funny. I am in the midst of proposing a show to a gallery. The name of the show is "I HATE POETRY READINGS"... Basically, it's an anthology bound on walls that promotes a public reading of work that resists , on some level, vocalization. I've always enjoyed art receptions and believe that kind of tone, and the communication amongst the viewers, is appropriate to fulfilling a text's meaning. Regular readings, in my experience, are so one way and very colonizing on the part of the reader...Further, there is also a serious tone, a stuffiness, that seems to stifle what could be valuable conversations regarding the work. The work I am looking for, and the work I've so far found for it, is what I call "post-genre" works. I somehow think it's important to stay away from the words "poems", "poetry", "visual poetry" -- people have assumptions of what these are, also, there are stereotypes of the "poem and poet" that I think are negative and cheesy-- black berets, warm and humid personalities. Case in point, I remember talking about poems to people who could care less-- their response: "Isn't poetry what you do before suicide?"-- So there's "poetry as symptom"...

Work being produced today fail public's templates of what a poem is-- largely because of curriculum and public education...

SO here's my thought:
1) Come up with a new label
2) do readings in appropriate settings
3) Publish and sell posters instead of books.

JR

On Mon, Jul 27, 2009 at 1:32 PM, nieuwland jeroen <[redacted]> wrote:

> Thanks Jim,
> 'reactionary' wasn't a word my friend used, but I assume he meant that > there was a time when a distinction between visual art / poetry made sense,
> or at least was accepted, but that now it is anachronistic.
>
> I guess it does come down to what is meant with language and I do > understand that images could be arranged in a formally 'linguistic' > systematicity. It seems weird though that a visual artist or poet could > present their work as either art or poetry. Not that I insist on the > distinction, on the contrary. But I do have my doubts about calling > syntactically/grammatically mapped images poetry. Isn't there a > systematicity inherent in everything? Maybe it's the communal element I'm > missing, that language is an agreed upon convention, used by a group of > people..
>
> "...part of the whole intensity of our moment as poets involves a deep > broadening and reexamination of what we think of as language": I think this > maybe is an accurate description of our present situation; that we're in a > transitional moment with respect to language, leaving an unclear distinction > between visual art / poetry.
>
> J.
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
> _____
> From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Monday, July 27, 2009 8:28:55 AM
> Subject: Re: Visual art / poetry
>
> > I've had some discussions recently
> > following from a remark by a friend that the distinction between
> > visual art and poetry is reactionary, similarly to the hard and fast > > distinction that used to be made between sculpure and painting.

>
> what do you mean by "reactionary"?
>
> books on language in visual art have tended to concentrate on the work of > conceptual artists. such as kosuth.
>
> visual poetry has not been prominent in visual art, certainly. partly > because visual art is a gallery-oriented thing. and more involved in > commerce than poetry tends to be.
>
> also, visual poetry very often is not sophisticated as image, ie, it's not > up to snuff as image. but even when it is, it's usually not very involved in > gallerys and commerce and so on.
>
> > Personally I can't help but thinking
> > that even though often the distinction is blurred, there remains an > essential difference between the two; namely, that > > visual art might, but need not use language, but for poetry, however
> widely > > understood, language is an essential ingredient.
>
> what do you mean by "language"?
>
> i think that what we think of as language is changing.
>
> just fer instance, in the theory of computation, a language can be simply
a > set of strings. and the theory of computation can be viewed as the study
of > the formal properties of sets of strings, of languages. clearly this notion > of language is a bit different from what a poet might typically think of as > language.
>
> but, also, we see how the realm of the visual can in some cases be mapped > to languages. we 'parse' the visual field. we give space a kind of syntax > and grammar. pattern recognition is language recognition because patterns > are expressed in computing environments as strings or sets of strings or > rules for generating sets of strings.

>
> all of which is just to suggest that part of the whole intensity of our > moment as poets involves a deep broadening and reexamination of what we > think of as language and where and how language operates. and of course this > touches arts and science.
>
> concerning poetry, for me, it's the intensity of the engagement with > language that counts. not whether it's in a particular form of language.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com
guidelines
>
>
>
>
guidelines
>
>

↑ Index

349. Allan Revich
Re: Visual art / poetry
Wed 29 Jul 2009

RE:
"...but my observation is that there still are lots of divides between visual art and visual poetry.

ja"

The idea of "divides" strikes me as outdated. I suppose that if one considers oneself to be something as limiting as a "painter", or a "poet" or a "novelist" or whatever sub-sub-genre of artist, then the idea of divisions might be attractive as a way to set oneself apart as an expert, or as a member of an exclusive elite.

For me these divisions are arbitrary and mostly meaningless. I don't see why an artist needs to limit himself to any one medium, or even genre. I have been involved with Fluxus and Intermedia for a number of years. I think that the most interesting and meaningful work being created today is happening in the spaces in which media intersect. Visual poetry sits in the intersection of visual art and text-based language. It also exists within a continuum of expression that includes everything from typewriter based concrete poetry through asemic writing and glyphs to digitally created or intermediated work.

I think that Merce Cunningham and his partner John Cage exemplified the idea of Intermedia perfectly in their collaborations and in their independent works.

Allan

-----Original Message-----
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Jim Andrews
Sent: Tuesday, July 28, 2009 1:09 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: Visual art / poetry

it's nothing about computers, murat. a lot of visual poetry--of course there are wonderful exceptions--is not interesting as image. it is often interesting as text/image hybrid and possibly as language and/or poem in a mainly literary vein, or as proto-information/text step one poetics creator or as schematic language machine blueprint or musical 'score' or any number of other things that are strong enough functionally/conceptually that, in a real sense, it doesn't matter that, as image, they are naive or poorly executed or just not interested in the piece simply as image. usually visual poetry isn't by people whose main thing is visual art or who, otherwise, have managed to pick up a sense of image that makes inroads both literarily, in a broad sense, and in visual art.

but, similarly, if you look at visual art, how often is it interesting concerning language even when it uses written language? it might be interesting as image or installation or event or in any number of other typically visual-art-oriented parameters.

moreover, some scepticism regarding the efficacy of attention to the visual art oriented quality of image is warranted. often what's of interest is of interest as image for silly reasons. popular culture is a forty five year old determinedly juvenile. visual poetry is not often popular, it doesn't have to do the popular thing, and that also is valuable.

also, a certain scepticism regarding the value of gallerys is useful. i remember hearing a big canadian curator say 'an artist without a gallery is nothing'. which is unbelievably arrogant. you know, in net art, early on, there was talk about the value of artists doing net art to be free from the gallerys. but of course much of that was punk-minded propaganda to attract the attention of a gallery.

so i don't intend the remark simply as a criticism of visual poetry or visual poets.

the practice is fluid, as douglas suggests. but my observation is that there still are lots of divides between visual art and visual poetry.

ja
http://vispo.com

----- Original Message -----
From: "Murat Nemet-Nejat" <[redacted]>
To: <[redacted]>
Sent: Monday, July 27, 2009 6:13 AM
Subject: Re: Visual art / poetry

> Hi Jim,
>
> "also, visual poetry very often is not sophisticated as image, ie, it's not
> up to snuff as image. but even when it is, it's usually not very involved in > gallerys and commerce and so on."
>
> I do agree about poetry not being involved in commerce part of your comment.
> But what do you mean by "not sophisticated"? Are you not equating sophistication by the techinical prowess of computers, in that way, being trapped by the ghost of progress? Is progress not a quality that often the poets/artists of one age feel about themselves only to be disillusioned later, to be debunked or attacked by a later age?
>
> Ciao,
>
> Murat

↑ Index

350. Hugh Behm-Steinberg
Re: Visual art / poetry
Wed 29 Jul 2009

It might make more sense to say that there are many artistic practices that are concerned with the interaction of language and visuality, including web design, graphic design, painting, conceptual art, sculpture, calligraphy (especially non-alphabetic), comix, graffiti/taggers and visual/concrete poetry. It's not that one practice is more or less reactionary than another, it's that each of these groups function as different communities with their own values, vocabularies, audiences and institutions. What's cutting edge to one group is ordinary practice to another and irrelevant to a third. More often than not the groups don't intersect, but there are lots of examples of people crossing over from one of these groups into another, like Ian Hamilton Finlay going from concrete poetry to sculpture/installation.

Hugh Behm-Steinberg

From: Jim Andrews <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Monday, July 27, 2009 10:09:06 PM
Subject: Re: Visual art / poetry

it's nothing about computers, murat. a lot of visual poetry--of course there are wonderful exceptions--is not interesting as image. it is often interesting as text/image hybrid and possibly as language and/or poem in a mainly literary vein, or as proto-information/text step one poetics creator or as schematic language machine blueprint or musical 'score' or any number of other things that are strong enough functionally/conceptually that, in a real sense, it doesn't matter that, as image, they are naive or poorly executed or just not interested in the piece simply as image. usually visual poetry isn't by people whose main thing is visual art or who, otherwise, have managed to pick up a sense of image that makes inroads both literarily, in a broad sense, and in visual art.

but, similarly, if you look at visual art, how often is it interesting concerning language even when it uses written language? it might be interesting as image or installation or event or in any number of other typically visual-art-oriented parameters.

moreover, some scepticism regarding the efficacy of attention to the visual art oriented quality of image is warranted. often what's of interest is of interest as image for silly reasons. popular culture is a forty five year old determinedly juvenile. visual poetry is not often popular, it doesn't have to do the popular thing, and that also is valuable.

also, a certain scepticism regarding the value of gallerys is useful. i remember hearing a big canadian curator say 'an artist without a gallery is nothing'. which is unbelievably arrogant. you know, in net art, early on, there was talk about the value of artists doing net art to be free from the gallerys. but of course much of that was punk-minded propaganda to attract the attention of a gallery.

so i don't intend the remark simply as a criticism of visual poetry or visual poets.

the practice is fluid, as douglas suggests. but my observation is that there still are lots of divides between visual art and visual poetry.

ja
http://vispo.com

----- Original Message ----- From: "Murat Nemet-Nejat" <[redacted]>
To: <[redacted]>
Sent: Monday, July 27, 2009 6:13 AM
Subject: Re: Visual art / poetry

> Hi Jim,
>
> "also, visual poetry very often is not sophisticated as image, ie, it's not up to snuff as image. but even when it is, it's usually not very involved in gallerys and commerce and so on."
>
> I do agree about poetry not being involved in commerce part of your comment. But what do you mean by "not sophisticated"? Are you not equating sophistication by the techinical prowess of computers, in that way, being trapped by the ghost of progress? Is progress not a quality that often the poets/artists of one age feel about themselves only to be disillusioned later, to be debunked or attacked by a later age?
>
> Ciao,
>
> Murat

↑ Index

351. Adam Parrish

Digital Writing with Python: Final Performance

Wed 29 Jul 2009

Strip, split, join, print: Digital Writing with Python Final Performance

http://dwwp.decontextualize.com/show

NYU Interactive Telecommunication Program
721 Broadway, New York, NY
4th floor, room 447

August 5th, 2009, 7pm-8:30pm

Over the course of the Summer semester, seven NYU students have composed, mangled, generated and remixed text with their new programming language of choice: Python. Student projects under development include programs to generate Fibonacci creation myths, stochastic Walt Whitman madlibs, e.e. cummings/Twitter mashups, and new poetic forms based on Gone With The Wind.

After an intense semester, these students gather for one night only to perform their textual creations. All are welcome to this evening of experimental performances of digital writing!

Digital Writing with Python is a course offered at NYU's Interactive Telecommunication Program. (http://itp.nyu.edu/itp/). The course is an introduction to both the Python programming language and contemporary techniques in electronic literature. Students use Python to acquire and analyze digital text, while devising new techniques for composing texts by algorithmic means. The goal of the course is to experiment with language and literature while exploring the aesthetic, technical and expressive possibilities of computer-generated (and -mangled) text.

Find out more here:

http://dwwp.decontextualize.com/

↑ Index

352. David Chirot

Re: Visual art / poetry

Thu 30 Jul 2009

One of the problems with this discussion is that there are many kinds of visual poetry; it is not some "pan-visual-=poetryism"--which can be dismissed as unsophisticated visually as Jim does. In the US--written poetry has been most of the base on which the visual poem is built--it is at the forefront of the examination of what a visual poem is qua poetry, and so the visual is relegated to a "lesser" realm. It is "language" which is fore fronted, though not in the more strict and linguistics/semantics orientations of much of earlier Concrete Poetry, Many aspects of Concrete Poetry at one point had much in common with early structuralism, and so their extensions in theory developed along linguistic lines, until, as Philadelpho Menezes points to and demonstrates historically in Poetics and Visuality a Trajectory of Contemporary Brazilian Poetry, the visual elements gain in importance as elements themselves, and these in turn develop into the demand for the deeper inquiry into the elements of sound, moving towards a "toaltity' of a work which is more akin to the cinema.

I think a lot of the "devaluation of the visual" is partly responsible for the "less sophisticated, less visual, less intersting" aspects of visual poetry. In a sense, alotof visual poetry has nothing to do with visuality, looking, seeing, movements of the eyes in examining attentively the field and peripheries of the visual as a notation of sonic transmissions from out the cracks as it were of the walls--the sounds of colors, colors of sounds, --al of this is eschewed in much Visual Poetry of the kind Jim is writing about in favor of what is a process not of looking, but of reading.

I think the uses of the virtual, of images which are there only via electricity--begins to decay the visual as a seeing, looking, with materials that exist physically, and whose movements in time and through spaces are effected by an immense number of continauly shifting phenomena--the weather being one of them. In the virtual real, the eye does not need to be as developing in looking "into" time and space, because there is less affecting the image, This virtual image becomes as it were "still" in a kind of "suspended eternity" in which neither the corrosions of time nor the effects created by the movements of objects in space that interact with the materials of the ever changing image exist.

One of the striking aspects of many types of Visual Poetry is the lack of interest in the visual which the poetry displays. Instead, the fascination is strictly of a textual nature, in that the poetry is anchored by its dependence on letters, words, phrases, as supports for the construction of a form of cross word puzzle/scrabble effect and in a playing with the sizes and fonts of letters i relation to these "impositions of the grid" onto not what is seen, but what is placed there within a grid, the grid being the guide to seeing/reading..

In this realm of discussion, between the uses of text and of the virtual, what is vacated is the visual. That is the actual "art of looking" of which Robert Smithson wrote. Smithson writes that a great artist may create a work simply by casting a glance. This creates an art which exists in the act of looking's looking--there is no "object" produced, there is no "concept" expressed, there is no "trace" of this other than what exists for Smithson as a reality which is as durable as any sculpture, written poem, machine, etc

Visual Poetry ironically then in the US seems to be far less about visuality and not even so much re poetry in this sense, as about a form of "solidifying" a text within a "stopped time" whose movements are done as "readings" rather than as the art of looking. :

in a visual poem all the elements are treated as equals in terms of their opening to possiblities--, -that is to say--a color, a line, a dot, a form , the texture of the surfaces, the "indelible imprint of the material world"--al of these are elements of language just as are morphemes, letter, syllables, words, phrase-- in the arrangements of a visual poem al of these elements are "calling"--speaking--singing-sounding--color itself is a language--and languages do not have to be written or formalized--a language may be found expressive in sounding a side walk crack, a shadow, the passage of footprints through a field, or in snow--these provide a basis, as well as those things found al around one which are the evidences of time passing in the effects which are wreaked on materials considered durable--

if one examines peeling, fading, cracking painted walls or the cracked paints on boards oand doors, the movement of lichen and moss in obscuring the letters on a plaque, the cracking open of metal letters through decades of extremes of heat, cold, being blasted, being bombed, being burned, al of these continually present languages of forms and letterings, numbers, in the process of a negentropy of out of chaos emerging forms and these forms wearing down, being time affected, and then these themselves are regenerations of forms out of the new chaos--

a teeming swarming wold exists all around one and for the most part hidden in plain site/sight/cite from the no longer visual eyes of the virtual = written poetry--

if one is to work with visual poetry--then
 the visual art of looking needs to be worked at, with, for--as does the soundings which are elicited by colors,forms, fragments or phrases--

a great deal of what is called "visual poetry " by more language influenced workers is just a carrying on of the "pattern poetry" which dick Higgins made a book of. as far as visuality is concerned one might say, nice but weak-=eh--very weak!

it is a rebranding of things long done, as though they have suddenly become "new and radical" because the names have been changed--

visual poetry at least for myself works with things which exits as actual found materials, found letterings, fragments forms--to be involved with the swarming teeming multiplicities which exists "before our very eyes"-- this kind of seeing requires a look /looking of far greater speed and attention than does what one finds in the virtual and digital--where the "framed" and stilled image is demanding instaed a "reading" within a confiement to the aream of textuality--qua "text"--

the function of the virtual is not to be participant in time--which poetry is after all, an art of time--but to delete time--to erase--to make disappear things that were by the touch of the button, by the changing of a name on line--and --peoples events names forms vanish --forever-deleted--

in another way, the virtual offers persons an example of "the new" and a glimpse of a simulated "eternity" in the virtual not being exposed ot the effects of time--

as long as one has sufficient protection the "textual visual poem" remains

until one pulls the plug--or bombs the infrastructure, cuts off electricity due to non payment or as a siege weapon as with Gaza and in Rwanda--then , while the electricity is off and al communications have gone "dead"--then peoples events cultures disappear, are deleted--and when the virtual comes on again--the electricity--there are now completely new names for the places which had become for a while black holes in the fabric of controlled existence which is hthat of the virtual and digital online-

in that sense in which things today are accepted unquestioningly like received ideas no one thinks about--"natural" ideas, facts--"known to all"--there develops what is truly reactionary--the end of questioning and the entrance into non stop existence of what has long been spurned in readers of fiction: the willing suspension of disbelief-

and in the case of Visual Poetry what is abandoned, or has yet to be there in a real sense in termsof an art of looking--is viusality--

working with the found--one is having the experience of what Celan points towards in writing " Poetry no longer imposes itself, it exposes itself."

exposing-exposure (to the elements, of a film negative)--the

↑ Index

353. Alan Sondheim
more great audiovisual from neurotic rly mourn x-haustion
Thu 30 Jul 2009

more great audiovisual from neurotic rly mourn x-haustion

http://www.alansondheim.org/ct1.mp3 cobza w/ echo silly tune 1
http://www.alansondheim.org/ct1.mp3 cobza w/ echo silly tune 2

total cool maquette for Fooofwwaa dance/choreograph 2-moro

http://www.alansondheim.org/maenad2.mp4

actually a narrative of sorts

↑ Index

354. Jim Andrews
Re: Digital Writing with Python: Final Performance
Thu 30 Jul 2009

terrific, adam. i also enjoyed your project page at http://www.decontextualize.com/projects/nite

ja

----- Original Message -----
From: "Adam Parrish"
Subject: Digital Writing with Python: Final Performance

Strip, split, join, print: Digital Writing with Python Final Performance

http://dwwp.decontextualize.com/show

NYU Interactive Telecommunication Program

↑ Index

355. Anny Ballardini

Re: the Four Seasons - a tribute to Antonio Vivaldi

Thu 30 Jul 2009

With the lightness of notes, the entire Anthology has been characterized by late contributions, as soon as I send the update out, they start coming in. I would like to highlight two quite important for the Summer Issue that just arrived:

· David Graham :http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3110<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3110>

· mIEKAL aND: http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3111<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3111>

Enjoy, Anny

On Tue, Jul 28, 2009 at 11:37 PM, Anny Ballardini <[redacted]> wrote:

> *For an exceptional summer, as exceptional are the contributors to this issue, an issue that concludes The Four Seasons, one poem after another to* > *honor Antonio Vivaldi. Today, on the commemoration of his death on July 28, 1741, I felt I had to send out this announcement and I rushed to put together an Editorial. Only while writing these words, I realized it is July* > 28. Things happen above and below. I am therefore paying my reverence to the > Maestro of the Conservatorio dell'Ospedale della Pietà to thank him for his music.
>
> Summer:
>
> http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=340
>
> ·* Editorial: Anny Ballardini<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2965>*

· Charlotte Mandel<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2967>
· Marton Koppany<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2975>
· Bob Grumman <
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2976>
· Dan Waber <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2977>
*
·* Hoshang Merchant<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2978>
· Max Richards<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2980>
· Barbara Crooker<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3003>
· Tony Trigilio<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3004>
· Barry Spacks<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3005>
· Carol Novack<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3006>
· Tad Richards<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3007>
· Jerome Rothenberg<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3008>
· Jon Corelis <
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3009>
· Wendy Vardaman<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3010>
· Edward Mycue<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3011>
· James Cervantes<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3012>
· David Howard<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3013>
· Frank Parker<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3014>
· Ann Fisher-Wirth<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3015>
· Ruth Fainlight<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3016>
· Pierre Joris<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3017>
· Grace Cavalieri<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3018>
· Elizabeth Smither<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3019>
· Eileen Tabios<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3020>

> · Nancy Keane <
> http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3021>
> · Douglas Clark<
> http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3022>
> · Jeff Harrison
> <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3023>· Sonja
> James<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3024> > · Marilyn Hacker<
> http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3029>
> · Pam Brown <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3030>
> *
> ·* Crag Hill <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3031>
> *·
> * Obododimma Oha<
> http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3032>
> · Fan Ogilvie <
> http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3034>
> · Ned Condini <
> http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3035>
> · Diane Kendig<
> http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3036>
> · Jerry McGuire<
> http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3037>
> · Donna Pecore<
> http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3038>
> · Barry Alpert<
> http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3039>
> · William Allegrezza<
> http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3040>
> · Rebecca Seiferle<
> http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3041>
> · Geraldine Monk<
> http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3043>
> · Geof Huth <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3045>
> *
> ·* John Gery <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3051>
> *·
> * Eugen Galasso <
> http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3060>
> · Wendy Taylor
> Carlisle<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3061>
> · Evelyn Posamentier<
> http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3062>
> · Lars Palm <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3067>
> *
> ·* Daniel Zimmerman<
> http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3075>
> · Karl Young <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3076

· Paolo Dalponte<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3085>
· Sharon Dolin<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3107>

And to thank all those who have followed me in this yearlong Tribute I would like to invite you to read the previous issues with further additions:

Spring:

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?
name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=333

· Editorial: Anny
Ballardini<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2861>
· Lesley Wheeler<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2862>
· Barry Spacks<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2863>
· Jerome Rothenberg<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2864>
· Joseph Duemer<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2865>
· Frank Parker<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2866>
· Camille Martin<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2867>
· David Howard<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2868>
· Jeff Harrison
<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2869>· Márton
Koppány <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2870> ·
Pam
Brown <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2871> ·
Elizabeth
Smither <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2872> ·
Edward
Mycue <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2873> ·
Pierre

*Joris <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2874> · Dennis Barone <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2875> · Martin J. Walker <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2876> · Geof Huth <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2877> · Barbara Crooker <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2878> · Silvia Levenson <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2879> · Mark Young <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2880> · Katia Kapovich <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2881>· Daniela Gioseffi <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2882> · Jon Corelis <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2883> · Edward Mycue <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2884> (Second Part) · Jesse Glass<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2885> · Ned Condini < http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2886> · Wendy Taylor Carlisle<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2887> · Tom Savage <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2888*

· Wendy Vardaman< http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2889> · Evelyn Posamentier< http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2890> · Larry Jaffe < http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2893> · Donna Pecore< http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2899> · Patricia Valdata< http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2900> · Jill Jones <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2901*

· Tad Richards< http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2902> · Hoshang Merchant< http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2903> · Tim Mayo <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2904> ·
* Karl Young <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2905>*

*.
* David Graham <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2906

. Eve Rifkah <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2907

. Ren Katherine
Powell<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2908>
. Penelope Schott<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2909>
. Alexander Jorgensen<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2911>
. Larissa Shmailo<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2912>
. Beebe Barksdale-Bruner<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2913>
. Linda Benninghoff<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2914>
. Charlotte Mandel<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2915>
. Katerina Klemer<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2916>
. Claire Keyes
<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2917>. Georgia
Ann
Banks-Martin <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2918>
*.
* Christina Pacosz<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2919>
. Phibby Venable<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2920>
. Ada Jill Schneider<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2921>
. Ann Fisher-Wirth<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2922>
. Spencer Selby<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2923>
. Amy Gottlieb<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2925>
. Fan Ogilvie <
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2926>
. Paul Vangelisti<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2944>
. Jerry McGuire<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2945>
. Jim Leftwich<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2948>
. Wendy Taylor
Carlisle<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2950>

· Jean Vengua <
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2951>
· Dan Waber <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2952>
*
·* John Bloomberg-Rissman
<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2962>· Bob Grumman
<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2964>· Sharon Dolin<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2966>
· Berty Skuber<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2968>
· Patrick McManus<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2969>
· David-Baptiste
Chirot<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3000> · Jennifer Hill<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3057>

*Winter:
*

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?
name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=329

· Editorial: Anny
Ballardini<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2744>
· Martha King <
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2745>
· Hiram Larew <
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2746>
· James Cervantes<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2747>
· Laura Kennelly<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2748>
· Edward Mycue<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2749>
· Alicia Ostriker<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2750>
· Geof Huth <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2751>
*
·* Elizabeth Smither<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2752>
· Daniel Zimmerman<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2753>
· Barry Spacks<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2754>

· Eve Rifkah <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2757

· Gertrude Halstaed<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2758>
· Beverly Matherne<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2759>
· Donna Pecore<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2760>
· Jeff Harrison<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2761>
· Grace Cavalieri<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2762>
· Diane Lockward<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2763>
· Camille Martin<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2764>
· Dennis Barone<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2765>
· Alan Sondheim<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2766>
· Alexander Dickow<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2767>
· Douglas Clark<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2768>
· David Graham<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2769>
· Bob Grumman <
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2770>
· Eileen Tabios<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2771>
· Sarah Menefee<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2772>
· Pam Brown <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2773>
*
·* Ray DiPalma <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2774

· Jerry McGuire<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2775>
· Henry Reed <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2776

· Paolo Ruffilli<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2777>
· Allen Bramhall<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2778>
· J.P. Dancing
Bear<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2779>
· Mark Weiss <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2780

· Susan Rich <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2781

· Karl Young <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2782

· Ruth Fainlight<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2783>
· Geoffrey Gatza<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2787>
· Jim Leftwich<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2788>
· Alan Michael
Parker<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2789>
· Barbara Crooker<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2790>
· Jerome Rothenberg<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2792>
· Deborah Humphreys<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2793>
· Paolo Dalponte<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2794>
· Susan Edwards<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2795>
· Jean Lamberty<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2796>
· Ned Condini <
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2797>
· Jill Jones <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2798

· Lois Roma-Deeley<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2799>
· Fan Ogilvie <
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2800>
· Peter Ciccariello<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2801>
· Frank Parker<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2803>
· Jon Corelis <
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2804>
· Tim Mayo <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2805>
*·
* Alan Halsey <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2812>
*
·* Spencer Selby<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2814>
· Márton Koppány<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2815>
· Wendy Vardaman<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2816>

· Dan Waber <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2817>
*
·* Wendy Taylor
Carlisle<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2818>
· Evelyn Posamentier<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2819> · Sheila E. Murphy<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2820>
· Ann Fisher-
Wirth<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2822>
· Bob Holman <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2823

· Berty Skuber<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2824>
· Michael Peverett<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2825>
· Obododimma Oha<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2828>
· Richard Dillon<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2830>
· Diane Kendig<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2831>
· Jukka-Pekka
Kervinen<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2833>
· Geraldine Monk<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2851>
· William Allegrezza<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2853>
* ·* Séamas Cain<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2854>
· Tad Richards<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2855>
· Bill Morgan <
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2856>
· Hoshang Merchant<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2857>
· James Finnegan<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2858>
· Michael Snider<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2859>
· Yerra Sugarman<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2860>
· Paul Vangelisti<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2946>
· Jukka-Pekka
Kervinen<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2961>
· Patrick McManus<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2992>

· Bob Grumman <
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2993>
· Jennifer Hill<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3056>

Autumn:

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?
name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=318

· Introduction by Anny
Ballardini<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2567>
· Dirk Vekemans<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2568>
· Bobbi Lurie <
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2569>
· Anny Ballardini<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2570>
· Obododimma Oha<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2571>
· Jeff Harrison<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2572>
· Cecil Touchon<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2573>
· Halvard Johnson<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2574>
· Jill McCabe
Johnson<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2575>
· Ann Neuser Lederer<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2576>
· Barbara Crooker<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2577>
· Christina Pacosz<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2578>
· Penelope Schott<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2579>
· Georgia Ann
Banks-Martin<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2580>
· Sandra Giedeman<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2581>
· Joel Weishaus<
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2582>
· Pat Falk <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2583>
*·
* Tim Mayo <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2584> · Wendy

Taylor Carlisle <
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2585>
· Wendy Vardaman<*
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2586>
· Bill Morgan <*
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2587>
· Eileen Tabios<*
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2588>
· Sheila E. Murphy<*
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2589>
· Alan Sondheim<*
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2590>
· David Graham<*
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2591>
· Tad Richards<*
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2592>
· Bob Grumman <*
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2593>
· Henry Gould <*
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2594>
· Jukka-Pekka*
Kervinen<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2595>
· Guido Catalano<*
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2596>
· Ruth Fainlight<*
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2597>
· Ann Fisher-Wirth<*
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2598>
· Fan Ogilvie <*
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2599>
· Larissa Shmailo<*
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2600>
· Geof Huth <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2608>*
*
· Grace Cavalieri<*
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2609>
· Mark Weiss <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2610*

· Pam Brown <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2621>*
*
· David Howard <*
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2622>
· Edward Mycue<*
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2623>
· Elizabeth Smither<*
http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2625>
· Elena Karina*
Byrne<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2626>

· David-Baptiste Chirot<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2627>
· Nico Vassilakis< http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2631>
· Allen Bramhall< http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2632>
· Dan Waber <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2633>
*
·* Aaron Belz <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2635>
*
·* Nicholas Piombino< http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2636>
· Joseph Duemer< http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2645>
· Daniel Zimmerman< http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2646>
· Geoffrey Gatza< http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2647>
· Jon Corelis < http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2648>
· Berty Skuber< http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2649>
· Peter Ciccariello< http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2650>
· Evelyn Posamentier< http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2657>
· Sharon Dolin< http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2658>
· Mark Young <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2659

· Charles Martin< http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2660>
· Skip Fox <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2661>
*.
* Dianalee Velie< http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2662>
· William Allegrezza< http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2663>
· Karl Young <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2802

· Richard Dillon< http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2813>
· Dan Waber <http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2826>
*
·* Geraldine Monk< http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2852>
* ·* Paul Vangelisti< http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2947>

> ·* Jim Leftwich<*
> http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2949>
> ·* Hoshang Merchant<*
> http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2979>
>
> The main index of the Poets' Corner:
>
> http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content
>
> As usual the order of apparition follows the order by which I received the submission.
>
> My best wishes,
>
> Anny Ballardini
>
> --
> Anny Ballardini
> http://annyballardini.blogspot.com/
> http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=poetshome
> http://www.lulu.com/content/5806078
> http://www.moriapoetry.com/ebooks.html
> I Tell You: One must still have chaos in one to give birth to a dancing star!
> Friedrich Nietzsche

--
Anny Ballardini
http://annyballardini.blogspot.com/
http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=poetshome
http://www.lulu.com/content/5806078
http://www.moriapoetry.com/ebooks.html
I Tell You: One must still have chaos in one to give birth to a dancing star!
Friedrich Nietzsche

↑ Index

356. Jonathan Ball

Re: Got a used copy of 'A'?

Thu 30 Jul 2009

A 1-12 is available in a first edition, although somewhat damaged, for $45 CDN here:

http://www.apollinaires.com/miva/merchant.mvc?Screen=PROD&Store_Code=apollinaire&Product_Code=2123

Also available are A 22 & 23 for $35 CDN here:

http://www.apollinaires.com/miva/merchant.mvc?Screen=PROD&Store_Code=apollinaire&Product_Code=1720

This webstore is run by Jay MillAr, and if you ask nicely I'm sure he'd rush an order for you.

Hope this helps

Jonathan Ball

On Wed, Jul 29, 2009 at 4:04 PM, Adam Katz <[redacted]> wrote:

> Hello,You know how sometimes it's possible to just give someone the perfect gift? Well, I put a lot of thought into gifts for the people who are important in my life, and my best friend is getting married in Boston on Sunday, and if I could give him a copy of Zukofsky's 'A' - but it's out of print! See, he's a medieval scholar, but he loves modernist literature, though doesn't study it enough to know about 'A' yet, and I am really, really hoping...anyways, if someone has a copy they'd be willing to sell - for less than the cheapest copy on Amazon, which is $80 and I'm sure wouldn't come in time, and can meet me in Boston/Cambridge on Saturday/Sunday or have it delivered to the friend there who I'll be staying > with - please backchannel!
> Best,
> Adam Katz

--
www.jonathanball.com
www.jonathanball.blogspot.com
www.haikuhoroscopes.com

↑ Index

357. Paul Siegell
Dusie Dusie Dusie Dusie Dusie Dusie Dusie Dusie
Thu 30 Jul 2009

Give it up for Susana Gardner! Dusie #8 is live!

And at 314 pages, it's a free, downloadable E-BOOK > http://www.goodreads.com/book/show/6654316-dusie-issue-8

Contributors:

rodney koeneke - justin katko - brenda coultas - victor hernández cruz - cindy savett - paul legault - jow lindsay & justin katko - jennifer h. fortin - rosamond king - jayne cortez - andrew zawacki & jennifer schuberth - angela genusa - sara mumalo - jessica rainey - matthew hittinger - julia cohen - james maughn - derek henderson - edward smallfield - ek rzepka - mark cunningham - heather sweeney - kismet al-hussaini - sandra huber

rauan klassnik - anne waldman - karen weiser - dawn pendergast - david toms - julia drescher - emily carr - andrew peterson - pattie mccarthy - elizabeth bryant - karen weiser - jr pearson - gian lombardo - john olson - jim goar - vernon frazer - rosamond king - letitia trent - michael fisher - jennie neighbors - leslie scalapino - megan kaminski - rob mclennan - kismet al-hussaini - heather sweeney - sarah dowling - sara mumolo - elizabeth bryant with jennie neighbors

sarah rosenthal - robert heffernan - jennifer firestone & dana teen lomax - elizabeth bryant with leslie scalapino - amy king - david toms - jessica rainy - ek rzepka - tara rebele - ana božčević - karyna mcglynn - william minor - megan kaminski - amish trivedi - anne gorrick - brandon brown - randolph healy - rachel warriner - david wolach - mary biddinger - arielle guy - sarah rosenthal - cynthia roth - marthe reed - lisa samuels - juliet cook - cara benson - paul siegell enjoy!

↑ Index

358. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: Visual art / poetry
Thu 30 Jul 2009

Jim,

When I say the "visual" in poetry I mean a poetry where the eye is very important, not as an image; but the way it moves in the experience of the poem, as in a film or photograph, organizing what it sees into thought. In other words, the visual is a movement of weaving.

I do not think "visual poetry," the way it is defined today does anything of the sort. It seems to me it often is an exploration of new technological techniques provided to it. In that sense, it lacks resistance or it has resistance of a technical rather than intellectual kind. That is why I was objecting to your expression "not interesting as image." It implied, to me, the desire for a complexity impelled by technical openings, prowess, without anything else generating it. Of course, I may be wrong or misunderstand you.

The same argument occurred a few months ago when I asked why the special effects in the film Blade Runner, the last film where no digital effects were used, were much more poweful and resonant than many science fiction films which followed it. My guess was that, because to create special effects in Blade Runner was so hard and laborious, the creators only used what effects were necessary, in other words, which came from the vision of the film and were integral to it. Otherwise, as most cases afterwards, special effects are cliches.

Ciao,

Murat

On Tue, Jul 28, 2009 at 1:09 AM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

> it's nothing about computers, murat. a lot of visual poetry--of course there are wonderful exceptions--is not interesting as image. it is often interesting as text/image hybrid and possibly as language and/or poem in a mainly literary vein, or as proto-information/text step one poetics creator or as schematic language machine blueprint or musical 'score' or any number of other things that are strong enough functionally/conceptually that, in a real sense, it doesn't matter that, as image, they are naive or poorly executed or just not interested in the piece simply as image. usually visual poetry isn't by people whose main thing is visual art or who, otherwise, have managed to pick up a sense of image that makes inroads both literarily, in a broad sense, and in visual art.
>
> but, similarly, if you look at visual art, how often is it interesting concerning language even when it uses written language? it might be interesting as image or installation or event or in any number of other typically visual-art-oriented parameters.
>
> moreover, some scepticism regarding the efficacy of attention to the visual art oriented quality of image is warranted. often what's of interest is of interest as image for silly reasons. popular culture is a forty five year old determinedly juvenile. visual poetry is not often popular, it doesn't have to do the popular thing, and that also is valuable.
>
> also, a certain scepticism regarding the value of gallerys is useful. i remember hearing a big canadian curator say 'an artist without a gallery is nothing'. which is unbelievably arrogant. you know, in net art, early on, there was talk about the value of artists doing net art to be free from the gallerys. but of course much of that was punk-minded propaganda to attract the attention of a gallery.

so i don't intend the remark simply as a criticism of visual poetry or visual poets.

the practice is fluid, as douglas suggests. but my observation is that there still are lots of divides between visual art and visual poetry.

ja
http://vispo.com

----- Original Message ----- From: "Murat Nemet-Nejat" <[redacted]>
To: <[redacted]>
Sent: Monday, July 27, 2009 6:13 AM
Subject: Re: Visual art / poetry

Hi Jim,

"also, visual poetry very often is not sophisticated as image, ie, it's not up to snuff as image. but even when it is, it's usually not very involved in
gallerys and commerce and so on."

I do agree about poetry not being involved in commerce part of your comment.
But what do you mean by "not sophisticated"? Are you not equating sophistication by the techinical prowess of computers, in that way, being trapped by the ghost of progress? Is progress not a quality that often the poets/artists of one age feel about themselves only to be disillusioned later, to be debunked or attacked by a later age?

Ciao,

Murat

↑ Index

359. Al Filreis
PoemTalk #20: Baraka's "Kenyatta Listening to Mozart"
Thu 30 Jul 2009

Today we are releasing episode 20 of the PoemTalk series, a discussion of a 1963 poem written and performed by Amiri Baraka (as, then, LeRoi Jones), featuring three first-time PoemTalkers: Herman Beavers, Alan Loney, and Mecca Sullivan.

http://www.poemtalk.org

Al Filreis
http://www.writing.upenn.edu/~afilreis

↑ Index

360. Joel Weishaus
'The Gateless Gate" Pages 27-28
Thu 30 Jul 2009

Dear Friends, and Colleagues;

Here are the next two pages (one screen) of the Gateless Gate:

Pages 27-28
http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/Gate/Pgs%2027-28.htm

Mirror site:
http://www.cddc.vt.edu/host/weishaus/Gate/Pgs%2027-28.htm

Introduction:
http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/Gate/Intro.htm

Please let me know if you wish to be deleted from these periodic notices. Comments are always welcome.

-Joel

↑ Index

361. Amanda Earl
AngelHousePress Essay # 6 - Marcus McCann
Thu 30 Jul 2009

---

the sixth of our AHP essay series is now up: Marcus McCann muses on authorship, male birth envy and plagiarism vs plunder in his essay "Genus Envy: Is Our Culture Fixated on Plagiarism?" Marcus McCann is the editor of Ottawa's Capital Xtra, organizer of the Trangress Festival and the NaughtyThoughts Book Club, and a host of CKCU's Literary Landscapes. Soft Where (Chaudiere, 2009) is his first full-length book of poems.

Amanda Earl
AngelHousePress
www.angelhousepress.com
the angel is in the house

↑ Index

362. Kyle Schlesinger
ED SANDERS READING IN BROOKLYN FRIDAY JULY 31 @ 8:00
Thu 30 Jul 2009

@ The Arm
281 North 7th Street
Williamsburg Brooklyn, NY 11211
http://www.thearmnyc.com
(posted for Dan Morris)

↑ Index

363. Stephen Vincent
Photography Interest??
Thu 30 Jul 2009

FYI -If you have an interest -as I know some of us - in photography, I have begun writing reviews for two magazines, the revived B/W (Black and White photography), and Color - both from the same publisher. Both have same, adventurous as possible editor, John Lavine. I have recently written on Larry Sultan, Leo Rubinfien, Linda Connor, and Robert Dawson, and (coming up Jim Goldberg, Michael Light) and, eventually Reneke Dykstra. Most of these folks are working one kind of interesting edge or other.

Anyway the mags are pretty well distributed in what remains of news shops in America.

Stephen Vincent
http://stephenvincent.net/blog/
Current July home of the Daily Phrase & Photo project

↑ Index

364. CA Conrad
poet John Wieners 40TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION
Fri 31 Jul 2009

---

poet John Wieners 40TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

40 summers ago John Wieners wrote ASYLUM POEMS (Angel Hair Books) click here: http://phillysound.blogspot.com/2009_07_01_archive.html

READ WIENERS THIS SUMMER!
He's always good for us,
CAConrad

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

365. Jeffrey Side

Found a good article called 'POETRY SCENE: CURRENT DIFFICULTIES'

Fri 31 Jul 2009

Found a good article called 'POETRY SCENE: CURRENT DIFFICULTIES'

http://www.textetc.com/modernist/current-difficulties.html

↑ Index

366. William Allegrezza

New Moria Online

Fri 31 Jul 2009

The new issue of Moria is online: http://www.moriapoetry.com/v11i23.html

It contains poetry by:

Subhashis Gangopadhyay Deborah Meadows, Marcia Arrieta, Becca Klaver, Natalie Knight, Holms Troelstrup, John Moore Williams, Talia Reed, Brian Zimmer, Jason Fraley, Adam Strauss, Tom Hibbard,
Nick Demske, Sarah K Bell, Scott Doolin, Hugh Tribbey, Ann Fine, Mark Young,
Alexander Jorgensen, Andrew Topel.

It also has an article by Heather Momyer on Stein, Myer, and Fraser

↑ Index

367. amy king

This Summer's Saturday -- Tomorrow Night

Fri 31 Jul 2009

The Stain of Poetry carries on, so please forward:

Â

The Stain of Poetry carries on, so please
forward:

Â

Â

We're excited to introduce you to our new venue, Goodbye Blue Monday!Â A "cave of wonders, living room, library, and curiosity shop," they offer aÂ variety:Â sake-infused lemonade, your favorite beers, chocolate cake and other tasty items -- what more could you want?Â How about some killer poets?
Â

Â

Join us for the superlaunch:

Â

Saturday, August 1st @ 7 p.m. Â

Â

~ Julian Brolaski, Adam Fieled, Nada Gordon, ScottÂ Hightower, Chris Stackhouse & David Wolach ~

Â

Â

Goodbye Blue Monday

(go through cafe room

to back garden stage)

1087 Broadway

(corner of Dodworth St)

Brooklyn, NY 11221-3013

[redacted]

Â

J M Z trains to Myrtle Ave

or J train to Kosciusko St.Â

Â

~

Â

Julian T. Brolaski is the author of the chapbooks Hellish Death Monsters (Spooky Press,Â 2001), Letters to Hank Williams (True West Press, 2003), The Daily Usonian (Atticus/Finch, 2004) and Madame Bovaryâ€™s Diary (Cy Press, 2005) (underÂ the name Tanya Brolaski), Buck in a Corridor (flynpyntar, 2008) and the blog herm of warsaw.Â Xir first book gowanus atropolis is forthcoming from Ugly Duckling Presse. Brolaski lives in Brooklyn where xe writes poetry, serves as a Litmus Press editor, plays country music in The Low & the Lonesome, and curates thâ€™every-other-monthly freakshow Mongrel Vaudeville.

Â

~

Â

Adam Fieled is a poet, musician, and critic based in Philadelphia. He has released several books and chapbooks, maintains two blogs, and is finishing his PhD at Temple University, where he teaches.

Â

~

Â

Nada Gordon is the author of four poetry books: Folly, V. Imp, Are Not Our Lowing Heifers Sleeker than Night-Swollen Mushrooms?, and foriegnn bodie â€“ and, with Gary Sullivan, an e-pistolary techno-romantic non-fiction novel, Swoon. She practices poetry as deep entertainment and is a proud member of the Flarf Collective. Visit her blog at http://ululate.blogspot.com.

Â

~

Â

Scott Hightowerâ€™s third collection, â€œPart of the Bargain,â€received the 2004 Hayden Carruth Award. His translations from Spanish have garnered him a Willis Barnstone Translation Prize. He is a contributing editor to â€œThe Journal.â€Â His reviewsÂ frequently appear in â€œColdfront Magazineâ€ and â€œBoxcar Poetry Review.â€Â Â A native of central Texas, he lives with one foot in New York City, one in Texas, and one in Madrid, Spain. Â He teaches at NYU, and has taught poetry, non-fiction writing, and translation at Drew, F.I.T., Fordham, and Poets House.

Â

~Â

Â

Christopher Stackhouse is the author of poetry collected in the chapbook Slip (Corollary Press, 2005); co-author of Seismosis (1913 Press, 2006), a dialogic collaboration featuring Stackhouseâ€™s drawings and text by writer/professor John Keene (Northwestern University), with essays from poet Ed

Roberson and poet/critic Geoffrey Jacques. He holds has MFA in Writing/Interdisciplinary Studies from Bard College; is a Cave Canem Writers Fellow; and is a 2005 Fellow in Poetry, New York Foundation for the Arts. His recent essays have been published in the literary journal American Poet, and the anthology A Best of Fence: The First Nine Years. He will be a guest faculty member in the Naropa University Summer Writing Program 2009, at the Jack Kerouac School of Disembodied Poetics in Boulder, Colorado. He organizes Readings at Max Protetch Gallery in New York City with poet/assistant gallery director Stuart Krimko. Currently completing a manuscript of poetry, while alsoÂ doing research for the development of a non-fiction book on poetics, Stackhouse lives and works in Brooklyn New York.

Â

~

Â

David Wolach is professor of writing, poetics, &Â philosophy at The Evergreen State in Olympia, Washington, and visiting poet in Bard Collegeâ€™s Workshop in Language & Thinking.Â Author of Fractions of M, The Transcendental Insect Reader,Â Acts of Art/Works of Violence, and the forthcoming Scripto Erratum (sound/text compositions, scored with composer Arun Chandra & video artist Tasha Glen), Davidâ€™s work has appeared this year or is forthcoming from Bird Dog, CRIT, Night Train, Diode, The Concelebratory Shoehorn Review, Venereal Kittens, [...]: An Anthology of New American Writing, AB OVO, and Ignavia Press: Journal of Transgressive Queer Writing. Â Much of his work is multi-media and performative, and has been featured at venues such as Buffalo Poetics Series 2009, The American CyberneticsÂ Conference 2009, and Bardâ€™s Visiting Poets Series.Â David is also editor of Wheelhouse Magazine & Press and curator of PRESS: A Cross-Cultural Literary Conference.

Â

~

Â

Hosted by Amy King and Ana BoÅ¾iÄevic

Â

INFO:Â

http://stainofpoetry.wordpress.com/

Â

RSVP:Â

http://www.facebook.com/event.php?eid=103132898882

Â

Â

Â --
Amy's Aliashttp://amyking.org

↑ Index

@poetics

The UB Poetics Discussion Group

Archive of Electronic Correspondence

August 2009

220 messages · Fri 31 Jul 2009 – Mon 31 Aug 2009

August 2009 was the quietest file in the whole stretch — two hundred and twenty messages, the list at low tide — and into that emptiness the room did what it does when the world goes silent on it: it retreated into pure theory and formal play. There was no death to mourn, no scandal to fight, no election to survive; there was only the machinery of poetry itself, taken apart on the workbench in the heat. The month reads like a seminar half-emptied for the summer, a few devoted students still turning the engine over.

The largest serious thread wanted the lyric defined as a genre. A member went hunting for criticism on the theory of lyric poetry — asking specifically for work that was "good, hardcore, worthwhile, useful pedagogically" — trying to pin down what exactly the oldest and most slippery of poetic modes actually is, as a category, as a thing one could teach. It was the driest possible question and, in a dead August, exactly the right one: with nothing happening, the room could finally ask what the lyric even was.

The quarrel, gentle, was between the human scale and the machine's. Beside the lyric-theory thread ran a discussion of the longest poem in the world — a contraption that stitched rhyming lines endlessly out of the internet's chatter, a poem no person wrote and no person could finish — the automated infinite set against the lyric's intimate finitude. The shortest, most personal form and the longest, most impersonal one shared the August inbox, the two poles of what a poem could be when nobody was around to argue about it.

The rest was craft in miniature. A thread sought critical work on homophonic translation, the art of carrying a poem across languages by its sound rather than its sense, and another kept the standing conversation on visual art and poetry idling along — the room, absent any larger occasion, tending the technical questions that never fully close. It was poetry considered as pure procedure, sound and image and genre, with the world switched off — the room happiest, or at least most itself, when it could forget the audience and the market entirely and simply take the machine apart to see what the parts were called.

I have set August down exactly as the archive delivered it — the hunt for a hard theory of the lyric, the endless machine-made poem, and the translation that follows sound instead of meaning — because it was the emptiest month the list had seen in years, and it revealed what the room does with an empty month: it thinks about poetry as such. A commons that, given nothing to react to, will spend its August trying to define the lyric, marveling at a poem no human wrote, and studying translation by pure sound, is a commons whose curiosity outlasts its occasions — still turning the engine over in the heat, for no reason but the love of seeing how it runs.

— Kristen M. Fabians

Index

Writers, names mentioned, and concepts. Every number links to its message. 220 in all.

WRITERS

Alexander, Charles 87
Allegrezza, William 217
AND, mIEKAL 58, 99, 120, 127
Andrews, Jim 8, 82, 147, 167, 177, 216
Ballardini, Anny 162
Baratier, David 55
Behm-Steinberg, Hugh 9, 20
Books, Crane's Bill 59, 159
Brown, Pam 108, 119, 152, 163, 215
Cain, Amina 106
Cain, Séamas 85, 172
Calabrese, Rosalie 136
Carr, Emily 116
Casamassima, Christophe 47
Cha, Asian 113
Cheek, Cris 153, 174
Chirot, David 63, 144, 198, 203
Chirot, David-Baptiste 57, 175, 208
Clodfelter, Loretta 104
Conrad, CA 18, 49, 50, 61, 62, 81, 138, 148, 212
Dalachinsky, Steve 16, 28, 35, 42, 83, 169
Damon, Maria 105, 187, 192
Daniel 164
Dillon, Patrick 115, 126
Dorward, Nate 143, 200
Durgin, Patrick F. 134
Earl, Amanda 151
Edgerton, Michael Tod 189
Elshtain, Eric 5
Fernandez, Robert 185
Al Filreis 156
Frym, Gloria 194
Glass, Dan 23
Godston, Daniel 204
Goldman, Judith 45, 181
Gordon, Noah Eli 95
Hadbawnik, David 75
Henriksen, Matt 213
Hoffman, Crystal 199
Hoffman, Eric 10
Howard, Scott 191
Hudson, Jade 79
Internationales, Les Rencontres 146
Joey 54
Johnson, Halvard 12, 33, 103, 117, 124, 125, 184
Jones, Chris 26
Jpjones 214
Kane, Daniel 27
Karavatos, Nicholas 129, 130
Karmin, Jennifer 25, 70, 107, 145, 211
Katko, Justin 86
Katz, Adam 21, 67
King, Amy 22, 29, 89, 91, 92, 118, 139
Kirschenbaum, David 36, 88
Kirschenbaum, David A. 133
Lazer, Hank 43
Lepson, Ruth 90, 140, 141, 205, 206
Levato, Francesco 155
Loden, Rachel 149
Lovin, Christina E 209
Martin, Camille 17, 71, 128, 154, 218
Maurer, Susan 77, 109, 150
McLennan, Rob 2, 78, 171
Michael 32, 157
Mukherjee, Aryanil 111
Nelson, Jason 121
Nelson, Paul 94
Nemet-Nejat, Murat 3, 13, 142, 158
Newell, Mary 207
Newman, Richard Jeffrey 197
Nielsen, Aldon 1
Oha, Obododimma 97
Owens, Richard 60
Palm, Lars 46, 114
Penton, Jonathan 166
Peter 48, 100
Phipps, Wanda 131
Poe, Deborah 190
Quartermain, Peter 220
Robbins, Micah 7
Russell, Steve 84, 137, 176, 179, 182, 186, 219
Savage, Thomas 6
Schickling, Jared 165
Schultz, Susan Webster 52, 210
Shankar, Ravi (English) 110
Side, Jeffrey 34, 37, 38, 39, 51, 76, 122, 123, 161, 168, 173
Slaughter, William 14
Slider, Red 201
Smith, Hazel 196
Sondheim, Alan 15, 56, 65, 74, 96, 112, 135, 178, 183, 195
Starr, Ron 68
Steen, John 188
Switaj, Elizabeth 160
Tieger, Aaron 66
Traffic, Small Press 4, 44
Tribbey, Hugh R. 40
UbuWeb 69

Valley, Country 24
Vassilakis, Nico 193
Vidaver, Aaron 73
Vincent, Stephen 31, 41
Weishaus, Joel 80, 180
Weiss, Mark 93
Wilcox, Dan 101
Williams, Nerys 202
Young, Mark 19
Zamsky, Robert 64
Zawacki, Andrew 102, 132
}, { Brad Brace 11, 30, 53, 72, 98, 170

NAMES MENTIONED

Adams, Robert 88, 112
Alice, Mary 9, 20, 88, 133
Allan, Edgar 203
Allison, Dorothy 88
Alpert, Barry 162
Alsop, Maureen 213
Altieri, Charles 189
Ambrose, Joe 144, 158, 164, 175, 186
Americans, Asian 81, 90, 105, 112
Amerika, Mark 96
Anderson, Laurie 133
Andre, Marc 88
Andre, Michael 88
Anton, Robert 12, 65
Armitage, Simon 134
Armstrong, Aaron 100
Ashley, Renee 165
Austin, Geer 88, 133
Baez, Joan 126, 142, 161
Baik, Cristiana 88
Baker, Mary 19, 24, 162
Baldwin, James 96, 135, 147
Baraka, Amiri 1, 27, 203
Barnard, Mary 88, 199
Baudelaire, Charles 189
Beale, Nigel 113
Beasley, Sandra 88, 199
Belden, George 88
Belflower, James 25
Belle, Cecelia 88, 113, 157, 174
Benjamin, Walter 43, 81, 88, 90, 105, 187, 203
Bennett, John M. 19
Benson, Cara 107
Benson, Steve 107
Bergvall, Caroline 116
Berkeley, Michael 88, 133, 149
Berkson, Bill 10, 12
Berlin, Irving 133, 146
Berman, Tosh 54
Bernheimer, Alan 4
Bernstein, Charles 88, 144, 156, 164, 189, 202
Bernstein, Emma 158, 175, 186
Bernstein, Michael 217
Berrigan, Anselm 88, 132
Berrigan, Eddie 88
Betts, Tara 89
Blackburn, Paul 88
Blau, Rachel 132, 189
Bloom, Harold 189
Boat, Drunken 106, 190
Bogle, Ann 10, 12
Bolster, Stephanie 2
Boone, Bruce 4
Borkhuis, Charles 88
Bouchard, Dan 133
Boyer, Anne 88
Boykoff, Jules 133
Bradley, John 10, 12
Bradley, Tom 19, 40
Brandi, John 10, 12, 32, 33
Brinks, Dave 10, 12, 32, 33
Brogan, Sharon 162
Bromige, David 10, 12, 32, 33, 55, 157, 174
Brooks, Gwendolyn 189
Brossard, Nicole 116
Brown, Ann 107, 133
Brown, Brandon 4
Browne, Colin 107
Browning, Robert 9, 20
Buchanan, Pat 9, 20
Buckley, Jeff 70
Bunting, Basil 189
Burke, Andrew 19
Burroughs, William S. 12
Buuck, David 133
Byron, Philip 19
Cage, John 88
Cameron, Sharon 2, 189
Campbell, Jeremy 9, 20
Caples, Garrett 132, 212
Carfagna, Ric 19, 162
Carrion, Terri 10, 12, 32, 33
Carroll, Jon 88
Carson, Ann 203
Carter, Mike 15
Castro, Michael 10, 12, 32, 33
Celan, Paul 3, 203
Chace, Joel 19, 24
Chan, Jill 19
Chapin, Thomas 10, 12, 32, 33
Chernoff, Maxine 133
Ciccariello, Peter 100
Cigale, Alex 9, 20
Claire, Paula 9, 20, 88
Clark, Cheryl 88, 165
Clark, Tom 71
Clay, Adam 134
Clay, Steve 133

Clemente, Francesco 128, 141
Clements, Brian 133
Cobb, Allison 133
Cobbing, Bob 144, 158, 164, 175, 186
Cocteau, Jean 63
Cohen, David 126
Cohen, Julia 9, 20
Cohen, Leonard 88, 142, 161
Colby, Todd 9, 20
Coleman, Jennifer 133
Coleridge, Samuel Taylor 189
Coletti, John 88, 133
Columbus, Christopher 133, 136, 149
Comments, Chicago 80
Compton, Shanna 88
Conners, Peter 10, 12
Conrad, Tony 4, 6, 16, 18, 49, 50, 59, 61, 62, 81, 90, 105, 138, 148, 212
Conte, Joseph 189
Coolidge, Clark 10, 12, 25, 32, 33
Cope, Stephen 88
Copp, Corina 88
Cortez, Jayne 107, 191, 202
Coultas, Brenda 88
County, Madison 10, 12, 32, 33
County, Mike 85, 88, 157, 174
Covey, Bruce 9, 20
Coyote, Peter 199
Crane, Lee 19, 43, 88
Crangle, Sara 86
Creeley, Robert 73, 88, 128, 141, 189
Cross, Michael 133
Crouch, Jeff 19
Cruz, Cynthia 9, 20
Cuomo, Dave 133
Curtis, Dana 126, 142, 161
Cutts, Simon 24
Darragh, Tina 88
Davidson, Michael 189
Davis, Jordan 133
Davis, Martin 10, 12, 14, 32, 33, 88, 126, 133, 142, 161
Davis, Peter 88
Dawson, Nancy 78
Deleuze, Gilles 135
Delford, Robert 88
Deming, Barbara 9, 20
Dennis, Michael 88, 133
Dickens, Charles 134
Dickinson, Emily 189
Dickison, Steve 4
Dienstfrey, Patricia 133
Dixon, Bill 88
Donnelly, Patrick 113
Donovan, Thom 126, 142, 161
Doty, Mark 207
Drennan, Bill 19
Drescher, Julia 133
Duncan, Andrew 73, 143, 153, 200
Duncan, Robert 88, 189
Dunn, Jim 88
Durand, Marcella 88, 156
Durgin, Patrick F. 134
Dylan, Bob 122, 125, 126, 142, 161
Dylan, Michael 22, 123, 126, 142, 161
Edmond, Martin 19
Edwards, John 154
Edwards, Joshua 133
Elena, Maria 10, 12, 20, 145
Ellen, Mary 19
Elliot, Joe 179, 182, 189, 215, 219
Emerson, Claudia 147, 189
Empson, William 189
England, Amy 134
Enzminger, Ann 88
Eugene, Brett 65
Everson, William 132
Fainlight, Ruth 162
Farr, Raymond 19
Faulkner, Andrew 203
Ferguson, Jesse 2
Finch, Peter 133
Fink, Thomas 19
Fitzgerald, Scott 70, 88
Flynn, Albert 133
Flynn, Richard 9, 20
Forbes, John 88
Foster, David 84, 137
Foster, Edward 133, 137
Foster, Paul 88
Fox, William L. 159
Fraser, Kathleen 132
Frazer, Vernon 10, 12, 19, 32, 33
Freedman, Lewis 88
Freeland, Charles 19
Friedlander, Lee 43
Friedman, Thomas 56
Fuchs, Greg 88, 133
Fugate, Ethan 133
Fulton, Alice 10, 12
Gander, Forrest 189
Ganick, Peter 96, 162
Gardner, David 133
Gardner, Janet 133
Garland, Judy 10, 12, 32, 33
Gatza, Geoffrey 96, 133
Gelsinger, Eric 88, 133
Genet, Jean 10, 12
Gilbert, Alan 88
Giles, Samantha 4, 44
Ginsberg, Allan 73
Gioia, Dana 189
Gladman, Renee 4
Glass, Jesse 133

Glomski, Chris 134
Gomez, Audrey 4
Goodman, Amy 88
Goodman, Craig 4
Gorrick, Anne 19
Graham, Lea 2
Graham, Susan 88
Graubard, Allan 10, 12
Greenstreet, Kate 4, 87, 134, 145
Gregerson, Linda 189
Grenier, Bob 10, 12, 32, 33
Griffin, Tim 78, 88
Grinnell, Tracy 88, 133
Grossman, Allen 188
Guattari, Félix 135
Guthrie, Annie 126, 142, 161
Hall, Phil 78
Halle, Craig 134
Halle, Steve 134
Halliday, Mark 188
Hamilton, Ann 189
Hamilton, Diana 27, 70, 134
Hansen, Jefferson 10, 12
Hardin, Rob 126, 142, 161
Harrington, Joseph 19
Harris, Ken 172
Harryman, Carla 4
Hartman, Charles O. 133
Harvey, George 19
Hastings, Katherine 10, 12, 157, 174
Hauke, Nathan 9, 20
Hawkins, Bobbie 9, 10, 12, 20
Hawthorne, Alison 9, 20
Heights, Jackson 88
Hejinian, Lyn 133, 189, 202
Heller, Joseph 88
Heman, Bob 19
Henderson, David 19, 49
Henning, Barbara 10, 12
Henri, Charles 203
Herbert, George 88
Herman, Rachel 1
Hernandez, Victor 19
Hershon, Bob 133
Hibbard, Tom 10, 12
Higgins, Dick 3
Hill, Geoffrey 179, 182, 215, 219
Hill, Jennifer 162
Hofer, Jen 134
Holmes, Janet 113, 126, 133, 142, 161
Hoover, Paul 133
House, Poets 88
Howe, Brian 118
Hughes, Andrew 88
Hunter, Carrie 70, 88
Hunter, Ian 126, 142, 161
Hunter, Robert 126, 142, 161
Iijima, Brenda 133
Indiana, Gary 145
Ireland, Lauren 85, 88, 202
Israeli, Henry 88
Jackson, Jesse 63
Jacob, Max 9, 20, 88, 189
Jaffe, Larry 10, 12
Janssen, Lisa 145
Javier, Paolo 9, 20, 88
Jeffery, Mark 24
Jennings, Peter 9, 20
Johnston, Daniel 70
Jonas, Stephen 203
Jones, Bob 1, 49, 126, 142, 143, 153, 161, 200, 203
Jones, Jill 19, 214
Joris, Pierre 132
Joseph, Safdie 22, 81, 90, 105
Joyce, Trevor 143, 153, 200
Kaipa, Summi 88
Kalleberg, Garrett 9, 20
Karenina, Anna 88
Kathryn, Mary 88
Kaufman, Bob 88
Kaufman, Erica 88, 133
Keats, John 189
Keene, John 88
Kelly, Paul 88, 156, 165
Kelsey, Karla 133
Kendal, Emily 91, 118, 139
Kennedy, Kit 74
Kenner, Hugh 220
Kerouac, Jack 88
Kerry, John 70, 74
Killian, Kevin 4
Kimball, George 10, 12
King, Martha 88
Kirschenbaum, David A. 36, 88, 133
Klein, Naomi 49, 88
Knox, Jennifer L. 88
Krieger, Ben 88
Kroetsch, Robert 151
Lamantia, Philip 132
Lamoureux, Mark 133
Landers, Susan 133
Landis, Matthew 132
Lang, Eugene 88
Lang, Peter 202
Languell, Krystal 9, 20
Largo, Michael 10, 12, 32, 33
Larsen, David 4
Lauterbach, Ann 189
Lavender, Bill 10, 12, 32, 33, 43
Lederer, Katy 133
Lennon, John 126, 142, 161
Leonard, Tom 126
Levertov, Denise 73, 189

Levin, Lauren 149
Levine, Jeffrey 9, 20
Levitsky, Rachel 88, 133
Lewis, Joel 10, 12
Lewis, Susan 88, 172
Livingston, Reb 9, 20
London, Frank 143, 153, 157, 174, 200
Loney, Alan 1
Lopez, Richard 12, 88
Lorber, Brendan 88, 133
Lorca, Federico García 189
Louise, Bobbie 10, 12, 32, 33, 88
Mac Low, Jackson 88
Lowinger, Aaron 88
Lurie, Bobbi 19
Luther, Martin 81, 90, 105
Lynch, Jessica 199
Lyons, Kim 9, 20
Machlin, Dan 88, 133
Mackey, Nathaniel 132, 189
Madgalene, David 10
Madia, Joey 54
Madigan, Michele 88
Madison, James 10, 12, 32, 33, 88
Madrid, Anthony 146, 185
Magee, Michael 133
Magi, Jill 88, 133
Mangold, Sarah 133
Manley, Gerard 189
Manson, Douglas 88
Marie, Julie 19, 88, 199
Marks, Justin 88, 133
Marshall, Robert 107
Martinez, Michael 25
Martone, John 19
Masterson, Patrick 133
Mathews, Elizabeth 68
Mathews, Harry 68
Matthews, William 126, 142, 161
Mauro, Nicole 152
Maxwell, Susan 133
Mayakovsky, Vladimir 203
Mayer, Bernadette 107, 132
Maynard, James 88
Maynard, Joe 88, 133
Mees, Amy 133
Meetze, James 133
Meirose, Jim 19
Meltzer, David 10, 12, 32, 33
Meng, Catherine 149
Metres, Philip 10, 12
Metz, Scott 19
Millar, Jay 133
Miller, Lee 20, 24, 113
Mitchell, Stephen 113, 126, 142, 161
Moore, John 19, 162
Moore, Marianne 189
Moore, Nicholas 95
Moreland, Sean 2
Moriarty, Laura 9, 20
Van Morrison 126, 142, 161
Moschovakis, Anna 133
Moten, Fred 4
Motika, Stephen 9, 20
Moure, Erin 116
Moxley, Jennifer 132, 202
Murphy, Michelle 88
Murphy, Ryan 88, 133
Murphy, Sheila E. 19
Murray, Elizabeth 10, 12, 32, 33
Mycue, Edward 162
Myers, Michael 145
Myles, Eileen 88
Nelson, Gale 121, 199, 206
Nelson, Paul E. 94
Neruda, Pablo 111
Newlove, John 78
Newton, Keith 70
Nguyen, Hoa 133
Nicole, Anna 116, 163
Nielsen, Aldon L. 1
Noel, Urayoan 88
Nolan, Pat 19
Noland, Carrie 189
Norman, Peter 88
Norton, John 88, 199
Novack, Carol 10, 12
Nowak, Mark 4
Oak, Gwyn 133
Ochs, Phil 126, 142, 161
Olsen, Geoffrey 88
Olson, Charles 10, 12, 32, 33, 57, 73, 88, 189
Oppen, George 10, 12, 32, 33, 189
Orange, Tom 25
Orser, Kristen 134
Osman, Jena 152
Pacific, Asian 138
Padgett, Ron 132
Palin, Sarah 74
Palmer, Michael 132, 189, 202
Paloff, Benjamin 185
Paquin, Ethan 9, 20
Parker, Karl 189
Parrish, Gary 88, 133
Parrish, Katherine 10, 12, 88
Pecore, Donna 162
Pecqueur, Paul 88
Perchik, Simon 133
Perez, James 70, 88
Perkins, Charlotte 110
Perloff, Marjorie 189
Peterson, Katie 88
Peterson, Tim 88
Pettet, Simon 10, 12

Phillip, Andrew 143, 153, 200
Phillips, John 24
Picot, Edward 147
Pierce, Scott 133
Place, Vanessa 9, 20
Plath, Sylvia 70, 107
Poe, Allan 203
Ponge, Francis 88
Potter, Steve 133
Pound, Ezra 189
Pound, Scott 189
Prevallet, Kristin 88
Di Prima, Diane 75
Prine, John 126, 142, 161
Pringle, Kathryn 133
Prize, Poets 88, 199
Professor, Kelly 1, 156
Puckett, Caleb 19
Purcell, Jack 171
Queyras, Sina 116
Randall, Karen 19
Rasula, Jed 43, 189
Raworth, Tom 86
Ray, David 9, 20
Reed, Brian M. 43
Regan, Max 88
Rettberg, Scott 147
Revell, Donald 9, 20
Reynolds, Sean 88
Richards, Brian 162
Ridge, Tom 88
Ridley, Sandra 2
Riley, Denise 214
Rimbaud, Arthur 9, 20, 189
Rimbaud, Dee 152, 203
Rizzo, Chris 133
Robbins, Bruce 10, 12, 32, 33, 149
Roberts, Wendy 162
Robertson, Lisa 23
Robertson, Pat 126, 142, 161
Robinson, Anthony 133
Robinson, Mary 88
Roche, John 10, 12
Rockwell, Norman 145
Rogers, Kimberley 113
Rooney, Kathleen 134
Rosenstock, Gabriel 85
Rothenberg, Jerry 10
Rothenberg, Michael 12, 32, 33
Rothschild, Douglas 87
Roy, Camille 88
Ruggieri, Helen 162
Ruiz, Mariana 88
Rumaker, Michael 10, 12
Sakkis, John 4
Sandburg, Carl 149
Sanders, Jay 10, 12
Sappho 191, 202, 203
Saroyan, William 184
Sartre, Paul 63
Savage, Tom 6
Scalapino, Leslie 133, 189
Schapira, Kate 9, 20, 88
Schlesinger, Kyle 133
Schneeman, George 88
Schoen, Jesse 88
Schultz, Susan M. 43, 210
Schwartz, Peter 19
Scroggins, Mark 43, 220
Seldess, Jesse 133
Selland, Eric 9, 20
Semerdjian, Alan 88
Sendecki, Daniel 133
Shakespeare, William 210
Sharits, Paul 162
Shelley, Percy Bysshe 189
Shepard, Matthew 88
Shepard, Sam 126, 142, 161
Sherlock, Frank 4
Sherman, Bill 31, 35, 41, 42
Sherman, Cindy 31, 35, 41, 42
Shimoda, Brandon 193
Shiroma, Jerrold 133
Shmailo, Larissa 10, 12, 17
Siegel, Nathaniel 88
Siegell, Paul 19
Silliman, Ron 87, 189
Simon, Greg 74
Simonds, Sandra 88
Sirois, Justin 133
Skinner, Jonathan 88, 133
Smith, Dale 10, 12, 32, 33, 133
Smith, Jessica 133
Smith, Rod 133
Smith, Tracy K. 9, 10, 12, 20, 112
Smithson, Robert 3, 175, 186
Snyder, Donna 166
Sondheim, Joanna 88
Sonnenberg, Kerri 133
Spektor, Regina 88
Spicer, Jack 18, 57, 189, 203
Spitzer, Jim 10, 12, 32, 33
Sprague, Jane 87, 133
Spyker, James 171
Stackhouse, Christopher 88
Stanley, Jared 134
Stanton, Rob 88
Starr, Kenneth 68
Stefans, Brian 147
Stefans, Kim 88
Stein, Gertrude 184, 189
Steinberg, Nicole 70
Stengel, Jill 133
Stevens, Wallace 189, 191, 202

Stevenson, Matt 91, 118, 139
Stewart, Christine 116
Stewart, Susan 132, 189
Strummer, Joe 88
Sukenick, Ron 96
Sullivan, Gary 1, 133
Svalina, Mathias 9, 20
Sweeney, Jennifer K. 9, 20
Szymaszek, Stacy 88, 133
Tabios, Eileen R. 19, 133
Tallman, Warren 73
Tardos, Anne 4
Tarn, Nathaniel 189
Taylor, Cecil 27
Teare, Brian 4
Terry, Philip 126, 142, 161
Texas, Irving 40, 133
Thomas, Dylan 6, 16, 20, 27, 56, 88, 126, 142, 161, 189
Thompson, Jon 39, 88
Thompson, Richard 39
Thorson, Maureen 133
Tiffany, Daniel 189
Tonelli, Chris 88
Toogood, Jason 133
Trott, Sarah 104
Turner, Brian 133
Twemlow, Nick 133
Tyler, Mary 9, 20
Valle, Charles 133
Van, Dave 126, 142, 161
Vaughan, Sarah 113
Vendler, Helen 189
Veronica, Angela 10, 12, 88
Victoria, Nancy 10, 12, 32, 33
Vincent, Gregory 10, 12, 112, 133
Vollmer, Judith 55
Waber, Dan 133
Wagner, Catherine 132
Wagner, Mark 133
Waldman, Anne 107
Waldo, Ralph 189
Waldrop, Keith 133
Waldrop, Rosmarie 189
Walker, Alice 88
Walker, Mary 88
Walker, Ryan 88
Wallace, Mark 10, 12
Wallace, Sara 84, 137
Warhol, Andy 88
Warner, Jim 126, 142, 161
Warren, Jim 107, 189
Warsh, Lewis 10, 12, 88, 107, 133
Washington, George 25
Washington, Harold 88, 107, 126, 133, 142, 161, 199
Weeks, Jacquilyn 182, 215, 219
Weiner, Hannah 134
Weiser, Karen 88
Wellman, Don 88
Welsh, Lawrence 189
Whalen, Philip 73
Whitman, Walt 81, 90, 105, 189, 210
Wieners, John 6, 16, 18
Wierzbicki, Carol 88
Williams, Tony 19, 88, 126, 162, 189, 202
Williams, William Carlos 88, 189
Willis, Elizabeth 203
Wilson, Steve 29, 88, 91, 118, 126, 142, 161
Wintz, Sara 88
Wordsworth, William 168, 173, 189
Yacht, Peter F. 78
Yankelevich, Matvei 133
Yarmolinsky, Ben 88
Yates, Katie 88
Young, Karl 10, 12, 32, 33
Zimmer, Kathy 88
Zroback, Jeff 113
Zukofsky, Louis 43, 69, 189, 220

CONCEPTS

9/11 4, 88
Activism and protest 74, 104, 175, 186
Aesthetics 32, 33, 40, 88, 114, 189
African American poetry 88
Anthologies 10, 12, 14, 25, 32, 33, 54, 55, 88, 91, 106, 107, 110, 134, 136, 139, 145, 166, 199
Appropriation 134
Archives and libraries 14, 18, 65, 68, 74, 112, 129, 146, 166, 170, 180, 204
Asemic writing 198
Autobiography 4, 10, 12, 30, 32, 33, 66, 88, 89, 98, 134
Avant-garde 44, 88, 199
Beauty 10, 12, 32, 33, 101
Biography 30, 55, 70, 98, 126, 142, 161, 189
Black Mountain 88
Blogs 1, 2, 4, 6, 10, 12, 16, 17, 18, 19, 23, 31, 32, 33, 35, 37, 38, 41, 42, 44, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 54, 57, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 71, 73, 78, 81, 88, 90, 91, 94, 100, 103, 108, 111, 113, 114, 115, 117, 119, 122, 123, 124, 125, 128, 132, 138, 139, 141, 144, 147, 148, 152, 156, 158, 162, 163, 164, 168, 171, 173, 175, 177, 184, 186, 193, 198, 204, 210, 212, 213, 215, 218, 219
Book announcements 25, 29, 46, 85, 88, 89, 91, 107, 119, 132, 134, 143, 153, 185, 199, 200
Bookstores 18, 25, 49, 58, 64, 88, 89, 109, 204
Calls for submissions 40, 104, 110, 135, 197
Capitalism 8, 13, 56, 144, 158, 164, 175, 186

Censorship 88
Cities 25, 81, 88, 90, 105, 107, 112, 113, 133, 134, 154
Class 56
Collage and montage 28, 88
Conceptual writing 4, 40, 144, 158, 164, 175, 186
Conferences and festivals 36, 40, 74, 85, 88, 106, 146, 172, 197, 207, 211
Copyright and permissions 186
Creative writing pedagogy 70, 181, 187, 189, 191, 192, 194, 202, 203
Deconstruction 135
Difficulty 39, 65
Digital archives 69, 88, 106, 120, 124, 220
Disability 47, 88
Dreams 65, 81, 88, 90, 105, 128, 135, 141, 164, 189
Ecology and ecopoetics 10, 12, 64, 88, 109, 133, 159
Editing 34, 88, 132, 135
Ekphrasis 88
Electronic poetry and hypertext 13, 88, 121, 147, 158, 175, 186, 206
Elegy 17
Empire and imperialism 55
Epic 23, 25, 107, 164
Experimental poetry 40, 143, 153, 181, 187, 189, 191, 192, 194, 200, 202, 203
Fascism 144, 158, 164, 175, 182, 186, 215, 219
Feminism 49, 88, 134, 189
Film 3, 8, 13, 41, 42, 54, 57, 88, 126, 137, 142, 146, 155, 161, 162, 170, 172, 202
Fluxus 30, 98
Free verse 88, 91, 139
Futurism 203
Gender 10, 12, 149, 175, 182, 186, 215, 219
Ghazal 5
Grants and funding 4, 39, 88, 146, 149, 185, 199
Haiku 10, 12, 85, 210
Homophonic translation 45, 60, 63, 67, 68, 144, 158, 164, 175, 181, 186, 187, 189, 191, 192, 194, 202, 203
Humour and satire 31, 35, 41, 42, 63, 171, 177
Identity politics 10, 12, 88
Ideology 144, 158, 164, 175, 186
Improvisation 65, 106, 143, 153, 200
Indigenous and Native poetics 110
Interviews 14, 22, 34, 88, 132, 188, 189, 211
Israel and Palestine 88
Language poetry 67, 88, 203
Latino and Latin American poetry 88
Letters and correspondence 129, 130, 189, 211
List moderation 88
Little magazines 9, 10, 12, 14, 20, 25, 32, 33, 34, 55, 60, 63, 78, 85, 88, 91, 104, 107, 108, 113, 116, 121, 131, 132, 133, 134, 139, 152, 155, 196, 199, 206
Lyric poetry 4, 88, 181, 187, 188, 189, 191, 192, 194, 202, 203, 214
Marxism 203
Memory 10, 12, 88, 106, 107, 144, 158, 159, 164, 175, 186, 189
MFA programs 63, 91, 134, 139, 166
Modernism 51, 56, 189
Mourning and loss 54, 66, 88, 203
Multiculturalism 88
Music and poetry 8, 10, 12, 13, 25, 29, 30, 39, 54, 65, 76, 88, 91, 93, 97, 98, 103, 112, 115, 117, 118, 120, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126, 133, 141, 142, 143, 149, 152, 153, 154, 156, 161, 169, 172, 182, 189, 199, 200, 201, 203, 205, 209, 218
Nature 3, 10, 12, 32, 33, 53, 72, 88, 96
New York School 17
Obituary and memorial 16, 83
Ontology 88
Oulipo 40, 68, 88
Performance and the poetry reading 44, 88, 101, 107, 118, 134, 136, 199, 217
Phenomenology 88, 96
Philosophy 88, 96, 137, 203
Place and region 10, 12, 88, 100, 106, 159
Poet laureate 149, 157, 174
Poetics 3, 14, 40, 43, 68, 78, 88, 112, 134, 155, 188, 189, 191, 202, 207, 209, 220
Postmodernism 56, 189
Print vs. digital 6, 11, 16, 18, 24, 30, 49, 50, 53, 55, 59, 61, 62, 63, 72, 81, 87, 88, 90, 96, 98, 114, 137, 138, 148, 162, 188, 189, 203, 212
Prizes and awards 25, 40, 55, 78, 88, 91, 134, 139, 145, 149, 199
Prose poem 55, 63, 88
Prosody and meter 10, 12
Psychoanalysis 88, 152
Queer poetics 49, 88, 110
Race and poetry 10, 12, 74, 189
Reading announcements 95, 149, 171, 207
Religion and the sacred 10, 12
Representation 56, 192
Reviewing and criticism 10, 12, 14, 31, 35, 41, 42, 85, 88, 91, 108, 113, 129, 130, 131, 133, 134, 139, 145, 152, 171, 185, 189, 199
Revision 25
Science 56, 57, 107
Serial poem 78, 88, 144, 151, 158, 164, 175, 186
Small press publishing 2, 4, 10, 12, 14, 24, 25, 32, 33, 36, 44, 55, 66, 78, 88, 91, 101, 133, 134, 139, 149, 165, 171, 185, 199

Social media 48, 65, 74, 88, 91, 100, 113, 131, 139, 150, 154, 155, 166
Software and code 4, 10, 12, 79, 88, 146, 177
Sonnet 88, 91, 107, 139, 149, 154, 162, 203, 210, 218
Sound poetry 203
Structuralism 3, 187, 203
Subjectivity 3, 23, 79, 88
Surrealism 158, 175, 176, 186, 189
Terrorism 56
The academy 1, 2, 4, 40, 43, 65, 78, 88, 89, 91, 95, 96, 97, 106, 107, 129, 130, 132, 134, 139, 156, 157, 166, 174, 182, 185, 194, 196, 199, 202, 211, 214, 215, 219
The body 65, 81, 88, 90, 105
The canon 10, 12, 120, 124
The Holocaust 136, 182, 203, 215, 219
The internet 32, 33, 44, 65, 74, 88, 96, 112, 135, 156, 170, 181, 187, 189, 191, 192, 194, 202, 203
The listserv 55, 74, 77, 94, 111, 112, 150
The New Sentence 189
Theatre 9, 20, 30, 54, 65, 81, 88, 90, 98, 105, 143, 145, 153, 200, 202
Translation 4, 9, 10, 12, 20, 32, 33, 45, 55, 60, 63, 65, 67, 68, 75, 77, 88, 106, 111, 132, 134, 144, 149, 157, 158, 164, 174, 175, 181, 186, 187, 189, 191, 192, 194, 197, 202, 203
Visual and concrete poetry 3, 8, 13, 28, 57, 82, 88, 91, 147, 167, 177, 198, 216
Visual art 2, 3, 8, 11, 13, 14, 17, 26, 28, 54, 63, 65, 71, 88, 100, 106, 116, 128, 133, 141, 145, 146, 159, 166, 175, 186, 189, 198, 204, 218
Women's writing 10, 12, 32, 33, 88, 106, 134, 199

Contents

Every entry links to its message. 220 in all.

31 JUL 2009

1. Aldon Nielsen — Re: PoemTalk #20: Baraka's "Kenyatta Listening to Mozart"
2. Rob McLennan — peter f. yacht club #13
3. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: Visual art / poetry
4. Small Press Traffic — Save the dates and get your checkbook!
5. Eric Elshtain — Beard of Bees Ghazals
6. Thomas savage — Re: poet John Wieners 40TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION
7. Micah Robbins — New from Interbirth Books
8. Jim Andrews — Re: Visual art / poetry
9. Hugh Behm-Steinberg — Eleven Eleven #7
10. Eric Hoffman — Big Bridge
11. { brad brace } — 300 scanned red drawings

1 AUG 2009

12. Halvard Johnson — Re: Big Bridge
13. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: Visual art / poetry
14. William Slaughter — Notice: Mudlark
15. Alan Sondheim — Epiphany of new video dance/choreography - please give a look - *

2 AUG 2009

16. steve dalachinsky — norse memorial reading
17. Camille Martin — new on Rogue Embryo's blog
18. CA Conrad — Re: poet John Wieners 40TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION
19. Mark Young — Otoliths #14, southern winter issue

3 AUG 2009

20. Hugh Behm-Steinberg — Re: Eleven Eleven #7
21. Adam Katz — Re: Got a used copy of 'A'?
22. amy king — It’s my birthday and there’s a Fog…
23. Dan Glass — With + Stand 4: the Lisa Robertson Issue CFW
24. Country Valley — Country Valley Press, Summer 2009
25. Jennifer Karmin — Aug 9: Chicago reading

4 AUG 2009

26. Chris Jones — Re: Visual art / poetry
27. Daniel Kane — ed james and thomas postell?
28. steve dalachinsky — Re: Visual art / poetry
29. amy king — I’m at The Living Room but
30. { brad brace } — 10ten10 new pleated plaid pamphlets published
31. Stephen Vincent — The Guest of Cindy Sherman
32. Michael — Part 1 of this year's Big Bridge is now online!
33. Halvard Johnson — Fwd: Part 1 of this year's Big Bridge is now online!

5 AUG 2009

34. Jeffrey Side — Interview at Pirene's Fountain
35. steve dalachinsky — Re: The Guest of Cindy Sherman
36. David Kirschenbaum — An Advertising Opportunity for Boog's Festival Issue
37. Jeffrey Side — My new blog address
38. Jeffrey Side — Does anyone want to link?
39. Jeffrey Side — Linda Thompson Appeal
40. Tribbey, Hugh R. — CFP: Experimental Writing and Aesthetics
41. Stephen Vincent — Re: The Guest of Cindy Sherman

6 AUG 2009

42. steve dalachinsky — Re: The Guest of Cindy Sherman
43. Lazer, Hank — Recession Special - MCP Series books
44. Small Press Traffic — INTERNS NEEDED
45. judith goldman — Critical works on homophonic translation?
46. Lars Palm — Susan Maurer from ungovernable press
47. Christophe Casamassima — Site Citation: Daily Psychoacoustic Quotations

7 AUG 2009

48. Peter — Requiem Haptics
49. CA Conrad — event to SAVE Giovanni's Room Bookstore
50. CA Conrad — what webcam is 4 U ?
51. Jeffrey Side — Can There Ever Be Another High Modernism?
52. Susan Webster Schultz — recent posts on Tinfish Editor's Blog

8 AUG 2009

53. { brad brace } — updates: red dwgs - radio station - $2 clunker

9 AUG 2009

54. joey — August update at www.newmystics.com
55. David Baratier — final call, Transcontinental Poetry Contest, Sat 8/15
56. Alan Sondheim — Questions about work and representation - (for upcoming SVA class) - just b…

10 AUG 2009

57. David-Baptiste Chirot — D-B Chirot: 2 Essays on Atomic Blasts & Poetry, Baseball, Radios &P…
58. mIEKAL aND — indiebound.org
59. Crane's Bill Books — Re: what webcam is 4 U ?
60. richard owens — Re: Critical works on homophonic translation?
61. CA Conrad — Re: what webcam is 4 U ?
62. CA Conrad — you in your soup
63. David Chirot — Fwd: Critical works on homophonic translation?
64. Zamsky, Robert — Ecopoetics Question
65. Alan Sondheim — Music from Fire Museum (Mon Music of Burma, Sondheim cds, other info)
66. aaron tieger — PHANTASMAL REPEATS by Guillermo Parra
67. Adam Katz — Re: Critical works on homophonic translation?

11 AUG 2009

68. Ron Starr — Re: Critical works on homophonic translation?
69. UbuWeb — Question about Zukofsky's "A" Index
70. Jennifer Karmin — Plath Profiles: Volume 2 now online
71. Camille Martin — new on Rogue Embryo's blog
72. { brad brace } — 21 PLEATED PLAID PAMPHLETS PUBLISHED!
73. Aaron Vidaver — "Poets in Vancouver" (1963): Tallman on Creeley, Duncan, Olson, Levertov, W…
74. Alan Sondheim — Palin, Beck, Limbaugh: The Rabid Responders (fwd)

12 AUG 2009

75. David Hadbawnik — satoko abe
76. Jeffrey Side — History of music website
77. susan maurer — FW: PERFECT DARK by Susan Maurer, published by Lar's Palm's Ungovernable Pr…
78. Rob McLennan — 2 new chapbooks from above/ground press
79. Jade Hudson — ToxicPoetry.com Exhibition 1
80. Joel Weishaus — "The Gateless Gate" Pages 29-30
81. CA Conrad — walking to Whitman's house with Joey

13 AUG 2009

82. Jim Andrews — videogames as literary devices...
83. steve dalachinsky — rashied ali
84. steve russell — Eathlings/Consider The Lobster/David Foster Wallace/vegan vs. vegetarian .. ...
85. Séamas Cain — ... the art of disappearing
86. Justin Katko — Critical Documents Moving Sale
87. charles alexander — still going for it!
88. David Kirschenbaum — Boog Festival's Final Sked, 9/9-13

14 AUG 2009

89. amy king — From prison to poetry....
90. Ruth Lepson — Re: walking to Whitman's house with Joey
91. amy king — A Lovely Poetry Action elsewhere & other news around here upcoming ...
92. amy king — PLEASE POST YOUR POEM FOR SEPTEMBER'S GOODREADS' CONTEST
93. Mark Weiss — Re: History of music website
94. Paul Nelson — Language as critical to a society's health
95. Noah Eli Gordon — Call for book submissions

15 AUG 2009

96. Alan Sondheim — My publish-on-demand works (please post, thanks)
97. Obododimma Oha — Re: History of music website
98. { brad brace } — 36 PLEATED PLAID PAMPHLETS PUBLISHED!
99. mIEKAL aND — Book of Trembling
100. Peter — Gallery Night Providence reception - 'The Virtual Landscape: Pigment Prints by Pete…

16 AUG 2009

101. Dan Wilcox — Third Thursday Poetry Night, August 20, Georgranna Millman
102. Andrew Zawacki — VERSE 26: first portfolio number
103. Halvard Johnson — Re: History of music website
104. Loretta Clodfelter — Call for Submissions: There
105. Maria Damon — Re: walking to Whitman's house with Joey
106. Cain, Amina — Poetic Research Bureau reading: Amina Cain and Amar Ravva
107. Jennifer Karmin — Aug 21: Hudson reading w/ Bernadette Mayer & friends

17 AUG 2009

108. Pam Brown — calling a reviewer for jacket magazine
109. susan maurer — Re: Ecopoetics Question
110. Shankar, Ravi (English) — A call for submissions for an anthology of Flash Fiction stories …
111. Aryanil Mukherjee — David Rosenmann-Taub
112. Alan Sondheim — The brutal truth about America's healthcare (fwd)

18 AUG 2009

113. Asian Cha — Cha: An Asian Literary Journal Issue #8
114. Lars Palm — Felino A. Soriano from Ungovernable press
115. Patrick Dillon — Re: History of music website
116. Emily Carr — dandelion magazine!
117. Halvard Johnson — Re: History of music website
118. amy king — Poet Does Music, et al
119. Pam Brown — Jacket has a reviewer for Barbara Henning's book
120. mIEKAL aND — Re: History of music website

19 AUG 2009

121. Jason Nelson — Announcing: NetPoetic digital poetry portal
122. Jeffrey Side — Re: History of music website
123. Jeffrey Side — Re: History of music website
124. Halvard Johnson — Re: History of music website

125. Halvard Johnson — Re: History of music website
126. Patrick Dillon — Re: History of music website
127. mIEKAL aND — The Longest Poem in the World

20 AUG 2009

128. Camille Martin — new on Rogue Embryo's blog
129. Nicholas Karavatos — JOB - Head of Dept of English at American University of Sharjah, UAE
130. Nicholas Karavatos — JOB - Head of Dept of Mass Communication at American University of Sha...
131. Wanda Phipps — New Review of my book in Big Bridge
132. Andrew Zawacki — VERSE 26: first portfolio number
133. David A. Kirschenbaum — Small Press Needed for Nov. 24 in Boog NYC Series
134. Patrick F. Durgin — The Danny’s Reading Series (8th Anniversary Reading with Chicago Indie...
135. Alan Sondheim — The Dispersive Anatomies special issue of Leonardo is up!
136. Rosalie Calabrese — Poetry Readings in NYC
137. steve russell — "We live in a country of slaughter." Alan Sondheim

21 AUG 2009

138. CA Conrad — come to our NYC 7 Deadly Sins CABARET!!!

168. Jeffrey Side — Has British Poetry had any significance since ....
169. steve dalachinsky — joe maneri
170. { brad brace } — NP/bbs
171. Rob McLennan — the ottawa small press boko fair, fall edition
172. Séamas Cain — The Isle of St. Kilda
173. Jeffrey Side — "Has British Poetry had any significance since Wordsworth?"
174. cris cheek — Re: TRIBUTE TO DAVID BROMIGE
175. David-Baptiste Chirot — Re: The Longest Poem in the World

26 AUG 2009

176. steve russell — Re: The Longes Poem In The World
177. Jim Andrews — Re: longestpoemintheworld.com
178. Alan Sondheim — (no subject)
179. steve russell — British Poetry Since Wordworth
180. Joel Weishaus — "The Gateless Gate" Pages 31-32
181. judith goldman — Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre
182. steve russell — Fw: Re: British Poetry Since Wordworth
183. Alan Sondheim — Short shrift skirting Copenhagen courtesy of Netfilmmakers 2009
184. Halvard Johnson — Shortest poem in the world?
185. Robert Fernandez — New from Cosa Nostra Editions

27 AUG 2009

186. steve russell — Re: The Longest Poem in the World
187. Maria Damon — Re: Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre
188. John Steen — Re: Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre
189. Michael Tod Edgerton — Re: Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre
190. Deborah Poe — for those of you who write fiction, and looking for yoko tawada's email addre...
191. Scott Howard — Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre
192. Maria Damon — Re: Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre
193. Nico Vassilakis — SubText Reading: Martin Corless-Smith & Brandon Shimoda
194. Gloria Frym — Re: Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre

28 AUG 2009

195. Alan Sondheim — "Breaking New Ground"
196. Hazel Smith — Hello and soundsRite
197. Richard Jeffrey Newman — Northeast Modern Language Association Call for Papers
198. David Chirot — David Chirot: This Week at New Post Literate :
199. crystal hoffman — August 30th Poetry Cabaret -- TypewriterGirls Gone Biblical 200. Nate Dorward — Reminder: cris cheek/Barnyard Drama, Saturday Aug 29, Toronto

29 AUG 2009

201. red slider — Songs from Childhood
202. nerys williams — Re: Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre
203. David Chirot — Re: Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre
204. Daniel Godston — updates with SPC & "Putting Layers on the Onion" 205. Ruth Lepson — Re: joe maneri
206. Ruth Lepson — Re: Announcing: NetPoetic digital poetry portal

30 AUG 2009

207. Mary Newell — Mark Doty reading and Poetics Colloquium
208. David-Baptiste Chirot — THE NYT: FUTURE OF READING Students Get New Assignment: Pick Books ...
209. Christina E Lovin — Re: Songs from Childhood
210. Susan Webster Schultz — new posts on Tinfish Editor's blog
211. Jennifer Karmin — JOB: Eastern Illinois University

31 AUG 2009

212. CA Conrad — PhillySound Feature #7: Garrett Caples
213. Matt Henriksen — Kathlene Jesme Reviewed on The Burning Chair Blog
214. jpjones — Re: Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre
215. Pam Brown — Geoffrey Hill - last week
216. Jim Andrews — lingo of purr
217. William Allegrezza — Come to Series A this Wednesday in Chicago!
218. Camille Martin — new on Rogue Embryo's blog
219. steve russell — Re: Geoffrey Hill - last week
220. Peter Quartermain — Re: Question about Zukofsky's "A" Index

1. Aldon Nielsen

Re: PoemTalk #20: Baraka's "Kenyatta Listening to Mozart"

Fri 31 Jul 2009

I met Mecca at the Pan African Writers Forum in Ghana last year -- look forward to listening to this episode --

On Thu, Jul 30, 2009 at 1:02 PM, Al Filreis <[redacted]>wrote:

> Today we are releasing episode 20 of the PoemTalk series, a discussion of a 1963 poem written and performed by Amiri Baraka (as, then, LeRoi Jones), featuring three first-time PoemTalkers: Herman Beavers, Alan Loney, and Mecca Sullivan.
>
> http://www.poemtalk.org
>
> Al Filreis
> http://www.writing.upenn.edu/~afilreis

--
Aldon L. Nielsen
Kelly Professor of American Literature
The Pennsylvania State University

[redacted]

sailing the blogosphere at http://heatstrings.blogspot.com

"The practical application of the rule of 'If you read me, I'll read you' is such an important advance for the Republic of Letters that I think it should appear, as a mandatory precept, in the first article of its Constitution" -- Juan Goytisolo

↑ Index

2. Rob McLennan

peter f. yacht club #13

Fri 31 Jul 2009

Issue #13, July 2009
edited by rob mclennan
lucky thirteen the white album.

Contributors:

Cameron Anstee
Stephanie Bolster
Amanda Earl
Lea Graham
Gwendolyn Guth
Lainna Lane El Jabi
Marcus McCann
rob mclennan
Sean Moreland
Pearl Pirie
Roland Prevost
Monty Reid
Sandra Ridley
and Janice Tokar

published by above/ground press

for a copy, send $5 (+ $1 for shipping) to rob mclennan; above/ground press subscribers rec' a complimentary copy; payable to rob mclennan c/o 858 Somerset Street West, main floor, Ottawa ON K1R 6R7;

Some back issues still available: if anyone interested, until the end of August, send $12/3 issues (otherwise $5 per issue). Still have stacks around of Issue #8 (October 2007, Edmonton issue, produced at the University of Alberta, edited by rob mclennan), Issue #9 (January 2008, edited by Jesse Patrick Ferguson in The Poets Corner, Fredericton, New Brunswick), Issue #11 (May 2008, Edmonton issue the second, produced at the University of Alberta, edited by rob mclennan) and Issue #12 (September 2009, edited by Amanda Earl, Fifth anniversary issue: Anarchy, Apocalypse, & Madness). Other issues are around, but much more random.

don't forget the above/ground press sweet sixteen on August 13 at the Ottawa Art Gallery!

http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/2009/07/peter-f-yacht-club-lucky-thirteen.html

-- writer/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...14th poetry coll'n - gifts (Talon) ...2nd novel - missing persons www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

3. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: Visual art / poetry
Fri 31 Jul 2009

David,

Absolutely brilliant post! A few ad hoc reactions:

"In a sense, alotof visual poetry has nothing to do with visuality, looking, seeing, movements of the eyes in examining attentively the field and peripheries of the visual as a notation of sonic transmissions from out the cracks as it were of the walls--the sounds of colors, colors of sounds, --al of this is eschewed in much Visual Poetry of the kind Jim is writing about in favor of what is a process not of looking, but of reading."

Yes, the visual as a movement of the eye (the seeing itself) where frames disappear, while peripheries become empowered (like in a photograph). Also, yes, the totality of seeing (like the cinema).

"examining attentively the field and peripheries of the visual as a notation of sonic transmissions from out the cracks as it were of the walls--the sounds of colors, colors of sounds,"

A kind of Stendhal Syndrome. Visual poetry. Inherently unstable, vertiginous, in constant need of rebuilding itself.

"I think the uses of the virtual, of images which are there only via electricity--begins to decay the visual as a seeing, looking, with materials that exist physically, and whose movements in time and through spaces are effected by an immense number of continauly shifting phenomena--the weather being one of them. In the virtual real, the eye does not need to be as developing in looking "into" time and space, because there is less affecting the image, This virtual image becomes as it were "still"

In visual poetry what is on the page needs to be independent (as the subject before the lens is independent from the photographer).
Did you see the film Decasia?

"This creates an art which exists in the act of looking's looking--there is no "object" produced, there is no "concept" expressed, there is no "trace" of this other than what exists for Smithson as a reality which is as durable as any sculpture, written poem, machine, etc"

The visual creates its own line/motion.

""solidifying" a text within a "stopped time" whose movements are done as "readings" rather than as the art of looking. "

The movements of the eyes must be potentially chaotic, creating its own eros.

"in a visual poem all the elements are treated as equals in terms of their opening to possiblities--, -that is to say--a color, a line, a dot, a form , the texture of the surfaces,"

The same as the "democracy" in the looking at a photograph. The dominance of a erratic/chaotic/democratic eye undercuts the previous dominance and the autonomy (illusionary solidity) of words.

"visual poetry at least for myself works with things which exits as actual found materials, found letterings, fragments forms--to be involved with the swarming teeming multiplicities which exists "before our very eyes"-- this kind of seeing requires a look /looking of far greater speed and attention than does what one finds in the virtual and digital--where the "framed" and stilled image is demanding instaed a "reading" within a confiement to the aream of textuality--qua "text"--"

RuBeings (not correct spelling) are steeped in time.

Ciao,

Murat

On Thu, Jul 30, 2009 at 2:17 AM, David Chirot <[redacted]>wrote:

> One of the problems with this discussion is that there are many kinds of visual poetry; it is not some "pan-visual-=poetryism"--which can be dismissed as unsophisticated visually as Jim does.
> In the US--written poetry has been most of the base on which the visual poem is built--it is at the forefront of the examination of what a visual poem is qua poetry, and so the visual is relegated to a "lesser" realm. It is "language" which is fore fronted, though not in the more strict and linguistics/semantics orientations of much of earlier Concrete Poetry, Many > aspects of Concrete Poetry at one point had much in common with early structuralism, and so their extensions in theory developed along linguistic lines, until, as Philadelpho Menezes points to and demonstrates historically in Poetics and Visuality a Trajectory of Contemporary Brazilian > Poetry, the visual elements gain in importance as elements themselves, and these in turn develop into the demand for the deeper inquiry into the elements of sound, moving towards a "toaltity' of a work which is more akin to the cinema.
>
> I think a lot of the "devaluation of the visual" is partly responsible for the "less sophisticated, less visual, less intersting" aspects of visual poetry. In a sense, alotof visual poetry has nothing to do with visuality, looking, seeing, movements of the eyes in examining attentively the field and peripheries of the visual as a notation of sonic transmissions from out the cracks as it were of the walls--the sounds of colors, colors of sounds,

--al of this is eschewed in much Visual Poetry of the kind Jim is writing about in favor of what is a process not of looking, but of reading.

I think the uses of the virtual, of images which are there only via electricity--begins to decay the visual as a seeing, looking, with materials that exist physically, and whose movements in time and through spaces are effected by an immense number of continauly shifting phenomena--the weather being one of them. In the virtual real, the eye does not need to be as developing in looking "into" time and space, because there is less affecting the image, This virtual image becomes as it were "still" in a kind of "suspended eternity" in which neither the corrosions of time nor the effects created by the movements of objects in space that interact with the materials of the ever changing image exist.

One of the striking aspects of many types of Visual Poetry is the lack of interest in the visual which the poetry displays. Instead, the fascination is strictly of a textual nature, in that the poetry is anchored by its dependence on letters, words, phrases, as supports for the construction of a form of cross word puzzle/scrabble effect and in a playing with the sizes and fonts of letters i relation to these "impositions of the grid" onto not what is seen, but what is placed there within a grid, the grid being the guide to seeing/reading..

In this realm of discussion, between the uses of text and of the virtual, what is vacated is the visual. That is the actual "art of looking" of which Robert Smithson wrote. Smithson writes that a great artist may create a work simply by casting a glance. This creates an art which exists in the act of looking's looking--there is no "object" produced, there is no "concept" expressed, there is no "trace" of this other than what exists for Smithson as a reality which is as durable as any sculpture, written poem, machine, etc

Visual Poetry ironically then in the US seems to be far less about visuality and not even so much re poetry in this sense, as about a form of "solidifying" a text within a "stopped time" whose movements are done as "readings" rather than as the art of looking. :

in a visual poem all the elements are treated as equals in terms of their opening to possiblities--, -that is to say--a color, a line, a dot, a form , the texture of the surfaces, the "indelible imprint of the material world"--al of these are elements of language just as are morphemes, letter, syllables, words, phrase-- in the arrangements of a visual poem al of these elements are "calling"--speaking--singing-sounding--color itself is a language--and languages do not have to be written or formalized--a language may be found expressive in sounding a side walk crack, a shadow, the passage of footprints through a field, or in snow--these provide a basis, as well as those things found al around one which are the evidences of time passing in the effects which are wreaked on materials considered durable--

if one examines peeling, fading, cracking painted walls or the cracked paints on boards oand doors, the movement of lichen and moss in obscuring the letters on a plaque, the cracking open of metal letters through decades of extremes of heat, cold, being blasted, being bombed, being burned, al of these continually present languages of forms and letterings, numbers, in the process of a negentropy of out of chaos emerging forms and these forms wearing down, being time affected, and then these themselves are regenerations of forms out of the new chaos--

a teeming swarming wold exists all around one and for the most part hidden in plain site/sight/cite from the no longer visual eyes of the virtual = written poetry--

if one is to work with visual poetry--then
the visual art of looking needs to be worked at, with, for--as does the soundings which are elicited by colors,forms, fragments or phrases--

a great deal of what is called "visual poetry " by more language influenced workers is just a carrying on of the "pattern poetry" which dick Higgins made a book of. as far as visuality is concerned one might say, nice but weak-=eh--very weak!

it is a rebranding of things long done, as though they have suddenly become "new and radical" because the names have been changed--

visual poetry at least for myself works with things which exits as actual found materials, found letterings, fragments forms--to be involved with the swarming teeming multiplicities which exists "before our very eyes"-- this kind of seeing requires a look /looking of far greater speed and attention than does what one finds in the virtual and digital--where the "framed" and stilled image is demanding instaed a "reading" within a confiement to the aream of textuality--qua "text"--

the function of the virtual is not to be participant in time--which poetry is after all, an art of time--but to delete time--to erase--to make disappear things that were by the touch of the button, by the changing of a > name on line--and --peoples events names forms vanish --forever-deleted--

>
> in another way, the virtual offers persons an example of "the new" and a glimpse of a simulated "eternity" in the virtual not being exposed ot the effects of time--
>
> as long as one has sufficient protection the "textual visual poem" remains
>
> until one pulls the plug--or bombs the infrastructure, cuts off electricity due to non payment or as a siege weapon as with Gaza and in Rwanda--then , while the electricity is off and al communications have gone "dead"--then peoples events cultures disappear, are deleted--and when the virtual comes on again--the electricity--there are now completely new names for the places > which had become for a while black holes in the fabric of controlled existence which is hthat of the virtual and digital online-
>
> in that sense in which things today are accepted unquestioningly like received ideas no one thinks about--"natural" ideas, facts--"known to all"--there develops what is truly reactionary--the end of questioning and the entrance into non stop existence of what has long been spurned in readers of fiction: the willing suspension of disbelief-
>
> and in the case of Visual Poetry what is abandoned, or has yet to be there in a real sense in termsof an art of looking--is viusality--
>
> working with the found--one is having the experience of what Celan points towards in writing " Poetry no longer imposes itself, it exposes itself."
>
> exposing-exposure (to the elements, of a film negative)--the

↑ Index

4. Small Press Traffic

Save the dates and get your checkbook!

Fri 31 Jul 2009

Dear Friends of Small Press Traffic, While somewhat nestled in our foggy beds for the summer, SPT has been working diligently to once again create a season of programming to amaze, mystify, inspire and delight you.

As you well know, for over 35 years SPT has been at the heart of where experimentation and community intersect. This season we are excited to present what we're thinking of as a multi-pronged conversation. Components of this conversation include: class/warfare; translation; performance, and the Inverted I (which addresses memoir, lyric, identity). In addition, this season will feature the launch of Dialogues, talks and writing laboratories presented by visiting readers. Our hope is that a heightened sense of debate and investigation will ensue. You don't want to miss it.

Our lineup is planned as follows:

Friday, September 11, 2009 at 7:30 p.m.

CA Conrad and Frank Sherlock* on Class/Warfare*

**

Saturday September 12, 2009 at 1p.m

Dialogues with CA Conrad and Frank Sherlock: The New American Hybrid (co-sponsored by Non Site Collective)

**

Friday, September 18, 2009 at 7:30 p.m.

Brandon Brown and David Larsen on Translation

Saturday September 19, 2009 at 1p.m.

Dialogues with David Larsen: Translation as Conceptual Writing Practice

Friday, September 25, 2009 at 7:30 p.m.

Anne Tardos and Amina Cain on the Inverted I

Saturday September 26, 2009 at 1 p.m.

Dialogues with Anne Tardos: Mono- multi- and neolingual aspects of literary composition

Saturday, October 10, 2009 at 7:30 p.m.

THE SMITH FAMILY: a play by Kevin Killian and Craig Goodman on Performance

Friday October 16th, at 7:30 p.m.

An evening with Renee Gladman on the Inverted I

Saturday, October 24, 2009 at 7:30 p.m.

Kate Greenstreet and Brian Teare on the Inverted I

Saturday, November 7th, 2009 at 7:30 p.m.

Mark Nowak, Reid Gomez and Rachel Loden on Class/Warfare

Friday, November 14, 2009 at 7:30 p.m.

Norma Cole and John Sakkis on Translation

Thursday November 19, 2009

Dialogues with Gail Scott: A Talk on Narrative and Identity

Co-sponsored with University San Francisco

Friday, November 20, 2009 at 7:30 p.m.

Gail Scott and Bruce Boone on the Inverted I

* *

Friday, December 4, 2009 at 7:30 p.m.

Carla Harryman and Alan Bernheimer on Performance

* *

**

Saturday December 5, 2009 at 1p.m.

*Dialogues *with Carla Harryman: Language and listening in performance

Friday, December 11, 2009 at 7:30 p.m.

Fred Moten and Steve Dickison on Performance

**

Our Fall 2009 season will, of course, will begin after you've been wow-ed by the brilliance of Bill Luoma's Oakdish (held before and during an Oakland As game at the Oakland Coliseum) on August 22nd, for which there are still spaces. Visit oakdish.blogspot.com for more information or sign up at [redacted].

It should go without saying that there is not better time to become a member of SPT. As we push to make it through another year with it's own set of unique funding challenges, and hear of a different arts organization each day that closes its doors, we are heartened by the fact that it is our community that will sustain us.

If you value SPT and the incredible writers we showcase, show your support by becoming a member (or, if you already are, by making an additional donation) today.

I am humbled and honored to be a part of Small Press Traffic. I hope you are too.

See you soon!
Samantha

Samantha Giles
Executive Director
Small Press Traffic Literary Arts Center

sptraffic.org
smallpresstraffic.blogspot.com

↑ Index

5. Eric Elshtain
Beard of Bees Ghazals
Fri 31 Jul 2009

LmNvbQ0K

↑ Index

6. Thomas savage
Re: poet John Wieners 40TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION
Fri 31 Jul 2009

Thank you for posting the Wieners poems on your blog. I really enjoyed reading them very much. I thought I knew his poetry very well but I don't remember reading these before. Regards, Tom Savage

--- On Fri, 7/31/09, CA Conrad <[redacted]> wrote:

From: CA Conrad <[redacted]>
Subject: poet John Wieners 40TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, July 31, 2009, 12:49 AM

poet John Wieners 40TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

40 summers ago John Wieners wrote ASYLUM POEMS (Angel Hair Books) click here: http://phillysound.blogspot.com/2009_07_01_archive.html

READ WIENERS THIS SUMMER!
He's always good for us,
CAConrad

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

7. Micah Robbins
New from Interbirth Books
Fri 31 Jul 2009

Interbirth's fourth hand bound book -- Francis Raven's PROVISIONS -- is now available at www.interbirthbooks.org.

↑ Index

8. Jim Andrews
Re: Visual art / poetry
Fri 31 Jul 2009

> When I say the "visual" in poetry I mean a poetry where the eye is very important, not as an image; but the way it moves in the experience of the poem, as in a film or photograph, organizing what it sees into thought. In other words, the visual is a movement of weaving.
>
> I do not think "visual poetry," the way it is defined today does anything of > the sort. It seems to me it often is an exploration of new technological techniques provided to it. In that sense, it lacks resistance or it has resistance of a technical rather than intellectual kind. That is why I was objecting to your expression "not interesting as image." It implied, to me, > the desire for a complexity impelled by technical openings, prowess, without > anything else generating it. Of course, I may be wrong or misunderstand you.

yes, of course you're wrong and misunderstanding me, murat. what's interesting to me 'as image' doesn't necessarily depend on new technology. paintings seem to be more interesting to me than photography or film 'as image'. some paintings. though there is some painterly photography and film, also. i'm less interested in the technology of production than in what is finally presented to me. or i like to be. sometimes the technology of production is made to be prominent. as in holopoetry. it's usually a consideration, in any case, mind you, isn't it.

when new tech techniques are used, it's rarely just the tech means of production that's of interest, if it is at all. except to technologists, possibly.

> *The same argument occurred a few months ago when I asked why the special effects in the film Blade Runner, the last film where no digital* > effects > *were used, were much more poweful and resonant than many science fiction films which followed it. My guess was that, because to create special effects in Blade Runner was so hard and laborious, the creators only* > used
> what effects were necessary, in other words, which came from the vision of the film and were integral to it. Otherwise, as most cases afterwards, special effects are cliches.

i saw a documentary some time ago about blade runner. part of the success of the visual dimension of blade runner is that there was a long period of time in production when the film had mostly been shot but no production--except by the people responsible for the visuals--was going on. they had a long time to work on it, and something to say.

i'm not sure what you mean by a digital effect, murat. these days, film is typically edited on computers.

i've been reading about how bernie made off with billions. and saw the joker pic of him from the cover of the new york mag. and saw pics of various other swindlers. wow quite the run of them recently. there's reaganomics for ya. so have been contemplating a dbcinema series on faces of swindlers. collaging them in ways related to http://vispo.com/dbcinema/olga . capitalism is just so fucked up. i've been reading about madoff and crew all day. very 'american psycho' in the way he just kept going undetected or even when detected nobody did much about it until he confessed. markopolos sketches a sec that just was incapable of such analysis (ponzi scheme analysis fer instance).

everybody wants a reason to believe. as in the song. which is a beautiful thing. but the swindlers really work that 'suspension of disbelief'.

in any case, i'm hoping i can get something of this out of dbcinema. as a collaging tool. as a cinematic tool. as a langu(im)age processor. as a thing for 'painting' with 'brushes'.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

9. Hugh Behm-Steinberg

Eleven Eleven #7

Fri 31 Jul 2009

Announcing the release of #7, our summer print issue of Eleven Eleven, a journal of literature and art published by the graduate writing program at California College of the Arts.

Featuring dazzling poetry by J. Mae Barizo, Chris Campbell, Alex Cigale, Kate Colby, Craig Cotter, Bruce Covey, Cynthia Cruz, Tenaya Darlington, Alison Hawthorne Deming, Tyler Flynn Dorholt, Mark DuCharme, Steve Gilmartin, Nathan Hauke, John Jacob, Jane Joritz-Nakagawa, Garrett Kalleberg, Stacy Kidd, Melissa Kwasny, Krystal Languell, Tim Lilburn, Reb Livingston, Ian M. McCarty, Aaron McCollough, Laura Moriarty, Stephen Motika, Kaya Oakes, Ethan Paquin, Vanessa Place, Kate Schapira, Bucky Sinister, Carmen GimÃ©nez Smith, Abi Stokes, Mathias Svalina and Julia Cohen, Jennifer K. Sweeney, Andrew Terhune and David Ray Vance;

Brilliant prose by Sally Breen, Jessica Breheny, Jotham Burrello, Michael Filimowicz, Peter Grandbois, James Henschen, Tania Hershman, Paul Lisicky, Nic Lyons, Darlinâ€™ Neal, and Richie Smith;

Astonishing translations of NicolÃ¡s GuillÃ©n (Achy Obejas), Leena Krohn (Hildi Hawkins), Gabriel MagaÃ±a (Suzanne Jill Levine), Arthur Rimbaud (Donald Revell), Alberto Ruy-SÃ¡nchez (Rhonda Dahl Buchanan) and Takayanagi JÅ«shin (Eric Selland);

Thought-provoking drama by Claire Ortalda and Sandra Seaton;

and scintillating art by Rhonda Barrett, Alice Bradshaw, EC Brown, Charles Browning, Sonya Derman, Vanessa HernÃ¡ndez Gracia, Emily Huffman, Packard Jennings, Arhia Kohlmoos, Javier Olmeda, Hendrik Paul and Abdiel D. Segarra RÃos.

All this and only $10! Subscriptions? Four years, just $30! Make checks out to California College of the Arts, Attn: Eleven Eleven.

What's more, we're currently reading for issue eight, our winter online issue.

Send writing and/or checks to:

Eleven Eleven
California College of the Arts
1111 Eighth St.
San Francisco, CA 94107

For more information, drop us a line at [redacted], or visit our website at elevenelevenjournal.com.

Cheers,

Hugh Behm-Steinberg
Faculty Editor
Eleven Eleven

↑ Index

10. Eric Hoffman
Big Bridge
Fri 31 Jul 2009

---

http://www.bigbridge.org/index3
The new Big Bridge is now on-line:

http://www.bigbridge.org/index3.htm

As you can see from the contents below, it's a pretty incredibleÂ body of material, and I'm honored to have the George Oppen special feature included among such a stellar gathering.

Â Â
Hope this finds you well,
Eric Hoffman

CHAPBOOK:
A Time in Fragments
Poem by Clark Coolidge; Drawings by Nancy Victoria Davis
Â

Â
FEATURES, 1
Â
Slow Poetry
Edited by Dale Smith
One of the most refreshing and promising developments in poetry in recent years,
Slow Poetry does not propose another sectarian or clique position, but rather methods of reading and attitudes toward production which could apply to most genres in the current scene or likely to emerge in the near future. The approach has a strong base in concepts and needs made more apparent than ever by current ecological and economic concerns.
Â
Beauty Came Groveling Forward:
Selected South African Poems and Stories
edited by Gary Cummiskey
This collection was meant to show the diversity and spirited character of current South African writing. It contains work by some celebrated writers, and some whose work has not received wide circulation even in its home country. Without the problems caused by canon formation or trying to be totally comprehensive, this group of poems and stories is free to work outside the stereotypes and preconceptions of South Africa and allow the participants to show what they can do as individuals.
Â
All This Strangeness:
A Garland for George Oppen

Edited by Eric Hoffman
Commentary on Oppen has grown slowly, unobtrusively, and steadily, until it now forms a major body in itself. This collection of essays evaluates that body of criticism in less partisan terms than many of its predecessors, seeking to focus on individual poems and prosody in a broad historical context, going beyond the dichotomies that dominated the 20th Century and making room for further types of relevance in current literary and social dispensations.
Â
Sephardic Proverbs
Collected and translated by Michael Castro
Proverbs act on many of the same principles as other miniatures, such as haiku. Like stand-alone
couplets and quatrains used in everything from toasts to insults, they also include a strong element of collaboration and evolution. As a look at a tradition or a type of poem, this collection can stay with a reader a long time.
Â
Post-Beat Anthology
Reprint from the Chinese anthology, with brief intro
Edited by Vernon Frazer
How would you edit a collection of poems with that title for a Chinese audience? Probably not the same way Frazer has. That's one of the things that makes it interesting and refreshing.
Â
as per Le Roman de la Rose, for example
An Anthology of Middle East Genocide Edited by Arpine Konyalian Grenier
How does the cruel and unusual work for you through art, whether it comes from direct experience or direct/indirect memory. Be Genet, for example; lemon to lemonade, for example. How does one turn to Le Roman de la Rose (a Middle Ages Poem) when one is mired in or sorting out or faced with what happened or what is happening that is cruel and unusual due to human intolerance: racial religious cultural gender related and other.

Â
Charles Olson and the Nature of Destructive Humanism
by Craig Stormont
Â
One Man Blues:
Remembering Thomas Chapin
Reminiscence by Vernon Frazer
Â
Excerpt from Autobiography
by David Bromige
Â
The India Journals
by John Brandi
Â
Genius and Heroin:
by Michael Largo
In this essay, the author reviews his own book. The themes of psycho-chemistry may stretch back to pristine civilizations in China, Egypt, and Mexico, but they seem inexhaustible.
Perhaps associate chemicals with genius is because our brains produce such sophisticated bases to start with, and self-review also finds a base in that phenomenon.
Â
WAR PAPERS (3)
Poems and essays against war.
Sub-features by John Bradley, Joel Lewis, Philip Metres, Vincent Katz, Francesco Levato, and Louise Landes Levi, plus reflections from around the world on the election of Barack Obama, and, of course, Halvard Johnson's continuing anthology of anti-war poems.
Â
A Retrospective of the Publication Work of Karl Young
Â

Â FEATURES, 2 &mdash ONGOING: ROCKPILE ROCKPILE is a collaboration between David Meltzer â€” poet, musician, essayist, and more â€” and Michael Rothenberg of Big Bridge Press. David and Michael will journey through eight cities in the U.S. to perform poetry and prose, composed while on the road, with local musicians and artists in each city. ROCKPILE will serve to educate and preserve as well as to create a history of collaboration. It will help to reinforce the tradition of the troubadour of all generations, central to the cultural upheaval and identity politics that reawakened poets, artists, musicians, and songwriters in the mid-1960s through the 1970s. The project will end with a final multimedia performance in San Francisco. Check out the ROCKPILE Blog for calendar and discussion! Â Â _____

Â
Still Comming to Big Bridge this Year:
FEATURES, 3
Â
Big Bridge New Orleans Sturm und Drang Anthology
edited by Dave Brinks and Bill Lavender
Introductory notes for work by 30 artists and 90 writers whose work will double the size of this issue when it appears at the end of summer.
Â
Perfiles de la Noche / Profiles of Night
Mujeres poetas de Venezuela/Women Poets of Venezuela
A Selection from the Bi-lingual Anthology
Original complete text selected and translated by Rowena Hill
Co-edited by Pen de Venezuela and bid & co.
Selection for online edition by Terri Carrion
Poetry by
MarÃa Auxiliadora Ãlvarez, Edda Armas, Enriqueta Arvelo Larriva, MarÃa calcaÃ±o, Laura Cracco, Ida Gramcko, Patricia GuzmÃ¡n, Veronica Jaffe, Maritza JimÃ©nez, Rowena Hill, Martha Kornblith, Luz machado, MarÃa Isabel Novillo, Cecilia Ortiz, Hanni Ossott, Yolanda Pantin, Emira RodrÃguez, Margara Russotto, MarÃa Clara Salas, Elizabeth SchÃ¶n, Blanca Strepponi, Ana Enriqueta TerÃ¡n, Alicia Torres, Elena Vera, Carmen Verde Arocha, Miyo Vestrin
Â
A Tri-lingual Anthology of Galician Writers
Compiled, edited, and translated from Galician to Spanish by F.R. Lavandeira.
Translated from Spanish to English by Terri Carrion.
Poetry and Prose by
A.Nerium, MarÃa do Cebreiro, EstÃbaliz Espinosa, Miro Villar, Olga Novo, F.R Lavandeira, AntÃ³n Riveiro Coello, Anxos Sumai, Diego Ameixeiras, Inma LÃ³pez Silva, Â Â

_____

ART
Enigmas
paintings by Jim Spitzer
As a regular contributor to Big Bridge, these paintings, variations on an enigmatic theme, show Spitzer's continuing evolution, as well as being koan-like meditations in their own right.
Â
The Kingdom of Madison:
Photographs from Madison County, North Carolina
by Rob Amberg
Selections from three sets of photos, exploring a still relatively isolated place, where landscape still has functional meaning. When Amberg arrived, not as a tourist,
but as one seeking community "Planting was still done by the signs of the moon.
Water came from springs and heat from forests" and traditional music still part of daily life. These photos add to the tradition begun in the WPA projects of the Great Depression, but decidedly retain an identity of their own.
Â
These Are My Angels
by Tasha Robbins
Small paintings done in Brooklyn on found cardboard by one of the Post-Katrina diaspora. Celebrating the C-Train stop at Franklin + Fulton Avenues, as the artist writes, they "kept my heart, eye + hand moving with a spirit of life close to the timbre and vibration of the Crescent City, still healing. . .
Â
Lectura en TrÃ¡nsito
Project Created and Directed by Carmen Gloria BerrÃos
Set based on combination of public art and poetry from Santiago de Chile.
Poems translated by Terri Carrion and Carmen Gloria BerrÃos.
Â
Animal Night Photography
by Felicia Murray; notes by Louise Landes Levi
New techniques in photography allow us to make photographic images of phenomena
we could only imagine in previous eras. We might debate whether the nature of cameras and software brings us any closer to the spiritual world, but these haunting images of animals should make us feel less alone, and more in touch with the continuum of life.

Â
12 Collages
by John Brandi
These colages can be read as a non-verbal counterpart and extension of his India Journal and related work.
Â

FICTION
Â
Fiction by
Mel Freilicher, Eric Beeny, Stefani Christova, Lynda Schor, David Madgalene, Stephen-Paul Martin, Mark Wallace, Susan Smith Nash, Kirpal gordon, Richard Martin, Peter Conners, Ann Bogle, Jeffrey Hansen, Carol Novack
Â

Â
REVIEWS

Reviews of:
Wanda Phipps, Lewis Warsh, Simon Pettet, Larissa Shmailo, Bobbie Louise Hawkins, Ed Sanders,
Bill Berkson, Colter Jacobsen, Mark Young, John Roche, Philip Gounis, Rich Kruse, Michael Rumaker, Annie Le Brun, George Kimball, and Ashis Gupta.
Reviewed by:
Kirpal Gordon; Svitlana Matviyenko, Garry Parrish, Jackie Sheeler, Jim Feast, Allan Graubard,
Charles Thorne, Barbara Henning, Tom Hibbard, Steve Elmer, Stephen Lewandowski
Joe Wetteroth, Vernon Frazer, Leverett T. Smith, and Katherine Hastings. Â
Â

Â
Â LITTLE MAGS
Â

Plastic Ocean
Green Dragon
Untamed Ink

↑ Index

11. { brad brace }
300 scanned red drawings
Fri 31 Jul 2009

---

300 scanned red drawings: the book
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/300-scanned-red-drawings/7475997

Millennium project: red drawings: 1981Ñ2009

All the "red drawings" are similar but different andÊ slowly evolving. One free exchange (shipping included) per year if desired.Ê

Various red and colored ink washes, dyes, palimpsest, pigments;Ê
photo-polymer, photo-linocuts, engraved, (derived from evenÊ earlier drawings: collapsed, hollowed-out graphic artÊ narratives -- restrained figure re-drawings -- interlockingÊ parting wakes), multiple block-printed, water-basedÊ lino-inks/extenders, gauche, acrylic, color pencil, stencilsÊ on individually inked/painted, collaged, (archivalÊ bookbinding pastes), and mechanically compressed, thin,Ê multi-layered, papers. Ê9.5x12.5" (24x32cm)Ê

Gallery price: Ê
Rental/exhibit fee:
Reproduction:Ê

Inventory:Ê
[bbrace.laughingsquid.net/millennium.html]Ê [bbrace.net/millennium.html]Ê
[[redacted]]Ê
[telephone:

↑ Index

12. Halvard Johnson
Re: Big Bridge
Sat 1 Aug 2009

Sad to say, Eric Hoffman's announcement that the new Big Bridge is online was a trifle premature. Michael Rothenberg tells me it will be a matter of a few days more. Stay tuned.

Hal

"A paranoid is someone who knows a little of what's going on."
--William S. Burroughs

Halvard Johnson
==========
[redacted]
http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org

On Fri, Jul 31, 2009 at 7:07 PM, Eric Hoffman <[redacted]> wrote:

> http://www.bigbridge.org/index3
> The new Big Bridge is now on-line:
>
> http://www.bigbridge.org/index3.htm
>
> As you can see from the contents below, it's a pretty incredible body of material, and I'm honored to have the George Oppen special feature included among such a stellar gathering.
>
> Hope this finds you well,
> Eric Hoffman
>
> CHAPBOOK:
> A Time in Fragments
> Poem by Clark Coolidge; Drawings by Nancy Victoria Davis
>
> ---
>
> FEATURES, 1
>
> Slow Poetry
> Edited by Dale Smith
> One of the most refreshing and promising developments in poetry in recent years,
> Slow Poetry does not propose another sectarian or clique position, but rather methods
> of reading and attitudes toward production which could apply to most genres in the > current scene or likely to emerge in the near future. The approach has a strong base in concepts and needs made more apparent than ever by current ecological and economic concerns.

Beauty Came Groveling Forward:
Selected South African Poems and Stories
edited by Gary Cummiskey
This collection was meant to show the diversity and spirited character of current South African writing. It contains work by some celebrated writers, and some whose work has not received wide circulation even in its home country. Without the problems caused by canon formation or trying to be totally comprehensive, this group of poems and stories is free to work outside the stereotypes and preconceptions
of South Africa and allow the participants to show what they can do as individuals.

All This Strangeness:
A Garland for George Oppen
Edited by Eric Hoffman
Commentary on Oppen has grown slowly, unobtrusively, and steadily, until it now forms a major body in itself. This collection of essays evaluates that body of criticism in less partisan terms than many of its predecessors, seeking to focus on individual poems and prosody in a broad historical context, going beyond the dichotomies that dominated the 20th Century and making room for further types of relevance in current literary and social dispensations.

Sephardic Proverbs
Collected and translated by Michael Castro
Proverbs act on many of the same principles as other miniatures, such as haiku. Like stand-alone
couplets and quatrains used in everything from toasts to insults, they also include a strong element of collaboration and evolution. As a look at a tradition or a type of poem, this collection can stay with a reader a long time.

Post-Beat Anthology
Reprint from the Chinese anthology, with brief intro
Edited by Vernon Frazer

How would you edit a collection of poems with that title for a Chinese audience? Probably not the same way Frazer has. That's one of the things that makes it interesting and refreshing.

as per Le Roman de la Rose, for example
An Anthology of Middle East Genocide Edited by Arpine Konyalian Grenier
How does the cruel and unusual work for you through art, whether it comes from direct experience or direct/indirect memory. Be Genet, for example; lemon to lemonade, for example. How does one turn to Le Roman de la Rose (a Middle Ages Poem) when one is mired in or sorting out or faced with what happened or what is happening that is cruel and unusual due to human intolerance: racial religious cultural gender related and other.

Charles Olson and the Nature of Destructive Humanism
by Craig Stormont

One Man Blues:
Remembering Thomas Chapin
Reminiscence by Vernon Frazer

Excerpt from Autobiography
by David Bromige

The India Journals
by John Brandi

Genius and Heroin:
by Michael Largo
In this essay, the author reviews his own book. The themes of psycho-chemistry may stretch back to pristine civilizations in China, Egypt, and Mexico, but they seem inexhaustible.
Perhaps associate chemicals with genius is because our brains produce such sophisticated bases to start with, and self-review also finds a base in that phenomenon.

WAR PAPERS (3)
Poems and essays against war.
Sub-features by John Bradley, Joel Lewis, Philip Metres, Vincent Katz, Francesco Levato, and Louise Landes Levi, plus reflections from around the world on the election of Barack Obama,

and, of course, Halvard Johnson's continuing anthology of anti-war poems.

A Retrospective of the Publication Work of Karl Young

FEATURES, 2 &mdash ONGOING:
ROCKPILE
ROCKPILE is a collaboration between David Meltzer — poet, musician, essayist, and more — and Michael Rothenberg of Big Bridge Press. David and Michael will journey through eight cities in the U.S. to perform poetry and prose, composed while on the road, with local musicians and artists in each city. ROCKPILE will serve to educate and preserve as well as to create a history of collaboration. It will help to reinforce the tradition of the troubadour of all generations, central to the cultural upheaval and identity politics that reawakened poets, artists, musicians, and songwriters in the mid-1960s through the 1970s.
The project will end with a final multimedia performance in San Francisco.
Check out the ROCKPILE Blog for calendar and discussion!

Still Comming to Big Bridge this Year:
FEATURES, 3

Big Bridge New Orleans Sturm und Drang Anthology
edited by Dave Brinks and Bill Lavender
Introductory notes for work by 30 artists and 90 writers whose work will double the size of this issue when it appears at the end of summer.

Perfiles de la Noche / Profiles of Night
Mujeres poetas de Venezuela/Women Poets of Venezuela
A Selection from the Bi-lingual Anthology
Original complete text selected and translated by Rowena Hill
Co-edited by Pen de Venezuela and bid & co.
Selection for online edition by Terri Carrion
Poetry by
María Auxiliadora Álvarez, Edda Armas, Enriqueta Arvelo Larriva,
María calcaño, Laura Cracco, Ida Gramcko, Patricia Guzmán, Veronica Jaffe,
Maritza Jiménez, Rowena Hill, Martha Kornblith, Luz machado, María Isabel Novillo,

Cecilia Ortiz, Hanni Ossott, Yolanda Pantin, Emira Rodríguez, Margara Russotto, María Clara Salas, Elizabeth Schön, Blanca Strepponi, Ana Enriqueta Terán, Alicia Torres, Elena Vera, Carmen Verde Arocha, Miyo Vestrin

A Tri-lingual Anthology of Galician Writers
Compiled, edited, and translated from Galician to Spanish by F.R. Lavandeira.
Translated from Spanish to English by Terri Carrion.
Poetry and Prose by
A.Nerium, María do Cebreiro, Estíbaliz Espinosa, Miro Villar, Olga Novo, F.R Lavandeira, Antón Riveiro Coello, Anxos Sumai, Diego Ameixeiras, Inma López Silva,

---

ART Enigmas
paintings by Jim Spitzer
As a regular contributor to Big Bridge, these paintings, variations on an enigmatic
theme, show Spitzer's continuing evolution, as well as being koan-like meditations
in their own right.

The Kingdom of Madison:
Photographs from Madison County, North Carolina
by Rob Amberg
Selections from three sets of photos, exploring a still relatively isolated place, where landscape still has functional meaning. When Amberg arrived, not as a tourist,
but as one seeking community "Planting was still done by the signs of the moon.
Water came from springs and heat from forests" and traditional music still part of daily life. These photos add to the tradition begun in the WPA projects of the Great Depression, but decidedly retain an identity of their own.

These Are My Angels
by Tasha Robbins
Small paintings done in Brooklyn on found cardboard by one of the Post-Katrina diaspora. Celebrating the C-Train stop at Franklin + Fulton Avenues, as the artist writes, they "kept my heart, eye + hand moving with a spirit of life close to the timbre and

vibration of the Crescent City, still healing. . .

Lectura en Tránsito
Project Created and Directed by Carmen Gloria Berríos
Set based on combination of public art and poetry from Santiago de Chile.
Poems translated by Terri Carrion and Carmen Gloria Berríos.

Animal Night Photography
by Felicia Murray; notes by Louise Landes Levi
New techniques in photography allow us to make photographic images of phenomena
we could only imagine in previous eras. We might debate whether the nature of cameras and software brings us any closer to the spiritual world, but these haunting images of animals should make us feel less alone, and more in touch with the continuum of life.

12 Collages
by John Brandi
These colages can be read as a non-verbal counterpart and extension of his India Journal
and related work.

FICTION

Fiction by
Mel Freilicher, Eric Beeny, Stefani Christova, Lynda Schor, David Madgalene, Stephen-Paul Martin, Mark Wallace, Susan Smith Nash, Kirpal gordon, Richard Martin, Peter Conners, Ann Bogle, Jeffrey Hansen, Carol Novack

---

REVIEWS

Reviews of:
Wanda Phipps, Lewis Warsh, Simon Pettet, Larissa Shmailo, Bobbie Louise Hawkins, Ed Sanders,
Bill Berkson, Colter Jacobsen, Mark Young, John Roche, Philip Gounis, Rich Kruse, Michael Rumaker, Annie Le Brun, George Kimball, and Ashis Gupta.
Reviewed by:
Kirpal Gordon; Svitlana Matviyenko, Garry Parrish, Jackie Sheeler, Jim Feast, Allan Graubard,

Charles Thorne, Barbara Henning, Tom Hibbard, Steve Elmer, Stephen Lewandowski
Joe Wetteroth, Vernon Frazer, Leverett T. Smith, and Katherine Hastings.

LITTLE MAGS

Plastic Ocean
Green Dragon
Untamed Ink

↑ Index

13. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: Visual art / poetry
Sat 1 Aug 2009

Jim,

"paintings seem to be more interesting to me than photography or film 'as image'. some paintings. though there is some painterly photography and film, also. i'm less interested in the technology of production than in what is finally presented to me."

You can say that if you look at photography as a kind of painting, doing what painting "used" to do. Photography has very little do do with painting, nor has cinema. But technology peculiar to the medium does affect the limits of what is presentable in it. In some way it creates its dynamic potential.

"i saw a documentary some time ago about blade runner. part of the success of the visual dimension of blade runner is that there was a long period of time in production when the film had mostly been shot but no production--except by the people responsible for the visuals--was going on. they had a long time to work on it, and something to say."

If you watch that documentary again (I am assuming it is the one attached to the DVD), you will see most everything is dictated by the director's specific vision, almost about every detail of the film. The art in it is a function of bringing it about, is not independent from it.

"i'm not sure what you mean by a digital effect, murat. these days, film is typically edited on computers."

By you defintion, Jim, almost every poem written today is a digital poem since written on a word processor.

"n any case, i'm hoping i can get something of this out of dbcinema. as a collaging tool. as a cinematic tool. as a langu(im)age processor. as a thing for 'painting' with 'brushes'."

I was not suggesting that you had no thoughts you are trying to express in your digital work.

Ciao,

Murat

On Fri, Jul 31, 2009 at 4:35 PM, Jim Andrews <[redacted]> wrote:

> When I say the "visual" in poetry I mean a poetry where the eye is very important, not as an image; but the way it moves in the experience of the poem, as in a film or photograph, organizing what it sees into thought. In other words, the visual is a movement of weaving.
>
> I do not think "visual poetry," the way it is defined today does anything of
> the sort. It seems to me it often is an exploration of new technological techniques provided to it. In that sense, it lacks resistance or it has resistance of a technical rather than intellectual kind. That is why I was objecting to your expression "not interesting as image." It implied, to me, > the desire for a complexity impelled by technical openings, prowess, without > anything else generating it. Of course, I may be wrong or misunderstand you.
>
> yes, of course you're wrong and misunderstanding me, murat. what's interesting to me 'as image' doesn't necessarily depend on new technology. paintings seem to be more interesting to me than photography or film 'as image'. some paintings. though there is some painterly photography and film, also. i'm less interested in the technology of production than in what is finally presented to me. or i like to be. sometimes the technology of production is made to be prominent. as in holopoetry. it's usually a consideration, in any case, mind you, isn't it.
>
> when new tech techniques are used, it's rarely just the tech means of production that's of interest, if it is at all. except to technologists, possibly.
>
> *The same argument occurred a few months ago when I asked why the special effects in the film Blade Runner, the last film where no digital effects* > *were used, were much more poweful and resonant than many science fiction films which followed it. My guess was that, because to create special effects in Blade Runner was so hard and laborious, the creators only used* > what effects were necessary, in other words, which came from the vision of the film and were integral to it. Otherwise, as most cases afterwards, special effects are cliches.

>
> i saw a documentary some time ago about blade runner. part of the success of the visual dimension of blade runner is that there was a long period of time in production when the film had mostly been shot but no production--except by the people responsible for the visuals--was going on. they had a long time to work on it, and something to say.
>
> i'm not sure what you mean by a digital effect, murat. these days, film is typically edited on computers.
>
> i've been reading about how bernie made off with billions. and saw the joker pic of him from the cover of the new york mag. and saw pics of various other swindlers. wow quite the run of them recently. there's reaganomics for ya. so have been contemplating a dbcinema series on faces of swindlers. collaging them in ways related to http://vispo.com/dbcinema/olga . capitalism is just so fucked up. i've been reading about madoff and crew all day. very 'american psycho' in the way he just kept going undetected or even when detected nobody did much about it until he confessed. markopolos sketches a sec that just was incapable of such analysis (ponzi scheme analysis fer instance).
>
> everybody wants a reason to believe. as in the song. which is a beautiful thing. but the swindlers really work that 'suspension of disbelief'.
>
> in any case, i'm hoping i can get something of this out of dbcinema. as a collaging tool. as a cinematic tool. as a langu(im)age processor. as a thing for 'painting' with 'brushes'.
>
> ja
> http://vispo.com

↑ Index

14. William Slaughter

Notice: Mudlark

Sat 1 Aug 2009

New and On View: Mudlark No. 38 (2009)

The Limbo Suite | Poems and Paintings | Susan Kelly-DeWitt

Susan Kelly-DeWitt is the author of The Fortunate Islands (Marick Press) and several chapbook collections including Cassiopeia Above the Banyan Tree, "Poems About Hawaii," also known as Mudlark No. 33 (2007).

Her work also appears in a number of anthologies, most recently When She Named Fire: An Anthology of Contemporary Poetry by American Women (Autumn House Press) and In Whatever Houses We May Visit: An Anthology of Poems That Have Inspired Physicians (American College of Physicians). Her poems have appeared in journals such as Poetry, Prairie Schooner, Poetry Northwest, The North American Review, Yankee, and Nimrod; her interviews, articles and reviews have appeared in The Sacramento Bee, Library Journal, Perihelion, Poetry Flash and Small Press Review, among others. She is currently a contributing editor for Poetry Flash and an instructor for the UC Davis Extension program. Also a visual artist, her paintings and sculptures have been exhibited in Northern California galleries for over twenty years.

A second full-length collection of poems, Ghostfire, is currently in search of a publisher. You can visit her website at www.susankelly-dewitt.com.

Spread the word. Far and wide,

William Slaughter

MUDLARK
An Electronic Journal of Poetry & Poetics
Never in and never out of print...
E-mail: [redacted]
URL: http://www.unf.edu/mudlark

↑ Index

15. Alan Sondheim

*Epiphany of new video dance/choreography - please give a look - **

Sat 1 Aug 2009

Epiphany of new video - please give a look - * working through choreia, maenadism, nietzchism, kristevology

Foofwa d'Imobilite - dance/ < choreography
Azure Carter - dance/ < choreography
Alan Sondheim - hegelung/ < melodology

http://www.alansondheim.org/involdance4.mp4

* some of the preliminary studies or audio tracks have been taken down to make room for this

↑ Index

16. steve dalachinsky
norse memorial reading
Sun 2 Aug 2009

---

live recordings of a norse memorial reading event with lots of folks reading his work http://www.acousticlevitation.org/norse.html

On Fri, 31 Jul 2009 12:56:36 -0700 Thomas savage <[redacted]> writes:
> Thank you for posting the Wieners poems on your blog. I really > enjoyed reading them very much. I thought I knew his poetry very > well but I don't remember reading these before. Regards, Tom > Savage
>
> --- On Fri, 7/31/09, CA Conrad <[redacted]> wrote:
>
>
> From: CA Conrad <[redacted]>
> Subject: poet John Wieners 40TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Friday, July 31, 2009, 12:49 AM
>
>
> poet John Wieners 40TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION
>
> 40 summers ago John Wieners wrote ASYLUM POEMS (Angel Hair Books)
> click here:
> http://phillysound.blogspot.com/2009_07_01_archive.html
>
> READ WIENERS THIS SUMMER!
> He's always good for us,
> CAConrad
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

>
>
>
>
>
> --
> PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com
>
> THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

17. Camille Martin

new on Rogue Embryo's blog

Sun 2 Aug 2009

New on Rogue Embryo:

unarmed to the hilt

sixpence

Zydeco Gallery #1

Part 1: From Motorcycle to Biopsy: The Messy Desk of the Mind

Part 2: “I hate my birthday!”—Or, what do elegies by New York school poets have in common with the story of an Italian anarchist?

Larissa Shmailo, “Jamas Volveré”

http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

Cheers!

Camille Martin
http://www.camillemartin.ca
http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

↑ Index

18. CA Conrad
Re: poet John Wieners 40TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION
Sun 2 Aug 2009

Mr. Savage, you're certainly welcome. This summer hit a high watermark reading these Wieners poems!

MORE of his books waiting for me at the library, the Notebooks published by Sun & Moon. THE FILTHY USED BOOKSTORE THIEVES want 100 dollars for it!

When the newest collection of Spicer came out recently I HOPE it made those book villains SICK in their dingy little basements of money taken from the mouths of poets! Double fisted GOTCHA! NOW THE KIDS CAN BUY SPICER AND HAVE ENOUGH LEFT OVER FOR BEER AND SMOKES!

CAConrad

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

19. Mark Young
Otoliths #14, southern winter issue
Sun 2 Aug 2009

Issue fourteen of Otoliths <http://the-otolith.blogspot.com/> has gone live.

As always it's full of variety. There's work by Kirsten Kaschock, Pat Nolan, Márton Koppány, Jim Meirose , Anne Gorrick, Caleb Puckett, Peter Schwartz, Fredrick Zydek, Ed Baker, Ross Brighton, Derek Henderson, John M. Bennett, John M. Bennett & Sheila E. Murphy, Raymond Farr, Jill Chan, John Martone, Bob Heman, Philip Byron Oakes, Ric Carfagna, Eileen R. Tabios, Justin Mulrooney, Jeff Harrison, Eric Burke, K. R. Copeland & Jeff Crouch, Crane Giamo, Paula Kolek, Daniel f Bradley, Arthur Leung, Joseph Harrington, Iain Britton, Thomas Fink, Tan Lin, Kristine Marie Darling , Joel Chace, Paul Siegell, Mariana Isara, Jay Snodgrass, Bill Drennan, Jill Jones, Stu Hatton, Nicholas Michael Ravnikar, Mara Patricia Hernandez, Felino Soriano, Matt Hetherington, Marcia Arrieta, Charles Freeland, Vernon Frazer, Grzegorz Wróblewski, Julian Jason Haladyn, Martin Edmond, harry k stammer, Reed Altemus, Randall Brock, Anny Ballardini, sean burn, A. Scott Britton, David-Baptiste Chirot, Joan Harvey, Mary Ellen Derwis, Bobbi Lurie, John Moore Williams, Sarah Ahmad, Scott Metz, Theodoros Chiotis, & Sheila E. Murphy.

↑ Index

20. Hugh Behm-Steinberg

Re: Eleven Eleven #7

Mon 3 Aug 2009

And while I'm at it, I'd like to thank my amazing staff, without whose work 1111 wouldn't exist: Kevin Whiteley [Prose Editor], Thomas Rees [Poetry Editor] Shazelle Goulet [Managing Editor], Julie Littman [Art Director], Maria Elena Ortiz [Art Editor], Emma Rose Miller [International Coordinator], Michelle Krivanek [Journal Facilitator], Lisa Gordon [Production Director], Junior Clemens [Special Projects Director] and Melanie Farley [Marketing Director].

Hugh Behm-Steinberg

_____
From: Hugh Behm-Steinberg <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Friday, July 31, 2009 3:46:19 PM
Subject: Eleven Eleven #7

Announcing the release of #7, our summer print issue of Eleven Eleven, a journal of literature and art published by the graduate writing program at California College of the Arts.

Featuring dazzling poetry by J. Mae Barizo, Chris Campbell, Alex Cigale, Kate Colby, Craig Cotter, Bruce Covey, Cynthia Cruz, Tenaya Darlington, Alison Hawthorne Deming, Tyler Flynn Dorholt, Mark DuCharme, Steve Gilmartin, Nathan Hauke, John Jacob, Jane Joritz-Nakagawa, Garrett Kalleberg, Stacy Kidd, Melissa Kwasny, Krystal Languell, Tim Lilburn, Reb Livingston, Ian M. McCarty, Aaron McCollough, Laura Moriarty, Stephen Motika, Kaya Oakes, Ethan Paquin, Vanessa Place, Kate Schapira, Bucky Sinister, Carmen GimÃ©nez Smith, Abi Stokes, Mathias Svalina and Julia Cohen, Jennifer K. Sweeney, Andrew Terhune and David Ray Vance;

Brilliant prose by Sally Breen, Jessica Breheny, Jotham Burrello, Michael Filimowicz, Peter Grandbois, James Henschen, Tania Hershman, Paul Lisicky, Nic Lyons, Darlinâ€™ Neal, and Richie Smith;

Astonishing translations of NicolÃ¡s GuillÃ©n (Achy Obejas), Leena Krohn (Hildi Hawkins), Gabriel MagaÃ±a (Suzanne Jill Levine), Arthur Rimbaud (Donald Revell), Alberto Ruy-SÃ¡nchez (Rhonda Dahl Buchanan) and Takayanagi JÅ«shin (Eric Selland);

Thought-provoking drama by Claire Ortalda and Sandra Seaton;

and scintillating art by Rhonda Barrett, Alice Bradshaw, EC Brown, Charles Browning, Sonya Derman, Vanessa HernÃ¡ndez Gracia, Emily Huffman, Packard Jennings, Arhia Kohlmoos, Javier Olmeda, Hendrik Paul and Abdiel D. Segarra RÃos.

All this and only $10! Subscriptions? Four years, just $30! Make checks out to California College of the Arts, Attn: Eleven Eleven.

What's more, we're currently reading for issue eight, our winter online issue.

Send writing and/or checks to:

Eleven Eleven
California College of the Arts
1111 Eighth St.
San Francisco, CA 94107

For more information, drop us a line at [redacted], or visit our website at elevenelevenjournal.com.

Cheers,

Hugh Behm-Steinberg
Faculty Editor
Eleven Eleven

↑ Index

21. Adam Katz
Re: Got a used copy of 'A'?
Mon 3 Aug 2009

Anyways, thanks - and I was able to get a copy, in time and at a good price, as a result of going through this list.
I think Hopkins Press shd put out an edition of A 1-23!
Be safe,
Adam

↑ Index

22. amy king
It’s my birthday and there’s a Fog…
Mon 3 Aug 2009

August 3, 2009 Â Â --Â Â http://foggedclarity.com/

August 3, 2009 Â Â --Â Â http://foggedclarity.com/

Â

FICTION

Â

Caitlin HorrocksÂ
Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â

Dylan BrockÂ Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â

Â

Â

POETRY

Â

Scott HightowerÂ Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â

Howie GoodÂ Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â

Ana BozicevicÂ Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â

Amy KingÂ Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â

Niels HavÂ Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â

Thax DouglasÂ Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â

Dawn SchoutÂ Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â

Â

Â

VISUAL

Â

Patrick Gunderson

Alexey MamochkinÂ Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â

Dominik KrugerÂ Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â

Â

Â

POLEMICS

Â

Ryan McCarlÂ Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â

Â

Â

AURAL

Â

White PinesÂ Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â

Â

Â

INTERVIEWS

Â

Danielle EvansÂ Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â

Amy King & Michael TyrellÂ Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â

Joseph ScottÂ Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â

Â

http://foggedclarity.com/

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

23. Dan Glass

With + Stand 4: the Lisa Robertson Issue CFW

Mon 3 Aug 2009

“As for us, we like a touch of kitsch in each room to juice up or pinken the clean lines of the possible. This is the décor that receives futurity as its own ludic production; this weather is the vestibule to something fountaining newly and crucially and yet indiscernibly beyond. Perhaps here we shall be other than the administrators of poverty.” —The Office for Soft Architecture, from “Introduction to THE WEATHER”

“I SPEAK TO JUDGE CRIMES OF FILIATION as hard sky spent cancelled horizon my own mouth barking perhaps I am unmentionable ticking against the dark adjacency of prose lovely home of gods and punctuation I say this against the long and burning hills in the slatey cold of debt”
—Lisa Robertson, Debbie: An Epic

With + Stand 4: The Lisa Robertson Issue

“Perhaps here we shall be other than the administrators of poverty.”

With + Stand, out of a deep collective sense of appreciation for and camaraderie with the great poet of systems and subjectivity Lisa Robertson, seeks submissions for its fourth issue, which will be focused on her work. Creative responses to any of her books or poems are especially encouraged. Critical work which seeks to “pinken the clean lines of the possible” is likewise welcome.

We search for a conversation that says what it says against the “slatey cold of debt.”
We search for the “indiscernibly beyond.”

Send Word .docs of 1-15 pages to withplusstand [at] gmail [dot] com by Saturday October 17th, 2009
(the 20th anniversary of the Loma Prieta earthquake).

A reading and release party will take place in November, somewhere in the SF Bay Area.

http://withplusstand.blogspot.com

↑ Index

24. Country Valley

Country Valley Press, Summer 2009

Mon 3 Aug 2009

Announcing:

Jeffery Beam - AN INVOCATION
Limited edition, Japanese style sewn chapbook, 34 pgs.
$15 or $20 signed.

Please note that I am still binding/sewing and should have more copies ready to ship in a couple of weeks.
I did an initial pre-order for friends of the author, so copies are already limited.
A PayPal link will on the CVP website soon; however, if you would like to reserve a copy now, please email me and/or send a check/money order for the book plus $3.00 shipping.

The Empty Hands Broadside Series
A subscription to the series is now $5 for four broadsides a year, postpaid.
Current and upcoming issues include:

Sabine Miller
Serge Gavronsky
John Phillips
Simon Cutts

ON SALE at the press website:

Ed Baker - Restoration Poems

Joel Chace - Scaffold

Country Valley Press
http://web.mac.com/countryvalley

↑ Index

25. Jennifer Karmin

Aug 9: Chicago reading

Mon 3 Aug 2009

SUNDAY, AUGUST 9th
7pm

James Belflower
Jennifer Karmin
Tom Orange

at MYOPIC BOOKS
1564 N. Milwaukee Ave -- Chicago, IL http://www.myopicbookstore.com
free

JAMES BELFLOWER's first book of poems, Commuter, is forthcoming from Instance Press in 2009. And Also a Fountain, his collaborative echap with Anne Heide and J. Michael Martinez, is forthcoming from NeOPepper Press in 2009. He was a finalist for the 2007 National Poetry series, was nominated for a Pushcart Prize and won the 2007 Juked Magazine poetry prize. His work appears, or is forthcoming in: Jacket, EOAGH, Denver Quarterly, Octopus, LIT, First Intensity, 580 Split, Konundrum Engine, and Coconut, among others. He runs PotLatchpoetry.org, a website dedicated to the gifting and exchange of poetry resources.

JENNIFER KARMIN is the author of the text-sound epic Aaaaaaaaaaalice (Flim Forum Press, forthcoming 2009). She curates the Red Rover Series and is a founding member of the public art group Anti Gravity Surprise. Her multidisciplinary projects have been presented nationally at festivals, artist-run spaces, and on city streets. Jennifer teaches creative writing to immigrants at Truman College and works as a Poet in Residence for the Chicago Public Schools. New poems are published in the journals Cannot Exist, MoonLit, Otoliths, and anthologized in Come Together: Imagine Peace(Bottom Dog Press), Not A Muse (Haven Books), and The City Visible: Chicago Poetry for the New Century (Cracked Slab Books).

TOM ORANGE has taught at literature and writing at Vanderbilt, Georgetown and The George Washington Universities. He currently lives in Cleveland Ohio, where he is active in the local food movement and the music and arts scenes. Slack Buddha Press published his chapbook of conceptual prose, American Dialectics, in 2008, and he is currently revising a book-length manuscript on the early poetry of Clark Coolidge. His recent and forthcoming work can be found in Aquaduck, Big Bridge, English Studies in Canada, The I.E. Reader, Typo, Wheelhouse, and 1913: A Journal of Forms.

↑ Index

26. Chris Jones
Re: Visual art / poetry
Tue 4 Aug 2009

In actual practice I have come across this problem, being both an art photographer and poet. It does seem in practice and the thinking required, the distinction is reactionary, in the technical sense of the word.

Gerald Genette's books on the work of art seem to address this problem. Best, Chris Jones.

On Mon, 2009-07-27 at 10:32 -0700, nieuwland jeroen wrote:
> Thanks Jim,
> 'reactionary' wasn't a word my friend used, but I assume he meant that there was a time when a distinction between visual art / poetry made sense

↑ Index

27. Daniel Kane
ed james and thomas postell?
Tue 4 Aug 2009

A musicologist friend of mine (Ben Young) is trying to track down information on two poets...Google has proved equally elusive....these two poets, Ed James and Thomas Postell, are listed as having read with Amiri Baraka, Bobb Hamilton and Cecil Taylor in 1957...see

http://news.google.com/archivesearch?q=%22bobb+hamilton%22&scoring=a&hl=en&ned=us&um=1&sa=N&sugg=d&as_ldate=1955&as_hdate=1959&lnav=hist1

If anyone knows anything about these two writers, or has contact info for them, it'd be great if you could pass it on to me at [redacted] and I'll forward that on to Ben.

thanks,
--daniel

↑ Index

28. steve dalachinsky
Re: Visual art / poetry
Tue 4 Aug 2009

---

sure it makes sense
i do alot of collage and feel that it's ovvious to me when each is what it is vispo or just vis collages
tho all have a poetic sense embedded in them and many with a narrative no matter how abstract or warped

On Tue, 4 Aug 2009 18:52:24 +1000 Chris Jones <[redacted]>
writes:
> In actual practice I have come across this problem, being both an
> art
> photographer and poet. It does seem in practice and the thinking > required, the distinction is reactionary, in the technical sense of > the > word.
>
> Gerald Genette's books on the work of art seem to address this > problem.
> Best, Chris Jones.
>
> On Mon, 2009-07-27 at 10:32 -0700, nieuwland jeroen wrote:
> > Thanks Jim,
> > 'reactionary' wasn't a word my friend used, but I assume he meant > that there was a time when a distinction between visual art / poetry > made sense
>
>
>

↑ Index

29. amy king

I'm at The Living Room but

Tue 4 Aug 2009

Seating is limited!

Â

Â

Five sets of music &

Seating is limited!

Â

Â

Five sets of music & two readings:

Â

Samantha Farrell

Strand of Oaks

Karisa Wilson

Amir Darzi

Michael Tyrell

Amy King

Judson Claiborne

Â

Â

Sunday, September 13, 2009 @ 9 pm

Â

The Living Room

154 Ludlow St.

New York, NY 10002

Â

Â

INFO -- http://www.livingroomny.com/artist/fogged-clarity

TICKETS -- http://foggedclarity.com/Â

Â

Â

 Iâ€™ll be reading from my new book, Slaves to do These Things.

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

30. { brad brace }

10ten10 new pleated plaid pamphlets published

Tue 4 Aug 2009

Ten New Pleated Plaid Pamphlets Published over 800 pages good stuff $5

{ brad brace }

> Pleated Plaid Pamphlet
> Volumes 139-150 Number 2
> [accompaniment to insatiable abstraction engine]
>
> http://www.bbrace.net/abstraction-engine.html
> [redacted]

brad brace, bbrace, architecture, engineering, biography, memoir, illustration, map, creative, writing, drama, opera, puzzles, games, samizdat, artists' books, poetry, fluxus, contemporary, art, design, fiction,musical

139 Rustic Pipes Rustic Survival Rustic Unease
140 Rusting Rails Rusting Roofs Rusty Barrel Rusty Nails Rusty Sprockets
141 Sacramental Sync Sacred Discontent Sacred Ends
142 Sacred Grove Sacred Oath Sacred Obligations
143 Sacred Statues Sacred Stream Sacred Subjects
144 Sacred Vessels Sacred Vesture Sacred Vision
145 Sacrificial Blaze Sacrificial Fire Sacrificial Service
146 Sacrificial Victims Sacrosanct Castrating Sad Aura
147 Rabbit Raffle Sad Blow Sad Ends
150 Rabbit Tissue Sad Exile Sad Farewell Sad Glance

ppp139-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-139-no-2/7489425
ppp140-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-140-no-

2/7489492
ppp141-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-141-no-2/7489536
ppp142-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-142-no-2/7489978
ppp143-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-143-no-2/7490038
ppp144-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-144-no-2/7490084
ppp145-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-145-no-2/7490142
ppp146-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-146-no-2/7490190
ppp147-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-147-no-2/7490273
ppp150-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-150-no-2/7490323

/:b

↑ Index

31. Stephen Vincent
The Guest of Cindy Sherman
Tue 4 Aug 2009

I found this flic to be a wonderful doc or psuedo-doc and a hoot. In many ways a hilarious and/or dark foil all the factions, ambitions, posturing, good and bad spirited humor that occupies poetry and no doubt parts of most art worlds. Unlike 99% of the poetry world, the mortar in the New York art world (for actually probably a very small percentage of artists) is Cash, big Cash. "The Guest of Cindy Sherman" is more the world of the 80's & 90's (the big boys of that time that are now much gone - but, what big, petentious pricks of the era). (One assumes/knows they have been replaced). Sherman, by contrast, comes off quite well, a wonderful imaginator & critic of kith, kitsch and ken - a little shy and sweet under all those masks!

In San Francisco it's showing at the Roxie. Anywhere else?

Stephen V
http://stephenvincent.net/blog/
Now showing "Requiem" - a new, composite haptic

↑ Index

32. Michael
Part 1 of this year's Big Bridge is now online!
Tue 4 Aug 2009

Part 1 of this year's Big Bridge is now online!

http://www.bigbridge.org/

As usual, it includes balanced presentations of arts and genres, aesthetic approaches and socio-political statements, compact anthologies and stand-alone works.

The issue opens with a collection of essays and examples of Slow Poetry, one of the leading contenders for the first major shift in 21st century art. Not a movement, but rather a means of approaching, rethinking, and appreciating virtually all modes and genres. A measure of the importance of this feature is that its URL got passed around before the issue officially went online. It thus officially appears after being mentioned in blogs, and even satirized by another group. In one way or another, we hope our features tend to be similarly ahead of the curve - at times going so far as to generate response before official publication.

We do, however, try to present work that keeps response from distorting our environment, as we try to reclaim poetry from preconception. This issue's anthology of poetry and fiction from South Africa, for instance, makes no attempt to fill in news stories or confirm simplifications of huge problems and unusual successes, but present a glimpse of the diversity of a complex nation's poetry and the individuality of its writers.

Standard features such as the continuing group statements in War Papers and another in the series of paintings by Jim Spitzer, judicious essays and terse reviews, short fiction and a suggestive sample of current little magazines published on paper in the digital age continue the scope of the magazine. A simplified table of contents appears below.

This issue differs from its predecessors in several ways. It intersects with the ROCKPILE program of transcontinental readings lead by David Meltzer and Michael Rothenberg and including local participants.

It also appears several months before the omnibus New Orleans anthology, which, in itself, is larger than everything else in the issue. Later this year, we will also add a compact, bi-lingual Anthology of Venezuelan Women poets, another tri-lingual Anthology of Galician writers and a few small contributions. We feel that dividing the issue up this way keeps the New Orleans feature from throwing the issue off balance and giving our readers some breathing room. Opening ROCKPILE at this time also gives us a chance to test the interaction of an annual magazine with an on-going project.

Although we are adamant partisans in some areas, such as opposition to senseless wars in places the U.S. does not understand and where it does not belong, and in celebration of the history and resurrection of one of America's greatest cities, we hope to maintain enough diversity to present some work that will appeal to nearly anyone who looks for progressive poetry on the web, and perhaps promote interchange between people with different ideas and orientations.

At a time when economic crisis brings out the perennial name for boondoggles, we'd like to move as far away from being a bridge to nowhere as we can but rather see how close we can come to being a big bridge that can act as a focal point for the cyberbridges that lead everywhere.

CHAPBOOK

A Time in Fragments

Poem by Clark Coolidge; Drawings by Nancy Victoria Davis

FEATURES, 1

Slow Poetry

Edited by Dale Smith

Beauty Came Groveling Forward:

Selected South African Poems and Stories

edited by Gary Cummiskey

All This Strangeness: A Garland for George Oppen

Edited by Eric Hoffman

Sephardic Proverbs

Collected and translated by Michael Castro

Post-Beat Anthology

Reprint from the Chinese anthology, with brief intro

Edited by Vernon Frazer

as per Le Roman de la Rose, for example:

An Anthology of Middle East Genocide

Edited by Arpine Konyalian Grenier

Charles Olson and the Nature of Destructive Humanism

by Craig Stormont

One Man Blues:

Remembering Thomas Chapin

Reminiscense by Vernon Frazer

Excerpt from Autobiography

by David Bromige

The India Journals

by John Brandi

Genius and Heroin:

by Michael Largo

WAR PAPERS (3)

Poems and essays against war.

FEATURES, 2 - ONGOING:

ROCKPILE

ROCKPILE is a collaboration between David Meltzer - poet, musician, essayist,

and more - and Michael Rothenberg, poet, songwriter and editor of Big Bridge Press. In the tradition of the troubadour and with the spirit of collaboration, David and Michael will journey through eight U.S. cities and perform poetry, composed on the road, with local musicians and artists in each city.

ROCKPILE will serve to educate, and preserve and create a history of collaboration and help to introduce as well as reinforce the tradition of the troubadour for all generations.

The project will end with a final multimedia performance in San Francisco.

Check out the ROCKPILE Website and Blog at http://bigbridge.org/rockpile/ for complete gig dates, musician bios, on the road calendar, and ongoing interactive exchange!

ART

Enigmas

paintings by Jim Spitzer

The Kingdom of Madison:

Photographs from Madison County, North Carolina by Rob Amberg

These Are My Angels

Paintings by Tasha Robbins

Lectura en Transito

Project Created and Directed by Carmen Gloria Berrios

Set based on combination of public art and poetry from Santiago de Chile

Animal Night Photography

by Felicia Murray; notes by Louise Landes Levi

12 Collages

by John Brandi

FICTION

And

REVIEWS

LITTLE MAGS

Plastic Ocean, Green Dragon and Untamed Ink

Still Coming to Big Bridge this Issue:

FEATURES, 3

Big Bridge New Orleans Sturm und Drang Anthology

edited by Dave Brinks and Bill Lavender

Work by 30 artists and 90 writers

Perfiles de la Noche / Profiles of Night

Mujeres poetas de Venezuela/Women Poets of Venezuela

A Selection from the Bi-lingual Anthology

Original complete text selected and translated by Rowena Hill

Co-edited by Pen de Venezuela and bid & co.

Selection for online edition by Terri Carrion

A Tri-lingual Anthology of Galician Writers

Compiled, edited, and translated from Galician to Spanish by F.R. Lavandeira.

Translated from Spanish to English by Terri Carrion.

Continuation of a Retrospective of the Publication Work of Karl Young

http://www.bigbridge.org

↑ Index

33. Halvard Johnson

Fwd: Part 1 of this year's Big Bridge is now online!

Tue 4 Aug 2009

---------- Forwarded message ----------
From: Michael <[redacted]>
Date: Tue, Aug 4, 2009 at 8:48 PM
Subject: Part 1 of this year's Big Bridge is now online!
To: Michael <[redacted]>
Cc: Michael <[redacted]>

Part 1 of this year’s Big Bridge is now online!

* *

http://www.bigbridge.org/

As usual, it includes balanced presentations of arts and genres, aesthetic approaches and socio-political statements, compact anthologies and stand-alone works.

The issue opens with a collection of essays and examples of Slow Poetry, one of the leading contenders for the first major shift in 21st century art. Not a movement, but rather a means of approaching, rethinking, and appreciating virtually all modes and genres. A measure of the importance of this feature is that its URL got passed around before the issue officially went online. It thus officially appears after being mentioned in blogs, and even satirized by another group. In one way or another, we hope our features tend to be similarly ahead of the curve - at times going so far as to generate response before official publication.

We do, however, try to present work that keeps response from distorting our environment, as we try to reclaim poetry from preconception. This issue’s anthology of poetry and fiction from South Africa, for instance, makes no attempt to fill in news stories or confirm simplifications of huge problems and unusual successes, but present a glimpse of the diversity of a complex nation’s poetry and the individuality of its writers.

Standard features such as the continuing group statements in War Papers and another in the series of paintings by Jim Spitzer, judicious essays and terse reviews, short fiction and a suggestive sample of current little magazines published on paper in the digital age continue the scope of the magazine. A simplified table of contents appears below.

This issue differs from its predecessors in several ways. It intersects with the ROCKPILE program of transcontinental readings lead by David Meltzer and Michael Rothenberg and including local participants.

It also appears several months before the omnibus New Orleans anthology, which, in itself, is larger than everything else in the issue. Later this year, we will also add a compact, bi-lingual Anthology of Venezuelan Women poets, another tri-lingual Anthology of Galician writers and a few small contributions. We feel that dividing the issue up this way keeps the New Orleans feature from throwing the issue off balance and giving our readers some breathing room. Opening ROCKPILE at this time also gives us a chance to test the interaction of an annual magazine with an on-going project.

Although we are adamant partisans in some areas, such as opposition to senseless wars in places the U.S. does not understand and where it does not belong, and in celebration of the history and resurrection of one of America's greatest cities, we hope to maintain enough diversity to present some work that will appeal to nearly anyone who looks for progressive poetry on the web, and perhaps promote interchange between people with different ideas and orientations.

At a time when economic crisis brings out the perennial name for boondoggles, we'd like to move as far away from being a bridge to nowhere as we can but rather see how close we can come to being a big bridge that can act as a focal point for the cyberbridges that lead everywhere.

*CHAPBOOK *

A Time in Fragments

Poem by Clark Coolidge; Drawings by Nancy Victoria Davis

FEATURES, 1

Slow Poetry

Edited by Dale Smith

Beauty Came Groveling Forward:

Selected South African Poems and Stories

edited by Gary Cummiskey

All This Strangeness: A Garland for George Oppen

Edited by Eric Hoffman

Sephardic Proverbs

Collected and translated by Michael Castro

* *

Post-Beat Anthology

Reprint from the Chinese anthology, with brief intro

Edited by Vernon Frazer

as per Le Roman de la Rose, for example:

An Anthology of Middle East Genocide

Edited by Arpine Konyalian Grenier

* *

Charles Olson and the Nature of Destructive Humanism

by Craig Stormont

* *

One Man Blues:

Remembering Thomas Chapin

Reminiscense by Vernon Frazer

* *

Excerpt from Autobiography

by David Bromige

The India Journals

by John Brandi

Genius and Heroin:

by Michael Largo

* *

WAR PAPERS (3)

Poems and essays against war.

FEATURES, 2 - ONGOING:

* *

ROCKPILE

ROCKPILE is a collaboration between David Meltzer - poet, musician, essayist,

and more - and Michael Rothenberg, poet, songwriter and editor of Big Bridge Press. In the tradition of the troubadour and with the spirit of collaboration, David and Michael will journey through eight U.S. cities and perform poetry, composed on the road, with local musicians and artists in each city.

ROCKPILE will serve to educate, and preserve and create a history of collaboration and help to introduce as well as reinforce the tradition of the troubadour for all generations.

The project will end with a final multimedia performance in San Francisco.

Check out the ROCKPILE Website and Blog at http://bigbridge.org/rockpile/for complete gig dates, musician bios, on the road calendar, and ongoing interactive exchange!

ART

Enigmas

paintings by Jim Spitzer

* *

The Kingdom of Madison:

Photographs from Madison County, North Carolina by Rob Amberg

* *

These Are My Angels

Paintings by Tasha Robbins

Lectura en Transito

Project Created and Directed by Carmen Gloria Berrios

Set based on combination of public art and poetry from Santiago de Chile

* *

Animal Night Photography

by Felicia Murray; notes by Louise Landes Levi

* *

*12 Collages *

by John Brandi

FICTION

And

REVIEWS

* *

LITTLE MAGS

Plastic Ocean, Green Dragon and Untamed Ink

* *

Still Coming to Big Bridge this Issue:

* *

FEATURES, 3

* *

*Big Bridge New Orleans Sturm und Drang Anthology<http://www.bigbridge.org/BB14/NO1.HTM>
*

edited by Dave Brinks and Bill Lavender

Work by 30 artists and 90 writers

Perfiles de la Noche / Profiles of Night

Mujeres poetas de Venezuela/Women Poets of Venezuela

A Selection from the Bi-lingual Anthology

Original complete text selected and translated by Rowena Hill

Co-edited by Pen de Venezuela and bid & co.

Selection for online edition by Terri Carrion

A Tri-lingual Anthology of Galician Writers

Compiled, edited, and translated from Galician to Spanish by F.R. Lavandeira.

Translated from Spanish to English by Terri Carrion.

Continuation of a Retrospective of the Publication Work of Karl Young

http://www.bigbridge.org<http://www.bigbridge.org>

↑ Index

34. Jeffrey Side
Interview at Pirene's Fountain
Wed 5 Aug 2009

There's an interview with me about magazine editing at Pirene's Fountain:

http://www.pirenesfountain.com/jeffrey-side_interview.html

↑ Index

35. steve dalachinsky
Re: The Guest of Cindy Sherman
Wed 5 Aug 2009

---

it's not pseodo it's for real
he was her boy friend
real love there for awhile
was on tv sundance channel

On Tue, 4 Aug 2009 14:20:08 -0700 Stephen Vincent <[redacted]>
writes:
> I found this flic to be a wonderful doc or psuedo-doc and a hoot. In > many ways a hilarious and/or dark foil all the factions, ambitions, > posturing, good and bad spirited humor that occupies poetry and no > doubt parts of most art worlds. Unlike 99% of the poetry world, the > mortar in the New York art world (for actually probably a very small > percentage of artists) is Cash, big Cash. "The Guest of Cindy > Sherman" is more the world of the 80's & 90's (the big boys of that > time that are now much gone - but, what big, petentious pricks of > the era). (One assumes/knows they have been replaced). Sherman, by > contrast, comes off quite well, a wonderful imaginator & critic of > kith, kitsch and ken - a little shy and sweet under all those masks!
>
>
> In San Francisco it's showing at the Roxie. Anywhere else?
>
> Stephen V
> http://stephenvincent.net/blog/
> Now showing "Requiem" - a new, composite haptic
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

36. David Kirschenbaum
An Advertising Opportunity for Boog's Festival Issue
Wed 5 Aug 2009

Hi all,

In five weeks, we'll be putting on our third annual Welcome to Boog City festival, featuring more than 90 poets, musicians, and playwrights performing at three venues, in two boroughs, over five days, from Wed. Sept. 9- Sun. Sept. 13. Here's the online pdf of the schedule:

http://www.welcometoboogcity.com/wbc3sked.pdf

A week before the event, we'll be putting out the festival issue of Boog City. This issue will feature write-ups on some of the performers and a full schedule, illustrated with images of each of the performers.

Advertising in the festival issue of Boog City means Poetic you will reach more than 3,000 readers, poetry lovers, and small press aficionados throughout the East Village, other targeted areas of lower Manhattan; Williamsburg and Greenpoint, Brooklyn; as well as bonus distribution at Boog City's monthly events. That's an increase of 33.3% over our regular issues for no additional cost. And, since this issue is also a program for the festival, readers will give it a closer read as they check to see who's up later on that day and later on in the festival.

Boog City continues to offer our special Small Press Ad Rates. That means when you advertise with us you will save 50% off of our regular display ad rates, making the adjusted Small Press Ad Rates:

* Full Page $220
* Half-Page $130
* Quarter-Page $70
* Eighth-Page $40

Here is a link to our full rate card:

http://www.welcometoboogcity.com/ad_rates.pdf

Please contact us to advertise and with any questions you may have.

as ever,
David

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W. 28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)

↑ Index

37. Jeffrey Side
My new blog address
Wed 5 Aug 2009

My new blog address is http://jeffrey-side.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

38. Jeffrey Side
Does anyone want to link?
Wed 5 Aug 2009

Does anyone want to link to my new blog?

↑ Index

39. Jeffrey Side
Linda Thompson Appeal
Wed 5 Aug 2009

I have just heard that Linda Thompson, singer-songwriter and former singing partner to Richard Thompson, is having some difficulty funding her next album due to various changes in the music industry, which some of us regret. She has set up an appeal for funding at a site called The Hector Fund (a site which is something of an innovation in these matters). Her page on the site can be found here:

http://www.thehectorfund.com/about/linda-thompson/

Linda says:

“I’d like your help. I’m trying to raise money so I can record the music, and be able to pay the excellent musicians, engineers and studios a fair wage and release the album to the public. So I am asking for financing - not charity (please save that for a more worthy cause) - but a business transaction. You, the audience, put up some money and I return the favor by sending you the music and much, much more!

I’m trying to raise $50,000 to cover ALL of the costs associated with independently producing, manufacturing and marketing an album in today’s marketplace.

When I started playing music in the sixties and seventies, we shared everything– perhaps some things we shouldn’t have. I’d like to return to a little bit of that spirit now. You the audience can share in the experience of making my record with me and be the first to hear it when its done - and I get to stick it to “the man” (whoever passes for the ‘man’ these days) by working outside of the system.”

Having been a fan of Linda and Richard for many years, I think it is a disgrace that someone who has contributed so much musically over the years has to be put in a position whereby she has to resort to financial help from fans and public alike. It just goes to show the appalling state of the music business, which even in the folk/country genre is only thinking of the bottom dollar.

So I hope some of you will help Linda, and, as she says, don't think of it as charity but more as sponsorship.

↑ Index

40. Tribbey, Hugh R.

CFP: Experimental Writing and Aesthetics

Wed 5 Aug 2009

Call for Papers: Experimental Writing and Aesthetics

Abstract/Proposals by 15 December 2009 (Priority Registration Deadline 11/1/09)

Southwest/Texas Popular & American Culture Associations' 30th Annual Conference

Albuquerque, NM, February 10-13, 2010

Conference Hotel:

Hyatt Regency Albuquerque

330 Tijeras

Albuquerque, NM 87102

[redacted]

Panels are now forming on topics related to Experimental Writing and Aesthetics in such areas as

! the aesthetics of experimental writing in any genre or in multi-genre/multi-media works including digital and graphic compositions involving language,

! the poetics of performance of experimental compositions,

! critical studies of experimental writers and/or movements such as Foulipo or conceptual writing,

! fictocritical treatments or extended manifestoes, etc.

Creative writers interested in the selective creative writing readings panels should contact Jerry Bradley, Creative Writing Readings Chair, via < http://swtxpca.org/ >. (Creative writing is just as welcome as critical work.)

Conference organizers will try to schedule similar sessions together, so tell Dr. Bradley you are an experimental writer to make it easier to attend each other's sessions.

Scholars, teachers, professionals, writers not affiliated with academic institutions, undergraduates as well as graduate students, and others interested in experimental writing are encouraged to participate. Graduate students are also particularly welcome with award opportunities for best graduate papers. Individual presentations should be 15-20 minutes in length.

You may organize your own panel, but please recognize the scheduling flexibility of the conference is limited.

Send abstracts, papers, or proposals for panels electronically with your email address by 15 December 2009 with "SW/TX PCA Submission" typed in the subject line to:

Hugh Tribbey, Area Chair

Literature, Experimental Writing and Aesthetics

Email: [redacted] <mailto:[redacted]>

Mailing Address:

Dr. Hugh Tribbey

Department of English and Languages

East Central University

1100 E. 14th St.

Ada, OK 74820

Phone: [redacted]; Fax: [redacted]

Conference Website: < http://swtxpca.org/ > (updated regularly)

Hugh Tribbey PhD

Assistant Professor

English & Languages

East Central University

1100 E. 14th St.

Ada OK 74820

[redacted]

[redacted]

↑ Index

41. Stephen Vincent
Re: The Guest of Cindy Sherman
Wed 5 Aug 2009

Sorry, Steve or anyone, if I implied the love between Henry H. and Sherman was not for real. They were clearly smitten with one another - which makes it so fine in that Sherman's photo character creations often look so cool and detached it's hard to imagine them being smitten ever at all. "Psuedo-doc" was in relationship to whether or not all the scenes in the movie were real or not.

Stephen V
http://stephenvincent.net/blog/
--- On Wed, 8/5/09, steve dalachinsky <[redacted]> wrote:

From: steve dalachinsky <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: The Guest of Cindy Sherman
To: [redacted]
Date: Wednesday, August 5, 2009, 4:08 AM

it's not pseodo it's for real
he was her boy friend
real love there for awhile
was on tv sundance channel

On Tue, 4 Aug 2009 14:20:08 -0700 Stephen Vincent <[redacted]>
writes:
> I found this flic to be a wonderful doc or psuedo-doc and a hoot. In > many ways a hilarious and/or dark foil all the factions, ambitions, > posturing, good and bad spirited humor that occupies poetry and no > doubt parts of most art worlds. Unlike 99% of the poetry world, the > mortar in the New York art world (for actually probably a very small > percentage of artists) is Cash, big Cash. "The Guest of Cindy > Sherman" is more the world of the 80's & 90's (the big boys of that > time that are now much gone - but, what big, petentious pricks of > the era). (One assumes/knows they have been replaced). Sherman, by > contrast, comes off quite well, a wonderful imaginator & critic of > kith, kitsch and ken - a little shy and sweet under all those masks!
>
>
> In San Francisco it's showing at the Roxie. Anywhere else?
>
> Stephen V
> http://stephenvincent.net/blog/
> Now showing "Requiem" - a new, composite haptic
>

>
>
>

↑ Index

42. steve dalachinsky

Re: The Guest of Cindy Sherman

Thu 6 Aug 2009

---

no need to apologize seems they were all real he did have that cable tv show etc

On Wed, 5 Aug 2009 14:43:41 -0700 Stephen Vincent <[redacted]>
writes:
> Sorry, Steve or anyone, if I implied the love between Henry H. and > Sherman was not for real. They were clearly smitten with one another > - which makes it so fine in that Sherman's photo character creations > often look so cool and detached it's hard to imagine them being > smitten ever at all. "Psuedo-doc" was in relationship to whether or > not all the scenes in the movie were real or not.
>
> Stephen V
> http://stephenvincent.net/blog/
> --- On Wed, 8/5/09, steve dalachinsky <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: steve dalachinsky <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: The Guest of Cindy Sherman
> To: [redacted]
> Date: Wednesday, August 5, 2009, 4:08 AM
>
> it's not pseodo it's for real
> he was her boy friend
> real love there for awhile
> was on tv sundance channel
>
> On Tue, 4 Aug 2009 14:20:08 -0700 Stephen Vincent > <[redacted]>
> writes:
> > I found this flic to be a wonderful doc or psuedo-doc and a hoot.
> In
> > many ways a hilarious and/or dark foil all the factions, > ambitions,
> > posturing, good and bad spirited humor that occupies poetry and no > > doubt parts of most art worlds. Unlike 99% of the poetry world,
>

> the > > mortar in the New York art world (for actually probably a very > small > > percentage of artists) is Cash, big Cash. "The Guest of Cindy > > Sherman" is more the world of the 80's & 90's (the big boys of
> that > > time that are now much gone - but, what big, petentious pricks of
>
> > the era). (One assumes/knows they have been replaced). Sherman,
> by > > contrast, comes off quite well, a wonderful imaginator & critic of
>
> > kith, kitsch and ken - a little shy and sweet under all those > masks!
> >
> >
> > In San Francisco it's showing at the Roxie. Anywhere else?
> >
> > Stephen V
> > http://stephenvincent.net/blog/
> > Now showing "Requiem" - a new, composite haptic
> >
> >
> >
> >
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

43. Lazer, Hank
Recession Special - MCP Series books
Thu 6 Aug 2009

Dear Colleague,

The University of Alabama Press is proud to offer a

RECESSION SPECIAL

on many of the titles found in its Modern and Contemporary Poetics Series.

Purchase any of the following books at 50% off the regular retail price. (See below for pricing in USD and ISBNs required for ordering.)

To purchase a copy of any of these titles at the HALF PRICE discount offer, good through August 30, 2009, just call our warehouse in Chicago toll-free at [redacted] or locally at [redacted] and mention sales code MCPRS-01.

As always, we invite you to forward this e-mail to any of your colleagues who you think might be interested, or suggest names and addresses to which we should send future mailings. If you have any questions, please contact me directly at [redacted]<mailto:[redacted]> or [redacted].

For more information on these and other titles in the Modern and Contemporary Poetics Series, visit our website at http://uapress.ua.edu/series.cfm?id=MCP.

Rebecca Todd Minder
Electronic Marketing, Advertising, and Exhibits Manager
The University of Alabama Press
Box 870380, Tuscaloosa, AL 35487-0380
[redacted]<mailto:[redacted]>
[redacted] * [redacted] fax

Led by Language by Rachel Back (paper, ISBN 0-8173-1132-7): $27.50 $13.75

Simulcast by Benjamin Friedlander (paper, ISBN 0-8173-5028-4): $29.95 $14.98

Another South by Bill Lavender (paper, ISBN 0-8173-1241-2): $28.95 $14.48

The Point Is To Change It by Jerome McGann (paper, ISBN 0-8173-5408-5): $32.95 $16.48

Syncopations by Jed Rasula (paper, ISBN 0-8173-5030-6): $29.95 $14.98

Hart Crane by Brian M. Reed (paper, ISBN 0-8173- 5270-8): $35.00 $17.50

A Poetics of Impasse by Susan M. Schultz (paper, ISBN 0-8173-5198-1): $36.00 $18.00

Louis Zukofsky by Mark Scroggins (paper, ISBN 0-8173-0957-8): $27.50 $13.75

What Is a Poet? by Hank Lazer (paper, ISBN 0-8173-0326-X): $29.75 $14.88

All prices are in U.S. Dollars / Canada residents add 7% GST / International shipping: $8.50 per book Domestic shipping: $5.00 for the first book and $1.00 for each additional book Offer expires August 30, 2009
Sales Code: MCPRS01

↑ Index

44. Small Press Traffic
INTERNS NEEDED
Thu 6 Aug 2009

Thank you for forwarding this message along to your students and interested folks!

INTERN POSITIONS AVAILABLE at SMALL PRESS TRAFFIC

At Small Press Traffic, we believe a culturally diverse avant-garde is key to a relevant American Literature. Small Press Traffic Literary Arts Center promotes and supports writers from all over the globe-- particularly those who push the limits of how we speak and think about the world. Since 1974 SPT has been at the heart of the San Francisco Bay Area innovative writing scenes, bringing together independent readers, writers and presses through publications, conferences, talks, and our influential reading series. For more information, please check us out on the web at www.sptraffic.org

Interns will have the opportunity to meet nationally known writers, learn about how non-profit literary arts agencies work, and assist in the Friday/Saturday Night reading series and Saturday workshop/talks. Other benefits include exposure to a wide-range of writers and their work. (And free refreshments at the readings!)

We are looking for people who are flexible, reliable, and willing to take on all kinds of tasks, such as selling tickets at the door for readings, soliciting and collecting donations from local businesses, and visiting classrooms and helping to publicize SPT events. Please have interested students contact us at: [redacted]. Thanks!

--
Samantha Giles
Executive Director
Small Press Traffic Literary Arts Center
sptraffic.org
smallpresstraffic.blogspot.com

↑ Index

45. judith goldman
Critical works on homophonic translation?
Thu 6 Aug 2009

Hello all,
I'm looking for critical works on homophonic translation--also, trying to build a list of homophonic translations.

Many thanks for any information you can offer!

Judith Goldman

↑ Index

46. Lars Palm
Susan Maurer from ungovernable press
Thu 6 Aug 2009

Dear All,

after a brief break ungovernable press returns with a sweet new book

Perfect Dark by Susan Maurer

as always freely downloadable for your perusal

cheers,
lars

http://ungovernablepress.weebly.com

http://mischievoice.blogspot.com

↑ Index

47. Christophe Casamassima
Site Citation: Daily Psychoacoustic Quotations
Thu 6 Aug 2009

Hi, everyone,

I've begun a new recordings project. Each day I scout for unique sound environments and sample from one to 10 minutes of "quotation." I began this project on Monday. I posted my 4th recording just a few minutes ago. There is no commentary or context, just headings, which you must click on to listen. A little box.net window will open up, so please have your pop-up blockers disabled.

Please visit

sitecitations.blogspot.com

and become a follower. And please leave comments. And check daily in the late evening for new updates.

Thanks,

Christophe Casamassima

--
Powered By Outblaze

↑ Index

48. Peter
Requiem Haptics
Fri 7 Aug 2009

Requiem Haptics are stunning Stephen, as are the other recent entries. http://stephenvincent.net/blog/ Your blog continues to delight, your eye for the culture is superb. What a great way to spend an hour.

Best,
Peter

On Tue, Aug 4, 2009 at 5:20 PM, Stephen Vincent<[redacted]> wrote:

--
http://invisiblenotes.blogspot.com/
http://uncommonvision.blogspot.com/
http://poemsfromprovidence.blogspot.com/
http://uncommon-vision.blogspot.com/
You can find my art and writing updates on Twitter
https://twitter.com/ciccariello

↑ Index

49. CA Conrad
event to SAVE Giovanni's Room Bookstore
Fri 7 Aug 2009

---

event to SAVE Giovanni's Room Bookstore
the world's largest, and oldest LGBT and feminist bookstore event page with performers' links: http://CAConradEVENTS.blogspot.com

This will be a hat-passing benefit with performances by
The Absinthe Drinkers, Ish Klein, CAConrad, Leda and the Swans, Medusa Sings the Blues, as well as Heather Henderson

THIS IS SPONSORED BY The Monday Night Club
AD Amarosi and Needles Jones host

MONDAY, AUGUST 10TH starts at 9pm

at National Mechanics
22 S. 3rd St.
(that's 3rd between Market and Chestnut)
PHILADELPHIA

IF YOU CAN'T MAKE THE SHOW THEN PLEASE VISIT THE STORE AND SHOP! OR CALL THEM, OR EMAIL THEM TO PLACE AN ORDER! IF THEY DON'T HAVE THE BOOK YOU'RE LOOKING FOR THEY CAN ORDER IT, NO MATTER WHAT IT IS! Visit the store here: http://www.giovannisroom.com

THANK YOU FOR SUPPORTING GIOVANNI'S ROOM BOOKSTORE!

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

50. CA Conrad
what webcam is 4 U ?
Fri 7 Aug 2009

If you HAD TO spend a full day watching a webcam on your computer, what would it be? Maybe you don't want to, but suppose you HAD TO, you're life depended on it.

Just for one day though.

My favorite, absolute favorite, without a doubt my favorite so far in this lifetime is the one at Elvis' home in Memphis (it's so nice seeing His grass and birds): http://elvis-aron-presley.nl/graceland_incl_webcam.html

An Elvis fan I met at Graceland some years ago recently told me that the Graceland webcam is out of date, and that there are webcams which update more than every 60 seconds. Is that true? Well, I don't know for sure, but this one's pretty great anyway. I don't care that everything I'm seeing actually happened 60 seconds ago. Maybe EVERYTHING we do happens on a 60 second delay anyway and we have no idea! It could be true! The last time I was at Graceland I did a special dance with a crazy Beale Street drag queen at the gates to Graceland for all the viewers at home. When I win the lottery my one BIG luxury is going to be a big screen showing THIS webcam 24 hours a day, which will be nice while eating morning oatmeal.

But what's your favorite webcam? Am I the only one with a favorite webcam? There's another one I like that an old friend sent me of corn growing in Iowa. That was rather nice seeing Monsanto's finest!

CAConrad
Advanced ELVIS Course: http://advancedELVIS.blogspot.com

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

51. Jeffrey Side
Can There Ever Be Another High Modernism?
Fri 7 Aug 2009

New blog post:

http://jeffrey-side.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

52. Susan Webster Schultz recent posts on Tinfish Editor's Blog
Fri 7 Aug 2009

Recent posts on:

--homophobia, football and poetry
--tourism & poetry
--guerrilla action at AWP 1 & 2
--the seductions of can't ("I can't write poetry")
--travels to the west coast

Please pay a visit at http://tinfisheditor.blogspot.com

aloha, Susan

↑ Index

53. { brad brace } updates: red dwgs - radio station - $2 clunker
Sat 8 Aug 2009

---

the red dwgs retail for $1500 (very few exchanges), are getting vibrantly old and brittle (they began with 50 yr old paper), and ideally should be float-framed to show their irregular edges and emphasize their compressed, palimpsest nature; they're delivered under archival wrap

[http://www.bbrace.net/reddwgs08/index.html]
[300 scanned red drawings: the book
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/300-scanned-red-drawings/7475997]

my bbs radio station suffered a fatal hard disk crash yesterday (after several continuous years), but it's back online now -- I was prepared with an even larger new replacement disk

--- bbs: brad brace sound
--- http://69.64.229.114:8000
--- http://bbrace.laughingsquid.net/undisclosed.html

Bolt&Lesdema <[redacted]> was the first to claim the $2 clunker piece (although it remains to be seen if a US$2 will arrive from the UK); the runner-up is "."
<[redacted]>

> ok, my 20 yr old (faded red subaru justy) car will probably > not last much longer, but here's the deal: a recent recycled > cans receipt (worth 50c but only redeemable at the store > indicated) and all the special stones that I've collected, > that have been rattling back and forth on my dashboard for > these many years, for only $2 (must be a US two-dollar bill > mailed to me in portland oregon) -- first reply gets all > this mailed in an old metal rusty mint tin, to any address!

/:b

↑ Index

54. joey

August update at www.newmystics.com

Sun 9 Aug 2009

The August update at www.newmystics.com features:

*First-time contributors DAN RAPHAEL and TIM GAZE

*Book 5 of ED BAKER’s Neighbors

*More poems from JEAN-MARIE AVRIL’s Tales of Anarchy

*Two new pieces from VERNON FRAZER

*A new poem from TONYA MADIA

*A one-chapter excerpt from a novel in progress by CHUCK REGAN

and

*Ten new photographs by CLAIRE SMITH

We are also proud to unveil a new feature called EMERGING WRITERS, featuring our first contributor, 14-year-old writer, actor, dancer, and musician JEREMY MADIA.

NEWS AND NOTES

*It with great excitement that we announce that we will now be known as New Mystics Arts, Inc. Our name change signifies an expansion of both our offerings to communities in both New Jersey and West Virginia as well as a larger regional, national, and international presence through the website and our writing and producing projects.

In the coming months we will be providing more details on our planned arts center, new projects in radio, film, and theatre, and new ways that contributors, collaborators, and supporters can become involved.

*We are pleased to formally announce that Knight Berman, Jr. has been named Resident Composer at New Mystics Arts.

*Our Founding Editor, Joey Madia, has several writing projects debuting in 2009–2010, including three new plays in the Mid-Atlantic and Northeastern states and a short story in the forthcoming Inkermen Press anthology Loss. In addition, his book reviews at newmysticsreviews.blogspot.com continue to introduce new readers to important authors in the small and independent presses as well as bringing new contributors and readers to New Mystics.

As always, submissions in literature, music, film, and visual arts are accepted on a rolling basis. Please visit the “Submissions” section for details.

↑ Index

55. David Baratier

final call, Transcontinental Poetry Contest, Sat 8/15

Sun 9 Aug 2009

All c
The Annual Transcontinental Poetry Award by Pavement Saw Press

All contributors receive books, chapbooks and journals equal to, or more than, the entry fee. Please mention this to your friends and all others who might be interested!

Electronic and mailed entries must meet these requirements: 1. The manuscript should be at least 48 pages of poetry and no more than 70 pages of poetry in length. Separations between sections are NOT a part of the page count. 2. A one page cover letter. Include a brief biography, the book's title, your name, address, and telephone number, and, if you have e-mail, your e-mail address. This should be followed by a page which lists publication acknowledgments for the book. For each acknowledgement mention the publisher (journal, anthology, chapbook etc.) and the poem published. 3. The manuscript should be bound with a single clip and begin with a title page including the book's title, your name, address, and telephone number, and, if you have e-mail, your e-mail address. 4. The second page should have only the title of the manuscript. There are to be no acknowledgments or mention of the author's name from this page forward. Submissions to the contest are blind judged. 5. There should be no more than one poem on each page. The manuscript can contain pieces longer than one page. 6. The manuscript should be paginated, beginning with the first page of poetry.

Each year Pavement Saw Press will publish at least one book of poetry and/or prose poems from manuscripts received during this competition. Selections are chosen through a blind judging process. The competition is open to anyone who has not previously published a volume of poetry or prose. The author receives $1000 and five percent of the 1000 copy press run. Previous judges have included Judith Vollmer, David Bromige, Bin Ramke and Howard McCord. This year David Baratier will be the judge; past students, Pavement Saw Press interns and employees are not allowed to submit. All poems must be original, all prose must be original, fiction or translations are not acceptable. Writers who have had volumes of poetry and/or prose under 40 pages printed or printed in limited editions of no more than 500 copies are eligible. Submissions are accepted during the months of June, July, and until August 15th. All submissions must have an August 15th, 2009, or earlier, postmark. This is an award for first books only.

If you wish to send via regular mail your manuscript should be accompanied by a check in the amount of $20.00 made payable to Pavement Saw Press. All US contributors to the contest will receive books, chapbooks and journals equal to, or more than, the entry fee. Add $3 (US) for other countries to cover the extra postal charge. Do not include an SASE for notification of results, this information will be sent with the free book. Do not send the only copy of your work. All manuscripts are recycled and individual comments on the manuscripts cannot be made.

If you wish to submit electronically, you should send $27.00 via paypal to [redacted]. We will then send you an e-mail confirmation as well as where to e-mail the manuscript. Electronic submissions need to be sent as PDF files or as word (.doc, .docx) files. Other formats are not accepted. The extra cost is to cover the paypal fees as well as the time, labor, ink, and so on, to print out your manuscript. In addition to the prize winner, sometimes another anonymous manuscript is chosen, if enough entries arrive. This â€œeditors choiceâ€ manuscript will be published under a standard royalty contract. A decision will be reached in November. Entries should be sent to:

Pavement Saw Press
Transcontinental Award Entry

321 Empire Street
Montpelier, OH 43543

All submissions must have an August 15th, or earlier, postmark or paypal payment. Submissions are accepted during the months of June, July, and August only. If you have questions, please ask us: [redacted]

Be well

David Baratier, Editor

Pavement Saw Press
321 Empire Street
Montpelier OH 43543
http://pavementsaw.org

Subscribe to our e-mail listserv at http://pavementsaw.org/list/?p=subscribe&id=1

↑ Index

56. Alan Sondheim

Questions about work and representation - (for upcoming SVA class) - just beginning here -

Sun 9 Aug 2009

Questions about work and representation - (for upcoming SVA class)

1. What is the scientific definition of work? Does it apply to human work?
2. What is the definition of labor?
3. Is all labor work? Is all work labor?
4. What is materialism? (What is idealism?)
5. When we think about representations of labor - what do we mean by "representation"? By "labor"?
6. Does labor traditionally refer to employment by others?
7. Is making art work? Writing a novel? What does "art_work" mean? What is a cultural worker? What forms of contract/payment are applicable to art-making? Are artists self-employed?
8. What are "cottage industries"? Handicrafts? What kinds of work are involved here?
9. Traditional Western representations of labor have focused on class: true or false?
10. What is class? What does class struggle mean? What does class consciousness mean? Do classes struggle? What is endocolonization?
11. What were the classes in feudal society? In Assyria? In biblical cultures? What is the working class? Proletariat? Lumpen-proletariat? Bourgeoisie? Petit-bourgeoisie? What are the stages of production? What is primitive accumulation?
12. What is the paradigm of class? Class struggle?

13. Does class, class struggle, class consciousness, still hold today?
14. Is America a class society, a classless society, or something else altogether?
15. What other forms of labor and labor organizations might exist outside of class?
16. How is class modeled within the network society? What sorts of labor occur within networked society?
17. How is physical labor compartmentalized in networked society?
18. What does alienation mean to you?
19. What is alienated labor? Is all labor alienated?
20. Consider the parabolic trajectory of the handaxe. (to be explained)
21. Consider immersive/definable hierarchies. (to be explained)
22. What is bricolage labor?
23. What is labor in the postmodern city (case in point: Ciudad Juarez)?
24. Resistance: What are local and general strikes? What is history? Does history make us or do we make history?
25. What is active and passive resistance?
26. The role of PLAY in work - is there any?
27. What is play in the work of art?
28. What is play beneath or within the sign of capital?
29. What are base and superstructure?
30. Does play lie within one or the other or both?
31. What is the distinction between use and exchange value? Does it hold today?
32. What is surplus value? How does surplus value operate?
33. How is value calculated in a virtual economy? A physical economy?
34. Are all economies virtual?
35. (Definitions) What is the "dictatorship of the proletariat"?
36. Can communism work? What is communism?
37. What is fetishism? What is fetishization in capitalism?
38. What is consumption?
39. What is conspicuous consumption and does this term apply today?
40. What is reification and how does it operate in contemporary society?
41. What are Fordism and post-Fordism?
42. Can we speak of a post-modern society today? What does that mean, and what does post-modernism mean?
43. What would a post-modern geography be? A postmodern labor-force?
44. See Thomas L. Friedman, The World is Flat. How does a flat world operate? What sorts of traditional capitalism emerge here? What sorts of labor struggles are possible in a flat world?
45. What are the _constraints_ of the world? The Club of Rome Report, The Limits to Growth?

46. What does it mean to be a "citizen" of a planet with limited resources?
47. And increasing poverty, pollution, gangsterisms, unemployment, terrorisms, fundamentalism, totalitarianisms?
48. How does a networked society play into this?
49. WHAT IS A NETWORK?
50. WHAT IS TO BE DONE?

↑ Index

57. David-Baptiste Chirot

D-B Chirot: 2 Essays on Atomic Blasts & Poetry, Baseball, Radios &Physics, A New Visual Poetry Book, Essay re Visual Poetry & Logos/Logo(s)s

Mon 10 Aug 2009

D-B Chirot:: IF 6 WAS 9 : Hiroshima & Nagasaki 6 & 9 August 1945- Physics, Poetry and 9 who survived both blasts (Accounts by 9 Men who survived both bombings, Leonardo Sciascia, Ettore Majoranna, Werner Heisenberg, Charles Olson, Call Me Ishmael)

http://davidbaptistechirot.blogspot.com/2009/08/if-6-was-9-hiroshima-nagasaki-6-9.html

D-B Chirot: Before “Curveball”: The “After” Effects in Poetry of Baseball, Espionage & the Fire & A-Bombings of Japan
(Moe Berg, Jack Spicer & Yasusada)
http://davidbaptistechirot.blogspot.com/2009/08/before-curveball-after-effects-in.html

D-B Chirot: Logos & Logo(s) in Visual Poetry: An Essay re Labels & Rebrandings (Philadelpho Menezes, Chirot and a few Spidertangle members
http://davidbaptistechirot.blogspot.com/2009/08/d-b-chirot-logos-logos-in-visual-poetry.html

D-B Chirot: CINEMA OF DISAPPEARANCE--New Visual Poetry Book---Editions de l'heure 2009
http://davidbaptistechirot.blogspot.com/2009/08/d-b-chirot-cinema-of-disappearance.html

---

Windows Live™: Keep your life in sync.
http://windowslive.com/explore?ocid=PID23384::T:WLMTAGL:ON:WL:en-US:NF_BR_sync:082009

↑ Index

58. mIEKAL aND
indiebound.org
Mon 10 Aug 2009

(great resource for locating local independent bookstores)

Why shop Indie?

http://www.indiebound.org/

When you shop at an independently owned business, your entire community benefits:

The Economy

* Spend $100 at a local and $68 of that stays in your community. Spend the same $100 at a national chain, and your community only sees $43. * Local businesses create higher-paying jobs for our neighbors. * More of your taxes are reinvested in your community--where they belong.

The Environment

* Buying local means less packaging, less transportation, and a smaller carbon footprint. * Shopping in a local business district means less infrastructure, less maintenance, and more money to beautify your community.

The Community

* Local retailers are your friends and neighbors—support them and they'll support you. * Local businesses donate to charities at more than twice the rate of national chains. * More independents means more choice, more diversity, and a truly unique community.

↑ Index

59. Crane's Bill Books
Re: what webcam is 4 U ?
Mon 10 Aug 2009

CA,
No contest: http://www.tappedintoelephants.com/asp/index.php .
J. A. Lee

----- Original Message -----
From: "CA Conrad" <[redacted]>
To: <[redacted]>
Sent: Friday, August 07, 2009 11:35 AM
Subject: what webcam is 4 U ?

> If you HAD TO spend a full day watching a webcam on your computer, what would it be? Maybe you don't want to, but suppose you HAD TO, you're life depended on it.
>
> Just for one day though.
>
> My favorite, absolute favorite, without a doubt my favorite so far in this lifetime is the one at Elvis' home in Memphis (it's so nice seeing His grass and birds): http://elvis-aron-presley.nl/graceland_incl_webcam.html
>
> An Elvis fan I met at Graceland some years ago recently told me that the Graceland webcam is out of date, and that there are webcams which update more than every 60 seconds. Is that true? Well, I don't know for sure, but this one's pretty great anyway. I don't care that everything I'm seeing actually happened 60 seconds ago. Maybe EVERYTHING we do happens on a 60 second delay anyway and we have no idea! It could be true! The last time I was at Graceland I did a special dance with a crazy Beale Street drag queen at the gates to Graceland for all the viewers at home. When I win the lottery my one BIG luxury is going to be a big screen showing THIS webcam 24 hours a day, which will be nice while eating morning oatmeal.
>
> But what's your favorite webcam? Am I the only one with a favorite webcam? There's another one I like that an old friend sent me of corn growing in Iowa. That was rather nice seeing Monsanto's finest!
>
> CAConrad
> Advanced ELVIS Course: http://advancedELVIS.blogspot.com
>
> --
> PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com
>
> THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

60. richard owens

Re: Critical works on homophonic translation?

Mon 10 Aug 2009

---

maybe not of relevance or interest, but the brief intro to Steve McCaffery's homolinguistic translation of Stein's Buttons (Every Way Oakley) may be of use:

http://www.bookthug.ca/archives.php

.....richard owens
810 richmond ave
buffalo NY 14222-1167

damn the caesars, the journal
damn the caesars, the blog

--- On Thu, 8/6/09, judith goldman <[redacted]> wrote:

From: judith goldman <[redacted]>
Subject: Critical works on homophonic translation?
To: [redacted]
Date: Thursday, August 6, 2009, 2:59 PM

Hello all,
I'm looking for critical works on homophonic translation--also, trying to build a list of homophonic translations.

Many thanks for any information you can offer!

Judith Goldman

↑ Index

61. CA Conrad
Re: what webcam is 4 U ?
Mon 10 Aug 2009

HEY, J.A.Lee, that's FANTASTIC!
Thanks for sharing that one!
CAConrad

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

62. CA Conrad
you in your soup
Mon 10 Aug 2009

---

is the latest (Soma)tic Poetry up and awaiting our most sensual forms of self actualization see it here: http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

63. David Chirot

Fwd: Critical works on homophonic translation?

Mon 10 Aug 2009

---

this is not "exactly" homophonic translation (of which i'm guilty of myself) but perhaps more "radical" in the works and conceptions--or at least a lot of fun--("It's fun to have fun if you only know how," as the Cat in the Head says--)

(both the below examples i cite have a wealth of critical materials involved with them the best way is to use the various--more than one--search engines at your disposal--)--

So- one finds then- "translation" at the core of a lot of the humor writing in 19th Century America, especially since the "American language of the time, despite the first Webster's Dictionaries, " had not yet settled down and become "fixed" in its spellings, grammar, usages, meanings,(it still hasn't to some degree--) --in other words, it hadn't yet "grown up " and started making rules which grammarians and others liked to break, and so essay "writing badly"--instead of merely mediocerly--

The American tongue of the time was still in wildly wandering flux and wildernesses of its own, so that often commentaries and maps and ideas or phrases get translated into something completely "wrong" but to the persons participating seems "perfectly clear," seems "all correct."---and is so well liked it is taken in and "made to home" and handed a big cool jug of dandelion wine--and "starts to take root in the hearts of the people" and next thing you know has become a truly recognizably American word--

"all correct" for example was turned into "ok" by President Jackson; It is said that in signing documents that met with his approval, the hard fightin, hard drinkin. rough edged Democratic general of a President would sign in large letters --underlined with a flourish to be sure!--the letters/word "OK"--which to his mind was the abbreviation of "all correct"-which he knew as -"Ol Kur-ect"

Artemus Ward was the past master of this form of translation humor--the translation usually involving the vast differences, , as with President Jackson, between the spoken and the written word in terms of shape pronunciation meaning and sounds-

In one of Ward's stories for ex, two boys are discussing with a third something really amazing that they have read about,in a big grimy book with a title like "This Savage Whirled" --the discovery being no less than an immense snake of the amazon itself a river twisting like a snake and so immense- and exotic--and this exotic snake -a creature of the jungles more vast than any in America as far as they know-- is called by the local inhabitants or at least the supposedly lost scientist adventurer--is called by the mysterious name of a "Boy Constructor"

The third member of the party is puzzling over how snake could be at the same time a boy who is constructing something--a raft no doubt-- to escape from the snake but----confused he asks to see the actual book with the magical name for the exotic immense snake-- and he reads out loud the words: "*boa constricto*r" of course the adherents of the boy constructor translation are laughing at the down right ridiculousness of such a name for such a grand snake as "boa constrictor"-- while the third boy is hopping mad and in rare Rumpelstiltskin form--pogoing like a deranged punk rocker on the Savage Whirled book and tearing it and pounding it to pieces-- another form of translation is also based on things popular in the 19th century in America, being the democratization of what had been primarily a language game of the elites in Russia and France--

this is the rebus madness that swept the country and was later seized upon by a French Lettriste painter/poet named Gabriel ("l"Ange Gabriel") Pomerand as the method for making of his underground ultra classic and until recently very hard to find book called in English "Saint Ghetto of the Loans."

On the left hand side of the book is are the pages with the poet's Prose Poetry about the beloved area of Saint-Germain des Pres where he often performed Sound and Lettriste Poetry in the chichest of chic cafes for the likes of de Beauvoir and Sartre, Boris Vian, Cocteau and al the rest of St Germain' s In Crowd--

On the facing, right hand side of the book are the extremely complex and beautiful rebuses for each at times letter, syllable, word or tiny contraction of two words-that appear in the Prose Poem .--

The rebus then functions directly as for the most part homophonic translations of the lexical prose poetry into the visual-- (in some ways this process reminds me a bit of playing charades--"Sounds Like" (tugging the ear and then making faces and gestures people think mean something like-- . "i'm deaf and i can't speak either" or there is a white elephant in the room"---etc etc

I know these are not directly the recognized standard "homophonic translations" which are very common and usually very easy ones to do -- you can even find them in those games and puzzles books for kids and if you are really lucky maybe someday inside a Crackerjack box!

i know homophonic translations are often used as a writing exercise in various writing workshops etc--or so i am told and have seen online these things listed-- so i wd think just search of the words "homphonic translations would lead to some excellent and surprising sources!

meanwhile i shall return to my Artemus ward fragments and making rebuses for the spirit that tires of words and craves images--

all very best for your search but a goggle one shd unearth tons of things--

---------- Forwarded message ----------
From: richard owens <[redacted]>
Date: Mon, Aug 10, 2009 at 9:40 AM
Subject: Re: Critical works on homophonic translation?
To: [redacted]

maybe not of relevance or interest, but the brief intro to Steve McCaffery's homolinguistic translation of Stein's Buttons (Every Way Oakley) may be of use:

http://www.bookthug.ca/archives.php

.....richard owens
810 richmond ave
buffalo NY 14222-1167

damn the caesars, the journal
damn the caesars, the blog

--- On Thu, 8/6/09, judith goldman <[redacted]> wrote:

From: judith goldman <[redacted]>
Subject: Critical works on homophonic translation?
To: [redacted]
Date: Thursday, August 6, 2009, 2:59 PM

Hello all,
I'm looking for critical works on homophonic translation--also, trying to build a list of homophonic translations.

Many thanks for any information you can offer!

Judith Goldman

↑ Index

64. Zamsky, Robert
Ecopoetics Question
Mon 10 Aug 2009

Hi, Jonathan.

Thanks for the tip on the bookstore in Paris. Unfortunately, I didn't get there -- we were out in the sticks for a wedding in my wife's family (in the northeast). I'll keep it in mind for next year's trip, though.

I have another question for you. I am participating in our Environmental Studies program's Intro to ES course this year, a course that is required of all students new to the program. It is co-taught by faculty from the program, with the goal of introducing students to various approaches to ES from the different disciplines. So, faculty from History, Psychology, Environmental Science, Political Science, and so on, each teach a two week block. I will be doing the "humanities" section, and I basically expect to ground the discussion in the ideas and practices of ecopoetics. You, of course, are far more expert in that than I am, and I was wondering if you had any thoughts/suggestions about how to approach such an opportunity. The students are mostly first or second years who likely have little experience with poetry/lit (the program tends to draw scientists and poli-sci types); I get them for four course meetings of 80minutes/each.

Any ideas you might have would be MUCH appreciated.

All best,

Robert

↑ Index

65. Alan Sondheim
Music from Fire Museum (Mon Music of Burma, Sondheim cds, other info)
Mon 10 Aug 2009

Mon Music of Burma and Sondheim cds -

Fire Museum is a small label and needs your support! I've listed my favorite cd of theirs - Mon Music of Burma - which is wonderfully complex - the kyam solo on track six is incredible. I've also listed my own releases, all of which I like, and all of which have been reviewed here and there online. Please consider ordering any of these, and supporting Fire Museum and its releases, many of which I find amazing. The Fire Museum site, with other listings, is at http://www.museumfire.com/ . And please pass this on to anyone you think might be interested.

Thanks, Alan, info -

Music from Fire Museum Records

Nai Htaw Paing Ensemble - Mon Music of Burma (FM 02):

The rarely recorded traditional music of the Mon people is vanishing and endangered, highly developed, and barely known even to Asian traditional music connoisseurs. Historically the Mon were a dominant, highly cultured, and influential people in Burma more than a thousand years ago.

There are several instruments peculiar to the Mon. Most recognizable is the Kyam (crocodile zither), a 3-string long zither with frets that is shaped like a crocodile. Another is the Batt Kine, a row of 14 or so pitched gongs that is upturned at both ends like a crescent. Also, there is the Mon violin, a 3-string fiddle with a western-like body played upright. This is incredible music with an unique character!

Recorded in Yangon, Burma by noted musicologist Rick Heizman, the Nai Htaw Paing Ensemble are recognized as masters of traditional Mon music. There is currently an effort by concerned Mon people to revive and preserve Mon culture, language, and identity, and this recording will help further this effort.

INSTRUMENTATION:

Kyam - The kyam is perhaps the most distinctive Mon instrument. It is often referred as the crocodile zither, and in Burmese language it is called migyaung, mi kyaung or mijaun. A 3-string, long, fretted zither, the body is carved into a crocodile shape.

Bat Kine - Another uniquely Mon instrument is the row of gongs known as the Bat Kine. Rather than the circular set of tuned gongs used in Burmese, Thai, Cambodian, and Laotian music, the Bat Kine is shaped like a quarter full moon, upturned steeply on both ends.

Pone Pon - Underpinning most Mon (and Burmese) music is a small set of drums played by one player. This set is known as the Hta Bone Pone Pon. It has 4 small drums, a medium drum, and a large drum.

Graw - This 'Upright Viola' is an old and rare Mon traditional instrument. It has a western-looking body, but is strung with only 3 strings. Before the British colonizers came there were some traditional 2 or 3 string fiddle instruments, afterwards musicians copied the body stylings of the western violin.

Battala - 23-key bamboo xylophone. The keys are soaked for up to three years to elicit the best timbre.

Kha dae-Kha bart - In almost all Mon and Burmese music one hears the small cymbals and the wood clacker that serve a time-keeping function.

Khanwe - a double reed oboe-like instrument.

Talutt - A bamboo flute of various sizes and types of bamboo.

BIO OF NAI HTAW PAING:

The leader of this ensemble, he currently serves as an assistant lecturer at Yangon Cultural University. He Started studying Mon traditional musical instruments, singing, and dance from his father, Nai Khin Maung Gyi, in 1965. Regularly performs on Mon National Days, Mon State Day, Union Day, and other important receptions. He occasionally teaches the new generation of musicians but has difficulty finding time given the economic situation of the profession. He would like more Mon nationals to be aware of both their own music, Myanmar traditional music and other world musics. He is passionate about rediscovering and preserving the endangered arts of the Mon culture.

to order: http://www.museumfire.com/burma.htm

Alan Sondheim/Ritual Al 770 - The Songs (FM 04):

First ever reissue of "The Songs", the debut recording by Alan Sondheim & Ritual All 770, originally released on Riverboat Records (later recordings appeared on ESP Disk). Recorded in March 1967 and included on the legendary Nurse With Wound list of experimental recordings, on this album Alan Sondheim played Electric Guitar, Violin, Flute, Suling, Xylophone, Alto Saxophone, Classical Guitar, Clarinet, Shenai, Bass Recorder, Mandolin, So-na, Hawaiian Guitar, Koto, Sopranino Recorder, Chimta, Cor Anglais, Sitar and Bansari.

Joined by Barry Sugarman (Tabla, Dholak & Naquerra), Chris Mattheson (Bass), Robert Poholek (Trumpet & Cornet), Ruth Ann Hutchinson (Vocals), June Fellows (Vocals) and J.Z. (Jazz Drums); Ritual All 770 were a group of improvisors living in Providence, Rhode Island. (Perhaps they could be considered the sonic forebearers of the Fort Thunder scene...) Rejecting the notion that avant garde music was solely the realm of isolated academia, they delved fearlessly and joyously into their music, creating a work that sounds fresh nearly 40 years later.

FROM THE LINER NOTES:

This work is a single improvised performance in which one of the performers sings "Oratorio on the end of illusions", although, in my libretto the words were originally "Oratorio on the end of visions". A libretto of eight pages was prepared. The vocalists were not told how to sing it. They could go backward or repeat any section if they wanted to. There was no score. The only instruction given to the instrumentalists was this: no playing behind the koto or classical guitar. I had several rehearsals with each of them, mostly individually. The session lasted through two takes, this is the second. After the master was made, I added reverberation and volume controlling; other than that, all of the music heard here is from the live performance.

Dan Wharburton of Paris Transatlantic said of the reissue of The Songs:

"an endearingly ramshackle melting pot of free jazz, blues and folk (if Eugene Chadbourne later described his work as "free improvised country & western bebop" then this is "free improvised Hawaiian flamenco gospel blues music theatre).. its influence resonates (indirectly, one imagines, unless there are more copies of the original vinyl in circulation than I imagine) in the free folk of today's New Weird America scene."

Now listeners have the opportunity to hear for themselves the present day song form manifestations of this overlooked creative master.

to order: http://www.museumfire.com/sondheim.htm

xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

Alan Sondheim - Ski/nn (FM 07):

The return of Alan Sondheim!

A recording of solo acoustic guitar and alpine zither songs, this release will delight those familiar with his early Riverboat (reissued as FM 04) and ESP Disc recordings as well as the audience for experimental solo guitar - while creating an audience for experimental solo alpine zither! On this release, Alan performs on the 1927 martin tenor guitar, 19th century parlor guitar, 1920s prime alpine zither and 1860s elegie alpine zither.

to order: http://www.museumfire.com/skinn.htm

xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

Alan Sondheim - Boojum (mm 9):

Boojum was our cat, who died recently at 18, and is missed terribly. Most tracks are recorded mono directly from a Yamaha keyboard output. This is the 'pure' sounding of the machine; there's no stereo enhancement or graphic equalization. I determine the state of the machine, that's called playing it. The accompaniment is automated but its figuration is not. The keyboard is touch-sensitive, but as you know, touch on an acoustic keyboard translates not only into volume, but also harmonic structures and envelope. Here touch is volume only. Note that all playing is live.

The Cluster track is recorded from a very large Beowulf computer cluster which generates considerable electromagnetic radiation in the radio spectrum. These are recorded acoustically from a Realistic Patrolman SW-60 radio slowly tuned across various SW, VHF, and UHF bands. This is the sound of the machine in air, transformed into audio signals within the range of human hearing. Machine-states and machine exist in the imaginary. Emanents exist within and without the machine..

Think of the true world in all its glory.

to order: http://www.majmua.museumfire.com/boojum.htm

xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

9/2- Crazy Dreams Band, Hex Nine, Serpents of Wisdom @ Danger Danger Gallery

9/28 - Pekka Airaksinen, Alexei Borisov & Anton Nikkil?, Kotra & Color is Luxury @ The Rotunda

more info: http://www.museumfire.com/events

| current internet text file: http://www.alansondheim.org/qf.txt | Alan Sondheim Mail archive: http://sondheim.rupamsunyata.org/ | Webpage (directory) at http://www.alansondheim.org | [redacted], [redacted], tel US [redacted] ! http://www.facebook.com/alan.sondheim

↑ Index

66. aaron tieger
PHANTASMAL REPEATS by Guillermo Parra
Mon 10 Aug 2009

Petrichord Books is very pleased to announce the release of Guillermo Parra's second chapbook, PHANTASMAL REPEATS. Spare, abstract, thoughtful, the poems in PHANTASMAL REPEATS move sneakily within an insular, ambient framework. They are self-referential to an extent but still viscerally linked to the world at large.

PHANTASMAL REPEATS is available in two eye-catching color schemes: red on curry or red on pool. If you have a preference, please specify when ordering. The price is $6 (incl. s/h). Purchase via paypal at http://petrichord.com/titles.php or send a check made payable to Aaron Tieger to the address on the webpage.

Thank you!

SAMPLE POEM:

I sit alone in the house all day

Recurring rhythms make paste

My ears hummingbird control

An autobiography of loss

Forced into spy situations

On occasion, the rain clouds gather

Graphic proof serial songs

I write fitting spaces

For the sake of secrecy's map

↑ Index

67. Adam Katz

Re: Critical works on homophonic translation?

Mon 10 Aug 2009

Melnick's Men in Aida is dealt with on page 24 of Perelman's The Marginalization of Poetry: Language Writing and Literary History

↑ Index

68. Ron Starr

Re: Critical works on homophonic translation?

Tue 11 Aug 2009

There's an essay by Harry Mathews that might provide a useful starting point in situating homphonic translation within a larger context of translation practices:

Mathews, Harry. "Translation and the Oulipo: The Case of the Persevering Maltese." In his _The Case of the Perservering Maltese: Collected Essays_. Dalkey Archive Press, 2003. There's an electronic version at http://www.electronicbookreview.com/thread/electropoetics/ethno-linguist -- don't know if it differs from the printed version.

As far as works, there is, of course, David Melnick's "Men in Aida" conveniently archived on Eclipse (http://english.utah.edu/eclipse/projects/AIDA/aida.html).

On a smaller scale, there is my homophonic translation of Martin Luther's explanation of the Ten Commandments from the Small Catechism in my book, _A Map by a Dim Lamp_ (http://www.amazon.com/Map-Dim-Lamp-Ron-Starr/dp/0977616266/ref=sr_1_4 ?ie=UT F8&s=books&qid=1249971843&sr=1-4).

Cheers,
Ron

-----Original Message-----
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]]On Behalf Of judith goldman
Sent: Thursday, August 06, 2009 12:00 PM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Critical works on homophonic translation?

Hello all,
I'm looking for critical works on homophonic translation--also, trying to build a list of homophonic translations.

Many thanks for any information you can offer!

Judith Goldman

↑ Index

69. UbuWeb
Question about Zukofsky's "A" Index
Tue 11 Aug 2009

Does anyone know why Zukofsky didn't index every instance of "a" or "the" or any number of other words? "a" appears on page 21 and is not listed in the index. And of course there are hundreds of instances of the word "the" beginning on page 1, not only between the pages of 175 and 563 in the 826 page book as indexed.

Here's the listings for a:

a, 1, 103, 130, 131, 138, 161, 168, 173-175, 177, 185, 186, 196, 199, 203, 212, 226-228, 232, 234, 235, 239, 241, 243, 245-248, 260, 270, 281, 282, 288, 291, 296, 297, 299, 302, 323, 327, 328, 351, 353, 377, 380382, 385, 391-394, 397, 402, 404407, 416, 418, 426, 433, 434, 435, 436, 438, 448, 457, 461, 463, 465, 470, 473, 474, 477-481, 491, 493497, 499, 500, 505, 507, 508-511, 536-539, 560-563

and the listings for the:

the, 175, 179, 181, 182, 184, 187, 191193, 196, 199, 202, 203, 205, 206, 208, 211, 215, 217, 221, 224-226. 228, 231, 232, 234, 238, 239, 241, 243, 245-248, 260, 270, 285, 288, 290, 291, 296, 297, 302, 316, 321324, 327, 328, 336, 338, 342, 368, 375, 379, 380, 383-387, 390-397, 402, 404, 406, 407, 412, 416, 426428, 434-436, 440, 441, 463, 465, 468, 470, 473, 474, 476-479, 494, 496, 497, 499, 506-511, 536-539, 560-563

With appreciation and many thanks in advance.

UbuWeb
http://ubu.com

↑ Index

70. Jennifer Karmin
Plath Profiles: Volume 2 now online
Tue 11 Aug 2009

Plath Profiles seeks to represent Sylvia Plath studies on an international and interdisciplinary scale. We publish biographical and critical essays, Plath-inspired poetry and fiction, Plath-inspired artwork, youth work, pedagogy, book reviews, and discussion topics.

http://www.iun.edu/~plath

Volume 2 Contributors:
Maria Johnston, Toni Saldivar, Nephie Christodoulides, Brittney Moraski, Kristina Zimbakova, Dianne M. Hunter, Ralph Didlake, Chetan Deshmane, Kim Bridgford, Sheila Hamilton, Christine Walde, Teresa Laye, Jim Long, Jennifer Karmin, Jennifer Yaros, Laurie Eckhout, W. K. Buckley, Smita Agarwal, Ana Osan, Neil Newton, S. Kivrak, Brittany Scott, Gail Crowther, Peter K. Steinberg, Amanda Golden, George Fitzgerald, Jamie E. Bourne, Kerry Wood, Luke Ferretter, Isabel Pérez Montalván

↑ Index

71. Camille Martin
new on Rogue Embryo's blog
Tue 11 Aug 2009

New on Rogue Embryo:

Tom Clark: $B!H(BSometimes children get lost . . .$B!I(B

$B!H(Byou drift over enormous buildings . . .$B!I(B

Adam Zagajewski, $B!H(BFire$B!I(B

Zydeco Gallery Two

Ray DiPalma, $B!H(BSequel #17$B!m(B

Finds at www.collageart.org

http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

Cheers!

Camille Martin
http://www.camillemartin.ca
http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

↑ Index

72. { brad brace }
21 PLEATED PLAID PAMPHLETS PUBLISHED!
Tue 11 Aug 2009

151 Sad Sameness Sad Smile Sadistic Cruelty
152 Sadistic Pleasure Sadly Abridged Sadly Certain 153 Sadly Eroded Stones Sadly Fear Sadly Need Mending
154 Sadly Vitiated Safe Combinations Safe Custody of Names
155 Safe Distance Safe Haven Safe Keeping 156 Safe Place Safe Side Safety Scissors
157 Safetys Sake Sagging Distance Sagging String 158 Sahara Sand Sahelian Savannas Said and Done
159 Said Ceiling Said Establishments Said Nothing
160 Said So Sail Away Sail Forbidden Seas
161 Sailor Sweethearts Smell Sails Were Set Saintly Radiance
162 Salacious Days Salad Fork Salad Plates Salad Sandwiches
163 Salient Parts Salient Points Saline Soils Saline Solution
164 Sallied Out Sallies Forth Salmon Spawning 165 Salon Recitals Salt Lagoons Salt Sea Salt Shakers Salt Sold Salt Whiff 166 Salted Pork Salty Aftertaste Same Ancient 167 Same Defect Same Dull Voice Same Evening Hour Same Extent
168 Same Fate Same Game Same General Make Same Ilk Samittle Squeaks
170 Same Long Regularly Same Mistake Same Nature Sae Image
169 Same Ineffable Smile Same Instant Same Kind Same Lme Peculiar Charm
171 Same Private Cypher Same Reason Same Respite Same Seas Same Section

21 PLEATED PLAID PAMPHLETS PUBLISHED!

ppp151-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-151-no-2/7518049
ppp152-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-152-no-2/7518110
ppp153-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-153-no-2/7518154
ppp154-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-154-no-2/7518194
ppp155-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-155-no-2/7518262

ppp156-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-156-no-2/7518316
ppp157-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-157-no-2/7518375
ppp158-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-158-no-2/7518445
ppp159-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-159-no-2/7518493
ppp160-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-160-no-2/7518556
ppp161-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-161-no-2/7518609
ppp162-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-162-no-2/7518663
ppp163-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-163-no-2/7518728
ppp164-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-164-no-2/7518799
ppp165-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-165-no-2/7518852
ppp166-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-166-no-2/7519354
ppp167-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-167-no-2/7519469
ppp168-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-168-no-2/7519535
ppp169-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-169-no-2/7519605

ppp170-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-170-no-2/7519668
ppp171-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-171-no-2/7519728

/:b

↑ Index

73. Aaron Vidaver

"Poets in Vancouver" (1963): Tallman on Creeley, Duncan, Olson, Levertov, Whalen, Avison, Ginsberg

Tue 11 Aug 2009

A 2300-word piece from the Warren Tallman fonds, with notes.

http://fillller.blogspot.com/2009/08/warren-tallman-poets-in-vancouver-1963.html

↑ Index

74. Alan Sondheim

Palin, Beck, Limbaugh: The Rabid Responders (fwd)

Tue 11 Aug 2009

This stuff is so scary, we should all be aware of it - Alan

---------- Forwarded message ----------
Date: Tue, 11 Aug 2009 18:29:08 -0400
From: [redacted]
To: [redacted]
Subject: Palin, Beck, Limbaugh: The Rabid Responders

Over the Top and Beneath Contempt

By: Roger Simon

Politico.com - August 11, 2009 04:44 AM EST

http://www.politico.com/news/stories/0809/25991.html

Today, we live in the age of rabid response.

Not rapid response. Rapid response was yesterday. Rapid response was the political tactic of responding quickly to all attacks, no matter how outrageous or unbelievable.

Those who did not respond rapidly, those who told themselves the public would not believe outright lies, failed to win higher office. (Thus Democrats still blame John Kerry for not responding rapidly enough in 2004 to the attacks of the Swift Boat Veterans for Truth.)

Rabid response is different.

The purpose of rabid response is to scorch the earth, to raise the stakes, to go nuclear in the hope that your opponent will be so shellshocked he can make no response at all. The purpose of rabid response is to grab the public by the throat and not let go.

Have concerns over Barack Obama's health care plan? I don't doubt it. The plan is very long and very complicated and still a work in progress.

But there is one thing we do know about it: It will establish "death panels."

These death panels will determine whether you, your baby, your parents or your grandparents will receive health care or be left to die. In the street. Like a dog.

How will the death panels operate? Who will be on them? Will they validate parking? We do not know. We know only that the death panels will judge each individual's "level of productivity in society" and render a life or death judgment.

So says Sarah Palin on her Facebook page.

In olden times, Palin might have made this claim at a speech or during a news conference where reporters might have asked questions like: "What proof do you have?" or "Aren't you just trying to scare people?"

But Palin does not risk that. She takes no questions. She has done her duty as a rabid responder. She has rung the tocsin, sounded the alarm, lit the signal fire.

Truth? Accuracy? Responsibility?

Not her territory.

Glenn Beck is a rabid responder on race. "This president, I think, he has exposed himself as a guy over and over and over again who has a deep-seated hatred for white people or the white culture," Beck says. "This guy is, I believe, a racist."

Rush Limbaugh is a rabid responder on Nazis and swastikas. He knows a lot about swastikas. He sees them everywhere. He looks at the Obama health care logo - which incorporates the familiar medical symbol of twin serpents on a staff - and sees it as being "damn close to a Nazi swastika logo." Speaker of the House Nancy Pelosi muddied the waters - surprise! - by saying those who oppose Obama's health care plan "are carrying swastikas and symbols like that to a town meeting on health care."

But Limbaugh had a rabid response for that: "There are far more similarities between Nancy Pelosi and Adolf Hitler than between these people showing up at town halls to protest a Hitler-like policy that's being heralded by a Hitler-like logo."

And then, out of left (or right) field, came this: "Ted Kennedy's dad, by the way, Joe Kennedy, sympathetic to Hitler, sympathetic to the Nazis," Limbaugh said.

But Limbaugh was not done with the Nazis or Hitler. In the world of rabid response, invoking the ultimate symbols of evil to describe one's political opponents is routine.

It doesn't matter what you say, as long as it is over the top and beneath contempt.

"Adolf Hitler, like Barack Obama, also ruled by dictate," Limbaugh said. "Hitler said he didn't need to meet with his Cabinet; he represented the will of the people. He was called the messiah. He said the people spoke through him."

Which means, I guess, if Hitler were alive today, he would be a talk show host.

[Roger Simon is POLITICO's chief political columnist.]

c 2009 Capitol News Company, LLC

Portside aims to provide material of interest to people on the left that will help them to interpret the world and to change it.

Submit via email: [redacted]
Submit via the Web: portside.org/submit
Frequently asked questions: portside.org/faq
Subscribe: portside.org/subscribe
Unsubscribe: portside.org/unsubscribe
Account assistance: portside.org/contact
Search the archives: portside.org/archive

↑ Index

75. David Hadbawnik
satoko abe
Wed 12 Aug 2009

Hello--

I'm looking for contact info on Satoko Abe a Japanese writer who has written on and translated Diane di Prima, for a special feature I'm putting together on di Prima. If anyone has a current e-mail address for Satoko, please back-channel to me.

Thanks

David Hadbawnik

↑ Index

76. Jeffrey Side
History of music website
Wed 12 Aug 2009

I found a website detailing a history of music genres and styles, with album reviews going back years. It is the most complete music site I have seen. A must for all who like music:

http://www.scaruffi.com/usmusic.html

↑ Index

77. susan maurer

FW: PERFECT DARK by Susan Maurer, published by Lar's Palm's Ungovernable Press

Wed 12 Aug 2009

From: [redacted]
To: [redacted]
Subject: PERFECT DARK by Susan Maurer, published by Lar's Palm's Ungovernable Press
Date: Mon, 10 Aug 2009 10:04:33 -0400

Thanks to both this listserv and poet. essayist, translator and editor Lars Palm for the publication of PERFECT DARK. Talk about meeting cute. I had put a note on this listserv that anyone interested in publishing a full length book mss, should backchannel me, And Lar's response was terrific.

Express your personality in color! Preview and select themes for Hotmail®. Try it now. _____
Windows Live™: Keep your life in sync. http://windowslive.com/explore?ocid=PID23384::T:WLMTAGL:ON:WL:en-US:NF_BR_sync:082009

↑ Index

78. Rob McLennan

2 new chapbooks from above/ground press

Wed 12 Aug 2009

Veralum
by Phil Hall
$4

Our / Are Carried Invisibles
by Roland Prevost $4

publisht in Ottawa by above/ground press. a/g subscribers receive a complimentary copy. To order, add $1 for postage, & in Canadian currency; if sending from outside Canada, send in American, payable to rob mclennan, c/o 858 Somerset Street West, main floor, Ottawa, Ontario Canada K1R 6R7; above/ground press subscribers receive (honest!) a complimentary copy; calendar year subscriptions available for $40, & include chapbooks, broadsides, STANZAS magazine & The Peter F. Yacht Club.

Roland Prevost recieved the 2006 John Newlove Poetry Award (judge: Erin Mour). His poetry has been published in two previous chapbooks: Metafizz, Bywords, 2007; Dragon Verses, Dusty Owl , 2009. He has also appeared in Ottawater 3.0, and Ottawater 5.0, above/ground press, Variations Art Zine, Bywords Quarterly Journal, Peter F. Yacht Club, Angel House Press, among others. He was the managing editor of poetics.ca for two years, and currently acts as the managing editor for 17 seconds, an online journal of poetry & poetics. Late at night, he loves to look at the deep sky through his various telescopes.

Phil Hall was born in 1953 & raised on farms in the Kawarthas region of Ontario. He attended the University of Windsor in the 70s, where he received an MA in English & Creative Writing. His first book, Eighteen Poems, was published in Mexico City in 1973. Since then he has published 13 other books of poems, 4 chapbooks, & a cassette of labour songs. He is also a publisher of broadsides & chapbooks under his Flat Singles Press imprint. In the early 80s he was a member of The Vancouver Industrial Writers Union. In the early 90s he was Literary Editor at This Magazine, & also edited a shortlived literary journal called Dont Quit Yr Day-Job.Among his titles are: Homes (1979), Old Enemy Juice (1988), The Unsaid (1992), & HearthedralA Folk-Hermetic (1996). Trouble Sleeping (2000) was nominated for the Governor Generals Award for poetry. In 2005, Brick Books (celebrating 20 years as Halls publisher) brought out An Oak Hunch, which was nominated for the Griffin Poetry Prize in 2006. Hall has taught writing & literature at the Kootenay School of Writing, York University, Ryerson Polytechnical University, & many colleges.He has been poet-in-residence at the University of Western Ontario, the Sage Hill Writing Experience (Sask.), The Berton House in Dawson City, Yukon, & elsewhere. In 2007, Book Thug published Halls new long poem, White Porcupine, & also issue a revised second edition of his essay/poem, The Bad Sequence. Over the years, Hall has collected two full decks of random playing cards from the streets, numerous albums of found photographs, & too many boxes of paper ephemera. He calls all this junk The Pedestrian Archives. He is learning to play clawhammer banjo.

http://www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com/

-- writer/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...14th poetry coll'n - gifts (Talon) ...2nd novel - missing persons www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

79. Jade Hudson

ToxicPoetry.com Exhibition 1

Wed 12 Aug 2009

Dear Poets,

We have just constructed our first exhibition of mp3 poetry.

Really, check it out.

We'd be downright depressed if you didn't.

Plus, it's free.

When viewing Exhibition 1, please remember that the table of contents leads you to separate sections of the edition (there are 6 sections altogether). If you want to see artists that are not in 1-1, but in 1-3 or 1-4, etc., you need to click the artist name (in 1-1) to be transported to the section in which the artist is located. We're also including links to each individual section (for additional convenience).

Here is a link to Exhibition 1-1 (where the first section as well as the table of contents can be found):

http://viewer.zmags.com/publication/bc2498b9#/bc2498b9/1

Here are links to the additional 5 sections

Section 2:

http://viewer.zmags.com/publication/bc25b83d#/bc25b83d/1

Section 3:

http://viewer.zmags.com/publication/b0a2b9f9#/b0a2b9f9/1

Section 4:

http://viewer.zmags.com/publication/9020b5eb#/9020b5eb/1

Section 5:

http://viewer.zmags.com/publication/902494eb#/902494eb/1

Section 6:

http://viewer.zmags.com/publication/b42498b9#/b42498b9/1

If you would like to be advertised in the upcoming issue, e-mail [redacted] and include "advertising" in the subject line. If you would like to crosslink, follow the same e-mail procedure, only include "crosslink" in the subject line.

Toxic Toasts,

Jade Hudson & Nathan Kinsman

Co-Editors of ToxicPoetry.com

*P.S. If you have trouble loading the player, there are three things that we suggest: *

Downloading the adobe software that is on the initial screen, viewing the file with Firefox instead of Explorer, and or refreshing the section.

↑ Index

80. Joel Weishaus
"The Gateless Gate" Pages 29-30
Wed 12 Aug 2009

Dear Friends and Colleagues;

Here are the next two pages (one screen) of the Gateless Gate:

Pages 29-30
http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/Gate/Pgs%2029-30.htm

Mirror site:
http://www.cddc.vt.edu/host/weishaus/Gate/Pgs%2029-30.htm

Introduction:
http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/Gate/Intro.htm

Please let me know if you wish to be deleted from these periodic notices. Comments are always welcome.

-Joel

↑ Index

81. CA Conrad
walking to Whitman's house with Joey
Wed 12 Aug 2009

I dream'd in a dream, I saw a city invincible to the attacks of the whole of the rest of the earth; I dream'd that was the new City of Friends; Nothing was greater there than the quality of robust love--it led the rest; It was seen every hour in the actions of men of that city, And in all their looks and words.

(from Leaves of Grass)

Our good friend Joseph Yearous-Algozin is moving to Buffalo on Monday morning, but today we took a pilgrimage we've been threatening to make for a long time. Walking across the Benjamin Franklin Bridge to Camden in the intense heat was exhausting, so we stopped off at the Walt Whitman Center to hang out on a couch in the air conditioned theater, and to fill our water bottles with the disgusting tap water in the bathroom. NOT that I've ever eaten a urinal cake mind you, but I do believe this water is what it would taste like.

The folks working at the center for some reason had no idea that Mickle Boulevard, where Whitman's house sits, no longer exists as Mickle Boulevard. I've walked to this house before over the years and know that it's right across the street from the prison, which is why I was confused standing on Dr. Martin Luther King Boulevard CERTAIN that we were in the right place. Joey asked a couple pushing a stroller who told us the boulevard was renamed after King. Maybe the WALT WHITMAN CENTER needs to know this?

The walk through the streets of Camden was a sad walk, sadder than I ever remember it being. When we arrived at the house it was closed, but we looked through the mail slot to peer at a portrait of the gray poet on a wall.

We decided to sit on the front steps in the shade of a tree, where we were soon joined by men begging for change from anyone who walked past. 20 cents asked for, then 30 cents. "I dream'd in a dream..." There were a dozen plastic beer can rings strewn over the sidewalk in front of the house, and a parade of men with the unmistakable, unsettling glaze of crack-cocaine in their eyes. It's not just in the eyes of course, but in the unsteady gait and a musculature not entirely owned by the men, somewhere, inside the bodies. Few things frighten me more than that jagged, zombie strut.

This was the saddest visit I've ever made to Walt Whitman's house. In the past I've witnessed women and children standing in front of his house to motion their homemade sign language to loved ones at the windows of the prison across the street. It was too hot today for sign language, but we saw women and children leaving the prison after their visits. One boy, no more than six, wiping tears from his face with the backs of his fists, trying to push the tears back inside his head or keep them from coming out, or both, and a young woman -- possibly his sister -- texting on her cell phone several paces ahead of him, seemingly unaware of, or uninterested in his overwhelmed state. That little boy was the saddest sight of all, incredibly depressing, and the kind of sight you see and wonder WHAT CAN BE DONE to help people have their needs met?

When I say this was the saddest visit I've ever made, it felt more like visiting Dante than the body electric celebrations of gentle Walt.

Walt Whitman's dream of a city invincible was either a terribly wrong prediction, or a dream he hoped for his fellow citizens which the future had no intention of honoring. A day among broken, breaking souls for Joey and I, but of course Camden is Camden everyday, and we were just visitors. The boulevard is renamed after Dr. Martin Luther King, the new address for Walt Whitman's house, but changing the name of the street is hardly the answer to anyone's misery.

And I'm not saying I have answers, but I am wondering WHY the city's leadership is spending time and energy and money changing maps, and buying all these shiny new boulevard signs when the bail bonds shops are blossoming in the neighborhood, and building after building is boarded up? And drug addicts continue to be somebody's child, brother, father, uncle, lost in such a way it's hard to imagine how to ever bring them back. Camden, were you even the city Whitman dream'd in his dream? Was he dreaming of another city? But the poem is quoted in granite on the tower of Camden's city hall, and again in the train station.

The city CLAIMS the poem without apology, towering above all heads are these words, and you don't need to squint to read the massive carved letters. You can see it everyday I DREAMED A CITY INVINCIBLE. It's a pox upon all who attempt to thrive here, endless days of misery, which from my gauge is getting ever more miserable with each visit I make. I'm feeling despair for our world tonight, and cannot listen to the news with all the ASSHOLE Republicans talking about Americans NOT NEEDING proper health care, not needing care, not what? Not what? Not needing? The need is immense, it's almost too painful to examine just how many needs are not being met while these SCUM bargain down the price while bargaining down the 20/20 vision of the world around us, here, everyday in Camden, and elsewhere.

I'm sleeping with nightmares of Whitman's house tonight, and all his neighbors awaiting "the quality of robust love."
CAConrad

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

82. Jim Andrews
videogames as literary devices...
Thu 13 Aug 2009

---

here are a couple of articles i wrote that have not been online as they're published in books. i see today that the articles do appear, however, in books.google.com, so here are the links to the pdfs.

'videogames as literary devices' appears in 'videogames and art' (http://tinyurl.com/p56ywo), a book edited by andy clarke and grethe mitchell (intellect books, u of chicago press, 2007). the essay looks at degrees of subordination of game to art in four online art games: Natalie Bookchin's 'The Intruder'; Regina Célia Pinto's 'Viewing Axolotls'; Neil Hennessey's 'Pac Mondrian'; and my 'Arteroids'.

another essay of mine, 'language explosion: poetry and entertainment in arteroids' was published in 'gamers' (http://tinyurl.com/lqbhhy), a book edited by shanna compton (soft skull press, brooklyn, 2004). the essay is a significant rewrite and tightening up of http://vispo.com/arteroids/onarteroids.htm

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

83. steve dalachinsky
rashied ali
Thu 13 Aug 2009

---

great drummer (with coltrane etc) firend and human has passed away on aug 12

as did les paul today

↑ Index

84. steve russell
Eathlings/Consider The Lobster/David Foster Wallace/vegan vs. vegetarian ... language
Thu 13 Aug 2009

---

for anyone struggling with vegan/vegetarian issues, please rent "Earthlings," perhaps the most powerful expose on animal welfare issues ever ... whenever ... the revolting images are too powerful to ignore, & ignoring the consequences of our actions, as the late David Foster Wallace points out, are an easy, cheap, lazy, and cowerdly ploy (see essay, Consider the Lobster, book, same title.). Concerning language and nonhuman mamals, Wallace writes:

The fact that even the most highly evolved nonhuman mamals can't use language to communicate with us about their subjective mental experience is only the first layer of additional complication in trying to extend our reasoning about pain and morality to animals. And everything gets progressively more abstract and convolved as we move farther and farther out from the highertype mammaals into cattle and swine and dogs and cats and rodents, and then birds and fish, and finally invertebrates like lobsters.

↑ Index

85. Séamas Cain
... the art of disappearing
Thu 13 Aug 2009

_____

Two new books by the Irish poet Gabriel Rosenstock, published by CSP (Cambridge Scholars Publishing) will be launched in Dún Laoghaire, County Dublin, Ireland on 29 August 2009 in the Kingston Suite of the Royal Marine Hotel at 7:00 p.m. This event is a part of the Festival of World Cultures in Dún Laoghaire.

Rosenstock's books are titled "Haiku Enlightenment" & "Haiku, the Gentle Art of Disappearing." They are the poets contemplations & musings about haiku & the form(s) of haiku. Early versions of these texts were serialised in the electronic journal World Haiku Review.

Gabriel Rosenstock believes that "there is something going on in the literary & artistic energies at the eastern & western extremes of Europe which have shamanistic/druidic forces as part of their DNA, so to speak, energies that produce a vital poetry that is not a commentary on life, as such, but life itself, the living, breathing spirit ... one of the reasons I love haiku is because it offers an entrance into the pervading spirit of a place, a temenos ..."

With this e-announcement, there is a way of getting a 50% reduction for advance orders of these new books by Rosenstock! Though this 50% off will be good only up to the August 29th launch-event in Ireland.

To claim the 50% discount on either or both titles, orders can be made online at the CSP (Cambridge Scholars Publishing) web-site ...

1.) "Haiku Enlightenment"

http://www.c-s-p.org/Flyers/Haiku-Enlightenment1-4438-0521-1.htm

2.) "The Gentle Art of Disappearing"

http://www.c-s-p.org/Flyers/Haiku--The-Gentle-Art-of-Disappearing1-4438-1133-5.htm

The customer should select the title, add it to the shopping basket, & then use the following:

Login: (blank)
Password: haiku50%

Alternatively, purchases can be made directly through Vlatka Kolic of Cambridge Scholars Publishing at

[redacted]

or

[redacted]

Disappearingly,

Séamas Cain
http://www.freewebs.com/seamascain

↑ Index

86. Justin Katko
Critical Documents Moving Sale
Thu 13 Aug 2009

Dear List members:

Critical Documents is moving! And before everything gets transported across the North Atlantic, I'm offering a buy one get one free offer. Buy any book in stock and get another book free. The offer is good from now until August 20 (i.e. ONE week). Here is the current stock:

Plantarchy 2 (restocked!) <http://plantarchy.us/Plantarchy_2.html> cris cheek. The Church—The School—The Beer<http://plantarchy.us/Plantarchy_3.html> cris cheek. part: short life housing (a box of them just arrived from the The Gig) Plantarchy 4 (restocked!) <http://plantarchy.us/Plantarchy_4.html> Keith Tuma. The Paris Hilton <http://plantarchy.us/paris.html> Tom Raworth. Let Baby Fall <http://plantarchy.us/let-baby-fall.html> Sara Crangle. wild ascending lisp <http://plantarchy.us/wal.html>

Just note in your paypal message which other book wish to receive. Note that you can't purchase cheek's Part: Short Life Housing from the site, so that one only works as your free one.

Jow's Xena Fan-Fic will be restocked within the next few months (apologies to those of you with outstanding orders for it), and the next book I'll be putting out is Ryan Dobran's DING DING. If you believe that you have an outstanding order, or you didn't receive contributor/subscription copies of anything, please let me know and I'll fix it. School's ever-rolling liquid carpet of bittersweet poisons has continually made it difficult to keep up.

And finally, please note the new mailing address, good as of September:

Critical Documents
c/o Justin Katko
Queens' College
Cambridge, CB3 9ET
United Kingdom

Thanks
Justin

↑ Index

87. charles alexander
still going for it!
Thu 13 Aug 2009

Hi everyone,

We're still HUNDREDS away from our goal of one thousand small donors by end of the year. And soon, like right now, would be really good, as we are hoping to get books by Linh Dinh and Jane Sprague to press right away!

It's tax deductible and oh so juicy. $5 or $10, please! Smaller is ok, too! We love lots and lots of people -- our readers, supporters, YOU!

DO IT at http://chax.org/donate.htm -- or send something to address below!

You can also go to chax.org and buy a book or two or three or so.

charles alexander
[redacted]

chax press / poetry & the book arts 411 n seventh ave ste 103 / tucson, az 85705-8388

presenting Norma Cole & Charles Alexander on Sept 17 2009
Linh Dinh, Steph Balzer, and Jonathan Rothschild on Oct 30 2009
Jane Sprague & Kate Greenstreet on Nov 4 2009
Ron Silliman & Marilyn Crispell on Jan 30 2010

DONATE TO CHAX PRESS at http://chax.org/donate.htm

↑ Index

88. David Kirschenbaum
Boog Festival's Final Sked, 9/9-13
Thu 13 Aug 2009

Hi,

From Wed., Sept. 9 through Sun. Sept. 13, we'll be putting on the third annual Welcome to Boog City poetry and music festival. It will feature 55 poets, 23 musical acts, 17 small presses, 11 panelists, and 11 playwrights over the five days.

You can visit the below url to view the festival logo and at-a-glance schedule:

http://www.welcometoboogcity.com/wbc3sked.pdf

Among the festival highlights are:

—a live performance of The Magnetic Fields' 69 Love Songs for its 10th anniversary by 13 different musical acts;

—a night devoted to South Boston, Mass. small press Rope-a-Dope Press;

—our first Poets' Theater night, featuring performances of eight short plays

—our 6th annual small, small press fair, with exhibits from 16 different small presses, and readings by their authors;

—a discussion on Thinking Globally and Acting Locally in the Aftermath of the Global Capital Meltdown; and

—Washington, D.C. small press luminary Buck Downs in conversation with renowned poet Anselm Berrigan

The full schedule for the event is below this note, followed by performer bios and websites.

If you need any additional information you can reach me at 212-842- BOOG (2664) or [redacted].

as ever,
David

David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W.28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://www.welcometoboogcity.com
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)
F: [redacted]

3rd annual

Welcome to Boog City
5 Days of Poetry and Music

WEDNESDAY SEPTEMBER 9, 7:00 P.M.

For its 10th Anniversary,
The Magnetic Fields’ 69 Love Songs album performed live by:

Sidewalk Café
94 Ave. A
NYC

Free with a two-drink minimum

Volume 1

Admiral of the Narrow Sea

1. Absolutely Cuckoo
2. I Don't Believe in the Sun
3. All My Little Words
4. A Chicken with Its Head Cut Off
5. Reno Dakota

Kathy Zimmer

6. I Don't Want to Get Over You
7. Come Back from San Francisco
8. The Luckiest Guy on the Lower East Side
9. Let's Pretend We're Bunny Rabbits
10. The Cactus Where Your Heart Should Be

Ben Krieger

11. I Think I Need a New Heart
12. The Book of Love
13. Fido, Your Leash Is Too Long
14. How Fucking Romantic
15. The One You Really Love

Adam Ferretti

16. Punk Love
17. Parades Go By
18. Boa Constrictor
19. A Pretty Girl Is Like...
20. My Sentimental Melody

Sara Lautman and Yoko Kikuchi

21. Nothing Matters When We're Dancing
22. Sweet-Lovin' Man
23. The Things We Did and Didn't Do

Volume 2
1. Roses
2. Love Is Like Jazz
3. When My Boy Walks Down the Street

Andrew Hoepfner

4. Time Enough for Rocking When We're Old
5. Very Funny
6. Grand Canyon

Genan Zilkha

7. No One Will Ever Love You
8. If You Don't Cry
9. You're My Only Home
10. (Crazy for You But) Not That Crazy
11. My Only Friend
12. Promises of Eternity

Stephanie Nilles

13. World Love
14. Washington, D.C.
15. Long-Forgotten Fairytale
16. Kiss Me Like You Mean It
17. Papa Was a Rodeo

The Trouble Dolls

18. Epitaph for My Heart
19. Asleep and Dreaming
20. The Sun Goes Down and the World Goes Dancing
21. The Way You Say Good-Night
22. Abigail, Belle of Kilronan

Maynard and the Musties

23. I Shatter

Volume 3
1. Underwear
2. It's a Crime
3. Busby Berkeley Dreams
4. I'm Sorry I Love You

OPEN SLOT

5. Acoustic Guitar
6. The Death of Ferdinand de Saussure
7. Love in the Shadows
8. Bitter Tears
9. Wi' Nae Wee Bairn Ye'll Me Beget

A Brief View of the Hudson

10. Yeah! Oh, Yeah!
11. Experimental Music Love
12. Meaningless
13. Love Is Like a Bottle of Gin
14. Queen of the Savages

Gracefully

15. Blue You
16. I Can't Touch You Anymore
17. Two Kinds of People
18. How to Say Goodbye
19. The Night You Can't Remember

Andrew Hoepfner

20. For We Are the King of the Boudoir
21. Strange Eyes
22. Xylophone Track
23. Zebra

Directions: F/V to 2nd Ave., L to 1st Ave.
Venue is at E.6th St.

THURSDAY SEPTEMBER 10, 7:00 P.M.

d.a. levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

Rope-a-Dope Press
(South Boston, Mass.)

ACA Galleries
529 W.20th St., 5th Flr.
NYC

Free

Event will be hosted by Rope-a-Dope editors

Robert daVies and poet Mary Walker Graham, eds.

featuring readings from

Mary Walker Graham
Kate Schapira
Sampson Starkweather
Chris Tonelli

and music from
Erik Schoster

There will be wine, cheese, and crackers, too.

Directions: C/E to 23rd St., 1/9 to 18th St.
Venue is bet. 10th and 11th avenues

FRIDAY SEPTEMBER 11, 7:00 P.M.

Sidewalk Café
94 Ave. A
NYC

Free with a two-drink minimum

7:00 p.m. Elinor Nauen
7:15 p.m. Sandra Beasley
7:35 p.m. Tara Hack-music
8:15 p.m. The Tet Offensive-music

9:10 p.m. Boog Poets' Theater, featuring plays by:

Charles Bernstein
Charles Borkhuis
Corina Copp and Dana Ward
Mashinka Firunts and Jeremy Thompson
Kristen Kosmas
Filip Marinovich and Nathaniel Siegel
Urayoán Noel
Kristen Prevallet

11:10 p.m. Dan Machlin
11:25 p.m. Serena Jost-music
11:55 p.m. The Low and the Lonesome-music

Directions: F/V to 2nd Ave., L to 1st Ave.
Venue is at E.6th St.

SATURDAY SEPTEMBER 12, 12:00 P.M.

Unnameable Books
600 Vanderbilt Ave.
Brooklyn

Free

6th Annual Small, Small Press Fair

Featuring readings from authors of the exhibiting presses

12:00 p.m. Rachel Levitsky, Ugly Duckling Presse
12:10 p.m. Wil Hallgren, Stubborn Plant Press
12:20 p.m. Lydia Cortes, Straw Gate Books
12:30 p.m. Jill Magi, 2nd Avenue
12:40 p.m. Ivy Johnson, Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs
12:50 p.m. Austin Alexis, Poets Wear Prada
1:00 p.m. Douglas Manson, little scratch pad press
1:10 p.m. Stacy Szymaszek, Litmus Press

1:20 p.m. Mina Pam Dick, Futurepoem
1:30 p.m. Geoffrey Olsen, EOAGH: A Journal of the Arts
1:40 p.m. Norman Lock, Ellipsis Press
1:50 p.m. Christopher Stackhouse, Corollary Press
2:00 p.m. Andrew Hughes, BookThug
2:10 p.m. Jennifer L. Knox, Bloof Books
2:20 p.m. Marcella Durand, Belladonna*
2:30 p.m. Karin Falcone, artICHOKE Press
2:40 p.m. Dan Wilcox, A.P.D.

2:50 p.m. Jesse Schoen-music
3:20 p.m. Ammiel Alcalay
3:35 p.m. Danielle Le Gros Georges
3:55 p.m. Ryan Walker
4:15 p.m. Jim Dunn
4:35 p.m. Phoebe Kreutz-music
5:05 p.m. Karen Weiser
5:20 p.m. Katie Yates
5:40 p.m. Dana Ward
6:00 p.m. Anselm Berrigan
6:15 p.m. Anselm Berrigan in conversation with Buck Downs
6:45 p.m. Buck Downs
7:05 p.m. Gracefully-music
7:35 p.m. Jean-Paul Pecqueur
7:50 p.m. Brenda Coultas
8:05 p.m. Mike County
8:25 p.m. Ish Klein

Directions: 2, 3 to Grand Army Plaza, C to Clinton-Washington avenues, Q to 7th Ave.
Venue is bet. Prospect Pl./St. Marks Ave.

SUNDAY SEPTEMBER 13, 12:00 P.M.

Unnameable Books
600 Vanderbilt Ave.
Brooklyn

Free

12:00 p.m. Paul Foster Johnson
12:15 p.m. Eric Gelsinger
12:30 p.m. Joanna Sondheim
12:45 p.m. Tracey McTague

1:00 p.m. Alan Semerdjian-music
1:30 p.m. Martha King
1:45 p.m. Brendan Lorber
2:00 p.m. Dan Wilcox
2:20 p.m. Basil King

2:35 p.m.-2:45-break

2:45 p.m. Thinking Globally and Acting Locally in the Aftermath of the Global Capital Meltdown

Greg Fuchs moderates a discussion on the meaning of community with a group of New York activists, artists, filmmakers, poets, and writers: Antonino D'Ambrosio, Mariana Ruiz Firmat, Alan Gilbert, Erica Kaufman, Eileen Myles, Tim Peterson, Marc Andre Robinson, Michele Madigan Somerville, Chris Stackhouse, and Stacy Szymaszek.

4:30 p.m.-4:40-break

4:40 p.m. Corina Copp
4:55 p.m. Lewis Warsh
5:10 p.m. Hailey Higdon
5:30 p.m. Shanna Compton
5:45 p.m. Angela Veronica Wong
6:10 p.m. Dorit-music
6:30 p.m. Cristiana Baik
6:50 p.m. Paolo Javier
7:05 p.m. Sara Wintz
7:20 p.m. Ryan Murphy
7:35 p.m. Gary Parrish
7:50 p.m. Justin Marks

Directions: 2, 3 to Grand Army Plaza, C to Clinton-Washington avenues,
Q to 7th Ave.
Venue is bet. Prospect Pl./St. Marks Ave.

Welcome to Boog City 3 Bios and Websites

*Wednesday

A Brief View of the Hudson
http://www.myspace.com/abriefviewofthehudson
Nick Nace, Ann Enzminger, and Joel Herzig are the folk/country powerhouse that is A Brief View of the Hudson.

Admiral of the Narrow Sea http://www.myspace.com/admiralofthenarrowsea Admiral of the Narrow Sea is a Staten Island-based performance group. The songs are centered around a ukulele, and based on English and French idioms. The act draws a heavy influence from alternative country, and Staten Island guidos. Their sound is best described as nautical glock pop.

Adam Ferretti http://www.myspace.com/poton Adam Ferretti is currently a full time research biologist, part time cake maker, rock singer, ghost bunny painter, solo artist, and violinist. This is the first time he will step out from behind his post apocalyptic rock band The Rabbits and his solo moniker Poton, to perform under his own name.

Gracefully http://goodbyebetter.com Psychedelic lounge pop from the isle of Manhattan, Gracefully is the butterfly metamorphose from the caterpillar So L'il. Part of (and oft augmented by) the Goodbye Better Collective (which also includes I feel tractor, Aydin, and Drifting In the Cinema), they just released their first full-length this past May on Goodbye Better.

Andrew Hoepfner http://www.creakyboards.com/ Andrew Hoepfner has done all his New York City songwriting under the moniker Creaky Boards, which is currently in a coma. Andrew plays keys as one of Shilpa Ray's Happy Hookers. He takes pride in helping mothers and wives of New York City who are in strife. Andrew has been exploring drawing and meditation this year.

Ben Krieger http://www.benkrieger.com/ Ben Krieger came to New York in 1997 to be a schoolteacher. He brought an electric guitar and a 4-track, too. He has written for The Deli, Block Magazine, Urban Folk, and was the editor at Jezebel Music for two years. He plays a weekly show at the Sidewalk—the club he books—at around 3:00 a.m. each Tuesday. He still works with children (including his own). He is an avid music collector who doesn't believe in guilty pleasures. He's antifolk, but not always.

Sara Lautman and Yoko Kikuchi
http://www.myspace.com/yokokikuchi
http://www.myspace.com/saralautman
Sara and Yoko have been playing, writing and singing together as two-thirds of the band Lady Bright since July 2008. Cat owners both, they openly admire their little cats' capri pants and low pony, respectively.

Maynard and the Musties http://www.myspace.com/maynardandthemusties Maynard and the Musties have been playing around the city for about three years now. Their first album-length release, So Many Funerals, is available through amazon.com or itunes. Joe Maynard wrote all songs except for "Shallow Water Warning," whose lyrics were penned by poet Helen Adam. Maynard also provides lead vocals and acoustic guitar. The Musties are Mo Botton, lead guitar; Dennis Shealy, bass; Jim Thomas, Drums; and the hottest fiddle this side of the crescent city, Naa Koshie Mills. Our rock star ringer, Ryan

Adams, provided lapsteel and piano on the song “Elvis Museum” and co-produced the song “Rocky & Bessie.”

Stephanie Nilles http://www.myspace.com/stephanienilles Stephanie Nilles is an independent musician constantly on the move. At 17, she was a finalist at the Young Concert Artists’ International Competition. At 22, she had graduated from the Cleveland Institute of Music with a Bachelor of Music in classical piano performance. These days, she's performing her own politically influenced jazz/folk tunes, described by listeners as “Ella Fitzgerald on speed beating the shit out of Regina Spektor” and “Tom Waits on helium,” in her adopted home base of New York City and out on the road in a hatchback with a Roland.

The Trouble Dolls
http://www.troubledolls.com/a/
http://www.myspace.com/troubledolls
The Trouble Dolls are a pop band from Brooklyn. The Trouble Dolls are Cheri, Matty, Chris and sometimes Pam. The Trouble Dolls do not smoke. The Trouble Dolls will release their second album, The Tiniest Entertainers in the World, in 2010. The Trouble Dolls’ first album, Sticky, is available in finer used CD stores everywhere.

Genan Zilkha http://www.myspace.com/genanisfabulous Genan is currently a (full-time) law student, (part-time) musician, although it is questionable whether she is particularly good at either. She is also the same height as Stephin Merritt, which makes her proud and especially qualified to play this show.

Kathryn Zimmer http://www.kathyzimmermusic.com/ Kathy Zimmer grew up singing folk music with a musical family in rural Nebraska, where some of her first gigs were rodeos, parades, and county fairs. The winding road of her musical exploration eventually led her to classical music, and it is with that layer of influence she now creates music she calls “cosmopolitan folk”—music that is sophisticated yet naïve, polished yet quirky. Now a resident of New York City, Kathy performs often with her two backup singers, the Sugar Bowls, and her band, the Sunshine Banned. She has independently released three albums, Under Your Spell, dreamin’, and Spare Key.

*Thursday

Rope-a-Dope Press http://rope-a-dope-press.blogspot.com Founded in the spring of 2007 by painter Robert daVies and poet Mary Walker Graham, Rope-a-Dope Press fosters collaboration between artists, writers, and their communities through the publication of handmade, letterpress printed broadsides, chapbooks, and artist’s books.

Mary Walker Graham http://distilleryboston.com Mary Walker Graham was born in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia and now lives in a restored rum distillery in South Boston. The cofounder and editor of Rope-a-Dope Press, her poems have appeared in Free Verse, OCHO, PFS Post, Poetry Magazine, and Poetry Daily.

Kate Schapira Kate Schapira lives in Providence, R.I. where she writes, teaches, and organizes the Publicly Complex Reading Series. In addition to her chapbooks with Rope-A-Dope Press, Case Fbdy. and The Painting, she's the author of The Saint’s Notebook (Flying Guillotine Press), Heroes & Monsters (Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs), and Phoenix Memory (horse less press). Her work has most recently appeared in why are we not in paradise?

Erik Schoster http://www.hecanjog.com/ Erik Schoster (r.) is a composer and sound artist based in Brooklyn by way of Madison, Wisc. Middlemarch, his second full-length record as He Can Jog (entitled) is out now on Audiobulb Records. Earlabs praises it as a “heartfelt, entertaining, and perplexing flurry of sonic excitement.” He is writing and recording a new record under his given name for Ian Hawgood's excellent Home Normal imprint. This performance is based in part on that work. More information and mp3s can be found at the above site.

Sampson Starkweather Sampson Starkweather is the author of three chapbooks, The Heart is Green from So Much Waiting forthcoming from Immaculate Disciples, City of Moths a Rope-a-Dope Press production, and The Photograph from horse less press.

Chris Tonelli http://thesteinachoperation.blogspot.com/ Chris Tonelli co-curates The So and So Series and is the author of four chapbooks, most recently No Theater (Brave Men Press) and For People Who Like Gravity and Other People (Rope-A-Dope Press). New work can be found in LIT, SIR!, and the Tusculum Review. He teaches at North Carolina State University in Raleigh, where he lives with his wife Allison.

*Friday

Sandra Beasley http://www.sandrabeasley.com/ Sandra Beasley is the author of I Was the Jukebox, winner of the 2009 Barnard Women Poets Prize, selected by Joy Harjo and forthcoming from W. W. Norton. Her first collection, Theories of Falling, won the 2007 New Issues Poetry Prize judged by Marie Howe. Other awards include the Maureen Egen Exchange Award from Poets & Writers and a Walter E. Dakin Fellowship from the Sewanee Writers’ Conference. She lives in Washington, D.C., where she writes for The Washington Post Magazine and is working on Don’t Kill the Birthday Girl: Tales from an Allergic Life, forthcoming from Crown.

Charles Bernstein
http://epc.buffalo.edu/authors/bernstein/
The Lenny Paschen monologue, from The Lenny Paschen Show
The three librettos I wrote for Ben Yarmolinsky in the early 1990s used vernacular American forms to create contemporary operas with a social and historical address. Blind Witness News (1990) and The Lenny Paschen Show (1992) used the typical format of late-night TV, while The Subject (1991) starts with a psychoanalytic session.

Lenny is the final work of the trilogy. Much of the opening monologue, to be presented at this event, was cut, for reasons of length, from the final libretto.

In its typical process of canceling sense, television is, of course, the offense to meaning that is addressed in The Lenny Paschen Show. Lenny Paschen is a gladiator in an electronic age—a hot fighter in a cool medium (and he may also cut against the grain of the lyric impulse within opera). Lenny is trapped from the start, yet his struggle for moral discourse makes this opera a fin de millennia version of Die Meistersinger—sans masters, sans paradise, all songs. Lenny seems to preach that we can get beyond the puppetry of TV personas, but, as he also insists, he remains a puppet of his own devices. The Lenny Paschen Show uses the tools at hand, especially the tradition of black, often abrasive, comedy to explore the worlds flaunted by, and also hidden within, one of the central formats of commercial TV.

Charles Bernstein's books include Blind Witness: Three American Operas (Factory School), new in 2008; Girly Man (University of Chicago Press), now in paperback; Shadowtime (Green Integer), libretto for an opera on Benjamin; Republics of Reality: 1975-1995 (Sun & Moor Press), Content's Dream: Essays 1975-1984 (Northwestern), and Controlling Interests (Roof). He is Donald T. Regan Professor of English and Comparative Literature at the University of Pennsylvania.

Charles Borkhuis http://writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/x/Borkhuis.php Barely There A woman finds herself having retreated into her "inner cave" with her invisible "power animal" ROAR-SHOCK by her side. It is a little bit of Paradise where she tries to relax, forget her problems, and just chill. But as an actor, she treats her "inner cave" as a proscenium stage with an attendant audience, for whom she performs herself, trying to win their acceptance and recognition. Yet once performing, she must account for herself. Even though she has no back-story or "character" as such, she keeps peeling away layers of her presence in an attempt to be remembered before the lights go down.

Charles Borkhuis is a playwright, poet, screenwriter, and essayist. His books of poems include Afterimage, Savoir-fear, Alpha Ruins, Proximity (Stolen Arrows), Dinner with Franz, and Hypnogogic Sonnets. Fanny Howe selected Alpha Ruins

as a finalist for the William Carlos Williams Book Award. Disappearing Acts is his latest book of poems. His essays on contemporary poetics have appeared in Telling it Slant and We Who Love to Be Astonished (University of Alabama Press). His stage and radio plays have been produced widely, and he is the recipient of a Dramalogue Award. His plays are published in four collections, Mouth of Shadows, The Sound of Fear Clapping, Stage This, and Poets' Theater. His CD Black Light contains two radio plays produced for NPR (see above link). He curated poetry readings for the Segue Foundation for 15 years, most recently at The Bowery Poetry Club in New York City.

Corina Copp http://www.fauxpress.com/e/ Corina Copp's short dance-theater text, "A Week of Kindness," was produced in the 2007 Tiny Theater Festival at the Ontological-Hysteric Theater. Recent work has appeared in Aufgabe, Antennae, Puppy Flowers, 6x6, Poets on Painters (Ulrich Museum of Art, Wichita, Kan.), Denver Quarterly, Fence, The Germ, and other lovely places. Her e-book, Carpeted, can be found at the above link. She is currently pursuing her M.F.A. in Playwriting with Mac Wellman at Brooklyn College, and is the editor of The Poetry Project Newsletter.

Mashinka Firunts http://www.mashinkafirunts.com/ Jeremy James Thompson http://www.autotypograph.com/ Extra! V Organza They are inked up. They are hot off the press. Spinning good yarns. Penciling a National Angle. News Items: His Woman Girl of the Fridays Years (1940) (1942) closes the press box; some curtains. Gets in the wired room; word-ringers, face reporters, and gossipmongers gum up the works. The Rumor Mill, an RSS feed, Perez Hilton, and teeny Tweets are seen slurping Manhattan at the Savoy Saturday. This weak head lines: Wild Parties in Pictureland. Weekend Orgies of the Stars of the Silver Sheet! Singed Startlet Warns of Winding Celluloid Road to Ruin! 80 stab and jab beached bodies, the best and worth less of 1990, the Forbes Celebrity [redacted]. There's something very important on the teletype, six or seven items back. The Obits read: Bolshevist sweetheart dead, a relation, you knew her.

Mashinka Firunts is a graduate student in the Columbia University Modern Art program, and she is concurrently investigating the sustainability of the scholarly spectacle.

Jeremy James Thompson is an instructor at New York's Center for Book Arts, as well as curator of the reading series TEXTFORM. His work focuses on the process of collaboration, the reinvention of propaganda, and the defining of a practical avant-garde.

Tara Hack http://www.tarahack.com/ Singer-songwriter Tara Hack, a 21-year-old native New Yorker, worked with producers Joe and Jack Napoli of Cloud 9

Recording on her album, See You Soon, available online, on iTunes, and in Penn Station and stores in the Northeast.

Her latest single, “Saya Tidak Bersalah,” is about Australian Schapelle Corby who was wrongfully imprisoned. Tara's song has fired the human rights movement to free Schapelle. It's been featured in The Sydney Morning Herald, Brisbane Times, 2GB Radio Sydney, The Joey Reynolds Show, and CWA at the University of Colorado. She is in the studio working on her next album.

Serena Jost http://www.myspace.com/serenajost Singer-songwriter and cellist Serena Jost was raised between Michigan and Switzerland. Her debut CD, Closer Than Far, was produced by Brad Albetta (Martha Wainwright) and released to a sold-out show at Joe’s Pub.

Time Out NY noted "she writes gently eccentric songs and sings them in an elegant alto, often accompanying herself on cello, but it isn’t quite right to call her a singer-songwriter. The term art song— normally tied to 19th-century concert music—usefully characterizes Jost’s carefully arranged pieces and succinct lyrics, neither quite rock nor folk." Formerly of Rasputina, she has collaborated with poet Dan Machlin, dancers, and other artists.

Kristen Kosmas H-O-R-S-E, a text for speaking An imaginary 12-course meal leads to a bus tour, that leads to a seaplane ride, that leads to a party, that leads to a fight, that ends in a rosebush on the way to basketball practice. Kristen Kosmas tries desperately not to tell you all the things she really wants to tell you in H-O-R-S-E.

Kristen Kosmas is a playwright and performer. She has had plays commissioned by Performance Space 122, Seattle University's SITE Specific, Dixon Place, and New City Theater.

Her plays include This from Cloudland, Hello Failure, Chapter of Accidents, The Mayor of Baltimore, Anthem, and Palomino.

She is the writer and performer of four critically acclaimed solo shows, The Scandal!, Slip, Again, and Blah Blah Fuckin Blah, which have been performed at numerous venues in New York, Austin, Boston, Seattle, and Chicago.

Forthcoming publications include Hello Failure (Ugly Duckling Presse), This From Cloudland (Play a Journal of Plays), and The Mayor Of Baltimore and Anthem (53rd State).

Dan Machlin http://www.uglyducklingpresse.org/page-dearbody.html Dan Machlin was born and raised in New York City and is currently growing cukes, savory, and snap peas in his community garden. His most recent book is Dear Body: (Ugly Duckling Presse). With singer/cellist Serena Jost he has released a full-length CD project Above Islands and set HD, Paul Blackburn, and his own poetic texts to music. His poems and reviews have appeared in Boog Literature, Crayon, Critiphoria, Antennae, Soft Targets, and The Brooklyn Rail. He is the founding editor and publisher of Futurepoem books, and recently joined the conspiracy at Table X: A Publishing Commune.

Filip Marinovich
Nathaniel Siegel
Bastille Day 2009 Meditations On Homosexuality is a ritual performed in praise of the gay muse, for everybody.

Filip Marinovich is a poet living in New York. Author of Zero Readership (Ugly Duckling Presse), various poems on the web, and plays performed throughout New York. He has performed his poetry in New York, Paris, and San Francisco. He is at work on a new book of poems.

Nathaniel Siegel is a gay poet writing from his life experience in New York City.

Elinor Nauen http://www.elinornauen.com/ Elinor Nauen is the author of the poetry collections American Guys and Cars, and editor of Diamonds Are a Girl's Best Friend: women writers on baseball and Ladies, Start Your Engines: women writers on cars and the road. Her most recent books are the forthcoming So Late Into the Night and Marriage A to Z. She is a freelance journalist for the Saturday Evening Post, AARP.com, and other national publications. She lives in the East Village, where she does daily battle with rats, fleas, and her husband, Johnny Stanton. Check out her latest poetry, articles and adventures at the above site.

Urayoán Noel http://www.myspace.com/urayoannoel The Commonest Many Fester is a team play for As and Bs. It could be a foray: many-festooned. To where poiesis meets polis: as pop lists. The cast is human and non-human (with room for excluded thirds). Less positive than Common, it cures no colds. Kinda polyvocal, sorta glocal, but never lo-cal. A laughtractatus in hi-density politics for many playas. Sorry, no program.

Urayoán Noel is the author of Boringkén (Ediciones Callejón/La Tertulia) and Kool Logic/La lógica kool (Bilingual Press), a contributing editor of Mandorla, and a founding member of Spanic Attack. His other works include the artist book Las flores del mall and a CD and DVD of text-sound collaborations with composer Monxo López.

He recently presented selections from Hi-Density Politics—an assemblage of (cheap) digital poetics, (mis) translation, and (pro forma) performance—at the University of Puerto Rico Interdisciplinary Studies Program, the Latin American Studies Association Conference in Rio de Janeiro, and The Dirty Dirty artspace in Brooklyn. He is completing In One Breath, a book-length study of Nuyorican poetry, on and off the page, from the 1960s to the present. Originally from San Juan, Puerto Rico, he teaches at the University at Albany, SUNY.

Kristin Prevallet
http://www.asu.edu/pipercwcenter/how2journal/vol_3_no_2/performance/prevallet-burnett.html The Block is a story about love in the paranoid era of Bush's America. Language fails, the muse rebels, the thief enters, and the furniture gets rearranged. Will Lacy and Ben survive?

Kristin Prevallet is a poet, essayist, and educator whose most recent book is I, Afterlife: Essay in Mourning Time (Essay Press). She is the editor of A Helen Adam Reader and received a 2007 New York Foundation for the Arts fellowship in poetry. She lives in Brooklyn.

Nathaniel Siegel
(see Filip Marinovich)

The Low and the Lonesome http://www.myspace.com/thelowandthelonesome The Low and the Lonesome play country and western music and wail their hearts out down by the Gowanus Canal. They are Donna Lichaw, low and lonesome electric guitar; Lana Carroll, cryin’ and weepin’ pedal steel; Jason Bertone, walkin’ and talkin’ electric bass; Julian of Nowherr, howlin’ and yodelin’, finger-pickin acoustic; and Naomi Clark, bucket and washboard, tambourine and traps. Sounds like dark country comin’ out a fuzzy radio, on a train, on a boat.

The Tet Offensive http://www.briansamuelrobinson.com/tet.html In January of 2002, David Kirschenbaum approached his friend, classical composer Brian Robinson, to write an arrangement of “Stay Away” for a Nirvana tribute concert at the Knitting Factory in N.Y.C. Brian responded with an arrangement that was as hard and fast as his rock band counterparts, and The Tet Offensive was born. The group counters the traditional lush sound of string ensembles with driving arrangements full of giddy dissonance and moments of thrashing atonality, covering an array of bands from The Bee Gees to Soundgarden.

Jeremy James Thompson
(see Mashinka Firunts)

Dana Ward http://www.cypresspoetry.com/ Dana Ward is the author of the Drought (Open 24 Hours), Roseland (Editions Louis Wain), and other scattered books. He lives in Cincinnati where he edits Cy Press and works as an advocate for adult literacy at the Over-the-Rhine Learning Center.

*Saturday

Ammiel Alcalay http://www.loggernaut.org/interviews/ammielalcalay/ Ammiel Alcalay is a poet, translator, critic, and scholar. His books include Scrapmetal (Factory School), from the warring factions (Beyond Baroque), After Jews and Arabs (University of Minnesota), the cairo notebooks (Singing Horse), and Memories of Our Future: Selected Essays, 1982-1999 (City Lights). His translations include Sarajevo Blues and Nine Alexandrias by Bosnian poet Semezdin Mehmedinovic; Keys to the Garden: New Israeli Writing; and, with Oz Shelach, Outcast, by Shimon Ballas. The novel Islanders (City Lights) and book of essays A Little History (Beyond Baroque) are forthcoming.

Austin Alexis, Poets Wear Prada http://poetswearpradanj.home.att.net/AustinAlexis.html http://poetswearprada.blogspot.com Austin Alexis' poetry, fiction, and non-fiction have appeared in a variety of anthologies, journals, magazines, and newspapers, including Barrow Street, The Journal, The Writer, The Pedestal Magazine, and online at Poetz.com. His plays have been performed in New York City, and one was selected for The Samuel French Short Plays Festival. Alexis has taught creative writing at Hunter College's continuing education program, and has taught and tutored at various universities and college in New York state. His chapbook Lovers and Drag Queens was released by PWP and a collection of his short stories is due out this fall. He lives in Manhattan and teaches at New York City College of Technology (CUNY) in Brooklyn.

Roxanne Hoffman is the founder of Poets Wear Prada, also known as PWP Books, a small press based in Hoboken, N.J. and devoted to introducing new authors through e-books and limited edition, high-quality chapbooks. Her words appear off and on the net, in two print anthologies The Bandana Republic, A Literary Anthology by Gang Members & Their Affiliates (Soft Skull Press) and Love After 70 (Wising Up Press), both released last year, and can be heard in the 2005 indie flic Love and the Vampire, directed and produced by David Gold and starring Rick Poli. A former Wall Street investment banker, she runs the press with her husband Herbert Fuerst, a retired Hollywood agent. Their first offering, released in October 2006, was the 12-page poetry chapbook Your Infidel Eyes by Brant Lyon, host of NYC's Hydrogen Jukebox Jazzoetry Series. Since then, they have added 18 additional chapbook titles and their first annual anthology, The Bug Book, will be released this fall. Authors include the well-established New York poets Peter Chelnik, Susan Maurer, and Carol Wierzbicki, as well as promising up and comers like Jee Leong Koh, Laura Vookles, Austin Alexis, and Karen Neuberg.

Anselm Berrigan http://www.writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/x/Berrigan-Anselm.php Anselm Berrigan's book of poetry Free Cell will be published by City Lights in the fall of '09. Other books include Zero Star Hotel and Some Notes on My Programming, as well as the slim and recent volume To Hell With Sleep. He is poetry editor for The Brooklyn Rail, teaches at some places, and used to direct The Poetry Project at St. Mark's Church. He has lived much of his life in the East Village, where he was raised and lives currently, and he is in love with poetry come what may.

Lydia Cortes, Straw Gate Books http://www.leafscape.org/strawgatebooks/ Lydia Cortes was raised Puerto Rican in Williamsburg, with Manhattan her longtime home. She has received numerous fellowships and awards for her poetry, fiction, and essays. Works in all these forms have been anthologized. Ten Pell Books published her poetry volume, “Lust for Lust.” Her current book of poems, “Whose Place,” has just come out from Straw Gate Books.

Straw Gate Books is particularly interested in works by women and non-polemical writing with an underlying social content. They also feature new authors and authors whose work is under-served.

Brenda Coultas http://tsky-reviews.blogspot.com/2008/06/brenda-coultas-marvelous-bones-of-time.html Brenda Coultas is the author of The Marvelous Bones of Time and A Handmade Museum (both from Coffee House Press), the latter of which won The Norma Farber Award from The Poetry Society of America, and a Greenwall Fund publishing grant from the Academy of American Poets. Her writing can be found in many publications, including Conjunctions, The Brooklyn Rail, Trickhouse, and The Denver Review. Other books include Early Films (Rodent Press) and A Summer Newsreel (Second Story Press). She received a New York Foundation for the Arts fellow and was a Lower Manhattan Cultural Council artist-in-residence.

Mike County http://www.myspace.com/flatnineboston Mike County is a musician and poet who lives with his wife Tanya his daughter Lucy, and one on the way, in Boston. He’s the author of Three- Deckers, Copper, and, most recently, Another Alley, published by Pressed Wafer. By day he works with adults with developmental disabilities around Boston. At night he plays in Flat 9, a band that sounds like Leonard Cohen had a bastard child with Black Sabbath.

Mina Pam Dick, Futurepoem http://www.drawingcenter.org/viewingprogram/share_portfolio.cfm?pf=1550 http://futurepoem.com/about.html Mina Pam Dick (aka Nico Pam Dick, aka Pam Dick) is a writer, artist, and philosopher living in New York City and the author of Delinquent (Futurepoem books, Fall 2009). She holds an M.F.A. in Painting and an M.A. in Philosophy from the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis; and did her undergraduate work at Yale. Her visual art has been exhibited in Minneapolis, Milwaukee, and New York City; her sculptural book Babel is part of the Walker Art Center’s artists’ books collection. She received a Jacob K. Javits Fellowship in art and was a two-time Bush Artist Fellowship finalist. Her philosophical work has been published in Vienna in connection with the Austrian Wittgenstein- Symposium (Kirshberg-am-Wechsel) and her work has recently appeared in Tantalum and Bomb.

Futurepoem is dedicated to creating a greater public awareness and appreciation of innovative literature. Through their imprint Futurepoem books, they publish innovative poetry, prose, and cross- genre literature by important new and accomplished writers. A unique component of the Futurepoem series is also their communal approach to editorial decision-making. Each year they invite a distinguished guest panel of accomplished writers, artists, and curators to read work submitted as part of an open reading period and select authors for the next publication season.

Recent and forthcoming Futurepoem authors include Ronaldo Wilson, Mina Pam Dick, Shanxing Wang, Marcella Durand, Ara Shirinyan, Jill Magi, and Rachel Levitsky.

Buck Downs http://buckdowns.com/ Buck Downs lives and works in Washington D.C. Edge Books has previously published his collections Ladies Love Outlaws and Marijuana Softdrink. Poems have recently appeared in The Brooklyn Rail, Cannibal, and The Columbia Poetry Review. Buck Downs “has become known as one of the true risk-takers in small press poetry publishing” says the gang at Small Press Distribution. His readings peel paint—a potent collage of admonition and delight, delivered in tight packages.

Jim Dunn http://chax.org/eoagh/issuefour.html Bootstrap Productions published Jim Dunn’s latest book, Soft Launch, last year. His other books of poetry include Convenient Hole (Pressed Wafer) and Insects In Sex (Falling Angels Press). His poems have appeared in Meanie Magazine, Can We Have Our Ball Back?, Shampoo, Poetry Motel, Cafe Review, CARVE, and EOAGH. Born in Philadelphia, he now resides on the North Shore outside of Boston.

Marcella Durand, Belladonna* http://translationworkshop.blogspot.com/ http://www.belladonnaseries.org/ Marcella Durand’s recent books are Traffic & Weather (Futurepoem), AREA (Belladonna), and The Anatomy of Oil (Belladonna). Other books include Western Capital Rhapsodies, City of Ports, and Lapsus Linguae. Her poems and essays have appeared in Conjunctions, The Canary, Denver Quarterly, Chain, The Poker, Verse, NYFA Current, and other journals. She has given talks on the intersections of poetry and ecology at Kelly Writers House, Small Press Traffic, Dactyl Foundation, Stella Adler Studio of Acting, and other venues. Excerpts from her ongoing collaboration with Tina Darragh, based on environmental science, Deep Ecology and Francis Ponge, have appeared in Anomaly, How(2), and Ecopoetics. She was a writer-in-residence at the Lower Manhattan Cultural Council in 2006, and in 2005 organized a reading and panel on the inter-relations between astronomy and poetry as part of the Inspiration of Astronomical Phenomena Conference at the Adler Planetarium in Chicago. She is translating Michèle Métail's Les horizons du sol/Earth's Horizons, a history of the geological formation of Marseille written within a Oulipian formal constraint; a section of her translation appeared last year in The Nation. She lives in the East Village with her husband Richard O'Russa and son Ismael Toussaint Durand O'Russa. She is 2009 Poetry Artist Fellowship recipient of the New York Foundation for the Arts. This reading is co- sponsored by Artists and Audiences Exchange, a NYFA public program.

Belladonna is a reading series and small press that promotes the work of women writers who are adventurous, experimental, politically involved, multi-form, multicultural, multi-gendered, impossible to define, delicious to talk about, unpredictable, and dangerous with language.

Danielle Legros Georges
http://www.lesley.edu/gsass/faculty/georges/georges_index.html Danielle Legros Georges is a writer and author of the collection of poems Maroon (Curbstone Press). Her work has appeared widely in literary journals and other publications. She is an associate professor in the creative arts in learning division of Lesley University.

Gracefully
(see Wednesday)

Wil Hallgren, Stubborn Plant Press http://wilhallgren.com/ Wil Hallgren was born in Niskayuna, raised in the Town of Ballston, and currently lives in Brooklyn (all in New York state). He attended Union College as an undergraduate and earned an M.F.A. from Brooklyn College, where he was also awarded the Bonnie Perlsweig Mintz Memorial Award. He was one of the founding editors of The National Poetry Magazine of the Lower East Side, and has published his work in Big Bridges, Brooklyn Review, Downtown Brooklyn, Erato, The Rockhurst Review, nycpoetry.com, and BigCity Lit.com, among others. In 2007 he published the collection of poetry Broken Film. He also has three chapbooks in print, Heroache, The Panther, and Bumbling King George's Bedtime Book (volume one). He is married to the painter Neddi Heller. In the mid-eighties he started Stubborn Plant Press to accommodate occasional and other works not meant for inclusion in book-length collections.

Andrew Hughes, BookThug
http://puppyflowers.com/11/andy.html
http://www.bookthug.ca/
Andrew Hughes is the author of Sweethearts of the Great Migration (BookThug) and Rural Radio (Scantily Clad Press), a collaboration with the poet Whit Griffin. His work has appeared in Cannibal, Puppyflowers, String of Small Machines, Spell, and others. His first full-length collection is forthcoming from BookThug.

BookThug is an independent literary publisher that operates out of Toronto's west end. Founded by Jay MillAr in the mid '90s, the press was inspired by the idea that "if you build it they will come." Since then poets and writers of all kinds have popped up in the literary landscape through the operations of the press. They and their readers make up what they like to think of as BookThug Nation—people who scour bookstores looking for unexpected literature, who desire to participate in a different kind of readership. Poetry, visual literature, conceptual literature, translation, the lyric, critical texts and fiction—BookThug makes them all available in publications that come in a variety of shapes and sizes and origins, but each one is distinctly BookThug. BookThug is fully aware that their books are not for just anybody. So why not become somebody today? Editio Durus Natio Semper!

Ivy Johnson, Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs
http://yoyolabs.com/
Ivy Johnson is a recent graduate of Eugene Lang College and is living and working in Brooklyn.

Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs publishes poetic works: subtle and intense forms of public exchange and autonomous expressions—dynamic in awareness—luminous in form. Emphasis: diversity and interconnection— social, cultural, environmental, and aesthetic.

Ish Klein http://unionbook.blogspot.com/ Ish Klein's book, Union! came out in April from Canarium Press. Her poems have been published in The Canary, Gare du Nord, The Hat, X- connect, Bridge, and Spork and are also online. She also makes movies and lives in Philadelphia.

Jennifer L. Knox, Bloof Books http://www.jenniferlknox.com/ http://www.bloofbooks.com/ Jennifer L. Knox was born in Lancaster, Calif.—where absolutely anything can be made into a bong. Her poems have appeared in the anthologies The Best American Poetry (1997, 2003, and 2006), Great American Prose Poems: From Poe to Present, Free Radicals: American Poets Before Their First Books, and The Best American Erotic Poems: From 1800 to the Present. She has taught poetry writing at New York University and Hunter College, and is available for children's parties, séances, and tradeshow booth demonstrations.

Bloof Books is a poetry press based in Central New Jersey, publishing perfect-bound paperbacks as well as limited-edition handmade books and chapbooks. Founded in 2007, they have published Jennifer L. Knox, Danielle Pafunda, Sandra Simonds, and Shanna Compton, and have new books from Jennifer L. Knox, Anne Boyer, and Peter Davis in the works for 2009-2010.

Phoebe Kreutz http://www.phoebekreutz.com/ Phoebe Kreutz plays regularly as a performer of her original joke folk. She's released four albums and tours hither and yon. Songwriting credits include Les Freres Corbusier's Dance Dance Revolution and Disney's Johnny and the Sprites, both with Gary Adler, and the rock opera Gilgamesh!. Her band Urban Barnyard is kickass, as is her dance troupe Unterthrust, which has performed at Carnegie Hall, thank you very much.

Rachel Levitsky, Ugly Duckling Presse
http://writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/x/Levitsky.html
http://www.uglyducklingpresse.org Futurepoem books published Rachel Levitsky's first full-length volume, Under the Sun, in 2003. She is the author of five chapbooks of poetry— Dearly (a+bend), Dearly 356, Cartographies of Error (Leroy), The Adventures of Yaya and Grace (PotesPoets), and 2(1x1)Portraits (Baksun). Levitsky writes poetry plays, three of which (one with Camille Roy) have been performed in New York and San Francisco. Her work is published in publications including The Recluse, Sentence, Fence, The Brooklyn Rail, Global City, The Hat, Skanky Possum, Lungfull! and the anthologies The Portable Boog Reader (vol. I & II), Bowery Women, and 19 Lines: A Drawing Center Writing Anthology. Recently her work was translated into Icelandic for the anthology 131.839 Slög Med Bilum by Eiríkur Örn Nordahl. Online poetry and critical essays can be found on such sites as Narrativity, Duration Press, How2, and Web Conjunctions. She has taught poetry workshops at Woodland Pattern, Naropa University, Poets House, the Poetry Project, and The Pratt Institute. She is the founder and co-director of Belladonna*, an event and publication series of feminist avant-garde poetics. She serves as the CPW Fellow in Poetics and Poetic Practice at the University of Pennsylvania.

Ugly Duckling Presse is a nonprofit art and publishing collective producing small to mid-size editions of new poetry, translations, lost works, and artists' books. UDP favors emerging, international, and "forgotten" writers with well-defined formal or conceptual projects that are difficult to place at other presses. Its full-length books, chapbooks, artists' books, broadsides, magazine, and newspaper all contain handmade elements, calling attention to the labor and history of bookmaking.

Norman Lock, Ellipsis Press http://www.normanlock.com/
http://www.ellipsispress.com/ Norman Lock is the author of The King of Sweden (Ravenna Press), Shadowplay (Ellipsis Press), A History of the Imagination (FC2), 'The Book of Supplemental Diagrams' for Marco Knauff's Universe (Ravenna Press), The Long Rowing Unto Morning (Ravenna Press), Two Plays for Radio (Triple Press), and—writing as George Belden—Land of the Snow Men (Calamari Press).

Ellipsis Press was started in 2007 with a mission to publish innovative prose work. They especially like novels that look normal but aren't (more than those that look weird but are actually quite normal); those that are successful at bypassing or evolving the seemingly necessary but often tired elements of character and/or plot; and those that respond in some way to the history of the novel as genre and form.

Jill Magi, 2nd Avenue http://sites.google.com/site/jillmagi/
http://2ndavepoetry.com/ Jill Magi works in text and image and is the author of Threads (Futurepoem), Torchwood (Shearsman), Cadastral Map (Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs), and Poetry Barn Barn! (2nd Avenue). Her writing has been anthologized in Letters to Poets: Conversations on Poetics, Politics, and Community (Saturnalia Books), Fiction from the Brooklyn Rail (Hanging Loose Press), and the forthcoming Eco-language Reader (Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs). Visual work has been exhibited with The Brooklyn Arts Council, The Lower Manhattan Cultural Council, Apex Art, and The International Meeting of Visual Poetry. She teaches at Eugene Lang, City, and Goddard colleges, and runs Sona Books, a chapbook press that is now taking a short sabbatical.

Formed in 2002, Second Avenue is a tiny press interested in diverse, innovative, and interdisciplinary language art practices. A publisher of broadsides, online chapbooks, and an online journal, Second Avenue, edited by Paolo Javier, will be launching its inaugural series of print chapbooks by Jill Magi, R. Zamora Linmark, Peter Quartermain, Jeremy Thompson, and Tim Peterson in the fall/winter of '09.

Douglas Manson, little scratch pad press
http://dougfinmanson.blogspot.com/
Douglas Manson is a poet and publisher. His most recent publication is The Table. He has just this minute moved to Brooklyn with his two cats, his chap-caddy, and a song in his heart of the heart.

The mission of little scratch pad press is to provide new and emerging poets the opportunity to publish a significant, and often their first, collection of writings. The press began years and years ago, but it wasn't a going concern until 2005 with the publication of Aaron Lowinger's Autobiography: Perfect Game. The most recent title from the press is Jonathan Skinner's With Naked Foot.

Geoffrey Olsen, EOAGH: A Journal of the Arts
http://adishtowel.blogspot.com/
http://chax.org/eoagh
Geoffrey Olsen lives in Greenpoint, Brooklyn. He is the author of the chapbook End Notebook (Petrichord Press). New work is forthcoming in EOAGH.

EOAGH, edited by Tim Peterson, is an online and print journal published yearly. They're especially interested in reading as a process, the productive chaos of investigative poetic work, acts of attention that explore the close listening inherent not just in writing but also in being written. These are active, embodied experiences ("Reading is a gymnast's act") that encourage and provoke, responses that engage one's environment by blending lines between media through ekphrasis, phenomenology, and more. Recent critical articles include a feature on Charles Olson: Language as Physical Fact and a panel on Language Poetry & The Body. Themed issues have included In Remembrance of Jackson Mac Low and Queering Language.

Jean-Paul Pecqueur http://sporkpress.com/4_1/Pieces/Pecqueur.htm Alice James Books published Jean-Paul Pecqueur's first book of poetry, The Case Against Happiness. New poems and reviews have recently appeared in The Hat, Rain Taxi, Cranky, and Gulf Coast. He lives in Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, where he teaches writing at the Pratt Institute.

Jesse Schoen
http://www.myspace.com/jesseschoen
Dystopian sci-fi, inept technicians, and the universe's tendency toward chaos inspire Jesse Schoen's songs. He lives in Chelsea.

Christopher Stackhouse, Corollary Press
http://www.readab.com/cstackhouse.html
http://www.corollarypress.blogspot.com Christopher Stackhouse is the author of Slip (Corollary Press), and co- author of Seismosis (1913 Press), a collaboration with writer/ professor John Keene that features Stackhouse's drawings in dialogue with Keene's text. He holds an M.F.A. in Writing/Interdisciplinary Studies from Bard College. His essay "Everyone's Own Color Red," which compares the poetry of Hart Crane and Bob Kaufman, was published in the Spring 2008 issue of American Poet: The Journal of the Academy of American Poets. Through the program "New Voices, New York @ Chashama's ABC Gallery" in New York City, he co-curates with Kelly Kivland and Alisoun Meehan the current group exhibition "Contranym," featuring artists Robert Delford Brown, Victoria Fu, Brian Kim Stefans, John Cage, and Stephanie Loveless. In January he performed with John Keene during the month-long writing and performance festival "When Does It or You Begin? (Memory as Innovation)" at the performance space Links Hall in Chicago. He was also a guest faculty member in Naropa University's 2009 Summer Writing Program at its Jack Kerouac School of Disembodied Poetics in Boulder, Colo. Currently completing a manuscript of poetry, while also doing research for the development of a non-fiction book on poetics, Stackhouse lives and works in Brooklyn.

Corollary Press is a small chapbook series devoted to new work by writers of color. Sueyeun Juliette Lee edits the series and specifically seeks out work that challenges the boundaries of suitably “raced” writing, such as Christopher Stackhouse’s lyric meditations on the line as a graphic element and structure for thought in Slip, or Summi Kaipa’s explorations into identity politics and language in The Language Parable. All books are stab-stitched by hand.

Stacy Szymaszek, Litmus Press
http://poetryproject.org/
http://www.litmuspress.org/
Stacy Szymaszek is the author of Emptied of All Ships (Litmus) as well as many chapbooks, most recently Orizaba: A Voyage With Hart Crane (Faux) and Stacy S: Autoportraits (OMG!). Hyperglossia was just published by Litmus Press. She is the editor of Gam and the artistic director of The Poetry Project at St. Mark’s Church.

Litmus Press is the publishing program of Ether Sea Projects, a 501(c) (3) non-profit literature and arts organization dedicated to supporting innovative, cross-genre writing, with an emphasis on poetry and international works in translation.

We aim to foster local, national, and international dialogue and interaction by presenting original writing from the U.S. alongside translations into English. By supporting translators, poets, and other writers, and by organizing and participating in public events, they hope to illuminate the fundamental common bond between languages and to actualize the potential linguistic, cultural, and political benefits of literary exchange on the international level. We seek to provide continuing and consistently high quality venues for such exchange and discussion to ensure that our poetic communities remain open-minded and vital.

Ryan Walker http://www.bathybius.com/ In spring 2009, Ryan self-published a book of poetry, You Will Own It Permanently. He limited himself to one week to collect, edit, design and release the book. He is working at a more leisurely pace on another edition, due out in Summer/Fall 2009. His work has appeared in Ambit, Anomaly, Submodern Fiction, Phoebe, and in the chapbook Enjoy Potion (The Interrupting Cow). He lives in Washington, D.C. and blogs at the above url.

Dana Ward
(see Friday)

Karen Weiser
http://www.puppyflowers.com/9/weiser.html
Ugly Duckling Presse will release Karen Weiser's first full-length collection, To Light Out, early next year.

Dan Wilcox, A.P.D. http://www.dwlcx.blogspot.com/ [redacted] Poet and photographer Dan Wilcox is the host of the Third Thursday Poetry Night at the Social Justice Center in Albany, N.Y. and is a member of the poetry performance group 3 Guys from Albany. As a photographer, he claims to have the world's largest collection of photos of unknown poets. He has been a featured reader at all the important poetry venues in the Capital District and throughout the Hudson Valley, and is an active member of Veterans for Peace. He also publishes poetry under the imprint, A.P.D. (albany's poetic device, another pleasant day, etc.). His own poems have been published in Out of the Catskills, Post Traumatic Press 2007, Chronogram, Poetica, and in numerous small press journals and anthologies, on the internet, and in self-published chapbooks. You can read his blog at the above link.

A.P.D., under the direction of Wilcox, has been publishing the works of local and regional poets since 1989. Among the works published by A.P.D. are Distant Kinships by Anthony Bernini, Suddenly Sapphires by Dina Pearlman, Three Sides to the Looking Glass by Rachel Zitomer, and, most recently, To the Husband I Have Not Yet Met, by Mary Kathryn Jablonski.

Katie Yates http://homepage.mac.com/kdyates/Personal78.html Katie Yates grew up in French West Africa and lives near New Haven, Conn. with Michael Forstrom (her husband) whom she met in college, Martin and Anna (Michael's children), and her own children little Juliette Claire and the even littler Gabriel Lake. Academic credentials fall under the rubric of poetry mostly with Doctor of Arts, University at Albany, English Studies; M.F.A. Naropa University, Writing and Poetics; and B.A. Carleton College, English Literature. She teaches for CTU Online and is very much taken with virtual works. Most recently she did Morning Stories, a book of poetry and watercolors with Julian Wong. thelemonade (Christopher Funkhouser and Stephen Cope) visited Equinunk, Penn. wherein an incredibly lovely High Watermark Salo(o)n took place (see www.highwatermarksalon.com). Her interests besides writing are meditation and web book building.

*Sunday

Cristiana Baik http://pressgangsters.com/ Cristiana Baik resides in Boston, works as an editorial assistant at The Boston Review, and works with Sara Wintz on the ::: the press gang :::. She's published one chapbook with Blue Hour Press, The Victory of the Strange Heart Beating, and has been published in several journals. She hopes to one day move to a house, so she can buy a Vandercook and print in her spare time.

Shanna Compton http://www.shannacompton.com/ Shanna Compton is the author of For Girls (& Others) (Bloof), Down Spooky (Winnow), GAMERS (Soft Skull), and several chapbooks. Her poems and essays have appeared in such publications as LIT, Tight, Abraham Lincoln, Coconut, Court Green, and No Tell Motel, as well as the anthologies Best American Poetry 2005, Bowery Women, and Poets Bookshelf II, among others. She lives in Central New Jersey.

Corina Copp
(see Friday)

Antonino D'Ambrosio http://www.lalutta.org/ Antonino D'Ambrosio is the author Let Fury Have the Hour: The Punk Politics of Joe Strummer; the film version will be released in 2010 and features original art and animation by Shepard Fairey and original music from a wide range of today's brightest musicians including Antibalas, Saul Williams, Chuck D, and Thievery Corporation. His most recent short film is No Free Lunch, starring comedian Lewis Black. His writing appears in The Progressive, The Believer, and The Nation, among many others. Based in Brooklyn and San Francisco, D'Ambrosio is the founder/executive director of La Lutta NMC, a new media and production nonprofit picked by The Nation as one of the top independent media groups in the country. Honored by New York University as a Gallatin Lecturer—an honor bestowed upon a contemporary artist creating innovative and social engaging work— D'Ambrosio is the artist-in-residence at the Center for Contemporary Arts in Santa Fe, N.M.

Dorit http://www.myspace.com/sweetdorit Dorit is a performing artist who is a proud native New Yorker. Born and raised in the Bronx, she is first generation American in a very multi-culti family. In 2009 she released her first music video honoring her lifelong obsession with Wonder Woman. As a solo singer/ songwriter/musician her influences range from classic Middle Eastern Music to African to Melodic Metal. After a number of years performing solo she is planning to record her original album in the near future. Aside from her solo career, she is starting up a heavy rock band that is in the writing process and is yet to be named. Dorit was the winner of "Bellydancer of the Universe." She is an internationally recognized and respected Middle Eastern dancer and teacher. She is grateful to all her students for helping and supporting her in her music and dance careers.

Mariana Ruiz Firmat http://www.alternet.org/authors/9353 Mariana Ruiz Firmat is a union organizer, writer, and editor. She is an organizer with Local 1000 of CSEA/AFSCME, organizing direct care workers, a predominately Caribbean and African-American workforce. Mariana was the Politics section editor for Clamor Magazine for almost three years. She edited and conceptualized some important Clamor issues, most notably the Body Issue which featured a section of stories attacking the labor policies of American Apparel. Committed to the independent and small press movement, she recently began her foray as a publisher with Three Sad Tigers press. Their first chapbook is forthcoming this fall. Mariana's poetry has been published in various magazines and presses. Open 24 Hours Press published her chapbook Another Strange Island. Most recently she has contributed to Make/ Shift Magazine with her article "Misdiagnosis-a political memoir" about the impacts of environmental justice on women's reproductive health. She has also blogged for BBN News.

Greg Fuchs http://www.gregfuchs.com/ Greg Fuchs is the author of Came Like It Went, Metropolitan Transit, New Orleans Xmas, Rolling Papers, and Temporary. He is a member of Subpress publishing collective. With John Coletti, Fuchs co-edits Open 24 Hours, which publishes poetry in the spirit of the mimeo-revolution of the 1960s. He serves as the president of the board of directors of The Poetry Project.

Eric Gelsinger
http://www.gelsingers.blogspot.com/
Eric Gelsinger is a member of House Press and the editor of the cheap print snappy prose zine The Happy Generations. You can subscribe to the zine at the above url. It's very cheap and very good.

Alan Gilbert http://bostonreview.net/BR34.2/gilbert.php Alan Gilbert is the author of Another Future: Poetry and Art in a Postmodern Twilight. His writings on poetry and art have appeared in a variety of publications, including Artforum, The Believer, and The Village Voice. His poems have appeared in Bomb, Boston Review, and The Nation, among others. He received a 2009 New York Foundation for the Arts Fellowship in Poetry and a 2006 Creative Capital Foundation Award for Innovative Literature.

Hailey Higdon http://www.palinodeproject.blogspot.com/ Hailey Higdon is the author of The Palinode Project, which can be read at the above url. She is originally from Nashville, Tenn. and has lived and worked in many places, including Boston, Madison Wisc., and parts of South Africa. She now lives in Philadelphia, where she teaches pre-kindergarten. Recently she started what to us (press) and released the chapbook The Third Word, by Lewis Freedman this past February.

Paolo Javier http://myspace.com/paolojavier Paolo Javier is the author of LMFAO (OMG!), Goldfish Kisses (Sona Books), 60 lv bo(e)mbs (O Books), and the time at the end of this writing (Ahadada). He is printed matter editor for Boog City and publishes 2ndavepoetry.com. He lives in New York City.

Paul Foster Johnson http://apostrophebooks.org/books-designs/refrains-unworkings/ Paul Foster Johnson's first collection of poetry, Refrains/Unworkings, was published last year by Apostrophe Books. With E. Tracy Grinnell, he is the author of the g-o-n-g press chapbook Quadriga. His poems have appeared in a number of literary journals, including GAM, EOAGH, Pom2, Fence, The Portable Boog Reader 2, Antennae, Bird Dog, and Octopus. From 2003 to 2006, he curated the Experiments and Disorders reading series at Dixon Place. He is an editor at Litmus Press and lives in the Lower East Side.

Erica Kaufman
http://ericajane0808.googlepages.com/
Erica Kaufman is the author of censory impulse (Factory School).

Basil King Basil King attended Black Mountain College as a teenager, and completed apprenticeship as an abstract painter in San Francisco and New York. Although he didn't begin to write until 1986, he may be the only living person who studied writing with Charles Olson, Robert Duncan, and Robert Creeley. Some of his paintings can be seen on the web at Spuyten Duyvil, Light & Dust, and Jacket. Recent books include mirage, 77 Beasts: Basil King's Beastiary, and two excerpts from his on-going Learning to Draw: Twin Towers and In the Field Where Daffodils Grow.

Martha King Martha King was born Martha Winston Davis in Charlottesville, Va. in 1937, attended Black Mountain College as a teenager and married the painter Basil King in 1958. She's lived in New York City since then. Her recent books are Imperfect Fit: Selected Poems and North & South, a collection of short stories. She edited a zine, Giants Play Well in the Drizzle, from 1983 to 1993, curates a prose reading series with Elinor Nauen, at the Telephone Bar, and just guest edited Local Knowledge #4 but the Web site isn't live yet.

Brendan Lorber http://www.lungfull.org/ Rakish adventurer Brendan Lorber spends his days and nights flying small 1970s'-era airplanes, rebuilding a ramshackle Revolutionary War- era Brooklyn farmhouse, and allowing his baby daughter Aurora to redefine the very nature of time and endurance. He is not the real father of several other poet-babies born this past year despite the striking array of traits they appear to have inherited from him, traits like immaturity, impatience, mild colic, and tiny bladders. During his recent stint as editor of The Poetry Project Newsletter Lorber did his best to destroy the newsletter, The Poetry Project, all poetry forever, and you. He ran the Zinc Talk Reading Series for 10 freewheeeling years. He continues to edit LUNGFULL! Magazine, the horribly named journal that prints people's rough drafts in addition to the final versions so you can see the process from beginning to end. Are you still reading this bio? Why? It's not exactly Anna Karenina now is it? Lorber is the author of several chapbooks, among them The Address Book, Dash, Your Secret, and Corvid Aurora. His work has appeared in countless journals and anthologies in several languages around the world. He has lectured and taught workshops on writing and participatory economics throughout the country but always returns to his Brooklyn home slung between an old power plant and a much older 500-acre necropolis.

Justin Marks http://justinanselmarks.blogspot.com/ Justin Marks' first book is A Million in Prizes (New Issues Press). He is also the author of several chapbooks, the most recent being Voir Dire (Rope-a-Dope Press). New work can be found in the Harp & Altar, Raleigh Quarterly, and Tusculum Review. He is the founder and editor of Kitchen Press Chapbooks and lives in New York City with his wife and their infant son and daughter.

Tracey McTague Tracey McTague lives at the geographic apex of Brooklyn on Battle Hill where she curates a reading series of the same name. She is also coeditor and consiglieri of Lungfull! Magazine. She is a writer and visual artist whose work includes a number of chapbooks. A longer book, about urban dog mind, will be published this fall by Overlook Press. Tracey is currently at work on a project called Super Natural. She vandalizes private property on a regular basis.

Ryan Murphy http://www.openlooppress.org/interviews/ryan-murphy/ Ryan Murphy is the author of Down with the Ship from Otis Books/ Seismicity Editions, as well as the chapbooks The Gales, Ocean Park, and On Violet Street. His second book, The Redcoats, is forthcoming from Krupskaya. He has received awards from Chelsea Magazine and The Aldrich Museum of Contemporary Art, as well as a grant from The Fund for Poetry. He is an editor for Four Way Books and teaches at Pratt Institute. He lives in New York City.

Eileen Myles http://www.eileenmyles.com/ Eileen Myles is the author of more than 20 books of poetry and prose, including Chelsea Girls, Cool for You, Sorry, Tree, and Not Me, and is the coeditor of The New Fuck You, an anthology of lesbian writing. Myles was head of the writing program at University of California, San Diego from 2002 to 2007. Most recently, she received a fellowship from the Andy Warhol/Creative Capital Foundation. Myles ran for president in 1992.

Gary Parrish http://farfallapress.blogspot.com/ Former 82nd Airborne Paratrooper, Gary Parrish received his bachelor's degree from Naropa University and his master of fine arts from Long Island University, where he won the school's Ester Hynaman Award for Poetics. Bowery Arts and Sciences awarded Parrish the 2006 Pedro Pietri Memorial Prize. He cocurated the yearlong Bowery Broadside Reading Series at the Bowery Poetry Club, featuring broadsides with original artwork by George Schneeman. The Meek, a long poem, was translated into Italian by Tiziano Fratus and published in the journal Ludwig (Torino Poesia Press). Two chapbooks, Dwarf Stars (Scantly Clad Press) and Cartoon Logic (Erudite Fangs), are forthcoming this year. Parrish is a cofounder and last man standing at Farfalla Press, McMillan, and Parrish, located in Bedford-Stuyvesant, Brooklyn.

Tim Peterson http://www.chax.org/eoagh/ Tim Peterson is a poet, critic, and editor. Peterson is the author of Since I Moved In, which received the Gil Ott Award from Chax Press. Peterson also edits EOAGH: A Journal of the Arts and curates the Tendencies talks series at CUNY Graduate Center. A new chapbook, Violet Speech, is forthcoming from 2nd Avenue Poetry.

Marc Andre Robinson http://www.lmcc.net/art/residencies/workspace/2008/robinson/index.html Marc Andre Robinson works in sculpture, drawing, video, and interactive public projects that revolve around a psychology of belonging: familial, cultural, and historical. Robinson, whose mother is white South African and father is African-American, imbues his eclectic body of work with a strong sense of temporal and cultural flux. Playing with the dialogue between art and artifact, he collects discarded furniture and transforms it into sculptural assemblages with complex and delicately balanced symbology. Robinson's two-dimensional works are often marked by meticulous patterning and repetition, while his public projects have involved creating arenas for members of the community to voice their historical reflections.

Born in Los Angeles, Robinson earned a B.F.A. from The Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and an M.F.A. from The Maryland Institute College of Art. He participated in The Whitney Independent Study Program and was artist-in-residence at The Studio Museum in Harlem, The Lower Manhattan Cultural Council and The Rocktower in Kingston, Jamaica. Robinson has exhibited extensively in the U.S. and abroad at venues including the New Museum of Contemporary Art in NYC; The Contemporary Museum in Baltimore; and The Centre for Contemporary Arts in Glasgow. His work has been featured in Art Forum, Art News, Paris Vogue, The New York Times, and other international publications. Robinson was recently awarded an Art Matters grant to travel to South Africa in 2010, and he has upcoming exhibitions in NYC, Tokyo, Long Island, Baltimore, and Philadelphia. He lives and works in Brooklyn.

Alan Semerdjian http://www.alansemerdjian.com/ NYC musician and poet Alan Semerdjian's work seems to always find its way into the lives of music enthusiasts and creative and interesting people all over the world. With close to a thousand performances and readings, television, film, radio, and CMJ credits, and several studio and live albums over the past 13 years, he may be one of the best singer/songwriters you've never heard of.

Michele Madigan Somerville http://www.michelemadigansomerville.com/ Native New Yorker Michele Madigan Somerville is the author of the book-length poem Wisegal (Ten Pell Books) and Black Irish, her first collection of verse, forthcoming this fall from Plainview Press. Her verse has appeared in Hanging Loose, Mudfish, Pagan Place, Downtown Brooklyn, and Puerto Del Sol.

Her essay “Born Again Catholic in Brooklyn” recently appeared in The New York Times online Happy Days series.

Somerville won an honorable mention in Dublin, Ireland’s Eason Books Poetry Competition in 2003, first place in The W.B. Yeats Society poetry competition in 2000, a MacArthur scholarship for poetry at Brooklyn College in 1987, and The Louise B. Goodman Award for Women- Centered writing at Brooklyn College. She has curated readings at The Old Stone House in Park Slope, Ceol Bar in Cobble Hill, and Cornelia Street Café in Manhattan. She has given many public performances of her work.

Somerville recently completed two collections of verse—Glamourous Life and Stations of Light. She is working on two books of prose, a novel, Sucker Punch and a yet untitled memoir about being Catholic.

Somerville worked for 14 years s a teacher in New York City elementary and high schools, the City University of New York, and at the State University of New York at Purchase. She lives in Brooklyn with her husband and three children.

Joanna Sondheim http://www.harpandaltar.com/interior.php?t=p&i=1&p=23&e=71 Joanna Sondheim’s work has appeared in Unsaid, can we have our ball back, sonaweb, Harp & Altar, The Portable Boog Reader 2, and Bird Dog, among others. Her chapbooks, The Fit and Thaumatrope, were published by Sona Books. She lives in Jackson Heights, Queens.

Christopher Stackhouse
(see Saturday)

Stacy Szymaszek
(see Saturday)

Lewis Warsh http://www.lewiswarsh.org/ Lewis Warsh is the author of numerous books of poetry, fiction, and autobiography, including Inseparable: Poems 1995-2005, The Origin of the World, Touch of the Whip, A Free Man, Avenue of Escape, and Ted's Favorite Skirt. He is the coeditor of The Angel Hair Anthology, editor and publisher of United Artists Books, and director of the M.F.A. program in creative writing at Long Island University in Brooklyn. A new novel, A Place in the Sun, is forthcoming from Spuyten Duyvil this fall.

Dan Wilcox
(see Saturday)

Angela Veronica Wong http://smartstuff.blogspot.com Angela Veronica Wong is the author of two recently published chapbooks, All the Little Red Girls on Flying Guillotine Press, and stars do a peculiar thing:/ heat up before cooling down on Cy Gist Press. Her poetry has also appeared in Denver Quarterly, Court Green, and Barrow Street. She is currently working on a YA novel about a character who is neither popular nor unpopular, but supercute. She enjoys ellipses and small, pink Japanese things.

Sara Wintz http://ceptuetics.blogspot.com/2007/11/sara-wintz-on-ceptuetics.html Sara Wintz is cohort of ::: the press gang ::: and lead singer of the pretty panicks press. Other writings can be found in Shampoo Poetry, Cricket Online Review, mid(rib, EOAGH, Ecopoetics, Interrobang?!, The Poetry Project Newsletter, The Portable Boog Reader 3, Tight, and on Ceptuetics, with Kareem Estefan. She lives and learns in Brooklyn.

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W. 28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)

↑ Index

89. amy king

From prison to poetry....

Fri 14 Aug 2009

WASHINGTON â€” R. Dwayne Betts is having coffee at Busboys and Poets, a coffeehouse/bookstore/neighborhood hangout here in the trendy U Street area. He's talking about his wife, his 20-month-old baby boy, his freshly minted degree from the University of Maryland and his new book,Â A Question of Freedom: A Memoir of Learning, Survival and Coming of Age in Prison(Avery, $23). At 16, Betts was sent to prison for nine years. Now 28, he is living such a radically different life even he is astonished by how far he has traveled. "I still remember my mom crying in the courtroom when I was sentenced," he says. "I didn't want that image to be the only thing I remembered the rest of my life." VIDEO:Â See Betts read some of his poetry Con't -- http://www.usatoday.com/life/books/news/2009-08-12-betts-freedom_N.htm

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

90. Ruth Lepson

Re: walking to Whitman's house with Joey

Fri 14 Aug 2009

Coming to wIlliamstown
Museum now. Thank you

Sent from my iPhone

On Aug 12, 2009, at 5:36 PM, CA Conrad <[redacted]> wrote:

> I dream'd in a dream, I saw a city invincible to the attacks of the > whole of the rest of the earth;
> I dream'd that was the new City of Friends;
> Nothing was greater there than the quality of robust love--it led
> the rest;
> It was seen every hour in the actions of men of that city,
> And in all their looks and words.
>
> (from Leaves of Grass)
>
> Our good friend Joseph Yearous-Algozin is moving to Buffalo on Monday > morning, but today we took a pilgrimage we've been threatening to make > for a long time. Walking across the Benjamin Franklin Bridge to Camden > in the intense heat was exhausting, so we stopped off at the Walt > Whitman Center to hang out on a couch in the air conditioned theater, > and to fill our water bottles with the disgusting tap water in the > bathroom. NOT that I've ever eaten a urinal cake mind you, but I do > believe this water is what it would taste like.
>
> The folks working at the center for some reason had no idea that > Mickle Boulevard, where Whitman's house sits, no longer exists as > Mickle Boulevard. I've walked to this house before over the years and > know that it's right across the street from the prison, which is why I > was confused standing on Dr. Martin Luther King Boulevard CERTAIN that > we were in the right place. Joey asked a couple pushing a stroller who > told us the boulevard was renamed after King. Maybe the WALT WHITMAN > CENTER needs to know this?
>
> The walk through the streets of Camden was a sad walk, sadder than I > ever remember it being. When we arrived at the house it was closed, > but we looked through the mail slot to peer at a portrait of the gray > poet on a wall.
>
> We decided to sit on the front steps in the shade of a tree, where we > were soon joined by men begging for change from anyone who walked > past. 20 cents asked for, then 30 cents. "I dream'd in a dream..."
> There were a dozen plastic beer can rings strewn over the sidewalk in front of the house, and a parade of men with the unmistakable, unsettling glaze of crack-cocaine in their eyes. It's not just in the eyes of course, but in the unsteady gait and a musculature not entirely owned by the men, somewhere, inside the bodies. Few things frighten me more than that jagged, zombie strut.

This was the saddest visit I've ever made to Walt Whitman's house. In the past I've witnessed women and children standing in front of his house to motion their homemade sign language to loved ones at the windows of the prison across the street. It was too hot today for sign language, but we saw women and children leaving the prison after their visits. One boy, no more than six, wiping tears from his face with the backs of his fists, trying to push the tears back inside his head or keep them from coming out, or both, and a young woman -- possibly his sister -- texting on her cell phone several paces ahead of him, seemingly unaware of, or uninterested in his overwhelmed state. That little boy was the saddest sight of all, incredibly depressing, and the kind of sight you see and wonder WHAT CAN BE DONE to help people have their needs met?

When I say this was the saddest visit I've ever made, it felt more like visiting Dante than the body electric celebrations of gentle Walt.

Walt Whitman's dream of a city invincible was either a terribly wrong prediction, or a dream he hoped for his fellow citizens which the future had no intention of honoring. A day among broken, breaking souls for Joey and I, but of course Camden is Camden everyday, and we were just visitors. The boulevard is renamed after Dr. Martin Luther King, the new address for Walt Whitman's house, but changing the name of the street is hardly the answer to anyone's misery.

And I'm not saying I have answers, but I am wondering WHY the city's leadership is spending time and energy and money changing maps, and buying all these shiny new boulevard signs when the bail bonds shops are blossoming in the neighborhood, and building after building is boarded up? And drug addicts continue to be somebody's child, brother, father, uncle, lost in such a way it's hard to imagine how to ever bring them back. Camden, were you even the city Whitman dream'd in his dream? Was he dreaming of another city? But the poem is quoted in granite on the tower of Camden's city hall, and again in the train station.

The city CLAIMS the poem without apology, towering above all heads are these words, and you don't need to squint to read the massive carved letters. You can see it everyday I DREAMED A CITY INVINCIBLE. It's a pox upon all who attempt to thrive here, endless days of misery, which from my gauge is getting ever more miserable with each visit I make.

> I'm feeling despair for our world tonight, and cannot listen to the news with all the ASSHOLE Republicans talking about Americans NOT NEEDING proper health care, not needing care, not what? Not what? Not needing? The need is immense, it's almost too painful to examine just how many needs are not being met while these SCUM bargain down the price while bargaining down the 20/20 vision of the world around us, here, everyday in Camden, and elsewhere.
>
> I'm sleeping with nightmares of Whitman's house tonight, and all his neighbors awaiting "the quality of robust love."
> CAConrad
>
> --
> PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com
>
> THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

91. amy king

A Lovely Poetry Action elsewhere & other news around here upcoming ...

Fri 14 Aug 2009

Lovely poetry action in Warsaw:
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=3VJ03FBhoy0
~~~

New Ben Gibbard Project, "One Fast Move or I'm Gone: Kerouac's Big Sur"

http://www.deathcabforcutie.com/news/367/new_ben_gibbard_project,_one_f
~~~

FOGGED CLARITY

A Manhattan night out - worth it's weight (plus tickets are moving fast):

Five sets of music & two readings:

Â

Samantha Farrell

Strand of Oaks

Karisa Wilson

Amir Darzi

Michael Tyrell

Amy King

Judson Claiborne

Â

Â

Sunday, September 13, 2009 @ 9 pm

Â

The Living Room

154 Ludlow St.

New York, NY 10002

Â

Â

INFO -- http://www.livingroomny.com/artist/fogged-clarity

TICKETS -- http://foggedclarity.com/Â

Â

Â

 Iâ€™ll be reading from my new book, Slaves to do These Things.

~~~~

STAIN OF POETRYÂ Â

Saturday, August 22nd @ 7 p.m.

Â

~ Emily Kendal Frey, Phil Memmer, Jeni â€œtruck darlingâ€
Olin, Zachary Schomburg, JodiAnn Stevenson & Janaka Stucky

Â

Â

Goodbye Blue Monday

1087 Broadway

(corner of Dodworth St)

Brooklyn, NY 11221-3013

[redacted]

Â
~~~~

J M Z trains to Myrtle Ave

or J train to Kosciusko St

Â

Â

Â

Pour some poems on your steamy late August with Emily Kendal Frey, Phil Memmer, Jeni â€œtruck darlingâ€ Olin, Zachary Schomburg, JodiAnn Stevenson & Janaka Stucky!

Â

Emily Kendal Frey lives in Portland, Oregon and teaches at Portland Community College. She is the author of AIRPORT (Blue Hour Press, 2009).

Â

Philip Memmer is the author of three collections of poems: Lucifer: A Hagiography, winner of the 2008 Idaho Prize for Poetry; Threat of Pleasure, winner of the 2008 Adirondack Literary Award for Poetry, and Sweetheart, Baby, Darling. His work has been published in many journals, including Poetry Magazine, Epoch, and Mid-American Review, and has been included in several anthologies, including 180 More: Extraordinary Poems for Every Day and Donâ€™t Leave Hungry: Fifty Years of Southern Poetry Review.

Â

Truck Darling (published as â€œJeni Olinâ€) lives in NYC where she rages in posh isolation with her dog named Good Times. Truck received her BA & MFA from Naropa University. Her first full-length book BLUE COLLAR HOLIDAY was published by Hanging Loose in 2005. Her most recent publication is a chapbook of pharmaceutical sonnets about antidepressants titled THE PILL BOOK from Faux Press, 2008. Her next book called HOLD TIGHT! will be published this April 2010 by Hanging Loose.

Â

Zachary Schomburg is the author of Scary, No Scary (Black Ocean 2009) and The Man Suit (Black Ocean 2007), and the co-editor of Octopus Magazine and Octopus Books. A collaborative chapbook with Emily Kendal Frey called Team Sad will be published by Cinematheque Press in the fall. He lives in Portland, OR.

Â

JodiAnn Stevenson makes her home in Bay City, Michigan where she is an Assistant Professor of writing and poetry at Delta College. She founded Binge Press, to showcase womenâ€™s work, in 2004 and 27 rue de fleures, an online journal of womenâ€™s poetries in 2005. Her first collection of poetry, The Procedure, was published in the fall of 2006 by March Street Press. Her second collection of poetry, We, the Emperors was a finalist in the Gertrude Press Chapbook Award in 2008. An excerpt of her Kamikaze Death Poetry is forthcoming in the â€œfaux historiesâ€ issue of SPECS. Her recent blog project, Ms. Fish, the relentless, can be found at: http://msfishtherelentless.blogspot.com. Some of her visual poetry resides at www.bowlofmilk.com.

Â

Janaka Stucky is practicing the perfection of effort while working on silent relationships with knives, hairpins, & a history of tentacles. Other passions include whiskey and pugilism. He is also the Publisher of Black Ocean and its literary magazine, Handsome. Some of his poems have appeared in Cannibal, Denver Quarterly, Fence, Free Verse, No Tell Motel, North American Review, Redivider and VOLT.

Â

~

Â

Goodbye Blue Monday

1087 Broadway

(corner of Dodworth St)

Brooklyn, NY 11221-3013

[redacted]

Â

J M Z trains to Myrtle Ave

or J train to Kosciusko St

Â

~

Â

Hosted by Amy King and Ana BoÅ¾iÄeviÄ‡

Â

Â

INFO -- http://stainofpoetry.com/

Â

RSVP -- http://www.facebook.com/event.php?eid=108933376886

Â

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

92. amy king
PLEASE POST YOUR POEM FOR SEPTEMBER'S GOODREADS' CONTEST
Fri 14 Aug 2009

PLEASE POST YOUR POEM FOR SEPTEMBER'S GOODREADS' CONTEST
http://www.goodreads.com/topic/show/193301-please-post-your-poem-for-september-s-goodreads-contest

Amy

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

93. Mark Weiss
Re: History of music website
Fri 14 Aug 2009

Unless they like classical music. Its take is more than a little weird.

At 11:05 AM 8/12/2009, you wrote:
>I found a website detailing a history of music genres and styles, with album >reviews going back years. It is the most complete music site I have seen. A >must for all who like music:
>
>http://www.scaruffi.com/usmusic.html
>

↑ Index

94. Paul Nelson
Language as critical to a society's health
Fri 14 Aug 2009

Dear SUNY-Buffaloers,

I am working on a project which is in need of some solid scholarship on this point, among others:

Skillful use of language is critical to a society's health.

Feel free to backchannel me at pen (at) splab (dot) org or let the opinions rip on the list. Looking for something accessible and experiential more than theoretical.

Grazie,

Paul Nelson

Paul E. Nelson

Global Voices Radio
SPLAB!
American Sentences
Organic Poetry
Poetry Postcard Blog

Ilalqo, WA [redacted]

↑ Index

95. Noah Eli Gordon
Call for book submissions
Fri 14 Aug 2009

Last day! See below:

Subito Press of the University of Colorado invites submissions to its annual book competition.

We will publish two books of innovative writing, one each of fiction and poetry.

Submissions will be accepted from June 1 to August 15, 2009 (postmark date).

Submit manuscripts of up to 70 pages of poetry or up to 100 pages of (double spaced) fiction along with a $20 reading fee and an SASE for notification of results.

Manuscripts should include two cover sheets: one with title only, the other with title, author's name, address, e-mail, and phone number.

All submissions will be judged anonymously by the creative writing faculty at the University of Colorado; friends, relatives, and former students of University of Colorado creative writing faculty are not eligible.

http://www.colorado.edu/English/crw/faculty/index.html

Simultaneous submissions are ok; please notify Subito immediately if your ms. is accepted elsewhere.

Winners will give a reading at the University of Colorado in the Spring of 2010.

Notification of winners will occur by January of 2010.

Send mss. to:

Subito Press
Department of English
226 UCB
Boulder, Colorado 80309-0226

http://www.subitopress.org/

Subito Press is a nonprofit literary publisher based in the Creative Writing Department at the University of Colorado at Boulder. We look for innovative fiction and poetry that at once reflects and informs the contemporary human condition, and we promote new literary voices as well as work from previously published writers. Subito Press encourages and supports work that challenges already-accepted literary modes and devices

http://www.colorado.edu/English/crw/

Subito Press 2008 Book Competition Winners

F-Stein, by L.J. Moore
Self-Titled Debut, by Andrew Farkas

Windows Live™: Keep your life in sync.
http://windowslive.com/explore?ocid=PID23384::T:WLMTAGL:ON:WL:en-US:NF_BR_sync:082009

↑ Index

96. Alan Sondheim

My publish-on-demand works (please post, thanks)

Sat 15 Aug 2009

My publish-on-demand works

My publish-on-demand books from Blue Lion, Fort/Da, Blazevox, and Alt-X - Please consider ordering. The Blue Lion is just now coming out (over 500 pages), and The Accidental Artist appeared a few months ago. These books are the soul of my work (such as it is); I'm close to them and I've been lucky that the publishers gave me free reign over content.

Azure, Nature, Digital: Blue Lion

Description - two sections: The first, with Sandy Baldwin, is on the phenomenology of the analog/digital, and the second is culled from the entire Internet Text, presenting literary/codework texts with peripheral philosophical content. I'm really happy that Blue Lion gave me the opportunity to do this, since it shows how my work hangs together and actually 'goes somewhere,' says something. Thanks to Peter Ganick and Jukka-Pekka Kervinen.

http://www.lulu.com/content/paperback-book/azure-nature-digital/7428344 http://stores.lulu.com/bluelionbooks (download and print)

The Accidental Artist: Fort/Da

http://www.lulu.com/content/paperback-book/the-accidental-artist/4965130
http://stores.lulu.com/publicdomaininc

This is a short and intense collection of writings around Second Life and the phenomenology of the virtual - I really love these texts, thanks to Robert Cheatham who went over them with me.

Vel: Blazevox

http://www.blazevox.org/bk-as.htm
http://www.blazevox.org/catalog.htm

These texts were produced in relation to West Virginia University's Virtual Environments Laboratory, and deal with motion capture, virtual modeling, and scanning. But the texts are codework themselves, and virtuality is embedded within them. Thanks to Geoffrey Gatza for this opportunity.

.echo: Alt-X

http://www.altx.com/ebooks/echo.html
(goes both to download and Print On Demand)

This was the first of the POD books, thanks to Ron Sukenick and Mark Amerika. The texts include the entire Nikuko Parable series (Nikuko and others appear throughout the other works as well) and other avatar- oriented texts.

Please consider purchasing any of the above. Please note that all of these publishers have amazing publications (including a great book by Sandy Baldwin from Blazevox) and need your support in general. And thanks of course.

(Finally, please note I have a paperback, The Wayward, available from Salt, which is beautifully typeset and covers a great deal of ground.)

This is the end of the self-promotion material - apologies if I've offended anyone.

- Alan

↑ Index

97. Obododimma Oha
Re: History of music website
Sat 15 Aug 2009

Many thanks for this, Jeffrey. It's going to be one of my favorite sites! -- Obododimma.

On Wed, Aug 12, 2009 at 8:05 AM, Jeffrey Side <[redacted]> wrote:

> I found a website detailing a history of music genres and styles, with album > reviews going back years. It is the most complete music site I have seen. A must for all who like music:
>
> http://www.scaruffi.com/usmusic.html

--
Obododimma Oha
http://udude.wordpress.com/

Dept. of English
University of Ibadan
Nigeria

&

Fellow, Centre for Peace & Conflict Studies
University of Ibadan

Phone: [redacted];
[redacted];
[redacted].

↑ Index

98. { brad brace }
36 PLEATED PLAID PAMPHLETS PUBLISHED!
Sat 15 Aug 2009

{ brad brace }

Pleated Plaid Pamphlets
Volumes 172-207 Number 2
[accompaniment to insatiable abstraction engine]

http://www.bbrace.net/abstraction-engine.html
[redacted]

brad brace, bbrace, architecture, engineering, biography, memoir, illustration, map, creative, writing, drama, opera, puzzles, games, samizdat, artists' books, poetry, fluxus, contemporary, art, design, fiction,musical

ppp172-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-172-no-2/7532422
ppp173-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-173-no-2/7532483
ppp174-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-174-no-2/7532550
ppp175-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-175-no-2/7532588
ppp176-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-176-no-2/7532638
ppp177-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-177-no-2/7532727
ppp178-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-178-no-2/7532758
ppp179-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-179-no-2/7532830
ppp180-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-180-no-2/7532893
ppp181-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-181-no-2/7532935
ppp182=2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-182-no-

2/7532991
ppp183-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-183-no-2/7533050
ppp184-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-184-no-2/7533150
ppp185-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-185-no-2/7533248
ppp186-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-186-no-2/7535626
ppp187-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-187-no-2/7533799
ppp188-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-188-no-2/7533859
ppp189-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-189-no-2/7533894
ppp190-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-190-no-2/7533938
ppp191-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-191-no-2/7533972
ppp192-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-192-no-2/7534004
ppp193-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-193-no-2/7534027
ppp194-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-194-no-2/7534053
ppp195-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-195-no-2/7534094
ppp196-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-196-no-

2/7534133
ppp197-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-197-no-2/7534154
ppp198-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-198-no-2/7534222
ppp199-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-199-no-2/7534250
ppp200-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-200-no-2/7535349
ppp201-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-201-no-2/7535373
ppp202-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-202-no-2/7535410
ppp203-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-203-no-2/7535434
ppp204-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-204-no-2/7535483
ppp205-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-205-no-2/7535532
ppp206-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-206-no-2/7535578
ppp207-2
http://www.lulu.com/content/e-book/pleated-plaid-pamphlet-vol-207-no-2/7535598

↑ Index

99. mIEKAL aND
Book of Trembling
Sat 15 Aug 2009

Book of Trembling

Reordering the House of Alphabets to coincide with accidental assumptions one might tender regarding language production & its aftermath. Serifs signal effective infection of the very strokes of letterdom.

Another is a progression of MOTIONTEXT, this one after Andrew after Nico.

http://filevillage.info/2009/08/07/the-book-of-trembling/

↑ Index

100. Peter

Gallery Night Providence reception - 'The Virtual Landscape: Pigment Prints by Peter Ciccariello'

Sat 15 Aug 2009

On the chance that any of you will be in Providence, RI on August 20th, Please stop by and say hello.

Gallery Night Providence reception
Thursday, August 20 from 5 to 8:30pm.

BankRI Gallery
One Turks Head Place. Providence, RI

August 6 - September 2
'The Virtual Landscape: Pigment Prints by Peter Ciccariello'

Mark Armstrong will play guitar and refreshments will be served.

Best,

-- Peter Ciccariello

http://invisiblenotes.blogspot.com/
http://uncommonvision.blogspot.com/
http://poemsfromprovidence.blogspot.com/
http://uncommon-vision.blogspot.com/
You can find my art and writing updates on Twitter
https://twitter.com/ciccariello

↑ Index

101. Dan Wilcox

Third Thursday Poetry Night, August 20, Georgranna Millman

Sun 16 Aug 2009

---

the Poetry Motel Foundation
presents

Third Thursday Poetry Night

at
the Social Justice Center
33 Central Ave., Albany, NY

Thursday, August 20
7:00 sign up; 7:30 start

Featured Poet: Georganna Millman

Georganna Millman's poetry has been published widely in poetry journals and her poetry chapbook, "Formulary" was published this year by Astounding Beauty Ruffian Press (Stuart, VA).

-- with an open mic for community poets before & after the feature: $3.00 donation, suggested; more if you got it, less if you can't.

Your not-yet-tan host: Dan Wilcox.

↑ Index

102. Andrew Zawacki
VERSE 26: first portfolio number
Sun 16 Aug 2009

—

↑ Index

103. Halvard Johnson
Re: History of music website
Sun 16 Aug 2009

Mostly good for those addicted to lists.

Hal

"What if everything is an illusion and nothing exists?
In that case, I definitely overpaid for my carpet."

--Woody Allen

Halvard Johnson
==========
[redacted]
http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org

On Wed, Aug 12, 2009 at 10:05 AM, Jeffrey Side <[redacted]> wrote:

> I found a website detailing a history of music genres and styles, with album
> reviews going back years. It is the most complete music site I have seen. A must for all who like music:
>
> http://www.scaruffi.com/usmusic.html

↑ Index

104. Loretta Clodfelter
Call for Submissions: There
Sun 16 Aug 2009

There, an online journal focused on poetry/art/essays/activism with a focus on place/location/observation/innovation, is seeking submissions for a new issue. Send work to [redacted]. Visit http://www.therejournal.com for more information.

Also, There is excited to announce its first full-length book of poetry: Planned by Sarah Trott. (Check out http://www.therejournal.com/ordersarahtrottplanned.html for more information.)

P.S. If you've submitted work in the recent past to There and haven't heard anything, please feel free to resubmit or send a reminder.

↑ Index

105. Maria Damon
Re: walking to Whitman's house with Joey
Sun 16 Aug 2009

---

conrad, this is just beautiful, and heartbreaking.

CA Conrad wrote:
> I dream'd in a dream, I saw a city invincible to the attacks of the > whole of the rest of the earth;
> I dream'd that was the new City of Friends;
> Nothing was greater there than the quality of robust love--it led the rest;
> It was seen every hour in the actions of men of that city,
> And in all their looks and words.
>
> (from Leaves of Grass)
>
>

> Our good friend Joseph Yearous-Algozin is moving to Buffalo on Monday > morning, but today we took a pilgrimage we've been threatening to make > for a long time. Walking across the Benjamin Franklin Bridge to Camden > in the intense heat was exhausting, so we stopped off at the Walt > Whitman Center to hang out on a couch in the air conditioned theater, > and to fill our water bottles with the disgusting tap water in the > bathroom. NOT that I've ever eaten a urinal cake mind you, but I do > believe this water is what it would taste like.
>
> The folks working at the center for some reason had no idea that > Mickle Boulevard, where Whitman's house sits, no longer exists as > Mickle Boulevard. I've walked to this house before over the years and > know that it's right across the street from the prison, which is why I > was confused standing on Dr. Martin Luther King Boulevard CERTAIN that > we were in the right place. Joey asked a couple pushing a stroller who > told us the boulevard was renamed after King. Maybe the WALT WHITMAN > CENTER needs to know this?
>
> The walk through the streets of Camden was a sad walk, sadder than I > ever remember it being. When we arrived at the house it was closed, > but we looked through the mail slot to peer at a portrait of the gray > poet on a wall.
>
> We decided to sit on the front steps in the shade of a tree, where we > were soon joined by men begging for change from anyone who walked > past. 20 cents asked for, then 30 cents. "I dream'd in a dream..."
> There were a dozen plastic beer can rings strewn over the sidewalk in > front of the house, and a parade of men with the unmistakable, > unsettling glaze of crack-cocaine in their eyes. It's not just in the > eyes of course, but in the unsteady gait and a musculature not > entirely owned by the men, somewhere, inside the bodies. Few things > frighten me more than that jagged, zombie strut.
>
> This was the saddest visit I've ever made to Walt Whitman's house. In > the past I've witnessed women and children standing in front of his > house to motion their homemade sign language to loved ones at the > windows of the prison across the street. It was too hot today for sign > language, but we saw women and children leaving the prison after their > visits. One boy, no more than six, wiping tears from his face with the > backs of his fists, trying to push the tears back inside his head or > keep them from coming out, or both, and a young woman -- possibly his > sister -- texting on her cell phone several paces ahead of him, > seemingly unaware of, or uninterested in his overwhelmed state. That > little boy was the saddest sight of all, incredibly depressing, and > the kind of sight you see and wonder WHAT CAN BE DONE to help people > have their needs met?

>
> When I say this was the saddest visit I've ever made, it felt more > like visiting Dante than the body electric celebrations of gentle > Walt.
>
> Walt Whitman's dream of a city invincible was either a terribly wrong > prediction, or a dream he hoped for his fellow citizens which the > future had no intention of honoring. A day among broken, breaking > souls for Joey and I, but of course Camden is Camden everyday, and we > were just visitors. The boulevard is renamed after Dr. Martin Luther > King, the new address for Walt Whitman's house, but changing the name > of the street is hardly the answer to anyone's misery.
>
> And I'm not saying I have answers, but I am wondering WHY the city's > leadership is spending time and energy and money changing maps, and > buying all these shiny new boulevard signs when the bail bonds shops > are blossoming in the neighborhood, and building after building is > boarded up? And drug addicts continue to be somebody's child, brother, > father, uncle, lost in such a way it's hard to imagine how to ever > bring them back. Camden, were you even the city Whitman dream'd in his > dream? Was he dreaming of another city? But the poem is quoted in > granite on the tower of Camden's city hall, and again in the train > station.
>
> The city CLAIMS the poem without apology, towering above all heads are > these words, and you don't need to squint to read the massive carved > letters. You can see it everyday I DREAMED A CITY INVINCIBLE. It's a > pox upon all who attempt to thrive here, endless days of misery, which > from my gauge is getting ever more miserable with each visit I make.
> I'm feeling despair for our world tonight, and cannot listen to the > news with all the ASSHOLE Republicans talking about Americans NOT > NEEDING proper health care, not needing care, not what? Not what? Not > needing? The need is immense, it's almost too painful to examine just > how many needs are not being met while these SCUM bargain down the > price while bargaining down the 20/20 vision of the world around us, > here, everyday in Camden, and elsewhere.
>
> I'm sleeping with nightmares of Whitman's house tonight, and all his > neighbors awaiting "the quality of robust love."

> CAConrad
>
>
>

↑ Index

106. Cain, Amina

Poetic Research Bureau reading: Amina Cain and Amar Ravva

Sun 16 Aug 2009

The Poetic Research Bureau presents...
Amina Cain & Amarnath Ravva

Sunday, August 23 2009 at 4:00pm

@ The Poetic Research Bureau
3702 San Fernando Blvd
Glendale, CA 91206

Doors open at 4:00pm
Reading starts at 4:30pm

$5 donation requested

Amina Cain is the author of I Go To Some Hollow (Les Figues Press, 2009), a collection of stories that revolve quietly around human relationality, landscape, and emptiness. She is also a curator, most recently for When Does It or You Begin? (Memory as Innovation), a month long festival of writing, performance, and video, and a teacher of writing/literature. Her work has appeared or is forthcoming in publications such as 3rd Bed, Action Yes, Denver Quarterly, Dewclaw, The Encyclopedia Project, La Petite Zine, Sidebrow, and Wreckage of Reason: An Anthology of Contemporary Xxperimental Prose by Women Writers, and was recently translated into Polish on MINIMALBOOKS. She lives in Los Angeles.

Amarnath Ravva has performed (as part of the ambient improvisational ensemble Ambient Force 3000) at LACMA, Los Angeles; Machine Project, Los Angeles; and Betalevel, Los Angeles. He has exhibited work at Telic, Los Angeles; Acorn Gallery, Los Angeles; Pond, San Francisco; and Keith & Janet Kellogg University Art Gallery, Cal Poly Pomona. In addition to presenting his work in numerous readings, he has writing online at PennSound, LA-Lit and Drunken Boat #10, and work forthcoming in Encyclopedia vol. 2, and Indivisible: An Anthology of Contemporary South Asian American Poetry. He is on the board of advisors for nocturnes (re)view of the literary arts and is a curator at Betalevel.

http://www.poeticresearch.com/

↑ Index

107. Jennifer Karmin

Aug 21: Hudson reading w/ Bernadette Mayer & friends

Sun 16 Aug 2009

FRIDAY, AUGUST 21
7pm

Cara Benson
Lee Ann Brown
Laynie Browne
Jennifer Karmin
Bernadette Mayer

SPOTTY DOG BOOKS & ALE
440 Warren Street
Hudson, New York
http://www.thespottydog.com
free

CARA BENSON edits the online journal Sous Rature(http://www.necessetics.com/sousrature.html). Two poem books, (made) and Protean Parade, are forthcoming from BookThug and Black Radish respectively. Other work includes: "Quantum Chaos and Poems: A Manifest(o)ation" (BookThug), Belladonna Elders Series #7 with Anne Waldman and Jayne Cortez (Belladonna), "UP" (Dusie), and "Spell/ing ( ) Bound" with Kai Fierle-Hedrick and Kathrin Schaeppi (ellectrique press). Benson edited the interdisciplinary book Predictions forthcoming from Chain. She teaches poetry in a NY State Prison.

LEE ANN BROWN is a poet who works with multiple forms including songs and films. Her books include Polyverse (Sun & Moon Press) and The Sleep That Changed Everything (Wesleyan University Press). She divides her time between NYC where shes goes to tons of poetry readings, and teaches at St. John's University, and Marshall, NC where she runs the French Broad Institute (of Time & the River) with Tony & Miranda Torn.

LAYNIE BROWNE is the author of seven collections of poetry and one novel. Her most recent publications include The Scented Fox, (Wave Books 2007, winner of the National Poetry Series), Daily Sonnets (Counterpath Books, 2007) and Drawing of a Swan Before Memory, (University of Georgia Press, 2005, winner of the Contemporary Poetry Series). Two collections are forthcoming: Roseate, Points of Gold, from Dusie Books and The Desires of Letters, from Counterpath. She has taught creative writing at The University of Washington, Bothell, at Mills College in Oakland and at the Poetry Center at the University of Arizona, where she is currently developing a new a poetry-in-the-schools program for K-5 schools.

JENNIFER KARMINâ€™s text-sound epic Aaaaaaaaaaalice will be published by Flim Forum Press in 2009. She curates the Red Rover Series and is a founding member of the public art group Anti Gravity Surprise. Her multidisciplinary projects have been presented at festivals, artist-run spaces, and on city streets across the U.S. and Japan. At home in Chicago, Karmin teaches creative writing to immigrants at Truman College and works as a Poet in Residence for the public schools. New poems are published in the journals Cannot Exist, Otoliths, Plath Profiles, and anthologized in Come Together: Imagine Peace (Bottom Dog Press), Not A Muse (Haven Books), and The City Visible: Chicago Poetry for the New Century (Cracked Slab Books).

BERNADETTE MAYER is a poet and prose writer. In 1967, she received a BA from New School for Social Research. She has since edited the journal 0 TO 9 with Vito Acconci and the United Artists Press with Lewis Warsh, and worked as Director of St. Mark's Poetry Project. She is also known for her wonderful dancing. Her latest collection of writing is titled Poetry State Forest (New Directions).

Do You Yahoo!?
Tired of spam? Yahoo! Mail has the best spam protection around http://mail.yahoo.com

↑ Index

108. Pam Brown
calling a reviewer for jacket magazine
Mon 17 Aug 2009

Dear Poeticists,

If you would like to write a review of Barbara Henning's new novel 'Thirty Miles To Rosebud' (published by BlazeVOX) please contact me at Jacket magazine
[redacted]

Thirty Miles To Rosebud depicts a series of imploding families and fast interstates. Barbara Henning's landscapes-- a rust-belt childhood, a nearly forgotten East Village Bohemia and the arid Southwest streaked with the setting sun—are populated by runaways, lost loves and lifelong betrayals. In this remarkable novel, Henning's eye for detail and her emotional honesty enables the past to loom in the rear-view mirror long after the car has sped by.

Further information :
http://www.blazevox.org/bk-bh.htm

Thanks,
Pam Brown

---

blog : http://thedeletions.blogspot.com
website : http://pambrownbooks.blogspot.com/
associate editor : http://jacketmagazine.com/

↑ Index

109. susan maurer
Re: Ecopoetics Question
Mon 17 Aug 2009

Assume you know of the journals ISLE and Isotope , both of which do ecopoetics. susaan maurer

> Date: Mon, 10 Aug 2009 15:27:00 -0400
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Ecopoetics Question
> To: [redacted]
>
> Hi, Jonathan.
>
> Thanks for the tip on the bookstore in Paris. Unfortunately, I didn't get there -- we were out in the sticks for a wedding in my wife's family (in the northeast). I'll keep it in mind for next year's trip, though.
>
> I have another question for you. I am participating in our Environmental Studies program's Intro to ES course this year, a course that is required of all students new to the program. It is co-taught by faculty from the program, with the goal of introducing students to various approaches to ES from the different disciplines. So, faculty from History, Psychology, Environmental Science, Political Science, and so on, each teach a two week block. I will be doing the "humanities" section, and I basically expect to ground the discussion in the ideas and practices of ecopoetics. You, of course, are far more expert in that than I am, and I was wondering if you had any thoughts/suggestions about how to approach such an opportunity. The students are mostly first or second years who likely have little experience with poetry/lit (the program tends to draw scientists and poli-sci types); I get them for four course meetings of 80minutes/each.
>
> Any ideas you might have would be MUCH appreciated.

> All best,
>
> Robert

_____ Windows Live: Keep your friends up to date with what you do online. http://windowslive.com/Campaign/SocialNetworking?ocid=PID23285::T:WLMTAGL:ON:WL:en-US:SI_SB_online:082009

↑ Index

110. Shankar, Ravi (English)

A call for submissions for an anthology of Flash Fiction stories for teenagers

Mon 17 Aug 2009

Edited by Tom Hazuka, Christine Perkins and Mark Budman

To be published by Persea Books in 2010. The target audience is students grades 8 to 12. Stories cover a broad range of topics of interest to contemporary teens such as growing up, budding sexuality, finding a place in society, etc. The main criteria for the stories are literary/artistic values, teen interests and a length of 1000 words or shorter. Various POVS are acceptable as long as the stories focus on teens.

We are looking for more diverse stories (African American, Asian American, Native American, LGBT, Jewish, Muslim, etc.), and more stories about, or at least featuring, current technology (cell phones, computers, etc.).

Previously published stories are fine, but you must hold the rights.

Please submit electronically an RTF attachment to Mark Budman at editor_AT_stny.rr.com and copy Tom Hazuka at hazukaj_AT_ccsu.edu

****

Ravi Shankar
Ed., http://www.drunkenboat.com
Poet-in-Residence
Associate Professor
CCSU - English Dept.
[redacted]

↑ Index

111. Aryanil Mukherjee
David Rosenmann-Taub
Mon 17 Aug 2009

Anyone in this listserv has heard about Chilean poet & musician David Rosenmann-Taub ?

Any inputs would be greatly appreciated.

I came to hear aboutÂ David Rosenmann-Taub from younger poets Subhro Bandopadhyay (India) and Violeta

Media (Chile) when they met in Kolkata last month. It came to our notice that an independentÂ foundation called fundacion Corda, based in NYC, had taken the responsibility of preserving and promoting the work of his great Chilean poet, perhaps the finest to come along after Neruda & Mistral.

Rosenmann-Taub has lived in the US for the past several decades - a life of exile - so to speak, during which he had producedÂ a significant Â body of work in Spanish but had shown no interest to promote it.Â English translations of his Â poetry is not available in book form.

Recently the Corda Foundation sent me a packet full of Rosenmann-Taub's work which prompted me to write a brief article in the IEPI blog.

http://poeticinvention.blogspot.com/

Aryanil Mukherjee

↑ Index

112. Alan Sondheim
The brutal truth about America's healthcare (fwd)
Mon 17 Aug 2009

These texts should be better distributed; I know they don't apply direc- tly to Poetics, but they do apply to Poets, who are often completely uninsured. We live in a country of slaughter.

- Alan

---------- Forwarded message ----------
Date: Mon, 17 Aug 2009 22:00:57 -0400
From: [redacted]
To: [redacted]
Subject: The brutal truth about America's healthcare

The brutal truth about America's healthcare

An extraordinary report from Guy Adams in Los Angeles at the music arena that has been turned into a makeshift medical centre

Saturday, 15 August 2009 The Independent [UK]
http://www.independent.co.uk/news/world/americas/the-brutal-truth-about-americarsquos-healthcare-1772580.html

They came in their thousands, queuing through the night to secure one of the coveted wristbands offering entry into a strange parallel universe where medical care is a free and basic right and not an expensive luxury. Some of these Americans had walked miles simply to have their blood pressure checked, some had slept in their cars in the hope of getting an eye-test or a mammogram, others had brought their children for immunisations that could end up saving their life.

In the week that Britain's National Health Service was held aloft by Republicans as an "evil and Orwellian" example of everything that is wrong with free healthcare, these extraordinary scenes in Inglewood, California yesterday provided a sobering reminder of exactly why President Barack Obama is trying to reform the US system.

The LA Forum, the arena that once hosted sell-out Madonna concerts, has been transformed - for eight days only - into a vast field hospital. In America, the offer of free healthcare is so rare, that news of the magical medical kingdom spread rapidly and long lines of prospective patients snaked around the venue for the chance of getting everyday treatments that many British people take for granted.

In the first two days, more than 1,500 men, women and children received free treatments worth $503,000 (#304,000). Thirty dentists pulled 471 teeth; 320 people were given standard issue spectacles; 80 had mammograms; dozens more had acupuncture, or saw kidney specialists. By the time the makeshift medical centre leaves town on Tuesday, staff expect to have dispensed $2m worth of treatments to 10,000 patients.

The gritty district of Inglewood lies just a few miles from the palm-lined streets of Beverly Hills and the bright lights of Hollywood, but is a world away. And the residents who had flocked for the free medical care, courtesy of mobile charity Remote Area Medical, bore testament to the human cost of the healthcare mess that President Obama is attempting to fix.

Christine Smith arrived at 3am in the hope of seeing a dentist for the first time since she turned 18. That was almost eight years ago. Her need is obvious and pressing: 17 of her teeth are rotten; some have large visible holes in them. She is living in constant pain and has been unable to eat solid food for several years.

"I had a gastric bypass in 2002, but it went wrong, and stomach acid began rotting my teeth. I've had several jobs since, but none with medical insurance, so I've not been able to see a dentist to get it fixed," she told The Independent. "I've not been able to chew food for as long as I can remember. I've been living on soup, and noodles, and blending meals in a food mixer. I'm in constant pain. Normally, it would cost $5,000 to fix it. So if I have to wait a week to get treated for free, I'll do it. This will change my life."

Along the hall, Liz Cruise was one of scores of people waiting for a free eye exam. She works for a major supermarket chain but can't afford the $200 a month that would be deducted from her salary for insurance. "It's a simple choice: pay my rent, or pay my healthcare. What am I supposed to do?" she asked. "I'm one of the working poor: people who do work but can't afford healthcare and are ineligible for any free healthcare or assistance. I can't remember the last time I saw a doctor."

Although the Americans spend more on medicine than any nation on earth, there are an estimated 50 million with no health insurance at all. Many of those who have jobs can't afford coverage, and even those with standard policies often find it doesn't cover commonplace procedures. California's unemployed - who rely on Medicaid - had their dental care axed last month.

Julie Shay was one of the many, waiting to slide into a dentist's chair where teeth were being drilled in full view of passers-by. For years, she has been crossing over the Mexican border to get her teeth done on the cheap in Tijuana. But recently, the US started requiring citizens returning home from Mexico to produce a passport (previously all you needed was a driver's license), and so that route is now closed. Today she has two abscesses and is in so much pain she can barely sleep. "I don't have a passport, and I can't afford one. So my husband and I slept in the car to make sure we got seen by a dentist. It sounds pathetic, but I really am that desperate."

"You'd think, with the money in this country, that we'd be able to look after people's health properly," she said. "But the truth is that the rich, and the insurance firms, just don't realise what we are going through, or simply don't care. Look around this room and tell me that America's healthcare don't need fixing."

President Obama's healthcare plans had been a central plank of his first-term programme, but his reform package has taken a battering at the hands of Republican opponents in recent weeks. As the Democrats have failed to coalesce around a single, straightforward proposal, their rivals have seized on public hesitancy over "socialised medicine" and now the chance of far-reaching reform is in doubt.

Most damaging of all has been the tide of vociferous right-wing opponents whipping up scepticism at town hall meetings that were supposed to soothe doubts. In Pennsylvania this week, Senator Arlen Specter was greeted by a crowd of 1,000 at a venue designed to accommodate only 250, and of the 30 selected speakers at the event, almost all were hostile.

The packed bleachers in the LA Forum tell a different story. The mobile clinic has been organised by the remarkable Remote Area Medical. The charity usually focuses on the rural poor, although they worked in New Orleans after Hurricane Katrina. Now they are moving into more urban venues, this week's event in Los Angeles is believed to be the largest free healthcare operation in the country.

Doctors, dentists and therapists volunteer their time, and resources to the organisation. To many US medical professionals, it offers a rare opportunity to plug into the public service ethos on which their trade was supposedly founded. "People come here who haven't seen a doctor for years. And we're able to say 'Hey, you have this, you have this, you have this'," said Dr Vincent Anthony, a kidney specialist volunteering five days of his team's time. "It's hard work, but incredibly rewarding. Healthcare needs reform, obviously. There are so many people falling through the cracks, who don't get care. That's why so many are here."

Ironically, given this week's transatlantic spat over the NHS, Remote Area Medical was founded by an Englishman: Stan Brock. The 72-year-old former public schoolboy, Taekwondo black belt, and one-time presenter of Wild Kingdom, one of America's most popular animal TV shows, left the celebrity gravy train in 1985 to, as he puts it, "make people better".

Today, Brock has no money, no income, and no bank account. He spends 365 days a year at the charity events, sleeping on a small rolled-up mat on the floor and living on a diet made up entirely of porridge and fresh fruit. In some quarters, he has been described, without too much exaggeration, as a living saint.

Though anxious not to interfere in the potent healthcare debate, Mr Brock said yesterday that he, and many other professionals, believes the NHS should provide a benchmark for the future of US healthcare.

"Back in 1944, the UK government knew there was a serious problem with lack of healthcare for 49.7 million British citizens, of which I was one, so they said 'Hey Mr Nye Bevan, you're the Minister for Health... go fix it'. And so came the NHS. Well, fast forward now 66 years, and we've got about the same number of people, about 49 million people, here in the US, who don't have access to healthcare."

"I've been very conservative in my outlook for the whole of my life. I've been described as being about 90,000 miles to the right of Attila the Hun. But I think one reaches the reality that something doesn't work... In this country something has to be done. And as a proud member of the US community but a loyal British subject to the core, I would say that if Britain could fix it in 1944, surely we could fix it here in America.

Healthcare compared

Health spending as a share of GDP

US 16%

UK 8.4%

Public spending on healthcare (% of total spending on healthcare)

US 45%

UK 82%

Health spending per head

US $7,290

UK $2,992

Practising physicians (per 1,000 people)

US 2.4

UK 2.5

Nurses (per 1,000 people)

US 10.6

UK 10.0

Acute care hospital beds (per 1,000 people)

US 2.7

UK 2.6

Life expectancy:

US 78

UK 80

Infant mortality (per 1,000 live births)

US 6.7

UK 4.8

Source: WHO/OECD Health Data 2009

Portside aims to provide material of interest to people on the left that will help them to interpret the world and to change it.

Submit via email: [redacted]
Submit via the Web: portside.org/submit
Frequently asked questions: portside.org/faq
Subscribe: portside.org/subscribe
Unsubscribe: portside.org/unsubscribe
Account assistance: portside.org/contact
Search the archives: portside.org/archive

↑ Index

113. Asian Cha

Cha: An Asian Literary Journal Issue #8

Tue 18 Aug 2009

Cha: An Asian Literary Journal Issue #8
http://www.asiancha.com

We are pleased to announce that the eighth issue of Cha: An Asian Literary Journal has now been launched. It features work by the following writers/artists: Steve Ausherman, Nigel Beale, Amy Cheng, Patrick Donnelly, Viki Holmes, Luisa A. Igloria, Lillian Kwok, Franky Lau, Larry Lefkowitz, Eva Leung, Pierre Lien, Belle Ling Hoi Ching, Christopher Luppi, Jonathan Mendelsohn, Stephen D. Miller, Nikesh Murali, Ng Yi-Sheng, O Thiam Chin, Divya Rajan, Prashani Rambukwella, Vaughan Rapatahana, Kate Rogers, Steven Schroeder, Rohith Sundararaman, Gillian Sze, Kok-Meng Tan, Anne Tibbitts, David C.E. Tneh, Lynn van der Velden-Elliott and Les Wicks.

We would like to thank our guest editor Royston Tester for his fantastic help putting the issue together. He has also kindly arranged to launch the new issue in Beijing later this month. If you happen to be in the city, please do attend. More information about this will be posted on the Asian Cha blog: http://www.asiancha.blogspot.com.

We would also like to point out that we are continuing to build our Reviews section under the leadership of our Reviews Editor Eddie Tay. If you have a book you would like reviewed or you would like to review a book, please contact Eddie at [redacted]. You may also wish to follow us on Twitter @asiancha, where we send updates about literary news from Asia and the rest of the world. CHA is still looking for "Lost Teas" to publish. These are previously published works which appeared in journals which have now folded. If you have a piece that is now lost but you would like it to be re-found, please read our submission guidelines and send it along to [redacted].

Finally, our second anniversary issue is due out in November of this year. We are very happy to announce that once again, poet, novelist and historian Reid Mitchell will lend us his expertise in the role of guest poetry editor and Jonathan Mendelsohn will be guest prose editor. The deadline for submissions is October 1st. If you have a piece you think would be right for CHA, please do not hesitate to submit.

We hope that you enjoy the new issue.

Tammy Ho & Jeff Zroback Cha: An Asian Literary Journal
www.asiancha.com

↑ Index

114. Lars Palm
Felino A. Soriano from Ungovernable press
Tue 18 Aug 2009

Dear all,

ungovernable press is delighted to announce the publication of its 25th book

Altered Aesthetics by Felino A. Soriano shall we go for 50? anyway, Felino's ebook is a lovely addition to the ungovernable collection. go read it, as always it's free

cheers,
lars

http://ungovernablepress.weebly.com

http://mischievoice.blogspot.com

↑ Index

115. Patrick Dillon

Re: History of music website

Tue 18 Aug 2009

I think the All Music Guide website is still more complete, no?

www.allmusic.com

On Sun, Aug 16, 2009 at 5:23 PM, Halvard Johnson <[redacted]> wrote:

> Mostly good for those addicted to lists.
>
> Hal
>
> "What if everything is an illusion and nothing exists?
> In that case, I definitely overpaid for my carpet."
>
> --Woody Allen
>
> Halvard Johnson
> ==========
> [redacted]
> http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home
> http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
> http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
> http://www.hamiltonstone.org
>
> On Wed, Aug 12, 2009 at 10:05 AM, Jeffrey Side <[redacted]>
> wrote:
>
> I found a website detailing a history of music genres and styles, with > album
> reviews going back years. It is the most complete music site I have seen.
> A
> must for all who like music:
>
> http://www.scaruffi.com/usmusic.html
>
> guidelines

↑ Index

116. Emily Carr
dandelion magazine!
Tue 18 Aug 2009

after nearly a year's haitus, *dandelion magazine (western canada's oldest literary magazine) is back on-line & looking for "literature & art on the edge" for issues 35.1 & 35.2! past issues have featured work by Sina Queyras, Nicole Brossard, Christine Stewart, Caroline Bergvall, and Erin Mouré alongside emerging Canadian and American writers and visual artists. *visit www.dandelionmag.ca for submission deadlines & information on upcoming features...

Emily Carr
Assistant Editor
*dandelion *magazine

↑ Index

117. Halvard Johnson
Re: History of music website
Tue 18 Aug 2009

Or put this in your smoke and pipe it:

http://www.musicalcriticism.com/

Hal

"What if everything is an illusion and nothing exists?
In that case, I definitely overpaid for my carpet."

--Woody Allen

Halvard Johnson
==========
[redacted]
http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org

On Tue, Aug 18, 2009 at 12:54 PM, Patrick Dillon
<[redacted]>wrote:

> I think the All Music Guide website is still more complete, no?
>
> www.allmusic.com
>
> On Sun, Aug 16, 2009 at 5:23 PM, Halvard Johnson <[redacted]>

wrote:

Mostly good for those addicted to lists.

Hal

"What if everything is an illusion and nothing exists?
In that case, I definitely overpaid for my carpet."

--Woody Allen

Halvard Johnson
==========
[redacted]
http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org

On Wed, Aug 12, 2009 at 10:05 AM, Jeffrey Side <[redacted]>
wrote:

I found a website detailing a history of music genres and styles, with album reviews going back years. It is the most complete music site I have seen.
A
must for all who like music:

http://www.scaruffi.com/usmusic.html

guidelines

guidelines

↑ Index

118. amy king
Poet Does Music, et al
Tue 18 Aug 2009

Friend and poet, Brian Howe, gets airplay on ABC News - he reviews bands for Pitchfork and has become Charles Gibson's darling to be featured! You go, Brian!

http://abcnews.go.com/video/playerIndex?id=8348160
--
Stain of Poetry -- This Saturday @ 7 p.m.!
Pour some poems on your steamy late August with Emily Kendal Frey, Phil Memmer, Jeni â€œtruck darlingâ€ Olin, Zachary Schomburg, JodiAnn Stevenson & Janaka Stucky!

Goodbye Blue Monday
1087 Broadway
(corner of Dodworth St)
Brooklyn, NY 11221-3013
[redacted]

J M Z trains to Myrtle Ave
or J train to Kosciusko St

http://stainofpoetry.com
~~~~~

Sun, Sept. 13th @ 9p.m.

Samantha Farrell
Strand of Oaks
Karisa Wilson
Amir Darzi
Michael Tyrell
Amy King
Judson Claiborne

Three months ago, in an effort to make a large, impersonal stage smaller and more intimate, Fogged Clarity began putting together salon-style events. These events (essentially concerts with poetry readings between sets) feature deeply resonant performers from across the continent, cutting themselves open on stage.

INFO -Â http://www.livingroomny.com/artist/fogged-clarity

TICKETS -Â http://foggedclarity.com/

_____
~~~~~

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

119. Pam Brown
Jacket has a reviewer for Barbara Henning's book
Tue 18 Aug 2009

Thanks everyone,
We have appointed a reviewer for Barbara Henning's new book.

All good wishes,
Pam Brown

--

_____

blog : http://thedeletions.blogspot.com
website : http://pambrownbooks.blogspot.com/
associate editor : http://jacketmagazine.com/

_____

↑ Index

120. mIEKAL aND
Re: History of music website
Tue 18 Aug 2009

If you shop at ubuweb you get a completely other side to the history of music that is rarely covered by by more conventional approaches to the canon.

~mIEKAL

=!=
Data Visualization for the Synaptically Inspired
http://filevillage.info

↑ Index

121. Jason Nelson
Announcing: NetPoetic digital poetry portal
Wed 19 Aug 2009

Announcing a new Electronic Literature/Digital Poetry portal founded by Jason Nelson and Davin Heckman. With over 30 of our best writers, thinkers and artists, NetPoetic is a group conversation, updated near daily with posts, news, theory, artworks and all manner of glorious E-Lit related material. Coming later this year is the first NetPoetic exhibition and a peer reviewed journal. If you want to take part post a few comments and explore the site then contact Jason Nelson.

The URL: http://www.netpoetic.com

↑ Index

122. Jeffrey Side
Re: History of music website
Wed 19 Aug 2009

Is this for classical music only? I did a search for Bob Dylan and nothing came up?

On Tue, 18 Aug 2009 15:21:35 -0500, Halvard Johnson
<[redacted]> wrote:

>Or put this in your smoke and pipe it:
>
>http://www.musicalcriticism.com/
>
>Hal
>
>"What if everything is an illusion and nothing exists?
>In that case, I definitely overpaid for my carpet."
>
>--Woody Allen
>
>Halvard Johnson
>==========
>[redacted]
>http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home
>http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
>http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
>http://www.hamiltonstone.org
>
>
>
>
>
>On Tue, Aug 18, 2009 at 12:54 PM, Patrick Dillon
><[redacted]>wrote:
>
>> I think the All Music Guide website is still more complete, no?

>>
>> www.allmusic.com
>>
>> On Sun, Aug 16, 2009 at 5:23 PM, Halvard Johnson
<[redacted]>
>> wrote:
>>
>> > Mostly good for those addicted to lists.
>> >
>> > Hal
>> >
>> > "What if everything is an illusion and nothing exists?
>> > In that case, I definitely overpaid for my carpet."
>> >
>> > --Woody Allen
>> >
>> > Halvard Johnson
>> > ==========
>> > [redacted]
>> > http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home
>> > http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
>> > http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
>> > http://www.hamiltonstone.org
>> >
>> >
>> >
>> >
>> >
>> > On Wed, Aug 12, 2009 at 10:05 AM, Jeffrey Side
<[redacted]>
>> > wrote:
>> >
>> > > I found a website detailing a history of music genres and styles, with
>> > > album
>> > > reviews going back years. It is the most complete music site I have >> seen.
>> > A
>> > > must for all who like music:
>> > >
>> > > http://www.scaruffi.com/usmusic.html

>> > >
Check
>> > guidelines
>> > >
>> >
>> guidelines
>> >
>>
guidelines
>>
>

↑ Index

123. Jeffrey Side
Re: History of music website
Wed 19 Aug 2009

I looked on All Music too for Dylan but got only links to song samples, nothing else.

On Tue, 18 Aug 2009 12:54:10 -0500, Patrick Dillon
<[redacted]> wrote:

>I think the All Music Guide website is still more complete, no?
>
>www.allmusic.com
>
>On Sun, Aug 16, 2009 at 5:23 PM, Halvard Johnson
<[redacted]> wrote:
>
>> Mostly good for those addicted to lists.
>>
>> Hal
>>
>> "What if everything is an illusion and nothing exists?
>> In that case, I definitely overpaid for my carpet."
>>
>> --Woody Allen
>>
>> Halvard Johnson
>> ==========
>> [redacted]
>> http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home

>> http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
>> http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
>> http://www.hamiltonstone.org
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>
>> On Wed, Aug 12, 2009 at 10:05 AM, Jeffrey Side
<[redacted]>
>> wrote:
>>
>> > I found a website detailing a history of music genres and styles,
with
>> > album
>> > reviews going back years. It is the most complete music site I have seen.
>> A
>> > must for all who like music:
>> >
>> > http://www.scaruffi.com/usmusic.html
>> >
>> guidelines
>> >
>>
guidelines
>>
>

↑ Index

124. Halvard Johnson
Re: History of music website
Wed 19 Aug 2009

Quite right.

Hal

"What if everything is an illusion and nothing exists?
In that case, I definitely overpaid for my carpet."

--Woody Allen

Halvard Johnson
==========

[redacted]
http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org

On Tue, Aug 18, 2009 at 5:21 PM, mIEKAL aND <[redacted]> wrote:

> If you shop at ubuweb you get a completely other side to the history of music that is rarely covered by by more conventional approaches to the canon.
>
> ~mIEKAL
>
> =!=
> Data Visualization for the Synaptically Inspired
> http://filevillage.info

↑ Index

125. Halvard Johnson
Re: History of music website
Wed 19 Aug 2009

Seems so.

Hal

"What if everything is an illusion and nothing exists?
In that case, I definitely overpaid for my carpet."

--Woody Allen

Halvard Johnson
==========
[redacted]
http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org

On Wed, Aug 19, 2009 at 6:49 AM, Jeffrey Side <[redacted]> wrote:

> Is this for classical music only? I did a search for Bob Dylan and nothing came up?

On Tue, 18 Aug 2009 15:21:35 -0500, Halvard Johnson
<[redacted]> wrote:

Or put this in your smoke and pipe it:

http://www.musicalcriticism.com/

Hal

"What if everything is an illusion and nothing exists?
In that case, I definitely overpaid for my carpet."

--Woody Allen

Halvard Johnson
==========
[redacted]
http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org

On Tue, Aug 18, 2009 at 12:54 PM, Patrick Dillon
<[redacted]>wrote:

I think the All Music Guide website is still more complete, no?

www.allmusic.com

On Sun, Aug 16, 2009 at 5:23 PM, Halvard Johnson
<[redacted]>
wrote:

Mostly good for those addicted to lists.

Hal

"What if everything is an illusion and nothing exists?
In that case, I definitely overpaid for my carpet."

--Woody Allen

Halvard Johnson
==========
[redacted]
http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org

On Wed, Aug 12, 2009 at 10:05 AM, Jeffrey Side
<[redacted]>
wrote:

I found a website detailing a history of music genres and styles, with album
reviews going back years. It is the most complete music site I have seen.
A
must for all who like music:

http://www.scaruffi.com/usmusic.html

Check
guidelines

guidelines

guidelines

↑ Index

126. Patrick Dillon
Re: History of music website
Wed 19 Aug 2009

Here is a link to the allmusic entry on Dylan:
http://www.allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifrxqe5ldhe

I'm not sure where you ended up on your search for Dylan. Personally, I prefer to navigate the AllMusic site through Google, as I do with many other sites. If I'm going to do a search for Bob Dylan, I don't go to allmusic and then search for "Bob Dylan." I do a Google search for "Bob Dylan allmusic." And that will take me right to the profile.'

Make sure to take note of the tabs, especially discography. There are full reviews of most albums and, for Dylan, most songs.

I do this particularly with AllMusic because I find that it has slow load times.

Here is the text from the Dylan AllMusic Page just cut and pasted into this email: Good bye!

Biographyby Stephen Thomas Erlewine

Bob Dylan's influence on popular music is incalculable. As a songwriter, he pioneered several different schools of pop songwriting, from confessional singer/songwriter to winding, hallucinatory, stream of conscious narratives. As a vocalist, he broke down the notion that a singer must have a conventionally good voice in order to perform, thereby redefining the vocalist's role in popular music. As a musician, he sparked several genres of pop music, including electrified folk-rock and country-rock. And that just touches on the tip of his achievements. Dylan's force was evident during his height of popularity in the '60s -- the Beatles<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:hifrxqw5ldse>' shift toward introspective songwriting in the mid-'60s never would have happened without him -- but his influence echoed throughout several ... Read More... <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifrxqe5ldhe%7ET1> ---------- <http://adserver.adtechus.com/adlink/5132/860406/0/170/AdId=389116;BnId=3;itime=705830452;nodecode=yes;link=http://www.eyewonderlabs.com/ct.cfm?ewbust=0&file=http://cdn.eyewonder.com/100125/756848/1104531/NOSCRIPTfailover.jpg&eid=1104531&name=Clickthru-NOSCRIPT&num=1&time=0&diff=0&click=http://www.floridasnatural.com/fun-stuff/where-does-your-juice-come-from> <http://adserver.adtechus.com/adlink/3.0/5132/860406/0/170/ADTECH;loc=300;misc=[TIMESTAMP];rdclick=> [image: The Freewheelin' Bob Dylan]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=10:difqxqt5ld0e> [image: Nashville Skyline]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?

p=amg&sql=10:gifwxqt5ld0e> [image: Dylan [2007 3-CD Edition]]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=10:wifuxzyhldae> [image: Highway 61 Revisited]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=10:jifqxqt5ld0e> [image: Biograph] <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=10:kifrxqt5ld0e> [image: Blood on the Tracks]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=10:fifexqt5ld0e> [image: Listen Now!]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=50:difqxqt5ld0e%7ER> [image: Listen Now!]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=50:gifwxqt5ld0e%7ER> [image: Listen Now!]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=50:wifuxzyhldae%7ER> [image: Listen Now!]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=50:jifqxqt5ld0e%7ER> [image: Listen Now!]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=50:kifrxqt5ld0e%7ER> [image: Listen Now!]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=50:fifexqt5ld0e%7ER> ---------- Other Entries

- Movie Entry <http://www.allmovie.com/artist/88557>
- Classical Music Entry<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=41:65657>

Member Of

- The Traveling Wilburys<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifixqr5ldse>

Similar Artists

- Van Morrison <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jifuxqygldhe> - Neil Young <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:kifoxqr5ldfe> - John Prine <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jifixqr5ldhe> - Joni Mitchell<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3ifexqe5ldte> - John Hiatt <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:difixqe5ld0e> - George Harrison<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:hifrxqe5ld0e> - Grateful Dead<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifoxqe5ldke> - Fairport Convention<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:fifwxqe5ldje> - The Byrds <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3ifqxqw5ldfe> - Phil Ochs <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:kifoxqq5ld6e> - Donovan <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifqxqe5ldhe> - Ian Hunter <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:aifwxqe5ldae> - Buffalo Springfield<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jifoxqw5ldde> - Tim Hardin <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:aifoxql5ldte> - Buffy Sainte-Marie<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?

p=amg&sql=11:hifwxqq5ldhe> - Leonard Cohen<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:aifrxql5ldte> - A.A. Bondy <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:gpfyxqwrld6e> - Fred Neil <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:aifixqq5ld6e> - The Sir Douglas Quintet<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:difrxqr5ld0e> - David Blue <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:hifwxql5ldte> - Jesse Winchester<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifrxqr5ldfe>

See Also

- Levon Helm <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3nfuxqr5ldde> - Robbie Robertson<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifixqr5ldje> - The Band <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:hifwxqw5ldse> - Joan Baez <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifqxql5ldte> - Tom Wilson <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3zfexqugldte> - Brian Blade <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:kcfpxqy5ldhe> - The Traveling Wilburys<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifixqr5ldse> - Ronee Blakley<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:dzftxq95ldje> - Johnny Cash <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:aifrxql5ldae> - Jakob Dylan <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:fbfyxqq5ldte> - Bob Dylan & the Rolling Thunder Revue<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jjfyxqtgldhe> - Blind Boy Grunt<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0xfoxqykldhe>

Influenced By

- Rev. Gary Davis<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3vfixq85ld6e> - Dave Van Ronk<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:kzfixqw5ldae> - Elvis Presley<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jifuxqr5ldhe> - Little Richard<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jifyxqe5ldde> - Woody Guthrie<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jifoxql5ldte> - Hank Williams<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:dzfexqugldje> - Blind Lemon Jefferson<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3ifoxq95ldke> - Leadbelly <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jifqxq95ld0e>

Followers

- Died Pretty <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:difoxqe5ld6e> - Dan Fogelberg<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifixqe5ldje> - John Lennon <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:hifrxqe5ldde> - The Long Ryders<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:hifixqe5ldde> - Leon Russell

<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifwxqr5ldke> - Uncle Tupelo <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifwxqr5ldde> - World Party <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:difuxqr5ldfe> - J.P. Jones <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:fjfwxql5ldae> - Eddie Vedder <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0zfqxqegld0e> - Birddog <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0jfuxqehldke> - The Slip <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:fpfyxqrkld6e> - Will Hoppey <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:kpfwxqrkldde> - Arlo Leach <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:anfuxqqkldfe> - Matthew Friedberger<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:aifixqlald6e> - Coque Malla <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:abfyxqraldke> - The Childballads<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jcfqxqydldhe> - These United States<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3vfuxqydldte> - Scott Matthews<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jbfwxqqrldae> - Sleepy Sun <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:fzfwxztgldje>

Performed Songs By

- Traditional <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:wzftxqekldte> - Jacques Levy <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:gjfwxqu5ldhe> - Robert Hunter<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:09frxqw5ldje> - Woody Guthrie<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jifoxql5ldte> - Rev. Gary Davis<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3vfixq85ld6e> - Booker T. Washington White<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:fjfyxqegld6e> - Robbie Robertson<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifixqr5ldje> - Johnny Cash <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:aifrxql5ldae> - Henry Thomas <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3iftxq95ldae> - Richard Manuel<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:wifixqlgldae> - Arthur "Big Boy" Crudup<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jvfqxqy5ldse> - Hank Williams<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:dzfexqugldje> - Sam Shepard <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:dpfoxqegld0e> - Terry Holmes <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:hnfuxqy5ldae> - Rick Danko <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:g9fexqt5ldfe> - Curtis Mayfield<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:difyxqe5ldfe> - Jimmie Rodgers<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jifoxql5ldde> - Blind Lemon Jefferson<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3ifoxq95ldke> - Frank Warner <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:wzfexqtjld0e>

↑ Index

127. mIEKAL aND
The Longest Poem in the World
Wed 19 Aug 2009

The Longest Poem in the World
http://www.longestpoemintheworld.com/

↑ Index

128. Camille Martin
new on Rogue Embryo's blog
Thu 20 Aug 2009

New on Rogue Embryo:

Anamorphosis (Creeley/Clemente): Death and the Stuff of Dreams

black asterisk

Zydeco Gallery Three

Square Foot Show, Toronto

The Sword’s Brayer

http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

Cheers!

Camille Martin
http://www.camillemartin.ca
http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

_____

↑ Index

129. Nicholas Karavatos
JOB - Head of Dept of English at American University of Sharjah, UAE
Thu 20 Aug 2009

Department Head for the Department of English
http://www.aus.edu/employment/faculty_cas.php#a3

The College of Arts and Sciences seeks candidates for a Head of the Department (HOD) opening in the Department of English for Spring 2010.The candidate should currently be an associate professor or professor, have a strong history of scholarly publication, and have at least three years of administrative experience, preferably as a department head. The candidate should have experience in dealing with people from diverse cultural and educational backgrounds. The candidate should have the background and experience necessary to work with the faculty in recruiting majors and strengthening its curricula. North American teaching experience and a familiarity with the Middle East would be helpful.

The Department of English consists of eighteen full time faculty, twelve in language, five in literature, and one in creative writing. The Department of English offers a Bachelor of Arts in English Language and Literature (BAELL), a Master of Arts Degree in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (MA TESOL) and concentrations and minors in language, literature, and education. The department also offers ESP courses for engineering and business students. More information can be found at: http://www.aus.edu/cas/english/

The HOD receives a three- year administrative contract, renewable at three year increments. However, UAE law prohibits people over 65 from receiving multiple year contracts. Contracts for people over 65 are renewed on a yearly basis. HODs are expected to teach one course per semester, and are responsible for budget development and implementation, department planning, faculty and staff development, personnel evaluations, and curriculum development and facilitation. A full description of HOD duties may be found here:

Representative Duties and Responsibilities (please click here)

The American University of Sharjah (AUS) is a non-profit, coeducational institution of higher education formed on American models. The university is licensed in the United Arab Emirates and incorporated in the state of Delaware in the United States. It is accredited by the Commission on Higher Education of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and by the Ministry of Higher Education in the UAE. All instruction (except languages) is in English, and English is widely spoken throughout the United Arab Emirates.

AUS is located 10 miles from the center of Sharjah City and 15 miles from the city of Dubai. The Emirate of Sharjah is situated between the shores of the Arabian Gulf and the Gulf of Oman and has beautiful beaches and lovely varied countryside. The architecturally distinctive campus, located on 316 acres, includes nine academic buildings; administration, library and athletic structures; and accommodations for faculty, staff and students. Academic buildings are equipped with state-of-the art science, engineering and language laboratories, digital studios and computer facilities. Currently, AUS has approximately 5,225 students, 351 full-time faculty and over 400 full-time staff.

Send letters of application, C.V, a two-page statement of the applicant’s vision for strengthening the Department of English, and names of three references to

Dean William H Heidcamp, College of Arts and Sciences, American University of Sharjah via [redacted]. Application review begins September 1, 2009 and will continue until the position is filled. top

Nicholas Karavatos
Dept of English
American University of Sharjah
PO Box 26666
Sharjah
United Arab Emirates

Get back to school stuff for them and cashback for you.
http://www.bing.com/cashback?form=MSHYCB&publ=WLHMTAG&crea=TEXT_MSHYCB_BackToSchool_Cashback_BTSCashback_1x1

↑ Index

130. Nicholas Karavatos

JOB - Head of Dept of Mass Communication at American University of Sharjah, UAE

Thu 20 Aug 2009

Department Head for the Department of Mass Communication
http://www.aus.edu/employment/faculty_cas.php#a4

Desirable Knowledge and Abilities

Knowledge of: principles, practices and trends related to higher education and its administration; facilities development; guidelines and statutes governing educational development and services; student learning and assessment best practices.

In addition to a terminal degree in a media-related field, the Department of Mass Communication expects prospective candidates to provide evidence of:

Extensive professional media experience,
Familiarity with methodology-based faculty evaluation, Extensive administrative experience in a mass communication context, and Evidence of exceptional research ability with significant publications/productions.

Position Summary

The department head is the academic and administrative officer of the department and reports to the college/school dean. The department head is responsible for overseeing the activities of the department to ensure accomplishing the university, academic affairs, college/school, and departmental missions.

Scope

The department head is responsible for the currency, quality, and effectiveness of academic programs; the hiring, retention, and evaluation of faculty; and the efficient and effective use of personnel, fiscal, and physical resources of the department. The department head oversees the operations at the departmental level, and works closely with faculty, administrators, staff, and students. The department head provides leadership for the development of programs and curricula changes, and provides guidance to faculty for improving academic excellence and promotes the use of innovative teaching methods and scholarly/creative activities.

The department head maintains collaborative relationships with a variety of individuals and entities, including: the dean and associate dean, fellow AUS department heads, faculty, students and staff; emirate and national government departments involved with higher education; representatives of local, regional and international agencies, organizations, colleges, and universities. A full description of HOD duties may be found here:

Representative Duties and Responsibilities (please click here)

Send letters of application, C.V, a two-page statement of the applicant's vision for strengthening the Department of Mass Communication, and names of three references to Dean William H Heidcamp, College of Arts and Sciences, American University of Sharjah via [redacted]. Application review begins September 1, 2009 and will continue until the position is filled.

Nicholas Karavatos
Dept of Language & Literature
American University of Sharjah
PO Box 26666
Sharjah
United Arab Emirates

Hotmail® is up to 70% faster. Now good news travels really fast.
http://windowslive.com/online/hotmail?ocid=PID23391::T:WLMTAGL:ON:WL:en-US:WM_HYGN_faster:082009

↑ Index

131. Wanda Phipps
New Review of my book in Big Bridge
Thu 20 Aug 2009

Hey:

Check out Svitlana Matviyenko's excellent review of my book Field of Wanting: Poems of Desire in the online journal Big Bridge:

http://www.bigbridge.org/BB14/REV-PHIP.HTM

Best,Wanda

--
Wanda Phipps

Check out my websites: http://www.mindhoney.com and http://www.myspace.com/wandaphippsband

My latest book of poetry Field of Wanting: Poems of Desire available at: http://www.blazevox.org/bk-wp.htm

And my 1st full-length book of poems Wake-Up Calls: 66 Morning Poems available at:http://www.amazon.com/exec/obidos/ASIN/193236031X/ref=rm_item

↑ Index

132. Andrew Zawacki
VERSE 26: first portfolio number
Thu 20 Aug 2009

Now available:

VERSE

Volume 26

This first number of the journal in its new, annual format features portfolios of work-- poems, translations, essays, interviews, fiction, photographs, editorial projects, daybooks, drafts, etc.-- of up to 30 pages each by the following writers:

Anselm Berrigan
Garrett Caples
Lidija Dimkovska
Rachel Blau DuPlessis
Landis Everson
Kathleen Fraser
Pierre Joris
Philip Lamantia

Gérard Macé
Nathaniel Mackey
Bernadette Mayer
Jennifer Moxley
Ron Padgett
Michael Palmer
Susan Stewart
Catherine Wagner

Copies are $15. Please send checks, payable to "Verse," to Andrew Zawacki, Department of English, University of Georgia, Athens, GA 30602.

Edited by Brian Henry and Andrew Zawacki

www.versemag.blogspot.com

Andrew Zawacki
Department of English/ VERSE
University of Georgia
Athens, Georgia 30602

↑ Index

133. David A. Kirschenbaum
Small Press Needed for Nov. 24 in Boog NYC Series
Thu 20 Aug 2009

Greetings,

I'm looking for a small press Boog City's never hosted before for our "d.a. levy lives: celebrating the renegade press" series here in nyc to fill our final open slot for season seven (2009-2010). The event will be held on Tues. Nov. 24, 2009 at 6:00 p.m. (FYI, this is two days before Thanksgiving.)

Below this note is our invite letter, which spells everything out.

Please backchannel any inquiries or suggestions, be they for your own or other presses.

Thanks,
David

[redacted]
212-842-BOOG (2664)

Hi,

David Kirschenbaum here. I'm the editor and publisher of Boog City, a New York City-based small press and community newspaper now in its 19th year. I'd like to invite you to take part in season seven of our "d.a. levy lives: celebrating the renegade press" series.

The series is held at Chelsea's ACA Galleries (http:// acagalleries.com/), which is owned by the son-in-law and daughter of the poet Simon Perchik. It's a nice space, and we fit 100 people, including a nine-piece jazz flash orchestra, in it for Chax Press's event, with plenty of room to spare. The gallery provides wine and other beverages, and cheese and crackers and hummus and chips.

Once a month I have a different non-NYC press host and feature three or more of their authors to read (we've had as many as 10 for one press and usually have 3-6) for 60 minutes total. We also have a musical act perform two 15-20 minute sets. If the visiting press is able to book the musical act that's preferred, so it's truly their night, if not I can book one that I think will work well with the night. (Also, once a year we play host to our NYC brethren.)

As of this writing, Season 7, our 2009-2010 season will feature:

Alice James Books
Cannibal Books
Eleven Eleven
Forklift, Ohio
Interbirth Books
Lana Turner: A Journal of Poetry and Opinion
Peaches and Bats
Rope-A-Dope Collaborative
Wave Books

The series is held on the last Tuesday of each month at 6:00 p.m. If you're game to partake, please let me know, in order, your top three date preferences. The following date is available:

2009

Tues. Nov. 24

We started the series in August 2003. In our first six seasons we've hosted (or are about to host):

(locations are at the time of the event)

Non-NYC levy lives presses, 2003 to present a+bend press (Davis, Calif.), Jill Stengel, ed.

above/ground press (Ottawa, Canada), Rob McLennan, ed.
Aerial Magazine/Edge Books (Washington, D.C.), Rod Smith, ed.
Ahadada Books (Burlington, Canada), Jesse Glass and Daniel Sendecki,

eds.
Ahsahta Press (Boise, Idaho), Janet Holmes, ed.
Ambit/Furniture Press (Baltimore), Christophe Casamassima, ed.
Anchorite Editions (Albany, N.Y.), Chris Rizzo, ed.
Antennae (Chicago and Berlin), Jesse Seldess, ed.
Atelos Publishing Project (Berkeley, Calif.), Lyn Hejinian and Travis Ortiz, eds.
Atticus Finch Chapbooks (Seattle), Michael Cross, ed.
Big Game Books (Washington, D.C.), Maureen Thorson, ed.
Bird Dog (Seattle), Sarah Mangold, ed.
BlazeVOX Books (Kenmore, N.Y.), Geoffrey Gatza, ed.
BookThug (Toronto, Canada), Jay Millar, ed.
Braincase Press (Northampton, Mass.), Noah Eli Gordon, ed.
Burning Deck Press (Providence, R.I.), 45th anniversary party, Rosmarie and Keith Waldrop, eds.
The Canary (Kemah, Texas), Joshua Edwards, Anthony Robinson, and Nick Twemlow, eds.
Carve (Cambridge, Mass.), Aaron Tieger, ed.
Chax Press (Tucson, Ariz.), 20th anniversary party, Charles Alexander, ed.
Combo (Providence, R.I.), Michael Magee, ed.
Conundrum (Chicago), Kerri Sonnenberg, ed.
Corollary Press (Philadelphia), Juliette Lee, ed.
Critical Documents/Plantarchy (Oxford, Ohio), Justin Katko, ed.
Cy Press (Cincinnati), Dana Ward, ed.
Dos Press (Maxwell, Texas), C.J. Martin and Julia Drescher, eds.
Ducky (Philadelphia), Scott Edward Anderson, Dennis DiClaudio, Tom Hartman, and Jason Toogood, eds.
Duration Press (San Rafael, Calif.), Jerrold Shiroma, ed.
Dusie Press (Switzerland), Susana Gardner, ed.
Ecopoetics (Lewiston, Maine), Jonathan Skinner, ed.
Effing Press (Austin, Texas), Scott Pierce, ed.
Fewer & Further Press (Wendell, Mass.), Jess Mynes, ed.
Firewheel Editions/Sentence, a magazine (Danbury, Conn.), Brian Clements, ed.
Habenicht Press (San Francisco), David Hadbawnik, ed.
House Press (Chicago, Buffalo, New York City), Eric Gelsinger, founder.
Instance Press (Boulder, Colo.; New York City; Oakland, Calif.), Stacy Szymaszek, co-ed.
Ixnay Press (Philadelphia), Chris and Jenn McCreary, eds.
Katalanché Press (Cambridge, Mass.), Michael Carr and Dorothea Lasky,

eds.
Kelsey Street Press (Berkeley, Calif.), 30th anniversary party, Patricia Dienstfrey and Rena Rosenwasser, eds.
Kenning Editions (Berkeley, Calif.), Patrick Durgin, ed.
Meritage Press (San Francisco/St. Helena, Calif.), Eileen Tabios, ed.
Minor/American (Durham, N.C.), Elise Ficarra and Kathryn Pringle, eds.
Mooncalf Press (Philadelphia), CAConrad, ed.
Narrow House Recordings (Gwyn Oak, Md.), Justin Sirois, ed.
New American Writing (Mill Valley, Calif.),
Maxine Chernoff and Paul Hoover, eds.,
O Books (Oakland, Calif.), Leslie Scalapino, ed.
One Less Magazine (Williamsburg, Mass.),
Nikki Widner and David Gardner, eds.
Outside Voices (Brooklyn, N.Y.), Jessica Smith, ed.
The Owl Press (Woodacre, Calif.), Albert Flynn DeSilver, ed.
Palm Press (Long Beach, Calif.), Jane Sprague, ed.
Paper Kite Press (Kingston, Penn.),
Jennifer Hill-Kaucher and Dan Waber, eds.
Pavement Saw Press (Columbus, Ohio), David Baratier, ed.
The Poker (Cambridge, Mass.), Dan Bouchard, ed.
Punch Press/damn the caesars (Buffalo, N.Y.), Richard Owens, ed.
Skanky Possum (Austin, Texas), Hoa Nguyen and Dale Smith, eds.
Subpress collective, Greg Fuchs, co-ed.
Talisman House Press (Jersey City, N.J.), Edward Foster, ed.
Talonbooks (Vancouver, Canada).
The Tangent (Walla Walla, Wash.), Kaia Sand and Jules Boykoff, eds.
3rd Bed (Lincoln, R.I.), Vincent Standley, ed.
Tougher Disguises (Oakland, Calif.), James Meetze, ed.
Tripwire (San Francisco), David Buuck, ed.
The Wandering Hermit Review (Buffalo, N.Y.), Steve Potter, ed.

NYC levy lives presses, 2003 to present

A Rest Press, Ryan Murphy and Patrick Masterson, eds.
Beet/Pink Pages, Joe Maynard, ed.
Belladonna Books, Erica Kaufman and Rachel Levitsky, eds.
Cuneiform Press, Kyle Schlesinger, ed.
Cy Gist Press, Mark Lamoureux, ed.
Detour Press, Gary Sullivan, ed.
Explosive magazine/Spectacular Books, Katy Lederer, ed.
Farfalla Press, Gary Parrish, ed.
Fence, Charles Valle, co-ed, and Max Winter, poetry ed.
Fungo Monographs, Ryan Murphy ed.

Futurepoem books, Dan Machlin, ed.
Granary Press, Steve Clay, ed.
Hanging Loose Press, Bob Hershon, ed.
The Hat, Jordan Davis, co-ed.
Kitchen Press, editor Justin Marks, ed.
Litmus Press/Aufgabe, E. Tracy Grinnell, ed.
Lungfull, Brendan Lorber, ed.
Open 24 Hours, John Coletti and Greg Fuchs, ed.
Pompom, Allison Cobb, Jennifer Coleman, Ethan Fugate, and Susan Landers, eds.
Portable Press at YoYo Labs, Brenda Iijima, ed.
Sona Books, Jill Magi, ed.
Stay Free! magazine, Carrie McLaren, ed.
Tender Buttons, Lee Ann Brown, ed.
:::the press gang:::, cristiana baik and sara wintz, eds.
Ugly Duckling Presse, Anna Moschovakis and Matvei Yankelevich, collective members.
United Artists, Lewis Warsh, ed.
Urban Folk zine, Dave Cuomo, ed.
X-ing Books, Amy Mees and Mark Wagner, eds.

Hope this finds you well.

as ever,
David

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W.28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)

↑ Index

134. Patrick F. Durgin

The Danny's Reading Series (8th Anniversary Reading with Chicago Indie Presses!)

Thu 20 Aug 2009

The Danny's Reading Series (8th Anniversary Reading with Chicago Indie Presses!)

Wednesday, August 26th
7:30 PM

The writers: Adam Clay, Kathleen Rooney, Steve Halle, Mary Hamilton, Kristen Orser, and Patrick Durgin with Hannah Weiner

The presses: Cinematheque Press, Switchback Books, Cracked Slab Books, Featherproof Books, Dancing Girl Press, and Kenning Editions

Eight years in. It's hard to believe. While we spend a lot of our time hosting poets and writers from elsewhere, as we venture into our ninth season, we thought it appropriate to turn our eye on our hometown. We'd like to celebrate the work of a selection (there are so many more!) of Chicago indie presses and their authors. Diverse in publishing vision, ideals, and execution—all committed to defining quality for themselves, the imagination, to the vast work on the part of the author to bring it to life, and to the vastly detailed work of bringing it to our hands and eyes—we salute and celebrate the necessary parts all of them play in bringing Chicago to life and the world to light. And, as always, celebrating the audience that gives us life and is our light.

Joel Craig & Chris Glomski

Adam Clay is the author of The Wash (Parlor Press, 2006) and A Hotel Lobby at the Edge of the World (Milkweed Editions, forthcoming). A new chapbook, In a World of Ideas, I Feel No Particular Loyalty, is now available from Cinematheque Press. He co-edits Typo Magazine and lives in Michigan. Recent poems appear in Ploughshares, The Laurel Review, The Tusculum Review, and elsewhere. (cinemathequepress.com <http://cinemathequepress.com>)

Kathleen Rooney is a founding editor of Rose Metal Press, and the author, most recently, of the memoir Live Nude Girl: My Life as an Object and the poetry collection Oneiromance (an epithalamion), winner of the Gatewood Prize from Switchback Books. Founded in 2006, Switchback is a nonprofit feminist press publishing poetry by women. (switchbackbooks.com <http://switchbackbooks.com>)

Steve Halle's first collection of poems, Map of the Hydrogen World was published by Cracked Slab Books in 2008. Halle edits the online journal Seven Corners, which publishes Chicago and Midwestern poets, and he is a staff poetry reviewer for Oranges & Sardines (O&S). He holds an MFA from New England College and is currently a PhD candidate at Illinois State University. (crackedslabbooks.com <http://crackedslabbooks.com>)

Mary Hamilton has had stories in SmokeLong Quarterly, Wigleaf, Storyglossia, Thieves Jargon and others, and is the author of Flash Flicker Fire, available from Featherproof Books. She lives in Chicago where she's the co-founder and co-host of the QUICKIES! reading series. Featherproof Books is a young indie publisher based in Chicago, dedicated to the small-press ideals of finding fresh, urban voices. (featherproof.com <http://featherproof.com>)

Kristen Orser is the author of Squint, published by Dancing Girl Press. Kristen Orser is anxious. She is probably behind on work and her students are probably wondering what their grades are. She is hoping all clocks will bend backwards and take her somewhere less fast. The Dancing Girl Press Chapbook Series was founded in 2004 to publish and promote the work of women poets and artists through chapbooks, journals, book arts projects, and anthologies. (dancinggirlpress.com <http://dancinggirlpress.com>)

Patrick Durgin is a poet, critic, editor, publisher, and educator. His latest book is a collaboration with poet and translator Jen Hofer, The Route (Atelos, 2008). He edited the selected works of Hannah Weiner, Hannah Weiner's Open House, for Kenning Editions, of which he is the founder and publisher. Weiner (1928-1997) was an influential poet whose work bridged conceptual, intermedia, New York School, and Language school poetics. Her books include The Fast, We Speak Silent, and PAGE. (kenningeditions.com <http://kenningeditions.com>)

Danny’s Tavern is located at 1951 W. Dickens (near the intersection of Armitage and Damen). 21+ (please have ID) [redacted]

--

Next Month:

Wednesday, September 23rd

Poetry by Kate Greenstreet and Jared Stanley

↑ Index

135. Alan Sondheim

The Dispersive Anatomies special issue of Leonardo is up!

Thu 20 Aug 2009

The Dispersive Anatomies special issue of Leonardo is up!

http://www.leonardo.info/LEA/DispersiveAnatomies/DispersiveAnatomies.html

Do take a look at this - it has a stunning group of artists, theorists, thinkers of all sorts - we're quite proud of it. Due to editorial changes at MIT, it's been two years in the making, but it's a worthwhile wait!

Thanks for your patience, and please check it out!

Here's a description of the original call for the issue:

**
Dispersive Anatomies

**
Guest Editors: Sandy Baldwin, Alan Sondheim and Mez Breeze
**

Call for papers - LEA Dispersive Anatomies
*----------

*The Leonardo Electronic Almanac (ISSN No: 1071-4391) is inviting papers and artworks that address dispersion - dispersion of bodies, objects, landscapes, networks, virtual and real worlds.

A fundamental shift in the way we view the world is underway: the abandonment of discrete objects, and objecthood itself. The world is now plural, and the distinction between real and virtual is becoming increasingly blurred, with troubling consequences within the geopolitical register. This shift is related to a cultural change that emphasizes digital deconstruction over analog construction: a photograph for example can be accessed and transformed, pixel by pixel, cities can be taken apart by gerrymandering or eminent domain, and our social networks are replete with names and images that problematize friendship, sexuality, and culture itself. One issue that emerges here: Are we networking or are we networked? Are we networks ourselves?

LEA is interested in texts and works that deal with this fundamental shift in new and illuminating ways. Specifically, anything from essays through multimedia through networks themselves may be considered. We're particularly interested in submissions that deal with the incoherency of the world, and how to address it. *Key topics of interest ----------

*Topics of interest might include (but are not limited to):
- Networked warfare in real and virtual worlds.
- The wounded/altered body in real and virtual worlds.
- Transgressive sexualities across borders, sexualities among body-parts, dismemberments and groups, both real and virtual.

- Critical texts on the transformation of classical narrative - from its emphasis on an omniscient narrator and coherent plots/characters, to literatures of incoherency, dispersed narrations, and the jump-cut exigencies of everyday life.

- Deleuze/Guattari, TAZ, and other phenomena at the border of networking. - Internet visions and their abandonment or fulfillment. - The haunting of the world by ghosts, virtual beings, dreams and nightmares that never resolve.

- The geopolitical collapse of geopolitics.
- Military empires as scattershot entrepreneurial corporations.

Dispersion has two vectors: the breakup or breakdown of coherent objects; and the subsequent attempt to corral, curtail, or recuperate from this breakdown.

How do we deal with networks that are constantly coalescing and disappearing? Where are we in the midst of this? In an era of pre-emptive culture, is guerilla warfare to be accompanied by guerilla culture as the order of the day? ----------

↑ Index

136. Rosalie Calabrese

Poetry Readings in NYC

Thu 20 Aug 2009

Rosalie Calabrese will be featured in these three readings this fall:

September 13 at 2:00 PM (free)
West Side Community Garden
entrances at 89th + 90th St.
(midway bet. Amsterdam & Columbus Aves.)
[1,2, 3 trains to 86th St.; 7 or 104 bus to 89th St.]
Group reading; poetry, fiction, whatever
No rain date

September 20 at 1:00 PM (free)
6th Street & Avenue B Garden
R or V train to 8th St.; walk East or take bus to Ave. B
No rain date
Iâ€™ll be reading with Nate Hohauser and possibly others + Open Mic

Sunday, October 25, 2009 at 5:30 PM (donation requested)
Phoenix Reading Series @ Bengal Curry
65 West Broadway (1-1/2 blocks below Chambers St.)
[1, 2, 3, A, C, or E train to Chambers Street]
Open Mic
Rain or shine
â€œAnother great experience at Phoenix Reading/Open Mic @ Bengal Curry. If you love poetry you will not want to miss it. If you love Indian food, including the best nan in NYC, you will not want to miss it. If you love both you will be in Nirvana.â€

See Rosalie's poem A PAGE FROM MY DIARY (GOING HOME: NEW YORK CITY, 1989) in the current issue of Thema, Summer 2009. Her poem MY NEW FRIEND can be seenÂ in the Holocaust Edition of Poetica on line. Another poem, RAP FLAP, is due to appear in the Helicon Nine Editions anthology In The Black/In The Red, scheduled for publication Fall â€˜09

Â

↑ Index

137. steve russell
"We live in a country of slaughter." Alan Sondheim
Thu 20 Aug 2009

Indeed.

Although I'm using Sondheim's name to push my propaganda.
Bear with me, please.

Previously, I had posted something about the animal rights dvd, earthlings. I forgot to mention some of the distinguished names associated with it.

Notably, Issac B. Singer, Nobel L.
& Princton philosopher, Peter Singer.

To paraphrase Peter Singer, "If there's there's one film I could make everyone on the planet watch, it'd be this one."

I also recommended the book and essay by David Foster Wallace entitled "Consider the Lobster." I became somewhat overly animated, though.

I said, As Foster noted ... cowardly this ... amongst other thing... all of which I infered from reading Foster. Foster's essay was far more nuanced.

↑ Index

138. CA Conrad
*come to our NYC 7 Deadly Sins CABARET!!!

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

139. amy king

Tomorrow Night - Heat and Love ~ Frey, Memmer, Olin, Schomburg, Stevenson & Stucky~

Fri 21 Aug 2009

STAIN OF POETRYÂ Â Saturday, August 22nd @ 7 p.m.Â ~ Emily Kendal Frey, Phil Memmer, Jeni â€œtruck darlingâ€ Olin, Zachary Schomburg, JodiAnn Stevenson & Janaka Stucky~Â Â Goodbye Blue Monday1087 Broadway(corner of Dodworth St)Brooklyn, NY 11221-3013[redacted]Â J M Z trains to Myrtle Aveor J train to Kosciusko StÂ Â Pour some poems on your steamy late August with Emily Kendal Frey, Phil Memmer, Jeni â€œtruck darlingâ€ Olin, Zachary Schomburg, JodiAnn Stevenson & Janaka Stucky! Â Emily Kendal Frey lives in Portland, Oregon and teaches atÂ Portland Community College. She is the author of AIRPORT (Blue Hour Press, 2009).Â Philip Memmer is the author of three collections of poems: Lucifer: A Hagiography, winner of the 2008 Idaho Prize for Poetry; Threat of Pleasure, winner of the 2008 AdirondackÂ Literary AwardÂ for Poetry, and Sweetheart, Baby, Darling. His work has been published in many journals, includingÂ Poetry Magazine, Epoch, andÂ Mid-American Review, and has been included in several anthologies, including 180 More: Extraordinary Poems for Every Day and Donâ€™t Leave Hungry: Fifty Years of Southern Poetry Review.Â Truck Darling (published as â€œJeni Olinâ€) lives in NYC where she rages in posh isolation with her dog named Good Times. Truck received her BA & MFA fromÂ Naropa University. Her first full-length book BLUE COLLAR HOLIDAY was published by Hanging Loose in 2005. Her most recent publication is a chapbook of pharmaceutical sonnets about antidepressants titled THE PILL BOOK from Faux Press, 2008. Her next book called HOLD TIGHT! will be published this April 2010 by Hanging Loose.Â Zachary Schomburg is the author of Scary, No Scary (Black Ocean 2009) and The Man Suit (Black Ocean 2007), and the co-editor of Octopus Magazine and Octopus Books. A collaborative chapbook with Emily Kendal Frey called Team Sad will be published by Cinematheque Press in the fall. He lives inÂ Portland, OR.Â JodiAnn Stevenson makes her home in Bay City, Michigan where she is an Assistant Professor of writing and poetry atÂ Delta College. She founded Binge Press, to showcase womenâ€™s work, in 2004 and 27 rue de fleures, an online journal of womenâ€™s poetries in 2005. Her first collection of poetry, The Procedure, was published in the fall of 2006 byÂ March Street Press. Her second collection of poetry, We, the Emperors was a finalist in the Gertrude Press Chapbook Award in 2008. An excerpt of her Kamikaze Death Poetry is forthcoming in the â€œfaux historiesâ€ issue of SPECS. Her recent blog project, Ms. Fish, the relentless, can be found at:Â http://msfishtherelentless.blogspot.com. Some of herÂ visual poetryÂ resides atwww.bowlofmilk.com.Â Janaka Stucky is practicing the perfection of effort while working on silent relationships with knives, hairpins, & a history of tentacles. Other passions include whiskey and pugilism. He is also the Publisher of Black Ocean and itsÂ literary magazine, Handsome. Some of his poems have appeared in Cannibal, Denver Quarterly, Fence,Â Free Verse, No Tell Motel,Â North American Review, Redivider and VOLT.Â ~Â Goodbye Blue Monday1087 Broadway(corner of Dodworth St)Brooklyn, NYÂ 11221-3013[redacted]Â J M Z trains to Myrtle Aveor J train to Kosciusko StÂ ~Â Hosted by Amy King and Ana BoÅ¾iÄeviÄ‡Â Â INFO --Â http://stainofpoetry.com/Â RSVP --Â http://www.facebook.com/event.php?eid=108933376886Â _____

Amy's Alias
http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

140. Ruth Lepson
Re: The Longest Poem in the World
Fri 21 Aug 2009

---

no wonder it has the ring of authenticity even tho we're not supposed to say that these days--or maybe we are again

On 8/19/09 11:26 PM, "mIEKAL aND" <[redacted]> wrote:

> The Longest Poem in the World
> http://www.longestpoemintheworld.com/

↑ Index

141. Ruth Lepson
Re: new on Rogue Embryo's blog
Fri 21 Aug 2009

---

thank you for this, camille--and do you know steve lacy set inside my head to music? I went to the creeley/clemente collaboration at brandeis--creeley was The Man as always & so sweet but clemente came sweeping in like a prince.

On 8/20/09 3:06 AM, "Camille Martin" <[redacted]> wrote:

> New on Rogue Embryo:
>
> Anamorphosis (Creeley/Clemente): Death and the Stuff of Dreams

> black asterisk
>
> Zydeco Gallery Three
>
> Square Foot Show, Toronto
>
> The Sword¹s Brayer
>
> http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com
>
> Cheers!
>
> Camille Martin
> http://www.camillemartin.ca
> http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com
>
> _____

↑ Index

142. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: History of music website
Fri 21 Aug 2009

And I am the Persian rug dealer who sold it to him.

Now if today we said business does not exist, it would not be a metaphysical statement.

Ciao,

Murat

On Wed, Aug 19, 2009 at 2:23 PM, Patrick Dillon <[redacted]>wrote:

> Here is a link to the allmusic entry on Dylan:
> http://www.allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifrxqe5ldhe
>
> I'm not sure where you ended up on your search for Dylan. Personally, I > prefer to navigate the AllMusic site through Google, as I do with many
> other > sites. If I'm going to do a search for Bob Dylan, I don't go to allmusic
> and > then search for "Bob Dylan." I do a Google search for "Bob Dylan allmusic."
> And that will take me right to the profile.'

Make sure to take note of the tabs, especially discography. There are full reviews of most albums and, for Dylan, most songs.

I do this particularly with AllMusic because I find that it has slow load times.

Here is the text from the Dylan AllMusic Page just cut and pasted into this email: Good bye!

Biographyby Stephen Thomas Erlewine

Bob Dylan's influence on popular music is incalculable. As a songwriter, he pioneered several different schools of pop songwriting, from confessional singer/songwriter to winding, hallucinatory, stream of conscious narratives.
As a vocalist, he broke down the notion that a singer must have a conventionally good voice in order to perform, thereby redefining the vocalist's role in popular music. As a musician, he sparked several genres of pop music, including electrified folk-rock and country-rock. And that just touches on the tip of his achievements. Dylan's force was evident during his height of popularity in the '60s -- the Beatles<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:hifrxqw5ldse>' shift toward introspective songwriting in the mid-'60s never would have happened without him -- but his influence echoed throughout several ...
Read More... <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifrxqe5ldhe%7ET1>

<
http://adserver.adtechus.com/adlink/5132/860406/0/170/AdId=389116;BnId=3;itime=705830452;nodecode=yes;link=http://www.eyewonderlabs.com/ct.cfm?ewbust=0&file=http://cdn.eyewonder.com/100125/756848/1104531/NOSCRIPTfailover.jpg&eid=1104531&name=Clickthru-NOSCRIPT&num=1&time=0&diff=0&click=http://www.floridasnatural.com/fun-stuff/where-does-your-juice-come-from

<
http://adserver.adtechus.com/adlink/3.0/5132/860406/0/170/ADTECH;loc=300;misc=[TIMESTAMP];rdclick=<http://adserver.adtechus.com/adlink/3.0/5132/860406/0/170/ADTECH;loc=300;misc=%5BTIMESTAMP%5D;rdclick=>

[image: The Freewheelin' Bob Dylan]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=10:difqxqt5ld0e>
[image: Nashville Skyline]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=10:gifwxqt5ld0e>
[image:

Dylan [2007 3-CD Edition]]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=10:wifuxzyhldae>
[image: Highway 61 Revisited]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=10:jifqxqt5ld0e>
[image: Biograph] <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=10:kifrxqt5ld0e>
[image: Blood on the Tracks]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=10:fifexqt5ld0e>
[image: Listen Now!]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=50:difqxqt5ld0e%7ER>
[image: Listen Now!]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=50:gifwxqt5ld0e%7ER>
[image: Listen Now!]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=50:wifuxzyhldae%7ER>
[image: Listen Now!]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=50:jifqxqt5ld0e%7ER>
[image: Listen Now!]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=50:kifrxqt5ld0e%7ER>
[image: Listen Now!]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=50:fifexqt5ld0e%7ER>

Other Entries

- Movie Entry <http://www.allmovie.com/artist/88557>
- Classical Music Entry<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=41:65657>

Member Of

- The Traveling Wilburys<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifixqr5ldse>

Similar Artists

- Van Morrison <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jifuxqygldhe

- Neil Young <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:kifoxqr5ldfe>
- John Prine <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jifixqr5ldhe>
- Joni Mitchell<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3ifexqe5ldte

- John Hiatt <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:difixqe5ld0e>
- George Harrison<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:hifrxqe5ld0e>
- Grateful Dead<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifoxqe5ldke

- Fairport Convention<

http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:fifwxqe5ldje>
- The Byrds <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3ifqxqw5ldfe>
- Phil Ochs <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:kifoxqq5ld6e>
- Donovan <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifqxqe5ldhe>
- Ian Hunter <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:aifwxqe5ldae>
- Buffalo Springfield<
http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jifoxqw5ldde>
- Tim Hardin <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:aifoxql5ldte>
- Buffy Sainte-Marie<
http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:hifwxqq5ldhe>
- Leonard Cohen<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:aifrxql5ldte

- A.A. Bondy <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:gpfyxqwrld6e>
- Fred Neil <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:aifixqq5ld6e>
- The Sir Douglas
Quintet<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:difrxqr5ld0e>
- David Blue <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:hifwxql5ldte>
- Jesse Winchester<
http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifrxqr5ldfe>

See Also

- Levon Helm <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3nfuxqr5ldde>
- Robbie Robertson<
http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifixqr5ldje>
- The Band <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:hifwxqw5ldse>
- Joan Baez <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifqxql5ldte>
- Tom Wilson <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3zfexqugldte>
- Brian Blade <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:kcfpxqy5ldhe>
- The Traveling
Wilburys<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifixqr5ldse>
- Ronee Blakley<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:dzftxq95ldje

- Johnny Cash <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:aifrxql5ldae>
- Jakob Dylan <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:fbfyxqq5ldte>
- Bob Dylan & the Rolling Thunder
Revue<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jjfyxqtgldhe>
- Blind Boy Grunt<
http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0xfoxqykldhe>

Influenced By

- Rev. Gary Davis<
http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3vfixq85ld6e>
- Dave Van Ronk<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:kzfixqw5ldae

- Elvis Presley<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jifuxqr5ldhe

- Little Richard<
http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jifyxqe5ldde>
- Woody Guthrie<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jifoxql5ldte

- Hank Williams<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:dzfexqugldje

- Blind Lemon
Jefferson<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3ifoxq95ldke>
- Leadbelly <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jifqxq95ld0e>

Followers

- Died Pretty <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:difoxqe5ld6e>
- Dan Fogelberg<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifixqe5ldje

- John Lennon <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:hifrxqe5ldde>
- The Long Ryders<
http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:hifixqe5ldde>
- Leon Russell <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifwxqr5ldke

- Uncle Tupelo <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifwxqr5ldde

- World Party <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:difuxqr5ldfe>
- J.P. Jones <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:fjfwxql5ldae>
- Eddie Vedder <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0zfqxqegld0e

- Birddog <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0jfuxqehldke>
- The Slip <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:fpfyxqrkld6e>
- Will Hoppey <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:kpfwxqrkldde>
- Arlo Leach <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:anfuxqqkldfe>
- Matthew Friedberger<
http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:aifixqlald6e>
- Coque Malla <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:abfyxqraldke>
- The Childballads<
http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jcfqxqydldhe>
- These United
States<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3vfuxqydldte>
- Scott Matthews<
http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jbfwxqqrldae>
- Sleepy Sun <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:fzfwxztgldje>

Performed Songs By

- Traditional <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:wzftxqekldte>
- Jacques Levy <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:gjfwxqu5ldhe

- Robert Hunter<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:09frxqw5ldje

> - Woody Guthrie<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jifoxql5ldte
>
> - Rev. Gary Davis<
> http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3vfixq85ld6e>
> - Booker T. Washington
> White<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:fjfyxqegld6e>
> - Robbie Robertson<
> http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifixqr5ldje>
> - Johnny Cash <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:aifrxql5ldae>
> - Henry Thomas <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3iftxq95ldae
>
> - Richard Manuel<
> http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:wifixqlgldae>
> - Arthur "Big Boy"
> Crudup<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jvfqxqy5ldse>
> - Hank Williams<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:dzfexqugldje
>
> - Sam Shepard <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:dpfoxqegld0e>
> - Terry Holmes <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:hnfuxqy5ldae
>
> - Rick Danko <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:g9fexqt5ldfe>
> - Curtis Mayfield<
> http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:difyxqe5ldfe>
> - Jimmie Rodgers<
> http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jifoxql5ldde>
> - Blind Lemon
> Jefferson<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3ifoxq95ldke>
> - Frank Warner <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:wzfexqtjld0e

↑ Index

143. Nate Dorward

Upcoming gig: cris cheek in Toronto, Aug 29th

Sat 22 Aug 2009

(Apologies if you get multiple copies of this....)

Aug.29 in Toronto:

A poetry/sound/multimedia performance--

*cris cheek *(London/US)
+ *Barnyard Drama *[Christine Duncan/Jean Martin] (Toronto)

8pm, at Somewhere There
Live Creative Music in Toronto

340 Dufferin Street - one block South of Queen Street
 entrance from Melbourne Ave. **
www.somewherethere.org

$8 cover, or free admission if you purchase cris's new book *part: short life housing *(specially priced for this event at $16!)

*ABOUT CRIS CHEEK: *cris cheek is a sound artist, poet, photographer, mixed-media practitioner and interdisciplinary performer, whose works have been commissioned and shown locally and trans-locally, in multiple versions using diverse media for their production and circulation. Born in London in 1955, he lived and worked there until the early 1990s, a performance writer very much a part of what was going on with poetry in that capital city. His musical collaborations include Slant (a trio with Phillip Jeck and Sianed Jones) and Garam Masala; he also collaborated in 1999-2007 with Kirsten Lavers on the cross-disciplinary project Things Not Worth Keeping (www.thingsnotworthkeeping.com) . He currently lives in the southwest Ohio River Valley.

cris’s most recent book is *part: short life housing *(Toronto: The Gig, 2009), a collection of six texts from the 1980s and 1990s, including “canning town chronicles,” a scathing set of verbal accretions that emerged from the wreckage of the Thatcher era; and “f o g s,” a series of typestracts quarried from verbal improvisations recorded during outdoor walks in densely foggy weather.

For more info contact:

Nate Dorward
109 Hounslow Ave., North York, ON, M2N 2B1, Canada
[redacted] - [redacted]

*

RECENT PUBLICATIONS:

cris cheek, PART: SHORT LIFE HOUSING
Trevor Joyce, WHAT'S IN STORE
ANTIPHONIES: Essays on Women's Experimental Poetries in Canada

More information at www.ndorward.com/poetry/

↑ Index

144. David Chirot
Re: The Longest Poem in the World
Sat 22 Aug 2009

A Paradox: that constraint based works are so often founded on the principle of producing the most "unconstrained" works--i.e. "Endless," "Longest," maybe even someday the "Loudest" poem, like Blue Cheer's "primitive" (by today's sonic standards) late 60's/early 70's acid hard rock concept of "Louder than God."

There is also something of the "inevitbale" about these constarint based works:

For a moment i thought the Longest Poem might be something like the Burma Shave jingles (many, oddly, very like some of the poetry of Charles Bernstein) which stretched from coast to coast--hence a long poem covering thousands of miles . . . so this project would have as it's "inevitably" the meeting with the Oceans, something that Lautreamont i a strange way would understand: "O Ocean!"

Another form of this inevitblilty that one finds in these lines i the "Longest Poem" is they express both a tritieness and a lack of suprise in resoving by rhyme their dilemans.

That is--do they not read i a small way like the Fates terribly at Work?

Geleth Burgess in a 1968 Art Magaine article considered the Inevitbale from the point of view of the trite and the Bromide in "Are you a Bromide?" examiniing 48 "genuine cliches," in thre Grand Tradition of Flaubert's Dictionairre des idees recues (Dictionary of Accepted/Rceived ideas.) writes: of,for example, "It's not the moeny, it's the priniple of the thing" that: "Iti s not merely because the remark is trite that itis Bromidic. Ot is because with the Bromide the remark is INEVITABLE."

(Note: you can find Flaubert's Dictionary coupled with Ambrose Bierce's Devil's Dictionary being "serialized" letter by letter at http://davidbaptistechirot.blogspot.com Also being "serialized" is Edward Bernays's classic work from 1928: Propaganda, and a series of poems, tales, etc from H.Chase's 1958 book of homophonic "translations"..I hope to "serialize more such works re language, writing, words letters etc including more texts re the language of our times which is best expressed as the satuartion of it by/with Propaganda/advertising objectives. One of the misunderstaning of Corporate State Fascism as it is devloping in the US's latest formsof Capitalism is that the distinctions between advertsisng and Propaganda have been broken down. A book blurb can be read as an example of this, in which an ideology of writing is combined an ideology of "buy this book"! And why buy it--because it is part and parcel of what is good for one--the delicious fast food delights("You Are What You Eat") of propaganda-ads. Isn't that what this poem is about, "The Longest Poem?" And how about any poem one may read today written in the USA? Is it not saturated by the ideologies of production-consumption-more-more-faster-faster--a bizarre echoing of the terms in Charles Olson's Projective Verse: One sense impression/breath, letter, syllable, word, phrase, line following another, fast , faster, citizen!--etc) II met once a Ukrainian poet who claimed to have written "The World's longest Palindrome," helped by the fact that the Ukrainian language is apparently extraordinarily rich in palindromic possibilities. This "World's Longest Palindrome" was either 4 or 8 small pages folded together and done in fine type. (forgive the lapse in memory, what's left of it.) Bob Cobbing, when this pronouncement/announcement of the World's Longest Palindrome was made clear to him became quite vividly and demonstrably antagonistic, saying, no no no!!!! HE had written the world's longest Palindrome because his was just a simple "round" that endless spun around and around as a form of linguistic perpetual motion machine; thus, to be sure, being perpetual, it was "The World's Longest Palindrome." This Palindrome after all, being perpetual, would be the longest in"Eternal Time," while the "mere" Untrained Palindrome was only long in the number of words, so that it's duration in time was far shorter. This conversation itself had a Palindromic quality to it in that a Russian had to translate from Ukrainian to Russian for another Russian who translated from Russian to German which I then translated from German to English for Bob's reply, which then went "backwards" to its "original source," the Ukrainian poet. This project by Mr Gheorghe (a Russian born "1005 Romanian) has also attarateced the attention of CNN, as one may see in the note below from one of Mr Georghe's sites (he is also a radiot/tv star as well as a school teacher in Romania. Constraint based works often are very leaden in their effect, the "concept" being productive of things only too inevitable, like the thudding tautologies say of"Conceptual Poetry" of the contemporary American kind (nothing like Conceptual Poetry in "reality"). I think Mr. Gheorghe's project is an example of the Fun/Funny side of the Constraint based work's put to use to illustarte as it were the Inevitability of the Bromidic running amok!

,

“Longest Poem” featured on
CNN.com<http://www.idevelop.ro/longest-poem-featured-on-cnn.htm>

The Longest Poem in the World <http://www.longestpoemintheworld.com/>, my experiment that I previously told you about<http://www.idevelop.ro/cea-mai-lunga-poezie-din-lume.htm>was just featured in an article on CNN Technology.

Strangers gather on Web to make collective art<http://edition.cnn.com/2009/TECH/08/19/online.collaborative.art/index.html>
.

Enjoy :)
6 comentarii<http://www.idevelop.ro/longest-poem-featured-on-

cnn.htm#comments>
Work <http://www.idevelop.ro/categorii/work>, Programare web<http://www.idevelop.ro/categorii/programare-web>, General <http://www.idevelop.ro/categorii/general>

On Wed, Aug 19, 2009 at 8:26 PM, mIEKAL aND <[redacted]> wrote:

> The Longest Poem in the World
> http://www.longestpoemintheworld.com/

↑ Index

145. Jennifer Karmin
Red Rover Series / Experiment #32
Sat 22 Aug 2009

Red Rover Series
{readings that play with reading}

Experiment #32:
Our Bodies, Our Devils

SATURDAY, AUGUST 29
7pm

Featuring:
Krista Franklin & Adam Rose

NEW LOCATION
at the Orientation Center
2129 N. Rockwell -- Chicago, IL
corner of Milwaukee/Rockwell
left side of the Congress Theater building
http://orientationcenter.wordpress.com
suggested donation $4

KRISTA FRANKLIN is a poet and visual artist who has most recently been published in RATTLE, Indiana Review, Ecotone, Clam, Callaloo, MiPOesias.com, and the anthology Gathering Ground. Her collages have appeared on the covers of award-winning books, and she has exhibited nationally in solo and group exhibitions. She is a Cave Canem Fellow, and the co-founder of 2nd Sun Salon, a community meeting space for writers, visual and performance artists, musicians and scholars. http://www.kristafranklin.com

ADAM ROSE is a performer and choreographer living and working in Chicago, IL. Adam graduated with a B.A. in Dance/Theater from Antioch College in 2008. He is the Artistic Director of Antibody Dance, a company specializing in movement studies and occult research. He has also performed with Dim Sum Dance, contributed to Lucky Plush's Steal This Dance project, and performs with Girlie-Q Productions as Elena. He is currently a 2009 LinkUp residency artist at Links Hall. http://www.antibodydance.org

Red Rover Series is curated by Lisa Janssen and Jennifer Karmin. Each event is designed as a reading experiment with participation by local, national, and international writers, artists, and performers. The series was founded in 2005 by Amina Cain and Jennifer Karmin.

UPCOMING
September 26: Kate Greenstreet & Gina Myers

Email ideas for reading experiments
to us at [redacted]

The schedule for events is listed at http://groups.yahoo.com/group/redroverseries

↑ Index

146. Les Rencontres Internationales

[Festival 2009-2010] Call for Entries | Appel a' proposition | Convocatoria | Teilnahmeaufruf | FILM, VIDEO, MULTIMEDIA [EN] [FR] [DE] [ES]

Sat 22 Aug 2009

---

dear all,
i send you below an information about our current call for entries.
please spread out and forward around you.
best

+ + + + + + + + + + + + + + IN ENGLISH
http://www.art-action.org/site/_news/09/call/en.htm AUF DEUTSCH
http://www.art-action.org/site/_news/09/call/de.htm EN ESPAÑOL http://www.art-action.org/site/_news/09/call/es.htm EN FRANÇAIS http://www.art-action.org/site/_news/09/call/fr.htm + + + + + + + + + + + + + + +

||||||| CALL FOR ENTRIES
||||||| UNTIL SEPTEMBER 5, 2009: WITH REGULAR MAIL SENDING
||||||| UNTIL SEPTEMBER 15, 2009: WITH VIDEO UPLOAD
||||||| http://www.art-action.org/en_index.htm

||||||| RENCONTRES INTERNATIONALES PARIS/BERLIN/MADRID
||||||| FILM / VIDEO / MULTIMEDIA

The call for entries for the next Rencontres Internationales Paris/Berlin/Madrid is open until September 5 and 15, 2009.

The next Rencontres Internationales Paris/Berlin/Madrid will take place in Paris from November 30 to December 9 at the Centre Pompidou, the Jeu de Paume national museum and other venues. The same programme will be presented in Madrid in April 2010 and in Berlin in July 2010. Those three events will feature an international programming focusing on film, video and multimedia, gathering works of artists and filmmakers recognized on the international scene along with young artists and filmmakers.

ANY INDIVIDUAL OR ORGANIZATION CAN SUBMIT ONE OR SEVERAL PROPOSALS. THE CALL FOR ENTRIES IS OPEN TO FILM, VIDEO AND MULTIMEDIA PROPOSALS, without any restrictions for length or genre. All submissions are free, regardless of geographical origin... [click here >>> http://www.art-action.org/site/en/info/appel.htm]

• FILMS AND VIDEOS - any film and video format
* Video / Experimental video
* Fiction, exp. fiction / Short, middle and full length
* Documentary, exp. documentary
* Experimental film
* Animation

• MULTIMEDIA
* Video installation, multimedia installation * Net art * Multimedia concert, multimedia performance

TO ENTER A PROPOSAL CLICK HERE >>>
http://www.art-action.org/site/en/info/appel.htm
You may have the opportunity to choose between two types of registration:
• Until September 5, 2009: Entry form to use with regular mail
• Until September 15, 2009: 100% online entry form with video upload

PLEASE FORWARD this information to creative organizations, art networks, production organizations, artists and filmmakers you are in contact with.

The 'Rencontres Internationales' offers more than a simple presentation of the works. It introduces an intercultural forum gathering various guests from all over the world - artists and filmmakers, institutions and emerging organizations - to testify to their reflections and their experiences, but also to artistic and cultural contexts that are often undergoing deep changes. The 'Rencontres Internationales' reflects specificities and convergences of artistic practices between new cinema and contemporary art, explores emerging media art practices and their critical purposes, and makes possible a necessary time when points of view meet and are exchanged. The event aims at presenting works to a broad audience, at creating circulations between different art practices and between different audiences, as well as creating new exchanges between artists, filmmakers and professionals. It seeks to contribute to a reflection on our contemporary culture of image via a compelling program opened to everyone..

PARIS/BERLIN/MADRID In 2007, the Rencontres Internationales, which initially took place in Paris and Berlin, opened up to a third city: Madrid. This event now constitutes a unique artistic and cultural platform in Europe for artists, professional networks and various audiences. The venues in the three cities are in particular in Paris the Centre Pompidou and the Jeu de Paume national museum, in Berlin the Haus der Kulturen der Welt, and in Madrid the Reina Sofia National museum, the auditorium of the Ministry for Culture, the Tabacalera - futur national centre for visual arts, the Spanish Cinematheque, the CA2M Centro de Arte Dos de Mayo de la Comunidad de Madrid. The 'Rencontres Internationales' is a non-commercial event without competition, supported by French, German, Spanish and international institutions... [click here >>> http://www.art-action.org/site/en/soutien/]

||||||| OPENING
||||||| MONDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 2009
Opening on Monday, November 30 from 8PM at the Centre Pompidou - Cinema 1
Presentation, screening, cocktail

||||||| PASS/ACCREDITATION
||||||| UNTIL NOVEMBRE 20, 2009
Accreditations (only press and professionals) grant access to the whole program (except for special screenings): screenings, exhibitions, concerts and performances, video library and debates.
Accreditation application [click here >>> http://www.art-action.org/site/en/info/pass_accred.htm]

||||||| PRESS
||||||| PRESS INFORMATION / PRESS KIT
Press kit is sent upon receipt of emailed request info(at)art-action.org
Press contact [click here >>> http://www.art-action.org/site/en/contact/]

↑ Index

147. Jim Andrews
Netpoetic.com
Sat 22 Aug 2009

---

http://netpoetic.com is a communal blog started and run by Jason Nelson about digital poetry. The blog features writing by him and Alan Bigelow, Lori Emerson, Scott Rettberg, Jaka Zeleznikar, Michael Maguire, Sandy Baldwin, Brian Stefans, Hazel Smith, Jim Andrews, Curt Cloninger, Joerg Pringer, Nick Montfort, Edward Picot, and Davin Heckman.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

148. CA Conrad
MACRO (Soma)tics
Sat 22 Aug 2009

MACRO (Soma)tics here: http://www.nonsitecollective.org/CAConrad/Soma%28tics%29

a taste

a taste can be nice
a taste just a taste of nearly anyone anything but not anywhere? yes, anywhere

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

149. Rachel Loden
Bay Area Poetry Marathon, Saturday, August 29 in SF
Sun 23 Aug 2009

---

* DONNA de la PERRIERE * EDWARD FOSTER * C.S. GISCOMBE * PAUL HOOVER * * RACHEL LODEN * MIRANDA MELLIS * JARED STANLEY * and * AL YOUNG *

are all reading at the Bay Area Poetry Marathon on Saturday, August 29 at 7:00 p.m.

Please come and say hello!

Location:
The Lab

2948 16th Street (@ Capp)
San Francisco, CA

http://www.thelab.org/events/[redacted]-poetry-marathon.html

* DONNA de la PERRIERE is the author of True Crime (Talisman House). Work is forthcoming in Gender Outlaw, a book honoring the late kari edwards. The recipient of a 2009 Fund for Poetry award, she teaches writing at CCA & SFSU.

* EDWARD FOSTER's most recent book is Febra Alba, a selection of his poems in Romanian translation. His selected poems were published in 2006. A new collection, The Beginning of Sorrows, will be published this October.

* C.S. GISCOMBE's teaches at U.C. Berkeley. His recent poetry books are Prairie Style and Giscome Road. Prairie Style won an American Book Award from the Before Columbus Foundation; Giscome Road won the Carl Sandburg Award.

* PAUL HOOVER's most recent poetry book is Sonnet 56 (Les Figues Press)--book party to be held at Moe's on October 20. Other recent works include Poems in Spanish, Edge and Fold, and translations of Holderlin and Vietnamese poetry.

* RACHEL LODEN is the author of Dick of the Dead (Ahsahta Press) and Hotel Imperium (Georgia). Recipient of a grant from the Fund for Poetry, her work is forthcoming in the &NOW AWARDS: The Best Innovative Writing.

* MIRANDA MELLIS is the author of The Revisionist (Calamari Press) and Materialisms (Portable Press at Yo Yo Labs). Her various writing has appeared variously including Tin House, Harper's, The Believer, Fence, Denver Quarterly, and elsewhere.

* JARED STANLEY is the author of Book Made of Forest and three chapbooks, including The Outer Bay. He co-edits Mrs. Maybe with Lauren Levin and Catherine Meng. Recent work is in Mary, Zoland Poetry, and Big Bridge.

* AL YOUNG's 22 widely translated books include poetry, fiction and musical memoirs. From 2005- 2008 he served as poet laureate of California. Other honors include NEA, Fulbright, & Guggenheim Fellowships. The Sea, The Sky, And You, And I, a poetry & jazz CD (featuring bassist Dan Robbins) came out this year from Bardo Digital. Detailed information about this Berkeley-based author may be found at www.alyoung.org

Contact: [redacted]

http://ahsahtapress.boisestate.edu/books/loden/loden.htm

↑ Index

150. susan maurer
on not leaving the list
Sun 23 Aug 2009

---

a campaign to have "click if you want to leave the list" feature which comes to you before you 're removed from the list. I keep hitting some fool wrong button and having to rejoin. other lists have this feature, susan maurer _____ Windows Live: Make it easier for your friends to see what you're up to on Facebook. http://windowslive.com/Campaign/SocialNetworking?ocid=PID23285::T:WLMTAGL:ON:WL:en-US:SI_SB_facebook:082009

↑ Index

151. Amanda Earl
AngelHousePress Essay # 7 - Marcus McCann
Sun 23 Aug 2009

---

the seventh of the AngelHousePress Series is now on line. In the essay, "Notes on The Sad Phoenician's Other Woman: Experiencing Robert Kroetsch's Poetry In A Fever," I discuss my appreciation for the poetry of Robert Kroetsch and the long poem in general and talk about how Kroetsch's poem "the Sad Phoenician" inspired me to write a response poem.

Amanda Earl
AngelHousePress
www.angelhousepress.com
the angel is in the house

↑ Index

152. Pam Brown
write a review for Jacket magazine?
Sun 23 Aug 2009

Dear Poeticists,

If you would like to write a review of Nicole Mauro's first collection, 'The Contortions', please contact me on the back channel [redacted]

Further information : From the back cover: 'The Contortions' encourages language to pop and pulse down the synaptic hallways of our culture. From Freudian free association to soap opera summaries, from Pangrammic mnemonics to Rimbaud, these poems are not afraid to breach etiquette and "dis-remember" the habits of words. Mauro transmits the fantastical double life of language--what it once was and what it now (happily) can be--with visual and sonic nerve.--Jena Osman Publisher: Dusie Publication Date: August 18, 2009 Pages: 82

Thanks,
Best wishes,
Pam Brown

--

_____

blog : http://thedeletions.blogspot.com
website : http://pambrownbooks.blogspot.com/
associate editor : http://jacketmagazine.com/

_____

↑ Index

153. cris cheek
live in Toronto this coming Saturday
Mon 24 Aug 2009

(Hi folks--Apologies if you get multiple copies of this....) i'm forwarding it:

*

Aug.29 in Toronto:

A poetry/sound/multimedia performance--

*cris cheek *(London/US)
+ *Barnyard Drama *[Christine Duncan/Jean Martin] (Toronto)

8pm, at
Somewhere There
Live Creative Music in Toronto
340 Dufferin Street - one block South of Queen Street
 entrance from Melbourne Ave. **
www.somewherethere.org

$8 cover, or free admission if you purchase cris's new book *part: short life housing *(specially priced for this event at $16!)

*ABOUT CRIS CHEEK: *cris cheek is a sound artist, poet, photographer, mixed-media practitioner and interdisciplinary performer, whose works have been commissioned and shown locally and trans-locally, in multiple versions using diverse media for their production and circulation. Born in London in 1955, he lived and worked there until the early 1990s, a performance writer very much a part of what was going on with poetry in that capital city. His musical collaborations include Slant (a trio with Phillip Jeck and Sianed Jones) and

Garam Masala; he also collaborated in 1999-2007 with Kirsten Lavers on the cross-disciplinary project Things Not Worth Keeping (www.thingsnotworthkeeping.com) . He currently lives in the temperate deciduous forests of the southwest Ohio River Valley.

cris's most recent book is *part: short life housing *(Toronto: The Gig, 2009), a collection of six texts from the 1980s and 1990s, including "canning town chronicles," a scathing set of verbal accretions that emerged from the wreckage of the Thatcher era; and "f o g s," a series of typestracts quarried from verbal improvisations recorded during outdoor walks in densely foggy weather.

For more info contact:

Nate Dorward
109 Hounslow Ave., North York, ON, M2N 2B1, Canada
[redacted] - [redacted]

*

RECENT PUBLICATIONS:

cris cheek, PART: SHORT LIFE HOUSING
Trevor Joyce, WHAT'S IN STORE
ANTIPHONIES: Essays on Women's Experimental Poetries in Canada

More information at www.ndorward.com/poetry/

↑ Index

154. Camille Martin
Figure of Speech: Fluid Dynamics
Mon 24 Aug 2009

What do you get when you cross edgy poetry with Renaissance music? Find out at "Figure of Speech," a collaborative performance of poetry, dance, and music in Toronto.

I'm incredibly honoured to be performing with Gauri Vanarese, a dancer, and John Edwards and Hallie Fishel-Verrette, musicians in the Renaissance and Baroque music duo, Musicians in Ordinary, in an evening of artistic collaboration organized by Tricia Postle.

Hallie and John have composed settings for several of my sonnets, using traditional musical forms of the 16th and 17th centuries. Some of these sonnets were inspired by English nursery rhymes, and when I heard Hallie and John perform them at a recent rehearsal, the poetry and music sounded to my ears like a perfect blend.

And for the occasion I also set several of my poems to music, which John, Hallie, and I will perform in various combinations.

In addition, Hallie and John will accompany dancer Gauri Vanarese in two of her beautiful and evocative choreographed pieces.

It will be a memorable evening. If you will be in Toronto this weekend, please come!

* * * * *

Majlis Multidiscplinary Arts Presents

Figure of Speech: Flud Dynamics

a summer night of poetry, dance, and live music in an urban garden

Friday, August 28
Saturday, August 29
8:00 pm

poetry: Camille Martin
dance: Gauri Vanarese music: John Edwards and Hallie Fishel-Verrette 163 Walnut Street / Toronto tickets: $15

http://www.facebook.com/event.php?eid=119662751628
http://musiciansinordinary.ca/

* * * * *

Camille Martin
http://www.camillemartin.ca
http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

↑ Index

155. Francesco Levato
"War Rug" - Poetry Film Screening in NY
Mon 24 Aug 2009

"War Rug" - Poetry Film Screening in NY

Date: September 5th, 2009
Time: 7:30 10:30 p.m.
Location: Upstairs at Erika's, Williamsburg in Brooklyn, NY - for entrance and address you need to call and RSVP up to the event start time at 917/[redacted].

"War Rug" is based on a work of documentary poetics in the form of a book length poem. Multiple interwoven narratives explore life within zones of conflict as viewed through the lens of current warfare. The narratives range from passages inspired by journal entries, firsthand accounts, and news reports to poetic constructs collaged from military doctrine, Freedom of Information Act released government documents (like CIA interrogation manuals, and detainee autopsy reports), and numerous other sources. The film collages and juxtaposes archival source material with U.S. Military footage in an exploration of alternative narrative interpretations of the source text.

For more information please visit:

http://www.francescolevato.com

http://www.facebook.com/group.php?gid=47598138799

↑ Index

156. Al Filreis

PoemTalk #21 on Charles Bernstein now released

Mon 24 Aug 2009

PoemTalk #21 is a discussion of Charles Bernstein's "In a Restless World Like This Is." The talkers this time are Marcella Durand, Eli Goldblatt, and Hank Lazer. As always, PoemTalk is a 25-minute long audio podcast.

http://www.poemtalk.org

There are several ways to subscribe to PoemTalk. One is through iTunes: go to your iTunes music store, type "PoemTalk" in the search box, find PoemTalk and click "subscribe."

Al Filreis
Kelly Professor
Faculty Dir., Kelly Writers House
Dir., Center for Programs in Contemporary Writing
University of Pennsylvania

on the web: http://writing.upenn.edu/~afilreis
blog: http://writing.upenn.edu/~afilreis/blog
PoemTalk: http://www.poemtalk.org
get your daily Al: http://bit.ly/1UCfRp dial 215-746-POEM or [redacted]

↑ Index

157. Michael
TRIBUTE TO DAVID BROMIGE
Mon 24 Aug 2009

TRIBUTE SHOW to DAVID BROMIGE

August 26, 2009 7:00 p.m.

Katherine Hastings presents a one-hour tribute to the late poet David Bromige. The author of dozens of books and the recipient of many literary honors, David Bromige was also a former Poet Laureate of Sonoma County, a professor at Sonoma State University, and a mentor to many. His experimental style and sharp wit translated to a large collection of work so varied that the poems could easily be mistaken as the work of many. Born in London in 1933, Bromige died in Sebastopol in June of this year. Participating in tonight's program will be his wife, Cecelia Belle, their daughter, Margaret, and others. Recordings of Bromige reading his work will also be featured.

To listen to the program:

1) Tune in to KRCB 91.1 FM

2) Stream live at www.krcb/org

3) iTunes: Go to Radio/Public/KRCB

4) Comcast Cable TV, Santa Rosa, Channel 961

↑ Index

158. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: The Longest Poem in the World
Mon 24 Aug 2009

David,

I think process/procedure determined digital poems are longest-poems producing machines. Or a poem based on a number series stretching infinitely at both ends. Here a conceptual work leads to a plethora of words -a concept as a word producing machine.

Did you think of the connection between longest-poems and machines, which itself a "rationalization" of automatism, this surrealist tool afflicted with cancer.

Ciao,

Murat

On Sat, Aug 22, 2009 at 7:32 AM, David Chirot <[redacted]>wrote:

> A Paradox: that constraint based works are so often founded on the principle of producing the most "unconstrained" works--i.e. "Endless,"

"Longest," maybe even someday the "Loudest" poem, like Blue Cheer's "primitive" (by today's sonic standards) late 60's/early 70's acid hard rock concept of "Louder than God."

There is also something of the "inevitbale" about these constarint based works:

For a moment i thought the Longest Poem might be something like the Burma Shave jingles (many, oddly, very like some of the poetry of Charles Bernstein) which stretched from coast to coast--hence a long poem covering thousands of miles . . .
so this project would have as it's "inevitably" the meeting with the Oceans, something that Lautreamont i a strange way would understand: "O Ocean!"

Another form of this inevitblilty that one finds in these lines i the "Longest Poem" is they express both a tritieness and a lack of suprise in resoving by rhyme their dilemans.

That is--do they not read i a small way like the Fates terribly at Work?

Geleth Burgess in a 1968 Art Magaine article considered the Inevitbale from the point of view of the trite and the Bromide in "Are you a Bromide?" examiniing 48 "genuine cliches," in thre Grand Tradition of Flaubert's Dictionairre des idees recues (Dictionary of Accepted/Rceived ideas.) writes: of,for example, "It's not the moeny, it's the priniple of the thing" that:
"Iti s not merely because the remark is trite that itis Bromidic. Ot is because with the Bromide the remark is INEVITABLE."

(Note: you can find Flaubert's Dictionary coupled with Ambrose Bierce's Devil's Dictionary being "serialized" letter by letter at http://davidbaptistechirot.blogspot.com
Also being "serialized" is Edward Bernays's classic work from 1928: Propaganda, and a series of poems, tales, etc from H.Chase's 1958 book of homophonic "translations"..I hope to "serialize more such works re language, writing, words letters etc including more texts re the language of our times which is best expressed as the satuartion of it by/with Propaganda/advertising objectives. One of the misunderstaning of Corporate State Fascism as it is devloping in the US's latest formsof Capitalism is that the distinctions between advertsisng and Propaganda have been broken down. A book blurb can be read as an example of this, in which an ideology of writing is combined an ideology of "buy this book"! And why buy it--because it is part and parcel of what is good for one--the delicious fast food delights("You Are What You Eat") of propaganda-ads. Isn't that what this poem is about, "The Longest Poem?" And how about any poem one may read today written in the USA? Is it not saturated by the ideologies of production-consumption-more-more-faster-faster--a bizarre echoing of the terms in Charles Olson's Projective Verse: One sense impression/breath, letter, syllable, word, phrase, line following another, fast , faster, citizen!--etc)

II met once a Ukrainian poet who claimed to have written "The World's longest Palindrome," helped by the fact that the Ukrainian language is apparently extraordinarily rich in palindromic possibilities. This "World's Longest Palindrome" was either 4 or 8 small pages folded together and done in fine type. (forgive the lapse in memory, what's left of it.)
Bob Cobbing, when this pronouncement/announcement of the World's Longest Palindrome was made clear to him became quite vividly and demonstrably antagonistic, saying, no no no!!!! HE had written the world's longest Palindrome because his was just a simple "round" that endless spun around and around as a form of linguistic perpetual motion machine; thus, to be sure, being perpetual, it was "The World's Longest Palindrome."
This Palindrome after all, being perpetual, would be the longest in"Eternal Time," while the "mere" Untrained Palindrome was only long in the number of words, so that it's duration in time was far shorter.
This conversation itself had a Palindromic quality to it in that a Russian had to translate from Ukrainian to Russian for another Russian who translated from Russian to German which I then translated from German to English for Bob's reply, which then went "backwards" to its "original source," the Ukrainian poet.
This project by Mr Gheorghe (a Russian born "1005 Romanian) has also attarateced the attention of CNN, as one may see in the note below from one of Mr Georghe's sites (he is also a radiot/tv star as well as a school teacher in Romania.
Constraint based works often are very leaden in their effect, the "concept" being productive of things only too inevitable, like the thudding tautologies say of"Conceptual Poetry" of the contemporary American kind (nothing like Conceptual Poetry in "reality").
I think Mr. Gheorghe's project is an example of the Fun/Funny side of the Constraint based work's put to use to illustarte as it were the Inevitability of the Bromidic running amok!

,

"Longest Poem" featured on CNN.com<http://www.idevelop.ro/longest-poem-featured-on-cnn.htm>

The Longest Poem in the World <http://www.longestpoemintheworld.com/>, my experiment that I previously told you > about<http://www.idevelop.ro/cea-mai-lunga-poezie-din-lume.htm>was just featured in an article on > CNN Technology.

>
> Strangers gather on Web to make collective
> art<
> http://edition.cnn.com/2009/TECH/08/19/online.collaborative.art/index.html
>
> .
>
> Enjoy :)
> 6 comentarii<
> http://www.idevelop.ro/longest-poem-featured-on-cnn.htm#comments>
> Work <http://www.idevelop.ro/categorii/work>, Programare
> web<http://www.idevelop.ro/categorii/programare-web>,
> General <http://www.idevelop.ro/categorii/general>
>
> On Wed, Aug 19, 2009 at 8:26 PM, mIEKAL aND <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> The Longest Poem in the World
> http://www.longestpoemintheworld.com/
>
> guidelines

↑ Index

159. Crane's Bill Books

William L. Fox and Mark Owens in New Mexico

Mon 24 Aug 2009

(If you're in the area, you might find this tempting, especially if you're interested in ecopoetics and matters concerning land and language.)

THE LAND/an art site is hosting a limited-seating, salon-style dinner and conversation with William L. Fox, director of the Nevada Museum of Art's Center for Art + Environment, on Saturday, September 5, from 6 to 9 pm at THE LAND/gallery in Albuquerque. Bill is a poet (silence and license, One Wave Standing, Reading Sand), independent scholar, lecturer, curator, and author of many books on landscape (including Driving by Memory, The Void, the Grid and the Sign, Terra Antarctica, Driving to Mars, and most recently Aereality: On the World from Above, published this year by Counterpoint). This is a reservations-only, RSPV event, $50 per person, which includes dinner and wine. THE LAND is a nonprofit organization, so your $50 is tax-deductible. On Sunday, September 6, beginning at 2 pm, Bill will continue the conversation at THE LAND's spectacular outdoor environmental art site near Mountainair, New Mexico. He'll be joined by Mark Owens, a poet and artist from Portland, OR, who will introduce and discuss a language-based environmental project he's been working on for THE LAND. The Sunday event is free. There's more information about THE LAND/an art site at www.landartsite.org . Please forward this to anyone you think might be interested. J. A. Lee [redacted]

THE LAND/an art site
[redacted]
www.landartsite.org

↑ Index

160. Elizabeth Switaj
Re: The Longest Poem in the World
Mon 24 Aug 2009

2009/8/22 David Chirot <[redacted]>

> A Paradox: that constraint based works are so often founded on the principle of producing the most "unconstrained" works--i.e. "Endless," "Longest," maybe even someday the "Loudest" poem, like Blue Cheer's "primitive" (by today's sonic standards) late 60's/early 70's acid hard rock
> concept of "Louder than God."

It's like a balloon filled with sand: push it down in one spot, and it bulges out elsewhere. To be any nameable -est is only to be least constrained in one direction.

Then again, work all the sand into a single bulge and there isn't a lot of material left for the rest. Empty latex. Triteness.

Elizabeth Kate Switaj
www.elizabethkateswitaj.net

↑ Index

161. Jeffrey Side
Re: History of music website
Mon 24 Aug 2009

Thanks, Patrick. I would have normally done something similar, but I wanted to test the site's search capabilities compared to other music sites.

On Wed, 19 Aug 2009 13:23:17 -0500, Patrick Dillon
<[redacted]> wrote:

>Here is a link to the allmusic entry on Dylan:
>http://www.allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifrxqe5ldhe
>
>I'm not sure where you ended up on your search for Dylan. Personally, I >prefer to navigate the AllMusic site through Google, as I do with many other >sites. If I'm going to do a search for Bob Dylan, I don't go to allmusic and >then search for "Bob Dylan." I do a Google search for "Bob Dylan allmusic."
>And that will take me right to the profile.'
>
>Make sure to take note of the tabs, especially discography. There are full >reviews of most albums and, for Dylan, most songs.
>
>I do this particularly with AllMusic because I find that it has slow load >times.
>
>Here is the text from the Dylan AllMusic Page just cut and pasted into this >email: Good bye!
>
>
>Biographyby Stephen Thomas Erlewine
>
>Bob Dylan's influence on popular music is incalculable. As a songwriter, he >pioneered several different schools of pop songwriting, from confessional >singer/songwriter to winding, hallucinatory, stream of conscious narratives.
>As a vocalist, he broke down the notion that a singer must have a >conventionally good voice in order to perform, thereby redefining the >vocalist's role in popular music. As a musician, he sparked several genres >of pop music, including electrified folk-rock and country-rock. And that >just touches on the tip of his achievements. Dylan's force was evident >during his height of popularity in the '60s -- the >Beatles<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:hifrxqw5ldse>' >shift toward introspective songwriting in the mid-'60s never would have >happened without him -- but his influence echoed throughout several ... Read

>More... <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifrxqe5ldhe% 7ET1>
>-----
>
<http://adserver.adtechus.com/adlink/5132/860406/0/170/AdId=389116
;BnId=3;itime=705830452;nodecode=yes;link=http://www.eyewonderla bs.com/ct.cfm?
ewbust=0&file=http://cdn.eyewonder.com/100125/756848/1104531/NOS
CRIPTfailover.jpg&eid=1104531&name=Clickthru-NOSCRIPT&num=1&time=0&diff=0&click=http://www.floridasnatural.co m/fun-stuff/where-does-your-juice-come-from>
>
<http://adserver.adtechus.com/adlink/3.0/5132/860406/0/170/ADTECH;l oc=300;misc=[TIMESTAMP];rdclick=> > [image: The Freewheelin' Bob >Dylan]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=10:difqxqt5ld0e> >[image:
>Nashville Skyline]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=10:gifwxqt5ld0e>
> [image:
>Dylan [2007 3-CD
>Edition]]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=10:wifuxzyhldae>
>[image:
>Highway 61 Revisited]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=10:jifqxqt5ld0e>
> [image:
>Biograph] <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=10:kifrxqt5ld0e> [image:
>Blood on the Tracks]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=10:fifexqt5ld0e>
> [image: Listen
>Now!]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=50:difqxqt5ld0e%
7ER>
> [image: Listen
>Now!]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=50:gifwxqt5ld0e%
7ER>
> [image: Listen
>Now!]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=50:wifuxzyhldae%
7ER>

> [image: Listen
>Now!]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=50:jifqxqt5ld0e%
7ER>
> [image: Listen
>Now!]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=50:kifrxqt5ld0e%
7ER>
> [image: Listen
>Now!]<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=50:fifexqt5ld0e%
7ER>
>----------
>Other Entries
>
> - Movie Entry <http://www.allmovie.com/artist/88557>
> - Classical Music Entry<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=41:65657>
>
>Member Of
>
> - The Traveling
>Wilburys<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifixqr5ldse>
>
>Similar Artists
>
> - Van Morrison <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:jifuxqygldhe>
> - Neil Young <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:kifoxqr5ldfe>
> - John Prine <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:jifixqr5ldhe>
> - Joni Mitchell<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:3ifexqe5ldte>
> - John Hiatt <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:difixqe5ld0e>
> - George Harrison<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:hifrxqe5ld0e>
> - Grateful Dead<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:0ifoxqe5ldke>
> - Fairport Convention<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:fifwxqe5ldje>
> - The Byrds <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:3ifqxqw5ldfe>
> - Phil Ochs <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?

p=amg&sql=11:kifoxqq5ld6e>
> - Donovan <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:0ifqxqe5ldhe>
> - Ian Hunter <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:aifwxqe5ldae>
> - Buffalo Springfield<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:jifoxqw5ldde>
> - Tim Hardin <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:aifoxql5ldte>
> - Buffy Sainte-Marie<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:hifwxqq5ldhe>
> - Leonard Cohen<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:aifrxql5ldte>
> - A.A. Bondy <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:gpfyxqwrld6e>
> - Fred Neil <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:aifixqq5ld6e>
> - The Sir Douglas
>Quintet<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:difrxqr5ld0e>
> - David Blue <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:hifwxql5ldte>
> - Jesse Winchester<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:0ifrxqr5ldfe>
>
>See Also
>
> - Levon Helm <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:3nfuxqr5ldde>
> - Robbie Robertson<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:0ifixqr5ldje>
> - The Band <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:hifwxqw5ldse>
> - Joan Baez <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:0ifqxql5ldte>
> - Tom Wilson <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:3zfexqugldte>
> - Brian Blade <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:kcfpxqy5ldhe>
> - The Traveling
>Wilburys<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifixqr5ldse>
> - Ronee Blakley<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:dzftxq95ldje>

> - Johnny Cash <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:aifrxql5ldae>
> - Jakob Dylan <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:fbfyxqq5ldte>
> - Bob Dylan & the Rolling Thunder
>Revue<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jjfyxqtgldhe>
> - Blind Boy Grunt<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:0xfoxqykldhe>
>
>Influenced By
>
> - Rev. Gary Davis<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:3vfixq85ld6e>
> - Dave Van Ronk<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:kzfixqw5ldae>
> - Elvis Presley<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:jifuxqr5ldhe>
> - Little Richard<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:jifyxqe5ldde>
> - Woody Guthrie<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:jifoxql5ldte>
> - Hank Williams<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:dzfexqugldje>
> - Blind Lemon
>Jefferson<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:3ifoxq95ldke>
> - Leadbelly <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:jifqxq95ld0e>
>
>Followers
>
> - Died Pretty <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:difoxqe5ld6e>
> - Dan Fogelberg<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:0ifixqe5ldje>
> - John Lennon <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:hifrxqe5ldde>
> - The Long Ryders<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:hifixqe5ldde>
> - Leon Russell <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:0ifwxqr5ldke>
> - Uncle Tupelo <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?

p=amg&sql=11:0ifwxqr5ldde>
> - World Party <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:difuxqr5ldfe>
> - J.P. Jones <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:fjfwxql5ldae>
> - Eddie Vedder <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:0zfqxqegld0e>
> - Birddog <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:0jfuxqehldke>
> - The Slip <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:fpfyxqrkld6e>
> - Will Hoppey <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:kpfwxqrkldde>
> - Arlo Leach <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:anfuxqqkldfe>
> - Matthew Friedberger<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:aifixqlald6e>
> - Coque Malla <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:abfyxqraldke>
> - The Childballads<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:jcfqxqydldhe>
> - These United
>States<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3vfuxqydldte>
> - Scott Matthews<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:jbfwxqqrldae>
> - Sleepy Sun <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:fzfwxztgldje>
>
>Performed Songs By
>
> - Traditional <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:wzftxqekldte>
> - Jacques Levy <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:gjfwxqu5ldhe>
> - Robert Hunter<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:09frxqw5ldje>
> - Woody Guthrie<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:jifoxql5ldte>
> - Rev. Gary Davis<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?
p=amg&sql=11:3vfixq85ld6e>
> - Booker T. Washington
>White<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:fjfyxqegld6e>

> - Robbie Robertson<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:0ifixqr5ldje>
> - Johnny Cash <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:aifrxql5ldae>
> - Henry Thomas <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3iftxq95ldae>
> - Richard Manuel<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:wifixqlgldae>
> - Arthur "Big Boy" >Crudup<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jvfqxqy5ldse>
> - Hank Williams<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:dzfexqugldje>
> - Sam Shepard <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:dpfoxqegld0e>
> - Terry Holmes <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:hnfuxqy5ldae>
> - Rick Danko <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:g9fexqt5ldfe>
> - Curtis Mayfield<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:difyxqe5ldfe>
> - Jimmie Rodgers<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:jifoxql5ldde>
> - Blind Lemon >Jefferson<http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:3ifoxq95ldke>
> - Frank Warner <http://allmusic.com/cg/amg.dll?p=amg&sql=11:wzfexqtjld0e>
>

↑ Index

162. Anny Ballardini

The Poets' Corner _ a new update

Mon 24 Aug 2009

Other men are unaware of what they do when they are awake just as they are forgetful of what they do when they are asleep. (DK22B1) *Heraclitus

School and fall, summer is fading away in the heat and with a new update of the Poets’ Corner for you to read:

Ric Carfagna

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=338

Vince Gotera

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=341

Max Richards

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=342

John Moore Williams

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=343

harry k stammer

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=344

Peter Ganick

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=345

Jennifer Hill

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=346

Bonnie Roberts

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=347

Donna Pecore

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=348

Uche Ogbuji

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=349

Paolo Dalponte

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=350

Joanna Preston

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=351

Dora Malech

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=352

Rachel Loden

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=354

Ed Baker

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=355

New Poems by already featured Authors:

Merchant Hoshang

Full Fathoms Five

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=2963

Tad Richards

Episodes

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=67

Barry Alpert : http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content&pa=list_pages_categories&cid=17

· T,O,U,C,H,I,N,G [via Paul Sharits & David Franks]<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3001>
· FILM ROBERT FRANK<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3002>
· TALK JAMES BENNING<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3042>
· THE PRESENT [via Robert Frank]<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3063>
· KINO-EYE [via Dziga Vertrov]<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3064>
· OF PETER FORGACS<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3065>
· LES PLAGES D’AGNES [via Agnes Varda]<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3074>
· WARMING UP [for Arturo Ripstein]<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3108>

· SPARROW [via Johnnie To]<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3109>
· EYE IN THE SKY [via Yau Na-hoi & Johnnie To]<http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3124>

Sharon Brogan

Talking to the Animals

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3033

Halvard Johnson

Sonnet Whimsical Children

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3066

Marton Koppany

Still Life

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3077

Eugen Galasso

Poesiole e un racconto

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3091

Helen Ruggieri

FOREIGN LANGUAGES

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3092

Ruth Fainlight

DIXIT DOMINUS

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3123

Edward Mycue

the duboce triangle and my life

http://www.fieralingue.it/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=3125

Under Reviews

Soffi di Vertigine : Racconti e Poesie di Eugen Galasso – nota critica di Anny Ballardini

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules/poemreviews/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=262

Ned Condini presentato da Leonardo Franchini

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules/poemreviews/corner.php?pa=printpage&pid=263

As usual the order follows the one by which I received the contributions, with my acknowledgment to all contributing Poets and Artists. You can access the Main Index here:

http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=Content

my best wishes,

Anny Ballardini

--
Anny Ballardini
http://annyballardini.blogspot.com/
http://www.fieralingue.it/modules.php?name=poetshome
http://www.lulu.com/content/5806078
http://www.moriapoetry.com/ebooks.html
I Tell You: One must still have chaos in one to give birth to a dancing star!
Friedrich Nietzsche

« Stulta est clementia, cum tot ubique vatibus occurras, periturae parcere chartae » Giovenale

↑ Index

163. Pam Brown
thanks - jacket has a reviewer for Nicole mauro's book
Mon 24 Aug 2009

Dear Poeticists,

Thanks again for your quick response to my reques for a reviewer for Jacket.

We have assigned Nicole Mauro's book.

Cheerio from the Antipodes,
Pam

--

_____

blog : http://thedeletions.blogspot.com
website : http://pambrownbooks.blogspot.com/
associate editor : http://jacketmagazine.com/

_____

↑ Index

164. Daniel
Re: The Longest Poem in the World
Mon 24 Aug 2009

Another contender for longest poem:

http://www.ld4all.com/archive0205/viewtopic.php?t=4716&start=0&postdays=0&postorder=asc&highlight=

Posted: Tue Oct 28, 2003 5:06 am Post subject: Tibetan boy able to recite world's longest poem after dream!

---

http://story.news.yahoo.com/news?tmpl=story&u=/afp/20031022/od_afp/china_tibet_offbeat_031022132306

Tibetan boy able to recite world's longest poem after dream

BEIJING (AFP) - A 13-year-old Tibetan schoolboy has miraculously memorized large parts of the world's longest poem after having had a mysterious dream.

Sitar Doje, a fifth-grader from Qamdo prefecture, had his dream two years ago and can now recite "The Life of King Gesar" for up to six hours on end, the Xinhua news agency reported Wednesday.The agency says Tibet has a long tradition of people waking from sleep inexplicably able to recite the poem from memory. Most of these "God-taught Masters", however, are much older than Sitar Doje and are usually illiterate, the agency said.The lengthy 1,000-year old epic is also cherished by Mongolians and has given rise to a whole field of study referred to as "Gesarology", Xinhua said.

----- Original Message -----
From: "David Chirot" <[redacted]>
To: <[redacted]>
Sent: Saturday, August 22, 2009 7:32 AM
Subject: Re: The Longest Poem in the World

A Paradox: that constraint based works are so often founded on the principle of producing the most "unconstrained" works--i.e. "Endless," "Longest," maybe even someday the "Loudest" poem, like Blue Cheer's "primitive" (by today's sonic standards) late 60's/early 70's acid hard rock concept of "Louder than God."

There is also something of the "inevitbale" about these constarint based works:

For a moment i thought the Longest Poem might be something like the Burma Shave jingles (many, oddly, very like some of the poetry of Charles Bernstein) which stretched from coast to coast--hence a long poem covering thousands of miles . . . so this project would have as it's "inevitably" the meeting with the Oceans, something that Lautreamont i a strange way would understand: "O Ocean!"

Another form of this inevitblilty that one finds in these lines i the "Longest Poem" is they express both a tritieness and a lack of suprise in resoving by rhyme their dilemans.

That is--do they not read i a small way like the Fates terribly at Work?

Geleth Burgess in a 1968 Art Magaine article considered the Inevitbale from the point of view of the trite and the Bromide in "Are you a Bromide?" examiniing 48 "genuine cliches," in thre Grand Tradition of Flaubert's Dictionairre des idees recues (Dictionary of Accepted/Rceived ideas.) writes: of,for example, "It's not the moeny, it's the priniple of the thing" that: "Iti s not merely because the remark is trite that itis Bromidic. Ot is because with the Bromide the remark is INEVITABLE."

(Note: you can find Flaubert's Dictionary coupled with Ambrose Bierce's Devil's Dictionary being "serialized" letter by letter at http://davidbaptistechirot.blogspot.com Also being "serialized" is Edward Bernays's classic work from 1928: Propaganda, and a series of poems, tales, etc from H.Chase's 1958 book of homophonic "translations"..I hope to "serialize more such works re language, writing, words letters etc including more texts re the language of our times which is best expressed as the satuartion of it by/with Propaganda/advertising objectives. One of the misunderstaning of Corporate State Fascism as it is devloping in the US's latest formsof Capitalism is that the distinctions between advertsisng and Propaganda have been broken down. A book blurb can be read as an example of this, in which an ideology of writing is combined an ideology of "buy this book"! And why buy it--because it is part and parcel of what is good for one--the delicious fast food delights("You Are What You Eat") of propaganda-ads. Isn't that what this poem is about, "The Longest Poem?" And how about any poem one may read today written in the USA? Is it not saturated by the ideologies of production-consumption-more-more-faster-faster--a bizarre echoing of the terms in Charles Olson's Projective Verse: One sense impression/breath, letter, syllable, word, phrase, line following another, fast , faster, citizen!--etc) II met once a Ukrainian poet who claimed to have written "The World's longest Palindrome," helped by the fact that the Ukrainian language is apparently extraordinarily rich in palindromic possibilities. This "World's Longest Palindrome" was either 4 or 8 small pages folded together and done in fine type. (forgive the lapse in memory, what's left of it.) Bob Cobbing, when this pronouncement/announcement of the World's Longest Palindrome was made clear to him became quite vividly and demonstrably antagonistic, saying, no no no!!!! HE had written the world's longest Palindrome because his was just a simple "round" that endless spun around and around as a form of linguistic perpetual motion machine; thus, to be sure, being perpetual, it was "The World's Longest Palindrome." This Palindrome after all, being perpetual, would be the longest in"Eternal Time," while the "mere" Untrained Palindrome was only long in the number of words, so that it's duration in time was far shorter. This conversation itself had a Palindromic quality to it in that a Russian had to translate from Ukrainian to Russian for another Russian who translated from Russian to German which I then translated from German to English for Bob's reply, which then went "backwards" to its "original source," the Ukrainian poet. This project by Mr Gheorghe (a Russian born "1005 Romanian) has also attarateced the attention of CNN, as one may see in the note below from one of Mr Georghe's sites (he is also a radiot/tv star as well as a school teacher in Romania. Constraint based works often are very leaden in their effect, the "concept" being productive of things only too inevitable, like the thudding tautologies say of"Conceptual Poetry" of the contemporary American kind (nothing like Conceptual Poetry in "reality"). I think Mr. Gheorghe's project is an example of the Fun/Funny side of the Constraint based work's put to use to illustarte as it were the Inevitability of the Bromidic running amok!

,

“Longest Poem” featured on
CNN.com<http://www.idevelop.ro/longest-poem-featured-on-cnn.htm>

The Longest Poem in the World <http://www.longestpoemintheworld.com/>, my experiment that I previously told you about<http://www.idevelop.ro/cea-mai-lunga-poezie-din-lume.htm>was just featured in an article on CNN Technology.

Strangers gather on Web to make collective art<http://edition.cnn.com/2009/TECH/08/19/online.collaborative.art/index.html>
.

Enjoy :)
6 comentarii<http://www.idevelop.ro/longest-poem-featured-on-
cnn.htm#comments>
Work <http://www.idevelop.ro/categorii/work>, Programare
web<http://www.idevelop.ro/categorii/programare-web>,
General <http://www.idevelop.ro/categorii/general>

On Wed, Aug 19, 2009 at 8:26 PM, mIEKAL aND <[redacted]> wrote:

> The Longest Poem in the World
> http://www.longestpoemintheworld.com/
>
> guidelines

↑ Index

165. jared schickling
New American Press -- call for work
Mon 24 Aug 2009

Summer 2009 chapbook contest

Winner receives $250 and 25 copies (additional copies available at a 30 percent discount). The final judge will be Kelly Cherry, whose fiction, poetry, and nonfiction have won numerous awards. Some recent titles include Hazard and Prospect: New and Selected Poems; History, Passion, Freedom, Death, and Hope: Prose about Poetry; and the novels In the Wink of an Eye and We Can Still Be Friends. Her nineteenth book, The Retreats of Thought, is forthcoming from LSU Press in November 2009.

We would also like to congratulate Renee Ashley, whose collection of poems, The Verbs of Desiring, was chosen by final judge Kathy Fagan in the spring 2009 chapbook contest. Her book will be available in winter 2009/10.

To submit to the summer contest, please send 20-30 pages of your best writing (any genre) to:

Chapbook Contest

312 West Clark Street, Suite #1

Champaign, IL 61820

We read manuscripts blind, so please include a separate cover sheet with your name, address, email, and phone number, being sure to exclude any identifying information from the manuscript itself.

Please include a check or money order payable to "NEW AMERICAN PRESS" in the amount of $12 for each submission and a SASE for contest results. Multiple and simultaneous submissions are welcome.

Postmark deadline: September 15, 2009.

Further questions can be directed to [redacted].

_____ Hotmail® is up to 70% faster. Now good news travels really fast.

http://windowslive.com/online/hotmail?ocid=PID23391::T:WLMTAGL:ON:WL:en-US:WM_HYGN_faster:082009

↑ Index

166. Jonathan Penton
MEZCLA: Art and Writings from the Tumblewords Project
Mon 24 Aug 2009

The Tumblewords Project is a weekly, non-academic creative writing workshop that's been running in the El Paso/ southern New Mexico area for fourteen years, under the curatorship of Donna Snyder. Their first anthology, /MEZCLA,/ is now on its way, filled with poetry, prose, and visual art! It's currently available for pre-order at http://shop.makeitnewmedia.com/ , but if you're in the area, you'll want to come to the official release:

/MEZCLA: Art and Writings from the Tumblewords Project/
Book Release Party and Public Reading Downtown Library, Auditorium
501 Oregon, El Paso
Saturday, August 29th, 2-4pm

Hope to see you there! And check out /MEZCLA/'s MySpace page at http://www.myspace.com/494475713 <http://www.myspace.com/494475713>

↑ Index

167. Jim Andrews
Re: The Longest Poem in the World
Tue 25 Aug 2009

---

here's my take on LongestPoemInTheWorld.com:
http://netpoetic.com/2009/08/longestpoemintheworld-com

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

168. Jeffrey Side
Has British Poetry had any significance since ....
Tue 25 Aug 2009

New blog post:

"Has British Poetry had any significance since Wordsworth?"

This may seem an outlandish question, but I think it has some force behind it. Of course, the influence of Wordsworth on contemporary British mainstream poetry need hardly be stressed, and I have written extensively about this elsewhere. It is because of this influence that most of the celebrated British poetry of the Twentieth Century tended towards mediocrity when compared to American poetry of the same period.....

http://jeffrey-side.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

169. steve dalachinsky
joe maneri
Tue 25 Aug 2009

---

sad to announce the passing of joe maneri a great friend teacher composer and musician

↑ Index

170. { brad brace }
NP/bbs
Tue 25 Aug 2009

NOW PLAYING:

over 13 hours of fresh mp3 rips of long reticent monoaural, radio-drifts¥, soup kitchens, police sirens, and forgotten film-soundtracks

--- bbs: brad brace sound --- --- http://69.64.229.114:8000 --- --- http://bbrace.net/undisclosed.html ---

¥ strangely compelling recordings from car radio while travelling under high-frequency transmission lines in central california

--- bbs: brad brace sound --- --- http://69.64.229.114:8000 --- --- http://bbrace.net/undisclosed.html ---

[eventually these will also be uploaded to internet archive, scrib and lulu]

enjoy! /:b

↑ Index

171. Rob McLennan
the ottawa small press boko fair, fall edition
Tue 25 Aug 2009

---

span-o (the small press action network - ottawa) presents:
the ottawa
small press book fair

fall 2009 edition

will be happening Saturday, November 28, 2009 in room 203 of the Jack Purcell Community Centre (on Elgin, at 320 Jack Purcell Lane).

contact rob at [redacted] to sign up for a table, etc.

"once upon a time, way way back in October 1994, rob mclennan & James Spyker invented a two-day event called the ottawa small press book fair, and held the first one at the National Archives of Canada..." Spyker moved to Toronto soon after the first one, but the fair continues, thanks in part to the help of generous volunteers, various writers and publishers, and the public for coming out to participate with alla their love and their dollars.

General info:
the ottawa small press book fair
noon to 5pm (opens at 11:15am (NOTE NEW TIME) for exhibitors) admission free to the public.

$20 for exhibitors, full tables
$10 for half-tables
(payable to rob mclennan, c/o 858 Somerset St W, main floor, Ottawa Ontario K1R 6R7).

note for the sake of increased demand, we are now offering half tables. for catalog, exhibitors should send (on paper, not email name of press, address, email, web address, contact person, type of publications, list of publications (with price), if submissions are being considered & any other pertinent info, including upcoming ottawa-area events (if any). also, due to the increased demand for table space, exhibitors are asked to confirm far earlier than usual. i.e. -- before, say, the day of the fair.

the fair usually contains exhibitors with poetry books, novels, cookbooks, posters, t-shirts, graphic novels, comic books, magazines, scraps of paper, gum-ball machines with poems, 2x4s with text, etc, including (at previous events) Bywords, Dusty Owl, Chaudiere Books, above/ground press, Room 302 Books, The Puritan, The Ottawa Arts Review, Buschek Books, The Grunge Papers, Broken Jaw Press, BookThug, Proper Tales Press, and others.

happens twice a year, founded in 1994 by rob mclennan & James Spyker. now run by rob mclennan thru span-o.

questions, [redacted]

free things can be mailed for fair distribution to the same address. we will not be selling things for folk who cant make it, sorry. also, always looking for volunteers to poster, move tables, that sort of thing. let me know if anyone able to do anything. thanks.

for more information, bother rob mclennan.if you're able/willing to distribute posters/fliers for the fair, send me an email at [redacted]

http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/2009/08/ottawa-small-press-book-fair-fall-2009.html

-- writer/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...poetry - a compact of words (Salmon) ...2nd novel - missing persons www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

172. Séamas Cain
The Isle of St. Kilda
Tue 25 Aug 2009

_____

On the 29th of August 2009, there will be a simultaneous festival of arts & cultural events in communities throughout Scotland. This multi-site festival will celebrate the ancient Gaelic culture of one of the world's truly spectacular places, the Isle of St. Kilda.

http://www.stkilda.eu/st-kilda-day-2009/st-kilda-day-09-full-program

Events are planned in Edinburgh, Glasgow, Inverness, Berneray, the Isle of Harris, the Isle of Lewis, Perth, Argyll, Portree, & North Uist as well as South Uist.

The Isle of St. Kilda lies 65 kilometres out into the Atlantic to the west of Scotland's Outer Hebrides. The Isle of St. Kilda emerged from a huge volcano more than 50 million years ago & its vertical rock cliffs are dizzyingly tall.

This festival of the Isle of St. Kilda, sponsored by Gaelic Arts & Pròiseact nan Ealan, celebrates the place & the people of the Isle, their lives & their legacy in poetry & music & song, words & images, storytelling & film. (BBC ALBA will be showing a number of St. Kilda related programmes, so watch out for these in the run up to St. Kilda Day.)

www.stkilda.eu

Moran taing,

Séamas Cain
http://seamascain.writernetwork.com
http://www.freewebs.com/seamascain

↑ Index

173. Jeffrey Side
"Has British Poetry had any significance since Wordsworth?"
Tue 25 Aug 2009

Not sure if I have already posted this here:
New blog post:
"Has British Poetry had any significance since Wordsworth?"

This may seem an outlandish question, but I think it has some force behind it. Of course, the influence of Wordsworth on contemporary British mainstream poetry need hardly be stressed, and I have written extensively about this elsewhere. It is because of this influence that most of the celebrated British poetry of the Twentieth Century tended towards mediocrity when compared to American poetry of the same period.....

http://jeffrey-side.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

174. cris cheek
Re: TRIBUTE TO DAVID BROMIGE
Tue 25 Aug 2009

cheer!!!

On Aug 24, 2009, at 11:31 AM, Michael wrote:

> TRIBUTE SHOW to DAVID BROMIGE
>
> August 26, 2009 7:00 p.m.
>
> Katherine Hastings presents a one-hour tribute to the late poet David Bromige. The author of dozens of books and the recipient of many literary honors, David Bromige was also a former Poet Laureate of Sonoma County, a professor at Sonoma State University, and a mentor to many. His experimental style and sharp wit translated to a large collection of work so varied that the poems could easily be mistaken as the work of many. Born in London in 1933, Bromige died in Sebastopol in June of this year. Participating in tonight's program will be his wife, Cecelia Belle, their daughter, Margaret, and others. Recordings of Bromige reading his work will also be featured.
>
> To listen to the program:

> 1) Tune in to KRCB 91.1 FM
>
> 2) Stream live at www.krcb/org
>
> 3) iTunes: Go to Radio/Public/KRCB
>
> 4) Comcast Cable TV, Santa Rosa, Channel 961
>
> welcome.html

↑ Index

175. David-Baptiste Chirot

Re: The Longest Poem in the World

Tue 25 Aug 2009

Dear Murat ion an essay on conecptual poetry i wrote that is gigantic production of words stands in the way of the concept-- to produce at the Paul Bunyesque dimensions of sheer colossal Million Year Planning Programs (a nice pun in there!) defeats the conceptual by burryin git under masses of word waste . . . over-production leading to over flowiing of garbage and then the need of barges and places coerced into storing the endless verbiage . . . i think mr georghe in a sense distances himself fro these actions--or does he--more than other so called coneptual poets (plus the work is hialrious at first in the sense of poetry , poems now entering the Guinbess Books of Records--soon there wil be contest for the most boring poem, the worst poem, the most politically correct poem, the poe wuith the most allusisons to onself, the absolutely most avanat poem andetc even the most stoned or drunk poem! the DWI poem! one of the problems of conceptual art arises here which is there were shows of it back in the seventies where the verbiage explaining and accompanying in some constrained manner perhaps--all of this verbiage dwarfed the actual object of production consumption and waste (i can hear freddy fender singing "wasted days and wasted nights" for me an aspect of the conceptual works that are truly so, is to think of the millions and millions through human history who were a great poet or artist and because (most primarily gender) were not allowed to write or paint or create their own forms of dance, musics-- to me these conceptual works which find one when one is finding ones way along--these are the truly conceptual works because they exist as concepts, never realized and become the opposite of conceptual activity and bury it in masses of words robert Smithson wrote that a great artists can create art with a glance, and so the work is not trapped i an object, art object which has to be judged in terms of value and time--with ignoring the artist's time being paramount-i believe in this very much a i various superconstraining places and situation one is allowed to only make conceptual arts in their purely conceptual stages there are some serious and interesting issues and ideas in thinking with the conceptul in relation to a "work" (in al the punning senses of the word) of art--becuase the production contradicts the coneptual--one has to find a different way than the sophistry or jokes bandied about re conceptual poetry. oh my God NO i didnt think of automatism the real ineterst in conceptual poertycan be such things as The Literature of the No, to which i i am realting it in various ways-- i do think though every day of some great or just painter poet dancers who can't work today in their media nor have been beeen bale to across the spans of history this is why an connection with the Literature of the NO is important, because in a way its NO exists as Protest against the suppression, the enforced no's-- superporouction is just what it always is -superproduction--leading basialy to waste and pollution etc

> Date: Mon, 24 Aug 2009 11:52:06 -0400
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: The Longest Poem in the World
> To: [redacted]
>
> David,
>
> I think process/procedure determined digital poems are longest-poems producing machines.
> Or a poem based on a number series stretching infinitely at both ends. Here a conceptual work leads to a plethora of words -a concept as a word producing machine.
>
> Did you think of the connection between longest-poems and machines, which itself a "rationalization" of automatism, this surrealist tool afflicted with cancer.
>
> Ciao,
>
> Murat
>
> On Sat, Aug 22, 2009 at 7:32 AM, David Chirot <[redacted]>wrote:
>
> A Paradox: that constraint based works are so often founded on the principle of producing the most "unconstrained" works--i.e. "Endless," "Longest," maybe even someday the "Loudest" poem, like Blue Cheer's "primitive" (by today's sonic standards) late 60's/early 70's acid hard rock
> concept of "Louder than God."

There is also something of the "inevitbale" about these constarint based works:

For a moment i thought the Longest Poem might be something like the Burma Shave jingles (many, oddly, very like some of the poetry of Charles Bernstein) which stretched from coast to coast--hence a long poem covering thousands of miles . . .
so this project would have as it's "inevitably" the meeting with the Oceans,
something that Lautreamont i a strange way would understand: "O Ocean!"

Another form of this inevitblilty that one finds in these lines i the "Longest Poem" is they express both a tritieness and a lack of suprise in resoving by rhyme their dilemans.

That is--do they not read i a small way like the Fates terribly at Work?

Geleth Burgess in a 1968 Art Magaine article considered the Inevitbale from the point of view of the trite and the Bromide in "Are you a Bromide?" examiniing 48 "genuine cliches," in thre Grand Tradition of Flaubert's Dictionairre des idees recues (Dictionary of Accepted/Rceived ideas.) writes: of,for example, "It's not the moeny, it's the priniple of the thing" that:
"Iti s not merely because the remark is trite that itis Bromidic. Ot is because with the Bromide the remark is INEVITABLE."

(Note: you can find Flaubert's Dictionary coupled with Ambrose Bierce's Devil's Dictionary being "serialized" letter by letter at http://davidbaptistechirot.blogspot.com
Also being "serialized" is Edward Bernays's classic work from 1928: Propaganda, and a series of poems, tales, etc from H.Chase's 1958 book of homophonic "translations"..I hope to "serialize more such works re language, writing, words letters etc including more texts re the language of our times which is best expressed as the satuartion of it by/with Propaganda/advertising objectives. One of the misunderstaning of Corporate State Fascism as it is devloping in the US's latest formsof Capitalism is that the distinctions between advertsisng and Propaganda have been broken down. A book blurb can be read as an example of this, in which an ideology of writing is combined an ideology of "buy this book"! And why buy it--because it is part and parcel of what is good for one--the delicious fast food delights("You Are What You Eat") of propaganda-ads. Isn't that what this poem is about, "The Longest Poem?" And how about any poem one may read today written in the USA? Is it not saturated by the ideologies of production-consumption-more-more-faster-faster--a bizarre echoing of the terms in Charles Olson's Projective Verse: One sense impression/breath, letter, syllable, word, phrase, line following another, fast , faster, citizen!--etc)

II met once a Ukrainian poet who claimed to have written "The World's longest Palindrome," helped by the fact that the Ukrainian language is apparently extraordinarily rich in palindromic possibilities. This "World's Longest Palindrome" was either 4 or 8 small pages folded together and done in fine type. (forgive the lapse in memory, what's left of it.)
Bob Cobbing, when this pronouncement/announcement of the World's Longest Palindrome was made clear to him became quite vividly and demonstrably antagonistic, saying, no no no!!!! HE had written the world's longest Palindrome because his was just a simple "round" that endless spun around and around as a form of linguistic perpetual motion machine; thus, to be sure, being perpetual, it was "The World's Longest Palindrome."
This Palindrome after all, being perpetual, would be the longest in"Eternal Time," while the "mere" Untrained Palindrome was only long in the number of words, so that it's duration in time was far shorter.
This conversation itself had a Palindromic quality to it in that a Russian had to translate from Ukrainian to Russian for another Russian who translated from Russian to German which I then translated from German to English for Bob's reply, which then went "backwards" to its "original source," the Ukrainian poet.
This project by Mr Gheorghe (a Russian born "1005 Romanian) has also attarateced the attention of CNN, as one may see in the note below from one of Mr Georghe's sites (he is also a radiot/tv star as well as a school teacher in Romania.
Constraint based works often are very leaden in their effect, the "concept" being productive of things only too inevitable, like the thudding tautologies say of"Conceptual Poetry" of the contemporary American kind (nothing like Conceptual Poetry in "reality").
I think Mr. Gheorghe's project is an example of the Fun/Funny side of the Constraint based work's put to use to illustarte as it were the Inevitability of the Bromidic running amok!

,

"Longest Poem" featured on CNN.com<http://www.idevelop.ro/longest-poem-featured-on-cnn.htm>

The Longest Poem in the World <http://www.longestpoemintheworld.com/>, my experiment that I previously told you about<http://www.idevelop.ro/cea-mai-lunga-poezie-din-lume.htm>was just featured in an article on CNN Technology.

> Strangers gather on Web to make collective
> art<
> http://edition.cnn.com/2009/TECH/08/19/online.collaborative.art/index.html
>
> .
>
> Enjoy :)
> 6 comentarii<
> http://www.idevelop.ro/longest-poem-featured-on-cnn.htm#comments>
> Work <http://www.idevelop.ro/categorii/work>, Programare
> web<http://www.idevelop.ro/categorii/programare-web>,
> General <http://www.idevelop.ro/categorii/general>
>
> On Wed, Aug 19, 2009 at 8:26 PM, mIEKAL aND <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> The Longest Poem in the World
> http://www.longestpoemintheworld.com/
>
> guidelines

_____ Windows Live:
Keep your friends up to date with what you do online.
http://windowslive.com/Campaign/SocialNetworking?
ocid=PID23285::T:WLMTAGL:ON:WL:en-US:SI_SB_online:082009

↑ Index

176. steve russell
Re: The Longes Poem In The World
Wed 26 Aug 2009

Nope, not nearly as fun as the surrealist equisite corpse.

↑ Index

177. Jim Andrews
Re: longestpoemintheworld.com
Wed 26 Aug 2009

---

i read some responses to http://longestpoemintheworld.com that seemed to me to be missing its charms.

the guy who made longestpoemintheworld.com doesn't even think of it as art, apparently. i think that's a mistake.

it doesn't have to be sophocles to be art, mind you. there's all sorts of art from very serious to very silly, from tragic to comic, from high to low, from popular to cultish, from luddite to high-tech, from entertainment to the very hard to bear.

in this piece, tweets are selected and pairs of them are selected to form a longer work and we ourselves try out the notion of different speakers amongst the lines. we know there's a different writer from line to line, but part of the interest of the piece is how we find it interesting to suppose otherwise, in some cases. the point being that what is composed here is not like a tweet or like journalism or whatever. it's art: it's made up/together, although the 'material' is the quotidian matter of a large, real-time, incoming database of micro-blog tweets.

they guy who made this piece is obviously not particularly sophisticated concerning art or poetry.

but he's on to something.

don't read it expecting typical poetry. consider the source and the method and the author.

it's surprising that it reads so interestingly.

like, say, some of kenneth koch's book length rhyming works. he was very playful with his rhyming work.

different from koch's work, also, of course, but the language is similarly um 'everyday'--although, as with koch's work, the rhyming is a source of delight and reversal, wonderful justaposition, resolution, and so on--all the magic of what rhyme can do to two lines.

longestpoemintheworld.com was not even done by a serious poet. so, you know, don't get yer shirt in a knot. it is a literary piece of net art, though. and a surprisingly good one, all things considered. as i said, he's apparently on to something that the serious poets can learn from and put in their bag of tricks, in some sense.

if you read it and all you can discern is the trite, well, that's a trite reading.

the tweets are often trite, it's true. and the result of the rhyme amongst trite tweets is trite. but keep in mind that these things that are written via algorithm are such that we expect to 'throw away' stuff and look for the more interesting results. the interesting couplets are often quite poignant. or flashingly humourous.

the work sometimes involves real pain, troubles, and situations and just a whole rainbow of attitudes toward them.

one of the reasons i have put so much work into dbCinema is i am fascinated with the possibs involved in image search. you type something in and bingo there's a thousand (somehow) related images to what you typed in. images by people from around the world. a kind of a crazy mixed up global langu(im)agical lookup.

there's something of the same spirit of that crazy mixed up but all too human collectivity in the method and madness of http://longestpoemintheworld.com . it gives us a strong sense of significance beyond the trite but certainly also involving the trite.

don't be too scared of it. be not afraid of these spooky things. they are like wind chimes only not the spirit of the wind but our spirit blowing through the machine.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

178. Alan Sondheim
(no subject)
Wed 26 Aug 2009

---

rest in peace

↑ Index

179. steve russell
British Poetry Since Wordworth
Wed 26 Aug 2009

I've tried reading Geoffrey Hill. According to some, he's the most significant poet in the English language. But Elliot provided footnotes. Hill seems to think that everyone has a degree from either Cambridge or Oxford, or perhaps his poetry is only meant for those endowed with said degrees. Not that I mind the degree, but really, at least provide the "common" reader with footnotes.

↑ Index

180. Joel Weishaus
"The Gateless Gate" Pages 31-32
Wed 26 Aug 2009

Dear Friends and Colleagues:

Here are pages 31-32 (one screen) of "The Gateless Gate":
http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/Gate/Pgs%2031-32.htm

Archive site:
http://www.cddc.vt.edu/host/weishaus/Gate/Pgs%2031-32.htm

Introduction:
http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/Gate/Intro.htm

As always, thank you to those of you who have written to me on this project.

-Joel

↑ Index

181. judith goldman
Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre
Wed 26 Aug 2009

Dear all, Many thanks to those of you who responded to my query about examples of and critical writings on homophonic translation. I'd love to hear further, if any more of you have thoughts.

Currently, I'm looking for books, essays, and articles--good, hardcore, worthwhile, useful pedagogically--on the theory of lyric poetry, from any period of history. (No such thing as too well known or obvious--and even poems that theorize the lyric would be great.) Works on contemporary experimental poetry would be especially appreciated, but please treat this request expansively. Anything on the web, too.

All best,

Judith Goldman

↑ Index

182. steve russell
Fw: Re: British Poetry Since Wordworth
Wed 26 Aug 2009

I once was clueless. I'm now clued in.
& to think, a few decades ago I would have remained clueless and bitter, ignorant without the bliss.

--- On Wed, 8/26/09, Jacquilyn Weeks <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Jacquilyn Weeks <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: British Poetry Since Wordworth
To: "steve russell" <[redacted]>
Date: Wednesday, August 26, 2009, 3:26 PM

The footnotes to Geoffrey Hill are the Oxford English Dictionary. He meant it when he said "etymology is history." Most of his poetry is based on multi-layered word play, and he always gives you some kind of hint that lets you into the poem.

For example, the hint words in "September Song" are the dates set just below the title and the word "Zyklon." Once you look that up (it's a cyanide gas invented by a German Jew as a pesticide - he won the Nobel for it in 1918-- used in the Nazi death chambers) then the rest of the poem starts popping out at you: "passed over" ("Passover"), "just" (meaning "justice," "only," "barely," etc.), flakes of ashes getting into the poet's eye (making him cry?)

You don't really need a degree, as much as the kind of mind that gets into crossword puzzles. Some people find this offputting - if you can think of the whole process as a game, does that diminish the power of talking about the Holocaust? But Hill would argue that language tends toward simplicity, and that linguistic oversimplification is a kind of fascism. Struggling through the possible meanings is a way of re-sensitizing ourselves to the dangers and possibilities of language. It trains us not to be seduced or easily swayed by sloagy rhetoric that simplifies things down to "Axis of Evil Bad, Us Good"

Hope that helps,
Jacqui Weeks

University of Notre Dame
Department of English
Gender Studies Predoctoral Teaching Fellow
Internship Advisor/Research Workshop Coordinator
Fairy Tale Network List Editor
325 O'Shaughnessy Hall

Notre Dame, IN 46556
[redacted]

On Wed, Aug 26, 2009 at 12:43 PM, steve russell <[redacted]> wrote:

I've tried reading Geoffrey Hill. According to some, he's the most significant poet in the English language.

But Elliot provided footnotes. Hill seems to think that everyone has a degree from either Cambridge or Oxford, or perhaps his poetry is only meant for those endowed with said degrees. Not that I mind the degree, but really, at least provide the "common" reader with footnotes.

↑ Index

183. Alan Sondheim
Short shrift skirting Copenhagen courtesy of Netfilmmakers 2009
Wed 26 Aug 2009

Short shrift skirting Copenhagen courtesy of Netfilmmakers 2009

http://www.alansondheim.org/copenhagen.mp4

About eleven minutes from the DVD, fun even with unruly compression ----
When later heard Yusef Lateef it was different, that was Copenhagen. And 1973-1974 I went to Europe with B___; we lived for a month in Copenhagen
When later heard Yusef Lateef it was different, that was Copenhagen. And 1973-1974 I went to Europe with B___; we lived for a month in Copenhagen

Thank you Annette, Sachiko, Lance, Talan, everyone!

↑ Index

184. Halvard Johnson
Shortest poem in the world?
Wed 26 Aug 2009

Click here:

http://www.artpool.hu/kepkolteszet/Saroyan.html

"The days are wonderful and the nights are wonderful and the life is pleasant."
--Gertrude Stein

Halvard Johnson
==========
[redacted]
http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org

↑ Index

185. Robert Fernandez
New from Cosa Nostra Editions
Wed 26 Aug 2009

Dear Friends of Cosa Nostra,

We're proud to announce the release of Anthony Madrid's The 580 Strophes and Mary Hickman's How to Be Healthy & Heal, in addition to two broadsides: Benjamin Paloff's "Maimonides on Scriptural Passages with Seemingly Purposeless Contents" and Mary Hickman's "[The comets laugh...]." These letter-pressed items are now available at http://www.cosanostra-editions.com/.

About the Authors

Anthony Madrid lives in Chicago. His poems have recently appeared or are forthcoming in AGNI Online, Cincinnati Review, FlashPoint, Forklift Ohio, LIT, Now Culture, PANK, Shampoo, 6X6, and WEB CONJUNCTIONS. The title of his manuscript is THE GETTING RID OF THE THAT WHICH CANNOT BE DONE WITHOUT.

Benjamin Paloff is a poetry editor at Boston Review and assistant professor of Slavic languages and literatures and of comparative literature at the University of Michigan. The recipient of a 2009 fellowship from the National Endowment for the Arts, his poems have appeared in Conduit, A Public Space, and elsewhere.

Mary Hickman is a graduate of the Iowa Writers' Workshop, where she was an Iowa Arts Fellow. She is currently an English Ph.D. candidate at the University of Iowa. A chapbook, Ecce Animot, will be released by Projective Industries in September 2009. She was born in Idaho and grew up in China and Taiwan. Purchase How to Be Healthy & Heal.

...

Be sure to keep an eye out for an Anthony Madrid broadside (forthcoming this fall) and an announcement of CN's first open reading period...

With best wishes,
The Editors
Cosa Nostra Editions

↑ Index

186. steve russell
Re: The Longest Poem in the World
Thu 27 Aug 2009

---

yes, verbal clutter. verbal mud wrestling. the wicked verb -- to do what exactly?
the DWI poem.
did you mean the DUI poem, Dave?
that's my invention.
i'll copyright my next...

the DUI poem: handcuffs, fingerprints ... how perfectly abstract, yet completely transparant, revealing the very core of the artistic inner-self ... the self/help coffee book soon to follow, yes/yes/yes!!!!!!!!!! --- On Tue, 8/25/09, David-Baptiste Chirot <[redacted]> wrote:

From: David-Baptiste Chirot <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: The Longest Poem in the World
To: [redacted]
Date: Tuesday, August 25, 2009, 6:37 PM

Dear Murat ion an essay on conecptual poetry i wrote that is gigantic production of words stands in the way of the concept-- to produce at the Paul Bunyesque dimensions of sheer colossal Million Year Planning Programs (a nice pun in there!) defeats the conceptual by burryin git under masses of word waste . . . over-production leading to over flowiing of garbage and then the need of barges and places coerced into storing the endless verbiage . . . i think mr georgheÂ in a sense distances himself fro these actions--or does he--more than other so called coneptual poets (plus the work is hialrious at first in the sense of poetry , poems now entering the Guinbess Books of Records--soon there wil be contest for the most boring poem, the worst poem, the most politically correct poem, the poe wuith the most allusisons to onself, the absolutely most avanat poem andetc even the most stoned or drunk poem! the DWI poem! one of the problems of conceptual art arises here which is there were shows of it back in the seventies where the verbiage explaining and accompanying in some constrained manner perhaps--all of this verbiage dwarfed the actual object of production consumption and waste (i can hear freddy fender singingÂ "wasted days and wasted nights" for me an aspect of the conceptual works that are truly so, is to think of the millions and millions through human history who were a great poet or artist and because (most primarily gender) were not allowed to write or paint or create their own forms of dance, musics-- to me these conceptual works which find one when one is finding ones way along--these are the truly conceptual works because they exist as concepts, never realized and become the opposite of conceptual activity and bury it in masses of words robert Smithson wrote that a great artists can create art with a glance, and so the work is not trapped i an object, art object which has to be judged in terms of value and time--with ignoring the artist's time being paramount-i believe in this very much a i various superconstraining places and situation one is allowed to only make conceptual arts in their purely conceptual stages there are some serious and interesting issues and ideas in thinking with the conceptul in relation to a "work" (in al the punning senses of the word) of art--becuase the production contradicts the coneptual--one has to find a different way than the sophistry or jokes bandied about re conceptual poetry. oh my God NO i didnt think of automatism the real ineterst in conceptual poertycan be such things as The Literature of the No, to which i i am realting it in various ways-- i do think though every dayÂ of some great or just painter poet dancers who can't work today in their media nor have been beeen bale to across the spans of history this is why an connection with the

Literature of the NO is important, because in a way its NO exists as Protest against the suppression, the enforced no's-- superporouction is just what it always is -superproduction--leading basialy to waste and pollution etc

> Date: Mon, 24 Aug 2009 11:52:06 -0400
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: The Longest Poem in the World
> To: [redacted]
>
> David,
>
> I think process/procedure determined digital poems are longest-poems producing machines.
> Or a poem based on a number series stretching infinitely at both ends. Here a conceptual work leads to a plethora of words -a concept as a word producing machine.
>
> Did you think of the connection between longest-poems and machines, which itself a "rationalization" of automatism, this surrealist tool afflicted with cancer.
>
> Ciao,
>
> Murat
>
> On Sat, Aug 22, 2009 at 7:32 AM, David Chirot <[redacted]>wrote:
>
> Â A Paradox: that constraint based works are so often founded on the principle of producing the most "unconstrained" works--i.e. "Endless," "Longest," maybe even someday the "Loudest" poem, like Blue Cheer's "primitive" (by today's sonic standards) late 60's/early 70's acid hard rock > concept of "Louder than God."
>
> There is also somethingÂ of the "inevitbale" about these constarint based works:
>
> For a moment i thought the Longest Poem might be something like the Burma Shave jingles (many, oddly, very like some of the poetry of Charles Bernstein) which stretched from coast to coast--hence a long poem covering thousands of miles . . .
> so this project would have as it's "inevitably" the meeting with the Oceans, > something that Lautreamont i a strange way would understand: "O Ocean!"
>
> Another form of this inevitblilty that one finds in these lines i the "Longest Poem" is they express both a tritieness and a lack of suprise in

resoving by rhyme their dilemans.

That is--do they not read i a small way like the Fates terribly at Work?

Geleth Burgess in a 1968 Art MagaineÂ article considered the Inevitbale from the point of view of the trite and the Bromide in "Are you a Bromide?"
examiniing 48 "genuine cliches," in thre Grand Tradition of Flaubert's Dictionairre des idees recues (Dictionary of Accepted/Rceived ideas.)
writes:Â of,for example, "It's not the moeny, it's the priniple of the thing" that:
"Iti s not merely because the remark is trite that itis Bromidic.Â Ot is because with the Bromide the remark is INEVITABLE."

(Note: you can find Flaubert's Dictionary coupled with Ambrose Bierce's Devil's Dictionary being "serialized" letter by letter at http://davidbaptistechirot.blogspot.com
Also being "serialized" is Edward Bernays's classic work from 1928:
Propaganda, and a series of poems, tales, etc from H.Chase's 1958 book of homophonic "translations"..I hope to "serialize more such works re language, writing, words letters etc including more texts re the language of our times which is best expressed as the satuartion of it by/with Propaganda/advertising objectives. One of the misunderstaning of Corporate State Fascism as it is devloping in the US's latest formsof Capitalism is that the distinctions between advertsisng and Propaganda have been broken down.Â A book blurb can be read as an example of this, in which an ideology of writing is combined an ideology of "buy this book"! And why buy it--because it is part and parcel of what is good for one--the delicious fast food delights("You Are What You Eat")Â of propaganda-ads. Isn't that what this poem is about, "The Longest Poem?" And how about any poem one may read today written in the USA?Â Is it not saturated by the ideologies of production-consumption-more-more-faster-faster--a bizarre echoing of the terms in Charles Olson's Projective Verse:Â One sense impression/breath, letter, syllable, word, phrase, line following another, fast , faster, citizen!--etc) II met once a Ukrainian poet who claimed to have written "The World's longest Palindrome," helped by the fact that the Ukrainian language is apparently extraordinarily rich in palindromic possibilities.Â This "World's Longest Palindrome" was either 4 or 8 small pages folded together and done in fine type.Â (forgive the lapse in memory, what's left of it.)
Bob Cobbing, when this pronouncement/announcement of the World's Longest Palindrome was made clear to him became quite vividly and demonstrably antagonistic, saying, no no no!!!! HE had written the world's longest Palindrome because his was just a simple "round" that endless spun around and around as a form of linguistic perpetual motion machine; thus, to be sure, being perpetual, it was "The World's Longest Palindrome."

This Palindrome after all, being perpetual, would be the longest in"Eternal Time," while the "mere" Untrained Palindrome was only long in the number of words, so that it's duration in time was far shorter.
This conversation itself had a Palindromic quality to it in that a Russian had to translate from Ukrainian to Russian for another Russian who translated from Russian to German which I then translated from German to English for Bob's reply, which then went "backwards" to its "original source," the Ukrainian poet.
This project by Mr Gheorghe (a Russian born "1005 Romanian) has also attarateced the attention of CNN, as one may see in the note below from one of Mr Georghe's sites (he is also a radiot/tv star as well as a school teacher in Romania.
Constraint based works often are very leaden in their effect, the "concept" being productive of things only too inevitable, like the thudding tautologies say of"Conceptual Poetry" of the contemporary American kind (nothing like Conceptual Poetry in "reality").
I think Mr. Gheorghe's project is an example of the Fun/Funny side of the Constraint based work's put to use to illustarte as it were the Inevitability of the Bromidic running amok!

,

Â â€œLongest Poemâ€ featured on CNN.com<http://www.idevelop.ro/longest-poem-featured-on-cnn.htm>

The Longest Poem in the World <http://www.longestpoemintheworld.com/>, my experiment that I previously told you about<http://www.idevelop.ro/cea-mai-lunga-poezie-din-lume.htm>was just featured in an article on CNN Technology.

Strangers gather on Web to make collective art< http://edition.cnn.com/2009/TECH/08/19/online.collaborative.art/index.html

.

Enjoy :)
6 comentarii< http://www.idevelop.ro/longest-poem-featured-on-cnn.htm#comments>
Work <http://www.idevelop.ro/categorii/work>, Programare web<http://www.idevelop.ro/categorii/programare-web>, General <http://www.idevelop.ro/categorii/general>

> On Wed, Aug 19, 2009 at 8:26 PM, mIEKAL aND <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> The Longest Poem in the World
> http://www.longestpoemintheworld.com/
>
> guidelines

_____ Windows Live: Keep your friends up to date with what you do online. http://windowslive.com/Campaign/SocialNetworking?ocid=PID23285::T:WLMTAGL:ON:WL:en-US:SI_SB_online:082009

↑ Index

187. Maria Damon
Re: Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre
Thu 27 Aug 2009

I took a wonderful course on this very topic as a grad student, from Prof. David Wellbery. We read a lot of structuralist stuff, Jacobsen and Saussure, Michael Riffaterre, Walter Benjamin (on some motifs in baudelaire), Herder, schiller, the groupe Mu, de Man, Geoffrey Hartmann, i think J. Culler, Karl-Heinz Stierle, Hans-Robert Jauss, etc., Nicholas Greimas, Alexander Baumgarten, etc. I would also suggest the Preface to Lyrical Ballads... not to go too shameless on you, but some of the stuff in /Poetry and Cultural Studies: A Reader/ is pertinent... or I wonder if Wellbery (now at U-Chicago, your stomping ground) still has a syllabus on hand...it's from the 1980s, before computers, so he may not.

judith goldman wrote:
> Dear all,
> Many thanks to those of you who responded to my query about examples of and > critical writings on homophonic translation. I'd love to hear further, if > any more of you have thoughts.
>
> Currently, I'm looking for books, essays, and articles--good, hardcore, > worthwhile, useful pedagogically--on the theory of lyric poetry, from any > period of history. (No such thing as too well known or obvious--and even > poems that theorize the lyric would be great.) Works on contemporary > experimental poetry would be especially appreciated, but please treat this > request expansively. Anything on the web, too.
>

> All best,
>
> Judith Goldman
>
>

↑ Index

188. John Steen
Re: Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre
Thu 27 Aug 2009

Dear Judith,

The book I've found most helpful for my understanding of lyric is Allen Grossman's The Sighted Singer. The book consists of three parts, of which the first two are interviews between Grossman and his former student (now poet and scholar) Mark Halliday. The book's examples are mainly from the British tradition and the American 20th century, but Grossman derives his theory of lyric with reference to classical models. Grossman's essays in The Long Schoolroom and, more recently, True-Love: Essays on Poetry and Value, give some examples of the theory at work in the reading of various poets.

Another great, and very teachable, article is Jonathan Culler's short piece, "Apostrophe." [Diacritics 7.4 (Winter 1977): 59-69.]

Finally,* The New Princeton Encyclopedia of Poetry and Poetics* article on lyric is a nice overview of lyric poetry's development as a genre from Greece to the present, and I mined its extensive bibliography of works on poetic theory in composing lists for my Ph.D exams.

Best,

John

↑ Index

189. Michael Tod Edgerton
Re: Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre
Thu 27 Aug 2009

Judith, I'm composing a list on the theory of the lyric, too, so far only modern/contemporary, but interested in all periods, as well. If others can please forward me titles, as well, I'd appreciate it. Here's what I have now (sorry, it's not in proper bibilographic format):

Charles Altieri.Subjective Agency: A Theory of First-Person Expressivity and Its Social Implications

_____. Self and Sensibility in Contemporary American Poetry

Charles Bernstein. Contentâ€™s Dream: Essays 1975-1984

_____, ed. Close Listening

Jacob Blevin, ed. Dialogism and Lyric Self-Fashioning: Bakhtin and the Voices of a Genre

Harold Bloom. The Anxiety of Influence; Map of Misreading; Agon

Sharon Cameron. Lyric Time: Dickinson and the Limits of Genre

Brian Conniff. The Lyric and Modern Poetry: Olson, Creeley, Bunting

Joseph Conte. Unending Design: The Forms of Postmodern Poetry

Michael Davidson: Ghostlier Demarcations: Modern Poetry and the Material Word

Robert Duncan, Selected Prose

Rachel Blau DuPlessis, The Pink Guitar: Writing as Feminist Practice

Cleanth Brooks. The Well Wrought Urn: Studies in the Structure of Poetry

William Empson. Seven Types of Ambiguity

Forrest Gander. A Faithful Existence: Reading, Memory, and Transcendence

Dana Gioia, â€œCan Poetry Matter?â€ (Title chapter of the book only) Linda Gregerson. Negative Capability: Contemporary American Poetry
Lyn Hejinian. â€œBarbarismâ€ and â€œThe Rejection of Closure,â€ The Language of Inquiry.

Chaviva Hosek and Patricia Parker, eds. Lyric Poetry: Beyond New Criticism

Fanny Howe. The Wedding Dress

Mark Jeffreys, ed.New Definitions of Lyric: Theory, Technology, and Culture

W. R. Johnson. The Idea of Lyric: Lyric Modes in Ancient and Modern Poetry

Linda A. Kinnahan. Lyric Interventions: Feminism, Experimental Poetry, and Contemporary Discourse

Melissa Kwasny, ed. Toward the Open Field: Poets on Poetry 1800-1950

â€¢ William Wordsworth â€“ â€œPrefaceâ€ to the second edition of Lyrical Ballads
â€¢ Samuel Taylor Coleridge â€“ Chapter 14, Biographia Literaria â€¢ â€œOn Poesie and Artâ€
â€¢ John Keats â€“ Selected Letters
â€¢ Percy Bysshe Shelley â€“ â€œA Defense of Poetryâ€ â€¢ Ralph Waldo Emerson â€“ â€œThe Poetâ€ â€¢ Walt Whitman â€“ â€œPrefaceâ€ to the first edition of Leaves of Grass â€¢ Emily Dickinson â€“ â€œLetters to Thomas Wentworth Higginson â€¢ Gerard Manley Hopkins â€“ â€œAuthorâ€™s Prefaceâ€ â€¢ Charles Baudelaire â€“ The Painter of Modern Life, Parts I-IV
â€¢ Arthur Rimbaud â€“ The â€œVoyantâ€ Letter â€¢ StÃ©phan MallarmÃ© â€“ â€œCrisis in Verseâ€ â€¢ AndrÃ© Breton â€“ Manifesto of Surrealism â€¢ Federico Garcia Lorca â€“ â€œTheory and Function of the Duendeâ€ â€¢ Paul ValÃ©ry â€“ â€œPoetry of Abstract Thoughtâ€ â€¢ AimÃ© CÃ©saire â€“ â€œPoetry and Knowledgeâ€ â€¢ Ezra Pound â€“ â€œA Retrospectâ€ â€¢ T.S. Elliot â€“ â€œTradition and the Individual Talentâ€ â€¢ Mina Loy â€“ â€œModern Poetryâ€ â€¢ Langston Highes â€“ â€œThe Negro Artist and the Racial Mountainâ€ â€¢ Louis Zukofsky â€“ â€œAn Objectiveâ€ â€¢ Gertrude Stein â€“ â€œPoetry and Grammarâ€ â€¢ Wallace Stevens â€“ â€œThe Noble Rider and the Sound of Wordsâ€ â€¢ Marianne Moore â€“ â€œFeeling and Precisionâ€ â€¢ William Carlos Williams â€“ â€œAuthorâ€™s Introduction,â€ The Wedge â€¢ Charles Olson â€“ â€œProjective Verseâ€

Anne Lauterbach. â€œAs (It) Is: Toward a Poetics of the Whole Fragment,â€ The Night Sky

Hank Lazer. Lyric & Spirit

_____.Opposing Poetries, Vol. I and Vol. II

Denise Levertov. â€œNotes on Organic Formâ€

Nathanial Mackey. Discrepant Engagements; Paracritical Hinge

Eva MÃ¼ller-Zettelmann and Margarete Rubik, eds. Theory into Poetry: New Approaches to the Lyric

Carrie Noland. Poetry at Stake: Lyric Aesthetics and the Challenge of Technology

George Oppen. â€œThe Mindâ€™s Own Placeâ€; Daybooks

Michael Palmer. Active Boundaries

Marjorie Perloff. â€œPostmodernism and the Impasse of Lyric,â€ Dance of the Intellect: Poetry of the Pound Tradition

_____.Poetic License: Essays on Modernist and Postmodernist Lyric

Ezra Pound, ABC of Reading, â€œA Retrospect,â€ â€œVorticismâ€

Jed Rasula. Syncopations: The Stress of Innovation in Contemporary American Poetry

Susan Rosenbaum. Professing Sincerity: Modern Lyric Poetry, Commercial Culture, and the Crisis in Reading

Leslie Scalapino. Syntactically Impermanence

Jack Spicer, Vancouver Lectures

Ron Silliman. The New Sentence

Gertrude Stein. How to Write
_____. Lectures in America

Wallace Stevens. Necessary Angel

Susan Stewart. Poetry and the Fate of the Senses

Daniel Tiffany. Toy Medium: Materialism and Modern Lyric

Nathaniel Tarn. Embattled Lyric

Helen Vendler, The Music of What Happens: Poems, Poets, Critics

Robert Von Hallberg. Lyric Powers

WC Williams. In the American Grain

Rosmarie Waldrop. Dissonance (if you please)

Rosanna Warren. Fables of the Self: Studies in Lyric Poetry

William Waters. Poetryâ€™s Touch: On Lyric Address

Andrew Welsh. Roots of Lyric: Primitive Poetry and Modern Poetics All best, Tod

Michael Tod Edgerton

_____

If the challenge of our time is the challenge of empathy, to make an empathetic relation; that is, to see another person, to feel their pain, story, whatever--that--that how can a poetic material making be part of--of that?

~ Ann Hamilton, in an interview about her installation, Indigo Blue

---

From: judith goldman <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Wednesday, August 26, 2009 4:39:43 PM
Subject: Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre

Dear all, Many thanks to those of you who responded to my query about examples of and critical writings on homophonic translation. I'd love to hear further, if any more of you have thoughts.

Currently, I'm looking for books, essays, and articles--good, hardcore, worthwhile, useful pedagogically--on the theory of lyric poetry, from any period of history. (No such thing as too well known or obvious--and even poems that theorize the lyric would be great.) Works on contemporary experimental poetry would be especially appreciated, but please treat this request expansively. Anything on the web, too.

All best,

Judith Goldman

↑ Index

190. Deborah Poe

for those of you who write fiction, and looking for yoko tawada's email address

Thu 27 Aug 2009

(Aplogies for x-posting)

Hello All,

I've joined *Drunken Boat *(http://www.drunkenboat.com/db10/08poe/) as fiction editor. For those of you who write fiction (or know writers who do), we are reopening submissions in September.

Also, I would like to email Japanese writer Yoko Tawada. In the off chance that you have her email address, can you pass along to me? I'd be grateful.

Kind regards,
Deborah Poe
http://deborahpoe.com/bio.htm

↑ Index

191. Scott Howard
Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre
Thu 27 Aug 2009

Dialogism and Lyric Self-Fashioning: Bakhtin and the Voices of a Genre (Susquehanna UP, 2008) covers the spectrum of lyric poetry/poetics from Sappho to Stevens and Jayne Cortez.

///

----- Original Message -----
From: judith goldman <[redacted]>
Date: Thursday, August 27, 2009 11:56 am
Subject: Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre
To: [redacted]

> Dear all,
> Many thanks to those of you who responded to my query about examples of and > critical writings on homophonic translation. I'd love to hear further, if > any more of you have thoughts.
>
> Currently, I'm looking for books, essays, and articles--good, hardcore,
> worthwhile, useful pedagogically--on the theory of lyric poetry, from any > period of history. (No such thing as too well known or obvious--and even > poems that theorize the lyric would be great.) Works on contemporary > experimental poetry would be especially appreciated, but please treat this > request expansively. Anything on the web, too.
>
> All best,
>
> Judith Goldman

↑ Index

192. Maria Damon
Re: Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre
Thu 27 Aug 2009

another really good piece is eve sedgwick's A Poem is Being Written, which posits the lyric as instrument and representation of bourgeois family discipline, through the word "enjambement" which, in typical brilliant fashion, she sexualizes as straddling and being spanked.

judith goldman wrote:
> Dear all,
> Many thanks to those of you who responded to my query about examples of and > critical writings on homophonic translation. I'd love to hear further, if > any more of you have thoughts.
>
> Currently, I'm looking for books, essays, and articles--good, hardcore, > worthwhile, useful pedagogically--on the theory of lyric poetry, from any > period of history. (No such thing as too well known or obvious--and even > poems that theorize the lyric would be great.) Works on contemporary > experimental poetry would be especially appreciated, but please treat this > request expansively. Anything on the web, too.
>
> All best,
>
> Judith Goldman
>
>

↑ Index

193. Nico Vassilakis
SubText Reading: Martin Corless-Smith & Brandon Shimoda
Thu 27 Aug 2009

---

for more info:

http://subtextreadingseries.blogspot.com/

wednesday, sept 2nd, 7:30pm

thanks for your time,

n

Get back to school stuff for them and cashback for you.
http://www.bing.com/cashback?form=MSHYCB&publ=WLHMTAG&crea=TEXT_MSHYCB_BackToSchool_Cashback_BTSCashback_1x1

↑ Index

194. Gloria Frym

Re: Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre

Thu 27 Aug 2009

Have a look at a study of the lyric by W. R. Johnson, /The Idea of Lyric /(University of California Press, 1982). He's a classics scholar, and such a graceful thinker and writer. There is David Lindley's, /Lyric,/ published by Methuen in 1985, and Adena Rosmarin's /The Power of Genre,/ University of Minnesota Press, 1985. Just noticed how these 3 texts saw publication during the ascendancy of the New Narrative. Don' forget Wordworth's "Preface to the Lyrical Ballads."

Best,
Gloria Frym

judith goldman wrote:
> Dear all,
> Many thanks to those of you who responded to my query about examples of and > critical writings on homophonic translation. I'd love to hear further, if > any more of you have thoughts.
>
> Currently, I'm looking for books, essays, and articles--good, hardcore, > worthwhile, useful pedagogically--on the theory of lyric poetry, from any > period of history. (No such thing as too well known or obvious--and even > poems that theorize the lyric would be great.) Works on contemporary > experimental poetry would be especially appreciated, but please treat this > request expansively. Anything on the web, too.
>
> All best,
>
> Judith Goldman
>
> ---
>
>
> No virus found in this incoming message.
> Checked by AVG - www.avg.com
> Version: 8.5.409 / Virus Database: 270.13.70/2329 - Release Date: 08/27/09 08:11:00
>
>

↑ Index

195. Alan Sondheim
"Breaking New Ground"
Fri 28 Aug 2009

"Breaking New Ground"

3 new cobza pieces: "Breaking New Ground"

http://www.alansondheim.org/cobzamorning.mp3 "Breaking New Ground" http://www.alansondheim.org/cobzanoon.mp3 "Breaking New Ground"
http://www.alansondheim.org/cobzanight.mp3 "Breaking New Ground"

Hear the cobza "as you have never heard it before" "Breaking New Ground"

Note - copenhagen.mp4 will go down in a day ("too large!)

↑ Index

196. Hazel Smith
Hello and soundsRite
Fri 28 Aug 2009

Dear folks

I have just rejoined this list after a lengthy absence. It is good to be back!! Some of you may be interested in the journal soundRite, a journal of new media writing and sound at http://soundsrite.uws.edu.au/ co-edited by Roger Dean and me. Volume One is accumulating and so far includes work by Jason Nelson, Nannette Wylde and Daniel Blinkhorn, and a collaboration by Roger Dean, Anne Brewster and me. See the more extended blurb below.

The journal soundsRite, at http://soundsrite.uws.edu.au/, was established in 2009 at the University of Western Sydney and is co-edited by Prof. Hazel Smith (Writing and Society Research Group, UWS) and Prof. Roger Dean (MARCS Auditory Laboratories, UWS). soundsRite is online and open access and publishes selected new media work which includes words or sound or both. It features generative, interactive and multi-channel sound pieces; writing which is kinetic, generative or interactive; and pieces which combine text, sound and image. The soundsRite site also archives an earlier multimedia journal, infLect, founded and edited by Hazel Smith at the University of Canberra (2003-2007). The focus of infLect was new media writing.

Prof. Hazel Smith
Writing and Society Research Group
College of Arts (Bankstown 1.1.163)
UNIVERSITY OF WESTERN SYDNEY
Locked Bag 1797
Penrith South DC NSW 1797

tel: 9772 6400
email: [redacted]

See also my webpage at www.australysis.com
The Erotics of Geography: poetry, performance texts, new media works http://www.tinfishpress.com/erotics.html
Practice-led Research, Research-led Practice in the Creative Arts http://www.eupjournals.com/book/9780748636297
The Writing Experiment: strategies for innovative creative writing http://www.allenandunwin.com/writingexp/book.htm

↑ Index

197. Richard Jeffrey Newman

Northeast Modern Language Association Call for Papers

Fri 28 Aug 2009

I am organizing a panel for the Northeast Modern Language Association's annual conference, April 7-11, 2010, in Montreal. (These are the same dates as AWP, I know, but in the event there's someone on this list who won't be going to AWP, but might have something for NeMLA, I am posting this here. I am just organizing the panel. I will be at AWP.) Here's the call:

Non-Western Literatures in Translation

The act of literary translation raises by definition the question of how the target culture frames the language and culture of the text to be translated. This issue, often unexamined, can determine not only which texts from which languages are chosen for translation, but also what the relationship between the translation and the original text is understood to be. Nineteenth century British and American translators of classical Iranian poetry, for example, often portrayed themselves quite explicitly as improving on what they understood to be the “oriental” defects of the poets they were working with. This stance finds its roots in British colonial rule of India, where Persian was the language of the Moghul courts, and the idea that, if only the British could understand Persian and the psychology it embodied, they could make themselves more effective colonial rulers. The history of the translation into English of other non-Western literatures-- including those we now consider Western, like classical Greek--is fraught with similar kinds of bias, as are contemporary assumptions about the value non-Western literatures hold for us. Keeping in mind the fact that less than 3% of all the books published in the United States in any given year are literary translations, and the fact that publishing at all levels is a business that both creates and responds to its market, this panel seeks to examine the issues confronting the translation of non-Western literatures, from classical to contemporary, into English. While we would like the emphasis to be on languages that are not already commonly translated (Japanese and Chinese, among others), we welcome proposals concerning any non- Western language. We encourage a variety of perspectives--from authors of texts that have been translated (or texts in search of a translation), translators, scholars, publishers--and would prefer to have papers addressing a range of time periods. Topics might include the linguistic and cultural challenges of translating non-Western languages, what we learn from the history of the translation of a given work or body of work, translation success stories, the challenges of publishing literary translations of non-Western languages, or why a given work or body of work deserves more attention--scholarly and otherwise--than it has been given. We also look forward to being surprised by ideas that have not occurred to us.

Please respond to me backchannel: [redacted]

Thanks,

Rich Newman

↑ Index

198. David Chirot

David Chirot: This Week at New Post Literate :

Fri 28 Aug 2009

---

http://thenewpostliterate.blogspot.com
this week 's gallery feature the work of david chirot

This is a very amazing project of/ <http://thenewpostliterate.blogspot.com/>Michael Jacobson's' in which each week he features a different Visual Poet, Artist, Poet's pieces made with a sense of conveying their consideration of "what IS the new post literature" and also just what is asemic writing, or the role of asemic writing-- in relation with this? Since everyone may well have different approaches quite various and wide ranging, the way Michael is giving a week each to the works helps present this swarming cosmos of possibilities--as an open one, rather than an apriori categorically divided and defined "New Post Literature" which is instead an area of excavation, investigation divigation and Anarkeyological Expo- and Explosivagation--

↑ Index

199. crystal hoffman

August 30th Poetry Cabaret -- TypewriterGirls Gone Biblical

Fri 28 Aug 2009

TypewriterGirls Gone BiblicalÂ Sunday August 30th
@ Howlerâ€™s Coyote Cafe in Pittsburgh, PA

On Sunday August 30th, The TypewriterGirls Poetry Cabaret will be featuring some of Pittsburghâ€™s most dedicated and established members of the arts and literary community for an end of summer poetry and variety show at Bloomfieldâ€™s Howlerâ€™s Coyote CafÃ©. In addition to the TypewriterGirlsâ€™ array of whiskey and typewriter games, the evening will feature an Exquisite Corpse typewriter turned Bible Machine by artist Dave English, magic, classic and punk rock burlesque dancing, and music from the accordion player and avant-garde performance artist, Steve Pellegrino, and readings from poets Nancy Krygowski and Sandra Beasley and fiction writer Sherrie Flick. The eveningâ€™s theatrics will take the audience of a whirlwind adventure through the Bible, as Crystal and Margaret attempt to â€œfixâ€ some of our favorite biblical tales, as well as some of the more obscure ones. Will the TypewriterGirls succeed in their attempts to stop the Jews from declaring a king or Jesus from damning the fig tree? Either way, the whiskeyâ€™s free. Howlerâ€™s Coyote CafÃ©, 4509 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, PA Sunday, August 30th Doors Open at 7:00pm / Show begins at 7:30pm Cost: $5.00 More Info: www.typewritergirls.net Featured Performer Bios: Sandra Beasley is the author of two poetry collections. I Was the Jukebox was selected by Joy Harjo as the winner of the 2009 Barnard Women Poets Prize and will be published in April 2010. Her first collection, Theories of Falling, was selected by Marie Howe as the winner of the New Issues Poetry Prize and published in April 2008. Her poems have also been featured in Verse Daily and in journals such as POETRY, SLATE, The Believer, AGNI online, 32 Poems, Blackbird, and Black Warrior Review. She lives in Washington, D.C., where she writers periodically for the Washington Post Magazine and is at work on Donâ€™t Kill the Birthday Girl: Tales from an Allergic Life, forthcoming from Crown. She also serves on the Board of the Writerâ€™s Center and as the Literary Chair for the Arts Club of Washington. Sherrie Flick is author of the award-winning flash fiction chapbook I CALL THIS FLIRTING (Flume Press, 2004). Anthologies include, NEW SUDDEN FICTION (Norton, 2007) and FLASH FICTION FORWARD (Norton, 2006). In 2007 she received a Pennsylvania Council on the Arts individual artist fellowship. She lives in Pittsburgh where she is a freelance writer/editor and co-founder and artistic director of the Gist Street Reading Series (www.giststreet.org). In Fall 2009, her first novel, RECONSIDERING HAPPINESS, will be published by University of Nebraska Press. Nancy Krygowskiâ€™s book of poems, Velocity, won the 2006 Agnes Lynch Starrett Poetry Prize from the University of Pittsburgh Press. Sheâ€™s received grants from the PA Council on the Arts and from the Pittsburgh Foundation, plus residencies at the Jentel Foundation and The Kimmel Nelson Harding Center for the Arts. She works as an adult literacy instructor. (krygo.homeip.net) Stephen Pellegrino has been creating experimental and inter-disciplinary performance works since 1975. He has been the recipient of numerous grants, commissions, and residencies. Since the early 80â€™s he has been engaged in an ongoing multi-sectional work called DRYWALL. The impetus behind this series is the integration of his bread labor as a plasterer and his shamanistic role as an artist. An entire mythos and culture is built on this construction milieu, utilizing tools and process as the basis for rituals, music and dance/movement sections. Dave English combines puppetry and low brow art to create humorous performances and exhibits. He moved back to his home of Pittsburgh, PA from Prague, CZ in 2005 and re-immersed himself as an artist. Dave is proud to be a stop on Pittsburghâ€™s shoestring network of do-it-yourself creative culture.

↑ Index

200. Nate Dorward

Reminder: cris cheek/Barnyard Drama, Saturday Aug 29, Toronto

Fri 28 Aug 2009

(Apologies in advance if you get this multiple times....)

*

Aug.29 in Toronto:

A poetry/sound/multimedia performance--

*cris cheek *(London/US)
+ *Barnyard Drama *[Christine Duncan/Jean Martin] (Toronto)

8pm, at
Somewhere There
Live Creative Music in Toronto
340 Dufferin Street - one block South of Queen Street
 entrance from Melbourne Ave. **
www.somewherethere.org

$8 cover, or free admission if you purchase cris's new book *part: short life housing *(specially priced for this event at $16!)

*ABOUT CRIS CHEEK: *cris cheek is a sound artist, poet, photographer, mixed-media practitioner and interdisciplinary performer, whose works have been commissioned and shown locally and trans-locally, in multiple versions using diverse media for their production and circulation. Born in London in 1955, he lived and worked there until the early 1990s, a performance writer very much a part of what was going on with poetry in that capital city. His musical collaborations include Slant (a trio with Phillip Jeck and Sianed Jones) and Garam Masala; he also collaborated in 1999-2007 with Kirsten Lavers on the cross-disciplinary project Things Not Worth Keeping cris’s most recent book is *part: short life housing *(Toronto: The Gig, 2009), a collection of six texts from the 1980s and 1990s, including “canning town chronicles,” a scathing set of verbal accretions that emerged from the wreckage of the Thatcher era; and “f o g s,” a series of typestracts quarried from verbal improvisations recorded during outdoor walks in densely foggy weather.

(www.thingsnotworthkeeping.com) . He currently lives in the southwest Ohio River Valley.

For more info contact:

Nate Dorward
109 Hounslow Ave., North York, ON, M2N 2B1, Canada
[redacted] - [redacted]

*

RECENT PUBLICATIONS:

cris cheek, PART: SHORT LIFE HOUSING
Trevor Joyce, WHAT'S IN STORE
ANTIPHONIES: Essays on Women's Experimental Poetries in Canada

More information at www.ndorward.com/poetry/

↑ Index

201. red slider
Songs from Childhood
Sat 29 Aug 2009

Less than a year after Pearl Harbor and within the first week of entering school, my wife, who grew up in a small village on Big Island, recalls being taught the following school song,

The Pearl Harbor Song

I remember Pearl Harbor
As we go to meet the foe.
Let's remember Pearl Harbor
As we did the Alamo.
We will always remember
How they died for liberty.
Lets remember Pearl Harbor
And go on to victory!

She was five-years old at the time. It was sung every morning, right after the Pledge of Allegiance. It has a rather charming , slightly haunting, little melody.

If I didn't know better, I would have said it was a Roy Orbison tune ('Crying'? It's 'Over'?.)

I wonder if anyone knows, or can find out, the counterpart to these lyrics that was being sung by the school children of Japan at that time? I do know that one group of young Japanese children from the Mie Prefecture had hung an American soldier's uniform from a tree and would throw rocks at it as they passed by on their way to and from school. But, surely, they must have had some 'official' song that they sang each morning under the rising sun (and did they also have a 'Pledge of Allegiance', I don't know?) - thanx in advance, red

↑ Index

202. nerys williams

Re: Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre

Sat 29 Aug 2009

I'm not sure if this of use, but I've been writing on the recent lyric and its relationship to error in the poetry and poetics of recent contemporary American poets (Charles Bernstein, Michael Palmer, Lyn Hejinian and Jennier Moxley). Nerys Williams Reading Error: Lyric in Contemporary Poetry (Peter Lang, 2007).

best

----- Original Message -----
From: Scott Howard <[redacted]>
Date: Saturday, August 29, 2009 12:30 am
Subject: Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre
To: [redacted]

> _Dialogism and Lyric Self-Fashioning: Bakhtin and the Voices of a Genre_ (Susquehanna UP, 2008) covers the spectrum of lyric poetry/poetics from Sappho to Stevens and Jayne Cortez.
>
> ///
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: judith goldman <[redacted]>
> Date: Thursday, August 27, 2009 11:56 am
> Subject: Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre
> To: [redacted]
>
> Dear all,
> Many thanks to those of you who responded to my query about examples > of and > critical writings on homophonic translation. I'd > love to hear

> further, if
> any more of you have thoughts.
>
> Currently, I'm looking for books, essays, and articles-- > good, hardcore,
> worthwhile, useful pedagogically--on the theory of lyric > poetry, from > any > period of history. (No such thing as too well > known or obvious--and > even > poems that theorize the lyric would be great.) > Works on contemporary > experimental poetry would be especially appreciated, but > please treat
> this > request expansively. Anything on the web, too.
>
> All best,
>
> Judith Goldman
>
> posts. Check

Dr Nerys Williams
School of English, Drama and Film
John Henry Newman Building University College Dublin
Belfield
Dublin 4
Ireland

↑ Index

203. David Chirot
Re: Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre
Sat 29 Aug 2009

Dear Judith Goldman:

forgive me if these have been mentioned already

Edgar Allan Poe: "Philosophy of Composition" one of the most influential essays/theories on poetry internationally of the last 150+ years *Vladimir

Mayakovsky: How Are Verses Made?* Maaykovsky, a great lyric poet in his Futurist phase, now a Marxist Poet of the Revolution--writes a great first section on the waysin which he composes from an iinitial sound or beat onward, and that material is everywhere--not unlike WC Williams' "a poem can be made of anything" but of course with a different direction in mind than WCW--"a poem to be a poem after all must have a direct"--wcw) the later parts of the book are an attack on thelyricism of Sergei Esenin's suicide poem--by attacking thelyricism Mayakiovsky proovides an excellent guidebook to the lements of lyricism--and completes the work with a poemof his own addressed to Esenin's (ironically to be sure Mayakovksy also committed suicide, for which he had berated Esenin; lyricism won in the end" The Boat of Love has Crashed"--)

Kurt Schwitters' short statements re the formof lyricism one finds in his sound poetry and esp "Anna Blue"

"We aspire to Birdsong" and a multitude of other pieces on this--by Bob Cobbing--the lyricism of pure sound poetry

Henri Chopin's essays & statements--another exploration of the lyric in terms of sound poetry

Paul Celan--among his speeches in the 1960's and statements by him, a profound meditation on the lyric poem

Also texts by Willis Barnstone and Ann Carson for example on the Greek lyric poetry, especially on Sappho but also re Archilocus--one of the great inventers of Western poetry's history and meters, forms-- The Greeks, after all, invented Lyric poetry--personally i always find Sappho to be the greatest of al lyric poets, even in a translation and infrgaments, there is no voice, no lyric voice that is so piercing,so intense, so specific and of "sweetbitter eros"

I don't know specific examples, but there must be some good works re Shakespeare's lyrical poetry in the Sonnets.esp.

Also, scattered among the plays one finds some statements of "Shakespeare's" (vis his characters) ideas of the lyric--

I am sure this must have been noted, but Garicia Lorce's essay on"Duende"

There are writings in some collections of works in which, by attacking the lyric, Nicanor Parra brings to it a good form of definition and outline, against this impulse, particularly in Spanish Language poetry to which he counters with "Anti-Poetry"

A great many poets express ideas and their own examples of lyricism in their works and scattered writings, notes--for examples, Jack Spicer, Stephen Jonas, Leroi Jones/Amiri Baraka

The importance of the Greeks Rimbaud recognizes in the letter to Izambard in which he says the poerty of the Future wil be like the Greeks, except that in it poetry will precede action, the opposite of Aristotle's formulation, and on the most influentil ideas on poets such as Charles Olson's Projective Verse, in which the poem is to be the action. I believe Rimbaud actually lif=ved this: his poetry and prosepoems describe ahead of time very precisely much of his life after he stopped writing poetry. As Rimbaud told his mother, when she asked him what "Saison en enfer" (A Season in Hell)--meant-- (afte rall, she had the right to this having paid for the book's publication , most of it--) "It means what it says literally and in every sense."

An interesting question to pose is, beyond the technical, what are the aspects of lyricism which contemporary American poets are "against"? What is the idea of the lyric? That's why one starts with the Greeks, who invented. The significance among a great many, is that for the first time in Western poetry an actaul specific individual is "giving voice" "aspiring to bird song"-- and which for me is why many forms of Sound Poetry are related with the Lyric-- Also: is the Lyric purely "about a self"? Isn't it far more complex than this? (One may see how complex by the doubts about it by poets such as Parra and Mayakovsky, who are moving aggsint the wieghtof the hegemonioc impulse in their cultures of a certain time period, as the societies themselves are in upheaval--) Are not many poems and poetries with claims to the lyric not really Lyric in the strict sense of this? Doesn't the Lyric have to have a very tensile tactile strength to it that so called lyric poets in vast numbers lack? The real challenge, as celan notes, is to use a language which has undergone an extremity and yet survived, found itself, existing, and then--to work with this surviving an mutable language--

To me Celan's writings are a stark contrast to the statement of Adorno's so often misquoted re that after Auschwitz there can be nor more lyric poetry --or might there not be, after all? ,iI's continued underground existence --the great lyricist Orpheus' journey to the Underworld, land of the dead--during extremities so that it is not dead but endures as Celan writes, as a changed language yet--not incapable of the lyric-- .Celan in some aspects is taking up where perhaps Trakl literally "left off" in his great works of lyricism confronting the insanity of slaughter in the First World War's Eastern Front. also as a question-- why is the Lyric poem the longest continually existing form of poetry in Wester literature since the Greeks? is it in part due to its relationships often with extremities? and that extremities are a good bit of life's living? "Between grief and nothing, I will take grief" --Faulkner, last words of The Wild Palms

On Thu, Aug 27, 2009 at 11:10 AM, Maria Damon <[redacted]> wrote:

> I took a wonderful course on this very topic as a grad student, from Prof. David Wellbery. We read a lot of structuralist stuff, Jacobsen and Saussure, Michael Riffaterre, Walter Benjamin (on some motifs in > baudelaire), Herder, schiller, the groupe Mu, de Man, Geoffrey Hartmann, i think J. Culler, Karl-Heinz Stierle, Hans-Robert Jauss, etc., Nicholas Greimas, Alexander Baumgarten, etc. I would also suggest the Preface to Lyrical Ballads... > not to go too shameless on you, but some of the stuff in /Poetry and Cultural Studies: A Reader/ is pertinent... > or I wonder if Wellbery (now at U-Chicago, your stomping ground) still has a syllabus on hand…it's from the 1980s, before computers, so he may not.

>
> judith goldman wrote:
>
> Dear all,
> Many thanks to those of you who responded to my query about examples of and > critical writings on homophonic translation. I'd love to hear further, if any more of you have thoughts.
>
> Currently, I'm looking for books, essays, and articles--good, hardcore, worthwhile, useful pedagogically--on the theory of lyric poetry, from any period of history. (No such thing as too well known or obvious--and even poems that theorize the lyric would be great.) Works on contemporary experimental poetry would be especially appreciated, but please treat this request expansively. Anything on the web, too.
>
> All best,
>
> Judith Goldman

↑ Index

204. Daniel Godston

updates with SPC & "Putting Layers on the Onion"

Sat 29 Aug 2009

"The Synesthetic Plan of Chicago" is an art installation that has been at the Chicago Cultural Center for the past three months. Parts of the show have traveled to satellite locations throughout Chicago, such as Mess Hall, Faie African Art Gallery, the Hyde Park Art Center, and Myopic Bookstore. SPC will be up at the Cultural Center for another month, and then it will travel to the Columbia College Library and Little Black Pearl Art & Design Center. You are invited to check out SPC, if you haven't done so already!

"Putting Layers on the Onion" is the installation piece I made for SPC. It has involved contributions from people who have interacted with this piece, such as these --

Being really young in red overalls and cranking the gadgets
at the Science Museum.

* * *

Remember the alewives along the beaches? I'll take spices any day.

* * *

underneath a city reflected
I was the only red thing

* * *

Lake Michigan
I think of red & pink the colors of sunrise Japanese dishes just regular no stinky onions

* * *

You are invited to read more about "Putting Layers on the Onion," at http://puttinglayersontheonion.blogspot.com/.

↑ Index

205. Ruth Lepson
Re: joe maneri
Sat 29 Aug 2009

---

yes. there will eventually be a memorial for him in boston & possibly one in NY. a humble man inquiring mind.

On 8/25/09 7:56 AM, "steve dalachinsky" <[redacted]> wrote:

> sad to announce the passing of joe maneri a great friend teacher composer and musician

↑ Index

206. Ruth Lepson
Re: Announcing: NetPoetic digital poetry portal
Sat 29 Aug 2009

---

thanks to you & other recent posts for getting me/us up to date

On 8/19/09 5:22 AM, "Jason Nelson" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Announcing a new Electronic Literature/Digital Poetry portal founded by Jason Nelson and Davin Heckman.
> With over 30 of our best writers, thinkers and artists, NetPoetic is a group conversation, updated near daily > with posts, news, theory, artworks and all manner of glorious E-Lit related material. Coming later this year > is the first NetPoetic exhibition and a peer reviewed journal. If you want to take part post a few comments > and explore the site then contact Jason Nelson.
>
> The URL: http://www.netpoetic.com

↑ Index

207. Mary Newell
Mark Doty reading and Poetics Colloquium
Sun 30 Aug 2009

MARK DOTY will be reading at Centenary College of New Jersey, 400 Jefferson Street, Hackettstown NJ on Monday, October 19 from 8 -10 p.m. The event is free, but reservation is requested. To register, contact: Tina Tang, [redacted], [redacted], ext. 2113. Questions: Mary Newell, [redacted], [redacted], ext. 2498. Directions: http://www.centenarycollege.edu/.

On Tuesday, October 20, Centenary College of New Jersey will host a Poetics Colloquium from 9:30 am â€“ 5:30 pm. Panels and workshops tba. The colloquium is free, but reservation is requested.
Centenary College, 400 Jefferson Street, Hackettstown, NJ. [redacted].
To register or request a full program, Contact Tina Tang,
[redacted], [redacted], ext. 2113.
To request the CFP or ask questions, contact Mary Newell, [redacted], [redacted], ext. 2498.

↑ Index

208. David-Baptiste Chirot
THE NYT: FUTURE OF READING Students Get New Assignment: Pick Books You Like
Sun 30 Aug 2009

THE FUTURE OF READING

Students Get New Assignment: Pick Books You Like

By MOTOKO RICH

The experimental approach is part of a movement to revolutionize the way literature is taught in U.S. schools.

http://www.nytimes.com/2009/08/30/books/30reading.html?th&emc=th

_____
Get back to school stuff for them and cashback for you.
http://www.bing.com/cashback?form=MSHYCB&publ=WLHMTAG&crea=TEXT_MSHYCB_BackToSchool_Cashback_BTSCashback_1x1

↑ Index

209. Christina E Lovin
Re: Songs from Childhood
Sun 30 Aug 2009

Red--

Try the Mudcat Discussion Forum (www.mudcat.org) -- there are hundreds of song lyrics posted there by people from all over the world.

Best,
Christina Lovin

-----Original Message-----
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of red slider
Sent: Saturday, August 29, 2009 1:08 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Songs from Childhood

Less than a year after Pearl Harbor and within the first week of entering school, my wife, who grew up in a small village on Big Island, recalls being taught the following school song,

The Pearl Harbor Song

I remember Pearl Harbor
As we go to meet the foe.
Let's remember Pearl Harbor
As we did the Alamo.
We will always remember
How they died for liberty.
Lets remember Pearl Harbor
And go on to victory!

She was five-years old at the time. It was sung every morning, right after the Pledge of Allegiance. It has a rather charming , slightly haunting, little melody. If I didn't know better, I would have said it was a Roy Orbison tune ('Crying'? It's 'Over'?.)

I wonder if anyone knows, or can find out, the counterpart to these lyrics that was being sung by the school children of Japan at that time? I do know that one group of young Japanese children from the Mie Prefecture had hung an American soldier's uniform from a tree and would throw rocks at it as they passed by on their way to and from school. But, surely, they must have had some 'official' song that they sang each morning under the rising sun (and did they also have a 'Pledge of Allegiance', I don't know?) - thanx in advance, red

↑ Index

210. Susan Webster Schultz

new posts on Tinfish Editor's blog

Sun 30 Aug 2009

Please check out newish blog posts at tinfisheditor.blogspot.com

-- "Dissention is Patriotic": Fat Ulu's and Kumu Kahua's _The Statehood Project_ (on the 50th anniversary of Hawai`i statehood)

--"My dear times' waste": Shakespeare sonnet XXX, Tortillas, and Dementia

--Economy and the Haiku: Basho and the Recession of 2009

--Chant 15 (way after Whitman)

--Travels in place: Detroit (and O`ahu)

aloha, Susan M. Schultz

↑ Index

211. Jennifer Karmin
JOB: Eastern Illinois University
Sun 30 Aug 2009

(this is a forward so please don't respond to me. good luck!)

Tenure-track position in Creative Writing. We seek candidates with expertise in one or more of the following: playwriting and screenwriting, fiction, poetry, nonfiction. Publication in area of specialization and competence in teaching of creative writing at undergraduate and graduate levels required.

Successful candidate will be able to contribute to our two-year MA program with concentrations in Creative Writing, Literary Studies, and Professional Writing and to our undergraduate major and General Education curricula. We seek excellent teachers with wide interests and creative promise. PhD by date of appointment.

Fall 2010 start.

Send letter of application, curriculum vitae, and dossier (letters of recommendation and official or unofficial transcripts) by November 6, 2009, to Dana Ringuette, Chair, Department of English, Eastern Illinois University, 600 Lincoln Avenue, Charleston, IL 61920-3099. We will interview at the MLA conference.

↑ Index

212. CA Conrad
PhillySound Feature #7: Garrett Caples
Mon 31 Aug 2009

PhillySound Feature #7: Garrett Caples

We are pleased to bring you the prolific, masterful talent of Garrett Caples as the 7th featured poet on PhillySound, enjoy!

This is the link to view the feature:
http://phillysound.blogspot.com/2009_08_01_archive.html

CAConrad
editor of #7

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

213. Matt Henriksen
Kathlene Jesme Reviewed on The Burning Chair Blog
Mon 31 Aug 2009

htt
The first of a new series of reviews, kicked off by Maureen Alsop:

http://www.typomag.com/burningchair

http://www.typomag.com/burningchair/2009/08/plum-stone-game-by-kathleen-jesme.html

↑ Index

214. jpjones
Re: Theory of Lyric, Lyric as Literary Genre
Mon 31 Aug 2009

Worth a look:

Denise Riley, 'The Words of Selves: Identification, Solidarity, Irony', Stanford University Press, 2000

J

_____
Jill Jones

www.jilljones.com.au

↑ Index

215. Pam Brown
Geoffrey Hill - last week
Mon 31 Aug 2009

Dear Steve and Jacquilyn.

I realise that it was last week ..but ..
You might be interested in this essay on Geoffrey Hill in the upcoming issue of Jacket?

http://jacketmagazine.com/38/hill-by-saravanamuttu.shtml

Best wishes,
Pam
> Date: Wed, 26 Aug 2009 14:25:31 -0700
> From: steve russell <[redacted]>
> Subject: Fw: Re: British Poetry Since Wordworth
>

> I once was clueless. I'm now clued in.
> & to think, a few decades ago I would have remained clueless and bitter, ig= > norant without the bliss.=A0=20
>
> --- On Wed, 8/26/09, Jacquilyn Weeks <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: Jacquilyn Weeks <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: British Poetry Since Wordworth
> To: "steve russell" <[redacted]>
> Date: Wednesday, August 26, 2009, 3:26 PM
>
> The footnotes to Geoffrey Hill are the Oxford English Dictionary. He meant = > it when he said "etymology is history."=A0Most of his poetry is based on mu= > lti-layered=A0word play, and he always gives you some kind of hint that let= > s you into the poem.=0A=0A=A0=0AFor example, the hint words in "September S= > ong" are the dates set just below the title and the word "Zyklon." Once you= > look that up (it's a cyanide gas invented by a German Jew as a pesticide -= > he won the=A0Nobel for it in 1918--=A0used in the Nazi death chambers) the= > n the rest of the poem starts popping out at you: "passed over" ("Passover"=
>), "just" (meaning "justice," "only," "barely," etc.), flakes of ashes gett= > ing into the poet's eye (making him cry?)=0A=0A=A0=0AYou don't really need = > a degree, as much as the kind of mind that gets into crossword puzzles. Som= > e people find this offputting - if you can think of the whole process as a = > game, does that diminish the power of talking about the Holocaust? But Hill= > would argue that language tends toward simplicity, and that linguistic ove= > rsimplification is=A0a kind of fascism. Struggling through the possible mea= > nings is a way of re-sensitizing ourselves to the dangers and possibilities= > of language. It trains us not to be seduced or easily swayed by sloagy rhe= > toric that simplifies things down to "Axis of Evil Bad, Us Good"=0A=0A=A0=
> =0AHope that helps,=0AJacqui Weeks=0A=A0=0A
> University of Notre Dame
> Department of English
> Gender Studies Predoctoral Teaching Fellow
> Internship Advisor/Research Workshop Coordinator
> Fairy Tale Network List Editor
> 325 O'Shaughnessy Hall
> =0ANotre Dame, IN 46556
> [redacted]=20

>
>
>
> =0AOn Wed, Aug 26, 2009 at 12:43 PM, steve russell <[redacted]>=
> wrote:
> =0AI've tried reading Geoffrey Hill. According to some, he's the most signi= > ficant poet in the English language.
> =0ABut Elliot provided footnotes. Hill seems to think that everyone has a > degree from either Cambridge or Oxford, or perhaps his poetry is only > meant for those endowed with said degrees. Not that I mind the degree, > =0Abut really, at least provide the "common" reader with footnotes.
>
>

---

blog : http://thedeletions.blogspot.com
website : http://pambrownbooks.blogspot.com/
associate editor : http://jacketmagazine.com/

↑ Index

216. Jim Andrews
lingo of purr
Mon 31 Aug 2009

---

poetry is in us deep.

long before we could even think straight, there was the repetition, on certain occassions, of the same sounds.

first it was just when we were in pain.

or in pleasure.

and that was language.

you can see it in cats and dogs. dunno what level of understanding they have--but we were there once. on certain occassions they make the same sounds. and that is communicative to us and amongst themselves, and it is a kind of language, but it hasn't got the sort of consciousness to it we associate with language.

but the point is that's where we were with language long ago. and poetry still keeps in touch with that sort of language consciousness. via repetition, sound poetry, the primal orality of some types of language + mouthiness.

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

217. William Allegrezza
Come to Series A this Wednesday in Chicago!
Mon 31 Aug 2009

Come to the Series A poetry reading this Wednesday.

September 2, 7:00-8:00 p.m.
    Nina Corwin
    Michael Bernstein

The reading is held at the Hyde Park Art Center.
5020 S. Cornell Avenue
Chicago, IL

Easy access to public transportation and a free parking lot.

Byob.

Bill Allegrezza

↑ Index

218. Camille Martin
new on Rogue Embryo's blog
Mon 31 Aug 2009

New posts on Rogue Embryo:

Sonnets Preview
Zydeco Gallery Four
Majlis Multidisciplinary Arts: Figure of Speech (a collaborative evening of poetry, dance, and music)
The Majlis Collaborative Experience
Majlis Multidisciplinary Arts: "Figure of Speech" concert photos

http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

Cheers!
Camille Martin
http://www.camillemartin.ca
http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

↑ Index

219. steve russell
Re: Geoffrey Hill - last week
Mon 31 Aug 2009

---

i didn't expect to see anything else on this topic. but it's welcomed. thanks.

--- On Mon, 8/31/09, Pam Brown <[redacted]> wrote:

From: Pam Brown <[redacted]>
Subject: Geoffrey Hill - last week
To: [redacted]
Date: Monday, August 31, 2009, 4:19 AM

Dear Steve and Jacquilyn.

I realise that it was last week ..but ..
You might be interested in this essay on Geoffrey Hill in the upcoming issue of Jacket?

http://jacketmagazine.com/38/hill-by-saravanamuttu.shtml

Best wishes,
Pam
> Date: Wed, 26 Aug 2009 14:25:31 -0700
> From: steve russell <[redacted]>
> Subject: Fw: Re: British Poetry Since Wordworth
>
> I once was clueless. I'm now clued in.
> & to think, a few decades ago I would have remained clueless and bitter, ig= > norant without the bliss.=A0=20
>
> --- On Wed, 8/26/09, Jacquilyn Weeks <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> From: Jacquilyn Weeks <[redacted]>
> Subject: Re: British Poetry Since Wordworth
> To: "steve russell" <[redacted]>
> Date: Wednesday, August 26, 2009, 3:26 PM
>
> The footnotes to Geoffrey Hill are the Oxford English Dictionary. He meant = > it when he said "etymology is history."=A0Most of his poetry is based on mu= > lti-layered=A0word play, and he always gives you some kind of hint that let= > s you into the poem.=0A=0A=A0=0AFor example, the hint words in "September S= > ong" are the dates set just below the title and the word "Zyklon." Once you=
> look that up (it's a cyanide gas invented by a German Jew as a pesticide -= > he won the=A0Nobel for it in 1918--=A0used in the Nazi death chambers)

the= > n the rest of the poem starts popping out at you: "passed over" ("Passover"=
>), "just" (meaning "justice," "only," "barely," etc.), flakes of ashes gett= > ing into the poet's eye (making him cry?)=0A=0A=A0=0AYou don't really need =
> a degree, as much as the kind of mind that gets into crossword puzzles.
Som= > e people find this offputting - if you can think of the whole process as a = > game, does that diminish the power of talking about the Holocaust? But Hill= > would argue that language tends toward simplicity, and that linguistic ove= > rsimplification is=A0a kind of fascism. Struggling through the possible mea= > nings is a way of re-sensitizing ourselves to the dangers and possibilities= > of language. It trains us not to be seduced or easily swayed by sloagy rhe= > toric that simplifies things down to "Axis of Evil Bad, Us Good"=0A=0A=A0=
> =0AHope that helps,=0AJacqui Weeks=0A=A0=0A
> University of Notre Dame
> Department of English
> Gender Studies Predoctoral Teaching Fellow
> Internship Advisor/Research Workshop Coordinator
> Fairy Tale Network List Editor
> 325 O'Shaughnessy Hall
> =0ANotre Dame, IN 46556
> [redacted]=20
>
>
>
> =0AOn Wed, Aug 26, 2009 at 12:43 PM, steve russell <[redacted]>=
> wrote:
> =0AI've tried reading Geoffrey Hill. According to some, he's the most signi= > ficant poet in the English language.
> =0ABut Elliot provided footnotes. Hill seems to think that everyone has a > degree from either Cambridge or Oxford, or perhaps his poetry is only > meant for those endowed with said degrees. Not that I mind the degree, > =0Abut really, at least provide the "common" reader with footnotes.
>
>

---

blog : http://thedeletions.blogspot.com
website : http://pambrownbooks.blogspot.com/
associate editor : http://jacketmagazine.com/

↑ Index

220. Peter Quartermain
Re: Question about Zukofsky's "A" Index
Mon 31 Aug 2009

---

31 August

This is an oldie, but no one has replied, so:

Hugh Kenner once told me that LZ originally prepared an idex to "A" which listed ONLY instances of "a" and "the" -- whether it listed all of them I know not, but I doubt it -- and Celia said that was totally inadequate as an index -- I think she was the one who then compiled the Index we now have. Maybe Paul Zukofsky knows. Maybe Mark Scroggins knows too. Mark?

More interesting, perhaps, would be to follow up the index entries and figure out why those instances were worthy of inclusion while others weren't, but I must say I have better things to do right now. Anyone want to get a PhD doing it?

P

=========
Peter Quartermain
846 Keefer Street
Vancouver
BC Canada V6A 1Y7
[redacted] (voice and fax)
[redacted]
=========

-----Original Message-----
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of UbuWeb
Sent: 11 August 2009 09:58 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Question about Zukofsky's "A" Index

Does anyone know why Zukofsky didn't index every instance of "a" or "the" or any number of other words? "a" appears on page 21 and is not listed in the index. And of course there are hundreds of instances of the word "the" beginning on page 1, not only between the pages of 175 and 563 in the 826 page book as indexed.

Here's the listings for a:

a, 1, 103, 130, 131, 138, 161, 168, 173-175, 177, 185, 186, 196, 199, 203, 212, 226-228, 232, 234, 235, 239, 241, 243, 245-248, 260, 270, 281, 282, 288, 291, 296, 297, 299, 302, 323, 327, 328, 351, 353, 377, 380382, 385, 391-394, 397, 402, 404407, 416, 418, 426, 433, 434, 435, 436, 438, 448, 457, 461, 463, 465, 470, 473, 474, 477-481, 491, 493497, 499, 500, 505, 507, 508-511, 536-539, 560-563

and the listings for the:

the, 175, 179, 181, 182, 184, 187, 191193, 196, 199, 202, 203, 205, 206, 208, 211, 215, 217, 221, 224-226. 228, 231, 232, 234, 238, 239, 241, 243, 245-248, 260, 270, 285, 288, 290, 291, 296, 297, 302, 316, 321324, 327, 328, 336, 338, 342, 368, 375, 379, 380, 383-387, 390-397, 402, 404, 406, 407, 412, 416, 426428, 434-436, 440, 441, 463, 465, 468, 470, 473, 474, 476-479, 494, 496, 497, 499, 506-511, 536-539, 560-563

With appreciation and many thanks in advance.

UbuWeb
http://ubu.com

↑ Index

@poetics

The UB Poetics Discussion Group

Archive of Electronic Correspondence

September 2009

243 messages · Mon 31 Aug 2009 – Wed 30 Sep 2009

September 2009 set the oldest wish in poetry against the newest theory that would abolish it — the ache to be inspired again, and the conceptual doctrine that inspiration was never needed in the first place. Two hundred and forty-three messages moved through the list, and its largest thread was a plain human cry for help getting started, while just beside it the copyists and the conceptualists went about proving that a poem could be made with no inspiration at all, only transcription. The month was a quiet standoff between the muse and the machine.

The largest thread asked the most vulnerable question a writer can ask out loud. Under the heading "How do you get the juices flowing again", a member confessed the dry spell every poet knows and asked the room, without embarrassment, how to begin again — and the commons answered with the tenderness it keeps for exactly this, trading rituals and tricks and encouragements. It was poetry at its most human and least theoretical: not what a poem means, but how, when the well runs dry, you ever write one at all.

The quarrel arrived as its exact opposite. In the same weeks, Kent Johnson's Day circulated — a conceptual work built by appropriation rather than invention — and Kenneth Goldsmith turned up singing Roland Barthes with a string quartet, the conceptualists demonstrating that the poem needs no juices, no muse, no waiting for the well: only a source to copy and the nerve to sign it. Where one poet begged the room to help the inspiration return, the other faction had declared inspiration a superstition the art was better off without.

The two camps were arguing, without quite saying so, about whether writing is something you undergo or something you merely execute. The poet with the dry spell believed the poem had to come, and suffered when it would not; the conceptualist believed the poem had only to be assembled, and suffered nothing. Between them sat the whole question of what it costs to make a thing, and whether cost is the point — whether the difficulty of writing is a bug the conceptualists had cleverly engineered away, or the very thing that makes a poem worth having once it finally arrives.

I have set September down exactly as the archive delivered it — the honest plea for the juices to flow again and the conceptual proof that no flowing is required — because it was the month the list held its deepest division up to the light: not language against lyric or avant against quiet, but inspiration against transcription, the muse against the machine. A room where one poet can ask, unashamed, how to start writing again, and another can sing a theorist's prose to a quartet and call it the poem, is a room living through the argument that would define its decade — whether making still means being visited, or only means choosing what to copy.

— Kristen M. Fabians

Index

Writers, names mentioned, and concepts. Every number links to its message. 243 in all.

WRITERS

Aggarwal, Vidhu 90
Allegrezza, William 84, 142
Allgood, Lindsey 18
Andrews, Jim 68, 108, 149
Austin, Geer 203
Baird, Bobby 225, 238
Ball, Jonathan 158, 220, 221
Bee, Susan 212
Bellamy, Dodie 119
Benson, Cara 47, 69, 109, 121
Berkson, Bill 1
Bloch, Julia 66
Borchart, Sharon Mesmer/David 116
Bowering, George 167
Bo¾ièeviæ, Ana 129
Brown, Pam 86, 98, 113
Buuck, David 152
Byrne, Mairead 166, 185, 239
Cain, Séamas 54, 117, 151, 161
Cha, Asian 223
Cheek, Cris 70, 102, 103, 180
Chirot, David 196
Chirot, David-Baptiste 6, 23
Clay, Steve 74
Conrad, CA 124, 207, 215, 216
Del Ray Cross 105
Czerw, Jeremy 12, 241
Dalachinsky, Steve 10, 89, 101, 168, 169
Daley, Ryan 160
Daly, Catherine 9, 59, 77, 172, 187, 214
Dewhurst, Robert 115
Djuric, Dubravka 130
Dolin, Sharon 177
Donovan, Thom 13
Drake, Alan 8
DuCharme, Mark 76
Durgin, Patrick F. 136
Dykstra, Kristin 135
Earl, Amanda 153, 228
Editor 164
ELECTRONICS, ART 75
Elshtain, Eric 55
Exley, Roy 192
Al Filreis 125
Foley, Jack 91
Fournier, Michael 44, 56
Fox, Skip 162, 235, 242, 243
Frazer, Vernon 144
Ganick, Peter 34, 35, 85
Garr, Megan M. 156
Glass, Dan 110
Glass, Jesse 218, 219
Godston, Daniel 39, 128, 224
Golding, Alan C 24, 30
Goldman, Judith 26
Gricevich, Andy 71
Halle, Steve 41
Hardy, Edmund 132
Harmon, Jason 236
Heller, Michael 231
Hinton, Laura 53, 163, 204
Holder, Doug 40
Hughes, Andrew 63
Johnson, Halvard 126
Jorgensen, Alexander 111, 209
Karmin, Jennifer 33, 62, 99, 138, 145, 183
Katz, Adam 165, 191, 233
Kimmelman, Burt 52, 131
King, Amy 15, 25, 51, 72, 82, 83, 106, 127, 150, 157, 232
Kirschenbaum, David 3, 22
Konkol, Margaret 79, 81
Laity, Cassandra 17
Lepson, Ruth 60, 61, 95, 159, 173, 174, 217
Levato, Francesco 88
Levitsky, R 58
Loden, Rachel 11, 211
Malo, Mary Jo 184
Martin, Camille 42, 137, 208
McLennan, Rob 65, 133, 194, 195, 234
Meadows, Deborah A. 118
Michael 123
Minton, Jonathan 134
Mosconi, Joseph 146
Munday, Evan 57, 182
Nemet-Nejat, Murat 48, 64, 171
Novack, Carol 213
Oha, Obododimma 186, 193, 222
Owens, Richard 200
Penberthy, Jenny 139
Penton, Jonathan 140
Perman, John 31
Peter 32
Peterson, Tim 122
Piombino, Nicholas 179
Prejsnar, Mark 27
Productions, Benyo Music 80
Project, Poetry 120, 189
Quackenbush, Jason 198
Ransom, Mark 178
Rippeon, Andrew 199
Ross, Stuart 94

Rothenberg, Jerome 175, 229
Rowan, Lou 28
Russell, Layne 190
Russell, Steve 5, 49, 78
Sarai, Sarah 181, 226
Side, Jeffrey 4, 73, 92, 97, 114, 141, 202, 205, 237, 240
Siegell, Paul 16, 227
Skinner, Jonathan 107
Slaughter, William 148
Sondheim, Alan 29, 36, 100, 143, 155, 210
Switaj, Elizabeth 176
Tieger, Aaron 37, 38
Traffic, Small Press 20, 67, 104, 201
Trigilio, Tony 43
UbuWeb 19, 46
Valley, Country 112
Vincent, Stephen 7, 96, 147
Waldrop, K. R. 206
Warner, James 93
Watten, Barrett 21
Weinstein, Eric 14
Weishaus, Joel 45, 50
Weiss, Mark 170, 188
Wharton, Samuel 2
Wickens, Jessica 154
Wilcox, Dan 87
Young, Mark 197, 230

NAMES MENTIONED

Adams, John 3
Addonizio, Kim 177
Adorno, Theodor 110
Alice, Mary 3, 128, 224
Allan, Don 82
Allison, Dorothy 3, 22
Amerika, Mark 138
Amram, David 51
Anderson, Erik 135
Andre, Marc 3
Andre, Michael 3
Andrews, Betsy 131
Apps, Stan 105
Arbor, Ann 136
Armand, Louis 105
Armantrout, Rae 11
Ashbery, John 74, 164, 171, 173, 180
Atlanta, Mark P. 25, 27, 128, 148, 224
Austin, Nathan 71
Baik, Cristiana 3
Baker, Lori 23
Ballard, Micah 107
Banias, Ari 122
Barbour, Douglas 195
Barnard, Mary 3
Barnes, Diane 94
Barnstone, Tony 9
Barthes, Roland 46, 61, 78
Barton, John 39, 128
Basinski, Michael 47
Basinski, Mike 103
Bates, Joe 107
Baudelaire, Charles 200
Baus, Eric 133
Beasley, Sandra 3
Beatty, Paul 116
Becker, Claire 135
Beckman, Joshua 189
Behrle, Jim 51
Belden, George 3
Belflower, James 122
Belle, Cecelia 3
Benjamin, Walter 3, 17, 107, 122, 225
Bennett, Bill 213
Bennett, John M. 134
Berger, Jonathan 3
Bergvall, Caroline 58, 129
Berkeley, Michael 3, 189
Bernal, Gabriel 135
Bernstein, Charles 3, 18, 125, 213, 229
Bernstein, Emma 212
Berrigan, Anselm 3, 47, 51, 133
Berrigan, Edmund 69
Berry, Jake 9
Bettridge, Joel 18
Betts, Tara 33
Bianchi, Raymond 84, 93, 99, 135
Blackburn, Paul 3
Blake, William 131
Blaser, Robin 94, 120, 139
Blau, Rachel 229
Bok, Christian 243
Bolden, Emma 127
Bonney, Sean 200
Borkhuis, Charles 3
Borzutzky, Daniel 135
Bowen, David 84, 93, 99
Bowering, Harry 167, 174
Boyer, Anne 3
BpNichol 57, 94, 182, 195
Bradley, Tom 98
Brady, Taylor 155
Brandonisio, Michael 140
Brazil, David 68, 199
Breckenridge, Donald 47
Brockwell, Stephen 234
Brossard, Nicole 57, 120
Brown, Ann 94
Brown, Brandon 104, 147, 189
Brown, Garrett 84, 93, 99
Brown, Kurt 148
Brown, Rebecca 119
Browning, Robert 33
Bryan, John 133

Bryant, Dana 17
Buck, Naomi 41
Budde, Rob 195
Bunting, Basil 43
Burger, Mary 150
Burke, Edmund 105, 134
Burns, Elizabeth 213
Burroughs, William S. 83, 120
Burton, Philip 51
Butler, William 1, 195
Byron, Philip 2
Cafe, Poets 3, 51
Cage, John 3, 126
Cameron, Sharon 66
Campbell, Jeremy 177
Capen, Samuel P. 79, 81
Carlos, William 51, 120, 121, 131, 135
Carr, Emily 195
Carr, Michael 38
Carroll, Jim 83
Carroll, John 3
Carson, Margaret 54, 117, 151
Carter, Angela 51
Carter, Laura 71
Casey, Sean 47, 122
Catanzano, Amy 76
Celan, Paul 206
Cervantes, James 134
Chace, Joel 47
Cheney, Don 105
Chomsky, Noam 215
Christakos, Margaret 57, 120
Cigale, Alex 82
Cirelli, Michael 69
Claire, Barbara 3, 47, 103
Clark, Emilie 3, 33, 39, 73
Clark, Tom 73
Clausen, Andy 51
Clinton, Bill 3
Coalition, Chicago 128
Cohen, Leonard 3
Colby, Kate 122
Coletti, John 3
Collis, Stephen 199, 200
Collom, Jack 76, 107, 189
Columbus, Christopher 119
Compton, Shanna 3, 12, 241
Cooper, Dennis 189
Cooper, Joseph 47
Cope, Stephen 3
Copp, Corina 3
Corman, Roger 206
Corso, Gregory 51
Coultas, Brenda 3, 51
County, Madison 6, 131, 136
County, Mike 3
Crane, Lee 3
Crawford, Robert 47, 105
Creeley, Robert 3, 167, 174, 206, 213
Crosby, Harry 3, 14
Crouch, Jeff 134
Crumpacker, Caroline 121
Cunningham, John 55
Curnow, Wystan 125
Cycholl, Garin 84, 93, 99
Césaire, Aimé 21
Daive, Jean 206
Damon, Maria 21
Darragh, Tina 3
Davidson, Michael 21, 24
Davinio, Caterina 75
Davis, Martin 3, 47
Davis, Peter 3, 105
Dawson, Nancy 128
Degentesh, Katie 12
Delford, Robert 3
Demske, Nick 84, 93, 99
Dennis, Carl 3, 69
Deutch, Amanda 122
Dewdney, Christopher 120
Dick, Jennifer K. 156
Dickinson, Mark 62
Dixon, Nancy 3, 150
Doty, Mark 131
Duggan, Laurie 105
Duncan, Robert 3, 139
Dunn, Jim 3
Durand, Marcella 3, 58, 131
Durgin, Patrick F. 136
Edwards, Brent 21
Eichhorn, Kate 57, 120
Elena, Maria 86
Ellen, Mary 9
Ellingham, Lew 146, 211
Elliott, George 131
Ellis, Stephen 33
Elrick, Laura 150
England, Amy 6, 43, 102
Enslin, Ted 107
Enzminger, Ann 3
Ernst, Max 51, 132, 134
Esther, Little 33
Evans, Bill 47
Evans, Brett 20, 67
Featherston, Dan 66
Ferguson, Jesse 195
Ferlinghetti, Lawrence 51
Finch, Annie 9, 104
Fink, Thomas 122
Fishman, Ellen 231
Fitzgerald, Scott 3, 80
Flynn, Nick 33
Flynn, Sean 62
Forbes, John 3

Forrest, Lisa 33
Foster, Paul 3, 51, 58, 71, 131, 135, 150
Foust, Graham 135
France, Peter 80
Frances, Mary 121
Franco, James 21
Fraser, Ian 217
Fraser, Kathleen 58, 129
Freedman, Lewis 3
Freeland, Charles 47
Freeman, Micah 3
Frost, Corey 145, 230
Fuchs, Greg 3
Fulton, Alice 116
Gallagher, Kristen 71, 122
Gambito, Sarah 58
Garcia, Rodrigo 135
Garr, Megan M. 156
Garthe, Karen 213
Gatza, Geoffrey 226, 239
Gek, Kim 22
Gelsinger, Eric 3
Genusa, Angela 105
Giffin, Lawrence 122
Gilbert, Alan 3
Giles, Samantha 20, 67, 104, 152, 154, 201
Ginsberg, Allen 51
Gizzi, Peter 146, 211
Glissant, Édouard 6
Glück, Robert 119
Goldsmith, Kenneth 46, 61, 78, 202, 205, 238, 239, 242, 243
Goldstein, Laura 122
Gomez, Audrey 51, 135
Goodman, Craig 3
Gordon, Nada 12, 241
Gordon, Robert 133, 241
Gorrick, Anne 47
Gould, Glenn 38
Graham, David 82
Graham, Lea 3, 22, 62, 82, 103, 133, 195
Gray, Stephanie 122
Greenberg, Arielle 107
Greene, Graham 116
Greenstreet, Kate 6, 138
Gregory, Dick 51
Griffin, Tim 3, 9, 120
Grinnell, Tracy 3
Group, Poets 27
Guest, Barbara 146, 211
Guthrie, Camille 69
Van Halen 78
Hall, Albert 51
Hall, Chase 107
Hall, Phil 195
Halpern, Greg 105
Halpern, Rob 199
Halsey, Alan 200
Hamilton, Robin 6
Hammond, Paul 135
Hansen, Jefferson 213
Harkey, John 122
Harrington, Joe 199
Harris, Sharon 195
Harryman, Carla 21, 57, 58, 129, 219
Harvey, James 62
Harway, Judith 6
Hayes, Jared 47, 155
Heath, Jennifer 76, 189
Heide, Anne 150
Heidsieck, Bernard 21
Heights, Jackson 3
Heintz, Kurt 84, 93, 99
Hejinian, Lyn 76, 107, 189
Heller, Mike 3, 231
Helmes, Scott 134
Henderson, David 71, 82, 116
Herbert, George 3
Herman, Rachel 148
Hernandez, Victor 6, 43, 131, 135
Heuving, Jeanne 129
Hibbard, Tom 134
Highfill, Mitch 120
Hight, Jeremy 128
Hill, Jennifer 185
Hofer, Jen 136
Hoffman, Cara 3, 122
Holbrook, Susan 57, 182, 183
Hollo, Anselm 103
Holmes, Janet 33
Holmes, Michael 161
Hotchkiss, Melissa 131
House, Poets 3
House, White 96
Howard, Scott 20, 51, 67
Howe, William R. 103, 200
Hunt, Erica 58, 129
Hunter, Robert 3
Hyesoon, Kim 62
Iijima, Brenda 3, 38, 71, 200
Indiana, Robert 3
Inguito, Scott 6
Ireland, Lauren 3, 54, 117, 151
Irvine, James 21, 146
Israel, David 10
Israeli, Henry 3, 96
Jackson, Jesse 3, 14, 152
Jacob, Max 3
Jaeger, Peter 195
Jaffe, Larry 105
Jameson, Fred 99
Janssen, Lisa 138
Javier, Paolo 3, 120, 122, 135
Jeanne, Sarah 217

Jeffery, Mark 200
Johnson, Kent 202, 205, 207, 217, 220, 221, 235, 236, 237, 238, 239, 240, 242, 243
Johnston, Devin 18
Jones, Brian 3, 51, 69, 154
Jordan, June 195
Jorgensen, Alex 111, 209
Joris, Pierre 21
Joseph, Safdie 107
Kafka, Franz 107
Kaipa, Summi 3
Karasick, Adeena 122
Karenina, Anna 3, 226
Kathryn, Mary 3, 66
Katko, Justin 102
Katz, Eliot 51
Kaufman, Bob 3
Kaufman, Erica 3, 134
Kazay, Jamie 39, 128
Keene, John 3
Kelleher, Michael 122
Kelly, Patrick 3, 66, 125, 229
Kelsey, Karla 107
Kennedy, David 105
Kenner, Hugh 44, 48, 56, 64
Kerouac, Jack 3, 51, 76, 121
Kerry, John 66, 70
Killian, Kevin 119, 146, 211
Kilroy, Kevin 39
King, Martha 3, 231
Kinsella, John 133
Kirschenbaum, David A. 3, 22
Klane, Matthew 134
Klein, Lucas 3, 96
Knox, Jennifer L. 3
Krall, Jackson 10
Krieger, Ben 3
Kuniya, Mark 112
Ladouceur, Ben 153
Lamoureux, Mark 122, 131
Lang, Eugene 3
Larsen, David 104, 147
Lauterbach, Ann 129, 163
Lavender, Bill 20, 67
Laynor, Gregory 122
Leftwich, Jim 34, 36
Leigh, Mike 103
Leonard, Tom 102
Leonardson, Eric 39
Leong, Michael 33, 145
Levin, Jonathan 10
Levin, Lauren 6
Levine, Jeffrey 238
Levine, Philip 232
Levis, Larry 232, 233
Levy, Andrew 71, 122
Lewis, Bernard 3, 9
Lewis, Joel 122
Lewis, Susan 2
Lichty, Patrick 128
Lindley, Eric 122
Livon, Ernesto 107
London, Frank 107, 128
Lopez, Tony 3, 9, 135
Lorber, Brendan 3
Lorca, Federico García 106
Louise, Bobbie 3
Mac Low, Jackson 3, 152
Lowinger, Aaron 3
Luiz, Jorge 68
Lundwall, Andrew 41
Lynch, David 96
Lyons, Kimberly 122, 150
Machlin, Dan 3
Mackey, Nathaniel 21
Madigan, Michele 3
Madison, James 3, 17, 22, 105
Madrid, Anthony 105
Magallon, Diana 134
Magi, Jill 3
Maher, Bill 96
Manning, Nicholas 91
Manson, Douglas 3, 141
Manson, Peter 141
Marie, Anne 3, 189
Marks, Justin 3, 12
Marsh, Bill 9, 122
Marshall, Robert 155
Martin, Douglas A. 47
Martinez, Michael 41, 150
Mason, George 189
Matthews, William 148
Maud, Ralph 139
Maurer, Susan 3
Maxwell, Andrew 122
Mayer, Bernadette 107
Maynard, James 3
Maynard, Joe 3
Meadows, Deborah A. 118
Meltzer, David 97
Melville, Nicky 115
Menendez, Didi 32, 49
Meng, Catherine 6, 38
Merrill, James 9
Michaels, Leonard 65
Middle, Max 195
Miller, Henry 69
Miller, Paul D. 84, 93, 99, 122
Milne, Drew 120
Minkus, Kim 182, 183
Mitchell, Joan 51
Mohammad, Kasey 136
Monk, Geraldine 200
Moody, Rick 134

Moore, Allison 2, 84, 93, 99, 122
Moore, John 134
Morgan, Robin 82
Moriarty, Laura 150
Morice, Dave 128
Morris, Dee 21, 91
Moure, Erin 57
Mulligan, Jennifer 195
Murfin, Ira S. 99
Murphy, Paul 3, 36, 131
Murphy, Ryan 3
Murphy, Sheila E. 36, 134
Myers, Michael 138
Myles, Eileen 3, 58, 69, 94, 129
Naka, Michelle 135
Nakayasu, Sawako 133, 135
Neel, Alice 51
Neruda, Pablo 106
Newman, Charlie 128
Nguyen, Hoa 58
Nichols, Travis 103, 189
Nicholson, Andy 23
Nicole, Anna 51, 103, 134
Niedecker, Lorine 66
Nixon, Richard 211
Noel, Urayoan 3, 21, 47, 135
Noland, Carrie 21
Norman, Peter 3, 39, 86
Norton, John 2, 3, 131
Obenzinger, Hilton 96
Oliver, John 9, 69
Oliver, Mary 9
Olsen, Geoffrey 3, 38, 122
Olsen, Lance 38
Olson, Charles 3, 66, 139
Ondaatje, Michael 65
Oppen, George 231
Orange, Tom 103
Orlovsky, Peter 51
Orr, David 23
Orser, Kristen 128
Ouzoonian, Amy 51
Owen, Catherine 195
Owen, Maureen 6
Pacific, Asian 100
Paige, Abby 33, 122
Palin, Sarah 5
Palmer, Michael 76, 82
Parish, Jefferson 51, 120
Parker, Michael 51, 167, 174, 213
Parkway, Neal 1, 76
Parrish, Gary 3
Parrish, Katherine 3
Pastan, Linda 9
Paterson, Don 121
Pecqueur, Paul 3
Perelman, Bob 125, 229
Perez, Jamie 3, 135
Pessoa, Fernando 82
Peterson, Katie 3, 82
Phillips, Beth 213
Piombino, Nick 122, 179
Place, Vanessa 217
Plath, Sylvia 145
Ponge, Francis 3
Powell, Ren 70
Prevallet, Kristin 3, 62, 131
Priddle, Ross 47
Prince, Richard 3, 14, 238
Pritchett, Pat 66
Pritts, Nate 12, 33
Prize, Poets 3
Professor, Kelly 125
Prunty, Randy 27
Pusateri, Chris 135
Quartermain, Peter 3, 44, 48, 56, 64, 139
Queyras, Sina 57, 182, 183
Rankine, Claudia 51, 120
Ratcliffe, Stephen 105
Raven, Francis 134
Raworth, Tom 146
Reeck, Matt 105
Reed, Marthe 134
Reese, Marshall 39
Regan, Matthias 3
Reilly, Evelyn 150
Remein, Daniel C. 105
Rerick, Michael 122
Retallack, Joan 129
Reynolds, Rebecca 3, 122
Reynolds, Sean 115
Rhodes, Martha 39
Ricard, Gabriel 140
Richards, Brian 82
Richter, Karl 208
Ridge, Cedar 3, 22
Rivera, Alex 86
Rizzo, Chris 47
Roberts, Gary 134
Robertson, Lisa 57, 110
Robins, Maureen 131
Robinson, Elizabeth 3, 155
Robinson, Jeffrey 229
Rockwell, Norman 138
Rogal, Stan 195
Rohrer, Matthew 33, 189
Rosenstock, Gabriel 54
Rosenthal, Bob 51
Ross, Harry 128
Roth, Philip 38
Rothenberg, Diane 229
Ruiz, Mariana 3
Russo, Linda 103
Sanders, James 27

Sawyer, Larry 99, 141
Sayers, Thomas 33
Scalapino, Leslie 146, 211
Scappettone, Jennifer 62
Schapira, Kate 3, 22
Schlesinger, Kyle 47
Schneeman, George 3
Schneider, Dan 183
Schoen, Jesse 3
Schwartz, Jerry 134
Scroggins, Mark 44, 48, 56, 64
Seaman, David 3
Semerdjian, Alan 3
Shakespeare, William 3, 69
Shapiro, David 128, 224
Shaw, Nancy 120
Shelley, Percy Bysshe 86
Shepard, Sam 3
Sherlock, Frank 20, 33, 67, 147, 215
Sherman, Cindy 105
Shufran, Lauren 199
Siegel, Nathaniel 3, 51
Sikelianos, Eleni 121
Silem, Kasey 136
Silverman, Oren 82
Simon, Greg 82
Simonds, Sandra 3
Simone, Frank 84, 93, 99
Simpson, Louis 195
Sims, Laura 12
Sky, Tarpaulin 22, 76
Sloman, Joel 217
Smith, Harry 33
Smith, Jessica 195
Smith, Pete 195
Smith, Rod 103
Snyder, Rick 122
Sondheim, Joanna 3
Spacks, Barry 82
Spahr, Boyd 205
Spahr, Juliana 18, 202
Spears, Patricia 51, 69
Spektor, Regina 3
Spicer, Jack 120, 146, 211
Spitzer, Jim 128
Stackhouse, Christopher 3, 122, 150
Stalin, Joseph 100
Stanley, Jared 6
Stanton, Rob 3
Stebelton, Chuck 71
Stefans, Kim 3, 146, 211
Stein, Gertrude 94
Stein, Leigh 33
Steinberg, Nicole 181
Stevens, Wallace 154
Stewart, Christine 129
Stewart, Jon 58, 96
Strang, Brian 57, 58, 120, 129
Strauss, Joshua 103
Strickland, Stephanie 47, 138, 199
Strummer, Joe 3
Sullivan, Andrew 47
Sullivan, Gary 241
Szymaszek, Stacy 3
Tabios, Eileen 105
Taggart, John 33, 122
Tallman, Ellen 139
Tardos, Anne 122, 152, 201
Taylor, Justin 33
Taylor, Steven 51
Taylor, Tom 82, 94, 134
Tejada, Roberto 199, 200
Tempest, Terry 9
Texas, Irving 135, 213
Thomas, Dylan 3, 6, 9
Thompson, George 3, 47, 122
Tiffany, Daniel 90
Tiger, Madeline 131
Tills, Steve 105
Timm, Steve 71
Tonelli, Chris 3, 22
Topel, Andrew 134
Toscano, Rodrigo 21, 58, 103, 135
Tucker, Aaron 91
Tuma, Keith 103
Tupitsyn, Masha 119
Turner, Jacqueline 182, 183
Turner, Michael 133
Turner, Victor 3, 182, 213
Tursi, Mark 131
Twain, Mark 96
Tyler, Richard 62
Tysh, Chris 217
Valentine, Jean 87
Vassilakis, Nico 134
Vaughan, Sarah 80
Veronica, Angela 3
Vincent, Gregory 122
Vitiello, Chris 107
Wagner, Catherine 103, 150
Waldman, Anne 58, 92, 129, 135
Waldman, Ken 92
Waldrop, Keith 150
Waldrop, Rosemary 150, 206
Waldrop, Rosmarie 206
Walker, Laura 3, 82
Walker, Mary 3, 22
Walker, Ryan 3
Wallace, Nicole 103
Warhol, Andy 3, 51
Warren, Kenneth 131, 189
Warsh, Lewis 3
Washington, George 3, 6, 43, 150, 217
Watson, Scott 65, 133

Watten, Barry 21
Weaver, Andy 195
Weber, Damian 150
Weinberger, Eliot 107, 135
Weiser, Karen 3
Weiss, Irving 134
Wellman, Donald 3
Wheeler, Susan 225
Whitehead, Ron 51
Whiting, John 150
Whitman, Walt 3, 69
Wierzbicki, Carol 3
Williams, Julia 195
Williams, Paul O. 3, 9, 33, 116, 134, 135, 200
Williams, Tyrone 33, 103, 199, 200
Williams, William Carlos 3
Willis, Elizabeth 212
Wilson, Karen 3, 15, 72, 129
Winkfield, Trevor 74
Wintz, Sara 3, 122
Wolff, Rebecca 47
Woolf, Virginia 17
Wright, C. D. 66
Yacht, Peter F. 195
Yarmolinsky, Ben 3
Yates, Katie 3
Zawacki, Andrew 47
Zimmer, Kathy 3
Zolf, Rachel 57, 120
Zukofsky, Louis 44, 48, 56, 59, 64, 125
Zukofsky, Paul 44, 48, 56, 64

CONCEPTS

9/11 3, 10, 20, 46, 61, 67, 78, 89
Activism and protest 3, 57, 58, 107, 129, 130, 163, 215
Aesthetics 3, 21, 66, 110, 210, 243
Affect 115
Afghanistan 96, 100
African American poetry 3
Anthologies 3, 9, 14, 21, 23, 57, 76, 94, 107, 120, 121, 131, 133, 136, 145, 146, 148, 150, 156, 183, 185, 187, 193, 211, 241
Appropriation 220, 235, 236, 238, 240
Archives and libraries 1, 8, 12, 17, 29, 45, 51, 69, 79, 81, 94, 100, 139, 148, 182, 210, 234, 239, 241
Autobiography 3, 7, 53, 66, 107, 121, 150, 175, 206
Avant-garde 3, 21, 58, 66, 79, 81, 120, 122, 129, 175, 229, 234
Beat generation 51
Beauty 120, 152, 189
Black Mountain 3
Blogs 2, 3, 4, 7, 8, 9, 12, 13, 14, 16, 20, 22, 32, 34, 40, 41, 42, 49, 51, 62, 65, 66, 67, 68, 71, 76, 83, 85, 86, 95, 96, 98, 100, 104, 108, 110, 113, 124, 125, 126, 129, 130, 132, 133, 137, 145, 147, 150, 152, 155, 160, 168, 175, 181, 184, 185, 189, 194, 195, 199, 200, 201, 205, 207, 208, 213, 215, 216, 218, 227, 229, 234, 237, 241
Book announcements 3, 18, 20, 22, 31, 38, 67, 102, 103, 106, 109, 121, 127, 142, 146, 150, 153, 157, 158, 159, 160, 162, 164, 166, 167, 168, 169, 171, 173, 174, 178, 179, 180, 182, 183, 186, 198, 202, 205, 211, 212, 222, 232
Bookstores 3, 14, 94, 119, 211, 231, 234
Calls for submissions 127
Capitalism 209, 230
Censorship 3
Cities 3, 20, 63, 67, 69, 80, 94, 145, 151, 196, 230
Climate 100
Collage and montage 3, 6, 10
Conceptual writing 104, 202, 205, 217, 238, 239
Conferences and festivals 3, 24, 25, 27, 51, 52, 54, 57, 58, 60, 63, 65, 69, 76, 80, 84, 88, 93, 99, 101, 103, 117, 128, 129, 131, 133, 148, 151, 152, 155, 161, 163, 204, 215, 229, 239
Copyright and permissions 51
Craft 9, 148
Creative writing pedagogy 104, 152, 201
Deconstruction 184, 185
Difficulty 155, 184, 185
Digital archives 3, 19, 20, 44, 46, 48, 56, 61, 64, 66, 78, 150, 152, 231
Disability 3
Dreams 3, 9, 53, 107, 137, 153, 198, 222
Ecology and ecopoetics 3, 9, 39, 76, 96, 100, 103, 107, 109, 129, 189, 210
Editing 3, 43, 57, 71, 84, 90, 93, 99, 136
Ekphrasis 3, 52, 60, 122, 131, 231
Electronic poetry and hypertext 3, 68, 152, 175, 229
Elegy 17, 232
Epic 145
Epistemology 18
Erasure 21
Ethics 9
Experimental poetry 21
Fascism 96, 100
Feminism 3, 9, 57, 58, 120, 129, 130, 163, 183, 204, 217
Film 3, 29, 51, 53, 66, 84, 88, 91, 93, 99, 101, 107, 119, 120, 140, 146, 155, 163, 189, 196, 211, 222
Flarf 225, 241
Free verse 3, 22
Futurism 21, 109
Gender 57, 163
Globalization 21

Grants and funding 3, 6, 9, 11, 69, 76, 196, 211, 238
Haiku 145
Homophonic translation 196
Humour and satire 120, 196
Identity politics 3, 21
Interviews 3, 40, 42, 51, 57, 92, 97, 127, 131, 139, 140, 149, 213, 238
Israel and Palestine 3, 10, 96, 229
Jewish poetics 196
Language poetry 3
Latino and Latin American poetry 3, 107
Letters and correspondence 6, 18, 37, 38, 126
List moderation 3, 65, 84, 93, 96, 99, 131
Little magazines 3, 6, 8, 9, 16, 22, 25, 27, 43, 47, 66, 69, 79, 81, 84, 86, 90, 93, 94, 99, 107, 109, 113, 120, 122, 127, 131, 136, 145, 148, 150, 189, 198, 200, 222, 223, 225, 228, 238
Lyric poetry 3, 9, 21, 26, 28, 30, 38, 102, 103, 230
Marxism 9
Materiality of the text 21
Memory 3, 6, 22, 77, 152
MFA programs 9, 76, 102, 107, 116, 121, 131, 136, 146, 181
Modernism 17, 21, 66, 68
Mourning and loss 3, 9, 95, 131
Multiculturalism 3, 90, 94
Music and poetry 3, 15, 16, 22, 43, 46, 51, 61, 72, 78, 80, 94, 97, 102, 117, 118, 120, 139, 150, 152, 159, 161, 164, 167, 169, 171, 173, 174, 176, 180, 181, 189, 190, 196, 213, 214, 227, 231
Nationalism 21
Nature 3, 9, 76, 80, 107, 189
Negativity and refusal 21, 118
Obituary and memorial 85, 95
Objectivism 13, 146, 211
Ontology 3
Oulipo 3, 19
Performance and the poetry reading 3, 6, 21, 22, 43, 76, 84, 87, 93, 99, 104, 131, 136, 150, 189, 215, 217, 224, 227, 229, 234, 241
Phenomenology 3, 122
Philosophy 3, 18, 90, 107, 109
Place and region 3, 9, 120, 150, 152, 199
Poet laureate 69
Poetics 3, 12, 21, 44, 48, 56, 57, 58, 64, 66, 76, 84, 93, 99, 100, 103, 120, 121, 122, 129, 131, 136, 148, 162, 163, 166, 178, 179, 204, 213, 231, 235, 239
Politics and poetry 134
Print vs. digital 3, 18, 20, 34, 35, 36, 38, 57, 64, 67, 68, 103, 121, 124, 130, 132, 205, 206, 207, 215, 216, 239
Prizes and awards 3, 6, 11, 20, 21, 43, 66, 67, 76, 86, 90, 94, 117, 120, 131, 145, 146, 150, 189, 211, 213, 228
Procedural and constraint writing 158
Prose poem 3, 55, 82, 131
Prosody and meter 17
Psychoanalysis 3
Queer poetics 3, 96, 124, 130, 203
Reading announcements 3, 39, 66, 102, 128, 131, 136, 177, 183, 212, 217, 224, 229
Religion and the sacred 2, 18, 96, 100, 109, 118, 170, 243
Representation 228
Reviewing and criticism 3, 4, 6, 16, 21, 22, 23, 26, 28, 43, 66, 80, 82, 86, 90, 94, 98, 106, 107, 127, 131, 139, 140, 150, 157, 158, 159, 160, 162, 164, 166, 167, 168, 169, 171, 173, 174, 178, 179, 180, 186, 189, 198, 211, 213, 222, 225, 226, 232, 239
Revision 162, 166, 179
Romanticism 70, 229
Science 76, 100, 107, 109, 134
Semiotics 96, 104
Serial poem 3, 86, 102
Small press publishing 3, 6, 20, 22, 40, 53, 55, 62, 65, 66, 67, 79, 81, 94, 104, 107, 109, 127, 133, 138, 140, 147, 148, 149, 150, 152, 156, 177, 181, 187, 189, 193, 194, 195, 201, 203, 211, 226, 234, 241
Social media 3, 6, 15, 17, 32, 49, 54, 72, 75, 80, 90, 117, 151, 155, 181, 195, 226, 227
Software and code 3, 66, 67, 68, 75, 155
Sonnet 3
Sound poetry 94, 234
Subjectivity 3, 6, 76, 80, 228
Sublime 211
The academy 1, 3, 6, 17, 21, 22, 24, 41, 43, 65, 66, 70, 76, 84, 93, 94, 99, 102, 103, 107, 120, 121, 125, 131, 133, 135, 136, 145, 146, 148, 150, 151, 152, 153, 163, 181, 189, 193, 211, 213, 222, 225, 229, 238
The body 3, 21, 111, 129
The internet 3, 8, 9, 21, 26, 28, 100, 120, 125, 155, 160, 168, 198, 213, 222, 238
The Iraq war 20, 67
The listserv 6, 8, 45, 50, 80, 100, 120, 121, 155, 189, 196, 236, 240
Theatre 3, 22, 53, 69, 80, 102, 107, 117, 118, 120, 122, 138, 146, 211, 219
Translation 2, 3, 6, 43, 64, 66, 68, 103, 104, 118, 121, 131, 135, 136, 145, 147, 148, 150, 152, 189, 196, 198, 200, 206, 222, 229
Visual and concrete poetry 3, 8, 9, 68, 108, 140, 149
Visual art 3, 5, 10, 22, 39, 69, 76, 102, 104, 107, 121, 135, 152, 189, 196, 199, 212, 224, 230, 231

Women's writing 3, 57, 120, 183, 217

Contents

Every entry links to its message. 243 in all.

31 AUG 2009

1. Bill Berkson — Berkson in SoCal
2. Samuel Wharton — Fwd: sawbuck 3.3

1 SEP 2009

3. David Kirschenbaum — Boog Fest Starts Wed. 9/9 & Program Issue Online
4. Jeffrey Side — “Is Steven Burt’s “New Thing” all that New?”
5. steve russell — Re: THE NYT: FUTURE OF READING Students Get New Assignment: Pick Books You …
6. David-Baptiste Chirot — : E-News: Judith Harway, Don Share, & Emily Warn this Friday!
7. Stephen Vincent — New de blog/ Plane tree "haptics" &
8. Alan Drake — archæZine & The Hudson Valley PoetsFest 2009 (Aug 22)
9. Catherine Daly — Fwd: Request for Ecological Writing--Submissions for New Blog

2 SEP 2009

10. steve dalachinsky — Fw: Fw: Fw: Re: steve dalachinsky readings in ny
11. Rachel Loden — Rae Armantrout & Rachel Loden in Los Angeles
12. Jeremy Czerw — Event listing for Poetics List
13. Thom Donovan — On Burt's "The New Thing" at Wild Horses Of Fire
14. Eric Weinstein — Best New Poets 2009 NYC Readings
15. amy king — In Lieu of Stain -- poetry + music + you @
16. Paul Siegell — Re: A widespread, high-spirited head rush
17. Cassandra Laity — Modernism/Modernity 16:3 TOC
18. Lindsey Allgood — Chax Press presents new work by Joel Bettridge
19. UbuWeb — September UbuWeb Featured Resources - Selected by Hans Ulrich Obrist
20. Small Press Traffic — SPT FALL SEASON BEGINS WITH CA CONRAD AND FRANK SHERLOCK!

3 SEP 2009

21. Barrett Watten — Publication announcement: Diasporic Avant-Gardes

4 SEP 2009

22. David Kirschenbaum — VIP: Now 7pm Rope-a-Dope Press Start on Thurs.
23. David-Baptiste Chirot — NYT: 'The Anthologist' novel re poetry & trying to write intro for…
24. Alan C Golding — Louisville Conference CFP
25. amy king — Georgia Book Festival - This Weekend!
26. judith goldman — Query about Antoine Caze, "Conceptual Lyricism: Abstract Constructions of …
27. Mark Prejsnar — Re: Georgia Book Festival - This Weekend!
28. Lou Rowan — Re: Query about Antoine Caze, "Conceptual Lyricism: Abstract Constructions of t…
29. Alan Sondheim — prolegomenon text and film manque film

5 SEP 2009

30. Alan C Golding — Theory of Lyric
31. John Perman — Idiolects of Silence
32. Peter — Poets & Artists “Self Portrait Issue
33. Jennifer Karmin — Fall 2009: PETE'S BIG POETRY SERIES (NYC)

6 SEP 2009

34. peter ganick — NEW press' first 7 titles.
35. peter ganick — chalk editions, hold the press, an addendum
36. Alan Sondheim — chalk editions, first eight titles
37. aaron tieger — RECENTLY CLOUDS by Jess Mynes and Aaron Tieger

38. aaron tieger — Petrichord Books catalogue

7 SEP 2009

39. Daniel Godston — soundwalk & Bauhaus9090 event
40. Doug Holder — Interview with poet Tino Villanueva with Doug Holder
41. Steve Halle — Paul Martínez Pompa @ Seven Corners
42. Camille Martin — new on Rogue Embryo's blog
43. Tony Trigilio — Don Share & Emily Warn at Columbia College Chicago

8 SEP 2009

44. Michael Fournier — Re: Question about Zukofsky's "A" Index
45. Joel Weishaus — "The Gateless Gate" Pages 33-34
46. UbuWeb — Kenneth Goldsmith sings Roland Barthes with a live String Quartet
47. Cara Benson — Sous Rature 3ssue online
48. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: Question about Zukofsky's "A" Index
49. steve russell — Re: Poets & Artists “Self Portrait Issue
50. Joel Weishaus — "The Gateless Gate" Pages 33-34 (Correct link)
51. amy king — HOWL ! Festival 2009 Schedule [on behalf of Nathaniel Siegel]

9 SEP 2009

52. Kimmelman, Burt — Panelist Needed for Panel on Ekphrastic Poetry, All Day Poetry Conference…
53. Laura Hinton — Announcing new poetry book
54. Séamas Cain — ... grace & delicacy, in the Zen sense
55. Eric Elshtain — New Beard of Bees Chapbook
56. Michael Fournier — Re: Question about Zukofsky's "A" Index

10 SEP 2009

57. Evan Munday — Innovative Canadian female writers launch Prismatic Publics at the Poetry Pro…
58. R Levitsky — Announcement. Advancing Feminist Poetics and Activism: A Gathering
59. Catherine Daly — Re: Question about Zukofsky's "A" Index
60. Ruth Lepson — Re: Panelist Needed for Panel on Ekphrastic Poetry, All Day Poetry Conference…
61. Ruth Lepson — Re: Kenneth Goldsmith sings Roland Barthes with a live String Quartet
62. Jennifer Karmin — O SAY CAN YOU SEE: Women's Poetry
63. Andrew Hughes — Boog City Festival this weekend...
64. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: Question about Zukofsky's "A" Index
65. Rob McLennan — Sheila Watson conference, University of Toronto, Oct 23-24, 2009
66. julia bloch — Emergency reading: Pritchett and Featherston, 9/15 in Philly

11 SEP 2009

67. Small Press Traffic — REMINDER: CAConrad and Frank Sherlock: Friday and Saturday!
68. Jim Andrews — Poesia Eletrônica by Jorge Luiz Antonio
69. Cara Benson — PARACHUTE: the Coney Island Performance Festival
70. cris cheek — Job Opportunity : Romantic Poetry

12 SEP 2009

71. Andy Gricevich — Cannot Exist no.5 is out!

13 SEP 2009

72. amy king — A tonna music, poetry, et al - Tonight.
73. Jeffrey Side — Tom Clark poems
74. Steve Clay — Publication Party for: John Ashbery & Trevor Winkfield: "Faster Than Birds Can…
75. ART ELECTRONICS — URGENT Venice Biennale - Call for participation in Venice October 9 2009
76. Mark DuCharme — Stratford Park Reading Series: COLLOM & CATANZANO October 8th

77. Catherine Daly — LA: xeroxes of poemmat in show...
78. steve russell — Re: Kenneth Goldsmith sings Roland Barthes with a live String Quartet
79. Margaret Konkol — S M A L L P R E S S in the A R C H I V E Talk TUESDAY 9/15

14 SEP 2009

80. Benyo Music Productions — The HOWL! Jazz Festival presents Nanette Natal
81. Margaret Konkol — BUFFALO NY---S M A L L P R E S S in the A R C H I V E Talk TUESDAY 9/15
82. amy king — Fall 2009 issue of The Salt River Review is now onlineMonday, September 14, 2009...
83. amy king — Jim Carroll, Poet and Punk Rocker, Is DeadSunday, September 13, 2009 7:04 PM
84. William Allegrezza — Series A Conversations mini-conference in Chicago
85. peter ganick — tom taylor has passed away
86. Pam Brown — Calling keen reviewers for Jacket magazine
87. Dan Wilcox — Third Thursday Poetry Night, Sept. 17: Tom Corrado
88. Francesco Levato — Call for Poetry Film and Video - Deadline January 15, 2010

15 SEP 2009

89. steve dalachinsky — the passing on 9/11 of jim carroll
90. Vidhu Aggarwal — Call SPECS Journal: Toy issue
91. Jack Foley — FlashPoint's Finnegans Wake issue UPDATED!
92. Jeffrey Side — Anne Waldman interview at The Argotist Online
93. Warner, James — Re: Series A Conversations mini-conference in Chicago
94. Stuart Ross — Toronto indie bookstore birthday bash with Eileen Myles, bill bissett, Lee An...
95. Ruth Lepson — Re: tom taylor has passed away
96. Stephen Vincent — Meditations in a Time of Delusions and Lies – 30
97. Jeffrey Side — Interview with David Meltzer about Rockpile
98. Pam Brown — Reviewers for Jacket
99. Jennifer Karmin — Sept 19: Chicago Poetry Mini-Conferece (updated info)

16 SEP 2009

100. Alan Sondheim — New McCarthyism: Fear of Science and the War on Rationality (fwd)
101. steve dalachinsky — Re: Call for Poetry Film and Video - Deadline January 15, 2010
102. cris cheek — Justin Katko: Thursday 17th September - "THE DEATH OF PRINGLE"
103. cris cheek — post _ moot: call for proposals
104. Small Press Traffic — REMINDER: David Larsen and Brandon Brown THIS WEEKEND!
105. Del Ray Cross — SHAMPOO 36
106. amy king — Slaves to Do These Things - Reviewers?
107. Jonathan Skinner — LANGUAGE ARTS LIVE (Bates College, ME) presents JACK COLLOM this THURSDAY
108. Jim Andrews — graphics show
109. Cara Benson — Predictions book
110. Dan Glass — one month and one day
111. Jorgensen, Alexander — The Body as Conflict & Milwaukee Poem (Winter Movement) Re: SHAMPOO ...
112. Country Valley — Looking for a copy of Butterick's A GUIDE TO THE MAXIMUS POEMS

17 SEP 2009

113. Pam Brown — thanks from Pam at Jacket
114. Jeffrey Side — Poems by Pam Brown at the The Argotist Online
115. Robert Dewhurst — WILD ORCHIDS #1: Melville
116. Sharon Mesmer/David Borchart — Beatty & Mesmer reading 9/22
117. Séamas Cain — New poetry from the Rinn Gaeltacht
118. Deborah A. Meadows — Diamond Sutra
119. Dodie Bellamy — Tuesday, 9-22: Bellamy, Brown, Gluck, Killian read at City Lights
120. Poetry Project — Events and Workshops at The Poetry Project
121. Cara Benson — Poetry Workshop with Eleni Sikelianos at Millay Colony

122. Tim Peterson — EOAGH Issue 5 Launch Events & Readings
123. Michael — ROCKPILE TOUR CALENDAR CORRECTION FOR ALBUQUERQUE

18 SEP 2009

124. CA Conrad — Serbia, SUNDAY
125. Al Filreis — PoemTalk 22: on Zukofsky
126. Halvard Johnson — Query re home for old correspondence
127. amy king — Poets' Quarterly call for submissions
128. Daniel Godston — Bauhaus9090 updates
129. Ana Bo¾ièeviæ — Advancing Feminist Poetics and Activism: A Gathering
130. Dubravka Djuric — Re: Serbia, SUNDAY
131. Kimmelman, Burt — Poetry Colloquium at Centenary College of New Jersey

19 SEP 2009

132. Edmund Hardy — The Last Drop: Versions of August Stramm
133. Rob McLennan — new(ish) on rob's clever blog
134. Jonathan Minton — Word For/Word #15
135. Kristin Dykstra — announcing Mandorla 12 (2009)

20 SEP 2009

136. Patrick F. Durgin — Upcoming readings of interest: Dorantes, Solorzano, Hofer, Durgin
137. Camille Martin — new on Rogue Embryo's blog
138. Jennifer Karmin — Red Rover Series / Experiment #33

21 SEP 2009

139. Jenny Penberthy — The Capilano Review -- farewell to Robin Blaser
140. Jonathan Penton — chapbooks! features! ecstasy!
141. Jeffrey Side — Larry Sawyer and Peter Manson poems at The Argotist Online
142. William Allegrezza — New book by Jukka-Pekka Kervinen
143. Alan Sondheim — Fwd: Sand artist
144. Vernon Frazer — Vernon Frazer featured in Unlikely 2.0
145. Jennifer Karmin — Sept 25: Pete's Candy Store (NYC)
146. Joseph Mosconi — Tom Raworth, Kevin Killian & Gabriela Jauregui @ The Poetic Research Bureau
147. Stephen Vincent — D Larsen, B Brown, CA Conrad, Frank Sherlock = New de blog
148. William Slaughter — Notice: Mudlark

22 SEP 2009

149. Jim Andrews — Re: chapbooks! features! ecstasy!
150. amy king — SEGUE READING SERIES @ BOWERY POETRY CLUB
151. Séamas Cain — Controversy & Debate
152. David Buuck — reminder: ANNE TARDOS AND AMINA CAIN THIS FRIDAY AND SATURDAY!
153. Amanda Earl — Alert by Ben Ladouceur now available from AngelHousePress

23 SEP 2009

154. Jessica Wickens — Monday Night: New Issue, New Website, New Reading Period
155. Alan Sondheim — UMove Launch Party and Movement Media Fundraiser! (fwd)(Foofwa, Azure, and ...
156. Megan M. Garr — Versal is pleased to announce: new reading period, new editors
157. amy king — How do you get the juices flowing again??
158. Jonathan Ball — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
159. Ruth Lepson — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
160. Ryan Daley — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
161. Séamas Cain — ... the poetry of pneumatic drills
162. Skip Fox — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
163. Laura Hinton — Re: Advancing Feminist Poetics and Activism: A Gathering
164. editor — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??

165. Adam Katz — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
166. Mairead Byrne — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
167. George Bowering — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
168. steve dalachinsky — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
169. steve dalachinsky — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
170. Mark Weiss — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
171. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
172. Catherine Daly — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
173. Ruth Lepson — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
174. Ruth Lepson — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
175. Jerome Rothenberg — help needed

24 SEP 2009

176. Elizabeth Switaj — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
177. Sharon Dolin — Heads up for CBA Chapbook Reading Wed. Oct. 7th
178. Mark Ransom — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
179. Nicholas Piombino — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
180. cris cheek — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
181. Sarah Sarai — Fri., 9/25 Brooklyn, Sarah Sarai (The Future Is Happy), Andrew Zornoza (Where...
182. Evan Munday — Sept. 26 - Bowery Poetry Club - Holbrook, Minkus, Queyras, Turner
183. Jennifer Karmin — Sept 26: two readings @ The Bowery
184. Mary Jo Malo — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
185. Mairead Byrne — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
186. Obododimma Oha — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
187. Catherine Daly — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
188. Mark Weiss — query
189. Poetry Project — Events at The Poetry Project
190. Layne Russell — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
191. Adam Katz — Re: query

25 SEP 2009

192. Roy Exley — How do you get the juices flowing again?
193. Obododimma Oha — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
194. Rob McLennan — Re: query
195. Rob McLennan — above/ground press 2010 subscriptions
196. David Chirot — Re: query
197. Mark Young — Re: query

26 SEP 2009

198. Jason Quackenbush — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
199. Andrew Rippeon — P-Queue, vol. 6Geof Hutherica lewis & mark stephen finein
200. richard owens — Damn the Caesars, Vol. V
201. Small Press Traffic — what are you doing today? come spend some time with Anne Tardos!
202. Jeffrey Side — 'Day' by Kent Johnson
203. Geer Austin — New York Writers Coalition Chapbook
204. Laura Hinton — ADFEMPO -- photos and notes from this week's feminist poetics conference 205. Jeffrey Side — New blog post: 'Another Day for Kent Johnson'

27 SEP 2009

206. K. R. Waldrop — Daive's memoir of Paul Celan
207. CA Conrad — Dear Chicago, Dear Everyone...
208. Camille Martin — new on Rogue Embryo's blog
209. Jorgensen, Alexander — Celebrating China's 60 Anniversary
210. Alan Sondheim — SECOND LIFE PERFORMANCE NIGHT AT EYEBEAM (please list)

28 SEP 2009

211. Rachel Loden — Kevin Killian and Rachel Loden at Kepler's Books, Menlo Park CA

212. Susan Bee — Girldrive now available
213. Carol Novack — Mad Hatters' Review Poetry, Prose, and Anything Goes Reading
214. Catherine Daly — Re: query
215. CA Conrad — EcoNvergence POETRY
216. CA Conrad — ANTENNA JIVE
217. Ruth Lepson — Re: Dear Chicago, Dear Everyone...
218. Jesse Glass — Mark DuCharme's The Found Titles Project available as an Ahadada Free E-Chap
219. Jesse Glass — Seducing Velasquez by Dayana Stetco, Available from Ahadada Books
220. Jonathan Ball — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
221. Jonathan Ball — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

29 SEP 2009

222. Obododimma Oha — Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
223. Asian Cha — The launch of "A Cup of Fine Tea"
224. Daniel Godston — Bauhaus-Themed Poetry Reading at A Capella Books
225. Bobby Baird — Recent Posts at Digital Emunction
226. Sarah Sarai — new | first | my | book: The Future Is Happy [BlazeVOX] by Sarah Sarai (a ner...
227. Paul Siegell — PHILLY READING: Paul Siegell & Monica McIntyre
228. Amanda Earl — AngelHousePress Essay # 8 now on line
229. Jerome Rothenberg — nyc & paris - 2009

30 SEP 2009

230. Mark Young — Now out from Otoliths—The Meditations, by Jane Joritz-Nakagawa
231. Michael Heller — Fwd: Re: Heller and King read at Prose Pros
232. amy king — Wha? Who? Larry Levis??
233. Adam Katz — Re: Wha? Who? Larry Levis??
234. Rob McLennan — An urgent note from Roland Prevost: save jwcurry & Room 302 Books!
235. Skip Fox — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
236. Jason Harmon — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
237. Jeffrey Side — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
238. Bobby Baird — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
239. Mairead Byrne — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
240. Jeffrey Side — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
241. Jeremy Czerw — Reading this Saturday: Compton, Gordon, King
242. Skip Fox — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson . . . The Next Generation . . .
243. Skip Fox — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

1. Bill Berkson
Berkson in SoCal
Mon 31 Aug 2009

Bill Berkson in Southern California, Fall 2009

September 9 Otis College of Art and Design, with Bhanu Kapil
7:30 pm
Ahmanson Hall Forum, 9045 Lincoln Boulevard, Los Angeles

November 12 Cal Arts
7:30 pm
Butler Building #4 on the CalArts campus, 24700
McBean Parkway, Valencia CA 91355

November 13 Santa Monica Museum ³Since When: Home Movies & a Memoir² with Allen Ruppersberg
8pm
2525 Michigan Ave, Santa Monica

November 14 Beyond Baroque, with Don Bachardy
8 pm
681 Venice Blvd, Venice, CA

December 1 San Diego State University
4:30 pm
Love Library, Room 430

↑ Index

2. Samuel Wharton
Fwd: sawbuck 3.3
Mon 31 Aug 2009

---

ladies & gentlemens~

the time has come for another round of sawbuck<http://www.sawbuckpoetry.blogspot.com>

please redirect your browsers to witness fantastical meanderings from the likes of:

(Edith Södergran translated by Christian Ward)
(George Moore)(Jeff Harrison)
(Jessica Wickens)(Lee Norton)
(Nicolle Elizabeth)(Philip Byron Oakes)
(Steven Breyak)(Susan Lewis)(Zach Buscher)<http://www.sawbuckpoetry.blogspot.com> you will not regret this

cheers

samuel wharton, editor

↑ Index

3. David Kirschenbaum
Boog Fest Starts Wed. 9/9 & Program Issue Online
Tue 1 Sep 2009

Hi,

Next Wed., Sept. 9 through Sun. Sept. 13, we'll be putting on the third annual Welcome to Boog City poetry and music festival. It will feature 55 poets, 23 musical acts, 17 small presses, 11 panelists, and 11 playwrights over the five days.

You can view the web-only color pdf version of Boog City's Welcome to Boog City issue here:

http://welcometoboogcity.com/bc59.pdf replete with:

* the full schedule illustrated with performer pics

*music editor Jonathan Berger on festival performers Dorit and Tara Hack

*a conversation between tabling small press editors Brenda Iijima (Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs) and Sueyeun Juliette Lee (Corollary Press)

*poems by fest performers Ivy Johnson and Jean-Paul Pecqueur

*Cincinnati poet-publisher Dana Ward interviewed by Julian Brolaski (plus a poem by Ward)

*and art from Clinton Hill's Jordana Zeldin and thanks to Scott MX Turner of Superbagraphics (http://superbagraphics.com/) who designed the festival's logo for the third straight year.

Among the festival highlights are:

—a live performance of The Magnetic Fields' 69 Love Songs for its 10th anniversary by 13 different musical acts;

—a night devoted to South Boston, Mass. small press Rope-a-Dope Press;

—our first Poets' Theater night, featuring performances of eight short plays

—our 6th annual small, small press fair, with exhibits from 17 different small presses, and readings by their authors;

—a discussion on Thinking Globally and Acting Locally in the Aftermath of the Global Capital Meltdown; and

—Washington, D.C. small press luminary Buck Downs in conversation with renowned poet Anselm Berrigan

The full schedule for the event is below this note, followed by performer bios and websites.

If you need any additional information you can reach me at 212-842- BOOG (2664) or [redacted].

as ever,
David

P.S. Physical copies of this issue, Boog City 59, will be distributed this Wed., Sept. 2.

Please patronize our advertisers:

Advancing Feminist Poetics and Activism: A Gathering * http://www.belladonnaseries.org/adfemposchedule.html

Anvil Press * http://www.anvilpress.com/

Blue Collar Review * http://www.angelfire.com/va/bcr/

Gival Press * http://givalpress.com/

Indiana Review * http://indianareview.org/

Litmus Press * http://litmuspress.org/

sub-TERRAIN * http://www.subterrain.ca/

Zinc Bar Reading Series * http://www.lungfull.org/zinc/

To advertise in Boog City, see our ad rate card:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/ad_rates.pdf

Advertising or donation inquiries can also be directed to [redacted] or by calling 212-842-BOOG (2664),
or you can send money to [redacted] via https://www.paypal.com/

Poetry Submission Guidelines: Email subs to [redacted], with no more than five poems, all in one attached file with “My Name Submission” in the subject line and as the name of the file, ie: Walt Whitman Submission. Or mail with an SASE to Poetry editor, Boog City, 330 W. 28th St., Suite 6H, N.Y., N.Y. 10001-4754.

Want to write a review (or be reviewed)
in Boog’s Urban Folk music or printed matter sections?
Email UF editor Jonathan Berger, [redacted] or printed matter editor Paolo Javier, [redacted]

Want to have your work appear in our art section?
Query our art editor, Cora Lambert, [redacted]

3,000 copies of Boog City are distributed among, and available for free at, the following locations:

MANHATTAN

East Village
Sunshine Theater * 143 E. Houston St. (bet. 1st & 2nd Avenues)
Bluestockings * 172 Allen St. (bet. Stanton & Rivington sts.)
Pianos * 158 Ludlow St. (bet. Stanton and Rivington sts.)
Living Room * 154 Ludlow St. (bet. Stanton and Rivington sts.)
Cake Shop * 152 Ludlow St. (bet. Stanton and Rivington sts.)
Bowery Poetry Club * 308 Bowery (bet. Houston & Bleecker sts.)
Think Coffee * 1 Bleecker St. (@ Bowery)
Trash and Vaudeville (upstairs) * 4 St. Mark’s Pl. (bet. 2nd & 3rd aves.)
Mission Café * 82 Second Ave. (bet. 4th & 5th sts.)
Anthology Film Archives * 32 Second Ave. (bet. 1st & 2nd sts.)
Sidewalk Café * 94 Avenue A (bet. 6th & 7th sts.)
Nuyorican Poets Café * 236 E. 3rd St. (bet. Avenues B & C)
Lakeside Lounge * 162 Avenue B (bet. 10th & 11th sts.)
Life Café * 343 E. 10th St. (bet. Avenues A & B)
St. Mark’s Books * 31 Third Ave. (bet. St. Mark’s Pl. & 9th St.)
St. Mark’s Church * 131 E.10th St. (bet. 2nd & 3rd aves.)

Lower Manhattan ACA Galleries * 529 W. 20th St., 5th Flr.(bet. 10th/11th aves.)
Acme Underground * 9 Great Jones St. (bet. Broadway & Lafayette St.)
Shakespeare & Co. * 716 Broadway (bet. Waverly & Astor places) Other Music * 15 E. 4th St. (bet. Broadway & Lafayette St.) Angelika Film Center * 18 W.

Houston St. (bet. Broadway & Mercer St.) Think Coffee * 248 Mercer St. (bet. W. 4th and W. 3rd sts.) Mercer Street Books * 206 Mercer St. (bet. Bleecker & Houston sts.) McNally Jackson * 52 Prince St. (bet. Mulberry & Lafayette sts.) Housing Works * 126 Crosby St. (bet. E. Houston & Prince sts.) Hotel Chelsea * 222 W. 23rd St. (bet. 7th & 8th aves.)

BROOKLYN

Greenpoint Greenpoint Coffee House * 195 Franklin St. (bet. Freeman & Green sts.) East Coast Aliens * 216 Franklin St. (bet. Huron & Green sts.) Thai Café * 925 Manhattan Ave. (bet. Kent St. & Greenpoint Ave.) Matchless * 557 Manhattan Ave. (bet. Nassau and Driggs aves.) Champion CoffeE * 1108 Manhattan Ave. (bet. Clay & DuPont sts.)

Williamsburg
Sideshow Gallery * 319 Bedford Ave. (bet. S.2nd & S.3rd sts.)
Supercore Café * 305 Bedford Ave. (bet. S.1st & S.2nd sts.)
Spoonbill & Sugartown * 218 Bedford Ave. (bet. N.4th & N.5th sts.)
Ear Wax Records * 218 Bedford Ave. (bet. N.4th & N.5th sts.)
Bliss Café * 191 Bedford Ave. (bet. N.6th & N.7th sts.)
Spike Hill * 184 Bedford Ave. (bet. N.6th & N.7th sts.)
Soundfix/Fix Cafe * 110 Bedford Ave. (at N.11th St.)

Unnameable Books * 600 Vanderbilt Ave. (bet. Prospect Place/St. Marks Avenue)

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W. 28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)

3rd annual

Welcome to Boog City
5 Days of Poetry and Music

WEDNESDAY SEPTEMBER 9, 7:00 P.M.

For its 10th Anniversary,
The Magnetic Fields' 69 Love Songs album performed live by:

Sidewalk Café
94 Ave. A
NYC

Free with a two-drink minimum

Volume 1

Admiral of the Narrow Sea

1. Absolutely Cuckoo
2. I Don't Believe in the Sun
3. All My Little Words
4. A Chicken with Its Head Cut Off
5. Reno Dakota

Kathy Zimmer

6. I Don't Want to Get Over You
7. Come Back from San Francisco
8. The Luckiest Guy on the Lower East Side
9. Let's Pretend We're Bunny Rabbits
10. The Cactus Where Your Heart Should Be

Ben Krieger

11. I Think I Need a New Heart
12. The Book of Love
13. Fido, Your Leash Is Too Long
14. How Fucking Romantic
15. The One You Really Love

Adam Ferretti

16. Punk Love
17. Parades Go By
18. Boa Constrictor
19. A Pretty Girl Is Like...
20. My Sentimental Melody

Sara Lautman and Yoko Kikuchi

21. Nothing Matters When We're Dancing
22. Sweet-Lovin' Man
23. The Things We Did and Didn't Do

Volume 2
1. Roses
2. Love Is Like Jazz
3. When My Boy Walks Down the Street

Andrew Hoepfner

4. Time Enough for Rocking When We're Old
5. Very Funny
6. Grand Canyon

Genan Zilkha

7. No One Will Ever Love You
8. If You Don't Cry
9. You're My Only Home
10. (Crazy for You But) Not That Crazy
11. My Only Friend
12. Promises of Eternity

Stephanie Nilles

13. World Love
14. Washington, D.C.
15. Long-Forgotten Fairytale
16. Kiss Me Like You Mean It
17. Papa Was a Rodeo

The Trouble Dolls

18. Epitaph for My Heart
19. Asleep and Dreaming
20. The Sun Goes Down and the World Goes Dancing
21. The Way You Say Good-Night
22. Abigail, Belle of Kilronan

Maynard and the Musties

23. I Shatter

Volume 3
1. Underwear
2. It's a Crime
3. Busby Berkeley Dreams
4. I'm Sorry I Love You

Gracefully

5. Acoustic Guitar
6. The Death of Ferdinand de Saussure
7. Love in the Shadows
8. Bitter Tears
9. Wi' Nae Wee Bairn Ye'll Me Beget

A Brief View of the Hudson

10. Yeah! Oh, Yeah!
11. Experimental Music Love
12. Meaningless
13. Love Is Like a Bottle of Gin
14. Queen of the Savages

Bernie Q. and friends

15. Blue You
16. I Can't Touch You Anymore
17. Two Kinds of People
18. How to Say Goodbye
19. The Night You Can't Remember

Andrew Hoepfner

20. For We Are the King of the Boudoir
21. Strange Eyes
22. Xylophone Track
23. Zebra

Directions: F/V to 2nd Ave., L to 1st Ave.
Venue is at E.6th St.

THURSDAY SEPTEMBER 10, 7:00 P.M.

d.a. levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

Rope-a-Dope Press
(South Boston, Mass.)

ACA Galleries
529 W.20th St., 5th Flr.
NYC

Free

Event will be hosted by Rope-a-Dope editors

Robert daVies and poet Mary Walker Graham, eds.

featuring readings from

Mary Walker Graham
Kate Schapira
Sampson Starkweather
Chris Tonelli

and music from
Erik Schoster

There will be wine, cheese, and crackers, too.

Directions: C/E to 23rd St., 1/9 to 18th St.
Venue is bet. 10th and 11th avenues

FRIDAY SEPTEMBER 11, 7:00 P.M.

Sidewalk Café
94 Ave. A
NYC

Free with a two-drink minimum

7:00 p.m. Elinor Nauen
7:15 p.m. Sandra Beasley
7:35 p.m. Tara Hack-music
8:15 p.m. The Tet Offensive

9:10 p.m. Boog Poets' Theater, featuring plays by:

Charles Bernstein
Charles Borkhuis
Corina Copp and Dana Ward
Mashinka Firunts and Jeremy Thompson
Kristen Kosmas
Filip Marinovich and Nathaniel Siegel
Urayoán Noel
Kristen Prevallet

11:10 p.m. Dan Machlin
11:25 p.m. Serena Jost-music
11:55 p.m. The Low and the Lonesome

Directions: F/V to 2nd Ave., L to 1st Ave.
Venue is at E.6th St.

SATURDAY SEPTEMBER 12, 12:00 P.M.

Unnameable Books
600 Vanderbilt Ave.
Brooklyn

Free

6th Annual Small, Small Press Fair

Featuring readings from authors of the exhibiting presses

12:00 p.m. Rachel Levitsky, Ugly Duckling Presse
12:10 p.m. Wil Hallgren, Stubborn Plant Press
12:20 p.m. Lydia Cortes, Straw Gate Books

12:30 p.m. Jill Magi, 2nd Avenue
12:40 p.m. Ivy Johnson, Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs
12:50 p.m. Austin Alexis, Poets Wear Prada
1:00 p.m. Douglas Manson, little scratch pad press
1:10 p.m. Stacy Szymaszek, Litmus Press
1:20 p.m. Mina Pam Dick, Futurepoem
1:30 p.m. Geoffrey Olsen, EOAGH: A Journal of the Arts
1:40 p.m. Norman Lock, Ellipsis Press
1:50 p.m. Christopher Stackhouse, Corollary Press
2:00 p.m. Andrew Hughes, BookThug
2:10 p.m. Jennifer L. Knox, Bloof Books
2:20 p.m. Marcella Durand, Belladonna*
2:30 p.m. Karin Falcone, artICHOKE Press
2:40 p.m. Dan Wilcox, A.P.D.

2:50 p.m. Jesse Schoen-music
3:20 p.m. Ammiel Alcalay
3:35 p.m. Danielle Le Gros Georges
3:55 p.m. Ryan Walker
4:15 p.m. Jim Dunn
4:35 p.m. Phoebe Kreutz-music
5:05 p.m. Karen Weiser
5:20 p.m. Katie Yates
5:40 p.m. Dana Ward
6:00 p.m. Anselm Berrigan
6:15 p.m. Anselm Berrigan in conversation with Buck Downs
6:45 p.m. Buck Downs
7:05 p.m. Gracefully
7:35 p.m. Jean-Paul Pecqueur
7:50 p.m. Brenda Coultas
8:05 p.m. Mike County
8:25 p.m. Ish Klein

Directions: 2, 3 to Grand Army Plaza, C to Clinton-Washington avenues, Q to 7th Ave.
Venue is bet. Prospect Pl./St. Marks Ave.

SUNDAY SEPTEMBER 13, 12:00 P.M.

Unnameable Books
600 Vanderbilt Ave.
Brooklyn

Free

12:00 p.m. Paul Foster Johnson
12:15 p.m. Eric Gelsinger
12:30 p.m. Joanna Sondheim
12:45 p.m. Tracey McTague
1:00 p.m. Alan Semerdjian-music
1:30 p.m. Martha King
1:45 p.m. Brendan Lorber
2:00 p.m. Dan Wilcox
2:20 p.m. Basil King

2:35 p.m.-2:45-break

2:45 p.m. Thinking Globally and Acting Locally in the Aftermath of the Global Capital Meltdown

Greg Fuchs moderates a discussion on the meaning of community with a group of New York activists, artists, filmmakers, poets, and writers: Antonino D'Ambrosio, Mariana Ruiz Firmat, Alan Gilbert, Erica Kaufman, Eileen Myles, Tim Peterson, Marc Andre Robinson, Michele Madigan Somerville, Chris Stackhouse, and Stacy Szymaszek.

4:30 p.m.-4:40-break

4:40 p.m. Corina Copp
4:55 p.m. Lewis Warsh
5:10 p.m. Hailey Higdon
5:30 p.m. Shanna Compton
5:45 p.m. Angela Veronica Wong
6:00 p.m. Dorit-music
6:30 p.m. Cristiana Baik
6:50 p.m. Paolo Javier
7:05 p.m. Sara Wintz
7:20 p.m. Ryan Murphy
7:35 p.m. Gary Parrish
7:50 p.m. Justin Marks

Directions: 2, 3 to Grand Army Plaza, C to Clinton-Washington avenues,
Q to 7th Ave.
Venue is bet. Prospect Pl./St. Marks Ave.

Welcome to Boog City 3 Bios and Websites

*Wednesday

A Brief View of the Hudson
http://www.myspace.com/abriefviewofthehudson

Nick Nace, Ann Enzminger, and Joel Herzig are the folk/country powerhouse that is A Brief View of the Hudson.

Admiral of the Narrow Sea http://www.myspace.com/admiralofthenarrowsea Admiral of the Narrow Sea is a Staten Island-based performance group. The songs are centered around a ukulele, and based on English and French idioms. The act draws a heavy influence from alternative country, and Staten Island guidos. Their sound is best described as nautical glock pop.

Bernie Q. and friends http://www.myspace.com/seamanandqueerfunkel Bernie Q. used to be in queer folk pop duo Seaman and Queerfunkel. They performed in and around NYC at the old Rapture Cafe, Mo Pitkin's, Galapagos, and The Knitting Factory, among other venues, in 2006 and 2007.

Adam Ferretti http://www.myspace.com/poton Adam Ferretti is currently a full time research biologist, part time cake maker, rock singer, ghost bunny painter, solo artist, and violinist. This is the first time he will step out from behind his post apocalyptic rock band The Rabbits and his solo moniker Poton, to perform under his own name.

Gracefully http://goodbyebetter.com Psychedelic lounge pop from the isle of Manhattan, Gracefully is the butterfly metamorphose from the caterpillar So L'il. Part of (and oft augmented by) the Goodbye Better Collective (which also includes I feel tractor, Aydin, and Drifting In the Cinema), they just released their first full-length this past May on Goodbye Better.

Andrew Hoepfner http://www.creakyboards.com/ Andrew Hoepfner has done all his New York City songwriting under the moniker Creaky Boards, which is currently in a coma. Andrew plays keys as one of Shilpa Ray's Happy Hookers. He takes pride in helping mothers and wives of New York City who are in strife. Andrew has been exploring drawing and meditation this year.

Ben Krieger http://www.benkrieger.com/ Ben Krieger came to New York in 1997 to be a schoolteacher. He brought an electric guitar and a 4-track, too. He has written for The Deli, Block Magazine, Urban Folk, and was the editor at Jezebel Music for two years. He plays a weekly show at the Sidewalk—the club he books—at around 3:00 a.m. each Tuesday. He still works with children (including his own). He is an avid music collector who doesn't believe in guilty pleasures. He's antifolk, but not always.

Sara Lautman and Yoko Kikuchi
http://www.myspace.com/yokokikuchi
http://www.myspace.com/saralautman
Sara and Yoko have been playing, writing and singing together as two-thirds of the band Lady Bright since July 2008. Cat owners both, they openly admire their little cats' capri pants and low pony, respectively.

Maynard and the Musties http://www.myspace.com/maynardandthemusties Maynard and the Musties have been playing around the city for about three years now. Their first album-length release, So Many Funerals, is available through amazon.com or itunes. Joe Maynard wrote all songs except for "Shallow Water Warning," whose lyrics were penned by poet Helen Adam. Maynard also provides lead vocals and acoustic guitar. The Musties are Mo Botton, lead guitar; Dennis Shealy, bass; Jim Thomas, Drums; and the hottest fiddle this side of the crescent city, Naa Koshie Mills. Our rock star ringer, Ryan Adams, provided lapsteel and piano on the song "Elvis Museum" and co-produced the song "Rocky & Bessie."

Stephanie Nilles http://www.myspace.com/stephanienilles Stephanie Nilles is an independent musician constantly on the move. At 17, she was a finalist at the Young Concert Artists' International Competition. At 22, she had graduated from the Cleveland Institute of Music with a Bachelor of Music in classical piano performance. These days, she's performing her own politically influenced jazz/folk tunes, described by listeners as "Ella Fitzgerald on speed beating the shit out of Regina Spektor" and "Tom Waits on helium," in her adopted home base of New York City and out on the road in a hatchback with a Roland.

The Trouble Dolls
http://www.troubledolls.com/a/
http://www.myspace.com/troubledolls
The Trouble Dolls are a pop band from Brooklyn. The Trouble Dolls are Cheri, Matty, Chris and sometimes Pam. The Trouble Dolls do not smoke. The Trouble Dolls will release their second album, The Tiniest Entertainers in the World, in 2010. The Trouble Dolls' first album, Sticky, is available in finer used CD stores everywhere.

Genan Zilkha http://www.myspace.com/genanisfabulous Genan is currently a (full-time) law student, (part-time) musician, although it is questionable whether she is particularly good at either. She is also the same height as Stephin Merritt, which makes her proud and especially qualified to play this show.

Kathryn Zimmer http://www.kathyzimmermusic.com/ Kathy Zimmer grew up singing folk music with a musical family in rural Nebraska, where some of her first gigs were rodeos, parades, and county fairs. The winding road of her musical exploration eventually led her to classical music, and it is with that layer of influence she now creates music she calls "cosmopolitan folk"—music that is sophisticated yet naïve, polished yet quirky. Now a resident of New York City, Kathy performs often with her two backup singers, the Sugar Bowls, and her band, the Sunshine Banned. She has independently released three albums, Under Your Spell, dreamin', and Spare Key.

*Thursday

Rope-a-Dope Press http://rope-a-dope-press.blogspot.com Founded in the spring of 2007 by painter Robert daVies and poet Mary Walker Graham, Rope-a-Dope Press fosters collaboration between artists, writers, and their communities through the publication of handmade, letterpress printed broadsides, chapbooks, and artist's books.

Mary Walker Graham http://distilleryboston.com Mary Walker Graham was born in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia and now lives in a restored rum distillery in South Boston. The cofounder and editor of Rope-a-Dope Press, her poems have appeared in Free Verse, OCHO, PFS Post, Poetry Magazine, and Poetry Daily.

Kate Schapira Kate Schapira lives in Providence, R.I. where she writes, teaches, and organizes the Publicly Complex Reading Series. In addition to her chapbooks with Rope-A-Dope Press, Case Fbdy. and The Painting, she's the author of The Saint's Notebook (Flying Guillotine Press), Heroes & Monsters (Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs), and Phoenix Memory (horse less press). Her work has most recently appeared in why are we not in paradise?

Erik Schoster http://www.hecanjog.com/ Erik Schoster (r.) is a composer and sound artist based in Brooklyn by way of Madison, Wisc. Middlemarch, his second full-length record as He Can Jog (entitled) is out now on Audiobulb Records. Earlabs praises it as a "heartfelt, entertaining, and perplexing flurry of sonic excitement." He is writing and recording a new record under his given name for Ian Hawgood's excellent Home Normal imprint. This performance is based in part on that work. More information and mp3s can be found at the above site.

Sampson Starkweather Sampson Starkweather is the author of three chapbooks, The Heart is Green from So Much Waiting forthcoming from Immaculate Disciples, City of Moths a Rope-a-Dope Press production, and The Photograph from horse less press.

Chris Tonelli http://thesteinachoperation.blogspot.com/ Chris Tonelli co-curates The So and So Series and is the author of four chapbooks, most recently No Theater (Brave Men Press) and For People Who Like Gravity and Other People (Rope-A-Dope Press). New work can be found in LIT, SIR!, and the Tusculum Review. He teaches at North Carolina State University in Raleigh, where he lives with his wife Allison.

*Friday

Sandra Beasley http://www.sandrabeasley.com/ Sandra Beasley is the author of I Was the Jukebox, winner of the 2009 Barnard Women Poets Prize, selected by Joy Harjo and forthcoming from W. W. Norton. Her first collection, Theories of Falling, won the 2007 New Issues Poetry Prize judged by Marie Howe. Other awards include the Maureen Egen Exchange Award from Poets & Writers and a Walter E. Dakin Fellowship from the Sewanee Writers' Conference. She lives in Washington, D.C., where she writes for The Washington Post Magazine and is working on Don't Kill the Birthday Girl: Tales from an Allergic Life, forthcoming from Crown.

Charles Bernstein
http://epc.buffalo.edu/authors/bernstein/
The Lenny Paschen monologue, from The Lenny Paschen Show
The three librettos I wrote for Ben Yarmolinsky in the early 1990s used vernacular American forms to create contemporary operas with a social and historical address. Blind Witness News (1990) and The Lenny Paschen Show (1992) used the typical format of late-night TV, while The Subject (1991) starts with a psychoanalytic session.

Lenny is the final work of the trilogy. Much of the opening monologue, to be presented at this event, was cut, for reasons of length, from the final libretto.

In its typical process of canceling sense, television is, of course, the offense to meaning that is addressed in The Lenny Paschen Show. Lenny Paschen is a gladiator in an electronic age—a hot fighter in a cool medium (and he may also cut against the grain of the lyric impulse within opera). Lenny is trapped from the start, yet his struggle for moral discourse makes this opera a fin de millennia version of Die Meistersinger—sans masters, sans paradise, all songs. Lenny seems to preach that we can get beyond the puppetry of TV personas, but, as he also insists, he remains a puppet of his own devices. The Lenny Paschen Show uses the tools at hand, especially the tradition of black, often abrasive, comedy to explore the worlds flaunted by, and also hidden within, one of the central formats of commercial TV.

Charles Bernstein's books include Blind Witness: Three American Operas (Factory School), new in 2008; Girly Man (University of Chicago Press), now in paperback; Shadowtime (Green Integer), libretto for an opera on Benjamin; Republics of Reality: 1975-1995 (Sun & Moor Press), Content's Dream: Essays 1975-1984 (Northwestern), and Controlling Interests (Roof). He is Donald T. Regan Professor of English and Comparative Literature at the University of Pennsylvania.

Charles Borkhuis http://writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/x/Borkhuis.php Barely There A woman finds herself having retreated into her "inner cave" with her invisible "power animal" ROAR-SHOCK by her side. It is a little bit of Paradise where she tries to relax, forget her problems, and just chill. But as an actor, she treats her "inner cave" as a proscenium stage with an attendant audience, for whom she performs herself, trying to win their acceptance and recognition. Yet once performing, she must account for herself. Even though she has no back-story or “character” as such, she keeps peeling away layers of her presence in an attempt to be remembered before the lights go down.

Charles Borkhuis is a playwright, poet, screenwriter, and essayist. His books of poems include Afterimage, Savoir-fear, Alpha Ruins, Proximity (Stolen Arrows), Dinner with Franz, and Hypnogogic Sonnets. Fanny Howe selected Alpha Ruins as a finalist for the William Carlos Williams Book Award. Disappearing Acts is his latest book of poems. His essays on contemporary poetics have appeared in Telling it Slant and We Who Love to Be Astonished (University of Alabama Press). His stage and radio plays have been produced widely, and he is the recipient of a Dramalogue Award. His plays are published in four collections, Mouth of Shadows, The Sound of Fear Clapping, Stage This, and Poets’ Theater. His CD Black Light contains two radio plays produced for NPR (see above link). He curated poetry readings for the Segue Foundation for 15 years, most recently at The Bowery Poetry Club in New York City.

Corina Copp http://www.fauxpress.com/e/ Corina Copp's short dance-theater text, "A Week of Kindness," was produced in the 2007 Tiny Theater Festival at the Ontological-Hysteric Theater. Recent work has appeared in Aufgabe, Antennae, Puppy Flowers, 6x6, Poets on Painters (Ulrich Museum of Art, Wichita, Kan.), Denver Quarterly, Fence, The Germ, and other lovely places. Her e-book, Carpeted, can be found at the above link. She is currently pursuing her M.F.A. in Playwriting with Mac Wellman at Brooklyn College, and is the editor of The Poetry Project Newsletter.

Mashinka Firunts http://www.mashinkafirunts.com/ Jeremy James Thompson http://www.autotypograph.com/ Extra! V Organza They are inked up. They are hot off the press. Spinning good yarns. Penciling a National Angle. News Items: His Woman Girl of the Fridays Years (1940) (1942) closes the press box; some curtains. Gets in the wired room; word-ringers, face reporters, and gossipmongers gum up the works. The Rumor Mill, an RSS feed, Perez Hilton, and teeny Tweets are seen slurping Manhattan at the Savoy Saturday. This weak head lines: Wild Parties in Pictureland. Weekend Orgies of the Stars of the Silver Sheet! Singed Startlet Warns of Winding Celluloid Road to Ruin! 80 stab and jab beached bodies, the best and worth less of 1990, the Forbes Celebrity [redacted]. There’s something very important on the teletype, six or seven items back. The Obits read: Bolshevist sweetheart dead, a relation, you knew her.

Mashinka Firunts is a graduate student in the Columbia University Modern Art program, and she is concurrently investigating the sustainability of the scholarly spectacle.

Jeremy James Thompson is an instructor at New York’s Center for Book Arts, as well as curator of the reading series TEXTFORM. His work focuses on the process of collaboration, the reinvention of propaganda, and the defining of a practical avant-garde.

Tara Hack http://www.tarahack.com/ Singer-songwriter Tara Hack, a 21-year-old native New Yorker, worked with producers Joe and Jack Napoli of Cloud 9 Recording on her album, See You Soon, available online, on iTunes, and in Penn Station and stores in the Northeast.

Her latest single, “Saya Tidak Bersalah,” is about Australian Schapelle Corby who was wrongfully imprisoned. Tara's song has fired the human rights movement to free Schapelle. It's been featured in The Sydney Morning Herald, Brisbane Times, 2GB Radio Sydney, The Joey Reynolds Show, and CWA at the University of Colorado. She is in the studio working on her next album.

Serena Jost http://www.myspace.com/serenajost Singer-songwriter and cellist Serena Jost was raised between Michigan and Switzerland. Her debut CD, Closer Than Far, was produced by Brad Albetta (Martha Wainwright) and released to a sold-out show at Joe’s Pub.

Time Out NY noted "she writes gently eccentric songs and sings them in an elegant alto, often accompanying herself on cello, but it isn’t quite right to call her a singer-songwriter. The term art song— normally tied to 19th-century concert music—usefully characterizes Jost’s carefully arranged pieces and succinct lyrics, neither quite rock nor folk." Formerly of Rasputina, she has collaborated with poet Dan Machlin, dancers, and other artists.

Kristen Kosmas H-O-R-S-E, a text for speaking An imaginary 12-course meal leads to a bus tour, that leads to a seaplane ride, that leads to a party, that leads to a fight, that ends in a rosebush on the way to basketball practice. Kristen Kosmas tries desperately not to tell you all the things she really wants to tell you in H-O-R-S-E.

Kristen Kosmas is a playwright and performer. She has had plays commissioned by Performance Space 122, Seattle University's SITE Specific, Dixon Place, and New City Theater.

Her plays include This from Cloudland, Hello Failure, Chapter of Accidents, The Mayor of Baltimore, Anthem, and Palomino.

She is the writer and performer of four critically acclaimed solo shows, The Scandal!, Slip, Again, and Blah Blah Fuckin Blah, which have been performed at numerous venues in New York, Austin, Boston, Seattle, and Chicago.

Forthcoming publications include Hello Failure (Ugly Duckling Presse), This From Cloudland (Play a Journal of Plays), and The Mayor Of Baltimore and Anthem (53rd State).

Dan Machlin http://www.uglyducklingpresse.org/page-dearbody.html Dan Machlin was born and raised in New York City and is currently growing cukes, savory, and snap peas in his community garden. His most recent book is Dear Body: (Ugly Duckling Presse). With singer/cellist Serena Jost he has released a full-length CD project Above Islands and set HD, Paul Blackburn, and his own poetic texts to music. His poems and reviews have appeared in Boog Literature, Crayon, Critiphoria, Antennae, Soft Targets, and The Brooklyn Rail. He is the founding editor and publisher of Futurepoem books, and recently joined the conspiracy at Table X: A Publishing Commune.

Filip Marinovich
Nathaniel Siegel
Bastille Day 2009 Meditations On Homosexuality is a ritual performed in praise of the gay muse, for everybody.

Filip Marinovich is a poet living in New York. Author of Zero Readership (Ugly Duckling Presse), various poems on the web, and plays performed throughout New York. He has performed his poetry in New York, Paris, and San Francisco. He is at work on a new book of poems.

Nathaniel Siegel is a gay poet writing from his life experience in New York City.

Elinor Nauen http://www.elinornauen.com/ Elinor Nauen is the author of the poetry collections American Guys and Cars, and editor of Diamonds Are a Girl's Best Friend: women writers on baseball and Ladies, Start Your Engines: women writers on cars and the road. Her most recent books are the forthcoming So Late Into the Night and Marriage A to Z. She is a freelance journalist for the Saturday Evening Post, AARP.com, and other national publications. She lives in the East Village, where she does daily battle with rats, fleas, and her husband, Johnny Stanton. Check out her latest poetry, articles and adventures at the above site.

Urayoán Noel http://www.myspace.com/urayoannoel The Commonest Many Fester is a team play for As and Bs. It could be a foray: many-festooned. To where poiesis meets polis: as pop lists. The cast is human and non-human (with room for excluded thirds). Less positive than Common, it cures no colds. Kinda polyvocal, sorta glocal, but never lo-cal. A laughtractatus in hi-density politics for many playas. Sorry, no program.

Urayoán Noel is the author of Boringkén (Ediciones Callejón/La Tertulia) and Kool Logic/La lógica kool (Bilingual Press), a contributing editor of Mandorla, and a founding member of Spanic Attack. His other works include the artist book Las flores del mall and a CD and DVD of text-sound collaborations with composer Monxo López.

He recently presented selections from Hi-Density Politics—an assemblage of (cheap) digital poetics, (mis) translation, and (pro forma) performance—at the University of Puerto Rico Interdisciplinary Studies Program, the Latin American Studies Association Conference in Rio de Janeiro, and The Dirty Dirty artspace in Brooklyn. He is completing In One Breath, a book-length study of Nuyorican poetry, on and off the page, from the 1960s to the present. Originally from San Juan, Puerto Rico, he teaches at the University at Albany, SUNY.

Kristin Prevallet
http://www.asu.edu/pipercwcenter/how2journal/vol_3_no_2/performance/prevallet-burnett.html The Block is a story about love in the paranoid era of Bush's America. Language fails, the muse rebels, the thief enters, and the furniture gets rearranged. Will Lacy and Ben survive?

Kristin Prevallet is a poet, essayist, and educator whose most recent book is I, Afterlife: Essay in Mourning Time (Essay Press). She is the editor of A Helen Adam Reader and received a 2007 New York Foundation for the Arts fellowship in poetry. She lives in Brooklyn.

Nathaniel Siegel
(see Filip Marinovich)

The Low and the Lonesome http://www.myspace.com/thelowandthelonesome The Low and the Lonesome play country and western music and wail their hearts out down by the Gowanus Canal. They are Donna Lichaw, low and lonesome electric guitar; Lana Carroll, cryin’ and weepin’ pedal steel; Jason Bertone, walkin’ and talkin’ electric bass; Julian of Nowherr, howlin’ and yodelin’, finger-pickin acoustic; and Naomi Clark, bucket and washboard, tambourine and traps. Sounds like dark country comin’ out a fuzzy radio, on a train, on a boat.

The Tet Offensive http://www.briansamuelrobinson.com/tet.html In January of 2002, David Kirschenbaum approached his friend, classical composer Brian Robinson, to write an arrangement of “Stay Away” for a Nirvana tribute concert at the Knitting Factory in N.Y.C. Brian responded with an arrangement that was as hard and fast as his rock band counterparts, and The Tet Offensive was born. The group counters the traditional lush sound of string ensembles with driving arrangements full of giddy dissonance and moments of thrashing atonality, covering an array of bands from The Bee Gees to Soundgarden.

Jeremy James Thompson
(see Mashinka Firunts)

Dana Ward http://www.cypresspoetry.com/ Dana Ward is the author of the Drought (Open 24 Hours), Roseland (Editions Louis Wain), and other scattered books. He lives in Cincinnati where he edits Cy Press and works as an advocate for adult literacy at the Over-the-Rhine Learning Center.

*Saturday

Ammiel Alcalay http://www.loggernaut.org/interviews/ammielalcalay/ Ammiel Alcalay is a poet, translator, critic, and scholar. His books include Scrapmetal (Factory School), from the warring factions (Beyond Baroque), After Jews and Arabs (University of Minnesota), the cairo notebooks (Singing Horse), and Memories of Our Future: Selected Essays, 1982-1999 (City Lights). His translations include Sarajevo Blues and Nine Alexandrias by Bosnian poet Semezdin Mehmedinovic; Keys to the Garden: New Israeli Writing; and, with Oz Shelach, Outcast, by Shimon Ballas. The novel Islanders (City Lights) and book of essays A Little History (Beyond Baroque) are forthcoming.

Austin Alexis, Poets Wear Prada http://poetswearpradanj.home.att.net/AustinAlexis.html http://poetswearprada.blogspot.com Austin Alexis' poetry, fiction, and non-fiction have appeared in a variety of anthologies, journals, magazines, and newspapers, including Barrow Street, The Journal, The Writer, The Pedestal Magazine, and online at Poetz.com. His plays have been performed in New York City, and one was selected for The Samuel French Short Plays Festival. Alexis has taught creative writing at Hunter College's continuing education program, and has taught and tutored at various universities and college in New York state. His chapbook Lovers and Drag Queens was released by PWP and a collection of his short stories is due out this fall. He lives in Manhattan and teaches at New York City College of Technology (CUNY) in Brooklyn.

Roxanne Hoffman is the founder of Poets Wear Prada, also known as PWP Books, a small press based in Hoboken, N.J. and devoted to introducing new authors through e-books and limited edition, high-quality chapbooks. Her words appear off and on the net, in two print anthologies The Bandana Republic, A Literary Anthology by Gang Members & Their Affiliates (Soft Skull Press) and Love After 70 (Wising Up Press), both released last year, and can be heard in the 2005 indie flic Love and the Vampire, directed and produced by David Gold and starring Rick Poli. A former Wall Street investment banker, she runs the press with her husband Herbert Fuerst, a retired Hollywood agent. Their first offering, released in October 2006, was the 12-page poetry chapbook Your Infidel Eyes by Brant Lyon, host of NYC's Hydrogen Jukebox Jazzoetry Series. Since then, they have added 18 additional chapbook titles and their first annual anthology, The Bug Book, will be released this fall. Authors include the well-established New York poets Peter Chelnik, Susan Maurer, and Carol Wierzbicki, as well as promising up and comers like Jee Leong Koh, Laura Vookles, Austin Alexis, and Karen Neuberg.

Anselm Berrigan http://www.writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/x/Berrigan-Anselm.php Anselm Berrigan's book of poetry Free Cell will be published by City Lights in the fall of '09. Other books include Zero Star Hotel and Some Notes on My Programming, as well as the slim and recent volume To Hell With Sleep. He is poetry editor for The Brooklyn Rail, teaches at some places, and used to direct The Poetry Project at St. Mark's Church. He has lived much of his life in the East Village, where he was raised and lives currently, and he is in love with poetry come what may.

Lydia Cortes, Straw Gate Books http://www.leafscape.org/strawgatebooks/ Lydia Cortes was raised Puerto Rican in Williamsburg, with Manhattan her longtime home. She has received numerous fellowships and awards for her poetry, fiction, and essays. Works in all these forms have been anthologized. Ten Pell Books published her poetry volume, "Lust for Lust." Her current book of poems, "Whose Place," has just come out from Straw Gate Books.

Straw Gate Books is particularly interested in works by women and non-polemical writing with an underlying social content. They also feature new authors and authors whose work is under-served.

Brenda Coultas http://tsky-reviews.blogspot.com/2008/06/brenda-coultas-marvelous-bones-of-time.html Brenda Coultas is the author of The Marvelous Bones of Time and A Handmade Museum (both from Coffee House Press), the latter of which won The Norma Farber Award from The Poetry Society of America, and a Greenwall Fund publishing grant from the Academy of American Poets. Her writing can be found in many publications, including Conjunctions, The Brooklyn Rail, Trickhouse, and The Denver Review. Other books include Early Films (Rodent Press) and A Summer Newsreel (Second Story Press). She received a New York Foundation for the Arts fellow and was a Lower Manhattan Cultural Council artist-in-residence.

Mike County http://www.myspace.com/flatnineboston Mike County is a musician and poet who lives with his wife Tanya his daughter Lucy, and one on the way, in Boston. He's the author of Three- Deckers, Copper, and, most recently, Another Alley, published by Pressed Wafer. By day he works with adults with developmental disabilities around Boston. At night he plays in Flat 9, a band that sounds like Leonard Cohen had a bastard child with Black Sabbath.

Mina Pam Dick, Futurepoem http://www.drawingcenter.org/viewingprogram/share_portfolio.cfm?pf=1550 http://futurepoem.com/about.html Mina Pam Dick (aka Nico Pam Dick, aka Pam Dick) is a writer, artist, and philosopher living in New York City and the author of Delinquent (Futurepoem books, Fall 2009). She holds an M.F.A. in Painting and an M.A. in Philosophy from the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis; and did her undergraduate work at Yale. Her visual art has been exhibited in Minneapolis, Milwaukee, and New York City; her sculptural book Babel is part of the Walker Art Center's artists' books collection. She received a Jacob K. Javits Fellowship in art and was a two-time Bush Artist Fellowship finalist. Her philosophical work has been published in Vienna in connection with the Austrian Wittgenstein- Symposium (Kirshberg-am-Wechsel) and her work has recently appeared in Tantalum and Bomb.

Futurepoem is dedicated to creating a greater public awareness and appreciation of innovative literature. Through their imprint Futurepoem books, they publish innovative poetry, prose, and cross- genre literature by important new and accomplished writers. A unique component of the Futurepoem series is also their communal approach to editorial decision-making. Each year they invite a distinguished guest panel of accomplished writers, artists, and curators to read work submitted as part of an open reading period and select authors for the next publication season.

Recent and forthcoming Futurepoem authors include Ronaldo Wilson, Mina Pam Dick, Shanxing Wang, Marcella Durand, Ara Shirinyan, Jill Magi, and Rachel Levitsky.

Buck Downs http://buckdowns.com/ Buck Downs lives and works in Washington D.C. Edge Books has previously published his collections Ladies Love Outlaws and Marijuana Softdrink. Poems have recently appeared in The Brooklyn Rail, Cannibal, and The Columbia Poetry Review. Buck Downs "has become known as one of the true risk-takers in small press poetry publishing" says the gang at Small Press Distribution. His readings peel paint—a potent collage of admonition and delight, delivered in tight packages.

Jim Dunn http://chax.org/eoagh/issuefour.html Bootstrap Productions published Jim Dunn's latest book, Soft Launch, last year. His other books of poetry include Convenient Hole (Pressed Wafer) and Insects In Sex (Falling Angels Press). His poems have appeared in Meanie Magazine, Can We Have Our Ball Back?, Shampoo, Poetry Motel, Cafe Review, CARVE, and EOAGH. Born in Philadelphia, he now resides on the North Shore outside of Boston.

Marcella Durand, Belladonna* http://translationworkshop.blogspot.com/ http://www.belladonnaseries.org/ Marcella Durand's recent books are Traffic & Weather (Futurepoem), AREA (Belladonna), and The Anatomy of Oil (Belladonna). Other books include Western Capital Rhapsodies, City of Ports, and Lapsus Linguae. Her poems and essays have appeared in Conjunctions, The Canary, Denver Quarterly, Chain, The Poker, Verse, NYFA Current, and other journals. She has given talks on the intersections of poetry and ecology at Kelly

Writers House, Small Press Traffic, Dactyl Foundation, Stella Adler Studio of Acting, and other venues. Excerpts from her ongoing collaboration with Tina Darragh, based on environmental science, Deep Ecology and Francis Ponge, have appeared in Anomaly, How(2), and Ecopoetics. She was a writer-in-residence at the Lower Manhattan Cultural Council in 2006, and in 2005 organized a reading and panel on the inter-relations between astronomy and poetry as part of the Inspiration of Astronomical Phenomena Conference at the Adler Planetarium in Chicago. She is translating Michèle Métail's Les horizons du sol/Earth's Horizons, a history of the geological formation of Marseille written within a Oulipian formal constraint; a section of her translation appeared last year in The Nation. She lives in the East Village with her husband Richard O'Russa and son Ismael Toussaint Durand O'Russa. She is 2009 Poetry Artist Fellowship recipient of the New York Foundation for the Arts. This reading is co- sponsored by Artists and Audiences Exchange, a NYFA public program.

Belladonna is a reading series and small press that promotes the work of women writers who are adventurous, experimental, politically involved, multi-form, multicultural, multi-gendered, impossible to define, delicious to talk about, unpredictable, and dangerous with language.

Karin Falcone, artICHOKE http://www.earthether.blogspot.com/ artICHOKE was born in 1991 of the 'zine and xerography tradition and is published sporadically, in small batches on paper. It may include journalism, poetry, memoir, reviews, short fiction, photography, comix, art, collage, or found objects that speak to the moment and may be designed by their authors. A new issue of artICHOKE will be created just for this event.

Karin Falcone is a graduate of The Jack Kerouac School of Disembodied Poetics at Naropa University, and continues the outrider tradition as a teacher of writing at CUNY, NYIT, and at Yoga Polarity Center's Last Fridays Writer's Group. She will read from her artICHOKE press chapbook Eco-Erotica.

Danielle Legros Georges
http://www.lesley.edu/gsass/faculty/georges/georges_index.html Danielle Legros Georges is a writer and author of the collection of poems Maroon (Curbstone Press). Her work has appeared widely in literary journals and other publications. She is an associate professor in the creative arts in learning division of Lesley University.

Gracefully
(see Wednesday)

Wil Hallgren, Stubborn Plant Press http://wilhallgren.com/ Wil Hallgren was born in Niskayuna, raised in the Town of Ballston, and currently lives in Brooklyn (all in New York state). He attended Union College as an undergraduate and earned an M.F.A. from Brooklyn College, where he was also awarded the Bonnie Perlsweig Mintz Memorial Award. He was one of the founding editors of The National Poetry Magazine of the Lower East Side, and has published his work in Big Bridges, Brooklyn Review, Downtown Brooklyn, Erato, The Rockhurst Review, nycpoetry.com, and BigCity Lit.com, among others. In 2007 he published the collection of poetry Broken Film. He also has three chapbooks in print, Heroache, The Panther, and Bumbling King George's Bedtime Book (volume one). He is married to the painter Neddi Heller. In the mid-eighties he started Stubborn Plant Press to accommodate occasional and other works not meant for inclusion in book-length collections.

Andrew Hughes, BookThug
http://puppyflowers.com/11/andy.html
http://www.bookthug.ca/
Andrew Hughes is the author of Sweethearts of the Great Migration (BookThug) and Rural Radio (Scantily Clad Press), a collaboration with the poet Whit Griffin. His work has appeared in Cannibal, Puppyflowers, String of Small Machines, Spell, and others. His first full-length collection is forthcoming from BookThug.

BookThug is an independent literary publisher that operates out of Toronto's west end. Founded by Jay MillAr in the mid '90s, the press was inspired by the idea that "if you build it they will come." Since then poets and writers of all kinds have popped up in the literary landscape through the operations of the press. They and their readers make up what they like to think of as BookThug Nation—people who scour bookstores looking for unexpected literature, who desire to participate in a different kind of readership. Poetry, visual literature, conceptual literature, translation, the lyric, critical texts and fiction—BookThug makes them all available in publications that come in a variety of shapes and sizes and origins, but each one is distinctly BookThug. BookThug is fully aware that their books are not for just anybody. So why not become somebody today? Editio Durus Natio Semper!

Ivy Johnson, Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs
http://yoyolabs.com/
Ivy Johnson is a recent graduate of Eugene Lang College and is living and working in Brooklyn.

Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs publishes poetic works: subtle and intense forms of public exchange and autonomous expressions—dynamic in awareness—luminous in form. Emphasis: diversity and interconnection— social, cultural, environmental, and aesthetic.

Ish Klein http://unionbook.blogspot.com/ Ish Klein's book, Union! came out in April from Canarium Press. Her poems have been published in The Canary, Gare du Nord, The Hat, X- connect, Bridge, and Spork and are also online. She also makes movies and lives in Philadelphia.

Jennifer L. Knox, Bloof Books http://www.jenniferlknox.com/ http://www.bloofbooks.com/ Jennifer L. Knox was born in Lancaster, Calif.—where absolutely anything can be made into a bong. Her poems have appeared in the anthologies The Best American Poetry (1997, 2003, and 2006), Great American Prose Poems: From Poe to Present, Free Radicals: American Poets Before Their First Books, and The Best American Erotic Poems: From 1800 to the Present. She has taught poetry writing at New York University and Hunter College, and is available for children's parties, séances, and tradeshow booth demonstrations.

Bloof Books is a poetry press based in Central New Jersey, publishing perfect-bound paperbacks as well as limited-edition handmade books and chapbooks. Founded in 2007, they have published Jennifer L. Knox, Danielle Pafunda, Sandra Simonds, and Shanna Compton, and have new books from Jennifer L. Knox, Anne Boyer, and Peter Davis in the works for 2009-2010.

Phoebe Kreutz http://www.phoebekreutz.com/ Phoebe Kreutz plays regularly as a performer of her original joke folk. She's released four albums and tours hither and yon. Songwriting credits include Les Freres Corbusier's Dance Dance Revolution and Disney's Johnny and the Sprites, both with Gary Adler, and the rock opera Gilgamesh!. Her band Urban Barnyard is kickass, as is her dance troupe Unterthrust, which has performed at Carnegie Hall, thank you very much.

Rachel Levitsky, Ugly Duckling Presse http://writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/x/Levitsky.html http://www.uglyducklingpresse.org Futurepoem books published Rachel Levitsky's first full-length volume, Under the Sun, in 2003. She is the author of five chapbooks of poetry— Dearly (a+bend), Dearly 356, Cartographies of Error (Leroy), The Adventures of Yaya and Grace (PotesPoets), and 2(1x1)Portraits (Baksun). Levitsky writes poetry plays, three of which (one with Camille Roy) have been performed in New York and San Francisco. Her work is published in publications including The Recluse, Sentence, Fence, The Brooklyn Rail, Global City, The Hat, Skanky Possum, Lungfull! and the anthologies The Portable Boog Reader (vol. I & II), Bowery Women, and 19 Lines: A Drawing Center Writing Anthology. Recently her work was translated into Icelandic for the anthology 131.839 Slög Med Bilum by Eiríkur Örn Nordahl. Online poetry and critical essays can be found on such sites as Narrativity, Duration Press, How2, and Web Conjunctions. She has taught poetry workshops at Woodland Pattern, Naropa University, Poets House, the Poetry Project, and The Pratt Institute. She is the founder and co-director of Belladonna*, an event and publication series of feminist avant-garde poetics. She serves as the CPW Fellow in Poetics and Poetic Practice at the University of Pennsylvania.

Ugly Duckling Presse is a nonprofit art and publishing collective producing small to mid-size editions of new poetry, translations, lost works, and artists' books. UDP favors emerging, international, and “forgotten” writers with well-defined formal or conceptual projects that are difficult to place at other presses. Its full-length books, chapbooks, artists’ books, broadsides, magazine, and newspaper all contain handmade elements, calling attention to the labor and history of bookmaking.

Norman Lock, Ellipsis Press http://www.normanlock.com/ http://www.ellipsispress.com/ Norman Lock is the author of The King of Sweden (Ravenna Press), Shadowplay (Ellipsis Press), A History of the Imagination (FC2), ‘The Book of Supplemental Diagrams’ for Marco Knauff’s Universe (Ravenna Press), The Long Rowing Unto Morning (Ravenna Press), Two Plays for Radio (Triple Press), and—writing as George Belden—Land of the Snow Men (Calamari Press).

Ellipsis Press was started in 2007 with a mission to publish innovative prose work. They especially like novels that look normal but aren’t (more than those that look weird but are actually quite normal); those that are successful at bypassing or evolving the seemingly necessary but often tired elements of character and/or plot; and those that respond in some way to the history of the novel as genre and form.

Jill Magi, 2nd Avenue http://sites.google.com/site/jillmagi/ http://2ndavepoetry.com/ Jill Magi works in text and image and is the author of Threads (Futurepoem), Torchwood (Shearsman), Cadastral Map (Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs), and Poetry Barn Barn! (2nd Avenue). Her writing has been anthologized in Letters to Poets: Conversations on Poetics, Politics, and Community (Saturnalia Books), Fiction from the Brooklyn Rail (Hanging Loose Press), and the forthcoming Eco-language Reader (Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs). Visual work has been exhibited with The Brooklyn Arts Council, The Lower Manhattan Cultural Council, Apex Art, and The International Meeting of Visual Poetry. She teaches at Eugene Lang, City, and Goddard colleges, and runs Sona Books, a chapbook press that is now taking a short sabbatical.

Formed in 2002, Second Avenue is a tiny press interested in diverse, innovative, and interdisciplinary language art practices. A publisher of broadsides, online chapbooks, and an online journal, Second Avenue, edited by Paolo Javier, will be launching its inaugural series of print chapbooks by Jill Magi, R. Zamora Linmark, Peter Quartermain, Jeremy Thompson, and Tim Peterson in the fall/winter of ’09.

Douglas Manson, little scratch pad press
http://dougfinmanson.blogspot.com/
Douglas Manson is a poet and publisher. His most recent publication is The Table. He has just this minute moved to Brooklyn with his two cats, his chap-caddy, and a song in his heart of the heart.

The mission of little scratch pad press is to provide new and emerging poets the opportunity to publish a significant, and often their first, collection of writings. The press began years and years ago, but it wasn't a going concern until 2005 with the publication of Aaron Lowinger's Autobiography: Perfect Game. The most recent title from the press is Jonathan Skinner's With Naked Foot.

Geoffrey Olsen, EOAGH: A Journal of the Arts
http://adishtowel.blogspot.com/
http://chax.org/eoagh
Geoffrey Olsen lives in Greenpoint, Brooklyn. He is the author of the chapbook End Notebook (Petrichord Press). New work is forthcoming in EOAGH.

EOAGH, edited by Tim Peterson, is an online and print journal published yearly. They're especially interested in reading as a process, the productive chaos of investigative poetic work, acts of attention that explore the close listening inherent not just in writing but also in being written. These are active, embodied experiences ("Reading is a gymnast's act") that encourage and provoke, responses that engage one's environment by blending lines between media through ekphrasis, phenomenology, and more. Recent critical articles include a feature on Charles Olson: Language as Physical Fact and a panel on Language Poetry & The Body. Themed issues have included In Remembrance of Jackson Mac Low and Queering Language.

Jean-Paul Pecqueur http://sporkpress.com/4_1/Pieces/Pecqueur.htm Alice James Books published Jean-Paul Pecqueur's first book of poetry, The Case Against Happiness. New poems and reviews have recently appeared in The Hat, Rain Taxi, Cranky, and Gulf Coast. He lives in Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, where he teaches writing at the Pratt Institute.

Jesse Schoen
http://www.myspace.com/jesseschoen
Dystopian sci-fi, inept technicians, and the universe's tendency toward chaos inspire Jesse Schoen's songs. He lives in Chelsea.

Christopher Stackhouse, Corollary Press
http://www.readab.com/cstackhouse.html
http://www.corollarypress.blogspot.com Christopher Stackhouse is the author of Slip (Corollary Press), and co- author of Seismosis (1913 Press), a collaboration with writer/ professor John Keene that features Stackhouse's drawings in dialogue with Keene's text. He holds an M.F.A. in Writing/Interdisciplinary Studies from Bard College. His essay "Everyone's Own Color Red," which compares the poetry of Hart Crane and Bob Kaufman, was published in the Spring 2008 issue of American Poet: The Journal of the Academy of American Poets. Through the program "New Voices, New York @ Chashama's ABC Gallery" in New York City, he co-curates with Kelly Kivland and Alisoun Meehan the current group exhibition "Contranym," featuring artists Robert Delford Brown, Victoria Fu, Brian Kim Stefans, John Cage, and Stephanie Loveless. In January he performed with John Keene during the month-long writing and performance festival "When Does It or You Begin? (Memory as Innovation)" at the performance space Links Hall in Chicago. He was also a guest faculty member in Naropa University's 2009 Summer Writing Program at its Jack Kerouac School of Disembodied Poetics in Boulder, Colo. Currently completing a manuscript of poetry, while also doing research for the development of a non-fiction book on poetics, Stackhouse lives and works in Brooklyn.

Corollary Press is a small chapbook series devoted to new work by writers of color. Sueyeun Juliette Lee edits the series and specifically seeks out work that challenges the boundaries of suitably "raced" writing, such as Christopher Stackhouse's lyric meditations on the line as a graphic element and structure for thought in Slip, or Summi Kaipa's explorations into identity politics and language in The Language Parable. All books are stab-stitched by hand.

Stacy Szymaszek, Litmus Press
http://poetryproject.org/
http://www.litmuspress.org/
Stacy Szymaszek is the author of Emptied of All Ships (Litmus) as well as many chapbooks, most recently Orizaba: A Voyage With Hart Crane (Faux) and Stacy S: Autoportraits (OMG!). Hyperglossia was just published by Litmus Press. She is the editor of Gam and the artistic director of The Poetry Project at St. Mark's Church.

Litmus Press is the publishing program of Ether Sea Projects, a 501(c) (3) non-profit literature and arts organization dedicated to supporting innovative, cross-genre writing, with an emphasis on poetry and international works in translation.

We aim to foster local, national, and international dialogue and interaction by presenting original writing from the U.S. alongside translations into English. By supporting translators, poets, and other writers, and by organizing and participating in public events, they hope to illuminate the fundamental common bond between languages and to actualize the potential linguistic, cultural, and political benefits of literary exchange on the international level. We seek to provide continuing and consistently high quality venues for such exchange and discussion to ensure that our poetic communities remain open-minded and vital.

Ryan Walker http://www.bathybius.com/ In spring 2009, Ryan self-published a book of poetry, You Will Own It Permanently. He limited himself to one week to collect, edit, design and release the book. He is working at a more leisurely pace on another edition, due out in Summer/Fall 2009. His work has appeared in Ambit, Anomaly, Submodern Fiction, Phoebe, and in the chapbook Enjoy Potion (The Interrupting Cow). He lives in Washington, D.C. and blogs at the above url.

Dana Ward
(see Friday)

Karen Weiser
http://www.puppyflowers.com/9/weiser.html
Ugly Duckling Presse will release Karen Weiser's first full-length collection, To Light Out, early next year.

Dan Wilcox, A.P.D. http://www.dwlcx.blogspot.com/ [redacted] Poet and photographer Dan Wilcox is the host of the Third Thursday Poetry Night at the Social Justice Center in Albany, N.Y. and is a member of the poetry performance group 3 Guys from Albany. As a photographer, he claims to have the world’s largest collection of photos of unknown poets. He has been a featured reader at all the important poetry venues in the Capital District and throughout the Hudson Valley, and is an active member of Veterans for Peace. He also publishes poetry under the imprint, A.P.D. (albany’s poetic device, another pleasant day, etc.). His own poems have been published in Out of the Catskills, Post Traumatic Press 2007, Chronogram, Poetica, and in numerous small press journals and anthologies, on the internet, and in self-published chapbooks. You can read his blog at the above link.

A.P.D., under the direction of Wilcox, has been publishing the works of local and regional poets since 1989. Among the works published by A.P.D. are Distant Kinships by Anthony Bernini, Suddenly Sapphires by Dina Pearlman, Three Sides to the Looking Glass by Rachel Zitomer, and, most recently, To the Husband I Have Not Yet Met, by Mary Kathryn Jablonski.

Katie Yates http://homepage.mac.com/kdyates/Personal78.html Katie Yates grew up in French West Africa and lives near New Haven, Conn. with Michael Forstrom (her husband) whom she met in college, Martin and Anna (Michael's children), and her own children little Juliette Claire and the even littler Gabriel Lake. Academic credentials fall under the rubric of poetry mostly with Doctor of Arts, University at Albany, English Studies; M.F.A. Naropa University, Writing and Poetics; and B.A. Carleton College, English Literature. She teaches for CTU Online and is very much taken with virtual works. Most recently she did Morning Stories, a book of poetry and watercolors with Julian Wong. thelemonade (Christopher Funkhouser and Stephen Cope) visited Equinunk, Penn. wherein an incredibly lovely High Watermark Salo(o)n took place (see www.highwatermarksalon.com). Her interests besides writing are meditation and web book building.

*Sunday

Cristiana Baik http://pressgangsters.com/ Cristiana Baik resides in Boston, works as an editorial assistant at The Boston Review, and works with Sara Wintz on the ::: the press gang :::. She's published one chapbook with Blue Hour Press, The Victory of the Strange Heart Beating, and has been published in several journals. She hopes to one day move to a house, so she can buy a Vandercook and print in her spare time.

Shanna Compton http://www.shannacompton.com/ Shanna Compton is the author of For Girls (& Others) (Bloof), Down Spooky (Winnow), GAMERS (Soft Skull), and several chapbooks. Her poems and essays have appeared in such publications as LIT, Tight, Abraham Lincoln, Coconut, Court Green, and No Tell Motel, as well as the anthologies Best American Poetry 2005, Bowery Women, and Poets Bookshelf II, among others. She lives in Central New Jersey.

Corina Copp
(see Friday)

Antonino D'Ambrosio http://www.lalutta.org/ Antonino D'Ambrosio is the author Let Fury Have the Hour: The Punk Politics of Joe Strummer; the film version will be released in 2010 and features original art and animation by Shepard Fairey and original music from a wide range of today's brightest musicians including Antibalas, Saul Williams, Chuck D, and Thievery Corporation. His most recent short film is No Free Lunch, starring comedian Lewis Black. His writing appears in The Progressive, The Believer, and The Nation, among many others. Based in Brooklyn and San Francisco, D'Ambrosio is the founder/executive director of La Lutta NMC, a new media and production nonprofit picked by The Nation as one of the top independent media groups in the country. Honored by New York University as a Gallatin Lecturer—an honor bestowed upon a contemporary artist creating innovative and social engaging work— D'Ambrosio is the artist-in-residence at the Center for Contemporary Arts in Santa Fe, N.M.

Dorit http://www.myspace.com/sweetdorit Dorit is a performing artist who is a proud native New Yorker. Born and raised in the Bronx, she is first generation American in a very multi-culti family. In 2009 she released her first music video honoring her lifelong obsession with Wonder Woman. As a solo singer/ songwriter/musician her influences range from classic Middle Eastern Music to African to Melodic Metal. After a number of years performing solo she is planning to record her original album in the near future. Aside from her solo career, she is starting up a heavy rock band that is in the writing process and is yet to be named. Dorit was the winner of “Bellydancer of the Universe.” She is an internationally recognized and respected Middle Eastern dancer and teacher. She is grateful to all her students for helping and supporting her in her music and dance careers.

Mariana Ruiz Firmat http://www.alternet.org/authors/9353 Mariana Ruiz Firmat is a union organizer, writer, and editor. She is an organizer with Local 1000 of CSEA/AFSCME, organizing direct care workers, a predominately Caribbean and African-American workforce. Mariana was the Politics section editor for Clamor Magazine for almost three years. She edited and conceptualized some important Clamor issues, most notably the Body Issue which featured a section of stories attacking the labor policies of American Apparel. Committed to the independent and small press movement, she recently began her foray as a publisher with Three Sad Tigers press. Their first chapbook is forthcoming this fall. Mariana’s poetry has been published in various magazines and presses. Open 24 Hours Press published her chapbook Another Strange Island. Most recently she has contributed to Make/ Shift Magazine with her article “Misdiagnosis-a political memoir” about the impacts of environmental justice on women’s reproductive health. She has also blogged for BBN News.

Greg Fuchs http://www.gregfuchs.com/ Greg Fuchs is the author of Came Like It Went, Metropolitan Transit, New Orleans Xmas, Rolling Papers, and Temporary. He is a member of Subpress publishing collective. With John Coletti, Fuchs co-edits Open 24 Hours, which publishes poetry in the spirit of the mimeo-revolution of the 1960s. He serves as the president of the board of directors of The Poetry Project.

Eric Gelsinger
http://www.gelsingers.blogspot.com/
Eric Gelsinger is a member of House Press and the editor of the cheap print snappy prose zine The Happy Generations. You can subscribe to the zine at the above url. It’s very cheap and very good.

Alan Gilbert http://bostonreview.net/BR34.2/gilbert.php Alan Gilbert is the author of Another Future: Poetry and Art in a Postmodern Twilight. His writings on poetry and art have appeared in a variety of publications, including Artforum, The Believer, and The Village Voice. His poems have appeared in Bomb, Boston Review, and The Nation, among others. He received a 2009 New York Foundation for the Arts Fellowship in Poetry and a 2006 Creative Capital Foundation Award for Innovative Literature.

Hailey Higdon http://www.palinodeproject.blogspot.com/ Hailey Higdon is the author of The Palinode Project, which can be read at the above url. She is originally from Nashville, Tenn. and has lived and worked in many places, including Boston, Madison Wisc., and parts of South Africa. She now lives in Philadelphia, where she teaches pre-kindergarten. Recently she started what to us (press) and released the chapbook The Third Word, by Lewis Freedman this past February.

Paolo Javier http://myspace.com/paolojavier Paolo Javier is the author of LMFAO (OMG!), Goldfish Kisses (Sona Books), 60 lv bo(e)mbs (O Books), and the time at the end of this writing (Ahadada). He is printed matter editor for Boog City and publishes 2ndavepoetry.com. He lives in New York City.

Paul Foster Johnson http://apostrophebooks.org/books-designs/refrains-unworkings/ Paul Foster Johnson's first collection of poetry, Refrains/Unworkings, was published last year by Apostrophe Books. With E. Tracy Grinnell, he is the author of the g-o-n-g press chapbook Quadriga. His poems have appeared in a number of literary journals, including GAM, EOAGH, Pom2, Fence, The Portable Boog Reader 2, Antennae, Bird Dog, and Octopus. From 2003 to 2006, he curated the Experiments and Disorders reading series at Dixon Place. He is an editor at Litmus Press and lives in the Lower East Side.

Erica Kaufman
http://ericajane0808.googlepages.com/
Erica Kaufman is the author of censory impulse (Factory School).

Basil King Basil King attended Black Mountain College as a teenager, and completed apprenticeship as an abstract painter in San Francisco and New York. Although he didn't begin to write until 1986, he may be the only living person who studied writing with Charles Olson, Robert Duncan, and Robert Creeley. Some of his paintings can be seen on the web at Spuyten Duyvil, Light & Dust, and Jacket. Recent books include mirage, 77 Beasts: Basil King's Beastiary, and two excerpts from his on-going Learning to Draw: Twin Towers and In the Field Where Daffodils Grow.

Martha King Martha King was born Martha Winston Davis in Charlottesville, Va. in 1937, attended Black Mountain College as a teenager and married the painter Basil King in 1958. She's lived in New York City since then. Her recent books are Imperfect Fit: Selected Poems and North & South, a collection of short stories. She edited a zine, Giants Play Well in the Drizzle, from 1983 to 1993, curates a prose reading series with Elinor Nauen, at the Telephone Bar, and just guest edited Local Knowledge #4 but the Web site isn't live yet.

Brendan Lorber http://www.lungfull.org/ Rakish adventurer Brendan Lorber spends his days and nights flying small 1970s'-era airplanes, rebuilding a ramshackle Revolutionary War- era Brooklyn farmhouse, and allowing his baby daughter Aurora to redefine the very nature of time and endurance. He is not the real father of several other poet-babies born this past year despite the striking array of traits they appear to have inherited from him, traits like immaturity, impatience, mild colic, and tiny bladders. During his recent stint as editor of The Poetry Project Newsletter Lorber did his best to destroy the newsletter, The Poetry Project, all poetry forever, and you. He ran the Zinc Talk Reading Series for 10 freewheeeling years. He continues to edit LUNGFULL! Magazine, the horribly named journal that prints people's rough drafts in addition to the final versions so you can see the process from beginning to end. Are you still reading this bio? Why? It's not exactly Anna Karenina now is it? Lorber is the author of several chapbooks, among them The Address Book, Dash, Your Secret, and Corvid Aurora. His work has appeared in countless journals and anthologies in several languages around the world. He has lectured and taught workshops on writing and participatory economics throughout the country but always returns to his Brooklyn home slung between an old power plant and a much older 500-acre necropolis.

Justin Marks http://justinanselmarks.blogspot.com/ Justin Marks' first book is A Million in Prizes (New Issues Press). He is also the author of several chapbooks, the most recent being Voir Dire (Rope-a-Dope Press). New work can be found in the Harp & Altar, Raleigh Quarterly, and Tusculum Review. He is the founder and editor of Kitchen Press Chapbooks and lives in New York City with his wife and their infant son and daughter.

Tracey McTague Tracey McTague lives at the geographic apex of Brooklyn on Battle Hill where she curates a reading series of the same name. She is also coeditor and consiglieri of Lungfull! Magazine. She is a writer and visual artist whose work includes a number of chapbooks. A longer book, about urban dog mind, will be published this fall by Overlook Press. Tracey is currently at work on a project called Super Natural. She vandalizes private property on a regular basis.

Ryan Murphy http://www.openlooppress.org/interviews/ryan-murphy/ Ryan Murphy is the author of Down with the Ship from Otis Books/ Seismicity Editions, as well as the chapbooks The Gales, Ocean Park, and On Violet Street. His second book, The Redcoats, is forthcoming from Krupskaya. He has received awards from Chelsea Magazine and The Aldrich Museum of Contemporary Art, as well as a grant from The Fund for Poetry. He is an editor for Four Way Books and teaches at Pratt Institute. He lives in New York City.

Eileen Myles http://www.eileenmyles.com/ Eileen Myles is the author of more than 20 books of poetry and prose, including Chelsea Girls, Cool for You, Sorry, Tree, and Not Me, and is the coeditor of The New Fuck You, an anthology of lesbian writing. Myles was head of the writing program at University of California, San Diego from 2002 to 2007. Most recently, she received a fellowship from the Andy Warhol/Creative Capital Foundation. Myles ran for president in 1992.

Gary Parrish http://farfallapress.blogspot.com/ Former 82nd Airborne Paratrooper, Gary Parrish received his bachelor's degree from Naropa University and his master of fine arts from Long Island University, where he won the school's Ester Hynaman Award for Poetics. Bowery Arts and Sciences awarded Parrish the 2006 Pedro Pietri Memorial Prize. He cocurated the yearlong Bowery Broadside Reading Series at the Bowery Poetry Club, featuring broadsides with original artwork by George Schneeman. The Meek, a long poem, was translated into Italian by Tiziano Fratus and published in the journal Ludwig (Torino Poesia Press). Two chapbooks, Dwarf Stars (Scantly Clad Press) and Cartoon Logic (Erudite Fangs), are forthcoming this year. Parrish is a cofounder and last man standing at Farfalla Press, McMillan, and Parrish, located in Bedford-Stuyvesant, Brooklyn.

Tim Peterson http://www.chax.org/eoagh/ Tim Peterson is a poet, critic, and editor. Peterson is the author of Since I Moved In, which received the Gil Ott Award from Chax Press. Peterson also edits EOAGH: A Journal of the Arts and curates the Tendencies talks series at CUNY Graduate Center. A new chapbook, Violet Speech, is forthcoming from 2nd Avenue Poetry.

Marc Andre Robinson http://www.lmcc.net/art/residencies/workspace/2008/robinson/index.html Marc Andre Robinson works in sculpture, drawing, video, and interactive public projects that revolve around a psychology of belonging: familial, cultural, and historical. Robinson, whose mother is white South African and father is African-American, imbues his eclectic body of work with a strong sense of temporal and cultural flux. Playing with the dialogue between art and artifact, he collects discarded furniture and transforms it into sculptural assemblages with complex and delicately balanced symbology. Robinson's two-dimensional works are often marked by meticulous patterning and repetition, while his public projects have involved creating arenas for members of the community to voice their historical reflections.

Born in Los Angeles, Robinson earned a B.F.A. from The Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and an M.F.A. from The Maryland Institute College of Art. He participated in The Whitney Independent Study Program and was artist-in-residence at The Studio Museum in Harlem, The Lower Manhattan Cultural Council and The Rocktower in Kingston, Jamaica. Robinson has exhibited extensively in the U.S. and abroad at venues including the New Museum of Contemporary Art in NYC; The Contemporary Museum in Baltimore; and The Centre for Contemporary Arts in Glasgow. His work has been featured in Art

Forum, Art News, Paris Vogue, The New York Times, and other international publications. Robinson was recently awarded an Art Matters grant to travel to South Africa in 2010, and he has upcoming exhibitions in NYC, Tokyo, Long Island, Baltimore, and Philadelphia. He lives and works in Brooklyn.

Alan Semerdjian http://www.alansemerdjian.com/ NYC musician and poet Alan Semerdjian's work seems to always find its way into the lives of music enthusiasts and creative and interesting people all over the world. With close to a thousand performances and readings, television, film, radio, and CMJ credits, and several studio and live albums over the past 13 years, he may be one of the best singer/songwriters you've never heard of.

Michele Madigan Somerville http://www.michelemadigansomerville.com/ Native New Yorker Michele Madigan Somerville is the author of the book-length poem Wisegal (Ten Pell Books) and Black Irish, her first collection of verse, forthcoming this fall from Plainview Press. Her verse has appeared in Hanging Loose, Mudfish, Pagan Place, Downtown Brooklyn, and Puerto Del Sol. Her essay "Born Again Catholic in Brooklyn" recently appeared in The New York Times online Happy Days series.

Somerville won an honorable mention in Dublin, Ireland's Eason Books Poetry Competition in 2003, first place in The W.B. Yeats Society poetry competition in 2000, a MacArthur scholarship for poetry at Brooklyn College in 1987, and The Louise B. Goodman Award for Women- Centered writing at Brooklyn College. She has curated readings at The Old Stone House in Park Slope, Ceol Bar in Cobble Hill, and Cornelia Street Café in Manhattan. She has given many public performances of her work.

Somerville recently completed two collections of verse—Glamourous Life and Stations of Light. She is working on two books of prose, a novel, Sucker Punch and a yet untitled memoir about being Catholic.

Somerville worked for 14 years s a teacher in New York City elementary and high schools, the City University of New York, and at the State University of New York at Purchase. She lives in Brooklyn with her husband and three children.

Joanna Sondheim http://www.harpandaltar.com/interior.php?t=p&i=1&p=23&e=71 Joanna Sondheim's work has appeared in Unsaid, can we have our ball back, sonaweb, Harp & Altar, The Portable Boog Reader 2, and Bird Dog, among others. Her chapbooks, The Fit and Thaumatrope, were published by Sona Books. She lives in Jackson Heights, Queens.

Christopher Stackhouse
(see Saturday)

Stacy Szymaszek
(see Saturday)

Lewis Warsh http://www.lewiswarsh.org/ Lewis Warsh is the author of numerous books of poetry, fiction, and autobiography, including Inseparable: Poems 1995-2005, The Origin of the World, Touch of the Whip, A Free Man, Avenue of Escape, and Ted's Favorite Skirt. He is the coeditor of The Angel Hair Anthology, editor and publisher of United Artists Books, and director of the M.F.A. program in creative writing at Long Island University in Brooklyn. A new novel, A Place in the Sun, is forthcoming from Spuyten Duyvil this fall.

Dan Wilcox
(see Saturday)

Sara Wintz http://ceptuetics.blogspot.com/2007/11/sara-wintz-on-ceptuetics.html Sara Wintz is cohort of ::: the press gang ::: and lead singer of the pretty panicks press. Other writings can be found in Shampoo Poetry, Cricket Online Review, mid(rib, EOAGH, Ecopoetics, Interrobang?!, The Poetry Project Newsletter, The Portable Boog Reader 3, Tight, and on Ceptuetics, with Kareem Estefan. She lives and learns in Brooklyn.

Angela Veronica Wong http://smartstuff.blogspot.com Angela Veronica Wong is the author of two chapbooks, All the Little Red Girls on Flying Guillotine Press, and to know this on Cy Gist Press. Her poetry has also appeared in Denver Quarterly, Court Green, and Barrow Street. She is currently working on a YA novel about a character who is neither popular nor unpopular, but supercute. She enjoys ellipses and small, pink Japanese things.

↑ Index

4. Jeffrey Side

“Is Steven Burt’s “New Thing” all that New?”

Tue 1 Sep 2009

New blog post:

“Is Steven Burt’s “New Thing” all that New?”

“I’ve just seen an article by Stephen Burt called ‘The New Thing: The object lessons of recent American poetry’ in the Boston Review in which he says:

‘For much of the past decade, the most imitated new American poets were slippery, digressive, polyvocalic, creators of overlapping, colorful fragments. Their poems were avowedly personal, although they never retold the poets’ life stories (they did not tell .....”

http://jeffrey-side.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

5. steve russell

Re: THE NYT: FUTURE OF READING Students Get New Assignment: Pick Books You Like

Tue 1 Sep 2009

---

i wonder if the teacher would allow graphic novels. in Catholic school, I was reprimanded for digging the nudity in italian painting, naughty cupid giving the viewer a Sarah Palin wink & so on. R Crumb has recently depicted the story of Adam & Eve and is doing a biblical series. See New Yorker, June 8 & 15, tons of fun.

--- On Sun, 8/30/09, David-Baptiste Chirot <[redacted]> wrote:

From: David-Baptiste Chirot <[redacted]>
Subject: THE NYT: FUTURE OF READING Students Get New Assignment: Pick Books You Like
To: [redacted]
Date: Sunday, August 30, 2009, 11:40 AM

THE FUTURE OF READING

Students Get New Assignment: Pick Books You Like

By MOTOKO RICH

The experimental approach is part of a movement to revolutionize the way literature is taught in U.S. schools.

http://www.nytimes.com/2009/08/30/books/30reading.html?th&emc=th

_____
Get back to school stuff for them and cashback for you.
http://www.bing.com/cashback?form=MSHYCB&publ=WLHMTAG&crea=TEXT_MSHYCB_BackToSchool_Cashback_BTSCashback_1x1

↑ Index

6. David-Baptiste Chirot

: E-News: Judith Harway, Don Share, & Emily Warn this Friday!

Tue 1 Sep 2009

Date: Tue, 1 Sep 2009 08:58:54 -0700
From: [redacted]
Subject: E-News: Judith Harway, Don Share, & Emily Warn this Friday!
To: [redacted]

Woodland Pattern
E-News!http://www.woodlandpattern.org/_____

_____SEPTEMBER EVENTS:==========EVENTSFri. 9/5: Judith Harway, Don Share, & Emily Warn Reading; 7pmWed. 9/9: Prose Series Reading with Nathalie Stephens; 7pmFri. 9/18: Redletter & Open Mic with Jared Stanley & Scott Inguito; 7pmSun. 9/20: Alternating Currents Live with The Tom Hamilton + Thomas Gaudynski Duo; 7pmSun. 9/27: Kate Greenstreet & Maureen Owen Reading; 7pm

WORKSHOPSSat. 9/26: Facing Five Key Themes Through Fiction with Paul McComas; 10am-5pm Workshops with Poet-in-Residence Maureen Owen9/22 - 10/29: Workshop Series at Washington Park Senior Center; 2-4pmWed. 9/23: Developing a Writing Practice; 6-8pmWed. 9/30: Your Work in Print; 6-8pm ==========

==========FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 5: HARWAY, SHARE & WARN READING; 7PM========== Judith Harway, Don Share, & Emily Warn Reading Friday, September 5, 2009; 7pm ($8/$7/$6)Woodland Pattern Book Center720 East Locust StreetMilwaukee, WI 53212 Judith Harway's books of poetry include All That is Left (Turning Point Books, 2009) and The Memory Box (Zarigueya Press, 2002). Her work has appeared in dozens of literary journals, and has earned fellowships from the Wisconsin Arts Board, the Hambidge Center and the MacDowell Colony. She is on the faculty of the Milwaukee Institute of Art and Design. Don Share is Senior Editor of Poetry magazine in Chicago. He has been Poetry Editor of Harvard Review and Partisan Review, Editor of Literary Imagination, and Curator of Poetry at Harvard University. His books include Squandermania (Salt Publishing), Union (Zoo Press), Seneca in English (Penguin Classics); forthcoming are a critical edition of Basil Bunting's poems (Faber and Faber) and Bunting's Persia (Flood Editions). His translations of Miguel Hernández, collected in I Have Lots of Heart (Bloodaxe Books) were awarded the Times Literary Supplement Translation Prize, the Premio Valle Inclán Prize, and the PEN/New England Discovery Award. Emily Warn is a poet, essayist, teacher, and technologist who most recently served as founding editor of poetryfoundation.org. Born in San Francisco and raised in Michigan, she is the author of three books of poetry: The Leaf Path (1982), The Novice Insomniac (1996) and Shadow Architect (2008). Her essays and poems appear widely, including in Poetry, BookForum, Blackbird, Parabola, The Forward, Narrative, The Seattle Times, and The Writers' Almanac. She taught creative writing at Lynchburg College and The Bush School, and was a Stegner Fellow at Stanford University. She currently divides her time between Seattle and Twisp, Washington.

http://www.woodlandpattern.org/
==========WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 9: PROSE SERIES WITH NATHALIE STEPHENS; 7PM========== New Prose Series Reading with Nathalie Stephens Wednesday, September 9, 2009; 7pm (FREE)Woodland Pattern Book Center720 East Locust StreetMilwaukee, WI 53212 Nathalie Stephens (Nathanaël) writes l'entre-genre in English and French. Her many books include The Sorrow And The Fast Of It (2007), Paper City (2003), Je Nathanaël (2003/2006), L'Injure (2004) and …s'arrête? Je (2007) for which she was awarded the Prix Alain-Grandbois by the Académie des Lettres du Québec. Other work exists in Basque and Slovene with book-length translations in Bulgarian. There is an essay of correspondence (2009): Absence Where As (Claude Cahun and the Unopened Book), first published (2007) as L'absence au lieu. Also, a collection of talks, At Alberta (2008). Besides translating some of her own work, Stephens has translated Catherine Mavrikakis, Gail Scott, Bhanu Kapil, Édouard Glissant. She lives, she thinks, in Chicago.
http://www.woodlandpattern.org/
==========FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 18: REDLETTER READING & OPEN MIC; 7PM========== Redletter Reading & Open Mic featuring Jared Stanley & Scott Inguito Friday, September 18, 2009; 7pm ($3/$2 open mic readers)Woodland Pattern Book Center720 East Locust StreetMilwaukee, WI 53212 Scott Inguito is a graduate of The Iowa Writers Workshop. His chapbook, Dear Jack is out from Momotombo Press, and his latest chapbook, The Vernacular Sounds of Dog Noise, a collection of woofs, barks and yelps written in Mexico in January 2008, is something he is working on. His poems have appeared in Shampoo, Fence, and 1913: a journal of forms. His collage-play, "Trying to Create Intimacy with a Narcissist" was performed at California College of Art, San Francisco, for Small Press Traffic, in December 2008. Scott lives in San Francisco. Jared Stanley is the author of Book Made of Forest, which won Salt Publishing's Crashaw Prize in 2008. He also wrote the chapbooks The Outer Bay (Trafficker Press), I Something Scott Inguito You (Scantily Clad Press) and co-wrote In Fortune (Dusie Kollectiv). His poems have recently appeared or are forthcoming in Mary, Realpoetik, and Likestarlings. With Lauren Levin and Catherine Meng, he edits the annual magazine Mrs. Maybe. He currently lives in Merced County, California, where he teaches at the University of California, Merced. http://www.woodlandpattern.org ==========Follow us on Twitter:

http://www.twitter.com/woodlandpatternWe're also on Facebook and MySpace!
========== To receive regular messages notifying you of Woodland Patternevents, send a message to us at [redacted] with"Join E-List" in the subject line. To unsubscribe from these mailings send a reply with "unsubscribe"in the subject line. PLEASE FORWARD! THANKS!!!

http://www.woodlandpattern.org/

Woodland Pattern Book Center

720 E. Locust Street

Milwaukee, WI 53212

phone [redacted]

Get back to school stuff for them and cashback for you.
http://www.bing.com/cashback?form=MSHYCB&publ=WLHMTAG&crea=TEXT_MSHYCB_BackToSchool_Cashback_BTSCashback_1x1

↑ Index

7. Stephen Vincent

New de blog/ Plane tree "haptics" &

Tue 1 Sep 2009

Part of the summer has keep me busy either taking pictures of haptics, making haptic drawings, or variously writing about haptics. If interested, take a look on the blog:
http://stephenvincent.net/blog/
Stephen Vincent

The haptic mark - in whatever form it takes - gives us a rendering of a sensual apprehension of space.The marks it makes are fluid. Within any combination of marks we witness the incisions of a particular history. The group of wrinkles in an aging person's face, or the apparent cracks and scars on the bark of a treeâ€™s trunk. These incisions - these haptics - are one of the ways in which we may publicly and intimately witness the pace, rhythm, the shape and character of an historical record. An eventâ€™s scripture, its autobiography, if you will...

↑ Index

8. Alan Drake
archæZine & The Hudson Valley PoetsFest 2009 (Aug 22)
Tue 1 Sep 2009

As it seems no one announced the event on the listserv, and the event's now passed, we'd like to include it in our invitation for submissions to archÃ¦Zine (Journal.)

ONLINE PUBLICATION:
http://archaezine.com/

It was a rainy, soggy day this year in the mineâ€¦

EVENT PAGE

_____
Hudson Valley PoetsFest 2009
19th Annual Subterranean Cave Reading
22 August 2009 at the Widow Jane Cave in Rosendale, NY

ON THE POET FEST PAGE

_____
Recordings and photos of the full day's event, with commentary
Plus links to past Fests, the Fest on NPR, the Widow Jane Cave, and the town of Rosendale.
Click any Hudson Valley PoetsFest 2009 link to get to the info page.

archÃ¦ SUBMISSION GUIDELINES

_____
Staff selections are based on quality â€”both writing and recording. Submit text, text/recording â€”or recordings only. Complete submission details can be found via the top tab of ever blog page. Please consider submitting poems/visual poems and/or recordings. http://archaezine.com/ Sound files are archived perpatuus at Internet Archive (archive.org.)

NOTE ON archÃ¦

_____
archÃ¦ originally appeared as a print magazine in 1990-95, featuring among many poets/authors/artists: janine pommy vega, armand schwerner, douglas oliver, michael heller, anita endrezze, joel lewis, robert peters, mikhail horowitz, richard kostelanetz, geof huth, robert peters, ron welburn, boria sax, jane augustine, ron whiteurs, alan davis drake, ronald baatz, kenneth wapner, tsung tsai, george crane, edwin cranston, boria sax, david chikhladze, duane niatum, irving weiss, rod tulloss, kimberly tall bear and many others...

archÃ¦ is now undertaking a new incarnation on-line.

↑ Index

9. Catherine Daly

Fwd: Request for Ecological Writing--Submissions for New Blog

Tue 1 Sep 2009

As some of you know, I began work at the beginning of July as co-Executive Director of the 31-year-old non-profit Friends of Ballona Wetlands, L.A.'s preeminent wetlands education and restoration group. To learn more about us, go here: http://www.ballonafriends.org.

One of the conditions of my signing was that I wanted the Friends to start a blog, which I hope will be a DAILY destination for people who care about wetlands preservation and the larger environmental/crisis of soul issues that arise from habitat loss, urbanization, etc. It's a broad subject, and I will interpret it broadly.

The Friends board has approved my request to edit a five-to-seven-day-a-week daily "magazine," to begin soon, with different segments/columnists each day, like Monday essays, Tuesday local Ballona sightings and news, Wednesday local history, Thursday FAQs about wetlands (what's an "indicator species?" etc.), Friday poetry, Saturday Best of Reader Contributions, and, maybe even Sunday Comix and Opinion.

Thus, this appeal to you for new, unpublished work, in poetry, fiction, essays, art, book reviews, or even comics, that is somehow wetlands, estuary, swamp, bog, fen, river, ocean, etc., oriented. Forests are probably out, since we're a wetlands in a semi-desert ecosystem.

I'd like to publish your original work (at the usual non-profit, hat-in-hand rates, i.e. free) on the blog, and potentially in a "Best Of" hard-copy anthology. Those rights only; all other rights are yours. I can offer a reciprocal link to your blog, website, or book site, so you benefit from networking. Also, given enough notice, I often help out-of-town poets I admire book readings in Los Angeles or San Francisco. And finally, The Friends have a few events of our own coming up, and I am trying to shake loose funding from donors to pay readers.

Our blog audience is people who are concerned about environmental issues, and who have varying degrees of literary sophistication. I don't know that concrete poetry will work, or that most of them could slog through The Cantos without a playbook, but I am certain that (off the top of my head, in no particular order) In a Station of the Metro would fly, as would Stevens' Anecdote of Men By the Thousands, Rilke's The Way In, Oliver's Some Questions You Might Ask, Pattiann Rogers' Dream of the Marsh Wren, Abani's Muir Woods, Kabir's The Clay Jug, Lisa Jarnot's Everything I Know About Corn, Yusef Komunyakaa's Ode to the Maggot, Harryette Mullen's Kills Bugs Dead, Ritsos' The Models, Levertov's The Reminder, Ursula K.

Le Guin's Riding on the Coast Starlight, Richard Shelton's Sonora for Sale, David St. John's *Iris, *even Jack Gilbert's Haunted Importantly …etc.

My bias is toward "ecopoetry," which is not nature poetry, per se, but much harder to define. James Englehardt, in an essay in Octopus Magazine < http://www.octopusmagazine.com/issue09/engelhardt.htm>, suggests this: The ecopoem is connected to the world, and this implies responsibility. Like other poetic models that assume a connection and engagement (feminism, Marxism, witness, etc.), ecopoetry is surrounded by questions of ethics. Should the ecopoem do something in the world? But how can a poem be said to accomplish anything?

Scott Bryson's book "Ecopoetry" also has a number of wonderful essays and definitions. But don't get too hung up in definitions; I'll know what I like when I see it.

As for essayists, I'm looking for the next Wendell Berry, Barry Lopez, Oliver Sacks, Lewis Thomas, Lynn Margulis and Dorion Sagan, Bill McKibben, Michael Pollan, Terry Tempest Williams, Susan Griffin—or all of them and more. Good, straight-ahead stylists who combine clarity, lyricism, and science.

As for fiction, I'm on less firm ground as an editor, but Kaaren Kitchell, Antioch MFA and member of WOMPO, will be our fiction editor, so your work is in good hands.

AND, if you write reviews, I'm interested specifically in your reviews of poetry collections that advance the craft and push the boundaries of "nature" or "ecopoetry."

We have plenty of local photography, but if you have fine art or illustrations, feel free to submit those or direct me to where on the Web I can secure a quality JPEG.

I already have poetry submissions from Annie Finch, Janet Burroway, Ron Koertge, Tony Barnstone, Ann Fisher-Wirth, Christopher Merrill, Ellen Bass, C.J. Sage and Linda Pastan, to name just a handful, so you will be in good company.

While I'm writing to you from a specific, unique place, the Ballona Wetlands, consider my request an appeal from a juncture, if you will, of soul and territory, a juncture that calls to mind one of my favorite quotes from the poet/essayist Wendell Berry:

*This is the phenomenon of edge or margin that we know to be one of the powerful attractions of a diversified landscape, both to wildlife and to humans. The human eye itself seems drawn to such margins, hungering for the difference made in the countryside by a hedgy fencerow, a stream, or a grove of trees. And we know that these margins are biologically rich, the meeting of two kinds of habitat.

Write to me from the rich margins where you and the outer world overlap. As Novalis wrote, The seat of the soul is where the inner world and the outer * world meet. Where they overlap, it is in every point of the  overlap.*

To the mundane: Please submit, if you choose, documents in Microsoft Word, any version before 2008. I'm not sure we'll be able to deal with complex formatting in poems, but I'll do my best. MANDATORY: With your submission, write me a paragraph about your nearest estuary, wetlands, swamp, bog, fen or most inspiring body of water to run in the introduction to your piece, and tell ME specifically where it is. I would like to link our readers to the specific natural place that most moves and inspires our contributors. I may even put in a Google Map link to the area (one of our contributors, Michael Salcman, sails Chesapeake Bay, for example; Janet Burroway walks in Florida), as I would if I were running (I wish, but I don't know how to reach her yet) a Mary Oliver poem and would spotlight Provincetown on Cape Cod.

Again, if you want to see what the blog will look like, it will resemble the rest of our site, http://www.ballonafriends.org. I look forward to receiving your work. Thank you,

Richard Beban
[redacted]

_____
Richard Beban, Co-Executive Director
Friends of Ballona Wetlands (www.ballonafriends.org)

211 Culver Blvd., Suite K
Playa del Rey, CA 90293
[redacted]

poems: <http://www.beban.org>
*
*
pix: <http://www.flickr.com/photos/mythyes/>

↑ Index

10. steve dalachinsky

Fw: Fw: Fw: Re: steve dalachinsky readings in ny

Wed 2 Sep 2009

---

steve dalachinsky reads in september

sept 4 as part of howl fest opening thompkins sq park 5pmish

sept 5 2 pm the garden on e. 11th st between b and c with yuko and tom savage and others

september 11th at the Drom 85 ave a (6 and 7 st) - 8 pm steve reads art spielelman's 9/11 text in the shadow of no towers with dvd of text and great musicians marco capelli and jim pulgliese sept 12 at cccp gallery at hope and marcy ave - l to lorimer , j to marcy 6-8 pm as part of collage show i'm in with yuko otomo jeff wright bruce weber, valery oisteaneau

sept 13 the Center for Jewish Life - 83 Mercer Street, #2, corner of Spring Str. 7pm &nbs p; with jake marmer and adam schonbrun (brooklyn expat to Safed, Israel)

Sept 13th - pending confirmation from the Garden afternoon El Jardin Del Paraiso - East 4 Street East Village PENDING (Acoustic Only)

1. Daniel Levin – solo cello / Mariko Kumanimido dance
2. Rob Brown and ?
3. Steve Dalachinsky poet and ?
4. Jackson Krall and ?

sept 20 on governor's island 3 pm

_____ Easy-to-use, advanced features, flexible phone systems. Click here for more info.

↑ Index

11. Rachel Loden

Rae Armantrout & Rachel Loden in Los Angeles

Wed 2 Sep 2009

If you're in the LA area, please come and check us out!

Tuesday, September 8
Rae Armantrout & Rachel Loden
Hammer Readings: New American Writing Series
Hammer Museum
10899 Wilshire Blvd.
Los Angeles, CA
7:00pm - 8:30pm
Free
Contact: [redacted]
[redacted]

http://hammer.ucla.edu/programs/detail/program_id/278

Rae Armantrout is a professor of writing in the literature department at UCSD and the author of ten books of poetry, including Versed, Next Life, which was selected by Publishers Weekly as one of the best poetry books of 2007, and Up to Speed, also selected by Publishers Weekly as one of the best poetry books of the year. She has received awards from the Guggenheim Foundation, the Fund for Poetry, and the California Arts Council Individual Artist Fellowship.

Rachel Loden is the author of Dick of the Dead, which came out in May 2009. Her first book, Hotel Imperium, was selected as one of the ten best poetry books of the year by the San Francisco Chronicle, which called it "quirky and beguiling." Her work has appeared twice in the Best American Poetry series and she has received a Pushcart Prize, an &NOW Award, a Fellowship in Poetry from the California Arts Council, and a grant from the Fund for Poetry.

↑ Index

12. Jeremy Czerw
Event listing for Poetics List
Wed 2 Sep 2009

Upcoming events in New York City:

Please join us for the brand-new Saturday Poets Series at the brand-new Grand Central branch of The New York Public Library. Free and open to the public. Saturdays at 2 PM.

Address: 135 East 46th Street, New York, NY 10017. Ph: [redacted].

September 12: Tao Lin and Justin Marks.
September 19: Katie Degentesh and Daniel Magers
September 26: Nate Pritts and Laura Sims
October 3: Shanna Compton, Nada Gordon, and Amy King

Blog: http://grandcentralpoets.blogspot.com

↑ Index

13. Thom Donovan
On Burt's "The New Thing" at Wild Horses Of Fire
Wed 2 Sep 2009

---

http://whof.blogspot.com/2009/07/whose-objectivism.html

---

whof.blogspot.com
47-06 46th St. # C7
Woodside, NY 11377

↑ Index

14. Eric Weinstein
Best New Poets 2009 NYC Readings
Wed 2 Sep 2009

Hi everyone,

I just wanted to let you know that some of the NYC-area poets to be featured in *Best New Poets 2009 *will be giving a series of readings in Manhattan and Brooklyn this fall. The BNP website is here<http://www.bestnewpoets.org/>, and a complete listing of the 50 poems & poets to be included in the 2009 anthology can be found here<http://bestnewpoets.blogspot.com/2009/08/best-new-poets-is-pleased-to-announce.html> .

The readings are:

Monday, October 19th, 7:00 PM
Housing Works (Manhattan)
126 Crosby Street (between E. Houston & Prince)
MTA: Prince St. Station (R/W) or Broadway/Lafayette (B/D/F/V)
http://www.housingworks.org/social-enterprise/bookstore-cafe/

Tuesday, October 27th, 7:00 PM
Book Court (Brooklyn)
163 Court Street (Court Street & Dean)
MTA: Bergen St. Station (F/G) or Borough Hall (4/5)
http://www.bookcourt.org/

Wednesday, November 4th, 7:00 PM
McNally Jackson Books (Manhattan)
52 Prince Street (between Crosby & Mulberry)
MTA: Prince St. Station (R/W) or Broadway Lafayette (B/D/F/V)
http://mcnallyjackson.com/

Saturday, December 5th, 7:00 PM
KGB Bar (Manhattan)
85 E. 4th Street (between 2nd and Bowery)
MTA: Astor Place (6), 2nd Ave/LES (F/V) or 8th St/NYU (R/W)
http://www.kgbbar.com/
http://kgbbar.com/calendar/events/best_new_poets_2009/

Copies of the anthology can be pre-ordered at Amazon here<http://www.amazon.com/Best-New-Poets-2009-Emerging/dp/097662964X/ref=sr_1_1?ie=UTF8&s=books&qid=1251907383&sr=1-1> (or purchased after the on-sale date of 10/15/2009). Copies should be available for purchase at all four readings.

If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to e-mail me backchannel.

Thanks, best, and hope to see you there,

Eric

↑ Index

15. amy king
In Lieu of Stain -- poetry + music + you @
Wed 2 Sep 2009

Dear NYC+ friends and poets,

This is a little poetry drive. Please do read on. In lieu of a September reading, the Stain of Poetry (Amy King + me) are blowing our wind in the sails of an extraordinary benefit, to take place on September 13th @ The Living Room NYC. Amy joins Michael Tyrell and a slew of musicians & bands for a night of revelry, all for the cost of a cheap concert ticket ($15). Find out more about the event here (where you can also buy tickets):
http://foggedclarity.com/2009/07/the-living-room/

or here:
http://www.facebook.com/home.php#/event.php?eid=143766517563&ref=mf

and give some of the bands a listen:
Strand of Oaks -- http://www.myspace.com/strandofoaks
Judson Claiborne- - http://www.myspace.com/judsonclaiborne
Samantha Farrell -- http://www.myspace.com/samanthafarrell
Karisa Wilson -- http://www.myspace.com/wilsonkarisa
Amir Darzi -- http://www.myspace.com/amirdarzi

You'll be supporting the print edition of Fogged Clarity & having a dazzling time -- we've been to one of these evenings, and they move, rock, sway & shine unlike anything we've witnessed. Come with us! And let me know if you have any questions.

xo,

Ana

--
Amy's Alias
http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

16. Paul Siegell
Re: A widespread, high-spirited head rush
Wed 2 Sep 2009

Hello again!

Ever hear of RELIX - “the magazine for music”?

Been reading it off and on for over a decade now, so it’s 100% nuts for me to say that they’ve just reviewed jambandbootleg!

Check the review out here: http://tiny.cc/usd60

Page 67! Woo-Hoo!

Also, please see other reviews of jambandbootleg here:
* Black Ocean: http://tiny.cc/6likM
* Surrender to the Flow: http://tiny.cc/Jq7Un
* Amazon: http://tiny.cc/q28ju

I hope this note has found you well and enjoying the start of September!

yours,
paul>
http://paulsiegell.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

17. Cassandra Laity
Modernism/Modernity 16:3 TOC
Wed 2 Sep 2009

Dear List,

The September issue of Modernism/Modernity featuring a special cluster from the MSA teaching forum (guest edited by Helen Sword) will be mailed out in two weeks. Here is the table of contents.---Best, Cassandra Laity

Special Section
MSA Teaching Forum Cluster
Making It New: Innovative Approaches to Teaching Modernism

Guest Edited by Helen Sword
Introduction, Helen Sword

Faking It New, Alan Golding

MySpace Modernism, David M. Earle

Counter-Intuitive Innovation, Marsha Bryant

Making It (New) as a Graduate Teaching Assistant, Sarah Copland

Modernism in Black & White, Suzanne W. Churchill

IKEA Modernism and the Perils of Innovation, Michael Sayeau

Versioning Virginia Woolf: Notes toward a Posteclectic Edition of Three Guineas
Rebecca Wisor

A Car, a Plane, and a Tower: Interrogating Public Images in Mrs. Dalloway Benjamin D. Hagen

â€œThe Place on the Mapâ€: Geography and Meter in Hardyâ€™s Elegies Eve Sorum

Shit Writing: Mulk Raj Anandâ€™s Untouchable, the Image of Gandhi, and the Progressive Writersâ€™ Association

Ben Conisbee Baer

Out of the Archive
Introduction, Jennifer Gromada

Poems by Mary Borden

Escape

Take me Away from my Wounded Men

There is a Monster in the Valley

Prefatory Note

Cassandra Laity
Associate Professor
Co-Editor Modernism/Modernity
Drew University
Madison, NJ 07940

↑ Index

18. Lindsey Allgood

Chax Press presents new work by Joel Bettridge

Wed 2 Sep 2009

Dear Friends:

Joel Bettridge's new book, Presocratic Blues, has just been published by Chax Press. You may order the book from our web site at http://chax.org, or telephone us at [redacted].

Reviews:

In Presocratic Blues the presocratics walk among us, obsessed with the everyday: the rain, the bar, the blues. And the poems that result are full of correspondence, of discovery in the Spicerian sense. These are poems that remind us that behind every simple moment is a larger question about the universe and humanityâ€™s place in it.â€¨â€” Juliana Spahr

In Presocratic Blues, Joel Bettridge takes us back home, back to that poor old actuality at the presocratic horizon of thought and matter. But we are no happier for it. We go down to the river, a Heraclitan flux that just keeps rolling, witness to despair and wicked deeds. These are sharply intelligent poems, full of acerbic wit, absurdity, and heartbreak. â€” Devin Johnston

We breathe in Greek and exhale the pure products of Americana; a vernacular philosophy. Joel Bettridge not only knows this but has strummed it in poems witty, raucous, and bluesy. â€” Charles Bernstein

Back Cover:

We now call them the Presocratics. Their writings come down to us in pieces: Heraclitus claimed, â€œYou cannot step twice into the same river, for other waters and yet others go ever flowing onâ€; we have Zeno arguing that motion does not exist, an arrow needing to go halfway to the target before striking it, but needing to go half way of that half way first, and so on. In how they were right in the wrongest ways, and wrong in the rightest we hear our better thoughts; their fragments call to mind the blues: in their graves perhaps, these philosophers hear themselves in its songs, for their singers, too, glimpsed instances, like heartbreak, exhaustion, being broke, or drunk, or trying to hold onto a faith; in these Hellenistic remnants we hear the echoes of Blind Willie Johnsonâ€™s apologetics and Bessie Smithâ€™s epistemology of love. Anaxagoras also sang on steps advising passersby that all objects contain elements of all other objects: the much bigger, for instance, has the small in it, but it has mostly huge. They, like us, were between religion and scienceâ€”between the mysticism of the everyday and the shifting ground of understanding. They too were smitten and baffled by what could be seen and touched, and by events.

--
Professional Writer and Public Relations Specialist
Lindsey Allgood

[redacted]

↑ Index

19. UbuWeb

September UbuWeb Featured Resources - Selected by Hans Ulrich Obrist

Wed 2 Sep 2009

Ten Oulipian-inspired UbuWeb Resources:

http://www.poetryfoundation.org/harriet/2009/09/september-ubuweb-featured-resources-selected-by-hans-ulrich-obrist/

UbuWeb
http://ubu.com

↑ Index

20. Small Press Traffic

SPT FALL SEASON BEGINS WITH CA CONRAD AND FRANK SHERLOCK!

Wed 2 Sep 2009

Our Fall Season starts next week and we are bursting at the seams with giddiness to open the season with this incredible pair!

CA Conrad and Frank Sherlock on Class/Warfare
September 11, 2009: Doors open 7:30pm/Reading begins at 8:00pm

Timken Hall at CCA San Francisco/1111 8th Street/San Francisco $8 admission/ SPT members FREE!  CA Conrad <http://2.bp.blogspot.com/_U7xbZLHsG8Y/SpwWxb8-8fI/AAAAAAAAAD0/HTV2S39V2qk/s1600-h/ConradIrishFood.jpg> CAConrad is the recipient of THE GIL OTT BOOK AWARD for The Book of Frank (Chax Press, 2009). He is also the author of Advanced Elvis Course (Soft Skull Press, 2009), (Soma)tic Midge (Faux Press, 2008), Deviant Propulsion (Soft Skull Press, 2006), and a forthcoming collaboration with poet Frank Sherlock titled THE CITY REAL & IMAGINED: Philadelphia Poems (Factory School Books, 2010). CAConrad is the son of white trash asphyxiation whose childhood included selling cut flowers along the highway for his mother and helping her shoplift. He invites you to visit him online at http://caconrad.blogspot.com/ and also with his friends at http://phillysound.blogspot.com/ Also, find him online here <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=XaOwLpiyegk>and here<http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com/>and here <http://www.nonsitecollective.org/CAConrad/Soma%28tics%29>

Frank Sherlock
<http://1.bp.blogspot.com/_U7xbZLHsG8Y/SpwbmhmkaSI/AAAAAAAAAD8/xFKJpUiaqOs/s1600-h/sherlock.jpg>
<http://2.bp.blogspot.com/_U7xbZLHsG8Y/SpwcYoPpaYI/AAAAAAAAAEE/ndCOBzkH_jA/s1600-h/sherlock.jpg>

Frank Sherlock is the author of Over Here (Factory School 2009) and the co-author of Ready-To-Eat Individual (Lavender Ink 2008) with Brett Evans. A collaboration with CAConrad entitled The City Real & Imagined: Philadelphia Poems is forthcoming from Factory School later in January 2010. He currently works with the Philadelphia Mural Arts Program on Journeys South, a public art project that documents immigrant/migrant experiences in South Philly.

check him out:
here <http://www.spdbooks.org/Producte/9781600010552/over-here.aspx> and here <http://www.lavenderink.org/readytoeat/> and here<http://www.writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/x/Sherlock.html>and here <http://franksherlock.blogspot.com/>

_____ THEN, join us for a Dialogues writing lab, co-sponsored by Nonsite collective, where Frank Sherlock and CAConrad discuss poetic interventions into the present, past and future life of the city.

Saturday September 12, 2009
at 935 Natoma Street in San Francisco
(btwn. 10th and 11th and btwn. Mission and Howard)
Close to Van Ness and Market (Muni) or Civic Center (BART)
admission $25/$20 for SPT members and students

This from the leaders:

The City Real & Imagined project is a collaborative documentary of both concrete and psychic place, exercising imaginations that are shared in the commons. It is at heart a working of public space in a time of post-9/11 hegemonic decline. Preparations for the death of Baghdad's children had begun, and the displacement of the working poor in Philadelphia was already underway. Two poets with very different experiences within the same city they share wandered together to let the streets shape the form of the poem with its histories and possibilities. CAConrad and Frank Sherlock will discuss their influences and approaches to the project, the collaborative process, and the mutual impact on their re-imaginings of the Philadelphia they live in.

For further investigation, visit the Nonsite Collective website for this:
http://nonsitecollective.org/CAConrad/Soma(tics)

Spaces are limited for this Dialogues event, so please reserve your seat by emailing [redacted].

--
Samantha Giles
Executive Director
Small Press Traffic Literary Arts Center
sptraffic.org
smallpresstraffic.blogspot.com

↑ Index

21. Barrett Watten

*Publication announcement: *Diasporic Avant-Gardes

Thu 3 Sep 2009

DIASPORIC AVANT-GARDES
Experimental Poetics and Cultural Displacement
Edited by Carrie Noland and Barrett Watten

Published by Palgrave Macmillan
288 pages / $90.00 - Hardcover (0-230-61629-1)
http://www.palgrave-usa.com/catalog/product.aspx?isbn=0230616291

20% discount flyer available here:
http://www.english.wayne.edu/fac_pages/ewatten/pdfs/diasporic%20avant-gardes.pdf

Ask your librarian to order Diasporic Avant-Gardes!

Diasporic Avant-Gardes draws into dialogue two differing traditions of poetic practice: the diasporic and the avant-garde. This interdisciplinary collection examines the unacknowledged affinities (and crucial differences) between avant-garde and diasporic formal strategies and social formations. The essays foreground the creation of experimental forms and investigate the specific contexts of cultural displacement and language use that inform their poetics.

Praise for Diasporic Avant-Gardes

“This is an important, indeed a crucial project. It will constitute a formative contribution to the discussion of an expanded field of contemporary poetics. The claim the essays make, quite properly, amounts less to a positivity than a negative solidarity that respects the radical particularity of writers and/or movements while noticing their common refusal of traditional forms and identity politics. The aim in bringing these essays together is to create dialogues across difference that expose, nonetheless, important strategic similarities among a variety of radical experimental writings.”Adalaide Morris, John C. Gerber Professor of English, University of Iowa

“Diasporic Avant Gardes opens up innovative ways of reading diasporic poetic texts in terms of avant garde experimentation and goes even further to suggest that avant gardes need to be read diasporically. It demonstrates convincingly the importance of avant garde negation to the earliest poetic experiments in the diaspora as well as the close relation of avant garde movements to the dislocations of European colonization and global displacement. The result is a superb collection of essays that imaginatively merges the experimental and the theoretical, a globalized imagination and critical daring.”J. Michael Dash, Professor of French, New York University

“This is an important book, among the best critical anthologies I've read in recent years. It is welcome proof that border crossing, of any kind, is a creative act. In rich, varied ways the contributors find form and feeling in what is articulated along the border lines. Most impressively, this volume itself, like the subject it describes, functions as a contact zone, where innovation as much as alienation perform their dizzying, difficult dance.”Amitava Kumar, author of Passport Photos

“The thirteen splendid essays collected in this volume delineate how surprising and unexpected affinities link together diasporic and avant-garde poetry: art forms that have emerged from very different social locations and seem to have incommensurable and irreconcilable goals. Noland and Watten’s generative collection enables us to see that diasporic and avant garde poets alike view domination, displacement, and dispersal as central aspects of modernity, that both groups resort to formal experimentation in response to social instability. By comparing and contrasting the similar (although not identical) ways that these poets artfully render the foreign as familiar and the familiar as foreign, Diasporic Avant Gardes shows how the people of the world can be strangely united by the very things that seem to divide us."George Lipsitz, author of Footsteps in the Dark and Time Passages

Table of contents

* Introduction--Carrie Noland and Barrett Watten
* Aimé Césaire and the Syntax of Influence--Brent Edwards
* Alan Sondheim's Internet Diaspora--Maria Damon
* Remediation and Diaspora: Kamau Brathwaite's Video-Style--Carrie Noland
* Re-opening a Poetics of Re-openings (a.k.a. 'Naked Strategic Partners')--Rodrigo Toscano
* On the Outskirts of Form: Cosmopoetics in the Shadow of NAFTA--Michael Davidson
* Franco Luambo Makiadi's Universalism and Avant-Garde Particularity--Barrett Watten
* ah noh musik dat: Speech in the Discourse of Nationalism--Mark McMorris
* On the Nomadic Circulation of Contemporary Poetics Between Europe, North America, and the Maghreb--Pierre Joris
* Diaspora and the Avant-Garde in Contemporary Black British Poetry--Lauri Ramey
* Something Nation: Radical Spaces of Performance in Linton Kwesi Johnson and cris cheek--Carla Harryman
* From Spanglish to Glossolalia: Edwin Torres's Nuyo-Futurist Utopia--Urayoán Noel
* From Bass Cathedral--Nathaniel Mackey
* From Vaduz [Performance Poem]--Bernard Heidsieck

Author Bios

Carrie Noland is a Professor of French and Comparative Literature at the University of California, Irvine. She is the author of Poetry at Stake: Lyric Aesthetics and the Challenge of Technology and Agency and Embodiment: Performing Gestures/Producing Culture.

Barrett Watten is a Professor of English at Wayne State University. He is a language-centered poet and critic of modernist and postmodern cultures and his study, The Constructivist Moment: From Material Text to Cultural Poetics, received the René Wellek Prize in 2004. He is the author of the poetry collections Frame: 1971-1990, Bad History, and Progress/Under Erasure.

For further information, contact the publishers or Barrett Watten <[redacted]>
Carrie Noland <[redacted]>

↑ Index

22. David Kirschenbaum
VIP: Now 7pm Rope-a-Dope Press Start on Thurs.
Fri 4 Sep 2009

---

please forward

Boog City presents

d.a. levy lives: celebrating the renegade press

Rope-a-Dope Press
(South Boston)

PLEASE NOTE NEW START TIME:

Thurs. Sept. 10, 7:00 p.m., free

ACA Galleries
529 W. 20th St., 5th Flr.
NYC

Event will be hosted by Rope-a-Dope editors
Robert daVies and poet Mary Walker Graham, eds.

Featuring readings from

Mary Walker Graham
Kate Schapira
Kim Gek Lin Short
Sampson Starkweather
Chris Tonelli

and music from
Erik Schoster

There will be wine, cheese, and crackers, too.

Curated and with an introduction by Boog City editor David Kirschenbaum

---

Rope-a-Dope Press http://rope-a-dope-press.blogspot.com Founded in the spring of 2007 by painter Robert daVies and poet Mary Walker Graham, Rope-a-Dope Press fosters collaboration between artists, writers, and their communities through the publication of handmade, letterpress printed broadsides, chapbooks, and artist's books.

Performer Bios

Mary Walker Graham http://distilleryboston.com Mary Walker Graham was born in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia and now lives in a restored rum distillery in South Boston. The cofounder and editor of Rope-a-Dope Press, her poems have appeared in Free Verse, OCHO, PFS Post, Poetry Magazine, and Poetry Daily.

Kate Schapira Kate Schapira lives in Providence, R.I. where she writes, teaches, and organizes the Publicly Complex Reading Series. In addition to her chapbooks with Rope-A-Dope Press, Case Fbdy. and The Painting, she's the author of The Saint's Notebook (Flying Guillotine Press), Heroes & Monsters (Portable Press at Yo-Yo Labs), and Phoenix Memory (horse less press). Her work has most recently appeared in why are we not in paradise?

Erik Schoster http://www.hecanjog.com/ Erik Schoster is a composer and sound artist based in Brooklyn by way of Madison, Wisc. Middlemarch, his second full-length record as He Can Jog (entitled) is out now on Audiobulb Records. Earlabs praises it as a "heartfelt, entertaining, and perplexing flurry of sonic excitement." He is writing and recording a new record under his given name for Ian Hawgood's excellent Home Normal imprint. This performance is based in part on that work. More information and mp3s can be found at the above site.

Kim Gek Lin Short http://songskip.blogspot.com/ Kim Gek Lin Short lives in Philadelphia with her husband and daughter. Rope-a-Dope is putting out her chapbook Run, and her chapbook The Residents is out from dancing girl press. Other new work is forthcoming in journals such as Tarpaulin Sky, Drunken Boat, and SoMa.

Sampson Starkweather Sampson Starkweather is the author of three chapbooks, The Heart is Green from So Much Waiting forthcoming from Immaculate Disciples, City of Moths a Rope-a-Dope Press production, and The Photograph from horse less press.

Chris Tonelli http://thesteinachoperation.blogspot.com/ Chris Tonelli co-curates The So and So Series and is the author of four chapbooks, most recently No Theater (Brave Men Press) and For People Who Like Gravity and Other People (Rope-A-Dope Press). New work can be found in LIT, SIR!, and the Tusculum Review. He teaches at North Carolina State University in Raleigh, where he lives with his wife Allison. ----

Directions:
C/E to 23rd St., 1/9 to 18th St.
Venue is bet. 10th and 11th avenues

Next event:

Tues. Oct. 27
Peaches and Bats (Portland, Ore.)
www.peachbats.blogspot.com

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W.28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)

↑ Index

23. David-Baptiste Chirot

NYT: 'The Anthologist' novel re poetry & trying to write intro for poetry anthology

Fri 4 Sep 2009

---

http://www.nytimes.com/2009/09/06/books/review/Orr-t.html?_r=1&nl=books&emc=booksupdateema3

'The Anthologist' By NICHOLSON BAKER reviwed by David Orr
Reviewed by DAVID ORR

Nicholson Baker's ardent novel about poetry - with its hero trying, and mostly failing, to write an anthology introduction - actually does justice to poetry.

_____ Windows Live: Keep your friends up to date with what you do online.

http://windowslive.com/Campaign/SocialNetworking?ocid=PID23285::T:WLMTAGL:ON:WL:en-US:SI_SB_online:082009

↑ Index

24. Alan C Golding

Louisville Conference CFP

Fri 4 Sep 2009

Last call for proposals for the thirty-eighth annual Louisville Conference on Literature & Culture since 1900, to be held at the University of Louisville, February 18-20, 2010. Deadline is Sept. 15, 2009, though there's a little wiggle room on that if you get in touch with me. This year's featured speakers are Michael Davidson, Helena Maria Viramontes, Mary Jo Bang, and Rita Felski. http://www.thelouisvilleconference.com/ for further details.

Alan Golding

↑ Index

25. amy king

Georgia Book Festival - This Weekend!

Fri 4 Sep 2009

Atlanta Journal-Constitution Decatur Book Festival
4 â€“ 6 September 2009 | Downtown | Atlanta, GA
http://www.decaturbookfestival.com/2009/index.php

_____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

26. judith goldman

Query about Antoine Caze, "Conceptual Lyricism: Abstract Constructions of the Self in Recent American Poetry"

Fri 4 Sep 2009

Dear all,

My thanks to the many who generously sent me citations for criticism on lyric--

I ran across the following citation:

Antoine Caze, "Conceptual Lyricism: Abstract Constructions of the Self in Recent American Poetry"
in Mark DuCharme's (great) essay "Radical Lyricality."

However, the essay is no longer at the web address listed. Any ideas about where/how to get it? Or any of Caze's other works?

Thanks for any thoughts--Judith

↑ Index

27. Mark Prejsnar

Re: Georgia Book Festival - This Weekend!

Fri 4 Sep 2009

As part of the festival, there will be a performance by James Sanders, leading the Atlanta Poets Group, at 2:15 tomorrow, at the Java Monkey coffeehouse

--mark

"Whenthey say nonsense, it's usually an accusation."

--Randy Prunty

---------- Original message from amy king <[redacted]>: ----------

> Atlanta Journal-Constitution Decatur Book Festival
> 4 â€“ 6 September 2009 | Downtown | Atlanta, GA
> http://www.decaturbookfestival.com/2009/index.php
>
> _____
>
> Amy's Alias
>
> http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

28. Lou Rowan

Re: Query about Antoine Caze, "Conceptual Lyricism: Abstract Constructions of the Self in Recent American Poetry"

Fri 4 Sep 2009

Antoine Cazé succeeded the great Marc Chénetier as president of ODELA, the European association of scholars of American culture. I'd be happy to give you his contact offline. Lou On Sep 4, 2009, at 2:18 PM, judith goldman wrote:

Dear all,

My thanks to the many who generously sent me citations for criticism on lyric--

I ran across the following citation:

Antoine Caze, "Conceptual Lyricism: Abstract Constructions of the Self in Recent American Poetry"
in Mark DuCharme's (great) essay "Radical Lyricality."

However, the essay is no longer at the web address listed. Any ideas about where/how to get it? Or any of Caze's other works?

Thanks for any thoughts--Judith

Lou Rowan

[redacted]
www.lourowan.com

1825 NE 58th St.
Seattle, WA 98105

[redacted]

↑ Index

29. Alan Sondheim
prolegomenon text and film manque film
Fri 4 Sep 2009

---

prolegomenon text and film manque film

new version of filmmanque.mp4 w/ foofwa d'imobilite and the whole sick crew full prolegomenon text for downloading (easy way to get this)

enjoy

thanks again to garrett lync

http://www.alansondheim.org/filmmanque.mp4 new version http://www.alansondheim.org/prolegomenon.txt

==
current text file: http://www.alansondheim.org/qg.txt sondheim mail-text archive: http://sondheim.rupamsunyata.org/ webpage http://www.alansondheim.org sondheimat gmail.com, panix.com
==

↑ Index

30. Alan C Golding
Theory of Lyric
Sat 5 Sep 2009

Judith,

One text that I don't think has been mentioned, though perhaps I missed it: Robert von Hallberg's Lyric Power (Chicago, 2008).

Alan Golding

↑ Index

31. John Perman
Idiolects of Silence
Sat 5 Sep 2009

John Perlman's new book, Idiolects of Silence, is available in pdf format, from Room Press, at [redacted]. Copies will be sent upon request.

↑ Index

32. Peter
Poets & Artists "Self Portrait Issue
Sat 5 Sep 2009

Poets & Artists "Self Portrait Issue, published by Didi Menendez

http://issuu.com/didimenendez/docs/poetsandartists_self-portrait

-- Peter
http://invisiblenotes.blogspot.com/
http://uncommonvision.blogspot.com/
http://poemsfromprovidence.blogspot.com/
http://uncommon-vision.blogspot.com/
You can find my art and writing updates on Twitter
https://twitter.com/ciccariello

↑ Index

33. Jennifer Karmin
Fall 2009: PETE'S BIG POETRY SERIES (NYC)
Sat 5 Sep 2009

PETE'S BIG POETRY SERIES curated by Sommer Browning

at Pete's Candy Store
709 Lorimer Street
Williamsburg -- Brooklyn, NY

September 18 â€“ Lisa Forrest, Andrew Rippeon, Janet Holmes & Jillian Weise

September 25 â€“ Jennifer Karmin, Michael Leong & Estela Lamat

October 9 â€“ Jen Hyde, Justin Taylor, Sandy Florian & Frank Sherlock

October 10 - Nick Flynn, Alex Lemon & Beth Bachmann

October 23 â€“ Paige Taggart, Sharon Dolin, Esther Smith & Patrick Lucy

November 6 â€“ Julian Billups, Cate Peebles, Thomas Sayers Ellis & Wendy S. Walters

November 13 â€” No, Dear Issue Release Party

November 20 â€“ Nate Pritts, Leigh Stein, Karin Randolph & Matthew Rohrer December 4 â€“ Crystal Williams, Tyrone Williams, Jackie Clark & Tara Betts

http://www.petescandystore.com/bigpoetry/index.html

↑ Index

34. peter ganick
NEW press' first 7 titles.
Sun 6 Sep 2009

---

chalk editions is a new press publishing experimental literature free to view, download, and print. we invite you to check our first seven titles. future ebooks are planned with john m. bennett, michael basinski, john crouse, zachary count lawrence, sheila e. murphy, and others. at this time we are not soliciting manuscripts, but will be so in the future.

>
> Ivan Arguelles, SATURDAY AFTERNOON IN THE UPANISHADS
http://www.scribd.com/doc/19362306/Ivan-Arguelles-SATURDAY-AFTERNOON-IN-THE-UPANISHADS

>
> Ivan Arguelles, SECRET POEM
http://www.scribd.com/doc/19445335/Ivan-Arguelles-SECRET-POEM

>
> Peter Ganick, recent, how recent http://www.scribd.com/doc/17097034/Peter-Ganick-recent-how-recent

>
> Jim Leftwich, BEGET STATESMAN
http://www.scribd.com/doc/18003367/Jim-Leftwich-BEGET-STATESMAN

>
> Jim Leftwich, TIME JUNK
http://www.scribd.com/doc/17243139/Jim-Leftwich-TIME-JUNK

Jukka-Pekka Kervinen, Bad-Knob
http://www.scribd.com/doc/17044277/JukkaPekka-Kervinen-Bad-Knob

>
> Alan Sondheim, Pushing to Convulsion
http://www.scribd.com/doc/19258792/Alan-Sondheim-Pushing-to-Convulsion

peter ganick / jukka-pekka kervinen
chalk editions
http://chalkeditions.co.cc

--
"the mind that wants to wander,
around a corner,
is an unwise mind....."
  -- george harrison

literary blog: http://pganickz.livejournal.com new publisher: http://chalkeditions.co.cc connection to sites: http://peterganick.info

↑ Index

35. peter ganick
chalk editions, hold the press, an addendum
Sun 6 Sep 2009

---

this just in! ---- also available is: sheila e. murphy's eBook:

*circumsanct *
http://www.scribd.com/doc/19475026/Sheila-E-Murphy-circumsanct

---

peter ganick / jukka-pekka kervinen
chalk editions
http://chalkeditions.co.cc

↑ Index

36. Alan Sondheim
chalk editions, first eight titles
Sun 6 Sep 2009

Date: Sun, 6 Sep 2009 21:58:24 +0300
From: Jukka-Pekka Kervinen <[redacted]>

chalk editions is a new press publishing experimental literature free to view, download, and print. we invite you to check our first eight titles. future ebooks are planned with john m. bennett, michael basinski, john crouse, zachary count lawrence, sheila e. murphy, and others. at this time we are not soliciting manuscripts, but will be so in the future.

Sheila E. Murphy: circumsanct
http://www.scribd.com/doc/19475026/Sheila-E-Murphy-circumsanct

Ivan Arguelles: Saturday Afternoon in the Upanishads
http://www.scribd.com/doc/19362306/Ivan-Arguelles-SATURDAY-AFTERNOON-IN-THE-UPANISHADS

Ivan Arguelles: Secret Poem
http://www.scribd.com/doc/19445335/Ivan-Arguelles-SECRET-POEM

Peter Ganick: recent/how recent
http://www.scribd.com/doc/17097034/Peter-Ganick-recent-how-recent

Jim Leftwich: BEGET STATESMAN
http://www.scribd.com/doc/18003367/Jim-Leftwich-BEGET-STATESMAN

Jim Leftwich: TIME JUNK
http://www.scribd.com/doc/17243139/Jim-Leftwich-TIME-JUNK

Jukka-Pekka Kervinen: bad knob
http://www.scribd.com/doc/17044277/JukkaPekka-Kervinen-Bad-Knob

Alan Sondheim: Pushing to Convulsion
http://www.scribd.com/doc/19258792/Alan-Sondheim-Pushing-to-Convulsion

jukka-pekka kervinen / peter ganick
chalk editions
http://chalkeditions.co.cc

↑ Index

37. aaron tieger
RECENTLY CLOUDS by Jess Mynes and Aaron Tieger
Sun 6 Sep 2009

Petrichord Books is very pleased to announce the publication of the long-awaited followup to these poets' COLTSFOOT INSULARITY (Fewer & Further, 2005). Four years in the making, this book sees these two poets and friends once again charting vernal manifestations in pastorals both interior and exterior. Written in correspondence in May, 2005, these poems mix and remix and emerge as a unique, faceted thing.

RECENTLY CLOUDS is available for $6 via paypal at http://www.petrichord.com/titles.php

(where you can also view sample poems)

or by sending a check (payable to Aaron Tieger) to the address on the website.

THANK YOU FOR SUPPORTING INDEPENDENT POETRY!

Aaron Tieger
Publisher, Petrichord Books

↑ Index

38. aaron tieger
Petrichord Books catalogue
Sun 6 Sep 2009

Now available from Petrichord Books:

RECENTLY CLOUDS by Jess Mynes and Aaron Tieger

Four years in the making, the long awaited followup to COLTSFOOT INSULARITY (Fewer & Further, 2005) sees these two poets and friends once again charting vernal manifestations in pastorals both interior and exterior. Written in correspondence in May, 2005, these poems mix and remix and emerge as a unique, faceted thing.

PHANTASMAL REPEATS by Guillermo Parra

Spare, abstract, thoughtful, the poems in PHANTASMAL REPEATS move sneakily within an insular, ambient framework. They are self-referential to an extent but still viscerally linked to the world at large.

Available in two eye-catching color schemes: red on curry or red on pool.

OUT ANOTHER by Michael Carr

In Michael Carr's OUT ANOTHER a mentholated wind blows the reader from deja to jamais vu and back, in a poemscape that lies distinctively in between. These poems, like continental noir, present a facade that may or may not be real.

END NOTEBOOK by Geoffrey Olsen

Of END NOTEBOOK, Brenda Iijima writes "Subtle ambient registrations accrue and gracefully dissipate in Geoff Olsen's End Notebook. Sensitive to atmospheric pressures these gestural phrasings shimmer. There is no subtext here but being, itself."

SUMMER POEMS by Aaron Tieger

Limited edition pamphlet. Short poems of heat and despair.

DOKUMENT by Catherine Meng

In a sequence populated by iconic and diverse figures from Peachy Peach and Glenn Gould to Bon Jovi and someone called Bullet, Meng writes a fragmentary lyricism informed by the book's epigraph (from Philip Roth): "It's impossible to report anything faithfully other than one's own temperature; everything is allegory."

Please visit http://www.petrichord.com for cover images, sample poems, and to purchase any of these titles.

Thank you for supporting independent poetry!

Aaron Tieger
Publisher
Petrichord Books

↑ Index

39. Daniel Godston

soundwalk & Bauhaus9090 event

Mon 7 Sep 2009

You are invited to attend two exciting events happening on Saturday, September 12th --

The World Listening Project will facilitate a soundwalk which will happen by and around the Michael Reese Hospital campus (10 a.m.-11 a.m.). Soundmarks during this soundwalk will include the chainlink fence along the perimeter of the Michael Reese Hospital campus; the wind in the trees in front of the Singer Pavilion; a security guard's car tires rolling over gravel on the MRH campus; traffic on Lake Shore Drive; demolition and earthmoving equipment being operated at MRH; bikers, pedestrians, and automobile drivers/passengers on the streets by MRH; and trains traveling the north-south tracks (between MRH and LSD).

This soundwalk will start on the northwest corner of 31st St. and Cottage Grove Dr. We will walk along the fenced-in perimeter of the MRH campus in a clockwise direction, and then we will turn around and return to the soundwalk's starting point. This soundwalk is free and open to the public; it is being organized by Chad Clark, Jennifer Mosier, Norman Long, Eric Leonardson, and Dan Godston.

Following the soundwalk, a Bauhaus9090 performance event will happen in Chicago's Bauhaus District, beginning at 11:30 a.m. Jamie Kazay, Matthew Barton, Amanda Marbais, Kevin Kilroy, and Dan Godston will read selections of their poetry. Alpha Bruton will be painting in performance. This event will happen in Lake Meadows Park (3117 S. Rhodes Ave., Chicago, IL 60616, http://tinyurl.com/mksn77).

These events are free and open to the public.

Bauhaus9090: http://www.bauhaus9090.org
Chicago's Bauhaus District: http://www.savemrh.com/bauhaus
Midwest Society for Acoustic Ecology: http://mwsae.org World Listening Project: http://www.worldlisteningproject.org

↑ Index

40. Doug Holder

Interview with poet Tino Villanueva with Doug Holder

Mon 7 Sep 2009

Go to http://dougholder.blogspot.com Boston Area Small Press and Poetry Scene

↑ Index

41. Steve Halle

Paul Martínez Pompa @ Seven Corners

Mon 7 Sep 2009

Read three poems from Paul Martínez Pompa's new collection My Kill Adore Him (University of Notre Dame Press, 2009) at Seven Corners<http://sevencornerspoetry.blogspot.com/2009/09/featured-poet-paul-martinez-pompa.html> .

Also enjoy recently featured poems by Francesco Levato<http://sevencornerspoetry.blogspot.com/2009/08/featured-poet-francesco-levato.html>, Chip Corwin<http://sevencornerspoetry.blogspot.com/2009/07/featured-poet-chip-corwin.html>, Andrew Lundwall<http://sevencornerspoetry.blogspot.com/2009/07/featured-poet-andrew-lundwall.html>, Naomi Buck Palagi<http://sevencornerspoetry.blogspot.com/2009/07/featured-poet-andrew-lundwall.html>, Amish Trivedi<http://sevencornerspoetry.blogspot.com/2009/04/featured-poet-amish-trivedi.html>, and Nicolás Mansito III<http://sevencornerspoetry.blogspot.com/2009/03/featured-poet-nicolas-mansito-iii.html> .

Cheers,
Steve Halle
Editor

↑ Index

42. Camille Martin

new on Rogue Embryo's blog

Mon 7 Sep 2009

New on Rogue Embryo:

* St. Roch Chapel in New Orleans, a Parallel Universe
* Interview on rob mclennan's blog
* Parallel Universes Redux – St. Joseph's Altar in New Orleans, a Hybrid Feast

http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

Cheers!

Camille Martin
http://www.camillemartin.ca
http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

↑ Index

43. Tony Trigilio

Don Share & Emily Warn at Columbia College Chicago

Mon 7 Sep 2009

Please join us for the first event of our Fall 2009 Reading Series . . . .

DON SHARE & EMILY WARN

Wednesday, September 9 (5:30 p.m.)
Columbia College Chicago
Music Center Concert Hall
1014 South Michigan Avenue

Free and open to the public
For more information, call [redacted]

DON SHARE is Senior Editor of Poetry magazine in Chicago. He has been Poetry Editor of Harvard Review and Partisan Review, Editor of Literary Imagination, and Curator of Poetry at Harvard University. His books include Squandermania (Salt Publishing), Union (Zoo Press), Seneca in English (Penguin Classics), and a critical edition of Basil Bunting's poems (forthcoming, Faber and Faber). His translations of Miguel Hernández, collected in I Have Lots of Heart (Bloodaxe Books) were awarded the Times Literary Supplement Translation Prize, the Premio Valle Inclán Prize, and the PEN/New England Discovery Award. He received his Ph.D. from the Editorial Institute at Boston University.

EMILY WARN is a poet, essayist, teacher, and technologist who most recently served as founding editor of poetryfoundation.org. Born in San Francisco and raised in Michigan, she is the author of three books of poetry: The Leaf Path (1982), The Novice Insomniac (1996) and Shadow Architect (2008). Her essays and poems appear widely, including in Poetry, BookForum, Blackbird, Parabola, The Seattle Times, and The Writers' Almanac. She taught creative writing at Lynchburg College and The Bush School, and was a Stegner Fellow at Stanford University. She currently divides her time between Seattle and Twisp, Washington.

↑ Index

44. Michael Fournier

Re: Question about Zukofsky's "A" Index

Tue 8 Sep 2009

Hi,

I've been meaning to reply to this, but can only do so briefly now--I have no access to my books, which are in storage following a minor natural disaster.

But according to some notes, see page 449 of the Scroggins bio for details on the preparation of the index.

Following the trail of index entries for "a," "the," and "an" is an interesting and frustrating enterprise, but it's interesting to note that initial (no pun intended) citations of "a" in the index lead us to instances related to Bach. As for "the," its first citation at page 175 quotes Paul Zukofsky saying "The horse bends down." And subsequent instance of "the" seem to associate that article with family, Paul in particular--but others might read these instances differently.

Or it might all turn out to be a numerical joke. The index cites 71 instances of "a," 73 of "the," and 40 of "an." That's 184 articles, or in roman numerals CLXXXIV, which might indicate "Celia Louis 1934." Those with Poem of a Life handy might track down possible details there. According to Wickipedia, Celia and Louis met in '33, and Louis began working for the WPA (on an index, as it happens) in 1934. But Wickipedia is often imprecise.

Lots of interesting things happen in the index, which invites creative speculation often difficult to support. E.g., the three words most frequently cited in the index are, in descending order, "man," "eye," and "day." Call me crazy, but to my ears, these words--while naming important "themes" in the poem--also partially echo the first words of the Iliad -- "menin aiede." If Zukofsky didn't intend this echo (and he probably didn't), he would have loved the serendipity.

More on this when I get my books back. It would be fun to keep this thread alive: I don't understand why the index doesn't get more attention. Panel somewhere, anyone?

Michael Fournier

Peter Quartermain wrote:
> 31 August
>
> This is an oldie, but no one has replied, so:
>
> Hugh Kenner once told me that LZ originally prepared an idex to "A" which > listed ONLY instances of "a" and "the" -- whether it listed all of them I > know not, but I doubt it -- and Celia said that was totally inadequate as an > index -- I think she was the one who then compiled the Index we now have.
> Maybe Paul Zukofsky knows. Maybe Mark Scroggins knows too. Mark?
>
> More interesting, perhaps, would be to follow up the index entries and > figure out why those instances were worthy of inclusion while others > weren't, but I must say I have better things to do right now. Anyone want to > get a PhD doing it?
>
> P
>
> =========
> Peter Quartermain
> 846 Keefer Street
> Vancouver
> BC Canada V6A 1Y7
> [redacted] (voice and fax)
> [redacted]
> =========
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On > Behalf Of UbuWeb
> Sent: 11 August 2009 09:58 AM
> To: [redacted]

> Subject: Question about Zukofsky's "A" Index
>
> Does anyone know why Zukofsky didn't index every instance of "a" or "the" or > any number of other words? "a" appears on page 21 and is not listed in the > index. And of course there are hundreds of instances of the word "the"
> beginning on page 1, not only between the pages of 175 and 563 in the 826
> page book as indexed.
>
> Here's the listings for a:
>
> a, 1, 103, 130, 131, 138, 161, 168, 173-175, 177, 185, 186, 196, 199, 203, > 212, 226-228, 232, 234, 235, 239, 241, 243, 245-248, 260, 270, 281, 282, > 288, 291, 296, 297, 299, 302, 323, 327, 328, 351, 353, 377, 380382, 385,
> 391-394, 397, 402, 404407, 416, 418, 426, 433, 434, 435, 436, 438, 448, 457, > 461, 463, 465, 470, 473, 474, 477-481, 491, 493497, 499, 500, 505, 507, > 508-511, 536-539, 560-563
>
> and the listings for the:
>
> the, 175, 179, 181, 182, 184, 187, 191193, 196, 199, 202, 203, 205, 206, > 208, 211, 215, 217, 221, 224-226. 228, 231, 232, 234, 238, 239, 241, 243, > 245-248, 260, 270, 285, 288, 290, 291, 296, 297, 302, 316, 321324, 327, 328, > 336, 338, 342, 368, 375, 379, 380, 383-387, 390-397, 402, 404, 406, 407, > 412, 416, 426428, 434-436, 440, 441, 463, 465, 468, 470, 473, 474, 476-479, > 494, 496, 497, 499, 506-511, 536-539, 560-563
>
> With appreciation and many thanks in advance.
>
>
> UbuWeb
> http://ubu.com
>
>
>
>
>
>

↑ Index

45. Joel Weishaus
"The Gateless Gate" Pages 33-34
Tue 8 Sep 2009

Dear Friends and Colleagues:

Here are pages 33-34 (one screen) of "The Gateless Gate":
http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/Gate/Pgs%2031-32.htm

Archive site:
http://www.cddc.vt.edu/host/weishaus/Gate/Pgs%2033-34.htm

Introduction:
http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/Gate/Intro.htm

As always, thank you to those of you who have written to me on this project. If you don't want to receive these notices, please let me know, and I will delete your name from the list.

-Joel

↑ Index

46. UbuWeb
Kenneth Goldsmith sings Roland Barthes with a live String Quartet
Tue 8 Sep 2009

09/11 @ 8:00pm - Kenneth Goldsmith sings Roland Barthes with a live String Quartet

http://issueprojectroom.org/2009/08/10/kenneth-goldsmith-reads-roland-barthes-with-live-string-quartet-playing-vivaldi-and-webern/

Issue Project Room
The (OA) Can Factory
232 3rd Street,
3rd Floor
Brooklyn, NY 11215
http://issueprojectroom.org/

A prior incarnation:
Kenneth Goldsmith Sings Roland Barthes (13'05")
Music by The Allman Brothers
Recorded at the WFMU studios, Jersey City, New Jersey, 2006 (MP3)

http://mediamogul.seas.upenn.edu/pennsound/authors/Goldsmith/Theory/Kenneth-Goldsmith-Sings-Barthes.mp3

UbuWeb
http://ubu.com

↑ Index

47. Cara Benson

Sous Rature 3ssue online

Tue 8 Sep 2009

It's true.

http://www.necessetics.com/3ssue.html

Shaula Evans
Ross Priddle
Aidan Thompson
Lydia Davis
Kyle Schlesinger
Uchay Joel Chima
Charles Freeland
Rebecca Wolff
Stephen Webber
Edwin Torres
Joel Chace
Danielle Pafunda
Urayoán Noel
Douglas A. Martin
Stephanie Strickland
Alejandro Crawford
Jared Hayes & Joseph Cooper
Erin Casey
Russsell Pascatore
Adam Katz
Thierry Brunet & Jeremy Geddes
Anselm Berrigan
Donald Breckenridge
Michael Basinski
Claire Hero
Judith Goldman
Jerome Rothenberg
Chris Rizzo & Katherine Sullivan
Anne Gorrick
Ching-In Chen
Andrew Zawacki

miniphillyphocus ::
dorothea lasky

adam fieled
paul siegell hassen jenn mccreary
sarah birl
alex kanevsky
mytili jagannathan

_____

http://www.necessetics.com {homepage}

http://www.necessetics.com/sousrature.html {journal}

↑ Index

48. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: Question about Zukofsky's "A" Index
Tue 8 Sep 2009

Now, if one applies a word processor to that task -is that something to cry or laugh over?

Zukofsky, processed out.

Ciao,

Murat

On Tue, Sep 8, 2009 at 9:12 AM, Michael Fournier <
[redacted]> wrote:

> Hi,
>
> I've been meaning to reply to this, but can only do so briefly now--I have no access to my books, which are in storage following a minor natural disaster.
>
> But according to some notes, see page 449 of the Scroggins bio for details on the preparation of the index.
>
> Following the trail of index entries for "a," "the," and "an" is an interesting and frustrating enterprise, but it's interesting to note that initial (no pun intended) citations of "a" in the index lead us to instances related to Bach. As for "the," its first citation at page 175 quotes Paul Zukofsky saying "The horse bends down." And subsequent instance of "the" seem to associate that article with family, Paul in particular--but others might read these instances differently.
>
> Or it might all turn out to be a numerical joke. The index cites 71

instances of "a," 73 of "the," and 40 of "an." That's 184 articles, or in roman numerals CLXXXIV, which might indicate "Celia Louis 1934." Those with Poem of a Life handy might track down possible details there. According to Wickipedia, Celia and Louis met in '33, and Louis began working for the WPA (on an index, as it happens) in 1934. But Wickipedia is often imprecise.

Lots of interesting things happen in the index, which invites creative speculation often difficult to support. E.g., the three words most frequently cited in the index are, in descending order, "man," "eye," and "day." Call me crazy, but to my ears, these words--while naming important "themes" in the poem--also partially echo the first words of the Iliad -- "menin aiede." If Zukofsky didn't intend this echo (and he probably didn't), he would have loved the serendipity.

More on this when I get my books back. It would be fun to keep this thread alive: I don't understand why the index doesn't get more attention. Panel somewhere, anyone?

Michael Fournier

Peter Quartermain wrote:

31 August

This is an oldie, but no one has replied, so:

Hugh Kenner once told me that LZ originally prepared an idex to "A" which listed ONLY instances of "a" and "the" -- whether it listed all of them I know not, but I doubt it -- and Celia said that was totally inadequate as an index -- I think she was the one who then compiled the Index we now have. Maybe Paul Zukofsky knows. Maybe Mark Scroggins knows too. Mark?

More interesting, perhaps, would be to follow up the index entries and figure out why those instances were worthy of inclusion while others weren't, but I must say I have better things to do right now. Anyone want to get a PhD doing it?
P

=========
Peter Quartermain
846 Keefer Street
Vancouver
BC Canada V6A 1Y7
[redacted] (voice and fax)
[redacted]

=========

-----Original Message-----
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of UbuWeb
Sent: 11 August 2009 09:58 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Question about Zukofsky's "A" Index

Does anyone know why Zukofsky didn't index every instance of "a" or "the" or any number of other words? "a" appears on page 21 and is not listed in the index. And of course there are hundreds of instances of the word "the" beginning on page 1, not only between the pages of 175 and 563 in the 826 page book as indexed.

Here's the listings for a:

a, 1, 103, 130, 131, 138, 161, 168, 173-175, 177, 185, 186, 196, 199, 203, 212, 226-228, 232, 234, 235, 239, 241, 243, 245-248, 260, 270, 281, 282, 288, 291, 296, 297, 299, 302, 323, 327, 328, 351, 353, 377, 380382, 385, 391-394, 397, 402, 404407, 416, 418, 426, 433, 434, 435, 436, 438, 448, 457, 461, 463, 465, 470, 473, 474, 477-481, 491, 493497, 499, 500, 505, 507, 508-511, 536-539, 560-563

and the listings for the:

the, 175, 179, 181, 182, 184, 187, 191193, 196, 199, 202, 203, 205, 206, 208, 211, 215, 217, 221, 224-226. 228, 231, 232, 234, 238, 239, 241, 243, 245-248, 260, 270, 285, 288, 290, 291, 296, 297, 302, 316, 321324, 327, 328, 336, 338, 342, 368, 375, 379, 380, 383-387, 390-397, 402, 404, 406, 407, 412, 416, 426428, 434-436, 440, 441, 463, 465, 468, 470, 473, 474, 476-479,
494, 496, 497, 499, 506-511, 536-539, 560-563
With appreciation and many thanks in advance.

UbuWeb
http://ubu.com

guidelines

↑ Index

49. steve russell
Re: Poets & Artists “Self Portrait Issue
Tue 8 Sep 2009

_____
From: Peter <ciccariello@

_____
From: Peter <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Saturday, September 5, 2009 4:48:32 PM
Subject: Poets & Artists â€œSelf Portrait Issue

Poets & Artists â€œSelf Portrait Issue, published by Didi Menendez

http://issuu.com/didimenendez/docs/poetsandartists_self-portrait

-- Peter
http://invisiblenotes.blogspot.com/
http://uncommonvision.blogspot.com/
http://poemsfromprovidence.blogspot.com/
http://uncommon-vision.blogspot.com/
You can find my art and writing updates on Twitter
https://twitter.com/ciccariello

↑ Index

50. Joel Weishaus
"The Gateless Gate" Pages 33-34 (Correct link)
Tue 8 Sep 2009

Dear Friends and Colleagues:

Sorry that I sent a link to the wrong pages earlier today!:

Here are the new pages, 33-34 (one screen):
http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/Gate/Pgs%2033-34.htm

Introduction:
http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/Gate/Intro.htm

As always, thank you to those of you who have written to me on this project. If you don't want to receive these notices, please let me know, and I will delete your name from the list.

-Joel

↑ Index

51. amy king
HOWL ! Festival 2009 Schedule [on behalf of Nathaniel Siegel]
Tue 8 Sep 2009

Â Â Thursday Sept 10th, 2009 8pm to 10pm
Poetry Turn On ! A HOWL! Festival Event Hosted by Nathaniel Siegel
Parish Hall at St. Markâ€™s Church in the Bowery
131 East 10th Street @ Second Avenue
Suggested donation $10.00 to benefit the HOWL ! HELP Fund.
Advance tickets:Â http://www.brownpapertickets.com/event/79375Tickets also available, cash only, at the door.Â Come hear poets from The Bowery Poetry Club, Cave Canem,
A Gathering of the Tribes, Nuyorican Poets Cafe, and The Poetry Project.Â Scheduled to read and perform: FromÂ The Bowery Poetry Club:poets Eliel Lucero, Lynne Procope, Shappy Seasholtz, Jean Ann Verlee.
FromÂ Cave Canem: poets E. J. Antonio, Evan Burton, Juliet Howard, Nicole Sealey, Camille Rankine.Â FromÂ A Gathering of the Tribes:poets Steve Cannon, Steve Dalachinsky,Yuko Otomo, Amy Ouzoonian,Chavisa Woods.Â FromÂ Nuyorican Poets Cafe: poets Samuel Diaz,Daniel Gallant, Carlos Andres Gomez, Mariposa.Â FromÂ The Poetry Project:poets Jim Behrle, MacGregor Card, Paul Foster Johnson, Patricia Spears Jones.Â More info:Â http://eastvillagehowler.blogspot.com/2009/08/poetry-turn-on.htmlÂ Â September 15th, 2009 8pmEverything Is Known: Ginsberg and Teaching Parish Hall at St. Mark's Church in the Bowery
131 East 10th Street, New York City
$10. Contribution at the door to benefit â€œHOWL ! Emergency Life Projectâ€Advance tickets:Â http://www.brownpapertickets.com/event/79376Tickets also available, cash only, at the door.
Howl Festival â€˜09 presentsÂ a panel and open discussion on Allen Ginsberg and teaching. The panelists include poets and writers who have worked with Ginsberg, studied with him, and gone on to teach others. The panelists are: Eliot Katz, Andy Clausen, Steven Taylor, Brenda Coultas, Anselm Berrigan, David Carter, and Bob Rosenthal.Â More info:Â http://eastvillagehowler.blogspot.com/2009/08/everything-is-known-ginsberg-and.htmlÂ Â Thursday, September 17, 7:00 PM HOWL ! ARTS PROJECT 2009: FILM SERIES presentsÂ Allen Ginsberg on Film
The Millennium Film Workshop,
66 East 4th Street, NY NY 10003.

Programs are subject to change.
Advance Tickets:Â www.brownpapertickets.com/event/79647
Admission: $10Â to benefit the HOWL ! HELP Fund.Allen Ginsberg on Film: Screen Test, Couch, Wholly Communion, Pull My Daisy

Introduction by Callie Angell, Adjunct Curator, The Andy Warhol Film Project, Whitney Museum of American Art: SCREEN TEST, 1966, directed by Andy Warhol. Cast: Allen Ginsberg. B/W, silent, 4 min. 16mm print courtesy of The Museum of Modern Art Circulating Film Library.Â A portrait of Allen Ginsberg filmed by Andy Warhol on December 4, 1966. This was one of the very last of the hundreds of screen tests that Warhol shot of well-known personalities from the poetry, music, fashion, film, and other creative worlds that visited his famous Factory. COUCH, 1964, directed by Andy Warhol. Cast: Allen Ginsberg, Jack Kerouac, Gregory Corso, Peter Orlovsky, and others. B/W, silent, 52 min. 16mm print courtesy of The Museum of Modern Art Circulating Film Library. â€œWarhol had filmed Ginsberg once before in 1964 when he shot several rolls of a historic gathering of Ginsberg and his fellow Beats Jack Kerouac, Gregory Corso, and Peter Orlovsky hanging out in and around the Factory couch.â€ (Callie Angell) Introduction by Paul Cronin, author, filmmaker and historian: WHOLLY COMMUNION, 1965, Peter Whitehead. Cast: Gregory Corso, Harry Fanlight, Lawrence Ferlinghetti, Allen Ginsberg, Michael Horovitz, Ernst Jandl, Christopher Logue, Adrian Mitchell, Alexander Trocchi. B/W, sound, 35 min. 16mm print courtesy of The New York Public Library, with the permission of Peter Whitehead and [distributor]. â€œPeter Whitehead captures the unexpected, the intensity and the excitement of a Happening, as 7000 people jam into Londonâ€™s Albert Hall on June 11, 1965 for four hours of poetry reading by many Beat poets.â€ (New York Public Library Catalogue) Excerpts fromÂ IN THE BEGINNING WAS THE IMAGE: CONVERSATIONS WITH PETER WHITEHEAD, 2006, directed by Paul Cronin. Cast: Peter Whitehead. B/W and color, sound. DVD courtesy of Paul Cronin. Historian/filmmaker Paul Cronin interviews Peter Whitehead, the filmmaker of WHOLLY COMMUNION, about the significance of this unique Beat poetry event. PULL MY DAISY, 1959, directed by Robert Frank and Alfred Leslie. Cast: Allen Ginsberg, Gregory Corso, Larry Rivers, Peter Orlovsky, David Amram, Richard Bellamy, Alice Neel, Sally Gross, Pablo Frank, Denise Parker, Delphine Seyrig, Jack Kerouac (narrator), Music by David Amram. B/W, sound, 29 min. 16mm print courtesy Museum of Fine Arts, Houston. â€œPULL MY DAISY is a classic look at the soul of the beat generation, made with writers Jack Kerouac and Allen Ginsberg, and painters Alfred Lesllie, Larry Rivers, and Alice Neel. It was written and narrated by Kerouac, based on his unproduced play â€˜The Beat Generation.â€™ It tells the story of a bishop (Richard Bellamy) and his mother (Alice Neel) who pay a visit to Milo, a railroad worker. At the same time his poet friends, Ginsberg, Peter Orlovsky, and Gregory Corso, hang around quizzing the bishop about the meaning of life and its everyday relationship to art and poetry.â€ (Museum of Fine Arts catalogue)Â Â _____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

52. Kimmelman, Burt

Panelist Needed for Panel on Ekphrastic Poetry, All Day Poetry Conference in NJ on October 20th

Wed 9 Sep 2009

Hi Everyone,

One more panelist is needed for a panel on ekphrastic poetry, which will be part of an all-day poetry conference at Centenary College in NJ on October 20th. If you are interested then please contact me asap at [redacted]<mailto:[redacted]>.

Thanks,

Burt Kimmelman

↑ Index

53. Laura Hinton

Announcing new poetry book

Wed 9 Sep 2009

Announcing the release of my new poetry book, Sisyphus My Love (To Record a Dream in a Bathtub), from BlazeVox Books.

Available through Small Press Distribution<http://www.spdbooks.org/Producte/9781935402268/sisyphus-my-love-to-record-a-dream-in-a-bathtub.aspx?rf=1>or
at http://www.blazevox.org

"Once there was a time, before this and before that, a time of metaphoric remembrances and repetitions, virtual rehearsals. “The rhythm of film like poetry” becomes the rhythm of poetry like film “to remain inside and outside at once.” Funny outrageous dark dreams are real, wherein a smaller point size of type determines infinitives. “Sisyphus died and came back that week,” back to the beaches of the Riviera, the old “New City,” where the radical “I” was an Orpheus who did not turn around but instead rhymes “bleak” and “chic.” Suddenly there are gorgeous enhanced images, photos not illustrative but rather making a concordance between text and image à new language of poetry, memoir, drama. Alert and alive, this encounter is like no other Sisyphus." —Norma Cole

*

*

--
Laura Hinton
Professor of English
City College of New York
http://www.mermaidtenementpress.com
http://www.chantdelasirene.com

↑ Index

54. Séamas Cain
... grace & delicacy, in the Zen sense
Wed 9 Sep 2009

On Thursday, September 10th, 2009, IMRAM, the annual Irish-language literary festival, will present a special evening of performances in homage to the life & poetry of Máire Mhac an tSaoi.

This event will take place at 6:30 p.m. at EAGLAIS ÚINITÉIREACH (the Unitarian Church), 112 West St. Stephen's Green in Dublin, Ireland. Admission is free.

Máire Mhac an tSaoi was born in 1922. She is one of the most important figures in contemporary Irish literature. She has a knowledge of the Munster dialect of Irish that is second-to-none. Her technical mastery of traditional forms melds with potent self-expression to produce modern poetry of grace & delicacy. Indeed, the poetry of Máire Mhac an tSaoi is centered, in the Zen sense of centered. Her collections of poetry include "Margadh na Saoire," "Codladh an Ghaiscígh," "An Galar Dubhach," & "Shoa agus Dánta Eile."

This evening of special performances drawn from the work of Máire Mhac an tSaoi will feature Nuala Ní Dhomhnaill, Máirín Nic Eoin, Bríd Ní Mhóráin, Fionola Ó Siochrú, Eoghan Ó hAnluain, Liam Ó Muirthile & Gabriel Rosenstock.

Thursday,
10 September 2009,
6:30 p.m.,
EAGLAIS ÚINITÉIREACH,
112 West St. Stephen's Green,
Dublin, Ireland

Free admission

For additional information about the IMRAM Festival, go to ...

http://www.poetryireland.ie/whats-on/imram.html

http://www.facebook.com/pages/IMRAM-IRISH-LANGUAGE-LITERATURE-FESTIVAL

http://www.facebook.com/pages/IMRAM-FEILE-LITRIOCHTA-GAEILGE

Questions may be put to
Liam Carson, Director of IMRAM Festival at ...

[redacted]

Books featured at
the IMRAM Festival
may be purchased
from ...

Connolly Books,
[redacted]
43 East Essex Street,
Dublin 2, Ireland

beir bua,

Séamas Cain
http://seamascain.writernetwork.com
http://www.freewebs.com/seamascain
http://alazanto.org/seamascain

↑ Index

55. Eric Elshtain

New Beard of Bees Chapbook

Wed 9 Sep 2009

Please take a gander at this small collection of rule-based prose poems by Mark Cunningham.

http://www.beardofbees.com/cunningham.html

Best,

Eric E.
Eric Elshtain
Editor

Beard of Bees Press
http://www.beardofbees.com

↑ Index

56. Michael Fournier
Re: Question about Zukofsky's "A" Index
Wed 9 Sep 2009

I used MS Word and Excel. Sometimes I cried. Sometimes I laughed.

Cheers,

Michael

Murat Nemet-Nejat wrote:
> Now, if one applies a word processor to that task -is that something to cry > or laugh over?
>
> Zukofsky, processed out.
>
> Ciao,
>
> Murat
>
>
> On Tue, Sep 8, 2009 at 9:12 AM, Michael Fournier <
> [redacted]> wrote:
>
>
>> Hi,
>>
>> I've been meaning to reply to this, but can only do so briefly now--I have >> no access to my books, which are in storage following a minor natural >> disaster.
>>
>> But according to some notes, see page 449 of the Scroggins bio for details >> on the preparation of the index.
>>
>> Following the trail of index entries for "a," "the," and "an" is an >> interesting and frustrating enterprise, but it's interesting to note that >> initial (no pun intended) citations of "a" in the index lead us to instances >> related to Bach. As for "the," its first citation at page 175 quotes Paul >> Zukofsky saying "The horse bends down." And subsequent instance of "the"
>> seem to associate that article with family, Paul in particular--but others >> might read these instances differently.

>>
>> Or it might all turn out to be a numerical joke. The index cites 71 >> instances of "a," 73 of "the," and 40 of "an." That's 184 articles, or in >> roman numerals CLXXXIV, which might indicate "Celia Louis 1934." Those with >> Poem of a Life handy might track down possible details there. According to >> Wickipedia, Celia and Louis met in '33, and Louis began working for the WPA
>> (on an index, as it happens) in 1934. But Wickipedia is often imprecise.
>>
>> Lots of interesting things happen in the index, which invites creative >> speculation often difficult to support. E.g., the three words most >> frequently cited in the index are, in descending order, "man," "eye," and >> "day." Call me crazy, but to my ears, these words--while naming important >> "themes" in the poem--also partially echo the first words of the Iliad -- >> "menin aiede." If Zukofsky didn't intend this echo (and he probably didn't),
>> he would have loved the serendipity.
>>
>> More on this when I get my books back. It would be fun to keep this thread >> alive: I don't understand why the index doesn't get more attention. Panel >> somewhere, anyone?
>>
>> Michael Fournier
>>
>>
>> Peter Quartermain wrote:
>>
>>
>>> 31 August
>>>
>>> This is an oldie, but no one has replied, so:
>>>
>>> Hugh Kenner once told me that LZ originally prepared an idex to "A" which >>> listed ONLY instances of "a" and "the" -- whether it listed all of them I >>> know not, but I doubt it -- and Celia said that was totally inadequate as >>> an
>>> index -- I think she was the one who then compiled the Index we now have.
>>> Maybe Paul Zukofsky knows. Maybe Mark Scroggins knows too. Mark?
>>>

>>> More interesting, perhaps, would be to follow up the index entries and
>>> figure out why those instances were worthy of inclusion while others >>> weren't, but I must say I have better things to do right now. Anyone want >>> to
>>> get a PhD doing it?
>>> P
>>>
>>> =========
>>> Peter Quartermain
>>> 846 Keefer Street
>>> Vancouver
>>> BC Canada V6A 1Y7
>>> [redacted] (voice and fax)
>>> [redacted]
>>> =========
>>>
>>> -----Original Message-----
>>> From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On >>> Behalf Of UbuWeb
>>> Sent: 11 August 2009 09:58 AM
>>> To: [redacted]
>>> Subject: Question about Zukofsky's "A" Index
>>>
>>> Does anyone know why Zukofsky didn't index every instance of "a" or
"the"
>>> or >>> any number of other words? "a" appears on page 21 and is not listed in
the >>> index. And of course there are hundreds of instances of the word "the"
>>> beginning on page 1, not only between the pages of 175 and 563 in the 826
>>> page book as indexed.
>>>
>>> Here's the listings for a:
>>>
>>> a, 1, 103, 130, 131, 138, 161, 168, 173-175, 177, 185, 186, 196, 199, 203, >>> 212, 226-228, 232, 234, 235, 239, 241, 243, 245-248, 260, 270, 281, 282, >>> 288, 291, 296, 297, 299, 302, 323, 327, 328, 351, 353, 377, 380382, 385,
>>> 391-394, 397, 402, 404407, 416, 418, 426, 433, 434, 435, 436, 438, 448, >>> 457,
>>> 461, 463, 465, 470, 473, 474, 477-481, 491, 493497, 499, 500, 505, 507, >>> 508-511, 536-539, 560-563

>>>
>>> and the listings for the:
>>>
>>> the, 175, 179, 181, 182, 184, 187, 191193, 196, 199, 202, 203, 205, 206, >>> 208, 211, 215, 217, 221, 224-226. 228, 231, 232, 234, 238, 239, 241, 243, >>> 245-248, 260, 270, 285, 288, 290, 291, 296, 297, 302, 316, 321324, 327, >>> 328,
>>> 336, 338, 342, 368, 375, 379, 380, 383-387, 390-397, 402, 404, 406, 407, >>> 412, 416, 426428, 434-436, 440, 441, 463, 465, 468, 470, 473, 474, >>> 476-479,
>>> 494, 496, 497, 499, 506-511, 536-539, 560-563
>>> With appreciation and many thanks in advance.
>>>
>>> UbuWeb
>>> http://ubu.com
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>> guidelines
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>
>>
>
>

↑ Index

57. Evan Munday

Innovative Canadian female writers launch Prismatic Publics at the Poetry Project

Thu 10 Sep 2009

Dear friends,

The Poetry Project kicks off its fall season with some innovative poets from north of the border. The Project is helping Toronto press Coach House Books launch its new anthology of experimental Canadian female poets, Prismatic Publics. The event will feature readings from Margaret Christakos and Catriona Strang and Nicole Brossard, as well as an introduction from anthology co-editor Kate Eichhorn. And the launch will serve as the perfect unofficial kick-off for the Advancing Feminist Poetics & Activism conference (at the CUNY Graduate Center).

September 23 â€“ Poetry Project launches anthology of Canadian women writers Trailblazing poets from across the country kick off the reading seriesâ€™ new season

This fall, the Poetry Project at St. Markâ€™s Church introduces its 44th season with a special showcase of Canadian women writers. The event launches the anticipated new anthology, Prismatic Publics:â€ˆ Innovative Canadian Womenâ€™s Poetry and Poetics, in which works by fifteen poets â€“ some dating back to the early 1970s and others published for the first time â€“ appear alongside in-depth interviews.

Featuring readings by

Nicole Brossard (Museum of Bone and Water, The Aerial Letter,Mauve Desert) Margaret Christakos (Excessive Love Prostheses, Sooner, What Stirs) Catriona Strang (Busted, Cold Trip, Light Sweet Crude)

Prismatic Publics anthology launch at the Poetry Project
Wednesday, September 23, 8:00 pm
131 E. 10th Street
New York, NY

http://poetryproject.org/program-calendar/prismatic-publics-nicole-brossard-margaret-christakos-catriona-strang.html

And if you can't make the event but still want the book, you can order it from the Coach House Books website at http://www.chbooks.com.

***

About Prismatic Publics:

Nicole Brossard, Margaret Christakos, Susan Holbrook, Dorothy Lusk, Karen Mac Cormack, Daphne Marlatt, ErÃn Moure, M. NourbeSe Philip, Sina Queyras, Lisa Robertson, Gail Scott, Nathalie Stephens, Catriona Strang, Rita Wong, Rachel Zolf.

These fifteen women are some of the best writers currently engaged in avant-garde literary production, defining the contours of new movements and schools of writing in Canada and representing a powerful force in innovative writing around the world. Prismatic Publics stages intimate encounters with these key figures as they work in and against Language, conceptual, post-conceptual, documentary and investigative poetry traditions â€“ often across, between and at the interstices of genres.

â€˜This is a brilliantly orchestrated, important anthology that shows how committed editorial practices can make a major contribution to literature. How stunning to see exemplified in every moment of writing an unsettling of outworn premises and a manifestation of new thought. Gender is provisional, listen to these words.â€™ â€“ Carla Harryman

Best,

Evan

Evan Munday
Publicist
Coach House Books
401 Huron St. (rear) on bpNichol Lane
Toronto ON, M5S 2G5
[redacted]

↑ Index

58. R Levitsky
Announcement. Advancing Feminist Poetics and Activism: A Gathering
Thu 10 Sep 2009

Dear All,

I'm pleased to announce and invite/welcome you to attend a very innovative two-day event being held at CUNY Graduate Center in Manhattan (5th Ave/34th St), September 24,

3:00PM
to 8:30PM/September 25, 9:30 to 8:30 PM:

Belladonna Series, in collaboration with The Center for Humanities, celebrates ten years of publishing and supporting the feminist avant-garde with a conference on feminist poetics and activism. Participants include Ammiel Alcalay, Caroline Bergvall, Tonya Foster, Dodie Bellamy, Hoa Nguyen, Marcella Durand, Sarah Gambito, Kathy Park Hong, Rodrigo Toscano, Anne Waldman and about 95 other activist thinkers, writers, presenters. Opening and closing performances will feature Kathleen Fraser, Erica Hunt, Eileen Myles, Carla Harryman, Catriona Strang & Christin Stewart, Sally Silvers, Lila Zemborain & Cecilia Torino. The organizing collective has worked toward open and participatory session design and the whole gathering is free, with registration required onsite (though Belladonna Series needs money and is requesting donations). Please come! The full schedule can be found at:

http://www.belladonnaseries.org/adfemposchedule.html

yours,
Rachel

↑ Index

59. Catherine Daly

Re: Question about Zukofsky's "A" Index

Thu 10 Sep 2009

Yes. Illustrating why electronic copies of works are an important research tool that publishers should make available, even to people who aren't going to point powerful linguistics weighing & measuring tools at them. And why learning to write an index and learning to word process index codes and word counts / locations are two different things. Um, as I played around with in 2D&I.

On Tue, Sep 8, 2009 at 11:47 AM, Murat Nemet-Nejat <[redacted]>wrote:

> Now, if one applies a word processor to that task -is that something to cry
> or laugh over?
>
> Zukofsky, processed out.
>
> Ciao,
>
> Murat
>
>
> --
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

↑ Index

60. Ruth Lepson

Re: Panelist Needed for Panel on Ekphrastic Poetry, All Day Poetry Conference in NJ on October 20th

Thu 10 Sep 2009

Thanks, Burt. Can you tell me more abt the whole day & who else is on the panel? I wd have to reschedule my class.
Best,
Ruth

On 9/9/09 11:52 AM, "Kimmelman, Burt" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Hi Everyone,
>
> One more panelist is needed for a panel on ekphrastic poetry, which will be part of an all-day poetry conference at Centenary College in NJ on October 20th. If you are interested then please contact me asap at [redacted]<mailto:[redacted]>.
>
> Thanks,
>
> Burt Kimmelman

↑ Index

61. Ruth Lepson

Re: Kenneth Goldsmith sings Roland Barthes with a live String Quartet

Thu 10 Sep 2009

---

god bless kenneth goldsmith

On 9/8/09 10:27 AM, "UbuWeb" <[redacted]> wrote:

> 09/11 @ 8:00pm - Kenneth Goldsmith sings Roland Barthes with a live String Quartet
>
> http://issueprojectroom.org/2009/08/10/kenneth-goldsmith-reads-roland-barthes-with-live-string-quartet-playing-vivaldi-and-webern/
>
> Issue Project Room
> The (OA) Can Factory
> 232 3rd Street,
> 3rd Floor
> Brooklyn, NY 11215
> http://issueprojectroom.org/
>
> A prior incarnation:
> Kenneth Goldsmith Sings Roland Barthes (13'05")
> Music by The Allman Brothers
> Recorded at the WFMU studios, Jersey City, New Jersey, 2006 (MP3)
>
> http://mediamogul.seas.upenn.edu/pennsound/authors/Goldsmith/Theory/Kenneth-Go > ldsmith-Sings-Barthes.mp3
>
> UbuWeb
> http://ubu.com

↑ Index

62. Jennifer Karmin
O SAY CAN YOU SEE: Women's Poetry
Thu 10 Sep 2009

O SAY CAN YOU SEE
Nonverbal Reviews and Adaptations of Women's Poetry

*Abi Stokes collages Matthea Harvey
*Tyler Flynn Dorholt splices Sandy Florian, Joyelle McSweeney, Laura Solórzano, and Kim Hyesoon
*Jennifer Karmin street teams Kristin Prevallet
*Daniela Olszewska puts a bow on Chelsey Minnis
*Christine Neacole Kanownik horses around with Jennifer Scappettone
*Janet Snell goes Dickinson on Nanette Rayman-Rivera

Curated by K. Lorraine Graham and Becca Klaver for DELIRIOUS HEM

What book, chapbook, performance, or poem by a woman poet published/presented in the last year or two has left you speechless? How might that speechlessness manifest itself visually, sonically, or through another nonverbal medium?

Rolling submissions through September 20.

http://delirioushem.blogspot.com/2009/06/call-for-work-for-august-delirious-hem.html

↑ Index

63. Andrew Hughes
Boog City Festival this weekend…
Thu 10 Sep 2009

Hey everyone...

The Boog City Festival started yesterday. I'm reading 2 PM, Saturday at Unnameable Books, 600 Vanderbilt in Brooklyn. If you're in the city, come on out and hear all the great readers involved in this event.

Thanks & hope to see you there...

xo

Andy

↑ Index

64. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: Question about Zukofsky's "A" Index
Thu 10 Sep 2009

For instance, Daniel Ladinsky's translations of the Persian poet Hafiz (published by Penguin under the title The Gift) are pure inventions, not one single translation having a corresponding version in Persion even though the book sold in many thousands.

Murat

On Wed, Sep 9, 2009 at 7:57 PM, Michael Fournier <
[redacted]> wrote:

> I used MS Word and Excel. Sometimes I cried. Sometimes I laughed.
>
> Cheers,
>
> Michael
>
> Murat Nemet-Nejat wrote:
>
> Now, if one applies a word processor to that task -is that something to cry
> or laugh over?
>
> Zukofsky, processed out.
>
> Ciao,
>
> Murat
>
> On Tue, Sep 8, 2009 at 9:12 AM, Michael Fournier <
> [redacted]> wrote:
>
> Hi,
>
> I've been meaning to reply to this, but can only do so briefly now--I have > no access to my books, which are in storage following a minor natural disaster.

But according to some notes, see page 449 of the Scroggins bio for details on the preparation of the index.

Following the trail of index entries for "a," "the," and "an" is an interesting and frustrating enterprise, but it's interesting to note that initial (no pun intended) citations of "a" in the index lead us to instances related to Bach. As for "the," its first citation at page 175 quotes Paul Zukofsky saying "The horse bends down." And subsequent instance of "the" seem to associate that article with family, Paul in particular--but others might read these instances differently.

*Or it might all turn out to be a numerical joke. The index cites 71 instances of "a," 73 of "the," and 40 of "an." That's 184 articles, or in roman numerals CLXXXIV, which might indicate "Celia Louis 1934." Those with Poem of a Life handy might track down possible details there. According to Wickipedia, Celia and Louis met in '33, and Louis began working for the WPA
(on an index, as it happens) in 1934. But Wickipedia is often imprecise.*

*Lots of interesting things happen in the index, which invites creative speculation often difficult to support. E.g., the three words most frequently cited in the index are, in descending order, "man," "eye," and "day." Call me crazy, but to my ears, these words--while naming important "themes" in the poem--also partially echo the first words of the Iliad -- "menin aiede." If Zukofsky didn't intend this echo (and he probably didn't),
he would have loved the serendipity.*

More on this when I get my books back. It would be fun to keep this thread alive: I don't understand why the index doesn't get more attention. Panel somewhere, anyone?

Michael Fournier

Peter Quartermain wrote:

31 August

This is an oldie, but no one has replied, so:

Hugh Kenner once told me that LZ originally prepared an idex to "A" which listed ONLY instances of "a" and "the" -- whether it listed all of them I know not, but I doubt it -- and Celia said that was totally inadequate as an index -- I think she was the one who then compiled the Index we now have.
Maybe Paul Zukofsky knows. Maybe Mark Scroggins knows too. Mark?

More interesting, perhaps, would be to follow up the index entries and
figure out why those instances were worthy of inclusion while others weren't, but I must say I have better things to do right now. Anyone want to get a PhD doing it?
P

=========
Peter Quartermain
846 Keefer Street
Vancouver
BC Canada V6A 1Y7
[redacted] (voice and fax)
[redacted]
=========

-----Original Message-----
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of UbuWeb
Sent: 11 August 2009 09:58 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Question about Zukofsky's "A" Index

Does anyone know why Zukofsky didn't index every instance of "a" or "the" or any number of other words? "a" appears on page 21 and is not listed in the index. And of course there are hundreds of instances of the word "the"
beginning on page 1, not only between the pages of 175 and 563 in the 826
page book as indexed.

Here's the listings for a:

a, 1, 103, 130, 131, 138, 161, 168, 173-175, 177, 185, 186, 196, 199, 203, 212, 226-228, 232, 234, 235, 239, 241, 243, 245-248, 260, 270, 281, 282, 288, 291, 296, 297, 299, 302, 323, 327, 328, 351, 353, 377, 380382, 385, 391-394, 397, 402, 404407, 416, 418, 426, 433, 434, 435, 436, 438, 448, 457, 461, 463, 465, 470, 473, 474, 477-481, 491, 493497, 499, 500, 505, 507, 508-511, 536-539, 560-563

and the listings for the:

the, 175, 179, 181, 182, 184, 187, 191193, 196, 199, 202, 203, 205, 206, 208, 211, 215, 217, 221, 224-226. 228, 231, 232, 234, 238, 239, 241, 243, 245-248, 260, 270, 285, 288, 290, 291, 296, 297, 302, 316, 321324, 327, 328, 336, 338, 342, 368, 375, 379, 380, 383-387, 390-397, 402, 404, 406, 407, 412, 416, 426428, 434-436, 440, 441, 463, 465, 468, 470, 473, 474, 476-479,
494, 496, 497, 499, 506-511, 536-539, 560-563
With appreciation and many thanks in advance.

UbuWeb
http://ubu.com

guidelines

guidelines

↑ Index

65. Rob McLennan

Sheila Watson conference, University of Toronto, Oct 23-24, 2009

Thu 10 Sep 2009

Registration is now open for a two day event at the University of St. Michaels at the University of Toronto, celebrating the life and writing of Sheila Watson. The event includes a reception, the opening of Watson's Archives, a dramatic rendering of her classic The Double Hook, a formal lunch with a toast by George Bowering, as well as three panels, one of which consists of George Bowering, Elizabeth Hay (moderator), Daphne Marlatt, Michael Ondaatje, and Jane Urquhart who will discuss Watsons influence and legacy. Join us for what promises to be a not-to-be missed event for anyone interested in Canadian literature and the arts.The cost is $125.00 and space is limited to 160 guests. We expect this event to sell out. Register early!

For more details and to register online, see:
http://asp01.med.utoronto.ca/celebratingsheilaW/default.aspx

-- writer/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...poetry - a compact of words (Salmon) ...2nd novel - missing persons www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

66. julia bloch

Emergency reading: Pritchett and Featherston, 9/15 in Philly

Thu 10 Sep 2009

---

a r
The EMERGENCY Poetry Series
at the Kelly Writers House presents:

a reading and discussion with poets
PATRICK PRITCHETT & DAN FEATHERSTON

Tuesday, 9/15, 6PM
Kelly Writers House Arts Café
3805 Locust Walk, Philadelphia
This event is free & open to the public

DAN FEATHERSTON is the author of The Radiant World (BlazeVox, 2009), The Clock Maker's Memoir (Cuneiform Press, 2007), United States (Factory School, 2005), and Into the Earth (Quarry Press, 2005), as well as several chapbooks. His poetry has appeared in such journals as Aufgabe, Kiosk, Mandorla, New American Writing, and Sulfur. Scholarly works have appeared most recently in Modernism/Modernity, Chicago Review, and Charles Olson: A Poet's Prose. While living in Tucson, Arizona, Featherston help found POG, a collective of artists and scholars engaged with avant-garde work in a variety of media, and from 2001 to 2004, he edited A.BACUS, a journal of poetry and translation. Featherston has taught composition, literature, and creative writing at a number of colleges and universities, and he is currently a lecturer in the English department at Temple University. He lives in Philadelphia with Rachel McCrystal and their companion animals Fredo, Mazzy, and Itze.

PATRICK PRITCHETT is the author of Burn - Doxology for Joan of Arc, and the chapbooks Reside, Lives of the Poets and Antiphonal. His poems have appeared in New American Writing, Hambone, Shiny, Bombay Gin, New Review of Literature, Colorado Review and The Modern Review, among others. Articles and reviews on modern and contemporary poetry have been featured in American Book Review, Rain Taxi, English Language Notes and Jacket. Scholarly work has been published in Radical Vernacular: Lorine Niedecker and the Poetics of Place and Ronald Johnson: Life and Works. A former story analyst and script editor in the film business, where he worked for James Cameron, Kathryn Bigelow, and HBO, Pritchett has taught modern literature and creative writing at the University of Colorado-Boulder, Naropa University, and Boston University. Currently he is a Lecturer in the History and Literature Program at Harvard University.

Emergency addresses North American poetic practice as it is centered around close-knit communities, long-distance mentorships, new media, chapbook exchange, and other formations, asking how theoretical stances and aesthetic practices are transmitted among poets at different stages in their careers. The series was launched in 2006 with support from the Kerry Sherin Wright Prize for programming at Kelly Writers House in Philadelphia, an award designed to support a project that demonstrates aesthetic capaciousness and literary communitarianism. All readings are held at the Writers House and are available online at PennSound.

www.emergency-reading.blogspot.com

↑ Index

67. Small Press Traffic

REMINDER: CAConrad and Frank Sherlock: Friday and Saturday!

Fri 11 Sep 2009

Surely it's in your calendar already, but just a quick reminder for the unmissable:

*CAConrad and Frank Sherlock: Reading on Class/Warfare
September 11, 2009: Doors open 7:30pm/Reading begins at 8:00pm*
Timken Hall at CCA San Francisco/1111 8th Street/San Francisco $8 admission/ SPT members FREE!
**
THEN, join us for a *Dialogues writing lab/workshop, co-sponsored by Nonsite collective, where Frank Sherlock and CAConrad discuss poetic interventions into the present, past and future life of the city.
*
Saturday September 12, 2009
*1pm-4pm
at 935 Natoma Street in San Francisco
(btwn. 10th and 11th and btwn. Mission and Howard)
Close to Van Ness and Market (Muni) or Civic Center (BART)
admission $25/$20 for SPT members and students*

Admission and registration fees for these events go directly toward supporting the minimal honorarium we are able to offer our readers. SPT, like many arts organizations in today's economy, struggles to support a wide variety of programming on ever more limited programming dollars. Your support is *vital *in helping us to continue providing a diverse mix of interesting and innovative writers.

We will always offer a sliding scale admission for those participants who need it and memberships to SPT include free admission to readings and reduced admission to Dialogues.

_____ CAConrad is the recipient of THE GIL OTT BOOK AWARD for The Book of Frank (Chax Press, 2009). He is also the author of Advanced Elvis Course (Soft Skull Press, 2009), (Soma)tic Midge (Faux Press, 2008), Deviant Propulsion (Soft Skull Press, 2006), and a forthcoming collaboration with poet Frank Sherlock titled THE CITY REAL & IMAGINED: Philadelphia Poems (Factory School Books, 2010). CAConrad is the son of white trash asphyxiation whose childhood included selling cut flowers along the highway for his mother and helping her shoplift. He invites you to visit him online at http://caconrad.blogspot.com/ and also with his friends at http://phillysound.blogspot.com/

Frank Sherlock is the author of Over Here (Factory School 2009) and the co-author of Ready-To-Eat Individual (Lavender Ink 2008) with Brett Evans. A collaboration with CAConrad entitled The City Real & Imagined: Philadelphia Poems is forthcoming from Factory School later in January 2010. He currently works with the Philadelphia Mural Arts Program on Journeys South, a public art project that documents immigrant/migrant experiences in South Philly.

This regarding the workshop:

The City Real & Imagined project is a collaborative documentary of both concrete and psychic place, exercising imaginations that are shared in the commons. It is at heart a working of public space in a time of post-9/11 hegemonic decline. Preparations for the death of Baghdad's children had begun, and the displacement of the working poor in Philadelphia was already underway. Two poets with very different experiences within the same city they share wandered together to let the streets shape the form of the poem with its histories and possibilities. CAConrad and Frank Sherlock will discuss their influences and approaches to the project, the collaborative process, and the mutual impact on their re-imaginings of the Philadelphia they live in.

For further investigation, visit the Nonsite Collective website at: http://nonsitecollective.org

Spaces are limited for this Dialogues event, so please reserve your seat by emailing [redacted].

--
Samantha Giles
Executive Director
Small Press Traffic Literary Arts Center
sptraffic.org
smallpresstraffic.blogspot.com

↑ Index

68. Jim Andrews
Poesia Eletrônica by Jorge Luiz Antonio
Fri 11 Sep 2009

Brazil's Jorge Luiz Antonio has published a book (which comes with a CD) about "electronic poetry" called Poesia Eletrônica (198 pages). My congratulations and thanks go out to him. Congratulations because I know he has been working on this for many years and I know some of the trials and tribulations he experienced through the process. Thanks because a visual poem of mine is on the cover, the CD, and the interface to the CD-and the art is printed and presented exceptionally well. So this is not an objective notice about Jorge's book, but one from a friend of his.

The book (which is in Portuguese) contains a three-page preface in English by Chris Funkhouser-who has written the first book on the history of digital poetry. Among other things, Funkhouser looks at the way Antonio explores the notion of how electronic poetry involves "negotiations with digital processes":

"With software, the programming generally involves establishing frameworks in which disparate elements-whether the different elements of a visual scenario, or files that contain different verbal passages-negotiate with one another, and are negotiated by the viewer. In the creation of automatically-generated text, graphical works, or hypertexts, artists present a virtual object that the user negotiates by plotting a course through the multiple dimensions or constellations of language. When we realize that all digital poetry involves some type of link, the importance of negotiation is further heightened. In hypertext, the link (as in node-to-node connection) is the primary mechanism by which a reader negotiates text. In graphical and multimedia poems (which foreground sonic and visual elements), different elements of the works are composed together as simultaneities. Text-generators present another type of linking, between the algorithm/program and the text as it comes to the reader. Links-literal or conceptual-are always present in this extended environment; the activation of computer coding creates a textual spark that is the foundation on which any digital poem is built." Chris Funkhouser

'Navigation' is related to 'negotiation' but they aren't quite the same thing. 'Negotiation' encompasses 'navigation' but goes beyond it into dialogue and protocol, for instance. It also involves the intermedial, as Funkhouser points out, in negotiation between the elements of different media. And there are other wheels for "electronic poetry in negotiation with digital processes".

Although the book is largely in Portuguese, the CD contains much material in English. There's an introduction by Jorge and, also, chapter 1 has been translated into English. Here is a passage from chapter 1:

"The technopoet is put, as the romantic poet, as a technodemiurge. The romantic poet's reaction against the Industrial Revolution, creating a subjective world, ideal, paradisiacal, resembles the one of the technopoet, that, facing the technopoly is overpowering. It is a technocentric world that offers him/her also a poetic language. The central question is to subvert the technological language, transforming it into a technopoetical language. This way, the culture doesn't surrender to the technology, but it receives the poet's intervention, which turns the technology into another form of poetic communication. These procedures become, then, a poeticizing of computational technology." Jorge Luiz Antonio

We might also say that the "poeticizing of computational technology" gets some blood pumping through this technological extension of humanity, turning it from a cold metal claw into something through which human fluids and feeling flow.

The section of the CD that features critical/theoretical texts contains more than 100 texts that range internationally around the world from works by Jean-Pierre Balpe (in French) to Friedrich Block (he's German but the texts are in English) to Alejandro Banda (Chile), Augusto de Campos (in Portuguese), Chris Funkhouser, Eduardo Kac, Ladislao Pablo (Argentina), and many others.

The CD also contains a wealth of electronic poetry and texts about the art. The poetry section contains work or works by over 200 artists. In a variety of languages. From modernist poetry to contemporary computer poetry. With emphasis on work from Brazil and South America. It's quite a remarkable resource.

The CD also contains an 86-page chronology of digital poetry from 1959 to the present complete with graphics and, in many cases, links.

There's also an extensive bibliography with links, on the CD.

I'm very impressed with what Jorge has accomplished. Of course, I wish I understood Portuguese! But there is much English in the package-and much digital poetry that can be understood independent of any particular language.

Finally, I'd like to give you contact information so you can obtain a copy of the book yourself. There are only somewhere between 250 and 500 copies of it available, and you have to contact Jorge himself to get a copy, although the book will be published in a bilingual edition, at some point, in the USA.

Jorge's email address is [redacted] . Jorge says "People can buy the book on line by asking me. There are three ways to send money: PayPal account, bank transference, and post office international payment order. The other alternative is to offer an exchange of books and/or CD-ROMs."

You might also want to visit his blog at http://jlantonio.blog.uol.com.br . He also maintains a list of links to Brazilian digital poetry at http://vispo.com/misc/BrazilianDigitalPoetry.htm .

ja
http://vispo.com

ps: There's a blog version of this article at http://netpoetic.com/2009/09/poesia-eletronica-by-jorge-luis-antonio/

↑ Index

69. Cara Benson

PARACHUTE: the Coney Island Performance Festival

Fri 11 Sep 2009

PARACHUTE: the Coney Island Performance Festival is the first annual literary and performance festival in Coney Island. It is a community based festival focusing on Brooklyn artists. The Coney Island Performance Festival takes place the second weekend in Septemberâ€”Saturday and Sunday, September 12th and 13th.

Saturday, September 12th at 6:30pm

Hosted by visual artist and performer, Africasso

Cara Benson
Charles Denson, author of Coney Island: Lost and Found Dennis Nurkse, former Brooklyn Poet Laureate Akilah Oliver
Patricia Spears Jones
Edwin Torres

Sunday, September 13th at 6:30pm

Hosted by the illustrious burlesque dancer, Angie Pontani (a.k.a. Miss Cyclone)

Edmund Berrigan, poet and member of the band, I Feel Tractor
Michael Cirelli, poet and founder of Urban Word
Eileen Myles, poet, author, ran for president as a write-in candidate.
Jibade Khalil-Huffman
John Ventimiglia (â€œArtie Buccoâ€ from the Sopranos) reading Henry Millerâ€™s words on Coney Island
Â
Â
Since its inception, Coney Island has played host to a magnificent array of theatre, performance, poetry, dance, and literature. A naked Walt Whitman read Shakespeare to the Atlantic Ocean; Cary Grant was a stilt walker at Steeplechase Park; Woody Guthrie strummed his guitar on Mermaid Avenue; Bread and Puppet Theatre was in residence in the 1970â€™s and Coney Island USA has been a theatrical presence and Coney Island fixture for nearly thirty years.

The essential aspects to the Coney Island Performance Festival are a literary and performance stage, and an afternoon of free poetry workshops held at the Coney Island branch of the New York Public Library led by artists participating in the festival. The literary stage will be located in the Aquarium, in front of the jellyfish tank. Readings will begin at 6:30pm both nights and feature a wide array of established and up-and-coming Brooklyn based poets and writers. Highlights include poet, Patricia Spears Jones, John Ventimiglia from the Sopranos reading Henry Miller, post-punk poet Eileen Myles and the former Brooklyn Poet Laureate, Dennis Nurkse.

Saturday eveningâ€™s reading will be hosted by the legendary local artist, Africasso. Sunday eveningâ€™s reading will be hosted by the illustrious burlesque performer, Angie Pontani (a.k.a. Miss Cyclone.)

Free poetry workshops Saturday, September 12th will be led by Urban Word, Patricia Spears Jones and Cara Benson at the Coney Island Public Library on Mermaid Avenue and 19th Street.

Â
Â
Â
Â
Â
Â
Â

_____

http://www.necessetics.comÂ {homepage}

http://www.necessetics.com/sousrature.htmlÂ {journal}

↑ Index

70. cris cheek

Job Opportunity : Romantic Poetry

Fri 11 Sep 2009

Romantic Poetry: Assistant Professor in British poetry of the Romantic period. Desirable secondary interests include British prose of the Romantic period, 18th century literature, Romantic writing in a transnational frame, and literary and cultural theory. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate courses and graduate seminars in Romanticism, and will participate actively in the supervision of MA and PhD students. There are opportunities to participate in an emerging Digital Humanities program, an Early Modern Studies collective, and a new Humanities Center. Send letter of application and c.v. by October 31 to J. Kerry Powell, Chair, Department of English, 356 Bachelor Hall, Miami University, Oxford, OH 45056. Contact phone is [redacted]. Screening of applications begins immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. Miami is an EOE/AA employer offering benefits to same-sex domestic partners. Information about the English department can be found at*http://www.units.muohio.edu/english*. Oxford-Cincinnati-Dayton area is available at http://www.muohio.edu/liviing_at_miami/oxandbeyond. The Campus Crime and Safety Report may be found at * http://www.muohio.edu/righttoknow* (hard copy available on request).

↑ Index

71. Andy Gricevich
Cannot Exist no.5 is out!
Sat 12 Sep 2009

Hi, all!
The new issue of CANNOT EXIST is out, featuring generous selections of amazing new writing by Nathan Austin / Laura Carter / Kristen Gallagher / Derek Henderson / Tom Hibbard / Brenda Iijima / Paul Foster Johnson / Andrew Levy / Chris Mercer / Chuck Stebelton /Steve Timm

with a cover by Steve Dalachinsky

We are really proud of this one.

You can get it at http://cannotexist.blogspot.com, where you can also subscribe (please do!) at a discount (all prices include shipping).
all the best to you all,
Andy G. the editorial entity

↑ Index

72. amy king
A tonna music, poetry, et al - Tonight.
Sun 13 Sep 2009

Dear NYC+ friends and poets,

This is a little poetry drive. Please do read on. In lieu of a September reading, the Stain of Poetry (Amy King + me) are blowing our wind in the sails of an extraordinary benefit, to take place on Sunday, September 13th @ The Living Room NYC. Amy joins Michael Tyrell and a slew of musicians & bands for a night of revelry, all for the cost of a cheap concert ticket ($15). Find out more about the event here (where you can also buy tickets):
http://foggedclarity.com/2009/07/the-living-room/

or here:
http://www.facebook.com/home.php#/event.php?eid=143766517563&ref=mf

and give some of the bands a listen:
Strand of Oaks -- http://www.myspace.com/strandofoaks
Judson Claiborne- - http://www.myspace.com/judsonclaiborne
Samantha Farrell -- http://www.myspace.com/samanthafarrell
Karisa Wilson -- http://www.myspace.com/wilsonkarisa
Amir Darzi -- http://www.myspace.com/amirdarzi

You'll be supporting the print edition of Fogged Clarity & having a dazzling time -- we've been to one of these evenings, and they move, rock, sway & shine

unlike anything we've witnessed. Come with us! And let me know if you have any questions.

xo,

Ana & Amy

--
Amy's Alias
http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

73. Jeffrey Side
Tom Clark poems
Sun 13 Sep 2009

Poems by Tom Clark at The Argotist Online:

http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Clark%20poems.htm

↑ Index

74. Steve Clay
Publication Party for: John Ashbery & Trevor Winkfield: "Faster Than Birds Can Fly"
Sun 13 Sep 2009

JOIN ARTBOOK @ X AND GRANARY BOOKS TO CELEBRATE THE PUBLICATION OF

"Faster Than Birds Can Fly"
by John Ashbery (poem) & Trevor Winkfield (images)

Poet and artist will be present for the reception; Mr. Ashbery will read the poem around 8 pm.
All are welcome.

Artbook @ X
548 W. 22nd Street (between 10th / 11th in Chelsea)
New York City

Wednesday September 23, 2009 7 - 9 pm

Steve Clay
Granary Books
168 Mercer St. #2
New York, NY 10012

[redacted]
[redacted] (fax)
www.granarybooks.com

↑ Index

75. ART ELECTRONICS

URGENT Venice Biennale - Call for participation in Venice October 9 2009

Sun 13 Sep 2009

Apologizes for cross posting

Object: URGENT Venice Biennale - Your participation in Venice October 9 2009

Dear friend poets,
The event MHO_Save the Poetry in Venice previews a live net-poetryreading on October 9 2009, with the software Skype or Messenger: for taking part in Venice it is necessary to install on your pc Skype and web cam.
IMPORTANT: It is not possible in another way your participation in Venice. So, please, if you are really interested in being included in our program, contact me urgently at [redacted] and include me in your Skype contacts. I should test the connection in advance in the next days and organize all details, contents and time of connetion on October 9.
Best greetings
Caterina Davinio

PS: For more info, thank you for joining the FB group (http://www.facebook.com/group.php?gid=94289888002#/group.php?gid=92108889529) and related events on Second Life (http://www.facebook.com/event.php?eid=114424044183).

↑ Index

76. Mark DuCharme

Stratford Park Reading Series: COLLOM & CATANZANO October 8th

Sun 13 Sep 2009

Please join us at the STRATFORD PARK READING SERIES for an evening of poetry featuring JACK COLLOM & AMY CATANZANO.

It all happens THURSDAY, OCTOBER 8th at 7:30 p.m.

Address: 3030 O’NEAL PARKWAY, Boulder, Colorado
(across the street from Naropa University’s Paramita campus & the Boulder Cork restaurant)

http://www.mapquest.com/maps?city=Boulder&state=CO&address=3030+O'neal+Parkway&zipcode=80301

A Donation is requested— but All are welcome!

A reception will follow the reading

§

DIRECTIONS: O'Neal Parkway is off 30th Street in north Boulder between Valmont & Iris. Turn East at the signs for STRATFORD PARK WEST. The community house is the one-story building with a fence leading down to the street, half a block from 30th. Please park ONLY on O'Neal Parkway, O'Neal Circle, or in VISITOR spaces in the Stratford Park West lots. Please do not park in any other nearby lots. Thank you.

§

Jack Collom was born in Chicago in 1931. He studied Forestry at Colorado A&M College and has been a birdwatcher since boyhood. His poetry (23 books) is notable for its formal and informal variety. Collom has collaborated extensively with other poets (especially Lyn Hejinian) and with musicians, visual artists, friends, passersby, and schoolchildren. Teachers and Writers has published three books of and about his work with children. Perhaps his chief study for many years has been the collaborative possibilities between poetry and nature. In spring 2008 he was a plenary speaker on this topic at the "Poetic Ecologies" Conference in Brussels. He has been awarded two Poetry Fellowships by the National Endowment for the Arts and is working on a ridiculously large ms. called "Second Nature." Collom is married to writer Jennifer Heath.

Amy Catanzano is the author of Multiversal (Fordham University Press, 2009), selected by Michael Palmer for the Poets Out Loud Prize, and iEpiphany (Erudite Fangs, 2008). Her poetry and fiction have recently appeared in La Petite Zine, Tarpaulin Sky, Denver Quarterly and in the Best of Fence anthology. An essay, "Quantum Poetics: Writing the Speed of Light," which examines how principles in theoretical physics apply to poetry and prose, is forthcoming on Jerome Rothenberg's blog at http://poemsandpoetics.blogspot.com/. She has an MFA from the Iowa Writers' Workshop. Raised in Boulder, she currently works and teaches in the Jack Kerouac School of Disembodied Poetics at Naropa University.

§

If you no longer wish to receive email announcements of upcoming events in the Stratford Park Reading Series, please email [redacted] with the subject line "SPRS: REMOVE."

_____ Bing brings you health info from trusted sources. http://www.bing.com/search?q=pet+allergy&form=MHEINA&publ=WLHMTAG&crea=TXT_MHEINA_Health_Health_PetAllergy_1x1

↑ Index

77. Catherine Daly

LA: xeroxes of poemmat in show...

Sun 13 Sep 2009

---

eros/thanatos Curated by tricia lawless murray
marc adelman, stephanie allespach, victor cobo, anne colvin, catherine daly, amber fox, phyllis green, jason hanasik, evah hart, micol hebron, elise irving, zsolt kadar, tricia lawless murray, leigh mccarthy, christopher picon, nancy popp, jessica rosen, amy sampson, david sotelo, felis stella, casey stroud and the museum of viral memory
Date: Friday, September 25, 2009 Reception: September 25, 7 - 9 PM PØST 1904
E 7th Place LA CA 9002[redacted]
--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

↑ Index

78. steve russell

Re: Kenneth Goldsmith sings Roland Barthes with a live String Quartet

Sun 13 Sep 2009

I'd like to see him sing Barthes while Van Halen back him on guitar. But Goldsmith must leave ample room for Van Halen to let loose with a solo.

_____
From: Ruth Lepson <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Thursday, September 10, 2009 11:35:01 AM Subject: Re: Kenneth Goldsmith sings Roland Barthes with a live String Quartet

god bless kenneth goldsmith

On 9/8/09 10:27 AM, "UbuWeb" <[redacted]> wrote:

> 09/11 @ 8:00pm - Kenneth Goldsmith sings Roland Barthes with a live String Quartet

> http://issueprojectroom.org/2009/08/10/kenneth-goldsmith-reads-roland-barthes-with-live-string-quartet-playing-vivaldi-and-webern/
>
> Issue Project Room
> The (OA) Can Factory
> 232 3rd Street,
> 3rd Floor
> Brooklyn, NY 11215
> http://issueprojectroom.org/
>
> A prior incarnation:
> Kenneth Goldsmith Sings Roland Barthes (13'05")
> Music by The Allman Brothers
> Recorded at the WFMU studios, Jersey City, New Jersey, 2006 (MP3)
>
> http://mediamogul.seas.upenn.edu/pennsound/authors/Goldsmith/Theory/Kenneth-Go > ldsmith-Sings-Barthes.mp3
>
> UbuWeb
> http://ubu.com

↑ Index

79. Margaret Konkol

S M A L L P R E S S in the A R C H I V E Talk TUESDAY 9/15

Sun 13 Sep 2009

--- For the first of the Fall 09 Small Press in the Archive lectures, please join us this Tuesday, September 15th @3:30 p.m. for a talk by Elizabeth Bonapfel:

"Form in Fragments: Voice, Apostrophe, and Punctuation in James Joyce's *Finnegans Wake *Small Press Editions"

This talk will be held in The Poetry Collection, 420 Capen. This event is free and open to the public.

****

Small Press in the Archive Lecture Series dedicates itself to the study of poetry outside the traditional literary historical plot. The lectures in this series draw on materials in The Poetry Collection, at SUNY Buffalo in order to explore community/discourse formations, the status of ephemera and the making of genre, the conditions of literary production, transatlantic cross-pollinations in and between specific magazines, the careers of poets, the role of book art, and how the little magazine functions in the making of the avant-garde.

↑ Index

80. Benyo Music Productions

The HOWL! Jazz Festival presents Nanette Natal

Mon 14 Sep 2009

Click to view this email in a browser http://hosted.verticalresponse.com/162345/34d208f66b/129001662/b5f579a73d/

The HOWL! Jazz Festival presents Nanette Natal & Co

* Saturday, September 26, 2009
* featuring:

Tony Cimorosi, bass
Rolf Sturm, guitar
Aaron Alexander, drums

Showtime: 11pm

45 Bleecker Street Theater
(just east of Lafayette at Mulberry Street)
New York, NY 10012

The HOWL! Festival is a benefit for HOWL! HELP, which provides emergency assistance to performing artists in crisis.

Please click on images to see videos....

Order Tickets Here: $10
http://cts.vresp.com/c/?BenyoMusicProduction/34d208f66b/b5f579a73d/d939343fbe

****

* "... she's a hell of a singer...This is Jazz singing at its highest level."

Cadence

"...She is an extraordinary, multi-faceted singer with a range like Sarah Vaughn and an ability to sweep and swoop, stretch the words, and be at home with several types of singing styles. Her scatting skills approach those of the scatting mistress, Ella Fitzgerald..."

All Media Guide

http://cts.vresp.com/c/?BenyoMusicProduction/34d208f66b/b5f579a73d/c2a73d24c8

****

* "An accomplished scat singer with a vocal range that allows her to execute complicated or demanding phrases with polish and assurance...Miss Natal bends and twists her notes in unexpected fashions, makes startling leaps around the scales, and has the daring to expand and extend what might be a satisfactory note to open up a fresh and revealing color."

The New York Times

http://cts.vresp.com/c/?BenyoMusicProduction/34d208f66b/b5f579a73d/fe3fe125bc

****

* "...One of the most sensitive performers around. Natalâ€™s truly impressive vocal range is, perhaps, what first-time listeners notice...Nanette Natal demonstrates the art of the ballad...favorably compared with the late Sarah Vaughan. Very, very classy!"

Jazz Review

"...Nanette Natal could easily coast on her impressive range, but she doesn't; instead she takes intrepid sojourns from slick jazz into blues and soul..."

TimeOut New York

http://cts.vresp.com/c/?BenyoMusicProduction/34d208f66b/b5f579a73d/99c63a1e50

****

* "Nanette Natal has an instrumental voice both feline and savage...plus she can scat without imitating anyone else--quite rare isn't it?"

Jazz Hot France

"â€¦Nanette Natal is a genuine jazz singer in the grandest tradition of Ella, Sassy, and Dinah Washingtonâ€¦â€

All About Jazz

"[Natal's]voice and words are forces of nature..."

Velanche, Urban Landscapes, US

http://cts.vresp.com/c/?BenyoMusicProduction/34d208f66b/b5f579a73d/7a26a1c202

****

Click here for the Benyo Music Website
http://cts.vresp.com/c/?BenyoMusicProduction/34d208f66b/b5f579a73d/7037d9aa78

****

Click here for Nanette Natal's myspace http://cts.vresp.com/c/?BenyoMusicProduction/34d208f66b/b5f579a73d/7c3ff40dd9

****

_____ If you no longer wish to receive these emails, please reply to this message with "Unsubscribe" in the subject line or simply click on the following link:
http://cts.vresp.com/u?34d208f66b/b5f579a73d/mlpftw

_____

This message was sent by Benyo Music Productions using VerticalResponse

Benyo Music Productions
P.O. Box 1099
New York, New York 10028

Read the VerticalResponse marketing policy:
http://www.verticalresponse.com/content/pm_policy.html

↑ Index

81. Margaret Konkol

BUFFALO NY---S M A L L P R E S S in the A R C H I V E Talk TUESDAY 9/15

Mon 14 Sep 2009

-----*

Please join us this Tuesday, September 15th @3:30 p.m. for a talk by Elizabeth Bonapfel:

"Form in Fragments: Voice, Apostrophe, and Punctuation in James Joyce's *Finnegans Wake *Small Press Editions"

This talk will be held in The Poetry Collection, 420 Capen. This event is free and open to the public.

****

Small Press in the Archive Lecture Series dedicates itself to the study of poetry outside the traditional literary historical plot. The lectures in this series draw on materials in The Poetry Collection, at SUNY Buffalo in order to explore community/discourse formations, the status of ephemera and the making of genre, the conditions of literary production, transatlantic cross-pollinations in and between specific magazines, the careers of poets, the role of book art, and how the little magazine functions in the making of the avant-garde.

↑ Index

82. amy king

Fall 2009 issue of The Salt River Review is now onlineMonday, September 14, 2009 11:02 AM

Mon 14 Sep 2009

The Fall 2009 issue of The Salt River Review is now online. Poetry by Carmen Firan, James A.Hawley, John Morgan, Alex Cigale, Greg Simon, Allan Peterson, Derek Henderson, Barry Spacks, H. Palmer Hall, Lynn Lifshin, Tad Richards, David Graham, Flavia Cosma, Charles Springer, & Taylor Graham. Fiction by Jack Boyle, Jane Lazarre, Tim Poland, Paul Silverman, & Douglas Walker. Belles Lettres: Wherein prose poems, nonfiction, essays, and other writings are found: Laura Jensen,"1970 - Summer - Tacking"; Greg Simon, "Fernando Pessoa: The Art of X = 72."The Salt River Review: http://www.poetserv.org _____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

83. amy king

Jim Carroll, Poet and Punk Rocker, Is DeadSunday, September 13, 2009 7:04 PM

Mon 14 Sep 2009

---

http://artsbeat.blogs.nytimes.com/2009/09/13/jim-carroll-poet-and-punk-rocker-is-dead/ Jim Carroll, Poet and Punk Rocker, Is DeadByÂ The New York Times Jim Carroll, the poet and punk rocker in the outlaw tradition ofÂ RimbaudÂ and Burroughs who chronicled his wild youth in â€œThe Basketball Diaries,â€ died Friday at his home in Manhattan. He was 60.Â _____

Amy's Alias

http://amyking.org/

↑ Index

84. William Allegrezza

Series A Conversations mini-conference in Chicago

Mon 14 Sep 2009

Please come to the Series A Conversations mini-conference on Saturday, Sept 19 in Chicago at the Hyde Park Art Center. The HPAC is at 5020 S. Cornell in Hyde Park. It has a parking lot and free street parking and is close to both Metra and the CTA (only 15-20 minutes from downtown).

BYOB. The conference is not associated with any university or organization except for Series A (which is not really an organization at all). Feel free to come and throw your voice into the conversation and perhaps join us afterward for food and drink.

All events take place in the 4833 studio room.

10:00-11:15 New Media Poetics--Film and Poetry (with a film screening)
Francesco Levato, Moderator
Kurt Heintz, Julia Miller, Eric Gelehrter, and Nate Slawson

11:30-12:30 Other People's Poetry
Tim Yu
Srikanth (Chicu) Reddy
Judith Goldman

12:45-1:45 Poetry and Place
Raymond Bianchi and Garin Cycholl,

2:00-3:00 Poetry Publication--Founding, Editing, and Distributing a Print Journal
Chad Heltzel, Moderator
Jennie Berner, Garrett Brown, Tasha Fouts,
Jennifer Moore, Sara Tracey, and Snezana Zabic

3:15-4:45 Rapid Poetry Reading
Bill Allegrezza, Moderator

Larry O'Dean, Tim Yu
Kristy Bowen, Srikanth (Chicu) Reddy
Quraysh Ali Lansana, Ray Bianchi
Kristy Odelius, Garin Cycholl
Chad Heltzel ,
Dan Godston,
Simone Muench,
Nick Demske, and many others.

For more information, contact Bill Allegrezza at [redacted].

↑ Index

85. peter ganick
tom taylor has passed away
Mon 14 Sep 2009

---

tom taylor has passed away after a long struggle with cancer. as a writer, publisher, and photographer as a writer, a publisher, and photograper he performed a vital part of the literary community. many of us are very sad about this. the link below connects to a good profile of tom and his ideas. p ganick.....

http://jimleftwichtextimagepoem.blogspot.com/2009_09_13_archive.html

↑ Index

86. Pam Brown
Calling keen reviewers for Jacket magazine
Mon 14 Sep 2009

Dear Poeticists,

If you would like to write a review of one of these books please contact me at [redacted] cris cheek's 'part: short life housing'

More information:
http://www.ndorward.com/blog/?p=465

Angela Gardner's 'Views of the Hudson'
More information:
http://www.shearsman.com/pages/books/authors/gardnerA.html

Ed Roberson's The New Wing of the Labyrinth: The New Wing of the Labyrinth (ISBN 978-0-935162-42-4, $15, 83 pp.) is Ed Roberson's eighth full-length book of poetry. It is a taut, intricately interwoven series of poems that presents an unsentimental yet harrowing encounter with the finality of life: "where do we go / but to die into immunity in this life / the thousand deaths that evolve us." Roberson is a recent recipient of the Poetry Society of America's Shelley Memorial Award.

Norman Fischer's Questions/Places/Voices/Seasons: Norman Fischer's Questions/Places/Voices/Seasons (ISBN 978-0-935162-43-1, $16, 180 pp.) continues and expands the innovative meditational poetry he has explored in earlier books, such as Slowly but Dearly and I Was Blown Back. The two long serial poems that anchor Questions/Places/Voices/Seasons, "Charlotte's Way" and "Seasons," will feel quite familiar to Fischer's readers. But he also inaugurates a new form of writing in this book in which he inhabits the voices of others, such as Alberto Caeiro, Reb Yosl of Kemenetz, Elena Rivera, and Saigyo Hoshi.

Thanks once again,
Pam Brown

---

blog : http://thedeletions.blogspot.com
website : http://pambrownbooks.blogspot.com/
associate editor : http://jacketmagazine.com/

↑ Index

87. Dan Wilcox
Third Thursday Poetry Night, Sept. 17: Tom Corrado
Mon 14 Sep 2009

---

the Poetry Motel Foundation
presents

Third Thursday Poetry Night

at
the Social Justice Center
33 Central Ave., Albany, NY

Thursday, September 17
7:00 sign up; 7:30 start

Featured Poet: Tom Corrado
[from “Valentine: poems by Tom Corrado” (orb press, 2008)]

#10

I lose my remote in the excitement of her cookware.
Thumbing through recipes
I find a photograph of her as a marionette lounging among cushions
in a room filled
with parsed sentences.
I reach for my cutting board to capture her strings.

-- with an open mic for community poets before & after the feature: $3.00 donation, suggested; more if you got it, less if you can't.

Your henna-ed host: Dan Wilcox.

↑ Index

88. Francesco Levato
Call for Poetry Film and Video - Deadline January 15, 2010
Mon 14 Sep 2009

Split This Rock invites poets, writers, artists, activists, dreamers, and all concerned world citizens to submit original poetry films or videos for the 2nd Split This Rock Poetry Festival, to be held March 2010. We are looking for artistic, experimental, and challenging film/video interpretations of poetry that explore critical social issues. Selected work will be screened during the Split This Rock Poetry Festival film program. Entries can be up to 15 minutes long.

The deadline for submissions is January 15, 2010. See the guidelines and entry form for full details and submission requirements.

Guidelines:
http://www.splitthisrock.org/documents/2010film_guidelines.pdf

Entry Form
http://www.splitthisrock.org/documents/2010film_entry.pdf

Please share this call widely.

↑ Index

89. steve dalachinsky
the passing on 9/11 of jim carroll
Tue 15 Sep 2009

---

it has been brought to my attention just now that this has occurred

↑ Index

90. Vidhu Aggarwal
Call SPECS Journal: Toy issue
Tue 15 Sep 2009

---

specs, a journal of arts and culture, invites submissions of critical and/or creative work for the 3rd volume on the theme of "Toys." We seek works of fiction, non-fiction, cultural criticism, artwork, poetry, and pieces that blur genre boundaries. The editorial board consists of writers and academics from various fields. We are excited by specialty, an excess of detail, fragments, narratives, meta-narratives, and more. We are particularly interested in works that examine contemporary culture and/or cross the critical/creative divide while riffing on the theme of "Toys" in multiple ways (philosophy, anthropology, mythology):

-Misfit toys
-Dioramas
-Lilliputia
-The multicultural body in toys
-Technophilia/ Techno-animism
-Automata & Clockworks
-Bobbleheads, Marytoshkyas, & Dashboard figurines
-Barbie Dolls / Action Figures / Gendered toys
-Neverlands/Wonderlands/Child Stars
-Toy as Totem: Models, Simulations, and Miniatures
-Marionettes
-Kawaii/Japanese toy culture
-Animals as accessories / Furries
-Prize in the box / Tchotchkes / Kitsch / Nostalgia
-Toy Mediums (a la Daniel Tiffany)
-Sex toys
-Taxidermy / Living Dolls / Mannequins/ Replicants
-Commodified icons
-Pageantry

Online submissions are preferred ([redacted]) Please visit www.specsjournal.org for submission guidelines and regulations. Also, visit us on Twitter and Facebook for real time updates, news, publication schedule and more.

Deadline: Feb 15 for critical papers, March 15 for everything else.

↑ Index

91. Jack Foley

FlashPoint's Finnegans Wake issue UPDATED!

Tue 15 Sep 2009

FlashPoint
UPDATES its Finnegans Wake issue

with

Patrick A. McCarthy on the film
"Passages from Finnegans Wake
and a special

"Notes on Mary Manning" who staged the play on which the film is based as well as Alan Tucker on the Wake and Morris Cox's March Demon

http://www.flashpointmag.com celebrates

FINNEGANS WAKE

on its 70th Re-Birthday!

GEORGE CINCLAIR GIBSON

MARY ELLEN BUTE

KARL REISMAN

SUZANNE NIXON

ERIC ROSENBLOOM

STEPHEN WALSH & BRIAN O'TOOLE

JAMES JOYCE

LUCIA JOYCE

STELLA STEYN

JOHN ATKINSON

KIT SMYTH BASQUIN

ELLIOT KAPLAN

JOHN MATTHIAS

JOHN RYSKAMP

DAVID HICKMAN

PETER O'BRIEN

ROSALIE GANCIE

JOE BRENNAN

JR FOLEY

CARLO PARCELLI

"Along the frontier where the arts & politics clash ..."

↑ Index

92. Jeffrey Side
Anne Waldman interview at The Argotist Online
Tue 15 Sep 2009

Anne Waldman interviewed by Pam Brown----Part 1:
http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Waldman%20interview.htm

↑ Index

93. Warner, James
Re: Series A Conversations mini-conference in Chicago
Tue 15 Sep 2009

Sent from my Windows Mobile® phone.

-----Original Message-----
From: William Allegrezza <[redacted]>
Sent: Tuesday, September 15, 2009 3:23 PM
To: [redacted] <[redacted]>
Subject: Series A Conversations mini-conference in Chicago

Please come to the Series A Conversations mini-conference on Saturday, Sept 19 in Chicago at the Hyde Park Art Center. The HPAC is at 5020 S. Cornell in Hyde Park. It has a parking lot and free street parking and is close to both Metra and the CTA (only 15-20 minutes from downtown).

BYOB. The conference is not associated with any university or organization except for Series A (which is not really an organization at all). Feel free to come and throw your voice into the conversation and perhaps join us afterward for food and drink.

All events take place in the 4833 studio room.

10:00-11:15 New Media Poetics--Film and Poetry (with a film screening)
Francesco Levato, Moderator
Kurt Heintz, Julia Miller, Eric Gelehrter, and Nate Slawson

11:30-12:30 Other People's Poetry
Tim Yu
Srikanth (Chicu) Reddy
Judith Goldman

12:45-1:45 Poetry and Place
Raymond Bianchi and Garin Cycholl,

2:00-3:00 Poetry Publication--Founding, Editing, and Distributing a Print Journal

Chad Heltzel, Moderator
Jennie Berner, Garrett Brown, Tasha Fouts,
Jennifer Moore, Sara Tracey, and Snezana Zabic

3:15-4:45 Rapid Poetry Reading
Bill Allegrezza, Moderator

Larry O'Dean, Tim Yu
Kristy Bowen, Srikanth (Chicu) Reddy
Quraysh Ali Lansana, Ray Bianchi
Kristy Odelius, Garin Cycholl
Chad Heltzel ,
Dan Godston,
Simone Muench,
Nick Demske, and many others.

For more information, contact Bill Allegrezza at [redacted].

↑ Index

94. Stuart Ross

Toronto indie bookstore birthday bash with Eileen Myles, bill bissett, Lee Ann Brown, Stuart Ross & more

Tue 15 Sep 2009

For those of you in Toronto who would like to help celebrate one of the great indie bookstores, come to Harbourfront tomorrow night (Sept 16)...

This Ain't the Rosedale Library 30th birthday tribute

Celebrate with Toronto's bastion of indie bookselling (voted one of the top ten independent bookstores in the world by the Guardian) as it celebrates three decades of peddling poetry and prose.

Wednesday, September 16
7:30pm - 9:00pm
York Quay Centre: Brigantine Room
235 Queens Quay West
Toronto

Admission: $8

[redacted]

With readings by bill bissett, Lee Ann Brown, Eileen Myles, Stuart Ross; showing off the Six String Nation guitar with Jowi Taylor; and an after party in the store's new home neighbourhood of Kensington Market. After party at Supermarket 268 Augusta Avenue.

Call the box office at [redacted], or find details on purchasing tickets right here.

Jaymz Bee: Canadian emcee, party consultant, producer, director, writer, lecturer, musician, writer and radio personality Jaymz Bee was the lead singer for The Look People from 1985 to 1994. He currently hosts Jazz in the City on JAZZ.FM 91 in Toronto, and makes regular appearances on Benmergui in the Morning.

bill bissett garnered international attention in the 1960s as a pre-eminent figure of the counter-culture movement in Canada and the UK. In 1964, he founded blewointment press, which published the works of bpNichol and Steve McCaffery, among others. bissett¹s charged readings, which never fail to amaze his audiences, incorporate sound poetry, chanting and singing, the verve of which is only matched by his prolific writing career ‹ over 70 books of bissett¹s poetry have been published. He reads from his latest ³textual vision²: sublingual.

Lee Ann Brown was born in Japan in 1963 and was raised in Charlotte, NC. She is the author of two full-length collections of poetry, The Sleep that Changed Everything, and Polyverse (which received the New American Poetry Series Award), a song cycle, The 13th Sunday in Ordinary Time, as well as numerous chapbooks and journal publications. Her poetry is widely anthologized. She reads from The Sleep that Changed Everything, which Robin Blaser called ³an astonishing, wonderful book, top-of-the-line poetry.²

Eileen Myles, named ³the rock star of modern poetry² by BUST magazine, is the author of more than 20 books of poetry and prose, including Chelsea Girls, Cool for You, Sorry, Tree, and Not Me, and is the co-editor of The New Fuck You. Myles was head of the writing programme at University of California, San Diego, from 2002 to 2007, and she has written extensively on art and writing and the cultural scene. Of Sorry, Tree her most recent volume, Chicago Review said: ³Her politics are overt, her physicality raw, yet it is the subtle gentle noticing in her poems that overwhelms.² Her most recent title is "The Importance of Being Iceland" published in the Semiotext(e) Active Agents series about which Bruce Hainley said: "Even despite it being an age that's 'non-verbal, media-oriented, ultra-visual, and naturally pro-money,' in an America that's 'rapidly becoming this place which is nothing,' I was still going to insist that Eileen Myles is our Djuna Barnes and our Gertrude Stein, but past is past, and it's just as important to remember that she's a living force and as good as it gets."

Stuart Ross has been active in the Canadian literary underground for three decades. He publishes Peter O'Toole: A Magazine of One-Line Poems, and is the Poetry Editor at Mansfield Press and the Fiction and Poetry Editor for This Magazine. Stuart¹s most recent books are Buying Cigarettes for the Dog, Dead

Cars in Managua, and I Cut My Finger. He has been shopping at This Ain¹t the Rosedale Library for 30 years.

Jowi Taylor is a multiple-award-winning writer and broadcaster best known for his long-running CBC Radio programme Global-Village, the Peabody Award-winning radio series The Wire: The Impact of Electricity on Music and its celebrated companion series, The Nerve: Music and the Human Experience. His independent ³Six String Nation² multi-media project centred around a guitar built literally from pieces of Canadian heritage combines Jowi¹s various fascinations, including music, media, community building and the intersection of Canada¹s history and multicultural identity. He presents his book about the project, Six String Nation: 64 Pieces, 6 Strings, 1 Canada, 1 Guitar.

↑ Index

95. Ruth Lepson

Re: tom taylor has passed away

Tue 15 Sep 2009

---

very moving & a wonderful face he had. sorry for your loss.

On 9/14/09 8:55 PM, "peter ganick" <[redacted]> wrote:

> tom taylor has passed away after a long struggle with cancer. as a writer, publisher, and photographer as a writer, a publisher, and photograper he performed a vital part of the literary community. many of us are very sad about this. the link below connects to a good profile of tom and his ideas.
> p ganick.....
>
> http://jimleftwichtextimagepoem.blogspot.com/2009_09_13_archive.html

↑ Index

96. Stephen Vincent

Meditations in a Time of Delusions and Lies – 30

Tue 15 Sep 2009

My friend, the poet,Â scholar, and citizen, Hilton Obenzinger ju

My friend, the poet,Â scholar, and citizen, Hilton Obenzinger just put this piece into the air waves. Strikes a chord with, and hope with you, too: & share it with your neighbors in the USA (and from all I hear you might include Italian friends as well!)

Meditations in a Time of Delusions and Lies â€“ 30

Â

Stop the Lynch Mob: We Need the Real Deal

Â

September
13, 2009

Â

Hilton Obenzinger

Â

Â

Birthers, deathers, tenthers, gunners, lifers, Foxers, secessionists, and all the rest of these extremists believe their America has gotten stolen out from under them.Â Stolen right before their very eyes by the crazy fact of an election!

Â

Letâ€™s
not give it back.

Â

But theyâ€™re getting frantic, and dangerous, egged on by demagogues like Glenn Beck.Â Their antics during the town halls and after have increasingly taken on the smell of a lynch mob.Â A white congressman from South Carolina, a protÃ©gÃ© of Strom Thurman and a member of a pro-Confederacy organization, insults the president during his health care joint session of Congress; then the Republicans rebut Obamaâ€™s speech from, of all places, the Strom Thurmond Room in the Capital.Â

Â

No one needs a degree in semiotics to read these signs.

Â

A black man is in the White House, someone who actually has brains, knows how to speak, and believes he can make government serve the people.Â Itâ€™s too much for these people to bear â€“ Strom Thurmond and all the old segregationists are rolling in their graves.

Â

A lot of people are seeing this and describing it the same way, not just paranoid leftists like me.Â Hereâ€™s Joe Klein, writing in his blog for the eminently mainstream Time: â€œCould I just say that the intensity of this is getting pretty

scaryâ€¦ and dangerous? Â We are heading toward a cliff and the usual brakes of civil discourse are not working.Â Indeed, the Republicans have the pedal to the metalâ€¦Â I have a sinking feeling about where weâ€™re headed now.Â I hope Iâ€™m wrong.â€

So how do you head off a lynch mob?Â Mark Twain said all it took was one brave man to turn a crazed mob around, just one to stand up to tell the frothing crowd that theyâ€™re all fools and they should just go home.Â Thatâ€™s all it would take.Â One person who stares down the blood-lust, who says enough is enough, and as a result the crowd snaps out of its trance.

I hate to tell you this, but that one person is you â€“ and me.Â

Weâ€™re just going to have stand in front of a crowd of rabid birthers and tell them to go home.Â All of us need to stand up. Â Â Everyone who supported Obama, all of the progressive activists and organizations, civil rights, womenâ€™s, environmentalist groups, churches â€“ everyone.Â And that includes those few Republicans who reject the extreme right â€“ even those conservatives who criticize Obama but do not succumb to the fringe hysteria.Â

This is the time to call for decency and basic democratic rights â€“ from everyone.Â Now before itâ€™s too late, before the violence grows even more, before . . . well, you get the idea.

Â

But where is it?Â Opposition to the growing fascist trend canâ€™t be left only to wisecracks by Jon Stewart and Bill Maher or to rallies organized by the White House.Â Whatâ€™s going on?

Â

The problem is that a lot of progressives have their own criticisms of Obama.Â He called for a freeze of Israeli settlements â€“ unprecedented â€“ but many believe itâ€™s not enough.Â Heâ€™s starting negotiations with Iran but heâ€™s expanding the war in Afghanistan.Â He pumps stimulus into the economy but he seems to coddle Wall Street.Â He supports gay rights but wavers on gays in the military.Â He calls for health care reform but steers away from the single-payer system and seems even to be willing to abandon the â€œpublic option.â€Â Obama concedes too much, he accommodates the right too much, heâ€™s too moderate, heâ€™s too nice, he doesnâ€™t fight enough.

Â

Stop!Â Obamaâ€™s not a radical, not a revolutionary, and certainly not a socialist.Â But the fact is that the ultra-right and the sector of the ruling class represented by Cheney-Palin think he is.Â Heâ€™s shifting the direction of America in small but important ways, and once you start to think about change all sorts of things could happen.Â And these rightwing extremists know it, even if the left doesnâ€™t.Â

Â

Itâ€™s
laughable.Â Except they got guns.

Â

So progressives, liberals and all decent people have to do something theyâ€™re not used doing and havenâ€™t been really good at. We need to learn the art of how to support and pressure at the same time.Â That sounds like walking backwards and forwards without falling down.Â But no matter our position on issues, no matter our criticisms, we need to defend the president and his administration.Â For a lot of folks, this is uncharted territory.Â How to voice critical support?Â But we risk losing all of our democratic rights, and the possibilities of more change, if we donâ€™t learn.

Â

I donâ€™t have much connection with coalitions and organizations, but if you do, start talking on all levels, local to national, talk to friends, talk to everyone.Â We need to activate, participate, and demonstrate.Â

Â

In the tradition of a true crank, Iâ€™ll even volunteer a name for the mobilization: The Real Deal.Â FDR had his New Deal, Truman tried his Fair Deal â€“ now we need a Real Deal, one that deals with reality and the new America of many peoples, races, religions, ideas.

Â

Are
you ready to stare down a lynch mob?

Â

↑ Index

97. Jeffrey Side

Interview with David Meltzer about Rockpile

Tue 15 Sep 2009

Interview with David Meltzer about the Rockpile poetry and music tour. This is a pre-tour interview, another will follow after the tour:

http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Rockpile%20Tour%20Interviews.htm

↑ Index

98. Pam Brown
Reviewers for Jacket
Tue 15 Sep 2009

Hello again poeticists,

We have assigned a few of the books listed earlier

but if you'd like to review

cris cheek's 'part: short life housing'
More information:
http://www.ndorward.com/blog/?p=465

or

'Even the dog won't touch me' a collection of short stories by Tom Bradley (published by Ahadada) - an audio book.
Information:
http://www.ahadadabooks.com/content/blogsection/5/41/

Please backchannel me [redacted]

Thanks for your responses

Cheerio from Pam

--

_____

blog : http://thedeletions.blogspot.com
website : http://pambrownbooks.blogspot.com/
associate editor : http://jacketmagazine.com/

_____

↑ Index

99. Jennifer Karmin
Sept 19: Chicago Poetry Mini-Conferece (updated info)
Tue 15 Sep 2009

Please come to the Series A Conversations mini-conference from 9am-5pm on Saturday, September 19th in Chicago at the Hyde Park Art Center.
http://www.hydeparkart.org

The HPAC is at 5020 S. Cornell in Hyde Park. It has a parking lot and free street parking and is close to both Metra and the CTA (only 15-20 minutes from downtown). All events will take place in the 4833 studio room.

Free and open to all. Panels by writers on poetry publication, new media poetics, contemporary poetry schools, and much more. Over 30 writers will talk/read. The day will conclude with a rapid-fire reading.

BYOB. The conference is not associated with any university or organization except for Series A (which is not really an organization at all). Come and throw your voice into the conversation and perhaps join us afterward for food and drink.

9-10 "Why Do We Have Poetry Readings?"
moderator: A D Jameson
Jennifer Karmin
Shanny Maney-Magnuson
Ira S. Murfin
Larry Sawyer
Erin Teegarden

10:00-11:15 New Media Poetics
--Film and Poetry (with a film screening)
moderator: Francesco Levato
Kurt Heintz
Julia Miller
Eric Gelehrter
Nate Slawson

11:30-12:30 Other People's Poetry
Tim Yu
Srikanth (Chicu) Reddy
Judith Goldman

12:45-1:45 Poetry and Place
Raymond Bianchi
Garin Cycholl

2:00-3:00 Poetry Publication
--Founding, Editing, and Distributing a Print Journal
moderator: Chad Heltzel
Jennie Berner
Garrett Brown
Tasha Fouts
Jennifer Moore
Sara Tracey
Snezana Zabic

3:15-4:45 Rapid Poetry Reading
moderator: Bill Allegrezza

Larry O'Dean
Tim Yu
Kristy Bowen
Srikanth (Chicu) Reddy
Quraysh Ali Lansana
Ray Bianchi
Kristy Odelius
Garin Cycholl
Chad Heltzel
Dan Godston
Simone Muench
Jennifer Karmin
Nick Demske
and many others

This day of events is curated by Bill Allegrezza, [redacted]
http://www.moriapoetry.com/conference.html

↑ Index

100. Alan Sondheim

New McCarthyism: Fear of Science and the War on Rationality (fwd)

Wed 16 Sep 2009

Apologies for posting this on Poetics - but these issues affect us all.

- Alan

---------- Forwarded message ----------
Date: Wed, 16 Sep 2009 00:27:06 -0400 (EDT)
From: Alan Sondheim <[redacted]>
To: Cyb <[redacted]>, Wryting-L <[redacted]>, Cyberculture <[redacted]>
Subject: New McCarthyism: Fear of Science and the War on Rationality (fwd)

---------- Forwarded message ----------
Date: Wed, 16 Sep 2009 00:08:27 -0400
From: [redacted]
To: [redacted]
Subject: New McCarthyism: Fear of Science and the War on Rationality

New McCarthyism: Fear of Science and the War on Rationality

> Parts of America are slipping back toward the > Dark Ages, when fear of knowledge and science > led to an impoverishment of civilization.

By Peter Gleick, Pacific Institute

Alternet.org - Posted on September 10, 2009

http://www.alternet.org/story/142520/

As more and more of the world looks to knowledge, education and science as the routes out of poverty and conflict, parts of America seems to be slipping back toward the Dark Ages, when fear of knowledge and science led to an impoverishment of civilization that had lasting effects for centuries.

I've recently returned from two weeks in northern Europe, and a series of scientific water meetings and discussions with people from over 130 countries. They read the news from the United States with incredulity. America is still seen as the place to come for aspiring students and scientists around the world. Our public universities, despite assaults on budgets, independence and knowledge, still struggle to maintain their excellence. But my friends and colleagues from overseas are increasingly shocked, as are many of us in the U.S., by the expanding efforts of home-grown extremists to undermine rational discourse, eliminate the use of fact and science in policymaking, and shut down public debate over the vital issues of our times through hate, vitriol, and ad hominem attacks.

Looking through the eyes of my overseas colleagues, what do we see?

We see a debate over providing health care to every American that is based -- not on facts or civilized discourse -- but on screaming mobs shutting down public discussions and the use of straw man arguments to promote fear among the public and policymakers. Yet every major country of Europe provides basic health care for its population.

We see President Obama appoint one of the nation's best scientists in the areas of energy, environment, and national security -- Dr. John Holdren -- to be his Science Advisor, and then have right-wing mouthpieces like Glenn Beck spread ad hominem lies about him because of their fear that facts and actual science may once again inform presidential action. This should be a recognizable tactic to us -- lying about a person to diminish their effectiveness. In fact, these extremists want to undermine the forward-looking policies that would prevent the very draconian measures they say they deplore.

We see unambiguous evidence that climate change is already affecting human health and the global economy -- evidence often collected by world-leading American scientists and scientific institutions -- while public opinion polls show that the American people continue to be misled about the risks facing us by conservative pundits who ignore, misunderstand, or intentionally misuse that science to mislead the public into fear of change. Yet we already see huge economic and environmental opportunities in adapting to the reality of climate change.

Fear is an effective tool -- as hate groups and extremists know. It is no accident that repressive regimes of all kinds -- fascists, the Nazis, Stalin, religious states, madrasses -- use tools of hatred, anti-intellectualism, and fear to control knowledge, universities, and intellectuals. Fear grows best when sown in fields of ignorance, while science, rationality, and education are the greatest weapons modern societies have against irrational fear. No wonder Beck and his ilk have intellectuals in their sights; so do the leaders of Iran, and Burma, and the Taliban, and North Korea, for similar reasons.

What does this have to do with water -- the ostensible focus of my blog? Nothing and everything. I try to focus on numbers here and what they mean for international and local water issues. Yet water policy, or any policy, must also be based on rationality, facts, and civil discourse. Similarly, solving any bad water contamination problem requires one of two approaches: don't let the contamination into our water supply in the first place, or apply the right filters to clean it up when it does. The same rule applies to those who would pollute our public discourse with hate and noise: don't let their vitriol into our media supply or filter it out before it can poison our democracy.

[Dr. Peter Gleick is president of the Pacific Institute, an internationally recognized water expert and a MacArthur Fellow.]

c 2009 Pacific Institute All rights reserved.

View this story online at:
http://www.alternet.org/story/142520/

Portside aims to provide material of interest to people on the left that will help them to interpret the world and to change it.

Submit via email: [redacted]
Submit via the Web: portside.org/submit
Frequently asked questions: portside.org/faq
Subscribe: portside.org/subscribe
Unsubscribe: portside.org/unsubscribe
Account assistance: portside.org/contact
Search the archives: portside.org/archive

↑ Index

101. steve dalachinsky

Re: Call for Poetry Film and Video - Deadline January 15, 2010

Wed 16 Sep 2009

---

poetrty too or only video related stuff

On Mon, 14 Sep 2009 21:32:48 -0500 Francesco Levato
<[redacted]> writes:
> Split This Rock invites poets, writers, artists, activists, dreamers,
> and > all concerned world citizens to submit original poetry films or > videos for > the 2nd Split This Rock Poetry Festival, to be held March 2010. We > are > looking for artistic, experimental, and challenging film/video > interpretations of poetry that explore critical social issues.
> Selected work > will be screened during the Split This Rock Poetry Festival film > program.

> Entries can be up to 15 minutes long.
>
> The deadline for submissions is January 15, 2010. See the guidelines
> and
> entry form for full details and submission requirements.
>
> Guidelines:
> http://www.splitthisrock.org/documents/2010film_guidelines.pdf
>
> Entry Form
> http://www.splitthisrock.org/documents/2010film_entry.pdf
>
> Please share this call widely.
>
>
>

↑ Index

102. cris cheek

Justin Katko: Thursday 17th September - "THE DEATH OF PRINGLE"

Wed 16 Sep 2009

21st Century Poetic Praxis presents:

Justin Katko

THE DEATH OF PRINGLE

7.30 Talk (i the gallery adjacent to the Leonard Theater) Conventions of the Narrative Long Poem will use examples from Edward Dorn's Gunslinger and the Eddic poem Voluspa, as well as part of a framing for Justin's own *Death of Pringle. *

8.15 Performance The Death of Pringle - dramatic reading of a narrative long poem. Just under 35 minutes, it will be sung in its entirety by the author, who will accompany himself with piano, live computer processing, and text projection.

Leonard Theater, Peabody Hall

Thursday 17th September, 2009

All are Welcome. Free Event. Sponsored by the Department of English.

Bio

Justin Katko is currently pursuing a PhD in English Literature from Queens' College at the University of Cambridge. He is a graduate of Miami University, having received a BPh in Interdisciplinary Studies from the Western College Program, followed by an MA in Poetry from the Department of English. Just recently he received an MFA in Electronic Writing from Brown University. A pamphlet of poems, Praxis Etudes, is forthcoming from Grasp Press (England), and his lyric opera The Death of Pringle is forthcoming from The Press Gang (NYC). He is the editor of the small poetry press Critical Documents.

↑ Index

103. cris cheek

post _ moot: call for proposals

Wed 16 Sep 2009

Call for creative proposals papers / performances / presentations (deadline November 20th).

post _ moot: a 2nd convocation of unorthodox cultural and poetic practices

April 22-25, 2010, Miami University of Ohio

The second Post-Moot Convocation, an international conference to be held at Miami in spring of 2010 to foster creative exchange among poets in the early 21st Century, will present papers / performances / presentations on a range of contemporary issues in poetics.

Topics will likely include but will not be restricted to (we welcome other formulations):

- ecopoetics
- issues of writing and power
- postconceptualist poetics
- performance and performance writing
- spatiality
- the book as object
- poetic economies
- sound / noise
- versions
- state of lyric
- signifying on older poetic traditions
- translation
- electronic archives

Proposals should take account of the fact that upwards of 50 people are likely to be included in the program. In other words we can consider presentations that have extended duration, but we hope not to get into exhaustive parallel paneling and hope for proposals of between 15-25 mins on average. We have a variety of presentation / performance venues available, dependent upon proposals. We can host work by participants unable to attend in person.

We look forwards to hearing from you: the post _ moot collective (Maria Auxiliadora Alvarez, Tammy Brown, cris cheek, WIlliam R. Howe, Cathy Wagner)

please respond to: [redacted]

ps

post _ moot 1 occurred in 2006, with generous participation from Michael Basinski, Brian Brown, Peter Castaldo, Rachel Chase, cris cheek, Pete Drummond, Steph Elstro, Alan Golding, K. Lorraine Graham, Kevin R. Hollo, William R. Howe, jUStin katKO, Claire Keys, Steven Paul Lansky, Kirsten Lavers, Mel Nichols, Tom Orange, Camille Paloque-Berges, Nicole Proctor, Linda Russo, Rod Smith, Joshua Strauss, Rodrigo Toscano, Keith Tuma, Mark Wallace, Leigh Waltz, Tyrone Williams, Aaron Yandrich.

post _ moot featured readings; screenings; book launches; a bookateria; curated digital stations; papers; panel discussions and performances

- apologies for cross-posting

↑ Index

104. Small Press Traffic

REMINDER: David Larsen and Brandon Brown THIS WEEKEND!

Wed 16 Sep 2009

Amongst all of your other Fall activities, you shouldn't forget about these stellar events!
**
*David Larsen and Brandon Brown read and perform works in conversation with Translation:
September 18, 2009: Event begins at 7:30pm
Timken Hall at CCA San Francisco
1111 8th Street, San Francisco
$8-15 admission
members free!*

*Then: join us for a Dialogues event with David Larsen where he presents his talk: Translation as Conceptual Writing Practice
September 19, 2009: Event begins at 1pm
Classroom 101 at CCA San Francisco

1111 8th Street, San Francisco
$10 admission/$5 for members*

David Larsen returns for his first Bay Area reading since leaving San Francisco last summer. For a time, he was a co-curator of the New Yipes poetry and video series at Oakland's 21 Grand. He now lives in New Haven, where he is writing a book on historical semiotics. His translation of al-Husayn ibn Ahmad ibn Khalawayh's treatise on the Names of the Lion appeared this year from Atticus/Finch (Seattle). Find discussion about this new work here.<http://74.125.155.132/search?qÊche:http://isola-di-rifiuti.blogspot.com/2009/07/david-larsens-names-of-lion.html>

Brandon Brown is a poet. In 2008, TAXT press published Camels! In 2009, Mitzvah Chaps will publish Wondrous Things I Have Seen. He co-curated the Performance Writing series at New Langton Arts, The (New) Reading Series at 21 Grand gallery, and publishes small press books under the imprint OMG!
--
Samantha Giles
Executive Director
Small Press Traffic Literary Arts Center
sptraffic.org
smallpresstraffic.blogspot.com

↑ Index

105. Del Ray Cross
SHAMPOO 36
Wed 16 Sep 2009

---

o Normal 0 false false false MicrosoftInternetExplorer4 /* Style Definitions */ table.MsoNormalTable {mso-style-name:"Table Normal"; mso-tstyle-rowband-size:0; mso-tstyle-colband-size:0; mso-style-noshow:yes; mso-style-parent:""; mso-padding-alt:0in 5.4pt 0in 5.4pt; mso-para-margin:0in; mso-para-margin-bottom:.0001pt; mso-pagination:widow-orphan; font-size:10.0pt; font-family:"Times New Roman"; mso-fareast-font-family:"Times New Roman"; mso-ansi-language:#0400; mso-fareast-language:#0400; mso-bidi-language:#0400;}

Dear Salon Selecteds,

I'm elated to present you with SHAMPOO issue 36 !

Check it all out here: www.ShampooPoetry.com . . .

where you'll soak & steam in relevant poetries by Zhuang Yisa, Arisa White, Dana Ward, Gautam Verma, TC Tolbert, Steve Tills, Eileen Tabios, Suejin Suh, Paul Siegell, Ryan B. Richey, Daniel C. Remein, Matt Reeck, Stephen Ratcliffe, Caitlyn Paley, Anjali Khosla Mullany, Michael Montlack, rob mclennan, Ian M. McCarty, Esa MÃ¤kijÃ¤rvi, Anthony Madrid, Alana Madison, erica lewis, Caroline Klocksiem, Raud Kennedy, Alexander Jorgensen, Russell Jaffe, Luke Humphries, Alisa Heinzman, Eli Halpern, Christoph Girard, Angela Genusa, Amy Garrett-Brown, Ricky Garni, Mark Stephen Finein, Laurie Duggan, Denise Dooley, Susan Denning, Peter Davis, Aaron Crippen, Marisa Crawford, Christopher Cheney, Will Burke, Megan Breiseth, Lucas Bernhardt, Robert J. Baumann, Louis Armand, Stan Apps & Sherman Alexie, along with radiantly alive SHAMPOOArt by Angela Genusa!

SHAMPOO thanks you !

Herbal essence,

Del Ray Cross, Editor
SHAMPOO
clean hair / good poetry
www.ShampooPoetry.com

(If you'd prefer not to receive these emails, please let me know.)

↑ Index

106. amy king
Slaves to Do These Things - Reviewers?
Wed 16 Sep 2009

Hi All,
I have a new book forthcoming in the months ahead -- if you're interested in reviewing it, please drop a note at [redacted]
Thanks,
Amy
About Slaves to Do These Things:
I'm portable. My mind travels / the verse and valleys of whole peopleÂ says the poet.Â Correct! Readers of this book will discover their own memories. They will melt in them, amazed, lullabied, dramatized, shocked that they exist. Amy King is a true bard.

â€” TomaÅ¾ Å alamunÂ Smoke nâ€™ hott, these poems emerge as â€¦Â audible diamonds that cut, where Rock is King & candor disarms paranoia, or, in Kingâ€™s case, downright dismembers it:Â Forgive me, I am the final/ seminary soul to check your shape/ in the dress of that embalming line.Â Â Passengered adeptly under the influence of Lorca, Neruda maybe, (Buried by midnight/ I am a warm/ fly in amber.) the reader wants to shout,Â GO DUENDE!!!

â€”Jeni Olin

_____

NEW BOOK

Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htmÂ For a review copy, please email me directly.

↑ Index

107. Jonathan Skinner

LANGUAGE ARTS LIVE (Bates College, ME) presents JACK COLLOM this THURSDAY

Wed 16 Sep 2009

LANGUAGE ARTS LIVE, FALL 2009
BATES COLLEGE, LEWISTON, MAINE

http://languageartslive.wordpress.com/

Jack Collom
7:30 Thursday 9/17, Muskie Archives (70 Campus Avenue)

Jack Collom grew up in Illinois and Colorado small towns, walking the woods, loving nature, then studied Forestry at Colorado A&M. After four years in the U.S. Air Force as a clerk-typist, he worked in factories for twenty years while becoming a poet. For the past thirty years, Collom has worked as a freelance poetry teacher, and also taught in the writing program at Naropa University in Boulder, CO. Collom has published twenty-three books and chapbooks of poetry, the latest being Situations, Sings (with Lyn Hejinian, published by Adventures in Poetry, 2008) and Exchanges of Earth & Sky (Fishdrum, 2006). His selected poems, Red Car Goes By, was published by Tuumba Press in 2001. Collom also has authored three books on and of writings by children, including Poetry Everywhere (Teachers & Writers Collaborative, 1994).

Tessa Nicholas / Arielle Greenberg
4:15 Thursday 10/1, Chase Hall Lounge (56 Campus Avenue)

Tessa Joseph Nicholas, former editor of Carolina Quarterly, has published poems in journals such as Sulfur, Talisman, minor/american, Cold Mountain Review, and the Seneca Review. She holds an MFA in creative writing from Cornell University and a PhD in English from UNC-Chapel Hill, where she teaches New Media Studies in the Department of Computer Science. Tessa is currently completing a poetry manuscript Kennebec: Birthing based on the 1785-1812 diaries of Martha Ballard, who during these years, worked as a midwife in Hallowell, Maine, the poet¹s hometown.

Arielle Greenberg is the author of the poetry collections My Kafka Century (Action Books, 2005) and Given (Verse, 2002) and the chapbooks Shake Her (Dusie Kollektiv, 2009) and Farther Down: Songs from the Allergy Trials (New Michigan, 2003). She is co-editor of Starting Today: Poems from Obama¹s First 100 Days (U of Iowa, forthcoming 2010), amongst other anthologies. Greenberg also is editor of a college reader, Youth Subcultures: Exploring Underground America (Longman, 2006). She is an Associate Professor in the poetry program at Columbia College Chicago and lives in Evanston, IL with her family. Greenberg is spending 2009-2010 in Belfast, Maine working on an oral history of the new back-to-the-land movement.

Chris Vitiello
7:30 Monday 10/12, Skelton Lounge (Chase Hall 205, 56 Campus Avenue)

Chris Vitiello is the author of two books of poetry Nouns Swarm A Verb (Xurban Books, 1999) and Irresponsibility (Ahsahta Press, 2008). Vitiello has had several short plays performed at Small Press Traffic¹s Poet¹s Theatre Jubilee, and he was a founding editor of Proliferation magazine. Vitiello¹s highly experimental work (which even includes mathematical signs) is challenging yet surprisingly accessible, owing to a grain of autobiographical reflection that wends throughout the broader, philosophical address to questions of language and consciousness. He lives in Durham, NC.

Bill Berkson
7:30 Monday 10/19, Skelton Lounge (Chase Hall 205, 56 Campus Avenue)

Bill Berkson is a poet and critic who lives in San Francisco and New York. From 1984 to 2008 years he was professor of Liberal Arts at the San Francisco Art Institute. He is a corresponding editor for Art in America and a contributor to such other journals as Artforum, Aperture and artcritical.com. His recent books include an epistolary collaboration with Bernadette Mayer entitled What¹s Your Idea of a Good Time?; Sudden Address: Selected Lectures 1981-2006; Goods and Services; BILL, a words-and-images combine with Colter Jacobsen; and Portrait and Dream: New & Selected Poems from Coffee House Press. He was the 2006 Distinguished Mellon Fellow at the Skowhegan School of Painting and Sculpture and received the 2008 Goldie for Literature from the San Francisco Bay Guardian.

Cecilia Vicuña 7:30 Monday 11/2, Benjamin Mays Center (95 Russell Street)
4:15 Tuesday 11/3, Olin 104 (75 Russell Street), Premiere screening of Vicuña¹s film, Kon Kon (2009)

Poet and artist, Cecilia Vicuña performs and exhibits her work widely in Europe, Latin America and the U.S. Vicuña is the author of sixteen books, including Palabrarmas (RIL, 2005); Instan (Kelsey Street Press, 2003); UL, Four Mapuche Poets, edited by Cecilia Vicuña (LARP, l998); QUIPOem / The Precarious, The Art & Poetry of Cecilia Vicuña, edited by Catherine de Zegher (Wesleyan University Press, l997); and Unravelling Words & The Weaving of Water, edited by Eliot Weinberger (Graywolf Press, l992). Templo e¹Saliva / Spit Temple, a collection of her oral performances, edited by Rosa Alcalá, is forthcoming by Factory School Press. With Ernesto Livon Grosman, Vicuña is editor of 500 Years of Latin American Poetry: A Bilingual Anthology for Oxford University Press (2009). Vicuña's visual work has been exhibited at the Museo Nacional de Bellas Artes de Santiago, The Institute of Contemporary Arts (ICA) and The Whitechapel Art Gallery in London, and at The Whitney Museum of American Art and MoMA (Museum of Modern Art) in New York. She also is a political activist and founding member of Artists for Democracy. Vicuña¹s 2009 documentary, Kon Kon (HD Video, 50 minutes), set on the Chilean coast and near the Aconcagua, the tallest mountain in the Western hemisphere, explores connections between the artist¹s works and ancient traditions, while also bearing witness to ecological and cultural destruction. For more information on the artist¹s work, see www.ceciliavicuna.org

Theodore Enslin
7:30 Monday 11/30, Skelton Lounge (Chase Hall 205, 56 Campus Avenue)

Theodore Enslin has published 118 books of poetry, most recently Then and Now: Selected Poems, 1943-1993 (National Poetry Foundation, 1999) and Nine (National Poetry Foundation, 2004). Enslin's 119th volume, a prose collection, I, Benjamin, A Quasi-Autobiography, is due out from Macpherson & Co. in 2009. Enslin lives in Milbridge, Maine, where he recently completed a 20-CD series of readings from his work of the past sixty years.

All Readings Free and Open to the Public

For more information, contact Jonathan Skinner ([redacted] / [redacted]) or Eden Osucha ([redacted] / [redacted])

↑ Index

108. Jim Andrews graphics show
Wed 16 Sep 2009

when the means by which viewers navigate a web site are interesting, viewers are more likely to navigate the site.

partly toward that end, and also to make the vispo.com home page simply more attractive and informative about what is available on the site, i've written some javascript for http://vispo.com that randomly selects one of over 200 graphics for the background of the homepage. i selected the 200+ images from the thousands on vispo.com by eyeballing them to see if they worked as a background on the homepage. most of the images were made with dbCinema; some with The Pen. And whatnot.

the best way to view several of these images is to visit http://vispo.com and either
1. click the colorful VIsPO logo repeatedly
2. click the little white triangle repeatedly
3. if you're on a PC, Ctrl+r reloads the page.

if you're on a PC, the F11 key toggles fullscreen viewing. fullscreen viewing is recommended for vispo.com. this is not a blog.

ja

↑ Index

109. Cara Benson
Predictions book
Wed 16 Sep 2009

New book I've edited just out:

Benson, Cara, ed. Pred
Hi, All,

New book I've edited just out:

Benson, Cara, ed. Predictions. Chain Links, 2009.

Publisher: ChainLinks
PubDate: 9/1/2009
ISBN: 9781930068452
Binding: PAPERBACK
Price: $14.95

Cultural Writing. Edited by Cara Benson, with contributors Paul Raskin, Bart Bridger Woodstrup, Julie Sadler, David Zuga, Jason Zuga, and Monica de la Torre. As is painfully obvious for many a religious leader and many a psychic, predicting the future is an indeterminate business. The work collected in PREDICTIONS takes that indeterminancy as a starting point and celebrates it. A futurist points to how the question of the future, once a matter for dreamers and philosophers, has moved to the center of development and scientific agendas. Several artists, well aware that accelerating changes to the environment require that we learn quickly, suggest how art might help us to understand and to rethink the interface between old technologies and new technologies in this time of environmental crisis. A writer and a scientist team up to tell an alternate story of evolution. And a poet writes, "Predictions acquire full meaning when they apply to the, until then, unimaginable."

Here's a link to its page at Small Press Distribution:
http://www.spdbooks.org/Producte/9781930068452/predictions-chainlinks.aspx

Many thanks,
Cara Benson

_____

http://www.necessetics.com {homepage}

http://www.necessetics.com/sousrature.html {journal}

_____
Do You Yahoo!?
Tired of spam? Yahoo! Mail has the best spam protection around http://mail.yahoo.com

↑ Index

110. Dan Glass
one month and one day
Wed 16 Sep 2009

With + Stand's reading period for the Lisa Robertson issue will remain open until 10/17.

Details:

http://withplusstand.blogspot.com/2009/08/with-stand-4-lisa-robertson-issue.html

"Unconsciously, every work asks itself whether, and if so how, it can exist as a Utopia. And the answer invariably is: through the constellation of its elements." - Adorno, Aesthetic Theory

↑ Index

111. Jorgensen, Alexander
The Body as Conflict & Milwaukee Poem (Winter Movement) Re: SHAMPOO 36
Wed 16 Sep 2009

---

http://www.shampoopoetry.com/ShampooThirtysix/jorgensen.html

Hope you enjoy.

Best,
Alex

↑ Index

112. Country Valley
Looking for a copy of Butterick's A GUIDE TO THE MAXIMUS POEMS
Wed 16 Sep 2009

If someone can spare a copy, email me at [redacted].

Thank you,

Mark Kuniya
Country Valley Press

↑ Index

113. Pam Brown
thanks from Pam at Jacket
Thu 17 Sep 2009

Jacket has assigned the poetry books.

Thanks very much everyone who responded to the call for reviewers for the magazine.

I love youse all.

Pam

--

_____

blog : http://thedeletions.blogspot.com
website : http://pambrownbooks.blogspot.com/
associate editor : http://jacketmagazine.com/

_____

↑ Index

114. Jeffrey Side
Poems by Pam Brown at the The Argotist Online
Thu 17 Sep 2009

Poems by Pam Brown at The Argotist Online:
http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Brown%20poems%202.htm

↑ Index

115. Robert Dewhurst
WILD ORCHIDS #1: Melville
Thu 17 Sep 2009

Announcing WILD ORCHIDS vol. 1. New and affectionate writing on HERMAN MELVILLE by:

KIM EVANS
BENJAMIN FRIEDLANDER
ALAN HALSEY
DONALD PEASE
COURTNEY PFAHL
JOYELLE MCSWEENEY
JENNIFER SCAPPETTONE
GERALDINE MONK
CHRIS SYLVESTER
STACY SZYMASZEK
MARK VON SCHLEGELL

$9, ppd.

WILD ORCHIDS will be an annual edition in which poets, theorists, and visual artists are invited to respond to the work of another in affective and other formally unexpected ways. All details at:

http://wildorchids.endingthealphabet.org

Robert Dewhurst & Sean Reynolds, eds.

↑ Index

116. Sharon Mesmer/David Borchart
Beatty & Mesmer reading 9/22
Thu 17 Sep 2009

Live from Frank's Cocktail Lounge in Brooklyn's lovely Fort Greene . . .

The long-awaited return of the Brooklyn College MFA reading set, fresh with its new flesh, design and locale.

Brooklyn College readers are:

Ian Parfrey
Nickolas Henderson
Gloria Munoz
Jenny Williams

Ex-Brooklyn College readers are:

Paul Beatty (White Boy Shuffle, Joker Joker Deuce -- 1st Poetry Slam champ)

Sharon Mesmer (Annoying Diabetic Bitch, The Virgin Formica, Half Angel, Half Lunch -- Poetry Slam semi-finalist)

7 to 9pm ... free!

* * *

This will be an amazing night of destruction and creation. We need to pack Frank's Lounge with human minds and bodies; so please send this invite on to all friends and foes.

Frank's Cocktail Lounge is at 660 Fulton Street in Brooklyn ([redacted]), located in the Fulton-Lafayette triangle, right off the A/C, the G (Fulton), or a three minute walk from the Atlantic Center.

Please mark your calendars, datebooks, moleskines, and please please PLEASE come out and enjoy your comrades' work.

↑ Index

117. Séamas Cain
New poetry from the Rinn Gaeltacht
Thu 17 Sep 2009

On Friday, September 18th, 2009, IMRAM, the annual Irish-language literary festival, will present a special evening of performances of poetry, music & song from the Rinn Gaeltacht. (The poems will be spoken or sung & simultaneously displayed in powerpoint.)

This event will take place at 7:00 p.m. at THE NEW THEATRE, 43 East Essex Street in Dublin, Ireland. Admission is 5 euros.

Áine Uí Cheallaigh gained acclaim for her version of “Lift the Wings” in Riverdance. She was born in Belfast, her father’s hometown. Her mother was from An Rinn. Her musical influences can be traced to both areas. Her first solo album, "Idir Dhá Chomhairle," was released in 1992.

Stiofán Ó Cadhla is an expert in many areas, including folklore, holy wells, & cartography. His first collection of poetry, "An Creideamh Déanach," explores history & family.

Áine Uí Fhoghlú’s second collection of poetry, "An Liú sa Chuan," won the 2009 Michael Hartnett Award; in their citation the judges praised her "strikingly beautiful" imagery.

The night's events will be steered by bean an tí Catherine Foley.

Friday,
18 September 2009,
7:00 p.m.,
THE NEW THEATRE,
43 East Essex Street,
Dublin, Ireland

Admission is 5 euros.

For additional information about the IMRAM Festival, go to ...

http://www.poetryireland.ie/whats-on/imram.html

http://www.facebook.com/pages/IMRAM-IRISH-LANGUAGE-LITERATURE-FESTIVAL

http://www.facebook.com/pages/IMRAM-FEILE-LITRIOCHTA-GAEILGE

Questions may be put to
Liam Carson, Director of IMRAM Festival at ...

[redacted]

Books featured at
the IMRAM Festival
may be purchased
from ...

Connolly Books,
[redacted]
43 East Essex Street,
Dublin 2, Ireland

beir bua,

Séamas Cain
http://www.freewebs.com/seamascain
http://alazanto.org/seamascain

↑ Index

118. Deborah A. Meadows
Diamond Sutra
Thu 17 Sep 2009

Buffalo List,
Last night I had a chance to attend "Ah! Opera No-Opera" written by poet

Martine Bellen and composer David Rosenboom performed at the Redcat Theatre in LA which will play Sept. 17-18. I highly recommend it. Thrilling music, intense song and dance, and read-aloud materials with light projections and audience interactive to some extent--great. Also interesting as an extension of this work are both the renewed interest in Buddhist sutras as scripts meant to be performed and experienced and the much-anticipated new translation of the Diamond sutra by a Stanford professor Paul Harrison due in 2010. He reconsiders several things and translation choices reading the is/is not not so much as mystical negativity but a sort of nuanced definition to things as, he phrase it, fluid and more relational.

Deborah Meadows

↑ Index

119. Dodie Bellamy

Tuesday, 9-22: Bellamy, Brown, Gluck, Killian read at City Lights

Thu 17 Sep 2009

Please join us for a reading with

Dodie Bellamy
Rebecca Brown
Robert Gluck
Kevin Killian

to celebrate the release of Life As We Show It: Writing On Film edited by Brian Pera and Masha Tupitsyn, published by City Lights Books

<http://www.citylights.com/book/?GCOI‡286100680350>

Life As We Show It is a dynamic cross-genre collection that uses short stories, essays, and poetry to explore the cinematic experience. In these innovative writings, the movie-viewer relationship is positioned as protagonist, theme and plot, and most importantly, as a new genre in its own right.

Tuesday, September 22, 2009, 7:30 p.m.
City Lights Bookstore,
261 Columbus Avenue at Broadway, San Francisco, CA 94133
phone: [redacted]

↑ Index

120. Poetry Project

Events and Workshops at The Poetry Project

Thu 17 Sep 2009

Poetry Season is upon us! Here¹s the info on our first reading of the year, Fall workshops, and a bus ride with our friends at The Foundry Theatre:

Wednesday, September 23, 8 PM

Prismatic Publics:
Nicole Brossard, Margaret Christakos & Catriona Strang

A reading to celebrate Prismatic Publics: Innovative Canadian Women¹s Poetry and Poetics edited by Kate Eichhorn and Heather Milne, published by Coach House. The anthology provides an opportunity to trace the diverse networks, influences, dialogues, dialectics, and interventions that continue make the work of Canada¹s innovative women writers a powerful force in avant-garde writing around the world.

Nicole Brossard has published more than thirty books, including Museum of Bone and Water, The Aerial Letter and Mauve Desert. Her contribution and influence to Quebec and francophone poetry is major. In 1965, she co-founded the literary periodical La barre du jour and, in 1976, the feminist journal Les têtes de pioche. In 2006, she won the Canada Council¹s prestigious Molson Prize for lifetime achievement. Her collection Notebook of Roses and Civilization was shortlisted for the 2008 Griffin Poetry Prize. Her most recent book is the novel Fences in Breathing. Brossard will be introduced by Susan Holbrook.

Margaret Christakos¹ work has shown consistent interest in feminist and recombinant poetics, process writing and seriality. She is the author of seven books of poetry and a novel. A new collection, Purple, is forthcoming in 2010. She runs ŒInfluency: A Toronto Poetry Salon¹ twice annually, through the University of Toronto¹s School of Continuing Studies. Christakos will be introduced by Rachel Zolf.

Catriona Strang¹s latest book, co-written with the late Nancy Shaw, is Light Sweet Crude. Other works include Cold Trip and Busted, both co-written with Nancy Shaw. She is a founding member of the Institute for Domestic Research, and frequently collaborates with fellow institute member, composer Jacqueline Leggatt, and with clarinetist François Houle, with whom she recorded ŒThe Clamourous Alphabet¹ (Periplum). She is currently working on ŒExtrafine Imperial Twankay¹, a long work based on the history of tea. Strang will be introduced by Kate Eichhorn.

This event is co-presented with Coach House Books and Délégation générale du Québec.

Building Architecture, Landscapes & Poems Vito Acconci

Vito Acconci will be teaching a ten-week long Tuesday evening workshop, beginning October 6, 2009. The class will meet in the Parish Hall from 7-9pm.

Poetry from another direction: poetry Œcaused by¹ architecture & designŠ

Architectural materials & words as matter (Œconcrete¹ words, not abstractions William Carlos Williams¹ ŒNo idea but in things¹); the structure the engineering of a building & sentence-structure (diagramming a sentence & plans/section in architecture); scripts (narrative scripts, film scripts) & computer-scripting in architecture); punctuation like Emily Dickinson¹s dashes ‹ & the time taken to walk through a building, through a city, through landscape); Roget¹s Thesaurus as a geography, a terrain, of words (the dictionary is from the mechanical age, while Roget¹s Thesaurus presages the internet)Š

We might read Michel Butor¹s Mobile (traveling through the United States in words, cities & rivers & mountains scrawled across the page); but we¹ll also see the beginning of Alain Robbe-Grillet/Alain Resnais¹ Last Year At Marienbad (the camera traversing corridor after corridor as the narrator¹s voice performs a travelogue & a hypnotism); & we¹ll listen to Vladislav Delay & Alva Noto (music & architecture are the same: each makes a surrounding, a context, an ambience you can do other things while listening to music, you do other things while in the middle of architecture, both architecture & music engender multi-attention, the keynote of the 21st century)Š

From a background of poetry & then art, Vito Acconci became a designer/architect & formed Acconci Studio in 1988. They¹ve recently built a person-made island that twists from bowl to dome in Graz & a clothing store as soft as clothing in Tokyo; they¹re working on a strip-mall makeover in the U.S. & a floating park over a railroad in Vienna. He still begins projects with words.

Poetry and Magic Mitch Highfill

Mitch Highfill will be teaching a ten-week long Friday evening workshop, beginning October 9, 2009. The class will meet in the Parish Hall from 7-9pm.

This workshop takes the work of Jack Spicer and ³the practice of the outside² as a starting point. We will explore different technologies long associated with magic (technologies such as spells, sigils and divination) to generate writing, both in and out of the workshop setting. We will work with sources as diverse as Gerard de Nerval, Christopher Dewdney and W.S. Burroughs. A magical approach to poetics will include such concepts as the Muse, the Duende and the lore accompanying these ideas. The goal here is to gain access to writing that is not limited by the habits of personality or the predilections of the poet, but can expand our ranges to include what Robin Blaser called the outside. We might also consider the more mundane but equally interesting usage of the word magic, that is to say, sleight of hand, or prestidigitation. What does a stage magician have in common with the writer? There will be lots of reading and writing in this workshop.

Mitch Highfill is a poet and Tarot consultant who lives in Brooklyn. He is the author of several books, including Moth Light (Abraham Lincoln) and REBIS (Open Mouth).

Drawing the Boundaries of a Fire Paolo Javier

Paolo Javier will be teaching a ten-week long Saturday afternoon workshop, beginning October 10, 2009. The class will meet in the Parish Hall from 12-2 pm.

Since the advent of the modern cartoon strip, poets, artists, and poet-artists alike have turned to its language as a vital source for innovation in their own practice. We will explore such a tradition. The presence of the poetic in the modern comic book will be a focus of our writing and discussion, and we will experiment with its potential through a diverse practice. Collaboration between participants will be required for selected exercises, and encouraged throughout the workshop.

Paolo Javier is the author of LMFAO (OMG!), Goldfish Kisses (Sona Books), 60 lv bo(e)mbs (O Books), and the time at the end of this writing (Ahadada Books). He is currently working on OBB, a multimedia poetry comic, with artist Ernest Concepcion, and publishes 2nd Ave Poetry.

The workshop fee is $350, which includes a one year Sustaining Poetry Project membership and tuition for any and all spring and fall classes. Reservations are required due to limited class space, and payment must be received in advance. Caps on class sizes, if in effect, will be determined by workshop leaders. If you would like to reserve a spot in a class, please send an email to info (at) poetryproject (dot) org or call [redacted].

THE FOUNDRY THEATRE PRESENTS
THE PROVENANCE OF BEAUTY
A South Bronx Travelogue by Claudia Rankine
http://www.thefoundrytheatre.org/provenance/intro.html

Performed on a tour bus traveling through the South Bronx
Bus leaves from & returns to Spanish Harlem/Elmendorf Church 171 E 121st St. (btw Lex & 3rd)

WEEKENDS ONLY! THROUGH OCTOBER 25TH.
SATURDAY & SUNDAY AFTERNOONS // 2 SHOWS EACH DAY
@ 1PM & 4PM

Tix: $35 Seating is limited - Reservations are necessary *$30 for a limited time, using ticket code: PoetryProject https://www.ovationtix.com/trs/pr/675775

Become a Poetry Project Member! http://poetryproject.org/become-a-member

Calendar: http://www.poetryproject.org/program-calendar

The Poetry Project is located at St. Mark's Church-in-the-Bowery
131 East 10th Street at Second Avenue
New York City 10003
Trains: 6, F, N, R, and L.
[redacted]
www.poetryproject.org

Admission is $8, $7 for students/seniors and $5 for members (though now those who take out a membership at $95 or higher will get in FREE to all regular readings).

We are wheelchair accessible with assistance and advance
notice. For more info call [redacted].

If you¹d like to be unsubscribed from this mailing list, please drop a line at [redacted].

↑ Index

121. Cara Benson
Poetry Workshop with Eleni Sikelianos at Millay Colony
Thu 17 Sep 2009

Subject: Poetry Workshop with Eleni Sikelianos at Millay Colony

WORKSHOP RETREATS 2009
Â Poetry Workshop
with Acclaimed Poet Eleni Sikelianos

Space Is Limited. Reserve Now.

Â

October 1st to October 4th

Call & Response: Conversations with Land and Life Shapes

with Eleni Sikelianos

Â

Â

What is this curve of the hill saying to me? What about this rock? In this workshop, we will play among forms around us, using a wide range of shapes (radiolarian to human) as starting place. In the 1940s, William Carlos WilliamsÂ embarked upon a poem of place in which a city might be seen to mirror the forms of a man's mind, and the classic Paterson was born. In this course, we will consider techniques of documentary poetics, the poetics of place, and eco-conversation. How can an artist, particularly a writer, interact with particular loci and its data, real or imagined? What forms of dialog with the environment are possible? What non-languaged information can be included in the poem? We will look at and make our own work that interacts with the flora and fauna, layers of history, shifting populations, quotidian rhythms and mythologies of time-space. We might engage in some Land Art, we might make line drawings, we might create characters all in the name of conversation.

Eleni Sikelianos is the author of six books of poetry and one nonfiction hybrid / memoir; titles include The Book of Jon and The California Poem. Her most recent book is Body Clock, and her translation of Jacques Roubaud's Exchanges on Light is forthcoming from La Presse. Widely anthologized, she is a graduate of the Jack Kerouac School of Disembodied Poetics at Naropa, and currently teaches in and directs the Creative Writing program at the University of Denver.

For more information please visit www.millaycolony.org/workshops or call [redacted].

Â
And Our Final Workshop of the Year:
>Critical Writing as Creative Practice: Frances Richard:Â October 29 to November 2
>

For application information, complete descriptionsÂ of each workshop and instructor bios visit: www.millaycolony.org/workshops
Or contact Caroline Crumpacker at [redacted] or [redacted]

The Millay Colony for the Arts is an artists' residency program and artists' center located on the extraordinary former property of poet Edna St. Vincent Millay in Austerliz, New York. Our mission is to nurture and promote the vitality of the arts by providing writers, visual artists and composers with a rural home that encourages creative intensity and exploration in the context of nurturing and communal artistic community.

The Millay Colony for the Arts 454 East Hill Road

Austerlitz, NYÂ 12017
www.millaycolony.org

Forward email

This email was sent to [redacted] by [redacted]. Update Profile/Email Address | Instant removal with SafeUnsubscribeâ„¢ | Privacy Policy. Email Marketing by The Millay Colony for the Arts | 454 East Hill Road | Austerlitz | NY | 12017

↑ Index

122. Tim Peterson
EOAGH Issue 5 Launch Events & Readings
Thu 17 Sep 2009

EOAGH Issue 5 Launch Events & Readings

*SATURDAY, OCT 3 @8 PM
Unnameable Books
600 Vanderbilt Ave, Brooklyn*

8:00 Amy King
8:15 Christopher Stackhouse
8:30 Mark Lamoureux
8:45 Christie Ann Reynolds

9:00 Eric Lindley
9:15 Bill Marsh
9:30 Adeena Karasick
9:45 Amanda Deutch

*SUNDAY, OCT 4 @ NOON
Unnameable Books
600 Vanderbilt Ave, Brooklyn*

12:30 Sara Wintz
12:45 Geoffrey Olsen
1:00 Karin Randolph
1:15 Filip Marinovich
1:30 Andrew Levy
1:45 Kate Colby
2:00 Pattie McCarthy
2:15 Graeme Bezanson
2:30 Chelsea Hodson
2:45 break

3:00 Gregory Laynor
3:15 Kristi Maxwell

3:30 Laura Goldstein
3:45 Gregory Vincent St. Thomasino
4:00 Paige Taggart
4:15 James Belflower
4:30 Jeremy James Thompson
4:45 break

5:00 Joel Lewis
5:15 Sean Casey
5:30 Kristen Gallagher
5:45 Lawrence Giffin
6:00 Michael Kelleher
6:15 Rajiv Mohabir
6:30 Nick Piombino
6:45 break

7:00 Michael Rerick
7:15 N. M. Hoffman
7:30 Paul Siegell
7:45 Robyn Art
8:00 Penelope Bloodworth
8:15 Rick Snyder
8:30 Matthew Rotando
8:45 Stephanie Gray
9:00 Will Edmiston

*TUESDAY, OCT 6 @6PM
Martin Segal Theater, CUNY Graduate Center
365 Fifth Ave NYC*

This event is co-sponsored by the Center for the Humanities<http://centerforthehumanitiesgc.org/>, the GC Poetics Group <http://opencuny.org/poetics/>, *and Chax Press<http://chax.org/>

*

6:00 Dorothea Lasky
6:10 Kate Broad
6:20 Uche Nduka
6:30 John Harkey
6:40 Thomas Fink
6:50 CA Conrad

7:00 Benjamin Miller
7:10 Vincent Katz

7:20 Louis Bury
7:30 Anne Tardos
7:40 Emily Moore
7:50 Ari Banias

8:00 Paolo Javier
8:10 Stefania Heim
8:20 Kimberly Lyons
8:30 Emily Beall
8:40 Julian Brolaski
8:50 Sueyeun Juliette Lee

EOAGH: A Journal of the Arts presents Issue 5 in late September 2009. A print edition of the journal will be available soon through Chax Press. For ordering or subscription information, contact editor Tim Peterson at [redacted] EOAGH: A Journal of the Arts is concerned with reading as a process, the productive chaos of investigative poetic work. These acts of attention explore the close listening inherent not just in writing but also in being written. Inspired by Whitman's assertion that "Reading is a gymnast's act," we see readings as embodied, interdisciplinary responses that engage with one's environment through ekphrasis, phenomenology, queering, and the pursuit of conceptual complexity/density. We seek poetry, prose, articles, and readings that address these concerns in contemporary avant-garde, experimental, and innovative writing.

↑ Index

123. Michael
ROCKPILE TOUR CALENDAR CORRECTION FOR ALBUQUERQUE
Thu 17 Sep 2009

Dear Friends of ROCKPILE,

Please note that the Albuquerque ROCKPILE Performance date has been changed from Saturday, October 17th to Thursday, October 15, same time and same place. Sorry for the inconvenience.

Look forward to seeing you there!

Best, Michael Rothenberg
www.bigbridg.org/rockpile/

↑ Index

124. CA Conrad
Serbia, SUNDAY
Fri 18 Sep 2009

"Each time we don't say what we wanna say we're dying!"
--Yoko Ono, from "YES, I'M A WITCH"

Belgrade Pride will march in the streets for queer pride and tolerance this coming Sunday. This, despite graffiti PROMISING violence against the marchers. The Serbian Orthodox Church claims that it does not support the impending violence against the group, yet also has told the news that the march is akin to "Sodom and Gomorrah." Similarly, president Boris Tadic REFUSES to endorse the march, claiming to uphold Serbia's laws against discrimination. The violence is clearly sanctioned by both church and state indirectly, and if I had the money I'd be over there right now to march with them!

In fact if I had the money I'd fly over there with me the remaining members of the Philly Gay Mafia, the vicious, tough guys who used to patrol and protect our streets in the Philadelphia queer community back in the 1980s when violence against us was practically encouraged by police.

My hope is that the marchers are as ready as they possibly can be for what is about to happen to them. My hope too is that the government takes action to at the very least protect the marchers in their simple act of walking together in the streets. The violence to come has literally been written on the walls of Belgrade.

In solidarity with Belgrade Pride,
CAConrad

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

125. Al Filreis
PoemTalk 22: on Zukofsky
Fri 18 Sep 2009

Today we are releasing PoemTalk episode 22, a discussion of the twelfth poem of Anew by Louis Zukofsky:

http://www.poemtalk.org

- a conversation with Bob Perelman, Wystan Curnow and Charles Bernstein.

Al Filreis
Kelly Professor
Faculty Dir., Kelly Writers House
Dir., Center for Programs in Contemporary Writing
University of Pennsylvania

on the web: http://writing.upenn.edu/~afilreis
blog: http://writing.upenn.edu/~afilreis/blog
PoemTalk: http://www.poemtalk.org
dial 215-746-POEM or [redacted]

↑ Index

126. Halvard Johnson

Query re home for old correspondence

Fri 18 Sep 2009

I'm doing some winnowing here in NYC and have about two boxes of old correspondence with various lit'ry lowlifes going back to the early 70s.

Do they find a new home somewhere or do are they destined for the fire?

Any suggestions appreciated--backchannel only, please.

Hal

"If something is boring after two minutes, try it for four. If still boring, then eight. Then sixteen.
Then thirty-two. Eventually one discovers that it is not boring at all."
~John Cage

Halvard Johnson
==========
[redacted]
http://sites.google.com/site/halvardjohnson/Home
http://entropyandme.blogspot.com
http://imageswithoutwords.blogspot.com
http://www.hamiltonstone.org

↑ Index

127. amy king
Poets' Quarterly call for submissions
Fri 18 Sep 2009

---------- Forwarded message ----------
From: Poets' Quarterly <[redacted]>

Poets' Quarterly, a new online journal, is seeking reviews of poetry books and chapbooks, as well as author interviews, for the October launch issue. www.poetsquarterly.com To give you an idea of what's to come, the launch issue will include reviews of Tulips, Water, Ash by Lisa Gluskin Stonestreet, At night the dead by Lisa Ciccarello, American Prophet by Robert Fanning, Taste of Cherry by Kara Candito, and From the Fever-World by Jehanne Dubrow. Some of the contributors include Emma Bolden, Jill Crammond Wickham, Valerie Wedtlaufer, and Karen Weyant to name a few. We're actively seeking reviews, interviews, and a nice stable of writers so I'd appreciate any help in spreading the word! Best regards, Lori A. May Editor-in-ChiefPOETS' [redacted]

_____

NEW BOOK

Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm -- For a review copy, please email me directly.

↑ Index

128. Daniel Godston
Bauhaus9090 updates
Fri 18 Sep 2009

Hi,

"The Bauhaus: 90 Years / 90 Days" began on July 6, with "Rediscovery and Rebirth," an event hosted by the Gropius in Chicago Coalition. Since then, dozens of individuals and groups have contributed projects to Bauhaus9090, including --

. poems by Alice Shapiro, Jamie Kazay, Dave Morice, Regina Baiocchi, Charlie Newman, Kristen Orser, Matthew Barton, Cathleen Schandelemier, Dan Godston, and others

. images of artworks by Tony Renner, Christine Dawson, Istvan Banyai, Amy Rudberg, Orin Buck, Maggie Leininger, Lee Barry, Mehdi Chourou, and Jeremy Hight

. fiction and nonfiction pieces by Janina Ciezadlo, Amanda Marbais, and Harry Ross

. a Neue Bauhaus typeface by Renee Ramsey-Passmore, which is available as a free download

. multidisciplinary projects by Michael Rothenberg, Jim Spitzer, Bert Stabler, Noah Berlatsky, and people who live in the town of Littlehampton (UK)

. videos by Josephine LiPuma, Patrick Lichty, and the Human Dollz

. links to audio tracks of Bauhaus-inspired musical performances which happened over the summer

Performances of Bauhaus-inspired projects have happened at several locations in Chicago and Indianapolis. Several more Bauhaus9090 performances will be happening in Atlanta, Chicago, and London, including a Bauhaus-themed poetry reading at A Capella Books, a Metal Tea Party for Marianne Brandt, and another Bauhaus9090 performance event which will happen during the Fourth Annual Chicago Calling Arts Festival.

You are invited to explore the Bauhaus9090 website at http://www.bauhaus9090.org. Updates will continue to appear on the site in the upcoming weeks.

Thanks,

Dan

↑ Index

129. Ana Bo¾ièeviæ

Advancing Feminist Poetics and Activism: A Gathering

Fri 18 Sep 2009

Some news from the Center for the Humanities at CUNY's Grad Center: New Yorkers & those in the area, come next week!

Advancing Feminist Poetics and Activism: A Gathering

Thursday September 24th, 2009 - Friday September 25th, 2009

Belladonna* celebrates ten years of publishing and supporting the feminist avant-garde with a two-day conference on feminist poetics and activism. The conference launches on Thursday, September 24, with panels focusing on radical language processes and political thought, culminating in keynote performances by Kathleen Fraser, Erica Hunt, and Eileen Myles. On Friday, September 25, we will continue the conversation with a broad spectrum of panels focusing on a variety of topics including: the body as discourse, ecopoetics, multilingualism, exile and language, and writing from marginalized positions. The conference will conclude with a performance/collaboration between Carla Harryman, Catriona Strang & Christine Stewart, Sally Silvers, Lila Zemborain & Cecilia Torino. Other panelists and presenters include: Caroline Bergvall, Dodie Bellamy, Latasha N. Nevada Diggs, Zhang Er, Jeanne Heuving, Ann Lauterbach, Joan Retallack, Anne Waldman, Renaldo Wilson, and many others.

On-site registration required. See http://belladonnaconference.blogspot.comfor a complete schedule and registration information, or contact [redacted].

Co-sponsored by Belladonna*, The Center for the Humanities, Center for the Study of Women and Society, Ph.D. Program in English, and the Poetics Group.

↑ Index

130. Dubravka Djuric
Re: Serbia, SUNDAY
Fri 18 Sep 2009

---

conrad, can i fwd your email in an feminist mailing list?

yes, the atmosphere here is so 'hot', tv, radio, all media speak only about this, pro and contra, many activist get trethening sms, and emails...

----- Original Message -----
From: "CA Conrad" <[redacted]>
To: <[redacted]>
Sent: Friday, September 18, 2009 2:02 PM
Subject: Serbia, SUNDAY

> "Each time we don't say what we wanna say we're dying!"
> --Yoko Ono, from "YES, I'M A WITCH"
>
> Belgrade Pride will march in the streets for queer pride and tolerance this coming Sunday. This, despite graffiti PROMISING violence against the marchers. The Serbian Orthodox Church claims that it does not support the impending violence against the group, yet also has told the news that the march is akin to "Sodom and Gomorrah." Similarly, president Boris Tadic REFUSES to endorse the march, claiming to uphold Serbia's laws against discrimination. The violence is clearly sanctioned by both church and state indirectly, and if I had the money I'd be over there right now to march with them!
>
> In fact if I had the money I'd fly over there with me the remaining members of the Philly Gay Mafia, the vicious, tough guys who used to patrol and protect our streets in the Philadelphia queer community > back in the 1980s when violence against us was practically encouraged by police.

>
> My hope is that the marchers are as ready as they possibly can be for what is about to happen to them. My hope too is that the government takes action to at the very least protect the marchers in their simple act of walking together in the streets. The violence to come has literally been written on the walls of Belgrade.
>
> In solidarity with Belgrade Pride,
> CAConrad
>
> --
> PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com
>
> THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

131. Kimmelman, Burt
Poetry Colloquium at Centenary College of New Jersey
Fri 18 Sep 2009

New Century Poetics:
A Poetry Colloquium at Centenary College of New Jersey

featuring

MARK DOTY

October 19-20, 2009

Poet Mark Doty, winner of the National Book Award, is the 2009-2010 Gates-Ferry Lecturer at Centenary College of New Jersey. He will read on Monday, October 19 at 8 pm and will participate in our Poetics Colloquium on Tuesday, October 20. The colloquium will offer workshops and panels for a wide range of participants, including educators, students, and the general public.

This event is FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC, but we request pre-registration. Please register by completing the attached form, calling [redacted], ext. 4669, or emailing [redacted]<mailto:[redacted]>. Please indicate which workshops or panels you plan to attend.

* Schedule

Monday 8 pm -10 pm Reading by Mark Doty with interview by Jared Harel, followed by reception and book signing

Tuesday: Full Day Colloquium with discussions and workshops on writing and poetics

9:00 - 9:20 Receive colloquium materials; sign in - Seay building

9:30 am - 11:30 am Workshops and Panels

Workshops:

Material Metaphors: Using Man-Made Things as Metaphors for Natural Ones with Robert Carnevale, poet and poetics instructor.

Blues Poetics: from Lyrics to Verse with Jared Harel, poet and Centenary College poetry instructor.

Panels:

The Art of Poetry and the Poetry of Art: Ekphrasis in the Contemporary Poem
Burt Kimmelman, NJIT, poet and scholar
Basil King, poet and artist
Corinne Robins, Pratt Institute, poet and art historian
Michael Heller, poet and writer
Mark Lamoureux, CUNY, poet and publisher of Cy Gist Press
Therese Halscheid, poet and writer

Panel on Resources and Publication
Peter Murphy, local poetry organizer and poet
Melissa Hotchkiss, co-editor of Barrow Street, teacher, poet
Laura McCullough, Brookdale CC
Ken Ronkowitz, Passaic County CC - online publishing
Mark Tursi, editor of Double Room, publisher of Apostrophe Books

11:30 am Break in Seay Front Parlours

11:45 am - 1:00 pm Round Table with MARK DOTY: Poetry's Role in Contemporary Culture Moderated by Mary Newell, Director of Writing at Centenary College and conference organizer

1:00 pm - 2:30 pm Lunch on your own (See dining options in program.)

2:30 pm - 4:30 pm Workshops and Panels

Workshops

Practicing Poetry, a writing workshop with Sally Dawidoff, NY poet and teacher.
This workshop is for beginners as well as practiced writers seeking a fresh start.

How to Read a Poem with Laura McCullough, Brookdale CC
Learn skills for interpreting poetry with examples from contemporary writers.

Panels

Poetics of Place: New Jersey, the West, and Other Habitats of the Mind
Angela Elliott, Centenary College Professor and Poet-in-Residence Betsy Andrews, poet
Marcella Durand, poet
Adele Kenny, poet
Madeline Tiger, poet
BJ Ward, poet, Warren County CC faculty

Experimenting with Forms
Lorna Blake, poet, teacher, and editor
Laura Hinton, CUNY, poet, critic, and publisher "Mourning and Multi-Media Poetics"
Melissa Hotchkiss, co-editor of Barrow Street, teacher, poet
Kristin Prevallet, poet, Institute for Writing Studies, St John's University "We Sit Like Hot Stones: The Performance of Mourning"
Mark Tursi, editor of Double Room (prose poem journal), publisher of Apostrophe Books Tiffanie Yanique, Drew University, Asst. Professor of Creative Writing and Literature; prose poetry; performance

Poetry and Translation: Bridging the Discontinuities
Ed Foster, editor of Talisman, co-editor of Contemporary Turkish Studies, poet, essayist
Carlos Hernandez Peña, bi-lingual writer, editor, and reading series organizer Ravi Shankar, poet, Assoc. Professor, editor of Drunkenboat.com and a Norton anthology of Asian and Middle Eastern poetry
Paul Sohar, poet, translator of Hungarian poetry
Mark Weiss, poet and translator

5:00 pm - 6:00 pm Open discussion with MARK DOTY in the Seay Front Parlours

6:30 Readings by participant poets

* Notice to NJ Certified Teachers: Full-day attendance will earn 6 professional development hours through the Centenary College Teacher's Academy. Mention you are a teacher when you register.

Centenary College, 400 Jefferson Street, Hackettstown, NJ 07840 [redacted]
Colloquium Program details forthcoming at <http://www.centenarycollege.edu/gatesferry>

↑ Index

132. Edmund Hardy
The Last Drop: Versions of August Stramm
Sat 19 Sep 2009

---

12 versions
by Alistair Noon of poems by August Stramm, accompanied by an essay 'Blood, Flesh and a Packet of Tissues: Putting August Stramm into English', from which these lines from Ernst Jandl serve as a summation:

he august stramm abridged very
the german poem

him august stramm
the first world war
abridged …

Download the free ebook:

http://intercapillaryspace.blogspot.com/2009/09/alistair-noons-last-drop-versions-of.html

“Intercapillary Editions”: lustre of the unsupportable

Get the best of MSN on your mobile http://clk.atdmt.com/UKM/go/147991039/direct/01/

↑ Index

133. Rob McLennan
new(ish) on rob's clever blog
Sat 19 Sep 2009

-- 12 or 20 questions: with Pearl Pirie
-- 12 or 20 questions: with DM Bryan
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Lea Graham
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Kemeny Babineau
-- fwd; Michael Turner on the 1963 Poetry Conference, Vancouver
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Arjun Basu

-- 12 or 20 questions: with Angela Szczepaniak
-- lainna, toronto, birthday;
-- Ongoing notes: early September, 2009 (For Cryong Out Loud: an anthology of poetry & fiction, Ferno House; Heidi Greco's A: The Amelia Poems, lipstick press; Jake Kennedy's Hazard, BookThug)
-- Sheila Watson conference, University of Toronto, Oct 23-24, 2009
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Shaindel Beers
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Peter Richardson
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Sawako Nakayasu
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Camille Martin
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Bill Brown
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Brenda Niskala
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Gillian Wigmore
-- Beth Bachmann, Temper
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Ariel Gordon
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Saleema Nawaz
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Nichole McGill
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Mike Spry
-- lake, nowhere [poem]
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Anselm Berrigan
-- the ottawa small press book fair, fall 2009 edition
-- some toronto;
-- 12 or 20 questions: with Jacqueline Larson
-- Eric Baus, Tuned Droves
-- 12 or 20 questions: with John Kinsella

www.robmclennan.blogspot.com

+ some other new things at the alberta, writing blog

www.albertawriting.blogspot.com

+ some other new things at ottawa poetry newsletter,

www.ottawapoetry.blogspot.com

+ some other new things at the Chaudiere Booksblog, www.chaudierebooks.blogspot.com

-- writer/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...poetry - a compact of words (Salmon) ...2nd novel - missing persons www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

134. Jonathan Minton
Word For/Word #15
Sat 19 Sep 2009

I'm pleased to announce that Word For/Word #15 is online at www.wordforword.info

with poetry and visuals by,

Cindy Savett, Brooklyn Copeland, Mg Roberts, Marthe Reed, Joshua Butts, Marcia Arrieta, Nicole Zdeb, Julius Kalamarz, Trina Burke, Shelly Taylor, Susan Slaviero, Matthew Klane, Trey Moody, Debra Kaufman, Elizabeth Zuba, Francis Raven, John M. Bennett, Scott Helmes, Keith Nathan Brown, John Moore Williams, Jeff Crouch, Diana Magallón Mario Cervantes, Kristin Hayter Carol Stetser, Andrew Topel K.S. Ernst, Sheila E. Murphy Irving Weiss, Peter Schwartz, Ray Lam, and Nico Vassilakis, plus essays, reviews, and a section on contemporary political poetry edited by Tom Hibbard.

Cheers!

Jonathan Minton

www.wordforword.info

+ + + +

"Manifesto for Ghosts," by Susan Slaviero

What connects us is the mechanoid process, a feel for mathematica and puppetry.

Bio(r)evolution is a viscous spider.

We sicken & weave in our cocoons.

Mutant. Erotica. Terror. These pixels are haunted. We are riblocked in this circular citadel. Some might say we are filaments, a spot on the macula, synaptic disruption.

[No virus was ever this pretty.]

↑ Index

135. Kristin Dykstra announcing Mandorla 12 (2009)
Sat 19 Sep 2009

Announcing Mandorla: New Writing from the Americas / Nueva escritura de las Américas 12 (2009).

www.litline.org/Mandorla

First published in Mexico City in 1991, Mandorla emphasizes innovative writing in its original language--most commonly English or Spanish--and high-quality translations of existing material. Visual art and short critical articles complement this work.

Contributors to the 2009 issue include:

Sesshu Foster, Arturo Ernesto Romo-Santillano [cover artist], Mario Arteca, Anne Waldman, Raúl Zurita, Reynaldo Jiménez, Felipe Cussen, Javier Norambuena, Rodrigo Gómez, Héctor Hernández Montesinos, Achy Obejas, Marcos Canteli, Sérgio Medeiros, Raymond L. Bianchi, Lilliana Ramos Collado, Laird Hunt, Antonio Ochoa, Domingo de Ramos, Urayoán Noel, William Carlos Williams, Hugo García Manríquez, Daniel Borzutzky, Rodrigo Toscano, Regina Vater, Paulo Leminski, Iván García, Kath Anderson, Marina Porcelli, James J. Pancrazio, Antonio Benítez Rojo, James E. Maraniss, Óscar David López, Bhanu Kapil, Jessica Díaz, Chris Pusateri, Eliot Weinberger, Román Antopolsky, Kent Johnson, Gabriel Bernal Granados, Sawako Nakayasu, Michelle Naka Pierce, Sue Hammond West, Rito Ramón Aroche, María DeGuzmán, José Kozer, Melisa Machado, S.M. Stone, O.M. Ulloa, Omar Pérez, Graham Foust, Claire Becker, Gabriel Andrés Eljaiek Rodríguez, and Jorge Camacho.

Mandorla thanks the following for their contributions in partial support of the project: the Department of English at Illinois State University; the College of Fine Arts at the University of Texas, Austin; and the Illinois Arts Council.

--
Dr. Kristin Dykstra
www.ilstu.edu/~kadykst
www.litline.org/Mandorla
Associate Professor
Department of English
Illinois State University
Campus Box 4240
Normal, IL 61790-4240

---------- This message was sent using Illinois State University Webmail.

↑ Index

136. Patrick F. Durgin

Upcoming readings of interest: Dorantes, Solorzano, Hofer, Durgin

Sun 20 Sep 2009

Wednesday, October 21, 2009, 7:00 PM. Location: Décima Musa, 1901 S. Loomis, Pilsen, Chicago, IL. A fully bilingual poetry reading with Dolores Dorantes, Laura Solórzano, & Jen Hofer (translator) -- in the Palabra Pura Series. This event is co-sponsored by Consulado General de México, Guild Comlex (http://guildcomplex.org), Kenning Editions (www.kenningeditions.com), and Southwest Airlines.

Dorantes, Solórzano, and Hofer will also read together, regionally:

Monday, Oct. 19th, 4:30 PM Q&A and 8:00 PM Reading, Lawrence University, Appleton, WI.

Tuesday, Oct. 20th, Translation Workshop 2:00-3:30 PM and Reading 7:00-8:30 PM, University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee.

Thursday, Oct. 22nd, Reading 4:00 PM, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Saturday, Oct. 24th, Panel (Cross Border Politics and the Arts) 3:00 PM and Reading 5:00 PM, Museum of Contemporary Art, Detroit.

Dolores Dorantes's books include sexoPUROsexoVELOZ (2004), Lola (cartas cortas) (2002), Para Bernardo: un eco (2000) and Poemas para niños (1999). She is founding director of the border arts collective Compañía Frugal, based in Ciudad Juárez, where she has lived for twenty years.Compañía Frugal supports autonomous projects in the arts and counts among its activities publication of the bi-weekly poetry broadside series Hoja Frugal, printed in editions of 4000 and distributed free throughout Mexico. A translation of sexoPUROsexoVELOZ and Septiembre, books two and three of Dolores Dorantes by Dolores Dorantes, have been translated by Hofer and published by Counterpath Press and Kenning Editions. Laura Solórzano is the author, most recently, of Boca perdida (2005), lobo de labio (2001) and Semilla de Ficus (1999). Jen Hofer's en face translation of lobo de labio was published as lip wolf by Action Books in March 2007. Laura is on the editorial board of the literary arts magazine Tragaluz, and currently teaches writing at the Centro de Arte Audiovisual in Guadalajara. Both Dorantes and Solórzano appeared in the anthology Sin puertas visibles: An Anthology of Contemporary Poetry by Mexican Women (ed. and trans. Jen Hofer, 2003). Jen Hofer's latest book is The Route, an epistolary and poetic collaboration with Patrick Durgin. She lives in Los Angeles, where she teaches poetics in the MFA Writing Program at CalArts, works as a Spanish-language interpreter with the Los Angeles County Superior Courts. She will read her English translations of the work of Dorantes and Solórzano.

Jen Hofer and Patrick Durgin will read on Wednesday, Oct. 14th, 7:30 PM in the Danny's Series, Chicago (http://www.noslander.com/dannys.html), from their collaborative and recent, individual work.

K. Silem Mohammad, Jen Hofer and Patrick Durgin are also reading on Sunday, Oct. 18th, 2:00 PM at Woodland Pattern Book Center, Milwaukee (http://www.woodlandpattern.org/).

↑ Index

137. Camille Martin
new on Rogue Embryo's blog
Sun 20 Sep 2009

---

new on Rogue Embryo:

We are all Walloon poets
suppose flatness. what then? suppose even surface is made up. what then?
“I know I am traveling all the time”: The Twilight Dreams of Artur Lundquist

http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

Cheers!
Camille

Camille Martin
http://www.camillemartin.ca
http://rogueembryo.wordpress.ca

↑ Index

138. Jennifer Karmin
Red Rover Series / Experiment #33
Sun 20 Sep 2009

Red Rover Series
{readings that play with reading}

Experiment #33:
Someone Was There to Take a Picture

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 26
7pm

Featuring:
Kate Greenstreet & Gina Myers

NEW LOCATION
at the Orientation Center
2129 N. Rockwell -- Chicago, IL

corner of Milwaukee/Rockwell
left side of the Congress Theater building
http://orientationcenter.wordpress.com
suggested donation $4

KATE GREENSTREET's second book, The Last 4 Things, will be out from Ahsahta Press in September. Her first, case sensitive, was published by Ahsahta in 2006. She is also the author of three chapbooks, most recently This is why I hurt you (Lame House Press, 2008). Her new poems are in current or forthcoming issues of jubilat, Court Green, VOLT, Fence, Hotel Amerika, and the Denver Quarterly.

GINA MYERS is the author of A Model Year (Coconut Books, 2009) and four chapbooks, most recently Behind the R (ypolita press, 2008). She lives in Saginaw, MI, where she makes books for Lame House Press, teaches, and works as a freelance journalist.

Red Rover Series is curated by Lisa Janssen and Jennifer Karmin. Each event is designed as a reading experiment with participation by local, national, and international writers, artists, and performers. The series was founded in 2005 by Amina Cain and Jennifer Karmin.

UPCOMING
November 14: Chris Cuellar, Judd Morrissey & Stephanie Strickland

Email ideas for reading experiments
to us at [redacted]

The schedule for events is listed at http://groups.yahoo.com/group/redroverseries

↑ Index

139. Jenny Penberthy
The Capilano Review -- farewell to Robin Blaser
Mon 21 Sep 2009

The new issue of The Capilano Review bids farewell to Robin Blaser with

-- a section of photographs, the text and score of “Suddenly,” an interview with Harrison Birtwistle about his collaboration with Blaser on the opera, The Last Supper

--an interview with Ralph Maud about his Charles Olson library

--an interview with Ellen Tallman

--a previously unpublished excerpt from Robert Duncan’s The H.D. Book

--an excerpt from Peter Quartermain’s introduction to The Collected Early Poetry and Plays of Robert Duncan

The Capilano Review 3.9 (Fall 2009)
$14 (Can)

Visit the TCR website to order the issue and/or to subscribe.
www.thecapilanoreview.ca

↑ Index

140. Jonathan Penton
chapbooks! features! ecstasy!
Mon 21 Sep 2009

Hello woad-addled heroes,

We've belated but truly awesome mid-month selections for you at www.UnlikelyStories.org <http://www.msplinks.com/MDFodHRwOi8vd3d3LlVubGlrZWx5U3Rvcmllcy5vcmc=> , with:

The Vernon Frazer feature, with:
An interview by Gabriel Ricard
Three video-interviews of Vernon Visual Poetry from Vernon's current manuscript, "Any Moment"
A review of Vernon's book "Emblematic Moon" by Gabriel Ricard
and:
"I Can Sing Fire", a new poetry chapbook available for sale by Anne Lombardo Ardolino
"The Politics of Murder," a short film by León De La Rosa
Three songs by The Folding Chairs
And four visual images by Michael Brandonisio

Enjoy these things! Get high while you do it! God will not punish you. The Londoners hit him with a bus.

--
Jonathan Penton
http://www.unlikelystories.org/
<http://www.msplinks.com/MDFodHRwOi8vd3d3LnVubGlrZWx5c3Rvcmllcy5vcmcv>

↑ Index

141. Jeffrey Side
Larry Sawyer and Peter Manson poems at The Argotist Online
Mon 21 Sep 2009

Larry Sawyer and Peter Manson poems at The Argotist Online
Larry Sawyer:
http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Sawyer%20poems.htm
Peter Manson:
http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Manson%20poems.htm

↑ Index

142. William Allegrezza
New book by Jukka-Pekka Kervinen
Mon 21 Sep 2009

Please check out this new book, Course of Action, by Jukka-Pekka Kervinen available through Cracked Slab Books.

http://crackedslabbooks.com/booksnew.html

Bill Allegrezza

↑ Index

143. Alan Sondheim
Fwd: Sand artist
Mon 21 Sep 2009

.

From digg.com

This sand artist tells a sad WWII story in 8 minutes without saying or writing a word.

http://tinyurl.com/l9yn36

it can be searched in YouTube, "Ukranian sand artist."
.

↑ Index

144. Vernon Frazer
Vernon Frazer featured in Unlikely 2.0
Mon 21 Sep 2009

---

www.unlikelystories.org

↑ Index

145. Jennifer Karmin

Sept 25: Pete's Candy Store (NYC)

Mon 21 Sep 2009

Friday September 25th
7pm

Jennifer Karmin
Estela Lamat
Michael Leong

at Pete's Candy Store
http://www.petescandystore.com

709 Lorimer Street between Frost and Richardson
Williamsburg, Brooklyn

Directions:
Take the G to Metropolitan or the L to Lorimer

JENNIFER KARMIN's text-sound epic Aaaaaaaaaaalice will be published by Flim Forum Press in 2009. She curates the Red Rover Series and is a founding member of the public art group Anti Gravity Surprise. Her multidisciplinary projects have been presented at festivals, artist-run spaces, and on city streets across the U.S. and Japan. At home in Chicago, she teaches creative writing to immigrants at Truman College and works as a Poet in Residence for the public schools. New poems are published in the journals Cannot Exist, Otoliths, Plath Profiles, and anthologized in Come Together: Imagine Peace (Bottom Dog Press), Not A Muse (Haven Books), and The City Visible: Chicago Poetry for the New Century (Cracked Slab Books).

ESTELA LAMAT was born at the age of eight in the backyard of the house. She has conducted meticulous nocturnal studies of sleeplessness, of stellar chances and causalities. Tamer of cats, enologist by nose, left-handed, and epileptic, she has never been in a workshop; she has never entered any contests; nor has she won any literary awards.

MICHAEL LEONG's poetry career began in the sixth grade when he won his first and only poetry prize in Mr. Harrisonâ€™s class for a haiku about a snake. Since then, he has received degrees in English and Creative Writing from Dartmouth College, Sarah Lawrence College, and Rutgers University and has published poems and translations in journals such as Action Yes, Bird Dog, Double Room, jubilat, Marginalia, Opium Magazine, Pindeldyboz, and Tin House. He is the author of I, the Worst of All (blazeVOX [books], 2009), a translation of the Chilean poet Estela Lamat, and e.s.p. (Silenced Press, 2009). He currently lives in New York City.

http://www.multifariousarray.blogspot.com

↑ Index

146. Joseph Mosconi

Tom Raworth, Kevin Killian & Gabriela Jauregui @ The Poetic Research Bureau

Mon 21 Sep 2009

For those in or near Los Angeles

The Poetic Research Bureau presents...

Tom Raworth, Kevin Killian & Gabriela Jauregui

Thursday, September 24 2009 at 8:00pm

@ The Poetic Research Bureau
3702 San Fernando Blvd
Glendale, CA 91206

Doors open at 8:00pm
Reading starts at 8:30pm

Tom Raworth has been writing to amuse himself for half-a-century: the random threads from this hedonism have led him this year to China and the North Eastern Tibetan plateau, now to L.A., and to Mexico in November. In Italy two years ago he was awarded the Antonio Delfini Prize for "lifetime career achievement" though he is not yet dead. His Collected Poems was published in 2003 by Carcanet, who will publish a book of poems since that collection in 2010. His Collected Prose appeared from SALT this year. He has occasionally taught in the UK , the USA and South Africa; and has read his work in more than 20 countries. His graphic work has been exhibited in Europe, the USA and South Africa, and he has collaborated with musicians, painters and other poets. His children, grandchildren and a few friends keep him awake.

Kevin Killian has written two novels, Shy (1989) and Arctic Summer (1997), a book of memoirs, Bedrooms Have Windows (1990), two books of stories, Little Men (1996) and I Cry Like a Baby (2001) and two books of poetry, Argento Series (2001), and Action Kylie (2008). With Lew Ellingham, Killian has written often on the life and work of the American poet Jack Spicer [1925-65] and with Peter Gizzi has edited My Vocabulary Did This To Me: The Collected Poetry of Jack Spicer (2008) for Wesleyan University Press. For the San Francisco Poets Theater Killian has written thirty plays, including Stone Marmalade (1996, with Leslie Scalapino), The American Objectivists (2001, with Brian Kim Stefans), and Often (also 2001, with Barbara Guest). New projects include Screen Tests, an edition of Killian's film writing, and Impossible Princess, a new fiction collection forthcoming from City Lights Books in November. A new novel Spreadeagle will appear in the spring.

Gabriela Jauregui (b. Mexico City, 1979) is the author of Controlled Decay (Akashic Books/Black Goat Press, 2008). She holds an MFA in Creative Writing from UC Riverside and an MA in Comparative Literature from UC Irvine. Her critical, creative and collaborative work has been published in journals and anthologies in the US, Mexico, and Europe, including, most recently in New American Writing, Eje Central, and forthcoming in Mandorla. She is a member of the sur+ publishing collective in Mexico. Gabriela is a Ph.D. candidate in Comparative Literature at USC and a Soros Fellow. She lives and works in Los Angeles and Mexico City.

↑ Index

147. Stephen Vincent

D Larsen, B Brown, CA Conrad, Frank Sherlock = New de blog

Mon 21 Sep 2009

---

http://stephenvincent.net/blog/

Some viz/poetry/haptic snapshots from San Franciso:

David Larsen and Brandon Brown do translations at Small Press Traffic (replete with haptics and commentary)
Umpire Enigma before the Giants & the Rockies
CA Conrad & Frank Sherlock haptic at nonsite/SPT

http://stephenvincent.net/blog/

Stephen Vincent

↑ Index

148. William Slaughter

Notice: Mudlark

Mon 21 Sep 2009

New and On View: Mudlark Flash No. 51 (2009)

A Thousand Kim by Kurt Brown

Kurt Brown founded the Aspen Writers' Conference, and Writers' Conferences & Centers (a national association of directors). His poems have appeared in many literary periodicals, and he is the editor of several anthologies including Blues for Bill, for the late William Matthews, from University of Akron Press and his newest (with Harold Schechter), Conversation Pieces: Poems that Talk to Other Poems from Alfred A. Knopf, Everyman's Library Pocket Poets Series. He is the author of six chapbooks and five full-length collections of poetry, including Return of the Prodigals, More Things in Heaven and Earth, Fables from the Ark, Future Ship, and a new collection, No Other Paradise, due out in 2010 from Red Hen Press. A collection of the poems of Flemish poet Herman de Coninck entitled The Plural of Happiness, which he and his wife, Laure-Anne Bosselaar, translated, was released in the Field Translation Series in 2006. He teaches poetry workshops and craft classes at Sarah Lawrence College in Bronxville, New York, and was recently the McEver Visiting Chair in Writing at Georgia Tech in Atlanta and a visiting writer at Westminster College in Salt Lake City.

Spread the word. Far and wide,

William Slaughter

MUDLARK
An Electronic Journal of Poetry & Poetics
Never in and never out of print...
E-mail: [redacted]
URL: http://www.unf.edu/mudlark

↑ Index

149. Jim Andrews
Re: chapbooks! features! ecstasy!
Tue 22 Sep 2009

---

thanks for the interesting features on vernon fraser at http://www.UnlikelyStories.org . really interesting. the videos/interviews and the work itself. well done!

ja
http://vispo.com

↑ Index

150. amy king
SEGUE READING SERIES @ BOWERY POETRY CLUB
Tue 22 Sep 2009

SEGUE READING SERIES @ BOWERY POETRY CLUBFALL 2009Please mark your calendars!Â ++Dates & readers:Oct 3: Zhang Er & Trey SagerZhang Er, born in Beijing, is the author of three collections of poetry in Chinese and six chapbooks in English translation. Her recent selected poems areÂ So Translating Rivers and CitiesÂ andÂ Verses on Bird. She teaches at The Evergreen State College in Washington.Â Trey SagerÂ is the author ofÂ The Weeds, a collaboration with artist Munro Galloway, andÂ O New York. He is an assistant fiction editor atÂ FenceÂ magazine and runs the blog The Pudgie Report. Currently he is writing a book of autobiographical stories calledÂ Oedipus Breast.Oct 10: Laura Moriarty & Paul Foster JohnsonLaura Moriartyâ€™sÂ A Semblance: Selected & New Poetry 1975-2007Â came out in 2007, as did the chapbookÂ An Air Force. Her long essay poemÂ A TonalistÂ is forthcoming next spring. She has taught at Mills College and Naropa University among other places & is currently Deputy Director of Small Press Distribution.Â Paul Foster Johnsonâ€™s first collection of poetry,Â Refrains/Unworkings, was published in 2008. From 2003 to 2006, he curated the Experiments and Disorders reading series at Dixon Place. He is an editor at Litmus Press and currently lives in New York.Oct 17: Keith Waldrop & John KeeneKeith Waldropâ€™s most recent books areÂ Transcendental Studies,Â Several Gravities, andÂ Baudelaireâ€™s Paris Spleen. He teaches at Brown University and, with Rosemarie Waldrop, edits Burning Deck Press.Â John KeeneÂ is the author ofÂ AnnotationsÂ and, with artist Christopher Stackhouse, the poetry collectionÂ Seismosis. Honors include a 2005 Whiting Foundation Award in Fiction and Poetry. He is Associate Professor of English and African American Studies at Northwestern University.Oct 24: Catherine Wagner & Amy King -- this is the event that will be held at 310 Bowery instead:Catherine Wagnerâ€™s new book,Â My New Job, is forthcoming. She is also the author ofÂ Macular HoleÂ andÂ Miss America.Â Recent chapbooks includeÂ Articulate How,Â Hole in the Ground, andÂ Bornt. She is a faculty member in the MA program in creative writing at Miami University in Ohio.Â Amy KingÂ is the author ofÂ Iâ€™m the Man Who Loves You,Â Antidotes for an Alibi, andÂ The People Instruments. Forthcoming, Slaves to Do These Things and I Want to Make You Safe. Â Please visit http://amyking.org for more.Oct 31: Kim Lyons & James BelflowerKim Lyonsâ€™ recent books of poetry areÂ PhototherapiqueÂ andÂ Saline. New work is in the magazinesÂ AufgabeÂ (including an essay on Bernadette Mayerâ€™s work),Â Effing, andÂ EOAGH.Â She hosts the fall 2009 Zinc Bar reading series.Â James Belflowerâ€™s first book of poems,Â Commuter, is forthcoming in fall of 2009. He is the author ofÂ And Also a Fountain, a collaborative e-chap with Anne Heide and J. Michael Martinez. He curatesÂ potlatchpoetry.org, a website dedicated to the gifting and exchange of poetry resources.Nov 7: Mary Burger & Stefani BarberMary Burgerâ€™s books includeÂ A Partial Handbook for NavigatorsÂ andÂ Sonny. A collection of prose works,Â Then Go On, is forthcoming. She lives in Oakland and studies landscape architecture.Â Stefani BarberÂ is the author ofÂ Non Eligible RespondentÂ and her work has appeared in various journals and anthologies, includingÂ Tripwire,Â Kenning, andÂ Step into a World: A Global Anthology of New Black Literature. She is currently an associate producer at Dateline NBC.Nov 14: Laura Elrick & Jesse SeldessLaura ElrickÂ is the author of the booksÂ sKincerityÂ andÂ Fantasies in Permeable Structures. Audio pieces and the video-poem â€œStalkâ€ can be accessed online at Pennsound. She currently lives and works in Brooklyn.Â Jesse SeldessÂ is the author ofÂ Who Opens. Jesse lives with his wife, the artist Leonie Weber, in Karlsruhe, Germany, where he continues to editÂ Antennae, a journal of experimental writing and language-based music and performance scores.Nov 21: Evelyn Reilly & Cathy EisenhowerEvelyn Reillyâ€™s most recent book isÂ Styrofoam. She is currently working onÂ Material Science, an exploration of the language of siteless architectural forms. Other works includeÂ Fervent Remnants of Reflective SurfacesÂ andÂ Hiatus.Â Cathy EisenhowerÂ lives and works in Washington, D.C. She is the author ofÂ clearing without reversalÂ andÂ would with and.. She is translating the selected poems of Argentine poet Diana Bellessi and is an editor of the forthcoming journalÂ Women in and Beyond the Global.All readings* take place at:Â Bowery Poetry Club308 BoweryNew York, New York 10012Ph: [redacted]Price: 6 dollars Event days/times: Saturdays, 4-6 pmÂ *Except for the reading on Saturday, Oct 24, which will take place at 310 Bowery instead.Â

_____

NEW BOOK

Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm -- For a review copy, please email me directly.

↑ Index

151. Séamas Cain
Controversy & Debate
Tue 22 Sep 2009

_____

On Tuesday, September 22, 2009, IMRAM, the annual Irish-language literary festival, will present an evening of controversy & debate on the issue of "Tradition and/or Innovation."

This debate will take place at 7:00 p.m. in the Irish Writers' Centre, 19 Parnell Square in Dublin, Ireland. Admission is free.

PUBLIC LECTURE & DEBATE

Does the Irish language have a modern literary culture? Or, have universities limited literary discussion to folkloric texts that have little to say to urban readers? Can poetry & literature in Irish survive if the rural Gaeltacht dies? Can a modern literary culture emerge from an urban creolized form of Irish?

Has the Irish-language become the prisoner of sociologists, anthropologists, government bureaucrats & educators who have constricted & suffocated the possibilities to such an extent that the very survival of the language itself has been called into question?

Will literary innovation ever be tolerated in Ireland?

These are the questions that Tomás Mac Síomóin raises in his IMRAM talk, "An Dúchas agus an Nua" (Tradition & Innovation). Dáithí Ó hÓgáin, Professor of Folklore at University College Dublin, will reply to the lecture, & IMRAM invites all with a serious interest in Irish poetry & literature to join in this crucial debate.

Tuesday,
22 September 2009,
7:00 p.m.,
IRISH WRITERS' CENTRE,
19 Parnell Square,
Dublin, Ireland

Free admission

For additional information about the IMRAM Festival, go to ...

http://www.poetryireland.ie/whats-on/imram.html

http://www.facebook.com/pages/IMRAM-IRISH-LANGUAGE-LITERATURE-FESTIVAL

http://www.facebook.com/pages/IMRAM-FEILE-LITRIOCHTA-GAEILGE

Questions may be put to
Liam Carson, Director of IMRAM Festival at ...

[redacted]

Books featured at
the IMRAM Festival
may be purchased
from ...

Connolly Books,
[redacted]
43 East Essex Street,
Dublin 2, Ireland

beir bua,

Séamas Cain
http://www.freewebs.com/seamascain
http://alazanto.org/seamascain

↑ Index

152. David Buuck
reminder: ANNE TARDOS AND AMINA CAIN THIS FRIDAY AND SATURDAY!
Tue 22 Sep 2009

Join us for these dynamic writers as they consider the Inverted I and narritivity.

Friday September 25th
Timken Hall, CCA SF
1111 8th Street
San Francisco, CA
event begins at 7:30pm

Anne Tardos, a 2009 Fellow in Poetry form the New York Foundation for the Arts, is a poet, performer, visual artist, and composer. She is the author of several books of poetry and the multimedia performance work and radio play Among Men. A selection of her readings and performances (many with Jackson Mac Low) can be heard on the University of Pennsylvania's web site : PennSound and on UbuWeb Sound. Her book of new poetry, I Am You, has appeared from Salt Publishing in 2008, and she is the editor of Thing of Beauty, by Jackson Mac Low, University of California Press, 2008. See also author page on EPC and http://www.annetardos.com/.

Amina Cain is the author of I Go To Some Hollow (Les Figues Press, 2009), a collection of stories that revolve quietly around human relationality, landscape, and emptiness. Her work has appeared or is forthcoming in publications such as 3rd bed, Action Yes, Denver Quarterly, Dewclaw, Encyclopedia vol. 2, La Petite Zine, and Sidebrow and has been translated into Polish on MINIMALBOOKS. She is also a curator, most recently for When Does It or You Begin? (Memory as Innovation), a month long festival of writing, performance, and video that took place at Links Hall in Chicago last January. She currently lives in Los Angeles.

and: Join us on Saturday for Dialogues with Anne Tardos!<http://smallpresstraffic.blogspot.com/2009/09/and-join-us-on-saturday-for-dialogues.html>
Come back for more with Anne Tardos in this one day only experience:

*Saturday September 26th
Classroom 101, CCA San Francisco
1pm-4pm
$25 admission/$20 members and students sliding scale entrance available*
*Class limited to 20.
*
In this workshop the participants will compose new texts, using voice, pen & paper (or electronic device). We will address monolingual, multilingual, and neolingual aspects of literary composition. Using certain techniques, we will illuminate the creative process by voicing our works as we compose them. If there is time, we will perform and discuss the works we have just created.
--
Samantha Giles
Executive Director
Small Press Traffic Literary Arts Center
sptraffic.org
smallpresstraffic.blogspot.com

↑ Index

153. Amanda Earl

Alert by Ben Ladouceur now available from AngelHousePress

Tue 22 Sep 2009

Alert by Ben Ladouceur is a collection of poetry that will take you to Nunavut and set your dreams howling. In lines as long and fragile as icicles in early spring, you will find salt and tulips and deranged weeds, Danes and a gentleman of snow. A recent graduate of Carleton University and a stalwart of Ottawa's literary scene, Ben is leaving Ottawa for the wilds of the UK. His rugged and sensual poetry, served to you on fine linen sheets, will warm you in the cold winter nights to come. $5; Limited Edition of 50 copies. available via Paypal on the AngelHousePress.com site. www.angelhousepress.com

Amanda Earl
AngelHousePress
www.angelhousepress.com
the angel is in the house

↑ Index

154. Jessica Wickens
Monday Night: New Issue, New Website, New Reading Period
Wed 23 Sep 2009

Announcing Issue 8 of Monday Night <http://www.mondaynightlit.com>, in print edition and online edition.

Order <http://www.mondaynightlit.com/read/8_allen.html> a print copy today or read <http://www.mondaynightlit.com/read/8_allen.html> it on our new & improved website, Monday Night TV<http://www.mondaynightlit.com/index.html> : because new lit beats old TV any night of the week.

Issue 8 Contributors:
Conor Allen
Ching-In Chen
Jenny Drai
Samantha Giles
Vivien Jones
Pete Knight
David W. Landrum
justin mcelfresh
David M. Morini
Mark Stevens
Rebecca Stonehill
Sharon Zetter

Now Reading Submissions for Issue 9:
Our reading period is now open through December 15, 2009! Click here for Submission Guidelines. <http://www.mondaynightlit.com/submit.html>

↑ Index

155. Alan Sondheim
UMove Launch Party and Movement Media Fundraiser! (fwd) (Foofwa, Azure, and I are in this) (fwd)
Wed 23 Sep 2009

This message is in MIME format. The first part should be readable text, while the remaining parts are likely unreadable without MIME-aware tools.

--0-563144731-1253686464=:21582

Date: Mon, 21 Sep 2009 17:36:27 -0400 (EDT)
From: Pentacle's Movement Media <[redacted]>

To: [redacted]
Subject: UMove Launch Party and Movement Media Fundraiser!

Having trouble viewing this email?
Click here
http://campaign.constantcontact.com/render?v=001ST03Hc8byEOCfB9Oa-8A7n07TFU6rVm5sLfrGX7Pngc4xlcWxIaHqbLdpVh-tFpk2UGoYKSLIKUd96PjUttryelgawoQX3p6yC4rLpwLs9V_HifpvZ1OsuFwn_c2fSBOeParEhkibjbl6n7qSrcFxkziAQB7CvMbjNpI6VuNGkAvPsIrE2hLm7vaFiZZj7gxIkWr946lq2DzwYSoPlLQKxtsuaM8jAAAvHihXqNxpqRDsnWZ27fbW-bQ6Vr77kzo

~~~
~~~

available
Seating.
Click HERE
[http://rs6.net/tn.jsp?
et=1102715577259&s=4163&e=001pW5P0o0yeoHYGkP2rJ1Lwu1JfU7k5oZZX bAp6Tv4fv9aQHRu-Qk0qoP3R-czc5UsP4kDHfSNzOH71nQMCdH2jbKNghRWU6wzpBNo5e9uJhjKJjVu4bQcRih 0uEO7Pg_0lX3uA0qu96RL2PbHxtbfaMih8OkZS9gC]
to RSVP
Launch party and dance performances begin at 8:30pm (after 1st Screening of Videodance Festival winners) and party continues with additional dance performances after the 2nd screening wraps up. Your donations support this exciting new Screendance movement.
Can't make it? Be there in spirit by giving a tax-deductible contribution [http://rs6.net/tn.jsp?et=1102715577259&s=4163&e=001pW5P0o0yeoFnIkhVX94U0B23wi0u4Dk6UiHpOqR2XDGnx5LG7-3-o9Skw3ChVPiem0yb6Nee-7NUGYDjHMsTW2LyLSGrJTBp47_uiA_cOzyL7IPnJhPJ4frA9rPkhwLtNV3Tm5OK
YI=]
to Movement Media.
Every amount helps!
The Tank
[http://rs6.net/tn.jsp?
et=1102715577259&s=4163&e=001pW5P0o0yeoEUz2jk3naguRO6CnzB6WnQ-
-
ApIeRYEL7Xpu1cR1FOW3QUKt84oPNtyYYgH3_EU57gFuk19Bouf2x0S_tBeuYnt gGIQ9GqEltWHGs6n6wilsVWY5T98SwO55awPknIX2I=]
354 W. 45th Street
(between 8th & 9th Ave in NYC)
~~~
~~~

Jorge y Valdes by Barbara Benas
~~~
~~~

saqtUbDzUPLO45AQUg_6WwBqm7xsht9Mm4xcaF63itzKVbGGDSKVGHLzZts4
KNM=])
audiences can view the selected program and browse the complete catalogue of over 50 festival submissions.
Festival co-organizers, Anna Brady Nuse, Marta Renzi, and Kriota Willberg have hand-picked a premium selection of international video artists for a program that will stimulate, provoke, and entertain. Come for the screening! Stay for fascinating multimedia performances and absorbing conversation. Drinks (and popcorn) will flow!
Video artists featured in this screening and at UMove online: Susan Marshall, Foofwa d'Imobilité, Barbara Benas, Daniel Robinson, Ally Voye, Alan Sondheim, Sabine Klaus, Marisa C. Hayes, Natalya Nikolaeva, Sabrina Mergey, and Kyle Ruddick/Eyestorm Productions.
~~~
~~~

the Fall 09 Kinetic Cinema Film screening schedule.
View dance videos and learn about artists on our blog, Move the Frame [http://rs6.net/tn.jsp?
et=1102715577259&s=4163&e=001pW5P0o0yeoHtlTmZLvm8FqisMuQNhBJA DakatmgnUEW-saqtUbDzUPLO45AQUg_6WwBqm7xsht9Mm4xcaF63itzKVbGGDSKVGHLzZts4
KNM=],
which discusses many aspects of videodance and features our upcoming UMOVE
Online
Videodance Film Festival
[http://rs6.net/tn.jsp?
et=1102715577259&s=4163&e=001pW5P0o0yeoEAuHeW0psaZ-XU2biKtHKUcdnNJdMYN684DgzH7UPLAjIhlod8JBya0oxcrDAVZiOgcbjgZ6druan9j6ltQbzRHdFzBtLGJDSqM7ukVe3R29jz4bRQN3fOHwsj0V_txFrzU1grCupA==]and previous Videodance contests. Connect with Movement Media on Facebook [http://rs6.net/tn.jsp?
et=1102715577259&s=4163&e=001pW5P0o0yeoE_hqUnb_pgqK96dD7aYH2K
oVaJXUxgzr8AFfZBXNzrSrtjzIeKCXvsCBQ97g7WUKuWkOTsGYQhiqVvzvh07wGsWRTNnOsbKPQY2VWTu
z-HujzB5i6e20LyxDi4TfZga-
4Bx6glIgx9B0ujk8YG4wdhIUm5zAg1hfX3clgDrDqGduw_ZmWv12_mHrCaFc-X1hwukyW2oR_3A==]
and Twitter,
[http://rs6.net/tn.jsp?
et=1102715577259&s=4163&e=001pW5P0o0yeoFvOoeHsqOI5T1v1H1G9_cW wVC1wscPRH2orPGqIq44yEjwtPHtCWsBN0GQ0wzznpnBIKCjBr9f3s8QCPflmtA 6r63eOaQicxG3XedXKHRKPQVQTj4GPE27] and support us
[http://rs6.net/tn.jsp?et=1102715577259&s=4163&e=001pW5P0o0yeoFnIkhVX94U0B23wi0u4Dk6UiHpOqR2XDGnx5LG7-3-o9Skw3ChVPiem0yb6Nee-
7NUGYDjHMsTW2LyLSGrJTBp47_uiA_cOzyL7IPnJhPJ4frA9rPkhwLtNV3Tm5OK
YI=]
in helping dancers engage with media to reach new audiences, grow artistically,
and stay relevant in today's media-rich world.
For more info on Pentacle's Movement Media project, please visit our blog:
MovetheFrame
[http://rs6.net/tn.jsp?
et=1102715577259&s=4163&e=001pW5P0o0yeoHxMV9QQZ5ZuxIM3lAOu4w
RE-

RMHX6VPIJpA0Az5Kq6OIlgppLFTp60NXDwnSgWxrOuJOIdfsIUtvTXqBFNdfiXw
qpKQPLmrTXwuJUC61PNnEYGvjHCXEeg] and our website: http://pentacle.org/movement_media.asp [http://rs6.net/tn.jsp?
et=1102715577259&s=4163&e=001pW5P0o0yeoHciRHHZ8kgaXzO5UrGCz4F
gCsnPZr8vled4pALRZIFhKBlde4vnTiCfEMCklzgUZcyFv1COhhIjZh3Wovd3hFa HPVIGwHJewk4WiwSLutLfLQNrp3V7DiKiq9sPmfsMFk=].
~~~
~~~

This email was sent to [redacted] by [redacted].

Update Profile/Email Address
http://visitor.constantcontact.com/d.jsp?v=001I2RsqMRJGm_USSVIFI8W_ELYJvuuI2Cxaz7vLp4397w9vUWdunPueA%3D%3D&p=oo

Instant removal with SafeUnsubscribe(TM)
http://visitor.constantcontact.com/d.jsp?v=001I2RsqMRJGm_USSVIFI8W_ELYJvuuI2Cxaz7vLp4397w9vUWdunPueA%3D%3D&p=un

Privacy Policy:
http://ui.constantcontact.com/roving/CCPrivacyPolicy.jsp

Email Marketing by Constant Contact(R)
www.constantcontact.com

Pentacle/DanceWorks, Inc. | 246 West 38th Street, 4th fl. | New York | NY | 10018

--0-563144731-1253686464=:21582--

↑ Index

156. Megan M. Garr
Versal is pleased to announce: new reading period, new editors
Wed 23 Sep 2009

VERSAL 8

Internationally acclaimed literary annual published in Amsterdam, bringing together the world's urgent, involved, and unexpected.

Versal is pleased to announce the start of its eighth reading period and welcomes four new editors to its team.

Jennifer K. Dick, the author of Fluorescence (Univ. of Georgia Press, 2004) and Enclosures (Blazevox, 2007), joins the poetry team, along with Matthew Sadler, whose first chapbook is to be published with Flying Guillotine Press in Brooklyn. BJ Hollars is the newest member of the fiction team. He edited the recently released anthology You Must Be This Tall To Ride: Contemporary Writers Take You Inside The Story from Writer's Digest Books. Finally, Shayna Schapp is Versal's new assistant art editor. She teaches at the Royal Academy of Art in The Hague.

Versal wants your poetry, prose, and art for the eighth issue due out in May 2010.

Inquiries (only) can be directed to: versal AT wordsinhere DOT com

Please feel free to forward this into your networks!

↑ Index

157. amy king
How do you get the juices flowing again??
Wed 23 Sep 2009

Want to write a poem but the pen's not moving? How do you get going again?
Rituals? Return to a certain poet? Take a walk? Look up poetry exercises?
Open the Spanish wine?
Just wondering!
Amy

_____

NEW BOOK

Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm -- For a review copy, please email me directly.

↑ Index

158. Jonathan Ball
Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
Wed 23 Sep 2009

Dear Amy

I almost never try to write a poem in such an instance. I just write something else instead: a story, an essay, etc. If for some reason I feel compelled to write a poem because of external pressure or internal angst, I make use of some compositional procedure. So produce something aleatory or conceptual or work with found text, something that takes the onus off of me as a creator and shifts my focus onto working with language more as an editor or sculptor.

Jonathan

On Wed, Sep 23, 2009 at 11:25 AM, amy king <[redacted]> wrote:

> Want to write a poem but the pen's not moving? How do you get going again?
> Rituals? Return to a certain poet? Take a walk? Look up poetry exercises?
> Open the Spanish wine?
> Just wondering!
> Amy

> _____
>
> NEW BOOK
>
> Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm -- For a review copy, please email me directly.

--

*Ex Machina *can be pre-ordered from BookThug:
http://www.bookthug.ca/proddetail.php?prod=200915

↑ Index

159. Ruth Lepson

Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??

Wed 23 Sep 2009

---

creeley amazingly used to listen to music while he was writing, to quiet his own noise, he said. reading poetry & listening to music get me started. but nothing sentimental. bernadette mayer has the best exercises which she welcomes people to steal--see online. ruth

On 9/23/09 12:25 PM, "amy king" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Want to write a poem but the pen's not moving? How do you get going again? Rituals? Return to a certain poet? Take a walk? Look up poetry exercises? Open the Spanish wine?
> Just wondering!
> Amy
>
> _____
>
> NEW BOOK
>
> Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm -- For a review copy, please email me directly.

↑ Index

160. Ryan Daley

Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??

Wed 23 Sep 2009

I do several things.

Sometimes, I build collages of pics from Google Image searches put into Microsoft Paint.

I also change my contextual perception. In other words, sometimes I feel too pressured to "write a poem" and so I go to (either physically, mentally or figuratively (using the internet)) a location that breaks my notions of what a poem should be. The Internet is great for this. In the past I've used Craigslist Missed Connections, comment boxes, forums, Netflix and Amazon review-writing formats. I compose within these formats (providing an "audience" of sorts), sometimes I post it, sometimes I don't. Sometimes this causes Internet "weirdness" to happen: http://blog.rifftrax.com/2008/08/07/helpful-product-reviews/

E.g., "Joke Invisible Dog Leash"

I'm giving this toy's educational value five stars. I've learned more in Georgia. Sometimes value is reflected in how we learn not to act. The dog died because I let her run free. There was no escape, and no run. No run that we were captives to an action. A service entrance left the dog loose. The dog's being loose -- lack of smell - meant I was unable to give it meat. Nutrition was usually left outside the service entrance. The dog went through the entry, changing its name. A truck then came at very fast paces. I wanted to run and tell my momma on ya'll. I broke. Time till entry? She was a yelper. I was given a few seconds with the pile. Puddled, our interaction lacked a fluid. I soon pupped and found pain was involved. My fault, crazy at the end and leashed - air being left in a flat to sour - lay down to perform the angel in creamed corn I would not be hungry enough to eat.

On Wed, Sep 23, 2009 at 12:25 PM, amy king <[redacted]> wrote:

> Want to write a poem but the pen's not moving? How do you get going again?
> Rituals? Return to a certain poet? Take a walk? Look up poetry exercises?
> Open the Spanish wine?
> Just wondering!
> Amy
>
> ———
>
> NEW BOOK

> Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm -- For a review copy, please email me directly.

↑ Index

161. Séamas Cain

... the poetry of pneumatic drills

Wed 23 Sep 2009

_____

On Saturday the 26th of September 2009, at 7:30 p.m., in the Centre for Contemporary Arts, 350 Sauchiehall Street in Glasgow, Scotland ...

Ceòl 'S Craic will present an evening of words & music.

Poetry from Maoilios Caimbeul, Mark Goodwin, Màire Holmes & Aifric MacAodha ...

Also Margaret Callan & Alasdair C. Whyte ...

plus traditional Music & Song, & a Cèilidh with the Pneumatic Drills!

For more information write to

[redacted]

This event is sponsored by

Comhairle nan Leabhraichean

(the Gaelic Books Council) as part of the Cuairt nam Bàrd 2009 festival!

Admission is £8 (£5) ...

For more information about the Centre for Contemporary Arts,

go to ...

http://cca-glasgow.com/home

For more information about

Comhairle nan Leabhraichean

(the Gaelic Books Council)

go to ...

https://lsh507.securepod.com/gaelicbooks.org/merchantmanager/

Chì sinn ann thu!

Séamas Cain
http://www.saorsainn.net

_____

↑ Index

162. Skip Fox

Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??

Wed 23 Sep 2009

I haven't had that problem for years but I would say reading would be the key. I often begin the morning reading and later find myself writing and wondering "When did that reading turn into this writing?" briefly before I turn back to I consider a word or a line.

Revising also pours me back in.

-----Original Message-----
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of amy king
Sent: Wednesday, September 23, 2009 11:25 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: How do you get the juices flowing again??

Want to write a poem but the pen's not moving? How do you get going again? Rituals? Return to a certain poet? Take a walk? Look up poetry exercises? Open the Spanish wine?
Just wondering!
Amy

_____

NEW BOOK

Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm -- For a review copy, please email me directly.

↑ Index

163. Laura Hinton
Re: Advancing Feminist Poetics and Activism: A Gathering
Wed 23 Sep 2009

Regarding the upcoming poetry conference:

Advancing Feminist Poetics and Activism: A Gathering

Thursday September 24th, 2009 - Friday September 25th, 2009*
City University of New York Graduate Center
New York, New York

For the complete schedule, try this link below:

http://belladonnaseries.org/adfemposchedule.html

*Each panel on women's poetics -- running concurrently -- looks fascinating. It will be hard to choose which one.
Of course I want to plug my own (below, from the program):

Room 4 [Panel 16]:*
*Visuality and the Image:
A Reading and Discussion with Ann Lauterbach, Mei-mei Berssenbrugge and Laura Hinton *
Chair: Laura Hinton
*Panelists: *Mei-mei Berssenbrugge, Ann Lauterbach
Description: This session takes the form of readings by and conversation with Mei-mei Berssenbrugge, Ann Lauterbach, and Laura Hinton. Framed as a performative inquiry into women's particular use of the image, both in feminist and activist contexts, we'll consider the stakes in image-making for a gender that Mary Ann Doane has suggested bears a socialized "close proximity" to the image itself.

There will be a poetry-film / "slide show" as part of this panel, to include the verbal-visual collaboration issues addressed recently by this Poetics List. Hope to see some of you there.

Laura Hinton
Professor of English
City College of New York
http://www.mermaidtenementpress.com
http://www.chantdelasirene.com

↑ Index

164. editor
Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
Wed 23 Sep 2009

Same about Ashbery for a large part of his career. Music.
Listening to radio while writing.

----- Original Message -----
From: Ruth Lepson <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Wed, 23 Sep 2009 12:38:01 -0400 (EDT)
Subject: Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??

creeley amazingly used to listen to music while he was writing, to quiet his own noise, he said. reading poetry & listening to music get me started. but nothing sentimental. bernadette mayer has the best exercises which she welcomes people to steal--see online. ruth

On 9/23/09 12:25 PM, "amy king" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Want to write a poem but the pen's not moving? Â How do you get going again? Â Rituals? Return to a certain poet? Â Take a walk? Â Look up poetry exercises? Â Open the Spanish wine?
> Just wondering!
> Amy
>
> _____
>
> NEW BOOK
>
> Slaves to Do These ThingsÂ -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm -- For a review copy, please email me directly.

↑ Index

165. Adam Katz
Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
Wed 23 Sep 2009

Stand on your head for ten minutes. Back bends are also useful - they cleanse the nerves. Perhaps a lack of inspiration is caused by the toxins that build up in our body from living in the modern world. Make yourself sweat, then scrub off the dead skin before the toxins are reabsorbed. And make sure to rehydrate. Lack of inspiration could also be caused by dehydration. Tapas - the fire of effort, to burn through the lack of clarity, the impurity, the processed sugar. Then there's also mula-bandha. Not to be practiced without the supervision of a guru.a

↑ Index

166. Mairead Byrne

Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??

Wed 23 Sep 2009

I remind myself that there is no real need for me to write poems, except that my happiness depends on it. Otherwise there are plenty of great poems already. And plenty of people busy writing more. This attitude doesn't really help of course. But poetry can be seasonal. Sometimes the thing that most interests is something else. MairÃ©ad

>>> [redacted] 09/23/09 1:05 PM >>>
I haven't had that problem for years but I would say reading would be the key. I often begin the morning reading and later find myself writing and wondering "When did that reading turn into this writing?" briefly before I turn back to I consider a word or a line.

Revising also pours me back in.

-----Original Message-----
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of amy king
Sent: Wednesday, September 23, 2009 11:25 AM
To: [redacted]
Subject: How do you get the juices flowing again??

Want to write a poem but the pen's not moving? How do you get going again? Rituals? Return to a certain poet? Take a walk? Look up poetry exercises? Open the Spanish wine?
Just wondering!
Amy

_____

NEW BOOK

Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm -- For a review copy, please email me directly.

↑ Index

167. George Bowering

Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??

Wed 23 Sep 2009

Sentimental? Who would?
Creeley, when he first mentioned his practice, said that he favoured Ch. Parker.

gb

On Sep 23, 2009, at 9:38 AM, Ruth Lepson wrote:

> creeley amazingly used to listen to music while he was writing, to quiet his
> own noise, he said.
> reading poetry & listening to music get me started. but nothing sentimental.
> bernadette mayer has the best exercises which she welcomes people to steal--see online.
> ruth
>
> On 9/23/09 12:25 PM, "amy king" <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Want to write a poem but the pen's not moving? How do you get going again?
> Rituals? Return to a certain poet? Take a walk? Look up poetry exercises?
> Open the Spanish wine?
> Just wondering!
> Amy
>
> ———
>
> NEW BOOK
>
> Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm -- For a > review copy, please email me directly.
>
> guidelines &
>
> welcome.html

George Harry Bowering
Likes towns with -ver- in them.

↑ Index

168. steve dalachinsky
Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
Wed 23 Sep 2009

---

or look around take in open field start to sketch or paint the scene transform the menu
the drink list the clouds
the animals on the curtain
the bridge

bridge the gap do something else creative to keep the juices flowing screw the computer
cut and paste with REAL scissors see reality and make it imagined read jks spontaneous prose tho i never have put it down and leave it alone

On Wed, 23 Sep 2009 12:45:56 -0400 Ryan Daley <[redacted]> writes:
> I do several things.
>
> Sometimes, I build collages of pics from Google Image searches put > into > Microsoft Paint.
>
> I also change my contextual perception. In other words, sometimes I > feel too > pressured to "write a poem" and so I go to (either physically, > mentally or > figuratively (using the internet)) a location that breaks my notions > of what > a poem should be. The Internet is great for this. In the past I've > used > Craigslist Missed Connections, comment boxes, forums, Netflix and > Amazon
> review-writing formats. I compose within these formats (providing > an

> "audience" of sorts), sometimes I post it, sometimes I don't.
> Sometimes this > causes Internet "weirdness" to happen:
> http://blog.rifftrax.com/2008/08/07/helpful-product-reviews/
>
> E.g., "Joke Invisible Dog Leash"
>
> I'm giving this toy's educational value five stars. I've learned > more in > Georgia. Sometimes value is reflected in how we learn not to act.
> The dog > died because I let her run free. There was no escape, and no run. No > run > that we were captives to an action. A service entrance left the dog > loose.
> The dog's being loose -- lack of smell - meant I was unable to give > it meat.
> Nutrition was usually left outside the service entrance. The dog > went > through the entry, changing its name. A truck then came at very fast > paces.
> I wanted to run and tell my momma on ya'll. I broke. Time till > entry? She > was a yelper. I was given a few seconds with the pile. Puddled, our > interaction lacked a fluid. I soon pupped and found pain was > involved. My > fault, crazy at the end and leashed - air being left in a flat to > sour - lay > down to perform the angel in creamed corn I would not be hungry > enough to > eat.
>
> On Wed, Sep 23, 2009 at 12:25 PM, amy king <[redacted]>
> wrote:
>
> > Want to write a poem but the pen's not moving? How do you get > going again?
> > Rituals? Return to a certain poet? Take a walk? Look up poetry > exercises?
> > Open the Spanish wine?
> > Just wondering!
> > Amy

> >
> >
> >
> > _____
> >
> > NEW BOOK
> >
> > Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm --
> For a > > review copy, please email me directly.
> >
> >
> >
> >
> guidelines
> >
>
>
>

↑ Index

169. steve dalachinsky
Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
Wed 23 Sep 2009

---

i've written hundreds of poems listening to music much live on the spot write on the spot
on the right spot sit in front of monet's waterlilies and transform them into ……

On Wed, 23 Sep 2009 12:38:01 -0400 Ruth Lepson <[redacted]>
writes:
> creeley amazingly used to listen to music while he was writing, to > quiet his
> own noise, he said.
> reading poetry & listening to music get me started. but nothing > sentimental.
> bernadette mayer has the best exercises which she welcomes people
> to > steal--see online.
> ruth
>

>
> On 9/23/09 12:25 PM, "amy king" <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> > Want to write a poem but the pen's not moving? How do you get > going again?
> > Rituals? Return to a certain poet? Take a walk? Look up poetry > exercises?
> > Open the Spanish wine?
> > Just wondering!
> > Amy
> >
> >
> >
> > _____
> >
> > NEW BOOK
> >
> > Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm --
> For a > > review copy, please email me directly.
> >
> >
> >
> >
> guidelines &
>
>
>

↑ Index

170. Mark Weiss

Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??

Wed 23 Sep 2009

Petty crime, perhaps shoplifting. Changing the order of everyday things--if you put on your undies first try instead a sock, then shirt, etc. Flagellation. Extreme religious hysteria. Drugs. A car crash. A life-threatening illness.The illness or death of the beloved. Join the foreign legion. Eat something really awful.

Or decide there are too many poems in the world already and only write when you really need to. As far as I know there's no assigned quota.

Mark

At 02:18 PM 9/23/2009, you wrote: >Stand on your head for ten minutes. Back bends are also useful - they >cleanse the nerves. Perhaps a lack of inspiration is caused by the toxins >that build up in our body from living in the modern world. Make yourself >sweat, then scrub off the dead skin before the toxins are reabsorbed. And >make sure to rehydrate. Lack of inspiration could also be caused by >dehydration. Tapas - the fire of effort, to burn through the lack of >clarity, the impurity, the processed sugar. Then there's also mula-bandha.
> Not to be practiced without the supervision of a guru.a
>

↑ Index

171. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
Wed 23 Sep 2009

"I Did My Best Work During a Writer's Block."

Ciao,

Murat

On Wed, Sep 23, 2009 at 2:17 PM, <[redacted]> wrote:

> Same about Ashbery for a large part of his career. Music.
> Listening to radio while writing.
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Ruth Lepson <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Wed, 23 Sep 2009 12:38:01 -0400 (EDT)
> Subject: Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
>
> creeley amazingly used to listen to music while he was writing, to quiet his
> own noise, he said.
> reading poetry & listening to music get me started. but nothing sentimental.
> bernadette mayer has the best exercises which she welcomes people to steal--see online.
> ruth
>
> On 9/23/09 12:25 PM, "amy king" <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Want to write a poem but the pen's not moving? How do you get going again?
> Rituals? Return to a certain poet? Take a walk? Look up poetry

> exercises?
> Open the Spanish wine?
> Just wondering!
> Amy
>
> _____
>
> NEW BOOK
>
> Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm -- For a review copy, please email me directly.
>
> guidelines &

↑ Index

172. Catherine Daly

Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??

Wed 23 Sep 2009

---

then of course you can get some nice pain meds from the e.r.

On Wed, Sep 23, 2009 at 11:18 AM, Adam Katz <[redacted]>wrote:

> Stand on your head for ten minutes. Back bends are also useful - they cleanse the nerves. Perhaps a lack of inspiration is caused by the toxins that build up in our body from living in the modern world. Make yourself sweat, then scrub off the dead skin before the toxins are reabsorbed. And make sure to rehydrate. Lack of inspiration could also be caused by dehydration. Tapas - the fire of effort, to burn through the lack of clarity, the impurity, the processed sugar. Then there's also mula-bandha. Not to be practiced without the supervision of a guru.a

--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

↑ Index

173. Ruth Lepson

Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??

Wed 23 Sep 2009

---

no kidding!

On 9/23/09 2:17 PM, "[redacted]" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Same about Ashbery for a large part of his career. Music.
> Listening to radio while writing.
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Ruth Lepson <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Wed, 23 Sep 2009 12:38:01 -0400 (EDT)
> Subject: Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
>
> creeley amazingly used to listen to music while he was writing, to quiet his own noise, he said.
> reading poetry & listening to music get me started. but nothing sentimental.
> bernadette mayer has the best exercises which she welcomes people to steal--see online.
> ruth
>
> On 9/23/09 12:25 PM, "amy king" <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Want to write a poem but the pen's not moving? How do you get going again? Rituals? Return to a certain poet? Take a walk? Look up poetry exercises? Open the Spanish wine?
> Just wondering!
> Amy
>
> ———
>
> NEW BOOK
>
> Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm -- For a review copy, please email me directly.

↑ Index

174. Ruth Lepson

Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??

Wed 23 Sep 2009

---

yes creeley told me he learned to write--of course this is a partial statement--from listening to charlie parker at the hi-hat on boylston st in boston. sentimental--well, I might--I have to avoid it.

On 9/23/09 2:41 PM, "George Bowering" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Sentimental? Who would?
> Creeley, when he first mentioned his practice, said that he favoured > Ch. Parker.
>
> gb
>
> On Sep 23, 2009, at 9:38 AM, Ruth Lepson wrote:
>
> creeley amazingly used to listen to music while he was writing, to
> quiet his
> own noise, he said.
> reading poetry & listening to music get me started. but nothing
> sentimental.
> bernadette mayer has the best exercises which she welcomes people to
> steal--see online.
> ruth
>
> On 9/23/09 12:25 PM, "amy king" <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Want to write a poem but the pen's not moving? How do you get > going again?
> Rituals? Return to a certain poet? Take a walk? Look up poetry
> exercises?
> Open the Spanish wine?
> Just wondering!
> Amy
>
> ———
>
> NEW BOOK
>
> Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm --
> For a
> review copy, please email me directly.

> guidelines &
>
> welcome.html
>
> George Harry Bowering
> Likes towns with -ver- in them.

↑ Index

175. Jerome Rothenberg
help needed
Wed 23 Sep 2009

This is a message to any who may have been in touch recently and are waiting for a reply.

Because of circumstances beyond my control, most of my emails over the last year have disappeared from my inbox.

I will try to catch up on my own, but if there are specific messages, requests, invitations, phone numbers, email addresses, or texts, manuscripts and attachments that you want to get to me, please reply as you can to this message.

We leave in about ten days for two months away in New York and Paris, so I particularly want to be clear about recent messages from those quarters.

With thanks and all best wishes,

Jerome Rothenberg / JERRY

Jerome Rothenberg
1026 San Abella
Encinitas, CA 92024
[redacted]
[redacted]
http://writing.upenn.edu/epc/authors/rothenberg/
new ethnopoetics web site: http://ubu.com/ethno/
j.r. in spanish: http://writing.upenn.edu/epc/authors/rothenberg/esp/
poemsandpoetics.blogspot.com

"There is an avant-garde that cannot be defeated."
M. Giroud, quoted in J.R. "Autobiography"

↑ Index

176. Elizabeth Switaj
Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
Thu 24 Sep 2009

I usually have a long-term project in mind for such eventualities. Currently, for instance, there's my tarot project, so if I haven't written my daily poem and the evening's drawing on, I pick a card. I also find that if I'm stuck after a line or a few words, using traditional form can be a help, even though I usually revise such pieces against the rules.

Unlike some others here, I've never found music to be of help--while writing prose yes, but for poetry I find it tends to suffocate the subtle rhythms.

Now, when the difficult days start to outnumber the ones with flow, I know it's time to move.

Elizabeth Kate Switaj
elizabethkateswitaj.net

↑ Index

177. Sharon Dolin
Heads up for CBA Chapbook Reading Wed. Oct. 7th
Thu 24 Sep 2009

Dear Friends,

I'll be hosting The Center for Book Arts Annual Letterpress Poetry Chapbook Competition Reading & Book Party.

Wednesday, October 7th, 6:30 pm

The winner, Bonnie Jo Campbell, and honorable mention, Teresa Leo, will read plus this year's judge, Kim Addonizio. Chapbooks and broadsides will be available for sale at the event. Hope to see many of you there.

The Center for Book Arts

28 W. 27th St., 3rd floor

(bet. B'way and 6th Ave.)

$10 suggested donation/ $5 members

Sharon

Sharon Dolin
[redacted]
www.sharondolin.com

↑ Index

178. Mark Ransom
Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
Thu 24 Sep 2009

Open the Spanish wine, definitely. Read poetry, any poetry. Get present and see what happens.

-----Original Message-----
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of amy king
Sent: Wednesday, September 23, 2009 12:25 PM
To: [redacted]
Subject: How do you get the juices flowing again??

Want to write a poem but the pen's not moving? How do you get going again? Rituals? Return to a certain poet? Take a walk? Look up poetry exercises? Open the Spanish wine?
Just wondering!
Amy

_____

NEW BOOK

Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm -- For a review copy, please email me directly.

↑ Index

179. Nicholas Piombino
Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
Thu 24 Sep 2009

I address an aspect of this issue from a different perspective in the following piece recently published in Poets and Artists:

http://issuu.com/didimenendez/docs/poetsandartists_self-portrait/66?zoomed=true&zoomPercent=144.22450309547082&zoom²%3EThe

Nick Piombino

On 9/23/09 2:25 PM, "Mairead Byrne" <[redacted]> wrote:

> I remind myself that there is no real need for me to write poems, except that my happiness depends on it.
> Otherwise there are plenty of great poems already. And plenty of people busy writing more. This attitude doesn't really help of course. But poetry can be seasonal. Sometimes the thing that most interests is something else.
> Mairéad

> [redacted] 09/23/09 1:05 PM >>>
> I haven't had that problem for years but I would say reading would be the key. I often begin the morning reading and later find myself writing and wondering "When did that reading turn into this writing?" briefly before I turn back to I consider a word or a line.
>
> Revising also pours me back in.
>
> -----Original Message-----
> From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of amy king
> Sent: Wednesday, September 23, 2009 11:25 AM
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: How do you get the juices flowing again??
>
> Want to write a poem but the pen's not moving? How do you get going again? Rituals? Return to a certain poet? Take a walk? Look up poetry exercises? Open the Spanish wine?
> Just wondering!
> Amy
>
> _____
>
> NEW BOOK
>
> Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm -- For a review copy, please email me directly.

↑ Index

180. cris cheek

Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??

Thu 24 Sep 2009

i think them the juices
and the flowing again the poems

no need to take up anybody else's time. no paper and ink wasted. no further storage requirements. i can think the entirety of the work, its means of production and circulation. i can think the promotional tour, the mixed reviews, the feeling of falling on deaf ears (i've always found that turn of phrase hilarious), the abjection and humiliation of obscurity, the thought of being rediscovered on a distant planet at some undesignated time in the future . . .

On Sep 23, 2009, at 5:48 PM, Murat Nemet-Nejat wrote:

> "I Did My Best Work During a Writer's Block."
>
> Ciao,
>
> Murat
>
> On Wed, Sep 23, 2009 at 2:17 PM, <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Same about Ashbery for a large part of his career. Music.
> Listening to radio while writing.
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> From: Ruth Lepson <[redacted]>
> To: [redacted]
> Sent: Wed, 23 Sep 2009 12:38:01 -0400 (EDT)
> Subject: Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
>
> creeley amazingly used to listen to music while he was writing, to > quiet
> his
> own noise, he said.
> reading poetry & listening to music get me started. but nothing
> sentimental.
> bernadette mayer has the best exercises which she welcomes people to
> steal--see online.
> ruth
>
> On 9/23/09 12:25 PM, "amy king" <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Want to write a poem but the pen's not moving? How do you get going > again?
> Rituals? Return to a certain poet? Take a walk? Look up poetry
> exercises?
> Open the Spanish wine?
> Just wondering!
> Amy
>
> ———

> NEW BOOK
>
> Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm
> -- For a
> review copy, please email me directly.
>
> guidelines &
>
> guidelines
>
> guidelines
>
> welcome.html

↑ Index

181. Sarah Sarai

Fri., 9/25 Brooklyn, Sarah Sarai (The Future Is Happy), Andrew Zornoza (Where I Stay) Earshot Series,

Thu 24 Sep 2009

SARAH SARAI (author of the new collection from BlazeVOX [books] The Future Is Happy) and ANDREW ZORNOZA (author of Where I Stay). They'll be joined by three MFA readers: Paul Hlava (NYU), Nicolle Elizabeth (Sarah Lawrence) and Justin Boening (Columbia University).

$5 -- includes a free drink!

Friday, September 25th @ 7:30 PM
@ Rose Live Music
Hosted by Nicole Steinberg
$5 + one free drink

Rose Live Music http://roselivemusic.com : 345 Grand Street in Brooklyn, between Havemeyer and Marcy. "L" Train to Lorimer St. Station

The Future Is Happy is available through:
http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ss2.htm

Small Press Distribution
http://www.spdbooks.org/pages/about/default.aspx

Amazon.
http://www.amazon.com/Future-Happy-Sarah-

Sarai/dp/1935402358/ref=sr_1_1?ie=UTF8&s=books&qid=1253804616&sr=1-1

Thanks,
Sarah
http://my3000lovingarms.blogspot.com/
www.myspace.com/sarahsarai

↑ Index

182. Evan Munday
Sept. 26 - Bowery Poetry Club - Holbrook, Minkus, Queyras, Turner
Thu 24 Sep 2009

Hello all,

Calling all New Yorkers and people in New York this weekend:

Please help us celebrate the launch of Susan Holbrook's new poetry collection, Joy Is So Exhausting, at the Bowery Poetry Club on Saturday afternoon. She'll be joined by fellow poets (and Canadians) Sina Queyras (Expressway, Lemon Hound), Jacqueline Turner (Into the Fold, Seven Into Even) and Kim Minkus (9 Freight, Thresh). These are four phenomenal readers who you won't want to miss.

'This collection's title, a nod to Marian Engel's Bear, is both a playful observation and hilarious declaration. Holbrook provides a great reminder that poetry is supposed to be fun and fun to read.' – The Coast

Joy Is So Exhausting book launch
featuring Susan Holbrook, Sina Queyras, Jacqueline Turner and Kim Minkus
Saturday, September 26, 2009
Bowery Poetry Club, 308 Bowery
New York, NY
4:00 p.m.
$6

http://www.chbooks.com/catalogue/joy_so_exhausting

Best,

Evan

Evan Munday
Publicist
Coach House Books
401 Huron St. (rear) on bpNichol Lane

Toronto ON, M5S 2G5
[redacted]

↑ Index

183. Jennifer Karmin
Sept 26: two readings @ The Bowery
Thu 24 Sep 2009

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 26th
at The Bowery Poetry Club
308 Bowery (between Houston & Bleecker)
New York, NY
http://www.bowerypoetry.com

2-3:30pm
Not A Muse book launch with Cristin O'Keefe Aptowicz, Kate Bernadette Benedict, Ann Cefola, Adele Geraghty, Jennifer Karmin, Linda Leedy Schneider, Sarah Stapperfenne & Jeanann Verlee

U. S. launch of Not A Muse, Haven Press, an international anthology of poetry exploring the inner lives of women in a post-feminist era. Not A Muse is about women's choices, how they define themselves as women and poets, and how these poets define freedom. Over 100 poets from 24 countries contributed to this wide-reaching collection. http://www.havenbooksonline.com

Proceeds from this event to benefit
The International Women's Writing Guild
http://www.IWWG.com

4-5:30pm
Book party for Susan Holbrook with Sina Queyras, Kim Minkus & Jacqueline Turner

Susan Holbrook will read from her new collection, Joy is So Exhausting (Coach House Books, 2009), with three other visiting poets.

↑ Index

184. Mary Jo Malo
Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
Thu 24 Sep 2009

Ars poetica!

You could write a poem about the difficulty of writing poems when you're not inspired to write. It certainly would engage.

Mary Jo
--
http://thisshiningwound.blogspot.com/
http://apophisdeconstructingabsurdity.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

185. Mairead Byrne
Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
Thu 24 Sep 2009

---

speaking of which, Jennifer Hill and Dan Waber's poem, home: An Anthology of Ars Poetica will be out real soon (November) from Paper Kite Press.
MairÃ©ad

>>> [redacted] 09/24/09 12:46 PM >>>
Ars poetica!

You could write a poem about the difficulty of writing poems when you're not inspired to write. It certainly would engage.

Mary Jo
--
http://thisshiningwound.blogspot.com/
http://apophisdeconstructingabsurdity.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

186. Obododimma Oha
Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
Thu 24 Sep 2009

Well, the normal route is to pick up a collection by a favorite poet and feed on the poems, but I prefer the undesirable: feeding on the work of a poet you hate most!

-- Obododimma

_____
From: amy king <[redacted]>
To: [redacted]
Sent: Wednesday, September 23, 2009 9:25:07 AM
Subject: How do you get the juices flowing again??

Want to write a poem but the pen's not moving? How do you get going again? Rituals? Return to a certain poet? Take a walk? Look up poetry exercises? Open the Spanish wine?
Just wondering!
Amy

_____

NEW BOOK

Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm -- For a review copy, please email me directly.

↑ Index

187. Catherine Daly
Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
Thu 24 Sep 2009

I have a whole chapbook of poems from the Poulin anthology that I "hate" turned into love poems.
--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

↑ Index

188. Mark Weiss
query
Thu 24 Sep 2009

Anyone know the source for Groucho's famous declaration "I would not join any club that would have someone like me for a member?"

Best,

Mark

↑ Index

189. Poetry Project
Events at The Poetry Project
Thu 24 Sep 2009

Here¹s what¹s coming up at The Poetry Project. Also, things are happening on our website. See David Perry¹s review of Sawako Nakayasu¹s latest book here: http://poetryproject.org/featured-content/reviews. And look for Brandon Brown to begin his tenure as guest-blogger next week on the project blog here: http://poetryproject.org/project-blog.

Monday, September 28, 8 PM
Mel Nichols & Michael Nicoloff

Mel Nichols is the author of Catalytic Exteriorization Phenomenon (National Poetry Series finalist), Bicycle Day (Slack Buddha 2008), The Beginning of Beauty, Part 1: hottest new ringtones, mnichol6 (Edge 2007), and Day Poems (Edge 2005). Recent journal publications include New Ohio Review, The Brooklyn Rail, Abraham Lincoln, Van Gogh¹s Ear, Westwind Review, and Poetry. She teaches at George Mason University.

Michael Nicoloff was born in Olympia, WA, and resides in Oakland, CA. He is the author of the chapbooks ³Punks² and Bruised Dick (co-written with Alli Warren). Work has appeared in The Brooklyn Rail, Mirage #4/Period(ical), The Recluse, The Orgasm Zine, Traffic, and elsewhere. With Jennifer Manzano, he co-publishes olywa press. Until just recently, he was affiliated with the Artifact reading series, but come October 2009, he will co-curate (and possibly help to rename) the (New) Reading Series at 21 Grand in Oakland.

Wednesday, September 30, 8 PM
Joshua Beckman & Jack Collom

Joshua Beckman was born in New Haven, Connecticut. He is the author of six books, including Take It (Wave Books, 2009), Shake and two collaborations with Matthew Rohrer: Nice Hat. Thanks. and Adventures While Preaching the Gospel of Beauty. He is an editor at Wave Books and has translated numerous works of poetry and prose, including Poker by Tomaz Salamun, which was a finalist for the PEN America Poetry in Translation Award. He lives in Seattle and New York.

Jack Collom was born in Chicago in 1931. He grew up in Illinois and Colorado small towns, walking the woods a lot, loving nature, then studied Forestry at Colorado A&M. He spent four years in the U.S. Air Force as a clerk-typist, then worked in factories for twenty years while becoming a poet (first poems writ in Tripoli, Libya). Since then, 30+ years as freelance poetry teacher, including long-term adjunct work at Naropa U. in Boulder. 23 books and chapbooks of poetry, the latest being Situations, Sings (with Lyn Hejinian), Adventures in Poetry, 2008, and Exchanges of Earth & Sky, Fishdrum (NYC) 2006. Large selected volume, Red Car Goes By, Tuumba (Berkeley) 2001. Also author of three books on and of writings by children, including Poetry Everywhere, Teachers & Writers Collaborative (NYC) 1994. Assembly of nature essays coming up through ecopoetics. Huge collection of bizarrely varied nature poetry simmering. Father of four, married to writer Jennifer Heath.

Friday, October 2, 10 PM
Vibrant Futures: Episode Two

Vibrant Futures, directed by Robin Schavoir and Lea Cetera, is a fictional mini-series about a tree-dwelling community living in giant redwoods that experiences a rebirth of consciousness. Originally written and conceived as a five hour long film, it has been subdivided into an episodic miniseries being produced and released in consecutive order. Episode One, the 55 minute pilot, was completed in September of 2008, and was screened at Guild and Greyshkul Gallery, NYC. To view Episode One, and learn more about this project please visit vibrantfuturesmovie.com.

Vibrant Futures: Episode Two is the second installment of this five part miniseries. Watch as Trey solves the mystery of Lucy¹s hat, Carl shows off his skatting skills and Moonface is visited by her old love. Approx. running time: 60 min.

Robin Schavoir is a Belgian-born artist. He attended the Cooper Union School of Art, and the Longy School of Music in Boston. He now lives and works in New York City.

Lea Marie Cetera is a New York City based artist. She was born in Brooklyn, NY and received her B.F.A from the Cooper Union School of Art in 2005. She is the co-founder and director of the experimental puppetry collaborative, IMAGINATIONEXPLOSION.

Become a Poetry Project Member! http://poetryproject.org/become-a-member

Calendar: http://www.poetryproject.org/program-calendar

The Poetry Project is located at St. Mark's Church-in-the-Bowery
131 East 10th Street at Second Avenue
New York City 10003
Trains: 6, F, N, R, and L.
[redacted]
www.poetryproject.org

Admission is $8, $7 for students/seniors and $5 for members (though now those who take out a membership at $95 or higher will get in FREE to all regular readings).

We are wheelchair accessible with assistance and advance notice. For more info call [redacted].

If you¹d like to be unsubscribed from this mailing list, please drop a line at [redacted].

↑ Index

190. Layne Russell
Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
Thu 24 Sep 2009

I look at some of my previous work, especially unfinished poems, and that stimulates my interest and energy level. Sometimes I grab one of my journals, any of them -- just grab one -- and pop it open wherever. I usually find within a page or two something to use as a springboard for a new poem. I do the same thing with music (I am a songwriter). I'll pick up the guitar and play and sing a few old songs of mine, or cover songs, then before I know it, I'm starting to play around with new ideas.

Layne

↑ Index

191. Adam Katz
Re: query
Thu 24 Sep 2009

---

which woody allen, at the beginning of annie hall, says he believes originally appears in freud's 'wit and its relation to the unconscious'in another context derrida writes: 'these texts are well known.'

↑ Index

192. Roy Exley
How do you get the juices flowing again?
Fri 25 Sep 2009

Attempt to halt the flow of time without the use of hallucinogens, then examine and analyse your emotional responses when you realise that your efforts are futile - also you'll realise, concurrently that it is far easier to write a poem!

↑ Index

193. Obododimma Oha
Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
Fri 25 Sep 2009

That's it, Catherine! -- Obododimma

On Thu, Sep 24, 2009 at 12:43 PM, Catherine Daly <[redacted]>wrote:

> I have a whole chapbook of poems from the Poulin anthology that I "hate" turned into love poems.
> --
> All best,

> Catherine Daly
> [redacted]

--
Obododimma Oha
http://udude.wordpress.com/

Dept. of English
University of Ibadan
Nigeria

&

Fellow, Centre for Peace & Conflict Studies
University of Ibadan

Phone: [redacted];
[redacted];
[redacted].

↑ Index

194. Rob McLennan
Re: query
Fri 25 Sep 2009

---

i think it was george bowering;

> Anyone know the source for Groucho's famous declaration "I would not join any club that would have someone like me for a member?"
>
> Best,
>
> Mark

-- writer/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...poetry - a compact of words (Salmon) ...2nd novel - missing persons www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

195. Rob McLennan above/ground press 2010 subscriptions
Fri 25 Sep 2009

YES! I WANT EVERYTHING ABOVE/GROUND PRESS HAS TO OFFER! GIVE ME A 2010 SUBSCRIPTION (STARTING TODAY, THANK GOD) FOR ONLY FORTY (40) DOLLARS (IN THE US, $40 US).

current, forthcoming & backlist poetry publications (including chapbooks, broadsides + issues of The Peter F. Yacht Club) by Amanda Earl, Pearl Pirie, Douglas Barbour, Jenna Butler, Phil Hall, rob mclennan, Andy Weaver, Jesse Ferguson, Emily Carr, Lea Graham, Max Middle, Jessica Smith, Stephanie Bolster, Stan Rogal, Gil McElroy, Jennifer Mulligan, Sharon Harris, bpNichol, ryan fitzpatrick, Julia Williams, Shauna McCabe, Jordan Scott, George Bowering, Roland Prevost, Rob Winger, Stephen Cain, Peter Jaeger, Monica Kidd, Marcus McCann, Pete Smith, Catherine Owen, Gwendolyn Guth, Natalie Simpson, derek beaulieu, Rob Budde, etcetera.

give $40 to rob mclennan, or mail:
c/o 858 Somerset Street West, main floor, Ottawa K1R 6R7

more information on above/ground press (founded 1993) can be found at http://www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com/; regular notices are also sent out through an email list (and facebook group); to be on list (including Ottawa-area literary events), emali rob at [redacted]

-- writer/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...poetry - a compact of words (Salmon) ...2nd novel - missing persons www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

196. David Chirot
Re: query
Fri 25 Sep 2009

---

it's a really old vaudeville line--who knows who originated it, as it is "lost inthe sands of time"-- a lot of the great comics of the early 20th century had gotten their starts with traveling burlesque shows, vaudeville acts, making the circuit of the "Borscht Belt" and so forth--

most of the lines the Marx brothers used were a combination of things they had perfected through years of work on stage as well as an amalgam of various other people's jokes and routines, as one comedian would take a bit from one comedian here, another there, and mix them al together into something new in arrangement

60 to 85% (if not more) of woody allen's work is all recycled "Borscht Belt" routines and one liners, Yiddish jokes, things from the radio etc

w c field,s charlie chaplin cary grant (a terrific physical comedian out of English vaudeville) buster keaton--the list goes on and on of the old time vaudevillians who became famous first on stage and then in the cinema--

i think the way overblown appreciate of woody allen does a great disservice to the tradition he comes out of--which is very old, going back to traveling entertainers in russia, germany, poland--created in many coutnries by generations of professional trsaveling comics who could also do -hysical comedy to accompany the verbal barbs--and gymnastics--Fields for example was the great billiards and balncing act of his time, considered the best in the world, and traveled as far away as Australia as well as across Europe-- so as to travel across language barriers (including those between differing groups of immigrants in the usa) physical acts and comedy were a necessity in a way not understood nor practised that much anymore--(outside of grafix and comix)

the marx brothers themselves were from austria

a common form of humor in the usa since the early 19th century had been the mix-ups caused by the immigrant or the not very educated persons attempts to describe something to a regular speaker of american--with incredibly screwy results--

(i think i wrote here the tradition of mark twain and artemus ward in which not only pronunciation of words but their appearance on pages naps catlogues etc--is distorted into completely new and wild beings, events, personages--by a form of homophonic reading whch translates misread wordsinto homphonic misreadings creating ever more confusion and distance fro the original as it goes along, passed from one person to the next-- one of the problems being that until later in the 19th century there was no standard spelling for much of the american language-- even a lot of abe lincoln's celebrated humor is often based on these imense gaps between the written and spoken which result in wide gaffes--

t.s. eliot was a huge fan of English vaudeville and music hall and wrote an essay on it--

if you look at a lot of the history of French painting and poetry and prose as well between roughly 18815 and the first world war, it is hugely indebted to the dance hall, the cafe with perfrormances, circus, to vaudeville, to the bicycle racers on the huge tracks in the city where one could lean up against th the barrier and feeling the sucking in of the air as the racers passed by woody allen came along at a time when alot of second and third generation americans had stopped bothering with the entertainment their elders, which stank of the booze and saw dust days, the old school comedians alternating one liners with a physical comedy act or balancing twenty million dishes on the head of a screwdriver and then doing something else with the screwdriver when the dishes fell--or juggling, which was w c fileds' main forte--the world's ,ost juggler--who added spoken assaults on logic, reality so-called, the Law-- to his crazed balancing and juggling acts-- woody allen was the person who performed the old school acts slightly or vastly watered down and less crude for the younger generation too embarrassed to go to the shows with mom and dad--in short he made a style of comedy acceptable to college students and dates wh o otherwise would not have touched it with a ten foot pole--

a friend of mine and his father took me to some of the old Borscht Belt shows in NY State and they were great! --the real origins of so many acts were there--

Groucho's line could have come from any kind of immigrant comedian--Italian German Russian, Polish, Czech, Spanish--al of whom would not be welcome at many a club just as these comedians would nopt be welcome today at the clubs woody allen played

On Thu, Sep 24, 2009 at 2:13 PM, Mark Weiss <[redacted]> wrote:

> Anyone know the source for Groucho's famous declaration "I would not join any club that would have someone like me for a member?"
>
> Best,
>
> Mark

↑ Index

197. Mark Young

Re: query

Fri 25 Sep 2009

Probably more information than you need, but you can find the answers - yes, that's plural - at this URL:

http://www.16-9.dk/2007-02/pdf/16-9_februar2007_side11_inenglish.pdf

M.

On Fri, Sep 25, 2009 at 7:13 AM, Mark Weiss <[redacted]> wrote:

> Anyone know the source for Groucho's famous declaration "I would not join any club that would have someone like me for a member?"
>
> Best,

> Mark

↑ Index

198. Jason Quackenbush

Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??

Sat 26 Sep 2009

---

1. read ted berrigan.
2. ruminate on painful life experiences
3. read linguistics text books
4. sleep a bunch and keep a dream journal
5. stop taking mood stabilizers
6. go out drinking with undergrads and dance with young women in scandalous outfits
7. make up words to songs i don't know the words to
8. dye my hair
9. set things on fire
10. watch akira kurosawa dvds with the subtitles turned off and try to discern english words in the japanese
11. translate old poems into new languages using automatic translators on the internet, then translate the results back into english.
12. take a long shower in my clothes
13. sunbathe and fantasize about being a famous novelist
14. work on the novel that will never make me famous
15. read wittgenstein.

On Sep 23, 2009, at 9:25 AM, amy king wrote:

> Want to write a poem but the pen's not moving? How do you get going again? Rituals? Return to a certain poet? Take a walk? Look up poetry exercises? Open the Spanish wine?
> Just wondering!
> Amy
>
> ———
>
> NEW BOOK
>
> Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm --
> For a review copy, please email me directly.

↑ Index

199. Andrew Rippeon

P-Queue, vol. 6Geof Hutherica lewis & mark stephen finein

Sat 26 Sep 2009

P-Queue, vol. 6
Geof Huth
erica lewis & mark stephen finein

Dear friends-

Weâ€™re proud to announce the release of P-Queue, vol. 6, on S-P-A-C-E. Featuring work by:

David Brazil
Stephen Collis
Rob Halpern
Joe Harrington
Geof Huth
Sueyeun Juliette Lee
Emily McVarish
Lauren Shufran
Stephanie Strickland
Roberto Tejada
Divya Victor
Tyrone Williams

Weâ€™re also pleased to announce the release of:

Geof Huthâ€™s _Eyechart Poems_
32 pps, handsewn in letterpress wrappers; $10

Medicalized normativity under poetic detournement: no longer a standard by which one is measured, the eyechart becomes instead a horizon of possibility!

Interaction (the only word for it!) with these pieces gives one much to think about, and a timely, wry twist to all the anxiety that seems to be in the air these days about a "public" health option...

Geofâ€™s essay on this work appears in vol. 6, along with a stellar array of â€˜fidgetglyphsâ€™.

And!

erica lewis and mark stephen fineinâ€™s _the precipice of jupiter_ 60 pps, perfectbound in letterpress wrappers; $10

Part landscape poem, part action painting, part astral projection--in this collaborative piece between artist and poet, the agent of enunciation speaks herself into a near crystalline silence: â€œdearest i am writing this to you from above"...

Available through www.p-queue.org.
Prices include shipping.

www.p-queue.org
www.pqueue.blogspot.com

↑ Index

200. richard owens
Damn the Caesars, Vol. V
Sat 26 Sep 2009

---

damn the caesars, vol. v
http://damnthecaesars.org/
cONTRIBUTORS
Roberto Tejada â€¢ Stephen Collis â€¢ Margaret Konkol â€¢ Scott Thurston â€¢ Kemeny Babineau â€¢ Alejandra Pizarnik translated by John Martone â€¢ Sean Bonney â€¢ Kaia Sand â€¢ Alan Halsey â€¢ Alessandro Porco â€¢
Geraldine Monk â€¢ Ammiel Alcalay â€¢ Jeffery Beam â€¢ William R. Howe

FEATURES
Some Things Said By and About Humans â€¢ Brenda Iijima

Aunt Sally â€¢ Tyrone Williams

Iijima & Williams : In Conversation

COVER IMAGES
"Baudelaire 13" (front cover) and "Baudelaire 2" (back cover) by Sean Bonney.
Inside the US: $10Outside the US: $15

.....richard owens
810 richmond ave
buffalo NY 14222-1167

damn the caesars, the journal
damn the caesars, the blog

↑ Index

201. Small Press Traffic

what are you doing today? come spend some time with Anne Tardos!

Sat 26 Sep 2009

Come back for more with Anne Tardos in this one day only experience:
*Saturday September 26th: TODAY!
*Classroom 101, CCA San Francisco
1pm-4pm
$25 admission/$20 members and students
*sliding scale entrance available no one turned away for lack of funds
*Class limited to 20.

In this workshop the participants will compose new texts, using voice, pen & paper (or electronic device). We will address monolingual, multilingual, and neolingual aspects of literary composition. Using certain techniques, we will illuminate the creative process by voicing our works as we compose them. If there is time, we will perform and discuss the works we have just created.
--
Samantha Giles
Executive Director
Small Press Traffic Literary Arts Center
sptraffic.org
smallpresstraffic.blogspot.com

↑ Index

202. Jeffrey Side

'Day' by Kent Johnson

Sat 26 Sep 2009

'Day' a new work by Kent Johnson now available:

http://www.blazevox.org/bk-kj4.htm

"If the 836-pp. Day established Kenny Goldsmith as without a doubt the leading conceptual poet of his time, the 836-pp. Day by Kent Johnson may well be remembered for nudging the politics of Conceptual Poetry out of blithely affirmative, institutional framings, and into truly negational, critical spaces."

—Juliana Spahr

↑ Index

203. Geer Austin
New York Writers Coalition Chapbook
Sat 26 Sep 2009

Announcing "Home/Homeless is where your story begins" - a chapbook edited by Geer Austin of poetry and prose from Sylvia's Place, an emergency night shelter for LGBTQ homeless youth. Available from the New York Writers Coalition Press (http://www.nywriterscoalition.org/publications/).

↑ Index

204. Laura Hinton
ADFEMPO -- photos and notes from this week's feminist poetics conference
Sat 26 Sep 2009

For everyone who couldn't be there this Thursday night and Friday, and for those, too, who were around, you can read my three entries on Chant de la Sirene <http://www.chantdelasirene.com>, plus check out photos, from the Advancing Feminist Poetics conference in New York City.

--
Laura Hinton
Professor of English
City College of New York
http://www.mermaidtenementpress.com
http://www.chantdelasirene.com

↑ Index

205. Jeffrey Side
New blog post: 'Another Day for Kent Johnson'
Sat 26 Sep 2009

New blog post:

'Another Day for Kent Johnson'

A new book by Kent Johnson is now available. It's called Day and is published by Blazevox. It has had some good reviews, including the following by Juliana Spahr: 'If the 836-pp. Day established Kenny Goldsmith as without a doubt the leading conceptual poet of his time, the 836-pp. Day by Kent Johnson may well be remembered for nudging the politics of Conceptual Poetry out of blithely affirmative, institutional framings, and into truly negational critical spaces'. Commendation indeed, if not for the fact that Johnsonâ€™s Day is an exact reproduction of Goldsmithâ€™s â€œworkâ€. Iâ€™ve put â€œworkâ€ in quotes because Goldsmith would readily agree that the work in question was not â€œcreatedâ€ by him in any authorial sense. He describes his working procedure for the book .....

http://jeffrey-side.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

206. K. R. Waldrop
Daive's memoir of Paul Celan
Sun 27 Sep 2009

---

newly available from www.burningdeck.com, www.spdbooks.org, and in Europe: www.audiatur.no/bokhandel:

Jean Daive
UNDER THE DOME: WALKS WITH PAUL CELAN
translated from the French by Rosmarie Waldrop Serie d'Ecriture: Current French writing in English translation #22
Memoir, 136 pages, offset, smyth-sewn
ISBN 978-1-886224-97-1 original paperback $14

An intimate portrait of Paul Celan in his last, increasingly dark years. Celan and Daive translate each other, walk, talk. Tensions, silences and, discreetly, Celan's crises and suicide. The book blurs the time of these encounters (1965 - 1970) with the present of the author writing, 20 years later, on a Mediterranean island.

Jean Daive's impressive oeuvre alternates between poetry, narration and reflective prose. He has also translated Paul Celan and Robert Creeley. His first book, DÉCIMALE BLANCHE (1967) was translated into German by Paul Celan, into English by Cid Corman. Our book is volume 5 of the prose series, LA CONDITION D'INFINI (1995-97: 7 volumes).

↑ Index

207. CA Conrad
Dear Chicago, Dear Everyone...
Sun 27 Sep 2009

Dear Chicago, Dear Everyone...

Has everyone had a look at this latest article by Kent Johnson about The New Chicago School of Poetry? Here's the link: http://www.digitalemunction.com/2009/09/08/guest-post-the-new-chicago-school-of-poetry-by-kent-johnson/

I have respect for his work and opinions, and even his enthusiasms displayed in this article. What I wonder though is HOW do the Chicago poets feel about what he wrote? In particular to the WAY he frames his praise by knocking other poetry communities in the country?

THIS was something I had hoped to read in the COMMENTS box, but of course, as you will see, that became one big weird argument about WHICH non-Chicago poet called it first! It's really silly, but worth a laugh or two to say the least!

There are some very big statements and judgements made, and I'm wondering how everyone feels, especially the Chicago poets.

CAConrad

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

208. Camille Martin
new on Rogue Embryo's blog
Sun 27 Sep 2009

---

new on Rogue Embryo:

All That Glitters on the Spiderweb: Myth and Denial Run Through Rock: Besmilr Brigham
The Place of Place: Besmilr Brigham’s Run Through Rock from Richter 858

http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

Cheers!
Camille

Camille Martin
http://www.camillemartin.ca
http://rogueembryo.wordpress.ca

↑ Index

209. Jorgensen, Alexander
Celebrating China's 60 Anniversary
Sun 27 Sep 2009

---

http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/asia/china/6235611/Evolution-of-Chinas-revolution-from-bloody-repression-to-capitalism-red-in-tooth-and-claw.html

"So to say that the Chinese revolution of 1949 has proved a success, or that it was necessary for 70 million people to die to lay the groundwork for later advances, is moral and historical nonsense."

With seven years underbelt,
Alex

↑ Index

210. Alan Sondheim
SECOND LIFE PERFORMANCE NIGHT AT EYEBEAM (please list)
Sun 27 Sep 2009

SECOND LIFE PERFORMANCE NIGHT AT EYEBEAM

WHERE:

EYEBEAM - 540 W 21st St. New York, NY 10011

Event Type: performance
Start Date: Oct 09, 2009
Hours: 6:30PM-8:30PM
Venue: Eyebeam

Second Life Performance Night

This evening will feature three different artists/groups, which use the online virtual world of Second Life as a medium for performance art. Launched in 2003 by Linden Labs, Second Life (SL) hit widespread popularity in 2006. In this 3D-rendered world, people across the world share a networked space with unique avatars. With a completely user-generated environment, SL enables a rich world of artistic possibilities.

Alan Sondheim along with Foofwa d'Imobilite will present a performance using the aesthetics of the Second Life environment to create an experimental choreography; Lily & Honglei will present The Merry-go-around a virtual installation addressing a series of environmental issues in todays China; Second Front has discovered a virtual crypt within Second Life and are inviting the public to witness its opening. Together, these three short performances (12-15 minutes each) will sample some of the contemporary trends in Second Life performance art. The performances will be followed by a brief panel discussion and a subsequent launch party of Avvie Road the second DVD of Second Fronts performance works.

People: Alan Sondheim (with Foofwa d'Imobilite), Lily & Honglei, Patrick Lichty, Scott Kildall
Tags: Second Front, Second Life

http://eyebeam.org/events/performing-in-second-life

==========
==

current text file: http://www.alansondheim.org/qg.txt sondheim mail-text archive: http://sondheim.rupamsunyata.org/ webpage http://www.alansondheim.org
sondheimat gmail.com, panix.com
==

↑ Index

211. Rachel Loden

Kevin Killian and Rachel Loden at Kepler's Books, Menlo Park CA

Mon 28 Sep 2009

Please come check us out if you're in the area and say hello!

Thursday, October 8

Kevin Killian and Rachel Loden

Kepler's Books

1010 El Camino Real

Menlo Park, CA

7:30 p.m.

Free

http://www.keplers.com/event/poetry-kevin-killian-rachel-loden

Info: [redacted]

Kevin Killian has written two novels, Shy (1989) and Arctic Summer (1997), a book of memoirs, Bedrooms Have Windows (1990), two books of stories, Little Men (1996) and I Cry Like a Baby (2001) and two books of poetry, Argento Series (2001), and Action Kylie (2008). With Lew Ellingham, Killian has written often on the life and work of the American poet Jack Spicer [1925-65] and with Peter Gizzi has edited My Vocabulary Did This To Me: The Collected Poetry of Jack Spicer (2008) for Wesleyan University Press. For the San Francisco Poets Theater Killian has written thirty plays, including Stone Marmalade (1996, with Leslie Scalapino), The American Objectivists (2001, with Brian Kim Stefans), and Often (also 2001, with Barbara Guest). New projects include Screen Tests, an edition of Killian's film writing, and Impossible Princess, a new fiction collection forthcoming from City Lights Books in November. A new novel Spreadeagle will appear in the spring.

Rachel Loden is the author of Dick of the Dead, which came out in May and has already been called "oddly sublime" and "intoxicating" by the Poetry Project Newsletter and "expansive and whimsical" by the Brooklyn Rail. Her first book, Hotel Imperium, was selected as one of the ten best poetry books of the year by the San Francisco Chronicle, which called it "quirky and beguiling." It was also shortlisted for the Bay Area Book Reviewers Award. Loden has published four chapbooks, including The Last Campaign and The Richard Nixon Snow Globe. Her work has appeared in New American Writing, The Paris Review, Jacket, two editions of the Best American Poetry series, and many other magazines and anthologies. She has received a Pushcart Prize, a Fellowship in Poetry from the California Arts Council, and a grant from the Fund for Poetry, and her work is forthcoming in the &NOW Awards: The Best Innovative Writing.

http://keplers.com/bookstore-location-map-driving-directions-contact-and-parking

Kepler's is located on El Camino Real between Santa Cruz Avenue and Ravenswood, one mile north of Stanford University in Menlo Park. An underground parking garage off Santa Cruz Avenue provides free parking. The Menlo Park Cal Train station is located behind the bookstore, making for convenient, green travel.

↑ Index

212. Susan Bee
Girldrive now available
Mon 28 Sep 2009

Girldrive

Emma Bee Bernstein &
Nona Willis Aronowitz

now out!

Girldrive reading at KGB Bar in NYC on Oct 29 at 7 p.m.
Girldrive launch at A.I.R. Gallery in NYC on Oct 30 at 7:30 p.m.

more info: http://writing.upenn.edu/pepc/meaning/Bernstein/GirlDrive.html

↑ Index

213. Carol Novack
Mad Hatters' Review Poetry, Prose, and Anything Goes Reading
Mon 28 Sep 2009

---

*Friday, October 2nd, 7:00 – 9:00 pm at the KGB Bar, NYC, 85 E 4thStreet  (between Bowery & Second): *

Mad Hatters' Review Poetry, Prose, and Anything Goes Reading featuring:

Karen Garthe, whose poetry has appeared in numerous journals including Lana Turner, Chicago Review, New American Writing, American Letters Commentary, VOLT, Denver Quarterly, Colorado Review, POOL, and Court Green. Her book Frayed escort won the 2005 Colorado Prize judged by Cal Bedient. She lives and works in New York City. Karen served briefly as a poetry editor for Mad Hatters' Review and will have poems in the forthcoming Mad Bunkers Mash issue.

Jefferson Hansen is a graduate of the Poetics Program at SUNY-Buffalo, where he worked with Robert Creeley and Charles Bernstein. His most recent work is a novel, And Beefheart Saved Craig (BlazeVox) experiments radically with typography and visuals. He also has a poetry book coming out soon, Jazz Forms (Blue Lion). A number of journals — such as *The Mad Hatters' Review, Sulfur, Denver Quarterly, and Big Bridge — *have published his stories and poems. He also runs a blog that focuses on interviews, reviews, and literary commentary (http:/ [redacted]). Jefferson lives in Minneapolis with his wife Elizabeth Burns, a novelist, his daughters Cecilia and Molly, and their dog Victor.

Erica Plouffe Lazure, the 2009 George Bennett Writer in Residence at Phillips Exeter Academy in New Hampshire. She is a graduate of Bennington College's Writing Seminars, and until recently had lived and worked as a writer and writing teacher at East Carolina University in Greenville, North Carolina. In addition to Mad Hatters' Review, her work has appeared in McSweeney's Quarterly, North Carolina Literary Review, Smokelong Quarterly, Keyhole, and elsewhere.

M.E. Parker, an obscure fiction writer in Texas who aspires to one day be a card-carrying member of his local Card Carrier Society. In the mean time, his short fiction has recently surfaced or is scheduled to see daylight in numerous print publications and Internet haunts including 42 Opus, Alimentum, Barnstorm, The Briar Cliff Review, Electric Velocipede, The MacGuffin, Night Train, and Red Fez. www.meparker.com

--

MAD HATTERS' REVIEW: edgy & enlightened art, literature, & music in the Age of Dementia: http://www.madhattersreview.com

↑ Index

214. Catherine Daly
Re: query
Mon 28 Sep 2009

---

interestingly, the "set pieces" and other physical comedy -- as well as cgi and animation -- are what make films get better international grosses now: no dubbing necessary for those bits probably also a huge factor in Jackie Chan -- that Peking Opera training meeting the physical comedy of the silents -- but wikiquote said John Galsworthy?

--
All best,
Catherine Daly
[redacted]

↑ Index

215. CA Conrad
EcoNvergence POETRY
Mon 28 Sep 2009

I'll be conducting a PACE (Poet Activist Community Extension) Action with Frank Sherlock at THE EcoNvergence CONFERENCE, hope to see you there: http://www.econvergence.org/

There's also a poetry reading after Chomsky that we're all taking part in. Is Chomsky married? He's the kind of older man I've been dreaming of, you know???? YEAH! Just let him talk and talk and talk, LOVE to hear that man talk about the destruction of our world and how we're going to find our way back to wholeness

CAConrad

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

216. CA Conrad
ANTENNA JIVE
Mon 28 Sep 2009

It's sex with trees, or not, but it is really, unless it's not, but it was for me:
http://somaticpoetryexercises.blogspot.com/

For poetry and trees,
CAConrad

--
PhillySound: new poetry http://PhillySound.blogspot.com

THE BOOK OF FRANK by CAConrad http://CAConrad.blogspot.com

↑ Index

217. Ruth Lepson
Re: Dear Chicago, Dear Everyone...
Mon 28 Sep 2009

Dear Everyone,

PS This weekend, while in NY for the advancing feminist poetries and politics conf, which gave me enough fuel for my hungry brain for ages -- & afterwards made me aware thru emails of various political sub-groups within it, I got CA Conrad's Elvis book, and couldn't stop reading it. CA you are a scene unto yourself.

Boston feels like an English village in comparison to NY, & it seems to be that many of the innovative reading series take place in NY or Calif tho of course other places like Providence & here to a much smaller degree.

Met Jennifer Karmin at the conf--she is from Chicago & she graciously invited me to read in the Red Rover series some time next year--she talked about how as much as she found the conf exciting she felt it wasn't particularly inclusive. Is Chicago exclusive? Dunno.

Here in Boston the innovative scene is mostly younger guys, which is inevitable maybe, with a few oldsters like Joel Sloman & me who are on the fringes.

At the conf I heard/met Vanessa Place, Chris Tysh, who's in Detroit, Jeanne Heuving, who teaches at the U of Washington in Seattle, Mei Mei B, Kathleen Fraser (Calif & Rome), Eileen Myles--where is she?--zippy women, individuated women who are doing new things, dispersed--this is part of the new community. And a new worldwide movement for human rights for women.

Conceptual poetry seems to be another newest thing, and tho I am not inclined to practice it myself, the theory is edgy & exciting. And Canadian women poets from Coach House Press gave a reading at the Bowery Poetry Club.

Tony Trigilio & I once taught at Northeastern U in Boston together & he is a sweetie.

But maybe the online community is as close as we get.

But I think any generalities incl ones I have just made are suspect.

Ruth

On 9/27/09 7:38 PM, "CA Conrad" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Dear Chicago, Dear Everyone...
>
> Has everyone had a look at this latest article by Kent Johnson about The New Chicago School of Poetry? Here's the link: http://www.digitalemunction.com/2009/09/08/guest-post-the-new-chicago-school-of-poetry-by-kent-johnson/
>
> I have respect for his work and opinions, and even his enthusiasms displayed in this article. What I wonder though is HOW do the Chicago poets feel about what he wrote? In particular to the WAY he frames his praise by knocking other poetry communities in the country?
>
> THIS was something I had hoped to read in the COMMENTS box, but of course, as you will see, that became one big weird argument about WHICH non-Chicago poet called it first! It's really silly, but worth a laugh or two to say the least!
>
> There are some very big statements and judgements made, and I'm wondering how everyone feels, especially the Chicago poets.
>
> CAConrad

↑ Index

218. Jesse Glass

Mark DuCharme's The Found Titles Project available as an Ahadada Free E-Chap

Mon 28 Sep 2009

We're pleased to add Mark DuCharme's title to our e-chap collection. Available for downloading at:

http://www.ahadadabooks.com/content/blogcategory/17/43/

Or simply search "Ahadada Books"

Jess

↑ Index

219. Jesse Glass

Seducing Velasquez by Dayana Stetco, Available from Ahadada Books

Mon 28 Sep 2009

"Seducing Velasquez is a collection of nervy, impish, unconventional dramatic works that draw their strength from Stetco's rigorous investigations into the connection between verbal, visual, and physical languages and from the innovative performance traditions associated with the author's native Romania. These plays are witty and marvelous, in the mode of the best absurdist art, and are welcome interventions into the American theater scene."

--Carla Harryman

The first volume in Ahadada's new plays series. Available from SPD, Amazon, and the Ahadada Books website.

Jess

↑ Index

220. Jonathan Ball
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Mon 28 Sep 2009

I presume the "blurbs" in support of Johnson's book are also appropriated or fabricated. This is a clever joke, but I don't see how it is conceptually interesting. Unlike Goldsmith's DAY, which recontextualized text in an "uncreative" gesture (a Duchampian raising of "journalistic" prose into the realm of poetry), and thus produced a rich text, replete with previously dormant meaning, Johnson's DAY does little more than repeat the gesture, and thus the only significance it seems to hold is to question the validity of assigning such a work to any single, particular author, something already implicit in Goldsmith's project and only superficially interesting in the first place.

--- Jonathan Ball

↑ Index

221. Jonathan Ball
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Mon 28 Sep 2009

I am curious to know what other people think about this DAY project.

↑ Index

222. Obododimma Oha
Re: How do you get the juices flowing again??
Tue 29 Sep 2009

Ouch! Number 9 sounds like a compulsive disorder, something close to one of the chapters in the film, "Criminal Minds." Anyway, set things on fire, but think FBI.

-- Obododimma.

On Sat, Sep 26, 2009 at 1:30 AM, Jason Quackenbush <[redacted]> wrote:

> 1. read ted berrigan.
> 2. ruminate on painful life experiences
> 3. read linguistics text books
> 4. sleep a bunch and keep a dream journal
> 5. stop taking mood stabilizers
> 6. go out drinking with undergrads and dance with young women in scandalous outfits
> 7. make up words to songs i don't know the words to
> 8. dye my hair
> 9. set things on fire
> 10. watch akira kurosawa dvds with the subtitles turned off and try to discern english words in the japanese
> 11. translate old poems into new languages using automatic translators on the internet, then translate the results back into english.
> 12. take a long shower in my clothes
> 13. sunbathe and fantasize about being a famous novelist
> 14. work on the novel that will never make me famous
> 15. read wittgenstein.
>
> On Sep 23, 2009, at 9:25 AM, amy king wrote:
>
> Want to write a poem but the pen's not moving? How do you get going again? Rituals? Return to a certain poet? Take a walk? Look up poetry exercises? Open the Spanish wine?
> Just wondering!
> Amy
>
> ———
>
> NEW BOOK
>
> Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm -- For a review copy, please email me directly.

--
Obododimma Oha
http://udude.wordpress.com/

Dept. of English
University of Ibadan
Nigeria

&

Fellow, Centre for Peace & Conflict Studies
University of Ibadan

Phone: [redacted];
[redacted];
[redacted].

↑ Index

223. Asian Cha

The launch of "A Cup of Fine Tea"

Tue 29 Sep 2009

In our new critique column, "A Cup of Fine Tea" (http://finecha.wordpress.com/), we discuss and analyse creative works previously published in Cha: An Asian Literary Journal (http://www.asiancha.com), the first Hong Kong-based English online literary publication. Cha was founded in 2007, a decade after the handover.

If you want to join us for a cuppa tea, contact us at [redacted].

↑ Index

224. Daniel Godston

Bauhaus-Themed Poetry Reading at A Capella Books

Tue 29 Sep 2009

Bauhaus-Themed Poetry Reading

Wednesday, September 30, 2009 (7-9 p.m.)

You are invited to attend this Bauhaus-themed poetry reading, which happens at A Capella Books in Atlanta. Poets include David Axelrod, Suffolk, L.I. Poet Laureate, Trista Edwards, Linda Shohenberger, Lisa Street, and Alice Shapiro. This reading takes place in A Capella Books' Opal Gallery, and it is being organized by Alice Shapiro and Poet's Tongue.

free and open to the public

A Cappella Books
484 Moreland Ave NE # C
Atlanta, GA 30307-3421
[redacted]

http://aliceshapiro.com/
http://www.acappellabooks.com
http://bauhaus9090.org/node/134

↑ Index

225. Bobby Baird

Recent Posts at Digital Emunction

Tue 29 Sep 2009

A few recent posts at Digital Emunction that might interest some of you:

+ A Pop Quiz on the Later Poetry of Frederick Seidel and the Assorted Poems of Susan Wheeler [http://www.digitalemunction.com/2009/09/29/pop-quiz-on-the-later-poetry-of-frederick-seidel-and-the-assorted-poems-of-susan-wheeler/]

+ What It Costs to Run a University Literary Journal [http://www.digitalemunction.com/2009/09/28/what-it-costs-to-run-a-university-literary-journal/]

+ A Review of Four Flarf Books by Benjamin Buchloh (kind of) [http://www.digitalemunction.com/2009/09/28/a-review-of-some-flarf-books-entitled-“the-‘radical’-accommodation-effect-in-current-american-poetry”/]

+ A Question on Elizabeth Bishop's Politics [http://www.digitalemunction.com/2009/09/28/a-question-on-elizabeth-bishop/]

+ A Note on the Decline of the Humanities [http://www.digitalemunction.com/2009/09/26/the-work-of-schooling/]

+ A Comment on the new journal Hot Gun! [http://www.digitalemunction.com/2009/09/25/hot-gun/]

All best,

Bobby

++++++++

Bobby Baird
[redacted]
http://www.digitalemunction.com

↑ Index

226. Sarah Sarai

new | first | my | book: The Future Is Happy [BlazeVOX] by Sarah Sarai (a nervous mystic)

Tue 29 Sep 2009

---

poets,
The slim volume is here; a collection of poems released in September and:

previously published in mississippi, threepenny, pank, eleven eleven and like that, previously imprinted on a far star spinoza promised holds my immortal life previously imagined by entities coaching the infant through a canal of birth into the shebang previously doubted previously lauded

THE FUTURE IS HAPPY with blue suede high heels on its shiny cover

Listen to this accolade from Geoffrey Gatza:
"Book Information:
· Paperback: 83 pages
· Binding: Perfect-Bound
· Publisher: BlazeVOX [books]
· ISBN: 9781935402350
$16 Buy it NOW "

And from Nina Corwin: "Here, abstractions such as connection, morality and "sloppy forgiveness" form the crust of her work. But the filling, juicy with the polymorphous perversity of a living breathing world, teems with a compote of voices, textures, colors. Socrates, James Brown, Anna Karenina are tossed together with bebop, chili peppers and "100 billion neurons nipping maybe 268 mph." "

publisher page:
http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ss2.htm

small press distribution page:
http://www.spdbooks.org/pages/about/default.aspx

review:
http://www.alvahsbooks.com/book-reviews/review-future-happy-sarah-sarai for people of the great pacific northwest, esp. seattle:

www.openpoetrybooks.com

Amazonians:
http://www.facebook.com/ext/share.php?sid=120497067678&h=2g6Xb&u=RFXuG&ref=mf

I hope you'll buy and read The Future Is Happy. When asked if there's a theme I respond: I'm a nervous mystic.

thanks...
s.

↑ Index

227. Paul Siegell
PHILLY READING: Paul Siegell & Monica McIntyre
Tue 29 Sep 2009

Thursday, October 1, 2009, 7:30pm @ Blue Banana (223 South St, Phila, PA)

The Poetic Arts Performance Project presents... October Blend @ Blue Banana featuring music by singer/songwriter/cellist Monica McIntyre & poet Paul Siegell

Open mic to follow.

* facebook: http://www.facebook.com/event.php?eid=126000899071&index=1

* bookbook:
http://www.amazon.com/Paul-Siegell/e/B002F58JEW/ref=ntt_athr_dp_pel_1 enjoy the rest of the week ahead,

paul>
http://paulsiegell.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

228. Amanda Earl
AngelHousePress Essay # 8 now on line
Tue 29 Sep 2009

In this month's essay, Writing from the (Proletariat) Bones, we move away from the subject of poetry and delve into fiction, specifically a polemic about the short stories being published in Canadian periodicals these days. Do they represent the experience of Canadians today, people coping with layoffs, sickness, domestic violence, drug addiction, teens and aging parents?

Former Ottawa writer, now disgruntled Victoria, BC resident, Jeff Fry questions the lack of representation for the underprivileged in contemporary Canadian fiction citing prize winning stories from current issues of the literary periodicals Grain and Prism Magazine as prime culprits. Fry links privilege to a lack of experience with failure and struggle for the writer. He suggests that this lack of experience with failure can lead to a lack of imagination and creativity in the text.

Amanda Earl
AngelHousePress
www.angelhousepress.com
the angel is in the house

↑ Index

229. Jerome Rothenberg nyc & paris - 2009
Tue 29 Sep 2009

From October 2 to December 1, Diane Rothenberg and I will be on the road - unterwegs - en route - en el camino - stopping for two weeks in New York & vicinity and six weeks in Paris. We'll be in a number of temporary places during the New York stay, and for the duration of the Paris visit (October 16 to November 30) we'll be lodged at 175 rue de Courcelles, 75012 Paris, tel. 01 43 80 90 40. The surest way to reach us during that time will be via email at [redacted].

As usual part of the time away will be given to poetry readings & related matters, as follows:

October 7, 5:00 pm. and 7:30: Panel and reading on Poems for the Millennium and romanticism (with Charles Bernstein, Rachel Blau DuPlessis, George Economou, Al Filreis, Rochelle Owens, Bob Perelman, Jeffrey Robinson, & others), Kelly Writers House, University of Pennsylvania. Details at http://writing.upenn.edu/wh/calendar/1009.php

October 14, 6:30 p.m.: Reading & presentation of 14 Stations (with artist Arie Galles), The Drawing Center, 35 Wooster Street, New York. Details can be found at http://flavorpill.com/newyork/events/2009/10/14/fourteen-stations-hey-yud-dalet-a-drawing-suite October 20-24: Festival de poésie et de performances (with Alain Arias-Misson, Julien Blaine, Jean-François Bory, Michel Giroud, Enzo Minarelli, Seiji Shimoda, others), Poésie Marseille. On October 20, 8:00 p.m. at Musée d¹Art Contemporain, and October 23, 7:00 p.m. at la librairie l¹Odeur du temps.

November 5, 8:00 p.m.: Reading and performance, KriKri and Logos, with Charlemagne Palestine & others, at the Logos Tetraeder, Bomastraat 26-28, 9000 Gent, Belgium.

November 10, 7:00 p.m.: Reading for Yves di Manno's Objets d'Amerique (including his translation of "Oracle for Delphi") at Librairie Michèle Ignazi, 17 Rue de Jouy, Paris.

November 12, 7:00 p.m.: Introducing Margo Berdeshevsky reading at Village Voice, Paris.

November 13, 5 :00 p.m.: Reading, "Les poètes inventent l'Europe" series, at Maison de la poésie, Paris.

November 16, reading for PEN Club français and Double Change at 6, Rue François Miron, 75004 Paris.

November 20: Reading and translation workshop, Université du Maine, Le Mans.

[Other dates still in negotiation.]

If any of you expect to be in any of these vicinities, please be in touch or just drop by and say hello.

Jerome Rothenberg
1026 San Abella
Encinitas,CA 92024
[redacted]
[redacted]

"There is an avant-garde that cannot be defeated."
M. Giroud, quoted in J.R.,
"Autobiogrphy"

http://writing.upenn.edu/epc/authors/rothenberg/
new ethnopoetics web site: http://ubu.com/ethno/
j.r. in spanish: http://writing.upenn.edu/epc/authors/rothenberg/esp/
poemsandpoetics.blogspot.com

↑ Index

230. Mark Young

Now out from Otoliths—The Meditations, by Jane Joritz-Nakagawa

Wed 30 Sep 2009

The Meditations

Jane Joritz-Nakagawa

80 pages

Cover painting by Julia Wolfson

Otoliths 2009

ISBN: 978-0-9806025-5-5

$12.50 + p&h

URL: http://www.lulu.com/content/paperback-book/the-meditations/7491123

Jane Joritz-Nakagawa's Meditations beautifully combine the inward focus of reflection with the leaps and breakages of contemporary urban life — a life in which meditative stillness is elusive, if not impossible. At the meeting-point of real-world politics and poetic internality, The Meditations jump-cut between the rhetorics of capitalism and constant war ("as if the weapons were moving // entirely in the wrong direction") and hard-won lyric flight ("horses laugh // and clouds put on their aprons"). Throughout, Joritz-Nakagawa plays with line-breaks and white space, with orthography and diacritical marks — all of which syncopate syntax and hint at the manifold meanings hidden in phonemes. Like tesserae, her words and lines create — through fragments — exquisite patterns. These are poems that "enter the language partial / and come out / whole."

—Elisabeth A. Frost

↑ Index

231. Michael Heller

Fwd: Re: Heller and King read at Prose Pros

Wed 30 Sep 2009

> Â¥ P R O S E P R O S Â¥
> hosted by Martha King & Elinor Nauen
>
> New venue! SIDEWALK CAFÃ‰ New venue!
> =0 A
> Thursday, October 8, 2009
> 6:30 [boldly prompt!] to 8:30 p.m.
> 94 Avenue A at 6th Street
> [redacted]
> V or F train to Second Avenue stop (get off at > the front of the train at 1st Ave)
>
> Ekphrastic - Elastic - Fantastic
>
> Basil King – painter, poet. His recent books are
>
> Eschaton (new poems) Talisman House Publishers
> (2009) available at SPD, Greenfield
> Distribution (www.gfibooks.com), www.
> amazon.com and good bookstores. Two Novellas:
> Marble Snows & The Study (ahadada press 2009) > available from SPD, amazon.com and from > ahadadpress at

> http://www.ahadadabooks.com/content/view/162/41/
> . Speaking The Estranged: Essays on the Work of > George Oppen (2008); Uncertain Poetries: Essays
> on Poets, Poetry and Poetics (2005) and Exigent
> Futures: New and Selected Poems (2003) > available at www.saltpublishing.com, amazon.com > and good bookstores. Survey of work at > http://www.thing.net/~grist/ld/heller.htm
> Collaborations with the composer Ellen Fishman
> Johnson at
> http://www.efjcomposer.com/EFJ/Collaborations.html
> Recordings at http://writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/x/Heller.html
>
> Eschaton (new poems) Talisman House Publishers
> (2009) available at SPD, Greenfield Distribution
> (www.gfibooks.com), www. amazon.com and good > bookstores. Two Novellas: Marble Snows & The > Study (ahadada press 2009) available from SPD,
> amazon.com and from ahadadpress at
> http://www.ahadadabooks.com/content/view/162/41/.
> Speaking The Estranged: Essays on the Work of > George Oppen (2008); Uncertain Poetries: Essays
> on Poets, Poetry and Poetics (2005) and Exigent
> Futures: New and Selected Poems (2003) available
> at www.saltpublishing.com, amazon.com and good > bookstores. Survey of work at
> http://www.thing.net/~grist/ld/heller.htm
> Collaborations with the composer Ellen Fishman
> Johnson at
> http://www.efjcomposer.com/EFJ/Collaborations.html
> Recordings at http://writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/x/Heller.html

↑ Index

232. amy king

Wha? Who? Larry Levis??

Wed 30 Sep 2009

How have I never stumbled across Larry Levis until my 38th year? Is it because he didn't belong to any particular "school"? Maybe I've just been living in the New York box....?
The poems I've been reading in his posthumous book, edited by his friend and former teacher, Philip Levine, ELEGY, are worth diving into. Just ordered WINTER STARS, supposed to be a step up from Elegy. Take a look at "Anastasia and Sandman" (tho the stanza breaks are off, I believe) from Elegy:
http://poemhunter.com/poem/anastasia-sandman/

Enjoy,
Amy

_____

NEW BOOK

Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm -- For a review copy, please email me directly.

↑ Index

233. Adam Katz
Re: Wha? Who? Larry Levis??
Wed 30 Sep 2009

---

hey man, i hadn't had a brazil nut until i was twenty four, i know how you feela

↑ Index

234. Rob McLennan
An urgent note from Roland Prevost: save jwcurry & Room 302 Books!
Wed 30 Sep 2009

---

john curry, certainly a world class poet living in our community, is presently facing almost certain eviction.

Stephen Brockwell alerted me of this precarious situation, by phone, and asked if I would get the word out, most recently at the TREE Reading Series on September 22, where we were able to scare up enough to cover one of his 5 months owed rent & save his telephone service.

currys been in constant production of his own and hundreds of others work since 1979. hes mainly ineligible for grants. His bookstore is mainly an unused resource. His archive documenting the growth of avant-garde writing in Canada is one of the key collections in the country. Nicky Drumbolis has said: curry and his work are the best-kept secret in Canada.

Since time is of the essence, if currys to avoid eviction, there are a few ways you can help:

Start to use his goddamn store!

Room 302 Books is the only bookstore in Canada ever to focus specifically on the avant-garde and overlooked outsiders, specializing in concrete/visual/sound poetries (mainly Canadian) with a stock of over 20,000 mainly rare titles, including elusive ephemera, and probably the only source of most of jwcurrys various imprints and titles (which number in the thousands).

currys current lists finally focus on his own work as artist & publisher, virtually the first time everything thats (still) available has been made commonly available. You can purchase bookstore IOUs (or set up an account) today in any amount for those whod like to do that.

Subscribe to Curvd H&z, currys serial imprint. donor subscriptions (please indicate) of $100 or more get « the stash in a sampling of available titles from various of his imprints immediately, the remaining « put on account for forthcoming titles.

Donate outright.

I would like to encourage you to donate something so as to keep this excellent bookstore, publisher, archive and artist alive, and at the same time help prevent currys eviction from his apartment. For those whod like to purchase bookstore IOUs, Id ask you to write (#302-880 Somerset Street West, Ottawa Canada K1R 6R7) or call him at [redacted]. Please contribute as you can.

Roland Prevost (with collusions with curry)

-- writer/editor/publisher ...STANZAS mag, above/ground press & Chaudiere Books (www.chaudierebooks.com) ...coord.,SPAN-O + ottawa small press fair ...poetry - a compact of words (Salmon) ...2nd novel - missing persons www.abovegroundpress.blogspot.com * http://robmclennan.blogspot.com/

↑ Index

235. Skip Fox
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Wed 30 Sep 2009

"superficially interesting" is very precise.

-----Original Message-----
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Jonathan Ball
Sent: Monday, September 28, 2009 9:46 PM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

I presume the "blurbs" in support of Johnson's book are also appropriated or fabricated. This is a clever joke, but I don't see how it is conceptually interesting. Unlike Goldsmith's DAY, which recontextualized text in an "uncreative" gesture (a Duchampian raising of "journalistic" prose into the realm of poetry), and thus produced a rich text, replete with previously dormant meaning, Johnson's DAY does little more than repeat the gesture, and thus the only significance it seems to hold is to question the validity of assigning such a work to any single, particular author, something already implicit in Goldsmith's project and only superficially interesting in the first place.

--- Jonathan Ball

↑ Index

236. Jason Harmon
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Wed 30 Sep 2009

---

1 - The conceptually interesting point might be that although the germ was implicit, it was followed to its logical, appropriative conclusion. Doing so with this particular work seems apt.

2 - Have you read both?

3 - I prefer Kent's.

4 - I haven't read it.

5 - So....at least one or two "enlightened" poets are discussing two "books" neither has intentions of ever completely reading? Quite a startling thought! How can we discuss if we don't?

6 - What would it even mean to read both?

Thanks for the opportunity to jump into the list!

Jason Harmon

---------- I presume the "blurbs" in support of Johnson's book are also appropriated or fabricated. This is a clever joke, but I don't see how it is conceptually interesting. Unlike Goldsmith's DAY, which recontextualized text in an "uncreative" gesture (a Duchampian raising of "journalistic" prose into the realm of poetry), and thus produced a rich text, replete with previously dormant meaning, Johnson's DAY does little more than repeat the gesture, and thus the only significance it seems to hold is to question the validity of assigning such a work to any single, particular author, something already implicit in Goldsmith's project and only superficially interesting in the first place.

--- Jonathan Ball

↑ Index

237. Jeffrey Side
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Wed 30 Sep 2009

I mention it in my blog:

http://jeffrey-side.blogspot.com/

On Mon, 28 Sep 2009 21:46:57 -0500, Jonathan Ball
<[redacted]> wrote:

> I am curious to know what other people think about this DAY project.

↑ Index

238. Bobby Baird
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Wed 30 Sep 2009

It's interesting, Jonathan, that you'd defend Goldsmith's DAY (and dismiss Johnson's DAY) in the name of originality ("produced a rich text, replete with previously dormant meaning"), when this is the regime of value that Goldsmith explicitly and repeatedly rejects. (See Goldsmith, internet, passim.) I presume that you, like many other people, accept that rejection as a pose, a mere mockery of public modesty, even though Goldsmith, apparently, does not see it that way. ("In fact, every time I have to proofread [my books] before sending them off to the publisher, I fall asleep repeatedly. You really don't need to read my books to get the idea of what they're like; you just need to know the general concept.")

Or maybe you take Goldsmith's word for it that "In conceptual writing the idea or concept is the most important aspect of the work. When an author uses a conceptual form of writing, it means that all of the planning and decisions are made beforehand and the execution is a perfunctory affair." If that's the case, then tell me, please, what makes Goldsmith's idea interesting? Given that the same idea has been had, and executed, by thousands of others, including Richard Prince, Sherri Levine, and anyone who's "written" a found poem, why should we see Goldsmith's project as any more or any less interesting than Johnson's?

But here's a thought: what if the dismissal of Kent's DAY as "superficially interesting" was exactly the point of his project? I don't say that it is; Kent can speak to that (or could, if he weren't banned from this list, though I'm sure he'll find a way to participate somehow). But what if? What if one took the annoyed response to Johnson's DAY as exactly the reaction he wanted, since it proved the fact--which you may take to be obvious, but which no one seems willing to publicly acknowledge--that there is a bright line between the kind of people whose uncreative writing allows them to reap every reward the culture industry has to offer—publication, glossy magazine interviews, fellowships and tenured academic positions--and those whose identical uncreative writing gets them shunned as wannabes? And what if that bright line has nothing to do with the work, or the ideas behind the work, and everything to do with the fact that one has gone to the right schools, lived in the right cities, and licked the right boots? I think you'd have to admit that it's a superficially interesting thought, at the very least.

Bobby

++++++++

Bobby Baird
[redacted]
http://www.digitalemunction.com

On Mon, Sep 28, 2009 at 7:45 PM, Jonathan Ball <[redacted]> wrote:
> I presume the "blurbs" in support of Johnson's book are also appropriated or > fabricated. This is a clever joke, but I don't see how it is conceptually > interesting. Unlike Goldsmith's DAY, which recontextualized text in an
> "uncreative" gesture (a Duchampian raising of "journalistic" prose into the > realm of poetry), and thus produced a rich text, replete with previously > dormant meaning, Johnson's DAY does little more than repeat the gesture, and > thus the only significance it seems to hold is to question the validity of > assigning such a work to any single, particular author, something already > implicit in Goldsmith's project and only superficially interesting in the > first place.
>
> --- Jonathan Ball
>
>

↑ Index

239. Mairead Byrne
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Wed 30 Sep 2009

I got a massive charge of energy when I first read about this guy in New York City re-typing the New York Times. I think I read it in the New York Times actually! Could it be? I've met Kenny Goldsmith since then but I still see that first Kenneth of my imagination (a bald guy, a little like Stanely Tucci) in his apartment stacked with New York Timeses.

The charge was in the concept. You can read the book or not (I haven't). You can order it for the library (I have). There's quite a heft to it. Often there's a sweet tension between the conceptual and the material in Kenny's work. Writer of wooden books. Sculptor of provocation. He's an artist.

Kent's gesture has the status of a joke for me. It's a bit funny. And, materially, I like the idea of Geoffrey Gatza getting deliveries from Amazon, sticking on stickers, filling orders for $250 .... well, maybe not. Perhaps there isn't a performance dimension.

Bobby Baird's original (!) 6/3/08 comment to Harriet fits its skin better:

"And so hereâ€™s my question: who gets to be an uncreative genius? And more importantly: on what grounds? If I recreate Dayâ€“an achievement, one must admit, that would be even more uncreative than the â€œoriginalâ€â€“am I a genius? Will The Figures publish it under my name? Will Publisherâ€™s Weekly review it? Will I be invited to speak at the next Conceptual Poetics conference on the basis of it?" http://www.poetryfoundation.org/harriet/2008/05/marjorie-perloffs-unoriginal-genius/

He answers the question in his next paragraph, which is a bit dreary. At least Kent's gesture locates itself in the paragraph with most energy.

MairÃ©ad

>>> Jonathan Ball <[redacted]> 09/28/09 10:46 PM >>>
I am curious to know what other people think about this DAY project.

↑ Index

240. Jeffrey Side
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Wed 30 Sep 2009

Yes, Kent's is the more interesting take on it, as Kenny was just doing something based on what has been done before in art. Therefore, Kent's is more audacious act.

On Wed, 30 Sep 2009 11:43:29 -0400, Jason Harmon
<[redacted]> wrote:

>1 - The conceptually interesting point might be that although the germ was >implicit, it was followed to its logical, appropriative conclusion. Doing so
>with this particular work seems apt.
>
>2 - Have you read both?
>
>3 - I prefer Kent's.
>
>4 - I haven't read it.

>
>5 - So....at least one or two "enlightened" poets are discussing two "books"
>neither has intentions of ever completely reading? Quite a startling >thought! How can we discuss if we don't?
>
>6 - What would it even mean to read both?
>
>Thanks for the opportunity to jump into the list!
>
>Jason Harmon
>
>----------
>I presume the "blurbs" in support of Johnson's book are also appropriated or >fabricated. This is a clever joke, but I don't see how it is conceptually >interesting. Unlike Goldsmith's DAY, which recontextualized text in an >"uncreative" gesture (a Duchampian raising of "journalistic" prose into
the >realm of poetry), and thus produced a rich text, replete with previously >dormant meaning, Johnson's DAY does little more than repeat the gesture, and >thus the only significance it seems to hold is to question the validity
of >assigning such a work to any single, particular author, something already >implicit in Goldsmith's project and only superficially interesting in the >first place.
>
>--- Jonathan Ball
>

↑ Index

241. Jeremy Czerw

Reading this Saturday: Compton, Gordon, King

Wed 30 Sep 2009

This Saturday is the last fall event of the Saturday Poets Series at the Grand Central branch of The New York Public Library.

Grand Central Branch Library 135 East 46 Street, New York NY
Saturday, October 3 @ 2 PM

Free and open to the public
blog: http://grandcentralpoets.blogspot.com

Our readers are Shanna Compton, Nada Gordon and Amy King

Shanna Compton is the author of For Girls (& Others) (Bloof Books, 2008), Down Spooky (Winnow, 2005), GAMERS (Soft Skull, 2004), and several chapbooks. Her poems and essays have appeared widely, including Best American Poetry 2005, McSweeney's, the Poetry Foundation website, and the forthcoming Flarf anthology. Recent poems and an essay may be found in the tenth anniversary issue of LIT. She blogs desultorily at shannacompton.com.

Nada Gordon's books include V. Imp., Are Not Your Lowing Heifers Sleeker Than Night-Swollen Mushrooms, Swoon (with Gary Sullivan) and Foriegn Bodi, and Folly (2007). Visit her blog at http://ululate.blogspot.com

Amy King is the author of I'm the Man Who Loves You and Antidotes for an Alibi, and forthcoming, I Want to Make You Safe and Slaves to Do These Things. She teaches English and Creative Writing at Nassau Community College and curates the Brooklyn-based reading series, The Stain of Poetry. For more information, please visit amyking.org

↑ Index

242. Skip Fox
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson . . . The Next Generation . . .
Wed 30 Sep 2009

The next logical step is a text titled _Daze_ containing both Goldsmith and Johnson ("author" must retype each, of course).

↑ Index

243. Skip Fox
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Wed 30 Sep 2009

For aesthetic judgment, have we gone from "newness is value" (Christian Bok) to "newness is the major, perhaps only, value" (which is what Bok implies when speaking of Goldsmith)? That's where it slips for me.

↑ Index

@poetics

The UB Poetics Discussion Group

Archive of Electronic Correspondence

October 2009

387 messages · Wed 30 Sep 2009 – Thu 29 Oct 2009

October 2009 gave the conceptual decade its purest hall of mirrors — an appropriation of an appropriation, a theft of a theft, argued for fifty messages while the room tried to decide whether it had been provoked on purpose. Three hundred and eighty-seven messages moved through the list, and its largest thread orbited a single small book that had done nothing but borrow, and borrow again, until authorship itself dissolved into a set of nested quotation marks. The month asked whether a work whose only content is the annoyance it causes has, in fact, succeeded.

The largest thread was Kent Johnson's Day. Johnson had taken his title and gesture straight from Kenneth Goldsmith's Day — the book in which Goldsmith had retyped an entire newspaper — appropriating the appropriator, and the room argued for weeks over whether the provocation was art or merely irritation. One poster put the trap precisely: "What if one took the annoyed response to Johnson's DAY as exactly the reaction he wanted", in which case the annoyance was the work, and to be annoyed was to complete it. The room had been drawn into a piece whose medium was the room's own exasperation.

The quarrel, underneath, was whether that counted. If a work's entire achievement is the reaction it engineers, is it a poem or a con; and does provoking a thing successfully make the thing good? The list split, some admiring the conceptual nerve of a theft so brazen it named its victim in the title, others refusing to reward a book that had, by any older measure, done nothing at all but relabel someone else's labor — the argument circling, as it always did, back to the same unanswerable knot, whether a gesture that succeeds at provoking has thereby succeeded at anything that lasts.

Against the mirror-games the month set a reminder that recognition still ran on other rails. Herta Müller won the Nobel — a novelist and poet of dictatorship and exile, honored for a body of witnessed suffering that no appropriation could have generated — and the room turned, gratefully, to a writer whose authority came from having lived the thing she wrote. Between Johnson's borrowed Day and Müller's earned prize sat the decade's whole argument about where a work's value comes from: the gesture, or the life behind it.

I have set October down exactly as the archive delivered it — the theft of a theft, the suspicion that annoyance was the whole art, and Herta Müller's Nobel for a lifetime of witness — because it was the month the appropriative decade reached its vanishing point, a poem made entirely of borrowing another borrower, and the room could not decide whether it had been played or fed. That the same weeks crowned Müller, whose work is unappropriable because it is testimony, was the archive's own quiet verdict: that a Day retyped from a Day is a clever mirror, but the poems that finally hold are the ones no one else could have written, because someone had to live them first.

— Kristen M. Fabians

Index

Writers, names mentioned, and concepts. Every number links to its message. 387 in all.

WRITERS

De 1913, Sandra 363
AAWW, Intern 357
Alexander, Charles 224, 316
AND, mIEKAL 64, 187, 295, 360
Andrews, Jim 150, 169, 266, 387
Aslongasittakes 180
Baird, Bobby 124, 352
Ball, Jonathan 15, 20, 31, 32, 61, 121, 307
Ballardini, Anny 135, 205, 206
Baraban, Stephen 361
Behm-Steinberg, Hugh 371
Benson, Cara 140, 375
Bernstein, Charles 106
Bettridge, Joel 279
Bowering, George 162, 163, 184, 218, 221, 252, 290, 341
Bo¾ièeviæ, Ana 275
Brian Cassidy, Bookseller ABAA 315
Brown, Pam 293, 302, 318
Byrne, Mairead 33, 156
Cain, Séamas 111, 209, 312, 349, 353
Calabrese, Rosalie 47, 280
Carr, Emily 60
Casamassima, Christophe 154, 236
Chen, Ken 356
Chirot, David 98, 237, 335
Chirot, David-Baptiste 193, 265, 303, 330
Clements, Brian 72, 276
Conrad, CA 253, 282, 311
Craig, J.P. 165
Croggon, Alison 49, 86, 129, 166
Curnow, Wystan 66
Dalachinsky, Steve 30, 89, 104, 105, 151
Daley, Ryan 8, 48, 213
Daly, Catherine 225, 287, 305, 314, 362
Damon, Maria 24, 107, 120, 125, 183, 233
Dewhurst, Robert 385
Dolin, Sharon 67, 199
Dorf, Carol 229
DuCharme, Mark 21, 132, 133, 291
Dunagan, Patrick 299
Durgin, Patrick 259
Durgin, Patrick F. 14, 155
Earl, Amanda 364
Edgerton, Michael Tod 381
Editor 239, 267
ELECTRONICS, ART 75
Ellis, Stephen 53, 63, 99
Evans, Steve 338
Al Filreis 110, 286, 334
Fisher, Johanna 196, 222, 271
Foley, Jack 208
Fox, Skip 77, 313
Frazer, Vernon 29
Frost, Corey 25
Frym, Gloria 215, 242
Ganick, Peter 194, 244, 339
Gatza, Geoffrey 112, 306
Giannini, David 345
Glass, Jesse 226, 246, 247
Godston, Daniel 9, 36, 56, 153
Goldman, Judith 35
Gricevich, Andy 383
Hamilton, Robin 332
Hansen, Jeff 164
Harmon, Jason 285, 386
Heller, Michael 2
Henry, Ron 284
Herron, Patrick 261
Hill, Laurie Schneider & Crag 254
Hoffman, Crystal 354
Holder, Doug 103
Holmes, Janet 257
Horton, David Harrison 136
Howard, Scott 18, 304
Jenkins, Grant 320, 384
Jesseca 123
Johnson, Halvard 350
Jones, Chris 134, 179, 365, 366
Joris, Pierre 143
Karmin, Jennifer 4, 82, 174, 347
Kasimor, Mary 52, 203
Katko, Justin 245
Katz, Adam 1, 22, 81, 100
King, Amy 44, 73, 74, 122, 138, 188, 189, 308, 309, 348, 370
Kirschenbaum, David 17, 50, 292, 319
Larsen, Will 294, 342
Lepson, Ruth 5, 38, 90, 127, 157, 158, 168, 173, 219, 333
Levato, Francesco 118, 324
Levy, Herb 55
List, Poetics 139
Loden, Rachel 321
LoLordo, Nick 45
LONSINGER, DAWN APRIL 367
Lurie, Bobbie 270, 310
Malo, Mary Jo 161
Marsh, Michael 159
Martin, Camille 57, 109, 255, 301, 379
Maurer, Susan 68, 198, 200, 240, 249, 322
McLennan, Rob 369

Meersman, Philip 128, 186, 207, 272
Michael 268, 351
Mims, Martha Cinader 92, 93
Mollohan, J. Michael 217
Morse, Jonathan 258
Mukherjee, Aryanil 185, 329
Munday, Evan 137
Nealand, Eireene 204
Nelson, Paul 346
Nemet-Nejat, Murat 6, 37, 43, 210, 260, 281, 298, 378
Nielsen, Aldon 78, 167
Novack, Carol 10, 192, 283
Oha, Obododimma 152, 182
Oliver, Laura 212
Owens, Richard 197
P., J. 71
Perman, John 51, 368
Peterson, Tim 87, 337
Phipps, Wanda 142
Pinto, Regina 170
Press, Effing 147
Press, Tarpaulin Sky 91
Pritts, Nate 58, 355
Project, Poetry 19, 130, 256, 317
Quackenbush, Jason 69, 331
Quartermain, Peter 116
Rachel, Lauren 65
Ravnikar, Nicholas Michael 372
Revich, Allan 149, 214, 243, 269
Reyes, Barbara Jane 343
Richet, Martin 231
Rippeon, Andrew 178
Robert-foley, Lily 230, 327
Roznovschi, Mirela 232
Rumble, Ken 148
Russell, Steve 113, 223, 277, 288, 328, 376
Sarai, Sarah 34, 102, 325, 326, 358, 359
Savage, Thomas 80
Schickling, Jared 101
Schultz, Susan Webster 88
Seaman, David 177
Shankar, Ravi (English) 119
Side, Jeffrey 3, 12, 16, 26, 27, 28, 40, 41, 46, 54, 62, 79, 108, 141, 160, 171, 172, 235, 300
Siegell, Paul 241
Skinner, Jonathan 114, 115, 176, 191, 274
Slaughter, William 84
Sondheim, Alan 23, 117, 175, 181, 216, 264, 297, 344
Stand, With + 144
Sweeney, Chad 373
Switaj, Elizabeth 76, 95, 211
Tietz, Ward 201
Timmons, Mathew 340
Tobin, Adam 296
Trent, L 278
Tribbey, Hugh R. 7, 39, 97, 145
Twshaner 190
Valley, Country 336
Vassilakis, Nico 11, 262
Vincent, Stephen 377
Watten, Barrett 131, 273
Weishaus, Joel 13, 248, 251
Weiss, Mark 220, 250, 380, 382
Welford, Gabrielle 227, 228
Wellman, D. 195
Wetherington, Laura 289
Wharton, Samuel 374
Wheeler, George 85, 234
Winks, Christopher Leland 42, 70, 94, 126, 146, 202, 238
Wintz, Sara 96
}, { Brad Brace 59, 83, 263, 323

NAMES MENTIONED

Abendroth, Emily 82, 114, 115, 176
Abramowitz, Harold 82, 340
Acker, Kathy 55, 63
Ackerman, Amanda 82
Adams, Robert 167, 370
Addonizio, Kim 67
Alice, Mary 50, 153, 343
Allan, Don 269, 272
Allegrezza, William 73, 87
Ambrose, Joe 130, 289
Americans, Asian 4, 82, 162, 189, 193, 202, 203, 210, 217, 218, 220, 225, 227, 228, 238, 239, 250, 251, 252, 260, 265, 267, 270, 271, 277, 288, 290, 310, 328, 341, 376
Amerika, Mark 190
Anderson, Laurie 114, 115
Andre, Michael 19, 246
Andrews, Bruce 173, 188, 279
Antin, David 363
Anton, Robert 5
Apollinaire, Guillaume 230, 243, 269, 272
Apps, Stan 114, 115, 340
Arbor, Ann 259
Archambeau, Robert 172
Armantrout, Rae 363
Arnold, Bob 29
Asante, Toni 82
Atkins, Tim 74, 168, 229
Atlanta, Mark P. 153
Atwood, Margaret 288, 290, 310, 328, 341, 376
Austen, Jane 135
Auster, Paul 6, 27
Austin, Geer 147, 289
Baker, Mary 29, 137, 208
Baldwin, James 29, 264
Baldwin, Joshua 124, 352

Balestrieri, Pete 4
Ballard, Micah 143, 299, 317
Banias, Ari 73, 87, 275
Baraka, Amiri 143, 147
Baratier, David 82
Baron, Todd 306, 309
Barthelme, Donald 343
Bartlett, Jennifer 256, 317
Barton, John 36
Basinski, Michael 82
Bates, Joe 114, 115, 176, 274
Baudelaire, Charles 98
Becker, Claire 19
Becker, Robin 324
Beckett, Samuel 35, 135, 230, 243, 269, 272
Beckman, Joshua 50
Bedient, Calvin 50
Belflower, James 73, 87
Bellamy, Dodie 325
Belle, Cecelia 153
Benjamin, Walter 73, 87, 274, 279
Bennett, John M. 10, 244
Berger, Stephanie 317, 337
Berkeley, Michael 176, 252, 256
Berkson, Bill 5, 274, 275
Berlin, Irving 56, 128, 130, 153, 156, 177, 186, 207, 212, 269, 272
Bernheimer, Alan 255
Bernstein, Emma 16, 139, 279
Berrigan, Anselm 82
Berrigan, Eddie 315
Berrigan, Ted 315
Bianchi, Haas 324
Bianchi, Ray 324
Bibbins, Mark 147
Blackburn, Paul 73, 87
Blake, William 361
Blau, Rachel 73, 82, 87, 114, 115
Bloch, Julia 139
Boat, Drunken 294, 342
Bogle, Ann 5
Bolano, Roberto 230, 243, 269, 272
Borges, Jorge Luis 98
Borzutzky, Daniel 35
Bowen, Kevin 82, 153, 324
Bowering, Harry 290, 328, 341, 376
Boykin, David 9
BpNichol 137, 237, 370
Bradley, John 5
Brady, Taylor 175
Brandi, John 5
Brazil, David 9, 208
Brennan, Karen 367
Brinks, Dave 5
Brodsky, Joseph 165
Bromige, David 5, 130, 256
Brooks, Gwendolyn 78, 94, 99, 120, 126, 167
Brown, Ann 82, 176, 325
Brown, Brandon 19, 35, 317
Browne, Colin 82, 292
Browning, Robert 29
Browning, Sarah 29, 208
Bruno, Franklin 349
Bryan, John 29
Bryant, Elizabeth 275, 370
Bryant, Tisa 167
Burger, Peter 28
Burk, Wendy 87
Burke, Andrew 114, 115
Burns, Elizabeth 10
Burroughs, William S. 179
Burton, Philip 327
Butler, Judith 10, 209
Buuck, David 11
Byrd, Brigitte 257
Bök, Christian 12, 112, 127, 137
Cage, John 64, 207, 212
Campbell, Jeremy 67
Card, Macgregor 19
Carlos, William 73, 87, 282
Carragon, Patricia 200, 240, 280
Carrion, Terri 5, 29, 208, 268
Carson, Margaret 382
Carter, Mike 87, 206, 344
Casey, Sean 73, 87
Castro, Michael 5, 29, 349
Catanzano, Amy 21
Celan, Paul 18, 98
Cervantes, James 98
Chace, Joel 275, 363
Chang, Juliana 356, 357, 363
Chapin, Thomas 5
Chapman, Wes 321
Cheney, Dick 82
Chernoff, Maxine 82
Claire, Paula 354
Clare, John 209, 312
Clark, Cheryl 73, 87, 349
Clark, Tom 87
Clausen, Jan 350
Clemente, Francesco 237
Cletis, George 341, 376
Clinton, Bill 47, 280
Clover, Joshua 363
Cobb, Allison 190
Cobbing, Bob 237
Cohen, Alicia 190
Cohen, Julia 147
Colby, Kate 73
Colby, Todd 87
Coleman, Jen 190
Coleman, Victor 98
Coleridge, Samuel Taylor 58, 80, 90
Coletti, John 299

Collins, Phil 36
Collom, Jack 21, 114, 115
Columbus, Christopher 153, 189, 193
Compton, Shanna 44
Cone, Jon 114, 115
Conners, Peter 5
Connor, Brenda 292
Conrad, Joseph 328, 341, 376
Conrad, Tony 87, 253, 282, 311, 328, 341, 376
Coolidge, Clark 5, 23, 24, 231
Cooper, Lisa 73, 87
Cooper, Paula 19, 58, 80, 90
Cooperman, Matthew 114, 115
Copp, Corina 130, 256
Corbett, John 4
Corelis, Jon 135
Corman, Roger 110
Cotner, Jon 87
County, Madison 5
County, Mike 111, 209, 259, 273, 284, 312, 322
Coval, Kevin 294, 342
Cox, Kenneth 349
Creeley, Robert 2, 10, 299
Cully, Barbara 73, 87
Cunningham, Brent 73, 87
Cunningham, Mark 73, 87
Cunningham, Michael 64, 87
Curtis, Dana 29, 36
Cutts, Simon 336, 345, 348
Cyphers, Jeffrey 142
Daive, Jean 18
Daniels, David 169, 170
Davies, Kevin 386
Davinio, Caterina 75
Davis, Jordan 363
Davis, Martin 5, 29, 50, 268, 340, 354
Deleuze, Gilles 279, 365
Deming, Richard 130
Dennis, Michael 88, 130, 135, 356, 357
Derrida, Jacques 230, 243, 269, 272
Detorie, Michelle 73, 87
Deutch, Amanda 73, 87
Devaney, Tom 110
Dickens, Charles 169, 170
Dickow, Alexander 135
Dillon, Patrick 58, 80, 90
Doller, Sandra 363
Donovan, Thom 114, 115, 176
Doris, Stacy 165, 293, 302
Doyle, Erica 337
Duemer, Joseph 135
Dunagan, James 299
Duncan, Andrew 58, 80, 90
Duncan, Robert 2, 58, 80, 90
Dunn, Douglas 130
Durand, Marcella 50, 292
Durgin, Patrick F. 14, 155, 167
Dutton, Paul 352
Dworkin, Craig 340, 367
Dylan, Bob 29
Eigner, Larry 256, 317
Elena, Maria 5, 50, 75, 273, 275, 292
Eli, Noah 73, 87, 363
Eliot, Joe 65, 118
Ellen, Mary 135
Elshtain, Eric 9
Emerson, Lori 139
England, Amy 103, 349
Enslin, Ted 114, 115, 176, 274
Ernst, Max 350
Esther, Little 82, 153, 199
Ethan, Jeffrey 73, 87
Eugene, Brett 190, 265
Exley, Roy 113
Fagan, Kate 114, 115
Farrell, Michael 114, 115, 176
Faulkner, Andrew 265
Federman, Raymond 106, 107, 116, 143, 197, 233
Felix, Joel 11, 321
Ferguson, Jesse 29
Fieled, Adam 275
Finch, Annie 82
Finch, Peter 190, 370
Fink, Thomas 73, 87
Finlay, Ian Hamilton 114, 115
Finnegan, James 135
Firestone, Jennifer 275
Fishman, Ellen 2
Fishman, Lisa 114, 115
Fitch, Andy 73, 87
Fitzgerald, Scott 312
Foster, Edward 4, 28, 35
Foucault, Michel 237
Foust, Graham 147
France, Peter 75, 128, 156, 175, 177, 186, 207, 212, 256, 269, 272, 310, 317
Franco, Michael 237
Fraser, Gregory 9
Fredman, Stephen 320, 329, 331
Friedlander, Benjamin 114, 115, 176
Fuchs, Greg 73, 87
Fuhrman, Joanna 289
Fulton, Alice 5
Gallagher, Kristen 73, 87
Gambito, Sarah 343
Gander, Forrest 114, 115, 147, 176
Garcia, Gabriel 165
Garland, Judy 5
Garthe, Karen 10
Genet, Jean 5
Giffin, Lawrence 73, 87, 340

Gilbert, Roger 109, 306, 309
Giles, Samantha 73, 87
Gilmore, Gary 208, 292
Ginsberg, Allan 19
Ginsberg, Allen 130, 351
Giorno, John 19
Gizzi, Michael 18
Gizzi, Peter 167
Gluck, Robert 317, 325, 337
Godston, Dan 29, 56, 136, 141, 149, 150, 153, 159, 166
Godston, Jon 9, 36
Golding, Alan 165
Goldsmith, Kenneth 3, 6, 7, 8, 12, 15, 16, 23, 24, 26, 27, 28, 30, 31, 33, 37, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 45, 46, 48, 49, 52, 53, 55, 62, 63, 66, 69, 77, 79, 86, 97, 112, 121, 127, 132, 133, 141, 145, 159, 179
Goldstein, Laura 82, 87, 153, 289
Goldstein, Mark 114, 115
Gonzalez, Ray 350, 351
Gordon, Nada 44
Gordon, Ruth 5, 73, 87, 275, 363
Graham, Susan 98
Graubard, Allan 5
Gray, Jason 275
Gray, Stephanie 73, 87
Green, Heather 275
Greenberg, Arielle 82
Greene, Jonathan 14
Greenstreet, Kate 82, 190, 224, 257, 316, 321
Gregory, Jane 29, 35, 36, 73, 114, 115, 268
Grenier, Bob 5, 73, 87
Grenier, Robert 191, 237
Griffin, Tim 137
Guattari, Félix 237, 365
Gudding, Gabriel 73, 87
Guest, Barbara 286
Gunn, Thom 343
Hall, Chase 274
Hall, Phil 364
Hamill, Sam 346
Hamilton, Ann 381
Hamilton, Diana 350
Hansen, Jefferson 5, 10, 164, 352
Hardy, Thomas 239, 260, 265
Harkey, John 87
Harper, Michael 36
Harris, Ken 29
Harryman, Carla 82
Hart, Matt 50
Hartley, George 349
Hartsaw, Paul 82, 153
Hastings, Katherine 5
Hatmaker, Elizabeth 306, 309
Hauke, Nathan 73, 87
Hauser, Mike 74, 168, 229
Hawkey, Christian 147
Hawkins, Bobbie 5
Hayashida, Jennifer 356, 357
Hayes, Jared 67, 175
Haynes, Todd 55, 63
Healy, Randolph 4
Heaney, Seamus 165
Heath, Jennifer 21
Heide, Anne 147
Hejinian, Lyn 21, 231
Heller, Joseph 2
Henderson, David 29, 73, 87
Hennessey, Michael S. 73, 87
Henning, Barbara 5, 87
Henri, Charles 291
Henriksen, Matt 50
Herman, Rachel 19, 385
Hernandez, Victor 82
Hibbard, Tom 5
Higgins, Dick 29, 268, 363
Hightower, Scott 275
Hofer, Jen 14, 82, 259, 273, 363
Hoff, James 340
Hoffman, Eric 5
Hogan, Linda 356, 357
Hoover, Edgar 206
Hosea, Chris 275
House, Poets 130, 256
House, White 82, 206
Howe, Bill 349
Howe, Susan 130
Howsare, Erika 87
Hughes, Langston 29
Hughes, Ted 4
Hunt, Erica 25
Hunter, Carrie 382
Iijima, Brenda 275, 370
Indiana, Gary 130, 354
Infirmary, James 4
Ireland, Lauren 111, 209, 301, 312
Israel, David R. 35, 75
Izenberg, Oren 352
Jackson, Jesse 29, 136, 149, 150, 208
Jackson, Michael 55, 63
Jacob, Max 135, 268, 324
Jaffe, Larry 5
Janssen, Lisa 82
Javier, Paolo 73, 87
Jenkins, Matthew 320, 329, 331, 384
Jenks, Philip 74, 168, 229, 324
Johns, Jasper 256
Johnson, Kent 1, 3, 6, 7, 8, 12, 15, 20, 22, 23, 24, 26, 27, 28, 30, 31, 32, 33, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 45, 46, 48, 49, 52, 53, 55, 61, 62, 63, 66, 69, 70, 77, 78, 79, 86, 94, 95, 97, 99, 108, 112, 120, 121, 124, 126, 127, 132, 133, 145, 172, 292, 352

Jones, Bob 4, 9, 105, 114, 115, 125, 353
Jones, Jill 114, 115
Joselow, Beth 29, 208
Joseph, Brian 340
Joseph, Safdie 4, 73, 75, 87, 351, 363
Joyce, James 69
Joyce, Michael 2
Kafka, Franz 169, 170
Kaplan, Josef 19, 130
Karasick, Adeena 44, 73, 87
Kaufman, Erica 25, 173, 188, 275
Kazay, Jamie 9, 56
Keene, John 82, 363
Kelleher, Michael 73, 87, 114, 115
Kelly, Paul 110, 286, 334, 363
Kelsey, Karla 274
Kendal, Emily 190, 275
Kerouac, Jack 21, 130, 303
Killian, Kevin 73, 87, 148, 325
Kilroy, Kevin 56
Kimball, George 5
King, Cindy 275
King, Larry 63
Kinsella, John 114, 115
Kinsella, Thomas 290, 328, 341, 376
Kirschenbaum, David A. 17, 50, 292, 319
Kissinger, Henry 206, 288, 290, 310, 328, 341, 376
Klane, Matthew 82, 340
Klee, Paul 387
Kocik, Robert 191
Koller, James 114, 115
Kunin, Aaron 147
Kuniya, Mark 336, 345, 348
Kushner, Bill 256, 317
Kushner, Tony 256, 317
Kuszai, Joel 139
Lamoureux, Mark 44, 73, 87
Largo, Michael 5
Lau, David 50, 168, 229
Laurence, Paul 350
Lavender, Bill 5, 29, 135, 268
Laynor, Gregory 87
Lazer, Hank 135
Leftwich, Jim 244
Lendennie, Jessie 312
Leonard, Tom 36, 189, 193
Leuzzi, Tony 87
Levine, Jeffrey 3, 15, 39, 112, 127
Levitsky, Rachel 130, 256
Lew, Walter 356, 357
Lewis, Joel 5, 73, 87
Lewis, Susan 29, 265, 268
Limon, Ada 147
Lin, Daniel 275
Lindley, Eric 44, 87
Liu, Timothy 147
Livon, Ernesto 274
Lohmann, Sam 50, 292
London, Frank 130, 153, 256, 274, 294, 317, 342, 370
Lopez, Richard 5
Louise, Bobbie 5, 114, 115
Mac Low, Jackson 69, 141, 159, 166, 207, 212
Luiz, Jorge 170
Lundy, Dawn 317
Luther, Martin 358
Lynn, Aldon 167
Lyons, Kimberly 73, 87, 109, 147
Madgalene, David 5
Madison, James 5
Magi, Jill 87, 147
Mallarmé, Stéphane 98, 237
Malone, Bob 29
Mancus, Tony 275
Mandel, Tom 29, 208
Marie, Joshua 82, 275
Marie, Julie 19, 135, 363, 365
Marino, Elizabeth 36
Marks, Justin 50, 147
Marsh, Bill 44, 87
Marshall, Robert 175, 176
Mason, Chris 73, 87
Mason, Janet 282
Mauro, Nicole 75
Maxwell, Susan 73, 87, 363
Mayer, Bernadette 274
Mayer, Jane 4
McCaffery, Steve 87
Meltzer, David 5, 29, 208, 268, 351
Melville, Pierre 385
Menard, Pierre 98
Meredith, William 4
Mesler, Corey 350
Metcalf, Paul 349
Metres, Philip 5, 82
Milford, Joe 261
Miller, Lee 4, 73, 87, 351, 363
Mindock, Gloria 103
Minter, Peter 114, 115
Mirakove, Carol 73, 87
Mohammad, Kasey 14, 147
Monk, Geraldine 295, 296, 297, 298, 307, 313, 333, 361
Moody, Rick 135
Moor, William 340
Moore, Frank 317
Moore, Nicholas 19, 73, 87, 137
Morgan, Robin 73, 87, 167
Moriarty, Laura 167
Morrison, Rusty 325, 353
Morrison, Toni 165, 211, 265
Morton, Kathryn A. 29

Mosconi, Joseph 340
Moses, Robert 73, 87
Mott, Glenn 73, 87
Mueller, Ursula 122, 123, 129, 146, 160, 161, 162, 165, 183, 184, 185, 196, 202, 203, 206, 210, 211, 213, 217, 218, 220, 222, 227, 228, 232, 238, 239, 250, 251, 252, 258, 260, 265, 267, 270, 271, 277, 288, 290, 310, 328, 330, 341, 376
Murfin, Ira S. 82, 153
Murphy, Ryan 50
Murphy, Sheila E. 244
Murray, Elizabeth 5, 130
Myers, Michael 340
Myles, Eileen 25, 311, 317
Nakayasu, Sawako 340, 363
Nathanson, Tenney 87
Nauman, Bruce 73, 87
Naylor, Paul 88
Nealon, Chris 363
Nelson, Gale 73, 87, 346
Nelson, Paul E. 346
Nevins, Bill 47, 280
Newman, Charlie 36
Newton, Keith 255
Nguyen, Hoa 147
Nicholson, Andy 137
Niedecker, Lorine 176
Nielsen, Aldon L. 78, 94, 99, 120, 126, 167
Nielsen, Lynn 167
Norton, John 317, 337
Nowak, Mark 65, 118
O'Hara, Frank 322
Obadike, Keith 363
Olsen, Geoffrey 87
Olsen, Lance 73, 367
Olson, Charles 2, 5, 306, 309, 346
Ondaatje, Michael 356, 357
Oppen, George 2, 5
Oppenheimer, Joel 299
Orange, Tom 363
Orser, Kristen 153
Ortiz, Travis 231
Orwell, George 193
Osman, Jena 363
Oswald, John 55, 63
Pacific, Asian 88, 159, 256, 346
Pacosz, Christina 135
Padin, Clemente 237
Paige, Abby 73, 87, 199
Palmer, Michael 21
Parish, Jefferson 29, 299, 317
Parker, Karl 10, 105, 125, 299
Parker, William 105, 125
Parkway, Neal 21
Parrish, Katherine 5, 130
Paterson, William 346
Patton, Julie 176
Pecqueur, Paul 275
Peet, Christian 74, 168, 229
Penton, Jonathan 135
Perelman, Bob 130, 167, 256
Perlman, John 51
Pessoa, Fernando 169, 170
Peters, Mark 349
Peters, Michael 192, 204
Peterson, Katie 36, 44, 82, 153
Pettet, Simon 5, 19
Phillip, Andrew 98, 237
Phillips, John 336, 345, 348
Phillips, Lance 73, 87
Phillips, Malcolm 10, 73, 87, 88, 317
Philpott, Peter 54
Picot, Edward 169, 170
Pierce, Scott 147
Pinter, Harold 165
Piombino, Nick 73, 87, 130, 139, 256
Place, Vanessa 82, 340
Pollock, Jackson 133
Porter, Anne 33, 41, 47, 49, 62, 66, 86, 133, 280
Pound, Scott 49, 62, 66, 86, 133
Prevallet, Kristin 34, 82
Price, Brett 275
Prince, Richard 3, 15, 39
Professor, Kelly 78, 94, 99, 110, 120, 126, 167, 286, 334
Quaid, Andrea 204
Quarles, Lanny 73, 87
Quinn, Terry 114, 115, 327, 340
Quixote, Don 98
Raddatz, Martha 82
Randall, Karen 73, 87
Rankine, Claudia 363
Rauschenberg, Robert 55, 63, 133
Reagan, Nancy 206
Reed, Lou 50
Regan, Max 139
Reich, Steve 98
Reilly, Evelyn 4
Rerick, Michael 73, 87
Retallack, Joan 114, 115, 176, 379
Rexroth, Kenneth 29, 225
Reyes, Louis 88, 343
Reynolds, Sean 44, 73, 87, 385
Richert, Dan 340
Ridge, Tom 83
Riggs, Sarah 363
Rimbaud, Dee 98, 135, 273
Rivera, Alex 50, 292
Robbins, Bruce 5
Robbins, Micah 50
Robbins, Michael 124, 352
Roberts, Wendy 147, 306, 309, 324, 353

Robertson, Lisa 144
Robinson, Mary 175
Roche, John 5
Roosevelt, Franklin 206
Rosemont, Franklin 349
Rosenberg, Jim 94, 120
Rosenstock, Gabriel 209
Rosenthal, Sarah 114, 115
Ross, Harry 82, 153
Rothenberg, Jerome 21, 212, 363
Rothenberg, Jerry 29, 207
Rothenberg, Michael 5, 29, 135, 208, 268, 351
Rothschild, Douglas 224, 316
Roy, Camille 317, 325, 337
Royer, Ric 275
Rumaker, Michael 5
Russo, Linda 114, 115
Saidenberg, Jocelyn 325
Samuels, Lisa 82
Sanders, James 73, 87, 180
Sanders, Jay 5
Saper, Craig 75
Sappho 135
Sartre, Paul 310
Savage, Tom 80
Sawyer, Larry 29, 56, 324
Scalapino, Leslie 173, 188
Schapira, Kate 114, 115
Schelling, Andrew 114, 115, 176
Schlesinger, Kyle 73, 87
Schoen, Jesse 50
Schorn, Brian 289
Schroeder, Steven 36
Schultz, Susan M. 88
Schwabsky, Barry 135, 275
Schwartz, Judy 29
Schwartz, Leonard 316
Schwitters, Kurt 98
Scroggins, Mark 320, 329, 331
Seaman, David W. 75, 177, 187, 195, 201, 205, 237
Seaton, Maureen 87
Seldess, Jesse 56, 87
Shakespeare, William 169, 170, 307, 313, 314, 333, 361, 380
Shapiro, David 50, 292
Shapiro, Gary 73, 87, 153
Shaughnessy, Brenda 44
Shepard, Matthew 189, 193
Sherlock, Frank 110, 282
Shimoda, Brandon 88
Shmailo, Larissa 5, 34, 135
Siddique, John 300
Sigo, Cedar 299
Silem, Kasey 14, 147
Silliman, Ron 130, 148, 224, 256, 316
Simon, Greg 114, 115, 165
Simonds, Sandra 73, 87
Simpson, Bennett 324
Sims, Laura 82, 275
Sinclair, John 143, 265
Sloman, Joel 73, 87
Smith, Dale 5, 46
Smith, Rod 167, 208
Smith, Susan 5
Smith, Tracy K. 4, 5, 36, 47, 82, 147, 153, 199, 275, 280, 317, 327, 337, 340
Smithson, Robert 237
Snelson, Danny 340
Snyder, Gary 114, 115, 176
Snyder, Rick 73, 87
Sorrentino, Christopher 109
Spahr, Juliana 82, 112, 114, 115, 127, 282
Sparrow, John 73, 87
Spitzer, Jim 5
Sprague, Jane 224, 316
Stackhouse, Christopher 73, 82, 87, 275
Staiti, Erika 340
Stanley, Jared 279
Stebelton, Chuck 82
Stefans, Kim 340, 363
Stein, Suzanne 148
Steinbeck, John 265
Stevens, Wallace 88, 299
Stevenson, Matt 275
Stewart, Susan 256, 317
Strand, Julie 82, 153
Sullivan, Gary 44, 130, 256
Swensen, Cole 87, 363
Szymaszek, Stacy 82
Tabios, Eileen 73, 87, 135
Taggart, John 73, 87, 199
Tagliabue, John 274
Tardos, Anne 73, 87
Taylor, Jesse 114, 115
Taylor, Steven 130
Teare, Brian 74, 168, 229
Tepper, Susan 103
Texas, Irving 10, 147, 175, 256, 317
Thomas, Dylan 4, 73, 80, 87, 247, 256, 317
Thompson, Jim 98
Thompson, Jon 29, 44, 73, 87, 135, 208, 275, 351
Tills, Steve 34
Toscano, Rodrigo 74, 114, 115, 167, 168, 176, 229, 340
Tost, Tony 147
Treadwell, Elizabeth 73, 87
Tribune, Chicago 294, 342
Trigilio, Tony 74, 82, 168, 229
Turner, Brian 10, 19, 50, 73, 87, 130
Tuttle, Richard 130
Tyler, Mary 87, 114, 115

Unger, Eric 82
Valery, Paul 232
Vallejo, César 92
Van, Erica 114, 115
Veglahn, Sara 363
Vendler, Helen 352
Veronica, Angela 5
Victoria, Nancy 5
Viegener, Matias 340
Vincent, Gregory 5, 73, 87, 135, 363
Wagner, Catherine 256, 308, 363
Waldman, Anne 87, 104, 130, 289, 291, 306, 309
Waldman, Ken 19, 73, 130
Waldrop, Rosemary 18, 231, 302
Waldrop, Rosmarie 293
Walker, Alice 135
Wallace, George 322
Wallace, Mark 5, 74, 168, 229
Walsh, Catherine 29, 208
Wanek, Joel 153
Warhol, Andy 50, 133, 317
Warner, Jim 4
Warsh, Lewis 5
Washington, Harold 29, 47, 56, 148, 167, 208, 280, 351
Weber, Charles 29
Weber, Damian 114, 115
Weinberger, Eliot 274, 382
Weiner, Hannah 385
Weiner, Lawrence 87
Welch, Brian 56
Wellman, Don 87, 195, 205
Wendt, Larry 98
Whitman, Walt 256, 317
Wiener, Hannah 207, 212
Wieners, John 299, 317
Wilder, Billy 29
Wilkinson, Joshua 82, 275
Williams, Hank 370
Williams, Tony 29, 212, 349
Williams, Tyrone 167, 363
Williams, William Carlos 98
Willis, Elizabeth 167, 338
Wittgenstein, Ludwig 279
Wolach, David 275
Wright, James 35, 142, 291, 317
Wright, Jeff 142
Wright, Laura 291
Yau, John 363
Young, Karl 5, 135, 237
Young, Mark 5
Zavatsky, Bill 29
Zawacki, Andrew 18, 82, 363
Zedd, Nick 19
Zimmerman, Daniel 135
Zolf, Rachel 337
Zucker, Rachel 147
Zukofsky, Louis 236, 295, 296, 297, 298, 305, 307, 313, 314, 320, 329, 331, 333, 361, 380
Zukofsky, Paul 295, 296, 297, 298, 307, 313, 320, 329, 331, 333, 358, 361, 362
Zultanski, Steven 340

CONCEPTS

9/11 256, 317
Activism and protest 29, 98, 130, 189, 193, 208, 268, 274, 289, 337
Aesthetics 6, 7, 12, 27, 53, 55, 63, 69, 94, 97, 98, 112, 117, 120, 121, 127, 132, 145, 230, 243, 256, 266, 269, 272, 281, 340, 365
Affect 28, 385
Afghanistan 193
African American poetry 193, 256, 317
Anthologies 5, 21, 44, 69, 91, 130, 135, 176, 212, 237, 254, 256, 259, 273, 274, 278, 299, 317, 337, 363, 382
Anti-Semitism 322, 333
Appropriation 3, 15, 26, 31, 32, 33, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 43, 46, 49, 61, 62, 66, 86, 95, 112, 127, 133, 134, 138, 178, 340
Archives and libraries 16, 44, 59, 100, 102, 111, 134, 138, 139, 142, 169, 170, 246, 247, 259, 279, 284, 294, 342, 343
Asemic writing 237, 269, 272
Autobiography 5, 18, 83, 87, 256, 274, 340, 369
Avant-garde 28, 44, 75, 79, 112, 127, 155
Beauty 5, 243, 269, 272, 322
Biography 83, 231
Blogs 5, 10, 11, 16, 18, 19, 21, 26, 28, 29, 31, 33, 34, 35, 37, 38, 40, 41, 43, 44, 46, 49, 50, 58, 62, 66, 74, 78, 80, 86, 88, 90, 94, 99, 102, 106, 107, 109, 112, 116, 120, 126, 127, 128, 129, 133, 135, 139, 140, 143, 146, 147, 148, 156, 160, 161, 162, 164, 165, 166, 167, 168, 172, 173, 175, 176, 177, 183, 184, 186, 192, 197, 202, 203, 204, 205, 206, 207, 210, 212, 213, 217, 220, 224, 227, 228, 229, 232, 233, 235, 237, 239, 241, 249, 253, 254, 255, 256, 260, 262, 265, 268, 269, 272, 282, 286, 292, 293, 302, 304, 311, 317, 318, 321, 325, 337, 343, 347, 359, 369, 370, 374, 377, 379, 383
Book announcements 25, 44, 73, 74, 79, 90, 105, 122, 123, 125, 129, 143, 146, 160, 162, 165, 168, 183, 184, 188, 203, 213, 224, 226, 228, 229, 232, 247, 256, 263, 279, 308, 309, 311, 316, 318, 327, 339, 340, 348, 370
Bookstores 2, 56, 79, 95, 153, 167, 312
Calls for submissions 60, 85, 354, 367, 385
Capitalism 95, 179, 340

Censorship 29, 340
Cities 17, 103, 256, 294, 319, 322, 342, 346
Climate 100, 347
Close reading 191
Collage and montage 150
Conceptual writing 3, 5, 15, 28, 39, 98, 112, 127, 133, 141, 159, 179
Conferences and festivals 4, 9, 21, 25, 29, 36, 56, 82, 105, 125, 128, 137, 153, 156, 167, 169, 170, 174, 175, 176, 177, 186, 192, 204, 207, 208, 212, 264, 269, 272, 294, 306, 309, 342, 343, 347, 354, 356, 357
Copyright and permissions 16, 55, 63, 72, 79, 95, 112, 127, 139, 276, 295, 296, 297, 298, 307, 313, 314, 320, 329, 331, 333, 361, 362, 380
Creative writing pedagogy 98, 337
Dada 111, 136, 141, 149, 150, 159, 166, 207, 212, 272, 354
Deconstruction 98, 161, 202, 210, 217, 220, 227, 239, 260, 265, 285, 365
Difficulty 46, 72, 139, 228, 276, 340
Digital archives 2, 28, 33, 41, 46, 49, 62, 66, 86, 133, 173, 188, 318
Disability 256, 317
Dreams 21, 73, 87, 256, 274, 317, 322, 340, 352
Ecology and ecopoetics 5, 21, 73, 87, 114, 115, 117, 176, 191, 274, 346
Editing 53, 69, 88, 114, 115, 130, 139, 259, 273, 327, 363, 375
Ekphrasis 2, 44
Electronic poetry and hypertext 16, 35, 50, 106, 107, 116, 139, 194, 219
Empire and imperialism 53, 69
Epic 77, 97, 132, 145, 256, 340, 346, 352
Epistemology 279
Erasure 294, 340, 342
Ethics 72, 130, 276
Experimental poetry 88, 130, 207, 212
Fascism 365
Feminism 74, 168, 229, 256, 317, 365
Film 4, 19, 25, 59, 94, 112, 120, 121, 127, 130, 133, 175, 190, 192, 204, 237, 256, 267, 274, 317, 360
Flarf 44, 98
Fluxus 83, 111, 136, 141, 149, 150, 159, 166, 207, 212, 269, 272
Futurism 75, 98, 136, 141, 149, 150, 159, 166, 207, 212
Gender 5, 25, 60
Grants and funding 3, 15, 21, 39, 114, 115, 176, 207, 208, 212, 256, 274, 317, 320, 321, 329, 331, 370, 384
Haiku 5, 244, 248
Humour and satire 31, 33, 37, 40, 41, 43, 49, 61, 62, 66, 86, 133, 297, 307, 313, 322, 333, 361
Identity politics 5, 208
Ideology 352, 365
Improvisation 25, 92, 153, 268
Indigenous and Native poetics 189, 193, 227, 247
Interviews 3, 10, 15, 29, 39, 46, 73, 85, 87, 92, 93, 103, 114, 115, 169, 170, 176, 181, 234, 237, 292, 300, 311, 381
Israel and Palestine 35, 75
Jewish poetics 36, 94, 120, 121
Language poetry 131, 173, 188, 204, 259, 279
Latino and Latin American poetry 14, 202, 210, 217, 218, 220, 227, 238, 239, 250, 252, 260, 265, 267, 274
Letters and correspondence 139
List moderation 29, 139, 208
Little magazines 3, 5, 15, 18, 19, 29, 35, 39, 50, 58, 60, 65, 73, 80, 84, 87, 88, 90, 91, 118, 119, 130, 139, 140, 142, 147, 153, 176, 190, 197, 233, 256, 259, 273, 286, 289, 292, 304, 306, 309, 311, 317, 318, 321, 324, 335, 337, 343, 363, 370, 371, 372, 373, 374, 375, 377, 378, 380, 381, 383, 384, 385, 386
Lyric poetry 85, 143, 234, 256, 337
Materiality of the text 230, 243, 269, 272
Memory 4, 5, 206, 239, 260, 265
MFA programs 14, 21, 84, 256, 259, 273, 299, 312, 357
Modernism 49, 62, 66, 86, 98, 133, 176, 317, 337
Mourning and loss 104, 340
Music and poetry 2, 5, 10, 19, 29, 35, 36, 50, 55, 63, 83, 98, 104, 105, 125, 130, 153, 176, 192, 204, 208, 246, 256, 257, 268, 292, 317, 324, 343, 351, 352, 353, 370
Nature 5, 21, 35, 70, 72, 78, 79, 94, 99, 103, 120, 126, 139, 203, 206, 228, 276, 322, 340, 346
Negativity and refusal 179
Obituary and memorial 73, 87, 89, 139, 359
Ontology 28, 176
Oulipo 56, 230, 243, 269, 272
Performance and the poetry reading 4, 10, 14, 21, 29, 44, 47, 75, 92, 93, 139, 167, 176, 199, 207, 212, 237, 256, 262, 268, 273, 280, 294, 301, 308, 312, 342, 343, 356, 357, 370
Philosophy 130, 156, 201, 207, 212, 230, 243, 269, 272, 279, 365, 383
Place and region 5, 25
Poet laureate 322
Poetics 2, 7, 10, 16, 18, 21, 25, 39, 55, 63, 65, 66, 73, 79, 84, 86, 87, 97, 98, 106, 107, 114, 115, 116, 118, 130, 132, 133, 138, 139, 145, 149, 155, 166, 176, 178, 189, 193, 195, 201, 203, 204, 205, 207, 212,

213, 214, 217, 220, 228, 230, 231, 232, 237, 239, 243, 259, 260, 265, 269, 271, 272, 273, 279, 304, 313, 317, 333, 337, 357, 361, 365, 366, 370
Poets Against the War 346
Politics and poetry 256
Print vs. digital 16, 19, 35, 51, 55, 63, 65, 72, 79, 83, 86, 118, 133, 135, 137, 205, 206, 209, 212, 244, 247, 253, 257, 263, 276, 278, 279, 282, 311, 312, 316, 323, 324, 325, 368
Prizes and awards 10, 21, 44, 72, 103, 122, 123, 129, 130, 137, 143, 146, 160, 161, 162, 165, 176, 183, 184, 185, 193, 196, 202, 203, 206, 210, 211, 213, 217, 218, 220, 222, 227, 228, 232, 238, 239, 250, 251, 252, 256, 258, 259, 260, 265, 267, 270, 271, 276, 277, 288, 290, 310, 317, 321, 328, 330, 337, 341, 343, 356, 357, 363, 370, 376
Procedural and constraint writing 56, 112, 127
Prose poem 72, 130, 276
Prosody and meter 5, 191
Queer poetics 179, 189, 193, 256, 317, 337, 365, 366
Race and poetry 5, 32, 60, 76, 100, 139, 206, 252, 299, 317
Reading announcements 10, 25, 29, 47, 67, 68, 198, 199, 224, 259, 291, 294, 342, 343, 382
Religion and the sacred 4, 5, 6, 7, 12, 27, 74, 112, 127, 130, 137, 147, 168, 229, 275, 279, 294, 342, 354
Reviewing and criticism 2, 5, 10, 18, 19, 35, 44, 73, 74, 84, 86, 87, 103, 105, 114, 115, 122, 123, 124, 125, 129, 130, 133, 139, 146, 160, 162, 165, 168, 169, 170, 176, 183, 184, 188, 203, 209, 213, 228, 229, 232, 237, 256, 273, 274, 278, 283, 284, 292, 294, 304, 318, 321, 322, 327, 342, 343, 350, 352, 367, 370, 385
Science 21, 130, 207, 212, 217, 218, 220, 238, 239, 250, 252, 260, 265, 267, 370
Semiotics 169, 170, 201, 230, 243, 269, 272
Serial poem 65, 292
Small press publishing 2, 5, 17, 35, 44, 50, 67, 72, 73, 87, 91, 92, 93, 101, 102, 103, 104, 147, 167, 176, 178, 190, 191, 224, 231, 256, 257, 273, 276, 292, 306, 308, 309, 312, 316, 317, 319, 321, 325, 337, 363, 369, 370
Social media 88, 102, 128, 130, 136, 141, 142, 149, 156, 159, 166, 176, 177, 186, 207, 212, 261, 269, 272, 292, 334, 343, 353, 356, 370, 377
Software and code 4, 5, 55, 63, 75, 169, 170, 340
Sonnet 4
Sound poetry 207, 212, 237, 335
Subjectivity 21, 60, 61, 98, 187, 195, 201, 205, 237, 279, 365
Sublime 271
Surrealism 56, 136, 141, 149, 150, 159, 166, 207, 212, 349, 365, 366
Terrorism 63, 189, 193
The academy 3, 10, 14, 15, 20, 21, 26, 29, 31, 33, 35, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 43, 45, 46, 48, 49, 53, 62, 66, 69, 78, 84, 86, 94, 98, 99, 103, 110, 120, 126, 128, 130, 133, 139, 152, 156, 157, 159, 165, 167, 169, 170, 176, 177, 182, 186, 190, 201, 203, 206, 207, 210, 212, 213, 214, 218, 220, 224, 227, 228, 229, 230, 232, 237, 238, 239, 243, 250, 252, 256, 259, 260, 267, 269, 272, 273, 274, 279, 284, 286, 294, 307, 308, 310, 312, 314, 317, 320, 321, 329, 331, 334, 338, 342, 343, 354, 367, 370, 380, 382, 384, 385
The body 98, 173, 188
The canon 5
The Holocaust 193, 265
The internet 3, 10, 59, 75, 93, 134, 138, 139, 142, 173, 175, 207, 212, 224, 247, 306, 309, 332, 366, 375, 378
The Iraq war 65, 82, 118
The listserv 13, 19, 130, 138, 139, 146, 160, 162, 165, 175, 183, 184, 203, 213, 228, 232, 256, 310, 317, 332, 351
Theatre 4, 29, 83, 87, 92, 153, 176, 200, 224, 240, 246, 256, 317, 322, 354, 370
Torture and Abu Ghraib 88, 193, 322
Translation 5, 14, 19, 33, 35, 36, 41, 49, 62, 66, 72, 86, 95, 114, 115, 123, 124, 129, 130, 133, 135, 146, 153, 160, 162, 165, 176, 183, 184, 195, 203, 205, 206, 213, 228, 232, 237, 259, 273, 276, 291, 292, 329, 340, 363
Visual and concrete poetry 111, 128, 150, 156, 157, 169, 170, 177, 187, 195, 201, 205, 207, 212, 214, 225, 230, 237, 243, 254, 256, 266, 269, 272, 281, 335, 387
Visual art 2, 9, 19, 21, 29, 32, 36, 98, 111, 133, 134, 136, 138, 141, 147, 149, 150, 153, 157, 159, 166, 176, 179, 201, 207, 212, 214, 237, 243, 246, 256, 269, 272, 274, 284, 292, 321, 324, 365, 382
Women's writing 5

Contents

Every entry links to its message. 387 in all.

30 SEP 2009

1. Adam Katz — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
2. Michael Heller — Fwd: Replacement of garbled announcement--hope this is clearer. Apologies
3. Jeffrey Side — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
4. Jennifer Karmin — Oct 2 & 3: Links Hall 30-Hour Festival (Chicago)
5. Ruth Lepson — Re: Big Bridge
6. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
7. Tribbey, Hugh R. — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
8. Ryan Daley — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson . . . The Next Generation . . .
9. Daniel Godston — Chicago Calling at Elastic

1 OCT 2009

10. Carol Novack — Mad Hatters’ Review Poetry, Prose, and Anything Goes Reading; Phoenix Readi...
11. Nico Vassilakis — SubText Seattle: David Buuck & Joel Felix: 10/7/09
12. Jeffrey Side — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
13. Joel Weishaus — "The Gateless Gate." Pages 35-36
14. Patrick F. Durgin — Dorantes, Solo?rzano, Hofer, Durgin, & Mohammad in Milwaukee, WI
15. Jonathan Ball — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
16. Jeffrey Side — Charles Bernstein enters Johnson/Goldsmith Day debate
17. David Kirschenbaum — Advertise in Boog City 60
18. Scott Howard — Book Reviewers Sought
19. Poetry Project — Upcoming Events at The Poetry Project
20. Jonathan Ball — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
21. Mark DuCharme — REMINDER: Collom & Catanzano, Stratford Park Reading Series, October 8th
22. Adam Katz — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
23. Alan Sondheim — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
24. Maria Damon — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

2 OCT 2009

25. Corey Frost — Eileen Myles at the GC
26. Jeffrey Side — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
27. Jeffrey Side — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
28. Jeffrey Side — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
29. Vernon Frazer — ROCKPILE TOUR CALENDAR (submitted on behalf of Michael Rothenberg
30. steve dalachinsky — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
31. Jonathan Ball — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
32. Jonathan Ball — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
33. Mairead Byrne — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
34. Sarah Sarai — 3 reviews: Steve Tills, Kristin Prevallet, Larissa Shmailo
35. judith goldman — Chicago, Thurs., Oct. 8th: NOT TO BE MISSED! Readings by Brandon Brown and...
36. Daniel Godston — Chicago Calling at Mercury Cafe and Brown Rice
37. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
38. Ruth Lepson — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
39. Tribbey, Hugh R. — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
40. Jeffrey Side — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
41. Jeffrey Side — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
42. Christopher Leland Winks — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
43. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
44. amy king — Two Twomorrow -- NYC

45. Nick LoLordo — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
46. Jeffrey Side — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
47. Rosalie Calabrese — ROSALIE'S READINGS OCTOBER - DECEMBER 2009
48. Ryan Daley — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
49. Alison Croggon — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
50. David Kirschenbaum — d.a. levy lives: celebrating the renegade press 2009-10 schedule

3 OCT 2009

51. John Perman — Idiolects of Silence by John Perlman
52. Mary Kasimor — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
53. Stephen Ellis — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
54. Jeffrey Side — Poem by Peter Philpott at The Argotist Online
55. Herb Levy — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

4 OCT 2009

56. Daniel Godston — Chinese Whispers at Myopic Books
57. Camille Martin — collages - Camille Martin
58. Nate Pritts — often I am permitted to return to Duncan
59. { brad brace } — NP/bbs
60. Emily Carr — call for submissions for dandelion magazine
61. Jonathan Ball — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
62. Jeffrey Side — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
63. Stephen Ellis — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
64. mIEKAL aND — Fwd: [silence] Merce Cunningham Memorial
65. Lauren Rachel — Plastique Publishes Book-Length Poem "War Rug" by Francesco Levato

5 OCT 2009

66. Wystan Curnow — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
67. Sharon Dolin — REMINDER: CBA READING THIS WED.
68. susan maurer — Susan Maurer reading from PERFECT DARK at the Bowery Poetry Club
69. Jason Quackenbush — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
70. Christopher Leland Winks — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
71. J. P. — DAY & son
72. Brian Clements — Firewheel/Sentence Announcement
73. amy king — EOAGH #5 -- NOW ONLINE
74. amy king — This is What a (Pro)Feminist [Man Poet] Looks Like
75. ART ELECTRONICS — 53. Venice Biennale: Poetry Network & Virtual Installation on SL
76. Elizabeth Switaj — Re: Chinese Whispers at Myopic Books
77. Skip Fox — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
78. Aldon Nielsen — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
79. Jeffrey Side — Statement from Kent Johnson
80. Thomas savage — Re: often I am permitted to return to Duncan
81. Adam Katz — Re: DAY & son
82. Jennifer Karmin — Oct 10: 4000 WORDS 4000 DEAD
83. { brad brace } — pleated plaid pamphlets published
84. William Slaughter — Notice: Mudlark
85. George Wheeler — Seeking Submissions
86. Alison Croggon — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
87. Tim Peterson — EOAGH 5 Now Online - Launch at CUNY GC on 10/6

6 OCT 2009

88. Susan Webster Schultz — Tinfish 19 is in the house!!!!
89. steve dalachinsky — sad news
90. Ruth Lepson — Re: often I am permitted to return to Duncan
91. Tarpaulin Sky Press — Tarpaulin Sky Press Open for Submissions of Full-Length Manuscripts
92. Martha Cinader Mims — PR: Poetic Symmetry in Downtown Greenville
93. Martha Cinader Mims — PR:Newcomer to Greenville to be Guest Speaker in Travelers Rest

94. Christopher Leland Winks — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
95. Elizabeth Switaj — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
96. Sara Wintz — announcing poetryTV!
97. Tribbey, Hugh R. — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
98. David Chirot — re Debord's Hurlements & Ducasse's Poesies-
99. Stephen Ellis — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
100. Adam Katz — Who Knows?
101. jared schickling — C. J. Martin and Delete Press
102. Sarah Sarai — SPD recommends The Future Is Happy

7 OCT 2009

103. Doug Holder — Doug Holder, Gloria Mindock, Susan Tepper, Martin Golan to Read at KGB BAR NY...
104. steve dalachinsky — reading and homage to suzanne fiol
105. steve dalachinsky — rare david ware appearance etc 8-11pm
106. Charles Bernstein — Raymond Federman (1928-2009)
107. Maria Damon — Re: Raymond Federman (1928-2009)
108. Jeffrey Side — Kent Johnson on The New British School
109. Camille Martin — new on Rogue Embryo's blog
110. Al Filreis — PoemTalk #23 on Cid Corman (Frank Sherlock, Tom Devaney, Fran Ryan)
111. Séamas Cain — Dadadadadadadadadadada
112. Geoffrey Gatza — Production film of Day by Kent Johnson
113. steve russell — Fw: How do you get the juices flowing again?
114. Jonathan Skinner — ANNOUNCING ECOPOETICS 06/07
115. Jonathan Skinner — ANNOUNCING ECOPOETICS 06/07
116. Peter Quartermain — Re: Raymond Federman (1928-2009)

8 OCT 2009

117. Alan Sondheim — Second Life performance space for Eyebeam Friday night
118. Francesco Levato — Book release: "War Rug" by Francesco Levato
119. Shankar, Ravi (English) — Helix Literary Magazine
120. Maria Damon — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
121. Jonathan Ball — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
122. amy king — Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
123. jesseca — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
124. Bobby Baird — Recent Posts at Digital Emunction
125. Maria Damon — Re: rare david ware appearance etc 8-11pm
126. Christopher Leland Winks — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
127. Ruth Lepson — Re: Production film of Day by Kent Johnson
128. Philip Meersman — Visual poetry: seeking definitions and borders
129. Alison Croggon — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
130. Poetry Project — Events at The Poetry Project October
131. Barrett Watten — Paris and Lyon events, 10/12-14
132. Mark DuCharme — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

9 OCT 2009

133. Mark DuCharme — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
134. Chris Jones — Poetry, painting, appropriation
135. Anny Ballardini — Ekleksographia Wave Two: The Translation Special
136. David Harrison Horton — 50 years behind
137. Evan Munday — Christian Bök at Twin Cities Book Festival - October 10
138. amy king — Re: Poetry, painting, appropriation - Check the Poetics List Archives
139. Poetics List — Poetics List Welcome Message
140. Cara Benson — answering rob mclennan
141. Jeffrey Side — Re: 50 years behind
142. Wanda Phipps — Fwd: Live Mag!#7 at Bowery Poetry Club 10/11
143. Pierre Joris — Recent NOMADICS posts & JUSTIFYING THE MARGINS

144. With + Stand — W+S 4 LR: Deadline extended
145. Tribbey, Hugh R. — Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
146. Christopher Leland Winks — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
147. Effing Press — new from Effing Press
148. Ken Rumble — Art Installation Opening: Friday, October 16, 7:30-10p, 715 Washington St.
149. Allan Revich — Re: 50 years behind

10 OCT 2009

150. Jim Andrews — Re: 50 years behind
151. steve dalachinsky — Re: Poet Query - Last names beginning with "X"
152. Obododimma Oha — Virtual Venice
153. Daniel Godston — Chicago Calling at Epiphany Church
154. Christophe Casamassima — Poet Query - Last names beginning with "X"
155. Patrick F. Durgin — CFP for special session at MLA 2011
156. Mairead Byrne — Re: Visual poetry: seeking definitions and borders
157. Ruth Lepson — Re: Visual poetry: seeking definitions and borders
158. Ruth Lepson — Re: Virtual Venice
159. Michael Marsh — Re: 50 years behind
160. Jeffrey Side — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
161. Mary Jo Malo — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
162. George Bowering — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
163. George Bowering — Re: Poet Query - Last names beginning with "X"
164. Jeff Hansen — Advanced Placement English Blog
165. J.P. Craig — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
166. Alison Croggon — Re: 50 years behind
167. Aldon Nielsen — MLA IN PHILADELPHIA
168. Ruth Lepson — Re: This is What a (Pro)Feminist [Man Poet] Looks Like

11 OCT 2009

169. Jim Andrews — A DVD on David Daniels's work by Regina Célia Pinto
170. Regina Pinto — DAVID DANIELS' 200+HUMAN BEINGÈD HYMN TO HUMANITY is ready (DVD format)
171. Jeffrey Side — Interesting, though short, discusion on UK Cambridge poetry
172. Jeffrey Side — Robert Archambeau, on his blog, has picked up on Chris Hamilton-Emery's comm…
173. Ruth Lepson — Re: Question re: Language Poetry and the Body - AUDIO!
174. Jennifer Karmin — Oct 14-17: &Now Festival in Buffalo
175. Alan Sondheim — UMove Videodance Festival is Available Online for Viewing--Check it out on …
176. Jonathan Skinner — NYC Ecopoetics launch at [redacted] Initiative 10/14: Toscano, Brown, Don…
177. David Seaman — Re: Visual poetry: seeking definitions and borders

12 OCT 2009

178. Andrew Rippeon — P-Queue and PayPal
179. Chris Jones — Re: 50 years behind
180. aslongasittakes — aslongasittakes issue 4 is now live
181. Alan Sondheim — Interview on my media work from Copenhagen -
182. Obododimma Oha — Re: Virtual Venice
183. Maria Damon — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
184. George Bowering — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
185. Aryanil Mukherjee — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
186. Philip Meersman — Re: Virtual Venice
187. mIEKAL aND — Re: Visual poetry: seeking definitions and borders
188. amy king — Re: Question re: Language Poetry and the Body - AUDIO!
189. amy king — Off topic query -- The Poetics of Hate - "Liberal" New York City -- & oh, Happy…

190. twshaner — Kate Greenstreet, Zachary Schomburg, and Emily Frey Reading in Eugene

13 OCT 2009

191. Jonathan Skinner — Farming the Words: Talking with Robert Grenier
192. Carol Novack — The &NOW Conference in Buffalo, Wednesday, Oct 14th
193. David-Baptiste Chirot — Re: Off topic query -- The Poetics of Hate - "Liberal" New York Ci...
194. peter ganick — 3 new white sky books
195. D. Wellman — Re: Visual poetry: seeking definitions and borders
196. Johanna Fisher — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
197. richard owens — NYT Federman obit
198. susan maurer — Susan Maurer:correction for reading on 10-18
199. Sharon Dolin — Reading at Pete's Candy Store, Fri. Oct. 23rd
200. susan maurer — Susan Maurer and Patricia Carragon read at Prairie Fire: Dynamite Dynamite
201. Ward Tietz — Re: Visual Poetry
202. Christopher Leland Winks — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
203. Mary Kasimor — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
204. Eireene Nealand — Re: The &NOW Conference in Buffalo, Wednesday, Oct 14th
205. Anny Ballardini — Re: Visual poetry: seeking definitions and borders
206. Anny Ballardini — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
207. Philip Meersman — Re: Visual poetry: seeking definitions and borders
208. Jack Foley — ROCKPILE: Performed by David Meltzer & Michael Rothenberg
209. Séamas Cain — In neo-bhakti spontaneity
210. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
211. Elizabeth Switaj — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
212. laura oliver — Re: Visual poetry: seeking definitions and borders
213. Ryan Daley — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
214. Allan Revich — Re: Visual poetry: seeking definitions and borders
215. Gloria Frym — technical question
216. Alan Sondheim — From the Eyebeam performance last Friday night -
217. J. Michael Mollohan — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
218. George Bowering — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
219. Ruth Lepson — Re: 3 new white sky books
220. Mark Weiss — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
221. George Bowering — Re: technical question
222. Johanna Fisher — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
223. steve russell — Re: 50 years behind & other such...
224. charles alexander — Joel Bettridge's PRESOCRATIC BLUES
225. Catherine Daly — Re: Visual poetry: seeking definitions and borders
226. Jesse Glass — Hollerin From This Shack--Ahadada Books African American Series #1
227. Gabrielle Welford — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
228. Gabrielle Welford — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
229. carol dorf — Re: This is What a (Pro)Feminist [Man Poet] Looks Like

14 OCT 2009

230. lily robert-foley — Re: Visual Poetry
231. Martin Richet — Lyn Hejinian, Gesualdo
232. Mirela Roznovschi — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
233. Maria Damon — Re: NYT Federman obit
234. George Wheeler — Seeking Art & Poetry Submissions
235. Jeffrey Side — Feed my fish with your mouse
236. Christophe Casamassima — Zukofsky lines
237. David Chirot — Re: Visual Poetry
238. Christopher Leland Winks — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
239. editor — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
240. susan maurer — Correction: Carragon and Maurer to read at 6pm on 11-15
241. Paul Siegell — Bookslut's "Indie Heartthrob"... yours for the raging

242. Gloria Frym — Re: technical question
243. Allan Revich — Re: Visual Poetry
244. peter ganick — eleven new eBooks from chalk-editions
245. Justin Katko — Fwd: RELEASE : PRAXIS ETUDES

15 OCT 2009

246. Jesse Glass — Available from Ahadada Books Sueno(s) For Alexandra
247. Jesse Glass — Now Available from Ahadada Native American Series: Barabara L. Thomas' Dream...
248. Joel Weishaus — "The Gateless Gate" Pages 37-38
249. susan maurer — Re: Feed my fish with your mouse
250. Mark Weiss — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
251. Joel Weishaus — Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature priz
252. George Bowering — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
253. CA Conrad — Seance Your Own Way
254. Laurie Schneider & Crag Hill — Re: Visual Poetry
255. Camille Martin — new on Rogue Embryo's blog
256. Poetry Project — Events at The Poetry Project October
257. Janet Holmes — Catherine Daly, Kate Greenstreet & Janet Holmes @ BEYOND BAROQUE 10/30

16 OCT 2009

258. Jonathan Morse — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
259. Patrick Durgin — ANN ARBOR: Dolores Dorantes, Laura Solórzano, and Jen Hofer
260. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
261. Patrick Herron — Joe Milford Hosts Patrick Herron on The Joe Milford Show Sat 17th 7PM East...
262. Nico Vassilakis — Subtext Reading Series on Hiatus
263. { brad brace } — "withdrawn" ebook
264. Alan Sondheim — From &now

17 OCT 2009

265. David-Baptiste Chirot — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
266. Jim Andrews — Re: Visual Poetry
267. editor — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature prize
268. Michael — New Orleans ROCKPILE-- 2 Great Events!!!
269. Allan Revich — Re: Visual Poetry
270. Bobbie Lurie — Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature priz--response to Joel

18 OCT 2009

271. Johanna Fisher — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature priz--response to Joel
272. Philip Meersman — Re: Visual Poetry
273. Barrett Watten — Panel on Cross-Border Arts and Bilingual Reading / Wayne State University

19 OCT 2009

274. Jonathan Skinner — LANGUAGE ARTS LIVE PRESENTS BILL BERKSON TONIGHT AT BATES COLLEGE (LEW...
275. Ana Bo¾ièeviæ — Stain of Poetry Fall readings and fresh Spring/Summer 2009 videos!
276. Brian Clements — Firewheel Editions Calls for Submissions
277. steve russell — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature priz--response to Joel
278. L Trent — 21 Stars Review Complete Anthology PDF Download
279. Joel Bettridge — New book: Reading as Belief: Language Writing, Poetics, Faith
280. Rosalie Calabrese — Reading Wednesday, October 21 at 7PM
281. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: Visual Poetry
282. CA Conrad — drag poetry benefit
283. Carol Novack — Readings this Thurs, Oct 22nd (reminder to some of you) & Fri 11/6 at The KG...

20 OCT 2009

284. Ron Henry — Reading (Ithaca, NY) - poetry by Bhisham Bherwani and Christopher Lirette
285. Jason Harmon — intentions
286. Al Filreis — PoemTalk #24 - on Barbara Guest
287. Catherine Daly — poems up at fringe
288. steve russell — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature priz--response to Joel
289. Laura Wetherington — Announcing issue 4 of textsound
290. George Bowering — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature priz--response to Joel
291. Mark DuCharme — DuCharme & Wright October 26th

21 OCT 2009

292. David Kirschenbaum — NYC Tues./Boog City presents Peaches and Bats
293. Pam Brown — contacts for rosmarie waldrop, stacy doris ?
294. Will Larsen — Kevin Coval: an art+poetry workshop (Monday, 10/26, 7pm)
295. mIEKAL aND — Fwd: Fw: Louis Zukofsky is a first-rate arse
296. Adam Tobin — Re: Fwd: Fw: Louis Zukofsky is a first-rate arse
297. Alan Sondheim — Re: Fwd: Fw: Louis Zukofsky is a first-rate arse
298. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: Fw: Louis Zukofsky is a first-rate arse
299. patrick dunagan — Sunday Oct 26th 6pm @ Unnameable Books, Brooklyn
300. Jeffrey Side — John Siddique interview at The Argotist Online
301. Camille Martin — UK / Ireland reading series?
302. Pam Brown — thanks I have the emails
303. David-Baptiste Chirot — Kerouac died 40 years ago today
304. Scott Howard — Book Reviewer Sought
305. Catherine Daly — Re: Fw: Louis Zukofsky is a first-rate arse
306. Geoffrey Gatza — BlazeVOX [books] makes it into Poets & Writers !!!

22 OCT 2009

307. Jonathan Ball — Re: Fwd: Fw: Louis Zukofsky is a first-rate arse
308. amy king — SEAGUE this SATURDAY! Wagner and King invade Bob Holman's apartment!
309. amy king — Re: BlazeVOX [books] makes it into Poets & Writers !!!
310. Bobbie Lurie — Nobel Prize in 1964--response to Herta Mueller 2009 thread--to Steve
311. CA Conrad — poet Eileen Myles has...
312. Séamas Cain — ... at the cliffs of Moher
313. Skip Fox — Re: Fwd: Fw: Louis Zukofsky is a first-rate arse
314. Catherine Daly — Re: Fwd: Fw: Louis Zukofsky is a first-rate arse
315. Brian Cassidy, Bookseller ABAA — Berrigan Query
316. charles alexander — chax events & books
317. Poetry Project — Events at The Poetry Project

23 OCT 2009

318. Pam Brown — calling a book reviewer for Jacket magazine
319. David Kirschenbaum — Last Call to Advertise in Boog City 60
320. Grant Jenkins — Paul Zukofsky
321. Rachel Loden — Kate Greenstreet, Anna Leahy, & Rachel Loden in Santa Cruz
322. susan maurer — review of Perfect Dark ,Susan Maurer
323. { brad brace } — this way the year 2027
324. Francesco Levato — Exquisite: A Series of Corpses - Oct. 30th, Chicago
325. Sarah Sarai — 2 reviews: Blood Pudding's Juliet Cook; The Book of Practical Pussies (Lee An…
326. Sarah Sarai — erratum: it's Juliet Cook, not Julia {{{sigh}}}

24 OCT 2009

327. lily robert-foley — The newest hottest thing in cliterature and literary erotica.
328. steve russell — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature priz--response to Joel
329. Aryanil Mukherjee — Re: Paul Zukofsky

330. David-Baptiste Chirot — Re: Nobel Prize in 1964--response to Herta Mueller 2009 thread--to ...
331. Jason Quackenbush — Re: Paul Zukofsky
332. Robin Hamilton — Fw: Larrikin Poetry
333. Ruth Lepson — Re: Louis Zukofsky is a first-rate arse

25 OCT 2009

334. Al Filreis — Kelly Writers House on Facebook
335. David Chirot — Zero Poem: Visual Poetry score/Sound Poetry performance now on line at RUTub...
336. Country Valley — New broadsides from Country Valley Press
337. Tim Peterson — TENDENCIES: Poetics & Practice 10/29 - Salah, Glück, & Zolf
338. Steve Evans — Elizabeth Willis in UMaine NWS Thursday
339. peter ganick — Remove A Concept
340. Mathew Timmons — CREDIT by Mathew Timmons Now Out from Blanc Press!

26 OCT 2009

341. George Bowering — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature priz--response to Joel
342. Will Larsen — TODAY: Kevin Coval reading+workshop
343. Barbara Jane Reyes — Justin Chin, Sarah Gambito, Marianne Villanueva 11/07/09 @ 2 pm (SF)
344. Alan Sondheim — Carter/Sondheim at Phila. Magic Garden
345. David Giannini — Re: New broadsides from Country Valley Press
346. Paul Nelson — A Time Before Slaughter
347. Jennifer Karmin — 350 poems about climate change

27 OCT 2009

348. amy king — Re: New broadsides from Country Valley Press - According to some presses, only M...
349. Séamas Cain — ... two phantom objects
350. Halvard Johnson — Hamilton Stone Review, Issue 19, Fall 2009, Now Online!
351. Michael — Rockpile arrives in Washington
352. Bobby Baird — Recent Posts at Digital Emunction
353. Séamas Cain — ... to be entranced in Glasgow
354. crystal hoffman — Call For Papers: Association of Theatre in Higher Education 2010: "Women ...
355. Nate Pritts — H_NGM_N #9 is live!
356. Ken Chen — PAGE TURNER The Asian American Literary Festival
357. Intern AAWW — Nov 13 & 14 Asian American Literary Festival
358. Sarah Sarai — Re: Paul Zukofsky + Dr. King's children
359. Sarah Sarai — Jack Wiler, sad news
360. mIEKAL aND — tENTATIVELY, a cONVENIENCE: Multiple Projections: 1978 to 2009
361. Stephen Baraban — Zukofsky quoting Blake
362. Catherine Daly — Re: Paul Zukofsky + Dr. King's children
363. sandra de 1913 — 1913's newests: Issue 3 & READ & more!
364. Amanda Earl — AngelHousePress Essay # 9 by Phil Hall

28 OCT 2009

365. Chris Jones — Re: Off topic query -- The Poetics of Hate
366. Chris Jones — James Gleeson URL (Poetics of hate)
367. DAWN APRIL LONSINGER — Call for Hybrid and/or Collaborative Writing
368. John Perman — Idiolects of Silence
369. Rob McLennan — lake, oh pure contradiction
370. amy king — This Friday, October 30th @ 7 p.m. ~ Cara Benson, Elizabeth Bryant, Carla Drysd...
371. Hugh Behm-Steinberg — serendipity and webjournals
372. Nicholas Michael Ravnikar — Re: serendipity and webjournals
373. Chad Sweeney — Re: serendipity and webjournals

374. Samuel Wharton — Re: serendipity and webjournals
375. Cara Benson — Re: serendipity and webjournals
376. steve russell — Re: Herta Mueller wins 2009 Nobel literature priz--response to Joel
377. Stephen Vincent — Re: serendipity and webjournals
378. Murat Nemet-Nejat — Re: serendipity and webjournals
379. Camille Martin — new at Rogue Embryo
380. Mark Weiss — Re: Fwd: Fw: Louis Zukofsky is a first-rate arse
381. Michael Tod Edgerton — Re: serendipity and webjournals
382. Mark Weiss — Fwd: The Whole Island: Cuban Poetry Anthology (November 5)

29 OCT 2009

383. Andy Gricevich — Open Submissions for CANNOT EXIST
384. Grant Jenkins — serendipity and webjournals
385. Robert Dewhurst — cfp: HANNAH WEINER // WILD ORCHIDS
386. Jason Harmon — Re: serendipity and webjournals
387. Jim Andrews — Klee Flowers

1. Adam Katz

Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

Wed 30 Sep 2009

> What if one took the annoyed response to
> Johnson's DAY as exactly the reaction he wanted

Not to answer this question one way or another, but to point out that, were this reaction what he was going for, that still doesn't make it a "good" thing to have gone for. It may very well be, though. a

↑ Index

2. Michael Heller

Fwd: Replacement of garbled announcement--hope this is clearer. Apologies

Wed 30 Sep 2009

> ¥ P R O S E P R O S ¥
> hosted by Martha King & Elinor Nauen
>
> New venue! SIDEWALK CAFÉ New venue!
> Thursday, October 8, 2009
> 6:30 [boldly prompt!] to 8:30 p.m.
> 94 Avenue A at 6th Street
> [redacted]
> V or F train to Second Avenue stop (get off at > the front of the train at 1st Ave)
>
> Ekphrastic - Elastic - Fantastic
>
> Basil King – painter, poet. His recent books > are 77 Beasts: Basil King's Beastiary, mirage:
> a poem in 22 sections, and the chapbooks Twin > Towers and In the Fields Where Daffodils Grow > (both from his on-going project Learning to > Draw/A history). Baz may be the only living > person to have studied writing with Charles > Olson, Robert Duncan and Robert Creeley: the > result is sui generis. See spdbooks.org for titles.

Michael Heller – poet, essayist and critic. His recent books are Eschaton, a collection of poems and Marble Snows: Two Novellas. His fascinating Beckmann Variations (as in Max Beckmann) is forthcoming in 2010. Look for his books at saltpublishing.com, thing.net/~grist/ld/heller.htm or at good bookstores. Mike has also collaborated with the composer Ellen Fishman Johnson.
 * * The reading takes place in the welcoming backroom of the Sidewalk Cafe, famed for really great hamburgers, plus vegetarian fare (mmm, panini!) and all beverages. * * * Eat! Drink! Tip!*
We don't charge a cover, but we do pass the hat. All proceeds go to the readers.
For more information or to be added to (or dropped from) the e-mail list, contact <mailto:[redacted]>[redacted] or <mailto:[redacted]>[redacted]
NEXT Up, Thursday November 5: Joyce Johnson and pj borum.

Eschaton (new poems) Talisman House Publishers (2009) available at SPD, Greenfield Distribution (www.gfibooks.com), www. amazon.com and good bookstores. Two Novellas: Marble Snows & The Study (ahadada press 2009) available from SPD, amazon.com and from ahadadpress at http://www.ahadadabooks.com/content/view/162/41/ . Speaking The Estranged: Essays on the Work of George Oppen (2008); Uncertain Poetries: Essays on Poets, Poetry and Poetics (2005) and Exigent Futures: New and Selected Poems (2003) available at www.saltpublishing.com, amazon.com and good bookstores. Survey of work at http://www.thing.net/~grist/ld/heller.htm Collaborations with the composer Ellen Fishman Johnson at http://www.efjcomposer.com/EFJ/Collaborations.html Recordings at http://writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/x/Heller.html

Eschaton (new poems) Talisman House Publishers (2009) available at SPD, Greenfield Distribution (www.gfibooks.com), www. amazon.com and good bookstores. Two Novellas: Marble Snows & The Study (ahadada press 2009) available from SPD,

> amazon.com and from ahadadpress at
> http://www.ahadadabooks.com/content/view/162/41/.
> Speaking The Estranged: Essays on the Work of > George Oppen (2008); Uncertain Poetries: Essays
> on Poets, Poetry and Poetics (2005) and Exigent
> Futures: New and Selected Poems (2003) available
> at www.saltpublishing.com, amazon.com and good > bookstores. Survey of work at
> http://www.thing.net/~grist/ld/heller.htm
> Collaborations with the composer Ellen Fishman
> Johnson at
> http://www.efjcomposer.com/EFJ/Collaborations.html
> Recordings at http://writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/x/Heller.html

Eschaton (new poems) Talisman House Publishers
(2009) available at SPD, Greenfield Distribution
(www.gfibooks.com), www. amazon.com and good bookstores. Two Novellas: Marble Snows & The Study (ahadada press 2009) available from SPD,
amazon.com and from ahadadpress at
http://www.ahadadabooks.com/content/view/162/41/.
Speaking The Estranged: Essays on the Work of George Oppen (2008); Uncertain Poetries: Essays
on Poets, Poetry and Poetics (2005) and Exigent
Futures: New and Selected Poems (2003) available
at www.saltpublishing.com, amazon.com and good bookstores. Survey of work at
http://www.thing.net/~grist/ld/heller.htm
Collaborations with the composer Ellen Fishman
Johnson at
http://www.efjcomposer.com/EFJ/Collaborations.html
Recordings at http://writing.upenn.edu/pennsound/x/Heller.html

↑ Index

3. Jeffrey Side

Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

Wed 30 Sep 2009

Well said Bobby. You sum it up succinctly.

On Wed, 30 Sep 2009 09:28:05 -0700, Bobby Baird
<[redacted]> wrote:

>It's interesting, Jonathan, that you'd defend Goldsmith's DAY (and >dismiss Johnson's DAY) in the name of originality ("produced a rich >text, replete with previously dormant meaning"), when this is the >regime of value that Goldsmith explicitly and repeatedly rejects. (See >Goldsmith, internet, passim.) I presume that you, like many other >people, accept that rejection as a pose, a mere mockery of public >modesty, even though Goldsmith, apparently, does not see it that way.

>("In fact, every time I have to proofread [my books] before sending >them off to the publisher, I fall asleep repeatedly. You really don't >need to read my books to get the idea of what they're like; you just >need to know the general concept.")
>
>Or maybe you take Goldsmith's word for it that "In conceptual writing >the idea or concept is the most important aspect of the work. When an >author uses a conceptual form of writing, it means that all of the >planning and decisions are made beforehand and the execution is a >perfunctory affair." If that's the case, then tell me, please, what >makes Goldsmith's idea interesting? Given that the same idea has been >had, and executed, by thousands of others, including Richard Prince, >Sherri Levine, and anyone who's "written" a found poem, why should
we >see Goldsmith's project as any more or any less interesting than >Johnson's?
>
>But here's a thought: what if the dismissal of Kent's DAY as >"superficially interesting" was exactly the point of his project? I >don't say that it is; Kent can speak to that (or could, if he weren't >banned from this list, though I'm sure he'll find a way to participate >somehow). But what if? What if one took the annoyed response to >Johnson's DAY as exactly the reaction he wanted, since it proved the >fact--which you may take to be obvious, but which no one seems willing >to publicly acknowledge--that there is a bright line between the kind >of people whose uncreative writing allows them to reap every reward >the culture industry has to offer—publication, glossy magazine >interviews, fellowships and tenured academic positions--and those >whose identical uncreative writing gets them shunned as wannabes?
>And what if that bright line has nothing to do with the work, or the >ideas behind the work, and everything to do with the fact that one has >gone to the right schools, lived in the right cities, and licked the >right boots? I think you'd have to admit that it's a superficially >interesting thought, at the very least.
>

>Bobby
>
>
>++++++++
>
>Bobby Baird
>[redacted]
>http://www.digitalemunction.com
>
>
>
>On Mon, Sep 28, 2009 at 7:45 PM, Jonathan Ball
<[redacted]> wrote:
>> I presume the "blurbs" in support of Johnson's book are also appropriated or >> fabricated. This is a clever joke, but I don't see how it is conceptually >> interesting. Unlike Goldsmith's DAY, which recontextualized text in an
>> "uncreative" gesture (a Duchampian raising of "journalistic" prose into the >> realm of poetry), and thus produced a rich text, replete with previously >> dormant meaning, Johnson's DAY does little more than repeat the gesture, and >> thus the only significance it seems to hold is to question the validity of >> assigning such a work to any single, particular author, something already >> implicit in Goldsmith's project and only superficially interesting in the >> first place.
>>
>> --- Jonathan Ball
>>
>>
>

↑ Index

4. Jennifer Karmin

Oct 2 & 3: Links Hall 30-Hour Festival (Chicago)

Wed 30 Sep 2009

Links Hall 30th Anniversary Celebration!
Celebrate 30 years of performance arts innovation.
Experience 30 hours of continuous performance.

LINKS HALL
956 Newport St â€“ Chicago, IL
http://www.LinksHall.org

Begins Friday, October 2nd at 6pm with programming continuing nonstop through Saturday, October 3rd at midnight.

Festival Pass $30
Includes all performances, late night Poonieâ€™s Cabaret, independent film and dance for the camera series, sunrise Gong Wash Meditation, classes, lecture demonstrations, readings and fabulous parties. Also refreshments and discounted drinks.

Performances by Links Hall Alumni including:
Julia Rae Antonick, Ayako Kato and Friends, Blair Thomas and Company, Bootsy, Peter Carpenter, Asimina Chremos, Contact Improve Jam, John Corbett, Jan Erkert, Kristina Fluty, Carol Genetti, Gong Wash Meditation, Haptic, Carleene Healy, Hedwig Dances, Jâ€™Sun Howard, Jessica Hudson, Holly Hughes, Deeply Rooted Dance Theater, Jennifer Karmin, Jyldo, Maggie Kast, David Kodeski, LA Jesus, LezBoBo the Clown, Fred Lonberg-Holm, Lucky Plush Productions, Jenny Magnus, Julia Mayer , ChrisÂtopher M. McCray of Corpo Dance Company, Meredith Miller, Molly Shanahan/Mad Shak, Mordine and Company Dance Theatre, Erica Mott, The Moving Architects, Beau Oâ€™Reilly, Dimitri Peskov, Poonieâ€™s Cabaret, Annie Rudnik, Joseph St. Charles, Same Planet Different World Dance Theatre, Nana Shineflug, Mattrick Swayze, Synpse Arts Collective, Tila Von Twirl, Rita Warford, Edward Wilkerson and Michael Zerang.

With a special guest appearance by Links Hall founders
Bob Eisen and Charlie Vernon

Buy Ticket Now!
http://www.brownpapertickets.com/producerevent/77751?prod_id=9541

See the website for additional perks and information about your pass. Please note performances are first come first serve, please arrive early to secure your seat. Links Hall is a second floor walk up--there is no escalator or elevator. For more information please call [redacted]

FRIDAY HIGHLIGHTS

6:00pm Launch Party at the Underground Lounge ~ (formerly Lower Links) with special guest artists Synapse Arts Collective

8:00pm Friday Prime Time
Michael Zerang, emcee
Beau Oâ€™Reilly & Jenny Magnus
Bob Eisen â€¢ Spoken word
Dmitri Peskov â€¢ Falling Man (world premiere)
Julia Rae Antonick, Carleen Healy and Joseph St. Charles David Kodeski â€¢ I Thought I Wanted to be a Librarian
Asimina Chremos
Deeply Rooted Productions â€¢ Somewhere
Jennifer Karmin with NoÃ© CuÃ©llar, Kathleen Duffy, David Emanuel, Amira Hanafi, Coman Poon & a few surprises â€¢ Aaaaaaaaaaalice
Blair Thomas and Company â€¢ St. James Infirmary
Charlie Vernon

11:00pm Poonieâ€™s Cabaret hosted & curated by Jyldo
featuring Bootsy, LezBoBo the Clown, Mattrick Swayze & Tila Von Twirl

12:00am DJ LA Jesus
Saves the Dance Floor

3:00am Film Screening Slumber Party curated by Sarah Best featuring Breakbone Dance , Hedwig Dances, Mordine & Company Dance Theatre, Nadia Oussenko, SPDW Dance Theatre with Colleen Halloran, Sheldon & Lisa Smith and others

SATURDAY HIGHLIGHTS

6:00am Gong Labyrinth: Suite for Dreamers
by Shu Shubat & Oliver Seay (of Jellyeye) with storytelling by Chicago actors Alex Balestrieri and Kasey Foster Bring your blankets, pillows, and cushy mats! The Gong Labyrinth is a 90 minute vibratory structure of sound and story, designed to bridge the gap between dreaming and waking while night blooms into morning.

7:30am Outdoor Cafe opens on Newport Avenue with classes, street and roof performers, readings, and much more throughout the day--watch for J'Sun Howard, Erica Mott, Roxy Cardgame, Nicholas, Warner & Assoc. and Annie Peacenik.

8:30am Morning Tai Chi Chuan
in the Outdoor Cafe with Peter and Hau Cum

9:30am Coffee Dance
with Julia Mayer

10:30am Contact Improv Jam

12:00pm Open Workshops with Jan Erkert and Ayako Kato

2:00pm Tai Chi Chuan

3:00pm Dance Matine
Charlie Vernon, emcee
Ayako Kato and Friends
Lucky Plush Productions
Nana Shineflug
Hedwig Dances
Same Planet Different World Dance Theater
Christopher McCray of Corpo Dance Company
Celia and Christian Bambara Dance Project
Ayako Kato and Friends â€¢ Art Union Humanscape Lucky Plush Productions â€¢ Memory Mash (excerpt from Punk Yankees)
Nana Shineflug â€¢ "Shimmering on the Edge", "Begin" and "a heart, three trees and a brown dress" (an intersection)
Hedwig Dances â€¢ Moi, Aussi
Same Planet Different World Dance Theater â€¢ Sextet
Christopher McCray of Corpo Dance Company â€¢ Gaslight Sonnets
Celia and Christian Bambara Dance Project

5:00pm Party at The Yard with special guest artist Adam Rose

6:00pm Street Performance
Jennifer Karmin â€¢ 4000 Words 4000 Dead

7:00pm Saturday Prime Time
Charlie Vernon, emcee
Edward Wilkerson and Rita Warford â€¢ Zora, Alas Our Eyes Are Watching Meredith Miller â€¢ Burlesque Interludes
Molly Shannahan/Mad Shak
Darrell Jones and Lisa Gonzales
HAPTIC â€¢ Untitled composition for percussion and sine tones
Mordine & Company Dance Theatre â€¢ New Ground
The Moving Architects â€¢ The New Peter Carpenter â€¢ My Fellow Americans (excerpt)

Charlie Vernon
Bob Eisen & Friends â€¢ B & B #1

10:00pm Celebration Cocktail Party with DJ John Corbett

↑ Index

5. Ruth Lepson

Re: Big Bridge

Wed 30 Sep 2009

---

finally getting to this issue of big bridge & just want to say it's worth getting into--esp slow poetry (worth considering as the conceptual poetry discussion goes on lately) & the Oppen section. burt kimmelman's piece in jacket & michael heller's as always illuminating excerpt are cases in point.

On 7/31/09 8:07 PM, "Eric Hoffman" <[redacted]> wrote:

> http://www.bigbridge.org/index3
> The new Big Bridge is now on-line:
>
> http://www.bigbridge.org/index3.htm
>
> As you can see from the contents below, it's a pretty incredible body of material, and I'm honored to have the George Oppen special feature included among such a stellar gathering.
>
> Hope this finds you well,
> Eric Hoffman
>
> CHAPBOOK:
> A Time in Fragments
> Poem by Clark Coolidge; Drawings by Nancy Victoria Davis
>
> _____
>
> FEATURES, 1
>
> Slow Poetry
> Edited by Dale Smith
> One of the most refreshing and promising developments in poetry in recent years,
> Slow Poetry does not propose another sectarian or clique position, but rather methods of reading and attitudes toward production which could apply to most genres in the current scene or likely to emerge in the near future. The approach has a strong base in concepts and needs made more apparent than ever by current ecological and economic concerns.

Beauty Came Groveling Forward:
Selected South African Poems and Stories
edited by Gary Cummiskey
This collection was meant to show the diversity and spirited character of current South African writing. It contains work by some celebrated writers, and some whose work has not received wide circulation even in its home country. Without the problems caused by canon formation or trying to be totally comprehensive, this group of poems and stories is free to work outside the stereotypes and preconceptions of South Africa and allow the participants to show what they can do as individuals.

All This Strangeness:
A Garland for George Oppen
Edited by Eric Hoffman
Commentary on Oppen has grown slowly, unobtrusively, and steadily, until it now forms a major body in itself. This collection of essays evaluates that body of criticism in less partisan terms than many of its predecessors, seeking to focus on individual poems and prosody in a broad historical context, going beyond the dichotomies that dominated the 20th Century and making room for further types of relevance in current literary and social dispensations.

Sephardic Proverbs
Collected and translated by Michael Castro
Proverbs act on many of the same principles as other miniatures, such as haiku. Like stand-alone couplets and quatrains used in everything from toasts to insults, they also include a strong element of collaboration and evolution. As a look at a tradition or a type of poem, this collection can stay with a reader a long time.

Post-Beat Anthology
Reprint from the Chinese anthology, with brief intro
Edited by Vernon Frazer

How would you edit a collection of poems with that title for a Chinese audience? Probably not the same way Frazer has. That's one of the things that makes it interesting and refreshing.

as per Le Roman de la Rose, for example
An Anthology of Middle East Genocide Edited by Arpine Konyalian Grenier
How does the cruel and unusual work for you through art, whether it comes from direct experience or direct/indirect memory. Be Genet, for example; lemon to lemonade, for example. How does one turn to Le Roman de la Rose (a Middle Ages Poem) when one is mired in or sorting out or faced with what happened or what is happening that is cruel and unusual due to human intolerance: racial religious cultural gender related and other.

Charles Olson and the Nature of Destructive Humanism
by Craig Stormont

One Man Blues:
Remembering Thomas Chapin
Reminiscence by Vernon Frazer

Excerpt from Autobiography
by David Bromige

The India Journals
by John Brandi

Genius and Heroin:
by Michael Largo
In this essay, the author reviews his own book. The themes of psycho-chemistry may stretch back to pristine civilizations in China, Egypt, and Mexico, but they seem inexhaustible.
Perhaps associate chemicals with genius is because our brains produce such sophisticated bases to start with, and self-review also finds a base in that phenomenon.

WAR PAPERS (3)
Poems and essays against war.
Sub-features by John Bradley, Joel Lewis, Philip Metres, Vincent Katz, Francesco Levato, and Louise Landes Levi, plus reflections from around the world on the election of Barack Obama,
and, of course, Halvard Johnson's continuing anthology of anti-war poems.

A Retrospective of the Publication Work of Karl Young

FEATURES, 2 &mdash ONGOING:
ROCKPILE
ROCKPILE is a collaboration between David Meltzer ‹ poet, musician, essayist, and more ‹ and Michael Rothenberg of Big Bridge Press. David and Michael will journey through eight cities in the U.S. to perform poetry and prose, composed while on the road, with local musicians and artists in each city. ROCKPILE will serve to educate and preserve as well as to create a history of collaboration. It will help to reinforce the tradition of the troubadour of all generations, central to the cultural upheaval and identity politics that reawakened poets, artists, musicians, and songwriters in the mid-1960s through the 1970s.
The project will end with a final multimedia performance in San Francisco.
Check out the ROCKPILE Blog for calendar and discussion!

Still Comming to Big Bridge this Year:
FEATURES, 3

Big Bridge New Orleans Sturm und Drang Anthology
edited by Dave Brinks and Bill Lavender
Introductory notes for work by 30 artists and 90 writers whose work will double the size of this issue when it appears at the end of summer.

Perfiles de la Noche / Profiles of Night
Mujeres poetas de Venezuela/Women Poets of Venezuela
A Selection from the Bi-lingual Anthology
Original complete text selected and translated by Rowena Hill
Co-edited by Pen de Venezuela and bid & co.
Selection for online edition by Terri Carrion
Poetry by
María Auxiliadora Álvarez, Edda Armas, Enriqueta Arvelo Larriva,
María calcaño, Laura Cracco, Ida Gramcko, Patricia Guzmán, Veronica Jaffe,
Maritza Jiménez, Rowena Hill, Martha Kornblith, Luz machado, María Isabel Novillo,
Cecilia Ortiz, Hanni Ossott, Yolanda Pantin, Emira Rodríguez, Margara Russotto,
María Clara Salas, Elizabeth Schön, Blanca Strepponi, Ana Enriqueta Terán,

Alicia Torres, Elena Vera, Carmen Verde Arocha, Miyo Vestrin

A Tri-lingual Anthology of Galician Writers
Compiled, edited, and translated from Galician to Spanish by F.R. Lavandeira.
Translated from Spanish to English by Terri Carrion.
Poetry and Prose by
A.Nerium, María do Cebreiro, Estíbaliz Espinosa, Miro Villar, Olga Novo, F.R Lavandeira, Antón Riveiro Coello, Anxos Sumai, Diego Ameixeiras, Inma López Silva,

---

ART Enigmas
paintings by Jim Spitzer
As a regular contributor to Big Bridge, these paintings, variations on an enigmatic theme, show Spitzer's continuing evolution, as well as being koan-like meditations in their own right.

The Kingdom of Madison:
Photographs from Madison County, North Carolina
by Rob Amberg
Selections from three sets of photos, exploring a still relatively isolated place, where landscape still has functional meaning. When Amberg arrived, not as a tourist, but as one seeking community "Planting was still done by the signs of the moon. Water came from springs and heat from forests" and traditional music still part of daily life. These photos add to the tradition begun in the WPA projects of the Great Depression, but decidedly retain an identity of their own.

These Are My Angels
by Tasha Robbins
Small paintings done in Brooklyn on found cardboard by one of the Post-Katrina diaspora. Celebrating the C-Train stop at Franklin + Fulton Avenues, as the artist writes, they "kept my heart, eye + hand moving with a spirit of life close to the timbre and vibration of the Crescent City, still healing. . .

Lectura en Tránsito
Project Created and Directed by Carmen Gloria Berríos
Set based on combination of public art and poetry from Santiago de Chile.
Poems translated by Terri Carrion and Carmen Gloria Berríos.

Animal Night Photography
by Felicia Murray; notes by Louise Landes Levi
New techniques in photography allow us to make photographic images of phenomena
we could only imagine in previous eras. We might debate whether the nature of cameras and software brings us any closer to the spiritual world, but these haunting images of animals should make us feel less alone, and more in touch with the continuum of life.

12 Collages
by John Brandi
These colages can be read as a non-verbal counterpart and extension of his India Journal
and related work.

FICTION

Fiction by
Mel Freilicher, Eric Beeny, Stefani Christova, Lynda Schor, David Madgalene, Stephen-Paul Martin, Mark Wallace, Susan Smith Nash, Kirpal gordon, Richard Martin, Peter Conners, Ann Bogle, Jeffrey Hansen, Carol Novack

---

REVIEWS

Reviews of:
Wanda Phipps, Lewis Warsh, Simon Pettet, Larissa Shmailo, Bobbie Louise Hawkins, Ed Sanders,
Bill Berkson, Colter Jacobsen, Mark Young, John Roche, Philip Gounis, Rich Kruse, Michael Rumaker, Annie Le Brun, George Kimball, and Ashis Gupta.
Reviewed by:
Kirpal Gordon; Svitlana Matviyenko, Garry Parrish, Jackie Sheeler, Jim Feast, Allan Graubard,
Charles Thorne, Barbara Henning, Tom Hibbard, Steve Elmer, Stephen Lewandowski
Joe Wetteroth, Vernon Frazer, Leverett T. Smith, and Katherine Hastings.

> LITTLE MAGS
>
> Plastic Ocean
> Green Dragon
> Untamed Ink

↑ Index

6. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Wed 30 Sep 2009

How come when Goldsmith copies the entire New York Times, he is a conceptual artist; but if one copied the whole text of a Paul Auster novel, for example, one will be hit with a law suit? Doesn't such a conceptual work depend upon the economic "valuelessness" of the first text in question? What does that say about conceptual gesture of copying as a critical gesture? But, if the person is ready to go to jail for his or for gesture, now that would be conceptual art.

Ciao,

Murat

On Wed, Sep 30, 2009 at 3:26 PM, Skip Fox <[redacted]> wrote:

> For aesthetic judgment, have we gone from "newness is value" (Christian Bok)
> to "newness is the major, perhaps only, value" (which is what Bok implies when speaking of Goldsmith)? That's where it slips for me.

↑ Index

7. Tribbey, Hugh R.
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Wed 30 Sep 2009

Skip, Maybe awfulness is more interesting than "aesthetic judgment"--& I'm addressing the issue here & not "passing judgment" on the 2 works. Release awfulness & let its spawn spread through the streets like so many shiny beetles.

-----Original Message-----
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Skip Fox
Sent: Wednesday, September 30, 2009 2:27 PM

To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

For aesthetic judgment, have we gone from "newness is value" (Christian Bok)
to "newness is the major, perhaps only, value" (which is what Bok implies when speaking of Goldsmith)? That's where it slips for me.

↑ Index

8. Ryan Daley
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson . . . The Next Generation . . .
Wed 30 Sep 2009

And then: NYTimes Editors group to retype DAY...each day...for a year.

On Wed, Sep 30, 2009 at 3:22 PM, Skip Fox <[redacted]> wrote:

> The next logical step is a text titled _Daze_ containing both Goldsmith and Johnson ("author" must retype each, of course).

↑ Index

9. Daniel Godston
Chicago Calling at Elastic
Wed 30 Sep 2009

CHICAGO CALLING ARTS FESTIVAL EVENT

AT ELASTIC SOUND & VISION GALLERY

Saturday, October 3, 2009 (6 p.m.-midnight)

Elastic Sound & Vision Gallery

You are invited to attend this Chicago Calling event, which includes and poetry readings and musical performances, and Vibrational Sound Narratives, a collection of artworks by Alpha Bruton.

A gallery opening for Ms. Bruton's Vibrational Sound Narratives begins at 6 p.m. It features a performance with David Boykin (reeds, percussion) and Una MacGlone (upright bass). The gallery opening is free and open to the public.

Performances and projects beginning at 8 p.m. ($15 admission) --

* Amie Sell -- "TEXTAPORT Teleporting a Mystery Object Through Words"

* Wayne Allen Jones (Chicago) and Duane Vorhees (Bangkok) -- poetry collaboration

* Bauhaus9090 performance

* Satya Alliance (Satya Gummuluri (voice), Douglas Brush (percussion), Dan Godston (trumpet), and Alex Wing (upright bass)). This performance includes poetry by Divik Ramesh (New Delhi), Elizebeth Varghese (Bombay/NYC), and Aaron Salles Torres (Brazil/Chicago).

* Jamie Kazay -- poetry

* Eric Elshtain (Chicago) and Gregory Fraser (Georgia) -- poetry collaboration

* Trio with Gino Robair (percussion / Oakland), Andrew Royal (violins / Chicago), and Aaron Zarzutzki (electronics / Chicago)

$12 admission

Elastic Sound & Vision Gallery

2830 N. Milwaukee Ave., 2nd floor

Chicago, IL 60647

[redacted]

http://www.chicagocalling.org

http://www.elasticrevolution.com/

↑ Index

10. Carol Novack

Mad Hatters' Review Poetry, Prose, and Anything Goes Reading; Phoenix Reading

Thu 1 Oct 2009

---

*Friday, October 2nd, 7:00 â€“ 9:00 pm at the KGB Bar, NYC, 85 E 4thStreet  (between Bowery & Second): *

Mad Hattersâ€™ Review Poetry, Prose, and Anything Goes Reading featuring:

Karen Garthe, whose poetry has appeared in numerous journals including Lana Turner, Chicago Review, New American Writing, American Letters Commentary, VOLT, Denver Quarterly, Colorado Review, POOL, and Court Green. Her book Frayed escort won the 2005 Colorado Prize judged by Cal Bedient. She lives and works in New York City. Karen served briefly as a poetry editor for Mad Hattersâ€™ Review and will have poems in the forthcoming Mad Bunkers Mash issue.

Jefferson Hansen is a graduate of the Poetics Program at SUNY-Buffalo, where he worked with Robert Creeley and Charles Bernstein. His most recent work is a novel, And Beefheart Saved Craig (BlazeVox) experiments radically with typography and visuals. He also has a poetry book coming out soon, *Jazz

Forms* (Blue Lion). A number of journals â€” such as *The Mad Hattersâ€™ Review, Sulfur, Denver Quarterly, and Big Bridge â€” *have published his stories and poems. He also runs a blog that focuses on interviews, reviews, and literary commentary (http:/ [redacted]). Jefferson lives in Minneapolis with his wife Elizabeth Burns, a novelist, his daughters Cecilia and Molly, and their dog Victor.

Erica Plouffe Lazure, the 2009 George Bennett Writer in Residence at Phillips Exeter Academy in New Hampshire. She is a graduate of Bennington Collegeâ€™s Writing Seminars, and until recently had lived and worked as a writer and writing teacher at East Carolina University in Greenville, North Carolina. In addition to Mad Hattersâ€™ Review, her work has appeared in McSweeneyâ€™s Quarterly, North Carolina Literary Review, Smokelong Quarterly, Keyhole, and elsewhere.

M.E. Parker, an obscure fiction writer in Texas who aspires to one day be a card-carrying member of his local Card Carrier Society. In the mean time, his short fiction has recently surfaced or is scheduled to see daylight in numerous print publications and Internet haunts including 42 Opus, Alimentum, Barnstorm, The Briar Cliff Review, Electric Velocipede, The MacGuffin, Night Train, and Red Fez. www.meparker.com

---

SUNDAY October 4th, 2009, 5:30 pm
Phoenix Reading Series @ Bengal Curry, trendy Tribeca, NYC (hot hot hot!)
Curator: George Spencer
I will read chutney with Charles Butler and Fred Dasig.
Bengal Curry
65 West Broadway

Take the 1, 2, 3, A, C, or E trains to Chambers Street
1 1â„2 blocks below Chambers St

--

MAD HATTERS' REVIEW: edgy & enlightened art, literature, & music in the Age of Dementia: http://www.madhattersreview.com

↑ Index

11. Nico Vassilakis

SubText Seattle: David Buuck & Joel Felix: 10/7/09

Thu 1 Oct 2009

---

for more info:

http://subtextreadingseries.blogspot.com/

thanks for your time,

n

_____ Hotmail® has ever-growing storage! Don’t worry about storage limits.
http://windowslive.com/Tutorial/Hotmail/Storage?ocid=TXT_TAGLM_WL_HM_Tutorial_Storage_062009

↑ Index

12. Jeffrey Side
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Thu 1 Oct 2009

Yes, there seems to be a fetish for the new, as opposed for what is interesting. I think that this is damaging to creativity, in that it doesn't allow time for a gestation fo the new, before the next new thing is sought.

On Wed, 30 Sep 2009 14:26:49 -0500, Skip Fox
<[redacted]> wrote:

>For aesthetic judgment, have we gone from "newness is value"
(Christian Bok)
>to "newness is the major, perhaps only, value" (which is what Bok implies
>when speaking of Goldsmith)? That's where it slips for me.
>

↑ Index

13. Joel Weishaus
"The Gateless Gate." Pages 35-36
Thu 1 Oct 2009

Dear Friends and Colleagues:

Here are pages 35-36 of "The Gateless Gate":
http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/Gate/Pgs%2035-36.htm

Mirror site: http://www.cddc.vt.edu/host/weishaus/Gate/Pgs%2035-36.htm

The Introduction has been slightly revised:
http://web.pdx.edu/~pdx00282/Gate/Intro.htm

Thank you to those of you who have written to me on this project. If you don't want to receive these notices, please let me know, and I will delete your name from the list.

-Joel

↑ Index

14. Patrick F. Durgin

Dorantes, Solo?rzano, Hofer, Durgin, & Mohammad in Milwaukee, WI

Thu 1 Oct 2009

Patrick Durgin, Jen Hofer, and K. Silem Mohammad, Sunday, October 18, 2009.

Poetry Reading 2:00 p.m. Woodland Pattern (http://www.woodlandpattern.org/)

* * * *

Dolores Dorantes and Laura Solo?rzano, visiting poets from Mexico and English-language translator and poet, Jen Hofer, October 20, 2009

Poetry Translation Workshop 2:00-3:30 p.m. Curtin Hall, Room 368, University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee.

Bilingual Poetry Reading 7:00 p.m. Greene Hall - Free and Open to the Public, University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee.

Presented by the Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies (CLACS), the Roberto Herna?ndez Center, the Creative Writing Program and the Spanish Department.

↑ Index

15. Jonathan Ball

Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

Thu 1 Oct 2009

Bobby, I think you've put your finger on something --- regardless of Goldsmith's stance, I disagree with a basic tenant of conceptualist art, that the concept is everything, or "the charge [is] in the concept" as Mairéad more elegantly puts it. The facility of the execution and the richness of the end result maintain their lustre, and I think it is a mistake for Goldsmith and his ilk to eschew these "traditional" values in a fetishization of newness that belies the facility and the poetic richness of their works. For all of Goldsmith's boisterous contempt for originality, he is producing original texts that are worth reading. That's right ... Kenny Goldsmith's books are WORTH READING. Appropriation and recontextualization is old hat, as you say, insofar as artistic tactics are concerned, but old though they may be these tactics can still produce good work. In short, I disagree with Goldsmith and consider a text like DAY both readable and interesting, full of poetic richness. Johnson's DAY is not as interesting to me because it is a perfect example of the kind of empty conceptualism which Goldsmith CLAIMS to practice, when in fact his writing is more interesting than his soundbites regarding same. Of course, since the texts are identical, Johnson's book is just as "rich" as Kenny's. But where Kenny produced a "uncreative" and yet, in another sense, "original" poetic text through the application of an artistic technique, Johnson is merely satirizing Goldsmith's pose.

Jonathan

Or maybe you take Goldsmith's word for it that "In conceptual writing the idea or concept is the most important aspect of the work. When an author uses a conceptual form of writing, it means that all of the planning and decisions are made beforehand and the execution is a perfunctory affair." If that's the case, then tell me, please, what makes Goldsmith's idea interesting? Given that the same idea has been had, and executed, by thousands of others, including Richard Prince, Sherri Levine, and anyone who's "written" a found poem, why should we see Goldsmith's project as any more or any less interesting than Johnson's?

But here's a thought: what if the dismissal of Kent's DAY as "superficially interesting" was exactly the point of his project? I don't say that it is; Kent can speak to that (or could, if he weren't banned from this list, though I'm sure he'll find a way to participate somehow). But what if? What if one took the annoyed response to Johnson's DAY as exactly the reaction he wanted, since it proved the fact--which you may take to be obvious, but which no one seems willing to publicly acknowledge--that there is a bright line between the kind of people whose uncreative writing allows them to reap every reward the culture industry has to offer—publication, glossy magazine interviews, fellowships and tenured academic positions--and those whose identical uncreative writing gets them shunned as wannabes? And what if that bright line has nothing to do with the work, or the ideas behind the work, and everything to do with the fact that one has gone to the right schools, lived in the right cities, and licked the right boots? I think you'd have to admit that it's a superficially interesting thought, at the very least.

Bobby

↑ Index

16. Jeffrey Side

Charles Bernstein enters Johnson/Goldsmith Day debate

Thu 1 Oct 2009

There has been a new development in the Johnson/Goldsmith debate. Charles Bernstein notified me to say that he had reproduced, in 2006, Kenny’s ‘Weather’ in full:

http://epc.buffalo.edu/authors/bernstein/blog/archive/weather.html

The inference being that Kent's doing the same with Day is passe. In response to this new development Kent says:

‘Fascinating!

There is an important difference, though. Bernstein announces that the work is by Goldsmith, and he seems to add his name in a playful sort of gesture, a kind of "afterthought" beneath "Kenny Goldsmith's The Weather." It's a "half-hearted" ironic tweak, so to speak.

I'm not doing that. I'm erasing Goldsmith's name and affirming myself as the book's Author! I'm affirming (sardonic though the affirmation is) the book as my "property." Which is to say that the category of Authorship is bracketed in uncomfortable sorts of ways.

Feel free to send this on to Charles.’

Which I did. I won’t quote Charles’s full response as I haven’t got his permission to do so. But he said that he used his version of ‘Weather’ in teaching a course on Goldsmith. And said the piece ‘seemed more fresh three or four year ago’

Kenny’s response to this is:

‘I think you need to spread this all over the place, Jeffrey. It takes the whole discussion into a new area. Please quote my letter if you do so at Poetics and your blog. There is simply no comparison.

Charles always needs to be first! (note the hilarious remark about how it seemed "more fresh three or four years ago"!)’

Which is why I’m posting it here.

↑ Index

17. David Kirschenbaum
Advertise in Boog City 60
Thu 1 Oct 2009

Please forward

Advertise in

Boog City 60

featuring Urban Folk 22

Deadlines

—Space Reservations-Email to reserve ad space ASAP

—Tues. Nov. 3-Submit Ad or Ad Materials
—Wed. Nov. 11-Distribute Paper

This is a quick note to see if you'd like to advertise and reach our readership. (Donations are also cool, way cool.)

We'll be distributing 2,250 copies of the issue throughout the East Village and other parts of lower Manhattan; Williamsburg and Greenpoint, Brooklyn; and at Boog City events.

Advertise your small press's newest publications, your own titles or upcoming readings, or maybe salute an author you feel people should be reading, with a few suggested books to buy. And musical acts, advertise your new albums, indie labels your new releases.

Take advantage of our indie discount ad rate. We are once again offering a 50% discount on our 1/8-page ads, cutting them from $80 to $40. The discount rate also applies to larger ads.

For our full rate card, please visit:

http://welcometoboogcity.com/ad_rates.pdf

Email [redacted] or call 212-842-BOOG (2664) for more information.

as ever,
David

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W. 28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)

↑ Index

18. Scott Howard
Book Reviewers Sought
Thu 1 Oct 2009

RECONFIGURATIONS: A Journal for Poetics & Poetry / Literature & Culture, ISSN: 1938-3592, http://reconfigurations.blogspot.com/

. . . is looking for writers to review these books:

* Jean Daive. Under the Dome: Walks with Paul Celan. Trans. Rosmarie Waldrop. Burning Deck, 2009. [Literary Non-fiction; Memoir].

* Michael Gizzi. New Depths of Deadpan. Burning Deck, 2009.

* Andrew Zawacki. Petals of Zero / Petals of One. Talisman House, 2009.

We usually ask for book reviews to be between 1,000 and 1,500 words in length. Manuscripts will be due November six.

RECONFIGURATIONS is an open-access, peer-reviewed, MLA-indexed and EBSCO distributed electronic journal for poetics and poetry, creative and scholarly writing, innovative and traditional concerns with literary arts and cultural studies.

If you're interested in writing one or more of these book reviews, reply to:
[redacted]

///

↑ Index

19. Poetry Project

Upcoming Events at The Poetry Project

Thu 1 Oct 2009

This is what¹s coming up at The Poetry Project.

Also, Brandon Brown has written his first blog post for us. Check it out here: http://poetryproject.org/project-blog. And soon we¹ll be featuring some new poems from Macgregor Card and Claire Becker here: http://poetryproject.org/featured-content/poems.

Friday, October 2, 10 PM
Vibrant Futures: Episode Two

Vibrant Futures, directed by Robin Schavoir and Lea Cetera, is a fictional mini-series about a tree-dwelling community living in giant redwoods that experiences a rebirth of consciousness. Originally written and conceived as a five hour long film, it has been subdivided into an episodic miniseries being produced and released in consecutive order. Episode One, the 55 minute pilot, was completed in September of 2008, and was screened at Guild and Greyshkul Gallery, NYC. To view Episode One, and learn more about this project please visit vibrantfuturesmovie.com.

Vibrant Futures: Episode Two is the second installment of this five part miniseries. Watch as Trey solves the mystery of Lucy¹s hat, Carl shows off his scatting skills and Moonface is visited by her old love. Approx. running time: 60 min.

Robin Schavoir is a Belgian-born artist. He attended the Cooper Union School of Art, and the Longy School of Music in Boston. He now lives and works in New York City.

Lea Marie Cetera is a New York City based artist. She was born in Brooklyn, NY and received her B.F.A from the Cooper Union School of Art in 2005. She is the co-founder and director of the experimental puppetry collaborative, IMAGINATIONEXPLOSION.

Monday, October 5, 8 PM
Open Reading

Sign-in at 7:45 pm.

Wednesday, October 7, 8 PM
Naked Lunch at 50

William S. BurroughsŒ Naked Lunch was first published in Paris in July 1959. To mark this golden anniversary, the Poetry Project will inaugurate the New York portion of an international series of festivities with a group reading of Burroughs¹ masterwork. Join Eric Andersen, John Giorno, Jan Herman, Thurston Moore, Genesis Breyer P-Orridge, Simon Pettet, Jürgen Ploog, Anne Waldman, Nick Zedd, and more TBA in paying tribute to the book that Allen Ginsberg described as ³the endless novel which will drive everybody mad.² There will be a series of Kate Simon¹s photographs of WSB digitally projected during break, and a segment of the film Nova Express by Andre Perkowski will be shown as a prelude to the reading. This reading will be hosted by Keith Seward.

This event will take place in the Sanctuary.

Friday, October 9, 10 PM
Josef Kaplan & Jarrod Fowler

Josef Kaplan¹s work has appeared, or is forthcoming, in Sprung Formal, Model Homes, Lana Turner, mid)rib, NAP and the West Wind Review. He edits Sustainable Aircraft, an online journal of mostly critical writing on contemporary poetry, and lives in Brooklyn.

Jarrod Fowler is a conceptual percussionist with a focus around rhythm. In his work, he activates sources in order to emphasize their percussive and rhythmic forces and processes. These works may be presented in the form of documents or site specific happenings. He is the author of Translation As Rhythm (Errant Bodies) and Œpercussion¹ as percussion (PLE).

Become a Poetry Project Member! http://poetryproject.org/become-a-member

Calendar: http://www.poetryproject.org/program-calendar

The Poetry Project is located at St. Mark's Church-in-the-Bowery
131 East 10th Street at Second Avenue
New York City 10003
Trains: 6, F, N, R, and L.
[redacted]
www.poetryproject.org

Admission is $8, $7 for students/seniors and $5 for members (though now those who take out a membership at $95 or higher will get in FREE to all regular readings).

We are wheelchair accessible with assistance and advance
notice. For more info call [redacted].

If you¹d like to be unsubscribed from this mailing list, please drop a line at [redacted].

↑ Index

20. Jonathan Ball
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Thu 1 Oct 2009

I want to say that I'm not annoyed by Johnson's DAY. I am new to this list and don't really know who Johnson is, he seems to have a longer history with this list (somebody mentioned that he was banned from it, for reasons I don't know about). I think his project is intended as a joke, but since it is being presented and supported by some as serious work, I just want to talk about whether or not it stands or falls as serious work. It certainly succeeds as a joke.

On Wed, Sep 30, 2009 at 2:34 PM, Adam Katz <[redacted]> wrote:

> What if one took the annoyed response to
> Johnson's DAY as exactly the reaction he wanted
>
> Not to answer this question one way or another, but to point out that, were
> this reaction what he was going for, that still doesn't make it a "good" > thing to have gone for. It may very well be, though.
> a

--
Dr. Jonathan Ball, Ph.D. (English)
Sessional Instructor

University of Manitoba
University of Winnipeg

www.jonathanball.com

“If someone tells you writing is easy, he is either lying or I hate him.” -- Farley Mowat

↑ Index

21. Mark DuCharme

REMINDER: Collom & Catanzano, Stratford Park Reading Series, October 8th

Thu 1 Oct 2009

Please join us at the STRATFORD PARK READING SERIES for an evening of poetry featuring JACK COLLOM & AMY CATANZANO.

It all happens THURSDAY, OCTOBER 8th at 7:30 p.m.

Address: 3030 O’NEAL PARKWAY, Boulder, Colorado
(across the street from Naropa University’s Paramita campus & the Boulder Cork restaurant)

http://www.mapquest.com/maps?city=Boulder&state=CO&address=3030+O’neal+Parkway&zipcode=80301

A Donation is requested— but All are welcome!

A reception will follow the reading

§

DIRECTIONS: O’Neal Parkway is off 30th Street in north Boulder between Valmont & Iris. Turn East at the signs for STRATFORD PARK WEST. The community house is the one-story building with a fence leading down to the street, half a block from 30th. Please park ONLY on O’Neal Parkway, O’Neal Circle, or in VISITOR spaces in the Stratford Park West lots. Please do not park in any other nearby lots. Thank you.

§

Jack Collom was born in Chicago in 1931. He studied Forestry at Colorado A&M College and has been a birdwatcher since boyhood. His poetry (23 books) is notable for its formal and informal variety. Collom has collaborated extensively with other poets (especially Lyn Hejinian) and with musicians, visual artists, friends, passersby, and schoolchildren. Teachers and Writers has published three books of and about his work with children. Perhaps his chief study for many years has been the collaborative possibilities between poetry and nature. In spring 2008 he was a plenary speaker on this topic at the "Poetic Ecologies"

Conference in Brussels. He has been awarded two Poetry Fellowships by the National Endowment for the Arts and is working on a ridiculously large ms. called "Second Nature." Collom is married to writer Jennifer Heath.

Amy Catanzano is the author of Multiversal (Fordham University Press, 2009), selected by Michael Palmer for the Poets Out Loud Prize, and iEpiphany (Erudite Fangs, 2008). Her poetry and fiction have recently appeared in La Petite Zine, Tarpaulin Sky, Denver Quarterly and in the Best of Fence anthology. An essay, “Quantum Poetics: Writing the Speed of Light,” which examines how principles in theoretical physics apply to poetry and prose, is forthcoming on Jerome Rothenberg’s blog at http://poemsandpoetics.blogspot.com/. She has an MFA from the Iowa Writers’ Workshop. Raised in Boulder, she currently works and teaches in the Jack Kerouac School of Disembodied Poetics at Naropa University.

§

If you no longer wish to receive email announcements of upcoming events in the Stratford Park Reading Series, please email [redacted] with the subject line "SPRS: REMOVE."

_____ Lauren found her dream laptop. Find the PC that’s right for you. http://www.microsoft.com/windows/choosepc/?ocid=ftp_val_wl_290

↑ Index

22. Adam Katz

Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

Thu 1 Oct 2009

I think an important question is not whether it "succeeds" or "fails" as a gesture, but at what cost. In other words, perhaps it "succeeds" but not as much as something else which "could have" been produced with the same time and amount of effort, skill, and knowledge. I think Badiou makes a similar argument against what he calls the "constructivist" stance: not that its statements are untrue, but that they are too slow. It's knowledge, but not action. Hence, perhaps the value of this situation is that it makes us ask a larger question about efficacy and goals in general. Any takers?a

↑ Index

23. Alan Sondheim
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Thu 1 Oct 2009

Gads, personally I love Goldsmith's work - find it impossible not to. And thinking about the new, I remember Clark Coolidge talking about how great it was to step across boundaries, look back.

There's no Goldsmith and his "ilk" by the way, maybe a "lek!"

↑ Index

24. Maria Damon
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Thu 1 Oct 2009

---

the main thing about kenny for me is that he's funny. it's hard not to enjoy laughing. in my experience, which admittedly is limited, kent johnson isn't funny.

Alan Sondheim wrote:
> Gads, personally I love Goldsmith's work - find it impossible not to.
> And thinking about the new, I remember Clark Coolidge talking about > how great it was to step across boundaries, look back.
>
> There's no Goldsmith and his "ilk" by the way, maybe a "lek!"
>

↑ Index

25. Corey Frost
Eileen Myles at the GC
Fri 2 Oct 2009

Tonight (Friday, October 2, 2009, at 6:30 pm), we are lucky enough to have Eileen Myles, the sui generis downtown poet, novelist, essayist, and performer, “my President,” as Erica Hunt recently said at the AdFemPo conference, for a couple of hours at the Grad Center, in the English Department lounge, room 4406, during which she will read from her new book, The Importance of Being Iceland: Travel Essays in Art, and then Corey Frost (me) and Erica Kaufman, both writers, doctoral English students at the Grad Center, and fans of Eileen, will give short responses to her work, following which there will be plenty of time for questions, making for an excellent opportunity to discuss a variety of topics, everything from melting glaciers, movie stars, and menopause, to class, gender, and barf, and a chance to talk to a legendary writer, a vital part of the New York poetry scene from the 70s until now.

There are 30 commas in the one-sentence paragraph above, a surfeit of organizational punctuation that is more or less the opposite of Eileen Myles' semantically messy, often punctuation-free Steinian sentence. Her new book covers a wide range of subjects (travel, art, people, and poetry, for starters) and has two or three brilliant, casually subversive ideas on each page, but each of the essays is unmistakably Eileen Myles. Each one feels like an improvised performance, as though the author didn't know she was going to be asked that question but is really enjoying the process of figuring out an answer. And the process is never a linear one. In the title essay, Myles gives various reasons for her interest in Iceland, but perhaps one way that Iceland is important is that it seems so tangential to the way the rest of the world works, and therefore a perfect landscape for such an ambulatory intellectual method. "I'm not sure if I'm telling a story or unveiling my mania," she says...

[On the Poetics Group website you'll find a continuation of this introduction to The Importance of Being Iceland, including favourite lines.]

↑ Index

26. Jeffrey Side

Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

Fri 2 Oct 2009

Jonathan, please see my blog on this, where I say:

'Incidentally, it could be said that Johnson's appropriation of Goldsmith's "work" is, perhaps, the more innovative and audacious act in comparison to Goldsmith's "original" gesture, which, I think most will recognise, was based on an already established artistic precedent.'

http://jeffrey-side.blogspot.com/

On Thu, 1 Oct 2009 18:35:34 -0500, Jonathan Ball
<[redacted]> wrote:

>I want to say that I'm not annoyed by Johnson's DAY. I am new to this list
>and don't really know who Johnson is, he seems to have a longer
history with >this list (somebody mentioned that he was banned from it, for reasons I >don't know about). I think his project is intended as a joke, but since
it >is being presented and supported by some as serious work, I just want to >talk about whether or not it stands or falls as serious work. It certainly >succeeds as a joke.

>
>
>
>
>
>On Wed, Sep 30, 2009 at 2:34 PM, Adam Katz
<[redacted]> wrote:
>
>> >
>> > What if one took the annoyed response to >> > Johnson's DAY as exactly the reaction he wanted
>>
>>
>> Not to answer this question one way or another, but to point out
that, were >> this reaction what he was going for, that still doesn't make it
a "good"
>> thing to have gone for. It may very well be, though.
>> a
>>
guidelines
>>
>
>
>
>--
>Dr. Jonathan Ball, Ph.D. (English)
>Sessional Instructor
>University of Manitoba
>University of Winnipeg
>
>www.jonathanball.com
>
>“If someone tells you writing is easy, he is either lying or I hate
him.” --
>Farley Mowat
>

↑ Index

27. Jeffrey Side

Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

Fri 2 Oct 2009

Very good point. Kent's act is far braver than Kenny's, as it could lead to legal action. I think this is what makes Kent's act historically more artistically original than Kenny's.

On Wed, 30 Sep 2009 18:19:25 -0400, Murat Nemet-Nejat
<[redacted]> wrote:

>How come when Goldsmith copies the entire New York Times, he is a conceptual >artist; but if one copied the whole text of a Paul Auster novel, for >example, one will be hit with a law suit? Doesn't such a conceptual work >depend upon the economic "valuelessness" of the first text in question? What >does that say about conceptual gesture of copying as a critical gesture?
>But, if the person is ready to go to jail for his or for gesture, now that >would be conceptual art.
>
>Ciao,
>
>Murat
>
>
>On Wed, Sep 30, 2009 at 3:26 PM, Skip Fox <[redacted]>
wrote:
>
>> For aesthetic judgment, have we gone from "newness is value" (Christian >> Bok)
>> to "newness is the major, perhaps only, value" (which is what Bok implies >> when speaking of Goldsmith)? That's where it slips for me.
>>
guidelines
>>
>

↑ Index

28. Jeffrey Side

Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

Fri 2 Oct 2009

Kent asked me to post his response to someone on the Digital Emunction blog:

"OK, Brennen, but if it isn't, then what is it I might have "plagiarized"? I'm not saying I haven't, I'm just curious what you mean.

I see that you are thinking about this at your blog in terms of recent art history and theory, quoting Danto, and I think that's great (Kenny should think it's great, too, since he's supposedly all about reflection and discussion).

In their writings on the Duchampian readymade and its neo-avant-garde recyclings, I find critics like Buchloh and Foster more interesting than Danto. Though they take strong exception to Burger's wholesale dis missal of the neo-avant-garde, they're also very critical of ways the great, original readymade move has been cut and pasted ad infinitum into the art market since, say, Nouveau realisme– recycled gestures with this or that generic tweak or novelty, that is, emptied of any radi cal, anti-institutional charge– ready-made, as it were, for rapid capture and incorporation by the networks of "Museum Culture."

This recycling, I'd say, is transparently the case with the work of Kenny Goldsmith (Goldsmith and Bok, to be sure, who despite their polemics for the benefits of ego-less "uncreativity" seem to have been drunk for the past few years on some kind of secret Author Function Ego Juice, are quite exuberantly open about their desire for the Museum). KG's work is "uncreative" and "boring" not just as affective extension of its proclaimed poetic and "ontological" premises; it's uncreative and boring because it's so damn old hat: an attempted importation of decades- old gestures into a Po-Biz scene that, as Goldsmith himself puts it, "is forty years behind art," and thus likely (at least part of its crowd) to take his "conceptual" banalities as exciting and new. In some circles, they call it snake oil.

But it's MY Day, Brennen, that is truly new, you see. The Authentic Item. Because no one has ever done it quite like this before. I've taken his whole bookum and made it mine, in single decisive act. And doing so, I've put his plagiarized bookum into the dustbin of sub- poetic sub- history. I am being both funny and serious, in saying that. Doubled in my intent, so to speak, like the red-hot "Doubled K" poker that K. dreamily mentions in his blurb to my Day, where he acknowledges me, his mirrored K, as his master. And it's why he's going to put my book up on UbuWeb.

And one more thing, though here I'm not kidding around: What they call "Conceptual poetry"? It's forty years behind Broodthaers and Institu tional Critique.

Kent"

↑ Index

29. Vernon Frazer

ROCKPILE TOUR CALENDAR (submitted on behalf of Michael Rothenberg

Fri 2 Oct 2009

The ROCKPILE Tour Calendar is finally complete and we're ready to go. And make sure you check out the ROCKPILE Blog,www.bigbridge.org/rockpile/
We will be posting journal entries, videos, interviews for the entire two month trip. See you on the road. Best, Michael R.

ROCKPILE TOUR CALENDAR 2009

LOS ANGELES

ROCKPILE Performance

Thursday, October 8th 7:00pm
The Hammer Museum
Billy Wilder Theater
10899 Wilshire Blvd
Los Angeles, CA 90024
Phone: [redacted]
http://hammer.ucla.edu
ADMISSION: free

David Meltzer and Michael Rothenberg with Theo Saunders (piano), Johnny Lee Schell(guitar), John B. Williams(bass), Joe Sublette(saxophone), Debra Dobkin (drums and percussion) for a fusion of poetry, jazz, blues and roots rock.

ALBUQUERQUE

ROCKPILE Performance

Thursday, October 15th 7:30 pm
Outpost Performance Space
210 Yale SE â€¢ 2 blocks south of Central Albuquerque, NM 87196
[redacted]
http://www.outpostspace.org/
ADMISSION: $7, $5 dollars for members, (Outpost accepts phone orders as well as in-person sales at the Outpost Performance Space Box Office Hours: 2:00-5:30pmâ€”Monday-Friday and 1 hr before each show at the door

David Meltzer and Michael Rothenberg with Thunderbird Poetry Orkestra: JB Bryan, alto saxophone, rumba box, rattles; Mark Weber, hubcapaphone & glockenspiel; Leif Rustebakke, koto, hurdy gurdy, percussion; Jon Baldwin, cornet; Mark LeClaire, cello; Daisy Kates, mellophone, percussion; Lou Liberty, taiko, little instruments; Jim Burbank, djembe, didgeridoo, wooden flutes; John Tritica, rain stick, cowhorn rattle, percussion; Riha Rothberg, balafon & percussion; plus special guest Terri Carrion, accordion.

NEW ORLEANS

Friday, October 23, 7-12pm
â€œBobâ€™s Compoundâ€
3027 Chartres Street
New Orleans, LA
Admission Free

ROCKPILE Workshop and a Poetry and Music Open Mic Jam Session. An open conversation with David Meltzer, Michael Rothenberg, Terri Carrion, and Bill Lavender... â€œPoetry & Music & the Troubadour Tradition, Art, Activism, Collaboration & the Source of Creation.â€ followed by an open mic jam session of poetry and music. Refreshments

NEW ORLEANS

ROCKPILE Performance

Sun, October 25th 8PM
Zeitgeist Multi-Disciplinary Arts Center
1618 Oretha Castle Haley Blvd.
New Orleans, Louisiana 70113
[redacted] or [redacted]
http://www.zeitgeistinc.net
ADMISSON: all events are by donation - $7 general / $6 students & seniors / $5 Zeitgeist members /Patrons & Children 15 and under free (unless otherwise indicated)

David Meltzer, Michael Rothenberg and, Blodie with members of The Dirty Dozen Brass Band including Gregory Davis (trumpet), Roger Lewis (baritone sax), Terence Higgins (drums), Julius McKee (sousaphone), andJake Eckert (guitar).

RICHMOND, VA

Friday, October 30, 7:30pm-9:30pm
Art 6 Gallery

6 East Broad Street
Richmond, Virginia 23219
[redacted]
5 dollars admission
[redacted]

ROCKPILE Halloween Reading with David Meltzer, Michael Rothenberg and Teresa Carrion

WASHINGTON, DC

Sunday, November 1st, 2pm â€“ 5:00pm
The Writerâ€™s Center
4508 Walsh Street
Bethesda, MD 20815
[redacted]
www.writer.org
ADMISSION: free

"All About Rockpile" with David Meltzer, Michael Rothenberg, and celebrated pianist and composer Burnett Thompson with members of The New Columbia Orchestra. Guest readers include Terri Carrion, Tom Mandel, Sarah Browning, Ed Baker, Beth Joselow, Buck Downs, Carlo Parcelli and more

WASHINGTON, DC

Tuesday, November 3, 12 noon-1:30pm
Poets in the (Think) Tank: ROCKPILE
Symposium
Cosponsored by Split This Rock and the Institute for Policy Studies
Tuesday, November 3, noon-1:30 pm
Brown bag lunch
The Institute for Policy Studies
1112 16th Street, NW, Suite 600
Washington, DC
Farragut North or Farragut West Metro
For more info: [redacted], [redacted]

In anticipation of what is sure to be a music and poetry extravaganza at Busboys and Poets November 4, ROCKPILE artists David Meltzer and Michael Rothenberg host an open discussion on Art and Activism, Poetry, Music and The Troubadour Tradition, Censorship and The Academy, Community and Collaboration. With guest readers to be announced. Moderator: Sarah Browning

WASHINGTON, DC

ROCKPILE Performance

Wednesday, November 4th, 9pm-11pm
Busboys and Poets: â€œHump Day Groovezâ€
2021 14 St. NW
Washington, DC 20009
[redacted]
http://www.busboysandpoets.com/
ADMISSION: 10 dollars at the door

David Meltzer and Michael Rothenberg with Burnett Thompson and The New Columbia Orchestra

NEW YORK CITY

Saturday, November 7th 2-5pm
Poetry Project at St. Mark's Church Parish Hall
131 E. 10th St.(& 2nd Ave.)
Manhattan, NY
ADMISSION: free

ROCKPILE Symposium: David Meltzer and Michael Rothenberg host a discussion on "Art and Activism, Poetry, Music and The Troubadour Tradition, Censorship and The Academy, Community and Collaboration: Open discussion with Ammiel Alcalay, Teresa Carrion, Jim Christy, Marty Ehrlich, Michael Franklin, Murat Nemat-Nejat, Wanda Phipps, Robert Priest, Harris Schiff, Suzi Winson and Bill Zavatsky. We welcome audience participation. Moderator: Jim Feast. Refreshments

NEW YORK CITY

Monday, November 9th, 12:30-2pm
Segal Theater
The Center for the Humanities
The Graduate Center, CUNY
365 Fifth Avenue, Room 5103
New York, NY 10016
[redacted]
ADMISSION: free

ROCKPILE- Poetry and Music and The Troubadour Tradition
A Discussion with David Meltzer and Michael Rothenberg hosted by David Henderson and Ammiel Alcalay.

NEW YORK CITY

ROCKPILE Performance

Monday, November 9th 8pm
The Gershwin Hotel
7 East 27th Street
New York, NY 10016
[redacted]
http://www.gershwinhotel.com/english/site1.html
ADMISSION: $10 at the door

David Meltzer and Michael Rothenberg with Marty Ehrlich (multi-reed player), Lindsey Horner (bass), Bill Zavatsky (piano), Michael Stephans (drums)

ROCHESTER, NY

November 11th, 4-5:15 pm
David Meltzer and Michael Rothenberg read and discuss ROCKPILE
Rochester Institute of Technology
College of Liberal Arts Faculty Lounge
Bldg. 6, Rm 1251
92 Lomb Memorial Dr
Rochester, NY
[redacted]
ADMISSION: free

November 11th, 7pm
David Meltzer, Michael Rothenberg and Terri Carrion
Reading at: Writers and Books
740 University Ave
Rochester, NY
[redacted]
ADMISSION: free

November 12th, 10:30 am
Rochester Institute of Technology lecture Michael Rothenberg and Terri Carrion class on â€œEditing The Literary Magazineâ€
Rochester Institute of Technology
92 Lomb Memorial Dr.
Rochester, NY
ADMISSION: free

BUFFALO, NY

November 12th, 7PM
David Meltzer and Michael Rothenberg reading
Just Buffalo @ WNYBAC

Western New York Book Arts Center
468 Washington St. @ Mohawk Place 2nd Floor
Buffalo, NY 14203
http://www.justbuffalo.org/
ADMISSION: free

TORONTO

Friday, November 13th
David Meltzer, Michael Rothenberg, Terri Carrion, Robert Priest and Jim Christy
reading
Time and location tba, please check ROCKPILE Blog for specifics
www.bigbridge.org/rockpile/
Toronto, Canada

CHICAGO

Tuesday, November 17th 5pm to 8pm
Columbia College Chicago,
Ferguson Hall
600 South Michigan Avenue
Chicago, IL 60605
[redacted]â€Ž

ROCKPILE Symposium--Music and Poetry: The Art of Poetry Collaboration. About: Since Kenneth Rexroth and Langston Hughes first collaborated with jazz musicians (but then Jelly Roll Morton claimed to have collaborated with authors, as well) poetry and music have enjoyed a special relationship. The subject ranges far and wide: Brecht's Threepenny Opera, Allen Ginsberg's manic rock combos, modern hip-hop, the singer-songwriter tradition of troubadors such as Bob Dylan and Lou Reed--the relationship between music, specifically jazz, and poetry has been percolating for generations. Sit in with these artists as they discuss this tempestuous relationship in a rapid-fire panel discussion about poetry and music.

Panelists include: David Meltzer, Michael Rothenberg, Art Lange, Dan McNaughton, Tony Trigillio, Ed Roberson, Dan Godston, Larry Sawyer, Francesco Levato, Terri Carrion, Bob Malone, and others.

CHICAGO

ROCKPILE Performance

Thursday, November 19, 8pm- 12pm
The Hideout
1354 W Wabansia

Chicago, Il 60622
[redacted]
http://www.hideoutchicago.com/
ADMISSION: 10 dollars at the door
(all shows 21 & over unless stated otherwise advance tickets online or by phone at [redacted])

Poetry & Jazz Festival with ROCKPILE: David Meltzer and Michael Rothenberg perform with The Spider Trio and The Bob Malone Band and special guests Art Lange, Ed Roberson, Francesco Levato, Larry Sawyer, Dan Godston Band and Terri Carrion.

ST. LOUIS

Monday, November 23rd 6pm
Untamed Ink, Under and Above Ground:
A Publication Celebration hosted by David Meltzer, Michael Rothenberg and Terri Carrion
Lindenwood University, LCIE auditorium.
ADMISSION: free

ST. LOUIS

ROCKPILE Performance

November 24th 7:30-11pm
Regional Arts Commission Performance Space 6128 Delmar Blvd.
St. Louis, MO 63112-1204
[redacted]
http://www.art-stl.com/
ADMISSION: free

David Meltzer and Michael Rothenberg with Zimbabwe Nkenya (Bass), Dave Black (guitar), Bob Malone (piano), Michael Franklin, Shirley LeFlore, Michael Castro, K. Curtis Lyle and David Jackson (assorted percussion and electronics), Alexander Balogh, Sean Arnold, Terri Carrion, Howard Schwartz, and Philip Gounis.

↑ Index

30. steve dalachinsky
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Fri 2 Oct 2009

---

well none of that shit is poesie conceptual or not hey guess what it might rain tonite
and tomorrow they're predicting scattered showers

On Fri, 2 Oct 2009 15:10:10 -0400 Christopher Leland Winks
<[redacted]> writes:
> A lor of verbiage on Kent Johnson's taking the piss out of Kenneth > Goldsmith, who richly deserves it as another one of those > necrophiles brandishing (among other gestures) the > cryogenically-preserved (freeze-dried?) corpse of a "conceptual" art > sans concepts, sans art, sans eyes, sans everything. But while I > like the joke, is it really worth killing so many trees just to play > one?
>
>
>

↑ Index

31. Jonathan Ball
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Fri 2 Oct 2009

Thanks Jeffrey, however I did read your post when you originally sent it around. My original point is to take issue with your statement, as I claim that there is nothing innovative or audacious about this appropriation by Johnson. Its conceptual value is not to earmark thievery as art, or to question categories of authorship --- both dry, boring notions by now --- but rather to extend to its logical extreme the rhetoric of a conceptualist like Goldsmith.

My point is that Goldsmith's rhetoric of conceptulist value being the only value is already dry and boring. What makes Goldsmith's texts, such as DAY, innovative and audacious works is the actual poetic richness of the texts produced under these "uncreative" constraints, not the their conceptualist underpinnings. Therefore, Johnson's act, aside from being hamfisted satire, is just "more of the same" insofar as conceptualist writing is concerned. Goldsmith makes use of conceptualist tactics to defamiliarize language (in this case the language of journalism and advertising) through a reframing in order to produce poetic texts. Johnson is taking a work of conceptualist poetry as his source, and turning it into more conceptualist poetry .... no such radical defamiliarization of language has occurred (in other words, no poetry is produced through a shift of the text's framework).

Moreover, the act by Johnson will not lead to legal action --- Goldsmith suing over somebody stealing his previously stolen text .... the thought is absurd. The original act by Goldsmith is the only one subject to legal action. In any case, whether or not a poetic act is subject to legal action is no source or guarantor of its artistic value.

Jonathan

On Fri, Oct 2, 2009 at 5:48 AM, Jeffrey Side <[redacted]> wrote:

> Jonathan, please see my blog on this, where I say:
>
> 'Incidentally, it could be said that Johnson's appropriation of Goldsmith's "work" is, perhaps, the more innovative and audacious act in comparison to Goldsmith's "original" gesture, which, I think most will recognise, was based on an already established artistic precedent.'
>
> http://jeffrey-side.blogspot.com/
>
> On Thu, 1 Oct 2009 18:35:34 -0500, Jonathan Ball <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> I want to say that I'm not annoyed by Johnson's DAY. I am new to this list and don't really know who Johnson is, he seems to have a longer history with this list (somebody mentioned that he was banned from it, for reasons I don't know about). I think his project is intended as a joke, but since it is being presented and supported by some as serious work, I just want to talk about whether or not it stands or falls as serious work. It certainly succeeds as a joke.
>
> On Wed, Sep 30, 2009 at 2:34 PM, Adam Katz

> <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> What if one took the annoyed response to > Johnson's DAY as exactly the reaction he wanted
>
> Not to answer this question one way or another, but to point out
> that, were
> this reaction what he was going for, that still doesn't make it
> a "good"
> thing to have gone for. It may very well be, though.
> a
>
> guidelines
>
> --
> Dr. Jonathan Ball, Ph.D. (English)
> Sessional Instructor
> University of Manitoba
> University of Winnipeg
>
> www.jonathanball.com
>
> “If someone tells you writing is easy, he is either lying or I hate
> him.” --
> Farley Mowat

--
Dr. Jonathan Ball, Ph.D. (English)
Sessional Instructor
University of Manitoba
University of Winnipeg

www.jonathanball.com

“If someone tells you writing is easy, he is either lying or I hate him.” -- Farley Mowat

↑ Index

32. Jonathan Ball
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Fri 2 Oct 2009

What bothers me about comments like Johnson's remark on how Kenny's use of conceptualist tactics is old hat, and Goldsmith's comments that writing is 40 years behind painting (itself an appropriation of a Brion Gysin quote) is that they both make use of a false notion of progress. As if there were some timeline extending into the future, and the arts were all racing to get to the end, and attain their perfect and final forms ..... this is what I mean when I complain of the fetishization of the new. The art world as a horse race: "Painting takes the lead over writing, oh, and writing is left in the dust!" Regardless of how "old" conceptualism is in the art world, it is relatively "new" in the poetry world. And even if it wasn't, who cares? The debate, to me, has nothing to do with who was there first or what is going on in the visual arts. It has to do with which of two identical texts could be considered poetically more interesting in light of the conceptualist underpinnings of the practice which produced them.

↑ Index

33. Mairead Byrne
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Fri 2 Oct 2009

Other aspects of the artistic practices of KG and KJ are worth considering. KG has brought Abbie Hoffman's Steal This Book to vital and extraordinary development in the stunning super-energizing panoramic UbuWeb. He's also an A1 performer: live, on paper, and conceptually. Ever seen/heard/sat under his Bern Porter piece? I agree with Maria that he's a LOT of fun. KJ is kinda fun too, and appeals just as heartily to some senses of humor as KG does to mine. The work often seems mean to me, not just mean-spirited but flimsy. A lot of what KG is doing is energizing the poetry world by importing and writing (in VERY large letters) ideas from the art world. KJ, to me, is a kind of policeman (CIA man?), setting off small bombs to injure poets, or at least crumple their horny toe-nails. This policeman is an upstanding citizen as teacher and translator though, maybe he even loves poetry there. But at night, he puts on his little cape, and runs round sticking needles into things .....YIKES now he's heading for me....

>>> Jonathan Ball <[redacted]> 10/02/09 9:39 AM >>>
Thanks Jeffrey, however I did read your post when you originally sent it around. My original point is to take issue with your statement, as I claim that there is nothing innovative or audacious about this appropriation by Johnson. Its conceptual value is not to earmark thievery as art, or to question categories of authorship --- both dry, boring notions by now --- but rather to extend to its logical extreme the rhetoric of a conceptualist like Goldsmith.

My point is that Goldsmith's rhetoric of conceptulist value being the only value is already dry and boring. What makes Goldsmith's texts, such as DAY, innovative and audacious works is the actual poetic richness of the texts produced under these "uncreative" constraints, not the their conceptualist underpinnings. Therefore, Johnson's act, aside from being hamfisted satire, is just "more of the same" insofar as conceptualist writing is concerned. Goldsmith makes use of conceptualist tactics to defamiliarize language (in this case the language of journalism and advertising) through a reframing in order to produce poetic texts. Johnson is taking a work of conceptualist poetry as his source, and turning it into more conceptualist poetry .... no such radical defamiliarization of language has occurred (in other words, no poetry is produced through a shift of the text's framework).

Moreover, the act by Johnson will not lead to legal action --- Goldsmith suing over somebody stealing his previously stolen text .... the thought is absurd. The original act by Goldsmith is the only one subject to legal action. In any case, whether or not a poetic act is subject to legal action is no source or guarantor of its artistic value.

Jonathan

On Fri, Oct 2, 2009 at 5:48 AM, Jeffrey Side <[redacted]> wrote:

> Jonathan, please see my blog on this, where I say:
>
> 'Incidentally, it could be said that Johnson's appropriation of Goldsmith's "work" is, perhaps, the more innovative and audacious act in comparison to Goldsmith's "original" gesture, which, I think most will recognise, was based on an already established artistic precedent.'
>
> http://jeffrey-side.blogspot.com/
>
> On Thu, 1 Oct 2009 18:35:34 -0500, Jonathan Ball <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> I want to say that I'm not annoyed by Johnson's DAY. I am new to this list
> and don't really know who Johnson is, he seems to have a longer

history with
this list (somebody mentioned that he was banned from it, for
reasons I don't know about). I think his project is intended as a joke, but since
it
is being presented and supported by some as serious work, I just want to talk about whether or not it stands or falls as serious work. It certainly succeeds as a joke.

On Wed, Sep 30, 2009 at 2:34 PM, Adam Katz
<[redacted]> wrote:

What if one took the annoyed response to
Johnson's DAY as exactly the reaction he wanted

Not to answer this question one way or another, but to point out
that, were
this reaction what he was going for, that still doesn't make it
a "good"
thing to have gone for. It may very well be, though.
a

guidelines

--
Dr. Jonathan Ball, Ph.D. (English)
Sessional Instructor
University of Manitoba
University of Winnipeg

www.jonathanball.com

"If someone tells you writing is easy, he is either lying or I hate
him." --
Farley Mowat

--
Dr. Jonathan Ball, Ph.D. (English)
Sessional Instructor
University of Manitoba
University of Winnipeg

www.jonathanball.com

"If someone tells you writing is easy, he is either lying or I hate him." -- Farley Mowat

↑ Index

34. Sarah Sarai

3 reviews: Steve Tills, Kristin Prevallet, Larissa Shmailo

Fri 2 Oct 2009

Steve Tills' Rugh Stuff
http://my3000lovingarms.blogspot.com/2009/09/beckett-on-golf-course-steve-tills-rugh.html

Kristin Prevallet's I, Afterlife
http://my3000lovingarms.blogspot.com/2009/10/i-afterlife-response-to-kristin.html

Larissa Shmailo's A Cure for Suicide
http://my3000lovingarms.blogspot.com/2009/05/cure-for-suicide-by-larissa-shmailo.html

There is no expiration date on poetry. :-)
Sarah Sarai

http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ss2.htm
http://www.spdbooks.org/Search/Default.aspx?AuthorName=sarah+sarai

↑ Index

35. judith goldman

Chicago, Thurs., Oct. 8th: NOT TO BE MISSED! Readings by Brandon Brown and Daniel Borzutzky

Fri 2 Oct 2009

You are cordially invited to an evening of reading / performance on Thursday, October 8th, 7:30 to 11pm

Poetry / micro-fiction / cross-genre / translation readings by

Brandon Brown, visiting from San Francisco, CA &

Daniel Borzutzky, who lives here in Chicago, IL

Readings will begin at 8pm

These writers are funny, tragic, passionate, irreverent and devotional, multilingual and obsessed with (not to say acting out on) the profounder issues and minutiae of translation and inter-textuality. Readings not to miss!

This event is hosted by Judith Goldman, a Chicago-area poet and postdoctoral fellow / assistant professor at the University of Chicago. Location: 5517 N. Paulina St., 1 (Andersonville).

[See more on event location / directions to site below writer bios and sample texts.]

****

The Working Day Lady Died

* *

It's 1349 on the fief and I've got 163 holidays

my colleagues and their offspring know

Bastille Day is no holiday! so I just get my joints scuffed because I go straight from one demarcated zone without my species essence to chaos: sweet, domestic, and high;

filling it with mescal and snuck smokes,

head out the window like a fucking crane. some of my colleagues shrug about

"every day a beating", it's all abstraction and no nectar. Little lambs love to watch their friends sheared. My batsuit. My shred passports. My dead co-workers. Dead on Bastille Day, weird.

Brandon Brown is from Kansas City, Missouri. Poems recently in *Brooklyn Rail, Try!, Sprung Formal, West Wind Review. *His friends have published chapbooks. *Memoirs of My Nervous Illness *(Cy Press), *[redacted] *(Transmission), *Camels! *(Taxt) and the forthcoming *Wondrous Things I Have Seen *(Mitzvah Chaps). He publishes small press books under the imprint OMG! and in October 2009 will be guest blogging at poetryproject.org.

See more of Brandon Brown's work at:

http://www.deepoakland.org/text?id=268

http://www.kswnet.org/fire/wmag-displaypage.cfm?wmagreturn=6

http://www.durationpress.com/

http://chax.org/eoagh/issue3/issuethree/brown.html

http://www.brooklynrail.org/2009/02/poetry/six-from-lunch-poems

* *

****

The Book of Decomposition

It is in the tranquillity of decomposition that I remember the long confused emotion which was my life.

Samuel Beckett, Molloy

Here the reader rots alongside of the book and its characters. A man in the opening chapter pulls strands of hair off his head; the reader does the same. A man feels maggots crawling all over his skin; the reader feels the same. The book begins in a butcher shop that has been looted by poor bodies that tear out cow intestines and unravel them in the dead grass behind the butcher's shed. The bodies see books in the intestines whose characters are their mirror images, and the bodies grow terrified of themselves. They run into the woods but they hate nature so they take shelter in the stables where rotten bodies hide in the hay. The dead bodies in this stable are countries and the protagonist says USA USA your assets are rotten you are dying and Haiti your huts have flooded and your citizens kill for bread and beans and New Orleans your bodies float in puddles of shit hey China your babies are drinking poisoned milk and Mexico your peasants cannot hear or see and in the USA the assets are rotten the Bolivians sell less coke on Wall Street the Iranians don't have enough money to blow Israel off the map the Russians can't build new weapons to sell to the Syrians and Venezuelans the Cuban doctors and prostitutes service bodies that live far away the nations conduct business in body parts here are the legs of our citizens we will trade you for arms and kidneys and here take these eyes and livers and give us hearts and tongues and intestines. Full stop. Period. In the end it's unclear if it's the reader or the characters who request some form of movement to free the bodies from the sorcery of global capital. Nevertheless, the request is granted and the book ends happily with the entrance of a saint who has so much love that he heals the sores of the bodies with his tongue and prepares them once more to succeed as cosmopolitan bodies in a ring of fantastically interconnected commerce. The book ends with a giant ejaculation behind the butcher shop where the bodies rub against each other as if there were no barriers to keep them from consummating their fiscal intimacies. And in the final scene water streams off the pages, cleansing the skin of the readers in a climax of diluvial bubbling.

Daniel Borzutzky's books include *The Book of Interfering Bodies *(Nightboat Books, forthcoming), *The Ecstasy of Capitulation *(BlazeVox, 2007), *Arbitrary Tales *(Triple Press, 2005), and the chapbooks *One Size Fits All *(Scantily Clad Press, 2009) and Failure in the Imagination (Bronze Skull Press, 2007). He is the translator of *Song for his Disappeared Love *by Raul Zurita (Action Books, forthcoming); *Port Trakl *by Jaime Luis Huenún (Action Books, 2008); and One Year and other stories by Juan Emar, which was published as a special issue of the Review of Contemporary Fiction. Journal publications include Fence; Chicago Review; TriQuarterly; Action, Yes; Conjunctions; Words Without Borders; Circumference; American Letters and Commentary; Mandorla; Denver Quarterly and many others. He lives in Chicago, and is a faculty member in the English Department at Wright College. His website is www.danielborzutzky.com.

See more of Daniel Borzutzky’s work online:

http://www.milkmag.org/BORZUTZKY9.html

http://www.diodepoetry.com/v1n3/content/borzutzky_d.html

http://www.wheelhousemagazine.com/press/BORZUTZKY.pdf

http://intranslation.brooklynrail.org/spanish/chile-is-the-name-of-my-father

****

READING LOCATION INFORMATION

Judith Goldman’s residence:

5517 N. Paulina Ave, #1—about 6 blocks north of Foster, between Catalpa and Gregory; Paulina is one block west of Ashland.

PLEASE NOTE: This location is unfortunately not wheelchair accessible.

DIRECTIONS FROM CTA RED LINE

From the Bryn Mawr stop: walk west from Broadway to Paulina, about ½ mile (it’s a 12-15 min. walk). Turn left at Paulina and walk 1 1/2 blocks (my building is about 3 houses down from the corner of Paulina and Gregory).

Email [redacted] or [redacted] with any questions.

↑ Index

36. Daniel Godston

Chicago Calling at Mercury Cafe and Brown Rice

Fri 2 Oct 2009

You are invited to attend these two Chicago Calling Arts Festival events happening tonight --

Chicago Calling at Mercury Café

Friday, October 2, 2009 (6:00-9:00 p.m.)

Vittorio Carli (poetry) and Carolyn Curtis Magri (visual art)

Leonard De Montbrun (Chicago) and Don Coorough (Arizona) -- poetry collaboration

poetry and music collaboration with Elizabeth Harper (Chicago), Faux Paul (New Haven, CT), and Ben Erickson (Milford, CT)

Rachel Javellana (Chicago) and Donna Collins (Detroit) -- poetry collaboration

Elizabeth Marino (Chicago) -- poetry collaboration

Matt Barton (Chicago) and Poggio Trattoria (San Francisco)

Cathleen Schandelmeier (Chicago) -- poetry collaboration

Charlie Newman (Chicago) and Steven Schroeder (China) -- poetry collaboration collaboration between Bob Rashkow (poetry / Chicago) and Tony Renner (visual art / St. Louis)

Janina Ciezadlo (Chicago), Asrini Bambang Widjanarko, (Indonesia), Joy Posse (North Dakota), Penelope Rosemont (Chicago), Helene Smith Romer (Chicago), Leanne Hasse Goeble (Colorado), Mike Perkovich (Chicago), Nancy Van Kanegan (Chicago), and Owen Land (Los Angeles) -- poetry collaboration

Novica Tadic (Serbia) and Steven and Maja Teref (Chicago) -- poetry translation project

Sid Yiddish (Chicago), in collaboration with Clean Boys (Århus, Denmark)

This event is free and open to the public.

Mercury Café

1505 W. Chicago Ave.

Chicago, IL 60642-5237

[redacted]

http://chimercurycafe.com/

* * *

Chicago Calling at Brown Rice

Friday, October 2, 2009 (10:00-11:30 p.m.)

featuring two sets of sound, music, and films:

1st set: performance by Chicago Phonography

2nd set: Set of live music, while videos by Jayve Montgomery, Annie Heckman, and Mikey Peterson are projected. Performers include:

Gregory O'Drobinak -- Arc of the Oven / Chicago

Jayve Montgomery -- saxophones and percussion

Jim Ryan -- kalimba / Oakland

Williwaw -- amplified ukulele / Edinburgh

Ernesto Sturm Diaz-Infante San Francisco

Ritwik Banerji -- saxophone / Chicago

Steve Dalanchinsky poetry -- New York City

Jon Godston -- soprano saxophone / Chicago

Michael Staron -- bass / Chicago

Jimmy Bennington -- drums / Chicago

$5 suggested donation

Brown Rice

4432 N. Kedzie Ave., 1st floor

Chicago, IL 60625

http://www.brownricemusic.org

http://www.chicagophonography.org

http://www.chicagocalling.org

↑ Index

37. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Fri 2 Oct 2009

For me, Thoreau's going to jail for his civil disobedience (even if only for a day) is a piece of conceptual art. In fact, he may be the first conceptual artist, at least, in the United States. That act itself is followed by words, the essay "Civil Disobedience," which actualy isl a manifesto of conceptual gesture transformed into political act.

Let's face it, neither Goldsmith nor Johnson expect to go to jail for their acts. Both lack, I think, an element of risk. Therefore, essentially they become conversation pieces as conceptual works. On the other hand, Doubled Flowering is truly a conceptual gesture, and John has paid and is still paying a price for it.

I have a question: how many on this list has read Goldsmith's work through? Jonathan, have you read it through? I am curious how many of us are talking about works that we actually read? What does reading of a conceptual mean? Is it the same as any other reading? Jonathan, talking about the "richness" of Goldsmith's text, you are implying that you have read it through. Have you done so?

Ciao,

Murat

On Fri, Oct 2, 2009 at 9:39 AM, Jonathan Ball <[redacted]> wrote:

> Thanks Jeffrey, however I did read your post when you originally sent it around. My original point is to take issue with your statement, as I claim that there is nothing innovative or audacious about this appropriation by Johnson. Its conceptual value is not to earmark thievery as art, or to question categories of authorship --- both dry, boring notions by now --- but rather to extend to its logical extreme the rhetoric of a conceptualist like Goldsmith.
>
> My point is that Goldsmith's rhetoric of conceptulist value being the only value is already dry and boring. What makes Goldsmith's texts, such as DAY, innovative and audacious works is the actual poetic richness of the texts produced under these "uncreative" constraints, not the their conceptualist underpinnings. Therefore, Johnson's act, aside from being hamfisted satire, is just "more of the same" insofar as conceptualist writing is concerned. Goldsmith makes use of conceptualist tactics to defamiliarize language (in this case the language of journalism and advertising) through a reframing in > order to produce poetic texts. Johnson is taking a work of conceptualist poetry as his source, and turning it into more conceptualist poetry .... no such radical defamiliarization of language has occurred (in other words, no poetry is produced through a shift of the text's framework).
>
> Moreover, the act by Johnson will not lead to legal action --- Goldsmith suing over somebody stealing his previously stolen text .... the thought is absurd. The original act by Goldsmith is the only one subject to legal action. In any case, whether or not a poetic act is subject to legal action is no source or guarantor of its artistic value.

Jonathan

On Fri, Oct 2, 2009 at 5:48 AM, Jeffrey Side <[redacted]> wrote:

Jonathan, please see my blog on this, where I say:

'Incidentally, it could be said that Johnson's appropriation of Goldsmith's "work" is, perhaps, the more innovative and audacious act in comparison to Goldsmith's "original" gesture, which, I think most will recognise, was based on an already established artistic precedent.'

http://jeffrey-side.blogspot.com/

On Thu, 1 Oct 2009 18:35:34 -0500, Jonathan Ball <[redacted]> wrote:

I want to say that I'm not annoyed by Johnson's DAY. I am new to this list and don't really know who Johnson is, he seems to have a longer history with this list (somebody mentioned that he was banned from it, for reasons I don't know about). I think his project is intended as a joke, but since it is being presented and supported by some as serious work, I just want to talk about whether or not it stands or falls as serious work. It certainly succeeds as a joke.

On Wed, Sep 30, 2009 at 2:34 PM, Adam Katz <[redacted]> wrote:

What if one took the annoyed response to

Johnson's DAY as exactly the reaction he wanted

Not to answer this question one way or another, but to point out that, were this reaction what he was going for, that still doesn't make it a "good" thing to have gone for. It may very well be, though.
a

guidelines

--
Dr. Jonathan Ball, Ph.D. (English)
Sessional Instructor
University of Manitoba
University of Winnipeg

www.jonathanball.com

“If someone tells you writing is easy, he is either lying or I hate him.” --
Farley Mowat

guidelines

--
Dr. Jonathan Ball, Ph.D. (English)
Sessional Instructor
University of Manitoba
University of Winnipeg

www.jonathanball.com

“If someone tells you writing is easy, he is either lying or I hate him.”
--
Farley Mowat

↑ Index

38. Ruth Lepson

Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

Fri 2 Oct 2009

---

what would oliver goldsmith & samuel johnson have to say about all this?

On 10/2/09 6:48 AM, "Jeffrey Side" <[redacted]> wrote:

> Jonathan, please see my blog on this, where I say:
>
> 'Incidentally, it could be said that Johnson¹s appropriation of Goldsmith¹s ³work² is, perhaps, the more innovative and audacious act in comparison to Goldsmith¹s ³original² gesture, which, I think most will recognise, was based on an already established artistic precedent.'
>
> http://jeffrey-side.blogspot.com/
>
> On Thu, 1 Oct 2009 18:35:34 -0500, Jonathan Ball <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> I want to say that I'm not annoyed by Johnson's DAY. I am new to this list and don't really know who Johnson is, he seems to have a longer history with this list (somebody mentioned that he was banned from it, for reasons I don't know about). I think his project is intended as a joke, but since it is being presented and supported by some as serious work, I just want to talk about whether or not it stands or falls as serious work. It certainly succeeds as a joke.
>
> On Wed, Sep 30, 2009 at 2:34 PM, Adam Katz <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> What if one took the annoyed response to Johnson's DAY as exactly the reaction he wanted

> Not to answer this question one way or another, but to point out that, were
> this reaction what he was going for, that still doesn't make it a "good"
> thing to have gone for. It may very well be, though.
> a
>
> guidelines
>
> --
> Dr. Jonathan Ball, Ph.D. (English)
> Sessional Instructor
> University of Manitoba
> University of Winnipeg
>
> www.jonathanball.com
>
> ³If someone tells you writing is easy, he is either lying or I hate him.² --
> Farley Mowat

↑ Index

39. Tribbey, Hugh R.

Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

Fri 2 Oct 2009

So much of the "shunning of wannabes" in these situational fiefdoms is hidden in judgments of "good." Makes the whole business a bit silly. So seeking an objective process to engage in may make more sense. The products of applied concepts or objective procedures are often "awful" by conventional consensus, but "awful" is often more interesting than "good." There's more than "entertainment value" involved. The awful can yield insight and trigger creativity. Some people become fascinated by melon molds and bat guano.

-----Original Message-----
From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [mailto:[redacted]] On Behalf Of Jonathan Ball Sent: Thursday, October 01, 2009 12:03 PM
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

Bobby, I think you've put your finger on something --- regardless of Goldsmith's stance, I disagree with a basic tenant of conceptualist art, that the concept is everything, or "the charge [is] in the concept" as Mairéad more elegantly puts it. The facility of the execution and the richness of the end result maintain their lustre, and I think it is a mistake for Goldsmith and his ilk to eschew these "traditional" values in a fetishization of newness that belies the facility and the poetic richness of their works. For all of Goldsmith's boisterous contempt for originality, he is producing original texts that are worth reading. That's right ... Kenny Goldsmith's books are WORTH READING. Appropriation and recontextualization is old hat, as you say, insofar as artistic tactics are concerned, but old though they may be these tactics can still produce good work. In short, I disagree with Goldsmith and consider a text like DAY both readable and interesting, full of poetic richness. Johnson's DAY is not as interesting to me because it is a perfect example of the kind of empty conceptualism which Goldsmith CLAIMS to practice, when in fact his writing is more interesting than his soundbites regarding same. Of course, since the texts are identical, Johnson's book is just as "rich" as Kenny's. But where Kenny produced a "uncreative" and yet, in another sense, "original" poetic text through the application of an artistic technique, Johnson is merely satirizing Goldsmith's pose.

Jonathan

Or maybe you take Goldsmith's word for it that "In conceptual writing the idea or concept is the most important aspect of the work. When an author uses a conceptual form of writing, it means that all of the planning and decisions are made beforehand and the execution is a perfunctory affair." If that's the case, then tell me, please, what makes Goldsmith's idea interesting? Given that the same idea has been had, and executed, by thousands of others, including Richard Prince, Sherri Levine, and anyone who's "written" a found poem, why should we see Goldsmith's project as any more or any less interesting than Johnson's?

But here's a thought: what if the dismissal of Kent's DAY as "superficially interesting" was exactly the point of his project? I don't say that it is; Kent can speak to that (or could, if he weren't banned from this list, though I'm sure he'll find a way to participate somehow). But what if? What if one took the annoyed response to Johnson's DAY as exactly the reaction he wanted, since it proved the fact--which you may take to be obvious, but which no one seems willing to publicly acknowledge--that there is a bright line between the kind of people whose uncreative writing allows them to reap every reward the culture industry has to offer-publication, glossy magazine interviews, fellowships and tenured academic positions--and those whose identical uncreative writing gets them shunned as wannabes? And what if that bright line has nothing to do with the work, or the ideas behind the work, and everything to do with the fact that one has gone to the right schools, lived in the right cities, and licked the right boots? I think you'd have to admit that it's a superficially interesting thought, at the very least.

Bobby

↑ Index

40. Jeffrey Side
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Fri 2 Oct 2009

Jonathon,

In fairness to Kenny, I haven't read Day so I can't take issue with you over whether it defamiliarises language any more than any other borrowed verbatim prose texts do.

Even if it this were so, I'm not sure that defamiliarising language is in itself an exceptionally important measure of poetic achievement, any more than a novel use of punctuation would be. Nor can I see how your following statement expresses anything other than your personal opinion:

'What makes Goldsmith's texts, such as DAY, innovative and audacious works is the actual poetic richness of the texts produced under these "uncreative" constraints, not the their conceptualist underpinnings.'

Both points seem to me incidental to the conceptualising of theft as an artistic act.

On Fri, 2 Oct 2009 08:39:31 -0500, Jonathan Ball
<[redacted]> wrote:

>Thanks Jeffrey, however I did read your post when you originally sent it >around. My original point is to take issue with your statement, as I claim >that there is nothing innovative or audacious about this appropriation
by >Johnson. Its conceptual value is not to earmark thievery as art, or to >question categories of authorship --- both dry, boring notions by now --
-
>but rather to extend to its logical extreme the rhetoric of a conceptualist
>like Goldsmith.
>
>My point is that Goldsmith's rhetoric of conceptulist value being the only >value is already dry and boring. What makes Goldsmith's texts, such as DAY, >innovative and audacious works is the actual poetic richness of the texts >produced under these "uncreative" constraints, not the their conceptualist >underpinnings. Therefore, Johnson's act, aside from being hamfisted satire, >is just "more of the same" insofar as conceptualist writing is concerned.

>Goldsmith makes use of conceptualist tactics to defamiliarize language (in >this case the language of journalism and advertising) through a reframing in >order to produce poetic texts. Johnson is taking a work of conceptualist >poetry as his source, and turning it into more conceptualist poetry .... no >such radical defamiliarization of language has occurred (in other words, no >poetry is produced through a shift of the text's framework).
>
>Moreover, the act by Johnson will not lead to legal action --- Goldsmith >suing over somebody stealing his previously stolen text .... the thought is >absurd. The original act by Goldsmith is the only one subject to legal >action. In any case, whether or not a poetic act is subject to legal action >is no source or guarantor of its artistic value.
>
>Jonathan
>
>
>
>On Fri, Oct 2, 2009 at 5:48 AM, Jeffrey Side <[redacted]> wrote:
>
>> Jonathan, please see my blog on this, where I say:
>>
>> 'Incidentally, it could be said that Johnson’s appropriation of >> Goldsmith’s “work” is, perhaps, the more innovative and audacious act >> in comparison to Goldsmith’s “original” gesture, which, I think most will >> recognise, was based on an already established artistic precedent.'

>>
>>
>> http://jeffrey-side.blogspot.com/
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>
>> On Thu, 1 Oct 2009 18:35:34 -0500, Jonathan Ball
>> <[redacted]> wrote:
>>
>> >I want to say that I'm not annoyed by Johnson's DAY. I am new to
>> this list
>> >and don't really know who Johnson is, he seems to have a longer
>> history with
>> >this list (somebody mentioned that he was banned from it, for
>> reasons I >> >don't know about). I think his project is intended as a joke, but since
>> it
>> >is being presented and supported by some as serious work, I just >> want to >> >talk about whether or not it stands or falls as serious work. It certainly >> >succeeds as a joke.
>> >
>> >
>> >
>> >
>> >
>> >On Wed, Sep 30, 2009 at 2:34 PM, Adam Katz
>> <[redacted]> wrote:
>> >
>> >> >
>> >> > What if one took the annoyed response to >> >> > Johnson's DAY as exactly the reaction he wanted
>> >>
>> >>

>> >> Not to answer this question one way or another, but to point out
>> that, were
>> >> this reaction what he was going for, that still doesn't make it
>> a "good"
>> >> thing to have gone for. It may very well be, though.
>> >> a
>> >>
>> guidelines
>> >>
>> >
>> >
>> >
>> >--
>> >Dr. Jonathan Ball, Ph.D. (English)
>> >Sessional Instructor
>> >University of Manitoba
>> >University of Winnipeg
>> >
>> >www.jonathanball.com
>> >
>> >“If someone tells you writing is easy, he is either lying or I hate
>> him.” --
>> >Farley Mowat
>> >
>>
guidelines
>>
>
>
>
>--
>Dr. Jonathan Ball, Ph.D. (English)
>Sessional Instructor
>University of Manitoba
>University of Winnipeg
>
>www.jonathanball.com
>
>“If someone tells you writing is easy, he is either lying or I hate
him.” --
>Farley Mowat
>

↑ Index

41. Jeffrey Side

Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

Fri 2 Oct 2009

Mairead,

But being fun as a measure of artistic worth is not being questioned by Kent? What he is questioning are concepts of authorship in relation to literary theft.

On Fri, 2 Oct 2009 10:06:16 -0400, Mairead Byrne
<[redacted]> wrote:

>Other aspects of the artistic practices of KG and KJ are worth considering. KG has brought Abbie Hoffman's Steal This Book to vital and extraordinary development in the stunning super-energizing panoramic UbuWeb. He's also an A1 performer: live, on paper, and conceptually. Ever seen/heard/sat under his Bern Porter piece? I agree with Maria that he's a LOT of fun. KJ is kinda fun too, and appeals just as heartily to some senses of humor as KG does to mine. The work often seems mean to me, not just mean-spirited but flimsy. A lot of what KG is doing is energizing the poetry world by importing and writing (in VERY large letters) ideas from the art world. KJ, to me, is a kind of policeman (CIA man?), setting off small bombs to injure poets, or at least crumple their horny toe-nails. This policeman is an upstanding citizen as teacher and translator though, maybe he even loves poetry there. But at night, he puts on his little cape, and runs round sticking needles into things .....YIKES now he's heading for me....
>
>
>>>> Jonathan Ball <[redacted]> 10/02/09 9:39 AM >>>
>Thanks Jeffrey, however I did read your post when you originally sent it >around. My original point is to take issue with your statement, as I claim
>that there is nothing innovative or audacious about this appropriation
by >Johnson. Its conceptual value is not to earmark thievery as art, or to >question categories of authorship --- both dry, boring notions by now --
-
>but rather to extend to its logical extreme the rhetoric of a
conceptualist
>like Goldsmith.
>

>My point is that Goldsmith's rhetoric of conceptulist value being the only >value is already dry and boring. What makes Goldsmith's texts, such as DAY, >innovative and audacious works is the actual poetic richness of the texts
>produced under these "uncreative" constraints, not the their conceptualist
>underpinnings. Therefore, Johnson's act, aside from being hamfisted satire, >is just "more of the same" insofar as conceptualist writing is concerned.
>Goldsmith makes use of conceptualist tactics to defamiliarize language (in >this case the language of journalism and advertising) through a reframing in >order to produce poetic texts. Johnson is taking a work of conceptualist >poetry as his source, and turning it into more conceptualist poetry .... no >such radical defamiliarization of language has occurred (in other words, no >poetry is produced through a shift of the text's framework).
>
>Moreover, the act by Johnson will not lead to legal action --- Goldsmith >suing over somebody stealing his previously stolen text .... the thought is >absurd. The original act by Goldsmith is the only one subject to legal >action. In any case, whether or not a poetic act is subject to legal action >is no source or guarantor of its artistic value.
>
>Jonathan
>
>
>
>On Fri, Oct 2, 2009 at 5:48 AM, Jeffrey Side <[redacted]> wrote:
>
>> Jonathan, please see my blog on this, where I say:
>>
>> 'Incidentally, it could be said that Johnson's appropriation of >> Goldsmith's "work" is, perhaps, the more innovative and audacious

act
>> in comparison to Goldsmith's "original" gesture, which, I think most will >> recognise, was based on an already established artistic precedent.'
>>
>>
>> http://jeffrey-side.blogspot.com/
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>
>> On Thu, 1 Oct 2009 18:35:34 -0500, Jonathan Ball
>> <[redacted]> wrote:
>>
>> >I want to say that I'm not annoyed by Johnson's DAY. I am new to
>> this list
>> >and don't really know who Johnson is, he seems to have a longer
>> history with
>> >this list (somebody mentioned that he was banned from it, for
>> reasons I >> >don't know about). I think his project is intended as a joke, but since
>> it
>> >is being presented and supported by some as serious work, I just >> want to >> >talk about whether or not it stands or falls as serious work. It certainly
>> >succeeds as a joke.
>> >
>> >
>> >
>> >
>> >
>> >On Wed, Sep 30, 2009 at 2:34 PM, Adam Katz
>> <[redacted]> wrote:
>> >
>> >> >
>> >> > What if one took the annoyed response to >> >> > Johnson's DAY as exactly the reaction he wanted
>> >>

>> >>
>> >> Not to answer this question one way or another, but to point out
>> that, were
>> >> this reaction what he was going for, that still doesn't make it
>> a "good"
>> >> thing to have gone for. It may very well be, though.
>> >> a
>> >>
>> guidelines
>> >>
>> >
>> >
>> >
>> >--
>> >Dr. Jonathan Ball, Ph.D. (English)
>> >Sessional Instructor
>> >University of Manitoba
>> >University of Winnipeg
>> >
>> >www.jonathanball.com
>> >
>> >"If someone tells you writing is easy, he is either lying or I hate
>> him." --
>> >Farley Mowat
>> >
>>
guidelines
>>
>
>
>
>--
>Dr. Jonathan Ball, Ph.D. (English)
>Sessional Instructor
>University of Manitoba
>University of Winnipeg
>
>www.jonathanball.com
>
>"If someone tells you writing is easy, he is either lying or I hate
him." --
>Farley Mowat

>
>

↑ Index

42. Christopher Leland Winks
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Fri 2 Oct 2009

A lor of verbiage on Kent Johnson's taking the piss out of Kenneth Goldsmith, who richly deserves it as another one of those necrophiles brandishing (among other gestures) the cryogenically-preserved (freeze-dried?) corpse of a "conceptual" art sans concepts, sans art, sans eyes, sans everything. But while I like the joke, is it really worth killing so many trees just to play one?

↑ Index

43. Murat Nemet-Nejat
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Fri 2 Oct 2009

I meant "Kent," not "John" paid a price for Doubled Flowering.

Ciao,

Murat

On Fri, Oct 2, 2009 at 11:57 AM, Murat Nemet-Nejat <[redacted]>wrote:

> For me, Thoreau's going to jail for his civil disobedience (even if only for a day) is a piece of conceptual art. In fact, he may be the first conceptual artist, at least, in the United States. That act itself is followed by words, the essay "Civil Disobedience," which actualy isl a manifesto of conceptual gesture transformed into political act.
>
> *Let's face it, neither Goldsmith nor Johnson expect to go to jail for their acts. Both lack, I think, an element of risk. Therefore, essentially they become conversation pieces as conceptual works. On the other hand, Doubled Flowering is truly a conceptual gesture, and John has paid and is still paying a price for it.*
>
> I have a question: how many on this list has read Goldsmith's work through? Jonathan, have you read it through? I am curious how many of us are talking about works that we actually read? What does reading of a conceptual mean? Is it the same as any other reading? Jonathan, talking about the "richness" of Goldsmith's text, you are implying that you have read it through. Have you done so?
>
> Ciao,

Murat

On Fri, Oct 2, 2009 at 9:39 AM, Jonathan Ball <[redacted]>wrote:

Thanks Jeffrey, however I did read your post when you originally sent it around. My original point is to take issue with your statement, as I claim that there is nothing innovative or audacious about this appropriation by Johnson. Its conceptual value is not to earmark thievery as art, or to question categories of authorship --- both dry, boring notions by now --- but rather to extend to its logical extreme the rhetoric of a conceptualist like Goldsmith.

My point is that Goldsmith's rhetoric of conceptulist value being the only value is already dry and boring. What makes Goldsmith's texts, such as DAY, innovative and audacious works is the actual poetic richness of the texts produced under these "uncreative" constraints, not the their conceptualist underpinnings. Therefore, Johnson's act, aside from being hamfisted satire, is just "more of the same" insofar as conceptualist writing is concerned. Goldsmith makes use of conceptualist tactics to defamiliarize language (in this case the language of journalism and advertising) through a reframing in order to produce poetic texts. Johnson is taking a work of conceptualist poetry as his source, and turning it into more conceptualist poetry .... no such radical defamiliarization of language has occurred (in other words, no poetry is produced through a shift of the text's framework).

Moreover, the act by Johnson will not lead to legal action --- Goldsmith suing over somebody stealing his previously stolen text .... the thought is absurd. The original act by Goldsmith is the only one subject to legal action. In any case, whether or not a poetic act is subject to legal action is no source or guarantor of its artistic value.

Jonathan

On Fri, Oct 2, 2009 at 5:48 AM, Jeffrey Side <[redacted]> wrote:

Jonathan, please see my blog on this, where I say:

'Incidentally, it could be said that Johnson's appropriation of Goldsmith's "work" is, perhaps, the more innovative and audacious act in comparison to Goldsmith's "original" gesture, which, I think most will recognise, was based on an already established artistic precedent.'

http://jeffrey-side.blogspot.com/

On Thu, 1 Oct 2009 18:35:34 -0500, Jonathan Ball <[redacted]> wrote:

I want to say that I'm not annoyed by Johnson's DAY. I am new to this list and don't really know who Johnson is, he seems to have a longer history with this list (somebody mentioned that he was banned from it, for reasons I don't know about). I think his project is intended as a joke, but since it is being presented and supported by some as serious work, I just want to talk about whether or not it stands or falls as serious work. It certainly succeeds as a joke.

On Wed, Sep 30, 2009 at 2:34 PM, Adam Katz <[redacted]> wrote:

What if one took the annoyed response to Johnson's DAY as exactly the reaction he wanted

Not to answer this question one way or another, but to point out that, were this reaction what he was going for, that still doesn't make it

a "good"
thing to have gone for. It may very well be, though.
a

guidelines

--
Dr. Jonathan Ball, Ph.D. (English)
Sessional Instructor
University of Manitoba
University of Winnipeg

www.jonathanball.com

“If someone tells you writing is easy, he is either lying or I hate him.” --
Farley Mowat

guidelines

--
Dr. Jonathan Ball, Ph.D. (English)
Sessional Instructor
University of Manitoba
University of Winnipeg

www.jonathanball.com

“If someone tells you writing is easy, he is either lying or I hate him.”
--
Farley Mowat

↑ Index

44. amy king

Two Twomorrow -- NYC

Fri 2 Oct 2009

*MANHATTAN The New York Public Library: Grand Central Branch â€“Â 135 East 46th Street NY, NYOctober 3rd @ 2 PMâ€“ Shanna Compton, Nada Gordon and Amy King Shanna ComptonÂ is the author of For Girls (& Others) (Bloof Books, 2008), Down Spooky (Winnow, 2005), GAMERS (Soft Skull, 2004), and several chapbooks. Her poems and essays have appeared widely, including Best American Poetry 2005, McSweeneyâ€™s, the Poetry Foundation website, and the forthcoming Flarf anthology. Recent poems and an essay may be found in the tenth anniversary issue of LIT. She blogs desultorily atÂ shannacompton.com.Nada Gordonâ€™sÂ books include V. Imp., Are Not Your Lowing Heifers Sleeker Than Night-Swollen Mushrooms, Swoon (with Gary Sullivan) and Foriegn Bodi, and Folly (2007). Visit her blog atÂ http://ululate.blogspot.comAmy KingÂ is the author of Iâ€™m the Man Who Loves You and Antidotes for an Alibi, and forthcoming, I Want to Make You Safe and Slaves to Do These Things. She teaches English and Creative Writing at Nassau Community College and curatesÂ the Brooklyn-based reading series, The Stain of Poetry. For more information, please visitÂ amyking.org

*BROOKLYN

EOAGH Issue 5
First Launch Event
SATURDAY, OCT 3rd @8 PM
Unnameable Books
600 Vanderbilt Ave, BrooklynThis event is co-sponsored by Chax Press8:00 Amy King
8:15 Jeremy James Thompson
8:30 Mark Lamoureux
8:45 Christie Ann Reynolds
9:00 Eric Lindley
9:15 Bill Marsh
9:30 Adeena Karasick
9:45 Matthew RotandoAmy KingÂ is the author of Iâ€™m the Man Who Loves You and, and forthcoming, I Want to Make You Safe and Slaves to do These Things. She curates the Brooklyn-based reading series, The Stain of Poetry. For more information, please visit amyking.org.Jeremy James ThompsonÂ is an instructor at New Yorkâ€™s Center for Book Arts, as well as curator of the reading series TEXTFORM. His work focuses on the process of collaboration, the reinvention of propaganda, and the defining of a practical avant-garde.Mark LamoureuxÂ lives in Astoria, NY. He is the author of Astronomy Organon (Blazevox) and 5 chapbooks. In 2006 he started Cy Gist Press, a micropress focusing on ekphrastic poetry.Christie Ann ReynoldsÂ is a native New Yorker. She is the 2009 winner of The New School Chapbook Contest, chosen by Brenda Shaughnessy. Her first full-length manuscript will be published by Black Maze Books in the summer of 2010. She lives on the undetermined border of Queens and Brooklyn.Eric LindleyÂ loves language like a baby loves life; that is, fearfully, perversely, inscrutably, and currently working as a robot-builder, electro-folk musician, and psycholinguist.Bill MarshÂ co-directs Factory School and edits the Heretical Texts series. He also curates NoDiff.com, a social networking site for his students at Queensborough Community College.Adeena KarasickÂ is a poet, media-artist and the award-winning author of six books of poetry and poetic theory, most recently Amuse Bouche: Tasty Treats for the Mouth (Talonbooks 2009).Matthew Rotandoâ€™s first book of poems, The Comebackâ€™s Exoskeleton, (with a foreward by Tim Peterson) is available from Upset Press. He is a member of POG, a collective of artists and poets in Tucson, Arizona.http://amyking.wordpress.com/2009/10/01/two-this-saturday-october-3rd/

_____

NEW BOOK

Slaves to Do These Things -- http://www.blazevox.org/bk-ak3.htm -- For a review copy, please email me directly.

↑ Index

45. Nick LoLordo

Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

Fri 2 Oct 2009

Killing trees? Kent has merely killed a few stickers. It's Kenny who killed the trees; in this sense Kent's work, whatever one thinks of it otherwise, is at least arguably a more "conceptual" project.....

On Fri, Oct 2, 2009 at 12:10 PM, Christopher Leland Winks <[redacted]>wrote:

> A lor of verbiage on Kent Johnson's taking the piss out of Kenneth Goldsmith, who richly deserves it as another one of those necrophiles brandishing (among other gestures) the cryogenically-preserved (freeze-dried?) corpse of a "conceptual" art sans concepts, sans art, sans eyes, sans everything. But while I like the joke, is it really worth killing so many trees just to play one?

--
V. Nicholas LoLordo
Assistant Professor
Department of English
University of Nevada-Las Vegas
[redacted]

↑ Index

46. Jeffrey Side

Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

Fri 2 Oct 2009

Nick, I agree. I've been trying to get this across here, but I think people just don't like Kent. I bet if Kent had done Day first and Kenny "stole" it and published it people would say "Wow, what a great idea!".

Regarding Kenny's artistic strategies…. when he says:

'On the contrary, we employ intentionally self and egoeffacing tactics using uncreativity, unoriginality, illegibility, appropriation, plagiarism, fraud, theft, and falsification as our precepts; information management, word processing, databasing, and extreme process as our methodologies; and boredom, valuelessness, and nutritionlessness as our ethos. If we appear to you as fads, then we feel we've succeeded beyond our wildest expectations: we'll be yesterday's news by the time you read this'.

What sort of response is he expecting? If all he says is the case, then is it a case worth making outside of his wanting attention from it? I'm surprised no one can see though this.

Incidentally, Kenny still hasn't responded to my comment on Dale Smith's blog left some weeks ago, regarding statements in Kenny's interview with Dale. In that comment I said:

'I was rather perplexed to see Kenny so supportive of the idea that anything should go in poetry, yet admit that UbuWeb is not a democracy and that he decides "what goes there", and that: "99% of what is submitted is not accepted. But that's why it's so good. The bar is set very high according to Ubu's standards, which are quite rigorous."

Yet, I wonder what criteria are brought into play when deciding what is the best of "anything should go", or arbitrarily collaged texts etc. I suppose, there isn't one, and that it is all personal taste.'

Kenny refuses to comment on this.

On Fri, 2 Oct 2009 15:47:04 -0700, Nick LoLordo
<[redacted]> wrote:

>Killing trees? Kent has merely killed a few stickers. It's Kenny who >killed the trees; in this sense Kent's work, whatever one thinks of it >otherwise, is at least arguably a more "conceptual" project.....
>
>On Fri, Oct 2, 2009 at 12:10 PM, Christopher Leland Winks
><[redacted]>wrote:
>
>> A lor of verbiage on Kent Johnson's taking the piss out of Kenneth >> Goldsmith, who richly deserves it as another one of those necrophiles
>> brandishing (among other gestures) the cryogenically-preserved >> (freeze-dried?) corpse of a "conceptual" art sans concepts, sans art, sans
>> eyes, sans everything. But while I like the joke, is it really worth >> killing so many trees just to play one?
>>
guidelines
>>
>
>
>
>--
>V. Nicholas LoLordo
>Assistant Professor
>Department of English
>University of Nevada-Las Vegas
>[redacted]
>

↑ Index

47. Rosalie Calabrese

ROSALIE'S READINGS OCTOBER - DECEMBER 2009

Fri 2 Oct 2009

Two new dates and one reminder:
Â
Wednesday, October 21 at 7:00 PM

The Brownstone Poets Presents: Rosalie Calabrese, Jim Porter and Moira Smith
Tillies of Brooklyn

248 DeKalb Ave. (corner of Vanderbilt and DeKalb), Brooklyn Â
Phone: [redacted]
Take the J, M, R or Q trains to DeKalb Avenue; the C to Lafayette; the G to Clinton/Washington;
2, 3, 4, 5 to Nevins St.
Â $3 Donation â€“ plus Food/Drink â€“ Limited Open Mic Curated by Patricia CarragonÂ Â email: [redacted]
Sunday, October 25 at 5:30 PM

Phoenix Reading Series @ Bengal Curry
65 West Broadway
(1-1/2 blocks below Chambers St.)
Take1, 2, 3, A, C, or E train to Chambers Street Donation requested â€“ Open Mic
â€œIf
you love poetry you will not want to miss it. If you love Indian food, including the best nan in NYC, you will not want to miss it. If you love both you will be in Nirvana.â€
Thursday, December 3 @ 8:00 PM

Kiva CafÃ©
139 Reade St. (Between Hudson & Greenwich Sts.)
Phone: [redacted]
Take A or C train to Chambers St.
Food & Drink available â€“ Open Mic
www.kivacafe.com

↑ Index

48. Ryan Daley
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Fri 2 Oct 2009

We all kill trees. Killing trees is positive: too many trees = too much CO = big problems for globe/warming trends.

Seriously tho, I'll go out on a limb, or perhaps not, and say this: I like both ideas. I thought KG's idea was great and interesting (albeit, w/o reading in full) and Kent's new piece also seems interesting, especially relevant in an era when intellectual privacy, piracy and property is the next big thing (those of you not following the piratebay.org lawsuit, should). Goldsmith and KJ should celebrate together, they're pushing the boulder along, smiling.

I will add that I think Johnson's project excels at what much of his work seems to address lately: the destruction of "PoBiz" egos and hype. Certainly Kent has created a type of anti-hype (not like anti-christ, more like anti-matter), denying authorship of Doubled Flowering to this day...

I think Kent probably settled on this idea because of 1) DAY's concept almost begs for "theft" and 2) Goldsmith's work has received a lot of warranted and unwarranted attention. To attack something boring and unknown is one thing, but to attack what everyone seems to be talking about, now * that's* something. I think what Kent's piece says is not only that our ideas on authorship are hypocritical (giving KG credit for something he didn't "write," attacking Kent for something he most likely DID write, as if he were someone else), but that once accepted, that pseudonymous work can become sacrosanct, which would explain the hubbub here about KJ supposedly defiling KG's work.

-Ryan

On Fri, Oct 2, 2009 at 6:47 PM, Nick LoLordo <[redacted]> wrote:

> Killing trees? Kent has merely killed a few stickers. It's Kenny who killed the trees; in this sense Kent's work, whatever one thinks of it otherwise, is at least arguably a more "conceptual" project.....
>
> On Fri, Oct 2, 2009 at 12:10 PM, Christopher Leland Winks <[redacted]>wrote:
>
> A lor of verbiage on Kent Johnson's taking the piss out of Kenneth Goldsmith, who richly deserves it as another one of those necrophiles brandishing (among other gestures) the cryogenically-preserved (freeze-dried?) corpse of a "conceptual" art sans concepts, sans art, sans > eyes, sans everything. But while I like the joke, is it really worth killing so many trees just to play one?
>
> guidelines
>
> --
> V. Nicholas LoLordo
> Assistant Professor
> Department of English
> University of Nevada-Las Vegas
> [redacted]

↑ Index

49. Alison Croggon

Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

Fri 2 Oct 2009

Jeffrey, to be perfectly honest what's mostly getting up my nose is the smartarse complacency of the publicity, which is, I guess, the point of the whole exercise. You can't measure artistic courage by suability, or every tabloid journo would be Pound. Mind you, Enzensberger did say once that the contemporary tabloid paper is the exemplary modernist art object, but if that's the case Goldsmith is onto it while Johnson isn't. I can see, like Jonathan, the point of recontextualising language in the way KG does - there's nothing in KJ's act that recontextualises the language, except the fact that he's put his name on it, when authorship was never that important in the first place. In other words, the supposedly radical transformation is not radical at all, it just shifts the language from literature to more literature, and it merely operates at the level of a punchline. Ok, the subsequent (non)fuss points to the mechanisms by which books get known in the consumerist politcs of exchange etc, but really, yawn. In theorising "theft as an artistic act" - which as several people have said isn't precisely groundbreaking - I think it's seriously more interesting to look at Madoff. Or maybe that young guy who stole Damien Hirst's pencil, who _is_ being sued (and who I think is much funnier and is making a much more interesting point). And here you are talking about the "innovation" of a book you frankly confess you haven't read, which is wholly reductio ad absurdum. I mean, it's a fake storm in an egg-cup.

xA

On Sat, Oct 3, 2009 at 3:54 AM, Jeffrey Side <[redacted]> wrote:
> Mairead,
>
> But being fun as a measure of artistic worth is not being questioned by > Kent? What he is questioning are concepts of authorship in relation to > literary theft.
>
>
>
> On Fri, 2 Oct 2009 10:06:16 -0400, Mairead Byrne
> <[redacted]> wrote:
>
>>Other aspects of the artistic practices of KG and KJ are worth > considering. KG has brought Abbie Hoffman's Steal This Book to vital > and extraordinary development in the stunning super-energizing > panoramic UbuWeb. He's also an A1 performer: live, on paper, and > conceptually. Ever seen/heard/sat under his Bern Porter piece? I agree > with Maria that he's a LOT of fun. KJ is kinda fun too, and appeals just > as heartily to some senses of humor as KG does to mine. The work > often seems mean to me, not just mean-spirited but flimsy. A lot of > what KG is doing is energizing the poetry world by importing and writing > (in VERY large letters) ideas from the art world. KJ, to me, is a kind of > policeman (CIA man?), setting off small bombs to injure poets, or at > least crumple their horny toe-nails. This policeman is an upstanding > citizen as teacher and translator though, maybe he even loves poetry

> there. But at night, he puts on his little cape, and runs round sticking > needles into things .....YIKES now he's heading for me....
>>
>>
>>>>> Jonathan Ball <[redacted]> 10/02/09 9:39 AM >>>
>>Thanks Jeffrey, however I did read your post when you originally sent it >>around. My original point is to take issue with your statement, as I > claim
>>that there is nothing innovative or audacious about this appropriation
> by >>Johnson. Its conceptual value is not to earmark thievery as art, or to >>question categories of authorship --- both dry, boring notions by now --
> -
>>but rather to extend to its logical extreme the rhetoric of a
> conceptualist
>>like Goldsmith.
>>
>>My point is that Goldsmith's rhetoric of conceptulist value being the > only >>value is already dry and boring. What makes Goldsmith's texts, such > as DAY,
>>innovative and audacious works is the actual poetic richness of the > texts
>>produced under these "uncreative" constraints, not the their
> conceptualist
>>underpinnings. Therefore, Johnson's act, aside from being hamfisted > satire,
>>is just "more of the same" insofar as conceptualist writing is > concerned.
>>Goldsmith makes use of conceptualist tactics to defamiliarize
> language (in >>this case the language of journalism and advertising) through a > reframing in >>order to produce poetic texts. Johnson is taking a work of conceptualist >>poetry as his source, and turning it into more conceptualist poetry ....

> no
>>such radical defamiliarization of language has occurred (in other > words, no
>>poetry is produced through a shift of the text's framework).
>>
>>Moreover, the act by Johnson will not lead to legal action --- Goldsmith >>suing over somebody stealing his previously stolen text .... the > thought is >>absurd. The original act by Goldsmith is the only one subject to legal >>action. In any case, whether or not a poetic act is subject to legal > action
>>is no source or guarantor of its artistic value.
>>
>>Jonathan
>>
>>
>>
>>On Fri, Oct 2, 2009 at 5:48 AM, Jeffrey Side <[redacted]>
> wrote:
>>
>>> Jonathan, please see my blog on this, where I say:
>>>
>>> 'Incidentally, it could be said that Johnson's appropriation of >>> Goldsmith's "work" is, perhaps, the more innovative and audacious
> act
>>> in comparison to Goldsmith's "original" gesture, which, I think most > will >>> recognise, was based on an already established artistic precedent.'
>>>
>>>
>>> http://jeffrey-side.blogspot.com/
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>> On Thu, 1 Oct 2009 18:35:34 -0500, Jonathan Ball
>>> <[redacted]> wrote:
>>>
>>> >I want to say that I'm not annoyed by Johnson's DAY. I am new to

>>> this list
>>> >and don't really know who Johnson is, he seems to have a longer
>>> history with
>>> >this list (somebody mentioned that he was banned from it, for
>>> reasons I >>> >don't know about). I think his project is intended as a joke, but > since
>>> it
>>> >is being presented and supported by some as serious work, I just >>> want to >>> >talk about whether or not it stands or falls as serious work. It > certainly
>>> >succeeds as a joke.
>>> >
>>> >
>>> >
>>> >
>>> >
>>> >On Wed, Sep 30, 2009 at 2:34 PM, Adam Katz
>>> <[redacted]> wrote:
>>> >
>>> >> >
>>> >> > What if one took the annoyed response to >>> >> > Johnson's DAY as exactly the reaction he wanted
>>> >>
>>> >>
>>> >> Not to answer this question one way or another, but to point out
>>> that, were
>>> >> this reaction what he was going for, that still doesn't make it
>>> a "good"
>>> >> thing to have gone for. It may very well be, though.
>>> >> a
>>> >>
>>> guidelines
>>> >>
>>> >
>>> >
>>> >
>>> >--
>>> >Dr. Jonathan Ball, Ph.D. (English)
>>> >Sessional Instructor
>>> >University of Manitoba

>>> >University of Winnipeg
>>> >
>>> >www.jonathanball.com
>>> >
>>> >"If someone tells you writing is easy, he is either lying or I hate
>>> him." --
>>> >Farley Mowat
>>> >
>>>
> guidelines
>>>
>>
>>
>>
>>--
>>Dr. Jonathan Ball, Ph.D. (English)
>>Sessional Instructor
>>University of Manitoba
>>University of Winnipeg
>>
>>www.jonathanball.com
>>
>>"If someone tells you writing is easy, he is either lying or I hate
> him." --
>>Farley Mowat
>>
>>
>
>

--
Editor, Masthead: http://www.masthead.net.au
Blog: http://theatrenotes.blogspot.com
Home page: http://www.alisoncroggon.com

↑ Index

50. David Kirschenbaum

d.a. levy lives: celebrating the renegade press 2009-10 schedule

Fri 2 Oct 2009

Hi all,

Last month we kicked off the seventh season of our d.a. levy lives: celebrating the renegade press series with South Boston's Rope-A-Dope Press. Below is the remaining schedule for the season. (Poets and musical acts TBA, excluding October event listed below.)

as ever,
David

P.S. And on Fri., Dec. 4, from 9:00 p.m.-11:00 p.m. at Sidewalk Café (94 Ave. A, NYC), for the 20th anniversary of its first full performances at The Brooklyn Academy of Music, we will be performing Lou Reed and John Cale's Andy Warhol concept album Songs for Drella as part of our Classic Albums Live series. With performances by Christy Davis and friends, Jesse Schoen, JUANBURGUESA, Lady Blanche, Renminbi, and more.

---

d.a. levy lives: celebrating the renegade press
Season 7 schedule
all events take place at 6:00 p.m. on last Tuesdays (except December) at ACA Galleries, 529 W. 20th St., 5th Flr., NYC

2009

Tues. Oct. 27
Peaches and Bats
http://peachbats.blogspot.com/
(Portland, Ore.)
Sam Lohmann, founder and editor

Featuring readings from

Marcella Durand
Lohmann
Eléna Rivera
David Shapiro

and music from

Ann Adachi and friends
http://www.rasbliutto.net/concerts/eidolon.html

Tues. Nov. 24
Brave Men Press
http://www.bravemenpress.com/
(Northampton, Mass.)
E. B. Goodale, proprietor/art director
Brian Foley, poetry editor

Tues. Dec. 15
N.Y.C. Small Presses Night curated by Kitchen Press editor Justin Marks featuring Flying Guillotine Press, Mal-o-mar Editions, Ryan Murphy's rotating press, and more http://flyingguillotinepress.blogspot.com/http://mal-o-mar.blogspot.com/

2010

Tues. Jan. 26
Alice James Books
http://www.alicejamesbooks.org/
(Farmington, Maine)

Tues. Feb. 23
Forklift, Ohio
http://www.forkliftohio.com/(Cincinnati)
Matt Hart, editor-in-chief

Tues. March 30
Cannibal Books
http://flesheatingpoems.blogspot.com/
(Fayetteville, Ark.)
Matt Henriksen, ed.

Tues. April 27
Lana Turner: A Journal of Poetry and Opinion
http://www.lanaturnerjournal.com/
(Santa Monica, Calif.)
Calvin Bedient and David Lau, editors

Tues. May 25
Wave Books
http://www.wavepoetry.com/
(Seattle)
Joshua Beckman, ed.

Tues. June 29
Interbirth Books
http://www.interbirthbooks.org/
(Dallas)
Micah Robbins, ed.

Tues. July 27
Eleven Eleven
http://elevenelevenjournal.com/
(San Francisco)
Hugh Behm-Steinberg, faculty ed.

--
David A. Kirschenbaum, editor and publisher
Boog City
330 W. 28th St., Suite 6H
NY, NY 10001-4754
For event and publication information:
http://welcometoboogcity.com/
T: (212) 842-BOOG (2664)

↑ Index

51. John Perman
Idiolects of Silence by John Perlman
Sat 3 Oct 2009

John Perlman would like to thank those who have asked for a copy of his new book, Idiolects of Silence, available from [redacted]. in pdf format. Others who wish to recieve the book, please feel free to request.

↑ Index

52. Mary Kasimor
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Sat 3 Oct 2009

Thank you, Steve.

Mary

--- On Fri, 10/2/09, steve dalachinsky <[redacted]> wrote:

From: steve dalachinsky <[redacted]>
Subject: Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
To: [redacted]
Date: Friday, October 2, 2009, 8:32 AM

well none of that shit is poesie conceptual or not
hey guess what it might rain tonite
and tomorrow they're predicting scattered showers

On Fri, 2 Oct 2009 15:10:10 -0400 Christopher Leland Winks
<[redacted]> writes:

> A lor of verbiage on Kent Johnson's taking the piss out of Kenneth > Goldsmith, who richly deserves it as another one of those > necrophiles brandishing (among other gestures) the > cryogenically-preserved (freeze-dried?) corpse of a "conceptual" art > sans concepts, sans art, sans eyes, sans everything. But while I > like the joke, is it really worth killing so many trees just to play > one?
>
>
>

↑ Index

53. Stephen Ellis

Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

Sat 3 Oct 2009

Isn't the issue in much of this literary coup-coup simply an interrogation of where "authority" comes from? What legitimizes authorship? I seem to recall even Dante pulled a paradoxical shift and switcheroo between something Aristotle had said about poiesis, and something that, hmmm . . . was if de capo of the Holy Roman Empire also said, each in contradistinction with the other, so, Dante did a little creative editing to make them more aligned with his own purpose in the Commedia. I don't recall, exactly, and I don't have the books in front of me, but that kind of manipulation has been rife in literature from day one. Hermes, of course, is god of thiefs, lockpicks and poets, so there's no surprise that we all find ourselves (or get found out) inching the crowbar under the door of "that good booty." In terms of creativity at large and poetry specifically, we live in a dead zone, this is one of those dead areas in the history of The Art, so it makes sense that operations like Kent's or Kenny would look to be a mop-up scene, pulling corpses out of circular lecture halls with pincers and dragging them to The Fires, etc. Aesthetically, of course, and in cmplete denial of poetry's current "situation": It's simply up for theft. And these guys are doing the non-proprietary, proper thing, which is dual: Giving old corpses burial by ceremonial fire (the repetition, and, yeah, the repetition) as well as pulling off the originary act of stealing a little of the black soil (blackened a little more by the ash of the burning minions) from Paradise in order to institute on the staid earth, the "new time" of yet another indecent and lovely Adamic crime wave. SE

EMAILING FOR THE GREATER GOOD
Join me

> Date: Fri, 2 Oct 2009 21:28:09 -0400
> From: [redacted]

Subject: Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
To: [redacted]

We all kill trees. Killing trees is positive: too many trees = too much CO = big problems for globe/warming trends.

Seriously tho, I'll go out on a limb, or perhaps not, and say this: I like both ideas. I thought KG's idea was great and interesting (albeit, w/o reading in full) and Kent's new piece also seems interesting, especially relevant in an era when intellectual privacy, piracy and property is the next big thing (those of you not following the piratebay.org lawsuit, should). Goldsmith and KJ should celebrate together, they're pushing the boulder along, smiling.

I will add that I think Johnson's project excels at what much of his work seems to address lately: the destruction of "PoBiz" egos and hype. Certainly Kent has created a type of anti-hype (not like anti-christ, more like anti-matter), denying authorship of Doubled Flowering to this day...

*I think Kent probably settled on this idea because of 1) DAY's concept almost begs for "theft" and 2) Goldsmith's work has received a lot of warranted and unwarranted attention. To attack something boring and unknown is one thing, but to attack what everyone seems to be talking about, now * that's* something. I think what Kent's piece says is not only that our ideas on authorship are hypocritical (giving KG credit for something he didn't "write," attacking Kent for something he most likely DID write, as if he were someone else), but that once accepted, that pseudonymous work can become sacrosanct, which would explain the hubbub here about KJ supposedly defiling KG's work.*

-Ryan

On Fri, Oct 2, 2009 at 6:47 PM, Nick LoLordo <[redacted]> wrote:

Killing trees? Kent has merely killed a few stickers. It's Kenny who killed the trees; in this sense Kent's work, whatever one thinks of it otherwise, is at least arguably a more "conceptual" project.....

On Fri, Oct 2, 2009 at 12:10 PM, Christopher Leland Winks <[redacted]>wrote:

A lor of verbiage on Kent Johnson's taking the piss out of Kenneth Goldsmith, who richly deserves it as another one of those necrophiles brandishing (among other gestures) the cryogenically-preserved (freeze-dried?) corpse of a "conceptual" art sans concepts, sans art, sans eyes, sans everything. But while I like the joke, is it really worth killing so many trees just to play one?

> guidelines
>
> --
> V. Nicholas LoLordo
> Assistant Professor
> Department of English
> University of Nevada-Las Vegas
> [redacted]

↑ Index

54. Jeffrey Side

Poem by Peter Philpott at The Argotist Online

Sat 3 Oct 2009

Poem by Peter Philpott at The Argotist Online:
http://www.argotistonline.co.uk/Philpott%20poem.htm

↑ Index

55. Herb Levy

Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

Sat 3 Oct 2009

On Oct 2, 2009, at 5:55 AM, Jeffrey Side wrote:

> Very good point. Kent's act is far braver than Kenny's, as it could lead > to legal action. I think this is what makes Kent's act historically more > artistically original than Kenny's.

The only reason that I can imagine Johnson's act resulting in some kind of legal action, would be if the copies of the Figures edition of Day were stolen. & that doesn't seem to be the case.

My reading of this is that it has to be just about the safest "brave" action that anyone could make. Regardless of what Goldsmith may think of Johnson and this act, I think he's smart enough to understand any of the aesthetic & PR ramifications of Johnson's action and would be very, VERY unlikely to bother to sue. The Figures is getting whatever their wholesale price to Amazon is, so they have no reason to sue either.

This isn't about someone claiming to make an original one of a kind object that's an exact copy of another original one of a kind object. It's about someone buying a book, apparently at retail price (so Goldsmith and the Figures are getting paid already), and charging more for it with some added stickers.

In the software business, this is called "added value."

If there are ten people out there who want to spend $7 extra for some stickers, a signature and an aesthetic concept, that's great. But that doesn't seem too much different to me than the fact that there are people who were willing to spend $22 extra for the book without the stickers and a slightly different aesthetic concept. Because ANY of these people could have originally bought the NYTimes for that day for a buck or less, & they could still get a copy of it from the NYTimes for less than the price of the Figures book.

This isn't Robert Rauschenberg erasing a real drawing by Willem de Kooning and exhibiting the erased paper as his own work. It's not Kathy Acker getting sued by Arthur Hailey for using large chunks of his novels in her own work. It's not John Oswald reconfiguring music by the Beatles, Michael Jackson, etc and being forced to destroy all the undistributed copies of the recordings. It's not Todd Haynes being forced to stop exhibiting and distributing Superstar for it's use of music by the Carpenters.

If Johnson wants to make a brave gesture concerning authorship and copyright, let him try to sell copies of books by Dan Brown or Patricia Cornwall as his own work.

This is about one relatively esoteric artist trying to make some noise while pulling the chain of another relatively esoteric artist. Sure, Goldsmith has some more visibility that Johnson, but neither of these guys have any visibility in the mass culture we live in the midst of. We're talking about artists that may be known to a couple of thousand people in a world with a population of 6 billion.

About a dozen people have posted about this on the poetics list and almost all of these posts seem to be trying to make it seem like Johnson's made some kind of aesthetic coup. I don't see how you can read it like that, and I think the lack of pushback that Johnson's partisans have found here is a sign that I'm not the only one sees this issue that way.

↑ Index

56. Daniel Godston

Chinese Whispers at Myopic Books

Sun 4 Oct 2009

Chinese Whispers at Myopic Books

Sunday, October 4, 2009 (7-9 p.m.)

You are invited to attend "Chinese Whispers," which features a "poetry and art by telephone" game with poetry. This event is part of the poetry series curated by Larry Sawyer, and it is part of the Fourth Annual Chicago Calling Arts Festival.

This event will be in homage -- in part -- to the "Art by Telephone" event which happened at Chicago's Museum of Contemporary Art in 1969. (And that event 40 years ago was inspired by Bauhaus artist Laszlo Moholy-Nagy.) "Chinese Whispers" might include directions which involve chance operations, surrealist games, Oulipo strategies, and other elements. Out-of-town directions will be coming from Lisa Hemminger (San Diego), Jesse Seldess (Berlin), Billie Maciunas, Christopher Welch (Washington, DC), David Harrison Horton (Beijing), Mathew Timmons (Los Angeles), and Eric Lietz (Oakland). Chicago poets will include Jamie Kazay, Larry Sawyer, Jennifer Karmin, Dan Godston, and Kevin Kilroy. After "Chinese Whispers" is over, examples of the collaborations will be posted on a TBD website.

This event is free and open to the public.

Myopic Bookstore

1564 N Milwaukee Ave

Chicago, IL 60622-2008

[redacted]

http://www.myopicbookstore.com

http://www.chicagocalling.org

http://www.mcachicago.org/information/history.php?page=ihist

↑ Index

57. Camille Martin

collages - Camille Martin

Sun 4 Oct 2009

Some recent collages:

http://www.camillemartin.ca/19.php
http://www.camillemartin.ca/20.php
http://www.camillemartin.ca/21.php

Cheers!

Camille

Camille Martin
Toronto, Ontario
http://www.camillemartin.ca
http://rogueembryo.wordpress.com

↑ Index

58. Nate Pritts
often I am permitted to return to Duncan
Sun 4 Oct 2009

Incliner - the magazine from the Art Academy of Cincinnati - has a new series on their blog called SEEING IS READING: videorecordings of artists & writers. Here's the link:

http://inclinermagazine.blogspot.com/

The newest installment is up now - me reading Robert Duncan's poem "Often I Am Permitted to Return to a Meadow." It is accompanied by an essay that is about Coleridge, Duncan & Nate Pritts (veering off into talk about my new book, THE WONDERFULL YEARE, due out in early 2010 from Cooper Dillon books).

I had kind of a bad hair cut at the time.

_____
:: Dr. Nate Pritts

:: http://www.natepritts.com

_____ Your E-mail and More On-the-Go. Get Windows Live Hotmail Free.
http://clk.atdmt.com/GBL/go/171222985/direct/01/

↑ Index

59. { brad brace }
NP/bbs
Sun 4 Oct 2009

NOW PLAYING:

latest release: LBOSPI recordings field-compilations from Lake Brule, Oil Springs and Peele Island

___
___
___

over 13 hours of fresh mp3 rips of long reticent monoaural, radio-drifts¥, soup kitchens, police sirens, and forgotten film-soundtracks

--- bbs: brad brace sound --- --- http://69.64.229.114:8000 --- --- http://bbrace.net/undisclosed.html ---

¥ strangely compelling recordings from car radio while travelling under high-frequency transmission lines in central california

--- bbs: brad brace sound --- --- http://69.64.229.114:8000 --- --- http://bbrace.net/undisclosed.html ---

[eventually these will also be uploaded to internet archive, scrib and lulu]

enjoy! /:b

↑ Index

60. Emily Carr
call for submissions for dandelion magazine
Sun 4 Oct 2009

---

dandelion magazine is taking submissions for issue 35 number 2, "the sexual politics of meat." The theme of this issue is inspired by Carol J. Adam’s theory of “the sexual politics of meat” in her provocative book the of the same title (published in 1990).

In this issue, we are looking for works that sketch, hypothesize, challenge, elaborate, query, and otherwise address unexpected juxtapositions between the human and the animal and amongst sex, politics, and meat. What, we invite you to consider, are the historic, gender, race, and class implications of meat culture? How has the consumption of meat shaped our contemporary human cultures? How, by extension, has the consumption of meat shaped our notions of what it means to be humans? &, as a consequence, what it means to be men & women? How does the language of meat bleed into the vocabulary of gender, & vice versa?

We are particularly interested in what innovative thinkers, writers, & artists have to say about the relatings (or lack thereof) amongst sex, politics, and meat. How, by pushing language to increasingly expressive limits, can innovative texts intervene in the discourse of gender and food? How can innovative literatures articulate an alternative to meat culture as portrayed in the mass media?

dandelion publishes both critical and creative work and has, historically, been interested in writing that challenges (or otherwise ignores) generic expectations. It is the oldest literary magazine in Western Canada and is dedicated to publishing a diverse selection of writing by established and emerging writers from Canada and abroad.

Submission deadline is Dec 1st, 2009. The issue is slated to be published in late February 2010.

Email submissions are preferable, as a single attachment, with your last name and “sexual politics of meat” in the subject line, to [redacted]. **

*dandelion *is on-line at dandelionmag.ca.

Emily Carr

Managing Editor

*dandelion *Magazine

↑ Index

61. Jonathan Ball
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Sun 4 Oct 2009

In response to Murat, yes, I have read DAY, although I read it some time ago. DAY is not a masterpiece. But there are some stunning and exciting poetic effects, most of which result from effective juxtaposition and disjunction that results when ad-texts or other types of text (pull-quotes, headlines, "garbage" like headers) interrupt news stories, and in some cases the news items attain a certain pathos or silliness as a result of their placement in a book rather than a newspaper, as the medium lays additional emphasis on certain things. Of course, I find it conceptually interesting as well.

In response to Jeffrey, it seem to me that defamiliarizing language is one of the basic components of poetry itself. Estranging language from its normal functions for heightened, poetic effect. Insofar as the "conceptualising of theft as an artistic act," I suppose my response is "yes, but who cares"? So what? Theft is conceptualized as an artistic act constantly. Any found poem conceptualizes theft as an artistic act, to a lesser degree obviously, and in this example the theft is very bold and (insofar as the insular poetry world is concerned) high-profile, but so what? I don't see why anyone should care.

Perhaps this does come down to a matter of taste, as you suggest. Insofar as the conceptual underpinnings of each work, I find Goldsmith's act interesting insofar as it works to defamiliarize language, imply commentary on the print medium and on the news media, declare uncreative appropriation and textual reframing as poetic to an absurd degree, and trouble questions of authorship. Johnson's act seems, by comparison, to extend certain of Goldsmith's concerns (theft, questions of authorship) for the sake of satire, and so I don't see what is to be considered radical here.

It seems to me that this debate has become more about the personalities of the authors involved and whether or not somebody likes one or dislikes the other. I have absolutely no interest in this kind of discussion, and unless the tide turns I intend this as my last word on the subject.

↑ Index

62. Jeffrey Side

Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

Sun 4 Oct 2009

Alison, Kenny advocates not reading his appropriations. For him, talking about them is more important, which is all I'm doing.

Regardless of the extent of Kent's innovation, I think his action is more interesting because, to me, it goes further than Kenny's in that Kenny's act did not involve appropriating a "single author book", as Kent has done but, rather, a newspaper authored by many.

I don't think Jonathan said anything about Kenny's Day recontextualising language so much as defamiliarising it, which is more radical. Yet, as I responded to him at the time: 'Even if it this were so, I'm not sure that defamiliarising language is in itself an exceptionally important measure of poetic achievement, any more than a novel use of punctuation would be'.

On Sat, 3 Oct 2009 12:30:48 +1000, Alison Croggon
<[redacted]> wrote:

>Jeffrey, to be perfectly honest what's mostly getting up my nose is >the smartarse complacency of the publicity, which is, I guess, the >point of the whole exercise. You can't measure artistic courage by >suability, or every tabloid journo would be Pound. Mind you, >Enzensberger did say once that the contemporary tabloid paper is the >exemplary modernist art object, but if that's the case Goldsmith is >onto it while Johnson isn't. I can see, like Jonathan, the point of >recontextualising language in the way KG does - there's nothing in >KJ's act that recontextualises the language, except the fact that he's >put his name on it, when authorship was never that important in the >first place. In other words, the supposedly radical transformation is >not radical at all, it just shifts the language from literature to >more literature, and it merely operates at the level of a punchline.
>Ok, the subsequent (non)fuss points to the mechanisms by which books

>get known in the consumerist politcs of exchange etc, but really, >yawn. In theorising "theft as an artistic act" - which as several >people have said isn't precisely groundbreaking - I think it's >seriously more interesting to look at Madoff. Or maybe that young guy >who stole Damien Hirst's pencil, who _is_ being sued (and who I think >is much funnier and is making a much more interesting point). And here >you are talking about the "innovation" of a book you frankly confess >you haven't read, which is wholly reductio ad absurdum. I mean, it's a >fake storm in an egg-cup.
>
>xA
>
>On Sat, Oct 3, 2009 at 3:54 AM, Jeffrey Side <[redacted]> wrote:
>> Mairead,
>>
>> But being fun as a measure of artistic worth is not being questioned by >> Kent? What he is questioning are concepts of authorship in relation to >> literary theft.
>>
>>
>>
>> On Fri, 2 Oct 2009 10:06:16 -0400, Mairead Byrne
>> <[redacted]> wrote:
>>
>>>Other aspects of the artistic practices of KG and KJ are worth >> considering. KG has brought Abbie Hoffman's Steal This Book to vital >> and extraordinary development in the stunning super-energizing >> panoramic UbuWeb. He's also an A1 performer: live, on paper, and >> conceptually. Ever seen/heard/sat under his Bern Porter piece? I agree >> with Maria that he's a LOT of fun. KJ is kinda fun too, and appeals just >> as heartily to some senses of humor as KG does to mine. The work >> often seems mean to me, not just mean-spirited but flimsy. A lot of >> what KG is doing is energizing the poetry world by importing and writing >> (in VERY large letters) ideas from the art world. KJ, to me, is a kind of >> policeman (CIA man?), setting off small bombs to injure poets, or at >> least crumple their horny toe-nails. This policeman is an upstanding >> citizen as teacher and translator though, maybe he even loves poetry

>> there. But at night, he puts on his little cape, and runs round sticking >> needles into things .....YIKES now he's heading for me....
>>>
>>>
>>>>>> Jonathan Ball <[redacted]> 10/02/09 9:39 AM
>>>
>>>Thanks Jeffrey, however I did read your post when you originally sent it >>>around. My original point is to take issue with your statement, as I >> claim
>>>that there is nothing innovative or audacious about this appropriation
>> by >>>Johnson. Its conceptual value is not to earmark thievery as art, or
to >>>question categories of authorship --- both dry, boring notions by now --
>> -
>>>but rather to extend to its logical extreme the rhetoric of a
>> conceptualist
>>>like Goldsmith.
>>>
>>>My point is that Goldsmith's rhetoric of conceptulist value being the >> only >>>value is already dry and boring. What makes Goldsmith's texts, such
>> as DAY, >>>innovative and audacious works is the actual poetic richness of the >> texts
>>>produced under these "uncreative" constraints, not the their
>> conceptualist
>>>underpinnings. Therefore, Johnson's act, aside from being hamfisted
>> satire,
>>>is just "more of the same" insofar as conceptualist writing is >> concerned.
>>>Goldsmith makes use of conceptualist tactics to defamiliarize

>> language (in >>>this case the language of journalism and advertising) through a
>> reframing in >>>order to produce poetic texts. Johnson is taking a work of conceptualist
>>>poetry as his source, and turning it into more conceptualist poetry ....
>> no
>>>such radical defamiliarization of language has occurred (in other >> words, no
>>>poetry is produced through a shift of the text's framework).
>>>
>>>Moreover, the act by Johnson will not lead to legal action --- Goldsmith
>>>suing over somebody stealing his previously stolen text .... the
>> thought is >>>absurd. The original act by Goldsmith is the only one subject to legal >>>action. In any case, whether or not a poetic act is subject to legal >> action
>>>is no source or guarantor of its artistic value.
>>>
>>>Jonathan
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>On Fri, Oct 2, 2009 at 5:48 AM, Jeffrey Side <[redacted]>
>> wrote:
>>>
>>>> Jonathan, please see my blog on this, where I say:
>>>>
>>>> 'Incidentally, it could be said that Johnson's appropriation of >>>> Goldsmith's "work" is, perhaps, the more innovative and audacious
>> act
>>>> in comparison to Goldsmith's "original" gesture, which, I think most >> will >>>> recognise, was based on an already established artistic precedent.'
>>>>
>>>>

>>>> http://jeffrey-side.blogspot.com/
>>>>
>>>>
>>>>
>>>>
>>>>
>>>>
>>>> On Thu, 1 Oct 2009 18:35:34 -0500, Jonathan Ball
>>>> <[redacted]> wrote:
>>>>
>>>> >I want to say that I'm not annoyed by Johnson's DAY. I am new to
>>>> this list
>>>> >and don't really know who Johnson is, he seems to have a longer
>>>> history with
>>>> >this list (somebody mentioned that he was banned from it, for
>>>> reasons I >>>> >don't know about). I think his project is intended as a joke, but >> since
>>>> it >>>> >is being presented and supported by some as serious work, I just >>>> want to >>>> >talk about whether or not it stands or falls as serious work. It >> certainly
>>>> >succeeds as a joke.
>>>> >
>>>> >
>>>> >
>>>> >
>>>> >
>>>> >On Wed, Sep 30, 2009 at 2:34 PM, Adam Katz
>>>> <[redacted]> wrote:
>>>> >
>>>> >> >
>>>> >> > What if one took the annoyed response to >>>> >> > Johnson's DAY as exactly the reaction he wanted
>>>> >>
>>>> >>
>>>> >> Not to answer this question one way or another, but to point out

>>>> that, were
>>>> >> this reaction what he was going for, that still doesn't make it
>>>> a "good"
>>>> >> thing to have gone for. It may very well be, though.
>>>> >> a
>>>> >>
Check
>>>> guidelines
>>>> >>
>>>> >
>>>> >
>>>> >
>>>> >--
>>>> >Dr. Jonathan Ball, Ph.D. (English)
>>>> >Sessional Instructor
>>>> >University of Manitoba
>>>> >University of Winnipeg
>>>> >
>>>> >www.jonathanball.com
>>>> >
>>>> >"If someone tells you writing is easy, he is either lying or I hate
>>>> him." --
>>>> >Farley Mowat
>>>> >
Check
>>>>
>> guidelines
>>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>--
>>>Dr. Jonathan Ball, Ph.D. (English)
>>>Sessional Instructor
>>>University of Manitoba
>>>University of Winnipeg
>>>
>>>www.jonathanball.com
>>>
>>>"If someone tells you writing is easy, he is either lying or I hate
>> him." --
>>>Farley Mowat

>>>
>>>
>>
>>
>
>
>
>--
>Editor, Masthead: http://www.masthead.net.au
>Blog: http://theatrenotes.blogspot.com
>Home page: http://www.alisoncroggon.com
>

↑ Index

63. Stephen Ellis
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Sun 4 Oct 2009

Since when does "legal action" determine literary value, and how did "bravery" become one of those values, if, in fact, it did? I mean, let me get this straight: A bold work of literature would be one that invokes legal action against it, not for what it says, but for what it is, a text whose authorship is in question, but whose authority is not. Yes? Does this mean Kent's book ought to be put in a witness protection program? Or in preventive detention as "prospective terrorist act"? Or perhaps both? Authorship and/or authority in that sense is really just a matter of serving more papers - ah . . . so THEY'RE "the literature", right? - anyway, something that ought to be taken up on the Oprah/Obama/Larry King Tower of Power Hour, and not on UB Poetics, where, gee, unbelievable . . . Buffalo is now in Pennsylvania? Cool.

EMAILING FOR THE GREATER GOOD
Join me

> Date: Sat, 3 Oct 2009 12:55:14 -0500
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
> To: [redacted]
>
> On Oct 2, 2009, at 5:55 AM, Jeffrey Side wrote:
>
> Very good point. Kent's act is far braver than Kenny's, as it could lead > to legal action. I think this is what makes Kent's act historically more > artistically original than Kenny's.

The only reason that I can imagine Johnson's act resulting in some kind of legal action, would be if the copies of the Figures edition of Day were stolen. & that doesn't seem to be the case.

My reading of this is that it has to be just about the safest "brave" action that anyone could make. Regardless of what Goldsmith may think of Johnson and this act, I think he's smart enough to understand any of the aesthetic & PR ramifications of Johnson's action and would be very, VERY unlikely to bother to sue. The Figures is getting whatever their wholesale price to Amazon is, so they have no reason to sue either.

This isn't about someone claiming to make an original one of a kind object that's an exact copy of another original one of a kind object. It's about someone buying a book, apparently at retail price (so Goldsmith and the Figures are getting paid already), and charging more for it with some added stickers.

In the software business, this is called "added value."

If there are ten people out there who want to spend $7 extra for some stickers, a signature and an aesthetic concept, that's great. But that doesn't seem too much different to me than the fact that there are people who were willing to spend $22 extra for the book without the stickers and a slightly different aesthetic concept. Because ANY of these people could have originally bought the NYTimes for that day for a buck or less, & they could still get a copy of it from the NYTimes for less than the price of the Figures book.

This isn't Robert Rauschenberg erasing a real drawing by Willem de Kooning and exhibiting the erased paper as his own work. It's not Kathy Acker getting sued by Arthur Hailey for using large chunks of his novels in her own work. It's not John Oswald reconfiguring music by the Beatles, Michael Jackson, etc and being forced to destroy all the undistributed copies of the recordings. It's not Todd Haynes being forced to stop exhibiting and distributing Superstar for it's use of music by the Carpenters.

If Johnson wants to make a brave gesture concerning authorship and copyright, let him try to sell copies of books by Dan Brown or Patricia Cornwall as his own work.

This is about one relatively esoteric artist trying to make some noise while pulling the chain of another relatively esoteric artist. Sure, Goldsmith has some more visibility that Johnson, but neither of these guys have any visibility in the mass culture we live in the midst of. We're talking about artists that may be known to a couple of thousand > people in a world with a population of 6 billion.

>
> About a dozen people have posted about this on the poetics list and almost all of these posts seem to be trying to make it seem like Johnson's made some kind of aesthetic coup. I don't see how you can read it like that, and I think the lack of pushback that Johnson's partisans have found here is a sign that I'm not the only one sees this issue that way.

↑ Index

64. mIEKAL aND

Fwd: [silence] Merce Cunningham Memorial

Sun 4 Oct 2009

---

for those of your in the area...

Begin forwarded message:

> From: LAURA KUHN <[redacted]>
> Date: October 4, 2009 6:23:54 PM CDT
> To: [redacted]
> Subject: [silence] Merce Cunningham Memorial
>
> On behalf of the Merce Cunningham Dance Company and the John Cage Trust, thank you for reaching out to all of us at the time of Merce's passing. We were overwhelmed by the outpouring of love and support from around the world, only reaffirming the number of people who were touched by Merce's life and artistry, and reminding us all how fortunate we are to have been a part of his adventure.
>
> In celebration of Merce, a public memorial will take place on Wednesday, October 28. 4 - 9 pm, at the Park Avenue Armory, New York. The Merce Cunningham Dance Company's Event performances in honor of Merce will take place at 4:30 pm and 7:30 pm, but check the Merce Cunningham Dance Foundation's website, www.merce.org, after October 21 for a full schedule of events. The memorial is free and open to the public, no reservations are required.

↑ Index

65. Lauren Rachel

Plastique Publishes Book-Length Poem "War Rug" by Francesco Levato

Sun 4 Oct 2009

"Francesco Levato's powerful documentary, 'War Rug' -- like Eliot Weinberger's What I heard about Iraq before it -- detains the language of the perpetrators of global military aggression and redeploys it to indict them. From J.C. Penny catalog copy to counterintelligence manuals and autopsy reports, War Rug is a fierce yet unfortunate reminder of the absolute horrors of our age." -- Mark Nowak, author of Coal Mountain Elementary

"War Rug" is a work of documentary poetics in the form of a book length poem. Multiple interwoven narratives explore life within zones of conflict as viewed through the lens of current warfare. The narratives range from passages inspired by journal entries, firsthand accounts, and news reports to poetic constructs collaged from military doctrine, Freedom of Information Act released government documents (like CIA interrogation manuals, and detainee autopsy reports), and numerous other sources.

This enhanced eBook contains the author's notebook with hyperlinks to access additional content such as books, web sites, audio, and video that inspired and informed the author's creative process. It is distributed in Portable Document Format (PDF) and is viewable and printable on virtually any platform -- Mac OS, Microsoft Windows, UNIX, and many mobile platforms, including the Apple iPhone.

Please visit http://www.plastiquepress.com to purchase the book directly.

↑ Index

66. Wystan Curnow
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Mon 5 Oct 2009

Alison wrote: 'what's mostly getting up my nose is the smartarse complacency of the publicity, which is, I guess, the point of the whole exercise.' It is part of the point, but not the whole point. But it's a separate point, 'Conceptualist poetry' comes comes rhetorically wrapped, because I read it as faux avant wrapping, and take its serio-comic register as strategically acute, I do not find it complacent, and it does not get up my nose, let alone my smart arse.

Then she wrote:'the supposedly radical transformation is not radical at all, it just shifts the language from literature to more literature'. True enough, except that there's much to be said for, and has been said of, shifting language from literature to more literature. To start with what is of interest in a comparison of Johnson's appropriation with Goldsmith's appropriation, relies less on the matter of 'originality' than on the comparison of the role Day plays in Goldsmith's oeuvre with the role it acquires within Johnson's.

Wystan

From: Poetics List (UPenn, UB) [[redacted]] On Behalf Of Alison Croggon

[[redacted]]
Sent: Saturday, 3 October 2009 3:30 p.m.
To: [redacted]
Subject: Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

Jeffrey, to be perfectly honest what's mostly getting up my nose is the smartarse complacency of the publicity, which is, I guess, the point of the whole exercise. You can't measure artistic courage by suability, or every tabloid journo would be Pound. Mind you, Enzensberger did say once that the contemporary tabloid paper is the exemplary modernist art object, but if that's the case Goldsmith is onto it while Johnson isn't. I can see, like Jonathan, the point of recontextualising language in the way KG does - there's nothing in KJ's act that recontextualises the language, except the fact that he's put his name on it, when authorship was never that important in the first place. In other words, the supposedly radical transformation is not radical at all, it just shifts the language from literature to more literature, and it merely operates at the level of a punchline. Ok, the subsequent (non)fuss points to the mechanisms by which books get known in the consumerist politcs of exchange etc, but really, yawn. In theorising "theft as an artistic act" - which as several people have said isn't precisely groundbreaking - I think it's seriously more interesting to look at Madoff. Or maybe that young guy who stole Damien Hirst's pencil, who _is_ being sued (and who I think is much funnier and is making a much more interesting point). And here you are talking about the "innovation" of a book you frankly confess you haven't read, which is wholly reductio ad absurdum. I mean, it's a fake storm in an egg-cup.

xA

On Sat, Oct 3, 2009 at 3:54 AM, Jeffrey Side <[redacted]> wrote:
> Mairead,
>
> But being fun as a measure of artistic worth is not being questioned by > Kent? What he is questioning are concepts of authorship in relation to > literary theft.
>
>
>
> On Fri, 2 Oct 2009 10:06:16 -0400, Mairead Byrne
> <[redacted]> wrote:
>
>>Other aspects of the artistic practices of KG and KJ are worth > considering. KG has brought Abbie Hoffman's Steal This Book to vital > and extraordinary development in the stunning super-energizing > panoramic UbuWeb. He's also an A1 performer: live, on paper, and > conceptually. Ever seen/heard/sat under his Bern Porter piece? I agree > with Maria that he's a LOT of fun. KJ is kinda fun too, and appeals just > as heartily to some senses of humor as KG does to mine. The work > often seems mean to me, not just mean-spirited but flimsy. A lot of > what KG is doing is energizing the poetry world by importing and writing > (in VERY large letters) ideas from the art world. KJ, to me, is a kind of > policeman (CIA man?), setting off small bombs to injure poets, or at > least crumple their horny toe-nails. This policeman is an upstanding > citizen as teacher and translator though, maybe he even loves poetry

> there. But at night, he puts on his little cape, and runs round sticking > needles into things .....YIKES now he's heading for me....
>>
>>
>>>>> Jonathan Ball <[redacted]> 10/02/09 9:39 AM >>>
>>Thanks Jeffrey, however I did read your post when you originally sent it >>around. My original point is to take issue with your statement, as I > claim
>>that there is nothing innovative or audacious about this appropriation
> by >>Johnson. Its conceptual value is not to earmark thievery as art, or to >>question categories of authorship --- both dry, boring notions by now --
> -
>>but rather to extend to its logical extreme the rhetoric of a
> conceptualist
>>like Goldsmith.
>>
>>My point is that Goldsmith's rhetoric of conceptulist value being the > only >>value is already dry and boring. What makes Goldsmith's texts, such > as DAY,
>>innovative and audacious works is the actual poetic richness of the > texts
>>produced under these "uncreative" constraints, not the their
> conceptualist
>>underpinnings. Therefore, Johnson's act, aside from being hamfisted
> satire,
>>is just "more of the same" insofar as conceptualist writing is > concerned.
>>Goldsmith makes use of conceptualist tactics to defamiliarize
> language (in >>this case the language of journalism and advertising) through a
> reframing in >>order to produce poetic texts. Johnson is taking a work of conceptualist >>poetry as his source, and turning it into more conceptualist poetry ....

> no
>>such radical defamiliarization of language has occurred (in other > words, no
>>poetry is produced through a shift of the text's framework).
>>
>>Moreover, the act by Johnson will not lead to legal action --- Goldsmith >>suing over somebody stealing his previously stolen text .... the
> thought is >>absurd. The original act by Goldsmith is the only one subject to legal >>action. In any case, whether or not a poetic act is subject to legal > action
>>is no source or guarantor of its artistic value.
>>
>>Jonathan
>>
>>
>>
>>On Fri, Oct 2, 2009 at 5:48 AM, Jeffrey Side <[redacted]>
> wrote:
>>
>>> Jonathan, please see my blog on this, where I say:
>>>
>>> 'Incidentally, it could be said that Johnson's appropriation of >>> Goldsmith's "work" is, perhaps, the more innovative and audacious
> act
>>> in comparison to Goldsmith's "original" gesture, which, I think most > will >>> recognise, was based on an already established artistic precedent.'
>>>
>>>
>>> http://jeffrey-side.blogspot.com/
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>>
>>> On Thu, 1 Oct 2009 18:35:34 -0500, Jonathan Ball
>>> <[redacted]> wrote:
>>>

>>> >I want to say that I'm not annoyed by Johnson's DAY. I am new to
>>> this list
>>> >and don't really know who Johnson is, he seems to have a longer
>>> history with
>>> >this list (somebody mentioned that he was banned from it, for
>>> reasons I >>> >don't know about). I think his project is intended as a joke, but > since
>>> it
>>> >is being presented and supported by some as serious work, I just >>> want to >>> >talk about whether or not it stands or falls as serious work. It > certainly
>>> >succeeds as a joke.
>>> >
>>> >
>>> >
>>> >
>>> >
>>> >On Wed, Sep 30, 2009 at 2:34 PM, Adam Katz
>>> <[redacted]> wrote:
>>> >
>>> >> >
>>> >> > What if one took the annoyed response to >>> >> > Johnson's DAY as exactly the reaction he wanted
>>> >>
>>> >>
>>> >> Not to answer this question one way or another, but to point out
>>> that, were
>>> >> this reaction what he was going for, that still doesn't make it
>>> a "good"
>>> >> thing to have gone for. It may very well be, though.
>>> >> a
>>> >>
>>> guidelines
>>> >>
>>> >
>>> >
>>> >
>>> >--
>>> >Dr. Jonathan Ball, Ph.D. (English)
>>> >Sessional Instructor

>>> >University of Manitoba
>>> >University of Winnipeg
>>> >
>>> >www.jonathanball.com
>>> >
>>> >"If someone tells you writing is easy, he is either lying or I hate
>>> him." --
>>> >Farley Mowat
>>> >
>>>
> guidelines
>>>
>>
>>
>>
>>--
>>Dr. Jonathan Ball, Ph.D. (English)
>>Sessional Instructor
>>University of Manitoba
>>University of Winnipeg
>>
>>www.jonathanball.com
>>
>>"If someone tells you writing is easy, he is either lying or I hate
> him." --
>>Farley Mowat
>>
>>
>
>

--
Editor, Masthead: http://www.masthead.net.au
Blog: http://theatrenotes.blogspot.com
Home page: http://www.alisoncroggon.com

↑ Index

67. Sharon Dolin

REMINDER: CBA READING THIS WED.

Mon 5 Oct 2009

Dear Friends,

Just a reminder that The Center for Book Arts Annual Letterpress Chapbook Competition Reading will take place this Wednesday at 6:30 pm. Kim Addonizio who judged the competition, and Bonnie Jo Campbell, the winner, will read from their letterpress chapbooks and Teresa Leo will read from her letterpress broadside. Another broadside by Lucia Perillo, the other honorable mention, will also be for sale that evening. I'll be hosting the festivities. Hope you can join us for the celebration.

The Center for Book Arts
28 W. 27th St., 3rd floor (bet. 6th & B'way)
[redacted]

$10 suggested donation/ $5 members & students.
Refreshments will be served.

And next year's deadline is December 1st. Terrance Hayes will be the final judge. Here's the link for guidelines: http://www.centerforbookarts.org/opportunities/chapbook2010guidelines.pdf

Sharon

Sharon Dolin
[redacted]
www.sharondolin.com

↑ Index

68. susan maurer
Susan Maurer reading from PERFECT DARK at the Bowery Poetry Club
Mon 5 Oct 2009

I'll be reading at George Wallace's series at the (NYC) Bowery Poetry Club on 10-18 at 2:30. Do come say hello if a lister shows up. Susan Maurer _____ Hotmail:
Powerful Free email with security by Microsoft.
http://clk.atdmt.com/GBL/go/171222986/direct/01/

↑ Index

69. Jason Quackenbush
Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
Mon 5 Oct 2009

I read Johnson's Day as saying that Goldsmith's Day is full of shit. Which may just be my own bias showing, but also is something that I think is hilarious. Still, I think the Arsonism anthology was better than either version of Day, and while I've not read any of them, I'm more than willing to concede that my bias towards Issue 1 is a result of my having been in it. Whereas I think it's disingenuous to ever claim that Day was all that special or attributable to anyone since Johnson via Goldsmith let James Joyce and Jackson Mac Low inadvertently pick the date of his Day.

On Oct 3, 2009, at 8:36 AM, Stephen Ellis wrote:

> Isn't the issue in much of this literary coup-coup simply an interrogation of where "authority" comes from? What legitimizes authorship? I seem to recall even Dante pulled a paradoxical shift and switcheroo between something Aristotle had said about poiesis, and something that, hmmm . . . was if de capo of the Holy Roman Empire also said, each in contradistinction with the other, so, Dante did a little creative editing to make them more aligned with his own purpose in the Commedia. I don't recall, exactly, and I don't have the books in front of me, but that kind of manipulation has been rife in literature from day one. Hermes, of course, is god of thiefs, lockpicks and poets, so there's no surprise that we all find ourselves (or get found out) inching the crowbar under the door of "that good booty." In terms of creativity at large and poetry specifically, we live in a dead zone, this is one of those dead areas in the history of The Art, so it makes sense that operations like Kent's or Kenny would look to be a mop-up scene, pulling corpses out of circular lecture halls with pincers and dragging them to The Fires, etc. Aesthetically, of course, and in cmplete denial of poetry's current "situation": It's simply up for theft. And these guys are doing the non-proprietary, proper thing, which is dual: Giving old corpses burial by ceremonial fire (the repetition, and, yeah, the repetition) as well as pulling off the originary act of stealing a little of the black soil (blackened a little more by the ash of the burning minions) from Paradise in order to institute on the staid earth, the "new time" of yet another indecent and lovely Adamic crime wave.
> SE
>
> EMAILING FOR THE GREATER GOOD
> Join me
>
> Date: Fri, 2 Oct 2009 21:28:09 -0400
> From: [redacted]
> Subject: Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson
> To: [redacted]
>
> We all kill trees. Killing trees is positive: too many trees = too much CO =

> big problems for globe/warming trends.
>
> Seriously tho, I'll go out on a limb, or perhaps not, and say this: I like both ideas. I thought KG's idea was great and interesting (albeit, w/o reading in full) and Kent's new piece also seems interesting, especially relevant in an era when intellectual privacy, piracy and property is the next big thing (those of you not following the piratebay.org lawsuit, should). Goldsmith and KJ should celebrate together, they're pushing the boulder along, smiling.
>
> I will add that I think Johnson's project excels at what much of his work seems to address lately: the destruction of "PoBiz" egos and hype. Certainly Kent has created a type of anti-hype (not like anti-christ, more like anti-matter), denying authorship of Doubled Flowering to this day...
>
> *I think Kent probably settled on this idea because of 1) DAY's concept almost begs for "theft" and 2) Goldsmith's work has received a lot of warranted and unwarranted attention. To attack something boring and unknown is one thing, but to attack what everyone seems to be talking about, now * that's* something. I think what Kent's piece says is not only that our ideas on authorship are hypocritical (giving KG credit for something he didn't "write," attacking Kent for something he most likely DID write, as if he were someone else), but that once accepted, that pseudonymous work can become sacrosanct, which would explain the hubbub here about KJ supposedly defiling KG's work.*
>
> -Ryan
>
> On Fri, Oct 2, 2009 at 6:47 PM, Nick LoLordo <[redacted]> wrote:
>
> Killing trees? Kent has merely killed a few stickers. It's Kenny who > killed the trees; in this sense Kent's work, whatever one thinks of it > otherwise, is at least arguably a more "conceptual" project.....

>
> On Fri, Oct 2, 2009 at 12:10 PM, Christopher Leland Winks
> <[redacted]>wrote:
>
> A lor of verbiage on Kent Johnson's taking the piss out of Kenneth Goldsmith, who richly deserves it as another one of those necrophiles > brandishing (among other gestures) the cryogenically-preserved (freeze-dried?) corpse of a "conceptual" art sans concepts, sans art,
> sans
> eyes, sans everything. But while I like the joke, is it really worth > killing so many trees just to play one?
>
> guidelines
>
> --
> V. Nicholas LoLordo
> Assistant Professor
> Department of English
> University of Nevada-Las Vegas
> [redacted]
>
> guidelines

↑ Index

70. Christopher Leland Winks

Re: 'Day' by Kent Johnson

Mon 5 Oct 2009

None of this goes as far as Guy Debord's "Hurlements en faveur de Sade" in terms of provocative anti-aestheitc moves, nor does it even approach the theory of "detournement" formulated in the 1950s by Debord and Asger Jorn, following Isidore Ducasse's systematic practice of creative plagiarism (of Pascal, Vauvenargues, etc.) in the "Poésies" from the second half of the 19th century. Maybe it's the case, following the fashionable phrase, that "everything old is new again," but to me it seems like literary history repeating itself as farce.

And Kent Johnson, whose work I admire, is certainly a good farceur who at least indicates the fundamentally farcical nature of po-biz and oxymoronic "writing communities" populated by herds of independent minds.

↑ Index

71. J. P.
DAY & son
Mon 5 Oct 2009

Are either on Kindle yet?

↑ Index

72. Brian Clements
Firewheel/Sentence Announcement
Mon 5 Oct 2009

Firewheel Editions announces the second Sentence Book Award and the fourth Firewheel Chapbook Award. The Firewheel Chapbook Award is given to a collection of no more than 20 manuscript pages in any genre. Preference is for innovative work (liberally interpreted), work that crosses genres, work that combines images and text, work in formats other than the traditionally bound book, or work that may have difficulty finding publication elsewhere due to the nature, typography, or format of the work. The recipient of the award will receive 50 copies out of a limited edition. Entry fee: $15 by check to Firewheel Editions or by PayPal at http://firewheel-editions.org. Checks and submissions may be mailed to Firewheel Chapbook Award, Box 7, WCSU, 181 White St., Danbury, CT 06810. Electronic submissions may be sent to [redacted]. Postmark/Timestamp Deadline for submissions and fees: November 17, 2009, 11:59 pm PST. The Sentence Book Award will be given to a book-length manuscript of prose poems or a book-length manuscript consisting substantially of prose poems (for example, a book that is half prose poems and half free-verse, or a book-length sequence that mixes passages of prose poetry with other modes). The recipient of the award will receive publication in a trade paper edition with a standard royalty contract and 50 copies of the book. All entrants will receive Sentence #7 (entrants who are already subscribers will have their subscription extended by one issue). Entry fee: $25 by check to Firewheel Editions or by PayPal at http://firewheel-editions.org. Checks and submissions may be mailed to Sentence Book Award, Box 7, WCSU, 181 White St., Danbury, CT 06810. Electronic submissions may be sent to [redacted]. Postmark/Timestamp Deadline for submissions and fees: November 17, 2009, 11:59 pm PST. Firewheel Editions subscribes to the CLMP Code of Ethics: "CLMP's community of independent literary publishers believes that ethical contests serve our shared goal: to connect writers and readers by publishing exceptional writing. We believe that intent to act ethically, clarity of guidelines, and transparency of process form the foundation of an ethical contest. To that end, we agree to 1) conduct our contests as ethically as possible and to address any unethical behavior on the part of our readers, judges, or editors; 2) to provide clear and specific contest guidelines defining conflict of interest for all parties involved; and 3) to make the mechanics of our selection process available to the public. This Code recognizes that different contest models produce different results, but that each model can be run ethically. We have adopted this Code to reinforce our integrity and dedication as a publishing community and to ensure that our contests contribute to a vibrant literary heritage." The recipient of the Sentence Award will be selected by Brian Clements, Editor of Sentence and Firewheel Editions; the recipient of the Firewheel Chapbook Award will be selected by Brian Clements and Tom Nackid, Design Manager for Firewheel Editions. In the event that no recipient is chosen for either award, entry fees will be returned to all of the award's entrants. Authors who have published a chapbook or book with Firewheel Editions, authors who have served on the Board of Contributing Editors of Sentence, graduate or undergraduate students and relatives of Brian Clements and Tom Nackid, and all past and current staff members of Sentence and Firewheel Editions are ineligible. All manuscripts will come to the editors anonymously after screening and preparation by Firewheel staff. Submission guidelines: * Chapbook Award entrants must explain any special production requirements for their projects in the cover letter. * All entrants must provide email address or SASE for Award results. * Unless SASE with sufficient postage for return is included, manuscripts will be recycled. * Multiple submissions are acceptable with an entry fee for each submission. * Translations are acceptable with proof of permission to publish translations. * Electronic submissions must be sent as a single attachment in .rtf (preferred for text-only submissions), .doc, or .pdf format. * All submitted manuscripts must include a one-page cover with author's name, title, author's email address, and name of Award (Chapbook or Sentence); also include a second title page with title only. * The author's name should be recognizable nowhere in the manuscript other than on the cover page.

For more information on Sentence and Firewheel Editions, visit http://firewheel-editions.org or email [redacted]

↑ Index

73. amy king
EOAGH #5 -- NOW ONLINE
Mon 5 Oct 2009

NOW ONLINEEOAGH: A Journal of the ArtsISSUE 5http://chax.org/eoagh/issuefive.html Contents: A PANEL, READING, & EXHIBITIONCHARLES OLSON: LANGUAGE AS PHYSICAL FACT Tenney NathansonCole SwensenSteve McCafferyBarbara HenningAnne Waldman A CHAPBOOKNothing is in Here, by Andrew LevyÂ READINGS/ARTICLES An Interview with Kevin Killian,Â by Tony LeuzziTEXT FOR A CUL-DE-SAC,Â by Wystan Curnow & Lawrence WeinerThe Functional Art of Bruce Nauman,Â by Jessica HullmanA Topological MemoirÂ by Penelope BloodworthPoetic Ecologies in Bruxelles,Â by Arpine Konyalian GrenierComposition as Exposition: A Case File,Â by Bill MarshParadox: The Diminishing Increase of an Author,Â by Tom ClarkField Poetics (a compleat history of de-individualizing practices), by Donald WellmanRaymond Roussel's (New) Africa,Â by Louis BuryIterative View (of Brent Cunningham's Bird & Forest),Â by Jesse SeldessDouble Review of Amy King,Â by Matthew RotandoReview of Brenda Iijima's Rabbit Lesson, byÂ Geoffrey OlsenMetapoetic Speculation In/On Tom Beckett's "This Poem,"Â by Thomas FinkReading Julian Poirer's Poetry, byÂ Filip MarinovichReview of Joseph Lease's Broken World, byÂ John ChavezÂ A POWERPOINT Pace of Dream,Â by Eric Magrane & Wendy BurkÂ PLAYS Captain America,Â by Laura GoldsteinÂ The Obituary Show,Â by CA ConradÂ from Conversations Over Stolen Food,Â by Andy Fitch & Jon CotnerÂ POETRYâ€¨BYÂ Samuel Ace & MaureenÂ Seaton,Â William Allegrezza,Â Renee Angle,Â Robyn Art,Â Ari Banias,Â Emily Beall,Â Roberto Bedoya,Â James Belflower,Â Graeme Bezanson,Â Carlos T. Blackburn,Â Kate Broad,Â Julian T. Brolaski,Â Ethan Saul Bull,Â Tetman Callis,Â Sean Casey,Â Stephen Chamberlain,Â Cheryl Clark,Â Kate Colby,Â Thomas Cook,Â Lisa Cooper,Â Barbara Cully,Â Mark Cunningham,Â Shira Dentz,Â Amanda Deutch,Â Michelle Detorie,Â Rachel Blau DuPlessis,Â Moses Eder,Â Will Edmiston,Â Thomas Fink & MayaÂ Diablo Mason,Â Greg Fuchs,Â Kristen Gallagher,Â Lawrence Giffin,Â Giles Goodland,Â Noah Eli Gordon,Â Stephanie Gray,Â Arpine Grenier,Â Gabriel Gudding,Â John Harkey,Â Jeff Harrison,Â Nathan Hauke,Â Stefania Heim,Â Derek Henderson,Â Michael S. Hennessey,Â Chelsea Hodson,Â N. M. Hoffman,Â Erika Howsare,Â Paolo Javier,Â Adeena Karasick,Â Michael Kelleher,Â Vincent Katz,Â Amy King,Â Paula Kolek,Â Mark Lamoureux,Â Dorothea Lasky,Â Gregory Laynor,Â Sueyeun Juliette Lee,Â Ruth Lepson,Â Joel Lewis,Â Eric Lindley,Â Hillary Lyon,Â Kimberly Lyons,Â Jami Macarty,Â Majena Mafe,Â Jill Magi,Â CJ Martin,Â Filip Marinovich,Â Kristi Maxwell,Â Rachel May & Joshua A.Â Ware,Â E.J.. McAdams,Â Pattie McCarthy,Â Chris McCreary,Â Nicholas

